Victim said killed 24 hours before discovery

The time of death for murder victim Evelyne Feather MacLeod, 35, has been tentatively set at least 24-hours prior to the discovery of her body — the head and hands removed — beside the Caprock Road in far northern Scurry County.

Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway said Friday morning he learned this information after contacting staffers with the Southwest Institute for Forensic Sciences in Dallas.

In addition, "manual strangulation" has now been determined as the official cause of death.

Callaway noted he has not received the official autopsy report as yet, but that a telephone conversation confirmed both the cause and approximate time of death.

Regarding the time factor, he said the tests showed death was possible as early as Saturday night. The official time was to be placed between Sunday night and early Monday morning, however.

In either event, it is now thought the death occurred at least 24-hours before the body was found here.

The body of the deceased was returned to Snyder Thursday for burial.

Her remains had been sent to the Dallas institute following the discovery Tuesday shortly before 10 a.m. of her abandoned body.

Meanwhile, her husband and accused slayer, Arthur Lee MacLeod, 36, is scheduled for an examining trial in Lubbock next Wednesday. That hearing is set for 1:30 p.m. and was tentatively set by Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack of Lubbock.

Such a hearing is commonly used to by defense attorneys as a means of learning the extent of evidence held against their client by the prosecution.

MacLeod is now in custody at Lubbock County Jail under a $250,000 bond. He faces first degree murder charges in both Lubbock and Scurry Counties.

He was arrested at the couple's Lubbock residence by authorities there at around 11 a.m. Tuesday.

The indication Friday was that it is still undecided where the case will be prosecuted pending the final results of the autopsy report conducted at the Dallas forensic institute.

Facts related to the case began to unfold shortly before 10 a.m. Tuesday, when area rancher Ben Miller reported to authorities the license tag number and vehicle description of a car which he had seen beside F.M. 1269 some two miles north of Fluvanna.

Miller said he became suspicious of the vehicle after seeing its driver apparently dump something beside the roadway.

The body of Mrs. MacLeod, with the head and both hands removed, was discovered some 12 ft. from the roadway where it apparently came to rest after being thrown over the guard rail beside the steep incline.

The missing body parts were later dug up in the backyard of the MacLeod residence at 2011 29th St. in Lubbock. This discovery was made around 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A handsaw found at the residence was confiscated by police and is alleged to be the instrument used for the decapitation and mutilation.

The deceased was born Sept. 30, 1949 in Lordsburg, N.M.

Survivors include one daughter, Julia Ann Brown; one son, William Scott Brown, both of Celina, Tx.; her father, Herb Feather; and one sister, Mrs. Buddy (Glenda) Powell.

Indications were she would be buried at a private family service.

Suspect released in appeal

Twenty-nine year-old Juan Martinez Marquez — sentenced to 10 years in prison for aggravated assault Wednesday — was released from the Scurry County Jail Friday after posting an appeal bond.

District Attorney Ernie Armstrong said Friday morning that Marquez's attorney — Albert Perez of Lubbock — had announced his intention to appeal the sentencing prior to the adjournment of court Wednesday.

The defendant was released from jail after a $5,000 appearance appeal bond was filed and approved in 132nd District Court.

According to Armstrong, Marquez and his attorney now have about 90 days to "perfect" their appeal and file all necessary documents with the court of appeals in Eastland.

Under the terms of the bond granted today, he will remain free until the court rules on his appeal.

Marquez went on trial in the 132nd District Court Tuesday, charged with aggravated assault

Tax overhaul

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, which triggered outraged screams over its initial tax overhaul package, is letting business leaders know that the new version should be more to their liking.

But at the same time the administration is trying to strike a populist tone that paints the revised proposal as a gain for the average individual against special interests.

Those were the two themes Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III struck Thursday in a warm-up effort at selling the program which President Reagan will formally unveil in a nationally televised speech Tuesday night from the Oval Office.

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate has approved two bills to deal with what has been a major environmental issue for the past decade — the disposal of hazardous waste.

"For the first time, Texas will have taken a comprehensive approach to hazardous waste," bill sponsor Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, said after senators added several amendments to both proposals and sent them to the Hazardous wastes include sulfuric and hydrochloric acid, pesticide residues, degreasing agents and dry-cleaning fluids. Approximately 85 percent of hazardous wastes are generated by petroleum refineries and the chemical industry.

Husband labels hospital transfer 'kidnapping'

Henry Treat, who Thursday night questioned actions regarding the transfer of his wife and son from Cogdell Memorial on Sept. 27, 1982, said Friday morning he is not satisfied with answers given by hospital and county officials to his charges.

But, Treat said, for the moment he feels he has used up his options trying to have the hospital address his contention that his family was illegally transferred from the facility. "I call it kidnapping," he said Friday morning.

Treat, who farms near the Polar Community in adjacent Kent County, said his plans now were to get [illegible] forget this thing."

Thurday night's meeting between Treat and the hospital board ended with words exchanged between Treat and Chief of Staff Dr. James Howell, who questioned Treat's interpretation of medical records related to the incident.

Hospital Board Chairman Leon Autry adjourned the meeting at 8:13 p.m. Treat began his scheduled presentation to the board shortly after 7:30 p.m.

Before the hearing began, Board President Leon Autry reminded Treat that the board's agreement to meet with him did not require hospital staffers to answer any questions he might Hospital administrator Cy [illegible] Miller along with business manager Don Sealy, Chief of Staff Howell in addition to County Judge Preston Wilson did respond to some of the allegations made by Treat as the hearing progressed, however.

Treat opened his presentation by distributing copies of hospital nurses's records and transfer orders to board members, hospital staffers and media representatives present.

The records presented related to the hospitalization and subsequent transfer to Lubbock General Hospital of Treat's wife Dorothy and son Ray on the evening of Sept. 27, 1982.

