Citizens Committees To Study City Plans

Mayor Delmar Hiller and Aldermen Charley Garrett, Mrs. J. W. "Tony" Hardin, N. F. Jackson and Joe "Pepe" Zambrano are in the process of naming citizens advisory committees to study the city's long range plan and make recommendations for a course of action.

A tentative report of a comprehensive plan covering the period to the year 1990 has been prepared by Harland

Bartholomew and Associates of St. Louis, engineers and planners.

The four citizens advisory committees will cover, 1) economic background and population, 2) transportation and central business district, 3) land use and control measures and 4) community facilities.

The first committee meeting was held at the city hall Tuesday night when members of the Transportation and Central Business District group assembled at the city hall.

Present were chairmen James H. Sorenson, Jr., co-chairman Judge John D. Wendell, N. F. Jackson, Noah Taylor, H. R. Kline, Hillis Dominguez, Robert D. Mosier, Jr., Carl Duckworth and Bob Eschberger.

Bob Grossman of the Bartholomew firm reviewed the tentative report on the long range plan and said one of the objectives to be accomplished is the "re-establishment of the central business district as a vital force."

He listed as three important objectives for the Transportation and Central Business District committee to consider: 1) Establishment of a civic center in the vicinity of the courthouse, 2) Improve the attractiveness of Austin (continued on page 8)

Barnum was killed in action March 22, "in ground operations against a hostile force" while serving with the 101st Air Cavalry Division.

The awards were presented to his mother, Mrs. Betty L. Mitchee by Colonel Luther G. Jones, Jr., ARADMAC commander in his office.

Long Range City Plan Calls For New Parks, Recreational Spots

In keeping with the overall objective of creating a tourist destination in this area, the comprehensive plan for the city proposes the establishment of major new parks and recreation facilities.

That statement is made in the tentative report on a long range plan prepared for the city by Harland Bartholomew and Associates of St. Louis.

These facilities would be coordinated with the overall development program of the community and the expansion of the proposed waterways and drainage areas would be a major source of new recreation opportunities for the community.

Existing advantages of climate, location and the extraordinary abundance of wildlife and fishing in the area provide the community with natural assets which should be maximized at every opportunity, the report asserts.

In the past, the city and county have acted to establish major recreation features which have contributed

City Adopts Budget For Coming Year

The City Council this week approved the city budget of $337,525 for the coming fiscal year. This compares with $323,050 for the present fiscal year which ends Sept. 30.

The city tax, of course, remains the same since it is at the legal maximum—1.50 per $100 valuation of property with the ratio assessment set at 33 1/3 per cent.

A comparison of the budget for various funds for the coming year and the present year reveals the following: Street fund, $46,020 coming year, $30,717 this year; general fund, $79,780 coming year, $70,133 this year; garbage fund, $29,825 coming year, $20,200 this year; and water and sewer revenue fund, $181,900 coming year, $200,000 this year.

Mayor Delmar R. Hiller explained that the two reasons for the slight increase in the annual budget are: 1) increased salaries which all city employees will be receiving, and 2) increased expenses in operating the garbage department.

In connection with operation of the garbage department, Hiller said a number of "significant" changes will take place. He said commercial rates will be increased and will be based on the type and size of the business. The rates will be based on recommendations made by the Texas Municipal League.

In addition to the twice-a-week garbage pickup, the city on Oct. 1 will begin a new service—trash pickup. One day a week, men operating one truck will pick up trash, servicing as many homes as possible on that single day.

Hiller pointed out that the garbage department uses no tax funds, but operates entirely on revenue from within the city limits, "yet the city dump is used by more people living outside the city limits than the number who live in Rockport."

He said that during a recent one-week survey people driving 418 vehicles used the city dump and "nine out of 10 of the vehicles were owned by people living outside the city limits."

"Therefore," he added, "beginning Oct. 1 the city will begin charging for use of the city dump."

The charges will be: 25 cents for a pickup truck or smaller vehicle; 50 cents for a vehicle larger than a pickup truck; and $1 per load for commercial garbage haulers.

In other actions, the City Council: —Approved a request by Felix Tijerina for a zoning classification change from R-2 residential to B-2 business (continued on page 8)

City to File Delinquent Tax Suits Sept. 15

The city will begin filing tax suits Sept. 15 to collect from property owners who have not paid by that time.

Herman C. Johnson, City Tax Assessor-Collector, was instructed to send the following notice to delinquent taxpayers:

"Dear Property Owner: To inform you of the City's delinquent tax plans, a letter from the City Attorney to the Mayor and City Council is enclosed.

"The City Council is in agreement with the plan as set forth by the City Attorney and has instructed him to proceed with the filing of delinquent tax suits on Sept. 15, 1968.

"To save you court cost and perhaps a judgment being taken against your property, please try to make some arrangement to pay your delinquent taxes.

"If you desire further information or have any questions, feel free to contact the City Hall at any time."

City Attorney Dick Hatch's letter reads as follows:

"Whenever any taxes on real estate have become delinquent, it is my duty under state law to file suit in the name of the City of Rockport in the District Court of Aransas County for the total amount of taxes, interest, penalty and costs that have remained unpaid for all years delinquent.

"The delinquent tax roll is now available to me and I propose to start filing delinquent tax suits for the city on or about Sept. 15.

"State law provides for the publication of the delinquent tax in the Rockport Pilot and if the roll is to be published I ask that it be published as soon as possible so that necessary corrections to the roll may be made before suits are filed."

On the 25th another one car accident was reported to city police. An auto driven by Benita Barrera ran off the road on North Broadway street. Approximately $100.00 was estimated in damages by Patrolman Dominguez.

Two accidents occurred around noon Saturday, the 24th. Chief of Police Bob Hewes was investigating an accident at the intersection of Liberty and Broadway in which an auto driven by Betty Barnhill of San Antonio was struck by an auto driven by Benita Barrera of Rockport, when a report came over the radio of another accident, a major one this time.

At the intersection of Highway 35 and Market Street, Hewes found that an auto driven by John A. Crawford had been struck by an auto driven by Joseph Stanco of Dallas.

