Congress Sends Conscription Bill To FDR

ENGLISH BELIEVE INVASION ATTEMPT NEAR

Millions To Register For Army Service

Men Between 21 And 35 To Sign Up In Early October

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—For the first time in United States history, a peace-time draft bill won final approval of congress today and the president's signature, expected early next week, was the last remaining step necessary to start the machinery for raising a conscript army of 900,000 men.

The revised bill, requiring 16- to 35-year-old men to register for possible service, went through both houses by margins of almost two to one today, thus demonstrating how sharply Hitler's onslaughts abroad have reversed the traditional congressional aversion to peace-time conscription.

The millions of America's young manhood will be registered by some local 700,000 election officials on a day to be set by the president, perhaps early in October. In mid-November the first batch of 75,000 draftees are due to be called to the colors. Under the War Department's plans, subsequent calls would build up the army to 400,000 early in 1941 and to 900,000 by the spring of 1942.

The president, anticipating congress' action, dispatched a request to Speaker Bankhead for an additional $1,733,886,976 for the defense program, including $24,825,108 to start the draft.

Obviously prepared before congress finished its job, this proposed appropriation would speed the conscription processes. Although registration may take place when the president has signed and fixed the registration date, the legislation requires that appropriations must precede the actual calling of men.

The final congressional actions, approval first by the senate and then by the house of a compromise version of the legislation, came quickly at midday after brief debate. The senate approved 47 to 25 and the house 232 to 124.

This compromise version included authority for the president to take over and operate on a rental basis plants from which the government could not obtain defense orders as expeditiously as desired. At the insistence of the senate, the bill had been shorn of restrictions which several senators complained weakened this industrial section and made it unenforceable in the court.

The controversy in the senate over the provision prevented congress from voting approval of the legislation last night. The bill was returned to a conference committee, composed of senators and representatives, for revision to include the industry provision previously passed.

Pampa Girl Scouts To Have Executive

Pampa's Girl Scout movement will gain increased impetus this week with the assignment of a full-time local director, Miss Sally Cahill of Winston-Salem, N. C.

Miss Cahill is due to arrive in Pampa the early part of this week. A reception in her honor will be held on Sunday, September 22, at the Little Scout house.

Duties of Miss Cahill will be as an advisor to the local Girl Scout council, and to direct the movement in Pampa.

Her position in the Girl Scouts will be similar to that of Fred Roberts in the Boy Scouts, except that her work will be local, while Mr. Roberts' work extends over a district.

For the past two years Miss Cahill has been a Girl Scout field captain at Kansas City, Mo., and has been in training this fall at Camp Edith Macy in New York.

A down-town office in Pampa will be established by the local Girl Scout director, but location and time the office is to be started has not been determined.

Mrs. French is a native of Texas. She has spent years in preparation for this school and will give actual demonstrations at each session of the cooking school and will be glad to answer any questions, the question box being one of the features of the school.

Mrs. French is one of the outstanding cooking school lecturers in her profession on the platform today. She has presented her lectures to thousands of housewives and is looking forward with pleasure to her visit to Pampa when she arrives for the Pampa News Cooking School.

Construction Of 4 Residences Begins

Pampa's residential building program took a spurt this month. Permits issued by Oran Payne, city building inspector, for the first two weeks of the month totaled $26,975. That brought the total for the year, not including more than $20,000 in building permits, to $590,000.

Four of the permits issued were to the Jno. E. Hill Lumber company for $3,000 residences in the Wynnelea addition.

A permit for $6,000 was issued to O. R. Humphrey for a residence in the Williston Heights addition. B. E. Hollingshead was named contractor.

A. R. Randolph took out a permit for a $4,500 residence in the Williston Heights addition with Whitlock the contractor.

W. H. Burden took out a permit for a $3,500 residence in the Williston Heights addition with Whitlock the contractor.

Kiwanis Club To Stage Musical Revue This Fall

A brand-new type of entertainment will be presented to Pampans for the first time this autumn, when the Pampa Kiwanis club stages a musical revue.

It won't be a minstrel show, nor an opera, but a revue, directed by Ken Bennett, B. M. Baker school music supervisor.

All of the songs for the show are the work of Mr. Bennett. Date of the revue has not been set but will likely be the third or fourth week in October. The exact date will be announced later.

Plan of the show will be similar to the New York stage production, "Hellzapoppin'". The revue will have five scenes and the show will run one hour and 30 minutes.

Adding to the merit of the revue will be special scenery and lighting effects by Kenneth Carman, high school dramatics instructor, and special between-acts numbers by Glen Shipley, tap dancer who studied under Bill Robinson and Eleanor Powell, and by Jim Edwards, recreation project superintendent.

There will be a chorus of 40, composed mostly of girls, in addition to the leading characters of the revue, and vaudeville performers.

Tentative title of the show is the "Top O' Texas Revue". Proceeds of the stage production will go into the Kiwanis club's fund for underprivileged children.

Plans for the revue were discussed at the club's regular weekly luncheon at noon Friday.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—A new United States naval policy for 1941 was promulgated today, crystallizing in a formal public statement the navy department's intentions to build up a two-ocean fleet, utilize the lessons of Europe's war and keep the navy ready to uphold national policies and interests.

Prepared by the navy's general board and approved by the secretary to replace the 1937 policy, the document sets down as one of its general policies this proposal:

"To organize and maintain the navy for major operations in both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans."

Nazis Vow To Bomb London Like Warsaw

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER
BERLIN, Sept. 14 (AP)—Britain must hand over London to the armed forces of Germany or see it bombed like Warsaw, a well-informed spokesman told the foreign press today.

Hand over London and all will be well, he intimated.

This commentary from the German viewpoint was delivered just a week after Germany began the heavy raids on London which the spokesman called "a measure of retaliation for months of senseless bombing of German civilians and non-military objects by the British."

The essence of the commentary was this: "Whatever may now befall London and its population it isn't Germany's fault, but the fault of the British government."

The spokesman's main contention was that London still may choose between the fate of Warsaw and Paris, but that it has no other choice; that unless it capitulates it will be bombed ceaselessly and relentlessly.

He charged that London is a military objective of the first magnitude, containing 46 per cent of Britain's imports and a third of her war potentials, and he added that it was too late to evacuate civilians from the city.

"It should have been done long before," he said, "chasing civilians out of the metropolis now doesn't mean they'll be safe."

Prior to the press conference, the high command issued its usual communiqué, this time rather brief, detailing what it described as "effective bombing" of factories and docks in the London area and airports, war industries and railways elsewhere.

Germany, it was reported, was bombless last night, although British fliers raided objectives in Holland, Belgium and northern France.

"If the British haven't been over here the past two nights it's not because they didn't want to, but because they couldn't," the spokesman said.

"The British apparently think now that because they haven't bombed Germany the last two nights that we are therefore quits. But you can't figure human values that way; one German life may be worth ten British lives and more. The fact is that the German

AMARILLO, Sept. 14 (AP)—Amarillo relaxed tonight, its preparations for the reception of Wendell L. Willkie next Tuesday morning complete.

The city, which has, in the last three years, entertained President Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt, James A. Farley and a parade of dignitaries to greet the first presidential candidate ever to visit Texas.

Estimates of the expected crowd vary from 50,000 to 100,000.

The Tri-State fair opens next Monday morning, but things are expected to be comparatively quiet until Tuesday. On that day a dozen major delegations from Panhandle-Plains towns, complete with bands and banners, and scores of smaller groups will converge on Amarillo to hear Willkie in the evening and parade along the midway in the afternoon.

Republicans and Willkie Democrats from every corner of the state have accepted invitations to attend. Chartered buses will bring some of the delegations.

The arrangements have been in charge of a committee of three Amarilloans, Miles Bivins, rancher and member of the Texas For Willkie club directorate; Joe Sneed, Jr., rancher, and L. S. Hobbs, Panhandle representative on the state Republican committee.

