

'Critical problem' threatens future of Little Bay

By PAT BLAIR
Staff writer

"We are critical — pretty close to it. You can't expect it tomorrow or next year, or maybe the next 10 years. But you can't continue the way you are now."

That was the warning from Mary

Thorpe, M.S., of L.P. Enterprises in a public hearing in Rockport's City Hall Monday night on a wetlands nutrient absorption study conducted last year in Rockport through the Coastal Bend Council of Governments (COG).

Some 30 or 40 area residents crowded

City Hall to hear Thorpe tell them. "There is really a critical problem" threatening Little Bay as the result of nutrients flowing into the bay — primarily, according to the absorption study report, as a result of effluent from septic tanks in the Little Bay drainfield.

Thorpe and Dr. John White, who conducted the study, originally were looking at the drainage ditch that begins at Rockport's wastewater treatment plant, to determine the effect of discharge from the plant on the waters of Little Bay.

The study showed the effect of the treatment plant wasn't as great as the effect of other nutrient sources such as septic systems. "Fulton ditch," said Thorpe, referring to one of the study areas, "is contributing much higher nutrients than the plant." She said at one time, the

Holman, ACND in suit

A lawsuit filed by the Aransas County Navigation District (ACND) against ACND Commissioner Kirk Holman has been set for a jury trial on Sept. 7 at 9:30 a.m.

The trial date was scheduled following a pretrial hearing in the court of 36th District Judge Ronald Yeager Friday, July 16.

The ACND filed suit against Holman on Feb. 1 of this year alleging conflict of interest for Holman who owns a bait stand in Fulton Harbor.

Holman and Jack Carter entered into a written lease agreement with the ACND around Dec. 1, 1980, for the space in Fulton Harbor in which the bait stand is located. That agreement was amended around June 3, 1981.

The ACND petition for suit, filed by ACND attorney Reese Rozzell, contends that, by virtue of the lease agreement and subsequent amendment, a conflict of interest exists for Holman who was elected to the Navigation District board of directors on Aug. 1, 1981.

The petition asks that judgement be as follows:

Budget workshops begin

Police chief puts in request for a second clerk

A request by Police Chief Joe Hinojosa for another clerk in the police department met with apparent favor as members of the city council took their first look at 1982-83 budget proposals in a workshop session Monday.

The workshop was the first of several such sessions for city officials, with the council looking only at requests in the police and animal control departments.

City Administrator Herman Johnson emphasized that, because of several factors including the current property appraisals under way, the city at this point does not know how much tax revenue it can expect for the 1982-83 budget year.

Also unknown as of Monday's workshop were exact figures on items such as employee insurance, vehicle insurance, Social Security and Workmen's Compensation. Johnson and City Secretary Helen Braffitt told the council they were estimating a 25 percent increase in these costs for 1982-83.

Braffitt anticipated that exact costs might be known by August.

Rockport Mayor Burt Mills Jr. and Aldermen Murray McMillan, Betty Jean Ward and Richard Beck attended the workshop session in which Hinojosa submitted his request for another clerk to help handle the paperwork in his department.

"We're about six months behind in our paperwork," the Police Chief said, emphasizing this is not a reflection on the present clerk but is because "in the past seven or eight months, everything has increased. We have three times more paperwork than in the past."

Johnson estimated a new employee would add about $10,000 to the police department budget. Hinojosa is asking for a full-time employee and Johnson told council members, "It's hard to hire a person part-time in that particular field."

Another unknown in the police department budget at this time, Johnson said, is whether Aransas County will request — as it did last year — that the city increase

Debt adjustment plan is on ACMUD agenda

LAMAR — A debt adjustment plan and a proposal for repair of the non-functioning water treatment plant are on the agenda for a meeting Thursday of the utility district that serves Goose Island Lake Estates in Lamar.

The Aransas County Municipal Utility District (ACMUD) No. 1 is scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 22, in the district office on 8th Street.

Also scheduled on the agenda is appointment of an auditor for the fiscal year that ends July 31 and a report on delinquent tax collections.

In the June meeting of ACMUD directors, a plan was approved to help bail the district out of the financial problems that have plagued it for the past three or four years.

The plan was presented in May and calls for a schedule of payments of the district's debt obligations over a nine-year period.

Putting the plan into effect would require approval of the district's major creditors, and Herman Little, attorney for the ACMUD, said at the June meeting he would send copies of the proposed plan to creditors and get their response.

The board in Thursday's meeting is expected to receive a proposal for repair of the water treatment plant which, the district maintains, has not functioned properly since shortly after it went on-line in early 1979.

Residents of Goose Island Lake Estates have charged the water from the plant is undrinkable and several have urged the ACMUD directors to file suit against Envirogenics, the designers of the plant, and/or Glaser Construction, contractors for the project.

RYSCO finances healthy

Despite slumps in the oil and shrimp industries for which Rockport Yacht & Supply Company (RYSCO) builds boats, that company if not riding high is at least keeping its financial head above the troubled waters.

"We're slow," says Company President Tom Smith, "just as everything else is. But we aren't having any financial problems and we don't plan on closing — that's for sure."

RYSCO laid off approximately nine employees on May 27 — the company's first layoff since the energy crisis period of 1973-74. There have been no layoffs since then. "There's still work," Smith said. "We have work in progress right now."

What the company doesn't have at present is any work for the local oil industry. "The oil industry is way off," Smith said.

Nor is the company working on any domestic shrimp boat. "The state of the shrimping industry, nobody in their right mind would build a shrimp boat!" he added.

But RYSCO is currently working on a speculation tug-supply ship and Smith has already received inquiries from four companies interested in purchasing the vessel. "I've sent them price quotes," he said.

The company, which does a lot of boat-building for foreign companies, has also received a request from "one of my Japanese customers" for a quote on construction of some shrimpers, Smith said.

