Egypt demands Malta extradite hijacker

VALLETTA, Malta (AP) — Egypt today demanded that Malta extradite the surviving hijacker of the Egyptair jetliner and autopsies were conducted on scores of people killed when commandos stormed the plane.

Maltese investigators today questioned passengers and crew who survived the drama, which began Saturday when terrorists commandeered the Boeing 737 shortly after it left Athens, Greece, for Cairo, Egypt.

Fifty-eight people were killed when Egyptian commandos stormed the jetliner Sunday and the hijackers threw fire grenades into the cabin.

An American woman was shot to death before the Egyptian raid. Two other Americans and two Israelis were also shot by the hijackers Sunday morning, Maletese. All survived, but one of the Israeli women was declared clinically dead Tuesday.

Government spokesman Paul Mifsud said the total death toll in the 24-hour drama was 59. There were 98 people aboard the plane when it was commandeered.

Maltese officials on Tuesday said the suspected hijacker had identified himself as a 20-year-old Tunisian named Omar Marzouki whom they said was described by several people on the plane as the leader of the hijackers.

He was hospitalized in satisfactory condition with unspecified wounds, Mifsud said.

In Cairo, the Egyptian government today issued a statement saying the extradition request was made so Marzouki, "can be tried under Egyptian law since this is Egypt's right under international law."

Mifsud said Marzouki had been questioned by police but "his health condition has not permitted yet any in-depth interrogation."

On Tuesday, before the news agency report, Mifsud said Malta "will have to see" whether any extradition request would be honored.

Egypt's state security prosecutor Ragaa al-Araby said that if extradited Marzouki could face charges of murder, espionage and endangering transportation with penalties ranging from death to lengthy imprisonment.

Autopsies to determine whether the victims died from gunshot wounds or the effects of the grenade were conducted today at St. Luke's Hospital and at a temporary morgue.

Mifsud said the results of the autopsies would be turned over to the investigating magistrates. He said he did not know if the results would be made public.

Shuttle Atlantis launches first of three satellites

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Atlantis' astronauts, hurled into orbit in a dazzling nighttime launch, today deployed a $42 million Mexican communications satellite that for economic reasons and because of earthquake damage to ground facilities won't be used for four years.

Morelos B is the first of three communications payloads the crew planned to spin out of the space shuttle in the first two days of its mission to clear its cargo bay for two lengthy space walks to practice space station construction methods.

"We got a good deploy," reported astronaut Sherwood Spring.

Forty-five minutes later, a rocket motor fired to propel Morelos B toward a lofty outpost 22,300 miles high.

The positioning of the satellite dictated the brilliant nighttime liftoff Tuesday that provided rocket watchers with the most spectacular sound and light show in the 35-year history of more than 2,000 launchings from Cape Canaveral.

Mexican officials said Morelos B would be inserted into an orbit that will allow it to slowly drift, without using fuel, to its planned stationary post in 1989. They said if they waited four years to launch, the cost would be four times the $10 million Mexico is paying NASA for the delivery service now.

Morelos A, which was launched from a shuttle in June, is providing first-time telephone and television service to many remote areas but only half its capacity is being used. The recent Mexican earthquake which damaged many of the nation's satellite ground communications facilities was another factor in the decision to "park" the second satellite for several years. It will be some time before money is available to repair the facilities.

Astronaut Rodolfo Neri, Mexico's first astronaut, was aboard to observe the deployment of his country's satellite and to conduct several experiments for Mexican scientists.

The launch originally was scheduled for 7:38 a.m. today. But when Mexico decided to put Morelos B into the drifting orbit, liftoff was advanced to an after-dark liftoff at 7:29 p.m. Tuesday.

In the immediate area, the clear sky was transformed from night into light as the 100-ton space plane thundered toward orbit, trailing a 700-foot fountain of flame. The sensational sight drew oohs and aahs from more than 55,000 people watching from inside the spaceport and another 100,000 or so viewing from vantage points elsewhere in the county.

The launch was seen as far away as Columbia, S.C., 400 miles to the north; Miami, about 200 miles to the south; Key West, about 420 miles southwest; and St. Petersburg.

Only twice before have rockets with such power blasted away from the Cape in darkness. The first was Apollo 17 in 1972, and the second was space shuttle Challenger in 1983. Both times clouds reduced the visibility. But not Tuesday night, when the stars were twinkling, and a bright moon, just one day shy of being full, hovered above the launch area.

Once in orbit, the six men and one woman in the crew settled in for a weeklong flight during which they will launch the three satellites, practice space station building concepts, operate a small drug factory, search for water in drought-stricken Africa with a special camera and grow a variety of crystals.

A satellite will be launched tonight for the Australian government and on Thursday for RCA American Communications.

On Friday, Spring and Jerry Ross will take the first of two six-hour space walks to test techniques for building the permanent space station the National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans for the 1990s. They will fashion 93 struts into a 45-foot beam that could be a key building unit and from six 12-foot-long struts they will form a structure that looks like an upside-down pyramid.

The other crew members are commander Brewster Shaw, Byran O'Connor, Mary Cleave and Charles Walker. Walker, making his third space trip, is a McDonnell Douglas engineer who will operate a machine to purify a hormone called erythropoietin, a complex protein that can be used to treat red-blood-cell deficiencies such as anemia.

IPAA president thinks tax reform bill will die

By PEGGY ROBERSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The independent oil industry would be better off with no tax reform bill than with the one that came out of the House Ways and Means Committee late last Friday, spokesmen said Tuesday.

Chances are good that the measure will die in the Senate or a House-Senate conference committee, in the opinion of LLoyd N. Unsell, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

Unsell and other IPAA executives, who invited oil state reporters to lunch at the association's headquarters here Tuesday, said they will work to build a coalition against the bill in the weeks remaining before Congress recesses for the year.

There is a real question whether 51 percent of the House would go along with the tax reform plan, because while it lowers individual and corporate tax rates it also adversely affects many constituent groups.

The biggest question, however, is the extent the package would be backed by President Reagan, whose support is considered essential for final package.

"A lot of big corporations are...saying they are going along, but as they analyze it, they will see the cost in investment, jobs and productivity," Unsell said. "As their analysis continues, you will see more well-founded opposition."

Unsell noted that the National Association of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States "have not come out swinging" in favor of the tax-reform bill.

The IPAA president said he would "guarantee" that the final House product, and certainly the combined version to come out of a House-Senate conference, would not be the same as the bill reported from Ways and Means.

As it emerged from the committee, nicknamed "Rosty II," in honor of Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., the bill was a "significant improvement" for the independent oil industry over the package laid on the table by the committee staff for a starting point in the long and tedious drafting process.

The committee rejected, 21-13, a motion by Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., to retain current law as it affects the oil and gas industry.

The package of changes, expected to raise taxes on the industry by almost $4 billion in the next five years, was adopted by the committee by a vote of 29-4.

Rostenkowski's first proposal would have raised about $9.1 billion from the industry while Reagan's proposal (known informally as "Treasury II") would have raised $2 billion over five years.

As it cleared the committee, the so-called "percentage depletion" allowance for small, or "stripper" wells owned by independent producers and royalty owners is retained.

Local officials ask state highway department to fix road hazard

By GARY RASP
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — City and county officials joined hands Tuesday to ask the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation to eliminate a road hazard in northern Midland County.

The problem centers around the intersection of State Highway 158 and Interstate 20, just south of Midland. Rainwater builds up at the intersection, blocking traffic along highway 158, causing numerous accidents and several fatalities. About 60 percent of the traffic along the highway comes from trucks, officials added.

Post office will be constructed on north side of ClayDesta Plaza

From Staff Reports

ClayDesta Corp., has announced the sale of approximately 4.25 acres of land to the United States Postal Service for construction of a classified postal station.

The future post office will be located on the northwest corner of Air Park Drive and Smith Road in the ClayDesta Plaza north property development and will be called ClayDesta Station.

Bill Sandlin, general manager of ClayDesta Corp., said the new post office was the first project for the ClayDesta Plaza north property area.

"We are very excited about this project because it will be the first of several projects to be constructed on our north property."

He added that the future station will enhance postal service for ClayDesta plaza tenants.

Midland gas prices among state's highest

From Staff Reports

Motorists traveling to grandmother's house or anywhere else in Texas during the Thanksgiving holidays reportedly are getting a break at the pumps, according to the American Automobile Association. But a AAA survey shows Midland has some of the highest-priced gasoline in certain categories.

A fuel gauge survey conducted by AAA revealed prices have dipped in full and self-serve categories. "Since the Labor Day survey, prices have decreased by as much as 3.7 cents per gallon," said a spokesman with the AAA. The only category showing a gain was diesel, jumping by as much as five cents per gallon.

For full service, Midland's prices were listed as 136.8 cents per gallon for regular, 141.2 cents for unleaded, 149.7 cents for premium and 138.5 cents for diesel.

For regular, Midland had the highest price. Next in line was Dallas-Fort Worth with 134.7 cents a gallon. El Paso had the lowest price with 124.4 cents. Austin had the highest price on unleaded with 141.8 cent while El Paso had the lowest with 129.9 cents. For premium gas, Dallas-Fort Worth again had the highest with 154.2 cents and El Paso had the lowest with 134.7 cents.

For self-service gasoline, Midland's prices were: regular, 114.1 cents; unleaded, 121.1 cents; premium, 127.9 cents; and diesel, 116.8 cents.

In regular self-service, Midland was the leader followed by El Paso with 112.4 cents. The cheapest can be found at Houston where customers pay an even $1 a gallon.

Waite: Mission at 'dangerous stage'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anglican church envoy Terry Waite says his mission to free the Americans kidnapped in Lebanon is at a "highly dangerous" stage, but he does not believe the United States must compromise its principles in order to gain their release.

Waite met Tuesday for an hour at the White House with Vice President George Bush, who invited the envoy to Washington for the session.

Waite, who is the lay assistant to the archbishop of Canterbury in England, had come to New York from Athens to meet with relatives of the hostages. The envoy has been to Beirut twice in recent days in the effort to gain the hostages' release, and he indicated that he is waiting for an answer to his request to meet with officials in Kuwait.

Waite said he supported the position of the Reagan administration not to put pressure on the Kuwaiti government, which is holding 17 Moslems jailed for bombings in Kuwait. The kidnappers have said the Americans would be released if the 17 prisoners were freed.

"I was able to give him a general briefing on the situation and to indicate some ways in which I felt that this matter could be resolved," Waite told reporters following his session with Bush. "I don't wish to be more specific."

The envoy warned that the matter is at a "highly dangerous" stage, but added later the administration "fully supported" his humanitarian approach.

He said there must be "no attempt" on the part of the United States to gain the hostages' release by force, adding quickly that, "so far as I know, there's absolutely no intention of the United States doing that."

Asked whether he believed the United States must change its policy of refusing to negotiate with terrorists, Waite replied:

"The United States has always taken a position and maintained the position that they cannot change policy as a result of terrorist activity...I would support that position myself."

Asked whether he believed the Americans could be freed even if the United States maintains that policy, he answered, "Yes. I do believe that there is a way forward which could bring about their eventual release without the compromise of principle."

Seated with Waite near a blazing fire in his West Wing office, Bush praised the envoy for his courage in the endeavor and thanked him for his work. "We're very grateful for his humanitarian concern," the vice president said.

Waite said he was unable to answer many reporters' questions about his activities. "Let's take it gently" he advised, warning that any misstep could cost lives.

He said the United States has taken what he called a "correct position."

"They have remained calm, they have remained patient and they have made it possible for an independent negotiator such as myself to pursue an opportunity to see some way through this problem," he said.

The envoy said he planned to meet with "one or two" more individuals before returning to New York.

Bush and Waite met about six hours after President Reagan left the White House for a six-day Thanksgiving vacation at his California ranch.

Waite became involved in seeking the hostages' release after four of them wrote a letter to the Rev. Robert Runcie, the archbishop of Canterbury, seeking the envoy's intervention on their behalf. Waite has successfully negotiated the release of Britons held in Iran and Libya.

He told reporters in Beirut last week that he had met twice with the kidnappers. He did not identify them or say where the meetings took place.

Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, a group of Shiite fundamentalists apparently linked to Iran, has claimed it is holding the hostages.

The hostages who signed the letter to Runcie were the Rev. Lawrence Jenco, 50, of Joliet, Ill., a Roman Cathoic priest; Terry Anderson, 38, of Lorain, Ohio, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press; David Jacobsen, 54, of Huntington Beach, Calif., director of the American University Hospital; and Thomas Sutherland, 54, the Scottish-born dean of agriculture at the American University of Beirut.

Islamic Jihad has said it killed a fifth American, U.S. diplomat William Buckley, 57, of Medford, Mass. The State Department has said it has no evidence Buckley is dead.

For months there has been no word of a sixth kidnapped American, Peter Kilburn, 60, of San Francisco, the librarian at the American University.

He also said there was no change in the conditions of the seriously wounded, including an Israeli woman shot in the head by the hijackers who has been pronounced clinically dead.

Maltese investigators, including Deputy Magistrate Noel Cuschieri, this morning interviewed four Egyptian women, including two injured stewardesses, who were among 11 women released by the hijackers before the plane was stormed.

Soon after the plane was forced to land on the Mediterranean island, two wounded Egyptian stewardesses and 11 women passengers from the Philippines and Egypt were taken off the plane.

Twenty-seven passengers and crew were hospitalized after the raid, and two were subsequently released.

An Egyptian newspaper today quoted the commandos' operation commander as saying the two stewardesses provided them with vital information in planning the raid.

"We went to the hospital and found out from the two wounded air hostesses that there were four hijackers and where they were so we could enter the plane without any losses," Maj. Gen. Mohammed Kamal el-Din Attia told the state-owned Cairo daily al-Akhbar. Maltese officials say there were five hijackers.

Mifsud said Cuschieri would report his findings to the attorney general, who is to decide if court action is needed.

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak said Tuesday Libya's "connection (to the hijacking) is very clear," but he would not elaborate on what action Egypt would take. His government claims the sky pirates were renegade Palestinians financed by Libya, Egypt's neighbor and arch enemy.

Libya has denied involvement in the hijacking.

On Sunday, Mubarak reinforced Egypt's forces on the Libyan border and declared a state of alert there.

Osama el-Baz, an adviser to Mubarak, said Tuesday on ABC's Nightline, responded, "I don't think we are talking or thinking about war. We're taking these measures...for defense purposes, to just be alert."

Egypt sent 80 commandos to end the standoff at the airport and Maltese officials approved the raid.

Mubarak said the troops fired only seven bullets as they attacked and the bullets all hit terrorists. He said the other victims died from "shrapnel, phosphorus bombs and suffocation."

TAX

The allowance would be phased out over three years for other oil and gas properties. Rostenkowski had recommended phasing out the allowance for all producers over three years, but this idea was rejected after intense lobbying from oil-state members and Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III, a former Houston attorney.

Enhanced recovery projects will continue to write off intangibles in a single year, as would dry hole costs. Costs in a producing well, up to casing point, could be written off in a single year, but intangible cost after casing point would be capitalized over a 26-month period.

The bill makes no change from current law in the definition of tangible lease and well equipment. The investment tax credit would be repealed, however, and the depreciation recovery period increased from five to 13 years.

Current law provides for a special election, whereby oil and gas equipment may be depreciated utilizing a units-of-production method and the right to make this election would remain available under the committee plan.

Asked by a reporter why the independent oil producers took a beating — even if it was a less severe trouncing than some congressmen wished — Unsell said they have become the "political whipping boys."

Oil producers developed a reputation as wealthy pillagers in the 1950s when they counted 12 uninterrupted years of record profits.

Unsell believes also that "the public" remembers the accusation hurled at major international companies in the 1970s that they were reaping "obscene profits" because of a dramatic hike in world oil prices.

Adding to the political problem, according to H.B. "Bud" Scoggins, IPAA president-elect, is the fact that only a few congressional districts, out of the 435 in the House, contain independent oil producers.

"But the thing that has done more harm than anything else is those television shows 'Dallas' and 'Dynasty,'" he added.

POST

"The ClayDesta Station will shorten the delivery time of mail and provide additional postal services for our tenants and the area."

According to Bill Williams, postmaster, the decision to locate a facility in the ClayDesta Plaza area was made largely because of Midland's current and projected growth patterns.

"The north and west parts of Midland are the areas where most of our growth is taking place both now and in the future. We chose the ClayDesta Plaza area because of the growth it has exhibited and because of the development we expect will take place after Midland Air Park is moved."

Ground breaking for the 28,522 square foot facility is expected in the spring of 1986 with completion set for mid-April of 1987. The one-story brick building will offer 2,400 post office boxes for rent and will have six window clerks, making it Midland's second largest postal facility behind the main office downtown.

The facility will take the place of the temporary northside post office located at Northland Shopping Center. It will employ 98 postal workers and will service the northeast side of Midland, an area bounded by Golf Course Road on the south, Midkiff Road on the west and the Midland County Line on the north and east.

Williams said parking availability will be an added feature of the new station.

"We will have 69 customer parking spaces with plenty of room for expansion. We're planning and building for the next 30 years. And, we are very pleased to be a part of the ClayDesta Plaza development and pleased we will be able to add to the development with our services."

ClayDesta Corp. is the real estate development and property management arm of the Clayton W. Williams Jr. Companies. Beginning with ClayDesta Plaza in 1981, ClayDesta Corp. now leases and manages over 1 million square feet of office space in Midland, including ClayDesta Plaza, Spring Park and ClayDesta Center Downtown.

GAS

For unleaded, Midland again lead the cities, followed by El Paso with 118.8 cents. Houston also came in at the bottom with the price of 105.5 cents.

For premium gasoline, Dallas-Fort Worth had the highest price with 128.2 cents and Midland was in second place. El Paso had the lowest price with 123.4 cents.

For diesel, the highest price was found in Dallas-Fort Worth with 125.2 cents. And Amarillo posted the lowest price in this category with 114 cents.

Current averages according to the AAA in the full-service category are: regular, 113.8 cents; unleaded, 137.9 cents; premium unleaded, 145.5; and diesel, 133.2. For self-service the averages are: regular, 107.3 cents; unleaded, 113.8; premium unleaded, 125.1; and diesel, 118.8.

The AAA survey indicated that 61 percent of the 268 stations queried will remain open over the Thanksgiving holiday. This is a 16-percent increase over last year. Currently, 28 percent of those surveyed are charging an average of four cents for credit card use. Only 24 percent of the stations will be open 24 hours.

A spokesman for the AAA said the club is expecting more people to be taking to the roads this year to take advantage of the "moderate gasoline prices and good availability."

While traveling, the AAA suggested drivers pull over and stretch, refuel and have a snack every two hours.

ROAD

Both entities agree the state needs to step in before the situation gets worse. Tuesday, they asked the highway department to construct a drainage ditch from highway 158 — where drainage tends to collect — into nearby fields. Interstate 20 is elevated enough to where it is not a serious problem, officials noted.

"We view this from a safety standpoint and from a drainage standpoint as a critical situation," said Midland Mayor G. Thane Atkins.

The project is estimated to cost $5.47 million. Midland County Commissioner C. Wallace Craig said the narrow width of the highway also contributes to the problem.

"The key to it is (Highway 158) needs widening," Craig said.

Fred G. Baker, director of Public Works for the City of Midland, said the city will contribute about $172,000 toward the project. The county will pitch in another $350,000, he said. Those expenditures will go toward acquiring right-of-ways and construction costs, Baker said.

The commission did not rule on the matter Tuesday. Akins said he expects to hear from state officials later this year.

Homeless fill shelters on Thanksgiving

Associated Press

NATION

As the nation sits down to Thanksgiving dinner, tens of thousands of Americans without a dinner table of their own will head to public shelters and charity kitchens for the best meal they've had in weeks.

They are the homeless — families, often headed by women, who can no longer afford rising rents and utilities; unskilled transients who drift from town to town in search of work; the mentally ill released from institutions with no one to look after them.

For them, Thanksgiving is a mixed blessing, providing both a decent meal and a reminder of the tough winter days ahead.

Their numbers are on the rise in many cities, social service administrators say, because of an increasing shortage of low-cost housing, depressed economies in some areas and a lack of job skills that make it impossible for them to break the cycle of poverty.

"We offer survival kits — food and blankets — instead of giving them mending kits, so they can get jobs and education and re-enter society," says the Rev. Carl Resener, director of the Union Mission in Nashville, Tenn.

New York City's shelters are housing more people now than they did during the depths of last winter, said Suzanne Trazoff, spokeswoman for the municipal Human Resources Administration. The 19 shelters currently house 7,783 men and women, and there are 3,959 families in hotels and other temporary housing.

Last year at this time, the city had 6,781 people in 16 shelters and 3,227 families in temporary housing, she said. At winter's worst, there were 7,600 people in shelters.

"I would say in the past few years there has been a significant increase," said Jackie Edens, a spokeswoman for the Chicago Department of Human Services, which coordinates about 40 shelters with a total of 1,700 beds.

"The term 'new poor' is not a figment of someone's imagination. A lot of people are a paycheck away from being homeless," she said.

The return of the middle class to many of the nation's cities is displacing the poor, who have no place else to go but the streets.

In Phoenix, Ariz., builders are displacing much-needed low-cost housing, and it is not being replaced, said Louisa Stark, co-chairman of the city's Consortium for the Homeless. People who lose a low-cost home need $500 or $600 in cash to cover deposits for rent and utilities for a new home, she said.

A report last month by the Massachusetts Department of Human Services said there were more than 10,000 homeless people in the state, with families, most of them headed by women, making up 75 percent of the total.

In Boston, where the problem is most acute, the mayor's office reported this month that the number of homeless in the city has nearly doubled in two years.

The problem is made worse by the release of disturbed, often elderly, people in the push to get the mentally ill out of institutions. Shelter workers worry about them particularly because they are the least able to take care of themselves, sometimes refusing to go to shelters even in the bitterest cold.

Many communities have police round up the homeless when the temperature drops beyond a certain point.

"Half of the men and 90 percent of the women that come to our door are mentally ill," said Roy Morrison, special project coordinator for the Pine Street Inn shelter in Boston.

Shelter workers also are seeing far more women and children than in the past.

In San Francisco, where the number of homeless appears to have stabilized, "the unusual find...is the dramatic increase in the number of women and children seeking refuge or a hot meal," said Jim Buick, deputy director of the mayor's criminal justice council.

"It's the feminization of poverty. A few years ago, we would serve about 50 women and children" meals, he said. "Now we serve about 500. We're also seeing lots of women looking for a place to spend the night."

More than 5,000 people will rely on the St. Anthony Dining Room for a turkey dinner Thursday, said the Rev. Floyd Lotito, director of the kitchen, which he says is sometimes the only place the homeless can turn on Thanksgiving.

Flood victims give thanks at Red Cross relief center

ALBRIGHT, W.Va. (AP) — The smell of home cooking greets visitors to Albright's fire hall-turned-relief center.

In the kitchen, 27-year-old Scott Richards, wearing a long apron and knee-high rubber boots, stirs a vat of chili, then moves quickly to a pot of cream of broccoli soup.