Both were first hospitalized Shashi Rao for treatment of burns sustained in a fire at the Treat residence just over the Scurry County line in Kent County.

Treat's contention was the records demonstrated that both his wife and son were illegally transferred without his knowledge and prior to the issuance of transfer orders by Rao.

He presented copies of the transfer orders obtained from both Cogdell and the Lubbock hospital.

According to him, differences in the copies obtained in Lubbock and those obtained in Snyder showed that someone here had altered the medication orders [illegible] the transfer.

He pointed to differences in time related to the transfer, to include an order from Dr. Rao to transfer the Treats at 7:30 p.m., predated by an ambulance call for the transfer at 6:30 p.m.

Times recorded on the transfer orders, nurses notes, Rao's notes and admission notes from a Dr. Duncan in Lubbock indicated the transfer was carried out on orders from someone other than Dr. Rao, he said.

After leading those present through the records, pointing out what he felt were differences and alterations, Treat told the board he believed that Miller and Sealy had ordered the transfer out of Cogdell due to a hospital bill ow-

Computer program to compare patient care

The board of managers for Cogdell Memorial Hospital heard a report Thursday from Chief of Staff Dr. James Howell regarding a new computer program capable of comparing medical records and treatment.

In addition, the board was offered a report from Business Manager Don Sealy as to progress regarding bad debt collection for the facility.

Dr. Howell reported to the board on the purchase of software and hardware for the QIS-Quality Information System he had been evaluating over the past month.

The new computer program is designed to allow medical records personnel to compare data from all the patient charts at the hospital and then generate print outs.

This will allow the medical staff executive committee to review various aspects of hospital performance.

Specifically, the system will allow the committee to moniter overall staff performance in areas of infection control and adminstration of appropriate treatment for patients.

Baseball playoffs to resume

ORANGE, Texas (AP) — The state Class 5A baseball playoffs can resume, according to one state district judge, but the court fight over the state's controversial "no-pass, no-play" rule headed for the state Supreme Court today.

State District Judge David Dunn of Orange on Thursday ordered the University Interscholastic League to resume the playoffs, delayed by a court order since May 15, and further ordered that the playoffs must include West Orange Stark.

Dunn said the rule that prohibits a student from participation in extracurricular activities if he or she is failing any subjects, is constitutional and ordered the UIL to enforce the law.

Dunn's ruling on the constitutionality of the state statute conflicts with a ruling in Houston by State District Judge Marsha Anthony, who ordered seven Houston area school districts, including Aldine, not to enforce the statute.

Last Friday, Ms. Anthony said the "no-pass, no-play" rule, part of last summer's educational reform package that was made effective earlier this year by the State Board of Education, was unconstitutional but did not sign her order until late Thursday.

After obtaining Dunn's order Thursday resuming the playoffs, Assistant State Attorney General Kevin O'Hanlon said he would take Judge Anthony's order directly to the state Supreme Court today to seek a resolution to the conflict.

Ms. Anthony had ordered the Aldine school district not to enforce the "no-pass, no-play" rule, allowing them to use two ineligible players in their series against West Orange Stark.

But Mrs. Bennie Dallas, the mother of a West Orange Stark player, obtained a temporary restraining order from Dunn, halting all Class 5A action until the matter was settled.

Mrs. Dallas was angered because her son Johnny, had been ineligible for a six-week period but abided by the law. She went to court after seeing Aldine use the ineligible players in defeating West Orange Stark.

"They (Aldine) were almost flaunting it, I thought," Mrs. Dallas said. "It was like they were determined to use those players. I just felt somebody had to do something."

Jerry Pennington, representing Mrs. Dallas, told Judge Dunn "Johnny Dallas brought his grades up and that's to his benefit. But what I think should be on the court's mind is what will the other Johnny Dallas' do in the future if the law is not upheld?"

Connie Ode, attorney for the UIL, said the UIL had ordered Aldine to forfeit its playoff game against West Orange Stark prior to being served with a temporary restraining order telling the league not to enforce "no-pass, no-play."

Ode said since the UIL had already forfeited Aldine, the restraining order could not be applied retroactively.

UIL Director Bailey Marshall said he would begin notifying the 31 teams still participating in the Class 5A playoffs to complete their second round series by Saturday.

Marshall said he'd then try to get the 16 remaining teams to hold regional tournaments and get at least one game in by next Wednesday.

Marshall said he hoped to have the four regional finalists determined in time for the state tournament June 6-7.

Ms. Anthony said Thursday after signing her seven-page order that she was unaware of the ruling made about one hour earlier by Dunn.

"I wasn't aware of anything that Judge Dunn had done. I think that what Judge Dunn does is Judge Dunn's business," said Ms. Anthony, a former teacher.

Patrick Wiseman, chief of state and county affairs for Attorney General Jim Mattox, said he hoped the state Supreme Court would rule on an appeal of Ms. Anthony's order by this afternoon.

Wiseman said the contradiction of the two judges' rulings is "somewhat unusual."

"But they are courts of equal jursidicion and there is nothing to preclude two courts from giving conflicting orders," Wiseman said.

According to Ms. Anthony's order, "extracurricular activities are valuable educational activities" and the no-pass, no-play rule deprives the plaintiff students of "their participation of the varied extracurricular activities, the freedom of association with their peers, personal and family privacy and the right of private family discipline."

New Law Gives Single Mothers A Hand in Collecting Support

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a single mother who has had difficulty getting child support for the last 10 years. I became so desperate, I even took my ex-husband back to court, but it didn't do any good. I spent hundreds of dollars on legal fees. Finally, I just gave up.

