TEXAS RANGERS WILL BE FEATURED ON TV PROGRAM

Throughout the early troubled years of conflict within and along the border of Texas, the Texas Rangers played an effective role. And today's highly trained Rangers are still playing an important role in law enforcement within the State. They do more than check cattle rustlers.

The Texas Rangers, a division of the State Department of Public Safety, are charged with enforcement of laws governing major crimes, riots, and insurrections.

Next week the Humble Company's TV program, Texas in Review, will present the first of two features about the Texas Rangers. The first feature shows how the Ranger organization has been modernized and its very efficient crime laboratory in Austin. The second feature, showing the Rangers in action, will be shown a week later.

It Happened Here or Near

By E. E. DAWSON

My Mamma used to say to us kids, "Now that dish may not be a nick-nack, but it is wholesome." Mother was right in her use of the word, for it means "tending to promote bodily health." With that frequently stated proposition I grew up to have a pretty strong respect for things wholesome. Later I learned that the word has another important meaning also. This for example: "Promoting, or characteristic of, health of mind, morals, character, sound." It is this latter important aspect of the word that is to engage our attention in this issue.

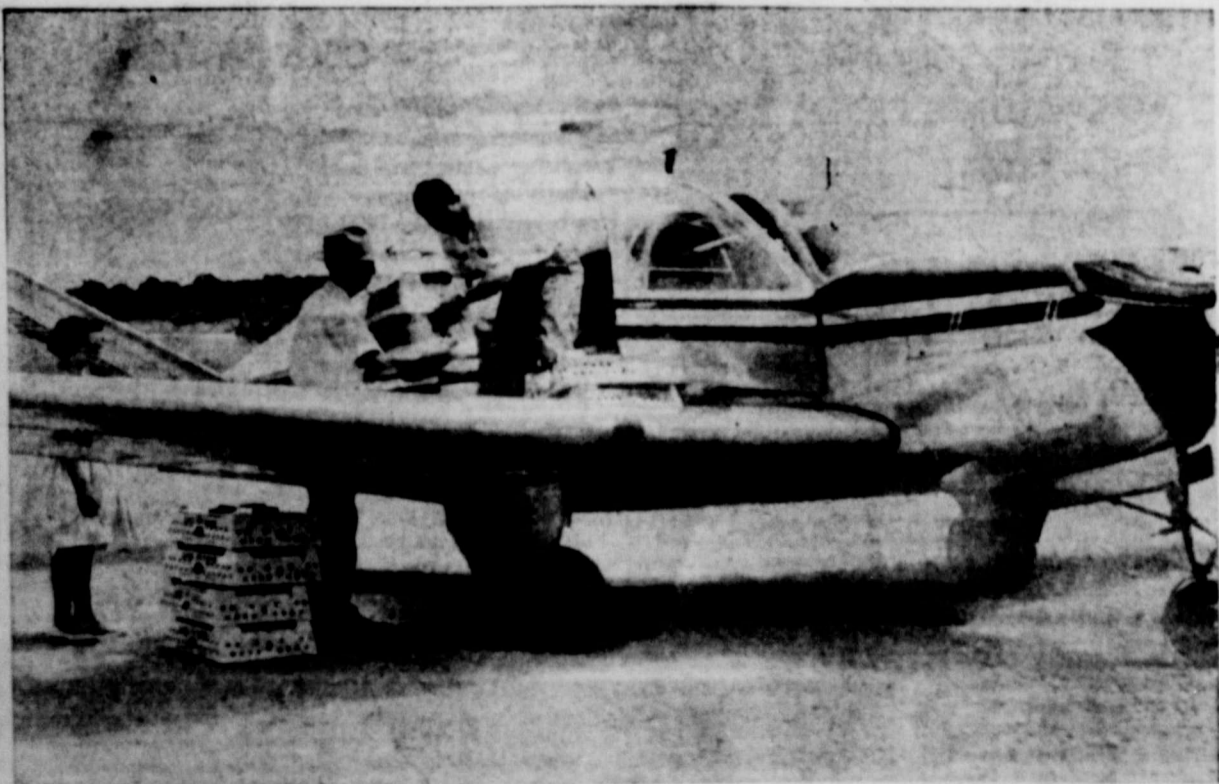

I am thinking of wholesome folks in general, men, women, young people, human institutions. But speaking especially of wholesome women. Wife and I went to see a family one day and after we had conversed for awhile, I felt moved to say to our dear friend, Bea, which is not her name at all, for obvious reasons here concealed, "Bea the reason we love you as we do is because you are so wholesome." Meaning that our respect is deeply fixed for the good wife-mother because is so plainly good and true and sensible. More about Bea directly.

There is a great host of wholesome women in the world. Fact is, this group of women far outnumber any sort that you can name. And if you have eyes to see, you can look about you here locally and see a marvellous group of wholesome women. You can see them in the offices, the stores, the produce houses, the bank, in the homes, the hospitals, in the places of responsibility in school and churches and organizations that undertake to minister to human welfare. Go in the bank, and there is a wholesome young woman to cash your check or receipt for your deposit, give you information. Her quiet smile and even tone of voice assure you at every step. In the grocery a woman a bit more mature perhaps checks your basket of food items and manifests her good humor and asks of your welfare. You feel free to talk with her on any subject, assured of her wholesome mind and sterling character. And so the variety stores, the post office, the cleaning establishment, the lumber yard, the filling station, down at the hospital, the school, ground or class rooms, the print shop, the church aisles and pews, you may see them. I do not know what your reactions are to such souls, but I am unspeakably happy to know that so many wholesome souls are in every realm of our modern life. I lift up my heart and thank Heaven for these wholesome women.

