RIVERSIDES

8-Million Mile Test Each Year Equal to 320 Trips Around the World!

Guaranteed Life, 16,000 Miles. Average Life, by Actual Test, 24,879 Miles.

FREE Mounting Service at all stores

TAKE 25,000 miles, the distance around the world... multiply by 320... and you get EIGHT MILLION MILES. That's the total test mileage traveled each year by the RIVERSIDE Fleet of test cars, which must prove to US what RIVERSIDE Tires will do—before we will allow those same tires to be sold to YOU...

Notice how our 16,000-mile-guaranteed RIVERSIDE actually performs under these tests. Accurate records kept on every tire tested show that the average mileage for these tires was 24,789 miles! Fifty-Five Per Cent More than the mileage Montgomery Ward & Co. guarantees!

Nor were these miles carefully-selected, smooth, concrete-pavement miles, either—rolled off under ideal driving conditions. They were miles such as the ordinary motorist rarely, if ever, travels. Through blazing heat, pouring rain... snow and ice. Over mud, clay and gravel roads—across deserts, up mountain trails, and in tangled city traffic... Tests that not only used, but abused—and even punished—every tire on every wheel... average daily mileage per car being 600 miles.

Even more remarkable, perhaps, than the average test-record of 24,789 miles, is the further fact that 35% of all RIVERSIDES tested ran over 30,000 miles... and 13% ran over 40,000 miles... an average, for 48% of these 16,000-mile-guaranteed RIVERSIDES, of 35,000 miles—or OVER TWICE THE GUARANTEE!...

These aren't claims. They're performance FACTS, justifying ownership of RIVERSIDE Tires at ANY price. Note how much Ward's low prices, however, actually save you—and we feel sure your next tires will be these super-tested, 16,000-mile-guaranteed RIVERSIDES. Why not visit our store today—and see these astonishing tires for yourself?

NOTICE! Since the printing of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST of this week, which carries our Riverside Tire advertisement, prices have been reduced. The new prices are quoted above.

City's Growth Is Related In Meet Of Kiwanis Club

Delegates To Convention Of State Real Estate Organization At Amarillo Visit Here Thursday

THE GROWTH of Lubbock and the South Plains was the principal subject of discussion at a meeting of the Lubbock Kiwanis club Thursday noon when about 45 delegates of good will, coming from the recent Amarillo convention of Texas realtors, were present to join Lubbockians and other local citizens.

The realtors stopped in Lubbock while en route to Carlsbad, N.M., following the annual program of the state convention last night.

President Laid:
Due to automobile trouble, which developed at Plainview, R. E. Jordan, of Houston, newly elected president of the state association, and W. A. Thomas, retiring president, arrived in the city late for the luncheon but united with the party here for the remaining itinerary of the post-convention trip.

Twenty-five other realtors were designated in Plainview with Messrs. Jordan and Thomas.

In a speech of welcome, Mayor D. Woods outlined Lubbock's past development within the past four years, and explained the carefully scheduled city planning program now proposed for the city.

No group of citizens contribute more to the development of a city than intelligent, far-seeing and industrious realtors who adopt a code of ethics as you have done. Mayor Woods told the real estate operators.

Amarilloan Talks
C. P. Atwood, president of the Amarillo Real Estate board, after explaining that a realtor is one who is engaged in the real estate business, a member of the national board, and one who subscribes to a code of ethics, introduced Ben Short, member of the Amarillo Real Estate board, who responded to Mayor Woods' introduction.

At this juncture, Dean A. H. Eldrich, president of the Kiwanis club, introduced Joe Hess, president of the Lubbock Real Estate board, who took charge of the balance of the program.

Murray On Program
R. J. Murray, local realtor, gave an impressive talk in which he portrayed Lubbock's growth within the past 10 years, attributing the development of this city to natural resources.

Among those introduced were: C. J. Elmore, of San Antonio, winner of the "My Home Town" oratorical contest at the convention; W. S. Currie of Wichita Falls, past president of the state association; J. J. Rush, executive secretary of the San Antonio Real Estate board; and H. S. Dickinson, director of the

San Antonio Real Estate board. What I Think of Lubbock
C. P. Atwood, president of the Amarillo Real Estate board— "This is the first time I've visited Lubbock within the last two years. Within that short time there has been remarkable development."

