Crop Forecast Offers Cotton High Position

Second Largest Harvest In All History Is Seen; More Than 600,000 Bales Are Added In Government Report

Conditions Good

Publication Causes Drop For Market But Losses Quickly Are Regained; Big Demand Will Be Offset

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. — The crop indicator gauging the southland's 1931 cotton production today swung violently upward again. A government forecast added 619,000 bales to the prospective harvest—the second largest in history.

With huge surplus supplies already clogging market channels, the agriculture department estimated this year's crop would total 16,903,000 bales, not far below the record 1926 harvest of 17,977,000 bales.

Losses Are Small

The increase since that October report was attributed to ideal weather enabling farmers to pick their plants clean. Field loss last month actually was less than average.

Publication of the estimate was followed by a drop of six points in quotations on the New Orleans exchange which was recovered, however, in a later rally. Dispatches told of a general opinion that a big demand for spot cotton would offset the indicated increase in the harvest.

Conditions Excellent

The November estimate is larger than the October forecast for every state except Arizona. The indicated yield is 197.8 pounds per acre. Excellent growing conditions through the season—topped now by the best harvest weather in years—are responsible for the 1931 bumper crop, although acreage was cut by 10 per cent and almost 50 per cent less fertilizer was used.

On August 8, the department's first estimate placed the final outturn at 15,584,000 bales which sent prices skidding to low levels. Good

Two Special Venires Used Up Monday And Eleven Jurors Are Selected; Judge Orders Third For Today

(Special To The Avalanche)

POST, Nov. 9.—Two special venires of 50 men were exhausted Monday and a third was ordered to report at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday in the Rodney Key murder case in 106th district court here. Eleven jurors had been selected when Judge Gordon B. McGuire adjourned court late Monday.

Key, former ranch employe, is charged in connection with the death of his brother-in-law, Roy Bennett, in December, 1930. The men were working on a ranch building fence. N. C. Outlaw of Post is defense counsel. District Attorney Thomas L. Price, assisted by County Attorney Ed G. Smith, is conducting the prosecution.

Jurors are: L. G. Thuett, F. W. Hall, L. R. Mason, L. A. Barrow, Lee Dodson, L. W. Dalby, E. J. Hicks, J. P. Howard, D. F. McGeehee, W. D. Parsons and W. R. Wardlow.

YMCA Services Slated At Texas Tech During Week

The Texas Technological college Y. M. C. A. will join a world-wide prayer week program this week, Jack Boyd, secretary of the Tech unit, said Monday.

A service will be held each afternoon this week, starting Tuesday. The programs, in charge of Carroll Thompson, jr., chairman of the worship committee, will be opened at 5 p. m. in the Y. M. C. A. office in the administration building.

County Owes 17 Days As Credit

(By The Associated Press)

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 9 — Washtenaw county owes Ed and Manuel Smith, Toledo O., brothers, 17 days apiece and they have the word of Circuit Judge George W. Sample that the credit can be applied on any future jail sentence they are called upon to serve here.

The Smith boys were arrested July 24 for taking some furnace fixtures which, they still insist, someone told them they could have. They waited in jail just 107 days for a trial on a charge of grand larceny, then were convicted of simple larceny.

The maximum sentence on that charge is only 90 days, so Judge Sample released them and credited them with the extra 17 days each. So now all the Smith boys have to do to get the laugh on Washtenaw county is to think of a seventeen day offense and commit it.

Mellonism Is Discussed By Marvin Jones

National Problems Outlined In Address By Amarilloan Delivered Before Delegates Monday Night

By HARRY MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Staff Writer

"Mellonism" and money, the tariff question, centralization in government and business, mergers and monopolies, short selling, and economy in administration were discussed by Congressman Marvin Jones of Amarillo in an address before the Texas Federation of Women's clubs at the First Methodist church last night.

Congressman Jones digressed from the subject of "Work before the Next Congress" long enough to discuss the prospects of a Democrat being elected speaker of the house, and such other political issues as the "lame duck" session, Muscle Shoals, the World Court, and World Peace.

A Rare Pleasure

"It would be a rare pleasure to address a Texas man as speaker of the house for the first time," Mr. Jones said. "Texas has been in the Union since 1845 and has never had that privilege.

"The next session of Congress promises that the house will be about equally divided. If the Democrats should organize the house,

Bigamy Charge Against Man In City May Be Dismissed

A bigamy charge against Dawson P. Parker, former Lubbock printer, may be dismissed, Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, indicated Monday night.

The case, involving the marriage of Parker to Mildred Chism of Slaton, September 7, 1928, was set for trial in 99th district court this term. Investigation after the indictment was returned last June have led local officials to believe the marriage in question was legal, Burks said. Parker is under indictment for bigamy in Gray county, the charge alleging a bigamous marriage with Evelyn Zimmerman of Pampa.

Major Oil Companies Hike Price Of Gasoline In City

Lubbock motorists Monday were paying 13 and 16 cents for standard and premium gasoline after a one-cent hike put in effect Saturday and yesterday by major oil companies here. Price of the third-grade, or blue, gasoline remained at 10 cents, including a four-cent state tax.

Continental Oil company, Texas company, Gulf and T. P. Coal & Oil company led the price increase Saturday. Companies hiking the price Monday were Cities Service, Magnolia and Phillips. Panhandle Refining company stations late Monday had not received an order to increase the price.

Truck Hearing Decision Will Receive Delay

Judge Clark M. Mullican Says Action Must Await Further Study Of Case; Arguments Presented Monday

Law Is Attacked

Assistant Attorney General Of Texas Here; Jeffreys Is Only Witness; Officers Are Named As Defendants

DECISION in the case of L. P. Jeffreys, Lubbock truck owner vs. the Railroad Commission of Texas, law enforcement officers of Lubbock and Lynn counties and other peace officers and employes of the commission to prevent them from threatening him with arrest, will be made soon by Judge Clark M. Mullican of the 99th district court, before whom arguments were made Monday by attorneys, it was announced late in the afternoon at the close of the hearing. Judge Mullican took the papers in the case and the citations of counsel on other decisions and will study the matter thoroughly before making his decision.

"It may be several days. I have a lot of other things to do" he said. "If this was the only case I had to study I could answer quickly."

Arguments Lengthy

Lengthy arguments were made by G. E. Lockhart, for the plaintiff and Elbert Hooper, assistant attorney general, for the railroad commission. But one witness was introduced, the plaintiff, who testified as to his application and its rejection by the commission.

At the morning session, following the reading of the petition by Mr. Lockhart, Mr. Hooper made his argument in opposition to the action. At the afternoon session Mr. Lockhart replied, supporting the petition.

Judge Mullican, in a brief statement when the assistant attorney general began his rebuttal argument asked the state's representative for further enlightenment along certain lines. "It seems to me that this act is compelling private carriers to become common carriers," he said. "Not by the expressed dictation of the act, but by inference. It also seems to me that it regulates private business. That is, the railroad commission is attempting to interfere with the constitutional right to make a contract, by the force of the operation of this act."

Regulations Discussed

In his argument on behalf of his client, Mr. Lockhart discussed the regulations promulgated by the Railroad Commission of Texas governing applications of persons for

Poppies Will Be Sold Here Today; To Establish Booths

Imitation poppies will be sold on the streets and in booths Tuesday by auxiliary members of the Allen Brothers post, No. 148, American Legion. Proceeds will be used to aid disabled former soldiers in a Kerrville hospital and to aid children of indigent Lubbock families.

Mrs. J. Ray Dickey will be in charge of the sales. Booths will be located at the Citizens National bank, Bowen's drug store No. 1, the Hilton hotel and Stanton's cafe. Six women will work at each booth. The poppies will be sold in exchange for any donation.

Three Cases Set For Trial In 99th Court Here Today

Cases of C. E. Alexander, charged with incest; Brewster Dillard, theft exceeding $50, and G. J. McCleskey, charged with burglary, are set for trial in 99th district court before Judge Clark M. Mullican Tuesday.

Criminal cases in the 99th court were docketed Monday by Judge Mullican. No cases were set for Armistice Day, and several cases were not docketed definitely. The November term of 72nd district court was opened Monday by Judge Homer L. Pharr, but non-jury cases will be heard this week.

Gloria Swanson And Her Irish Lover Are Rewed

All Complications Apparently Cleared In Second Ceremony Of Famous Film Actress

(By The Associated Press)

YUMA, Ariz., Nov. 9.—Gloria Swanson, much married film star, and her latest husband, Michael Farmer, wealthy young Irish sportsman, were rewed here today by Justice of the Peace Earl A. Freeman.

The couple motored to Yuma alone from Hollywood, and went through a marriage ceremony which apparently cleared away all legal complications arising from a previous wedding, solemnized before the actress' divorce from her third husband became final.

The divorce in question, from Marquis De La Falaise De La Coudray, was made final today in superior court at Los Angeles. Simultaneously a license was filed in Elmsford, N. Y., showing Miss Swanson wed Farmer there last August 16.

Immediately after today's ceremony the couple left Yuma. They said they would return to Hollywood.

The bride gave her age as 31 in applying for the license, and Farmer his as 29. Farmer entered his place of birth in the license as Cork, Ireland, and his occupation as broker. Miss Swanson said she was born in Chicago.

Although technically Miss Swanson laid herself open to

Mysterious Disappearance Of Wealthy Kansas City Air Line Head Is Baffling To Officers

Empty Wallet Is Returned To Home; Ceremonies At Field Postponed By Absence Since Early Saturday

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 9. — The Kansas City Star says today that Thad G. Landon, 25, son of former Judge Thad B. Landon, was "taken mysteriously" from downtown Kansas City, early Saturday morning.

The newspaper says the young man's empty wallet, with an identification card—"and presumably a message" — was returned to his home today by special delivery mail, although a quiet, thorough search had failed to yield a clue to his whereabouts.

Declines Statement

Judge Landon at his office today would not discuss return of the wallet, and declined to say if its return had been accompanied by a message.

Landon announced Saturday that the first plane of the recently organized Landon air lines would fly from Kansas to St. Louis today. The line did not begin operations.

The missing man told his wife and three-year-old son goodby early Saturday, mentioned a theater engagement in the evening, and drove to the home of his parents for breakfast to visit with a brother. Landon was wealthy, having recently inherited money.

Carried Little Money

Hurried investigation indicated the missing air line head was not carrying any large sum of money.

His disappearance became known this morning through inquiry that developed at the airport because of his failure to appear for the opening of his new line.

Landon's father is a former United States district attorney and a former circuit court judge.

Club Youth Has Growing Record

(By The Associated Press)

EL PASO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Sam B. Gillett, jr., Canutillo, has been declared the best boy cotton grower in Texas.

Participating in 4-H club contests, held in 19 counties, young Gillett produced 2.95 bales of cotton per acre on seven acres.

His expenses will be paid to the national 4-H club conference at Chicago, Nov. 27-Dec. 5. Gillett is interested not only in cotton production, but also in feeding beeves. He is feeding five calves for a stock show next year.

Lubbock Given Seed Sessions

Certificate Applications Are Heard By Members Of State Seed And Plant Board Here During Monday

Lubbock was voted the regular meeting place of the Texas certified Grain Sorghum Growers association at a session here Monday, while applications for state certificates on grain sorghums were heard by members of the State Seed and Plant board.

