Communists March Into Shanghai

Discharge Of Lilienthal Is Again Urged

By JAMES LEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Carroll Wilson, general manager of the Atomic Energy commission, testified today he is "sure" that "some" documents relating to the nation's atomic secrets have been stolen.

This statement highlighted a series of rapid developments on Capitol Hill today as committees investigated atomic and Communist activities in the United States. Other highlights were:

1. Wilson told the O'Mahoney Senate subcommittee that a security-test removal of two bars of uranium 235 from the Hanford (Wash.) atomic plant went undetected for nine months.

Safeguards Taken

(The General Electric Co., which operates the plant for the AEC, said in New York that the material taken Aug. 23, 1948, was natural uranium and not U-235; that GE knew about the removal on Sept. 7, 1948.

(The company also declared the security test was not a "fair" one since the security officer who took the uranium had gained access to a restricted area through the AEC. It added, however, that additional safeguards have been taken as a result of the test.)

Refuses To Answer

2. Dr. Clarence F. Hiskey, wartime atomic scientist charged with being a Communist, refused to tell the House un-American Activities committee whether he ever turned any atomic secrets over to unauthorized personnel. He said an answer might incriminate him.

3. AEC Chairman Lilienthal admitted before the O'Mahoney subcommittee that failure of his agency to report promptly the loss of uranium from the AEC's Chicago laboratory was "a substantial error."

4. An investigation into espionage in the United Nations was stalled when the witness, Phillip O. Keeney, former Army employe, failed to appear. Keeny's physician said he was ill.

Testimony Set Today

5. Rep. Church (R-Ill.), member of the House Appropriations committee, joined the congressional demand that Lilienthal resign.

6. The joint Congressional Atomic committee, headed by Sen. McMahon (D-Conn.) arranged to hear Rear Admiral John Gingrich tomorrow afternoon. Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) has said Gingrich, former commission security officer, resigned in "disgust."

7. AEC member Lewis Strauss testified before the O'Mahoney subcommittee for two hours in secret session before that group abandoned the inquiry to the McMahon committee. Members said they could not divulge what he said for security reasons.

Teacher Accused

Wilson's admission that the two uranium bars, weighing 10 pounds, were missing nine months sharply conflicted with an earlier AEC statement that they were gone only eight days.

At a House un-American Activities committee hearing, a for-

RETURN OF FOUR POWER RULE IS URGED

Red Proposals Rejected

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, May 24.—Russia proposed in the foreign ministers council tonight to wipe out the West German state and return German affairs to four-power control machinery. All three western powers immediately rejected the proposals made by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky.

The breakdown of four-power machinery led to the Berlin blockade.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson called the Russian suggestions "disappointing."

"My hopes are distinctly chilled," he said.

The first of the long-awaited Soviet proposals in this fourth effort of the foreign ministers to reach a German settlement were outlined by western power press officers after a meeting of nearly three hours. It was the second session of the conference. In effect Vishinsky's plan would:

Proposal Outlined

1. Nullify the West German state at Bonn by putting German control in the hands of a German state council under the Allied Control council. This German central governing body would be formed from the Communist economic regime of East Germany and the economic council of West Germany.

2. Give implied western recognition to the hand-picked East Communist regime by giving it an equal voice in control of German affairs.

3. Strip from western Germans the self-governing powers they have received in the western occupation statute by going back to the presently defunct Allied Control council. Russia wrecked this body by walking out in March, 1948.

Would Call New Election

4. Call for a new election in strife-torn Berlin of a government for all the city. (German Communists in 1948 drove the elected city government from the city hall in the east sector, set up their own East Berlin regime chosen at a snap election in a mass meeting, and boycotted the regular Berlin election so that only a West Berlin government was chosen.)

5. Wipe out the Ruhr authority which the three western powers, with Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, have set up. Russia would substitute control of the

TO BE READY FOR 1950-51 TERM

Contracts Awarded For Work On New East Broadway School Here

By CHARLES STONE
Avalanche Staff Writer

CONTRACTS totaling $212,695 for construction of a new 18-classroom school on East Broadway were let last night at the regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees of Lubbock Independent School district at the school business office.

The letting of contracts followed opening of bids by O. R. Walker, architect, for general construction, plumbing and heating, and electrical wiring and clock system. All contracts were awarded to local firms.

To Be Ready In 1950

Contract for general construction was let to Tidmore Construction company on a low bid of $182,945. The contract calls for the construction to be completed within a period of 360 days, which would make the school ready for occupancy at the beginning of the 1950-51 school term.

The plumbing and heating contract went to Rountree Plumbing company which submitted the low bid of $23,150. Fletcher Electric company was awarded the electric wiring and clock system contract

Childress Given 1950 Lions Meet

Election of Curtis A. Cryer, superintendent of schools at Borger, as district governor and acceptance of the bid of Childress for the 1950 convention marked the close of the annual district convention of Lions International here Tuesday.

Cryer was nominated to the post, succeeding Wm. R. Rutherford of Dumas, without opposition. No other city opposed Childress in bidding for the convention.

Formalities of the convention, which opened Monday, were closed out in a general assembly luncheon, attended by 250, at Hotel Lubbock Tuesday noon.

Passage of legislation assuring right-of-way of a blind person with a white cane and support of the movement for establishment of a free camp and recreational center for the underprivileged crippled children of Texas were advocated in resolutions approved by the convention Tuesday morning in the final session at the Clifton theatre. The convention also expressed the usual thanks to the host city and one to International President Eugene S. Briggs for his attendance at the convention.

Presentation of a Key of Nations to K. L. Riggs, member of the Lubbock club, was made by Dr. Briggs in the morning session.

Shivers Accused Of Seeking High Post

EASTLAND, May 24 (AP)—Lt. Gov. Allan Shivers was accused today of trying to get Governor Beauford Jester named ambassador to Mexico—so that he could slip into the governor's chair.

The report—promptly denied by both Shivers and Jester—came from state legislator Billie Mac Jobe of Putman.

Jobe is representative from the 107th flotorial district comprising Eastland and Callahan counties. Addressing the Eastland Lion's club today, he said,

"Lt. Governor Allan Shivers, when the Texas Senate was already two weeks behind with its work, left it for one and one-half weeks without anything to do, while he lobbied in Washington trying to get Governor Beauford Jester appointed as ambassador to Mexico so that he (Shivers) would succeed to the governor's office before Jester's term expired."

In Austin, Shivers said he had made no such effort in Washington last week. He said his trip was of a personal nature with the Bureau of Reclamation and that Jester's ambassadorship possibilities were not discussed.

Jester himself said "as far as I know, there's nothing to it."

