Ford Proposes Tough Measures

Legislators Considering Leadership

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The 64th Texas Legislature, burdened with more problems and blessed with more money than any session in recent history, opened at noon today with a flurry of controversy in both the House and Senate.

Rep. Bill Clayton, D-Springlake, a water-oriented West Texan, was expected to settle the immediate House dissension by easily winning election as speaker over token challenger Rep. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur. Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby promised to put an equally quick end to a move by Senate liberals for the ouster of longtime State Affairs Committee Chairman Sen. William T. Moore, D-Bryan. Hobby said he would announce his committee choices by the end of the day.

But the divisions caused in each House by the speaker race and the move to remove Moore from the chairmanship he has held the past eight years were likely to continue throughout the session, which ends at midnight June 2.

Families of members and spectators packed the newly remodeled House chamber to watch opening ceremonies and Clayton's expected election.

It's been one of the most bitterly contested speaker races in recent history, Clayton said. "Some people are pledged to Carl and they want to honor that pledge. They couldn't do it if he wasn't nominated."

The legislators go into the session with what appears on paper to be a $1 billion budget surplus. But proposed spending by the Legislative Budget Board will wipe out most of that surplus, and the proposed new budget doesn't include a dime for the session's most expensive issue — a revision of the public school finance system.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who will go before the legislature Jan. 22 to present his program, said the school finance plan he will propose will cost the state $1 billion during the next two years.

He also is asking for an $80 million emergency appropriation to help bail out financially troubled school districts immediately, and is also expected to suggest an emergency pay raise for state employees.

Long Attending Institute Board Meeting Today

Dr. Dan F. Long, superintendent of Pampa Independent School District, is attending the meeting of the board of governors of the American Institute for Character Education in San Antonio today.

Dr. Long has worked closely with the nonprofit public foundation since it began developing programs of character education in 1967. At that time educators and laymen recognized there was not among all the educational forces in the free world an agency concerned with teaching character education.

Numerous individuals and foundations have contributed several million dollars to the important educational program. A major contributor is the Eli Lilly Endowment of Indianapolis, Ind.

In excess of 5,000 teachers have received institute and inservice training. More than 20 textbooks for kindergarten and elementary levels have been published. Approximately 3 million children and 150,000 teachers have received the AICE notebook inserts and manuals.

The board of governors is made up of persons from business and education from throughout the United States.

AS CITY-WIDE PROJECT

Commissioners Discuss Senior Citizens Center

A community-wide project to establish a permanent Senior Center for citizens 55 years of age and over in Pampa was given added impetus by members of the Altrusa Club at this forenoon's meeting of the Pampa City Commission.

Mrs. Bill Tidwell, Altrusa president, told city commissioners the club has been providing weekly meetings for Pampa elderly persons for some time but it is hoped now to attract enough community interest to set up facilities for more than just the 70 or 80 persons who can be accommodated in the present Lovett Memorial Library quarters.

Mrs. M. Q. Wilson, chairman of the club's Senior Center Committee, said Altrusa wants to make the project community-wide, not just a one-club sponsorship.

She said it is hoped to establish a center where elderly persons can go daily at least five days a week.

"We need a large place in which to meet," she said, "and plans are in the making to have it operated by a board of directors."

Hopefully, Mrs. Wilson stated, a Senior Center director could be employed with a minimum salary and maximum desire to be of service to Pampa's senior citizens.

Other members of the Senior Center Committee at today's meeting included Mrs. C. L. Sullins, immediate past president of Altrusa; Mrs. Glyndene Shelton and Mrs. W. R. Dunn.

Mayor R. D. Wilkerson told the Altrusa Club president and committee members the City Commission will give all possible cooperation in assisting the club to establish a full-time senior center.

In connection with the movement to make the project city-wide, a meeting has been set for 2 p.m. Saturday in Lovett Memorial Library to be attended by representatives of various social service groups and others to further discuss needs of services of Pampa and Gray County senior citizens.

Mike McQueen of Gov. Dolph Briscoe's Committee on the Aging will moderate the meeting, which is jointly sponsored by the Altrusa Senior Center, City of Pampa and the Salvation Army.

Starting next Monday the Salvation Army will sponsor a weekly luncheon from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. for citizens 55 and older.

Cost of the lunch will be charged on a sliding scale downward depending to ability to pay according to Capt. Bart Deggs of the Salvation Army.

until the next election.

Carmichael was elected to serve through April, 1976.

Voters will mark four spots on the ballot. In the event a candidate does not receive a majority of the vote, the top two candidates in each position will be pitted in a run-off election not more than thirty days following the initial balloting. The run-off provision is in effect for each position under the new code.

Under the old system, adopted in 1917, the candidates obtaining the most votes were named to the board. Board members said the method, though used in small districts and in compliance with the law, afforded candidates a "one-shot" opportunity for being seated.

Arguments against the old method summed up the board's feeling the method was in favor of special interests groups and called on records which indicate instances in which a candidate had been elected by less than one-third of voter support simply by being listed on the ballot.

In final discussion the board agreed the run-off provision would insure majority rule in selection trustees.

In other action, the board heard a report from Don Lane, delinquent tax attorney. The board authorized Lane to proceed with necessary measures to attempt collecting of over $400,000 in delinquent taxes listed by the school roll.

Lane told the board notices were being sent to taxpayers within the district and further measures of collection were, in his opinion, in order. Lane said other methods of collection or returning abandoned properties to the tax roll should be considered.

The board accepted a philosophy and set of objectives prepared by a district-wide committee of citizens and teachers

By GENE CARLSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scrapping much of his go-easy economic program, President Ford will seek tough new antirecession measures: a 12 per cent rebate on 1974 personal income taxes, import barriers that will lead to higher gasoline prices and a lid on most federal spending.

"We are in trouble," the President told a national television audience Monday in a speech from the White House Library that previewed Wednesday's State of the Union message. Ford said the country is not on the brink of a 1930-style depression. He indicated WIN buttons are no longer enough and said the government must take strong measures to counter unemployment and recession as well as inflation. Among them:

— A 12 per cent rebate on last year's federal income taxes, up to $1,000 per tax return, that would release $12 billion of potential purchasing power to consumers. An average family of four earning $12,000 in 1974 and paying $1,228 in taxes would get $147.36 in two equal payments in May and September.

— A $4 billion investment tax incentives for business.

— A $30 billion increase in energy taxes and tariffs designed to make Americans cut down on the use of gasoline and fuel oil. This will likely mean a sudden price hike of about 7 cents a gallon in retail gasoline with even higher prices to come.

— A one-year moratorium on new federal spending programs and a clear threat to veto any new money measures passed by Congress.

— A temporary 5 per cent ceiling on federal pay increases and a similar lid on automatic boosts in Social Security benefits and government and military retirement.

Ford said he would use his emergency powers to raise the tariff, or import fee, on petroleum by $3 a barrel within 90 days. The idea is to encourage conservation and development of alternative sources of energy to high-priced Middle East crude oil.

Most of the program will require Congress' approval, and early reaction showed Ford's desire to give even wealthy taxpayers a slice of the 1974 rebate was in for tough sledding.

Any credit for 1974 taxes would have to be given to the low and moderate income group to be acceptable to Congress in my judgment."

Congress Convenes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Promising to beat the recession and better reflect the public mood, the 94th Congress opened today with a large Democratic majority already competing with President Ford over who will claim responsibility for an anticipated tax cut.

The galleries were filled with relatives, friends and campaign workers of the new senators and congressmen when Speaker Carl Albert lowered the gavel in the House and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller began presiding for the first time in the Senate.

The entire first day was to be consumed by the seating and swearing-in of the members — an often mundane process which was transformed this year by a serious dispute which the Senate must deal with today between Republican Louis Wyman or Democrat John Durkin for the seat from New Hampshire.

Before attending the usual parties and receptions, the senators were expected to vote on whether to seat either man or to ask both of them to step aside to await a full investigation.

The new Senate rollcall tally sheet, expected to be used for the first time to settle the issue, was considered a collectors item because it listed only 99 names.

Condemnation Plan Receives Approval

City commissioners today authorized City Atty. Bob Gordon to proceed with condemnation of certain properties required for right-of-way in the proposed improvement of S. Cuyler St.

The unanimous approval was given at the request of City Manager Mack Wofford, who informed commissioners 19 parcels of land still are needed in order to widen and pave the street from Brown St. to the S. Cuyler underpass.

Nine property owners involved in the contemplated court proceedings have turned down appraisal offers made for the ten-foot strips of property needed. Wofford said.

Commissioners received a detailed audit report of city books for the fiscal year ending last Sept. 30 from Nienstiel and Doggett, local auditors.

Commissioners were asked by City Manager Wofford to study the report between now and the next commission meeting, at which time a representative of the auditing firm will be present to answer questions.

In other business today: Commissioners approved on second and final reading an ordinance changing zoning regulations from agricultural to single-family dwellings in portions of Meadow Lark Hills and Mesilla Park Additions and Suburbs 167 Tract X from agricultural to retail.

An easement across property owned by Dr. M. C. Overton Jr. on E. 23rd St. was accepted to permit construction of a snow fence.

Routine salary changes for December were approved and December bills in the amount of $128,566 were okayed for payment.

A resolution acknowledging the contribution made to Pampa by Police Chief James B. Conner, who died Jan. 1, was adopted by the commission.

The resolution was read by Mayor Wilkerson and presented to Mrs. Willene Conner, the police chief's widow.

VOTING AT LARGE

Board Okays Election Methods

By ALETHA DAVIS
Pampa Independent School District voters will vote for four candidates in the April 5 election by the place — voting at large method with a run-off election provision for candidates receiving less than a simple majority, 50 percent.

The board of trustees, in action Monday night, voted to change the mechanics of trustee elections to the place — voting at large method in a unanimous decision following a discussion which dominated a major portion of the session which lasted over three hours.

All trustees presented points covering areas of the proposed change in the voting system, and answered questions directed from patrons attending the meeting.

Place voting at large is pursuant to Art. 277a-1, TRCS and Sec. 23.11 of the Texas Education Code.

Dr. Dan Long, in presenting the resolution during the board meeting, pointed out the fact 80 percent of the voters in the state reside in 20 percent of the school districts.

The remainder of the voters are disbursed throughout the remaining districts, approximately 1100. Larger districts in the state have already moved to the place voting method, Dr. Long said, due to the logic involved.

Voters in April will be selection members for two slots opened by voter referendum in 1974, calling for a seven-member board.

In addition, voters will elect trustees for position one, currently held by Paul Simmons, president; and position four, held by Harold Comer. Comer was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Bob Carmichael.

The April election will list position four as an unexpired term. State statute calls for an appointed trustee to serve team with school administration.

Dr. Long asked the board to record his sincere thanks to the group, which has worked several months in preparation of the guideline which sets forth objectives of the school's responsibility to the students and sets a guide by which to evaluate the execution of the philosophy.

The trustees also unanimously voted to authorize the superintendent to enter into contract for services with the Pampa Satellite School of the Amarillo State Center of Human Development.

Texas Education Agency has funded such programs for handicapped students requiring special services. The authorization will permit these students to obtain benefits otherwise unavailable, according to Mrs. Doris Friend.

supervisor of special education here.

In executive session prior to the meeting, trustees agreed to extend the superintendent's contract for one year and to bring the contract of James Trusty, assistant superintendent, into parallel with that of the superintendent, effective until Aug. 1978.

Mrs. Rena Belle Anderson, Gray County superintendent, extended a formal vote of appreciation to the board and administration at the close of the meeting.

Dr. Long and Trusty voiced appreciation for the board's endeavors, and thanked the community for support.

Massive Tax Waste

This newspaper has commented from time to time on some of the waste in which vested interest bureaucrats waste your hard-earned tax dollars. However, a recent study of federal spending made by the Los Angeles Times uncovered some bonndoggles that were new to us.

A story on the study by reporter Robert A. Rosenblatt ran in the Denver Post. Entitled "Bureaucracy Breeds Massive Waste of Public Money," the story took up nearly an entire page. Here are some of the more juicy items turned up by the Los Angeles Times:

- $205 million for jet fighter — bombers the Air Force doesn't want
- $45 million for a Selective Service System that doesn't draft anyone
- $92 million for a hospital system established in 1798 for victims of the plague and other exotic diseases
- $296 million for aid to rich school districts
- $300 million in farm subsidies and payments at a time when agricultural income was near record levels
- $189 million to build hospitals although existing institutions have a 28 percent vacancy rate
- $501 million in subsidies to the maritime industry which cannot support itself after 38 years of Government aid
- $571,000 last year alone on airplane tickets for AMTRAK officials (the federal government agency which operates passenger trains). The AMTRAK trains, so the officials said, were too slow
- $2 million a year rent for a building designed especially for the Customs Bureau Result: Eleven of the building's 15 floors are still vacant because the Customs Bureau decided to move elsewhere. Walls are now being ripped out at further taxpayer expense to fit the building for other federal agencies
- $8.6 million a year spent on press releases, tours, speeches, photographs, radio and television programs, movies and exhibits to advertise and promote just one federal agency — the National Aeronautics and Space Administration
- All at a time, mind you, when you are being told by that same government that YOU must conserve and economize in order to slow inflation

Dear Abby

Forty winks on the Ten Commandments?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful idea, but I need your help. We should go back to God's laws, so I thought up the idea of having the Ten Commandments printed on bed sheets and pillow cases.