I recently discovered that there is a new federal law for child support enforcement. There are state and local agencies that collect child support for women in my situation, and their fees are very small compared to what most lawyers charge.

Abby, not many woman are aware of this, but they do read your column. Please let them know about this new law.

HELPED AT LAST

DEAR HELPED: Thanks for wanting to help others as you have been helped.

In investigating the problems concerning child support, I came upon a wonderful new handbook titled, "Handbook on Child Support Enforcement." Some questions that are answered:

— My boyfriend and I are still in high school, and our baby is 6 months old. Why should legal paternity be established if the father has no money to support the child?

— What if he denies he is the father, or says he's not sure?

— The father of my child is in the Army, but I don't know where he's stationed. Can the enforcement agency find him?

— My ex-husband is in the Navy. Can I get his child support payments deducted from his paycheck?

— My ex-husband has a good job and he's willing to have the support payments deducted from his paycheck, but his employer won't do it. Now what?

— Can I force my children's father to include them under the group health insurance where he works?

— My ex-husband has remarried and has another family to support. How will this affect the support of my children?

— How can I get my child support increased?

— I think the child's father is still in the area. What information will the enforcement office need to find him?

— What if I don't have his Social Security number?

— The father of my child is in jail. Can I get support?

— I heard that my children's father is buying a very expensive car. He owes over $5,000 in back support. Can the credit agency be told this?

— As soon as my children's father is notified about child support enforcement, he moves. What should I do?

— My children and I need financial assistance now. Their father left us 10 years ago. Will they still try to find him, or is it too late?

For a free copy of the new "Handbook on Child Support Enforcement," write: "Child Support Handbook," Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. This helpful booklet is free to anyone who requests it. Be sure to include your name and address, clearly printed.

1980 Penthouse Pet of Year suing for unreceived prizes

NEW YORK (AP) — Cheryl Rixon, 1980 Penthouse Pet of the Year, says she is suing the magazine for $5 million because she got only a fraction of the prizes promised.

Miss Rixon, 31, an Australian, says she didn't get a $75,000 handmade Diamante convertible, a motorcycle, a whirlpool tub, a cruise, an acting scholarship, Godiva chocolates and legal sessions with attorney Marvin Mitchelson.

In testimony in her suit Wednesday, she said she did get a Subaru car, a fur coat, a pearl necklace, a bicycle, cameras, watches, luggage, lingerie, leather clothing and other items.

"Then I had to pay taxes on the estimated worth of the gifts, which Penthouse had inflated," she added.

Penthouse lawyer Roy Grutman said the prizes are donated by advertisers and recipients must arrange to collect them.

BUDDY POPPIES — Rod Waller, mayor of Snyder, signed a proclamation for the annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Tuesday, May 21. The VFW will sell the poppies for any donation and the money will be used for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans. Friday, they will be at the banks and on Saturday they will be around the square. Monday they will be selling the poppies at the VFW Post. Pictured with Waller are (from left to right) Sabrina Davidson, Buddy Poppy Girl and daughter of Sherry Clayton; Shirley Minyard, president of the auxiliary; Jan Johnson, Buddy Poppy chairman; and Ken Minyard, senior vice commander of the VFW Post.

Buddy Poppy Day slated

Buddy Poppies will be sold for donations by the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Friday, Saturday and Monday.

The poppy represents and honors those who died in this nation's wars by bringing aid to those who fought beside them. Donations are used for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans.

The general purpose of the Buddy Poppy Day is to..."Honor the Dead by Helping the Living."

On Friday members of the VFW and other volunteer groups will be stationed in the banks where they will sell the poppy for donations. On Saturday, they will work around the square and on Monday, the poppies will be sold at the VFW Post.

Mayor Rod Waller signed a proclamation urging all..."patriotic citizens to wear a Buddy Poppy as mute evidence of our gratitude to the men of this country who have risked their lives in defense of the freedoms which we continue to enjoy as American citizens."

On Monday, the VFW will hold a flag raising at the VFW Post at 8:30 a.m. and then move to the American Legion for a similiar ceremony. From there the group will go to the old cemetery and then to Hillside Cemetery. In conclusion of the day's special activities a memorial service will be conducted at 10 a.m. on the courthouse lawn in front of the memorial.

GAY 20'S — Members of the Gay 20's Club will be assisting the VFW with the sale of the Buddy Poppy Saturday, May 25 on the courthouse square. Bridal shower fetes Miss Gwen Scrivner

Gwen Scrivner was honored with a bridal shower Saturday, May 18 in the Colonial Hill Baptist Church. She is the bride elect of Eddie Thompson.

The serving table was covered with a white floor length cloth. The centerpiece was fashioned of burgandy and pink silk flowers nestled in a crystal vase. A silver punch bowl placed on a matching platter and a silver coffee service flanked the arrangement. Crystal appointments completed the setting. Guests were served an assortment of cookies, nuts, punch and coffee.

Pam Murry and Julie Kimmel assisted the guests with refreshments.

The registration table was covered with a floor length white cloth and was accented with an arrangement of pink silk flowers nestled in a crystal vase. A pink satin ribbon enhanced the arrangement. The bride's book and a white feathered pen completed the arrangement.

Margaret Easterwood assisted the guests as they registered.

Individual tables were graced with white linen cloths and featured crystal candle holders complete with lighted pink candles and accented with miniature bouquets of pale pink flowers.

Hostess for the affair included Barbara Williamson, Carol Young, Maxie McNew, Nell Walker, Donna Wilson, Louise Brumley, Velma Lou Lear, Sharon Groves, Barbara McGee, Nancy Goldsmith, Betty Hataway, Wanda West, Helen Mock, Nona Williams, Margaret Easterwood, Pam Murray, Faye Layne, Genetha Payne, Carolyn Cox, Julie Kimmell and Gay Kimmel.

