Captain Of Liquor-Laden Canadian Schooner Slain By U. S. Coast Guard

FLEEING BOAT STRUCK OFF SANDY HOOK

Ottawa to Demand Full Investigation Of Slaying

$300,000 LOAD HELD

Officials Claim Craft Failed to Heed Warnings

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (US)—The captain of a Canadian rum-laden schooner was fatally wounded late Saturday night by a one-pound shell sent ploughing into its pilot house from a coast guard patrol boat in New York waters, it was disclosed today.

The shelling, according to coast guard officials, took place today within the 12-mile limit, four and one-half miles southeast of Ambrose lightship, and 10 miles off the beach at Sandy Hook. However, indication came swiftly from the seat of the Canadian government at Ottawa that full details will be demanded of Washington. The dead man was a Canadian citizen.

If there is any doubt that the killing occurred within the 12-mile limit, the case may become another irritating agency between the two governments like the celebrated I'm Alone, sunk by the coast guard in the Gulf of Mexico.

Dies at Wheel

At the same time, patrol boat No. 145, a 75-footer, captured the garbage scow Brooklyn at Newark, loaded with 1,200 cases of liquor, and the tug Dauntless No. 6 of Manhattan, which was towing the scow.

Officers of the patrol boat say the Canadian schooner, registered out of Digby, N. S., was tied up to the scow when the cutter came upon them between 10:30 and 11 o'clock Saturday night.

Archer, as the solution of the modern transportation problem. M. Archer would combine the two-railed railroad and the railless airplanes into a one rail right-of-way operated by electricity and suspended in the air from supports. The cars of this railway, in turn, are to be suspended from the rail.

Brady, Resigned, Awaits Arrival Of Prison Papers In Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Jan. 25. (AP)—John W. Brady, former Texas appeals court judge convicted of stabbing to death Miss Lehlia Highsmith, his young alleged paramour, came to state prison today ready to begin his three-year sentence, but could not be accepted because his commitment papers had not arrived.

The aged and once distinguished jurist arrived in Huntsville this morning with his wife and registered at a hotel. This afternoon he called on Prison Manager Lee Simmons and Warden W. W. Waid. He did not enter the prison proper, other than to sit for a time in the officials' offices.

Brady, who is in his 61st year, appeared determined to maintain a resigned attitude, Warden Waid said.

No Favors Asked

"He's sorry, of course," the warden went on. "But he didn't say anything about his regrets. He just said he was ready to serve his term—he was ready to go."

"He said he didn't want any special favors—that he had nothing to ask."

"What we will do with him yet, I don't know. There are three classes of workers—those capable of hard labor; those capable of average labor, and those able only to do little light jobs like working in the garden and things like that."

JOHN W. BRADY

What Brady's prison number would be also had not been determined.

Told that the papers had not arrived and that he could not be accepted in "the walls" as yet, he went back to the hotel with his wife to await tomorrow, when the documents are expected to arrive.

Mrs. Brady's demeanor while at the prison was much like that of her husband, Warden Waid said.

"She was trying to hold up, and doing a very good job. She wasn't saying anything much, and stayed with her husband. She didn't look back into the cells and neither did back into the cells and neither did he."

The wife had remained loyal to Brady throughout his two trials—the first in Austin and the second in Dallas—and never, so far as friends knew, had left him since the night in November 1929, when he was taken in custody after Miss Highsmith's death, save for the long period when he was in jail.

Two Trials

Brady's first trial was held in the very courtroom where he often had represented the state, first as a county prosecutor and later as an assistant attorney general. The jury there was discharged after remain-

OIL CAMPAIGN GAINS SUPPORT

Mounting Wave of Sympathy Is Reported

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (UP)—The economic struggle of American oil industries may reach its climax on the floors of congress in the next few weeks and the battle may be more spectacular than the unsuccessful oil tariff conflict of the Hawley-Smoot act.

Secretary Russell B. Brown, of the governors' oil relief conference, in a statement tonight, reported a "mounting wave" of popular support for protection of independent oil producers against import competition, evidenced by a flood of messages from constituents to members of congress demanding immediate action.

Measures of extreme importance to the petroleum trade have been written upon the senate calendar in the past few days. All reflect the powerful pressure brought by independent oil producers demanding legislative relief.

Bills Introduced

Bills have been introduced calling for an oil tariff. A resolution has been offered proposing one of the most sweeping government inquiries ever made into the oil business. And certain oil-state senators have threatened a filibuster to force an extra session of congress unless "oil relief" is granted.

The movement has gained so much momentum it is almost impossible for opponents to sidetrack the issue without causing marked controversy.

Behind the agitation is a quarrel between small and large oil companies whetted by oil field depressions, a glutted market, large oil imports and a policy of domestic conservation which the independent

(US)—The bodies of an elderly man and woman, found today in the wreckage of an automobile which had crashed over a grade near Torrey Pines, were identified tonight as those of Robert H. DEEP OIL

Small 'Show' Results In Bailing of Important KMA Test

A small show of oil was the result of bailing the sandy lime in the Deep Oil Development company No. 1 Munger, in block 30, Wichita Valley farm lands, in the K. M. A. area of Wichita county, late Saturday night. The well is considered the district's most important at this time.

Early last week it tested an upper lime at 3675-95 feet, showing the makings of a small well, but failed to suffice for a commercial producer. Drilling operations were resumed and at a depth of 3715 feet a saturated sandy lime was encountered and penetrated seven feet. This formation was tested and swabbed Saturday. Plans are under way to drill further into this formation.

TAX BILL UP AGAIN TODAY

Legislature Faces Heavy Third Week

AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (AP)—Having accomplished little during the first two weeks, the 42nd Texas legislature will re-convene tomorrow with the expectation of getting down to business and grinding out some much needed legislation.

The first item on the calendar is consideration by the house of the split tax payment bill. The senate last week passed a bill by Senator Oneal of Wichita Falls which would defer payment of one-half the 1930 taxes until June 30 without penalty, provided one-half was paid by Feb. 1. An amendment was added to the bill to give the county commissioners the option of requiring payment of all county taxes by Feb. 1.

The bill struck a snag in the house, however, when the revenue and taxation committee substituted a bill drawn by Representative Weinert of Seguin which would extend the time limit for payment of all taxes, county, state, school and levee improvement district, until Oct. 15. Persons failing to pay taxes by Feb. 1 would be charged 10 per cent interest but no penalty.

Governor Sterling has indicated he might not approve the Weinert plan. He said he believed postpone-

TRIPLE FIGHTS FACE CONGRESS

Troublous Week Looms For Hoover

By FRASER EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (US)—Triple trouble for President Hoover—prohibition, emergency food fund and cash bonus—will continue to boil in the caldron of congress this week.

And more trouble looms larger with each passing legislative day that brings an extra session nearer. For congress has only 33 working days until March 4 and not a single supply bill has reached the president for approval.

Administration leaders may strain at the collar to drag the legislative load over the finish line before time expires, but either they or the president have provided the balky ones with ample reason to hold back on the breeching and a "big stick" won't budge them.

A tactical error has been scored against administration leaders in the senate for making the Howell "home raid" bill the unfinished business of that body, largely because this was done coincidently with the issuance of the Wickersham report.

All this week, and probably for several weeks to come, the Howell bill will be used as a spring-board to launch attacks on the president's position on prohibition. This was evident today, when Senator Wheeler of Montana, issued a statement through the Democratic national committee.

"Will the country be kept in anxiety for another 15 or 16 months until the next Republican national convention to know where Mr. Hoover stands on this important and controversial subject?" asked Wheeler, in his statement which was obviously an organization effort to "smoke out" the president.

By agreeing to have the house appropriations committee to hold closed hearings on the $25,000,000 food fund for the Red Cross, the president has assumed responsibility for delay on that vital emergency measure, which is rapidly assuming a political aspect.

But no matter what the house does, there is every indication that Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, has his party lined up solidly behind him for the fund and enough Progressives to hold out to the point of forcing an extra session unless the president yields.

Bending to insistent demands, the

Daisy Uncertain About Appeal From Conviction

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25. (US)—Daisy DeVoe, determined but uncertain, will face Judge W. C. Doran again tomorrow to request at least another week in which to make up her mind.

In the course of that week she will decide whether to appeal from her conviction on a charge of diverting funds from her former employer, the red-headed Clara Bow, to herself or whether to throw herself upon the mercy of the court and plead for probation.

Miss DeVoe indicated today that she would, in all probability, appeal from her conviction on a charge of appropriating $825 from Miss Bow instead of seeking probation.

French See Success For Laval's Cabinet

PARIS, Jan. 25. (US)—The belief that success has crowned Senator Pierre Laval's over-night negotiations toward the formation of a cabinet to succeed the government of Theodore Steeg, overthrown Thursday, gained currency in the French capital tonight.

It is understood that Laval, going to the left center and center, has found sufficient support to untangle the republic's latest ministerial crisis—its second in six weeks. He is expected to announce the line-up of his ministry late tonight or early tomorrow morning.

Freedom Ordered for Gandhi And Comrades in Nationalism

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 25. (AP)—The unconditional release from prison of Mahatma Gandhi and other members of the Nationalist congress working committee was ordered today by the viceroy, Lord Irwin.

Although no time was set in the release order, it is expected to take effect by tomorrow evening. Gandhi, leader of the Nationalist movement, has been in jail at Poona since May 5.

The viceroy also issued an order establishing the lawfulness of congress working committee.

POONA, India, Jan. 25. (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi was frankly astonished today when informed the British government had ordered his unconditional release from prison.

The first news of the viceroy's act was conveyed to the famous Nationalist leader by the Associated Press correspondent through prison officials. They quoted him as saying he expected no such generous gesture on the part of the British.

Prison authorities said they had received no intimation of the viceroy's decision. As Gandhi had made it known previously, he will not accept even unconditional liberty unless all congress members and political prisoners are liberated with him. An extremely embarrassing situation may confront the officials if he definitely refuses to leave prison, it may be necessary for the local officials to oust him.

The wizened little Hindu leader has been in jail here since May 5 under an old ordinance which permits the interment of anyone ad-

FORT WORTH OFFICERS HOLD LOVING BANDIT

Youth Arrested in Fight Identified as Robber Of State Bank

PART OF LOOT HELD

Suspect's Pal Escapes As Policeman Struggles With Captive

FORT WORTH, Jan. 25. (AP)—A youth, 21, who was arrested here yesterday, was identified today as one of the two robbers who held up and robbed the Loving State bank at Loving, 14 miles from Graham, Thursday. Identification was made by H. G. Millican, cashier of the bank who faced the pistols of the two robbers.

D. F. Ford, president of the bank, identified the money taken from the suspect as part of that taken in the robbery.

The youth, who said his home was in Menard, was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Roy Hilts, when he stopped a mud-spattered coupe to question its two occupants. As the car stopped, the youth now under arrest stepped out with a pistol in his hand, and Hilts grappled with him.

The two wrestled, each unable to use a gun, and Hilts called upon a by-stander to aid, and after a few seconds, the by-stander, L. M. Smith, was able to secure the policeman's gun from its holster and subdue the suspect.

While this tussle was going on, the second man, still in the car, drove off. He has not been apprehended.

OFFICERS RECOVER LOOT FROM STORE

Approximately $1,000 in silks and various items of ladies ready-to-wear was recovered here Sunday afternoon when members of the police and sheriff's departments raided two residences here. The articles were said to have been shoplifted from the larger department stores here and from stores in Vernon.

Two women were arrested by Vernon police there Saturday night are being held in connection with the case. The Vernon officers recovered wearing apparel valued at $150.

The raids were conducted by Pat Allen, E. L. Kincaid and Tim Colligan of the sheriff's department, and Earle Brooks and Herbert Pogue of the city police department.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY TO FILE CHARGES TODAY

Charges against a man identified as the robber of the State bank of Loving, Young county, will be filed at Graham Monday, District Attorney Sam Spence told The Record News Sunday night. Mr. Spence said Sheriff Foster of Young county left Sunday for Fort Worth to take the man into custody. The prisoner will be returned to Graham, Mr. Spence said.

The district attorney also confirmed reports from Fort Worth telling of the identification of the man as the robber of the bank and of the recovery of a portion of the loot. Information had not been received of the amount of money recovered, Mr. Spence said. Identification of the money was made possible by certain marks on currency known only to officers of the bank, it was said.