Demo Chiefs Sharply Cut HST Program

By MORGAN REYNOLDS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 24—Democratic leaders drastically curtailed the administration's program for this session of Congress today by stripping the hotly contested health insurance and civil rights proposals off the "must" list.

At the same time, Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas indicated he expects no Senate action this session on President Truman's $4,000,000,000 tax boost plan, the new Brannan farm plan or the foreign arms program.

With a tentative Congress adjournment date set for July 31, these are the main bills he listed for priority action:

Change Protested

1. Extension of the reciprocal trade program—already approved by the House but presently stalled in the Senate.

2. Repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

3. Ratification of the North Atlantic security treaty, which requires only Senate approval by a two-thirds majority vote.

The Illinois Democrat sketched out these major decisions after first meeting with President Truman at the White House and then taking up the legislative program with members of the Senate Democratic policy committee.

Americans for Democratic Action promptly fired a statement of protest against halting the drive for the civil rights program.

Extra Session Not Discussed

Joseph L. Rauh, jr., chairman of the ADA's executive committee, said this was "more than a flag of surrender, it is a flat betrayal of the Democratic party platform."

Lucas said Democratic lieutenants will seek action before adjournment on the minimum wage boosts, as well as the international wheat agreement and pay raise for top government executives and for military personnel.

He told newsmen the White House parley—also attended by House Speaker Sam Rayburn—did not touch on the possibility of an extra session. He and Rayburn agreed that if the lawmakers can meet the streamlined legislative "must" schedule they can

Military Pay Bill Killed In House

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — A sudden House uprising led by young former GI's today killed a $400,000,000-a-year military pay boost bill, which would have given the biggest raises to the "high brass."

By a vote of 227 to 163, the bill was sent back to the Armed Services committee for "study." Rep. Kilday of Texas, floor manager for the measure, said "the bill is dead for several years to come."

One House member said the moral of the incident was this: "Be kind to an enlisted man, because some day he may be elected to Congress."

But Kilday laid the bill's defeat to a combination of factors.

Several Factors Responsible

"First there was the economy crowd," he said. "Then there were the young veterans who wanted to get some things off their chests. And finally the liberal element always has opposed anything for the military."

The bill provided for increases ranging from about three percent for the next to lowest grade enlisted men to almost 50 percent for admirals and generals. Backers of the measure explained that officers unlike enlisted men, hadn't had a general increase for years.

The upset was most directly traceable to a young Navy veteran, handsome Rep. Pat Sutton (D-

Tornado Warning System Is Organized By Tulia Official

TULIA, May 24 (AP)—A tornado warning system has been set up in this Panhandle city.

Fire Marshal John Rice asked citizens to watch for twisters and report to telephone operators here if they sight one. Operators are to blow three blasts on the town siren.

No tornadoes have hit the Tulia area this year, but this town is only 50 miles south of Amarillo which was struck by a twister a week and a half ago.

CITIES COULD RESTORE CONTROLS

Texas Senate Group Okays Plan To Drop Rent Curbs

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, May 24 — A Senate committee agreed today that rents should be decontrolled in Texas but added a provision allowing cities to reinstate rent control locally if necessary.

More than 200 landlords, tenants and spectators attended the highly controversial public hearing before the Senate State Affairs committee.

Testimony before the influential upper House group was highlighted by a brief speech from Brig. Gen. B. E. Gates, deputy commander of the Air Force Training Command in San Antonio. He urged the state to let rent control remain for at least another year.

Housing Claimed Plentiful

"We have a bunch of fine intelligent youngsters in the armed forces," he said, "and they are being forced to live in tenement conditions. . . Despite all this talk about plenty of rental housing, we still have trailer camps around every military installation. We want to get these kids out of the trailers and get them decent places to live. If we don't, they won't stay in the service much longer."

Proponents of the House bill by Rep. Carlton Moore of Houston which would lift rent control throughout the state contended that there was no housing shortage. Opponents argued that decontrol would hike rents unreasonably and asked that the decision be left to city councils more closely acquainted with local housing problems.

Houses Declared Padlocked

Many of the spectators in the Senate chamber were elderly men and women. Several times during testimony by proponents of the bill Senator A. M. Aikin, jr., of Paris, committee chairman, warned the crowd that the hearing was no place for applause or other demonstrations.

Although the committee voted unanimously in approving the bill after it had been amended, the group split 9-6 on adopting the amendment by Senator Warren McDonald of Tyler. McDonald's amendment would allow a city council to reinstate rent controls locally by city ordinance if it found a housing shortage existed.

Moore urged approval of his bill to "let that bunch of bureaucrats in Washington know that we are capable of running our own affairs."

He said there were 6,000 "rentable units in Houston padlocked because of rent control. And I have figures to show that there

More Cool Weather Is Forecast Over South Plains Today

A cool front that refused to remain stationary as predicted by the Weather bureau brought the South Plains considerably cooler weather Tuesday.

The front, which dropped temperatures at the Lubbock Weather station to 77 degrees yesterday, followed on the heels of a clear warm day that set a 93-degree record high for the year Monday.

Wind velocities as high as 32 miles an hour were generated by the front, and considerable dust was stirred up over some sections of the Plains.

Clouds Cover Area

A heavy cloud blanket covered the area early today, but no rain had been reported in the vicinity up to midnight.

Temperatures will continue slightly below normal today, the forecaster said, with a high of 82 degrees predicted for this afternoon. Thursday will be slightly warmer with a reading near the 90 degree mark expected. Skies will be partly cloudy today and tomorrow, the weatherman said. Meanwhile, stormy winds struck in the state again early

Nationalists Holding On In Parts Of City

By FRED HAMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Wednesday, May 25 —The Chinese Communists occupied the heart of Shanghai today without a fight but Nationalist machine guns barred the way into the northeastern part of the world's fourth largest city.

Green uniformed Red troops marched in from the southwest early today to the pealing of church bells—apparently the city's welcome.

By 10 a.m., the Communists had taken over the city down to the Bund, which fringes the west bank of the Whangpoo river, and to the north as far as Soochow creek, which bisects the city east and west.

Stationed On Bridges

Nationalist soldiers, however, still were stationed on the bridges over Soochow creek. Several armored cars stood on Garden bridge, near the point where Soochow empties into the Whangpoo.

Nationalist guns still commanded the famed Bund itself. They had machine gun nests at both ends.

Red troops had moved down to the Bund, but had not attacked the government forces on the bridges. However, those who walked out into the Bund drew Nationalist fire.

The Communists returned it, then withdrew into side streets leading to the thoroughfare.

