ELEVEN DEAD IN HOTEL FIRE

NEW REDISTRICTING BILL IS INTRODUCED; EFFECTIVE AT ONCE

AUSTIN, Aug. 22.—Two new senatorial redistricting bills were introduced in the senate this afternoon by Senator Bledsoe of Lubbock and Senator Doyle of Freestone.

The Bledsoe bill is exactly the same as the one passed in the first called session with the exception that it becomes effective immediately instead of April, 1924. The Doyle bill is virtually the same as the original house bill by Representative Hill of Wheeler.

COURT HOUSE HAS A MILITARY APPEARANCE WHEN TRIAL BEGINS

MOUNT VERNON, KY., Aug. 22.—With twenty-five national guardsmen from London and twenty special deputy sheriffs on guard, the Rock Castle court house presented a martial law appearance when John Bailey Jr., slayer of Beverly White, was called for trial here today. Bailey's case was brought here on a change of venue from Knox county, where the killing occurred.

Approximately 100 members of the Bailey-Lee clan and the Whites, opposing factions in the most bitter mountain feud that has torn eastern Kentucky in recent years, were present. The troops and special deputies were summoned to keep down any possible flare-up of the feudal spirit that in the last few years has caused a number of battles on both sides and which in the last quarter of a century has resulted in possibly a score of murders.

Judge B. J. Bethurum, who is conducting the court here, asked for special guards in the court room.

Major James L. Dillon, in charge of the guardsmen, has issued warning to the clansmen against carrying concealed weapons during the trial. The killing for which Bailey is to be tried occurred on April 7, last year, near Barbourville.

CAROLINA JUDGE HOLDS FEDERAL CHILD LABOR LAW TO BE UNCONSTITUTIONAL

GREENSBORO, N. C., Aug. 22.—Judge James E. Boyd, in federal court today held the new federal child labor law unconstitutional. The Owen-Keating child labor law was also held unconstitutional by Judge Boyd two years ago and that ruling was upheld by the supreme court of the United States.

The opinion today was recorded in the case of the Vivian Spinning Mills of Cherrydale, N. C., who asked an order restraining J. W. Bailey, collector of internal revenue, from enforcing the act. The law imposed a federal tax of ten per cent on the profits derived from products on which child labor was employed.

Regulation of labor, Judge Boyd held in his decision, is one of the powers retained by the states and not delegated to the federal govrnment. The state child labor laws are adequate to care for the situation and provide a penalty, not a tax, as is proposed by the act of congress, the decision said.

The attempt of the federal government to regulate labor within the state is an usurpaiton of authority and a violation of the sovereign rights of the state, the ruling concludes.

An order permanently restraining the collector from collecting revenue from the Vivian Spinning Mills was signed at the same time the opinion was announced.

MEET IN AN EFFORT TO END WAGE CONTROVERSY

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 22.—Joseph Neenam, president of the National Window Glass Workers, today met the labor committee of the National Association of Window Glass Manufacturers in an effort to decide on a wage scale for the coming year. Factories affected by the decision are known as "hand factories" and a.e widely scattered throughout the middle west.

The manufacturers ask a reduction of 35 per cent and the union at a recent conference in Cleveland conceded 25 per cent. Leaders of both sides expressed the hope that a satisfactory scale would be found between the two extremes.

PANAMA IS PREPARED TO REPEL THE COSTA RICANS

PANAMA, Aug. 22.—Panama is prepared and ready to repel the Costa Ricans should they invade the disputed Coto territory. No definite action will be taken, however, until it has been learned what attitude the United States government will adopt toward Panama in the event the Panamane oppose the taking over of Coto by the Costa Ricans.

OIL MEN TO GO FOR A CONFERENCE WITH MEXICAN OFFICIALS

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 22.—The newspaper Universal today says it is informed that the heads of the important oil companies in the United States will leave New York on Wednesday for Mexico City for a conference with government officials here, looking toward an amicable and definite settlement of petroleum questions. Its advices, it says, state that the meeting has the approval of the state department.

The oil companies were requested today by the department of commerce and industry to make a complete return of the petroleum they had on hand here on July 31, and subsequent storages.

The information requested is desired for taxation purposes.

UNION TELLS MINERS TO RETURN TO WORK

Action Follows Hearing Last Week When Alexander Howat Was Called to Appear.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Aug. 22.—Miners on strike at the Dean Milling company and the Reliance Coal company in the Kansas coal fields have been ordered to return to work, it was announced today at international headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America. This action was taken by the international executive board following a hearing last week at which Alexander Howat, president of the Kansas district of the mine workers' union was summoned to appear.

LIMIT DEBATE ON THE RAILROAD FUNDING BILL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Under an agreement limiting general debate four hours, the house today took up the administration funding bill.

The measure would authorize the War Finance corporation to market securities to the extent of $500,000,000 accepted by the railroad administration from carriers for additions and betterments during federal control. Funds realized from the sale would be used to make final payment with the railroads for the amount owed them by the government.

BRIEF SESSION OF STATE SENATE HELD; DAVIS EXONERATED

AUSTIN, Aug. 22.—The senate held a brief session today and recessed until 2 o'clock this afternoon. Report of the free conference committee on the educational appropriation bill was not submitted, it being stated that the senate will await action of the house before the report is enacted on in the senate. The house, having adjourned until Tuesday, there was no business transacted today.

The senate adopted a concurrent resolution, offered by Senator Dudley of El Paso, exonerating the name of the late Dr. Oscar Davis, former state health officer, from any odium as a result of the recent investigation of that department by the joint legislative committee, and reciting "that his administration of that department was above reproach."

GOVERNOR SIGNS SIX BILLS FIVE OTHERS BECOME LAWS

AUSTIN, Aug. 22.—Six bills passed by the first called session of the legislature were signed by Governor Neff today, and five others were filed with the secretary of state to become laws without his signature. Most of the bills were of minor importance or local in nature.

SHIPPING BOARD IS ABOUT TO GET RID OF A WHITE ELEPHANT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The shipping board today was in a fair way of getting rid of the major portion of its "white elephant"—the wartime constructed wooden ships.

Official announcement by the board contained the information that bids submitted by the Ship Construction and Trading corporation of New York of $2,100 each for 205 of the 285 wooden craft had been accepted. The announcement added that the deal had been closed, except for the filing of bond by the New York company and the signature of contract by the board, expected.

Vice-Chairman O'Connor of the board, commenting today on the sale, said the price was exceedingly low in view of the cost of the 285 vessels, recently estimated by Chairman Lasker at $230,000,000. Mr. O'Connor pointed out that the board long had sought to sell the wooden ships and said that the alternative to sale at a low price was allowing the boats to rot at anchor.

IDENTIFY BODY THOUGHT TO BE MRS. GILLILAND AND HOLD HUSBAND AND SON

GRANITE CITY, ILLS., Aug. 22.—The body identified as Mrs. Serena Gilliland, 20 years old, who later was found working as a waitress in Cincinnati, today was identified as Mrs. Nora Dorman, following the arrest of her husband, Arthur Dorman and son, John, aged 16, at Junction.

Warrants charging murder have been issued against the elder and younger Dorman.

CONFLICTING STORIES TOLD OF SHOOTING SUNDAY AFTERNOON

JOHN W. WEBB, PEDDLER, SLAIN BY SHOTGUN IN HANDS OF C. M. WAGGONER,

"SCOTTY" ORDERED TO QUIT CITY BY SUNDOWN MONDAY

Well Known Local Character Figures In Affair—Slayer at Liberty On Bond of $10,000.

As the result of a shooting that occurred at Fourth and Lake streets at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, John W. Webb, aged 39 years, is dead; C. M. Waggoner, a member of the city police force, is out on a $10,000 bond on a charge of murder, and H. T. Scott, who was present at the time of the shooting, has been warned to leave the city before sundown.

According to the story told, Mr. Webb was struck in a half dozen places by buckshot which were discharged from a double-barreled shotgun in the hands of Policeman Waggoner. This is practically the only phase of the incident that is agreed upon. The other details are contradictory.

Mr. Waggoner's explanation of the affair is that he shot in self-defense while H. T. Scott, known generally as "Scotty," states that Mr. Webb died without knowing that Waggoner was the man who had shot him. Scott and Mrs. Webb state that Mr. Webb died in the belief that Scotty accidentally killed him.

The Webbs reside in a house situated on the northeast corner of Fourth and Lake streets and Mr. Waggoner lived just across Mill street.

Warned About Shooting.

Waggoner says that several days ago he went to the Webb home and admonished Mrs. Webb about permitting her son to shoot in the back yard, explaining to her that it was a violation of a city ordinance. The policeman relates that a day later Mr. Webb approached him on the street, stating that he had better never again come to his house or, if he did, he "would build smoke under him."

Just as he was seating himself at the dinner table Sunday noon Waggoner relates that he heard a number of shots fired at the Webb house and grabbing a shotgun he had in the house he proceeded across the street, going down Fourth street alongside of the house. When he neared the back of the house, he said, he saw Mr. Webb in a crouching position peeking around the gate post. He says he called to Webb that the latter was under arrest for disturbing the peace.

At this point, he contends, Scotty ran to Webb and placed a revolver in the latter's hands. Webb, he said, leveled the gun and fired, and at the same time, he states, he fired, discharging both barrels. Waggoner's idea is that both of them fired high.

The policeman states that after both had fired Webb retreated back of the picket fence and then, placing both hands on the revolver, he leveled the gun at him. It was at this point that Waggoner says he fired the shot that killed Webb. He stated to officials that he had reloaded the shotgun after firing the first two shots.

Revolver Is Found.

A few minutes later he surrendered to Sheriff Fred Smith and was taken to the court house, where District Attorney Bert Wilson, after a brief inquiry into the case, agreed to permit the defendant to make a $10,000 bond. Waggoner's attorney, E. P. Gipson, was present at the time and perfected the bond, which was signed by F. G. and Ed Waggoner.

Police Chief Morgan was called to the Webb home shortly after the killing. Mr. Morgan had become acquainted with the family while serving in the capacity of juvenile officer. Mr. Morgan stated that Mr. Webb was one of the best friends he had in the city.

The chief stated Monday morning that he found the revolver that was used at the scene of the shooting at the home of a neighbor three blocks away. He stated that the chamber contained one empty shell. He says he was informed that Scotty had delivered the gun at that place shortly after the shooting.

H. T. Scott's version of the entire affair is absolutely different. He declares that he was on his way uptown when Mr. Webb came to the front door and asked him to stop and come in. Scotty lives just a half block from the Webb home.

Scotty says that Mr. Webb told him that a cat had been getting a lot of his small chickens and that at the very time she was sitting in the back yard eating one. Webb handed him a gun, he tells, and they went to the back door.

Shot at Cat.

Scotty fired two shots at the cat, which was sitting back of a post about 15 feet from the back door. He fired twice at this point and the cat then started to run away back of a small outhouse. While the animal was running he states he shot several more times. Officials saw the spots in the ground where the bullets struck, Scott said.

"Both of us left the back door and while I was running towards the back, I refilled the gun. The officers picked up the shells. I don't know how many there were. Just as we got to the gate that leads into the yard in the rear where Mr. Webb kept his wagon, I saw the cat and shot once more. I missed and she went under the barn.

"Mr. Webb opened the gate leading into Fourth street and I crouched down in a sitting posture and looked under the barn. While I was sitting there a Mr. Cole, a one-armed man, came along and he asked us what we were doing. I told him we were after a car.

Scotty's Story

"It was only a few seconds more until I heard a shot gun fired twice. I looked up and I saw Mr. Webb come stumbling into the yard. I ran to him and grabbed him by the right hand and swung him over my shoulder and asked him what was wrong. He said,

ALLEGED BURGLAR IS TO BE QUESTIONED IN BELTON KENNEDY CASE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—A week's continuance in entering their pleas to the indictments charging them with murder of J. Belton Kennedy was granted today to Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain and Arthur C. Burch.

DAVID DAVIS NOT WANTED, SAY LOS ANGELES OFFICERS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—David Davis, held in Chicago for the Los Angeles authorities, has no known connection with the J. Belton Kennedy murder case and is not wanted here in that connection, according to Malcolm MacLaren, the chief investigator in charge of the state's case.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—David Davis, alleged burglar, who was arrested here 10 days ago at the request of Los Angeles police, will be taken to California for questioning in connection with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, according to William J. Bright, deputy sheriff from Los Angeles, who reached Chicago today.

HEARING IS SCHEDULED TO BEGIN AT LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Although Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain and Arthur C. Burch, jointly indicted for murder in connection with the slaying here August 5 of J. Belton Kennedy, broker, and reputed fiancee of the young woman, are scheduled to be taken into court here this morning to enter pleas to the indictments, it was generally considered late last night that if their counsel can prevent it, neither will plead until Thursday.

The two were arraigned last Monday and given until today to enter pleas, but owing to the inability of Paul W. Schenck of Los Angeles, recently engaged as counsel, to conclude a trial in Arizona, a further delay was understood to be desired by the attorney now representing the two prisoners.

Ralph R. Obenchain of Chicago, former husband of the indicted woman, will represent Mrs. Obenchain in court today, and Richard Kittrelle, partner of Schenck, is scheduled to appear for Burch.

Although it is understood an attempt will be made by the defense to have Mrs. Obenchain and Burch admitted to bail, lawyers last night forecast failure for such a movement.

WIFE EXPRESSES FAITH IN INNOCENCE OF HUSBAND

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—From Allie Quayle Burch, wife of Arthur Burch, jointly accused in Los Angeles with Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain of the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, yesterday came a message expressing her faith in Burch's innocence. Mrs. Burch, who is suing her husband in Kansas for divorce, addressed her message to Mrs. William A. Burch of Evanston, Ill., mother of the accused. The missive was forwarded to Burch.

"My heart aches for Arthur, and I want to help him in this hour of need," her message said.

"He is a good, kind hearted soul, and murder could never enter his heart," the letter continued. "I pray for him daily and I know that he is innocent. The truth shall make him free."

Coupled with this intimation of a reconciliation between Burch and his wife, the Chicago end of the case was given interest by the expected arrival here today of William Bright, deputy sheriff and envoy of the Los Angeles district attorney who was expected to start into local angles of the case.

HEAT AVERAGE IN OKLAHOMA SUNDAY WAS 103 DEGREES

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 22.—Yesterday was the hottest day this year in Oklahoma, according to reports to the United States weather bureau here, the state average being 103.2 degrees. Durant, Lawton and Vinita yesterday reported 107 degrees, the highest recorded.

RENEW ATTACKS ON THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM OF BANKING

CHARGE DEFLATION OF CURRENCY AND PRICES DESTRUCTIVE MOVEMENT.

EMPLOYED PUBLICITY MEN TO SPREAD PROPAGANDA

Criticism is Presented By Wanamaker Of American Cotton Association.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Attacks on the federal reserve system were renewed today before the joint congressional commission on agriculture.

J. S. Wanamaker, of South Carolina, president of the American Cotton association, asserted that deflation of the currency and of prices had been terribly destructive to all American producing interests, that it had been wholly unnecessary but that it had been brought about deliberately by the federal reserve board.

"I heard as early as 1918 that plans were being rigged to put on deflation," Mr. Wanamaker said. "This culminated in what was called a buyers' strike in 1920. We never had a buyers' strike; it was buyers' panic, the result of unceasing propaganda sent out to make people afraid of prices, to spread the fear that prices were to go lower."

"By whom was this propaganda spread?" Representative Funk, republican, of Illinois, asked.

"I'll first take up the case of the reserve board," Mr. Wanamaker said, "and I'll ask the commission to ask that board the amount paid out for publicity during the last 18 months for correspondence and today's distribution of newspaper material."

Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, asked if the reserve board had publicity men and Mr. Wanamaker replied that his impression was "that they have and they are well paid."

Mr. Wanamaker put into evidence statements and bulletins which he said the reserve board issued during the last two years and which he said clearly showed its purpose to bring about declining prices.

FLOOD WATERS ARE RECEDING AT PHOENIX

Reach Level of Two Feet in the Office Of Governor and His Assistants.

PHOENIX, ARIZ., Aug. 22.—Flood waters from Cave creek which last night filled the Arizona state capitol to a depth of two feet on the first floor and flooded several hundred homes in Phoenix and vicinity, had receded so far this morning that the first floor of the capitol was clear of water. Eighteenth avenue, on the west end of the capitol grounds, still was running with water several inches deep.

PHOENIX, ARIZ., Aug. 22.—Flood waters in the state capitol building were slowly receding today, after reaching a level of two feet in the first floor offices of the governor and his chief assistants. The damage to the capitol was estimated at $300,000, by H. M. Alexander, custodian, in addition to the loss of irreplacable records in basement store rooms which were flooded.

Two companies of state troops were called out to guard the flooded area. Residents of northwestern Phoenix were warned by the sheriff yesterday evening to move to higher ground.

BILLION DOLLAR BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

Would Make Sum Available For Stimulating Export of Agricultural Products.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—With a number of amendments the senate bill which would make $1,000,000 available through the war finance corporation, for stimulating exportation of agricultural products, was passed today by the house.

Only 21 representatives voted against the bill while 314 voted for it.

The house eliminated senate sections authorizing purchase by the war finance corporation of $200,000,000 worth of farm loan bonds and the creation of a new bureau in the department of commerce to obtain information as to trade conditions abroad. The house further overruled the action of its committee in eliminating a section which would permit government loans to accredited foreigners engaged in exportation of American farm products, but added an amendment providing for rigid restriction of such loans.

Another house amendment would fix June 30, 1922, as the date on which liquidation of the war finance corporation would begin with the capital stock of the corporation cancelled in proportion to the surplus funds turned into the treasury.

By a vote of 196 to 136, the house rejected a motion to recommit the bill offered by Representative Wingo, democrat, Arkansas, to reinsert the eliminated senate provisions for purchase of $200,000,000 worth of farm loan bonds and to add an amendment authorizing the war finance corporation to make direct loans to agriculturists.

BROWN HOUSE AT MACON, GA. IS DESTROYED BY FIRE THIS MORNING; REGISTER LOST, CHECKING SLOW

MACON, GA., Aug. 22.—Eleven persons early today were believed to have lost their lives in the fire which last night destroyed the Brown House, one of the oldest hotels here. One man is known to be dead and firemen believed there are at least ten bodies in the ruins.

MACON, GA., Aug. 22.—Three persons are known to have lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the Brown House, a frame hotel here, early today, and firemen expressed the belief the death list would be materially increased when the ruins of the structure had been explored.

