No End Seen To Hostage Impasse

WASHINGTON (AP) — American negotiators have passed on to Algerian intermediaries a new U.S. message for Iran on terms for settling the hostage impasse, but officials said "serious problems" still stand in the way of an accord.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren M. Christopher, who heads the U.S. delegation in Algiers, met again last night with Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Benyahia in the drive to reach an agreement by the end of the week to free the 52 Americans.

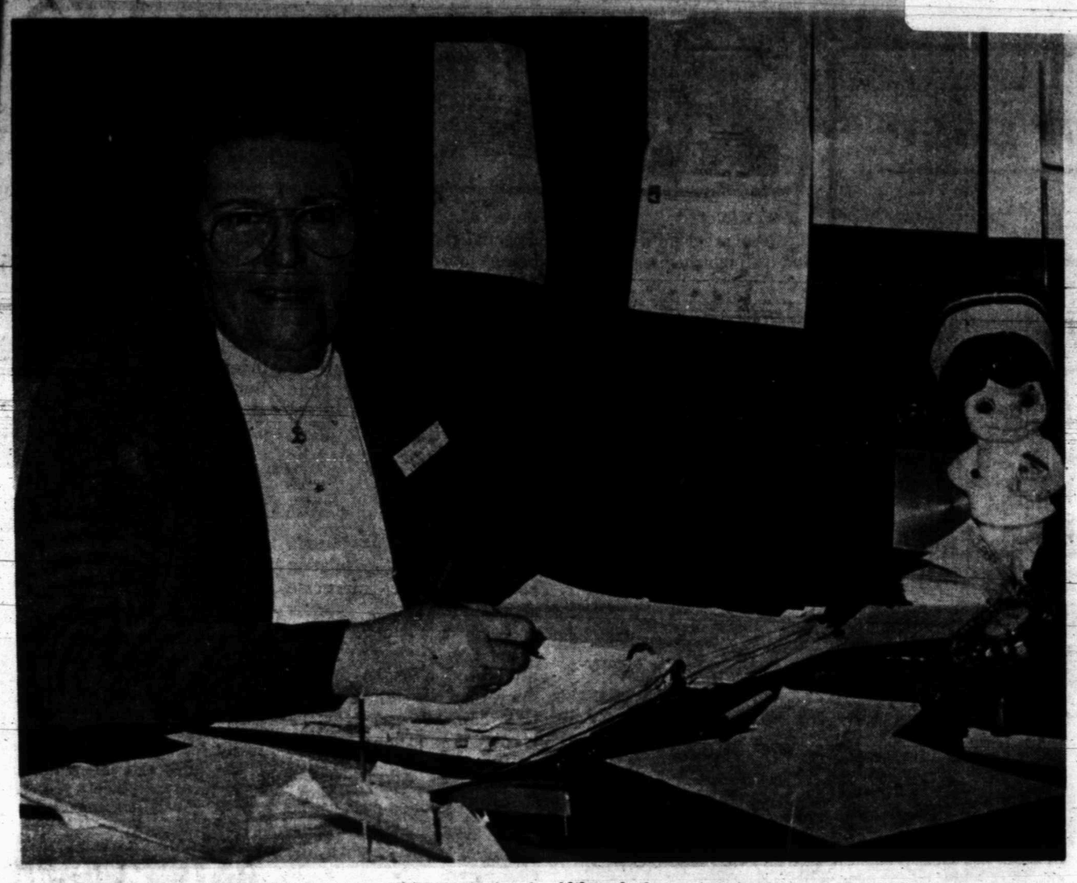

The Christopher delegation turned over to the Algerians, who are acting as a go-between, replies to a third set of Iranian questions about the U.S. plan to break the deadlock. Essentially, the plan would return billions of dollars in frozen Iranian assets in exchange for the release of the Americans, who have been held for more than 14 months.

After the session with Benyahia, Christopher reported to the State Department that there were still serious problems in concluding an agreement, officials here said. He plans to remain in Algiers at least through today.

Even while raising repeated questions about the American proposal, Iran has not taken a stand on it. The plan was carried to Tehran Jan. 2 by Algerian diplomats.

Earlier, U.S. officials had said they had no confirmation of a Tehran report that Iran had dropped its demand for a U.S. guarantee of $24 billion.

The Washington Post, quoting what it termed informed sources, reported today that Carter administration negotiators are attempting to draft an agreement, which would be signed by President Carter before Jan. 20 and be legally binding on his successor, setting down terms of a settlement for releasing the hostages.

HELP AVAILABLE - Maggie Barnes, supervisor for the local West Central Texas Home Health Agency, says house calls are possible for home-bound patients qualifying for limited care. Services Provided For Home-Bound Patients

A little understood health agency can provide home-based care.

The West Central Texas Home Health Agency can, in some instances, make house calls to home-bound patients. The nurses or nurses' aides can help the patients with surgical dressings, injections, take blood pressure readings, bathe the patients, walk the patients, administer limited physical therapy, and give inhalation treatment and instruction.

The agency, located in Snyder at 3904 College Ave., is supervised by Maggie Barnes. Licensed vocational nurses are Odelle Harrell and Vern Beasley, Doris DeFreeze is a nurse's aide. The agency also has access to out-of-town therapists.

To receive the agency's help, a doctor must recommend his patient for the program. Funding can be arranged by Medicare, Medicaid, the Veteran's Administration, private insurance, or private pay.

At most, said Mrs. Barnes, the agency can make 100 visits, but that number has so far not been reached. The program is designed for short-term care, she added.

"As they get more stabilized, we discharge them," explained Mrs. Barnes.

Visits are usually three times a week for anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour. Mrs. Barnes said her patients currently range in age from a newborn baby to people in the 90s.

Although the service has been in Snyder for about six or seven years, Mrs. Barnes said she believes few people are aware of it.

"I think it would be well for them to know more about the services offered in the community," she said.

The service area includes Scurry and Borden Counties.

Ask Us

Q. - Why is the American flag left flying day and night at the Scurry County Library?

A. - Although it has been a traditional observance to lower the flag at sunset, it is not a strict requirement. County Attorney George Killam checked the lawbooks and found federal law permits the flying of the flag 24 hours a day if the display is patriotic in nature and if the flag is made of all-weather material. The law was passed in 1974 and amended in 1976.

Little Hope For Decline In Inmates

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The director of the Texas prison system says there is little hope inmate population will decline in the next 20 years.

W.J. Estelle Jr. said Texans must realize the need for alternatives to prison if the Texas Department of Corrections is to overcome crowded conditions.

Speaking Sunday at a Sam Houston State University Criminal Justice Center seminar, Estelle said he supports community-based units as long as each community has control over who is admitted.

Wreck Kills Cuban Escapee

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Five Cuban refugees broke out of the federal detention center here during the weekend, and one of them was killed in a traffic accident a short time later, authorities said today.

The other four were recaptured within hours of their escape.

Officials declined to say how the Cubans got out of the federal detention center here, where about 80 refugees were being held pending their release to U.S. sponsor families. The escape apparently occurred late Saturday or early Sunday.

An investigation into the incident was under way today.

The man killed was driving a stolen car, which crashed into a culvert and overturned in Culberson County near the Guadalupe Mountains National Park before dawn Sunday, according to Texas Department of Public Safety officer Bob Newman. The victim was 23. His name was not immediately released.

Says Indians' Oil Stolen

FORT WASHAKIE, Wyo. (AP) — An investigator hired by Indians on the Wind River Reservation in Wyoming to check charges of massive oil thefts says he has "solid proof" of those thefts, a Denver newspaper reports.

