Perhaps you'd like to go on a trip to New Mexico with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Daly of Fashion Park...

8 a. m.—From Pampa we rolled pleasure bent. The lengthening shadows greeted our arrival at the foot of the Sangre de Cristo...

The morrow saw us a party of three. The Dalys and Mrs. J. L. Warren, of Las Vegas, plus a six-footed guide, Mr. Sheber...

Reaching a prospector's camp we found the trail gutting the stream. We dismounted and decided to continue the journey a la Pullman...

After about 1,000 feet elevation had been gained, a halt was ordered. In the vicinity of what had been a considerable forest fire...

Here our guide lost his head. We traversed the wrong road until the mule signified. Upon correction of the mistake, we queried: 'How far to the top?'

Trudging cheerfully another mile or two we repeated the inquiry. 'How far to the top?' 'About two miles,' was the answer...

To the southeast, the Delia Oil Dome where the Gypsy Company drilled to the Arkose Sands. Eastward a rolling mesa extended beyond our vision...

Another 600-foot climb brought us to Brassel Park, our objective. Brassel Park, a mesa situated upon a wave-worn terrace...

Upon entering the glade, the pleasure-seeker is seized with a weird sense of loneliness. The trees, like prison gates, shut away the world...

The Gods, who forsook the Olympian Mount after the fall of Troy, abide in this heavenly court. The climate, or perhaps the climb, induced prodigious appetites...

The Gringo Latharios who stormed the village of San Luis, capturing three comely maidens, carrying them away a la Lechinvar...

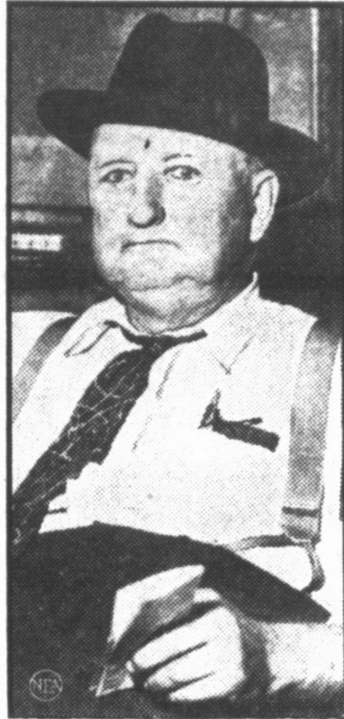

Later a New York physician, seeking a restful place for his vacation, was guided here. Enthusiastically, he spent his time scribbling his name, W. A. Brassell, in the bark of the trees...

Now to rest. Boughs were cut from spruce trees for mattresses. We were to select the more comfortable. About midnight the moon rose over the tree tops with silver

REBELS OUTLINE NEW GOVERNMENT, CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

FIGHTING SAID TO BE FURIOUS INSIDE MADRID

DICTATORSHIP, THEN A MONARCHY PLANNED BY FASCISTS

RABAT, French Morocco, Aug. 28 (AP)—Rebel radio broadcast from Spain today declared the position of the government in Madrid was becoming precarious and that extremists were killing hundreds of persons in the capital.

The radio station at Jerz de la Frontera, near Cadiz, announced a Madrid personality, now in Tunisian Spanish Morocco, declared that in two nights the Marxists killed 2,000 persons in Madrid.

Sugar and coffee supplies of the capital are exhausted, the station added.

The rebel station at Seville broadcast:

"The situation of Madrid is truly desperate. Marxist workers, despite severe orders, refuse to obey and work only according to their own good pleasure."

(By The Associated Press) The rebel chieftains who would rule Spain disclosed today they planned a military dictatorship—and then, if the people want it, restoration of the monarchy.

Entrenching themselves about their Burgos stronghold against a sudden thrust by forces of the socialist government, the fascist leaders let it be known their intended military dictatorship would be followed by a plebiscite on the return of the Bourbon throne.

Former King Alfonso, who quit the country in 1931, has been reported toying with the idea of flying back to Spain from central Europe. The heir presumptive, Prince Juan of the Asturias, is believed actually to have visited the rebel leaders at Burgos.

The rebels also declared their Thursday air raid on Madrid had wrecked government airplanes and hangars, although the government denied there was material damage.