John K. Hayes, a former justice of the peace, was among the dead. The bodies of two men taken from the second floor of the building today have not been identified.

Approximately twenty of the one hundred and fifty guests of the hotel were injured. The fire started at 1 a. m. and followed an explosion of chemicals in an adjoining drug store. One whole side of the hotel was blown in.

Many guests were cut off from the staircases by the first blaze of flames, and the greater part of these had only one means of egress—that of leaping from windows. Hays was fatally hurt in jumping from an upper window.

The Brown House was the oldest hotel in the city and was located close to the center of the business district. The flames from the wooden structure, preading to adjoining buildings, burned practically half of the block from Plum street to Poplar street.

MORE THAN SCORE ARE ENTRAPPED IN A HOTEL

MACON, GA., Aug. 22.—More than a score of persons are believed to have been entrapped and burned to death in a fire here early today which completely destroyed the Brown House, a hotel in the downtown business district, and half the block on which it is located before brought under control at 3:30 a. m.

Owing to loss of the hotel register, no check on the number of the missing had been secured at an early hour today, but hotel employes expressed fear that the death list might reach forty.

Ten persons, suffering injury from burns or sustained in jumping from the second and third stories of the hotel, are under treatment at the Macon hospital.

Starting with an explosion of chemicals in an adjacent drug store, which blew in the side of the structure, the fire quickly shut off the escape of many of the hotel guests and heavy loss of life is believed to have resulted from numbers being entrapped in the rear halls of the building.

Finding the stairways blown away by the force of the explosion and the fire escapes almost instantly enveloped in flames, those in the front part of the building were forced to leap from windows on the lower floors. Men on the sidewalks saved many women from injury by catching them in their arms. Between 100 and 150 persons were registered at the hotel.

G. L. Gilder, who escaped by dropping from the third floor of the hotel annex, said he was certain he left ten or fifteen men behind him in that part of the building who had no way of escape.

Although the fire had burned itself out in the hotel area, firemen said it would be several hours before the premises could be explored to determine the number of dead.

ANNOUNCE THE FAILURE OF TRIPPE AND COMPANY

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The failure of Trippe & Co. was announced today on the New York stock exchange.

The firm, which was organized one year ago, is composed of George M. Woolsey, William J. Palmer and John J. Gillies.

The failure occasioned considerable surprise as the firm, while organized in its present form a year ago, had been prominent as a commission house for 10 years and there had been no intimation of embarrassment. In some quarters the failure was attributed to the inability of customers to meet obligations and to the shrinkage in the last six months of values of many securities held by the firm as collateral. Albert W. Putnam, a member of another stock exchange firm, was appointed receiver.

The firm took its name from Charles W. Trippe, who died a year ago. It has been active in motor and tire shares.

Within the last year four stock exchange firms have failed. One was recently reinstated as a member of the exchange, having discharged its obligations.

CONFERENCE TO DETERMINE ACTION IN POISON CASES

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Conferences between Coroner Peter Hoffman and members of the state attorney's staff today are expected to determine what action is to be taken in the Schiller Park poison cases. The coroner has asked that evidence he has gathered be presented to the grand jury with a view to the indictment of Mrs. Mary Demmer, who is held in connection with the finding of poison in the exhumed bodies of her husband, John Demmer, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kolze.

FUND TURNED OVER TO THE LEGION FOR RELIEF OF SOLDIERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—One hundred thousand dollars, collected by the American Red Cross during the war for soldier relief work, was turned over by the society today to the American Legion to be used by the latter organization in searching out cases of former service men entitled to, but failing to receive aid.

SECRET SESSIONS OF IRISH PARLIAMENT TO PREPARE AN ANSWER

PUBLIC MEETINGS LAST WEEK LAY GROUND FOR REPLY TO BRITISH.

RETURN OF BOLAND IS CONSIDERED IMPORTANT

Expected to Submit Outline of State Of Public Opinion in the United States.

DUBLIN, Aug. 23.—Secret sessions of the Irish republican parliament to draft the sinn fein reply to Great Britain's peace proposals began here today. The public meetings last week and subsequent conferences between Eamonn de Valera and his colleagues were believedto ave laid the ground for an early reply.

The presence of Harry J. Boland, who represented Mr. de Valera in the United States after the sinn fein chieftain had returned to Ireland, was considered important, as it was believed he would submit to the parliament a report outlining the state of public opinion on the other side of the Atlantic. It had been understood since the initial meeting of the parliament that a decision might be delayed until Mr. Boland reached this city and his arrival yesterday was looked on as significant.

There have been indications that a certain amount of dissension existed in the rank and file of the parliament over the attitude to be taken toward the British offer of dominion status for Ireland, and it appeared probable today that many members would speak on the question before final decision was reached.

Press comments by Dublin newspapers would seem to reflect a desire on the part of the sinn fein not to utterly reject the offer, but rather to obtain from Prime Minister Lloyd George a statement giving details of the government's offer. Objections have been made that Ireland, because of her geographical position, would not be given the same sort of dominion government that is employed by Canada or Australia, and it has been held that the prime minister should define his exact position in this respect. Organs of the unionists have been urging acceptance of the government's proposals, or at least the submission of them to a plebiscite in southern Ireland.

The attitude of Ulster up to today had apparently been unrelenting so far as making common cause with the sinn fein in attempting to reach a settlement with Great Britain was concerned. It seemed the decision of Sir James Craig to stand aloof during negotiations between Dublin and London had not been reconsidered.

The week-end passed quietly in this city, but it was marred in Belfast by the explosion of a bomb.

Long before 11 o'clock, when the parliament was to meet, crowds gathered outside the Mansion House to cheer the republican leaders, particularly Mr. Boland and Miss Mary MacSwiney, both of whom arrived from the United States yesterday.

RECEIVES ACCEPTANCE OF THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Formal acceptance by the British government of the invitation to participate in the Washington conference on limitation of armament and Far Eastern questions was received today by Secretary Hughes. The note of acceptance was transmitted by Ambassador Harvey and was delivered to him by Lord Curzon, the British foreign minister.

WILL MAKE REPORT ON AGRICULTURAL DEPRESSION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—A preliminary report of its investigation into agricultural depression will be made within the next thirty days by the joint congressional commisison, Representative Anderson, Minnesota, chairman, announced today.

AMERICAN YOUTH IS AMBUSHED AND KILLED BY MEXICAN BANDITS

EL PASO, Aug. 22.—Bennett Boyd, 18, of El Paso was ambushed and murdered by bandits in Mexico on August 18 according to messages received in El Paso by his father today.

Young Boyd was killed at the Caretas ranch, about 60 miles south of Hachita, New Mexico.

The news of his death came in a telegram from his brother, Cecil Boyd, who was on the ranch with him.

The father, J. J. Boyd, left at once for the scene and was joined at Hachita by another son, Gordy Boyd of Hillsboro, N. M.

Bennett Boyd and Cecil Boyd were kidnaped by Mexican bandits two years ago in Mexico and held for ransom.

WOMAN IS KILLED AFTER DECIDING TO STAY WITH HUSBAND

FORCED TO CHOOSE BETWEEN TWO MEN IN PRESENCE OF BOTH.

SHE ELECTED TO REMAIN TRUE TO HER MARRIAGE

Man Who Did Shooting Later Found By Posse in Dying Condition From Poison.

PORTERVILLE, CAL., Aug. 22.—Walter H. Alexander, who, according to J. L. Bachman, a rancher near here, shot and killed Mrs. J. B. Bachman yesterday in Bachman's automobile when she refused to leave her husband and go with Alexander, was found dying on a ranch 10 miles from here by a posse early today. Alexander died before any aid could be administered and Sheriff Court Smith, leader of the posse, believes Alexander poisoned himself.

PORTERVILLE, CALIF., Aug. 22.—Mrs. J. P. Bachman, forced to choose between her husband and another man in the presence of both, elected to remain true to her marriage, and thus sealed her death, which came an instant later when the other man, Walter H. Alexander, it is charged, shot and killed her yesterday.

"Well, what are you going to do?" Alexander is quoted as demanding of Mrs Bachman.

"I guess I'll stay here," Bachman says his wife replied.

Thereupon, Bachman says, Alexander fired a shotgun pointblank at the woman. The charge struck her in the back and she fell dead.

The shooting took place at the ranch home of H. B. Collins, step-father of Alexander, near here.

After the shooting Alexander went away carrying the shotgun, it was said, and a sheriff's posse is searching for him.

Bachman told City Marshal Isham the story of the shooting and events immediately preceding.

Mrs. Bachman had been visiting at Lindsay. There, also, had been Alexander, and Bachman went from his home yesterday to return his wife to her home. Alexander said he would accompany the Bachmans in their automobile.

Bachman drove and in the front seat with him was his wife.

Alexander, according to Bachman's story, for the entire distance from Lindsay to Porterville and the eight miles beyond to the Collins place, held a knife at Bachman's back to compel the husband to obey any orders the other man might give.

At the Collins place Alexander got out, Bachman says, and cut the ignition wires of the automobile. Then Alexander is reported as going into his home and returning with a shotgun.

Advancing on Mrs. Bachman, the husband said, Alexander demanded to know what the woman was going to do. She answered and was shot and killed.

Collins said Alexander remained about the place about a half hour and then went away with his shotgun through the fields.

LARGEST SHIP IN WORLD TO BE READY BY SPRING

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—The new 56,000 ton liner Majestic, the largest ship in the world, will be put into service on the New York-Southampton-Cherbourg run next spring, the International Mercantile Marine company announced today. The Majestic, which was to have been called the Bismarck by her original German owners, is now being finished at Hamburg.

The giant craft, which is 2,000 tons larger than the Leviathan and 10,000 larger than the Olympic, will carry a crew of 1,100 and have passenger accommodations for 4,100. She is equipped with four huge oil burning engines, capable of developing from 62,000 to 64,000 horsepower. Her normal speed will be about 23 knots. The ship's agents estimate that the space occupied by the 1,245 staterooms, engines and machinery equals that of about 800 average four-room city apartments.

BATTLESHIPS AT CALLAO FOR PERU CELEBRATION

SAN DIEGO, CAL., Aug. 22—The battleships Arizona, Nevada and Oklahoma, which have been at Callao in connection with the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of Peru's independence, arrived here today. Major General Hunter Liggett, retired, who was an American representative at the celebration, was aboard the Arizona.

SHOOTS WOMAN IN HOSPITAL AND THEN COMMITS SUICIDE

MODESTO, CAL., Aug. 22—Lorrin D. Carmichael, formerly a member of the local police force, shot and killed Mrs. Clarice Swartzel late yesterday at the hospital where she is employed, and then shot himself. He died several hours later.

Police officials here said gossip involving Carmichael's relations with a young girl here had preceded his resignation from the police force.

MINISTER DISCUSSES HIS WIFE'S TROUBLE

Thinks It Only a Short Time Before Mrs. Sykes Will be Fully Restored

Rev. A. H. Sykes, former pastor of the Watkins Park Presbyterian church, Nashville, Tenn., says:

"After seeing what Tanlac has accomplished in my wife's case, I am convinced that it is a medicine of great power and extraordinary merit. I do not think I have ever seen anything to give such prompt results. Mrs. Sykes had been in delicate health for ten months, suffering from stomach trouble and nervous breakdown.

"I frequently sought medical advice but Tanlac is the only thing that gave her any relief. After taking the medicine only a short time, she was able to sit up and help with the household duties. I think it only a short time until her health will e fully restored."

Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug Store, in Electra by Tarleton Drug store, in Burkburnett by West End Drug Co., and by all leading druggists.—adv.

FOUR PEOPLE KILLED WHEN FREIGHT TRAIN BACKS INTO AN AUTO

WALNUT, KAN., Aug. 22.—Four persons—two boys and two girls—were killed here last night when a Katy freight backed into their motor car. Two other girls and a four year old boy who were in the car, were injured.

The dead are: Blair Erney, 18, Kimball, Kan.; Donald Dalton, 18, Kimball, Kan.; Omega Lee, 16, Walnut, and Helen Lee, 14, Walnut.

The injured: Marie Squires, 14, Walnut, bruised; Gladys Squires, 16, Walnut, not seriously; Felix Lee, 4, Walnut, seriously. Erney and Dalton had driven to Walnut yesterday afternoon in Dalton's car. With the Lee girls and the Squires girls and the four year old boy, they were riding last night. One of the girls was driving when the car reached a railroad track in this town. The motorists apparently did not see a freight train backing down upon them, and the caboose struck the car squarely.

CONFLICTING STORIES ARE TOLD OF SHOOTING

'Scotty, I am hit hard. Get me a doctor.'

"While I was holding him there I heard another shot and also heard buck shot scatter all around me. Mr. Webb sank to the ground and then I carried him into the house and went over to the man's house where they found the revolver and telephoned for a doctor. I left the gun there."

Mrs. J. C. Beer, who resides a block down on Fourth street on the south side of the street, stated to a Times representative Monday morning that her attention was directed toward the Webb house when she heard three shots fired as from a shot gun and that she ran out into the yard.

She states that she saw Mrs. Webb come out of the gate at the side of the house and enter Fourth street where she rushed to the man who had the shot gun and grabbed the gun. Mrs. Beer contends that when Mrs. Webb grabbed the gun and turned it towards the ground, it was discharged.

Warning Over Telephone

H. T. Scott received a telephone call Monday morning just as he drove up to the Wolfe Brothers cigar store on Eighth street.

The man who called asked for "Scotty." Scotty relates that he informed the caller that he was the man who had been inquired for. The message given him as near as he remembers is, "Take my advice and leave town before tonight or else you are liable to be bumped off."

The receiver on the other end of the line was hung up and although Scotty states he tried to find out who the party was he was unable to do so.

Scotty stated that he lived here and that his family lived here with him. He stated that he realized that he had a lot of enemies in the city who would like to see him dead but that he intended to remain in Wichita Falls.

"My reputation," Scotty stated, "is against me, I know, but I can see no reason why anyone should threaten me in this affair just because I happened to be present at the time and knew nothing about it until it was all over with."

Mr. Webb, who operated a vegetable wagon in the city, was well known; besides his widow he is survived by three children who reside in this city. Other surviving relatives include two brothers and three sisters: J. H. Webb of Oklahoma City, G. H. Webb of Knox City and Mrs Dan Garwin, Mrs. George Savage and Mrs. Charles Garvin, all of Whitesboro.

The body was removed to the Merkle-Lunn undertaking parlors where it was prepared for burial. The brothers stated Monday that preparations were being made to ship the body to Whitesboro for burial leaving here at 11:00 o'clock Monday night.

Eye Witness' Account.

A. M. Cole, who resides on Lake street and is engaged as a collector for the North Texas Gas company, witnessed the shooting Sunday afternoon. He states that he walked up on Fourth street and was holding a conversation with Mr. Webb.

"Three shots were fired," stated Mr. Cole to a Times reporter. "I was standing within a few feet of Mr. Webb. Just about as close as you and I are standing now. The first shot struck Webb in the side. The second shot hit just in front of both of us. I saw the dust come up. I presume some of the shots hit Mr. Webb in the feet. None of them touched me, however.

"After the second shot was fired, Mrs. Webb ran out of the house and made a grab for the gun. In the meantime, Mr. Webb stumbled into the yard where Scotty came to him. Waggoner pushed Mrs. Webb aside and shot the third shot at Mr. Webb through the picket fence. Not one word was spoken by Waggoner, that I heard."

When asked as to whether Mr. Webb had a gun, Mr. Cole stated that the dead man did not have a gun in his hand. He added, however, that if Mr. Webb had a gun it must have been in his shirt but that he did not see it. He stated that Scotty had a gun in his hands all the time and that if Scotty did hand the gun to Webb that he did not see it. He said both Scotty and Mr. Webb were in sight while all the shooting was done.

According to the stories told by several witnesses Mr. Webb had a small piece of wood in his hand when the shooting took place. Scotty states that Mr. Webb had picked up the stick and was using it in an effort to scare the cat out from under the barn. The piece of board was placed in the hands of the district attorney.

BODY OF J. W. WEBB TO BE SENT TO WHITESBORO FOR BURIAL

The body of J. W. Webb, local man who was shot to death in an altercation with city policeman C. M. Waggoner Sunday afternoon, will be sent to Whitesboro, Texas, Monday evening for burial.

Mr. Webb was a member of the Odd Fellows and the W. O. W., being an active worker in both of those organizations. The Whitesboro Odd Fellows chapter will have charge of the funeral services in that city.

In addition to his family here Mr. Webb leaves two brothers, one in Oklahoma City and the other in Knox City, Texas.

BANK OF THOMASVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, CLOSED

THOMASVILLE, N. C., Aug. 22.—The Bank of Thomasville was closed today by order of the state bank examiner. Inability to collect on paper held to secure loans is assigned by officials of the bank as the reason for the failure.

Bullet From Sky Which Wounded Girl Starts Naval Investigation

Courtsmartial may follow the inquiry now being conducted into the "practice" firing of a navy airplane machine gun over Narragansett bay. Recently the motor boat Edith B., containing a party of men and women, was fired on by a naval seaplane. The boat was riddled with holes and one of its occupants wounded. Only through strenuous efforts of the party in bailing out the boat were the occupant saved from sinking. The illustration shows the target motor boat and Miss Grace Buxton, of Oakland Beach, R. I., who was struck by one of the bullets.

THIS IS TIME OF YEAR TO CULL CHICKENS—SCHOOLS FOR POULTRY RAISERS PLANNED AT THREE POINTS

By M. B. OATES
Agricultural Agent Fort Worth & Denver Ry.

There is perhaps nothing else that a farmer can do that will pay him as high wages per hour as culling chickens. A farmer and his wife can cull a flock of 100 hens in two hours time and make about $20 an hour at the job. The average farm flock of chickens has 35 to 40 per cent cull hens. These cull hens are short period producers and have already finished laying for this year. If they are kept they will consume feed until about the first of next February before they begin laying. To keep them until that time will cost about $1.00 per hen; but if they are sold, $1.00 in feed will be saved for each non-producing hen disposed of.

These non-producing hens are at present in the molt. Many people think that these early summer molters will lay well through the winter but the poultry experts who have trapnested them have found that they are the poorest winter layers. On the contrary it has been found that late molters are far better for winter laying. This is not theory or fancy, but a matter of record based on experiment.

Strange to say, most people have been in error as to the kind of hens to sell especially when hens are sold in the summer or fall. They have made two mistakes. They have sold the hens that look weather, beaten and sun-burnt hens with ragged looking feathers and pale shanks and beaks. In other words they have taken pains, first, to catch hens which have not molted; second, hens which at the same time have pale shanks and beaks.

