Mrs. E. J. Smith Dies at Hollis Friday Night

Mrs. Elby J. Smith, a beloved leader in the Dodson area until she moved with her family to Hollis a year ago, died at her home Friday night, September 17, at 11:48 p.m. Her health had been failing for about a year, and her condition was found to be serious about six months ago.

Mrs. Smith came to Dodson when she and Mr. Smith were married, about ten years ago, and immediately she took her place as one of those who would assume responsibility for community leadership.

She was first an employee and later a director in the First State Bank, of which her husband was vice-president, and in this capacity she became one of the county's outstanding young business women.

She was one of those women responsible for the Dodson Civic Club and its many activities for improvement at Dodson, including the city park. She was an active member of the Methodist Church and the Order of the Eastern Star.

In spite of all these, she still found time for the many little duties that fall to the women who lead in any community.

To many, she was a charming and gracious hostess, and to all who knew her a warm and true friend.

The esteem with which she was held was summed up by one friend who declared, "Lorene just meant more than any of us can say."

A year ago, when Mr. Smith became president of the bank at Hollis, she moved with him and their small daughter, Suzanne Loretta, to that town, where she was rapidly taking her place in the life of the community.

Mrs. Smith was before her marriage Miss Lorene Alma Shultz, the daughter of G. A. Shultz of Vernon. She was born April 28, 1912, at Thalia, and at the time

VFW Opens Season With Ted Weems

The Glynn Moore Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is opening its winter entertainment series by bringing Ted Weems and his orchestra to Wellington Wednesday night, September 29, at the community building, Russell Yates, entertainment chairman, has announced. The dance will begin at 9:30 p.m.

This is the answer to the hundreds of queries the VFW has received, both from home folks and those scattered over the Panhandle who enjoyed the Wellington VFW entertainment series.

Known throughout the nation as America's No. 1 Entertaining Band, Ted Weems and his orchestra has long ranked at the top of the ladder so far as entertainment is concerned.

Weems brings to Wellington with him not one, but six featured entertainers. There's Elio Tanner, a whistler that will make the public prick up its ears; Billy Blair, a pianist; Marianne Dunne, a song stylist; Glen Pest, comedy vocalist; Pat Barry, balladier; and Glenn Martin, song writer, vocalist and instrumentalist.

The VFW is fulfilling the same policy in its dance entertainments that made its program last year such a success, and drew people from every part of the Panhandle to its major dances, Mr. Yates said.

"As the first dance, we're bringing you one of the top bands of the country—the best that anyone could do—but all the others that follow will be good too, bands that will help to make your winter entertainment some of the best you've known," Mr. Yates concluded.

Model Airplane Enthusiasts Meet In City Sunday

Plans are practically completed for the first annual Wellington VFW Model Airplane Meet, to be held at Marian Airpark Sunday, September 26, Bill Lewis, who is in charge, announced this week.

The meet is sponsored by the Wellington VFW Model Airplane Club.

General invitations have gone out to towns throughout this section to model airplane enthusiasts, both men and boys.

Since this is the first such meet ever held here, Mr. Lewis said that there can be no indication of the number of contestants who will attend. It is expected, however, that a majority of the 20-odd members of the Wellington club will participate.

The contests will begin at 9:00 a.m. and continue throughout the day, so that interested spectators may go out at any time and witness the flights.

Twenty-five prizes will be awarded.

An airplane beauty contest is slated for 1:00 p.m.

While visitors are invited and a large crowd is expected, all persons coming to watch the contests are warned to stay outside the flight circle, which will be roped off.

John Barlow of Oklahoma City, a representative of Hobbies, Inc., will be present.

For contest purposes, each plane will make two flights of 10 minutes each. Each contestant will fly his own entry.

There will be both free flight and U-control contests.

In the U-control speed contest there are three classes: Class A, with the planes making 8 laps on 50-foot lines; Class B, with planes making 7 laps on 60 foot lines; and Class C, with planes making 6 laps on 70 foot lines. No racing model will weigh more than four pounds.

In the U-control precision contest, there will be one flight of five minutes. Points will be given on such things as starting, workmanship, finish, normal school maneuvers and spectacular or novelty flying.

There will also be U-control team stunt flying.

Much interest has grown up in recent months in model airplane flying, both among adults and youths of the area, and Mr. Lewis extends a cordial invitation to everyone in the Wellington trade area as well as visitors from other towns, to attend.

Rockets Play Non-Conference Game at Paducah Friday

The Rockets will try their luck away from home this week, going to Paducah to play that town's Dragon's Friday night, September 24.

While Paducah is reputed to have a fairly strong team, the Rockets are confident they have what it takes to handle them. This opinion is backed by Coaches John Bray, James Batchelor and John Lee.

The Dragon team is built around one exceptionally good passer, J. Sandlin, those who have seen the team play, report. A triple-threat backfield man, he can pass—and that is his long suite—or he can kick or run. And when he isn't taking care of the ball, his brother, T. Sandlin from right half position is looking after it. J. Sandlin is the heaviest man on the squad, weighing 165 pounds, while his brother is 10 pounds lighter.

In a game Friday night, Paducah lost to Crowell 21 to 18, but in the opening game of the season defeated Chillicothe 13 to 12.

Estimate for Season Over 25,000 Bales

Harvesting of Collingsworth County's cotton crop is running about two weeks ahead of the usual schedule, ginner in the south half of the county agreed this week, pointing out that this is the earliest that picking to any extent has gotten under way in a number of years.

More than 1,300 bales had been ginned south of Salt Fork River through Wednesday morning, ginner reported to The Wellington Leader.

On the whole, the crop is turning out better than was expected after dry weather set in, although the first picking in the sandy-land sections gave a poor turnout due to the dry weather.

Most of the cotton is grading middling seven-eighths to fifteen-sixteenths, and few of the farmers are putting their cotton in the loan so far. Cotton Wednesday was bringing around 30 cents.

Large numbers of Mexican workers are beginning to arrive in Wellington, and at present farmers are having no difficulty in getting pickers, they report at the gins. The present price of pulling is $2.00 per hundred.

On the whole, ginner and others who are watching the cotton crop believe the season's yield will be several thousand bales short of last year's 33,000 bale crop. Present estimates range from 24,000 up to 27,500, with most of the guesses ranging in the upper brackets.