A group of Texas agricultural experts will board the Willkie special at Groom and confer with Willkie on the hour's run into Amarillo on farm and ranch problems. Among them will be Bivins and Sneed, H. C. Noelle, San Angelo rancher; A. K. Mackey, San Angelo financier; Spencer M. Clements, Houston rice grower; J. M. West, Houston rancher and publisher, and J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture.

Willkie's speech here will begin at 11 o'clock and will be broadcast by the Lone Star chain and the Texas Quality network.

Congratulations—

The War Today

By EDWARD BOMAR

Air war tactics, the calendar and new threats from Berlin combine to reinforce the warning in London that the next 48 hours is a "period of intense danger of invasion to England."

The targets sought by Royal Air force bombers testify that the men who direct the Isles' aerial defenses are guided by the judgment that the supreme Nazi bid for victory may come at any moment.

With a single purpose and German bombs are being directed against the spearhead of the menace across the channel.

When Berlin for the second night escaped attention, Germany was told that enemy bombers had been forced back. What is more probable is that the British never headed for the German capital at all. More than ever just now, Britain is compelled by necessity to shun mere reprisals lest the hammering be weakened against nearby Nazi airfields, big guns, troops and ships.

The calendar, tide tables and weather records are eloquent of the immediate peril to Britain. Friday night German bombers were guided to their targets by bright moonlight. There is a full moon this week and Wednesday will bring the highest tide of the period. The channel and North sea are free from storms for the moment.

These considerations figured prominently in Prime Minister Churchill's warning of last Wednesday night. Berlin reports said, but authorized German sources said they were driven back by strong anti-aircraft fire.

The relays of German bombers hitting London and other parts of England gave grim reality to the double threat of devastation and invasion hanging over bomb-shattered Britain.

At the close of a week of the fiercest air assault in history, in which desolation and devastation has sprayed from the skies on the British capital, these two dark forecasts were made:

1. That this, in the opinion of neutral military observers in London, is a week of "intense" crisis, 48 hours in which the menace of German invasion is starkest.

2. That Britain must surrender her empire capital to Adolf Hitler's armed forces or see it pulverized as Warsaw was.

The latest came from a well-informed German spokesman in Berlin.

There was no hint of any let-up in the harrowing raiding which, German sources said, 4,000,000 pounds of bombs have burst on London.

Bombing Lighter

Up to 9 p. m. there were five air alarms in London yesterday alone. Several of these, however, were only momentary and the bombing apparently was lighter than in the daylight smashes Friday.

Nor was there any hint of a crack-up of Berlin's imminent "intense danger of invasion" some Englishmen said they hoped the Nazis, at last, would come "so we can wipe their eyes."

And British airmen stormed across the channel on their own destructive missions to try to disrupt communications for any invading army and blast dock facilities on the French and Belgian coasts. Germany's potential springboard for sea-borne attack.

Whether any attempt to storm Britain's island citadel would be made this week-end was left in doubt, however, by Berlin commentaries.

Nazi sources declared the German air force "will continue its relentless attacks" on London and that Hitler will bide his time, waiting the opportune moment for invasion.

Observers have forecast that if Germany struck directly against England, Italy would open an assault in the Mediterranean sector.

Back To The Caves

Men's first dwellings were caves, and maybe they will end there they began. The possibility looks less fanciful in the glare of the tremendous air bombardments in London, which send the inhabitants of the world's greatest and proudest city scurrying underground.

Those bomb-proof shelters are artificial, but caves none the less. They spread as the intensity of the air assault grows, and already accommodate millions in the metropolises and other English cities. Reports say the people lately have been spending one-third of their time, or more, underground. And it is not a pleasant life for men, women and children used to the air and sun and cleanliness and green things growing.

Such residences may be rendered more pleasant in time, as civilized man gets used to the idea and puts his science and art seriously to work on the problem. They may be well lighted and ventilated and made pleasant in various ways. And other communities, nations and continents, even we here in free America, may yet come to face the problem and give it our best thought.

Rust-proof steel perhaps will make the best material but concrete does very well. We could utilize our limestone caverns for the purpose, if they were more strategically located.

On the whole, however, it may be more reasonable to suppress the modern cave men who drive other tribes to such resorts.

Strength In Truth

One lesson America should not fail to learn from the tragedies of the past year in Europe. It is the great harm which may be done to a nation by censorship. Knowledge which could be of aid to an enemy must be kept secret, of course, but too often ministries of information have been incredibly stupid in their definition of such knowledge.

The French people were kept in ignorance of their great peril until almost the end. Their blind faith in the Maginot line and in the power of the "finest army in the world" was encouraged by official concealment of Germany's strength and of their own weakness in many specific lines. When the battle was going against their army they were still left to the misinformation of German propaganda by a government afraid to tell them the truth.

The British ministry of information appears to be making mistakes, too, though not so grave as those of France. It withholds bad news, already known to the enemy, too long. The result is the spread of rumors and alarms and the final unpleasant realization that a German claim at which Britons had scoffed was really true. This is done in spite of the known ability of the British to face hard facts and to stiffen their own courage and resistance in the hour of danger.

A free people not only has the right to know what is going on. A large part of its strength lies in that knowledge.

Behind The News

By BRUCE CATTON

The Pampa News Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—A new episode is due in the long-standing row over the National Labor Relations Board, and it's likely to start unfolding any day now.

Simple fact of the matter is that the whole labor board situation is just about where it was a year ago, despite the Smith committee investigation, passage by the House of a drastic Wagner act amendment, and appointment to the board of Dr. William N. Leiserson, the "moderate" who was to take some of the heat off by effecting dress reforms.

Helping to bring things to a climax is the fact that the administration let Chairman J. Warren Madden's term expire without naming a successor. Legally, this left the board with only two members—Dr. Leiserson and Edwin S. Smith, who have practically never agreed on anything.

This delay was due to the fact that while there was important pressure on the White House to give Madden another term, there was equal pressure against it. Madden couldn't be replaced without disturbing such people as Secretary Perkins and Senators Wagoner and Thomas of Utah; at the same time, it became known that if Madden were re-appointed Dr. Leiserson would ask to be relieved.

Either a re-appointment or a new appointment would bring up the whole labor board issue in the Senate, which would have to confirm the appointment. The House amendment to the Wagner act has been sleeping quietly in a Senate committee; if it can be kept there until Congress adjourns it automatically vanishes, but if a general labor board debate should center attention on it and cause it to be brought out it might get passed—which the administration decidedly doesn't want.

MAY BREAK IN HOUSE

It probably will be in the House of Representatives that the row next breaks forth.

The House succeeded in doing one thing to the labor board: It abolished the appropriation for the board's economic research division, thus (as it thought) doing away with the job of Dr. David Sapos, who was branded before the Smith committee as one of the board's leading radicals. The board, however, nullified this by reorganizing its staff and continuing Dr. Sapos and his staff in their old jobs under a new title.

Plan of the board's foes in the House now is to take another swipe at the same old target. Before the session ends a new deficiency bill will have to be voted; strategy will probably be to attach to it a rider

Common Ground By R. C. HOILES

This column contends there can be no satisfactory progress until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

CAUSE OF STAGNATION AND WIDE UNEMPLOYMENT

Probably there is no man in the United States who has made a more careful study of causes of unemployment and increase in wages than Carl Snyder, author of "Capitalism the Creator". Mr. Snyder was statistician for the Federal Reserve for some 18 years. For this reason, what he has to say about the causes of unemployment should be interesting. I quote:

"It is sometimes argued that the high cost of maintaining this mechanism of providing savings is unduly high. But the fact is that of the economies that go to the very rich, a large part is directly reinvested in productive industry, where it works for the benefit of the whole population. The expenditure of the very rich for personal consumption is an inconsequential part of the national income. If all the personal expenditure of the rich were made available for distribution to the poor, it could add but little to their standard of living. And the savings of the rich cannot be used for ameliorating the condition of the poor without imperiling the capital supply. The prejudice that exists against the rich, and seems always to have existed against the rich, gives rise to recurring agitation for restricting their incomes. This is one of the great potential dangers to the continuation of the economic progress upon which is dependent the well-being both of the workers and of employers.