If all the people who are shopping were to see "Thou shalt not steal" printed on their bed sheets every night, they would quit stealing.

Also, people need to be reminded that it is a sin to kill, and to commit adultery, and to covet another man's wife. They forget that it is God's law to honor their mothers and fathers, and to remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy. If we had the Ten Commandments printed on bed sheets and pillow cases, it could change the world.

I wrote to two manufacturers of bed linen, and even sent them a sample sheet that I made up myself, and they both turned me down flat.

What do you think of my idea?

GREAT IDEA IN WASHINGTON

DEAR GREAT: Send me a sample, and I'll sleep on it.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it considered the wife's responsibility to take care of all the social obligations? SHE has to acknowledge all the gifts with thank-you notes. And if she doesn't do it, THEY don't have bad manners. SHE does.

SHE is expected to remember all the birthdays, weddings, anniversaries, graduations, etc. on both sides of the family. She also has to do all the Christmas shopping for her family and his.

The fact that the husband "works" supposedly excuses him from all other obligations — even buying a birthday card for his own mother. Today many wives are also working full-time outside the home, but this isn't an acceptable excuse for them.

If you can explain this to me, Abby, you are a genius. A WOMAN, NATURALLY.

DEAR WOMAN: I'm no genius, but I'll try. The notion that all the social obligations should be handled by the wife is a carry-over from the days when the wife stayed home and took care of the kids, the kitchen, the correspondence and the Christmas list.

Today, when so many women contribute financially to the support of the family, I think their husbands should assume their fair share of the social obligations.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, a friend of mine came to me for financial help. He had gotten a girl in trouble (he was a family man) and needed $500 for an abortion.

I gave him the cash. When he got his next paycheck he gave me $50 toward the debt. Then he had some more hard luck. One of his teen-aged kids was in a car accident and had to spend five months in a hospital. The bills were unbelievable, so he couldn't pay anything on what he owed me.

Then my friend got sick, had surgery, and he was terminal. Thank God he went fast.

I don't know why, but I told my wife this man owed me $450, but I never told her what for. Now she's after me to collect the debt from his widow, who got some good insurance benefits.

I had no note, but my word would be good with his widow. But what if she asks me what it was for?

EL CENTRO

DEAR EL: I don't know what your financial situation is, but unless you are desperate for the $450, forget it, and charge it to friendship.

BIG CHIEF'S MEDICINE BAG

AND VICE VERSA

Labor Is Waiting for Rocky

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON — After long, back-and-forth conversations with men of knowledge and power inside labor, I've come away with the definitive understanding that they're waiting for Rocky. And vice versa.

One of the most sagacious of all in labor's high command sees the appointment of the movement's house intellectual — Lane Kirkland, AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer, to the eight-man commission of inquiry into the Central Intelligence Agency as the first significant sign of the labor-Rockefeller interlock.

There will be more of the same. This is basic politics for Vice President Rockefeller. In all his strategy he reserves a place for labor. Virtually no moves of consequence are made without the interlock.

Those who were in on the selection of Lane report that the play went from Rockefeller to Jerry Ford to labor chief George Meany to Kirkland. The Vice President strongly suggested that labor be represented on the CIA probing board. Mr. Ford agreed. The President then telephoned Meany. The latter chose Kirkland, his laconic 52-year-old protégé of whom he is extremely fond.

Mistake it not. Kirkland is more than Meany's deputy. He is an incisive analyst and a razor in labor — he writes his own speeches. He loathed Dick Nixon. He is a liberal Democrat, though like Meany, he hangs loose and works for the candidate.

I doubt Kirkland and Meany would have accepted the invitation to sit on the inquiry commission if it were not understood that it was actually Rockefeller's invitation. There would have been no question of any public rebuke to a President of the U.S. had Meany rejected the bid. Who would have known of it? The Ford-Meany conversation was private. Meany has a positively frustrating policy of never revealing details of any discussion with any American president.

And placing a labor leader on a committee investigating the CIA is sort of reaching. But that's the Rockefeller psyche. It's automatic. It's much like the reaction to any political problem or posture by Sens. Hubert Humphrey or Scoop Jackson. Note please that shortly after the Vice President swung into action, his once-upon-a-time personal choice for Secretary of Labor, his intimate friend and house guest Pete Brennan, was told to go — politely, warmly but firmly. Meany has never recognized Brennan as Secretary of Labor. As far as the labor chief is concerned, the Cabinet post has been vacant. Pete will be taken care of — and Meany will be placated.

Intriguingly, this immediately raises the question of Secretary of State Kissinger, another Rockefeller protégé. Meany dislikes him. So do others in labor's high command. Especially the maritime leaders. Kissinger was one of the most persuasive forces which successfully pressured Mr. Ford into vetoing the oil carrier bill which would have required 30 percent of the fuel imported into the U.S. to be shipped in American bottoms.

Labor had fought intensely and skillfully for this bill for three years. By vetoing it, Jerry Ford has cut himself off from some of the less influential friends he has had inside labor. Now this battle for a similar bill begins all over again. Add now to this the signing of the pro-Soviet foreign trade bill, which labor had opposed.

The White House had invited Meany, Kirkland, Longshoremen's leader Teddy Gleason, electrical workers' president Charles Pillard and others to the ceremony last week. They snubbed the invitation. Glenn Watts, president of the communications workers of all the national labor chiefs invited, did come.

The trade act is Kissinger's masterpiece. After this, so far as labor is concerned, he can become a journeyman. Leave Go away. Meany has accused him in a rare front-page AFL-CIO News editorial, of deceiving the American people. It will be fascinating to see if Kissinger follows Brennan out of the Cabinet.

This makes sense to Rockefeller watchers. He is building a national machine. Rocky thinks he can compete with any Democrat in winning over any part of the trade union movement. Says one unusually well-informed union chief: "And he has successfully in New York. The movement has played a very vital part in his career. He regards it as a necessity. He can't discount a lifetime practice. He's shooting for the big apple. Look for more of this kind of thing."

No one believes he's trying to surround Jerry Ford. Some labor chiefs, however, are convinced Mr. Ford won't run for election. If not, Rockefeller will have his chance for the "big apple."

If Ford runs, the Vice President will simply wait another four years. That's how he's geared. He sees older men in recent history — and in today's living newspaper — who had or still have power though considerably older than he is now or even will be in 1980.

There is, for example, George Meany. And there is the 63-year-old Teamsters chief Frank Fitzsimmons who views Rocky as a political ally. So the national machine is being welded amid flaring signals that the labor leadership will have part of the action. That's why most of it is waiting for Rocky. (All Rights Reserved)

U.S. to Give Up Panama Canal

By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 — The U.S. will give up control of the Panama Canal in five years.

Also, U.S. military forces will be withdrawn from the strategic waterway at a date still to be fixed — the U.S. is proposing the year 2000; and the annual $2.3 million "rental" to the Panama Republic will be greatly increased — Gen. Omar Torrijos, leftist dictator, is demanding $35 million.

Those are the key provisions of a draft treaty nearing completion in the year-long negotiations between Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Panamanian Foreign Minister Juan Tack. The closely guarded deliberations are based on an eight-point "agreement in principle" signed by Secretary Kissinger and Tack in Panama last February.

Inside word is the Bunker-Tack pact will be submitted to Congress for ratification by spring.

But it's already vigorously under fire in both the Senate and House.

More than one-third of the Senate have signed a declaration flatly opposing "surrender of U.S. sovereignty" over the Canal, and clearly indicating determination to wage a last-ditch fight to block that.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, S.C., ranking Republican member of the Armed Services Committee, is making no secret of intention to filibuster such a treaty.

In the House, Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., Appropriations subcommittee chairman and foremost opponent of any change in U.S. authority over the Canal, is irately denouncing the secrecy-cloaked negotiations as "illegal" and "unapproved."

What They're Saying In Flood's opinion, these "secret diplomatic maneuvers" are unconstitutional.

They were undertaken, he maintains, "without the authorization of Congress, which is the agency of the U.S. government vested by the Constitution with the power to dispose of territory and other property of the U.S. Also, they are a grave threat to hemispheric security and inter-oceanic commerce that must be unsparingly resisted and blocked."

Sen. Thurmond listed three reasons for challenging an agreement with the Torrijos-Tack regime.

(1) Its underlying basic Marxist character. (2) its close ties with Cuba's Communist dictator Fidel Castro and Chile's late leftist President Allende. (3) it was not elected but seized power by military force.

This background forcefully demonstrates the futility of attempting to negotiate a treaty concerning the future of the Panama Canal with a revolutionary government that is openly under Communist influence, said Thurmond.

The way to preserve the common interests of the people of the U.S. and the people of Panama is to refrain from negotiating a treaty with a government that bears no authority from the people.

Until the Panamanian people solve their own internal problems, the U.S. should withdraw from active support and negotiation with a regime that more and more opposes the common good of both nations.

What It Has Cost Rep. Flood, in a special report, states the U.S. has a total investment of $6.880 billion in the Panama Canal. His authoritative figures were provided by Army Secretary Howard Callaway. Of the huge expenditure $5.312 billion went for the defense of the crucial waterway, and $1.568 billion for "Canal enterprises." In revealing these little-known financial details, the powerful legislator stressed two points:

"If converted into 1974 dollars, this amount would be many times greater"; and, "The very idea of surrendering this stupendous investment to a tiny, weak and unstable country like Panama is an atrocious assault on U.S. taxpayers who have borne the costs of the Canal's construction, maintenance, operation and defense."

Flood also noted that as a result of this country's immense investment in Panama, "It has the highest per capita income in all Central America. Significant also is the fact that about one-third of the population of Panama lives within proximity of the Canal Zone, attracted there by the endless opportunities for employment."

What'd He Mean? Wholly unreported in the U.S. is a covertly threatening statement made by strongman Torrijos while attending the recent meeting of Central American heads of state in Venezuela.

In effect, the iron-handed dictator implied that unless the U.S. gives up control of the Canal through negotiation, force might be used.

This warning was voiced in a session with local newsmen, one of whom asked Torrijos about the prospects of an agreement being reached in the Bunker-Tack deliberations.

Following is the Panamanian dictator's reply as quoted in a Caracas paper:

"This problem will be solved soon, either through these talks or by other means — if that is necessary."

Asked what he meant by that, Torrijos changed the subject.

It is our hope, he is reported to have said, "that we will conclude an arrangement to completely dismantle the colonialist (U.S.) enclave in Panama. We have been quite aggressive in seeking to recover this territory and the peoples of the American continent and their rulers have supported us."

Asked whether "compensation" would be paid to the U.S. when the Canal reverts to Panama, Torrijos retorted, "Who is paying them for occupying it? The Panamanian people are more urgently interested in gaining sovereignty and eliminating a foreign flag and troops than in the economic aspect. That has not yet been discussed."

Torrijos, as commander of Panama's 6,000-man National Guard, seized power in a coup in 1968, a few weeks after elected President Arias took office. Torrijos' closest henchmen are Foreign Minister Tack, UN Ambassador Aquilino Boyd, and Finance Minister Jose Guillermo Aizpuz.

The trio is virulently anti-U.S. and pro-Soviet. Boyd consistently votes against the U.S. in the UN, and with the other two is on close terms with Castro.

They make no bones about intention to establish a "Socialist state" once Panama gains full control over both the Canal and the Canal Zone. Their unmistakable aim is to expropriate and nationalize all U.S. and other foreign holdings and interests. (All Rights Reserved)

And I Quote

Print journalism traditionally has recorded confrontations with its own techniques and with a selectivity based more on limited space than on bias. Radio lent an ear and introduced an expanded atmospheric element. But television placed both subjects and questioners under the unblinking scrutiny of the microphone-equipped camera.

WALLIS HONORED

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Hollywood Foreign Press Association has chosen producer Hal B. Wallis as recipient of its 1974 Cecil B. DeMille Award for outstanding contribution to the entertainment field. The film maker, whose career spans four decades, will receive the honor at the Gold Globe Awards banquet Jan. 25. Wallis' latest production is "Rooster Cogburn" starring John Wayne and Katharine Hepburn.

BRUNN RETURNS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Erik Bruhn, a principal dancer of the American Ballet Theater from 1950 to his retirement in 1971, will dance with the company again at its gala 35th anniversary performance at the City Center on Jan. 11. The Danish star will perform with Cynthia Gregory in an excerpt from "Miss Julie."