Approximately $1,600 was seized by two bandits who surprised the Loving bank cashier about noon last Thursday and made their escape in a car found a few hours later abandoned in a pasture between Loving and Markley. Representatives of the Wichita Falls police department and the sheriff's department assisted in a search for the fugitives in Young county during Thursday and Friday.

Bandit Gets $50 At Gas Station

A lone bandit held up the Continental filling station at 301 Flood street early Sunday night and escaped with between $50 and $60.

The hijacker walked into the station and asked the attendant, C. F. Stott, who was seated at his desk, to use the telephone. As the man passed Stott he whipped out a gun and forced the attendant to open the cash register and give up the money. Stott was forced into the wash room and the robber made his escape. Tom Poe and Dick Webb, city plainclothes officers, investigated the circumstances surrounding the case.

Soviet to Employ 13,000 Foreign Technicians in Industrialization

Five-Year Program Calls for Experts Imported From U. S. And Europe

MOSCOW, Jan. 25. (AP)—The Soviet government will continue to look to the foreign specialist for the necessary technical skill in putting the five-year industrialization plan across.

Government officials estimated today that 13,000 additional foreign engineers, technicians and skilled workers would be needed in 1931 if the scheduled constructions is to be carried out.

At present there are more than 4,000 foreign specialists employed under individual contracts by the Soviet union in addition to the 2,000 or more employes of 124 large foreign companies having technical-aid contracts with the government.

Efforts to develop native talent by intensive training methods have met largely with failure. Technical schools generally cut their courses from three years to six months, with students working day and night in order to qualify in the various technical professions. But a majority of the students were found unable to stand the strain and large classes were reduced greatly before completion of the courses.

Of the 13,000 additional men needed in 1931, 3,000 are engineers, 3,000 foremen and 7,000 skilled workers. Europe is expected to supply about 2,600 of the engineers and the same number of foremen and about 5,000 skilled workers. The rest is expected to be obtained in America.

The unemployment situation in the rest of the world puts the Soviet union in a favorable position to work for less than in more prosperous times.

Practically all foreigners are under contract whereby they receive part of their salaries in the currencies of their countries and part in rubles. The government has been trying to do everything possible to make the foreign employes satisfied. Shops have been opened in the various industrial centers for foreigners only where they can buy food and other commodities at lower prices than in the open market.

Oil Campaign Gains Support

operators charge up as "restraint of trade" by their big brothers.

In view of their complaints, Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, has introduced a resolution directing an exhaustive investigation of the situation by a committee composed of five senators appointed by Vice President Charles Curtis. He said today he would press for its immediate consideration.

Also pending is a bill by Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, proposing a duty of $1 a barrel on imported foreign oil and an ad valorem tax on all by-products of such imports. Shortridge put the bill into the senate under the guise of controlling oil commerce. Ordinarily, revenue measures originate in the house.

Senators Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, and Capper, Republican, Kansas, also seek action on the tariff idea. Thomas said the "oil bloc" would hold out for their proposals even in the face of an extra session.

Nye's resolution, comprising three pages of detailed charges, directs a report on whether "any conspiracy or combination" exists in the oil industry and how it affects prices, production and profits.

Brown's statement said:

"Desperate as might seem the attempt to secure from congress in this crowded session so important a piece of legislation as the limitation of oil imports, the situation which impels this action is even more desperate. It involves not only employment of several millions of people, the practical guarantee of the payment of many millions of dollars to farmers owning oil lands and the preservation of the independent oil industry, but also the maintenance of a very important section of our national domestic market for every kind of manufactured goods, the stability of our banking institutions and, in brief, the whole of our national economic structure."

Canadian Slain By Coast Guard

searchlight stabbed through the darkness and revealed the liquor transfer operations, the Josephine K, slashed its lines and ran. The shooting followed after six warning shots had been fired, officials say.

Crews Held

Cluett, rushed to the U. S. marine hospital in Stapleton, S. I., in another coast guard cutter, died at 2 a. m., without regaining consciousness.

With armed guards aboard the tug, scow and schooner, under escort of three coast guard cutters, were anchored off the Red Hook flats, Brooklyn. None was permitted to board. Capt. Mario Laudi and three men aboard the scow, Capt. John Ambrose and seven men aboard the tug, and eight men aboard the Josephine K were being held incommunicado.

Tomorrow morning a board of inquiry will be instituted by the coast guard consisting of three officers.

The name of the commander of the 145 was withheld at base section No. 2, Stapleton, L. I., on orders from Washington.

Added importance was given the international phase of the killing due to the scheduled visit to President Hoover this week of R. B. Bennett, prime minister of Canada and secretary of state for external affairs. Besides the St. Lawrence waterways project, Bennett is to discuss with President Hoover the merits of the I'm Alone case.

The report of the officer in charge of the 145 to his base telling of the shooting, although at the time of the report the officer did not know Cluett had died, follows:

"We fired three shots of warning. The Josephine K failed to heed our warning. We then fired three more shots across her bow, and when she failed to come to a stop we fired one loaded shot at her.

"We found Captain Cluett on the floor of the pilot house, unconscious, with men working over him. We realized his dangerous condition and wireleased to the base for a doctor. Dr. Etter of the U. S. marine hospital arrived later aboard coast guard cutter 100, attended Captain Cluett and accompanied him back to the marine hospital aboard coast guard cutter 100."

Dr. George T. Mord, assistant medical examiner in Staten Island, examined Cluett's body, and will hold an autopsy tomorrow.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 25.—Funeral services for George N. McConnel, 83, who died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Mabel Weatherford in Chillicothe Saturday, were held in Electra at 1:30 Sunday from the home of a second daughter, Mrs. Guy McNeely. Rev. Louis D. Grafton, formerly of Electra, now pastor of the Presbyterian church at Chillicothe, officiated. Burial was in the Electra cemetery.

Born in Baltimore, Md., Mr. McConnel spent most of his life at Deep Water, Mo. Three years ago he came to Texas in the hope of benefiting his wife's health. Mrs. McConnel died a few months later.

Besides the two daughters named, he is survived by a third daughter, Mrs. Elex Drake of Lake Worth, Fla., and six grandchildren.

Week to Bring Crises In Congress

senate finance committee starts hearings tomorrow on the cash bonus, with the opponents rather than the proponents apearing first. Large blocs in both houses are demanding action on this proposal and the failure to act will play no small part in the extra session situation.

Since there are only a handful of enthusiastic supporters of the Hewell bill, it probably will be temporarily laid aside in the senate tomorrow to give the right of way to the war department supply bill.

As a means of cleaning up a lot of minor legislation, the senate will hold a three-hour night session tomorrow night to consider only unobjected bills on the calendar.

Some action is expected to be taken by the senate judiciary committee tomorrow on the Walsh resolution for proceedings by the courts to oust three members of the federal water power commission. In the offing is the notice of Senator Wheeler that he will make an effort to stop the salaries of the three commissioners when the proper supply bill comes along.

Much more time may be wasted if the resolution empowering the Nye committee to impound the ballots in Alabama where Senator Heflin charges he was robbed of the election last fall, comes up tomorrow on the senate floor. Southerners, who are determined to keep the federal government from meddling in their elections, are ready to filibuster against it.

On Tuesday, the banking and currency committee of the senate will hear Eugene Meyer Jr., chairman of the federal reserve board, answer charges of being "too close" to Morgan and company and his administration of the federal land banks.

The Glass subcommittee will continue its banking inquiry. The Nye committee proceeds with its perennial Pennsylvania election inquiry. The Woods report on nearly 5,000,000 jobless may stir up a row in the senate. And meanwhile, Muscle Shoals, the lame duck amendment and the anti-prohibition bill languish behind the old guard blockade.

ing deadlocked—11 to 1 for conviction—for many hours. Ten of the jurors were reported for the death penalty, one for life imprisonment and one for acquittal.

The three-year sentence, upheld by the court of criminal appeals, was assessed in district court at Dallas, to which the case was transferred after the Austin mistrial. Brady pleaded temporary insanity induced by chornic alcoholism, and the defense sought to show there had been a gradual weakening of his intellect and "moral fiber" caused by excessive use of bootleg liquor.

The state, meanwhile, contended he killed the girl in a jealous frenzy when he discovered she had been going about with young men. She was slain in front of her rooming house, as she stepped from the automobile of a young escort.

TAX PROBLEM WAITS SOLONS

Legislature Faces Heavy Third Week

ment of all taxes until Oct. 15 would seriously handicap the operation of the government. Governor Sterling said he was not familiar with the provisions of the Weinert bill and would not make up his mind about it until it was placed before him.

That the house and senate were going to have a hard time getting along together was indicated by the fact the houses have been unable to agree on anything so far this session. The house declined to accept the senate method of paying per diem and expenses of members and also balked against adoption of rules drafted in the upper branch.

Several bills of importance will be started through the mill this week. Among them will be the legislative and congressional re-districting bill; bills to further restrict operation of trucks and buses on state highways; a bill to amend the state prohibition statutes to make the state penalties conform to the federal statute; a bill to regulate public utility operations; and a bill to require all school districts in the state to carry fire, tornado and hail insurance.

A stormy battle was waged around the last measure last session, it will be introduced by Representative Cox of Groesbeck.

Bitter fights also were brewing about the highway bond issue amendment and the re-districting bills. The highway bond issue was offered in the senate by Senator Woodul of Houston. In a bill and two resolutions, Woodul proposed that the electorate authorize the bond issue, not to exceed $200,000,000 at any one time with $90,000,000 of the issue to be used to repay counties for funds expended on state highways.

Representative Hubbard of New Boston has prepared a bond issue amendment differing sharply from the Woodul plan. Hubbard would limit the total issue to $175,000,000 with $75,000,000 for repayment of counties. Under the Hubbard plan, the payment of the bonds would never become a lien against farms, homes or other property while the Woodul plan bars it as a lien only against farms and real property.

Thursday is Suburban DOLLAR DAY

January 29th Thursday!

JANUARY is a month of bargains. Merchants are eager to make space for spring merchandise and prices are cut to the quick. It is the month of sales in coats, dresses, hats, shoes. For men it is the best season to buy suits, overcoats, neckties, shirts and other articles of apparel.

And of all the days of the month, January 29 will afford the greatest opportunities. It is Suburban Dollar Day. It is the day Wichita Falls merchants have chosen to put forward goods and prices of especial attractiveness for the benefit of shoppers from out of town.

Read the Suburban Day advertisements. They will appear in The Record News and Times.

Does your wardrobe call for replenishing? Do you need china or silver? Are your curtains and draperies a little the worse for winter wear? Next Thursday is the time to make replacements.

Check your requirements against the items advertised. If you will make a pencil list of the articles that interest you and where they can be obtained, it will save you much time and aimless "looking around."

To get the most out of your trip it's a good plan to shop first in The Times and Record News.

Alfred Carl Hottes Speaks Here For Garden Club

Many splendid lecturers have spoken at the Woman's Forum clubhouse, but probably none who appealed to the hearts of so many among his hearers as Alfred Carl Hottes when he was presented Saturday under the auspices of the Garden club in an address on "The Garden's Answer to Our Quest for Happiness." Mr. Hottes' personality was so vivid and his magnetism so great that he kept an audience divided for two hours between smiles and tears and found them at the end of that time, eager for more.

Though Mr. Hottes is an experienced horticulturist and was alert with answers to questions put by gardeners, he left an impression more indelible than the knowledge of his ability; his audience realized his intense love of all things beautiful and had demonstrated to them the fact that a keen humorous sense would always remove all suspicion of sentimentality from his sentiment.

"You are garden lovers," he said, after the unusually graceful introduction given by the forum president, Mrs. W. Newton Maer, "or you would not stay. We speak the same language."

In vivid word pictures, he painted many species of gardeners, stating laughingly that all were nuts of one kind or another. He mentioned the fertilizer crank as one like to himself, stating that personally he was a soda crank and when he felt a sign of cold coming on he literally ate soda until he became a soda fountain so did not have that cold which he might not have had anyway; the frantic on a special fertilizer, might have success which he would probably have had if he had not used that fertilizer.

He expatiated on the uncomfortable type who goes to flower shows and after taking a look at the roses or the gladiolus begins to tell how her flowers at home were twice as large —. "I want to say to her," Mr. Hottes said, "stay at home and look at your flowers instead of coming and criticizing those with which these exhibitors have worked so hard."