Nationalists Surrender

Thousands of Communist troops were marching toward the Bund along Nanking Road, a main shopping street. Nanking Road runs three to four blocks south of Soochow creek through the heart of the business district.

Several hundred government soldiers surrendered in Yuanmingyuan Road. That is an area where many American missions have offices. Yuanmingyuan Road parallels the Bund one block to the west. It runs two blocks south from Soochow creek.

The surrender of these Nationalists thus puts the Communists within a block or so of the guarded Soochow bridges but in what strength was not known.

While watching from a building overlooking the creek, Mrs. Margaret Hampson, wife of the Boy Admits Two Burglaries Here

The juvenile delinquency problem in Lubbock, which has plagued police and other law enforcement agencies here for several months, was re-emphasized Tuesday with the arrest for the second time of a 12-year-old boy who admitted to two additional burglaries here.

City Detectives L. W. Forrester and Lee Rice, jr., who had kept an eye on the youth since his admittance a few weeks ago of 10 burglaries about town, picked him up yesterday on suspicion. He admitted the two additional burglaries a short while later.

Two Residences Entered

They were:

The R. F. Spikes residence at 1614 Broadway, from which a piggy bank containing about $20 was taken.

The residence of Mrs. James E. Hartley of 1518 Ave. O, in which $21 was removed from a purse.

The boy also said he had taken a camera from a beauty shop in 1600-block Broadway. The proprietor of the place late Tuesday said no such camera had been missed there, but the youth insisted and said he could show "right where I took it from."

Detectives had recovered a sack of pennies from a hiding place on Nineteenth street, loot which the boy admitted taking in one of his burglaries.

The 12-year-old and another

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., May 24 (INS)—The University of North Carolina announced today that Hans Freistadt, an admitted Communist, will be dropped from the teaching staff and the ex-GI who was awarded an Atomic Energy commission scholarship said he has resigned.

The university statement said Freistadt's contract will end with the close of the current semester and will not be renewed. The official announcement added that he will be barred from teaching at the university in the future.

The 23-year-old Austrian-born youth countered that he had not requested a new contract to continue his work as a part-time physics instructor because of the much-criticized scholarship award he was to have received.

No Suit Planned

Trustees and chancellors of three schools comprising the greater university system in North Carolina met at Chapel Hill, where Freistadt is working for a physics doctorate at the University of North Carolina. The ex-GI said he has "no intention of suing" to regain the atomic energy fellowship.

He appeared before Congress' joint Atomic Energy committee last week. Later he learned that the AEC had barred Communists from fellowship grants.

Freistadt said the National Research Council may come to his aid in helping to finance his post-graduate work because the council feels "it's morally at fault" in the withdrawal of the AEC grant under congressional pressure.

UAW Chief's Brother Is Shot At Detroit

DETROIT, May 24 (INS)—Victor Reuther, brother of UAW-CIO President Walter P. Reuther, was shot and gravely wounded in his Detroit home tonight.

Victor, who is educational director of the UAW, was struck by a shotgun blast through the window and slumped to the floor with a wound in one eye and the shoulder.

He was rushed to Redford receiving hospital.

The shooting occurred in the same manner the auto workers' president was wounded a year ago last month—which has not been solved as yet.

Victor Reuther had stood shoulder-to-shoulder with his more widely-known brother through industrial strikes and battles with radicals endeavoring to stir unrest in the million-member union.

Allies Take Over West Berlin Rail Stations

Red Forces Retreat

By RICHARD S. WEIL
INS Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, May 24—Russian troops and East Berlin Communist police retreated from strike-bound Western Allied sector rail stations tonight in the face of ultimatums by the western military governments.

West Berlin police took possession of the stations by 7 p. m. (11 a. m. CST), deadline of the ultimatum notices.

This switch in control eased a violent situation that erupted into fights beginning last Saturday between anti-Communist rail strikers and Russian-directed "action" squads. Three persons were killed and 1,200 wounded in the disorders.

Russians Warned

Brig. Gen. Frank Howley, U. S. commandant in Berlin, warned the Russians this afternoon that West Berlin police would take over control by 7 p. m. because of the "extreme brutality" shown by the Communist police.

His Anglo-French counterparts likewise warned the Russians and their German Communist rail directorate of an intolerable situ-

'Mercy' Trip Made

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche Staff Writer

THE Lubbock office of the Texas Highway patrol last night took time out from its routine job of patrolling the highways in this area to participate in a "mercy flight" which apparently has saved the life of a Seagraves infant.

Playing an equally important part was an ambulance from Webb Funeral home of Seagraves, driven by Eugene Herron of Seagraves, which completed the race with time started in Lubbock by Sgt. E. L. Stroud of the Highway patrol.

The facts behind the case are these:

Charles Elmer Allen, one-year-old son of Mr and Mrs. Elmer Allen of near Seagraves, Tuesday night accidentally ate several pellets of arsenic which were kept in the farm home of the Allen family for use in treating chickens. The jar of pellets had accidentally been left within reach of the infant.

It was discovered that the youngster had eaten several of the poisonous tablets about 8 p.m. The father was away from the home at the time, plowing some

HOUSING SHORTAGE CONTINUES

Germany Still Struggling Back From Ruins Of War-Torn Economy

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, May 24—John Dowrick, veteran American Express company official in charge of 42 company agencies in Germany, estimates that about 50,000 U. S. travelers will attempt to get into Germany this season.

A lot of them will fail for reasons ranging from the displeasure of U. S. military government officials down to their inability to prove they have hotel or house reservations in advance. With the exception of Heidelburg, there is hardly a whole city in this land. Frankfurt, once an American tourist mecca, can provide hotel space for only a hundred visitors a day.

Berlin Is Overcrowded

The situation in Berlin remains next to impossible. It is incomprehensible that 4½ million people live in these shocking ruins. The famous old Adlon hotel lies gutted and battered out of recognition, just inside the boundary of the Soviet sector of the city. Incredibly, 20 of its once endless rooms remain in use, black with the shadows of dizzily-standing walls. The civilian American colony, military government people and correspondents live in rooms in the almost untouched Zalendorf section of town or in entire houses requisitioned from German owners by the Army.

For these few, Berlin is not an uncomfortable place in which to live and it is—by many degrees—the least expensive city in perhaps the entire world. Most Americans now in Germany under the protection and benevolence of the Army are permitted to buy necessities and luxuries through the PX where the prices are, of course, almost picayune compared to the prices of the same articles in the U. S.

Black Market Continues

But the visitor to Berlin, if he makes it, will not be eligible for such comforts and conveniences. On the other hand he will be able to buy and use German marks (at the pegged rate of 30 cents each) and spend them unfurtively in German restaurants and stores. The "regulars" are not permitted to do this. They use "script," the accepted name for military government currency, though there is a certain amount of traffic in black marks, which cost 17 cents.