The Stanco auto, after hitting the Crawford auto, slid into an auto stopped on the east side of the road at the stop sign. The driver of this vehicle was Mattie Cortie.

Hewes stated that both the Crawford auto and the Stanco auto were a total loss and approximately $30.00 in auto damage was done to the Cortie auto. Three persons in the Stanco auto were taken to the hospital with minor cuts and bruises.

Hunters Need Not Bring Blaze Orange Vest to Aransas

Gun hunters drawing out on the special two-day deer hunts at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge need not bring the special blaze orange vests as mentioned in the instructions sent out with the applications —the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service will furnish them, says Gordon Hansen, refuge manager.

Hansen said there would be 200 of the vests, and 25 each will be marked with the numbers one through eight. He also said the refuge had been divided into eight compartments, each containing approximately 4,000 acres.

When the hunters enter the refuge at 4 a.m., he can pick out his compartment by the number on his vest. Should he wish to change compartments during the day, all he has to do is return the vest and pick up another one.

Hansen said the compartment idea was to protect the hunters from other hunters (continued on page 8)

Phone Co. to Remove Poles and Wires From Austin Street

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company will remove its poles and wires from Austin Street by the summer of 1971 at no cost to the city.

Mayor Delmar R. Hiller said he had received this information from Bill Knight, manager of the Corpus Christi area of the telephone company, who explained four steps the company will be taking, as follows:

1) Drop wires now located on Central Power and Light Company poles along the east side of Austin Street will be removed within 60 days. The removal work has already begun.

2) In September 1969, Rockport will receive direct distance dialing to work through the Corpus Christi toll centers. As a consequence of getting this improved long distance service, it will be necessary to change Rockport's present fix from SO 4- to 729. 3) A new dial central office

Local School Tax Is Raised By 7 1/2 %

Oil Companies Commend School Boards' Efficiency In It's Operation

The school board of Aransas County Independent School District has adopted a budget for 1968-69 of $1,204,623.75 with a total tax levy of $1.52—$1.28 for maintenance and operation and 34c for bond requirements.

Last year's budget was $1,405,181.75 but included a part of the building program in the amount of $264,597. Thus the budget is up approximately $65,000. This increase is due largely to additional teachers, salary increases and new band uniforms.

The tax levy was reduced from $1.98 to 1.52 due to the increase in assessed evaluation brought about by the increase in the tax ratio from 25 to 35 per cent.

Total increase in taxes to be paid as a result of this change in tax structure will be only 7 1/2 per cent.

Representatives from several oil companies, which pay over 50 per cent of the school taxes, were present at the budget hearing and after careful examination of the proposed budget and tax rate they commended the School Board and Supt. of Schools J. D. Gray for what they called "an excellent financial plan for the ensuing year."

They stated that the school was operating with due consideration to taxpayers and at the same time appeared to be offering an excellent educational program.

The oil company tax representatives meet at budget hearings with schools all over the state and are in a knowledgeable position to evaluate a school's financial operation. They stated that the Aransas county schools seemed to operate conservatively and with fairness to all taxpayers.

Last year the owner of a $15,000 house paid $74.25 in school taxes; this year he will pay $79.80, or 5.55 more.

Approximately 38,000 acres of prime deer habitat on the Refuge in Aransas County will be involved in the hunts. The Aransas Refuge, comprising some 47,000 acres, has an estimated population of 14,000 white-tailed deer or about one deer for every 3.3 acres which is comparable to some of the heavier populated areas of the State.

So Far 9,000 Names In Pot For Refuge Hunt

More than 9,000 names have been submitted for the special drawing for the September gun hunt to be held on the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge.

The drawing, to be conducted in Austin by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service on Sept. 3, will select 1,800 hunters for two-day hunts on the Refuge. W. O. Nelson, deputy regional director of the Southwestern Region in Albuquerque, N. M. will supervise the drawings.

Deadline for the submissions was 5 p.m. Aug. 27. More than 11,500 applications had been mailed through Wednesday, Aug. 21.

Persons under 17 years of age will not be permitted to hunt or participate in the drawing.

The gun hunt will start Sept. 11 and continue through Sept. 30 with a bag limit of two deer—one of which must be antlerless.

Archers will be permitted to kill one deer, of either sex, on the Refuge between Sept. 1 and Sept. 8. No drawings will be held for the archery hunts—all the archer has to do is show up at Refuge Headquarters with a valid 1968-69 Texas Hunting License and archery equipment which meets requirements of State Law.

Approximately 38,000 acres of prime deer habitat on the Refuge in Aransas County will be involved in the hunts. Pirates To Play Flour Bluff Aug. 30

By Dan T. Oliver

Completing two weeks of summer football, the Pirates will host Flour Bluff in a scrimmage game, Friday night Aug. 30. The game will begin at 7 p.m. at the Pirate Stadium.

This scrimmage game will enable coaches on both teams to study how their boys will react against other teams, and allow weak points to be corrected before the football season officially opens.

Coach Bloomer stated that he is very pleased with the work that his boys have done.

According to last year, the team is a week behind schedule and since training began, not one of the boys have dropped out. Five more boys have been added, for a total of 83 out for the 1968 football season.

The Pirate football boys of 1968 and the entire coaching staff would like to see many fans at the scrimmage game Friday night. Such support is encouragement to the team.

For further football news, read your Pilot weekly.

Art Guild Gatherings

By JAN WENDELL

This is the first of a series of columns which will appear from time to time in the Rockport Pilot. Today, and in the future, this column will endeavor to comment on what is going on at the Rockport Art Gallery and the work of the Art Guild.

At the present time in the Gallery, there are paintings exhibited by 15 local artists as well as a few by out of town artists. Everything on display is for sale and there is quite a variety of selections in the various media. Besides paintings, the Gallery also has a complete supply of art needs and a custom framing shop.

Art classes are held in the Gallery four days a week. Mrs. Kit Dinger is the instructor and right now fall classes are forming. The Tuesday and Wednesday morning classes are filled, but there is still room for students in the Thursday and Saturday classes. The lesson times are from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

An innovation for the city that the Guild will be sponsoring is the "Artist of the Month." Beginning in September and each month thereafter, the Guild will choose a member artist to display a representative number of works in the Gallery. A few of those works will be reviewed in this column and it is hoped that art patrons will drop in to see these paintings.