"Here we have in brief the mechanism which governs our economic growth. If there is a failure of the capital supply there must be a halt in the growth of industrial production; stagnation and widespread unemployment. The manifest evidence of the last ten years confirms this view. In this decade, no net capital saving, no plant expansion, no increase in production or in well being; and we may add, no net profit in industry as a whole. Decisive negative evidence as convincing as the positive evidence of growth in the preceding hundred years. The lesson: we cannot destroy the capital supply—whether by taxation or by other ill-advised policies designed to redistribute the wealth to the farmer, to the laborer, or to the idle, without paying the price."

ONLY SOUND STIMULANTS TO BUSINESS

Carl Snyder, in his book, "Capitalism the Creator" contends there is only one sound basis for prosperity. He says, "It is the investment of reproductive capital, in search of a profit. Any other stimulus to business activity can provide only an uncertain foundation that must collapse when it is withdrawn.

"One may well ask: Why did government expenditures not result in an expansion of investment and provide a sound foundation for prosperity? This is a very rich country, still full of energy and enterprise. There was no slowing down of the urge to progress. It is noteworthy that in the midst of the longest and worst depression this country had ever known, business was spending tremendous sums on research and investigation, to find new fields for investment. There was a marked advance in industrial technique and efficiency.

"Under favorable circumstances these new developments would lead to active and prosperous business. Labor disturbances had begun to abate by the autumn of 1937, and while they contributed somewhat to the termination of the mild prosperity of that year, they were not, perhaps, the major factor. More important was the sharp and undesirable rise in wages. Fantastic to think that at a time of tremendous unemployment, when wage rates were already excessive, labor could ask and receive wages as high as, and in some industries higher, than in the boom year of 1929, when the volume of production and trade was much above the 1937 level."

The Nation's Press

THE AMERICA FIRST COMMITTEE (Chicago Tribune)

It will be interesting to watch the attempts of the New Dealers, Washington and Long Island cookies pushers, and other war mongers to try to smear the members of the newly formed America First committee with their customary cries of "fifth columnist," "appeaser," and "Nazi."

They tried that smear campaign on Col. Lindbergh and only smeared themselves. Will they expect any more success against such men as Eddie Rickenbacker, Brig. Gen. Hammond, Gen. Wood, Hanford McNider, and Hugh Johnson?

We picked those names from the committee membership because each of the men named distinguished himself in the last war. They know what war means. They form a contrast to the list of members of the Chicago chapter of the war mongers' principal propaganda agency, the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. Col. A. A. Sprague may not be the only member of this group that saw war service, but he is the only one of whose service the public ever became aware. The list of his associates forms a good catalog of Chicago's professional bleeding hearts, with a sprinkling of New Deal politicians.

The war mongers' slurs and fifth column talk reached a climax when Cornwallisse intimated that the Republican party is playing Hitler's game by insisting on holding an election, and it may be expected to die soon of its own inanity. Certainly the people who peddle the trash will find no targets either in the membership of the America First committee or in its platform, which is:

- "1. The United States must build an impregnable defense for America.
- "2. No foreign power, nor group of powers, can successfully attack a prepared America.
- "3. American democracy can be preserved only by keeping out of the European war.
- "4. 'Aid short of war' weakens national defense at home and threatens to involve America in war abroad."

specifying that none of the labor board's appropriation may be used for the salaries of Dr. Sapos and his associates. Furthermore, that rider can be made to apply to the money voted to the board last June, so that the ouster would become effective at once.

COMMUNISM NEXT TARGET

Lastly, it must be remembered that the Smith committee is still in existence—and it would not be surprising if it should swing into action again. If it does, look for a brand-new inquiry into the matter of Communism on the board's payroll.

Commonest item of gossip in Washington is that there is communism in the board's staff; not as much as the board's foes suspect, but still an appreciable quantity. For some reason the Smith committee never really dug into the question. Today's tip is that it is quite likely to do so before this session ends.

OKAY

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14—The person most anxiously concerned with the success of Sam Goldwyn's new picture, "The Westerner," is Doris Davenport. She's the almost unknown actress who plays the fighting pioneer gal alongside Gary Cooper.

Action epics seldom offer much for actresses to do, but this one provides Miss Davenport's big chance. And certainly it's her last chance to make a splash in Hollywood while giving a big hand (and the old eye) to cuties from Brooklyn and way points. She knows lots of examples. And if she hadn't changed her name and gone to New York to make a fresh start, the chances are she'd still be an extra.

A BOOST FROM EDDIE CANTOR
A flicker career looked pretty easy back in 1934. Fresh out of high school and with all the assurance of 17, the symmetrical blond answered a chorus call for "Kid Millie" and was selected as a Goldwyn Girl. Then Eddie Cantor, liking her voice, chose her for the secondary role of his childhood sweetheart.

A lot of stars have had less auspicious beginnings. "But my luck had run out, and I just couldn't find a job after that," she recalls. "Pretty soon, to keep from dropping clear out of pictures, I was playing extra. Finally I got a stock contract at Metro, but at was doubly disappointing to find that it wasn't any better than extra work. I soon learned it was no use begging for something to do. They'd just give me that pained look and say, 'What are you feeling about you? You're getting paid, aren't you?'"

For about four years, during intervals of idleness, the actress worked without pay at any little theater and radio station that would offer her a line to speak. She best remembers the broadcast of a miserable little skit in which she was supposed to be a young mother burying her dead baby at sea. While sobbing into the mike, she kept one hand in a tub of water which she dipped around to make the sound of waves.

"Finally I realized I just wasn't getting anywhere in Hollywood," she continued. "So I called myself Doris Jordan and went to New York and modeled—hats, toothpaste, cigarettes—and hoped to get into a show. Instead, along came Max Arno, who was interviewing models in the big Scarlett O'Hara hunt. I had read for him once at Warner Brothers, and I prayed he wouldn't remember. He didn't."

"So they put me under short-term contract and sent me back here for tests. I pretended it was my first visit—made all the trite, touristic remarks about oranges and palm trees and unusual weather. My mother didn't quite understand what I was trying to do, because she came to the train to meet me and began waving and calling to me. I finally got a chance to say, 'Mommy—I'm not supposed to know anybody here!'"

CAMERA CREW REMEMBERED

Although she had lived within three blocks of Wilshire Boulevard most of her life, Miss Davenport seemed to have a hard time following directions for getting to the Selznick studio.

Later, on a sound stage and ready for a GWTW test, she was flabbergasted to discover that all the camera crew and electricians were men from the Metro lot. She was barely able to forestall their happy cries of "Hello, Doris!" by tipping off the photographer to her trick. Hedini't go right on to stardom.

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

This corner is going to soften two or three charges made in this column the other day against the current Harvester football team. In the matter of experience, then it is inexperienced, for there are only seven boys on the squad who were on the squad last year. In comparison, the Sandies have 22 squad members. Also it appears to this observer that complaining fans were dead wrong about the team being beset with grandstanders. You couldn't find any more modest boys than Leslie Burge, center, Wayne Ott, end, Wayne Fade, guard, and undoubtedly others that we don't know personally. The boys also appeared to be cooperating with each other unusually well yesterday morning in their triumphant scrimmage against Phillips. . . . But it still appears to most fans (ask them) that the Harvesters are going to have to start winning and keep it up, and start showing that spirit they had in the early 1930s if they are going to pack the stands this season. We refer to the spirit that several years ago made everyone call them the "fighting Harvesters." A fighting spirit may be that change that came over the Sandies at the half last year when they were leading—a change that sucked us under. This year's team can be just another club, or it can make history and be a team to be remembered. Will it do them any good to tell them they are inexperienced, implying psychologically that they are not supposed to win? They can be just as good as they want to be—as good as Lubbock or Amarillo if they will play as hard as the Westerners or the Sandies do, not just in one or two games but in every game this fall. And let them start right in at the first and show us all a thing or three.

