Ira Heath has become a valuable man in industrial development efforts since he left the post of manager of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce nearly three years ago to join the Texas Industrial Commission's executive staff.

In fact, Heath was especially interested in this type of work while he was employed here as Chamber manager, and now that he is in an organization that devotes full time to it, he is in his glory.

Heath came up a little early with his family to visit his in-laws (the C. E. McCormicks) for the July 4th holiday and met with a local group to discuss, of all things, industrial development.

Actually, he set up the meeting with members of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation board and several other businessmen to bring them up to date on some things the Texas Industrial Commission is doing and plans to do.

First, he advised that the TIC is going in for computerized operations in producing industrial prospects with information on possible sites. The information on assets and resources of cities and towns& which is fed into the computar, will be updated regularly, mostly each quarter. The system is due to go into operation Sept. 1.

Heath also had some advice on various other aspects of industrial expansion, one being that existing industries often are overlooked in community efforts in this field. Actually, Heath said experience has shown that expansion of local established industry is the most effective way to promote greater industrial activity.

He also recommended a management training program which is being offered communities on a tuition basis through the University of Texas at Austin's Extension Division.

Heath said Gov. Preston Smith plans to set up a council for a comprehensive survey to determine where new industry has located in Texas and why, which areas have not shared in industrial expansion and why, and other pertinent facts that should be of considerable help in state-wide industrial development.

★ ★ ★

Heath, incidentally, has put on a little weight since he left Snyder, but he carries it well. And he still is real enthusiastic about his work.

Rodeo Plans Are Underway

The Scurry County Rodeo Association has plans well underway for presenting one of the top shows ever assembled in this area July 16-19.

The annual rodeo performances will be held at 8:30 o'clock each evening during the four-day run at the rodeo arena west of town.

A top feature again will be the saddle bronc riding match between the State of Texas and the State of South Dakota. Five of the top bronc riders from each state will compete against each other for a purse of over $1,000.

The South Dakota bronc riding team will be composed of Bud Day, 40, winner of three saddles and 17 belt buckles; two brothers, Tom and John Miller of Red Owl, S. D., the former being a top college bronc rider at 21 while John at 23 has won many buckles and always finishes in the top three in competition; Pete Longbreak, 37, winner of three saddles and 17 belt buckles, of Dupree, S.D.; and Jim Burns, 26, top bronc rider in the NRCA and winner of many championships.

The Texas team has not been designated.

Sloan Williams of Hungerford will produce the rodeo here again, and he has promised the toughest stock available for the bronc riding match.

A parade at 5 p.m. July 16 will officially launch the rodeo. Merchants and organizations are encouraged to enter floats. There will be a prize of $150 for the winner in the float contest.

Representatives of five of the larger ranches of West Texas will be special guests for the rodeo parade. They will represent the 6666 Ranch, Pitchfork Ranch, Swenson Ranch, Slaughter Ranch and the O-O Wallace Ranch.

Hoyle Nix and his band will play for the rodeo dances each night at the rodeo pavilion following the performances in the arena.

Kenyan Minister Slain By Assassin

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Tom Mboya, Kenya's 38-year-old minister of economic planning and development, was assassinated in a crowded city center in Nairobi at lunch time today.

Mboya was shot twice or three times by a lone assassin as he left a pharmacy in Government Road. He fell to the ground after being shot in the chest—apparently killed instantly.

The assassin was described as a young African, who fled in a car.

Police immediately sealed off the area, questioning witnesses.

The Kenya News Agency, two hours latr, confirmed Mboya is dead.

Mboya was a leading architect of Kenya's independence, attending the London conference that worked out the details. Independence came on Dec. 12, 1963.

As leader of Kenya's six million blacks, Mboya was the youngest member of the 50-man delegation sent to London.

He had disassociated himself from the Mau Mau uprising, an antiwhite rebellion that spread terror through Kenya in the 1950s, although he sympathized with the reasons behind it.

Mboya led the campaign for independence to the chant of "Uhuru!" (freedom.)

Mboya was born Aug. 15, 1930, one of 12 children of Roman Catholic parents. His father worked as an overseer on a sisal plantation on an island in Lake Victoria.

At the age of 23, he was elected secretary of the Kenya Federation of Labor and later was named a member of the Kenya Legislature.

Mboya was a socialist by inclination, an admirer of the United States and a professed democrat. He also was a firm believer in nonviolence.

Mboya was married in January of 1968 to Pamela Odede, a daughter of Kenya's elder statesman, Walter Odede.

She attended Western College for Women at Oxford, Ohio.

Mboya's name was always mentioned when successors to President Jomo Kenyatta were discussed. He was given little actual chance for the post, however, since he was a member of the Luo tribe and the dominant tribe and leading political force in Kenya is the Kikuyu, headed by Kenyatta.

A senior police officer said Nairobi's entire police force had been mobilized in a hunt for the gunman but added that no full description of him was available.

Shocked politicians of Kenya's ruling Kenya African National Union arrived at the hospital to see the body.

Joseph Ouma Nisa, Mboya's personal bodyguard, arrived at the hospital and collapsed in the road crying: "It's not true, it's not true."

Achieng Oneko, publicity secretary of the opposition party, the Kenya People's Union, arrived at the hospital in tears, saying: "This is not a political assassination. There is no question of parties here. He belonged to us all."

Preliminary Hearing On School Budget

A preliminary hearing will be held Monday night on the proposed budget for the Snyder Independent School District for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

The hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria, and it is open to the public.

Storm Leaves 8 Dead, 300 Injured

CLEVELAND (AP) — Twenty-five Coast Guard craft and 11 planes resumed a search today for more victims of thunderstorms which howled off Lake Erie into northern Ohio Friday night, killing at least eight persons and injuring more than 300 others.

Coast Guardsmen estimated that some 200 small craft, many belonging to July 4 boaters who were caught without warning, were capsized. They said at least 105 persons were rescued from the lake at Cleveland alone, but storm damage to telephone lines prevented reports on rescue efforts elsewhere. No drownings were reported, the Coast Guard said.

Seven persons—two policemen and a family of five—were reported missing in the northeastern Ohio town of Wooster which was cut off by high water on all roads but Ohio 5. Authorities said the seven were last seen in two separate boats near daybreak.

The storm smashed into the Toledo area at 8:15 p.m. Friday, cutting off half the city's power and producing a tornado which damaged some 10 homes in the city's Point Place area.

Speeding eastward with winds clocked at 60 and 100 miles an hour, the storms produced other funnel clouds in Hancock, Huron, Cuyahoga, Geauga, and Lake counties.

Extensive damage to trees and power lines was reported all along the storm paths which extended more than 50 miles into the state from Lake Erie.

A Toledo man was killed by a falling tree at Cedar Point amusement park near Sandusky. At least three other persons were killed in the Cleveland ara by trees, and two Cleveland men were electrocuted by downed power lines.

National Guard troops were ordered into Ottawa County and the Cleveland suburb of Lakewood to help clean up damage. Gov. James A. Rhodes said he would tour the northern part of the state today to assess the damage.

Several hundred persons were stranded temporarily on an island in the Cedar Point amusement park near Sandusky by high waters.

An estimated 200 persons escaped serious injury when a tent collapsed on them during a "Mardi Gras" at Fairport Harbor, east of Cleveland.

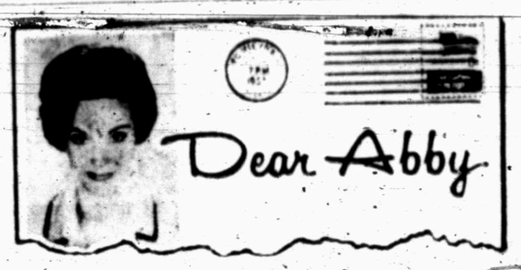

"I've never seen anything come up so fast and throw down so much water in so little time," said Robert Cullins of Dresden, Ohio, who was with his family at the Cedar Point amusement park when the storms hit.

