Cattle Drive Underway

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.'AP—A "truck and trail" drive of about 100 head of Longhorn cattle is due in Kerrville today enroute from San Antonio to Lubbock.

The drive got underway Sunday as U.S. Sen. Tower, R—Tex., and about 150 other horseback riders herded the steers through traffic lights to a park five miles north of the city.

This was the first leg of the truck-assisted 400-mile trip to Lubbock.

The once almost extinct Longhorns are scheduled to arrive Friday at the Ranching Heritage Center on Texas Tech University in Lubbock. A ceremony marking the nation's Bicentennial will be held.

Tower said the drive will expose young Texans to the Longhorns."I hope people will realize the great debt Texans owe the Longhorns," Tower said. "It is a debt we can never repay."

The herd was bedded down Sunday night at Raymond Russell Park.

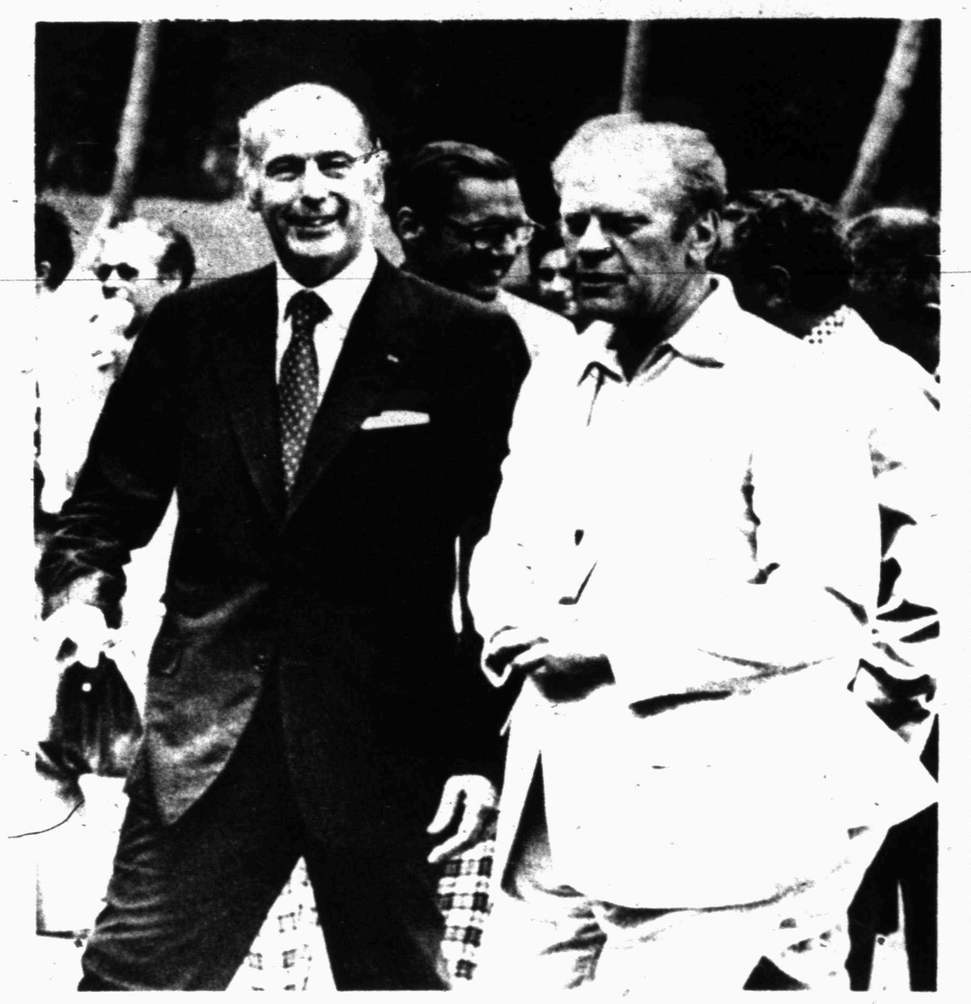

The steers were trucked to the outskirts of Kerrville where they were to be unloaded today for a ceremonial drive through the city.

Other stops on the trip include San Angelo, Stamford and Midland. The cattle will be taken by truck from city to city. At each stop, however, the steers will be driven across town.

The ancestors of the Longhorns were cattle brought to Texas by the Spanish in the late 17th century. The lean animals became the backbone of the cattle industry that flourished in the Lone Star State after the Civil War.

Historians say more than 10 million Longhorns were driven north from Texas to the rest of the United States.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson will join U.S. Rep. George Mahon, D—Tex., in dedicating the ranching heritage center Friday.

US Has Trade Surplus In May

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Asociated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's foreign trade accounts showed a surplus last month for the first time this year on the strength of record exports and an apparently temporary, sharp drop in oil imports, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said exports exceeded imports by $395.6 million in May. That was the first surplus since last December and contrasted to a $202.1 million deficit in April.

The trade accounts are now $670.8 million in deficit for the year, contrasted to a $3.4 billion surplus over the same period last year. The nation developed a record $11 billion foreign trade surplus in 1975.

The major factor in the May surplus was a 24 per cent drop in the amount of oil imported into the United States. The 165.1 million barrels represented the lowest level of imports in 11 months.

But the shift seemed temporary. The American Petroleum Institute, which reports imports on a weekly basis, has said imports for the current month are running at record levels.

Commerce gave no reason for the plunge in May, but oil imports generally can vary sharply from month to month as refineries and other users adjust their inventories.

Oil imports are climbing again now because of heavier gasoline consumption by American travelers during the summer and because of greater use by industry.

Oil imports for the year are 8.7 per cent ahead of the same period a year ago, despite the low import level in May.

Overall, Commerce reported, imports were off by 4.2 per cent in May after no change during the previous month. The drop was the sharpest since imports declined 8.7 per cent in May one year ago.

Exports, however, were up for the third straight month to a seasonally adjusted level of $9.6 billion. That surpassed November's record $9.4 billion.

The increase amounted to 2 per cent — contrasted to a 4.9 per cent increase in April.

Individual categories which increased included farm products, chemicals and machinery and transportation equipment.

The machinery and transportation equipment category showed the biggest gain: $128.2 million. Agricultural products, the other major category of U.S. exports, was up $9.5 million.

Mercenaries Sentenced To Death

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — American Daniel Gearhart and three British mercenaries were sentenced today to death by a firing squad by the People's Revolutionary Tribunal that tried them for their role in the Angolan civil war. Two other Americans were given prison sentences.

Gustavo Grillo of Jersey City, N.J., was given 30 years in prison and Gary Acker of Sacramento, Calif., 16 years. Gearhart is from Kensington, Md.

The Britons sentenced to death were Costas Georgiu, alias Col. Callan, Andrew McKenzie and John Derek Barker.

All the death penalties must be conirmed by Angolan President Agostinho Neto.

All 13 of the foreign mercenaries captured in the dying days of the Angolan civil war were found guilty of the general charge of mercenarism.

The court handed out sentences at varying length that took into consideration the defendants' ages and specific charges against the three Americans and 10 British citizens.

Britons Michael Wiseman and John Marchand were also given 30 years along with Grillo. The verdict found that they "behaved with intensely accentuated malice."

Ex-British soldiers John Lawlor, Colin Evans and Cecil Fortuin were each given 24-year prison terms.

John Nammock, 21, the youngest of the prisoners, was sentenced to 16 years, along with Acker and Malcolm McIntyre.

Annual Busing Review Nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a major school busing decision, the Supreme Court today ruled that federal courts cannot require school districts to annually alter desegregation plans to keep abreast of population shifts.

The court said annual changes in busing routes and assignment of pupils are not required even though integration has not been "totally achieved."

By a 6-2 vote, the court set aside a 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling that the continued annual court review of the Pasadena, Calif., school system was justified.

The court's decision followed by only a few days President Ford's action sending to Congress a bill to limit busing orders to five years.

The Senate began debate today on a $57 billion appropriation bill that could serve as a vehicle for consideration of Ford's proposals. The bill appropriates money for programs administered by the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

Minority Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said he thought it likely that someone would offer Ford's busing proposals as an amendment to the money bill.

The case stemmed from an order issued in January 1970 by U.S. District Judge Manuel L. Real of Los Angeles requiring the Pasadena Unified School District to come up with a lan under which no school would have a majority of any minority race.

Real acted after finding that 85 per cent of black grade school students in the district were in eight elementary schools with black majorities and 49 per cent of black junior high school students were in one intermediate school.