Quail School to Dismiss Oct. 8

The Quail School will dismiss for the cotton picking vacation Friday, October 8, members of the school board decided at a meeting early this week, Noah Cunningham, superintendent, announced.

This will come at the end of the second month of school, unless the rapid opening of cotton should demand that it close sooner, Mr. Cunningham explained.

School will be dismissed for a six weeks period. In addition, the board decided on a one-week vacation at Christmas, instead of the two or three days heretofore given.

Mr. Cunningham and members of the board especially urged the parents to keep their children, and especially to return them after the cotton picking recess. It is very difficult for a child to pass his work if he does not attend regularly, it was pointed out.

Students were also urged to be in school Thursday for six week's examinations.

Mrs. Mildred Thomas Member of Amarillo School Faculty

Mrs. Mildred Thomas, the daughter of G. B. Clement of Wellington, received her bachelor of science degree at the close of the summer term of West Texas State College, and is now a member of the Amarillo School faculty.

Mrs. Thomas graduated with a major in primary education, but also did considerable study in the fields of music and art. She is teaching the third grade in one of the ward schools of Amarillo.

A teacher in this county several years ago, she was a member of the Clarendon faculty last year.

Mrs. Homer Yarbrough To Head Dodson Home Demonstration Club

The Dodson Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Ben Bogle on Tuesday, September 14, at two thirty o'clock.

Miss Joy Riley, home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration on the making and storing of sweet cream butter. A dairy thermometer should always be used. The correct temperature is between 55 degrees and 60 degrees. Cream churned at this temperature requires about twenty-five minutes, and when churned this length of time produces the best quality butter.

When storing butter in your frozen food locker, salt should not be added until ready for use, as it makes the butter become a bit rancid and uneven in color.

Officers were elected for the coming year. President: Mrs. Homer Yarbrough; vice-president, Mrs. Tolbert Painter; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Margaret Birchfield; reporter, Mrs. Elbert Warren; council delegate, Mrs. Bill Brewster; alternate delegate, Mrs. Bynum Hightower.

Plans were made to have exhibits at the Shamrock fair.

Present were: Mrs. Homer Yarbrough, Chester Wadley, Thurman Crowner, Tolbert Painter, Bill Brewster, Margaret Birchfield, Marvin Wynn, W. E. Brewster, Z. McKinney, Tom Bowling, Elbert Warren, Mrs. Bynum Hightower, Mrs. Frank Musick, Miss Riley, and hostess.

Buy a Skyrocket band plate—the money goes to help the band and besides it helps advertise our town.

Judge Howard Riggs said Wednesday that he had not been served any papers in connection with the Johnson-Stevenson injunction. The AP reported that Secretary of State Paul Brown still was enjoined from certifying Johnson's name. Also parties to the suit were all the election boards of the 254 counties.

That is about all I know about the history making election—if it turns out to be an election.

Congratulations to everyone who had a part in making the Jubilee Minstrels such a success. There were only two faults. The first was that the auditorium was too small and the acoustics were bad as they always have been since the building was built. There is nothing that can be done about that immediately unless next year's show is transferred to the Community Building, which will bring up other problems.

Members of the East Ward PTA have asked me to mention the second matter. This concerns cold drink bottles rolling down the floor disrupting the program. The solution to this is simple. Have a man at each door to notify the youngsters that they cannot take their cold drinks back into the auditorium. Let them drink it in the hall or outside the building. Simply refuse them admission back into the auditorium until they have finished their drink or set down the bottle. Enforce this completely one or two times and there will be no more trouble on this score.

If Providence is kind one Wells' family will increase from three to four before the March winds blow.

There is a lot published these days about country people moving to town. Louise and I have a different notion and plan to reverse the trend when circumstances and finances permit. With electricity and gas available to most farm homes, we can't see why anybody wants to move to town. We figure on digging a deep well to provide lots of water for the house and if it is of the right quality for irrigating a lawn, garden and flowers. We hope the paper will keep the farm going for the first few years, and after that we hope it will break even.

When you live in the country you can fall off a horse without everybody in the county knowing about it. Furthermore there won't be anybody moving government barracks in overnight. At Dick Wiley's barbecue I got a lot of ribbing about both things. One man said he figured that Howard Riggs had read the story about chickens in last week's Leader and was going to start raising chickens. I replied that I would not protest in the least but that if he did there would be quite a number of big chicken fries held in my backyard in the months and years before we move back to the farm.

John Coleman should write a book about his experiences during the war. He has all the dramatic material in the world in his memory. The success would depend upon arrangement and documentation.

Brothers Meet After 38 Years

Two brothers, C. R. Burney of the Lillie Community and L. W. Burney of Paris, met here recently after neither had known the other's whereabouts for 38 years. They were brought together by a newspaper clipping concerning a funeral.

The Lillie man, who with his family has lived here and in Wheeler County for more than 25 years, reported that it was a Sulphur Springs, Okla., newspaper that carried a funeral story, in which Mrs. Burney's name was mentioned. L. W. Burney, reading it, wrote her on the chance that it might lead him to his brother. It did.

The men were born at Batesville, Ark. L. W. Burney, the elder, is 68, and is a retired mail carrier. C. R. Burney, now 61, farms. Neither is able to explain how he came to lose track of the other.

Aside from the children, they have no other relatives. Their father came from London, England, many years ago on a sailing ship. Their mother came from Sweden.

Mrs. L. W. Burney accompanied her husband here. They have one daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Burney have six children, Lawrence Burney of Pampa, who with his wife and children, Margaret Ann and Morston, were here for the reunion; Miss Alla Mae Burney of Arizona; Mrs. Beatrice Smith of Pampa; Alma, Bud and Rosetta Burney, who live at home.

Cotton Merchant Vital to Marketing Nations Crop

DALLAS — Most of the cotton produced in this country today, says Edgar Kucera, president of the Dallas Cotton Exchange, is used far from the fields where it was harvested, and normally in prewar years about 40 per cent of it was used outside the United States. It is only the efficient and economical marketing system of the nation's cotton industry, says Mr. Kucera, which turns the ten-bale farmer's crop from a problem into a profitable harvest and lets him get the last possible dollar from his year's labor.

Not many people realize the extent of the services rendered by the cotton merchants to the cotton industry, from producer to consumer, says Kucera, who believes that far too few people know that all of these services cost less than 1 per cent of the total value of the nation's cotton crop.

