Armed Arabs Seize Six Israeli Hostages

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Five Arab terrorists took over the Israeli embassy today, seizing six hostages, but government sources said the invaders agreed nine hours later to release the hostages in return for a safe conduct out of Thailand.

The hostages included Shimon Avimor, Israeli ambassador to Cambodia.

Thailand police entered the embassy tonight.

The government negotiated with Pan American World Airways to take the Arabs to their unknown destination.

Thailand military officers said they were trying to arrange for a Thai or Egyptian airline to fly the men to Cairo if Pan American did not do so.

In the first of today's events, the Arabs gained access to the compound. Two wore formal white tie and tails, as if they were going to attend today's investiture of Prince Vajiralongkorn as heir to the throne.

They were granted ready access and were joined by three other armed Arabs, who climbed a wall.

The invaders threatened to kill the hostages and blow up the embassy unless 36 Palestinian prisoners were released from Israeli prisons.

About 400 Thai police and army troops with guard dogs surrounded the compound.

The terrorists earlier had vowed to "fight to the end" rather than release the hostages.

The Thai government offered the Arabs safe conduct out of the country if they would release the hostages.

Details of what evolved from this were not immediately clear.

One report was that Thai officials and the Egyptian ambassador reached agreement with the Black September terrorists guaranteeing them safe passage if they released the hostages unharmed. But Pan American had refused to carry the Arabs if they were armed, police said.

The Israeli government had said it would not submit to blackmail and release prisoners.

Two of the terrorists wore white tie and tails, posing as diplomats returning from the investiture today of the crown prince of Thailand.

They walked through the embassy gate and "bowed and smiled to me," said Pvt. Sunchai Pienkana, the policeman on guard there.

Sunchai said he then saw two other men climb over a side wall of the embassy compound.

President Changing Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is planning changes in its wage-price controls, but it still doesn't know what to do about rising food costs.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said Wednesday that if it weren't for rising food prices, inflation would have subsided enough to justify a wage increase guideline lower than the current 5.5 per cent.

Economics officials said the administration probably will change the profit-margin rule, phase out rent controls and change the coverage of the wage-price control program.

Administration officials are consulting with labor and business leaders in advance of the changes.

But rising food prices apparently have everyone baffled.

"If you had to pick one theme running through the consultations, there were three problems mentioned—food, food and food," said Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council.

A high council source said that whatever decisions are made on food costs, controls on farm products probably would be avoided.

Shultz said the administration would try to increase food supplies while keeping farm incomes steady.

Among the measures being considered, a source said, are increased acreage allotments, revised farm subsidy policies, and changes in tariffs and import quotas.

Shultz said any single action would not solve the problem.

How the profit-margin rule will be changed was not disclosed, but the council source said the existing rule can't be retained.

It provides that a company cannot exceed its percentage of profit recorded during the best two of the three fiscal years prior to the August 1971 wage-price freeze.

Businessmen have complained that profits were not good in those years, which leaves them in a low profit position now.

THOUSANDS PAY RESPECTS

Harry Truman Buried After Simple Service

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — After simple funeral services devoid of eulogy, former President Harry S. Truman was buried today in the courtyard of the Truman Library in the presence of his closest friends.

The people of Independence — and some who had traveled hundreds of miles — still were streaming past the bier where Truman was lying in state when the doors closed.

Unofficial estimates were that upward of 30,000 men, women and children had paid their last respects to the 33rd president. The lines stretched more than a mile until after 3 a.m. and grew again in the morning.

Mrs. Truman, who had been secluded in her grief in the house they shared for 53 years, had a restless night, a family spokesman said. "She is making family decisions and participating in the last-minute things that come before any family funeral," he added.

The 87-year-old widow was to be at the final rite, beginning with a 45-minute service at 2 p.m. CST.

Only 250 guests were invited, a few with national renown, but mostly the people Truman knew most intimately in his 88 years.

The last events were in keeping with the unpretentious solemnity that has marked the days since Truman's death Tuesday after a three-week illness.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Foreign doctors say enough medical personnel and supplies are on hand to ward off any typhoid or typhus epidemic in the earthquake-devastated Nicaraguan capital.

"There is no epidemic in Managua today," said Dr. Juan Jose Chari of Panama. "We are probably going to avoid an outbreak of diseases."

U.S. relief officials expressed satisfaction with the arrival of tons of grain, flour and powdered milk. Nicaraguan officials said more trucks were needed to get the food to 19 distribution points set up outside the city to draw persons away from the ruins.

They said supplies were piled up at the airport and even in the front yard of Gen. Anastasio Somoza, the country's ruler.

Li. Col. Frank Simons, in charge of the U.S. relief program, praised the food distribution plan set up by Somoza.

"We would have had the same problems if this happened in any country in the world," he said. "The Nicaraguans are doing a marvelous job."

Maj. Dennis Bulger, commander of the U.S. 518th Combat Engineer Co., said although many of the city's water lines had been ruptured and some of the cisterns around the city had been cracked by the quake Saturday, some 20 million gallons a day could still be provided for the greater Managua area.

He said about 78,000 gallons were brought into the city Wednesday, "enough to provide each person with half a gallon."

This indicated that about 150,000 persons—or half the normal

No Epidemic Seen In Earthquake Area

population—were still in the city despite orders for everyone to evacuate the area. Authorities continued to appeal at frequent intervals for evacuation, but many obviously were ignoring the effort.

Residents were warned to avoid an area of 450 blocks in the hardest hit sector that was designated an epidemic zone.

Large Crowd Expected At Victory Dinner

Mayor Milo Carlson predicted today a strong delegation from Pampa will attend the Pre-Inaugural Victory Dinner honoring Gov.-Elect Dolph Briscoe next Wednesday in Amarillo.

"We see it as a wonderful opportunity to promote our area's political needs," Mayor Carlson said.

Gray County Democratic leaders are joining with city and county officials in planning Pampa's representation at the Victory Dinner.

Mrs. Jack Hazlewood, co-chairman of the event to be held in the Amarillo Civic Auditorium, said today response indicates a record may be set for attendance at dinner events in the auditorium.

It will be one of five Pre-Inaugural Dinners scheduled across the state as part of Briscoe's inaugural festivities.

All area Chambers of Commerce are selling tickets to the dinner, which will include a reception for Gov.-Elect and Mrs. Briscoe at 7 p.m. and the dinner at 8 p.m.

Wienie War Still Raging

WASHINGTON (AP) — A stubborn wienie war, which even spread in the White House once, could flare up again when hotdog eaters and makers tangle over new labeling requirements.

The Agriculture Department is under pressure to streamline hotdog labels and ban such unappetizing animal byproducts as lips, snouts and spleens.

Consumer pressures, court decisions and the meat industry's slow acceptance of new rules have highlighted hotdog struggles for the past four years.

The latest USDA proposal, which is open for public comment until Feb. 21, bows to recent court rulings that the "all-meat" labels on hotdogs containing up to 15 per cent poultry and non-meat ingredients are misleading.

Byproducts now are not allowed in all-meat hotdogs, but are permitted, along with cereals and dried milk, in plain types.

Under the proposal, the all-meat designation would be dropped in favor of "frankfurter" or "bologna." These could include only muscle tissue or red meat plus up to 15 per cent poultry meat.

Sausages with additives such as dry milk, soy protein and similar ingredients would have to be labeled "frankfurter, non-fat dry milk added."

The latest proposals could result in the most physically fit hotdogs since President Nixon intervened in a 1969 dispute over how much fat should be allowed in them.

But the White House spread the word that Nixon supported a 30 per cent limit, and that percentage was adopted.

NAVY DESTROYER HIT

More Bombers, Helicopter Lost In Hanoi Air Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. bombers kept up saturation air attacks against the Hanoi and Haiphong areas today, and the U.S. Command announced the loss of two more B52 bombers and a big rescue helicopter.

Six men were reported missing in one of the B52s, raising to at least 81 the total number of Americans missing, killed or captured in the air attack on the North Vietnamese heartland that began Dec. 18. Two other Americans were killed aboard a Navy destroyer hit by shore fire.

The attack on the heavily defended Hanoi and Haiphong areas resulted in the heaviest weekly American casualties in nearly two years. The U.S. Command's weekly casualty summary today said seven Americans were killed in action last week, 73 were missing and 29 were wounded. Four of the dead were killed in air operations in Laos, the Command said.

North Vietnam said again that it would not yield to the heaviest air assaults of the war, which have left much of greater Hanoi and Haiphong in flames and rubble, according to a bomb-damage report by the U.S. Command.

The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said waves of B52 bombers and fighter-bombers carried out more "extermination" raids Wednesday night against many densely populated areas, including Hanoi and Haiphong and their suburbs.

Novosti, a Soviet press agency, said in Moscow that its office in Hanoi was destroyed during a raid Wednesday. The agency said it did not know if any of its employees were killed or injured.

Hanoi claimed five more B52 bombers were shot down, including four in the Hanoi area, and several crewmen were captured.

The U.S. Command said one B52 was hit over North Vietnam and crashed early today near the Nakhon Phanom Air Base in northeastern Thailand. The six crewmen parachuted and were rescued.

IN DISASTER AREAS

Government Halts Emergency Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has shut off emergency disaster loans to farmers in another move to hold federal spending to the $250-billion ceiling the President has imposed.

The Farmers Home Administration was ordered Wednesday to halt the flow of loans to farmers in counties designated disaster areas as a result of severe weather damage to crops, livestock and other property.

The Agriculture Department said FHA field offices were instructed to stop accepting applications for aid in counties where the loans had been available for 60 days or more, and in other counties, when the two-month deadline expires.

George C. Knappl, an FHA assistant administrator, said he had no idea how much money the government might save by the order.

Emergency FHA loans since July 1 totaled $79 million to 15,855 borrowers as of Nov. 30. A total of $140 million in emergency assistance had been projected for the fiscal year ending June 30.

But other USDA sources put the figure much higher, perhaps near $600 million by next summer.

Farmers throughout much of the nation, including the Corn Belt, have suffered extensive crop losses this fall because of poor harvest weather.

FHA officials said agency field officers in the stricken harvest areas were told weeks ago to stall making formal aid requests until officials were certain of the size of losses.

The order Wednesday, however, virtually eliminated chances for new relief actions for counties not on the government's disaster list.

Counties can get disaster status either from President Nixon or Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz. But the order said "no other secretarial designations are expected for the balance of 1973" and that all disaster designations by Nixon will expire automatically June 30.

But the cutoff will be much earlier, Jan. 15, for loans in some areas designated by Nixon this year, including much of the Eastern seaboard hit by Tropical Storm Agnes and the flood-swept Rapid City, S.D., area.

In its brief announcement, USDA said the loan shutdown "was taken to counteract inflationary pressures" and to keep the federal budget within a $250-billion limit set by Nixon for the current fiscal year.

Showers Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Scattered showers spread from New Mexico into West Texas today and a new Pacific cold front was due to follow them by Friday.

Light rain fell in the Pampa area during the forenoon.

Clouds covered much of West and South Texas, keeping temperatures comparatively mild, but clear skies helped early morning temperatures drop to freezing or below in parts of East Texas. Frost also nipped portions of the Texas Panhandle.

Rainfall dotted areas from around Dalhart, Post, Monahans, Fort Stockton, Fort Davis and El Paso into New Mexico, where the rain was expected to turn into snow by Friday.

Increasing clouds and a little warming, widely scattered showers in Southwest Texas, were forecast before the latest front shoved into western areas of the state.

Grieving Families Plan Funeral For Crash Victims

—By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Grieving families and friends made plans today for a joint funeral for some of the 19 Woodlawn Baptist Church members who died Tuesday night in a New Mexico bus crash.

The service tentatively was set for Saturday afternoon in the city's domed municipal auditorium.

After meeting Wednesday night with families of the dead following a prayer service, the church's pastor, the Rev. James Abington, said, "The majority prefer a joint service."

The church members, 16 of them young people, died when their bus collided with a cattle truck which had just struck a narrow wooden bridge on U.S. 60-84 near Fort Sumner, N.M. They were enroute to a religious retreat at Valdivia, a private New Mexico ski resort. A second bus filled with young people from the church safely crossed the bridge ahead of the bus that hit the jackknifing truck.