"It was real funny at first, but then the storm came up all at once and everyone went into a panic," said Carol Harwell of Mansfield, one of the persons trapped on a small island in the park by rising waters.

"It just rained and rained," she said. "People were just running everywhere and there were lost children. Water was up to your knees in places."

"You saw it sweeping across the lake from the west, a real bad storm," said Clevelander Robert Coatman, who was in his 16-foot boat awaiting a fireworks display at Cleveland's Edgewater Park.

"We headed for shore fast and ran right through the barrier the city had just put up to protect swimmers. Twenty boats must have hit it at the same time."

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law, Molly, started to be about my age a few years ago, and consequently she has three children, everybody in her family off ces, and five years.

Molly and I both are 51, and my husband who is Molly's brother, is two years OLDER than I am. Molly now has become three years YOUNGER than I am!

I tell the truth about my age, but my husband keeps his mouth shut so as not to make a liar out of Molly. I don't care if Molly stays Sweet 16 all her life, but I don't like the idea of "older" than my husband who is really two years older than I am. What do you suggest?

FRANKLY 51

DEAR FRANKLY: Tell Molly to BE and ACT her age because you intend to tell it like it is.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: My mother should have been a school teacher. She has ears in the back of her head. Last evening a neighbor I baby-sit for telephoned and asked if I could sit for her next Friday night and I said I would, but while I was saying this my mother was yelling something to me, which I didn't hear.

Well, after I hung up my mother said, "I need you next Friday night, so you can't sit for Mrs. Lund." (I have a baby brother two years old I sometimes have to stay with.)

Mom said she would pay me what Mrs. Lund pays me, but it's not the money. A promise is a promise, and I promised Mrs. Lund.

My dad heard all this and he butts in with, "You will baby-sit for your mother, and that is the end of it!"

I think I am right and my parents are wrong, but I'll do what you say. I am 15 years old.

KAREN

DEAR KAREN: I think you are right. A promise is a promise, but you and your parents should have an understanding. If they have "first rights" to your services, you must always ask your mother if she'll be needing you before accepting a job with another. Call Mrs. Lund, explain the circumstances, and ask to be excused.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the business and my home telephone number is on my husband's business card for the convenience of customers who may have to reach me in an emergency.

I have asked my wife to please answer the telephone and if it's for me to say that I am out at the moment, and take the name and number of the caller so that I may have a choice of returning the call immediately, or from my office. (Sometimes I prefer to return the call from my office in case I need the caller's file to answer questions.)

My wife insists on answering the phone in her usual manner, and if it's for me she'll say, "Yes, he is here." Then she calls me to the phone.

I've argued and pleaded, but to no avail. Don't you feel she should follow my instructions? She's agreed to abide by your decision.

INSURANCE MAN

DEAR MAN: Chalk one up for yourself. I think your wife should follow your instructions.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I am 79 year old and here is my problem: Every Mother's Day my son who lives several hundred miles away sends me cut flowers. Since they are quite expensive nowadays and are gone in a few days, I wrote and thanked him, but I also wrote, "I don't want to appear rude or ungrateful, but if you would send me just a card and a few dollars that could be used for stockings or hair-dos, it would be much easier for you, and better for me."

Abby, my husband retired 13 years ago when wages were not so high, and we are living on a small Social Security check. Now, was I wrong to write what I did?

NO NAME PLAESE

DEAR NO NAME: Not in MY book.

Mr. Right Wins Again

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mr. Right has parted company with the Peter Duchins, but the melody lingers on—and, upon occasion, it still comes out as a victory march.

The 6-year-old bay horse, who scored several important victories for Mrs. Duchin, wife of the pianist-orchestra leader, won the prestigious Suburban Handicap at Aqueduct Friday for his new owners—one of whom is actor-singer Frank Sinatra.

The victory was his second in five starts and his first in a stakes this year, and in gaining it he led every step of the way.

But it was not an easy win, as Mr. Right had to repulse a furious stretch drive by Claiborne Farm's Dike to get to the wire first by a head, with C. V. Whitney's Champion another neck back at the end of the 1¼ miles timed in 2:04 4-5.

Mr. Right has to be one of the greatest gift horses in history.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in London said Mrs. Eisenhower, 72, was taken ill with a bad cold Friday night in Birmingham, while en route to Scotland for a week's private visit.

"Because of her age it was thought best to get her to a hospital," he said. "There is no question of evacuating her to the States."

An Air Force spokesman said Mrs. Eisenhower was in the hospital for observation "but it does not seem to be very serious."

Captain Testifies

SUBIC BAY, Phillipines (AP) — The captain of the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans said today the young officer on duty at the time the American destroyer collided with the Australian carrier Melbourne was one of his "more experienced officers of the deck."

Cmdr. Albert S. McLemore, skipper of the Evans, made the statement before a joint U.S.-Australian navy board as soon hearings into the June 3 South China Sea tragedy were convened briefly after a week-long break and then were recessed indefinitely.

J.G. Ronald ... Tunnicliff, 24, of ... watch when the Melbourne sliced the destroyer in two, killing 74 Evans crewmen.

Ramsey, warned that he was suspected of negligently hazarding a vessel of the armed forces, has invoked constitutional rights and declined to testify before the six-man fact-finding board.

Asked to "correlate" his expression of confidence in the ability of Ramsey with the fact that the young officer formally qualified for officer of the deck only 10 days before the accident, McLemore pointed out that Ramsey had been aboard the Evans for about 18 months.

"In the six months preceding the incident Ramsey came along well," the skipper said. "He stood watches for about three months prior to the collision."

Saboteurs Damage Israel Power Line

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Saboteurs damaged two towers on an electric power line to the port city of Eilat early today the army announced.

The sabotage apparently was in retaliation for an Israeli commando raid into Egypt's upper Nile June 29. The Israelis claimed knocking out a power line running from the Aswan Dam to Cairo.

The Israelis said their line was cut in the Negev, north of Eilat near the Jordanian border.

'80 John' Wallace's Story Featured In Exhibit Hall

SAN ANTONIO — From birth as a slave to a successful career as a Negro rancher is the amazing life story of Daniel Webster "80 John" Wallace of Mitchell County, near Colorado City.

The tall, ambitious Wallace eventually owned more than 10,000 acres of land and was one of the most respected ranchmen of the old west. In his lifetime, he saw the buffalo disappear from the frontier and was the oldest resident-pioneer of Mitchell County.

The story of Wallace and a photo of him are on display on the Negro histo-wall at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio.

Wallace's mother, Mary Wallace, had been sold to a family in Victoria County for $1,000 one year before his birth. He was born near the town of Victoria on Sept. 15, 1860, one year prior to the start of the Civil War.

When he was still a young child, his mother sent him to the fields to chop and plow all day. But his thoughts were elsewhere. He dreamed of riding the open range as a cowboy.

Since Wallace had grown up on a ranch and learned how to ride a horse and drive cattle at an early age, he went to work as a cowhand when he was 17 years old. He left the Victoria area with all his possessions tied on a saddle behind him.

The ensuing days were happy ones for the young cowboy who had realized his dream. The only cloud on his untroubled horizon was the frequent Comanche raid which usually occurred at night when the trail drivers were not on guard.

In a book on her father, published in 1960 and titled, "The Story of '80 John'" his daughter, Hettye Wallace Branch, described the early Texas of Wallace's youth as:

"Unsulled by barbed wire and train smoke, a cowman's paradise of running water, grass-covered hills and wide fertile valleys."