Two thousand government militiamen comprised the forces reported only 25 miles from Burgos. The swift march on the rebel center followed by one day an important insurgent advance which dominated the Losoya valley, some 40 miles north of Madrid.

Fascist Italy declared a formal embargo on arms shipments to either side.

The Burgos rebels, in today's pronouncement, declared they would closely collaborate with the "friendly" powers of Germany and Italy.

They formally accused France of "sacking the bank of Spain" through gold importations from Madrid, and outlined an ambitious program of "cleansing" Spain when—and if—they seize power.

At Washington, the United States state department acknowledged Madrid's "profound regret" that official mail addressed to the American embassy in the Spanish capital had been opened. It will not happen again, the Spaniards said.

Chinese Pirates Kill 3 in Raid

TIENSIN, Aug. 28 (AP)—Authorities were balked by a watery trail today in their investigation of the latest daring coup of sea brigands who have plundered the China seas for centuries.

The pirates employing a time-worn but effective ruse, impersonated passengers when they boarded the ferry steamer, Lih, before it sailed yesterday from Tangku.

While the ship was on its way here across the Bay of Chihli they held up and robbed 100 Chinese passengers seized 32 of them as hostages and escaped to sea in a waiting junk.

Three passengers were slain and the brigands made off with all possessions of those aboard the steamer including their clothes.

Panic broke out among the victims, the ship's officers said, and the pirates threw two overboard and shot a third. The terrorized passengers, officers said, were searched with great precision.

HE MADE A TEN-YEAR TEST WITH ALL-BRAN

Say good-bye to the headaches, the low spirits, the sleeplessness, that often follow common constipation. Just read this letter:

"In 1926, I started using ALL-BRAN. And now, after ten years, during which I have put Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to a long, hard test, I am writing you this letter. It is better to eat this food and be in condition, than to resort to laxatives."

—Bernard Altman, 63 Goodale Road, Mattapan, Mass.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will help you too. Its "bulk" absorbs moisture within the body, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system. Tests prove it is safe and effective.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Either as a cereal, or in recipes. How much better to use this food than to take patent medicines. Buy ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Takeoff Set for Round-Trip Hop

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP)—Dick Merrill and Harry Richman made a final check of their monoplane, "Lady Peace," today and planned to take off from Floyd Bennett field this afternoon on an attempted round-trip, transatlantic flight to London.

The fliers said they expected to lunch in London Saturday, begin their return flight shortly afterward, and arrive in New York for late breakfast Sunday.

Merrill, a veteran air line pilot, pronounced the 1,600 horsepower (Vultee) plane fit and ready for the hop after a test flight of 710 miles up the New England coast and return yesterday.

Fish Rodeo Will Open Oct. 8 With Trophy at Stake

PORT ISABEL, Aug. 28 (AP)—The 1936 Lower Rio Grande Valley tarpon and fishing rodeo will be held here Oct. 8, 9, and 10. Dr. J. A. Hockaday, general chairman, announces.

For some time it was thought the rodeo would not be held, but a meeting recently decided to proceed. The dates are more than a month later than those of last year.

First prize will again be the solid silver trophy given by the Missouri Pacific Lines. It represents a leaping silver king tarpon. The E. H. McReynolds silver trophy will be the second prize again.

R. J. Montgomery of Rio Hondo won the tarpon trophy last year in a sensational last minute finish. The grand prize is based on total point score and the catch of the winner must include one tarpon.

The rodeo will run three days this year, one day more than last year, and the prizes will be awarded Oct. 11, Dr. Hockaday says.

The point score is expected to be about the same as last year, with tarpon counting more than other fish, and points awarded for all other game fish on the basis of size and combativeness. A fish would really top the point score list but none has been caught in competition.

The general committee includes Dr. Hockaday, J. W. Pate, Elaine Holcomb, and Hadley Smith of Port Isabel. Residents of other parts of the Valley help conduct the event.

Fishing may be in the Gulf, the bay, or the deep channels in this section, with twenty-five or more prizes awarded, including cash, tackle and loving cups.

Beach wraps for 1937 are already being shown in London.

