

ASKS SALES 'BITE', COLLEGE TUITION INCREASE

Smith Faces Ordeal By Fire On Taxes

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith recommended today increasing the state sales tax from 3.25 to 4 per cent as the core of a plan to raise $420 million in new state revenue over the next two years.

The governor also proposed boosting the motor vehicle sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent and a state college tuition increase. Smith made his second appearance this year before the legislature, laying out a new set of recommendations to replace his "spend-now, pay-later" plan which the lawmakers gutted.

FAIR WARNING

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said Smith informed him of the speech about an hour before he delivered it.

"I think we are going to have to have some business taxes," Barnes said of the governor's plan.

Smith said state college tuition should rise from $50 to $125 per semester for Texas residents and from $200 to $500 a semester for non-residents. He said the proposed sales tax increase, effective July 1, would raise $300 million over the next two fiscal years; the vehicle sales tax jump would bring in $70 million; and the tuition increase $100 million.

Smith stuck with his earlier recommendation that the legislature appropriate funds to cover welfare spending only through June 30, 1972, in the hope that the federal government would take over funding of the welfare program completely.

EXEMPT FOOD

"I am most encouraged by our progress in the endeavor to promote total federal funding of welfare. Many of our key congressmen are expressing optimism and preference to this idea rather than the president's revenue-sharing plan, Smith said.

Barnes said he thought welfare should be financed for 12 months, not 16 months.

Shortly before Smith spoke, senators approved a House resolution calling on Congress to take over the welfare program.

Smith said, "Increasing the rate of the sales tax is a more acceptable solution than removing exemptions.

"As long as we continue to exempt food and drugs under the Texas sales tax, the burden of the sales tax is far lower in Texas than it is in practically any other state."

His sales tax recommendation, Smith said, would cost a family of four with an annual income of $10,000 about $20 more per year.

Kidnaping Shifts Search Into NM For Cops Killer

By The Associated Press

Moises Zuniga Guzman, 35, brother of Rene Adolfo Guzman, 33, wanted for the slaying of three Dallas deputies Monday, told investigators Thursday that he was "the third man" who strolled into the house where the officers were held but he had nothing to do with the killings.

Deputy Sheriff A. D. McCurley, who escaped death by flinging himself over an embankment during the execution-style murders in the Trinity River bottoms, confirmed that Moises Guzman was the third man.

"TROUBLE IN THERE" McCurley said Moises conferred with his brother and another man, not yet identified publicly, and then walked out of the house. He was not seen again until arrested some time later.

Moises Guzman, like his brother, has murder charges filed against him and is being held in the county jail without bond.

Guzman reportedly told investigators that he arrived at the West Dallas house where the deputies were held at gunpoint about 5:30 p.m. Monday and was told by his stepfather not to go in because of "trouble in there."

Moises said he walked in anyway and saw the deputies seated on a sofa with their hands tied behind them. His brother and another man were holding guns on them.

He said he had a brief discussion, then walked out of the house. He said he was walking down the street when he saw a car loaded with people leave the yard a few minutes later.

McCurley and the other deputies—Samuel Garcia Infante, 32; William Don Reese, 31; A.

J. Robertson, 55; and Wendell Dover, 49—were then on their ride to the river. Reese is a former Big Spring patrolman.

Infante, Reese and Robertson were killed. Dover was wounded and McCurley escaped.

A spokesman at the Dallas County Sheriff's Department said Thursday that the murder charges against Moises Guzman would stand.

FALSE LEAD

"The mere fact that he was there and did nothing to prevent the murders means he was a participant in the eyes of the law," he said.

After a number of false leads in North Texas, the search for Rene Guzman shifted to southeastern New Mexico, where a man thought to resemble the wanted killer took part in a kidnaping.

E. R. Christian, 26, an auto-wrecking yard mechanic from Littlefield, Tex., told authorities he was abducted shortly after dinner Wednesday by a gunman who hid in the back seat of his car near Odessa.

They stopped 10 miles south of Hobbs, N.M., for the kidnaping to take cover in the car's trunk, Christian related, and he drove away at high speed, dragging his captor until the man lost a grip on the automobile.

State police in New Mexico said Christian's description of the gunman matched that of Rene Guzman, 33, one of two brothers charged in the Dallas slayings of three sheriff's deputies Monday night.

Dallas authorities reported no other firm developments, meanwhile, in a search which spread throughout the nation for Guzman.

Quick Glance At New Taxes

AUSTIN (AP) — Here briefly is how Gov. Preston Smith would raise the $470 million in new taxes that he says will be needed for state operations the next two years.

—Raise state sales tax from 3.25 to 4 per cent, effective this July, for $300 million.

—Raise the motor vehicle sales tax from 3 to 4 per cent, for $70 million.

—Increase state college tuition from $50 to $125 a semester for Texas residents and from $200 to $500 per semester for non-residents, for $100 million.

This would leave a surplus of about $50 million more than his spending proposals, Smith said.

Storm Spills Onto Plains

By The Associated Press

Snow and rain plagued a wide stretch of the midcontinent today as a growing storm spilled out of the southern Rockies onto the Plains.

Heavy-snow warnings were out for mountain areas of Colorado and southern Wyoming. Travel warnings were in effect for the mountains of Arizona and New Mexico.

Nine inches of snow piled up at Cedar City, Utah, through Wednesday. Thunder rumbled across Bryce Canyon as the snow fell there.

Moderate to heavy rain ranged eastward out of the storm center as far as the Mississippi Valley.

A separate and less-intense storm dropped snow into sections of Pennsylvania, upstate New York and New England. Two to three inches blanketed some New York communities.

Unseasonably mild weather persisted in most areas from the eastern slopes of the Rockies to the Atlantic. Overnight temperatures in the 40s and 50s were common from the central Plains to the Ohio Valley.

Skies cleared in a large part of the Far West, but another rainy pattern approached the Northwest.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 15 at Glasgow, Mont., to 73 at Miami, Fla.

REDS AVER Nixon Threat To Red China

PARIS (AP) — Communist delegates to the peace talks charged today that President Nixon is preparing to attack North Vietnam and warned that this would threaten Red China.

The United States said that the South Vietnamese incursion into Laos was a limited operation and maintained no American ground combat troops or advisers were involved.

Xuan Thuy, head of the North Vietnamese delegation, told newsmen before the 103rd session that Nixon's statements at his news conference Wednesday "prove he will not negotiate seriously but is hoping for a military victory. . . . He is preparing new military adventures against North Vietnam which would constitute a threat to the People's Republic of China."

U.S. Ambassador David K. O. Bruce told the meeting that "the United States has consistently sought to end the conflict in Indochina through negotiation."

Bruce noted "a greater willingness" on the part of the Communists "to face up to the fact" of the war.

Forsan Reports Hail And Rain

Half an inch of rain and some pea-sized hail came down today — but not in Big Spring.

Forsan reported the rain and hail while the rest of the county and Big Spring reported only a light sprinkle that barely wet the ground.

The experiment station said not even a trace of rain had fallen in Big Spring, despite what many residents thought they saw. The slight rain did not even serve to wet down the dust, and sand was blowing by mid-morning.

Fairview reported not even a sprinkle this morning. Moss Creek Lake, Elbow and Vealmoor reported a sprinkle that barely wet the ground.

VA Flags To Fly Half-Staff Friday

The flag at the Veterans Administration Hospital here will be lowered to half-staff until sunset in memory of VA patients and personnel who were victims last week of the California earthquake, Jack D. Powell, hospital director, said.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in Sulphur, Calif., about 25 miles from the San Fernando hospital where a wing collapsed on patients and employees during the earthquake.

Powell said flags will be lowered at VA hospitals over the nation in memory of those who died.

Health-Care Proposals Aimed At Poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proposed today a six-point, low-budgeted package of health-care proposals to insure adequate medical care for all American families through a vast expansion of private insurance reorganization of the medical care system.

In a 17-page message to Congress, Nixon offered a comprehensive alternative to Democratic proposals for national health insurance by emphasizing federal stimulation of the current medical care program.

His initiatives ranged from new legislation to require all businesses to furnish employees comprehensive private insurance to new federal backing for pre-paid group practice arrangements.

In addition, Nixon wants most of the present federal-state medical program for poor persons replaced with a new program of federally financed private health insurance; elimination of the $5.30 contribution by the elderly for supplemental medicare coverage; new arrangements for medical care in isolated rural and big ghetto areas; and major new financial support to increase the supply of doctors and other health personnel.

The President said his plan for a national health insurance partnership is designed to correct the inadequacies of the present system—"not by destroying our present insurance system but by improving it."

"Rather than giving up on a system which has been developing impressively," he said, "we should work to bring about further growth which will fill the gaps we have identified."

The President offered this reply to influential congressional Democrats who believe health care should be nationalized:

"I believe that our government and our people, business and labor, the insurance industry and the health profession can work together in a national partnership to achieve our health objectives. I do not believe that the achievement of these objectives requires the nationalization of our health insurance industry."

Nationalization, Nixon said, would mean "that federal personnel would inevitably be approving the budgets of local hospitals, setting free schedules for local doctors, and taking other steps which could easily lead to the complete federal domination of all of American medicine."

"That is an enormous risk—and there is no need for us to take it," he said. "There is a better way—a more practical, more effective, less expensive and less dangerous way—to reform and renew our nation's health system."

Water Increase Is Okay, But Not Formally Approved

By BRIAN PEAY

City commissioners this morning termed acceptable to city needs a rate increase suggested by Bo Anderson, director of utilities. The rate increase proposal was based on projected water use for the next five years. No formal action has been taken on the increase.

Spiraling city water-sewerage departments and general fund operating expenses, a severe lack of water, and an increased rate on water by the Colorado River Municipal Water District have caused an in-depth study by city officials that was reviewed this morning in a city commission briefing session in the Settles Hotel.

The commissioners and city officials met in the regular morning briefing session to discuss some problems the city is facing and progress that has been made toward a possible increase in city water and sewerage rates.

"Due to the hike in water rates to the city by CRMWD and increased operating expenses in the water and sewerage departments, it is imperative and inevitable that the city will have to raise water rates to its customers," said City Manager Larry Crow.

The rate called for $3.75 for the minimum use of 2,000 gallons of water or less, 65 cents for the use of over 2,000 gallons to 100,000 gallons, 60 cents for the use of over 100,000 gallons and for multiple family dwellings and mobile home parks $3 for a minimum of 3,000 gallons or less per unit.

The increased rate would bring in an estimated revenue of $1,210,687 per year over the next five years. A portion of this over-all revenue would have to go the general fund of the city and the rest would be used on water department operating expenses.

"A few years ago one quarter of a million dollars was being transferred to the general fund of the city to meet certain expenses and bond requirements, but that sum has fallen off drastically during the past two years," Crow said. "We realize that this transferred money was not clear overhead, but it is needed to help the city operate."

Rates for Webb AFB will be adjusted and Couden rates on treated water will increase, it was pointed out by Anderson.

The commission was in agreement with the exception of Commissioner Eddie Aciri, with the rate presented, but suggested that the current minimum rate of $2 for 2,000 gallons or less be left in effect for the fixed-income families who wouldn't be able to afford an increase. Aciri said that he could not go along with a rate hike of this sort.

There was no example on sewer rate increases worked up for the briefing session, but Crow explained the commission would meet again after further study had been made on both the water rate and sewer rate increases.

The problem of junk or slum housing also came under discussion as Crow told the commission of his trip to Austin to attend a program on housing.

"I hope to step up enforcement of the city slum housing

Persons who have been collecting money house-to-house and in businesses recently are not connected with the Salvation Army, which is how they have been identifying themselves, Lt. Joseph Saint said this morning.

"We have had several calls concerning this solicitation," Lt. Saint said. "Residents should contact the police immediately if they are contacted in this manner," he said.

"The Salvation Army does not solicit funds in this manner, except in unusual, well-publicized instances," he said.

Tougher Penalties For Crimes With Firearms

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said today he had introduced legislation setting tough mandatory sentences for those convicted of crimes involving firearms. The legislation was introduced Wednesday.

Rep. Bob Casey, Houston, introduced the same legislation in the 91st Congress and again in this Congress.

"During the campaign I pledged my support of the Casey bill. I think it is sound legislation that places crimes of violence involving firearms into proper perspective," said Sen. Bentsen. He also introduced an amendment to the Firearms Registration Act which will exempt 22 calibre ammunition from registration. He introduced the two bills as companion legislation.

The Bentsen bill would make the first convicted offense of robbery, assault, rape, burglary, kidnapping, or homicide other than involuntary

Farming, Fishing Tax Date March 1

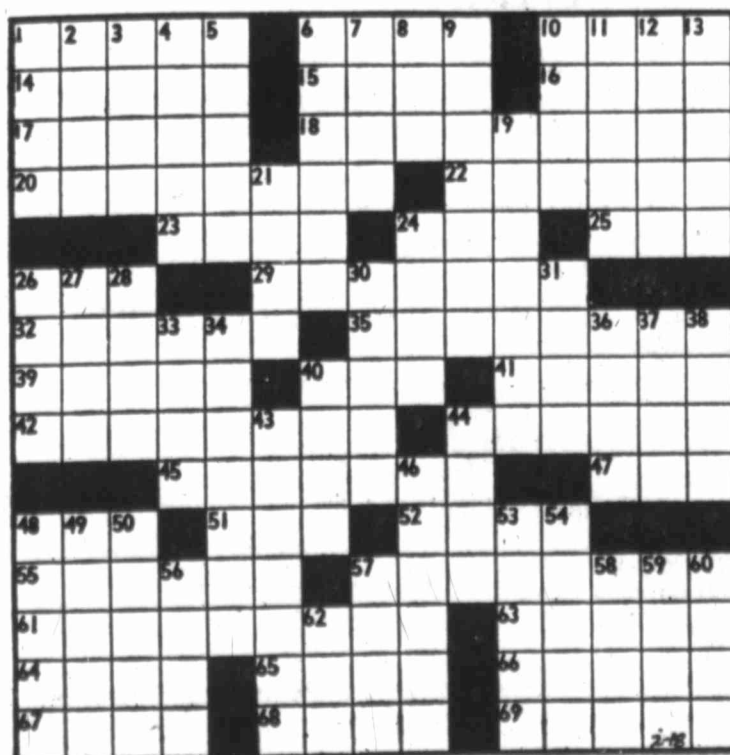

DALLAS — Farmers and fishermen who did not file a declaration of estimated federal income tax by Jan. 15, may have a tax deadline by March 1.