On Jan. 31, 1971, astronauts Alan Shepard, Edgar Mitchell and Stuart Roose landed safely in the Pacific Ocean in their Apollo 14 spacecraft after the third moon landing.

CHEESE SOUFFLE FOR TWO

2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1-8 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon dry mustard
½ cup milk
2 ounces sharp cheddar cheese, grated medium fine
2 large eggs, separated

In a 1 ½ quart saucepan over low heat, melt the butter, stir in the flour, salt and mustard. Off heat, gradually stir in milk, keeping smooth. Cook over moderately low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat; add cheese and whisk until melted; whisk in egg yolks, one at a time. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into cheese mixture. Turn into individual souffle dishes, about 4 ½ by 2 inches and each holding about 1 ½ cups.

Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven until puffed and brown — 20 minutes for firm souffles. Serve at once because souffles sink rapidly. Makes 2 servings.

Abortion plan fails in House

AUSTIN (AP) — The state agency that dictates who can build hospitals and nursing homes died in the House Thursday, dragging with it the abortion regulation push.

A bid to salvage the Texas Health Facilities Commission by adding an abortion regulation measure flopped, succeeding only in raising the ire of pro-life legislators.

Cleburne Rep. Bruce Gibson, a commission supporter, tried to lure conservative votes with an amendment to let the commission license abortion clinics.

But the House voted 98-49 against considering the bill that would have kept the three-member commission in operation through 1989. Barring any change before the session ends Monday, the commission disappears Sept. 1.

Commissioner Dora McDonald contended that unregulated health care will be costly, adding that there will be "hospitals like 7-Elevens, on every other street corner."

The abortion issue became tangled with the commission after pro-life lawmakers decided against offering an abortion regulation amendment to a Department of Healt bill.

Pro-life lawmakers said they were insulted that their issue was being used to make a deal on the facilities commission.

Rep. Bill Ceverha, R-Richardson, called it a bid to "salvage what's a lousy bill in the first place."

Rep. Bruce Gibson, D-Cleburne, said the abortion regulation amendment was an attempt to lure votes from conservatives who don't like the Health Facilities Commission, but favor abortion regulation.

As a result of the strange legislative twist, abortion foes who came to town confident they could score a big win this year wound up voting against abortion regulation.

The Health Facilities Commission and abortion proved to be a combination of controversies that produced the year's most earnest debate in the sometimes raucous House.

Since 1975, the commission has controlled the health care industry by doling out "certificates of need." To build a new facility or make changes in an existing one, applicants have to persuade the three-member commission that the additional service is needed.

The idea was to prevent costly duplication of service. Rep. Brad Wright, R-Houston, said all the commission has managed to do is protect people already in business and produce work for Austin lawyers.

Gibson said the commission is the only hedge against overbuilding of hospitals. Free enterprise has lost control of health care because of health insurance, he said.

"When we get too many hospitals and the occupancy drops, there is pressure on doctors to admit more patients. There is pressure on hospitals to make sure they stay there as long as they possibly can," he said.

Health care deregulation will produce the same results as airline deregulation, Gibson predicted.

"There's first class, coach and a lot of people who can't afford to fly," he said.

Amniocentesis carries risks

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My sister is 40, pregnant and about ready to go through amniocentesis. Can you tell me about the procedure? Is it something you recommend for your patients?

DEAR READER — Amniocentesis is a technique employed by obstetricians to extract, from the mother's womb, a small amount of the fluid that surrounds the unborn baby. The procedure is performed with a long needle, under local anesthesia, with sonographic monitoring.

What the doctor is really interested in are cells shed by the baby that float freely in the amniotic fluid. Using special methods, these cells are minutely examined to determine, among other things, whether the baby has the proper number of chromosomes.

Because older mothers have a higher incidence of deformed babies, analysis of the unborn infant's chromosomes will enable the obstetrician to verify the likelihood that the child will — or will not — have problems. The sex of the baby also can be determined by chromosomal examination.

Aside from the apprehension and discomfort of amniocentesis, there are two major risks. The obstetrician may inadvertently introduce infection into the amniotic sac or the expectant mother may be propelled into premature labor. Both complications are serious. Barring these unpleasant consequences, however, amniocentesis is a useful and appropriate tool for some — but by no means all — pregnant women.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Do the hairs in the nostrils and ears serve any useful purpose? Is there any harm in keeping both areas closely cropped?

DEAR READER — Doctors don't have the faintest idea what purpose is served by certain body parts. Only recently, for instance, has the medical profession speculated that the appendix might serve some useful function.

Except for providing protection from the sun and enabling cosmetics firms to make millions of dollars from conditioners and shampoos, human hair seems to be a leftover from bygone eons when our ancestors required fur for warmth and protection.

Perhaps I am incorrect in assuming that nostril and ear hair is there to prevent bugs and dust from entering noses and ears. Maybe that's true, maybe not. But it makes some sense, and it's a lot more rational than some of the explanations doctors give. Crop to your heart's content; you're on your own.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have postnasal drip. The mucus drips down in my throat from my sinuses. In the morning I spit and cough and try to clear my throat. Is there a medication that will eliminate this?

DEAR READER — Antihistamines may reduce your post-nasal drip and allow you a decent night's sleep. On the other hand, why not try to identify the causes? You could be allergic to the feathers in your pillow, pollen, dust, wool, your dog — in fact, anything in your environment.

If you don't want to bother identifying environmental factors causing your drip, you can support your local allergist while he does the work for you.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

Walker said to have begun spying while on nuclear sub

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired Navy communications specialist began spying for the Soviet Union while serving aboard a U.S. nuclear missile submarine 19 years ago, according to U.S. intelligence sources.