While working for Rancher Clay Mann, he made the long journey up the trail to Dodge City, Kan. In 1877, he helped Mann drive the first herd of cattle into what is now Colorado City.

Mann's cattle were branded with a large "80." It was from this that Wallace got the nickname that was to last a lifetime, "80 John."

In the years that followed, "80 John" suffered most of the hardships of the frontiersman. There was extreme cold in winter, frequent prairie fires and the big drought of 1883. But there were personal compensations. He was so respected by Mann that he ofter was entrusted with as much as $30,000 in cash to deliver to cattlemen at great distance in payment for new herds.

When the other boys spent their money in the dance halls, saloons and gambling places, Wallace went back to camp and saved his, for he had still another dream. He wanted to own a ranch.

With the money he saved, "80 John" bought cattle, which Mann permitted him to pasture on his ranch. Wallace branded them with his surname, later changing to a "DW."

In 1885, he purchased two sections of land, three miles southeast of Loraine in Mitchell County. This was the beginning of his career as a cattleman.

Things went well at first, but the drought of 1894 brought disaster to Wallace, who had to sell his cattle at a much lower price than he had paid. However, an old friend, Winfield Scott, came to his aid and loaned him $10,000 to restock his land.

In the 1890's and at a cost of $2,500, he drilled one of the first water wells in West Texas to be pumped by a windmill.

A man of little formal education, Wallace was nevertheless a good businessman. He was well-respected by other ranchers and generous with his time and money.

Although he had received only a little over two years of schooling, Wallace contributed toward the establishment of a Negro school near Colorado City, which was named in his honor. Later it became a high school and now has been integrated.

When "80 John" died on March 28, 1939, he was the owner of 10,000 acres of land, 600 cattle, a modern eight-room house, barns, lots and corrals.

Today, his descendants still operate the ranch founded on the dreams, ingenuity and hard work of a former Negro slave.

ART SHOW AWARDS MADE

Thousands Celebrate 4th

Thousands were in Towle Memorial Park on July 4 for Snyder's 9th annual Independence Day celebration, which closed out with a colorful fireworks display shortly before 10 p.m.

Activities, launched with the flag-raising and parade Friday morning, included special entertainment, an art show, a fishing rodeo, a tennis tournament, etc.

Everything went off mostly as scheduled, except the Goodfellow Air Force Base Drum and Bugle Corps, sent its regrets. The AF organization had been scheduled to appear in the parade, but had too many men on leave over the holidays, officials said.

In the art show, grand prize winners in the judging events were Roxanna Huddleston in the Junior Division; Rosalie McGlaun in the Professional Division; and Lu Bright in the Amateur Division.

Mrs. Bright also won the Bennett award for "public choice" in the senior division, while Karen Hardy, Rte. 1, Snyder, won the public choice award in the junior division.

The grand prize winners in the judging received traveling trophies which they may keep for one-year. The trophies are contributed by Mr. and Mrs. Bentley Baize, H. A. Johnson and the Sherwin Williams Paint Store.

Leopard Kills Mate In Zoo

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A black leopard killed his spotted mate of three years in a fight in their Los Angeles Zoo compound before a dozen Fourth of July visitors.

At first the spectators thought the cats were just playing, but as the pawing and screaming increased, one ran for a zoo keeper.

When the keeper arrived, the female leopard was dead of a broken neck.

A zoo spokesman said no reason for the fight was apparent, but added it was not unusual for leopards to fight in captivity.

Bonny Getting Lazy On Space Trip

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Space scientists were wondering today whether astro-monk Bonny was getting a bit lazy as he orbited the earth for a seventh day.

Officials at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center said the 14-pound male monkey was not as active as he was earlier.

Instrument readings Friday showed a "slightly lower metabolic state" for the animal, scheduled for a 30-day space ride.

"This means he hasn't been converting as much food to energy," Ames officials said, "and was not very active."

Taken for dead, Bayne was placed in the morgue. He was revived when a morgue attendant noted signs of life.

Golf Plans Revealed

The annual Partnership Golf Tournament, originally set for this weekend, has been cancelled. However, three other tournaments have been scheduled for the near future at Snyder Country Club.

Next Sunday, the Ladies Golf Association is sponsoring a Ladies String Tournament. This is an annual event in which contestants get a piece of string that measures one foot for each stroke of handicap they have. They can use the string anywhere on the course to move their ball that much loser to the hole. Entry fee is $4, and entries may be turned in at the pro shop.

A Junior Invitational Tournament will be held July 16-17 with four divisions: 12 and 13 year olds; 14 and 15 year olds; 16 and 17 year olds; and 8 and over.

Boys competing in the older division who are not eligible to compete in Interscholastic League play next year will be eligible for the 18 and over division.

Entry fee is $10 for the 18 and over division, and merchandise awards will be awarded as prizes. Entry fee in each of the other divisions is $3 with trophies to be presented to the top three in each division.

Contestants will see a movie of the Masters Tournament and participate in a "hamburger feed" on the 16th. Entries may be mailed to Box 641 in care of Lonnie Crosby or called in to 573-9202.

The annual 3-day partnership tourney also will be held on the Labor Day weekend.

ASTROS HAND PADRES 6TH STRAIGHT LOSS

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Padres, who have been shut out in 17 of their first 82 games as National Leaguers, have made a pitch to acquire Philadelphia's suspended slugger, Richie Allen.

However, Padre president Buzzie Bavasi learned in a phone talk with Phils general manager John Quinn that Philadelphia plans to make no disposition of Allen, at least until next fall. One reason is that the major league trading deadline was June 15 and it won't be lifted until early fall.

Some major league clubs are known to be wary of Allen, whose long history of trouble with Philadelphia management reached a climax recently when he failed to show up for a doubleheader at New York. That's when the Phils suspended him.

Richie says he'll never play for Philadelphia again, but he doesn't scare Bavasi.

"Any team that wouldn't be interested in a .300 hitter who might hit 50 homers a year is crazy," Bavasi said here Friday before Houston's Larry Dierker pitched a six-hitter to hand the Padres their sixth straight loss, 4-0.

It was San Diego's 25th setback in its last 28 games and its sixth straight against the Astros. The Padres have scored only 14 runs while losing seven of 11 skirmishes against the Texas Club.

The Padres nominated Clay Kirby, 2-10, to oppose Houston lefty Denny Lemaster, 7-8, in today's game. The series concludes Sunday.

"I don't know if we can work out a trade for Allen," Bavasi said, "but he's just what we need: Another hitter and one with power." Bavasi believes that the insertion of Allen into a lineup that includes Ollie Brown, Nat Colbert and Al Ferrara would transfer the Padres into runmakers.

As it is, the Padres are putty in the hands of someone like Dierker, 11-5, the 22-year- old Houston righthander who has allowed San Diego four runs in four starts this year, a total of 33 innings.

Dierker, who has won three games in a row, was amazed by Friday night's triumph.

"I didn't have a thing when I was warming up," he said, "and I told Johnny Edwards that I was really going to have to finesse them," he said. "But once the game started, my stuff came back."

Bill Morgan, associate editor of the Dallas Times Herald Sunday Magazine, was named to replace Evans as information director for both organizations.

Evans will continue as administrative assistant.

Braves Bound Back Into First Place

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Shreveport Braves finally found home plate Friday night, and it put them back into sole possession of first place in the Texas League's Eastern Division.

After being shutout in both ends of a doubleheader Thursday night, the Braves rebounded with an 8-3 victory over Memphis Friday to take a one-game lead over the Blues in the dog fight for the Eastern Division crown.

Lefty Mike Price yielded only four hits in pacing Albuquerque past Amarillo. The Dodger victory snapped a five-game losing streak.

Lake Spence Fish Growing

There's good news for the fishermen from Lake E. V. Spence.