Once a farmer sells his cotton to a merchant or to the merchant's representative, the street buyer, the farmer is no longer concerned with it. But the cotton itself has taken only the first step of a long and complicated marketing process requiring know-how so vast and intricate that cotton marketing has become a science in itself.

This know-how of the cotton merchants is not acquired over-ed church at Lillie Sunday morning. We are glad to see Mr. Harwell out after his recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Leathers of Cactus visited in the Luther Robertson home Sunday.

A. J. Ashton from Denver, Colo., is visiting in the G. D. Thomas home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Morrow and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Davis visited in the A. V. Jones home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Martin of Wellington visited in the M. J. Lowe home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Johnson and Rev. Greenwood visited in the Conn Hall home Sunday.

Crops in Lillie community are looking fine.

night, Kucera points out. More often it is passed down from father to son and from generation to generation. And the extreme mental training and the large amount of finger-tip information which mark the rugged competition among the merchants themselves separate the men from the boys early in the battle of the bales.

Even if the ten-bale farmer wanted to market his own cotton, it would be humanly impossible for him to perform single-handedly the hundreds of operations that are performed by the cotton merchants in order to determine the highest price for which his bales can be sold. He could not afford to pay for the necessary information which comes to the merchants from a hundred sources, and he would have little time left to do anything but read and study this information if he had it.

He would not have the experience required to grade his cotton for the highest possible price, and he would have to buy, at high cost, services that come cheaply to cotton merchants because of the great volume of cotton they handle.

The cotton merchant gets information from every available source on crops, weather, prices, international markets, politics, legislation, and all the other factors that influence the price of cotton. He is in the best possible position to know how much a bale of cotton is worth today, or how much it will be worth six months from now, and he is in the best position to know that he cannot bid too cheaply if he wants to buy that bale.

The merchant pays the freight, insurance, interest, warehousing, exporting, and other costs that get the cotton to the manufacturer, and, because he handles so much cotton, he is able to keep all these costs lower than an individual operator could hope to get them.

He buys the nation's cotton crop on a wide-open market and keeps the marketing cost down to a point where the consumer can afford to buy cotton products. The cotton merchants of the nation, through the cotton exchanges which they form, regulate their own activities and police their own trading in cotton to safeguard the public confidence built up by their long record of service to the industry.

Few activities, says Mr. Kucera, are as public or as democratic as the process of determining the price per pound of a bale of cotton. Because of this public and democratic marketing system, cotton is marketed more cheaply than any other commodity.

Coley Funeral Home to Hold Formal Opening

Formal opening of the new Coley Memorial Chapel, located at 225 North Main in Hollis has been set for this week end, Saturday and Sunday with visiting hours from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Sunday.

Conceived and built by J. M. and Harry Coley, the new funeral home was planned for the needs of its purpose, created to serve the people of this area in a manner befitting — insurroundings, equipment and service—each so important when occasion demands.

In opening this new service to the public, the Coleys, father and son, have striven to provide the best, everything included and this new home presents to the people of this section one of the most modern and complete funeral homes in the Southwest.

Though not the first to accept responsibility of funeral direction in Hollis, J. M. Coley did follow soon after on October 1, 1909. Since then he has followed the profession, joined by his son, Harry and his wife in 1929. Completion of the new funeral home, now reflects their confidence in the growth and development of Hollis and Southwest Oklahoma.

The building itself is of modern Spanish design, white stucco walls surmounted by characteristic red tile, pleasingly punctuated by convenient entrances so necessary for complete privacy.

Fully equipped, this new funeral home opens a new era of service to the public, free of former inconveniences and all at no extra cost or trouble to those seeking such service.

Already considered expert at funeral direction, the Coleys now

Questions on Veterans Aid

Q. May I go to a private hospital in my home town and have Veterans Administration pay the bill?

A. If you have a service-connected disability and have received prior approval from VA to do so, you may go to a private hospital in your home town at VA expense.

Q. Can I transfer my National Service Life Insurance policy to any of the private companies?

A. No. Your NSLI is convertible to one or more of the six permanent plans issued only by Veterans Administration. These are Ordinary Life, 30-Payment Life, 20-Payment Life, Endowment at Age 60, and Endowment at Age 65.

Q. Just which veterans are entitled to hospitalization in a Veterans Administration hospital?

A. Veterans with service-connected disabilities have a top priority for VA hospital care. Veterans with nonservice-connected ailments may be hospitalized under existing law if beds are available are in a position to render even greater service. Eager to please, their new funeral home is evidence of their wish to carry on the high tradition so important in a profession requiring so much skill.

Safety Expert Lists 20 Fire Prevention Rules

STILLWATER, Okla. — How many fires can you prevent through observance of safety precautions?

Chances are that you can aid in drastically reducing this form of accident in Oklahoma, reminds Dr. DeWitt Hunt, Oklahoma A. and M. College safety specialist.

Next to falls, fires account for more accidental home fatalities than any other cause in Oklahoma, Dr. Hunt says.

Observance of common safety rules will help to reduce this tragic loss of life in the state. Some of these rules are given below.

1. Provide chimneys and outside stovepipes with spark arresters.
2. Clean out soot from chimneys and stovepipes at regular intervals.
3. Free the attic and basement from fire-provoking rubbish.
4. Keep the woodbox well away from the stove.
5. Install metal or asbestos mat under the stove.
6. Keep matches in metal containers and out of reach of the children.
7. Repair sagging, leaky stovepipes and poor joints.
8. Keep ashes in metal containers.
9. Protect walls and ceilings from too much heat by installing ventilators at the point where the pipe passes through the wood.
10. Never use kerosene or gasoline to start a fire. Better be safe than sorry.
11. Keep emergency electrical connections properly hung. Do not use nails to hang such connections.
12. Set lamps out securely from the wall and away from the ceiling.
13. Store gasoline only in red cans. Preferably, store only a small quantity near the home or farm buildings.
14. Always fill gas tanks and oil stoves outdoors.
15. Check to make certain that the lightning rods are properly installed and kept in good condition.
16. Make certain to have fire extinguishers near engines which operate near the barn.
17. Make a secure fireproof place to hang the lantern where it cannot be tipped or kicked over.
18. Positively forbid smoking in the barn and in bed.
19. Examine the hay periodically for heating. Follow this rule especially for the two months following haying.
20. Use common sense in cutting down on the farm fire hazards. Do something about a fire prevention program now, today.

cooled dormitories and all recreational facilities of the Arabian-American Oil Company are available to them. These include club houses, swimming pools, gymnasiums, baseball and other forms of recreation.