The Pasadena Board of Education divided the school district into four ethnically-balanced areas and bused students from one area to another.

Heirlooms Are Sought For Display

The Pins and Needles Committee of the Scurry County Centennial Celebration has extended an invitation for everyone interested in the "yesteryear" to participate in the activities at the Scurry County coliseum on Saturday, July 3.

An all-out effort has been launched for finding antiques from 50 to 150 years old. The committee, realizing that these heirlooms are priceless, has assured that the utmost care will be taken with these items.

The following suggestions may help, the committee said:

Have all items delivered to their table at the coliseum by noon Friday. If you are unable to bring them, call 573-2288 for someone to pick them up and give you a signed receipt. Write your name one a small piece of tape and stick to each item, or if it is of fabric, attach the information with a pin. Have a short history and date, if possible, and the present owner's name.

If you have quilts to show, the committee will want to drape them over the rails of the arena, or if they are fragile, they will be folded inside locked cases.

There will be displays of many kinds of art glass, old dolls, china handspun material and many quilts for easy viewing and photography. There will be a collection of lamps, 100 year-old fans from Louisiana, and many surprises.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, June 28th, the 180th day of 1976. There are 186 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1914, the heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, was assassinated at Sarajevo, Bosnia. It was the spark that set off World War I.

On this date:

In 1788, the Revolutionary War Battle of Monmouth, N.J., took place. Molly Pitcher's aid to colonial troops made her a heroine in American history.

In 1838, Britain's Queen Victoria was crowned.

In 1919, the Versailles Treaty was signed in France after World War I.

In 1941, guerrilla warfare against the Nazis began in Yugoslavia during World War II.

In 1950, in the Korean War, North Korean soldiers captured the South Korean capital of Seoul.

In 1967, King Hussein of Jordan met with President Lyndon Johnson in Washington to discuss Jordan's plight after the Israeli victory in the Six-Day War.

Ten years ago: U.S. troops began leaving the Dominican Republic in the first step toward dissolving an Inter-American peace force.

Five years ago: The U.S. Supreme Court struck down state aid for parochial schools as unconstitutional.

One year ago: A number of people were killed in Beirut, Lebanon, as fighting between leftists and rightists spread to new parts of the city.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, nearly 20,000 people in New York watched as a member of George Washington's guard, Thomas Hickey, was hanged for trying to poison the general.

Ford Urges Allies To Slow Social Welfare Spending

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — President Ford is urging America's chief industrial allies to go slow on social welfare spending lest they revive inflation and lead to a new global recession.

Ford spoke at the opening session of economic summit talks here on Sunday. A final round began today following a breakfast conference between Ford and French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

The two leaders met after the U.S. President got up early for a swim at the luxurious Dorado Beach resort west of here.

There was no word on what Ford and Giscard discussed, but they and other world leaders at the summit reportedly were talking about a possible aid program for economically striken Italy.

Ford convened the seven-nation economic summit on Sunday saying:

"The global inflationary climate resulted in large part because governments overcommitted themselves to ameliorate social inequities at home and abroad and to achieve an ever-rising standard of living."

Alan Greenspan, chairman of Ford's Council of Economic Advisers, said the President argued that governments were "too ambitious in what they actually attempted to achieve as well as in the expectations they raised."

Greenspan said Ford certainly favors rising living standards but believes they are threatened when inflation gets out of hand.

Ford's aides declined to report the reaction of the government chiefs of Britain, Canada, France, Italy, Japan and West Germany to Ford's statement. However, all their finance ministers have already endorsed the idea of moderating economic recovery, even at the cost of continued high unemployment, in order to dampen inflation.

The 24-hour summit at the Dorado Beach Hotel ends Monday afternoon with a communique, but it was expected to contain nothing startling. Ford said he convened the conference to continue the dialogue begun at a similar meeting last November at Rambouillet, France. State Department counselor Helmut Sonnenfeldt told reporters the purpose was "not so much to solve the technical problems (raised by recent economic and financial developments) but to demonstrate the level of concern with these problems....

"The President is well satisfied that this great spirit and excellent sense of responsibility has carried over" since Rambouillet, Sonnenfeldt said.

A high-ranking Canadian official said U.S. officials also discussed creation of a "supplemental assistance" program to provide aid to industrial nations in acute financial difficulties.

Meeting Set To Discuss Tractor Pull

Final details for July 4 activities are being worked out this week and some meetings and deadlines have been announced.

Clyde Ferguson, president of Snyder Jaycees, who are coordinating the July 4 celebration for the Chamber of Commerce this year, announced that a meeting of all persons interested in the Tractor Pull has been set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce building. It is important that all contestants and others involved in staging the Tractor Pull be present for this meeting, Ferguson emphasized.

Also, Ferguson reminded that 5 p.m. Wednesday is the deadline for reserving concession booth space in the park for the Independence Day Celebration. Organizations who wish to have booths in the park should notify Ferguson, or call the Chamber office before the deadline.

There will be a meeting at 1 p.m. Saturday to assign booth space, and each organization planning a booth should have a representative at that meeting.

Jones Service At Hermleigh

Funeral service was set for 2 p.m. today at the Hermleigh Church of Christ for Mrs. Kate Walker Jones, 89, who died at 8:20 a.m. Saturday in West Texas Hospital at Lubbock.

Ralph Aycock, minister of the church, was to officiate, and he was to be assisted by the Rev. Charles Bridges, pastor of Central Baptist Church in Hermleigh. Burial was to be in the Hermleigh Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Limestone County, she was married on Dec. 25, 1904, at Mildred to William Leonard Jones. He preceded her in death on Oct. 20, 1960.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Lois Vaughan of Idalou; a son, Boyce Jones of Hermleigh; three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Williams and Esther Walker, both of Bay City, and Mrs. Grace Wootten of Bandera; and three grandchildren, Doug Jones of Hermleigh, Vicki Lashier of Lubbock, and Judy Blair of Arlington, Va.

Newport Greets British Women

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — They arrived in the harbor to cheers, applause and raucous whistles, the 42 young British women who sailed 632 miles of the Atlantic to help the United States celebrate the 200th birthday of its breakaway from the crown.

Their voyage aboard the schooner Sir Winston Churchill ended Sunday in this crowded, festive port where tall masts once again line the docks along the colonial brick buildings of the waterfront.

On Thursday, Newport will serve as the starting point for a procession of more than 200 sailing ships and smaller vessels which will parade up New York Harbor on July 4 to celebrate the nation's Bicentennial.

The stars will be 19 "Tall Ships," most of them classic square-riggers with masts rising 150 feet or more above the deck. The Churchill is smaller and lighter than the square-riggers, but its all-woman crew made it the star among more than 10 British entries which raced here from Bermuda on the last leg of a transatlantic competition that began nearly two months ago in Plymouth, England.

"'Tis rough work, but you get by," said Penelope MacGregor Williams, 17, of Sussex. "It's done me a world of good already. Toughened me up. I was lazy. Here you're told to do something, you do it. No buts about it."

The women took over in Bermuda from a male crew that had sailed from England under sponsorship of the Sail Training Association of Great Britain, owner of the ship.

Throughout the race which ended Saturday night with the Churchill five miles short of the finish line, the crew was supervised by a predominantly male complement of officers and petty officers led by Capt. Patrick Collis, a former Royal Navy training officer.

Miss Williams, like many in the crew, had done no extensive ocean sailing before the race started June 20. The young women, aged 16 to 25, had practiced climbing the rigging, which is five stories high, at dockside in Bermuda. Most of the first-timers admitted to terror.

Cattle Sold In Hotel Adolphus

DALLAS (AP) — The honored guests were led by their noses into the Grand Ballroom on the second floor of the Hotel Adolphus in downtown Dallas.

Each of the 35 guests at the gala Saturday night affair had been carefully selected, combed and beribboned.

Waiting for them were about 600 rich and admiring guests, dressed in black ties and long gowns. They came from four continents. Former Texas Gov. John Connally was among them. These people came to buy the guests.

And the objects of attention were about 40 tons of the world's finest bulls and heifers, sold at auction for the Santa Gertrudis Bicentennial Celebration.

Top price was $35,000 for a bull sold by the Chaparoosa Ranch of La Pryor, Tex., although $33,000 was paid for a half-interest in a King Ranch bull named "1776." The King Ranch in South Texas developed Santa Gertrudis, the first American cattle breed.