A BOOST FROM

SHERWOOD ANDERSON
Author of "Dark Laughter," "A Midwest Childhood," "Puzzled"
It seems to me that, in surrendering to the totalitarian idea, man is simply throwing away what men have fought and died for during man's history. It must be that present day man is very tired. So we are to glorify the state, that vague thing up there. We are to bow down to it. Individuality is to be thrown overboard. The state, the masses, the proletariat. How we run about babbling these meaningless words. There is no such thing. Such words have no real meaning. There is to be this man, the leader—he only to develop his individuality. We are to make ourselves shadows of him. It comes to that. What else? Well, it will be more efficient. There will be no discussions, no questions. The leader speaks and we must blindly obey. Everything man has gained to be thrown away. French revolution, American revolution, the opportunity for the exceptional man to arise, freedom of speech, everything thrown aside. For efficiency. Guns made faster, killing made easier—all of man's feeling for man, that can grow only with the growth of individuality—all of this sacrificed to efficiency. Are we that tired? It is all tiredness. What else? It is a dream of tired men. It is a throwing away of all responsibility of man for man. That is the totalitarian state. Are we so tired of body and spirit that we must make the state our mother, creep like babes to suck at the dry drugs of the state? It is a sickening thought—the final surrender to hopelessness. It must be stopped. Man must regain his feeling for man. And why not here, in America? It is still a new, fresh land. All of our traditions cry out against surrender of freedom of movement, of speech, of the right of the individual to find his way to his own God, to love and understanding of his fellow man. It seems to me that there is again a chance for America to become as it was in early days in the land of an old tired world's hopes of renewal.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Sept. 14 (AP)—If you hear politicians shouting in the next six weeks about folks getting back to Thomas Jefferson, there's something to it. In August 1821 persons visited Monticello, the home of Jefferson, the largest number for any August on record.

SWING dancing of today looks pretty wild in its raw state, but when doing some of the square dances of yesteryear your grandma was somewhat of a jitterbug herself. . . . Just witness the following "call" of instructions for one part of a gay nineties square dance: . . . Jump in the air and come right down. Then swing your honey round and round. . . . Yeah, grandma had fun, too. . . . And, as for your mama—when she was a girl they were dancing the "Grizzly Bear," the "Turkey Trot," the "Cub-anola Glide," and the "Bunny Hug" and other equally hot numbers. . . . Just ask your mama if she ever danced the "Bunny Hug" and see if her face gets red.

It's a strange fact, but only about one out of ten autoists really knows how to park a car in a narrow space. . . . MANY rackets have sprung up recently in attempts to capitalize on the nation's current flush of patriotism. . . . There's a Philadelphia publication dedicated to combating the Fifth Column, which makes unauthorized use of the name of the Disabled American Veterans. . . . Several hundred "patriotic" organizations have sprung up over the country and are known to be soliciting funds to "save America," "fight Communism," "combat the Nazi menace," etc. . . . The point of this is to remind you that if you get an appeal from an organization that appears to be questionable you should turn it over to the local police or sheriff's office and they in turn will get the information into the hands of the FBI or postal authorities. If the appeal has come by mail.

To The Editor: I have just read your piece in today's paper calling on the people to support the football team. This is hard for some of us to do after the school board said there would be no broadcast of the games.

I have attended almost all of the home games since 1929, but the last two years I was sick and could not attend three games but could listen to the broadcast, and to have this denied is enough to kill interest in the game and team. However I bought my reserve seat ticket, but had several to tell me that they would not go to a game if they could not hear the games, they would not be able to attend.

I don't believe there is anything that will give as much interest to the teams and games as a broadcast would. People will listen to a few games and get interested and go. We feel that the school belongs to the people and they should be allowed to hear the games if they are not able to attend. There are a few that will stay at home and listen to the games but most of these will not attend if there is no broadcast.

American Republics Unite in War Action

PAN AMERICAN solidarity, symbolized by the massed flags of 21 American republics on the Bolivian Pan American anniversary stamp above, has been strengthened by the decision of the Americas to keep Europe's war out of America.

Meeting at Havana, foreign ministers of the nations agreed, should a conqueror attempt to transfer control of a European possession in the Western Hemisphere, a provisional government might be set up for that possession, with ultimate return of the colony to its original owner or establishment of its independence.

The action forms the basis for the possible creation of a trusteeship over the American possessions of Nazi-conquered France, Netherlands and Denmark. Ratification by congresses of at least 14 of the 21 republics is necessary before the plan can be put into operation, if such a situation arises.

Camacho Welcome At Capital, Says Hull

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Secretary Hull hinted at United States recognition of General Avila Camacho as the next president of Mexico by asserting today that Camacho would be welcome if he desired to visit this country.

Hull would not discuss the disputed Mexican presidential election. In reply to questions, however, he said that Camacho would be welcomed as any other important person or official desiring to visit this country.

He was less specific about Camacho's rival for the presidency, General Juan Almazan, who has been at Baltimore for several weeks. Asked whether Almazan, who challenges the Camacho election claims, would be welcomed officially if he came to Washington, Secretary Hull said that the government would not be governed by any hair-splitting rules. He said he would not undertake to draw any fine distinctions. Camacho, whom the Mexico congress yesterday declared president-elect, has been reported as planning to come to Washington to call on President Roosevelt before taking office.

LeFors Beats Dumas 25 To 13 In Brilliant Game

LEFORS, Sept. 14.—Showing almost mid-season form, the LeFors Pirates defeated the Dumas Demons 25 to 13 in the opening game of the 1940 football season here Friday night. Dumas wasn't far behind the Pirates in form and play was much closer than the score indicates.

Coaches Francis Smith and John Rankin of the Pirates presented four of the best balanced backs coaches could desire. In Twigs, Ammons, Earhart and Libby they have fast, hard-charging, tricky, ball toters. While the four tore up the turf in great style, they had to take a back seat in brilliance to Schlinkman, Dumas fullback, who was a one-man team. He is a stocky youngster, weighing around 180 pounds, but he is just as well as powerful and is a wicked passer.

LeFors hung up 13 first downs to five for Dumas, three of them in the last quarter.

The Pirates recovered a short kickoff on the Dumas 43 and Twigs and Ammons sparked a touchdown drive with Twigs passing to Earhart on the 2-yard line from where Earhart went over on a plunge.

Schlinkman first came into the picture on the kickoff when he took the ball on his own 15 and went to the 45 before being brought down. LeFors held and started another drive with Earhart and Libby in charge. Ammons raced to the Dumas 15 at the quarter. The charge died on the nine but LeFors recovered on the 15 when a Dumas punt went haywire. Twigs picked up 10 yards and Ammons made the last four yards for a touchdown.

Schlinkman again stepped into the line when he intercepted one of Twigs' passes and roamed to the LeFors 40. On the next play he roared off tackle, cut to the sidelines and went for a touchdown.

Following the exchange opening the second half, Twigs heaved a 20-yard pass to Ammons who had great blocking from Oldham and Libby on a 30-yard jaunt across the goal line.

Passes Click

Another punting exchange gave LeFors the ball on their own 40 and Twigs immediately passed 30 yards to Earhart, and followed with a 15-yard heave to Oldham who took the ball from between two Dumas players. Twigs again passed to Oldham on the 4. Then Earhart skirted left and for the touchdown. Twigs kicked the first point after touchdown.

LeFors staged another drive near the end of the game but Dumas held and the ball went over on the 15. Schlinkman opened up, assisted by McClung and Fritts for nice gains on the ground, mixed with short passes from Schlinkman to Wooten and Peters. Schlinkman then broke loose for a 25-yard drive and another touchdown and scored the extra point from placement.

The entire LeFors backfield played stellar ball. The line had few if any standouts but the tackling of Oldham, Jones, Stracener and Fite was outstanding.

Starting lineups:
Dumas Pos. LeFors
Clay le Oldham
B. Smith lt Stracener
McMurry g Jones
Bain rc Fite
J. Smith rg Barrick
Hunt rt Watkins
McClung qb Twigs
Wooten lb Ammons
Fritts rh Earhart
Schlinkman fb Libby

Officials: Barber, Miami; Duncan, LeFors; Waggoner, LeFors.

