Report Russian Jets Massed Near Matsu

New Airfield Completed In Strike Range Of Formosa

By UNITED PRESS

TAIPEI -- Communist China has stationed at least 40 Russian-built MIG-15 jet fighters at newly-completed Luchiao airfield within striking range of Matsu and Formosa, Nationalist newspapers reported Friday.

An American military spokesman would neither confirm nor deny the report. Chinese official sources said, "The Communists have completed Luchiao and it is highly possible they have stationed planes there."

The presence of Communist jets could herald a new crisis in the Formosa Strait since it would mark the first time they have had such planes within effective flying range of Formosa.

The reports were printed by the English language China News which quoted "unimpeachable" sources. It said MIGs were "taking off and landing at Luchiao." Official quarters could not comment on whether the MIGs might be "operational" out of Luchiao or merely testing facilities of the newly constructed field.

Nationalist Chinese air force commander Gen. Wang (Tiger) Shuming said "once the Communists based planes on the fields opposite Formosa he would recommend the fields be bombed. This coincided with dispatches from Washington Friday that the administration was under increasing pressure to sanction the bombing of the Red airfields.

To meet a Communist air threat the Nationalist Chinese have a considerable number of F-84 Thunderjet fighter-bombers and a limited number of F-86 Sabrejet fighter-interceptors. At present the air force is feverishly training to use the Sabres.

In addition the U.S. Air Force maintains one squadron, the 16th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron of the 51st Wing of the Fifth Air Force on Formosa. This could be increased to a wing of 75 more planes on short notice as was done during the Tachen evacuation.

Question Of The Week

How Will British Relations With US Fare Under Eden?

By T. D. ELLIS
Quizzing Cameraman

"How will Sir Anthony Eden's new position in the British Government affect British-American relationship?"

Sir Winston Churchill presented his resignation as Prime Minister of England to Queen Elizabeth early this week and Sir Anthony Eden was assigned the task of guiding the British government.

Most Pampans felt the two men had been so closely associated that the change would not affect the relationship between the United Kingdom and the United States.

Pampans comments:

W. L. Mclear, 909 E. Campbell, retired: "I don't think the change will affect U. S.-British relationship very much. I feel if any thing it would make for better relationship. I feel England needs a little new blood, besides, Churchill is getting too old to take care of England's business."

Miss Jerry Sloan, 711 E. Browning, PHS student: "I think it will narrow US-British relations some. I feel Sir Winston has been the one person that has held the United States and Britain together. I feel things will be bad for a while because Eden is not the statesman Churchill was."

Tom C. Scarberry, 1512 Alcock, laborer: "It seems to me that Britain has always tried to get all she could out of the United States and I doubt she will change her policy now although I hope some changes are in order."

Mrs. James Vaughn, 532 Magnolia, housewife: "I feel Eden will be O.K. I think he will try to get along with us just as Sir Winston Churchill did. I hope our senators are as eager to deal with him as they were with Churchill."

M. N. Roberts, 608 N. Sumner, Optometrist: "I don't think it will change our relationship much. The two men have worked together long enough to have similar methods. I don't think the change will mean a change of policies."

Earl Matlock, 404 S. Gillespie, cemetery caretaker: "I think relations will be better if it makes any change at all. I think Churchill has served long enough. I feel he is too old and I have felt that way for some time. I am willing to try Eden for a while."

Mrs. S. W. Dougherty, 313 Miami, Montgomery Ward sales lady: "I don't think the United States will get along well with Eden. He will never be the prime minister Churchill was and I think we have been dealing with Churchill so long we won't know what to expect from Eden."

Clarence Qualls, 515 N. Starkweather, photographer: "I don't feel like it will change relations much. I feel their policies will be very much the same. And I think Churchill will still run the show until he dies."

Eden Huddles With Cabinet On Strategy For Elections

LONDON —UP— Prime Minister Anthony Eden conferred Friday with his cabinet chiefs on conservative party strategy in the forthcoming general elections and possibly on further efforts for peace talks with Russia.

Eden and his wife were spending their first official weekend at Chequers, the country home of British prime ministers. They took with them such guests as Chancellor R. A. Butler, the No. 2 man in the government, and the marquess of Salisbury, lord president of the council.

Observers said Eden's mild reshuffle of the cabinet of former Prime Minister Winston Churchill foreshadowed a quick general election and further efforts for western talks with Russia, but not "at the summit."

Rex-examine Talk Possibility

Belief that Eden soon would re-examine the possibility of talks with Russia was seen in his choice of Defense Secretary Harold MacMillan as foreign minister. MacMillan is a vigorous supporter of Anglo-American co-operation and sees eye-to-eye with Eden on such matters.

Two weeks ago Eden echoed President Eisenhower's view on Big Four talks at the lower or foreign minister level and MacMillan was known to agree. Ten days ago Churchill crossed everybody up by saying again in Commons he felt such talks should start "at the summit."

There was immediate confusion at the foreign office, but Eden's choice of MacMillan was a strong indication Britain will stick to Eden's original advocacy of the low-level approach.

Indication of Early Election

Edens' decision to content himself with only three major changes in his cabinet was a strong indication that he will call an early election. The consensus of opinion was May 26 or June 16. Eden planned to stay at Chequers until Tuesday, and no announcement was expected until after Easter.

Hailstorm Lashes Southeast Texas

By UNITED PRESS

A hailstorm lashed the extreme southeast tip of Texas Friday but the rest of the state enjoyed fair weather and meteorologists said there should be no more severe storms.

Hail the size of hen eggs was reported north of Beaumont by the Beaumont-Port Arthur weather bureau, although none fell at the weather station and only .06 of moisture was recorded.

There were other scattered thunderstorms along the coast from Palacios to Beaumont, but most of the bad weather was aloft and there were no reports of damage.

Traces of rain were reported at Houston and Brownsville, and at Galveston and Palacios, where no moisture was recorded, thunderstorms occurred during the night and early Friday within sight or hearing.

Skies were generally cloudy over southern and southeast Texas Friday and clear to partly cloudy over the rest of the state. Forecasters said the outlook for Friday and Saturday is for widely scattered showers, mostly near the coast, and none in North or West Texas.

Temperatures will generally continue to warm up over the entire state.

Low temperatures early Friday ranged from 33 degrees at Dalhart to 66 at Corpus Christi.

Uranium Hunt On In S. Texas

SAN ANTONIO —UP— Nancy Heard, oil editor of the San Antonio News and Express, reports a $6 million contract for development and exploration of uranium properties in the Karnes county area of San Antonio.

The contract was signed Thursday in New York by Morris Jaffe, representing the Jaffe uranium properties, and Climax Molybdenum Co., Miss Heard said.

The contract calls for development of the uranium potential the Jaffe group holds in the middle of Tordilla Hill, she said.

Gasoline Tax Fight Brewing

Committee Okays One-Cent Increase

AUSTIN —UP— A fight shaped up in the legislature Friday over Gov. Allan Shivers' repeated recommendation for a two - cent increase in the state's gasoline tax.

Shivers recommended such an increase at the beginning of the legislature, but the House Revenue and Taxation committee Wednesday approved a bill calling for only a one-cent a gallon increase in the gasoline tax, along with a penny-a-pack boost in the cigaret tax.

At a press conference Thursday, Shivers commended the committee for "getting a tax bill out the legislature can work on." Then he hinted there will be a fight over the gasoline tax increase, with bait held out for city legislators to go for the additional increase.

"If one cent more could be added, some relief could be given to cities and counties" to help finance construction of expressways, he said.

The tax battle will open in the House Monday. The House did not meet Thursday, having recessed Wednesday for the Easter holidays, and the Senate held a short session and then adjourned.

Before it quit, however, the Senate approved House changes in a bill tightening financial requirements for fire and casualty insurance companies and sent it to the governor for his signature.

The bill, as finally approved, requires fire insurance companies to have at least $150,000 capital and surplus; casualty insurance companies to have at least $225,000, and companies writing both types of insurance to have at least $300,000.

The bill originally required higher minimums when it was passed by the Senate, but the House lowered the figures. Sen. Crawford Martin, sponsor of the bill, asked the Senate to agree to the lower figures even though "the bill did not come out of the House with what I hoped for."

The Senate also approved and sent to the governor a bill raising the speed limit for passenger cars on Texas highways from 60 to 65 miles an hour. On four-lane divided highways the speed limit will be 70 miles an hour.

It also raises the speed limit for pickup trucks from 45 to 60 miles an hour.

Woman Asks Lie Test In Murder Case

HOUSTON --UP— A young Army wife, mother of four children, demanded a lie detector test Friday after accusing her brother, who earlier accused her, of bludgeoning to death a Baptist preacher's wealthy widow here last Feb. 15.

The woman, attractive 24-year-old Mrs. Evelyn Watson, confessed Thursday night that she was present when Mrs. Lucille Quarles, the 52-year-old victim, was murdered in her home, but she said her 23-year-old brother, Jimmie Lee Baker, did the actual bludgeoning.

Police Chief Jack Heard said Mrs. Watson broke down shortly before midnight after an all-day grilling and said she and her brother went to the Quarles home, where the widow lived alone, to rob her.

"She said she waited outside the house but entered when she heard scuffling," Heard said. "She said she found her brother whipping Mrs. Quarles in the bathroom."

Baker, described by his family as "mentally retarded," was arrested before Mrs. Watson at Belton, Tex. He has stoutly accused his sister of masterminding the Quarles robbery, and killing the widow.

PLUMBERS SEEK EINSTEIN'S AID ON MODERN PROBLEMS

NEW YORK —UP— New York master plumbers sought help Friday from Prof. Albert Einstein. They invited him to attend their convention next week.

"Sometimes we are hard put to find leaks in complicated structures," convention Director Henry Pinner said. "We read somewhere about a Tennessee plumber running some radioactive elements down a troublesome drain and then finding the leak by using a Geiger counter.

Pinner hoped Einstein would attend the meeting in Brooklyn, remembering that the renowned scientist said last November that if he had his life to live over again he would be a plumber.

Easter Pilgrims Mass At Vatican

VATICAN CITY —UP— Pope Pius XII appeared in his Vatican study window Friday facing sunny St. Peter's Square and blessed thousands of Easter pilgrims who came here from all over the world to observe Holy Week.

The frail, white-clad pontiff made his unscheduled Good Friday appearance shortly after noon to acknowledge the insistent cheers of some 8,000 Romans and pilgrims who chanted "Vogliamo Il Papa" (we want the pope).

Pope Pius, who spent much of the morning in prayer and meditation in the private chapel adjoining his bedroom, had not planned to appear in public on this saddest day of Christiandom—Good Friday, the day Christ died on the Cross.

Yields to Demands

But he finally yielded to the crowd's insistence.

Good Friday was begun in the Holy Land with the mass of the presanctified in the Chapel of Calvary and the annual solemn procession to the stations of the Cross followed by solemn ceremonies at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

It began in Vatican City with bright sunshine that contrasted strikingly with the darkness that descended on the crucifixion scene on Mount Calvary that spring day nearly 2,000 years ago.

The sun streamed through the high winds of the Apostolic palace as Pope Pius XII retired for prayer early in the morning.

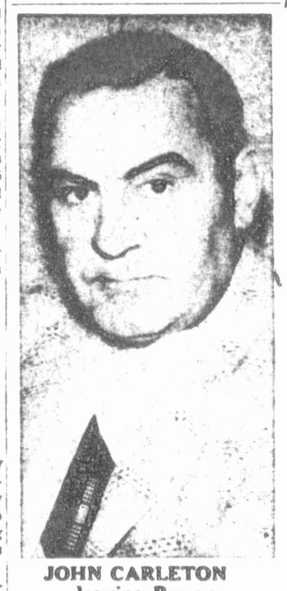

Pope in Better Health

The 79-year-old pontiff, now in better health than at any time in the past three years, did not schedule any public appearance on this day of mourning.

Thousands of Romans and pilgrims from the far corners of the earth flocked to Rome's 445 churches for the sorrowful Good Friday services.

Religious images and crucifixes were draped in purple mourning. Holy water fonts were empty. In many churches statues and images of the dead Christ were on display.

No mass was said Friday, the only day in the year when this exception is made. And only priests and those in danger of death are allowed to take holy communion.

Carleton Resigns From Oilers

John Carleton, the Oiler public relations man since March 1, has tendered his resignation to become effective immediately.

Carleton resigned to accept an offer to become the general manager of Yuma in the Arizona-Mexico League.

"I regret very much of leaving Pampa, but it is simply a matter of dollars and cents that I am accepting the Yuma job," Carleton said this morning.

"I want to thank everyone in Pampa for the nice way they have treated me since I've been here," Carleton said. "I certainly want to express my appreciation to the directors of the Pampa Oilers Community Baseball Association for their fine cooperation during my stay," Carleton added.

Carleton was the first umpire in organized baseball to enlist in the armed services for World War II. Carleton was a Marine.