Hens of this kind are weather beaten and ragged looking because they are hard workers and go out in sunshine and rain scratching and working. Their shanks and beaks are pale because the yellow pigment has been used up in making egg yolks. These are the working hens—the laying hens and the hens that pay. However they look so ragged, pale and worn that they do not stand a chance with the hen which has a full new set of feathers, because nearly everybody will catch the hard lookers and sell them and keep the beautiful, clean looking newly feathered, yellow shanked hens. The poor layers are kept and the good layers are sold because they are judged by the standard of beauty. That's why the farmer usually finds two or three eggs in the coop by the time he gets to town. If he had taken the new feathered yellow shanked hens to town there would not have been any eggs in the coop but there would have been more at home the next day.

There is a lot more o this culling proposition, but we will not attempt to tell it all at this time. However, you are invited to keep the above points in mind and as soon as young county agent or home demonstration agent announces a poultry culling demonstration any where near you, you are invited to come and see just how the non-producing hens are culled out.

The reliability of culling has been thoroughly established and demonstrated in hundreds of communities in nearly every state for the past two years. If you have not practiced this method of culling you are now to have an opportunity in the near future of learning just how it is done.

If you "haven't any faith in it" come and see anyway, and just remember, "what we are not up on, we are down on."

Co-operation between the agricultural agent of the Denver road and the extension service of the A. & M. college has made it possible for every county demonstration and every home demonstration agent along the Denver road to receive special training in the art of poultry culling.

Three poultry culling schools have been arranged for the special purpose of giving the agents training under the expert advice of F. W. Kazmeier, poultry specialist A. & M. college. These schools will be held as follows:

At Bowie, August 24 and 25.
At Clarendon, August 26.
At Quanah, August 27.

There are 38 agents who will attend these special schools. Where demonstrations are held they will cull the entire flock under Mr. Kazmeier's direction. The agents will handle the birds themselves in order to learn all the details and acquire technique in culling. Many have read about culling but few have had experience in handling birds themselves and learning perfectly just how it is done.

These schools will be conducted on earby farms where a common farm flock of chickens is used for the demonstration. Farmers, their wives and children of club age are invited to these culling schools. Many county agents and home agents have begun county-wide poultry culling campaigns and all are planning such campaigns just as soon as they can get to it.

Without an exception every one of the counties along the Denver road which has a county agent or home agent will put on a poultry culling campaign. The agricultural agent will assist those agents who need his assistance later on in carrying out their county campaigns of poultry culling.

PRESIDENT HARDING LOOKS WITH FAVOR ON LABOR'S REQUEST

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 22.—President Harding looks with favor on labor's request for representation in the disarmament conference to be held in Washington, Samuel Gompers said today at the opening of the meeting of the executive council of the American federation of labor, and he stated as president of the federation he had been communicating with organized labor bodies of other nations, with a view of getting their attitude on representation on disarmament discussion.

Mr Gompers added that he had received a letter of appreciation from President Harding after visiting the white house and suggesting that American labor be permitted representation in the conference.

"Labor has always been an advocate of disarmament," Mr. Gompers said. "The full force of organized labor of America today backs President Harding in his move to bring about world peace through disarmament."

Wage reductions, unemployment and tariff legislation were also considered by the council today. It was planned to make a protest against the tariff law.

WOMAN, ILL, FOUND IN RIVER-BOTTOM AFTER WANDERING

Several members of the local police department spent hours Sunday night and Monday morning searching for an elderly woman who late last night disappeared from her home in the 2300 block on Seventh street. She was found about 9 o'clock Monday morning after having wandered through the river bottoms of town all night, clad only in her night dress.

She had recently undergone a severe operation, according to reports made to the police by her son, and it is thought that she had become mentally unbalanced during the night. Police officers summoned to aid in the search for her followed tracks from her home to the Riverside cemetery, where a number of bandages over the wound of the operation had been removed. The rags were found lying near the grave and had apparently been taken off about midnight. Further search showed where she had stumbled and fallen in the sand at the water's edge, but the woman herself could not be found.

A man coming into the city over the Burnett street bridge at 3 o'clock in the morning reported to police that he had passed someone clad in white on that structure, but thought no more of it until after hearing of the wanderer.

Police officials finally located her in the river bottom and she was taken to her home by Police Commissioner J. B. Fitts.

SAMMON MURDER CASE DISMISSED AT HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Aug. 22.—The case of C. E. (Doc) Sammon, charged with murder, called this morning at Liberty on a change of venue from this county, was dismissed by the state because of insufficient evidence. Sammon was charged with the fatal shooting of Floyd Long here in 1920.

ROB GROCERY STORE AT DUKE, OKLAHOMA, FIVE ARE ARRESTED

Special to The Times.

ALTUS, OKLA., Aug. 22.—Robbery of A. Millouf's grocery store at Duke last Friday night in which Basil Dowdy, Claud McElroy, Ray McElroy, Jess Robinson and Jack Rose were alleged to be implicated, was brought to light when Deputy Sheriff John Ford made the arrest of the five men at that place yesterday after an all-night hunt for the alleged burglars.

Two of the five men, Jess Robinson and Ray McElroy, were arrested for alleged robbery of the same store last Monday night, and when Ford went to their home he is said to have found the merchandise consisting of cigarettes and candy valued at $35. Questioning the two men, they confessed, the officer reports, following with another confession of the robbery last Friday night. He then made the arrest of the others. One of the men, Rose, is said to have made an effort to forestall Ford, but after a little talk on the part of the deputy sheriff he came through and told all.

Millouf had just recently moved his store from Altus to Duke and had not unpacked all of his merchandise when the robbery occurred.

"Last Friday night's swag consisted of candy, cigarettes, cigars and smoking tobacco. Ford found the remainder of the merchandise at one of the men's house where, upon investigation, it was located underneath a bed and in a wagon.

They were all brought to this city where they were carried before County Attorney L. A. Pelley, and Dowdy, Rose and Ray McElroy made bond for $1,000. Claud McElroy and Jess Robinson were put in the county jail to await their hearing. Claud McElroy told the deputy sheriff he would tell all this afternoon.

FRANKE FARM TEST BAILS WATER AFTER DRILLING OUT PLUG

The test of the Nebraska Oil company on the Franke farm near Blue Grove in Clay county, that had a sand around 2,340 feet, drilled out the plug late Saturday and started bailing, but has not succeeded in getting all of the water out of the hole.

This test is being closely watched by the different oil companies operating in this part of the state and during the bailing out of the well several scouts connected with the larger companies were on the ground.

CHINA BELIEVES THAT INTERNATIONALIZATION BEING CONTEMPLATED

By Associated Press.

PEKING, Aug. 22.—Evidence supporting rumors that the internationalization of China is being contemplated by the powers is to be seen, asserts the Yi Shih-Po, a non-partisan newspaper of this city, in the American reply to Japan's effort to obtain an outline of the agenda of the conference on disarmament and Far Eastern questions to be held in Washington this autumn.

In an editorial discussing the proposed conference, the newspaper says: "The American note to China merely said the conference would discuss Pacific and Far Eastern questions, no restrictions being placed upon scope of the discussion. The note to Japan, however, says that America while unwilling to accede to the demand of the Chinese government to restrict the scope of the conference, still hopes the American government will be able to exchange opinions with a view to reaching some agreement.

"This shows a preliminary conference between the big powers is bound to occur. Why should America agree to a preliminary conference with Japan and England and omit mention of China. Whether this betrays the secret of those three countries to dispose of us 'in camera,' or whether during the preliminary conference Japan will give part of the spoils to England and America, and so win their good will, is less important than the fact that the idea of a preliminary conference can lead only to a repetition of the Versailles conference, where important questions had to be decided by the council of four before being submitted to the representatives of smaller nations making up the assembly."

HOSPITAL AT CALL FIELD TO BE TAKEN OVER IMMEDIATLY

Commissioners in session Monday asked that the committee that was appointed several weeks ago should endeavor to reach a settlement with the Call Field hospital directors as soon as possible and make its report to the court so that definite action could be taken in the matter. It is the plan to assume charge of the hospital on September 1, if possibl

The bond of the Empire Mortgage company which was named as one of the special depositories for the special road fund money was accepted by the court. The bond amounted to $400,000.

The commissioners canvassed the votes of the constitutional amendment election held this month and declared the results and forwarded a copy of the canvass to Austin.

Tentative plans for the new pauper building at the county farm were discussed by the court and although no definite action was taken it is believed that the county will buy the material and hire help to erect the building.

U. S. MARINES WILL WITNESS OCCUPATION BY THE COSTA RICANS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—While United States marines were sailing southward today to stand by when Costa Rica marches her forces into the tiny bit of territroy whose ownership Panama has so earnestly and long contested, officials here expressed the opinion that they would have a pleasant cruise and probably never fire a rifle.

The navy department was requested by the state department to send marines and Naval Secretary Denby said the action was purely precautionary. He emphasized that no action was anticipated and the belief generally was felt that the territorial dispute would be amicably adjusted.

Secretary Hughes' note to the government of Panama published today, declared it the opinion of the state department that there exsits "no valid reason" for Costa Rica to further delay occupation of the disputed territory.

The next development growing out of the boundary controversy is expected to be the formal entry by Costa Rican forces of the district on the Pacific side. Panama forces now there are believed not to number more than five or six police. It is not probable, it was believed here, that Costa Rica would find it necessary to send into the region more than a company of soldiers at the most, and unless unforeseen armed resistance offered, the marines, who are being transported on the battleship Pennsylvania, will not be landed.

The Pennsylvania, which took on a battalion of marines from Quantico, will move through the Panama Canal, join the Pacific fleet and remain in touch with the mainland where the commanding officers can be easily communicated with by the officer in charge of the Costa Rican force.

KIWANIS CLUB HAS LADIES DAY MONDAY, ORATORY IS FEATURE

Ladies day, for which some fifty or more Kiwanians of this city have watched and waited for two weeks, was appropriately celebrated Monday noon at the regular weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club. The fair sex turned out in force for the event and entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion, even to the point of one of their number winning the first attendance prize.

The fifth name drawn from a hat containing all attendance slips was that of Miss Lulu Woods, who was thereby proclaimed winner of the pair of shoes offered by Homer Sanderford of the Miller Walkover shoe store. The second drawing, which was to have been made provided a man won first prize, was dispensed with.

A novelty program made up of speeches from half a dozen prominent Kiwanians occupied all the time following the dinner period and the fluency with which the speakers elaborated on the subjects assigned them gave ample proof that they were all in straitened circumstances. A $5 fine was to be assessed against any one who did not talk at least one minute after being called on by the chairman, but the session was painfully unproductive of collections.

Rev. F. T. Datson, in responding to the subject, "Why Is a Sky Pilot?" defended his calling and declared that wearers of the cloth were highly essential to the advancement of civilization. He drew several laughs at the expense of fellow Kiwanians and took up all of the five minutes alloted him.

"How to Manage a Wife" was the topic assigned Julian Bobo and he delivered a lengthy discourse on the need for public utilities in Scotland addition, the need of repairing Tenth street for automobile traffic, the defects of the republican administration and the general worthlessness of the Texas legislature, in reply.

Frenzied orations on "Why is a Married Man?" "Why is a Single Man?" "Do Married Men Make the Best Husbands" and "Why Do Girls Wear Stockings?" were delivered by Walter S. Curlee, Haymond Myers, Harry Baum and Ben Neal respectively, and all revealed startling disclosures, especially the last one.

Sales Leach acquitted himself nobly as chairman of the day, for on only one occasion, when Ben Neal threatened to reveal some secrets of his past career, did he exhibit the slightest sign of embarrassment.

The musical entertainment arranged for failed to materialize, the performers having been detained elsewhere. Silent boosts were candy mints provided by Raymond Myers.

At the conclusion of the meeting Chairman Leach expressed the unanimous verdict of guests and members of the club that the affair had been a highly, successful and enjoyable one and that meetings of a similar nature would be held in the future.

ARCHITECT WILL BE SELECTED SOON FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Appointment of an architect for the new high school building will be made shortly by the school board, it was stated Monday by W. W. Brown, business manager for the schools.

It has been decided to select an architect in advance of the voting of bonds, so that the size and type of building, and the approximate cost may be determined in advance. Otherwise, it is pointed out, the board would not know, in asking taxpayers to vote bonds, whether the amount would be adequate.

The bond election will probably be called some time this fall, after the figures have been ascertained.

IRRIGATION DISTRICT OFFICIALS ARE EXPECTED HERE TUESDAY

Judge J. E. Starley, chief counsel, and Vernon L. Sullivan, engineer, of the irrigation project, are expected in Wichita Falls Tuesday to meet with the directors to close up several matters preliminary to the sale of the district bonds. It is the hope and expectation of the directors that sale of the bonds will be consummated with little delay.

M'CONNELL VICTOR AGENCY IS NOT TO BE "EXCLUSIVE"

LOCAL RED CROSS NURSE OPENS HEALTH CENTER AT IOWA PARK ON SATURDAY

Under the supervision of Miss Dorpat, local Red Cross nurse, a health center was opened at Iowa Park on Saturday afternoon from 2 until 4:30 o'clock with over a hundred mothers and children in attendance.

Miss Dorpat was assisted by Miss Haroldson, of the Wichita General hospital, and by many of the Iowa Park people, who seemed very interested and desirous of having the Health Center established permanently.

The chamber of commerce of Iowa Park is backing the Red Cross and the secretary offered the services of his assistant, Miss Payne, to act as registrar. Miss Henlow, a nurse in the Iowa Park sanitarium, was also very helpful.

Three physicians offered their services, but it was necessary to use only one for the time. Fifty-eight children and babies were brought in and they were weighed, measured and given medical attention. Seven Mexican mothers brought children for examination, and the attendants were very much gratified to learn that the Mexicans understood the service which the Red Cross is very anxious to render them. A young Mexican girl volunteered her services as interpreter, thus aiding the physicians materially.

Many of the children were brought from Clara and other rural communities in the district.

The young girls of Iowa Park have been of very great service in making calls at various homes in order to acquaint the people of the town with the purpose of the clinic. Four young ladies were especially helpful, Misses Agnes Henson, Mitchell, Apple and Conway.

The Boy Scouts were almost invaluable to Miss Dorpat in helping her locate the various homes while making calls, and they can be of great help in the future, since it is necessary that she call at homes of all children that have been registered at the Health Center to instruct the mothers in preparing the food which has been prescribed for their children.

This is only the second time that there has been a clinic at Iowa Park, but since the citizens seem so interested and ready to help, a Health Center is to be established permanently, with a clinic once every month.

The next opening will be on September 29, in connection with the Home Welfare Division of the Extension Department of the University of Texas.

FOUR HUNDRED TEACHERS EXPECTED FOR INSTITUTE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 5TH

It is estimated that approximately 400 teachers will arrive in Wichita Falls on September 4, in order to attend the joint teachers institute of Archer, Clay, Wichita and Wilbarger counties, which is to be held here during the week of September 5.

The parent-teachers' associations of the city have volunteered to find homes for the guests during their stay here. A committee, with Mrs. W. S. Curlee as chairman, has been appointed for this purpose, and those who have rooms in which they would be willing to lodge one or more teachers are urged to notify Mrs. Curlee.

A fee of $1 each is offered to those who have rooms and who will furnish breakfast for the teacher.

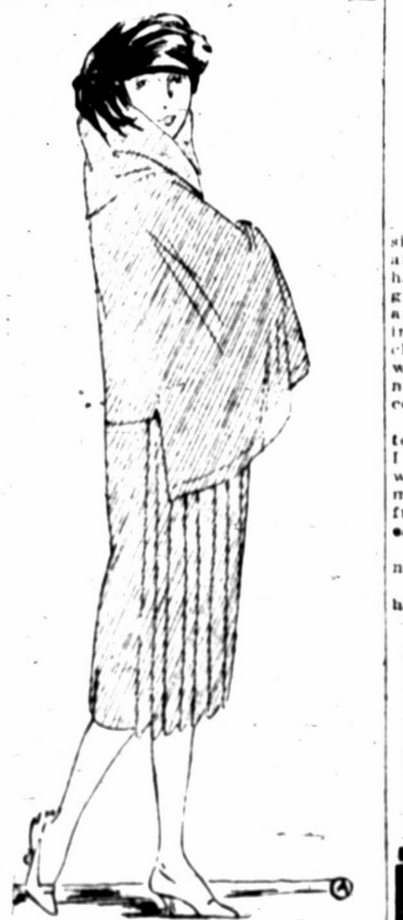
LATEST STYLE

By LENORE



When milady goes a'shopping for her topcoat this fall, she will find that soft woolens in ribbed weaves will be offered her, and if she would be smart she will do well to choose something in the new soft shade of red called Volpay, rich and colorful and warm, for this is fashion's newest. If, however, she be prejudiced against red in any shade, however subdued, she may decide on sphinx gray, Sorrento blue, navy, brown or dark green—all on the calendar for smart fall wear.

Deep shawl collars are again popular, and wide sleeves and armholes, as well as cape sleeves are prominent features of new outer wraps. In the sketch is shown a type of wrap which will probably be seen a great deal this season. It is made of marvella cloth in Volnay red. For the becoming turban with the tumbling fancy of glicerined feathers, black satin is used.

JUBILEE'S PARDNER

by Judd Mortimer Lewis

Illustrations by Edwina

I was thinking about slipping on the roof night before last and I said to my mother that if anything happened to me that would be the only man in the family gone, and my ant said to not let that hinder me but to go ahead and do whatever foolishness I was thinking about, and my mother put another egg on my plate and said that my father would still be left. Then my grandfather said to me in a kinda low voice, making out like he did not want my father to hear, that my father is not reely one of the family but is only related to us by marriage. Then my father laughed and him and my unkle looked around to see if they had left anything on the table, and they hadn't so they got up and went to work.

I went out the kitchen way and slammed the door like I had gone outside and snuck back on my bare feet and went in the pantry and there was half of a green apple pie, where the grown ups had et some of it last night after I had went to bed without saying anything to me about it, and I clumb out of the window with it and went out and clumb through the manure hole and went over to drive my cows out.

I offered Jubilee a little of the pie to see if he liked it, but he didn't so I had to eat it all.

I offered Jubilee a little of the pie to see if he liked it, but he didn't so I had to eat it all. I did not think he would like it. I guess that is what makes a dog and a boy such good friends. They do not like to eat what each other like.

Yesterday was Sunday and there was not anything doing.