The climate is extremely dry, Sisk has been told. Oil and construction companies are now drilling water wells in this desert country—the first that the Arabians have ever known. Grass and trees must be brought in from other countries.

The temperature varies from around 40 degrees up to 125 degrees.

Employees of the construction and oil companies spend most of their time within limited areas, having little contact with the native residents of the country. They have been especially warned by their employers that they must not involve themselves in native affairs, particularly those of a political nature.

Sisk is the son of Mrs. A. G. Sisk of Wellington. He graduated from high school in 1942, and except for short periods when he lived in Indianapolis and Amarillo, Wellington has been his home all his life.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church at Hollis, with the Rev. Wilford Jones, pastor, in charge, assisted by the Rev. Richard Hopper, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Pall bearers were Dewey Malone, Fred Boyd, Bob Scott, Murry Briscoe, Carl Harris, Alton Coppage, Floyd Teutsch and Joe Wilson. Burial was in the Fairmont cemetery at Hollis under the direction of the Coley Funeral Home.

In addition to her husband and little daughter, Mrs. Smith is survived by her father and step-mother; two sisters, Mrs. Oscar Mints of Paducah, and Mrs. W. C. Shive of Fort Worth; and three half sisters, Nan Shultz, Joanne Shultz and D'Lois Shultz of Vernon.

CARS SPAN GROWTH OF DETROIT SKYLINE

Check Your Car for Safety as First Step in Safe Driving, Say Experts

"To save your life," said Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, "you couldn't think of a more logical traffic safety rule than this: Drive a safe car."

W. J. Elliott, Chief of the Texas Highway Patrol, requests every motorist in the community to "Check your car . . . check accidents." This is the slogan of the Texas Highway Patrol is carrying on as part of a year-round safety educational program. The continuing program is part of a nation-wide traffic safety promotion of the National Safety Council.

"When you 'check your car' to 'check accidents,'" Captain Polk Ivy of the Amarillo Dist. Office of the Texas Highway Patrol, said, "Make sure that the following parts either are in safe operating condition or that needed repairs or replacements are made at once: headlights, tail and stop lights, brakes, steering assembly, muffler and exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers, rear-view mirror, tires and horn."

The Texas Highway Patrol suggests these questions to check your car's safety score:

1. Are you a one-eyed driver? Is the light cut down by lights shooting up in the air to blind oncoming motorists?
2. Are your tail lights clean and bright, and stop lights in good working order?
3. Is your braking power good enough to stop your car in an emergency—for instance, if a child should run into your path? At 20 m.p.h. you should be able to stop in thirty feet. Brakes should be balanced so they take hold evenly on all wheels without "grabbing."
4. How is your steering and wheel alignment? Too much play in the wheel is a danger sign, and running against curbs or driving on rutty roads can get wheels out of alignment before you know it.
5. What about your muffler and exhaust system? Even if the muffler is not getting noisy—a sure sign of wear—the system should be checked frequently to be sure no carbon monoxide gas is leaking into the car.
6. Are your windshield and windows clean and clear? They're made to see through, you know. So keep them clear of dirt, discoloration and ornamental stickers.
7. And your windshield wipers? It can't always be fair weather. Don't risk having to "drive blind" should a storm catch you with wipers in need of repair.
8. How about your tires? Are they properly inflated, well mated, with good treads, and without cuts, blisters and exposed fabric?

W. E. Patterson bought a six-foot disk plow here the other day, to use in plowing out fence rows, and small patches on his place down the Dodson highway.

Our stock of binder parts is getting a good play this fall. Not only selling lots of them to the folks around here, but one man flew here from Borger, and the Pampa dealer got some scarce parts from us. Local binder men—G. R. Roberts, Hollis Porter, C. G. Lewis, Vernon Peters, O. L. San-difer, M. N. Keys, Paul Wofford, Leo Thomas, W. A. Holder, Lee Roark, Troy Goodbey, G. A. Spur-lin, C. E. Bradley, were in here after parts during the past few days.

R. A. Barton came in Saturday and bought a McCormick-Deering 4-wheel rubber tired trailer from us. Mr. Barton had looked around extensively and decided this was the best bargain in a trailer he could find anywhere.

Lots of tractor parts going out now, as feed harvesting, plowing, drilling, and other jobs are going on. Last week L. F. Watts, L. C. Hill, Horace Small, W. M. Dufey, E. R. Powell, Frank Coleman, Jr., Randolph Hunt, J. A. Coleman, John Robert Henard, Lester Harwell, J. F. Bishop, Earl Hunter, F. C. Fuson, W. W. McClaskey, C. M. Terry, C. W. Gam-mill, J. C. East, C. A. Amerson, J. L. Langley, and others were here after parts for their Farmall tractors.

Osa Black brought his Farmall MD diesel tractor to the shop Saturday. During the last few days Roy Thompson brought his Farmall M to us, Albert Adkins brought in his Farmall F-20 cylinder head for a valve reconditioning job, S. K. Parsons sent his Farmall H to our shop, and H. L. Tollett his Farmall B.

Appliances Need Plenty of Outlets

COLLEGE STATION — With the steady increase in rural electrification, a new and very large electrical appliance market has opened. As soon as the farm or ranch house is wired for electricity, the average family starts to buy electrical equipment.

The Rural Electrification Administration says that the rural housewife first invests in better lighting equipment, such as floor and table lamps. Then comes an electric iron, a radio or a radio-phonograph. Refrigerators and washing machines come next—these are items that are more expensive and usually take a little budgeting.

The installation of an electric water system in the home is usually planned next. Mrs. Bernice Claytor, extension home management specialist of Texas A. & M. College, says the electric water system is one of the greatest time and labor savers for the rural homemaker, even though its installation usually comes after the purchase of other items.

Mrs. Claytor points out that with new electrical appliances in the home, care must be taken to prevent plugging too many into one outlet. It pays to have enough outlets, as overloading cuts down on the current, means less power, dim lights and may blow a fuse.

Plenty of conveniently placed outlets will cut down on potential accidents, too, she says, as there will be no need for long extension cords, which are unsightly, inconvenient and dangerous. The best time to install the outlets is when the house is wired.