Carleton came to Pampa from Abilene where he was business manager of the Abilene Blue Sox through the winter months. Carleton was a member of the West Texas-New Mexico League umpiring staff last year.

Amarillo Court Clerk Charged

AMARILLO, Tex. --UP— Mrs. Ada Campbell, a 45-year-old grandmother who is a probate clerk in the court house, has been charged with embezzling $100 from Potter county in 1952.

District Attorney Gib Howard filed the charge Thursday. He said it grew out of an audit of books ordered last fall by Potter county commissioners.

He said a Potter county grand jury will continue its consideration of the audit results Monday.

Mrs. Campbell has been a deputy civil and criminal probate clerk since September, 1950, and had previously served as a clerk in court houses in Tulia and Lubbock. She is the mother of two and grandmother of two.

County Clerk Oren Jones suspended Mrs. Campbell when the charge was filed.

Killer Is Suspect In Robbery

Victims Identify Ex Con's Photos

NEW YORK —UP— Redmond Ninny Cribbins, convicted killer and parole violator, topped the list of suspects Friday in the $305,243 record robbery of a New York bank.

Victims of the well-planned holdup identified Cribbins, 48, from police photographs as the leader of the machinegun mob that robbed the Chase Manhattan Bank branch at Woodside Wednesday.

Although no wanted alarm has been broadcast for Cribbins, police spokesmen said that he is wanted already for parole violation. They said an alarm may be withheld until newer photos of the ex-convict are ready for distribution.

Cribbins, granted parole in June, 1948, stopped making the periodic required visits to his parole officer last year and automatically became a violator.

Oilman's Wife Held In Murder Case

FORT WORTH --UP - Homicide detectives disclosed Friday that they have found a bundle of perfumed love letters blond Mrs. Mary Clark wrote to a New York playboy before she became oil millionaire William P. Clark's third wife in 1951.

Clark was murdered and robbed in his 23-room mansion in 1953, and an ex-convict confessed Thursday that Mrs. Clark, 46, "guaranteed" Leroy (Tincy) Eggleston, 48, a Dallas hoodlum, $10,000 to do the job.

BULLETIN

The ex-convict, Harry Huggins, 37, said he was one of two men Eggleston took with him to do the job, although he didn't know all the details until after Eggleston shot Clark as the wealthy oilman lay on the floor begging for his life.

Police said the New York man is Julius Laneri, who calls himself a "commission merchant" because he makes his living buying things "wholesale" in New York for Fort Worth residents. He is a member of a Fort Worth family.

The notes were perfumed and "full of affectionate phrases." District Attorney Howard Fender said the love letters will be "vital evidence" in the case.

Laneri is the same man who Clark's attorneys several times have tried to obtain a pre-trial deposition from. Just 12 days before he was murdered Clark filed suit for annulment from his wife because, he said, she lured him into marriage for his money.

One of the questions the attorneys would ask Laneri is:

"Did you and Mrs. Clark have a rendezvous in a New York hotel room shortly before she married Clark?"

Mrs. Clark refused to take a lie detector test Thursday night, and attorneys for her and Eggleston have asked for their freedom on writs of habeas corpus. Criminal District Judge Dave McGee will hear the applications at 2 p.m. Friday.

Sears To Aid Ward's Prexy

CHICAGO --UP - Sewell Avery's greatest competitor came to his aid Friday in the veteran businessman's battle with financier Louis Wolfson for control of the Montgomery Ward & Co. mail order empire.

Allstate Insurance Co., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Sears Roebuck & Co., announced it would vote all its 8,000 shares of Ward's stock "in favor of the present management."

That meant Avery, Ward's 81-year-old board chairman, would have Sears Roebuck in his corner when his proxy battle with Wolfson reaches the showdown at a meeting to elect officers April 22.

Sears is the nation's largest mail order firm and Montgomery Ward is the second biggest. Wolfson has bitterly criticized Avery for building up a $277 million nest egg against a possible depression instead of following Sears' expansionist policies.

Safety Tag Deadline Next Week

Pampa motorists today had just one more week in which to get their vehicles inspected and equipped with the 1955 green safety inspection sticker.

And there is an estimated one-quarter of the Gray County motor vehicles yet to be inspected.

The deadline is April 15, one week from today, Hollis Bryan, Amarillo, official of the Department of Public Safety motor vehicle inspection division, reminded Gray Countians today. The next day, April 16, law enforcement officers will begin picking up motorists who have not had their vehicles inspected.

A total of 9,315 Gray County vehicles had been inspected by closing time yesterday, Bryan reported. And the total registration for the county is 12,668.

Pampa has 10 places of business and McLean, four, where vehicles can be given the official state inspection, Bryan said. In McLean there are Cook Chevrolet, Andrews Equipment, Hibler Truck and Implement ad Joe Smith Motor.

If motorists have had their vehicles inspected since September and have the green sticker on their windshield, they do not need another inspection. If they have the gold sticker, however, they must meet the April 15 deadline with a new inspection.

Rubber Plant Workers Back

NEW YORK —UP— Some 33,000 CIO rubber workers went back to their jobs Friday in 19 United States Rubber Co. plants following settlement of a week-long strike over a new contract.

Terms of the contract, awaiting ratification by the workers, were not announced.

The workers walked out last March 31, invoking a "no contract, no work" policy when the old agreement expired.

Main point in the dispute over the new agreement concerned vacations, with the union asking for three weeks a year after 10 years of work and four weeks after 15. The old contract provided for three weeks after 15 years employment.

The company was last reported to be offering a stepup of one day for each year of service between 10 and 15 years, reaching a maximum of four weeks vacation after 25 years.

Plants shut down included all U.S. Rubber tire plants, most of the footwear and industrial goods and a major share of the firm's chemical production.

They are located in Chicopee Falls, Mass.; Providence, Woonsocket and Bristol, R. I.; Naugatuck, Conn., where there are three plants; Passaic and North Bergen, N. J.; Philadelphia; Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, Mishawaka and Washington, Ind.; Milan, Tenn., Chicago, Detroit, Eau Claire, Wis., and Los Angeles.

West Germans Hike Trucker Subsidies

BERLIN —UP—The West German government voted additional subsidies Friday to truckers to pay the exorbitant highway taxes levied by the Communists in their pocketbook blockade of West Berlin.

Confronted by prolonged Communist haggling over the tolls, the government raised its subsidies from $125,000 to $187,500 for West German truckers who supply most of Berlin's food on the 110-mile run through Communist territory.

This was in addition to a subsidy of $250,000 already authorized by total of $437,500 in "taxes" the Communists said were needed to repair the highways.

The Communists warned again Friday that ratification of the Paris pacts to rearm West Germany would have "dangerous results" for West Berlin but they did not elaborate on the new threat.

WANTS RETURN

Japan's Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama favors the early return to Japan of Okinawa, big American air base island. Newsmap shows its strategic importance in event of war with Red China. Hatoyama also wants the return of U. S.-held Bonin islands, but has not said anything about return of the Russian-held Kuril, Habomai and southern Sakhalin islands.

Ike Signs Bill To End Occupation

WASHINGTON —UP— President Eisenhower Thursday signed historic allied ageements to end 10 years occupation of West Germany and to add German manpower and resources to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The twin moves marked a sharp defeat for Russia which has tried to keep free Germany out of the allied defense organization. The actions are expected to prompt new allied negotiations with Russia later this year on Germany and other East-West problems.

It is expected that after all nations complete final approval West Germany will start building a defense force of approximately 500,000 men trained and ready within five years.

At a White House ceremony, the President formally signed:

1. United States accords with Britain, France, and West Germany to grant Germans their sovereignty and free them from occupation controls in the three western zones of Germany.

2. United States approval for the admission of the German republic to the North Atlantic treaty's defense system against Communist aggression. Germany will be the 8th nation in NATO.

3. An agreement changing the status of American forces in Germany from occupation troops to that of invited guests under the NATO defense system.

The senate gave its consent to ratification of the first two agreements on April 1. Senate ratification was not needed on the third.

Four Groups Plan Building Atom Plants

WASHINGTON — UP — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Thursday that four groups have proposed to build nuclear power "demonstration" plants which would cost a total of $150 million and generate 455,000 kilowatts of electricity.

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss hailed the proposals as proof that industry is ready to risk money on atomic energy.

They were made under the AEC's recently announced power demonstration reactor program. Those making them would pay 80 to 90 per cent of the costs with the commission paying the rest.

One of the four was a public power proposal submitted by the consumers public power district of Columbus, Neb.

The AEC also noted that in addition to these proposals, the Consolidated Edison Co. of New York has applied for a license to build, entirely on its own, a 250,000-kilowatt atomic power station to cost about $55 million.

This plant, which would take about five years to build, would be the first financed entirely by private enterprise as a strictly business venture.

The other proposals were made under special offers by the AEC designed to encourage industry to enter the atomic power field faster and on a bigger scale than it might otherwise do.

In none of the five instances has the AEC granted formal approval so far.

Pope Decorates Doctors

Operators Speak Up

CHICAGO —UP— Telephone operators at the Adler Planetarium Friday wearily answered dozens of "April Fool's Day calls for a "Mr. Bear." But this year they added a new twist. The answer to the calls was: What star do you want? We have millions of them."

Theda Bara Loses Fight With Cancer

HOLLYWOOD —UP— Theda Bara, the silent screen siren who added cosmetics and the word "vamp" to the world, lost an 18-month battle to cancer Thursday night. She was 64.

She died alone in her room at California Lutheran hospital shortly after a visit from her husband, tormer director Charles Brabin, and her sister, Lori Bara. Nurses discovered her death.

Private Services

Her sister said the one-time star would be buried after funeral services to be attended only by the sister and Brabin, according to Miss Bara's last wishes. The sisters' mother, Mrs. Pauline Bara, is too ill to attend.

Theda Bara, still with the dark hair and pale face that electrified early film fans, had been a quiet Beverly Hills socialite since she retired from films in 1927. But at one time she was such a sensation that her white powder and mascaraed eyes started the fad for make-up.

Miss Bara retired from the screen 29 years ago, and her illness came just as Hollywood was planning a major "comeback" for her. Columbia Studio wanted to film her life story, "The Vamp," next fall. The actress consented to the making of the film only after two years of persuasion.

Plain Name of Goodman

Theda Bara was born Theodosia Goodman in November, 1890 in Cincinnati, Ohio. She won small roles in plays and early Pathe movies in New York under the name of De Coppett. In 1915, she was selected to portray a vampire in "A Fool There Was."

Director Frank Powell changed her name to Theda (from her first name) Bara (after her grandfather's name, Barranger). He draped her dark hair around her white face and taught her to glower, look sleepy and breathe heavily with her nostrils dilated.

She was an overnight success and Fox Studios quickly starred her in "Forbidden Path," "Tiger Woman," and "Purgatory's Ivory Angel."

Democrats "Proud" of Elections

WASHINGTON — UP— Democrats Wednesday hailed election results in Michigan and Chicago as a sure sign of a "great Democratic victory" in 1956. Republicans, meanwhile, admitted they have a "tough fight" ahead. But they still predicted a GOP win next year. Chicago elected a Democratic mayor Tuesday and Democrats claimed they had become the dominant party in Michigan, following Tuesday elections.

Jane Talk

By JANE KADINGO

Pampa News Women's Editor

WISE WOMEN NEVER STOP searching for ways to be more attractive — for ways to improve their natural assets. The elusive word is beauty . . . or you might call it femininity or charm. Here are some apt suggestions on how to add to what you already have . . . and some hints of things to avoid that will take away from your charm.

LOOK CLOSELY at ten women who wear eyelash make-up, and you'll see nine whose lids are speckled with stains.

So says Max Factor, Jr. He admits he's citing an example to shock women into the need of cleaning up after making up.

"Of course," says the Hollywood authority, "the nine at whom I point a finger did probably wipe off brush stains after they used eyelash make-up. But their mistake was not waiting until it was thoroughly dry before cleaningup stains. As long as lashes are wet, they're carriers of stains with every bating of the eyes."

Lipstick stains on teeth also need to be checked on after make-up is applied. Otherwise, says Factor, the most fastidious woman can be guilty of a grooming fault that can be almost repelling.

If there are any obvious crayon marks on the eyebrows, summon beauty's clean-up squad. Have it bring with a little eyebrow brush. Under strong Spring light, undisguised pencil strokes will advertise marked-on eyebrows as phonies, Factor warns.

Any patchwork on cheeks? The only way to tell, says the expert is to get a mirror close-up in a merciless North light. If the answer is "yes," reduce the color intensity of your cheek rouge, and fade the edges out to nothing. You can do this with a powder puff even on your way out of the house.

NOW THAT WINTER'S heavy or sultry scents are being retired in favor of lighter floral odors and colognes are as freshening and cooling as air-conditioners, Max Factor, Jr., long-time perfume connoisseur, cites seven ways to coax more come-hither out of your fragrant aids.

1. Renew perfume every three hours. So that you won't be caught short while you're away from home, carry a purse-size flacon with you.