Red's father which is a huckster has got a coop full of turkeys that he is going to huck. They are in the barn and we went in to look at them and I had a good idee and told them about it, and Red said it was all right with him, so we pulled all of the tail feathers out of all of the turkeys, because turkeys that is going to be et do not need tail feathers, and then we was going to go out to Rocky River and play Indien, and we opened the barn door to sneak out and Red's mother was there with her arms folded looking at us like she would snap our heads off.

I do not know how I got over the back fence and neither do the other fellas, but when I had got over I did not have any more tail feathers than the turkey. There was not one of us had a tail feather left, but Red was the only one she grabbed. We did not wait to see what she done to him. Dough Britches which is Red's brother was afraid to go home when we had got our cows in. I wanted him to go out by the river and live on apples and grapes and carrots and be a wild man, but he said he would rather get licked than eat a carrot, and I don't blame him.

My father said after supper that the only man in the house ought to go to bed early, so I went up and pulled Jubilee up. Red's mother ought to be glad we done it, because the turkeys had more room in the coop when their tails was gone.

DRESS

By ANNE RITTENHOUSE

Dressmakers Have Determined to Treat Black Taffeta With the Same Formality They Extended to Blue Serge For They Cover It With Ruffles of Gold Lace and Add Flowers For Gayety.

PARIS appears to have an insistent desire to put metal embroidered net on black fabrics that have been treated in a severe manner for the last two years.

The reason is not hard to find. Paris is weary of black. She has exploited it for hours of gayety after she had ceased to wear it for hours of grief. She now wants to get into colors.

The French women are not racially fond of gay tones. They know that beige and black are their colors, bringing out the tones of their magnolia-like skins and burnished dark hair. They do not care for bright blue, bright pink, and dark purple as the Anglo-Saxons care for these colors.

The Americans, being the youngest and most joyous of nations, have the same passion for colors that children possess, and, by the same token, they frequently lack a knowledge of mixture. We are not as bad as the English, for the people of the British Isles cannot be called joyously tropical; if so, they would not have called down the anathemas of William Morris who gave his life to putting some taste and charm into their clothes and houses; but they like color and mingle it in astounding combinations. Their great Lord Palmerston was a good symbol of what they can do.

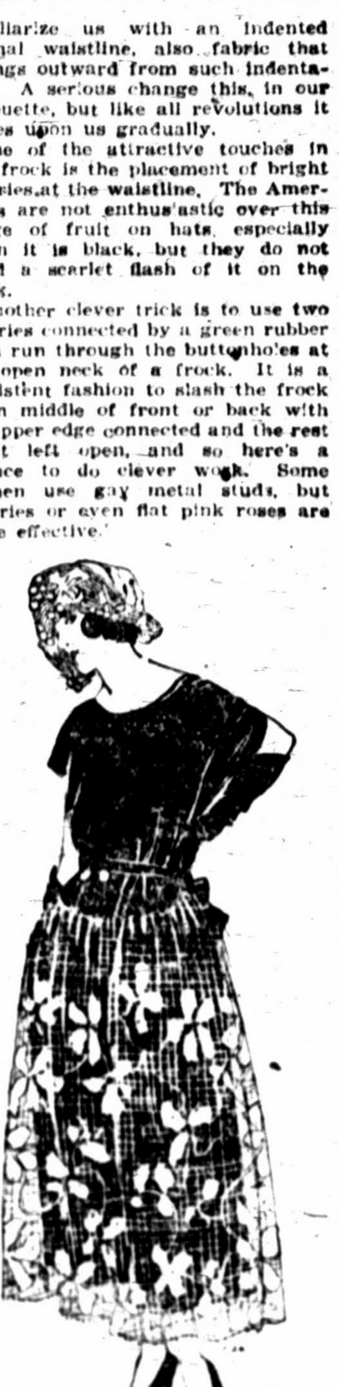
The important thing is that the French in this mid-summer season are trying out the experiment of making black brilliant with gold, with silver lace and with flowers; the Americans will have many of these gowns offered to them in early September if one judges by the interest shown by those who buy our clothes.

Here is such a frock shown in the sketch. The black taffeta is not as slimly cut as it was six months ago. The underskirt has a ripple and the bodice has a peplum over the hips. The upperskirt is of corn-colored net embroidered in gold and falls slightly below the black foundation. Even the addition of gold lace is not enough; bright red cherries drop from the belt and several of them ornament the hat of corn-colored straw which is trimmed with black velvet.

Onlookers are particularly interested in that defiant peplum below the belt. Surely it signifies our indifference to the flat line, for it does not permit even a wide sash around the hips. It is a trick that will familiarize us with an indented normal waistline, also fabric that springs outward from such indentation. A serious change this, in our silhouette, but like all revolutions it comes upon us gradually.

One of the attractive touches in this frock is the placement of bright cherries at the waistline. The Americans are not enthusiastic over this usage of fruit on hats, especially when it is black, but they do not mind a scarlet flash of it on the frock.

Another clever trick is to use two cherries connected by a green rubber stem run through the buttonholes at the open neck of a frock. It is a persistent fashion to slash the frock down middle of front or back with its upper edge connected and the rest of it left open, and so here's a chance to do clever work. Some women use gay metal studs, but cherries or even flat pink roses are more effective.



Gown of black taffeta with flounce of corn-colored net embroidered in gold. Corn-colored hat of straw and velvet trimmed with cherries. Two cherries are fastened at belt.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

Making Good Things

IN Peking, China, there was, and very probably still is, a blacksmith who all his life has fashioned nothing at his tiny forge but donkey bits, simple rods of metal with a ring at each end to which the reins of the patient burden bearers are fastened.

For hundreds of years his ancestors have been engaged in the same occupation. Century after century, son following father has striven to maintain the reputation of the highest grade handicraft and to fit his product to the craft song which each of them have sung—"I guide the hammer and a king guides the bit."

There is a Chinese saying which originated I suspect among that group of Eastern philosophers of which Confucius was the leader, which says "To make good things is better than gold."

What a wonderful motto for a workman. What a splendid slogan for the man at the bench.

To make a good thing, to seek perfection in the simplest tasks, to study and strive to outdo in your present task all the accomplishments of the past AND TO SUCCEED is more satisfying than any other recompense that can result from our efforts.

One of the bitter things of old age, to those who have honestly striven, is that its weaknesses, its dulling of the human tools, its limitation of effort makes it seem impossible to keep up to the standard that we set for ourselves in earlier days and stronger moments.

The human race is generally credited with being willing to sacrifice quality for profit. It is not an unsupported charge for there are many to whom the dollar appears to be the largest thing in the world.

But there are too those who, shutting their eyes to the gain, seek solely to make the best that they are able and leave the profit to take care of itself. And the most encouraging thing to those who seek the best is that if they attain it the wealth comes without seeking.

Emerson, although no trace of the sentence may be found in any of his books, is said to have pointed out that if a man made a superior mousetrap, even though he made it in the depths of the forest, the public would wear a path to his door.

Good things always find a ready market. Shoddy sells only once.

Charles M. Schwab, who is perhaps the most successful business American, said recently, "A man will succeed in anything in which he is genuinely interested, provided he will take more thought about his job than the men working with him."

Do you realize that with a little plaster of Paris YOU can make as great a statue as Michael Angelo ever carved? But you would have to have one of the great Angelo's statues to model it from. So unless you are Angelo do not attempt a masterpiece in sculpture.

Find out what you CAN do and then do it the very best that you are able.

Whatever you are making, make it the best you can. Put into it all the ability and all the thought and effort of which you are capable.

After all, there is one masterpiece at which we all work daily, whether we will or not. That is OURSELVES. Whether, when it is finished, it shall be a credit and a source of pride, rests wholly upon the honesty and faithfulness of our efforts.

Do not figure your success altogether in dollars. Do not measure your accomplishments solely by fame. Remember that there is a satisfaction in well doing that money cannot measure and that genius in an unknown cave is no less genius for being hidden.

Sing with the old blacksmith of Peking and keep your eye on his smoke-grimed motto—"To make good things is better than gold."

An O.HENRY Story

An Unfinished Story

By O. HENRY

DULCIE worked in a department store. She sold Hamburg edging, or stuffed peppers, or automobiles, or other little trinkets such as they keep in department stores. Of what she earned, Dulcie received six dollars per week. The remainder was credited to her and debited to somebody else's account in the ledger kept by G—— Oh, primal energy, you say, Reverend Doctor— Well then, in the Ledger of Primal Energy.

During her first year in the store, Dulcie was paid five dollars per week. It would be instructive to know how she lived on that amount. Don't care? Very well; probably you are interested in larger amounts. Six dollars is a larger amount. I will tell you how she lived on six dollars a week.

One afternoon at six, when Dulcie was sticking her hat-pin within an eighth of an inch of her medulla oblongata, she said to her chum, Sadie—the girl that waits on you with her left side:

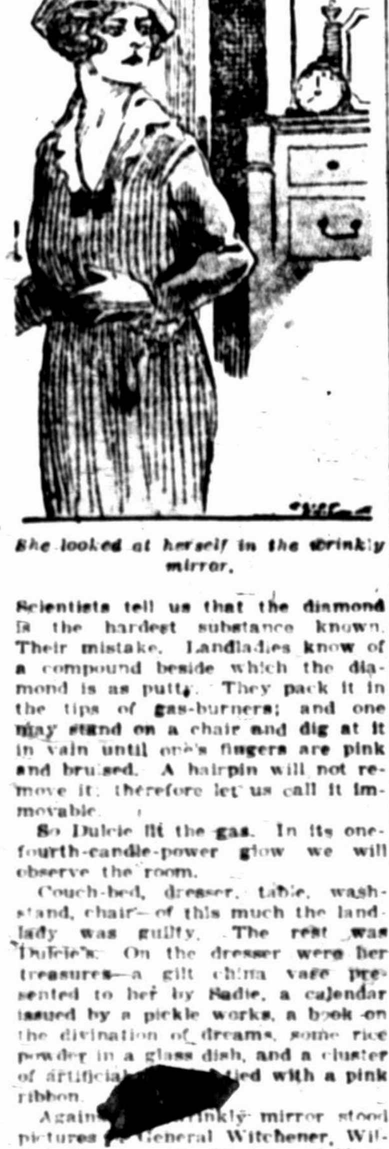
"Say, Sade, I made a date for dinner this evening with Piggy."

"You never did!" exclaimed Sadie admiringly. "Well, ain't you the lucky one? Piggy's an awful swell; and he always takes a girl to swell places. He took Blanche up to the Hoffman House one evening, where they have swell music, and you see a lot of swells. You'll have a swell time, Dulce."

Dulcie hurried homeward. Her eyes were shining, and her cheeks showed the delicate pink of life's—real life's—approaching dawn. It was Friday; and she had fifty cents left of her last week's wages.

Dulcie lived in a furnished room. There is this difference between a furnished room and a boarding-house. In a furnished room, other people do not know it when you go hungry.

Dulcie went up to her room—the third floor back in a West Side brown-stone-front. She lit the gas.



She looked at herself in the wrinkly mirror.

Scientists tell us that the diamond is the hardest substance known. Their mistake. Landladies know of a compound beside which the diamond is as putty. They pack it in the tips of gas-burners; and one may stand on a chair and dig at it in vain until one's fingers are pink and bruised. A hairpin will not remove it; therefore let us call it immovable.

So Dulcie lit the gas. In its one-fourth-candle-power glow we will observe the room.

Couch-bed, dresser, table, washstand, chair—of this much the landlady was guilty. The rest was Dulcie's. On the dresser were her treasures—a gilt china vase presented to her by Sadie, a calendar issued by a pickle works, a book on the divination of dreams, some rice powder in a glass dish, and a cluster of artificial [illegible] tied with a pink ribbon.

Again[illegible] wrinkly mirror stood pictures [illegible] General Witchener, William Muldoon, the Duchess of Marlborough, and Benvenuto Cellini. Against one wall was a plaster of Paris plaque of an O'Callahan in a Roman helmet. Near it was a violent oleograph of a lemon-colored child assaulting an inflammatory butterfly. This was Dulcie's final judgment in art; but it had never been upset.

Piggy was to call for her at seven. While she swiftly makes ready, let us discreetly face the other way and gossip.

For the room, Dulcie paid two dollars per week. On week days her breakfast cost ten cents; she made coffee and cooked an egg over the gaslight while she was dressing. On Sunday mornings she feasted royally on veal chops and pineapple fritters at "Billy's" restaurant, at a cost of twenty-five cents—and tipped the waitress ten cents. New York presents so many temptations for one to run into extravagance. She had her lunches in the department store restaurant at a cost of sixty cents for the week; dinners were $1.05. The evening papers—show me a New Yorker going without his daily paper!—came to six cents; and two Sunday papers—one for the personal column and the other to read—were ten cents. The total amounts to $4.76. Now, one has to buy clothes, and—

I give it up. I hear of wonderful bargains in fabrics, and of miracles performed with needle and thread; but I am in doubt. I hold my pen poised in vain when I would add to Dulcie's life some of those joys that belong to woman by virtue of all the unwritten, sacred, natural, inactive ordinances of the equity of heaven. Twice she had been to Coney Island and had ridden the hobby-horses. 'Tis a weary thing to count your pleasures by summers instead of by hours.

Piggy needs but a word. When the girls named him, an undeserving stigma was cast upon the noble family of swine. The words-of-three-letters lesson in the old blue spelling book begins with Piggy's biography. He was fat; he had the soul of a rat, the habits of a bat, and the magnanimity of a cat. . . . He wore expensive clothes; and was a connoisseur in starvation. He could look at a shop-girl and tell you to an hour how long it had been since she had eaten anything more nourishing than marshmallows and tea. He hung about the shopping districts, and prowled around in department stores with his invitations to dinner. Men who escort dogs upon the streets at the end of a string look down upon him.

At ten minutes to seven Dulcie was ready. She looked at herself in the wrinkly mirror. The reflection was satisfactory. The dark blue dress, fitting without a wrinkle, the hat with its jaunty black feather, the but-slightly-soiled gloves—all representing self-denial, even of food itself—were vastly becoming.

Dulcie forgot everything else for a moment except that she was beautiful, and that life was about to lift a corner of its mysterious veil for her to observe its wonders. No gentleman had ever asked her out before. Now she was going for a brief moment into the glitter and exalted show.

Somebody knocked at the door. Dulcie opened it. The landlady stood there with a spurious smile, sniffing for cooking by stolen gas.

"A gentleman's downstairs to see you," she said. "Name is Mr. Wiggins."

By such epithet was Piggy known to unfortunate ones who had to take him seriously.

Dulcie turned to the dresser to get her handkerchief; and then she stopped still, and bit her under lip hard. While looking in her mirror she had seen fairyland and herself, a princess, just awakening from a long slumber. She had forgotten one that was watching her with sad, beautiful, stern eyes—the only one there was to approve or condemn what she did. Straight and slender and tall, with a look of sorrowful reproach on his handsome, melancholy face, General Kitchener fixed his wonderful eyes on her out of his gilt photograph frame on the dresser.

Dulcie turned like an automatic doll to the landlady.

"Tell him I can't go," she said dully. "Tell him I'm sick, or something. Tell him I'm not going out."

After the door was closed and locked, Dulcie fell upon her bed, crushing her black tip, and cried for ten minutes. General Kitchener was her only friend. He was Dulcie's ideal of a gallant knight. He looked as if he might have a secret sorrow, and his wonderful moustache was a dream, and she was a little afraid of that stern yet tender look in his eyes. Yet one look from him had vanquished Piggy that night. Yes, for that night.

When her cry was over Dulcie got up and took off her best dress, and put on her old blue kimono. She wanted no dinner. She sang two verses of "Sammy." Then she became intensely interested in a little red speck on the side of her nose. And after that was attended to she drew up a chair to the rickety table, and told her fortune with an old deck of cards.

"The horrid, impudent thing!" she said aloud. "And I never gave him a word or a look to make him think it!"

At nine o'clock Dulcie took a tin box of crackers and a little pot of raspberry jam out of her trunk, and had a feast. She offered General Kitchener some jam on a cracker; but he only looked at her as the sphinx would have looked at a butterfly—if there are butterflies in the desert.

"Don't eat it if you don't want to," said Dulcie. "And don't put on so many airs and scold so with your eyes. I wonder if you had to live on six dollars a week."

It was not a good sign for Dulcie to be rude to General Kitchener. And then she turned Benvenuto Cellini face downward with a severe gesture. But that was not inexcusable; for she had always thought he was Henry VIII, and she did not approve of him.

At half-past nine Dulcie took a last look at the picture on the dresser, turned out the light, and skipped into bed. It's an awful thing to go to bed with a good-night look at General Kitchener, William Muldoon, the Duchess of Marlborough, and Benvenuto Cellini.

This story really doesn't get anywhere at all. The rest of it comes later—some time when Piggy asks Dulcie again to dine with him, and she is feeling lonelier than usual; and General Kitchener happens to be looking the other way; and then—

I dreamed that I was standing near a crowd of prosperous-looking angels, and a policeman took me by the wing and asked if I belonged with them.

"Who are they?" I asked.

"Why," said he, "they are the men who hired working-girls, and paid 'em five or six dollars a week to live on. Are you one of the bunch?"

"Not on your immortality," said I. "I'm only the fellow that set fire to an orphan asylum, and murdered a blind man for his pennies."

DOROTHY DIX'S TALKS

By DOROTHY DIX

THE WORLD'S HIGHEST PAID WOMAN WRITER

Ten Commandments for the Summer Visitor

FIRST: Never invite yourself to anybody's house. When you desire to graft a hotel bill do not write to one friend that you yearn to behold her beauteous countenance, and the seraphic faces of her offspring or to another acquaintance that your doctor has recommended sea baths, or mountain air for you, and will it be convenient for her to have you come and make her a little visit.

Bear in mind that the U. S. mails are still running and pen paralysis is a rare disease. Also that the telegraph and telephone perform their accustomed functions and that those who desire your presence will have no difficulty in making it known to you.

There are many pests that go up and down in the land seeking whom they may devour, but none is so pestiferous as the self-invited guest.

Second: When you go to make a visit go at the appointed hour and on the designated train. Also take with you a small amount of baggage. Nothing gives a hostess such a sinking of the heart as for a guest to arrive with a mountain of trunks that looks as if she had come to stay to the Judgment day.

Third: Don't take your angel child with you, or your Pomeranian pup, or your cat, or your parrot, or any pet whatsoever. For the child that draws pictures with a pin on the best mahogany table, and plays cars on the Persian rugs, and spills things at table, and the strange dog that howls by night, and the parrot that wakes sleepers at dawn by its screeching, cause a hostess to curse her who brought these afflictions upon her, and to write "Never again" against her in her visitors' book.