German citizens are not permitted to possess "script," and about the only way in which an American who works here can get into a German restaurant (where the food is good and quite plentiful) or a night club, (where the prices are about as expensive as in New York) is to take along a German who attends to the actual payment of the bill.

Cigaret Market Changed

The economy that was founded on American cigarets and chocolate bars is about through, though you can still get your landlady to do your laundry for a couple of packs, which cost a nickel a throw at the PX. The Germans have a cigaret industry again, thanks to vast shipments of Marshall Plan tobacco (much of it previously turned down by Russia as inferior). And the German who once sold his choicest possessions, including his honor, for a few smokes, now can buy three packs of German-made smokes each week.

Some of those who get to Germany this season will be drawn from the hordes of refugees who filled New York's and Hollywood's top restaurants and hotels during the long years of exile.

American, British and French officials are now trying to settle $6 billions in claims made by the rich German refugees, most of whom settled in New York to ride out the storm. It is a difficult procedure. The reckless, cynical seizure of great properties during Hitler's purges, the changes in Nazi ownership, eventual demolishment and the refusal of the Russians to cooperate in putting the jigsaw back together again constitute one of the great headaches of post-war Germany.

Curiously, the one place in Berlin where the visitor can be sure to be fed and sung to is run by the Russians. It is the Intourist club. All the patron needs is a sufficient number of American dollars, the only currency recognized by the Red operators of the place. A strong stomach helps, too. The other night a waiter there dropped a plate of gooey beef strogonof on the dance floor. We stayed in the place an hour after that, and no one made a move to scrape up the debris. The tired, frightened German chanteuse sang on as it lay in front of her.

Young TCU Instructor Plunges To Death From Mayo Clinic

ROCHESTER, Minn., May 24 (AP)—A 29-year-old instructor at Texas Christian university plunged to his death from the 14th floor of the Mayo clinic today.

Clinic officials identified him as Samuel Lyle Mayne, Fort Worth. Coroner Theodore O. Wellner tentatively ruled the death a suicide.

Mayne had recovered from major surgery and was discharged from the clinic recently. He was believed to have been staying at a hotel.

Police sought a possible suicide note. They found on the 14th floor an open window from which it was believed Mayne jumped.

Clinic offices and a library occupy that floor and patients normally are not permitted to go above the 11th floor, officials said.

Mayne's wife was with him at the clinic for a time but returned to Fort Worth last week.

Acquaintances who saw Mayne yesterday said he appeared to be in good spirits.

Graduation Slated At New Deal Today

NEW DEAL, May 24 (Special)—Melvina Flinn and June Covey will give the valedictory and salutatory addresses respectively at the graduation exercises of the New Deal High school graduating class here Wednesday night at 8:30 p. m. in the school auditorium.

MISS FLINN

Calloway Huffaker, Tahoka attorney, has been chosen as the principal speaker for the exercises. Rev. D. M. Duke, pastor of the Abernathy Nazarene church delivered the commencement sermon to the 25 graduating students here Sunday evening.

The exercises Wednesday night will begin with the processional, "Priest's March," by Mendelssohn.

MISS COVEY

Following the invocation by Rev. Carson Evertt, Miss Covey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Covey, will give the salutatory address. It will be followed by a song sung by the entire class.

The valedictory address by Miss Flinn will be next on the program. It will be followed by the principal speaker.

After the principal address, W. L. Waggoner, principal of the high school, will make several special awards. The seniors will then be presented their diplomas by A. L. Faubion, superintendent of the New Deal schools. The exercises will close with the benediction by W. O. Fortenberry.

Wife Of Will Clayton Is Granted Divorce In Houston

HOUSTON, May 24 (AP)—At a quiet hearing today, Mrs. Susan Clayton received a divorce decree ending her 47-year marriage to Will Clayton, former U. S. Undersecretary of agriculture.

Clayton, chairman of the board of Anderson-Clayton company here, was not present at the brief proceedings. His attorney, Col. William Bates, offered no defense to Mrs. Clayton's charges of cruel treatment and neglect.

Speaking in a barely audible voice, Mrs. Clayton told District Judge Dan Jackson that her husband's lengthy absences on business and governmental duties had destroyed their home life and had impaired her health.

She told the court a property settlement was made, but its terms were not revealed.

The Claytons separated April 4. A suit for divorce was filed shortly afterwards.

Lubbock County Jobless Number 1,000

Delay In Employment Rise Attributed To Bad Weather

Contrary to predictions of improvement made last month, unemployment in Lubbock county remains at 1,000, according to B. T. O'Connell, manager of the Texas Employment commission's Lubbock office.

"Last month we predicted that there would be a decline in unemployment as the season opened up and the weather improved," O'Connell said. "However, this is the second month that the figure is around 1,000. It is a drop from the February and March estimate of 1,200 but well above the figure of 850 for this time last year."

Weather Blamed For Drop

"We attribute this almost entirely to weather. The majority of those without work are outdoor workers," O'Connell continued.

"There is no cause for alarm over this situation," O'Connell advised, "We have had a good balance of work and available labor for such a long time that some people have a tendency to get disturbed when the conditions are only slightly below normal. This slack can be absorbed in a relatively short time."

The TEC manager pointed out that the wheat harvest on the South Plains will not help the situation very much. Demands for this type of labor in the Lubbock area are slight, he said. However, as the cotton season gets underway many of those out of jobs will find work easily, O'Connell believes.

Job Increase Seen

TEC estimates show a total of non-agricultural employment for Lubbock county to be 26,075. This is substantially the same figure given in last month's report. According to employment experts this figure is doing well to remain stationary in the face of weather and the unprecedented business slump which occurred during the first quarter of this year.

O'Connell believes that this slump may not be entirely lost. He believes that when the trend does change the demands will be so heavy they will absorb all of the losses and even move into the gain column.

Average Year Forecast

Of the total employers contacted by TEC last month on their regular visiting program, more than 23 per cent indicated they would have net additions to their payrolls in May or June. Only three reported they would have seasonal decreases. All of the additions were small but their accumulated total points to a healthy condition, O'Connell says.

Non-manufacturing concerns have shown the greatest increase. About 20 per cent of these firms reported increases which served to outweigh the 19 per cent who reported small losses.

In general, O'Connell says, the TEC surveys point to an average year after the adverse weather and business effects of the first four months have been overcome.

Plans For Tech Participation In State Fair Discussed Here

Ray Wilson, general manager of the agriculture division of the State Fair of Texas, met with officials at Texas Technological college Tuesday to determine what part the college would play in the 1948 Fair which will be held Oct. 8 through 23.

