Richards beats Mattox

AUSTIN (AP) — State Treasurer Ann Richards outmuscled Attorney General Jim Mattox to claim the Democratic gubernatorial nomination Tuesday after a down-and-dirty fight that dwelled on allegations of drug use and dishonesty.

Becoming the first woman to win either party's nomination since Democratic Gov. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson in 1932, Ms. Richards will duel with Republican oilman-rancher Clayton Williams in November.

Richards

Ms. Richards, the 1988 Democratic National Convention keynote speaker, had received 499,150 votes, or 55.4 percent, to Mattox's 402,084, or 44.6 percent, with 81 percent of the vote counted.

■ Related election story/2A

The loss was Mattox's first since losing a 1966 bid for Democratic precinct chairman by three votes.

Ms. Richards' victory didn't come easily.

After emerging from the March 13 primary as the top vote-getter, Ms. Richards found herself in a mean-spirited runoff that included charges of drug use leveled against both candidates and ended with each decrying the way the four-week battle unfolded.

GOP nominee Williams, at a rally Tuesday night in San Antonio, said he hoped the fall campaign would be conducted at a higher level no matter which Democrat won.

"Ann Richards and Jim Mattox, if you're listening tonight, I have a message for you. Read my lips: no more mud. Let's argue about the issues," Williams said.

During the runoff, Ms. Richards, 56, accused Mattox of profiting from public service and challenged him to release his income tax returns. He never did, claiming it would give Williams an unfair advantage should Mattox win the nomination.

Mattox, 46, alleged that Ms. Richards, a recovering alcoholic, used illegal drugs, including cocaine, 10 years ago and challenged her to release medical records from her alcoholism treatment in 1980.

The last week of the campaign brought newspaper reports that Mattox was seen smoking marijuana in the mid-1970s and that Ms. Richards was seen in a restroom where marijuana was allegedly being smoked in 1979. Both dismissed the reports.

And former Gov. Mark White, who finished a distant third last month, said he would never vote for Ms. Richards but withheld his outright endorsement from Mattox.

"It's been a very unpleasant campaign. It hasn't been good for any of us," Ms. Richards said Monday. "Every day of this campaign was started with what Jim Mattox said today or yesterday. And I really don't care because I have heard so many lies and there is no way to continue to answer what Jim Mattox said last."

"A lot of what happened in Ms. Richards' campaign has been the result of her turning her radio and television commercials to some out-of-state folks," Mattox said Monday. "And I think some

Democrats locally pick Richards

■ While Midland had no local runoffs, Ector County Democrats choose Bob Bryant as one county commissioner candidate, and Ector County Republicans choose Carolyn Bowen as county treasurer candidate.

By Brenda Masengill
Staff Writer

Ms. Richards, the state treasurer, handily defeated Mattox in Tuesday's runoff here, 1,156 to 469.

Statewide, she had opened a significant lead.

Ms. Richards also captured the Ector County vote, garnering 2,107 ballots to Mattox's 1,559.

In local runoff races, Ector County Democrats selected Bob Bryant over Joe Eddie Hernandez as their nominee for county commissioner Precinct 4. Bryant garnered 1,196 votes to Hernandez's 955.

Ector County Republicans gave the nod to Carolyn Bowen as the nominee for county treasurer over Bill Tolbert. Ms. Bowen received 625 votes, narrowly defeating Tolbert, who gained 605 ballots.

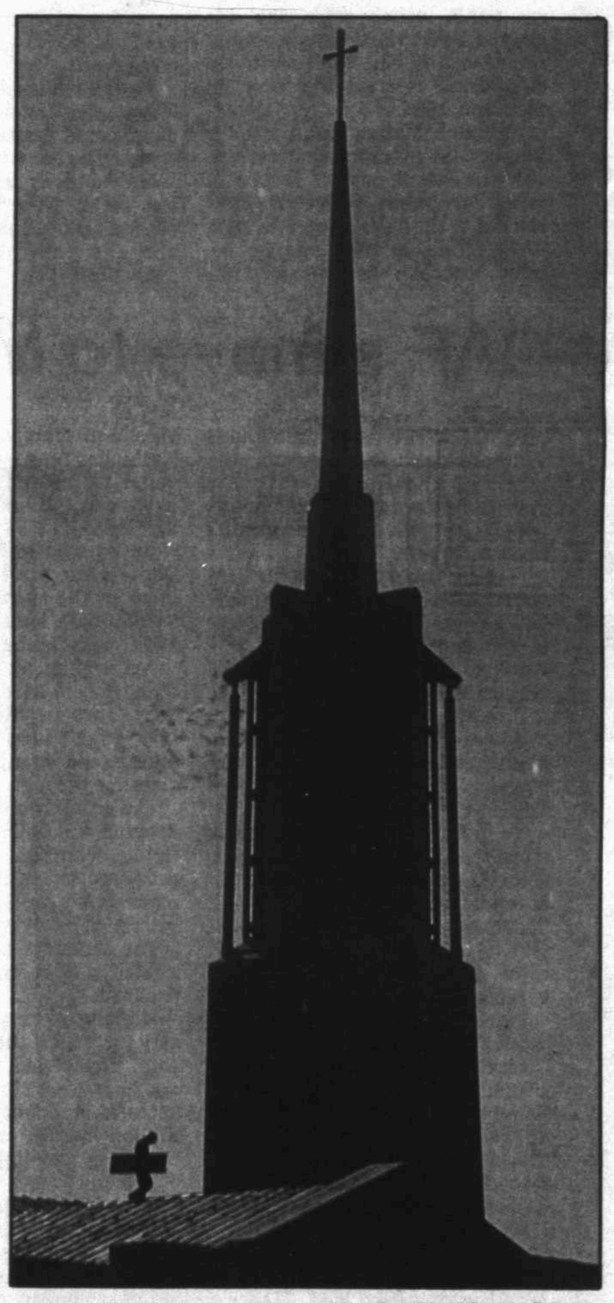

Midland County had no local runoffs.

In other statewide races, Midland Democrats supported Nikki Van Hightower in the contest for state treasurer over Tom Bowden, 1,005 to 427. She was leading statewide late Tuesday night.

Democrat Bob Gammage was successful in his nomination battle with Ross Sears for Supreme Court justice, Place 2, earning 728 votes to 588. Gammage also was leading statewide.

Palestinian group frees trio held for almost 2 years

PARIS (AP) — The Libyan-backed Palestinian group headed by Abu Nidal freed a French woman, a Belgian man and their young daughter Tuesday after holding them for nearly 2½ years.

The three arrived to the cheers of a crowd of relatives and French officials at a military airport outside Paris late Tuesday after a five-hour flight from Beirut. They had been dropped off at the French Embassy in the morning by masked gunmen who arrived in cars with drawn curtains.

Jacqueline Valente, 32, Fernand Houtekins, 43, and their 2-year-old daughter Sophie-Liberte, born in captivity, made no public statements though the couple smiled as they got off the plane. They were taken to a military hospital to spend their first night in freedom after 882 days' captivity.

Abu Nidal's group announced Nov. 8, 1987, it had seized the hostages from the French yacht Silco in the Mediterranean off the Gaza Strip. It accused them of collaborating with Israel's Mossad intelligence agency. Friends said the group was on a holiday cruise.

The French government thanked Libyan leader Col. Moammar Gadhafi for his role in the release and said relations with Libya would improve. Gadhafi last week called for the release of hostages as a humanitarian gesture.

President Bush, in Toronto, said he didn't know enough about the release to say whether Gadhafi deserves any credit.

"We've got some major differences with Libya that continue to exist, but look, who am I to argue in this case if someone can help free one hostage? ... Give that person credit," Bush said.

The hostages, released by the Fatah-Revolutionary Council, used an executive jet in Beirut provided by the French government to fly to Villacoublay near Paris. Ms. Valente was the first to disembark, followed by Houtekins, holding their daughter in his arms. All appeared healthy.

The Fatah-Revolutionary Council has been blamed for scores of terrorist acts, including the December 1985 attacks on Rome and Vienna airports that killed more than 20 people.

Because the hostages were believed to have been held in Libya, the case is considered unrelated to the 18 Westerners, including eight Americans, held in Lebanon by pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem factions.

However, Fatah spokesman Walid Khaled denied assertions that the hostages had been held in Libya. Speaking at a news conference in Beirut, he said the hostages had been

GAO questions payments to sheep, goat raisers

■ Since wool hasn't been a strategic commodity since 1960 and domestic production has declined for 30 years, the agency says the programs are too expensive.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress should re-evaluate subsidizing sheep and goat raisers because the wool and mohair program has not had "any significant achievements" and its costs are high, the General Accounting Office said Tuesday.

The program cost $88.5 million in 1988.

Hundreds of sheep and goat raisers across arid stretches of West Texas rely on the wool and mohair program to stay in business, making it an important rural development tool, said state Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, executive secretary of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association.

"It'd be foolish ... not to utilize sheep and goats to turn sunlight and grass into a sustainable product," Sims, who is Midland's state senator, said Tuesday.

The GAO, the investigative arm of Congress, said the wool program, however, is not effective and the mohair program's justification is "even more questionable because it has never had any specific objectives."

The government established the wool and mohair program in 1954, following a decade of dramatic decline in the U.S. sheep industry. At the time, wool was considered a strategic material for the military. The program's other objectives were to encourage a viable domestic wool industry, a positive balance of trade, and efficient use of the nation's resources.

Wool, however, has not been a strategic commodity since 1960 and domestic production has been in decline over the past three decades.

Despite $1.1 billion in wool payments from 1955 to 1980, wool production fell from 283 million pounds to 106 million pounds, GAO said in a report on opportunities for changes in the 1990 farm bill.

In a separate report on the wool and mohair program to be released today, GAO said domestic wool production has continued to decline, hitting all-time lows in the 1980s, when production fell from 110 million pounds in 1981 to 89 million pounds in 1988. During the period, payments totaled $665 million.

GAO said the additional output of wool attributable to the program in 1988 cost the federal government $3.04 a pound, while the average market price of wool was only $1.38 a pound.

Mohair producers, meanwhile, received $173 million in program payments from 1981 through 1988, GAO said. In 1988 alone, mohair payments represented over 53 percent of total payments made — $47.1 million of $88.5 million.

GAO said that while the wool and mohair program has stabilized income and helped slow production declines, "the program is expensive and can no longer be justified for national security reasons."

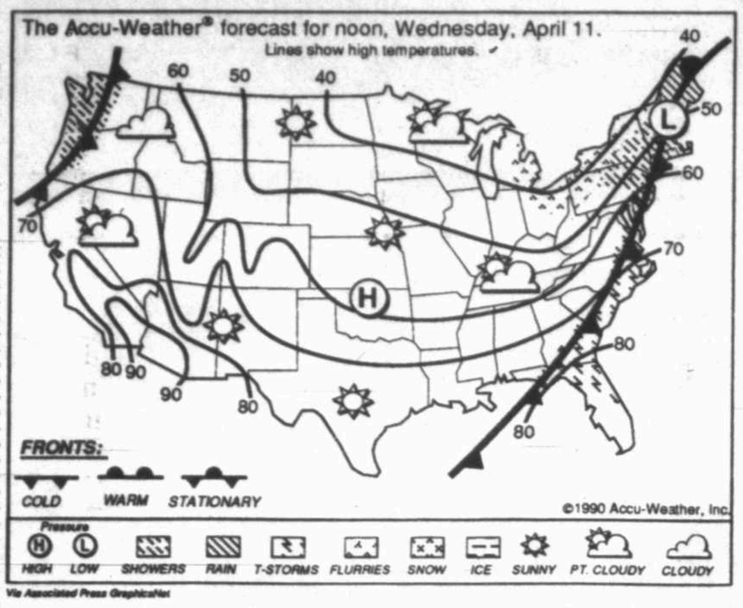

At the same time, out of the 115,000 wool and 12,000 mohair producers who participate in the program, 6,000 receive nearly 80 percent of all payments, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates.

Sims argues that the program, however, "keeps an industry together in West Texas" and elsewhere in rural America, particularly in arid regions where "it is hard to convert forage to usable products."

WEATHER SUMMARY

Summer-like highs forecast

Staff Report

The weatherman at the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport is calling for a "sunny" and moderately warm day today. The temperature is to peak out into the mid-70s.

Winds are to be southeasterly at 10 to 20 mph.

Tonight is to be fair and mild, and the low temperature is to be in the mid-40s.

The West Texas sky is to be partly cloudy on Thursday, when the temperature is to reach into the mid-70s.

Tuesday's high temperature was 72 degrees, and the overnight low was 50 degrees.

The record high temperature for April 10 is 95 degrees in 1948, and the record low is 30 degrees in 1988.

STATE

High pressure continued to build into Texas behind a cold front that was pushing through the southern portion of the state late Tuesday afternoon.

Showers and thunderstorms continued in south Texas in the coastal plains area along the front. Although the precipitation had ended across the northern portion of the state, clouds lingered into the late afternoon, with skies across west Texas remaining mostly sunny.

Strong and gusty north winds were spreading into the state behind the cold front. South to southeast winds prevailed across the deep south. Wind speeds were 15 to 25 mph, with stronger gusts across most of the state except for the deep south where speeds ranged from 10 to 15 mph.

NATION

Rain and storms stretched from Texas to New England on Tuesday after a night of thunderstorms and tornadoes that caused damage and one death in the southern Plains.

Thunderstorms moving out of the central High Plains into the lower and middle Mississippi Valley produced severe weather during the night in Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas, the National Weather Service said.

In Oklahoma, severe storms killed the pilot of a small plane, injured at least five people and damaged more than a dozen houses late Monday and early Tuesday.

Much of the damage came when a tornado cut a swath from Lone Grove to Ardmore. Ten houses and five mobile homes were damaged and a barn was tossed into the middle of a city street, authorities said.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

GOP picks Perry to face Hightower

Associated Press

Republicans Tuesday sent state Rep. Rick Perry to try to unseat Democratic Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower in the general election.

Perry, a former Democrat from a Haskell farm family who claims he'd be the first person to bring an agricultural background to the job, easily outdistanced geological consultant Richard McIver of Stafford in the GOP runoff. With 61 percent of precincts tallied, Perry carried the race 69.9 percent to McIver's 30.1 percent.

Their contest topped the list of statewide runoff races that resulted when candidates failed to collect 50 percent of the vote in the March 13 primary.

In the land commissioner's race, millionaire Houston businessman Wes Gilbreath handily won the Republican nomination over Grady Yarbrough, a Tyler high school teacher.

With 61 percent of the vote counted, Gilbreath had 66.2 percent to Yarbrough's 33.8 percent. Gilbreath will take on Democratic incumbent Garry Mauro in the general election.

Austin appellate Judge Bob Gammage was outpolling Houston appellate Judge Ross Sears for the Democratic nomination to seek Place 2 on the Texas Supreme Court.

Gammage had 58.5 percent to Sears' 41.5 percent, with 67 percent of precincts counted. The winner will take on Republican Judge Charles Ben Howell of the 5th Court of Appeals in Dallas in November.

There was a dead heat in the Democratic runoff battle for the state's highest criminal appeals court. With 67 percent of precincts in, votes were split about evenly between Amarillo county Judge Morris Overstreet and Austin lawyer Frank Maloney.

The winner will face Republican lawyer Joe Devaney of San Antonio in the general election for Place 1 on the Court of Criminal Appeals.

In the state treasurer's race, Harris County Treasurer Nikki Van Hightower won the Democratic nomination by an almost 2-to-1 margin. With 67 percent of the precincts in, she had 63.3 percent over San Saba County Judge Tom Bowden, who had 36.7 percent.

Ms. Van Hightower will face Republican Kay Bailey Hutchison, a Dallas lawyer and businesswoman.

of the problems I've had have been caused the same way."

Ms. Richards won her first bid for public office when she was elected a Travis County commissioner in 1976. She went on to win two terms as state treasurer, in 1982 and 1986.

Although Mattox lost a bid for Democratic precinct chairman in 1966, he has a perfect record in races for public office. He was elected to the Texas House in 1972, to Congress in 1976, and he became attorney general in 1982, winning re-election in 1986.

With both candidates from the liberal wing of the Democratic Party, there weren't many issues on which the two voiced much disagreement, though Mattox tried to cast himself as the more conservative.

Mattox made adoption of a state lottery his key issue, saying the game could generate $700 million or more a year without new taxes.

Ms. Richards said her campaign was for a "New Texas," with improved education, the economy and the environment her top priorities.

HOSTAGES: Release came after jets' return kept in Lebanon.

The State Department welcomed the release and called for freeing of other captives.

However, U.S. officials in Washington were critical of France's warm words for Gadhafi. The officials, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, said France and other countries should press Libya to expel Abu Nidal and his group and stop alleged efforts to make chemical weapons.

"France is being nicer to Libya than we think they should be," said one U.S. official.

The release came a month after France returned to Libya three French-made Mirage jet fighters that had been in France for repairs since 1986. The return of the planes was blocked by an embargo imposed when Libya and France backed opposing sides during the civil war in Chad.

In December, Libya, pressing for delivery of the aircraft, closed its ports to French ships.

Gadhafi said Tuesday that Abu Nidal's group was "distancing" itself from its terrorist reputation by releasing the hostages, Libya's official news agency JANA reported.

Last week, Gadhafi urged the release of hostages in the Middle East as a gesture for Ramadan, the Islamic holy month. He singled out Ms. Valente.

Gadhafi has supported Abu Nidal, who along with some of his followers has been convicted of terrorist attacks abroad. The Libyan leader is believed to have allowed him to live near the Libyan capital, Tripoli.

Houtekins said after his release that four members of his family still held by the terrorist group are well.

"They have morale. They are holding firm," he said, adding, "We expected our freedom, we knew it was coming one day. The day of our freedom has arrived. For those who stay behind, we keep hoping."

"I embrace all my family. I am well, and the little one also," Ms. Valente told French reporters.

CAF's move to Midland unpopular with some

HARLINGEN (AP) — Midland is a step closer to becoming the home of the Confederate Air Force, but the decision may not be popular with all of the group's 8,000 members.

"I think you will have some very vocal, upset colonels, who, I hope, will have all the facts and figures before them before they get very vocal, so they know what they're talking about," CAF Executive Director Ralph Royce said.

However, CAF Col. Ed Jones, who coordinated Midland's campaign to bring the CAF to West Texas, discounted that notion.

He pointed out that slightly more than 95 percent of the 4,800 colonels who voted in a recent referendum voted to move the CAF headquarters out of South Texas and to one of six other sites. Of those sites, Midland was the favored choice of 50 percent of the colonels. San Antonio received almost 27 percent of the vote.

Likewise, he noted that in an earlier vote on Midland as CAF home base, more than 71 percent of the colonels voted for Midland. The CAF board unanimously selected Midland the CAF home base, and the board members are elected by the colonels, Jones noted.

But one CAF colonel, who asked not to be identified, said, "There is an overwhelming feeling that the whole story of this relocation has not been told to them."

But in January, Midland finished first of six possible cities in a poll of CAF colonels. Midland received 2,284 votes and San Antonio was second with 1,231. Brownsville, San Marcos, Longview and Nashville, Tenn., were also on the ballot. A committee last month narrowed the list to Midland and San Antonio.

Royce said the directors' decision, made after they weekend tours of the sites in Midland and San Antonio, authorizes "a team to begin negotiating with Midland.

"After they get the results back, then they will decide what the next move is," Royce said.

He wasn't sure whether the colonels could change the directors' decision through a general vote.

The group, which is dedicated to keeping World War II aircraft in flying condition, must move because it does not fit into expansion plans at its present base, Valley International Airport.

The directors said Midland presented a less costly relocation package.

Midland already owns the property on which the CAF would locate, Royce said. Midland's package includes a $1-a-year lease of 62 acres of land worth $9 million, $4 million in cash and $5 million in buildings and improvements.

Midland's offer is backed by a $1 million pledge from the Tulsa, Okla.-based Mabee Foundation. Joe Mabee, a trustee of the foundation, is CAF chief of staff, similar to chairman of the board.

The foundation's grant, however, did not require the new museum to locate in Midland, Royce said.

But San Antonio proposed a program that would have involved as much as $20 million in bonded indebtedness for the CAF, Royce said.

San Antonio's proposal included $3 million cash, a museum and construction of a replica of a World War II base with hangars adjacent to Kelly Air Force Base.

But Royce said the city wanted to finance the offer with a bond issue that the CAF would help retire by paying a lease of up to $100,000 a year.

"If we didn't pay the bond, the bond holder would throw us out in the street," Royce said. "Then we would be out with a bunch of airplanes."

The Midland move may draw resistance from the CAF staff, said Jon Schill, the CAF's marketing director.

"There's no split in the staff," Schill said. "Nobody wants to go to Midland."

The CAF has 7,500 members, 1,200 associate members and 96 chapters. It has about 150 World War II planes, including some that are the only remaining aircraft of their kind that still fly. The CAF's museum and hangars draw about 150,000 visitors a year in Harlingen.

Bruce Partain of the Midland Chamber of Commerce said city leaders hope to inaugurate the CAF headquarters on Dec. 7, 1991, the 50th anniversary of the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor.

Staff writer Ed Todd also contributed to this report.

LOCAL: Turnout disappointing

peals Court, Place 1. Overstreet tallied 856 votes to defeat Frank Maloney for the nomination. Maloney received 498 votes. The two were involved in a tight race statewide.

On the Republican side, Wes Gilbreath defeated Grady Yarbrough, 543 votes to 209 in Midland in the race for general land commissioner, while Rick Perry soundly defeated Richard McIver, 681 to 89, in the race for agriculture commissioner. Both had large leads statewide.

Each party will now canvass the results and forward them to their respective party headquarters. From there, the totals will be sent to the Secretary of State's office.

A total of 2,424 Midland residents participated in Tuesday's election, including those voting absentee.

Midland County Elections Administrator Bettye Calvert said she was "very disappointed in the turnout," but "we were pleased with the way the count came in."

Officials completed the ballot count about 8:30 p.m. Polls closed at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Calvert said the only complaints received were from voters who did not realize polls were consolidated for yesterday's balloting.

Mrs. Calvert reminded residents that "we have a May 5 election coming up. Absentee balloting starts on Monday, April 16."

WOOL: Senator says programs have helped many rural residents

(From 1A)

"It's rural development; it's kept a lot of people out in the country," Sims said.

Sims also questioned claims that wool is no longer a strategic commodity, saying that if the United States were in a war in a cold climate it would need domestic wool production for its troops. Oil and gas products used to produce synthetic fibers would have to be diverted to "war machines, rather than making textiles."

The program, Sims said, is also financed through tariffs on imported wool products and "taxpayers don't put the money up. It's not a drain on the federal treasury."

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said the program's objective is no longer to meet the military's needs but to "promote American exports and American industry. ... The objective is to promote the use of American mohair and wool around the world (while) promoting prosperity in rural America."

"I think this is a program that works," Gramm said.

Dog beating evidence helps send man to jail

LOWELL, Mass. (AP) — A teen-ager was sentenced to six months in jail as a result of a neighbor taking photographs of him beating his family dog, authorities said.

Animal rights advocates said it was the first time in at least 20 years that anyone in Massachusetts had been imprisoned for abusing an animal.

"This shows that something can be done in cases like these, and it certainly sends a message to people that animal cruelty will not be tolerated," said Allan Davidson, director of the Lowell Humane Society, where Champ is in protective custody.

Kevin Deschene, 19, of Lowell, was sentenced late this week on a conviction for a misdemeanor complaint of cruelty to animals.

Deschene's neighbor, Jim Molloy, said he had seen Deschene on several occasions beating and kicking the German shepherd while it was chained to a post.

Molloy took pictures of Deschene kicking and beating Deschene's family's dog, named Champ, with a plank last fall.

"I had no idea that beating the dog was a crime when I took the pictures," said Molloy.

Helicopter design flaws cause 15 deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flaws in the design of the Army's CH-47D helicopter have caused two accidents that killed 15 servicemen and injured six others, a House subcommittee contends.

The House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on oversight and investigations found that in at least 25 instances potential disasters were avoided by the work of the aviator, constraints on the aircraft or luck.

"The report is nothing less than an indictment of the CH-47D Chinook helicopter as well as the failure of the Army Aviation Systems Command to seriously and effectively resolve safety of flight problems," Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the subcommittee, said in an April 4 letter.

Dingell, in the letter to Army Secretary Michael P.W. Stone, questioned why the service continues to procure the helicopter despite the mechanical problems.

He also asked if the Army would suspend its plans to buy 144 helicopters at a cost of $900 million over three years until the problems are fixed.

The report said the CH-47D, a twin-engine, transport helicopter made by Boeing Helicopters of Philadelphia, has suffered numerous mechanical problems that have grounded the aircraft nine times, including five last year.

Texas woman sues over portrait

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Texas woman has sued a French Quarter art gallery for $140,000, demanding it return the money sent as a down payment on a 350-year-old portrait she later decided she didn't want.

Opal Mennela's federal lawsuit claims she paid Kurt Schon Gallery in 1988 before discovering that Sir Anthony Van Dyck's portrait of Princess Mary of England was not one of a kind but one of several versions.

"If it was only one of one, she was interested in it, but if it was one of several she was not interested in it," said Mennella's attorney, Ernest Burgueres III of New Orleans.

The portrait, made in 1641 when the princess was a 9-year-old newlywed, shows her standing stiffly in a heavy red gown edged with gold thread and cuffed with lace.

Mennela, owner of a Houston nursing home, bought the painting for $350,000, subject to verification and authentication, the lawsuit said.

Burgueres said Mennella has doubts about whether the painting really was by Van Dyck, but the gallery insists that it has been pronounced an original by the most prestigious authority on the artist.

Schon Gallery has countersued Mennella for $7 million, claiming she made statements in Texas and Louisiana which defamed the gallery.

The gallery never delivered the painting to Mennella because she never paid the full price, and sold it at auction last fall in London, where it brought $1.3 million.

Given that price, Burgueres said, Schon Gallery should be happy to return the money to Mennella, who had been a customer.

14 pound, 8 ounce baby biggest born at hospital

GREER, S.C. (AP) — Never in his 27 years of practice has Dr. William Helton Jr. delivered a baby as huge as Joshua Leonard, who arrived weighing 14 pounds, 8 ounces.

"He's just like a little red Butterball turkey," said Joshua's mother, Teresa Leonard. "He has so much fat he can barely open his eyes."

"I never even delivered one close to that," said Helton, who delivered the 22½-inch infant at Allen Bennett Memorial Hospital.