Yanks Slaughter Tigers 16 To 7 Before 56,697 Crowd

By DALE STAFFORD

DETROIT, Sept. 14 (AP)—Yankee power, dormant for three games, exploded with old fashioned violence today as the world champions slaughtered the Detroit Tigers, 16 to 7, before a crowd of 56,697 fans.

The victory lifted the world champions to within two games of first place in their belated quest for a fifth straight American league pennant. Despite the defeat, the Tigers stayed on top of the standings by a half-game inasmuch as the Boston Red Sox moved down the second place Cleveland Indians, 6 to 1.

Almost every hit meant a run today as the Yankees combed six Detroit pitchers for 16 safeties that included two homers by Joe Gordon and one by Bill Dickey. All of the Yankee scoring was confined to the space of four innings, the victors getting five runs in the fourth and seventh innings, four in the sixth and one in the fifth.

The Tigers took a 4 to 0 lead in the opening inning when they chased Spurgeon Chandler and looked to be on the road to another victory before the first Yankee outburst in the fourth. Louie (Buck) Newsom, who had faced but nine batters in the first three frames, lost his stuff without warning and before the fourth was over Gordon and Dickey had homered.

George Selkirk had tripled and Joe DiMaggio had singled and the Yanks were on the road to triumph. Newsom stayed on the hill until two were out in the fifth, yielding two more runs, one of them Gordon's second homer of the afternoon. Archie McKain, Tom Seaver, Bob Uhl, Paul Trout and Clay Smith followed Newsom in order and of the quintet only Smith was more than slightly annoying to the Yankee batsmen.

DiMaggio, fighting to win the American league batting title, furbled his cause with four blows in five trips and drove home three runs. Gordon had a single in addition to the pair of homers which lifted the season total of circuit blows to 27.

Marvin Breuer, who relieved Chandler in the first, turned in a workmanlike relief performance, checking the Tigers completely until he was overruled by the manager with an overwhelming majority.

Although they won, the Yankees didn't stop Hank Greenberg, the slugging left fielder of the Bengals. Greenberg smacked his 34th homer of the year and his eighth in ten games with L. D. Meyer on base in the eighth.

Rudy York swatted his 27th circuit blow in the big first inning uprising.

Panthers Nose Out Claude, 7-6

Special To The NEWS
PANHANDLE, Sept. 14.—The Panhandle Panthers opened the 1940 season by eking out a 7 to 6 victory over a strong Claude Mustang eleven. Claude won the district Class B title last year.

Neither team scored until the fourth quarter. Early in the period Muri Pruitt raced from the 35 to the 8-yard line, and then passed to Earl Pruitt recovered Jack Robertson's fumble on the goal-line and scored. Robertson kicked extra point.

Claude took the ball and did not relinquish it until they had scored. J. Wilson and B. Wilson, brother backfield combination alternated in carrying the ball from their own 33 to paydirt. Two passes, B. Wilson to C. Valvert, figured in the drive. B. Wilson scored over center, and the kick was blocked.

The Panhandle schedule follows: Sept. 20—Wellington, here. Sept. 27—McLean, there. Oct. 4—Canadian, there. Oct. 11—Borger, there. Oct. 18—Open.

Oct. 25—Spearman, here. Nov. 1—Phillips, here. Nov. 8—White Deer, there. Nov. 15—Perryton, here.

Little Honored

The Norway Country Club at Norway, Me., may have started something new when it named the first nine holes instead of numbering them. Appropriately, too, officials honored Lawson Little, U. S. Open champion, above, by naming the first one the Lawson Little hole.

Canadian Whips Shamrock 13-0

Special To The NEWS
SHAMROCK, Sept. 14.—Staging a surprise attack with Quarterback Briggs in charge, the Canadian Wildcats slipped two touchdowns across in the first half and then held Shamrock scoreless to win the opening game of the season 13 to 0 here Friday night.

The Irish had the advantage in every department excepting in the Shamrock 30, and Spurlin didn't stop until he was across the paydirt. Briggs place-kicked the extra point.

Shamrock penetrated Canadian's 10-yard line five times in the last half, and lost the ball once on a fumble six inches from the goal-line.

It has been found that the "average" military airplane would have a structure weighing 6000 pounds, and a power plant, engine and propeller which would weigh 2000 pounds.

It has been estimated that in order to build 50,000 planes yearly the cost would be $280,000,000. That figure, just for the planes—exclusive of engines and propellers, includes the cost of the land, factory, buildings, tools, etc.

Miami Runs Over Guerillas In 24-0 Scrimmage

Coach Oscar Hinger of the high school Guerillas has more than his share of trouble and worry this season. Usually he has several lettermen back from the previous season and a whole bunch of boys up from the Junior high Reapers but this season he has neither—in any great numbers.

The Guerillas were hit, and hit hard, when only seven Harvesters returned for the season. That meant drawing 24 boys from the Guerillas and Reapers. When the drawing was finished, Coach Hinger had only five of last season's players back and only nine up from the Reapers.

In order to round up enough boys to hold scrimmages, Coach Hinger issued a call for boys with no previous experience and luckily 17 answered his call, making a squad of 30 boys.

But the arrival of the newcomers meant forgetting all about spring training work and starting with fundamentals. On Friday Coach Hinger took his boys to Miami where they lost a 24 to 0 game. Although the Warriors had only a few boys in uniform, they were mighty potent.

Although the score was lopsided, Coach Hinger was fairly well pleased with his Guerillas. They never stopped trying and they showed improvement as the game progressed.

Coach Hinger plans to spend the next two or three weeks on fundamentals with a few scrimmages mixed in to see how the boys are doing. He will play Stimpert on October 4. Coach Hinger is being assisted by Herbert Maynard, former Harvesters, who volunteered his services when he learned that Hinger had no one on whom he could possibly hand.

Lettermen back this year are Joe Bob Zimmerman, Richard Stephens, Arthur Meyer, Doug Lovelless and L. J. Halter.

Lubbock's Still State Champion, Beats Odessa

ODESSA, Sept. 14 (AP)—Odessa's Brones battled the defending state champion Lubbock high Westerners on even terms here tonight for three quarters then weakened late in the fourth to lose to the plainsmen, 12-6.

Gov. and Mrs. W. W. Lee O'Daniel saw the game.

The Westerners out first-downed the locals 11 to 8 while Odessa held its advantage in the passing department with Billy Morgan doing the booting.

at the same time in order to keep Britain's forces, her fleet, especially, divided. There were signs last night that an Italian offensive was brewing.

Fascist forces, in what appeared to be a prelude to a desert blitzkrieg, moved cautiously into the no man's land on the Libyan-Egyptian border, occupying the sacked Egyptian port of Sollum.

The British, on the alert for a mechanized offensive against Egypt, the Sudan—or both—by Italian Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's force of 260,000 or more men, harassed the Italian vanguards and declared "we have the situation well in hand."

The British defense by fighter planes alone against the first three German night raids was without precedent since the start Sept. 7 of the almost continuous German air offensive.

The air ministry news service said that despite help of the clouds "only a few bombers managed to penetrate to central London" in Saturday's raids.

The Nazis came in great numbers—the high drone of many motors was heard over central London.

The authoritative British press association estimated that 300 bombers had been thrown back by early evening in the first five hours, the southeast coast which watchers described as "the biggest ever."

Up to 8:30 p. m. the air ministry announced, eleven German planes had been shot down during the day to four British craft lost.

The government took steps to free telephonic and telegraphic communications—vital in any military emergency—from as many of the civilian lines as was possible. It asked the public to confine their use to urgent messages.

Methodically, the bombers of the royal air force, the country's first line of defense against any German attempt to cross the channel with troops, carried on their mission of destruction against Nazi bases.

They wrecked barge concentrations along the French and Belgian coasts last night and early today, the air ministry announced, and left Nazi dock facilities aflame at Boulogne, Calais, Dunkerque, Ostend and Antwerp.

Tonight, at the end of an eight-day period of almost unbroken terror from the skies, the old face of London was pocked and battered by a score of heavy raids.

The casualty lists are posted each day in town and borough halls but the press is not permitted to publish them for what a home-security ministry official called "obvious reasons."

Through Wednesday night, the dead were officially listed at 1,245 and the injured at 4,810.