Frank Junell, administrative assistant to Tech's president, said it was decided the college would sponsor a booth for the event. Among the exhibits included will be an automatic machine showing color slides of life at the college.

He also said the all-college movie, "Futures Unlimited," would be shown at regular intervals during the entire fair. Plans are also being made for a Texas Tech day during the fair. The college will be honored in some manner at that time.

Dean W. L. Stangel, head of the agriculture division at Tech, will act as general manager of the livestock show at this year's fair. He has served in that capacity for several of the past state fairs.

Area Farmers Offered Cotton Market News

Plans for handling the 1949 cotton classing and market news services, available to farmers without cost under the Smith-Doxey Act, were announced here Tuesday by Leil O. Buchanan, in charge of the Lubbock office of the cotton branch, Production and Marketing administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"Farmers should apply for these services just as they did last year," Mr. Buchanan said.

To be eligible for the free cotton classing and market news services, he pointed out, farmers must meet these requirements; 1. Belong to a group of farmers organized to promote the improvement of cotton; 2. Plant part of his acreage in the variety of cotton adopted by the group; 3. File an application as soon as the cotton is planted.

Groups in this area should mail their application to their local county agent or to 1701 Avenue H, Lubbock, Texas.

"To make sure farmers secure all the benefits due them under this program, their group application should reach our office by July 15," Mr. Buchanan said. However, applications will be accepted until August 15.

TEXAS LADY LOSES 47 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no "hunger." Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you eat plenty.

Here is proof

Here is what Mrs. H. P. Bishop, Route 2, Stamford, Texas, wrote us:

"I am very glad to endorse Barcentrate, so please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation for the great benefit I derived from its use. I not only lost weight, but also looked and felt better in every way.

"I had to have a very serious operation and was told that I must lose a lot of weight before the operation could be performed. I went on a diet and tried very hard to reduce, but wasn't losing much weight until I heard of Barcentrate. I began taking it and could soon tell the difference in the way I felt and the weight I was losing. I weighed 260 pounds when I started and I lost a total of 47 pounds and was able to undergo my operation. I can truthfully recommend it to others, since it did so much for me."

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back. Adv.

SECRECY URGED IN PLANE TESTS

Threat To U.S. Security Seen In 'War' Between B-36, Navy Jets

By ALLAN J. FUNCH
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 24 — Defense Secretary Johnson today questioned whether the mock battle demanded by a congressional committee between B-36 bombers and Navy jet fighters would endanger national security.

Johnson asked the joint chiefs of staff, the nation's top strategists, to reply as quickly as possible to this question and to ignore "political implications" in their answer.

The secretary's action indicated possible cancellation of the simulated air war. It follows widespread military concern that the evaluation test might reveal too much to potential enemies.

Other government quarters have expressed fear that substantial loss of life might result as men of the two services extended themselves and their machines to prove their point.

A World War II Marine ace was killed shortly after the House Armed Services committee requested the test as he demonstrated the ability of the Navy's Banshee fighter to climb swiftly to 40,000 feet, the B-36's favored altitude.

The Air Force-Naval aviation feud was one the late Defense Secretary Forrestal tried unsuccessfully to solve.

The Air Force has contended the big, six-engine bomber "approaches invulnerability." The Navy emphatically challenges this contention and says its jet fighters can shoot the B-36 out of the air, even at 40,000 feet.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga), of the Armed Services committee said last week that Johnson was "enthusiastic" about the test but his action today indicated his enthusiasm is cooling.

High military quarters pointed out that the committee, in requesting the test, said the results should be made public. The military officers pointed out this would violate prior practice of conducting such evaluations secretly.

Johnson said in his memorandum: "I feel sure that chairman Vinson and the members of his committee would not want us to take any action that might be prejudicial to our national security."

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

'Whistle Stop' Rule Rescinded At Electra

ELECTRA, May 24. (U.P.)—Electra's famous "whistle stop" ordinance belonged today to the past.

It was consigned there by the city commission, which voted last night to rescind the ordinance. It was designed to force Fort Worth & Denver City railroad's speedy Zephyr trains to stop for kitchen and toilet sanitary inspection and, more than incidentally, to pick up passengers.

Injunction Granted

But U.S. District Judge William H. Atwell, at the railroad's request, had entered a preliminary injunction 10 days back, holding the ordinance deprived the railroad of full use of its own properties. A hearing had been scheduled for an unspecified date on the FW&D's plea for a permanent injunction.

Last night's commission action made the dispute in federal court "moot," City Attorney John McKelvey said, and he was hopeful that Electra could come to a compromise agreement with the railroad on "all issues."

The major one was FW&D's decision to stop the Zephyrs at Electra and some other small towns only to pick up "long haul" passengers.

McKelvey said Electra's dynamic Mayor T. Leo Moore would meet soon with railroad attorneys for further negotiations.

Lynn Bari Appears In New Baseball Picture; Old Harold Lloyd Comedies Draw Big Crowds

By DOROTHY MANNERS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—Lynn Bari's first picture since the birth of her baby is "Pride Of The Indians," Republic's baseball opus previously operating under the title, "The Cleveland Story."

Lynn planed out this morning for Cleveland for the opening shots in the Cleveland stadium.

Co-star George Brent is already back there and ditto the men behind the scenes, Herbert Kline and Walter Combs. This is the movie in which Hank Greenberg will appear and also Bill Veeck.

Comedian Still Popular

Don't refer to the seven old Harold Lloyd hits, about to be released again, as "re-issues." There are so many new movie goers who have never seen Harold on the screen that Neil Agnew, who has a contract for the Lloyd films says, the old comedies are new stuff.

Agnew's firm, Motion Picture Sales corporation, made a test run with "Movie Crazy," made by Lloyd in 1932. They booked it into a first run house in Dallas and the box-office was sensational.

Now, 'Movie Crazy" follows "Champion" into a Broadway house with other big bookings all over the country. It will be followed by "Grandma's Boy," "Safety Last," "The Freshman," "The Cat's Paw" and "Welcome Danger."

Judy Garland Encouraged

One of the nice things that has come out of Judy Garland's heartache over "Annie Get Your Gun" is the way Katharine Hepburn is "mothering" and encouraging Judy.

For Years, Judy and Hepburn have worked on the MGM lot, but they were never close friends.

When the news broke that Judy was out of "Annie," Hepburn was one of the first to get to Judy's house. Katharine told her that she could come out of this thing bigger than ever, or it could break her. The choice is up to her. They talked for hours, and since then, there isn't a day goes by that Katharine fails to either see Judy or talk with her on the telephone.