Board members attending were Dr. E. P. Humbert, head of the department of genetics at Texas A. & M., chairman, and R. V. Miller, secretary, of Austin. Don L. Jones, manager of the state experiment station here, was named as a representative of the board in Monday's hearing.

Sale Is Discussed

The afternoon session was spent in the discussion of the sale of seed next spring, the recent marketing agreement, marketing contracts, incorporation, changes in the association's constitution, reports of exhibits at Dallas, Lubbock and other cities, club work and other activities and problems of the association.

Next session of the growers' association will be held here in January. Reports on the applications made to the state board members will be given at a later date.

Fire Partially Destroys Frame Residence Monday

Fire, origin of which had not been determined late Monday, partially destroyed a three-room frame residence between Aveness G and H on Sixteenth street early last evening.

Fire Chief W. E. Twitty estimated the damage at 50 per cent. The residence is owned by George L. Beatty. No one was at home when the fire, starting in a back room, was reported. A family by the name of Cook moved into the house Monday, it was learned from the Beatty residence.

Heroism Of San Angelo Man Costs Him His Life Monday

LONGVIEW, Nov. 9. (AP)—Leslie O. Kincaid's heroism had cost him his life tonight.

The 28-year-old San Angelo man, father of three children, was burned in a boiler explosion last Thursday as he saved the life of W. C. Winn, a friend. Kincaid died in a Longview hospital tonight.

BURNS ARE FATAL

MONAHANS, Nov. 9. (AP)—Horace King, 16, was dead today of burns received as he slept in a tent Saturday night. His body was taken to Paris, Texas, for burial.

Child Dies Here Tuesday Morning

Martha June Dilton, 14-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Dilton of Enoch, died at a local sanitarium at 12:45 a. m. Tuesday. Death resulted from pneumonia contracted after a cotton seed had been removed last Friday from her left lung.

The Rix Funeral Home will be in charge of funeral arrangements, which this morning had not been announced.

The child was brought to the sanitarium Friday, with a cotton seed lodged into the tube leading to her left lung. The seed was removed with a bronthoscope and her condition then was regarded as favorable. Pneumonia, however, developed in the left lung. The seed became lodged in her lung last Thursday and until it was removed cut off all air from the lung.

Fiery Days Ahead Are Seen By Gandhi; To Begin Fight

LONDON, Nov., 9. (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi decided today the round table conference on Indian affairs is bound to fail, and announced he would sail for home Nov. 29, ready to begin again his fight against British rule.

"I'm afraid there are fiery days ahead," he asserted, "but no people ever won its liberty without suffering. Before I leave I shall go to the last extremity to avert the disaster which looms ahead."

OPERA STAR HURT

Manifesto Of War Declared In Manchuria

Militarist Calls Upon China To Fight "To The Last Man" As Renewed Rioting Breaks Through Tientsin

American Newspaper Declares Press Dispatches Are Being Altered; Bank Funds Taken Dispatches State

(By The Associated Press)

MAH CHAN-SHAN, North Manchurian militarist, has issued a manifesto declaring war upon Japan and called upon China to fight "to the last man." The government at Nanking is silent, but apparently not involved.

Renewed rioting in Tientsin yesterday resulted in a Japanese order that Chinese police seeking to keep order withdraw 300 yards from the Japanese concession. Chinese dispatches said the Japanese bombarded the native city because of failure of the police to obey the order. Japanese said the order was issued because two Japanese soldiers had been killed by stray bullets.

FORCE IS ASKED

LONDON, Nov. 10 (Tuesday) (AP)—China has requested the League of Nations to send an international force of 4,000 men to police South Manchurian railway pending settlement of its dispute with Japan, the London Express says today.

Secretly Organizing

Nanking officials said Japanese were secretly organizing "disturbances" in North China cities, including Tientsin, as a means of proving to the League of Nations the inability of the Nanking government to keep order. Japanese reports said the Tientsin trouble was started by a group opposing Chang Hsueh-Liang, Nanking vice generalissimo and ousted governor of Manchuria. Another report said Chang Tsung-Chang, whom Chang Hsuch-Liang had fefriended, had been arrested for plotting against the vice-generalissimo.

Local Turkey Pool Is Sold

Approximately 1,500 Turkeys Are Involved In Sale Here; One-Half Of Crop Is To Be Held For Christmas

Sale of the Lubbock county turkey pool to the Titman Egg corporatoin was announced Monday. Between 1,400 and 1,600 birds, which will be placed on the Thanksgiving market, are involved.

Price of the sale was two cents above the Monday market for No. 1's and No. 2's, and one and a quarter cents above the market on old toms. The Titman bid, high of three offers, was: No. 1, at 12 cents; old toms, 10 1-4 cents; and No. 2 at 8 cents.

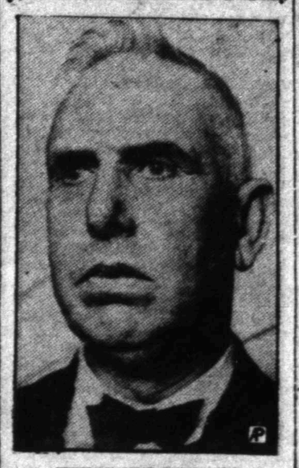

One-Half Held

The pool controls approximately 3,000 turkeys, but about one-half of the birds will be kept for the Christmas market, D. F. Eaton, county agent, said Monday night. No estimates were available yesterday of the total sum involved, as the turkeys had not been classed and weighed.

The birds purchased will begin moving Tuesday and it is thought the entire lot will be sold by Thursday.

Between 100 and 125 turkey raisers in the county are interested in the pool, Eaton said. George C. Cooper, who resides three miles north of Lubock, is chairman of the sales committee. The county's farmers first pooled their turkeys in 1929.

Sworn Charges Of Misconduct Facing Author

Theodore Dreiser Is Alleged To Have Lived Openly With Young Woman In Kentucky As Probe Was Held

(By The Associated Press)

PINEVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—Circuit Judge D. C. Jones today directed the Bell county grand jury in open court to investigate sworn charges that Theodore Dreiser and a young woman were guilty of misconduct while the writer was here with a committee of inquiry in the eastern Kentucky coal fields.

Judge Jones in his charge to the grand jury, meeting in regular session, said witnesses swore to a warrant that Dreiser and a young woman lived together openly while here. The warrant was not served.

"If these facts are true," the judge said, "I suggest that the grand jury indict them."

Speeches Are Cited

Judge Jones did not mention the name of the woman to whom he referred.

Judge Jones also said he was told a number of speeches on radicalism were made while the Dreiser committee was in the coal fields. He urged the jurors to make an investigation to see if the state criminal syndicalism statute was violated and to return indictments if they were justified.

Directing his attention again to the committee, he said they were "not entitled to the protection of

Man, 30, Is Charged After An Alleged Attack On Girl

ALVIN, Nov. 9 (AP)—A thirty-year old man was being held in jail in Angleton on a charge of assault this afternoon in connection with the attack on a 10-year old girl here about noon.

Justice of the Peace G. W. Sheffield of Alvin, before whom the charge was filed, said the man would be held without bond until he is given preliminary hearing before him at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Officers said the man denied the charge.

"Fighting Thad" Caraway Is Buried With High Tributes

JONESBORO, Ark. Nov. 9 (AP)—Thaddeus H. Caraway, the farm boy who grew up to become a United States senator famous for the vigor with which he advocated or opposed national legislation, was buried here today with the highest honors the city of his residence and the state at large could bestow.

Nearly everyone prominent in the public life of Arkansas was among the throng that came to pay him final tribute. Funeral services at the church were conducted by the Rev. J. A. Anderson, presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in the Jonesboro district. The senator's widow and their three sons, Paul, Forrest, and Robert, sat near the casket.

ALTHOUGH pre-convention meetings held the interest of many state club women here Monday, the formal opening of the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs will not be until this morning at 8:30 o'clock at First Methodist church. Early trains today are expected to swell the attendance of women that ran well over 200 late Monday.

A meeting of the board of directors, a luncheon, a tea and an evening program during which Lubbock extended greetings to the visitors were Monday events. All state officers with one exception, Mrs. E. E. Maloney of Commerce, corresponding secretary, were in attendance.

Business of the convention was outlined in the meeting of the board of directors at the Hilton hotel Mrs. R. F. Lindsay, Mt. Pleasant, state president, presided. Recommendations made at this time to be presented the convention between now and Thursday afternoon were in keeping with the policies of this administration—to encourage fine arts, to beautify Texas highways and to promote education.

The outstanding recommendation in the eyes of the directorate was one coming from the president, Mrs. Lindsay, and designed to encourage Texas artists, writers and musicians. She recommended the financial endowment of the fine arts department of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs to privede ways and means to stimulate such talent and suggested an alternating biennial award of an attractive money prize to be given a Texas artist, musician or writer for an original production.

Lubbock Youth Is Winner Of Honor

Arvie Elliott, 17, Four-H club boy who resides six miles north of Lubbock, is one of 19 Texas youths to be honored with a free trip to the boys and girls Four-H Club Congress November 27 to December 5 in Chicago. The Santa Fe lines will be hosts to the Texans.

Elliott, according to County Agent D. F. Eaton, was awarded the trip because of his unusual hegira demonstration this year. Announcement of the award came from M. T. Payne of College Station, state boys' club agent. All expenses will be paid and each boy will receive a new hat from the railroad company. Elliott, who resides on the J. B. McCauley farm, also had an unusual cotton demonstration this year, Eaton said.

Rumanian Prince Elopes With Beauty To Escape King Carol's Disapproval

(By The Associated Press)

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 9 Elopement of Prince Nicholas of Rumania and Mme. Jana Lucia Delet), a beauty not of noble birth, and their marriage after a wild dash by automobile to escape the disapproval of the prince's brother, King Carol, was reported here today.

The mayor of the village of Tohan, near Buzeu, was compelled by the prince to perform the ceremony yesterday, the reports said.

As soon as the king learned of the marriage, it was added, he ordered all records of the ceremony destroyed and the Bucharest government issued a denial that any marriage had taken place.

Prince Nicholas, second son of the Dowager Queen Marie and by reputation one of the fastest motorists in Rumania, burned highways and country lanes at breakneck speed for 125 miles to reach the village before he could be frustrated by the king, said the reports which came from border sources.

Inventor Of Deadly Weapon Used By Allies During War Called By Death

(By The Associated Press)

HOBOKEN, N. J., Nov. 9. Col. Isaac N. Lewis, Montclair, N. J., inventor and scientist, whose Lewis machine gun was an outstanding weapon in the world war, died of a heart attack late today in a drug store adjoining the Lackawanna railroad terminal. He was 73 years old.

The British government was quick to utilize Col. Lewis' machine gun, but he experienced years of difficulty in obtaining recognition for it by the United States war department.

During the world war more than 100,000 Lewis machine guns were used by the allied armies.

At one time Col Lewis made a dramatic appeal to the senate military affairs committee and wept as he described his rebuffs by the war department. Colonel Lewis was so distressed by the attitude of his own countrymen that he contemplated for a while remaining away from the land of his birth.