Joshua is the largest baby born at the hospital, and is one of the largest in the state, Helton said.

Mrs. Leonard and her husband, Barney, 35, of Duncan, were ecstatic.

The Leonards have two daughters — one weighed 8 pounds at birth and the other weighed 11 pounds, 3 ounces.

Seismic gun helps excavate world's longest dinosaur

Hearst News Service

On a desolate hillside northwest of Albuquerque, N.M., supersize shotgun shells are helping reveal the position of a supersize dinosaur that may have been the longest creature in the world.

David Gillette, who is supervising the search, has named the giant "seismosaurus" or Earthshaker. From the size of bones already excavated, he estimates it was at least 120 feet long – as long and tall as a pair of tractor-trailer rigs.

Gillette and teams of volunteers digging through the reddish sandstone have already found vertebrae reaching from the middle of the tail to the base of the neck. He hopes to recover the animal's neck and leg bones during the next two summers. The bones eventually will be turned over to the New Mexico State Museum.

From the size of the leg bones, Gillette will be able to estimate the weight of seismosaurus. His present guess is that the beast was long and slender, weighing less than the 85-ton brachiosaurus, the heaviest known animal.

Seismosaurus was a plant eater that probably browsed on the tops of trees, he said. It may have had a few small teeth, samples of which he hopes to recover. He already has found some stomach stones, which were used to grind vegetation for digestion.

"There may have been longer species, but we only have isolated bones," he said.

The project is being sponsored by the Southwest Paleontology Foundation in Albuquerque, the National Geographic Society, the Martin Marietta Corp. Foundation and private donations.

Gillette said the first bones were found by hikers in 1979 but he did not become aware of them until 1985. After they were recognized as being from a new type of dinosaur, excavation began in 1988.

He said he thinks the animal died in or near a river flowing across a semi-arid region similar to the Rio Grande Valley. The huge body washed downstream and lodged on a sand bar, where it was covered before scavengers could tear the bones apart. That was about 150 million years ago, during the Late Jurassic Age, when the single supercontinent called Pangaea was beginning to break apart.

Although some of the tail bones were exposed by erosion, Gillette found that the rest of the skeleton extends back into a hill under several feet of rock. In an effort to locate the bones to avoid unnecessary digging, teams have tested several different methods.

Gillette said one of the most promising methods is being developed by Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Tennessee. This project, headed by Alan Witten, is trying to develop three-dimensional images of the buried bones using a technique called sonic tomography.

Witten said he uses a special gun made for the seismic industry that fires a four-ounce, eight-gauge lead slug into the ground. The impact sends sound waves through the rock and where the vibrations encounter bone, some are reflected.

The gun is the Betsy Seisgun, developed by Philip Martin of Tulsa, Okla., as an industrial tool, not a firearm. Martin said they are in use all over the world because of their portability and high energy.

In ordinary seismic work, such as looking for oil, the reflected vibrations would be detected by special sensors lying on the surface. Witten's sensors, however, are spaced every six inches within a special cable that is lowered into water-filled holes.

The recorded signals, after being processed by a computer, generate a form of three-dimensional image. Witten said objects as small as a foot across are revealed, and they have found a lot of good targets where the head and neck should be buried.

Because the dig is in an environmentally sensitive area, the use of heavy equipment is limited. Gillette said jackhammers are used to cut down about eight feet to the top of the bones, then hand tools are used to remove more of the rock.

DENTAL IMPLANTS

FOR BETTER LIVING!

When natural teeth are lost, the bone structure designed to support your teeth starts to shrink. This is due to lack of use and pressure from the overlying denture. It is now possible to replace teeth with strong, durable titanium or surgical stainless implants, which support natural looking teeth. These implants also return function to the bone; help retain bone density; and help prevent the premature loss of remaining teeth. The result is improved oral health, and improved chewing. Proper chewing is the first stage in digestion.

You can be freed from the pain and aggravation often caused by partial and full dentures or from missing teeth. Many are able to eat corn-on-the-cob, nuts and apples again–and even smile at the world with more confidence!

Why should you consider dental implants? To feel better. To eat what you want. To enjoy life...with a wide, happy smile!

We use a variety of implant types and are not restricted to the limitations of just one type of implant system. Therefore, if you have been told your bone is inadequate to support an implant, please call us for a second opinion.

Former residents returning to friendlier climate of South

EDITOR'S NOTE: A recent Census Bureau report showed that the proportion of blacks living in the South is growing for the first time in more than a century, reversing a long trend of migration to the North. Here's the story of one black family that fled oppressive segregation in Georgia only to return years later to a friendlier climate.

It was the year that young blacks and whites from the North poured into the Southeast with dreams of vanquishing deeply entrenched segregation.

Hardee, a teacher in a segregated high school where his students wore hand-me-down football jerseys from the nearby white school, had had enough. He and his family headed for Chicago.

Now Hardee is back, part of a migratory trend that has reversed the century-long exodus of blacks seeking freedom from segregation and opportunity in the North.

Both of them took pay cuts to make the move, but they were not alone in making the decision.

A Census Bureau report released in January said the share of blacks living in the South is growing for the first time in more than a century. The proportion of American blacks living in Southern states was 55.9 percent as of March 1988, up from 52.2 percent in 1980 and the first increase in at least 100 years.

Those numbers do not include Hardee's younger son, a New York financial analyst. And his elder son plans to return to the North, for him the scene of happier days.

But the parents are glad to be home.

Hardee earned a teaching degree at Clark College in Atlanta, where he met his wife, an Atlanta native.

"There were two of everything," Hardee recalls. "Two public schools. Two sets of drinking fountains."

Blacks had to sit in the balconies of movie theaters, blacks were not allowed in downtown restaurants, blacks had to sit in the back of buses and were expected to be off the streets by sundown. 'Whites Only.'"

Frustrated with his low teaching salary and lack of opportunity, Hardee accepted a grant to work on his master's degree at Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn. He earned his advanced degree in 1963 and accepted a teaching job at a predominantly white school in the Chicago suburb of Maywood.

Mrs. Hardee, meantime, took a job as a telephone operator for Commonwealth Edison Co., an electric utility. She later became a customer service representative, a job that increased her earnings to about $23,000 a year.

"We had a nice house with a small mortgage," Hardee says. "A lot of people couldn't understand why we would give all that up to move back to the South."

But even in the North, racism had continued to haunt them. Hardee recalls that he was turned down for an apartment in a white neighborhood. He says banks and real estate agents discriminated against blacks by rejecting loan applications and refusing to sell them homes in certain neighborhoods.

Hardee decided he should get a doctorate before returning to Georgia, so he commuted 120 miles twice a week for two years to earn the degree at Northern Illinois University. The Hardees arrived back in Georgia in 1976.

The couple's two teen-age sons, Gerald and Sidney, had attended a mostly white Lutheran school in Illinois, but at Fort Valley enrolled in Peach County High School, which will end a tradition of holding separate black and white proms this year.

Gerald Hardee, now 29, says he plans to move back to Illinois when he earns a degree at Valdosta State College. An avid wrestler, he had to give up the sport because his new school didn't have a wrestling program.

Sidney Hardee, 24, who found that "some of those suburbs of Chicago are more racist than the South," graduated from Yale in 1988 and works as a financial analyst for Solomon Brothers Inc. in New York.

Their father transferred to Valdosta State in 1984 as an associate professor. The next year he was appointed assistant to the president.

Hardee's wife, concerned that too many black students are ill-prepared for college, earned a degree in Fort Valley and began teaching in 1986 at the Lomax-Pinevale Elementary School. She was selected Valdosta's teacher of the year for 1989-90.

The Hardees live in a brick ranch-style home surrounded by pines, palms and a eucalyptus tree in a white middle-class neighborhood.

"I couldn't have written a better script for my life," Hardee says. "Although in the North I was financially all right, there were other areas that were missing and there were things money can't buy.

"People were closer in the South. You passed people in the street — white or black — and they would speak. Those were the kind of things I could feel good about coming back to."

Baltics' quest needs U.S. help

Long, long ago, the nation known as Lithuania extended from the Baltic Sea to the Black Sea and eastward nearly to Moscow. In more recent times, a much diminished Lithuania and its sister Baltic states have been playthings of their powerful neighbors, usually the Soviet Union.

Unwilling Soviet republics for the past half century, Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia today are struggling to break free. Lithuania continues to be the most insistent, although Estonia is now making its move. Latvia has been more cautious.

The Baltic states ought to be free. Their cause is just, their courage in the face of Soviet pressure admirable. But courage is not enough. Patience and guile during these difficult times must be part of their strategy. The United States must be their judicious ally.

This country never recognized the Baltics' loss of independence, but now that they are pressing for their freedom, the Bush administration has been reluctant to show support. Calls by Lithuania's president, Vytautas Landsbergis, for Western aid and diplomatic recognition — in response to his country's March 11 declaration of independence — have gone unheeded. And with good reason.

The administration and most Western democracies realize that freedom and self-determination for the Baltic states will always be tenuous as long as the Soviet Union is in turmoil. Their cause, the cause of peace in general, is best served by a stable, reformed Soviet Union.

The Bush administration has a delicate line to walk. It must recognize this nation's historic obligation to support the right of people to determine their own government even as it encourages Mikhail Gorbachev's reform efforts.

Fortunately, there is a middle way. Negotiations leading to Baltic independence or to some kind of loose confederation of republics has to be the immediate aim. The United States must encourage talks — "an honest dialogue," Secretary of State James Baker called them — even if it means that the Baltics' push for independence is delayed. Meanwhile, this country must continue to insist that Gorbachev call off the tanks and intimidation.

Gorbachev must understand that if he goes too far, if crude pressure against the Baltic states turns to military force, there will be consequences. The summit set for May 30 to June 3 would be the first casualty; the new grain contract could be canceled; Gorbachev's painstakingly constructed new relationship with the West would be the next.

Israel aid helps us

Foreign aid is a hot issue — and it's critical that the U.S. uses wisdom before harkening to Sen. Bob Dole's call to cut foreign aid to Israel, Egypt and the Philippines in order to provide financial assistance to the emerging East European democracies.

Foreign "aid" is a misnomer, in Israel's case. No other country returns as much to this country as Israel does. What does Egypt give us in return for $3 billion in aid? They have nothing to give. But from our good friend Israel we receive a free flow of technical expertise as well as orders for manufactured goods — spending our own money here! Israel has plenty to give in return for $3 billion: Israelis are far advanced in every scientific, medical, agricultural field, in addition to military and strategic weapons.

Israel is still waiting for its Arab neighbors to sign a peace treaty. Only Egypt has. The state of war continues, necessitating around-the-clock defense. But WE profit from their military vigilance, because our own defense materials are used in "live" situations. When improvements on U.S. technology are implemented, Israel SHARES its proficiency freely. In fact, Israel provides all kinds of expertise — free — even to Third World nations who broke diplomatic ties in 1967.

The $3 billion is not a "giveaway" primarily to feed hungry Israelis. Israel feeds itself — and exports to Europe and other countries. Now Israel grows flowers for export on land barren and useless until the Jews made their new country blossom by sheer guts and hard work.

Ask not what we are doing for Israel. Take a look at what Israel is doing for US! Let's have some more reporting on this in the media so the U.S. will not blunder by abandoning our faithful ally of 4 million people living on a tiny plot of Middle East land that the world is pressuring them to give away to their enemies who make no bones about wanting to totally annihilate them.

Israel needs friends, but so do we, especially in the Middle East.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Wednesday, April 11, the 101st day of 1990. There are 264 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On April 11, 1945, during World War II, American soldiers liberated the notorious Nazi concentration camp Buchenwald in what is now East Germany.

On this date:

In 1814, Napoleon Bonaparte abdicated as emperor of France and was banished to the island of Elba.

In 1689, William III and Mary II were crowned as joint sovereigns in Britain.

Whistleblower now driving truck

WASHINGTON — Joe Richards used to be a top civilian engineer for the Navy working on nuclear submarines. Now he drives a garbage truck in Connecticut, all because he blew the whistle on a blatant waste of money by the Pentagon.

Anderson

Richards' first mistake was that he pointed out what he thought was a costly flaw in $5.6 million worth of sonar equipment. His second mistake was that he wouldn't shut up and mind his own business when the Navy failed to correct the problem. He was fired for insubordination.

Richards was a construction oversight engineer for the sophisticated sonar systems on the Trident and Los Angeles class submarines built by Electric Boat, a division of General Dynamics. The "towed array" sonar systems, costing $500,000 each, are dragged on half-mile-long cables behind the submarines. They are the eyes and ears of the submarines that detect enemy subs at various ocean depths.

For three years, Richards worked on the towed array sonar and was frustrated by the lack of interest his superiors showed in construction problems. He reported that the long cables could not retract smoothly at high speeds when a submarine had to maneuver quickly. Submarine commanders would be forced to cut the cables and dump the expensive sonar on the ocean floor.

Richards also says the cables have been cut by submarine propellers because they are deployed too close to the blades. The sonar is cut loose and the propeller is damaged, making it louder and more easily detectable by the enemy. The Navy loses only a portion of its investment when the sonar is cut loose, but the ship ends up in dry dock and the costs escalate from there.

Richards told his superiors about the problems, and they raised the issue with Electric Boat in a meeting on May 6, 1988. Electric Boat agreed to fix the problem and pay for it. But a few days later, Richards' superiors inexplicably told Electric Boat not to worry about it.

Frustrated, Richards called the Defense Department Inspector General's Office and they launched an investigation.

A month later at a meeting with his superiors, Richards raised his voice and walked out. He was fired for insubordination. He told our associate Tim Warner that he was fired only after he blew the whistle to the inspector general.

The inspector general concluded that Richards had a legitimate gripe that should have been taken seriously by his superiors. But the investigators also found that Richards' firing had been justified because of insubordination.

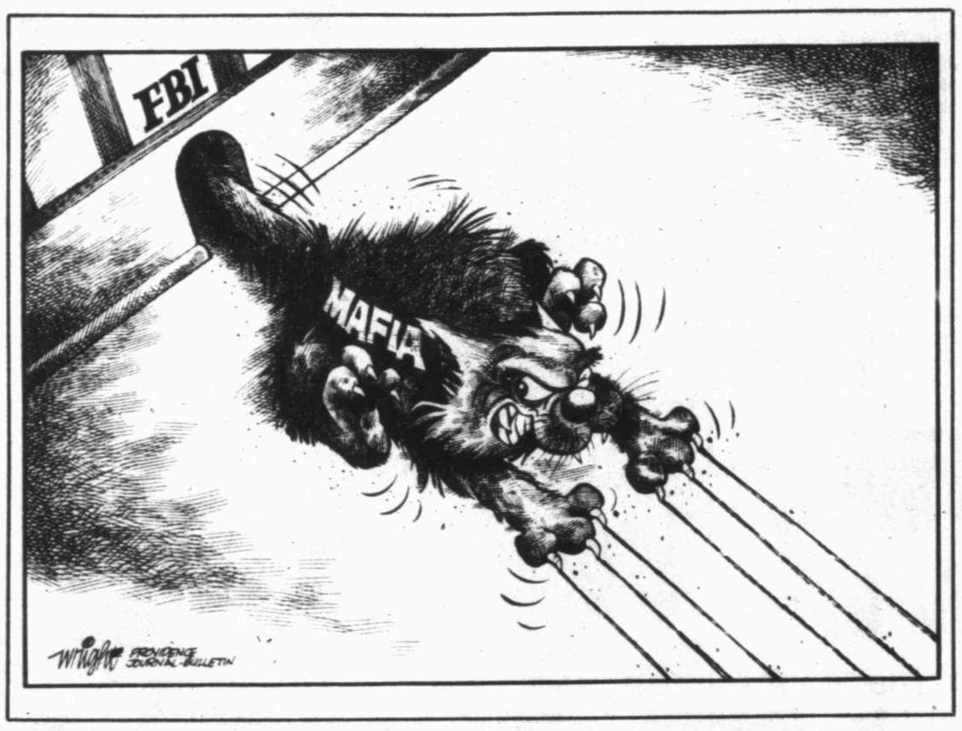

Richards makes a living now doing odd jobs. His house is in foreclosure. He struggles to put food on the table. Engineers with his skills are in demand in the defense contracting industry, but Richards says employers won't touch him because of his beef with the Navy.

"They all tell me they'd love to hire me, but they can't because they're afraid the military will pull their contract for hiring a whistleblower," Richards told us.

MINI-EDITORIAL — Before George Bush was president, back when he would say anything to become president, he promised he would convene an international conference on global warming. Evidently, now that he is president, Bush doesn't have to do that anymore. It's the broccoli principle. Nobody makes the president do anything he doesn't want to do. In the meantime, data collected from weather satellites has cast doubt on the global warming theory. The result is that the scientific community is divided. Now, more than ever, the world needs an international effort to get the facts on global warming. Mr. President, you promised.

Administration not restraining dangerous man

WASHINGTON — Undeterred by the Bush administration's appeasement of Iraq's bloodthirsty regime, federal grand juries have recently brought two indictments against Saddam Hussein's agents:

Safire

In one case, Iraqis were caught trying to smuggle krytrons — nuclear triggers — from the U.S. through London, to speed development of an atomic warhead.

In another accusation, a hit man was hired by an Iraqi diplomat to murder Kurdish and Assyrian leaders in the U.S.

A third case, involving the transfer of $3 billion to Iraq through an Atlanta branch of Italy's Lavoro bank, is yet to break.

Through it all — from the hanging of a journalist to the threat by Saddam to poison-gas half of Israel — the Bush administration has refrained from economic action to restrain the world's most dangerous man.

When the State Department said that the threat from Baghdad was "irresponsible," U.S. officials eager to curb the Iraqi buildup vainly awaited the next sentence: "and, therefore, we are listing Iraq as a 'country of concern' not permitted the import of American technology."

The words were not uttered; Iraq, recently protected by Secretary James Baker from editorial criticism by the Voice of America, even now is not included in the handful of countries denied American technology.

Our Commerce Department, which issues export licenses, is in a quandary. On April 2, I requested a list of technology licenses issued and pending for Iraq; three days later, I was informed that "since April 3, no applications for exports to Iraq would be approved without the concurrence of the assistant secretary for Export Administration," a job that happens not to be filled.

However, the State Department chairs the Policy Coordinating Committee on Missile Technology Proliferation and unless State soon designates Iraq a "country of concern," which it resolutely refuses to do, 63 pending export licenses will have to be approved.

But what about Commerce's incredible "Executive Aerospace Trade Mission to the Middle East," scheduled for May 14 to 28?

John L. Wolf, mission coordinator of the planned tour by American companies of Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Iraq, says in his brochure that "Iraq is a major untapped market...American firms are strongly encouraged to investigate the Iraqi market now..."

The major impediment to expanded trade ties is not a worry about the use of American know-how to ignite a war, but is "the Iraqi need for financing as a result of difficult economic conditions brought on by the war with Iran."

Our trade missionary adds: "Creative financing is essential." (We will learn about Iraq's creative financing when the Atlanta grand jury hands up its indictment.)

Asked about this untimely mission, Commerce officials reply that Iraq had just been taken off the itinerary; the junket would go only to Egypt (which is spending our foreign aid money in Brazil to build missiles and a nerve gas plant) and to Saudi Arabia (which has purchased missiles from China that can blanket the Middle East).

What kind of way is this for the U.S. to stop the spread of the weapons of mass destruction?

CHARLEY REESE

Gorbachev, Lincoln comparison insulting

Americans who make apologies for the Soviet Union are an ignorant or odious lot, but no apology is more odious than the comparison of Lithuania's attempt to reestablish its independence to the secession of the Southern states — and by extension, the comparison of Mikhail Gorbachev to Abraham Lincoln.

Reese

Gorbachev is a slimy communist bureaucrat put in power by the KGB. He can't spell human rights, much less understand the concept. Americans will understand that one day — hopefully before it's too late. Even to put his name and the name of Lincoln in the same sentence is an affront to Lincoln.

The analogy between the Confederate States and Lithuania is totally defective. Lithuania never joined the Soviet Union. It was handed over in a secret deal with a Nazi dictator and a communist dictator and it has been brutally and murderously occupied.

The Southern states on the other hand not only voluntarily joined the Union, but played a decisive role in creating it. Or have people forgotten the role of Virginians in our own Revolution and the Republic it produced?

The question in the United States was, Do states, once having joined the Union, have the right to leave it? At Gettysburg, it was decided they don't.

The question in Lithuania is, Do a people with a long history of national identity and independence, dating back to the Middle Ages, have the right of self-determination or must they remain under the heel of a foreign conqueror indefinitely?

Clearly, if all this talk of human rights and the right to self-determination has any meaning at all, the Lithuanians have the right to declare their independence of the Soviet Union. They never stopped being independent of the Soviet Union except at gunpoint.

Why are people so eager to condemn South Africa for denying the vote to black South Africans but so hesitant to condemn the Soviet Union for denying Lithuanians their right to self-determination? Why, for that matter, does the United States, which never recognized the Soviet Union's forced annexation of Lithuania as legal, hesitate to recognize its new government?

The answer is as simple as Alexander Solzhenitsyn said in his famous Harvard commencement speech, which so offended the American establishment. Cowardice. A loss of civic courage.

It's OK to kick around little countries but when it's a big country with a powerful military force then Americans want to treat it gingerly and to haul out that standby of modern liberalism, the double standard.

Thus genocide in Tibet by China and the slaughter in Tiananmen Square are mild embarrassments our officials would rather not talk about, but we will browbeat and threaten El Salvador about the deaths of six priests.

Thus the takeover by force and the use of force to prevent Lithuania's independence will be wrapped in legalistic gauze — they don't really control their country so we can't recognize them. When we declared our independence in 1776, we didn't control the territory either. That's what the issue of sovereignty is about. If the Soviet Union only puts a gun to Lithuania's head but doesn't pull the trigger, that's not really using force. The hell it isn't. It's a well-established principle of American law that you don't have to pull the trigger to be guilty of using force in an armed robbery.

No good has ever come from cowardice — not safety, not prosperity, certainly not peace.

Let us stand for our principles before every human being on this earth comes to realize that the word of the United States is as worthless as a Mexican peso.

Continue on the yellow road of expedience and one day Gorbachev will be threatening and ordering Americans about as he is Lithuanians — and Americans will find themselves utterly alone without one ally anywhere on this planet.

Power unit malfunction halts shuttle

NATION

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A runaway power plant on the space shuttle Discovery forced NASA to scrub its launch Tuesday with the Hubble Space Telescope, and officials said it will be a week or two before they try again.

The countdown was down to the four-minutes-to-go mark when sensors detected that one of three auxiliary power units was running too fast. Computers halted the launch process.

"A valve which failed to respond let too much fuel go into the unit which caused an overspeed condition," said Bob Sieck, the Kennedy Space Center's launch director.

The APUs pressurize the shuttle's hydraulic system, which is used to move wing and rudder surfaces and in the ship's braking and steering systems.

Astronomers who had gathered for the big event were philosophical about the latest delay in getting the $1.5 billion telescope into orbit.

"The universe has been around for a long time, it will stay around for a couple more days," said John Holtzman, of the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz.

The countdown had gone without a hitch until shuttle commander Loren Shriver flipped a switch to start the three APUs, and one ran erratically.

NASA rules forbid a liftoff unless all three units operate perfectly.

The huge external fuel tank was drained of its half-million gallons of liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen. Each scrub costs $377,000 in lost fuel and each day's delay means $247,000 in labor and materials, not including the other NASA centers supporting the mission.

The power unit will have to be removed from Discovery while the shuttle is in upright launch position. In addition, technicians will either have to remove the telescope's batteries and recharge them elsewhere, or run equipment out to the pad to charge them aboard the ship.

The batteries will hold their charge through Friday, but after that would have to undergo an eight-day recharge on the ground. In orbit, the Hubble's solar panels supply electricity to the batteries.

Sieck said the auxiliary power unit weighs 100 pounds and will be difficult to remove. He said NASA officials will have a better idea in the next few days when they can reschedule the launch.

Replacing the entire APU would mean a delay of at least several days, said Keith L. Hudkins, chief of NASA's shuttle orbiter division. Replacing a part, however, could be done in a day or so.

Most astronomers who had come to see the launch took the delay well.

Giovanni Fazio of the Smithsonian Astrophysics Observatory said "we waited this long, and it's better not to rush this thing. Whatever they do, that's a $1.5 billion payload and there's no use taking any chances with it."

Others were disappointed.

"We've been waiting seven years for this thing to go up, so it's very depressing in a sense," said Francesco Paresce of the European Space Agency, a scientist who will work with observations from the telescope's faint object camera.

"I was hoping that today would be the beginning of a new life," he said. "In four minutes my life was going to be completely different with the thing up there, with operations, with the instrument pouring data out by the billions of bits."

Panel says lake pollutants can be harmful

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S.-Canadian commission on Tuesday issued what the chairman said was its strongest warning to date that toxic pollution of the Great Lakes is endangering human health.

"The mounting evidence cannot be denied," said the report by the International Joint Commission, which oversees major water bodies shared by the United States and Canada. It urged both nations to develop and implement a comprehensive plan to rid the lakes of toxic chemicals.

"Despite the significance of the Great Lakes and our collective rhetoric to restore and enhance them, we as a society continue to mortgage their future by poisoning, suffocating and otherwise threatening them," the report said.

It proposed a series of steps to reduce the lakes' toxicity levels. Among them:

- Requiring pre-testing of new chemicals to determine whether they would harm people or the environment.
- Determining how 11 major pollutants are released into the lakes and how to stop it.
- Designating Lake Superior as a demonstration area for banning all direct toxic discharges.
- Strengthening public advisories about eating fish from the lakes.

Authorities also should reconsider their contradictory policy of restocking lakes with fish species especially vulnerable to toxicity and then issuing advisories about eating them, the report said.

Most scientific research into dangers posed by exposure to chemicals has focused on the cancer risk, the report said. But there is growing evidence that toxic pollutants in the lakes are responsible for other disorders, such as low birth weight and poor nervous system development of infants whose mothers are longtime eaters of Lake Michigan fish, it said.

"These chemicals appear to be causing serious and fundamental ... impacts on animal populations in the Great Lakes basin and, undoubtedly, elsewhere," the report said.

Buckey's retrial begins in molestation case

LOS ANGELES (AP)— The second trial of Raymond Buckey in the McMartin Pre-School molestation case opened Tuesday, nearly seven years after his arrest triggered public hysteria and the nation's longest criminal trial.