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

It is my belief that the major deficiency in the make-up of the average player is his inability to resist the urge to win a trick at the first opportunity that presents itself. This shortcoming is responsible for the loss of many contracts that should have been fulfilled. As a case in point, observe today's deal, which arose in a rubber-bridge game.

Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

 ♠ A J 10
 ♥ A Q 10
 ♦ A J 9 4
 ♣ 7 5 2

EAST
 ♠ Q 9 5
 ♥ 7 3 2
 ♦ 7 6
 ♣ A 10 8 6 3

SOUTH
 ♠ K 8 4 3
 ♥ K J 5
 ♦ Q 10 2
 ♣ K J 9

The bidding:
 North East South West
 1♦ Pass 2NT Pass
 3NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠.

East put up the club queen on West's opening lead, and South captured the trick with his king. The ten of diamonds was led next, and the finesse taken against West's hoped-for king. But East won the trick, and returned his remaining club. Declarer's J-9 was now trapped by West's A-10. When play had ended, the defenders had made four club tricks and one diamond.

Declarer did not play the hand well. If it were his intention to finesse against West for the diamond king (rather than for the spade queen against East), there wasn't a thing he could do about preventing East from winning a trick with the diamond king. But what he could have tried to do was to prevent East from returning a club if the latter possessed the king of diamonds.

When East put up the club queen on the opening lead, declarer should have allowed the queen to win. The four of clubs would have been played back. South would have put up his jack — and he would have had a fulfilled contract. When declarer subsequently took the diamond finesse, losing to East's king, East would have no club to play back. And whatever else he returned, declarer would have had no problem in handling.

By allowing East to win the opening lead, declarer would guarantee his contract if the adversely-held clubs were divided 5-2, with the leader having five. And if they were divided 4-3, then no matter what South played from his hand at trick one, the defenders would be able to win only three club tricks and one diamond. Thus the recommended play of deferring the winning of a club trick was "on the house": it could never be a losing play.

The divorce rate has never been higher in this country. Experts put the blame on youth, feminine unrest and the high cost of living.

There is one theory that puts the blame on improper mating. Two people are thrown together who are emotional misfits. They have even devised a rating system.

For example, some husbands and wives are docile, uncaring, stoic people. They don't care if their own dog bites them, the shower runs cold, the paper is late or their insurance expires. These are the unflappable No. 1's. No. 1's should never sleep under the same electric blanket. They could burn themselves up and no one would know.

Some husbands and wives are independently strong. Each does his or her own thing within their own domain. She cooks. He washes the car. She launders. He changes fuses. She has a daughter. He has a son. No. 2's are dull.

No. 3's are aggressive personalities. They shout a lot and each feels he or she is the dominating influence in the family. They cannot hang wallpaper together, hang a picture, agree on the same TV channel or set up housekeeping without a live-in marriage counselor.

No. 4's are volcanic. They have varicose veins in the neck from yelling. They rarely listen and fight constantly over the children (each rejecting custody).

The No. 5's are the worst kind for a marriage. They're quiet, moody, sullen. No one knows what they're thinking (or for that matter if they're breathing).

Now, this is important. NO MARRIAGE COMBINATION SHOULD EXCEED 6. A 4 and a 1, maybe, or a five and a 1, but no more.

FOOD RATIONING
 New and severe rationing of major food items was announced by the OPA on Dec. 24, 1944.

I once knew of a 3 who said to her husband, "I would marry Dean Martin in a minute if he asked me," and her husband (a No. 4) broke her nose.

The worst case I ever knew was a 5 and a 2. They went camping together. He asked her if she would help him park the trailer. She said it was man's work. He didn't say anything. Finally, she stood behind the trailer shouting, "Turn the wheels the other way." (She didn't say what the first way was.) Then she would instruct, "You got this much more room." (Which meant nothing as she was behind the trailer.) Then she would shout, "Pull over there and back toward me." (which also meant nothing.)

Finally, the No. 5 ran over her foot and said, "I'm going out for a pack of cigarettes." He was never seen again.

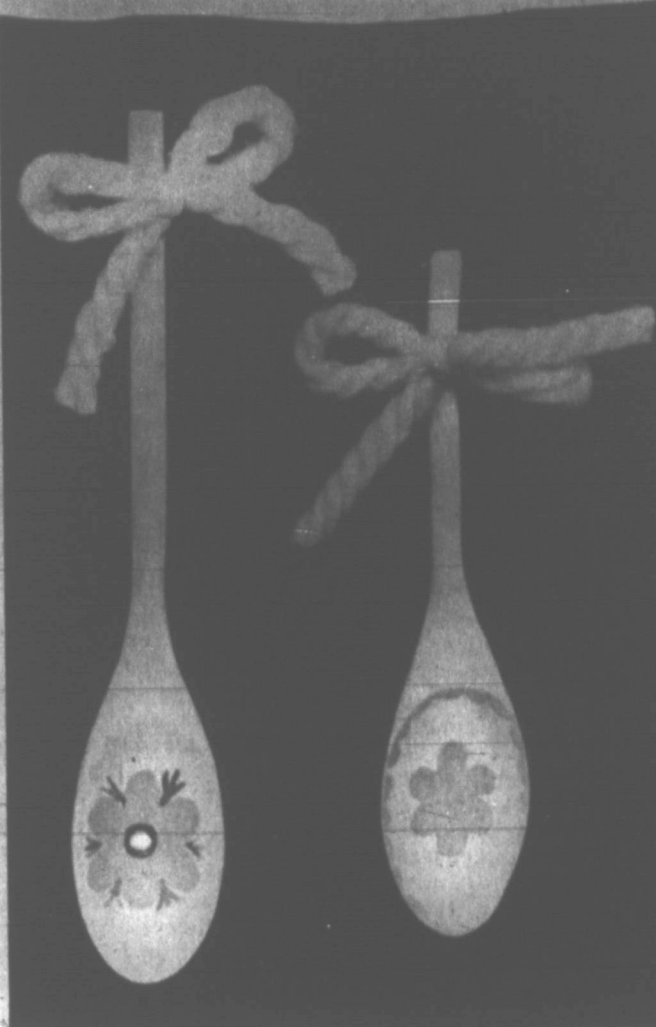

Remember, if you can add, you can plan a happy marriage.

CHILD'S PLAY

Wooden spoons make plaques

By GEETS BURKOR & POLLY HUNTSINGER
 Copley News Service

An eighth grade student in Napa, California, has discovered something many other people are also learning these days: what is "nostalgia" to one generation often proves to be brand new to a younger one.

Rummaging in her grandmother's pantry, Patty came across several old-fashioned wooden spoons — a rarity in her home where plastic, Teflon, and stainless steel are the materials from which most kitchen utensils are made.

She soon found herself an enjoyable rainy day project once she brought out some paint and thick, bright woolen yarn. She discovered that, as with any smooth wood surface, the worn inside bowl of the spoons made excellent, if tiny, easels.

You can decorate a spoon in a similar manner. Acrylic paint is best, but tempers will do. Or, if you find working with a paint brush difficult on such a small surface, use felt pens of various colors instead. Bright designs prove particularly attractive, and remind one of the old-fashioned European decorations that seem to show up so often in story-book kitchens.

With a bright bow tied at the top, two such decorated spoons make a nice set for a variety of ornamenting purposes.

Glued to a suitable cardboard backing, framed spoons can be hung as attractive wall hangings. If you can obtain some florist's clay which keeps firmly without sticking like glue, it will provide a good adhesive that won't damage a smooth surface. With a dot of this substance on the rounded backs, a pair of wooden spoons will cling to the side of a stove, refrigerator, or kitchen cabinet. They also look like door decorations that are held by magnets.

On the other hand, if such kitchen utensils are still actively used, they can still be made to look prettier. It's a poor idea to paint the surface that touches food and needs lots of washing. However, if you paint stripes, bright dots or wavy lines on the length of the handle, it is bound to bring a smile to any cook's face.

Who knows what delicious treats might be dished up if you "stir" yourself to do a little ladle decorating?

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 15

Your birthday today: Inner harmony is the main quest this year. Once you have it, all problems become manageable. You experiment in early months and make better use of what you have in latter half-year. Reasonable endeavors bring results. Relationships prosper when you share with those who have less. Today's natives seek peace, include great writers and religious leaders.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: This morning's schemes are unworkable, but resolve themselves in midday or later. Take strong comments in stride as you push ahead.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: You're welcome in many places and directions. Stay put long enough to sort out in your own mind—just where you want to go. Enjoy listening and learning.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Your energy is up, as is your knack for profitably bringing exotic or unusual factors into career ventures. Spend your leisure time in games of competition.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Short-term projects succeed. Family ties are useful. Partnerships that could prove powerful in the future arise from current social contacts.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Don't make final decisions until afternoon, when they come spontaneously and are well made. Unorthodox approaches to both work and play yield high results.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Spend the morning straightening up, troubleshooting. In afternoon, you experience an interesting combination of pleasure and duty. Friends spring odd—but pleasant surprises.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: It's a splendid day for creative work, but you're apt to overdo it in the excitement. Pace your efforts. Go to an evening party ready for a round of fun.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Switching things around early causes unexpected havoc. In the afternoon you see the reason for it and can make more effective changes.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Watch this morning! Something falls apart; you can benefit from it by being ready to make corrections. Even though the rest of the day is a breeze, don't be sloppy.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: The demands of others seem to be excessive. You achieve a better balance in later hours. Career interests skyrocket.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: You compete well today. Search for fresh contacts and new business. If you can take your work outside, do so. If you can take off from work, go!

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Morning news is incomplete, misleading. Go ahead with your plans, following long-term rather than immediate goals. You're productive in later hours.

TWQB Comes Under Attack For Pollution

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) —

The chairman of a legislative subcommittee created to investigate the Texas Water Quality Board says the board has shown a general lack of commitment towards cleaning the state's rivers and lakes.

"Their stand has been more to establish how much pollution a body of water can stand instead of trying to clean up that body of water," Rep. Gene Jones, D-Houston, said Monday.

"Their record is that they have been reluctant to recommend suits not only in the areas of collecting fines, but also in areas where there is a pressing need to put a polluter under court order to start antipollution programs."

The House Natural Resources Committee approved a report Monday calling for legislation allowing the Attorney General to initiate antipollution suits when the Texas Water Quality Board fails to act.

Jones' subcommittee recommended the purpose of the water quality board be changed from merely maintaining water quality to actively trying to clean the state's waters.

The report, adopted 7-2 by the Natural Resources Committee, said there is also evidence the Water Quality Board hindered and slowed enforcement action against polluters.

Suits sent to the attorney general by the Water Quality Board generally have been against small businesses or septic tank operators for offenses which could be easily corrected, the report said.

"Few large dischargers are ever sued," it said.

Nixon Receives Financial News

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) —

Richard M. Nixon received some good financial news for a change. He won't have to pay for half the flight that carries him home in disgrace, and the large and troublesome mortgage on his home—due today—is being paid off.

Who is paying the $523,000 bill is not clear.

Nixon was unable to make a $226,000 payment on his California estate when it fell due last July, and paid $17,000 interest to get a six-month extension.

Nixon's representatives refused to talk about whether the financially troubled former President would be able to make the payment.

But Charles Horning, attorney for the Cotton estate, former owner of the property, said in Los Angeles Monday he had been informed a certified check will be delivered to him Wednesday, covering the $506,000 still due on the estate plus $17,000 interest.

Nixon does not owe the whole sum. The $1.5 million oceanside estate is owned by Nixon together with the B&C Investment Co. — a partnership formed by his two wealthy close friends, Bebe Rebozo and Robert Abplanalp.

Horning said Nixon's personal attorney, Charles Butler, had told him the payment would be made, but that Horning had no idea how much would come from Nixon's personal funds.

Horning said he won't learn, even after the payment is made, because the check will come from a trust company.

"We will get a certified check and we don't care where it came from," Horning said. "We expect to be paid in full and be out of the picture."

The payment will clear Nixon's debt and those of the Rebozo-Abplanalp partnership, but who paid what proportion will not be known.

Nixon's chief aide, Ronald Ziegler, and Butler both refused to discuss the matter Monday.

Record spending for social services

NEW YORK — Federal spending under the budget title "human resources" is setting new records, according to the Tax Foundation, an independent economic research group headquartered here.

All such programs, education, manpower, health, veterans' benefits and income security, topped defense outlays in 1971 and now account for 49.8 per cent or $151.5 billion of the 1975 budget. — CUNY

Garland Rutherford ...retires

Mobil Honors Local Resident

Garland C. Rutherford, district production superintendent of the Texas Panhandle, Southwest Oklahoma District, has retired after 40 years and 10 months with Mobil Oil Corp. He and his wife were honored recently at a party hosted by C.H. Hudson, area manager, and J.L. McLaughlin, area operations superintendent, in the library room of the Petroleum Club Bldg. on the 35th floor of the Liberty Tower in Oklahoma City.