"This is today's dinner," he said Tuesday. "We'll start cooking Thanksgiving dinner on Wednesday. By Thursday, you won't even recognize this place. The floor won't look the same and we'll have the place all fixed up."

Richards, an antique dealer from Columbus, Ohio, is one of more than 200 Red Cross volunteers who came from out of state to help West Virginia's flood victims put their lives back in order. Instead of Thanksgiving in their own homes, the volunteers will cook the meals, serve the food and talk to the lonely in communities across the state.

"What we want to do is make it nice for them," said Richards. "They've been digging in the mud for weeks now. We want to wait on them and take care of them this holiday."

Record flooding Nov. 4-5 swept away cars, homes and entire communities across eastern West Virginia. State officials say damage is estimated at $480 million, with 38 people dead and 10 missing.

The American Red Cross and the Salvation Army are conducting separate Thanksgiving dinner drives in several communities hardest hit by the floods. Each group says it will feed 5,000.

"I have a husband and family in Washington, D.C.," said volunteer Sally Stewart. "They weren't too happy when I told them I wouldn't be home for Thanksgiving, but I have a Red Cross family here."

More than two-thirds of Albright's 700 residents were left homeless and jobless after the Cheat River overflowed and cut a half-mile swath through the center of town. Many of the homeless are staying with friends and relatives since emergency shelters closed, but officials say they still receive occasional reports of people sleeping in their cars.

Spy hunters using new tools to plug the leaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. counterintelligence experts say the arrest of 24 people on espionage charges in the past two years shows the FBI, CIA and Justice Department have put aside old rivalries to use new tools for hunting down spies in this country.

They believe better trained and more experienced FBI investigators and Justice prosecutors are the keys to the spate of spy arrests, rather than a large increase in the number of spies. Also, they are using new tools, such as radio transmitters with scramblers, and exotic techniques such as spy swaps.

"Success breeds success," John L. Martin, the top U.S. spy hunter, told The Associated Press. "The CIA and the FBI have been learning right along with us at the Justice Department over the past 10 years how to effectively prosecute spies while maintaining secrets."

With each conviction, government workers, defense contractors and the general public become more vigilant to possible spies around them.

Neither CIA sources nor Assistant FBI Director Jim Gear, who heads the FBI's intelligence division, see a large increase in foreign intelligence officers in the United States under cover of diplomatic jobs.

But U.S. intelligence officials — including Martin and Assistant Attorney General Stephen Trott, who heads Justice's criminal division — believe there are more spies in the last five to 10 years when businessmen and trade delegations are included.

This type of spy is free to travel and meet U.S. businessmen in an effort to steal or smuggle out U.S. high technology. When caught, they usually are charged with export control violations rather than espionage.

"Of course, there's no way to prove there are more," Trott noted.

A former FBI counterterrorism agent, Martin, 48, has supervised spy cases as a Justice lawyer for 12 years and has headed the internal security section since 1980. He has been at the center of the action during the dramatic turnaround in espionage during the last decade, and is in charge of catching and convicting spies here.

Between 1966 and 1977, there were no successful espionage prosecutions. But in the last 10 years, 47 people have been charged with espionage and virtually all the cases that have been resolved have resulted in convictions or guilty pleas.

A record 14 arrests came in 1984; there have been 10 so far in 1985.

"Before 10 years ago, we didn't turn them, we didn't trade them and we didn't try them," Martin said. "A lot of guys were let go. Not many cases were brought, and those were lost or reversed on appeal."

The first change came during the Carter administration when Griffin Bell was attorney general. The Carter team added legal weapons: the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act and the Classified Information Procedures Act.

The first law helped double the legal wiretaps for intelligence gathering, information that can be used in criminal trials.

Pentagon cracking down on access to secret codes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon workers who help make and break secret codes will soon become the targets of a special security crackdown, a spokesman says.

Bob Sims, the Pentagon's chief spokesman, said Tuesday that Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger had signed a directive ordering creation of a special "crypto-access" security program.

He said random lie-detector tests might be administered to the 50,000 to 60,000 people who work in the secret world of communications security, scrambled messages and code-breaking.

Sims also said the Pentagon had launched a special "damage assessment" study in the wake of several spy arrests over the past week, but added no conclusions had yet been reached.

The decision to tighten up on cryptographic security was reached primarily in response to a recent report by a Pentagon commission that studied security procedures, Sims said. He acknowledged, however, the recent rash of arrests had contributed to the decision.

At least one of the four individuals arrested over the past week on espionage charges, Ronald William Pelton, is known to have worked in the field of cryptography. Pelton worked from 1965 to 1979 for the super-secret National Security Agency, which is responsible for breaking foreign codes in government, military and private broadcasts it monitors around the world.

Defense Department sources have said at least one other person arrested recently, Jonathan J. Pollard, also may have had access to cryptographic information, although the Pentagon denied those reports Tuesday. Pollard was a civilian analyst for the Navy with a top-secret clearance who has been charged with selling classified documents to Israel and Pakistan.

"We're going to try to tighten up all manner of controls on cryptological materials and information. This deals with a narrowly focused group of 50,000 to 60,000 personnel in the Department of Defense who have access to this kind of cryptological information in sensitive categories," Sims said.

The spokesman said the program would seek to limit access where possible, but acknowledged the program would probably not reduce the number of people who handle the secret codes and equipment used in transmitting military and intelligence messages around the world.

Rather, he said the program would attempt to "heighten the awareness" of personnel to be more vigilant, tighten access to specific materials, and possibly introduce the random lie-detector tests.

"We still need people to work in the cryptological area," Sims said. "We just need to assure ourselves that there is less opportunity for espionage...to ensure that those who have access and are working in this area have the most rigorous security checks that we can get."

Planned burning of wastes at sea brings outcry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency says a planned "research burn" of toxic chemicals in the Atlantic Ocean next year is a big step toward solving America's growing problem of disposing of hazardous wastes.

But the environmental group Greenpeace disagrees, saying that much of the toxic waste dumped in landfills around the nation can't be handled by the commercial ocean incineration envisioned by EPA.

"We're still not convinced the technology is safe, nor are we convinced that ocean incineration will take care of the hazardous waste problem in America," Lisa Bunin, the group's legislative director, said Tuesday.

"Most of what we have is sludge and solid waste, which can't be burned," she said. "Ocean incineration deals principally with liquid waste, and the most burnable waste is what industry wants to recycle for energy."

She made the comments after Larry Jensen, assistant EPA administrator for water, announced plans to test-burn PCBs off the New Jersey coast as a step toward approving commercial incineration of toxics at sea.

The test, about 140 miles east of the mouth of Delaware Bay, is "a very significant step forward" in managing the one metric ton of toxic waste produced for each American every year, Jensen said at a news conference.

FAA warned airlines of terrorism

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. airlines received a government warning earlier this month of possible terrorist attacks in the Mediterranean area, but officials say the intelligence information was not linked to the subsequent hijacking of an Egyptian aircraft to Malta.

Aviation sources said the advisory from the Federal Aviation Administration warned airlines to take special precautions with anyone carrying an Algerian or Moroccan passport, but that no specific target or terrorist group was mentioned.

FAA Administrator Donald Engen, who declined to discuss details of the warning, insisted Tuesday the advisory was general in nature and involved possible terrorist activities "throughout the world."

"We had no (advance) knowledge of that hijacking," said Engen when asked about the attack aboard the Egyptian Boeing 737 last Saturday in which 59 people died. The hijacking ended Sunday when Egyptian commandos stormed the jet.

An internal memo distributed to American Airlines employees surfaced earlier this week in which American officials relayed the FAA warning of a possible terrorist attacks in November or December.

Stan Seltzer, American Airlines' assistant vice president, called the memo "not at all unusual." He said it was written from a report by the FAA that apparently had been distributed to all airlines.

The FAA advisory noted that information had been received indicating several hundred individuals of various Middle East nationalities were being trained in Iran "for hijack-terrorist actions," probably in the Mediterranean area.

The advisory warned airlines to be alert for passengers carrying either Moroccan or Algerian passports.

It was not known what passports were carried by the the terrorists who commandeered the Egyptian plane, but Maltese officials said Tuesday the one surviving terrorist claimed to be Tunisian. An Egyptian Air manifest also listed him as Tunisian.

'Orphan drug' Cuprin stems rare disease

WASHINGTON (AP) — For Janet Horton, a 29-year-old lab technician from Richmond, Va., the cure for her rare but potentially fatal illness appeared almost to be worse than the disease itself.

She had lost 50 pounds, couldn't keep food down and was constantly exhausted. Eleven doctors had failed to help, with more than one suggesting the cause was psychological.

Finally she was diagnosed as suffering from Wilson's disease, a rare ailment that leaves the body unable to cleanse itself of copper, which builds up to toxic levels. Only about 1,000 people in the United States have been diagnosed with the disease.

When doctors began treatment with a drug called penicillamine, however, new problems developed — fever, rash, and finally confinement to a wheelchair.

Mrs. Horton turned out to be part of the 10 percent of Wilson's disease patients who cannot tolerate what has been its only treatment.

But she began treatment with an experimental drug. A month later, she returned to work. And on Tuesday, she joined Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret M. Heckler and Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., chairman of a House health subcommittee, in announcing government approval of the new drug, called Cuprid.

The officials were there to celebrate that a drug with so few potential customers nevertheless prompted a major drug company to undertake the years of research and testing needed to bring a new drug to the market — and to help launch a search for people who have the disease and don't know it.

Reagan's dog this week's news hound

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Lucky, the ex-White House dog, is making more news than his master as President Reagan takes a low-profile Thanksgiving break at his ranch in the Santa Ynez Mountains.

With the president avoiding substantive comments on issues, and with few of his key aides on hand, the dog is getting the lion's share of the attention.

Lucky, a 65-pound Flemish cowherd, is being permanently relocated at the president's sprawling Rancho del Cielo about 40 miles north of here.

Reagan told reporters on his flight west aboard Air Force One Tuesday that Lucky was being moved to the 688-acre ranch "because that's dog heaven." On the ranch, he said, Lucky "won't have to have a leash on her."

In addition to her usual frisky tugging at the leash, the dog attracted attention at Point Mugu Naval Air Station by having an accident — the kind people have to clean up after — while the president tugged her toward a waiting helicopter.

Dog days or not, the White House appears to be trying to make the president's six-day holiday a low-key affair — unlike his August vacation, when he issued a major decision on international trade and went horseback riding for the first time since his July 13 cancer surgery.

Reagan, when asked if he had any comment on a pending tax bill, a farm bill or his recent summit meetings, said, "I'm concentrating on dog heaven."

At Point Mugu, when reporters asked Reagan about Vice President George Bush's meetings in Washington with Terry Waite, the Anglican church representative who is seeking the release of American hostages in Beirut, the president made a noncommittal hand gesture and a reply that was drowned out.

NATION in brief

Pay-per-view begins

NEW YORK (AP) — In an attempt to lure consumers away from videocassette stores, Showtime-The Movie Channel Inc. plans to offer a nationwide pay-per-view television movie channel beginning today.

The new Viewer's Choice movie channel — touted as the first national pay-per-view service — will offer a different first-run movie each week to local cable companies, company officials announced Tuesday.

"We want to make a guarantee, this is the first place on television these movies will appear," said Scott Kurnit, executive vice president and general manager of Showtime-The Movie Channel's pay-per-view division.

Unlike premium cable channels which show a number of movies and other programs each month for a flat monthly fee, pay-per-view services charge a fee each time a customer watches a movie or other featured program.

With pay-per-view, subscribers wanting a particular movie call the local company, which programs the movie for their homes and bills them. Showtime has recommended charging $3.95 to $4.95 per viewing.

Star Wars empire loses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Empire has been struck down.

A federal judge ruled Tuesday that filmmaker George Lucas cannot prohibit the use of the term "Star Wars" — commonly used to describe President Reagan's missile defense plan — unless it is associated with a commercial venture.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said Lucas, although he owns the trademark t "Star Wars," does not have a prop rty right on the use of words commonly found in the English language.

He said Lucas' "Star Wars" trademark only protects him against those who seek to attach those words to products or services that compete with him in the marketplace.

Gesell said, however, that Lucas can't prevent two political lobbying groups from using the words "Star Wars" in television commercials expressing their views toward Reagan's missile defense system, formally known as the Strategic Defense Initiative.

Cartoonists fight hunger

NEW YORK (AP) — At least 175 cartoonists will devote their Thanksgiving Day comic strips to the problem of world hunger, offering belly laughs to help fight empty bellies and cartoon drama to combat a very real tragedy.

"What better way to reach people than through characters they've known all their lives?" asked Garry Trudeau, creator of "Doonesbury" and mastermind of the "Comic Relief" Thanksgiving effort.

Success story

Ten years ago, an estimated 1 million handicapped children were receiving no formal education and another 2.5 million were getting substandard schooling. Although federal funds were available to educate disabled students, most school districts were shortchanging these youngsters.

Fortunately that deplorable situation began to change with the enactment in 1975 of the Education for All Handicapped Children Act. The landmark legislation required each state to provide "free and appropriate" public education to all disabled youngsters. Specifically, the legislation stipulated the youngsters were to be educated in the "least restrictive environment" possible. That meant they were to be placed in the "mainstream" of the educational system, regular classrooms or at least in the same schools as non-handicapped students. More importantly, the parents of handicapped children were to be consulted by teachers and administrators in the development of individualized educational plans for their youngsters.

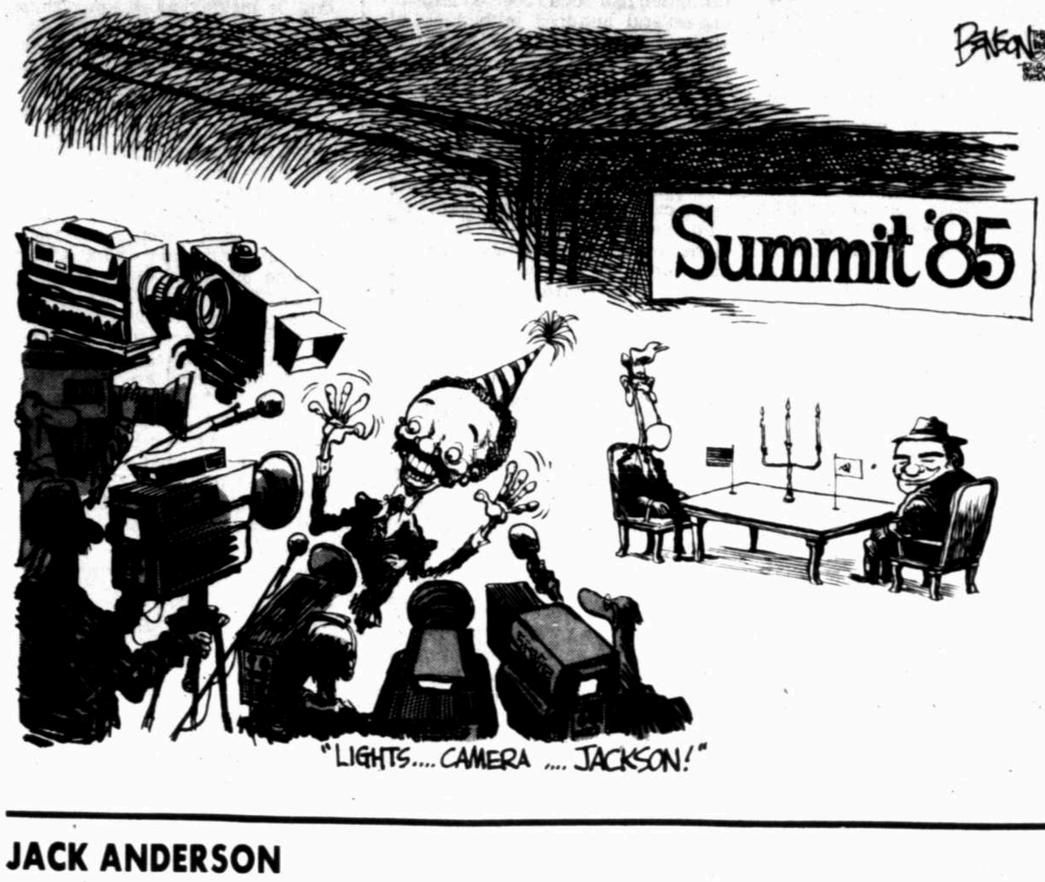

Then-President Gerald Ford signed the measure into law reluctantly, obviously fearing that its strict administrative requirements would prove burdensome to the schools. His skepticism was shared by numerous school officials who were wary of direct parental involvement in the education process.

Although school districts were forced to make some major adjustments to accommodate the new rules, most responded magnificently. Special teachers were hired to teach the handicapped and regular instructors were given additional training in order to enhance their understanding of the disabled student.

Midland Independent School District has responded admirably to the challenge of educating the handicapped student and today offers educational services to a wide variety of handicapped students, including those suffering from visual, hearing and emotional handicaps. The school district now teaches about 2,100 students who are suffering from handicaps of some type.

In fact, today, 68 percent of the nation's school-age handicapped children are being taught in regular public-school classes. Another 25 percent are enrolled in separate classes within regular schools. The remaining 17 percent are in separate schools or receiving instruction in hospitals and at home.

Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., a key author of the law, takes particular pride in the fact that most handicapped children are no longer consigned to the shadows in the public schools, but are now given a chance to become self-reliant citizens. That achievement is testimony to the dedicated professionals who have encouraged disabled youngsters to expand their minds and thus their horizons.

LETTERS

Tax complaint 'unfair'

In reply to the letter from Jane Hynd that was published Sunday, Nov. 24, it is true that some statements are still being remailed because they are still being returned by mortgage companies because either their loan is paid off or property has been sold and another company has the tax liability.

As soon as we receive these statements, we check to see if the tax has been paid by the individual or another company, check to see if ownership is correct as billed and then remail, usually on the same day.

Discount is not denied — only the percentage changes with the months of payment. Had Ms. Hynd called our office, which would have taken less time than writing the letter to the editor, we would have had a statement in the mail to her that same day, in time for her to take the October discount amount.

It is further noted that Ms. Hynd paid her tax for the full tax amount and did not even take the discount amount for the month of November. We did, however, issue a refund check to her in the amount of $1.63 which was her overpayment on this tax. The difference between the November discount and the October discount of her property was $.81.

Midland County is the only taxing entity in the county that offers a discount of any kind to the taxpayers and every effort is made to assure that the maximum discount is afforded the taxpayers. However, if for some reason a taxpayer does not receive their statement, a simple phone call will get them one in the mail the same day and we will be most happy to comply with these requests.

I can assure the taxpayers that every effort is made by my staff to insure that each has the opportunity to pay their taxes with the maximum discount amount and also before any penalty and interest accrues. For the month of October, Midland County granted a total of $177,606.03 in discounts, and more will be forthcoming in November and December, so they should not be criticized as being "in a racket" to grab money ... this is a most unfair statement.

Suit not about profanity

For those people who think that the recent federal suit brought against Midland College by Dr. Jay Dee Martin was primarily about profanity in the classroom and are pleased that Judge Lucius Bunton reversed the jury's decision that was in favor of Dr. Martin, I would like to clarify the situation.

Dr. Martin was a faculty spokesman for years — a thorn in the side of Midland College's administrators. For that and for being a caring instructor (who would chew out lazy students in no uncertain terms), he was fired.

The profanity was an excuse to get rid of him. When two malcontented, poor students decided to "get" their teacher, the administration was only too happy to help. This is not an isolated incident. Faculty members are being harassed for speaking in support of Dr. Martin, for trying to maintain some level of scholarship in the classrooms, and for goading students into doing some work (it is ironic that only the good teachers risk punishment — no teacher is told to do a BETTER job in the classroom).

If you doubt this, find out which instructors have been written up and why. If the people of Midland want more for their tax dollars than a big, green lawn, pretty buildings and a giant baby-sitting service, they need to start letting their feelings be known.

Soviet critics' cynicism showing

WASHINGTON — In the rush to interpret the Geneva summit, it might be wise to keep in mind the cynicism of President Reagan's adversaries across the negotiating table. No exercise in hypocrisy is too extreme for the Soviet establishment.

Jack Anderson

As "Exhibit A" we offer the Kremlin's first response to Reagan's "Star Wars" initiative in the spring of 1983. Though the Soviets had been doing research on space defense technology for perhaps 20 years, and had been running tests since 1968, the first movement of the Kremlin-orchestrated propaganda symphony was an anguished letter in Pravda signed by a group of Soviet scientists, attacking Reagan's proposal. It was titled: "Appeal to the Scientists of the World."

The letter deplored the "strategic defense initiative" and even bemoaned the fact that the purity of scientific research was being sullied by military application. Several of the letter's signers stumped Western Europe to recruit support among the scientific fraternity. One of them, Ye. P. Velikhov, has lectured several times on American college campuses.

Exactly who were these pious protesters? The CIA did some background checking, and we've seen the secret list identifying the signers of the anti-Star Wars appeal by the jobs they actually perform.

With ill-concealed sarcasm, the CIA report summarizes its findings this way: "The sincerity of this letter can be judged by the fact that many of its signatories are heavily involved in the Soviet Union's own extensive efforts to develop both offensive and defensive strategic weaponry."

Among the more blatant hypocrites who signed the Soviet appeal were:

— P.D. Grushin. He heads the Soviet Union's design bureau for anti-aircraft and anti-ballistic missiles, including interceptor missiles now deployed around Moscow and another missile in the development stage. (The United States has no comparable weapon deployed.)

— V.S. Semenikhin. The CIA identifies him as "the leading figure in developing command, control and communications systems for anti-aircraft and anti-missile use."

— B.V. Bunkin. He is an important figure in the development of radar and other key components of weapons systems for strategic defense.

— V.S. Aduevsky. Long involved in strategic systems design, he has moved in recent years into the area of space systems. He now has responsibility for a number of military space projects, including a space-based laser gun.

— Velikhov. The darling of anti-Star Wars activists on American campuses has been one of the "driving forces in Soviet laser weapons development for at least 15 years," according to the CIA. For several years Velikhov was director of the Institute of Atomic Energy Laboratories at Troitsk, where military lasers are being developed. Two of the other "driving forces" in laser weapons, N.G. Basov and A.M. Prokhorov, also signed the letter.

If the Soviet scientists' appeal were to be heeded, of course, and U.S. efforts to develop strategic defense technology were abandoned, it would leave the Russians without competition in the field.

The letter's anguish over military corruption of science was equally hypocritical. Among the appeal's signers were a designer of two Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles and three other missile designers; three designers of military aircraft; two scientists described by the CIA as "the grand old men of the Soviet military nuclear energy program"; the chief designer of Soviet nuclear submarines, and "the leading Soviet expert in the synthesis of nerve agents," like the "yellow rain" that has killed thousands of Southeast Asians since 1975.

EYE ON THE ECONOMY: Reagan administration economists have reached a rare consensus on the long-range impact of the weaker dollar. They believe it will generally improve the nation's economy by late next year. But as one report noted, the results could be mixed for U.S. consumers: "A significant decline in the dollar would have positive and negative effects. Industries that produce for export or compete with imports would be helped, but import prices would rise, raising the cost of living, and interest rates could also rise if a reduced trade deficit constrains the supply of foreign funds to U.S. borrowers."