"I don't want to hear the word 'alleged' anymore" when refering to Indian claims that oil worth millions of dollars has been stolen, Charles Thomas, the director of the Joint Tribal Mineral Department said.

Thomas' statements were reported in a copyright story in Sunday's Denver Post.

In one instance alone, Thomas said, "in excess of 86,000 barrels of oil were taken off just two leases during a four-month period. No royalty was paid on that 86,000 barrels."

Thomas, a former U.S. Geological Survey employee now working for the Indians, declined to name companies, but said he had papers supporting his statements.

Two Held After Drug Bust

JEFFERSON, Texas (AP) — Two men were in custody and 3,400 pounds of marijuana have been confiscated following a raid by narcotics officers in northern Harrison County, officials say.

Deputies from Harrison and Marion Counties and Department of Public Safety narcotics officers swooped down on a farmhouse about 10 miles east of Jefferson Saturday night and found the men, both 32, and a van filled with 55 bundles of marijuana.

Officials said the marijuana had an estimated street value of $1.5 million and called the seizure on the biggest in the history of North Texas.

The suspects remained in the Harrison County Jail Sunday pending charges.

Frozen East Swept By More Frigid Arctic Air

By ANDRES O'CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

The frozen East got another blast of frigid arctic air today, sending temperatures to more record lows from Florida to Maine in a winter that will be talked about for years.

Several factories closed, and at least 15,000 school children stayed home today in parts of Massachusetts where one utility is running out of natural gas. Utility officials in Jacksonville, Fla., cut off power for about 45 minutes to more than 70,000 homes today when subfreezing temperatures pushed the demand for electricity to near capacity. In Chattanooga, Tenn., officials said an apparent short circuit left about 5,500 homes without power for up to 20 minutes with temperatures in the teens.

The mercury was below zero across most of the northeastern fourth of the nation, including portions of the Ohio Valley, with Old Forge in the Adirondacks of New York reporting in at 43 below.

It was cold enough to jam the Cape Cod Canal with ice floes, cold enough to freeze parts of Chesapeake Bay, cold enough to threaten citrus crops in Florida and cold enough to drive hundreds of New Yorkers out of their heatless apartments into temporary shelters.

The National Weather Service said nearly two dozen cities from West Palm Beach, Fla., to Worcester, Mass., set new cold records for Jan. 12.

The citrus crops in Florida had a rough night with readings in the 20s, but winds probably prevented extensive damage to the fruit. Citrusmen were braced for a second assault tonight.

But in New Hampshire on Sunday, there was a celebration. The local historical society in New London, N.H., had a day-long ice-cutting revival on Little Lake Sunapee in 5-degree weather.

In parts of the nation where the cold is an unexpected visitor, dipping temperatures brought tragedy and alarm.

In New Orleans, authorities said a man believed to be homeless and trying to escape temperatures in the low 30s was killed Sunday when fire broke out in a vacant building in the city's warehouse district.

In the Chicago suburb of Robbins, officials blamed 14-degree cold for the death of an unidentified man who was found frozen in the middle of a road.

County Board Appointments Being Made

Scurry County Commissioners this morning were taking care of several routine matters before tackling their annual list of appointments and other action associated with the beginning of a new year.

Later in the day they were scheduled to appoint a 1981 grievance committe and to fill vacancies on various county boards.

These actions are required each year at their meeting on the second Monday in January.

Police Report Three Felony Arrests Here

Three felony arrests in connection with two weekend thefts were reported by city police.

Two men, both 19 years old, were arrested shortly before 3 p.m. Saturday for the theft of a $229 AM-FM cassette player at Radio Shack. Working that case was Kerry Fritz.

About 4 a.m. Sunday, a 17-year-old man was arrested in connection with a $380 theft at Cash Foods that had occurred Saturday night. Working that case were Sgt. Wade Norris and Mike Harris.

Also during the weekend, Bob Lyons reported the theft of a $173 30.06 rifle and a $223 12-guage shotgun at K mart. That theft is alleged to have occurred between Nov. 20 and Jan. 9. It is being worked by Richard McCulley.

Two traffic accidents were also reported.

The first occurred at 6 p.m. Saturday at Skinny's convenience store on 37th St. Reports show a gas nozzle had been torn off a pump when a car stopped at the store to gas up, and when the driver of the car neglected to remove the nozzle. That accident was worked by Don Cheek.

Buddy Kinney worked a two-car collision Sunday at 9:45 a.m. A 1974 Chevrolet driven by Louise Brecheen and a 1972 Pontiac driven by Delbert Jones collided in the 1200 block of 30th St.

College Board To Get Audit Report

Scurry County Junior College District Trustees are scheduled to receive the district's annual audit report and consider acceptance of a new racquetball facility at their regular meeting tonight.

The meeting is set for 6:15 p. m. in the conference room of the Western Texas College administration building.

The racquetball facility has been constructed adjacent to the golf pro shop and it will be operated by personnel in the pro shop.

In other business during tonight's meeting, the college board will consider a contract with Scurry County for the collection of college district taxes for 1981, and a proposed revision for room and board charges, which will be submitted at the meeting to be included in the 1981-82 WTC catalog which is now being revised.

The county has been collecting the college district's taxes by contract since the district was created, and at present, all taxing entities in the county are contracting for the same service.

The college board also will consider a contract with an Amarillo law firm for the collection of delinquent taxes.

Reports are scheduled on plans for expansion of student housing on the WTC campus and on the continuing education-adult education programs for the fall semester.

Following action on the regular business agenda, the board is scheduled to go into executive session to continue its study of applications for the position of president of WTC. The president's chair will become vacant Feb. 1 when Dr. Robert L. Clinton leaves to become director of the Texas Public Community-Junior College Association in Austin.

White Flies To Capital

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General Mark White flew to Washington Sunday to argue against a possible cutoff of federal funds for state colleges.

He was accompanied by Bob Hardesty, vice chancellor of administration for the University of Texas System.

White's office said the two would confer with U.S. Department of Education officials Tuesday about a staff report that alleges Texas has retained "vestiges of a dual system of education" for blacks and whites. If the staff report is accepted Texas could lose up to $300 million in federal money for higher education.

Nine Planes Destroyed In Puerto Rican Raid

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The Machete Wielders, a leftist, pro-independence group, claimed responsibility for setting off pipe bombs that destroyed nine jet fighters and damaged a 10th early today at a base next to San Juan's international airport. Damage was estimated at $45 million.

A man called The Associated Press office in San Juan at 7:35 a.m. — 6:35 EST — roughly seven hours after the quick, well-planned raid on the Air National Guard planes at Muniz Air Base, and said the blasts were set off by the Machete Wielders, who also claimed responsibility 13 months ago for killing two sailors and wounding 10 other servicemen and woman in the bloodiest attack ever on the military on this U.S. commonwealth island.

No one was hurt in the latest attack, which also damaged a pickup truck. Police also found and defused bombs in two other planes, and searched a Delta flight at the international airport where a bomb was reported aboard but found nothing, officials said.

Chrysler's Woes Test Patience Of Employees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The struggle to save Chrysler Corp. from bankruptcy is testing the patience of workers and suppliers as the government bargains over its conditions for $400 million more in loan guarantees.

The key issue in talks resuming today, after four days of negotiations at Chrysler's Michigan headquarters is the company's proposed $600 million wage freeze.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller also reportedly wants assurances the United Auto Workers union will not try to regain parity with the other Big Three automakers all at once when the current contract expires in September 1982.