2. "Paint" the interior of bureau drawers with parfum cologne. You'll be surprised how long fragrance will last, how compatible perfume and unpainted wood are; how willing this lovely prisoner is to share its sweetness with your intimate apparel.

3. Stash your "empties" in with clothes that are confined in bureau drawers, plastic sweater cases, zipped-up garment bags. Although a perfume or parfum cologne bottle is empty, it'll be redolent for months if put away in confined quarters.

4. Set your curls with cologne. Your hair will not only be sweeter for your pains, but pin-ups will dray faster.

5. Apply perfume high — ears, throat, temples — but don't fail to carry it low. So that you won't lose any of its fragrance as it climbs, dab it in linings of shoes, to feet, inside of hems- petticoats. Spray them with parfume cologne.

6. If you prefer a stinging shower to a soothing tub, anoint your skin with bath oil before you step under the spray.

7. Make a dazzling bathroom display of your scented soaps by filling glass jars with these bright beauties. A clear glass candy or apothecary jar containing round, sculptured cakes of electrique blue soap will look as dazzling as bottled lightning.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Every year our good friend Mary Frances Keating of Dublin, Ireland, flies to American for St. Patrick's Day dinner. She always plans the special menu for Cavanagh's restaurant on West 23rd Street, in honor of Ireland's patron saint, herself being the outstanding food expert in the old country.

We just talked with Mary Frances and told her we wanted to use some of her St. Patrick's Day menu for Easter dinner. "And sure that's a lovely idea," she said in her musical way and so we set to work together and now come up with this Irish menu, as fine as any since the days of the Kerry dancers.

Dublin Bay prawn cocktail, Killiney sauce, Golden Bay soup, County Clare, roast saddle of Kerry lamb, mint jelly, Tullamore potatoes and Derry apple tart, Gaelic coffee (spiked with a touch of Irish whisky).

Here are some of Mary Frances Keating's recipes:

Killiney Sauce .. ..
For the prawns (shrimp)
(Serves 8-10)

One-half pint mayonnaise, 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon chopped chives, 2 tablespoons chopped chervil, 2 tablespoons chopped tarragon, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 4 grinds fresh ground pepper, salt to taste.

Mix all ingredients together thoroughly.

Potatoes Tullamore

Three pounds potatoes (sliced raw ⅛ inch thick), 3 fresh tomatoes (peeled and sliced), 3 medium onions (sliced), ½ pound bacon (chopped), ¼ teaspoon leaf thyme, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 6 ounces bacon fat or shortening, 1 cup water.

Place layer of potatoes, then layer of onions and tomatoes in baking pan. Season with thyme, salt and pepper. Sprinkle chopped bacon, add water and bake in moderate oven until tender, about 40 minutes. Sprinkle with parsley and serve.

Cold And Hot

WAYNESVILLE, N. C. — UP — Just like many foods, foam rubber pillows are frozen before they are baked. At the Dayton Rubber Co. plant here, a latex batter is poured into molds, then frozen at below-zero temperatures to set the shape and cell structure of the foam rubber mixture. Freezing is followed by baking, or vulcanizing.

The first successful reaping machine was patented on Dec. 31, 1833.

PAMPA NEWCOMERS

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

The host and hostess who are giving a large party should, after they have greeted the guests at the door, mingle with the guests, saying just a few words to each instead of spending a long time with any one small group.

"Keep circulating" is a good rule for a host and hostess at a large party.

BABY

If Baby's shy of strangers and embarrasses you by screaming every time a friend comes to call, take it slow. Tell your friend to let baby size her up before she goes about tickling him or trying to hold him on her lap.

All of a sudden, Baby breaks out in a diaper rash, and he's never had a bit of trouble before. Unless you find some other obvious cause, you may soon be the happy parents of a new tooth. Teething causes a rash in many cases.

If Baby wakes in the night and can't get his hand in his mouth you will get a symphony of crying. Be sure his sleeves are short and taken up so he'll be able to suck a thumb if he likes.

Michelangelo was disfigured for life by a blow on the nose suffered in a schoolboy fight, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

For Out-Of-Doors

Here's a clever three piece sports set for warm weather playtime. It features the popular halter top, crisp shorts, sew-easy skirt.

Pattern No. 8254 is in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 12, top, 1⅝ yards of 35-inch; skirt, 2⅞ yards; shorts, 1⅛ yards.

For this pattern, send 35 cents in COINS, your name, address, size desired, and the PATTERN NUMBER to Sue Burnett, Pampa Daily News, 372 W. Quincy Street, Chicago 6, Ill.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

The shops are filled with greeting cards, chocolate bunnies, yellow marshmallow chickens and candy eggs; 1955's new crop of millinery fashion and other Easter finery is in full display.

Some of this merchandise will come into the possession of your child.

But Easter is more than merchandise. It is more than our TV's reports of who wore what in the Fifth Avenue parade. It is even more than the white lilies on church altars.

It is the Day When Hurt Was Overcome.

Of all the holidays in your year, Easter Sunday is the day I would choose as the one of special meaning to children.

For while Christmas celebrates the birthday of Love, little boys and girls are incapable of the kind of love it praises. They are, however, quite capable of overcoming hurt.

The Jimmy who suffered five weeks ago when his best friend started palling about with the new boy down the street has regained his friend — and discovered that he could weather the injury done him.

Janet no longer grieves that she wasn't asked to play the role of the Spirit of Thanksgiving in her third-grade play. She and Jimmy have experienced their young crucifixions and have risen beyond reach of the hurts.

These Easter triumphs of theirs often escape their notice because they escape ours. This is a pity, as their conscious awareness that their small crucifixions have been overcome makes for faith in the overcoming of bigger ones.

So Easter Day is the appropriate one for us to set aside a little time for grateful inventory of these victories with the children who experienced them.

The chief problem of the moral training of children is timing. It is stupid to say to Jimmy, "It is moral to overcome hurt that is done you" before he himself has worked through the experience of overcoming it. All our poor timing does is to make him feel immoral as well as hurt.

That's why psychologists are so nervous about proclaiming moral principles to children. Unfortunately, they forgot to tell us that such proclamations are very helpful indeed when they are properly timed to summarize what Jimmy has experienced himself.

Easter Day is our chance to do just this. It will be very encouraging to Jimmy to know that we regard his little overcomings as one in quality with the Easter experience of Jesus.

Tasty Dips And Potato Chips Help Enliven Spring Parties

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Entertaining picks up again now that Easter is here. So how would you like a few of our recipes for dips?

Use fresh, crisp potato chips with them. Place chips in a large bowl and in smaller bowls have two or three dips on the same tray. Makes pleasant before-dinner snacking.

Chip Dip With Almonds, Bacon
(Makes 1 3-4 cups dip)

One-quarter cup roasted almonds, 2 strips bacon, cooked crisp; 1 cup sharp soft Cheddar type cheese, 1 tablespoon chopped green onion, ½ cup mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon Worcestrshire sauce.

Chop almonds fine. Crumble bacon. Combine all ingredients and chill before serving.

Teaser Chip Dip
(Makes about 1 3-4 cups)

One-half cup chopped bologna, 2 tablespoons chopped pimento, 3-4 cup chopped ripe olives, 3 tablespoons chopped sour pickles, mayonnaise, few drops Tabasco sauce.

One cup creamed cottage cheese, 1 clove garlic, ½ cup minced clams, 1 tablespoon clam broth, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon aromatic bitters, chives or green onion tops.

Put garlic through press or chop very fine. There should be about ½ teaspoonful. Mash cottage cheese with fork. Chop clams very fine. Combine all ingredients. Pour into serving bowl and garnish with chives or rings cut from green onion tops. Chill well.

Speech On Trays Given HD Women

The Merten Home Demonstration Club met recently in he home of Mrs. John Brandon, with Mrs. Archie Maness, vice president, in charge of the business session.

The program on aluminum trays was presented by Mrs. A. M. Nash. The trays must first be washed in warm soapy water in order to remove the film from the aluminum, she told the women. The pattern may be transfered on to the tray in several ways, she explained. For a bright and dull finish, aspaltum and muratic acid should be used.

Next meeting will be April 19, in the home of Mrs. Bob Brandon, east of town.

Attending the meeting were Mmes. L. F. Watt, Clyde Edmondson, Archie Maness, V. S. Day A. M. Nash, T. G. Groves, V. Smith and John Brandon.

Women In The Church

A Protestant Episcopal missionary in Kotzebue, Alaska, recently baptized an Eskimo woman 105 years old.

God made mothers before he made ministers: the progress of Christ's kingdom depends more upon the influence of faithful, wise god pious mothers than upon any other human agency," says Dr. Theodore Cuyler, New York City clergyman.

The Quadrennial World Young Women's Christian Association Conference will be held in England in September . . . The 50th anniversary of the founding of the YWCA in Japan will be observed in Japan in connection with that country's triennial National YWCA Convention.

"The United States is no longer in a position of power superiority by reason of exclusive possession of the most frightening weapons yet to appear on this earth," warns Mrs. Clifford C. Cowin, chairman of the Committee on Christian World Relations, in a message to the members of United Church Women interdenominational agency of women in the major Protestant communions. "However, the idea that size and frightfulness insure supremacy or even mere survival went out with the last group of Tyrannosaurus Rex. We are in a position of being responsible to the free world for the maintenance of strength in our own police force. But the real contest with the communists will not be in military terms, except for limited local warfare, for which we must be ready. The real contest will be in economic and psychological terms, and for the very soul of mankind . . .

"For these reasons, United Church Women will support actions by Congress which increase cooperation with other nations — expanded world trade and technical assistance; growing use and strengthening of the United Nations; influencing, not dominating the course of development of proud and touchy young countries emerging into independence. Such action is in accord with Christian ethics. The grand paradox is that it is also necessary for survival. But it cannot be put too strongly that security is a by-product of moral maturity. Our basic responsibility is to love God, and then to love our neighbors. The rest will follow."

This Scriptural selection will be included in those read from the King James Version. A key to harmony is indicated in the following selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, which will also be read: "Let unselfishness, goodness, mercy, justice, health, holiness, love — the kingdom of heaven — reign within us, and sin, until they finally disappear" (p. untilthey finally disappear" (p. 248).

Three worship services are planned for Easter Sunday in the FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH. Dr. Douglas Carver will preach at the 8:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. services, and Dr. P. D. O'Brien, evangelist, will preach at the 8:00 p.m. service. Dr. Carver's sermon topics are as follows: 8:30 a.m. "A Presence That Made A Difference;" and 11:00 a.m. "Behind Closed Doors." Two choirs will be featured at both of the morning services. The Carol Choir will sing "Hosanna" by Gregor and the church choir will sing, "Holy Lord God" by Cain and "The Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel. The Carol Choir will make their first appearance in their new choir robes at both services.

The evening services will begin a revival with Dr. P. D. O'Brien of Big Spring as guest preacher. Prayer meetings will be held prior to the revival services each week at 7:30 p.m.

Meditations for LENT

By DR. CARTER J. SWAIM
Written for NEA Service

At the southernmost tip of Africa is the Cape of Good Hope. The promontory has not always borne this name. The Portuguese navigator, Bartholomew Diaz, was the first to sail around it, in 1488. He called it Cape Troublesome. All that he could see was a rocky point with turbulent watery wastes to the right and the left. What better name than one which would suggest turbulent waters and the danger of shipwreck on a lonely shore?

The sovereign officially named it Cape of Good Hope. Is this a mere euphemism arising out of the primitive belief that if you give an evil object a good name its dangers will disappear? Or did the monarch know that this was the opening not only of a new trade route but of new lanes of knowledge and that here one day a great city would be built?

It was on Friday of Holy Week that the Lord was done to death: "when they came to the place which is called 'The Skull, there they crucified him" (Luke 23:33, RSV). Had we been naming this day, we should no doubt have called it a Day of Gloom, or Day of Misery, or Black Friday. But the church has seen fit to call it Good Friday. Is this an attempt to gloss over an evil memory by a beneficient name? Nay, rather, it is our assurance that this is God's Friday, the day on which Christ's cross, the center of eternity, became the center of history.

Why John Can't Read

Rudolph Flesch, the author of "The Art of Plain Talk," has come to the book stalls again with a volume which may rock a few of our "progressive" educators back on their intellectual heels. The work entitled "Why Johnny Can't Read," is a carefully prepared documentation of pragmatism and socialism in our government-supported schools, although Flesch hurls no opprobriums.

He points up these facts: In Britain, kindergarten children can read simple books. In Germany, second-grade students can read almost any book put in front of them. But in America even third and fourth-grade students have only about 1800 words that they know and understand.

The reason for this paucity of learning is to be found in our government, tax-supported schools which have nearly universally adopted the "progressive" method of teaching reading. This method calls upon the children to recognize whole words. They do not bother with the alphabet nor with phonetics. They use the "word method." He says that by use of the word method, children make outlandish, ridiculous errors.