A new wind tunnel is being constructed in California. The tunnel will be about 400 feet long and will be able to test a model with a wing span of 11 feet. At maximum capacity, air will be forced through the tunnel at 200 miles an hour.

Annual Garden Club Flower Show To Highlight Events Of Week-End

Plants Will Be Entered In Three Individual Groups

Highlighting the activities of the Pampa Garden club for the fall season will be the annual flower show which has been set for Friday between 1 and 9 o'clock in the city club rooms.

The Garden club has requested everyone who grows flowers to enter them in one of the three divisions. The show is not for members of the club only, but for all Pampans. Each year hundreds of visitors express their appreciation of the beauty and profusion of flowers exhibited.

All entrants in the show are to be taken to the west door of the club rooms between 9 and 11:30 o'clock Friday morning. The two parking spaces will be reserved by the police department on the west side of the city hall. The east door of the club room will be opened to visitors from 1 until 9 o'clock. Tea will be served between 2 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

A special invitation is extended to the men to exhibit their flowers as some of the most beautiful entries in the past few years have been those grown by men.

To give information which will enable the public as well as Garden club members to compete on an equal basis, rules and suggestions for the show are being given. All exhibits will be entered under three main divisions with ribbons being given for each of the many classes.

The three divisions are:
1. Specimens. By specimen is meant a single plant, bloom, or stalk.

2. Display. The term used for several of one kind of flower.

3. Arrangements. A group of different kinds of flowers or plants arranged to create an artistic effect.

To illustrate the above classifications, one rose would constitute a specimen; several roses, a display; and roses mixed with other flowers as a filler would constitute an arrangement.

Exhibitors should enter the best flowers in the specimen classes, the next best in display classes, and the best in arrangement classes.

Division One
In division one there are classes for roses, dahlias, azaleas, mums, snapdragons, delphiniums, tube roses, delosia coccinea, and gladioli.

All varieties of these are judged in separate classes. A sample score card is following:

At Kingsmill H. D. Meeting Recently

Kingsmill Home Demonstration club members met recently in the home of Mrs. W. B. Davis for a demonstration on salads and the making of sauer kraut.

A potato salad was made by Mrs. G. G. Frasier and a lettuce roll filled with cottage cheese, nuts, and raisins by Mrs. O. G. Smith; also, Mrs. Smith demonstrated the making of mayonnaise with oil that was used in the salad served.

Mrs. J. R. Combs arranged a plate of raw vegetable salad and Mrs. Davis served a vegetable dish of cooked celery and peas. The recipe used is as follows:

One No. 1 can of peas, drained, two cups dried celery, three tablespoons salad oil or butter, one teaspoon salt, three tablespoons top milk, and dash of pepper. Cook celery and oil over slow fire for six minutes; stir often. Add peas and heat thoroughly. Add milk and pepper just before removing from fire. Serves six.

Mrs. Combs demonstrated the making of sauer kraut. She said that it is very essential that each family make an adequate supply of sauer kraut for family use while cabbage is so plentiful and the price so low. She added the same vitamins are in kraut which are in citrus fruits. Her recipe is given below:

Forty pounds of shredded cabbage. Add one pound of coarse salt. Place in stone jar and cover with clean cloth. Over this place lid or plate that will reach to the sides of the jar. Place a heavy weight on this and over all place another clean cloth to keep out dust. Let stand in warm place for two weeks and kraut will be ready to use.

The salads and vegetables were served with cocoa and coffee to Mesdames S. E. Elkins, N. B. Cude, O. F. Bastion, D. L. Lunsford, and C. A. Wiley, a visitor.

Mrs. D. L. Lunsford will be hostess at an all-day meeting beginning at 10 o'clock and covered dish luncheon at noon next Tuesday when a demonstration on refinishing furniture will be given by Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, agent.

Mrs. Davis Hostess

At Kingsmill H. D.

Meeting Recently

Kingsmill Home Demonstration club members met recently in the home of Mrs. W. B. Davis for a demonstration on salads and the making of sauer kraut.

A potato salad was made by Mrs. G. G. Frasier and a lettuce roll filled with cottage cheese, nuts, and raisins by Mrs. O. G. Smith; also, Mrs. Smith demonstrated the making of mayonnaise with oil that was used in the salad served.

Mrs. J. R. Combs arranged a plate of raw vegetable salad and Mrs. Davis served a vegetable dish of cooked celery and peas. The recipe used is as follows:

One No. 1 can of peas, drained, two cups dried celery, three tablespoons salad oil or butter, one teaspoon salt, three tablespoons top milk, and dash of pepper. Cook celery and oil over slow fire for six minutes; stir often. Add peas and heat thoroughly. Add milk and pepper just before removing from fire. Serves six.

Mrs. Combs demonstrated the making of sauer kraut. She said that it is very essential that each family make an adequate supply of sauer kraut for family use while cabbage is so plentiful and the price so low. She added the same vitamins are in kraut which are in citrus fruits. Her recipe is given below:

Forty pounds of shredded cabbage. Add one pound of coarse salt. Place in stone jar and cover with clean cloth. Over this place lid or plate that will reach to the sides of the jar. Place a heavy weight on this and over all place another clean cloth to keep out dust. Let stand in warm place for two weeks and kraut will be ready to use.

The salads and vegetables were served with cocoa and coffee to Mesdames S. E. Elkins, N. B. Cude, O. F. Bastion, D. L. Lunsford, and C. A. Wiley, a visitor.

Mrs. D. L. Lunsford will be hostess at an all-day meeting beginning at 10 o'clock and covered dish luncheon at noon next Tuesday when a demonstration on refinishing furniture will be given by Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, agent.

VIGOROUS OUTDOOR DRAMAS BEGIN 3-DAY EXHIBITIONS AT TWO LOCAL THEATERS

Irene Rich And Charles Bickford Head Cast Of "Queen of the Yukon," Hall, Bari, Andrews, Bond, Huber, Principals Of "Kit Carson"

By BROWNWOOD EMERSON
United Artists lavishly-produced historical saga, "Kit Carson," with Jon Hall, Lynn Bari, Dana Andrews, Ward Bond, and Harold Huber, represents another chapter in the winning of the west.

Edward Small has made his title and central character the famous Kit Carson, scout and Indian fighter, and depicts him as the crafty guide who takes charge of a wagon train bound for California along with an escort of cavalry under the command of John C. Fremont.

The strategy of either leader, especially that of Carson, is not a whit more admirable than that of Producer Small.

He has hurled into the footage (97 minute running time) an unusually large assemblage of soldiers and Indians with the result that on account of pageantry alone, the onlooker will be conquered, says The Film Daily.

"Kit Carson" opens a three-day run at LaNora. Alaska in the surging days of the gold rush and a mother-daughter theme is the background of Monogram's "Queen of the Yukon," opening for three days today at the Crown. Irene Rich and Charles Bickford lead the cast.

Voices of Charlie Ruggles, a producer, who takes his caravan of temperamental players to the suburbs, form the plot of Paramount's "The Farmer's Daughter," with Richard Denning, William Frawley and Gertrude Michael in the chief roles. On the LaNora screen Wednesday and Thursday.

A spirited girl brings about the regeneration of an outlaw in Paramount's picture of Zane Grey's "Knights of the Range," featuring Russell Hayden, Victory Jory, Jean Parker, J. Farrell MacDonald, and Britt Wood, showing at the State Friday and Saturday.

Fast riding, cattle rustling, shooting, and fighting are merged against an Arizona background, rounded out by musical numbers by Tex Ritter in Monogram's "Rainbow over the Range," showing Friday and Saturday at the Crown.

Willkie So Hoarse His Aides Summon Throat Specialists

ENROUTE TO KANSAS CITY, Sept. 14 (AP)—In a voice so hoarse that aides summoned throat specialists from Chicago and California Wendell L. Willkie charged today that President Roosevelt "has been one of the principal contributors to the breakdown in Europe."

Speaking in Peoria, Ill., after a series of rear platform addresses had strained his voice, Willkie said huskily: "Where was Franklin Roosevelt, this great, indispensable man, when Germany was reaching out? If he had given encouragement, this thing would never have happened."