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: Forensic experts investigating the remains identified as those of Dr. Josef Mengele were given some photographs of the Nazi war criminal in his later years, and made a fascinating discovery: two barely discernible scars on each side of his face. The scientists have concluded that Mengele at one time attempted to disguise himself through plastic surgery, but that the operation failed.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Once again a major news magazine has taken a dive on one of the most serious health issues of the day. In a recent article on the tobacco industry, Time magazine barely mentioned the health risks involved in cigarette smoking. Industry officials were amply quoted denying there's scientific proof of a link between smoking and cancer. Yet Time failed even to mention the massive body of contrary evidence, let alone the warnings by more than one surgeon general and a long list of medical groups. If Time must avoid offending advertisers, we say no story at all is better than the one-sided article Time ran.

JAMES RESTON

Geneva gave better way to talk

WASHINGTON — Maybe the main news out of the Geneva summit is not what happened but what didn't happen. There was plenty of hot air, but no explosion. Nobody walked out, nobody pretended everything was dandy, and President Reagan and General Secretary Gorbachev agreed to meet again in Washington next year and in Moscow in 1987.

James Reston

That's not much, but it's something. The Russians left the Geneva nuclear arms talks a while ago because the United States and its allies insisted on putting cruise and Pershing 2 missiles in Europe to maintain the balance of terror against the Soviet missiles targeted on every Western European capital. But the Russians came back.

Then it was said that Moscow wouldn't talk about peace on earth unless Reagan gave up his dreams of conquering the stars. And Reagan was saying for a while that he couldn't negotiate all these nuclear things unless he could talk about human rights, Afghanistan, Angola, Nicaragua, Ethiopia and other problems.

But in Geneva, they settled nothing but talked about everything under some of the old-fashioned rules of common courtesy and privacy.

Maybe this was the most important aspect of the Geneva meeting. If diplomacy is the application of intelligence and tact to the disputes among nations, Reagan and Gorbachev gave it a chance for a change.

There were a few standard propaganda performances: Gorbachev was much tougher before the TV cameras than in private, and U.S. media not only covered but smothered the summit news, but on the whole it was a sensible and civil summit, and the president was obviously pleased with the results.

He did an unexpected thing when he got home. After flying to Brussels to report to the allies on his talks with Gorbachev, and flying the same day to address a joint session of the Congress, he came into the family theater in the White House the next morning along with Secretary of State Shultz and Chief of Staff Regan to talk on the record to some reporters.

"Are you tired?" somebody asked. "Not really," the president replied, "the only time I think I'm tired is when I go to sleep before the staff does."

The president looked surprisingly more rested and at ease in this White House meeting with a few reporters than he usually does in general press conferences. Maybe the chief of staff, Donald Regan, explained why.

"The thing that struck me the most in Geneva," Regan said, shafting the reporters, "was that this movie actor, this president who has to have his staff prop him up, the man who couldn't do anything without a script, was able to take on this dynamic personality, the head of the Soviet Union, and do it one-on-one, not once but six separate times and not come out of the thing looking as though he was bested."

Of all the White House reports on summit meetings since the last war, this one by the president, Regan and Shultz on Friday afternoon was the most detailed and in a way the most revealing. But of course, we don't know what was said in the Reagan-Gorbachev private talks which may be critically important in the future.

I asked the president whether the interpreters in these private talks had kept an agreed text of the private conversations with him and Gorbachev. He said each side had kept its own notes, but so far as he knew, there was no agreed text.

It's a mark of how bad U.S.-Soviet relations have been in the past four or five years that most folks here seem relieved that the Geneva summit didn't make them any worse.

The problem is that the big issue of nuclear arms control remains the same which is to say rather alarming. Reagan and Gorbachev have agreed to talk about it again in Washington next June, which is over 200 days from now. The Soviet Union produces three new nuclear missiles every day, and the United States about two and a half new missiles.

That is the continuing crisis that was not addressed in Geneva but at least they have arranged a better way to talk about it in the next few months.

FLORA LEWIS

Geneva nice yet nothing resolved

GENEVA — There were no evident hitches at the Reagan-Gorbachev summit, and nobody gave away anything. Both men went home sticking on the same conflicting positions they brought to start, so far as could be told.

Flora Lewis

Despite a remarkable five hours of private talks, in the presence only of interpreters, each said he was still sure the other would come around after thinking over the sensible ideas he had offered. So much for charm and persuasion.

That was no surprise. Summitry is not a matter of affection. For all the White House talk about "personal chemistry," it makes little difference short of such an abrasive approach that it leads to temper tantrums. And both Reagan and Gorbachev were determined to be civil so they could announce they had gotten along very nicely, thank you, and looked forward to meeting again.

They talked past each other, repeating all the things that each has been saying for months now without any hint of being ready to budge and reach further for compromise. American officials say Reagan's Star Wars program has put the U.S. in a strong bargaining position. But there is still no sign that the president has any interest in bargaining away even a period of restraint on his cherished project, and the Soviet leader is adamant about everything else hinging on its renunciation.

At his closing press conference, which he handled with smooth self-confidence, Gorbachev gave foretaste of the theme Moscow will sound. Arms control is the centerpiece of the whole Soviet-American relationship, he said, and the issue is "survival or mutual destruction."

If the U.S. goes ahead with the Strategic Defense Initiative, he insisted, it means putting "weapons in space" and that would "stop any constraints on the arms race." He said Reagan repeated again and again that his plan was purely defensive, but Gorbachev replies, "Are you going to tell your people that you refuse to cut back on offensive weapons? We are ready for a radical reduction in the mountain of weapons if the space door is shut."

This is a very strong argument, particularly since Gorbachev suggested he would go even beyond his recent proposals to wind down the arms race if he felt secure about space. Otherwise he warned dryly, without a tone of threat but with firm determination, "Soviet scientists and agencies" would act on instructions they've been given to build a counter-force that would be effective, less costly and more rapidly achievable than American space defenses.

So the idea of a fresh start and a new warmth in Soviet-American relations, the possibility of a safer and more relaxed world less frenetically focused on churching out arms, remains highly conditional.

It was much better to have a summit serving to concentrate minds on these issues than to have Moscow and Washington continuing to shun and denounce each other. But the direction for the future has not been set.

The extent of accommodation between the two leaders didn't go beyond Reagan's willingness to issue a fairly anodyne joint statement and make a brief joint appearance for the finale, and Gorbachev's willingness to arrange more meetings at practically all levels despite the rebuff he received on substance.

The Soviet leader really does seem eager to fix stable, improved relations in many different fields. But his price is "strategic parity" as seen through Moscow's eyes, and he called it "the natural state of Soviet-American relations."

Now the question has to be the purpose of further meetings and negotiations. The leaders have gotten "acquainted" and exchanged assurances of good will. They can't keep repeating that performance without the risk of turning it dangerously sour and of undermining their domestic positions.

Reagan still doesn't seem to have made the basic decision on whose advice to take in his divided administration. That showed not only in the leaked letter from Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger seeking to stiffen him up on the eve of the summit, but in the all-night in-fighting among Americans over the text of the joint statement. It resulted in diluting what might have been a whit more encouraging diplomacy.

The summit was called a "first step" and it worked in terms of climate. The next steps cannot be so equivocal. There is still a fundamental need to decide what the U.S. wants and expects from the Soviets. There will always be disputes. They can be sharpened or managed. The U.S. cannot resolve them alone.

Hassan 'planting seed' for talks with Israel

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Morocco's moderate and pragmatic King Hassan II, who blew hot and cold this week on direct peace talks with Israel, has long played an important backstage role in Middle East peace moves.

Those familiar with the style of the 56-year-old monarch are convinced that his about-face on direct talks with Israel was no slip of the tongue but a deliberate trial balloon.

"His majesty has his own way of putting new ideas before public opinion," one high-ranking Moroccan official said on condition of anonymity. "This is not the first time he has appeared to change his mind while planting a seed that he hoped would grow into a tree."

In meetings with two separate groups of French reporters, Hassan proposed "serious" talks with Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres, specifying only that they should aim at peace and giving a homeland to the Palestinians. Then 24 hours later, he reverted to a long-standing Arab position: that negotiations should be conducted indirectly through U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar.

"If Mr. Peres has something concrete to propose, he can put his proposals in an envelope and address them to the United Nations secretary general," the king said Tuesday.

In Tel Aviv today, Israeli officials said they believed a summit was still possible and that the king changed his stance to satisfy his Arab allies.

"In the Middle East, people can change what they say quickly," said an official of Peres' Labor Party who spoke on condition he not be named. "Hassan was trying to satisfy his Arab allies. But we still believe he would be willing to meet publicly with Peres, maybe even this year."

As chairman of the 21-nation Arab League and president of the Islamic nations' permanent Committee on Jerusalem, Hassan is well placed to speak authoritatively on the Middle East on behalf of the Arab and Islamic world. In 20 years, he has presided over five summit meetings of Arab leaders.

He prides himself on his close relations with the United States and the most conservative Arab leaders as well as with such uncompromising Arab radicals as Libya's Moammar Khadafy and Syria's Hafez Assad.

His main weakness on the international level is the 10-year-old conflict with Algeria over the Moroccan-annexed Western Sahara that repeatedly has brought the two neighbors to the verge of outright war.

Despite this costly and continuing conflict, Hassan had a lengthy meeting with Algeria's President Chadli Bendjedid on their common border in 1983, and apparently succeeded in establishing a personal relationship with Bendjedid that removed the threat of military confrontation.

Officially regarded as a direct descendant of the prophet Mohammed, Hassan is simultaneously the political, religious and military leader of his 25 million subjects at the Western end of the Arab world. Although Morocco is nominally one of the rare multi-party democracies among Arab nations, Hassan has the last word on all policy decisions.

Although an unflinching supporter of the Arab and Palestinian cause, he has repeatedly taken unorthodox initiatives, usually behind the scenes.

Hijack survivor glad Maltese didn't give terrorists their demands

VALLETTA, Malta (AP) — An American survivor of the Egyptair jet hijacking applauded the Maltese government for not giving in to the demands of terrorists who shot him in the head execution-style and left him for dead.

Patrick Scott Baker, who has been dubbed "the lucky American" by Maltese papers, said from his hospital room Tuesday: "I don't think they should give terrorists their demands."

Terrorists commandeered the jet soon after it took off from Athens, Greece, for Cairo, Egypt, and forced it to land in Malta, a Mediterranean island.

Government spokesmen said the five hijackers demanded fuel to take the plane to an unnamed destination, but made no political demands.

Baker, 28, two other Americans and two Israelis were shot by the terrorists before a raid by Egyptian commandos Sunday night ended the 24-hour hijacking, which left 59 people dead.

Of those shot before the raid, an American woman died and an Israeli women was pronounced clinically dead at St. Luke's Hospital, where Baker is being treated.

Flight attendants aided commandos from hospital beds

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Two injured stewardesses released from a hijacked Egyptair jet soon after it landed in Malta gave Egyptian commandos vital information to plan their attack on the plane, a newspaper today quoted the operation commander as saying.

"We went to the hospital and found out from the two wounded air hostesses that there were four hijackers and where they were so we could enter the plane without any losses," Maj. Gen. Mohammed Kamal el-Din Attia was quoted as saying in the state-owned daily al-Akhbar.

The Maltese government spokesman, Paul Mifsud, has said there were five hijackers, but passengers have put the number at three.

The stewardesses, who the paper said suffered "unspecified injuries," were among several women released Sunday by the hijackers before the commando attack.

Malta officials say 58 people died when commandos stormed the Boeing 737, which had been hijacked Saturday on a flight from Athens, Greece to Cairo. Gunmen killed a 59th passenger, an American woman, before the attack.

President Hosni Mubarak told reporters Tuesday the others died after the gunmen tossed grenades through the cabin. He denied reports from Malta that commandos accidently shot some of the victims.

Col. Ismail Abdel-Mawgood, who planned the attack, was quoted in al-Akhbar as saying six commandos drove in an airport bus from their C-130 transport plane to a place near the aircraft where the gunmen could not see them.

"After we deployed sharpshooters around the plane, another group got into the baggage compartment to divert the hijackers' attention," Abdel-Mawgood was quoted as saying. "The rest of the group attacked through the front and emergency doors."

The paper said one of the gunmen threw a grenade at Capt. Ibrahim Dahroug, the first commando to enter the plane. Mubarak told reporters Tuesday that Dahroug's leg had to be amputated at the knee as a result of his injury.

Egyptian officials said none of the commandos died in the assault. Mubarak told reporters an unspecified number of them received shrapnel wounds.

The two commandos said in the interviews that their men fired only seven bullets, hitting three of the hijackers. Mubarak said the passengers died from "shrapnel, phosphorous bombs and suffocation."

"The storming operation took one and a half minutes, then the hijackers threw the bombs and the evacuation of the passengers started, as for the rest, they were dead," Abdel-Mawgood was quoted as saying.

The newspaper quoted one of the commandoes, Capt. Ahmed Hanafy, as saying a fellow commando, Capt. Mustafa el-Hedewy, killed one of the hijackers in the rear of the plane and then helped save "at least eight hostages from a likely death."

Egypt has charged the gunmen came from an unspecified Palestinian group opposed to Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat and that Libya aided in the hijacking.

The Al-Anwar newspaper in Beirut published a statement Tuesday purported to be from the Arab Revolutionary Brigades and the previously unknown Organization of Egyptian Revolutionaries, claiming responsibility for the hijacking.

Thanksgiving may be cold

From Staff and Wire Reports

Families gathering for Thanksgiving may opt to stay indoors Thursday as the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport forecasts cloudy skies and cold temperatures for the Permian Basin area.

Forecasters are calling for cloudy skies with a low in the mid-40s tonight, warming to a high in the mid-50s Thursday. Winds will blow from the east to northeast at five to 15 mph through Thursday.

Tuesday's high of 75 was 8 degrees below the record set in 1961. This morning's low was 22 degrees above the 1938 record of 16 degrees.

STATE

A powerful cold front prompted widespread rain and thunderstorms that soaked North, Central and East Texas this morning and left flash flood watches posted over much of the area.

The front spawned the storms after wedging under sultry, tropical air, and it left fog so thick in its wake that travelers' advisories were posted in the Texas Panhandle, the National Weather Service said.

Skies were cloudy over all but the Trans Pecos, where it was mostly fair. By 4 a.m., the cold air had advanced to a line from Texarkana and Temple to San Angelo and Midland.

A flash flood watch was posted for the eastern half of North Texas from Bonham to Centerville, but no flooding or storm-related damage had been reported, the weather service and local authorities said.

NATION

Snow pushed across the Northwest today and bitter cold prevailed from the Rockies to Mississippi Valley, while rain prompted flood watches from the South to Midwest and freezing rain and sleet pelted New England.

Parts of the South were balmy after a record high temperature in New Orleans, but wind chill factors across much of the northern Plains dipped as low as 49 degrees below zero at Williston, N.D.

Wind gusts of around 35 mph pushed the wind chill at Bellingham, Wash., to 40 below zero. Bellingham had 7 inches of snow on the ground and as much as 6 inches more was forecast.

Snow spread from Washington across northern Idaho to western Montana and bitter cold held its grip from the northern Rockies and Plains to the upper Mississippi Valley.

Freezing drizzle led to travelers' advisories from eastern Colorado across southern Kansas, the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles to northeast Oklahoma.

FOOTBALL

CHICAGO (AP) — Gerry Faust resigned as the losingest football coach in Notre Dame history after five seasons. The resignation is effective Saturday, after the Irish play No. 4 Miami. Page 3B.

NEW YORK — Ron Brown, Los Angeles Rams, who returned two kickoffs for touchdowns, and George Martin, New York Giants, who set a record for career touchdowns by a lineman, were named the NFC players of the week.

Martin, a defensive end, scored the sixth touchdown of his 11-year career and had three sacks and recovered a fumble as New York routed St. Louis 34-3.

NEW YORK — Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the NFL wants to stay with the three major networks when its television contract expires in 1987 but that a court order or other circumstances could force it to seek other options, like pay or cable. The most compelling reason to go elsewhere and the one that Rozelle cited several times is the USFL's $1.32 billion antitrust suit against the NFL.

BASEBALL

CLAYTON, Mo. — The St. Louis County Council voted unanimously to spend $1 million to buy a 100-acre tract of land for a proposed domed sports stadium an effort to keep the St. Louis football Cardinals from moving out of town.

TENNIS

MELBOURNE, Australia — Tuesday's schedule was completely washed out by rain after only 14 matches were completed on Monday. John McEnroe allegedly shoved and spat at journalists in the lobby of his hotel here Tuesday morning after being asked if he had married his girlfriend, actress Tatum O'Neal.

AUTO RACING

TALLADEGA, Ala. — Race-car driver Lyn St. James of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., became the first woman in the world to exceed 200 mph on a closed course, driving a Ford Probe prototype around the Alabama International Motor Speedway at 204.233 mph, breaking the 198.953 mph record she had set Monday.

VOLLEYBALL

TOKYO — The 1984 Olympic gold medalist United States team, rallying from the brink of defeat, edged Argentina 15-7, 13-15, 15-17, 17-15, 15-13 and led the eight-nation men's World Cup Tournament with four victories against no defeats. The defending champion Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia shared second place with three victories against one defeat in the round-robin tournament, which lasts until Sunday.

SKIING

SESTRIERE, Italy — Vreni Schneider celebrated her 21th birthday by winning the opening race of the World Series competition, while the Swiss women's team began the season as it finished the previous one — triumphantly.

Schneider edged Swiss teammate Erika Hess by 1.42 seconds in a giant slalom which opened the women's season of Alpine skiing and the World Series, a prologue to the World Cup.

'Dogs stun Hobbs

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

Not only did the Midland High Bulldogs up their season record to 3-0 with a 101-83 victory over Hobbs Tuesday night, they also did it in record fashion.

In 1979, Midland High's Herb Johnson hauled in 24 rebounds against San Antonio Highlands in the Optimist Classic. Tuesday at Chaparral Center, Bulldog Elvin Mackey surpassed that mark with 25.

Add a cool 30 points to the 6-foot-3½ senior's stats on 10-of-14 shooting from the field and 10-of-16 from the line and it's easy to see why the Bulldogs pulled away.

Imagine what Mackey's statistics could have been like if he hadn't been on the bench for one-fourth of the game, after picking up his third foul midway through the second quarter. In the final period, with a 23-point lead, Stephenson had his starters out of the game at the halfway mark and Mackey lost another four minutes.

"He's a nice player, he really is" said Stephenson. "I've got a lot of nice people out there. This is an old, dumb phrase but it was quite a team effort. That's the thing about this team, no selfishness."

Even with Mackey's effort, Matt Sears added another 23 points and seven rebounds (both second for the game). Terry St. Peters, perfect from the field in five attempts, added 14 more.

"Elvin had some 20-point games last year," said Stephenson. "He's been getting better. I'll tell you, when he's within 15 feet, he really has control of the ball. But, he wouldn't have done what he did without Matt, Terry and Ben (Grimes), who was just off the football field two weeks ago.

Grimes added eight points for MHS.

ACCORDING TO Mackey, the rebound record has long been a dream.

"It's always been a goal of mine since I've been at Midland High and it was Coach who pushed me toward it," said Mackey, who wants to reset the mark sometime down the road. "I'm going to keep trying. It's always good to do better."

At only 6-foot-3½, Mackey isn't what many people would consider to be a big man in basketball, especially for an inside player. But, what isn't measured in height is made up for in heart.

"I think I get them (rebounds) from aggressiveness," said Mackey. "People think I'm to thin and can't play under there. But, I'm aggressive and I think that's also why I have a lot of fouls. Also, Coach teaches us how to block out."

UNTIL THE second quarter, the game was nip-and-tuck.

The Eagles led 17-16 after the opening period, but couldn't keep up with Midland High's 37-point paced in the second quarter as the Bulldogs raced to a 53-40 halftime lead.

In the third period, the Bulldogs had a 20-point edge and led 81-60 going into the final frame, missing a second straight 30-point quarter by two points.

The third quarter was when Mackey really started to shine through, ripping the cords for half of his 30 points. None came from beyond 10 feet.

"This was one of the toughest games I've been in until we broke away and they seemed to give up," said Mackey.

FOR THE Eagles, who were playing in their season opener and fell to a 0-1 record, the scoring was also spread out. Brian Smith led Hobbs with 15 points followed by John Hennings with 13 and Steve White at 12. Bob Dobbins and Robert Steward each added another eight.

The night wasn't a total loss for Hobbs as the Eagle underclassmen cashed in victories in both junior varsity and sophomore games. Both games were also high-scoring affairs.d

For the junior varsity, Hobbs claimed a 96-75 victory and an 83-72 win in sophomore play.

This weekend, the Bulldogs turn their thoughts to a multitude of teams as they co-host the Tall City Tournament with the Midland Lee Rebels.

This year, the tournament will have 16 teams, up from 12 a year ago, and will begin play at 9:30 a.m. Friday. with games at Lee Gym and Chap Center.

Midland High's first game of the tournament is at 1 p.m. against Morton at MHS Gym.

COLLEGE STATION — Don Marbury scored 23 points and three other Aggies were in double figures as Texas A&M overcame Alcorn State with a late surge and beat the Braves 82-69 in an intersectional basketball game Tuesday night.

Winston Cripe added 19 points, Jimmy Gilbert had a career-high 18 and Todd Holloway scored 14 as the Aggies evened their season record at 1-1.

MacArthur loses Clark

Bill Clark undergoes knee surgery

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

The Reporter-Telegram learned Tuesday that Irving MacArthur tailback Bill Clark will miss Saturday's 2 p.m. Class 5A Region matchup against Midland Lee at Texas Stadium due to a knee injury received in MacArthur's 28-24 Area playoff victory against Wichita Falls.

Clark is scheduled to undergo knee surgery Friday morning in Irving. MacArthur coach Ray Overton thought Sunday that Clark had a badly strained knee and didn't know if Clark would be able to play Saturday.

Through the Area playoff game with Wichita Falls, Clark had 951 yards rushing on 239 carries and has scored 11 touchdowns. He was the leading rusher for the Cardinals in 1985. Clark's backup is sophomore Reggie Finch, who is the team's second leading rusher with 605 yards on 134 carries.

IT WAS Finch who helped put the Cardinals in the Region playoffs. Finch caught a 74-yard screen pass from quarterback Shawn Hall with just over a minute left to play against Wichita Falls to produce a 28-24 victory.

Hall is considered an excellent quarterback for the Cardinals, whose uniforms resemble those used by the St. Louis professional Cardinals. Hall has 474 yards rushing and has thrown for 663 yards, completing 36 of 88 efforts with only three interceptions.

When the Cardinals throw, Hall likes to look for tight end David Canchola, split receiver David VonZurmuehlen or non-starter Tim Rains. Canchola has caught eight passes for 152 yards and three touchdowns while VonZurmuehlen has five receptions for 148 yards and one touchdown. Raines has 7 catches for 85 yards.