To return to Bea. She was reared in a county-seat town less than a hundred miles from here, got her high school training in her native town, got her college education also in this area. There she met a man who was in many of her classes and they fell in love with each other and for a third of a century have moved majestically through life. He was a high school teacher and football coach for a good many years, then got into other service and is now at the head of an organization operating in three states that has to do with food production. He is a full match for Bea in his character and way of life. First Betty, then Linda, and finally Mary came to bless their lives. The oldest is a wife now and mother of a baby girl, her husband in medical school after a university career. The other two girls are in high school, well made, clean in mind and active along with the parents in church activities. Everything in Bea's home bears the marks of her wholesome soul. There is no finer about the place, but the commonplace equipment of a well-ordered home. Bea can discuss intelligently any subject and you feel free to speak your mind in her presence.

So here's to all the blessed wholesome souls that give stability to our civilization and point the way upward to all the rising generation!

Diversification Is Small Farm Answer . . .

Farming is truly "big business" on the Buck Caldwell farm located four miles west of Walnut Springs in the midst of some of the largest ranches and livestock farms in Bosque County. The Caldwell 120-acre farm more than offsets its small size by producing a volume of business equal to most of the local farms several times its size. An analysis of the 1955 operations on this small farm show that the net income ordinarily received by the Caldwell family was well in line with the income ordinarily received by the better salaried workers according to a report by Robert A. Wells, Bosque County Supervisor of Farmers Home Administration.

Looking back over the past fifteen years Bosque County, as well as other farming areas, has experienced a loss of rural population to the point that business men, school and church leaders, and other interested groups have been concerned about how to keep the younger farmers on the farms. By means of good management and hard work the Caldwells have not only been able to remain on their small farm while so many of their neighbors were leaving for the cities to seek employment but they have also enjoyed a high standard of living and are making definite progress toward their goal of debt free farm ownership. They are demonstrating a good method of providing their own employment without leaving the farm to look for it.