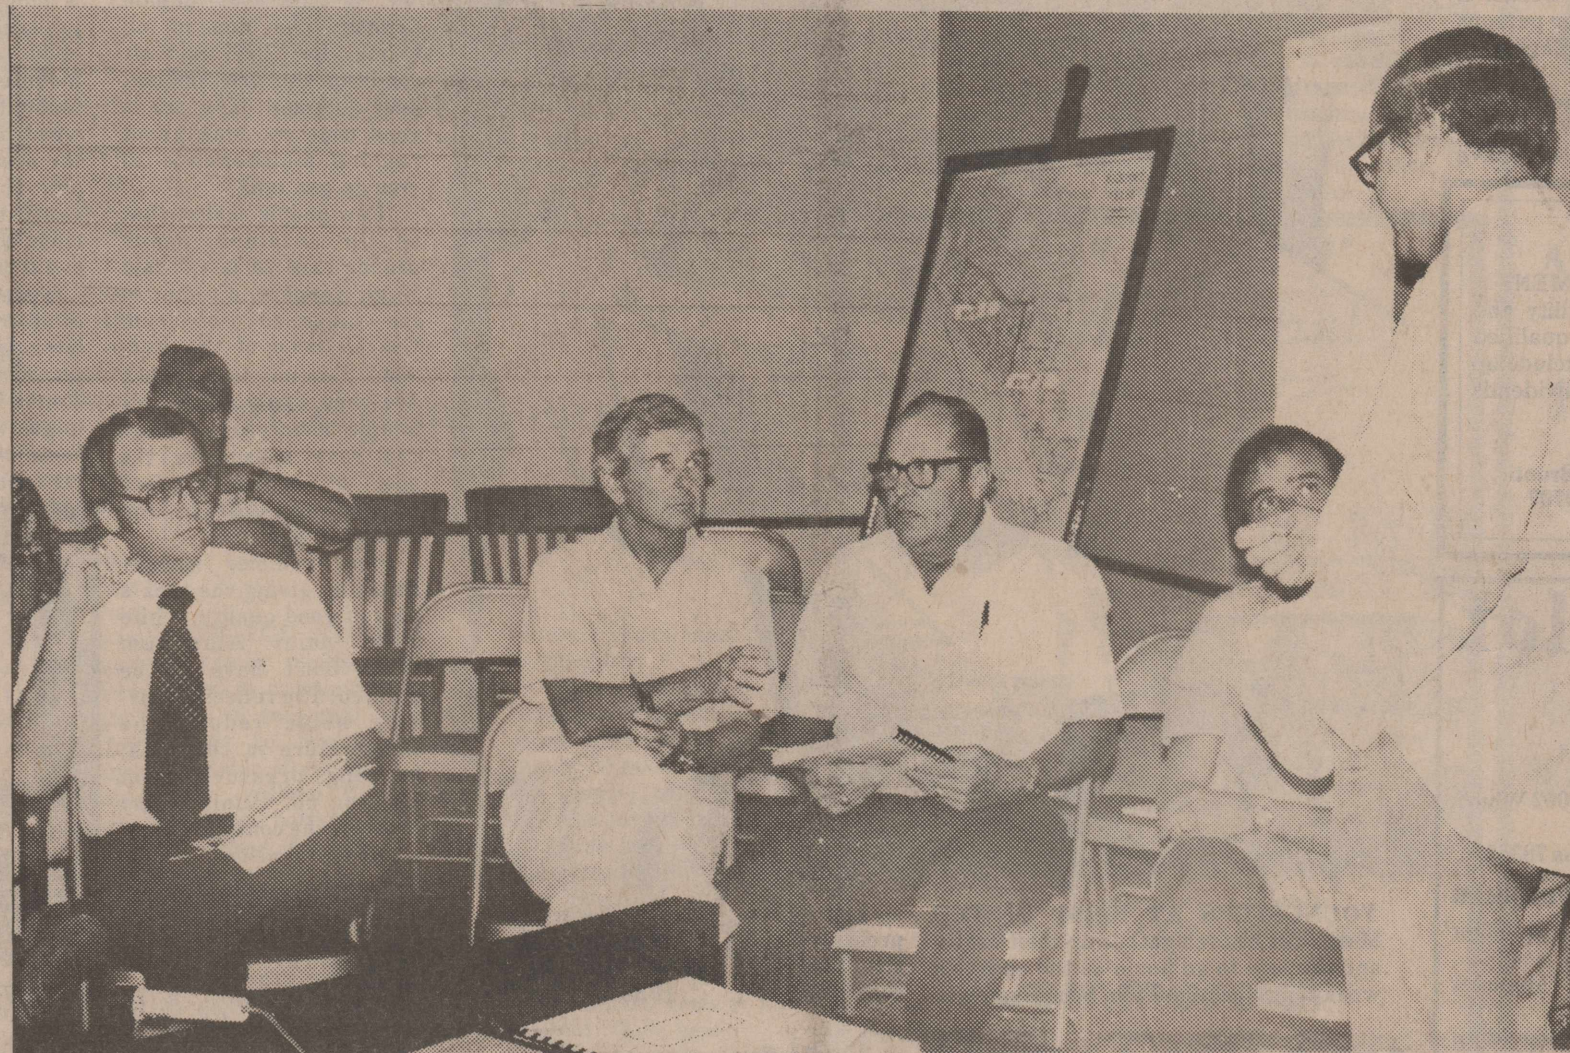

And a recent "drop" in the hours worked by employees is in the process of reversing. "On some of our crafts (referring to the carpenters, welders and other specialists

Matagorda Island Impact Statement is released

By BECKY WERHAN
Staff writer

The long-awaited Draft Environmental Impact Statement on the proposal for final disposition of 19,000 acres of federally owned land on Matagorda Island has been released.

Prepared by the U.S. Department of the Interior Fish and Wildlife Service and the federal General Services Administration, the document proposes as a "preferred alternative" the transfer of administrative jurisdiction of all federal land to the Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS).

The FWS and the state of Texas would then exchange wildlife conservation easements on the 41,356 acres of Matagorda which is publicly owned property. Thus, the 19,000 acres of federal property would remain under the primary jurisdiction of FWS as a part of the National Wildlife Refuge System. The state tidelands would also become part of the refuge system.

A co-operative agreement between FWS and the Texas Parks and Wildlife (TPW) would cover management of the 19,000 federal acres and the adjacent tidelands and beaches, totalling 41,356 acres. According to Thomas E. Smith, reaty officer of the FWS, the state will manage the land in the same manner it is now being handled.

"They have agreed in the co-op agreement that they, in effect, will manage it exactly the same as we have," said Smith.

"This will allow management by the state, but would assure federal protection," he added. "The primary jurisdiction would remain with the FWS in accordance with the rules and regulations of the National Wildlife Refuge System."

The Draft Environmental Impact Statement was prepared to fulfill the federal requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act regarding all federal land transfer action.

A hearing will be conducted Aug. 23 in [See Matagorda, page 12]

Texas taxpayers will bear the burden of educating illegal aliens

By Congressman
Bill Patman

Texas and Texas taxpayers will bear the main burden of the Supreme Court ruling that our schools must educate the children of illegal aliens. I agree with the idea that innocent children shouldn't be punished for the transgressions of the parents. I also agree that society suffers when large groups of its members are denied education.

But I don't believe that Texas' local school districts — and local taxpayers — should have to pay to educate illegal aliens, just because the accident of geography gives us a common border with Mexico.

Residents of Florida know this problem well. They have had tremendous problems in coping with the flood of refugees — Cuban, Haitian, and Salvadoran — that have come into their state in recent years. Yet, in a time of recession and national belt-tightening, Congress is not eager to spend Federal money to help.

New money is needed that does not come directly from taxing citizens. That is why I am working on a bill which should stimulate revenue to defray the costs of educating illegal aliens.

My proposal is to levy a small tax — say 25 cents a barrel — on imported oil and a comparable tax on imported natural gas. The proceeds from this tax would be earmarked for those local school districts and state education agencies that must bear the cost of educating the children of illegal aliens. Also, I hope this tax can be used to strengthen the enforcement of our immigration laws and for other expenses caused by the presence of illegal aliens in the United States. Our entire border is patrolled by fewer persons than guard the Capitol in Washington.

Just how large is this problem anyway?

At present, we have approximately 30,000 children of illegal aliens in our Texas schools. We can expect many more now that the Supreme Court ruled as it did.

Another question often asked is: How can we know which children these are?

This, again, will cause a new burden on our local school districts. Some school districts, before a child is enrolled, require a proof-of-birth document — a birth certificate or baptism certificate or other credible evidence. These indicate place of birth, which gives some clue to the nationality and citizenship status of parents.

The legislation I am preparing would provide funding for this new educational responsibility — and also provide money for other costs illegal aliens bring to our society.

The Court emphasized that its decision was aimed only at education. However, we realize that litigation is now underway — this time in California — to force the states to provide health care to indigent aliens.

In the legislation that I am proposing to tap a NEW source of INCOME to pay for the education of the children of illegal aliens, I take the position that immigration policy is an area for Federal, not state, action. The failure of the Federal Government to enforce our national immigration laws — and the costs for this failure — should be borne by the Federal government. It should not be borne by Texas and individual school districts that attract large numbers of the illegal aliens.

A worldwide economic recession, the longing of the poor and oppressed of many lands to find a better place for their children to grow up and live, and the chaos of unstable governments have placed great pressure on this nation's borders.

At a time when many of our citizens are unemployed, this immigration pressure is causing the United States urgently reassess its immigration policies.

Many Americans favor yanking up the welcome mat to these homeless thousands. In fact, in a recent Roper Poll, 80 percent of those questioned felt immigration quotas are too large, and 91 percent backed a crackdown on illegal entrants.

Congress is considering whether to put the burden of enforcement on employers. One proposal would provide a stiff fine for employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens. Another proposal would require employers to examine special identification cards before hiring a person.

Colorado Governor Richard Lamm is himself the grandson of immigrants, yet he is seeing the present wave of newcomers to this country differently from earlier times.

"Immigration," says Governor Lamm, "is another of the ideas which served us well in times past, but which hurts us in the 1980s. It is out of control, and the effects penetrate every layer of society."

This is another of the hard problems facing Congress — with particular importance to Texans.

Donation given to library

A $100 check has been presented to Aransas County Public Library in the name of Jana Kline Hensler, system manager of Rockport Cable TV, for her commitment to the NICKELODEON Affiliate Advisory Council.

The check, presented by Warner Amex Satellite Entertainment Company (WASEC) which produces and distributes NICKELODEON, is in recognition of Mrs. Hensler's active role, through her participation on the Council and as a NICKELODEON affiliate, to the development of quality television to young people.

Eunice Hamon, director of the library, said the donation will be used to purchase children's books. "We have a big need for that here," she said.

NICKELODEON is the first and only television channel exclusively for young people, featuring non-violent, commercial-free, pro-social programs for youngsters from preschool through their teens.

It currently has 1,725 affiliates serving 7.7 million subscribers nationwide.

Mrs. Hensler said the donations made by WASEC are the "brain-children" of Ann McIntyre, national director for affiliate relations for WASEC.

Eschberger heads to Grand National Championship

By TED NORMAN
Managing Editor

After winning 24 trophies this season, eight his last three times out, Rockport motorcycle racer Todd Eschberger is heading for the Grand National Championship in Ponca

City, Okla.

