Fresh American Troops Reach Korean Battle Lines

Spraberry Yields Production Shows In SE Lynn Area

Interesting shows of possible oil and gas production have been encountered in Houston Oil Company of Texas and Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware No. 1 H. B. Howell, Southeast Lynn County wildcat, seven and one-half miles southeast of Tahoka.

This venture ran a two hour drillstem test at 6,247-6,320 feet. Recovery was 140 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud. There were no signs of water. The section tested is in the top of the Spraberry sand of the lower Permian.

Operators are preparing to core 50 feet deeper. Tentative, unofficial top of the Spraberry sand has been picked by some geologists to be at 6,248 feet. Elevation is 3,033 feet.

Location is 467 feet from north and east lines of section 451, block 1, EL&RR survey. The project is contracted to 9,500 feet to test through the Pennsylvanian limes. It is six miles northwest of Magnolia Petroleum Company's No. 1 Garza, recently completed flowing discovery from the Pennsylvanian.

C-S Terry Discovery Now Drilling Ahead

After determining the water level of a lime reef pay in Central-South Terry County, operators of the Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 1 Willard are drilling ahead possibly to test the Fusselman zone, which is producing in the Corrigan field, six miles to the southeast.

The No. 1 Willard has developed flowing production from approximately 90 feet of lime reef pay at 8,458-547 feet on two drillstem tests.

On a subsequent test at 8,547-97 feet, operators recovered 823 feet of oil, 243 feet of oil and gas cut mud and 144 feet of muddy salt water.

The venture is now being deepened. Original plan was to test the Ellenburger with an estimated depth of 12,000 feet.

The No. 1 Willard is 660 feet from north and east lines of northwest quarter of section 6, block C-37, psl survey, and 14 1/2 miles south of Brownfield.

Two Wildcats Slated For NE Midland Area

Ted Weiner of Fort Worth and associates have staked two wildcats, one to the Spraberry another to the Ellenburger, in the extreme Northeast Midland County.

The proposed projects are in the immediate area of the James H. Snowden and others No. 1 Andrew Fasken, only producer in the Germania-Spraberry pool.

Three-quarters of a mile southeast of the Germania discovery, Weiner and others have staked their No. 1 Fasken, projected to the Spraberry.

It will be in the center of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 8, block 36, T-2-S, T&P survey.

On Checkerboard Spread

This test will be on a checkerboard spread of 2,000 acres acquired by the operators from Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware.

The planned Ellenburger wildcat will be Weiner and W. W. Cumberland of New York No. I Powell, to be two miles northeast of the Germania pool.

The No. 1 Powell will be in the center of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 4, block 36, T-2-S, T&P survey.

James H. Snowden, Standard Fryer Drilling Company, Seaboard and W. L. Stewart are supporting this deeper operation, which is a farmout from Sinclair Oil & Gas Company.

Slated depth is approximately 13,000 feet.

Tester To Spraberry Staked In Glasscock

General American Oil Company has staked a Spraberry wildcat in extreme Central-West Glasscock County, immediately east of the Midland County line.

The proposed venture, located two and three-fourths miles east of production in the Tex-Harvey field, will be General American's No. 1 A. N. Hendrickson.

Exact location is in the center of the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 20, block 36, T-3-S, T&P survey.

Projected depth is approximately 8,000 feet.

3,300-Foot Wildcat Proposed For Loving

E. L. Fitch Drilling Company and others have staked a 3,300 - foot wildcat in Northwest Loving County, 10 1/2 miles north of the town of Orla, which is across the line in Reeves County.

Fitch and other No. 1 W. W. Webb will be 2,310 feet from west and 990 feet from south lines of section 1, block 57, T-1, T&P survey.

The combination tool venture is

Red Artillery Fire Signals Beginning Of Taejon Squeeze

TOKYO—(AP)—Fresh American troops, with one division established on a new beachhead in South Korea and another backing the line, took some of the pressure off the 24th Division in the central front Thursday. The Reds nevertheless put a heavy squeeze on Taejon.

To complicate matters for the 24th, North Korean infiltrators got behind their lines, said General MacArthur's communique issued at 12:55 a.m. Thursday.

Taejon and an adjoining village were under heavy Red artillery fire. The 24th still held the city.

MacArthur said fighting flared also on the central sector's Chungju - Hamchang - Sangju road, where Reds are moving south, and in the Yongju-Andong corridor farther east. The South Koreans held stubbornly to their general defense line in this area but Yechon, on the road between Andong and Hamchang, is in Red hands.

From this area the Reds are trying to cut the American supply line from Pusan to the Taejon front.

Famed World War II Outfit

The First Cavalry Division, now in fact a mechanized infantry unit, is a famed World War II outfit. It landed Tuesday a Pohang, a small port 66 miles north of Pusan, without opposition. It had an American-British carrier air umbrella. This unit, which has a reputation for speed, drove seven miles inland at last reports without opposition.

But Reds are known to be near the area. MacArthur's communique said the Reds had been pushed farther back from Yongdok, which is only 25 miles north of Pohang, by South Korean troops.

An early report that 5,000 cavalry (First Cavalry Division) men were landed brought a reply from MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo that 5,000 "is not a realistic figure."

Another Fresh Division

Official announcements spoke only of a division. A division normally numbers 12,000 to 15,000 men. The number put ashore was withheld for security reasons.

The other fresh division, a noted World War II outfit known as the 25th (Tropic Lightning) Division—also landed in Korea sometime before the First Cavalry Division made its beachhead. First reports created the impression that two new beachheads had been established but later information indicated the 25th had gone in at Pusan as reinforcements. Its arrival had been kept secret for security reasons.

The First Cavalry Division moved into South Korea on 10 days notice,

Texas Doughboy Gets It Straight

A U. S. BEACHHEAD IN KOREA (Delayed) —(AP)— As American troops prepared for an amphibious assault landing on the east coast of Korea, they talked over the chances of hand-to-hand fighting.

A lanky Texan, his face wrinkled with concern, asked his buddy:

"How we gonna tell a South Korean from a North Korean?"

The answer:

"Easy, brother. If he's a South Korean he'll walk up to you and say 'Hello, you all.' If he's a North Korean he'll shoot you daid from a tank."

Michigan Man Named Safety Director Here

The appointment of Milan N. Plavsic, of Hazel Park, Mich., as Midland's first Director of Public Safety, was announced Wednesday by City Manager W. H. Oswalt. Plavsic will assume his duties here August 15.

Plavsic will head the newly-created Department of Public Safety for Midland, Oswalt said. He will be responsible to the city manager for all functions of police and fire protection.

The new department is being established in order to obtain a maximum efficiency and more effective use of personnel, according to the city manager. The city has been seeking a director of public safety for several months, Oswalt said.

Plavsic is a graduate of the Cincinnati Police Academy and has served as chief of police at Dayton, Kentucky, and Hazel Park. He also has been a safety director for Saginaw, Mich. He has served as a member of the Michigan Youth Guidance Commission and is a former chairman of the Juvenile Protection Committee of the Michigan P-TA Congress.

The new director comes to Midland with high recommendations, Oswalt said. Plavsic is married and has two children.

Traffic Violators Issued Warrants

The City of Midland's crackdown on traffic violators was getting results Wednesday and Police Chief Jack Ellington has promised a continued strict law enforcement.

All violators who have neglected to pay traffic fines are being issued warrants to appear before the city judge. Corporation Court played before a full house Wednesday morning.

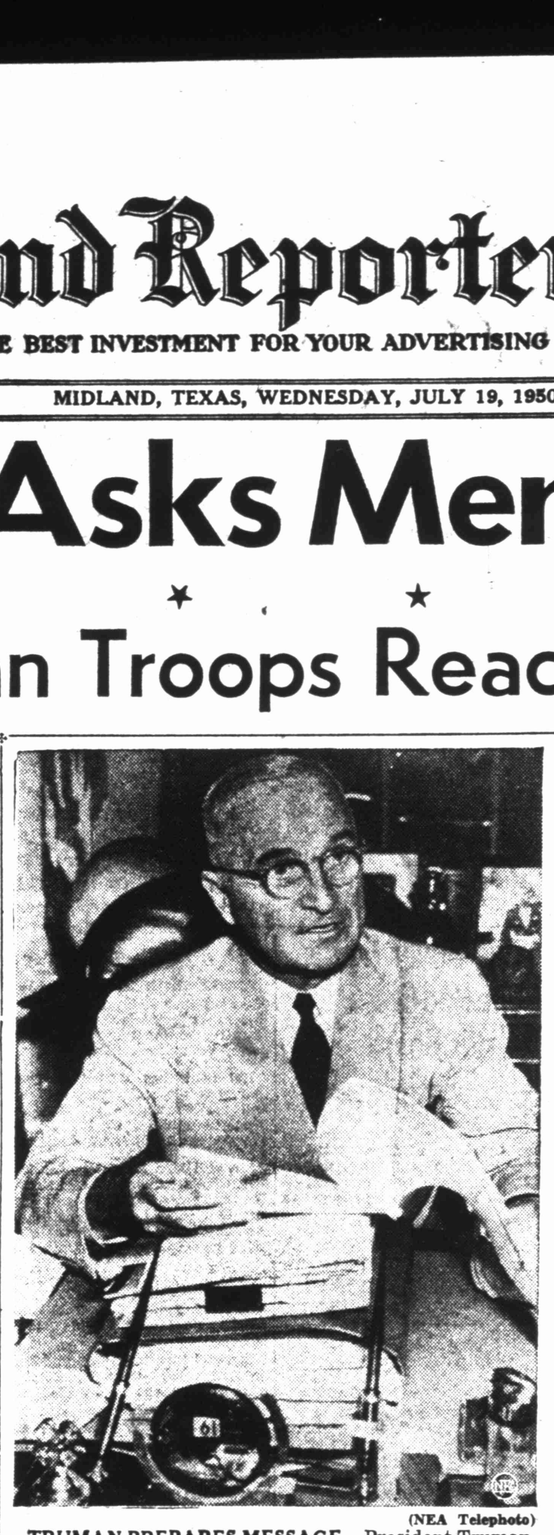

One Midlander had a long backlog of tickets to pay. He paid off a total of $42 for a like number of traffic tickets. Another man paid $35.

286 Mark Absentee Ballots For Primary

A total of 286 Midland County voters cast absentee ballots before the Tuesday afternoon deadline, indicating a heavy vote for the Democratic primary election Saturday.

The absentee balloting was the heaviest for the county in several years, according to County Clerk Lucille Johnson.

The absentee voting closed at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

TRUMAN PREPARES MESSAGE—President Truman busies himself at the White House preparing a message to Congress and a major radio address to the nation. The message to Congress was delivered Wednesday morning. The radio address is scheduled at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday. Truman asked Congress for a $10,000,000,000 program of men and materials for Korean fighting and to guard against aggression anywhere.

Congress Leaders Prepare To Speed Truman's Program

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Congress members generally indicated willingness Wednesday to give speedy approval to most of President Truman's requests for men, money and materials to meet the Korean crisis and guard against any other armed aggression.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn said the President's recommendation for economic legislation will be embodied in a bill to be introduced Wednesday afternoon.

"I'm hoping we can pass this bill next week," Rayburn said.

House Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass) said: "In this critical situation we must give the President whatever is needed. Russia respects only power and we must make ourselves all-powerful."

Representative Arends (Ill), assistant House Republican leader: "On the whole, I'm pretty much in agreement with the President's program. I think we have to definitely face the fact that 'real war' is a possibility and we must make necessary preparations."

Home-Front Savings

Arends called on Truman, however, "to take the lead to cut expenditures in the federal government not essential to defense." He said $5,000,000,000 can be saved in home-front spending for use in the war effort.

Even before Truman's message reached Congress, two Senate

Mrs. McLaughlin Dies; Rites Thursday

Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, 51, who resided on the Mabee Lease north of Midland, died Wednesday morning in a Midland hospital.

She had been a resident of West Texas and New Mexico for the last 16 years.

Funeral services are to be held at 3 p. m. Thursday in the Newnie W. Ellis Chapel. Interment will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Survivors include the husband and two sons, J. D. of Levelland and J. Ray of Midland.

State's Polio Cases Again Hit High Mark

AUSTIN —(AP)— Polio bounced back to this year's high mark last week—124 cases in 50 Texas counties.

It was the same high mark that was recorded two weeks ago before the disease eased slightly last week, the State Health Department reported.

The new incidence brought the state's total this year to 1,177 cases in 142 counties, compared to 922 cases in 123 counties during the comparable period a year ago.

State Health Officer George W. Cox said this year's total is "almost certain" to go higher than last year's—the highest ever recorded in Texas.

Cox urged again that "basic cleanliness" be used to fight the disease, despite lack of definite knowledge of polio's cause.

INHABITANTS FLEE AS QUAKE HITS SICILY

ROME —(AP)— Panic-stricken inhabitants fled Messina, Sicily, Wednesday as a violent earthquake shook the area.

The quake also was reported across the straits on the Italian mainland. There were no immediate reports of damage.

Race For Congress 'Red-Hot'

The "red-hot" U. S. representative race in the huge 16th Congressional District is expected to attract voters to the polls in record numbers in Midland and elsewhere in this West Texas district in Saturday's Democratic primary.

The campaign is the most colorful and perhaps the most expensive ever staged in this section. And the voters apparently are getting steamed-up as election day approaches.

Congressman Ken Regan of Midland is opposed for reelection to a second full term by District Judge Paul Moss of Odessa and Fred Hervey of El Paso.

These three candidates stirred up all the election excitement as they toured the expansive district, campaigning in cities and small communities alike. They even have carried their vote-getting drives to the derrick floors of drilling rigs and to lonely ranch houses in the deep West Texas ranch country. A majority of the voters have had occasion to see and visit with the candidates, who have spent money as never before in a congressional race in this district. Each candidate has scores of campaign workers scattered throughout the area and the big job now is to get out the vote.

Big El Paso Vote

Most observers agree that the outcome of the race hinges on El Paso's possible 37,000 votes, and for that reason most of the "hot" campaigning has been done in the vicinity of the border city. Charges have been hurled thick and fast there by the candidates and by their campaign managers. More political rallies have been held in El Paso County than in the rest of the district's 19 counties combined.

Ector County has the second

C. J. Bright Of Wisconsin Dies At Daughter's Home

Charles John Bright, 64, of Lynxville, Wis., died Wednesday morning at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Don Miller, 2108 West College Avenue.

The body will be sent to Lynxville for services and interment. The Newnie W. Ellis Chapel is in charge of arrangements here. The services have been scheduled tentatively for Sunday.

Survivors include the widow; two daughters, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Tom Shinko of Eastman, Wis., and a son, Elmer Bright of Great Bend, Kan.

Business As Usual At Air Terminal

Business still is being conducted on a normal basis at Midland Air Terminal, Clyde G. Sharrer, city aviation director, announced Wednesday.

Rumors that the city has received orders to abandon Terminal are untrue, Sharrer said. The city has received no word from the government regarding the terminal, and warehouse and dwelling units still are being rented on a normal basis.

Sharrer said another rumor that the city is renting buildings for 10-day periods only are unfounded.