The dear old lady with the "growing hand" was compared with that gardener who offered the alibi that she could not grow things. He told of the trouble with which the old lady would tend her cuttings and the other gardener, he said, would probably take home a sprig of rose or geranium, put it in a glass of water on top the gas range, lean stiffly over next day and make a little hole in the ground with a butcher knife and thrust the cutting therein. It would not grow.

Classes of Flowers

Mr. Hottes quoted the old line, "Full many a flower was born to blush unseen and waste its sweetness on the desert air," and said emphatically that no flower was ever wasted. "Men make gardens because there rises within them a desire to live among trees and flowers," he said. He divided flowers in two classes, the bulbs that are really an entire blooming plant telescoped into a convenient package where they may tolerate cold and drouth and when spring arrives, need only water and warmth, having already produced roots, to burst as if by magic into glorious bloom. "Then consider for a moment a rose bush," he said, "without doubt the most disreputable appearing of all shrubs—thonry, ill shaped, and with quite a poor root system. We plant it, prune it, spray it and finally a bud appears upon it. There is no more glorious adventure than having a thorny bush of this sort which bears lovely, long-stemmed roses."

A beautiful plea for trees was made by the speaker. "Is it not strange," he asked, "that some persons can live with a tree in their yard whose shade they enjoy, whose branches frame their view of the celestial heavens, whose big roots form houses for their children, and yet they do not know the tree's name. How odd it would be if we did not know our best friend's name."

Garden Club Conscience

Speaking of the garden club's work, Mr. Hottes said that a garden club member should have vision and she should carry her reputation with her so that when she went down a street everyone would be careful to commit no sins against nature before her. He stated that he looked forward to the day when members of the junior garden clubs grew up and would build no highway without planting it with trees. "Every garden," he said, "is a miniature experiment station, the true gardener thrills over the accomplishments he has made in growing some rare rock plant, some new variety of gladiolus. Half the fun of doing anything is the opportunity to tell about it." This opportunity was stressed as one of the pleasures of belonging to a garden club.

"All persons truly imbued with interest in gardens," Mr. Hottes said, "will tell you that true happiness results not in the search for it but in realizing that the simple happenings of a garden—even a few flowers in a small backyard—transcend the joys of the business mart and the eternal search for adventure. It is the little simple things of life that make us happiest. Has not Thoreau said that a wise man sees more in crossing a field than another in travelling around the world?"

Youth's Inheritance

The speaker's philosophy of happiness was given in this statement: "It would seem that at present too many of us are ever on the go. If all persons would spend their money and efforts and their spare time upon the home and make a garden, their homes would be so precious that no money nor persuasion would get them to leave. The highways of life are crowded with matters beyond our control, but the home is our fortress against intrusion. Conquering our own home, winning our family, singing round the hearth, planning for a better home and lovelier garden, delving into catalog, reading aloud, walking in the woods, enjoying the near at hand—these are the truest source of happiness.

"It should be the inheritance of every child to live in a happy country. Throughout his early life, he should be surrounded by beauty in highway, woodland, street and home."

New Frontiers

The new frontier which our country has to face now, Mr. Hottes stated, is the frontier of civilized ugliness. "I think you will already know what I mean by conquering the new frontier of civilized ugliness," he said. "In the neighborhood of each of our cities and even around our own homes it is very easy to let the cast-off objects of our civilization accumulate. Every city and every individual in the United States should do his part to clean up the waste places, to preserve the natural beauty of the landscape and to supplement it with planting."

The answer the garden gives when we ask where happiness is to be found is not so much in tangible results but in the thought that "Nature reflects the color of the spirit," according to Mr. Hottes. He quoted in closing, a verse from one of Louise Driscoll's poems in "Garden Grace":

"You can't forget a garden
Where you have planted seed,
Where you have watched the weather
And known the roses' need.
When you go away from it,
However long or far,
You leave your heart behind you
Where roots and tendrils are."

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

I heard a speaker say the other day that children grew up believing what their mothers had taught them; that if a mother said not to eat hot bread, the man persisted in not eating hot bread even when he was in the South where he would split open a hot roll and wait for it to cool. And that if she said the apple trees were pretty as they turned green and pink, they were always something to which one looked forward.

I thought of the heritage that mothers might give their children for future happiness. Not every child is born with an artist's soul and some people go through life without ever experiencing that exquisite thrill that comes when "on a morn the violets were blue."

Life is not always a tranquil thing. Your child as well as mine must come in for some hard knocks. If he has illusions, they will be blown away and that youth who cherishes ideals finds that time gives them hard knocks.

To teach the child to see a flower; to give him a fund of folk lore and mythology to draw on; to open his eyes to the clouds and the skies and to make him well acquainted with trees and birds is giving him riches in one way just as surely as leaving him money is lending him riches in another. One never knows what money will mean to him but one may rest content that he has given something that cannot be lost or destroyed if he gives the child an initiation into the brotherhood and sisterhood that feels beauty.

Parent study clubs should bear it in mind. Without discounting the value of thrift, the teaching of happiness is a far greater quality. For happiness is a quality that can be taught.

Even one without worldly goods might have a breath of divine riches when he looked at the sky of velvet black that I saw Saturday night as I left Kemp library; black velvet sprinkled with silver gilt stars. And there could be no child who would not have loved the sight of the new moon that sank like a great golden crescent into the sky as I went home early in the week. It seemed to touch the top of a house.

Then if all the grownups we know had an appreciation of real beauty, possibly there would be no glaring paper flowers in wall vases on cafe walls; no more impossible arbors and vines. Art is burned on a funeral pyre each day. Wonder why they do it.

So many things I am curious to know about, however, that I fear I will go to my grave puzzling over. Why do singers raise their eyebrows as they reach high notes? Why do they sometimes close their eyes?

Why does a chewing gum addict enjoy his chew more if he can hear himself chew? Why do some people make a noise drinking coffee?

Why has the passion for crochet lace waned to come again at some distant date? It has its seven years sleep and its passionate resurrection.

Where have all the pug dogs gone? Why did their owners love them so? I have an abysmal ignorance on that subject. Even a common cur that comes of a miscellaneous ancestory but who will lay his head on his paws and laugh at me or wag his tail with joy when I speak to him, means more to me than the haughty and indifferent pug.

Dix Warns Girl To Forget Love For Married Man

Dear Dorothy Dix—This last summer another girl and myself took a trip to Chicago for a week-end. While there we met two traveling salesmen and one of them asked my girl friend to marry him, but he is already married. She is trying to decide whether she should marry him, or just live with him as a companionate wife. He has told her he does not love his wife. She does not understand him. Now, dear Miss Dix, which step should she take? We are depending on you to tell us the right thing to do as she cannot confide in her mother. We are just working girls.
—BETTY AND DOT.

Answer—I don't see why you have any difficulty in understanding that kind of a man. He is just the unprincipled sort of cad who preys on unsophisticated girls and who hangs around street corners waiting to pick up any foolish young women who are out for a good time, as you and your friend were.

Such a man is utterly unmoral, utterly unprincipled, utterly untrustworthy and utterly regardless of the harm he may do a girl. The wrecking of a girl's life is of as little moment to him as smoking a cigaret. The fabled dragon of old who used to devour young maidens was no crueler than he, and unfortunately there is no St. George in these days to go out and slay the monster.

But while we condemn such men, we must also bear in mind the fact that his victims have nearly always only themselves to blame. Of their own free will and accord they put themselves in his way and attract his attention. They don't avoid the danger of which they have been warned a million times. They rush right into it.

Girls who flirt with strangers; girls who enter into conversations with men they have never seen before and accept their invitations to go out for a good time; girls who let strange men pick them up on the street and take them for rides in their automobiles, can expect no sympathy when they are insulted by their new acquaintances. They get just what they had a right to expect. For respectable girls do not do such things, and the man had a right to think that the girl knew what she was doing. In these days of sophistication the innocent-baby act doesn't go over big.

A girl who conducts herself with dignity is seldom spoken to by a masher. If he does, she can rebuff him, and if he is persistent she can always summon the police. Nor does any girl ever have to put her foot into a strange man's automobile under compulsion. She can stay in perfect safety on the sidewalk and ride in the street cars if she prefers her honor to a joyride.

All girls know this, but a lot of them are so hungry for pleasure, so eager for adventure, so crazy for the admiration of men, that they disregard all of the stop, look and listen signs. They think they can play with fire and not get burned, and that's a feat which requires more skill and finesse and luck than many of them possess.

Your friend's question about whether she should marry a married man or not is superfluous. That is an impossibility under present conditions. A man has to be off with the old wife before he is on with the new, and apparently this gentleman is not even considering the formality of a divorce.

As for her becoming his common-law wife, what does she expect to get out of that except disgrace? In what way will she better her condition? Why does she think that a man she has only met on a week-end trip will love her enough to be faithful to her? What reason has she to think that he will not be as untrue to her as he has been to his wife and leave her in a year or two with perhaps a baby or two to support?

No possible happiness can come to her out of such an arrangement and if she is wise she will put her week-end Lothario out of her mind and stick to her job until some man whom she has known longer than a couple of days comes along and offers her decent and honorable wedlock. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I married a divorced man. When just a boy he married a very young girl and when they both found out they had made a mistake they parted and he kept the child that had been born of the union. My husband is a splendid man, devoted to me and I worship him, but I am miserable because I keep thinking about the baby's mother, but she has a mother other than I. I am not jealous of her, but whenever I let my thoughts go that way I get desperate. Do you think I will ever grow hardened to the thoughts of my husband's past, or will I always worry over the fact that he had another wife than myself? How can I overcome this feeling? —S. L. R.

Answer—By using a little common sense and ceasing to indulge yourself in the morbid pastime of holding post mortems on your husband's matrimonial experiences.

Of course, every woman would like to be her husband's first love, and especially would she like to be his first wife. Probably there isn't a woman in the world who loves her husband who doesn't get a little green-eyed thinking that some other woman has had his kisses and caresses, that he said to some other woman the tender things that he says to her. And a woman would be more than mortal if it did not give her a twinge to know that some other woman has had his name, has borne him children and has been a part of his life. But in reality there is no woman of whom a wife has so little need to be jealous as of her husband's first wife, whether she be dead or divorced.

The ghost of a dead wife is not the dangerous rival that a living siren is. Nor is there any other woman under the sun who has so little allure for a man as has an ex-wife. He knows her too well and the memory of the spats and quarrels of their miserable life together fills him only with a profound thankfulness that he is rid of her. There is nothing so dead as a dead love. Once a man is disillusioned with a woman and tired of her, it is practically impossible for her to revive his interest in her, so you are borrowing trouble when you worry over this child-wife of your husband's whom he left because he found her uncongenial.

You represent his mature taste and judgment in women. That will not change. So be satisfied with what you have. It doesn't matter who your husband loved first or to whom he was married. The important thing is being the last wife.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a man 68 years old, a widower with no children. I am deeply in love with a woman of my own age who loves me and whom I have known for 20 years. I am a Protestant. She is a Catholic. If we should marry, would we be happy, or would you say with others that there are no fools like old fools? I am lonely and so is she. —JOHN SMITH.

Answer—I don't think people of your age are foolish to marry when they pick out as sensible mates as you have. I think they are very wise and that they have every chance of happiness. So go to it. I see no objection on account of your belonging to different churches, for surely you are old enough to have acquired tolerance and will respect each other's creeds.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Tillman School Heads Study Relief Measures

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Jan. 25.—With the exception of three or four school districts whose officials were not notified, every district in the county was represented at a meeting held at the court room when Dr. J. D. Osborne Jr., chairman of the Tillman County Red Cross chapter, explained the method of handling relief.

Questionnaires are to be filled out by the head of every family asking for aid giving his location, names, ages and sex of every member of other dependents, together with the family's residences, if any, and requirements. If members of the school board, who are authorized representatives for the Red Cross in their district, approve the giving of aid to the family, they will sign the application.

Edna Rundell Kirby Presented in Recital

Edna Rundell Kirby was presented in dramatic recital by Mrs. Harry R. Fuller, head of the expression department of the Greathouse conservatory at the Floral Heights Methodist church Friday evening.