"Franklin Roosevelt, instead of being one factor for the preservation of the democratic way, has been one of the principal factors in the destruction of the democratic way."

Although declaring that the president's motives "are always noble," the Republican presidential candidate said that "it doesn't do any good to have noble motives if you don't know what you're talking about."

Referring to a statement by Henry A. Wallace, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, that the Republican party is the party of appeasement, Willkie said: "Appeasement? He (Roosevelt) has appeased the democratic world to destruction. Of all the men I know who have any acquaintance with international affairs, Franklin Roosevelt is the least qualified to lead this nation."

Willkie asserted earlier in Joliet, Ill., that Mr. Roosevelt once "telephoned Hitler and Mussolini and urged them to set Czechoslovakia down the river at Munich."

Willkie Calls His Opponents Corrupt

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie told a crowd of well-wishers in the Union station upon his arrival here in the campaign he was beginning "I am going to give you the truth in plain Indiana language so that no one can misunderstand."

The Republican presidential nominee, standing on a balcony of the station, spoke impromptu at the request of many from the throng who greeted him as he reached Chicago to give four addresses to industrial and negro groups during his 24-hour stay here.

"My speeches," he declared, "will be political and I will name them as such. I will never dodge or hedge."

"This is a crusade and I call to you in the name of the democratic way of life in America."

Before he left Rushville last night he told a cheering throng around his 12-car special train that there was a "rare combination on the other side of the fight" and declared "the worst gang of buccaners ever organized in American political history" was aligned against him.

The "buccaners," he asserted, are coupled with a "high profession of noble ideals."

"Even though I face a ruthless gang of political corruptors—Boss Hague, Kelly-Nash and Boss Flynn—I don't believe that corruption can sway the vote of the great cities."

"And I don't believe that an entrenched bureaucracy with billions of dollars to spend can influence an election."

Local Red Cross Sends Many Garments For Shipment To Europe

By the first week of September the local branch of the American Red Cross had sent to national headquarters for shipment overseas 45 dresses, 17 hospital bed shirts, 10 layettes, 60 sweaters, and five shawls.

These garments were part of the million and more that the Red Cross has shipped—tangible evidence of friendship and sympathy from the women of this land to the helpless victims of war abroad.

Shipments are going forward regularly now to Great Britain for the French and Belgian refugees and English evacuees in that country, and plans are underway to send additional shipments to Finland in the near future.

There is no question as to the overwhelming need among the hundreds of thousands of destitute refugees, who have been driven from their homes and the Red Cross is anxious to have available for immediate shipment an adequate stock of garments so that future requests from its commissions abroad can be met promptly and advantage taken of any ocean transportation stage that becomes available. No one can force the future but no one questions that the needs will continue to be far beyond our ability to meet.

The Pampa branch has been assigned a tentative quota to be completed by December 1. The local board is asking that this quota be changed somewhat since it would be practically impossible to do this varied sewing without a sewing room. The quota assigned Pampa is as follows:

Thirty-five women's dresses, 75 women's skirts, 175 girls' dresses, 125 girls' skirts, 75 layettes, 60 boys' shirts, 35 boys' overalls, 30 convalescent robes, 60 hospital pajamas, 50 men's sweaters, 100 women's sweaters, and 200 children's sweaters.

In addition the following garments are requested in such quantities as it seems possible for the chapter to produce:

Shawls, caps or "beanies," children's stockings, knitted suits for children under six, mufflers, mittens, men's socks, and afghans.

The National Red Cross is in a position to furnish without cost to the chapters, all materials for the production of these garments. Sewing will begin in Pampa in the very near future and anyone who can help in any way is urged to watch the papers for news concerning the arrival here of materials.

Knitting will get underway at once. Instruction sheets and yarns may be obtained now at the Red Cross office located in the library in the city hall every afternoon except Saturday, Sunday, and Monday between 4:15 and 5 o'clock.

SERIAL STORY

All characters, organizations and incidents of this serial are entirely fictitious.

YESTERDAY: Sue Mary goes to Youth Progress headquarters, helps Vera with typing. The place is a surprise to her, with young people intent upon affairs she has considered entirely out of her scope. Nick comes in, is glad to see her there, asks her to go to a concert with him.

SUE MARY MEETS 'IDLE RICH'

CHAPTER VI

It was a benefit concert to help war refugees and it was held in a small hall crowded with interested older men and women whose foreign faces were serious until the music began. Some of it was familiar to Sue Mary; most of it was strange.

"That's by the modern Russian," Nick told her during intermission. "You get the feeling of power, and freedom, and mass happiness."

"I liked the Tchaikovsky," she said softly. "I know that one."

"Lavender and old lace," Nick said. "Like you: old-fashioned and very young—and sort of sweet. Different."

"Maybe there is something to this stuff about the sheltered girl. You're not like Vera or Natalie. They know what it's all about, and they'll get what they want. They're real workers. No illusions. You'll be a good worker, too. And yet you're sweet the way you are."

He wasn't making love to her. It was as though he was talking to himself. There wasn't that something in his voice that came to Joe's when he said goodbye after kissing her good night.

Somehow it was hard to think of Nick ever being cynical; not with his usual cynicism, his worldliness, his drive and force. Yet sometimes that evening, when she looked into his eyes and heard the music surging around her in waves of beauty, she experienced an entirely new sensation—almost a heady feeling of danger.

THE office seemed bleak and dull the next day. The five-day week made it necessary to double up on work. Kitty was gone and Miss Grant kept Sue Mary busy. It was late afternoon when Miss Grant asked her to go to the Clark home.

"Mr. Ross isn't feeling well and he wants to give some dictation," she explained. "Just what you can do quickly. You can do it easily. I can't leave because some-clients are coming in. Now go along. When you're through there you can go home and finish up that work in the morning."

It was the first time Sue Mary had been in such a home. The Butler who admitted her took her to a small library with book-lined walls and dark polished furniture. Flowers gave a touch of color to the room and pictures of family groups in heavy, old-fashioned silver frames, desk ornaments, and a faint odor of good tobacco made it livable.

Like a movie set, she thought, wishing she could relax and enjoy, if only for these few moments, the luxury about her. How strange it must be to live in such a house day after day; accepting these things without even seeing them, taking them for granted as she took for granted her small room, her tiny radio, her few cakes of good soap and her one small bottle of perfume.

Someone had entered the room and Sue Mary came back to reality with a start. It was Mitzi Clark, last year's orchid debutante and the oldest daughter. She looked like her brother: blond hair, exquisitely groomed, poised and unselfish.

With her was Joan Brant. Sue Mary recognized her, too, from the radio pictures. This year she was society's No. 1 glamor girl.

It was Mitzi who spoke, "You're from father's office?"

Sue Mary's voice seemed strange to her own ears. She tried to be calm and assume the young business woman role, but she felt terribly gauche, awkward, wrongly dressed.

"He'll be down eventually," Mitzi said, taking some books from the desk. "He won't exercise, you know," she explained, turning to the other girl, "and now he's working harder because of all this war stuff."

"I'm sick of hearing war all the time," Joan Brant said. "It's such a terrible thing in the social season. I would get a lousy break the year I came out."

Mitzi laughed. "Could be worse. Well, we have to get along," she said to Sue Mary. "Miss Brant's being a deb, I'm being a former deb. This is my afternoon at the day nursery. Funny, but I get a sort of kick out of it. Working with those dirty, smelly little kids. I mean. They have so little and are so grateful."

"I think I'll help Alice Simpson campaign for a new social center. She's up to her neck in welfare work and social reform. Oh, well, it's something to do besides play bridge and go to cocktail parties."

They were gone with a swish of perfumed frocks and a gleam of silken hose, the clicking of their heels tapping a tune on the polished floors. Sue Mary decided she liked Mitzi, liked her more than she liked her blond, polo-playing brother. She didn't seem to pretend, and she looked healthy and clean and as though she might have become a little tired of being called an orchid deb.

