No Cause For Fear, States Jap Official

Oriental Nation Doing Best To Promote Friendship With America, Minister Claims

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, Mar. 4—Japan's Foreign Minister Hirota, urging world naval reduction by abolishing all large warships, told a parliamentary budget committee today he was "sorry for America" if the United States were building Pacific coast defenses in fear of Japan.

Hirota told the committee relations with the United States were friendly, when a committee member broke in to ask:

Policy Is Made Clear

"But it seems the United States is fortifying Hawaii and Alaska. Does the foreign minister believe the American people fully understand Japan?"

"Japan's policy toward the United States already was made clear in my speech opening the diet. We are doing our best to promote friendship through an exchange of messages with Secretary Hull.

"This policy will be unchanged in the future.

"However, if it is true the United States is fortifying the Pacific coast to provide against Japan, I am sorry for America.

"As long as we fully understand each other, I am confident there will be no trouble between Japan and America."

Then, turning to naval building, he told questioners:

Would Welcome Reduction

"Japan would welcome the opportunity to discuss the question of naval reduction with the powers.

"If such opportunity appears, the Japanese government will propose the total abolition of capital ships."

Capital ships, defined by the 1921-22 naval treaties, are those, not aircraft carriers, of more than 100,000 tons and with guns of more than 8-inch calibre.

The suggestion was the most direct by Japanese since the Tokyo government refused to divulge her naval building program at the request of the United States, Britain and France after reports Japan was building battleships of more than 35,000 tons—the limit set in the London naval treaty of which the three western powers are signatories.

Proposed Tax Levy Opposed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—The house fight over the administration's tax revision program centered today on a proposed new levy on corporations owned by families or a few individuals.

Republicans who have denounced the legislation in its entirety had the open support of some Democrats in their opposition to this provision.

Concentrate On Levy

Democrats who spoke for the bill during 4 hours and 51 minutes of debate yesterday concentrated noticeably on arguments in favor of the levy—a 20 percent surtax, after certain deductions, on closely-held firms whose income exceeds $75,000.

Pounding his points home with loud hand claps, Representative Vinson (D-Ky) contended the purpose of the tax was to obtain approximately the same amount of revenue from a closely-held corporation as from a comparable firm having wide stock ownership.

"The tax is not the bugbear, not the horrible thing, that's been held up to you," he said.

Leading the campaign against the levy was Representative McCormack (D-Mass), who was preparing a reply to Vinson's arguments.

The house will not reach a vote on the measure until next week, after which the senate must consider it. Representative Vinson said the legislation would produce revenue of about $5,300,000,000 a year—$22,000,000 less than the present law.

Excursions To Asiatic Area Are Opposed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—Congressional foes of the billion dollar naval expansion program demanded an assurance today that the augmented fleet would not be used for "Asiatic excursions."

Representative Brewster (R-Me), a member of the house naval committee, asserted he was unable to see the need for more battleships when the navy had not built all those already authorized.

Are Already Ordered

He declared one more battleship could be started immediately and nine built before 1942 without any further legislation. Legislation approved by the committee yesterday would authorize three additional battleships and 43 other combatant ships.

"What we want to know," Brewster added, "is whether this increase is necessary for defense or is to be used for Asiatic excursions."

Meanwhile, Representative Maverick (D-Tex) asserted congress was letting the nation's basic defenses go to pieces while "building battleships for an aggressive war."

Shortage Of Guns

"The truth is," Maverick said in a statement, "there exists a dangerous and alarming shortage of anti-aircraft guns to beat off ene-

The fire, which began about dawn in a brick barrack building, 100 feet long, 40 feet wide and two stories high, drove 200 partly dressed soldiers into the cold.

Texas Slaying Is Confessed

(By The Associated Press)

GREENVILLE, March 4 — J. W. Rickman, 20, admitted slayer of a McKinney motorcycle patrolman, was held in Hunt county jail here today.

Sheriff Frank Wolfe said Rickman would be held here "until feeling dies down at McKinney," where Patrolman Marion Taylor was shot to death Wednesday night when he sought to question the occupant of a commandeered taxicab.

Arrested At Durant

Rickman was brought here from Sherman where he had been taken from Durant, Okla., where he was arrested yesterday as he hitch-hiked toward Fort Sill, Okla.

H. H. Neilson, Collin county attorney, filed a slaying charge at McKinney and said the Farmersville youth probably would go to trial in April or May. Neilson said Rickman admitted he was the man who fired six bullets into Taylor's body when the patrolman approached the taxicab. The suspect also admitted hav-

A municipal court jury awarded him a judgment for 10 cents—price of the soup.

Sixth Year Of FDR's Reign Is Launched

Atmosphere Of Unhurried Calm Is Contrast To Hectic Days After 1933 Inauguration

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4—President Roosevelt's administration began its sixth year today in an atmosphere of unhurried calm—vastly different from the tense, hectic days which followed the 1933 inauguration.

In contrast to the bulging portfolios of emergency legislation rushed through congress during the banking crisis, the senate and house now are working leisurely on only four major items:

Four Major Items

1. Tax revision, including modification of business levies.

2. A billion-dollar naval expansion program.

3. Creation of wage-hour standards.

4. Reorganization of the 135 government agencies.

Furthermore, leaders said they did not expect additional proposals at this session. A forthcoming presidential message probably will recommend a study of monopolies with a view to 1939 revision of the anti-trust laws.

Special Service Arranged

Mr. Roosevelt took note of the anniversary by arranging a special service at historic St. John's Episcopal church. He invited cabinet members to join him, just as they did on that bleak morning five years ago to "humbly ask the blessing of God" in the arduous days ahead.

This time, there was no fanfare. No crowds braved the raw weather to throng the park between the church and the White House.

The state department—scene of some of the administration's gravest recent problems—recognized the anniversary in a memorandum declaring that "peace is the cornerstone of the foreign policy of the United States."

The occasion brought no break

Father Of Kidnap Victim May Turn Police Loose On Case

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 4 (AP) — A theory came from police today that, unless the kidnapers of young Peter Levine take advantage of assurance that "the way is open" within a day or two, the father, Murray Levine, would urge officers, now on the sidelines, to pursue the abductors.

Levine, a New York attorney, went on the air three times yesterday and made a fourth appeal through the press to the kidnapers to "make contact with me."

"I am ready," he said, implying that he is prepared to hand over the $60,000 demanded for return of his 12-year-old son who disappeared on the way home from school eight days ago.

Reservations For Lecture By Mrs. Roosevelt Must Be Picked Up Soon!

If you have made mail or telephone reservations for tickets to Mrs. Roosevelt's lecture and have not come by to pay for and pick up the tickets, better hurry and do it. No reservations of that sort can be held later than 6 p. m. Saturday—tomorrow!

After 6 p. m. tomorrow, tickets reserved but uncalled for will be sold to first comers. None will be held longer.

Mrs. Lucile Smith, in charge of sales, reports a few choice tickets left in both the $1.75 and $1.25 brackets. In either case, price of the ticket includes state and federal taxes.

Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the President, will appear here on Tuesday night, March 8, at 8 o'clock. Her lecture, "A Typical Day In The White House," will be delivered at Senior High school auditorium.

Students To Represent High School Here Are Selected

Students who will represent Lubbock High school in typing in the district Interscholastic League meet to be conducted at Texas Technological college April 8-9 have been chosen at the school.

Marion Hope Read, Drucille Merriman, Virginia Hogan, Ina Faye Gordon, Gordon Flenniken, and Onita Bell Hufstedler were winners, in that order, in a 15-minute contest in which they were graded on accuracy and speed.

Three will be contestants. Others are alternates. Miss Ione Jones, teacher, is team sponsor.

Weather, Royal Princesses And Sultan Give Capital Busy Day

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—His highness the Sultan of Muscat and Oman—that visiting sovereign from the land of the burning sands—encountered the year's coldest weather today, plus royal competition from the touring Albanian princesses.

Undaunted by the unfamiliar frigid blasts, the 27-year-old monarch wrapped his raiment about him and kept smilingly to his sight-seeing program.

Government anxiety lest a protocol problem arise—should the sultan's party and the princesses run into one another unexpectedly—was early dispelled.

The three sisters of King Zog of Albania intended to spend only a few hours in the capital, coming from New York to call on Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House.

The sultan's schedule took him across the Potomac to inspect Fort Myer and be saluted by the impressive booming of 21 guns.

Newspaper Executive Is Taken By Death

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 4—Robert P. Scripps, 42, principal stockholder in the Scripps-Howard national newspaper chain, died aboard his yacht off Lower California, it was learned here early today.

The publishing executive, who began his newspaper career at the age of 16, died while the yacht, the Novia Del Mar, was anchored off Santa Margarita island, Lower California.

Body Is Transferred

Coast guard headquarters here was informed that Scripps' body was transferred last Wednesday evening to the Panama Pacific liner Pennsylvania, due in Los Angeles Saturday. The time of his death was not contained in a message from the liner.

Scripps was stricken seriously ill while on a trip to Hawaii last summer. Death resulted from an internal hemorrhage.

Confirmation of the death was given in New York City by William W. Hawkins, chairman of the board of Scripps-Howard.

Leaves Six Children

Scripps was the son of the late E. W. Scripps, founder of the newspaper chain which is represented by dailies in many large cities of the United States. He leaves his widow and six children.

Mother Will Give Her Right Eye That Her Baby Son May See; Operation Is Planned

(By The Associated Press)

LANSDALE, Pa., March 4—A 30-year-old mother said last night she had arranged to give her right eye that her baby son might see.

Mrs. William Laverty, wife of a textile worker, made plans to go to New York for the operation March 28 at the Presbyterian medical center.

The curly-haired baby, Roger, will be two years old today. His mother said he won a health contest in competition with 1,200 children a year ago at Providence, R. I., where the Lavertys formerly lived.

Doctors told the mother the child had been losing his sight since he became ill with measles last April. His right eye is sightless and the left is affected.

Mrs. Laverty said she and her husband "talked the matter over" and decided on the operation. She said she was told if her right eye was transferred to the child, his sight would be restored and the loss of vision in the left eye might be checked.

"I want my child to be able to see as normal children do," she said. "My husband and I are ready to make any sacrifice."

Mighty Britain To Build New Ships

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Mar. 4. — Mighty Britain, arming at top speed the while she dickers for peace with Europe's dictators, will spend over $600,000,000 on her navy this year—not counting a vast construction program which likely will include battleships of more than 35,000 tons.

Details of the building program hinge upon current informal discussions with American and French naval experts on what to do about Japan's refusal to disclose her naval building.

Estimates Are Revealed

Today's naval estimates were announced by Alfred Duff Cooper, first lord of the admiralty, even as Prime Minister Chamberlain laid the ground work for peace talks with Germany's Fuehrer Hitler to parallel those with Italy's Duce, Mussolini.

He set regular estimates at 127,707,000 pounds, or $618,535,000—18,642,000 pounds, or $92,210,000 more than the previous year.

"A supplementary estimate will be presented in due course, for so much of the work on the program to be carried out in the forthcoming financial year," Duff Cooper asserted.

Britain now has two battleships building, and plans were for three more to be begun this year.

Britain's navy now has 119,000 men, an increase of 7,000. Today's report said there was planned a "considerable increase" of naval airplanes and fliers and that appropriations to carry on construction of vessels under 1937 or early programs had been increased by 7,895,375 pounds, or $39,476,875.

Flood Proves Very Costly To Filmland

(By The Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD, March 4 — If Hollywood follows its accustomed habit of being susceptible to current trends, film fans may soon expect any number of motion pictures dealing with the horrors of floods.

Film producers learned a lot—several hundred thousand dollars worth — about the effects of swirling waters.

Universal studio's back lot, bordering the Los Angeles river and the locale for many a thriller like the "Hunchback of Notre Dame", appeared to be the heaviest individual loser. The studio said the loss would be above $75,000.

Andy Devine Loses $10,000

Andy Devine took a $10,000 loss from the flood, his riding academy fell into the waters of the Los Angeles river.

The front yard of Bob Burns' home in a Beverly Hills canyon, landscaped at a cost of $5,000, was washed away.

Bing Crosby laid claim to the unique distinction of getting stuck in his own garage.

Leo Carrillo fished out a man from the 250-foot torrent roaring by his swamped residence.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Mar. 4. (AP)—A grandfather who tossed his three small grandchildren to safety from a second story window perished today when fire destroyed his home here.

Federal Liquor Agent Being Held In Farmer's Shooting

SHAWNEE, Okla., March 4 (AP) — Jim Cravey, 35-year-old farmer, was in a critical condition today with a bullet wound in his back and L. C. Whiteneck, federal liquor tax agent, was held in the county jail.

Sheriff Elza Evans said Whiteneck told him he went to Cravey's farm yesterday and found a whisky still.

The sheriff quoted Whiteneck as saying he opened fire when Cravey menaced him with a .22 calibre rifle.

Tragic Search For Bodies Is Being Staged

Death Toll In Disaster Goes Steadily Higher; Property Loss Is Over $10,000,000

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 4—A grim search through silt and debris for the bodies of flood victims began today in storm-ravaged Southern California where 95 persons were known to be dead or missing.

The steadily mounting list of dead from the $10,000,000 five-day rain storm rose to 70 early today. Twenty-five were known to be missing. An undetermined number of others, reliably estimated at between 25 and 50, were feared to have been lost.

Exact Number Unknown

Officials said it would be days before the exact casualties and damage would be known.

Unofficial estimates of damage soared well above $10,000,000 damage to Los Angeles city property alone—a relatively small part of the five county area swept by the floods—was estimated by City Engineer Lloyd Aldrich at $3,028,000.

Swirling yellow flood waters receded as rapidly as they came, leaving a rising fear of disease. The main outfall sewer of Orange county, serving a dozen populous towns, gave way and threatened widespread pollution.

Debris Is Widespread

A panorama of mud-covered and wrecked houses, debris-laden highways, washed out bridges, damaged farmlands and torn railway tracks confronted reconstruction crews.

Many movie notables were caught in the worst storm Southern California has suffered in years.