The intelligence community sources, who asked not to be named, disclosed that John Anthony Walker Jr.'s alleged spy career began in 1966, as much as four years earlier than previously acknowledged by the government.

From August 1965 to April 1967, when he allegedly was recruited by the Soviets, Walker was stationed on the U.S.S. Simon Bolivar, a nuclear submarine armed with strategic missiles such as the Polaris and later the Poseidon, targeted on the Soviet Union.

This disclosure came after a top FBI official said Thursday the bureau expects to arrest more Americans in the alleged spy ring. Walker's 22-year-old son, Michael, a seaman on the nuclear aircraft carrier Nimitz, already has been charged with supplying documents for his father to give to the Soviets.

Also on Thursday, State Department sources said the Soviet Union has recalled a diplomat involved in the case. The Soviet official, who is expected to leave this country soon, was spotted Sunday by FBI agents near a rural drop site outside Washington.

Father cheering on surviving newborns

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — Samuel Frustaci caressed two of his six newborn babies and told the tiniest to "keep fighting" as five of the critically ill infants got better while awaiting their mother's first visit.

"It's important for her to see these children she carried for all this time," said Dr. Martin Feldman, Patricia Frustaci's obstetrician. "Right now they're just photographs and images she's seen on a TV screen."

Mrs. Frustaci has been in good condition in intensive care at St. Joseph Hospital since she delivered four boys, two girls and a stillborn girl Tuesday morning. She probably will be taken by wheelchair to adjacent Childrens Hospital of Orange County to visit the babies for the first time tonight or Saturday morning, Feldman said.

Officials said they expected the Frustacis to name the infants soon. Until then they are babies A through F, although the smallest, 1-pound baby boy F, was nicknamed "the little Peanut."

On a visit Thursday to the newborn intensive care unit, Frustaci caressed the chests and feet of Peanut and baby girl A. He said he wanted to name her Anna Maria, but dubbed her Bigfoot.

Dr. Carrie Worcester, newborn intensive care director at Childrens Hospital, said Thursday that baby girl A was significantly better than on Wednesday, baby B, C and E were improved and girl D was quite sick but still somewhat improved. Peanut, the smallest and sickest, was unchanged.

Heart murmurs, which had indicated a duct between the aorta and the arteries to the lungs failed to close, vanished in all the infants except Peanut after they were given a three-dose treatment with the drug indomethacin, Ms. Worcester said.

She added all the babies but the smallest had better than 50-50 survival odds, but were still combatting a lung disorder that left them dependent on oxygen and respirators.

"They're very active babies, incredibly active," Ms. Worcester said. "That's a good sign."

Frustaci visited Peanut and the first baby girl Thursday afternoon in a session that was videotaped and shown later to reporters.

"You keep fighting now," the 32-year-old salesman cooed to the tiny boy. "Keep up the good work. Don't let anybody tell you different."

Appeal slated in jury verdict in connection with the Feb. 10 shooting and wounding of Jesus Villasana of 2901 Ave. J.

The defendant changed his plea to guilty Tuesday afternoon — after testimony in the trial had already begun.

He then asked the jury to set his punishment.

Testimony regarding possible sentencing for Marquez lasted through 3 p.m. Wednesday when the case was given to the six-man, six-woman jury for deliberation.

They returned their [illegible] sentence for the defendant after 45 minutes deliberation.

Armstrong said Friday that he would likely not have any specific information regarding Marquez's grounds of appeal until the defendant's filings with the appeals court are completed.

Germany violated the Treaty of Versailles in 1936 by occupying the Rhineland.

American jurist and scholar Oliver Wendell Holmes died in 1836. He was 94.

State can't continue building more prisons

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The state must start considering other means to incarcerating some non-violent prisoners or else risk returning to court to deal with more overcrowding problems, the chief attorney for the Texas Department of Corrections says.

"We can't continue to build prisons to keep pace with growth," said attorney Steve Martin during a Sam Houston State University seminar.

"If we don't get a hold of the growth, then we'll be right back at the courthouse, in litigation over the crowding issue," he said.

Martin, along with TDC Director Raymond K. Procunier, last week negotiated a settlement in a 13-year legal battle over prison overcrowding.

The settlement given preliminary approval Tuesday by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice does not limit the number of people the state can imprison, but puts a cap on the number of inmates in the state's 26 prisons.

The present prison population will have to be reduced by about 5,000 inmates by Sept. 1, 1989.

But if the prison population continues to grow at its current rate, TDC will add 11,300 inmates in the next four years and grow to 49,300 prisoners from the present 38,000.

The growth would require 25 new dormitories and five more maximum security prisons.

The Legislature did not allocate money for the extensive growth program, which could cost up to $250 million more, Martin said.

Legislators did, however, earmark about $100 million for construction of prison bed space, including $18 million to build 10 prison work camps for 200 inmates each.

The prison work camps will be built on existing TDC property and be surrounded by high barbed-wire security fence, but no guard towers.

"We're going to place the cream of the crop of inmates in these camps," Martin said.

If the camps prove to be successful, Martin said they conceivably could be moved closer to communities where prisoners could get jobs and help feed their families.

In a critique of the prison reform lawsuit filed in 1972 by inmate David Ruiz, Martin attacked what he called the TDC's old legal strategy of denying any problems existed and hoping reform efforts would go away.

Program ok'd for hospital computer terminal and printer.

Howell told the board that he expected the equipment to be in place and at least partially operational by the time of the hospital's next accreditation inspections on June 6-8.

The board also heard a report from Sealy on ongoing bad debt collection efforts.

He told the board that two of five small claims cases filed with Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway have resulted in calls to him from the debtors involved.

The other three small claims cases which the JP's office has attempted to serve thus far have returned due to bad addresses for the defendants.