One of the house rules of the Gallery is that a painting may not be displayed for more than two months. This assures a rapid turnover of works and gives the local patron a chance to view something new each time he visits the Gallery.

A number of ink and pastel sketches are now being shown by Shirley Farley. One of special note is a cool sketch of a filling station with the T. Noah Smith home in the background. With the incidental palms and the old skiff in the foreground, the realistic rendition gives the viewer a quiet look at something we have in downtown Rockport. Another painting of interest is a still life oil by Kit Dinger of a house window in which a little red geranium is perched on the sill. The cool blues and greens of the fence, the ivy that covers it, and the curtains at the window gives one a piquant glimpse of Americana.

Most any day a visitor to the Gallery might see a painting he would like to purchase, or an art class in action, or some of the zealous amateurs in the studio putting the finishing touches on a painting. Come in and browse.

CHILDREN OF WOMEN WORKERS ELIGIBLE FOR SOCIAL SECURITY

The Social Security Administration believes that there are some children in this area who may be eligible for monthly social security checks if they can be located according to George Miles, field representative of the Corpus Christi Social Security office.

"The children we are looking for are those whose mother died after having done some work under social security," Miles said. "Some of these children were told at one time that they were not entitled to benefits because the mother had not worked long enough just before her death. Due to a recent change in the law, this

Do Your Share: Help Stop Air Pollution

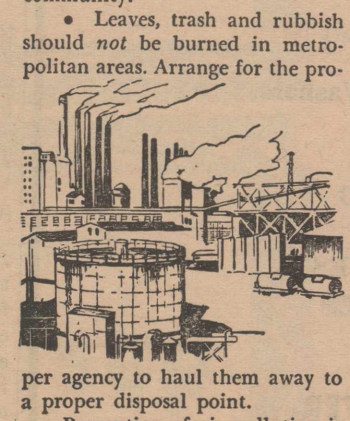

The problem of air pollution has been much in the news in recent years.

For people who live in metropolitan areas—which now means most of us—air pollution becomes more apparent all the time. The American Medical Association points out that there's little doubt that pollutants in the air aren't good for us. Just how serious a health problem is air pollution is a question still being studied. It has been associated with a number of various physical ills.

We read about air pollution, but it seldom occurs to us that we can do something about it. Isn't air pollution merely a matter for the factory with the belching smokestack, or the apartment building with a smoky incinerator? Actually, there are some things we all can do to reduce air pollution:

- Make it a point to know air pollution dangers, and seek from elected representatives legislation to control these hazards.
- An important source of air pollution is the exhaust pipe on the family auto. Keep the engine in good order. Have the exhaust system inspected regularly. This will not only reduce air pollution, it also will save money on gasoline.

- Keep your home furnace in good working order. Have it checked annually, both for your safety and for the sake of the community.
- Leaves, trash and rubbish should not be burned in metropolitan areas. Arrange for the proper disposal point.

Prevention of air pollution is a matter that must be met by the whole community. Proper laws are required where voluntary actions are inadequate. Tight enforcement of these laws is essential.

We can anticipate that air pollution will continue to be much in the news in the years ahead. The problem will be solved much sooner if all of us become aware that it is serious, and that all of us are involved in its ultimate solution. 3-68

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

All of us dream of someday catching a really big bass. It has been proven however, that 10 per cent of the fishermen catch 90 per cent of the bass weighing five pounds or over. So evidently this 10 per cent has some "secret."

Lauren Johnston, a highly competent Austin angler, thinks there are two rules for taking big bass. One is using a proven big-bass bait in big-bass waters. The other is just keeping the lure in the water.

Johnston, a flooring contractor, is the only man to win the Austin Bass Club's big-bass-of-the-year award three times. So he can speak with some authority.

Attitude in fishing for large bass is all-important, Johnston stresses. He fishes for big bass and nothing else. He says he'd rather fish all day and get one strike from a big fish than to actually catch a dozen smaller ones. He has gone as long as a 72 hours without a strike.

Few of us possess such dogged determination and patience.

Johnston's favorite bait is the jig and eel, a proven big-bass getter. It is a leadhead jig about one-half ounce in size, with a six-inch black pork eel or "spring" lizard impaled on it. This bait is worked slowly along the bottom in deep water where big bass hang out.

Few really large bass are taken in the shallows along shore, where most people fish.

Actually, there's no real mystery in using the jig and eel, says Lauren. Main thing is to have confidence in it. Should he go two or three hours without a strike, he must console himself with the fact that the fish wouldn't be hitting other baits, either. Only by sticking with it, hour after hour, can the fisherman hope to succeed with any consistency. It stands to reason that the man fishing 8 hours stands a much better chance of taking a big bass than does the angler who fishes only an hour.

Pinpoint casting is important when using this bait. It should be cast to some cover where bass might hang out, like a stump in the water or along a weed bed. Usually a bass will grab the bait as it plummets down. Evidently he thinks something live has fallen into the water so he quickly pounces upon it.

For this reason, the fisherman should allow the line to go slack when the bait is falling. If he keeps the line taut, Johnston points out, the bait will go down at a tangent. It might hit next to a stump, for example, but by the time it hits bottom, it will be six feet toward the boat and away from the prime area to be fished.

By allowing the bait to sink on a limp line, the angler has no feel and cannot tell when a fish is striking the bait. For this reason he must watch his line closely. Should it start to straighten out and move off to the side, that's the signal to rear back on the rod and drive the hook home. This action must be forceful since a big bass has a tough mouth.

If the bait hits bottom without a strike, then it should be pulled in slowly, along the bottom, in stop-and-go jerks, and all the way back to the boat. This is a tedious, sometimes exasperating way to fish.

But it's highly successful! Just ask Lauren Johnston. He has big-bass trophies to prove it.

Mrs. Annie McMillan received word that her grandson, Pfc. Walter J. Bell of San Antonio is now stationed in Phubia, Vietnam. He is the son of the later Walter D. Bell, Jr., and Mrs. Jeanette Bell of San Antonio.