The rain, pouring across the beleaguered counties which include some of the state's richest agricultural land and its greatest metropolis, piled up a five-day total of 11.06 inches in Los Angeles, and exceeded even that figure in some foothill suburbs.

Communications Disrupted

Disrupted communications prevented accurate checks of death and damage from great sections of the five counties, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange and Ventura.

Of the 95 listed as storm victims, 24 were identified dead, most of them residents of Los Angeles county.

Authorities estimated 20,000 persons were made temporarily homeless, although many of that number were expected to return to their dwellings early today with further receding of the waters.

Red Cross officials in broadcasts from Los Angeles last night said the

Educator Says Right Treatment Called Good For Average Small Youngster

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
AP Feature Service

If Bobby is an A student at school, always comes home to meals on time, and goes to bed willingly, his parents may hold him up as a model, but it doesn't necessarily indicate Bobby will become a college professor—or even a bank president.

If he had a few difficulties while he was growing up Bobby probably would be better prepared for life. Soon enough he'll be out in the cold, hard world, where no one is going to soften the way for him.

Fall And Go Boom

That's the opinion of Dr. Thomas F. Bamford, jr., psychiatrist in charge of work with problem children in the Fordham University department of psychology.

Dr. Bamford says: "The first time Bobby falls down, it will really be a case of 'fall down and go boom.' He won't be able to pick himself up. When he's completely shot emotionally, he'll look to a psychiatrist for aid, when his childhood should already have prepared him to shunt off hard knocks."

Dr. Bramford may sound pretty hard-boiled, but he's watched plenty of children of all ages, and thinks that a few failures in early life are good for the average youngster.

When he says "failures" he means things like these:

Falling down while learning to walk and not being consoled or helped to his feet.

Kicked Around

Getting kicked about in football games and tussles—good for him to take it, says Dr. Bamford.

School difficulties—reporting to the principal now and again is good for him. Criticism from higher up will come eventually, says our psychiatrist.

In fact, Dr. Bamford makes parents of model children feel awfully nervous about their offspring.

"The child who always does as he's told," he asserts, "is worse than the child who breaks a few toys and hits a couple of playmates now and then.

"Why is he worse? Because he always escapes the attention of guidance authorities and yet may be as disturbed psychologically as his rambunctious friends. Model children don't disturb their parents. Disobedient children do. But better for parents to think more about their children, even though they may be doing the wrong thing."

'To Please Mother'

In other words, obedience, as well as other virtues of childhood, can be over-emphasized. Dr. Bamford thinks a child should learn to do the thing because he gets pleasure out of doing it right, not because someone tells him to do it. But doing it wrong is part of learning to do it right.

Dr. Bamford's biggest worry is the child who obeys to please his mother.

He thinks the mother who is constantly saying: "Now hang up your coat to please Mother. Don't play with that rough little boy across the street, to please Mother . . . . ." should be outlawed from society.

LET HER GO

Little Sister's learning to walk. She seaches for something to hang onto. There's nothing there—boom! That's all right. A few tumbles won't hurt her; they'll probably make her learn quicker.

Tech AWS Elects Officers Thursday; Tie Is Cast

Association of Women students at Texas Technological college elected officers Thursday in a vote cast by 344 women students. Miss Eron Gafford was elected president, Miss Marie Shook, vice-president and Miss Marilynn Fry, junior council president.

In the vote for secretary-treasurer, Misses Lois Marie Daniels and Elsie Feigenspan tied, each receiving 172 votes. An election to determine the winner probably will be conducted Tuesday, Miss Marjorie Elder, current A. W. S. president, said yesterday.

Ballot boxes were planned in the women's dormitory and in the halls of the home economics building and administration building. One hundred thirty-five more votes than were cast last year were counted.

Educational Trends Will Be Topic For AAUW Program

Miss Vivian Johnson, associate professor of home economics education, will speak on trends in modern education at a meeting of the Lubbock branch, American Association of University Women, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Tech home economics building.

One hundred were in attendance at a K. Carter P.-T. A. meeting at the school where a children's program, a Founders' Day talk and a musical program were presented.

The children's program was presented by pupils of Misses Pearl Jackson, Nell Montague and Lena Belle Brown. Mrs. S. B. Haynes, City P.-T. A. council president, discussed Founders' Day and the musical program was given as follows:

New Habitat Case At Museum Will Reveal What Life Was Like Along The Canadian River Section Five Million Years Ago

CANYON, March 4 (Special) — If you wish to know what life was like along the Canadian river five million years ago, take a look at a new habitat case completed for the Panhandle-Plains Historical society museum here by Prof. C. Stuart Johnston.

The attention of visitors is first arrested by a scene in the foreground showing a saber-tooth tiger killing a three-toed horse. Nearby, eager for the scraps after the tiger has had his fill of horse flesh, are hyena-like animals. The models were made and the landscape fabricated by Prof. Johnston.

Paintings Included

Forming the sides and back of the case are paintings which were drawn under Prof. Johnston's direction by Ralph Shead of Norman, Okla., a professional artist skilled in this type of work. The Canadian river is shown, as are herds of mastodons, horses, camels, hornless rhinos, and dogs. The paintings were made possible by C. S. Lambie of Amarillo.

Indirect lighting brings out the colors and makes the models stand out in realistic fashion. The case, Prof. Johnston said, is an original restoration based on fossils on display at the museum. It is one of a number which will interpret for the layman the pictures which are formed in the minds of the paleontologists as they study the middle Pliocene and other eras of life on the Plains.

Excavations of paleontological sites near here are being carried on by about 40 men in a WPA district project and by nearly a score of men in the WPA archaeological project. The local museum is the beneficiary of both of these pieces of scientific research, which are being carried on in several counties.

Exterior will be of light cream faced brick, bordered in tile and given Spanish touches by ornamental iron and stone. The building will be one of the most beautiful in the city, said the architect, W. L. Bradshaw.

The apartments will be 39x15 feet each and each will have a living room 14-16 feet, a bedroom 12x14 feet, kitchen, bath and dressing room.

The theater will seat 628 persons, have a balcony, and office on the second floor, a foyer, lobby and lounges on the first floor, and a 14x25 feet stage.

Leaves Home To Save Dog

Pure adoration is plain on the face of this Great Dane, Symbol, as he looks into the eyes of his 23-year-old mistress, Eleanor Ailinger. And no wonder, for Miss Ailinger decided to leave her family, friends and job in Kenmore, N. Y., to save the dog's life. Her "flight" from the state became necessary when the court ordered the dog executed after the S. P. C. A. complained because its ears had been clipped in violation of state law. "I just can't part with Symbol," said Miss Ailinger.

Roswell Farmers Visitors In City; Conferences Are Held

Market on the South Plains for surplus Acala cottonseed was object of a visit here Thursday by Fred Nelson and two other Roswell, N. M., farmers who conferred with A. H. Leidigh, dean of agriculture at Texas Technological college, and Dr. Harry L. Kent, director of administrative research at the college.

Dr. Kent was president of New Mexico A. & M. college when the college made an agreement in 1923 with the United States department of agriculture whereby the department would provide seed for growth at the college. The college then provided seed for farmers in that area, to improve quality of cotton and to promote a one-variety project.

Automotive Mishap Echoed In Suit For $44,400 On File

Outgrowth of an Oct. 21 automobile mishap a mile west of Littlefield, damages of $44,400 were asked in a suit filed here Thursday in United States district court by Mrs. Theresa Ellis Wilson of Maricopa county, Ariz., naming George L. Branson of Crowley county, Kas.

The case was transferred here from the state district court of Lamb county.

According to the pleadings, Wilson was trapped in the wreckage of his automobile which was demolished and which became enveloped in flames. He died in a hospital at Littlefield soon after the accident, it was alleged.

Mrs. Wilson pointed out she also suffered serious injuries in the crash.

She listed her damages as: $32,400 for the loss of her husband; $10,000 for personal injuries; and $2,000 for hospital, medical, and funeral expenses.

T. Wade Potter, Littlefield attorney, is representing the plaintiff and the Lubbock law firm of Wilson, Randal and Kilpatrick the defendant.

Swiss Stiffen Defenses In Fear Of Becoming "Another Belgium"

Military Door Being Closed

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 4—Little Switzerland, long famed for her natural stand in international politics, at last has become infected by the "war jitters" which plague the rest of Europe.

Time was when the Swiss did not spend much money on a defensive army. Lacking in many natural riches, there was small reason why anybody should covet their mountainous territory. Besides they had in Geneva the seat of the League of Nations.

But the Swiss have been doing some serious thinking recently. In the World war, Belgium was invaded by the Germans, so as to make a surprise attack upon France. Not so long ago Belgium withdrew from any military alliance with France and once more declared herself neutral. Hitler's Germany at once recognized Belgium as a neutral. This means a promise that if that next war happens, German troops will not once more seek to cross through Belgian territory.

Germans Would Gain

The French-German frontier has been made almost impregnable by the famous Maginot line of fortifications. But the frontier between France and Switzerland is not thus fortified.

Weighing up the possibilities, in case of a Franco-German conflict, French violation of Swiss territory is highly improbable. Once through Switzerland, French troops would be confronted by the Rhine and the hills and thick trees of the Black Forest and would be far away from any real German objectives.

But a German thrust through Switzerland would flank the Maginot line, avoid the Vosges mountains, bring the invaders into the basin of the Saone river and threaten the great city of Lyons and important railway lines to that part of France which lies on the Mediterranean. In crashing through Switzerland, a German army would have the advantage of avoiding most of the great Alpine ranges and taking advantage of low ground and river valleys.

Army Reorganized

The Swiss are therefore rapidly reorganizing their army scheme. Instead of six divisions, there will be nine, with three independent mountain brigades. Four of these divisions will watch the German frontier, one being based near Lake Constance and three near the Rhine. Two will watch the Jura mountain frontier, thus keeping an eye on France. Two divisions will be a reserve based on Berne and Lucerne and ready to march in any direction. The ninth division will garrison the St. Gothard fortifications and a mountain brigade will be an outpost down Italy way, in the Ticino. One mountain brigade will cover the Simplon tunnel and another the St. Maurice fortifications which are designed to block the Rhone valley near Lake Geneva.

Money has been spent by the Swiss in increasing the artillery arm. Each division will have a motorized company of nine guns for anti-tank purposes. Each division will also have light tanks. The cavalry brigades are being almost completely motorized, having machine guns, anti-tank guns and armored cars. The air force is to be increased to 300 fast planes of Swiss manufacture and design. In all strategic points in the mountains and hills there are being built observation and listening posts as well as nests for anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns.

Near the Rhine frontier, in the passes through the Jura mountains and in the Alps on the southern border, chains of small fortified works are being constructed. To man these, Swiss citizens, living in their immediate neighborhood, are being specially trained as frontier defense brigades so that they can be mobilized within a few hours. They will have light artillery, machine guns and anti-tank artillery.

Secret Defenses Are Rumored

Defensive devices that are not officially reported, but rumored, are:

Devices whereby, when necessary any bridge in Switzerland may be instantly blown up by electricity.

Iron gates, let into all main roads, which can be lifted by machinery in front of an invading army, blocking the path of armored cars and even of light tanks.

Farmer May Have To Turn Chemist To Produce Tomorrow's "Pill Meals" For The Country

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

The prophets of a synthetic age, taking a long-range look at the future in foods, are predicting that:

1. Chemically-produced foodstuffs and factory-synthesized foods may turn the farmer into a chemist.
2. Many households will be buying single-packaged, pre-fabricated meals.
3. Increased doctoring of soil, plants and food-producing animals to vitaminize and improve quality of foods.
4. Foods now unknown or little used will become the most popular because of their reputed therapeutic value. Striking precedents: The spinach and lettuce booms, the once-lowly liver's leap to popularity and to the high-price bracket.
5. Breakfast and luncheon in pellets and dinner a la capsule will be available for emergency use.

Popularity Growing

Growing popularity today of partly-prepared and ready-to-serve food combinations indicates that food stores of tomorrow will do a big business in packaged meals. A housewife will order meal No. 2, for example. The clerk will hand her a package containing pork chops, mashed potatoes, gravy and apple sauce. She'll store it in her refrigerator until time for a quick warm-up for dinner.

Soils today are heated electrically and seeds are x-ray treated to tone up vegetable quality. Violet rays are turned on chickens to produce more and better eggs, and on cows for more and better milk.

Poultry scientists are developing streamlined turkeys to fit modern small ovens. We have patented frozen lamb chops, patented mushrooms and asparagus soups. Vitamined bread is spread with ultra violet-rayed butter. In the northeastern states some people are using milkweed like asparagus.

Chemical Production

Chemical production of foodstuffs is now a laboratory accomplishment. University of California scientists have achieved a large production of tomatoes in a small space by growth in chemically treated water.

These experimenters caution that "the commercial water culture method is in a preliminary stage of development and should still be viewed conservatively."

Nevertheless, the possibility of large-scale chemical production of foods is a potential nightmare to the millions who get a livelihood from our gigantic food producing, processing and distributing business.

Forerunner of "pill meals" are the highly concentrated foods now available as emergency rations. However, it's a safe bet that Americans of 1963 still will look on a capsuled dinner as a pretty scrawny substitute for a sizzling steak, a buttery baked potato, a succulent salad and a slab of "mother's apple pie."

Drudgery Is Going

The present trend to eating away from home is expected to continue, particularly in large cities. But offsetting that is the rapid spread of cookery knowledge, combined with magic utensils that are taking the drudgery out of kitchen work.

Americans of today do not eat as much meat per capita as did the gastronomic giants of the kerosene lamp era, but we still are a meat-eating people.

Consumption of cereals has declined in the last 25 years. We don't eat as much bread and butter as we did but we drink more milk.

Ice cream and candy consumption keeps gaining while the craze for salads shows no sign of abating. We are becoming more and more a coffee drinking nation but our per capita consumption of tea has declined considerably.

Two recent developments which give promise of further expansion are the popularity of fruit and vegetable juices and the quick freezing of vegetables, meats and fruits to preserve full flavor.