Ben Short, Amarillo realtor—"All north Texas takes its hat off to Lubbock for the remarkable program of expansion you are now engaged in. You are building an educational institution here which will be a credit to the southwest."

H. S. Dickinson, director of the San Antonio Real Estate board—"I am glad to have the opportunity of visiting the city I have heard so much about. In the center of a great agricultural region, Lubbock should never slack in its building program."

C. J. Rush, executive secretary of the San Antonio Real Estate board—"Glad to familiarize myself in a small way with Lubbock. You have a modern little city here."

W. S. Currie, Wichita Falls, past president of the state association—

Lubbock is already recognized as one of the principal cities in West Texas. You are doing things which arrest the attention of metropolitan cities."

TO DISCUSS FOODS

Topic Announced For 4-H Club Meetings
The topic of discussion during the month of September for 4-H club girls of the county will be "Food Preparation" when Miss Louise Baird, county home demonstration agent will meet all members.

All yards entered in the yard contest will be scored for the second time during the fourth week of September. Richard Senter and Ike Walker, students of horticulture at the Walker, students of horticulture conduct the scoring.

No one can afford pimples

HAPPY is the woman who has a clear, smooth, flawless skin! Both men and women admire such captivating loveliness.

First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely—clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

SSS

A clear, smooth, lovely skin speaks of rich, red blood within.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh, and clearing the skin. S.S.S. promotes constructive metabolism (healthy body building). It increases the number of red-blood-cells.

When you take S.S.S. to get rid of pimples, boils, eczema and such skin troubles, you are building up the system to ward off the graver diseases of which these blemishes are Nature's warning.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

And You'll Snap Right into it Strong
Mother Nature knows her stuff. She demands 3 meals a day and it's a habit you can't escape. But in this high-pressure age, you burn energy, both ends against the middle. That's why you get "that feeling" at the mid-meal hours of ten, two and four. Solid foods take time to transform and tax digestion with extra effort you can't afford to spare. That's why it's better to eat lighter meals and drink a-bite-to-eat between.
Dr. Pepper perks you up pronto, but it's nourishment, not "nerve whip," that does it. You get the energy of invert sugar practically pre-digested and in a virtually non-fattening form. This, plus the tonic of acid fruits and the spicy tang of herbs, adds to your zest and aids digestion as no other drink can do. Don't let energy get low. Get this wholesome habit—it's happy, healthful, harmless and it helps like an ace in the hole.

Scout Membership Campaigns Started Over South Plains

Finance Committees Named At Tahoka and Ralls In Annual Drive For Funds For Boy Scout Work

A finance committee for the Tahoka membership campaign, South Plains Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, has been appointed from the Kiwanis club of that city and will start to work next Monday, according to an announcement made Thursday by H. B. Yates, executive of the council.

W. D. Slaton will head the committee and has as his aides Chester Connolly, W. O. Henderson and M. L. H. Bane.

The drive is to start August 19th and an effort will be made to put all members on a permanent basis, agreeing to contribute so much every year to the Scout work.

The annual membership campaign of the Ralls finance committee, South Plains Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, was started Tuesday and is meeting with good results, according to reports from headquarters of the council here.

Murder Count Is Denied By Tulsa

TULSA, Aug. 15. (AP)—B. O. Shepherd, Tulsa real estate agent, pleaded not guilty upon arraignment in common pleas court here today on a charge of murdering Robert Hatcher, 22, of Webb City, Missouri.

Alice Andrews, his 22-year-old secretary who said she had intended to marry Hatcher and who was held as a material witness, was released by officers today.

Hatcher was found dying Tuesday in an apartment said to have been rented for Miss Andrews by Shepherd. He had been shot to death.

Courting In "Horse And Buggy Days" Forgotten As Aged Man Seeks Divorce

Courting in "horse and buggy days" were forgotten Thursday when a 65-year-old man filed suit for divorce a second time against his two-time wife. The couple were married in 1887, were granted a divorce in 1894 and she has browbeaten him and abused her.

Alleging that his gray-haired spouse has browbeaten him and otherwise nursed a studied course of insolent conduct and outrageous treatment, he asserts that his peace of mind has been shattered.