Defensively, MacArthur runs a five-man front with a nose guard, similiar that that of Amarillo High with the exeception that MacArthur plays its linebackers and secondary very tight. Sometimes, the Cardinals play so tight that they look like a 10-man front.

Defensive back Brian Love is the star of the Cardinal defense. The 6-foot-3, 185-pound senior was voted this week to the Dallas Morning News' All-Star team for the Dallas area. Love was named defensive player of the year by the Morning News. He has six interceptions, 34 unassisted tackles, 21 assisted and 15 "big play tackles" — ones that either caused a fumble or saved a touchdown.

IRONICALLY, MacArthur is the first playoff team Lee has met with a worse record than the Rebels. Lee owns a 10-2 mark on the season while MacArthur is 8-2-2. In Bi-district, Lee was 8-2 going against 9-1 Amarillo High while Lee was 9-2, the same as El Paso Andress, in the Area round.

MacArthur got off to a slow start this year, losing to Highland Park by a 13-6 margin in its first game of the year. The Cardinals then got off to a slow start in District 8-5A play, losing to South Grand Prairie by a 10-7 margin.

The Cardinals rebounded to post a 4-1-2 8-5A record to earn the runnerup spot, but they faced a lot of trauma along the way with a 17-17 tie to district champion Grand Prairie and a 21-21 standoff with Duncanville on the final night of regular season play.

Grand Prairie, the 8-5A champion, was eliminated from the state playoffs over the weekend in a 32-11 loss to Denton, the team Odessa Permian will face at 2 p.m. Saturday in Odessa's Ratliff Stadium.

The highlight of MacArthur's season has been twin wins over John Reddell's Trinity team. MacArthur won a regular season contest against Trinity by a narrow 22-20 margin and then beat Trinity again, 16-7, in the Bi-district playoff.

"Those were key victories for us," noted MacArthur coach Ray Overton, who last coached at Abilene Cooper in 1982. "We were in the playoffs in 1983 and lost to Trinity in Bi-district. I think the kids remembered that."

Saturday's battle with Lee will only mark MacArthur's fourth playoff game in the school's history. They are now 2-1 in the playoff experience. The Cardinals lost to Trinity in 1983 by a 34-17 margin in Bi-district.

Lee is 10-2 in the playoffs over the last three years and 11-4 in the school's history with other brief trips in 1974 and 1976.

MacArthur probably feels "lucky" to be in Texas Stadium. That was the site of its playoff win over Trinity in the Bi-district game.

Lee will be the designated visiting team at Texas Stadium and Rebel fans have been asked to enter the Texas Stadium parking lot at gates three and four. That is also where Midland fans will enter the stadium.

Lee girls nip Hobbs, 71-66, in OT

HOBBS, N.M.— Midland Lee's Rebels made a dramatic come back to defeat Hobbs,N.M., 71-66, in overtime in girls basketball action Tuesday night.

The win gave Coach Shirley Stephenson's lasses a 3-0 record and their first victory ever over Hobbs in Hobbs.

What was even better was the way it was accomplished. Ahead by one at half, Lee fell behind by 13 going into the final period as Hobbs outscored the Rebels 22-12 in the third quarter.

"We were still 10 or 11 points behind with two minutes to go," Coach Stephenson described.

"I think the win, the way we won, helped our kids to find out you can come from behind and win, no matter how bleak things may appear," Stephenson said.

"Everybody made a contribution to the victory," she added.

Becky White's 13 points led the Rebels, which shows how balanced the Lee scoring was.

If even Lee Dixon's sister noticed...

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

If Lee Dixon's little sister could see that Midland Lee wasn't hitting the boards, Lee's basketball Rebels knew something had to be done.

So Tuesday night at Lee's Gym, the Rebels came out pounding on the glass and scoring in bunches to record their first win of the 1985-86 season, a 69-52 drubbing of Crane.

"Lee was telling us how his sister, who doesn't really know anything about basketball, asked him 'How come the other team always gets the ball and puts it in the basket?' We figrued if she could see it, we'd better see it too, and do something about it," Rebel coach Paul Stueckler said.

Dixon and the Rebs did do something about it, outmuscling the Class 3A Cranes inside and making the most of some sharpshooting by Eddie Riley and Greg Johnson. Riley led all scorers with 25 points and nine rebounds. Dixon added 11 and Johnson tossed in 16 points, 14 in a first half binge that staked Lee to an insurmountable 14-point lead.

THE WIN moved Lee to 1-2 in the pre-district season while Crane fell to 1-2. The Rebels are idle until Friday's opening round of the Tall City Tournament.

The Rebels did a job on defense as well by keeping the Cranes' 6-3 senior leaper Kenny Walker from becoming a factor in the game with a sagging zone in the lane. Walker, who averaged more than four slam dunks a game as a junior, scored only 11 points — including just two slams — and grabbing just six rebounds.

"We really ganged up on him inside by putting one man in front and one behind him," Stueckler said. "I'd never seen Walker play, but I knew what kind of player he was so we had something special ready for him."

"We just contained him by sagging inside," said Riley, whose 25 points is a career high. "We knew if we could contain him, we could control their game. We knew we had a bad game against Plainview, we just wanted to go out and try to get more rebounds."

CRANE, CONSIDERED a strong 3A team, could never free up Walker inside and had difficulty converting its long range shots. And with Lee dominating the boards and the Cranes also shooting poorly from the free throw line, there never really was any contest after the first quarter when it was 17-13 lead.

Johnson hit three straight Lee buckets to open the second quarter, then after a Rebel timeout with 3:17 to go, Crane was outscored 10-4 to end the half and the Crane's upset hopes.

"It really feels good to get that first win under your belt," Stueckler said. "After that first win you get a little more confidence. I feel much better about going into the Tall City Tournament now."

The Rebs will open the two-day, 16-team tournament Friday at 1 p.m. in the Lee Gym against Del Rio. If they win they will advance to the second round against the Odessa High-Lubbock Coronado winner at 9 p.m. at Lee.

Andrews hands Midland first loss

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

The Andrews Mustangs went to the state Class 4A girls basketball quarterfinals last spring before bowing out to the Mustangs of Sweetwater. After seeing what they did to the Midland High Bulldogs at the MHS gym Tuesday night, Andrews appears headed back for some more playoff glory.

Andrews bombed the Bulldogs by a 75-58 margin Tuesday, running its record to 2-0 and handing a scrappy but outmatched MHS team it first loss of the season and a 2-1 record.

It's not that the Bulldogs were so much outmatched in hustle and desire, but they were in shooting the ball and that's where the points come from. Andrews shot over 70 percent from the field in a textbook dead eye lesson.

"I know the score is bad, but I don't feel like we played all that bad," said MHS coach Jane Young. "The shot the eyes out of the basket. We do need to work harder on our defense, but I really thought the girls played well."

Sam Johnson, the first year girls coach at Andrews, agreed with Young, "Midland has got a good basketball team, and if we hadn't shot as well as we did, it would have been a close game. We've never shot the ball like that."

But Johnson is pleased with his team after two games. Andrews also owns a win over powerful Class 2A Greenwood this year.

"I'm happy with the way the girls have started the season. These girls like to play basketball and they work hard at it," Johnson said.

Andrews presented two problems that the Bulldogs couldn't handle. The problems had names of Charlotte Jones and Rachel Trevino. Jones scored 28 points, 15 in the second half, and Trevino had 24, with 16 in the first half.

Trevino hit eight of 10 from the field in the first half while Jones countered with 10 of 12 from the field in the second half. It was an awesome one-two punch that the Bulldogs couldn't answer.

Sebrina Finch led the Bulldogs in scoring for the second game in a row with 14 points while Amy Cumings and Laura Martin each contributed with 11.

Andrews now meets Lubbock Dunbar Friday in the opening round of the Andrews Invitational tournament while Midland High travels to Amarillo for its second tournament of the year.

In junior varsity action Tuesday, MHS took a 49-37 win over Andrews with Rosa Madrid leading the way with 10 points. Andrews' Kat Johnson led all scorers with 13 while teammate

Faust accepts heat for past; Irish look to future

By THOMAS P. WYMAN
New York Times News Service

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Gerry Faust says he'll take the heat for Notre Dame's lackluster football performance the past five years, while university officials put the search for his successor on the front burner.

"If you're going to put the blame somewhere, put it on the coach. That's where it ought to be," Faust said at a Tuesday evening news conference.

Athletic Director Gene Corrigan said he talked with several prospects in the hours after Faust announced his resignation Tuesday morning. The selection of Notre Dame's 25th head football coach will be made soon, he said.

"My best guess, it'll be wrapped up by Monday," he said.

Faust wound down his career with the Irish by late season, losing the last two contests to top-ranked Penn State and No. 13 Louisiana State to become the losingest coach in Notre Dame football history.

"Bottom line is you've got to win on the field. That's what you play the game for," Faust admitted.

With the Irish 5-5 this season, Faust's career record at Notre Dame stands at 30-25-1. The Irish face the prospect of a losing season going into Saturday's contest at No. 4 Miami, Faust's final Notre Dame coaching appearance.

Making Notre Dame top dog again will be the task of Faust's successor. And Corrigan said the new coach will be someone with success at beating Division I teams, an experience that Faust lacked before coming to Notre Dame as the highly acclaimed coach of Cincinnati Moeller High School.

"We need someone who's experienced at this level and someone who's had success at this level," Corrigan said.

The coaching candidates also must be willing to accept Notre Dame's strict academic standards for recruiting and eligibility, as well as its squeaky clean recruiting practices.

"I think the most important thing we're looking for is the integrity must be unquestioned," Corrigan said. "We're not going to change the red-shirting policy. We're not going to take transfers."

Notre Dame does not red-shirt players, which is the practice — common elsewhere — of holding players back a year to allow them more time to mature.

Reported to be among the front-runners to succeed Faust is Minnesota Coach Lou Holtz, who said he would leave his current coaching job only to accept the Notre Dame post. But Corrigan denied rumors that Holtz has been offered, or has already accepted, the job.

Holtz's son, Lou "Skip" Holtz Jr., a junior at Notre Dame, says he thinks his dad would love to coach the Irish. "I think my dad has been a Notre Dame fan since he was a kid."

Other coaches mentioned as possible successors include Virginia's George Welsh, Maryland's Bobby Ross, UCLA's Terry Donahue and Dick Vermeil, former coach at UCLA and of the NFL Philadephia Eagles.

Donahue, for one, said he's had no contact with Notre Dame officials about the job.

Whoever wins the post will receive Faust's offer to help settle in before Faust leaves.

"I don't regret any of the years at Notre Dame," Faust said. "If I knew what the results would be there after that five-year period, the tough times and the good times, I'd do it again."

The toughest time came when he sat down for his regular Tuesday tele conference and announced the end of his Notre Dame career.

"It's best for me to resign now and give the university an opportunity to get another coach before recruiting starts next week," Faust said. "It's best for the university, best for me, best for my family."

Later, Faust said he would consider a coaching offer from another Division I school, but has received none so far. "I'm going to sit back for a couple of weeks and hope I get some calls, maybe in the business world, the coaching world, and evaluate things and go from there."

UTEP axes Yung

Coaching toll mounts

EL PASO (AP) — Bill Yung, head football coach at the University of Texas at El Paso, has become the second major Texas university coach to be fired this month.

Yung, who had compiled a 1-9 record so far this season, was fired Tuesday. His last game will be Dec. 7 against Western Athletic Conference foe Wyoming in Melbourne, Australia, Athletic Director Bill Cords said.

"It's been a tough year for him," said Grant Teaff, head football coach at Baylor. "I've talked to him a few times this fall. I know he got some people injured early. I'm disappointed to hear it."

The 50-year-old Yung coached under Teaff at Baylor for several years.

Yung's termination comes on the heels of the firing of Texas Tech head football coach Jerry Moore. The Red Raiders coach was fired a week ago.

"I'm very biased, but I think the firing of Yung, like the firings of other coaches recently ... is not justified," said Dee Margo, an El Paso businessman.

"I feel he was hindered in doing some things by the administration. He was promised certain things, but funds were not there to do what was promised. So he had to raise the funds," Margo said.

The Miners' only victory this season was a 23-19 upset over Brigham Young University in an Oct. 26 WAC clash.

When the Miners defeated Brigham Young, last season's national champion, the Cougars had lost just one game in 1985 when UCLA snapped what had been the nation's longest winning streak.

Yung, who compiled a 7-38 record during four seasons at UTEP, said he did not want to talk to reporters Tuesday. He has one year remaining on a five-year contract that pays him about $50,000 a year.

"We have great respect and admiration for coach Yung and deeply appreciate all that he has done for the university, the football program and the city. We wish him the very best for the future," Cords said.

"I will meet with the assistant coaches as soon as possible to discuss this situation. We will begin an immediate search for a new football coach."

Max Bowman, assistant head football coach, recruiting coordinator and line coach, said he believed the university had seen an improvement in the football program under Yung.

Columbia's fired football coach reportedly struck two Lion players

NEW YORK (AP) — The controversy surrounding now disposed Columbia football coach Jim Garrett continued following a report in the university's student newspaper that he allegedly struck two of his players during practices.

Garrett resigned Monday, a result of the Lions' 0-10 season.

Columbia fullback Al Gonzalez and tailback Durc Savini told The Columbia Spectator that they were struck by Garrett during practicees early in the season.

"He hit me in the back of the helmet," Gonzalez told the newspaper. "I wasn't even looking. "He said, 'You deserve to be decapitated.'"

Savani said Garrett struck him with an open hand against the breast plate of his shoulder pads.

Savani said that after the incident Garrett told him, "The reason I got on your back is because I want you to be a great player. Not next year, but this year. I don't want you to take your time."

On Monday night Denis Ryan, a senior offensive tackle, told reporters that Garrett was asked to resign by the university, refused and was told his dismissal would be reported as a resignation.

Members of the varsity and freshman football teams reportedly voted 54-9 in a team meeting in favor of asking the administration to reverse its decision.

Garrett, whose drill-sergeant methods upset many members of the Columbia community, got off to an inauspicious start in the opening game when the Lions blew a 17-0 third-quarter lead and lost to Harvard 49-17.

Cranberries-the Mealtime Marvel

Jewel-toned fresh cranberries add their bright accents to these luscious treats (from top): Pumpkin Cheesecake with Cranberry Glaze; Pear Cranberry Compote; and Cranberry-Apple Phyllo Crunch.

There's something special about fresh-cranberry season. Its appearance signals the start of autumn, the coming of Thanksgiving, the excitement of holiday entertaining.

A traditional cranberry relish is just one of the uses of fresh cranberries, as necessary to holiday feasting as the turkey itself. But why stop there, when there are so many other dishes to try, as well — less traditional, but certainly no less delicious!

Fresh cranberries make superb partners for many of the season's vegetables and fruits. Use the bright red berries to add wonderful flavor and color to sauces, relishes and desserts. And freeze some of this year's crop for use year 'round.

Try Cranberry-Apple Phyllo Crunch as an excellent and easy-to-make accompaniment for turkey or pork. Use fresh or fresh-frozen cranberries in combination with apples, nuts, brown sugar, cinnamon, butter and phyllo leaves.

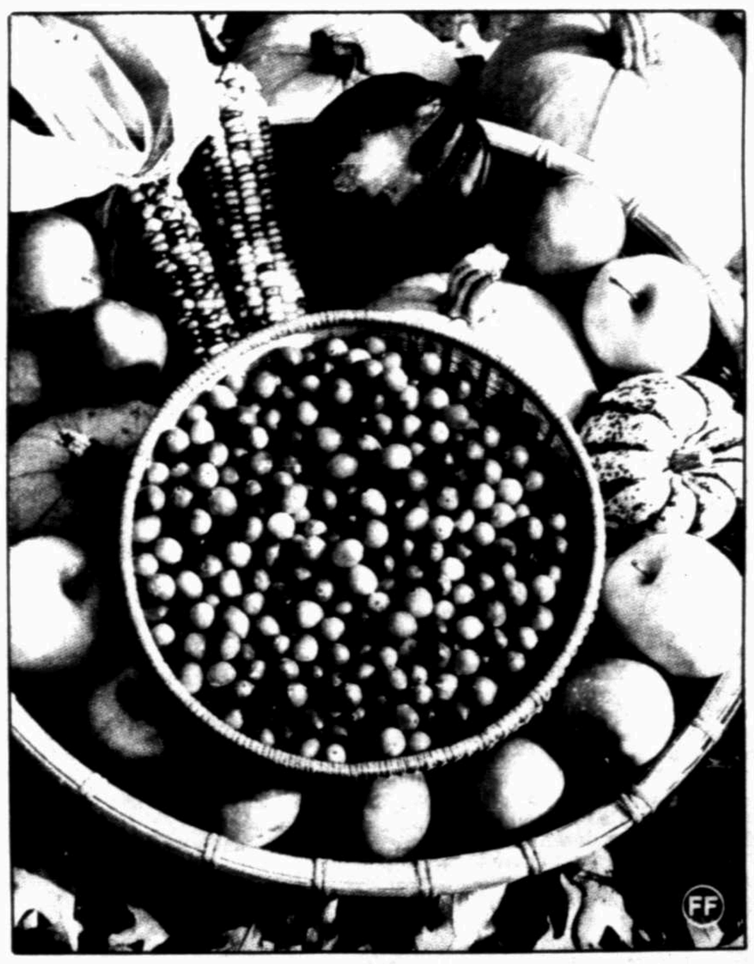

Pear-Cranberry Compote is a dessert that contrasts the sweetness of fresh pears with the tartness of fresh cranberries. Serve the compote with crisp cookies or thin slices of toasted pound cake.

Pumpkin Cheesecake with Cranberry Glaze is a grandstand dessert — beautiful, elegant and luscious. Topped with whipped cream and served with ruby-red cranberry glaze, it's a fitting ending to the most special of holiday meals.

ADD FRESH CRANBERRIES...

Fresh cranberries have the kind of soup-to-nuts versatility that makes them an extremely useful ingredient to have on hand for use in a variety of ways. It takes only five minutes preparation time to create the following "special effects," which can add color, flavor and flair to meals through the fall season and beyond.

- Use sweetened cranberries as a garnish. Add sugar to fresh cranberries, mix well and place in covered jar; chill several days, stirring occasionally. The tangy-sweet garnish is delicious with pork, ham, chicken or turkey, and with desserts.
- Keep a cranberry crock in the refrigerator. Place cranberries in crock; add sugar and mix well. Cover cranberries with wine (Burgundy, Port, Sherry or Madeira) and use as garnish: Burgundy cranberries over steak, sliced filet, roast beef; Port cranberries over servings of Virginia ham, roast duckling, floating island; Sherry cranberries over broiled salmon steaks or crepes; Madeira cranberries over roast chicken, ham steaks or turkey.
- Make cranberry puree to heighten the flavor of many foods. Cook cranberries in a little water for five minutes (add several whole cloves for spicier flavor); puree in food processor and chill. Add to gravies and sauces to enrich color and heighten flavor; fold into sweetened whipped cream for cream puff filling; add to pot roasts, stews, meat balls; use in onion soup and minestrone; layer with lemon or vanilla pudding in parfait glasses.

Fresh cranberry season is here. Use the versatile berry in combination with other autumn fruits and vegetables and create interesting dishes ranging from traditional relishes to spectacular desserts.

Cranberry-Apple Phyllo Crunch

3 phyllo leaves, 12" x 17"
6 tablespoons butter or margarine

FILLING:
1/4 cup butter or margarine
3/4 cup fresh cranberries
2 cups apples, peeled and chopped
1/4 cup nuts, chopped
3/4 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Cut phyllo leaves into 2" square pieces. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in skillet and add 1/3 of the phyllo (separating pieces). Toss lightly until slightly brown. Remove from pan. Repeat until remaining butter and phyllo are used. Place phyllo along bottom and sides of 1-1/2 quart serving dish. (If desired, reserve some to crumble over top.) To make Filling: melt butter in skillet and add remaining ingredients. Stir often until cranberries and apples are tender but not soft. Some juice will accumulate; if not, add a little water. Place mixture in serving dish and, if desired, sprinkle with reserved phyllo. Serve warm. Serves 6-8.

Pear-Cranberry Compote

6 large, firm Bartlett or Bosc pears
1 cup cranberry, cassis or framboise liqueur
3 cups Cranberry Juice Cocktail, approximately 1/2 cup sugar
2 cups fresh cranberries
1 cinnamon stick

Peel pears, leaving them whole with stem attached. Place them in a deep saucepan. Add liqueur and enough cranberry juice cocktail to just cover pears. Stir in sugar. Bring to a boil, lower heat and simmer until pears are tender but still hold their shape, about 15 to 20 minutes. Remove from heat and add cranberries and cinnamon stick. Let stand at room temperature until cool. Remove pears and cranberries from syrup; chill. Boil syrup until it's reduced to 2 cups. Remove cinnamon stick; cool syrup. Place pears and cranberries in compote; pour syrup over. Serve chilled with crisp cookies or thin slices of toasted pound cake. Serves 6.

Pumpkin Cheesecake with Cranberry Glaze

CRUST:
3/4 cup graham cracker crumbs
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons firmly packed light brown sugar

FILLING:
4 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
1-1/2 cups sugar
5 eggs
1/4 cup flour
2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
1 can (1 pound) pumpkin
2 tablespoons rum

CRANBERRY GLAZE:
2 cups fresh cranberries
1-1/4 cups sugar
1/2 cup water
1 tablespoon cornstarch

TOPPING:
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
2 tablespoons sugar

Preheat oven to 325°F. Grease 9-inch spring form pan. Combine all Crust ingredients and line the bottom and side of pan. To make Filling, beat cream cheese in a large bowl until fluffy. Gradually add sugar; add the eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Gradually add flour, spice and pumpkin; blend well. Stir in rum. Pour into crust-lined pan. Bake 1 hour and 45 minutes, or until center feels quite firm when touched. Cool in pan on wire rack. While cake is baking, prepare Glaze: combine cranberries with 1 cup sugar and water in medium-size saucepan. Bring to boil; cook 2 minutes. Combine 1/4 cup sugar and cornstarch; stir into cranberry mixture. Cook and stir until boiling; cool. When ready to serve, prepare Topping: beat cream and sugar until stiff; pipe around edge of cooled cake with star-tipped pastry bag. Fill center with cranberry glaze. Makes one 9-inch cake.

WHAT'S COOKING

Cake sweetens Thanksgiving

By LINDA ANDERSON
Lifestyle Writer

For Paula Shepherd and her family, roots go deep into West Texas soil. The daughter of a Midland area pioneer family, the Kings, Mrs. Shepherd was raised in the area.

Today, the Shepherds and their youngest child, a student at Greenwood High School, live in Greenwood, near the home of Mrs. Shepherd's father and not far from her grandfather's old ranch house. The couple's three married children and their families, as well as Mrs. Shepherd's grandmother, all live within a few miles of the Shepherd home.

With all this family in the area, gatherings during the holidays are likely to be large, loving and rich in tradition.