Fifteen-year-old Todd became interested in motorcycle racing in 1980 after being exposed to racing by his brother who at that time was riding in the 125 novice class.

When Todd began racing

he found he was competing against riders who had been racing for five or six years and Todd found he couldn't be a consistent winner under those conditions.

Todd continued racing and working on his style and he improved his abilities until he was able to compete with the better riders.

But just as Todd began to find himself in the Winner's circle his luck turned and he broke his leg early in the season. Todd had to lay out for a while and let the broken leg heal but it wasn't long before the competitors found themselves racing against an even stronger Todd Eschberger.

Todd found himself winning even more consistently than before but then, while racing at the Corpus Christi track he broke his back in a spill that put him out for the remainder of the 1981 season.

After recovering from the injury Todd was back in action with two new Kawasaki minibikes and with the help of his sponsor, Bill Ratliff, owner of the Rockport Kawasaki, Todd set out once again on the race circuit.

Earlier this year Todd raced in a series of races at Houston and Conroe and he placed in the top 10 in his class and he was named to the Team Texas Hall of Fame and earned the right to represent Texas and compete in the American Motorcycle Association Grand National Championship in the Houston Astro-dome.

Todd then moved on the Texas/Louisiana Series held at Lake Whitney, Conroe, Houston and Tyler. In both series Todd placed in the top 10, winning eight overall.

Next came the AMA Series held at San Antonio and Austin. Todd won fourth overall and moved into first place in point standings for district 20.

During the same period he was competing in the National Motorcycle Association qualifiers races also held at Tyler, Conroe and Lake Whitney and Houston.

In this series only the top 10 riders in each class from Texas and Louisiana earn the right to compete at the N.M.A. Grand National Championship in Ponca City.

Todd also finished in the top 10 of the N.M.A. event to earn a trip to Ponca City. Many riders term this the championship of the minibikes.

Several weeks ago Todd competed in his last sanctioned racing effort in Austin when he won first in the Grand National Championship qualifier and won first place in the modified class.

Only the top three riders in each class from each state are guaranteed a position at the A.M.A. Grand National Championship which will be held at Loretta Lynn's Dude Ranch in Tennessee the week after the races at Ponca City.

Todd has placed or qualified in every race series he has entered this year. The 1982 season has been a good year for Todd Eschberger.

Whittle Tourney full

With the 10th annual Fred Whittle Summer Fun Mixed Doubles tennis tournament still almost three weeks away all 64 players slots have been filled and additional entries are being put on a standby basis to fill in for possible cancellations or withdrawal, according to Leon Bateman, tournament director.

The tournament, Rockport's oldest and most popular tourney, is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 7 and 8 with headquarters at the Rockport Resort Tennis Club. However, because of the number of players involved, matches will be played on most of the local tennis courts. Semifinal and final matches will be played Sunday.

The Rockport Tennis Association is sponsoring the tournament as it has in recent years and the public is invited to all matches and there is no admission charge. Play will start at 8 a.m. Saturday.

Cunningham wins tournament

With 670 contestants entered in the two-day tournament Palm Harbor fisherman Bert Cunningham and Fulton angler Gina Nesloney walked away as winners in the eight Annual Port Aransas Outboard Fishing Tournament.

Cunningham and his partner Chuck VanDauAll of Willes Point, Texas landed many sailfish but the one capturing the first place prize and pleased the crowd the most was the 62 pound three ounce fish they caught on the last day of the tournament.

Cunningham has competed in the tournament every year except 1981 when he blew up a new outboard engine and had to withdraw from the event.

Cunningham also won the sailfish division of the tournament in 1980.

Nesloney took first in the blackfin tuna class with a 19 pound six ounce catch.

Strong winds and heavy seas made fishing a little uncomfortable for some of the contestants.

Confused about which air conditioning unit to buy?

Fortunately, there's an easy way to determine which one will operate most economically: look for the model with an Energy Efficiency Ratio (EER) or Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio (SEER) of 8 or higher.

In addition, you should make certain the system is sized to fit your home and installed correctly—other factors essential to maximum efficiency and electricity savings.

But air conditioners with the same cooling capacity can vary greatly in individual efficiency. By comparing EER/SEER numbers, you can tell which unit will do the job with less electricity.

Although a high efficiency model may cost more initially, it will save you money in the long run through lower operating expenses. That's an important consideration here in South Texas where air conditioning is in use so many months of the year.

Be sure to check EER/SEER numbers before you buy air conditioning. Your best value is a unit with an efficiency rating of 8 or more.

ERA failure delights Mengden

Senator Walter Mengden, Republican from Harris County, expressed delight that the proposed Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to the U.S. Constitution has finally failed of adoption.

"Actually, the time limit for extension of the ERA should have expired on March 22, 1979, but Congress unconstitutionally attempted to extend the ratification period an extra 39 months without giving states specific authority to rescind their previous ratifications. Despite this unfair effort to change the rules in the middle of the game to give extra innings to the team that was behind — while prohibiting the other team from being able to score during the extra innings — the pro-ERA forces lost anyway," Senator Mengden said.

"I am proud of the role that I played in drawing attention to the serious problems of the ERA. Texas never rescinded its ratification of the ERA, but we did succeed in alerting the states that had not ratified it that, while Texas was one of the first states to ratify, a serious controversy had eventually arisen concerning the ERA. As a result, many state legislators in other states decided to take a long, hard look at the ERA before doing anything that they might later regret," he said.

Senator Mengden strongly criticized the announced intentions of U.S. Congresswoman Patricia Schroeder, Democrat from Colorado, and U.S. Senator Paul Tsongas, Democrat from Massachusetts, to re-introduce an identical ERA on July 12.

"Evidently the pro-ERA forces have not learned anything in the last 10 years. The opponents of the ERA are not equal rights for women, but are opposed to the open-ended, broadly worded constitutional amendment that would be interpreted by federal judges with lifetime appointments. The current ERA is virtually a blank check for the federal judiciary. U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice and other liberal federal judges would have had a field day with it. But a more carefully worded proposal could remove the justifiable doubt and confusion about the ramifications of the ERA," he said.

"Of course, if federal judges were elected by the people — as state judges are in Texas — it is possible that the federal judges might be restrained from going off the deep end on a lot of issues, including the ERA. But until that happens, any new ERA must be much more specific than the old one," Senator Mengden said.

During the last regular session of the Legislature, Senator Mengden introduced SCR 40, to memorialize Congress to pass a more detailed ERA that would not impair the validity of any laws which exempt women from the draft or from combat duty; that would not invalidate laws restricting abortions nor require the public funding of abortions; that would not legalize homosexual marriages of men and women in public accommodations.

"A new, properly drafted ERA might be able to pass the Congress and the required 38 legislatures very quickly. But if Schroeder, Tsongas and their allies continue to push the wording of the old ERA, the pro-family forces will continue to fight them with every ounce of our energy," Senator Mengden said.

"I suspect that the liberals desperately want a broadly worded ERA in order to incite the courts, rather than elected officials, to write the laws on the draft, homosexual rights, abortion, etc. Contemporary liberals find democratic institutions unsympathetic to their goals for society and prefer to have as many issues as possible decided by appointed judges. But the people are absolutely not going to be tricked into accepting this Trojan horse," he said.

C.C.S.U. enrollment up

Continuing a trend which began the first summer session, Summer Session II enrollment at Corpus Christi State University is up 17 percent over the same period last year.

Summer Session II enrollment is 1,419. Last year, it was 1,214. The highest second summer session registration, prior to the current term, was 1,367 in 1980.

The highest enrollment always takes place in the fall semester which begins Aug. 26 this year at CCSU. University officials are projecting a fall semester enrollment of slightly over 3,000.

Social Security faces serious problems

The Social Security system, as most Americans know, faces serious financial problems. According to the Congressional Budget Office (CBO), it is overspending by $19,261 per minute!

Fund trustees, obviously, can't afford to overlook the opportunity to increase income by $1 billion or more a year. But it happens.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wisc.), famous for publicizing government agencies that "fleece" taxpayers through waste and inefficiency, charges Social Security trust funds are invested at a "scandalously low" interest rate of 8.3 percent.

As both the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the senator point out many private investors in government-backed securities — Social Security is obligated under law to make only such investments — earned an average of 13.5 percent on their government securities.

"Clearly, current investment policies have not served the Social Security program well," comments Mark Cahoon, a Social Security analyst for the Chamber.

Social Security — and the workers and employers who contribute to it — lost $1.7 billion that could have been added to the money needed to keep the system solvent.