Sample nettings by representatives of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission have disclosed satisfactory to remarkable growth of fish, according to R. A. Schooling, administrative assistant for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Most surprising growth has been by the stripped bass, a new species being introduced for the first time into an area reservoir. Hatched 60 days ago, these fish measured about four inches with a few going up as high as 4½ inches.

Black bass, spawned this season, have topped three inches. Other varieties, including types of catfish, have made somewhat similar gains.

Another check will be made within a fortnight, and on the basis of findings, a decision may be reached on when to open the lake near Robert Lee to fishing. Schooling is hopeful that this can be done some time in August.

Minnesota Rips A's, Gains On Oakland

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

With Norm Cash and the weather man as a 1-2 punch, the Detroit Tigers kept alive a spark in the American League's Eastern Division race this July 4.

But the real fireworks remain in the Western Division where the Minnesota Twins exploded in the face of Oakland.

The Twins celebrated the holiday by bombing the A's 10-4 as Harmon Killebrew, Rod Carew and Leo Cardenas blasted home runs.

The outburst dwindled Oakland's first place lead over the Twins to four percentage points with two games to go in the three-game showdown series.

Cash ignited Detroit's 4-1 victory over Baltimore with a three-run homer and then the weather man snuffed out any chance for a Baltimore fireworks display as rain ended the contest after 5 2-3 innings. It also washed out the second game of the scheduled twin bill.

But the Tigers have a long way to go if they still expect to catch Baltimore, for despite the victory, they still remain 10 games behind the high-flying Orioles.

Boston stood 11 games behind Baltimore with a 7-4 victory over Washington after the Red Sox dropped their seventh in a row, 5-1, in the opener of the twinbill.

In other games, Kansas City swept two from Seattle 13-2 and 3-2, the New York Yankees tripped Cleveland 5-4 before losing 4-1, and California stopped the Chicago White Sox 7-3 and then lost 3-1.

In the National League the Chicago Cubs beat St. Louis 3-1 in 10 innings, Cincinnati halted Los Angeles 4-1, the New York Mets swept Pittsburgh 11-6 and 9-2, San Francisco beat Atlanta 7-6 in 10 innings and 7-3, and Houston blanked San Diego 4-0.

The Twins, winning for the fifth time in six games, jumped on Jim Hunter for the three homers and seven runs in the first four innings. Killebrew hit his 20th with a man on, Carew hit his sixth with one on and Cardenas' fifth was a solo shot. Tony Oliva also doubled twice for two runs in te 16-hit attack.

Bob Miller, 2-2, took advantage of the bombardment for his second straight starting victory after making only one start in his previous 30 appearances.

Cash's homer came in the first inning off loser Mike Cuellar, 8-7, before a torrential thunderstorm delayed play for 68 minutes in the third inning at Detroit.

Frank Robinson hit a homer in the fifth for Baltimore but the rains finally settled the issue after a 45 minute wait entering the bottom of the fifth.

Mickey Lolich, 11-4, won his ninth consecutive game as the Tigers made it four in a row.

Frank Howard hit his 28th homer and Ken McMullen added four singles for three runs in Washington's victory, but the Red Sox powered back in the nightcap behind Carl Yastrzemski's 23rd homer with a man on and Reggie Smith's 16th. Tony Conigliaro doubled for three more runs.

Kansas City crushed the Pilots in their opener as Joe Foy, Pat Kelly and Leo Piniella doubled home five of six tie-breaking runs in the seventh inning and Bob Oliver added the Royals' first grand slam in the eighth. Roger Nelson, 5-7, breezed with a four-hitter.

Paul Schaal's sacrifice fly and run-scoring singles by Oliver and Kelly put the Royals ahead 3-0 in the nightcap. Reliever Don O'Riley saved the victory for Dick Drago, 4-7, after Steve Hovley hit his first major league homer for Seattle in the eighth and Gus Gil singled in another run.

Flint Golfers Frown At Rain

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Officials tried again today to get in the second round of the weather-plagued Buick Open golf tournament amid rumors that the $125,000 event may be in its last year.

A series of violent thundershowers forced cancellation of the second round Friday. The schedule now calls for 18 holes today and a 36-hole windup on Sunday.

The weather forecast was for more thundershowers today on the waterlogged, 7,001-yard, par 72 Warwick Hills Country Club course.

Only a few of the field of 143 had started play Friday when the rain and lightning sent players and spectators scurrying for cover.

No one had finished 18 holes of play, but Bob McCalister, who had an opening 68, had clipped three more strokes off par through seven holes and had moved into a share of the lead with R. H. Sikes and Homero Blancas at seven under.

Neither Blancas nor Sikes, who shared the first-round lead with 65s, had started.

McCalister, like all the other early starters, had his round washed out. They had to begin all over again today.

Jerry Rideout, tournament chairman and a Buick official, noted the rumors that the tournament may not be held next year and said:

"We get these rumors every year. Of course, we take a look at it each year. But right now, so far as I know, there are no plans to cancel the tournament.

"A lot depends on dates," he said. "We're completely at the mercy of the PGA. If they gave us dates in August, for example, we couldn't hold it. It's too close to the time for the announcement of new cars."

The tournament, both this year and last, conflicts with the prestigious British Open. Most of the game's top names, including Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Lee Trevino, Orville Moody and Billy Casper, have passed it up.

Laver Meets Newcombe In Wimbledon Singles Finals

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Rod Laver, rated the world's top tennis player, says the age of the big, booming service is passing.

"As the years go by, you will find that the return is becoming more important than the service," the 30-year-old Australian left-hander said—and today he was hoping to prove it on Wimbledon's center court.

Laver, holder of the Wimbledon title, faced big-serving John Newcombe in the men's singles final, which carried a first prize of $7,200.

Laver, 30, packs a hefty service himself. But it's his returns—and particularly his backhand returns—that win him titles.

He is half way towards the Grand Slam—the world's four major tennis titles in one year. He has already won the Australian and French crowns. The U.S. Nationals at Forest Hills have still to come after Wimbledon.

Only Donald Budge of America has pulled off the big slam apart from Laver himself. Budge did it in 1938 and Laver in 1962.

The 1969 Wimbledon tournament approached its end in blazing sunshine and amid tremendous enthusiasm. Friday night, hundreds of fans were sleeping out on the sidewalks, ready to lead the rush for standing room on the center court for the final. All the seats were sold months ago.

Mrs. Ann Jones, 30-year-old English left-hander, gave the British fans cause for enthusiasm Friday. She defeated the reigning champion, Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 and won the women's crown for the first time after 13 years of trying.

In that time Mrs. Jones—the former Ann Haydon—had reached the final once and the semifinals seven times. But she had always been the bridesmaid.

Mrs. King had won Wimbledon three years running and was rated the world's top woman player.

"It's a bit of a relief to lose that halo," Billie Jean said. "It gives me something to fight for at Forest Hills next month."

The partisan crowd of 15,000 went crazy with excitement when Mrs. Jones won the match and received the trophy from Princess Anne, daughter of Queen Elizabeth. It was the first British triumph since Angela Mortimer won the crown in 1961—and one of the very few British successes in the memories of most of the spectators.

One other title was decided Friday. Newcombe and his Australian partner, Tony Roche, defeated Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., and Tom Okker of The Netherlands 7-5, 11-9, 6-3 to take the men's doubles crown for the third time in five years.

Two unseeded American girls, Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif., and Margaret Michel of Pacific Palisades, Calif., have fought through to today's women's doubles finals. They faced Australians Mrs. Margaret Court and Judy Tegart.