Mrs. Shepherd, who is county chairman of Texas Extension Homemakers Association and the Prairie Lee Extension Homemakers Club president, said a holiday tradition she inherited from her grandmother is in the desserts she prepares. "My grandmother made jam cake, Lady Baltimore cake, ambrosia and boiled custard."

As a child Mrs. Shepherd spent every Christmas with her grandparents.

"We either went there or they came here. If they came here, my grandmother brought all this with her. If she came early enough, she made them here."

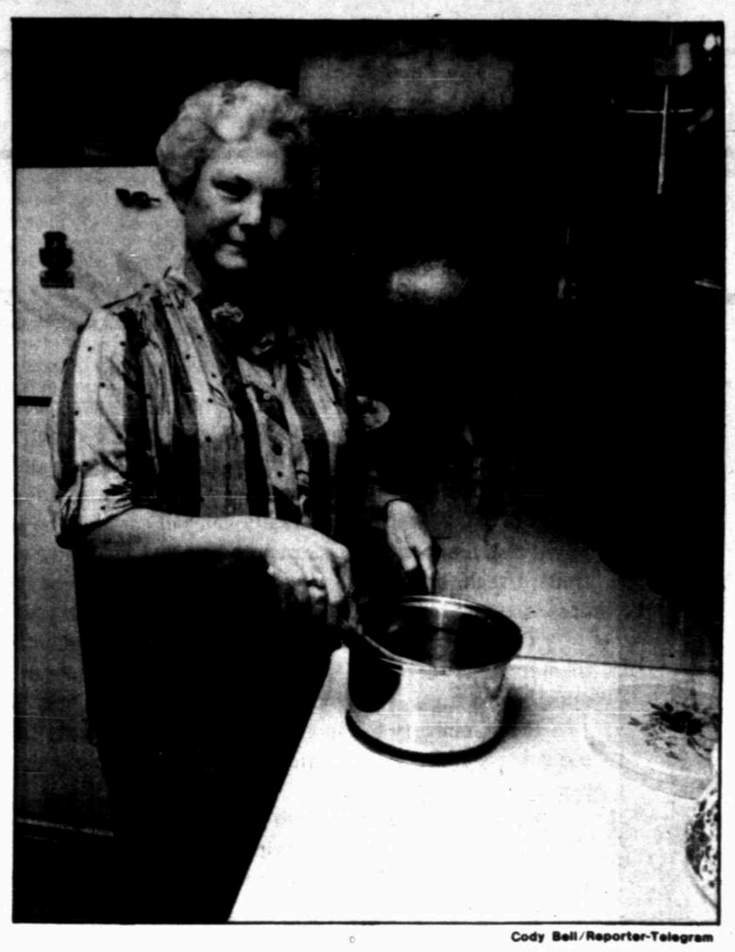

Having Christmas dinner with grandparents is still a family tradition.

"We have Christmas dinner with my father," Mrs. Shepherd said. "We always go to his house for Christmas dinner."

But Thanksgiving is celebrated at the Shepherd home. To prepare a large dinner for a large crowd, Mrs. Shepherd said, she always begins early. "I make the pies the day before, and I make the dressing the day before. I have found that it's (dressing) better when it sits in the refrigerator for a while and the flavors blend."

A typical family holiday dinner might include turkey and dressing, cranberry sauce, green beans, mashed potatoes, jello salad and pecan and pumpkin pies.

"We're a very close family, we always have been," Mrs. Shepherd said. "When we all get together, we all have a good old time."

PAULA SHEPHERD'S JAM CAKE

2 cups sugar
1 cup butter
6 eggs
1 teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg, all spice
1 cup chopped nuts (preferably pecans)
4 cups flour
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup seedless blackberry jam
2 teaspoons soda, dissolved in ¼-cup warm water

Cream sugar and butter; add eggs one at a time, beat well. Sift spices with flour. Alternately add flour and buttermilk until mixed well; then add jam, then soda mixture. Beat well. Stir in nuts by hand.

Bake at 350° for 30 minutes in four 9-inch round cake pans. Construct four-layer cake with Jam Cake Filling (recipe follows).

JAM CAKE FILLING

1½ cans evaporated milk
2⅔ cups sugar
5 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups chopped pecans
1 cup coconut

In two-quart pan, add milk, then sugar. Stir with wooden spoon only. Beat eggs; add to milk mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thick.

Remove from heat; stir in pecans and coconut. Add vanilla after cooled for a time.

Place all but top layer of cake down; ice cake and between each layer. Makes four-layer cake.

Place whole pecans all over cake. This cake is best made a few days early. Keep uncovered until cut.

This is the second in a four-part "What's Cooking" series featuring the holiday recipes of local home extension club members.

Mincemeat pie updated

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

If traditional mincemeat pie is one of the desserts you always serve at Thanksgiving dinner, you may want to try an interesting new version. Don't worry — it's not far out.

When we baked this new pie in our test kitchen, one of our tasters asked for a slice of cheddar cheese to top her portion. A good idea you may want to adopt.

APPLE STREUSEL MINCEMEAT PIE

3 medium (1 pound) Granny Smith apples, pared and thinly sliced
3 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter, melted
9-inch unbaked pie shell with a high-standing fluted rim
28-ounce jar ready-to-use mincemeat (2⅔ cups)
Streusel, see recipe

In a large bowl toss apples with flour and melted butter; arrange in the pastry shell. Spread mincemeat over apples. Top with Streusel.

Bake on the rack below center of a preheated 425-degree oven for 10 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 375-degrees; continue baking until golden brown — 25 to 30 minutes. Place on a wire rack until warm. Serve at once.

STREUSEL: In a medium bowl stir together ½ cup flour, ¼ cup firmly packed light brown sugar and 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon. Cut in ⅓ cup butter until crumbly. Stir in ¼ cup chopped (medium fine) walnuts.

Cranberries spicy

Associated Press

OLD-TIME SPICY CRANBERRIES

1 teaspoon whole cloves
2 sticks cinnamon
½ cup water
2½ cups sugar
Grated rind and juice of 1 lemon
4 cups (about 1 pound) cranberries

Tie cloves in a cheesecloth bag. In a 3-quart saucepan heat clove bag, cinnamon, water, sugar, lemon rind and lemon juice, stirring until sugar dissolves; boil for 5 minutes. Add cranberries and simmer uncovered, without stirring, until most of cranberries pop open — 5 to 10 minutes. Remove clove bag. Makes 4 cups.

Wrinkle Cream Developed by Pharmacist

It's an exciting story of an Oregon pharmacist who developed a wrinkle cream the whole country is clamoring for.

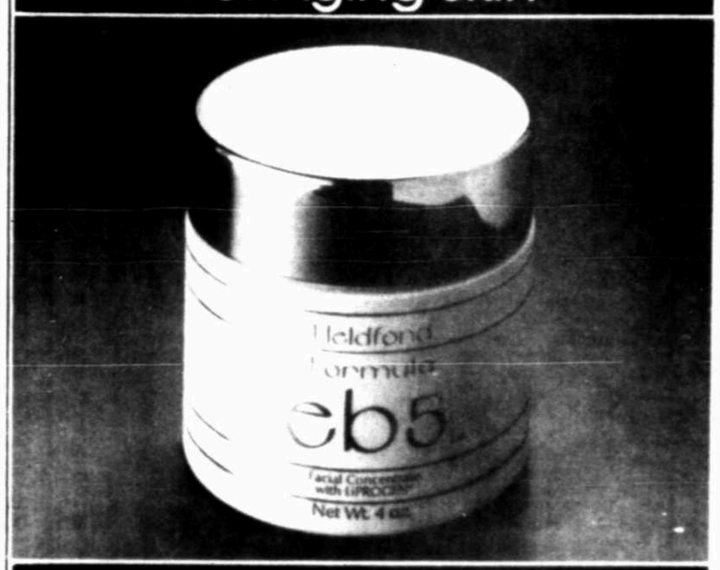

Robert Heldfond used his years of experience to compound EB5, a wrinkle cream which has been shown in lab tests to smooth facial lines. EB5 contains natural ingredients, including Liprogen, in a special Heldfond base which leaves the skin soft, velvety, and younger-looking, when used twice daily.

EB5 works like 5 creams in one jar — a wrinkle cream, moisturizer, night and day cream, eye cream, and makeup base — all in one.

Note: EB5 cream is available in Midland at JCPenney at Midland Park Mall. 699-4347

DEAR ABBY

Time to count blessings

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: By popular demand, here is my traditional Thanksgiving column:

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day, so take a few minutes to think about what you have to be thankful for.

How's your health? Not so good? Well, thank God you've lived this long. A lot of people haven't. You're hurting? Thousands — maybe millions — are hurting more. (Have you ever visited a veterans hospital? Or a rehabilitation clinic for crippled children?)

If you awakened this morning and were able to hear the birds sing, use your vocal cords to utter human sounds, walk to the breakfast table on two good legs and read the newspaper with two good eyes, praise the Lord! A lot of people couldn't.

How's your pocketbook? Thin? Well, most of the world is a lot poorer. No pensions. No welfare. No food stamps. No Social Security. In fact, one-third of the people in the world will go to bed hungry tonight.

Are you lonely? The way to have a friend is to be one. If nobody calls you, call someone. Go out of your way to do something nice for somebody. It's a sure cure for the blues.

Are you concerned about your country's future? Hooray! Our system has been saved by such concern. Concern for fair play under the law. Your country may not be a rose garden, but it also is not a patch of weeds.

Freedom rings! Look and listen. You can still worship at the church of your choice, cast a secret ballot and even criticize your government without fearing a knock on the head or a knock on the door at midnight. And if you want to live under a different system, you are free to go. There are no walls or fences — nothing to keep you here.

As a final thought, I'll repeat my Thanksgiving prayer; perhaps you will want to use it at your table tomorrow:

O, heavenly Father: We thank thee for food and remember the hungry.

We thank thee for health and remember the sick.

We thank thee for friends and remember the friendless.

We thank thee for freedom and remember the enslaved.

May these remembrances stir us to service,

That thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen.

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving, and may God bless you and yours. — Love, ABBY

P.S. Want an instant high? The surest cure for the post-holiday blues is to do something nice for someone. Why not call someone who lives alone and invite him (or her) over for dinner or leftovers?

Better yet, call and say, "I'm coming to get you, and I'll see that you get home." (Many older people don't drive, and those who do don't like to go out alone after dark.)

Try it. And let me know the results.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. TEXAS ★ CELEBRITY ★ RECIPE

(By RUSSELL M. GARDNER and CHRIS FARKAS)

"Our family has lived in Texas since 1969 and we now consider Dallas our home. We have appreciated the warmth of the people, liked the school systems for our kids, enjoyed the recreational programs available and the business opportunities are unending. We all speak 'Texasnese' fluently and are proud to be a part of the Texas Sesquicentennial celebration." — Roger Staubach

ROGER STAUBACH'S SPINACH SALAD

1 bag fresh spinach (wash, remove stems, tear in bite-size pieces)
4 ounces blue cheese, crumbled
1 can french fried onion rings

Dressing
1 can tomato soup
¾ cup oil
¾ cup vinegar
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 onion, quartered

In a tall bottle, mix dry ingredients first, then add liquid ingredients, mixing well. Put onion in for flavor, but remove before serving. Makes enough dressing for two bags of spinach.

Turkey gravy recipe offers helpful hints

By MARJORIE RICE
Hearst News Service

Turkey gravy is more a technique than a recipe. Once the turkey is roasted, remove it from the pan to a platter. Pour the drippings into a glass measuring cup and set aside.

Pour a little turkey broth into the roasting pan, and on the stovetop over moderately high heat, bring the liquid to a boil, stirring up all the crusty browned bits from the pan (deglazing).

By now, the fat should have risen to the top of the drippings. Pour the fat into a small dish. Pour the deglazing liquid into the drippings and set it aside with extra broth ready.

For 1 cup of gravy, you'll need 1 cup of broth or drippings, 2 tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons fat.

Measure the fat and pour it into the roasting pan. Heat it over moderate flame and whisk in flour, stirring to break up any lumps. Cook this roux at least 2 minutes.

When the roux is cooked, whisk in the broth and drippings. Stir and heat the gravy until it thickens. If it's too thick, thin it down with more broth. If it's too thin, stir together a tablespoon of corn starch with about 1/4 cup cold water. Stir some of this slurry into the gravy, a little at a time, letting it boil a couple of minutes after each addition, until it's the consistency you want.

Season to taste with salt and pepper, stir in the reserved chopped giblets and liver, if you're using them, and heat.

IRENE MC QUILLAN'S CRANBERRY WINE

3 pounds fresh cranberries
3 pounds sugar
1 teaspoon shredded lemon or orange rind
¼ teaspoon wine yeast (available at wine supply stores or by mail-order)

Finely chop cranberries in a food processor, turn into a 5-gallon plastic container that has a cover. Add sugar, peel and 4 quarts boiling water. Cool to room temperature, with a wooden spoon stir in yeast. Cover. Stir once daily for 5 days. Siphon into a gallon jug through funnel lined with cheesecloth. Add enough water to reach almost top of jug; use a wad of cotton as a stopper. After 3 weeks siphon again and add more sugar if you like. Leave in a dark, cool place for 6 months before serving.

Safety advice on handling turkeys causes confusion

Hearst News Service

Question: When is a fresh turkey not a fresh turkey?

Answer: When it's "chill-packed."

To extend the shelf-life of highly perishable fresh turkeys, poultry processors are using a process to chill-pack turkeys that stops short of actually freezing the bird, so it can still be called "fresh." The process takes three hours from the time the bird is killed to the time it is shipped. Processing for frozen turkeys takes two days.

The birds are scalded to remove the feathers, chilled in a water bath to bring down the temperature, placed in a plastic bag from which all air has been removed by a vacuum and put through a blast cycle for two hours to chill. The turkeys then are refrigerated or loaded into refrigerated trucks which deliver them to supermarkets where they are sold as "fresh" birds.

And therein lies the confusion. Processors say their "fresh" birds have a shelf life of 10 days. Stores tell consumers the turkeys can be held in home refrigerators for four or five days. The U.S. Department of Agriculture says for optimal safety a fresh turkey should not be held more than two days.

"The problem is, the USDA is talking about freshly-killed birds right off the farm. They are not talking about chill-packed birds," says Joanne Gage, a home economist and a spokesman for the Golub Corporation's Price Chopper supermarket chain. "Two days is extremely conservative. Processed birds can be kept longer. We believe our turkeys are safe for four days."

Gage's concern is understandable. Last year, after the publication of the USDA guidelines for keeping poultry, consumers who had been told by supermarkets they could keep their "fresh" turkeys refrigerated for four or five days began calling the USDA Poultry Hotline. Advised by the Hotline that fresh turkeys should be kept a maximum of two days, the irate consumers returned the birds to the markets and demanded their money back or a frozen turkey. There were the stores and the industry spokesmen saying the turkeys were safe, the USDA saying they weren't, and the consumer in the middle.

"What happened last year was panic," says Gage. "People read the USDA's guideline two days before Thanksgiving and were afraid to keep the birds. Some of them swapped them for frozen birds. But if you don't thaw those safely, that can be worse," the home economist contends.

The consensus seems to be that two days is extremely conservative.

"The chill-packed turkey should be safe for three to four days," says David Goldenberg, vice president of the National Turkey Federation in Reston, Va. "It depends on how it is handled."

Two days is cutting it pretty fine, says Dr. Robert Baker, chairman of the poultry department and professor of Food Science at Cornell University.

"You don't know how long it's been traveling, but two days is very conservative. Those USDA guidelines go back a few years. They are playing it very safe. I'd say four to five days."

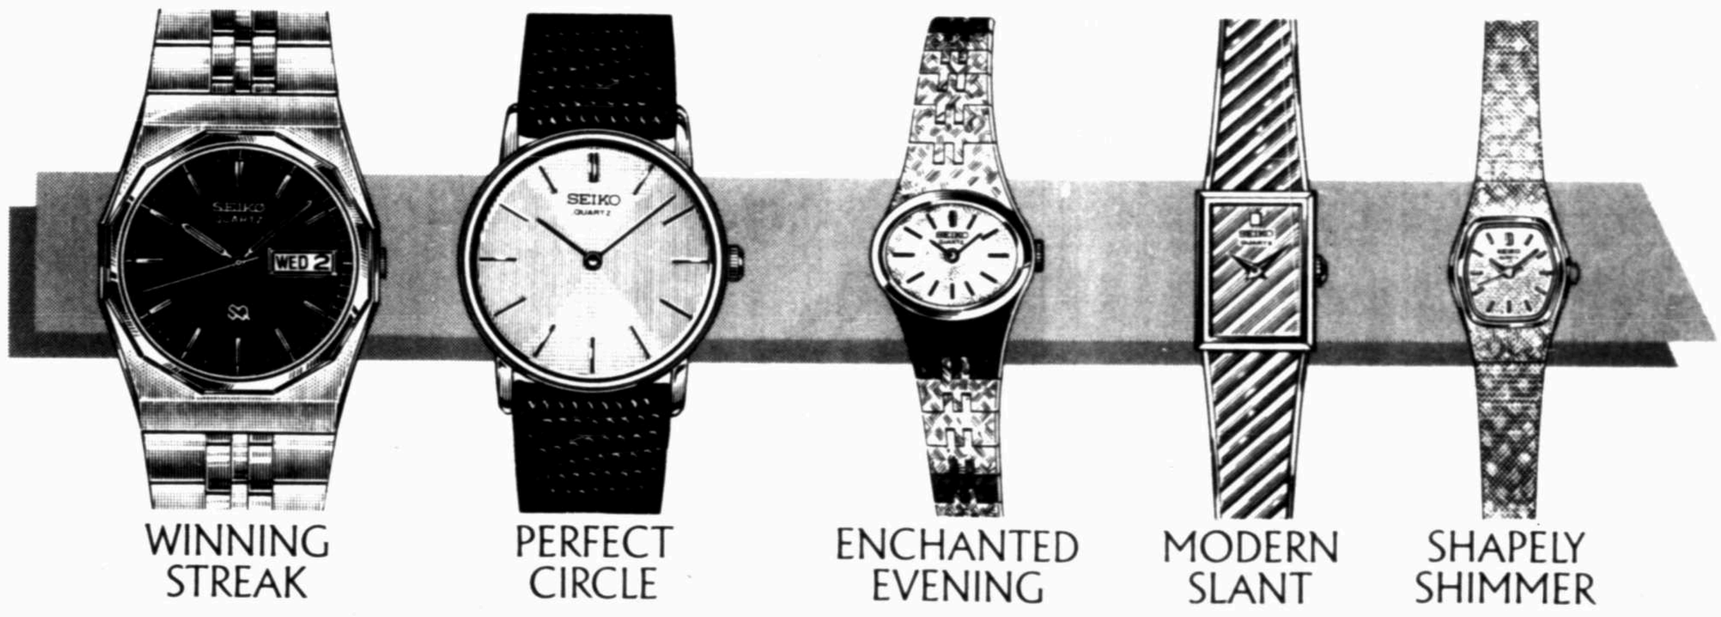

"We are very conservative," agrees Judy Quick, a food technologist in the USDA's Department of Standards and Labeling. "We do not have guidelines for chill-packed turkeys and it is my understanding that even if we did we would not change the two-day maximum."

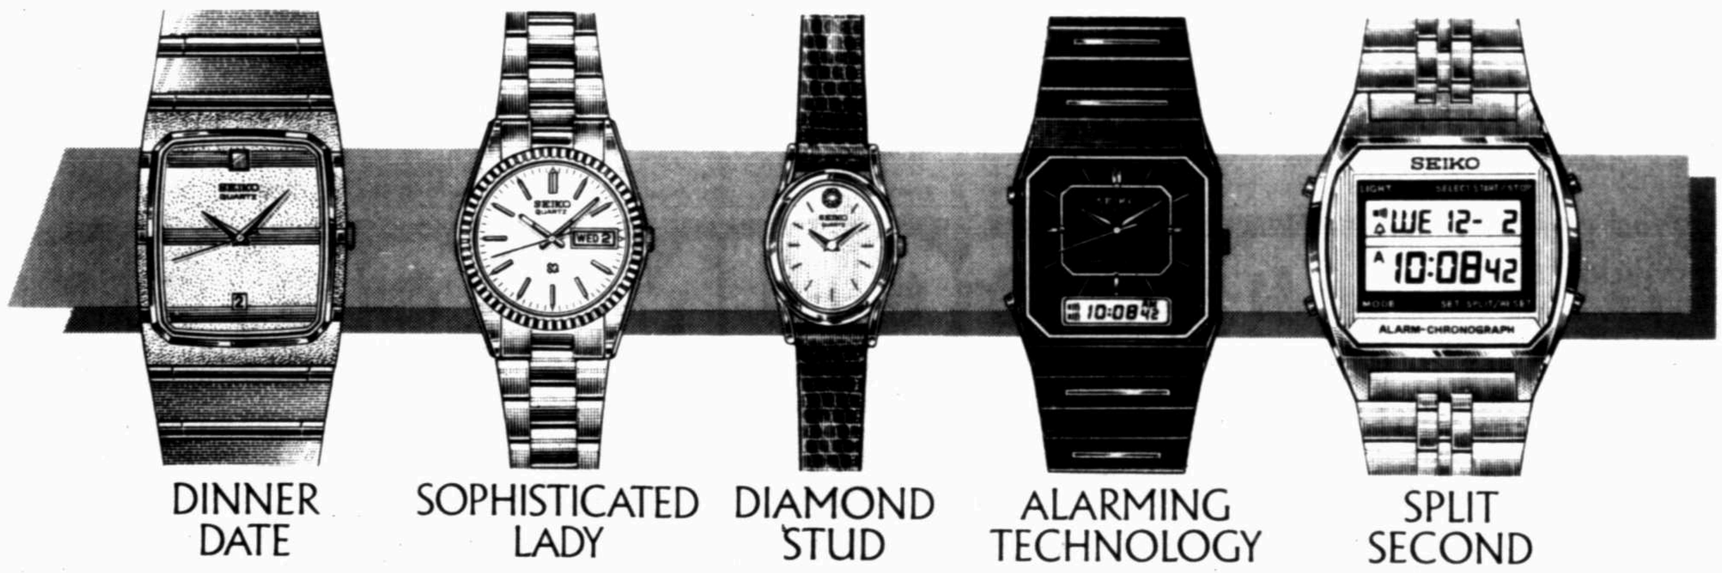

Says Mary Anne Parmely, a food writer for the agency: "The guidelines are for freshly-killed turkeys, not for chill-packed or whatever processors call them. Processing does extend the shelf-life, but the safety of the turkey depends on a number of variables over which the USDA has no control."

City Council floods oil firms with praise

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Assistant City Editor

Jim Culbertson

Vithal Pai

Teddy Gandy

The rains came down, the water rose and the lake in Wadley-Barron Park grew until it was in the streets and spreading into nearby residents' yards. That's when some local oil companies were called on for assistance and they responded.

Three firms were recognized Tuesday for the help they gave the city during the Oct. 17 rains that flooded the streets around Wadley-Barron Park. Midland City Council, in a special award, noted the assistance given by Halliburton, the Western Company of North America and Serfco to the city crews.