Bandit Car Thought Seen in Brownfield

LUBBOCK, Aug. 28 (AP)—South Plains officers were on the alert today for two men sought in the $2,200 robbery of the First National Bank at Sudan yesterday.

Officers said one man waited in a car while another robbed the bank. An automobile answering the description of the bandits' car passed through Brownfield headed eastward last night.

A PAIN

Americans are justly proud of Jimmy Braddock, heavyweight champion of prize fighting, a family man and a hero of adversity who leaped from the relief rolls to fame and fortune. They may be none too sure of Jimmy's ability to retain his title long, but they think he is a very fine fellow.

Their pride is shaken but not shattered by the fact that everything possible is being done to keep Jimmy from fighting in defense of his title. Max Schmeling, who wants a chance to follow up his victory over Joe Louis, is being given one of the fanciest run-arounds conceivable.

We refer to the statement of Braddock's doctors, part of which reads like this: "The left hand in the anterior posterior position shows chronic hyperthropic osteoarthritic changes at the carpometacarpal articulation of the left thumb and a marked exostosis at the proximal phalanx of the left thumb, with secondary inter-articular changes, the remaining evidences of an old fracture, most likely with an ankylosis."

Between the lines, one discovers Braddock has a sore hand and cannot, according to his manager, fight for the defense of his championship until next spring. Reading more closely, one finds out that a dirty trick is being played on Max Schmeling. There is, however, a redeeming feature.

Braddock, according to observers of the affair of the sore hand, has been acting like a kid caught stealing doughnuts. Artifice, it seems, is not in his line. In brief, not all the pain is in his hand. Some of it—or so we hope—is in his neck, which enables him to understand the feelings of prizefighter fans who think Schmeling has earned a shot at the title which Jimmy won so unexpectedly.

LET'S ALL THINK PEACE

The trend toward more nationwide peace campaigns in the United States certainly is to be welcomed in these days of critical foreign affairs.

Obviously it is difficult to gauge the effect of any of these campaigns, but in the aggregate they ought to emphasize the importance of the peace question for the American people.

It is only through solidarity of opinion that we can hope to fight the menace of entanglement in any prospective European war. The people must be in the peace frame of mind.

Any campaign to that end, therefore, ought to be supported to its fullest measure.

Now that the politicians have muffed attempts to capitalize on the president's invitation of Gov. Landon to his western states' drouth conference, it might be well to consider the incident for what it really is worth.

Here is merely a meeting of the governors of several states with the president of the United States in an effort to halt the scourge of drouth in the future.

The invitation of President Roosevelt, and the acceptance of Mr. Landon, should be construed as no more nor less than mutual recognition of a real public need. Attempts to read anything more into it are extremely petty.

Alleviation of human misery transcends anything political.

DAILY WASHINGTON LETTER

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON.—Indictments returned in Wisconsin against most of the major American oil companies and 58 of their officials and other oil men open a new chapter in the history of the anti-trust laws.

The Department of Justice will soon be prosecuting important individuals and corporations in other industries on charges of violating the Sherman Act.

Meanwhile, the nature of the oil cases and the background of the new trust-busting campaign have become somewhat obscured. If the government proves its charges and wins a verdict, the oil industry will be convicted of flagrant violations and its contention that it is being prosecuted for price-fixing practices previously approved by the government will be exploded.

Assistant Attorney General John Dickinson will try to show that major oil companies attempted to starve out independent jobbers and retailers by secretly buying up the gasoline of independent refiners, both raising the price to the jobbers and making it difficult for them to get supplies.

It is alleged by the government that a buying pool was formed, operated by stooges, and that independent refiners didn't know to whom they were really selling. The government will also contend that the great secrecy with which it charges operations were conducted indicated that the defendants were aware of their illegality.

It is contended that an artificial price was created and published, which about 4000 middle western jobbers, under terms of their contracts, were compelled to meet.

The indictments came after investigation by federal lawyers and "G-men." Wire-tapping was proposed at one point, but Dickinson refused to countenance it.

It required months to get behind the alleged stooges and trace the "higher-up" connections who are charged with having. Agents had to trace back through a series of meetings in hotel rooms, check telephone call records, and find out who met whom and where before they could present their findings to the grand jury, which in turn made further accusations.