The Caldwell family is composed of Mr. Caldwell, his wife, Alma, two sons; Jerry, age 3, Johnnie, age 2 and a daughter, Margie, age 6, who is enrolled for her first year in Walnut Springs School. The Caldwells had ambitions at an early age to become large land owners but they were practical and realistic enough to see that they must start with a small farm. Since purchasing their 120-acre farm in 1947 they quickly came to the realization that land was too high priced and too scarce for them to become large land owners. They reasoned that they must increase the size of their enterprises on this small farm if they intended to remain on it and not be forced to follow the example of so many of their neighbors and go hunt employment away from home. Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell love farm life and nothing pleases them more than to be their own boss and manage their own affairs. To carry out these desires they had to create their own jobs on the small farm and at the same time get the sufficient size to make it possible to realize enough profit to provide the family with a reasonable standard of living and pay the bills.

A visit to this farm will show that Mr. Caldwell has utilized all the natural advantages that Bosque County offers for the production of livestock and poultry. His main interest and major enterprise has been the production of turkey hatching eggs from a flock of 500 laying hens and the marketing of approximately 3000 finished turkeys for the dressing plants. Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell have become very proficient in the management of their turkeys as shown by the fact their hens produce on an average of 60 eggs during a season. These eggs bring from 25 to 30 cents each when sold to a hatchery. The Caldwells have recently received 3000 poults from the hatchery. The gross turkey and eggs sales from this farm will normally exceed $20,000.00 and with their usual good management a sizeable net profit will be realized during the year.

Mr. Caldwell has further increased the size of his farming operations by feeding out 200 feeder lambs for the Easter market. He has obtained good gains on his feeder lambs by starting with good quality animals, providing as much grazing as possible on his 40 acres of bottom land, and finally finishing the lambs on grain feed composed principally of maize which is purchased from his neighbors at harvest time when the price is the lowest. Due to the small size of the pasture—Mr. Caldwell has kept 60 breeding ewes. No other livestock except a milk cow is allowed to run on the 80-acre pasture throughout the year.

In addition to turkeys and sheep Mr. Caldwell usually keeps two brood sows. When the price is favorable, he feeds out all of the pigs to a finished weight for market. During the past year the price of hogs was low and he reduced his hog program and sold feeder pigs from only one brood sow. Most of the years, careful buying of grain feed enables him to make a fine profit from his hog enterprise.

There is a job for each member of the family on the Caldwell farm. The two small sons are too young to attend school but they have learned to help their parents with the feeding and other chores on the farm. A great part of the success of this farm is largely due to the skill and energy of Mrs. Caldwell. She canned 625 quarts of vegetables from her garden last year in spite of the drought. The family food supply was further provided on the farm by butchering lambs and hogs and dressing finished turkeys and chickens for home use. Even though Mrs. Caldwell faced many handicaps in 1955 she produced almost 70 percent of the family food needs on their farm. This outstanding piece of home management made it possible for the family to realize a high net income.

When Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell were questioned about whether or not they went to the larger shopping centers to trade and buy their supplies, they readily supplied the information that they were too busy to travel 50 to 60 miles to shop and the local stores are used. Their young daughter, Margie, age 6 years, is attending her first term of school at Walnut Springs and within a few years the two young sons will also be attending school. In fact, Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell will be vitally interested in how their home town and their school is progressing for many years to come since their small farm will continue to be their home and to provide a good place for making a living and supplying a lot of enjoyment in being their "own boss."

FAIRY

By Mrs. Eunice Daniel

We received about one inch of rain Wednesday night and early Thursday of last week, which was badly needed. Farmers have their rials and corn plowed out and are getting combines in readiness for the grain harvest which is expected to be very short this year.

Much of the oat crop has been cut and baled during the past week. Most cotton is up and will soon be ready for picking.