College Girl's Menagerie Is Big One And Needs Dusting

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 4 (AP)—It takes a week to dust off 17-year-old Rosemary Woodard's 800 dogs and her other 1,200 animals and birds, including dinosaurs and elephants, but she was five years getting them all together in her bedroom.

They are all miniatures: in china, wood, soap, brass, bronze. She has dogs from Venice, bears from Canada, and the rest—rhinoceroses, horses, lions, rabbits, pigs, deer, donkeys, cows, sheep, zebras, cats, camels, kangaroos, monkeys, mice, parrots, squirrels, turkeys, penguins, pelicans, chickens—come from 40 states of the Union.

Rosemary's system was to dust off one group of animals a day. By the end of the week she would have them all dusted and be ready to start over again. Right now, she is away at college and Mrs. Woodard does the dusting.

DEPENDABILITY IN MEN . . . and Coffee

It's of those Texas cowboys, a story I'll tell.
No name I will mention though in Texas they do dwell.
Go find them where you will, they are all so very brave,
And when in good society they seldom misbehave.

When the fall work is all over in the line-camp they'll be found,
For they have to ride those lonesome lines the long winter round;
They prove loyal to a comrade, no matter what's to do,
And when in love with a fair one they seldom prove untrue.

They will ride into the branding pen, a rope within their hands,
They will catch them by each forefoot and bring them to the sands;
It's altogether in practice with a little bit of sleight,
A-roping Texas cattle, it is their heart's delight.

But now comes the rising generation to take the cowboy's place,
Likewise the corn-fed granger, with his bold and cheeky face;
In on those plains of Texas a lone buffalo hunter does stand
To tell the fate of the cowboys that rode at his right hand.

—From THE LONE BUFFALO HUNTER.

Loyalty, dependability and devotion to their duty are qualities inseparably associated with the cowboys of the Southwest. Dependability counts for a lot, too, where coffee is concerned—and that quality in Admiration Coffee has long been a matter of pride with its roasters. You know that every can or package of Admiration is just as good as the one before it—fresh, fragrant and delicious. There's a zip and a sparkle to Admiration Coffee that's hard to beat. Try a can today.

This is one of a series of advertisements finding inspiration in the authentic, original cowboy ballads. Selections are from the John A. Lomax collections.

Law Violators Receive Fines

AUSTIN, March 4 (AP)—The state liquor control board reports law violators were assessed $23,378 in fines during January.

Convictions totaled 234, an increase of 50 over the previous month.

Inspectors said the month's enforcement activities were highlighted by a Johnson county case in which a jury assessed an accused law breaker $1,000 and costs.

Largest From Dallas

The largest number of cases filed, most convictions and greatest amount assessed in fines were reported from the Dallas district—50 cases, 30 convictions and $3,584 assessed.

Fifty jail sentences were imposed and seven acquittals reported over the state.

Still seizures increased from 43 in December to 67. Seven automobiles were confiscated and 52 accused "moonshiners" arrested. With the stills were taken 15,880 gallons of mash and 550 gallons of liquor.

Figures Are Given

The stills, which had a total capacity of 5,150 gallons, together with mash and liquor, represented a potential evasion of $270,689 in state and federal taxes.

Stills were captured in 18 wet and 11 dry counties, respectively, as follows:

Austin 3, Bexar 1, Bowie 3, Brazos 1, Fayette 1, Freestone 2, Galveston 2, Harris 4, Leon 1, McLennan 1, Marion 5, Matagorda 2, Newton 2, Robertson 1, Somervell 2, Trinity 4, Waller 4, Wood 7 (46)—Anderson 1, Camp 1, Cass 1, Cherokee 2, Comanche 1, Harrison 4, Houston 2, Jasper 3, Kaufman 2, Nacogdoches 1, Titus 3 (21).

Church Leader Secretly Held

BERLIN, March 4. (AP)—Protestant supporters of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller were alarmed as it became apparent that even his family did not know where he was being held in jail.

The militant pastor, who was freed technically after conviction on charges of opposing the nazi state by speaking against its leaders and violating pulpit regulations, was rearrested immediately.

Authoritative circles explained it had been necessary to place the militant pastor in "protective arrest" after the "lenient sentence of the court." He was given seven months in jail, already served during his long wait for trial, and fined $600. Radical nazis apparently were irritated by the sentence.

Whereabouts Unknown

The members of Niemoeller's immediate family were unable to learn he was detained.

As a result of the new arrest of the pastor, long the spearhead of church opposition to nazi ideology, the strife between church and state flared anew.

In Berlin itself the uneasiness in church circles seemed confined chiefly to the pastor's Lutheran Jesus Christus church in the borough of Dahlem.

But strong repercussions were felt particularly in the rural communities where the church continues to be the social as well as spiritual center.

garet Lou Culbertson, who survives him together with their children, Robert Paine, jr., Charles Edward, Margaret Ellen, Nackey Elizabeth, Samuel Holtsinger, and Edward Wyllis, III.

Had Many Connections

He was president and treasurer of the E. W. Scripps company; and a director of the Newspaper Enterprise association service, the Newspaper Information service, and of the United Press associations. He also was a trustee of Miami university.

Scripps maintained homes in West Chester, Ohio, and at Miramar, San Diego county, Calif.

Control of the Scripps-Howard newspapers is vested in a trust founded by Scripps' father, it was explained today at the general offices of the chain in New York.

Was Sole Trustee

During his lifetime, Robert P. Scripps was the sole trustee and as such the controlling stockholder. The trust provided that in the event of his death, the control shall be vested in three trustees.

They are: Roy W. Howard, chairman of the executive committee of all Scripps-Howard corporations; William W. Hawkins, chairman of the board, and George B. Parker, editor-in-chief of the newspaper chain. Howard is the senior trustee.

Twenty-four newspapers constitute the Scripps-Howard chain. They include:

New York World-Telegram, Washington News, Oklahoma City News, Houston Press, Fort Worth Press, El Paso Herald-Post and Albuquerque State Tribune.

in the work of congress, however. Members are plodding along, in the hope of an early adjournment so that they can return home to campaign for reelection.

So far the session has produced two major bills, both recommended by the president. One set up a new crop control system to replace the old AAA, and the other relaxed restrictions on federal aid in home building.

In March, 1933, on the other hand, congress was enacting monetary and banking measures almost at the rate of one a day.

Out of those bustling days, too, grew the first of the New Deal's social and industrial laws—national industrial recovery, agricultural adjustment, securities, bank deposit insurance, Tennessee valley authority and other acts. Funds eventually reaching into the billions were authorized.

Both NRA and AAA soon were hauled into court, however, and in the third year of the New Deal the supreme court killed them both.

Juarez Battle

Ibarra, Aparicio and Angeles gathered at the car.

"An argument arose as to whether we should be taken to jail or turned loose," Hardley said. "All at once Ibarra and Aldaz started shooting at each other.

"The next thing, there were dead and wounded all over the street."

The U. S. consul here began an investigation and immediately reported to the United States embassy in Washington. An investigation also was started by Constantino Suarez, federal prosecutor of Juarez.

Hardley said he and his companions went to Juarez "to have a good time."

Authority between city and federal officers was reported to be the underlying cause of the battle. There have been numerous clashes in recent months.

CLAIMED BY DEATH

SAN ANGELO, March 4. (AP) — Ben F. Williams, 45, member of the San Angelo postoffice staff for the last 25 years, died at a local hospital last night. He had suffered pneumonia and apparently was recovering but suffered a setback. Mr. Williams was made superintendent of mails in 1925 when that position was created and had held the position since. Rites will be held Friday.

Mr. Williams was born in Abilene.

Texas Slaying

ing stolen an automobile at Wolfe City Tuesday night and robbing a man near Greenville the same night.

Youth Is Unarmed

The Greenville robbery netted $6 and an automatic pistol. Rickman, who said he was headed for a brother's home at Fort Sill when he was arrested, was unarmed at the time. The pistol had been thrown away. After the shooting he walked to Melissa, a few miles from McKinney, spent the night in a restroom in the rear of a restaurant, and boarded a bus the next morning. When the bus reached Durant, rather than lay over several hours, he started hitch-hiking.

Officers, working on the theory Taylor had been slain by a deserter from an army post in Oklahoma, were on the lookout. Army authorities later said there was no record that Rickman was a deserter.

The taxicab had been commandeered in Dallas. The driver said he violated a traffic law in McKinney to attract attention.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, March 4 (AP)—Cotton futures dropped 9 to 11 points today.

March contracts opened at 9.20 bid, May at 9.24, July 9.30, Oct. 9.38, Dec. 9.38 and Jan. 9.39.

Selling was not aggressive but demand was light and was limited to scale down purchasing for the trade. Weakness in the Indian market also affected Liverpool which was 4 to 5 points lower than expected.

Manchester cabled that the turnover in cloth and yarns continued disappointing.

Prices drifted aimlessly during the morning but hovered near the initial lows.

Near mid-session March contracts traded at 9.19, May at 9.25, July at 9.30 and Oct. 9.38, or 8 to 10 points below the previous close.

Reports from the interior said manufacturers were reluctant to increase stocks and were pursuing a hand-to-mouth policy.

The turnover here yesterday was 15,200 bales and open commitments were 414-150 bales, an increase of 350 bales over the previous day.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—Cotton futures opened 9 to 12 lower on easier cables and under liquidation and foreign selling. March 9.09, May 9.12, July 9.16, Oct. 9.25, Dec. 9.25, Jan. 9.27.

Although Bombay declined the American equivalent of about $1 a bale there was only a moderate amount of Bombay selling here. Southern offerings were light and as the market became quieter it displayed a steady tone on trade and scattered buying.

Shortly after the first half hour May had recovered from 9.11 to 9.14 and the list was 6 to 8 points net lower.

The market remained quiet later in the morning with near months easing a few points further under scattered liquidation. Moderate foreign buying in late months tapered off toward midday. May at that time was selling at 9.11 and the list was 7 to 10 points net lower.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—Steels led a creeping come-back in today's stock market.

Gains running to a point or so were well distributed among favorites. Profit selling reduced top marks near the fourth hour.

Brokers said most traders were keeping operations at a minimum pending Washington developments and concrete signs a turn in the recessionary tide is near at hand.

Bonds and commodities shifted over a trendless course and foreign securities markets provided no special prop for domestic sentiment. U. S. government bonds slipped on the treasury plan to utilize bonds for its March quarter financing instead of notes.

Well ahead most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, Anaconda, Cerro De Pasco, Howe Sound, St. Joseph Lead, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Allis Chalmers, Oliver Farm, U. S. Rubber, Philip Morris and Union Carbide.

General Electric was resistant notwithstanding a cut in the dividend. Although the company showed a net of $2.21 a share for 1937 against $1.52 in 1936, it reported orders for the first two months of 1938 were 36 per cent below the same time last year.

"The truth is that if the army collected every anti-aircraft gun in the country and concentrated them around one great city . . . there wouldn't be enough guns to properly protect that city against enemy air raids.

"It appears we are going to rely on a navy that may be in the wrong spot, or on the protection of our oceans, to defend us against enemy air raids."

Bohn Hilliard Is Defendant In Suit After Bar Raid

SAN ANTONIO, March 4. (AP) — Bohn Hilliard, district supervisor here for the state liquor control board, was named defendant today in a suit for $5,000 damages, growing from the raid by the liquor agents on the Turf bar, 121 Soledad street, the night of Feb. 20.

The suit was filed in the 57th district court by J. W. Pace who alleged that his eye was injured by flying glass when Hilliard and other agents kicked in a glass door while Pace was standing nearby at the Turf's entrance.

Chemistry Is Going Ahead

AUSTIN, March 4 (AP)—Industrial chemistry has forged forward as the third great force in Texas' industrial development in the opinion of Elmer H. Johnson, industrial research geographer for the University of Texas bureau of business research.

Johnson says the first two forces—agriculture and oil—are familiar to economists but the advances made in chemical research have opened "a vast new vista for exploitation of Texas' natural resources."

Activity Is Shifted

"Shifting of activity in heavy chemicals," he says, "especially the alkalies—soda ash and caustic soda—to the southwest gulf coast and that of the kraft pulp and paper industry into the southern pine forests of the coastal plain has been marked. The pulp and paper industry is a large consumer of certain chemicals.

"The movement," he continues, "is tied up with the discovery of the great reserves of fuel and energy materials—petroleum and natural gas—with similar discoveries of nonmetallics such as salt and sulphur in Texas and Louisiana, and with advancing technology which renders the pines available for paper production."

Snorts Of Derision

While the statement Texas is advancing industrially is often met with derision, Johnson says, it may be pointed out the state's chemical industry has too many paralleling features with the whole industry to be so summarily dismissed.

"Soda ash and caustic soda," Johnson says, "are big items in conversion of raw materials to finished products. The demand for chlorine is increasing with the demand for hydrogen, a by-product of electrolytic caustic soda."

Texas' industrial development, he continues, will advance with the development of its technology which will create "a never-ending procession of finer and more diverse goods and services."

California Flood

relief situation was under control and that no further outside help was needed.

Fair Weather Predicted

One spokesman emphasized that "we cannot have a flood here in the sense that they do in the east because of the quick runoff," he said.

The flood-stricken area was promised nothing more severe today than snow in the mountains, with fair weather predicted for the lowlands.

Pasadena's famed Rose Bowl, scene of the annual New Year's day East-West football game, suffered heavily from floods, as did any number of other sport centers in Southern California.

Pasadena City Manager C. W. Koiner estimated the damage to the picturesque bowl and to the municipal golf course which surrounds it at $200,000. Rushing waters undermined embankments on both the north and west side of the Rose Bowl, weakening the structure.

Stadium Is Washed Away

Victor McLaglen's sport stadium, costing $20,000, was washed away when the Los Angeles river cut underneath it.

Two rivers, ironically dry most of the year, caused heavy damage when the rain waters began to drain off.

In San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties, the Santa Ana tore through rich agricultural lands, inundated part of the city of Riverside, burst dikes at Anaheim in Orange county and flooded an area 15 miles long and seven miles wide near the ocean.