Flier Dates Actress

Hollywood in shorts: Hedy Lamarr and her new heart, Raymond Hakim, may just happen to be in Europe at the same time this summer—but both say no marriage plans.

In Europe, they shrug off the Ingrid Bergman-Roberto Rossellini thing. But the papers are jammed to the headlines with any detail of the Rita Hayworth-Aly Khan newspaper coverage of any wedding since the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

Bill Odom, record holder of the non-stop flight between Hawaii and New York, is in Hollywood escorting Barbara Fuller about. They were at the Cinegrill two nights running. Wasn't there something about his romance with a gal in the East at the time of his flight?

British Actor Returns

Sir Cedric Hardwicke back in Hollywood after a long trip to England. He will huddle with his agency, Famous Artists corporation, about his next movie. Hasn't made one since "Connecticut Yankee" with Bing.

Judy Garland at the Mocambo with Arthur Loew, jr. The same night, Liberace, the sensational pianist, played "Happy Birthday" for Herbert Marshall, there with his beautiful Boots.

Peggy Maley was with Scott Brady at Ciro's. Apparently she did not get off to Florida to meet (or marry) Joe Fisetti.

Imitation Is 'Realistic'

John Emergy went completely to pieces over Florence Desmond's imitation of Tallulah Bankhead at Jean Pettibone's party. Tallulah's ex-husband says it's more Tallulah than Bankhead, herself.

Incidentally, this party marked the first public appearance of Evelyn Keyes and Cy Howard who have had several dates since she parted from John Huston.

Dorothy Sandlin, singer wife of RCA Vice President Glen McDaniel, replaced Dorothy Sarnoff at the Philharmonic last Saturday—and already she has two dates to test for the screen.

Scoop Conlon, Hollywood press agent, playing host to his ballet star son-in-law, Oleg Tupine, and his daughter, Natalia Clare, soloist with the Serge Denham's Ballet Russe De Monte Carlo. The dancers will vacation here for two months.

Lilly, the French dressmaker, designed Dorothy Hart's complete wardrobe for her P.A. tour.

South Africa will encourage building new luxury hotels to get tourist dollars.

COMPLAINTS AIRED

Policemen Given Tips On Courtesy

DALLAS, May 24 (AP)—Chief of Police Carl Hansson did a little soul searching today. He came up with the six most frequent complaints made by Dallas citizens against the cops.

Hansson listed them in a lecture to the police incentive school in this order:

Arrogance, discourtesy, abusive language, sarcasm, mistreating prisoners and jealousy.

"The public wants respect from us and we want the public to respect us," he said. "There are officers who use abusive, discourteous or sarcastic language. If you don't want the public to talk to us that way, then we shouldn't talk that way to them."

The incentive school is open to all superior officers from corporal up.

The Woman's Angle

Austrian Youth Dreams Of Future Life In America

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Another in a series of articles on experiences in Europe, written by the woman's editor of The Avalanche-Journal publications, appears today.)

By MARGARET TURNER

A SLENDER youth of 19, a native of Wels, Austria, works hard and long hours as a machinist and dreams each night of the day that may see him en route to America.

He is Eric Greifeneder, who did us a good turn when we were leaving Austria, who revealed what certain Austrian youths are doing and thinking today.

After our train was well underway from Linz, Austria, in the early morning hours, the conductor came through our car and said something in German, repeating one sentence over and over. We could only shrug and shake our heads. Eric leaned forward, asked our pardon and explained that the car was to be left at Salzburg and we were to move to a section about ten cars down. That was bad news. Not knowing how long the train would remain in Salzburg, and knowing how impossible it would be to transfer our luggage without help, we were baffled. The youth came to the rescue. He suggested that he remain on the train to Salzburg, transfer the luggage and then return to his home in Wels by a later train.

We readily agreed and insisted that he accept American bills for his trouble; over his protest, and that is how we came to know Eric. His English was excellent and he used a few slang terms which he had picked up from American soldiers.

ERIC GREIFENEDER, like his parents, is a native of Wels. Although he is employed there in a tool factory, he spends most of his week ends away, because he says "I hate those peeples."

The question of how people in Wels were managing to exist came up and it was then that the youth, a fair-skinned, blue-eyed, light-haired six-footer, burst out "I hate those peeples." For a moment we thought he might be referring to the Americans stationed there but he hastened to explain he meant his own towns people. "They smile in your face, but they stab you in the back," he said. "The leaders who only a few years ago were saying 'Heil Hitler' right now are saying 'Hello America' but they are cheats and they lie," he exclaimed.

We rode in silence for a while and then someone asked "Why don't you leave Eric, if you are unhappy in Wels?"

His blue eyes shone and then his face clouded. "I have tried to leave; I have tried to go to America. I failed but I am not discouraged and someday I'll go and will work night and day."

LAST September young Greifeneder and his buddy hitchhiked to Italy, sneaked through the checkpoint in the Brenner pass at night and caught rides in the daytime. They had one objective: to find a ship captain and offer him their prized possession (a gold watch owned by Eric) in exchange for a chance to work their passage to America. They found the captain but their dreams died, of course, when he explained it was impossible. The Austrian youth was silent for a while and then he said his mother cried for three days when he returned home.

Now Eric continues his job and on week ends teaches American soldiers how to ski and hunt and fish, depending on the season of the year. One of his best pals is a boy named Tommy Dalton from a Texas town, who is stationed in Linz, and we wish Tommy could have seen the look on Eric's face when he showed us two pair of sox the soldier had given him the previous day.

We were riding through the Alps and the fruit trees were lighting the valleys and yards. It was a beautiful sight and we said, "We have few places in America this beautiful; you live in a colorful country."

"Yes," he hastily answered. "This is beautiful, but I cannot eat from the mountains. I will come to America; somehow, someday and I'll work day and night to show my appreciation."

Two Yank Soldiers Released By Czechs Face AWOL Charges

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 24 (AP)—Two American soldiers released by Czechoslovakia after being sentenced as spies face charges here of absence without leave, breach of arrest and possibly illegal border crossing, the U. S. Army said today.

The men are recruits Clarence R. Hill, 32, Pampa, Tex., and George R. Jones, 22, Owensboro, Ky.

The men were absent without leave 18 days in November, returned to their company Nov. 30 and then disappeared again Dec. 1, the Army said.

The soldiers were nabbed by Czech police Dec. 9. They claimed they were "railroaded" into prison as spies in a trial without witnesses or evidence. They were pardoned by President Klement Gottwald and released last Sunday after serving 56 days in a Czech military prison.