ANNOUNCEMENTS A

WE TAKE this means to express our sincere thanks to our many friends who were so kind to us in our darkest hour of sorrow. When our loved one was called away. We deeply appreciate the kind words and beautiful flowers that were sent, also the food that was prepared. May you have just such friends if such sorrow ever visits your home. May Heaven's richest blessing fall on each of you.

London Is The Abortion Capital

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP)—They call it "the London solution" and for several countries, including the United States, it has made the city "the abortion capital of Europe."

The women come here because abortions are now legal, medical standards are high, and hometown gossips are far away.

And there are strong signs that since the beginning of the year they have come here in steadily increasing numbers that the British view as alarming.

Foreigners who come here for a long weekend and a quick abortion are still a minority of the women whose pregnancies are terminated in the British Isles. But they are the ones who have received most of the attention in the past week as the British press has investigated London's role as "the abortion capital."

Already there are signs the law will be tightened. The British Medical Association is demanding it. A Conservative member of Parliament, Norman St. John Stevas, is introducing a bill July 15 that would require anyone seeking an abortion in Britain to prove six months residence in the country.

Meanwhile the London solution still works. Newspapers have carried reports on package deals combining plane fares with operations in private abortion clinics. Taxi drivers at London airport have admitted that, for a commission, they have directed women to these clinics immediately after their arrival.

Abortions were made legal in Britain 14 months ago to give the woman who really needed one a chance to have it under safe conditions. Some 41,496 legal abortions were performed by May 27. Government figures show that up to last Dec. 31, only five per cent of the abortions in Britain were performed on foreigners.

But doctors who work in clinics performing abortions say this percentage has increased markedly since Jan. 1. Current estimates are that between 100 and 200 abortions a week are performed on foreigners—as high as 15 per cent of the total.

The biggest proportion of these are said to involve women from the United States, and Canada, then Germany, then other European countries.

Beachfront Eventt Attracts Hippies

VENICE, Calif. (AP) — It was a "feed-in"—and about 1,500 hungry eaters elbowed into a plentiful supply of bread and cold cuts.

The beachfront event Friday attracted hippies and middle-class residents of this Los Angeles district, and police.

Officers said the affair was free rom serious disorder.

A total of 28 persons were arrested on charges ranging rom indecent exposure to illegal distribution of literature and possession of marijuana.

CAREER CORNER

By F. J. LAIN

Miss Lain awards a Mercury portable, courtesy of the Royal Typewriter Co., to Donetta Allen, Spencer, Oklahoma:

"Do you think it's necessary for a girl to go to college to become a secretary if she takes all available business courses in high school? What are the advantages of further training in college?"

A. — Let's find out. I asked three major league secretaries what their thoughts were on your question.

"College offers quite a few advantages to a secretary," was the response of the president of the National Secretaries Association (NSA), Mrs. Leonore S. Forti. In her career, Mrs. Forti is secretary to the senior vice president of the J. L. Hudson Co. in Detroit.

Figures developed by the NSA show the average formal education of their 26,000 members is 13 years and four months. The trend is toward obtaining an associate degree (two years of college) before embarking on a secretarial career.

SMART SECRETARYING. Mrs. Forti does not feel it is absolutely essential to make the campus scene but is thumbs up on education: "College gives you an in-depth training, an all-around knowledge you don't get in high school. Most business executives are college - trained and increasingly ask for college - trained secretaries who can keep up with them."

The secretaries' first lady also points out that a top secretary should be able to think at the executive level and adds, "Academic courses in high school and college are as important as the business courses. I suggest that a girl attend an accredited junior college or college where credits are transferable in the event that she decides to continue her education in night school or later in life."

1969 SECRETARY-OF-THE-YEAR, Mrs. Bobbye Odgen, who is the right hand to the president of the Florence Miller Cosmetics Co. in Dallas, concurs, "The technical skills are necessary, but so is a more balanced fund of knowledge. Today's secretary gets into the decision-making area to the extent that she's called upon to make minor decisions based on company policy, particularly when her boss is unavailable. And she is often responsible for gathering information and putting it in usable form for the boss to make big decisions. The business world is moving so fast and so many demands are being placed on the modern executive that the secretary almost has to be another brain — thinking and storing information in her memory banks. A college background is very helpful."

OCTAVIA BENNETT has a job many gals would like. She works for the president of Columbia Records in New York. This supersecretary says that "College rounds out a secretary's background in many areas. And the more knowledgeable the secretary, the more the boss can delegate responsibility."

ALL THREE VOTE YES for college if possible. In cases where it is not possible, or for girls who do not acquire business skills in high school or college, a private business school can be quite helpful. Ask your teachers to recommend a good one.

AVERAGE SALARIES for secretaries, according to a June 1968 survey by the U.S. Department of Labor, are $463 at the bottom level of skill, $522 at the second level, $557 at the third, and $606 at the highest level. Salaries are probably 4 to 5 per cent higher now, based on past increase rates.

FREE ADMINISTRATIVE AID. The National Secretaries Association has several pamphlets, available in single copies, of interest to future and present secretaries. Two are "Future Secretaries Association" which describes an organization for students, and "Certified Professional Secretary Capstone" which gives information about the certifying program and examination (means you're a first-rate secretary when you become a C.P.S.) If you want a copy of either or both, send me a stamped, self - addressed, long, white envelope in care of this newspaper. Write "Secretary" on outside envelope.

TOMORROW'S SECRETARIES will have to work with increasingly complicated office equipment. Some spage - age prospects: voice - activated typewriters, correspondence "written" on video phones, filing in computers. Which only proves you'll need all the education you can get to outsmart the machines.

Border Dispute Plan Is Endorsed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan for Costa Rica, Guatemala and Nicaragua to mediate the border dispute between Honduras and El Salvador has been unanimously endorsed by the council of the Organization of American States.

The OAS resolution approved Friday urged Honduras and El Salvador to avoid any action that might further endanger the situation in Central America. The council will meet July 10 to review mediation efforts.

The United States supported the plan and John Ford, the U.S. representative on the council, said he hoped an early settlement could be reached.

Honduras, claiming there was an armed attack by El Salvador Thursday, asked the council for an immediate meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers. The two nations broke diplomatic relations with each other a week ago following a series of border incidents.

DUE IN SCURRY COUNTY — Three Hardin-Simmons University graduate students will be visiting some 30 Texas counties as a part of a state-wide study on economy. From left are Philip Kung of Hong Kong, Leonard Osborne and Harry Bradley, both of Abilene. Bradley is a former Snyder resident. The trio are research assistants with the H-SU Bureau of Economics and Business Research, one of eight schools chosen by Gov. Preston Smith to assist in the massive study.

Diplomat Appears On Romania TV

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Communist Romania observed American Independence Day by permitting the top U.S. diplomat to address the nation over television.

Harry G. Barnes Jr., U.S. charge d'affaires and ranking diplomat in the absence of Ambassador Richard H. Davis, who is in the United States, was the first American envoy to appear on Romanian television. He spoke for 10 minutes in Romanian, hailing President Nixon's forthcoming visit here Aug. 2 as an expression of good will between the two nations.

Barnes quoted from Nixon's inaugural address and said he was sure "the President's return to your country, where he was so well-received as a private citizen two years ago, will be in the spirit of the goals expressed in his address."

Romanian President Nicolai Ceausescu sent a telegram to Nixon "conveying to you and to the American people, on behalf of the State Council, of the Romanian people and on my own behalf, cordial congratulations and best wishes on the Independence Day of the United States of America."

He added he is convinced that Romanian-U.S. relations "will develop to the benefit of both peoples, of peace and international cooperation."

CRMWD Catches Up On Production

A blistering last half of June wiped out the water consumption deficit piled up in the cool and wet first half, figures from the Colorado River Municipal Water District showed today.