"These citizens did a lot to help us," said Bart Hotchkiss, mayor pro tem.

Representing Halliburton was Jim Culbertson, with Western Company was Vithal Pai, and with Serfco was Teddy Gandy.

The proclamation cited the companies for the assistance they gave on Oct. 18 and 19. Culbertson said he was called by one of the residents the day before, while Pai said it was Carl Bond with Adobe who contacted him for help.

They showed up with crews and equipment and began pumping the water out of the area. It took about two days.

"We almost sucked in a duck," said Pai with a laugh. His eight employees pumped 29 hours. At 100 barrels a minute, it amounted to 6-7 million gallons of water taken out of that area.

"We didn't pump as long," said Culbertson, and his two Halliburton employees pumped out about 4 million gallons of water.

Gandy, who had four employees on the scene, joked about the fish they found in some of their equipment.

The men also credited their crews for coming from other towns and for working long hours with little rest. Halliburton's crew came from Rankin, Pai's from Odessa. "They worked hard with very little food and under adverse weather conditions," said Pai.

"We want to thank everyone for the presentation," said Pai. "We were glad to be of assistance to the city of Midland." Culbertson and Gandy agreed.

In other action during the meeting, which ended before 2 p.m., the council deferred several items to the Dec. 17 meeting, purchased IBM word processing equipment for the city secretary's office and placed fees on the water, pregnancy and venereal disease tests conducted by the Midland City-County Health Department. The water test will be $5; VD and pregnancy tests will cost $3 each, according to Director Don Goodrum.

Councilwoman Oralia Corrales said she was concerned that young people needing the VD or pregnancy test would not be able to afford the cost. But Goodrum said the test would be free if those people would sign an affidavit stating they are indigents.

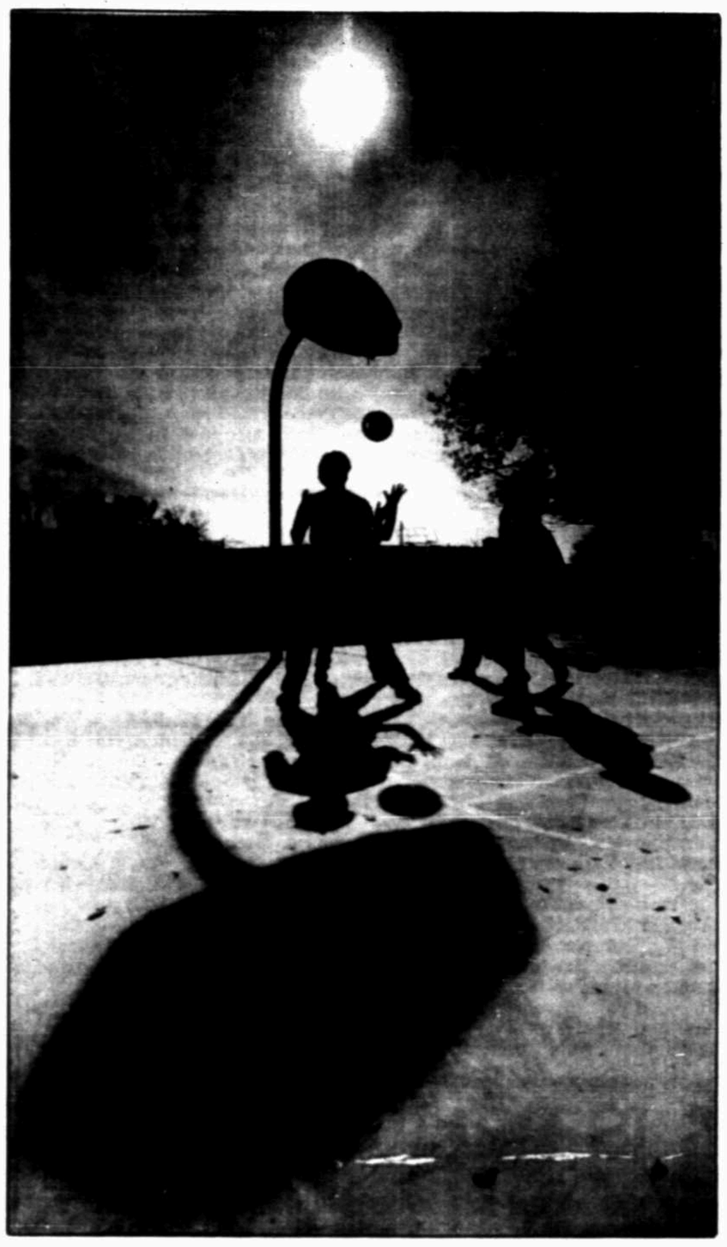

A proposal to remove the low water crossing on Maxwell Street at the Northwest Drainage Channel was deferred to the Dec. 17 meeting. The council at its Nov. 12 meeting approved removing the crossings at I and Whitney streets to allow the water better flow down the channel. Councilman Steve Davidson said the low water crossings at those two streets served as dams during the heavy rains in October. As a result, the water flowed out of the channel and into some nearby residences.

Taking out the Maxwell Street crossing "was initiated by some of your neighbors," said Councilman David Godfrey. His concern, he said, is that it would cut off the Kimber-Lea neighborhood from the swimming pool in that area.

Steve Runyon, 3212 Apperson, said his neighborhood had been concerned about the flooding of the homes in that area. But they hadn't realized the council was considering taking out both streets (Whitney and Maxwell), leaving residents to the north of the channel with no direct access to Wadley.

Taking out both low water crossings without replacing them with bridges means residents have to take a circular route to get onto Wadley.

Also deferred to Dec. 17 are ordinances regulating the widths and locations of driveways and a claim from Dr. Kirby Tarry.

MMH offers same-day surgery

By RON GILMORE
Staff Writer

Patients staying at Midland Memorial Hospital may find their visit shortened, according to MMH President Ray Branson, who introduced the "A.M. Admissions Program" to the Board of Trustees at Tuesday's monthly meeting of the Midland County Hospital District's trustees and directors.

"We're implementing this program for patients who are having surgery that same day," he said. "The 'A.M.', of course, means that the patient will be admitted in the early morning of the day they are scheduled for surgery. We are continuing to find and develop new methods to speed up and shorten hospital stays."

Branson stated that "more insurance companies are encouraging hospitals to find a way to delete 'that extra night in the hospital.'"

"It's just another example of how to reduce the average length of stay and costs and will be limited to those going in for minor surgery."

Also presented to the trustees was a report on the Bed Allocation Committee — a relatively recent effort by MMH to ensure patients are assigned to the most effective area of treatment, according to Branson.

"One of the problems whenever you open up new beds is what classification to put the patients in," he said. "We have a group of physicians working on where to put those folks so they get proper treatment."

Branson added that there had been some problems with availability of critical care beds and that the committee was considering the recommendation of 12 additional beds to the critical care area.

In the monthly financial report, Vice President of Finance Ron Peterson reported that Midland Memorial Hospital began the new fiscal year with "some of the inconsistencies of the previous years."

"We're into our third year of the Prospective Payment System and we're still experiencing budget fluctuations that we were expecting but cannot fully explain," Peterson told the trustees.

"It's the same kind of activity that we've seen for the past two Octobers."

"Patient days of 4,500 were 200 below budget...as compared to 4,702 in 1984," he said.

Peterson stated, however, that admissions were "especially high" as compared to last year, with 975 admissions for October and 918 in Oct. 1984.

"The average length of stay of 4.7 days is slightly under the budget of 4.8 days," he added.

Also showing inconsistencies were Medicare patient activities, stated Peterson in the October financial report.

"Medicare patient activities were inconsistent with October 1984, in the opposite direction," he said. "Patient days of 1,473 exceeded budget of 1,295 and last year of 1,341. Admissions of 192 were seven in excess of budget and 17 greater than the previous year. The length of stay of 8.0 days exceeds both budget of 7.7 and the previous year actual of 7.7. Medicare utilization and census utilization were both 30 percent."

"October realized both increases and decreases in ancillary utilization," he continued. "Total surgeries of 644 were 32 in excess of both budget and the previous year. Same day surgery cases of 255 were 50 in excess of budget and 51 in excess of October 1984."

Revenues during October exceeded budget as well, stated Peterson.

"Revenue of $4,062,061 exceeded budget by $19,216," he said. "Expenses were under budget by $84,580. Several expense categories exceeded budget while others were less than budget. No significant trends appear at this time."

Peterson also summarized that indigent care expenses of $171,388 were $61,945 under budget. Net collectible ad valorem tax revenues of $3,184,447 were recorded.

"Budgeted is $3,218,065," said Peterson. "The difference reflects anticipated delinquent tax collections during the year."

Approved by the Board of Directors were several partial payments and bids and approvals totaling $342,024.

Included were $74,128 to Area Builders for construction payments; $174,000 for equipment related to construction; $245,950 to MMH for reimbursement for indigent care expenses including $83,000 from July; $6,602 for indigent care patients at Medical Center Hospital in Odessa; $1,834 for indigents at Lubbock General Hospital; $8,936 for nursery oxygen monitors and $4,400 for new typewriters for the business office.

MISD board considers adding computers

By RAMONA NYE
Staff Writer

Midland Independent School District Board of Trustees Tuesday heard about progress on the expansion of a computer program that should allow elementary students more time on computers by the 1986-87 school year.

The district is attempting to expand its computer program by buying 77 new computers for elementary schools to give fourth and fifth graders a complete six-week computer literacy program.

The $120,000 expansion will provide each fourth and fifth grade school with 17 computers for one semester each year, said assistant superintendent H. Lamar Herbert.

"We will be able to proceed more rapidly in the teaching of computer literacy," said elementary education director Frank Marlow.

Marlow said fourth- and fifth-grade students are not able to spend enough time on the computers with the limited number of computers available. Fourth and fifth graders now have access to only four computers.

Ninety-eight percent of the 158 Commodore computers used in elementary schools are located in seven sixth-grade computer labs, Herbert said.

Fourteen computers will make up portable labs, which will be moved around in the district's fourth- and fifth-grade clusters to give each school access to 17 computers for one semester, Herbert said.

If the board approves of the program, fourth and fifth grade elementary students should have access to more computers by the fall, Herbert said.

Bids are being taken for the new computers and the board should consider approval of the bids by January.

In other action the board heard reports on six proposed goals for the school district.

The proposed goals include:

— Attracting more teachers to Midland and providing incentives to retain good teachers.

— Communicating with Midland residents.

— Providing alternative education programs to a wide variety of Midland students.

— Finding new sources of funding for the district.

— Adjusting to state-mandated changes and lobbying against changes that are not beneficial to Midland students.

— Maintaining equality among and between the schools in terms of size, ethnic grouping, experience level and faculty education.

The board was also presented a draft proposal on the district's Discipline Management Plan which will seek comments from administrators, teachers, parents and students on disciplinary matters.

Pickle ready for 'knockdown, dragout' race

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. J.J. "Jake" Pickle, who has represented Texas' 10th Congressional District for two decades, says he's ready for a re-election fight against former Austin mayor Carole Keeton Rylander — or anyone else.

"If anybody wants to run, they're entitled to pay their filing fee, and we'll get with it," Pickle, 72, told a news conference Tuesday.

Mrs. Rylander, a three-term mayor who Democratic Gov. Mark White had appointed to the State Board of Insurance, became a Republican Saturday. GOP sources say she is considering a race against Democrat Pickle.

Pickle, who has represented the 10th district for almost 22 years, said he wasn't surprised by her switch because he'd been hearing rumors and reading news reports for weeks.

"About three months ago, I wouldn't have believed it at all. Her background and association with political matters of the city would indicate that she was a Democrat," he told the Austin American-Statesman.

Mrs. Rylander was one of four Travis County co-chairmen for Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale and as recently as September had said she was a Democrat.

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, right, commends Congressman J.J. "Jake" Pickle at a press conference in Austin Tuesday.

Pickle said the two of them talked several months ago, but Mrs. Rylander didn't say she was planning to run against him.

"I think this spring sometime, or early summer, she came to me and visited with me about my plans. And I told her that I was running," he said.

"Let me put it this way: If she runs or anyone else runs, I'm going to put on a hard, all-out campaign, and anybody gets in this campaign can expect a knockdown and dragout — well, that's not the way to put it — can expect an intense campaign," he said.

"I think I've been a good congressman," he added. "I think I'm in a position now to help my district and my nation more than even in past years."

Pickle, a staunch defender of Social Security, ranks third in seniority on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, which is working on tax reform legislation.

He has $350,000 in his political fund. Pickle has had neither Republican nor Democratic opposition since 1980, when he trounced Republican John Biggar even as President Reagan won a landslide victory.

But political analysts note that the 10th District — once represented by Lyndon Johnson — has undergone some big changes.

Faced with a huge influx of new residents, many of them coming from outside Texas to work in the city's high-tech industries, Austin now has a larger number of Republicans plus many people who don't know Pickle's record.

But Pickle says that's not a problem.

Odessa council OKs contract for EMS

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — City Council members Tuesday ended several months of negotiations on an emergency services contract with Ector County, gave first-reading approval to realigned voting precincts and heard criticism of Monahans Draw Park plans.

The approved contract calls for the city to provide dispatching services for ambulance and fire-fighting units. Ambulances will respond on a first call-first serve basis. Within the confines of Loop 338 and in the Ponderosa Estates area, Odessa will continue to provide primary (first response) fire-fighting service. In county areas beyond Loop 338, county volunteer fire departments will have the responsibility of determining when Odessa fire units are needed for backup purposes.

Council members also approved realignment of the city's four single-member district precinct boundaries to equalize the number of voters in each precinct.

The change actually affects only voting districts two and four. Voting precinct 202, which is in Place 2 Councilman Nicky Sheets' northeast Odessa district and represents about 5,553 voters, will be moved to the district of Place 4 Council member of Melissa Hirsch.

The change is expected to gain approval following the required second reading of the ordinance during the council's first meeting in December. The proposed changes will then have to be submitted to the U.S. Justice Department for approval.

Opposition has also surfaced to Monahans Draw Park. Joe Pinner, owner of Pinner Carpets in Odessa, told council members he believes the project should be abandoned because it was planned when the economy was booming and the city, and taxpayers, can no longer afford it.

Pinner questioned how much it will cost to operate the park once it's completed, if it can be properly policed and if it will be used.

Pinner contends that since cost of constructing the park will ultimately exceed $1 million, the proposal should have been submitted to voters for approval.

Council members have agreed to take another look at the project, but parks and recreation director Joe Craithers speculated the project is too far along to stop since the city has already acquired some of the 160 acres needed to build the park.

Midland man killed in one-vehicle accident

From Staff Reports

A Midland man was killed this morning when his car struck a utility pole on Front Street just behind the Midland Police Department building, according to reports.

The man's identity had not been released this morning pending notification of his next of kin. According to preliminary reports, he may have suffered a heart attack before his car failed to stop at a stop sign at the intersection of Wall and Front streets. The accident occurred about 7 a.m., according to police, and no other cars were involved. No further details were available at press time.

A 39-year-old Odessa man was admitted to Odessa Medical Center Hospital in serious condition Tuesday after being hit by a car while walking along the north service road of Highway 80, according to the Department of Public Safety.

Curtis Pride was hit by a blue Ford LTD about 7:55 p.m. just east of the Midland/Ector county line. The accident is being investigated as a hit-and-run, according to the DPS.

In other reports, a $9,000 Oldsmobile Cutlass was reported missing by Thrifty Rent A Car, Highway 80 near Midland Regional Airport.

The car was rented Nov. 16 and was supposed to be turned in Nov. 19, but the suspect has never returned it, company employees told the Sheriff's Office.

Union struck over pay cuts, members testify

PORT ARTHUR (AP) — A union representing employees at a Beaumont nursing home struck against the home because they weren't sure whether they were the only workers asked to take pay cuts, members of the union say.

Two members of a negotiating team for Service Employees International Union Local 706 testified Tuesday, the final day of a hearing on complaints the group filed against the Schlesinger Geriatric Center.

Administrative Law Judge Russell King, who presided over the National Labor Relations Board hearing, said he will make a decision on the union's complaints after Jan. 10.

The local struck against the nursing home July 1 after refusing management's offer of reduced wages. Union members agreed to return to work unconditionally on Sept. 1.

The NLRB called its hearing after the union filed a complaint alleging Schlesinger management tampered with a petition to decertify the union. Other complaints against the center contend management refused to furnish the union with requested financial information and prolonged the strike.

The center also is accused of cutting employee wages without first negotiating the cut with the union and refusing to immediately rehire all former strikers.

Sherill Avery, a member of the union's negotiating team, testified Tuesday that employees asked her if all employees were asked to take a pay cut of 25 cents an hour.

"People asked was the union the only one taking the cut," Ms. Avery said. "We said we didn't know because it was told to us by (Schlesinger attorney John) Durkay that it was none of our business.

"The main reason we refused to take a cut in wages and in benefits was not knowing if the other people in the facility were going to take a cut," she said.

Rose Collazo, another member of the negotiating team, testified that Durkay refused to give the union information concerning the center's administrative, clerical and licensed employees. The center's refusal to provide such information prompted the strike, she said.

Durkay testified he suspended bargaining with the union because he knew more than 50 percent of Schlesinger employees had signed a petition to disband the union.

Under federal labor law, the NLRB must conduct an election if 30 percent of the employees signed a decertification petition. A union loses its recognition if more than 50 percent vote to disband it.

Durkay said the decertification petition, added to reports of employee dissatisfaction with the union and picket line violence, gave him the right to end negotiations.

If King decides in favor of the union, he can recommend the nursing home reinstate union members and pay them back wages missed because of the strike and litigation.

Houston voters return two blacks to council

HOUSTON (AP) — Two councilmen — the only blacks to hold city-wide elective offices in Houston — will keep their jobs for another term, voters decided in a runoff election.

Incumbent Councilman Judson Robinson Jr. overwhelmingly won re-election Tuesday, but the margin of victory was narrower for council member Anthony Hall.

Voters also elected a Houston attorney to fill a vacant Houston Independent School District trustee's seat.

The runoff was called after none of the candidates garnered the majority of votes needed to win outright in the city's Nov. 5 election.

Robinson captured 115,199 runoff votes, or 64 percent, compared to challenger Jim Kennedy's 64,747 votes, or 36 percent.

"It's been just a miraculous miracle for us," Robinson, 53, a mortgage banker said after winning his eighth council term.

Robinson, who was first elected to City Council in 1971, narrowly missed winning the Nov. 5 election outright by grabbing 49.8 percent of the vote. Kennedy reaped 29.6 percent of the vote in the four-candidate field.

Kennedy heads a youth baseball league and is a representative of the Straight Slate, a group of candidates formed to oppose council incumbents who voted for measures aimed at granting job protection to homosexuals in city government. Those measures were overwhelmingly repealed in a Jan. 19 referendum.

Kennedy was the only one of the Straight Slates eight candidates to go to the runoff race, but he said his defeat did not mean an end to the organization.

"I think it's only the beginning," Kennedy said.

The gay rights proposals were introduced in council by Hall, an attorney who was first elected councilman in a 1983 runoff election.

Hall captured 101,411 runoff votes, or 56 percent, while challenger Dick Hite captured 79,752 votes, or 44 percent.

"We've obviously got the best praying group of supporters anybody could every have," a victorious Hall told cheering campaign workers. "You have brought us from where some folks said we could not have come."

Goddess of Liberty readied for trip to foundry

AUSTIN (AP) — After three days as the backdrop to hundreds of tourists' photos, the Goddess of Liberty today was being readied for shipping to a foundry for needed repairs and so a duplicate statue can be made.

The statue has been a popular attraction on the Capitol lawn since a helicopter airlifted it off the dome Sunday. The exact replica should be installed atop the 311-foot dome within four to six months, said Capitol architect Roy Graham.

Graham said the statue will be hauled by flat-bed truck to the American Art Foundry at Rhome, Texas.

There, protected by 24-hour security, the statue will undergo "extensive repairs required for the making of a dimensionally accurate master mold from which the new Goddess will be cast," Graham said.

The 1½-ton zinc statue, which for 97 years topped the Capitol, was removed by a Texas National Guard helicopter after experts determined it had become so weather-damaged over time that it posed a safety hazard. The Goddess has suffered major cracks and corrosion.

Graham said Washington University Technology Associates, consultants on the Goddess restoration project, were handling the preparations for shipment to the foundry.

He said the new statue likely will be made from bronze, aluminum or another alloy with sufficient strength and corrosion resistance.

Christian Scientists plan special service

From Staff Reports

The local Christian Science congregation is planning a special Thanksgiving service for the community at 11 a.m. Thursday at 1001 W. Tennessee Ave.

"The sermon on 'Thanksgiving' will focus on actively expressing gratitude to God by following Christ Jesus in daily life," said a spokesman for the church. "The Master's injunction sounds the keynote: 'Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give.'"

The sermon will also include hymns of praise, a brief silent prayer and the Lord's Prayer.

A portion of the service will be set aside for spontaneous expressions of gratitude. "It's not unusual for Christian Scientists to briefly relate instances of spiritual healing among their blessings," the spokesman said.

Since Christian Science churches are lay churches, sermons are not written by ministers but are composed of selections from the Bible along with correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," written by the church's founder Mary Baker Eddy.

The passage being used for Thursday's service is: "To keep the commandments of our Master (Christ Jesus) and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done. Outward worship is not of itself sufficient to express loyal and heartfelt gratitude, since he has said, 'If you love me, keep my commandments.'"

Child care will be provided.

Local COAC supports adoption services

From Staff Reports

This week has been declared by Congress to be National Adoption Week nationwide. Over 400,000 children in the United States are in need of permanent homes, and many more children wait for homes worldwide. During this special week, efforts to publicize and support the work of finding homes for children are especially focused.

In the Midland/Odessa area, the Permian Basin Council on Adoptable Children is the organization that supports families who have adopted or who are waiting to adopt. Its members have adopted children from the United Sates and from many foreign countries. Also, adoptions of special needs children and interracial adoptions are common in the membership, so COAC parents have a unique background upon which to draw in offering support and advisement to other interested individuals and couples.

This year, bills in Congress have been introduced to further the ability to adopt special needs children and to make adoption efforts in general more successful. Bills currently being considered involve removing racial barriers to adoption, making adoption costs tax deductible, and providing Medicare benefits available to special needs children more easily.

This year's theme for National Adoption Week is "Adoption is a beautiful way to build a family." For information about adoption locally, contact the Permian Basin Council on Adoptable Children at 697-0670.

Red Cross seeks to replenish disaster-relief fund

From Staff Reports

It's been a disastrous year for the American Red Cross, in more ways than one. An unprecedented series of disasters has exhausted the organization's emergency-relief funds less than halfway through its fiscal year, with spring floods and the tornado season still to come.

"In essence, we are broke as far as our disaster funds are concerned," said Elvis Curb, executive director of the Midland County Red Cross.

The Red Cross has been aiding disaster victims for more than 100 years. "And this is the worst year we have had," Curb said this morning. "We have expended more than twice what we've budgeted."