"How much would it worth to be King Ranch partners," asked auctioneer Gerald Bowie as he opened the night's bidding. "Think of the publicity you could have on a bull named '1776.' Everybody will remember who bought '1776'."

Bob Sabinsky of Dallas bought the bull after Bowie explained that the buyer would gain possession of the animal. "Your cows won't know you just own half interest," Bowie said.

Each of the animals up for auction, some weighing 3,000 pounds were escorted to a stage in the ballroom where guest had just completed steak dinners.

The cattle's horns were painted with nailpolish to make them shine, their coats were curried until they glowed and each was wearing a red, white and blue ribbon befitting the Bicentennial.

An auction spokesman said a total of 33 animals were sold for a total price tag of $241,700, or an average of $7,324. Of these, 10 were bulls that were auctioned for a total of $122,700.

In addition, 33 art pieces were sold for $123,600.

FORMER GOV. -CURRENT CATTLEMAN-FUTURE?—Former Texas Gov. John Connally (R), caught up currently in rumors that he will be the next Republican Vice-Presidential candidate, took time out to auction off Thirty-four head of prize Santa Gertrudis cattle inside the Hotel Adolphus Ballroom in-downtown Dallas Saturday night. Along with the cattle, 100 pieces of Western art originals were also sold. The man and woman at left are unidentified. (AP Wirephoto)

AMA President Urges His Profession To Unite

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The president of the American Medical Association says the federal government knows nothing about planning except how "to regulate in the name of planning."

Dr. Max Parrott, head of the 133,000 physicians in the AMA, told the AMA House of Delegates Sunday that the medical profession must unite in facing "forces that could deteriorate the quality of medicine."

Dr. Parrott of Portland, Ore., said some of the "widespread trust in the magic of governmentalized medicine" seems to have become a fashionable concept.

"The hard truth is that the government doesn't know to plan . . . it merely knows how to regulate in the name of planning."

Dr. Parrott's remarks came on the opening day of the five-day national AMA convention where more than 130 resolutions, touching on the social, economic and political issues in medicine, will be considered by the 256-member House of Delegates, the group's policy making arm.

While delegates discuss such diverse issues as television violence, health insurance, cigarette smoking, and death with dignity, other physicians will be attending the 47 scientific sessions offered during the organization's 125th annual convention.

Attendance, now estimated at 4,000 physicians and 4,000 guests and exhibitors, is far below past years. In 1965 in New York more than 24,000 physicians participated and another 40,000 guests and exhibitors were on hand. Last year in Atlantic City, the registration figures showed 5,200 physicians and 7,700 others.

Frank Chappell, an AMA spokesman, said attendance was falling because original scientific research papers, once presented at the AMA convention, are now being delivered at meetings of the various medical speciality societies.

Another factor in the convention attendance decline is the AMA due increase from $110 to $250 a year. Dues-paying members have slipped from the 168,000 of last year to 133,000.

Among the resolutions to be considered is one that calls TV violence "a risk factor threatening the health and welfare of young Americans, indeed our future society," and encourages physicians and their families and patients to boycott TV programs "containing violence, as well as the products and services sponsoring such programs."

On the continuing controversy over death with dignity, a resolution will be offered opposing any legislation that includes restrictions "that intrude upon the physician-patient relationship and interfere with the physician's ability to use his best judgment and training."

During a scientific session Sunday, Dr. Robert W. Shaw of Dallas said the hope of more than 40 years ago that surgical removal of a cancerous lung would cure many patients has faded.

He said only 20 to 25 per cent of the patients are likely candidates for surgery, and that less than half of these are cured.

Dr. Howard A. Andersen of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., pointed out in his report that lung cancer is still increasing. In 1930, he said, there were 7,000 lung cancer deatns in the United States, but by 1975 the number had climbed to 81,000 and next year the estimate is between 90,000 and 100,000.

The sharp rise in lung cancer came during the years after cigarette smoking first became popular among American men, Dr. Shaw said.

Assault Case, Two Thefts Are Reported

An aggravated assault on a police officer and two thefts headed police reports of criminal activity in Snyder over the weekend.

During a routine patrol late Saturday night in the 800 block of Twenty-fourth Street, city police reported that two officers observed an apparently drunken man walking down the street. When the officers attempted to take the man into custody, he allegedly struck one of the officers.

The incident occurred 11:12 p.m. Saturday. An officer at the police station reported that a crowd soon gathered when the policemen attempted to take the suspect into custody.

After dispersing the crowd, a 26-year-old man was taken into custody. The man was taken to the police station and booked on charges of aggravated assault on a police officer and public intoxication. Charges are expected to be filed on him today.

A theft of two newspaper racks from the Mobil Plaza Restaurant on the Lubbock Highway resulted in a loss of an estimated $225. An employe at the restaurant told police officers that the theft is believed to have occurred between 5 a.m. and 6:20 a.m. Saturday. The newspaper racks taken were the Snyder Daily News and the Abilene Reporter News.

The theft of $7.50 worth of gasoline was reported at the Lamesa Highway Foodbasket Sunday morning. The employe told officers that the driver of the vehicle left without paying for the purchase. The theft was reported at 10:23 a.m. Sunday.

Two Mishaps Are Reported

Highway Patrolmen reported two traffic accidents that occurred Sunday.

The first mishap resulted in an overturned car, but no injuries to the car's driver. The mishap occurred 3 p.m. Sunday, approximately 13 miles north of Snyder on Highway 208.

Highway Patrolmen reported that Valentin Gutierrez of Lubbock was traveling north on Highway 208 when he lost control of his 1972 Chevrolet and overturned the vehicle. A wrecker had to be summoned to remove the heavily damaged car, but Gutierrez was not injured.

The second mishap occurred about 13 miles north of Snyder on U.S. 84 Sunday at 10:45 p.m. John Woodrow Lewis of Houston was traveling north on U.S. 84 when the front tire of his motorcycle blew out. Only minor damages resulted to the motorcycle and Lewis was not injured.

Market Is Stuck Despite Forecasts Of Bulls, Bears

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — At least 100 distinctly different reasons have been offered by stock market bulls and bears in defense of their position over the past few months and all it adds up to is that bulls snort and bears grunt.

A quick survey of what have been offered as erudite theories and forecasts shows that neither bull nor bear has any special insight into the human and economic mechanisms that move the market.

The truth is that the market really hasn't moved very much in either direction since sometime last February, despite the forecasts of either imminent boom or recessionary gloom. It is stuck in its tracks.

The imagination of the forecasters has not been dulled, however. They have called into serve every human activity, almost every institution and certainly every official government report, in support of their views.

What one can safely conclude, it seems, is that the market really doesn't reflect world events on a day-to-day basis, as many of the forecasters claim, but is instead a product of some underlying mass psychology.

That psychology does change, of course, but it hardly seems likely that investors on any particular day will be plunged into gloom or raised to ecstatic heights by what happens in the Mideast or in the Commerce Department.

Those reasons, it would appear, often are offered simply because the people in the stock market demand explanations, they insist on answers, ignoring the realization that if there were answers there would really be no market.

A market requires buyers and sellers, each possessed of enough money and conviction to seek to do something about the future, in which none of us has ever lived, and come back to report on what lies ahead.

It is this uncertainty that supports the market, that makes it, in theory anyway, an assemblage of random beliefs. And it is this uncertainty that permits such an outpouring of stock market opinion.

Looking back over some of those opinions offered during the past four months, one must conclude that contrary to the widespread notion, there is plenty that is free on Wall Street — but all of it is opinion.

Meanwhile, the most popular average of all, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, flirts with 1,000 points, sometimes exceeding the figure but never for long.

Through all the hostilities in the Mideast, despite continued inflation and unemployment, regardless of the tightening of the money supply by the Federal Reserve, in spite of Washington scandals, it hasn't dropped.

Through all the bright pronouncements of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, in spite of hefty corporate profits, in defiance of the theory election years make good markets, it hasn't risen very much.

Does anybody have the answer? Looking back over the forecasts made since February you'd probably be inclined to think that somebbody must have the answer but that even that person probably doesn't know he has it.

Somewhere in those 100 distinctly different explanations there's a useable one, but which one, which one?

School Play On Broadway

BATH, Maine (AP) — A Bicentennial musical written and produced by students and teachers at a private school has blossomed into a road show that will open tonight on Broadway.