Officers Of Federated Clubs Of Texas Are In Receiving Line With Other Guests Of Honor

Large attendance marked the tea given in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Paul W. Horn on the campus of Texas Technological college Monday afternoon by women of Lubbock's Federated clubs as a courtesy to officers and delegates of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs which is in session here. Approximately 400 guests called between four and six o'clock.

Mrs. John C. Granbery greeted callers and presented them to Mrs. Horn. Those in the line were Doctor Horn, officers in the Texas Federation of Women's clubs headed by Mrs. R. F. Lindsay, president; Mrs. J. L. Young, first vice-president; Mrs. John Perry, second vice-president; Miss Marion Mullins, treasurer; Mrs. W. B. Price, recording secretary; Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, appointed member of the executive board and Mrs. E. E. Maloney, corresponding secretary.

Presidents In Line

Life members of the board, several national officers, the seven presidents of federated districts, presidents of local federated clubs and several visitors were also in the line. The district presidents are Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, Wichita Falls, first; Mrs. P. R. Pettengell, Cleburne, second; Mrs. Sam Cox, Mexia, third; Mrs. J. W. Fincher, Houston, fourth; Mrs. Volney Taylor, Brownsville, fifth; Mrs. Greenleaf Fisk, Abilene, sixth; Mrs. J. T. Whitmore, Snyder, seventh. Local women in the line were Mesdames A. T. Biggers, O. R. Copeland, H. F. Godeke E. L. Banks, George A. Field, J. H. Goodman, S. B. Haynes, J. D. Peters and Fred W. Sparks.

Guests were directed to the dining room where tapers of lupine blue, the federation color, lighted the table. Yellow roses were used as a centerpiece. Small lighted tapers were given as favors.

Mesdames William Dingus, C. E. Maedgen, W. O. Stevens, Mary W. Doak, W. H. Bledsoe, Horn, Price and Miss Margaret Weeks alternated in pouring coffee. Assisting in the dining room were Mesdames Hub Jones, L. J. Von Tungeln, Fred W. Sparks, D. D. Cross, V. L. Doughtie, G. N. Atkinson, H. F. Godeke, O. B. Hewett, D. K. Vernon Hunter Of Panhandle District Wins Praise For Paintings; Landscapes Are His Favorites

By CRETA HERNDON
Special Correspondent

CLOVIS, N. M., Nov. 7. — Unknown to many persons in the Panhandle the beauty of their landscape is being shown in distant art centers through the paintings of Vernon Hunter, who is now particularly featuring the north Texas scene. Having lived most of his life in this region, he has looked long upon the country and knows well its essential aspects, as the results in his paintings show. Dr. Freund in his art column, "When in New York," which is syndicated in the newspapers of several eastern cities, called him, "A true son of that severe region in which he has spent most of his life."

One of his landscapes painted in the Lubbock vicinity is in the exhibition being held by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, during the convention in Lubbock, November 9 to 12, and the people who

Northwest Texas Methodists Convene In Annual Conference This Week

Reports For Year Will Be Given Session

Various Conference Boards To Give Review Of Past Year's Activities; Appointments Of Preachers Sunday

VERNON, Nov. 9. (Special) — For the second time in its 22 years of Methodist history, the Northwest Texas conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will meet in Vernon, with Bishop H. A. Boaz, Houston, presiding, convening Thursday, November 12.

In addition to Bishop Boaz, president, officers of the conference include: the Rev. C. C. Wright, Snyder, secretary; John W. Price, Petersburg, statistical secretary; John E. Eldredge, Tulia, treasurer; and the conference lay leader, Hugh S. Black, Childress.

To Make Reports

Presidents of the various conference boards who will make reports during conference week are the Revs. D. B. Doak, Plainview, board of missions; W. M. Pierce, Vernon, board of Christian Education; J. C. Mann, Knox City, board of Christian literature; Ben Hardy, Roscoe, board of church extension; W. P. Carvin, Amarillo, commission on budget; M. S. Leveridge, Baird, board of finance; Bishop Boaz, Houston, commission on benevolence; L. B. Smallwood, Amherst, board of temperance and social service; A. O. Hood, Margaret, Bible board; W. H. Terry, Panhandle, hospital board; E. L. Sisk, Tell, orphanage board; and H. L. Black, president board of lay activities.

The Rev. W. M. Pearce, pastor of the Vernon Methodist Church, and the Rev. R. A. Stewart, presiding elder of the Vernon district, are official hosts to the conference.

Bishop to Hold Conference

Prior to the opening Thursday of the conference, Bishop Boaz will confer with members of his cabinet, composed of presiding elders of the nine districts, as follows: the Revs. E. E. White, Abilene; L. N. Lipscomb, Amarillo; W. M. Murrell, Clarendon; C. A. Bickley, Lubbock; Ed R. Wallace, Perryton; M. M. Beavers, Plainview; G. S. Slover, Stamford; O. P. Clark, Sweetwater; and R. A. Stewart, Vernon.

Of this number three are slated for a new appointment, since they have reached the four-year limit prescribed for presiding elders by Methodist law.

Special program hours, at which representatives of general board headquarters in Nashville, Tenn., Atlanta, Ga., Louisville, Ky., St. Louis, Mo., and Washington, D. C., will appear, will be observed during the conference session. Several of the conference boards are affiliated with the general boards which represents denomination-wide interests.

Officials Have Part

General secretaries of these boards who will appear in person or by proxy, are Dr. W. G. Cram, Nashville, board of missions; Dr. W. F. Quillian, Nashville, board of Christian Education; G. L. Morelock, Nashville, board of lay activities; Dr. T. D. Ellis, Louisville, board of church extension; Dr. L. E. Todd, St. Louis, board of finance; Dr. E. L. Crawford, Washington, D. C., board of temperance and social service; and Dr. C. C. Jarrall, Atlanta, hospital board.

Outside of purely conference matters, a question of major importance at the approaching session will be to take a vote upon a proposed Judicial Council. This is a constitutional measure enacted by the last general conference, which must be ratified by the annual conference before it becomes a law of the church. Its purpose is to create a body to settle controversial questions and matters which now come under the judicial function of the College of Bishops, and the Committee of Appeals. Practically every conference that has voted on the question has decided in the affirmative.

Appointments Sunday

Reading of appointments of preachers to their charges for the ensuing year will be the feature of the closing day of the conference. Attention will center upon those who have served the same charge for four years or longer, for while the old Methodist "four-year" law is no longer absolute as far as preachers are concerned, Methodist tradition still keeps her preachers on the move.

Those who are in the lime-light by reason of four years, or longer pastorates are: the Revs. J. Richard Spann, St. Paul's, Abilene; G. C. Williams, Dressey Circuit; T. W. Braham, Pampa, (5 years); T. M. Johnston, Crosbyton; G. P. McCollum, Asbury Church, Lubbock; F. E. Yarbrough, Stratford; H. C. Smith, Happy; W. B. Hicks, Muleshoe; W. G. Bailey, Big Spring; J. T. Griswold, First Church, Childress.

The Northwest Texas conference has a membership of nearly 65,000, who last year contributed more than a million dollars for all causes.

Man Now Is Free Following Arrest

R. C. McCafferel of Lubbock was at liberty Monday afternoon on $500 bond, set by Justice H. K. Porter Monday after McCafferel waived examining trial on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor.

The charge was filed yesterday. He was arrested late Saturday on Avenue E, when officers confiscated two gallons of whisky.

J. T. Serage of Lubbock paid a fine of $10 and costs of $12.15 in justice court Monday after he had been convicted of hunting and trespassing on land. A similar charge was dismissed against John Smith, also of Lubbock, because of illness of his wife. The complaints were made by Hugh Small, a game warden, who also recommended leniency in Smith's case.

Gabino Florez paid a fine of $1 and costs of $13.15 in Justice court Sunday after conviction on a charge of stealing a hat.

TWO ARRESTED

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 9. (AP)—Two men were arrested today on burglary charges in connection with the robbery of 4,000 rounds of ammunition from a store here. They gave their names as C. Moore and George Ellis.

By LOIS JACQUES, TECH CORRESPONDENT

TO ENTERTAIN BOYS

The spirit of childhood will prevail at the party to be given by the girls of the Home Economics club Saturday night in honor of the Aggie students and faculty members. Janie Ruth Shephard is president of the girls' club.

Each person is requested to come dressed as he did in his childhood, and entertainment will be in keeping with the costumes. The party will be held in the college gymnasium.

TEACHES IN MEADOW

Dr. Raymond Sidwell is teaching an extension course in human geography at Meadow each Monday evening. The class is composed of teachers in Meadow and nearby schools.

HASTINGS HERE

Olin Hastings, Roscoe, visited friends here during the past week end. He was a junior in Tech last year.

HAVE SMOKER

Students in the geology department who will be eligible for membership in Sigma Gamma Epsilon this year were honor guests at smoker given at the Hotel Hilton Sunday evening. Eleven members were present. Morgan Gist is president of the society.

The guests were: Homer Roberts, Jack Flowers, John Locke, Ralph Cantrell, Shelby Reed, A. B. Brown, Joe Lang, and Oran Sanders.

ELLSWORTH TO SPEAK

Dr. J. O. Ellsworth will speak to the freshman Y. M. C. A. council tonight on 'Developing a Religious Philosophy of Life."

Fred Williams is president of the council; Lawrence Kahn is chairman of the program committee. In addition to the address there will be a musical program in charge of Jennings Lewis. All freshmen boys are invited to attend the meeting at 7:30 in room 310.

MOULTON IS PIANIST

N. D. Moulton of the language department is pianist for the choral club this year, which practices regularly at 7:30 each Wednesday evening.

Rehearsals are now being held on two cantatas, Cowen's "Rose Maiden" and Mendelsshon's "Hymn of Praise."

DISCUSS CO-EDUCATION

A humorous debate is to be the feature of the debate club meeting tonight at 7:30 in room 202. Debaters will be Manuel DeBusk and George Mae Smith for the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, that co-education Is a Failure." Riley Millard and Eleanor Simmons will defend the negative.

The question for the year's intercollegiate debate will be announced at the meeting tonight.

GIVE LECTURES

"Food for Health" is the subject of a series of illustrated lectures being given by Miss Margaret Weeks of the home economics school to orientation classes of the liberal arts school.

ALUMNUS HERE

Robert Burdette, graduate of the agronomy department of Tech's agriculture school, was here for the pig roast Saturday evening. He is vocational agriculture teacher in Fort Sumner, New Mexico.

HEARD TEACHES COURSE

Textiles, including cleaning, dyeing and blanket weaving, is a new extension course which will meet for the first time Friday evening at 7:30 in room 102 of the Textile building. Prof. M. E. Heard will teach the class.

The course will give a brief survey of textile fibers in use today and their physical and chemical properties. The department has constructed a loom similar to those used by the Navajo Indian in weaving their blankets, which will be used for instruction in blanket weaving. Assistance will be offered students in constructing similar looms for their own use.

FRIONA TEACHERS HERE

George Heath, superintendent of the Friona schools, and Harold K. Smith, who also teaches there, visited on the campus Saturday and Sunday. Both are former Tech students.

STUDENTS LEAVE FRIDAY

Four members of the crop judging team, accompanied by Prof. H. J. Bower of the agronomy department, leave Friday morning for Kansas City to enter a national contest. This is the second year Tech has sent representatives.