Superior Court Judge Stanley Weisberg told 287 prospective jurors that the retrial could stretch into 1991, and all but 90 said it would be a hardship to serve so long.

The judge convened court in the jury assembly room because of the large number of prospects.

Buckey, 31, has been a defendant for nearly seven years. He was acquitted of 40 molestation charges Jan. 18; his mother, Peggy McMartin Buckey, was acquitted of 12 charges. But prosecutors decided to retry Buckey on eight counts unresolved by the jury. Jurors deadlocked on 13 charges, but the prosecution dropped five.

The first trial of Buckey and his mother lasted nearly three years and cost $13 million, making it the longest, costliest criminal trial in U.S. history.

Jury selection began a day late due to delays caused by back trouble plaguing Buckey's longtime attorney, Danny Davis, who said he could proceed for four hours a day if another attorney could relieve him.

Attorney John Wagner, who represented Buckey's sister in a successful fight to win back her teaching credentials, was named co-counsel.

GAO says taxes lost during auditor training

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service may have lost $6.5 billion in taxes by taking senior auditors off cases to train new workers, congressional analysts say.

A report by the General Accounting Office (GAO), an investigative arm of Congress, estimated that in cases it had checked the government lost more than $1 million in taxes for each new worker who completed a 26-month training course under the tutelage of senior auditors.

"It is clear that the use of experienced revenue agents to train new agents carries a significant cost in terms of unrealized audit revenues," the GAO said in its report. "It is essential that IRS explore alternatives to its present training program."

The IRS had reached much the same conclusion in its own survey of training procedures, although the agency found a lower revenue loss than did the GAO. However, the IRS is concerned enough about the loss that is planning to hire private contractors to conduct some training in the budget year that will begin Oct. 1.

Ellen Murphy, IRS director of public affairs, said Tuesday that the GAO finding has no relevance over the last two years because the IRS has been under a hiring freeze.

"When we resume hiring new people, we will be doing a lot more of on-line training — reserving intensive classroom training for contractors — ... and having trainees go with experienced auditors to see how the job should be done," she said.

The $6.1 billion IRS budget that President Bush has proposed for 1991 would allow the agency to hire 2,400 auditors. It now has about 16,000.

In the late 1980s, Congress twice voted additional appropriations to reduce the budget deficit by increasing the number of auditors. Those appropriations ended Oct. 1, 1988.

The GAO report projected that it will take up to four years before tax collections will rise enough to offset the costs of hiring new agents — and make up for the revenue lost by having them trained by senior auditors.

The GAO study was made at the request of Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee. The investigation was aimed at determining how revenue collections are affected by hiring more auditors.

The percentage of individual tax returns that are audited has been declining steadily for several years, from about 100 per 10,000 last year to an expected 92 per 10,000 this year.

From July 1, 1986, to Sept. 30, 1988, the hiring period studied by the GAO, the IRS hired 7,300 people as revenue agents, whose chief task is to audit complicated returns, including those filed by large corporations.

The GAO surveyed five of IRS's 63 district offices — Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles and San Francisco — where 1,103 of the 7,300, or 15 percent, were hired.

The federal convictions of Louis Rochester, the millionaire Odessa real-estate developer, for bank fraud have been affirmed by the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Rochester, who is in his early 70s, was convicted by a federal jury in Midland in 1988 on four of 25 charges and was acquitted on 21 counts.

All along, Rochester has proclaimed his innocence.

The Fifth Circuit's ruling was "news" to him, Rochester said Tuesday. But after he has received a copy of the appellate court's opinion, Rochester said he would hold a news conference to explain his stance and views.

Jim Blankinship, the Austin-based federal prosecutor in the Rochester case, said that the court had affirming the convictions.

"We've heard that the convictions have been affirmed," Blankinship said, "and we are very pleased about that, but we haven't had an opportunity to review the opinion."

A Fifth Circuit spokesman in New Orleans said the court affirmed the Rochester convictions.

Rochester's lawyer, David Schick of Dallas, was not available for comment.

Following Rochester's convictions, U.S. District Court Chief Judge Lucius D. Bunton in Midland ordered Rochester to pay $7 million in restitution to the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation (FSLIC) and to serve on probation for five years.

Rochester had predicted in November 1988, when the jury convicted him, that he "absolutely" would not serve any time in prison.

"We're not quitters," he said then. "We're fighters. ... This is just a beginning. Life doesn't stop."

A month later, in December, when Bunton placed Rochester on probation, Rochester proclaimed outside the courtroom: "My conscience is clear, absolutely clear, of any wrong-doing whatsoever. I'm innocent because my conscience is clear."

At that time, Bunton was considering whether or not to order Rochester to pay the FSLIC the $7 million, which represents a defaulted loan from the old Odessa Savings Association (OSA) in which Rochester was a director. OSA was insured by the FSLIC.

In addition to probation, Bunton ordered Rochester to perform 500 hours of community service; to serve six months in the federal halfway house, Alternative House II in Odessa; to pay a $10,000 fine, and to pay $15,453.70 in restitution to the FSLIC for Rochester's earnings in a housing development called Stagecoach Esates.

The jury had convicted Rochester of fraudulently dealing in the loan to developer James Pruett for developing Stagecoach Estates in Arlington.

Airport smoking banned

■ City Council on Tuesday approved a change effecting Midland International Airport — serious smoking restrictions.

By Brian Pearson
Staff Writer

George Wolf/Reporter-Telegram

Midland International Airport employee Casimir Calunga of Odessa said she has to clean out airport ashtrays "too many times a day." As of May 1, her job will become easier when a no-smoking ordinance goes into effect.

Except in remote corners and food and drink sales areas, smoking will be outlawed inside Midland International Airport starting May 1, city councilmen unanimously decided Tuesday.

Inconsiderate smokers have fouled the air, ruined carpets and clogged urinals at the airport long enough, said Victor White, director of airports.

"Literally every day people call the airport and complain about the smokers," White said. "The employees have complained for years. They can't leave their work station and they have to sit and put up with that (smoking) for eight hours."

Smoking will be allowed only in the cocktail lounge, restaurant, snack bar and at the far ends of the concourse area. The ordinance will make about 95 percent of the airport building a non-smoking area.

"We're going to encourage police to be as polite as possible and use their best judgment in enforcing it (ordinance)," White said. But smokers could be ticketed for a Class C misdemeanor if they are adamant about not smoking in designated areas, he said.

White said cigarettes have not only been offensive to airport patrons but have caused extensive carpet damage.

"We have spent several thousand dollars every year repairing the carpet," he said. "Some people drop their cigarettes on our carpet and step on them. The smokers have been extremely rude and careless out there."

White said the airport will probably put in $125,000 worth of new carpet this summer.

In addition to singeing carpets, discarded cigarettes have started fires in restroom trash cans and stopped up urinals and toilets, White said.

The airport board recently approved recommending the smoking ban to city councilmen.

"The airport board was extremely concerned with the severe damage smoking has caused," White said.

White said Midland is following the same non-smoking trend as airport officials in Lubbock, Amarillo, El Paso and in almost every other Texas city with a major airport.

The airport has also received pressure from federal authorities to reduce the number of smoking areas.

White received a letter from a U.S. congressman who urged officials to establish guidelines to ensure that non-smoker patrons of the airport can avoid second-hand smoke.

Approval of Midland's ordinance also follows on the heals of a federal law which banned smoking on all commercial flights under six hours. That law went into effect in February.

Norma Willard, 33, a Dallas pharmaceutical company employee who often takes flights to Midland, called the ordinance another victory for non-smokers like herself.

"I don't like my health affected by their smoking habits," Ms. Willard said. "There should be no rights for polluting the public air that's directly inhaled by others."

Midland resident Debbie Erdwurm, 35, an Alamo YMCA program director, said she will not miss having to walk through the sometimes smoky airport corridors.

"It irritates me," Ms. Erdwurm said of the smoke. "It makes my eyes water. I don't

Hwy. 80 county land to be 'hub' for future expansion

By Brenda Masengill
Staff Writer

The new home of the county's Road and Bridge Department will require some work before move-in day, but "this should more than meet our needs," Midland County Commissioner Guy McCrary said.

McCrary and fellow board members Tuesday toured the facility, located on E. Highway 80, near the county's exhibit building and extension office.

The new location formerly housed a machine shop, which was purchased along with 15.9 acres of land for $182,000, according to Commissioner Durward Wright.

"There's all kinds of possibilities with the land" if the county opts to expand services, Wright said. A "possible future county rodeo arena" could be located on the property, which can also handle overflow parking from the exhibit building, Wright said.

The county now owns a total of 32 acres in the area which "will become the hub of county activities for many, many operations," according to Wright.

County shop foreman Ken Morehead said "most of all, it's going to mean more room." The new site replaces the S. Henderson Street facility that has become too cramped for the department's 29 workers and 160 county-owned vehicles that must be serviced, Morehead said.

Wright said "it's going to solve a major county problem" as far as vehicle maintenance and service is concerned, adding that the present facility has only one bay door, forcing vehicles to be backed in and then backed out after servicing.

The new location will boast an area for vehicle maintenance and a separate area for heavy equipment repair with bay doors on both sides of the building.

$1.9 million in certificates considered

By Brian Pearson
Staff Writer

Midland City Council Tuesday tentatively approved issuing $1.9 million in certificates of obligation to pay for a new animal shelter, senior citizens center and remaining Loraine Center construction.

"The animal control center is No. 1," Councilman Jose Cuevas said. "It's badly in need of being addressed."

The center, 1601 Orchard Lane, is run down and plagued by parasites and gases which seep up from an old landfill.

Ground-breaking for a new center, for which a site has not been designated yet, probably will be in late November, Cuevas said. Project cost is estimated at $350,000, he said.

Cuevas said the new senior citizens center, to be located in Washington Park, south of East Highway 80 off East Indiana Avenue, will be an important asset to residents in southeast Midland.

Construction on the $378,500 center will probably start in late July or early August and be completed in January 1991, Cuevas said.

Voters in 1988 turned down a $400,000 referendum to pay for expanding the city's senior citizens centers. The defeat did not stop the November 1989 opening of a center in Dellwood Mall.

Cuevas said southeast senior citizens have outgrown their current meeting place at Hollowell Baptist Church.

"Now the southeast will finally get the complex that was long promised to them," he said.

Senior citizens will not only have a place to meet, but the center will also be a daytime refuge from the summer heat and winter cold, Cuevas said.

About $1.2 million of the obligation money will be used to finish remodeling the 601 N. Loraine Street center, which will house the Midland Police Department and enhanced 911 dispatchers.

Rick Menchaca, economic development center, said the funding will allow the city to complete the center by January 1991, a year ahead of schedule.

Some city civil defense employees, enhanced 911 dispatchers, police detectives and communication officials have already moved into offices at the center.

Cuevas said the certificates would be issued in lieu of bonds, which would require voter approval, or taking money from city surplus funds.

"The money in our surplus is earning 9 percent interest," Cuevas said. "Our interest on the certificates of obligation would be only 7.25 percent."

The certificates of obligation proposal is expected to go before councilmen May 22 for final review. A public hearing on the plan will be held before the vote.

Menchaca said the certificates, which will be sold to private investors, will not be paid off until 2001.

Bill Williams was the sole councilman to oppose the plan. Williams said he preferred

Tech's Odessa expansion to benefit MMH neo-natal unit

$2.1 million second-floor construction project is proceeding ahead of schedule

George Wolf/Reporter-Telegram

Dale Pickett, an employee of Harris Acoustics of Midland Inc., is one of a number of workers who are on the job site at Texas Tech Regional Academic Health Center in Odessa. Tech expects to play a bigger medical role in the Permian Basin once the 23,000-foot expansion is completed.

■ Expansion of the regional health center is critical to the Permian Basin's nursing programs.

By Chris Van Wagenen
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Work on a 23,000-square foot expansion at Texas Tech Regional Health Academic Center is running ahead of schedule and could be completed as early as October.

Kathy Hendrick, manager of public affairs, said mild winter conditions have allowed the project to proceed with ease. "It's moving extremely fast. We've just had some gorgeous weather."

Once done, the new second floor will provide much needed office and laboratory space as well as classrooms for the center's nursing program where 40 students are now enrolled.

Midland independent oilman, Frank Cahoon, who sits on the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board, said the center's expansion is critical not just to nursing, but to the residency program as well.

It was the coordinating board that approved the $2.1 million that is being used to construct the second tier of the center, which sits adjacent to Medical Center Hospital in Odessa.

"I think it's certainly going to be good for the Permian Basin," said Cahoon. "The theory is if we can get residents to come here then maybe they'll stay when they're done."

About 50 percent of available new space will go toward nursing. The remainder will be divided between the center's family medicine and obstetrics departments. Other office space will go to faculty.

Ms. Hendrick said she believes the addition will help the center in its recruiting of qualified faculty, with future goals to add programs in internal medicine and emergency medicine.

Certainly that effort has not gone unnoticed in Midland.

According to Ray Bransen, president of Midland Memorial Hospital, talks are under way with officials in both Odessa and Lubbock about expanding the residency program to include MMH's neonatal intensive care unit.

Bransen said such a program would save the hospital money as well as provide needed quality care. Today, sick infants requiring specialized care are sent outside Midland.

"It would be good for their teaching program and it would be good for us. The community would support an extension of this here in Midland," said Bransen, who would like to see the health center provide two full-time neonatologists.

Just when that might be remains to be seen, given the difficulty of recruiting medical professionals to the West Texas area.

However, like Cahoon, Ms. Hendrick said when new medical residents and faculty arrive to the area, they generally tend to like it. "But it is difficult," she said.

Tech currently has two resident programs in family medicine and obstetrics and gynecology.

It also is going through an applicative process to establish a third program in pediatrics — a branch of medicine associated with the care of infants and children.

She said efforts also are under way to recruit new faculty for an internal medicine program at the center.

When construction on Phase II is completed, officials said the center will then begin looking at Phase III which calls for the building of a major clinic between Tech and MCH.

That project, which could take as much as $12 million to fund, was outlined earlier in 20/20 Foresight, an Odessa's 30-year blueprint of goals.

Stockbroker enters guilty plea

Judge Bunton schedules May 14 sentencing in 'wire fraud' case

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

Jacob Cardwell "Jake" Young Jr., a 50-year-old former Midland stockbroker who is charged with manipulating funds in accounts entrusted to him, has pleaded guilty in federal court in Midland to two counts of wire fraud.

Young, who had been a sales representative for the Merrill Lynch brokerage house since 1967, was charged with devising a "scheme" to defraud $1.265 million from the account of Frances Weaver, an El Paso widow of W.R. Weaver, who invented the Weaver gun-sight.

In the first count, Young is charged with transferring funds from Mrs. Weaver's Merrill Lynch Government Fund Account to her Merrill Lynch Cash Management Account (CMA) to carry out the scheme from 1984 to 1988.

In the second count, Young is accused of trying to conceal Mrs. Weaver's missing $1.265 million by transferring approximately $1.265 million from the CMA of Helen Anderson, an Andrews widow, to Mrs. Weaver's Government Fund Account.

Young, who faces up to 10 years in prison, is to be sentenced on May 14 by U.S. District Court Chief Judge Lucius D. Bunton.

The case was investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"White-collar crimes still remain the No. 1 priority of the Midland Office of the FBI," said Tom Kirspel, supervisory senior resident agent for the Midland FBI Office.

Young, a community leader who had been termed "Mr. Merrill Lynch" for his expertise in the stock-brokerage field, was terminated by Merrill Lynch in May 1988 for "misconduct" after Merrill Lynch discovered the fraud, according to court documents.

He had worked for the brokerage house since 1967 in Albuquerque and since 1981 in Midland.

Merrill Lynch has reimbursed Mrs. Weaver for her losses.

Subsequently, Merrill Lynch filed suit against Young, El Paso accountant David Rogers and Rogers, Fitzhugh & Company to recoup its losses, documents said.

The Merrill Lynch's 21-page petition, filed in Midland's 238th Texas State District Court in April 1989, outlines the Merrill Lynch complaint against its former account executive.

In 1972, Weaver set up a trust for his wife. And Rogers, who was named co-trustee for the trust, was "given full and complete authority to buy, sell and otherwise deal" with certain assets of the trust. Rogers was trustee over "certain trust accounts" at Merrill Lynch, according to court documents.

Young came in to the Weaver account in 1969, when he was named sales representative the couple.

In 1981, following Weaver's death, Young was transferred to Midland.

"Soon thereafter, Young embarked on a scheme to defraud Mrs. Weaver and Merrill Lynch by engaging in a series of activities outside the course and scope of his employment with Merrill Lynch," the petition says.

Those activities included the offering to Mrs. Weaver, through Rogers, "purported investments neither recommended nor sponsored by Merrill Lynch," the petition said.

Rogers allegedly assisted Young by diverting funds from Mrs. Weaver's bank accounts "all for the personal use and benefit" of Young, the petition said.

Merrill Lynch charges in its the civil action that Young devised the scheme to gain funds to cover his bank overdrafts.

The Young case is being prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Bill Torrey of Midland. Young is being represented by Abilene lawyer A.L. "Dusty" Rhodes.

COUNCIL: Funding opposed by Williams

using surplus money to fund the projects.

The city has about $9 million in its uncommitted surplus fund coffers.

"As long as we have the sacred cow surplus account, the (city) manager's office and this council will never get around to balancing this budget," he said. "If I can't convince the council to vote with me, at least come tax time when we don't balance the budget I can say, 'I told you this is what we're going to do.' "

In other action Tuesday, city councilmen:

■ awarded a $31,850 contract to Cues Inc. of Florida for a television inspection system for examining the city sewer system.

■ awarded a $189,783 contract to Gene Whitlock Construction of Oklahoma for Federal Aviation Administration-required security fences at Midland International Airport. The contract also includes some pavement repairs at the airport.

■ approved $35,000 in expenditures for architectural services for the senior citizens center in southeast Midland.

■ outlawed skating and skateboarding in Centennial Plaza, Volunteer Park and Dennis the Menace Park.

Remains located of baby buried alive

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A grieving mother whose baby was buried alive will be able to give the child a modest funeral after learning his bones were found in a Bexar County medical examiner's locker.

Sandra Olivares, now 29, had been told just days ago that the baby's bones were destroyed after three of her relatives were tried for the child's murder.

Then the phone rang Monday and she learned the remains were located.

"I was in shock," Ms. Olivares said. "I was overjoyed and I cried, but I'm still in shock."

The bones were in the locker for safekeeping since 1983, when three of Ms. Olivares' relatives were convicted of killing the infant. Ms. Olivares had the baby at age 14.

The baby boy was born in 1976 when Ms. Olivares was just six months along in her pregnancy.

Ms. Olivares' stepmother took the young girl to a back-alley abortionist, but the procedure failed and the infant was born alive. Ms. Olivares' two younger sisters were forced to bury the infant alive in the family's backyard while Ms. Olivares lay unconscious from the trauma of the birth, authorities said.

The infant's cries could be heard as the soil was shoveled onto him, according to testimony at the trial.

Convicted of murder in the infant's death were Sandra Olivares' stepmother, Margaret Gonzales, then 32; and stepgrandparents, Alfred and Hermina Flores, then 63 and 68 respectively.

"I'm still going to have to come up with the money, but I will," she said. "I just wanted him buried properly," she said.

Ms. Olivares has been trying to locate the boy's remains so that they can be buried. But she was told the bones were destroyed after the trial.

Chief Medical Investigator Frank Castillon said he read just a few paragraphs of a story about her quest in the San Antonio Express-News Sunday before recognizing the infant's remains thought to have been destroyed were actually under his care.

Castillon said he had stored the remains in a small white box in a locked cabinet since they were used as evidence in the murder trial.

think it's unreasonable for them to have to smoke in a smoking area."

But smoker Roy Clingo, 61, an airport security guard, said he doesn't like anyone to tell him where to smoke.

"I'm offended about it all the way," Clingo said. "This is out of proportion. When they start buying my cigarettes, they can tell me to stop smoking."

George Chenoweth, 58, a local oilfield supervisor, said the ban will be just another item on a growing list of things that make smoking more inconvenient.

But Chenoweth said smoking elsewhere will not be a big problem.

"I can if I have to, but I don't really like it," he said. "It doesn't make me angry. I just want to smoke."

UPHELD: Banker denied charge

(From 1B)

The housing development was to be a joint venture between OSA and Pruett. But after the loan was approved and before its funding, Rochester had agreed to share equally in the profits with Pruett in exchange for Rochester managing the development, according to court testimony.

Rochester denied he had exerted influence on the OSA board to fund the loan, then $8 million, to Pruett's construction company. Some of the indebtedness had been paid.

Bond set in local shooting case

Staff Report

Bond has been set at $100,000 for a Midland man who is suspected of shooting another man with a .22 caliber handgun about 2:30 a.m. last Saturday.

Francisco Tucker, 23, of 1300 N. Pecos, who was charged with aggravated assault, is suspected of shooting Alfonso Rodriquez, 23, at 308 E. Hickory. A motive for the shooting was not reported.

A warrant for the arrest of Tucker was issued by Justice of the Peace R.H. Pine. Pine is also the judge who set Tucker's bond.

Tucker was arrested by Midland police at about 4 p.m. Saturday.

Rodriguez of 322 Fiesta Drive, who was sent to Midland Memorial Hospital after the shooting, was listed in stable condition Monday night.

Solar energy 'joke' will be on U.S.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — If the United States fails to become a world leader in solar energy, a trillion-dollar new market could fall to the Japanese, a national conference on solar power was told.

"Frankly, there has been a tendency by energy companies in the past to label solar energy as a joke," said S. David Freeman, general manager of the Lower Colorado River Authority.

"If we keep this up, the joke will be on us."

Medals presented to airmen who helped search for Leland

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — The Air Force has awarded medals to 106 airmen who helped in the search for U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Texas, and others killed in a plane crash last August in Ethiopia.

The decorations were presented Monday by Gen. Hansford T. Johnson, chief of the U.S. Transportation and Military Airlift commands, to members of the 23rd Air Force stationed at this base in the Florida Panhandle and neighboring Hurlburt Field.

Air Force MH-60 Pave Hawk special operations helicopters, supported by HC-130 rescue transports, searched two days before finding the wreckage on the side of a mountain and removing the bodies of the 16 victims.

"The only way it could have gone better is if the aircraft had landed instead of going into the mountainside," Johnson said.

Leland's plane disappeared last Aug. 7, and aircraft from Eglin and Hurlburt were deployed by Aug. 11. Capt. Robert K. West and his helicopter crew located the wreckage Aug. 13 on a cliff face about 400 feet below the top of a 6,000-foot mountain.

Pararescue and recovery teams had to be lowered from hovering helicopters because there was no place to land. It took more than 100 such hoist operations to recover all of the victims and their belongings.

The airmen are assigned to pararescue and special operations units. Awards also were presented to security police, and maintenance and supply personnel who participated in the deployment.

ROAD: County department ran out of room

(From 1B)

According to Wright, the concrete at the old facility "is too pitted" to even get a mechanic's creeper under a vehicle for service.

Commissioner Louisa Valencia said the old building had no room for safety meetings, and in fact, the department's first safety meeting was held last month in the county exhibit building. "I voiced my opinion that this was something that was needed when I ran for office," Mrs. Valencia said of the new facility. "I think it's the best thing the county ever did."

Road Superintendent Al Stewart told commissioners some oil soaked concrete must be removed from the former machine shop and the electrical system must be rewired to accommodate a vehicle maintenance and service operation.

Morehead also recommended an office and parts storage room be fashioned out of the service work area for quick access to the maintenance bays.

Commissioners learned that one additional overhead door is needed in the service area, and the county will investigate replacing the current water well system with city water service.

"We've got a lot to do, but it's just one step at a time," Commissioner Win Brown said. It is not known when the new facility will be ready for occupancy, but Wright said he would like to see it open in 60 to 90 days.

According to county engineer Bill Harral the new building, which is less than 10 years old, "is well built" and can be easily expanded if necessary.

There are no immediate plans for use of the S. Henderson St. building, although it could serve as a storage area, Wright said.

Tuesday's tour was a continuation of Monday's commission meeting, which was recessed rather than adjourned to allow for inspection of the new road facility.

Statehouse 'Easter egg hunt' yields $167 million for reform

AUSTIN (AP) — A House committee on Tuesday identified at least $167 million that could be cut from the state's budget to the House's $450 million education spending plan, but Gov. Bill Clements said members must find enough money to pay for the bill without a tax increase.

Meanwhile, legislators received a boost from a judge who said he would consider a motion to extend the deadline they are racing to beat with a new funding plan.

The Texas Supreme Court ruled the current school finance method unconstitutional because of funding disparities between property-rich and property-poor school districts. It gave the state until May 1 to change the system.

Travis County 345th District Court Judge Scott McCown on Tuesday said he would consider a motion filed by eight lawmakers to extend the May 1 deadline imposed by the state Supreme Court.

The lawmakers said that if the deadline is not extended to Aug. 1, state school funds will be cut off, causing massive disruption of the education system and local economies.

McCown will consider the motion May 1.

House Speaker Gib Lewis said the House will consider a tax bill next Monday or Tuesday to cover the gap between the cuts and the price tag of the House's education proposal.

The House Appropriations Committee approved $199.6 million in cuts from a list of $269.5 million suggested by Clements, who favors an education plan that would not require more than $300 million in new funds.

The committee also adopted an $8.8 million cutback proposed by the Legislative Budget Board, bringing the total that could be cut to $208.4 million.

However, $41 million of the total is not firm because the revenue produced from two cuts could be higher or lower, meaning the committee can count on raising only $167.4 million.

"Well, they just need to look more, just like hunting Easter eggs," Clements said after the committee's action. "If they can fund the bill, I'll be happy to look at what they have in mind, but no taxes."

Committee vice chairman Ric Williamson, D-Weatherford, said the committee would take a final vote on the proposals Wednesday.

The measures will be debated by the House next Monday as part of an appropriations bill, said Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

Cuts proposed by Clements that the committee approved include:

- $107 million from Capitol restoration. Clements proposed a $50 million cut.
- $42.4 million from the Rainy Day Fund.
- $9.2 million from the governor's emergency and deficiency fund.
- Escheat funds, or bank accounts that have been dormant for seven years and revert to the state. Revenue is estimated at $35 million.

From the more than $560 million in additional cuts proposed by the Legislative Budget Board, the committee approved only an $8.8 million cut in debt service appropriations for the supercollider.