Ellis Campbell Jr., district director of Internal Revenue for North Texas, said today that if you earned at least two-thirds of your 1970 gross income from farming or fishing but did not file an estimate by Jan. 15, you must file your 1970 Federal income tax return and pay any tax due by Monday, March 1, 1971, to avoid penalty for underpayment of estimated tax.

Burleson Again Proposes National Healthcare Act

WASHINGTON — Cong. Omar Burleson Wednesday re-introduced a bill to make comprehensive health care insurance accessible to all Americans and strengthen the organization and delivery of health services in the United States.

Twelve congressmen joined the Texas representative in co-sponsoring the National Health care Act. They are: Shirley Chisholm (D-N.Y.); Don Fuqua (D-Fla.); Cornelius Gallagher (D-N.J.); Edward Garmatz (D-Md.); Alton Lennon (D-N.C.); Ray Roberts (D-Texas); Watkins Abbott (D-Va.); Gus Yatron (D-Pa.); Robert L. Fikes (D-Fla.); Tim Lee Carter (R-Ky.); James Byrne (D-Pa.); and Bob Casey (D-Texas).

The legislation, with minor technical variations, parallels the Healthcare Bill which Rep. Burleson introduced in the closing days of the 91st Congress.

"My bill is a middle-of-the-road approach to resolving one of our most pressing domestic problems, financing and providing for the delivery of adequate medical care to all our citizens," Rep. Burleson said.

"It is an effort to make certain that all Americans will be cared for in times of illness — and at a price this nation can afford to bear."

"The Healthcare approach retains the best features of our existing voluntary insurance plans, seeks to control costs in health delivery while extending health care to all Americans regardless of their ability to pay."

"My bill aims at remedying shortages and poor distribution of health manpower by improved student loan programs for doctors, nurses and allied personnel. My bill also calls for a study of existing loan and grant programs. It provides for grants to schools to facilitate training additional personnel and to foster ambulatory care. Personnel agreeing to serve in areas short of critical medical services could also qualify for grants."

"To increase ambulatory care, the bill would extend hospital loan programs and provide grants to encourage development of ambulatory centers. Ambulatory care benefits would also be covered in all health insurance plans."

"Financial support for state and local health planning would also be made to encourage priority-ranked community plans which can be coordinated with other health programs."

"To hold down spiraling costs and assure quality care, the plan would tie all federal loans, grants and contracts to certification of need by a comprehensive health planning unit."

"Other safeguards would call for review of capital expenditure proposals and incentives to encourage cost-saving programs. Payment for health care would be tied to prevailing fees, with review of cost of other services that fall outside regular guidelines. Payment to hospitals or other institutions would also be supervised by a state-appointed commission.

"Nationally, the bill would seek an annual health report from the President and create a national health policy advisory board which, in turn, would recommend procedures to coordinate health programs, conduct research and provide guidelines and policy suggestions."

Stronger Bumpers Would Save Billion Dollars

"Automobile bumpers which would withstand a five-mile-per-hour impact would save the motoring public more than one billion dollars annually in auto repairs and insurance premiums," F. Darby Hammond, executive director of Southwestern Insurance Information Service said today.

The insurance industry spokesman noted that the inability of today's cars to withstand even five-mile-per-hour impacts without damage exceeding $200 is one of the primary reasons for increasing insurance costs.

There is an urgent need for improved design characteristics which will protect the passenger and reduce physical damage upon impact," he said.

Remedies are on the way, according to Hammond, in the form of energy absorbing bumpers, air bags, and eventually, energy absorbing frames which will keep the passenger compartment intact in higher speed crashes.

Commenting on the effectiveness of existing safety devices, he pointed out, "That between 8,000 and 10,000 lives could be saved each year if automobile occupants wore their seat belts at all times."

"To improve financing of health care, the bill would set federal standards for minimum ambulatory, preventive and institutional care benefits. Benefits would be phased in on a time-table basis. Existing private health insurers would provide the benefits."

"Tax incentives would be provided to assure comprehensive benefit levels and state pools of private health insurers would be established to provide standard benefits for the poor, near-poor and previously uninsured. Benefits for the latter would be subsidized by federal and state funds."

"Minimum Standard Health Care Benefits would be set by the government. These standards, effective in 1973 for private group and individual plans, would cover diagnostic X-ray and lab examinations on an ambulatory basis; all surgery and radiation therapy in ambulatory care centers; three visits per year per family member to a doctor or to an ambulatory center; well-baby care for up to six visits within six months after birth; charges for physician's services while institutionalized; the first 30 days of semi-private general or psychiatric hospital care; the first 60 days of nursing home convalescence, and the first 90 days of approved home health care per illness."

"State benefit pool plans for the poor and others would begin July 1, 1972, and would provide additional benefits in these areas: six visits per year per family member to a doctor or ambulatory care center; well-baby care for up to 12 visits during the first two years; dental care for children under 19; prescription drugs; rehabilitation services, maternity care and family planning; the first 120 days of semi-private general or psychiatric hospital care; the first 120 days of nursing home care and the first 180 days in an approved home health care program.

"In 1976, benefits for private and individual plans would be raised to the level initially required for the state pool plans. State pool plans would also be raised in 1976 to cover all ambulatory and dental care without limit and up to 300 days of hospital care. These additional benefits would be required for qualified private and individual insurance plans in 1979."

"Is it estimated, at current costs, that the National Healthcare Act would add $3.2 billion to federal outlays for health programs in the first year the plan would be in effect," Rep. Burleson said.

Not Buying Deficit Plan

Rep. George H. Mahon of Lubbock, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, took the House floor recently to examine in broad outlines President Nixon's proposed budget. Both the substance and the tenor of that document troubled him.

"It is potentially dangerous to encourage the Congress to embrace a budget concept (the so-called 'full-employment' budget) that tends to make deficit spending virtuous," Mahon said. "Are we making a virtue of spending money which is neither in hand nor in sight? I am afraid that is what this budget may tend to do."

On the subject of the budget deficit implicit in the President's budget, Mahon expressed qualms: "... The budget for the current fiscal year of 1971, when it was submitted to us just a year ago, was tentatively projected to be in the black by $1.3 billion. And now... it is in the red by $1.3 billion, but it is in the red — in the red by $18.6 billion on the so-called unified budget basis, and it is in the red from the standpoint of federal funds in excess of $25 billion." While conceding that a balanced budget at the moment seems unattainable, Rep. Mahon warned that an even greater gap between plans and reality in budget estimates could occur in the upcoming fiscal year.

He raised both philosophical and practical doubts to the President's revenue-sharing proposal.

"Is it logical and is it wise for one legislative body to raise the money and then turn it over to another legislative body, the states or the cities, for their expenditure?" he asked. "Would it not be better to undertake to find a better solution to the problem... There is no revenue to share. There is a deficit to share for this year and next year."

Rep. Mahon enlarged on his philosophy in an interview given Government Executive magazine when he said: "Speaking generally, I think the federal government has gone too far in its efforts to serve the public. I realize that we have many problems, but I don't think they can all be solved with money, nor can they all be solved from the Washington level. I also believe that, except in a time of war, when spending inevitably sky-rockets, or in a time of deep depression, we ought to pay our way as we go. If a program is desirable enough, if it is essential enough to be placed in operation, then we ought to ask ourselves whether we've got the money and, if we don't have the money in hand or in sight to finance the program, then we ought to postpone the program until we're willing to tax ourselves to pay for it."

Rep. Mahon has been in the House of Representatives since 1934. He became chairman of the Appropriations Committee in 1964. His words carry weight. His power in Congress is acknowledged. He is obviously unwilling to swallow the President's budget. The bills that finally come out of the Appropriations Committee will bear his stamp. President Nixon may not be able to recognize his program when Congress finally acts.

Everybody's Business

The Department of Defense has taken a lot of criticism, most of it justified. Shortly, the General Accounting Office, the Congress' own watchdog agency over spending, will detail its findings about weapons for the armed forces. GAO's report claims that billions of dollars have been "dribbled away" because of inability to decide what weapons are wanted and when.

Chairman Gilbert Fitzhugh of reorganization study panel stated, with painfully apparent reason, that "everybody (in the Pentagon) is somewhat responsible for everything and nobody is completely responsible for anything." That, oversimplified, is apparently true.

The GAO report may be less easily ignored than Fitzhugh.

Can't Forge A Face

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — You can fake a signature and change a number but not even a plastic surgeon can forge a face, and so, in a limited sense, a person's uniqueness is more appreciated again in this highly impersonal world.

Photographs, that is to say, are now accompanying numbers and signatures on millions of identification cards and checks, and the trend seems likely to many millions of people in the next few years.

This is a tense, suspicious world, and those with whom you interact want to be sure you are who you claim to be. A color photograph, immediately bonded to a unique plastic, sometimes watermarked, is rapidly becoming the proof.

An illustration: The scene is a large Miami Beach hotel at Christmas. Vandalism is running very high, as much as $40,000 a year. Loitering teenagers slash couches, etc., but hotel officials are wary of accusing guests.

Some teenagers often charge flowers, skating and swimming lessons, cabanas, surfboards, meals to fictitious hotel room numbers. Parents sometimes stay at nearby motels and send children to participate in social programs, dances, etc.

Solution: The hotel now uses instant photo identification cards. As registrants sign for rooms, a camera takes a Polaroid color photo, and with special, closely guarded equipment, bonds it to plastic in seconds.

Since the picture is not merely laminated between plastic sheets but blended with the plastic, any attempt at substituting another photo is frustrated. An attempt at resealing might melt the entire disc anyway.

Without a card in that hotel you now may be asked to leave. The lobby has been cleared of unregistered loungers, vandalism has almost been ended, the noise level has dropped.

The manager claims this is untypical but interesting result: A mother who had been renting a $12 motel room near the hotel and sending her three children to the hotel each day for recreation, signed up for a $128-a-day suite.

The illustrations are numerous. Consider the ridiculous situation of forged student ID cards. At one southern university with an enrollment of 9,000 students, 13,000 fans showed up one night for a basketball game.

Roger Kuhns, head of Avant Inc., one of the pioneers in photo identification systems, estimates that the industry still has volume of less than $50 million a year but that the future couldn't be brighter.

Late last fall as the war was winding down Joe had become more and more depressed, so I didn't know what mood I'd find him in. Happily, when I went down to his war room located in the basement of his house, I found him dancing a jig.

"Joe," I said, "you're your old self again."

"THEY'VE FINALLY listened to me," Joe said gleefully. "I've wanted to invade Laos for four years."

"That's wonderful, Joe," I said. "It must be great to see a dream come true."

"I didn't think President Nixon had the guts," Joe said. "But, thank God, he has finally bought my plan. Hanoi will be on the ropes in a matter of weeks."

"I thought you told everyone Hanoi was on the ropes after the Tet offensive."

"They were on the ropes," Joe said. "But they didn't know it. I still maintain the Tet offensive was the biggest allied victory of the war."

"BIGGER THAN the invasion of Cambodia?" I said.

"Cambodia was different. In Cambodia, I wiped out all the Communist sanctuaries that were supplying the Reds in South Vietnam."

"But if you wiped out all the Communist sanctuaries, why did you have to go into Laos?"

"Because, you idiot, Hanoi is hurting, so they're sending everything down the Ho Chi Minh Trail. Once I interdict the Ho Chi Minh Trail, I'll have the Commies on the ropes again."

"UNLESS THEY think of something else," I said.

"Come over here," Joe said. He took me over to a very large table which had a relief map of Southeast Asia on it. He had flags all over it: green for allied troops, red for Communist troops and blue for American aircraft.

He put on his campaign hat and said: "This is what I want to do: I want to bomb everything in Cambodia and Laos. That may force Hanoi to send their stuff through Thailand."

"WHY, IT'S the old interdiction play," I said.

"Exactly. This will give me an excuse to invade Thailand. Once I'm in Thailand, I'll give Gen. Abrams time to shape up the South Vietnamese army so they can invade North Vietnam."

"You mean you're going to invade North Vietnam?"

"What choice do I have?" Joe replied. "Once I clean out the sanctuaries in North Vietnam, Hanoi will be on the ropes."

"SO THEY'LL SUE for peace?" I said excitedly.

"No, they won't," he said disgustedly. "They'll ask the Chinese to intervene."

"Joe," I said nervously. "You're moving the green flags up to the Chinese border. You're not thinking of sending the South Vietnamese into China?"

"Why not?" said Joe. "That's where all the supplies are coming from!"

Away From It All

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Occasionally, when this peculiar village seems particularly ineligible for redemption — when the politicians are all screaming at once and the trash men collect in nose-thumbing mobs — a newspaperman I know intimately curls up with a yellowed clipping from a catalog put out by an outfit named Previews, Inc.

Previews is a reality empire that sells housing internationally. It ignores the three-bedroom brick in Reading, Pa., but its catalog is crammed with come-ons for discerning types like this newsman, named me, whose tastes run to castles, country homes, villas and shooting boxes in assorted foreign climes.