The musical, "America's Spirit," was initially intended solely for this small seacoast community. But local box-office success led to out-of-state performances, including the Kennedy Center in Washington and tonight's one-night stand at the Circle in the Square Theatre in New York City.

The two-hour musical touches on the country's religious experience, the Revolution, the Civil War, the frontier and the 20th century.

By the end of the month, the cast of 85 students and 20 teachers from the Hyde School will have appeared in nine of the 13 original states — all but North and South Carolina, Georgia and New Jersey.

"This thing's developed far beyond our earlier dreams," said Edward P. Legg, headmaster of the small, coeducational boarding school. "I think it's a mistake to think that Americans are cynical about the Bicentennial. We have played to thousands of Americans by now and have had very warm, sincere receptions."

Legg credits the success of the musical to the students' enthusiasm and the fact that the show is "not syrupy."

"People go away thinking they have looked at some of the good times as well as the rough times" of America's history, he said.

The signing of the Declaration of Independence is portrayed as a radical, militant act, which sharply divided the country.

Rep. Preston Brooks of South Carolina is shown beating Rep. Charles Sumner of Massachusetts with a cane on the floor of the House in 1856 during an argument over Kansas' admission to the union as a slave or non-slave state.

The Rev. Martin Luther King is portrayed as he is assassinated in Memphis in 1963, and the Hell's Angels are shown killing a Rolling Stone fan at a concert in Altamont, Calif.

The show includes gospel songs, songs from "Jesus Christ, Superstar" and songs written by Bob Dylan. It ends with a full-cast rendition of "America the Beautiful."

Legg said the show is being brought to New York by Theodore Mann, artistic director and founder of the Circle in the Square Theatre, whose son attends Hyde School.

Alternate Mars Site Weighed

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists who decided to scrap a July 4 Viking 1 landing on the face of Mars have been poring over data from the orbiting craft in hopes of finding a hospitable place to land.

The favored alternate site lies 300 miles northwest of the spot originally chosen for the landing. It is hoped the new landing area, called Chryse Phoenicia, will not have many of the foreboding craters, knobs and pits that prompted scientists to abandon plans late Saturday to put down at the original site.

Chryse Phoenicia is a big river basin within the general landing region called Chryse and is believed to be the deposit area of a wide Martian river. Based on geological knowledge of such basins on earth, scientists think the area may be smooth-flowing and sand-dune dappled.

"If the material is carried out to the basin floor, as it is in all our desert basins here, there should be a very smooth, flat area," said Dr. arold Masursky, head of the landing site team. "We think that that (region) has the best chance of having the minimum hazards."

Riley Rites Are Pending

Funeral arrangements were pending here this morning for Porter (T-9) Riley, 62, former Snyder resident, who died at 7:50 a.m. Sunday in Methodist Hospital at Dallas.

Rites will be held Tuesday, with the time and place to be announced at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Snyder, Mr. Riley is survived by his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Sandra Cantrell of Midland; a step-daughter, Mrs. Patsy Downing of Dallas; two sons, Jackie Dean Riley, serving with the armed forces in Germany, and Renie Riley of Abilene; a sister, Mrs. B.F. (Margaret) Gee of Sweetwater, and a brother, T.T. Riley of Clovis, N.M.

Mr. Riley was a U.S. Navy veteran of World War II.

SHS Class of '71 To Meet Saturday

The Student Center at Snyder High School will be the scene of a reunion of the SHS Class of 1971 on Saturday.

Class members are to meet there at 9:30 a.m. for a coffee and brunch. Plans for later reunions of the class will be discussed at that time, and all class members have been urged to make plans to attend.

ABWA Has Musical Program

The Scurry Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association met Thursday for their regular dinner meeting at Martha Ann's Womans Club. Hazel Berry, vice president, presided at the meeting.

The program was given by The Young Musicians of Colonial Hill Baptist Church under the direction of Jo Ann Pylant, assisted by Barbara McGee. The narration, "The Sound of America," was given by Sandra Robinson as the girls sang the lyrics.

The vocational talk was given by Norene Murphy on her duties with the postal service. After a general business meeting, two new members were installed. Beverly Mitchell, who was sponsored by Marilyn Burton, and is secretary-bookkeeper with Snyder Janitorial Supply, and Grace Bryant, sponsored by Norene Murphy, who is the Credit Manager at Goodyear Service Store, were installed by Hazel Berry, Ileta Hall and Irene Brooks. The chapter was adjourned after benediction by Mary Ellen Meador.

NEW ABWA MEMBERS—New members installed by the American Business Women's Association are Grace Bryant, left, of Goodyear Service Store, and Beverly Mitchell of Snyder Janitorial Supply.

Jim: "I have just written about some of my problems in learning bridge. Were you ever a student?"

Oswald: "Now that you have reached the age of 43, you should learn some respect for the old man. I am still trying to learn, although it gets more difficult as the years go by. The man who taught me more than anyone was the late Hal Sims. Hal's play of the cards was magnificent. His bidding was of the 'Bid 'em High and tell 'em nothing school'. Here is Hal at work."

Jim: "His problem was to avoid two heart losers. One way would be to strip the hand, play ace and one heart and hope that the winner of that trick would not hold the last heart."

Oswald: "Hal found a squeeze. He simply drew trumps, discarded one heart on the king of clubs and ducked a heart. He won the heart return and cashed his last three trumps."

Jim: 'Hal was left with two hearts and two diamonds. North with our diamonds. East could not hold a heart and protect the jack of diamonds."

Print Designs Have Big Impact

FAIR LAWN, N. J. (AP) — What started as a fad with T-shirts several years ago is having a sizzling impact on the fashion industry today.

It could completely change the way you dress, says an expert on fabric dyes who has watched Heat Transfer Printing (HTP) go from Beethoven sweatshirts to haute couture fashion.

With HTP, claims W. J. Ferracone, manufacturers can economically turn out smaller quantities of clothes, featuring an almost limitless array of print designs, with incredible speed.

"They can get a new line on the street in as little as 10 days, where it used to take weeks or months working with conventional techniques," says Ferracone, vice president of Crompton & Knowles Corp., a manufacturer of dyes used for HTP.

And because their inventory doesn't pile up the way it does with the big runs, he adds, they can save money — passing the saving on to the customer.

"What it all means to the average woman," says Ferracone, "is that she will have an enormous selection of pleasing fabrics, printed with some really astonishing designs."

During the remainder of 1976, the big news is paisleys, florals, plaids, stripes and scenic designs.

Just what is Heat Transfer Printing? Ferracone explains it: "If the term makes you think of pressing transfers onto kids' clothes with an iron, you're right. But it's a very sophisticated process now. Even name designers such as Yves St. Laurent are working with HTP and we're way past the T-shirt image."

This is how it works. Ink containing special dyes prints the design on special paper. The paper is then pressed under very high heat onto the fabric. "That, basically, is all there is to it," says Ferracone, "although special machines, production know-how and high quality dyes are necessary."

The biggest use of HTP so far is on women's clothes — both outerwear and innerwear — plus men's sportswear and shirts. But heat transfer printing is also finding its way into nonapparel uses, such as tote bags, upholstery fabrics, draperies and rugs.

The first, and still favorite fabrics to "take" HTP are those made from 100 per cent polyester yarn because the process prints on top of the fabric and not through it, the dyes executive explains. But textile engineers have also discovered ways to print on other fabrics such as cotton blends, and flax.

Oysters are low in cholesterol

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—A year ago I was diagnosed as having type 11B lipid profile. Your columns and books on low-fat and low-cholesterol foods and dieting have been an invaluable source of information for me. Now all of my lipid levels are normal.

I would appreciate knowing whether oysters are safe to eat as a low-cholesterol food. Also, what is your opinion about the reports that vitamin C may prevent or reduce the extent of atherosclerosis? There is also an item in the newspaper that I am sending along stating that there are eggs that are lower in cholesterol than normal eggs.

DEAR READER—It is certainly true, as your own case demonstrates, that many people can lower their blood cholesteraol and lipid levels by proper diet. Worldwide studies have repeatedly shown this. After all, diet was a major reason that coronary heart disease almost disappeared in Europe during and immediately after World War 11. As soon as normal dietary habits were resumed resulting in obesity, high cholesterol and other problems, the rate of heart attacks soared.