Fourth: If you are food faddist, and have to live on any sort of diet, for Heaven's sake stay at home, or go to a hotel where you can pay for the trouble you make. It's sheer brutality to inflict a bum stomach, or unstrung nerves on your friends, and if you have to live on stale bread and skimmed milk, or have everything kept quiet while you sleep off an afternoon, win the eternal gratitude of those who ask you to visit them by saying "no."

Fifth: Play cricket. Be a sport. When you are in Rome do as the Romans do. Fall in with every plan that has been made for your amusement, and help push things along. If a picnic has been arranged, don't say you loathe sitting on the ground and eating messy things with ants and bugs in them, and that you will stay at home and write letters while the others go. If your hostess is a golf fiend who loves on the links, golf with her. If she plays bridge, sit in the game no matter how weary it makes you, for an unadaptable guest is even as a bull in a china shop. It upsets everything and messes up the whole place.

Never forget that the only way that a guest can pay her way is by making herself as agreeable as she can. Therefore pull all your little parlor tricks and go through your repertoire. And, above all, can the argument. If you differ with your hostess on politics and religion, and the proper length of skirts, and what is going to become of the youth of the present day, keep your views to yourself. Nobody's ideal of an agreeable guest is one with whom they were fighting all the time.

Sixth: Put the soft pedal on your attainments and possessions, and swell the chorus in praise of all that your hostess does and has. Rave over her views. Take a real heart interest in her tomato plants. Let her descant to you by the hour about her Minnie and her Johnny. Pat her doggie on the back, and keep silent about your own.

It was to get a sympathetic audience and to show off before you that you were invited. You can get even with her when she comes to see you. Anyway, it's the price one must pay for visiting in country places, for a country home seems to bring out the vanity in people as a hot poultice brings out the measels.

Seventh: Always make your hostess feel that you are having the time of your life. Wear the smile that won't come off, and whoop up the Glad-I-Am-Here stuff, and when you feel the smile beginning to crack and that there isn't another cheer in your system, get a telegram that caalls you suddenly away.

Eighth: Never flirt with your hostess's husband, nor her son, nor her brother. It's against all the game. It's hitting below the belt. Even a savage respects the bread he has eaten, and as long as you are under a woman's roof all of her possessions are sacred to her.

Ninth: Never be one of the crape hangers who sits and tells what a grand time she had last summer, when she visited the Millionbucks and what a splendid limousine they had, and how many servants they kept. It makes a hostess think bitterly of her tin Lizzie and her one maid of all work, and wonder why she is putting herself out to entertain you.

Tenth: Make short visits. That is the secret of being a popular and much-sought-after visitor. There are so many people we would like to have come, if we could be certain when they would go. Never extend a visit, no matter how much you are entreated to do so. After-climaxes always fall flat. Never forget that it is better to go while people weep to see you leave than it is to stay when they shed tears because you refuse to depart.

LAST NIGHT'S DREAMS; WHAT THEY MEAN

DID YOU DREAM OF MICE.

THE mystics make a decided distinction between mice and rats seen in dreams and are not entirely in accord with regard to mice some day with gloomy brow that a dream of mice announces the coming of most serious trouble. But others—and these are in the majority—take a more cheerful view of such a dream and say that if you dream of catching mice you will soon "shame someone who has injured you." If you dream of seeing mice in a trap you will overcome your enemies or make them your friends. The general signification of mice in a trap would appear to be the disappearance of enmity.

If you dream of seeing many mice it is declared to be prophetic of good business. A few of the oracles refuse to commit themselves further on the subject of a dream of mice than that such a dream means coming annoyance for the dreamer. Taking all the various interpretations of a dream of mice together, such a dream would seem to indicate, if one may believe the mystics, that it is an omen of success in business, many friends and triumph over enemies, but also a warning that the dreamer must expect to suffer from annoyances and will not escape trouble. As to that who can escape trouble?

The Housewife's Economy Calendar

MADE WITH PEACHES.

Peaches and Rice.

IT IS often possible to combine raw peaches with other ingredients to make delicious desserts. Here is a recipe for peaches and rice, that makes use of boiled rice and raw peaches.

Put one-half teaspoon of salt and one cup of boiling water in top of double boiler. Place on range and add gradually one-half cup of rice, stirring with a fork. Boil five minutes, cover, place in under part of double boiler and steam until kernels have absorbed water; then add one and one-half cups of milk and steam until kernels are soft. Mold, chill and remove to serving dish, arrange halves of peaches around base and on top and sprinkle peaches with rolled, dried macaroons. Garnish with whipped cream sweetened and flavored with vanilla and forced through a pastry bag.

Peach tart, made by filling a baked pie crust with raw peaches and covering with sweetened whipped cream is another delicious raw peach dessert.

Peach Butter.

We must preserve peaches as well as every other plentiful fruit this summer for use next winter. Canned peaches can be used for many appetizing winter desserts. Peach butter is also worth preparing, as it makes good tarts and can be used like marmalade with toast. Peach butter is most economical to make because when making it you can use small or imperfect peaches, using of course only such parts of them as are in good condition. As they are cut up and stewed large or whole peaches have no advantage over broken or small ones.

Wash, peel and seed the peaches, place them in a granite kettle with a little water, and stew them until they are very tender. Drain off the liquid and put the fruit into a clean preserving kettle. Mash and sweeten to suit the taste and boil it until it is very thick and of a rich color, stirring it constantly to prevent burning.

"What's In a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL.

Facts About Your Name; Its History; Its Meaning; Whence It Was Derived; Its Significance; Your Lucky Day and Lucky Jewel.

PATIENCE.

THE quaint old-fashioned name of Patience has a doubly worthy significance. Not only does it represent an abstract virtue which religion deems all-desirable, but it is also one of the names of holiness. It means "bearing up" and is regarded entirely as an English name though its origin is with the Latin.

The title Pius, applied first to faithful filial love as in the "Aeneid," came to have a higher significance with the advent of Christianity. Under Antonius Pius it became the name of a martyr Pope and later was used most frequently as one of the papal appellatives. Pia, the feminine, is still in use in Italy.

The English translated the virtue expressed in the title of Pius into their Patience, occasionally varying it with Piety and Prudence, which they seem to consider identical. The Puritans are responsible for the vogue of Patience both in England and in this country. Etymological history reveals the fact that there was a St. Patiens, of Lyons, in early times and St. Prudentius was the great Christian poet.

The turquoise is the talismanic stone assigned to Patience. It will protect her from evil, especially from accidents. Tuesday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number.

Life isn't long—
A lisp, a song,
A kiss, a smile, a tear;
A little wait,
The opened gate,
Again the faces dear;
Yes, life is brief
With joy and grief,
A comradeship awhile—
God grant you this:
You find the kiss,
Behind the tear the smile.

Life isn't long—
The little wrong
That other men may do,
The things you clutch,
Won't matter much
So very long to you.
Yes, life is so:
Before we know
We pass beyond the hill.
God grant you leave
No man to grieve
Because you did him ill.

Life isn't long—
So let's be strong
The toil and grief to bear,
With singing heart
To do our part,
If high, or low, or where.
Yes, life's a dream,
A passing gleam,
A shadow on the grass;
God grant you made
Your spot of shade
For others where you pass.

SAYS RACE SUICIDE IS INCREASING AMONG COLLEGE GRADUATES

STATEMENT IS MADE BY MEMBER U. S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE.

SOME COLLEGE PRESIDENTS DOUBT THE CONCLUSIONS

They Admit Figures Are Startling and Present a Disquieting View Of The Future.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—Is race suiside increasing among college graduates? Maurice Ricker of the United States public health service says that it is, and quotes statistics. Some college presidents are inclined to doubt the conclusions drawn by the health service official and think his figures give a wrong impression. Others say that from lack of statistics of their own, they are not prepared to discuss the subject. They admit that Mr. Ricker's figures are startling and that they present a disquieting view of the future.

Addressing the recent convention of the National Educational association in Des Moines, Iowa, Mr. Ricker was quoted as follows: "Investigation by the federal public health service over a period of years indicates that the progeny of 1,000 graduates from such institutions as Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Vassar and Smith will not exceed 50 in 100 years from now." He proceeded to compare the results of a similar canvass among illiterate foreigners, and said it indicated that in a like period the original thousand would be multiplied at least 100 times.

Frederick L. Allen, secretary of the Harvard university corporation, produced some figures of his own from the Harvard records. He said:

"Mr. Ricker's assertion would seem at first reading to give the impression that college students have on the average less than one child apiece. This is not so among Harvard graduates at any rate. Among the classes 1881-90 at Harvard, the last 10 classes whose statistics are available and may be considered fairly complete, the average number of men per class was 248, of whom 183 married and had 372 children, an average of 2.06 children per married graduate, or 1.55 children per capita for the whole class. The Yale figures for the same period are similar. The birthrate among Harvard graduates declined during the past half century. The decline, however, was less sharp in the class between 1870 and 1890 than it had been previously; and a situation which is disquieting at best, seems thus to be showing a gradual tendency to right itself."

No figures on the subject are available from Wellesley college, but President Ellen S. Pendleton gives it as her impression that as far as the alumnae of Wellesley are concerned, the number of marriages and the number of children per marriage have increased rather than decreased as the years have gone by. "Some 20 or more years ago," said Miss Pendleton, "the Association of Collegiate Alumnae gathered quite elaborate statistics comparing the health, number of marriages and number of children per marriage of college women with similar statistics of their sisters who did not go to college or their cousins nearest their age. These statistics showed that there was very slight differences between the two classes, but such difference as there was, was in favor of the college-bred women, and as I have said while we have no recent figures my impression is that there are more marriages and more children per marriage in these later years.

"No one denies that college women marry later in life than non-college women and consequently any statistics that are made up on the basis of women not more than five years out of college would give an entirely wrong impression. I suspect that the same thing would be true of college men."

An article for the Smith Alumnae Quarterly and based on the quinquennial catalogue of 1915 offered as the latest available information regarding the graduates of Smith college and their children. This gave the average number of children for each of the total number of alumnae (5962, with the class of 1915 omitted) as .56. The average of children for each marriage in the classes numbered '79 to '85 was 2.15. This decreased with later classes until the average for each marriage from 1879 up to 1915 was only 1.24. The compiler, Florence Homer Snow, of the class of 1904 suggests that if the figures seem small, arguments for the defense include the facts that the youngest classes are the largest, and that many college women marry late so that the figures regarding them are not available until they have been many years out of college.

FAMINE-RIDDEN RUSSIANS HAVE CONQUERED THE CHOLERA PLAGUE AND CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVING

Editor's Note.—John Graudense, attached to the Berlin bureau of the United Press-United News, was sent into Russia to learn the exact conditions there by special arrangements with the soviet authorities. He was permitted to enter the country and to talk freely with its inhabitants. Herewith his first dispatch from Moscow.

By JOHN GRAUDENSE.
United Press Staff Correspondent.
(Copyrighted, 1921, by United Press.)

MOSCOW, Aug. 22.—Famine-ridden Russia has conquered the cholera plague which for a time was taking a toll of 1,500 to 2,000 lives weekly, Dr. Samet told me here today. Samet, who has just returned from Mamaria, where the death rate was highest, said the death rate has been lowered to from 40 to 50 per week.

Dr. Samet, who is an anti-communist, agreed with others I met on my arrival here to learn the real situation in Russia, that conditions are improving.

Russia is enduring stoically the pressure of hardship, poverty, food shortage and disease.

I entered this country on a ramshackle train which in itself indicated the straits of the Russian people, crowded and dirty, some of the cars reeking with vermin. It was a discouraging expedition from the time we left Riga and crossed the barbed wire barrier which separates Latvia from soviet Russia.

Despite their difficulties, however, Russians do not dream of leaving their country. I gathered from long conversations with D. Samet and other observers.

One of the first men I encountered was Dr. Samet. He had just returned from Samaria with his wife, Titania, also a physician.

Together they had fought day and night to defeat the plague which was killing hundreds every day. Neither is a bolshevik, but both praised the promptness with which the government met the danger, mobilized its medical forces and checked the plague.

Samet's wife and he labored day and night with other physicians and medical students. For two weeks they met little success. Men and women died horrible deaths while they watched.

They persevered, however. Sanitary regulations were enforced, the victims disposed of, to avoid infraction of the living. In two weeks victory was in sight. "We first heard of the plague last July," Samet said. "The drought had become effective before that time and all sorts of disquieting rumors were afloat.

"At first we thought little of it. Then we got word that we couldn't doubt. Cholera was raging and from 1,500 to 2,000 persons were dying of the disease every week."

Mrs. Samet nodded confirmation of her husband's words.

"The government quickly met the emergency. All physicians were called in. Medical students were asked to volunteer for service in the plague region, too. Most of us were glad to go.

"Special trains fitted with medical equipments, medicines and other supplies were sent into the region with us.

"It was a most strenuous onslaught against disease and it deserved to win.

"Sickened by the condition which we faced, we gave it all our strength. I slept only by minutes and my wife got little rest with her constant nursing and calling on patients.

"Within a fortnight we had gained a victory. The death rate had fallen to 40 to 50 per week.

"The fact that Titania and I are here on a vacation with many others who worked in Samaria, confirms the government announcement that the scourge is now past its height."

EMPHASIZE IMPORTANCE OF DEBIT STATEMENTS OF FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—The importance of the debit statements issued by the statistical department of the Federal Reserve bank here were emphasized recently by Frank H. Huston, manager of this department, as representing more accurately the actual volume of current banking business than is gleaned from the reports of the various clearing house associations.

"The debits to individual accounts are collected from 24 clearing house centers in this district for the week ending Wednesday night and are made available for use Sunday morning," said Mr. Huston. "These debits represent all checks paid by banks.

"The clearings as given out by the clearing house represent only those checks paid by banks other than that on which check is drawn, and while fairly representative of the volume of current business, we have satisfied our own minds that it is not as close an index as the debits.

"For instance, if the International Harvester company should draw its payroll check against the banks carrying its balances, either in bulk or for individual employes, the check would not appear in the clearings until it had been paid out or put in some bank and checked against by the employe. Necessarily the payroll check is a very important feature in analyzing business conditions and volume.

"The American Bankers association two years ago indorsed the idea of compiling debits to individual accounts which are furnished by the individual banks to the clearing house managers and by clearing house managers to us. Our own experience shows that the trend in these debits indicates a change about one week earlier than the clearing house exchanges, or so-called clearings."

MILK—rich and fresh—
on instant notice

Whether you live in the city or country, haven't you often wished you could have all the rich, pure, fresh milk you want on instant notice? You can, if you use Klim Powdered Milk.

Klim IS Milk with the water removed. Nothing is added—nothing taken out but the water.

When you want liquid milk you replace the water.

Think what this amazing discovery of modern science means to you! It means that wherever you are, at any moment you want it, you can have an abundance of the freshest and best milk. It means that you have milk that never sours—that needs no ice to keep it—that does not freeze in winter—that can be opened hundreds of times and always be as fresh as the day it was powdered.

Spell it backwards

FREIGHT RATES AND THE FARMER.

The Railway Age points to heavy shipments of farm and truck products within recent months as proof that the increased rates are not so high as to retard agriculture. It says:

"The present freight rates have been widely attacked by theorists on the ground that they are 'higher than the traffic can bear.' It has been argued that they have prevented the movement of much traffic and that this has been one of the main causes of the prolonged business depression.

"The facts regarding the shipments of farm products refute this theory. Railway rates have been advanced as much in proportion on farm products as on other commodities. The prices of farm products have declined more since the rates were advanced than the prices of any other very large group of commodities. Therefore, on this theory the rates on agricultural products should be especially difficult for the traffic to bear and should sharply curtail its movement.

"The facts are illuminating. Paradoxical as it may seem, while the total traffic moving has been abnormally small the shipments of farm products have been almost unprecedentedly large. Throughout the present year to date shipments of grain and grain products have been much larger than in 1920 or 1919, before the present freight rates were fixed. In the eight weeks ending July 23 the shipments of grain and grain products were 97,105 cars greater than in the same weeks of 1920, and this is typical of what has been going on throughout the present year.

"A very extensive and energetic propaganda was being carried on a few months ago to show that it was and would continue to be impossible for the farmers to ship their fruits and vegetables to market on the present rates. What are the facts? During the season of 1920 up to August 6 the total shipments of fruits and vegetables were 145,316 car loads, while in the season of 1921 up to the same date the total shipments were 171,390 car loads.

"There has been a corresponding increase in shipments of other kinds of produce. From January 1 to August 6, 1920, shipments of butter were 314,600,000 pounds, while during the same period of 1921 they were 346,800,000 pounds. Shipments of cheese increased from 105,500,000 pounds to 113,600,000 pounds; shipments of dresed poultry from 86,300,000 pounds to 93,000,000 pounds; shipments of eggs from 10,300,000 cases to 11,500,000 cases.

"It was said that cantaloupes could not be shipped from the Imperial Valley of California to the eastern market on the present rates. The number and tonnage of cantaloupes shipped were greater than in 1920. It was said that the large peach crop of Southern Georgia could not move to market under the present rates. The department of agriculture reports that 'shipments of peaches from Southern Georgia during the season just ended were twice as great as during the 1920 season, and growers regard the season as fairly successful despite the lower prices this year. A tabulation of car lot shipments to August 1 shows 9,500 cars shipped from Southern Georgia and about 10,500 cars from the entire state. In 1920 the car lot shipments were 5,500 from the entire state up to August 1.'

"It may be said, however, that freight rates are only relatively a small part of the prices of farm products, and that they are restricting the movement of cheaper and more bulky commodities in whose cost to the user the railway rate is a larger factor. There is no class of commodities more bulky or the freight rates on which are relatively higher in proportion to the prices for which they sell than sand, gravel and stone. The shipments of sand, gravel and stone in the seven weeks ending July 16 were 33 1-3 per cent more than they were in the same week of 1920."

The Railway Age is a conservative publication and while it may be prejudiced in favor of the railroads it has always faced the figures squarely, but while it can point to the heavy movement of farm and truck products as proof that the rates are not prohibitive others can cite many examples of cases in which the high rates levy a heavy toll upon the agricultural producer. The rates may not be so high as to stop agriculture but they do levy a toll that is almost certain to restrict and retard this industry. And the toll for the most part comes out of the pocket of the grower. An example can be cited in the matter of grain rates. It now costs nearly three times as much to ship a bushel of wheat from Wichita Falls to Galveston as it did a few years ago. Most of the wheat sold here has been for export and the price has been what was paid in Liverpool or some other foreign market less freight and other costs and profits to the dealer so that it can be seen that the grower has paid the freight. In this instance the freight changes have not prevented the ready shipment of the farmers' wheat but the increase in the rate may have represented the difference between profit and loss in the growing of the crop to the farmer.