SOME OF THE lean-tos offered by Previews in this volume run as high as $150,000, but there are poor people's castles, too. The one I decided to buy some years ago, but never got around to posting the down payment therefor, was described in the clipping as being "on the outskirts of a picturesque village in County Cork on the South Irish coast." It occupied, if you will, "a superb cliff-top overlooking Castlehaven Bay," and the climate was called so salubrious that the locality was said to "abound in semi-tropical plants and flowers."

WHAT ATTRACTED a genteel type like me were what Previews called "the social amenities." These included sailing, bathing, deep sea, salmon and trout fishing, hunting and "rough shooting."

That "rough shooting" bit always bothered me. I assumed it referred to those Sins Feiner chaps who are constantly trying to overthrow the British Empire in Ulster. Subconsciously, this may have steered me away from buying the place on the spot, although the house seemed strong enough if any rough shooting should get too close. It was built of stone and brick. And, as we say in Cork, "main electricity and water is laid on."

EVEN IF the in-laws showed up, a man would not have felt overly crowded in that elegant hovel. Ten bedrooms are listed in the advertisement, and although Previews admitted there were only two bathrooms on the sleeping floor, "separate W.C.'s" were laid on. As a man constantly bedeviled by the shortage of housing for my entourage, I was delighted to learn there also were four "staff rooms."

There was a paneled entrance hall with tiled fireplace, a 21 by 20 drawing room, a study and a dining room 21 by 16. But as an old hand with the pool cue, my favorite probably would have been the billiard room, described as 30 by 20 and with an open brick fireplace.

ALL THIS could be had in that nicer time for a measly 4,750 pounds, which at the current rate of exchange comes out to $11,400 in what we use for money. Even if inflation has boosted the price a bit, it would be a bargain today, notwithstanding Previews' sinister silence about central heating. "Dear Previews"

'Warning...'

Around The Rim

Jean Fannin

Someone pointed out to me the other day that the wording of the warning on cigarette packages has been altered somewhat.

IT NOW READS: The surgeon general has determined cigarette smoking is hazardous to your health. I'm not sure if this is supposed to add to credibility or the credibility gap.

I guess it would depend on how you feel about the individual being credited with the determination. Now I don't know the surgeon general at all, but I guess a few people might get more interested in exactly who the surgeon general is, what his pet idiosyncrasies are, what his pet phobias are, etc.

CAN YOU IMAGINE what would happen if other industries started labeling their products like that.

For instance — "this movie has been rated X by Jack Valenti." You could decide, according to the character of Valenti whether or not the movie was probably REALLY an X-rated movie, or if Valenti just didn't like the producer or director or star.

AND WHAT ABOUT cars? "This car has been rated unsafe by Ralph Nader." Does that add to or detract from the attractiveness of the car? Depends on the individual's opinion of Ralph Nader, although I'm not sure I would want to buy a car just to prove or disprove Raider Nader's rating.

OR HOW ABOUT the "House Committee on Un-American Breakfasts" has determined this cereal to be un-nutritional." You could really go a long way in advertising in either direction, depending of course upon the credibility of the committee members.

The advertisers could always use "Charlie the Tuna has determined tuna has a high content of mercury which may be hazardous to your health." Now we all know Charlie is jealous because he has been trying all these years to get inside that tuna can and has never made it. What kind of credibility is his warning going to have.

THEY'RE ARE REALLY just all kinds of possibilities in the advertising circles. I think maybe I should go into advertising. I could make Paul Revere seem like a sphinx when it comes to sound warnings.

Turning Point?

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The turning point in the Vietnam war may have arrived. The United States has succeeded in training, equipping and putting into the field a South Vietnamese army of nearly a million men, though for the time being it has American advisers and assistance from the air. The North Vietnamese will gain less and less by major offensives in an effort to achieve their objective — the conquest of South Vietnam.

WHAT HAS been accomplished is the destruction of "sanctuaries" in Cambodia and now the cutting of the main supply lines over the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos. A large South Vietnamese army stands ready to thwart any invasion attempt, but none is expected in the near future, if at all.

Meanwhile when the North Vietnamese take a cold look at the facts, they will realize that they are fighting a futile war and that they had better work at Paris for some kind of agreement which will give them a chance to get rid of their highly expensive military operations in other parts of Indo-China and turn their eyes toward domestic problems.

PRESIDENT NIXON, by his intensive program of "Vietnamization," has done something unprecedented. He has actually helped a small nation to build a standing army which can defend its country. It is assumed that the United States will continue to furnish funds for upkeep, especially for military supplies and equipment. American troops will not be required, and this will affect public opinion favorably in the United States.

South Vietnam will have organized the first big army of any of the countries of Southeast Asia which can resist aggressive moves against its territory. If the Soviets would refrain from meddling in Indo-China and the Red Chinese would do the same, there could be an era of peace in Southeast Asia.

WHILE THE Vietnam conflict has been going on, there has been a good deal of nervousness among the countries of the area. All the criticism in the United States, particularly in Congress, has produced much apprehension inside the free governments on the Asian continent. But with the example of South Vietnam's progress in developing a capability to defend itself without the aid of ground troops from America, it may well be that some of the other nations will begin to strengthen their military defense, provided they can get certain forms of assistance from America.

THE HANOI government doesn't really have a military apparatus strong enough to take over the area to the South, especially since land and sea routes for the moving of men and equipment have been blocked and the "sanctuaries" from which the North Vietnamese have hitherto operated have been destroyed.

AS PRESIDENT NIXON withdraws more and more forces from Vietnam and as the participation of American ground troops is gradually ended, the importance of the South Vietnamese army will receive greater recognition. For it is being demonstrated that a small nation has been able to build a standing army of a million men and is showing an ability to fight effectively. Maybe the Hanoi government will come to doubt whether it is worthwhile to keep up a war against such heavy odds.

Rabbi Comments

LONDON (AP) — Religious leaders stand for the preservation of values and hence can never be as newsworthy as those who challenge them, said Dr. Immanuel Jakobovits, Chief Rabbi of the British Commonwealth, in an address about news media. The dilemma of the press, he said, was that the exceptional became the norm. "The quietly normal which ought to govern our way of life is not news," he said.

My Answer

Billy Graham

Do you agree with the great cross section of experts who say that pornography has no effect on adolescents? The Supreme Court seems also to condone pornography. I suppose you are against it, but I would like your opinion about the legalization of the rash of pornography which is flooding our land.

P.A. As a minister I have always been against any practice which would make conjugal love cheap, sordid and common. In my opinion it is one of the most sacred gifts ever given man, and if he uses it merely as a toy for cheap thrills, outside the limits which the Bible sets for it, his soul and personality can be greatly damaged.

Several Presidents have been deeply disturbed about pornography and deviant sex in our nation. In the Davis-Braucht report, presented to the American Psychological Association in Miami, they said: "In the entire sample, exposure to pornography was significantly related to sexual deviance." Davis and Braucht further said: "Early and ample exposure to pornography and obscenity may effect the youth's view of sexuality and willingness to engage in varieties of deviance. In old fashioned language, his sexual inclinations may be warped by a very early exposure to warped sexual concepts."

Homosexuality and male prostitution were among the deviant practices brought on by pornography, they concluded. The Bible makes sense when it says, "Flee youthful lusts."

A Devotion For Today...

As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise. (Luke 6:31)

PRAYER: God, take away our desire for praise for any good we do. Help us to do good because we believe in it and because it is the best way to express our love for those around us. Amen.

OKIE PARK SHOOTING

AWOL Texan, Tulsan Charged In Killing

EUFAULA, Okla. (AP)—Murder charges were filed today against two men being sought by one of the state's biggest manhunt for the slaying of a Highway Patrol officer and the superintendent of a state park.

Two counts of murder each were filed against William B. Franklin, 23, and Edwin Edgar Jones, 24, by Larry Allen, assistant district attorney.

The Highway Patrol said Jones was listed as AWOL from Ft. Walters, Tex., and the only address they had was Mineral Wells, Tex. The last address for Franklin was Tulsa in connection with a 1962 prison term for robbery.

The manhunt for the two was concentrated in the McAlester area today after their car was found abandoned on a county road.

500 OFFICERS

About 500 officers joined the search, either in the immediate area, aided by bloodhounds, or on roadblocks while other officers manned two planes. Plans were made to search through farmhouses in the area for the two men.

The slayings occurred Wednesday night at Fountainhead State Park when officers tried to take the two into custody.

Highway Patrol Chief Bill Mayberry said at least one weapon had been found in the blue 1967 station wagon identified as that used by the slayers. But they said the two reportedly had fled with two high-powered rifles, a pistol and a shotgun. The car was found 7 1/2 miles west of Eufula. It was first found by a spotter plane.

More than 100 roadblocks straddled the state's roads and the patrol said eastern, southern, western and the Panhandle sections of the states had been sealed off and would remain that way until the two men were found.

Assisting in the roadblocks were Arkansas and Texas state police forces.

The two fugitives are believed to be slightly built Texans in their early 20s. They were hunted for the deaths of Oklahoma Highway Patrolman Bill Walker, 35, and state park superintendent Leo Newton.

Game Ranger W. L. Pickens was in critical condition in a Tulsa hospital this morning with head and face injuries.

The two fugitives are believed to be slightly built, heavily-armed Texans who shot to death Oklahoma highway patrolman, Bill Walker, 35, and state park superintendent Leo Newton near Fountainhead Lodge Wednesday evening.

Game ranger W. L. Pickens was in critical condition in a Tulsa Hospital Thursday morning with head and face injuries.

DESERTER

Both suspects are believed wanted by Army authorities, the Highway Patrol said. One was thought to be a deserter from Vietnam and the other was believed absent without leave.

Trooper Walker, answering a complaint about a disturbance in the park, stopped the two men along side a road leading from the park lodge to an airstrip.

He called his headquarters in McAlester and said he had arrested two heavily-armed men on an illegal possession of firearms charge.

FEMALE DEPUTY

A female deputy sheriff from Okmulgee said she drove past the scene just before the shooting, and saw the patrolman and three other men seated in the patrol car. She said a fifth man was standing outside the car.

Newton and Pickens, who arrived shortly after the arrest were apparently the fourth and fifth men.

Ken Newton, 14-year-old son of the park superintendent was riding his motorcycle nearby when he heard about 10 rapid shots. He said he thought his father was shooting skunks, and went to see.

HE WAS DEAD

"I ran over to the ditch and saw my dad..." the youngster said. "I knew he was dead."

"I picked up Pick's (Pickens) head and asked him, 'Pick, do you know me?' and he just dropped his head."

The boy ran to the road, flagged down a passing motorist, and within minutes the area was swarming with more than 100 law officers.

A federally-funded law enforcement school was in progress the moment the shots were fired, and the delegates all joined in the search.

An all-points bulletin was issued by the patrol, although no one but the dead men apparently saw the suspects.

Highway Patrol Chief Bill Mayberry left Oklahoma City and rushed to the scene. Additional patrol units were summoned.

Law enforcement units in Texas and Arkansas, and throughout Oklahoma were notified to watch for the two men, believed to have fled in a blue station wagon.

King, Russell Holidays Pitch

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The state Senate has sent to its Rules Committee a resolution making the birthdays of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Sen. Richard B. Russell state holidays.

Sen. Leroy Johnson of Atlanta, a Negro and sponsor of the resolution, protested that sending the bill back to committee would kill it.

Cary Grant Wins Custody Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Dyan Cannon has agreed to give Cary Grant temporary custody of the divorced couple's 4-year-old daughter in a compromise agreement filed in Superior Court.

Miss Cannon wanted to take the child, Jennifer, to France and Greece when she begins work on a film next month. A divorce decree bars either Miss Cannon, 33, or Grant from removing the girl from California without court permission.

Senators Trying To Choke Filibusters Admit Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators trying to make it easier to choke off filibusters conceded defeat in their first test today, despite support from both party leaders, the White House and a majority of the Senate.

But they say they'll do better on a second try next week. The Senate vote today was on a petition halting a Southern-led filibuster against a proposed rule change to end debate by a three-fifths majority. The existing rule requires a two-thirds vote to cut off a filibuster.

Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and James B. Pearson, R-Kan., are leading a bipartisan drive for the three-fifths rule with 49 other senators cosponsoring the change. This majority of the Senate is all that is needed for adoption of a three-fifths rule if the filibuster of opponents can be broken with a two-thirds vote.

Church and Pearson said they hope to pick up additional votes on subsequent tries, and Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted they will.

Mansfield and Republican Leader Hugh Scott are backing the more liberal rule. "The fact that both leaders are for it and the White House smiles on it should improve chances," Scott commented.

The White House said last week President Nixon favors any change in rules that would enable the Senate to handle its business more promptly.

PAST FIGHTS

Debate on the issue began Jan. 26, shortly after the start of the present Congress. So far Southern Democrats, with aid of some conservative Republicans, have blocked consideration of

Methodists Study 'Love' Of Pastor

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Methodist officials studied today the case of a Laredo pastor who was ousted for refusing to give up his relationship with a San Antonio woman.

Bishop Eugene Slater said the church's Committee on Investigation was to meet despite pastor Wil Schaefer's claim that it was illegal.

Schaefer contends that according to church law he was dismissed improperly last month from the First United Methodist Church of Laredo.

The minister asked Bishop Slater Wednesday for a meeting at a coffee shop before today's committee session. The bishop said he would not see him "under those circumstances."

Schaefer wrote the bishop that he wanted to discuss with him "the public withdrawal of the charges of immorality made by you" in a statement read to the Laredo church when he was dismissed.

"The withdrawal of this illegal and improper charge will clear the record and leave me free to enter the forthcoming proceedings without prejudice," Schaefer said, referring to today's meeting.

He challenged the legality of the meeting in a letter to the five committee members.

The group is illegal under church law because of previous errors in procedure, he asserted.

"If you proceed (with the meeting)," Schaefer wrote to the committee, "it will be necessary for me to take proper action in bringing charges."