Forty survivors of the ill-fated trip, some carrying the guitars they had hoped to use during the mountain retreat, were flown back to Austin Wednesday night on a special Texas International "mercy flight."

Three injured young people who were on the death bus were on stretchers.

"I'm all right, Mom. I'm all right," cried Kathy Webb as her sobbing parents ran up to her stretcher and embraced her.

A silent crowd of about 100 awaited the plane, with a few breaking into a hymn as the first survivors left the aircraft. Parents and children embraced tearfully.

Two-and-a-half hours later, an Air Force C-130 transport plane arrived at Bergstrom Air Force Base with the bodies of 17 of the dead. The other two, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Estes, were to be sent to San Antonio for services there Friday.

Estes, 41, was a church member who had moved to San Antonio a month ago but was asked to come along and drive the bus. The couple's son, Frank, 19, was injured.

At the 7:15 p.m. prayer service, the Rev. Mr. Abington called for prayers that God would "continue to strengthen, as he has been, miraculously and wonderfully, all those who have lost loved ones." He read the 48th Psalm, which says, "God shall comfort."

Then, with many sobbing quietly, individual members rose to pray, including a teen-age girl, who said those who died were "some of the most beautiful people we have ever known in our lives."

"We don't know why something like this had to happen to such beautiful kids and adults at this time of year," she said, her voice breaking. But she said it must have been part of God's "fantastic plan for us," the girl said.

The church altar still was decorated with Christmas poinsettias.

Earlier in the day, a television newsmen asked the Rev. Mr. Abington how to explain such disaster to Christian people enroute to a church retreat.

"Of course, we know that the Lord allows a number of things. And I don't know but what He may be allowing this to cause all of us to experience the strength that he has for us. He doesn't make us immune to tragedies in this sense. We're just trusting Him for all the strength and guidance that he can give right now," the minister said.

The bodies were removed without ceremony from the Air Force transport and placed in ambulances destined for funeral homes as the Rev. Mr. Abington met with the families.

Linda Ross, of Dallas, a Texas International stewardess, told how it was aboard the plane bearing the survivors.

"They are bearing up pretty well. They are depressed. Maybe one or two were crying. One was reading her Bible. None of them talked about the accident. Most went to sleep," Miss Ross said.

A few young people—the Rev. Mr. Abington named nine at the prayer service—remained behind in hospitals at Clovis, N.M., and Lubbock, Tex. Included was D'Anna Bingham, daughter of the church's minister of music and youth, Charles Bingham.

The minister of education, Ron Hicks, lost his wife and only child, Robin, a daughter who would have been 14 Sunday.

Mrs. Hicks, 34, directed women's missionary work for all Southern Baptist churches in Austin, was attending the University of Texas graduate school of business, ran a Sunday school department and had just co-authored a quarterly series of Sunday school lessons for adults, which were distributed to 40,000 Baptist churches.

Bridge Replacement Overdue

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Postponements since 1965 of a highway project to replace a narrow bridge near Fort Sumner where 19 persons died Tuesday were being attributed today to lack of money.

The collision of a chartered church bus and a cattle truck Tuesday on the 20-foot-wide bridge brought to light records showing the State Highway Commission has delayed the project at least three times in the past seven years.

"It's just been a money problem," said Commissioner Ken Towle of Hobbs, whose district includes the stretch of U.S. 60 with the 40-year-old bridge.

The commission approved the project in 1965 and scheduled it for the 1967-68 fiscal year, highway planning research supervisor Tony Gonzales disclosed.

The first postponement was in 1968, a few months after Towle was appointed to the commission. It was postponed again in 1969 and then last January, when the current bid date of April 1974 was scheduled.

All postponements were made by the commission on the recommendation of Chief Highway Engineer L. G. Boles and his staff, Towle said.

"There was always a shortage of money or a crash program somewhere else," he recalled, adding.

"We've got 3,500 employees, and we damn near have to listen to some of them. I'm wholeheartedly for the project. I'm for any project. I'd like to build roads everywhere."

Towle said only four months ago he discussed the bridge and other highway needs with the Fort Sumner Chamber of Commerce and the De Baca County Commission, explaining lack of money.

He said he will renew efforts at the next commission meeting, Jan. 18, for acceleration of the project. It includes reconstruction of 7.5 miles of U.S. 60 east of Fort Sumner estimated to cost $1.8 million.

As with all federal primary highway construction, the federal highway administration pays two-thirds of the cost. Gov. Bruce King said he will "work with the Highway Department" to replace the bridge immediately.

The governor said the department ought to embark on a special program to replace all narrow bridges on high speed highways.

"If it takes something special on the part of the state on those of top priority, we'll just have to work out something," King said.

Diaz Sues Clements On Libel Charges

DALLAS (AP) — Fresh litigation has developed in a dispute involving William P. Clements, nominated by President Nixon for the No. 2 job in the Pentagon, and an Argentine businessman.

Antonio A. Diaz, who helped arrange a huge oil drilling contract for Sedco, Inc., and Clements as its board chairman, filed a libel suit for $15 million Wednesday. It names the corporation and Clements as defendants.

Diaz alleges in his petition that Clements made "grossly defamatory" statements about him in a news conference Dec. 18 at Dallas headquarters of Sedco.

Clements called in newsmen to answer published reports that his company might have hidden profits amounting to millions of dollars in commissions allegedly due Diaz and two Americans who also helped to set up the drilling deal.

At the time Clements described the two Americans—Charles R. O'Neill and William N. Dillman—as malcontents who cannot return to this country because the Internal Revenue Service has obtained tax liens against profits they made in Argentina.

The Dallas millionaire said O'Neill and Dillman renounced their U.S. citizenship to avoid paying taxes on their share of the Argentine drilling contract.

Referring to the two Americans and Diaz, Clements asserted at the news conference, "I think that if any of these three characters had anything to say that was legitimate, they wouldn't have waited 10 years to do it."

Diaz said in his libel suit,

"The whole tenor and tone of the statements issued by defendant Clements are to discredit the honesty, reputation, character and integrity of Antonio A. Diaz."

"At the time said reports were made and published, (Diaz) was and is a highly respected, reputable businessman in his native country of Argentina and throughout the world for over 30 years."

Diaz brought suit earlier against Southwestern Drilling Co. of Argentina, a Sedco subsidiary that completed a 1960-64 drilling contract with the Argentine government.

Sedco has described this suit by Diaz, filed in 1966, as "a request for an accounting" on the Argentine operations. Clements claimed Dec. 18 that he was not personally a party to the suit.

State Ends Case Against Juan Corona

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — With more than 900 separate pieces of evidence introduced and 116 witnesses called, the prosecution apparently has completed its case in the 13-week-old murder trial of Juan Corona.

"It appears most likely that the people have completed their case," Judge Richard E. Patton told the Solano County Superior Court jury at the conclusion of Wednesday's proceedings. "We will know for sure when court reconvenes on Wednesday."

Corona, a 38-year-old farm labor contractor, is charged with murdering 25 itinerant farm workers and burying them in Sutter County orchards. Patton told the jury of 10 men and two women that defense lawyer Richard E. Hawk will have a chance to begin calling defense witnesses when court reconvenes next Wednesday.

But Hawk told a reporter his first step would be to move for a directed verdict of acquittal on the ground the prosecution has failed to offer sufficient evidence against Corona.

Crime Shows Small Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Serious crime in the nation increased one per cent during the first nine months of 1972—the smallest increase since the FBI started issuing quarterly crime reports in 1960, the Justice Department announced today.

The rate of crime's increase has been decreasing since it peaked at 19 per cent in 1968, the department said in a statement. It said serious crime during the first nine months of 1971 showed a 6 per cent increase.

Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst said 83 major cities showed decreases in serious crime during the January-September period—compared with 52 cities during the same period in 1971.

The figures were made public today in the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports, a nationwide collection of police statistics supplied by local, county and state law-enforcement agencies.

The reports showed that violent crime in the nation increased 3 per cent during the first nine months of 1972, compared with 10 per cent for the same period last year.

Cities with 100,000 or more residents reported a 3 per cent decrease in serious crime, while crime in suburban areas increased 4 per cent, the statement said. It said that suburban crime increased 11 per cent during the 1971 period.

Search Conducted

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — The Civil Air Patrol is searching for a light airplane missing on a flight from Texas with a Caldwell, N.J., man on board.

The CAP said the plane, a single-engine Mooney M21, was piloted by George Houston, 50, who was en route from Longview, Tex., to Marietta to visit relatives. He left Longview Tuesday.

"DICKENSIAN CONDITIONS" are what these militants are militating about in London as they seek to confront Mrs. Margaret Thatcher, Britain's education minister. In this case, Dickensian conditions mean a partially roofed school with outside toilets which frequently freeze up in winter—one of the seats of trouble.

Rule Denied Chance To Meet Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gordon Rule, the Navy cost-monitor who was demoted after criticizing the President, has been denied a meeting with Navy Secretary John Warner and has been told to pursue any protest with the admiral who ordered the demotion.

Rule was turned aside Wednesday when he sought a meeting with Warner to discuss the demotion. Instead, Warner ordered that Rule must go through "channels" and lodge any protest with Adm. Isaac Kidd who wants Rule shunted to a backwater job.

A veteran civilian cost controller for the Navy, Rule was ordered reassigned as a lower-echelon consultant last week after criticizing President Nixon's appointment of Roy Ash as the government's top budget officer. Ash formerly was president of Litton Industries which is involved in a dispute with the Navy over ship-building contracts.

"The entire matter is being handled through established command channels and now rests with Adm. Kidd, for whom Rule works," the Navy told The Associated Press. "For the moment, the secretary has no plans to see or talk with Mr. Rule."

Kidd, chief of naval material, ordered Rule reassigned as a senior consultant to help modernize the curriculum at the Navy Logistic Management School.

Sources indicated the matter may still reach Warner, but not

Lester Pearson Dies Of Cancer

OTTAWA (AP) — Lester B. Pearson—the quiet, likeable diplomat who won the Nobel Peace Prize and was prime minister of Canada for five years, died Wednesday night of cancer at his Ottawa home. He was 75.

The government made plans for a state funeral in Ottawa's Christ Church Anglican Cathedral, with burial at Wakefield, Que., near the summer home of Canada's prime ministers.

The date of the funeral was to be announced later.

Pearson and his wife, Maryon, were in Florida shortly before Christmas but flew home when his condition worsened. Cancer-caused removal of one eye in 1970, and doctors said the disease spread to his liver.

"He was a man of ability and good will who worked a greater part of his life to make the world a better place for others," said his successor, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Pearson's diplomatic career reached its high point when he received Canada's only Nobel Peace Prize for his work in forging the U.N. Peacekeeping Force in the Middle East in 1956. The uneasy peace collapsed in the six-day war of 1967 shortly before Pearson retired from politics.

As prime minister of a Liberal party government that lacked a majority in the Canadian House of Commons, Pearson still put through a succession of welfare and reform measures. They included national medical-care insurance, special recognition for Quebec, trial abolition of capital punishment and adoption of the red-and-white Canadian maple leaf flag replacing the Red Ensign bearing the British Union Jack.

The new flag emphasized Canada's emergence as a middle power, more independent from both Britain and the United States, although political foes charged Pearson was subservient to Washington.

He also was attacked for advocating nuclear arms for Canada but replied the country must live up to its commitments in the Atlantic Alliance.

Born April 23, 1897, in Toronto, Pearson studied at the University of Toronto and at Oxford. He served in an ambulance unit in World War I, then transferred to the flying corps.

He married Maryon Ellsperth Moody of Winnipeg in 1925, then began a career in diplomacy when he joined the government's external affairs department in 1928.

He held diplomatic posts across western Europe, served as Canadian ambassador to Washington in 1945-46 and was an adviser at the San Francisco conference that wrote the U.N. charter.

He entered politics in 1948 with election to parliament and was sworn in as foreign secretary on Sept. 10, 1948. He remained in the post until mid-1957 when a minority Conservative government took over.

At the United Nations, he headed a committee that led to creation of the state of Israel, helped prevent the spread of the Korean War into Communist China and was president of the General Assembly when the Korean armistice was negotiated in 1953.

He leaves his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Walter Hannah of Toronto, and a son, Geoff.

Vending Machine Limits Overruled

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A tavern owner may own more than one vending machine and does not have to pay a $300 annual fee for operating such machines, the Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The high court reversed part of a 3rd Court of Civil Appeals decision in the case.