The boys will first visit Kansas State Agricultural college, which is said to have the best equipped laboratory in the United States. Dean A. H. Leidigh of Tech helped to establish it 19 years ago. There the team will be coached by three men of that college, one of them Prof. Bower's brother. They will also visit the Kansas City Grain exchange and the Board of Trade.

"The value of this trip, "Mr. Bower explained, "is not only the training the team receives, but also the message they bring back to other students."

Those who will make the trip are: Carlton Carmicheal, Hugo Mika, Marshall Howard, and Haskell Beard. They will return Thursday, November 20.

SEED MEN MEET

Farmers from this section seeking re-approval of their seed for state certification for 1932 met members of the State Plant and Seed board at Tech Monday.

Dr. E. P. Humbert and R. V. Miller presided and were assisted by Don L. Jones of the local station.

About 30 farmers attended the meeting, among them H. L. Hershey, a Tech graduate of '30, who lives at Hereford and is an outstanding grower of certified seed. He was accompanied by his wife and their baby son, Sammy Ray.

LAWYER IS DEAD

BROWNSVILLE, Nov. 9. (AP) — Judge F. W. Kibbe, a member of the first law class graduated from the University of Texas, died last night after a prolonged illness. He was recognized as one of the best irrigation lawyers in the state.

San Antonio Woman May Be Candidate For Congress; Withholds Statement

MRS. ALEXANDER ADAMS of San Antonio, attending the annual convention of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs here, Monday expressed a willingness to be a candidate to succeed the late Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach. Mrs. Adams, however, will make no formal statement until the conclusion of the convention.

"I am in the hands of my friends," Mrs. Adams said. "At their behest, I may be a Democratic candidate in the district. However, I shall make no formal statement until after this convention closes. After 20 years of club work I continue to believe that club work and politics should not be mixed."

"I am a club woman and not a politician," Mrs. Adams asserted.

Wurzbach, who represented the fourteenth district, died Friday. He had been Texas' only Republican congressman. Governor Ross Sterling has called no special election for the district, which, it is generally conceded, will name a Democrat, further strengthening the Democratic control of the house.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

The DEAD MONTHS that follow FIRE

FIRES in stores, factories and other commercial buildings are followed by dead months. Trade stops—customers go elsewhere for goods—expenses pile up while the building is being replaced or repaired. It is sound business to insure a continuance of your normal profit—and dividends—during the non-earning period following a fire.

The insurance that gives this guarantee is called Business Interruption (Use and Occupancy) insurance. Ask your Stock Fire Insurance agent to explain it.

Aggie Cadets Follow Squad To Rice Game

Owl-Farmer Game At Houston To Be Attended By Entire Student Body; Both Teams Out Of Conference Running

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 9—The main streets of Houston will resound to a martial tread on the morning of Saturday, Nov. 14, for the Texas A. and M. College cadet corps on that day is scheduled to follow its team for the Aggie-Rice Owl football game on Rice Field. For the first time since 1925 the Aggies this year will make the game with Rice in Houston the occasion of a corps trip.

Two or three special trains will be required to transport the Aggie cadets from College Station to Houston. The cadet corps, led by its 100 piece military band, will parade in the morning on arrival.

The history of Aggie-Rice football relatons dates back to 1914 when the Cadets bested the Owls 32 to 7. In all, fifteen games have been played, the Aggies having won ten and the Owls four. One game ended in a deadlock with the score 7 and 7. The Aggies have scored a total of 195 points in these contests and the Owls a total of 67. Rice was blanked in seven of the encounters and the Aggies went scoreless in three.

Although the Aggies won the first game, they lost the next two games, failing to score in either. In 1917 the score was 100 to 0 in the Aggies' favor. Probably the hottest battles ever fought between the Owls and the Aggies took place in 1921 and 1923. The 1921 game ended in a 7-7 tie and the 1923 encounter was decided in the Owl's favor by the margin of one point. In this latter game Rice scored early in the first half and was successful in the try for extra point. The Aggies came back to score a touchdown but missed the try for point. In the closing minutes of play the Cadets attempted a field goal which was blocked and recovered by a Rice player who almost got loose for another touchdown.

In 1930 the Owls won 7 to 0 on Kyle Field, the first time they had turned the trick on the Aggies' home field. It also was the first game they had won from the Cadets since the 1923 meeting.

Ramblers' New Coach Pleases And Surprises

Notre Dame Touchdown Machine Continues To Click; Strong Reserve Material Is "Great Help To "Hunk"

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 9.—Heartly "Hunk" Anderson, who inherited Knute Rockne's big coaching shoes, has amazed not only the football world but Notre Dame.

His Notre Dame Raiders, clicking off yards at the rate of better than one fifth of a mile a game in their rush to new fame and still another undefeated record, have convinced even the most dubious that a new master of the gridiron has arrived and that it won't be necessary after all to haul out the emotional "carry on for Rockne" banners to get along.

The Notre Dame touchdown manufacturing system is the same today as in the Rockne era but the makeup of the coaches is strikingly different. Unlike the old master of the Ramblers, Coach Anderson is quiet on and off the field. He seldom speaks but when he does, the touchdown makers go through their tricks. They swear by him with as much emphasis as they did their past master and the results have been astonishing.

Coach Anderson's ability to teach the fundamentals and tricks of smart football to new men has been the secret of his far reaching success. Probably never before in Notre Dame football history have there been more capable reserves than those of the present squad, one of the most ruthless machines to grind its way over the gridiron.

Average 365 Yards Per Game

In their sweep, halted only by a scoreless tie in the mud of Soldier field by Northwestern, Notre Dame has averaged the surprising record of 365 yards or better than one fifth of a mile from the line of scrimmage. Five teams boasted undefeated records when they tackled Notre Dame and all but Northwestern left the field of battle hopelessly beaten.

Of the large number of capable reserves, 43 members of the big Notre Dame football army have seen action so far this year Substitutions have been so frequent that 57 have been used in one game.

Harper Is Pleased

Jess Harper, who was recruited to take the big job as director of athletics at Notre Dame after Rockne's tragic passing, rates Coach Anderson as one of the really great mentors of the game.

"They'll find out, if they don't know it now, that Anderson is a wizard," commented Harper. "He has amazed us here and is destined to become recognized as one of the greatest teachers of them all."

Cowboy Kyle Abandons U. Of Arkansas Razorbacks To Stay

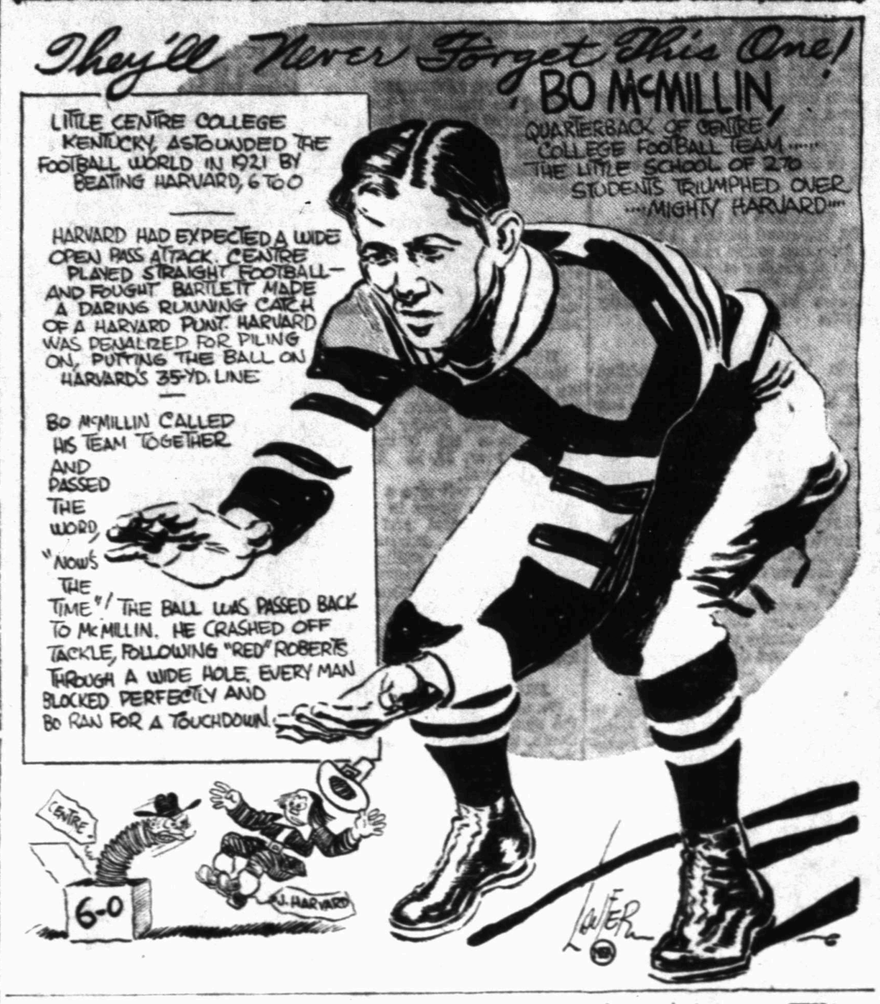

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 9. (AP)—The University of Arkansas football team will go through the rest of this season without the services of Winton "Cowboy" Kyle, blond fullback. Kyle failed to return from Chicago after the Arkansas and University of Chicago game Saturday.

Kyle starred for three years at Arkansas and was in line for an all-Southwest Conference position this season. He is said to be angling for a professional football job at Chicago. Trouble with grades was the cause given for Kyle's decision to remain in Chicago.

Maj. O. W. Severance, assistant adjutant general of Alabama, will officiate at 12 football games this season.

Cutback Play Is Effective Weapon Against Foes Who Leave Positions Too Quickly

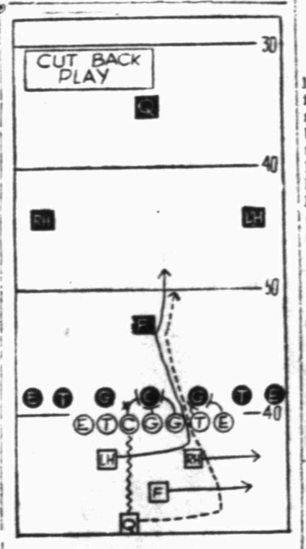

A thousand things may happen to spoil an off-tackle play. But if it's a burly defensive guard who breaks through and stops it cold, and the offensive quarterback is a smart signal-caller, look out for the next play. It may be a cutback that will go 10, 15 or 20 yards, or even farther if the ball-carrier is fast enough to avoid being tackled from behind.

The cutback is a play that starts wide and suddenly swings back toward the center of the defending line. For a moment it may look exactly like an end run or an off-tackle slant—and that's what it is supposed to look like.

As an example, suppose the quarterback runs an off-tackle play to the right. As the ball-carrier nears the line of scrimmage, the defending team's left guard, who is playing wide of his center, slices between the offensive right tackle and right end and smears the play for a two-yard loss.

The stage is now set for a cutback play through that ambitious fellow's territory. The play starts the same as the one that was stopped. Suddenly the direction of the maneuver changes, the linesmen block this way and that, and the ball-carrier is off on a gallop through that same defensive guard who looked so good on the previous play.