By this we do not mean to pass upon the question of the fairness of the present rate. It may not be too much for the service performed.

THAT REDISTRICTING BILL.

Governor Neff has sent the redistricting bill back to the legislature to ask that it amend the bill so as to make it effective in 1922 instead of 1924 as the measure now provides. There appears small prospect that the bill will be changed.

The bill in its present form is so plainly a denial of right to the people of West Texas and so plainly violative to the constitution that it is difficult to see how Governor Neff can sign it notwithstanding that there will not be another regular session of the legislature to enact a new bill until 1923. We hope he vetoes it and feel that if he does so his action will have the approval of the people of West Texas. As the Denison Herald says: "It would be better for the districts to remain as they now are with West Texas denied its just representation than for it to make a compromise with political infamy."

In its editorial discussing the bill, the Herald says:

"Probably on the theory that a half loaf is better than none, West Texas senators are importuning the governor to approve the senatorial redistricting bill which reached him the last day of the first called session. According to population as well as its voting strength, West Texas is entitled to four additional representatives in the state senate and East Texas four less than the number it now has. But East Texas, or rather the senators representing that geographical section of the state, were unwilling to accord another section of the state its just rights. The only redistricting bill it would assent to is the one passed, which gives West Texas but two more senators, with the further provision that the act shall not become effective until 1924.

"Considering the difficulty encountered in getting any sort of a measure through the senate, we can understand just why the West Texas gentlemen should be chary of matching another fight when the odds are all against them. The East Texas contingent appears to be in the saddle and they are determined to hold what they have regardless of all sense of justice or shame. Most unwillingly did they make the slight concession to the west and it is possible that should the governor disapprove the measure and resubmit the question redistricting would fail utterly at this session as it has for more than ten years in the past.

"However, the bill as drawn is so palpably violative of the constitution as well as all sense of right and justice between sections, we don't see how Governor Neff can either approve or permit the act to become a law without his signature. It would be better for the districts to remain as they now are with West Texas denied its just representation than for it to make compromise with political infamy."

LET THEM ALONE.

The attempt to commit to the democratic members of congress to a position in reference to the proposed changes in the income tax and internal revenue tax laws, we believe, was unwise and will accentuate divergent views of democratic members of the congress. To have allowed the republicans to have foundered around in their own mire without democratic help or hindrance would have been the better course. A satisfactory solution of the tax problem is impossible and anything the republicans do will be unsatisfactory and they will have to suffer the consequences of dissatisfaction.

To be candid, we believe the republicans have done the best they could without exercising the courage required for drastic reductions in governmental expenditures and it is doubtful whether the public, as anxious as it is for a reduction in taxes, is prepared for such drastic reductions in public expenditures as will be necessary before there can be any material reduction in the taxes we pay. The public will have reached this stage along about 1922 when it will elect a democratic congress.

HUMANISMS

Inner Lights on Lives and Whims of Personages in the Public Eye

By WILLIAM ATHERTON DU PUY

Clifford W. Smith has got himself engineered into a soft political job in the easiest, most novel and altogether marvelous way in which the coup has been pulled since the Pharaohs began to be solicited for patronage.

It happened just after Mr. A. D. Lasker of Chicago came down to Washington to take charge of the shipping board and iron the warps out of it.

The board was about to go into session to get itself organized when the telephone rang and, it was the president. And he said that he was sending over a young man named Frank McCue, who was a friend of his and of Mrs. Harding's, and they would appreciate it if he could be appointed secretary to the shipping board. And Mr. Lasker said he surely could and to have him come right over.

So Mr. McCue came over and Mr. Lasker saw him for a moment and took his card to get the name straight and went on to the board meeting. But in the hallway he met a young newspaperman who wanted to get an interview, and Mr. Lasker said he would see him a little later in the day, and he asked the newspaperman to give him his card so he could schedule him. And the newspaperman did, and the card read "Clifford W. Smith."

And Mr. Lasker went on into his board meeting and during its deliberations the matter of settling on a secretary came up and Mr. Lasker said that the president had sent a man over for the post. He reached into his pocket, took out a card and announced the name: "Clifford W. Smith," he read from the card.

So Smith was appointed forthwith. A messenger went out, found Smith, and brought him in.

"Hold up your right hand, Mr. Smith," came the order. "Do you promise to support the constitution of the United States," 'n' everything—"

It was the oath of office. Smith assented to the whole darn thing. Forthwith he was secretary of the shipping board.

A little later McCue came to Mr. Laskers office. That official thought he was about to be interviewed for a newspaper.

"What do you want me to talk about?" he asked.

"Why, about the position to which the president asked you to appoint me," said McCue.

Whereupon Lasker went into a trance or should have done so, to give the piece a conventional ending.

Senator Boise Penrose sits at the head of the table in the rooms of the committee on finance.

One who knew this man at any time during the first twenty-three of the twenty-four years he has been in the senate—Penrose, the cartoonists' picture of the Penrose, the full-blooded, ruddy, corpulent physically dominant—would hardly recognize him at the other end of the long table.

Yet Senator Penrose is by no means a physical wreck. Three months ago he was brought to his offices in a wheelchair, the pallor of great illness upon him. Today he is well and vigorous, but not the figure of yore.

His face is as brown as a coffee bean, where once it was florid. That huge neck of his is now the scrawny gathering place of a million wrinkles. Bony-faced, raw-boned, huge of frame, alert, old but virile, he is as physically unlike the Penrose of old as George Harvey is unlike William Howard Taft.

THE HISTORY OF

YOUR NAME

By PHILIP FRANCIS NOWLAN

FAIRFAX.

Variations—Blount, Blunt.
Racial Origin—English.
Source—A nickname.

Here is another group of three family names which originally, in medieval England, were merely descriptive nicknames. They were very common ones, as may be judged from the frequency with which they occurred in the old records, which is easily understood in the light of the historical emphasis on the light hair and fair coloring of the old Teutonic races of northern Europe.

The name Fairfax is compounded of two Anglo-Saxon words, the second one meaning "hair." "Edward Fairfax" was simply "Edward the Fair-Haired." Chaucer writes of "fair fanning fax," encircling the shoulders of a warrior. Later spellings of the name show such forms as "Fayrfax," "Fairefax" and "Farefax."

"Flaxenhead" is a form of the name which seems to have disappeared.

But in the old Norman records we run across such names as Walter le Blunt, Reginald le Blond and Richard le Blount, all of which were merely the various old methods of spelling our modern word "blonde," which explains such family names as Blount and Blunt.

Children more often than not have the same coloring as their parents, and at that period, when social conditions demanded some better method of differentiation than a single given name, it is easy to see how a couple of generations should fasten a name on a family.

Tomorrow—McDougall.

MANY ITALIANS RETURN TO THEIR NATIVE LAND

GALVESTON, TEXAS, Aug. 22.—Italy is luring her native sons back from the United States in large numbers, according to a bulletin issued in Galveston by the local office of the International Mercantile Marine company. Out of a total of 1,300 passengers booked for the White Star liner Canopic to Naples and Genoa this month, more than 1,200 are Italians in second and third-class cabins, the bulletin said, there being more than 1,000 in the latter class alone.

A great many of these are working people who have prospered in the United States, the bulletin said. Many announce that they may come back, but others state they hope to spend the rest of their days in Italy. Men and women are about equally represented, but there is a large percentage of children, some of whom were born in the United States.

Each of the Italians has an income tax clearance certificate tucked in his pocket together with a copy of the new immigration restriction law which permits him to return to the United States within six months.

INJURY CAUSES DEATH OF 13-YEAR-OLD VERNON BOY

VERNON, TEXAS, Aug. 22.—Pierce Alexander, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs C. P. Alexander of this city, died at 4:10 o'clock Friday at the home of his parents following an attack of lockjaw. The lad had been seriously ill but two days. The disease resulting in the death of the boy was caused by a slight injury to his foot about 10 days ago. At that time he suffered a bruise while riding his bicycle through striking his foot between the toes with the pedal of the wheel. He felt no ill effects from the accident until the early part of last week.

Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Burial was in Eastview.

THE BEGINNING OF A BEUATIFUL FRIENDSHIP

SHE'S SOME BUS, STEVE. BE-LIEVE ME. KNOW WHAT I GET OUT OF A GALLON? 22 MILES! CAN'T BEAT THAT CAN YA?
'LO, STEVE! I JUST GOT BACK FROM A 3000 MILE TOUR. NOT ONE SOLITARY PUNCTURE ON THE ENTIRE TRIP! ALL 4 SHOES LOOK GOOD AS NEW. NOT BAD, EH?
YOU'LL PROBABLY CALL ME A LIAR, STEVE, BUT I'M GIVING IT TO YOU STRAIGHT— I HAVEN'T CHANGED A SHOE ON MY CAR SINCE I BOUGHT IT! THE SPEEDOMETER SHOWS 38,426 MILES!
STEVE, I TOOK MY CAR TO THE SERVICE STATION YESTERDAY. THE FIRST TIME SINCE I BOUGHT IT 5 YEARS AGO. THEY LOOKED IT OVER AND SAID IT WAS IN PERFELT CONDITION.
NO REPAIRS NECESSARY.
HO-HUM! NICE DAY, AIN'T IT?
I S'POSE YOU GET PRETTY GOOD MILEAGE OUT OF YOUR NEW CAR, MR BLAH. I GET 6 MILES TO THE GALLON
I'M LUCKY IF I GET 5! THESE FELLERS WHO GET 15 AND 20 TO THE GALLON AND WHO RUN ON A SET OF TIRES FOR YEARS WITHOUT A BLOWOUT MAKE ME SICK!
I USE A SET A SEASON
MR. BLAH, I'M PROUD TO KNOW YOU! MY NAME'S STEVE TILTON. BY TH' WAY, WHERE ARE YOU DINING TO-NIGHT? I HAVE A LITTLE SOMETHING - AH - YOU KNOW - AND WE CAN - AH - HOW ABOUT IT?
STEVE, OLD KID, I'M WITH YOU TO TH' FINISH!
WEBSTER

TABERNACLE MEETING IS TO BEGIN AT VERNON

VERNON, TEXAS, Aug. 22.—Members of the Church of Christ have secured the services of Charles R. Nichol for a protracted meeting to begin Monday night, August 22, under the new tabernacle adjoining the church building. Mr. Nichol is an evangelist of nation-wide reputation among his people, having preached and debated in almost every state in the union where his church is represented. He has engaged several hundred public discussions with representative men of every faith and order known.

J. H. Antwine of Mineral Wells will have charge of the song services. There will be two services daily and the new tabernacle will seat nearly 1,000 people.

THRILLS OF FLYING NOT NEW TO THE HAWAIIANS

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 17.—Thrills of flying were enjoyed by Hawaiians centuries before aviation was invented, according to stories told by natives of today. Their ancestors got their aerial excitement by jumping off cliffs into the ocean in home-made "planes."

They made a regular game of it, known as "lele pali," or "jumping from the cliff." It was played up to a hundred years or so ago by natives who lived near groves of loulu palms near high cliffs overlooking the ocean.

Details of the game have been obtained by William J. Coelho, a former newspaper editor now an officer of the Hale o na Alii Hawaii (House of Chiefs). This is what he says of the vanished sport:

The game was played with huge contrivances built of light but stout sticks and overwoven with loulu palm leaves. Several of these affairs were made ready, the Hawaiian "aviators" took their seats, and were pushed over towering cliffs at the same time. The adventurer who remained longest in the air was the winner.

Often through carelessness or excitement a "plane" would execute a nose dive similar to those of 20th century airplanes. The only damage was the loss of the game.

Old Hawaiians say that their flying men were exceptionally skillful. The only means they had of guiding their crude appliances was to shift their weight to maintain balance as they zig-zagged down toward the sea.

A fleet of outrigger canoes anchored offshore to pick up the sportsmen and retrieve the "planes."

Exceptionally daring Hawaiians often hopped off 1,000-foot cliffs on the mainland, it is said.

Spudders Lose Ground By Splitting Even In Twin Bill In Houston

Special to The Times.

HOUSTON, Aug. 21.—Home run drives, sensational fielding and two close baseball games, with the Spudders copping the first by a score of 5 to 4, and the Buffs taking the second by a 2 to 0 score, was the dish offered the 4,000 or more fans who made their way to West End park Sunday.

Both games produced homerun drives over the right field fence, McDonald getting a wallop over the boards in the first game and Bottomly in the second, with two runs and the victory. Bottomly, due to a collection taken among the fans, was given $70 for his clout.

In the first game Houston's hopes were raised when Manager George Whiteman hit for two bases with the bags loaded and the count three and two and all runners moving, two men being out at the time. This blow gave the Buffs three runs. In the seventh he came through with another hit, a single which scored Bailey, thereby accounting for Houston's four runs and incidentally making eight runs in two days which he has driven in.

Pierroti opposed Darrough on the hilltop in the first game and the Spudders got to him in the first frame for four hits and three runs. McElwee started with a single, stole second and went to third when Griffith threw wild to second. Tanner was safe on Bailey's error and McElwee scored. McDonald then singled. Danny Clark tripled to center and McDonald scored. Bischoff lifted to Griffith, but Griggs singled, scoring Clark. He went out stealing second.

McDonald connected for one over the fence in the third. His hit was the first of the kind made here in two years. Bottomly's hit was a little longer than the Spudder's, but both clouts were healthy drives.

Clark's Second Triple.

Danny Clark started the making of the last Spudder run in the sixth when he made his second triple for the day, Bischoff scoring him with a sacrifice fly to center.

Houston's first score came in the fifth. Pierotti started by fanning. Baggan walked, Darringer singled, Bailey popped out to short and Blades walked, filling the bases. Whiteman, who made a three-bagger under like circumstances the day before, waited Darrough out. The count stood three balls and two strikes with two men out and every one having to run on the next pitch. The procession started. Blades had almost reached second before the ball was pitched and Whiteman drove it to left field, where Griggs had trouble handling it and all runners scored.

Tanner upset all chances for a Houston rally by a lightning double play in the ninth when Clark made a great stop of Whiteman's liner and doubled Bailey off second.

Two men were on the bases at the time and one out, with but one run needed to tie.

The second game was not without its misfortune. Charles Miller, Buff right fielder, was struck in the back of the head with a pitched ball and was forced to retire. He was stunned for a few minutes, but walked off the field unassisted.

Bottomly Breaks Up Second.

All of Houston's scoring, in fact all the scoring of the game came in one frame. With two men out in the second Miller singled, Bottomly caught the first ball on the nose and parked it outside of the grounds. Marshall and Donalds started the second game, but Marshall gave way to a pinch hitter in the fifth and Bowman finished.

When Bottomly came to bat in the sixth he was presented with the donation from the fans. "Rube" Marshall before the game had a lot of fun with the kids who made up the overflow crowd along the third base. "Rube" staged an exhibition of pitching for their benefit and had quite a few rooters when he took the mound.

The feature catch of the second game was a great leaping stab of Eiffert's drive over second by Danny Clark. The Spudder second sacker chased way back before he made the jump and cheated Eiffert out of a hit.

Giants 7, Cards 4

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—In spite of the rather poor showing of the Giants yesterday, about 25,000 fans turned out for the second game with the Cardinals Sunday. John McGraw called on Fred Toney to stop what threatened to be a losing streak for the Giants. Bill Bailey, lefthander, was the St. Louis selection. Before the game a bat was presented to Frank Frisch by a delegation from New Rochelle, headed by Mayor Scott.

Score by innings—		R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	001 100 002—	4	11	1
New York	012 301 00x—	7	11	1

Batteries: Bailey, Walker, North and Ainsmith; Toney and Snyder.

Dodgers 9, Red Sox 4

BROOKLYN, Aug. 21.—Brooklyn came back strong Sunday and got sweet revenge for yesterday's trouncing by defeating Cincinnati 9 to 4. The Robins fell upon Rixey in the fourth inning and drove him from the box.

FOUR WHITEWASHES IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

Double Defeat of Yankees Gives Indians a Lead of Two Full Games.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Four shutouts were pitched in five American league contests yesterday. One of them occurred in the double defeat of the New York Yankees at the hands of the St. Louis Browns. As Cleveland won from Boston, the world's champions now are two games ahead of New York.

In the whitewash victories, Bayne of St. Louis held New York to four hits, Ehmke of Detroit limited Philadelphia to four; Mogridge of Washington allowed Chicago six, and Sothoron of Cleveland checked Boston with six. Bayne led with strikeouts and two passes, while Sothoron fanned seven Red Sox batters without passing any.

Eighteen men were struck out in the first New York-St. Louis contest, which had many odd features. Shocker of the Browns and Shawkey of the Yankees each fanned nine men. Shocker came through to victory despite his wildness in passing seven men and hitting another and four errors by the Browns. Shawkey allowed one less hit than his opponent and received good support. Of seven St. Louis men reaching first base only two failed to make the full circuit. New York had 11 left on base.

All of the Brooklyn National players made one or more hits in defeating Cincinnati. New York players stole five bases on Catcher Ainsmith of St. Louis.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Senators 3, White Sox 0.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—George Mogridge, Clark Griffith's stellar lefthander, shut out the White Sox 3 to 0 Sunday. The Sox made just half a dozen scratch hits. Fred Batchi singled for Wilkinson in the eighth.

Batteries: Collins, Piercy and Schang; Bayne and Severeid.

Indians 4, Red Sox 0.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21.—Not a Boston Red Sox runner reached third base Sunday and only two got at far as second base off Allan Sothoron's great pitching. The Indians won 4 to 0. Joe Sewell scored the Indians' first run in the second inning by dashing home from second while two of his team mates were being run down between bases.

Score by innings:		R	H	E

VERNON PUBLIC LIBRARY NOW HAS 4,151 VOLUMES

VERNON, TEXAS, Aug. 22.—Vernon free public library now has 4,151 volumes, according to an annual report given last week before the local board. On account of limited book funds only 175 new books were added during the year. Fifty-three of these were new fiction. Expenditure for books from the library book fund was $168.56, and from rentals and fines $107.94. Expenditure from the Carnegie library fund for the year was $1,319.90.