Indoor pollutants are a very serious threat

Indoor pollutants are a hidden health threat. Are they conquering your home's air?

If so, clean up your air, advises Dr. Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Indoor pollutants that are potential hazards for humans include carbon dioxide, carbon monoxide, formaldehyde gas, ultraviolet light waves, other chemical vapors, dust, pollen and tobacco smoke, she says.

Berry recommends three methods for controlling indoor pollution:

1) Allow enough fresh outside air to come inside to dilute indoor pollutants by using an air-to-air heat exchange system to pre-heat or pre-cool outside air. As the system pre-heats or pre-cools outside air, it saves energy that would otherwise be used by your main cooling or heating system — and it cleans your inside air. This system is a small supplemental device available from many heating and cooling companies.

2) Bring outside air indoors with adequate ventilation — this could be eave vents or simply the occasional opening of windows and doors.

3) Use filters, air cleaners or heating or cooling coils to remove smoke, odors and other pollutants.

One Of Our Biggest Assets...

In Rockport are our many attractions to visitors. Rockport has 35 motels, seven condominium complexes and twenty two trailer parks. Visitors can fish, swim, play golf, enjoy the sun and visit local attractions such as the Fulton Mansion. The 105-year old mansion is being restored by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. The mansion boasts indoor toilets, running water, clothes dryer, hot water heater, refrigeration system, features practically unknown to Texans in the 1870's. Rockport and First National Bank extend a cordial welcome to the visitors in our city.

One of our biggest assets at First National Bank is our "MPact 24-hour banking service," a must for vacationers and Rockport residents alike. Come in and let us explain the merits of "MPact" plus the other services we offer.

Sales tax collections show increases

Sales tax collections for the first half of 1982 in Rockport and Fulton continued to show an increase over collections for the same period last year, according to figures from the office of State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

In Rockport, collections for June, 1982, amounted to $15,305.22, more than $5,000 ahead of the $10,170 from June a year ago. Sales tax collections for the year so far totalled $160,816; last year, the first-half collections totalled $159,499.19.

In Fulton, sales tax collections for the first six months of 1982 showed a 20.54 percent gain over last year, $22,124.18 compared to $18,354.76 in 1981.

Fulton's tax collections for June almost doubled those of June, 1981 — $4,854.22 compared to $2,790.

Sales tax returns compared favorably with those of neighboring cities. Aransas Pass showed an 8.70 percent sales tax increase for the first half of 1982, with $209,731.40 compared to $192,731.40 for the first half of 1981.

Ingleside's collections for the year to date amounted to $64,748.10, a 5.09 percent increase over 1981's collections.

Bayside has collected $2,544.69 so far this year, a 58.71 percent increase over last year's collections.

The sales tax collections reflect the cities' one percent share of taxes on sales made in the community. They are collected monthly along with the state sales tax by merchants and rebated each month by Bullock's office.

Coastal Bend Hospital to hold garage sale

ARANSAS PASS — Employees of Coastal Bend Hospital will hold another garage sale this weekend for their in-house fund drive to help equip the new hospital due for completion next month.

The sale, from noon until 5 p.m. Friday, July 23, and 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday at the Coastal Bend Hospital Annex (formerly Aransas Hospital), will be the second sale sponsored by hospital personnel to raise money for a $1 million hospital fund drive.

Money raised through the three-year drive will be used to purchase equipment for the new hospital building, now under construction, located on the site of the present Coastal Bend (formerly Lyman Roberts) Hospital.

The two-day garage sale will be climaxed by the sale, through silent auction, of a 17-foot boat and trailer. The boat is presently on exhibit at Jim's Sporting Goods in Aransas Pass and the minimum acceptable for written bids is $2,000.

The winning bid will be announced at the close of the garage sale on Saturday, July 24.

Hospital personnel have been asked to contribute $100,000 to the fund drive.

The drive has been extended over a three-year period and persons who make sizeable pledges to the hospital can make arrangements to pay out those pledges over the three years, according to Wayne Pierce, grants coordinator.

Construction of the 75-bed hospital was funded through a $9 million revenue bond issue, Pierce said, emphasizing the current fund drive is strictly to equip the facility.

He said equipment for seven single rooms and 90 double rooms are needed, in addition to four labor rooms, six intensive care unit rooms, two emergency rooms and five treatment rooms. Labor and ICU equipment can be provided for $5,000 per room, he said, and an emergency room can be donated for $15,000. Cost of a treatment room is $10,000.

Never give up on a man until he has failed at something he likes.

Tiny ant carrier of infectious diseases

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science writer

highly-infectious diseases, according to scientists at Texas A&M University.

T.A. Granovsky and H.N. Howell Jr. of the Urban Entomology Research Project, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and Dr. D.N. McMurray and L.W. Martin of the Department of Medical Microbiology and Immunology, College of Medicine, Texas A&M University.

Of the 57 hospitals visited in 29 major and minor Texas cities, nearly 25 percent were found by these researchers to have active infestations.

In some areas the infestation rate was more intense with up to 65 percent of the hospitals being infested. Some of these infestations have been active for 15 to 20 years, the researchers found.

The pharaoh or sugar ant, Monomorium Pharaonis (L.), was introduced into the U.S. from Europe more than 100 years ago, according to Granovsky.

Since then it has steadily expanded its range westward and now is thought to infest homes, commercial centers, food establishments and hospitals throughout the country.

"This ant is much more than a nuisance pest," McMurray says. "It is also believed to be a vector of highly infectious diseases. "It is believed that many unexplained staphylococcus and some other hospital-acquired infections occurring from time to time are associated with the ant."

"In Europe, these ants have been found to be carriers of numerous pathogenic and/or opportunistic bacteria. They were also the important 'link' in the spread of swine pneumonia in a veterinary research unit."

The Texas A&M researchers have found numerous types of pathogenic and/or opportunistic bacteria that are carried by the pharaoh ant.

Ants collected were commonly found in intensive care units, nurseries, pharmacies, patient rooms and administrative areas.

Texas hospital personnel have reported some interesting incidents regarding the ants and patients. One hospital had three ants aspirated from a patient's tracheostomy (a permanent opening in the neck for breathing).

Another hospital has twice found ants inside I.V. bottles connected to patients in their intensive care unit.

In other hospitals, ants have been found feeding at wound and burn sites on the body. Unlike cockroaches, pharaoh ants will actively forage on patients to feed.

The ants will also forage on patients to obtain moisture needed to maintain conditions inside their nests suitable for the immature ants. The foraging ants are very highly attracted to sugars, such as glucose solutions and candy in patient's rooms.

In addition to working on the ant distribution and bacterial associates of the ants in Texas hospitals, the A&M researchers are investigating control of the ants.

These pests are a nuisance in addition to being a disease hazard, and patients, hospital administrators, doctors, nurses and other staff are anxious to be rid of them.

Although the ants are sometimes tolerated by hospital personnel, they frequently go unnoticed because of their small size (12 ants equal one inch).

True control, Granovsky says, requires elimination of the entire colony, not just the foraging ants.

Chemical residual sprays do not usually work for three reasons: sprays normally only kill foragers and the residual is not carried back to the colony; typically the numerous queens and more than 90 percent of the worker ants in a colony do not forage and therefore never come in contact with the spray residue; and ant colonies will usually split up if insecticide is sprayed near their colony.

The Texas A&M researchers are concentrating their control studies on chemical baits and the integration of other tactics to control individual ant colonies within a 21 to 28 day period.

In addition to chemical sprays, current control practices may utilize an insect growth regulator (a compound which keeps the insect from developing into an adult), but this material may require up to 20 weeks, with no guarantee of success.

Research at A&M seeks to identify baits that will control whole colonies within four weeks. The researchers have worked in direct cooperation with two Texas hospitals and their pest control specialists.

One bait, found to be very attractive to foraging ants, indicated ants were active on five of the six floors in one hospital.

Diabetes Mellitus threatens pets

By Dr. Hap Lutz

Dr. Lutz is a former instructor of diseases of dogs and cats in the College of Veterinary Medicine, Texas A&M University.

Diabetes Mellitus is a disease in which the body chemistry has been altered by a chain of events resulting in a deficiency of insulin. Normally, the pancreas secretes needed amounts of insulin which are responsible for normal regulated use of carbohydrates by the dog's body. Abnormal use of carbohydrates result in altered chemistry of fat and protein, and a complete derangement of much of the additional body chemistry.

The early clinical signs of diabetes are those of increased urination and weight loss. Later the dog consumes less or refuses foods, vomits, has diarrhea, becomes weak with slight abdominal distension. The patient, if severely affected and untreated, may develop coma and die.