More Taxes, War Powers Called 'Must'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman Wednesday asked Congress to vote all the men and armed strength needed to turn back the Communist armies in Korea and to block armed aggression elsewhere in the world.

He put the starting cost of building up the military power of the United States and the free world at $10,000,000,000.

He said a sharp tax increase, together with other economic controls, are necessary to curb inflation and help foot the military bills. The tax recommendations will come later.

For the present, Truman asked power to curb time-payment buying, establish priorities, allocate materials, control inventories and requisition needed supplies and materials.

He reserved for the future such drastic measures as price controls and rationing and called upon all Americans to avoid them through voluntary restraint.

The President made clear that his $10,000,000,000 program was only the beginning. He foretold the early need of more billions to reinforce the military strength of the North Atlantic powers bordering Soviet Communists in Europe. He said higher defense spending would go on for years.

Warning Aimed At Moscow

And the future? Truman coupled emphasis on United Nations action in Korea with a warning against further aggression clearly aimed at Marshal Stalin in Moscow. His words:

"The free world has made it clear, through the United Nations, that lawless aggression will be met with force. This is the significance of Korea—and it is a significance whose importance cannot be overestimated.

"I shall not attempt to predict the course of events. But I am sure that those who have it in their power to unleash or withhold acts of armed aggression must realize that new recourse to aggression in the world today might well strain to the breaking point the fabric of world peace."

Reserve Calls Authorized

Truman asked that all legal limits on the size of the armed forces be lifted to permit increasing them "substantially."

The President also reported to Congress he has empowered Secretary of Defense Johnson to call to active duty "as many National Guard units and as many units and individuals of the reserve forces of the Army, Navy, and Air Forces as may be required."

Truman laid down his program

Truman's Requests Mean This To Men, Families, Business

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman's call upon Congress Wednesday for expanded military and partial civilian mobilization means, if Congress approves in full:

FOR FAMILIES—

1. Tightened installment credit, probably higher down payments and less time to pay.
2. Sooner or later, higher taxes.
3. No price, wage or ration controls now, but later if prices soar.
4. Perhaps fewer things to buy, especially autos and television sets.

FOR MEN—

1. A draft summons for those over 19 and under 26 as needed.
2. A mandatory call to active service for National Guardsmen and reservists if their units or individual assignments are wanted by the military.

FOR BUSINESS—

1. Controls over materials, including government authority to ration supplies and set up priorities to say who should get them.
2. Possibly limited output of civilian goods which take big quantities of steel and other scarce materials.
3. Curbs on inventory hoarding.
4. The possibility that needed materials will be requisitioned.
5. Higher down payments margins in commodity trading.
6. The clearly-implied possibility of an excess profits tax, to produce revenues and curb profiteering.

More Hit, Miss Showers Predicted Through Thursday

By The Associated Press

More hit-and-miss thundershowers were predicted for West Texas Wednesday night and Thursday. They also were predicted for the northwest portion of East Texas.

A squall line dumped 5.36 inches of rain on the Panhandle City of Hereford Tuesday, flooding parks and streets there. Dalhart, higher up in the Panhandle, got 2.02 inches.

Temperature rose over the state Wednesday under partially cloudy skies. Tuesday's high reading was 102 at Presidio on the border. Cotulla reported 101 and Laredo 100. Dalhart had Wednesday's low at 60.

Other rainfall for the 24 hours ended at 6:30 a.m. included Childress .35 inch, Lubbock .06, Amarillo .04 and El Paso .03.

Voting Precincts For County Listed

Changes in voting precincts, brought about by the creating of two additional voting places, again Wednesday was called to the attention of voters by Louis A. Bartha, chairman of the Midland County Democratic Executive Committee.

Midland County this year has four city and three rural voting precincts, Bartha said. He urged voters to determine their resident precincts before going to the polls Saturday. Persons must have poll tax receipts or exemption certificates in order to vote.

The city voting precincts, judges, and area included are as follows:

Precinct 1—Basement of Midland County Courthouse; Frank True; area east of Big Spring Street and north of Wall Street.

Precinct 5—City-County Auditorium; C. J. Kelly; area east of Big Spring Street and south of Wall Street.

Other Voting Places

Precinct 6 — West Elementary School; J. L. Kendrick; area west of Big Spring Street and south of Wall Street.

Precinct 7—Youth Center; George Vannaman; area west of Big Spring Street and north of Wall Street.

The three rural voting places and judges are as follows:

Precinct 2—Greenwood School in East Midland County; Palmer Evans.

Precinct 3—Frank Midkiff ranch home in South-Central Midland County; Mrs. Frank Midkiff.

Precinct 4—Fire Station at Midland Air Terminal in West Midland County; Mrs. Leo Manning.

U. S. Holds Power To Block Runaway Prices For Many Food, Farm Products

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government has power to prevent runaway prices for many food and farm products.

It does not need special price control authority to place curbs on markets for such commodities as wheat, corn, cotton, dry beans and peas, butter, flaxseed, linseed oil, cottonseed oil, cheese, dried eggs and dried milk.

It acted late Tuesday to stabilize rising prices of cotton by announcing 4,320,000 bales stored under price support programs will be kept available for market sales. Apparently anticipating the announcement, the cotton market broke sharply during the day.

Power to set up what amounts to price ceilings exists in provisions of farm law relating to government authority for disposing of farm surpluses acquired under price support programs.

By offering these products at set prices, the government could pretty well fix the top limit of prices, at least as long as its supplies lasted. Few if any buyers would pay more than the government selling price.

Inquiry Set Thursday

In the case of non-perishable and storable commodities, the government may sell at prices equal to five per cent above the current price support rate, plus reasonable carrying charges.

In the case of perishable products —such as butter, cheese, dried eggs and milk—the government may sell at any price it sees fit, when there is danger of these products deteriorating.

Recent price increases, since the outbreak of the Korean fighting, have brought about an investigation by a Senate Banking Subcommittee headed by Senator Maybank (D-SC).

The inquiry is to start Thursday. Maybank said, with special reference to eggs and meat, that "We are going to call in some of these people who have been putting up their prices and see why they have done it." There also have been congressional complaints about bread price rises.

Despite recent price advances on

Gary Cooper Has Footlights Yen; Is Reading Manuscripts

Civilian Defense Programs

Governors all over the nation well could copy the initiative of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York in the civilian defense field. He's been having emergency talks with his cabinet on defense plans for the whole state.

As Dewey points out and national authorities concede, the states up to now have received virtually no guidance from the federal government in preparing an adequate civilian defense. They have no choice but to take matters into their own hands and plunge ahead.

W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, is the key federal executive in this field. But until he was named to the job a few months ago the post had been vacant for months.

And no one in Washington apparently took civilian defense seriously until last September when it was learned Russia had the A-bomb.

The truth is that although some cities have test programs under way, no community is ready now to face an A-bomb attack. The lack of efficient civilian defense could be, in Symington's view, the difference between a serious and a fatal disaster.

"It is estimated that with only 12 minutes' warning as against no warning, and under efficiently planned civilian defense, the casualties in a city hit by an atomic bomb could be reduced 50 per cent," he said recently.

Unfortunately for such plans, no one has even decided yet whether the cost of civilian defense staffs and equipment should be borne by the federal government or the states and cities.

One need not be an alarmist about the prospects of the Korean war spreading into general war to realize the time is long past for feeble inaction in this field. Harsh reality, uncolored by hysteria, requires us to be prepared for the worst in a world that contains the Soviet Union.

No A-bomb attack ever may come; but if it does, it will then be too late to talk about combatting its results with effective defense.

In New York a State Civil Defense Commission has been created and provided with $100,000 to get going. State officials have been working on preliminaries for almost a year, and Dewey's emergency cabinet sessions were the signal for the commission to move ahead at top speed.

Some states already may be taking similar strides. Certainly none which would be likely targets in an atomic war can afford to delay further the making of specific civilian defense plans. And perhaps if they begin showing the way, the federal government will be spurred at long last to establish an effective over-all program.

DREW PEARSON ON The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

(Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Korean war may be turning point in world history; Boys of military age can win peace goals which World War I and II veterans failed to achieve; U. S. cannot afford to become crass and materialistic.

(Editor's Note — Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to his 17-year-old stepson on some of the ideals we are trying to champion in Korea.)

Washington,
July 17, 1950.

—Dear Son,

It is a wet, rainy midnight and I can't sleep. So I am in the office at my typewriter, with the kittens trying to crawl up my pajama leg. It isn't the rain that keeps me awake, but some of the problems facing the world, and the fact that you and a lot of other boys soon may have to go off to a strange and distant battlefront called Korea.

So I have been wondering how you, who soon will celebrate your 18th birthday, and a lot of other boys around that age must feel when you have to grow up, go to school and plan your lives with a sword literally hanging over your head.

I know a little bit about this, because I was in college when we entered World War I. That, however, was the first war America had fought in a long time, and to most of us it was a glorious and exciting adventure. We did not know at that time it was to be but the beginning of a series of wars. So we enjoyed the parades and all the national enthusiasm, and I remember vividly how disappointed some of us, who had been picked for officers training camp, were when the armistice whistles blew. We even kept on drilling, hoping the news was not true.

Useless War?

However, the boys of your generation are a lot more sophisticated than we. And the country now has seen two great wars in quick succession, followed by a cold war which has broken out in a bloody, disastrous defeat in Korea. So all the glamor, the novelty, the excitement have worn off, and in a way I don't particularly blame the American lieutenant in Korea who said: "I never saw such a useless damned war in all my life."

I can well understand how this war, fought 8,000 miles away in a strange land, in the defense of strange people, and against tremendous odds, can be considered useless. Yet, I don't think I'm a Pollyanna when I say that the year 1950 may go down in history just because of the Korean war—because it may stop war in the future and lead to a new era of world unity and peace.

There are some people abroad who call us "Uncle Sap." And there are some people here at home, like the Chicago Tribune crowd, who call us that, too; say we are impractical fools to be giving our money, our food, our steel, and now our life blood away to other people.

But there was a man named Jesus Christ who, in effect, was also called Uncle Sap. He, too, was branded an impractical visionary; yet His teachings have formed a goal toward which mankind has been struggling ever since. And I don't think I'm too optimistic when I say that our country, with the Marshall Plan and all the other help we have given our neighbors, may have come nearer a practical fulfillment of the Sermon on the Mount, by one nation among other nations, than at any time since Christ taught that great doctrine 2,000 years ago.

U. S. Reaches Peak

As you know, I am considered quite a critical newspaperman. I do not hesitate to point out the faults of our government and our country. But, despite all these faults, I very deeply feel that our country has just about reached the peak of idealism and unselfishness and power for good ever before seen in the world.

We have reached it, but we can lose it.

Great empires have come and gone in the past. They have fallen because they got too soft or too crass or too powerful, because they used their power for materialistic conquest and based it on armed might. They put selfishness ahead of idealism and they fell.

We can do that, too. In fact, some of us were beginning to think more about our stomachs, our dividends, wages and prices, how many automobiles we had or our neighbors had—than we did about the problem of peace.

And it was not entirely surprising that Lt. Donald S. Sirman of Philadelphia, when captured in Korea, told Communist newsmen that he enlisted in the Air Force because he "got paid and would like to build a cottage in Philadelphia."

So perhaps some of us needed Korea. We needed it to keep us from getting too soft, too selfish, too materialistic. But, above all, we needed it to set an example of world unity against an aggressor.

Free Man's Burden

I think what you boys who are just approaching military age must remember is that the Korean decision had to come sooner or later. A nation cannot live alongside another nation which constantly threatens war. And a free world cannot exist with one nation bullying, arming, threatening to invade any peoples who do not bow to their political creed.

In a way, what we—especially you—are assuming is the free man's burden—the obligation of free men to keep the world free.

There was a time when we could go our own way in this country, protected by two oceans, and not worry about the rest of the world. But that day—thanks to the atom bomb and long-range airplanes—is over; so what happens in one part of the world, like a contagious disease, affects us here.

That is particularly true of freedom.

This has got to be a free world. And I don't think one free nation can live as an island surrounded by nonfree, police-state nations, all armed to the teeth.

So, since this clash of free nations and the police-state nations was inescapable, it is better to get it over with and in such a way that we can build a new international police force, unhampered by vetoes, which will guarantee lasting peace.

Stopping War Seeds

Maybe you remember my telling you about some of the international conferences I have covered as a newspaperman where I could literally see the seeds of war planted—see them with my own eyes, and watch, them grow and incubate, with the rest of the world watching, too, but powerless to stop the impending crisis.

Well, this time we have not been powerless. We saw the impending crisis and we moved to avert it.

I think it's important for you and the other boys approaching military age to remember this; also to remember that no country in the world today has our unselfishness, our courage, our idealism. And we've got to keep it that way.

So this Korean war, distant as it is, tough as it is, unwelcome as it is, may be the great turning point in the year 1950—midway through the century—when we can establish a world police force and a world authority to put down all wars in the future.

Those are some of the great things which the boys of your generation can look forward to. You are a lot smarter than my generation, and you can succeed where we failed.

Love from,
The Old Man.

Senator Johnson Says A-Bomb To Be Used At Right Time

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) says the United States will use the atomic bomb "if and when it can be used to stem the tide of aggression."

But Rep. Frances Bolton (R-Ohio) says she is shocked by the idea that an A-bomb might be dropped on Korea.

Johnson said in a radio broadcast the United States must keep in mind that Russia also has the A-bomb and might use it.

Mrs. Bolton told the House Tuesday that use of the bomb on North Korea would have little military value.

"To use the atom bomb simply to kill Koreans would give the Orientals reason to believe that we really are against the Orientals," she declared.

Capital Asks Check On Amarillo Airport

FORT WORTH —(AP)— Washington officials have asked the Fourth Region CAA office to check the condition of runways and facilities at the Amarillo Municipal Airport.

L. C. Elliott, administrator, said Tuesday night he could not say whether the request from CAA headquarters was for "military purposes."

The Air Force used the airport in conjunction with scheduled airlines during World War II. After the war the field and facilities were declared surplus and turned over to the City of Amarillo.

"You recently wrote an article about how to guess a certain finesse," a Denver correspondent reminds me. "There is a guess in this hand, even though there is no finesse. Will you be good enough to tell us how the experts would guess this situation?

"West opened the six of spades, East put up the king, and South won with the ace.

"When the hand was actually played, South then led a club, and East won with the ace. East returned a spade, South played low, and West won with the jack. A spade return forced out declarer's queen.

"Declarer saw he could make three clubs, three hearts, and two spades. He needed a diamond trick for his contract. However, when he led diamonds, West took the ace of diamonds and ran the rest of the spades. This set the contract.

"If South had led diamonds instead of clubs at the second trick, he would have made his contract.

If West took his ace of diamonds at once, he could establish the spades but could never regain the lead to cash them. If West refused to take the ace of diamonds, South could abandon the suit and start the clubs. With one diamond trick in, he would make his contract.

"For the life of us, we cannot see why South should lead diamonds instead of clubs. Would an expert know how to guess this right?"

I have a faint suspicion that my leg is being pulled. An expert would not need to guess at all on this hand, since the proper play eliminates all guessing.

South must refuse the first trick! When East holds the first trick with the king of spades, he can do no better than to return his remaining spade. South wins and can attack either diamonds or clubs with equally satisfactory results.