Wants Singular Life He would live a singular life for the remaining years of his allotted time, or perchance would seek another spouse.

Several children have been born to the union, all of whom are grown.

He has agreed to divide their property, valued at $30,000.

Another Suit Filed Following close on the heels of the aged man's petition a young Lubbock woman brought a tale of woe in which she stated that she does not at this time even know the residence of her husband. That they were separated last April, after three short months of married life, and since the tie of separation she has not heard from her mate.

She charges that shortly after they were married the husband began a course of cruel and harsh treatment, cursed and abused her, called her bad names and refused to take her anywhere.

He also is alleged to have refused to work and support her, continually asking his father for money for support and talking about her to many people in Lubbock.

She asks a divorce, the return of her maiden name and other relief possible.

Probe Ordered Of Advertising Plot

TEXARKANA, Ark., Aug. 15. (AP)—An investigation into an allegedly fraudulent classified advertising scheme here today resulted in the technical detention of one man whom postoffice inspectors believed might have been responsible for manipulations throughout the state.

Postoffice Inspector C. W. J. Long left for Fort Worth with the revealing full scope of the government's suspicions. No charges had been filed either here or in Fort Worth.

The cooperation of a Texas newspaper in the government's probe is expected to be taken.

Temperance Head To Face Charges

NEW YORK, Aug. 15. (AP)—The Daily News in a copyright story tomorrow will quote Dr. S. Dana Hubbard, chief of the city health department's legal bureau, as stating that grave charges have been filed against Rev. James Empringham, national secretary of the Church Temperance society.

The charges were placed before Bishop William T. Manning and other officials of the New York diocese, Dr. Hubbard says.

Basis for the charges involving the practice of medicine without authority and supported by complaints of young women was laid upon official records of the health department. Activities of the now defunct health education society, of which Dr. Empringham was national superintendent, also were concerned in the report made to the diocese executives.

"I Sure Rejoice Over What Orgatone Has Done In My Family," He Says.

"I believe in giving everything it's due, and I want to tell you right now. I sure rejoice over what Orgatone has done for my wife."

said G. N. Atkinson, a well known blacksmith, residing at 1416 Fifteenth Street, Lubbock, Texas.

"Two years ago," he continued, "she began to go down hill with stomach trouble and nervousness and the agony she suffered was something awful. Most everything she would eat disagreed with her and gave her no end of trouble. Many a time she would wake up in the night with such nervous spells that she was unable to go back to sleep again. In fact, she was in a pretty bad shape and was so tired and worn out by morning she would hardly be able to get up at all. She got to the point where she spent a great deal of her time in bed and was not really able to do her housework and I was really afraid she would never get well."

"I read in the papers where one of my friends had taken Orgatone and that caused me to get a bottle for my wife and I want to say right now that she has got hold of the right medicine for her case at last. She says she feels like a different person since she started on Orgatone. Parents Of Theora Hix Former Texans

VICTORIA, Texas, Aug. 15. (AP)—Professor and Mrs. Melvin T. Hix, parents of Theora Hix, for whose murder Dr. James H. Snook was given the death penalty, formerly lived in Texas.

Prof. Hix was principal of the Victoria high school from 1889 to 1894. He and his wife came here from New York where they later returned.

The couple were in their early twenties and had one child when they located here. The child died while they lived here.

By coincidence, one of Snook's attorneys, John F. Seidel, represented some of the heirs in the settlement of the Mrs. Helen Halls estate here several years ago.

Director of the Census William M. Stewart. . . . Few heads of great corporations direct as many employees as he . . . when U. S. & Co. gets out its new twin models Q. and A.

Uncle Sam Will Count Noses Next April, and 100,000 Doorbell Ringers and Clerks Will See if U. S. Population, Which Is Gaining at a Rate Of One Person in 23 Seconds, Has Reached 125 Millions

By FLORA G. ORR

One birth every 12 seconds.
One death every 24 seconds.
One immigrant every 1 1/4 minutes.
One emigrant every 5 3/4 minutes.
Net gain, one person every 20 seconds.

THAT, according to an electrical graph on display in the Census Bureau in Washington, is the tremendous rate at which Uncle Sam acquired new nieces and nephews in the year 1926.

The hectic pace has slowed up a bit since then, however, and the present rate of increase is only one person every 23 seconds.