A tragedy Sunday again brought sorrow to citizens of Hamilton when little Tommy Worley, age 7, was drowned about noon in Hamilton's municipal pool. The child, who was residing with his grandmother, Mrs. Vera Everts and attending Hamilton school, had attended church and Sunday school with his grandmother and aunt, Jane Everts, age 13. After their arrival from church he told his grandmother he was going for a ride on his bicycle. When lunch was ready and he had not returned, Mrs. Everts sent Jane to look for him. She noticed his bicycle leaning against the fence at the swimming pool and when she got to the pool she found his body lying in about three feet of water. Help was summoned, a neighbor of the Everts, Mr. Sumerfield who lived near the pool, broke a panel in the gate and pulled the body from the water. Help was quickly summoned and members of the fire department and doctors worked for 45 minutes trying to revive him, to no avail. The child was the eldest son of Mrs. G. T. Drummond of Midland and she was to come for him this week end. He is also survived by his father, W. T. Worley, who is aboard ship overseas, and a six-year old brother. He was the great-grandson of Mrs. Bob Webb of Hamilton. At last reports the public was undecided as to whether the child climbed over or under the fence. He was an excellent swimmer and the exact reason for his drowning is undetermined. The swimming pool had not been opened for the season and the gate was locked. Funeral services were scheduled to be held Tuesday morning at 9 a.m. at the Reagan St. Church of Christ in Hamilton, with Minister W. P. Dennis and Bro. Len Dalton officiating. Burial was in the new IOOF cemetery. Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to the bereaved family in this dark time of sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray Sellers and family visited Sunday afternoon in the home of his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Thompson and family of Littleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Cornelius and two children of McCamey visited during the week end in the home of his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Springer, Randy, Van and Gala.

Bertice Barnett Jr. of Hico, member of the American Legion Post, called the writer Sunday night regarding the erection of a permanent flag pole at the Fairy Cemetery, which he stated they planned to erect Tuesday in honor of our dead boys who gave their lives for our country. We think this is very nice and will be much better than individual flags placed at each grave, as we believe most of the monuments bear record of service. Thanks to Mr. Barnett and the American Legion for their thoughtfulness.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray Sellers, Carolyn and Jimmie Don and the writer were in Dublin Monday night to attend commencement exercises of the Dublin High School of which their grandson and nephew, Darrel Allison, was a member. There were forty-three members in the class.

More Than She "Bargained" For

Dad Baker retired from active dairying—seven or eight years ago—but still keeps a half-dozen pure-breds more or less as a hobby.

Dad goes all-out for these six. Temperature-controlled barn, expensive feed... the works. As a result his milk has a low bacteria count, a high butterfat content. And as a favor to neighbors, he sells it just two cents above the ordinary price.

Recently, a neighbor complained—asked if she couldn't get the milk "at cost." Dad agreed, sent her a bill for exactly what the milk cost: 75¢ a quart.

From where I sit, it's easy to misunderstand if you don't get all the facts. That's why we ought to consider the other fellow's viewpoint before we talk out. For example, you have your reasons for liking particular beverages. I have mine. And whether we're talking about buttermilk or beer...let's try to respect each other's point of view.

taxes you have to pay. In a partnership, each of the owners of the business includes on his individual income tax return his proportionate share of the total income shown on the partnership return. This is because the partnership is not recognized as a taxable entity.

The corporation is recognized as a taxable entity, so it pays a tax on the amount of its net income, after deducting the salaries of you and Bill and other expenses. Then you of course pay individual income taxes on your salaries.

If over a period of years the earnings of the corporation exceed reasonable salaries for the two owners, these earnings will be distributed to you and Bill in the form of dividends. The funds with which the dividends are paid have already been subject to tax in the hands of the corporation, but are again taxed on your individual returns when distributed.

The income tax advantage or disadvantage of a partnership as compared with a corporation depends on the net income from the business, the salaries the owners receive, the amount of their other income, and the requirements of the business for liquid funds.

In the event either of the owners is interested in planning his estate to reduce taxes at the time of his death, he can probably do it more easily through a corporation than a partnership.

PARTNERSHIP OR CORPORATION

Thinking of going into business for yourself? Perhaps you and Bill Smith have decided to operate a business together. Should this be done as partners or as a corporation? The answer to this problem involves many legal questions.

Perhaps the most important factor is that the business or personal acts of either you or Bill may be binding upon the partnership. The corporation, however, can act only through its officers and agents, and then only within the limitations granted by the articles of incorporation.