The suit was brought by Harry Thompson and three other tavern owners in Dallas, El Paso and San Antonio against Comptroller Robert S. Calvert and Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

The trial court ruled in favor of the plaintiffs but said a $300 annual fee for vending machine operation could be collected from them.

Both sides appealed—the plaintiffs because of the $300 fee.

The appeals court affirmed the fee but reversed and rendered the judgment on the plaintiff's right to own more than one coin-operated machine of music, skill or entertainment.

The state's police power permits it to make reasonable regulatory requirements, and the fee is regulatory in nature rather than a tax, the appeals court said.

The no-ownership law was recommended by a Texas House investigating committee in an effort to prevent control of taverns by the big vending interests.

The Supreme Court said the law was not aimed at tavern owners but at the big vending companies.

Tavern owners do not have to pay the $300 fee when their ownership of vending machines is "purely incidental to that (tavern) business," the court said.

Associated Justice Jack Pope dissented, saying the majority had made the law unenforceable.

"Does an 'incidental' coin-machine business arise when one owns 20 taverns in each of which is one coin machine?" Pope asked. "What about an owner who has three taverns and six machines? Will the 'incidental' nature of coin-machine operation be determined by the comparative revenue derived from each?...The rule announced by this court will require an audit of the books and records of every establishment in which even one coin machine is located."

US Wants Hughes To Reveal Himself

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. Embassy today threatened the privacy of reclusive billionaire Howard Hughes, holed up on the top floor of a luxurious London hotel.

An embassy spokesman said the 67-year-old American tycoon's passport expired some time ago and he must report within 48 hours to the embassy consular office to apply for a new one.

"As far as we're concerned," the spokesman said, "he will have to call personally, fill in the usual application form and pay a $12 fee. That's what every American traveling without a passport has to do, and it will be the same for Mr. Hughes."

If the embassy enforces the regulation, it will be the first time in memory that the U.S. government has treated Hughes as an ordinary citizen. He has been living for months in Managua, Nicaragua, apparently without any question being raised about his passport. He flew in and out of the United States after the earthquake last weekend drove him from Managua, and apparently no objection was made to his not having a passport. And the embassy sought to expedite his admission to Britain by telling the Home Office that he was coming without a valid passport.

British immigration rules allow the admission of foreigners without passports so long as they carry documents establishing their identity and nationality. Sources close to Hughes said he planned to stay in Britain for six months, possibly longer. A Home Office spokesman said he could remain "as long as it suits him."

Hughes and his entourage landed at Gatwick Airport south of London shortly after midnight Wednesday. They were held up for at least half an hour while officials checked the mysterious billionaire's identity. After considerable telephoning, he was allowed to enter the country.

Four curtained Rolls Royces brought the party to the nine-story Inn at the Park, overlooking Hyde Park, and Hughes moved into the west wing on the top floor, at $2,500 a day.

The wing was sealed off, and an intercom system was installed at the main door. Police with walkie-talkies patrolled the streets below, and guards manned all doors to the wing.

New Approach To Rib Roast

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

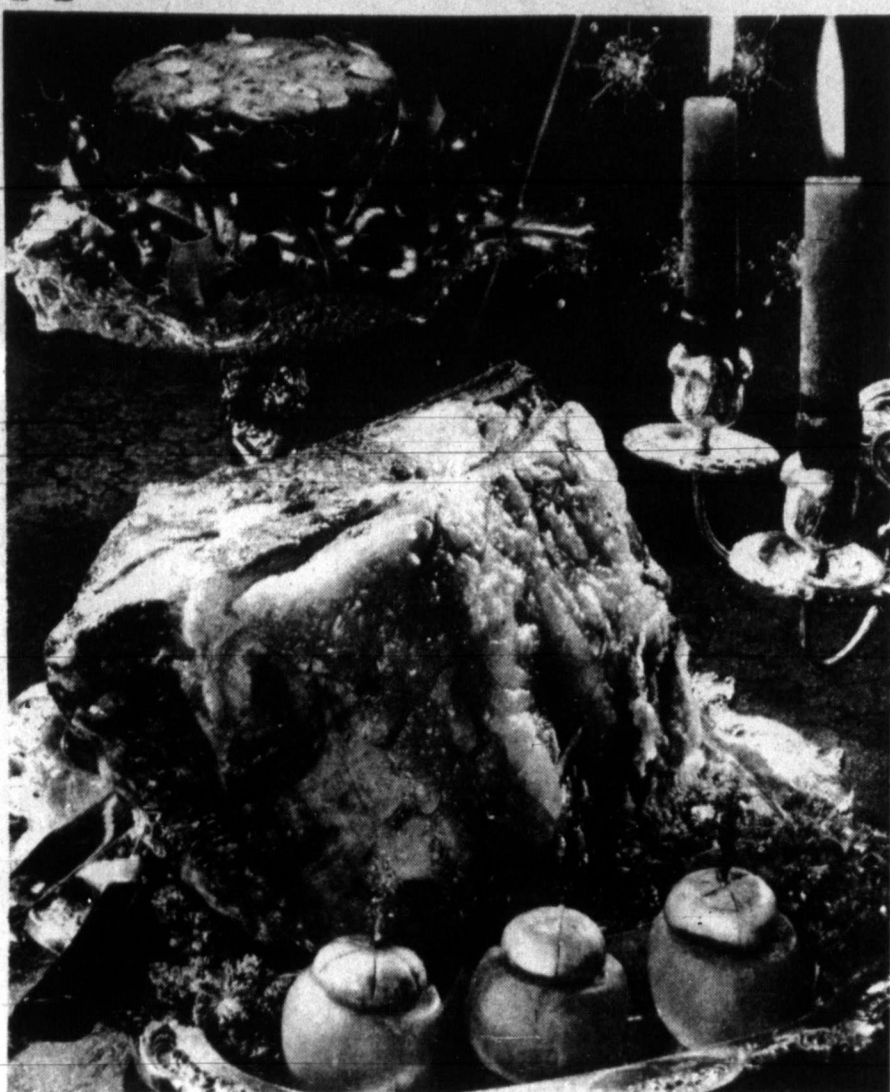

A standing rib roast is a mouth-watering, sumptuous offering that, prepared well, is really unexcelled in flavor. There are many ways to cook a beef roast. One that Californians swear is a new and tasteful approach is cooking the beef in two stages. For one hour the beef is roasted in a moderately hot oven then remains for another hour with the oven turned off and the door closed. At the end of the second hour, check the meat thermometer, turn the oven back on and continue roasting until the internal temperature is just right for you.

STANDING RIB ROAST

Standing 4-rib beef roast

Salt and pepper

Sprinkle beef with salt and pepper. Insert meat thermometer into center of roast, avoiding any bone. Let beef stand at room temperature 20 to 30 minutes. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Place roast on rack in shallow open pan. Roast in oven one hour. Turn off heat. Do not open oven door for one hour. During resting period the beef continues to cook slowly and evenly distributes heat throughout the beef. Turn oven regulator to 300 degrees. Allow roast to heat 30 to 40 minutes until beef has reached desired internal temperature. Beef will be pink and juicy all the way through when thermometer registers 130 degrees. Should you desire beef cooked very rare, remove from oven a few minutes sooner. If you prefer well done beef, continue cooking until it is just the way you like it. Makes 10 or more servings. WINE SAUCE: Measure 1/4 cup drippings from roasting pan. Blend in 2 tablespoons cornstarch. Add 1 (10 1/2-ounce) can beef bouillon, 1 cup water and 1/2 cup red table wine.

Cook, stirring constantly until sauce boils and thickens slightly. Season to taste with salt and pepper. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Cranbrosia Stars Cranberries

Cranberry dish with a difference combines other fruits, sour cream.

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Cranberries are now a year-round pleasure because of new packaging techniques. However, the tart and colorful red berry is still the traditionally favorite fruit to accompany Thanksgiving dishes. It appears as a sauce, jelly and in a gelatin mold. A cranberry gelatin mold with a difference combines mandarin oranges, pineapple, bananas, coconut, sour cream and whipped cream. Such a combination makes it an excellent salad or a dessert.

CRANBROSIA

2 cups fresh or frozen fresh cranberries, coarsely ground or chopped
1 cup sugar
1 can (11 oz.) mandarin orange segments, well drained

1 can (8 oz.) pineapple chunks, well drained
1 cup shredded coconut
1 large banana, cubed
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin

1 cup sour cream
1 cup heavy or whipping cream
Combine cranberries and sugar. Mix thoroughly to dissolve sugar. Drain well and reserve liquid from oranges and pineapple chunks. Add oranges, pineapple, coconut and banana to cranberries. Sprinkle gelatin over 1/4 cup of combined juices to soften. Place over medium heat, stirring constantly to dissolve gelatin. Add to fruits. Fold in fruit mixture. Turn into 13x9x2-inch dish or 2-quart mold. Chill thoroughly until firm, overnight if possible. If desired, servings may be topped with more sweet or sour cream. Serve as salad or dessert topped with whipped cream, if desired. Makes 16 servings. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Corn Pudding Is American

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Corn pudding or corn custard recipes are found in cookbook collections from early settlers' menus. This is a truly American dish that is easy to make and is best when kernels cut from fresh corn are used. Sweet corn is shipped almost year round, making this recipe for Southern Corn Pudding a staple for any season.

SOUTHERN CORN PUDDING

4 ears fresh Florida corn
2 teaspoons sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
3 eggs, lightly beaten
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Remove husks and silk from corn. Cut kernels off cob (makes about 3 cups). In a mixing bowl, combine corn with sugar, salt and black pepper. Add eggs and mix well. Heat milk with butter. Stir into corn mixture. Turn into a buttered 1-quart casserole. Place in a pan containing water.

Auld Lang Syne

A La Russe

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Everyone toasts the New Year in his own way. Here are two new appetizer recipes for those who enjoy having a few friends in to share the waning hours of yet another year. A Grape Appetizer a la Russe, with its caviar and sour cream, and Baked Mushrooms will intrigue even the most rigid meat-and-potatoes guest.

GRAPE APPETIZER A LA RUSSE

1 tablespoon red caviar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup cultured sour cream
1 1/2 cups halved and seeded green grapes
Chicory, watercress or other greens
6 cherry tomatoes, halved
Paprika or dried dill weed

Stir caviar and salt into sour cream in small mixing bowl. With fork, toss grapes in mixture. Turn into 6 appetizer glasses lined with chicory and garnish with cherry tomato halves. Top with dashes of paprika or dill weed. Makes 6 servings.

BAKED MUSHROOMS A LA PERRINS

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
2 cups toasted croutons
1 cup light cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

In medium skillet melt butter. Add mushrooms and saute for 3 minutes or until golden. Meanwhile, grease an 8-inch square baking dish. In it, alternate layers of mushrooms and croutons. Combine cream, salt and Worcestershire sauce. Pour over mushrooms and croutons in baking dish. Bake in preheated 425-degree oven 20 minutes or until top is golden brown. Makes 6 portions. 1973 Will Be A Year Of Nutrition Labeling

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Another new phrase created by consumerism is "nutritional information labeling." For years influential groups have been demanding the nutritional facts about a food product on the label.

"Now, in 1973, we are going to see it become a fact," predicts Dr. David L. Call, professor of food economics at the Cornell University Graduate School of Nutrition.

"Consumer surveys show a definite need for it. Only a small percentage, perhaps, but a passionate and knowledgeable group of people currently demand such labeling. They believe in schemes for printing nutritional information on food labels. And I assure you that in 1973 they are going to get their desire. It will be the year of nutritional food labeling," he asserts.

The Food and Drug Administration has issued various tentative regulations on nutrient labeling. The final one, adjusted to certain criticism, can be expected early in 1973. A few major food firms have voluntarily started their nutritional labeling programs.

"Not only nutritional labeling but also a nutritional guide are ahead," Dr. Call says. "Within a year you also are going to see fat labeling by fatty acid content. You will finally see cholesterol labels on food."

He adds, "We shall see a new set of regulations referring to special dietary foods, such as labeling of low-calorie products and vitamin and mineral tablets.