Run-off write-in rules irk Cisneros fans

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Unhappy voters and precinct election judges flooded elections officials with calls Tuesday after learning they couldn't write in former mayor Henry Cisneros in the Democratic race for governor.

Bexar County Elections Administrator Tony Gomez said writing in a candidate is not possible in a runoff election. It could be done in November, however, if a person declared himself or herself a write-in candidate.

"People need to realize that all this business that came out about former mayor Cisneros being endorsed by a Wichita Falls newspaper as a write-in candidate, so on and so forth — you cannot write-in for a runoff primary. It's as simple as that," Gomez said.

Last weekend, a Wichita Falls Times-Record-News editorial suggested that Cisneros — the flamboyant mayor of San Antonio from 1981 to 1989 — would be a better choice for governor than Attorney General Jim Mattox or state Treasurer Ann Richards.

The newspaper suggested that voters write in Cisneros in the November general election, when write-ins are allowed.

Cisneros endorsed and campaigned for Ms. Richards and appeared with her Monday night in San Antonio, her final campaign stop before the runoff.

When asked Monday night which year he might run for governor, Cisneros replied: "Ann Richards for the next eight."

STATE

Lady Bird on Richards' side

By James R. Owens
Hearst News Service

WASHINGTON — Lady Bird Johnson, widow of the nation's 36th president, said here Tuesday that she cast an absentee ballot for Texas state treasurer Ann Richards in the state's Democratic gubernatorial runoff.

Johnson made the comment in response to questions before giving a speech. She has been in the capital since last Friday to help commemorate the 25th anniversary of the inauguration of Lyndon Johnson.

Asked about the Texas campaign, she said that while she had not "kept up with politics" since leaving Washington in 1969, she "voted for Ann absentee" against Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox in the Tuesday runoff.

The former first lady did not elaborate on her vote. Asked for her opinion on the bitter campaign, she said, "I hope we do not have another like that."

Reached in Austin, Texas, Margaret Justus, a spokeswoman for Richards, said that "Mrs. Johnson has given the campaign a generous contribution and she has supported us publicly."

A spokesman for the Mattox campaign, Kelly Fero, said he was unaware of Johnson's preferences.

"If she (Johnson) voted for Richards, it's news to me. Besides, (former) Gov. (Mark) White has already voted today, too," said Fero, referring to White's angry pledge last week that he would never vote for Richards.

Former LBJ press secretary George Christian, now an Austin-based political consultant, said he was unaware of Mrs. Johnson's political support for Richards.

But, he added, "It shouldn't come as a surprise – they've been friends for a long time."

Lady Bird Johnson, who divides her time between her home in Austin, and the LBJ ranch outside of Austin, said she doesn't miss Washington much.

STATE IN BRIEF

Cavazos favors parental role

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Education Secretary Lauro Cavazos called Tuesday for parents and teachers to lead the way to better education for Hispanics as he kicked off a series of hearings on the problem.

"President Bush and I believe strongly that parents and teachers hold the key to successful educational reform," Cavazos said. "Parental involvement is a responsibility and also a right."

During the 1980s, about 40 percent of Hispanics nationwide left school before high school graduation; in Texas the percentage was 45 percent, he said.

Only 11 percent of Hispanics complete four or more years of college by the time they are in their early 30s, Cavazos said.

Cavazos said he supports "school-based management," in which local educators and parents have more input in education.

Trial security tightened

WACO (AP) — A death threat prompted tightened security Tuesday for the punishment phase of a convicted cop killer's trial, with spectators submitting to searches before they entered the courtroom.

Billie Wayne Coble was convicted of capital murder Monday in the shooting deaths of his former wife's brother, Police Sgt. Bobby Vicha, and her parents, Robert and Zelda Vicha.

One of Coble's ex-wives, Pam Gumpert, continued her testimony Tuesday in the punishment phase. She said Monday that Coble once beat her so severely that she had black eyes for six weeks.

A threat against prosecutors was telephoned in shortly after the jury returned the verdict against the 41-year-old Coble, who now faces either death by injection or life imprisonment in the August 1989 slayings near Axtell.

A man who called the McLennan County district attorney's office about 11 a.m. Monday said, "If Billie gets the death penalty, several people from the state will die, too," according to prosecutor Ralph Strother.

DFW given 'black star'

WASHINGTON (AP) — International pilots will be warned that safety in the skies over seven U.S. cities — including the Dallas-Fort Worth area — is critically deficient due to a change in air traffic control rules, the Air Line Pilots Association announced Tuesday.

Airspace over Charlotte, N.C., Cleveland, Dallas-Fort Worth, Los Angeles, Memphis, Philadelphia and Phoenix was added to the international "black star" list.

In 20 other sectors over major U.S. airports, controllers must maintain a separation of three miles between all aircraft. At the seven cities, Farrar said, controllers under limited circumstances need not comply with any set separation between aircraft as long as they are kept safely apart.

Saturday funeral planned for Faulk

AUSTIN (AP) — Funeral services for humorist and folklorist John Henry Faulk have been set for Saturday at University Methodist Church.

Faulk

Faulk, who became an honored advocate of free speech and civil liberties after challenging the 1950s blacklisting in broadcasting, died Monday at his home here after a long bout with cancer, said his niece, Anne McAffee.

The Austin-born author and lecturer was 76.

Faulk was a popular radio and television personality when, in 1957, he challenged blacklisting in the entertainment industry during a six-year legal battle that was recounted in his best-selling book, "Fear on Trial."

After studying and teaching at the University of Texas before World War II, Faulk joined the merchant marine and later served in the Middle East with the American Red Cross. Despite eye trouble, he was accepted into the Army in 1944.

Two years later, Faulk accepted an offer from CBS to do a weekly, one-hour radio show. He worked for CBS until 1957, when he was fired after AWARE Inc., a group that blacklisted entertainment personalities, accused him the year before of having subversive associations.

Faulk sued AWARE in 1956 in a New York court, charging the group had libeled him and destroyed his career. He won the lawsuit.

Faulk is survived by his wife, Elizabeth; two sons, John Henry Faulk III and Frank Dobie Faulk; three daughters, Evelyn Faulk, Johanna Faulk and Cynthia Faulk Ryland; a brother, two sisters and three grandchildren.

NATION IN BRIEF

Idaho to mark King holiday

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Gov. Cecil Andrus signed compromise legislation Tuesday making Idaho the nation's 47th state honoring slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. with an official state holiday.

Andrus created Martin Luther King Jr.-Idaho Human Rights day on the third Monday in January, corresponding with the federal holiday first celebrated in 1986.

"This historic legislation firmly demonstrates that Idahoans have that broader concern for all humanity," the governor said. "We stand against racism and for brotherhood."

Idaho's 10th state holiday, recommended by Andrus in his annual State of the State address in January, was approved by the Legislature last month after lengthy and sometimes bitter debate.

Opponents focused on the cost of another paid day off for state employees — which some put as high as $2.6 million — and whether King should be singled out for the honor.

Supporters cited the impact of King's nonviolent philosophy and his symbolic importance. They also said the action was needed to help eliminate Idaho's stigma as a haven for racists such as the Panhandle-based Aryan Nation. Critics dismissed that problem as exaggerated by the media.

6 children die in fire

LAROSE, La. (AP) — Fire engulfed a mobile home Tuesday and killed six children, ranging in age from 9 months to 12 years, although relatives living nearby rushed to help save the youngsters.

Their parents escaped with two other children who weren't harmed.

"We ran over there to the trailer. My daughter was coming out the window with the baby," said Irene Allen, the victims' grandmother. "She fell, but she didn't let the baby fall, she fell. And I grabbed the baby, and I asked her where the other children were."

"The smoke was coming into our faces," said Lorianne Davis, mother of the victims. "My husband jumped out the window in the bedroom. He was calling me, he said, 'Come on, Lori, come on.' but I went back to try to get them. And then I jumped out. That's when my leg snapped."

Mrs. Davis, 29, was treated for a knee injury and released. Her husband, Johnnell, 34, was in stable condition at Our Lady of the Sea Hospital in Galliano with second-degree burns over 10 percent of his body, a hospital spokesman said.

Lafourche Parish Sheriff Duffy J. Breaux identified the dead as Cassandra Davis, 12; Johnell Davis Jr., 11; Kerry Ann Davis, 10; Larraine Marie Davis, 6; Laura Davis, 5; Jester Davis, 9 months.

Pilots plead innocent

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Three Northwest Airlines pilots accused of flying while intoxicated pleaded innocent today in federal court.

U.S. Magistrate J. Earl Cudd set June 11 as the trial date for the three. Capt. Norman Prouse of Conyers, Ga., First Officer Robert Kirchner of Highland Ranch, Colo., and flight engineer Joseph Balzer of Antioch, Tenn., will be tried before U.S. District Judge James Rosenbaum.

Felony indictments for operating a common carrier under the influence of alcohol were returned against the crew members on April 4.

The three were arrested March 8 at Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport after a 6:25 a.m. flight from Fargo, N.D. Northwest fired the three pilots and the Federal Aviation Administration revoked their pilot licenses.

The three face misdemeanor charges in North Dakota and are scheduled to appear in Cass County Court in Fargo on Thursday.

According to an affidavit filed in U.S. District Court, the pilots were drinking heavily late the night before they flew the Boeing 727.

Soviets buy more wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has bought an additional 125,000 metric tons of U.S. wheat at subsidized prices for delivery through mid-May, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

The sale, according to USDA records, was the first since Jan. 19, when the Soviet Union's authority for buying U.S. subsidized wheat was virtually exhausted.

A new allocation of 1 million tons was announced Feb. 23; about 12,950 tons were left over from a previous allocation.

F. Paul Dickerson, general sales manager for the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, said the wheat was sold by three private companies, which will receive subsidies under the department's Export Enhancement Program, or EEP.

Dickerson said 887,950 tons of wheat remain in the Soviet Union's current EEP allocation. Only wheat has been approved for sale to the Soviets under the price subsidy program.

Easter bunnies stolen

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP) — A 71-year-old retired construction worker is hopping mad because his rabbitry in Pascagoula was raided by bunny thieves.

"They wiped me out," said Roy Rogers, the warren's owner.

Someone broke and snatched up dozens of bunnies that would have been sold to local families wanting Easter pets.

"I can't let it bother me," Rogers said Monday. "I have a heart condition and I can't let it bother me. My heart is fine but my stomach is sick. ..."

Cages which serve as home for mother rabbits and their broods are located behind a chain-link fence only a few feet behind the Rogers' home.

Police told Rogers they expect the thieves to attempt to market the stolen merchandise through pets stores or by roadside sales.

Firing upheld of officer who'd been KKK recruiter

CENTURY, Fla. (AP) — The firing of a police officer who had been a recruiter for the Ku Klux Klan in Texas has been upheld by a three-member committee of Century's town council.

Police Chief Lonnie Lashley fired Tim Hall, 24, on March 31 after learning of Hall's KKK involvement. On Monday, a panel appointed to hear the former officer's appeal sided with the chief.

Hall was fired because he failed to list his prior employment. His involvement with the white supremicist organization also led to his firing in February as a reserve deputy with the Tarrant County Sheriff's Department in Fort Worth, Texas.

Council members on the committee said rehiring Hall would create racial problems in this town of 2,600 residents in the northwest corner of the Florida Panhandle abutting the Florida-Alabama state line.

"Looking on both sides, we thought it would be best for the town," Councilman William Willett Jr. said.

Hall said he got involved with the KKK after designing campaign brochures for a Texas businessman who happened to be a Klan leader. He said he resigned after 76 days with the group after discovering his membership was the subject of controversy.

He also was one of five Air Force men who were discharged at Carswell Air Force Base in Fort Worth after an investigation of KKK activities.

Hall, who had worked as a sheriff's deputy in neighboring Santa Rosa County in 1985-86, previously had said he was not sympathetic to the KKK and regretted having been associated with the group.

Monday, he said, "Our forefathers would roll over in their graves if they could see our nation today. You have homosexuals living openly in the streets, crime is skyrocketing, taxes and poverty are eating up the little man, you have liberalism sweeping America."

Women in military jar old perceptions

EDITOR'S NOTE: Legislation is now before Congress to allow women to go into combat, prompted in part by the actions of Capt. Linda Bray who became an overnight celebrity during the invasion of Panama. While America's women warriors feel they should be made full partners in the armed forces, there are those who argue that women simply can't fight as well as men.

By Susanne M. Schafer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Visiting Soviet Marshal Sergei Akhromeyev had a problem. He wanted to thank the Navy pilots who'd flown him to and from the aircraft carrier USS Roosevelt, one a 25-year-old woman.

Crisply, Akhromeyev returned the salute of Lt. Cmdr. John Labella, then faced Lt. Christine Lipphardt. She also stood at attention and saluted.

"He didn't know what to do," recalls Akhromeyev's host and American counterpart, Adm. William J. Crowe, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. It was clear, Crowe says, that the man who commanded millions of Soviet soldiers couldn't decide whether military discipline — or his male instincts — should prevail.

"Finally, he grabbed her hand and kissed it!" Crowe recalls with a chuckle. "And then she got confused!"

The admiral, now retired, likes to relate the story from 1988 to show the advancements American women have made in the military service.

As Army Capt. Linda Bray's command of a military police unit during the Panama invasion demonstrated, women over the last decade have slowly shifted into many jobs that place them in harm's way.

Bray, riding in an armored jeep under fire, directed troops of the 988th Military Police Company in an assault on a Panamanian Defense Forces' canine unit barracks. Initial news reports said three Panamanians were killed in the skirmish, but the Army said later no bodies were found.

"Shots were fired. I returned fire. And that's the way it was," Bray said later.

One who argues that women should be allowed to go into combat is retired Brig. Gen. Evelyn Foote, who joined up when women were relegated to the Women's Army Corps to serve primarily as nurses or secretaries.

"When the shooting starts, it's a moot issue," says Foote, whose career spanned 29 years in posts from Vietnam to Europe. "The nature of the modern battlefield means that there are no front lines, no flank, no rear of the battlefield. If women are serving, they will be in combat."

Others remain skeptical.

"The simple truth is this: However well one woman (or 1,000 women) may have performed in a firefight in Panama, it does not change the fact that men — as a group — fight better than women," Lou Marano, a Vietnam vet and a Washington Post editor, asserted in a recent commentary.

The Women's Armed Services Integration Act of 1948 prohibits women from being assigned by the Navy, the Air Force or the Marine Corps on "vessels or in aircraft that are engaged in combat missions."

By policy, the Army bars women from participating in its primary fighting elements — infantry, tank and most artillery units — but they do serve in many of the supply or support units that could end up in the thick of battle.

> 'When the shooting starts, it's a moot issue.'

The legal restrictions against women in combat do not include the Coast Guard, which is under the Department of Transportation in peacetime.

However, a major question remains whether the women in Coast Guard command positions would be allowed to retain their posts should the Coast Guard be integrated into the Navy in time of war.

As pressure has grown to open more military jobs to women, the criteria for defining combat has changed. In 1988, Pentagon officials devised the "risk rule" to determine the chance any unit faces for being in combat, encountering hostile fire or being captured.

Because the services have some leeway over designating which jobs are open to women, some restrictions have fallen by the wayside. And debate rages over others.

At the end of 1989, some 229,000 women were in the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines, about 11 percent of the total. The Coast Guard had about 2,700, or 7.3 percent.

The number of women in the military has risen dramatically since 1967, when President Johnson removed a rule limiting them to 2 percent of force levels. He also lifted the ban on women becoming generals or admirals.

With the abolition of the draft and the introduction of the all-vol-

Women speak up about their military role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are some comments from and about women in the U.S. armed forces:

Lt. Gen. Carl W. Stiner, the commander of the 18th Airborne Corps, says the 600 women who participated in the invasion of Panama "were all over the place" during the fighting.

"I'm just as proud of the women as I am of the men," he says. Asked if women could have shouldered 100-pound rucksacks and jumped with the paratroopers, he responds, "There are some that can."

Lt. Yolandea Wood, the crew chief aboard a KC-135 tanker that refueled planes heading southward for the Panama invasion, says she doesn't deserve any attention just because she's a woman.

"I'm not any more special than the guys. We all trained hard and it paid off. I'm a crew member just like the others," says the young officer based at Grissom Air Force Base in Indiana.

Marine Capt. Ellen Febonio watched closely as her female charges in officer candidate school tried to learn how to take a hill alongside their male counterparts one cold day at the Marine Corps training ground at Quantico, Va.

From the rear, it was hard to tell the men from the women as the bulky, camouflaged bodies wormed their way up the muddy grade slope with rifles in hand.

"The women are able to train now. When I started, we'd just follow the men and watch what they'd do," Febonio said.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Jean Cackowski, now the executive officer on the oiler USS Platte, trained at the Navy's Surface Warfare School.

She was aboard the USS Dixie, a repair ship that was deployed to the Indian Ocean and became the first ship with women sent to the Navy's super-secret base at Diego Garcia.

Her next assigment was on the Navy's training aircraft carrier, the USS Lexington, where she was the first woman to qualify as the officer of the deck and the surface warfare officer on such a vessel.

WOMEN: Combat restraints crumble

(From 6B)

unteer force in 1973 the military began to recruit women to fill its ranks.

According to a recent study by Rand Corp., one of eight new recruits is female. And more women want to volunteer than are accepted, the study said.

While most women still enter administrative, clerical, medical, communications or intelligence specialities, they are being integrated more and more into less-traditional jobs. They are graduating from the service academies and slogging through basic training with their male colleagues.

Side-by-side with the men, women control the nuclear launch keys in the Air Force's underground intercontinental missile silos.

They've served aboard ships in the Persian Gulf, repairing and refurbishing ships blown apart by enemy missiles.

They tote M-16s while guarding military sites from Okinawa to West Germany, and stand ready to ferry supplies to troops should war break out again along the demilitarized zone separating Communist North Korea and capitalist South Korea.

In Panama, women piloted Strategic Air Command tankers that refueled the planes flying troops and supplies from the United States.

They dodged bullets and artillery fire while flying troops into battle aboard Blackhawk helicopters — with two female pilots nominated for the prestigious Air Medal with a bronze V for valor, the first women to be so honored.

'It's a really touchy issue....But we've had women die in combat, and I think the American people are aware of what that means.'

— Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colorado

Despite these advances, the confusion that struck the five-star Soviet general when he faced Lt. Lipphardt seems to afflict many military and political leaders in this country as well, when it comes to the idea of women as warriors.

But there's no doubt in Lt. Lipphardt's mind. She's allowed to fly planes to and from aircraft carriers with mail, people and supplies, but can't be based on the warships as a jet pilot because that would be combat duty.

Now, without a chance to go after the toughest piloting job she thinks the Navy could hand her — coupled with other problems such as lengthy separations from her submariner husband — Lipphardt says she's thinking of leaving the service.

"If the ban against combat flying were dropped, maybe I'd feel differently," she says.

Last fall, the Pentagon's Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services reported to Defense Secretary Dick Cheney that, "The services can ill afford to continue to limit these women and their experiences in the face of the anticipated manpower shortages of the 1990s."

By comparing sheer statistics, women seem to fare best in the Air Force.

The service's high-tech, long-distance weaponry allows for 97 percent of its specialities to be open to women, with 13.6 percent of its force being female.

Women are barred from serving in fighters, bombers, tactical airlift cargo planes and some helicopters, but they are allowed to fly in some transport aircraft, in command-post aircraft, on reconnaissance aircraft and on support missions.

The Air Force recently lifted the restrictions against women flying on C-130 and C-141 transports that drop paratroopers into battle zones.

The Army is 11.4 percent female. The advertising directed at recruiting women boasts that more than 93 percent of its specialities are open to women. Given the service's high combat needs, however, this translates to about half of its job slots being closed to women.

The Army, after more than a year of indecision, still doesn't know what to do with about 345 females who've been trained as field artillery officers, but who've been pulled from their jobs amid worries that the positions were too exposed to enemy fire.

The Navy, at a 9.9 percent female level, bars women from serving on all aircraft carriers except one — the USS Lexington, a training ship. While combat vessels such as destroyers and cruisers are also off-limits, women do serve at sea on support ships such as oilers and tenders that supply aircraft carriers, submarines and other fighting vessels.

The Marine Corps has the smallest percentage of slots open to women — 4.8 percent. Marine Corps officials also point out that because the service relies on the Navy for medical care the Marines doesn't have a large number of nurses — a traditionally female specialty in the armed services.

Questions about the future role of women in the military have grown sharper, not only because of the attention focused on the hundreds of women who participated in the Panama invasion but also because of the massive personnel cuts the Pentagon faces in light of the nation's budget woes and the end of the Cold War.

Two congresswomen say they want to ensure that military women don't suffer disproportionately under the manpower cuts that seem virtually certain with the easing of East-West tension.

Conventions' fence-straddler wasn't searching for publicity

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — Ron Haugen's view of partisan politics is pretty flexible, so he served as a delegate to both the Republican and Democratic state conventions over the weekend.

"I didn't really know what party I liked so I thought I'd go to both conventions and see," the 29-year old Northwood farmer said Sunday from the floor of the Democratic convention.

Haugen was a bit embarrassed when reporters noticed him at both conventions. "Is it illegal?" he asked. "I don't want any publicity."

He said he attended the Democratic convention in legislative District 19, a Republican stronghold.

"In our district if you can crawl through the door you're a delegate," he said of the Democrats. The district was allowed to send 23 delegates to the state convention but could muster only eight, he noted.

He didn't attend the Republicans' district convention but was selected as a delegate to the state meeting anyway, he said.

Republican state Rep. Dagne Olsen of Larimore said District 19 Republicans weren't aware Haugen also would be a delegate to the Democrats' convention.

Olsen said she didn't think party rules even addressed the question of whether Haugen's double duty was allowed.

Girl to visit U.S.S.R.

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP) — Twelve-year-old Jody Mackey doesn't have to run away from home to join the circus in the Soviet Union. She and her parents have been invited for a free trip.

The Soviet circus Bim Bom, which is in Wheeling preparing for a two-year tour of the United States, made the offer after Jody, a sixth-grader, gave a dove-shaped pendant to Latifa Tourdieva, 10, daughter of circus performers.

"I gave her a dove of peace, because our countries shouldn't be fighting," Mackey said.

Alexander Bondarev, the artistic director of the circus, said Jody will go to the Soviet Union with the circus in December.

Good Morning, Midland. LUCKY NUMBER 05830

The Implant Alternative.

If you've been disappointed in conventional solutions to your missing teeth, you should know about an important new alternative: dental implants.

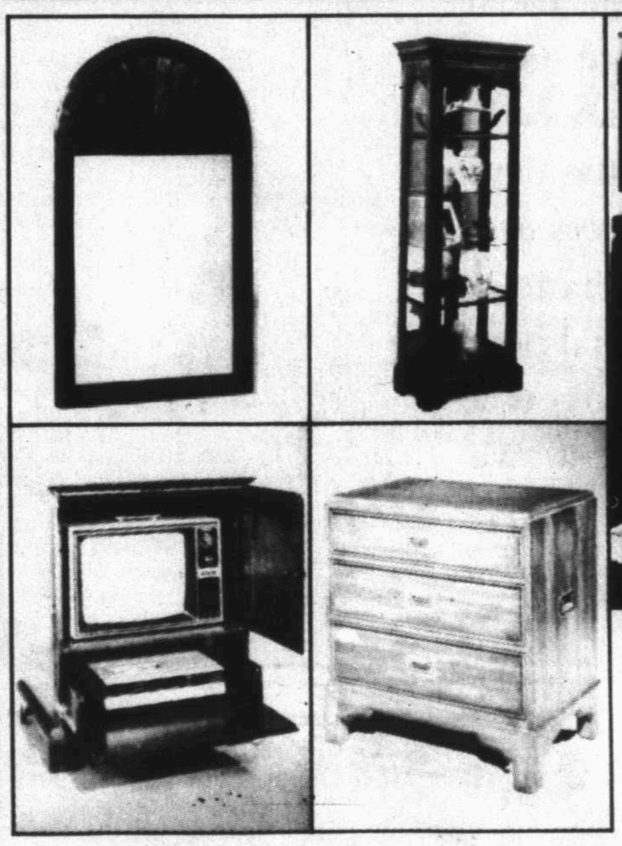

Dental implant, actual size.

A dental implant is a tiny cylinder which is surgically implanted in your jaw to replace the root of the tooth. Once in place, your natural jawbone bonds to the implant, making it a stable foundation for replacement teeth, a permanent bridge, or anchored, removable dentures. Dental implants are fixed so securely, in fact, they can actually restore the feeling you had with your own natural teeth. As well as your ability to eat just about anything you want — confidently.

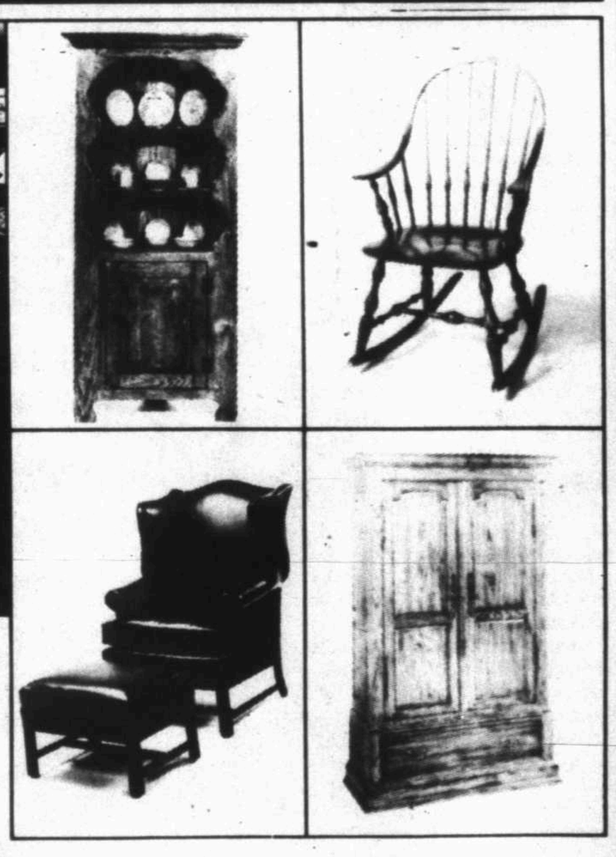

Call to learn more about dental implants. They'll help restore the feeling, and the freedom of your own natural teeth.

NEW YORK (AP) — The all-in-one dish is perfect for last-minute parties and unplanned family celebrations.