He already has brought church charges of maladministration against Bishop Slater. Officials said a committee meeting will be called on Schaefer's charges.

OCAW, Oil Firm Issue

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (AP)—Representatives of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, Local 4-449, and the American Oil Co. were to meet today with federal mediator Frank Andrews.

They were to discuss an issue which apparently was unresolved in the recent contract settlement. Billy Jones, secretary-treasurer of the local, said union members thought the issue had been resolved, when in fact it had not. However, neither union nor company spokesmen would comment on the nature of the issue in question.

Jones confirmed the local has taken a strike vote but he declined to reveal the vote results.

The American Oil refinery here has about 1,500 employees, including 1,100 OCAW members.

THE REV. PAUL COXE

Church Revival Closes Sunday

Evangelistic services led by the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Cox, Toronto, Canada, will continue through Sunday. Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. today and Friday at the First Assembly of God Church.

The final revival service will be at 7 p.m. Sunday, and special music will also be presented during the morning service.

The Rev. Cox and his wife, an accomplished pianist and organist, present their Christian testimony through instrumental music, duets and "talking songs" which are moving narrations set against a background of religious music.

The public is invited to attend all of the services.

Trophies In Kermit Contest

Big Spring High School speech students captured several top spots in the Kermit Invitational Speech tournament last week-end and had third place in overall points.

Susan Smith, sophomore, won the gold medal for poetry interpretation, then was declared the best in the combined poetry-prose interpretation event.

Belinda Gonzales, senior, was the winner as the best interpreter for prose. In extemporaneous speaking, Barbara Widger took second place.

Susan Sulak, senior, was the best girl debater, and Jeff Talmadge and Scott McLaughlin finished third in the boys debate division of the tournament.

The students will compete March 5 in the Texas Tech tournament, then will take part in a Hardin-Simmons University tourney about a week later.

Alabama Sheriff Indicted

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Alabama's first Negro sheriff since Reconstruction and a Negro deputy are free on $1,000 bond each on federal charges of beating a prisoner of their own race after a shooting affray in Tuskegee.

Sheriff Lucius Amerson of Macon County and Deputy Richard Coleman Jr. were named in a federal indictment charging violation of civil rights laws.

A grand jury in Montgomery returned the indictment last Friday but it was kept secret until Wednesday. The indictment alleges the two men beat Wilbert Dean Harris following a shootout last Aug. 22 at the Macon County jail in Tuskegee with the intention to inflict "summary punishment."

Amerson was the only black sheriff in the state until three others took office a month ago in Bullock, Greene and Lowndes counties.

The incident at the jail grew out of Harris' arrest on a driving while intoxicated charge.

State Welfare Boss Stricken

AUSTIN (AP)—State Welfare Commissioner Burton Hackney was listed in fair condition today in a hospital intensive coronary care unit.

Hackney, 63, was admitted late Wednesday afternoon. His condition was temporarily diagnosed as a coronary insufficiency.

"That means not enough blood is getting into the heart," a hospital spokesman said.

H-SU Homecoming Set For Feb. 26

ABILENE — Student talent will be in spotlight next Friday, Feb. 26, kicking off Hardin-Simmons University's Homecoming weekend.

Winners of the All School Sing and other outstanding students' performances will be presented in a two to two-and-a-half-hours entertainment program in Behrens Chapel Auditorium beginning at 8:15 p.m.

General chairman of H-SU's Homecoming activities is Nat Haas, business manager of the Student Congress. Proceeds from the program will go to the fund for a new library on H-SU campus.

Odessa Chief Asks For Info

ODESSA — Odessa Police Chief Jack Tomlin has called on area residents to telephone police if they have any information which might shed some light on the brutal slayings of three young Odessa women within the last two years.

Tomlin said the names of anyone providing information to the police will not be divulged. The murder of Mrs. Ruth Maynard, 24, whose badly decomposed body was found Monday night, brings to three the number of unsolved murders of Odessa women in recent years. The two other women were Linda Cougar and Eula Mae Rogers.

Officials fear that another Odessa woman, Mrs. Oleta Fuller, 28, is a fifth possible victim of foul play.

Winkler County Sheriff Bill Eddins is seeking any information that may shed some light on the disappearance of 27-year-old Nancy Siler Mitchell, a Kermit housewife who vanished from her home Sept. 16.

Pleads Guilty

A Corpus Christi man pleaded guilty Wednesday afternoon in 118th District Court to a charge of burglary. District Judge R. W. Caton sentenced him to 10 years in the state penitentiary. Vernia Lee Williams, 44, remains in custody in Howard County Jail awaiting transfer to the Texas Department of Corrections.

Paint Horse Show Slated

The 10th annual Big Spring Paint Horse Show is scheduled for Saturday, April 24, in the Big Spring Rodeo Bowl, according to Kenneth Williams, show manager.

The Big Spring show is the oldest continuous Paint Horse Show in West Texas, Williams said.

Bob Collins, Zephyr, Tex., will judge the 33 classes in three divisions: mares, stallions and geldings. Grand and reserve champions will be selected in each of the three divisions.

In connection with the show, there will be two youth activities divisions, one for youths 13 and under and one for those 14 through 18.

Entries are expected from Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, New Mexico, Kansas and Colorado.

Big Springer Held On Local Warrant

J. C. Gutierrez was arrested in Ruidoso, N.M., on a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter. The warrant was for theft by bailor and the complaint was filed by Roy Bruce, 213 E. 3rd.

Object of the alleged theft was a car rented to him by Bruce, the Hertz Rent-A-Car dealer in Big Spring.

One of the biggest till-tappers in professional football is the scouting department maintained by each club, but most of the loot involved in the endeavor goes to waste.

Some of the teams kept a file of up to 20 pages on such quarterbacks as Jim Plunkett and Archie Manning prior to the recent draft, knowing that the lowest teams in the caste system would grab off the two at the first opportunity.

The ivory hunters usually get a fix on such talented people when they first enter college and add to the dossiers regularly.

Each team in the NFL will scrutinize the work of 1,000 to 1,500 college players in the search for the 17 they hope to draft each year.

They start the paper work, resigned to the fact they will never get the chance to tap most of the athletes they covet because the odds are 25-1 against them.

The nation-wide scouting system, however, is considered necessary to make sure that 17 choices are invested wisely enough to enable a team to remain competitive.

In recent years, some pro teams have gone to what they call BLESTO-V or QUADRA (it was once TROIKA) systems in effort to cut down on the enormous scouting costs.

The BLESTO-V scouting combine hustles material for seven different teams while the QUADRA plan looks out for the interests of four teams, Dallas included.

Other teams go it alone, however, in their quest for material.

BLESTO's network of regional scouts will feed the same information to each of the eight member teams, and periodic reports on every football player in the country judged worthy of notice, then, offer computerized ratings of them in the order of ability.

Each team, of course, lets their own people draw final conclusions on the players. That comes only after their Griddogs have watched the athletes in person.

Many of the pro teams had spies at all the 19 bowl games after the NFL regular season ended. Particular attention was given to the all-star games like the East-West Game and Senior Bowl.

Films borrowed from college athletic departments answer a lot of questions about players. When the day of the draft draws near, the teams are inclined to hold mock drafts in which it tries to establish a game plan for its top choices, with alternates at each position if the players the clubs want are gone before they can be picked.

As much effort goes into scouting work, I kid you not, as for a championship game.

Scouting costs are astronomical and aren't coming down in the foreseeable future. Pro football uses up a player's talents pretty fast and new material constantly must be fed into the machine.

It is a computerized world we live in.

Max Fly, the former Flower Grove mentor who was at Comstock last season, is currently the high school principal at Miles. He doubles as the girls' basketball coach.

Larry Dierker, pitching ace of the Houston Astros, could be in for a good year. A holdout last year, Larry fell upon evil days when he developed arm miseries. His late start could have contributed to his problems.

Larry signed his contract early this year, however, seems intent on winning 20 games again.

New 24, Dierker has been in the majors since he was 18. He's won 71 and lost 62 for a team that hasn't always been up among the leaders.

A pitcher usually peaks when he's around 27.

CAUGHT CHEATING IN SEVENTH GRADE

Calley Traced From Boyhood

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — In the seventh grade Rusty Calley was caught cheating in an examination and had to repeat the grade.

In the ninth grade he argued with a teacher, was suspended for a week and was shuttled off to a private military academy.

In high school, out of a graduating class of 731, Calley was ranked 666. He did so miserably in junior college that he dropped out after the first year to drift into a series of second-rate jobs. Now, at 27, Rusty Calley is on trial. As William Laws Calley Jr., a first lieutenant in the United States Army, he is accused of being the chief triggerman in the bloodbath of the tiny Vietnamese village of My Lai.

HIS STORY

Soon, as the climax of the trial, Calley will tell his own story. Through a legal necessity much of what he will say was read Wednesday to the six military men who will judge him. A defense lawyer said the statement was a preview of Calley's testimony.

It depicts the young Calley as growing up in harmony with one older and two younger sisters in Miami, Fla.

"During these years," the statement read to a psychiatrist-witness and a jury said, "he was regularly attending school, carrying on an active social life with other young people his age and enjoyed various sports such as football and boating."

"He had many friends but formed few close attachments. He has never experimented with drugs and describes moderate social drinking. He was bored with affluent suburban living."

Ironically, Calley tried, after leaving college in the summer of 1963, to enlist in the Army. He was rejected because he was tone deaf.

ON THE SPOT

The senior Calley's business failed and the family moved to North Carolina. His father, a construction equipment salesman, was a diabetic. His mother developed cancer and soon died.

For a time Rusty lived with the family, helping with finances.

Then, while visiting San Francisco, Calley received his draft notice and started driving to Miami. His car broke down in Albuquerque.

Out of funds, he enlisted in the Army on the spot. It was July 16, 1968—exactly 20 months before the day in My Lai.

After basic training Calley was assigned to Ft. Lewis, Wash., and did so well as a clerk-typist he was recommended for Officer Candidate School at Ft. Benning.

On Sept. 7, 1967, Calley was graduated as a second lieutenant. He ranked 120th in a class of 156.

With a gold bar on his shoulder, Calley was assigned to Hawaii and Charlie Company, 1st Battalion, 20th Infantry in October, 1967, and was given a platoon.

DANGEROUS

December, 1967, found Charlie Company in Vietnam, part of the newly organized Americal Division. Calley received more training.

"As part of this training," the statement said, "he was directed to treat all South Vietnamese with great caution since men, women of all ages—including old men and women and small children—have proved to be as dangerous an enemy as the full-grown military-age men."

In an area where 90 per cent of American casualties came from mines and booby traps Calley "felt increasingly frustrated at the difficulty of identifying the enemy."

On March 15, 1968, Capt. Ernest Medina, Calley's company commander, gathered his troops and briefed them.

"Lt. Calley came out of the briefing with the opinion that all enemy encountered during the operation were to be destroyed and that everyone remaining in the area was the enemy," the statement said.

Calley's 1st Platoon was chosen to conduct the sweep. And then in Wednesday's court statement came the first direct admission by the defendant that he shot the villagers, who were captive and unresisting and mostly women, old men and children.

"Lt. Calley ordered Paul Meadlo, a soldier in his platoon, to shoot and took part himself in shooting some detained Vietnamese on two occasions—once about the center of the hamlet and once on the eastern edge of it in an irrigation ditch or depression."

"Lt. Calley will testify he believed he was following orders to destroy all living things in the village."

His lawyers give his view: "Lt. Calley states that he did not feel as if he were killing humans, but rather that they were enemy with whom one could not speak or reason."

Senate Continues To Dig Into Alleged PX Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sgt. William O. Woodridge, once the Army's top enlisted man, has been charged with criminal conspiracy as the same Senate panel that was told he defrauded servicemen's clubs on three continents probed graft in the worldwide military PX system.

As the Justice Department did in its charges against Woodridge, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's Senate investigations subcommittee focused its gaze Wednesday on activities in Vietnam and heard of lavish gifts from a promoter to the military men and civilians who stock the department store-like Army-Air Force post exchanges.

PAYOFFS, STEALING

Woodridge, five other past or present Army sergeants, two civilians and a firm owned by Woodridge and four of the others were indicted by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles on charges they conspired between 1965 and 1969 to defraud non-commissioned officers' clubs in Vietnam.

Testimony in the subcommittee's 1969 investigation of Woodridge, sergeant major of the Army from 1966 to 1968 but stripped of a high medal and command responsibilities during the probe, painted a picture of widespread payoffs, kick-backs and stealing among the sergeants who ran the NCO clubs. Woodridge currently is sergeant major at the White Sands missile range in New Mexico.

PEAS IN A POD

Wednesday's testimony centered around 52-year-old William J. Crum, an American businessman who allegedly parlayed money, women, liquor and a lavish Saigon villa into a military commendation and $40 million profit from a slot machine concession and liquor sales at clubs and PX's.

The subcommittee's chief investigator, LaVern Duffy, introduced a 45-page statement containing letters written by Crum, twice banned from dealing with the military during the Korean War, that boasted of seeing the beer of one of his clients in the house of Brig. Gen. Charles R. "Monk" Meyer and of "getting along like peas in a pod" with two civilian officials of the PX system in Southeast Asia.

Crum, was a sales representative for Jim Bean Distillery Co. and Carling Brewery. He once held an exclusive contract for 1,700 slot machines in military clubs in Vietnam and was given an award for boosting morale of servicemen by Meyer in 1966, months after Crum provided the general with several gifts, the subcommittee was told.

Carling Wednesday said it "is dismayed to learn that an independent broker it hired in Vietnam may have been involved in illegal activities."

LONG GONE

The Chinese-born and American-educated Crum has operated off a 69-foot yacht in Hong Kong Harbor, but his present whereabouts are uncertain.