Oil men say they're being prosecuted for practices which the government encouraged, but vigorously denied in Washington. There was a buying pool, ostensibly for prevention of dumping, for a short period in 1934. Oil Administrator Ickes is said to have put a stop to it. No official is known to have condoned such practices as the government now charges.

The U. S. Supreme Court, by outlawing open price agreements, has driven price-fixing business men "underground." It has held in effect that practically any price agreement between competitors is illegal.

But a single corporation can monopolize 99 or 100 per cent of the business in a single commodity without violating the law—unless the court says this was done with wicked intent. The court already has held that when a corporation runs competitors out of business, it does so not with the purpose of putting them out of business, but to build up its own business.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

WHEN MOUNT KATMAI, IN ALASKA, EXPLODED IN 1912, DUST IN THE AIR CUT DOWN THE SUN'S BRIGHTNESS TWENTY PER CENT FOR TWO MONTHS, OVER THE ENTIRE NORTHERN HEMISPHERE.

FISHES SLEEP, AND OFTEN TIMES THEY CAN BE HANDLED WITHOUT WAKING

JET IS A VARIETY OF COAL!

WHEN Mount Katmai exploded, volcanic dust was thrown miles high, and carried round and round the world by winds. Even in North Africa, the dust made its appearance in two weeks' time. Cool summers often follow in the wake of volcanic explosions, such as that of Katmai.

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

BY GEORGE TUCKER.

NEW YORK—Unless you are willing to pay for the fun of being fooled, steer clear of a certain pleasant young man who makes his living as a magician-entertainer in the nightclubs of New York. You will know him by the turban and dazzling tassel that he wears, and by the eagerness with which he appears to be trying to please.

It is his custom to move from one group to another, after the floor show, and exercise his talents for the personification of your private assembly. And that's how he makes much extra money.

Not long ago, a group from the American colony in Buenos Aires was rounding out a vacation in the city by a farewell fling in one of the town's most exclusive late spots.

Approaching the party, he suggested that one of the gentlemen hand him a $5 note "just for a moment." Unhesitatingly the note was proffered. Whereupon the magician executed a number of amazingly clever stunts, making the bill disappear through his palm, causing it to reappear in a lady's slipper, and so on.

Finally the fellow closed his hand over the note and held out both fists. "Which hand is it in?" he inquired.

"The left," declared the highly entertained visitor.

"May I keep it if isn't there," he asked smoothly.

"Of course," the victim agreed, never dreaming that he meant it.

"That was too bad, for the bill wasn't in the left hand. It wasn't in either hand. It was under the lapel of his dinner jacket."

"Thank you," the magician had the gall to reply. He slipped the $5 into his pocket, bowed and departed.

HOW'S YOUR HEALTH

skin covers first with small blisters, and later with crusts and scabs.

Recent studies have revealed that ordinary soap such as those commonly used in washing the body, and laundry soaps, may produce and aggravate eczematous conditions.

Approximately 14 per cent of individuals with normal skins reacted to exposure to dilute soap solutions with an eczematous inflammation of the skin. Among those who showed an eczematous predisposition, 50 per cent were found to be sensitive to soap solutions.

No part of the body is exempt of the eczematous changes. Every period in life may experience eczema. Infants, adolescents and aged people present cases of eczema. There is no distinction as to the sexes. Both men and women are its victims, nor do social or economic background play an important role.

The subjective symptom of eczema is itching, which may vary in intensity from a mild degree to the kind that threatens "to drive the patient mad." Frequently the patient complains of burning sensations and occasionally pain may be the outstanding feature. In eczema of long standing the skin is likely to become thickened. Frequently, too, it develops painful cracks and fissures.

ling enough, he cries for everything, and is apt to carry the habit over into later life, only changing the noisy expression of babyhood into moody sulks or raging tempers.

A certain amount of crying is good for a child. It stretches his lungs, stirs up his circulation, and since it is generally accompanied by wailing arms and legs, ends by exercising the whole body. It is good for a baby to put half an hour a day into lusty yelling, and the mother who is too tender-hearted to listen to the noise had better put cotton in her ears and train her mind to think of something else.