Baby Daughter Is 'Surprise' To Cleveland Woman, Husband

CLEVELAND, O., May 24 (INS)—A 23-year-old Cleveland mother who had insisted she wasn't pregnant awoke in her home today just as she gave birth to a six-pound, eight-ounce baby girl.

Mrs. Frances Weber, who had told her husband all along that she wasn't expecting a child, and the baby Phyllis Helen, were reported doing "fine."

Mrs. Weber's husband, Gedeon, told reporters:

"I heard her scream this morning and when I awoke, there was the baby. Boy, was I surprised!"

Gedeon said he had "kidded" his wife about her buxomness the past few months and told her she might be pregnant. She claimed not, however.

It was the second child for the couple. Another daughter, Mercedes Lynn, was born last May 13.

Luncheon At Club

A luncheon and fashion show was attended by approximately 125 wives of Lions club members attending the District 2-T-1 convention here Tuesday in Lubbock Country club.

Each table was decorated with three arrangements of roses. Two large bouquets of roses decorated the tables from which the buffet luncheon was served.

Plate favors were individual corsages and keyring flashlights given by the Lubbock Lions club and bottles of perfume given by a Lubbock store.

Mrs. Wayne Henly, wife of the president of Lubbock Lions club, introduced Mrs. James H. Milam, who was commentator for the fashion show. Mrs. Don Mitchell played the piano during modeling of fashions.

Clothing selected for all occasions was modeled by Misses Charlotte Carter, Jane Webb, Ganelle Etter and Sue Castle and Mrs. William Raffaniello.

The luncheon was the concluding entertainment of several given during the convention.

HOPES HELD FOR AGREEMENT

UAW And Ford Agree To Discuss Union Offer To Settle Walkout

DETROIT, May 24. (INS)—The CIO United Auto Workers and Ford Motor company arranged today to discuss a union offer to arbitrate the "speedup" dispute which has idled 150,000 wage earners nationally.

Ford labor relations Director John S. Bugas raised hope that the 20-day-old strike may be resolved by the end of the week by agreeing "in principle" to UAW President Walter P. Reuther's offer to submit the heart of the disagreement to an impartial third party.

Warning Is Sounded

Bugas warned, however, that "we are not in agreement that you have properly stated the question to be submitted to such a competent third party."

Reuther objected to management's refusal to "give a simple 'yes' or 'no'" but he agreed to meet with Ford's bargainers at 2:30 p.m. (EST) tomorrow as Bugas requested.

Observers saw cause for optimism in this turn of events, since the disputants acted without prodding from the federal conciliation office.

The Ford spokesman suggested tomorrow's conference to reword the question Reuther proposed be placed before the arbitrator:

"Does the company, under the contract, have the right to require an employe to work at a rate of speed in excess of 100 percent of established standards of production, and to require a worker to make up production losses resulting from factors over which the worker has no control?"

This embraces what Reuther called the "nub" of the dispute. The auto workers' leader had recalled, in his offer to call in an arbitrator, that both the union and company have agreed other obstacles could quickly be hurdled if the speedup issue were resolved.

Bugas, who had demanded originally, the entire dispute be submitted to arbitration, remarked in his message to Reuther:

"We particularly are gratified to note that you have finally agreed to the principle that an impartial and qualified third party can resolve the issues. . ."

Among the foremost side-issues is the UAW demand that Ford reinstate 21 men who have been discharged since the strike began and that suspensions imposed on 14 others be lifted.

The disciplinary action occurred soon after the 62,000 Rouge and Lincoln-Mercury production employes walked out May 5, in protest against alleged speedups on the assembly lines.

Reuther's arbitration offer, which came shortly before last midnight, represented the first compromise move on the part of either disputant since strike negotiations began.

Lubbock Children Examined In Plainview Found Free Of Polio

PLAINVIEW, May 24. (Special) Attendants at Plainview Sanitarium and Clinic said today that three Lubbock children brought here Monday for examination and treatment do not have polio.

The three children of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bednarski, of 2212 Third in Lubbock, were brought to Plainview after all became ill over the weekend. One child in the family, Ronald James Bednarski, 2-years-old, died Saturday in Lubbock of what was thought to be polio.

Attendants reported today that the remaining children seemed to be recovering satisfactorily, adding that they probably were suffering from infectious diarrhea.

The children are Donald, 4, Cynthia, 3, and Dickie, 22 months.

Mother Sick With Measles As Blue Baby Awaits Operation

DALLAS, May 24. (AP)—A Louisiana mother who brought her infant daughter here for a blue baby operation was sick with measles today.

"I've got the measles," plumpish, friendly Mrs. Delford Pelt said by telephone from her rented room.

The 31-year-old mother, who has blue eyes and brown hair like her baby, was hopeful she will recover before her baby undergoes surgery June 1. The infant, Nelda Susan, 15 months, is to be operated on at Bradford Memorial hospital.

"We haven't been quarantined, and no doctor has examined me," said the Pitkin, La., mother. "But we recognize it as measles. I broke out last week and I got the fever. The fever began letting up over the weekend. I sure hope I'll be well when they operate on my baby. I think I will."

His speech was reprinted in The Fairbanks Daily News, which advertises itself as "America's Farthest north daily newspaper." Dr. and Mrs. Alan L. Strout of 2512 Twenty-first received a copy of the paper by airmail.

'Distant' Earthquake Shock Recorded At California School

BERKELEY, Calif., May 24. (U.P.) A "moderate" earthquake shock probably in either Mexico or Alaska was reported today by the University of California seismograph, university officials announced.

The quake, which began at 10:25 a.m. (CST) and lasted for one half hour, was reported 1,800 miles from Berkeley. The direction was undetermined.

Optimists Hear Soil Conservation Official

Wise use of available moisture Tuesday was listed as one of the most important factors in the South Plains soil conservation program by Marshall Howard, district conservationist of the U. S. Soil Conservation service.

Speaking at the weekly Optimist club luncheon in the Hilton hotel, Howard urged that landowners in this area take full advantage of available moisture by rotating other crops with cotton. A more balanced crop program, he said, will be of value to all persons concerned.

Outlining the local soil conservation program, Howard explained that the chief burden of responsibility rests on the shoulders of the people, as it should in a democracy."

Principles Cited

Soil conservation officials, he explained, are available to help out landowners with their individual problems.

Howard listed "the four cornerstones" of successful soil conservation as: 1. Sound land use; 2. Proper combination of conservation practices; 3. Maintenance and improvement of soil productivity; 4. Economic soundness of the conservation program.

The guest speaker was introduced by Billy Davis, program chairman.

Charles Greer reported on the recent District Seven Optimist convention at Oklahoma City, terming the affair highly successful.