Since the last census taken in 1910 showed that the United States, exclusive of possessions, had a population of 105,000,000 and there are some 31,500,000 seconds in a year you can figure out the present population for yourself.

Or, if you can wait a few months, the Census Bureau will have it all figured out for you. Not by this convenient, if somewhat complicated, statistical method, but by personal interviews with every family in America.

Soon after April 1, 1930, one of Uncle Sam's force of 100,000 doorbell ringers will certainly be at your door quizzing you, for the whole coast-to-coast job is to be completed in so far as the gathering of information is concerned by May 1.

It is believed that the 1930 census will list anywhere between 123,000,000 and 125,000,000 persons. And as huge a job as it will be for the Census Bureau's field force to gather data on all these people, it will be at least equally difficult for the bureau's augmented staff of clerks to handle all the answers.

About 5400 to 7500 extra population for Washington, D. C., may be in sight for the next one to three years. The clerical force at the Census Bureau must be increased from 600 to 6000 or 8000. Many of these temporary clerks, however, will be drawn from the present population of the District of Columbia.

YOU can talk freely to the census taker. Uncle Sam has taken great pains to see that the information you give him is held in strict confidence.

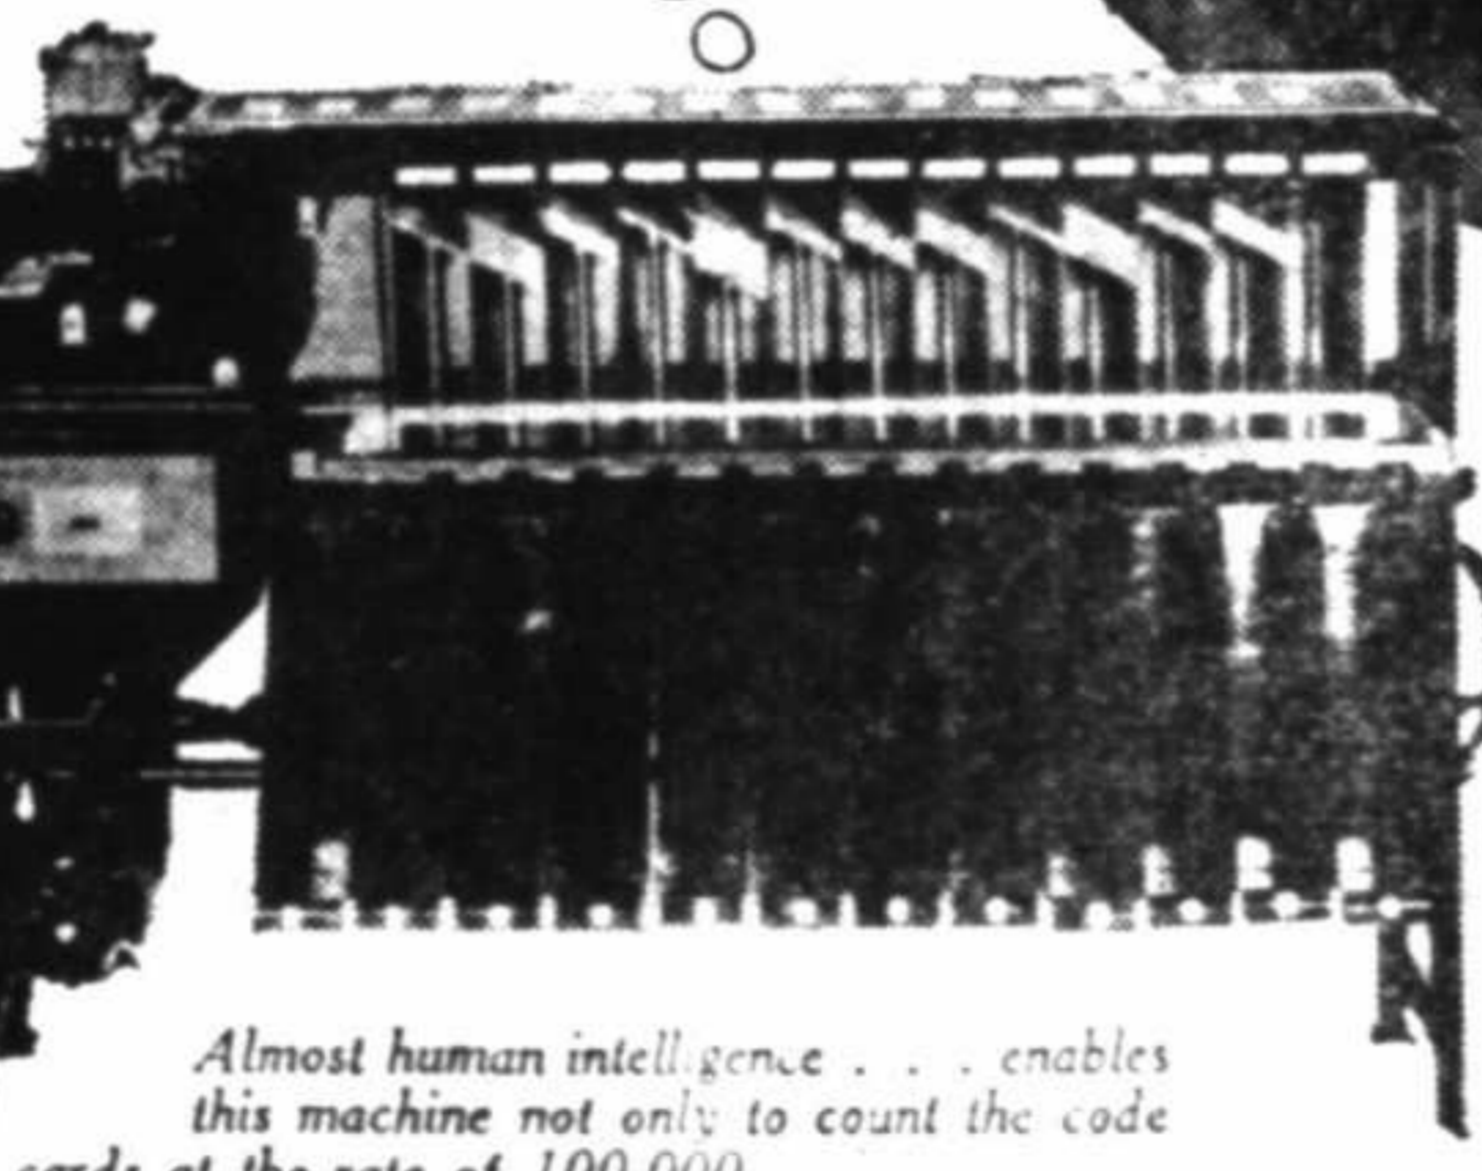

When your name and answers get to Washington you are given a number. That number is entered on a card, and the card is punched to indicate in code the information which you gave. Various masses of governmental statistics are compiled by means of these cards, but the sheet containing your name goes into a file, to which no one but the Census Bureau has access—not even another government bureau or department, such as the Treasury Department.