"We also are going to have nutritional guidelines. First, I expect them for frozen dinners. The label will likely be an establishment of a balanced nutrient approach, something like an F.D.A. seal of approval that the dinner is nutritiously balanced. There probably also will be guidelines on main-entrees like canned beef stew. Some also for breakfast cereals. Also probably on the vitamin C enriched breakfast drinks.

"Within a year, probably much sooner, you will see a final regulation on nutritional labeling of foods. I'm pretty sure it will be voluntary. It will probably come pretty close to the way it was proposed by the F.D.A. The main reference will be a per cent of the Recommended Dietary Allowance."

The per cent will be an average serving. In addition to showing the fat, protein and carbohydrate values, the label will have to show the seven basic nutrients, if they are present.

Dr. Call recently conducted surveys in Washington, Boston and Chicago on customers' reaction to nutrition labeling.

"Our indication is that consumers are ready for the information. Over a period of time, in most chain stores where it was tested, the use of nutrient labeling improved," the Cornell scientist reports.

"The pressure from consumer groups definitely has brought the change in merchandising food."

In a 1-quart saucepan thoroughly stir together the cornstarch, sugars and grated orange rind; gradually stir in orange juice, keeping smooth; add butter. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and boiling. Pour over yams. Cover with wax paper or transparent plastic wrap and set aside. Legislators Not Convinced Of Need For Gas Tax Hike

By CHRIS HARTE
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Uncertain federal funding, spiraling construction costs, and the desire to build safer highways have led the Texas Highway Commission to decide it needs a two cent increase in the gasoline tax. Commissioners have been telling local government officials and others that they'll ask the new legislature for the tax boost.

Lawmakers haven't heard the Highway Department make its case yet, and when they do could agree to raise the tax for the first time since 1955.

But most legislators who responded to an Associated Press questionnaire about problems the 1973 legislature will confront haven't yet been convinced the tax increase is a good idea.

Rep. R. C. "Nick" Nichols, recently elected chairman of the Harris County legislative delegation, said he was "opposed to any increase in the gasoline sales tax."

Rep-elect Tom Schieffer of Fort Worth reflected the responses of many freshman House members on the gas tax hike, saying "I have not been provided with enough information at this time to make a decision."

Only two legislators, Reps. E. L. Short of Tahoka and James J. Kaster Jr. of El Paso, said they favored a tax increase. Both suggested the two cent raise the commission wants.

Gasoline is currently taxed five cents per gallon by the state and four cents a gallon by the federal government. An increase in the state tax to seven cents per gallon would bring in about $100 million in additional highway funds during fiscal year 1973 and $106 million in fiscal 1974, the Highway Department says.

Marcus L. Yancey Jr., administrative engineer, says the Highway Department will tell the legislature that federal highway funding no longer has the kind of stability that we can depend on.

Congress failed to pass a bill funding highway construction during 1973. Environmentalists and mass transit proponents, backed by the White House, had attempted to give cities the option to use some of the highway trust fund money for urban rail transit.

In the ensuing fight, the House and Senate were unable to agree on a bill, and so the new Congress that convenes in January will have to attempt to resolve the differences and pass a highway spending bill.

But even with the amount of federal funds expected to come through eventually, Yancey says, it would take 10 years to build the highways that already have been authorized by the department.

Part of the reason is that highway costs have risen 68 per cent in the last 10 years, Yancey says.

The highway department wants to expand heavily travelled two lane highways, some of them 35 years old, to four lane divided expressways. "Four lane dividing of highways has long been our goal for safe highways," Yancey says.

But the department isn't ignoring mass transit, according to Yancey. He says it's a state problem because "the level of public transportation service ought to be as nearly uniform as possible. You can't do that if the cities are competing on an individual basis for federal dollars."

He says department studies show that congestion in Texas' major urban areas is caused by only 5 per cent of total traffic—the persons who live in suburbs, drive downtown each morning and drive home at night.

And the solution, the department thinks, will be to provide public transportation to downtown large parking lots on the outskirts of the big cities, particularly along the interstate highway loops that surround them.

With few exceptions, legislators responding to the AP survey expressed approval of mass transit, though none mentioned specific plans or programs.

Rep-elect Anthony Hall of Houston said, "Mass transit plans should be studied and put into effect as soon as possible because this is an urgent problem for urban areas."

Another freshman, Forrest Green of Corsicana, said he thought "we will have more federal funds for mass transit in the near future."

The lone dissent came from Grant Jones, veteran Abilene representative who was elected to the Senate this year. "We will not need mass transit off rubber tires in Texas for many years," he said.

Gov-elect Dolph Briscoe also supported state efforts in mass transit during his campaign, but without going into details on what the state could do. His new legislative aide, Roy Coffey, said last week that Briscoe would have a specific proposal on the subject within 10 days.

The English novelist and poet Rudyard Kipling once described San Francisco as "a mad city—inhabited for the most part by perfectly insane people whose women are of a remarkable beauty."

The featured event of ancient Greek games at Olympia was a brutal boxing match called the pankration, meaning, "all-strength," which was fought until surrender or death.

Southwestern Public Service Planning New Improvements

Southwestern Public Service Company will invest more than $196,000,000 in new equipment and improvements in the next five years, it was announced Wednesday by Roy Tolk, chairman and president of the electric company.

"The area has turned itself around economically and all signals are 'go' for future growth. We must be prepared to provide the power that will be needed to keep pace with this growth and the power that will be needed to keep the environment the way all of us want it to be," Tolk said in announcing the expansion program.

New generating facilities with a capability of 631,000 kilowatts would be completed during the five-year period, Tolk said, and, just before the end of the five years, construction will begin on a 350,000 kilowatt unit scheduled to go into service in 1979.

The new generating facilities include a 25,000 kilowatt gas turbine at Riverview Station, which will go into service in mid-1973. This unit, while small in size, is large in unique features.

PERSONAL FINANCE Clothes Buys Make Price-Minded Man

By CARLTON SMITH

Want to increase your spendable income by at least 15 per cent — perhaps as much as 25 per cent?

It's been proved in actual practice that most families can, by using a few money-management tricks. Increase the purchasing power of your "discretionary spending" — that over which you have a degree of control, in contrast to the family's fixed expenses — and in effect you've increased your spendable income. The real measure of how much you have, after all, is how many of the things you need and want you are able to buy.

It will take some effort on your part, for the so-called tricks aren't of the magic wand type. They're tricks only in the sense of being clever ideas that most people don't use. The effort they require is in planning your expenditures, and working at making your plan work.

What you spend on clothes, for example, is an important item in the family budget over which you have—or can have—a considerable degree of control. One of the most rewarding tricks is to plan wardrobe needs well ahead, and take advantage of major sale opportunities.

One of them lies just ahead. During the days immediately after Christmas, women can buy winter coats at big mark-downs, commonly 30 per cent or more. In many stores, prices will be slashed even more for the February sales, though selections will be limited by this time.

Planning ahead for such off-season sales is an important money stretcher, but there's more to it than just watching the calendar and waiting for the sales. CNA Financial Corp., one of the nation's big financial complexes, is into consumer economics along with everything else, and here are some tips from its experts:

Don't get stuck with "bargains" that cost you money through style changes. One way to avoid this is "to wait—and usually it's a short wait—until a new style has caught on. By the same token, don't buy something at the end of a season if its popularity is on the decline."

Shoes are a major item of expense—and perhaps you've wondered whether those "factory outlets" and special shoe discount stores really offer bargains—or just sell cheap shoes. CNA's shoppers have found that "savings on brand-new and sample shoes at such stores often range from 50 to 75 per cent of the original list price."

At the same time, they caution not to shop for price alone, but always to buy good quality. A poorly made shoe of inferior material is never a bargain, at any price, while good shoes wear and wear.

And, for one of the easiest tricks of all: "The quickest way to effect savings in clothing purchases is to buy with cash. You avoid revolving credit plans with their stiff interest rates—and you lessen the temptation to overspend on impulse items."

Typical revolving-plan interest charges, you're reminded, add up to 18 per cent a year. At that rate, for every $5.55 you spend on clothes you're spending $1 on interest—certainly no way to stretch that clothing dollar.

Stock Exchange Seeks Identity From Others

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — All

things considered, the company that projects an identifiable image collects the sale. It is for this reason that so many companies today attempt to sell not just their product but a concept with it.

Cigarettes are identified with fresh air. Soft-drink makers associate themselves with healthy, constructive youngsters. Beer and hard liquors are sold as symbols of hospitality and conviviality.

Many companies like to remind you that they are the biggest, the suggestion being that they got that way because their products are so good.

The most subtle and sometimes most effective image-conjuror is underestimation. A country club in the Boston area has for years assumed a haughty and unwarranted dominance by calling itself "The Country Club."

And now the New York Stock Exchange, the largest but only one of many securities exchanges around the country, has begun referring to itself as The Exchange. There has been no official name change, only the suggestion of it.

A couple of weeks ago the statements emanating from the NYSE news bureau referred to it as the New York Stock Exchange or NYSE. A recent 12-paragraph release used "The Exchange" or "Exchange" 19 times. Moreover, a new logo type has been "especially handcrafted by Lippincott & Margulies," a firm that has designed many of the most popular trademarks and developed many corporate identity programs.

In explanation, the Big Board stated that after extensive research and testing, "It was discovered that hardly anyone says 'NYSE.' They say 'New York Stock Exchange,' or just 'The Exchange.'"

But there is more to the story. As the NYSE commented in its announcement, "The insignia is progressive, yet it retains the feeling of stability. And it illustrates an awareness of the challenges of the future."

To explain further: There is currently under way a vast shakeup of the securities markets, the outcome of which might be one vast central market for stocks and bonds—it would be a monumental change from the present.

As of now, there are exchanges spotted in various parts of the country—in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, for example. Someday, it is foreseen, they will be more closely tied to each other.

Whether or not these ties actually will bind them into one exchange is at this time hypothetical. While it might happen, all that can be stated positively is that they will at least be more interrelated.

There is, therefore, a good deal of jockeying for position. The NYSE is by far the biggest, most powerful of these exchanges and it hopes to stay that way in any reshuffling. It is, in its own view, The Exchange, among exchanges.

The view is vigorously disputed by the so-called regionals and by the American Stock Exchange, who maintain that many innovations originated with them and were later accepted by NYSE.

Scientist Decries 'Secret' Information

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Canadian scientist said Wednesday that American industry, private health agencies and government research centers have cast a "pall of secrecy" over much of the information needed to assess the health effects of pollution and cigarette smoking.

Furthermore, said Theodore D. Sterling, evidence that has so far been made public on these questions "appears to be derived from many inadequate studies."

In a report for the 139th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Sterling, a statistical specialist from Simon Fraser University of Burnaby, B.C., declared:

"By and large, studies on the effects of pollutants are so designed that they tend to underplay the effects of industrial or air pollutants on health, while studies on the effects of smoking are so designed that they would overestimate the effects of smoking on health."

"A more serious hindrance than these technical flaws is the pall of secrecy that hangs over much of the crucial information that is needed to form a balancing conclusion."

SIC Reports Increase In Net Earnings

AMARILLO — Southwestern Investment Company (AMEX) reported consolidated net earnings for the first quarter ended Nov. 30, 1972, rose 25 per cent to $1,025,825, equal after preferred dividends to 66 cents per share. This compares with $822,498, equal after preferred dividends to 55 cents per share, in 1971.

Total income in the first quarter rose to $12,590,082 from the $11,410,856 in the comparable period for 1971.

The figures for 1971 have been restated to include results of Security Savings and Loan Association acquired in August, 1972 and treated as a pooling of interests. 1972 per share figures are based on 1,456,145 average common shares outstanding (including contingent shares), a six per cent increase over the 1971 average as restated.

Net earnings gains for the quarter were reported by each of the company's operating divisions, except the finance group. A decline of approximately six per cent ($25,000) in finance earnings was caused principally by slightly higher interest costs and an increase in development costs in connection with 17 new branch offices established and acquired subsequent to the previous comparable period.

Americans' Annual Alcohol Bill Rises

Here's a timely table topic for that New Year's Eve party:

The average American citizen's annual bill for alcoholic beverages now comes to over $92 for every member of the family, including baby, reports the Family Economics Bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co., Minneapolis.

(Of course, only the nation's 128 million men and women 21 years of age and older are permitted in most states to purchase alcoholic beverages. So, excluding the youngsters, the annual bill looks even higher—$149 per person.)