If South leads diamonds, West can take the ace of diamonds and establish his spades, but he will never regain the lead to cash them. If South tackles the clubs first, East can take the club ace but cannot then return a spade. Any other return, of course, can do South no harm.

When the expert is forced to guess, he does a pretty good job of it. However, if he makes unnecessary guesses, he's no expert.

What's RIGHT?

A friend shows you a new dress she has bought and you know someone else who has one just like it.

WRONG: Say: "Jane Smith had on a dress just like yours at the party the other evening."

RIGHT: Be tactful and don't mention the fact that you have already seen a duplicate of the dress on someone else.

AEC's New Chairman Dean Is Not Idea Man, But Plugger

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Behind President Truman's appointment of 44-year-old lawyer Gordon Dean as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission there is an interesting background. It deals with how the AEC has been getting on with its work in what has been called its "radioactive squirrel cage." Dean's appointment came as pretty much of a surprise to all but those on the inside who helped him get the job.

Aside from two years in U. S. Naval Intelligence service, Gordon Dean's 20-year career has been entirely in the legal profession. He has been law professor, Department of Justice attorney, public relations man for Justice Robert H. Jackson in prosecuting Nazis at the Nuernberg trials.

From 1940 to 1943 Dean was in private law practice in Washington. He was a partner of Senator Brien McMahon of Connecticut, chairman of the Congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. Senator McMahon naturally supported Dean's original appointment to the commission in May 1949, and his elevation to the chairmanship. They also had served together in Department of Justice Criminal Division.

The Atomic Energy Commission can use good legal talent. It has a complex law to administer, and many legal contracts. Its first chairman, David E. Lilienthal, was educated as a lawyer. But he had some years in engineering and public administration on Tennessee Valley Authority before he was made head of AEC.

Chairman Dean who succeeds him had no scientific or engineering experience until he was appointed to AEC by President Truman.

Year To Get Acquainted

The first year of any AEC member's time is spent largely in finding what it's all about. For instance, New York engineer and industrialist Thomas E. Murray, appointed to the commission last March, has spent almost all his time since then in visiting AEC's many installations. He'll take up his duties in Washington one of these days, perhaps as well informed as any commissioner on AEC's work.

Of the other commission members, Dr. Henry DeWolf Smyth, author of the Smyth report, is a scientist serving a one-year term. Sumner T. Pike, industrialist and financier, is senior member of the commission, and has just been confirmed for a new four-year term. But because of recent difficulties with a few senators, he could not be appointed chairman.

Gordon Dean was therefore almost the only experienced commissioner available for appointment as chairman, by a mere process of elimination.

As chairman, Dean is expected to produce smoother relations with Congress, and with the armed services.

Former Chairman Lilienthal and Vice Chairman Pike have chafed a good bit under both. They felt that reporting to the Atomic Energy, Appropriations, Military Affairs and even Un-American Activities Committees took so much time it handicapped their work on developing the atomic energy program itself.

Also, both Lilienthal and Pike had strong views on keeping AEC a civilian agency and concentrating on development of cilivian uses of atomic enegry. Chairman Dean is expected to go along a little closer with Department of Defense ideas. He is known to share the views of ex-AEC commissioner Lewis L. Strauss on tighter security and restrictions on shipments of isotopes abroad.

Backlog Of Ideas

Chairman Dean's several speeches of the last year—which he has written himself — have revealed no startlingly new ideas.

He has analyzed the four main problems of the Atomic Energy Commission as follows: (1) Civilian vs. military control. (2) Greater secrecy vs. declassification of scientific knowledge. (3) Concentration on peacetime or military applications of atomic energy. (4) Government monopoly vs. private industrial development.

He is regarded in Washington as a career official whose ambition to make a good record may overcome any lack of capacity for one of the biggest jobs in govern ent. He still has his reputation to make in the way of new contributions to atomic policy.

As a matter of fact, the atomic energy program now so extensively mapped out for the next few years that a lot of big new ideas may not be required. More than at any other time in its short four-year history, the principal work of the Atomic Energy Commission is to carry out the policies and blueprints already on its books.

LITTLE DOG

By Walt Coburn

Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc.

IX

THERE was no doubt in Doc's mind that Long Andy intended to shoot him down as he stood there in the doorway of the cabin.

"You ain't goin' nowheres!" Long Andy repeated his words, as if he enjoyed tormenting his victim before he shot him. His finger tightened on the trigger.

But Long Andy's companion, who somehow still looked vaguely familiar to Little Doc, moved suddenly. His hand slipped to his side and came up holding a gun. Long Andy may not have noticed the motion, or if he noticed it, he may have thought that his companion intended to back him up in ridding Wolf Point of its only medical man.

But the other fellow didn't turn his gun on Little Doc. Instead, he used it as a weapon against Long Andy. He brought the barrel down with a quick, chopping motion across Long Andy's wrists.

Long Andy screamed as his gun flipped from his hand and spun through the air, landing with a crash on the ground by Doc's feet.

Long Andy clutched his broken wrist.

"You busted my arm!"

"And I'll bust your back with a bullet, Andy, if you try to stop Little Doc. Pick up the gun, Doc, and stick it in with your sawbone tools."

Doc leaned over, retrieved the gun and slipped it into his bag. The other man nodded and spoke again to Andy:

"Stay here in the cabin. There's some likker in the jug—take a drink and forget it. If Shorty wants anything, do the best you can. I'll put Little Doc on his horse."

Doc and the other man left Long Andy cursing and whining.

Little Doc took a deep breath and looked his thanks to his companion.

THE fellow grinned back. There was something familiar about the man. Doc was sure of it now. He knew too where he had seen the fellow before.

"Come on, Doc," the man said.

He led Little Doc to where he had left his horse, behind a clump of thick brush not far from the cabin.

Little Doc paused by the horse. "I'm a tenderfoot," he said, "and I know tenderfeet aren't supposed to ask questions—besides, all this is none of my business."

"What are you drivin' at, Doc?"

The man looked nervous and fidgety, just like Doc had seen him once before, but this time he was nervous for a much different reason.

"Just this," Doc said, "if I were in your boots, I'd saddle up my horse and ride away from here as fast as I could. Let Long Andy have that bunch of stolen horses—I'll bet they were stolen if Long Andy had anything to do with them. I seem to recall you've got a wife and a baby to consider."

The man's eyes popped open a little wider. Doc knew he had guessed right. The fellow had grown a heavy beard and his hair needed cutting. He wore a pair of dirty old overalls and an old flannel shirt. His boots were badly worn and his shapeless old hat was stained with sweat.

But there was no mistaking this man. Doc had seen him before on the train that brought him to Wolf Point. He was the man in the shabby brown suit, whose wife had had a baby on the train in the stateroom Doc had paid for with his own money. This man's wife had been Doc's first patient. He was the man who had said: "God bless you, Doc."

The fellow shrugged his shoulders. "I hoped you wouldn't recognize me, Doc. I left the missus and the baby in Chinook. We were flat busted. I was looking for a job punching cows when Long Andy invited me to throw in with his bunch."

"Looks like it wasn't a good idea," Doc said, tilting his head toward the cabin where a man lay dying.

"Somebody jumped us when Long Andy and Shorty were shovin' some horses out of a pasture two nights ago," the man explained. "We made a runnin' fight of it and Shorty got shot in the belly. I told Long Andy I knew there was a new doctor in Wolf Point, so he went to fetch you. But I owe you a lot, Doc. I wouldn't have let Long Andy hurt you."

Doc nodded. "That's one way to pay a doctor bill," he said.

"You're going to turn me in to the law?'

Doc shook his head. "Not as long as you go straight. I'll find you a job. Nobody need know anything about this deal—and I doubt if you had a very big hand in it. The horses will all go back to their owners as soon as I can tip off the constable."

The man half-turned. "I'll ride back to Wolf Point with you, anyway," he said. "Long Andy might decide to head you off."

At that moment Long Andy came out of the cabin with a jug in his hand. He shouted at them in a rasping voice:

"Shorty's dead!"

The man shook his head. Then replied:

"I'm glad the poor devil's out of his misery. And I think I've had enough."

* * *

LONG ANDY took a step toward them, but as the other man loosened his gun in its holster, Long Andy thought better of it and stopped.

"What do you mean?" Long Andy asked cautiously.

"I'm quittin' you right now, Long Andy," said the other man. "You're welcome to them horses."

The man who had paid his doctor bill saddled up his own mount and joined Doc. They started off down the trail.

"What's your name?" Doc asked.

"Brown," said the man. "Call me Brownie."

They did not look back and Long Andy made no move to stop them as they hit the trail toward town.

Mr. Link Robinson, 519 Lindsey, is the most content and satisfied man in Newport, Ky. In fact, he says there isn't a thing in the world that can irritate or upset him now that he is on the HADACOL band wagon. If there ever was a man who thought HADACOL is the most wonderful thing in the world, it is Link Robinson, since he learned that his system lacked Vitamins B, B2, Iron and Niacin.

Here is what Mr. Robinson has to say about HADACOL, which is now supplying liberal quantities of these essential elements: "I have been a steel worker for over twenty years. When you are a steel worker, you have to do plenty of good, hard work, and you need lots of good, substantial food. But when a stomach is in as bad a shape as mine was . . . I couldn't eat, I had gas pains, stomach bloating and nervousness; Well, I just couldn't eat the proper foods I needed. My boss told me about HADACOL and I started taking it immediately. After the second bottle I could tell a definite improvement. Now I can eat the foods I need to eat to really be on the job. In fact, I can eat anything I want to. I am not nervous anymore, either. Best of all, I havn't got those terrific gas pains and no more stomach bloating. HADACOL is the best ever. I recommend HADACOL to everyone."

HADACOL Is Different

Countles thousands are benefitting from HADACOL . . . even hundreds of doctors are recommending HADACOL to their patients whose systems lack Vitamins B, B2, Iron and Niacin. HADACOL is so wonderful because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and minerals to every organ, and every part of your body — to the heart, liver, kidneys and lungs, even to the eyes, hair and nails.

Give remarkable HADACOL a chance, and if you don't feel better with the first few bottles you take — you get your money back. Only $1.25 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50.

DADDY RINGTAIL

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail And The Mean Streak

The pelican is a bird with pelican feathers. He was standing there by the Whispering River when he said that he had a pelican feather that he wasn't using. He said he would give it to the Featherman if—and I said "if"—if the Featherman would jump up in the air and bump his heels together three times. And the Featherman said he would do the jumping and bumping if—and I said "if"—if the pelican would give him the pelican feather.

Daddy Ringtail laughed. He often laughs when he is happy. It made him happy that the Featherman was to have the pelican feather, because the Featherman wanted it. It also made him happy that the pelican was to see the jumping and bumping, because the pelican wanted to see it.

Daddy Ringtail was so sure that everything was going to be all right, and he was so happy about it all—he said he would have to go tell Mother Ringtail, and let her be happy about it, too. He said goodbye and started to walk away and on back to the monkey house where Mother Ringtail was.

Daddy Ringtail turned around once to see the Featherman do his jumping and bumping of heels together. The Featherman did it, and then he said to the pelican: "There now! Let me have the pelican feather." Daddy Ringtail heard the Featherman say it, but the pelican only laughed.

"Why should I give you the feather?" the pelican asked. "Why should I give it to you, when I've already seen you jumping and bumping?"

It was a very mean thing to say, you know, and very unfair. The pelican had promised to give the feather, if only the Featherman would do his jumping and bumping, and a promise is a promise. People are supposed to do what they promise.

And then Daddy Ringtail saw what the trouble was. The pelican had a mean streak all the way along his back, and when people have a mean streak all the way along their backs—they are mean and unkind to other people.

And do you know how people get a mean streak on their backs where they can't even see it? They get it when they aren't careful always to be good and kind, and I hope you never, never have one. Happy day!

Dallas Jailbreakers Arrested By FBI

TUCSON, ARIZ. —(AP)— Two men who escaped from the city jail in Dallas last week were held Wednesday by the FBI.

Jack Truman Jones, 22, and John Franklin Goodwin, 18, both of Wichita Falls, were arrested here Sunday following a 90-mile-an-hour chase through city streets.

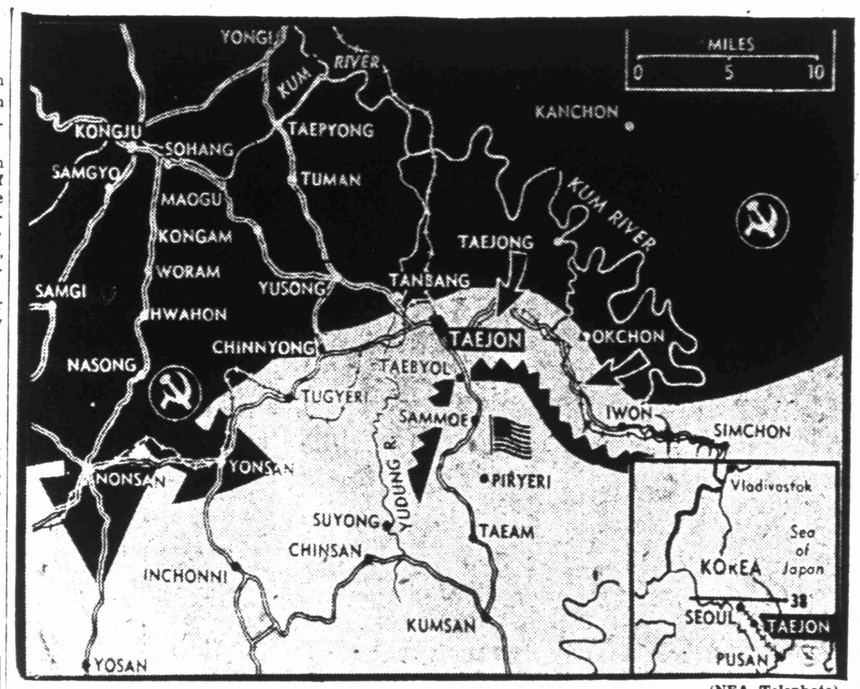

Their bond was set at $2,000 each, after they were charged with violating the Dyer Act.

The men were held in Dallas for armed robbery at the time they broke out of jail.

Jailbreaker, Parole Violator Recaptured

YUMA, ARIZ. —(AP)— The FBI has recaptured Elbert Wilburn Day, 26, who escaped from the Bonham, Texas, jail May 2, 1949.

Day also was wanted as a parole violator, the FBI said. He was released conditionally from federal prison Jan. 18, 1949, after serving nearly four years in connection with the killing of Lem Savage, an Amarillo police officer.

★ THE DOCTOR SAYS ★

Dropsy, Or Edema, Caused By An Insufficient Protein Diet

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Protein foods are important in maintaining good nutrition. In fact now they ofteh are given in the form of strained meats to young infants in order to ward off anemia.

The proteins are unlike the fats and the starches because they contain nitrogen. Nitrogen is necessary for life. Although nitrogen makes up about three-fourths of the air we breathe, this nitrogen simply is breathed in and out with the air and cannot be used from this source. It must be obtained from some food.