Yes, oysters are relatively low in fat and low in cholesterol although much earlier reports had included them in the high-fat, high-cholesterol foods. They are quite safe to eat (unless you add fat in preparation) for low-fat, low-cholesterol diets. The values for oysters and other shellfish are included in the tables of my book "What You Need to Know About Food and Cooking for Health." Those who want this book for source information about foods and food preparation can order the new paperback copy from Penguin Books, Inc., 72 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10011. Or they may find it on the paperback shelves at the store, price $4.95.

The information on vitamin C and heart attacks or fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries is contradictory. I do believe, though that work in guinea pigs which showed that a deficiency could result in such fatty deposits and giving vitamin C would reverse the process, establishes the point that a true vitamin C deficiency can lead to atherosclerosis. I do not believe that there is any good evidence that taking more vitamin C than the recommended daily allowance or what you should get in a well-balance diet will prevent athetosclerosis or lower your blood fats or cholesterol.

There is some interesting information about eggs. There is an experimental technique, using a centrifuge, to separate the different parts of the egg yolk. In this way much of the cholesterol can be separated from the rest of the egg yolk. The amount of saturated fat in the yolk can also be changed by what you feed the hen. Hopefully, if the egg industry spends more efforts on developing such products, the day will come when everyone can enjoy egg yolks without fear of increasing their chances of developing heart disease, strokes or other complications of fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries. Unfortunately such products are not now available.

You can use the egg substitutes but it does make a difference which ones you use. One of the more popular of these is still rather high in fat even though it is devoid of cholesterol. Don't forget, the body can manufacture its own excess cholesterol, particularly if you have too many cloaries or too much saturated fat in the diet.

Behind The Scenes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The exhibition "Behind the Scenes at NCFA" will be at the National Collection of Fine Arts, Smithsonian Institution, through Sept. 6.

The show "explains the variety and scope of the museum's operations through the use of photographs, graphics, text and videotapes."

Godfather Type Crime In Texas

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Organized crime of the Mafia type is flourishing in Texas and "we are losing the battle against it," a top state investigator warned Sunday.

Tim James, assistant state attorney general in charge of the organized crime division, told the Texas Associated Press Broadcasters annual meeting that every five-dollar football bettor helps fund organized crime.

"Last year it was estimated that a billion dollars was bet on football, and more than $121 million was net profit to organized crime. My entire budget of $370,000 is all I have to keep tabs on a billion-dollar operation.

"We're fools if we say the Mafia-type underworld is not here. If you can place a bet, you have organized crime activity.

James, a former Houston police officer, runs a staff of 13 agents out of Austin to combat organized crime in all of Texas.

He ridiculed the idea of top state officials having any influence over organized underworld activity. Although "tolerance" must exist in the political arena for such crime to thrive, he said, the tolerance must be on the local, county level—district attorney, district judge, sheriff.

"If you buy any one of these you've bought the county. If you buy two of the three, you're home free. No one in Texas can prosecute but a district attorney and no one can make him prosecute or stop him from dismissing charges. That's where the power rests."

His staff battles narcotics importation now more than ever, James told the broadcasters, terming it "the most dramatic epidemic in Texas crime."

"The magnitude of the narcotics flow into Texas is astronomical and unbelievable. It is a potential disaster area."

James stressed the need for the average citizen to wake up to what is happening.

"'Some people actually ask if there is organized crime in Texas. You're darn right there is and it is the godfather-Mafia type of crime.

"Texas is too big and fertile a state to ever assume organized crime is not interested."

The famous Metropolitan Opera House in New York City was demolished in 1966 after 83 years of existence.

WARMING UP—Oakland A's Joe Rudi, left, and Rollie Fingers warm up on the field at Oakland Coliseum prior to Sunday's game with the Minnesota Twins. A's owner Charles Finley relented at the last minute and gave permission for Rudi Fingers and Vida Blue, the trio involved in a controversial sale, to play in A's games. (AP Wirephoto)

Finley Gives Ground, But Not In Kuhn Suit

OAKLAND (AP) — Explosive Charles O. Finley capitulated to his Oakland A's baseball players while vowing there will be no surrendering of his stand against Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Minutes before his A's were slated to strike on Sunday, after a close vote authorizing a walkout, Finley made the move that automatically called it off. He finally gave permission for Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers and Vida Blue to play.

Relief pitcher Fingers shared the hero honors with veteran third baseman Sal Bando, who hit two homers and drove in three runs as the A's beat Minnestoa 5-3.

Finley had sold outfielder Rudi and pitchers Fingers and Blue on June 15 only to have Kuhn void the deal and send the three back to Oakland. Finley wouldn't allow Manager Chuck Tanner to play them, saying it might be an admission by the owner that he hadn't truly made the sales.

He asked $10 million in damages from the commissioner.

But when he kept the trio on the bench, the players threatened the walkout, saying that action was unfair to the 22 remaining since they'd had to take up the slack.

With the strike slated for 1:30 p.m., PD, the Finley announcement came right at that time.

"Everybody gave a cheer," said pitcher and player representative Jim Todd, who said the strike situation made him as nervous as he had ever been — much more nervous than in a game.

Finley maintains he'll win his big damage suit and also get the sales approved by the courts — Rudi and Fingers to the Boston Red Sox at a million-dollar price tag each and Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million.

Kuhn ruled those big prices and the sale of three stars simultaneously weren't in the best interest of the game.

On the matter of the sale, the players back their owner even though there have been many clashes in the past involving the outspoken Finley.

The player representative said the A's voted to strike even though Executive Director Marvin Miller of the Players' Association advised against it. The two were on the phone when Manager Tanner announced that Rudi would be in Sunday's starting line-up.

The outfielder didn't get a hit, but turned in four catches in left field — two of them outstanding.

With Oakland leading 4-0, the Twins staged a three-run rally in the sixth and had two on with two out when Tanner called in Fingers. He got Larry Hisle to bounce back to the mound with his first pitch. Then he finished up to notch his ninth victory.

"I didn't know if I could go that long in this heat after the layoff," said Fingers, the outstanding player in the 1974 World Series. "I was a little nervous at first, but after gettng Hisle, I wasn't nervous anymore. I'd been warming up every other day but that isn't like being in a game."

Blue isn't sure when he'll pitch, saying, "I want to know I'm ready. I don't want to injure myself."

Rejects Offer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Andre Robertson, a shortstop from West Orange, has rejected a $7,500 pro baseball offer to sign with the Texas Longhcrns. Robertson would be the first black to play at Texas on a baseball scholarship.

The pro offer was from the Texas Rangers, who drafted him June 9 in the 12th round.

'Desperation' Move Pays Off For Paul Richards

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — One of Chicago manager Paul Richards' favorite sayings is that "desperation breeds geniuses" and there were two cases in point on display for the White Sox Sunday night.

Chicago dropped the Texas Rangers 3½ games behind Kansas City in the American League Western Division and rookie third baseman Kevin Bell and hard luck righthander Bart Johnson were the stars in the 6-2 victory.

The 20-year-old Bell drilled a two-run homer—his third in the big leagues—and Johnson scattered seven hits to gain his fifth victory in 12 decisions with relief help from Dave Hamilton.

"I saw Bell in spring training and I knew he could do it some day," said Richards. 'However, we didn't even consider keeping him at all but had to call him up from the minors after Jorge Aorta decided he didn't want to play third."

Bell hit his two-run home run in the sixth inning and contributed two singles in a three-for-four performance. He has hit .265 in 14 games and still finds himself a little amazed at being in big league baseball so soon.

"I was surprised they brought me up and I've been lucky," said the Covina, Calif., youngster. "I could easily be hitting .200 but I've been getting the breaks."

Reminded that baseballs hit over the fence could not be considered luck, Bell just shook is head and smiled.

Johnson missed all of the 1975 campaign with back trouble but Richards said, "We have had five straight good games in a row from Bart. He was throwing a hard curve out there tonight for the first time. He had been letting up on it because of his back but those curves just exploded out there."

Texas shortstop Toby Harrah ruined Johnson's shutout with a two-run homer in the seventh inning. It was Harrah's fourth home run in seven games.

The victory gave Chicago a 5-4 season lead on the Rangers--the only Western Divsion club with a series lead on Texas.

Richard said, "We would be way out in front if we just had to play Western Divsion teams. We must be 14 games over .500 against the west but we can't beat anybody in the east."

Chicago lost 20 consecutive games to Eastern Division teams earlier in the season.

Losing Ranger pitcher Nelson Briles, now 6-5, was unhappy over the way the Rangers have been playing.