Attending were all his fellow superintendents of the Mid-Continent area of Mobil and their wives. Local employees from Pampa, Skellytown, Lefors, Canadian and Weatherford, Okla., honored the Rutherfords at a Christmas-time retirement party at the Harvester Pit Bar - B-Que.

Prior to coming to Pampa in 1958, Rutherford also served as district superintendent in Fallurrias, Tex. Rutherford retired effective Jan. 1.

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Borger continues to roll. Its 53-44 win over Hereford last week gives Borger an eight-game win streak. The Bulldogs had a 10-game win streak at the start of the year before losing to Lubbock. Duane Hunt's troops are 18-1 for the season and have a good shot at a 21-1 mark before 3-AAAA play starts. However, Borger must play Monterey Jan. 17 at Lubbock.

Monterey has a thing about beating Borger. The Plainsmen whipped the Bulldogs 69-63, to win the bi-district championship last season.

Pampa, which visits Liberal, Kan., Friday, will attempt to make it two straight over Monterey when the Harvesters host the Lubbock team Jan. 21. Pampa's 81-55 win over Monterey Jan. 7 was the worst loss at home for the Plainsmen since Plainview won 84-62 during the 1967-68 season.

Borger sports editor Ron "Misquote" Choat writes: "Pampa lost to Odessa Permian last week, and Sims tried to write it off that the Harvesters simply weren't ready to play. A championship team is ready to play EVERY night."

"Inconsistency and overconfidence (plus a fired-up bunch of Borger Bulldogs) cost Pampa the district championship last year. I'm not saying the same thing will happen again this year, but it could if the Harvesters and Sims don't get rid of their cocky attitudes."

Choat adds: "I don't know which of the six teams will win the District 3-AAAA basketball championship this year, but I'm sure going all-out to win the newspaper war."

Amarillo Tascosa has the second-longest win streak of 3-AAAA teams—six games. Dave Camfield's Rebels will likely make it seven consecutive tonight when they host slumping Hereford.

Tom Gilley, Palo Duro coach, wasn't kidding when he told me to relay a message to Pampa coach Robert McPherson. "Tell McPherson to grab his eyeballs—Camfield's fixing to be mean as an old cat."

In a District 28-AAAA basketball contest last week, Hanna belted Porter, 77-38, to extend the latter's losing streak to 21 games, 10 behind the state record of 31 losses in a row. That record was set by Houston Scarborough two years ago.

Tech Fights Back To Knife Houston

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—With the opening of the Southwest Conference basketball schedule less than a week away, Texas Tech may have firmly established itself as the team to beat.

Not that the Red Raiders haven't been impressive in the pre-season—although their record is a non-impressive 6-5 today. But coaches hope the preseason games enable a team to get the feel of one another so it can play as a unit once the league race begins.

That make's Texas Tech's 8682 victory over Houston Monday night even more impressive, because both coaches thought that's the way the Raiders played.

"You have to play good ball and not make mistakes against a good team," Red Raiders coach Gerald Myers said. "We did a pretty good job of both tonight."

Down 44-40 at the half, the Raiders came back on the performance of reserve guard Rudy Liggins who scored 18 points in the second half. It was Liggins' sixth field goal of the night that put Tech ahead to stay with five minutes to play.

"It could have gone either way," Myers said. "Both these teams can hold their heads high today. It's rare to see both teams hitting and executing like they did tonight. We worked for and got the good shot."

The University of Houston has good one-on-one players. We were proud to stay in there with their poise, talent and great scoring.

Fran To Miss Pro Bowl Tilt

MIAMI (UPI)—Quarterback Fran Tarkenton of the Minnesota Vikings has been excused from playing in the annual pro bowl here Monday night because of sore muscles in his throwing arm.

Cornerback Jimmy Johnson of the San Francisco 49ers also was excused from participating in the game by Coach Chuck Knox of the National Football Conference team. Knox said Johnson asked to be excused because he is considering retiring from the National Football League.

Tarkenton, who has never missed a regular season game due to injuries, will be replaced at quarterback for the NFC squad by Knox' own quarterback, James Harris of the Los Angeles Rams.

Johnson will be replaced by Ken Ellis of the Green Bay Packers.

UPI Ratings

NEW YORK (UPI)—The United Press International Board of Coaches college basketball ratings, with number of first-place votes and records through Saturday, Jan. 11 in parentheses (42 of 42 coaches voting) (Sixth week):

Jabbar, Barry Make West Favorite

PHOENIX (UPI)—The West, thanks mainly to the presence of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and high-scoring Rick Barry, is a three-point favorite to beat the East in tonight's 25th annual National Basketball Association All-Star game.

Abdul-Jabbar, the 7-foot-2 center of the Milwaukee Bucks, is rated the dominant player in professional basketball today. Despite missing the first six weeks of the season because of a scratched eyeball suffered in an exhibition game, he still shows a 29 point average and was the leading vote-getter among the starting players named to the West squad by the fans.

In contrast to previous years, fans were allowed to vote for the five starters on each squad and Abdul-

Jabbar led all West players with 77,832 votes. Barry, of Golden State, leads the NBA in scoring with a 33-point average and received 60,547 votes to nail down a starting forward position in the game that begins at 10 p.m. EST and will be nationally televised (CBS).

Buffalo's Bob McAdoo topped all players in votes with 98,325 and will start opposite Abdul-Jabbar at the opening tap-off. The remainder of the East starters include the New York Knick backcourt duo of Walt Frazier and Earl Monroe along with forwards John Havlicek of Boston and Elvin Hayes of Washington. The game will mark Havlicek's seventh straight All-Star game appearance and ninth overall in his 13-year career.

SPORTS

PAMPA DAILY NEWS

Starting for the West along with Abdul-Jabbar and Barry are Nate Archibald of Kansas City, Omaha and Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles at the guard positions and Spencer

Haywood of Seattle at forward.

K.C. Jones of Washington, whose Bullets have on 29 of their first 41 games this season and sport a league-leading winning percentage of .707, will coach the East while Al Attles of Pacific Division-leading Golden State will coach the West.

Should Jones' and Attles' teams still have the highest winning percentages in their respective conferences at the end of the regular season they would receive the two newest awards instituted by the NBA as announced Monday by outgoing commissioner Walter Kennedy. The awards, respectively, are the Ned Irish Trophy and the Fred Zollner Trophy. Irish was formerly president and owner of the New York Knicks while Zollner served in the same capacity with the Detroit Pistons. Both are now retired.

Rounding out the East squad are guards Jo Jo White of Boston and Phil Chenier of Washington, forwards Dave Cowens and Paul Silas of Boston, Rudy Tomjanovich of Houston and Steve Mix of Philadelphia and center Wes Unseld of Washington.

The Oklahoma State Capitol is a white Indiana limestone building with a pink Georgia granite base which extends to the top of the first floor.

COLLEGE ROUNDUP

Hoosiers Rip Gophers To Keep Top Ranking

Indiana must be as good as its No. 1 ranking indicates because opposing coaches are beginning to seek moral victories when they play the Hoosiers.

Moral victory: That's the saccharine substitute used when you can't have the real thing.

Minnesota Coach Bill Musselman was availing himself of moral victories Monday night after Indiana rolled over his young Gophers team, 79-59.

With a team as tall and strong as the North Woods, Minnesota utilized a zone defense in the first half to contain Indiana. But once the Hoosiers had gained a nine-point lead with six minutes left in the game, Indiana spread out its offense and went into a stall to force the Gophers out of their zone.

The tactic proved effective as the Hoosiers easily stretched their nine-point margin to the final 20-point difference.

But Musselman found a silver lining in his team's demise against the heavily-favored Hoosiers.

"When the No. 1 team in the country holds the ball for six minutes against a bunch of freshmen and sophomores, I think that shows what they think of our club," Musselman said. "I think they're an excellent team, but we're not too bad either."

Musselman said Indiana "had to fight their hearts out to win."

Indiana led, 43-37, at half-time, but Minnesota fought back to within two points before the Hoosiers took command again. They called time out with six minutes to play and went into a controlled offense, gradually extending their lead.

The Hoosiers' victory was a school record 15th in a row and tightened their hold on first place in the Big Ten with a 4-0 mark.

Scott May scored 19 points to lead Indiana. A Hoosier sophomore Kent Benson finished with 17 points and senior Steve Green had 14. Minnesota's 6-foot-10 freshman Mark Olberding got game scoring honors with 23 points.

In other games involving nationally ranked teams, seventh-ranked Alabama struggled past Mississippi, 74-71, and No. 10 Kentucky edged 16th-rated Tennessee, 8-2.

Industrial exhibit is touring country

A Bicentennial exhibit, "Industrial Heritage," created by Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum with the cooperation of 26 industrial corporations, uses museum artifacts to trace the impact that advances in science and technology have had on American life over the last 200 years.

The touring exhibition is now making a 30-month circuit around the nation and will return to the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, Mich., in July, 1976. — CNS

Little things are important

Small in size, but performing an important function when needed... what would we do without nuts and bolts?

Classified Ads are like that too! In fact, they do more things for more people at lower cost than any other form of advertising!

Buying... selling... hiring... finding... renting... or just telling, a small, low-cost Classified Ad will do a big, important job for you.

It's easy to place your ad... just dial 669-2525

APPARENT SUICIDE

Hefner's Secretary Found Dead

CHICAGO (UPI) - Bobbie Arnstein, executive secretary to Playboy publisher Hugh Hefner, was found dead Monday in a hotel room, the apparent victim of a self-administered drug overdose, authorities said.
Miss Arnstein, 32,
recently was sentenced to 15 years in prison on drug charges and was appealing the sentence at the time of her death.
Police investigator Ted
Connor termed her death
"an apparent suicide" and said two notes indicating she was contemplating taking her life were found in her room at the Maryland Hotel on the city's Near North Side nightclub strip. The notes instructed authorities to contact her attorney.
"This is a simple drug overdose, that's all it is. One of a million," Connor said.

"We are not conducting a criminal investigation."
A hotel maid found Miss
Arnstein's body in a locked 17th-floor hotel room which the victim had checked into Saturday under an assumed name. Police said Miss Arnstein had been dead about 24 hours. She was identified through a driver's license for Roberta Arnstein found in her purse.
A bottle containing about a half-dozen pills was found on a dresser in the room, police said.
Connor said it would take several days to complete toxicology reports which would verify that she died of a drug overdose.
Miss Arnstein had continued to live in the Playboy Mansion, not far from the Maryland Hotel, and remained on the Playboy payroll after her conviction last year on federal charges of conspiring with a boyfriend and two other men to bring cocaine from Miami to Chicago. She was given a conditional 15-year prison sentence, and she remained free pending her appeal.

Hefner had stood by Miss Arnstein since her conviction and despite reports that federal investigators hoped she would talk to them, there have been no indications that she had.
Her arrest was the first of a series of developments involving Hefner's Playboy pad parties and a batch of Playboy executives, including Hefner, have been subpoenaed to testify in various investigations.

Show business figures,
including an unidentified
Hollywood star, reportedly may also be called, along with public officials and business executives.

'State Of The Union' Not Good, Ford Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Conceding that the "state of the union is not good," President Ford today formally asked Congress to ease the recession with a $16 billion one-year rebate for 1974 taxpayers and a $16.5 billion permanent income tax cut funded by increased oil tariffs.

Delivering his first State of the Union address before a nationally televised joint session of Congress, Ford reported the "bad news" that citizens are upset with the economy. He predicted a federal deficit of about $30 billion this year and $45 billion next year pushing the national debt to more than $600 billion.

Most of Ford's energy conservation and economic proposals were unveiled in his radio-television speech Monday night and subsequently by aides. He called on Congress to enact them by April 1.

Among his new ideas were deregulation of new natural gas, opening the oil-rich Navy properties at Elk Hills, Calif., to commercial production, tapping the outer continental shelf and naval oil reserves in Alaska, extending the 12 per cent investment tax credits for public utilities from one to two years, a tax credit of up to $150 for home owners who install insulation and storm windows.

He also said his 10-year program to make American "invulnerable" to foreign energy boycotts envisioned 200 U.S. nuclear power plants, 250 new coal mines, 150 coal-fired power plants, 30 new oil refineries, 20 new synthetic fuel plants, drilling "many thousands of new oil wells," insulation of 18 million homes and constructing millions of new fuel-conserving vehicles.

In an obvious appeal to bipartisan support, Ford recalled Democratic President Harry S. Truman's appearance before the 81st Congress in 1949 when Ford was a freshman congressman and Truman reported that the state of the union was good. "Today," Ford said, "that freshman member from Michigan stands where Mr. Truman stood and I must say to you that the state of the union is not good."