But for a few weeks each spring, when mountain snows are melting, the Santa Ana's bed is dry.

The raging Los Angeles river, also dry most of the year, tore out railway and highway bridges in the industrial area, paralyzing transportation in and out of the city.

An incomplete check of storm victims indicated 25 persons missing in North Hollywood, in the San Fernando valley north of here; 15 dead in the Santa Ana - Fullerton - Anaheim region, 30 to 50 miles southeast of Los Angeles, and 25 missing in San Fernando above North Hollywood.

Russian Plot

separatist movement, once was president of the Uzbek Soviet republic in central Asia and is a nephew of the last emir of Bokhara.

He testified that Uzbek nationalists trained leaders for insurrection by sending young boys to Germany and Turkey to be educated.

His testimony followed confessions of intrigue with the Polish general staff and a plot to assassinate the Soviet union's war commissar, all broadening the pattern of the admitted conspiracies of the 21 accused as traitors, murderers and spies against the U. S. S. R.

Khodjaieff said the middle Asian nationalists resented Joseph Stalin's stand against self-sufficiency for Uzbekistan. He said he and Akmal Ikramoff, former political boss of the Uzbek republic and also a defendant, wanted to reduce the growing of cotton, its chief produce, and to emphasize industry and grain production in the first five year plan.

He conferred at Ralls Thursday afternoon with Percy B. Ralls a director of the association. A. B. Davis, manager of the chamber of commerce here, also is a director.

Building Permits Top $40,000 For Week; Pace Consistent

Lubbock continued the 1938 jewel of consistency as far as building is concerned when new construction authorized during the present week passed the $40,000 mark this morning.

It thus became the fourth consecutive week when building permit figures topped the $40,000 figure. The only Texas cities which can match that record are Houston, Dallas and Austin. The consistent pace of new construction here is further emphasized by the comparatively narrow range in totals from week to week. The low week of 1938 produced $17,000 in permits and the high was last week, with $47,310. The weekly average this year has been $36,200.

New construction authorized this morning included a permit to M. E. Allen for a residence costing $1,250 at 815 Avenue L and one to A. W. Jackson for a structure costing $2,250 at 1320 Avenue G. A permit was issued Thursday afternoon to Ira Jenkins for a frame residence costing $3,500 at 1901 Twenty-second street.

Permit total for March was increased to $25,166, for the week to $41,248, and for the year to $326,278.

Flood Conditions Are Playing Havoc With Train Service

Flood conditions in California, especially at Los Angeles, have played havoc with pullman service on the Santa Fe according to local railroad officials. A large number of sleeping cars are tied up behind the flood and cannot be moved out on trains.

The westbound train this afternoon was to have its pullman stopped here and returned to Galveston and Houston on No. 91.

Official estimates show that farmers produce from 100 to 250 pounds of straw, stalks or husks for every 100 pounds of grain.

Mexican Has Plenty Of Shoes To Wear

Corpus Christi police were more than puzzled when luggage of Benito Sanchez contained among other merchandise 78 pairs of shoes.

They telegraphed Lubbock police to check whether the shoes, a new suit, three pairs of sox, three suspenders, and a hand bag belonged to the Mexican, who was released from county jail here Feb. 19 after he had been there since Dec. 16 to serve a shoplifting sentence.

Bill Mabray, police identifications officer of Lubbock, was checking outlying towns of the South Plains to determine whether merchants had reported loss of goods. He said the merchandise was consigned to Corpus Christi from Lubbock.

County Judge J. J. Dillard assessed imprisonment of 3 days in county jail when Newell Russell, charged with theft, waived a jury and presented his case this morning. He was charged with having taken a $20 suit from Montgomery-Ward & Co.

Emergency Arrangements Used To Bring Radio Programs

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Complicated emergency arrangements last night brought to the country's radio fans their scheduled Hollywood programs, although communication with the Los Angeles area was still undependable because of floods.

Programs featuring Rudy Vallee, Robert Taylor and Bing Crosby (NBC) were transmitted from Hollywood studios by telephone to station KFI in Los Angeles, broadcast on the regular channel, picked up by an RCA station at Point Reyes, Calif., 470 miles away, relayed to station KPO in San Francisco, and from there sent throughout the country on the regular telephone trunk line.

Amos and Andy, who generally are broadcast from Palm Springs via Los Angeles, instead were "piped" by telephone line to Albuquerque, N. M., for national distribution.

Tomorrow's Child Will Live Longer And The Women Are Expected To Outnumber The Men

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

We have yet to find the fabled fountain of youth, but the average American is becoming healthier and bigger, and is living longer.

Despite the fast tempo of life today, the automobile's appalling slaughter and new-fangled diseases, a child born in the United States this year has the prospect of living 12 years more than his parents had at birth.

And on the basis of continued conquest of disease the average child born 25 years hence will live 5 to 10 years longer than one born this year. The 1900 infant had a prospect of living until 49, and the 1938 baby to reach 61. The 1963 baby's life expectancy should be 66; perhaps 71.

Nation Of Graybeards?

This increase, coupled with a declining birth rate, is enlarging the proportion of elderly persons in our population. But don't be afraid that we soon will be a nation of graybeards. The change within the next century will be scarcely perceptible.

Nor is soft living and machine age strain making Americans deteriorate physically. College boys and girls of today are taller and heavier than those of the last generation.

Medical science and hygiene virtually have conquered typhoid fever, diphtheria, malaria and smallpox. Scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough and similar diseases of childhood are much less malignant.

Surgical wizards build new blood "pipe lines" to the heart, take off tops of skulls to operate on the brain and perform "miracles" in building new stomachs as well as new faces. Wonder-working grandular treatments are still in their infancy and new secrets of vitamin values and the functions of body cells are still to be revealed.

War On Deadly 'Big Ten'

Medical authorities, now concentrating their attention on the Big Ten of death-dealing diseases that take their big toll among the middle aged and elderly predict spectacular gains in 25 years.

The Big Ten, in order of mortality rate, are: Heart disease, cancer, pneumonia, kidney diseases, cerebral hemorrhage, tuberculosis, malformation and diseases of early infancy, diabetes, influenza and syphilis.

U. S. medicine is marshaling powerful resources for the war on cancer, which takes some 137,000 lives yearly. The federal government, the American College of Surgeons, the American Medical Association, clubwomen and health officials are enlisted in the drive for early diagnosis, intensive research and improved treatment for "the great darkness."

Heart disease has been increasing but medical science is better able to detect this No. 1 killer and has made effective means of controlling it.

Help For The Poor

All of the Big Ten except cerebral hemorrhage, diabetes and appendicitis strike most often and hardest in the homes of the poor. Consequently the prospect is for more group effort to improve the health of the under-privileged.

Socialized medicine—and the agitation over it—is increasing.

Meanwhile, our now slightly predominant male population is to become more feminine, the average woman living three years longer than the average man. Reasons: Women are believed to be "tougher" biologically than men (their metabolic processes are slower and they wear out less quickly) and they are more sheltered from occupational hazards.

In 1910 the ratio of males to females in the United States was 106.6 to 100. In 1930—the last census—the ratio was 102.7 males to 100 females. Women probably will outnumber men 25 years from now—unless the immigration bars are let down.

HERE'S THE BIG TEN OF FATAL DISEASES

Here are the ten diseases that take the highest toll of lives in the United States and the annual number of victims of each. The figures are from the Bureau of Census for 1935.

DISEASE	ANNUAL TOLL
Heart	312,000
Cancer	137,000
Pneumonia	104,000
Kidney Disease	103,000
Cerebral Hemorrhage	97,000
Tuberculosis	68,000
Diseases of Infancy	63,000
Diabetes	28,000
Influenza	27,000
Syphilis	11,000

Medical science, in the next 25 years, will concentrate its attack on this roster.

HOW LENGTH OF LIFE GROWS IN U. S.

This table shows the increase in the average life expectancy of American infants. The 1789 and 1855 figures are of Massachusetts babies because Massachusetts was the only state whose figures for the early days of the republic are considered fairly accurate.

YEAR BORN	LIFE Expectancy
1789	34 Years
1855	39 Years
1900	49 Years
1938	61 Years

In Rome, during the early Christian Era, the expectation of life at birth was about 20 to 25 years.

Abandoned Town In Australia Is Being Put Up For Sale

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 4 (AP)—Want to buy a town? Here's your chance.

"Town for sale: 12 houses and four other buildings; some of the finest trout fishing in the state; beautiful mountain scenery; electric light and water, postoffice, store and excellent motor road from Melbourne."

This notice, which appeared here recently, adds that the town may be purchased on a five-year installment plan if the buyer wishes.

The town formerly was used to house men working on a project of the state rivers and water supply commission at Eildon Weir.

New Mexico Governor Comes To Defense Of Beans, Chili And Sirloin Steaks

SANTA FE, N. M., March 4 (AP)—Irked by Washington eulogies over Wisconsin cheeses and Idaho potatoes, Governor Clyde Tingley in an oratorical burst today rushed to the defense of pinto beans, chili and sirloin steaks.

"Breathes there a man," breathed the governor, "who would not be wooed from cheese by a New Mexico beef critter in the form of sirloin?—Who would not dally with the dainty pinto bean in the face of any man's baked potato?

"If senators in congress would be well fed, let them forget the grub from their own states and eat New Mexico food—even to those Portales peanuts."

He hazarded the guess Senators Carl Hatch and Dennis Chavez are the best fed and plumpest members of congress, and arranged to fix up a batch of "samples" for the senate restaurant bill of fare for their "starving confreres."

Air No Longer Is Free For Some English Car Owners

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—The air is no longer free in some parts of England. A number of garagemen have decided to charge 12 cents every time they have to inflate a motorist's tires.

This and such other services as filling radiators and topping up batteries are performed free by most filling stations which depend on good will for much of their business.

But the garagemen say the services cost them several pounds a week in time and they are disturbed over "undercutting" by filling stations.

Texas And Louisiana In Brisk Debate Over Crop Varieties

BATON ROUGE, La., March 4 (AP)—The office of Harry D. Wilson, state commissioner of agriculture, today released a rebuttal in his debate with J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, over the agricultural propensities of the two states.

A recent statement by Wilson that Louisiana produces a wider variety of crops than any other state brought a hearty denial from McDonald, who pointed out the points of superiority in Texas.

Figures Are Given

Wilson's statement asserted that if Louisiana had the cotton and corn acreage that Texas had the production last year would have been 50 per cent more here than in Texas and Wilson added a quantity of figures as to Louisiana's production on crops, mentioning perique tabacco as one crop produced in Louisiana and not in Texas.

Wilson continued:

"We do not produce much mohair but we produce $3,000,000 worth of Spanish moss;

"We do not produce many blue bonnets but we produce sufficient purple hyacinths to make a blanket of flowers that would cover the entire state of Texas.

Rarest Orchid Garden

"We do not have the largest commercial rose gardens, but we do have the largest orchid garden in the United States—the rarest and most expensive of all flowers.

"We may not have enough mocking birds to sing to the earth's teeming millions but we have sufficient bullfrogs to give a pleasant night's serenade to the entire sleepy population of Texas and furnish a pair of juicy legs to every citizen of your commonwealth.

"You mention your large production of spinach. Out of consideration for our citizens' taste and appetite, we have discouraged the growth of that obnoxious vegetable in Louisiana.

"Almost every fur coat you see in Texas is made from the pelts of Louisiana muskrats."

Muskrats often build their homes on floating man-made rafts.

Youth Demands Electric Chair After He Receives 199-Year Sentence In Man's Slaying

CHICAGO, Mar. 4. (AP)—A 199-year prison sentence, imposed for the slaying of a delicatessen store keeper during a robbery evoked an angry cry of "I want the electric chair," from 19-year-old Paul Reeder today.

Judge F. R. Allegretti fixed the penalty after the youth pleaded guilty to a charge of murdering Raymond Sedlacek, 22, last November.

FLASHES OF LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

Come Again

GRAND ISLAND, Neb.—The burglar who took three pipe wrenches had an invitation to come again, Archie Ball told police.

The thief dropped his watch while maneuvering around on the back porch of the Ball home, and the watch, Ball said, was worth much more than the wrenches.

Look Who's Here

CANON CITY, Colo.—Not until he was half shaved in the Colorado penitentiary barber shop did W. J. Ryan, Denver detective, notice the barber was "Lefty" Johnson, with whom he traded bullets while Johnson was fleeing a restaurant holdup.

Johnson was captured later. Ryan went through with the shave.

Ignorance Is Bliss

POCATELLO, Idaho—"Some boys are playing soccer with some sticks," a quiet-loving complainant phoned police.

Officers found the sticks—36 of them—were dynamite. The boys said they found them.

Veteran

UNIONTOWN, Pa.—Samuel Lee Moore gets all the breaks in his family.

He was in the hospital today with a broken leg, his fifth. Sammy averages a broken leg semi-annually—he's only two years and seven months old.

No Influence

PHILADELPHIA—Deputy Attorney General Gilbert Cassidy, jr., was wanted in court today—on a charge of interfering with a policeman.

He saw a bootblack arrested for disorderly conduct. He gave his card to the bootblack, told the boy he'd appear for him.

"Then I was arrested," Cassidy said. "The officer said he didn't care who I was."

Going Up

SEATTLE—At this rate, L. C. Mathison is going to pick up 4,500 pounds.

Appearing for sentencing on a grand larceny charge, he told Judge Malcolm Douglas he had gained 50 pounds in two months in jail.

Judge Douglas sent him to prison for 15 years.

Restricted Freedom

NEW YORK—You can't throw money away here—the police won't stand for it.

Patrolman Edward Muth saw James Armati, 40, a plasterer in merry mood, tossing coins and bills to a street crowd. He forced the bystanders to turn over $67.11 they had picked up and arrested Armati on a disorderly conduct charge.

Magistrate Earl A. Smith gave Armati the $67.11, a suspended sentence—and a lecture.

It's The Upkeep

WARSAW, Mo.—It isn't the initial expense—it's the upkeep.

Lee Ashley paid $5 for an automobile; $8.50 for license plates.