Since July, five hurricanes have struck the United States, affecting more than 5.6 million people. The Red Cross provided shelter for 897,140 people and food and other support to 4.1 million people, according to information supplied by Curb. The Red Cross has committed $47.9 million to meet disaster needs as of Oct. 29, but its entire 1985-86 disaster-relief budget is only $34.6 million. That leaves a deficit of $13.3 million already accumulated, with a projected need of another $14.6 million to get through the fiscal year, which ends June 30.

"We are in the process of raising at least $20 million to finance our disaster program through the end of the fiscal year," Curb said. "This is a nationwide effort."

Local contributions can be made at the Midland County Red Cross office, 2306 Elizabeth Street, or mailed to P.O. Box 1706, Midland, 79702, Curb said.

Desegregation has little effect on test scores

AUSTIN (AP) — Court-ordered desegregation appears to have had little effect on student achievement levels in the Austin Independent School District, according to a new report.

A district staff report presented to school trustees on Monday showed that district-wide, half the elementary school students made larger gains on achievement tests scores before desegregation, while half gained more after desegregation.

Among high school students, the largest gains were made before desegregation, the report said.

The report compares achievement levels in the five years before court-ordered busing began with levels in the five years since.

The report was requested by trustee Lidia Perez, who asked to look at minority student achievement.

Black and Hispanic student scores have risen faster than those of white students in the five years since desegregation, the report said. However, whites still score higher than blacks and Hispanics, it found.

Lubbock tax consultant charged in tax claim

From Staff Reports

LUBBOCK — A Lubbock tax consultant, George A. Garcia, has been charged by criminal complaint with preparing a false income-tax claim with the Internal Revenue Service, according to United States Attorney Marvin Collins of the federal-court system's Northern District of Texas.

The complaint was filed in Lubbock with U.S. Magistrate J.Q. Warnick Jr.

The IRS complaint charged that Garcia prepared a client's income-tax return to show an additional $5 tax due and gave the return to the client. The IRS also charged that Garcia prepared, in the client's name, a second income-tax return in which he claimed a $4,073.45 refund based on non-existent withholding credits. He filed that return with the IRS. The refund check was to be mailed to Garcia's office.

Garcia, who was arrested in Sequin on Nov. 16, could be imprisoned for five years and fined $10,000 if he is convicted of the offense.

The case against Garcia was investigated by special agents of the IRS.

STATE

Official wants authority to isolate 'incorrigible' patients with AIDS

AUSTIN (AP) — He's looking for another word for "quarantine," but State Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein says he still wants AIDS added to the list of diseases for which Texans can be isolated.

After a private meeting Tuesday with gay leaders and local public health officials, Bernstein said "incorrigible" AIDS victims who refuse to curtail sexual activity that can spread the fatal disease should be controlled.

He said he would bring the proposal to the State Board of Health at its Dec. 14 meeting.

"It is a means of dealing with an AIDS-infected person who might not behave properly," he said, adding that isolation would be used only in "a very unique circumstance. We have no intention whatsoever of isolating the average AIDS patient."

The commissioner said "quarantine" is not the best word, but the state quarantine law is the only applicable statute. Under the proposal, local health officials could ask the state health department to order "medical isolation" of AIDS patients who become a public health threat.

"That's a scary word," Bernstein said of "quarantine."

As he searched for another word, an aide suggested "medical detention."

"No, I'll not use detention. I don't like detention," Bernstein replied.

Violation of a state quarantine order is a felony punishable by up to 10 years in prison. The quarantine power has not been used in years. The current list includes diseases such as smallpox, yellow fever and certain venereal diseases.

Bernstein said "incorrigible" AIDS victims could be isolated in a hospital or their homes, if the disease is added to the quarantine list.

The isolation period would extend "for that period of time that person is incorrigible," according to the commissioner.

State Health Commissioner Dr. Robert Bernstein announces plans to ask the Board of Health to add AIDS to the list of diseases for which a Texan can be quarantined at a press conference in Austin Tuesday.

Bill Nelson, president of the Dallas Gay Alliance, said quarantine is an "inappropriate" word to describe Bernstein's proposal.

"It's medically inappropriate because it's not that type of disease. It's culturally inappropriate because AIDS is not like smallpox, it's not like yellow fever, it's not like diphtheria. It has the added problem of homophobia," Nelson said.

AIDS destroys the body's immune system. Doctors say it is most likely to strike homosexuals, abusers of injectable drugs and hemophiliacs. It is spread by sexual contact, contaminated needles and blood transfusions, but not by casual contact.

Nelson said Bernstein is right in seeking a last-measure method of isolating AIDS patients who become a public health threat.

"I do think the state has a responsibility for removing people who are acting irresponsibly in transmitting a fatal disease," Nelson said.

Dr. Ron Stegman of Dallas, president of the North Texas Association of Physicians for Human Rights, agreed.

"He needs to have a mechanism whereby, on a very responsible basis and a very isolated set of circumstances, he can act in a way that is effective and efficient," said Stegman.

Residents of Panhandle town vow to fight Phillips for their homes

PHILLIPS (AP) — Residents of this Panhandle community have pledged to fight for their homes even if Phillips Petroleum Co. buys the land out from under them.

About 400 people crowded into the Phillips High School auditorium Tuesday night and applauded a pledge to fight the Oklahoma-based oil company that is trying to buy land under 90 percent of the city's 2,500 residents.

But while ready to fight, residents were told they also must be ready to move. Plans were discussed that could mean relocating the entire town to one of two nearby sites.

Phillips Petroleum, the area's major employer, is wrapping up efforts to purchase MM Cattle Co., which owns the 140 acres bearing 430 homes in Phillips, sources close to the negotiations told the Amarillo Globe-News.

A news conference was scheduled for today in Borger for an announcement concerning the deal with MM Cattle, a Phillips official in Bartlesville, Okla., said.

The oil company has already ordered homeowners leasing land from it to relocate. The company has indicated it will enforce a relocation order on the other homeowners if it purchases MM.

MM Cattle, owned by the Whittenburg estate, was negotiating the sale of the land to the homeowners until Phillips Petroleum initiated efforts to buy the entire cattle company, the Globe-News said.

Close to 90 percent of Phillips residents now live on MM Cattle land.

"We're on some rough seas and taking on a little water, but if we unite to form a strong integrity, we have a chance to win this thing," said Melvin Lloyd, president of Phillips Homeowners Association.

Lloyd said he has received calls from the federal and state attorney generals' offices supporting efforts to preserve the community and school.

"We're not alone in this thing," he yelled to applause. "We've got a good community, the kids are the best in the world.

"I've had about enough of the big corporations and cattle companies telling me and my community what we should do with our lives, when all they can talk about is dollars," Lloyd said.

David Lewis, an attorney working for the homeowners, said the group's priority is to stay in Phillips.

Woman didn't die of cancer, doctor testifies

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A review of a nursing home patient's ailments does not indicate the elderly woman died of cancer in 1978, an internist has testified in a nursing home murder trial.

Dr. William Steffee, an internist and nutrition expert from Cleveland, said 87-year-old Elnora Breed died of starvation and infection while a patient at Autumn Hills nursing home in Texas City.

Autumn Hills Convalescent Centers Inc. and five of its current and former employees are charged with murder-by-neglect in Mrs. Breed's death Nov. 20, 1978.

The elderly woman died 47 days after entering an Autumn Hills facility.

The defense claims Mrs. Breed died of cancer. Testimony has shown she underwent surgery for colon cancer three times, the latest operation in 1976.

Earlier testimony also has indicated extensive testing on Mrs. Breed in April 1978 showed no signs of cancer.

Steffee said Mrs. Breed would have to display symptoms like prolonged weight loss, constant pain, a chronic loss of appetite, longstanding depression and the presence of blood in her stool for him to conclude she had cancer in 1978.

Her medical records do not show such symptoms, Steffee said.

"Taken in the whole context, there's just not enough to make me think she has a cancer of the colon," Steffee said.

But under cross examination, Steffee admitted that doctors who cared for Mrs. Breed from April until her death did not question a cancer diagnosis that appeared consistently on her medical records.

Defense lawyer Mike Ramsey pointed to cancer diagnoses noted on Mrs. Breed's charts while she was at another nursing home and at a hospital in 1978.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Thursday, November 28, 1985

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Family life plays a large role in the career and financial decisions you make this year. Single parents find the ideal solution to a tricky problem. A change of residence or employment could be a lucky break. Review your options and you could get a new start in business. Inspiration comes from an unusual source. Check references when hiring anyone who will be working with children. CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: Yankee prize left-hander Dave Righetti, pianist Jose Iturbi, Sen. Gary Hart (D-Colo.), singer Randy Newman, actress Hope Lange, the Pittsburgh Pirates' Sixto Lezcano, theater critic Brooks Atkinson, socialist writer Friedrich Engels, poet William Blake.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Put work aside and make this a day of rest as well as thanksgiving. Creature comforts are especially important to your family and friends today. A surprise gift receives a warm welcome.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Remember your waistline when digging into your Thanksgiving dinner. It is possible to enjoy yourself without going overboard. A sports event brings parents and youngsters closer together.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Making a certain type of observation could cause trouble at a Thanksgiving gathering. Avoid confrontations. Be more subtle about reminding someone of an obligation. A positive, loving attitude works wonders.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Do what you can to mend a family rift. A reconciliation could make this one of the best Thanksgivings ever! Art and music bring special pleasure to your loved ones today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Give thanks for the blessings of the past and plan for an even better future. Share your dreams with those who are closest to your heart.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Romance takes a back seat to family activities. Include youngsters in your social plans. Teach them the true meaning of this special holiday. Give thanks for all the things that have gone right.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Parents and children should try to indulge each other today. Show more patience when dealing with a headstrong loved one. Travel is favored. Drive over to see a housebound friend or relative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Control your temper on this special day and give thanks for all the things that have gone right. Loved ones will cooperate if your requests are reasonable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Suggest activities the whole family will enjoy but do not insist everyone participate. Some want to sit quietly or watch football. Reacting emotionally will catch a shadow over a special day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You could be the center of attention this Thanksgiving. Make sure your words and actions are inspiring. Some people look on you as royalty. Be gracious to everyone you meet.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The spirit of Thanksgiving touches your heart. You are filled with a great desire to do good. Reach out to a child who needs special help and encouragement.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your enterprising spirit makes this a good Thanksgiving for you and your loved ones. Compare notes with mate or partner before making a commitment. A financial situation shows improvement. Continue to limit spending.

Opening lead: Ten of ♡.

We have often stressed in this column that, when you have to make a crucial decision, it is best to postpone making it as long as possible to see what you can learn about the opponents' hands. However, when you are playing against shrewd defenders, it can be fatal to rely upon what you think you have learned!

When this hand was dealt in an international team trials, both sides reached three no trump on the auction shown. After South's no trump opening bid, North probed for a 4-4 spade fit with two clubs, then settled in the no trump game when his partner denied four cards in either major suit.

At both tables the opening lead was the ten of hearts. Declarer covered with dummy's queen, then held up the king one round when East won the ace and continued with the jack of hearts and another. At one table declarer continued by running the jack of spades, and all was well when the finesse succeeded. Declarer took eight tricks in the black suits and the king of hearts.

At the other table, declarer decided to postpone playing spades until he learned more about the hands. He first took four rounds of clubs, watching carefully what the opponents discarded. West sluffed his low diamond and a good heart, and East cooperated by discarding a spade!

Not surprisingly, declarer decided that West was protecting the queen of spades and that East held the diamonds. Therefore, he cashed the ace of spades and ran the ten. A grateful East won his now bare queen of spades, shifted to a diamond and, when the smoke had cleared, they had collected a two-trick set and a substantial gain on the deal.

Charles: Diana makes him butt of jokes about kissing toads

Prince Charles

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Princess Diana sometimes makes her husband, Prince Charles, the butt of jokes about kissing frogs and toads, the heir to the British throne admits.

He owned up Tuesday after seeing a poster of a huge spotted toad bearing the legend: "Before you meet the handsome prince, you have to meet a lot of toads."

Charles roared with laughter when he saw it in the bedroom of 14-year-old Lynn Meechan during a tour of her parents' apartment in Glasgow conducted as an example of how a local group was reviving old tenements.

"My wife is always teasing me about that," he told Lynn. "I get endless stories about frogs and toads."

Bernstein

NEW YORK (AP) — Conductor Leonard Bernstein says his relationship with Deutsche Grammophon Records has given all parties what they wanted.

"They're happy; I'm happy," Bernstein said Tuesday after signing a new contract with the German company. "I give them a little 'West Side Story'; they give me a little unsellable Stravinsky."

The conductor's first recording for Deutsche Grammophon was "Carmen" with the Metropolitan Opera in 1972.

"I've been very pleased with the relationship," Bernstein said. "There isn't that much money to be made, I suppose, on Stravinsky's 'Mass' with his 'Les Noces' on the other side."

But the "West Side Story" recording, with Bernstein conducting and opera singers in the principal parts, has been making money for the record company. It was his first recording of the complete score.

Bernstein will record Mahler's Symphony No. 7 with the New York Philharmonic and has completed Mahler's Symphony No. 9 with the Concertgebouw of Amsterdam. Both records are scheduled for release next fall.

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Canadian pop singer Corey Hart says his hit single "The Boy in the Box" is not autobiographical but is really about the late movie star James Dean.

"In the music business, it seems you always are being compared to someone, and I have been compared to James Dean by just about everyone," said Hart, 23, whose hit deals with the stifling effect of the pressures of life. "That gave me an interest in him."

Hart said that, like Dean, he is stubborn and not one to go along with the crowd. But he said Dean was trapped by his success. "In a way, it killed him. I don't intend to let that happen to me," said Hart, who performed here Monday.

"I think it's more accurate to say that I wrote 'The Boy in the Box' to remind myself of what could happen if I'm not careful."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ernest Fleischmann, executive director of the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra since 1969, said his new job as director of the Paris Opera is a daunting and stimulating task.

Fleischmann, who has overseen the Philharmonic as it passed from conductors Zubin Mehta and Carlo Maria Giulini to Andre Previn, announced his resignation Tuesday. It takes effect Sept. 30.

He said the Paris challenge had started his "adrenalin...pumping in a very special way...Being responsible for the artistic plans and personnel for two important opera houses (the Paris Opera and the Opera Comedie) is going to be a daunting, challenging and enormously stimulating task."

AUSTIN (AP) — A special, illustrated edition of James Michener's novel "Texas" will be published by the University of Texas Press to mark the state's Sesquicentennial.

The publication date for the $125, two-volume special edition will be March 2, 1986, the 150th anniversary of Texas' independence from Mexico.

The trade edition of "Texas," which has topped best-seller lists for weeks, was released earlier this year by Random House.

"The book is much like a mural painted with fine and imaginative detail. The stories and events in Texas are linked by families, geography, heritage. The novel is filled with revelations of historical fact, vivid images and Michener's subtle humor," said O.H. Kyle, UT Press director.

"The book carries the reader through 450 years accompanied by Spanish explorers, Mexican colonists and generals, Indians, Anglo settlers, Scottish and German immigrants, and a host of other characters," Kyle said.

"And all of these characters play out their stories against a backdrop of cattle, cotton, oil and a hunger for land."

The commemorative edition, of which 10,000 copies will be printed, runs 938 pages in the two volumes.

The edition is illustrated with more than 250 pencil drawings specially commissioned for the book and done by artist Charles Shaw of Dripping Springs.

"Shaw has given excellent impressions of Michener's characters and the events that capture the drama and excitment of the novel," Kyle said.

Kyle said the artist carefully researched historical details, including clothing, weaponry, technology, customs and botany.

In addition, the UT press plans to issue a limited edition of 400 copies, bound in buffalo hide, that will be signed by both Michener and Shaw.

These copies, not available for purchase, will be given to each of the first 400 contributors of $2,000 or more to the press' fellowship program, said UT Press spokesman David Cohen.

"For each of the first 200 contributions, James Michener has pledged a $500 matching contribution of his own, $100,000 in all," Cohen said.

The fellowship program will offer opportunities to University of Texas students to gain experience in either publishing or writing.

NEW YORK (AP) — Random House on Tuesday won the publishing rights to Edmund Morris' biography of President Reagan with a $3 million bid that is believed to be the largest advance ever paid for a single book, the publisher said.

"It's important because for the first time a president is allowing not only a historian but a talented writer to see history as it occurs, without imposing restrictions on the manuscript," said Robert L. Bernstein, chairman of Random House.

"I'm a writer, not a talker, and I feel rather strange talking about book contracts and money," the 45-year-old historian said.

Morris and his agent, Georges Borchardt, both said that, contrary to reports that Reagan might receive a share of the royalties, Morris alone would receive them.

Dollar, gold down

LONDON (AP) — The dollar lost more ground today against European and Japanese currencies in nervous trading by dealers anticipating possibly bad U.S. economic news next week. Gold fell in value.

The dollar peaked at 164.72 last Feb. 25.

In Tokyo, where trading ends before Europe's business day begins, the dollar fell to a closing 200.90 yen from Tuesday's 201.60. Later, in London, it was quoted at 201.10 yen.

Other dollar rates at mid-morning, compared with late Tuesday:

—2.0917 Swiss francs, down from 2.0958

—7.7675 French francs, down from 7.8000

—2.8683 Dutch guilders, down from 2.8840

—1,726.50 Italian lire, down from 1,733.95

Gold markets reported a slight increase in metal prices after opening dollar rates were reported down. But overall, gold prices were lower than on Tuesday.

Gold opened in London at a bid price of $330.25 a troy ounce, compared with late Tuesday's $331.20. At mid-morning today, the city's five major bullion dealers fixed a recommended price of $330.45.

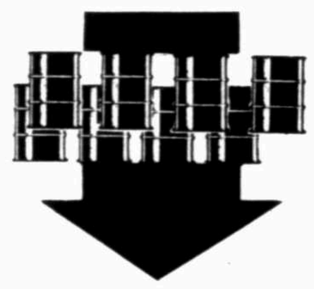

In Zurich, the bid price was $330.50, down from $331.50 late Tuesday.

Earlier, in Hong Kong, gold fell $0.48 to close at a bid $330.85.

In New York Tuesday, gold fell $1.30 to close at $332.30.

Silver was quoted in London today at a bid price of $6.22 a troy ounce, down from Tuesday's $6.25.

Texaco stock slides on investors' fears

NEW YORK (AP) — A wave of selling by investors worried about the future of Texaco Inc. knocked down its stock Tuesday and forced trading of the stock to be temporarily suspended on the New York Stock Exchange.

The selloff was triggered by comments by Texaco's president that the company could not post a $12 billion bond that might be required to appeal a $10.53 billion damage verdict won last week by Pennzoil Co. He also said one outcome of that might be to force Texaco into reorganization proceedings under federal bankruptcy laws.

However, outside analysts and Texaco officials questioned whether the bond — or bankruptcy court proceedings — would ever be needed. The company stressed in a statement that Chapter 11 reorganization would be only a last resort.

The remarks attributed to Texaco President Alfred C. DeCrane Jr. by a Dallas newspaper sent Texaco's stock skidding $1.75 a share to $32.50 in early, heavy trading on the NYSE. An imbalance in buy and sell orders then led the exchange to suspend trading for 59 minutes.

Texaco shares resumed trading at $32.75, then lost some more ground to finish the day at $32, down $2.25 from Monday.

DeCrane was in Dallas to talk with news media people about last week's decision by a Houston jury that Texaco improperly gained control of Getty Oil Co. by breaking up a merger agreement between Getty and Pennzoil. The jury said Texaco must pay Pennzoil $10.53 billion in actual and punitive damages.

"If a $12 billion bond is required — Texaco doesn't have $12 billion and in my opinion, probably can't get it — then we'd have to look for some heroic measure, whether it's Chapter 11 or whatever," DeCrane was quoted as saying in an interview with the Dallas Morning News.

Texas law requires defendants to post a bond equal to an award plus attorneys' fees and interest to appeal a judgment. The bond must be posted either in cash or liquid assets.

After its stock started sliding, Texaco issued two statements from its headquarters in White Plains, N.Y., stressing that the case is not over yet.

Lawyers for both sides are to appear before state District Judge Solomon Casseb Jr. in Houston on Dec. 5 to argue whether he should affirm the jury's verdict and award.

Even if the judge affirmed the jury's ruling for Pennzoil, Texaco said, "Texaco has the right under Texas law to ask the district court to direct that the case be retried to a new jury ... If Texaco's motions are granted the question of bond will not arise."

"Obviously a Chapter 11 proceeding would be a very extreme step that would only arise as a possibility after all other legal remedies had been exhausted," the company said in a second statement.

"We believe and will urge the court that it would be absurd and irresponsible to force Texaco into bankruptcy by requiring an impossible bond.

"We believe and will urge the court that such a result is not only unnecessary but also violative of the Texas and United States constitutions.

"However ... we are not at this time not ruling out any legal course of action appropriate to protect Texaco's stockholders, employees, customers and creditors."

Rosario Ilacqua, an analyst with the New York securities firm of L.F. Rothschild, Unterberg, Towbin, said he believes "it is very unlikely that we will see the set of circumstances that will require Texaco to file for bankruptcy."

"What they're doing is playing their cards, so that the judge has to think about this," he said. "They're laying it on the table that if the judge wants to follow the recommendations of the jury ... they might be forced to take drastic countermeasures."

"Some reason will enter into this issue, sometime, sooner or later," he said.

Despite Tuesday's drop in Texaco stock, Ilacqua said, "the $10 billion (award) is ludicrous ... sooner or later the stockholders will realize the basic value of the assets behind the stock."

Roy Babbitt, a former U.S. bankruptcy court judge, said he would not predict the outcome of the case, even though $10.53 billion "is a very daunting number."

But, he said, Texaco "would probably want to exhaust every conceivable proceeding ... to reduce the judgment, set aside the judgment, or attenuate the judgment before filing a Chapter 11."

Babbitt is now an attorney with the New York law firm of Tenzer, Greenblatt, Fallon and Kaplan

Under Chapter 11, a company obtains a federal court order that frees it from the theat of creditors' lawsuits while it tries to develop a plan to put its finances in order.

Exxon economist spies unbalanced growth in Basin

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Exxon staff economist Dr. Richard Browning Tuesday told members of the Permian Basin Economics Club meeting at Mission County Club he was in the Midland-Odessa area about three years ago.

At that time, Browning recalled, he gave "a basically guarded, pessimistic forecast. I guess I should have been a little more gutsy at that time, at least it would have helped some of the businessmen in the audience (today)," he said.

Observing that the U.S. economy has continued to show growth over the last three years, Browning noted there's been "unbalanced growth throughout the United States," in the agricultural and energy sectors.

"If you look at the increase in employment in the U.S. last September versus this September," he said, "you see a 3 percent growth, but if you look at the same period for the Midland-Odessa area combined you see almost a 1 percent decline. Unbalanced growth is still with us," said Browning.

According to Browning, the Midland-Odessa economy has been responding increasingly faster to movement of the economy.

The Exxon economist said indications are that 3,000 jobs are lost for every one dollar loss in the per barrel price of oil.