Mrs. Kirby gave a varied program of dialect numbers, poems and a one-act play. In her first number, "The Death Disk," she showed great ability in child impersonation and in quick change of character. In her second appearance, a group, which included "Dreams" by Henry Van Dyke, a dialect reading of the negro in "A Coquette Conquered," and an impersonation of the old Italian in "Da Stritta Pianna," she showed remarkable versatility and variety in giving well timed piano-logues. She was accompanied in these by Mrs. Fuller. Her last presentation, "Sauce for the Goslings," a one-act play, was entertaining from the standpoint that she portrayed so many characters in such a clearly defined manner.

Mrs. Kirby was formerly Miss Edna Rundell and will be remembered here for her work in children's classes and her pleasing dramatic presentations. She is at present assistant teacher of expression in the Greathouse conservatory. Miss Mount is one of the piano teachers in the conservatory.

Garden Club Luncheon Is Pretty Event Saturday

A number of enthusiastic garden lovers were present Saturday at the Forum clubhouse when Alfred Carl Hottes, associate editor of Better Homes and Gardens, and author of several garden books, was honor guest at a luncheon sponsored by the members of the Garden club before his lecture on "The Garden's Answer to Our Quest for Happiness."

Mrs. Bert Bean, chairman, presided in a short business meeting during the luncheon when minutes of previous meetings were read and several reports heard. A committee appointed to take care of the forum grounds reported that a new driveway would be put in and that many flowers would be planted for cuttings for forum decorations. Several new members were reported by Mrs. Homer Lee, extension chairman, and Mrs. E. B. Lehrack, chairman of magazines, stated that approximately 75 members were subscribers to "Better Homes and Gardens."

After the introduction of new members, Mr. Hottes was presented to the group and an informal discussion of garden questions was an enthusiastic finale to the luncheon hour. Mr. Hottes gave much interesting information and an added interest by the manner in which he identified flowers with their names. The delphinium, he stated, had the dolphin pictured in it. Legends of the pansy and the lily of the valley were later quoted as methods of teaching children to easily remember flower names.

Mesdames C. E. McCutchen, and J. J. Perkins, who were responsible for the decorations, arranged a setting that was beautifully expressive of the Garden club's purpose. A large blue bowl of mixed spring flowers on the speaker's table and bowls of lovely pastel flowers on other tables were grown in Mrs. Perkin's hothouse and in Mrs. McCutchen's yard. An exquisite pot of cyclamen was sent by Mrs. J. A. Kemp.

A Startling 'Pay-Off'
Big Shot Capone's Work
The Death of McCann
A Great Crusader

By EMILE GAUVREAU

You read, probably without surprise, that a police raid in Chicago reveals a list carrying some highly illuminating information about the relationship between the underworld and an army of political chiefs. The "pay-off" list is so startling that the authorities do not dare talk about it above a whisper. Even a member of congress is on the underworld pay roll.

Europe, looking cynically at Mr. Capone, head of our second government, thinks we are a funny people indeed. A London paper prints a cartoon showing Mr. Capone's gangsters "bumping off" the president while the "Scarface" stands at a microphone, takes over the reigns of the administration and says: "O. K., boys!"

The news of the sudden death of Alfred W. McCann, known far and wide as an authority on food, will be received as a shock to a vast army of housewives who for years have taken his advice about what to feed the family. McCann's public service was tremendous. He struck terror into the hearts of those who tried to fatten their pockets by selling adulterated food. His campaigns for the people will be remembered for years as fearless examples of unselfish crusading. The nation will miss this brave and vigilant sentinel, who knew that right food prolonged life but who, in his zeal, worked himself to death.

Mexico evidently believes in tit-for-tat. The resolution recently introduced into congress by Senator H. F. Ashurst, asking the purchase of Lower California and parts of Sonora from Mexico, has been met with a counter suggestion by the Mexicans for their purchase of Arizona, California, New Mexico, Texas and the city of New Orleans!

After all, this proposal on the part of Mexico should not surprise us. By the Gadsden Purchase in 1853 we bought all this territory from Mexico for $10,000,000, with Nevada, Utah and part of Colorado thrown in. It was a very good real estate deal. We should at least be polite enough to find out what interest the Mexicans will offer us on our investment.

The world is going to return to "religion," if the results of a debate between G. K. Chesterton and Clarence Darrow may be accepted as a gage. Chesterton, Roman Catholic, battling with Darrow, the atheist, on the platform, won the debate by 2,359 to 1,022.

One of the highlights of Chesterton's speech was bringing forward Eddington, Jeans and other great scientists as examples of exponents of materialism who, by pursuing their theories or proofs to the limit, found themselves without a leg to stand on in their own territory. He also mentioned the cures at Lourdes as miracles that science could not explain. "The modern world swarms with miracles. They are called psychic phenomena nowadays.

Darrow, in rebuttal, scored all miracles, especially those in the Bible, as products of the imagination of "the most ignorant, primitive, superstitious people that ever lived." Not even the brilliant Mr. Darrow can make people believe that.

Emmett Thompson Faces Murder Trial Today

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 25.—Emmett Thompson of Pampa will go on trial in district court here Monday morning on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Homer Crabtree in Gray county last November. The case was sent to Vernon on a change of venue.

Carl Hefner, who was jointly indicted with Thompson was given a separate trial upon motion of Thompson's attorneys and was given a sentence of 99 years.

Hambone's Meditations

A California woman is suing her husband for divorce because he wouldn't get his hair cut. When the terms of alimony are announced he'll probably realize he's had a trimming.

A Pennsylvania college served tea free to its students during examination week recently. A more timely beverage would have been nerve tonic.

Still waters run deep, but occasionally the prohibition officers find their source.

Clinics for the Soul

NEWS that doctors of medicine and ministers of the gospel are going to join hands to establish a new sort of "clinic" in a church in Brooklyn comes as a reminder that mankind has not yet learned how to walk surely along all of the dark paths followed by the human spirit.

This clinic, according to the United Press, will treat nervous disorders, mental cases that skirt the borderline between sanity and insanity, and the like. The doctors will give such help as they can, and so will the ministers, each after his own fashion. Psycho-analysis and old-fashioned prayer, apparently, will go hand in hand.

There is something rather encouraging about this—coming, as it does, in an age when most of us incline toward taking our troubles to the family doctor instead of to the family pastor. It is encouraging, because it indicates a growing realization of the fact that ills of the soul are mysterious and shadowy, beyond exact definition; and while some of them can be cured by hydrotherapy or auto-suggestion, others must be treated by the good old method of prayer and fasting.

This, in turn, is by way of being an admission that we do not know quite as much about the ultimate mysteries as some of us have supposed; and a degree of humility is a becoming thing. There has been prevalent in recent years a cocksureness, an arrogant certainty, about things that had always before been regarded as stupendous puzzles. It has been asserted that the spotlight of modern science had lighted up all of the dark places of the human spirit. This attitude has not done us a great deal of good.

For the old truth remains; man is an incalculable creature, and the ills that beset his soul are not easily uncovered. Sometimes a series of visits to a psychiatrist will do the trick, and sometimes nothing avails but a humble and prayerful conference with his spiritual advisor. The doctors cannot do it all, and the wise ones know it. The humblest country minister occasionally has a better understanding of things than the expensive city specialist.

But in the past everyone concerned tried to pretend that the pastor and the physician occupied distinct fields, which never overlapped. Doctors did not tell their patients to go and talk with their ministers, nor did ministers tell their parishioners to go and get psycho-analyzed.

Nowadays we are beginning to know better. It will be interesting to see what success this clinic has. Our notion is that it ought to work well. And if the experiment foreshadows a joining of hands of science and faith, it is so much the better.

Who Said What?

NOW that General Pershing has declared that he did not make that famous "Lafayette, we are here" speech in Paris during the war, we are beginning to have an uneasy and skeptical attitude toward famous remarks made by other great men. For Pershing's supposed speech was made in modern Paris, amid all of the modern devices for setting down exactly what happens; what possibilities for error must there not have been in the days before shorthand and the omnipresent newspaper reporter?

Did Lawrence, for example, really say, "Don't give up the ship"? Did Nelson really declare "England expects every man to do his duty"? Did Grant declare that he proposed to "fight it out on this line if it takes all summer"? Did Patrick Henry demand that he be given liberty or death?

All of this is disturbing. General Pershing really should not have disillusioned us. That "Lafayette, we are here" was too good a legend to kill. He ought to have left us believing it.

Mr. Fish's Program

MR. HAMILTON FISH seems to be thoroughly alarmed about the extent of the Communist menace in this country. His committee report is the sort of thing that would have created a sensation 10 years ago; and if the country only yawns at it now, that is simply Mr. Fish's hard luck. He was born a little bit too late.

The program which he suggests that this country follow in dealing with the Communists seems to fall into the same category. It is out of date, by rather more than 10 years. It calls for swift and ruthless suppression; and someone ought to point out to Mr. Fish that that has been tried before, with indifferent success.

It was tried, in fact, in Russia, for many years. The Russian program, indeed, was even more rigorous than the one Mr. Fish advances. If suppression could possibly save a nation from radicalism, Russia would have been saved. But somehow it didn't work. It provided just the kind of soil on which communism thrives. That is a point worth keeping in mind.

Autos and Prosperity

THE Business Conditions Weekly of the Alexander Hamilton institute predicts that automobile production in the United States this year will be about equal to that of 1928, when approximately 4,350,000 cars were sold. This is well below the figures for 1929—the banner year for all time—but substantially above the record for 1930, when the total was only 3,350,000.

The importance of all of this lies in the fact that American industry as a whole cannot prosper if the automobile industry is sick. The institute remarks that "the attainment of the automobile saturation point in 1929 was more responsible for the general business slump in 1930 than any other factor"; and it is not hard to agree with that observation.

If the automobile industry is really on the verge of regaining its health, the outlook for other industries is measurably brighter; and, conversely, if Detroit should continue to suffer, the rest of the nation would suffer with it.

THE LOVELY LIAR : BY ROB EDEN

"Miss Prior! You! I couldn't believe Max when he gave me your message!" He sat down on the couch beside her.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Romantic young Poppy Prior plans to run away with Ted Allison, whom she has known for a week, but he jilts her. Afraid to face her mother, Poppy runs away to New York and looks for a job, pawning her watch and ring to get some money. The pawnbroker recognizes the bracelet, on her wrist as belonging to Celia Nixon, and has Poppy arrested for its theft. Poppy has found it on the train, considering it a cheap imitation. Fearing her mother will hear of the arrest, Poppy refuses to disclose her real story. Kevin Wallace, friend of Celia, is convinced of Poppy's innocence and gives her his card, telling her to call upon him if she needs help. Poppy is convicted and committed to a girls' home for one year. She is determined to get away from the home. Kitchen duty is assigned her, and after a day of the routine she is firmly resolved to attempt an escape. Her roommate, Ellen Webb, discourages her by telling of previous unsuccessful attempts.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XI

Poppy stepped bravely on the 8:30 train to New York, and huddled down on a seat in the day coach, her borrowed coat held tightly around her apron. She hadn't heard the trains whistle through Clearhaven every hour for 10 days and not know when they left.

She hadn't dared to buy a ticket at the station. She was planning to do that on the train. So when the conductor came around, she handed him her dollar bill, and received 30 cents change. The man barely looked at her. The train was full, and he was busy with his fares.

It was unlikely that she'd be missed from the home before 9 o'clock when she was supposed to attend the typewriting class. Unless, of course, she had been seen leaving, which was possible. Yet she had got through the front gates safely. If she had been seen, the ice truck would have been stopped.

What little things changed your life for you! Things you did impulsively, without thinking. Like Ted Allison asking her to run away with him. That had changed her life, for she had taken him seriously. No, it wasn't just Ted asking her to marry him. It was meeting him in the first place, bumping into him on Main street, and dropping her bundles. Ted had been in a hurry and she, too. That was what changed her life. That chance meeting. Muddled up everything for her. Else she still would be in Ashland, doing the same things she had done all her life. Getting up in the morning, helping her mother. Playing tennis or going to a party in the afternoon. Helping get dinner at night. Arguing with her mother after dinner that she didn't want to go out with Jimmy Daventry.

Mr. Wallace Again

Maybe if she hadn't bumped into Ted on Main street that morning, she'd be seriously thinking of marrying Jimmy. That's what Mrs. Prior wanted. That's what she'd been leading to all the time. Jimmy was Mrs. Prior's favorite. Mrs. Prior usually got her way eventually. She had her way with Grace.

That little meeting with Ted. It had led to so much. Because of it all Ashland thought she was married to him. Because of it, she had gone to the home.