No action has yet been taken on the larger cases previously approved for filing in 132nd District Court.

Those filings are awaiting an opinion from the Texas Attorney General's office as to whether or not board member Dan Colton's son David can serve as attorney of record for the hospital.

Action on those filings is expected to proceed either with Colton as attorney or with another attorney when that opinion is returned to the county attorney's office.

In other action, the board approved the minutes of their previous meeting and the monthly administrator's report.

Questions to Cogdell board ed by his son Ray.

Treat told the board that Sealy had approached his son about the unpaid bill shortly after he was admitted to the hospital.

He reported also that Sealy told Ray's wife, "there would be no doctoring 'till the bill was seen to."

At this point in the proceedings — about 20 minutes after they began — Treat voiced his disapproval of the way previous meetings had been handled between himself and hospital administrators, the board and members of the commissioners court.

He told the group also he was dissatisfied with not being allowed to ask questions of hospital personnel Thursday.

At this point, Wilson — attending the meeting in his capacity as an ex-officio member of the board — spoke to deny Treat's contention that he had hindered the distribution of papers from Treat to other members of the commissioner's court.

Miller then entered the discussion telling Treat, "The law does not give me the authority to admit, dismiss, transfer or order medication for any patient in this hospital."

Treat then repeated his contention that Miller or Sealy had ordered the transfer of his wife and they had then tried to cover up the facts.

Miller replied, "You asked me for copies of the records. I would not have given permission for the copies if I had anything to cover up."

Shortly thereafter, Dr. Howell indicated to Treat he was misinterpreting what he was seeing written on the charts.

Treat then asked the doctor to interpret the chart for him.

Howell refused, saying that he was not in a court of law and not under oath and would not interpret the chart.

A further exchange of words between the two men then prompted Autry to adjourn the meeting.

All parties then left the hospital conference room without further conversation.

Lone incident leads to 9 misdemeanor arrests

A reported attempt to sell stolen property at Furr's Supermarket late Thursday afternoon ultimately led to nine misdemeanor arrests by Snyder police officers.

Shortly after officers arrived at the store to check out a 6:25 p.m. report of a man attempting to sell a clock allegedly stolen, they encountered a group of seven men reportedly loitering around the store.

All of these suspects were arrested on charges of public intoxication.

As officers were leaving the scene — around 6:40 p.m. — they observed three subjects fighting on the store parking lot.

Two of those men — one 28 and the other 20 years of age — were arrested and charged with public intoxication with the elder subject also charged with disorderly conduct.

The younger of these two was also charged with resisting arrest at that time.

Misdemeanor assault charges were also filed against the 28-year-old subject by the third individual involved in the altercation later in the evening.

Five other misdemeanor arrests were recorded later Thursday.

Two local men were charged with public intoxication and two others with driving while intoxicated.

One of the DWI suspects was also charged with unlawfully carrying a weapon.

The 12th subject arrested for the day was charged with possession of marijuana in a quantity less than two ounces.

Two juveniles — ages 14 and 16 — were with him at the time of his arrest. They were detained by police but later released to the custody of their parents with no charges filed.

Ask The Preacher
about...
"Speaking in Tongues"
By Randall Gray

There are a great many people in the religious world with a lot of different ideas about this controversial subject. Let me give you three points to consider.

1. "Tongue Speaking" does not mean "gibberish." In the Bible, every mention of "speaking in tongues," refers to the speaking of known languages of that day. The word "tongue," as used in this context, actually means "language." See Acts 2: 1-11.

2. "Tongue Speaking" had a purpose. "Tongues," like all miracles, were designed to be used to confirm the word of God. See I Cor. 14: 22, Mark 16: 20 and Heb. 2: 4.

3. The purpose for, and the gift of "Tongue Speaking" has ceased. I Cor. 13: 8-10 tells us that tongue speaking, like the miracle of prophecy, was to cease when the completed, perfect word was finished. When the entire New Testament was finished miracles were no longer needed to confirm God's word. That is done by the now-completed Bible. Thus miracles, including "tongues," have come to an end. They simply do not exist today.

Houston, Oklahoma also win...

UT survives Grambling, 4-3

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A 12-inning marathon in the NCAA Central Regional baseball tournament came down to a controversial call at home plate as Grambling catcher Ira Tieuel tried to tag Texas' Doug Hodo on a drag bunt.

Umpire Ron Graham ruled Hodo safe, and the host Texas Longhorns finally snared a 4-3 victory Thursday night.

Texas moves on to face Houston at 7:30 p.m. today while Grambling plays Oklahoma at 4:40 p.m. Lamar and Louisiana State were paired in a noon contest.

Houston defeated LSU 11-4 and Oklahoma beat Lamar 9-1 in Thursday's other first-round games.

"We played extremely well but Texas played better," Grambling coach Wilbert Ellis said.

Texas, 57-12, had been struggling all night against Grambling's Gary Eave, and the game was still tied 3-3 going into the 12th. Pinch-hitter Doug Hodo led off the 12th with a single and was sacrificed to second by Coby Kerlin.

Bill Bates advanced Hodo to third before Dennis Cook delivered the winning bunt. The call at the plate "was close," Ellis said.

"I questioned the umpire, but he said he was on top of it. We don't like to get into controversies with umpires. We thought he was out, but the umpire said he was safe. We are true champions. We won't quit, we'll be back tomorrow."

Sixth-seeded Grambling, 36-15-1, earned the respect of Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson, who was forced to bring in his ace Greg Swindell with one out in the seventh. Swindell, 16-1, replaced starter Mike Poehl and held the Tigers to two hits while striking out six in 5-2-3 innings of relief.

"It was a big win for us but a costly one," Gustafson said.