MOLDBOARD PLOWS

DIRECT CONNECTED TO TRACTOR

Roy and I went out to Al Thompson's place last week with one of these H-190 16-inch direct-connected moldboard plows on Earl Hunter's Farmall H tractor, and demonstrated to ours and Al's satisfaction that this combination will plow terraces, contours, or anywhere else that you want to plow.

This is a low priced plow with everything any moldboard plow needs. It's flexible, and lets you turn short, or follow contour and terrace lines. The power lift makes it easy to handle.

We enjoyed both the visit and the watermelon.

Fred Bourland and Osa Black were in early in the week to get the 2-row binder Osa bought some time ago.

F. N. Lemley was in the store for some truck parts the other day.

G. H. Brewer, Buster Fillpot, George W. Smith, Herbert Knoll, J. F. Simpson, Grady Below, John Jones, and many others were in here during the past week after combine, one-way, drill and other parts and binder twine.

A. & M. College Concerned with Pasture Lands

Pastures either established or maintained by such cultural treatment as seeding and fertilizing are the concern of the A. & M. College Department of Agronomy, according to Robert R. Lancaster, extension pasture specialist of Texas A. and M. College.

These pastures are supplemental, permanent, renovation, rotation and irrigated pastures. Supplemental pastures are annual grasses and legumes in rotation with other crops. Among them are the cereal grains, ryegrass, rescuegrass, with legumes for cool seasons, and for warm seasons, lespedeza, sudangrass, and johnsongrass with sweet-clover.

Permanent pastures occupy large areas not suited to other use. Too much is short, thin, weedy and rundown. Improving and maintaining running sod grasses in such locations aids in conservation. They may include overflow bottoms, stump land, rock land and hills.

Renovation is improving rundown permanent pastures by fertilizing and overseeding without total cultivation. Open, smooth land, well drained and with enough rainfall is most suitable for renovation. Re-treatment may need be every 3 to 4 years.

Rotation pastures are a recent development in Texas. The rotation involved is with row-crops after several years in pasture. This calls for grasses worthy in yield and quality of the best land.

Suitable grasses must be easy to plant and easy to get rid of. Grasses available for rotation are rhodegrass, KR bluestem, blue panic, weeping lovegrass, johnsongrass, kentucky 31 rescue and others are in prospect. Alfalfa, sericea lespedeza and Madrid sweet-clover are legumes that might be used.

Rotating pastures with row-crops offers much in forage production and in soil building, says Lancaster.

E. H. Dodson Describes Old Cowboys Reunion at Enid

Dear Deck,

When I visited you in your home the other day I was on the eve of going to Enid, Okla., to the old cowboys reunion and told you I would send you details of same. The parade was started at 10 a.m. which was great. First were three cars in front, next was five ladies carrying flags. Next was Governor Kerr of Okla., who is a candidate for the U. S. Senate. Next was Joe Rizler, member of Congress. Next was a convoy of soldiers and powerful guns. Next was a brass band, the finest I have ever seen. Then came an old wagon with a little Dobie house built on it with inscription on it "My Little Old Sod Shanty on the Plains." As I stood there this verse of song came to me:

I haven't long to stay here but what little time I have

I will try and be contented to remain.

Though the coyotes howl around me

When I lay me down to sleep

In my Little Old Sod Shanty on the Plains.

Then some other brass band. And there were several brass bands. There were many things together with many Indians. Then came the horses and the old stage coach that used to run agency South of the Cimarron River. It was used on that road when I worked in that country back in the early eighties. Some very fine horses they were from different towns all over that county and each bunch of horses were designated by the color of shirts the riders wore. The Indians were dressed in very gaudy colors and their horses wore traf-

Jubilee Minstrels Prove Howling Success in Both Mirth and Money

Wellington's first East Ward PTA sponsored Jubilee Minstrels turned out to be a howling success both from the standpoint of entertainment and finances as some thirty of Wellington's prominent citizens cavorted before a delighted audience at the high school auditorium Monday night.

The show was the sole fund raising event that will be sponsored by the East Ward PTA during the current school year. Mrs. Heber Brantley, who was in charge of finances, announced Tuesday that the show had grossed over $641 with some ticket money still outstanding and not counting sale of cokes and candy.

The minstrel was directed by Mrs. Noel Bryant and Mrs. Pat Swift and was put on in a manner that would have done credit to professionals.

It would be unfair to single out any one single act as the hit of the show; for every number brought tumultuous applause.

Horace Small received the most encores for his buck and wing tap dances and finally barked like a mule when he was called back for a third time. Raymond Horton probably got the most belly laughs for his clowning; but Tom Bryant

Approximately 125 future farmers and their guests attended the annual Greenbelt F. F. A. district banquet that was held at the Community Building Thursday evening, September 16.

Preceding the banquet, an officer training school was held at the high school during the afternoon by the Greenbelt district. Instruction in the duties and responsibilities and the meaning of each office was given for each district officer.

Guest speakers at the banquet were James Cruce, Cotton Center, area president, and Leroy Thornberg, White Deer, state F. F. A. vice-president. Area supervisor, O. T. Ryan commended the local chapter for its activities starting the new year. The Wellington group is out ahead of all the other eight in the area, he stated.

Mr. Cruce emphasized the advantages for boys in F. F. A. work. He stressed that work in the chapters gave one an opportunity for awards, competition, leadership training, character building, citizenship, speaking ability, self confidence, sportsmanship, and that it enables a boy to become a property owner.

F. F. A. work helps the community by raising the living standards, through soil improvement knowledge, keeps the boys in school and improves the quality of livestock throughout the community since most future farmers raise registered livestock, Mr. Cruce stated.

Mr. Thornberg outlined the state goals and aims in F. F. A. work. The state is interested in increasing supervised farming, wants the boys to take advantage of the livestock awards that are offered, and is endeavoring to develop more leadership, scholarship and public speaking ability.

Toastmaster for the evening was Clyde Cason of the Wellington (Continued on Page Eight)

Attention Car Owners

Looks like the prospects of everyone getting rich this fall has changed considerable in the last month. And that it would not be a BAD IDEA to give more careful thought to how much you are spending on each repair job on your Car or Tractor.

I believe it would be worth your time to come down and get our figures on any repair work you might happen to need—either on your car or Tractor. Whether large or small. We are equipped to handle most any job you might happen to need.

I keep a stock of Jeeps on hand at all times. And will be glad to give you a demonstration at any time. I also carry a line of Factory replacement parts now and will have anything you might happen to need as soon as they become available. Such as farming equipment. There is no end to what a Jeep can be used for if you will investigate.