That is the cutback play diagrammed here. It is one of Howard Jones' pet plays, one the wily Trojan mentor has successfully employed against Notre Dame, Stanford, California, Pitt and Carnegie Tech.

TOMORROW: Direct and Indirect Pass.

Forty Thousand Jap Fans In Wild Cheering As "Lefty" Grove Is Touched For Two Hits By University Team

TOKYO, Nov. 9. (AP)—Although it lost the game to a team of American major and minor league barnstormers, the Meiji University baseball team set 40,000 Japanese fans to cheering wildly today by hitting Lefty Grove, Philadelphia Athletics' hurler, for two singles and George Kelly, minor league player, for a double. The Americans won the game 4-0.

Grove fanned eleven Japanese players, retiring in favor of Kelly at the end of the seventh inning.

Tech Gridders Due To Reach El Paso Today

No Ceremony Marks Departure Of Matadors Yesterday; Work Out At Roswell And Continue Journey Today

With little ceremony to dedicate the occasion and with only a handful of freshmen footballers on hand to see them off, Coaches Pete Cawthon and Dutchey Smith and 27 ambitious Texas Tech Matadors climbed abroad their big yellow bus at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and headed toward that part of Texas which sees the sun longest. They play the Texas School of Mines at El Paso Wednesday.

The Matadors were to work out in Roswell yesterday afternoon and indulge in a skull practice last night. Due to the short lapse of time since their last game it was impossible for the Tech gridsters to make any particular preparation for their next game. Following 26 to 6 victory over the Abilene Christian college Wildcats here Friday night they were given only limbering up exercises Saturday in the first, last and only practice for the Mines game.

Reach El Paso Today

A short workout this afternoon in El Paso will be confined to signal running, punting and perhaps a bit of passing. It will constitute and complete the training prior to the tilt with Mack Saxon's warriors.

While the Matadors are not given an edge over the Miners and are not considered to have a superior team at full.

so far as making touchdowns tomorrow is concerned, it is entirely possibly that the Techsters will couple the memories of a 31 to 0 reversal suffered at the hands of the Ore-diggers last year with the hopes of winning their sixth game of the season, the sum total being a burning desire to whip the enemy. Fans at the game are certain to be afforded the pleasure of seeing a good college game of football.

With the exception of a more or less severe cut above the eye of Milton Moffett, regular quarterback, the Matadors are not bothered with any major injuries, but when they played the Christians from Abilene Friday they had not yet recovered from the ill effects of the Baylor game, and the Wildcats did their part of fighting and scratching to help the cause of physical improvement not a bit. Several "charley horses," a sore foot or two, numerous scratches and bruises do not leave the Matadors in the best of condition for the El Paso battle.

Again Coach Cawthon hinted of starting his "regulars" in the Mines game. He hinted the same thing a day or two prior to the A. C. C. game and the kick-off found the second stringers or "shock troops" in the lineup. Needless to say, they did not remain in the game long, a majority of them suffering from minor injuries. Coach Cawthon has started the "shockers" in every preceding game and there is no reason to think he will divert from this habit tomorrow, holding the regulars ready to go in at the first sign of weakness.

The probable starting lineup given by the Tech mentor just before the troop departed yesterday insists that Yancy Price and Matt Hitchcock will start at ends, George Langford and Bennie McWilliams at tackles, Ross Ayers and Captain Jack Durham at guard, Lester Tribble at center, Speed Moffett at quarter, Shorty France and Slick Close at halves and Harold Crites at full.

Fadeout Of Debts Seen

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

Lincoln Memorial

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. — Virtually all accounts agree that American and French bankers are congratulating themselves on the result of the recent conference between President Hoover and the premier of France, Pierre Laval.

Concerning many of the policies which Mr. Hoover and M. Laval discussed neither one was able to give any binding assurances to the other pending the approval of congress in the former's case and of the French parliament in the latter's. Each appears, however, to have been authorized to speak with authority for his own country's banking interests, and the testimony is overwhelming that, as to the establishment of an "entente" satisfactory to both these groups, their efforts were entirely successful.

In brief, the United States holds approximately half of the world's entire supply of gold. France holds approximately half of the remaining half. The residue is so homeopathically scattered among other countries that of late they have been finding their respective stores of it inadequate to serve as a basis for their various currencies and several of them definitely have abandoned it in favor of silver.

IF THIS TENDENCY continues, obviously a considerable part of its present value will be knocked from under the vast gold hoards of the United States and France, which of course will not be worth so much if the world ceases to regard gold alone as the price index of everything else bought, sold or exchanged in the course of international transactions.

However much they may differ on other questions, clearly it is to their mutual advantage to co-operate for preservation of the gold standard.

Through Mr. Hoover and M. Laval they undertook to do it.

One of the first results of their compact was a discontinuance of French gold withdrawals from the United States, which had been going on previously for some time at too rapid a rate to be pleasant on this side of the Atlantic.

It may seem as if, with approximately twice as large a supply of the precious metal as the Gallic republic, American financiers need not have been disturbed by a "run" on their resources. Nevertheless, the trend of international exchange made it possible and, had it continued indefinitely, there was danger that the dollar would slump in the world money market, as the pound did a few weeks ago, forcing England at least temporarily to resort to what virtually is a fiat money basis.

FOR THE same reason that the United States and France do not care to be left as the world's two lone gold standard countries (gold being an asset largely for the sole reason that it generally is so recognized), France decidedly did not desire to risk driving America to any such extremity as England's.

The drain probably would not have continued to that extent, but American bankers did not like the threat of it. French bankers saw the point, and stopped insisting on the rules of the financial game, thus ending it.

That is to say, that evidently was part of the bargain between Premier Laval and President Hoover.

That there was such a bargain is demonstrated by the fact that the Gallic bankers complied with it.

ALL THIS was very friendly and clubby on the part of the bankers.

As interpreted by many members of congress, however, it brings the cancellation of Europe's war debts to the United States just that much nearer.

Senator William H. King of Utah, who is prominent among these law-makers, explains the first step in the process thus:

"Inasmuch as the world price of gold is rising steadily—since the supply of it is not increasing nearly in proportion to world requirements for it, to meet the expanding needs of business—it is an ideal money from the standpoint of any creditor. In other words, whatever loan he may make in terms of gold, requires constantly more and more to repay it, stated in terms of labor or commodities, because prices of everything but gold as constantly are declining, so that more must be furnished to balance the stipulated gold value."

This, by common consent, is what has happened to America's outstanding claims against Europe; they represent much more than when they were contracted.

Thus far, good, cold-bloodedly speaking, Uncle Sam profits by gold's rise.

"Ah, but," says Senator King, "there is nothing like enough gold in the world to pay off Europe's debts to America."

IT WOULD APPEAR, then, that as suggested my Senator King, repayment must be made in labor—or goods, representing labor.

Here Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee interposes, pointing to the next step in the direction of cancellation.

"High tariffs," he says, "have placed an almost complete embargo upon the entrance of foreign labor—or goods, representing it—into the United States, so that repayment in that fashion is impossible."

What, then, is the remedy?

"There is none in such a situation," answered Senators King and Hull in unison.

"War debt collection is ended."

BUT WAR DEBTS being cancelled and the government's slate wiped clean, there still will remain Europe's indebtedness of a private character, due to American bankers.

Cancellation of war debts obviously would make economic conditions in Europe much easier, whereupon the collection of these private indebtednesses, hitherto in the nature of second mortgages and increasingly doubtful, should become immediately much more likely. Indeed, with some relaxation of present restrictions (such as perhaps the bankers would suggest following war debt cancellation) the still-outstanding private debts unquestionably would rate as first-class obligations.

This, at any rate, is the argument of those members of congress who express suspicions that American bankers actually are trying to render war debt cancellation inevitable.

THE QUESTION may arise:

Of what benefit can such a program, in the interest of American bankers, be to French bankers?

The answer to this query is easy.

French bankers are fully as well disposed as any bankers on earth toward cancellation of America's war claims against Europe, for they include America's war claims against France. The only item on the debt-and-reparations cancellation program to which any Frenchman takes exception is the proposal to cancel German reparations to France. Cancellation of debts and reparations, linked together, is an unwelcome thought to the French, since the reparations on which they depend from Germany exceed the amount of the obligations which they owe to America. Far be it, however, from France to look disapprovingly upon the idea of war debt cancellation pure and simple.

EXPLANATION OF SATURDAY'S CARTOON

THE NEW BRIDGE IS THE OLDEST BRIDGE IN PARIS:

The construction of the New Bridge (Pont Neuf) in Paris was begun May 31st, 1578, in the presence of King Henry III, and it was completed in 1604 in the presence of King Henry VI. At the time of the construction, Paris had only two other bridges, the Pont au Change and the Petit Pont, both wooden structures which were destroyed by fire shortly after.

The Pont Neuf was the center of Paris' gay life in the first centuries of its existence, and it was said in those days that "you can always see on the bridge a white horse, a lady, and a monk."

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Old MRS. JUPITER, wife of the millionaire automobile manufacturer, gives an engagement dinner and dance for her secretary and protege, MARY HARKNESS, who is to marry DIRK RUYTHER, son of a blue-blooded family.

Mary receives a telephone call from her scapegrace brother, EDDIE, saying he is in trouble and must see her. The house is strictly guarded against "gate-crashers" because Mrs. Jupiter is wearing the famous Jupiter rubies.

Mary arranges for Eddie to be admitted secretly. When she hears screams and then shots in Mrs. Jupiters room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

Fearfully, as if drawn by a magnet, Mary moved slowly forward. Outside the closed door of Mrs. Jupiter's sitting room she stopped and called sharply, experimentally, "Eddie?" Then more loudly, "Eddie!" There was no reply.

Could it be Eddie in there? What would he be doing in Mrs. Jupiter's room? He had no business there unless the servants had directed him there in error, or had gone in there by mistake.

He hadn't said anything about bringing someone with him, though, and some other person was in there—the person he had been quarreling with. Suddenly she remembered, and the realization stunned her. Mrs. Jupiter was in that room. Hadn't she gone upstairs to take her shoes off? It had ben Mrs. Jupiter's voice she heard. Then whose—oh, dear God—whose hand had fired those shots?

Perhaps there hadn't been any. Her unbelieving mind was milling about desperately. Perhaps an automobile had back-fired in the drive. But that was nonsense—the noise had been close, plain. You couln't hear noise from the outside clearly in here, in this great heavy-walled house with the thickly shuttered windows.

The silence began to tear at her nerves. Gasping with excitement, she reached out suddenly and jerked open the door. The room was brightly lighted, but empty. She looked about, dumbfounded, almost ready to believe that her senses had tricked her.

Then she looked down—and there on the floor lay the crumpled figure of Mrs. Jupiter, the white hair awry the diamond headdress had been ruthlessly snatched from it, the gold dress twisted about her knees, the poor wrinkled old face haggard but strangely peaceful under the searching glare of the lights. An old pair of felt house slippers covered her feet.

Her hands, barren now of rings, still clutched something which she held clasped tightly between the palms, still firmly grasped together on her breast. It was the ruby necklace.