Because of it she had met Kevin Wallace, and she was going to him now. Hadn't he said in the detective's office that afternoon that if she ever needed him, she could count on him? Hadn't he given her his card, with his address scribbled on it?

Well, she needed him now. Badly, and she was going to him. He'd help her. To be sure, that card of his was in her purse, and the purse was in the locker down in the office but she knew the address by heart. Mr. Wallace wouldn't fail her. . . .

A friend of Celia Nixon's. Poppy's eyes narrowed, when she thought of the girl. Celia could have afforded to be more generous. She had been so hasty in her judgment, so sure Poppy had stolen her rings and bracelet.

Poppy knew it was dangerous to go back to New York. Yet where else could she go? She was taking Kevin Wallace at his word. Asking him for help. He hadn't been with Celia when Celia had come into the judge's chambers in the juvenile court. Poppy had looked for him, and had been disappointed. She would have felt more confident if he had been present.

A woman sat down beside her, and opened a morning paper. Poppy turned her head toward the window. She didn't want the woman to see her. All the way into Pennsylvania station she sat that way. She needn't have bothered, though, to be so careful for the woman was engrossed in her paper. She paid no attention to the girl beside her.

At the station, Poppy clutched the loose coat around her and sidled through the crowds. She had hiked up the big apron underneath the coat so it wouldn't show; fatal if someone saw it.

As casually as she could, although her heart was pounding wildly, she asked her way to the subway, and was relieved to know she didn't have to leave the building. She was thankful, too, when she crowded into the train, that it was filled with people, and she had to stand. Grateful that there were two other girls besides herself who were not wearing hats. She wouldn't be so conspicuous.

Seventy-second street was her station. A man looked at her curiously as she ran up the steps.

By this time they'd know at the home she had run away. There'd be an alarm out. She had no time to lose, but she couldn't hurry too much. She had to be careful.

Kevin Wallace's address proved to be only a few blocks from the subway, an old brownstone house, sandwiched in between two 10-story apartment buildings. Poppy walked up the stairs slowly, and looked for the bell. As she could find none, she pushed open the door, and found herself in a small entry way. On one wall were two mail boxes, and two bells. Yes, his was the first, a neat card below the bell. She rang it, glad to be off the street, glad to be by herself in the entry.

A door opened beside her, and a yellow face looked out.

"Mr. Wallace?"

"Mr. Wallace is busy—he sees no one in the mornings." The door started to close again, but Poppy stopped it with her foot. Now that she was here, had risked this much, she had to see Mr. Wallace.

"I must see him. It's important, don't you see?"

"Mr. Wallace, he never see anyone mornings. Come back at three this afternoon."

Poppy was desperate. "He's here, isn't he?"

"Yes, miss, but he—"

"Will you take a message to him?"

"I'm not supposed to, but I will." The Chinaman squinted. Something about the girl frightened him. Her dark eyes, the trembling lips, the tension of her fingers on the shabby dark coat that she held tightly to her neck.

"Tell him Poppy Prior is here."

"That all?" He opened the door, and she stepped into a high-ceilinged, book-lined room.

The Chinaman was padding over the soft rugs, and through a door at the end of the big room. The subdued click of typewriter keys came to her.

The room was restful, with the shades drawn, and dim soft sunlight drifting through the windows. She sank into a leather couch, and looked up at the rows of books that reached to the ceiling. Decidedly a masculine room, but a comfortable one. A massive marble fireplace in front of her with a hunting print above it. More hunting prints on the walls between the shelves. A low, copper topped smoking table beside her, with a pipe on a brass tray. Matches, a folded newspaper. A bright-jacketed novel on the arm of the couch.

The room looked like Kevin Wallace. His living room, she supposed, or his library. His work room must be beyond.

She was wondering what he would say about her being here, when he came through the door at the back, coatless, his white shirt open at the neck.

"Miss Prior! You! I couldn't believe Max when he gave me your message!" He sat down on the couch beside her. "What's the matter? I thought you were in some home. The Minnie Bascum home—I was planning to come out to see you the next visitor's day—"

"I ran away today—this morning—" It was all Poppy could say. Now that she was here, safe, she was frightened. She leaned back and closed her eyes.

"You ran away?"

It was some time before she could say more. When she finally found words, her voice sounded strange, and far off to her. "I—you said you'd help me. I didn't have anyone else to go to—you remember you said you'd help me—"

"I remember." Kevin frowned. He wasn't used to harboring runaway girls. What could he do with her? Where could he put her?

"Have you any plans?" he asked.

"No. I thought—I thought you'd tell me what to do. I couldn't stand the home any longer. It was horrible—"

Kevin was thinking very fast. The girl trusted him. He had to do something for her. Poor devil. All Celia's fault, getting so wrought up about a bracelet and two rings that didn't mean a thing to her. He'd been surprised when Celia told him the girl had been committed to an institution. Couldn't believe it. The evidence was so slim. Circumstantial. But when Celia made up her mind, it stayed made up. She was sure Poppy Prior was guilty. He was sorry

Answers to Questions

Have we had the pleasure of serving you through our Washington Information Bureau? Can't we be of some help to you in your problems? Our business is to furnish you with authoritative information, and we invite you to ask us any question of fact in which you are interested. Send your inquiry to The Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. Enclose two cents in coin or stamps for return postage.

Q.—What will keep sleet from freezing on the windshield of an automobile?—C. C. D.

A.—It is suggested in a recent bulletin that the rear hook of the engine hood be unfastened and the hood raised slightly so the heat from the engine will strike the windshield. If the wind is blowing across the car, the use of a pasteboard box to carry the heat closer to the glass is recommended. For vehicles having inside heaters, the suggestion is made that a piece of tire tubing be carried and used to carry the heat directly to the lower side of the windshield. A small bag of salt fastened to the upper end of the windshield wiper is said to afford some relief, but the melted salt forms a smear that may require the use of alcohol for removal.

Q.—Which star is the farthest away and which is the nearest?—H. G.

A.—The farthest known star is Arcturus, whose estimated distance is 950 trillion miles or 160 light years. The nearest star so far as we know is Alpha Centauri, which is about 26 trillion miles distant.

Q.—Where is Patagonia?—E. L.

A.—Patagonia is a name now generally applied to an indefinite region lying east of the Andes and south of Rio Negro. It was formerly applied to the whole southern portion of the South American continent.

Q.—What is the word for causing the death by scientific means of people who are hopelessly ill?—R. M.

A.—The term is euthanasia. It is of Greek derivation and means a painless, happy death.

Q.—Did England send a governor-general to America before the revolution?—G. M.

A.—There was no governor-general before the revolution. Each colony had a separate governor paid by the crown.

Q.—What part of the United States has the heaviest snowfall?—C. K. C.

A.—The heaviest snowfalls in the United States occur in the central portions of the Sierra Nevada of California. It is impossible to state the exact locality having the heaviest snowfall, but accounts for a single season of above 700 inches have been reported from the station at Summit on the line of the Southern Pacific railroad, running between Sacramento, Calif., and Reno, Nev. The heaviest snowfall recorded there occurred in the winter of the 1879-80 and was 783 inches.

Q.—If a man walking could maintain a pace of 1 meter per second, how many miles would he walk in a day?—F. D. C.

A.—If he walked the full 24 hours he would cover 53.686 miles.

Q.—What are the advantages and disadvantages of a vapor heating system?—D. E. J.

A.—Experts list the advantages as small consumption of fuel, no dust, changes temperature quickly, and all rooms are easily heated, while the disadvantages are high cost of installation, no ventilation and the space taken up by the radiators.

Q.—Can you inform me as to what is meant when it is said of a couple that they were married over a broomstick?—L. G.

A.—To marry over the broomstick means to go through a mock marriage ceremony in which both parties jump over a broomstick.

Q.—Where are the roaring forties?—B. V. R.

A.—In modern slang the term is used to designate Broadway and contiguous territory from 40th to 50th streets. In the nautical sense, it refers to the stormy region of the North Atlantic between degrees 40 and 50, and is sometimes used with reference to the same zone in the South Atlantic.

Q.—What is meant by "a monkey" in speaking of a sum of money?—A. W.

A.—A "monkey" is used to mean 500 pounds sterling, or, sometimes, 500 dollars.

Q.—What were the draft ages in the civil war?—I. W. P.

A.—The soldiers drafted into the Union army were between the ages of 18 and 45. The first draft law of the Confederate states, 1862, gave the age limits as 18 to 35—this was later increased to 45. The act of 1864 drafted into military service all white men between 17 and 50; those between 17 and 18, and 45 and 50 to constitute a reserve.

The Record News Offers The New Booklet, Famous Love Affairs

Did Benedict Arnold become a traitor to his country because of his love for Margaret Shippen? Certain it is that the beautiful Philadelphia Tory, entered Arnold's life at its most crucial moment and she and her family and friends all were bitter opponents of the movement to separate the colonies from the mother country. She was very lovely and he fell deeply in love with her, therefore it would not be surprising if her influence had much to do with his tragic mistake.

The story of Arnold and Margaret Shippen is but one of more than two famous romances that are told in the booklet now offered Record News readers. Send for a copy today, using this coupon and enclosing 10 cents to cover cost and handling.

Health and Diet Advice

The Rheumatic Tendency

Rheumatic toxins are versatile performers. They may assume many forms. At first observation there might appear to be no relation between acute rheumatic fever, heart disease, chorea, arthritis and muscular rheumatism, but it seems almost certain that much of the same kinds of toxins are responsible for all of these troubles.

The various forms of rheumatism may be divided by symptoms into groups, as the following: Acute rheumatism or rheumatic fever, sub-acute rheumatism, chronic rheumatism, muscular rheumatism, rheumatoid arthritis, acute periarticular rheumatism, chronic osteoarthritic rheumatism, and Still's disease.

At one time, pains in any part of the muscles or bones were termed rheumatism, but doctors are now trying to make sharp distinctions between the different forms. This is undoubtedly a good plan, provided that they do not lose sight of the fundamental causes which are present in every case.

The medical profession is almost united in the view that rheumatic diseases are caused by infection from some variety of streptococci, and it is believed that the possible sources of the infection may originate in the teeth, mouth, throat, tonsils, sinuses, inner ear, bronchial tubes, intestinal tract and other mucous membranes.

I am not disparaging the infection theory. However, I am certain that the various forms of infection are often only irritating causes whenever there already exists a rheumatic toxicosis. For instance, a tonsillar infection may be like a match setting off the blaze of rheumatism, but that fuel is already present and is always a toxic, poisoned state of the body.

The reason that the rheumatic disorders have proved such stubborn diseases to cure is mostly because physicians have been so busy in searching for a specific bacterial cause that they have overlooked the fundamental principle that rheumatism must have its root in a soil of some toxemia, and even if bacteria are to be considered a contributory cause, they could not be considered the direct cause any more than a luxuriant growth of vegetables would be considered the cause of well fertilized ground.

It is my opinion that before any form of rheumatism develops, there must have been a definite leaning or inclination toward this disorder, long before an acute attack can develop, or before a chronic form shows in painful or enlarged joints.

It is undoubtedly true that small forms of vegetable micro-organisms are present in almost every disease, but it is folly to allow our attention to be sidetracked into considering these everpresent bacteria as the fundamental causes of disease. May we not be helped by the deathbed suggestion of the man who originated the germ theory of disease when he said, "If I had my life to live over again it would be spent in proving that germs are not primarily the cause of disease but rather that they have the faculty of finding a suitable soil in which to grow."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Frog in Throat

Question—G. F. R. writes: "A young man of 24 keeps clearing his throat. Could you please tell me if this is from smoking, and what could be done for it?"

Answer—Such troubles are usually caused through the wrong kind of diet which produces too much catarrhal mucus. Smoking, and particularly inhaling the smoke, may be a contributory cause.

Blood-letting

Suestion—C. Y. writes: "Since high blood pressure has become so common, why have the doctors abandoned the old method of bleeding the patient? This seems a logical way of getting rid of a surplus of blood. When this method was being practiced high blood pressure was unknown."

Answer—Bleeding the patient temporarily reduces the amount of blood, but it does not cure the cause of the arterial tension. The blood pressure can very readily be brought down to normal by a fasting and dieting regimen, and the patient's general health at the same time is improved. This method should be understood by every practicing physician, since it is much more satisfactory than some of the methods of treatment now in vogue.