The baby who cries for attention should certainly not be picked up

Chapter IV

Steve stood towering, still white with rage, while Toby Lynch rubbed the side of his face with a trembling palm.

Bob rushed forward, grabbing Steve's half-raised arm. "Good Lord, Steve! Hang on yourself, Toby didn't mean anything."

Slowly Lynch got to his feet, partly angered and partly frightened. "What's the idea, Steve? Looks to me as if three fellows ought to be able to get into a discussion without a brawl."

"I didn't mind your generalities," mentioned Steve icily. "But when you applied them to Judith and me, you were going a little far."

"I didn't mean anything," said Toby, still rubbing his cheek.

Bob looked at Steve Fowler. "There you are, Toby's apologized for a loose tongue. Looks to me like you'd better apologize for a loose temper, Steve."

There was a moment of tense silence; and then, slowly, Steve said, "All right. Let's forget it. I'm sorry, Lynch."

"Better go in and wash up," Bob advised Toby. "We mustn't let a little thing like this..."

Toby nodded and left for the bathroom. When the door had shut behind him, Bob said, "He was wrong, Steve, I'll grant you that. But so are you." He held out a package of cigarettes toward Steve, held a light in nervous fingers. "I still think Virginia and I are right."

Steve shot him a sour glance. "Now don't you start, Bob."

"I'm not starting anything, Steve. I've a right to defend my position, haven't I?" Bent grinned up at the other. "Even at the risk of a poke in the nose."

Despite himself, Steve had to smile. "I guess my nerves have been jittery lately. Go ahead, Bob."

"If a man can't support a girl on his own earnings—then I think it's okay for them to marry, if it happens to be agreeable to both of them."

"I know," said Steve, gazing at the glowing end of his cigarette. "That's the modern end. But I'm old-fashioned enough to believe—" "Modern!" exclaimed Bob in disgust. "Listen, Steve. My grandfather and grandmother were married at the ages of 19 and 16, respectively. The old boy had a farm, and when my grandmother married him it was with the understanding that she'd have to cook and wash and churn — harvest crews to cook for and wash dishes after — fruit to put up and quilts to make. Work! Say, my grandmother did more work in a day than Virgie has to do in a month at the office!"

In his excitement, Bob Bent paced across the room. At the other end he turned suddenly and poked his cigarette at Steve. "There's nothing modern or revolutionary about what Virginia and I are doing, Steve. It's old as the hills."

Steve grinned. But it was a stubbed, sore grin; and it was a grin at Bob's enthusiasm rather than an agreement with his principles. "Sure, Bob. But girls were different in your grandmother's day. The whole world was different."

"All right. You're entitled to your opinion, and I'm entitled to mine. My idea is that the world isn't so different now from what it was then. Certainly people aren't any different."

The argument might have gone on, but just then Toby emerged from the bathroom looking quite recovered—but none the less sheepish. He walked straight toward Steve.

"One of my many failings," he said slowly, extending his hand, "is that I shoot off my face too much."

With genuine sincerity Steve Fowler took Lynch's hand, congratulated it, and then turned to the subject later. "I'm the one who should apologize."

There was an awkward silence, broken fortunately by the return of Judith Howard and Virginia Bent, the latter bearing a huge plate stacked high with sandwiches. With a gesture of formal ceremony she set the plate upon the table in the center of Judith's room. "We're women," she said impressively. "But you can't say that we're not, nor spin."

The three men were ill at ease, curiously afraid that something, two girls might recognize that something had gone wrong in their absence. They were like small boys caught in suspicious proximity to the jam closet. But if Judith and Virginia detected anything amiss, they were too busy to say so.

"I've worked to do tomorrow. I don't know about the rest of you." Toby Lynch got up. "That goes for me too." He turned to Judith. "I've had a fine time."

"Thank the Bents. Bob furnished the cocktails and Virginia the sandwiches."

"All right," laughed Toby. "To all and played with. He is already showing signs of being spoiled, and the sooner his bad habits are broken, the better for all concerned."

If he is well fed and comfortable, he should be able to lie in his crib quite happily for the short time he is awake. If he chooses to cry, let him cry himself to sleep.