But it was the spot in her forehead, just below the hairline, from which a slow ooze of blood trickled and ran redly down the temple into the snow white hair, that drew Mary's horrified gaze.

Her distended eyes took in the whole scene with photographic clarity before she realized its enormity. For the time it occurred to her as she stared at the still, disheveled figure, that Mrs. Jupiter was dead.

What had happened seemed quite clear — Mrs. Jupiter had been robbed, but she had not given up the necklace. With her last breath she had protected it; the coil of bloodred stones between her fingers testified to her success. The thief had not been able to get it away from her, but his balked fury had cost her her life.

A scream broke from the girl's lips, and without looking where she was going she backed away from the figure on the floor and stumbled through the first door that presented itself, the door into Mrs. Jupiter's bedroom. She closed the door and leaned against it, shaking, her knees nearly giving under her. She tried to collect her thoughts.

Suppose it had been money, then, that Eddie needed—

She ran from room to room, stumbling in her haste, opening doors, calling. There was no sign of disturbance in the other rooms. Her own door was open. If Eddie had been there, he had gone. She stood in the hall, looking from one blank door to another, calling softly. "Eddie, Eddie, it's me, Mary! Oh, Eddie-boy dear, where are you?" The silence seemed unnatural. She broke into helpless sobs.

Suddenly it came to her that what she had been thinking was simply fantastic. Eddie had had nothing to do with this. More than likely the poor boy had not even come yet. Something had happened to delay him. She looked at her wrist-watch. Twenty minutes had elapsed since his telephone call. She ran downstairs in feverish haste.

At the foot of the stairs she collided with Spence, who was just coming up. She grabbed him by the shoulders and held on while she tried to get control of her voice.

"Oh, Spence! Spence! Go up to Mrs. Jupiter's room, quickly. Something's happened. She's hurt. I think she's—dead!"

The old servitor held her off sternly, inspecting her reproachfully.

"You're excited and overwrought, Miss Mary. And no wonder, with all that's goin' on hereabouts tonight. A man can't hear his own thoughts," he added tartly, as an extemporaneous tap-dancing contest broke out behind them in the ballroom, "let alone knowing what he'll find when he turns a corner unexpected."

This thin nostrils quivered with

"Hello, Dear. I just wanted to hear you tell me how much you love me. But, remember, this is a long distance call."

Plainview Boosters Coming To City On Special Train

Plainview residents will follow their high school football team to Lubbock Wednesday in a special train. The train will leave Plainview at noon Wednesday, arriving here at 1:30 p. m.

The Lubbock Westerners meet Plainview's Bulldogs at the Texas Tech field at 3 p. m.

The special train is expected to carry a large number of Plainview boosters, due to the low round trip rates and the brevity of time needed for making the trip. The Bulldog fans are expected to parade here. The delegation will leave at 6:30 p. m.

Plans for a women's all-Ozarks golf tourney, to be staged yearly along with the men's championship, are under way at Springfield, Mo.

THE toughest time to test a gas is on a day of freezing cold. The colder the day on which you try your first tankful of Phillips 66 . . . the greater gasoline, the better we like it.

You won't hear a lot of grinding and whirring from your starter, with no action from your motor. Instead, a touch of the starter and your motor comes to life instantly, warms up quickly and runs along sweetly.

What a beautiful demonstration of the special winter benefits of high test gasoline! You get not only summer power, pep, and mileage; but instant starting, too. All without any increase in price.

We can make Phillips 66 higher test without higher price because we are the world's largest refiners of natural high gravity gasoline. We do it to win your steady patronage by offering more for the money. Stop for that test tankful at the Orange and Black 66 shield.

disdain as his upturned gaze picked out the white blur of a girl's frock encircled by the black-clad arms of her escort, half hidden in a turn of the stair.

"I tell you it's true," Mary insisted. "I heard them and I've seen her. Her rings are gone, and there tiara, and her forehead—oh, you'll see, if you'll just go on up!"

"Well, well, we'll see," he replied, testily, starting forward with obvious reluctance. "Indeed, I was just going up anyhow to answer Mrs. Jupiter's bell.

"Bell?"

"Mrs. Jupiter rang for me, Miss Mary, not two minutes ago. And would she be doing that if she were killed?"

With a reproachful lift of the eyebrows, he ascended. Mary, watching the matter-of-fact back moving upward so serenely, almost decided she must be mistaken. Murders and such don't happen where I am, that respectable back seemed to say.

What she wanted now was to find Bessie, but Bessie proved hard to find. Tracked to earth in the butler's pantry, munching marrons glace and stuffed olives with blithe impartiality, Bessie slipped quickly down off the high stool she was perched on and confronted Mary sullenly.

Mary's white face and burning eyes, and the quiet, precise manner of her question, puzzled her. Scenting reproof, she took quick affront, after the manner of her kind.

"And how would I know who came in?" she retorted, pertly. "I suppose I've had nothing to do but listen for the doorbell, with all this racket going on?"

Bessie obviously was cut out for the life of the party, and her sulking was not unnatural. Relief surged up in Mary's heart.

"Then you didn't let anybody in?"

"They let themselves in, if they came," the maid snapped. "I'd no time to be bouncing in and out of there. I just went and unlocked the side door when you told me, Miss, and left it open. If they came, they got in all right."

Mary drew a long breath.

"Thank you, Bessie."

It was not Bessie's fault; it was her own, if it was anybody's. The side door was standing open as she passed. Nearly half an hour. Anybody might have come in, and gone out. Could it be possible—? A half-crazed boy, and the sight of all those jewels—. If he were desperately in need of money—. But he would have waited. She had never failed to get him out of any of his scrapes before.

Mary closed the door and locked it again.

It seemed hours before Spence came down, and when he did he seemed to have forgotten that she lived. He seemed surprised that she was still standing in the same spot where he had left her.

"Well! What are you standing there for?" he barked as if she had been one of the servants. "Find the Master! Quick! And Barclay!" He snapped his fingers, and the second man came trotting post-haste.

"Go right across the street and fetch Dr. Jordan, and take him up to the mistress' room as fast as you can."

It was impossible not to obey the old man as he crackled out commands like a drill-sergeant. Mary moved off, but stopped to telephone Eddie. He shared a flat with two or three other young men, and because of them she had never visited him. His telephone number was the only definite link she had with him.

Someone answered, but it was not Eddie. Eddie was not there. Had not been there for three or four days.

"I know something is the matter," Mary told him—she was sure he was lying—"but I'm his sister. He called me about half an hour ago. It's very important. Don't you know where he is?"

It was quite hopeless. The boys were as worried as she was. Eddie seemed to have disappeared.

Mary put up the receiver slowly. She wanted to go somewhere and think, but she did not like to leave the telephone. Eddie might call again at any minute, and she wanted to be there.

The figure of Teddy Doulton lurched into the hallway. Teddy always pretended to be drunker than he was. It was part of his "line." He fancied himself as a comedian. Now he hailed her with shouts of delight.

"We thought you'd eloped!" he chortled gaily. "Where's Dirk?" His puzzled gaze searched the dark corner in vain. Anything to get rid of him, Mary thought desperately.

"Listen, Ted," she said quickly, "will you do something for me?" He was complaint, but suspicious. "Then go and find your host for me. He may be out in the drive talking to the chauffeurs. Find him and bring him here, quick!"

Teddy saluted elaborately.

"I hear and obey." He turned himself around and started off, but suddenly stooped and clapped a hand to his head. "By the way, who IS my host?" Then he snapped his fingers. "Ah, I remember. Now don't go way, sweetheart. Ill be right back!"

He moved off, making exaggerated motions of search, lifting cushions, spanking draperies, and inspecting woodwork through a nonexistent magnifying glass. She had not really expected any help from the fool but his silliness seemed more than she could bear.

Suddenly she wanted Dirk terribly. He would know what to do. The ballroom was deserted as she crossed it and a babble of voices from the dining room told that supper was being served. Dirk and Cornelia were not there.

She went out on the terrace. Some dark corner would yield them, she felt sure. As she came out on the walk that led to the lower garden, the sound of voices below her arrested her attention.

Two figures were swaying together on the very lip of the lily-pool, the woman's white dress brightly silhouetted against the dark.

"I will! I will, too!" she was sobbing. "Let go of me, you brute!"

It was Cornelia, and the man whose bosom she was pounding with her fists as he held her firmly by the shoulders, was Dirk.

Schools Open For Students

Students Again In Classes In Two Institutions Following Cotton Picking Season; More Are To Be Opened

Two South Plains schools, which have been closed during the cotton picking season, were re-opened Monday, November 16.

Levelland and Estacado classes were started Monday. A. C. Jackson is superintendent at Estacado. C. J. Conatser, president of the Levelland board, has announced there will be a full term there in spite of the closing.

Schools slated to re-open next Monday are Spur, O'Donnell and Amherst. Idalou schools will open November 23.

Olton and Southland schools are operating on an early schedule. School begins at 8:30 a. m. at Olton and is dismissed at 1 o'clock to permit students to pick cotton. Classes begin at 8 a. m. at Southland and students are released there at noon. Southland is planning a full nine-month term.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9 (AP)—Although the government's crop estimate of 16,903,000 bales and total ginnings to November 1 of 12,129,544 running bales were larger than the private estimates issued in advance, the market declined only 4 points and then rallied sharply 35-38 points on good trade.

The supporting influences were the sharp advance in silver and firmness of stocks. The close was steady the general market showing net gains for the day of 14-18 points. Liverpool is due tomorrow on New Orleans 2-3 penny points up.

Report On Roads

This report is furnished daily by the South Plains Automobile club, local branch of the American Automobile association.

Roads throughout South Plains are in fair condition.

Highway No. 137, 21 miles detour from Lubbock to Hockley county line on account of paving—good when dry, difficult when wet.

Fourteen mile detour from Lubbock to Lynn county line, between Lubbock and Tahoka, bad in wet weather.

Route recommended to Oklahoma City, due to detours on U. S. Highway 66. Follow State road 53 to Dickens, State road 106 and 24 to Seymour, No. 277 from Seymour to Wichita Falls, State road 79 to Devol, Oklahoma, same road to Waurika, Oklahoma, U. S. highway 31 to Chickasha, going to Oklahoma City by way of Amber, Tuttle and New Castle. Paving east to Chickasha, detours most gravel.

Best route to Dallas: Follow Highway No. 7 to Post, No. 84 from Post to Clairemont, No. 84-A from Clairemont through Rotan to Roby. State road 83 to Anson, No. 18 from Anson through Albany to Breckenridge, No. 1-A to Mineral Wells and U. S. No. 80 to Dallas.

Plains Artists

know Mr. Hunter, as well as the convention delegates, have opportunity to see the quality of the work which he has been showing in the east. He is now working on a sizable exhibition of Texas scenes to be shown in New York City in the spring. These will also be shown in Dallas, probably before they go to New York. Concurrent with the Women's Club exhibition in Lubbock Mr. Hunter will have a showing at the Museum of New Mexico.