Briles said, "We have just been playing —baseball. I've been trying to not let it bother me but we've been doing it night after night."

Briles, a control pitcher, said "Guys (pitchers) in my category are dead if we don't catch the ball."

A Ranger error led to one White Sox run and there were several Texas mental lapses in the field which put Briles in the hole.

The White Sox headed home after winnipg six out of nine games on their road trip while Texas was scheduled to host Oakland tonight. Ranger lefty Jim Umbarger, 7-5, was to go against Oakland's Mike Norris, 2-1.

Mills-Thomas Team Winner

Tommy and Billie Mills and John and Evelyn Thomas won the mixed foursome golf tournament at the Snyder Country Club yesterday.

The Ladies' Golf Association sponsored the event. The winners fired a 62.

Bob and Bobbie Hargrove and Darwin and Claudia Melton finished second with a 63.

Third place went to Dan and Pat Gallagher and Gene and Norma Thompson, carding a 67.

Larry and Betty Hildreth and Don and Lu Wolf posted a 68 and ended up fourth.

The Ladies' Golf Association will sponsor another mixed foursome August 1 at the Snyder Country Club.

Red Robins Nudge Tigers

The Red Robins nudged the Tigers, 14-12, in girls' mini-minor league softball Saturday night.

For the Robins, Leah Snader and Candy Shoemaker cracked singles while Lisa McNew clubbed a double.

For the Tigers, Deana Underwood and Becky Gray rapped singles.

Marika Sitton was charged with the loss, and Kelly Warren was credited with the victory, striking out seven batters.

The second contest, the Rangers versus the Giants, was cancelled due to an injured player, but will be replayed at 4:30 today.

The major league's Green Hornets travelled to Sweetwater and tangled with the Sweetwater Dynamites Saturday. The Snyder lasses lost the contest, 17-6. Shari Cotton picked up the loss.

Girls' softball action tonight shows the Bears taking on the Bobcats, and the Green Hornets going up against the Red Devils.

Patriots Sign 2

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots have added two more draft choices, upping the number of first-year men who have signed contracts with the National Football League club to 10.

They were running back Stu Betts of Northern Michigan, 6-foot-2, 216 pounds, and Stanford center Todd Anderson, 6-foot-5, 250 pounds.

Evert Sidelines Soviet Entry In Short Order

By JEFF BRADLEY
Associated Press Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Top-seeded Chris Evert, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., took less than 45 minutes to defeat Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union 6-3, 6-0 today and moved into the women's singles semifinals of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

Third-seeded Virginia Wade of Britain beat Kerry Reid, the No. 8 seed from Australia 6-4, 6-2 to the delight of the sweltering, near capacity crowd at center court.

Following these matches, Rosie Casals of San Franisco plays Australia's Evonne Goolagong, last year's losing finalist who is seeded second, and Britain's seventh seeded Sue Barker meets Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia, the fourth seed in other quarter-finals.

Mrs. Morozova, seeded No. 5, began well, and threatened to break up the rhythm of Miss Evert's game by keeping her running and drawing her to the net. The Russian hit one brilliant low backhand volley and won loud applause from the crowd.

But after holding her opponent to 2-2, Mrs. Morozova began to lapse. From deuce on her service, she double-faulted, and then failed with a low backhand to drop service.

Mrs. Morozova lost her length and hit a stream of forehands over the baseline. Her ground strokes became looser as Chrissie gained in accuracy.

The Russian lost her service again to lose the set 3-6, but she fought grittily and saved four set points first. Miss Evert eventually closed out the set with a forehand across the court, it landed on or about the line, and both players waited for a linesman to call it out. But there was no call.

In the second set the Russian's game disintegrated, and Miss Evert strolled on to victory. From the winning point in the first game, Miss Evert took 12 points in the row.

Mrs. Morozova's forehand went more and more out of control. She wilted in the heat and never looked like winning another game.

Miss Evert wasted one match point by netting a backhand. But Mrs. Morozova hit another forehand out, and then wearily double-faulted to lose the match.

Course Real Winner In Western Open Tourney

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Maybe the real winner of the Western Open was the Butler National Golf Club course and not Al Geiberger.

And maybe the Western Open can be called the Back Door Derby. Nobody went forward.

Geiberger backed into the $40,000 top prize by deliberately playing for a bogey on the last hole. He said later, "I'll admit that was a rare way to win a tournament." He said that he remembered Arnold Palmer winning at Tucson some years ago with a double bogey on the final hole, but, of course, he wasn't going for one.

Geiberger won with a closing 73 for a 288, four strokes over par.

"It's hard for me to believe I won," he said.

Bob Dickson, leader through the first three rounds, dreamed of winning, which would have gotten him out of the weekly Monday qualifying tournaments.

After licking the Butler National beast the first two rounds with 67-69, the only player to beat par, Dickson collapsed.

He started Sunday with a 12-foot birdie putt on the first hole that gave him a six-stroke lead. He finished with an 80, sharing third place with defending champion Hale Irwin and Charles Coody at 290, good for $10,600.

Playing just ahead of Dickson and Geiberger was Joe Porter of Scottsdale, Ariz. He is another Monday qualifier with winnings of only $6,000 this season. Since turning pro in 1968, his biggest year was 1975 when he won $19,819.

Going to the 17th, Porter was one shot ahead of Geiberger. Geiberger's 13-foot birdie putt on the 14th hole had shot him ahead of Dickson who had double bogeyed.

However, on the 17th, Porter hit from the rough into the water, banged his club on the ground in disgust and finally settled for a bogey.

On 17, Geiberger made a testy par, coming out of the sand and canning a five-foot putt. At that point, he knew he had tied Porter for the lead.

But up ahead on 18, Porter was in trouble, unknown to Geiberger. Porter put his drive into the rough, his second into a trap, his third over the green and ended with a double bogey six for a 73 and 289.

On the 18th, Geiberger followed the general script of the tournament and put his drive among the trees.

Fireworks Have Feds Worried

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

While millions of Americans are looking forward to Fourth of July fireworks displays, the government is worrying about the safety of the sparklers.

New regulations have been proposed to take some of the bang out of some of the more common varieties of firecrackers, but they will not go into effect until next year.

Note: Firecrackers are distinguishable from other types of fireworks in that they are explosive devices whose primary purpose is to produce a loud noise rather than a visual display.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission reports that in 1974, the latest year for which statistics are available, there were 3,300 injuries related to fireworks on July 4 alone. More than 60 per cent of the injuries were caused by firecrackers.

The Office of Consumer Affairs of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has a few common-sense "Do's and Don't's" for fireworks use:

—Don't hold fireworks in your hand unless the directions specifically say so.

—Do place the fireworks on hard, smooth, level surfaces.

—Use fireworks outdoors only. Children should use fireworks only under close adult supervision.

—If the firework does not go off, wait at least 10 seconds after the fuse stops glowing before approaching it.

—At public displays stay in designated areas to avoid fumes and sparks.

For further information, you can get a fireworks fact sheet from the Product Safety Commission by calling the group's toll-free hotline at 800-638-2666. Ask for Fact Sheet No. 12. (Maryland residents call 800-492-2937.)

For the future, the Product Safety Commission has issued rules limiting the amount of explosive powder that firecrackers can contain. The rules will go into effect on Dec. 5, 1976, unless there are major objections.

Under the regulations, no firework could contain more than 50 milligrams, equal to less than two one-thousands of an ounce, of "pyrotechnic composition." (That means powder.)

Fifty milligrams is the amount of powder contained in a seven-eighths inch firecracker usually known as a "ladyfinger." The previous limit was 130 milligrams of powder. Larger firecrackers such as "Cherry Bombs" have been banned for several years.

The latest rules also ban colored sparklers that burn at temperatures as high as 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit and handheld Roman candles.

The new regulations would have no effect on organized displays such as the ones planned in the nation's capital and elsewhere for the Bicentennial. They would not affect local bans in 32 states.

Military Code Of Conduct Eyed

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon committee is reviewing the military code of conduct with Vietnam war prisoners who are divided over whether POWs should have latitude to give their captors more than name, rank, service number and birth date.

The issue, revived when 566 American POWs were released by the Vietnamese Communists more than three years ago, is central to the committee's mission of deciding whether the 21-year-old code needs rewriting.

The 10-member group has been meeting several times a week behind closed doors to study the record of the 1955 board that drafted the original code, and to listen to the views of former POWs and others on how the code worked in the Vietnam war.