Some quick tips and recipes from Perdue Farms:

■ Choose recipes that combine the meat, fish or poultry with the vegetables.

■ Cook vegetables in the same water as the pasta.

■ Slide buttered bread into the oven to heat beside a casserole.

■ Serve fresh fruit and ice cream for dessert.

TERIYAKI STIR-FRY CHICKEN DINNER

12 chicken wingettes
Salt to taste
Ground black pepper to taste
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 bunch broccoli, florets only (1 cup)
1 8-ounce can sliced water chestnuts, drained
4 carrots, sliced
4 scallions, thinly sliced
½ cup water
¼ cup soy sauce
¼ cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons dry sherry or white vinegar
2 garlic cloves, finely chopped
2 teaspoons grated gingerroot
2 cups warm, cooked rice
Additional sliced scallion (optional garnish)

Heat oil in a large non-stick wok or skillet over medium-high heat. Stir-fry broccoli 1 minute; add water chestnuts and carrots. Stir-fry 1 minute longer and add scallions; stir-fry a few seconds. Remove vegetables and reserve.

Add wingettes to wok and cook until lightly browned on all sides, about 5 minutes. Reduce heat to low; cover and cook 10 minutes, turning occasionally. Remove wingettes to paper towels and pour off drippings. Return wingettes and vegetables to pan; add all remaining ingredients except rice and stir until well mixed. Cook, turning frequently until pieces are glazed and sauce is thickened, about 3 to 5 minutes. Serve hot over rice, sprinkling with more sliced scallion, if desired for color.

CHICKEN THIGHS AND VEGETABLES LYONNAISE

2 medium-sized baking potatoes, peeled and thinly sliced (about 2 cups)
6 chicken thighs
½ teaspoon ground thyme
Salt to taste
Ground pepper to taste
4 medium-sized carrots, peeled and thinly sliced (about 2 cups)
1 medium onion, thinly sliced (1 cup)
4 teaspoons butter or margarine
1 cup milk or heavy cream
¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
Paprika

In large bowl, soak sliced potatoes in cold water for at least 10 minutes. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Sprinkle thighs with thyme, salt and pepper.

Drain potatoes well in a colander and layer with carrots and onion in a buttered 8- by 11-inch baking dish. Season each layer with thyme, salt and pepper. Dot lightly with butter. Arrange chicken, skin side up, on top of vegetables. Combine milk and hot pepper sauce and pour over all; sprinkle generously with paprika. Bake 60 to 70 minutes at 350 degrees F until chicken and vegetables are tender. Serve with a tossed green salad and hot, crusty French bread.

Lamb is a major protein source

By Pierre Franey
N.Y. Times News Service

If you consider the cuisines of the world, particularly those of the Middle East, Eastern Europe and Central Asia, lamb is one of the major sources of protein. Beef-loving Americans may forget that has been true for centuries.

In Isabella Beeton's bible of English-speaking cooks, the 1861 "Book of Household Management," she wrote, "Of all wild or domesticated animals lamb is without exception the most useful to man as food."

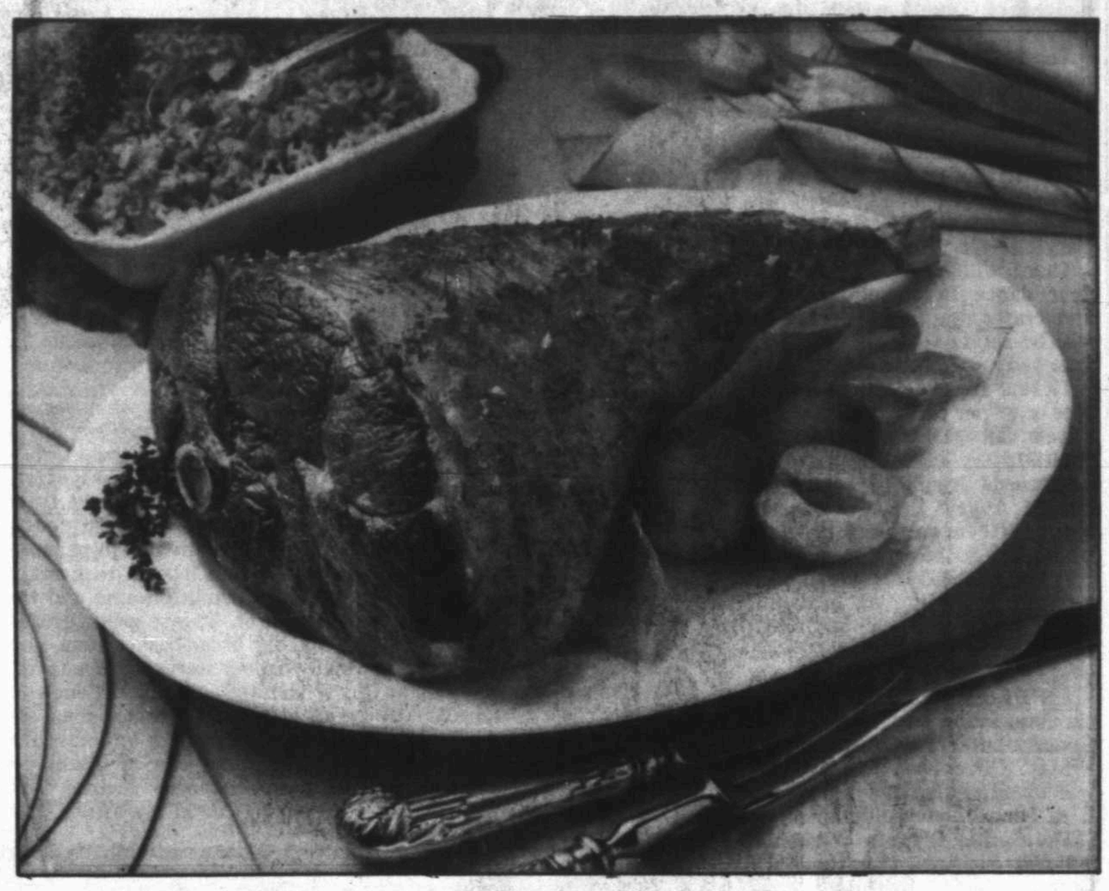

Until this century Americans were not major lamb consumers. One reason may have been that here lambs were allowed to grow somewhat older before slaughter than in Europe, resulting in a more assertive flavor. Today all types of lamb are available in American supermarkets.

In the region of France where I grew up lamb was widely eaten, and I still have an inordinate fondness for it. Many of my recipes for burgers, meat loaf and kebabs blend ground lamb with ground beef (and sometimes ground veal) for extra flavor.

In the quick recipe below for lamb patties, the ground meat is seasoned with garlic and cumin and the patties are small, four or five to each diner.

The sauce is made by sauteing the mushrooms and shallots, and adding wine, chicken stock and seasonings.

To my taste almonds have an affinity for lamb — perhaps it is the Middle Eastern connection — so the accompanying rice dish contains almonds, along with raisins and cinnamon.

Although leg of lamb is still a popular dish for the Easter season and throughout the year, cooks and chefs are continually creating new recipes for the beef alternative.

LAMB PATTIES WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE

1¼ pounds ground lean lamb
3 tablespoons olive oil
1½ cups finely chopped onions
1 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
1 teaspoon ground cumin
½ cup finely chopped coriander or parsley
½ cup fine fresh bread crumbs
1 egg, lightly beaten
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
1 tablespoon butter
⅓ pound fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced, about 2 cups
2 tablespoons finely chopped shallots
¼ cup dry white wine
½ cup chopped peeled fresh tomatoes or canned crushed tomatoes
¾ cup fresh or canned chicken broth
1 teaspoon chopped fresh tarragon or ½ teaspoon dried
2 teaspoons arrowroot or cornstarch
1 tablespoon water

Place the lamb in a mixing bowl.

Heat two tablespoons of the oil in a small skillet and add the onions and garlic. Cook briefly, stirring, until wilted. Sprinkle with cumin and stir, blending well. Cool briefly.

Scrape the onion mixture into the lamb. Add the coriander, bread crumbs, egg, salt and pepper. Blend well with fingers and shape the mixture into 20 patties. Set aside.

For the mushroom sauce, heat the butter in a saucepan and add the mushrooms, shallots, salt and pepper. Cook over medium-high heat until all the moisture from the mushrooms has evaporated.

Add the wine and simmer briefly over high heat. Add the tomatoes, broth and tarragon. Cook about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Meanwhile, heat the remaining olive oil in a nonstick skillet large enough to hold the patties in one layer. Add the patties and turn them so they brown evenly, about 5 minutes. Drain the fat.

Add the patties to the sauce, cover and simmer about 10 minutes.

RICE WITH ALMONDS AND RAISINS

1 tablespoon olive oil
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 cup converted rice
2 tablespoons white or black raisins
⅓ cup blanched slivered almonds
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
1½ cups fresh or canned chicken broth
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons chopped fresh coriander

Heat the olive oil in a small saucepan. Add the onion, stir and cook until wilted. Add the rice, raisins, almonds, cinnamon, salt and pepper. Stir and blend well.

Add the broth, bring to a boil, cover and simmer for 17 minutes or until tender and all the liquid is absorbed.

Stir in the butter and coriander and serve.

Yield: 4 servings.

Mulligatawny soup spicy yet mellow

Associated Press

Mom's chicken soup was nothing like this! Inspired by East Indian curries, Mulligatawny has a mellow spicy flavor. Apple adds a touch of sweetness. Start the rice, traditionally served with the soup, on the rangetop first because Mulligatawny takes only 13 minutes to cook in your microwave.

MULLIGATAWNY

2½ cups chicken broth
7½-ounce can tomatoes, cut up
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped peeled cooking apple
¼ cup chopped carrot
¼ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon snipped parsley
1 to 1½ teaspoons curry powder
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups cubed cooked chicken
2 cups hot cooked rice

In a 2-quart microwave-safe casserole combine broth, tomatoes, celery, apple, carrot, onion, parsley, curry powder, lemon juice and pepper. Cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) for 12 to 15 minutes or until tender, stirring once. Add chicken. Cook, uncovered, on high for 1 to 2 minutes more. Serve in shallow soup bowls with a scoop of rice in each bowl. Makes 3 servings.

Easter ideal day to serve brunch

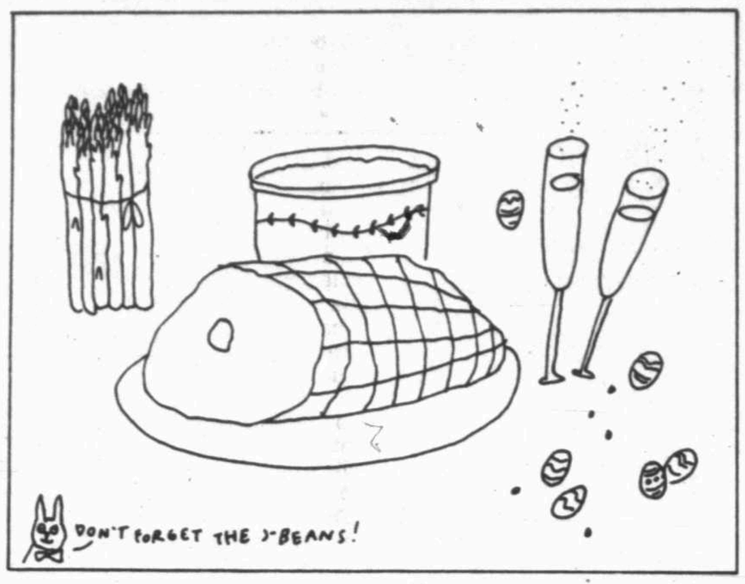

By Carol Cutler
Copley News Service

Officially, spring started this year on March 20, but that kickoff date rarely gets much attention. Easter is when we all get into the real mood of the season.

This seems to be true even though on occasion it has been known to snow that day. But even with all the peculiar weather we've had this winter, April 15 seems a bit late for snowflakes.

Finery, from lavish Easter bonnets to practical new clothes for toddlers, comes out for the parade. The confirmed blue-jean crowd presses its jeans for once.

The house probably received a good going over, and even the car may have been polished up a bit for the day. Gardens, too, are in the proper mood with blossoms of every pretty sort bobbing in the breeze.

CNS Graphic

Easter traditionally was a family holiday, centered around the dinner table after church. Today, many family members make holiday travel plans of their own. Some even go off skiing, which seems an anachronism for a holiday that ushers in warm weather.

EASTER, BEING basically a daytime celebration, offers the perfect opportunity for a sunny holiday brunch. One great advantage for the cook is how well Easter food lends itself to advance preparation. Ham, lamb, eggs and sausages can all be cooked the day before. The meat flavors are more delicate and alluring when served at room temperature. They are a great favorite in Europe.

Easter breads are always featured. They run the gamut from the wonderful sweet yeast dough breads such as the Italian panettone or Russian kulitch to quickly made buttermilk biscuits and banana bread. Today, grain breads are a big bread-basket item and many bakery stores feature them.

If you are ambitious enough to cook at the last minute, popovers make a smashing special hot bread. Recipes can be found in standard cookbooks, such as "Joy of Cooking" or in my own "Carol Cutler's Great Fast Breads." The latter book contains novel variations such as cheese and maple-cinnamon.

Bake the ham and lamb on Saturday, leaving only the slicing to be done on Sunday morning. Serve a horseradish-spiked mayonnaise with them and both smooth and grainy mustards for the ham.

Poach sausages such as kielbasas or French garlic sausages the day before as well. The round slices can be arranged around the larger slices of the ham and lamb on the platter. Plain horseradish is a good partner for the sausages.

Appropriate side dishes include mixed green salad, cold asparagus with a zesty vinaigrette, sliced beets tossed with Bermuda onions, or white beans mixed with lots of green onions and a little olive oil and vinegar.

FOR A hot dish, consider an Egg Pie, which can be assembled the day before and simply baked on Easter morning. It is unusual, hearty and, in keeping with the holiday theme, features eggs. In fact, it also is a good recipe to keep in mind for later use of hard-boiled decorated eggs.

The decorated eggs can be provided by the guests if each one is asked to bring a cheerily decorated example. All you need do is prepare a basket in the center of the table to receive the bright ovals. Perhaps it is best to start off with two of your own colored eggs so that the empty basket doesn't look so forlorn to the first arrivals.

The eggs will look their very best if set off with a thick cushion of green cellophane straw in the bottom of the basket. The straw can be bought at five-and-dime stores at this time of the year. Jelly beans complete the centerpiece. Once all the eggs are in the basket, toss jelly beans over the ensemble and let them roll where they may.

Mimosas, that sprightly combination of orange juice and champagne, make a festive drink. A pretty non-alcoholic alternative is cranberry juice mixed with soda water over ice. A whole strawberry perched on the glass rim gives the drink a touch of glamour.

Once you see how easy a preprepared Easter brunch can be, you may be setting a new tradition. Besides, the cleaning up will be finished even before the sun begins to set.

EGG PIE

6 hard-boiled eggs, shelled and sliced
4 to 5 medium potatoes, boiled, peeled and mashed
2 tablespoons butter, melted
¼ cup sour cream
Salt and pepper
Grated nutmeg
¼ cup chopped fresh parsley
2 ounces prosciutto, thinly sliced
1 cup basic white sauce
1 raw egg, beaten

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Thoroughly blend butter and sour cream into potatoes and season with salt, pepper and light sprinkling of nutmeg.

In 1½-quart souffle or similar dish, use one-third of potatoes to make bottom layer. Lay in half the egg slices, then scatter with half the parsley and prosciutto. Dribble white sauce over top half.

Repeat with another layer of half the remaining potatoes, all the eggs, parsley and proscuitto, and sauce. Cover top with rest of mashed potatoes smoothing them out with wet rubber spatula or knife.

Run fork across top to make pattern, either diagonals or crisscross. Brush well with egg and bake about 45 minutes, or until top is nicely browned.

For sweets lovers, Eastertime second only to Christmas

Associated Press

The Easter Bunny and his helpers make this season a candy-making time second only to Christmas. For molded chocolate candies or dipped chocolates, use the slow, low-temperature melting method.

MELTING CHOCOLATE

■ In a 4-cup glass measure or 1½-quart glass mixing bowl combine the amount of semisweet chocolate pieces and shortening called for in your recipe.

■ In a large glass mixing bowl pour 1 inch of very warm tap water (100 to 110 degrees). Place measure or mixing bowl containing chocolate inside larger bowl. Water should cover the bottom half of the measure containing chocolate.

■ Stir chocolate constantly with a rubber spatula until the chocolate is completely melted and smooth; about 15 to 20 minutes.

■ When water begins to cool, remove measure containing chocolate. Discard cool water; add warm water. Return measure containing chocolate to bowl of water.

■ If chocolate becomes too thick while dipping candies, remove measure containing chocolate and replace water with warm water. Return measure containing chocolate to bowl of water and stir until it reaches dipping consistency.

CHOCOLATE TIPS

■ Avoid humidity, steam and wet utensils. Even a minuscule amount of moisture can cause melting chocolate to thicken or crumble. Be sure candy-making utensils are dry, and watch carefully to make certain that not even one drop of water enters the melting chocolate. Don't try to melt chocolate on a hot or humid day.

■ For even melting, constantly scrape and stir chocolate. Don't hurry; it's important that chocolate be melted slowly and evenly.

■ Use solid vegetable shortening when melting chocolate, not butter or margarine. These fats contain moisture that could cause the chocolate to thicken and become grainy.

■ Add no more than 1 tablespoon shortening for each 6 ounces of chocolate. Extending chocolate with extra shortening or water will ruin it.

■ Store chocolate in a cool, dry place between 65 and 70 degrees F, with less than 50 percent humidity. Higher temperatures or humidity may cause a gray appearance called "bloom" to appear in the chocolate before or after melting. Bloom won't affect the chocolate's flavor or quality.

CONFECTIONERS' COATING

■ It can't match chocolate for flavor or texture, but it doesn't require a special melting process. Just chop and melt it on the rangetop or in the microwave. Don't add shortening.

■ Made in several flavors, it is usually stocked with the baking supplies in your supermarket. It's sometimes called "summer coating," or "candy coating," or "almond bark."

Luscious dessert easy to make

By Nancy Byal
Associated Press

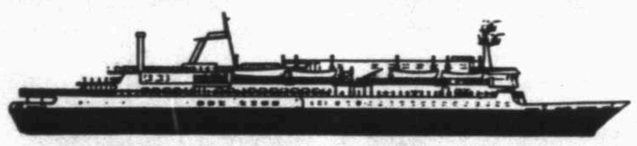

Cool, tangy and unbelieveably easy to make, this luscious frozen dessert has just two ingredients.

APRICOT SHERBET

2 cups low-fat buttermilk
1 12-ounce can apricot cake and pastry filling

In medium mixing bowl stir together buttermilk and cake and pastry filling. Pour mixture into 8x4x2-inch loaf pan. Freeze about 3 hours or until firm.

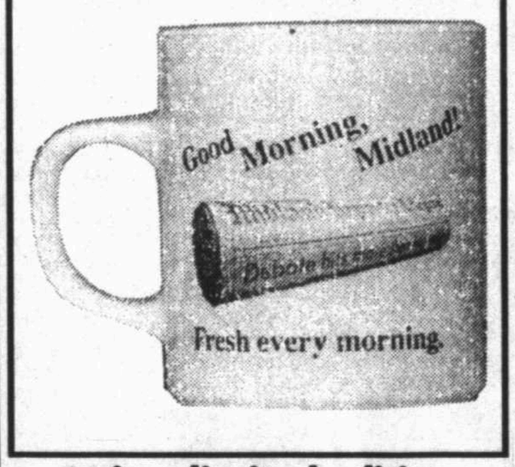

Break frozen buttermilk mixture into chunks. Transfer to chilled large mixing bowl. Beat with electric mixer on medium to high speed until smooth but not melted. Return to cold pan. Cover and freeze until firm.

Popcorn favorite American snack

By Florence Fabricant
N.Y. Times News Service

The popcorn business is hot but not necessarily buttered. There are a host of new products, including light microwave and white cheddar cheese versions, and even a new appreciation for this ancient American snack by serious chefs.

Consumption of popcorn has increased by more than 50 percent in the past 10 years.

Last year the rate of growth in popcorn sales was greater than that for any other snack food. Sales now exceed $2 billion a year, according to the Snack Food Association, a trade group.

It is estimated that every man, woman and child in the United States munches 56 quarts of popcorn annually.

About 70 percent is eaten at home, as it has been since 1966. Until the late 1950s more popcorn was eaten away from home, especially at the movies. Television brought popcorn home and videotapes have kept it there.

More than half the popcorn eaten today is made in microwave ovens. Now sales of the new light versions of microwave popcorn — fewer calories, no cholesterol — are increasing dramatically.

LAST MONTH Supermarket News, a weekly newspaper that covers the grocery industry, reported that in some areas of the country light microwave popcorn is outselling regular.

The Orville Redenbacher brand, owned by the Beatrice Co. since 1976, was the first to introduce a microwave popcorn, and last August it came out with the first light microwave popcorns, a plain one and one with artificial butter flavor and no cholesterol.

Other leading brands, including Pop-Secret (made by General Mills) and Jolly Time (American Popcorn), have also introduced light microwave popcorns.

Because popcorn is a high-fiber, whole-grain food, it is one of the rare snacks to earn the blessing of diet authorities, provided it's not made in oil, drenched with butter and doused with salt.

Air-popped corn with nothing added is the most healthful version. It has 90 calories in three cups, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The light microwave popcorns that reduce the amount of salt, added fat and oil in the product and replace saturated fats with unsaturated fats are also better than traditional oil-popped popcorn.

Some commercial popcorns consist of 50 percent or more fat and have as much as 200 calories in three cups.

Al Rickard, director of communications for the Snack Food Association, predicts that more flavors will be introduced in light microwave popcorns in the coming months.

PREPOPPED WHITE cheddar popcorn is the fastest-growing segment of the market, up an estimated 30 percent in 1989 over 1988, Rickard said.

Smartfood, the first white cheddar cheese popcorn, came on the market in Massachusetts five years ago. Smartfoods Inc., now a $12 million concern, is making the popcorn available nationwide this week.

"I can't believe how well the white cheddar category has done," Rickard said.

Ann Whithey first concocted a batch of the white cheddar popcorn on her kitchen stove in Boston as a product to fill reclosable packages that her husband, Andrew, and his partner, Ken Meyers, were trying to market.

"The popcorn turned out better than the package," said Meyers, president of the company, which was sold to Frito-Lay a little more than a year ago.

"Unlike the cheese popcorn already on the market, ours was made with real cheese and it didn't glow in the dark," Meyers said. "We wanted quality and we were up against the negative consumer image, because prepopped popcorn in a bag was considered garbage, not worth the money because it's not fresh and you can make it better and cheaper at home."

Smartfood, sold in distinctive black bags, is tender air-popped popcorn tossed with what is essentially a cheese sauce made with a mixture of white cheddar cheese, corn oil, buttermilk, whey and salt. Meyers said there are now about two dozen imitators on the market.

SPECIALTY POPCORNS like Smartfood have sold well in America since the first one, Cracker Jack, a combination of caramel corn and peanuts, came on the market nearly 100 years ago.

If all the boxes of Cracker Jack sold since then were stacked end to end they would reach halfway to the moon. Sales of Cracker Jack are still strong, according to Borden Inc., which has owned it since 1964. The company, the world's largest user of popcorn, pops 18 to 20 tons a day.

When the Orville Redenbacher brand was introduced in 1970, it was labeled "gourmet" and was sold only in the Marshall Field's department store in Chicago, but in five years it became the leading brand of popcorn in the country.

Redenbacher, a popcorn pioneer who is now 83, became involved in breeding popcorn in 1941. He is still active in Chester Inc., the agricultural development company in which he is a partner.

He said that through thousands of crossbreeding experiments, agronomists have achieved kernels that increase in volume more than 40 times when they are popped.

"The next development is to increase quality," he said, "to get at 100 percent pop." That means that in a batch there would be no unpopped kernels (UPKs, in the trade, or "old maids").

Redenbacher said the amount of moisture in the kernel is critical, with about 13 percent the ideal. Heat causes the moisture in kernels to turn to steam and explode. Redenbacher recommends storing unpopped popcorn in the refrigerator to preserve the moisture content.

POPCORN HAS existed in the Americas for thousands of years. Archeologists have determined that kernels found in a bat cave in New Mexico are 5,600 years old, and have also determined that popcorn was the earliest form of maize.

Popcorn grains 1,000 years old found in Indian tombs in Peru can still be popped.

The best-known tidbit of popcorn history is probably that it was introduced to Europeans at the first Thanksgiving at Plymouth, Mass.

Quadequina, brother of Chief Massasoit of the Wampanoag Indians, brought some popcorn for the colonists to try. Subsequently, the settlers ate it for breakfast with milk and sugar, the first puffed cereal.

There is evidence that some Indians popped the corn right on the cob by throwing the whole ear into a fire. That technique has recently been updated by companies selling microwave popcorn on the cob.

The ear is put in a bag and into the microwave oven, where the kernels pop right on the ear. Among companies marketing this gimmick are All Ears Microwave Popcorn and Pop-a-Cob.

Like other varieties of corn, popcorn comes in many colors. Yellow is the most widely cultivated, and there are also white, red, blue, black and brown varieties.

The variety of yellow popcorn used by movie theater concessions has a relatively coarse hull so it withstands handling.

BETTER GRADES of popcorn have a more velvety tenderness. Most movie concessions pop their corn in highly saturated coconut oil, which does not burn.

About 10 percent of popcorn is white; it is more popular in the Northern states, Redenbacher said. Now some companies are selling the red, blue, black and brown popcorns as novelties.

Mallard Pond Farms, a company in Boulder, Colo., has been selling white and red popping corn at shops in Colorado and to mail-order customers since November.

The company also sells popcorn flour, popcorn pancake mix and popcorn bread mix. The flour and mixes, which have a rich, nutty flavor and a slightly crunchy texture, are made from ground popcorn kernels. Popcorn is harder than regular corn, so the texture is finer than that of cornmeal.

"Most of the popcorn is produced and sold by big companies," said John Cohegan, owner of the company. "We felt there was room for a small, specialty company with high-quality products." Information about Mallard Pond Farms is available by calling 800-533-2676 (in Colorado, 303-494-3551).

Vegetables are subject of hotline

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you had your vegetables today?

Vegetables are an important part of a balanced diet, yet many adults do not consume the recommended three to five servings of vegetables a day. Some do not consume any vegetables at all. According to the makers of V8 vegetable juice, one-third of all adults who responded to a 1987 survey in California said they consumed no vegetables on the previous day.