Given High Praise

A number of Mr. Hunter's watercolors of Texas scenes, which received much praise from critics, opened the present exhibition season of the Delphic Studios in New York City. In commenting, in the New York Times, Sept. 29th, upon these pictures, and particularly upon a Panhandle storm scene, Critic Edward Alden Jewel revealed, in one of his sentences, that the artist had let the experiences of the country speak very deeply to him. Mr. Jewel said, "Vernon Hunter has been stunned by a heroic rainbow." The past summer months found the artist's work in the collection of Mrs. Philip J. Roosevelt, shown at the G.R.D. Studios in New York City. He has paintings in other important collections in this country as well as in Europe, and for a number of years has been exhibiting in museums throughout the United States—Brooklyn Museum, Chicago Art Institute, Los Angeles Museum and others.

A number of famous personages have posed to Mr. Hunter for their portraits. Some of them are, Eleanora Duse, the great Italian tragedienne, Mei-Lan-Fang, the Imperial actor of China, and Mrs. William Vaughn Moody, the wife of the late dramatist whose play, "The Great Divide" was the first successful presentation of the western scene on the American stage. He was recently commissioned by a national college fraternity to paint portraits of the eight founders of the organization.

Mr. Hunter has for some time been occupied with painting the scenes well known to his childhood; as he enjoys painting what he calls "the lean beauty of Texas," because simplicity of forms, gigantic planes, and never ending lines abound here. He states that it is not easy to paint because it requires "exacting skill."

Some of his best Texas scenes are the ones which he did this summer about the Yellow House canyon section, and these canvases show that his skill was equal to his immense task. Mr. Hunter is so interested in doing these paintings that he plans to return there soon for more inspiration, and also expects to move southward later in the winter, that he may record some lower-Texas landscapes to include with the Panhandle scenes in his forthcoming exhibitions.

Tunisia has 174 post offices, 280 telegraph offices and 13,000 telephones.

Bulls Keep Ball Rolling In Markets Monday; Gains Of Session Are Pared

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (AP)—Bulls kept the ball rolling in the financial markets today. Gains were pared by profit-taking—wheat lost all its rise under late realizing—but the speculative mood favored higher prices and at their best levels commodities and securities stood well above Saturday's close.

At the top stocks showed gains of 1 to 6 points, generally speaking, although this range had been shortened by the close. Wheat, closely following the far eastern war news, advanced after an early setback and then closed with small losses. Bonds, United States governments excepted, improved, especially in the rail division. Japanese obligations weakened. Cotton displayed surprising unconcern over the November 1 crop estimate and bar silver rose to another new high while speculation for the advance was very lively in futures.

Federated Clubs

ing of the club women.

Several constitutional changes will be submitted to the convention during the week, following recommendations voted by the directors. As an economy measure, each administration may publish only one yearbook and the office of corresponding secretary will be eliminated while a part-time secretary will be employed and the management of the state federation will be placed solely in the hands of the executive committee, with all clubs equally represented. These measures will be submitted to the convention in session here.

Reports Fill Day

Reports from district presidents and delegates from highest scoring clubs will fill most of today. Past presidents and life members of the board will be honored at a Pioneer dinner at 6 o'clock tonight at the Hotel Lubbock and a fine arts program will be given this evening. Addresses are to be made by F. A. Kleinschmidt of Texas Technological college and Miss Rebecca W. Smith of the English faculty at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth.

A proposal to carry out a unified highway beautification program between now and the Texas centennial celebration in 1936 was submitted Monday by Mrs. J. L. Lovejoy of McKinney. Other recommendations to come before the convention will include one to have club women use more cotton goods and one to support co-operative marketing, one to have a committee confer with a state board on tax revision and one to promote education among Texas people. These latter proposals came from Dr. Annie Webb Blanton of Austin.

Welcomes were extended to the delegates in the evening program by Mrs. J. T. Whitmore of Snyder, president of seventh district; J. J. Clements, mayor, and C. E. Maedgen, president of the chamber of commerce; Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college, and by Mrs. William Dingus, chairman of the local entertainment committee. Mrs. Dingus presided.

Mrs. Paul Horton of Greenville and Mrs. Cecil Smith of Sherman made responses. The speaker of the evening, Hon. Marvin Jones of Amarillo, was introduced by Mrs. H. C. Pipkin of that city.

DEMAND PAYMENT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9. (AP)—Another suit growing out of the alleged Doheny-Fall oil frauds in Elk Hills naval reserve oil field was filed in superior court today by stockholders who demanded payment of $1,920,886.94 from E. L. Doheny, oil magnate.

Livestock

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 9 (AP)—Cattle trade at eleven markets on good to choice fed steers and yearlings was generally strong to 25 higher with some markets noting more advance on choice fed steers with weight. Short feds made up the bulk of supply and sold mostly steady at 5.50@8.50. Receipts totalled 102,400 against 106,309 last Monday.

Most hog markets reported an active trade at steady to 15 higher levels. Aggregate receipts numbered 142,000 as compared with 133,807 a week ago.

Truck Hearing

contract and for common carrier permits. "The only difference between a common carrier and a contract carrier, it seems to me, is that the common carrier runs on schedule time and the contract carrier does not," he stated. "We say the act virtually converts the contract carrier into a common carrier."

"If the railroad commission itself complies with the law there will be no contract carriers," he again stated.

Mr. Lockhart pointed out that under the old law all applications for class B permits were granted. Under the new law the applicant must show that his competition will not work a hardship on other common carriers.

Excerpts Are Read

The attorney read excerpts from a press clipping sent out by Ray Hollar, "who helped get the truck law through the legislature" because he is a member of the lower house. He also read an editorial comment from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram commenting on the effect of the law.

"The constitutionality of the law was not passed upon by the Waco court" he said in referring to the decision Saturday by the Tenth district court of civil appeals. "I don't see that the Waco case, either one of them, has anything to do with this case."

He pointed out under the regulations of the railroad commission that contract carrier applicants made the papers the same way as common carriers did and that they had to file a bond and carry insurance the same as the other class. The attorney also pointed out that a Class B carrier who sought a private contract permit could make application and then operate under his Class B permit until the commission made a ruling on his application.

Class Legislation

He termed the bill "class legislation," because a truck owner who could buy a load of cotton could operate without a permit any place in the state while another truck owner, unable to buy cotton, could not contract to haul it.

In answering Mr. Lockhart, Mr. Hooper compared the duties imposed upon the two classes of carriers, common and contract. He read the regulations of the commission on the making of applications and said the granting of a permit to operate as a private or contract carrier was based upon the applicant having an agreement, either written or oral. He also called the attention of the court to what he said was the failure of the applicant to show the details of his contract. He also asked permission to file on his return to Austin, an answer to the amended petition.

"I ask that the injunction be dissolved and that the plaintiff be instructed to pursue his application according to the regulations," the attorney said in conclusion.

Explains Contract

Mr. Jeffreys was asked several questions about his application by Mr. Lockhart. He explained he had a contract with Handley Gin No. 1 at Tahoka to haul cotton seed to Quanah. He owned one truck and bought another on the strength of his contract. He had made application for a permit, he added.

In the cross examination Mr. Jeffreys said he had had his contract since the opening of the ginning season and that he had expected to operate until the close.

J. H. Edwards, bus and truck inspector for the commission; G. H. Nelson, county attorney of Lynn county and B. L. Parker, sheriff and Vaughn Wilson, Lubbock county attorney, named defendants, were in the court room during the day. Jack Reaves, highway patrolman and another defendant, also was in the court room.

B. P. Maddox, personal attorney for the plaintiff, was associated with Mr. Lockhart in the prosecution of the case. A number of attorneys here sat throughout the session as did many truck owners who have applied for contract carrier permits.

STUDY ORDERED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. (AP) — A study of the gigantic plan of eastern transportation chiefs to consolidate $10,000,000,000 worth of railroads into four big systems was ordered today by the interstate commerce commission.

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Nov. 9 (AP)—Cash grain demand, good.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or group three points, freight paid:

Wheat, No. 1 ordinary hard milling 71 1-2@72 1-2; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein 72 1-2@73 1-4; 14 per cent 76 1-2@77 1-2; 15 per cent 80 1-2@81 1-2; 16 per cent 84 1-2@85 1-2.

Corn, No. 2 mixed 47@48; No. 2 white 48 1-2@49 1-2; No. 2 yellow 52@53.

Barley; No. 2 nominally 42@46.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 lbs 90@92; No. 2 kaffir 90@91.

Basis delivered group three: Oats, No. 2 red 26 1-@27 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (AP)—Unconfirmed rumors reaching the grain pits that Japan and China were officially at war sent grain prices spinning upward today above any point reached since recent extraordinary advances began. The new rise, however, except for rye and oats, failed to hold in the face of greatly augmented selling at the last.

Maximum fresh advances in price, attained in excited buying rushes and simultaneous with a report printed on market tickets that one Chinese general had formally declared war on Japan, swept wheat to 24 1-2 cents above recent low levels and rye up to as much as 24 cents gain.

Mellonism

John N. Garner, who has served Texas in Congress for 30 years, will be elected speaker."

The congressman pointed to the money question as probably the chief problem before the next session.

Control Is Centered

"A small group of men have perverted the federal reserve system from its original purpose, and have again centered the money control in the hands of a few men in the east," Mr. Jones said. "Chief of these is Mr. Mellon, and his policies have become known as Mellonism.

"There are a number of contributing causes to present day conditions, but the chief one is the concentraton of currency. In 1920 there was a greater per capita circulation than now. There has been a reduction of more than 25 per cent in ten years. Yet we have one-third more gold now than we had then. With our present supply of gold there could safely be a reasonable expansion of currency and credit.

Increase Is Desired

"Nothing would do more to restore normal conditions than an increase in the volume of money. Money would become plentiful, it would increase the value of property and products, encourage trade and furnish work for a vast number of the unemployed.

"The lopsided tariff which is destroying our foreign trade should be revised, mergers and monopolies should cease, short selling should be curbed, and business given to understand that it must obey the law.

"Economic ills will not yield to legislative remedies, and the people must solve their own problems. Economy should be practiced wherever possible, free circulation of money restored, control of local affairs restored to local people, and Mellonism should be destroyed."

War Declared

their decision was made. Tokyo's answer to the latest American note is expected to reach Washington today (Tuesday.) The Japanese foreign office indicated no objection would be raised to publication of the whole correspondence.

Prepare To Protest

The Japanese foreign office prepared to protest, however, to the League of Nations against what was called the use of league facilities by China as a propaganda bureau. The activities of a league health agent in Shanghai were also looked upon with suspicion.

Little hope of a Manchurian settlement was placed in the new conversations between acting President Briand of the league council and the Japanese representative, Kenkichi Yoshizawa.

An American newspaper in Shanghai accused the Japanese military in Manchuria of suppressing or altering press dispatches and even subjecting the mails to censorship.

A charge that Japanese have siezed all funds of the Bank of China and of the Bank of Cummunications at Changchun was made in a telegram received in Geneva by Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese member of the League of Nations, from the chief inspector of salt revenue in Manchuria. The bulk of the funds were salt revenue. The Chinese charged the revenues had been seized by the Japanese Military but the Japanese denied the accusation.

The ginnings of the new crop to November 1 total 12,129,546 bales.

Grain Market On An Upward Swing

CHICAGO, Nov. 9. (AP)—The bull market in grain showed again today that it could "take punishment."