Indicted with Woodridge were M. Sgt. William E. Higdon of Redstone Arsenal, Ala.; Sgt.

1. C. William C. Bagby of Ft. Shafter, Hawaii; retired Sgt. 1. C. Navaz Hatcher of Pensacola, Fla.; retired Sgt. 1. C. Seymour Lazar of Anaheim, Calif.; Theodore "Sam" Bass, a former Army NCO; and Charles and Irene Terhune, civilians now living in Middlesex, England.

Also named in the indictment was Marmad, Inc., a firm owned by Woodridge, Higdon, Hatcher, Lazar and Bass that sold food, bar supplies and other merchandise to NCO clubs.

Finesses not infrequently are the sirens which lure overreager declarers to their destruction. As witnesses South's unhappy experience in today's hand.

When West's opening bid of one diamond was passed around to South, there was no question as to the propriety of the double, and West's rebid of two diamonds placed North in a perhaps awkward position. He actually chose to bid no trump, too with a single stopper in diamonds, in the face of a rebid, our own preference would have been to respond in hearts despite the weakness of that suit. The fact that a free bid is being made at this point should make South aware of the fact that North has a fairly good holding. In any case, South was not to be shut out of showing his heart suit and the natural contract of four hearts was reached.

West opened the king of diamonds and, after winning the trick with dummy's ace, declarer proceeded to draw trumps in three rounds. He next led a club and put in dummy's ten when West played low. East won with the jack of clubs and returned a diamond which South ruffed. The club finesse was repeated and North's queen lost to the king. Another round of diamonds forced out declarer's last trump.

South led over to North's ace of clubs in order to turn his attention to the spade suit. A small spade was led to declarer's nine. When this lost to West's queen, a fourth round of diamonds removed the remaining trump from North's hand. West was now able to take the last two tricks with the ace of spades and a high diamond to put declarer down by two.

In the maze of finesses, South lost sight of his goal on the hand which was to win 10 tricks. He can obtain this objective with complete ease by establishing the spade suit. After drawing the adverse trump, he merely leads a spade from his hand, and can do no better than shift to a club, this trick is conceded to East's jack, the forced diamond return is ruffed, and now the spades are established in one more round by driving out the ace. Dummy's queen of clubs can now be discarded on declarer's long spade, and South eventually ruffs a club in the dummy for the game fulfilling trick.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1971 SEC. B

HAPPY TO HELP Girl Scouts meet their quota of cookie sales is Mrs. Dan Allen, a registered Girl Scout for many years. Now leader of a Cadette troop, Mrs. Allen attended national and international Scouting events during her Senior Scout days. Knowing that cookie sales will enable other young girls to have this experience, she buys a box from each of her pretty callers. From left, they are Diana Kohanek, Karyl Thames and Maria Jackson.

'Itchy' Sweet Tooth? Cookies Are Coming

A "lot of good comes in a small package" when you buy a Girl Scout Cookie each year during the annual West Texas Girl Scout Council cookie sale. You help girls go to camp. You help build and maintain Camp Boothe Oaks and other council-owned property.

You help put funds in the troop treasury to pay for camping trips, service projects and other troop expenses.

You help finance girl participation in national and international Girl Scout events.

You help girls practice the art of democracy, develop their self-reliance and be good citizens.

But you also get to eat those cookies and sometimes that seems like the best part of all.

The 20th annual cookie sale begins at 4 p.m. Friday, and the 10-day sale will end Feb. 28. Almost 1,700 girls in the Junior, Cadette and Senior levels of Scouting will sell cookies in the council area this year. Their goal is 72,000 boxes. Funds from the sale of each box of cookies, which sell for 60 cents a box, is distributed as follows:

Cost of cookies, 32.2 cents; capital expenditures for Camp Boothe Oaks and service center, 22.9 cents; Boothe Oaks 10-month maintenance, 5.5 cents; troop proceeds, 5.0 cents; camperships to Camp Boothe Oaks, 2.8 cents; to send girls and adults to national Girl Scout events, 5 cents; and cookie patches for sellers, 1 cent.

FOUR KINDS
Four kinds of cookies will be sold: Assorted Sandwich, Chocolate Mint, Butter Flavored Shorties and Peanut Butter Sandwich.

Girls selling 48 or more boxes of cookies during the 1971 sale will be awarded 48 Club patches. One-half camp fee awards will be presented to girls selling 150 or more boxes of cookies. One-fourth camperships will be awarded girls selling 100-149 boxes.

In the 1970 sale, 718 girls earned the 48 Club patches and 177 earned part of the camp fee.

The Girl Scout cookie sales were started 48 years ago by a New Jersey troop. Cookies were made at home by the mothers. The idea passed to other troops, and in 1936 the first national Girl Scout cookie sale was held.

Sales are coordinated in each community by an adult volunteer cookie sales chairman. Miss Arlene Estes, staff field director is adviser-coordinator. In Big Spring, service unit chairmen are Mrs. Bobby Jones, Mrs. Jack Little, Mrs. Charles Tate, Mrs. Robert Taylor and Mrs. Donald Hale, the latter being at Coahoma.

There are more ways to eat a Girl Scout cookie than straight from the box. Butter Flavored Shorties and Vanilla and Chocolate cookies can be crushed and mixed with shortening to make wholesome and delicious pastry for pies or to line a mold to be filled with your favorite gelatin desserts.

The cookies are very good if topped with a marshmallow and a dot of butter and browned quickly under a broiler.

Or try one of these delicious recipes:

HEAVENLY COOKIE CREAM
(Makes 6 Servings)
10 Girl Scout Vanilla Sandwich Cookies, plus extra cookies

1 cup well-drained crushed pineapple

1/2 cup chopped dates, or drained maraschino cherries

1/2 cup chopped nut meats

1 cup heavy cream, or 1 pkg. dessert topping mix

1 tsp. vanilla

1/2 tsp. lemon flavoring

Roll the 10 cookies between a fold of waxed paper to even crumbs (cream filling mixes with crumbs.) Combine with fruits and nuts. Whip cream or prepare dessert topping mix as directed on package. Fold in flavorings and crumb mixture. Chill. Spoon into dessert dishes. Set a vanilla or chocolate sandwich cookie on edge into each serving with insignia and "GS" letter on full view. Makes 6 servings.

PEANUT BUTTER TORTE

1 box Peanut Butter sandwich cookies

1/2 cup chopped nutmeats

1 stick butter

1 cup powdered sugar

2 squares of baking chocolate

3 eggs, separated

Pinch of salt

Crush the cookie crumbs and combine with the chopped nutmeats.

Sprinkle half of the crumbs in bottom of a buttered (either 8x8 inch or 6x10 inch) pan. Reserve balance of crumbs.

Cream butter and sugar together, add beaten egg yolks. Melt chocolate and add to butter mixture, also salt.

Beat egg whites until stiff, beat into first mixture and continue mixing until velvety smooth. Pour mixture over cookie crumbs, top with remaining crumbs and refrigerate 12 hours.

MINTED BROWNIE PIE
(Makes a 9-inch pie)

14 Mint Cookies

3 egg whites

Dash salt

3/4 cup sugar

1/2 tsp. vanilla

1/2 cup chopped nut meats

Sweetened whipped cream (1/2 to 1 cup heavy cream)

Chill cookies in refrigerator a few minutes, if they have been stored in warm places and frosting is slightly sticky. Break, cut or roll between fold of waxed paper to even crumbs.

Beat egg whites and salt together until soft peaks form. Gradually beat in sugar, beating until stiff peaks form. Beat in vanilla. Fold in crumbs and chopped nut meats.

Spread evenly in buttered 9-inch pie plate. Bake in slow oven, 325 degrees for 35 minutes. Cool thoroughly.

Serve with sweetened whipped cream on each wedge; or spread sweetened whipped cream over top, chill 3 to 4 hours and garnish with curls of shaved unsweetened chocolate.

Master Judge

Slates Lecture

Mrs. Sam Poyphress of Midland, a flower show master judge, will hold a lecture demonstration at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the YMCA. Members of all garden clubs are welcome to attend. Mrs. Poyphress studied flower arrangement in Japan and her program will be about the art of arranging. The demonstration is sponsored by the Rosebud Garden Club. Hostesses are Mrs. Gude Alexander and Mrs. Ralph Mahoney.

Chapter Plans Rush Events

Two rush events were finalized when Alpha Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, met Tuesday in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Slated for 9:30 a.m. Friday is a coffee in the home of Mrs.

Roe Fuigham, Sand Springs, and on Feb. 27 the "Western Hoedown," a couples dinner party, will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Midway School.

Mrs. D. L. Owens was hostess, and Mrs. Jack Owens presided as the chapter's Girl of the Year was elected. Her identity will be revealed at the Founder's Day program April 30. Mrs. Jim Benetz and Mrs. Jack Parrot will serve coffee and cake at the Veterans Administration Hospital March 3, and chapter members will assist with the cancer fund drive March 14 in the Midway area. The chapter is sponsoring a beef give-away March 16 at Anderson's Grocery, Coahoma.

The program, "Let's Match Wits," was presented by Mrs. D. L. Owens and concerned debating. In telling how to organize a formal debate, Mrs. Owens said the five components are affirmative, negative, rebuttal, part played by chairman and a number of judges.

The next meeting will be March 2 at First Federal Community Room with Mrs. Allen Christian as hostess. "The Art of Thinking" will be presented at that time by Mrs. Jon Scott.

Painting Is Memorial

"Contentment," a painting done on black velvet, was presented Tuesday to the Elks Club by the BPO Does, in memory of the late Mrs. J. M. Morgan, drove mother.

Accepting the painting in the lodge hall on behalf of the Elks were A. D. Jenkins, Robert Boadle and R. H. Snyder. Mrs. Kay Williams presided and also won the attendance prize. The next meeting is at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Elks lodge.

Puts Stress On 'Getting Involved' In Church Work

"The Diakonic Task" was the program Tuesday for the Baptist Temple Women's Missionary Union. Mrs. Dalton Johnson introduced the participants, Mrs. Jim Barringer, Mrs. Harold Socolofsky and Mrs. Ross Hill.

The women said the church ministers to others through its members, and that getting involved in projects will help the community to portray love and compassion for those in need.

Others assisting in the program were Mrs. Clyde McCoy, Mrs. Otto Couch, Mrs. N. R. Garrett and Mrs. Jim Puckett.

Music was provided by two vocalists, Mrs. B. B. Hardee and Miss Mary Luevano, accompanied by the pianist, Mrs. Sidney Hart. Guests at the luncheon were Mrs. W. S. Warren and the Rev. Jim Puckett. Mrs. A. W. Page announced a mission action program Tuesday in the fellowship hall.

Mrs. H. Petty Gets Certificate

Mrs. Homer Petty received a certificate Tuesday for a perfect semi-annual report from the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge 153 in the IOOF Hall. Mrs. Jones Lamar presented the award.

Mrs. K. C. Webb presided. The charter was undraped for Mrs. Mary Ciepfer by Mrs. Alton Allen, Mrs. U. S. Beechley and Mrs. Lamar. In other business, members reported 77 visits to the sick. Resolutions of sympathy were read for Mrs. Omar Pitman and Robert W. Brown.

The women also had a funeral drill practice. The next meeting is at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday in the IOOF Hall.

CALLING ALL HOME MAKERS

By Ted Hatfield
YOU CAN
BREAK THE RULES

More and more during the last few years, it has become a trend among decorators, both professional and amateur, to break all the so-called "rules."

Everyone remembers, a few years back, when we were told never to use pinks and orange together, but now we all know that the right shades of these and related colors blend beautifully.

As a matter of fact, the warm, "happy" colors in the same fabric are extremely popular in both draperies and upholstery. This is an example that many of the previous rules have been thrown out of the window.

Today, you can also do more mixing of woods, periods, finishes and colors in the same room. There is a much greater trend towards mixing than matching.

The idea is that each piece of furniture should have individuality and personality of its own.

Yes, you can break the so-called old "rules" — provided the whole effect creates a harmonious picture, and pleases YOU!

And, what makes a harmonious picture? In your home? We invite you to come in, talk it over with us, and take advantage of our free decorator service. We'll be looking forward to seeing you.

A LOVELIER YOU Electrolysis Is Safe By Expert Operator

By MARY SUE MILLER

A Lovely writes: I would appreciate advice on the removal of facial hair by electrolysis. Are the results truly permanent? Is the process painful? Safe?

The Answer: Electrolysis is the sole means of permanently removing unwanted facial hair. Except in the instance of exceptionally sensitive skin, discomfort is negligible. It can be compared to that of a small pin prick.

Too, treatments are of short duration — 15 to 30 minutes — so that you are not overtaxed by them. The number required naturally depends on growth. Likewise the cost.

The process employs a delicate needle. This is introduced into the hair follicle, where it demolishes the growth mechanism. A skilled operator works for gradual, uniform removal. Hence, as the hair vanishes, there are no patchy spots. In rare cases after treatment, a follicle produces a spindly hair; it is then reprocessed.

For the majority of unblemished skins, electrolysis is safe. The skin reddens slightly after a treatment, but the color soon subsides. An operator usually suggests a soothing lotion.

A woman would be wise to ask her doctor about the fea-

Six-Car Chain Crash Kills Two High School Girls

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two Houston high school girls were killed in a six-car chain collision and a Catholic priest was charged with murder by auto in connection with their deaths.

Killed were Debbie Ann Woods, 17, and Linda Ann Lambert, 18, both pupils at C. E. King High School here.

The Volkswagen in which the girls were riding was the last of five cars waiting for a red light at an intersection on U.S. 90 near the school. The Department of Public Safety said a sixth car, driven by Father John Joseph Dunn, 53, pastor of Our Mother of Mercy Church near Liberty, rammed into the Volkswagen.