Flesch gives this example: Some read the word "said" as though it meant and were spelled "jumped." "One youngster who had successfully recognized 'children' on a word-recognition card was unable to read it on a printed page. How did he get it from the card? The answer: 'by the smudge over in the corner.' "

Flesch has correctly labeled this "word-method" as similar to the devices used in teaching Chinese. There, with phonetics and alphabet ruled out by an elaborate system which has stemmed directly from picture writing, it takes years for anyone to learn how to write or read. The far more efficient English characters and pronunciations can be leaned readily when children are drilled in such old-fashioned virtues as memorizing the alphabet and the simple sounds made by the vowels and consonants.

Failure to provide such drilling means that we have reverted to something akin to Babylonian cuneiform or Sanskit and are leaving our children in school hopelessly handicapped when it comes to facing up to life after they get out of school.

The real point, however, is not the system of teaching reading that is used in various schools, but in the fact that the parent has no choice in the matter regardless of which system of teaching might be preferred. How different it could be in the competitive atmosphere of independent schools free from government domination! Under a free-of-government school system the parents could choose the type of school desired and the law of competition would soon force a show-down on which type of training was best. Then parents could determine for themselves what school they wanted their children to attend and none would be forced to attend a school against his choice. Under the government controlled system of schools in which parents have no real choice, they are stuck with whatever fashion the "educators" think is popular at the moment.

Thus, the disagreement over the system of teaching reading is just one more bit of evidence that the basic and fundamental wrong lies in the socialistic school system itself and that it has all of the weaknesses and evils of any socialistic scheme regardless of what field is considered.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

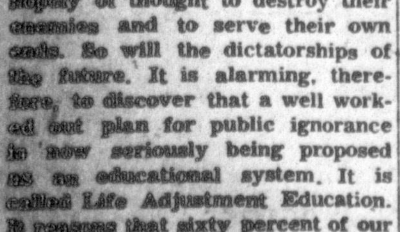

One cannot help but feel particularly sympathetic with a child who is born crippled or deformed or who becomes handicapped after birth through disease or injury. But it certainly is not enough just to feel sorry for some youngster who is handicapped and consequently the work of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, whose Easter Seal campaign for funds is now on, deserves our warm support.

This voluntary organization is supported by contributions from friends. Like all other health organizations it is a constant struggle to keep income up to the needs for expenditure. Last year, for example, a record number of over 118 thousand crippled persons received help through the rehabilitation service supplied by Easter Seal Societies. This included aid in such field as health, welfare, education, recreation and employment. Altogether a clossal task was accomplished.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to do justice to the work of this National society in the few words available. The organization has affiliates in each of the 48 states and in the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. There are 138 diagnostic and evaulation clinics, ten residential centers, 45 rehabilitation centers, 175 treatment centers, 95 speech rehabilitation programs, 187 public school systems receiving assistance, 29 programs for the homebound, 37 craft outlets, 27 nursery schools and several other activities such as day camps.

ONE OF THE reasons for the increased activity and need for funds of the National Society is the fact that medical developments have made it possible to do more and more for those youngsters — and grownups too — who are crippled or handicapped. Surely we have not reached the end of medical discoveries either so that further possibilities in aid can be anticipated. The society also has established activities in supporting the professional training of doctors, therapists, teachers and counselors for the crippled through scholarships and fellowships.

THE SOCIETY publishes a monthly magazine called "The Crippled Child" ($2.00, 11 South LaSalle Street, Chicago 3, Illinois) which is particularly helpful to those with a direct interest in the problem.

Nothing should be dearer to your heart than honesty of education. Honesty of education may mean, some day, that a doctor will save your life — regardless of politics. It may mean that an impartial lawyer will keep you out of jail. Or that a historian, writer or journalist will give you the information that will enable you to make the decisions on which your survival will depend. All dictatorships of the past have misused medicine, law and the monopoly of thought to destroy their enemies and to serve their own ends. So will the dictatorships of the future. It is alarming, therefore, to discover that a well worked out plan for public ignorance is now seriously being proposed as an educational system. It is called Life Adjustment Education. It reasons that sixty percent of our children won't make much use of "traditional" education — so why teach it? The heck with the forty percent that can use it! It would adjust the kids to a life in which all natural resources are nationalized and all scientists and artists are state controlled and state supported. A life in which business will become, in many instances, a state monopoly. It will adjust them to a type of statism that cannot exist without a brain washed public. Watch out for it! Jonathan Yank

"Individuals For Freedom".

I want to pass on a very thoughtful presentation on compulsory "social security," written by Mary D. Cain of Summit, Mississippi, as published in the Summit Sun. It also gives the readers an opportunity to petition for the redress of the great grievance of compulsory "social security." The following is Mrs. Cain's article:

INDIVIDUALS FOR FREEDOM

Mary D. Cain, Summitt, Miss., Chairman

To the Congress of the United States: A Petition to Remove Compulsion From Social Security Legislation:

I, as a member of INDIVIDUALS FOR FREEDOM, acting under Amendment One to the Constitution of the United States, "to petition the Government for a redress of grievances" set forth the following grievances against the so-called Social Security legislation and respectfully request permission to be omitted from the program, both as contributor and potential recipient of its benefits:

1. For 150 years of matchless American history, the "General Welfare" clause in the preface to the Constitution was interpreted as our Founding Fathers explained it in the Madison papers, where James Madison explained that our government was not an indefinite one but a limited one, "tied down to the specific powers, which explain and define general terms." There is no grant of power to the government to engage in forcing citizens to buy insurance against their wills.

2. In my opinion, Social Security legislation violates two of the ten commandments, upon which we believe our Christian nation was conceived: 1. "Thou shalt not covet"; and 2. "Thou shalt not steal."

(a) I feel that this generation is being TAUGHT by the federal government to covet property that belongs to their neighbors. I cannot be a party to this break-down of morality. Covetousness is one of the diseases common to Communism.

(b) The Social Security program is not actuarially sound. While it can now pay its way, it is freely admitted that payments to future beneficiaries depend entirely on how much tax the next generations can afford to pay. I feel that this generation is stealing from posterity, a move in which I wish no part as I want a clear conscience.

(a) and (b) jointly constitute a violation of Amendment One which states plainly that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." It is against my religious beliefs to engage in breaking any of the ten commandments, all of which are important.

3. In my opinion, Social Security is one of the main spokes in the wheel of Communism which is destroying individual freedom in America today: It is, as a part of the communistic income tax structure, "a heavy progressive income tax"; which is the exact wording of PLANK NO. 2 of the Communist Manifesto. As a loyal American citizen, I can embrace no part of Communism and I ask to be released from this edict which violates both the American and the Christian concept of individual freedom of choice.

(a) According to pamphlets issued by the Social Security bureau, the present "tax" on employes will go, by 1969, to 3¼ per cent and for their employers a like percentage; and for self-employed persons it is scheduled to rise to 4⅞%. This certainly makes it both "heavy" and "progressive"!

4. Social Security legislation violates Amendment 5 of the Constitution, which plainly states "... Nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation." Any possible compensation for people depends entirely on the whim of Congress and the willingness of people to continue being so outrageously taxed. The money IS taken "for public use" because its benefits presently go to people who have in many cases, contributed practically nothing to the program but who

5. This Social Security legislation violates Amendment 8 which states that no excessive fines shall be imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted. I am informed that failure to conform to this Social Security legislation subjects the offender to a fine of $10,000.00 and/or imprisonment. To Americans who prize freedom of choice and who wish to care for their own old age, without federal dole this is a violation of everything sacred.

6. Social Security legislation violates both the 9th and 10th amendments because NOWHERE IN THE CONSTITUTION OR BILL OF RIGHTS IS THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT EMPOWERED TO ENGAGE IN THE BUSINESS OF EITHER PUBLIC WELFARE OR INSURANCE IN ANY FORM.

7. The federal debt at this time stands at $275 billions plus the "temporary upping" of $6 billions. Interest alone on this national indebtedness now costs us annually $6½ billions. This is a staggering debt to leave to posterity. Senator Harry Byrd recently stated that, in addition to this fantastic sum there must be added $200 billion in contingent liabilites and the impossible-to-estimate cost of the social security program which he described as "no longer actuarially sound."

8. Freedom to engage in the work of one's choice is no longer possible unless one conforms. "Pay Social Security or cease to work!" is the edict, applying to the free press as well as every business. This is a flagrant violation of all that is American. ARE we free-born citizens, or are we creatures existing at the whim of the federal government?

I therefore now respectfully request that I be released from any responsibility or reward in the matter of Social Security and to that end ask that all compulsion be removed, letting only those employers or employes who wish to participate in the program to do so, at their own risk and out of their individual pockets, which is the true American way.

Further, I here and now urge that any person desiring reimbursement of sums paid into Social Security, be paid that exact sum, plus interest, IF HE WISHES IT. As for me, personally, I wish neither principal nor interest returned. It is my wish to help get rid of the national debt and this is my small contribution to that end.

Labor's Increasing Demands Called Threat To Economy

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The most dangerous threat to continued economic stability is organized labor's forthcoming demands for huge wage raises in several key industries. Although government officials have in mind Walter P. Reuther's insistence on a guaranteed annual income, they point out that the same trend exists in other fields.

These government executives are not anti-labor, believing that the workers are worthy of their hire. As Henry Ford taught years ago, they know that the foundation of America's envied economic supremacy consists of consumers of vast purchasing power, which they derive mainly from fat factory pay envelopes. In private industry, these former heads of great corporations enjoyed excellent relations with union employees and organizations.

But Reuther and like-minded union leaders, in their opinion, may yet price labor out of markets and jobs. By making production costs so heavy, they will reduce the popular demand for the things they turn out on the assembly line. The inevitable result will be chronic unemployment and a falling wage scale.

According to this belief, Reuther errs when he says that higher wages will maintain mass buying power in the same proporation as today. For some reason, right or wrong — indeed, Reuther voices this same complaint — prices resulting from increased manufacturing costs tend to rise faster than wages.

This vicious circle, it is forecast, will be aggravated by smaller profits, decreased tax revenue to Federal, state and local governments, and a compensating increase in taxes at all levels.

Even now, it is estimated that taxes on a $2,000 automobile amount to 28 per cent, or $560. And there are only a few makes selling as low as $2,000. Erstwhile low-priced cars are becoming semi-luxury products today. Herbert Hoover can blame the lack of "two cars in every garage" on union, not Republican politicians.

John L. Lewis' experience should be a lesson to Reuther, in Washington's opinion. With the blessing of F.D.R. and Harry S Truman, the president of the United Mine Workers demanded and obtained wages of $16 to $20 a day, with overtime, in the war years. He had industrialists and politicians under his big thumb then. He was eulogized as the outstanding "genius" of all labor history.

Today, more than 200,000 of his miners in a score of states are jobless, or working only part-time. They have exhausted their Federal and state relief funds. He has had to cut monthly pension payments — financed out of royalties on each ton of coal — from $100 to $50. The shorter hours, vacations with pay and other "fringe" benefits he gained are only a mockery in the ghost towns he has created.

Gas and oil now heat and light and operate more homes and factories than coal does. Railroads have substituted diesels for coal-burning locomotives. The competing fuels have become cheaper because John L. has priced his product out of the market and his men out of jobs.

Today, the coal industry is deathly "sick." John L. did not dare ask for an increase when his old contract terminated several months ago.

The textile workers of New England and rug makers of New York constitute another warning to the Reutherites. Union demands have forced these mills to move South, where the wage scale and taxes and power — hydro, not steam — are far lower, and where employees are willing to work longer hours.

Migrating manufacturers admit that excessive labor costs were the principal reason for the southward shift. As John L. has had to do, some textile and rug unions have torn up existing contracts and agreed to accept wage reductions rather than go unemployed. Other AFL locals have had to finance a plant with their own funds to keep them from moving or closing down.

In Washington's opinion and dread, Reuther may find with John L. that the wages of excessive demands are unemployment!

Two men with a crosscut saw can saw more blocks from a big log in the same time and with the expenditure of the same amount of energy than can the same two men each using a one-man saw.

But either man, using an engine-powered saw, can saw off more blocks in the same amount of time and with far less expenditure of energy than can both of them with an ordinary crosscut saw. However, the lone man may use his released energy to split with an ax the blocks his engine-powered saw saws off. He may work as long as he would otherwise, or he may, with his increased production, quit work somewhat earlier than he otherwise would.

The engine-powered saw is a crude form of automation. But it takes men to manufacture and sell it. And the energy it directly releases is immediately put to work at something else and some time is probably added to the workman's leisure.

Peg Justifies Attacks On 'Hyde Park Mahatma'

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

An editor in "the cow country" writes me that his readers are "tired of attacks on the late FDR."

"Many of them were still school-children when 'Our Leader' died," says he. "To them, and to many older readers, your pieces sound like attacks on Jefferson Davis. Your quarrels with labor unions also suffer from too much emphasis on past history. People out here in the cow country don't care much about unions one way or another, anyhow."

Here are two divisions of one criticism.