UAW President Douglas Fraser, who is a member of Chrysler's board of directors, warned during the weekend there are limits to the workers' patience. Asked whether Miller's requirement might sink the negotiations, Fraser replied, "It could cause serious problems."

Some of Chrysler's 20,000 suppliers may be nearing the limits of their patience, too. Chrysler, which expects to report a loss of $1.7 billion for 1980, has acknowleged it is not paying most suppliers.

Company sources say about a dozen suppliers have worked out deals to be paid with cars, and others have halted shipments for "eight hours, 12 hours, a day" until an "emergency check" came through.

Fraser said the truck assembly plant in Warren, Mich., near Detroit, scheduled before Christmas for closing this week to reduce truck inventories, cannot resume production because it has no gasoline tanks, tank attachment straps, radiators and carpets. Suppliers of those items have held up shipments because their bills have not been paid, he said.

The UAW president says he is worried about the latest demands sought by Miller, who is chairman of the Chrysler Loan Guarantee Board which the treasury secretary hopes to reconvene Wednesday. The board is reworking Chrysler's latest survival plan to clear the way for approval of the crippled, cash-short No. 3 automaker's application for $400 million more in government loan guarantees.

Fraser, saying the September 1982 negotiations should be left to Chrysler and the UAW, said he thought Miller was "exceeding his legal mandate" by seeking assurances about union goals for the 1982 contract.

Union members "don't want to extend the time unnecessarily (that) we'll be at a disadvantage vis-a-vis the other companies," Fraser said Saturday.

Chrysler's 64,000 active UAW members in the United States and Canada twice before have approved concessions totalling $446 million in an attempt to save the company. Fraser has said he was "not too confident" another round can win approval in the necessary ratification vote.

While Chrysler and the UAW are negotiating with Miller, Chrysler is also trying to win acceptance of previously announced requests of suppliers to cut prices 5 percent through March and hold them at the old levels through December, Fraser said.

fear of crime soars

We didn't really need The Figgie Report on Fear of Crime to tell us there's great uneasiness over personal safety, but this recently published national study provides helpful documentation. It's named after the man who commissioned it, Henry E. Figgie Jr., the chief executive of A-T-O, a diversified maufacturing firm based in Ohio.

The first volume to come out of the survey, which was done by an independent research firm, concerns itself with public attitudes toward crime. Later installments are to look at corporate responses to the problem and at the way lawlessness is viewed in 10 American cities.

The finding that most struck the authors of the study is that fear of specific violent crimes grips Americans in far greater numbers than the incidence of reported acts would seem to support. To wit: Though 9 in every 100,000 people were murdered in 1978, 17 percent of those surveyed said they "frequently or sometimes" fear having their lives taken. Robbery is on the minds of 23 percent of the sample, though 19 of every 10,000 in the population were reported to have been so victimized. And, in the most striking of disparities, 55 percent of the women questioned live in constant fear of rape, though the official incidence of such attack was 6 in 10,000.

Now, we have good reason to believe that the figures on reported crime, particularly those for rape, underestimate the actual frequency. Stil, the extent to which fear has compounded the already serious spectre of felonious assault in our nation has got to shock the sensibilities of a decent society. And it is the fear, as much as the actual dangers that exist, that cuts to the heart of our ability to live free, productive and fulfilling lives.

Other numbers in the report are instructive of the dimensions of our national phobia. When fear of specific violent crime is measured, college graduates score highest,somewhat undermining the notion that ignorance lies at the root of fright. And blacks are considerably more fearful than whites, probably because they are by far the most likely victims of violence.

The survey determined that fear of crime significantly inhibits personal mobility in those areas where mass transit and not the private automobile is the likely method of transportation. This has sociological significance for areas that are being pushed into a public-transit lifestyle.

Personal precautions are widely practiced when in public. For instance, 53 percent of the sample said they dressed plainly to avoid drawing the attention of potential attackers. Among blacks, that figure was 78 percent.

Security measures are carried over into the home. The survey found that 52 percent said they protect their home by owning a gun.

Somewhat surprisingly, the manifested fear is not necessarily strongest in the East and Midwest, where deteriorating urban areas are most common. Small towns and rural areas are no longer considered by their inhabitats to be safe havens, if indeed they ever were. Precautions against crime were found to be used most in the South.

Reduction in crime, and correspondingly in fear, will come through better instruction in values than young people are getting today, combined with effective isolation of persistent felons. In the meantime, the taking of effective personal precautions is the unfortunate but most meaningful response that all of us can mount.

I don't know if I can put into words the condition of my house in January, but I'll try.

If Lawrence of Arabia and his camel fell down in the living room shag, no one would find them unless one of them gave birth.

"What's a nice girl like me doing in a dump like this?" I asked my husband.

"You weren't getting any younger and you panicked," he said dryly.

"If I could just buy something new it might motivate me to clean," I offered.

"Forget it."

I know. I could move things around. A lot of people rearrange furniture to relieve the boredom."

"Not the plumbing in the bathroom again," he cautioned.

Yesterday, I ushered him into the living room and said proudly, "Does this look like the same room?"

"I don't believe it," he said.

"Actually, I used a couple of cushions I had around the house, bought some remnants of bright ribbon and made a basket-weave design out of them. The whole thing cost...are you ready? (He nodded numbly.) $3.46."

"It doesn't even look like the same sofa," he said.

"It isn't," I said. "The ribbon only came in pink which didn't do a thing for our royal blue sofa. I had it covered."

"And the chairs? You had them covered too?"

"You're teasing. Have those chairs covered? They weren't the style of chairs you'd put with satin ribboned cushions. That's like wearing a WIN button on your original Dior gown. These are new."

He paled.

"Watch the walls," I said. "They may still be a little wet. Actually they'll dry a little darker and will match the new carpet perfectly."

"Who would have thought two little pillows could have made such a difference?" he said weakly.

"Now that you mention it," I said, cocking my head critically, "the pillows do look a little tacky in this elegant room. They look like something I made out of remnants. Would it be all right with you if I bought two little ole pillows to brighten up this room?"

NEW YORK (AP) — The challenge to the President-elect is to supply more with less, which isn't impossible, according to the bible and a few businesses but which has generally been classfied under miracles.

He must lower the budget deficit, a self-imposed challenge, while (1) watching inflation raise government expenses, (2) dealing with a federal bureaucracy that knows only how to grow and (3) cutting taxes.

While doing this he must deal with a federal debt that is certain to exceed $1 trillion during the next year or two, if only because the government must raise more debt just to pay interest on old debts.

In the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, that interest expense amounted to nearly $75 billion, which gives you some idea of the size of the problem. And if rates don't drop soon, the problem will grow worse.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for every constituency in America have been applying pressure to keep their favorite spending program alive, even if the goal of their spending and efforts has ceased to have meaning.

This is a large order for any president to deal with, but Ronald Reagan has assured the public he will cut their taxes at the same time. In fact, David Stockman, slated to be his director of the Office of Management and Budget, says a tax cut is essential to budget balance.

What this amounts to, therefore, is the quintessential "shrink" challenge, a term that many businessmen understand. It means the challenge of running an operation profitably while shrinking the size of the operation and otherwise dealing with an adverse set of factors.

It is a challenge before which otherwise able business chieftans have failed, especially in the past few years of almost chronic recession threats. Executives who can expand a company are common; those who can shrink them are rare. Those skills aren't taught in business schools.

Nor in the school of politics either. In fact, politics has been a success for many elected officials precisely because they promised expansion, and delivered it in the form of government services.

For the Reagan forces to achieve their goal of budget balance will obviously take a lot of faith and guts. It means angry constituents, and probably even worse inflation before the goal is reached.