The punch cards are already being prepared. For the last census 300,000,000 cards were used. They had to be run through electrical tabulating machines several times to correlate facts contained on them and to compile various types of statistics, so that it amounted to running 2,500,000,000 cards through the tabulators.

Here are the questions which the new force of census takers are to ask every person in the country:

His or her relationship to head of family; home owned or rented; if owned, free or mortgaged; does family live on a farm; sex; color or race; age at last birthday; single, married, widowed, or divorced; attended school any time since Sept. 1, 1929; able to read and write; place of birth of person being enumerated, also place of birth of that person's father and mother; if not native of United States, year of immigration, naturalized or alien; does person being enumerated speak English; occupation, industry or business in which engaged; veteran of U. S. military or naval forces in any war or expedition, and if so, what war or expedition.

The last question is a new one, added to the schedule this year by the Census Bureau.

Almost human intelligence . . . enables this machine not only to count the code cards at the rate of 100,000 in seven hours, but to sort them at the same time into 11 different groups, depending on their code perforation.

condition, he declares, no matter whether they are living off their own incomes or being supported by the incomes of others.

On the other hand, someone who is able to work and who has a trade or occupation normally may not be working when the census enumerator calls, and when he hears the question, "occupation," he may inadvertently answer "None," regardless of the fact that he usually has one, or is capable of having one if opportunity presents itself. It is exactly such persons as these which the unemployment census should enumerate, therefore census takers are being very carefully instructed to get the correct answers to this question.