Comprehensive Plan Background

This is another article dealing with background information contained in the tentative report of a comprehensive plan for the city prepared by Harland Bartholomew and Associates of St. Louis.

Since 1960, there has been a steady decline in unemployment from about eight percent to slightly more than two percent. This is well below both the state and national averages. In 1960, unemployment was concentrated in the blue collar categories. An adequately trained and well educated work force is the best insurance against the upswing in the unemployment rate.

The division between basic and secondary employment has been determined in consultation with local individuals familiar with economic activities and from an analysis of economic information. Each job means an additional 3.4 residents. Each new job in the basic category will support one job in the secondary category. This means that each job established in the basic sector will mean a total population increase of approximately seven persons.

Manufacturing

The manufacturing employment category accounts for a little over 12 percent of the total population. The largest manufacturer in the county is the Rockport Yacht and Supply Company with a total employment of 141 persons. This firm manufactures fishing trawlers which are sold throughout the United States and abroad. This industry is an excellent example of the kind of economic generating force which can be attracted into the community. Long-range prospects for growth in the manufacturing category do not appear to be bright at this time. The labor force in the county is too small to attract labor intensive industries and the location of Rockport holds advantages only to those industries attracted by the resources of the area. Many communities are seeking new industries, but the likelihood of attracting a large manufacturing industry into the county is about one to ten against. At the same time, competitive forces directed toward attracting industries into the Corpus Christi area will continue to place Aransas County in a relatively non-competitive position. As industries are attracted into the metropolitan area, some of the available labor force in Aransas County may be attracted to employment opportunities nearby. Long-range growth in the manufacturing sector may be a prospect as waterfront locations in the metropolitan sector become scarce.

Commercial Fisheries

Due to its location adjacent to the excellent fishing grounds of the Gulf of Mexico and the inland waters, Rockport has become a base for commercial fishing operations. This activity is carried on in the various inland bays as well as the Gulf of Mexico.

In the region, the important fin-fish catches include drum, trout, flounder and sheepshead fish. Shellfish category includes crabs, oysters, and shrimp. Rockport is fortunate in having more varied fishing available than is the case elsewhere on the Texas coast. The most important catches are shrimp, fin-fish, and oysters. Oysters have become relatively difficult to find in the south Texas waters because of silting conditions in the inland waters and in some instances, high salinity has caused oysters to die out. Fish landings vary on the weather and salinity conditions. In recent years, there has been an upward trend in fishing activities in the county. One advantage that Rockport has is that there is less pollution of the local fishing waters than is true farther north. The major pollution problem facing Rockport fishermen is high salinity caused by oil field brine which is discharged as a part of mineral production activities. Alterations in the marine ecology, whether caused by man or nature, will affect the fishing industry. Fish catches are primarily used to supply Texas markets, although shipments are made to cities throughout mid-America. If serious problems regarding pollution can be effectively dealt with, fish landings should increase during the planning period. It is assumed that the demand for the fish catches will also increase.

Mineral Resources

The Rockport, Aransas County area is one of the least significant in the Coastal Bend Region in terms of mineral production. In 1965, value of minerals produced totaled $10.5 million, one-fourth of the production in San Patricio County ($44.3 million) and about one-eighth of the production in Nueces County ($83.8 million). The importance of this activity to the economy of the county is significant when it is realized that the total number of employees amounts to about eight percent of the total employment. In recent years, the size of payroll, value of shipments, and number of employees have increased significantly.

The most important minerals produced are natural gas, petroleum, distillates, and shell. Oil and gas production in the area is concentrated in fields north of Rockport in the Fulton and West Fulton areas (extending into Copano Bay) and on the north peninsula. Expansion and development in the oil industry are concentrated in offshore areas at this time. This is a favorable situation for the Rockport area because of convenient access to offshore production areas. Due to competitive forces and technological advances the oil industry, in relative terms, is slowing down in spite of slightly increasing production. There are no signs that this will change. Gas production, however, should expand significantly in this part of Texas during the planning period. Aransas County production in 1965 was 21.9 million cubic feet of natural gas. Other minerals produced in the county include shell, which is dredged from the reefs located in Aransas and Copano Bays. This material is widely used as a building material and to produce chemicals.

Agriculture

Soils in the planning area are severely limited for farming activities. Agriculture may be carried on only with careful conservation practices. This situation contrasts sharply with much of the remaining metropolitan area. Some of the most fertile soils in the Coastal Bend Region are found immediately to the west in San Patricio County.

The total land area in farms is decreasing, but the size of farms is increasing. The value of farm products in 1964 is one-third of what it was in 1959. Some gains have occurred in field crop production, however, the most significant losses have occurred in the livestock products area. Much of the present farming and ranching activity are located in the northern and western portions of the county.

Tourism, Recreation and Retirement

Since the 1890s, tourism and recreation have played an important role in the economy of Rockport and Aransas County. Early land promotions, following the opening of the railroad, led to the construction of several resort hotels. The protected setting on the gulf coast with the cool off-shore breezes, beaches, hunting and fishing attracted tourist then, as these natural assets do today.

The State Highway Department has also provided roadside parks adjacent to Highway 35. These are well located and well maintained to serve the travelers on the state highway system.

At the north end of the peninsula boat ramps and a fishing pier have been established for public use. North of Copano Bay Causeway Goose Island State Park and the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge are also a part of available recreational facilities.

The comprehensive plan proposes to establish major recreational features as a part of this central urban area where urban development is anticipated. The plan also proposes the establishment of four large parks along the coastline.

Need for Recreation
Tourists coming into the Rockport area are attracted by the assets which have been previously identified. Visitors coming into the area normally spend a week or more, taking advantage of the various recreational opportunities.

Swimming, fishing, bird-watching and water sports are a few of the activities which are available. In addition, a concerted effort should be made to establish additional forms of recreation which will stimulate the growth of tourism, according to the report.

These would include campgrounds, trailer parks, marinas, boat ramps, fishing piers, preservation of wildlife areas, golf courses and scenic attractions, according to recommendations of the planning firm.