His press secretary, Ron Nessen, said the average American family would pay $250 more in fuel costs, including the 10-cent-a-gallon increase in gasoline should Congress agree. He said a family of four earning $10,000 a year would get a $349 cut.

After a 1½-hour briefing from Ford on Tuesday, Republican congressional leaders indicated there are still some proposals yet to come.

On Thursday, Ford will brief the congressional leaders of both parties on his new program. He also has invited the governors of 50 states, along with state legislators and city officials to another White House briefing.

Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott, noting the new Congress will be heavily controlled by the Democrats, said a mix of the President's program and the recession-fighting proposals of the Democrats "is in the national interest."

So far Ford has received mixed reviews on the proposals, disclosed Monday night to a national broadcast audience, that he will seek a 12 per cent rebate in last year's taxes which could give individuals a maximum of $1,000.

In addition, Ford will propose: —A $6.5 billion slash in individual income tax reduction with the largest amount going to the lowest income families.

—A permanent reduction in the maximum corporation tax rates from 48 per cent to 42 per cent — a $6 billion reduction in Treasury revenues.

—Cash payments of $80 to each adult who pays no income taxes, an estimated $2 billion drop in federal revenues.

The tax reductions would be made up by the estimated $30 billion resulting from increased excise taxes on domestic and imported crude oil by $2 a barrel.

Justice Officials Gave CIA Dissidents' Names

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department says it gave the names of more than 10,000 American dissidents to the Central Intelligence Agency, although a former CI director insists that charges of domestic spying were exaggerated.

Deputy Attorney General Laurence H. Silberman disclosed Tuesday the CIA was given a computerized list of 10,000 to 12,000 names of American radicals in 1970. He said he had been advised that the CIA never used that list, compiled at the height of anti-Vietnam War activities.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, who once headed the CIA, told newsmen that charges the agency engaged in widespread domestic spying were "overblown," but he said there had been some "inappropriate" actions.

In the Senate, Democratic leader Mike Mansfield maneuvered four separate CIA probes under the direction of a single committee — perhaps a special investigation similar to the Senate Watergate committee.

CIA Director William Colby and former director Richard Helms were to testify today in a closed session of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on intelligence, which controls the CIA budget. Armed Services Chairman, John Stennis, D-Miss., postponed a scheduled afternoon meeting, also called to prepare for testimony from Colby and Helms Thursday.

Senate Democrats discussed CIA investigations for two hours in their closed caucus Tuesday, but could reach no decision on what to do. While some senators fought to keep control of the CIA probe in standing committees, a majority appeared to be leaning toward either a separate panel or a special committee of members of the Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees.

Reps. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., and John Burton, D-Calif., introduced a "resolution of inquiry" which, if approved by the House would order the President to submit to Congress all the information he has about any domestic activities by the CIA.

Schlesinger, questioned by reporters, refused to detail the "inappropriate" activities. Asked specifically about reports the CIA kept 10,000 files on Americans, Schlesinger said: "That story is overblown... There were no activities in such numbers or so surprising as to be a source of national turmoil."

KILLED BY SHOTGUN

3 Men Arrested In Couple's Death

LUBBOCK, Tex. (PI) — Three men were in custody today in connection with the shotgun deaths of a West Texas couple Sunday night on a lonely dirt road.

Lubbock County Sheriff C. H. "Choc" Blanchard said a 29-year-old man was arrested about 11:30 p. m. Tuesday near Abernathy and two others, ages 26 and 18, were arrested early today in Lubbock.

The three men were scheduled to be formally charged later today.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Warren McKay, each killed with a blast from a shotgun, were found on a snowy dirt road two miles from their home in north Lubbock County. Blood flowed into a pool beneath the bodies and froze in the 12 degree temperatures.

Blanchard, three Texas Rangers and deputies from Lubbock and Hale counties made the first arrest.

"The apparent motive for the senseless shootings now appears to have been robbery, although it also seems that the couple had very little money," Blanchard said.

The case broke after a member of the family indicated he was at the modest farm home until about 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

Neighbors said they saw three men hunting in the area Sunday.

"I don't think the couple would have had any money, although we did find an empty Social Security envelope at the home. If they had any money, it'd have been only from the Social Security check — and that's not killing money."

McKay, 64, was shot behind his left ear and in the back and his wife, Odessa, 55, was shot once behind the right ear, according to Sheriff Capt. Charlie Montgomery, head of the department's criminal investigation division.

PRPC To Get Plans On Plant

City Manager Mack Wofford and City Commissioner Joe Curtis will appear before the Environmental Committee of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission in Amarillo Thursday afternoon to explain plans for the city's proposed $1.2 million waste treatment plant.

The local officials will make a presentation to the committee to show the type of treatment plant to be built, its location and how it will affect the regional environment. The city manager said PRPC approval is required before Pampa's application for a 75 percent federal aid construction grant can be authorized by the Environmental Protection Agency.

CONGRESS BLAMED

Soviet Leaders Reject Agreements On Trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a major setback to U.S.-Soviet relations, the Russians Tuesday night rejected a new trade agreement because Congress demanded the Kremlin permit increased emigration of Jews and other dissidents.

"The administration regrets this turn of events," said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger at a hastily called news conference. But he emphasized communications from Moscow indicated no danger to world peace or disruption of détente.

"All the communications we have received from the Soviet government seem to suggest that the political orientation is unchanged, and we will conduct our policy until we receive evidence to the contrary on the basis of carrying forward the policy of détente," said Kissinger.

Soviet leaders had publicly attacked the emigration demand by Congress as meddling in Russia's internal affairs.

In officially repudiating the trade agreement, recently passed by Congress and signed by President Ford, the Soviets apparently will refuse to continue payments to the United States on its $700 million World War II debt.

The Soviets agreed in 1972 to pay back the money over a period of years as part of its new "most favored nation" trading status with the United States.

There was no immediate indication of what the cancellation would mean to 15 American firms—ranging from banks to computers, chemicals and tractors—located in the Soviet Union.

An American trade official said in Moscow that the Russian move probably will mean at least a slowdown, if not an end, to expansion of U.S. trade in the Soviet Union.

City Studies Collection Of Back Taxes

The City of Pampa soon is expected to bring additional pressure to bear on the collection of delinquent taxes.

City commissioners spent considerable time at yesterday's semi-monthly meeting discussing the matter and probing for the best approach to collecting as much of the unpaid taxes as possible.

The question arose when the annual audit of city books was presented to the commission by the local auditing firm of Nienstiel & Doggett.

The audit report showed that as of last Sept. 30, end of the 1973 - 74 fiscal year, there was a total of $368,200 in unpaid taxes that has accumulated in the past 20 years.

Much of that amount is uncollectible because of deaths, bankruptcy and other reasons.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today City Atty. Bob Gordon is expected to present a complete picture of the current delinquent tax situation, probably at the next meeting of city commissioners.

City Tax Collector Aubrey Jones said figures in the 1973 - 74 auditor's report do not reflect the current total of unpaid taxes because there have been a number of cases in which back taxes have been paid during the last four months since the audit was made.

W.D. Seeking Utilities Head

WHITE DEER — The City of White Deer is accepting applications for the position of Superintendent of Utilities.

William Golden, currently holding that position, submitted his resignation to the city.

Applications may be mailed to the mayor, W.C. Powers, Box 397, White Deer, Tex., 79097. Applicants may apply in person at the office of the city secretary in City Hall.

Powers stressed that the position affords a good opportunity for persons seeking a permanent career in the city utility field.

FORMAL OFFICIAL CLAIMS

Bell Managers Distributed Gifts

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — A telephone company executive said Tuesday in a transcript filed by former Southwestern Bell manager James A. Ashley nearly all the company's district and division managers were involved in distributing gifts and illegal campaign contributions.

In the transcript demanded by District Judge John Wood on threat of contempt and later opened in his office, Ashley allegedly talks via telephone last October with former Austin division manager Bill Holman.

Ashley, former bell commercial manager, was fired last November. Holman is currently on "special assignment" for the phone company.

In the transcript Holman, under prodding by Ashley and knowing he was being taped tells how he allegedly channeled corporate monies to the late Sen. Bruce Reagan, D-Corpus Christi, Rep. John Young, D-Tex. and politicians in Austin and Tyler.

Holman said Southwestern Bell also hired former attorney general Waggoner Carr for legal work so Carr could retire a $60,000 campaign telephone bill. But Holman said he never knew of Carr doing any work for Bell.

Holman said the same was done for Sen. Bill Woods, D-Tyler, on "several hundred dollars" in bills at Tyler. The company also gave printing work to a city council candidate at Austin and promoted the candidate's daughter who worked for the telephone company to gain support for an Austin rate hike.

"Well, certainly, it was payola," Holman said.

"Okay, was this sort of thing customary in that day and time?" Ashley asked. "Did you feel that you had to do this as a condition of employment with this company?"

"Well, yes, because, let's face it, I was instructed to be the front man for the company wherever I might have been — Corpus Christi, Tex., Austin, Tex., Tyler, Tex.," Holman replied.

Holman said he gave a case of scotch to an Austin man who testified for the telephone company in a rate case and later charged the liquor off as a public relations expense.

Holman said company officials also rented a house at Beeville, painted it and put up a chain link fence. The house was for the daughter and son-in-law of former Southwestern Bell President Bill Goodson of St. Louis, while the son-in-law was stationed nearby in the Navy.

"Suppose I subpoenaed, if I were prosecutor, every division manager in this company under oath, how many division managers would you say, would have to testify to the same thing," Ashley asked in connection with making false expense vouchers to repay money Bell executives gave to such projects.

"I would say that let me say this. I think for the State of Texas I would guarantee you that all of them," Holman said.

GREETING MEMBERS — Speaker of the House Carl Albert greets members of the new House of Representatives before administering the oath to them Tuesday as the 94th Congress convenes. The House joined with the Senate today to listen to President Ford's State of the Union address.

Rockefeller's Staff

U.S. Steel agreed to reduce the size of its price increase after receiving pressure from the Ford administration.

That news was announced at the same time another story reported that Vice President Nelson Rockefeller has started building his staff. Just how many people the Vice President will put on the taxpayers' payroll remains to be seen, but his press secretary said eight are already tabbed for top aide positions.

While private business gets ready to approach the economy of 1975 by reducing expenditures and holding down costs, we find an example being set by the Vice President which runs contrary to administration guidelines.

If one analyzes the duty of a Vice President, it is difficult to imagine why a large staff of workers is needed.

The office of Vice President has been called the most useless office in government. His only official duty is to preside over the U.S. Senate and to do whatever odd jobs the President wants to throw his way.

He does not set policy or make any decisions affecting the government operations. His value in government consists only of casting a tie-breaking vote in the Senate. And there, where voting generally follows party lines, a tie vote on any legislation is highly unlikely.

But Rockefeller is obviously determined to play his role to the hilt, and the taxpayers will be financing his image-building efforts for the next two years: inflation, recession or not.

In the private economy, the frills of organization are the first to be trimmed in times of reduced income. Good business practice dictates that.

But nothing seems to dictate economy to the government officeholder. Here we have an almost-useless office, the holder of which has practically nothing to do, yet he is gathering an expensive staff of people to help him do it.

And we call America a land of enlightened people?

Deregulation Needed

Probably the most important course for combatting recessionary effects would be for the government to deregulate American industries, thereby wiping out mandated "price rigidities" which also add to inflation. The false alternatives of fighting either recession or inflation — a popular misconception — would be neatly sidestepped.

While deregulation is seldom discussed by politicians or pundits, there is growing talk of it among economists. Even the recent White House economic summit saw near universal acceptance of the idea that much deregulation had to be done.

As many as 45 "rigidities," i.e. prices kept artificially high because of various governmental regulations, were mentioned at the summit, while 22 were endorsed as candidates for removal.

Included among the inflationary rigidities, according to Reason magazine, were "restrictions on truck cargoes and routes; import controls; milk and produce price support mechanisms; the Jones Act requiring coastal shipping to move in U.S. vessels; the government's first-class mail monopoly; airline pricefixing; natural gas price controls, etc."

And those are but a few of the outmoded bureaucratic hassamssams which serve only to arrest productivity (recession) and keep prices artificially high (inflation). There is no reason, none at all, that should prevent Congress from removing these regulations.

Other priorities should be a repeal of the competition — impending outlawry of professional advertising and such like programs that "protect" certain segments from practiced consumers.

Interestingly, there is enough bipartisan support for deregulation to indicate considerable urgency. In October, even Ralph Nader's Center for the Study of Responsive Law printed a massive volume condemning "bureaucratic labyrinths" imbedded in the federal regulatory system. And President Ford himself has called for a National Commission on Regulatory Reform to flush away the regulatory clogging of U.S. business.