The 1,320,045,692 gallons delivered was a record for the month, passing the previous June peak of 1,223,535,102 gallons in 1964. Only few other months have exceeded this, including the all - time peak of 1,555,901,068 in July 1966.

This July is starting off as though aiming at a new record. Wednesday, the production of CRMWD was 60.5 million gallons, said Paschall Odom, assistant general manager. This was far above last year's peak day of 55.4 million and the 56.7-million-gallon peak in 967.

Snyder set an all-time high for one day's draw for that city on Wednesday with 5,715,000 gallons. Others were at records but were at impressive levels including Odessa with 25,400,000, Big Spring with 14,000,000 and Stanton with 510,000 gallons.

Actually, the cities took slightly less water in June of this year than for last year, due as mentioned before, to the extraordinarily low temperatures and holdover of heavy May rains. The total was 888,236,300, down 2.88 per cent.

The oil companies, bolstered by two new customers — Walsh & Watts and American Magnesium which added over 11,000,000 gallons demand — took 431,809,392 gallons.

The June recovery pulled the year practically even with 1968. For the first six months, the district delivered 5,750,104,910 gallons, over .18 of one per cent from the 5,760,651,178 for the same period a year ago.

MR. AND MRS. EDDIE EICKE
(Craft Photo)

Miss Kruse, Mr. Eicke Wed In Church Ceremony

United in marriage June 21 at 6 p.m. in the Colonial Hill Baptist Church were Lois Marie Kruse and Eddie Jess Eicke. Performing the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Miller Robinson, pastor of the Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of L. M. Kruse and the great-niece of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moore. 2210 Forty-fourth Street. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Eicke, Rt. 2.

Decorating the church were an arrangement of white gladiolas and two ivy trimmed candelabra.

Annette Erwin, cousin of the bride, presented traditional organ music.

The bride was attired in a white chiffon gown accented with an empire waistline and an appliqued neckline. The dress was trimmed in wide lace. The bride's shoulder length tiered veil was made of silk illusion. She carried a large cascade of white rose buds and ivy.

Maid of honor was Jo Anne Smith. She wore a short blue dress trimmed with satin and featuring bell sleeves. She carried a single white rose and wore blue flowers in her hair. Her accessories were blue.

Emmitt Hataway was best man. Ushers were Iky Roberson, Buster Dickey, Jimmy Donaldson and Bob Moore of Roby.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The reception table was adorned with a centerpiece and double candles in silver holders. Presiding at the three tiered wedding cake topped with white bells and the punch bowl were Sahala Eicke and Denise Perry. Sandra Howard registered guests.

For the wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., the bride wore a blue dress, white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

The couple are now at home on Rt. 2, Snyder.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were from Andrews, Hereford, Lubbock, Ira and Fluvanna.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Snyder High School. The groom graduated from SHS in 1968 and is now a student at Sul Ross State University.

Flannery O'Connor's Essays

MYSTERY AND MANNERS. By Flannery O'Conner. Edited By Sally and Robert Fitzgerald. Farrar, Strauss. $6.95.

Here is the late Miss O'Conner's "occasional prose," dealing largely with the craft of writing and teaching.

The author defends the use of the grotesque in Southern fiction, and in fact defends Southern (and by implication other regional) writing, as having a close contact with reality.

Her topics also include the position of the Catholic believer who writes in the Protestant South, and the fallibility of English teachers who are supposed to be acquainted with the novel.

Her essential position is that the art or gift of writing cannot be taught; that the gift can be guided or molded, but only at the risk of smothering it.

Probably the best essay is one in which she discusses how short stories are written. In a revealing passage she describes the growth of one of her own short stories, as if it had a will of its own.

Anyone interested in the craft of making stories "work" — as Miss O'Conner puts it — will find some interesting guidance in this book.

Emma R. Law's Honey Oat Loaf

1½ cups warm water
¼ cup honey
1 package active dry yeast
2 teaspoons salt
2 egg yolks
1-3 cup salad (not oil) oil
1 cup nonfat dry milk solids
1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
4 cups sifted flour

In a large bowl mix together the water and honey; sprinkle in the yeast and let stand 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients except flour; with a rubber spatula gradually work in flour until well blended — mixture will be very thick. Cover and let stand in a warm draft-free place for 30 minutes; with spatula work dough well again; cover and let rise as previously until doubled — about 75 minutes. Turn out on floured board; cut in half; pat each half into loaf shape — dough will be very soft. Drop each half into an oiled loaf pan (8 by 4 by 3 inches) and turn to oil top. Let rise as previously until dough is about ½-inch from top of pan. Place in cold oven with a shallow pan of water on rack underneath; set oven at 50 degrees and bake for 45 minutes. Turn out very gently on rack (bread will be very soft); turn right side up and cool.

Brunch Shortcake

½ cup commercial sour cream
2 tablespoons plus ¼ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 tablespoon water
1 pint basket strawberries, sliced
6 slices white bread
1-3 cup margarine, melted

Mix sour cream and 2 tablespoons sugar; refrigerate until serving time. Mix remaining ¼ cup sugar and water; pour over strawberries; toss lightly to coat berries; chill until ready to serve. Trim crusts from bread; cut each slice in half lengthwise. Place on broiler rack; broil until lightly browned. Brush toasted side with half of the margarine. Turn; brown second side of bread. Brush with remaining margarine. Cool. When ready to serve, layer toast and strawberries, using 2 pieces of toast for each serving; begin with toast and end with strawberries. Top with sour-cream mixture. Makes 6 servings.

When you are arranging stuffed tortillas in a baking dish (as in making enchiladas) remember to place the tortillas seam side down.

TO BE MARRIED — Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Edmonson, Rt. 1, announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Ann, to Mr. James Barham, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barham, Sr., Seguin. The wedding will be August 2 at 7 p.m. at the Northside Baptist Church.

Know how to score a cucumber. Pare the cuke, then run the sharp tines of a kitchen fork down the length of the cucumber. After the cucumber is thinly sliced, the slices will have a pretty scallop-type edge.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG

Although screens with aluminum frames are widely used nowadays, the old - fashioned wooden screen contigues to stand between most of us and the billions of wee beasties that infest the night.

The screen is a fairly vulnerable article, constantly exposed to the weather and subject to many kinds of damage by children, dogs and pointed objects. When a screen has developed a small hole, you can repair it with one of the screen patches available at a hardware store or lumber yard. But if you don't like the idea of a patch or if the screening is too far gone, you may want to do a rescreening job.

Screen cloth—or mesh, screening, whatever you like to call it—comes in many types, including galvanized iron, copper, aluminum, bronze, fiberglass and various kinds of plastic. Choose the same cloth for the repair as you have on the rest of your screens. If necessary, take a piece of the old screening to the store to obtain the proper match.

To remove the old mesh, use a putty knife or other flat tool to pry up the narrow molding that runs along the inside of the frame. If the molding is in good shape, it can be reused. When the molding is off, you will note that the mesh is held down by tacks or staples or by what appears to be twine laid in a narrow channel.

When you buy the screening, be sure it's wider than the inside of the frame, since you'll need a workable margin on all four sides. If cutting has to be done, use tin snips or an old pair of shears, the larger the better. The hardest part is to get the mesh on tight and flat. Here's an old-fashioned method that works:

Lay the frame on a flat and sturdy surface like a workbench or table. Place two boards about one inch thick under the ends of the frame. Use a pair of clamps to bend each side of the frame downward until it reaches the top of the flat surface. Attach the mesh. When the clamps are removed, the screening will automatically become taut as the frame springs back into place. However, there are some mesh materials of the newer types, such as fiberglass or plastic, that should not be stretched tightly. Consult your dealer about this.