This disease is seen in all breeds. Most are middle-aged, and found in females more than males. The cause is the failure of a small group of cells located in the pancreas that normally form and secrete insulin upon demand of the body.

At this time, there is no cure, but it can be controlled providing patients that are extremely ill can be initially stabilized.

This treatment consists of three steps: Stabilization, Regulation and Maintenance. Many patients, when first diagnosed, must be brought back to normal through use of insulin. After stabilization, it is necessary to regulate the dosage of insulin on which the patient will be maintained. This is based on a balance between the amount and character of the food, the amount of exercise, and the amount of insulin.

Usually the amount and character of the diet, as well as the amount of exercise are kept constant; and the amount of insulin is adjusted to meet the needed requirements.

In controlling diabetes, you have a choice of either oral medication or injectable. The oral medication in dogs has not been as satisfactory as the injection.

Once the animal is stabilized and the regulated dose of insulin is determined; the owner can easily learn to give the daily injection. With the small size (gauge) needle, your veterinarian will give you the instructions of how and where to give it — and it is painless.

You will be able to tell if the pet's diabetes is under control because your veterinarian will give you a supply of test-tapes by which you can determine whether or not your pet is passing sugar in the urine, and also the amount of sugar being passed.

The cost of maintenance is nominal. The initial cost of stabilization can vary — depending upon how advanced the disease is when presented. An animal with a badly deranged body chemistry will require considerable laboratory work, evaluation of body fluids, and frequent monitoring during the time his body chemistry is being returned to normal. Once regulated, the cost reduces rapidly.

All pets that have diabetes require periodic evaluation and possible adjustment of dosage of insulin.

The last question some clients ask is, "Since diabetes is not curable, should I have my pet euthanized?" My answer is, "No". An owner's philosophy should be no different with diabetes than an animal afflicted with any other disease that can be controlled but not cured. Some of these are certain skin diseases, arthritis, epilepsy or chronic otitis.

From your pet's best friend — the one with a warm heart for cold noses. If you have any questions concerning the health and care of your pet, mail them to the Rockport Pilot, Rockport, Tex. 78382. Dr. Lutz will answer them in the Weekend edition of the Pilot.

Live Money

At Allied Live Oak Bank, we don't like to let money lay around. Not when there's so much to be done here in Aransas County. So we take the money you've entrusted to us, turn it right around, and put it back to work in the community.

You see, we know what a pivotal part a bank can play in the growth of an area. So we choose to invest a significant part of our deposits here, in Rockport, Fulton, and the surrounding area. It means that our people have to stay alert, active, and on top of things. But then, look how our area has grown since we opened our doors eight years ago. We know it has been worth the effort.

So that's why Allied Live Oak money is live money. Because we keep it alive. It's out there right now feeding the growth and improvement of Aransas County. And if there are more places for you to shop now, more things for you to do; if the value of your property has experienced a steady rise, we had a part in that.

We still have the very same commitment to Aransas County that we had the day we opened the doors, and we still believe that a bank is most successful, when it promotes the good of its own community. We still believe that, because we know that it works. Those of you who bank with us know it too.

What all this boils down to is that as great and as wonderful as the last eight years have been, we know that the years to come are going to be even better. We thank you for that, and invite you to come along, because it's going to be a great ride.

House and Senate spend summer occupied with 1983 fiscal budget

The Nation's Capital has emerged from the "wet" season into the hot, humid time of year when, in years past, Congress and a large part of the city packed up and left for the summer.

But not any longer. Thanks to air-conditioning, the Senate and House of Representatives, following the July Fourth recess, are at work on details of the $770 billion budget for fiscal 1983. It is perhaps the most important activity of the year.

It is the time when Congress and its spending and tax committees redistribute the revenues collected by the U.S. Treasury.

This huge income-transfer process is evidenced by a study of taxes paid by different income groups, which is made yearly by a nonprofit Washington research organization, the Tax Foundation.

In 1980, just nine million U.S. taxpayers in the upper 10 percent bracket paid more than half of all federal income taxes. In contrast, taxpayers in the lowest 10 percent income bracket paid less than 1 percent.

Put another way, the taxpayer in the upper 10 percent bracket (those earning $34,100 or more a year) paid an average tax of $13,748. The average taxpayer paid $2,653.

How is the money spent, or redistributed? Largely through a vast array of social programs which benefit millions of Americans, ranging from war veterans and retired federal workers to Social Security recipients, welfare families, dairy farmers and the like.

Despite charges of some lawmakers that the 1983 budget cuts these programs "to the bone" — a Senator declared, for example, that "every provision of this budget resolution will add more to the rich and take from the poor" — despite such outbursts, these programs continue to grow rapidly in costs and number of recipients. Senate Budget Chairman Pete V. Domenici (R-N. Mex.) cited data showing these outlays for major benefit programs: 1976 $153.2 billion

1981 $295.9 billion
1985 $419.2 billion (projected)

Whatever Americans may think of the big income-transfer system, it is clear they have little control over it. According to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, a perennial budget watchdog, the absence of adequate spending control is largely the cause of massive federal budget deficits — 20 of them in the last 21 years.

The Chamber currently is in the forefront of efforts in Congress to win adoption of a balanced budget/tax limitation amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The amendment is needed, according to Chamber President Richard L. Leshner, because the budget now is buffeted "on both sides of the ledger."

Both spending and tax revenues are out of control. On the other hand, inflation and bracket creep, which push people into higher tax brackets, automatically drive up tax revenues. On the other, automatic cost-of-living adjustments are driving the cost of federal benefit programs out of sight.

The proposed balanced budget/tax limitation amendment would hold the yearly increase in tax revenues to the same percentage increase in national income the year before. At long last, it would place a limitation on how much of national income the government may collect and redistribute. Tragically, there is no such limitation today.

AMDRO solves imported fire ant problem

Ants — imported fire ants, specifically — present a lethal danger at worst, a serious nuisance at best, to 18 to 24 million homeowners and their families as well as to farmers and other landowners across the southern tier of the country from Florida to Texas.

Originally introduced into Alabama from South America, they are now considered the most harmful ant pest in North America.

They can kill family pets, newborn calves and even humans who may step on their mounds. At the very least, the swarming insects will inflict painful, burning bites that often cause allergic reactions and are prone to later infection.

Imported fire ants will burrow into thick animal fur or crawl inside the tightest clothing to bite at unprotected flesh.

The prolific and voracious pest is capable of rendering infested rural, suburban and urban areas virtually unusable to normal activities.

Imported Fire Ants already infest lawns and gardens, parks and pastures, rangeland and croplands totalling more than 230 million acres in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina and Texas.

They have occupied this vast area in just three human generations. And the menace is growing.

The ants breed while airborne and blow where the winds take them. Wherever a fertilized queen alights, a thriving colony soon emerges. Mating flights occur in the summer months and the process is repeated, literally infesting new territory.

This situation recently brought some 100 scientists and environmentalists together in Atlanta for a four-day symposium sponsored jointly by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The new insecticide is non-toxic to birds and other wildlife and will not persist or leach in the soil.

AMDRO is a slow-acting insecticide bait that becomes part of the fire ant food chain. Worker ants are attracted to it, collect and distribute the bait throughout the colony. Eventually it reaches and kills the queen and the colony dies out, usually within six to eight weeks.

A survey of consumers who used the material earlier this year recorded these results:

Sixty-five percent of respondents rated AMDRO to be eight or higher on a scale of one to 10 (10 is excellent, one is poor).

Seventy-five percent said the insecticide performed as well as or better than expected.

Seventy-five percent indicated that they would probably or definitely use the product again.

AMDRO Fire ant insecticide is available in one- and 25- pound bags at garden centers, hardware and farm supply stores.

April oil production down slightly

AUSTIN — Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent announced that 63 refineries in Texas processed 123,850,765 barrels of crude oil and hydrocarbon blends during April 1982. Through the first four months of 1982, Texas refineries ran 481,810,110 barrels.

April's volume compares with 123,707,232 barrels in the same month a year ago, the Commission's Oil and Gas Division reported in its monthly recapitulation of Texas refinery operations. Inputs of crude oil and blends totaled 123,601,299 barrels in March 1982.

Texas refineries ran 93,816,467 barrels of crude oil in April compared to 100,647,048 barrels in April 1981 and 94,349,195 barrels in March 1982.

April 1982 manufacture of motor gasoline totaled 51,725,932 barrels, compared to 47,696,522 barrels in the year-earlier month and 51,153,969 barrels in March of 1982.

Texas refineries manufactured 9,326,307 barrels of home heating oil in April 1982 — a decrease of 1,977,405 barrels.