Protein deficiency may follow some illness which does not allow the food to pass to the digestive tract and be absorbed there. Loss of appetite is a commo cause or sometimes a sign of insufficient protein in the food. This loss of appetite may be due to some mental causes.

In most illnesses in which there is fever an excessive breakdown of the body protein occurs. The production of hemoglobin, which is the coloring matter of the blood, depends largely on the amount and quality of the protein in the diet. Thus, anemia is another sign which develops either when there is insufficient protein in the diet or when it is poorly absorbed by the body.

An insufficient protein diet over a long period of time leads to improper distribution of water in the body. This causes the development of dropsy, or edema, in which water accumulates in the body tissues. A wasting of tissue also occurs. There is a decline in the ability of the body to produce heat and anemia results from insufficient protein intake.

Animal Proteins Best

The best sources of protein for the human body are the animal proteins, such as meat, eggs, fish and cheese. These usually are considered of greater value than the proteins of plant origin which are contained in cereals, nuts and certain vegetables.

Cost has to be considered. Animal proteins are obtained only by feeding large quantities of plants to the animals and therefore the cost of animal proteins is high in relation to the plant proteins.

Consequently some people have to use mostly proteins of plant rather than of animal origin. Nevertheless, for those who can afford it, a reasonable quantity of dairy products, fish and meat is desirable in order to maintain the proper intake of protein foods.

At the same time Commander Rutherford has directed commanders of the 400-odd Veterans of Foreign Wars posts in Texas to proffer the services of their individual units to city and county officials for use in case of any emergency that might arise.

Abundant Living

By E. STANLEY JONES

Prov. 30:7-9; Jas. 2:15-16; Matt. 14:14-21.

GRACE, GRASS, AND GUMPTION!

The main facts about vitamins are becoming generally known. What is not so generally known is the relation of lack of vitamins to nervous diseases. Dr. J. S. Hughes, a vitamin authority, shows charts of a pig going into severe nervous breakdown, with extreme irritability, as a result of taking away vitamins from the food. A photo of a pig with a nervous breakdown is a pathetic sight. That same pathetic pig is shown on other photos, after adequate vitamins have been fed to it, and now it is a sedate and poised pig!

This same professor said to me at the beginning of the National Christian Mission, in which I was to be speaking from three to five times daily for six solid months: "If you take some grass tablets I will give to you—the compressed blades of wheat when it is only about four to five inches high, at which stage it contains all the vitamins in a concentrated form—I will guarantee that you will come out of this Mission at the end of the six months without nervous exhaustion." I replied that I was his guinea pig and would try it. It may have been the fallacy in logic of "With, and therefore on account of," but there is no doubt that I came out at the end of that Mission without any nervous exhaustion; in fact, I was far better than when I began. The grass gave me a minimum vitamin requirement. Someone asked me how I was able to come through such a grind of exhausting engagements, fresh and full of vitality. I replied: "I think my vitality can be accounted for by three things: grace, grass, and gumption." I seemed half-serious, but in fact I was in dead earnest. That combination will produce health and vitality: grace for the soul to keep it from inner conflict, so that it will be rhythmical and harmonious; grass for the body to provide the physical basis of abundant living with adequate vitamin supply; and gumption for the mind to use the gifts of God intelligently and not overdo.

When I mention these three things in public people invariably ask me more about the grass than the grace and the gumption!

Gracious Father, I come to Thee to be made into a vital person. I shall need grace to keep me from wearing conflicts within. I shall need Thy stored vitality hidden in nature's storehouse, and then I shall need a quickened intelligence to save me from foolish mistakes. Help me to use all three. Amen.

Texaco Increases Gasoline Prices

FORT WORTH — (AP) — The Texas Company has raised the price of gasoline in all Texas marketing areas east of the Pecos.

The increase, effective Tuesday, is one-half cent a gallon on tank wagon price for both house brand and premium grade gasoline.

W. D. Fowlkes, Dallas marketing manager, in announcing the boost to Dallas distributors, noted that service station managers are independent operators and can either absorb the price or pass it to the consumer.

It is the second raise of the year. Tank wagon price was advanced half a cent May 3.

Birmingham Gives Commies 48 Hours To Get Out Of City

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. — (AP) — Communists, outlawed by the Birmingham City Commission, Wednesday had only 24 hours left in which to get out of town.

The City Commission, in an ordinance approved Tuesday, made membership in the Communist Party a misdemeanor punishable by 180 days in jail and a fine of $100.

Under the new ordinance, passed unanimously by the three-man commission, communists were given 48 hours in which to leave the city's limits.

The measure was introduced by Police Commissioner Eugene "Bull" Connor, unsuccessful candidate for governor in the recent Democratic primary on a rabidly "white supremacy" platform.

To Try Other Plan

"If this doesn't clean them out," Connor said, "we'll try something else."

Passage of the ordinance came on the heels of a two-week campaign against Communists in which Sam Hall, described by police as head of the Alabama Party, was arrested on a vagrancy charge.

Hall was convicted in city court, given a $100 fine and sentenced to 180 days in jail. The conviction has been appealed.

The ordinance makes unlawful the communication or voluntary association of anyone with "any person or persons established to have been a member of such Communist Party x x x."

Bulgaria Accuses Tito Of Aggression

PRAGUE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA —(AP)—Dispatches from Bulgaria Wednesday said Marshal Tito is moving troops into parts of Yugoslavia peopled by persons of Bulgarian national origin.

The report, distributed here by the left wing Telepress News Agency and credited to the Sofia, Bulgaria, newspaper Rabotnichesko Delo, said Yugoslav authorities also were expelling Bulgarians from their homes in the Bosilovgrad section, on the Yugoslav-Bulgarian border.

It said the schools and houses of the cooperatives in the section were turned into barracks and storerooms.

Yugoslavia has made similar charges against Cominform countries. They have been denied.

Law West Of Pecos Going Feminine; Gal Wants To Be Sheriff

EL PASO—(NEA)—The law West of the Pecos ain't what it used to be. It's goin' feminine.

In El Paso, one of the gals is running for county sheriff. Mrs. Jean Tulk stands five feet, five inches in her cowboy boots, and is swinging a political loop that could make her the biggest news in these parts since Judge Roy Bean and the Jersey Lily.

Mrs. Jean Tulk: "Of course it takes brains . . .

What does it take to be a sheriff?

"Of course it takes brains," says Mrs. Tulk. "A sheriff should have enough of a business education to enable him, or her, to supervise any body of law enforcement officers. And he, or she, should be up-to-date on all the latest crime solving techniques. I think I qualify."

Eight Opponents

The female candidate has eight opponents in the sheriff's race, and most of them with previous law enforcement experience. However, Mrs. Tulk has a few advantages—blue eyes, long wavy hair; bust, 36 inches; waist, 26 inches; and hips, 36 inches. She weighs 139 pounds without her spurs and guns.

She knows how to use her guns, too.

"Look around," she invites.

The walls of her home are covered with mounted trophies of deer, antelope, mountain lions, and a variety of smaller game, all proof of her marksmanship with pistol or rifle. She has more guns than frying pans and pots.

How about nerve? Would Mrs. Tulk be squeamish about murder investigations, or some of the more violent crimes she would have to handle?

"Ha," she exclaims. "If you could have seen some of the things I was up against when I was a graduate nurse. Why, I remember one case—"

Must Lead Posse

If elected, Mrs. Tulk will be required to lead El Paso County's mounted Sheriff Posse, and she's ready. She owns her own three-quarter Arabian mare named Chica, upon which she has appeared in various parades and rodeos throughout the Southwest. And she has a $2,000 western stock saddle that she made herself.

But why does a woman want to be sheriff, anyway?

"Because we need a woman for sheriff in this county," says Mrs. Tulk. "One of our greatest problems is juvenile delinquency. It takes a woman to understand the problems of youngsters, and if I am elected sheriff, I plan on hiring two women deputies to help cope with the situation. Besides, I need the money."

There have been no scoffers—not while Mrs. Tulk was in earshot, anyhow.

Pentagon Cautious In Evaluating News Of Korean Landings

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Military Reporter

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The cheering news of an American amphibious landing on the east coast of Korea came Wednesday as Pentagon officials gloomily contemplated the possibility that another six months and a half-dozen or more Army divisions might be needed to bring victory.

On the basis of the first, terse scraps of information from the beachhead, military men here were cautious about predicting what changes it could make in the estimates of time and military strength required for the ousting of Red forces from South Korea.

Developments in the initial phase of the amphibious operation were encouraging. First press reports spoke of the Americans driving as much as seven miles inland without meeting opposition.

Drastic Revisions

General MacArthur announced the landing was made by the First Cavalry Division and that still another division, the Twenty-Fifth, had reached the battle zone.

But there was a general disposition here to be cautious, to see what would grow out of the effort to drive a spear into the seaward flank of the Communist horde which has pushed American and South Korean soldiers steadily back for weeks.

The high command here had been forced to make drastic revisions in the original hope that the onslaught could be checked quickly and a roll-back started.

The word of the east coast landings came at a time when the Pentagon chiefs had made still another revision of an earlier and faster timetable for the Korean war to embrace the possibility that it might be early next year before the war could be won.

Long-Range Problem

This new revision appeared to have been inspired by several recent developments including a first-hand report to Washington by two members of the joint chiefs of staff who had conferred with MacArthur and by the continuing defeats and retreats at the front.

Up until a week ago some military leaders though the Korean "incident" might be cleaned up by this Fall. But that was before Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, the Air Force chief, came back from Tokyo to tell top Washington officials how it looked to MacArthur and to them.

There also is the long range, continuing problem: Even when victory comes in Korea the danger of war elsewhere will be no less acute. It depends on whether Russia decides upon "Koreas" at other points and times in the Far East, Southeast Asia, the Middle East, Europe.

First Cavalry Division Had Occupation Duties For Long Time Before Korea Move

WASHINGTON — The U. S. First Cavalry Division which made an amphibious landing at Pohang on the eastern shore of Korea Tuesday has long been on occupation duties in Japan.

The division liberated Manila in World War II and fought throughout the war in the Pacific. It is an old time cavalry organization with a history dating back to the Indian wars on the Western plains. Lately it has operated as an infantry outfit.

Its leader, Gen. Hobart R. Gay, 56, year old native of Rockport, Ill., entered the Army as a second lieutenant of cavalry during the First World War.

Amphibious landings are nothing new to him. He participated in the North African and Sicily landings during World War II. In 1944 he went to the European Theater of operations and fought there the rest of the war.

Took Over At Osaka

General Gay commanded the military district of Washington from 1947 to 1949 and assumed command of the First Division at Osaka, Japan, in September, 1949.

There have been some reports that Gay was in ill health. However, an Army spokesman here said he is in good shape, although at one time he had been through what was described as a "mild cardiac episode."

Ships from the Seventh Fleet which supported the landing have bombarded the Korean Coast roads frequently harassing the enemy. Bombardment at times has been directed against cliffs, precipitating avalanches which temporarily blocked the coastal road. When enemy troops and vehicles piled up behind these road blocks the fleet then poured on fire.

During the last 24 hours there were vague reports of the landing of a small unit at Pyonggok on the Korean eastern shore. However, the assumption was that they were South Koreans, possibly put ashore for scouting or patrol work.

France Uses Korean War As Lever To Build Own Strength

PARIS—(AP)—The French government is using the Korean War as a lever to build up France's armed strength.

Spurred by the newest Communist aggression in Asia, the new cabinet has expressed its determination to arm France as last and furiously as possible.

Rene Pleven, the new premier, was an active proponent of rearmament when he served as defense minister in Georges Bidault's cabinet earlier this year. Since he became premier and the Korean War started, he has redoubled his efforts.

Korea and rearmament were reported set for major discussion at Wednesday's regular cabinet meeting. Informed sources say the cabinet may consider a bill to keep half the current class of conscripts in uniform. This would give extra training to 90,000 soldiers and 4,000 sailors.

There also are reports that France may decide to send a small naval detachment to join United Nations forces in the Korean fighting.

Socialis' Join Drive

The increased emphasis on defense is expected to produce new French appeals for more U. S. money and arms, probably at the conference in London next week of Atlantic Pact deputies.

At that conference France also may seek machinery for the manufacture of artillery which the fighting in Korea has showed is needed to stop tanks. French appeals probably would be based on the country's longtime superiority in artillery production as well as her close geographic proximity to Russia's home concentrations of tanks.

Jules Moch, the Socialist serving as defense minister in Pleven's cabinet, has surprised most observers by supporting the drive for more armament. The Socialist previously have demanded butter before guns and have criticized government military action against the rebels in Indochina. But Moch now is pushing as hard as Pleven for stepped-up arming.

Midlanders Are In Midst Of Everything At Lions Conclave

By LARRY TRIMBLE
Special Correspondent

CHICAGO, ILL.—The 33rd annual Lions International convention continues in a merry swirl—one big event right after another—and the Midland delegation continues to be right in the midst of everything.

The Midland Lions Club Band, which has proved to be one of the convention's most popular musical units, performed a total of four hours Tuesday, as they played for different state delegations. The band played five different performances in three hotels, but still the bandsters were up and at it again Wednesday. The boys don't know their own musical strength.

Linda Murl Stracener and Carl Hyde, Jr., who are here with their parents, are holding up fine, and have made all performances like regular troupers.

Breakfast Club

Mrs. Ed Prichard, wife of the Midland club president, received quite a thrill Tuesday morning when she talked with Don Ameche, Midland and Hollywood oil man and screen and radio star, on the Breakfast Club program. Most of the Midlanders were in the audience.

Texas Lions still have the situation well in hand and really will take over in grand style Thursday when Herb Petry of Carrizo Springs is installed as president of Lions International.

The coronation of the Lions Queen and an all-star talent presentation featured the Tuesday night entertainment. Big league baseball will be a Wednesday afternoon feature.

The Midlanders will wind up their part of the convention Thursday and will board a train for home that night.

The Andrews Lions Club has a sizeable delegation here for the conclave, including Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roberts, Sr., and daughter, Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mears, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy McGill.

28 Trapped Men Saved In Scotland Mining Accident

GLASGOW, SCOTLAND. —(AP)— An engine room fire which burned off the cables of a mine elevator age trapped 28 miners for three hours Wednesday in the Blantyreferme Mine, 10 miles southeast of Glasgow.

Rescuers dug through eight feet of rock from an adjoining pit and saved them.

The skeleton staff of 28 miners—carrying out routine safety checks in the pit during a continuing strike for higher wages—had gone down the pit shaft shortly before a spark from an acetylene torch set off an explosion in the engine room.

Fire followed. It burned all the surface installations and ate through the elevator cable before the men could be brought out of the mine workings 2,000 feet below the surface.

Striking miners, who have stayed away from work for two weeks to enforce demands for higher pay for lower paid workers, helped in the rescue work.

MEDICAL PATIENT

Mrs. Leif Olson, 709 West Kansas Street, was admitted Wednesday morning to Midland Memorial Hospital as a medical patient.

THEIR WORK NEVER ENDS—Members of a U. S. Signal Corps team string telephone lines on poles somewhere in South Korea in an effort to improve communications in the ever-hanging American defense line. These men never get caught up with their work, since changing battle lines almost always leave communications in a disrupted state.