Once a complete range of recreational opportunities is available, and additional tourists are attracted, this will stimulate the establishment of new hotels and motels and related service facilities.

This will have a direct economic significance in the county providing work opportunities for people having limited education and limited skills. Economic advances would be directly related to the public investment expended in providing facilities of this nature, Bartholomew claims.

Proposal of Plan

Perhaps the single most important feature in the park and recreation plan is the continued development of Little Bay. Additional dredging is proposed in the plan which would expand the park areas along Broadway and the peninsula extending behind the beach.

Interior portions of this park along the waterfront should be bulkheaded to stabilize this development. South of Little Bay Shores, a peninsula is proposed to be extended into Little Bay which would provide a site for a small amphitheater and picnic facilities projecting out into the bay.

Wildlife areas in the flats near Key Allegro should be protected as a part of the plan and every effort should be made not to disturb the existing ecology of this area, Bartholomew recommends.

The Little Bay Park Development would also include the establishment of the convention center which is identified in the central area plan.

In the major growth areas surrounding Rockport, as new elementary schools are established, neighborhood parks should be provided as a part of the overall development program, according to the planner.

These neighborhood parks should follow the concept of the school-park neighborhood center. The development of these schools Bartholomew says, should follow an overall program for expanding educational facilities as required. This will necessitate continuing studies and evaluations of the relationships between permanent and seasonal residents in the school district.

In addition to these facilities and the improvements at Little Bay, the plan proposes the establishment of a large new park along the waterfront north of Cove Harbor. This park would establish a buffer between proposed resort facilities on the Cove Peninsula and adjacent industrial areas.

This park, the planner states, should be a regional type park providing large open spaces and functional activity areas. With the development of a dredged marina in this area, the park would also serve as a major recreation center in the southern portion of the city.

At the northern end of the peninsula, a large park also is proposed on Live Oak Point. This park would provide a full range of major tourist facilities including a large campground, trailer park, a marina, boat ramps, fishing piers and related facilities. This extraordinary location at the north end of the peninsula contains a large grove of wind-sculptured live oak trees. These should of course be preserved and facilities developed among the trees to maximize site advantages.

A third large park is proposed on Copano Bay. This park would provide recreational opportunities on this side of the peninsula and would also serve to protect the clear zone at the western end of the Aransas County Airport.

Two new parks are proposed on the Port Bay side of the peninsula. These parks would include a park at Rattlesnake Point and at Port Bay Point. Major street connections would be extended into these areas where a variety of facilities might be established.

Wildlife in this part of the country is abundant during much of the year and fishing opportunities would be a major attraction. The area might also be developed as a campground.

A large new golf course is proposed just west of Fulton in the vicinity of the new alignment of State Route 35.

In addition to the park and recreation areas identified in the plan, the present alignment of State Route 35 should be maintained as a scenic highway as a part of the Texas Tropical Trail. Once the Hug-the-Coast Highway is established, the new alignment of State Route 35 could carry that designation.

A new access road to Aransas National Wildlife Refuge in Aransas County should be considered. While this wildlife area is north of the planning area, it is in the county and constitutes an important tourist attraction. Since these lands were removed from the county tax base, it would seem fitting to provide direct access to Route 35, convenient to Rockport.

Major assistance programs are available for the establishment of parks and open spaces in the community. These assistance programs should be fully utilized so that local financial resources will not be overtaxed in expanding and developing parks and recreation areas.

The economic advantages of such a park and recreation system should be stressed so that residents of the community fully understand the major impact that facilities of this nature will have on the future growth potential of the city and its surrounding area.

While all community facilities act to serve the needs of local residents the availability of these services and facilities also can act as a major economic stimulant, attracting people into the community both as short-term visitors and as permanent residents.

As an overall recommendation, the establishment of attractively planted park and recreation facilities is absolutely essential, according to the planning firm.

In the Little Bay area and in existing parks in the community, the amount of plant materials which have been provided is limited. Major planting programs should be undertaken in the community. These would include the establishment of the widest possible variety of native plants, including palm, live oak, retama and mesquite trees and other indigenous forms of vegetation.

The objective in the Little Bay area, Bartholomew points out, should be to create the most attractive possible park area as a central feature in the community. Smaller flowering plant materials, such as oleander, hibiscus and a wide variety of native cactus plant materials should also be a part of such a development program.

and to make it work effectively each hunter must hunt in the compartment number indicated on the vest he is wearing.

Since each compartment contains approximately six square miles, Hansen says each hunter should have plenty of room to hunt safely. "Today's high velocity rifle shells will not penetrate the thick brush," he said, "which also increased the hunting safety factor."

There is a greater chance of accidents involving the hunter and his own rifle than from the weapons of others, Hansen predicted. However, he does not expect any firearm mishaps.

Each hunter is still requested to bring a snake-bite kit since the weather is still warm and the refuge contains all four types of poisonous snakes. Refuge personnel have reported seeing snakes as would be considered normal in any area dedicated as wildlife refuge. "But there is no record of a snake bite on the refuge," said Hansen.

Editor's Note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Director, 209 W. 9th Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—My wife and I were recently divorced. Our children will live with her. Will I lose my III-A deferment as a father because of this?

A—Probably so, but all aspects of your case will be considered. Regulations provide that you maintain a bona fide family relationship in your home with your child or children for a III-A deferment based on fatherhood. However, if your induction into the armed forces would result in extreme hardship to your divorced wife, children, or dependents, your draft board may continue you in class III-A even though you and your wife are divorced.

Q—Recently my local board reopened my classification because of new evidence that was

Q—Can a man be assured that he will be deferred to complete the requirements for his baccalaureate degree?

July Shrimp Landings Down

Domestic landings of headless shrimp in Texas during July amounted to 8.8 million pounds compared with 12.5 million pounds during July 1967, according to Orman H. Farley, U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, Galveston.

Current July landings brought the Jan-July 1968 total to 20.1 million pounds or 8.3 million pounds below corresponding 1967 landings.

The following data represents landings of headless shrimp for specified areas and periods:

Port Arthur-Sabine: 146,900 pounds, July 1968; 445 pounds, Jan-July 1963; 763,900 pounds, Jan-July 1967.