Don't forget: The Jeeps that are sold by Authorized Dealers carry the Factory GUARANTEE: Something you cannot get when you purchase from other places.

I have Two good mechanics—Vernon Rudy and Virgil Shaw. Both of whom have had several years experience on practically every make of Car or Tractor who will be glad to work for you and will do their best to give you work that will make you want to come back.

I have several used cars—A trailer house and a good 1942 Ford 1½ ton truck on hand that someone besides myself needs to own. So come down and lets see what we can do.

Editorial

One of the state's leading business economists has just released a review of Texas and Southwestern industrial and trade conditions which most observers so far accept as a true and correct analysis. The report is by Dr. Robert W. French, head of the Texas University Bureau of Business Research. Dr. French keeps close touch with business concerns, government agencies, farm and labor conditions.

According to Dr. French, the business index in Texas established a new peacetime record in July—6 per cent above the previous high in January, 1946. But with the exception of inflation, this authority says the trend is downward. He points out that volume is slackening off, although the dollar values indicate that business is on the increase. And he says that further downturns, both in volume and prices, seem to be in the cards.

But Dr. French does not say when the downturn will set in in noticeable degree—there are too many unpredictable factors involved in the whole pattern of state business to venture a definite prediction on dates, or the first industries to be affected.

He confines his positive statement concerning the future to saying "there is little chance for further expansion of a typical, healthy prosperity." He lists the causes of business prosperity as booming industrial and agricultural production, increases in foreign trade, domestic purchasing power, building, and capital expansion. Inflation, which still remains unchecked, he places as the intangible which could change the picture. Other uncertainties affecting the business picture are the unsettled differences

Buck Creek Philosopher

Dear editor:

I read in a copy of a paper which I absent-mindedly picked up off a cafe counter in Wellington Saturday and will return the next time I get back into town about the run-down farm up in Wisconsin which was miraculously made in a few days by the government, and I been thinkin about the matter.

Up there, the government organized all its help, and at daybreak showed up at the farm with hundreds of workers and started tearin down and rebuildin barns, remodelled the house, terraced the land with twenty bulldozers, built new fences, installed modern plumbing, added new equipment in the kitchen, dug a well, graveled the road, swung new gates, etc.

When they got through they rubbed their hands in admiration and figured up the cost, which come to slightly over $20,000.

Now I ain't got no objection to any farmer gettin that kind of handout from the government, can't get too many hand-outs to suit me as long as they're passed around, a old age pension check is the greatest invention since free garden seed, except they wait too long to classify a man as old, old age ought to start at 45 instead of 65, but I will appreciate you tellin the government officials if they are plannin on any such kind of demonstration on my farm out here on Buck Creek, and I believe I can prove there ain't no farm anywhere in Collingsworth county and probably Texas which needs demonstratin on worse than mine, it would suit me a lot better and they could do it without goin to a lot of trouble and work if they'd just mail me the $20,000 and let the blamed farm keep on degeneratin.

I don't like to see the government waste money, and spendin money to improve my place is about like tryin to put a windshield wiper on a walkin plow, and while it might be nice to have the house painted, I'd much rather just have the money and if I'd wanted it painted very bad I'd a done it myself long ago. It might even help my farm to have it terraced, but I say let the weeds shift for themselves and if they can't eke out a livin on a washed-out hill side let em die.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Full Feeding Encouraged by Price Outlook

Plentiful supplies of feeds at prices much lower than a year ago, and the continued relatively high prices of meat and milk should encourage feeding for maximum production, livestock authorities agree.

Extremely small livestock numbers, large feed production and expected demand for meat and milk greatly exceeding the indicated supply are conditions indicating that it will be unusually profitable to feed for fast gains, good finish and maximum production. Full feeding of rations containing adequate protein will take advantage of early marketing during the current shortage of fed animals.

Careful management and feeding are essential, however, to take full advantage of this situation. A. L. Ward, Educational Director of the National Cottonseed Products Association, points out. Costs of feeder animals and breeding stock, labor and equipment make it necessary to use sound judgment and reduce expenses to a minimum.

Proper use of protein concentrates, such as cottonseed meal, pellets or cake, is one effective way to increase production and reduce costs. Adequate protein in fattening rations makes faster gains, more gain per pound of feed and higher finish.

Milk production of the dairy herd and beef cows is increased through liberal feeding of cottonseed meal or cake to supplement grains, dry roughages and grasses. Protein also helps the herd to breed regularly and produce healthier, heavier offspring. Cottonseed meal in the concentrate mixture for dairy cows not only increases production, but also reduces costs by increasing efficiency of other feeds and grazing.

With swine, balancing the ration with adequate protein produces more pork from less feed; fattens animals faster; and helps sows to breed regularly, produce larger litters and produce more milk to nurse the litter.

Cottonseed meal and cake have been tested by many Experiment Stations, as well as through years of extensive use on farms and ranches. Their value has been proved by such results as:

In balanced fattening rations, 100 pounds of cottonseed meal saves 250 to 300 pounds of grains.

At the Kansas Experiment Station, recent work indicated that one pound of cottonseed cake produced 3-4 of a pound of additional gain when 1 1-2 pounds of cottonseed cake were fed daily to steers on range grass that was plentiful but dry and mature (deficient in protein).

Supplemental feeding, principally cottonseed cake, to range brood cows at the California Experiment Station materially increased the size of the calf crop and calf weights.

Licensed Dealer Can Help Butane Users in Appliance Changes

With the coming of cool weather, J. E. Walling, Jr., president of the Texas Butane Dealers Association, issued a warning to users and prospective users of butane and propane gas against trying to convert natural gas appliances to the use of butane and propane, due to the radical differences in the two gases, and the difference in design of the two types of appliances.

"Not only is this practice illegal according to the regulations of the Gas Utilities Division of the Texas Railroad Commission, but it is also unsafe and minimizes the efficiency of such appliances," he explained.

"Since butane and propane both have certain characteristics which require special engineering adaptations in burner construction, it is considered unwise and hazardous for inexperienced and non-licensed persons to install or adjust appliances using these fuels. Persons getting ready for the winter should have a licensed fuel dealer check their installations and appliances first," stated Walling.

He pointed out that all crews would be extremely busy after the first cold spell and suggested all persons have their equipment checked early.