The Defense Review Committee — which includes four former POWs — has heard clashing opinions on exactly what the code requires of Americans who fall into enemy hands in wartime.

"There are those — and they include men who lived through years in North Vietnamese prisons — who still hold to the Spartan idea that under no circumstances should you give more than name, rank, number and birth date," said one source familiar with the committee's proceedings.

But other freed POWs, some of whom have since been decorated for bravery while in captivity, believe this is unreasonable.

"A determined torturer can get you to answer his questions," said one source, an officer who told of enduring repeated torture.

"You may not tell him the truth, but he'll get you to answer.

"The important thing is that you go to the limit of your endurance, that you take significant pain before you give in."

Some POWs claim the original code of conduct, formulated and issued after the Korean War, made allowances for this.

In support of their position, they cite the wording of Article 5 of the code. That article says, "I am bound to give only name, rank, service number and date of birth," and adds: "I will evade answering further questions to the utmost of my ability."

It is the phrase "to the utmost of my ability" that these former POWs say is the key one in their argument that the code of conduct was not intended to be rigid.

Thundershowers Due In Texas

By The Associated Press

Some more scattered thundershowers are on tap for Texas this evening to cool off another hot summer day.

It was a quiet and warm night across the state after Sunday night's thunderstorm activity.

All of Texas was practically cloudless by early morning but just before sunrise some low clouds began moving northward across Central Texas.

Showers also blew in from the Gulf of Mexico across the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Balloonist Is Located By Jets

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — Trans-Atlantic balloonist Karl Thomas was reported about 400 miles south of St. John's, Newfoundland, early today, a search and rescue center official said.

Thomas is trying to become the first balloonist to cross the Atlantic and live to tell about it. The Atlantic has swallowed up several others who tried.

The rescue center estimated that Thomas' 90-foot-tall helium balloon was traveling at 30 knots at an altitude of 3,500 feet.

The 27-year-old Thomas had taken off from Lakehurst, N.J., on Friday night in a flight intended to help mark the U.S. Bicentennial.

Thomas lost radio contact shortly after taking off, but has been spotted by commercial jets.

"We're plugged into the information network that is gathering data on the balloon, even though its pretty scattered," the center spokesman said.

"As soon as he gets into the shipping lanes we expect to be able to track him effectively.

A commercial jet that contacted Thomas on Sunday night reported that "The conditions are good. He's just zipping along and we're doing all the worrying," according to Thomas' ground crew in New Jersey.

Thomas' ground crew's communications center in New York City had said earlier today that it had not heard from him in over 24 hours.

Both the Coast Guard and the Navy have planes searching for him, a spokesman for the balloonist's crew said, and ships and aircraft have been alerted to be on the look out for his balloon.

Don't Show and You Won't Tempt

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from the young girl who had been used by her father for sexual pleasure, and I wondered if the girl's mother had provided tight fitting, revealing clothes for her beautiful daughter.

When in missionary work in Africa, my wife and I were at a roadside marketplace when a very shapely, young, scantily clad Belgian girl walked by. An African workman remarked to his companion, "Dimba tshe paka landja!" We knew the language; he said, "The entire body is right outside!"

If mothers and daughters conspire to draw the attentions of men to their beautiful young bodies, a few fathers cannot help but be overcome by the desires constantly aroused in their own homes. When God-fearing parents advocate modesty, they are not being prudish—they are being realistic and practical.

Your comment is true; the father is "sick." But there is a sickness in our society that may have contributed much to that father's malignancy.

JAMES STEVENSON, PASTOR
WHITEHALL UNITED METHODIST CHURCH
COLUMBUS, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: You've had several letters in your column from young girls who have been sexually abused by their fathers, stepfathers or "funny uncles." But I've never seen a letter from a young boy who had been used in that way by a female relative.

I was that kind of a victim until I was nearly 10 years old, but I was bribed and threatened so I never told anyone.

Abby, please continue to alert all parents to keep their eyes open where their children are concerned. And tell young people not to be afraid to report such improper activities to a teacher, a trusted adult friend, relative or even the local police. Also, the Children's Protective Society and/or the county welfare department can help.

MY SISTER'S VICTIM

DEAR VICTIM: I have, and I shall continue to do so. This problem is far more widespread than most people suspect.

DEAR ABBY: You read so much about unwed mothers who give up their children. Well, what about unwed fathers who would have given their right arm to raise the baby their mother didn't want?

I am the father of two children born out of wedlock, a boy and a girl, who were given up for adoption to strangers. These children were half mine, yet I had no say in the matter.

I offered marriage to both these girls and was turned down. They weren't teenagers, either. One was 21 and the other was 24.

I love children, Abby, and as a single parent I could have given both my children as good a home as their mother could have, if she had wanted them. I can cook, sew and keep house as good as any woman can, but the courts don't consider a father's rights. Why?

STILL SINGLE AT 35

DEAR SINGLE: You may live long enough to see the courts make some decisions in favor of the unwed father. It's being worked on, as it well should be.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Stopgap Action Seen On Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is preparing a Bicentennial birthday gift for American taxpayers.

Both the House and Senate are expected to pass a stopgap measure this week preventing a payroll withholding tax increase from taking effect on Wednesday when tax cuts enacted last year expire.

The stopgap measure is being rushed through Congress because action on permanent, long-range legislation extending the cuts is nowhere near completion.

If withholding taxes were allowed to rise, it would mean a $245 tax increase for a family of four earning $6,000 a year; a $204 hike for a couple earning $10,000; a $151 increase for a single person earning $10,000; and $180 for a typical four-member family earning $15,000.

Another bill that must be passed before Congress goes on recess Friday for the Fourth of July holiday and Democratic National Convention is an increase in the national debt ceiling.

Without the increase, the Treasury would not be able to borrow operating funds for the government. The House has passed and sent to the Senate a $73-billion increase, to $700 billion.

Final congressional action also may occur this week on a compromise $32.5 billion weapons procurement bill. A House-Senate conference committee approved the measure on Friday.

The compromise authorizes the Pentagon to go ahead with production of the first three prototypes of the B1 bomber.

The Senate had voted to delay a production decision on the B1 until next February so that whoever was elected president in November could make the final decision. But House conferees stood firm in opposing a delay and forced the senators to back down.

In another matter, Democratic House leaders are pressing for completion of work before the recess on a package of changes in House payroll and expense account procedures drafted in the wake of the Capitol Hill sex scandal.

Defying the wishes of the Democratic caucus, the House Administration Committee voted Friday to turn over the revisions to the full House for action instead of having the committee itself put them into effect. Committee Chairman Frank Thompson Jr. of New Jersey said he was confident that Democrats on the panel will reverse the vote and implement the changes.

Texan Top Fiddler

WEISER, Idaho (AP) — A retired Texas construction superintendent won the National Oldtime Fiddlers Contest for the fourth time in six years.

And another Texan, who fiddles without fingers, was the delight of spectators at this traditional music festival.

Dick Barrett, 57, of Pottsboro, Tex., won his second straight title Saturday night by playing Durange's Hornpipe, the Gardenia Waltz and one of his own tunes. Barrett also won the event in 1971 and 1972.

Barrett said he's played the fiddle since boyhood and repairs stringed instruments at home. He beat 120 contestants in six playoff rounds to win.

John Francis, 21, of Spokane, Wash., took second place for the second consecutive year. Francis, a student at Spokane Falls Community College, has competed at Weiser since 1965 — more than half his life. He began playing the fiddle at age eight.

Third place went to Jeff Pritchard, 18, Wichita, Kan., and fourth to Junior Daugherty, 52, Las Cruces, N.M. Connie Bonar, Veradale, Wash., was fifth, the highest finish ever for a woman in the contest.

She was accompanied by her father on banjo and her mother on accordion.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Many Texans are planning to celebrate our nation's 200th birthday this Fourth of July either by attending a public fireworks display or by purchasing and setting off firecrackers themselves.

The State Fire Marshal represented by our Insurance, Banking, and Securities Division, along with our Consumer Protection Division, caution consumers that fireworks present serious safety hazards, especially for children.

Because of that hazard, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has issued a final order which later this year would restrict the amount of explosive charge in firecrackers sold to the public to 50 milligrams. This means that after this Fourth of July, Texas consumers will be able to purchase only small firecrackers similar to "ladyfingers."

But there are several State regulations designed to protect consumers which are already in effect and which may help to make this Fourth a safe one. In addition, existing State regulations regarding large public fireworks displays will continue in force.