Superfluous Hair

Question—H. E. T. writes: "I have a bad growth of hair on my face, and have been told that an electric needle would remove it permanently. Kindly tell me whether this is so, as I do not wish to purchase one unless it removed hair forever."

Answer—The electric needle, to remove hair, must be used by an expert operator who has been trained to do this work. Go to the nearest beauty parlor and they will tell you where you will be able to get this kind of treatment.

19-YEAR-OLD TEXAN WINS MOTION PICTURE GOLF TOURNEY

GULDAHL TRIMS TONY MANERO

Dallas Youth One Up On Foe All the Way

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25. (AP)—Ralph Guldahl, 19-year-old Dallas, Texas, professional, today won the $3,200 motion picture match play golf tournament by defeating Tony Manero, New York professional, 1 up and 36 holes. Guldahl had led one up at the end of the first 18 holes.

Going to the 36th hole even, Manero pulled his second shot and the ball rolled dead at the fairway under an embedded tree limb. It took two more shots to reach the green, which Guldahl had made in two. Guldahl's approach putt was one foot short, and Manero conceded the victory.

Guldahl had 38-37—75 for the morning 18, and 34-39—73 for the final 18.

Manero's card was 36-40—76 in the morning and 33-40—73 for the afternoon round.

DALLAS, Jan. 25. (AP)—Though he was held to one field goal Saturday night, when the University of Arkansas assigned two men to guard him, Adolph Dietzel, Texas Christian university's sophomore center, did well enough in two games against the Razorbacks to take over the lead in the Southwest conference scoring race.

Dietzel had scored 64 points in four starts, compared to 55 for Rhea Williams, Southern Methodist forward, in three games. Kenny Holt, elongated Arkansas center, had scored 53 points in eight contests. Sexton of Arkansas was high among the guards with 42 points.

Savoldi Leads Team To All-Star Victory

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25. (AP)—A group of former football stars led by "Jumping" Joe Savoldi of Notre Dame, defeated an eleven made up principally of former St. Mary's college gridders, 13 to 0, in the Knights of Columbus charity football game at Kezar stadium here today before 25,000 spectators.

After battling through three scoreless periods the Savoldi all-stars scored two touchdowns in the fourth period. Don Moses, former University of Southern California player, intercepted a forward pass and dashed 35 yards over the goal lines for the first counter. Benny Lom, former California back, added the extra point.

A few minutes later Savoldi, on a reverse, broke away through left guard and rambled 21 yards to score with most of the St. Mary's team trailing him. Ross Sanders, sub for Lom, missed the try for point.

Savoldi put on a great show while on the field.

Johnnie Dawson Will Defend Bayou Honors

HOUSTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Johnnie Dawson, Chicago amateur, will defend his Houston Country club invitation golf championship here next month, tournament officials announced today.

Dawson won the championship last year by defeating Ossie Carlton, former Texas amateur champion. The Chicago star has been playing the winter circuit and will appear in San Antonio for the Texas open this week.

Johnny Goodman, Omaha, who defeated Obbie Jones in the first round of the national amateur at Pebble Beach in 1929, also may attend the invitation. Goodman, according to reports from San Antonio, may play in the open and if he takes part there Houston tournament officials felt he would come here to try for the amateur title.

Jack Speer Looms As Texas Open Favorite

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Shooting a brilliant round over Brackenridge park two strokes under par, Jack Speer, former state amateur champion, today loomed as a favorite to cop the amateur title in the Texas open amateur qualifying tournament Wednesday.

Speer, paired with his Pat O'Brien of Harlingen, took on Tom Lally and Harold Long in a best ball match. They duplicated their feat of Friday by winning 3 and 2.

Terracing Exhibit Set At Gilliland Today

Special to The Record News.

MUNDAY, Texas, Jan. 25.—A terracing exhibition will be held by N. R. Bently of A. & M. college, and A. K. (Dad) Short, on the J. O. Cure farm at Gilliland. This demonstration will be held Monday, Jan. 26 and will begin about 9:30 a. m., lasting the whole day. These men will be assisted by the county agricultural agent.

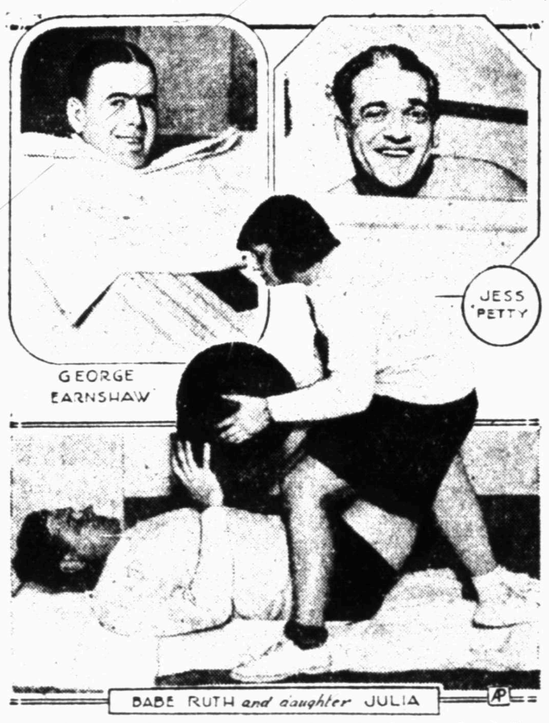

Mr. Bently is extension agriculture engineer and Mr. Short is with the Federal Land bank, and for many years these men have put on terracing exhibitions over the state.

"IRON MEN" LEAD

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 25. (AP)—Nebraska's five "iron men" who play without reinforcements posted the Cornhusker colors at the top of the Big Six basket ball standings last week.

Earl Smith, veteran catcher, released this year by the St. Louis Cardinals, played in five world's series.

Big Leaguers Take Early Start

BABE RUTH and daughter JULIA

The boys already are getting into shape for the next baseball season. Babe Ruth, New York Yankee slugger, is working out in a New York gym. George Earnshaw, Philadelphia right-hander, and Jess Petty, Chicago Cub southpaw are taking the baths at Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Three Star Ball Players Struggle To Ward Off Excess Poundage

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP)—Some of the boys are jumping the gun again.

With most major league clubs scheduled not to leave for spring training until after the middle of February, reports have started to trickle in of athletes in far-flung spots sweating and groaning to work off the effects of a soft winter.

Among these early starters are the "big bam," Babe Ruth himself; George Earnshaw, Philadelphia righthander, and Jess Petty, veteran southpaw, signed last year by the Chicago Cubs.

Each has a particularly good reason for an early start.

Ruth had a good season last year. He hit .359 and drove out 49 home runs. But he didn't lead both major leagues. Pudgy little Hack Wilson, Chicago Cub outfielder, prevented that. Wilson accounted for 56 homers, and they cry arose from all sides that the big Babe had slipped.

Ruth is reported to be drawing down somewhere in the neighborhood of $80,000 a year, and that money he realizes calls for a champion, not a near champion.

Moreover, Joe McCarthy, new manager, is leaning heavily on the Babe for a successful first season with the club. Ruth and Lou Gehrig, first baseman, McCarthy has said, are the only two men on the club who are certain regulars. The others must prove up.

Consequently, Ruth, now 36, is working off that excess fat daily in a New York gymnasium with his daughter Julia to goad him on.

Petty and Earnshaw are in Hot Springs, Ark., taking the baths.

Earnshaw, who won 22 games last year and was the hero of the world's series against the St. Louis Cardinals, carries a large share of the hopes of the Athletics for a third straight championship.

Unless "Rube" Walberg, left-hander, returns to form or a consistent winner develops from the crop of Athletic youngsters, Connie Mack faces the prospect of defending his honors with just two consistent winners. "Lefty" Grove is one. Earnshaw is the other.

Consequently it is vital to Mack that the big righthander, who has been called a "second Mathewson," be ready to go from the opening gun.

Petty is laboring to make good in what perhaps will amount to his last chance in the major league. He has been campaigning since 1916, and was picked up by the Chicago Cubs from the Newark International league club.

Petty, who weighs around 200 pounds, always is overweight in the spring. He wants to be in shape this year.

Williams School Leads Hardeman County Race

Special to The Record News

WILLIAMS SCHOOL, Jan. 25.—The Williams Wildcats took the lead in the county cage race here by defeating the Quanah Indians by a score of 30 to 29. The game was the fastest seen in this county this year and both teams showed better form than was expected. The first quarter ended with Quanah holding an 11-point lead, but they were unable to hold it and the half ended with Quanah leading by only six points. The Williams boys tied the score at 25 points at the end of the third quarter. Quanah came back to take a four-point lead as the fourth quarter started and held it until the last two minutes of play when the Williams boys tied the score and won the game with a free shot as the game ended.

This is the first time that Williams has tried to place a strong team in the race as the Williams school consolidated last year after the season was finished, but Coach C. E. Brown has put a team into the race that has shown improvement in the last few games and they are not being considered lightly by other teams.

Special to The Record News

MUNDAY, Texas, Jan. 25.—Returns for Friday night's basket ball games here were as follows: Knox City and Munday Senior boys, 15 and 21 in favor of Munday; Munday girls and Weinert girls, 11 and 11, tie; Knox City and Munday junior boys 8 and 0 in favor of Knox City. The game between the Munday and Knox City senior boys' teams were extremely hard fought, the Munday team running up the winning score only in the last few minutes of the game.

SPEED DRIVER AT DAYTONA

Campbell Prepares For Beach Auto Tests

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Jan. 25. (AP)—Given a properly designed car and an ideal course, land speed can be raised indefinitely, Capt. Malcolm Campbell of England said today as he began final preparations for his proposed assault on the world's automobile speed record here.

The 46-year-old speed veteran believes, however, there is no known course in the world where a land speed of more than 280 or possibly 300 miles an hour can be attained.

"If it were possible to obtain a perfect course and a man had sufficient money to build a proper car, with tires made to stand the pace," he said, "I say there is no limit to the speed he could make."

The slender, soft spoken Englishman, who has held the world's automobile straightaway record three times, declined to make any estimate of the speed he hopes to attain during his trials starting Feb. 2. The present record is 231 miles per hour, established here two years ago by the late Sir Henry Seagrave, also of England.

Campbell's new car, the Bluebird II, similar in design, but more powerful than the machine with which he established a former record of 206.95 miles per hour here in 1928, is expected to arrive from New York next Thursday.

PURPLE IN VAN

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. (AP)—Riding on the crest of four straight victories, Northwestern held undisputed possession of first place in the free-for-all Big Ten basket ball championship race today.

Takeichi Harada, ranking member of Japan's 1930 Davis Cup tennis team, is the only member certain of his place for matches this year.

DIETZEL HELD BY PORKERS

Frog Need Way to Score When Star Is Boxed

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Jan. 25.—Texas Christian university's hopes of wading undefeated through the Southwest conference basket ball campaign were stilled last night at Fort Worth, when the University of Arkansas Razorbacks, fighting hard to stay in the running for their sixth straight title, nosed out the Frogs, 30-29, to split the crucial series.

As a result, the Southern Methodist university quintet was in undisputed possession of the leadership, with three straight victories. The Mustangs further were assured to holding the fort for at least a week, their next scheduled tilt being Feb. 2 against Texas Christian here.

Beaten, 35-26, the first night, Arkansas employed desperate means to come back and stop the rampaging Frogs last night. Adolph (Too Tall) Dietzel, brilliant sophomore center who scored 20 points against them in the first fray, was covered like a blanket by two husky Razorbacks. The scored only one field goal and three free throws, and that stopped the Frogs.

It was the first defeat suffered by T. C. U.'s great sophomore team in the two seasons it has played together. Last year, playing independently, the embryo Frogs licked everything in the state and won the Southern A. A. U. tournament here. While they still will rank as favorites for the conference crown, despite last night's loss, the Christians will have to figure out something clever to do when Dietzel is blocked in future games. From here on the tall boy can be assured of two chaperones regularly.

The Baylor Bears broke into the victory column with a 45-43 win over the Texas Longhorns at Austin. It was a thriller. With seconds to play and Texas leading by one point, Strickland, Bruin center, got the sphere out past the foul line. He cut loose a high, arching shot for the basket, the gun sounding as it left his hands. The ball struck the backboard, circled the basket a couple of times and fell through.

Rice climbed into a three-way tie for fourth place by downing the Texas Aggies, 27-24.