During the year 16,034 books were loaned to the citizens of Vernon and Wilbarger county, an average of 1,355 books per month. Twenty-three were lost in circulation. Membership cards are held by 3,180 persons, and 251 cards were issued during the year. Fines and sale of membership cards amount to $128.77.

The Sportlight by Grantland Rice

(Copyright 1920 New York Tribune Inc.)

It would be interesting if some alert statistician could name the number of persons now earning a living from sport, including the amount of money they are annually drawing in. The total both ways would be enormous. If one includes all the ball players, boxers, trainers, golf professionals, the list would run far into the thousands with the total annual income well into the millions. Jack Dempsey and "Strangler" Lewis alone in the last year have lured in over $700,000 at the gate, while the annual pay roll of the sixteen major league clubs alone is around a million and a half.

SIDELINES.

Even those a trifle off the main highway collect important money. Take the case of the caddie. There are over [illegible] golf clubs, and these at one time or another will keep close upon 100,000 caddies on the week-end pay roll, with scattered employment through the week.

On Saturday and Sunday of each week the mobilized army of caddies will collect at least $200,000. The annual financial outlay for caddies must run above $3,000,000.

The amount spent upon equipment, clubs, racquets, clothes, shoes, etc., is another staggering item. Add to this the cost of football stadiums, the building and upkeep of golf courses and the indefinite total passes into the hundreds of millions.

Yet it is one of the finest investments that any nation can offer its people—as many other countries outside of America and Great Britain are beginning to learn.

AN OLD SUBJECT.

The big tidal wave of sport which struck this country got under way only a few years ago, as time is counted.

And in that period practically the entire interest of those competing has been placed upon the development of the physical side of the game, upon condition, how to play this stroke or that shot, how to grip, stand and swing.

Again we insist that in the future training for mental control will be one of the big factors in developing a game. Unless one can make mind take control of matter, mere physical skill is only of fair importance.

And the only way to train mind to control matter is to practice concentration of the proper sort, to work for co-ordination, to labor for the building up of an unmatched determination.

It is an old subject in this column, but its importance is so vast that it is worth a constant hammering home.

OLD AND NEW PIRATES.

"Is the Pittsburgh team of this season as strong a machine as the old Pirates led by Fred Clarke?" asks a reader.

The answer is approximately no.

The Pirate array of twenty years ago included such pitching stars as Jack Chesbro, Deacon Phillipe, Jesse Tannehill and Sam Leever.

And then there was the immortal Wagner.

Not to forget Fred Clarke himself, Tommy Leach, "Kitty" Bransfield and a few others who helped to outclass the field.

The old Pirate machine was only a notch back of the Orioles, the Boston combination of Tenney, Lowe, Long and Collins, the Old Cubs and the Athletics of 1911.

There is no club in baseball today that might be classed as one of the great machines of the day. Just as the past had no Babe Ruth.

Mike Gibbons is now all poised to take a running jump at either Downey or Wilson when they conclude the second chapter of their serial on Labor Day. And Mike, as a boxer, is so far beyond either Wilson or Downey that it is close to an odds-on proposition that the Phantom will be the next middleweight champion. Provided he gets his chance where decisions go on points.

The main wonder of Mike's comeback is that his ancient fins haven't been shattered in one of his sample bouts. Or possibly no one has tipped Michael off to the fact that the shattered fin is now the ultra style. Everybody's wearing 'em.

The report that a number of heavyweights have invited Jack Dempsey to a disarmament conference is said to be unfounded.

The inter-championship battle between Jim Barnes and Jock Hutchison on Labor Day at Great Neck for a $2,000 purse will be the first of several clashes between the American and British champions. It is the first time in golf history that both scepters are being waved on this continent. Naturally the matter of final supremacy between the two will be the subject of more than one burning debate. With Jock the Dashing pitted against Jim the Careful big galleries will have the chance to watch opposite types under fire, where no one can pick the winner until the final standing of the Jim Jock League is completed.

If Urban Faber, who is now out beyond the twenty-victory mark, can grind out thirty victories with a ball club as far down as the White Sox, he will have the exclusive ownership of one of the greatest records ever made. Considering all-details, Faber has done the best pitching of the year, where only a short while back they were checking him out of the entry list as one of the broken blossoms of the game.

Sport Shots by Paul W. Larkin

Only a game and a half to the good now.

Maybe if that second contest had gone nine innings the boys would have had a chance. It looked for a while as if they would pull the game out of the fire, as it was, in the final chapter Baggan took Frank Kitchens' drive off the boards with two on. Danny Clark poled one over the right field fence that was foul by only a few feet in this game, also, with a man on. No luck.

The Spudders have lost four games on the road, and circuit smashes were responsible for two of the losses. Johnny Brock turned the trick once in San Antonio and Bottomly did it yesterday. "Rube" Marshall served the fence-ball on both occasions, too.

"Rube" would easily have won both his starts had the Spudders hit in anything like their normal form behind him. Walter cannot complain about the hurling he has received since the club left. He said if he got the pitching he'd come back in first place. Well, he's getting it.

Lloyd Weaver's trip to dig up an outfielder yesterday was wasted. The man he went after had signed to finish the season with Abilene in the West Texas league. The Spudders own an Abilene outfielder now, but cannot get him until the season is over.

Nothing new has developed in the Josefson deal as yet. However, a letter was received from Will Gray today in which it was stated that Walter had a deal on in the Southern league which would be decided one way or the other today. If the club gets the man it is after there, Josefson won't be needed. As usual, no names were mentioned.

"Smiley" Bischoff is filling the vacancy left by Jake Miller in a manner that leaves nothing to be desired. He has been getting his blow in every day and has handled everything in the outfield faultlessly.

"Slim" McGrew outpitched Paul Wachtel yesterday, but his mates wouldn't win for him. The Panthers made the less hits while McGrew struck out six more than Wachtel. However, the proverbial Panther luck won out. If the Cats don't hit, the opposition kicks 'em.

It will be interesting to note how the Panthers fare in Houston and Santone. The Buffs are by no means out of the race and are still looked upon as contenders. The Panthers haven't given them as much trouble as some of the other clubs this year and the Buffs are in better shape now than when the two clubs clashed before. The Bears are always dangerous and dealt considerable misery to the Panthers in their last two series. The Cats received the decision in the majority of games, but most of them were by one run. If the Atmen do better than break even there, we'll be surprised.

The Browns handed the Yanks a terrible wallop by taking two from them yesterday. The double defeat put Babe and his clan two full games behind the Indians. It's going to be a mean series that opens in Cleveland tomorrow. The New Yorkers will be there for three days.

EVANGELIST MARTIN IN A MEETING AT STAMFORD

STAMFORD, TEXAS, Aug. 22.—Dr. Martin, evangelist, of Seattle, Wash., and Evangelist Singer Ezra Jacks of Dallas are conducting a revival at the First Christian church in this city. Dr. Martin arrived Thursday evening and took charge of the services. The interest is growing and large crowds are attending the meeting.

AMOS RUSIE SEES HIS FIRST MAJOR LEAGUE GAME IN 19 YEARS

Former Baseball Idol Declares Babe Ruth is Greatest Figure in Game.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Amos Rusie, an idol of baseball fans more than 20 years ago, sat on the sidelines at the Polo Grounds during a recent game between the Yankees and White Sox, marveling at Babe Ruth, whom he declared to be the greatest figure in baseball.

"It's been 19 years since I saw a major league game," Rusie remarked. "The game surely has taken long strides. Back in my day we had some heavy hitters, but none of them could hold a candle to Ruth. [illegible] to Wagner, Lajoie, and Ed Delahanty."

Back in the '90s, when Rusie appeared at the Polo Grounds, the cheers and shouting were all for him. The Hoosier Cyclone, they called him, for he was considered the greatest right-handed hurler in the game. He dropped from the game in 1902 after trying vainly for two years to overcome the handicap of an injured arm.

When Rusie quit the game he returned to his home in Muncie, Ind., and later went to Seattle, Wash., where he worked as a laborer. He is past the 50 mark in years and his hair is gray. He sat unnoticed by players and fans alike, for he was unknown to them.

Then Kid Gleason, the old manager of the White Sox, recognized him. They were rivals for pitching honors in the old days. "I'm certainly glad to see you, Amos," said Gleason. "Seems like old times to see you around." The famous old twirler returned the greeting and they walked to the White Sox dugout arm in arm.

Although Rusie has not witnessed a major league game for so many years, he said he had kept up with the game through the newspapers.

He said he did not approve of putting restrictions on the styles of pitching. "Give them a chance to develop. In my time we were not permitted to soil the ball and there were no freak deliveries. We had to depend on speed and fast breaking curves and we had a great advantage over the batters. The batter of today has the edge, however. The livelier ball and curbing of pitchers are the reasons. This can be carried too far.

"The crowds are greater today than at any time. Baseball is now a great national institution. The White Sox scandal has not hurt the game much. Judge Landis has offset that black eye."

Arnold and Cole In Deciding Match In Burk Thursday

BURKBURNETT, TEXAS, Aug. 22.—In an attempt to settle for all time the question as to the better man, Kid Cole of this city and Jack Arnold of Dallas will participate in a 10-round decision bout here Thursday night.

Last month at Breckenridge Arnold, holder of the Texas state featherweight title, knocked out Cole in the 12th round of a title battle. Three weeks ago Cole turned the tables on the champion by securing the popular decision over Jack in a 10-round bout here, so that the contest of this week takes on the aspect of a rubber.

Arnold arrived here this morning from Breckenridge where on Saturday he effected a draw with Frankie Nordin of Fort Worth.

The little boys started training immediately, though he is practically ready for the fray. Fans are expecting a fast and furious battle.

[illegible] of this city has been selected as referee. He will be assisted in arriving at a decision by two judges to be selected the morning of the bout.

NEW LOW RECORDS IN THE STOCK MARKET

BURKBURNETT OFFICER LOSES GUN, PRISONER AND WHISKEY WHEN THIRD PARTY INTERFERES

A policeman of Burkburnett had an interesting experience Sunday night. The entire story is built around two five-gallon cans of whiskey.

The said policeman had been tipped off by one of the substantial citizens of Burkburnett that there was whiskey hidden along the road at a certain spot. The policeman jumped in an automobile and proceeded to this point.

Another automobile was parked near this spot and just as soon as the officer stepped from the car and began placing the whiskey in his car, the second automobile started to run away. The policeman gave chase and they sped merrily on. At a cross road about four miles from Wichita Falls the pursued car turned and the policeman caught up with it.

The officer ordered the man out of the car. At this point a third automobile drove up behind the other two and a man got out and ordered all hands up. The whiskey, the policeman's revolver and rifle and the pistol of the driver of the pursued car were all taken. The bandit then ordered the policeman and the other man into their cars and told them to proceed. They did.

ARMED MEN PLAN TO GIVE DEMONSTRATION BEFORE THE GOVERNOR

CHARLESTON, W. VA., Aug. 22.—The armed men who are in camp near Marmet, W. Va., plan to pass through Charleston and stage a demonstration before Governor Morgan's residence, when they start their march toward Mingo county, according to reports received here today by J. H. Charnock, chief of police.

The police executive declared that in event the men started for Charleston he was prepared to meet them at the city line and turn them back.

FORMER CUSTOMS INSPECTOR AT BROWNSVILLE GUILTY OF HAVING EVADED THE DRAFT

BROWNSVILLE, TEXAS, Aug. 22.—Simon Garcia, former United States customs inspector here, was found guilty of evading the draft by an army courtmartial at Fort Brown today and sentenced to serve one year and a day at hard labor in a federal prison. Garcia registered for the draft in 1917, it was said, and returned to his business at Monterey, Mexico. It was charged he failed to respond when summoned to duty.

LOUISVILLE MAYOR SAYS KLAN MUST STAY AWAY

LOUISVILLE, KY., Aug. 22.—Terming the Ku Klux Klan an organization which "all thoughtful men must be convinced must be a menace to the peace and good understanding between the people of Louisville," Mayor Smith today issued a statement asserting that he would use "every lawful means to prevent and suppress its growth in our community."

The mayor's statement came on the heels of announcement in local newspapers advertising for recruits for the order.

Takes Poetry to Express Opinion Of Legislature

Here lies a called session—a thing of the past;
Flowers of oratory in dead hands claspt.
Constituents neglected—a great state disgraced,
Thirty days wasted—a record defaced.

It robbed a few teachers—deprived them of hope,
Fed the dear "peepul" amendments by Pope,
While Curtis of Tarrant and Bonham of Bee
Ran the steam roller and chortled with glee.

The warehouse department and Nacogdoches, too,
Were victims of Veatch's economy crew.
It save a plugged penny, and squandered a pound,
It lacked much in brains, but it made up in sound.

It strove hard to hinder, all high education,
And loved the poor farmer to verge of prostration,
Till one night in August, it passed out, alas!
It died, as it lived, in a great puff of gas.

The above was perpetrated by R. Frank Johnson, representative of the Wichita-Wilbarger district with the collaboration of Le Sturgeon of San Antonio.

"We are going to pass the educational bill and adjourn," writes Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson's troubles at Austin have been augmented by the fact that his baby daughter has been critically ill during part of his stay there.

SLIGHT DECREASE IN THE COST OF LIVING

Amounted to Seven-Tenths of One Per Cent During the Month of July.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The cost of living decreased seven-tenths of one per cent during July, according to figures made public by the national industrial conference. Prices are still 62 per cent higher than the July, 1914, level and only 20.8 per cent lower than the peak reached in July, 1920.

Declines in July were in clothing, which dropped 3.5 per cent, and in sundries, which dropped 1.1 per cent. Food prices, the report said, went up 3 per cent.

CHARGE SHIP MEN PREY ON BOARD AND PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Charges that operators to whom the shipping board had allocated part of its fleet had deliberately "preyed upon the board and the public" were made in the senate today with a demand that their names be obtained and published.

Senator McCormick, republican, of Illinois, declared it "was a notorious fact" that a certain operator had ordered a ship proceeding from the Philippines to this country to turn back to Manila, after covering 1,600 miles of the voyage, to take on coal on which he made a profit of $200 and at a cost to the shipping board of $12,000.

WOMAN JURY ON CASE AT ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI

ST. JOSEPH, MO., Aug. 22.—What is believed to be the first woman jury in this state is sitting here today in the justice court of J. W. Wilson in the case of the state versus Mr. and Mrs. A. Husky, charged with destruction of private property. Attorneys on both sides agreed to try the case before women.

BOND IS FIXED AT $2,000 ON CHARGE OF BURGLARY

L. L. Wagner, who was arrested last week on a complaint charging burglary, was bound over to await the action of the grand jury following a preliminary hearing under a bond of $2,000. It is alleged that Wagner broke into a lady's room at Burkburnett and stole a revolver.

BOND IS FIXED AT $1,000 IN LEGOIS SEIZURE CASE

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Legois, in whose home it is alleged the 183 gallons of wine were found by Texas Rangers last Friday night were arrested Monday by Rangers McCormick and Gonzaullas and bonds in each case were set at $1,000.

MARKET IS NERVOUS AND UNSETTLED WITH FRESH LIQUIDATION

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The stock market was nervous and unsettled today, fresh liquidation being provoked at the outset by announcement of the financial embarrassment of a well known brokerage house.

More than a score of new low records for the year were made during the morning. Offerings were moderate but steady, and the numerous sharp reactions between sales, sometimes ranging from one to two points, testified to the involuntary character of the selling.

Mexican and Pan-American Petroleum, Royal Dutch, General Asphalt and Cosden and Houston oils lost one and one-half to three points and Pierce Oil preferred lost eight points. One lot of 3,900 shares of Sears-Roebuck sold at 60, a loss of two and one-half points, and this loss was soon extended.

Pierce-Arrow common and preferred, Chandler, Studebaker, Willys-Overland preferred, Kelly-Springfield Tire, U. S. Rubber, Fisher Body, American Hide and Leather, Central Leather, American Sugar, American Sumatra, Tobacco, United Retail Stores, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, International Harvester, Consolidated Textile and American Linseed were among the stocks which fell to the year's minimum quotations.

There were no developments in the money market to cause the further depreciation of stocks. Call loans were made at five and one-half per cent and time loans were unchanged, but accommodations of that class were limited largely to short periods and high class collateral.

THREAT OF DRY LEADERS HAS FAILED TO EXPEDITE ACTION BY THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Threats by house prohibition leaders to prevent a recess of congress until the anti-beer bill had been finally enacted failed today to expedite action by the senate.

Senator Sterling of South Dakota, chairman of the conferees, announced that it was his plan to call up the measure during the day. Senate leaders expressed doubt as to whether a vote would be reached prior to the recess adding that they were proceeding with plans to quit work Wednesday night for a month.

TERRELL YOUTH KILLED AND FATHER IS INJURED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO

TERRELL, TEXAS, Aug. 22.—E. A. Russell Jr., 18, was killed instantly and his father seriously injured when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by eastbound Texas and Pacific passenger train No. 6, two miles east of Wills Point today. The injured man is being taken to Dallas on the Texas and Pacific "Sunshine Special" for treatment.

COYOTE PICKS WRONG CHICKEN YARD SUNDAY, IS KILLED BY WOMAN

Hearing a disturbance in her chicken yard Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Shelton Smith, living near Iowa Park, took the family shotgun to the scene of trouble and found a large coyote preparing to enjoy a chicken supper.

Mrs. Smith interrupted the depredator's anticipations with a shot from the weapon, and as a result expects to have a new coyote rug for her home soon.

COUNCIL MAY ACT ON UNSIGHTLY ADVERTISING SIGNS ON SOME STREETS

Measures for removing advertising signs from city streets will probably be taken at the city council Monday night. It is reported that along the principal highways where they enter the city limits, numerous signs have been placed, with results that are considered unsightly. The council has no jurisdiction, of course, over signs on roads outside the city limits, but will probably take some action on signs inside the corporation.

FORMER SPECIAL OFFICER IS ARRESTED SUNDAY ON INFORMATION FROM GRAHAM

Bob Red, who while serving under a special deputation of two weeks under Constable Frank Morgan assisted in the arrest of Vernon Darby, charged with the murder of John Whitman, was arrested Sunday by Sheriff Fred Smith upon information from Graham. Graham officers wire the sheriff that he was wanted there on a felony charge. Red was placed in the county jail awaiting officers from Graham.

DEDICATE A TABLET TO THE DEFENDERS OF VERDUN

VERDUN, FRANCE, Aug. 22.—Members of the American Legion this morning dedicated a tablet to the defenders of Verdun in the city hall here. The tablet was erected to the men who, during the terrific German onslaught of February and March, 1916, stood before Verdun and held back the enemy.