In Texas, all manufacturers, distributors, jobbers, salesmen, and retailers of fireworks must be licensed by the State Fire Marshal and must pay a license fee that ranges from $2 for retailers to $750 for distributors.

Fireworks are classified as "A," "B," or "C." A person or company setting off a Class A public display must obtain a special display license after paying a fee and having an inspector from the State Fire Marshal's office or a city or county fire chief or fire prevention officer approve the site and the "pyrotechnic operator" for safety.

Class A public displays also require that the responsible person or company carry at least a $10,000 bond or $20,000 worth of liability insurance. Failure to comply with any of these requirements is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of up to $1,000 or imprisonment for up to one year, or both.

Class B displays require similar but less stringent requirements, and Class C fireworks are those common ones purchased and used by individuals.

Many cities have passed ordinances which prohibit sales of fireworks within city limits and a certain distance beyond. In areas where fireworks may be sold, there are several State restrictions designed to promote safety: No smoking is permitted in the area, and fireworks may not be stored or displayed where the public may touch them or behind glass where the sun may shine in and ignite them. Fireworks may not be sold to children under 10 or to any intoxicated or irresponsible person. They may not be set off within 600 feet of a church, hospital, asylum, or school, or within 100 feet of where fireworks are sold or stored.

During this Fourth of July celebration, the State Fire Marshal's office suggests these fireworks safety precautions be observed: Buy only fireworks with a manufacturer's label. Always read directions and have an adult present. Never allow small children to handle fireworks. Always set off outdoors in a clear area away from flammable items, be sure viewers are out of range, and move away quickly after lighting. Ignite only one firecracker at a time, and never set off fireworks in a glass or metal container. Keep water handy for emergencies. Don't relight or investigate malfunctioning fireworks until a safe period ahs passed, then soak them in water, and throw away. Store fireworks in a cool, dry place and never carry them pockets or handle them roughly.

GE Strike Called Off

NEW YORK (AP) — A threatened nationwide strike of 87,000 employes of the General Electric Co. was called off when a tentative agreement was reached hours before union contracts were due to expire.

A company spokesman described the tentative agreement reached Sunday as "sound and competitive." He declined to give details of contract terms pending ratification by the union membership.

Union officials could not be reached for comment.

The pact covers 70,000 members of the International Union of Electrical Workers and 17,000 members of the United Electrical Workers.

Union sources said current base pay averages $5.05 an hour.

Quiet Capture Ends Big Oklahoma Manhunt

CANADIAN, Okla. (AP) — Nobody thought too much about the rotund man in the dirty T-shirt who dropped into Jones' Grocery for a soda and potato chips. That is, until C.A. Pearce saw the man.

Pearce, a guard at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary 17 miles away, immediately recognized Rex Brinlee Jr., a convicted bomb slayer who had escaped from the prison eight days earlier. Just the day before, prison officials had said they had no idea where Brinlee was.

State prison warden Richard Crisp said Brinlee and Pearce recognized each other immediately and "Brinlee suggested they both walk outside and discuss the matter. They walked outside and in the conversation Rex agreed that the proper course of action would be to turn himself over to Mr. Pearce...."

Witnesses said that moments later Pearce and Brinlee walked back into the store and called the prison. Brinlee was tired, hungry and eaten up by chiggers.

His quiet capture Sunday in a resort town ended a chapter in one of the biggest manhunts in Oklahoma history that began after seven inmates fled the state prison June 19.

Two other convicted killers are still at large, the targets of a round-the-clock search in rugged countryside near Stigler in eastern Oklahoma. Late Sunday, Gov. David Boren authorized use of four National Guard helicopters for low-level surveillance of the area where cousins Edwin Jones and William Franklin are believed hiding.

Shoppers at Jones' Grocery said they thought Brinlee was a fisherman from nearby Lake Eufaula. He bought a snack with a $1 bill before he saw correctional officer Pearce.

Robert Jones, owner of the grocery in this resort town of about 200 on Lake Eufaula, said there "really wasn't much" to the surrender of Brinlee shortly after 11 a.m. Sunday.

Jones described Brinlee as "not having much of a beard" but wearing "a dirty T-shirt like he had been hiding."

"I thought I had seen him before, but it really didn't hit me at the time that it was Brinlee," said Jones. "I guess I had seen his pictures in the paper."

Brinlee, 43, was given a life term after being convicted of the bomb-slaying of Bristow, Okla., kindergarten teacher Fern Bolding, and officials said Brinlee had actually intended to kill her husband, who was to testify against him in an auto theft case.

Jones and Franklin, the two men still at large, were convicted of killing a state trooper and a park superintendent.

Fireworks Sales Up 40%

HUDSON, Ohio (AP) — Business is booming for fireworks maker James Sorgi.

With the nation preparing for its 200th birthday next weekend, Sorgi says sales are up 40 per cent despite shipping restrictions that have forced him to cancel or turn down some orders.

He expects more than $200,000 in business over the July 4 weekend.

Sorgi said the company itself will put on 80 shows over the Bicentennial weekend, including displays at Chicago and Cleveland, and will ship 450 orders of fireworks to groups conducting their own shows.

Mother's Day became a public holiday May 9, 1914.

Plano Degrees May Have Violated Texas Certificate

PLANO, Tex. (AP) — The University of Plano has awarded at least 17 academic degrees by mail to persons enrolled in a Philadelphia, Penn., institute which Pennsylvania officials say is barred by state law from granting degrees.

Those getting the degrees never studied at the Plano campus, the Dallas Morning News said in its Sunday editions. The newspaper said the action may have violated the Texas educational certificate under which the University of Plano operates because graudate degrees were conferred.

The Philadelphia institute is barred from issuing degrees of any kind under Pennsylvania law, and Plano has been authorized by the State of Texas to issue only two-year and bachelor's degrees.

Robert Morris, president and board chairman of the school, confirmed that at least 17 degrees were granted.

A letter to Morris bearing the letterhead of the "Institutes for the Achievement of Human Potential" in Philadelphia and signed by "Neil Harvey, Ph.D., president" noted that Plano trustees voted last August to recognize certificates earned at the Philadelphia institute as the equivalent in academic degrees to those offered at Plano.

E.D. Fitzpatrick, assistant to the commissioner of the Texas Coordinating Board, said if graduate degrees were issued after Jan. 2, 1976, when Plano was certified as an unaccredited institution, such action is a misdemeanor violation. Such a violation calls for a fine of up to $5,000 for each graduate degree issued.

The letter to Morris calls for issuance of six doctoral degrees at a "matriculation fee" of $100 each, 18 master's degrees at $75 each and 25 bachelor's degrees at $50 each, the News said.

Three members of the school's academic council said the degrees were granted without academic review as required of other degrees.

Helen Harkness, former academic dean at Plano, said to her knowledge none of the people in the "exchange program" ever attended classes in Plano. The graduate degrees awarded were the first ever issued by the school, she said.

The Philadelphia Institutes program is described as a combination of therapy and education designed to help neurologically damaged adults and children.

A Pennsylvania education spokesman said the Philadelphia Institutes cannot grant degrees.

"If some kind of certificate is issued, it's just a piece of paper," said John Peifer, director of the division of private schools in Pennsylvania.

Morris said the Plano trustees voted to accept certificates from the Philadelphia Institutes as the equivalent of academic work at Plano, even though the Plano faculty opposed the idea.

"Anyone getting a degree certainly more than deserved it," Morris said.

Cost for the schooling is approximately $9,000 per year, according to the catalogue.

Morris said the degrees were awarded before the coordinating board limited the school to awarding associate and bachelor's degrees.

Opinion Poll Says Routines Can Change

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost 8 out of 10 people in a recent opinion survey said they would change their household routines to take advantage of lower nighttime electricity rates.

General Public Utilities Corp. asked the question of a sample of more than 60,000 of its customers in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Some 78 per cent of those answering said they would replan such household chores as dish and clothes washing, baking and bathing to late evening if electricity costs less at that time.

GPU has been urging its customers to switch some use of energy from daytime peak consumption periods to "after 8 p.m." to lessen the need for construction of new generating plants to meet rising daytime demand.

Betty Sends Gown To Institution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Betty Ford has sent out one of her gowns — to the Smithsonian Institution.

The long green princess-style dress will be added to a collection representing each of the nation's First Ladies. A Betty Ford-sized mannequin will wear it.