Most likely it will also mean, of all things, more budget deficits — for fiscal 1981 and fiscal 1982, which begins next October. Stockman estimates the 1981 deficit at $60 billion. Wharton Forecasting believes the 1982 deficit will be about $80 billion, which would be a record.

Sometime after that, the shaving of spending, the lowering of inflation, and the spurring of the economy through tax cuts will have more impact. Revenues will rise in relation to expenditures.

Or so the script says.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— A federal program with a long and distinguished tradition of impartiality, integrity and objectivity is in danger of being corrupted by the parochial demands of assorted ethnic groups and local politicians.

The government program is the decennial census of population. The 1980 enumeration currently is the target of at least two dozen legal challenges initiated by those who fear that the results will deprive them of future federal benefits.

Even the Census Bureau admits that the population count produces inprecise results, but mere mortals probably can't come much closer to perfection when attempting to enumerate more than 200 million people who can be irascible, unpredictable and uncooperative when asked personal questions.

But the solution does not lie in compounding the problems. The adjustments sought by the challengers are likely to produce additional short-term distortions in the 1980 results and could lead to irrevocable long-term corruption of the census system itself.

Most of the complaints are coming from entirely predictable sources — the Eastern and Midwestern cities, counties and states that suffered major population losses during the past decade as their former residents migrated to the Sunbelt.

Of the 10 cities that have filed civil suits disputing census procedures, only three — Denver, Atlanta and Miami — are in the South or West. The others are Philadelphia, New York, Detroit, Baltimore, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Newark.

In many of those cases and in other lawsuits, the challengers base much of their case upon allegations that the Census Bureau failed to fully count Hispanics, blacks and members of other minority groups.

Some blunt analysis is in order here: It's no secret that residents of the nation's racial ghettos have been known to purposely ignore the doorbell if they fear that the person seeking admittance is "the man" — an official carrying a judicial subpoena, search warrant, overdue bill, court order or other form of unwelcome news.

As a result, it's hard to take seriously the belated complaints about "undercounts" of people who were, literally or figuratively, hiding under the bed when they had an opportunity to be included in the population count.

Even if the Census Bureau attempted to satisfy those demands, the statistical and demographic techniques required to make the necessary revisions are of questionable efficacy because they are at the very frontier of the state of the art.

Responding to shaky assumptions and speculative estimates by resorting to synthetic adjustments and artificial revisions will not necessarily produce more accurate totals.

Indeed, there is a good chance that such an approach would unnecessarily distort the final count, the Census Bureau notes in offering two compelling arguments:

— "Regardless of the adjustment procedure used, there is currently no adequate methodology for measuring the quality of the adjusted figures."

— "No currently available adjustment procedure will provide more accurate numbers than the actual counts for all units of governments."

The potential "ripple effect" also poses problems. If the Census Bureau meets the demands of Massachusetts and New York, both of which have filed civil suits, can Michigan and New Jersey be far behind? If changes are made in the counts of blacks and Hispanics, how many other groups will make self-serving demands for their own adjustments?

Adjustments also will lead to at least two conflicting sets of "official" population figures. Those different sets of data will contain internal inconsistencies and will be incompatible with earlier unadjusted decennial censuses.

Finally, there are the long-range problems. If the current challenges are successful, the independence of the Census Buran will have been compromised through political pressure and legal maneuvering, thereby diminishing public confidence in the process during future decades.

gambling crackdown in dallas

DALLAS (AP) — If you want to wager a little money on the Jan. 25 Super Bowl, a special police task force is betting you won't do it in Dallas.

"Dallas is a great sports city and because of that, there's a great deal of interest in major league sports clubs and consequently, there's a lot of gambling activity going on," says task force Sgt. John T. Williams.

The task force is designed to put a dent in pre-Super Bowl gambling activity, which officials say topped $50 million dollars in Dallas when the Cowboys played Denver in Super Bowl XII.

In raids last weekend, police confiscated more than $17,000, gambling paraphernalia and almost 400 capsules of amphetamines, as well as arresting five men.

The arrests brought to 15 the number of major gambling arrests made during the task force's four-month investigation.

"These are not your guys sitting in a bar taking a few bets," says Williams. "Most have professional setups, have been in business a long time, and several have been busted before."

The men were taking bets on Sunday's playoff games, the East-West Shrine game and several basketball matches, Williams said.

"We've got several arrest warrants on more people and anticipate more arrests," he says.

Calls from citizens were instrumental in making some of the arrests, he adds.

"I'm all the time getting calls from housewives who give me the name and telephone number of a bookie because her husband keeps betting with this person and they can't make the car payment or pay the rent," Williams says. "They usually won't identify themselves."

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Guard against a tendency to be too ambivalent today, both in business and in your dealings with people. Stay in the middle of the road.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Getting off to a sluggish start could create a series of problems for you today. Establish a solid agenda and try to do things by the clock.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone who promised to do something for you today could disappoint you by not taking his or her commitment seriously. Don't mimic their behavior in retaliation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In career situations today associates may not treat you the way you expect to be treated. Before sounding off, try to find out the real reasons for their acts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A great deal more time today is likely to be spent on figuring out how something should be done instead of rolling up your sleeves and getting to it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Situations controlled by others could create headaches for you today. All will come out OK in the long run, so treat what occurs philosophically.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You may find yourelf in a position today where you have to make a difficult decision. Decide on that which is most practical, not on what is most expedient.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Coworkers might be a trifle hard to get along with today, especially if you insist upon having the last word. A harmonious relationship is more important than a verbal victory.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't take any types of financial risks today which are greater than the returns you hope to get. Unless you are careful money-wise, a loss is likely.

Downing Speaks On Basics

Delbert Downing spoke on "Education In Today's World," at a recent meeting of The Scurry County Retired Teachers.

He stated that basics in education are becoming more and more important in the educational world and that too many young men and women are graduating from college with very little knowledge of basics.

He also said that student experiences are valuable but that knowledge of the basics are vital if education of tomorrow is going to move forward, which he feels it must , to cope with the rapid advancement of education in this modern world.

21 members and 1 guest attended the meeting. Hosting the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Glass, Mr. and Mrs. John Wiman and Ruth McBeth.

Laura Holladay, president, presided for a short business session. She gave a resume of the Nov. T.S.T.A. convention which was held in Big Spring.

Six club members attended the convention. They were: Ms. Holladay, Edna McCollum, Ruth McBeth, Ray Summers and Hugh Lowery.

Ms. Summers commended the organization in their recruitment campaign which netted five new members. The new members include Sallie Tate, Bess Johnson, Johnnie Weems, Phil Kelley and Elizabet Beavers.

Holladay also commended the club for its effort and encouraged them to continue recruiting.

Using red instead of white onion rings for dipping in batter and deep-frying will provide a good flavor and a color change.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Alan: "I was playing with a pupil recently. He sat South, ducked the first heart but won the continuation. Then he proceeded to take and lose the trump finesse."

Oswald: "So far, so good. I can also see where he went wrong."

Alan: "Right. East cashed the king of hearts and led a diamond. My pupil finessed and the defense had four tricks and a plus score. Later on he drew trumps, took the club finesse and made the rest of the tricks."

Oswald: "He had too much strength. Without the queen of diamonds he would have gone right up with the ace. Then with the club finesse working he would have been able to discard his losing diamond on dummy's fourth club and make his contract."

Alan: "It took a lot of effort on my part to explain why he should have refused that diamond finesse. He said that I had taught him to finesse and that if East had held both minor suit kings, failure to take the diamond finesse would have cost him a trick."