Dunn was listed in fair condition at a Baytown Hospital with back injuries. He was charged in a complaint filed by the DPS before a Baytown Justice of the Peace.

Last Civil War Widow Expires

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Florence J. Layman, 87, reported to be the nation's last Civil War widow, was buried Wednesday in Hitchcock, Tex.

Mrs. Layman, widow of the late Milton Layman, died Monday in St. Mary's Hospital.

She was born Dec. 6, 1883 in Alabama, and married the Civil War veteran when she was 22 years old and he was a 65-year-old Oklahoma farmer. Layman died in Durant, Okla., in 1933, and his widow moved to Galveston to live with a daughter.

Until her death she received a Confederate Widow's pension of $65 per month from the state of Texas, recognizing Layman's service to the confederacy.

The family said he often mentioned service at Chickamauga, Ala., but there were no records of his service in the Confederate Army.

She is survived by four sons, three daughters, 18 grandchildren and an undetermined number of great-grandchildren.

Sammy Davis Jr. To Join March

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Sammy Davis Jr., who appears regularly on the Las Vegas Strip, says he will join welfare militants when they march on the Strip next month.

"Black people and poor whites need my help," said Davis at a news conference Tuesday. The National Welfare Rights Organization has announced it would march on the Strip March 5 and 6 to protest welfare cutbacks in Nevada.

THANKS A LOT FOR THE POT

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Customs inspectors said, "Thank you," when an American returned from Mexico recently with 93 pounds of marijuana he had purchased. He declared the pot and the agents took it.

They quoted the man as saying he was father of 14 children and had bought the marijuana, valued at $14,000 to $16,000 if sold on the street, to keep it off the market and out of the hands of children.

His story checked out and Customs officials honored his request for anonymity.

His Charge About Pharr For Course

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Mexican-American leader said he thinks police provoked a riot that erupted during a demonstration at Pharr, Tex., earlier this month.

Alfonso Flores, 20, a bystander, was wounded in the violence

Feb. 6 and died later at a hospital.

County Commissioner Albert Pena Jr. said his investigation showed that Flores' death was the "aftermath of a peaceful demonstration" against what he called "alleged acts of accelerated police brutality in the past month."

Pena, of San Antonio, investigated the violence as a private citizen.

"It is my opinion that the Pharr police provoked the riot," he said.

He said he understood Flores' death was being probed by state and local police, Texas Rangers and the FBI, but "as far as I could determine, not one of the eye witnesses to this tragedy has been talked to."

He said he has talked to U.S. Civil Rights Commission officials in Washington and will request a federal investigation of the incident, "if necessary."

Odessa To Host Remap Hassle

AUSTIN (AP) — Public hearings on redistricting of congressional and state representative districts will be held Feb. 26 in Houston and Odessa, Rep. Delwin Jones, House Redistricting Committee chairman, said Tuesday.

Program Slated Feb. 25 For Cotton Producers

LUBBOCK — A cotton program designed to give area producers information on the key items concerning the industry — that's what the fifth annual SPD (South Plains Development) Cotton Production Program has to offer.

The program will be held Feb. 25 in the Koko Palace here with registration beginning at 9:15 a.m., announced Billy C. Gunter, district agricultural agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and SPD coordinator.

Featured on the daylong program will be topics which are of interest to South Plains cotton producers, said Gunter. These include cotton markets, varieties, narrow-row cotton, new methods of handling seed cotton, new farm program, impact of agricultural policies and economics and cultural practices. A machinery display will feature narrow-row harvesters.

Highlighting the program will be a discussion on "A Billion Dollar Increase in Agricultural Income for Texas" by Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Extension Service. This discussion will deal with Extension's new program labeled "3.76 in '76" which is designed to increase agricultural income in the state by $1 billion by 1976. Donnell Echols, Lamesa, president of Plains Cotton

Expensive Juice

LONDON (AP) — The six-shilling (72-cent) bottle of grape juice Don O'Donoghue bought for his grandchildren was an expensive treat. The children drank half of it and O'Donoghue left the bottle on a living room shelf. Two months later the fermenting juice exploded, shattering a fish tank, killing 30 fish, spilling 100 pounds of gravel on the rug and flooding a downstairs neighbor out of bed with 35 gallons of water.

Burl Ives Sings Insurance Blues

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Burl Ives, saying he has been separated from his wife 15 years, has told a judge he should not have to continue paying premiums on a $335,000 life insurance policy which names her as beneficiary.

"It is beyond the bounds of common decency," the 52-year-old singer-actor said.

The Superior Court hearing was held pending trial of a divorce suit in which Helen Peck Ives, 54, seeks $3,400 monthly alimony from her husband of 26 years.

Lions Clubs Have Treated 10,000 Children To Camp

In less than 20 years the Lions Clubs of Texas have made it possible for over 10,000 handicapped children to have summer camping experience.

In addition, said Schley Riley in a talk to the Downtown Lions Club at the Settles Wednesday noon, they have had a hand in rehabilitating hundreds of blind adults.

Riley was one of the seven founding incorporators March 12, 1949, and therefore remains as a permanent director of the Texas Lions League for Crippled Children. He described the growth of the camp and its work at the beginning of the season for taking applications from parents for crippled (or otherwise handicapped) children to go to the camp just south of Kerrville.

The Lions Clubs of this area furnish transportation to and from the camp, which is free to the children.

From a slow start, the camp has grown to 16 buildings on a brow of a hill overlooking the Guadalupe River valley. Lions support it with a $3 per capita assessment for operation and maintenance, and capital improvements are provided from gifts by members and others. The Lions League Trust also is an instrument for endowing the project.

For every two children, there is one counselor, who bunks with the youngsters and stays with them for their entire two weeks in camp. Children swim, work at crafts, and have an outdoor camp experience.

"It is a place where you leave your cares at the foot of the hill; where personality blossoms; where children find friends," said Riley.

Instead of closing the camp at the end of the summer, the Lions League now provides facilities for the adult blind training school which develops skills in occupation, travel and communication.

Winston Winkle, president, announced that Harry C. Wisehart, Junction, district 2A-1 governor, will make his official visit to the club March 3.

HCJC Ads To Continue

Television station KWAB-TV has indicated a desire to live up to all terms of a contract it has with Howard County Junior College, Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, told the board Tuesday.

Acting on instructions from the board, which indicated it did not believe the station was living up to its lease agreement for HCJC land by failure to include mention of HCJC in its daily program, Dr. Hunt contacted the station management.

Terms of the lease agreement, negotiated originally Aug. 19, 1954, and then finally March 16, 1965, call for mention of HCJC three times daily over the station. This is in return for use of a 100-by-100-ft. space leased to the station for studios on the HCJC campus. In addition, the station promised to make public service programming available to the college.

KWAB-TV and KMOM-TV at Monahans have since combined and the management told Dr. Hunt it was unaware of the lease and would make every effort to live up to terms of the agreement. The HCJC mention will be over both stations daily, he was told.

Drylot Feeding Seen As Measure In Drouth Times

COLLEGE STATION — Drylot feeding of the cow herd is a possible solution to the problems created by drouth and cold weather, explains Dr. B. J. Ragsdale, Extension range specialist at Texas A&M University.

Confining cattle and feeding them silage rations with comparable energy levels as pastures can alleviate the nutrient deficiencies and lack of forages as well as the cattle losses that accompany drouth.

Less energy is required by confined animals and cattle weights can be maintained in drylots. Rations can vary, but it is necessary to maintain a minimum and energy level. Vitamins and minerals may not be necessary, although it is a good idea to include them for brief periods.

More feed and labor are required to maintain the cattle in drylots but the expenses are more than compensated for by the reduction in cattle disease and losses.

Water Inc. Meet Scheduled Friday

HEREFORD — Final preparations are under way for the fourth annual membership Meeting of Water, Inc., Friday in Hereford. More than 500 persons are expected to be on hand for the daylong meeting.

Keynote speaker will be Warren Fairchild, assistant commissioner, Bureau of Reclamation, Washington, D. C. Fairchild will discuss water resource planning and development in the Western States. Other speakers include Brig. Gen. Harold R. Parfitt, Dallas, Southwestern division engineer, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers; Calvin Watts, Shreveport, La., executive director of the Red River Valley Association; and Dr. Tinco van Hyckama, Texas Tech., research hydrologist, U.S.G.S., and professor of hydrology.

Trial, Error Her Teacher

By BARBARA LORD

"I had never cooked a meal in my life when I got married," Mrs. Jack Price said. "Jack went out and bought two T-bone steaks and was expecting a really good meal. I chicken-fried them, and it wasn't quite what he had in mind."

So began Mrs. Price's cooking career. Today, she has a roast beef meal for 700 and a turkey and dressing meal for 100 to her credit, in addition to the two meals a day she prepares for her family of six.

"We all eat a big breakfast and a big dinner," Mrs. Price said. "For lunch everyone is on their own. Mainly, we're a meat and potatoes family, but I could leave out the potatoes and no one would mind. Meat is a must at every meal."

"I've learned to cook over the years and enjoy it now, but I threw a bunch of things in the garbage in the process of learning."

"I still can't make anything you have to measure, so we don't eat many baked goods. Even a box cake won't turn out for me. Our desserts are mostly puddings or fruit salads. The applesauce fruit cake is the only cake I've ever made that turned out right."

The Prices operated a cafe in Big Spring for ten years, and although they are no longer in the business, they still do a lot of cooking for outside activities. The roast beef meal for 700 was fed to the people attending the Optimist Club's junior high school olympics one year.

"We had 325 pounds of beef in the house," Mrs. Price said. "After it was cooked, we stayed up all night slicing it. I'll bet we didn't eat a roast for a year after that." She also prepared a turkey and dressing lunch for 100 men at Cosden as a fundraising project for a local club.

"I just don't make anything I have to measure," said Mrs. Price. "I might glance at a recipe once in a while, but when I actually start making something I just sort of guess at amounts."

"I do own a cookbook, but you can hardly tell it's ever been opened. We all like things seasoned pretty heavy, so I usually add spices to what I make."

The Price home at 604 George shows many signs of Mrs. Price's interior decorating talent. The main living area is nicely furnished in a Mediterranean decor. The kitchen is large and neatly organized, and the den is comfortable and "homey."

"Our home is nothing fancy," Mrs. Price said, "but it's home and we like it. There's no end to furnishing and decorating a home. It never seems to be exactly what we want. I think it would be nice to be able to go out and buy everything we want all at once."

"We're re-doing the den now. Not really because we want to; we have to. That's the room we live in most, and the furniture is beginning to show it."

The three children all have rooms of their own. Jerry, 20, and Terry, 18, both have rooms bedecked with typically male furniture and ornamentation. Shirley, 12, has the perfect blending of colors in her room which makes it excellent for a young girl. Several stuffed animals add to the feminine appeal.

Also living with the Prices is his mother, Mrs. Hattie Price, who enjoys a room of her own on the opposite side of the home from the other bedrooms.

During their leisure time, the Prices like to fish, and try to get to Colorado City at least once a week. She also enjoys playing bridge.

"I used to play duplicate bridge, but everyone I played with kept getting better, and I didn't, so now I just play party bridge," she said.

Price is local agent for the San Angelo Standard Times and the Dallas Morning News. Mrs. Price assists him with collections several days a month. In addition, she is a member of the Opti-Mrs. Club and Alpha Chi Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha. She is past president of both organizations.

Mrs. Price is a native of Big Spring and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Simpson, 601 George. Price is originally from McKinney. They were married in 1948 and have lived here for 20 years.

MRS. JACK PRICE

RECOMMENDED RECIPES From The Files Of Mrs. Jack Price

COLA SALAD

1 pkg. lime gelatin
1 pkg. cream cheese
1 small can crushed pineapple
1 small bottle cola, warm
½ cup chopped nuts
1 cup hot water

Use 2 tbsps. hot water to soften cheese. Add remaining water to dissolve gelatin. Mix all ingredients together and pour into mold. Let set in refrigerator.

ITALIAN SPAGHETTI

2 lbs. ground beef
1 small onion, chopped
½ green bell pepper, chopped
2 tbsps. salad oil
½ tsp. black pepper
1 tsp. chili powder
½ tsp. tabasco sauce
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
½ tsp. each, garlic salt, barbecue seasoning, Accent and cumin
Dash red pepper
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 can condensed tomato soup
1 pkg. (8 oz.) long spaghetti
Brown onion, pepper and meat in hot oil. Add seasonings and simmer about 10 minutes.

Add soups. Cover and simmer about 30 minutes. Cook spaghetti and rinse with hot water. Arrange spaghetti on platter and pour sauce over it. Serves 8.

ICE CREAM

6 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1 small pkg. instant vanilla pudding/mix
1 can evaporated milk
1 can condensed milk
Milk to make one gallon
Beat eggs well. Add sugar, vanilla, evaporated milk, condensed milk and pudding mix. Beat one minute. Pour into freezer container and finish filling with milk. Freeze.

CHILI

(For 25)
12 lbs. chili meat
½ lb. chili blend
3 tbsps. salt
4 lbs. onions, chopped
2 cans condensed tomato soup
Put meat in electric roaster and cook at 400 degrees for about 30 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and reduce heat to 250 degrees. Cook for about 2½ hours. If too dry, water may be added. Serves 25.

HUSH PUPPIES

2 cups yellow corn meal
½ cup flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. garlic salt
1 small onion, chopped
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 egg
1 cup milk
Mix all ingredients. Drop from spoon into hot grease. Cook until golden brown.

APPLE SAUCE FRUIT CAKE

2 cups sugar
¾ cup margarine
2 eggs
3-¼ cups flour
2¼ cups sweet applesauce
3 tbsps. soda
1½ tbsps. allspice
1 tsp. salt
1½ tbsps. vanilla
¾ tsp. each, ground cloves, nutmeg and cinnamon
1 lb. mixed candied fruit
1 lb. chopped pecans
Blend sugar and margarine. Combine and add remaining ingredients and bake at 250 degrees for 1½ hours.