At the end of the ceremony four of the Americans were decorated by the municipality with the special medal of Verdun.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The cotton market showed considerable firmness during today's early trading, owing to reports of very high temperatures in the southwest and relatively steady Liverpool cables. There was some scattered southern selling at the start, but first prices were steady at an advance of 6 to 14 points, and as soon as the initial offerings had been absorbed, active months worked some 20 to 25 points above Saturday's closing on covering and trade and commission house buying. Offerings were comparatively light on the advance, which carried December up to 13.70c. Yesterday's late weather map showed temperatures ranging around 90 to 98 degrees in Texas. Liverpool cables attributed the advance there to unfavorable crop reports.

After declining to 13.76 for December or 19 points net higher, the market became less active and there were reactions of several points from the best under realizing. A good part of the early buying was attributed to covering which was supposed to have eased the technical position of the market to some extent. Except for realizing there was no selling pressure of consequence, however, and the market held steady after publication of the western belt forecast for continued fair weather with December ruling around 13.76 at mid-day, or about 20 points net higher.

Trading remained quiet during mid-afternoon but prices showed continued steadiness on detailed weather reports confirming early reports of hot weather in the southwest.

December ruled around 13.65 to 13.70, compared with 13.47 at the close last week.

The market closed strong.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—Highly discouraging accounts of the effects of drought and high temperatures on the growing crop, particularly in Texas, caused a strong advance in the price of cotton today, the trading months rising 20 to 30 points in the first hour. October traded up to 12.95c. Supplementing Texas reports were claims from Georgia of an exceedingly short crop in many counties of that state.

Following the first upturn there were recessions of 10 to 15 points under realizing by traders on the long side, but the forecast of fair weather for the entire western half of the belt brought in new buying and at 11 o'clock prices were back again within 4 or 5 points of the highest, October standing at 12.91c.

In the early afternoon the market became very strong on Washington messages stating that the house had passed a bill authorizing the War Finance corporation to use a billion dollars in financing exports of American crops. Trading months were sent 37 to 44 points higher than the close of last week to 13.01c for October.

Cotton closed steady at a net advance of 46 to 50 points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Continued heavy export reports coupled with buying here by houses credited with seaboard connections caused an upturn in wheat at the start of today's trading. September opened ½c to 1½c higher at $1.15 to $1.16, while December was ½c lower at $1.14⅞ to $1.15, but soon touched $1.16⅛.

When eastern orders were filled, however, local shorts raided September and the early gains were lost.

September sank to under $1.13⅛, a new low for the season, but both options rallied when the visible supply statement showed an unexpected decrease of 962,000 bushels. The close was at the top with September $1.16⅞ to $1.17 and December $1.18 to $1.18⅛.

Corn was dull, but slightly firmer, on word that country offerings were held somewhat higher than the market. September started unchanged at 51¼c to 52c and December ⅛c to ⅜c higher at 52⅞c to 53c. The market followed wheat and held gains of ⅛c to ⅜c fairly well.

A decline of 2,620,000 bushels in the visible supply sent corn up in late trading and the close was at high figures for the day with September 53⅞ to ⅛ and December 53⅞ to 54c.

Oats attracted some buying by commission houses, starting ⅛c to ⅜c higher with September 33⅞c to 34c and December 36⅛c to 36⅜c.

Provisions opened 7½c to 20c lower on light offerings. Weak cables and lower hog prices were factors.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Sentiment in stock market circles was adversely affected at the opening of today's session by the failure of a prominent brokerage firm. Oils, steels, equipments, motors, tobacco and food shares denoted fresh liquidation. Within the first 15 minutes declines of one to 2½ points were registered by Mexican and Pan-American petroleums, General Asphalt, Baldwin locomotive, Chandler, Studebaker, Sumatra tobacco and American sugar. Bethlehem and Crucible steels as well as General Electric, Retail Stores, Industrial Alcohol and Famous Players also were heavy and rails sustained moderate losses.

Mexican petroleum, retail stores and several other active stocks rallied in the afternoon but minor issues continued to weaken. Pierce Oil preferred increased its loss to nearly 15 points and Vanadium, Republic Iron preferred, Shell Transport, Famous Players and International Paper were heavy.

Rails, including dividend paying shares, finally gave way with the general list. Pacifics, grangers and coalers reacting 1 to 2½ points in the last hour. The close was weak. Sales approximated 450,000 shares.

The State of Texas and County of Wichita—To Panhandle Townsite Co. and the heirs of C. Scholberg, deceased, whose names are unknown, and unknown owners and all persons owning or having or claiming any interest in the land or lots hereinafter described, the same being delinquent to the state of Texas and county of Wichita for taxes, and the same lying and being situated in the county of Wichita, and state of Texas, to-wit: Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, in block 75, in the original city of Wichita Falls, Texas, which said property is delinquent to the state of Texas and county of Wichita for taxes for the years 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904, 1905, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1910, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, 1916, 1917, 1918 and 1919, aggregating the sum of $84.91, including interest, penalties and costs, said taxes having been legally levied, assessed and rendered against said land and lots, and the same being a lawful charge and constituting a prior lien against the same in favor of the state of Texas and county of Wichita to secure payment thereof; and you are hereby commanded to be and appear before the honorable 78th district court of Wichita county, Texas, at the next regular term thereof, to be held at the court house of said county, in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, on the first day of September, A. D. 1921, the same being the 5th day of September, A. D. 1921, then and there to show cause why judgment should not be rendered against you and the said land and lots sold under foreclosure of said lien to satisfy said taxes, interest, penalties and costs, and all court costs, all of which, together with other and further relief, general and special, being fully set out and prayed for in the plaintiff's original petition filed in said court on the 12th day of July, 1921, and appearing on the docket thereof as suit No. 10265-B, wherein the state of Texas is plaintiff, and Panhandle Townsite Co., the heirs of C. Scholberg, deceased, M. H. Barwise and unknown owners and all persons owning or having or claiming any interest in said land or lots, defendants. Given under my hand and seal of said court, at office in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, in the county of Wichita, this 13th day of August, A. D. 1921. A. F. Kerr, Clerk, District Court, Wichita county, Texas, by Effie Holland, Deputy.

GEORGE SIMMONS vs Wichita Great Western Underwriters, No. 10316—In the district court of Wichita county, Texas, 89th judicial district. On this day came on to be heard the petition of the Wichita Great Western Underwriters, suggesting to the court that order be entered providing pleas of intervention in the above case must be filed on or before the 1st day of October, 1921, and the court, having fully advised in the premises, is of opinion that said petition be granted. It is, therefore, the opinion of the court that all parties holding claims against the Wichita Great Western Underwriters should be required to file their pleas of intervention on or before the 1st day of October, 1921, and it is, therefore, accordingly decreed that all parties holding claims against the Wichita Great Western Underwriters shall file said pleas of intervention on said claims on or before the 1st day of October, 1921, and not thereafter. P. A. Martin, Judge. 88-11tc

NOTICE BY PUBLICATION
State of Texas, County of Wichita.
By virtue of an order of sale issued out of the honorable 78th district court of Wichita county, Texas, by the clerk of said court on the 15th day of August, 1921, in the case of Iowa Park Oil Association vs A. J. Alexander and E. A. Lamb, numbered 9265 on the docket of said court, on a judgment rendered in said court on the 13th day of August, A. D. 1921, in favor of the said E. A. Lamb and against the said Iowa Park Oil Association for the sum of Five Thousand Dollars with interest thereon from the date of said judgment at the rate of 6 per cent per annum and costs of suit, with a foreclosure of lien on the following described property, to-wit: All undivided one-half interest in and to the following oil and gas lease, to-wit: Being that certain oil and gas lease situated in Wichita county, Texas, and covering 10 acres in block 31, Munger Bros. subdivision, Wichita Valley Farm lands, and the northwest 20 acres of block 2 of the Phillips survey, all more particularly described in that certain assignment made by Iowa Park Oil Association to A. J. Alexander on October 2, 1920, and of record in the deed records of Wichita county, Texas, as said lien existed on said 13th day of August, 1921, and to me, as sheriff, directed and delivered on the first Tuesday of September, 1921, the same being the 6th day of said month, at the court house of Wichita county, Texas, in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., I will offer for sale and sell at public auction all the right, title and interest of the said Iowa Park Oil Association in and to said above described real estate. And in compliance with the law I give this notice by publication in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale in the Wichita Daily Times, a newspaper published in Wichita county. Witness my hand, this the 15th day of August, A. D. 1921. Fred K. Smith, Sheriff, Wichita county, Texas, by H. C. Dakan, Deputy.
(Aug. 15-22-29.)

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
The State of Texas to the Sheriff or Any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting: You are hereby commanded to summon T. K. Knox by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls on the first Monday in September, A. D. 1921, the same being the 5th day of September, A. D. 1921, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 2nd day of October, A. D. 1920, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court No. 9172-B, wherein George Hustead, R. H. Hustead, A. H. Hustead, W. B. Tucker, H. B. Tucker, J. C. Tucker and J. A. Sparlin, partners in trade under the firm name of Hustead & Tucker, are plaintiffs, and T. K. Knox is defendant, and said petition alleging that heretofore, towit on the —— day of ——, 1920, said defendant was the owner, or reputed owner, and holder of a certain oil and gas lease, and operating an oil and gas well on said lease, located on 51 acres out of block 56 of the J. A. Kemp subdivision of the S. P. Ry. survey No. 4, Wichita county, Texas, and being the east 51 acres of the said block 56, and more particularly described as follows: Beginning at the northeast corner of block 56, Wichita county, Texas, thence west along its north line 303 vs.; thence south 950 vs., thence east 303 vs., thence north 950 vs. to the place of beginning, and that by virtue of a verbal contract entered into by these plaintiffs with the said defendant, T. K. Knox, furnished supplies to the said defendant pursuant to the terms of said contract amounting to the sum of $992.50; that the said defendant, though often requested, has failed and refused, and still does fail and refuse to pay these plaintiffs the said sum of $992.50; that the said sum is just due and wholly unpaid. The plaintiffs would further state that heretofore, on the 9th of August, 1920, these plaintiffs caused to be made, filed and perfected their material man's lien in the office of the county clerk of Wichita county, together with an itemized statement of their account for materials and supplies furnished, duly verified by affidavit, and caused notice thereof to be served upon the defendant, T. K. Knox, the owner, or reputed owner, and holder of the leasehold, oil well and fixtures and appliances, upon and about for which said materials was furnished, and upon which said material man's lien was so filed. Wherefore, the premises considered, the prayer of these plaintiffs is that the said T. K. Knox be cited to answer this petition and that, upon a final hearing of this cause, the plaintiffs be awarded a judgment against the defendant, T. K. Knox, for the sum of $992.50, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the said date heretofore mentioned until paid, and for the costs of this suit, together with the cost of fixing, perfecting and filing their lien, and that their material man's lien be adjudged a prior subsisting lien against the property mentioned and described in said lien, and for a further judgment foreclosing their lien on same, and for all such other and further relief to which these plaintiffs may be entitled either in law or equity. Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same. Given under my hand and the seal of said court at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 22nd day of July, A. D. 1921. A. F. Kerr, Clerk, District Court, Wichita County, Texas; by Eunice Jackson, Deputy.

LOCAL DELEGATE TO ROTARY CONVENTION HAS RETURNED HOME

Fred T. Couper, local delegate to the International convention of Rotary clubs, held in June in Edinburgh, Scotland, returned home late Saturday night, after over two months' absence. His daughter, Miss Annabelle Couper, accompanied him on the trip.

Mr. Couper brougt back with him a large box filled with certain delectable products of Scotland. It was necessary for him to bring the box back as part of his personal baggage, as it might have been broken if shipped otherwise, and he did not let it get away from him during the 5,000-mile journey home. The box contains a number of jars of strawberry and currant jam.

After attending the convention at Edinburgh, Mr. Couper visited relatives and renewed acquaintance with scenes of his earlier life.

Mr. Couper will make a report on his trip at Thursday's session of the Rotary club.

WICHITANS RETURN FROM EUROPEAN TRIP BRING DENMARK GIRL WITH THEM

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. C. Christensen returned Sunday night after an absence of more than four months during which they visited in Denmark and made a brief tour through Germany, Belgium and France. They brought home with them Miss Dhemer Rasmussen, a niece of Mr. Christensen's who will make her home with them. Miss Rasmussen lived in Copenhagen where Mr. and Mrs. Christensen spent much of their time. Mr. and Mrs. Christensen return in excellent health and enjoyed a delightful time.

TWO MEN PLEAD GUILTY TO CHARGES OF DRIVING AUTOS OVER FIRE HOSE

Fines of $5 each were assessed against two men in the city police court Monday morning following their pleas of guilty to driving automobiles over fire hose Sunday afternoon. Both men were arrested by Motorcycle Officer Davis on complaints made by Fire Chief McClure who charged that they had run over hose being used in fightin fire on Van Buren street.

Both defendants pleaded guilty to the charges immediately after being arraigned.

SCARCITY OF RENT HOUSES IS REPORTED BY REALTY DEALERS

A pronounced scarcity of rent houses is reported at present by local real estate men, most of whom have numerous applications from prospective tenants on file. It is believed that with the return of cool weather, and the reopening of school, the situation will become still more serious.

One real estate man said Monday that tenants could be found without delay for at least 50 more houses than are available here.

Such vacant places as there are at present are not of the sort desired by prospective tenants, it was stated. The present demand is for five and six-room houses, with conveniences, on or near pavement.

Sunday Fire Due To Young Smokers, Firemen Believe

Small boys using the place as a shield from parental wrath while they enjoyed a few puffs of the weed are believed to have been responsible for a fire which early Sunday afternoon completely destroyed a garage in the rear of the F. F. McKinsey home, 610 Van Buren street. Damage amounted to $750, according to reports made by firemen.

An automobile housed in the structure was removed before the flames had gained great headway, this saving a much larger loss. No insurance was carried, it is said.

A second fire was reported at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, just an hour following the McKinsey blaze, from the rear of the Herbert Gray residence, 1906 Elizabeth street. An electric iron which had been left turned on in a servant's house at the rear of the place is thought to have become overheated and started the blaze. Quick work by the fire department held financial damage at this place to less than $50.

Positions That Pay Well, and Are Always To Be Had

The perfecting of typesetting keyboards has brought new and unusual opportunities in the printing business, the business that gives development to great minds.

Positions of this kind always have paid well and perhaps always will, and doubtless they will always be plentiful, because the printing business expands as civilization develops. Anybody who could learn to operate a typewriter can learn to operate a typesetting machine. If you want to learn how to do the work of a monotype machinist; if you want to learn to do the work of an Intertype or Linotype machinist; if you want to learn to operate any of these machines; if you want to learn the work of the business office—if you want to get into a work that will always pay you well, and if you can spare three to four months for preparation, write for Prospectus to American Publishers' and Southern Publishers'

LOCAL HEAT RECORD GETS BUSTED SUNDAY, TEMPERATURE IS 110

All local heat records are believed to have been fractured Sunday afternoon, when the recording thermometer at the Art store registered a temperature of 110 degrees.

The thermometer registers only as high as 110 degrees, and the temperature line went above the point where the figures stopped.

Earlier in the summer, temperatures of 105 to 107 had been recorded, but Sunday's mark is a new one to shoot at.

SUNDAY WAS HOTTEST DAY OF THE YEAR AT DENISON

DENISON, TEXAS, Aug. 22.—Sunday was the hottest day of the year for Denison. At 2 p. m. the mercury reached 103. Wells and tanks on farms in north Grayson county are low and suffering among stock is impending unles sthe drouth is broken, farmers say.

SUNDAY HOTTEST DAY IN HOUSTON SINCE JUNE, 1918

HOUSTON, Aug. 22.—Houston was trying to recover today from a sweltering Sunday, the hottest day since June, 1918. The thermometer yesterday went up to 99 and stayed there while Houstonians vainly sought some relief.

"BLUE SKY" LAW FOR ALL STATES IS PLAN

Will Be One of Chief Topics of Conference of Commissioners on Uniform Laws.

CINCINNATI, OHIO, Aug. 22.—The thirty-first national conference of commissioners on uniform state laws will open here tomorrow for a week's session preceding the convention of the National Bar association. Drafting a uniform blue sky law for all states, and of a law for protection of illegitimate children will be chief among the subjects considered.

The conference, made up of commissioners from all of the states and from the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines, during its existence since 1890, has had its recommendations for uniform laws adopted in 291 jurisdictions.

Opening day tomorrow will be principally taken up with organization and the presidential address by Judge Henry Stockbridge of the Maryland court of appeals.

Thursday the conference will open as a legislature for the consideration of the eighth draft of a uniform incorporations act. This will be the subject taken up in morning and afternoon session, with a report on a uniform blue sky law to be given in the evening, together with suggested amendments to the warehouse receipts and bills of lading acts.

Proposal for a uniform fiduclaries act will come up for consideration Friday when the first tentative draft of the measure will be presented. The evening session will consider the first tentative draft of an act relating to the status and protection of illegitimate children.

All of Saturday will be taken up with the second draft of a uniform declaratory judgments act, with Monday given over to consideration of the first draft of a uniform mortgage act and of report of the committee on compacts between states.

The decision of these commissioners are printed and brought before legislatures of all states recommended for passage. The negotiable instruments act, recommended by the conference, has been enacted by 51 jurisdictions while the sales act and bills of leading act has received favorable action in 27 jurisdictions, and the warehouse receipts act in 45.

Commissioners in 33 states are appointed by the chief executive acting under express legislative authority. In the other jurisdictions the appointments are made by general executive authority, three representatives from each state.

Object of the conference as stated in its constitution is to "promote uniformity in state laws on all subjects where uniformity is deemed desirable and practicable."

Proposed acts are drawn by special committees of trained lawyers, and are printed and discussed at the national conference, usually for several years before adoption.

CHICAGO IS EXPECTING 85,000 HEAD LIVESTOCK NOTWITHSTANDING APPEAL

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Records of five railroads showed that 20,000 head of cattle, 42,000 hogs, and 23,000 sheep were due here today despite the appeal of Everett C. Brown, president of the National Livestock Exchange, to shippers to hold off shipping.

The appeal to stop shipping until congested market conditions are relieved is expected to be felt to a greater extent later in the week, however, according to Mr. Brown. He asserted the so-called buyers' strike against meat dealers will not break until retailers give their customers the benefit of reduced wholesale prices which will then tend to clear up the glutted market conditions.