It is true that many of his readers were in school when the Hyde Park Mahatma died, but our journalism still owes them knowledge which they never heard in school nor anywhere else and which college students of today are denied as though it were blasphemy. Other millions of the best young Americans were away at the Big War and out of touch with sources of information.

Furthermore, many of those sources suppressed historical knowledge which ought to have been presented at the time. Great areas of population, such as Minneapolis, St. Paul, Louisville and St. Louis, learned nothing about many perfidies of individuals in the White House. Many millions of citizens in those cities who were adults when Roosevelt came in are still ignorant of facts which, for the good of their citizenship, they should know.

I have wondered whether the press of Grant's time currently disclosed the corruption which distinguished his reign as the worst down to the Roosevelt-Truman era. I never heard of it in school. I read about it first in historical political biographies beginning in the middle 'twenties. I suspect that many of the people who lived then went to their graves without learning truth to which they were entitled.

But Grant's administrations were of routine importance by comparison with the Roosevelt-Truman era. Virtue had won a victory partly at the instigation and under the management of scoundrels from the North. Our country became, more and more, a solid nation with the states gradually losing their identity, integrity and sovereignty. But now that nation itself is rapidly forfeiting its solid sovereignty and large elements of the Roosevelt - Truman regime, with great financial backing and conspiratorial cunning, are disparaging patriotism as detestable bigotry. People who should be furious at Egbert Murrow and his fabulously rich American industrial patrons for daring to minimize the conduit of J. Robert Oppenheimer are not even displeased. Much of the newspaper and magazine press has been guilty of intentional apathy under a fraudulent excuse of broadmindedness. I know why Oppenheimer has been forgiven and I think my friend, the editor, does, too.

Did anyone put up a similar fight for George Sylvester Viereck, William Griffin and forty other passionate pro-Americans when they were transported in chains, reviled, spat upon, tortured and, in some cases, sent to prison for opposing military succor to Britain, France and Soviet Russia? No. The bulk of the press tolerated this outrage to the point of implied approval. And yet, much of that same press has been having hysterics over our impoliteness to an arrogant scientist who lied about his knowledge of the traitorous movement, married one Communist, shacked up with another and gave money to finance a conspiracy against our country.

Ah! There goes Pegler again, wandering all over the place! But is he wandering or is he right on the beam? This affectionate pity for a man claiming gigantic mental powers is an evil dividend from FDR. If Jeff Davis was of evil genius, as I gravely doubt, he certainly was thwarted. Roosevelt, on the contrary, had his wicked way. And those young Americans who were in school when he died must sacrifice much of the most beautiful time of their lives in compulsory military service although we are in a technical sense at peace. Their grandchildren will toil to pay taxes to pay for gifts of railroads and factories to our enemy, Soviet Russia, and to maintain a war machine made necessary by the folly, if not worse, of Roosevelt and Truman. My response from many readers who take the trouble to write thoughtful letters indicates that they are not "tired of attacks on the late FDR." It astounds them to learn how bad he was because the teachers never tell them.

The indifference of people "in the cow country" toward unions surely must be charged to ignorance. The press surely has a duty to apprise them, whether they enjoy it or not, that the union monster taxes them every day. It taxes their babies' shoes and clothing, every morsel of food they buy, the construction and maintenance of their roads, their cars and their farm machinery. The monster is everywhere. Right now it is negotiating with the grand magnates of the motor industry to levy another great tax on all the people including those "in the cow country" to pay not a mere dole or "relief" to idle factory employees but normal wages. This is called the guaranteed annual wage. The more the public pays toward this, out of taxes, the less the motor industry will have to pay. The industry naturally will prefer that the public treasury should pay it all.

I challenge the proposition that journalism should consider whether people "care one way or another." It is our duty to offer information.

Hank Registers Gripes He's Known On Auto Trip

By HENRY McLEMORE

Travel Notes Written with Both Hands Off the Wheel: Roadside restaurant pie and roadside motel pillows are my chief complaints so far on this auto trip . . . I have a strong suspicion that they are both made out of the same thing —foam rubber . . . Both are gelatinous, both are cold to the touch, and both are completely unsatisfactory . . Could be that they are interchangeable, so before I finish this trip I may try sleeping on a slice of restaurant blueberry pie and have a foam rubber pillow with cream for dessert.

Out here in the broad reaches of the Southwest (California, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado) the Highway Departments should have a range in highway speed limits . . . Roads that don't have a turn in them for fifty and sixty miles should have a higher limit than fairly twisting ones . . Most towns and cities — and this is true everywhere in the country — could do with more detailed road markings . . . Most of them seem to operate on the theory that once a tourist gets within the city limits he is sure to know how to follow Main Steet to the Rialto theatre, and follow Elm Street until it hits the highway again . . . So they mark only every tenth corner, if that often . . . Getting lost in a town is not always guaranteed to leave a pleasant memory of the town with the tourist.

I have passed "Watch Out for Game" and "Deer Crossing" signs for thirty yerars or more and have yet to see so much as one wild critter amble across the pavement . . . Unless skunks are wild game, and if they are I am on a par with The Deerslayer as a mighty hunter . . . Why is it that nine times out of ten when I pull into a roadside filling station the regular attendant is always out for lunch and I draw either a boy so young he doesn't quite know how to operate the place, or an old, old man or woman who quite rightly expects me to get out and serve myself? . . . I am also a great one for stopping at filling stations that have every map except one of the State I am in . . . The Maine, Alabama, Michigan, and Wisconsin maps are pretty, all right, but they aren't much help in Arizona.

A good morning tip is to shy away from places that advertise home-made chili and keep on going until you can get the genuine canned stuff . . . In most places the home-brewed article tastes as if it were cooked in a home for convicted poisoners and defrocked busboys . . . And most advertised Southern fried chicken tastes as if the chef had cooked a batch of used rubber stamps (Special Delivery, Insured, Handle With Care) from the post office . . . Peanut butter sandwiches are a pretty safe buy, but it makes me a little mad to pay 35 cents for two slices of bread and a tablespoonful of peanut butter.

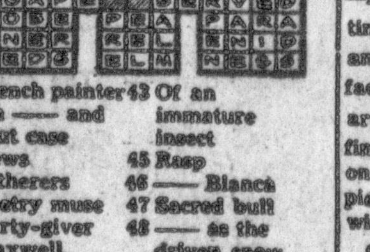

Automobile manufacturers should equip cars with a red light that flashes on when the gas is down to a dangerous level . . . As it is now, a motorist has to guess or hope and pray the gas gauge isn't on the level . . . Detroit should also remember that every time it makes cars lower on top something has to get lower underneath . . . With the result that soon running over a bump as high will scrape the under-carriage.

EDEN AND FREQUENT VISTOR — "We thought alike without consultation," Sir Winston noted in his memoirs.

Charming Sir Anthony: IV

Eden More Human In Public's Eye

(Last of Four Dispatches)

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Special Correspondent

LONDON — (NEA) — Britons are seeing a new Sir Anthony Eden these days. Gone is Eden the glamor boy. Now it's Eden in carpet slippers and smoking a pipe. The handsome, 57-year-old British foreign secretary is trying hard to acquire the bull-dog look.

His recent illness, from which he has made a remarkable recovery, has mellowed him.

His divorce in 1950, which continues to scandalize the Church of England, has made him more human in the public eye.

Finally, his marriage in 1952 to a woman 23 years his junior — Clarissa Churchill, only niece of Sir Winston Churchill — has completed the humanizing process.

Eden is no longer the prima donna of the Foreign Office. His associates blame the gall bladder trouble from which he suffered for years for the tantrums which he used to throw regularly. Now Eden has a smile and a kind word for underlings.

Reddish blonde, blue-eyed Clarissa Eden, 34, has inherited more than a little of her Uncle Winston's character and wit. Not content with being a Churchill, she has worked as a movie press agent, a feature editor of Vogue magazine.

Before that she deciphered code at the Foreign Office, where she could watch the rising star of Eden from a distance.

Clarissa made Anthony get down on his knees and propose three times before she accepted him. Then Anthony came down with jaundice and the announcement of their engagement had to be postponed.

Clarissa's antics have given rise to many anecdotes. Once she overpaid a New York taxi driver $40 because "he was so nice, and we got talking about England." Another time, in reporting the loss of $2000 worth of jewelry, she told police that she kept the jewels in a butter dish under the kitchen sink.

Anthony Eden today is a much poorer man than when he took office as Lord Privy Seal 20 years ago. His salary as foreign secretary is only $12,000 a year, which taxation reduces to $8000.

He has given up the directorships of several enterprises, including the Westminster Bank. He has sold the house in Chesterfield street, where Beau Brummell once lived, as well as Binderton, the Eden estate in Sussex.

His tailor in St. James Street complains, "Mister Eden hasn't been in to see us for months."

Weekends the Edens sneak away to a tiny cottage in Wiltshire, which Clarissa owns. Visitors are often startled to come upon Eden, the fashion plate, wearing an old pair of slacks and working in the garden.

Eden is relentlessly pursued by "the boxes" — the brown leather cases stamped with the Royal cipher which contain important Foreign Office documents.

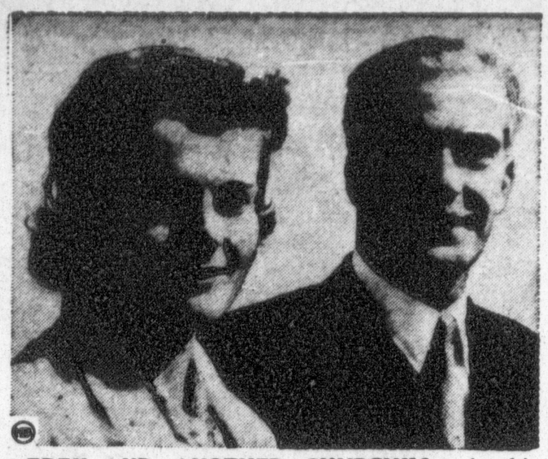

Eden, according to one of his associates, has been known to place a dispatch box at the end of a rose bed, and to open it only after he has finished weeding a row.

The Edens' most frequent visitor is, of course, Uncle Winston. Between Churchill and Eden a close bond of friendship exists, strengthened by the family tie. When it's not politics it's painting they discuss, for both are amateur artists, and Eden is proud of his art collection, which includes a Constable, a Corot, two Derains and a Degas.

"We thought alike without consultation," Churchill has noted in his memoirs.

Churchill paid his finest tribute to Eden in a letter which he wrote in 1942, on the eve of Sir Winston's second visit to Washington, to the late King George VI. Written in the darkest days of the war, the letter still stands as Churchill's political testament. It reads:

"Sir, — In case of my death on this journey I am about to undertake I avail myself of your majesty's gracious permission to advise that you should entrust the formation of a new government to Mr. Anthony Eden . . . who is in my mind the outstanding minister in the largest political party in the House of Commons."

EDEN AND ANOTHER CHURCHILL: As his second wife, Sir Winston's only niece, Clarissa, completed humanizing process.

Heart Disease Increasing

HOUSTON, Tex. — UP — Two Chicago research scientists said Thursday that heart disease is on the increase in persons younger than 50 and diet may be responsible.

Drs. Otto Saphir and Leonard Ohringer, pathologists of Michael Reese hospital, Chicago, made the statement in a paper read before some 50 delegates to the annual meeting of the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists.

"Diet and rheumatic fever and other inflammations may be contributing to a marked increase in coronary disease in persons younger than 50," the two doctors said.

The Chicago scientists made their report on the incidence of heart disease on a study evaluating autopsy data collected over the years. They said coronary cases dropped from 46.6 to 29 per cent among the deaths of persons older than 50 while increasing from 7.3 per cent to 12.2 per cent among persons who died before reaching age 50.

"The greatly increased fat consumption in the American diet during recent years may be the cause of the strange change in the trend of coronary statistics," the doctor said.

Medics Believe Women Have No Instinct To Feed Young

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK —UP—It is the considered opinion of medical science that women have no instinct which tells them how to feed their babies.

Dr. Mavis Gunther studied 150 women, who were mothers for the first time, and also searched out everything science has found out about maternal instincts.

That instinct was not among them. But if it is any consolation to women, she pointed out that chimpanzees in captivity don't know how to feed their babies either. They have to be taught.

Chimpanzee Behavior Noted

"When a female chimpanzee cannot rear her young without having a human male to teach her, instinct in the mother may indeed be said to have failed," remarked Dr. Gunther.

A likely explanation of nature having short-changed women on instincts is that "mimicry" may take the place of instinct in infant-feeding—in human-beings as well as in monkeys. Monkeys live in colonies. The females have watched the feeding process many times before it becomes their turn.

But with women, a real trouble has developed with advancing civilization. "The small size of present day families and the conventions of modesty, combined with housing which allows privacy, have ensured that most women do not as children watch a baby being suckled," she said.

Indeed, among her obstetrical patients, "it is rare" for more than one in ten ever to have seen it even once—"far less to have an easy familiarity with the process from frequent watching."