Oswald: "Like the mountain climber who climbed the mountain because it was there. He took the finesse because it was there."

Alan: "Exactly. I finally showed him that taking the diamond finesse could cost him 720 points while refusing it could never cost him more than 100 points."

Predicting Farm Loans Easier To Get In 1981

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department experts predict operating loans will be more readily available to farmers this year, with lower average interest rates than in 1980.

The latest "Agricultural Outlook" report by the department's Economics and Statistics Service said 1980 was "a year of unprecedented extremes" in all financial markets. The prime interest rate — the interest major urban banks charge to their best customers — soared to 20 percent last April but then dropped rapidly, hitting 13 percent only 11 weeks later.

"Both the timing and the magnitude of this increase hit farmers particularly hard," the report said. "The interest rate peak coincided with crop producers' planting season and with the beginning of livestock producers' herd rebuilding efforts following several years of poor income."

The prime interest rate rose again this winter to 21.5 percent last month, but recently has begun to recede.

The report said interest rates in general may cool off a bit before farmers' seasonal credit needs increase in the spring.

"A repeat of last spring's regional credit shortages is extremely unlikely, given the improved liquidity of agricultural banks, the better outlook for farm income and the anticipated lower interest rates," the report said.

On other aspects of farming, the report said:

Machinery

Despite a 12 percent to 14 percent increase in prices, farm equipment sales are likely to rebound sharply in 1981, perhaps reaching 1979 levels.

Net farm income is on the rise, and farmers who had good crops and favorable prices in 1980 will be in the market for equipment.

Farm equipment dealers have been offering a variety of sales incentives: waivers of interest until March 1981, rebates on new equipment and issues of scrip that can be used for parts and service.

Energy

Prices probably will increase more than other farm production expenses in 1981.

"Because of domestic price decontrol, probable increases in foreign petroleum prices and other factors, farm prices for fuel and energy can be expected to increase about 20 percent from 1980 levels," the report said.

Pesticides

Supplies will be adequate in 1981, but prices are expected to rise about as much as they did last year. Manufacturers' prices to distributors are forecast to go up an average of 10 percent.

Texas Lawmakers Face Long List Of Problems

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas' lawmakers meet in their 67th regular session Tuesday to consider a long list of problems brought on by a rapidly growing and shifting population.

Threats of a tax revolt linger in the background as the senators and representatives try to ease the bite of inflation and mounting government costs.

The 140-day lawmaking session must end at midnight June 1, although Gov. Bill Clements, the state's first Republican governor this century, could call one, or more, special 30-day sessions.

The Legislature remains predominantly Democratic although Republicans show small gains in both the House and Senate.

The political feeling remains mostly conservativem particularly in the Senate.

Furthermore, the session will be the testing ground for Clements' expected plans for a re-election campaign in 1982, and any Democratic wanting to run against him.

Gavels rap in both the Senate and House chambers at noon Tuesday for the formal opening.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby will preside in the Senate where there are now seven Republicans, two more than the 1979 session.

Secretary of State George Strake will call the House to order and swear in the 150 representatives, which include 36 Republicans, 10 more than last time.

First order of House business will be the election of a speaker, with Rep. Bill Clayton, Springlake Democrat, expected to gain his fourth term easily. Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, will be nominated as an opponent but admittedly does not have enough votes to best Clayton.

Clayton told a news conference last week he would not be adverse to still a fifth term as speaker in 1982. Prior to his Houston federal court trial on federal corruption charges, where he was acquitted, Clayton had been considered a possible gubernatorial candidate in 1982.

Housekeeping duties, such as hiring employees and setting expense account limits, will occupy both house the rest of Tuesday and Wednesday.

Both Houses are expected to adjourn on Thursday until the following Monday.

Before the formal opening Tuesday, senators will hold a closed-door caucus to elect their president pro tempore or assistant presiding officer for the session. A number of senators whose seniority date back to the 1973 session are eligible for the mostly-honorary job, but Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, is expected to be picked.

House action on an election contest involving Rep.-elect Alan Schoolcraft, R-San Antonio, and the current Rep. Al Brown, D-San Antonio, has been delayed for maybe a week. The House committee investigating Brown's claims that many illegal ballots were cast has not completed its report and recommendations. The election canvass showed Schoolcraft winning by 1,038 votes.

Dear Abby

'Fast' Teen-Agers Need Some Slowing Down

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: With all the homosexuals coming out of the closet today, I guess I should have been grateful when our son announced that he has a girlfriend. However, I was totally unprepared when he told me that his girlfriend's mother had put her on the pill so there wouldn't be any "mistakes"! She is 16, and our son just turned 17.

Now he tells me that his girlfriend's dad is going away for a few weeks (her parents are divorced), and she will have the key to his apartment!

Abby, when I was a teen, I was no angel, but isn't this moving a little fast?

They are both juniors in high school. Our son has had some experience with girls, but nothing like this. He has asked for my advice, so I am requesting a copy of your Teen Booklet. I understand it has all the facts in plain language. They seem so young. I hope it helps.

SMALL TOWN, ILLINOIS

DEAR SMALL TOWN: I hope so, too. Today, children are sexually active at a much earlier age than their parents were, so juniors in high school are not too young to know the facts. Better to have the facts and not need them, than to need the facts and not have them. (Write to: Abby, Teen Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $2 plus a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope.)

DEAR ABBY: I have subscribed to a theater guild since 1935. For the last four seasons I have had a laughing hyena seated beside me, and she spoils my theater!

Is there any way I can ask her to please tone down her annoying laugh? Those seated in front of her have given up, and no longer turn around to show their annoyance.

I've had this seat on the aisle and near the stage for 10 years, so I don't want to ask for a change of seat. What do you suggest?

IRKED IN CHICAGO

DEAR IRKED: You could ask her to please try to tone down her laughter. But because laughter is spontaneous and not easily controlled, it probably wouldn't help.

As a subscriber for 45 years, you should be entitled to change your seat to one equally desirable. Request it, and state your reason. And if the management won't move you, it may move the "hyena."

DEAR ABBY: With regard to the 15½-year-old boy who was accused of being the father of a child expected by a 30-year-old divorcee, I submit the following excerpt from the Idaho Code:

"Any person who shall willfully and lewdly commit any lewd or lascivious act or acts upon or with the body or any part or member thereof of a minor or child under the age of 16 years, with the intent of arousing, appealing to, or gratifying the lust or passions or sexual desires of such person or of such minor child, shall be guilty of a felony and shall be imprisoned in the state prison for a term of not more than life."

Our caseload involving children who are being molested by adults is increasing continually. Idaho law regards any person under the age of 16 years a "child." You said the boy needed a lawyer. I submit that the expectant mother is in need of a lawyer also.

SECRETARY TO A PROSECUTOR

DEAR SECRETARY: Right on. In legal matters, everyone involved needs a lawyer.

Losing 51 pounds brought Debbie Hamilton out of hiding.

Extra pounds can be a heavy weight on your personality. Debbie Hamilton knows. When she weighed 180 pounds, she found herself avoiding her friends out of sheer embarrassment.

"I was so self-conscious," she says, "that I began to hide in the corner at parties, dreading conversation because I just knew someone would make a remark about my weight."

Yet she couldn't seem to do much about dieting. Strict diets were too difficult. Even her doctor's warning that she had to lose weight to lower her blood pressure didn't push her to succeed at reducing. Then something exciting happened.

The Pat Walker's program: a real discovery

By chance, Debbie Hamilton took a job at a Pat Walker's Salon. It was her introduction to the unique Pat Walker's program of sensible diet combined with effective passive exercise.