Consumers can call a toll-free telephone number, 1-800-TASTY-V8 or 1-800-827-8988, through the month of June, to hear nutrition tips about a variety of vegetables. Prerecorded messages will provide callers with infofmation on vegetables.

Messages will rotate each month. The toll-free number will be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, until June 30.

DEAR ABBY

Tragedy in bathroom serves as reminder

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this because I believe it may help your readers to avoid a tragedy.

Last year, our 11-year-old son, Daniel, fell through a glass shower panel, severing an artery, a nerve and three muscles above the elbow. He required 5½ hours of reconstructive surgery and five units of blood. He is still undergoing physical therapy, and we are hoping that eventually he will regain full use of his arm and hand.

Van Buren

Abby, please ask your readers to check their shower enclosures to make sure they have shatterproof glass, or some kind of plastic glass substitute. (Plexiglas is one.) A law passed about 20 years ago made installation of non-shatterproof glass in showers illegal. However, showers installed before that time may have glass that is not shatterproof.

Also, it's a good idea to teach young children never to lock the bathroom door, because a bathroom can be a dangerous place. If Daniel had locked himself in the bathroom when he fell through the shower door, much time would have been lost in our efforts to help him. — GRATEFUL IN GREAT NECK, N.Y.

DEAR GRATEFUL: And I am grateful to you for a valuable letter. You are correct to point out that a bathroom can be a very dangerous place. Pills, razor blades and electric hair dryers are potentially hazardous in the hands of an unsupervised child. Also, toddlers have been known to drown in toilets and scald themselves with very hot tap water.

Your suggestion to teach very young children never to lock the bathroom door is a good one. A better idea would be to have no lock on the bathroom door accessible to a child.

DEAR ABBY: Your suggested response for the woman whose "friends" telephone to mention having seen her son's name in the newspaper (for an arrest) was far too gentle.

A proper response would have been: "Thank you for calling this to my attention again. Excuse me, I have an errand to run." (Click.) — JUDY T. IN DALLAS

P.S. And people who persist in bringing this up should be told, "Out of respect for my son, we do not discuss this matter outside the family."

DEAR JUDY: You're right. Especially since these "friends" were people she hardly knew.

DEAR ABBY: You had something wonderfully funny in your column about "love." It ended with ... "and the position is ridiculous." What's the rest of it, and who said it? — GOING CRAZY IN KETCHIKAN, ALASKA

DEAR GOING: Here it is: "The price is prohibitive, the pleasure is transitory and the position is ridiculous." And Lord Chesterfield supposedly said it.

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I'm doing this — but here goes! My wife and I have been married for 34 years. We have four grown children and two grandchildren. My wife is worried about getting pregnant. She will be 56 years old this year.

My question: When does a woman fall into the non-bearing age? And is it possible for my wife to get pregnant at her age? — HER HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: Although there are exceptions, if a woman's menstrual periods have ceased for a year, the possibility of pregnancy is inconceivable. (No pun intended.)

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? Get it off your chest by writing to: Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Slow-cooking makes tasty, convenient Tex-Mex chili

By Nancy Byal
Associated Press

Ground meat or cubed meat? Beef or venison? Chili powder or chili peppers? There as many kinds of chili as there are "chili-heads," the fans who have tried them all and perfected their own recipe. My family likes the taste of this middle-of-the-road version; I like the slow, convenient crockery cooking. Use the high-heat setting if you'll be away half a day; low heat for all-day cooking.

TEX-MEX CHILI

2 cloves garlic, minced
3 to 4 teaspoons chili powder
½ teaspoon ground cumin
1 15½-ounce can red kidney beans, drained
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 16-ounce can tomatoes, cut up
1 10-ounce can tomatoes with green chili peppers
1 cup vegetable juice cocktail or tomato juice
1 6-ounce can tomato paste
¼ teaspoon salt
Shredded cheddar cheese (optional)
Dairy sour cream (optional)

Meanwhile, in a 3½-, 4-, 5- or 6-quart crockery cooker combine beans, celery, onion and green pepper. Add undrained tomatoes, undrained tomatoes with green chili peppers, vegetable juice cocktail or tomato juice, tomato paste and salt. Stir in meat mixture.

Cover; cook on low-heat setting for 10 to 12 hours or on high-heat setting for 4 to 5 hours. Ladle chili into soup bowls. If desired, pass shredded cheese and sour cream with chili. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Cold is hot when it comes to frozen dinners, entrees

NEW YORK (AP) — It's been more than 35 years since Swanson introduced the first frozen TV dinner. This "revolutionary new food trend" promised "just what housewives want — no work, no thawing," according to early Swanson advertising.

Last year, Americans spent more than $5 billion on frozen dinners and entrees, demonstrating that cold is, indeed, hot. Swanson recently surveyed Americans to learn more about who, when, how and why they are eating frozen dinners and entrees.

In 1954, when frozen dinners were first introduced, 30 minutes was considered the ultimate in convenience. Today, nearly 60 percent of respondents said a quick dinner should take no more than 15 minutes to prepare.

In addition, more than 66 percent of frozen dinner-entree users said they heated up their frozen fare in the microwave oven. Forty-five- to 54-year-olds were especially hooked on the microwave; 81 percent reported using the microwave to heat their frozen dinners-entrees.

Other findings:

- Forty-three percent said they always or usually watch TV while eating a frozen dinner-entree.
- Cold is hotter with women than men. About 56 percent of women compared to 48 percent of men reported consuming a frozen dinner or entree recently.
- The age group between 18 to 24 was the largest frozen dinner-entree consumer — at about 64 percent.
- Good taste is the most important quality in a frozen dinner-entree, according to nearly 50 percent of respondents. Next is whether a frozen item offers a balanced lunch or dinner (21 percent), followed by convenience to prepare (15 percent), and price (10 percent).

Being 'freezer proficient' takes planning

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you toss food into the freezer and hope for the best? You can become more "freezer proficient." All it takes is a little planning.

The Quaker Oats Co., makers of Aunt Jemima's Frozen Waffles, has the following suggestions:

- Organize your freezer. Label each package with the contents and date it was entered.
- Maintain a "first-in, first-out" policy. Make sure the food that is frozen first is used first. This ensures the best use of food, electricity and space.
- Plan freezer loads with efficiency in mind. For best results, freeze no more than 3 pounds of food per cubic foot.
- Use airtight wraps, including re-sealable freezer bags, freezer paper, sealed plastic containers and aluminum foil. Ideal freezer wrappings should also be moistureproof and vaporproof.
- Don't freeze and forget. Unused freezer items should be removed after 1 year at most. The recommended average storage time varies by food product.
- Frozen food stored for too long may result in "freezer burn." Freezer burn is identified by light, off-color spots on food. It is caused by excessive drying, which speeds up changes in a food's color and texture. This can be eliminated, in part, by using the proper freezer wrap.
- Avoid refreezing foods that have thawed to room temperature. The quality of food suffers when it has been frozen and thawed more than once.

Karen Doherty, home economist for Quaker Oats, says vegetable greens can be frozen. Wrap them in a resealable plastic bag and place them in the refrigerator. Keep the produce in the refrigerator until it is cold to the touch, then transfer the greens to the freezer.

Not every food can go into the freezer. According to Quaker, cooked egg whites toughen; raw tomatoes become soggy; greens wilt; mayonnaise, sour cream and cottage cheese separate; light cream, yogurt and buttermilk lose texture; custards and puddings become watery; cooked potatoes become soft.

Other foods that freeze well:

- Grated hard cheese.
- Soup stocks.
- Leftover bread, processed into bread crumbs.
- Brown sugar.
- Crumbled bacon or chopped ham for use as a topping.
- Chopped raw peppers and onions.
- Most fresh herbs, except cilantro, Chinese parsley and dill.
- Nuts, dried fruit and coconut.

The recommended times for freezer storage vary by item. Some general guidelines for holding foods at 0 degrees F: fruits, 12 months; vegetables, 8 months; ground hamburger, 3-4 months; beef roasts, steaks and lamb roasts, 9-12 months; pork, cured (ham) 1-3 months; pork chops and pork roasts, 4-8 months; pork sausage, 1-3 months; veal, 8-9 months; cooked meat casseroles, 3-6 months; chicken, 9-12 months; duck and goose, 6 months; turkey, 6-12 months; cooked chicken or turkey, 1-3 months; fish, 3-6 months; bread and yeast rolls, 1-3 months; layer cake, 2-4 months; unbaked fruit pies, 8 months; ice cream and sherbet, 1-2 months.

Really Brave fan

ATLANTA (AP) — The opening of the baseball season finds Pearl Sandow on the disabled list.

Sandow, a fixture in the first-base seats at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium, has been there for every Atlanta Braves game from 1966 to 1989 — all 1,899, not counting playoffs and exhibitions, since the club moved from Milwaukee.

But she may not be at the stadium until summer because of two broken shoulders suffered in an auto accident.

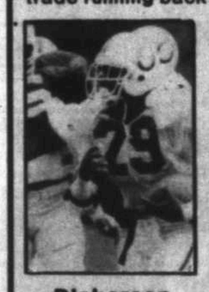

"I don't think I'm going to make it back to a game until June," Sandow said on the eve of the Braves' opener against San Francisco.

"I hate that I'm going to miss them," she said. "But I'm excited about the season opening."

Despite the Braves' average of 96 losses per year over the past five years, Sandow said, "As long as they try I can take it. We can't win all the time. But I can't stand sloppy baseball."

Irsay not worried

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indianapolis Colts owner Robert Irsay said Tuesday he is in no hurry to trade running back Eric Dickerson.

Dickerson

"What will it take?" Irsay said. "I'm not going to answer hypothetical questions. If a team is interested, they need to make an offer, we'll review it and then say yes or no.

"There has been nothing offered at all. And that's where it stands."

Dickerson has threatened to retire rather than play for the Colts next season. He and his agent have scheduled a meeting to discuss a television analyst's job with Turner Broadcasting Systems.

Midland hurlers fire blanks

■ MHS pitcher Gabe Salazar's scoreless-inning streak extends to 23 after his three-hit shutout against Odessa Permian.

Brian Adamcik/Reporter-Telegram

■ Jeff Johnston throws his own three-hit doozy against District 4-5A doormat Odessa High as the Rebels earn a 10-0 win.

By Bill Price

Gabriel Salazar had plenty of incentive when he went to the mound Tuesday, as the Midland High pitcher won a pitching duel and avenged a game losing-home run earlier in the year by shutting out Odessa Permian in a 2-0 win at Angels Stadium.

The result of Tuesday's MHS win, paired with Abilene Cooper's 16-0 thrashing of San Angelo, is a three-way tie for first place in the 4-5A standings. Permian, which entered the game 6-1 in league play, MHS and Cooper are all now 6-2.

Overall, the Bulldogs are 14-7 and Permian is 12-4-1.

Salazar's complete-game outing yielded 12 strike outs, only three hits and a single walk. The win was sweet vindication for the MHS senior, who as a relief pitcher March 17 gave up a three-run homer to Mojo catcher Alan Wyles in the seventh inning for a 9-8 MHS loss.

Permian hurler Breech Nolen (7-2) also threw what should have been a shut out, as he allowed no earned runs, but was victim of a costly Mojo error and two passed balls. However, he was overshadowed by Salazar's looming figure Tuesday.

"I came out to get 'em today, and I got 'em," said Salazar, who extended his scoreless inning streak to 23.

"Salazar had a real strong game. He had a lot of incentive, because Permian also beat him last season;" said MHS caoch Tim Whalen. "But the whole team played well. We had a great workout yesterday, and everybody seemed serious. I could tell we were ready."

The Bulldogs scored the only run they needed in the first after Scott Melzer slapped a base hit to right field. He reached second on a passed ball charged to Wyles, then advanced to third when Patrick Mowles hit into a 6-3 groundout for the second out of the inning. Nolen then walked Salazar, who was relieved on the base paths by Greg ODESSA — The up-and-down Midland Lee Rebels were nothing but up here Tuesday, but Rebel coach Ernie Johnson isn't convinced that his team can still be a factor in the District 4-5A race — even after a 10-0 wipeout of Odessa High.

"We're just so mediocre," Johnson said. "I never know what to expect from one game to the next."

"We've got good kids, but I've never been able to bring out their consistency."

Indeed, the Rebels, 9-8 overall, have ridden a roller-coaster en route to a 4-4 district mark. But the roller-coaster was on the way up Tuesday, especially for junior lefthander Jeff Johnston, who struck out 11 while twirling a three-hit shutout.

Johnston lasted only three innings against district co-leader Midland High in his last start but was in no danger against OHS, even though he walked five Broncho batters.

Johnston fanned nine batters in the first four innings before settling down to induce mostly pop flies. He struck out the side in the third and fourth innings, and fanned seven of the nine Bronchos in the batting order at least once.

The junior lefty, 6-4 overall, said working on two days rest was no problem at all.

"My arm felt real zingy and alive during warmups," Johnston said. "I felt a lot better today (than Saturday)."

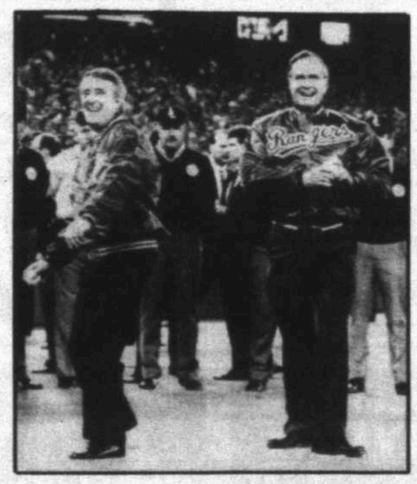

Johnston wasn't the only zingy and alive Rebel Tuesday. Third baseman Ty Chambers and center fielder Randy Brice led a 10-hit attack with two hits each.

The Rebels got all the runs they needed in the second inning, courtesy of some typically sloppy play by the Broncho fielders.

Randy Brown led off with a infield single. Brice then reached on a fielding error by OHS shortstop Jeremy Davis, Brown moving to second. Designated hitter Jimmy Patton then stroked a single to score Brown.

The two smiled broadly as they threw the balls to a group of ballplayers standing under the covered Skydome.

Boos were mixed with applause as Bush and Mulroney came onto the field and a huge banner reading "Axe the Tax" was plastered across the bleachers. Mulroney's proposed 7 percent tax on goods and services, passed Tuesday by the House of Commons, is widely unpopular.

Bush and Mulroney wore matching royal blue baseball jackets — Mulroney's emblazoned with the Blue Jays' logo and Bush's with the name of the Texas team partly owned by his son, George W.

Late rally falls short in M-Angel lidlifter

Staff Report

SAN ANTONIO — Not even a six-run rally in the top of the ninth inning could help the Midland Angels in a 10-7 loss to the San Antonio Missions in the Texas League opener for both teams here Tuesday.

The Missions tattooed four Angel pitchers for 16 hits, but the Haloes got a measure of revenge by combining extra-base slugging with sloppy infield play by San Antonio for their late-inning burst.

Mark Howie, a .331 slugger for Midladn last season, led the ninth-inning burst with a two-run homer.

The teams played before 4,494 fans — almost 1,000 over capacity — at V.J. Keefe Stadium. It was the largest home crowd for the Missions in five years.

Owens speaks out on Chaps' problems

While not intending to beat a dead horse here, Tim Owens' recent comments concerning last season's troubles in the Midland College basketball program are indeed notable.

Patterson

Owens, the picture of stability and reliability in MC basketball for two years and one of the most dependable figures on the team, is clearly bothered about the suspensions and various incidents that occurred this past season.

Owens, not one to seek out attention, last week spoke openly about the player problems. He has a theory that may explain why more players than not had attitude difficulties which led to several instances of, oh, let's just say questionable behavior and leave it at that.

"There wasn't a big reason for it (the problems)," Owens said. "At home, players can do a lot of things and get away with it, but when you're away from home, you've got to adjust, and I think it was kind of a hard adjustment for some of the players."

Owens, expected to attend the University of San Francisco next season, said the 1989-90 season brought a lot of disappointments.

"I think the year was a disappointment for everybody that we didn't do that well," he said. "But I had thought coming back from the summer that we were going to do really well because of who we had coming back and who we had coming in (new)."

The Chaps finished the season with an 18-13 season, 8-8 and in fifth place in Western Junior College Athletic Conference play.

The problems became apparent during the first game of the season when eight members of the team were benched after missing practice.

From that point it became impossible to keep track of the long list of suspensions and certainly there is not adequate space to recount them; needless to say, the situation failed to improve.

Sophomores Randy Williams and Darryl King received suspensions, then King quit. Freshmen Ron Johnson, Eugene Witherspoon, Gerald Woods and Shaun Edwards all were booted.

Owens said he feels a lot of the media attention the team received was undeserved, but added he didn't endorse what his teammates did.

"I got kind of offended by some of the things that were happening."

"Last year we didn't have any problem at all. Last year the eight people we had coming back ... we never had any problems. None at all. Everything was peaches and cream."

Owens attributed this season's off-court problems to "a change of personnel that came in here," but foresees a brighter future and a return of lost integrity for the Chaps basketball program.

"I think they're going to get a bunch of good guys with good attitudes," he said. "Plus, from what they're telling me, they'll be doing a lot of working, getting back to what Midland College is supposed to be."

St. Louis drops first playoff game, 4-2, to Toronto

Associated Press

Gary Leeman, a 51-goal scorer during the regular season, scored his first goal of the playoffs Tuesday night as the Toronto Maple Leafs beat the St. Louis Blues 4-2 to remain alive in their Norris Division semifinal.

The best-of-seven series moves back to St. Louis for Game 5 on Thursday. The Blues lead 3-1 and will be looking to qualify for the division final for a third consecutive season. A sixth game, if necessary, would be Saturday in Toronto.

Scott Pearson, Dave Hannan and Ed Olczyk also scored for Toronto. Rod Brind'Amour had both goals for the Blues. The second, a power-play tip-in of a pass from Adam Oates with 6:41 remaining, cut the deficit to 3-2.

But Toronto hung on to win its first playoff game at Maple Leaf Gardens since April 27, 1987, ending a string of six straight home losses. Olczyk sealed the victory by scoring into an empty net with 22 seconds remaining.

Faced with elimination, the Leafs put on one of their best checking exhibitions of the season, allowing just 22 shots on goalie Jeff Reese. The Blues averaged 37 shots in the first three games of the series.

North Stars 4, Blackhawks 0

Jon Casey made 29 saves for his first playoff shutout and Don Barber scored twice in the first period as the Minnesota North Stars beat the Chicago Blackhawks to even their Norris Division semifinal series.

NHL Playoffs

Game 5 in the best-of-7 series is Thursday night in Chicago, with Game 6 at the Met Center on Saturday night.

Barber, who hadn't scored in eight games, benefitted from a line shakeup by Coach Pierre Page. Skating on the No. 1 unit with Dave Gagner and Brian Bellows, Barber got his first two playoff goals this year and had an assist on Gagner's third-period goal.

For the second time in the series, Chicago coach Mike Keenan gave Millen an early hook in favor of Ed Belfour. But the switch didn't produce the results of Game 2, in which the Hawks fell behind 3-0 but rallied for a 5-3 victory.

The main reason was Casey, who had three regular-season shutouts and tied for the NHL lead with 31 wins. Casey, who has allowed just eight goals in the series, recorded Minnesota's first Stanley Cup shutout since Gilles Meloche in 1985. Chicago was blanked in the playoffs for just the second time since 1980.

Although Casey faced only four first-period shots, two were breakaways by Denis Savard and Steve Thomas. He then stopped all 12 second-period shots and 13 more in the third period. Minnesota also killed off all six of Chicago's power plays.

The North Stars kept pressuring Belfour, with Basil McRae getting his first goal of the playoffs in the second period and Gagner adding his first in the third.

Staff Report

Bring together the top three finishers among junior college women's tennis teams, add two more up-and-coming university teams and you have the makings of a top-notch tournament. That's what Midland College has arranged for this week on the MC courts, starting Thursday.

Tyler, Odessa, and Midland finished one-two-three in the 1989 NJCAA tournament. The MC women currently are ranked first in the nation by the Volvo ITCA and are undefeated in team matches for the season. Joining these three are teams from UT-El Paso and UT-San Antonio, both Division I programs which are trying to build strong women's tennis teams.

"Tennis enthusiasts just won't find much higher caliber play than this," said MC coach Joe Williams.

Midland opens action at 2 p.m. Thursday against UT-El Paso. On Friday at 8:30 a.m. Odessa plays UT-San Antonio and Tyler plays UT-El Paso. At 2 p.m. Friday, it's Midland against UTSA and Odessa versus Tyler. Saturday at 8:30 a.m. Tyler plays UTSA. At 2 p.m. Saturday, Midland plays Tyler and UTSA plays UTEP. Odessa and UTEP will play at 1 p.m. Sunday on the Odessa College courts.

All the matches will include six singles and three doubles events.

Apart from Jerod White's straight-set loss at No. 5 singles, the Chaps lost only one set to a thoroughly overmatched NMMI team.

MC was playing without Amine Kadiri and Bernt Gade, but still boosted its mark to 9-2 going into a dual match at Odessa College next Tuesday.

The Chap women host the Midland College Invitational beginning Thursday.

Jays get even with Texas

World leaders throw pitches at international game

President Bush and Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney threw out the ceremonial first balls, then Dave Stieb and three Toronto relievers took over. They pitched a five-hitter as the Blue Jays beat the Texas Rangers 2-1 Tuesday night.

A crowd of 49,673, the 41st straight sellout at the SkyDome, saw the Blue Jays win for the 11th time in 14 home openers. The same two teams started the season Monday night in Texas in a game rescheduled because of the lockout.

Stieb (1-0) allowed just two singles in six innings and did not permit a runner past first base. He struck out four and walked two.

Relievers Tom Henke and Duane Ward followed Stieb. David Wells gave up Ruben Sierra's home run on the first pitch in the ninth inning, but finished for a save.

Charlie Hough (0-1) struggled with his control, walking six in five innings. He allowed two runs on four hits and struck out five.

The Blue Jays finally got their bats on Hough's knuckleball in the fifth, getting three hits and two runs. Junior Felix bounced a ground-rule double over the right-field fence and Tony Fernandez followed with a fly ball to left field that Pete Incaviglia misjudged and went for a triple.

Mookie Wilson singled home Fernandez and the Blue Jays went on to load the bases with two outs before rookie John Olerud lined out hard to second base to end the inning.

Stieb gave up only one hit and three base runners through the first five innings. Harold Baines lined a two-out single in the while Incaviglia and Steve Buechele worked Stieb for two-out walks.

Mulroney was greeted by a resounding chorus of boos because of the unpopular goods and services tax that is about to be implemented by the Canadian government.

Red Sox 4, Tigers 2

Tony Pena had three hits and two RBIs, and Wade Boggs was walked intentionally a record-tying three times as the Boston Red Sox beat the Detroit Tigers for the 10th straight time.

Boggs' three intentional walks tied a major league record for a nine-inning game, shared by many. Roger Maris and Garry Templeton share the record of four in extra innings.

White Sox 5, Brewers 3

Lance Johnson's bases-loaded single in a three-run sixth helped the Chicago White Sox to a win over Milwaukee, continuing their mastery of the Brewers.

The White Sox beat Milwaukee in Monday's season opener and were 10-2 against the Brewers last season.

Indians, Yankees postponed

Monday night's game between the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees, the season-opener for both teams, was postponed because of rain.

Astros lose second straight to Reds

Associated Press

Ron Oester's eighth-inning single off reliever Charley Kerfeld, who surrendered the winning hit for the second straight game, led the Cincinnati Reds a 3-2 victory over Houston Astros.

Loser Juan Agosto walked Todd Benzinger to start the inning and was sacrificed to second by Paul O'Neill. Kerfeld relieved and walked pinch-hitter Luis Quinones on four pitches before Oester singled to shallow right.

The Reds added a run in the ninth with a throwing error on Kerfeld and a passed ball by catcher Craig Biggio allowing former Astro Billy Hatcher, who had singled, to eventually score.

Rookie reliever Tim Layana pitched two innings for his first major-league victory.

Randy Myers, the winning pitcher when Kerfeld allowed a bases-loaded triple to Barry Larkin in the 11th inning as the Reds won the season opener 8-4 Monday night, got the last three outs for the save. It was his first as a Red. He came over in an off-season trade that sent former Cincinnati relief ace John Franco to the New York Mets.

The Reds took a 1-0 lead when Eric Davis doubled to start the fourth against Jim Deshaies, took third on a grounder by Benzinger and scored on a single by O'Neill.

The Astros tied it in their half of the inning when Glenn Davis doubled with two out and scored on a single by Franklin Stubbs.

Houston loaded the bases off Jose Rijo in the fifth, but Bill Doran flied out to end the inning.

The Astros missed another scoring chance when rookie Dave Rohde led off the seventh with his first major-league hit, an opposite-field double to left. But Layana retired the next three batters.

Myers came on after Rob Dibble allowed a single and third baseman Chris Sabo erred. Pinch-hitter Alex Trevino produced the final Houston run with a sacrifice fly off Myers.

Cubs 2, Phillies 1

Marvell Wynne's pinch single with two out in the eighth inning gave the Chicago Cubs a season-opening 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies on a cold, windy Tuesday.

Ryne Sandberg opened the eighth with a single and went to second on a wild pitch. Lloyd McClendon struck out and Mark Grace was given an intentional walk. Luis Salazar then singled to center, but Sandberg was thrown out at the plate by center fielder Sil Campusano as Grace took third.

Cardinals 4, Expos 2

Bryn Smith, who left Montreal last fall through free agency, beat his former teammates by driving in the winning run and pitching five innings as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Expos.

Collectors urged to use caution

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The FBI advised collectors to be careful when buying old baseball uniforms as agents continued to investigate the theft of memorabilia from one of the all-time greats of the former Negro Leagues.

Some of the stolen items — which include photographs, baseball equipment and uniforms — were recovered when Robert D. Retort, 38, and Ed Grybowski, 65, were arrested Friday.

Average salary jumps by over $81,000, survey says

Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — The average salary in the major leagues on opening day soared 16.4 percent to a record $578,930, the biggest offseason increase ever, according to an Associated Press survey.

This year's increase of $81,676 was more than $23,000 higher than the old record of $58,525, set just a year ago.

Salaries jumped 19.3 percent, but only $47,697, in 1983.