Johnson charged with June 9 shooting

Three persons were sentenced and eight others — including one person charged with murder — were scheduled for pretrial and trial in the 36th District Court of Judge Ronald Yeager Friday, July 16.

Among those scheduled for trial was Lamon Johnson, charged with the June 9 shooting death of Robert Charles Norwood in Rockport. Johnson is scheduled for pretrial on Aug. 27 and trial Sept. 7.

Sentences were handed down to Phillip Hernandez, charged with aggravated assault; Don Edward Berry, driving while intoxicated; and Patricia S. Moore, who pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery.

Hernandez was sentenced to two years in the Texas Department of Corrections and Berry to 90 days in Aransas County Jail and a $500 fine.

Moore was given a four-year probated sentence, fined $500 and assessed $107 restitution to H.E.B.

Also scheduled for trial and pretrial was Scott Wayland Wright, charged with sexual abuse of a child. Pretrial is Aug. 27 and trial Sept. 9.

Richard N. Watkins, charged with rape of a child, is scheduled for pretrial and trial on Aug. 2.

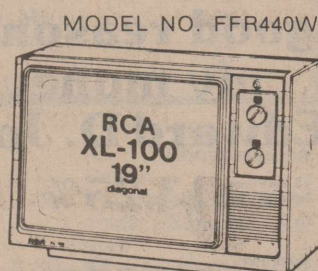

Trial of Timmy Lee Jones, charged with aggravated assault, is set for Sept. 7. Pretrial is Aug. 27.

Two other cases were set for pretrial and trial on Aug. 2: Alvino Huizar, unlawfully carrying a weapon onto premises licensed to sell alcoholic beverages and felon with possession of a firearm with enhancement; and Robert Anthony Tobey, possession of marijuana over four ounces.

Also scheduled for pretrial on Aug. 27 and trial Sept. 7 was Juanita Garcia, charged with subsequent offense DWI.

From the candidate

To the voter

This is the text of a letter that was mailed from Senator Mike Richards to the employees of the Texas State Comptroller's Office.

As you might have heard, I am presently involved in the Comptroller's race.

The purpose of my campaign is to allow the people of Texas to decide, in a free, open and candid atmosphere, who will lead the Comptroller's office for the next four years.

Because you are currently involved in the administration and functioning of that agency, I wanted to take just a moment to discuss with you my reasons for seeking that office. In addition, and because I fully intend to be the next Comptroller of Texas, I wanted to visit with you about the sort of Administration that you can expect from Mike Richards.

First of all, it is important to me that you understand that I, along with thousands of my fellow Texans, have serious reservations about the sort of Comptroller that Mr. Bullock has been. But I in no way want you to think that Mike Richards doesn't appreciate the dedicated and loyal public service that has been demonstrated by individuals like you.

There are, to be sure, many reasons for thinking that the contributions that you have made, as a diligent public servant, have been instrumental in the improvements of the running of our State's government.

The current Comptroller wants to take all of the credit for the $8.1 billion dollars in taxes that were collected last year by you. It is my contention that whatever progress has been made, has been made in spite of Mr. Bullock — not because of him.

As this campaign progresses, I will not allow Bob Bullock to take credit for the greatest period of economic and business growth in the history of Texas. What he can take credit for is the fact that his budget has grown faster than the population of our state and even faster than state revenue.

He cannot take credit for the thousands of businesses and women who pay their taxes voluntarily. And he doesn't deserve the credit for the special benefits that have been made available by the coming of the "Computer Age". In fact, it would be a miracle, when we consider all of these factors, if Mr. Bullock's job rating had not seemed to have gone up in the last 8 years.

Mellerdrammer attracts crowd

The AARP "Mellerdrammer" performed last Wednesday attracted 70 members and visitors. The script was furnished by Lavonne Humphreys who co-directed along with Margaret Gill. The musical background was played by Myrna Young who formerly played piano in the movie houses before the advent of sound motion pictures. Kay Ragot sang, while Frank Samson furnished sound effects for Gwen Gonyea, Vi Street, Herman Lappin and Bill Petrofsky, the cast. The audience applauded and booed appropriately and a fine time was enjoyed by all.

There will not be an AARP card party on Thursday, July 22. The card games will resume Thursday, July 29 at the First National Bank Town Hall.

The planned "Dixie-Land Tour" for Sept. 7 has been cancelled because of low reservations.

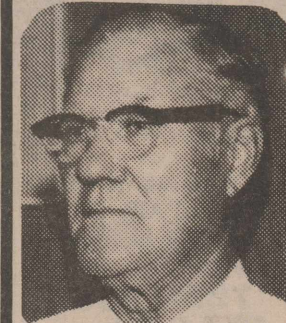

The AARP sponsored "55-Alive Defensive Driving Course" training was completed this week by six members of the chapter. Those qualified to teach the course are Celia and Ranous Blankert, George McCague, Frances Cook and Florence and Frank Samson. This course is specifically for those 55 or older and will be offered beginning in October. The beginning in October. The dates have not been set but watch this column for details.

The next AARP meeting will be at 5 p.m. July 28 at the Paws and Taws. It will be a potluck and watermelon feast. Games will be enjoyed after dinner. All members and potential members are urged to attend. The chapter will furnish the watermelon, coffee and punch.

The AARP District picnic will be 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

Saturday, July 24 at Hilltop Community Center, 11400 Leopard St., Highway 9, Corpus Christi. Each family is asked to bring a covered dish. Anyone driving that can take an extra passenger or two is asked to contact Florence Samson at 729-1187. Those that are driving and want to carpool with other drivers will meet at Encino Plaza at 10 a.m. and leave from there.

Summer of '82 worst for fleas in Texas

AUSTIN — The summer of 1982 may be the worst year yet for fleas in Texas — and dog and cat owners need to be aware of some safe, effective steps that can be taken to help control these irksome parasites.

"Dipping or spraying your pet is not enough. Treating the premises, your house and yard, and keeping your pet within the area that has been treated, are just as important," said Fred Soifer, president of the Texas Veterinary Medical Association (TVMA).

While dogs and cats are the main hosts for these parasites, fleas actually spend most of their lifespan off the pet. So treatment of the premises is necessary, advises Soifer, a companion animal practitioner from Houston.

Three major reasons for the especially heavy infestation of fleas this year are the weather, a mild winter followed by a rainy spring and hot, humid summer. Products that had been safe and effective for killing fleas no longer seem to do the job — the fleas develop a resistance to some formerly effective pesticides. Population increases have added to the problem.

Scratching is the first obvious signal your pet has fleas. Pet owners should also watch for skin inflammation or bald spots. The fleas' saliva can cause a severe allergic reaction, resulting in extreme itching, scratching and chewing of the skin that may persist for up to two weeks after the death of the fleas. Fleas are carriers of tapeworms, and many animals with flea infestations will have tapeworms.

Kittens, puppies and small dogs are more easily made anemic because of their size. These small animals may become so anemic that they require a blood transfusion when the heavy flea infestation is coupled with hookworm disease.

Flea collars are not enough, and in some cases if not used properly are more harmful to pets than helpful. "Don't forget the improper use of flea and tick products can kill animals, so read the product label carefully," Soifer said.

The best method for controlling fleas varies from one part of the state to the other, and proper flea control measures differ from animal to animal. It is advisable to contact your veterinarian for individual flea control measures for your pet and premises.

In the home, foggers that kill not only the adult but the larvae as well are available. Yards must be treated with a pesticide, preferably the granular form. A commercial pest control individual may also be consulted.

Veterinarians in some parts of Texas are prescribing a systemic insecticide — a liquid or tablet that is given by mouth and absorbed by the system. This is no panacea, said Soifer. The systemic insecticide is not effective unless the premises are controlled and is not effective on animals that are flea-bite sensitive.

"The key to flea control is still regular treatment of the pet and premises," reminds Soifer.

Strake office to open

George Strake, candidate for Lt. Governor, announced today his Corpus Christi Headquarters. Opening will be Tuesday, July 20. The Headquarters is located at 4435 Gollislar Building.

The headquarters opening will take place from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend and meet Mr. George Strake. Refreshments will be served.

Press availability will be at 6 p.m. Strake is challenging incumbent Lt. Governor William Hobby for the state's second-highest office.

Customized flash cards in use at Memorial

The Public Information Department of Memorial Medical Center recently produced customized flash cards for use as a communications tool in the hospital's Emergency Room to aid in the treatment of the deaf trauma victim.