"We really didn't want to us Greg tonight. I thought Mike Poehl pitched well, but he got a blister on his hand in the seventh inning and had to come out. Greg will pitch Saturday, and Bruce Ruffin will pitch tomorrow against Houston."

Earlier in the day, Houston, scoring three runs in the top of the first, relied on solid defense and the arm of pitcher Mike Walker to down Louisiana State 11-4.

Joe Simms started the Cougars on their way when he drove in two runs with a two-out double in the bottom of the first. That shot knocked out LSU starter and loser Robbie Smith. Pat Hewes followed with an RBI single to give Houston a 3-0 lead.

In the day's first game, 54-12 Oklahoma jumped out on Lamar starter and loser Mike Wilkins in the third inning with six runs on seven hits.

A two-run double was the big blow as the Sooners batted around. Joe Jordan led off the second with a single. Four other OU batters had the same success off Wilkins, until the double scored Rusty McGuiness and Jim Richardson to all but wrap up the game.

Winning pitcher for OU was lefty Scott Peters. He went six innings gave up 1 run on three hits and struck out five before giving way to Scott Hamilton.

Baseball camp slated Monday

Roland Herrera will be holding his baseball camp next Monday through Friday for boys ages 7 through 17.

The camp stresses fundamentals in hitting, throwing, catching and pitching. Fee is $30 per individual and includes insurance.

Registration will be held at the Snyder Athletic Center from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. Saturday. Individuals may also register Monday at the site of the camp which is the corner of 37th St. and Apple.

Boys age 7-8 will work out from 8:30 to 10 each morning; boys 9-12 from 10:10 until noon; and boys age 13-17 from 1:30 until 3:30. Chris Fryar, two-year letterman for Snyder High School's Tigers, will be assisting Herrera.

Boys are asked to bring a glove, cap and protective equipment to the camp. For further information, contact Herrera at 573-8236.

'Slingers get paid; still have problem

By The Associated Press

The paycheck-plagued San Antonio Gunslingers apparently have resolved one USFL Players Association grievance, but another appears to be just around the corner.

An arbitrator for the United States Football League union ruled Wednesday that the Gunslingers would have to make good on the April 30 payroll by May 31 or put 30 players on waivers.

Thursday, Guns General Manager Roger Gill delivered the April 30 payroll in the form of cashier's checks and cash to the unpaid players.

The team action satisfies the grievance "as long as they have paid everybody. The players assured me everyone on that list has been paid," said players association spokesman John Macik.

But the team has never been paid for the two-week period ending May 14, and Macik says another grievance may be in the offing.

"We're having a conference call Wednesday of next week" to determine if another grievance will be filed, Macik said from his office in Washington.

Thirty of the team's 51 players received paychecks that bounced April 30. The team failed to even issue paychecks May 14.

If a second grievance is filed, it would take until at least mid-June before the Gunslingers could be faced with waivers again. The final game of the season is June 23.

Macik said the contract calls for USFL teams to have a two-week grace period in which to make good on payrolls. Once that grace period has passed, a grievance may be filed.

The Gunslingers, 3-10, have been plagued with paycheck problems since the USFL season began.

"The players have done an extraordinary job under the circumstances," said Doug Allen, USFL Players Association director.

Rangers 7, Red Sox 6

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Gary Ward put on a show Thursday night with a grand slam, two singles, a walk and a stolen base to lead the Texas Rangers to a 7-6 win over the Boston Red Sox.

Ward also threw out the potential go-ahead run at the plate from left field in the top of the ninth inning.

"(Gary) did everything we asked of him tonight," said Ranger manager Bobby Valentine. "We asked him to make a throw, and he did. We asked him to hit, and he did. We asked him to steal, and he did. He's an outstanding ballplayer."

The Rangers scored the winning run on four walks in the ninth inning. After Cliff Johnson started the inning by popping out, Boston reliever Mark Clear, 1-1, walked Ward. Ward stole second and the Red Sox intentionally walked Larry Parrish.

Bob Ojeda relieved Clear and got Pete O'Brien on a long fly ball to right, but Ward and Parrish tagged and moved up. Ojeda then intentionally walked Glenn Brummer, bringing up Curtis Wilkerson, who walked on four straight pitches to pick up his first game-winning RBI of the season.

Jean Mayer sees hunger on increase in America

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unless recent cutbacks in food and nutrition programs are reversed, the United States will fall further behind in the war against hunger, says Dr. Jean Mayer, who has led the nation's anti-hunger efforts.

"There is good evidence that by 1978 we had succeeded in roughly eradicating hunger and malnutrition in the United States," Mayer told a House hearing Thursday. But, he added, "we are backsliding."

Mayer, president of Tufts University, was chairman of the 1969 White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health and vice chairman of the 1979-1980 Presidential Commission on World Hunger.

Saying "there is increasing evidence that hunger and malnutrition are reappearing among poor children in this country," Mayer called for expanding the food stamp program, school lunch and breakfast programs and the special feeding program for women and infants.

"The cutbacks in funding since 1980, coupled with inflation and recession, have wiped out as much as a third of the gains," Mayer said.

Other witnesses before the joint hearing of the House Select Committee on Hunger and the Energy and Commerce subcommittee on health and the environment cited studies they said documented problems of hunger and malnutrition.

The women and infants program in New Mexico reported to the Physician Task Force on Hunger in America in 1984 that 18 percent of pregnant women entering the program are underweight, said Dr. Aaron Shirley, chairman of the board of trustees of the Mississippi Medical and Surgical Association.

A Minneapolis study found that 33 percent of pregnant women applying to its program were anemic, he said. In 1982, Houston's infant mortality rate in a poor section was 23 per 1,000 live births compared with 10 per 1,000 live births in a more affluent area, Shirley said.