Sue Mary wondered what Vera and Natalie and Nick would say about the girls. In the few times she had been with them she had come to sense the bitter undercurrent of their talk about the "upper classes."

At first she had thought it just the natural desire to have the luxuries, the ease, the fun that went with that life; desires that she had and took for granted. But she wondered now a little if it wasn't something that went deeper. They were so bitter about the "idle rich."

She didn't feel that way. She didn't hate Mitzi Clark because she had looks and wealth and all the good times that went with money. And she didn't hate old M. Ross Clark because he was a rich man. After all, he was responsible for her pay check.

Her thoughts were interrupted by his appearance at that very moment and from then on she was too busy to think of anything but keeping up with his dictation.

He was worried about the war. As attorney for the plane and auto factories, the war boom tripled his work at the office. New designs, new contracts, new patents; and a more noticeable veil of secrecy descending over it all. A rigid guarding of files; a gleam guard on car keys; even a check on shorthand notes.

It brought a sense of world upheaval closer somehow. Sue Mary had discovered that by simply switching off the war broadcasts and merely skimming the stories the situation could remain remote. But it wasn't so easy now with the feeling of tenseness existing in the office.

And, of course, on Tuesdays and the evening with Nick and Vera and Natalie one was bound to listen. She was glad the coming election was holding their interest. Their energies now were thrown in that direction, and she had found herself gradually being caught up in the thrill of the coming battle.

Texas Lagging Away Behind In Welfare, Declares Drought

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—H. P. Drought, Texas WPA administrator, told the state's congressional delegation today that Texas was "lagging away behind" the rest of the nation in its social welfare program.

Drought asserted that where most states have a general relief program, the only state setup for relief in Texas is a small amount of surplus commodities—about a third of those required—for the destitute, furnished by the federal government, and distributed through state agencies.

Thirteen of Texas' house members met with Drought; Howard Hunter, deputy WPA administrator, and Lawrence Westbrook, WPA regional director for Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Oklahoma, to discuss the relief situation.

Drought said many relief clients, misunderstanding the situation in their state, blamed the WPA setup for faults for which lack of adequate state supplemental relief was responsible.

He predicted the trouble would be cleared up at the next session of the state legislature.

Texas has advanced from eighth to sixth place in its relief employment rating in the last year, he said, indicating improvement in the local situation. Nevertheless, there still is only one WPA job there for every two persons eligible, he said.

A proposal by Rep. Poage (D-Tex.) that projects be sponsored in Texas by the army, navy, navy production of uniforms as part of the defense program brought a reply from Hunter that existing laws would not permit such projects.

FDR Tightens Up On Exporting Of Planes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (P)—President Roosevelt clamped license requirements today on the export of certain plans and supplies for aircraft, in order to "further strengthen the national defense."

The presidential proclamation, made public at his press conference, added to the export license list equipment used for producing aviation motor fuel and tetraethyl lead or any plans or specifications used in the design, construction, or operation of such equipment; and plans, specifications and descriptive or technical information of any kind setting forth the design or construction of aircraft or aircraft engines.

These items are in addition to those covered in a proclamation last July placing petroleum products, tetraethyl lead and iron and steel scrap under license for export.

A proclamation of May 1, 1937, requires that exports of aircraft and aircraft engines be licensed.
"The present proclamation," a formal statement said, "taken with the preceding ones mentioned, has the effect of putting under the control of the President for export purposes not only the aircraft and engines but also the plans and designs for building them."

Party Given For Harris, Roberts Oldest Resident

Special To The NEWS
MIAMI, Sept. 14—A large crowd of friends and relatives gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McGee, to celebrate the birthday of Uncle Charlie Harris, Roberts county's oldest resident.
"Uncle Charlie" is 96 years old this week. Mr. Harris has lived in Miami for 44 years, coming here from Missouri. Although he has been blind for 23 years he still walks to town and leads the normal life of a much younger man. His younger grandson, Ray McGee, acts as "eyes" for the aged gentleman, and in spite of his years and handicap, he has never had a serious fall or accident.

One-Fourth Of Texas Leased For Oil, Gas

DALLAS, Sept. 14—More than one-fourth of Texas is now under lease for oil and gas development, a statewide survey just completed by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association shows.

Out of a total area of 169,130,716 acres in Texas, Texas oilmen have under lease 45,402,656 acres, the association found. This is nearly 27 per cent of all the land in Texas. The figures were compiled from county tax records, company reports and ownership maps of individual counties.

Lease and royalty payments on this acreage to Texas farmers and ranchers totalled over $125,000,000 in 1939, the association reported. This extra cash income for Texas farmers and stockmen represented an additional 27 cents from the oilman for each dollar of cash farm income, exclusive of government benefit payments. Including such payments, it represented 22 cents additional for each dollar of cash agricultural income in Texas last year.

In total return to the state, however, petroleum far exceeded all agricultural products. Expenditures of the oil and gas industry in Texas in 1939 were approximately $750,000,000, or nearly $300,000,000 more than the $567,596,000 Texas farm and ranch income from all crops, livestock and government benefits. Well over one-third of petroleum's total expenditures go to Texas workers who receive $272,000,000 a year in wages and salaries.

All but three counties out of the state's 254 now have acreage leased for oil and gas explorations or production. The exceptions are Rockwall, Mason and Llano.

98 Suits For Divorce Filed In Court Here

Divorce suits continue in their No. 1 place as the chief cause of action in cases to be heard in the September term of 31st district court here, which opens September 23.

There are 98 divorce cases to be heard in the forthcoming term, and two murder cases.

Indicted by the grand jury in the concluding days of the last term was Ernest McNeill, Negro, who was charged with murder in alleged connection with the fatal stabbing of J. D. McDonnell, on July 21 of this year.

The alleged stabbing occurred during an altercation in the Flats. McNeill was charged three days after the fight.

Parks Not Indicted
Second of the murder cases is that of State of Texas vs. Willie Parks, charged with murder in alleged connection with the fatal shooting of Boyd C. (Slim) Wilkinson, 27-year-old Pampa filling station attendant, on August 7.

Parks has been charged with murder in a complaint in justice court but has not been indicted. Both McNeill and Parks are being held in county jail.

District Judge W. R. Ewing indicated Saturday that he expected both cases to be heard during the September term and that special venues would be summoned.

The term is for seven weeks. On September 23 the docket is to be sounded, the appearance docket on the following day, and the non-jury docket on September 25.

Civil jury weeks open on September 30, October 14; civil, subject criminal, October 21 and October 28. October 7 is the beginning of criminal week, with November 4, concluding the term, and September 23, opening the session, will be non-jury. Grand jurors will report as the term opens.

Court settings and the list of petit and grand jurors for the term has not yet been prepared.

This week Judge Ewing will conclude a two-week term at Lipscomb. In controversy in court there is an Oklahoma-Texas land boundary case, in which a dozen persons are seeking to establish ownership of an aggregate 2,000 acres.

Two Suits On Note
Suit on note has been the cause of action in two cases filed this week in 31st district court here.

One is styled Ward S. Merrick and Lynn Boyd, doing business as Merrick & Boyd, and Lynn Boyd as trustee, vs. Jessie White and G. M. Walters.

Plaintiffs allege damage of $2,552 due on a $3,158.88 promissory note, executed on September 7, 1935 by J. D. and Cal White, and ask foreclosure of deed and trust and lien, on lot 31, J. D. White subdivision, section 89, block 3, I. & G. N. survey.

In the other case, the First National bank of Childress is the plaintiff, J. W. Qualls the defendant, and action is based on a promissory note for $2,307.67, dated September 20, 1939, according to plaintiff's petition.

A deed of trust covering the southerly 40 feet of lot 3, block 3, Hillcrest Terrace, Pampa, is cited in the petition.

In the first note case, Walter E. Rogers is attorney for the plaintiffs, while Sturgeon & Sturgeon are plaintiffs' attorneys in the second.

The pyramid of Tajin in the Mexican state of Veracruz, is built in seven sections and divided into 364 niches. It is believed the structure, whose corners point directly south, north, west and east, was a house of the gods with images of the deities in the niches.