Before long, she was a part of the program, too. Learning to eat the right amounts and combinations of foods. Spending a relaxing half hour or so 2 or 3 times a week on the Symmetricon passive exercise unit, as it toned and tightened flabby areas.

Personal attention and complete privacy

Debbie found that every Pat Walker's patron is given the individual attention she wants and deserves. There are no classes of a dozen women sweating through rigorous exercises or listening to cheerless pep talks. Trained professional counselors help you keep track of every step of your personal program—encouraging you, guiding you.

At Pat Walker's, privacy is your privilege. Each exercise unit is in a private room, and you don't have to wear a leotard to use it. Street clothes are fine. (Isn't the thought of no-sweat exercise refreshing?)

Debbie Hamilton thrived on her new lifestyle. The pounds disappeared at an average rate of one a week. From a tight size 14, her dress size slipped to a chic 8. Fifty-one pounds and 61 inches later, her weight was delightfully right for her 5 feet 8 inches.

"I even had to buy new shoes," she laughs. "My feet were a whole size smaller!"

Pat Walker's works for you

Debbie Hamilton has come a long way with Pat Walker's. In fact, Pat Walker's is her career now. She sees success stories like hers every day, and she's happy to tell newcomers her own story. "Using the Pat Walker's principles, I've maintained my new figure. . . and you wouldn't believe the energy I have. Now, when I go to a party, I'm in the middle of things. No more corners for me!"

You don't have to work at Pat Walker's to have the program work for you. Let a Pat Walker's consultant explain how you can turn your own weight problems into a success story.

We'll treat you like the special person you are, in the privacy of our luxurious salons.

Call today to reserve a time for your complimentary treatment and figure analysis. There's no obligation.

Tech Raps Aggies; Cougars Nail Horns

by The Associated Press

Nobody expected Texas A&M and Texas to be tied for the cellar with 0-3 records at this stage of the Southwest Conference basketball race.

But that's where they are.

Texas Tech shot 71 percent in the second half Saturday, after going into a full-court press, and overcame a 10-point deficit to beat the Aggies 72-70.

And surprising Houston staked a spot all alone atop the SWC standings by riding the 40 points of Rob Williams, the league's leading scorer, to a runaway 91-71 victory over Texas.

"It's our first win in the Super Drum, and that's about as big as you can get, but there's a long way to go and we're thankful for where we are," Houston coach Guy Lewis said.

The win was Houston's 600th and broke a six-game losing streak to Texas. The Cougars, after losing their first two games of the season, now have won 11 straight and are 3-0 in league play for the first time ever.

Arkansas also won Saturday, drubbing Texas Christian 85-51 to raise its record to 11-2 and 2-0. Baylor's defense held Southern Methodist to its lowest point total in 22 years in a 51-46 victory that made the Bears 2-0 in league play, a half game behind Houston.

Rice got 33 points from Ricky Pierce and beat Texas Wesleyan 82-61 in a non-conference game Saturday.

Texas A&M, defending SWC champs and heavily favored in pre-season polls to repeat, barged into the national rankings by winning its first seven games. But the Aggies now have lost five straight, including consecutive SWC defeats at the hands of TCU, Baylor and Tech.

Montgomery Goes Wild As...

Eagles Man-Handle Cowboys, 20-7

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — There is no logical explanation for it, but the Philadelphia Eagles are on their way to the Super Bowl.

Thank you, Wilbert Montgomery.

In a season pockmarked with disabling injuries that sat him down for all or part of seven games, Montgomery erased the memories of all the aches and pains Sunday.

He slashed his way to 194 yards and led the Eagles to a 20-7 National Football Conference championship victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

Here were the Eagles, bruised and battered, playing for the championship for the first time against the playoff-toughened Dallas Cowboys. Philadelphia had looked ragged a week ago against weak-sister Minnesota. Dallas looked brilliant against tough Atlanta.

The Cowboys were favored and it seemed no one believed in the Eagles - except themselves.

All week long, Coach Dick Vermeil expressed concern about the mental condition of his team. He said he could not read it. But on Saturday, he thought he saw a breakthrough.

"I thought last night you could sense an air of confidence that we could win," said Vermeil. "Today, I felt that the squad just knew it could win. And when you have that kind of confidence and belief..."

The confidence got a big boost early. On Philadelphia's second play from scrimmage, Montgomery slashed his way 42 yards to a touchdown.

"The play was designed to go through left guard and tackle," he said. "I cut it back to the right and I had a great hole. It's the kind of play you read on the run. The quarterback gives you the ball deep enough to make your move. My first thought was to cut it back."

Montgomery, who later ripped off 55 yards with an almost identical play, said his runs Sunday were a throwback to his college days at Abilene Christian.

"That's the kind of cutting, slashing runner I was in college," he said. "That was my style of running in college. I was more of a cutting, slashing runner there. But my first year in the NFL, I was so scared of Dick Vermeil because he was so demanding and he didn't believe in my kind of fancy running.

"And, I'm a lot stronger runner, now."

Dallas came back to tie the score with a 68-yard 10-play drive in the second quarter. It was the only time all day the Cowboy offense was able to move the Eagle defenders.

Before halftime, Philadelphia had an apparent touchdown nullified by a penalty and two field goal attempts misfire. The score was still 7-7 but the Eagles had lost so many opportunities that it only seemed a matter of time before Dallas would catch up with them.

The Cowboys, however, never did.

"We had a good chance to win the game at halftime," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry, "and going into the third quarter, I thought we would win. We just had to play well and avoid turnovers, but we didn't."

Halfway through the period, Dallas quarterback Danny White was sacked by Carl Hairston and coughed up the football. Dennis Harrison recovered at the Dallas 11 and Tony Franklin kicked a 26-yard field goal for a 10-7 lead.

On Dallas' next series, Tony Dorsett fumbled and Jerry Robinson recovered for Philadelphia, giving the Eagles the ball at the Cowboy 38. Montgomery ripped off 11 yards on three carries, Leroy Harris went for 12 and a pass from Ron Jaworski to Rodney Parker went for six more. Then Harris carried for the final nine and a touchdown.

Suddenly, it was 17-7. But the fourth quarter was still ahead and Dallas' comeback tradition was on the minds of most of the Eagles. Except for linebacker Bill Bergey.

"It was never in doubt," he roard, hugging his 5-year-old son, Jake.

Plunkett Leads Raiders As...

San Diego Out-Charged

SAN DIEGO (AP)--It was, for the most part, the defense which got Jim Plunkett and the rest of the Oakland Raiders as far as the American Conference championship game.

So perhaps it was fitting that Plunkett took the opportunity early Sunday to say to the defense: "Thanks, guys. Take a break."

For a moment, it seemed as though they were taking Plunkett at his word, relaxing a bit too much. For a moment, it seemed that for every bolt of lightning thrown at San Diego, the Chargers would throw one back.

But if the Oakland defense bends a lot, it rarely breaks. And after an instant of agonizing miscalculation, it settled down, bent here and there, gave up points here and there - and held together.

"Our offense did the job in the first half and gave us a nice cushion," linebacker Ted Hendricks said after the Raiders blew out to a 28-7 lead, held on for a 34-27 victory and rolled into the Super Bowl against Philadelphia.

For the most part, it was Plunkett who gave them that cushion. The Raiders' 21-point burst tied the record for the most points by one team in an AFC title game (actually it matched what San Diego did to Boston in the 1963 American Football League championship). Plunkett threw touchdown passes covering 65 yards to Raymond Chester on a deflection and 21 yards to Kenny King and, in between, ran 5 yards for another score when the Chargers covered his receivers.