The $92 buys nearly 22 gallons of assorted beverages consumed per person, including 19½ gallons of beer and ale, five quarts of wine and champagne, and over four quarts of distilled liquors. Ten years ago, the average personal expenditure for alcoholic beverages was $76 in today's prices.

Projections for 1972 indicate the nation's total spending for legal alcoholic beverages will exceed last year's total of $19,122,000,000—at retail prices, including taxes.

It will represent an increase of 34 per cent adjusted for inflation, in 10 years; in 1962, $10,665,000,000 was spent. Over the same span, our population has increased by 12 per cent.

Actually, the volume of alcoholic beverages consumed per person is slightly less nowadays than at the turn of the century—a little less beer and "hard" liquor, but more wine.

Government statistics for the 1906-1910 period reveal an annual per capita consumption of 22 gallons in those hearty days: 20 gallons of beer and ale, two quarts of wine, and six quarts of distilled liquors.

Presidents Invited For Scout Week

PHARR, Tex. (AP)—The presidents of the United States and Mexico have been invited to attend the first annual celebration of International Boy Scout Week here in February, it was announced Wednesday.

A spokesman for Pharr Boy Scouts who are sponsoring the observance said invitations have been sent to President Nixon and to President Luis Echeverria.

Joe Vera Jr. said events planned during the celebration will include beauty pageants, a parade, a religious service and campfire meetings.

Vera said he expects about 4,000 Boy Scouts from South Texas and Mexico to take part. Scouts from Mexico will include boys from Mexico City, Monterrey, Reynosa and Matamoros.

Other dignitaries invited to participate include Gov. elect Dolph Briscoe; Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex.; Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.; Rep. Eligio de la Garza, D-Tex., and members of the South Texas delegation to the Texas Legislature.

Vera said the observance here will coincide with the annual observance of Boy Scout Week in the United States.

Pampan Notes 25th Year At Skelly Oil Co.

James Lloyd Laramore, natural gasoline plant operator for Skelly Oil Co. here, will celebrate his 25th service anniversary with the company this month. He will receive an engraved wristwatch as a service award.

Laramore joined Skelly Dec. 23, 1947, as a roustabout. He was named an engineer in the manufacturing department in 1948 and assumed his present position in 1969.

He is a member of the First Christian Church, Masonic Lodge No. 966 and is a U.S. Navy veteran.

He and his wife, Phyllis, have four children, Larry, Dan, Doug and Victor. They live at 417 Magnolia.

Fire Arms Smuggling Increasing

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Fire arms—for use by drug peddlers and for other "illicit activities"—are being smuggled into Mexico from Arizona in greater quantities than ever, say two federal officials charged with enforcing laws against such activities.

Many guns are purchased here and then delivered by their buyers to persons south of the border, the officers said. However, arms pass across the Arizona-Mexico border from all points in the United States, they added.

Robert Nagy, a U.S. Treasury agent, said the favorite weapons of gun runners are .30 caliber carbines and .38 and .45 caliber automatic pistols. "You can look at just about every gun shop there is in Tucson and find records of an individual having purchased several guns of those calibers within a short period of time," Nagy said.

"You can bet if an individual has purchased 45 to 60 guns of this nature, they're going to Mexico."

"We are aware that there are arms being illegally exported to Mexico," said a U.S. customs agent who asked not to be identified. "This includes all types of arms, including automatic weapons. They come from all over the country."

Many guns fall into the hands of narcotics peddlers, Nagy and the customs agent said. "Trading weapons for dope is a huge problem," he said.

Some smuggled guns are purchased legally in Arizona and other parts of the country, Nagy said, but many are stolen from private collections, the mail, railroad boxcars and armories. Boxcars are easy targets for gun smugglers, Nagy said.

"Anyone can break the seal and get into them," he explained, citing an example at Yuma, Ariz., where several cases of guns were stolen from a boxcar, and railroad officials were unaware of it until federal agents began investigating. Federal law prohibits shipment of most arms from this country without a permit or permission of the state department, and Mexican federal law forbids import of weapons by individuals other than for hunting purposes.

One arrest in an apparent arms smuggling attempt has been made in Arizona by federal agents this year.

Robert Herrera Romero, 33, a Mexican customs official stationed on the border at Sasabe, was sentenced Sept. 6 to one year in prison for trying to smuggle into Mexico 5,525 rounds of ammunition and a 7.65mm pistol.

New Gas Well Completed

Amarillo Oil Co., a subsidiary of Pioneer Natural Gas Co., has announced completion of its R.A. Flowers No. 1 gas well with a calculated open flow potential of 7.25 million cubic feet a day from a depth of approximately 12,000 feet.

The well is located in Sec. 6, B.S. & F. Survey in Roberts County.

Officials of Amarillo Oil Co., which has a 55 per cent working interest in the well, have indicated the well has particular significance in that it assures the drilling of four additional development wells in the area during 1973.

Pioneer Natural Gas Co. which has a preferential right to contract for 100 per cent of the gas production from the acreage, is designing a gathering system for the area. It is anticipated the gathering system will tie in with the company's Buffalo Wallow line which was completed in 1970.

WORRY CLINIC

Roberta typifies the resourcefulness of American youth. Our Republic was founded by such independent thinkers. George Washington used similar "horse sense" to salvage Braddock's fleeing army. Remind teenagers that "Eagles don't flock."

CASE V-580: Roberta Claypool is a talented secretary. "Dr. Crane," her father told me, "Roberta had a very good position in Dallas, Texas."

"But she received a better offer at Phoenix, about 1,000 miles away."

"In Dallas, she had her own automobile, plus furniture and a cat."

"She wondered how she could get all those possessions moved to Phoenix in one trip."

"Dr. Crane, you may be surprised at how she did it!"

"For she rented a 30-foot U-Haul truck for $56."

"Then she drove her own auto up a ramp and into this truck."

"After that, she neatly loaded her furniture, thereon, plus her cat."

"A Japanese woman who wished to go to Phoenix, became her traveling companion."

"And Roberta completed the trip in 2½ days."

"She was stopped once by a highway policeman, who was surprised to find a young woman driving such a big truck!"

RESOURCEFUL ROBERTA

Roberta's resourcefulness merits a salute.

For it is this quality of American youth which has kept the U.S.A. in front of all nations thus far.

Even in World War I, as well as World War II, it was the ability of our private soldiers to think and take command in emergencies, that made them so different from foreign troops.

Despite the fact the German foot soldiers had been drilled excessively, they were more like robot warriors.

In fact, the term "goose-steppers" had been applied to them, partly as an indication that they blindly followed orders, without doing any original thinking.

Thus, if their well trained officers should be shot, the private soldiers milled around, much like sheep without a shepherd.

Not so, the Americans!

They were inclined to do independent thinking.

When their officers were wiped out, a private soldier would take over and carry on, usually with great success.

This remarkable trait, which we call resourcefulness or "horse sense," has typified Americans since the Pilgrims set out from Europe, because they didn't like religious dictatorship.

"If your ideas make sense," is the typical American attitude, "then I will accept them."

"If they are braintruster stuff, I don't care whether you are an Admiral or 5-star General!"

This viewpoint may sound impertinent.

But George Washington saved Braddock's Army from complete annihilation by employing similar American resourcefulness in fighting Indians.

Alas, the political trends nowadays steadily try to make average Americans kowtow to "Big Brother" and the bureaucrats in Washington.

So it is time to enshrine independent thinking on the part of the average citizen.

American pioneers and our Founding Fathers were not 2-legged sheep, blindly herded by selfish interest and mercenary propaganda.

Instead, they were free thinkers.

"Eagles don't flock," says our Wall Street Journal.

Memory Offers A Chance To Live Those Days Again

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Memory

is not a doom but a beckoning. Through memory we can live as many times as we wish to, or at least repeat portions of our lives.

Your own past has many enduring lives in it if you can look back and remember when —

You were careful not to step on a sidewalk crack for fear you'd break your mother's back.

Santa Claus believed in you. The worse a medicine tasted, the better you felt it must be for you.

The days seemed so short and the years so long. Now some days seem to last a lifetime but the years go by so swiftly you hardly can get used to one before it is gone.

It always sounded so funny, formal and distant for you to hear a married woman speak of her husband as "Mr." — and a husband to speak of his wife as "Mrs." — when talking about one another to others.

Fans kept more people cool in the summer than air-conditioning did.

Everybody had an icebox in his kitchen — but nobody had a refrigerator.

One of the biggest thrills of childhood was to go to a department store with your mother and get to ride up an escalator.

If you went to a railway station, half the people cried when a train came in and the other half cried when a train left.

When you got a watch, it was expected to last you a lifetime — unless it was a dollar Ingersoll.

There were more kids in America who knew the name of the horse film cowboy star Tom Mix rode than knew the names of the mounts that carried Gen. Robert E. Lee or Gen. George Custer into real war fame. The answers: Tony, Traveler and — I've forgotten.

You were startled and slightly shocked to meet someone who had been married and then gotten a divorce. Divorce still had a kind of legendary quality. Everybody had heard of it, of course, but you had an unspoken feeling that if you ever came across a divorced person he would look strange or do something odd.

Those were the days, the innocent days — remember?

Nixon's Visit To China Voted Year's Top Story

President Nixon's visit to China last February has been voted the top news story of 1972 by editors and news directors of Associated Press member newspapers and radio and television stations.

TV COMMERCIALS — Linda Finney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Gardner, 1205 Darby, has been chosen to do television commercials for American National Bank of Amarillo. Mrs. Finney, who is employed in the savings department of the bank, graduated from Pampa High School in 1967. She is the wife of Ronald Finney, formerly of Pampa.

Nixon called the seven-day visit "the week that changed the world." He conferred with Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-Lai and broke a 22-year vacuum in Sino-American relations.

The other top news stories of the year selected in the AP poll were:

2 — The attempted assassination of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace as he campaigned for the presidency.

3 — Terror at the summer Olympics.

4 — President Nixon's reelection.

5 — Henry A. Kissinger and his mission to end the war.

6 — President Nixon's visit to Moscow and the signing of the strategic arms limitation agreement.

7 — Sen. Thomas Eagleton and the Democratic vice presidential candidacy.

8 — The Vietnam war.

9 — Flooding that killed hundreds in West Virginia, South Dakota, Pennsylvania and seven other states.

10 — Supreme Court ruling on capital punishment.

The virtually impenetrable Amazon Basin holds enough timber to construct a three-room house for every family in the world.

Biela's comet was observed to split in two in 1846, and vanished completely in 1865.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Dec. 28, the 363rd day of 1972. There are three days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1836, Spain recognized the independence of Mexico.

On this date: In 1694, Queen Mary II of England died.

In 1846, Iowa was admitted to the Union as the 29th state.

In 1856, the 28th U.S. president, Woodrow Wilson, was born in Staunton, Va.

In 1869, William Semple of Mount Vernon, Ohio, was granted a patent on chewing gum.

In 1942, in World War II, Japanese planes bombed

Calcutta, India.

In 1968, Israeli commandos raided the airport at Beirut, Lebanon, and destroyed 13 Arab aircraft.

Ten years ago: There was heavy fighting between U.N. forces and rebel troops in the rebellious province of Katanga in the Congo.

Five years ago: It was disclosed that the New York World's Fair in 1964 and 1965 had lost more than $21 million.

One year ago: The United States carried out its heaviest bombing raids in three years against North Vietnam.

Today's birthdays: Pianist and songwriter Earl Hines is 67. Comedian Sam Levenson is 61.

"Notice anything different?"

"Sure! The 16-ounce returnable bottle of Coca-Cola now has a resealable cap."

"It's a great way to buy Coke."

It's the real thing. Coke.