Whether that panel will go the way of all national commissions, and merely perform as one "more self contained bureaucracy to be ignored by the rest of the government, remains to be seen. It is for Washington to see that it does not happen.

According to Piny, maple roots were good for a sluggish liver.

Constitutional Issue Argued

By MAX RAFFERTY

Recently I ran a letter from a Clayton, Mo. reader asking how the press can oppose any order by any court to disclose sources of information on constitutional grounds. When Article I prohibits only Congress from passing laws abridging freedom of the press, a respectable state of answers duly poured into headquarters, of which herewith a selected few sans comment from me — for a change.

Of course the Constitution prohibits only Congress! That is the legislative body — the only one supposed to make laws. The judiciary is supposed to interpret laws to see if they're unconstitutional, or if a particular law applies to a particular case. The executive branch has the duty of enforcing the laws which Congress has passed. I'm no constitutional lawyer, but that's the way it seems to me. — Miss H.H. Knoxville, Tenn.

Seems to me that Article I singles out Congress in the matter of making laws abridging our freedoms because Congress is the only branch of government charged with the responsibility of making laws. The administrative branch upholds the law, and the judicial rides herd on the last two named never learned how to read, because Congress passed a law in 1964 specifically forbidding busing of schoolchildren for the purpose of racial integration, and saying in plain words that no person or court should have the power to order such busing.

"The administrative and judicial branches have gone their merry way ignoring this law with disastrous results without any effective, or even loud, protest from Congress. Perhaps Nixon deserved what he got but not for the reasons he got it. The President and the Supreme Court should have been tried for violating the civil rights law of 1964." — R.B.H. Jr., Lake City, Fla.

"I am not a constitutional lawyer, but I did take a graduate course in 'The U.S. Constitution' under Andrew Cunningham McLaughlin at the University of Chicago.

"C.E.M.N. of Clayton, Mo. shows little understanding of our governmental structure in his question concerning Article I of the Constitution relating to restrictions on lawmaking. Only Congress is a lawmaking body. The executive and the judiciary do not make law. The executive executes laws; the Supreme Court interprets them." — G.C. Brunswick, Ga.

"As I see it, C.E.M.N. is correct in his assumption that the press has no constitutional right to fall back on in its current squabble with the courts over whether or not newspaper reporters can be compelled to reveal 'confidential' information. The Constitution has something to say about Congress and the press, but not one word about the courts and the press.

"Why shouldn't newsmen have to testify in court just like the rest of us? They're not gods nor supermen. And with crime threatening to do us all in unless something drastic happens soon, I'm for every good citizen doing whatever is necessary to get the criminals into jail and off the streets. If this means reporters telling the judge and jury where they got information about or from lawbreakers, fine and dandy.

"The news media are arrogant enough as it is, having hounded our last two Presidents out of office. I hope the courts pour it on them." — L.D., Detroit, Mich.

Warm thanks from a cold turkey

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I thought you might be interested in the following true story:

On November 29, I flew from Dallas, Texas to Little Rock, Arkansas. The flight was filled, and because I got on at the last minute I was given a seat in the NO SMOKING section.

I wanted a cigarette, so I took one out of the pack and put it in my mouth, but before lighting it, I turned to the very attractive lady who was my seat partner, and asked, "Do you mind if I smoke?"

She smiled a pretty smile and replied, "Why don't you do us both a favor, sir, and refrain?"

I was jolted. I put the cigarette back in the package and haven't had one since. In other words, I quit — cold turkey! After being a two-pack-a-day man, that's quite an accomplishment. Nobody can believe it.

It took a few words from a stranger to get me to do something I've been putting off for years. Why am I telling you this, Abby? Because you were that woman. How can I thank you?

COLD TURKEY IN ARKANSAS

DEAR COLD: You just did. Write to me next year at this time, and if you're still "clean," I'll send you a present!

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that the Number One complaint of wives is, "My husband doesn't appreciate me."

Well, my husband must be an exception because he never leaves the table without saying, "Thanks for dinner, honey."

Gerald phones me from work every day just to ask how things are going with our five sons and me. He reminds me often that he loves me, and he never fails to tell me I look nice when I do.

I could fill a book with his good points, and couldn't even fill a page with his bad points.

We just celebrated our 12th wedding anniversary, and this was the best. They keep getting better every year, Abby.

I know this won't make your column because you have so many more important letters to print, but I just had to let you know that there's a wife in Monroe, N.Y. whose husband really does appreciate her. — MAUREEN HARAN

DEAR MAUREEN: I think it's important to let people know that there are good marriages, too, so accept my belated anniversary congratulations. And take good care of Gerald. He sounds like a prince. And you must be a pretty special wife to deserve such royal treatment.

DEAR ABBY: So the Number One complaint of husbands is, "My wife nags me!" Well, put me down as one husband whose wife nags him — and he's glad of it. Thank God she nags me. It shows she loves me.

I kept putting off going to the doctor to get a checkup, and she finally nagged me into going. The doc said I had to lose 25 pounds, and I kept putting off going on a diet, but my wife nagged me until I went to Weight Watchers. God love her. I finally went — and I lost 32 pounds! And I'm maintaining that weight.

Now my wife is nagging me to see a lawyer and have a will made. I haven't done it yet, but I hope she doesn't quit nagging me before I get hit by a bus.

So, Abby, old girl, please tell your readers that if a wife doesn't nag her husband, she doesn't really love him. Sign me... NAGGED IN TUCSON

A different beat

By LARRY HOLLIS

For most of us, 1974 was a year we'd just as soon forget. If not for personal problems and crises, then for those of a national and international scope.

Inflation raged, recession crept in, wars and rumors of wars abounded, terrorism continued to threaten our safety. Watergate affairs shamed us and our government found itself led by unelected officials.

And the 55 mile an hour speed limit became a way of life.

But despite these and other situations which created a kind of cancer upon our enjoyment of the year, we can always look forward to a new year and hope for the best.

Looking ahead, though, 1975 may also be a year we'd rather not live through. Economists see no immediate relief from inflation or recession. War is imminent in the Middle East and other nations have their own tenuous pacts of peace which could blow up at any time.

Terrorism will probably continue to break out around the world as fanatics seek to use violence against the innocent to further their own selfish ends.

Despite a number of convictions and a few acquittals, the Watergate mess is far from over. And the Ford-Rockefeller team is entrenching itself in the White House, at least until the 1976 elections.

But even though the nation and the world can't take a soul-searching look at themselves, we as individuals can do so.

What can WE do to better ourselves and to help our neighbors and our communities to better themselves?

Love is still a greatly untapped force. "Love" is probably the most over-used word and yet the most underused force.

We're not talking about romantic love, though there's a great place for it — and not the permissive, extramarital affairs that seem to substitute for love anymore.

We're talking about the love that creates within oneself the desire to help others, to improve the conditions in one's environment, to provide unselfish service for the betterment of the world, to aid this world to truly become a "heaven on earth."

As single individuals, we can't do much to prevent the inflationary spiral or to avert a recession or to cope against terrorism or to make all politicians honest.

But we can cut back on our own spending for unnecessary expenditures. Or stock up on food and other items in case of emergency need. Or learn to love our neighbors and show them concern. Or be honest in all our doings.

The Savior, in his Sermon on the Mount, advised us to "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."

He didn't expect us to become such overnight, but little actions day by day, week by week, year by year, can aid us to become as Christ would have us to be.

And by our becoming as such, as individuals... then perhaps there would soon be so many perfect persons or near-perfect persons that the above-mentioned problems would decrease in influence and perhaps some day even disappear.

And it won't come about because of legislation or because of philosophy. It will happen because individuals will work to improve themselves so that society can be improved.

And it's going to require individual effort.

One of the purposes of a newspaper is to let people know about other people — what they're doing, even where they're been.

In The News we run a daily column called Mainly About People. We hope more people will take advantage of the space to let everybody know about upcoming events, about friends or relatives who are visiting, about trips, or other such items that your neighbors and friends may be interested in knowing.

All it requires to place an article in Mainly About People is a phone call (669-2525) or a short written note dropped by the office.

This column also hopes to be able to offer people interesting information or tips about life in today's hectic world. If you know of any interesting projects or programs that would make good reading, give us a call and we'll see what we can do.

If all the people in this world in which we live were as selfish as a few of the people in this world in which we live, there would be no world in which to live.

Water Directors Picked

In elections held Tuesday in Directors-Precincts 2, 3 and 4 of the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3, south of the Canadian River, the voters reelected all three current directors to two-year terms.

Fred S. Vanderburg was reelected in Director's Precinct No. 4, comprising the western portion of Gray County.

Raymond C. Blodgett was reelected in Director's Precinct No. 3, comprising the eastern portion of Carson County and the northeastern portion of Armstrong County with James B. McCray being reelected in the central portion of Carson County.

The other two members of the five man board are John R. Spearman from Director's Precinct No. 3, comprising the northeastern portion of Gray County, and Nolan Poteet from Director's Precinct No. 1, comprising the western portion of Carson County and the eastern portion of Potter County.

The regular quarterly meeting of the board of directors is scheduled for the first Monday in February.

Arson Cases Suspected

Fires in two Pampa residences Tuesday prompted Capt. Don Hendricks, Central Fire Station, to ask police to investigate suspected arson.

Units responding to a blaze at 941 S. Faulkner discovered a pile of clothing in the bathroom of the home and a mattress had been burned. Damage was confined to those rooms. Firemen called police to check the evidence of a deliberate fire.

Shortly after midnight, firemen battled another blaze at 1101 Huff Rd. This time, police reports said, a pile of rags in the front room closet had been ignited. The living room, hall and a bedroom of the structure sustained damage.

Officials are investigating the possibility the fires are related and are acts of arson.

MoD Searching For Volunteers

EXCHANGING WELCOMES in Dallas recently were Jamie Weaver, 1975 National Poster Child for the March of Dimes, and volunteer Emmett Saltzman of Pampa. They met at a regional meeting of the voluntary health organization for discussion of programs aimed at prevention and treatment of birth defects. Jamie, 9, was born without eyes, but leads a normal, active life. She lives in Spokane, Wash.

Adult Education Opens

The initial enrollment for the spring semester of Adult Basic Education was conducted Tuesday at B.M. Baker School, 300 E. Tuke. Forty-four students enrolled.

Study in these classes will enable adult students to obtain a GED diploma, according to Don H. Nelson, vocational coordinator of Pampa Independent School District.

Enrollment for prospective students will be open daily during school hours and during the first session, which is slated for 7 p.m. on Jan. 21. Instruction is offered in reading and language skills, basic mathematics, social studies and science at no cost to students. For those who do not speak or read English, instruction in English as a second language is offered.

Classes will meet twice weekly at Baker from 7 p.m. until 9:30 p.m.

Further information may be obtained by calling Floyd Sackett, 669-2792 or Nelson, 665-3756.

Officials said 114 adults had taken part in the educational program through December, 1974.

The University of Texas at Austin was established in 1883 and sprawls over 260 acres, with an enrollment in excess of 39,000 students.

March of Dimes volunteers are looking forward "to the most exciting program year in history," Emmett Saltzman, Gray County MoD campaign director, said.

"The excellent response to last year's drive has enabled us to expand research and medical service programs around the country," he added.

Saltzman attended a recent regional meeting of the volunteer health organization in Dallas. There he met with delegates from neighboring states to go over the new dimensions of MoD programs aimed at the prevention of birth defects.

"The medical advances we heard about were particularly impressive," Saltzman said. "Improved methods of treatment, diagnosis and consultation for high risk pregnant women and newborns were explained by specialists. At one session Dr. Edwin Lee Gresham and Dr. Loren P. Peterson discussed how their specialties are rapidly developing combined techniques to reduce many risks of pregnancy."

"Another important aspect," he continued, "is the progress on plans for a strategic network on prenatal services throughout the country. These guidelines have been drawn up by leaders in obstetrics, pediatrics, family practice, the nursing profession and health agencies."

The goal is to allocate highly trained staff and equipment to treat mothers and infants at different levels of risk to avoid duplicating costly services," Saltzman said.

Saltzman noted there was emphasis on new MoD programs to train nurses in recognition, evaluation and team performance for treatment of sick mothers and infants. The course of action is dedicated towards meeting the shortage of nurse clinicians as quickly as possible.

The challenge to volunteers in helping upgrade delivery of material and infant care is greater than ever," he added. "Special projects in public education that stress prenatal care and nutrition took up a major part of the meeting."

The Gray County March of Dimes is looking for volunteers to help in the many different programs that will be put into action during January and February, Saltzman, who also serves as vice chairman of the county board, said.

A film is available for showing to any clubs or organizations. If interested, contact Saltzman or A.L. "Red" Weatherly.

Consumer Market Report

Image Breakers

COLLEGE STATION — Beef prices show signs of fluctuating in coming weeks, and fryer chicken prices will increase immediately, but sugar prices indicate a downward trend, one forecaster says.