In deference to mid-term exams, only one tilt was scheduled the coming week. Baylor and Rice, both pretty well out of the running, will meet Tuesday night at Waco.

The standing:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Southern Methodist	3	0	1.000
Texas Christian	3	1	.750
Arkansas	5	3	.625
Rice	2	4	.333
Texas A. & M.	1	2	.333
Baylor	1	2	.333
Texas	1	4	.200

Pete Lapan Named In Divorce Action

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25. (UP)—Peter N. Lapan, Texas baseball league catcher, was named defendant in a divorce action brought by Mrs. Teresa Lapan on file here today.

Mrs. Lapan said she went to Dallas to see her husband, telephoned his hotel room and was answered by one Anna Shanks. Later in the day, she charged, she met her husband on the street and upbraided him. Lapan she added, dragged her across the pavement, summoned a police patrol and had her held in the Dallas jail for 24 hours.

Pete Lapan played with the Spudders two seasons ago.

New Utrecht High school has won the indoor track title among New York high schools six straight times.

ALLEN AVERS

By JACK (RED) ALLEN

Coach Francis Schmidt of T. C. U. has brought that school to the front in athletics during the past two seasons. The former Arkansas university mentor assumed control of the Frog football and basket ball teams and has produced the hardest fighting teams in the Southwest conference.

During his two years at the helm of the Frog athletic machine, Coach Schmidt has produced a championship football team that won the Southwest conference pennant in 1929 and placed in the runnerup slot in the 1930 conference scramble. His first year basket ball team failed to make much of an impression, but the 1931 team is all but in with the conference title. The Mustangs of S. M. U. are the only serious obstacle in the path of the speeding Frogs, and the Schmidtmen are heavy favorites to win. They lost their first conference game the other night to the Razorbacks of Arkansas, the team Schmidt coached before he came to T. C. U.

The defeat was by the narrowest of margins, 30-29 and according to reports was a spectacular affair. Coach Schmidt deserves some sort of recognition for his success at the Frog school. Let's donate him a fur-lined syrup pitcher or a cut glass bathing suit.

The Longhorns of Texas university were bull-dogged again last week when the Baylor Bears captured a see-saw affair by the margin of 45-42. That makes about 10 games this season the Steers have lost by the margins of two or three points. Coach Fred Walker's charges could be benefited by a smile from Lady Luck. Those Steers need some rabbit feet.

Probably the outstanding star in Southwest conference basket ball circles is Adolph "Tall Enuf" Dietzel, Frog flash. He averages around 20 points per game and is the leading scorer in the conference. The defeat of the Frogs last week for the first time in their conference schedule was attributed largely to the fact that Dietzel had an off day and scored only two points.

Three outstanding teams are already being favored to go far into the eliminations of the district high school basket ball tournament which will be held here on Feb. 20-21 in the Coyote gym. Olney's two time champions are rated as the best in the district. Nocona comes second in the dope. Olney defeated the Indians in a practice game by a close score. It would be a great battle if these two teams should meet in the finals. But Vernon High school comes in for a little recognition as the result of its impressive early season record. The Lions are the dark horses and will give the Cubs and Indians a run for the championship. One of the most impressive records made by the Lions from Wilbarger county is the defeat of the Electra Tigers by the decisive score of 60-6. The Tigers are no setups either.

Megargel Fans Treated To Evening of Dribbling

Special to The Record News

MEGARGEL, Texas, Jan. 25.—The fans received a treat here Friday night when they witnessed a volley ball game and three basket ball games. The first event was a volley ball game between Megargel and Throckmorton, which resulted in a victory for Megargel by the score of 32 to 22. Following the volley ball game the Megargel Bluebirds played the Graham High school team and were defeated decisively, 26 to 13, in a basket ball game. The Bluebirds were outclassed by a much heavier team. The most thrilling event of the evening was the local Independent team and the Throckmorton Independents which resulted in a 23 to 20 victory for Throckmorton. It was the closest game played here thus far. Stribling, forward for Throckmorton, was the outstanding player of the events. In a third game Elbert High defeated Throckmorton High, 16 to 9.

JUNIOR HIGHS TO MEET FOES

Reagan and Zundy Have Busy Week Ahead

Both junior high cage teams enter into a week of heavy duty in the next few days, Reagan meeting the Henrietta Juniors and the Burkburnett High school in return games, and the Zundy basketeers take on the faculty team of Zundy and the Henrietta Juniors. All games will be played here, according to Coaches Roy Golden of Zundy and A. D. Beck of Reagan.

The past week proved unsuccessful for the two junior prep teams, Reagan being the only one to push over a victory. The Vernon Juniors fell before the onslaught of the Redbirds at the Vernon lair in a close battle, 14 to 11. Zundy bowed to the Valley View tossers on the latter's court in a return game, 24 to 17. In a previous game between the two teams on the Zundy court the local five had emerged victor by a bare margin. The Archer City first team was hard pushed to score a 24 to 13 victory over the Reagan dribblers on the Coyote court last week. The bigger and faster visitors outlasted the losers, but the Redbirds threw a scare into the highly touted Wildcats by leading, 10 to 8, at the first half.

Fundamentals are being stressed almost entirely by the mentors of the two teams. Passing and pivoting has occupied much of the practice session of the Reagan crew. Coach Golden is still trying to hit upon a combination that will click with precision.

GARY, Ind., Jan. 25. (AP)—Casper Oimen, national ski champion from Canton, S. D., jumped his way to another triumph today by winning the annual contest at the Ogden Dunes club with two leaps of 168 feet, one foot short of the record for the slide.

It was one of the best games seen on the local court this season. Ross Edgemon brought a smooth working machine here to administer Thalia's first defeat of the season.

High scoring honors went to Coyle Francis of the Methodists with Rawls, Methodist, and R. Mints of Thalia trailing him closely.

Gentlemen:-

Spit is one of the words which we have learned to avoid in polite parlance. But in our distaste for the use of an unpleasant word, there is a likelihood of minimizing the dangers of contamination which this word connotes.

I am, therefore, gratified to see you openly using the word spit in your advertising of cigars.

The ever-present possibility of infection from heedless spitting habits is most vital in any consideration of health maintenance. You may, of course, publish this letter if it will help.

Yours very truly,

Sooner Pastors Keep Odd Hours to Accommodate Texas Pairs

Special to The Record News.
WAURIKA, Okla., Jan. 25.—More than twice as many marriage licenses issued in Jefferson county during 1930 were for Texas couples than for those living in Oklahoma.
Of a total of 638 issued during the year, 494 were for Texans.
Couples continue to arrive in Waurika at all hours of the day and night from various parts of Texas asking for marriage licenses, and local ministers are no longer surprised to be called from bed at any time to perform a ceremony.

Members of the committee have stressed the aim of the organization to make their services reach every corner of the county and at the same time named community chairmen.

But what could he do with her? Obviously she was depending on him.
"You'll have to hide for a while. You say you only left this morning?"
"Yes, this morning," and Poppy shuddered. She had been so brave and now she was so cowardly. If she had the thing to do over again, she couldn't do it. She knew that. It seemed impossible now—her escapade. Unbelievable that she had jumped on the ice wagon and ridden past the front gate.
"I've a cabin in Connecticut—just a tiny place where I go when I want a rest. I'll drive you there now, and let Max go with you. He will cook for you, and watch out for you. You can trust him implicitly. He's been with me for years. How does that sound?"
Poppy sighed. It sounded—wonderful. She smiled her thanks and Kevin went into the other room and came out jerking his arms through his coat.
"Ready?"
"Yes."
"Max!" And the Chinaman appeared. "You're going with us. Bring around the car."

Trucks Lead Cars In Hardeman Registration

Special to The Record News.
QUANAH, Texas, Jan. 25.—Car registrations in Hardeman county to date are less than to same period last year, being 583 to 662, while truck registrations are 73 as against 67 to same period in 1930. Total registrations and license plates issued for 1930 were 3,125.
Tax Collector M. A. Hurst is urging all to secure licenses as early in January as possible, as all motor car and truck owners operating unregistered cars after Jan. 31 will not only be subject to arrest, but must pay for the full year and a penalty of 20 per cent.
Property tax and poll tax payments are also very slow in coming in, Mr. Hurst said.

FAITH UPHOLDS 'FUTURE LIFE'

Rev. Bell Tells of Greatest Promise in Gospels

"Eternal life begins when our experience of righteousness begins here," said Rev. Ben Bell, pastor of the Wilson Memorial Methodist church, in his sermon Sunday morning.

The greatest promise contained in the gospels, the speaker said, is the statement of John 1:11-25, "this is the promise that He hath promised us, even eternal life."

"The promises of God given to us in the Bible are all that we have to reply upon for our faith and practice," Rev. Mr. Bell said. "The greatest of these promises we find in the above recited text, i. e. eternal life. One truth upon which everyone is agreed is that this life we now live is of short duration. And as no one has returned to the physical life and said anything explanatory of what is after this life, we naturally have a question in our minds as to what may await us in the future.

His Promise

"This we shall never know on this side of the grave. But we can have a glorious hope when believing the promise of God mentioned in the text, for eternal life begins when our experience of righteousness begins here. 'This is the record, that God hath given us eternal life, and this life is in His son. He that hath the son hath eternal life, and he that hath not the son hath not that life.'

"This experience brings happiness. Real happiness, or joy. Solid happiness, perpetual happiness. We mean by 'real' happiness an experience deeper than a sensation, that gives the mind and spirit strength and power to overcome all that depresses our ambitions and desires in life. We mean by 'solid' happiness that deep-rooted sense of oneness with God despite the experiences which are bound to come with sorrow into our lives. By it we know that whatever is of God is for our good, and we know it continually. We mean by 'perpetual' happiness that no certain time, day, hour or minute will terminate it. This is the reverse of our knowledge of death. We do know that there will be marked for each of us a time when life here will end in death.

Glimpses in Bible

"Then is Heaven opened in the heart of a human being. 'The love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost.' This provides pure benevolence with all its fruits. Love, joy, peace, humility, patience; submission on our part to the whole will of God, as we understand it; aids to our understanding of what the will of God is concerning us.

"The nature of the blessedness of future life can be known to us only by the glimpses we have of it in the Bible, and which we have gleaned from daily experience. By them we are lead to believe that inexpressible joy and peace are the soul's future estate."

Altus Host To Highway Parley

ALTUS, Okla., Jan. 25.—Delegates from six states and from the state of Chihuahua, Old Mexico, were gathering here Sunday for the joint meeting of the Carlsbad Cavern Highway association and the Arcoma highway group, scheduled to complete plans for linking the two national thoroughfares in an all-day meeting Monday. Approximately 300 representatives, to be guests of the Altus Chamber of Commerce, were expected.

Both roads are designated as federal highway No. 62, and the occasion of the annual meeting of the Carlsbad association, with the Arcoma group as special guests, is hoped to effect a union between the routes. The Arcoma transcontinental route connects Niagara Falls with El Paso, Texas, and Chihuahua, Mexico. The cavern road now extends from Chihuahua through Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma, going as far north as Oklahoma City. Highway officials from Chihuahua, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, and Kentucky are among the representatives expected at the Monday meeting.

Officials of the Carlsbad Cavern association are to be elected at this, the third annual convention. Present officers are J. H. Hankins, Lubbock, president; J. M. Moreau, Olustee, vice president; and A. B. Davis, Lubbock, secretary. A vice president for each state represented is to be named.

Scientists Hear Sermon on 'Truth'

"Truth" was the lesson sermon subject in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Jan. 25.

Isaiah 25:1 furnished the golden text: "O Lord, Thou art my God; I will exalt Thee, I will praise Thy name; for Thou hast done wonderful things; Thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth."

The following verses from the Bible were included in the service (Deuteronomy 32:3-4): "Because I will publish the name of the Lord: ascribe Ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, His work is perfect: for all His ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is He."

Among the citations read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, was this from the preface, p. vii: "Truth, independent of doctrines and time-honored systems, knocks at the portal of humanity. Contentment with the past and the cold conventionalities of materialism are crumbling away. Ignorance of God is no longer the stepping stone to faith."

Ken Maynard, Movie Idol, Proves Real Texas Cowboy

Packed Houses Greet Film Star In Personal Appearance Here

Playing to four capacity houses, Ken Maynard, movie cowboy idol of the younger generation, and his wonder horse, Tarzan, gave Wichita Falls one of the rarest treats it has had for some time when they appeared at the Majestic theater Sunday afternoon and evening.