Galveston - Seabrook: 743,000, July 1968; 1,511,900, Jan-July 1968; 3,347,300, Jan-July 1967.

Freeport: 1,935,300, July 1968; 3,036,700, Jan-July 1968; 6,375,600, Jan-July 1967.

Matagorda-Palacios: 215,900, July 1968; 413,300, Jan-July 1968; 470,100, Jan-July 1967.

Port Lavaca-Port O'Connor-Seadrift: 212,700, July 1968; 681,000, Jan-July 1968; 1,629,800, Jan-July 1967.

Aransas Pass-Rockport: 2,238, July 1968; 4,454,600, Jan-July 1968; 6,949,800, Jan-July 1967.

Brownsville-Port Isabel: 3,310,000, July 1968; 9,536,000, Jan-July 1968; 8,823,100, Jan-July 1967.

Totals: 8,802,400 pounds, July 1968; 20,079,100 pounds, Jan-July 1968; 28,332,600 pounds, Jan-July 1967.

Trawl vessels working adjacent waters along the central and north Texas coast made lengthy trips at will throughout July with trip averages of 200 to 600 pounds per night.

Vessels working the southern sector from Port Mansfield to 60 miles south of Port Isabel reported catches of 400 to 1,000 pounds per night. All ports were plagued with the ever increasing shortage of captains and crewmen for both marginal old vessels and new super trawlers.

Many vessels with crews lost valuable working time from both breakdown and the failure of vessels to return to fishing after the customary short port call for unloading and servicing.

White shrimp catches were largely confined to scattered small areas adjacent to major inland passes as is usual for the season.

The statutory 1968 shrimp season opened at mid-July after being closed since June 1 to protect juvenile brown shrimp leaving estuarine systems. Immediately prior to and throughout July, many vessels worked inshore waters and shoveled a tremendous quantity of shrimp overboard due to the small size of brown shrimp leaving the southern bay systems and the mass of trash fish present.

July catches were the third highest July on record for the Texas coast, being surpassed only by July 1967 and 1960. The Brownsville-Port Isabel area landed the greatest volume of shrimp for any month in the history of these progressive areas, surpassing the record months of 1967.

Twenty-two new trawlers made maiden voyages in July. Since Jan. 1, 1968, well over 100 new trawlers have made maiden voyages into Texas ports. A very small percentage of the new vessels were replacements; most were additions as old vessels were sold to individual captains and are operative.

Blue crab landings amounted to 400,000 pounds in July compared with 254,000 pounds in July 1967. Bay areas in the Coastal Bend accounted for most of the increases.

Flood waters receded in early July in all areas and left bay systems in a good ecological state for the ensuing white shrimp season which opened Aug. 15. At the close of July all systems from Galveston southward had fair to good populations of juvenile white shrimp. However, samples taken by bait fishermen indicated somewhat smaller size than the expected normal at two weeks before season.

Good Response To School's Edict on Students' Appearance

Recently the Pilot published a story setting forth the school students regulations regarding the appearance of boys and girls in Rockport-Fulton High School and Junior High School.

The story pointed out that no mini-miniskirts for girls or beards, mustaches or long sideburns on boys would be allowed.

Since then, Superintendent of Schools J. D. Gray has received numerous letters commending him and other school authorities on their stand. Here are two:

Dear School Board Chmn.:

Just dropping you a line to give praised to your system. I received my Rockport paper Friday and read the article concerning the "dress of the school boy and girl." Its wonderful to know that there are still sensible people left in this wonderful country of ours.

My children, boy 16 and girl 14, were very happy over the article.

I am choosing in the next few weeks whether to put my business in Rockport-Fulton area or Port Mansfield.

This article has swayed my decision very much in your area's favor.

TROOP 281 SUMMER CAMP

By Daniel Montgomery, Scribe

There were 12 of us, Alvin Griffiths, Eugene Beasley, Dan Montgomery, Robert Mundine, Ralph Weekley, Terry Freeborn, Ricky Gilit, David Mundine, David Prophet, Stanley Albers, Wade Evans, and Johnny Bryan. We loaded our camp gear on Mr. Freeborn's truck and departed from our Scout Hut about 12:15 Sunday, Aug. 4, 1968, for our week of work and fun.

About 1 1/2 hours later, we arrived at Camp Karankawa. Each boy got into his swim trunks and we walked together to the Health Lodge for additional brief health check. Most of the boys were a little shy about the lady doctor. From the Health Lodge, we all went to the lake for a swim check. The swim check indicated our troop having several strong swimmers and a couple of land lovers. The remaining portion of the time on Sunday was taken in making our campsite, supper and a welcome camp fire.

The Battle of the Flour was held on Wednesday. The entire camp is divided into two armies, Red and Blue. The ammunition is small paper bags of flour. Upon a given signal, hundreds of rounds are fired across the battleground. No one really won, but we had a great battle.

Thursday was a special day and most welcome one. Several of the gang's parents drove to camp for visitor's night. After supper together, the boys showed the families their campsite, the Scouting Skills Area and the swimming hole. But the highlight today was the big campfire program, and the tapping out ceremony by the "Order of the Arrow." Three scouts from our troop were tapped—Bobby Mundine, Dan Montgomery, and David Prophet.

Friday was a long and hot day, and our energies were gradually slowing down. All the boys worked hard and the accomplishments were as follows:

Alvin Griffiths: Nature and swimming merit badge; Dan Montgomery: Nature, life saving, and conservation of natural resources merit badges; David Mundine: Swimming merit badge and 1st class rank; Robert Mundine: Cooking, nature and conservation of natural resources merit badges; David Prophet: Swimming merit badge and 1st class; Ralph Weekley: Swimming merit badge and 1st class.

The troop greatly appreciates and would like to thank all the parents, and special thanks to Mr. Freeborn, Mr. Griffiths, Mr. Weekley, and Mrs. Spears, for helping us with our transportation.

We want to thank our Scout leaders, Mr. Ottie Mundine and Mr. Tom Phillips and our scoutmaster, Dick Stafford, for making this trip possible.