The Kansas City Royals, who signed free agent pitchers Mark Davis and Storm Davis last winter, have the largest payroll in baseball at $22,178,744, an average of $821,435.

The New York Mets have the second-highest average at $761,941, even though they cut high-priced Cary Carter and Keith Hernandez from their roster in the offseason.

The Boston Red Sox, who added free agents Tony Pena and Jeff Reardon, are third with a $738,272 average. The New York Yankees are fourth at $728,800 and that doesn't even include the $19.3 million, five-year extension they signed Monday with first baseman Don Mattingly.

The California Angels, who added free agent pitcher Mark Langston, were fifth at $723,190.

At the opposite end, the smallest payroll belongs to the Baltimore Orioles at $8,961,584, an average of $298,719 per person.

Ninety players were at the minimum salary of $100,000, including 11 of the 27 White Sox.

Salary figures were obtained by the AP from player and management sources and include prorated shares of signing bonuses. The figures include the 702 players on opening-day rosters and the 43 players on the disabled list.

The average salary at the end of the 1989 season was $497,254, according to a study by the Major League Baseball Players Association, but that amount includes earned incentive bonuses.

The average salary this year would have been even higher except that many players negotiated multiyear contracts to lower their 1990 salaries as protection against management's lockout. Still, 152 players on opening day rosters will make $1 million or more, including 27 at $2 million or more. Milwaukee's Robin Yount, the highest-paid player in 1990 at $3.2 million, is the first player to break the $3 million mark for a single season.

Also, opening day rosters were expanded from 24 to 27 because of the lockout and that added 78 players. If the three lowest-paid players on each team were removed from the rosters, the average salary would increase to $634,741.

The names of the extra players have not been disclosed by the teams and the players' association.

Detroit bar owner to face no further charges

Associated Press

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. — No additional charges will be filed against the Detroit bar owner charged with driving while intoxicated in the Christmas evening crash that killed former baseball manager Billy Martin, a prosecutor said Tuesday.

Broome County District Attorney Gerald Mollen said he has decided against presenting evidence to a grand jury in the case of William Reedy, who was driving Martin's pickup truck when it slid into a culvert at the end of Martin's driveway.

"At this point, we are not planning to present the case to a grand jury. It's being handled in the local court as a DWI," said Mollen.

Reedy, 53, a long-time friend of the five-time New York Yankees manager who owns Reedy's Bar near Tiger Stadium in Detroit, is scheduled for another appearance in Fenton Town Court in May.

He has been free on his own recognizance since pleading innocent to the DWI charge.

Reedy returned to Detroit and is continuing to recover from a broken hip suffered in the accident, said his attorney, Jon Blechman.

A conviction of driving while intoxicated in New York calls for a mandatory fine of between $350 and $500, revocation of the driver's license for at least six months and a possible jail sentence of up to one year, according to George Filieau, a spokesman for the state Department of Motor Vehicles in Albany.

McHale leads Celtics; Rockets stay in the hunt

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Kevin McHale had 24 points and 13 rebounds to led a balanced Boston attack and the Celtics continued their run at first place in the NBA's Atlantic Division by posting their fourth straight victory, a 112-96 decision over the New Jersey Nets on Tuesday night.

Reggie Lewis added 21 points, Larry Bird had 19 and Robert Parish 18 points and 10 rebounds as the Celtics took the lead for good in the first quarter and won for the eighth time in 11 games.

NBA

Coupled with Philadelphia's loss to Atlanta, the victory lifted the Celtics within one game of the division-leading 76ers.

New Jersey led twice, the last time when Chris Morris hit a 3-pointer for a 12-11 edge. However, Bird hit an off-balance jumper to ignite a 10-point run and Boston was ahead to stay.

Rockets 115, Hornets 112

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Akeem Olajuwon scored 27 points and pulled down 19 rebounds as Houston curtailed a late comeback by Charlotte to stay in the thick of the fight for a playoff berth.

PHILADELPHIA — Dominique Wilkins scored 29 points and Moses Malone added 23 as Atlanta defeated Philadelphia to keep alive the Hawks' playoff chances and trimming the 76ers' Atlantic Division lead over Boston to one game.

Atlanta, which snapped a three-game losing streak, trails Cleveland by one-half game in the battle for the eighth and last Eastern Conference playoff berth.

The Hawks led 107-94 on a jumper by Malone with 7:21 to play but Philadelphia rallied to 113-108 on a 3-point shot by Hersey Hawkins with 3:17 left. Doc Rivers then scored four straight points to ensure Atlanta's victory.

Pistons 108, Knicks 98

NEW YORK — Isiah Thomas scored 21 points and Mark Aguirre 20 Tuesday night and Detroit outscored New York 30-17 in the first 10 minutes of the third quarter.

The Pistons led only 51-49 at halftime but they made 12 of their first 17 shots in the first 10 minutes of the third period and opened an 81-66 lead.

New York got no closer than six points the rest of the way as Detroit dominated the backboards, outrebounding the Knicks 42-23 through three quarters and 60-40 for the game, led by Dennis Rodman with 13.

Blazers 106, Timberwolves 94

MINNEAPOLIS — Clyde Drexler scored 26 points and Jerome Kersey added 22 as Portland beat Minnesota to win its 54th game of the season, second most in the franchise's history.

Pooh Richardson led Minnesota with 21 points.

Portland won for the eighth time in its last 11 road games and has 21 road victories, the most since the Trail Blazers went 22-19 in 1977-78.

Bucks 130, Magic 127

ORLANDO, Fla. — Ricky Pierce sank four free throws in the final 25 seconds and Milwaukee outscored Orlando 9-2 during the last two minutes.

Pierce, the NBA's top-rated sixth man, scored 31 points and Brad Lohaus and Jay Humphries added 23 and 21, respectively, as the Bucks won their fourth straight game.

Pacers 107, Bullets 105

INDIANAPOLIS — Detlef Schrempf hit a 15-footer to give Indiana the lead for good with 23.4 seconds left and Chuck Person added two clinching free throws with 5.6 seconds remaining to lift the Pacers to their third straight victory.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11, 1990

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: You would be wise to let others set the pace in the months just ahead. Defer to your mate when it comes to choosing a vacation site. Your productivity and income will rise if you keep your temper in check. In September, be careful not to rush into a deal shrouded in mystery. A full investigation will yield valuable information. Honesty is the best policy when it comes to restoring family ties in December. Your friends show a new generosity. Follow up stock market tips in early 1991.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: fashion designer Oleg Cassini, actor Joel Grey, Ethel Kennedy, actress Louise Lasser.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your income gets a giant boost, thanks to overseas investments. Popularity is a big factor in your business success. Community service proves fulfilling. Get your friends and neighbors involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Concentrate on getting organized and your work will go better. Friends are willing to help you solve a financial problem. A more realistic attitude toward romance will relieve domestic tension.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Keep your personal relationships on an even keel. A temporary disappointment will help you find new ways to meet emergencies. You gain self-confidence by solving your own problems. Romance is lively.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Write influential people who could be helpful in the near future. A long-term romance is working out better than you thought possible. A loved one wants to share an important secret. Listen.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Steer a conservative course in business negotiations or your private finances. Missed meetings will cause tension but bring basic differences out in the open. Postpone making major financial decisions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take joy in giving an excellent performance at work. An exciting romance or friendship is worth all the tension it creates. Mix socially with higher-ups and do a little self-promotion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Play the observer today; let others carry the ball while you make plans. You play the good Samaritan and feel a quiet glow. Show restraint at the bar and the dinner table.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Focus on updating your wardrobe and polishing your image. You can combine business with pleasure on a work trip. Plan to spend time with friends in the evening. Romance is uncertain.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Avoid sounding rebellious or hasty. Make peace overtures to your co-workers and friends. When your head and heart work in tandem, family support will be yours. Remain cool if others make mistakes.

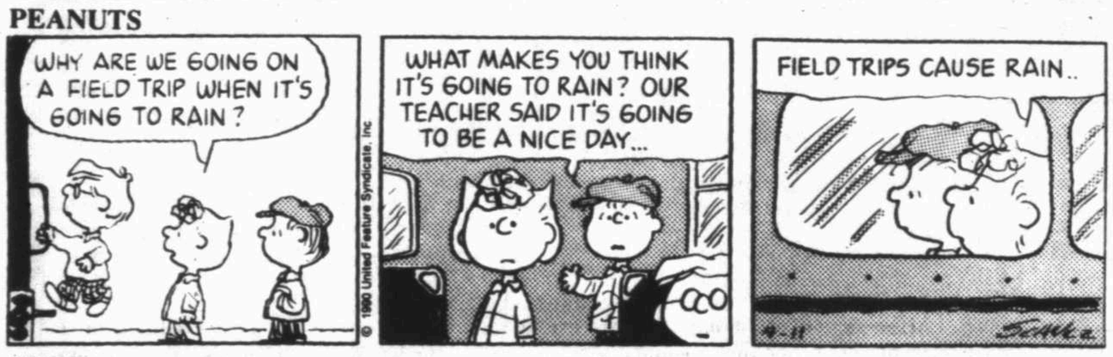

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Put work obligations first today but try not to upset a loved one. You should be in for a great evening. The news from abroad looks promising for your business or career.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your personal manner is very important in business today. Be sure to project confidence and warmth. Take the time to put checks in the mail. Evaluate your financial assets and obligations.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Real estate ventures and family matters are your top priorities today. Financial goals can be discussed this evening. You may be tempted to go off your diet. Hang tough! Show real will power.

TODAY'S CHILDREN thrive on competition. They are quick to respond to a challenge and love variety. Caring parents will introduce these youngsters to exciting new experiences but also give them plenty of time to read and meditate. Studying comes easily to these Aries but they tend to flit from one project to another.

It looked as if 1990 was going to be a banner year for Trump Coup Tommy. There seemed to be a higher percentage of hands than usual where trumps broke badly—a circumstance that turned Tommy from a mediocre player into a bridge genius.

This hand from a team match at the club was typical. Although North's preference did not promise a secure fit, Tommy blasted straight into six hearts. At the other table, South bailed out at five hearts, but even that proved too high. After a spade lead, declarer won and took what he thought was a safe line—a low diamond to the queen. South's plan was to ruff one diamond and hold his losers to one in each red suit. But when the jack of trumps was later led from dummy, declarer found that there were two trump losers.

Tommy, too, received a spade lead. He cashed his remaining spade honor, crossed to the ace of clubs and discarded a diamond on the queen of spades. Next came the queen of diamonds from the table and, when East followed low smoothly, Tommy took the ace and ruffed a diamond. Another diamond ruff was sandwiched between two club ruffs, reducing West to nothing but trumps while declarer held A Q 7 of hearts and J of diamonds.

When Tommy led the diamond, West was forced to ruff low. Dummy overruffed and a club was led. East defended as well as possible by ruffing with his singleton 9, declarer overruffing with the queen, losing to the king. But now West was forced to lead away from his trump 10 6 into Tommy's A 7 tenace—making six-odd.

Whittaker hurts leg, hopes to rejoin Everest expedition

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Jim Whittaker, the first American to conquer Mount Everest who was injured last week during another climb, said Tuesday he hoped to rejoin his expedition for its planned summit assault on Earth Day.

Whittaker was admitted to the Teaching Hospital in Katmandu on Saturday for treatment of a blood clot in his calf. He said he hit his leg against a rock Friday ad that the 275-mile trip down was painful.

The pain has subsided and "doctors say I can go back in 10 days," said Whittaker, 61, of Port Townsend, Wash.

"While coming down, every time the car hit rough ground, the calf went ghar ghar," Whittaker said with a grimace.

Whittaker was leading a 30-member expedition from the United States, the Soviet Union and China which plans to put one man from each country on top of Mount Everest on April 22, the 20th anniversary of Earth Day.

"It is the first time the Soviets and the Chinese are climbing together. We brought them together," said Whittaker.

CHICAGO (AP) — Twentieth Century Fox has lifted its ban against critics Roger Ebert and Gene Siskel, who gave harsh reviews of a recent Fox film.

The studio said three weeks ago that Ebert and Siskel would be barred indefinitely from preview screenings after both critics said on a television talk show that the comedy "Nuns on the Run" wasn't funny.

But Siskel called Fox shortly before a Monday screening of another Fox film and asked if he was still unwelcome.

It was the first Fox screening here since "Nuns on the Run."

The ban was over, a company spokesman said, and Siskel went to the show. Ebert didn't know about the lifting of the ban and was out of town.

"I'm happy the ban is lifted," Ebert said. "I feel vindicated. In the future I will continue to review Fox films in the same even-handed way I have in the past.

"The only thing I'm disappointed about is that I had predicted the ban would last only one film and Roger had predicted it would last none," Siskel said. "Roger was right and he's going to be hard to deal with when he gets home."

During her pregnancy, Harris's character, Hope, was also pregnant: When she returns to the show, she will have two children, said her manager, Molly Madden.

"Mel worked right up to practically the last point and she should be back soon," Madden said.

Harris has one son from a previous marriage. She and her husband of two years live in Sherman Oaks.

PENDLETON, S.C. (AP) — A pool cue stick valued at $1,000 that was used by actors Tom Cruise and Paul Newman in the movie "The Color of Money" has been stolen, authorities said.

Newman

The owner is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest or conviction of those involved in Saturday night's theft of the cue from The Parlor billards supply store.

"It was originally auctioned with the set of 12 that the actors used in the movie," owner Robert Torbert said Monday. "I let my emotions get away with me when I bought this one. Both Tom Cruise and Paul Newman stroked with the cue."

A cue valued at $1,200 and twelve other less valuable cues also were stolen.

Thieves might have found out about the sticks by posing as customers, said police Officer Steve Evans.

NEW YORK (AP) — Model Kim Alexis says she's unretouched by human hands, and she intends to stay that way.

The 29-year-old blonde says in the May issue of Redbook magazine that she's adamantly opposed to plastic surgery, although many of her modeling cohorts have undergone body-enhancing surgery.

"I'm probably the only model in New York who hasn't had breast implants," Alexis said, adding that the idea of a facelift makes her particularly queasy.

"Yuck! The idea of someone chiseling into my face — I just don't believe in it," she said. "I don't think I'll ever want a facelift. ... Besides, wrinkles do add character."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kara Kennedy, daughter of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., plans to marry Michael Allen in the fall, according to a statement issued by her family Tuesday.

Ms. Kennedy, a 1983 graduate of Tufts University, is a producer for a television program in Boston. Allen was graduated from the Rhode Island school of Design in 1981 and is an architect in Washington.

House's arrest dashes hopes of track triumph

Associated Press

INGRAM, Texas — An arrest recently on charges of "minor in possession of alcohol" has ended the hopes of Troy House of duplicating his 1989 track and field state championships in the 110-meter and 300-meter hurdles.

House became the all-time leading scorer in Texas high school basketball history this year while leading Ingram Tom Moore to the Class 2A state championship with a March 10 victory over Troup, 73-72.

He also was the Class 1A state champion in both hurdles events in 1989, competing for another school.

As soon as the state basketball tournament ended, House turned his attention to the track and field season already under way.

But on a Friday night, 13 days after Ingram won the state basketball championship, House was cited on the minor-in-possession charge in Leakey — about 60 miles southwest of Ingram. House lived in Leakey before enrolling in the Ingram schools a year ago.

Six days later, on March 29, a faculty disciplinary committee imposed a 30-day suspension, prohibiting the athlete from representing the school in any events through April 29.

House's parents appealed his suspension, but State District Judge Charles Sherrill refused last week to intervene, saying he had no jurisdiction because the Ingram school board had itself taken no action on the matter.

Monday night, the school board met in a special meeting and voted unanimously to back Superintendent Carol Moffett in her suspension of House.

Board president Fred Cannon praised House as "an excellent student and an outstanding athlete" but said it was important that the school's code of conduct be administered impartially.

Ms. Moffett told the board that Ingram's code of conduct was adopted three years ago in response to several deaths of Ingram students in drinking-related accidents.

George C. Burns, attorney for House's parents, said the chances of House getting a scholarship would be affected by the suspension.

Despite setting the state all-time scoring record in basketball, Burns said, House has yet to be offered a scholarship.

Although he will be unable to qualify for the hurdles or long jump events, Ms. Moffett said House's suspension will end in time for him to be included on Ingram's relay teams if they qualify for regional or state events.

House averaged 40 points a game in basketball in the 1989-90 season and finished with 4,259 career points, surpassing previous record-holder Calvin Gerke of Snook, who scored 3,823 points from 1962 to 1966.

REBS: Team connects for 10 hits for victory

(From 1D)

Brice scored when the Bronchos botched an attempt to trap Patton between first and second on a double steal, and Patton subsequently scored on another fielding error.

Lee added one run in the fourth, and two in the fifth, sixth and seventh.

While the Rebels are not mathematically out of the playoff race, even the most diehard Rebel fan would have to admit that the odds are against Lee making a strong enough bid for a playoff berth in Johnson's last season as the only head baseball coach Lee has ever had.

Not only do the Rebels have to win their remaining four district games, but two of the three co-leaders — Midland High, Odessa Permian and Abilene Cooper — have to lose at least two for Lee to have a shot.

The Rebels can build momentum with consecutive wins over district weak sisters San Angelo on Thursday and (at) Abilene High next Tuesday, but then must travel to Permian before hosting Cooper in the regular season finale.

Galvan.

In an attempt to steal second, Galvan was caught in a rundown, which allowed Melzer to head for the plate from third. Rather than going for the out with Galvan, Panther second baseman Adrian Villa decided to throw to the plate, but overthrew Wyles and allowed Melzer to score and Galvan to reach second safely. The side was finally retired when Will Sowders flied out to right field.

MHS' other run came in the sixth, when Mowles received a base on balls, moved to second on another passed ball, then scored on a Salazar single to right.

Mojo was not without its opportunities, however. In the top of the sixth, after Bulldog Lee Reynaud was thrown out at the plate in the fifth, Permian appeared to be emotionally charged with the top of the order up. Arvey Villa took a walk to reach first, then stole second base. But MHS short stop Jason Stone was in the base path, forcing Villa to slide around him and past the bag, where Stone tagged him out to kill the rally.

"I was standing in the path because I knew that they (Permian runners) always go past the bag in that situation. He came off and I tagged him," Stone said.

"There were some real close plays that could have gone either way," said Whalen, referring to Reynaud's out, Mowles score — which was a close call at the plate — and the play at second.

WyCal pipeline could impact Basin

■ A natural gas pipeline being built from Wyoming to California is ready to begin construction and could impact Permian Basin natural gas sales to California when complete.

By John Paul Pitts
Business & Oil Editor

After months of delays for political, legal and environmental negotiations, the 30-inch WyCal Pipeline from Southern Wyoming to Southern California appears to be its way, and could impact Permian Basin gas sales to the West Coast says Michael R. Carosio, manager of market development for Colorado Interstate Gas Co. the Costal Corp. subsidary that will construct and operate the pipeline.

Speaking to the Naturala Gas Society of the Permian Basin Tuesday, Carosio said the purchase right-of-way for the 672 mile-long pipeline, which is being built at a cost of $576.5 million, is now underway and construction should start late in 1990 with completion set for late 1991.

"The project is likely to displace some natural gas from the Permian Basin," said Carosio, who welcomed Permian Basin operators with Rocky Mountain reserves to sell to the pipeline.

Carosio noted that the WyCal pipeline was not likely to displace any current gas sales to California, but added that gas on gas competition might cause the Permian Basin to lose future incremental shares of market growth.

He said, however, that might become the impetus to send more Permian Basin natural gas to the East Coast where prices are higher. Carosio said the interconnects to send Permian Basin gas east were already in place.

He said the pipeline would carry about 600 million cubic feet daily, with 100 million being dropped off at Las Vegas, Nevada and the remainder being transported on to SoCal Gas and PG&E delivery points in California. Transportation rates to California are expected to amount to around 50 cents per Mcf.

Carosio said he was not too concerned about deliverabilty as long as the rates remained around 600 million cubic feet daily, but if they got much more than 700 million there would be cause for concern. "There is an awful lot of shut-in natural gas out there, but not that much. It will be necessary to find more reserves to supply the WyCal line."

He noted that SoCal had an option to pickup an additional 75 million cubic feet daily, but that the pipeline would build only for firm committment and not to handle interruptable capacity.

The marketing representative noted WyCal probably offered the best option to California because the Kern River project could handle present capacity, but not future capacity. He noted that even WyCal would not need all its capacity until 1998. He said the Altamont project to bring natural gas from Canada to California would probably not be built.

Oil prices slide

The May contract for crude oil settled at an eight-month low of $17.68 a barrel, down 76 cents, on the New York Mercantile Exchange, the largest energy market.

Citing the recent sharp drop in oil prices, the official press agency of Saudi Arabia predicted "evil consequences" if members of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries continued to exceed their self-imposed production quotas.

Meanwhile, the spot contract for unleaded gasoline plunged further, losing 2.46 cents a gallon, to 58.43 cents.

"We were all surprised by the selling momentum," said Joel Faber, who heads an oil trading company bearing his name. "Most of us expected at least a modest technical rally after the long decline in crude prices."

Dollar slips lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The dollar declined sharply Tuesday against most major currencies in thin, see-saw trading as concerns about continued central-bank intervention dampened market sentiment.

Gold prices also fell. On the Commodity Exchange in New York, gold bullion for current delivery settled at $375 a troy ounce. Traders were reluctant to buy dollars for fear major central banks would intervene to drive the dollar down again.

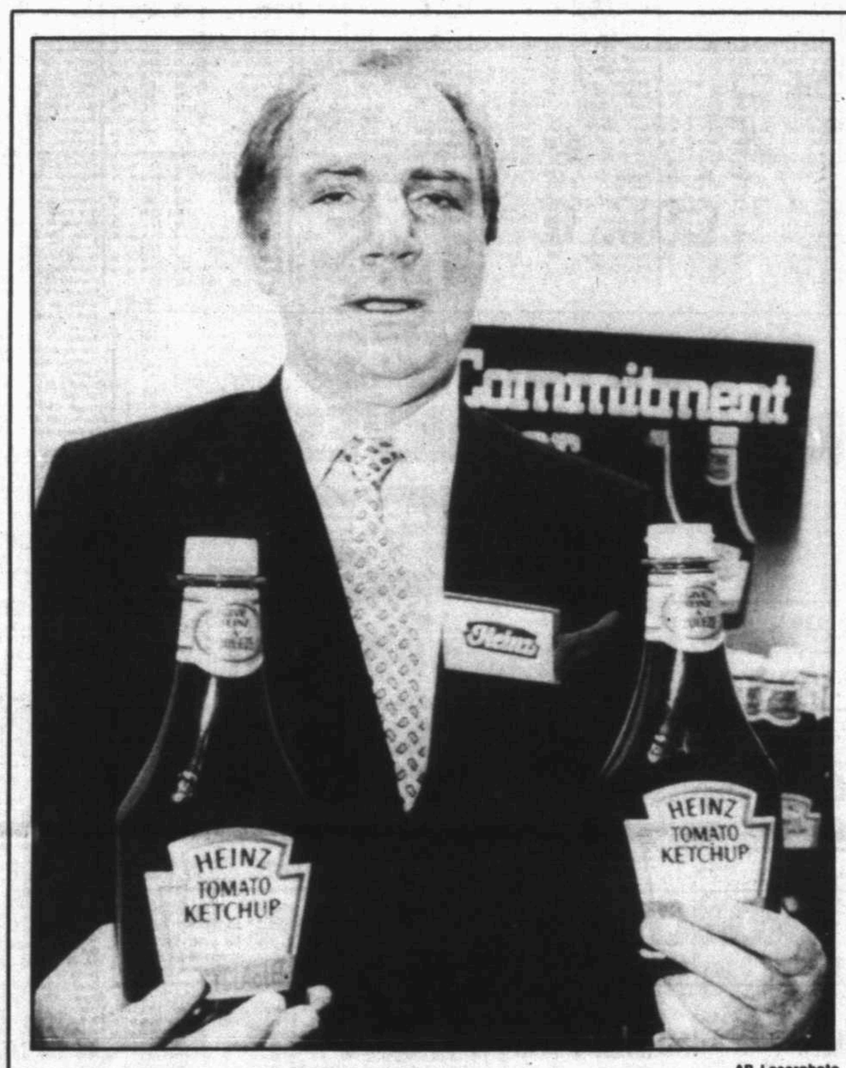

Dollar rates in New York: 1.6750 West German marks; 1.4830 French francs; 5.6285 French francs; 1,230.16 Italian lire; and 1.16925 Canadian dollars.

'Minimum wage' seminar planned

The Midland Job Service Employment Committee (J.S.E.C.) in conjunction with The Texas Employment Commission (TEC) presents "The New Federal Minimum Wage Law," a half day seminar to be held 7:30 a.m. today, April 11, at the Holiday Inn Country Villa. James Caster, TEC chairman will be in Midland to discuss the Federal Unemployment Tax issue.

Heinz using recyclable plastic in ketchup bottles

■ H.J.Heinz Co., seeking to be more environmentally friendly, is introducing plastic ketchup bottles that will be easier to recycle, but won't be available until next April.

By John Holusha
N.Y. Times News Service

Responding to consumer pressure for more environmentally friendly packaging, H.J. Heinz Co. said Monday that it would replace its plastic ketchup bottle with another type of plastic that it said was much more likely to be recycled.

The existing squeezable bottle has been criticized by environmental groups because it is made of six layers of plastics and adhesives, which make it impossible to recycle economically.

Although the new bottle contains five layers, Heinz officials said it could be recycled by the same process now used for large soda bottles.

Veteran housing programs boost Midland economy

■ Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro told Midland Realtors that his office's housing programs for veterans is a source of economic activity for the community, and source of business for the Realtors.

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

Midland has a source of economic aid that perhaps few realize exist.

That source is the state's veteran loan programs, says Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, who was in town Tuesday to speak to the Midland Board of Realtors general meeting at Green Tree Country Club.

Mauro

Mauro pointed out that in the Midland area, the General Land Office has 463 active land loans worth $6.5 million and 398 housing assistance loans valued at $8 million — a total of $14.5 billion — through its Veterans Housing Assistance Programs, which he created in 1983.

"For every dollar you loan to a veteran, you create $7 in economic activity," he told the Realtors, adding that during a 19-month study, it was found that the veterans housing programs created 21,000 jobs and added $1 billion to the gross state product.

The local and state economies could get even more of a boost from veteran housing programs, Mauro said, because he told the gathering that the Veterans Land Board wants to assist more veterans and make more loans.