The first pass of the game went to King. It traveled 5 yards to the Oakland 40, ricocheted off his hands for 10 yards to Chester at midfield and was carried the rest of the way to the end zone by the surprised Oakland tight end.

"I couldn't see the ball when it got to Kenny, but it caromed up and into my hands," said Chester. "Let's face it; a catch like that is just luck."

Luck or not, Plunkett went to the sideline shaking his head. "I thought, 'If this is any indication for the day, here we go.'"

Dan Fouts' first pass on San Diego's first play was no less electrifying - 55 yards to Ron Smith to the Oakland 28. Four plays later the ball was on the 14. Then Lester Hayes, who had intercepted 13 regular-season passes and four more in the previous two playoff games, got No. 5.

End of Chargers' threat No.1.

No.2 took just two plays to materialize - Fouts' 12-yard pass to Charlie Joiner to the Oakland 48 and the bomb to Joiner in the end zone.

If Fouts could throw for 48 yards, so could Plunkett. He did, to Cliff Branch on a third-and-19 at the Oakland 15. Four plays and two penalties later (including a pass interference call against cornerback Ray Preston worth 21 yards) Plunkett was in the end zone with a hook slide.

And barely two minutes later, with 1:35 to go in the opening quarter, the Raiders were in the end zone again on Plunkett's rocket to King, who had beaten Preston easily.

It went to 28-7 when, seven plays after Hendricks recovered Mike Thomas' fumble, Mark vanEeghen picked up three of his game-high 85 yards on a touchdown run through a cavernous hole on the right side.

"You can't spot a team like Oakland that many points," said Glen Edwards, San Diego's free safety. "You can't fall that far behind and expect to catch up all that easily."

But they nearly did. Fouts found Joiner again on an 8-yard TD pass just before halftime, then Rolf Benirschke kicked a 26-yard field goal and Chuck Muncie swept 6 yards for a touchdown in the third period and suddenly Oakland's lead was down to 28-24.

"I had a good feeling then," said Don Coryell, the Chargers' coach. "When we came back like that, it meant just one more good play, one more turnover, and a touchdown would put us in the lead."

It never happened. Chris Bahr kicked a 27-yard field goal as the third quarter drew to a close and a 33-yarder early in the fourth period.

When Benirschke kicked a 27-yarder of his own with 6:52 to play, the spread was seven points again. One more shot and Fouts' howitzer arm could tie it.

He never got it. With 6:43 to play, the Raiders started on their own 25. "We knew what we had to do, just get a few first downs at least, so Ray Guy could pin them in a hole," said vanEeghen.

Snyder Makes Changes In District 2-4A Race

Snyder's Tigers may have taken it upon themselves to sort out District 2-AAAA. First though, they'll have to mess it up a little.

The Tigers, on a four-game winning streak, were one of five teams with a single district loss last week. Coach George Byerly's crew put Lamesa in that group with a 48-47 win Tuesday, then knocked Fort Stockton out with a 59-54 victory Friday. Now they'll go after loop leader Sweetwater, boasting a 4-0 mark.

Odessa Ector also aided the cause last Tuesday by upsetting conference favorite Andrews.

All of the hit-and-run action leaves the district in the following shape going into Tuesday's 8 p.m. ballgames: Sweetwater leads at 4-0, with Snyder and Odessa Ector at 3-1, Lamesa and Andrews at 2-1 and Fort Stockton at 2-2. Monahans and Pecos are next in line with 0-3 marks, while Lake View is 0-4.

The standings figure to change drastically tomorrow as Sweetwater travels to Snyder and Andrews hosts Lamesa. In other games, Monahans treks to Odessa Ector and Pecos buses to Fort Stockton. Lake View is idle.

Snyder is 7-12 on the season while Sweetwater is 11-9. The pair met earlier this season in the Canyon Reef Tournament with the Mustangs taking a 36-35 win.

Girls play around the loop is less complicated and comes down to two games Tuesday, Snyder at Sweetwater and Odessa Ector at Monahans.

Monahans leads the first-round with a 7-0 record going into the final game, while Snyder is in sole possession of second place at 6-1. The Loboettes can clinch a first-half title by defeating the hot-and-cold Eaglettes at home.

Snyder is in line to tie for the crown if the Felines defeat Sweetwater in Sweetwater and Monahans loses to Ector.

Other girls games stage Andrews at Lamesa and Fort Stockton at Pecos. Lake View's girls are idle.

Snyder's girls are 9-7 on the season and have won six straight games. Sweetwater, one of the loop favorites earlier, has lost four in a row and is 4-3 in conference play.

Game times Tuesday are 6:15 for junior varsity tilts and 8 for the varsities, around the league. Tickets district-wide are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Cats Tumble In Tournament

COAHOMA--Snyder underclassmen dropped a pair of cage contests here Saturday in the finals of the Coahoma Tournament.

Snyder sophomores fell to Coahoma JV in the junior varsity championship match, 47-41, and Snyder freshmen fell to Stanton, 59-43, in another title confrontation.

The Cat freshmen will vie again tonight, taking on Big Spring in SHS Gym at 5:30. Snyder sophomores travel to Odessa Jan. 16 for a 4:15 game with Odessa High.

All-tournament selections Whit Parks and David Miller hit for 17 and 8 points respectively as Snyder sophomores fell short in their bid to knock off undefeated Coahoma JV. Snyder hit only 13 of 27 free throw attempts, 7 of 18 in the second half, which Coach Jim Carson termed as the "difference in the ballgame".

Marcus McGloughlin scored 15 and Daniel Salazar hit 19 for Snyder freshmen.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Miller broke a tie with a 71st hole birdie and, with a final-round 65, won the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open Golf Tournament, the kickoff tourney on the PGA tour.

Miller acquired his fourth Tucson title with a 265 total, 15 strokes under par and two better than runner-up Lon Hinkle.

DePaul Falls; Irish Do Too

by The Associated Press

Oregon State, 12-0, Virginia, 11-0, and Wake Forest, 10-0 remain as the only undefeated and ranked major college basketball teams as No. 1 rated DePaul was upset 63-62 by Old Dominion on Saturday.

Oregon State, ranked No. 2, swamped Califorina 80-53 to be in line to take over the top spot. The third-ranked Virginia Cavaliers will also draw support after dispensing with 16th-rated North Carolina, 63-57.

Joining DePaul as upset victims were fifth ranked Notre Dame, No. 7 UCLA and 12th-ranked Illinois. Marquette upended Notre Dame in Milwaukee, 54-52; Southern Cal edged UCLA 68-66 at Pauley Pavilion, and Illinois dropped a 78-61 decision at Indiana.

In the 1949 Cotton Bowl, Kyle Rote played for Southern Methodist and in the same bowl game one year later his first cousin, Tobin Rote, played for Rice.

Teal Named MVP As...

Dusters Edge Amarillo

TONKAWA--Joe Cushing's Dusters rallied from a 14-point deficit to oust rival Amarillo College 71-70 in non-conference tournament action here Saturday.

The victory, which puts Western Texas at 16-4 on the season and earned third place in the Northern Oklahoma Tournament, was keyed by an off-the-bench performance by Joy Guyton and solid showings by Stella Bickley, Linda Holubec and the tourney's Most Valuable Player, Shari Teal.

The Dusters were down 35-28 at halftime but slipped behind by 14 points early in the period.