Misses Charlyne and Carolyn Taylor, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Taylor, and Miss Vivian Skoruppa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Skoruppa are in San Antonio this week attending HemisFair.

Estimate 46 Deaths Over Labor Day

Col. Wilson E. (Pat) Speir, acting director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today the DPS estimates 46 persons may die in traffic accidents in Texas during the Labor Day weekend.

"This is the last holiday weekend of the summer, and thousands of motorists traditionally take to the highways for an outing," Speir said. "It is indeed tragic that so many men, women and children will become victims of motor vehicle accidents during an otherwise happy period," he added.

Speir said the Department of Public Safety will use all facilities and personnel at its disposal in an effort to reduce the predicted death toll. A special "Operation Motorcade" will be activated at 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 30, and continue through midnight Monday, Sept. 2. During this period, all uniformed DPS officers and equipment will be used on the highways to enforce traffic laws.

"Many other groups such as local police and sheriff's department, the trucking industry, and the Jaycees will be cooperating in this effort to promote safe driving during the holiday," Speir noted.

For example, the Texas Motor Transportation Association and its Texas Council of Safety Supervisors will sponsor a holiday road patrol during the Labor Day weekend to assist stranded motorists.

Jack Bryan, TMTA safety director, said some 40 cars marked "Holiday Road Patrol" will be used in the program. These will be manned by the safety directors, safety supervisors and safety engineers of the trucking industry who comprise the membership of the council. Personnel participating in the road patrol will work as volunteers. The Jaycees will provide rest stops for motorists in many areas of the state. Texas Safety Association said W. F. (Bill) Leonard will coordinate efforts of over 12,000 Junior Chamber of Commerce members in operating some 200 "rest stops" for serving free coffee to fatigued drivers.

The Texas Highway Department has provided the news media with a bulletin listing all road construction areas in the state.

Fishing Hints

By Danny Adams

WHERE to fish is an easy question to answer this week. Anywhere! This past week was perhaps the finest trout fishing week this year. The private boats loaded up on specks, the charter boats made huge catches, the party boats were slaying them and the pier fishermen were dragging beautiful stringers off the boardwalks. The way the weather is looking this week should be a duplication.

During the hot summer months the best fishing during the day is definitely on deep reefs, with a few of the larger trout being caught in the shallows by wading. Redfishing is generally nil during the summer months with what few being caught by wading with a gold spoon or dead shrimp. Sheephead and drum fell into the same category as the reds, being fairly slow during the summer. The best time to fish for these fish is during the spring. Most reds are caught in deep holes, basins and sloughs in the colder weather. Sheephead are caught around pilings, bulkheads and pier posts. The drum and gafftop are caught in deep channels, preferable with mud bottom.

Good spots for reds would be the Sea Gun Basin, The Rockport ski basin and turning basin, and the Cove boat basin off Highway 35 south of Rockport. Sheephead fishing is excellent off the Copano Causeway because of the many pilings and also off of the Rockport jetties. Drum and gafftop are extremely plentiful off the old causeway and the Good Luck Pier at the Sandollar Marina. Both of these piers extend beyond the shallow water into the deeper mud bottom water that these fish prefer.

To give you an example of the fine fishing that we had this week, these are just a few of the many fine catches that were landed off the Copano Causeway:

Herman Quinius of Waco, fishing three nights in a row caught 21, 24 and 29 specks. H. G. Jackson of San Antonio bagged 28 trout. Louis Earl, also of San Antonio, netted 45 trout. Elizabeth Maloy of San Antonio, fought down a 35-pound drum. W. R. Weber and sons caught 35 specks. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell of San Antonio, got 37 specks. How about that for a few fish!

Yes, many big city people live this way. Isn't it more fun to hear the friendly check-out girl, or store owner, say "We missed you yesterday"?

Letter to the Editor

Mr. John R. Kinsey, Editor
The Rockport Pilot
Dear Mr. Kinsey:

Having chosen Rockport as the town where I most prefer to raise my children and spend the rest of my days, I have followed the City Planning Program as proposed by Harlan Bartholomew & Associates, with more than mere casual interest. There are, however, several points in the appraisal of our city's future that strike me as contradictory and confusing.

For example, I fully concur with the rather obvious conclusion that we should gear our future growth and economy toward the tourist market. True, tourists can be a pain in the neck sometimes, but it's still a more pleasant type of economy than having to depend upon payrolls from unsightly, foul-smelling factories. The two major attractions that Rockport has to offer tourists are the clean, beautiful bay and the area's pleasant atmosphere. Clean, beautiful, unpolluted bays are becoming increasingly rare, however—so why aren't our City and County 'Fathers' busy passing ordinances to safeguard our bay from future, eventual pollution and contamination? It may well be that in the not too distant future an unpolluted bay on the Texas Gulf Coast will be a thing of the past. What happens to the tourist economy in 1978 when the water begins to stink and the fish leave and the kids can't swim at the beach?

The pleasant atmosphere of the Rockport area is something else that could and should be improved upon. Not just for the tourists but for ourselves as well. Perhaps the most important and vital ingredient in any civic improvement project is in educating and informing the people of the community about the goals, aims and values of such a program—arousing public interest—enlisting their aid. And explaining how it can help them as individuals. A 'blue collar' worker, for example, may readily see how tourism would help the motels and restaurants but he may ask how can it help me? The answer, of course, is that anything that brings in more people, more money, automatically creates its own demand for more services of every nature.