She's Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

More grass-fed beef is now available, and the current beef supply is plentiful — however, there will likely be fluctuating prices in the coming week, the specialist said.

Fryer chickens will probably show an immediate increase in price, though, because demand is usually heavier after holidays, she added.

Mrs. Clyatt, reporting a drop in sugar prices, pointed to a decrease in demand for sugar as one reason.

Pork supplies are starting a decline, and consumers can expect prices to increase at the retail level soon, the specialist noted.

Although eggs currently are priced at last year's level, they will show a substantial increase in price later in the year, she predicted.

At fruit counters, grapefruit and oranges are in peak supply with good quality.

Fresh vegetables include plentiful supplies of dry beans, peas and potatoes. Dry bean and potato prices are down substantially from the 1973-74 crop year, as are dry onion prices.

Steady prices include those on broccoli, cabbage, lettuce, turnips and rutabagas.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Food retailers may sell some food below cost to attract customers. That's happening now at many egg counters — which makes eggs an "economical must" these days.

Spiced Nuts

Here are two crunchy nut sweets that will quickly become favorites of family or guests.

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 egg white
2 tablespoons water
2 cups nuts

Preheat oven to 250 degrees F.

Sift dry ingredients together into a small bowl. Combine egg white and water and beat slightly.

Dip the nutmeats first in the egg white mixture. Roll them about in the dry ingredients lightly, keeping them separated. Place on an oiled cookie sheet and bake about 1 1/2 hours. Cool on the cookie sheet. Store in a tightly covered container.

Yield: About 2 cups.

Watch Out For Makeup Mistakes

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

"WOMEN DON'T see themselves when they look in the mirror," said Evelyn Marshall. "What they see is what they hope they look like."

A leading lady in the cosmetic field, Miss Marshall's comment was aimed at the "looks" that are hailed each season as major makeup trends. Such "looks," she said, are nonsense because the way a woman looks should have something to do with her appearance, not with a trend.

For example, the expert, who is founder and president of one of the last privately owned cosmetic firms in the United States, pointed to the "look" that was started by the filming of Cleopatra.

Nile-lash and Stylish
"Everyone tried to look like Elizabeth Taylor looking like Cleopatra," she said. "All of that black eyeliner was a disaster—especially on naturally pretty young faces." Cleopatra and its resulting Taylor-Burton saga is over and done with, but for some women the "look" lingers on.

"Women have a regrettable tendency to stick with makeup they think is glamorizing," Miss Marshall observed. "They use the same makeup for years, forgetting that change is essential. The trick with makeup is to adapt it to your needs. What looks good on you at 20, will be all wrong when you're 40."

Washed-out Shades
Something else she despairs of is pastel lipstick.

"You have to be a teenager to wear light lipstick," she said. "On the older face it's dull, drab and aging. A mature woman needs color."

False eyelashes—and she pioneered in making them available to women who were not cover girls or actresses—also bother her.

"False lashes can be a blessing," she said, "but not if they're obviously false. They have to be feathery with an almost invisible band. Lashes that are unnaturally thick, that sweep to unbelievable lengths, that look as if they might crawl away, not only look false but are unflattering because they cast shadows and emphasize under-eye circles."

Because beauty is her business, Miss Marshall's eye is fast to note makeup mistakes.

Brow Lines
"Take brows," she suggested. "They lend expression to the face but not when they're exaggerated in line—curled up at the ends or arched in perpetual surprise. And not if they're drawn on in a bold black line. They should follow the shape of the brow bone. Only the stragglers that grow under the brows or across the nose should be tweezed. Brow makeup should match hair color."

Using the wrong shade of foundation can also spoil a woman's image.

Evelyn Marshall

"If it's too dark," said Miss Marshall, "it will be obvious around the brows and the hairline. If it's too light, it will give the face a floured look."

Cosmetic Innovations
Long an innovator in the cosmetic field, she was the first to introduce brush-on brow makeup, shading rouge, cake eyeliner and cake powder eye shadow, products that have been widely copied.

Makeup, Miss Marshall believes, can be magic. Properly used, it can make years fade, turn a plain woman into a strikingly attractive one. Her own best advertisement, she is in her late 50s and looks many years younger. Her advice to women is: "Look in the mirror and really see yourself. Find out what you're doing wrong and how to do it right. Learn which features to play up and which to tone down."

AREA HOMEMAKERS
The Skellytown Homemakers Club met recently for a regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Ina Horst. The meeting opened with the members repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The hostess gift was won by Mrs. John Simmons and the game gift won by Mrs. Bob Heaton.

Mrs. Mable Pearson was reported ill and also Mrs. Myrtle Gould reported ill in North Plains Hospital in Borger.

The group worked on knitting and crochet during the afternoon.

New officers for the year of 75 are President, Mrs. Ina Horst; Vice President, Mrs. Eula Berry; Secretary and treasurer, Mrs. John Simmons; and Assistant secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Bob Heaton.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 21st in the home of Mrs. Gertrude Huckins. This meeting will be a birthday party honoring members with birthdays in January.

Attending were Meses Jim Hall, Orma Harlan, Eula Berry, John Simmons, Bob Heaton, Gertrude Huckins, and the hostess Mrs. Ina Horst.

A SAVINGS ACCOUNT THE BEST INFLATION FIGHTER

A savings account at Panhandle Savings continues to be the best hedge against inflation. The last seven years show very few months an investor could have pulled his original investment in stocks or bonds without suffering a loss. But... the Panhandle Savings investor received the highest accrued dividend allowed by law, and his money was insured safe by the federal government. Savings accounts at Panhandle Savings are now insured up to $40,000 and plans are available with dividends up to 7-3/4%. Proof once again that your best hedge against inflation is a savings account at Panhandle Savings and Loan.

Clyde Guns East To Upset

PHOENIX (UPI) — Walt "Clyde" Frazier, an eight-year veteran with the New York Knicks, made his sixth National Basketball Association All-Star game appearance Tuesday night and stole the show.

"Clyde," a nickname Frazier acquired because of his mod dress and ball-hawking ability, tallied a game-high 30 points to lead the East to an upset 108-102 victory over the West in the NBA's silver anniversary All-Star game.

Frazier, the Knicks' leading point producer this season with a 21.4 average has been an All-defensive team selection since the voting began six years ago, but it was his offense that earned him the game's Most Valuable Player award by an overwhelming margin.

Rated by many as the best guard in basketball today, Frazier played 35 minutes, hit on 10 of his 17 field goal attempts and connected on 10 of 11 free throws while also contributing four steals to lead the East to its 16th victory against nine losses in All-Star competition.

"I guess the law of averages finally caught up with me," said Frazier after accepting his first All-Star game MVP trophy from Commissioner Walter Kennedy. "You always think about the MVP award. There's a lot of personal satisfaction involved — your family can be proud of something like this."

Frazier's 30 points was the fourth highest total in All-Star game competition, topped only by the 42 scored by Wilt Chamberlain in 1962, Rick Barry's 38 in 1967 and Elgin Baylor's 32 in 1962.

"Walt got hot and there was nobody we could put on him to cool him off," said West Coach Al Attles of Golden State who tried, in vain, to cover Frazier at first with Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles, then Charlie Scott of Phoenix and finally Jim Price of Milwaukee.

Frazier was one of only three East players in double figures. The others were John Havlicek of Boston with 16 and Bob McAdoo of Buffalo with 11.

The West, shooting only 39 per cent from the field compared with 48 per cent for the East, was paced by Kansas City-Omaha's Nate Archibald's 27 points. Barry was the second highest point man for the West with 22 points, plus eight assists and eight steals, while Sidney Wicks of Portland chipped in the 16 points.

The game was played before a record Phoenix Coliseum crowd of 12,885 and watched by millions of others — on national television. Frazier was a runaway choice for MVP honors with 48½ votes compared to 1½ for Archibald and one apiece for Barry and Wicks. Members of the East team got $500 each for the victory while each West player got $300.

"I was very pleased with the response of the players," said East coach K.C. Jones of Washington. "They were all together and wanted to win. It was the easiest game I've ever coached."

Attles had the tougher of the two coaching assignments, trying to figure out how to get the best use out of his three centers — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee, Bob Lanier of Detroit and Sam Lacey of Kansas City-Omaha. As a result, Abdul-Jabbar, considered the most dominant player in the game today, played only 19 minutes, hitting three of his 10 field goal attempts, and finished with seven points.

Lanier scored two points in 12 minutes of action while Lacey finished with six in 17 minutes of playing time.

Both teams showed the effects of having practiced together for only one hour earlier in the day as they combined for 61 turnovers, 33 by the East and 28 by the West.

The West was held to five points in the first six minutes of the second quarter as the East, thanks to 12 points by Frazier, held a 51-46 lead at halftime. The West never got closer than three points the remainder of the game and trailed by as many as 16 at 95-79 midway through the final quarter.

Ali Best '74 Athlete

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali, climaxing a super comeback that saw him beat Joe Frazier on Jan. 28, 1974 and take the heavyweight title from George Foreman in Kinshasa, Zaire, last October, was awarded the $15,000 S. Rae Hickok diamond-studded belt as the Professional Athlete of the Year Tuesday.

He said his first challenger would be Chuck Wepner, the Bayonne (N.J.) Bayonet.

"Some people will criticize me for fighting Wepner," Ali says. "But he's ranked No. 8 and you've got to consider him as being among the best heavyweights in the world. He's a good family man. He's got children and deserves a break."

Ali has 1975 plans for three of the aforementioned. Herbert Muhammad, Ali's manager, reveals he's negotiating with Madison Square Garden for a June bout with Lyle, who is ranked No. 3 among contenders.

"If that falls through," says Herbert Muhammad, "we'll fight Bugner in London. The Briton, the reigning European champion, is rated fifth among heavyweights."

All maintains Wepner's one claim to fame is the New Jersey's North American championship. Then, in his pixieish fashion, Ali chuckles, "We can't have two heavyweight champions in this country."

In winning the Hickok belt, Ali became the first boxer in 14 years and only the fourth fighter to earn the award since it was instituted in 1950.

No. 12 Warriors Trip 15-Ranked Gamecocks

United Press International
The players on the floor handled the ball, but outside influences, including a temper tantrum by the Marquette coach, seemed to play a big part in the 69-60 victory for 12th-ranked Marquette over 15th-ranked South Carolina.

"I think the weather had a big part to do with this game," Marquette Coach Al McGuire said. "It's been zero or below here and I think those Southern guys get a little depressed about that."

"I don't know if it was the weather, but something sure made us cold," said Frank McGuire, the South Carolina coach. "But one of the biggest factors was Ali's temper tantrum. He didn't get a technical, but he got the next four or five calls going his way. He intimidated the officials."

Ali said, "There are certain times when you can't be a gentleman. Sometimes you have to kick something and go to market." Nobody knew what he meant by that.

And then there were the 10,938 screaming fans that turn the Milwaukee Arena into a snakepit second to none whenever the Warriors play.

With just over three minutes left the Gamecocks trailed by 64-56 and Tommy Boswell went to the free-throw line for two shots.

The fans' screams rose to an ear-splitting crescendo and he missed both of them.

That was one of the keys, Frank McGuire said. "If he had hit those we would have been back in the game. But that crowd is something else."

Marquette's Bo Ellis was something else, too, as he scored 21 points and had 12 rebounds to lead the Warriors. Boswell led South Carolina with 19.

The Gamecocks trailed 49-48 with 9:20 left, but Marquette outscored them 10-2 in the next three minutes and held on for its 10th win against two losses. South Carolina dropped to 8-4.

Bradley, the nation's 17th-ranked team, was upset, 69-64, by Missouri Valley Conference rival North Texas State University. Terry Bailey's pair of free throws with 31 seconds left in the game locked up the victory.

Bailey finished with 18 points and Larry Spruiell added 16 for the victorious Eagles. Greg Smith led Bradley with 22 points and Jim Caruthers contributed 18 as the Braves' record fell to 8-4.

Memphis State set a school scoring record with its 138-92 rout of Buffalo State. Junior guard Bill Cook led the Tigers with 26 points, while freshman center John Gunn added 25 and Ed Wilson 24.

In the Beanpot Classic in Boston, Harvard dropped Northeastern, 90-67, to set up a title game confrontation with Boston College, which beat Boston University, 96-78.

In other major games, Princeton topped Temple, 58-48; Duquesne defeated St. Bonaventure, 96-91; St. John's crushed Rhode Island, 100-75; Vermont edged Massachusetts, 69-65; and Denver beat Wyoming, 98-82.

REBEL STREAK SNAPPED

Borger Only District Team To Win In Non-Conference

Doug Curry scored 22 points to lead all scorers and carried the Lubbock Coronado Mustangs to a 59-56 win over the Tascosa Rebels Tuesday night in Lubbock.