Colds, Chickenpox In Children May Be Cancer Forerunner

PARIS —(AP)— Childhood's colds and chickenpox may plant the seeds for maturity's cancer, a foremost expert on viruses reported Wednesday.

Dr. Francisco Duran-Reynals of Yale told the Fifth International Cancer Research Congress the viruses causing such mild diseases may lie dormant in the body for years. Then, he said, something may happen which causes them to blaze up into an entirely new and different activity—cancer.

He said the same effect may come from influenza, polio and other viruses.

Just plain aging, and changes of body tissue as you grow old, might be the thing that lets the sleeping virus change and start a cancer, Dr. Duran-Reynals said. But hormone upsets, X-rays, irritating chemicals, or many other things might cause the change, he added.

Experiments On Chicks

One of the world's foremost experts on viruses, Dr. Duran-Reynals developed his theory through experiments on very young chickens.

Painting them with the powerful cancer-causing chemical methycholanthrene, he produced tiny yellowish sores that proved to be fowl pox, a disease caused by a virus similar to the virus of chickenpox or smallpox in humans.

Extracts of these yellowish bumps, injected into other chickens, gave them fowl pox.

The painted chickens got worse skin trouble as they grew older. Injected with the male sex hormone, testosterone, many of them developed cancers within 15 days. Extracts from the cancers caused fowl pox—but not cancer—in other chickens.

The pox virus, Dr. Duran-Reynals concluded, almost certainly caused the cancers in the painted chickens. The chemicals had turned the chickens' skin into the right kind of garden soil for the virus seeds to become altered and to induce cancer. When he stopped painting the chickens' skin, the cancer disappeared.

NO, the eye does not tell everything—not in this instance.

True, it tells you ROADMASTER is smart. It tells you it's big. It shows, if you watch closely, that this brawny beauty rides level and unperturbed even when road-roughness has its wheels fairly dancing.

A glance may even indicate how much lolling comfort there is here—what wide-open freedom passengers and driver know in this gay traveler.

How can it reveal the silken, swift-mounting surge of oil-cushioned take-off—smooth, silky, unbroken, as Dynaflow Drive works its magic?

Government Clamps Brakes On Housing Boom It Fostered

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Clamps were tightened on the government-fostered housing boom Wednesday in a move to curb inflation and save materials for the expanding national defense effort.

The pressure came from a presidential order Tuesday to restrict credit requirement on sales of houses. It was due to be felt by buyers, sellers, builders, public housing programs for low-income families, college dormitory projects in short, practically every non-military housing plan requiring government help.

A 25 per cent jump in the minimum cash down payment required on houses sold with mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration was a major immediate effect.

Thus a man who last week could have bought a $10,000 house with $2,000 cash and an $8,000 FHA-insured mortgage would have to pay $2,500 cash because FHA would go only $2,500 on the mortgage.

Tougher Going

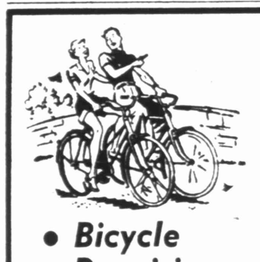

Home-buying veterans, hitherto able frequently to get a seller's waiver of any cash down-payment if they could get a mortgage guarantee from the Veterans Administration, faced tougher going.

The VA prepared to require them to pay at least five per cent of the price in cash before guaranteeing their mortgages—provided the law would permit such a requirement.

These are only two examples of the restrictions on government housing credit terms Truman ordered. Government officials predicted the action will take considerable steam out of the record-smashing housing boom by making it harder for buyers to acquire, for builders to finance, and sellers to dispose of homes.

The National Association of Home Builders, with 17,000 private builders listed as members, agreed, but promised cooperation toward achieving the President's aim of "substantial" curtailment.

Boyle Shoves Off For Korea To Write Story Of GI Joe

By HAL BOYLE

ENROUTE TO KOREA —(AP)— Going to Korea for the Summer bandit hunting season is pretty much like getting ready to go off to what we used to call a war.

It is quite a bit more comfortable—at least the transportation is—but you don't have the same old exhiliration at facing something strange and new. You have the feeling familiar to retreads—"This is where I came in."

The hardest thing about going was to convince my womenfolk that this trip was necessary.

When I came home and told my wife, Frances, the boss had told me I could go help cover the news of the fighting in Korea, she said:

"One war is enough—and you were gone four years in the last one. You go back and tell your boss I've changed your mind. If you do that you can come home late to dinner every night for a year—and I won't complain at all."

And when I phoned my mother in Kansas City she said:

"Well, son, don't you ever get tired of gadding about? Don't stay away long — and do come home safe." But this time she didn't cry—and I felt glad of that.

Frances was most depressed the day the janitor lugged up my old foot trunk from the basement. She quietly watched me paw through the war gear I had stowed away some your years or more ago and said:

"Well, I guess you really want to go—and that's that." And after that she said no more against my going.

Like Trip Into Past

Opening the foot locker was like taking a trip into the past. There my memories of the Second World War lay in layers—the musette bag I had carried in North Africa and Sicily, the field jacket that had been at Salerno and Cassino, the combat boots stained in Normandy, the trench coat I had worn through Germany.

And from them all rose an odor of mothballs strong enough to knock down a hawk in flight.

It is a funny thing about uniforms, the way they change in storage. The shirt I bought in 1942 to wear to the Casablanca landing still fitted perfectly. But a pair of Summer suntans I got in Tokyo in 1945 had shrunk terribly. My waist overflowed them like the Mississippi River breaching its deltas in flood season.

"Let's be fair about this, Rover Boy," said Frances. "I don't think you can blame General Bradley for the way those trousers fit. Buy some new ones now. You can complain about the old ones to MacArthur when you see him."

The night before I left we had a party. Many old wartime friends came. And one veteran kept saying every five minutes, "When you can hear firing on both your flanks that's bad. That means it is time to get out of there fast."

You like to say goodbye at home. But the next day Frances insisted on going at least as far as the airlines terminal in mid-Manhattan. She kissed me and said what wives have said at leavetaking time through centuries—"Be careful"—and smiled. I felt very lonely and New York never looked more lovely as the bus pulled away.

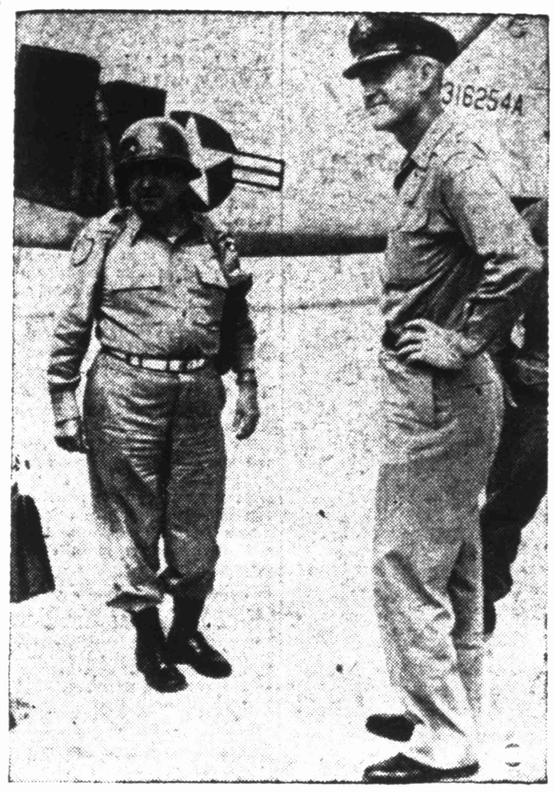

Just before we reached the airport at which I was to board a plane for the long ride to Tokyo an elderly gentleman sitting near me on the bus said:

"Going to Korea?"

"Yes sir," I said.

"Well," said the old man, sniffing the mothball odor rising from the trench coat slung over my arm, "I hope things aren't so bad over there they have to send over the Civil War veterans too."

$90,000 Damages Asked For Youth's Loss Of One Eye

WILKES-BARRE, PA. —(AP)— A suit for $90,000 damages has been filed on behalf of a 12-year-old boy who contends he lost the sight of one eye while playing a pinball machine.

The suit was filed Tuesday by attorneys for Ralph J. Linsman, Jr., of Kingston, Pa.

The boy's attorneys said he was injured June 18 while playing the machine—a device that hurls tiny metal "baseballs" toward a mechanical figure actuated by a trigger at the front.

One of the balls, attorney Thomas Moore said, struck the machine's glass top and sent a glass splinter into young Linsman's left eye. As a result, Moore said, the boy lost the "useful vision" of his left eye and sustained the possible loss of his right eye by "sympathetic reaction."

Krueger Is Confident Of Ultimate Victory Over Reds In Korea

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—Gen. Walter Krueger says of the Korean situation:

"It seems amazing that a potentially very powerful nation like the United States is having difficulty in stemming what is, after all, a very minor push."

In an interview at his home, the retired general, commander of the Sixth Army in World War II, was confident of ultimate victory. "Give General MacArthur the forces he needs and he will handle the Korean situation."

But, wondering where those forces will come from, the general used one of his favorite phrases to illustrate a bad situation:

"We have got the bull by the tail and we've got to look him straight in the face and that's an extremely difficult operation."

Krueger, 69, a great tactician, commanded, at one time or another, 41 of 89 divisions which took part in the Second World War. He rose through the ranks from a private in the Spanish-American War to four-star general in the last war.

"The difficulties in fighting in Korea include poor communications and roads, and this is the rainy season," he said.

Terrain Rugged

"But we managed to operate in New Guinea where there were no communications at all and the terrain was terrible. But we did have a fighting team there.

"The same was true of our operations in the Philippines, at Luzon and at Leyte. Our men were skilled veterans.

"Everybody knew his business—knew what to do in an emergency. You can't expect that of green troops.

"The North Koreans are moving down in tanks. You can't expect anybody to fight tanks with rifles.

"We were surprised by the invasion of Southern Korea. There is never an excuse for being surprised. The North Koreans have more men, more weapons and the advantage of surprise. We have superiority in the air.

"You can fight a war in the sea and under the sea and in the air, but even today battles have to be won with guts at both ends of the bayonets."

Magnificent Team

"Our present difficulties could have been avoided it seems to me, if we hadn't demobilized five years ago. We had the most magnificent fighting team in history and we promptly disintegrated it.

"We have 10 divisions and two Marine divisions. I gather they are not anywhere near at full strength and they all have many recruits. Can we take men out of Germany—where we have a division and a half—to fight in Korea? I doubt that would be wise. We have four divisions in Japan. I would think they are needed there.

"You can't take men out of shops and offices and make them soldiers overnight. In the last war, training took a year to 18 months.

"I don't think Russia is seeking a war with the United States but she has definite aims. She wishes, no doubt, to attain those ends without war. Russian leaders are carefully calculating. They are not likely to jump off the deep end."

Temple Hospital To Become Public Service Institution

TEMPLE —(AP)— Scott and White Hospital will be reorganized from a private corporation to a public-service institution and foundation.

Directors and trustees, who announced the plan Tuesday, said government approval had been received.

A board of nine trustees representing the medical profession and the public will govern the reorganized institution.

Members from the public will be Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, J. P. Cowley, general manager of the Santa Fe Railroad's southern lines, and W. Guy Draper, president of the First National Bank of Temple. Medical members will be Dr. A. C. Scott, Jr., president, Dr. C. A. Stevenson, Dr. P. M. Bassel, Dr. Raleigh R. White, Dr. V. M. Longmire and Dr. G. V. Brindley.

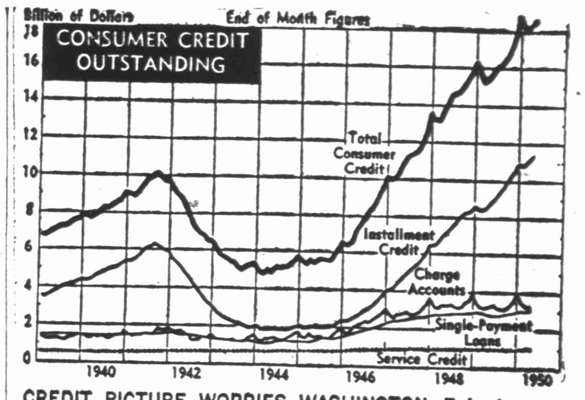

Completion of the reorganization clears the way for development of the hospital's previously announced plan to build an entirely new physical plant at a cost estimated between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000, on a tract of about 350 acres on the southwest edge of Temple.

ROAD BIDS ANNOUNCED

AUSTIN —(AP)— The State Highway Department announced low bids totaling $2,786,284 on 25 road projects Tuesday.

FOOT-LOOSE AND CAREFREE

Among birds, the less the male shares in the care of the eggs and young, the gaudier his plumage, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

CREDIT PICTURE WORRIES WASHINGTON—Federal economic experts look with considerable concern on the steadily rising curve of consumer credit. Many see it as an inflationary prelude to an economic bust. Graph shows how private debt has risen from less than $8,000,000,000 at the end of prewar 1939 to nearly $19,000,000,000 in the first half of 1950. However, the important factor is not the total debt, but how much of income it represents. Actually, the ratio of debt to income for 1939 was 36.5 per cent while 1950's is only 29.9 per cent because Joe Doake's income these days is so much higher than it was in 1939.

Three Negro Women Are Hacked To Death By Machete Wielder

WEST PALM BEACH—(AP)—A machete wielder hacked three negro women to death here Tuesday.

The melee also brought critical injuries to two negro men, one of whom accused the other of the slayings.

Dead were Dorothy Poole, 18; Maggie Richardson, 40; and Gladys Hall, 79.

Acting police chief Jake Schwarz said Ashley Crummins, 32, and 22-year-old Richard (Daddy Jack) Nickol were in such critical condition they cannot be questioned.

Schwarz said Crummins told him this story:

He heard screams in the dining room of the house at 907 Division Street and ran in. He found Nickol swinging the machete on Dorothy Poole and wrested the big knife away from the attacker.

Nickol was cut on the temple but regained the knife and cut Crummins' throat.

All except the Hall woman lived at the house. She came here from Detroit, Schwarz said, to seek the release of Nickol's mother from Florida State Prison at Raiford, where she is serving a life sentence for killing her husband, Sterling, with a machete in 1944.

Worst Drought In 30 Years Has Mountain Hamlet In New Mexico 'Out On Its Feet'

CHILILI, N. M. —(AP)— Storekeeper Earl A. Dow leaned over the worn counter and pointed across the road to a dry stream bed.

"See those four pine trees?" he asked. "See how they've died from not gettin' any water? I've lived here 30 years now, and I never saw that before."

This mountain hamlet almost is out on its feet, and the few folks still hanging on know it.

It's the drought. Dow estimates Chilili, located 39 miles southeast of Albuquerque, is only one-third its former size.

And it's not just this community which is against the ropes. Farmers over a wide area in the Estancia Valley of the Manzano Mountains are having it tough.

Dow thinks 50 per cent of the residents hereabouts have moved away in the last few years.

"This isn't the first time we've had dry weather," the storekeeper explains. "A lot of folks have just been squeezing by for the last seven or eight years. It's tough to make a living around here."

Only 47 Families Left

Only 47 families are left. There were 104 families here six months ago. Another 67 families found things too rugged and pulled out, mostly for larger towns and cities, during the last eight years.