CORN BREAD SPECIAL

1½ cup yellow corn meal
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup milk
½ tsp. salt
½ cup bacon drippings
1 can cream-style corn
1 lge. onion, chopped
½ lb. grated cheese
4 jalapeno peppers, chopped (canned)
1 lb. ground beef

Combine corn meal, eggs, milk, salt, bacon drippings and corn. Set aside. Grease a large pan and sprinkle with a thin layer of corn meal. Brown lightly. Sprinkle evenly, one at a time, the cheese, meat, onion and peppers. Pour batter over the top, and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Use Corn Starch

To remove grease stains from a tablecloth, sprinkle corn starch liberally over the stain and roll up cloth until wash time. Just before laundering shake cornstarch from the cloth. It will have absorbed the grease.

Sandwich Ideas From Leftovers

Any leftover loaf may be used in sandwiches.

HAM-SAUSAGE LOAF WITH YAMS

1 pound ground cooked ham
1 pound pork sausage meat
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ tsp. salt
2 tbsps. dry mustard
1 egg
¾ cups firmly packed dark brown sugar
½ cup wine vinegar
6 to 8 medium yams (cooked, peeled and quartered)

Mix together the ham, sausage, crumbs, salt, ½ teaspoon of the mustard, the egg and apple juice; shape into a loaf in a preheated 350-degree oven for 55 minutes. Meanwhile mix together well the sugar, vinegar and remaining mustard. Drain off meat drippings. Arrange yams around loaf. Spoon sugar mixture over all. Bake 20 minutes, basting several times. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

PANTRY PICK-UPS

Beat currant jelly with a little orange juice; fry bananas in a little butter and pour the currant jelly mixture over them; heat. Serve as a delicious accompaniment to ham or pork.

Instant minced onion is a good addition to rice that is being baked. Serve the rice with meat or fish.

If you like to offer hearty servings of stew, count on a pound of boneless meat making two portions.

Cook rice in half water, half orange juice; top the cooked rice with grated orange rind and serve with roast duck.

Because the sides and rim around a dishwasher door are sealed off from the dishwashing action, these areas should be suction-cleaned from time to time to remove accumulated residue.

Iowa Coed Takes Title In Computer Judged Contest

A 20 year old coed from Iowa State University out maneuvered the computer with her entry in this year's Pillsbury Bake Off.

Claudia Lynn Stafford, an Arizona native, received $1,000 for her recipe, Beefed-Up Biscuit Casserole, judged the best consumer value of the final 100 recipes in the 1971 bake off.

To win, it was a battle of Claudia against the computer, as all recipes were screened for their nutritional balance of calories to recommended daily allowances on a per serving basis of the cooked food. The recipes were also evaluated for their cost per serving by the computer.

The final step was to match the balanced nutritional value and price value with the emphasis on cost per gram of protein due to its high nutritional content.

Claudia, a home economics student majoring in food and nutrition, loves to experiment and create new recipes. Beefed-Up Biscuit Casserole is a well-seasoned ground beef mixture, refrigerated buttermilk biscuits and topped with Monterey Jack or cheddar cheese.

It is put together in 15 minutes, bakes in 20 and comes from the oven looking golden and puffy. The total cost for this recipe, which makes 4 to 5 servings, is approximately $1.90.

Claudia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Stafford of Litchfield Park, Ariz. Her father is a crop consultant for local vegetable growers and her mother is a third grade teacher. She has two younger sisters who also enjoy creating new ideas in the kitchen.

This is the first contest Claudia entered and she plans to use her prize money for college expenses and travel. After receiving her bachelor's degree, she hopes to work for a year or two and then return to graduate school, specializing in research.

BEEFED-UP BISCUIT CASSEROLE

A layered, hearty ground beef and cheese main dish.

1 to 1 1/4 lbs. ground beef
1/2 cup chopped onion or 2 tbsps. instant minced onion
1/4 cup diced green chilies or green pepper
1 cup (8-oz. can) tomato sauce
2 tbsps. chili powder
1/2 to 3/4 tsp. garlic salt
1 can (8 oz.) refrigerated buttermilk or country style biscuits
1 1/2 cups shredded Monterey Jack or cheddar cheese
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1 egg, slightly beaten
Oven 375 degrees. 4 to 5 servings.
In large fry pan, brown ground beef, onion and chilies; drain. Stir in tomato sauce, chili powder and garlic salt. Simmer while preparing dough. Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits; pull each apart into 2 layers. Press 10 biscuit layers over bottom of ungreased 8 or 9-inch square baking pan. Combine 1/2 cup cheese (reserve remaining cheese for topping), sour cream and egg; mix well. Remove meat mixture from heat; stir in sour cream mixture; spoon over dough. Arrange remaining biscuit layers on top; sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes until biscuits are deep golden brown.

Tips: Reheat, loosely covered with foil, at 375 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes until heated through. To make ahead, prepare, cover and refrigerate up to 2 hours before baking. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes.

Adapt Chinese Egg Foo Young

An adaptation of a favorite egg dish from Chinese cuisine.

BIG EGG FOO YOUNG

5 large eggs
3/4 tsp. salt
1 cup diced cooked chicken
1 can (1 lb.) bean sprouts, well drained
1/2 of a 5-oz. can water chestnuts, drained and sliced thin
1/2 cup thinly sliced scallion (green onion), white and green parts
1/2 cup finely diced green pepper
1/4 cup salad (not olive) oil
In a medium mixing bowl, beat eggs and salt only enough to combine yolks and whites. Stir in chicken, bean sprouts, water chestnuts, scallion and green pepper. In a 10-inch skillet heat the oil over moderately low heat until it bubbles. Add egg mixture; spread vegetables evenly. Cover tightly and adjust heat so bottom is browned and top is set in about 15 minutes. Cut into 4 wedges; serve brown side up with Chinese Gravy. Makes 4 servings.

Chinese Gravy: In a small saucepan mix together 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar and 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate; gradually stir in 1 cup cold water, keeping smooth. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until clear and thickened. Stir in soy sauce to taste.

Strawberries Flavor Tapioca

The family will enjoy this variation of tapioca.

STRAWBERRY TAPIOCA CREAM

1 pint basket strawberries, hulled and sliced
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup quick-cooking tapioca
1/4 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. lemon juice
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
In a small bowl, mix the strawberries with 1/4 cup of the sugar and let stand at room temperature for about 1/2 hour; over a pint measure, drain strawberries and set aside. To strawberry juice add enough water to make 2 cups. In a 1-quart saucepan, stir together well the remaining 1/2 cup sugar, tapioca and salt; add the strawberry liquid. Over moderate heat, stirring constantly, bring to a full boil. Remove from heat; cool, stirring occasionally.

Fold in strawberries and lemon juice. Refrigerate until cold but not set; fold in whipped cream; turn into sherbet glasses or small dessert dishes. Chill until set. Makes 6 servings.

A Dessert Treat Everybody Enjoys

A New York hostess finds this hearty, easy-to-make dessert is popular with both men and women.

SOPHIE SILVER'S CRANBERRY PIE-CAKE

2 cups fresh cranberries
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup chopped (medium fine) walnuts
2 eggs
1/2 cup (quarter-pound stick) butter or margarine, melted
1/4 cup commercial sour cream
1 cup unsifted flour
Grease a 10-inch pie plate. Sprinkle cranberries, 1/2 cup of the sugar and the walnuts over the pie plate in that order. Beat eggs until yolks and whites are thoroughly combined; add remaining 1 cup sugar, butter, sour cream and flour; beat just until dry ingredients are moistened. Pour over ingredients in pie plate. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until brown on top — about 1 hour. Makes 8 servings.

Prices Effective Thurs., Fri., Sat. and Sun., Feb. 18, 19, 20 and 21, in Big Spring, Texas.

Karen Discovers 'Trash Is Cash'

NEW YORK (AP) — Karen Dumont, the 26-year-old executive director of Environmental Action Coalition of New York, was raised in Indiana and never thought much about pollution until she moved here in 1968.

"I don't know why I reacted more strongly to it than most people," said the soft-spoken red-haired executive of a $100,000 annual budget and such innovative projects as "Trash Is Cash," a program to recycle solid wastes.

PRETTY AVERAGE

"Actually, I think my concern was pretty average," she said. "I just started out assuming that I could do something, and that I could be effective. I thought I could make a difference."

By her own estimation, that's the only difference between her and most other people who would like a cleaner environment but fail to act.

A graduate of Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Karen knew little about urban problems and even less about ecology when she moved to New York in 1968 with her husband, a paleontologist with the Museum of Natural History.

In college, she said, "I worried about graduating, not about causes." Her major was English, followed by brief study toward a master's degree in medical literature research.

Karen was working as an administrative assistant for Vassar College last spring when, by chance, she attended an ecology conference at Barnard College here that led to formation of the coalition, a nongovernment group.

Teaming up with young lawyers and others—"I decided the time had come to stop complaining and do something"—Karen joined the coalition full time to help plan "Earth Day" last April.

'JUST GREAT'

"It was just great," she said of the coalition's coming-out. "We announced 'Earth Day' and thousands of people showed up on Fifth Avenue to buy buttons and listen to speeches."

"But it turned out we spent $12,000 and raised $2,000," she said. "So that's the way we started—with no money, a $10,000 deficit and a meeting to decide whether we should keep going."

The decision was affirmative and within eight months—in November—Karen was appointed executive director at $100 a week.

One of her major projects now is "Trash Is Cash," a coalition program launched last October to pay New Yorkers to turn in reusable bottles, papers and cans for recycling by industry.

Webb Management Class Completed By 39 Persons

Thirty-nine members of a management course for Air Force supervisors recently received certificates of completion for the 50-hour course which began Jan. 13 at Webb AFB.

Jack Teague, of the ground training branch, 3750th Air Base Group, Sheppard AFB, served as course instructor. Normally the course is offered twice each year at Webb and other bases throughout Air Training Command for personnel supervisors. The course fulfills supervisory training requirements.

Major subject areas included in the course, which is conducted in 17 three-hour conferences, are: the supervisor's job, how to improve the work situation, how to get the work out, how to train workers and how to work with people.

The 32 military and seven civilians who completed the course are: Capt. Frank P. Krovisky, James L. Parry, Robert L. Vining, and Robert B. McDonald Jr. and Lts. Lawrence E. Strawhorn, Donald H. Flores, Dale A. Cummins, Brian W. Reames, and John E. Snody.

Alcoholic Employees

NEW YORK (AP) — Over 300 corporations have started active programs whose practical aim in helping problem drinkers to recover is to save the skills and experience of valuable employees.

"That kind of penetration isn't even scratching the surface," according to Dr. Luther Cloud, president of the National Council on Alcoholism, sponsors of Alcoholism Information Month.

He points out that every 13th employee is an alcoholic and these people are estimated to cost American business over $6,000,000,000 yearly.

Dr. Cloud says that 90 per cent of the industry's problem drinkers range from age 30 to 55 and have been on their jobs for 12 to 20 years.

"Thousands of more firms starting active programs to aid problem drinkers would result in tremendous dividends to the companies, and save them millions," Dr. Cloud adds.

Wins Award

PARIS (AP) — "Claire's Knee," Eric Rohmer's film for Columbia Pictures, has won France's coveted Prix Louis Delluc Award as the Best Picture of the Year. The film was produced by Pierre Cottrell and stars Jean-Claude Brialy.

Eyes For Women

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both in our mid-forties. I have noticed lately that William has taken to thoroughly looking women over from head to toe. I am a bit jealous, somewhat embarrassed and more than a little annoyed when he does this. Also, he's making a fool of himself. Now that William wears bifocal eyeglasses, all that looking up and down has become conspicuous to everyone. I am all thumbs with words, and anything I would say to him would sound silly, so I have said nothing. Have you any suggestions?

HIS WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Simply say, "William, dear, your ogling has me to chew gum at all. He says I look like a teen-bopper or a gum-cracking suburban housewife without a brain in her head.

He says if I loved him I would give up the gum.

TIGHT JAWS
DEAR TIGHT: Apparently your gum-chewing isn't as inconspicuous as you say it is or your husband wouldn't complain so much. While I have nothing against inconspicuous gum-chewing, there are other breath-fresheners on the market which could provide the same confidence, and eliminate the fuss with your husband. Look around.