"We came out and changed to a 1-3-1 in the second half," recalled Coach Cushing. "We got out of that in a hurry. In two minutes, Amarillo was 14 points up on us. So we changed to a 2-3 zone and did a real good job of cutting off their inside people."

Cushing brought in Guyton off the bench, and the 5-8 freshman hit for four straight points as Western Texas scored 12 unanswered to trim Amarillo's lead to two. Guyton's performance ignited the team, which got good support from Holubec, and held close to the Badgers the rest of the way.

The lead changed hands four times in the final minute before Amarillo's Marcy Dale went to the line with 19 seconds left. She hit the first free throw to tie the score and Cushing called time out.

"I told them we did not want to work it in, we wanted to score quickly and put the pressure on Amarillo to score the last point," said Cushing. "What I said must have made an impression because we scored about as quickly as you can score."

Dale made the second shot to put Amarillo ahead, but the Dusters came back as Bickley passed to Cindy Maddox and Maddox found Holubec, who ripped the net on a 20-footer with 12 ticks left.

WTC then put pressure on the Badgers' outside shooters, and when Dorteea Ramaekers' shot with three seconds failed to go, Valerie Wells was in position for the rebound. Jessica Wiley knocked it out of the freshman's hands and went up for shot, but the buzzer rang before she could release the ball. Teal made sure of the victory anyway, by blocking the futile attempt.

Holubec's 22 points and nine seven rebounds led the effort. Teal, who hit for 34 points in the tourney opener, scored 11 and had 8 rebounds, and Maddox and Wells added 10 each. Guyton hit for 8 points and Bickley added 7. Bickley added three steals, nine assists and two blocked shots; and Wells had 9 rebounds, three steals and two blocked shots.

Olivia Jones paced the Badgers with 24 points. Dale had 18, and Mitzi Marquart added 10.

Host Northern Oklahoma won the meet with a 62-59 victory over Moberly, Mo. Cloud County, Kan., won consolation and Garland, Ark., won seventh place.

"All the girls learned a valuable lesson," said Cushing. "It was a real good, tough tournament for them. There were no poor teams in this tournament."

Cushing praised the efforts of the entire team, especially Guyton, Bickley, Houlbec and Teal.

The Dusters resume conference play Saturday, hosting Clarendon College at 6 in Scurry County Coliseum. WTC's Westerners host the Bulldogs at 8.

Dusters (71)-- Maddox 5-16, 0-0, 3 10; Bickley 3-6, 1-2, 2 7; Houlbec 11-18, 0-0, 3 22; Wells 4-7, 2-2, 1 10; Guyton 4-7, 0-2, 0 8; Anderson 0-0, 1-2, 3 1; Watson 0-2, 2-2, 0 2; Teal 4-7, 0-2, 0 8; Totals 31-64, 9-14, 14, 71.

Amarillo (70)-- Marquart 5-15, 0-0, 1 10; Wiley 2-12, 2-2, 4 8; Olivia Jones 12-23, 0-0, 1 24; Dale 7-12, 4-5, 4 18; Kocurek 2-4, 0-0, 2 4; Ramaekers 1-7, 0 1 2; Totals 31-76, 8-11, 13 70.

Class To Explore History Of Texas

Texas has a fascinating and unique history, says Dr. Franklin Pruitt, and he will be exploring this history with students in an evening course scheduled for the spring semester at Western Texas College.

Texas history closely parallels that of the United States, Pruitt points out. Each had its period of exploration and colonization, and a revolution fought to gain independence. Each also had its westward movement and period of industrialization.

History 233 will meet from 6:30-9:20 p.m. on Tuesdays. This is the first time Texas history has been offered at WTC recently and students wishing further information about its content are invited to contact the instructor for details.

Spring semester registration is set for Jan. 19-20, with classes starting Jan. 21.

Insured Vets To Share Dividend

In Texas, 197,061 insureds will receive $31,788,000, said E. H. (Dan) Dever, Scurry County Veterans Service Officer.

About one third of the living world War II veterans, or 3,231,387 policy holders, will share in the $544.4 million dividend.

Cough is a symptom

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother has had a cough for the past two weeks. At first I just thought she had a cold but it seems to be hanging on longer than I think it should. She doesn't seem to have a fever. She doesn't seem to be sick in any other way. She doesn't smoke so it is not a cigarette cough. I was wondering if I should take her to a doctor or not since she doesn't have a fever. The cough medicines that I have bought for her don't seem to have helped much.

DEAR READER — By all means take your mother to a doctor. People tend to forget that a cough is a symptom and there are a lot of other things besides a cold that can cause a cough. Let me give you one example, heart failure. If the left side of the heart begins to fail, it may cause fluid to accumulate in the lungs. This can cause shortness of breath and a cough. Sometimes the problem is thought to be pneumonia until a careful examination is done and the real cause of fluid in the lungs is discovered.

Still another cause is cancer. Fortunately, most people with a chronic cough have some other problem but it illustrates the serious problems that may underlie what seems to be a simple cough from a cold.

Many people are confused about when to see a doctor for a cough so I will repeat here the four basic rules included in The Health Letter number 8-10, Cough: How And When To Treat It. 1) If your temperature is over 102oF or if fever persists over three days — see your doctor; 2) If you have pain other than a mild headache or sore throat — see your doctor; 3) If you have excessive weakness or prostration — see your doctor; 4) If your cough is over 10 days duration, even if you feel fine — see your doctor. I'm sending you a copy of that issue. Others who want a copy can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Incidentally, not all coughs should be suppressed. It is sometimes beneficial to loosen up a cough and clear your airways.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 5-year-old son has had swollen lymph glands behind the ears, in the neck and now in the groin. I need to know more about this condition.

DEAR READER — The lymph glands are part of the lymphatic circulation. Lymph is a clear liquid and contains many lymph cells which are a variety of white blood cells important in fighting infections. The lymph circulates in tiny vessels similar to blood capillaries. This network is all over your body and eventually drains into the large veins near your heart.

The lymph vessels enter lymph glands. Here the lymph is filtered. Lymph cells are produced here, too. Infections are localized by trapping bacteria inside the lymph glands. Hence if you have an infection in your finger, the bacteria are apt to be trapped in the lymph nodes under your arm. So infections that result in increased action of lymph nodes or trapping germs cause them to enlarge and sometimes to be sore.

If there is generalized enlargement of nodes or the cause is not known then it is very important to have an examination. They can enlarge in some serious generalized diseases. Those in the neck often enlarge in response to simple sore throats, particularly in children.

Elderly Man Shoots Teen Intruder

LEVELLAND, Texas (AP) — An elderly West Texas man and his wife were hospitalized after the man, 71, shot and killed a 16-year-old boy who drove a stolen pickup into the living room of their home.

The driver, Arthur Adame of Levelland, was pronounced dead at Cook Memorial Hospital about 7:30 a.m. Sunday following the shooting, said police chief Ted Holder.

The bizarre incident took place shortly after 7 a.m. Sunday, Holder said, when a stolen pickup driven by the victim ran a stop sign, jumped a curb and crashed through a living room wall into the couple's home.

Holder, who refused to identify the couple, said the driver got out of the pickup and began assaulting the woman when she asked him if he needed help.

When the woman's husband entered the room, Holder said, the youth began attacking him. The man shot the teenager once in the chest with a .357 mangum pistol, the chief said.

Holder said Levelland Police and Hockley County deputies had pursued the pickup, stolen about three hours earlier in nearby Smye, on two occasions before the shooting but had not been able to catch it.

Holder said the woman was hospitalized for treatment of minor cuts and her husband was also admitted for observation following the shooting.