"The Albuquerque garbage department has a lot of our men now," Dow remarked. "Most of the others are working off and on. Only about half a dozen don't have any work at all."

Like its neighbors, this is a farming community. Most of the residents are Spanish-American. There are two stores, a gas station and a school. That's about all, except for some empty stone houses.

"We had only an inch or two of snow last Winter," the storekeeper said. "The first rain we got was on July 6. Since then we've had six or seven good showers. They were too late, though."

Some farmers are going ahead and planting row crops now. They don't dare put in pinto beans, their mainstay, because Autumn frosts come early in these parts.

Help has been promised by the State Welfare Department. Food from the federal farm surplus program will be distributed next week.

"The folks who are left talk a lot of moving to town," Dow said. "I don't know what I'll do if they all leave. Guess I'll probably just stay another 30 years and make out as best I can."

Tot Gives New Twist To 'Man Bites Dog'

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Here's a new arrangement of the "man bites dog" news formula.

Four-year-old Jimmy Binns came to his mother Tuesday sobbing and holding up two fingers. He said Smokey, his black cocker spaniel, had bitten him.

"He bit me on the finger," cried Jimmy. "So I bit him back and he bit me on the other finger."

"Well, why didn't you bite him again?" asked his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Binns.

"Because," said Jimmy firmly, his tears stopping, "he would just keep right on biting me."

12 Candidates For Lieutenant Governor Clamor For Attention Of Texas Electorate

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff

Candidates for lieutenant governor take to the air by plane and radio during the next three days to close one of hardest campaigns in recent Texas political history.

Their difficulty has been in getting to the voters in face of the fact there are 12 men in the race, and a general misconception that the lieutenant governor is merely a sub for the governor.

Actually, as presiding officer of the Senate, the lieutenant governor wields great power in naming committees and in speeding up or slowing down legislation.

Most candidates were convinced the first primary Saturday would fail to produce a clear-cut winner. All were working hard to get into a run-off.

Meet The Candidates

These are the candidates, and their programs in brief, with emphasis on their attitude toward state finances:

W. O. Reed of Dallas, lawyer, former speaker of the House and nine-term member of the House. Opposes any kind of general sales tax, income tax or gross receipts tax, urges economy without sacrifice of essential state services.

Kyle Vick of Waco, lawyer, president pro tem of the Senate in 51st Legislature and 10-year member of the Senate, opposes a general sales tax and says a broadened omnibus tax bill is the answer to the state's fiscal problems.

Cyclone Davis

Arlon B. (Cyclone) Davis of Dallas, business man, urges $1 a barrel on imported oil sold in Texas and "a just and uniform system of state taxation on natural gas at the well, sulphur at the pit, salt and minerals at the mine."

R. B. McAshan of Kerr County, retired business man, thinks a lottery and legalized parimutuel betting would help solve the state's fiscal troubles, urges increased drivers license fees and fines for reckless driving.

G. C. Morris of Greenville, lawyer, 16 years in House and Senate and once president pro tem of the Senate, is a long-time opponent of a sales tax who has been emphasizing that plank in his platform.

Fred (Red) Harris of Dallas, lawyer, three terms of service in the House before he was elected to the Senate, opposes importation of foreign oil because it is "wrecking" the state's tax structure and urges simple method of collecting delinquent property taxes.

Virgil E. Arnold of Houston, lawyer, former member of the House, urges elimination of duplicating state departments and general economy in government.

Preston Smith

Preston E. Smith of Lubbock, business man, member of the House since 1944, believes the state's expenditures can be kept within its income by proper organization. He is a bitter enemy of closed state board meetings.

Ben Ramsey of San Augustine, lawyer, served two terms in the House and two in Senate where he was president pro tem in 1947, urges revitalization of rural life in Texas and economy in state government to make it live within its income.

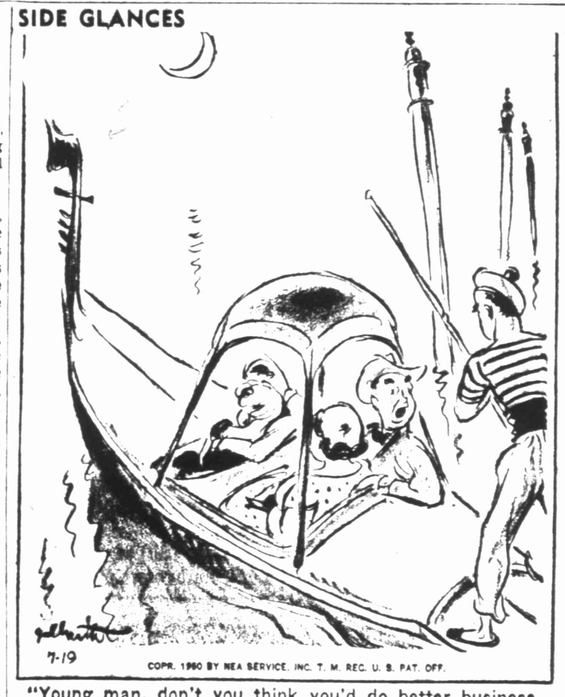

Pierce Brooks of Dallas, business man who ran a strong race for lieutenant governor in 1938, opposes any new taxes until "waste and extravagance are eliminated from state government."

Roger Q. Evans of Denison, former legislator, backed by the State Federation of Labor, (AFL) opposes a general sales tax as method of financing state government.

P. E. Womack of Austin, negro educator and preacher, urges increased taxation on natural resources.

About 500 map "quadrangles" covering a fourth or an eighth of a degree each way are completed by the U. S. Geological Survey each year.

MAJOR LEAGUES—

Comeback-Bound Braves Gain Tie With Cards, Phils

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Credit Billy Southworth with the comeback of 1950 whether his Boston Braves win, lose or tie in the National League race.

A year ago Billy was on the verge of a breakdown. In mid-August poor health forced him to leave the dissension-riddled Braves in charge of Coach Johnny Cooney. Many thought he never would come back.

They whispered that his "temporary retirement" would be made permanent during the Winter by action of the "three steamshovels" who own the Braves. But they were wrong.

Back came Southworth to assume command at the Winter meetings. With Billy calling the signals, the Braves pulled their big player swap with the New York Giants that brought Sid Gordon, Buddy Kerr and Willard Marshall to Boston.

Now his Braves are flying high, in a triple tie with Philadelphia and St. Louis in the sizzling pennant race. It's the first time they've been on top since the opening week of the season.

With Warren Spahn, Johnny Sain and Vern Bickford working in regular turn, Southworth's pitching is on a high plane. The three of them account for 33 of the Braves' 46 wins.

Cards Turn On Bums

Spahn did it again Tuesday, striking out nine Pirates as he mastered Pittsburgh for the first time this season 11-3. It was the eleventh victory for the 29-year-old southpaw.

St. Louis turned Ford Frick's league into a triple tie by ending Brooklyn's surge with a 5-3 victory behind Al Brazle's steady, seven-hit pitching.

Brazle was the second Card pitcher to go the route against the Dodgers in 15 games. The Cards had lost seven in a row to Brooklyn since June 1 until they whipped Erv Palica Tuesday night.

All five St. Louis runs came in the fourth inning with a double by Enos Slaughter, a two-run single by Eddie Miller and singles by Del Rice and Brazle driving home the scores. Brooklyn got one in the fifth and two more in the ninth on Carl Furillo's homer following Jackie Robinson's two-out single.

Phils Split; Reds Win

The Phillies got away with a split at Chicago, breaking a five-game losing streak with an 8-3 romp in the second game of a doubleheader. The Cubs took the opener 5-2 with the help of Bill Serena's two homers and Paul Minner's seven-hit pitching. Rookie Bubba Church held Chicago to five hits in the second game for his first route-going performance.

Cincinnati made it nine wins in its last 11 games with a 1-0 verdict over the New York Giants on Virgil Stallcup's third-inning homer. Stallcup's homer and an infield single by Ted Kluszewski in the eighth were the only hits off loser Monte Kennedy.

Detroit's American League lead was cut to three and one-half games at Boston where the Red Sox outlasted the Tigers 12-9 in a slugfest marked by Vern Stephen's three-run homer in the first inning.

Billy Goodman collected four hits off the parade of Detroit pitchers starting with Freddie Hutchinson, who failed to survive the first. The Red Sox also needed four pitchers when Ellis Kinder faded in the seventh. Joe Dobson finally had to come in to stop a ninth-inning rally that netted three runs.

Jawn Mize Runs Wild

Big Jawn Mize hit two homers and added 45 points to his batting average with four hits in New York's 12-1 slaughter of St. Louis. Mize went into the game with a .258 average and came out hitting .303.

Bob Lemon became the first major leaguer to win 14 games but suffered a hand injury in the process. The Cleveland ace left the box after he was struck on his right hand by a line drive off Kermit Wahl's bat in the seventh inning of the Tribe's 10-2 rout of Philadelphia. It was not believed serious and Lemon will be able to take his regular turn.

Washington jammed all of its six hits off Ray Scarborough, an ex-teammate, into the first two innings of a 4-2 triumph over Chicago.

Gil Coan's double and Irv Noren's second single accounted for a game-winning batch of three runs in the second inning.

McKinney Resigns As Pirate's Prexy

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Frank E. McKinney resigned Wednesday as president of the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club.

The Indianapolis banker sold his stock to two of his three partners.

John Galbreath, Columbus, Ohio, is the newly elected president.

Tom Johnson is secretary and treasurer and Crooner Bing Crosby retains his post as vice president.

McKinney headed a group which purchased the Pirates organization in 1946.

McKinney said at a news conference:

"My business interests and my home are in Indianapolis, and with the present demands being made on my time, I find it increasingly difficult to devote the necessary time to my baseball interests in Pittsburgh.

"I am x x x disposing of my Pittsburgh stock to two of my partners, John Galbreath and Tom Johnson."

Citizens Group Underwrites Gulf Coast Loop Team

JACKSONVILLE, TEXAS —(AP)— A citizens group of about 100 took over operation of the Jacksonville Jax Club of the Gulf Coast Baseball League, effective Wednesday.

W. A. (Windmill) Phillips, who has operated the club since the start of the season, advised the citizens this week he would be unable to continue operating the club. He did, however, offer to turn the players, equipment and bus over to the citizens group without charge and free of debt until the end of the season.

The citizens group has agreed to underwrite the losses of the team for the remainder of the year, with each member to pay one per cent of the loss. If there is any profit, that also will be divided.

Based on past attendance, the club stands to lose about $5,000, not counting what might be made in the playoff.

SPORTS SLANTS by SHORTY SHELBURNE

The fourth renewal of the Longhorn League All-Star Game is scheduled at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday in Guinn Park at San Angelo and it should again give the fans more than their money's worth.

Many of the guys who in the past have made the classic a top-notch will be back again this year. In fact, this stacks up to be one of the best of 'em all.

—SS—

Among the familiar All-Star faces will be many who we like to remember from year to year because they are fine baseball men who make the Longhorn League the best Class D outfit in existence.

It takes good baseball men to make good baseball and the Longhorn League is blessed with many.

—SS—

Playing in the outfield on the opposing teams will be a couple of guys who never have missed making the select nine. They'll be making it as long as they are here, too.

We speak of Pat Stasey, the genial manager of the Big Spring Broncs, and Stu Williams, the veteran outfielder - handy man of the Ballinger Cats.

Stasey edged out Williams by less than one percentage point for the loop batting crown last year. Both are right up there again this year.

Stasey will patrol the right garden for the powerful West team Wednesday night and Williams will be in center field for the East.

—SS—

Returning to the All-Star game after a season in the West Texas-New Mexico League is Big Jim Prince of the Midland Indians. He made the team for the West in 1947 and 1948 and will be seeing his third year of action. Like Stasey and Williams, Prince hasn't missed an All-Star Game except when he was out of the league.

Jim is second in batting at present, staying true to form. He always has been up among the leaders. In 1947 he led all of 'em in minor league baseball with a .429 average to win the national crown. He'll be at first base for the West.

—SS—

Little Kenny Jones of the Indians, selected last season as the West's catcher, will be seeing his first real action. He had to skip last season's classic due to an operation.

Kenny is one of the really fine players in the league. He gives out with all he has all the time.

His hustle and fight won him the Rookie of the Year award last season.

—SS—

Al Monchak, Odessa Oiler manager who has put his club in first place this season, will be at second base for the West. It should be a real pleasure to watch him team with Midland's Scooter Hughes, who will be at short stop.

If there ever was a top-notch double-play combination — this should be it.

—SS—

Lest we forget him Julian Pressley will be in left field for the West. He's a Roswell Rocket now but last season made the All-Star team from Midland.

We remember Pressley for his booming homer which he clouted a country mile over the left field fence in last season's game. It was the longest poke we ever have seen in the Longhorn League.

—SS—

Potato Pascual, the brilliant third baseman from Big Spring and Bill Cearley, Odessa's hard-hitting center fielder, are others but they are on their first trip as All-Stars in this loop.

Al Sokolowski and Ray Knoblauch of Odessa; Ray Drake and Frank Hill of Roswell, and Bert Garcia of Big Spring form the West's pitching staff. They all are fine hurlers and will be in their first 'Star game.

Ernie Nelson, ex-Midland hurler, would have been making his second trip to the classic had he not drawn his release just before being selected.

—SS—

Down on the coaching lines for the West will be the ever colorful Harold P. Webb, veteran owner-manager of the Midland Indians, and Big Tom Jordan, West Manager, who will split catching duties with Kenny Jones.

Webb will be seeing his first All-Star tilt in which he wasn't manager of the West team. He handled the first one in 1947 with Pat Stasey. The next two were Webb's.

Jordan requested that Webb join him in piloting the West aggregation this year.

—SS—

Jittery Joe Berry, ex-major leaguer and present manager of the Vernon Dusters, will manage the East. He has some fine ball players in Dom Chiola, Warren Sliter and John Bottarini, all of Sweetwater; Lou Ehlinger and Cotton Russell from his own club; Roberto Rodriquez of Ballinger, and Derwood Cox and Jimmy McClure of the San Angelo Colts.

Joe is a great manager and he'll have his team in there fighting. Larry Gilchrist, Ballinger manager, will be his assistant.

—SS—

It's good to remember the players who make the All-Star games great. But it's better to remember them and the newcomers, too, who will make this one the greatest of all.

Colts Edge Indians In 10 Innings, 2-1

The Midland Indians will bring the San Angelo Colts home with them Thursday to open a two-game series in Indian Park.

All Longhorn League teams are idle Wednesday night while the annual All-Star game is unreeled in San Angelo.

SAN ANGELO—The Midland Indians and San Angelo Colts hooked up in a 10-inning preview for the annual All-Star game Tuesday night, the Colts edging the visitors 2 to 1.

Leon Hayes, recent addition to the Indian mound staff, had two Colts out in the tenth and apparently was set to go another extra inning or two when Wayne Wallace stepped to the plate and sent a liner to deep center, scoring Chino Lopez with the winning run.

It was the Colt's second straight victory over the Indians and their sixth in a row.

Bob Kindred, 21-year-old pitcher just purchased from Temple of the Big State League, went the distance for the winners, limiting Midland to six safeties. He gave up Midland's run in the sixth when Scooter Hughes singled with two out and scooted home on Tex Stephenson's double.