As members of a partnership both you and Bill will be liable for all of the debts of the business. In the case you have business losses, the creditors of the partnership could take all of the assets of the partnership, and all of the personal assets of either you or Bill, or both (except a few exempt by law) in order to satisfy the partnership debts.

On the other hand, if you form a corporation the creditors may go only against the assets of the corporation so that the most that either of you can lose is the amount you have invested in the business. The creditors could not touch the property which either of you own personally and individually, outside of your corporate stock.

In event of the death of you or Bill, it would be necessary to liquidate the partnership, but in the case of a corporation the operation of the business is not affected by the death of an owner (stockholder). The firm continues as the same business with the heirs of the one who dies substituted as the owner of the stock.

Of primary interest to you and Bill will be the amount of income

porate profits set new marks, there remains much to be desired in the nation's economic picture.

A recent Dun and Bradstreet report shows that there were 277 commercial and industrial failures in the week ending May 3. This was the highest number of failures in seven weeks. It was an increase of 17 per cent over the same week last year, and 34 per cent over the same week in 1934.

Small businesses in many parts of the country are having rough sledding. It led one small businessman to say, "We're a non-profit organization—we didn't mean to be, but we are."

Small business is somewhat like the farmer—the smaller it is, the more necessary it becomes to produce nearer to the limit of its capacity. Unlike the huge corporations, its margin of profits is considerably less, and it has less opportunity of receiving Government contract or tax write-off benefits for plant expansion. Big business can more readily retrench in its operations than smaller enterprises. At the present time, according to a report of May 1, unemployment in both the automobile and farm equipment fields is rising rapidly with new lay-offs scheduled.

The unanswered question industry is "how big is too big?" This issue has recently been revived by the report of the Anti-Trust and Monopoly Subcommittee of the United States Senate. It summarizes the result of a study of General Motors. The study noted that last year after taxes and bonuses, profits equalled about 31 per cent of its entire worth, compared to an average rate of about 12 per cent for U. S. industry as a whole. Yet the company feels that a price reduction on its products is not justified.

Steel has gone up, as well as wages, in both the steel and automobile industries. The unions in these factories will be looking for another raise in the next few months. It all means that there is little chance of our buying an automobile or farm equipment any cheaper than at present, and the prospects are for prices to increase.

Speaking of unemployment, railroad brakemen must be wondering what will become of their jobs when all box-cars are switched by radar.

Another item of economic interest to farmers under the old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the Social Security Act, every farmer past 65 years of age who files proper papers with Social Security and pays the self-employment tax, and who has already grossed as much as $800 self-employment income for the current year, is now fully insured under the law.

If the farmer does not expect to net more than $2080 in 1936, he should contact the Social Security office immediately. In many cases he can begin to receive monthly "retirement" checks if he does not expect to net more than $1200 in 1936, or regardless of his earnings expectations if he is 72 years of age or over.

The following counties are serviced by the Abilene Office of Social Security, located at 766 Cedar St.: Nolan, Fisher, Jones, Taylor, Shackelford, Stephens, Eastland, Callahan, and Comanche.

Erath and Palo Pinto Counties are in the Fort Worth area, and Hamilton is serviced by the Waco Office.

Farmers need not go to the District Office if it is inconvenient for them to do so. A field office representative makes regular visits to the larger towns in each county. All post offices have a schedule of such visits and can advise those interested when the field representative is expected.

I keep remembering the last words spoken by Senator Alben Barkley just before he died on April 30th: "I would rather be a servant in the house of the Lord than sit in the seats of the mighty."

Deep In The Heart Of Texas

Texas Longhorn Cavern, the world's third largest cave, is one of the nation's most impressive natural wonders. Over eight miles of its labyrinthian splendor have been explored without an end being reached and the lowest point on the guided tour is an eerie 120 feet below the surface. The cavern is a popular attraction for tourists and sightseers, especially in the summertime, because it is a real cool cave. The temperature inside remains at a comfortable 64 degrees even in the hottest summer weather. Longhorn Cavern is located off U. S. Highway 281 four miles south of Burnet.