All that is needed from the mother is self-control.

She is not showing real love or kindness when she takes the baby up every time he whimpers. She is merely being self-indulgent and actually harming the child.

Some day he must learn that he cannot have whatever he cries for, and, in the final he does a basic viol accompaniment—on an inflated toy balloon—that is amazing.

They have no new "Alone" among

Steven paused. "You really meant it when you said we were through?" he asked. "—Yes, Steve."

Judith told him. "I really meant it."

"It was Toby's privilege to make the suggestion, wasn't it?"

Steve looked instantly horrified. "Judith! You don't mean that. You—you can't have any idea of what—of why I got sore at Lynch."

"No?" asked Judith. "I have a pretty fair idea of what Toby Lynch suggested. I know the story that's been going around about him."

Steve stepped back as if from a blow. "You mean to say you've known it—and yet you let him come here?"

"He comes here with Virginia and Bob," Judith reminded him, quietly, "and Virginia and Bob are my friends."

"Then you approve of what he's doing?" Judith shook her head. "I don't approve of it, Steve. But I consider it Toby Lynch's business—and nobody else's. Even if it's true, and I don't know that it is, it's none of my affair."

"I suppose," Steve said, "that you consider it nobody's affair if you and I..."

"No," Judith interrupted quickly, the ghost of a bitter smile on her face. "You assume too much, Steve, if you think that I love you enough to want you outside of marriage."

He looked down at her, non-plussed and bitter. "I can't figure you out at all, Judith."

She watched him take up his hat, start toward the door. He paused in the hallway to ask, "You really meant it when you said we were through?"

"I... yes, Steve. I really meant it."

The door opened and closed. Through filmed eyes Judith saw the knob turn as he released it.

the songs, but "Love Is in the Air" and "Beyond My Fondest Dreams"—sung by Harry Stockwell and Lorraine Bridges—are timely.

And "Alone" was born, last year, after their return to the studio.

SAN FRANCISCO—Up here to sneak a look at the Holly brothers outside their Hollywood habitat, we understand better (after the look) why they take this stage preview of their next film to half a dozen cities instead of to only one.

This "good show town" packed the theater, even at the matinee we caught, and laughter ran the scale from ripples to roars—so much so that, at times, it must have been difficult for the "laugh-clocks" spotted in the audience to decide just where approval of one "gag" ended and delight in another began, or whether the second humorous thrust was lost entirely in appreciation of the first.

And that's why they're doing half a dozen cities, four shows a day, to strike an average.

Horse Saves the Day "A day at the Races" offers a slim plot structure over which the insane tomfooleries of the three mad Marxmen can climb merrily, like a bushy vine over a frail trellis.

The "day" is divided between the races and the hospital where Groucho, who as a horse doctor is chief humorist, and the story is about the wicked business at the infirmary, which would oust Groucho and despoil the ingenuity of her share in it.

It ends with a horse race—Harpo is a jockey, a story on the track assuring triumph for the girl.

But the story can be doctored at the studio, and the main purpose of the tour is to see how the comedy goes. The answer—here at least—is that it goes.

Young Woman Is Dead of Injuries

HUGO, Okla., Aug. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Bobbie Francis Heard, 23, Paris, Tex., died last night in a Hugo hospital of injuries received in an automobile accident three miles south of here yesterday in which C. R. Galloway, Muskogee, suffered severe head injuries.

An automobile they were riding overturned after a tire blew out.

Mrs. Heard was survived by a 5-year-old son, Harold Wayne McFarlane, and by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Heard of Petty, Texas.

ELECTION FOR ONE CHANNING, Aug. 28 (AP)—

There were no contested Hartley county offices so county Democrat officials planned no runoff primary. Certain Democrats, however, thought the county should "show its support" for Col. Ernest O. Thompson for railroad commissioner and an election was held.

Dern Was Third Of Original FDR Cabinet to Die

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—Secretary Dern was the first member of President Roosevelt's cabinet to die in office, although two other cabinet officials have died since Roosevelt's election.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, attorney-general-designate, died on March 2, 1933—just before he would have assumed office. He was on board a train near Wilson, N. C., enroute to the capital from Cuba, where he had just been married.