The two-sided flash cards were produced in both Spanish and English versions and provide an effective means to assess the extent of injury or type of illness a deaf patient may be experiencing upon admission to the hospital. One side of the flash card asks a relevant question to the patient by the printed word and the other side instructs the clinical professional or physician on how to communicate the question in sign language.

In the United States today, an estimated two million Americans are deaf and another 12 million suffer from loss of hearing. Memorial is offering a free brochure titled "Dealing with the Deaf Trauma Victim." Published by the National Academy of Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C., the educational pamphlet is designed to instruct the emergency medical technician, but also offers useful information to the lay person who may be involved with a deaf trauma victim at an accident scene.

For a free copy of the pamphlet, while the supply lasts, contact the Public Information Department of Memorial Medical Center.

Bentsen raps Collins' stance

AUSTIN — Senator Lloyd Bentsen said July 19 that Senate candidate James M. Collins has voted repeatedly against emergency disaster aid for American farmers during the 14 years he has been in Washington as a member of Congress.

"I must assume that my opponent does not understand the formidable problems confronting farmers in Texas and the rest of the country," Bentsen said in a statement released by his campaign headquarters in Austin.

"He doesn't understand the high risks that modern day farming and ranching entail; what happens when bad weather ruins a crop or, for that matter, when good weather produces a bumper crop that sends prices below the cost of production."

"That's the only logical reason for the repeated votes James M. Collins has cast during his 14 years in Washington as a member of Congress against emergency farm disaster loans and against emergency disaster farm assistance," Bentsen said.

Bentsen noted that Collins voted July 1, 1973, against the disaster assistance program offered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Again, on February 13, 1980, Collins voted against a two-year extension of the ASCS disaster assistance program.

Bentsen also cited votes Collins cast on February 12, 1972; July 19, 1978; and October 24, 1979, against the Farmers Home Administration authorization bill. This legislation, in each of these three cases, provided for agricultural emergency disaster loans.

"Texas farmers — especially those in West Texas where the weather has been devastating — are in worse shape than they have been since the Great Depression," Bentsen said.

"This year, running for statewide office, my opponent has begun expressing 'grave concern' about the plight of our farmers. I welcome his efforts to persuade the administration in Washington to provide some help for our West Texas farmers, but I question both his understanding of the problem and his commitment to an effective resolution of it," Senator Bentsen said.

Potted plants can create beautiful landscape

COLLEGE STATION — For many people, growing potted or container plants is both an easy and practical means to beautiful and adaptable landscapes.

Dr. William C. Welch, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, says container plants have grown in popularity over the last several years, especially as more and more people move to apartments and mobile homes.

"Using container plants to create 'instant landscapes' and interior design has several advantages over traditional gardening methods," he points out. "Almost everyone has room for at least a few plants because of their portability and the small space required."

Because potted plants can be picked up and moved to different locations, they are quite versatile. Plants in full bloom or at their peak of fruit production can be put in a prominent location. Later, when they are less attractive or have lost their seasonal interest, they can be moved to a less visible site and other plants can take their place.

Because individual soil and moisture requirements can be controlled for each plant, a wide variety of different plant types and forms can be grown in one location, Welch explains. These different plants can be arranged to create various effects or designs in the yard or home.

Even though growing plants in containers can be a shortcut to instant landscapes, there is no shortcutting the cultural needs of different plants, cautions the horticulturist.

"Container plants usually require more care than those grown in the ground and care should be taken in selecting the location, container and soil mixture for the plant," he points out.

As long as the soil, light and moisture are right, almost any type of plant can be grown in a container. Deciduous or evergreen trees, shrubs, vines or flowers may all be used.

When selecting a plant, first decide on the location and the amount of light available. Annual flowers need at least a half-day of sun while tropicals and evergreens can do well on less.

Select a container that will drain but be sure it does not compete with the plant for attention.

The container needs to feature the plant," says Welch. "Often a plain terra cotta clay pot is best in any setting."

The soil mixture should contain a high percentage of organic matter, such as peat or compost. Welch recommends a mixture of five parts loamy soil, four parts peat or compost and one part sand. Most plants will need repotting every three or four years.

After the plant is established, add a small amount of a complete fertilizer. However, too much fertilizer can make the plant outgrow its container too quickly.

Frequent watering, daily in hot weather, will be necessary for most plants, adds Welch. Owners need to arrange for someone to water plants during vacations or out-of-town trips.

Zoning proposal ready for review

FULTON — Copies of a proposed zoning ordinance for Fulton are available for review this week at Fulton's City Hall, according to Sandy Belaire, a member of the city's zoning committee.

The committee wrapped up meetings last week on what to include in the ordinance and drafting of the proposed document was turned over to Belaire.

In addition to the copies at City Hall, a copy of a first draft has been delivered to Fulton City Attorney Allen Lee for legal review. Following any changes Lee might make, the ordinance will be presented to Fulton's city council.

The ordinance must be read three times, in three separate meetings of the council, before it can be adopted. All of the readings will be in sessions open to the public.

Among provisions of the ordinance as proposed by the committee which began meeting last month are the establishment of a minimum lot size of 50 by 125 feet on any new lots platted in Fulton and a minimum square footage of 1,000 square feet for any new single family residences.

The ordinance proposes four zoning districts in the city: R-1, single family residential and duplex; R-2, multi-family; R-3, residential and resort; and B-1, general business.

No date can be scheduled yet for the ordinance to be presented to the council since this is based on Lee's review of the document.

to the property line provided the fence has at least a 40 percent opening. This would allow chain link and picket fences but would prohibit use of solid fences in front yards.

Copies of the proposed ordinance may be reviewed by Fulton residents during regular City Hall hours, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. on weekdays. Fultonites will have an opportunity to express their views for and against the document when it comes before the city council.

No date can be scheduled yet for the ordinance to be presented to the council since this is based on Lee's review of the document.

VA seeks disabled veterans

The Veterans Administration is seeking seriously disabled veterans in the Texas-Gulf states area and elsewhere to participate in a new program of independent-living services.

Special outreach efforts are under way in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi to explain the new benefit program. Independent living is designed to increase a severely disabled veteran's ability to function more independently in the family or community environment with a reduced level of services from others.

The pilot program will continue through fiscal 1985. For up to two years an eligible service-disabled veteran may receive a wide range of independent living services. They may include housing modification, personal care attendants, prosthetic devices, transport costs and training in independent living skills through coordination with other VA benefit programs.

Little Bay

colliform bacteria count from that ditch was 180,000 per liter.

She added that colliform bacteria, found in the intestinal tract of animals, "is not necessarily from human waste. One of the major sources of nitrogen in Little Bay (and which contributes to the colliform count) is bird droppings. Colliform bacteria are not diseases," she emphasized. "They are only indicators that something is wrong."

DRAINAGE DITCH carries nutrient-loaded water through Little Bay Shores and into Little Bay.

But, she continued, "I think it won't be too long before there is some type of health problem." And she suggested that since the study has revealed certain area drainage ditches to be "nutrient-rich", there should be some signs, particularly where children are, warning them to stay out of the ditches.

"If I were you," she told the audience later, "I would not use any groundwater for drinking unless you know the well goes below the Pleistocene sands and the well is cased."

Following Monday's hearing, copies of the report will be sent to the Environmental Protection Agency.

Thorpe said the threat to Little Bay is a result of it being a "closed system — more flows into it rather than out. Since it is enclosed and the water exchange is very small, nutrients become part of the system and nutrient density has an effect on the oxygen content."

Dr. White compared the addition of nutrients into the water with the effect of fertilizing a lawn. "You put a lot of nitrogen into the water," he said, and to a point, "that's good. You need nutrients in the water — you wouldn't want the water without them."

But, he continued, when the nutrient content becomes too high, it accelerates the growth of phytoplankton which uses up the oxygen in the water and results in a "kill" of the fish.

"You have an enclosed bay," Thorpe said, "and everything draining into it will stay. The only possibility of flushing is during hurricanes or very high tide."

White later elaborated, "Nutrients are going to pile up (in Little Bay). And as the population doubles (a doubling of the area population by the year 2000 was predicted in an earlier COG study) they're really going to pile up."

A proposal for doubling the size of Rockport's wastewater treatment plant — something city officials say will be needed in the next 10 years — would adversely affect Little Bay, Thorpe said.

"No sewer plant puts out pristine water unless you go through a water treatment plant," she said. "When you double your sewer plant, you double the nutrients it is discharging and that's enough to affect Little Bay."

She added that doesn't take into account the doubling of septic systems in Aransas County and their effect on Little Bay.

The study recommends that, if Rockport officials alter their drainage system, an enclosed conduit should be constructed discharging the effluent directly into Aransas Bay at a point well to the south of Little Bay.