The Scope Of Care

Aid Is More Than Food Packages

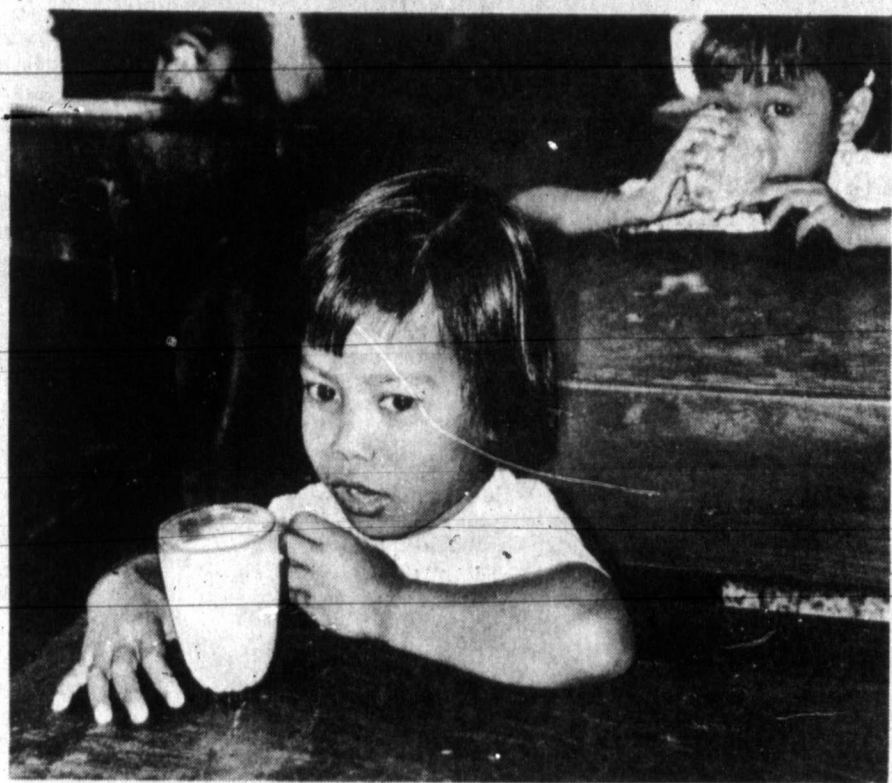

(First of Two Parts)

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — When a skinny type walks into a room, chances are someone will come up with the over-used crack, "Send her a CARE package." The CARE service has become so synonymous with food that it comes as a surprise to learn of all its other successful endeavors to help the needy.

The year 1971 marked a milestone for CARE — 25 years of serving. In 1946 the first food packages were delivered in Europe to help save millions from starvation after World War II. Since then CARE has reached into Asia, Latin America, the Middle East and Africa. And the experience gained each year has guided its growth into programs that span the range of human needs from food to health to skill and knowledge to help the hungry feed and support themselves.

The organization has not been devoid of assistance. Americans and Canadians, 41,250,000 strong, have contributed a cumulative total of approximately $282 million. Host governments have contributed and there have been U.S. donations of farm abundance for an overall total of more than $1.25 billion of assistance to the needy in 73 countries.

The image of CARE as a provider of essentials such as milk for these Indonesian children is a real one. But there is much more than the food package to the organization's full range of activities.

In self-help programs that benefited nearly two-million people the young were a main target. Work was completed or underway on shared-cost partnerships to build 504 primary schools, 17 secondary schools and 97 nutrition centers. Under self-help aid safe water sources were built for 399 communities.

Medical teams brought modern treatment and preventive measures to 500,000 persons while they trained local personnel to bring good health to millions.

In Bangladesh, under an emergency housing plan, 30,000 homeless families moved into 5,000 homes they helped build for themselves, with the help of CARE, before the monsoon came.

By adding host government contributions and U.S. grants, CARE provided $7.32 worth of aid for every dollar contributed by the public.

The familiar initials stand for Cooperative American Relief Everywhere and although the food-package image the organization bears is a real one, it is involved in so much more than that.

"Now we have a cookbook on the market," said Alexander Klein, manager of public information. "And the sale of just one copy will help feed 300 children." Yet the book is just $3.

Because this nonprofit group is so similar in its aims to the Peace Corps it attracts enthusiastic help from dedicated people who once were Peace Corps workers. And these are people who can get down to the nitty-gritty and administer help where, after being with the community to which they are assigned, they know where in the areas it is needed most.

"Believe it or not," said Alexander Klein, "CARE is a word in the Japanese dictionary. It's an open sesame word that changes a strictly business attitude to friendliness."

A case of mistaken sympathy, friendship

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor and friend of ours lost his wife about six months ago. They were a very happy couple and he took it hard. As a good neighbor and friend of his wife's, I made a special effort to be nice to him—inviting him for meals and including him when we had parties.

Maybe I overdid it, but in my eagerness to cheer him up, he got the wrong idea, and he asked me to meet him alone some afternoon.

That is the last thing I had in mind, Abby! I quickly told him I would not consider it. Now, my attitude toward him has changed. Of course, I'd never tell my husband, but it's difficult to just suddenly drop him without my husband's wondering why. We both thought the world of this man.

Should I try to overlook it, and include him? Or do you think he might mistake my kindness for weakness?

FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Give him another chance. But if he gets out of line again, tell him off and cool the friendship. [P.S.—Don't you have any unattached women friends who would enjoy his company?]

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl who loves photography. I have a very good camera, and I hope to make photography my career one day. My mother and I have been having this argument and we've decided to let you settle it.

When I walk down the street, if I see someone who would make a good subject for a picture, I stop them and ask if I can take their picture. Most people are happy to pose for me. I have taken pictures of men, women, and children, but most of my subjects are good-looking young men between the ages of 18 and 25.

My mom says I am just using the "posing" excuse to stop strange young men on the street and talk to them. [I am NOT!] She says I am asking for trouble and it is not ladylike to approach strangers.

Please don't suggest that I take pictures of buildings and statues and things like that. I like people!

DEAR JO: I think your mother is right. If you were interested in photography, you would photograph the lined, careworn faces of the aged, and the innocence of the children, and the beauty of nature... not the handsome faces of young men between 18 and 25.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter's husband thinks he is Van Gogh and insists upon hanging his less than mediocre "works of art" all over their lovely home.

He is a self-taught artist, and his painting is very bad. They look worse than homemade "paint-by-numbers" work.

How can my daughter tactfully tell her husband she doesn't want her walls covered with his hideous pictures?

Granted, there are worse hobbies. He thinks he knows enough about painting to teach others. Thank you.

DISGUSTED IN DULUTH

DEAR DISGUSTED: If your daughter were to ask me how to tactfully tell her husband she doesn't want her walls covered with his "hideous pictures," I'd try to help her. In the meantime, it's HER house and HER problem.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Have a very Happy New Year. And if you're drinking—don't drive—others will also have a very happy New Year.

Love and Peace,

ABBY

West's two-diamond bid was one of those Michaels cue bids designed to show both major suits but not necessarily a really good hand. North's double showed general strength and the bidding went on to six diamonds without much ado except that South did think about bidding seven.

South looked over dummy and was glad that he had only bid six. West's bidding had marked East with long clubs and it looked as if there would be no place to park his third heart. There were simple squeeze possibilities which would not work if East held three spades, including one higher than dummy's eight-spot.

Anyway, South was in six, so he led a trump to dummy's king. West showed out and now six was in jeopardy. South really huddled for awhile and finally came up with a way to endplay East.

He ruffed a spade, cashed his ace of trumps, entered dummy with the king of hearts and ruffed dummy's last spade.

Now he cashed his ace of hearts. East showed out and, assuming East's last spade had been played, the endplay was set up.

South played a third round of trumps and East was on, lead with nothing in his hand but clubs.

Unfortunately for expert South, he had been so excited about the endplay that he had forgotten to play out his king of clubs before throwing East in—and East just led a low club and South had no way to score three club tricks.

What do you do now?

A—Bid seven clubs. Your partner has used the grand slam force to ask you to bid seven with two of the three top honors in trumps.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three clubs, your partner has raised you to three hearts. What do you do now?

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, DEC. 31
Your birthday today: Your activity is a direct reflection of what you really want in life. The more you want, the more you have to do to get it. Today's natives have sharp memories, often drift into positions of great personal responsibility.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Just keeping the peace thru the year's end is enough of an achievement. Begin at home with those you love for generosity.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Be early and conservative in your share of the community's expression of faith. Take a long break, pray and meditate.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Experiments are to be avoided, particularly where the activity serves no practical purpose or may be hazardous.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Moderation is the key to enlightenment this long and perhaps tedious day. The evening brings sobering thoughts.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]:

Everybody has his own approach today, with clash in some respects inevitable. Help reconcile for a tightly packed evening.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Close friends, old familiars make good companions on this somewhat overcharged day and long evening. Give yourself a break.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Morning is divided between making your normal appearances and getting belated details ready for the evening.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Putting yourself out to be helpful doesn't really help—wait until you are asked, be there where you are expected.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Let people and their pet subjects alone—it's not time for teasing or criticism. Live and let live, beginning now.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Since nothing will be as well organized as it might be, be content that you had no part in creating confusion.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Listening can bring you ever so much more benefit than striving to convert others into doing things your way.

Places [Feb. 19-March 20]: As you march thru Sunday customs, think, feel, see, and pray for some lines between your interests and those of others.

Blend With Care

Make-up creates optical illusion and can play down facial flaws, but the important thing to remember is to carefully blend the make-up. If you're trying to play down that double chin (white you're exercising and losing weight) use a darker shade of make-up base under the chin and carefully blend edges with the rest of the make-up.

Pendant Styles

Pendants and medallions that dangle from chains and are worn over sweaters come in all kinds of designs. The latest is just a small purse-size mirror attached to a chain. The styles vary from a sophisticated antique silver to a casual and colorful papier mache.

Tom To Decide Which Quarterback To Start

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Coach Tom Landry was to name his starting quarterback for Sunday's National Conference title game with Washington today and if he went by vote of the Cowboy fans it would be Craig Morton.

Morton nipped Roger Staubach in most popular player balloting conducted by a local dairy but the votes were counted before Staubach's two touchdown passes in 38 seconds to defeat San Francisco last week in their playoff game.

Considering the boost Morton received at Texas Stadium this year, the ballot was still something of an upset.

"I'm surprised to say the least," Morton said. "Things sure do work in funny circles."

Landry's decision to wait until today to name his starting quarterback was not surprising. He admitted he wanted Washington to sweat it out as long as possible.

"It changes the pass rush and containment depending on which quarterback we have in the game," Landry said. "Roger will move from the pocket but Craig sets up in it."

He added "I think either quarterback can win."

Morton agreed that Dallas can win with either quarterback and added "Whatever Tom's decision I've been through it."

Landry said it was "a little distracting" for the quarterbacks to keep them on the hook so long.

He said the decision he had to

The Least, Worst All-Mediocre Bottom, Dismal Awards Return

By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK—(NEA) — It is that time of year again when trophies, cups, plaques, bowls and laurels flow with the uncontrolled volume of platitudes rolling off a sportscaster's tongue.

So it is also time for the second annual NEA Least, Worst, Bottom, All-Mediocre and Dismal Awards for non-achievement in the worst traditions of American sports.

Henry Kissinger Rose-Colored Glasses Award: to Roger Craig, pitching coach of the San Diego Padres, who finished last in the National League West and whose pitching staff had the second worst earned run average in the major leagues. Craig was still able to say, "Personally, I think I've done a great job."

Staubach has been battling the flu all week, but hasn't missed practice.

"Roger has a sore throat and fever but I believe we hit it early enough that it shouldn't be any problem," Landry said.

The Cowboys have been heartened by the vast improvement in defensive tackle Bob Lilly, who was suffering from muscle spasms in his back.

At McGuire, coach of nationally third-ranked Marquette in college basketball, made the comment after the Warriors had won their 77th straight at the Milwaukee Arena by edging unranked Northwestern 89-85 in overtime Wednesday night.

"Everybody talks about our winning streak at home," McGuire said. "But we've won 26 of our last 29 on the road and that's what I'm proud of. As long as we win this is the best thing that can happen to us."

"You know the heads get out of proportion sometimes, even my own, when we keep winning."

The Warriors, one of the few major unbeaten, won their sixth of the season on four free throws each by Allie McGuire and George Frazier in the extra period. Northwestern, 1-7, missed its chance for a major upset when Rick Sund's long shot fell short at the buzzer ending the regulation game 81-81.

Harvesters Play Tonight In Abilene

The Pampa Harvesters travelled to Abilene today for first-round play in the Hardin Simmons Invitational Basketball Tournament.

The tourney will continue through Saturday with the finals being played that evening.

Pampa has participated in two tournaments previously this year: its own Top O' Texas Tournament and the Midwestern University Invitational tourney.