Blue Blood Spills

Prescott Van Wyck (above), 38, grand nephew of the first mayor of greater New York, told police, when they found him beaten and dazed in Harlem, that it all happened while he was looking for his car. He said he fought with two men, who escaped.

START SCHOOL CENSUS

Mechanical "Eye And Ear" Aid For Blind And Deaf Girl, 5

FINGERS ARE EYES AND EARS
Joan Higgins, born without sight or hearing, feels Dr. Gault's throat to "hear" what he is telling her.

BY AURELIUS KINSEY
AP Feature Service Writer

EVANSTON, Ill., March 4—Science may make life easier for persons who have to travel the path blazed by Helen Keller. Miss Keller, who became blind and deaf at the age of 19 months, learned to make vibrations take the place of eyes and ears. She learned by touching a speaker's lips and throat.

In Evanston there's a 5-year-old girl, Joan Higgins, who's starting the same difficult process. But it's being simplified a little for Joan.

Develops Phonotacter

Dr. Robert Harvey Gault, professor of psychology and director of the American Institute for the Deaf-Blind at Northwestern University, has her in charge. He has devised an instrument known as the phonotactor which translates voices into vibrations.

The phonotactor is an improvement on the touch-the-lips method, he explains, because it intensifies and clarifies the voice range.

Joan is instructed by university psychologists eleven hours weekly. She sits beside the phonotactor with her fingers resting on reeds. As the instructor speaks into a telephone transmitter the reeds vibrate from 64 to 8,000 times a second.

Problem Is Complicated

Joan's problem is more difficult than Miss Keller's was because Joan was born without sight or hearing.

"A child born with sight and afflicted even shortly after birth is far better advanced than one born blind," Dr. Gault explains, "because a normal baby absorbs facts about his environment from the moment of birth."

One like Joan must learn through touch alone such differences as between up and down, violent impacts and music, the elusiveness of curved surfaces and other things that are quite confusing to the blind.

Dr. Gault says the normal person can scarcely imagine the deaf-blind person's conception of the world.

"To the biologist," he explained, "the deaf baby reverts to a stage in its embryonic growth when it was about the size of a thimble and had fishlike characteristics. The totally deaf are in this respect millions of evolutionary years behind those who hear normally."

Camel Patrols Prove Big Aid On Australia's Big Fences

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—Camels are so useful in the arid areas of Australia that the commonwealth government keeps its own breeding and training stations for these beasts, says Albert Richard Wetjen, the explorer.

Camel patrols maintain the two greatest fences in the world—one that bars the jackrabbits from entering the great wheat belt of Western Australia, the other erected against wild dogs and rabbits along the border of New South Wales and South Australia.

As early as 1860, camels were used in the Australian interior by explorers. They were imported from India.

Favorite In Rich Handicap

Only War Admiral kept Pompoon, below, from being the 3-year-old champion in 1937, and he isn't in the Santa Anita this year. NEA's turf expert picks Pompoon to win tomorrow with Seabiscuit coming in second. See story in column 3.

Pompoon Picked To Defeat Seabiscuit

Heavy Play Is Expected For Sceneshifter

BY MAX RIDDLE
NEA Service Turf Writer

SANTA ANITA Race Track, Arcadia, Calif., March 4 — Pompoon should win the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap, March 5.

Seabiscuit, one of the grandest horses in many years is apt to find the jinx that robbed him of last year's victory still on his withers.

Sceneshifter should take third money.

Seabiscuit and Pompoon would rate mighty close in my book, with the nod going to the former, provided the two were at even weights. But Seabiscuit has 130 pounds up, while Pompoon has 10 less to carry.

You can't take it away from Seabiscuit as a race horse. He has carried 130 pounds and broken track records. But Pompoon would have been a champion last year but for the presence of War Admiral. And the question is: Can Seabiscuit give that sort of horse 10 pounds?

Santa Anita is rife with rumors that Pompoon is laid up. These are the sort of stories that precede every race. If he is lame, then of course all bets are off, and Seabiscuit, the 1937 handicap champion, should get the nod.

Sceneshifter Dark Horse

Sceneshifter is a sort of a dark horse in this race, albeit he will get a heavy play. Seabiscuit must spot him 18 pounds and this seems almost impossible, considering the fact that the horse trained by Earl Sande is not only in perfect shape but one of blazing speed.

However, you cannot overlook sheer class, and Pompoon and Seabiscuit have that to spare.

It will be interesting to note whether the pacemaking sprinters will be able to extend Pompoon and Seabiscuit enough to let Sceneshifter come through.

One of the keen disappointments of the Santa Anita season has been the failure of the South American horses to live up to their early form. Amor Brujo and Sabueso seem definitely outclassed.

Over The Top Long Shot

Although Ligarotti has shown speed and courage, he doesn't appear up to matching the speed of the three top American horses.

There is one long long shot in the field which may merit attention. He is Over The Top, a Man o' War which has been showing steady improvement. The longer distance of a mile and a quarter may help him. His best effort might bring him to fourth, with a chance to get into the bettors' payoff.

Still, this department has to stick to the class horses, and considering the weight and distance, we have to rate them in this order — Pompoon, Seabiscuit, and Sceneshifter.

ENTRIES TO BE NAMED

LOS ANGELES, March 4 (AP)—The weatherman gave the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap back to the favorites today as horsemen prepared to name the hopes they will send into the mile and one quarter classic tomorrow.

Entries for the big race were due to be announced today by Racing Secretary Webb Everett. Before rain began to pelt Santa Anita early this week, Everett believed as many as 22 would accept the issue.

Clear weather and a fast track were predicted.

The general consensus today, however, before the formal entry list was announced, placed the field at around 15. There seemed to be no two observers who agreed on the complete roster.

Included in the list of possible entries — some definite, others most probable—were:

Seabiscuit, Pompoon, Aneroid, Stagehand, Sceneshifter, Indian Broom, Star Shadow, Top Row, Whicheee, Time Supply, Amor Brujo, Ligaroti, Over The Top, Primilus, Frexo, Gosum, Count Atlas, Sweetpalot, Today and Woodberry.

Baer Faces Turning Point In Career As He Meets Barlund

Golfing Plans Are Warmer Over Texas

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, March 4.—Advance tip: Warmer and warmer are plans for a big open golf tournament in Dallas either in late September or early October. . . . And members of San Antonio's newly founded golf association are stirring the ashes of the long-dead Texas Open, hoping to revive it by next winter.

Only eighteen lettermen will return to Centenary's football squad next fall! Most pertinent of all questions asked by the national basketball committee in its questionnaire to representative basketball men is the query: "Is the game too fast for health of the players?"

Schoolboys Will Play

Schoolboy golfers of Texas will play their annual state tournament over the Cedar Crest course at Dallas, April 12-16. . . . Freckled Earl Stewart of Dallas will defend. . . . Secretary Ralph Baldwin of the Texas Golf association wants it known that public links players are eligible for the state tourney at Colonial club, Fort Worth, May 4-7. . . . Any town can have two muny representatives providing they hold a qualifying event to determine local winners and runners-up.

Nominations for two hardest working college athletes—Bill Dewell of Southern Methodist and B. F. (Beefus) Bryan of Texas. . . . Dewell is the main cog of the Methodist basketball team, sits in on baseball chalk talks and is trying to mince in spring grid training. . . . Bryan, great baseball player, also works on the pole vault daily with hopes of winning the event in the conference meet.

Cowboys To Be Potent

Coach Frank Kimbrough of Hardin-Simmons U. had his first spring grid workout yesterday. . . . Ten returning lettermen will make the Cowboys potent again. . . . The two senior tackles off last year's team, Odis Crowell and Mack Alexander, have signed contracts with the pro Chicago Cardinals. . . . Judges for the East Texas field trials over the club course near Tyler, March 12, will be W. T. Windsor, Akron, Ohio, secretary of the national pheasant futurity, and C. C. Stephenson of Holly Springs, Miss.

Note to Texas Aggie footballers: The Southern Methodists recently voted that you are the lads they are most anxious to play next fall. . . . Even Pitt, on the schedule this fall, ran a poor second. . . . Still football conscious, Lockhart's high schoolers will have D. X. Bible down for a talk over mashed potatoes on March 24. . . . Little Mike Cvengros has been named manager of the Abbeville, club of the class D Evangeline league.

Veteran Jakie Atz, one of baseball's grandest warriors, will take over operation of Harlingen's franchise in the new Valley loop. . . . Players will be furnished by the Beaumont ball club. . . . Directors of the Texas-Oklahoma Wolf Hunters' association selected the Smith ranch north of Childress as the site for the fall hunt in October. . . . Dates for the annual Green Belt golf tournament will be set at a Childress meeting Sunday.

Young Brother Of Ex-Champ Is Favorite

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Mar. 4.—This is the night when Buddy Baer, the laughing boy, grows up. He fights Gunnar Barlund at the garden in a 10-round bout that should tell whether Buddy is destined to become a top-flight heavyweight in his own right or continue merely to be Max's favorite brother.

At 23, Buddy is believed to be ready for the big push. His manager, Ancil Hoffman, who piloted Maxie to an hilarious tenure of the heavyweight throne, thinks he has fallen heir to another champion and the consequent managerial cut of some very juicy purses. It's a captivating thought.

Those Days Are Over

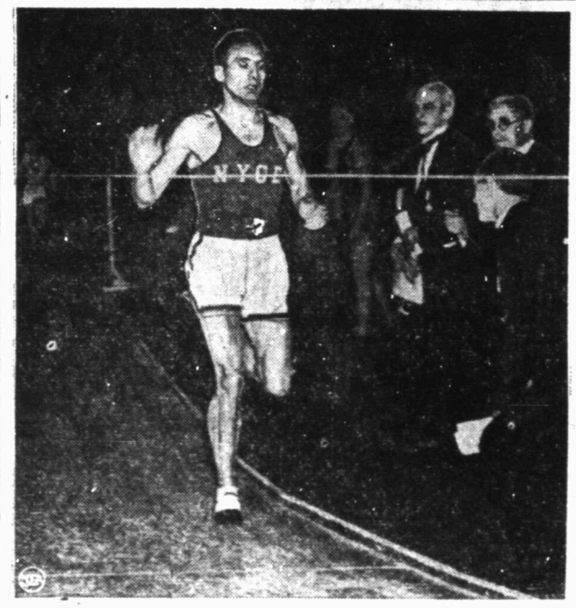

Buddy, who stands over six feet, six inches and is bigger in every way than his illustrious brother, practically forced himself on Hoffman Back in 1935, when Max was training, more or less, for his championship fight with Jim Braddock, Buddy kept hanging around the camp and sparring with Max, whom he adores.

Those days are over now, though, and it's been noticeable over at Lakewood, N. J., where they've both been training, that Buddy and Max don't work out together any more. Intimates of the camp think Buddy, if he chose, could give the ex-champ a fine lathering. Max fights Tommy Farr a week from tonight in a comeback that figures to be one of the shortest on record.

Though Baer is a slight favorite in the betting, there also is plenty of opinion that Barlund will prove too experienced for him.

Human Comet Clips Mile Mark

Glenn Cunningham, peerless miler, is shown below as he again sped to victory and a new record for that distance last night on Dartmouth college's springy board track. Cunningham set the fastest pace recorded in world's history, 4:04.4. See story in column 8.

Time Of 4:04.4 Set By Kansa Last Night; Handicaps Of 5 To 600 Yards For Opponents

HANOVER, N. H., March 4 (AP)—Peerless Glenn Cunningham plotted his race almost to the exact tenth-second last night when he ran a 4:04.4 mile, the fastest recorded in the world's history, indoors or out, on Dartmouth college's springy 6 2-3 laps board track.

That amazing performance was four full seconds faster than Cunningham's own 4:08.4 indoor mark and two seconds under the 4:06.4 outdoor mark made last August by Syd Woodersen, of England, and cepted this week by the Int tional Amateur Athletic feder

All But One Finish

All but one of Cunningham's finished. Stu Whitman, Dartmo outstanding miler, started away yards ahead of the barrel-ch Kansan. Cliff Holmes, Bert Mannis, Robert Yeyell and Upton were given 260-yard s and Hal Wonson, who crossed finish line 20 yards behind ningham, started 600 yards a but merely jogged until Whi dropped out at the half-mile, running almost shoulder to sho with Cunningham.

Glenn passed the quartet wit 260-yards handicaps at about three-quarters point and over ed Wonson early in the last MacMannis finished in third and the other three were away as Cunningham ended the ru

Reserves For Westerners

By Collier Parris

IF YOUR FOOTBALL pulse is beating, drive out southwest of the high school this afternoon and catch the Westerner scrimmage.

It'll be a regulation game, featuring the spring training crew, the boys who'll make up the 1938 Westerner squad.

Coach Chapman has tried to match 'em up equally, and he grins a wide grin at this, because it is the first time in a long time he has had enough "varsity" men to make up two fairly strong, evenly balanced elevens.

Lack of reserve strength has been Chapman's nemesis since he has been coaching here. He has never had a squad large enough, or containing enough first stringers, to make more than two or three replacements without weakening the lineup.

Maybe the tide will turn this year. He is pleased with his spring crop, although he lost a lot of lettermen. He hopes to have an able replacement for nearly every position. Moreover, he looks forward to a rather hefty team, not a super-heavyweight machine, not even a lightweight club, but a pretty decent sort of middleweight outfit.

Eske Ritchie, the titanic tackle, has served his sentence in Westerner stripes, but there's a lad coming up just as big, even bigger, to play a tackle position. The name is Sewalt—Avon Sewalt. You're likely to see and hear that name several times between now and next Christmas. He has another fairly large tackle, Wayne Pipes, a 175-pounder, who looked almost as good as Sewalt in practice last fall.

These boys found it convenient to attend Lubbock High, after getting starts elsewhere. Coaches were impressed with their physiques and talked them into coming out for the team. "As long as you're here you might put on a suit," etc., invited the mentors.

The coaches would welcome the transfer of other high school students to Lubbock, of ages and sizes approaching those of Sewalt and Pipes.

There is, of course, some nice looking talent coming back from last year's campaign, including about ten lettermen.