Since there is no instinct in women and since they can't mimic when they don't know what it is they're to mimic, doctors have to face up to the fact that first mothers have to be taught.

Fortunately babies are born equipped with an instinct of how to take in food. This instinct does not involve "sight, hearing, smell, or taste": it is set into motion by touch alone—by "touch within the mouth."

Instinct Should Be Harnessed

This instinct should be harnessed at once—since it begins to fade out after the first four or five days of life if it hasn't been thoroughly aroused.

Teaching mothers what instinct doesn't tell them is a matter of much importance, she thought, because "when a mother is very anxious to feed her child and he refuses and fights, she is profoundly depressed. She may be found weeping before each feeding, and her delight in her child may be completely taken away by her misery."

Dr. Gunther made her studies in a large obstetrical hospital in London. She reported her results in the world famous medical journal, the Lancet.

WASHINGTON — UP — Members of the National Grazing Board, representino 10 Western states, declared Thursday that prospectors for uranium and other minerals are tearing up valuable grazing lands.

Wormser drew a big laugh from the Grazing Board Members when he said, "We don't have enough pospectors in the hills these days."

Board member Floyd W. Lee, San Mateo, N. M., replied that there were prospectors everywhere in the hill country.

Pueblo Indians Leading In Uranium Hunt

WASHINGTON —UP— Pueblo Indians of New Mexico have taken the lead over other tribes of the Southwest in the search for uranium on tribal lands, Indian Bureau officials said Friday.

Harold F. Larkin, chief of the minerals section of the realty branch, said this may be because actual discoveries have been made on lands of the Navajo Pueblo, Arizona and New Mexico, and the Laguna Pueblo, New Mexico.

Larkin said the Laguna discovery, being operated by Anaconda Copper, will be of considerable importance to that tribe because production is good.

Individual income to be derived may be considerable because the tribal population is listed at only about 1,600.

How important the Navajo discoveries will become is not yet known, but that income will have to be divided among some 75,000 Navajos. The Navajo and Laguna discoveries are the only ones on Indian lands to date, Larkin said.

George W. Mathis, acting chief of the realty branch, said the Atomic Energy Commission and responsible mining companies are showing considerable interest in exploring Southwest Indian lands.

Mathis said the Indian Bureau and AEC are in "constant" communication over the work now being done and some which soon will be started.

Larkin said three oil firms have formed a syndicate and paid $107,000 for exploratory rights with reference to lease on the Acoma Pueblo in New Mexico. He said exploratory work will be started at once. He said exploratory work will start soon on the Zuni Pueblo in New Mexico where $45,000 was paid to the tribe for two exploratory permits.

Pampa News Sports Editor

AT THIS EARLY DATE SEVERAL have asked us how the Oilers, defending West Texas-New Mexico League champions, stack up against other teams in the league for the forthcoming season.

Starting Sunday in The Pampa News and in all other newspapers around the league, a series of prospect stories written by the league's sports scribes will be published daily until all teams have been covered.

We'll just have to wait for these stories before comparing the Oilers against the other seven members of the league.

Right now, though, we'd say the Oilers are as "far along" as any of the other teams in the loop.

In fact, I believe that Manager Grover Seitz of the Oilers could come nearer naming his opening day lineup now than any other pilot in the league.

Several of the other clubs in the league are currently over-loaded with veterans and the manager of these teams are having a difficult time deciding which vets to keep and which to let go.

The maximum limit of veterans (players with four or more years of organized ball experience) for each club is six.

Harry Gilstrap, sports editor of the Amarillo Daily News and who is president of the WT-NM Press Association, has assigned the various sports scribes around the league to write prospect stories on their respective teams.

We have been asked to do a "yarn" on the Oilers for the afternoon papers of April 18.

If we were forced to pick a favorite right now we'd say the Plainview Ponies. The Ponies have a murderers row in I. B. Palmer, Doug Lewis, Don Stokes and Don Tierney, all veterans.

But the Pony pitching staff is question mark. Ed Arthur is back which is all we know on the Plainview pitching strength. Arthur had a rough year last season and unless he makes a comeback this year, he won't help the Ponies much.

Arthur and manager - second baseman Jackie Sullivan rounds out the six veterans on the Pony squad. With Arthur the only veteran pitcher, you can readily see why the Pony pitching staff is a big question mark at the moment.

Amarillo looks strong at the present but she has nine veterans in camp. After cutting off three of these the Gold Sox will be weakened, of course.

Most of the other clubs will have to do some cutting down on veterans.

The Oilers have seven vets in camp and one will have to go. The seven Oiler vets are pitchers Red Dial, Jack Venable and Virgil Frazier; catcher Jack Hall; first baseman Joe Fortin; third baseman Johnny Bruzga, and outfielder Paul Halter.

THE HOUSE-TO-HOUSE CANvass on the Oiler ticket selling campaign ends tomorrow. We haven't had a report on how this week's campaign has gone but we do know that there have been a lot of fellows knocking on doors during the week.

The goal for the campaign this week is to contact every home in Pampa. But some may be missed. If you aren't contacted by tomorrow night and you want a season book, you can call the Oiler business office at 4-8551 or call us here at 4-2525 and a season book will be delivered to you immediately.

Oilers Win 6-1 At Weatherford

WEATHERFORD, April 8 — (Special) — Virgil Frazier and Red Dial collaborated on a seven-hit pitching performance to earn the Pampa Oilers a 6-2 victory over the Southwestern State College Bulldogs here Thursday afternoon. Two-thirds of the way it was a close pitchers' duel, the Oilers leading by 2-1 after six innings.

Pampa drew first blood in the opening inning on a double by Sonny Tims, who scored on Joe Fortin's single. Tims, who played some great baseball for Southwestern before he graduated two years ago, put on a good show for his alma mater, hitting three for four and performing flawlessly afield.

The Bulldogs came back in the second to knot the count of Bill Haney's single and pitcher W. E. Jackson's double. In the fifth Snider walked and tallied on single by Tims and an error, to give the Oilers a 2-1 lead.

Pampa padded the lead with two more in the seventh when Tims walked, Dick Hairston singled, Fortin walked and Johnny Bruzga singled, and added another pair in the ninth on an error and hits by Bruzga and Jack Hall.

Bruzga, like Tims, hit safely three times, including two doubles.

The Oilers will go to Plainview tomorrow for a day-night doubleheader with the Plainview Ponies. The day game will be played Saturday afternoon with the night game slated for Saturday night.

The two teams will wind up the series Sunday in a single game on the Plainview diamond.

All of the Oiler pitchers will likely get into the act during the series.

Next home game for the Oilers is next Tuesday against Southwestern.

Eagles Win In 3:56 Hour Duel, 11-9

By UNITED PRESS

The Dallas Eagles had to go 11 innings in a three-hour, 56-minute marathon Thursday night to outlast the Shreveport Sports 11-9 and take their second consecutive victory in the new Texas League season.

Houston, 6-5 victor over Tulsa, also managed to repeat its first-night triumph Thursday night, while other teams in the loop split the first two games as Fort Worth downed Beaumont 12-2 and Oklahoma City blanked San Antonio 2-0.

Friday night has the same teams playing again, with Dallas at Shreveport, Fort Worth at Beaumont, Oklahoma City at San Antonio and Tulsa at Houston.

Virgil Scores for Eagles

A two-run double by Ozzie Virgil in the 11th inning gave the Eagles the score they needed to outlast Shreveport. The Sports put 19 men into action and the Eagles used 16.

Shreveport was leading 5-4 going into the ninth, but the Eagles scored five runs in the top of that frame. The Sports refused to yield and came back with four tallies to tie the score at 9-all. Virgil's two-run double in the 11th settled it.

Stan Milankovich, who came in for Dallas in the ninth, took the win, while 11th inning reliefer Jesse Priest was charged with the loss.

Hal Smith Aids Buffs

Houston's Hal Smith got a 10th-inning single with the bases loaded to give the Buffs their second consecutive victory over Tulsa, 6-5. The Buffs rallied from behind a 3-0 deficit to lead 5-3 going into the ninth frame, but two errors on routine plays gave the Oilers two runs to tie it.

Harry Hoitsma came in during the sixth inning for Houston and collected credit for the win, while reliefer Dan Osinski received the loss.

Al Papai, 34-year-old veteran knuckleballer of the Texas League, gave the San Antonio Missions just three hits Thursday night as the Oklahoma City Indians took a 2-0 shutout. The win equaled the series between the two teams at one game each.

Butler Watches Game

League President Dick Butler witnessed the game along with 581 fans, who braved the cold, windy evening. Charley Locke, who held the Indians hitless for five innings but yielded seven hits in the eighth frame, was the loser.

The Fort Worth Cats got 12 hits and bunched their scoring efforts into two big innings Thursday night to whip the Exporters 12-2. It evened the series at 1-1 for the teams.

Fort Worth outfielder Dick Williams hit a two-run homer in the second inning. The Cats collected four more runs in that inning and then put across another six in the eighth. Veteran Howie Anderson started for Beaumont and was charged with the defeat.

French Welterweight Dies

PARIS —UP—Marc Billaut, 24-year-old French welterweight boxer, died Thursday of meningitis following a head injury received two days ago in a boxing bout.

Harvester 9 Opens 1-AA Slate Here Tomorrow

The Harvester baseballers will blast the lid on their 1955 District 1-AA schedule tomorrow afternoon when they play hosts to the Plainview Bulldogs at Oiler Park in a doubleheader.

First game of the twinbill will start at 1 p.m.

The Harvesters have played six non-conference games to date winning three and losing three.

Coach Deck Woldt's charges have recorded wins over Panhandle, 26-9; Clinton, Okla., 6-1; and Borger, 2-1. The three losses came at the hands of Frank Phillips Junior College, 4-3; Sayre, Okla., 6-5; and Clinton, 0-16.

Big John Perkins, who has gained credit for two of the Harvester wins, is a definite starter in one of tomorrow's games.

The other starter, however, is a question mark. Cecil Reynolds, possessor of the other Harvester win, was due to go but he came up with a sprained ankle Wednesday and will not likely be ready for mound duty tomorrow.

In the event Reynolds isn't ready, Coach Woldt will call on either Buddy Sharp, Johnny Claunch, Jimmy Parrish or Paul Baumann.

Rest of the lineup for the Harvesters will likely remain the same as has been starting this season.

The other starters are Bob Conway, catcher; Gerald Clark, first base; Bill Fulenwider, second base; Jimmy Parrish, third base; Cecil Reynolds, shortstop (if he doesn't pitch); Tommy Darling, left field; Harlan Boyle or Paul James, centerfield; and Buddy Sharp, right field.

Coach Woldt reported yesterday that even though Reynolds may not be in shape to pitch, he will likely be able to take over at shortstop.

Reynolds was undergoing treatment yesterday and today to correct his ankle sprain.

Plainview will bring a perfect 4-0 record into tomorrow's doubleheader. Tomorrow's games will also be the 1-AA openers for the Bulldogs.

Scooter Comes To Life In Yankee Fold

By UNITED PRESS

Thirty-six year-old Phil Rizzuto, more or less in the background all spring long, was weighing in with some timely long distance wallops Friday in an all-out effort to keep the same Yankee job he has had for the past 15 years.

Rizzuto, considered all washed up after his batting average dwindled to a sickly .195 last season, spent most of the early spring watching Billy Hunter and Gerry Coleman cover his old shortstop post.

But now that the pint-sized 155-pound Phil is getting his chance, he's making the most of it.

Take Thursday's game with Richmond of the International League, for example.

Rizzuto not only smashed his second home run in as many days, but he added a pair of singles and started a sixth-inning double play with a brilliant stop that reminded teammates of the "Scooter" of old.

Rizzuto's sparkling play highlighted the Yankees' 17-4 victory over the out-classed minor leaguers, who used up four ex-major geague hurlers—Bob Habenicht, Jocko Thompson, Tommy Fine and Bill Voiselle—in an effort to stem the New York onslaught.

Andy Carey also chipped in with a homer and two singles and Mickey Mantle stretched his batting streak to nine straight games in the 21-hit slugfest.

The Yankees, who have been profiting at the expense of minor league opposition, resume major league competition Friday against the Phillies at Wilmington, Del.

In other games Thursday: the Philadelphia Phillies edged the Boston Red Sox 4-3, in 10 innings at Portsmouth, Va.; the spring "World Series" between the New York Giants and Cleveland Indians wound up all even when the Giants won 6-5 at Knoxville, Tenn.; the Baltimore Orioles edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1; the Chicago White Sox nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 7-6; the Cincinnati Redlegs beat Lynchburg of the Piedmont League 9-1; Norfolk of the Class B Piedmont League defeated Kansas City 5-2, and cold weather cancelled the Milwaukee-Detroit game at Toledo, Ohio, and the Brooklyn - Washington game at Washington, D.C.