Once the new mesh is in place, trim away ragged edges so that nothing will show outside the replaced molding. If you bought new molding, or if the old molding needs a new finish, paint it before you put it in place. In that way, you avoid tedious efforts to paint the molding without running over onto the new mesh. (For Andy Lang's booklet, "Paint Your House Inside and Out," send 25 cents and a long, stamped self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P. O. Box 477, Huntington, N. Y. 11743.)

If the frames need repainting, use a small oval-shape brush. In painting the mesh, use an applicator — a piece of felt attached to a flat block of wood or metal. Thin the paint sufficiently to prevent clogging the mesh apertures. Keep a toothpick handy so that if any clogging occurs at one or more points, use it at once before the paint begins to harden.

Art Theft, To Murder

THE MISSING MATISSE By Barbara Levy. Doubleday. $4.95

There is a lot of skullduggery about an art forging ring in this novel, plus some villain-chasing and murders, and while the whole affair is being solved there is a developing romance. Quite a bundle.

The heroine is Jacqueline, who has just inherited the wealth and the art collection of her great-uncle Edward, an American who has lied for years in a villa at Nice.

Some of the art thieves of the Riviera had stolen a Matisse odalisque from him, but it was returned — presumably for ransom. And then three forged paintings were found in his property. Could Uncle Edward have been conniving with some art fakers?

Things got complicated when Jacqueline finds the returned Matisse is a copy. Then people begin acting strangely, among them Edward's young protege Francois, of whom Jacqueline is very fond; a collector friend of Edward's an art dealer and a man who seems to be from the Foreign Office.

The story depends on the old and still legitimate device of throwing suspicion on a half dozen characters, and on some fast action. Some of the plot switches are pretty contrived and even implausible, but if you suspend your disbelief you can get some entertainment out of this yarn.

Zucchini Salad

4 zucchini (about 2½ pounds), peeled and sliced fairly thin
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ cup olive oil
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

There should be about 5½ cups of the sliced zucchini; boil with the water the ½ teaspoon of the salt, covered, just until tender — several minutes, drain and cool. Beat together the remaining ½ teaspoon salt, the sugar, oil, vinegar, pepper and 2 tablespoons of the Parmesan; mix with zucchini; cover and chill briefly. At serving time arrange zucchini and the marinade on salad greens; tablespoons Parmesan. Makes 6 servings.

Rise, Fall Of Athlete

THE OLYMPIAN. By Brian Glanville. Coward - McCann. $5.95.

Ike Low was a teen - age Cockney who enjoyed running the quarter mile until coach Sam Dee discovered him and in a short time, turned him into Britain's best miler.

Sam was an egocentric, dictatorial bully who took over Ike's whole life, became Ike's father image and drilled into him the desire to win at any physical cost. Sam also happened to be a good coach, though his methods were unorthodox and resulted in constant feuding with "The System" of international athletic officials.

Within five years Ike had become an international star and had set a world record; but all his hopes and desires were concentrated on the Olympics a year hence — and he had vowed to settle for nothing less than the gold medal.

Then things began going wrong for Ike, and the rest of Glanville's novel is a study in the disintegration of an athlete. Most sport fiction is based on the heroic struggle for a goal that is achieved on the final page, but this novel does not follow the usual pattern.

Glanville has said he intended a Faustian theme in his story, and also that it has overtones of social criticism. He writes well, though he tends to overdo the amount of minor detail. All in all, this novel is above the ordinary run of sports fiction.

For a delightful ice-cream dessert, pack three pints of ice cream into an eight-inch square cake pan, cover and freeze. At serving time remove the ice cream and cut into nine squares. Roll the squares in chocolate sauce and serve at once.

Wilson-McBeth Vows Are Pledged In San Antonio

Carol Lynn Wilson, Lampasas, and Paul Alexander McBeth, San Antonio, were united in marriage Saturday, June 21 at 5 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Lampasas.

Rev. Adrian W. Coleman, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Lampasas, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, G. W. Asher, Gatesville, wore a gown of candlelight chiffon and Alencon lace. The moulded bodice of the featured a high collar and bishop sleeves. The scallops of the bodice and sleeves were outlined with pearls. The bride wore a shoulder length veil of candlelight illusion which fell from a cascade of organza roses. She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid.

Janie McBeth, sister of the groom, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a mint green crepe dress with short full sleeves and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers.

James Moneypenny, San Antonio, was best man.

Candlelighters were Kay McBeth and Carlos McBeth, sister and brother of the groom. Ushers were John McBeth, brother of the groom and Harvey Maurice Stephens, Greenville.

Mrs. Jack Nobles, Lampasas, was organist.

A reception was held in the home of the bride, 202 North Key, Lampasas. Lille Belle LaBounty, Galveston, registered guests while Betty LaBounty, Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. Richard Turner, Houston, presided at the bride's table. Presiding at the groom's table were Mrs. Bob Curry and Mrs. Will Woodson, both of Gatesville. Other members of the houseparty were Mrs. W. H. Rathman, Mrs. Jim Tom Kirby, Mrs. L. B. Hereford and Rebekah Landers, all of Lampasas, Cindy Curry, Gatesville, passed out rice bags.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in San Antonio.

The bride, a 1965 graduate of Lampasas High School where she was a twirler with the high school band and a member of the National Honor Society, she was graduated in 1969 from Sam Houston State College where she was a member of the marching band and served as treasurer of Tau Beta Sigma, national honorary band sorority. She will teach in the elementary school system in San Antonio this fall.

The groom is a 1963 graduate of Snyder High School where he was a member of the band and State Band and the National Honor Society. He graduated from Sam Houston State College in 1967 where he was a member of the marching band and the symphonic band and served as president of Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary band fraternity. He has taught band and choir in the Katy schools, and is presently serving with the Fourth Army Band at Fort Sam Houston.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at Martin's Restaurant in Lampasas at noon, Saturday, June 21.

Ballots Will Decide The Fate Of Texas Water Plan

(Editors Note: When Texas voters cast thier ballots Aug. 5 on a constitutional amendment authorizing $3.5 billion in water development bonds, they also will be deciding the fate of the Texas Water Plan. This is the first in a series of three articles on the plan.)

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

Anyone old enough to remember Texas' earth-cracking drought of 1950-57 knows what it's like to go without water.

Bathing was curtailed. Lawns turned brown under local no sprinkling rules. Lakes dried up. Some towns had to truck in water. Farmers gave up and trekked to the city.

That's the prospect facing Texas in 50 years, even with normal rainfall, unless steps are taken soon to guarantee enough water for the state's booming cities and millions of acres of irrigated farm land, planners warn.

The experts estimate Texas will have a shortage of more than four trillion gallons a year by 2020 if all water sources within the state are fully developed.

Cities and industries will need four trillion gallons a year, nearly five times as much as in 1960, according to the Texas Water Development Board. Six trillion gallons of water will be needed to irrigate crops, compared with 4.16 trillion gallons in 1960.

Unless new sources of water are developed, irrigated farm land will shrink from 7.7 million acres to 4.1 million in 2020, the board predicts.

"Our best estimates indicate that by 1985 ground water supplying irrigation in the High Plains will have been depleted to the point that agricultural production will be increasingly dependent on dry land farming," says Howard Boswell, Water Development Board director.

"If this occurs, the entire state will suffer a severe economic loss—through loss of insurance, banking and other investments, loss of agricultural products moved through transportation networks, loss of markets for wide range of equipment, fertilizer and other agricultural appurtenances, and loss in population."

The potential loss of irrigated land is due to farmers' depletion of Texas' vast underground natural reservoirs, especially the vast ogallala formation of Northwest Texas.

Cities face a water crisis because of the very growth they have sought. Texas' population is expected to triple by 2020, with most of the increase concentrated in urban areas.

Texans, accustomed to doing things in a big way, have a $9 billion plan to avoid the water shortage.