If the census enumerator asked all the questions which it has been suggested from time to time would be desirable from an informational viewpoint, he would be around your home much longer than the space of the short visit which he will now pay you. In fact, you might have to ask him to have at least one meal with the family if he took the time to gather all the sociological data desired in some quarters and which would undoubtedly be valuable if it could be obtained in this way.

THE number of radio sets in the United States, the number of men and women over 65 years of age who possess less than $5000, religious affiliations, incomes, value of properties personally owned, racial descents, responses to literacy tests, number of rooms occupied by each family, extent of schooling, number of children per mother, ability of citizens to read English with understanding—are a few of the suggestions.

It is at present the aim of the Census Bureau, however, to keep the schedule as simple and as compact as possible, and for the present at least, not to try to expand too much in connection with the population census.

In future years some method may be found whereby the Census Bureau's statistical work will expand to answer the questions constantly being asked in connection with immigration, law enforcement, public health, and a score of other subjects on which definite information is lacking. Whether such censuses will be undertaken in connection with the enumeration of the population, it is impossible to tell.

There have been attempts in the past to have the population enumerators get crime statistics. This was one of the duties of the census takers in 1890. They got their information from county and district court houses. And in 1880 questions on individual health were part of the census taker's schedule.

What a census taker's question blank looks like. . . . Substitute your name for any one at the left, follow across and learn what Uncle Sam wants to know about you and yours.

When your answers get to Washington . . . they are transferred in code to punch cards similar to this one. . . . Each individual has his own numbered card which ingenious machines count.

Long ago it was part of the enumerator's duties to furnish the names of all the deaf, dumb and blind. Even today each enumerator carries special blanks on which he is to write the names of deaf-mutes and blind persons, and these persons are later sent special blanks to be filled out by themselves or their families. Most public health statistics are today collected by the Bureau of Public Health, rather than by the Census Bureau.

Every name in the United States will pass through this battery of automatic tabulating machines in the Census Bureau. . . . The output of this machine is 400 cards a minute, tabulating in one operation any number of facts up to 60.

FROM time to time, framers of immigration laws have thought that information could be collected along with each decennial census which would help in making up immigration laws.

One suggested inquiry along this line was that each person should be asked the nationality of his parents. Another question suggested was, "What was your mother's maiden name?" But difficulties lie in the way of obtaining any exact information about racial descent from the answers to be made to these questions.

"Nationality" is a broad term. A native of Alsace-Lorraine might be either German or French. A Canadian may be Scotch-Irish, English, French-English, or any one of a number of other bloods or combinations of bloods.

Hundreds of thousands of Americans have no idea at all what their mother's maiden name were. Furthermore, knowing the names of parents gives but inaccurate information as to racial descent, as it is a common practice in this country to corrupt and change family names.

The "mother tongue" question asked in former population censuses relative to parents also did not work out to give any very valuable statistical information.

The Director of the Census has finally decided that if it can be learned in what country each of the parents of an individual was born, that is as much detail as we can ever expect to get with regard to racial descent.

An agricultural census is taken every two years, therefore the present one will be taken along with the regular census. In the Bureau of the Census 15 or 20 punch cards will be required to carry the data for each farm. About 100,000,000 cards are being prepared to take care of this year's agricultural census alone. In the agricultural census of 1925 more than 6,000,000 farms were enumerated by the bureau.

Business demands will have their way this year, in that a complete census of distribution and the way Americans spend their money for commodities is to be made. Such a study was made in 1926 in a few large cities.

Complete inventories of retail establishments, volume of retail sales by all kinds of businesses, sales per capita, number of inhabitants per store, employees in retail distribution, their salaries and the relation of their salaries to sales—and the same subjects of inquiry relative to the wholesale establishments are to be made.

Excepting in country districts, this census will not be made by the population enumerators, but by special enumerators appointed by the Census Bureau. Though American business is legitimately curious as to an analysis of where and how citizens of the United States spend the eighty billion dollars they are said to use every year for the purchase of commodities, nevertheless Director Stewart foresees difficulties.