The Colts made it a 1-1 ball game and set the stage for the tenth inning victory with a seventh-inning tally. Bob Crues led off with a single, took second on Wallace's sacrifice, and scored when Jack Smith rapped out a single down the third base line.

Longhorn League—

Knoblauch Blanks Dusters; Swatters Down Rockets 11-7

By The Associated Press

Good hitting and good pitching has been paying off for Odessa most of the Longhorn League season. Tuesday night it was good pitching and timely hitting that gave the pace-setting Oilers a 2-0 victory over Vernon.

Ray Knoblauch set the Dusters down with two hits in racking up his fifteenth victory. Emil Ogden's single with the bases loaded in the eighth inning provided the needed runs.

Big Spring had fun splattering Ballinger 14-0 in the first game of a doubleheader, but in the second Ballinger got in the most licks and won 5-3.

A single by Wayne Wallace in the tenth inning scored Chino Lopez with the run that enabled San Angelo to nip Midland 2-1.

Swatters Explode

Eight runs in the second inning on seven hits, three bases on balls and one error started Sweetwater off on its 11-7 win over Roswell.

National Skeet Tourney May Attract 600 Entries

DALLAS—(AP)—Some 600 men and women ranging in age from eight to 80 will fire more than 300,000 shells in the greatest of all national skeet shooting tournaments here July 31 through August 6.

The Thirteenth Annual Nationals will draw the biggest field of all time, surpassing last year's record of 544, Col. E. F. Sloan, manager of the National Skeet Shooting Association, estimated Wednesday.

And some of the champions will be after all-time marks, too. For instance, Sgt. Glenn W. Van Buren of the Eighth Air Force, who is stationed at Fort Worth's Carswell Base, will be seeking his third national all-gauge championship in a row. He is the only man ever to win it two straight years.

Mrs. R. H. (Ann) Martin of San Antonio, widow of an Army Air Force colonel, will be after her third consecutive women's all-gauge title.

Entries From Everywhere

D. Lee Braun of Dallas, greatest of all the industry class or professional competitors who holds or shares every world's record in the books, will be firing for his fourth straight industry all-gauge and high-over-all crowns.

Colonel Sloan says the estimated 600 entries may be exceeded. He adds that it all depends on the international situation and its effect on economy. Anyway, almost two weeks ahead of the tournament, he has 450 entries on the line. They'll be here from practically every state and from Alaska, Hawaii, Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Puerto Rico and Guatemala.

Tulsa Oilers Drop Ninth Tilt In Row; 'Neck Streak Snaps

By The Associated Press

Ask any member of the Tulsa baseball club what he'd like and chances are he'd answer: A ticket to Tulsa—right now.

The Oilers dropped their ninth straight game Tuesday night 2-0 to Shreveport. It also was their seventh shutout and the eleventh licking in the last 12 games on this Southern road trip in the Texas League.

While Tulsa club officials were moaning loudly over their skidding Oilers, Beaumont's victory streak snapped at nine. Oklahoma City clipped it 6-5.

San Antonio hung a 9-3 licking on Dallas and Fort Worth beat Houston 7-4 in other games.

Hugh Sooter blanked Tulsa on three hits. His mates got only four off Walker Cress, but one was a homer by George Brown in the eighth. Two singles and a sacrifice this same frame added the other tally.

Tulsa is only a half-game ahead of fifth-place Oklahoma City now. When it took to the road it was firmly in second place.

Oklahoma City came from behind to beat Beaumont and staved off a rally that netted the Roughnecks three runs in the ninth inning.

Lou Sleater pitched and batted San Antonio to its victory, spacing nine hits and collecting two, while Fort Worth sewed up its victory in the last three innings.

Grandfalls Eagles Play Colts Sunday

Adults Win In Overtime; Lutherans Also Victors

The Methodist Young Adults downed the Presbyterians 25-24 in the Church League's first extra inning contest, and the Lutherans defeated the Methodist Fellowship Class 13-7 in softball games played Tuesday night at Wadley Park.

The Young Adult-Presbyterian tilt went nine innings —two more than regulation for softball — and was a thriller all the way. The score was tied at 18-all at the end of seven.

With two out in the seventh, Presbyterians' Larry Mayfield attempted to steal home with the winning run but was thrown out. Both teams notched six tallies in the eighth inning, the Presbyterians' runs coming on seven walks and a double.

Bob Gay broke up the game with a home run to deep right field after the first batter had fanned. Six Presbyterians batted in the last of the ninth but not one could score. Norman Drake and Ed Prichard were both out at home, Drake on an attempted steal and Prichard on a fielder's choice.

The Lutherans took a 7-6 lead in the second inning and never faltered in winning. Catcher Bob Morrow had a perfect night at the plate with two homers and a double in three trips. He drove in five Lutheran runs and scored three times.

In the Optimist League, the Cubs received a 7-0 forfeit victory from the Wildcats.

Midland Cats Take Glazier Nine 3-1

Ray Williams' Midland Cats scored three runs in the fourth inning Tuesday night to take the Midland Glaziers 3 to 1 in a six-inning game at Indian Park.

Don Smith and Bill Medart, a pair of right handers, teamed up to hold the Glaziers to one hit as their teammates were collecting four.

The Glaziers scored their run in the second inning when Dee Bevins came home on a fielder's choice.

Wayne Woodruff, Williams and Jerry Pressley produced the three Cat markers in the fourth. Woodruff led off with a triple and Williams singled him home. Pressley hit a home run with Williams aboard.

WT-NM Circuit Attendance Is Up

DALLAS —(AP)— One of the few leagues in the country to show an attendance gain is the West Texas-New Mexico circuit.

President Milton Price announced figures for the first half that give the league 313,082 as compared to 301,174 last year for the same period.

However, the average is down, showing 1,209 per game this year compared to 1,229 last year. There is a longer schedule this season and each club had 36 playing dates. Last year there were 35. Also, there have been six fewer postponements this year than in 1949.

Lubbock showed the heaviest attendance gain, being up 15,224. Lamesa, Pampa and Clovis also were up.

Pampa Closes Gap On Idled Lamesa

By The Associated Press

Pampa picked up a half-game on Lamesa in a new bid to regain the lead in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

Lamesa couldn't help it, either. The Lobos' tilt with Borger was postponed because of high winds, leaving them a game and one-half in front.

Four runs in the ninth inning helped Pampa beat Clovis 12-7.

Amarillo slapped Abilene 12-5, and Albuquerque edged Lubbock 9-8 on Lyle Palmer's ninth-inning triple. It scored Earl Harriman.

Canceled Bout To Cost Sugar Ray $1,000 Plus Costs

SCRANTON, PA.—(AP)—It is going to cost Sugar Ray Robinson in the neighborhood of $6,000 to get back into the good graces of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission.

Commission Chairman George J. Jones, Jr., slapped a fine of $1,000 on the slim Harlem negro Tuesday and ordered him to reimburse promoter Ernest Gennell for failing to go through with a 15-round defense of the Pennsylvania version of the middleweight title against Joe Basora Wednesday night.

Gennell said he believed his expense to date would be around $5,000. The fight figured to draw a $30,000 gate.

Robinson said he pulled out of the fight because of a lame back. Dr. Leonard M. Freda, commission physician, said he could find nothing wrong with Sugar Ray's back.

A few hours before Jones took his action, Robinson signed to defend his welterweight crown against Charley Fusari in Jersey City, N. J., August 9, for the benefit of the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund. Robinson will donate all except $1 of his purse to the fund.

AMATEUR IN TROT CLASSIC

GOSHEN, N. Y.—(AP)—When Harrison Hoyt won the Hambletonian behind Demon Hanover in 1948, trotting experts said it might be years before another amateur reinsman wins the classic. But now Lawrence B. Sheppard says he will pilot his Star's Pride in the $85,000 race at Good Time Park on August 9. Sheppard, World War I pilot and master of Honover Shoe Farms, is in his mid fifties and owns Star's Pride in partnership with E. Roland Harriman, New York banker.

West Texas Oil And Gas Log—

slated to test the Delaware sand of the Permian. Operations are to begin immediately.

NE Stonewall Opener Clears For Potential

Potential is scheduled to be taken Thursday on the Roark, Hooker & A. G. Hill No. 1 C. L. Williams, new conglomerate discovery in Northeast Stonewall County.

On a recent flowing gauge, it produced 542 barrels of fluid in 15 hours, of which 10 per cent was water and the rest oil.

When storage is cleared, and oil is moved to the Shell pump station north of Hamlin, potential will be taken.

Near Recent Discovery

This new discovery is producing from open hole section at 5,823-886 feet.

The No. 1 Williams is three miles southeast of C. L. Norsworthy, Jr., of Dallas No. 1 Wiley, initial conglomorate discovery in the county.

The No. 1 Williams is 467 feet from south and west lines of the southwest quarter of section 6, block C, AB&M survey, and eight miles northeast of Aspermont.

Extension Completed To C-S Gaines Field

Humble Oil & Refining Company has completed a three-quarters of a mile north extension to the Clear Fork pool of the Doss multipay field in Central - South Gaines County.

Humble No. 1-B Humble-Eubank potential for 103 barrels of 36-gravity oil and no water daily, flowing from perforations at 6,830-6,859 feet.

That section had been acidized with 1,000 gallons of acid. This venture bottomed in the Ellenburger at 10,255 feet in 1941, and abandoned.

Reentered Hole

Operator originally reentered the No. 1 Humble-Eubank to test the Clear Fork pay, which was recently opened in the Doss field. Efforts to develop production from that horizon failed, and the venture was plugged back and completed from the Clear Fork.

This extension is 1,785 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 6, block AX, C. H. Eubank survey, and nine miles southwest of Seminole.

New NE Yoakum Pay Adds Second Well

The second producer in the Cobb-6700 field in Northeast Yoakum County has been completed.

Located one mile northeast of the discovery well, Cabot Carbon Company No. 1 Bessie Clay potentialed on the pump for 140 barrels of 28-gravity oil and no water in 24 hours.

This extension is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 12, block D, J. H. Gibson survey.

It is producing from open hole at 6,635-6,761 feet in the upper Clear Fork. That zone had been acidized with 6,000 and 12,000 gallons.

The No. 1 Clay is one mile northeast of Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 1 Townes, first producer from the upper Clear Fork in that area.

Wildcat Is Spudded In N-C Fisher Area

A projected 6,800-foot wildcat has been spudded in North - Central Fisher County, three miles southeast of Rotan.

The venture is Woodley Petroleum Company No. 1 H. F. Grindstaff, located 5,167 feet from west and 8,119 feet from north lines of John Chumbey survey 312.

Operations on the No. 1 Grindstaff began Tuesday.

NE Runnels Tester To Run Oil String

Operator has run casing in the Jerry Rosenberg et al (reported taken over by J. D. Andrews of Dallas) No. 1 Ray V. Willis, wildcat in Northeast Runnels County, six miles southeast of Lawn.

A drillstem test was taken at 2,655-90 feet in that project. Tool was open three and one-half hours. Recovery was 1,227 feet of oil, 240 feet of heavily oil and gas cut mud and no water. Shutin pressure was 990 pounds. Flowing pressure was 480 pounds.

Top of the sand was called at 2,667 feet. Total depth of the wildcat is 2,690 feet.

It is located 660 feet from north and east lines of section 437, G. Hancock survey.

DST In SW Martin Develops No Signs

Gulf Oil Corporation No. 1-E-B George W. Glass, Southwest Martin County wildcat, 12 miles north of Midland and 18 miles west of Stanton developed an intermittent blow of air and 336 feet of slightly gas cut drilling mud, during a four-hour drillstem test at 11,677-730 feet.

There were no signs of oil or of water. The prospector is making hole below 11,748 feet in an unidentified chert which is likely in the Devonian.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 13, block 39, T&P survey, T-1-N.

The exploration has indicated possible production in the Spraberry sand and in the Pennsylvanian lime. It is contracted to 13,500 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

Collier Completes Extension In Crane

A one and one-quarter mile northeast extension to the C-Bar San Andres field in Central-North Crane County has been completed.

John B. Collier, Jr., of Fort Worth and others have completed their No. 1-B W. E. Connell estate for a flowing potential of 331.20 barrels of 33-gravity oil and no water daily.

Flow was natural through a three-fourths inch choke. Gas-oil ratio was 453-1. Pay was topped at 3,450 feet, and total depth is 3,628 feet. Seven-inch casing is set at 3,400 feet.

This extension is 10 miles south of the town of Penwell, which is across the line into Ector County.

Pennsylvanian Yields Water In SE Coke

Deep Rock Oil Corporation No. 1 L. E. Cowley, Southeast Coke County wildcat, four and three-quarter miles southeast of Robert Lee, ran a drillstem test at 5,284-93 feet in an unidentified Pennsylvanian section.

The tool was open one hour. There was a slight blow of air throughout the test. Recovery was 1,680 feet of salt water. There were no shows of oil or gas.

The prospector is to drill deeper. It is contracted to 6,400 feet to explore into the Ellenburger. Location is 330 feet from north and east lines of subdivision 3, Caldwell County School Land.

SE Terry Prospector Cuts In Spraberry

Union Oil Company of California No. 1 Laura A. Cotten, Southeast Terry County wildcat, four miles southeast of Brownfield, and 660 feet from east and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 91, block T, D&W survey, had reached 8,242 feet in sand and shale, in the lower Spraberry section of the Permian, and was making more hole.

Some geologists had picked the top of the second Spraberry section to be at 8,170 feet. Elevation is 3,262 feet.

Up to now this venture has not reported having encountered any shows of production.

The wildcat is projected to 12,000 feet to try to find and test the Ellenburger.

Gray Sand Discovery Completes In Runnels

A gray sand discovery was completed in Central Runnels County seven miles southeast of Winters by O. W. Killam. It is the No. 1 W. W. Early.

The new well potentialed 235.8 barrels of 44-gravity oil and no water daily. Production was through a one-quarter inch choke with packer on casing and 255 pound flowing pressure on tubing.

The oil came through 44 perforations in the Gray section at 3,979-3,990 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 425-1.

Total depth of the discovery is 4,075 feet. Casing was set at 4,030 feet. Location is 890 feet from the north and 1,105 feet from the west lines of section 346, BBB&C survey.

The new producer is a half-mile west of the Killam No. 1 Knight which was completed as a gas discovery well with a gauge of 5,000,000 cubic feet per day from the same section.

Edge Site Staked In Salt Creek Pay

A west edge location to the Salt Creek field in Central-North Kent County has been staked by Nelson Bunker Hunt trust estate. It is the No. 6 Mary Couts Burnett estate (TCU).

Exact location of the venture is 2,180 feet from west and 1,980 feet from south lines of section 3, D. R. Stout survey, eight miles northwest of Clairemont. Contracted depth is 7,000 feet for immediate drilling with rotary equipment.

Caroline Hunt trust estate has slated three wells in the Salt Creek pool. They are the No.'s 7, 8, and 9 J. W. Young.

some foods at the retail level, most commodities owned by the government are still selling for less than minimum levels at which Uncle Sam could sell them.