COUNTY AGENT REPORTS

By E. R. LAWRENCE

John A. Pitts, Rt. 3, Hico, has just recently moved into the county and is well underway in the construction of a new Grade A dairy barn. He has plans for milking around twenty or thirty head of cows.

Dairying is one of the easy operations now since new milking equipment has come onto the market. It used to be quite a task to milk twenty cows but today it can be done in about an hour and then with not much work. The new pipe line system takes most of the work out of it. There are a number of dairymen in the county who have been making good livings by milking around twenty head. Too there is a need for more dairies in the county.

Otto Marwitz's small grain demonstration has done right well this spring. Otto planted a plot of wheat, oats and barley in the fall and each one has made a good growth.

The demonstrations show some interesting things about the various varieties. In wheat, three varieties were planted—Concho, Comanche and Quana. At the present time there is not too much difference in any way in these three varieties.

He planted Cordova and Harbine barley and the Cordova is much the better. Heads on the Cordova are just about twice as large as the Harbine.

There has not been too much difference in Mustang and New Nortex oats. However the Mustang appeared to be a little better for winter grazing. The Alamo oat didn't sucker out like the other two varieties. However it did have broader leaves. This oat is not doing good enough at the present time, nor did it through the winter to justify its use here in the county. Otto is leaving the plots so he can get home idea as to which one will be the better for combining.

Johnny Williams, manager of the Williams and Payne Dairy, Rt. 3 Hico is the first dairymen in the county to put in a milk tank on his farm. This is something new that is helping the dairymen cut down on some of the work in the operation of his dairy.

With a tank, the milk goes directly from the cow to the tank. This means the dairymen does not have to handle the cans of milk as with any other system. A truck comes by the dairy every other day, runs a line of hose from the truck to the tank, sucks out the milk and is on its way in a short time. The only draw-back to putting in a tank system is that it is a little expensive at this time. If things continue as favorably with the dairymen as they are now, it will not be too long until we have several tank systems in operation over the county.

I doubt that many of you who read this column know what I'm talking about when I mention pipe line and tank systems. Well, about five o'clock any afternoon drop by one of the dairies here in the county and see one in operation. It will amaze you as to how fast one man can milk twenty cows. You will enjoy watching the smoothness of the milking, feeding and other jobs that are performed. The most interesting thing you will see is that the milk is never exposed to the air which allows the dairymen to produce a most wholesome and sanitary product.

If you've got any alfalfa on your place it might be a good idea to check through it every few days

To LIVE BETTER... ELECTRICALLY

YOU NEED FULL HOUSEPOWER

HOUSEPOWER is your home wiring's capacity to deliver full, efficient living using modern appliances. For full HOUSEPOWER, the average home needs 100 ampere, three-wire service — with at least eight circuits, two of which carry 220 volts.

With full HOUSEPOWER, you "live better . . . electrically." Your appliances work faster, more efficiently. No more blown fuses or tripped circuit breakers from overloaded wiring. Your TV picture is stable. And you have plenty of outlets for the appliances you now own . . . plus those you may wish to add in the future.

Installing full HOUSEPOWER is simple and inexpensive. The work can often be done in a single day without fuss or bother. And you can finance it through an FHA Home Improvement Loan — with no down payment and up to 36 months to pay!

Call your electrician now for free HOUSEPOWER check and cost estimate of the additional wiring you may need.

Letters From Subscribers...

Old Father Time has again gotten ahead of us on our publishing of the new and renewal subscriptions received. It is always a pleasure to hear from our subscribers when they renew, if it is only a note, as we do want to know what our readers all over the US want to see in their hometown newspaper. We also appreciate any constructive ideas as well as the nice comments on the use of various news stories, pictures, etc.

From James and Nell Proffitt out at Nazareth, Texas, comes the following chatty note: "Hello Meadors: How are you all and Hico getting along? Or should I ask that—I ought to read the paper shouldn't I. Ha. I'm sorry about it being so long sending in my renewal, but it is pretty easy to forget, being as busy as we have been, and still are. So to clear myself, I am sending 60c extra and you all can go and buy yourself a couple of Hico malts. Make one of them chocolate and while you are drinking it, think of me."