"Furniture made by a Grand Rapids manufacturing plant may be sold through a wholesale mart in Chicago and move to its user without touching that city," he points out. "Copper mined in Arizona may move through San Francisco to delivery to a new owner at Baltimore, while the sale is actually made in a New York office. Where shall we say the business transpired? Transaction on the Chicago Board of Trade may touch the disposition of wheat that never moves out of Minneapolis. Duplications in this census are going to be hard to avoid, and the production of worthwhile statistics on distribution is going to be difficult."

THE first census of the United States was little more than a count of the number of inhabitants in 1790. It was undertaken largely for the purposes of determining congressional representation, and the distribution of taxes. United States marshals were the census supervisors.

Figures were added up by hand and the totals were sent to the office of the Secretary of State in Philadelphia, where the pencil arithmetic was continued in order to get the totals for each political division and for the whole United States.

By 1800 more details of age and sex were included; and in 1840 the government printed the schedules to be used and asked for still further details of ages of males, females and free colored inhabitants.

More tabulation than ever before is to be undertaken by the Census Bureau in connection with the 1930 census. There will be more detailed tables as to ages. These will be listed by 5's up to the age of 25, and by 10's from 25 up to 75 years of age.

The next two or three years will be spent by the extra clerical force in the bureau by completing the tabulations. Twelve or more large quarto volumes will be issued by the bureau as a result of the census and the subsequent tabulations.

In order to be prepared for the census enumerator's call at your door, it is necessary only to read the list of questions which will be asked and make sure that you can answer all these questions relative to each member of the household—man, woman or child. Everybody in the country counts, and everybody is to be counted.

HOW old are you? That is, assuming that you're honest. It would be interesting to know how many persons out of the approximate 125,000,000 about whom statistics are to be gathered, do not know how old they are.

A great many persons, it is evident, says Leon E. Truesdell, chief statistician for population in the Census Bureau, are uncertain on this point and have no way of getting any correct information about it.

The statistics on age as they come in this time are expected to show, as always, he says, that there is a tendency for men and women to approximate their ages. There is a strong concentration in the even numbers such as 32, 36, 42, etc., rather than much mention of such ages as 31, 37, 39 or 41, and a still greater approximation and concentration on the "fives" and the "tens," Truesdell says.

The growth of population in the United States since 1790 has, of course, been tremendous. It will be in 1930 more than 30 times as great as in 1790.

If the present rate of increase should go on indefinitely, statisticians estimate that in 1970 there would be 200,000,000 persons in continental United States. However, the present rate is not expected to continue indefinitely. The birth rate is declining. Immigration is being held down and further restrictions may be imposed in future years.

Nevertheless, 130,000,000 or even 140,000,000 is no idle mark to shoot at. We will get there all right, and probably sooner than we think. It is believed that by 1950, with all factors taken into consideration, we may actually have a population of 150,000,000.

Modification Of Rates Is Sought

AMARILLO, Aug. 15. (AP)—A double-edged campaign by the Texas Association of Real Estate Boards for modification of title insurance rates was in preparation today.

The realtors, before closing their annual convention here yesterday, adopted a resolution condemning the rates set up by the state insurance commission through a bill passed by the last legislature giving it jurisdiction over title insurance companies and decided that a committee of three would take up proposed adjustments with Texas title insurance men and with the commission.

San Angelo was chosen the 1929 convention city, and R. E. Jordan, of Houston was elected president.

Wheat Shows Gain In Thursday Mart Because Of Buying

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN - Associated Press Market Editor CHICAGO, Aug. 15. (AP)—Active general buying, especially on down-turns in prices, made wheat show gains today, during late dealings in particular.

Wheat closed firm 1 cent to 1-3/4 cents above yesterday's finish, with corn 5-8c to 2-1/4c up, oats 1-4c to 1c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25c. Estimates Circulated In connection with uncertainties about southern hemisphere crop prospects, estimates were circulated today that whether 1929 wheat supplies are to prove sufficient to meet world needs is depending largely upon the answer as to how close Argentina and Australia can come to harvesting average yields this season.

Primary receipts of wheat in the United States today were 3,122,000 bushels against 4,514,000 bushels a week ago. Corn values ran up sharply today in the late transactions. Receipts of corn here and throughout the west were small. Predictions were made that a big falling-off in oats receipts will shortly be witnessed. Provisions tended upward owing a good deal to lard buying for packers.