William H. Woodin, who served as secretary of the treasury for 7 months, died on May 3, 1934. He had gone on leave because of illness in November, 1933, and resigned on January 1.

Col. Henry Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy—and acting secretary at the time because of the illness of Secretary Swanson—died February 22 this year.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance.

Persecution of the early Christians, that broke out so early in Jerusalem scattered the converts far and wide in the ancient world, and they spread the Gospel wherever they went. Since the persecution had come from those of their own religious faith and race, these early Christians, appreciating the power of the Gospel to save Gentiles as well as Jews, turned to the Greeks and the Gentiles.

Thus the new Christian faith, as it extended geographically, spread also in the range of the people whom it brought under its interest and power.

These factors always have been present where there has been genuine Christian experience. When the church ceases to be a missionary church, it ceases to have the true spirit of the Gospel.

To have received the good news of God into one's heart is inevitably to proclaim that good news, and to realize the power of the Gospel to change human lives and human conditions, regardless of race, color, or situation.

It was under these influences that the center of Christian activity seemed for a time at least, to be transferred from Jerusalem to Antioch, about 300 miles north.

Antioch in Syria, one of many communities named after the famous conqueror, Antiochus, was located on the riviedl Orontes, about 12 miles from the Mediterranean coast. As a shipping port on the great lines of trade between East and West, it was a prosperous and magnificent city. The glory of its streets and buildings was in accord with, and in some respects greater than anything in modern cities.

But beneath this outward prosperity and splendor was a corruption that made the city notorious in the ancient world for vice and degradation. When Romans wished to describe the decay of morals in Rome, they were wont to say that the Orontes had overflowed the Tiber.

The spectacle of a group of disciples of Jesus settled in this licentious city, which first gave the name "Christian" to the group, is surely impressive. Could there have been a more unfavorable environment for the early church?

Yet, considering the fact that Christ had come to save the world from sin and degradation, there could not have been a more appropriate place for the Christian church to take hold and carry on its work.

The fact that Christians could live in Antioch, and could make that city the center of a movement of new life, of purity and peace and righteousness, ought to inspire drooping and discouraged Christians of today and bring to us all a sense of privilege and duty. It shows what may be accomplished under the most unfavorable conditions, where men and women are fired with the spirit of Christ and are determined to make His power and His blessings known.

OIL'S NOT RIGHT

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—The four Mack brothers, dairy farmers in suburban Garland, have struck oil on their property—and they don't like it. They meant to get only water when they had a well drilled.

The Macks complain the oil is seeping into the water, milk and almost everything on the farm. Their problem, they say, is how to stem the flow.

Mary Pickford's Fears Revealed In Slander Suit

BOSTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—A police captain's testimony that Mary Pickford feared "something might happen" during her visit here in 1934 was introduced at preliminary hearing yesterday on the $1,000,000 suit for slander and libel brought against the screen star by J. Raymond Cornell, retired Wellesley organ manufacturer.

The captain, Thomas F. Connolly, told of a telephone conversation with Miss Pickford on the night of January 26, 1934, in which she related how a man and a woman had attempted to gain admittance to her hotel suite.

When finally she saw them, Connolly testified, Miss Pickford said, the man made an excuse to leave while the woman told her she had a "spontaneous" message for her.

Miss Pickford told her she was not interested, Connolly said, and thereupon the woman became "impertinent."

The actress' call to the police followed and, Connolly said, he assigned a sergeant and a patrolman to escort the actress to the home of Fulton Oursler, magazine editor, on Cape Cod the following day.

The existence of Cornell's suit first became known this week and with it came prompt denial from Miss Pickford's New York attorneys that there was anything to it.

Cornell's suit claims he was slandered and libeled by the story of Miss

TENANT'S HEAVEN

CHICAGO (AP)—For at least ten years that he knew of, 81-year old William Ihde told Justice Justin F. McCarthy, none of the tenants in the six-flat building where he lived paid any rent—because nobody knew who owned it.

But Mrs. Delphina Lance charged that Ihde posed as the owner and tried to have her evicted for non-payment of rent.

When Ihde admitted he was not the owner and didn't know who was, Judge McCarthy fined him $100 and ordered an investigation of the mystery building.