"Please find enclosed my check for $2.50 for renewal of my subscription," writes Mrs. Minnie B. Emmons of Abilene. "I always enjoy reading the Hico News Review, as I lived in Hico six years and have many friends there."

Mrs. Irene Crow of Fort Worth wrote the following note while renewing her subscription: "Dear Sir: Enclosed is money order for another year of the greatest little paper in existence. (The Hico News Review). It has been 31 years since I lived in your vicinity but I still enjoy the paper, and of course, to me Hico will always be home. I have several relatives still there and through the News Review I can hear from them, and about them. Otherwise I guess I would never hear anything about them. If this enough money, fine. If not, I will send you more."

"Very sorry that we have missed two copies of a most interesting paper," writes Mrs. W. E. Alexander of Big Spring. "When we received the renewal notice, my husband was intending going to Hico to visit his father. So he intended to stop by the office and give you the renewal. There is no use to say anymore for he forgot. Please keep the home town paper coming. It would be terribly lonesome without it."

(We certainly hesitate to remove anyone's name from our mailing list, but so many times we do not know whether or not the subscribers wish to keep receiving the paper.—Ed.)

"Dear Mr. Editor," writes MR. Jewel Faulk of Fontana, Cal. "I see it is about 'that time' again, so enclosed is $3.00 for the good old home news for another year. In printing my name in your subscription list last year, it came out 'Mrs. Jewel Faulk.' This created so much excitement that another old Hicoite, June Burkett, drove all the way from San Pedro to see if I had got married. So thought I had better state that I am still a bachelor subscriber. Mr. Jewel Faulk, P. S. No luck yet, June!"

Our humble pardon and apology, Mr. Faulk. We'll know better from now on.—Ed.

Mrs. Rilla Thompson of Odessa writes: "I once lived at Hico and I like my home paper very much. So keep it coming as I don't want to miss a single copy. Thank you so much for the service I have got in receiving the paper the past year."

Another "old faithful", E. G. June Burkett of San Pedro, Cal., wrote the following note: "Enclosed you will find 3 bucks for another year of news from Dear Old Hico. Also a picture I cut out of the L. A. Times newspaper. The old Bosque looks natural with her big britches on, don't she. So will close for now. Good luck to you and yours."

"Please find enclosed money order for one year for Hico News Review. I'm an old settler of Hico and I like to read the Hico news. Mrs. Lora Denman, Dublin."

MORE ON OUR GIVE AWAY PROGRAM

It looks as if our politicians in Washington have men going all over the world looking for new places to give our money away. We have plenty of places right here at home to spend it.

For one hundred and twenty-five years our foreign policy was to mind our own business and let Europe and Asia mind theirs. Now, our politicians keep looking for excuses to spend our money and humiliate us by trying to buy friends.

All our billions are being given away to defend other nations while our politicians keep telling us we are defending ourselves on foreign soil and it is cheaper that way.

This ridiculous foreign policy is based not on our interests but on the interest of other countries.

Our United States Congress is not set up to run the world or to free the world or to support the world. We send senators, representatives, and the President and Vice-President to Washington to govern the United States and to protect and defend the liberties of the United States (our sovereign individual states). Our troubles are caused by these politicians who fail to remember that fact.

We are supposed to be the most powerful nation on earth. Why do we have to buy friends?

If we don't have enough aircraft, missiles, atomic weapons, and the means to deliver a knockout blow to any potential enemy who even indicates it might attack us, we better find out what has happened to all the money the poor working man and all the American families gave our government so we could be the most powerful nation in the world without fear of attack.

Our boys have died and bled enough. We are in the push button stage of war now where we can wipe a nation off the face of the earth without our boys ever setting foot on foreign soil. We need some of the spirit of our founding fathers in us.

We need less conversation and politicians and more and better statesmen in Washington to get the job done. (Paid Pol. Adv.)