Coach Walker "Chigger" Nichols' Cowhand graduates should add strength and numbers to the Westerner squad.

Led by Captain Walter "Jumbo" Webster, the galloping fullback, blocker and deadly defensive man, the lettermen expected back are Jerry Nash, Lloyd Sanders, Joe Bob Foster, Wayne Johnston, Leete Jackson, Howard Alford, Ernest Winter, Harold Parsons and Joe Pytell. From the reserve corps will come Dutchy Cowthon, Homer Hensley and Paul Sparkman.

Among promising newcomers to the squad, mostly from the Cowhands of last year, will be Billy Trice, Pat Farris, James Merriman, L. A. Storrs, Allen Barker, R. E. Jones, Walter Daniel, Howard Martin, J. B. Privett and Charley Haws.

The above is not designed to set the fans ga ga over the 1938 Westerner prospects, or cause football scribes in rival cities to cut loose with the "bear" stories. There's a lot of work to be done, proving to be seen and touchdowns to be made before it can be called a super-team.

MIGHT AS WELL make it a football column, so here's the rest of it, with a different twist, provided by the feature service of the A.P.:

"On Ohio Football Field—A Whole Series Of Boxing Matches Where The Knockout Is King."

That headline astounded American residents of Paris when they read Paris Soir, France's largest afternoon newspaper.

Gaston Benac, special correspondent in New York City, wrote two articles on American football through a Frenchman's eyes.

The first concerned a visit to the Columbia university training field, where Mr. Benac found the tackling dummies and other practice equipment reminded him of nothing so much as the instruments of torture of the middle ages.

There he talked to the coach, one "Little Lou," who told him all about American football. The Columbia coach, said Mr. Benac, was so much of a celebrity in America that "when he traveled from New York to Kansas City it made as much excitement as a French ministerial crisis."

On the field, he said, he heard "Little Lou" telling one of his players to take care of an opponent with the words: "If he bothers you, knock him out."

In the second Paris Soir article was an eye-witness account of what must have been a thrilling game between "the Violets of the University of New York against Pennsylvania Military college."

The Frenchman spent the whole first part of the game, played in Ohio Fields," in uptown New York, watching the antics of "a whole line of men dressed in white who took the part of orchestra leaders for the wild cries of young students of the University of New York."

Before telling about the action, Mr. Benac explained the rules of the game.

"One camp attacks with its forwards gathered together in line with the spot from which the ball is played, while two halves, a three-quarters and the rear-guard are spread out 10 meters (about ten yards) further back.

"The forward center passes the ball between his legs to the three-quarters or the rear guard, who rushes away or makes a long pass forward or gives the ball a kick. There are a thousand possible combinations."

The game the Frenchman saw, he said, had only one star—"the giant three-quarters, Edward Williams."

"One impressive thing," wrote Mr. Benac, "is that very few of the players reach the end of the violent play, which lasts only a few seconds after the ball is passed.

"As for the stars, they are protected by their comrades, who fall upon them to prevent an opponent from twisting their arms or their ankles while they lie on the ground.

"'It's so quickly done,' someone beside me said.

"What was almost as quickly done was the epilogue of a battle which took place near me in the grandstands. A supporter of Pennsylvania was knocked out in less than 10 seconds and put on a stretcher in less than a minute. That was a record."

Well, we knew football was a rough game, but—what must the French readers think?

New Mexico Aggies Victors Over Texas Mines Cagers

LAS CRUCES, N. M., March 4 (AP)—The New Mexico State college Aggies closed out their undefeated Border conference basketball season here last night by trouncing Texas College of Mines, 48 to 36.

The win gave the high-scoring Aggies 18 straight victories in their march to the conference title.

The cellar-dwelling Muckers made a game of it until the closing minutes, tying the score six times and trailing only 17-21 at the half.

Pecos Finley topped the scores with 16 points for the Aggies. Joe Jackson, center, garnered 15 and Martinez, forward, 11. Mora, forward, bucketed 12 for the Muckers.

Hank Luisetti Considered A Sure Bet To Break Record

BERKELEY, Calif., March 4 (AP)—Angelo "Hank" Luisetti was considered certain to break the national four-year basketball high scoring record here tonight when the Stanford Indians and California Bears clash for the southern division championship of the Pacific coast conference.

The lanky, sharp-eyed forward, one of the greatest players the game points to beat the 1,431 point record scored by Glenn Roberts of Emory-Henry College, Virginia, from 1932 through 1935.

Revolta Leads St. Pete Play

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Knocking Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., out of first place money looked like a man-sized job today for 60-old survivors in the St. Petersburg open golf tournament.

The former P. G. A. champion started the final 36 holes with a two-stroke edge over Harry Cooper, the perennial contender from Chicopee, Mass. Revolta's score of 138 at the half-way mark was four strokes better than par.

No Signs Of Cracking

Turning in two rounds of 69, the wiry Revolta showed no signs of cracking.

Cooper turned in two up's for his 36-hole total of 140.

Four strokes back of the leader were Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Tex., and Bill Heinlen of Crawford, Ind. Hogan posted a 70 and 72, Heinlen a 72 and 70.

War Admiral Heavy Favorite To Cop Race At Hialeah

MIAMI, Fla., March 4 (AP)—More than a dozen horses will line up tomorrow for the $50,000 added Widener challenge cup but so far as the racing faithful are concerned, there is only one horse in the race and its name is War Admiral.

The odds board is backing the popular choice for the mile-and a quarter race, climax of the Miami Jockey club's 40-day meeting at Hialeah park. The outlook today was that the final quotation on the Samuel D. Riddle entry, unbeaten in 1937 and in his recent winter debut, would be about 1 to 2, maybe 2 to 5. The next contender won't figure better than 6 to 1.

Racing Secretary Charles McLennan predicted 14 horses would go to the post.

Now Here's The Idea, Son

Jim Bagby, jr., won't be able to blame it on lack of instruction if he... fails to make the grade with the Boston Red Sox this season. The son of the former Cleveland hurling star is shown looking on while Big Jim, now a sergeant on the Atlanta, Ga., police force, teaches him how to throw a screwball. Young Jim won 21 and lost eight for Hazelton of the N. Y.-Pa. League last year.

Cage Schedule For Southwest Ending

(By The Associated Press)

The Baylor Bears, playing second fiddle only to the champion Arkansas Razorbacks, clash with the Southern Methodist university Mustangs in Dallas tomorrow night in one of the two remaining games in the Southwest conference basketball schedule. Tuesday night the Texas A. & M. cagers play Rice institute in Houston.

Baylor took their last game with S. M. U. 26-23. Southern Methodist university lost a two-game series to Arkansas 32-26 and 34-26 at Fayetteville, while the Bruins, playing at home, downed Arkansas 54-47.

Aggies In Fourth

The Aggies cinched at least a tie for fourth place last night by defeating the University of Texas 31-26. If the Aggies can hold down Rice Tuesday night they will have an unclouded title to fourth place.

Last night's victory came in the last 10 minutes of play after the score stood 20-20. Jimmy Clark converted 11 of 14 free throws, six in the final 10 minutes. His 15 points gave him scoring honors. Robert Moers and Willie Tate, Texas players, and Aggie Louie Freiberger made eight points each.

Tiniest Regular At Penn Setting Fast Pace For Scoring

By NEA Service

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Mar. 4.—Sol Miehoff, star forward and co-captain of Penn State's basketball team, may be the smallest regular in the Eastern Conference, but that hasn't prevented him from leading the league in scoring.

Sol Miehoff

Despite his mere 5 feet 8 inches and 145 pounds, Miehoff has set a terrific pace in loop competition this winter, outscoring such stars as Mike Bloom and Don Shields, towering stars of Temple's high-flying Owls. He scored 93 points in his first eight league games and probably will wind up breaking the record mark for a season of 118 points.

Miehoff also stars on the Nittany Lions' baseball and soccer teams. Coach Joe Bedenk claims Sol is a definite big-league prospect, and adds that he has the best throwing arm he has ever seen on a collegiate diamond.

Although he never played soccer before he entered Penn State, Miehoff developed so rapidly that he was chosen captain in his senior year, and placed on the All-Eastern team.

TO CLOSE SEASON

CHICAGO, Mar. 4. (AP)—Illinois and Indiana will wind up their Big Ten basketball schedules at Champaign tonight, with Indiana after a victory which would give the Hoosiers a tie with Illinois for the season at four victories and eight defeats.

Sabin And McNeill Expected To Come Through To Finals

NEW YORK, Mar. 4. (AP)—Meeting in the order assigned them by the tournament committee, Wayne Sabin today plays Frank Bowden and Don McNeill faces Gregory Mangin in the semi-final round of the men's national indoor singles tennis championship.

On form, which has held up with admirable consistency in the men's division of the tournament, Sabin and McNeill, seeded No. 1 and 2 respectively, should come through to the title round.

Says Producer-Husband Was Cruel

The years have been kind to Justine Johnstone, pictured at left as she was in 1920—famous Ziegfeld beauty, idol of college boys and one of the most photographed show girls in the world—and shown above as she appears now, smart, well-dressed, still lovely. But if the years are kind, her husband, Walter Wanger, film producer with her in the upper photo, has not been, the former stage beauty charged in a divorce suit. After instituting the suit, based on cruelty allegations, Mrs. Wanger left for an extended tour of South America, leaving everything up to her attorneys. The Justine Johnstone of the Follies became equally famous as a play actress. She fought a court battle when she was ousted from the cast of "Hush Money" in 1926 and in later years was hailed for her sponsorship of cancer research. Wanger, her husband for 18 years, is one of Hollywood's leading producers. Gossip has linked his name, lately, with that of blond Joan Bennett, recently divorced.

Simple Life Of 64 Years Ago Told In Pages Of Old Paper

AUSTIN, March 4 (AP)—The state simple life of 64 years ago is mirrored in the pages of an 1874 edition of the Weekly News Echo owned by T. C. McDowell, assistant city clerk. The paper was published by J. S. Steele and J. P. Bridges under the motto: "The welfare of the people is our guiding star."

The first page housed professional and business cards, church and lodge notices, a serial story, "The True Heart," and a poem, "The Alamo," reprinted from the Austin Democratic Statesman.

The second page feature was a two and one-half column description of a trip into the hill country around Fredericksburg by a party of young men and women of Lockhart. The excursion lasted two weeks but the names of the participants were not mentioned. The virtues of Lockhart and Caldwell county received a half column, revealing th black prairie land could be bought "on time" for $1 to $25 an acre.

Local news began on the third page and ran largely to reporting camp meetings throughout the county. However, worldly news was represented in an announcement that work on the new jail "would begin in a few days," and acknowledgement by ye editor to a farmer for the gift of a watermelon.

Fight Gets Mention

Thus fortified, the reporter announced "the summer fights are not yet over," and proceeded to describe a "risuff at the exchange saloon last Monday evening to the great damage of shirts, pants and noses, and the exquisite delight of 'ye local,' who was rather scarce of items." Parties interferred, he wrote, "and separated the belligerents before damage was done."

Advertised stage schedules showed mail was received from Austin Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Thomas Hardy's ashes were buried in Westminster Abbey but his heart was buried in his parish churchyard in Wessex.

The PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says trying to stand on one's dignity sometimes results in a hard fall.

The Plainsman heard a story yesterday that an august jurist, Federal Judge William Hawley Atwell, is said to be telling on himself.

The judge had just sentenced a 63-year-old negro to an 18-year penitentiary term and asked the prisoner if he had anything to say.

"Yassuh, judge," said the negro. "How come you-all doan gimme a term Ah kin finish out. Ah ain' gonna live dat long."

"Well," returned the judge after brief consideration, "just do the best you can. That's all anyone can do!"

* * *

IF the senate committee allegedly investigating leasing of state-owned lands for oil, and its valiant leader, that Wild Bull of the Marshes, Senator Tom Holbrook, aren't careful, they're going to elect Bill McCraw governor in the first primary.

Instead of hurting the Dallas redhead politically, the Galveston solon and his aides have played right into his hands and Bill, never asleep, has made political hay while the storm was blowing.

Not only was the assault on Mrs. McCraw a prize political boner, but Holbrook's careful bringing out that McCraw had been the recipient of financial favors at the hands of eccentric Carl Estes, East Texas publisher, was even worse. Everybody in Texas knows—or should know that no candidate for statewide office can possibly pay for his own campaign and that all of them receive help from friends. And everybody in Texas knows—or should know—that Publisher Estes has been personally active not only in the McCraw political organization, but also previously in the gubernatorial campaigns of Dan Moody, Ross Sterling and James V. Allred. He actively supported, with much fanfare, the campaigns of all those gentlemen.

IT is, of course, a bad system that we have in Texas. But there's nothing that can be done about it, since it take a prince's ransom to run for a state-wide office in this commonwealth.

Every candidate receives—and most of them solicit—financial aid of friends and that does not mean there is any taint of dishonesty connected with the practice.

Most interesting thing to The Plainsman in the investigation fiasco thus far is the way Ernest Thompson is proving what many people long have said—that he has more brains than anybody in Texas public life.

The Amarillo colonel is hoeing his own potatoes, carrying on the business for which he was elected, holding Railroad commission hearings and letting the governor and the attorney-general have the questionable spotlight.

That's dumb. Dumb like a fox!

THE Plainsman has never had any practical experience as a school teacher and certainly he does not know, first hand, anything about the modern methods of pounding book larnin' into the hard heads of present day moppets.

But from what he has been able to hear, it looks like it might be a good idea if a little less stress were placed—in the lower grades—upon people and countries across the seas and a little more stress on our own people and our own nation.

One of The Plainsman's numerous boys is in the fourth grade.

Aside from deportment—which they now call by some trick name but what means the same deportment we oldsters had so much trouble with—he's doing somewhat better than average class work.

He has been very interested of late in studying about Egypt, Hawaii and similar far-removed places. He knows a lot about King Faud, his wedding, pineapples and surfboard riders and a lot of other things concerning Hawaii and Egypt which may or may not come in handy to him some day.