The win for Lubbock snapped a six-game victory string for Tascosa, picked to finish third in District 3-AAAA play.

In other games involving district teams Tuesday, Lubbock High slipped by Caprock, 66-65; Lubbock Monterey knocked off Palo Duro, 75-61; Plainview belted Amarillo High, 62-53, and Borger walloped Guyton, Okla., 87-57.

Lubbock High's victory was considered an upset since the 4-AAAA Westerners are ranked last in their district. James Moore scored 26 points, including 12 on six field goals, to pace the winners to their fifth win against 15 losses in non-conference games.

Others in double figures for the balanced Westerners were Birdel Dunn with 16, Marvin Simpson with 12 and Billy Duffy with 10.

Caprock was led by Rex Harris with 16. Del Rey added 14 and Tommy Burned followed with 13. The Longhorn of Bill White fell to 7-11 with the loss. Caprock's fourth in a row.

Monterey won its second in a row after getting whipped 81-55 by Pampa in Lubbock. The Plainsmen were paced by Scott Gardner with 24 points. Jackson Pace with 18 and Dick Clardy with 15.

Palo Duro lost its 14th game of the season despite a 21 point game by Anthony Jones and 20 points by Sylvester Moore. PD is 2-14 for the season, while Monterey is 11-8.

Clint Purdy tallied 16 points to pace Plainview to a convincing win over slumping Amarillo, which lost its third straight. The Sandies were led by Skip Howard with 18 and Gary Holcomb with 14.

Plainview, which is expected to battle Monterey for the 4-AAAA title, is 13-9, while the Sandies fell to 7-10.

Borger, the hottest team in the district, rolled to its ninth win in a row, as Joe Kerr poured in 27 points. The Bulldogs are 19-1 for the season and one game from tying their longest win streak of the year (10).

In non-conference games involving 3-AAAA teams Friday night, Pampa is at Liberal, Kan. Borger visits Monterey. Tascosa entertains Hereford. Caprock hosts Coronado. Amarillo hosts Lubbock, and Palo Duro travels to Plainview.

Cats, Kittens Take 2 Over 1-A Arch Rival

Canadian swept a pair of District 1-A basketball contests from White Deer, winning the boys game, 62-38, and the girls, 72-52.

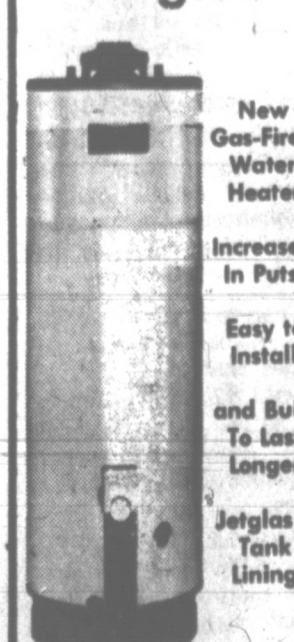

In other area boys contests, Miami whipped Lefors, 73-58; Wellington belted Wheeler, 64-50; Mobettie ran by Groom, 75-55. Claude stopped McLean, 70-52.

In girls contests, Lefors nipped Miami, 73-72 in double overtime; Wheeler blasted Wellington, 62-36; Groom walloped Mobettie, 73-35, and Claude stunned McLean, 63-53.

Danny Gilliland poured in 36 points to pace Miami by host Lefors. The Pirates were led by Keith Baker with 17. In the girls game, Jeannie Greenhouse scored 42 points for Miami but was overshadowed by Carol Vincent, who score 50 for Lefors.

Lefors led at the end of the first quarter and at halftime. The score at the end of the fourth quarter was 67-67. Both teams scored four points in the first overtime.

Clayton Ready To Work

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Rep. Bill Clayton, the new speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, told his colleagues Tuesday he is putting them to work.

"The people of this state sent us to do a job, and not to joke about it," he said.

"Let us begin to restore that confidence (in government). Let's be heroes of today, not villains of tomorrow."

He warned House members he plans to emphasize hard work during the remaining 139 days of the session, and promised not to return to the kind of administration that characterized the Gus F. Mutscher term of 1971.

"I stand before you today to say the days of iron-hand rule are gone," Clayton said. "The public won't stand for it, the members won't stand for it, and most of all I won't stand for it."

Clayton is a solid conservative, but managed to put together a coalition of liberals and minority members to win the speakership over more liberal challengers such as Reps. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, and Fred Head, D-Athens, who wound up as a member of Clayton's team.

"Too often in recent political history, there have been bitterness and division among our top state officials because of personalities or politics," Clayton said in his acceptance speech. "There should be no reason for personal feuding and fighting when the public's business is at hand."

He was a committee chairman under Mutscher in 1971, and previously worked for the election of Ben Barnes as speaker. While campaigning for Barnes in 1968 he suffered a heart attack.

Rep. Chris Semos, D-Dallas, who seconded Clayton's nomination, said "his political philosophy boils down to wanting to do what is right, and getting it done."

Greek Parliament Votes For Trials await trial.

The judge was scheduled to travel to the Aegean island of Kea today to begin taking testimony from former dictator George Papadopoulos, who headed the 1967 "colonels' coup" that brought the military to power in Greece.

Court sources said Papadopoulos and four of his top aides, sent into exile on the island two months ago, would probably be jailed along with Ioannides.

Papadopoulos came to power in an April 21, 1967, military coup that ended civilian rule in the birthplace of democracy. He was ousted by Ioannides in a Nov. 25, 1973, mini-coup touched off by student rioting in Athens.

The military regime collapsed last July 23 after a Greek-supported coup on Cyprus backfired and led to Turkey's invasion of the Mediterranean island.

Premier Constantine Karamanlis returned from self-imposed exile to restore civilian rule. He won an overwhelming mandate on Nov. 17 in Greece's first national election in a decade.

Ioannides, one of 50 men accused of masterminding the 1967 coup, testified Tuesday before Judge Volitis and defended the military takeover.

"My conscience as a Greek officer compelled me to revolt with my colleagues to save the country from total dissolution under political conditions at that time," he said in written testimony.

But Defense Minister Evangelos Averoff, speaking to newsmen, said, "The statement of Ioannides is full of inaccuracies and fictions."

ATHENS (UPI) — The new Greek parliament cleared the way today for the mass trial of an estimated 200 members of the military regime that ruled Greece with an iron fist for seven years.

The two-month-old legislature voted unanimously this morning to cancel the military regime's self-declared amnesty and speedily prosecute junta cabinet ministers, senior officials and key collaborators.

The vote came a few hours after former strongman Dimitrios Ioannides was imprisoned on charges of high treason and sedition. The 53-year-old brigadier general, the first junta member to be jailed, faces the death penalty.

Athens Appeals Court Judge George Volitis sent the former head of Greece's feared military police to Korydallos Prison in Piraeus Tuesday night to

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

THURSDAY, JAN. 16
Your birthday today:
As you celebrate today, you are expansive, optimistic and make resolutions that last all year. Cultivate your mind and spirit rather than pursue material gains. Relationships thrive, although you idealize the characteristics of friends. Today's natives are noted for their chronic impatience, overall enthusiasm for modern inventions.

Aries [March 21-April 19]:
Delegate chores: You can't do all the work yourself or carry the main load in coming months. Travel encounters delay, interruptions. Partners are out of sorts.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]:
Pay attention to what associates are doing with property or other serious deals and listen to their useful suggestions. A good family life softens disturbing news. Console those in distress.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]:
Manage career efforts or business alone. Concentrate on proven facts; stay busy. Look up old friends who cheer you late in the day. Romance requires few words.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]:
Interminable discussions include priceless information. Friends offer you help. Quietly support someone who is down on his luck.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]:
Recheck current projects; catch an error at the last minute. Evening favors a small investment and loan to enable someone to make good use of a venture.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]:
Stay alone or in a large-size group. Friends are edgy and require tact; family needs encouragement, moral support. Don't complicate matters by involving outsiders.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]:
Buy items intended for long-term use; make permanent investments. Business travel is advantageous. Social visits turn out to be livelier than expected.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]:
You can take a calculated risk now with stronger odds in your favor. Leave your friends out; by and large, their luck isn't as good as yours. Do something for the public good.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]:
Support those causes you fully endorse and feel you understand. Friends are full of minor surprises that call for a celebration.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]:
Romantic secrets are spilled through rare coincidences. So much is happening so fast that you should slow down and reserve decisions. Make plenty of notes.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]:
Keep plodding along with routine work. Conventional methods work best. An old outlay of money returns suddenly if you ask the right question.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]:
Take direct action, keep up with the present situation and be willing to show off a bit. Improvise evening plans at the last minute, but settle for the simplest.

GOOD NEWS TODAY

City council with a heart

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

A waning public confidence in government at all levels became a vital political issue in the last year. But a group of elderly residents of Ingleside, Calif., a Los Angeles suburb, reversed the trend and thanked the local City Council for using their hearts along with their heads.

The council, considering an expanded redevelopment project, voted unanimously to protect aged homeowners from losing their residences by city condemnation proceedings.

Exempted, too, from the condemnation action were two churches. Originally there was to have been a mass condemnation action. About two-thirds of the structures in the 79-acre downtown area are residences. The redevelopment project threatened to wipe out the homes of many aged, to make way for new buildings.

Then the letters began to pour into the council offices. Most of them were based on a glimmering hope that residents could live out their remaining years in their family homes.

Typical of the pleas was a letter from 85-year-old Cleona Grall. "My peace of mind and security have been shaken by the fear of your proposed forceful acquisition of my home and my livelihood," she wrote.

"One thing that worries me is the injustice of being forced from my home and to accept a price for my property that could in no way supply the security I now enjoy. I implore you to sincerely consider the impact of your plans on the lives of the many elderly people who comprise the bulk of this block."

Mayor Merle Mergell and Councilman Robert Lettau read most of the letters. Their second thoughts about the project led Lettau to introduce a resolution to protect elderly owners by revamping some areas of the redevelopment project.

"Those who live here now and want to be part of the project should have that option," Lettau explains. "But those who don't want to leave their homes should not be forced to do so." His council colleagues agreed.

Deadly Winter Storm Sweeping Across North

United Press International
A powerful winter storm stacked up nearly two feet of snow along the eastern shores of Lake Ontario Tuesday night on the heels of another storm that had spread crippling snowfalls from the Midwest to New England.

howling winds produced near blizzard conditions in the area.
The storm dumped up to 22 inches of snow near Oswego, N.Y., and 40 mile per hour winds kicked up clouds of snow near Syracuse, reducing visibility to a few yards.
Earlier Tuesday, a killer storm which spread heavy snows from the Midwest to New England and left 59 persons dead, dumped up to a foot of snow on southwestern New York, forcing two school districts to cancel classes.

The last remnants of the storm lumbered out of New England into the Atlantic Tuesday.
Behind it, the death toll continued to climb.

Minnesota counted four more storm-related fatalities and Nebraska two. Most of the most recently reported storm victims died of exposure. Their bodies were found in farm fields, snowbound autos or unheated buildings where they sought refuge from the weekend blizzard.
The storm and the sub-zero cold wave which followed it were blamed for 15 deaths in Minnesota, 11 in Iowa, 12 in Nebraska, 8 in South Dakota, 2 in Michigan and 1 in Illinois. Storm-related plane crashes claimed 10 lives — 7 in Virginia and 3 in Kentucky.

Iowa Gov. Robert D. Ray Tuesday declared 40 snow-swept western Iowa counties a state disaster area because of the storm and ordered state agencies to render all possible assistance.
"Most of northwest Iowa was devastated by the storm," state Rep. Ingver Hansen, R-Hartley, said. "That is the heart of the corn belt and livestock area of this state and it was hard hit."

The cold weather which followed the storm in the Plains spread over the extreme Southeast today and frost of freezing temperatures were expected to reach deep into Florida. Temperatures were expected to dip to the 20s in northern Florida and to the 30s in southern Florida, though warm Gulf waters were expected to keep the temperature in the 50s in the Keys.

The use of fingerprints for identification was first used in the 1880s by English administrator William Herschel in India.

Today in Wednesday, Jan. 15, the 15th day of 1975 with 350 to follow.
The moon is approaching its first quarter.
The morning stars are Mars and Saturn.
The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.
Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn.
American Negro leader Martin Luther King was born Jan. 15, 1929. American actors Lloyd Bridges and Margaret O'Brien also were born on Jan. 15 — he in 1913 and she in 1917.
On this day in history:

In 1876, a cartoon done by Thomas Nast appeared in Harper's weekly with a donkey symbolizing the Democratic party for the first time. The symbol stuck.
In 1922, the Irish Free State was formed.
In 1943, the Pentagon, world's largest building of its kind, was completed on the Virginia side of the Potomac River just outside Washington, D.C.
In 1973, President Nixon ordered bombing, shelling and mining of North Vietnam stopped as Vietnam peace agreement neared.