Our Policy on PONTIAC Deliveries and Prices

Despite the fact that Pontiac has built over a half-million cars since the resumption of production after the war, demand still exceeds supply. In the face of this production record, those who place orders now will still experience some delay in delivery. If you are among the many people who feel that Pontiac represents an outstanding value—and wish to order a Pontiac for future delivery—you will be interested in the following policy on retail distribution which we, as Pontiac dealers, will observe:

WE WANT YOUR ORDER

And the sooner you place it, the sooner you will get delivery. So if you want a Pontiac, order it now.

WE WILL ESTIMATE DELIVERY DATE

Due to conditions beyond our control, we cannot give you an exact date of delivery. But based on anticipated future shipments from the factory, we will, when you place your order, give you an honest estimate of when you may expect your car. Such estimates will be reviewed any time on request.

Since this is our "home town", our business and its future is based on our good relations with the people of this community. We are most happy that so many people here—as all over the country—have made Pontiac their number one choice as a new car.

ORDERS FILLED BY PRIORITY

A definite proportion of the cars we receive from the factory is set aside for preferential delivery to users whose work is in the public welfare and to others with certain occupational requirements. Otherwise, all orders will be filled on the basis of the time when they are received.

YOU PAY ONLY OUR ADVERTISED PRICE

Due to changing economic conditions, we cannot, when you place your order, tell you exactly how much the car will cost when delivered in the future. But, at the time of delivery you will be charged only our advertised price on your model—which will be shown in a published list of local prices.

YOU SPECIFY ACCESSORIES

While most of our customers order their cars equipped with accessories, we do not force accessories as a condition of sale. You specify what accessories you want when ordering your car, and these are the ones (and the only ones) it will carry when delivered. Some items may be lacking due to current shortages; but none will be added.

REGARDING TRADE-INS

Naturally, if you have a car to trade, we would like to have it in order to take care of our regular used car customers. Our appraisals are fair, based on current conditions. But if you do not have a car to turn in, we still want your order and will accept it for delivery based on the conditions outlined above.

"Paradine Case" Ritz Feature for Mystery Fans

Hollywood's most authentic set, London's Old Bailey criminal court, was completed after 85 days of construction for scenes in the David O. Selznick production of Alfred Hitchcock's "The Paradine Case" which will be seen at the Ritz Theatre Sunday and Monday, September 26 and 27.

Authentic even to the scratches on the woodwork, the reconstruction of Old Bailey represents the work of 17,000 man hours in all crafts. More than 56,000 board feet of lumber, veneer and masonite as well as thousands of dollars worth of paint, wallpaper, and other materials were used in a minute duplication of the court.

A. W. Burt, first administrative official ever to be loaned by the Corporation of London to act as a film adviser, assisted Hitchcock in verifying all details of the 2600 square foot set.

Old Bailey criminal court is the background for scenes featuring Gregory Peck, Ann Todd, Charles Laughton, Ethel Barrymore, Chas. Coburn, and two new stars, Louis Jordan and Valli.

"The Paradine Case" is the suspenseful story of a British murder trial in which a strange, exotic woman is accused of poisoning her blind husband and a brilliant barrister risks her career and marriage to defend her.

Alfred Hitchcock's "The Paradine Case" is the production in which multiple photography is being used for the first time. Multiple camera photography has been used previously but all the cameras have been trained on the same subject. Hitchcock's method achieves enormously increased benefits to the players who are enabled to perform precisely as if they were acting in a stage performance.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Nicest Compliment I've Had

One of the nicest comments I've received about this column was from an editor in the Middle West I called on. And while I don't like to give myself orchids, I think it illustrates a point.

"Joe," he said, "it so happens I don't agree with everything you say, but I always like to run your column. Because it gets down to earth and talks about the right to disagree. And it only asks for tolerance towards the other person's point of view."

He went on to explain, by way of illustration, that he never had happened to have a taste for ale or beer. But that when I spoke of the right to enjoy a moderate beverage like beer, well, he was right there with me!

And from where I sit, that's the important thing: not whether you share another person's tastes or point of view—but whether you recognize his right to exercise a free choice in a free land.

Phillips Downs Rockets By 32 to 0 Score Sept 17

By PRISCILLA CHASE
The Wellington Skyrockets took a 32-0 trouncing from the Phillips Blackhawks Friday night, September 17, at Powell Field in a non-conference game.

The Blackhawks started their scoring spree early in the first quarter on a completed pass into the end zone from the 12-yard line, broke loose in the second quarter for a score-happy period of three touchdowns, and recovered a Wellington fumble late in the third inning setting the stage for the fifth and last touchdown of the game.

Gaston Williams returned the Blackhawk kickoff 32 yards for the opening play of the game, but the Skyrockets failed to pick up yardage and the Blackhawks took over the ball deep in Wellington territory.

The Phillips team rolled up three consecutive first downs to the Wellington 11-yard line where the Blackhawks were stalled by two fumbles which they recovered. Rogers Melton and Cameron Beam stopped Phillips M. Eldridge on the line of scrimmage on the third down try, but Eldridge faded back into the end zone and received the touchdown toss thrown by B. Hughes from the Skyrockets 12-yard line. Hughes successfully converted giving the Blackhawks a 7-0 lead.

Once more the ball went over to the Blackhawks on downs and each team then picked up a first down starting the game into the eventful second quarter. A completed pass and two Skyrocket pass interceptions by the Phillips eleven set up the half time score of 25-0.

Hughes hit Eldridge for a completed pass, and Eldridge broke into the clear for the 20-yard touchdown run. Try for extra point was no good but on the next play a Phillips man flew in to intercept a pass thrown by B. McCutchen on the Skyrocket 35-yard line.

Hughes passed to J. Ussery, and the Blackhawks once more galloped back over the goal stripe. Again the try for extra point was no good, but the Phillips team would not be stopped and two plays later B. Braden intercepted a pass from McCutchen intended for Williams on the Skyrocket 40-yard line.

Braden ran the ball to the 9-yard line where K. Strickland got him down. Ussery went over from the 2-yard line two plays later, and Hughes converted for the second time giving the Blackhawks a 26-0 lead.

The Skyrockets rallied in the second half slowing down the Blackhawks. Williams picked up a first down in the opening plays and Gene Moore picked up another before the Blackhawks swarmed in to stop the penetration.