Also recommended is that no new septic systems be installed in the Little Bay drainage area and the report suggests, as a long-range solution, officials consider a utility district serving the northeastern portion of Live Oak Peninsula.

Thorpe added there is another option — that each individual household would have its own small wastewater treatment plant — but the cost would be probably about $2,000 per household and installation might not be possible under current Texas laws.

John Buckner, a COG representative at the hearing, told those in the audience, "The problem is how to get people off septic tanks and into a closed system. You get down to the fact there are a lot of septic tanks in an area where, because of soil conditions and high groundwater, septic tanks don't work."

Officials emphasized that, at this point, Little Bay is not in trouble — and may not be for several years.

"But one of the things you forget," Thorpe told one member of the audience, "is time. The changes are going to take place (in Little Bay). It's inevitable."

"We are overloading the system," White said referring to the current flow of nutrients into Little Bay. "This is not an easy problem and it really will not go away."

Matagorda

Austin at which time final public input will be accepted. Following the hearing and taking into account any information and input received, a final Environmental Impact Statement will be prepared and submitted to the General Services Administration and Department of the Interior for use in the final decision on the disposition of the land.

According to Smith, the final statement will be submitted on Dec. 1 and if the decision is made on that date or near it, the FWS and TPW co-op agreement would go into effect in December.

Smith anticipated that, given the input thus far into the draft, which has included a scoping meeting in Corpus Christi last March, no other preferred alternative would be proposed and that the co-op agreement management plan would go into effect.

— A declaration that the lease agreement and amendment are void.

The petition further requests "such other relief" as the court feels the ACND is entitled to.

In an answer filed on Feb. 26 to the suit, Holman maintained the allegations are "generally untrue."

RYSCO employs), we've been working 40-hour weeks," Smith said. "We're back up on most of those to 48 hours now. None of our employees ever went below 40 hours," he added.

"In the ship industry," he continued, "even when it's booming, you have different people working different hours — one week your carpenters putting in extra hours and the next week you don't need the carpenters but your welders are busy."

RYSCO employees recently received raises, Smith noted, another sign of his faith in the company's financial future. "We don't appear as bleak this time as we did back in '73 or '74," he said. "Back then we laid off about 23 people, had three speculation boats going at one time — and I had to repossess two tugboats because of non-payment!"

The company is proceeding with plans for its Port Lavaca facility, Smith said. "I'm contracting the drydock for Port Lavaca now," he added. That's going to be a repair and haul out facility, no new construction, and Smith anticipates it probably won't be in business for another year. "It takes time," he noted.

Founded in the 1930s, RYSCO went actively into the shipbuilding industry in the early '60s. Smith observed that layoffs in 1973 or '74 and again this past May are the only two layoffs in the company's history "since we've been actively building new vessels."

Budget

its payment for use of county dispatcher services.

The city has no dispatchers, instead sharing county facilities. In the past, and during the current budget year, the city has paid the county the equivalent of one dispatcher's salary.

Last October, county officials asked that the city begin paying more and requested 40 percent of the total budget for dispatchers. Because the county made its request Oct. 26, after Rockport's budget went into effect, the request was denied. Johnson said he did not know if the county would make the request again this year but estimated if they did, it would add another $10,000 to the budget.

As preliminary figures, Johnson told council members they were "probably talking about" a 1982-83 budget of $300,000 to $335,000 for the police department and $21,789 for animal control — but emphasized again that these are only preliminary figures at this point.

Other expenditures being requested in the police department budget include $2,850, the city's share of the cost of a projector used to analyze hair, fibers, documents, ballistics and other evidence.

At this time, Hinojosa said, evidence must be sent to Austin or taken to Corpus Christi for analysis during criminal investigations. Purchase of the projector will increase police efficiency, he said, and 75 percent of the cost will be funded through a Criminal Justice Council grant.

The police department budget includes the fees paid to the city attorney as retainer, $3,780; the municipal court judge, $4,560; and the alternate municipal court judge, $3,000.

Johnson said these fees are the same as for 1981-82. He added the retainer fee for the city attorney "is strictly for meetings and municipal court. Anything else is budgeted as legal fees."

"But things could change," he added. "That's why you have public input. It will depend on what happens at the Austin hearing."

At the time of the March scoping hearing, the proposed action on the land in question was a transfer from federal hands into complete state management. Smith cited the fact that, following the scoping hearing, the change to the present alternative occurred.

Other alternatives cited, but not designated as "preferred" in the statement, include no change in the present situation, transfer to the state and transfer to the private sector.

An in-depth review of the proposed co-operative agreement between the FWS and TPW, along with an examination of the other alternatives mentioned in the statement, will appear in the upcoming Pilot Weekender.

Smoke detectors can cut fire deaths

COLLEGE STATION — Smoke detectors can provide an early warning of fire that could cut deaths in half.

Estimates show that an early-warning fire detection device could save from 40 to 50 percent of the people that die in home fires, points out Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Nearly 7,000 persons die each year in almost 700,000 home fires in the U.S. Since most of these deaths occur while people are asleep, an early-warning device such as a smoke detector can be a life-saver, contends Nelson.

The engineer believes a smoke detector is more suitable than a heat detector because most home fires start by smoldering. Thus smoke will likely be one of the first combustion products.

Smoke detectors are self-contained units that can run on batteries or can be plugged into existing electrical systems. Cost averages $20 to $50 per unit. Get two or three price estimates, and be sure the units bear UL or FM labels.

Test units as you install them or have the installer test them in your presence, suggests Nelson. Be sure you get an instruction booklet on their operation, testing and maintenance.

According to the engineer, ceiling-mounted units have proved superior to some mounted on walls because smoke rises and more readily enters the ceiling detection chamber.

Just as important as an early-warning fire detection device is an evacuation plan, emphasizes Nelson. Be sure there are alternate methods of escape in case doorways are blocked by fire.

Jack's always been a Barber

Jack Barber

If you ask Jack Barber, owner of Jack's Barber Shop how long he's been a barber, he jokes, "I was born one and I've been one all my life." He says that his name didn't have anything to do with his career decision, but adds, "barbering is the only thing I've ever worked at." And he's been at it a long time. He says, "Barbering's been very good to me. I never wanted to do anything else." Barber has been in Rockport for 12 years. After operating a barber shop in Aransas Pass for eight years, he has now moved his business to Rockport. He's just finishing up work on the shop and says, "This is a full service barber shop - cuts, shaves, massages, everything." A special feature of Jack's Barber Shop is the 25 percent senior citizen's discount. Another convenience offered by Barber is a no-appointment necessary policy. Phone number for Jack's Barber Shop is 729-2279. The shop is located at 1411 S. Fuqua, off of Sixth Street.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR WASTEDISCHARGE PERMIT RENEWAL
ASHLAND CHEMICAL COMPANY, A Division of Ashland Oil, Inc., P.O. Box 1300, Aransas Pass, Texas.

78336 has applied to the Texas Department of Water Resources for a renewal of Permit No. 02077 which authorizes a discharge of uncontaminated stormwater runoff effluent at a flow variable with rainfall from the carbon black, furnace process manufacturing plant which is located adjacent to and on the west side of State Highway 35, approximately 6 miles south of the City of Rockport, Aransas County, Texas.

The effluent is discharged into Redfish Bay in Segment No. 2483 of the Nueces Estuary. The permit, if renewed by the Commission, will specify conditions and limitations generally the same as those currently enforced by the existing permit. The expiration date of the existing permit is August 31, 1982. It is proposed that the expiration date be specified as midnight, five years after date of Commission approval.

LEGAL AUTHORITY: Section 26.028 of the Texas Water Code, as amended, and Chapter 25 of the Rules of the Texas Department of Water Resources.

No public hearing will be held on this application unless an affected person who has received notice of the application has requested a public hearing. Any such request for a public hearing shall be in writing and contain (1) the name, mailing address, and phone number of the person making the request; and (2) a brief description of how the requester, or persons represented by the requester, would be adversely affected by the granting of the application. If the Commission determines that the request sets out an issue which is relevant to the waste discharge permit decision, or that a public hearing would serve the public interest, the Commission shall conduct a public hearing, after the issuance of proper and timely notice of the hearing. If no sufficient request for hearing is received within 30 days of the date of publication of the notice concerning the application, the permit will be submitted to the Commission for final decision on the application.

Requests for a public hearing and/or requests for further information concerning any aspect of the application should be submitted in writing to Larry R. Soward, Assistant Chief Hearings Examiner, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 475-2678.

Issued this 16th day of July, 1982.

s/Mary Ann Hefner, Chief Clerk
Texas Water Commission