But he doesn't know any more about this country, except what he hears in conversation and occasionally sees in Wild West shoot-'em-up movies, than a Chinese kid in a comparable grade in Hong Kong.

* * *

THE other day when General Pershing was hanging perilously between life and death and the office was calling The Plainsman every now and then to keep him in touch with the situation over the noon hour, this 10-year-old fourth grader wanted to know who General Pershing could be that there was so much excitement concerning his illness.

"Don't you know who General Pershing is?" we asked in surprise.

"Naw," said the 10-year-old. "I never heard of him!"

Of course, such a situation is not the fault of the individual teacher.

It is the fault of the system.

The teacher is given a schedule

CHAPTER VII

Polly and Jerry held hands while they watched the colorful changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace. They stood with shoulders touching while they leaned on the timbers of London Bridge, gazing down into the Thames. They looked into each other's eyes as they fed the pigeons before St. Paul's Cathedral. Yet they talked of everything but love.

"London takes my breath away," Polly said as they neared the inn at the day's end. "I'm right proud my mother's people were Londoners."

Jerry nodded. "England's a wonder, all over. I'm proud of having English blood myself. But England's too arrogant. America will have to lick her again."

"Hush, Jerry! You'll be over-heard . . . Who's that woman waving to you?"

"Where, Polly?"

"Across the street. . . . Look! In the blue bonnet. She's just gotten out of a hackney coach."

"I doubt if she's waving to me," Jerry said, puzzled. She was a pretty thing, becomingly dressed and having a gay air. Jerry lifted his hat and bowed while his tanned face turned crimson. "She mistakes me for somebody else, I reckon."

The young woman gave him a warm intimate smile and went into a shop. "She thinks she knows you very well," Polly said, piqued. "Jerry, I believe she does know you! Why are you being so innocent about it?"

"If I knew her," Jerry replied brusquely, "I'd say so. I've got no taste for mysteries."

They both looked at the rather shabby public vehicle out of which the young woman had just stepped. The driver was a large man in a cabby's uniform. Had they been closer, they would have seen that he had a torn ear and a nose that had been several times broken and carelessly mended.

"Well, Jerry," Polly argued, "you don't look like anybody else I've seen in London. I'd not confuse you with other men. No woman would. Of course that girl knows you! You've met her somewhere. I reckon you've paid her compliments, or she wouldn't be speaking to you so—"

"So how?" It was an irritated challenge.

"So like she had some claim on you. She looked square at you! What's more, you bowed to her, Jerry Whitfield!"

"Of course I did. Just to be polite."

"But you smiled at her!"

"I didn't!"

"You did!".

"Bah!"

"Now you're being rude. You save your good manners for London ladies, and you shout at me because I'm just a Connecticut village girl."

"For a little bit," Jerry said hotly, "I'd turn you over my knee and whale you. Where and when would I meet any London girls like that?"

"After the theater," Polly replied with unaccountable feminine shrewdness. "After they're through acting in the play. You told me you'd been to Drury Lane, time and again."

"So I have."

"And I suppose you'll try to tell me you didn't notice one girl from another?"

"No, I won't," Jerry retorted angrily. "I didn't meet any of them, but there were at least three I used to clap for. And one night I sent them bouquets, all three of 'em!"

"Well, then, there you are!" cried Polly triumphantly, but not enjoying the triumph. "Did you put a card in, or a note?"

"No, I didn't but I wish I had. Just to give you something to carry on about!"

While this argument was in progress they had entered the tavern, passed through the public room and ascended the stairs. At her door Polly took out a large brass key from her pocket and inserted it in the lock. "Won't you come in?" she asked tartly. "I'd like to hear some more of your adventures. They must be wonderful."

She threw open the door, and Jerry followed her in, for the quarrel was in that exhilarating state of fermentation when neither wished to abandon it. He walked to the window and looked down on the street while she closed the door.

"Hasn't she come out of the shop yet?" Polly inquired, removing her bonnet before a looking glass. "I thought her dress was right gaudy for the street. Maybe she's gone in to buy something more suitable."

Jerry whirled about and seized Polly's hands. He drew her near to him, so that their faces were close. "You're a jealous little cat, Polly Chelsey. You're nobody's angel. You'd be hard to handle—"

"Yes, Jerry," she said tenderly, meltingly. "I reckon that's so. . . . Oh, Jerry, don't you see how it is? I've never taken a sweetheart before. I seem to want all of you—even the past that happened before you'd ever heard of me. I reckon this is being in love. It was feeling like this, I guess, that made my mother go to America in Trepid Chelsey's ship and marry him." Her arms crept around Jerry's neck and she was answering his kiss.

After a moment they drew apart and Jerry said, confused and shaken, "We're talking of love again, and I said I'd not till I got you home to your father! How has this happened?"

"Because we quarreled," Polly answered simply.

They resumed their New England reserve then, as they might have put on topcoats in a storm. But it was not the same. Beneath the reserve there throbbed the intimacy of the emotion they had shared.

"Tell me what o'clock we're to start in the morning," Polly said, "so I'll not keep the coach waiting."

"I'll knock on your door soon after daylight. You must get up at once and dress and pack your clothes. Then we'll have breakfast and wait in the courtyard for the Dover coach. I've spoken for two seats. . . . Take your money now, Polly. It'll be best for you to carry it. Can you hide it about your person?"

"Yes. I've a doeskin bag for that purpose. Will there be any trouble about the dog in the coach, Jerry?"

"I don't think so. If there is, I can take him on top. I'll go down now and have a look at him before I turn in."

"You're so kind, Jerry. How could I have been so cross to you? How could I have been so hateful?"

"I know more about typhoons," Jerry said with a grin, "than about lovers' quarrels. And I believe it's easier to handle a ship than a woman. Good night, Polly."

He bent and kissed the palm of each of her hands, thinking of what some future night must bring in danger—the English Channel and the dark uncertainty of a smuggler's crossing. Could he bring her safely through it? These were his thoughts.

"Good night, Jerry!"

She thought only of how his dark hair curled as his head bent over her hands."

of work and she follows it, as she should. There's nothing she can do about it.

But that doesn't keep the system from appearing to an old-fashioned guy as something at least slightly cockeyed.

AS we noted above, we're no expert in education. We don't know anything about child psychology, scientific curricula and all that stuff that Columbia university delves into so deeply and passes on through practically every school system in the country.

Yet it seems to use that before a fourth grade gang of 10-year-olds needs to know about King Faud, Egypt and Hawaii that it would be better for them if they were given at least an inkling of facts about their own land. After all, General Pershing is considerably more important to this country than King Faud or pineapples and surfboards.

Who's cockeyed—The Plainsmen, or Columbia university and modern methods of education?

PERSHING'S PLACE IN MILITARY HISTORY

Serious illness from which Gen. John J. Pershing seems to be recovering has revived speculation as to the rank he will be accorded among the military commanders of world history.

Likely it will not be very high. In all probability, it will be considerably lower than he deserves. Probably it will be higher among military men than in the popular mind. Just as probably, he will gain in stature with the lapse of time. Perhaps in the distant future when European critics have ceased to belittle everything related to America's participation in the World war, it will be recognized that Pershing forced the strategy which ended that conflict.

Few people even in the United States realize the importance of the part Pershing played in bringing that war to an end. Frenchman Foch, generalissimo of the allies, did everything in his power to prevent the formation of separate American armies. Pershing, however, insisted on separate armies. Those armies were formed. They were the spearhead of the attack which ended the war nearly a year sooner than Foch said could be done. After it was over Foch took the credit, sneered at Pershing and other things American. He said nothing about the strategy which made him a victorious commander having been forced down his throat by Pershing.

The early ending of the war deprived Pershing of the opportunity to give play to the full sweep of whatever military genius he possesses. But it did last long enough to demonstrate his place among the great commanders of his home land.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, March 4.—Nearly 20 years of playing comedy on the stage—and Hollywood makes him a villain. But what a villain is Akim Tamiroff!

Maybe it was because when he received his first one-line bit back in 1932 that he felt rather villainous toward Hollywood for the 10 fruitless months he had spent trying to crash the movies. And besides, he hadn't wanted to come out here in the first place.

It was all his wife's idea, and now that things have turned out the way they have she can say, "I told you so!" He had been conducting the American Academy of Stage Makeup in New York. Business wasn't very good, and he had to admit that they couldn't lose much by going to Hollywood.

All he lost was the money he had set aside to spend on English lessons; the 10 lean months did away with every dime of it. So he still has his Russian accent, which is just as well because the studios like it.

Since the spell was broken, Tamiroff has had parts in about 30 pictures. For some time there was no mention of him in the reviews; then there'd be an occasional line about some small role well handled by an unnamed player. After "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" and the signing of his Paramount contract, he began to get obscure screen credit. Now he receives feature billing.

He Stole The Picture

Tamiroff established himself as a remarkable character actor as the Chinese general in "The General Died at Dawn," and recently as the cannoneer in "The Buccaneer," he virtually stole the picture. This last was a sympathetic part, and it may be that Tamiroff will not always be a heavy.

His effective characterizations are the result of long training with the Moscow Art Theater, in which he worked under the late Richard Boleslawski. When the group came to America in 1923, Tamiroff was the youngest member and one of Boleslawski's favorites. They toured for two years, and Tamiroff stayed here when the troupe returned to Russia. He didn't dare face Boleslawski with his decision, and so resigned by letter.

His conscience was eased soon afterward when the director deserted Moscow for Broadway and Hollywood.

There were roles in successful plays for Tamiroff, but his Makeup Academy was a less profitable venture. Tamiroff is famous for his own stage and screen disguises, and is inclined to alter his natural appearance more than is necessary. He really looks like an uncauliflowered wrestler, or a well-dressed truck driver.

Extra heavy makeup, he explained, enables him to judge himself impersonally on the screen — as though he were another person. He sees the rushes every day.

"A Smart Director"

A good many prominent screen players study their lines only a few minutes before they speak them on the sets, and—some of them don't even bother to learn what the stories are about. Tamiroff, though, prepares his roles just as he did for the stage. Studies a part for weeks before the flicker goes into production. By the time the camera rolls, he's completely in character.

Only time the Russian actor has director trouble is when a director tries to change Tamiroff's character. While we were talking in the Paramount restaurant there were still five weeks before "Spawn of the North" would begin shooting.

In it he will play a villainous fisherman, though a smiling, amiable one. Director Henry Hathaway came by the table, and Tamiroff stopped him to tell the ideas he had worked out. The fisherman would be blond, with a small, bristly beard, and he would be a jovial man whom people would fear most when he laughed.

The actor looked pleased as he sat down again. "That is a smart man — Hathaway," he said. "He agrees perfectly with me about my character."

He is stocky, but by no means the poly-poly individual you saw in "Buccaneer." However, he has decided that his fisherman character must have a lean face, so he's dieting rigiorously. For lunch: two slices of dry rye toast and a cup of black coffee, and three hours of tennis after that. Akim Tamiroff suffers for his art.

Snow White And The Seven Dwarfs

Only The "Next War" Will Prove Whether A Airplane Or A Battleship Is The Superior

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 4—Despite professed assurance of the navy admirals and their dear friend President Roosevelt as to the superiority of battleships over airplanes as a defense weapon, naval officers know perfectly well that it will take a real war to decide the argument.

Rodney Dutcher

Both the navy and the army have secret reports and surveys from which anyone privy to them could prove practically anything. The army thinks the battleship is more vulnerable to aerial attack than the navy does, but even the navy men are forced to admit privately that no one can tell how successfully modern bombing planes can operate against modern battleships until they are set against each other in the "next war."

Anti-aircraft guns of ships can hit a plane now almost as easily as a gunner in a plane can hit a ship. Confidential reports in the Navy Department venture the guess that in any major aerial engagement in which both battleships and planes figured, about two-thirds of the flyers on both sides would be killed.

Battleships Tough

The army thinks a battleship or other object should be bombed from a plane flying horizontally and has developed bombs which function that way. It's the safest method. But the navy sticks to the old theory of diving its planes at a battleship. The increasing thunder of a diving plane loaded with bombs is likely to unnerve anti-aircraft gunners, even though a closer target is offered them.

Battleships make tough targets because their decks are so heavily armored, whereas cruisers are easy prey for aerial bombs. Concussion from bombs dropped alongside a battleship, it's agreed, is a much greater hazard than the likely effect of a direct hit.

* * *

"No More Rabbits"

The running debate on intertwined issues of foreign policy, naval expansion, neutrality, war and peace is developing into the most honestly non-partisan congressional argument of recent years.

Suddenly one finds such former staunch administration supporters as Robert M. LaFollette, who now defies the White House by seeking an amendment requiring referenda on war; Congressman Maury Maverick, outstanding progressive leader in the House, and Dr. Charles A. Beard, dean of American historians, bitterly attacking the administration. These three, incidentally, all supported the President's Supreme court plan.

"We are meddling in foreign affairs, or beginning to do it, because we are muddled here at home," says Maverick. "Now we Democrats have got to admit we are floundering. The reason for all this battleship and war frenzy is coming out: We have pulled all the rabbits out of the hat and there are no more rabbits. The Republicans need not rejoice, because they never even had any rabbits—or any ideas.

"The truth of the matter is that at the present time we are a confused, bewildered mass of people, and we are not delivering the goods. The Democratic administration is getting down to the condition in which Mr. Hoover found himself."

Problems Of Our Own

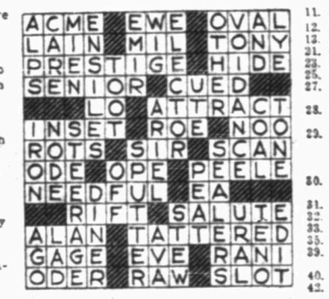

These are strange words from a belligerent New Dealer. Dr. Beard speaks in the same vein when he says:

"All this war and big navy talk at Washington heavily blankets discussion of general American problems—unemployment, farm tenancy, wages and hours, taxation, matters connected with a decent civilization in this country. How dare we chatter so much about the behavior of others when our own is so open to criticism?"