Burke's 67 Tops Masters

By WILLIAM TUCKER

AUGUSTA, Ga. —UP— Curly-haired Jackie Burke, whose brand new putter helped him fire the best opening round seen here in 14 years, Friday carried a huge four-stroke lead into the second round of the famed Masters Golf Tournament.

And the other famous entries were mighty worried, because 32-year-old Jackie showed no intentions of "blowing" his surprising lead.

Swinging that new putter like it was equipped with built-in radar, Burke took absolutely no chances as he stormed over the sunny but windswept Augusta National course in a five-under-par 67 that included only 30 putts. It was the lowest first day score since Craig Wood's 66 in 1941.

And it was a triumph of conservatism. Never gambling even once, the transplanted Texan who now plays out of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., concentratel on reaching the mammoth greens in such a way as to leave himself the best possible putting lie.

"That way," he said, "I was able to get those last tough 50 feet settled in two strokes.

"I was scared of the water on the 11th and got out too far."

The 11th was his only bogey of a round that included four birdies in five holes on the incoming nine and gave him a score that nobody had a chance to equal and few to come close.

Mike Souchak, muscular ex-Duke football star who leads the 1955 money winners, and Julius Boros, a fellow North Carolinian of equal physical proportions, both had 71's—a stroke under par.

Tiger Jones Meets Johnson In TV Bout

ST. LOUIS, Mo. —UP— Ralph (Tiger) Jones, who stunned the boxing world by whipping Sugar Ray Robinson on Jan. 19, was rated only an 8-5 favorite to beat George Johnson Friday night in a nationally-televised 10-round middleweight bout at St. Louis Arena.

The rather close odds were interpreted by many boxing men as a belief that the "Tiger's" win over Sugar Ray was due, not so much to his own prowess, but to the former champ's poor condition.

The victory over Robinson snapped a five-bout losing streak for Jones, 27-year-old ring veteran from Yonkers, N.Y. In his next bout, he lost a 10-round non-title decision to middleweight king Carl (Bobo) Olson, but was not disgraced.

Jones, 27, once was ranked among the division's top contenders, but neither he nor Johnson, 24, is rated among the top 10. Nevertheless, an action - packed battle was expected since both are busy, hard-punching workers who usually please the fans even in defeat.

Track Winnings

Citation, with a total of $1,085,760, leads in the all-time thoroughbred track winnings bracket, but Stymie is in second place with 918,485.

Longhorns Win Triangular Meet

DALLAS —UP—The University of Texas outdistanced Southern Methodist and Baylor handily in a triangular track meet Thursday, but the brightest star of the meet was Merton Fuquay, Baylor's crack freshman sprinter-hurdler.

Fuquay won the 100-yard dash in 9.8 seconds, the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.1, the 220-yard low hurdles in 24.2 and anchored Baylor's winning 440-yard relay team.

Closest rival, individually, was Texas' Dean Smith, who won both the 100 and 220-yard dashes in 9.5 and 20.9 and anchored the Longhorns' sprint relay team as Texas piled up 82 1-3 points to 58 2-3 for SMU and 21 for Baylor in the varsity division.

Texas also won the freshman division with 80 points to 57 for Baylore and 21 for SMU.

The expected mile relay duel between Texas and SMU fizzled out on the first lap when Texas' lead-off man, Lavern Voight, pulled up lame on the first curve. SMU won in the slow time of 3:22.0.

Mark Set Up

When he left professional football, Steve Van Buren of the Philadelphia Eagles had a pro ground gaining record of 5,860 yards, including his 1,146 yards in the season of 1949.

Huskers Edge Texas, 16-14

AUSTIN —UP—The touring University of Nebraska baseball team was scheduled to meet Rice Institute Friday at Houston, and the Huskers were hoping for the same kind of weird luck they had Thursday in beating the University of Texas 16 to 14.

However, the outcome of Thursday's game was uncertain until the ninth inning when Jim Cederdahl slammed a three-run homer.

In the first inning, seven pitchers paraded to the mound and gave up 2 runs. Nebraska made the first six runs on five hits and two errors. But, Texas bounced right back and tied it up on a single hit and eight walks.

Nebraska pitcher Dick Greier gave up seven of the eight walks, five of them in a row. He was retired to the outfield and shortstop Norman Coufal was sent in to pitch. He walked one man and then retired.

Greier returned to the mound in the second and Coufal to the infield. However, the victory was credited to Willie Greenlaw, who took over pitcher's duties in the fifth.

Cederahl hit his homer off Clint Irby, third Texas pitcher, who was charged with the loss.

Texas scoring was led by Joe Youngblood, who had three singles and Pat Tolar, who made his first appearance with the Longhorns had a triple and single.

Baylor 9 Bows To Lutheran, 6-3

SEGUIN, Tex. —UP—The Baylor University baseball team was en route back to Waco Friday after losing its second straight game to tiny Texas Lutheran College 6 to 3 Thursday.

Texas Lutheran defeated Baylor 7 to 6 on Wednesday night.

Texas Lutheran broke a 3-3 tie in the bottom half of the eighth inning in Thursday's game on a single by shortstop Buzzie Keller, a walk by first baseman Shane LeStourgeos, a double by centerfielder Kenneth Hoffman and a triple by second baseman Elmer Neumann.

Giants, Indians End Spring 'World Series' All Even At 9-9

DANVILLE, Va. —UP— Willie Mays' batting slump was the only worry Leo Durocher had Friday as his world champion New York Giants picked up the Boston Red Sox on the way north and said farewell to the Cleveland Indians.

By beating the Indians, 6-5, at Knoxville, Tenn., in the final exhibition game between the clubs, the Giants managed to gain a tie in the spring "World Series" that began March 11. The Giants and Indians split 18 games between their "A" squads and two between their "B" squads.

Since the Giants left Phoenix, Ariz., Mays has collected only four hits in [illegible] at bats. He entered Thursday's game [illegible] and collected a puny single in four trips.

The Red Sox bowed to the Phillies, 4-3, in 10 innings Thursday.

[illegible] Oriole Starters

[illegible], Va. —UP— Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles indicated Friday that his four regular starting pitchers will be Jim McDonald, Harry Byrd, Erv Palica and Joe Coleman.

Coleman, one of the Orioles' most dependable pitchers last season when he won 13 games, hurled brilliantly Thursday in receiving credit for a 2-1 victory over Pittsburgh at Danville, Va. He and Bob Purkey hooked up in a hitless duel until Curt Roberts singled for the Pirates in the sixth.

The Pirates scored their only run off Bob Alexander, who relieved Coleman in the seventh. Singles by Gil Coan and Vern Stephens, plus Frank Thomas' error produced winning run for the Orioles in the eighth even though they were limited to two hits by Purkey and Vern Thies.

The two teams were to meet here again Friday with Pittsburgh holding a 7-4 edge in the spring series.

Staley To Face Sens

HAGERSTOWN, Md. —UP—Joe Nuxhall and Gerry Staley were named by Cincinnati Manager Birdie Tebbetts to oppose the Washington Senators Friday.

Art Fowler tuned up for his opening day assignment by fanning eight batters in the five innings he worked Thursday against Lynchburt of the Piedmont League. Homers by Jim Greengrass and Gus Bell helped the Redlegs to a 9-1 triumph over the minor leaguers in near freezing weather.

Cold weather cancelled the scheduled game between the Senators and Dodgers at Washington, D. C.

Carey On Streak

WILMINGTON, Del. —UP— Andy Carey was working on a string of seven straight hits as the Yankees resumed major league competition by taking on the Phillies.

Carey slammed a homer and two singles in the Yankees' 21-hit, 17-4 rout of Richmond Thursday. Phil Rizzuto also homered. Rookie Johnny Kucks was the winner, Tom Sturdivant picking him up in the seventh.

The Phillies beat the Red Sox, 4-3, in 10 innings at Portsmouth, Va., Thursday, Earl Torgeson scoring all the way from first base when left fielder Faye Throneberry let Bobby Morgan's base hit skip through his legs. The victory gave the Phils a 4-4 split with the Red Sox in their eight-game spring series.

A's Bow To Norfolk

RICHMOND, Va. —UP— Alex Kellner of Kansas City, plagued by arm trouble most of last season, reported no ill effects Friday after his eight-inning stint against Norfolk of the Piedmont League.

Kellner gave up eight hits and all Norfolk's runs as the Athletics bowed, 5-2, to the minor leaguers. Ewell Blackwell retired the side in order in the ninth.

Kansas City collected only four hits, including a homer by Vic Power.

Tigers Buy Infielder

INDIANAPOLIS —UP— The Indianapolis Indians have sold infielder Harry Malmberg to the Detroit Tigers, it was announced Thursday by Ted Sullivan, Indianapolis business manager.

Malmberg, who hit .298 last year with the Indians, will leave for Detroit this week.

Reds Release Murphy

CINCINNATI, Ohio —UP— The Cincinnati Redlegs Thursday announced that outfielder Dick Murphy had been released outright to Nashville of the Southern Association.

The club said Murphy will report to the Nashville baseball team as soon as an arm fracture Murphy suffered in spring training heals. He was injured in Tampa, Fla., March 17 when Jack Harshman of the Chicago White Sox hit him with a pitched ball.

Probe Ordered in Fire

AURORA, Ill., April 2—UP—Illinois racing officials ordered an investigation Saturday into the possibility of arson in a fire which destroyed 13 harness horses at the Aurora Downs track.

Lobos Shade Aggies, 7-6

ALPINE, Tex. —UP—The Texas Aggies were still mumbling Friday about their 7 to 6 loss to the Sul Ross Lobos Thursday. The game almost ended in a free-for-all.

The Aggies were disgruntled because centerfielder John Stocton was called out on strikes for the final out of the ninth inning. After the game was over, Stocton was ushered from the ball park.

Each of the teams had 10 hits. The Aggies collected seven doubles while the Lobos had three doubles and three triples.

Don Pearson went all the way for the Lobos. He struck out 10 [illegible] and gave up four walks.

The Good And Bad Of Week's News

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Foreign Analyst

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

THE GOOD

1. A long - awaited administrative turnover finally came to pass in Great Britain when Sir Winston Churchill stepped down from the prime ministry in favor of Sir Anthony Eden, who had been his political heir for years. Churchill went into semi-retirement heaped with honors. His intellectual powers were undimmed. But he was an old, tired man. The change in leadership puts a younger, more vigorous and more resilient team of men, led by Eden, in charge of British policy at this critical time in world affairs.

2. Tension in the Far East lessened suddenly and materially. The Chinese Communists toned down their bellicose threats to start a war by attempting to "liberate" the Nationalist stronghold of Formosa, which the United States is pledged to defend. At the same time, dire predictions that the Reds planned an attack on the Matsu and Quemoy Island groups about mid-April seemed to be without foundation. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said at a press conference in Washington that if there is to be a war, the Reds will have to start it.

3. Great Britain joined the new Turkish-Iraqi Alliance and Pakistan was invited to join it. There seemed reason to hope that Iran might join it soon. The Alliance promised to develop into one that would strengthen defense against Communism over the whole area between Egypt and Pakistan. It would weaken the "Neutralist" campaign of Prime Minister Jawaharial Nehru of India.

THE BAD

1. United States-Japanese relations were somewhat snarled when Japanese Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu suggested that he visit Washington at once and Secretary of State Dulles declined to receive him. As a result, the Japanese government of Premier Ichiro Hatoyama "lost face"—prestige—and its position in Parliament was weakened. Shigemitsu wanted to seek a reduction in Japan's contribution to the cost of maintaining American troops in Japan. Opinion in Washington seemed to be that Shigemitsu invited the rebuff by suggesting his visit so abruptly.

2. The West Germans decided to ask the help of the United States, Britain and France in forcing the Communists to end what seemed to be a new threat to blockade West Berlin. The Reds had increased ten-fold the tolls charged trucks which move through the Soviet occupation zone with supplies for West Berlin. They even threatened to make the increase retroactive.

3. The danger of civil war in southern Viet Nam in Indo-China increased steadily. The powerful religious - political sects, which maintain their own armies, threatened to besiege Saigon, the capital, unless Premier Ngo Dinh Diem gave them more power in the government. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, President Eisenhower's spcial envoy, managed to arrange a truce which is supposed to last until next Tuesday. But the situation threatened to get worse rather than better.

Travelogue Moviemaa Retires

HONOLULU —UP— James Fitzpatrick, whose name has become synonymous with travelogue movies since 1929 announced Wednesday he was quitting the travel film business. Fitzpatrick is known to millions of moviegoers throughout the world as the "Voice of the Globe."

"This paper route is just a steppingstone, Mrs Adams! I'm buying railroad and oil shares to make a killing!"

Brother Names Sister As Widow's Killer

HOUSTON —UP—A lie detector test was planned Friday for Mrs. Evelyn Lucille Watson, 24-year-old mother of four children, accused by her brother of bludgeoning to death the wealthy widow of a Baptist preacher.

Charges were filed against Mrs. Watson after Jimmy Lee Baker, her 23-year-old carpenter brother, made a signed confession to participating in the killing Feb. 15 of Mrs. Lucille Quarles, 52, a preacher's widow.