"In Boston, close examination of neighborhood-specific data showed that in the poorest sections of the city, infant mort[illegible] rate rose 46 percent from 1981 to 1982," he said.

Every dollar spent on the women and infants program saves $3 the same year in medical costs, Mayer said. "Of all the stupid ways of saving money, probably not feeding pregnant women is the most stupid," he added.

Because so much money is being put into the arms race in the United States and the Soviet Union, he said, "I think children in both countries are beginning to live in the rubble of World War III."

On Wednesday, the Congressional Budget Office and the Congressional Research Service released a study that said more than one in five American children are now living in poverty. The study, "Children in Poverty," said the number of poor children increased by 3 million from 1968 to 1983 even though the total population of children decreased by 9 million during that time. The report said the poverty threshold for a family of three was roughly $8,000 in 1983.

Dissidents call for restraints

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Two leading dissidents today urged restraint on student protesters who have barricaded themselves in the second floor library of the U.S. Information Service building and vowed to "fast to the end."

The students are protesting a 1980 military operation in the southern city of Kwanju in which at least 191 people died.

An anonymous caller to offices of foreign news organizations, who identified himself as a spokesman for the students, demanded the government identify within 72 hours the person directly responsible for the military operation that crushed the Kwanju uprising.

Unless the demand is met, a "grave situation" will arise, and the government will be responsible for the consequences, the caller said. He said the protesters expected the United States to pressure South Korea to meet the students' demands.

At least 60 South Korean students took over the library on Thursday, demanding the United States withdraw support of the government, apologize for an alleged role in the crackdown on the 1980 uprising, and "withdraw all economic measures disadvantageous to the Korean people," according to leaflets they distributed.

U.S. officials have repeatedly denied there was any U.S. involvement or responsibility for what occurred at Kwangju.

Unconfirmed reports said South Korean authorities had suggested action to end the library occupation. However, one U.S. embassy official said: "We are not asking any intervention by any Korean authorities."

Juan Peron was elected president of Argentina in 1946.

Police perplexed by thieves

HUTCHINS, Texas (AP) — In the past four months, more than 100 hogs have disappeared from the secluded, unguarded pig pens in the northern portions of this suburb on the southeast fringe of Dallas.

Police Chief Gary Coppinger said the ham scam has his six-member police department baffled.

He thought he had the culprit last week, he said. Acting on an anonymous tip, he spent an evening watching a muddy pig pen, waiting for the rustler or rustlers to show up.

No one ever did. But pigs were pilfered that night from a farm at Cleburne, about 40 miles to the southwest.

"We thought we had them down, but they must have a pretty good operation going. We missed them entirely," Coppinger told the Dallas Times Herald.

"We don't know how they do it, whether they lure them into a truck or just pick them up and take them away. We have no ideas, no clues to go on."

The rustlers probably sell the animals to packing plants through auction houses in Athens, Terrell and cities in neighboring counties, the police chief speculates.

Tainted gasoline costing car owners thousands in repairs

HOUSTON (AP) — Engine problems that may cost thousands of dollars to repair have plagued about 1,000 people who filled their car and truck tanks with what appears to be tainted gasoline.

"Even sugar won't do this," said Rusty Hurrell, service manager at Wiesmer Buick-Pontiac in Conroe, where three cars were being repaired.

The gas was sold at convenience stores in Conroe, Tomball, Hempstead, Baytown and northeast Houston, was provided by Discovery Petroleum Co. of Houston and distributed by Texas Gas & Oil Co., also of Houston.

Mazie Thompson, one of about 75 people who complained Wednesday to the state attorney general's office in Houston, said her husband bought bad gas May 14 at a Houston convenience store.

An attendant at that store said 200 to 300 people had bought the gasoline.

The fuel emitted a sweet odor suggestive of licorice or turpentine. One dealership's service manager said the contaminant acts like shellac, gluing engine parts together when heated.

Mike Callen, a spokesman for Discovery's insurance company, would not disclose what foreign substance was in the gasoline, where the company obtained it or how many stations sold it.

"I'm not sure how widespread it is," said Callan, who added that the bad gasoline had been removed from all stations.

But not quick enough to prevent a Conroe woman from buying a tankful of the contaminated gasoline for her $18,000 Buick LeSabre. Now she faces a $2,000 repair bill — and the car has only 400 miles on it, Hurrell said.

"She's 81 years old and doesn't want the car back," he said. "I can't say I blame her, but I'm caught in the middle."

Cloud seeding begins

UVALDE, Texas (AP) — A cloud seeding project sponsored by the city of Corpus Christi has been launched and a second could be under way soon.

Officials of North America Weather Consultants began dropping silver iodide crystals into clouds over Frio and Atascosa counties Sunday, said Bob Swart, a meteorologist for the company.

The project is aimed at beefing up the water supply for Corpus Christi, hit hard last year by a severe drought that forced mandatory water rationing.

The Edwards Underground Water District, which provides water for San Antonio and four surrounding counties, has asked the Texas Water Commission to approve a permit for a second cloud seeding project.

A hearing on that permit has been set for June 3 in Austin.

Swart said if the permit is approved, it would take his company about a week to obtain another cloud seeding plane and begin the operation.

ATTENTION ADVERTISERS

The best shoppers are newspaper readers.

The Texas Poll research data confirm once again a basic fact of marketing life:

Newspapers provide the most efficient means of reaching the best prospects in Texas.

Daily and Sunday newspaper readership is strong. The majority of adults in Texas read a daily newspaper everyday of the week; two thirds read every Sunday. In terms of where Texans get most of their shopping information, newspaper leads mail by more than 2 to 1 and TV by almost 3 to 1.

More good news—readership is even stronger among upscale demographic groups. The highest income, occupation, and education groups are the strongest newspaper readership groups.