Tall, dark and handsome in his cowboy regalia, the movie hero was as much at ease and pleasing on the stage as he appears to be in a picture on the screen. Crowded for time, a reporter was invited to his dressing room where the artist talked at random between dabs of powder, rouge and lipstick.

"You know I like Texas. I was born and reared down here at Mission in Hidalgo county and punched cows nearly all over the whole state. My father was a cattle man and I guess it was bred into me. I don't know what the attraction about cowboys and western life is to youngsters unless it is the nomadic, wandering life they lead.

"I know I would never go back to it. All I got out of it was a lot of hard work," he laughed.

"Every person who interviews me asks when I learned to ride. Well, I don't even remember because it seems like that I have always been able to ride."

Mr. Maynard has been making pictures for the last five years and was the first star to stick to western pictures when the talkies came in. He was the first star to make a talking western picture, which was "The Wagon Master."

"In my pictures I never personally kill the villian or do anything that may seem immoral in the least because I know thousands of young boys will see the picture and may try to imitate some of my actions. I enjoy smoking but I never smoke on the street or in a picture where children may see me. It may set a bad example for some youngster."

The star's favorite hobby is flying and he has 1,000 hours to his credit. He owns two planes, a J6 Travelair and an OF-5 Waco. Another pastime is playing his guitar and violin and singing the old cowboy songs.

Mr. Maynard's party consists of his wife, his organist, Mrs. Loraine Franklin, and an assistant entertainer, George Blues, who appears in the act. His horse, "Tarzan," and a small screw tail bull terrier, "Skippy," the mascot, are included in his act.

The artist will appear here Tuesday and Wednesday giving a special show at 5:25 Monday afternoon for school children. He will go from here to Fort Worth and when the tour is finished will return to Hollywood where he will start a new picture, "The Two-Gun Men."

Adversity Purges Character Of Dross, Says Martin in Bible Talk

Uses of adversity and resisted temptation in purging human character of its dross were extolled by Judge P. A. Martin before members of the Men's Bible class of the Floral Heights Methodist church Sunday morning.

Discussing the recorded temptation of Christ during 40 days of fasting in the wilderness, Judge Martin said in part:

"Of all the lessons I have ever been called upon to teach, the temptation of Jesus during His 40 days in the wilderness after His baptism is the most difficult. It is recorded by all three of the synoptic gospels and is therefore of supreme importance. I have read everything within my limited reach in order to get light upon it and yet I have not reached conclusions that are altogether satisfactory to me, from any lesson helps or comments that I have seen; so I have, in a very certain sense evolved my own theory of the matter.

Representative of Man

"We must remember that Jesus was not only the son of God but at the same time He was the representative of man, the example of all that the Creator would have man to be, the perfect man, if you please. Upon His baptism, the Holy Spirit came down upon Him and He was definitely called upon to open His earthly ministry and to begin at once the spiritual conquest of the world. Endowed with human appetites and passions and human desires and ambitions, just as other men are, He stood at the parting of the ways; a Godlike nature on the one hand leading to a life of toil, poverty, persecution, misunderstanding, misrepresentation, and finally to the crown of thorns, the cross of shame, death and the grave; a human nature on the other hand, subject to all the desires and temptations of the ordinary man.

"And immediately the Prince of the powers of darkness began the human appeal; first to the appetite. For 40 days He suffered the pangs of hunger and all the while the tempter whispered in His ear 'command these stones to become bread and eat, drink and be merry.' And when He would not fall for this temptation, His tormentor said, 'use the power you have for your own aggrandizement and become the ruler of the whole world,' appealing to ambition. And then seeing that this failed Satan played his last card suggesting that He throw Himself from the pinnacle of the temple, commanding the angels to take care of Him, and let all the people see once for all that He was a supernatural being and receive their worship and their acclaim at once as a God, abandoning at one stroke all idea you have of teaching men by your example how to live and how to die and how to sacrifice yourself for others. The suggestion in substance was simply to quit trying to be a man and show forth your Godlike nature by a public miracle from the most public place in the whole Jewish world. But to all these arguments the Son of Man was adamant; He deliberately chose the hard road mapped out for him, in the heavens above, and took up His burden and became a 'man of sorrows and full of grief and was stricken and bruised for our sins and the burden of all our iniquities was laid upon Him' by virtue of this choice.

"And in my judgment, it is right at this point that the great battle is fought out in the hearts of men. We each, according to the Scriptures, 'have power to become the sons of God' and at the same time we each have power to become the sons of perdition. If we yield to the temptations of the appetites and passions, to self indulgence, to the gratification of human desires and place these uppermost in our lives, then we are lost to the life of the Spirit. Or if we fall down at the feet of a worldly ambition and desire to rule over our fellowmen we may gain that object, as many men have, but it will be at the sacrifice of all that is spiritual in our natures. Or if after tasting the good things of the kingdom and climbing to the pinnacle of the temple itself we spread out our spiritual wings, as it were, and cast ourselves upon the air, without exercising the human common sense we have and without performing the duties we are called upon to perform, we become 'as a sounding brass or any tinkling cymbal.'

Ordinary Temptations

"And all of these things are the ordinary and usual temptations that befall the ordinary man in every day life. It is pretty well explained by the Apostle Paul when he says the 'flesh lusteth against the spirit and the spirit against the flesh' in the hearts of men. These things are in our natures and are in constant warfare.

"And Jesus had another very human experience. The lesson says that after these temptations Satan 'departed from Him for a season.' This is experience of every man who ever resisted a great temptation. In the realization of a glorious victory over the flesh, a man feels strong as a giant and 'for a season' seems free from the wiles of Satan; but be sure it is only for a short season; for His Satanic Majesty will soon seek for some other weak place in your armor.

"A notable thing about the lesson is the fact that in every instance of offered temptation Jesus answered by a quotation from the Scriptures. This is a very suggestive lesson to each of us. How many of us are familiar enough with the Word of God to answer any sort of offered temptation with a quotation from the Bible? And yet we ought to be just that familiar with it, for it contains an answer to every question that concerns the human soul and its words are an impregnable armor of defense from every spiritual foe. It is astonishing how few people really read the Bible.

"The writer of Hebrews, author of our golden text, gives a reason for the temptation of Jesus in that He is being tempted Himself, is able to succor those that are tempted. We may accept this as one of the results of this experience, but I think He wanted us all to know that while no flesh is ever free from temptation to sin, yet there is always grace sufficient to furnish the power of resistence, if we all but use it.

"As children we have all doubtless wondered why God permits evil in the world, when He has the power to forever banish it. But when we grew older we learned the great lesson that nuggets of gold must be subjected to the refiner's fire and the dross consumed before its real value is known; the diamond must be ground and its facets carefully cut and measured before it is offered as a brilliant gem and so man, the animal, the sensual being that he is, must undergo the fires of temptation and come unscathed from the crucible in order to reach a high and holy spiritual character; so the Man of Galilee pointed out the way in this thrilling experience."

Two Injured When Auto Crashes Into Underpass Railing

Two men were painfully injured early Sunday night when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into the iron railing at the railroad underpass in the 400 block on Ohio avenue.

The men, August Vogtsberger and Rudolph Rathke, who reside on route No. 3, toward Archer City, were carried in a Merkle Undertaking company ambulance to the Hargrave-Walker hospital, where it was learned that Rathke had sustained a broken wrist and painful cuts and bruises. Vogtsberger received cuts and bruises. Both are to remain for a time at the hospital.

The men were driving south on Ohio street and police were told that the lights of an oncoming car had blinded them. Their automobile swerved to the other side of the street and crashed into the heavy iron railing. The machine was wrecked.

SARTIN HEADS DRY LEAGUE

'Flying Squadron' Leader Forms Society Here

B. D. Sartin was named president and A. D. Harrison secretary of a temporary organization set up by a mass meeting at the First Christian church Sunday afternoon preparatory to permanent establishment of the Wichita Falls society for the support of the 18th amendment.

Selection of officers followed a series of three addresses given during the past four days here by speakers of the flying squadron, which was organized in 1914. The third of these speeches was given at Sunday afternoon's meeting by Dr. Oliver W. Stewart, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation, and a veteran of 40 years' service in the dry cause.

Describing the mass meeting as a "council of war," designed to perfect a nation-wide defense against widespread wet attacks, Dr. Stewart said:

"Three changes in the attitude of prohibition's supporters have made necessary a re-organization and rededication. In the first place, the drys relaxed as though their job were done when the 18th amendment was passed. That was a mistake. It should have been only a beginning of work, a means to an end. Because of the resultant inactivity, we lost local leadership and local cohesion of purpose. Furthermore, upon outlawing the saloon, we lost our moral passion. So long as the saloon was recognized, and had legal approval, its opponents felt a righteous guilt because of its existence, and fought accordingly for its extermination. When it had been placed under legal ban, they stepped out from under the responsibility which they formerly felt.

"Our current program is to regain momentum, and re-establish local leadership. We must coordinate the programs of the 30 national dry organizations, each of which is now attacking singly. Members of the flying squadron speaking staff will arrive in Washington, D. C., on Feb. 21 for a meeting designed to unify these efforts."

Other speakers heard here were Col. Alfred L. Moudy on last Thursday night, and Miss Norma C. Brown on Friday night.

Mr. Sartin declared Sunday that steps will be taken immediately to organize the proposed society here with a large membership.

DEATHS

MRS. MORANT LAMB

The body of Mrs. Morant Lamb of Cisco, who died in a hospital here early Saturday night, is to be forwarded Monday afternoon by the Hines mortuary to Cisco, where funeral services are to be held.

J. C. Mytinger was removed to his home from the Wichita Clinic hospital Sunday morning after he had been placed under the care of a physician following a stroke caused by overheating in his office Thursday.

Mr. Mytinger was found unconscious in his office by business associates late Thursday afternoon. He had fainted after passing from a cool room into an overheated one, it was said.

For while Greta Garbo plays her usual woman-of-the-world part as only she can, and Robert Montgomery is a well-cast young student who is fascinated and swept off his uncertain feet, and the plot is the usual one containing plenty of sex, disilliusionment, overwhelming love and magnitude of heart on the part of the heroine, one can hardly call it trite.

After hearing Marlene Dietrich, the Garbo voice is intolerable at times; after seeing the beautiful German actress in her tense restraint, the continual unrestraint of the Swedish sensation is annoying. And yet, disapproving, I liked it well enogh to sit on the edge of my seat through arf hour and 15 minutes—right up to the time she walked out into the snowstorm.

ELECTRA ASKS BONUS NOW

Legion Supports Wright Patman Bill

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 25.—The local Claude C. McDonald post of the American Legion held their regular weekly meeting Friday night at the legion hall on South Main street.

The principal business was the discussion of the Wright Patman bill which will be brought up before congress providing for the immediate payment in cash of the adjusted service certificates. The post went on record as unanimously favoring the proposed legislation. There were 50 ex-service men at the meeting and talks were made by several proponents of the bill.

A petition is also being circulated among the ex-service men and those who wish to sign and have not should do so by Monday afternoon at the latest. The names will be sent to the Texas department of the American Legion along with the information that the post favors the bill. The Texas department will forward the material along with other legion reports in the state to Washington.

The interest at the meeting Friday evening was great and the discussion was received enthusiastically. A number of Electrans who are ex-service men who have never attended or joined the local legion were present at the meeting and some signified their intentions of joining. There were also several negro ex-service men who were interested in the bill and attended to place their vote.

John H. Tolleson, post commander, states that the bill if passed will be a great benefit to Electra as a survey made some time ago showed that between 450 and 500 men in this community are ex-service men.

A recent survey shows an increased acreage of nearly all truck crops in Florida this year.

"NOW We Are Three!"

KATHERINE AND BILL—what fun it is to know them! They seem to get so much out of living. You met them just a little over a year ago—the week before they were married. Ten days later it gave you a pleasant glow of anticipation to receive the trim card telling you when they'd be "at home."

And today you got another card, headed "Now we are three!" Bill's signature comes first, then Katherine's, and then—the guided, chubby scrawl of the newcomer, Jeremy.

You happen to know that although he is in line for an important promotion, Bill's present salary isn't large. Most other young couples would consider themselves "up against it" if they had to manage on so little. Yet Katherine and Bill maintain a standard of living that is the admiration of all their friends.

You know how they do it, for Katherine has told you. They budget all expenditures.