Wheat, for example, is selling at close to the price support level, which is 90 per cent of parity, or a farm average of about $1.99 a bushel. Parity is a standard for measuring farm product prices. It is declared by law to be equally fair to farmers and those who buy their products.

The government's minimum selling price for wheat would be five per cent above the support price—about 10 cents—plus charges involved in government storage and handling, which would be around 12 cents. Added together, this would give a wheat sales price of about $2.21 at the farm.

To Hold Wheat Down

Certainly, the government, with its large stocks of grains, is in a position now to keep wheat from climbing to post-war peaks of $3.50, and corn from advancing above the $2 level.

The government would jump at the chance of selling present large stocks of butter and cheese at current prices.

The situation is different with regard to meats and sugar, two foods which have gone up considerably during the past two weeks. It owns none of these foods. Neither does it own any coffee or wool, other items which have jumped in price.

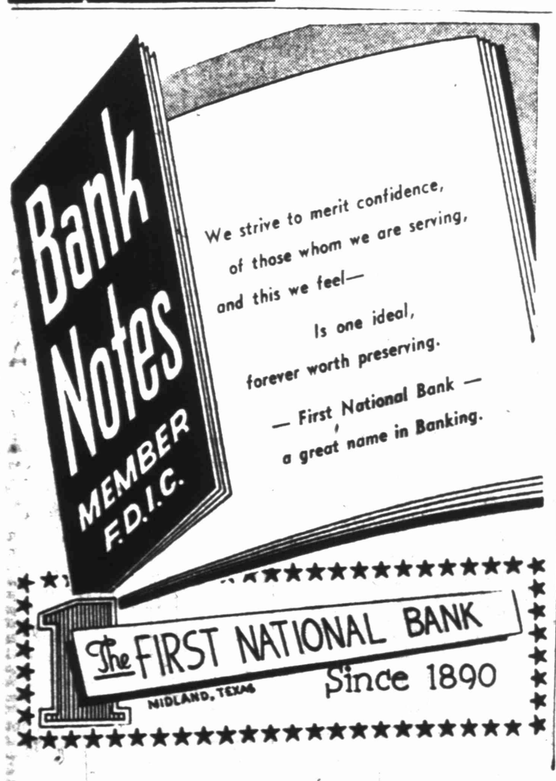

It is generally believed, however, that the government would not attempt to keep prices of farm products—except perishables—from advancing to full parity, inasmuch as parity is the goal of farm legislation and programs.

In mid-June, only five major farm products were bringing parity or more. They were wool, soybeans, beef cattle, lambs and veal calves.

MIDLANDERS ATTEND ROTARY ASSEMBLY

James N. Allison, president of the Midland Rotary Club; the Rev. W. R. Mann, secretary-treasurer; Guy Brenneman and Hilton Kaderli plan to attend a district assembly of Rotary International in Slaton Thursday.

A hookah is a pipe with a long stem that draws smoke through water.

Truman—

in a 5,500-word message to the Senate and House reporting in detail on what has happened in Korea and why the United States again is fighting thousands of miles from home.

"The attack upon the Republic of Korea," Truman said, "makes it plain beyond all doubt that the international Communist movement is prepared to use armed invasion to conquer independent nations. We must therefore recognize the possibility that armed aggression may take place in other areas."

Additional Appropriations

The President said the increases in the size of the armed services and the extra supplies they need will require additional appropriations. Hence in the next few days he will "transmit to the Congress specific requests for appropriations in the amount of approximately $10,000,000,000."

At home, Truman said, there must be "substantial redirection of economic resources" to insure that defense needs will be met without bringing on inflation and its resulting hardship for every family.

Accordingly, the President proposed:

1. That Congress pass legislation now authorizing priorities and allocations for materials needed for national security, to limit use of materials for non-essential purposes, to prevent hoarding, and to requisition or seize materials required for defense.

2. That all government agencies review their programs with an eye to lessening the demand for services and supplies vital to defense.

Tax Boosts, Credit Cards

3. That taxes be boosted more sharply than he has recommended before in order to combat inflationary pressure.

He said that at "an appropriate time," as soon as necessary studies are finished, he will present Congress a tax program based on the principles that (a) the nation must try to pay for the greatest amount of needed spending out of taxes and (b) the tax system must be balanced to distribute its burden fairly.

4. That there be further restraints on credit expansion—along lines of curbs he directed Tuesday for federally assisted housing. He recommended that Congress authorize more controls to curb the expansion of privately-financed real estate credit.

5. That Congress authorize production loan guarantees and direct loans to boost production. The idea is to speed and increase the output of vital materials, products and services for defense.

'We Shall Succeed'

Truman closed his message on a confident note:

"We will follow the course we have chosen with courage and with faith, because we carry in our hearts the flame of freedom. We are fighting for liberty and for peace—and with God's blessing we shall succeed."

There was no optimistic prediction, though, for a quick victory in Korea. The course of the fighting there, the President said, shows no easy solution can be expected. He said we are facing well-supplied, well-led forces which have been long trained for aggression. He added:

"We must also prepare ourselves better to fulfill our responsibilities toward the preservation of international peace and security against possible further aggression. In this effort, we will not flinch in the face of danger or difficulty.

Meet Aggression With Force

"The free world has made it clear, through the United Nations, that lawless aggression will be met with force. This is the significance of Korea—and it is a significance whose importance cannot be overestimated."

With the whole international picture clouded, Truman made clear that America is beginning to mobilize once more not only for the Korean War, but also for any emergency elsewhere.

He reiterated his assurances that America wants no territory or domination over other lands or peoples—that "We seek a world where all men may live in peace and freedom."

Reviewing the history of the Korean crisis, Truman said reports from the United Nations Commission on Korea "make it unmistakably clear that the attack was naked, deliberate unprovoked aggression, without a shadow of justification."

No Direct Accusation

"The attitude of the Soviet government toward the aggression against the Republic of Korea," the President said, "is in direct contradiction to its often expressed intention to work with other nations to achieve peace in the world."

Nowhere did Truman directly accuse Russia of fanning the fires of aggression in Korea. But he recited the record of Soviet refusal to support the UN or even attend meetings at which the Security Council stepped into the Korean crisis. Truman said the Security Council's united and resolute action to put down lawless aggression is a milestone toward the establishment of a rule of law among nations."

"Only a few countries," he continued, "have failed to support the common action to restore the peace. The most important of these is the Soviet Union."

Bomb Explodes In Royal Palace Wall

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM —(AP)— A bomb exploded Tuesday night in the wall of the Royal Palace of Laeken where King Leopold is expected to reside on his return to Belgium from exile late this week.

Police are investigating the explosion but gave out no details. The palace, on the outskirts of Brussels, now is the home of Queen Mother Elizabeth. The blast blew out a hole about one foot square in the thick wall.

Reds—

believed a record for an amphibious operation.

The cavalry took full equipment including artillery, engineering and signal units and plenty of supplies to Pohang, to support independent operations, if so required.

Reds Cannon Blast Taejon

Communists on the main Korean battlefront before Taejon regrouped and remassed their firepower despite fierce Allied air attacks. They began blasting mortar and cannon fire at American positions. An enemy spearhead 40 miles to the southwest drove out South Korean forces defending the town of Iri.

There was no evidence that the gallant doughboys on the Kum River front, with prospects of lessened pressure due to arrival of new American troops, had any intention of abandoning Taejon. An Eighth Army spokesman said "The men of the 24th United States Infantry Division's 19th, 21st and 34th Regiments were dug in for defense and showed determination to stay."

General MacArthur's communique said the Communists had made "minor infiltrations and movements beyond contact of our forces" around Taejon. It reported South Korean troops standing firm along Communist invasion routes.

Allied Aircraft Busy

Allied aircraft struck hard at Red tank and troop concentrations in the vicinity of Nonsan, 25 miles southwest of Taejon, and left Nonsan in flames. Other Allied airmen smashed at Communists directly behind their lines as the Reds feverishly tried to restore supply route bridges blasted by air attacks. The Reds needed the supply lines to resume at full pace the offensive brought to a halt by stout U. S. resistance.

The Defense Department announced U. S. Navy and Air Force planes destroyed or damaged 45 Red Korean aircraft Tuesday.

The arrival of the new American troops, committed to the battle zone on ten days notice, raised hope that the time of American retreat was past. More delaying action was predicted, but the buildup for the counter-offensive was getting under way.

The First Cavalry is commanded by Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay. It landed unopposed at a pier in the little fishing town of Pohang, 66 miles north of Pusan, the chief U. S. supply port in Korea. It went ashore with artillery, engineering and signal units, and mounds of supplies. The number of men landed was secret.

The 25th may already have been in action at Yechow, 52 miles inland from the east coast on the right anchor of a line held by South Koreans. It was here unexplained U. S. artillery fire handed the Communists a jolt earlier this week and sent them reeling in retreat.

The landings will lift some of the pressure from the 24th Division which has been holding the Taejon area below the Kum River line. The 24th had stopped the Communists in their attacks at Taejon, while Allied planes ripped at enemy armor, vehicles and supply lines. Groggy from a bloody battering, the Communists pulled up on the Kum to get their breath, and only patrol actions were reported for almost two days.

Enemy Fighters Downed

American jet fighters shot down three Russian-made Yak fighters in dogfights over the western sector Tuesday. It was the first enemy opposition in the air since early in the war. Other Allied fliers knocked out six Red tanks and 55 trucks near the front lines. Five key bridges just behind the enemy's lines were blasted out, cutting his supply lines. Light bombers hit railyards at Tanyang and Kongju on the enemy's supply routes. B-29 Superforts struck a bridge at Seoul. Allied carrier-based planes struck at Wonsan, North Korean port and communications center, and hit an airfield at Pyongyang, North Korean capital. No Allied air losses were reported.

Some observers on the western sector of the front said these air blows hurt the Reds badly. Fliers reported seeing pack animals in the enemy's supply lines, indicating a possibility the Communists were low on gasoline or vehicles or both. The Communists have been hiding their tanks by day and moving their armored columns under cover of darkness.

committees laid plans for quick action on his requests.

Chairman Maybank (D-SC) said the Senate Banking Committee would start hearings Thursday morning on proposals for government allocation of materials. Chairman Tydings (D-Md) said the Armed Service Committee would meet at the same time to consider requests for military legislation.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky) said the House Banking Committee will go to work on needed legislation just as soon as it is ready for consideration.

Blueprint For Action

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) said "This is not a piecemeal fight and I hope we come to full mobilization as soon as possible. The President's program is an excellent blueprint for action as far as it goes. Personally, I think we must go farther, much faster."

Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) predicted Congress will grant Truman's requests for billions of dollars and broad powers to allocate steel and other wartime materials.

I think it's necessary if we've got a war on and I guess we have," Bricker said.

Stripling Urges Voter Interest In Lions Club Address

Calling upon his listeners to go to the polls in Saturday's election in greater numbers than ever before, Robert Stripling of Midland, a former chief investigator for the House Un-American Activities Committee, addressed Lions Club members and their special guests, Midland Shriners, at the club's luncheon Wednesday noon in Hotel Scharbauer.

Stripling was introduced by Dr. George Ulvestad, Jr., program chairman. Vice President J. P. (Kit) Carson, Jr., presided.

After hearing Stripling's address, club members signed a resolution pledging themselves to vote in the coming election.

Stripling said that now the United States is involved in an unprecedented crisis, everyone is looking around to see who is to blame.

"Look at yourselves," the speaker said. "In recent years only about 50 per cent of us have taken the time to exercise our voting privileges. The non-voter must assume his share of the responsibility for the emergency we now find ourselves in."

'Failed Miserably'

"We have failed miserably in our effort to deal with the Soviet Union, while refusing to recognize the real objective of the Communists," he said.

Stripling stressed the fact the Communists do not intend to stop in Korea, China or Germany, but are prepared to carry through on a well-organized plan.

He charged that the United States government has no real policy in the Far East, and said it now is time for this country to stop Communist encroachment. He said the citizens can do something about the situation by voting in the forthcoming elections.

"I don't care who you vote for, but for God's sake vote," was Stripling's parting remark.

UN Panel Warns Of Possible Cominform Attack Upon Greece

LAKE SUCCESS—(AP)—A United Nations committee warned Wednesday that the Russian-led Cominform may be planning an attack on Greece.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie advised member nations that the UN Balkan Committee, with events in Korea as an example, had reported Communist propaganda attacks on the non-Communist Greek government might well be a cover-up for invasion plans.

Communist Records Seized In Houston; Three Men Arrested

HOUSTON —(AP)— Harris County Sheriff C. V. Kern Wednesday said part of the Texas Communist Party's records were seized by deputies here Tuesday night.

"These records obviously are at least part of the financial records of the State Communist Party for 1949," Kern said.

The sheriff said the records include about 100 names found in a card index file.

Two boxes of records and a quantity of Communist literature were found in an automobile as deputies arrested three men for questioning in the arm-twisting of a Harris County housewife.

Mrs. Clara Berry of Houmont Park on July 11 reported a man twisted her arm after attempting to get her to sign a peace petition to outlaw the atomic bomb.

She said the man and two companions fled after she attacked one of them with a mop handle.

Sheriff's deputies have been searching for the trio.

Acting on a tip, deputies found three men standing beside a parked automobile on a Houston street early Wednesday. The records were in the vehicle.

The three men are being held in jail. Each told reporters he is not a Communist. Each also said he saw military service during World War II.

Kern and District Attorney A. C. Winborn were studying the seized records.

Tires, Gasoline Join Price Increase List

By The Associated Press

Tires and gasoline Wednesday joined the items for which Texans must pay, or expect to pay higher prices.

A survey at Dallas showed passenger car tires and tubes now cost five per cent more, and truck tires seven and one-half per cent. The increases reportedly were industry-wide.

Gulf Oil Corporation and Premier Oil Refining Company of Fort Worth joined The Texas Company in raising tank wagon prices on gasoline. The boost is expected to be passed on to the consumer. Independent retailers may, if they choose, absorb the increase.

A third major Fort Worth baker jumped the wholesale price of bread a cent a loaf. Two other Fort Worth firms raised the price Tuesday and retail stores immediately passed on the increase to consumers.

A wholesale price increase in sugar probably means higher prices at retail levels soon, Dallas merchants said. A San Angelo retailer was limiting sugar purchases. Coffee prices also were on the upgrade in Dallas, as were prices for beef.

TO THE CITIZENS OF MIDLAND COUNTY, TEXAS

I would like to express my sincere appreciation for the many courtesies you have extended during the current campaign. I am sorry that it has become virtually impossible to visit with every voter in Midland and Ector Counties, but the great increase in population in both counties now prevents this. If I missed seeing you, this is my means of saying I'm sorry and I hope that you will carefully consider the qualifications of the candidates for the office of District Attorney, and that you will cast your ballot for the man you honestly believe best qualified to serve you.

My candidacy is based entirely upon my record as a public servant and my experience as County Attorney of Ector County for six years. During all of this time I have attended the Grand Jury sessions and assisted the District Attorney in a sincere effort to learn the duties required of the District Attorney. I believe that I am qualified to serve you in this office, and if elected, I will do my best to make you the kind of District Attorney that you are entitled to have.

I will be grateful for your support in Saturday's election.