The Harvesters won the Top O' Texas as they had consecutive victories over Sanger, 84-29, and Perryton, 59-48.

Texas-Alabama Clash Called "Incentive Bowl"

DALLAS (AP) — You might call the 37th Cotton Bowl clash between fourth-ranked Alabama and seventh-ranked Texas the "incentive bowl."

The New Year's Day joust between the powers of the Southeast and Southwest Conference offers a mile-long list of reasons for victory.

For one thing, Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant has never beaten a Darrel Royal-coached team. The proud Bear is 0-2-1 against Royal-coached teams.

Alabama, in fact, has never beaten Texas. It is 0-5-1 against the Longhorns down through the years.

The Crimson Tide also lost in its last Cotton Bowl appearance—21-17 to Texas A&M in 1967.

And last but not least, the "Bama players figure they have something to prove after Auburn's come-from-behind 17-16 victory over Alabama in the Pampa finished second in the Midwestern tourney as they were defeated by Borger, 53-48, in the finals of the tournament.

Pampa carries an 8-4 record into the tournament. The Harvesters have lost their last two games; the above mentioned contest to Borger and a game to Hereford, 64-57, last week.

Starting for the Harvesters will be high post Freddy Wilbon. Pampa's leading scorer; Randy Warner at low post, Bill Simon at forward, Steve Richardson at forward and Ricky Van Smith at guard.

Texas-Alabama Clash Called "Incentive Bowl"

last game of the regular season.

In fact, the loss to Auburn may be the greatest spur to the Alabama team which boasts a 10-1 record.

"We know we've got to restore a little pride," says Alabama quarterback Terry Davis. "I think the game itself will motivate everybody. It is unbelievable the way we lost that (Auburn) game. We've got something to prove now."

A victory over Texas would give Alabama an outside shot at the national championship, decided in a poll of writers after the bowl games. Ahead of "Bama in the rankings are Southern California, Oklahoma and Ohio State.

Texas would love a victory over Alabama to climb in the national rankings and also halt a two-year losing skid in the Cotton Bowl Classic in which the "Horns have been the host the last five years.

"We're hungry for a Cotton Bowl victory—that's for sure," says Royal.

Under Royal, Texas teams are 4-4 in the Cotton Bowl and a victory would keep him above the break-even mark.

A Cotton Bowl official set the tone for the Texas-Alabama match when he said: "There's no secret the Bear would dearly love to beat Darrel... That's why he wanted to come here instead of playing Nebraska again in the Orange Bowl."

"Also, he just might have a better chance of beating Texas than Nebraska, although the Longhorns have improved tremendously over the last half of the season."

Morris Home

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Eugene "Mercury" Morris, speedy son of a Pittsburgh truck driver, is going home.

"Well, sort of going home. "Call it going back, not going home," Morris said. "My memories of Pittsburgh are mostly cold and hard, usually involving some kind of struggle."

Morris, who ran for 1,000 yards during the regular National Football League season, is again braced for "some kind of struggle" in the city of steel.

He and the rest of the undefeated Miami Dolphins meet the Steelers in Sunday's American Conference championship game at Three Rivers Stadium.

Court Justice Harry Blackmun, who described baseball's antitrust exemption as "an aberration" and "an anomaly" but voted to uphold it anyway, because the San Diego Padres might not move to Washington otherwise.

Richard Nixon De-escalation Award: to Phillies pitcher Steve Carlton, who beamed Montreal's Tim Lincecum, then said, "I'm sorry I punked Foli in the head. I was trying to hit him in the ribs."

Let No Cornhusker Tear Asunder Award: to the Lancaster County, Neb., District Court, which settled a marriage dissolution case by ruling that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edholm would each get to use the couple's season tickets to University of Nebraska football for three games. Mrs. Edholm got fulltime child custody.

The Enos Slaughter Great Competitor Award: to amateur golfer Walter Barygost of Skelleftea, Sweden, who was bitten by a poisonous snake while warming up for a round, then returned to play 18 holes after he had received an antivenom shot at a hospital. He shot a 78.

Joyce Brothers Niceness Award: to 22,000 wrestling fans at New York's Madison Square Garden for not being fooled by the deceitful machinations of Professor Tanaka. "Tanaka had bowed politely to the crowd on entering the ring," reported the New York Times, "but the fans did not think he was sincere and jeered his every move."

QB Don Strock Leads Gray Over Blue, 27-15

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — "We made mistakes and the Grays didn't. It was that simple," Coach Vince Gibson said after his Blue squad lost 27-15 in the annual Blue-Gray football game.

One of those mistakes came during the first minute of play. Defensive back Ken Phares of Mississippi State intercepted a pass from Tony Adams of Utah State and ran it back 34 yards for a Gray touchdown.

Quarterback Don Strock of VPI, who gained more yardage than any other college back this year, led the South to victory

Wednesday night and was named the game's most valuable player.

Strock, who was also tops in passing, couldn't connect with a scoring pass in the game, but did pilot the South in their touchdown drives.

"Coach Charlie Coffey's squad was well prepared and played nearly flawless football. But we lost three interceptions and our receivers dropped too many passes and those blunders killed us," the North coach from Kansas State said.

Adams, who ranked just behind Strock nationally in total offense during the regular season, put together one scoring drive and climaxed it with a 16-yard touchdown pass to Doug Winslow of Drake in the first period.

The North's backup quarterback Dennis Morrison of Kansas State engineered another scoring march in the final two minutes with Martin Januszewicz of Syracuse diving over from the four.

Rice's Mark Williams kicked two field goals for the Grays besides booting two extra points.

Phares was selected as the Grays' most valuable defensive player.

The Blues have not won the college all-star classic since 1967 but the North and the South tied in 1969. The Grays lead the series 20-13-1.

Basketball Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Houston Rockets have stunned the Los Angeles Lakers by 32 points but winning Coach Tex Winter was worried, thinking it might be a bad omen for the next game.

"This score will be bad for us when Milwaukee reads it," Winter said after his Rockets had demolished the injury-plagued National Basketball Association champions 136-104 Wednesday night. "They'll say, 'Wow, look how much Houston beat L.A.'"

The Rockets, red hot after a slow start, try for their sixth victory in seven games Friday night against the Bucks in Milwaukee.

In the only other NBA game Wednesday night, the Atlanta Hawks edged the Philadelphia 76ers 121-120 on Don May's 10-foot jump shot at the buzzer.

In the American Basketball Association, Carolina downed Indiana 122-114. Kentucky topped New York 105-101. Denver nipped Virginia 115-113, and San Diego defeated Memphis 106-102.

Mike Newlin led the Rockets with 24 points, while Jack Marin and Jimmy Walker had 23 apiece and Rudy Tomjanovich 21. Gail Goodrich netted 37 points and Jerry West 24 for the Lakers, who played without starting forwards Jim McMillian and Happy Hairston.

May came into the game for Atlanta with 11 seconds remaining and hit his winning basket after grabbing teammate Pete

Safety Program

To Form

Mr. Paul Edwards, a qualified instructor in the use of firearms, has announced the formation of a firearms safety program for young people in Pampa and the area.

The program operates under the auspices of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission and is open to any young person over 12 years of age.

Those interested in registering for the program, which has been highly successful in past years, may do so by calling Mrs. Edwards at 669-7240.

The fee for the program is $1, which covers educational materials needed in firearms safety instruction.

Enrollment will be limited to 15 in a class. If needed, more than one class will be formed.

Purpose of the program is basically to familiarize youngsters with the proper techniques to be used in handling firearms; game identification; and to give them some knowledge of laws governing hunting.

Airlines stewardesses oppressed? How can it be?

Airline stewardesses, as we all know, smile unceasingly as they prance about scattering good deeds hither and yon. No matter what terrible things you say to them—even "I think I'm going to be sick"—they are cordial and sympathetic. And they all have such nice legs.

But discontent is often lurking on the other side of those smiles these days. Stewardesses are tired of being pinched by passengers, insulted by authors and treated like show dogs by the airlines, who employ supervisors to make sure stewardesses wear enough eye make-up.

This has, inevitably, led to the formation of a stewardess rights movement. The movement has not, up until now, done much good. This is evident from National Airlines' crude and imbecilic "Fly Me" advertising campaign and the continuing flow of books about the man-in-every-port sex life stewardesses lead.

But there is a militant new addition to the cause these days. The Stewardess Anti-Defamation Defense League.

It may offer some hope. Joanna Chaplin, a former stewardess and the group's founder, says she wants to combat the stereotype of stewardesses as "brainless, whorish sexpots."

Now like Miss America contestants and "Playboy Playmates," stewardesses are not entirely innocent victims of the institutionalized ogling that some of them are beginning to complain about. The real and imagined glamor no doubt lures many women into the job.

But stewardesses differ from their less-dressed sisters because they have a real non-fantasy function to perform. These are, for the most part, skilled, mature people doing a necessary job under often trying conditions, yet they are treated like ersatz mistress-mothers.

The stewardesses' complaint is, of course, only one vivid example of the general complications of sex discrimination. Stewardesses are girls, are objects of lust, are on earth (and in the air) for man's gratification.

But some specific steps can be taken to liberate the stewardesses' image. Airlines, for one thing, can stop advertising their planes as flying harems, remembering that women fly, too. (Has anyone wondered why, now that there are a few male stewards, we don't see any "I'm Bruno: Fly me" ads?) Publishers can show more responsibility by not putting out books that promote the nymphomaniac-with-wings image.

Energy Source

Scientists have figured that the sun generated enough electricity in one hour during its last atomic storm to supply the energy needs of the United States for the next 100 years.

Now maybe those who are so outspoken about construction of new power plants on earth can get together with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to figure out how to get an extension cord 92.9 million miles out into space.

Grants With 'Strings'

Remember how The News has been rather constant in reminding that when politicians "give" away tax payers' money, there are always strings attached? Other persons are becoming aware of that fact of life. Just the other day we picked up this quotation from Dr. Philip H. Abelson, president of the Carnegie Institution, who was discussing grants by the national government for research. Here is what he said:

"Today it is becoming increasingly clear that the man who pays the fiddler calls the tune. Those who staff the granting agencies are sympathetic to the needs of scientists, but the power to make policy lies with the politicians, who are increasingly exerting their authority."

We do not suppose Dr.

Abelson has opened up his eyes enough yet that he would recommend to scientist friends that they tell the politicians to take that "free" money—controls attached—and give it back to the poor tax payers?

Wit & Whimsy

What account do they charge for the computer programmers who work three weeks on a print-out that resembles a Christmas tree?

The local beanery now serves liquor. The food's no better, but you don't mind it as much.

Indestructible toys are ones any red-blooded kid hasn't yet unwrapped.

Clearing House

Editor:
In response to Mrs. Terry's recent letter concerning conditions in the city animal shelter, I would like to offer this information:

According to the American Humane Society, there are 10,000 dogs and cats born in this country every hour. This figure is 87 million 600 thousand every year. Of these animals, 80 per cent never find homes and eventually are destroyed.

Of all the animals picked up by the animal shelters, 5 per cent are claimed by their owners, 5 per cent are sold at auction, and the other 90 per cent are destroyed.

So, all of you people who "don't want to know" what happens to your unwanted pet, now you know. The real tragedy is that the suffering of these poor dumb animals is due to pet owners' negligence, ignorance and laziness.

Persuading a friend or neighbor to take a puppy or kitten is no guarantee the animal has found a permanent home, either, for in New York City the Society for Animal Rights says in a recent disclosure that 80 per cent of the animals sent to shelters are unwanted originally were acquired as puppies and kittens from their neighbors. The typical example is the no-brain parent who brings home a cute puppy to the kids, only to send it off to the animal shelter when it becomes pregnant, and suddenly not so cute.

The logical answers of course is to have your pet spayed, unless it is a show dog, or you intend to have your dog bred to another pedigree dog. The operation is very inexpensive, usually around $10 to $12.

I am sure Mrs. Terry is, as am I, an animal lover, and it sickens me every time I see a starving dog roaming the alleys, or crushed under the wheels of a car. I have seen dogs sit in the same spot, day after day, along the roadside, unbelieving they have been abandoned by their "devoted" owners.

I am sorry to say that until Americans become responsible to their pets, we will still have animal shelters.