An example of how individual co-operation in a civic improvement program could be achieved would be for the mayor to enlist the aid of all the various clubs and organizations in town and declare one specific month a "Tree Planting Month." Preferably a Palm tree planting month. Why palm trees? Because 90 per cent of the people in the United States have never seen a real live palm tree—they don't have palms in Lubbock or Minneapolis or Tulsa or Cleveland. Because the palm is symbolic of our tropic-like climate. Because a palm is atmosphere. Maybe only a third or a fourth of the people would co-operate but even at that can you imagine the difference it would make. Picture in your mind the beauty of Church St. or Water St. lined with palm trees. Or better yet, erase the concrete strip in the middle of Austin St. and imagine instead a row of stately palms growing right down the center of our business district. That's atmosphere—concrete strips they can see anywhere. The point of all of this is simply that Rockport could easily be transformed into a virtual Garden of Eden—one of the most beautiful towns in America. Or, with lethargy, indifference and lack of leadership, goals and co-operation, it could just as easily become just another shabby, weather-beaten, waterfront hick town. For those who couldn't afford to plant palm trees then oleanders planted from cuttings would suffice, as would any of the dozens of plants that are indigenous to our own particular area. To most of us who are fortunate enough to live here, a hibiscus bloom is a commonplace thing but to those from other parts of the country it can be a thing of awe inspiring beauty. In short, let's just use a little plain old common sense and start using the God-given gifts that are available to us. Every single merchant, employer and employee ought to be pushing for a "Make Rockport a Tropical Paradise" campaign. Why? Future survival plus the satisfaction of self improvement are a couple of reasons.

The most perplexing proposal made by Harlan Bartholomew & Associates concerns moving the major highway farther to the west, thereby entirely bypassing the city. If we are going to base our future economy on tourist trade then doesn't it stand to reason that exposure and accessibility are of primary importance. Again, common sense coupled with a touch of self preservation would insist that any major highway run right through the center of town. We want every motorist on the highway to see our town—so they'll know where to spend their next vacation. Or maybe they'll just stop long enough for a meal or a night's rest—stop here, not the next town. The point is simply to give the traveler an opportunity to see the city—not just a sign pointing down some side road and reading "Rockport—6 miles."

When you speak of tourists you are speaking of people who travel; who tour. Harlan Bartholomew and Associates seemed to have overlooked the fact that as far as traveling is concerned we now live in the 'Air Age.' They also overlooked the fact that Rockport has a very fine airport. But the biggest oversight of all is the failure to recognize the tremendous impact that scheduled air carrier service would have on local economy. It would greatly benefit not only tourists but also businessmen, sportsmen, salesmen and owners of local weekend houses. When I speak of scheduled air service I have in mind a 'Third Carrier' shuttle type of service operating between Rockport and Corpus Christi only. Three or four round trip flights a day timed to coincide with the arrivals and departures of the major airlines servicing Corpus Christi. This would be an FAA approved fully certified scheduled air carrier service utilizing medium-light twin engine aircraft flown by airline rated professional pilots. Of course, this would be a private enterprise operation but moral support from both local business and local government would help greatly in making such a service a reality. Obtaining a contract with the Post Office to fly Air Mail would minimize any financial risk involved. Investors could also incorporate a car rental agency for additional income. Besides passenger fares there would also be income from air cargo. Besides it's obvious practical advantages, scheduled air service would also add much to the prestige of Rockport as 'The Resort City of the South.'

Another major consideration in attracting tourists is the availability of medical facilities. Rockport is very fortunate to have several very good doctors and dentists located in the town, but tourists with small children and elderly retirees usually feel more secure if they know that a hospital is near in the event of an emergency. Counting the permanent residents plus the ever present tourists, Rockport could easily support a small hospital. Not a hospital equipped to perform brain surgery or heart transplants, but a 10 or 15 bed hospital that could take care of broken bones, ruptured appendixes, mild coronaries and mother-to-be. Here again we become involved with a project of primarily private enterprise interests although we shouldn't overlook the many governmental and foundation type assistance programs available to such a project.

A shopping center is another example of the type of private enterprise projects which ought to be promoted by the city. It would benefit tourists and residents alike.

Some consideration might also be given to the creation of a small Tropical Garden located in the Turning Basin-Little Bay area. Perhaps a small tropical bird zoo might also be included. Here again, we would have something to benefit both tourists and residents.

Now every resort city or tourist center needs an annual 'Event.' Something that draws publicity and people. This is nothing new—practically every coastal city from Brownsville to Boston has a yearly 'something or other'—a Fiesta or Mardi Gras or Fishing Contests or Rodeos or Buccaneer Days or Splash Days. Rockport too, should have some sort of yearly celebration. But instead of competing with all the others, Rockport's event ought to be something different—something out of the ordinary. Maybe something like an annual "Rockport Summer Art Festival"—with a sampling of all the arts—music, painting, perhaps even a summer stock playhouse. With prizes, awards, luncheons, dinners, dances and invitations to appropriate celebrities. After all, Rockport is already known for its fishing and hunting, bird-watching and water sports, why not let people know that we have a little culture too. It just might surprise the 'civilized' easterners enough to get us a write-up in "Time" or "Life."

I have not attempted to go into detail in this letter concerning these various proposals. Before doing that I would first want to know what, if any, interest they might provoke. Nor has it been my intention to be overly critical of the Harlan Bartholomew and Associates proposals.

Sincerely,
Joe Browne, Jr.

More and more interesting people move to the Rockport area like Joe Browne, Jr., owner of Browne's Harbor/Marina, whose Letter to the Editor is published elsewhere in this issue.

"Like many others who have chosen Rockport as their home," Browne points out, "I am not entirely overjoyed at the prospect of the city's eventual growth. I kind of like it like it is, but I know that growth and development is inevitable."

"So my concern now is the type, or direction, of that growth and development. I believe that all of us have a responsibility to see that the direction is the right direction."

"Call it a debt, a debt owed to our forefathers and to our children. My interest in politics can perhaps be blamed on my great-grandfather who was twice mayor of Houston (my birthplace) and who also served in the Texas Legislature."

Browne attended the University of New Mexico and several years later wound up as executive vice president of a wholesale pharmaceutical company. His first love, however, was aviation.

So he eventually left the drug business to become a commercial pilot, a career which ranged from crop dusting in Nicaragua to owning and operating his own charter company.

During this period he served as a regional advisor to the National Pilot's Association, was asked by the governor of New Mexico to set up a state aviation board (on which he served as a charter member); was personal pilot and aide to the late U. S. Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico; and acted as special consultant to the Federal Aviation Agency.

His flying career was cut short by the loss of an eye, which explains why he moved to Rockport. "I decided that if I could no longer fly, then the next best thing would be living in a small town on the water. As owner and operator of Browne's Harbor/Marina, we got about as close to the water as possible—7½ feet from our front porch to be exact."