Baker admitted taking part in the slaying, but put the actual killing on his sister, who is the wife of a Fort Hood Army sergeant and the mother of four children, Rebecca, 7; Shirley, 5; Grady Jr., 3, and Valyre, 7 months.

Mrs. Watson Faints

The brother and sister were brought together Thursday night and Mrs. Watson promptly fainted. She volunteered to take the lie detector test. Baker took a lie detector test previously, but the results were not revealed.

The attractive Mrs. Watson, who has dark hair with a blonde forelock, denied any connection with the killing and said her brother also was innocent.

Mrs. Quarles, wealthy and an active church worker, had lived alone since the death of her husband, the Rev. Lewis Quarles, 18 months ago.

Her bruised and beaten body was found propped against the edge of her bathtub so the blood from her head wounds could drain into the tub. Police concluded at the time she could have been killed by a woman because they found prints of size-six crepe-soled shoes in the house and could tell they were worn by a light-weight person.

Pair Tries Choking Woman

Police Chief Jack Heard said Baker told Sheriff Ralph Jeffers that he (Baker) and his sister went to Mrs. Quarles' home and tried to choke out of her where she had hidden her valuables.

Heard said Baker confessed that his sister choked the preacher's wife and then beat her to death with a gun butt in the bathroom when she wouldn't tell where the money and jewelry were hidden.

Baker, arrested at Belton, Tex., where he and his sister lived, led officers to where a .38 caliber pistol was buried and told them it was the weapon used.

The gun had a broken grip, and police said some pieces of a broken gun butt found in the Quarles home apparently fit the buried gun.

'Bad Risk' Dies at 102

WINCHENDON, Mass. —UP— Edward D. Blackwell, who was refused insurance in 1878 as a "bad risk," died Wednesday at the age of 102.

Coup Against Ahmed Fails

CAIRO, Egypt —UP— An attempted coup against King Ahmed of Yemen by army forces favorable to his brother, Prince Abdullah, has failed and order restored throughout the isolated Arab kingdom on the Red Sea, according to reports here.

Red Cross Adopts New Policy

WASHINGTON —UP— The national Red Cross has announced a new policy giving local chapters more leeway to participate in Community Chest or other joint local fund raising drives. The chapters now may decide for themselves, within certain limitations, whether they will conduct their own drive or join with other groups. The national chapter previously had made the decision.

Latest A-Test May Save Million Lives

WASHINGTON —UP— The atomic weapons exploded six miles above the Nevada desert may save millions of American lives.

That could be so, officials here believe, because it:

1. Portends a time when this country will be able to throw up "a barrier of atomic forepower" against enemy H-bombers.

2. Adds a powerful new deterrent to enemy air-atomic attack by cutting down drastically its chances of success.

Once data from Wednesday's successful high shot is analyzed, official sources predicted, atomic warheads will go into quantity production for a variety of anti-aircraft weapons.

Includes Guided Missiles

These will include air-to-air and ground-to-air guided missiles capable of destroying enemy bombers hundreds or thousands of miles from target, depending on when and where they are detected.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.), former chairman of the congressional atomic energy committee, has said "it is entirely within our capacity to obtain tens of thousands of such atomic missiles."

Even before Wednesday's test, which was staged in response to military demand for a nuclear anti-aircraft weapon, Cole forecast a time when any enemy "seeking to penetrate our defenses would confront a barrier of atomic firepower."

More recently an authoritative official made it plain that this country possesses a big enough stockpile of nuclear explosives to divert large amounts to missiles.

'Up to Ears in Stuff'

"We are up to our ears in the stuff," he said.

Wednesday's test was the climax of much thinking and experimentation. Long since, the Atomic Energy Commission had learned how to compress the fury of the wartime Hiroshima bomb, a huge and awkward contraption, into a small caliber weapon capable of being delivered by cannon or in rockets.

The new air-to-air atomic weapon, the defense department has said, can be propelled from interceptor aircraft.

Although Wednesday's explosion in the sky was described unofficially as comparable to 5,000 to 10,000 tons of TNT, there is reason to believe U.S. weaponeers can make comparatively small warheads of 40,000 to 50,000 tons TNT equivalent.

Such weapons, even in prospect, appear to rule out of future warfare the massive bomber fleets of World War II.

It also rules out the penalty of a "near miss." A near miss with an atomic air weapon could be as good as a hit.

And just one H-bomber knocked down could mean the survival of a metropolis which otherwise would count its casualties in the millions.

Patrolman, Girl Killed In Mishap

TRINITY, Tex. —UP—Highway patrolman Audie Isbell, 30, of Trinity and 16-year-old Marjorie Powell of Country Campus were killed instantly Thursday night when his patrol car smashed into her vehicle while chasing a speeder.

Officers said Isbell was going at a high speed when Miss Powell, who had just recently received her driver's license, made a left turn across the highway ahead of the patrol car.

Isbell's car apparently struck broadside the second automobile containing Miss Powell and two other women, Neva Hooper, 20, of Grove, Tex., and Ross Mae Andrews, 36, of Huntsville. Miss Hooper, a student at Sam Houston State College, and Miss Andrews were critically injured.

Walker county Sheriff Floyd Farris said the car Isbell was chasing got away and was not involved in the accident.

Pilot Killed Testing Navy Helicopter

Name of the pilot was withheld Friday, pending notification of next of kin.

The co-pilot, Lt. Robert W. Edwards of Fort Worth, was given emergency treatment and taken to Carswell Air Force Base hospital, where his condition was described as not serious.

The helicopter was a Navy production model recently unveiled as the latest submarine-detection device. It was capable of hovering over open sea, lowering radar equipment into the water to locate subs, which it could then "kill" or follow.

The large HSL helicopter was hovering about 15 feet above the ground Thursday at the Bell plant, where it was manufactured, and had been in that position several minutes when it nose-dived down. It burst into flames almost immediately.

Cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

Vaccine Must Be Gotten At Austin

AUSTIN —UP—Local health departments must come to Austin to get their Salk vaccines for immunization projects against polio this month, State Health Officer Henry A. Holle said Friday.

The State Health Department expects a report on the vaccine's effectiveness about April 12, and Holle said federal clearance is expected "in a few days" if the report is favorable.

Some 500,000 first, second and third grade school children in Texas are scheduled to take the vaccine.

The health department said local programs are in readiness in nearly all counties, but Holle said the pick-up must be made in Austin "since the material . . . requires careful handling to insure prompt, safe and timely delivery to the point where it is to be used."

Maj. Nugent Awaits New Assignment

FORT SILL, Okla. —UP—Maj. Ambrose Nugent, rested from record court martial which cleared him on collaboration charges, Thursday prepared for a new assignment at Fort Hood, Tex.

Nugent said he will leave Sunday for the Texas post. His duties have not been disclosed, but Nugent said he pobably will join Third Corps headquarters or one of the armored divisions at Fort Hood.

The 44-year-old career artillery officer was acquitted March 7 of charges he collaborated with Korean Communists while he was a prisoner of war. Nugent's court martial lasted 29 days.

Nugent returned here last week from a vacation. His German-born wife, Olga, is expected to return to this country from Germany, where she has been caring for an ill sister, about May 5.

One cubic foot of solid coal will generate enough electricity to operate a frozen-food locker for 31 days.

Montgomery Ward Hires Hall

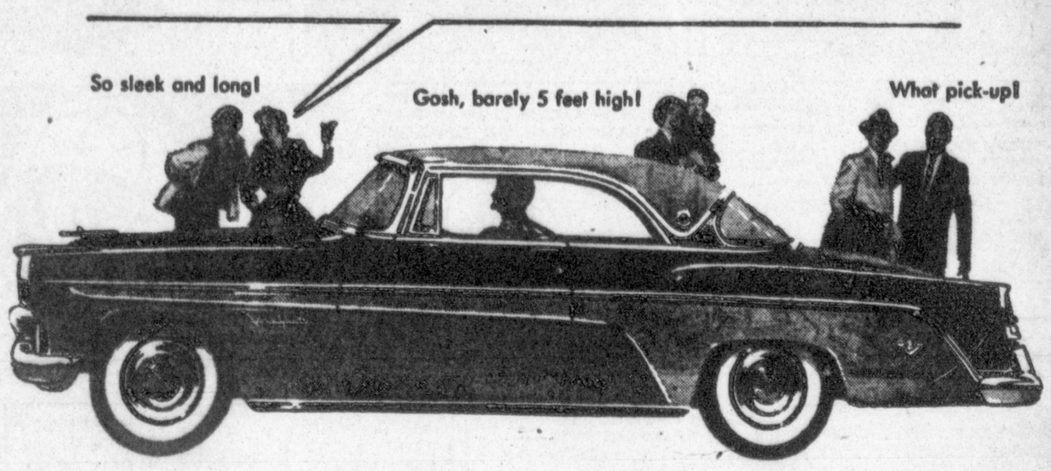

CHICAGO —UP— Montgomery Ward & Co., anticipating a large turnout for its proxy showdown with Louis Wolfson April 22, Friday hired a hall for the occasion. The firm had planned to hold the stockholders meeting in a hotel room seating 3,000, but instead engaged the Medinah Temple, which seats 4,200.

JOHNSON ★ IN HOLLYWOOD ★

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Hollywood on TV: Breathes there a movie star with a memory so dead who never to himself has said:

"Film is my own—my native medium. If I forget a line they can re-shoot it. To heck with live television."

You're darned right it's been said.

But not by Joan Blondell, a movie queen who has found live television her cup of tea. Joan laughs about TV's lack of glamor compared to Hollywood's—

"You don't get a set chair with your name on it; you're lucky to get a seat on the floor."

But properly rehearsed live television with no chance for retakes, she says, "puts bounce into a performance."

"Look," she told me on the Shower of Stars set during the "Burlesque" rehearsals, "I worked in 'Adventure' at MGM. The director took 152 takes of one scene. Why? Don't ask me. The first take was the best one. That's why live TV has bounce and why I like it."

FLITTING FROM HOME to home with its remote TV broadcasting equipment, "Person to Person" meets some of its most interesting people behind the camera.

Producer Jesse Zousmer, in Hollywood for the Marlon Brando interview told me this tale:

When the Ed Murrow show was setting up the Jonie James interview in New York, the owner of an apartment building was asked to sign a release permitting the TV crew to install its portable sending antenna on his rooftop.

"Sure," said the gent, "on two conditions. One, you give $50 to charity and two, Jonie James records a song my son-in-law wrote."

Murrow would be happy to give $50 to his favorite charity, Zousmer replied, but it would be impossible to arrange for Jonie to record his son-in-law's song.

"Then it's no deal," said the landlord. "No record—no roof."

Zousmer found another roof owned by a man without a songwriter in the family.

It's 17 years on "One Man's Family" for Jack Edwards, who now plays Johnny Roberts in the series . . . Danny Thomas' TV Mrs. Jean Hagen, hopes to be singing the Miss Adelaide role in a spring revival of "Guys and Dolls" in New York.

"ROBIN HOOD" is stirring up as much of a hornet's nest on TV as all the rival movie versions of "War and Peace." Three—count 'em—three series about the Sherwood Forest hero are in the works. Tony Dexter is Robin for Producer Edward Small; Richard Greene's been signed for a rival English series, and a third series hasn't yet been cast.

Hear It Now: John Barrymore, Jr. will star in a series based on the Upton Sinclair character, Lanny Budd . . . James Dean, the new Warner star (East of Eden) is a former stand-in for contestants on "Beat The Clock." . . . Raymond Massey stars in a new series, "I Spy."

ance in those big inch and a half cuff links he wears. They're covered with magnifying glass.

DONALD O'CONNOR, like Bob Hope, already has changed his mind about home screen appearances for next fall. He's reading a new CBS comedy script idea . . . It finally happened note: There's not a single horse in the first telefilm of "Gunsmoke," the CBS "adult" western series directed by Charles Marquis Warren.

Channel Chatter: The threat of toll-TV has become a big one for movie theater owners, who are mapping their strategy in a fight to keep the FCC from okaying the whole idea. The theater owner front is called the Committee Against Pay As You See.

Sharman Douglas, daughter of the onetime ambassador to England, quit her job as a production assistant at CBS . . . Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy join Ethel Merman in the Shower of Stars telecast in April. There's a chance Red Skelton will be in the cast, too.

Haystack Useful

ST. LOUIS —UP— Lt. Col. Bernard Trum of the Atomic Energy Commission told a state convention of veterinarians here that a haystack would protect both man and beast from fall-out of radioactive particles from an atomic explosion. In fact, he said, a haystack would provide the most practical shelter for most dwellers.

Scelba Ends U.S. Tour

NEW YORK —UP— Italian Premier Mario Scelba returned here Wednesday to end his three-day tour of American cities after nearly missing his plane at Detroit where he shopped for a necktie. A police escort with sirens screaming rushed Scelba's car to the Detroit airport only four minutes before take-off.