A Night of Miracles

Prophecy became miraculous fact on a midnight clear almost 2000 years ago when a man child was born of a Virgin in the City of David. The Word became flesh and dwelt among us for 33 years, fulfilling all that had been written of Him in minute detail, even in His final hours of redemptive work on a cruel cross that the Incarnation so completely accomplished the promises of the Prophets is only part of the glory surrounding the most astounding truth in human history. With unfathomable, incalculable love divine, God sent His most precious possession into an unworthy world to be sacrificed so that doomed mankind could be pardoned for all time. Because this first Christmas brought the greatest gift of all—salvation in Christ Jesus—it stands apart as an event mysteriously superseding the mundane and natural, aptly but inadequately described as a wondrous unspeakably wonderful night...a night of miracles.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Americans Don't Want 'Revolution'

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some of America's intellectuals are in a departure from historical pattern, taking a great interest right now in their own country. The reason: They think the "real revolution" is happening here.

They look about them and see nearly all four of our major institutions under heavy attack—the political system business, education, religion, the family and its ways.

They argue, of course, that this is good, and they find it occurring nowhere else on earth with comparable force and speed.

At least a few of the approving intellectuals believe the assault won't stop until American institutions have been radically altered, in some cases along Marxist lines.

No one can question that the attack has been going on or that it already has produced some significant change.

Nor can anyone fairly contend there should be no change since change is a law of life.

It is quite possible to disagree, however, with the notion that the country's institutions are in for a truly radical makeover. Admittedly, the pace of change is faster than it used to be, but that's true of almost everything these days.

H. L. Hunt Writes

EXCELLENT CHOICE

The selection of William P. Clements, Jr., as Deputy Secretary of Defense is welcome. The new No. 2 man in our Defense Department should add luster to a highly successful career in private business and civic affairs. He has established a fine reputation in his hometown of Dallas as well as nationally. He did not go into the Defense Department uninformed in his new role.

He served with distinction in 1970 as a member of the President's Blue Ribbon Defense Panel. Seven men from various parts of the nation conducted a vast study of the defense posture of the United States and they compared our strength with that of the Soviet Union and Communist China. What they found did not make for pleasant reading but their report on "The Shifting Balance of Military" sounded a warning that the country should already have given.

The panel on which Mr. Clements served found that the Soviets have awesome striking power in their nuclear missiles, in their submarines and surface navy and on the ground. The shift in the power balance caused the panel to warn: "If these trends continue the U.S. will become a second-rate power incapable of assuring the future security and freedom of its people." The panel also declared that the trends and ultimate danger of the power shift were not understood by the public which it called "apathetic."

The report of the Blue Ribbon Panel was disturbing. Now Bill Clements has assumed the authority of office and he is in a position to help correct and reverse the trend in arms. We may be witnessing a too-long delayed acceleration in Defense Department action.

Most probably, the net consequence will not be drastic enough to win the intellectuals' final applause.

For one thing, a lot of the attack comes from tiny bands of dissenters who contrive, by volume of noise and other attention-getting tactics, to make their efforts seem larger and more significant than they are.

For another, to the extent larger numbers of Americans are involved, the evidence suggests that the assault is not bent toward purposeful revolution but is instead an exercise in frustration, a kind of wild flailing away at institutions which seem unresponsive to popular needs.

The intellectual may ask: What's the difference so long as people's energies are being expended in attacks which may bring down these structures?

The difference is huge. Nothing illustrates the fact better than the 1972 election.

The sweeping verdict for Richard Nixon was a decision among other things against radical change. As one reporter has pointed out, this same characteristic of caution was exhibited in the small specifics of the vote in California on various propositions. The far-out proposals went down.

The thing to say, then, is not that there is no attack upon American institutions, but that intellectuals who read it as "revolution" are grossly misreading it.

Indeed, a better case could be made out that the United States was closer to revolutionary change in the Great Depression, when a third of the work force was unemployed. That, for sure, was a time of breaking bonds and institutional overhaul. Yet, it has to be remembered that in six years the steam was out of the New Deal. Franklin D. Roosevelt turned his mind to the war and it was World War II, not sweeping social change, which cured the country's lingering 10 million unemployed.

No, Americans today are not questioning after revolution. But they are in a unique situation, which makes life in 1972 tantalizingly troublesome even as it avoids the dark depths of 1932.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Americans have accumulated an extensive variety of pets ranging from the ordinary to some exotic breeds of animals. Tropical fishes are the most prolific pets in the United States numbering about 500,000, 000. The World Almanac says. An estimated 32,600, 000 dogs, 26,000,000 caged birds, and 2,000,000 cats are also owned by American pet lovers.

Inside Washington

India Negotiating Purchase
Of U.S. Wheat—On the Cuff

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — It's being kept very hush-hush, but a top official of India's Ministry of Food recently spent a week in Washington paving the way for a huge purchase of wheat—perhaps as much as 2.5 million tons.

As usual with India, the approximately $250 million transaction would be on credit. That's what New Delhi wants. Whether it gets it remains to be seen.

India already owes this country more than $7.3 billion in loans, of which about half of these billions are repayable in "foreign currencies"—meaning India's steadily depreciating rupees, which remain in that country as so-called "counterpart funds" and are usable only there.

In addition to these immense credits, the U.S. has given India outright another $1.807 billion in economic grants.

Much of that was in grain and other food to keep India's teeming millions from starving. Some $518 million of this assistance was in the form of "emergency relief" of various kinds.

Total U.S. economic aid to India to date is in excess of $9.120 billion.

The secret visit of the Food Ministry official is an old, old story.

It never fails to happen. Every time India runs into a serious food crisis and is faced with the likelihood of widespread famine, New Delhi invariably starts smuggling up and spouting sweet talk.

That's what's behind that sudden rash of sugary overtures for the "restoration of friendly and cooperative relations"—meaning the U.S. to extend the friendship and do the cooperating to the tune of more hundreds of millions of dollars in grain and other food supplies.

Blandly shoved in the background are Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's venomous attacks only two months ago blaming the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency for just about all of India's travails and tribulations. Not only did she vehemently accuse the U.S. of being responsible for her aggressive war against Pakistan, but she even intimated the CIA was somehow behind cyclones from the Bay of Bengal.

You name it, and the fiery lady was willing to fault the U.S.

Sweet And Low
Now, only weeks later, it's a very different tune!

No scathing recriminations; no harsh denunciations; no shrill exhortations. Instead, it's billing, and cooing, and wooing. Listen to Foreign Minister Swarn Singh sweetly telling the Indian Parliament:

"We have much in common with that great country (U.S.) and its people. We cherish common values, such as belief in democracy, individual liberty and human dignity. There is no reason why our relations with the United States should not only be normalized but become firendly and cooperative.

This unctuous preachment was hooped as the official policy of the Indian government. Significantly, it was made on the heels of the secret visit of the top Food Ministry official.

Clearly, there was a direct connection between the fanfared rhetorical overture and the private one.

Sub Story

According to New Delhi propaganda being adroitly pumped out to U.S. and other foreign correspondents there, some 60 million people are in dire danger of famine due to protracted drought in important grain growing areas.

Reportedly chiefly afflicted is the huge sprawling state of Maharashtra, whose capital is Bombay on the Arabian Sea. Hundreds of thousands of refugees already are streaming in there, and into Poona. Sholapur and other large cities of the state—being housed in makeshift camps of bamboo and burlap and living on meager and irregular handouts from the local populace.

So far, very little has been forthcoming from the national government.

Until recently, the Gandhi regime talked often and loud about a "green revolution" it had masterminded that did away with the need to continue importing foodstocks. This alleged fabulous accomplishment was one of the epics of the last half-century.

It had made possible the accumulation of more than 9 million tons of grain reserves—so it was boastfully claimed.

Now it develops the "green revolution" is largely a myth and the famine-fighting foodstocks more fantasy. What small reserves were collected are rapidly vanishing to meet the spreading hunger crisis.

At the current rate of the tightly-limited distribution in effect, even the small reserve will be exhausted by March.

Hence the elaborate wooing of Washington—and public opinion in the U.S.

The Blunt Realities
That trick may not be as easy to pull off as in the past.

Militarily, India today is as much a Soviet satellite as Cuba, Syria and other countries.

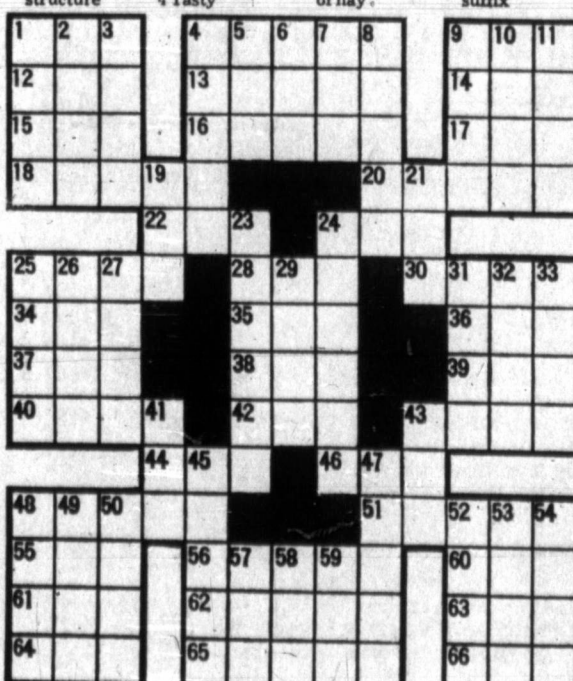

In the past 20 years, India has received more economic aid from the U.S. than any other country in the world—and displayed the least appreciation. About all the U.S. has gotten in return for more than $9 billion poured into India is haughty disdain and censorious recriminations—and often outright animosity and hostility.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee, caustically summed up congressional sentiment about this shocking background as follows:

"It's time we took a realistic look at such glaring and extensive inconsistencies and act accordingly."

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

The portraits of the young Dutch princes — children of Princess Beatrix and Prince Claus — appear on the 1972 Child Welfare semipostal of the Netherlands.

The youngsters were caught in informal poses by their father, whose color slides became the basis of the new stamps.

The 25 centimes plus 15 show Prince Willem-Alexander drawing a picture. The 30 cent plus 15 depicts a closeup view of Prince Constantijn who was playing with a teddy bear, which was not shown on the adhesive. The 50 cent plus 15 illustrates three princes at play.

Each stamp also has the country inscribed and the children's names noted. The additional values go to child welfare institutions in the Netherlands.

Your local stamp dealer should have a supply of these new stamps.

Speaking of children, the Republic of China's latest issues also have placed the accent on youth.

Four stamps have been released honoring the 20th anniversary of the China Youth Corps. The stamps show individual sporting activities — mountain climbing, skiing, swimming and parachuting.

Three new ones commemorate the 27th anniversary of Junior Chamber International World Congress. There is a single design for the three values featuring the JCI emblem combined with the "eye of the emperor," traditional symbol in that country, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

The use of filmstrips in philately is now becoming more popular with individuals as well as stamp clubs.

A new one on the market is "The Bible in Stamps" which dramatizes the most familiar Biblical stories by illustrating them with appropriate stamps from various nations. The strip features stamps from more than 25 nations.

For example, the Adam and Eve story is illustrated with Vatican and Ajman issues showing the heads of Adam and Eve from Michelangelo's Sistine Chapel ceiling, and a Lucas Cranach painting of the same couple in the Garden of Eden.

This biblical filmstrip may be purchased directly from Minkus Publishing Co., 116 W. 32nd St., New York, N.Y. 10001. The cost is $9.50 each.

Also on the subject of programs for stamp clubs, the American First Day Cover Society has a new color slide set entitled "First Day Covers — From Mini to Maxi." It takes the viewer from the smallest documented first-day cover to the largest sent through the mails.

For further information contact AFDCS librarian William P. Duffy, 83 Ridgeway Rd., Westfield, Maine 01085.

One of the unique exhibits at Stamp Expo '72 North (San Francisco, Nov. 24) is a set of stamps never issued and worth a King's ransom.

When the recently deceased Duke of Windsor was about to ascend the throne as King Edward VIII, the Post Office of Great Britain prepared new designs for the "Crownation" stamps. The occasion never took place and the stamps were never issued.

American philatelists, however, will be able to see for the first time these extraordinary design essay sheets, which never before were permitted to leave the British Isles.