Smothered at the opening today by stacks of week end selling orders, grain futures sagged as much as 2 cents a bushel. But there they held, slowly recovered and finally spurted again until most of the contracts sold at the highest prices of the season.

The maximum figures, which followed new rumors of war in the Orient, were not maintained and at the close wheat and corn were not far from Saturday's finish.

Breckenridge Jewelry Store Robbed By A Daring Bandit

BRECKENRIDGE, Nov. 9. (AP)— A robber entered a jewelry shop in the heart of the business district today, tied an employe and a customer to a rear office and looted the safe of $5,000 in jewelry and cash.

The robber then ran to the street and was driven away in an automobile operated by an accomplice.

Maz Daiches, employee of the store, and C. B. Quillette, Breckenridge agent for the Humble Oil Refining company, were tied in the office.

The robber scooped up diamond rings, watches and other jewelry, carrying them away in a sack containing Saturday's store receipts.

Safe Is Removed, Broken Open And Contents Taken

KILGORE, Nov. 9. —Robbers removed a safe from a theatre buliding early toady, opened it in a field and took over $300.

It was the fifth safe robbery in this section in a week. Three safes were removed from Longview buildings and robbed. The other was taken from a Kilgore building.

Birth control is reported to have made little headway in Poland.

the constitution they seek to destroy."

Criticizes Group

"If the coal miners knew the real truth," he said, "they would be the first to form a mob and deliver these radicals to the state line and tell them to keep out of the county."

Judge Jones, who also presides over Harlan circuit court and was the target of bitter verbal attacks during mass meetings held while Dreiser's committee of writers was investigating conditions among coal miners, criticized the committee and said its visit here was intended merely for purposes of publicity. The Dreiser committee left today, Drieser heading through the Cumberland mountains with Bruce Crawford, editor of a weekly at Norton, Va.

Judge Jones said Dreiser and the committee visited the coal fields seeking publicity to write books on which to "capitalize on the poor miners." He said they pretended to sympathize with the miners "just to fool them and dupe them into joining some communistic organization."

"If I had been governor and they asked me for a military escort I would have placed the national guard at the Ohio river to see that Dreiser and his gang did not cross into Kentucky," the judge said.

Labor Head To Visit In Area

Employment Official Leaves Lamesa For Tour Of South Plains After Four Weeks In Dawson County Capital

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Nov. 9.—R. L. Robinson, who has been operating the U. S. Labor Bureau office in conjunction with the local Chamber of Commerce for the past four weeks, left here this week for Brownfield, Levelland, Littlefield, Lubbock, Tahoka, and other points on the South Plains to determine the need of these sections for more cotton pickers. Before leaving, Mr. Robinson stated that he had placed more than 3,500 pickers in Dawson county.

If the demand is as great as is reported in the sections north of Lamesa, he will return here, he said, this being a strategic labor distribution point for the direction of pickers to the South Plains, pickers being largely Mexicans, and coming from the San Antonio area up State Highway 9 to this point.

This is the fourth consecutive year a U. S. labor agent has been dispatched to Lamesa at the request of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce to aid in the dissemination of labor to farmers here. Laborers consist of cotton pickers and maize headers. It is estimated that Dawson county will produce more than 40,000 bales of cotton this year and it is more than half picked at the present time. According to reports from farmers, a sufficient number of cotton pickers is now in the county.

Man Gave Away $5,000,000 Treasure; Dies In Poverty

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. (AP) —John Gellatly, who chose to live in reduced circumstances in order that he might give to the nation a $5,000,000 art collection he had spent more than half his life assembling, is dead.

So poor, his wife said, that she will have to borrow money to pay his funeral expenses, Gellatly died of pneumonia yesterday at the age of 78.

Congress in 1929 accepted Gellatly's collection of paintings, including canvasses of Whistler and John Singer Sargent, porcelain and pottery, sixteenth century jewelry, stained glass, and Gothic sculptures, to be placed in the Smithsonian institution.

Question Of Stock Control Appears Far From Settled

HOUSTON Nov. 9 (AP)—The question of who will own controlling stock in the Houston Printing company, which publishes Governor Ross S. Sterling's Houston Post Dispatch, appeared far from settled tonight.

The hearing on application of a trust estate committee for injunction to restrain J. M. West, capitalist, from selling stock in the printing company, scheduled to be heard today, was postponed by agreement until November 19.

Winnie Ruth Judd Held For Murder Following Hearing

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 9. (AP) — Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, reputed "trunk murderess" today was held for trial on charges of murdering Mrs. Anne Le Roi, and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, her erstwhile friends, while a thousand persons fought vainly in an effort to enter the courtroom.

Mrs. Judd, attired in a long, clinging black dress, apparently little perturbed, sat through the ordeal of testimony. She conferred in whispers often with her attorneys, Herman Lewkowitz of Phoenix and Paul Schenck of Los Angeles, and laughed aloud once after she had instigated, and heard asked, a question which she considered humorous.

Carl W. Johnson To Begin 14th District Race Soon

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 9. (AP)—Carl Wright Johnson, candidate for the congressional seat made vacant by the death here Friday of Representative Harry H. Wurzbach, Republican, will begin an active canvass of the 14th district Wednesday, he announced today.

Johnson is former chairman of the Bexar county Democratic executive committee and a resident of San Antonio since 1920.

Youth Killed; Teacher Held

"Black Hand" Note Presented By Alleged Slayer; Argument At Home Told; Man Is Freed On $1,500 Bail

EASTLAND, Nov. 9 (AP).—Frank Gregory, 19, was shot to death last night at Desdemona. Officers arrested H. L. Forbester, school teacher, on a charge of murder for the slaying.

Forrester showed officers a note he said he had found yesterday morning on his doorstep. It read: "Forrester—leave town by sundown or take results. You're on the spot. Black hand."

The note was written on scrap paper in pencil. On the page had been traced a rude skull and cross bones. Forrester claimed Gregory came to his residence last night and knocked. Forrester said he went to the door and asked Gregory to leave.

Forrester said Gregory refused and asked him to come out in the yard, asserting he had called in reference to certain remarks allegedly made by Forrester.

Mrs. Forrester said she asked Gregory to leave but the youth again refused, saying he wanted to settle the matter then.

Forrester, officers claimed, then stepped out on the porch and began shooting. A bullet struck Gregory in the head.

Forrester was freed under $1,500 bond to await action of the grand jury.

Book Circulation Reveals Increase

An increase of about 500 in total circulation of Lubbock county library books in October as compared to September has been reported by Miss Rutillia Eubank, county librarian. Total circulation in October was 7,862, she said.

Distribution of books was divided as follows: Main county library in City hall here, 5,345; branch library at Idalou, 866; at Slaton, 955, and at Shallowater, 496. More books are being sent to rural schools for use in supplementary work of the classes recently convened and for adult patrons, Miss Eubank said.

A national book week display will be arranged for the main library, she said. Next week is national book week.

The county librarian will address the Slaton Parent Teacher association at Slaton today on "What the County Library (in Slaton) Means to the Community."

As he was taken from hs cell this mornng, he began shooting at Trujillo, wth a pstol, one bullet striking Trujillo in the leg and another behind the ear.

Former Dancer Facing Charge

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Nov. 9. (AP)—And now Farmer William Schroeder of Wheeling, Ill., wants $10,000 from Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, the famous former dancer, as a result of a little visit she made last May to his pigsty.

Mrs. McLaughlin, who has interested herself in behalf of dumb animals, charged that farmer Schroeder didn't do right by his pigs in that he starved them and failed to provide proper living quarters. She alleged he was cruel.

A justice of the peace found him guilty but he appealed and recently was acquitted by a jury in a higher court.

Schroeder filed his suit yesterday. He charged slander and malicious prosecution.

Hufstedler Services Will Be Held Here Early Today

Last services for Roy Hufstedler, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hufstedler, formerly of Lubbock but now of Abilene, will be read at the Broadway Church of Christ here Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Elder Liff Sanders of Snyder and John T. Smith of Lubbock will officiate, and burial will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Hufstedler died at San Antonio Sunday afternoon, following a ten-day illness. He was a student in a San Antonio college. In addition to his parents, two brothers and two sisters survive. They are Ross of Ozona and Lloyd Hufstedler, Abilene, and Mrs. J. S. Maxwell, El Paso and Miss Pearl Hufstedler, Abilene.

Arrangements will be made by the Sanders Funeral Home.

Accidents Cause Injury To Eight In And Near Lubbock; All Will Recover

ACCIDENTS this week end which sent eight people to Lubbock hospitals are not expected to prove fatal to any of the victims.

R. Brashear, 57, his two daughters, Alta, 15, and Jessie, 12, burned when gas exploded at a Brownfield tourist camp early Monday; J. W. Luke, whose neck was slashed from side to side Sunday; and M. C. Eakin of Moody, hurt in an automobile-freight train crash, at Ropesville, were the more seriously injured.

Three Are Burned

The explosion in which the Brashears were burned was unexplained, as the trio was asleep at the time of the accident. Brashear believes, however, that gas escaping from a jet was ignited, possibly from a short circuit in the electrical wiring.

Brashear was burned about the face, arms, hands and right eye and the girls on face, arms and hands and severely on the back. They were very uncomfortable last night, but their injuries are not believed serious, attaches at the Lubbock sanitarium reported. They were enroute from Winters with household goods to Wellman, making the trip for another family.

Jammed Against Fence

Luke, 41, was the victim of his automobile and a barbed wire fence Sunday afternoon. He cranked the automobile while it was in gear and it jammed him against a barbed wire fence. His right ear practically was severed and his trachea slit open. At the Lubbock sanitarium Monday night, he was resting well and it was believed the ear would be saved. He was brought to Lubbock by his wife from his home, two miles west of Bula, where the accident occurred. He was treated with tetanus anti-toxin.

M. C. Eakin suffered a badly bruised right hand and severe bruises when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a Santa Fe freight train at Ropesville Monday morning. His companion, Vernon Eakin, was treated for minor injuries and dismissed from the Lubbock sanitarium. They were brought to Lubbock in a Rix ambulance. Their automobile was struck by a local freight train, enroute from Lubbock to Seagraves. J. H. Smith of Lubbock was engineer.

O. B. Burgess of Amherst underwent amputation of the second finger on his left hand Sunday morning at West Texas hospital, after the hand was lacerated severely in an Amherst gin accident.

W. N. Nichols of Lubbock was dismissed from Lubbock sanitarium Monday after his right hand, injured in machinery at a local laundry, had been treated.

A recent survey shows an increased acreage of nearly all truck crops in Florida this year.

What Would You Do????

You can no longer buy cotton, wheat, corn, sugar, oats, hogs, and stocks on the all-time low prices possible only a few months ago.

It is too late, they are all advancing in price, everything is on the upward trend but the prices on Goodrich Tires have not advanced one cent.

Prices on rubber are advancing, and it is logical that the prices of Goodrich Tire will advance if rubber continues to climb upward in price.

We have purchased carloads of tires at the all-time low prices and during this November month the trade-in allowance will even be greater, allowing you more for your old tires than ever before.

Now don't you think it is more wiser to buy Goodrich Silvertowns now than before the prices on rubber climb upward until it is impossible to extend to you the lowest tire prices of all time on tires that are known to be 58 per cent better.