He observed that, with 1.8 million veterans in Texas — 13,000 in Midland County, there is a large market for Realtors to service, and unveiled a new program that would give Realtors a 5 percent commission on each sale.

The program is the new Veterans Land Board initiative called Tex-Trax II, which gives real estate agents exclusive rights to market certain forfeited state land tracts. Tex-Trax II has more than 1,000 tracts in its inventory, including

Huffington selling gas, real estate to Taiwanese

HOUSTON (AP) — Oilman Roy M. Huffington has agreed to sell his Houston real estate and extensive Indonesian natural gas interests to an affiliate of the Chinese Petroleum Corp., Taiwan's national oil and gas company.

Huffington

The deal, announced Monday, is estimated to be worth at least $600 million and perhaps as much as $1 billion or more to the Houston-based Huffington Corp.

The agreement includes the equivalent of 11 city blocks in downtown Houston, 419 acres of undeveloped land adjacent to Houston's Intercontinental Airport and Huffington's Indonesia petroleum interests that formed its financial backbone, officials said.

The Chinese Petroleum Corp., through its 10-year-old Houston-based affiliate Opicoil America Inc., signed a cash stock purchase agreement that includes Roy M. Huffington Inc. (Huffco) and The Abercrombie Co., Huffington's real estate operation, officials said.

While neither Huffington nor Chinese Petroleum officials disclosed details of the deal, analysts have valued Huffco's 16.7 percent interest in the Indonesian joint venture alone as high as $1 billion.

The 72-year-old oilman, who founded Huffington Corp. in 1958, announced in November he planned to sell out and step down because of his age and his desire to sell to a bigger energy firm that would offer career advancement for the company's employees.

Lorne D. Bain, president of Roy M. Huffington Inc., an affiliate of Huffington Corp., said the sale is subject to a definitive stock purchase agreement that he expects to be completed within 45 and 60 days.

New nursery takes root on North Loop 250

By Mella McEwen

McEwen

Two Midland landscape specialists have branched out into the nursery business, opening ENCHANTED GARDENS, a full-line nursery at 3406 N. Loop 250, next to the Company Store.

Principal owner is Jim Gilland, who has operated Gilland Landscapes for six years.

The nursery is being managed by Vic White, who holds a degree in horticulture from Texas Tech and, like Gilland, is a native Midlander. White at one time had his own business caring for landscapes, feeding and pruning trees, etc.

Noting that there are a number of nurserys in Midland, White says the two decided to open Enchanted Gardens because the ideal location was available, on Loop 250 across from Midland Park Mall.

The nursery carries everything from seeds to bedding plants to live oak and pecan trees. White notes that he and Gilland are in the process of planning a greenhouse, which most likely will be built in about a month.

After four months under construction, GOLDEN CORRAL family steakhouse has opened its doors in Midland, on north Midkiff across from Skaggs Alpha Beta.

The 10,000 square-foot restaurant opened last Tuesday and employs approximately 70, many of them part-time employees and all guided by a three-person management team.

Hours are 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. weekdays, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. weekends.

Owner Van Mabee explains that the move was made because she had sold the former location.

Also opened in Courtyard at Midland Park is SKIBELLS, which opened in its new location in the former Hot Springs Spa store on March 31.

The Lubbock-based boutique moved its Midland location from Dellwood Mall to Courtyard.

Returned to Midland Park Mall is FOXMOOR, which had closed its doors earlier this year. The store, in its same location next to Kinney's Shoes, has a new look and new inventory, and the chain has new ownership.

Sarma, the largest independent credit bureau in the Southwest, will provide credit reporting services for Midland, Odessa and the surrounding area.

The Midland office will be headed by Charles Malesky, who comes from San Antonio and is an account executive with the company.

With income tax filing deadline just five days away (April 16, because the 15th falls on a Sunday), the Social Security office reminds all persons receiving Social Security payments to file an "Annual Report of Earnings" at the nearest Social Security office. Failure to file a report could result in reduced benefits.

The Social Security office in Midland is located at 1340 E. 7th in Odessa, phone number 561-5045.

ANALYSIS

Declining issues barely nudged out advancing ones in nationwide trading of New York Stock Exchange-listed stocks, with 723 up, 740 down and 511 unchanged.

Volume on the floor of the Big Board came to 136.02 million shares, up from 114.97 million in Monday's session.

Nationwide, consolidated volume in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 163.85 million shares.

Volume was limited by the Passover holiday, which began Tuesday, and by the upcoming Good Friday holiday this week, traders said.

Jack Baker, head of equity trading for Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc., said there were few factors affecting trading other than the light volume.

"It's really tough to get a handle on it because there's nothing to talk about," he said.

He added that the market was awaiting the outcome of an auction Tuesday of $3.5 billion in 40-year bonds by the government's Resolution Funding Corp., which funds the bailout of troubled savings and loans.

Wall Street had been looking for the bonds to sell at an average yield of 8.85 to 8.86 percent, Flanagan said. In fact, they sold at 8.89 percent, substantially higher, indicating investors offered less for the bonds than expected.

VETERANS: Mauro seeks Realtors' aid

seven in Ector County, three in Midland County and two in Martin County. The program was given a tryout last year and was so successful it was made permanent. He called on local Realtors to help support it.

Mauro, who is hoping to be elected to a third term as Land Commissioner, credited Texas Realtors with the success of the Veterans Housing Assistance Programs.

He touched briefly on another initiative of his that could also boost the Texas economy: his clean air initiative, which would boost natural gas consumption.

"If we're going to clean up our air, we must use more clean-burning natural gas," he stated.

His initiative was born three years ago during the oil price collapse. "I realized I couldn't control the price of oil, but I could have some influence over natural gas," he recalled, adding that the growing environmental crisis presented an opportunity to boost Texas natural gas exports.

While Texas natural gas producers have seen a 2 trillion cubic foot (TCF) increase in consumption, and many magazines and analyses promote the use of natural gas, Mauro said the state needs to market its production aggressively.

"Canada also realizes the opportunities; so do other states and other alternative fuels," he observed.

MCI spends $1.25 billion for Telecom

By Paul Page

WASHINGTON (AP) — MCI Communications Corp., seeking greater inroads into the long-distance market dominated by AT&T, said Monday it would spend $1.25 billion to acquire Telecom USA Inc.

MCI, the nation's second-largest long-distance company, said acquisition of the No. 4 carrier, active primarily in the Midwest and Southeast, would bring an immediate boost in customers and open new areas of technology and service to MCI.

Under terms of the deal, which has been approved by the boards of directors of both companies, MCI would acquire all outstanding shares of Telecom USA's common stock for $42 a share, the two companies said in a joint statement.

Telecom shares jumped $16.25 to $38.12½ a share on the New York Stock Exchange. MCI, traded in the over-the-counter market, dropped $1.12½ to $35.75.

The transaction is subject to approval by Telecom's stockholders. The Federal Communications Commission would also have to grant approval and the Justice Department would review whether the deal would violate antitrust laws.

"It's a strategically important move," said Bert C. Roberts Jr., MCI's president and chief operating officer. "It immediately brings us additional market share of about 1⅛ percent and against AT&T, as dominant a competitor as they are, that efficiency is very important."

Roberts said both MCI and Telecom have played major roles in "advancing technology, developing innovative services, and meeting customer requirements."

MCI revenues increased more than 20 percent in 1989 to $6.5 billion, while Telecom had revenues of $713 million in sales last year. Atlanta-based Telecom was formed in 1988 with the merger of Southernet of Atlanta and Teleconnect of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Industry analysts said the acquisition, continuing MCI's pattern of buying smaller companies to increase its share of the market, was a sign of the increasing competition in the telecommunications industry.

"In this type of merger, we expect to see cost savings, improved quality of service, improvements for customers such as one-stop shopping. So, overall, this should be good news for consumers," said Cathy Clarke, senior analyst for the Boston-based Yankee Group, a consulting and marketing analysis firm.

Charles Nichols, a Boston-based analyst for Prudential-Bache Securities Inc. of New York, said that MCI "is recognizing that because stocks in long-distance telecommunications markets are undervalued, it's cheaper to buy than to build and, they might as well capitalize on that."

Phone Merger At-a-Glance

The nation's second-largest long-distance company, MCI, will buy the fourth-largest carrier, Telecom USA, for $42 per common share, subject to approval by Telecom shareholders, the FCC and the Justice Dept. Telecom USA is active primarily in the Midwest and Southeast; MCI operates nationwide.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

After merger, new firm should have records

By Bill Doyle

Q. I had a broker buy 200 shares of preferred stock in an electric utility at $50 a share. On Feb. 5, I received a bill listing my cost, including commission, at $10,105.95. I paid by check, which has been cashed, and received a letter stating that the brokerage firm had delivered the shares to me.

I never received the shares. So I phoned the utility company and was told the shares are not registered in my name. I wrote the broker. No answer. In the meantime, that brokerage firm sold out to another brokerage firm.

Where can I write to find out about getting the stock — or my money back?

Doyle

A. Start with the brokerage firm that acquired the one through which you bought the stock. Send a letter certified mail, return receipt requested. Explain exactly what happened. Enclose a photocopy of what you call a "bill" — your confirmation statement of the purchase. Hang on to the original. It's your proof that you bought the 200 shares.

As the survivor of a brokerage merger, that remaining firm should have all the records of the firm it acquired. Hopefully, it will straighten things out and deliver to you the certificates for 200 shares.

Because you were informed the certificates had been sent to you, there obviously was a goof — probably by the now out-of-business brokerage. If that firm had followed your instructions, your name would appear on the utility company's record books as the owner of the 200 shares.

If you get no satisfaction, take your story to the New York Stock Exchange 11 Wall Street, New York, NY 10005. The stock you mentioned in your letter is listed on that exchange.

Q. National Association of Securities Dealer arbitration was the course I chose in an effort to recover a $10,000 investment I made with a brokerage firm.

It took 15 month for the arbitration proceedings to be completed. During that time, the brokerage continued in business. Then, just before the award was issued, it closed its doors.

The principals of the brokerage refuse to pay the award and have submitted an unaudited financial report to the Securities and Exchange Commission. The SEC says it is investigating. NASD says it has no means of forcing them to pay. What do you suggest?

A. Unless you are adept at legal matters, you need an attorney experienced in the securities business and debt collection. The lawyer can go after the principals who owned and ran that defunct brokerage in an attempt to recover your money.

Although they are regulators, neither the SEC nor NASD act as collection agencies for aggrieved investors.

Q. You advised a reader, quite properly, that he does not have to keep doing business with a broker with whom he is unhappy. You wrote that the investor can order the broker to send all the securities and cash in the account to the investor. You added that the investor can order the broker to sell all the securities in the account and send a check to the investor. You are correct on both counts.

However, there is another way. The investor can open an account at a different brokerage firm and have everything in his account transferred to the new brokerage. Right?

A. Sure. And making that shift is a simple thing. The investor signs an "automatic account transfer" form at his new brokerage. He or she doesn't even have to talk to the former broker. Everything will be handled by the two brokerage's "back offices," where records are maintained.

KETCHUP: Environmentalists applaud move

(From 1E)

"Overwhelmingly, consumers have indicated their interest in 'environmentally safe' packaging," said Anthony J.F. O'Reilly, Heinz's chairman.

He said the company hoped to improve its 51 percent share of the $600 million-a-year domestic ketchup market by prominently labeling the bottle as recyclable.

Representatives of environmental groups described the Heinz move as a step in the right direction, but cautioned that no collection and processing centers were available to re-use the discarded bottles in most parts of the country.

They also questioned Heinz's plan to advertise recyclability on the label when most bottles will simply be discarded.

"They had a container that was unrecyclable in theory and practice," said John F. Ruston, an economic analyst at the Enviromnental Defense Fund in New York. "Now it is recyclable in theory."

Alan Hershkowitz, a senior staff scientist at the Natural Resources Defense Council, also in New York, said that "less than 1 percent of all plastic in this country is recycled. Millions of these bottles are going to go to landfills and burning facilities."

The new bottles will not be available until about this time next year, Heinz officials said, to allow time for a subsidiary of the Continental Can Corp. to prepare for volume production.

In contrast to paper and metal, which have well-developed recycling systems in place, recycling of plastics on a large scale is just beginning.

One of the few types of plastic that is being recycled is polyethylene terephthalate, or PET, which is used in large soda bottles.

The new Heinz ketchup bottle is 98.5 percent PET. But because the material can be penetrated over time by the oxygen in air, and tomato-based foods, like ketchup, spoil in the presence of oxygen, the bottle also includes two thin oxygen-barrier layers of ethyl vinyl alcohol.

The oxygen barrier is not needed in beverage applications, because the bottles are quickly consumed. But ketchup needs to last up to a year, Heinz said.

The old bottle was made largely of polypropylene, which is not recycled commercially, and the barrier layer was attached by an adhesive, which made separating the plastics all but impossible.

Corby Mathisen, Heinz's manager of plastic packaging, said the lack of an adhesive in the new bottle made it possible to separate the layers of PET and ethyl vinyl alcohol in the same process that recycled soda bottles with PET.

"This is our flagship product, and we hope it is seen as a major contributor to environmental sensitivity," O'Reilly said.

Gorbachev backs off a bit on Lithuania

MOSCOW (AP) — One day after issuing a harsh new warning to Lithuanian separatists, Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev backed off the tough line Tuesday by declaring he does not yet see a need to impose presidential rule.

Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis, responding to the severe tone of Monday's declaration by the Kremlin, sent a telegram to Gorbachev saying he feared that "ultra-rightist imperial forces are compelling you to take a wrong step: to continue the wrongs of the 1940s in the Baltics."

"In the name of peace, justice and concord on earth, do not do this," he wrote.

He was referring to the Soviet occupation and forced annexation of the three Baltic republics — Lithuania, Estonia, and Latvia — in 1940.

Since March 11, when Lithuania declared its independence restored, the Kremlin has repeatedly alternated between threatening and conciliatory tones. On several occasions, threatening military movements were followed by kinder words.

Speaking Tuesday at a Young Communist League congress in Moscow, Gorbachev said presidential rule would be used only as an extreme measure during a civil conflict, the Tass news agency said. He said Soviet leaders are still trying to persuade Lithuanians to rescind their declaration of independence.

Presidential rule could include martial law and dissolving Lithuania's parliament. It was elected in March and is Lithuania's first freely elected parliament in 50 years.

However, in a meeting Tuesday with British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd, Gorbachev said, "The adventurist actions of the current leadership can cost the Lithuanian people themselves, the Soviet Union and world peace dearly.

"We display the maximum political goodwill, although it is increasingly harder to do," Tass quoted the Soviet leader as saying.

In the latest Soviet show of strength, several tanks rolled through Gediminas Square in the center of Vilnius, the Lithuanian capital, overnight Monday, according to Eduardas Potasinskas of Lithuanian television.

At his own news conference Tuesday, Gorbachev spokesman Arkady Maslennikov said the Soviet Union plans no economic blockade among the unspecified "economic and political measures" threatened Monday by Gorbachev's presidential council.

But Maslennikov implied the Soviet Union might start demanding world market prices from Lithuania for the subsidized oil, gas and other raw materials that the small Baltic state needs. He said this would cost Lithuania $6 billion.

He said some Soviet enterprises have talked of refusing to extend existing contracts with Lithuania, and he warned that items in short supply might be sent elsewhere.

"We are not saying, 'Please, stop thinking about independence,'" Maslennikov said after several tougher statements. "But don't do it overnight. Don't tear well-established economic, political and other links, including defense."

He suggested Lithuanian leaders consider a moratorium on all decisions since they declared independence. He also suggested that Lithuania "not insist on state-to-state negotiations" with the Soviet Union.

Lithuania has offered to discuss Gorbachev's claim that its action violates the Soviet Constitution.

Soviet envoy shot to death in Suriname

PARAMARIBO, Suriname (AP) — The Soviet Union's second-ranking diplomat in Suriname was found shot to death in a gutter Tuesday in this South American capital, police said.

No group or individual claimed responsibility for the killing, and the motive was unknown.

The body of Stasis Obukauskas, 41, second secretary and consul in the Soviet Embassy, was found with three bullet wounds in the head, said Inspector Ronald Gayadhar, a police spokesman.

Police said Obukauskas' body was in a gutter along Kennedy Highway, the main road between Paramaribo and Zanderij International Airport.

Obukauskas had been in Suriname for about 2½ years. There was no comment from the Soviet Embassy. A man who answered the telephone there Tuesday afternoon said the embassy was closed.

A preliminary examination indicated Obukauskas was shot at about 1 a.m. Tuesday, police said.

A blue Mazda was found abandoned nearby, police said. Obukauskas usually drove a brown Mercedes.

Gayadhar said the body was found by motorists who noticed the Mazda parked partly on the highway. He said there were no bullet holes or blood stains on the vehicle, which did not have diplomatic plates.

It was the first time a diplomat has been murdered in Suriname.

Bush offers stick, carrot to Gorbachev

TORONTO (AP) — President Bush said Tuesday there's an "awful lot to be done" before next month's superpower summit. He added that he doesn't want to suggest that complete agreement is possible in advance on a new arms control treaty.

Bush, on a brief visit to Canada, also issued a fresh warning to Mikhail Gorbachev to refrain from using force in the breakaway republic of Lithuania. But he coupled his words with praise for the Soviet president's commitment to "peaceful change and the evolution of democracy" in Europe and the Soviet Union.

Bush said the presence of Soviet tanks in Lithuania make it "even more important to have good-faith negotiations" over the fate of the republic.

"I would just appeal to all sides and anyone with any influence to encourage dialogue and discussion," he said.

Bush and Gorbachev are scheduled to meet in the United States beginning May 30.

Bush also said he didn't know enough about the release of three European hostages in Beirut earlier in the day to say whether Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi deserved any of the credit for their release.

"If indeed a person deserves credit for facilitating the release of people held against their will ... I would say fine, give the person credit," he said.

As for Gadhafi, Bush said, "we've got some major differences with Libya that continue to exist, but look, who am I to argue in this case if someone can help free one hostage? ... give that person credit."

Bush spoke first with reporters aboard Air Force One en route from Washington. He and Brian Mulroney, the Canadian prime minister, fielded reporters' questions after their private meeting on the upcoming summit and other topics, and before attending a baseball game between the Toronto Blue Jays and the Texas Rangers in Toronto's domed stadium.

Bush said he was looking forward to throwing out the first ball.

"I'm going to go with a slider this time," he said. "I've had such good luck in the last couple of years. The catcher let me down one time when he couldn't get into the dirt and grab it properly."

For his part, the Canadian leader said he looked forward to negotiations with the United States on an acid rain treaty, with the talks to begin after Congress approves clean air legislation.

Both leaders said they were hoping Gorbachev would avoid the use of force in Lithuania, and Bush renewed his earlier statements that the future of superpower relations could be affected by what the Soviets do in their attempt to deal with the secession crisis at home.

Mongolian Communists seek to keep power

ULAN BATOR, Mongolia (AP) — The Communist Party opened a hastily called congress Tuesday with a call for reform to maintain its 70-year-old grip on power in the face of a growing pro-democracy movement.

"It means a radical transformation of party structure, of its internal relations, its principles of activity and methods of work," General Secretary Gombojavyn Ochirbat told the 926 delegates.

"Sluggish reaction to the new situation will amount to suicide," he said in an hour-long televised speech.

The congress is expected to last three days, during which delegates are charged with meeting the challenge from new opposition groups who have organized massive protests.

The organizations were inspired by the collapse of Communist parties in Eastern Europe and reform in the Soviet Union. Mongolia, which lies between China and the Soviet Union, has long been a satellite of Moscow.

The Mongolian Parliament on March 23 abolished the Communist Party's monopoly on power and approved of elections with more than one candidate. Elections are tentatively scheduled for July.

The move followed the Soviet Communist Party's move to give up its monopoly on power.

Ochirbat told the congress the time has come to end dictatorial party control over trade unions, religion, art, science and mass organizations.

But he said the police force and army should remain in party hands.

Opposition groups have demanded the army serve the government, not the ruling party.

Ochirbat also said the party does not want to adopt capitalism, even though it favors introducing market-style economic reform.

"The renovated (party) will ... uphold Marxist-Leninist ideas end apply Marxist-Leninist methodology," he said.

MIDLAND COUNTY
REQUEST FOR PROPOSAL

Midland County is soliciting proposals from qualified individuals or firms for engineering services required by the County for implementation of a waterworks improvements project under a 1989 Texas Community Development Program (TCDP) funded by the Texas Department of Commerce (TDOC).

Proposals will be considered by the County at a meeting to be held at 9:00 a.m. on April 23, 1990. In order to be considered, proposals must be submitted prior to 4:00 p.m. on April 20, 1990. The County reserves the right to reject any or all proposals.

Upon receipt, all proposals will be thoroughly evaluated by Midland County. Once this evaluation has been completed, all responsible offerers will be placed in rank order. All offerers will be notified of this ranking and of the County's intent to initiate negotiations with its first choice. Should negotiations with the County's first choice fail to produce a satisfactory agreement, all negotiations with the first choice will be terminated and the County's second choice will be notified and so on. These procedures will be followed until a satisfactory contract has been approved and executed.

Proposals should include a statement of the engineering firm's qualifications to provide the required services, resumes of key personnel in the firm and a list of client references, particularly with regard to this type of public facilities project.

Factors to be considered in selection of an engineering firm are as follows:

(1) Previous experience in providing engineering services for public facilities project in Midland County.

50 Legal Notices

(2) Previous experience in providing engineering services for similar projects for other cities and/or counties.

(3) Qualifications of key personnel to be assigned to this TCDP project.

(4) The engineer's ability to furnish adequate professional liability insurance for this project.

(5) The engineer's ability to furnish the services of a Resident Project Representative to observe construction of this project in progress.

(6) The engineer's ability to furnish assurances to the County that the engineering services required for successful implementation of this TCDP project can be provided for the amount of funds provided in the County's TCDP contract.

Proposals should be submitted to the following address:

REQUEST FOR PROPOSAL

Midland County is soliciting proposals from qualified individuals or firms for administrative assistance in regard to a 1989 Texas Community Development Program (TCDP) project funded by the Texas Department of Commerce (TDOC). The County has been awarded a grant to construct waterworks improvements.

Proposals will be considered by the County at a meeting to be held at 9:00 a.m. on April 23, 1990. In order to be considered, proposals must be submitted prior to 4:00 p.m. on April 23, 1990. In order to be considered, proposals must be submitted prior to 4:00 p.m. on April 20, 1990. The County reserves the right to reject any or all proposals.

Upon receipt, all proposals will be thoroughly evaluated by the County. Based upon this evaluation, the County will initiate negotiations with its first choice offerer. Should negotiations with the County's first choice fail to produce a satisfactory agreement, negotiations with the first choice will be terminated and the County's second choice will be notified and so on. These procedures will be followed until a satisfactory contract has been approved and executed.

It is the County's intention to ultimately contract with the responsible offerer whose proposal and subsequent negotiations are determined to be the most advantageous to Midland County, all factors considered, including but not limited to (1) understanding of the project; (2) qualifications of key personnel; (3) services proposed; (4) prior experience with projects of this type; (5) the County's past experience with the offerer; (6) professional liability insurance coverage for this project; and (7) assurances regarding adequacy of funds budgeted for administrative consulting fees.

A complete request for proposal outlining services required by Midland County, submission requirements and evaluation criteria has been prepared. Interested parties may obtain copies of this request for proposal by contacting:

PART-TIME $$$$$ AVAILABLE

April 2 the Midland Reporter-Telegram became a morning newspaper instead of an afternoon newspaper. As a result we have several routes which need to be re-filled with qualified, responsible individuals. Due to this one-time large number of routes available, now is the best time ever to obtain a route in your area!

Often asked questions:

Is it worthwhile for adults also?

Yes! Our current carrier force is already 60% adult and 40% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
- ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
- MOTHERS who can't justify a part time job and daycare, because as a carrier, you do not need daycare!
- COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
- YOUTHS who are involved in afternoon school functions, but want to work!
- SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends!

How much money can I make as a carrier?

Depending on the size of the route(s), from $150 to $500 monthly! Some motor routes make even more, although currently none are available. Depending on your service record, you may qualify to move up to a motor route later!

How long does it take?

The actual delivery takes 1-2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2-3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the route(s). Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many carriers choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Some collecting in person will be necessary though.

When do the papers have to be delivered by?

6:00 am Monday - Friday, and 7:00 am Saturday and Sunday.

Do I ever get a day off?

The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, carriers do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!

PART-TIME $$$$$ AVAILABLE

April 2 the Midland Reporter-Telegram became a morning newspaper instead of an afternoon newspaper. As a result we have several routes which need to be re-filled with qualified, responsible individuals. Due to this one-time large number of routes available, now is the best time ever to obtain a route in your area!

Often asked questions:

Is it worthwhile for adults also?

Yes! Our current carrier force is already 60% adult and 40% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
- ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
- MOTHERS who can't justify a part time job and daycare, because as a carrier, you do not need daycare!
- COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
- YOUTHS who are involved in afternoon school functions, but want to work!
- SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends!

How much money can I make as a carrier?

Depending on the size of the route(s), from $150 to $500 monthly! Some motor routes make even more, although currently none are available. Depending on your service record, you may qualify to move up to a motor route later!

How long does it take?

The actual delivery takes 1-2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2-3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the route(s). Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many carriers choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Some collecting in person will be necessary though.

When do the papers have to be delivered by?

6:00 am Monday - Friday, and 7:00 am Saturday and Sunday.

Do I ever get a day off?

The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, carriers do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!

HOW TO PLACE A GARAGE SALE AD

(1) Decide the address and dates where the sale will be held.

(2) Compile a list of the major items you want to advertise (furniture, appliances, speciality items, specific sizes or types of clothes) along with a few smaller items (pictures, kitchen utensils, etc.) If more than one family will be participating in the sale, ask each family to write out a list of the items they want to sell.

(3) Combine the lists of items to be sold, the complete address, the day and times the sale will be held. Remember, the best days to advertise for your sale will be at least the day before and each day of the sale. The deadline for placing your ad will be before 5:00 the day before you need your ad to appear, Monday - Friday.

(4) NOW - Call Classified at 682-6222 with the days of the sale and the items you want to list.
We offer two types of ads: word ads and space ads.
EXAMPLE WORD AD:

1234 MAIN Street. Saturday 9:00 - 4:00. Kids' clothes: boys 2T-4T, girls 6x-14, dining room set and lots of miscellaneous.