Noting that the Midland-Odessa area had lost some 19,000 jobs in the downturn, he said this represented about 4,500 jobs in the oil and gas industry. He speculated that, in 1986, another one dollar drop in the price of oil could mean the loss of 4,000 jobs in the area.

Posing the question of what might happen if the price of oil drops $4 or $5 a barrel, Browning suggested the nearly 60 people attending the economics club noon luncheon "do you own arithmetic. But, he said, it will be worse than 1983.

Browning said, however, he doesn't see a major recession on the horizon, but he predicted that if income growth continues to grow meagerly it will probably result in a decreased standard of living. He noted that workers losing jobs earning $10 or more per hour in manufacturing are having to take service sector jobs for about half that hourly wage.

Browning also expressed the belief that high-tech space jobs that might come to Texas if the state gets an increased share of those jobs won't offset the jobs lost in the energy industry.

Economics club president Michael Williams, who said he had seen Browning's "worst case scenario," which anticipates the possibility of a recession, asked Browning what he saw as a probability for a recession if the worst were to occur.

Browning said he didn't like to put numbers on speculation, but said his expectation of a recession was on a 35 percent probability.

Closed in 1974, the Jax Brewery was reborn and converted in 1984 into a marketplace filled with specialty shops and restaurants. Phase II of the project is now under construction. The expansion will contain additional shops.

Second phase of French Quarter makeover begins

NEW ORLEANS — The second phase of the French Quarter riverfront renaissance sparked last year by the opening of Jackson Brewery has begun, said Darryl Berger, president of the Jackson Brewery Development Corp.

An extension of the renovated 1891 Brewhouse, the new addition will face Decatur Street on one side and the Mississippi River on the other, and double the Jackson Brewery festive retail, food and entertainment complex. Phase II expansion will add 70,000 square feet spread over five levels and link the two adjacent buildings.

During the first phase of the decade-long revitalization, the Jackson Brewery Development resurrected the former home of JAX Beer which closed in 1974, and used it to anchor the 20-acre complex filled with specialty shops and restaurants.

The total effort will cost about $150 million.

Oil bank bids not expected to create a profit

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The bids are all in and the government isn't likely to make a profit off its first test sale from the nation's emergency oil bank, a spokesman said Tuesday.

"They won't on this," said Guy King of the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

High bids on 1.1 million barrels of oil from three sites in Louisiana and one in Texas added up to $34.8 million.

King didn't say how much the U.S. Department of Energy paid for the oil, which will be the first to be pumped out of the reserve since the government began squirreling it away in 1978.

But he said the government might end up making a profit if the emergency for which it has stored 490 million barrels of oil in huge underground caverns ever does take place.

"I guess when they really need it and everybody's clamoring for oil they might," King said.

But profit wasn't the purpose of the bank. It was set up in 1975 in case of another Arab oil embargo.

Seventeen companies submitted 32 bids — including a few bids too low even to be considered, King said.

For instance, under the guidelines used for the sale, the minimum price for low-sulfur "sour" crude from the salt dome at Weeks Island was $26.2 a barrel, he said.

Five of the six bids were above that, with Phillips Petroleum of Bartlesville, Okla., submitting the apparent high bid at $27.69 a barrel for the full 300,000 barrels offered.

But Clark Oil & Refining of St. Louis, Mo., was below the minimum, bidding $26.12 a barrel for 200,000 barrels.

Phillips only other bid also was the highest in its category: $28.09 a barrel for 300,000 barrels stored at Bryan Mound, Texas.

Under the guidelines, the minimum bid was computed at 90 percent of market price for similar quality crude.

All nine bids for low-sulfur "sweet" crude from Bayou Choctaw were above the $28.46 minimum. The high bidder was Marathon Petroleum, offering $30.56 a barrel for all 100,000 barrels offered.

The reserve offered 400,000 barrels of sweet crude from West Hackberry — 100,000 to be shipped by pipeline and the rest by barge or tanker.

La Gloria Oil & Gas Co. of Houston apparently had the high bid, offering $30.35 a barrel by pipeline and $30.05 by vessel for 300,000 barrels.

Fina Oil & Chemical Co. of Dallas offered a bit less — $29.89 by pipeline and $29.268 by vessel — but wanted 400,000 barrels.

King said the bids will be evaluated this week, and high bidders notified. They will then have five business days to submit payment anda performance guarantees before the department can begin awarding contracts. That is planned to begin by Dec. 9, King said.

PBPA, TIPRO set industry update forum

The Permian Basin Petroleum Association, in association with the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association and Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Company, will present an oil and gas industry update forum on December 3, 1985, at 3:00 pm. at the Petroleum Club of Midland.

Speaking on industry related subjects of taxation, regulation and financing, will be Bill I. Henderson, CPA, Partner and Manager of the Peat Marwick Oil and Gas Tax Office in Houston; Mike O. Landers, Manager of the Management Consulting Department of the Peat Marwick New Orleans Office and J. Gordon Sorrells, Sr. Vice President and Manager, Energy and National Resources Division, Allied Bank of Texas, Houston. The welcoming and introductions will be made by Perry Bolger, President, Permian Basin Petroleum Association; Robert A dean, Regional Coordinator, T.I.P.R.O. and Gary A. Vogt, Partner, Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., Midland.

The forum is available to members of the P.B.P.A. and T.I.P.R.O. and Peat Marwick guests by invitation. Please contact Jane Smith of the Midland Peat Marwick office (682-3791), for telephone registration of the P.B.P.A. office (684-6345) for further details.

Braniff posts $9.4 million profit in third quarter

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff Inc. on Tuesday reported a $9.4 million profit for the third quarter, compared with a loss of $11.4 million for the same quarter of 1984.

The third-quarter results bring the airline's profits for the nine months ending Oct. 31 to $24.6 million, compared with losses of $81.9 million for the same period last year, company officials said.

During the latest quarter, Braniff experienced an actual load factor of 66.1 percent and a break-even load factor of approximately 55 percent.

In a statement, Braniff President Ron Ridgeway said he expects the rest of the year to be profitable, despite industry pressures that "may adversely impact the operating results for the fourth quarter."

BBB directors appoint new Basin director

The Board of Directors of the Better Business Bureau of the Permian Basin has named John Schmidt president of the Bureau, according to Donna Smith, chairman of the board.

Schmidt, who replaces Linda Truitt, was previously director of operations for the Midland Minor Emergency Clinic.

A native of Pennsylvania, he attended Penn State and Rutgers, earning a bachelor's degree in Business Management at Rutgers. He and his family have lived in Midland since 1976.

Baby Jesus dolls to be available this Christmas

By SUSAN LINDSAY

Appropriate for the season, BABY JESUS DOLLS with glow-in-the-dark halos will be available this Christmas, complete with a wooden manger and artificial hay.

The dolls are not available at Midland yet, but local toy store operators say they are trying to get a shipment of the dolls by Christmas.

The brainchild of Rita and Phil Edler of Littleton, Colo., the idea originated when Mrs. Elder was tucking in one of her grandchildren. The child asked if he could take a statue of Jesus to bed. She said no, but an idea was born.

The 13-inch-long vinyl doll in Caucasian, Hispanic and Black versions comes wrapped in a blue blanket and dressed in a cream gown with a gold cross on its chest.

Congratulations are in order for VILLAGE LINCOLN MERCURY DODGE. In its 11th year in Midland, the company was recently recognized for outstanding sales achievement.

The recognition award is given by the Lincoln-Mercury division of Ford Motor Co. to the dealership that exceeds its sales objective by a higher percentage than an other dealership in the district.

Jim Morris is sales manager for Village.

Also receiving good news is HOME SAVINGS ASSOCIATION, which has been approved by the U.S. Small Business Administration as a certified lender for the next two years.

A new store catering to sports enthusiasts has opened in Midland. HONDA OF WEST TEXAS is located on Highway 80, 1/2 mile west of Loop 250, near the Texan Drive-In.

The store, which carries Honda ATVs and scooters, is owned by Ken Franks and Ernie Showalter.

And if golf is your bag, MR. GOLF has opened at 2302 N. Big Spring.

The store, a division of Touring Pro Golf, Inc., sells a complete line of golf equipment, including gloves, clubs, balls and shoes.

EL CHICO'S RESTAURANT has a gift for the ladies. The restaurant, located at Plaza Center, is giving away bouquets of flowers to the ladies on Mondays.

Jeff Shariff, manager of the restaurant, said he gave away 16 cases of flowers this week and plans to give away 25 cases next week. He said the flowers are his way of thanking his customers for their patience through the restaurant's recent remodeling.

OIL & GAS DIGEST

Conoco finals 506 barrel strike in California

HOUSTON — Conoco has announced its Westlake Farms No. 36-1 exploratory well 64 miles northwest of Bakersfield, Ca., tested oil from two zones at a combined rate of 506 barrels of oil and 941 Mcfd.

Testing of the intervals was between 12,784 and 13,082 ft., with total depth of the well 14,058 ft. The upper zone tested 222 barrels of 53 gravity crude and 385 Mcfd on an 8/64 inch choke with a flowing tubing pressure of 2300 psi. The lower zone tested 284 barrels of 35 gravity crude and 278 Mcfd with a flowing tubing pressure of 765 psi.

Amoco signs pact with Republic of China

Amoco Orient Petroleum Co., an Amoco Production Co. subsidiary, has signed an agreement with the China National Offshore Oil Corp. for exploration activities offshore the People's Republic of Chine.

Amoco Orient's agreement with CNOOC involves Contract Area 29/04, located about 124 miles southeast of Hong Kong in the Pearl River Mouth Basin of the South China Sea. The agreement is the result of negotiations following Amoco's first-round bid for the Contract Area in August, 1982.

Terms call for Amoco to fund 100 percent of the exploration activity. CNOOC has the option to participate to a maximum of 51 percent in the development of any commercial discovery. The contract will become effective after approval by China's Ministry of Foreign Economic Relations and Trade.

LGN conference set for Los Angeles in June

LOS ANGELES — LNG-8, the eighth International Conference and Exhibition on Liquefied Natural Gas, which is expected to attract more than 800 industry leaders from more than 60 countries, will be held June 15-19, 1986 in Los Angeles.

Last held in Jakarta, Indonesia in 1983, the triennial event will feature scientific symposia and technical workshops by LNG experts from Asian, European, African and Middle East nations as well as those in the Western Hemisphere. The LNG-8 conference is sponsored by the International Gas Union, Paris, the Institute of Gas Technology, Chicago, and the International Institute of Refrigeration, Paris.

El Paso Products raises polypropylene prices

El Paso Products Co. announced a $0.04/lb. price increase on all grades of Rexene (R) Polypropylene resins, according to Mr. Paul Smallwood, director of sales. The increase is due to escalating raw material and other costs.

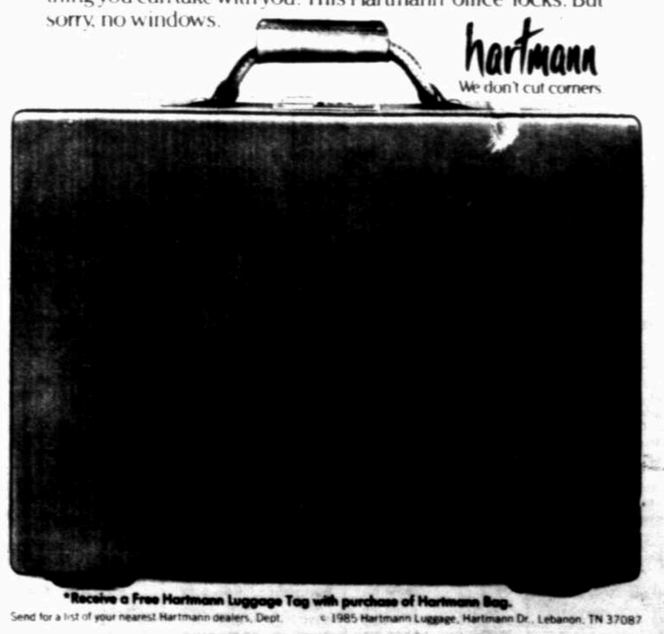

American National Petroleum reports nine month earnings

HOUSTON (SWN) American National Petroleum Co. reported net income of $535,000 ($.12 per common and common equivalent share) for the nine months ended September 30, 1985 as compared to $1,023,000 ($.23 per common and common equivalent share) for the nine months ended September 30, 1984. Revenues for the fiscal 1985 nine month period were $7,704,000 as compared to $9,504,000 for the comparable period in fiscal 1984. Net income for the quarter ended September 30,1985 was $40,000 ($.01 per common and common equivalent share) as compared to $396,000 ($.09) for the comparable 1984 quarter. Revenues were $2,379,000 for the 1985 quarter as compared to $3,243,000 for the 1984 quarter. The decreases in revenues and net income from 1984 to 1985 are principally due to reduced sales prices received for crude oil and natural gas production and reduced levels of natural gas sales resulting from curtailed pipeline demand.

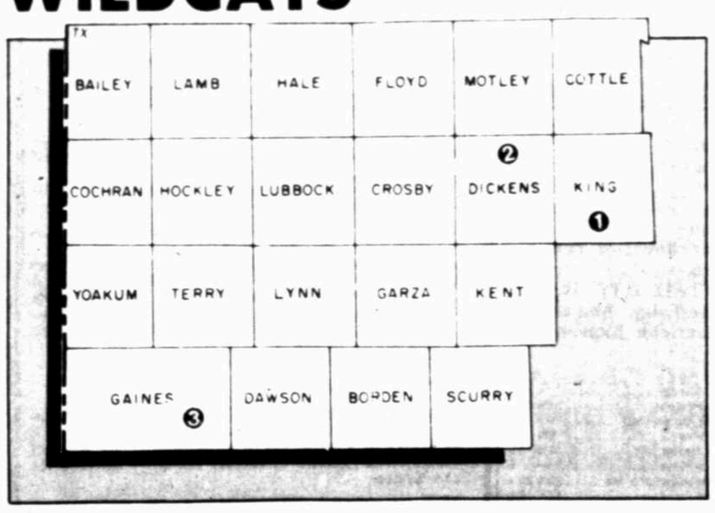

Net income per common and common equivalent share for the three and nine month periods in 1984 and 1985 give effect to the one for four reverse stock split approved at the annual meeting of ANPC shareholders held on September 24, 1985.

Survivors

British delegation to seek South African solution

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The government today agreed to welcome a British Commonwealth delegation seeking ways to encourage an end to white-minority rule in South Africa, but warned it against "intervention in the country's national affairs."

The Commonwealth voted Oct. 20 at its meeting in the Bahamas to send a fact-finding delegation to South Africa after Britain rejected demands by the Commonwealth majority to impose joint economic sanctions against South Africa.

The delegation plans its visit for sometime next year.

Police meanwhile said today that anti-apartheid rioting flared in nine communities. No new deaths were reported, but police said at least three people were burned in arson attacks.

"The South African government has nothing to hide," said a statement from Foreign Minister Pik Botha. But Botha said the Commonwealth group should not attempt "intervention in the country's national affairs."

The wording of his statement left open the possibility the Commonwealth visitors would be turned away. He pinned his welcome to the guests being "interested in acquainting themselves with the prevailing circumstances in this country, and the southern African region, the progress already made in South Africa as well as the future reform program envisaged."

Authorities said Tuesday that two land mine explosions damaged farm trucks near the Zimbabwe border and indicated the black African National Congress guerrilla group is using a new weapon in its fight to overthrow white rule.

A black truck driver suffered leg wounds in the first explosion, the Defense Force headquarters said in a statement Tuesday. No one was hurt in the second blast.

Three blacks, "presumably African Nation Congress terrorists," were seen in the area before the explosions and were believed to have returned to Zimbabwe after placing the mines, the statement said.

A police spokesman said it was believed to be the first time ANC guerrillas mined roads in South Africa. Most of the group's sabotage is carried out against government buildings in urban areas.

Greek terrorists planted bomb that hit police van

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Police said today a Greek terrorist group has claimed responsibility for setting off a car bomb that ripped into a passing police bus, killing one officer and injuring 14 others.

A caller claiming to represent the "November 17" underground organization phoned the pro-government Athens daily Eleftherotypia said it was responsible for the Tuesday night bombing, according to a police spokesman who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The group has claimed responsibility for at least six political assassinations since 1975, including two U.S. officials in Athens, three Greek police officers and a right-wing Greek newspaper publisher.

Its name comes from the Nov. 17, 1973, student uprising against the then-ruling military dictatorship, which collapsed eight months later.

Premier Andreas Papandreou said today in an unusual early morning television statement: "This attack-...indicates that destabilizing forces are threatening peace and democracy in our country. Social peace will be safeguarded by all means."

The blast was the second major outbreak of violence since a 15-year-old boy who was tossing a firebomb at a police van was slain 10 days ago by an Athens policeman. Thousands of students and self-proclaimed anarchists rioted for two days after his death.

Officials said the bus carrying 22 officers had just left a nearby police station to take the officers to their assignments when the bomb was detonated in a booby-trapped Volkswagen at 9:45 p.m. in downtown Athens near the luxury Caravel Hotel.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Israeli diplomat a spy?

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel army radio said today a senior Israeli diplomat has been recalled from Washington after the FBI identified him as the contact of the U.S. intelligence analyst accused of passing military secrets to Israel.

The broadcast report did not name the diplomat but said he would return to Israel today.

It said the decision was made after the FBI hinted a recall would save Israel some embarrasment if the diplomat's name came up in court proceedings against Jonathan Pollard, the 31-year-old civilian Navy analyst accused of spying.

Gorbachev gives address

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev today charged the United States is trying to gain military superiority with "one-sided" arms plans and said President Reagan's refusal to halt space weapons research prevented achievement of any arms control agreement at the Geneva summit.

But he said the "total balance" of his meeting with Reagan last week was positive, especially because it established a personal dialogue between the leaders of the two superpowers.

Gorbachev, addressing the national Parliament, or Supreme Soviet, in his first public assessment here of the summit, said the Reagan administration had poisoned international relations in the early 1980s and for years showed no interest in easing U.S.-Soviet tensions.

Drug deaths suspect held

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — Authorities have arrested another suspect in the slayings of two Americans believed beaten to death early this year by drug traffickers, the government news agency says.

Two alleged drug kingpins, Rafael Caro Quintero and Ernesto Fonseca, were earlier charged with murdering John Walker of Minneapolis and Alberto Radelat of Fort Worth.

The news agency Notimex on Tuesday identified the latest suspect in the men's deaths as Luis Gonzalez Ontiveros, who was being held by federal judicial police. It said Gonzalez Ontiveros was involved with Caro Quintero and Fonseca.

The Americans, both in their 30s, disappeared Jan. 30 in Guadalajara, capital of Jalisco state and a major drug trafficking center.

Mountain climber saved

PUEBLA, Mexico (AP) — About 50 rescuers worked to bring down an injured American mountain climber from a snowy peak in southern Mexico, the Mexican Red Cross said.

Augusto Mata Torises, a Red Cross rescue worker, said Gary Weaber suffered injuries to his feet while climbing down the 18,546-foot Pico de Orizaba in the state of Vera Cruz.

SAN ANTONIO DIVISION

In re:

THE CHARTER COMPANY, et al.,

Debtors.

Case Nos. 84-289-BK-GP through 84-332-BK-GP Inclusive (Chapter 11) (Pending in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Middle District of Florida, Jacksonville Division)

CHARTER CRUDE OIL COMPANY, et al.,
Plaintiffs,
vs.
THE ROLLERT CO., INC., et al.,
Defendants.

Adversary No. 5-84-0827-E

LEGAL NOTICE

To:

Those persons, firms, corporations, partnerships or other entities who, as interest owners, have not been paid for crude oil sold to plaintiffs, or their affiliates, as first purchasers, as those terms are defined under Tex. Bus. & Comm. Code §9.319 (Vernon Supp. 1984) ("Section 9.319"); produced from oil, gas and mineral leases located in the State of Texas; specifically excluding, however, Gulf Oil Corp., Exxon Co. U.S.A., Texaco, Inc., Getty Oil Co., Mobil Oil Corp., American Oil Co. ("Amoco"), Atlantic Richfield Co. ("ARCO"), Phillips Petroleum Co. (except insofar as they may have acquired a claim through their acquisition of Aminoil Inc.), Conoco, Inc., Chevron, Tenneco and each of their respective affiliates and subsidiaries.

On April 20, 1984, the Plaintiffs, and certain affiliates, filed petitions for reorganization under Title 11, Chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code, in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Middle District of Florida in Case Nos. 84-289-BK-J-GP through 84-332-BK-J-GP, inclusive. Adversary proceedings and contested motions were commenced by and against those persons, firms, corporations, partnerships or other entities (the "Defendants"), who asserted claims as secured creditors against the Plaintiffs, pursuant to Section 9.319, for crude oil sold to Plaintiffs but not paid for, produced from oil, gas and mineral leases located in the State of Texas. The adversary proceedings and contested motions referred to herein were initiated in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Middle District of Florida, Jacksonville Division, and subsequently were consolidated and transferred to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Western District of Texas, San Antonio Division, in Adversary Proceeding No. 5-84-0827E (the "Adversary Proceeding").

By this Adversary Proceeding, Plaintiffs seek a declaratory judgment that the Defendants, on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated, have no lien rights under Section 9.319 in any of the Plaintiffs' property or, in the alternative, for a judgment pursuant to Section 552 of the Bankruptcy Code.

As a result of an order of this Court of November 6, 1985, which designates this action as a class action, any judgment, whether for or against those against whom the subject action is directed, will apply to the following class:

(a) All persons, firms, corporations, partnerships or other entities who, as interest owners, (as defined in Section 9.319) have not been paid for crude oil sold to the plaintiffs, or their affiliates as first purchasers (as defined in Section 9.319), produced from oil, gas and mineral leases located in the State of Texas; specifically excluding, however, Gulf Oil Corp., Exxon Co. U.S.A., Texaco, Inc., Getty Oil Co., Mobil Oil Corp., American Oil Co. ("Amoco"), Atlantic Richfield Co. ("ARCO"), Phillips Petroleum Co. (except insofar as they may have acquired a claim through their acquisition of Aminoil Inc.), Conoco, Inc., Chevron, Tenneco and each of their respective affiliates and subsidiaries.

This notice has been directed to you in the belief that you or your organization may be a member of the class defined above. This notice is not to be understood as an expression of any opinion of this Court as to the merits of any of the claims or defenses asserted by either side in the subject action.

If you have any questions concerning the matter dealt with in this notice, you may address them to:

FREE CHRISTMAS RENT AT THE JUNCTION!!!!!!

Twas the month before Christmas
While out at the JUNCTION
Newcomers were preparing for their big Christmas function.
All over Midland, apartment rent was high.
None seemed to care if Christmas was nigh.
The manager at the Junction was full of delight!
To pay rent at Christmas just didn't seem right
So she offered a deal, long to remember,
"Move in by Halloween, FREE RENT FOR DECEMBER!!"
So if yo need a place for your Christmas Tree,
Come to the Junction where December is Free!
We'll pay all your bills, ELECTRICITY too. . . .
We have it all, just waiting for you!!!