It calls for 67 new reservoirs and a mammoth system of canals and pipelines to bring surplus water from East Texas and the Mississippi River hundreds of miles to Far West and South Texas.

Gov. Preston Smith and the legislature have endorsed the plan.

The voters will have their say Aug. 5 when they cast ballots on a proposed constitutional amendment authorizing $3.5 billion in bonds for Texas' share of the plan.

The amendment also would let the Water Development Board contract with the federal government and other states.

Smith recently organized a 500-member committee of prominent Texans, led by former Govs. John Connally, Price Daniel and Allan Shivers to work for the amendment's passage.

Scattered, unorganized but angry opponents have begun to make themselves heard.

Some conservationists fear the plan would cause widespread destruction of natural river basins and estuaries.

Other opponents object to the use of bonds, instead of direct appropriations, to finance Texas' share of the plan's cost. They say the cost will be doubled by interest payments. There will be some tax burden, too, in servicing the debt before the water users pick up the cost of the various projects. The Texas Research League estimates $630 million in tax revenue will be needed to pay interest and principal from 1978 to 1991, before water user payments start coming in.

Dr. Daniel Willard, a University of Texas botany professor, claims evaporation from East Texas and Gulf Coast proposed reservoirs would set up a barrier to moist air from the Gulf and reduce the amount of rainfall in West Texas.

But a University of Texas meteorologist, Kenneth Jehn, said, "That is a difficult statement to either prove or disprove without some data."

If the water bonds are approved, planners hope the rest of the money to put their ideas into effect will come from federal funds.

Nobody denies the plan's success hangs on several slender threads, any one of which could snap and send it crashing.

The Mississippi River Commission and the U.S. Army Corps Corps of Engineers must decide whether water from the river will be available to help Texas.

Louisiana's cooperation is needed on the Mississippi River diversions.

Congress will be asked for billions of dollars for dams, canals and pipelines.

The plan has a detailed timetable, dictated by the rate at which planners figure Texas' needs will outrun its water supply.

Feasibility reports on imports from the Mississippi would be submitted in 1972; Congress would authorize the imports and the required canals in 1974; first deliveries of water from East to West Texas would come in 1985, and Mississippi River water would be pumped to Texas in 1988.

Planners estimate the San Antonio area will need new water sources by 1985, the Corpus Christi area by 1987, the El Paso area by 1985, the High Plains by 1985 and the Lower Rio Grande Valley by 1980.

The Water Development Board started on the plan in 1964 under orders from Connally, who comes from the dry brush country south of San Antonio. A preliminary report, relying only on Texas water sources, was issued in 1966. Its main feature was a 980-mile conduit to carry surplus water from East Texas to the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

East Texans were mad at the prospective drain of their water. West Texans were mad because the plan virtually left them out of the picture.

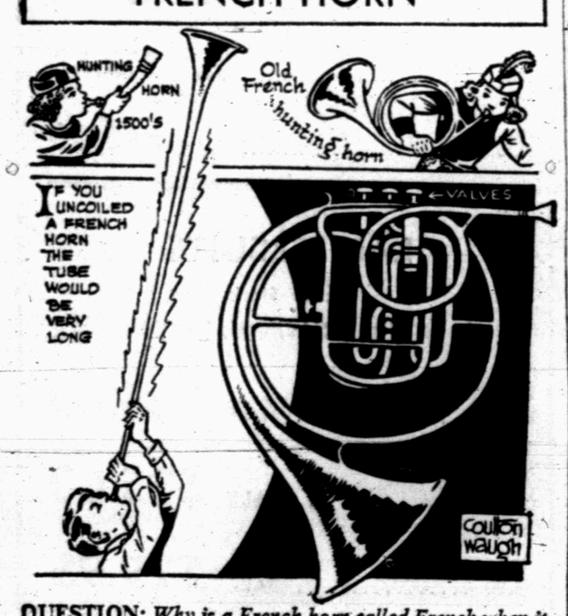

The planners went back to work and came out in December 1968 with the Mississippi diversion plan.

Plans have a way of getting laid aside to gather dust.

The the highly placed backers of the water plan hope Texans will recall the dusty days of the 1950-57 drought and put their money on this one.

Junior Editors Quiz on FRENCH HORN

QUESTION: Why is a French horn called French when it was invented in Germany?

* * *

ANSWER: Both France and Germany should be credited with perfecting this fine orchestral instrument. Horns are very ancient. Long, straight horns made of brass tubing became used in celebrations, tournaments and for hunting. But the long horn was clumsy, and it was found that a horn would sound just as good when wound around itself, so such a shape was often used in France (upper right). As orchestras came into being, especially in Germany, there was a need to include the mellow-voiced hunting horn. But this type could only produce a few notes, so, in 1815 Germans, Stolzel and Bluhmel, perfected a system of adding valves to brass instruments. When these are pressed down (top of main picture) more tubing is added and the notes sound lower. When this German invention was added to the easily handled French type hunting horn, the beautiful orchestral instrument we call the French horn was complete. It was first used in German orchestras — it is said that Beethoven was especially fond of this instrument.

Square In Rocking World

REMEMBER JACK HOXIE. By Jon Cleary. Morrow. $5.95.

Pat Norval's little world had been quiet and quiet. A 41-year-old widower, he calmly trudged the treadmil of his job as an assessor for a staid and crusty old insurance company in London.

Then, suddenly there was a great change when young Brian Boru O'Brien came on the scene. O'Brien, a tunesmith turned promoter, had come out of Australia with an instant fortune piled up in the entertainment business. He spotted Pat's young son Bob, who had been singing with a rock 'n' roll group. On a snap decision O'Brien proposed to make Bob a pop singing star, international style, with recordings and personal appearances all through Britain and America.

So as the story gets under way, O'Brien makes good on his promise to create an overnight stardom for Bob, with all the business of fancy cars and screaming teeney-boppers and silly publicity.

Pat finds himself in a crashingly alienworld, regarded as a middle-age man in the midst of the arrogant young, and becomes a sort of staff counselor to the whole entourage. It develops that O'Brien himself could stand some counseling; though he has a gift for flashy promotion, he is secretly uncertain of his ability to keep writing his songs, and he has to lean heavily on his arranger.

Pat doesn't let the frantic world get him down, mainly because he has found a kindred soul in Suzanne, a 28-year-old American secretary.

The novel is a comedy about a square who knows how to use his wits in a confrontation with the sharpies of the younger clan. Cleary is a good storyteller and gives his tale the seasoning of dry humor.

PLANS WEDDING — Linda Vandiver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Vandiver, Route 2, Hermleigh, will be married to Bill Anderson, son of Mrs. W. C. Anderson, Dallas, and the late Mr. Anderson, August 30 at 7 p.m. in the Hermleigh United Methodist Church.

Yankees Settle In Ireland

RAFFERTY & CO. By Betty Wahl, Farrar, Straus. $5.95.

An American family's attempt to settle in the Irish countryside, complicated by insurmountable frustrations is the theme of Miss Wahl's novel, which might be classified as a comedy of errors.

Rafferty is on leave from the history department of an American university, and has a rather naive notion that he can organize a cottage industry for the production of handwoven tweeds. With him are his wife Alice and their two daughters, Stella and Vanessa.

First there is a lot of nonsense about finding a place to live, and the Raffertys wind up with "Prisma," a huge Georgian house with very primitive accomodations.

Then Rafferty has his inevitable troubles trying to cope with Irish vagueness and Irish insouciance, while Alice has her troubles trying to cope with a gardener who doesn't garden and a maid who doesn't know her job.

There also is a comic scene when the Raffertys are visited by the president of the American university and his wife, with everything going wrong.

It's all sort of amusing, but it does seem as though the author has strung out a novella into a novel.