PAID KILLING IS CHARGED AS SEAMAN HELD

Officials of Union Are Accused of Hiring Him

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 28 (AP)—District Attorney Earl Warren today declared a five-month old waterfront killing mystery was solved with the arrest of four men, three of them officials of a maritime union.

Warren, who attributed the death of George Alberts, engineer of the freighter, Point Lobos, to difficulties with the union, declared: "It was a paid killing job."

The actual killers, he asserted, were George Wallace, alias White, a seaman arrested at Brownsville, Texas, and another man still being sought, whose identity was not disclosed.

The union officials, arrested in San Francisco last night and placed in jail here, are: Earl King, secretary of the Marine Firemen, Oilers, Waterfenders and Wipers Association—a branch of the International Seamen's Union—A. M. Murphy, assistant secretary, and E. H. Ramsey, identified by Warren as a "patrolman" for the union. All three denied any connection with the killing.

Alberts was found dead in his cabin of the Swayne & Hoyt freighter last March shortly before the vessel was to sail from a dock here for Grays Harbor, Wash. He had been stabbed five times. The condition of the cabin indicated he had fought with his assailants.

Warren charged he had information Wallace, who is being held in Brownsville, was taken to the Point Lobos by Ramsey just before his sailing time and that King and Murphy later "protected the murderers and took steps to get them out of the country." Warren said the other actual slayer was reported attempting to reach Mexico.

King, in a statement issued after his questioning at Warren's office, said: "The whole thing is ridiculous. I had no part in the charges against me and I do not believe Alberts was murdered by any member of our union. Certainly our union did not connive at his murder."

STRANGE FACT FREES EGYPT FROM BRITAIN

HALF-CENTURY STRIFE BETWEEN THE TWO NATIONS ENDS

LONDON, Aug. 28 (AP)—Great Britain and Egypt, after 50 years of strife, are bound to friendly mutual assistance under the new Anglo-Egyptian treaty, text of which was made public today.

The treaty has yet to be acted upon by the British parliament. Under its provisions, British military occupation of Egypt would be ended. Each country would be represented in the capital of the other by an ambassador and Egypt would apply for membership in the League of Nations under British auspices.

The treaty, effective for 20 years, would come into force upon ratification. It was believed here that British parliamentary action probably would be effective in November. Egyptian assistance to the United Kingdom would take the following form:

In the event of war or an apprehended international emergency, Egypt will accord all facilities in its power to the United Kingdom, i. e., the use of Egyptian ports, airbases and means of communication, all necessary administrative and legislative measures, including the establishment of martial law and effective censorship.

For the protection of the Suez Canal, Britain is authorized to maintain in the canal zone forces not exceeding 10,000 land troops and 400 pilots.

The Egyptian government will construct in the canal zone additional barracks required for British troops, provide an emergency supply and build roads.

When this work is finished to the satisfaction of both governments, British troops other than those on the canal will be withdrawn.

By ALBERT W. WILSON Associated Press Staff Writer NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP)—The United States and 12 other nations enjoying extraterritorial rights in Egypt will be asked to give their assent in order to complete the tentative independence to be reestablished in that ancient nation.

The Anglo-Egyptian treaty made public today in London is the strangest "declaration of independence" ever conceived for a nation in modern times.

The broad outlines of the scheme were agreed upon when the writer was in Cairo for the Associated Press last spring. It is confirmed authoritatively that the next diplomatic step will be for Britain to persuade the United States and other nations to surrender voluntarily the capitulations they have enjoyed in Egypt since it was part of Turkey.

A conference for this purpose was the official plan. Abolition of capitulations will mean that the 800 Americans in Egypt plus the annual winter increase of tourists from here will no longer have right of being tried by an American consul for criminal charges.

But the mixed tribunals, a special type of court for Egypt, will continue under the plan, already discussed with foreign diplomats.

The Anglo-Egyptian treaty, after many years of political bickering and futile negotiation, has arisen chiefly as a British desire to pacify the tense part of a troubled world, Italian aggression in Africa, unrest in Palestine, Germany's occupation of the Rhineland and other disturbing factors speeded the agreement.