The extent to which Roosevelt's preoccupation with foreign affairs and the navy is consciously or unconsciously an effort to get his own mind and the country's off domestic problems can only be surmised. The President is genuinely worried about German, Japanese and Italian aggression. But even some of his intimates admitted after his Chicago "quarantine" speech, that he had realized it would blanket public excitement over the Justice Black-Klux Klan revelations. And since that time a depression has come along.

You Will Run Your Own Plane In 1963 --Or Drive A 140-Mile-An-Hour Auto

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Associated Press Feature Service Writer

Only 35 years have passed since President "Teddy" Roosevelt was praised by the newspapers for his "characteristic courage" in riding an automobile.

Today more people in the United States ride automobiles than use toothbrushes. Teddy's grand-children can cross the Pacific in a passenger plane, and transport pushes on toward undreamed speed and comfort.

Stratosphere Travel

From scientists and technicians who toil on devices to cater to a populace which travels more than any other in world history, comes this preview of transportation in 1963:

1. AIR TRAVEL DE LUXE—The China-bound North Orient Express slips through the placid stratosphere. In the air-conditioned dining-dancing salon, New York Importer Jack McGee tops off luncheon with strawberries and cream some 25,000 feet above the frozen tundra of the Arctic.

He and his 200 fellow-passengers are on a two-and-a-half-day flight from New York to Peiping. In deep-cushioned chairs they enjoy a television presentation of the football game between McGee's own Fighting Irish and the Golden Gophers of Minnesota.

After dinner and dancing to melodies from San Francisco, McGee chats by radio telephone with his wife in their Long Island home.

Pipe dream? Not if you take the word of conservative aviators. Technicians now are working on supercharged engines and cabins for high-altitude atmosphere, and there is serious talk that coast-to-coast substratosphere trips will be offered the traveler in two or three years.

The Family Plane

2. MIDDLE CLASS FAMILY FLYING—On a sizzling Sunday morning in July, Groceryman Joe Shultz of Topeka, Kas., drives his auto-plane from the home garage down to Topeka's Field for private flyers. Mrs. Shultz, the two children and an automatic ice cream freezer are with Joe as he takes off in his low-priced "fool-proof" plane for a Sunday outing in the Colorado mountain country.

Flight of fancy? Aeronautical folk are confident all this will come true within 25 years. Roadable aircraft already are here. The steady improvement in small planes, plus American marketing talent, a generation growing up determined to fly and the vast air "roominess" of the United States, presage flying by a sizeable percentage of the population. Experts say volume demand will bring mass production and low-priced aircraft.

Pleasure Driving At 140

3. MOTORING IN 1963—Vermonter Aaron Snowbound and family leave home in a blue-gray dolphin of the highways for an autumnal week-end at the national capital.

Their 1963 car is a bit bulbous-nosed, boasts "dining-car window visibility," super-safety glass all around and perfected air conditioning. The feather-weight metal auto, streamlined like a fish, has a thick outer layer of rubber to reduce collision hazards.

Chemically-treated fuels help make the compact power plant almost 100 per cent efficient. The Snowbounds have put a half-pint of essence of helitrope in the fuel tank to make the exhaust fumes pleasant for other drivers on the road.

Papa Snowbound turns the dolphin onto a six-lane superhighway (with bypasses at all towns). The perfectly-engineered road is illuminated at night, the paving is skid-resisting and self-de-icing. With automatic gears, automatic brakes and perfect stabilization, the car almost drives itself. It can do 140 miles an hour, but the Snowbounds, being conservative, ease along at 78.

4. THE TRAIN IN 1963—The Cornbelt Comet glides out of Chicago, its horn trumpeting a melodious au revoir to suburbanites. Picking up speed, the metallic rabbit of the rails soon is a maize-striped streak of cornflower blue in the prairie dusk.

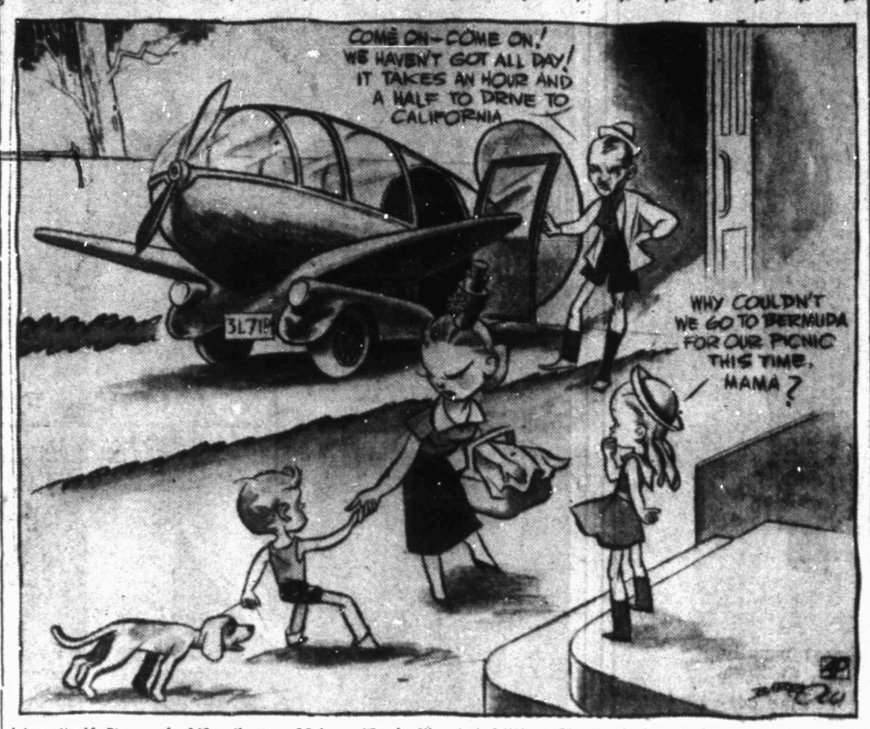

Says Iowa Farmer Hoffman to his hired man as they watch the streamliner whizz toward Des Moines: "Looks like she's hitting 130 tonight, Hank."

In the softly-illuminated, vibrationless dining car of the Comet, white-haired Henry A. Wallace, former secretary of agriculture, dines on corn-fed chicken and quick-frozen golden bantam corn. Behind the diner is the music-movie-television salon, air-conditioned, noise-muffled, free of dirt and bacteria.

Fading from the American scene is the old "iron horse." In its place are quiet, slip-streamed versions of the "steam snorter," electric and diesel-electric locomotives.

Piling up in the transportation graveyard also is that venerable carrier of freight, the wooden box-car. The "side door pullman," which endeared itself to the wanderers of the open road, is rapidly being displaced by an all-purpose, lightweight metal car to carry everything from mushrooms to machinery.

These cars, which can be loaded or unloaded from six sides, have the fleet, joltless qualities embodied in the passenger trains that have replaced old "Number 6."

Former German Envoy Decries Nazi Policies

Meyer

SPEAKING in New York City, Dr. Ernest Wilhelm Meyer revealed that he resigned as first secretary of the German embassy in Washington, D. C., because he felt that present Nazi policies were "unchristian and fundamentally anti-German."

SEWING FREES DRIVER

SACRAMENTO, Calif., (AP) — If your wife is riding in your car and doing sewing at the same time, you're not speeding.

Such was the decision of Judge Will J. Carragher in an accident case. He freed Tony Pinitore, husband of a seamstress.

Seven-tenths, or 257,000,000 acres, of the total farm lands of the United States are used to produce forage crops.

Police Officer Faces Charge

GALVESTON, March 4 (AP) — James M. Cornett, Galveston police officer, was arrested last night on two charges of assault to murder in connection with gunshot wounds suffered by his wife and 10-year-old son in a shooting at their home.

Mrs. Opal Cornett and David, their son, were in a local hospital with wounds through their left legs at the knee.

Shooting Accidental

Assistant County Attorney Edward A. Jahn said both Mrs. Cornett and the boy declared the shooting was accidental. Cornett, according to Jahn, said he did not know who had the gun when the shot was fired.

Cornett declared, Jahn stated, that he hung his pistol in its holster in a closet and went to sleep shortly after going off duty yesterday afternoon. The officer said he was awakened by "a commotion" and a moment later heard the shot, Jahn said.

Investigating officers said they found a .45 caliber automatic pistol at the home, one shell of which had been fired.

Streetcar System Modernizes In An Effort For Success

INDIANAPOLIS, March 4 (AP) — Bankrupt seven years, the Indianapolis streetcar system today is a thriving concern—thanks to an $8,000,000 modernization program begun in 1932 at the depth of the depression.

The system now operates 325 new streetcars, trackless trolleys and motor coaches. The 152 trackless trolleys constitute the largest fleet of this kind in the country. Thirty miles of new track have been laid, the entire system unified and schedules improved.

The public has responded. Daily passengers have increased from 166,000 in 1932 to 212,500.

Soldiers in the Chinese army of the Yinshan district are armed with scissors. They have orders to cut off at the hips all long gowns worn by men under 50 years of age, because long dresses waste cloth.

Somewhere on earth there always is a line of no variation, where the line of magnetic force points directly at the North Pole. At present, this line is in the United States. In 1655, it was through London, and in 1670, through Paris.

Bribery Evidence Bared In Court

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 4 (AP) — Two investigators for County Attorney John Corbin testified J. B. Rhodes of Phoenix and El Paso, Tex., paid a $500 bribe for permission to operate slot machines.

The money was introduced in evidence as the prosecution continued its case against Rhodes, one of a score of gamblers and public officials accused of bribery and corruption.

John G. Handy, undercover agent for the county attorney in his drive on gambling and corruption, testified the money was given him by Rhodes, ostensibly for Corbin.

George Ash, a second investigator, corroborated Rhodes' testimony and told of hearing, through a listening device, a conversation between Handy and Rhodes.

Handy had testified Rhodes told him he was paying $1,400 monthly to state, county and precinct officials as "protection" for his slot machine operations and that he had contributed $8,100 to Sheriff Roy Merrill's campaign fund.

Rural counties of Ohio spent $100,000,000 in educating 200,000 boys and girls during the prosperous decade beginning with 1920; most of these children later left the farms to go to the big cities and to other states.

A thimbleful of ordinary water contains more living creatures than the human population of the earth.

Man Hangs By Torn Hand For 17 Hours In A Refrigerater Car; May Lose His Arm

CHICAGO, Mar. 4. (AP)—For 17 hours George Kunellis, 25, hanged by a torn hand, pinned by a railroad refrigerator car hatch door, before a switchman extricated him today.

Policeman Peter Anders said Kunellis climbed into the ice compartment of the car in Davenport, Ia., yesterday; the cover slammed shut and he rode in agony to Chicago.

"I shouted," Kunellis said, "I couldn't raise the door with my other hand. The pain was almost unbearable."

A switchman heard his cries in the yard here.

Doctors reported the hand was badly crushed and the arm, which appeared frozen, might have to be amputated.

Deputy Sheriff Is Exonerated In Shooting At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, March 4 (AP) — Albert C. Stahl, the deputy sheriff whose gun killed a prisoner in a scuffle at Frio and Commerce streets yesterday, was exonerated today by Justice of the Peace Bat Corrigan who conducted an inquest.

"Justifiable homicide," was the verdict returned by Judge Corrigan as the magistrate neared the end of his investigations.

The man, definitely identified as Albert F. Woodell, 55, of Colorado, Tex., an unemployed railroad mail clerk, died in the Robert B. Green Memorial hospital of the wound in his chest caused by Stahl's 41-caliber bullet.

This ad is written for "FORGOTTEN MEN!"

Most stores (and we're guilty, ourselves, sometimes) usually show advertising illustrations that apparently type all men as being "perfect 38's" . . . The small, tall or stout man certainly seems to qualify in our minds as the original "Forgotten Man."

So right now we want to let you know that as far as our stock is concerned, we've always paid a lot of attention to you men who are hard-to-fit . . . whether you wear a size 36 Short or a 48 Stout, you'll find in our all-inclusive collection, suits in plenty of styles and patterns that look well on you, no matter what your build may be.

So come on in, you two hundred and twenty pounders . . . we're ready for you with Hart Schaffner & Marx "Slenderizers" that live up to their name . . . and we're ready too, with smart looking clothes for men that five foot three as well as six foot three.

Closer Relations With South America Is Urged By Chavez

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP) — Senator Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.) urged the American people last night to cultivate closer relations with South America and to eschew any Anglo-American front against fascism and communism.

Chavez quarreled with Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who recently broadcast an appeal for a stronger "community of interest" between the United States and Britain. Ickes, the senator said in a radio address, is "the Don Quixote of American politics."

Chavez continued that the most fruitful United States foreign policy has to do with nations to the south. He said he and Senator McAdoo (D-Calif.) have introduced a bill providing for the erection of "the United States American broadcasting station" to be located in San Diego, Calif.

Himself of Spanish origin — his name is pronounced Chah-veth with the accent on the first syllable—the senator said the United States was in a position to overcome European broadcasts to South America.

FUND TO BE ASKED

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Representative Dockweiler (D-Calif.) said today he would ask $750,000 under the war department appropriation bill for flood control work on streams in southern California.

Annual Stockholders' Meet Of Plains Coop Will Be Held

PLAINVIEW, March 4 (Special)—March 10 has been set as the date for the annual meeting of stockholders of Plains Cooperative, Inc., largest cooperative creamery in Texas, A. B. Tarwater, president, called the meeting, which will be held in the office of the cooperative here.

Report of Roy B. Davis, manager, on the operations the last year, will be made. Directors are to be chosen and they, in turn, will elect officers.

The past year has been one of the most successful in the history of the cooperative. Approximately 1,500,000 pounds of butter was churned, here and in the branch at Portales, N. M. Cheese is also manufactured here the plant being one of the few in Northwest Texas to make cheese.

Besides cheese and butter, the plant handles dressed turkeys. Several car loads a year are shipped to markets, the birds being dressed here or on cooperative farms.

A turkey hatchery is one of the side-lines. It is a cooperative hatchery. The incubator handled 15,000 eggs at a setting and it takes about four weeks. First eggs are to be put into the hatchery about March 10 to 15.