DEAR ABBY: About the person who has a friend who is a great talker:

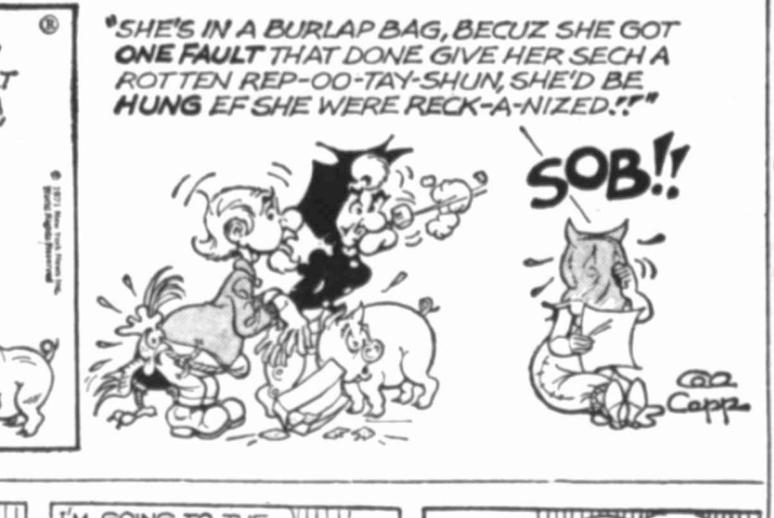

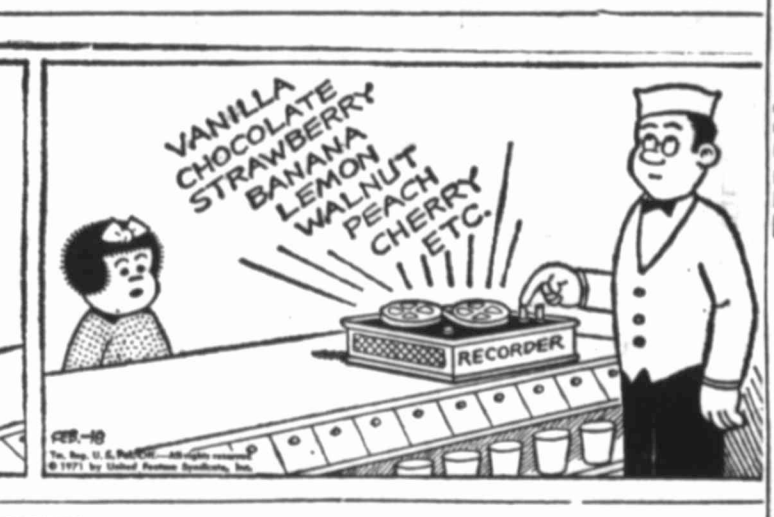

My friend for 40 years would put her friend to shame. However, I believe the good Lord put everything on earth for a purpose, so I put my talkative friend to good use. Last Thanksgiving I invited him over to entertain my wife's relatives who are not only champion non-stop talkers themselves, but champion freeloaders in the bargain. My friend took on the whole lot of 'em and his raucous voice was the only one that could be heard above any combination of sounds made by the relatives, including the screams of babies.

Then to top it off, I asked one of the relatives if he'd be good enough to give my friend a lift some 20 blocks on his way home. HERBIE IN N. Y.

Active Diabetics

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our 16-year-old son, who will graduate this year, has made the first string football team and wrestling team in his sophomore year on through, including this year.

We now find he has diabetes. He is being treated with insulin and diet to regulate his sugar.

Question: Is it wise for him to still participate in these sports? It is his life, love, or whatever you want to term it.

His plans are to coach at high school. I've been told it is foolish to let him, but the doctor says it is good. — N.N.

I agree with your doctor — and I've treated a good many cases of diabetes myself. Many prominent athletes have had diabetes and were able to Exercise tends to lower the blood-sugar level. The greatest problem your son faces, therefore, is the matter of hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) at times. Or to use the more common term for it in a case like this, an insulin reaction if he uses up too much sugar at times with the exercise.

Undoubtedly his doctor has been instructing him how to cope with this — by appropriate food intake before a game or practice session, and proper regulation of his insulin dose on the day of such activity.

It takes good judgment plus some experience to learn to estimate the proper quantity for a given amount of strenuous exercise, but it has been done by others, and your son can do it.

I'm sure his doctor also has pointed out that it is wise, at such times, to have available some quickly-absorbable sugar to be taken in case signs of an insulin reaction start to appear. Many diabetics, athletes or not, readily learn about this. Some hard candy, sweetened orange juice, or sweet syrup are among the things commonly used for it.

There is a glucose preparation called "Instant Glucose." It is a gelatinous material — dispensed in a pliable tube. This is a handy way to have sugar available. Tubes are three for $1.00, obtainable from the Cleveland Diabetes Association and some other local diabetes associations. Each tube contains 25 gm of glucose. The tube can be carried in a pocket or kept available at the bench.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the value of horseradish? Can it be eaten to excess? — R.

There's precious little food value in it — the principal value is in the minerals, and these same minerals will be present in plenty of other vegetables you eat. (It contains no vitamins, and the calorie value is trifling.)

The horseradish roots contain certain volatile oils and other irritating ingredients, which is what makes it give zing to our food.

The irritant quality diminishes rapidly when horseradish is exposed to light or air — but when the stuff is fresh, it is so strong that, for example, people grinding the root notice skin and eye irritation.

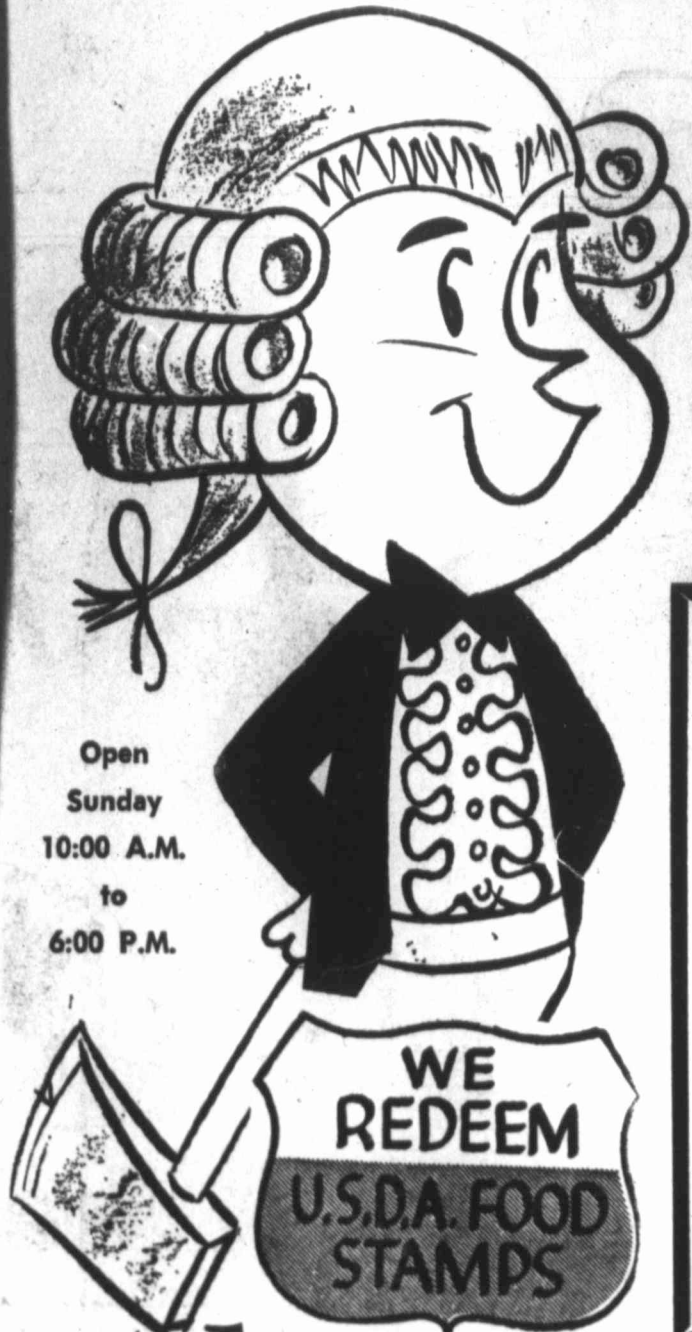

In excess quantities it may cause stomach irritation. So I guess my answer is this: use it in small amounts for flavoring, but if you have any stomach disorders, better avoid it.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Labor Chiefs Due Briefing On Wage-Price Pressures

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon sent his labor secretary here today to talk to increasingly resentful labor leaders about his plans to curb inflationary wage-price pressures on the nation's economy. The assignment of Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson was to continue efforts to work out a system of wage-price restraints with AFL-CIO construction unions. But a major union leader also expressed concern about rumors of more general White House economic controls.

"Controls of any kind I would oppose," said United Steelworkers President I. W. Abel, whose union is demanding large wage increases this year for 750,000 workers in the steel, copper, aluminum and can industries. Abel said his union wants the freedom to negotiate catch-up wage and cost-of-living agreements without White House interference. Nixon aides have hinted at the possibility of a construction wage-price freeze. The President extended his own 30-day deadline for working out a voluntary plan when he decided to send Hodgson here for further talks.

Nixon said in Washington Wednesday night Hodgson made the trip with the aim of halting an upward spiral in construction industry wages and prices.

THERE'S ACTION

If a voluntary agreement cannot be worked out," Nixon said, "there will be action."

The 17 AFL-CIO building and construction trade unions have refused so far to offer any voluntary wage restraints. Nixon's original deadline expired Wednesday.

Union sources said Hodgson would try to bargain for the cooperation of the construction unions in some plan short of a wage-price freeze. The plan reportedly could involve a White House offer to shift federal construction money in such a way as to create more jobs in exchange for cooperation to ease industry costs.

The unions, in turn, reportedly will cite a newly signed agreement with the construction industry designed to halt costly jurisdictional strikes and streamline work rules for greater production at their contribution to easing costs.

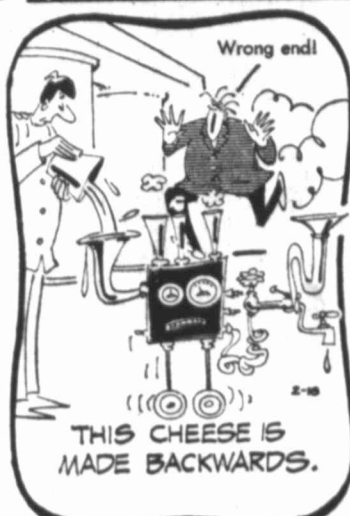

Hodgson won't talk formally with the AFL-CIO Executive Council until Friday, and with the building and construction trades leaders Saturday.

Steelworkers figure they have lost more than 16 per cent in purchasing power since signing their last contracts three years ago.

Stans Says Trust 'Totally Blind'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans says a blind trust he set up before joining the Cabinet has been "totally blind" although he has received information from companies whose securities are in the account.

Stans also declared in a six-page statement Wednesday that he fully disclosed all his financial holdings in a report to the Senate Commerce Committee Jan. 13, 1969, a few days before he was confirmed.

The secretary issued the statement three days after disclosure that he held 38,000 shares of Great Southwest Corp., a major Penn Central railroad subsidiary, in June, 1970, when the administration was planning to save the railroad from bankruptcy with $200 million in federal loan guarantees.

Stans said in his statement that he had disqualified himself from any role in the Penn Central negotiations. The administration later abandoned the planned loan as politically risky.

NOT SPECIFIC

Stans did not list any specific holdings in Great Southwest in his financial statement to the Senate committee. But he did refer to an "undivided interest . . . of indeterminate value" in two partnerships, Staats & Co. and Glore Forgan Staats & Co. Glore Forgan was the Penn Central's investment adviser for most of the past decade.

In his statement Wednesday, Stans said the partnerships did not own any Great Southwest stock when he was confirmed but did have options on the stock of Macco Development Corp., another Pennsy subsidiary later merged with Great Southwest.

The Macco options were traded for Great Southwest shares when the two companies merged in March, 1969, Stans said, and the Great Southwest stock was divided up and assigned to Glore Forgan partners in June.

The House Banking and Currency Committee in a staff report on the Penn Central failure issued over the weekend listed Stans along with several other partners and officers of Glore Forgan as holding 38,000 shares in Great Southwest.

INFORMATION PLEASE
Although the report did not otherwise mention Stans, it contained the following statement: "The exact date on which these shares were acquired were not available. However, a substantial portion of these shares (275,000) according to minutes of a Dec. 6, 1963, GSC board of directors meeting, were acquired in 1963."

A current officer of Glore Forgan and two former partners said last week that they were aware of their exact Great Southwest holdings "for some time" — at least earlier than 1969.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., who has called for the Commerce Committee to hold hearings on Stans' matter, said he did not think the secretary's explanation was sufficient.

Hartke said Stans still needed to clarify three things: Whether there was concealment of Penn Central subsidiary at the time of the confirmation hearings; whether the blind trust was really blind; and whether Stans or an agent of Stans participated in the application for the $200 million loan.

Rape, Rob Secretary To Teddy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secretary to Sen. Edward (Teddy) Kennedy was raped and robbed Wednesday afternoon after she had been abducted less than three blocks from the Capitol, police reported.

The woman, 36, told officers she had just left the new Senate office building and was entering her car when a man asked directions to the Capitol.

The thug drew a pistol and pushed her into the car after she pointed out the building. He then drove to a nearby alley where he searched her purse and took $22, she reported.

The man then drove to a vacant garage in an alley and raped her, the woman told police. He fled on foot.

Police said the woman later was examined by her own physician.

Kiwanians Gather Many Ingredients

It will take 300 pounds of bacon, 300 pounds of flour, 200 gallons of milk, 60 dozen eggs and uncounted cups of coffee to feed the 1,500 people expected at the annual Kiwanis pancake supper.

At least 60 persons are involved in running the pancake supper. From two co-chairmen, H. E. Clay and Ernest Welch, on down a list which includes 12 pancake cooks and 10 bacon cooks, Kiwanis members have turned out to help make the annual pancake supper a success.

Cooking the main course — pancakes — will be Sherman Smith, Herman Smith, Bob Bradbury, Wendal Parks, Roscoe Newell, Jack Alexander, Bob Crowell, Jack Worsham, Jim Bean, Clyde Hollingsworth, Don Lovelady, and S. A. Walker.

Trying to keep the bacon from curling will be Henry Thames,

Ken Taylor, Robert Piatkowski, Ben Bancroft, W. A. (Dub) Moore, J. D. Nelson, Joseph Saint, Ira Bigham, Wayman Cooper and Gene Adkins.

Entertainment will be organ music provided by Clyde Green of the White Music Company.

"All the pancakes, bacon, coffee and milk anyone can eat or drink will be provided for $1 a person," Welch said.

Tickets are available from Kiwanis members and at the door of the Dora Roberts Student Union Building cafeteria at Howard County Junior College.

Native Trees

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The University of Kentucky College of Agriculture says only one of five Christmas trees purchased is grown in this state, and that every type of evergreen is feasible as a native product.