Eldridge's following attacks were slowed by O'Neil and Williams, but the Blackhawks gained possession of the ball again by recovering a Skyrocket fumble. Eldridge broke away for a long brilliant gallop but he was dropped on the 10-yard line by O'Neil. The last touchdown followed, and the Blackhawks try for extra point was blocked but they held the game at 32-0 through a scoreless final quarter.

George Schoff recovered a Phillips fumble in the fourth quarter and Williams intercepted a Blackhawk pass, but the Skyrockets failed to score.

EVER SEE AN ICE STORM Inside A PIPE LINE?

High pressure natural gas pipe lines may be subject to miniature ice storms when outside temperatures drop to 40 or 50 degrees. If permitted to continue, the ice would ultimately choke off the flow of gas through the line. That's because particles of water mixed with certain petroleum vapors in high pressure pipe lines will freeze at temperatures far above the normal freezing point of 32 degrees.

Nearly all natural gas contains moisture as it leaves the well, so it is necessary to install such facilities as heaters, separators and dehydrators to remove the liquids and vapors before the gas is placed in pipe lines for movement to market. This is one of many functions of the United Gas organization—all of which have the ultimate purpose of assuring a dependable supply of natural gas for our customers.

UNITED GAS ...
Serving the Gulf South

A heater must be installed at each high pressure well to prevent freezing of moisture contained in the gas.

The wet gas passes into a separator where it expands and drops its free liquids.

Water vapors are removed in a dehydrator, which contains materials that soak up the vapors like a sponge.

"Zero-Zero" to "CAVU"

By BILL HUGHES

In spite of the wind and snail's pace interest, Marian Air Park and Kane's School of Aviation are still with us. That the elements might have done much more damage than they did is one of those intangible blessings that help but do not seem able to erase the factual material damage.

Fortunately, the damage to the city hangar will be cared for by insurance. Then combine the insurance with the ingenious fertile brain of our inimitable "Prometheus," it will come back to usefulness considerably more substantial.

Not quite so fortunate, Tom's cub, a veteran trusty cog of American aviation, though not considerably damaged, had to have a new propeller and a number of stitches taken without benefit of insurance. While "Old Faithful" is back in the air good as new, Tom's pocket book suffered another fray.

As usual, he faced this added burden with his usual stoic grin and stated that he was still in there pitching for bigger and better aviation at Wellington.

To date he has graduated eight private pilots. I'll guarantee that they have a flight education and training behind them inferior to none and better than most. Few instructors, if any, have the interest and welfare of their students more at heart than Tom Kane, who is one of those rare birds that actually place in practice human values above the dollar sign. His equipment, though not spectacular nor large, is sound and is maintained in accordance with the highest standards and practices. He takes no short cuts in maintenance for the sake of profits but, rather, often goes beyond minimum CAA requirements to satisfy his own idea of maximum safety precautions.

Besides Jack Strong, Hiram Cudd, Charlie Caldwell, Weldon Cleveland, Pete Melton, and Louis Patterson, all of whom have successfully passed their private pilot's license, Orval Vaughn and Beryl Faulkner have soloed, with Herman Terry and Nance Hughes not far behind them. In passing, it might be of interest to note that Tom has never yet failed to have one of his students who have gone up for a license fail to get it on the first try. Further more unlike a machine that when its worn out its finished, once you've got the know how of flying you've got it for keeps—and the more you use it the better it gets.

Newcastle Disease Attacks Poultry

COLLEGE STATION — Texas poultry flocks are being attacked by a fairly new disease for this area. It's called Newcastle disease or "P-E" disease. Newcastle disease may affect chickens, turkeys, pheasants, pigeons, and maybe even quail, says Dr. W. C. Banks, extension veterinarian of Texas A. & M. College.

First diagnosed just two years ago in Texas, it has been reported in nearly all parts of the state since then.

"P-E" disease is a virus. It moves around from one bird to another by contact, feed, water, air, and probably through the egg. Lice and mites may also be carriers, as well as recovered birds.

The disease often shows up first in the young chicks, and about the first thing you'll notice is a breathing disturbance something like bronchitis. Then, from two to five days later, nervous symptoms begin to show up. You might not notice the bronchitis, says Dr. Banks, but you probably won't miss the paralysis of the birds. Most often it's in the legs, wings or neck. And when the disease paralyzes the neck, there is a twisting or cork-screw appearance. Sometimes the neck turns upward or is twisted down between the legs.

If any birds in your flock show any of these symptoms, better call a veterinarian right away. He can tell you for sure if it's Newcastle disease. In flocks four to five weeks old, there may be around a 20 percent death rate. With younger birds it's higher, and with older ones it won't be that much.

In laying flocks there may be only a few deaths, but you'll notice a big drop in egg production for three or four weeks.

Scientists are still working on a vaccine for Newcastle disease. So far there isn't much for the poultrymen on control, except to remove diseased birds and quarantine the houses and brooders. Sometimes it's necessary to remove all poultry for 60 to 90 days and disinfect the houses with a lye solution (one pound of lye to 6 or 7 gallons of water) or a lysol solution (one pint of lysol to 10 gallons of water).

Good flock management by Texas poultrymen can go a long way in curbing Newcastle disease, says Dr. Banks. Here are a few things that will give the birds a better chance of surviving. Lower the feed troughs and watering devices. Keep the chicken house clean. Supply plenty of cool, clean water, and feed a complete ration.

These things will lower your flocks chances of getting "P-E" disease, but if they do get it, they will have a better chance of pulling through.

and Goat Hopper ran him a close second.

John King kept the crowd in stitches as he preached a so-called sermon in the best darky tradition ably seconded by Elder E. W. Jones.

Other outstanding numbers were those of Patsy Smith, Mrs. Pat Swift, Peck White and the playing of King Bowen's orchestra. But the work of Alvin Horton, Dr. Chas. B. Jones and S. R. Pinkston was equally effective.

In fact there was not a single dull moment in the whole performance. The only criticism that could be leveled at it was that the auditorium was too small and the crowd was too large.

ings to match the Indians' dress. Many Wickrys were erected on this courthouse. The number of horses were recorded at one thousand under saddle. And I'm sure there was that number. Not one old cowboy did I see that worked on the old Cherokee strip. When I went there it seemed that they had all been bunched and drifted to that land beyond the river that they all call the sweet forever and I alone survive. And the same stars will be shining out on the old Cimarron tonight that shined the nights I sang to the Texas longhorns.