Approximately 65 members and guests attended the luncheon. G. C. Stewart presided, with invocation by J. Holland Cox.

MEMORIZED BOUNDRIES

In early England, when maps were rare, parish boundaries were "recorded" in the memories of boys, who were led around the borders once a year, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

PSYCHIATRIST DEFENDS HOSPITAL PROCEDURE

Navy Investigates Circumstances Which Allowed Forrestal Suicide As Plans For Rites Completed

By EARLE MARCKRES
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 24 — The Navy today investigated the circumstances which allowed James V. Forrestal to take his own life and arrangements were made for a monumental last tribute to the first secretary of defense.

Dr. George N. Raines, psychiatrist and Navy captain who directed Forrestal's treatment for "operational fatigue," told a Navy board of inquiry that he was obliged to take a "calculated risk" that Forrestal would commit suicide.

Raines vigorously defended the Bethesda Naval hospital procedure which granted to Forrestal the freedom of movement which enabled the former defense secretary to leap from a 16th-floor window last Sunday.

HOSPITAL NOT BLAMED

WASHINGTON, May 24. (INS)— James V. Forrestal's grieving widow today told the Navy that "Jim would be hurt indeed" if the Bethesda Naval hospital was blamed for his death.

Mrs. Josephine Forrestal and her two sons expressed to retiring Navy Secretary Sullivan gratitude for "the devoted care" given the first defense secretary, who took his life Sunday in a leap from the 16th floor of the Naval hospital at Bethesda, Md., near Washington.

The widow's sentiments, contained in a letter to Sullivan, were made public as arrangements were made for a monumental last tribute to Forrestal, who will be buried with full military honors on Wednesday in Arlington National cemetery.

The captain, who heads neuropsychiatry at the hospital, said he personally encouraged Forrestal to leave his room and "visit about the floor." Raines asserted:

"This increased socialization was considered essential to his recovery."

As the inquiry proceeded, Defense Secretary Johnson excused all military establishment personnel "who can be spared from duty" to attend the military funeral for Forrestal on Wednesday. About 50,000 persons are affected.

Senate Bill Debated

Meanwhile the Senate, debating legislation to strengthen the hand of the defense secretary in unifying the armed forces, was asked to give Johnson "the power and authority which should have been given to James Forrestal."

Sen. Morse (R-Ore.), told the Senate the Tydings bill under consideration contains "the familiar signs of doubt and compromise." Morse said he would offer five amendments, one of which would authorize unlimited transfer of personnel between services.

The Tydings bill would permit such transfers only if "assigned combat functions" are not disturbed.

Morse, declaring the Senate is "erecting a great monument to Forrestal's memory," said Johnson testified secretly Monday that the Tydings bill could be improved.

Many of Forrestal's intimates have expressed conviction that despondency brought on by the feeling that he had failed to integrate the armed services caused the ex-secretary to commit suicide.

The Rt. Rev. Wallace E. Conkling, Espiscopal bishop of Chicago, was named to deliver the final eulogy for Forrestal, before President Truman and the nation's leaders, Wednesday forenoon at Arlington National cemetery.

An impressive motorcade will transport Forrestal's body from the hospital to the tree-shaded last resting place of American heroes across the Potomac from the capital.

It will arrive at the entrance to the Virginia cemetery at 8:50 (CST) where it will be laid on a caisson drawn by six horses. The casket will be covered by a single blanket of roses sent by the President and his cabinet.

The eight pallbearers will be drawn from the military forces Forrestal commanded—the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines. The Navy band will play a muted march as it escorts the caisson to the amphitheater.

There the Army band will play. At graveside the Marine band will sound "taps" before a Leatherneck squad fires a volly over the grave. Only members of the family and personal friends will be there. Mr. Truman and other officials are scheduled to depart after the amphitheater services.

Senate Told Military Unification Program 'Killed' Forrestal

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—The Senate was told today that the present armed services "unification" act killed James V. Forrestal and that a better law should be passed as a "great monument" to him.

Senator Malone (R-Nev) said the law was so weak as to saddle Forrestal with an "impossible" job. And Senator Morse (R-Ore) proposed that the secretary of defense be given greatly increased powers as a memorial to Forrestal.

Forrestal, former defense secretary, took his own life Sunday in a leap from the 16th floor of Bethesda, Md., naval hospital.

A bill is pending to revise the unification act.

Malone said the original law permitted the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force to ignore the secretary of defense and "go directly to the President, and they did. We gave Jim Forrestal an impossible job."

Malone added that Louis A. Johnson, Forrestal's successor, is a big "rugged fellow with plenty of guts," but that Congress might "kill" him too unless it gives him clear authority.

Morse offered a series of amendments which among other things would remove an existing ban against transferring Marines to the Army or naval aviators to the Air Forces.

It is of utmost importance, he said, that a war should be conducted through a civilian head.

One amendment will be aimed at changing a provision barring the secretary from transferring personnel from one branch to another.

The others will include a requirement for centralizing purchasing for the Army, Navy and Air Force, and for titling the civilian heads of the three branches assistant secretaries of defense instead of secretaries as the bill provides.

Morse contended Johnson must have the power to transfer personnel or assign duties as he thinks best in the interest of efficiency and economy.

Morse is the only opponent of the bill among the 13 members of the armed services committee. He says it doesn't go far enough.

Delay Granted In Eisler Hearings

LONDON, May 24 (AP)—The Bow street court granted a three-day delay in extradition proceedings against fugitive Communist Gerhardt Eisler today and ordered him back to Brixton prison without bail.

The action was taken over protests from defense counsel and as Communists demonstrated in the streets for Eisler's freedom.

The court action lasted only eight minutes.

Eisler entered the oak-panelled courtroom at 11:30 a. m. local time (6:30 a. m. CST). He was dressed in the same rumpled brown suit that he wore on two previous court appearances. Magistrate John F. Eastwood promptly bound him over until Friday when he again will appear in the same court.

U. S. Asks Postponement

The postponement was granted on an American request that the proceedings be delayed to give the United States government more time to prepare evidence.

Defense attorney Dudley Collard objected vigorously to the postponement.

When the delay was ordered over his objections, Collard then demanded that Eisler, who jumped bail in New York, again be released on bail.

Magistrate Eastwood refused.

Police Guard Strengthened

Extra police were on guard as court opened. They ordered the demonstrators off the sidewalk outside the court. But the Communists presisted in handing out leaflets describing Eisler as a "man who has been hounded and persecuted all over the world for the crime of anti-Fascism."

The leaflets maintained that extradition laws did not apply in the Eisler case because the Communist was "a political refugee." Many passers-by jeered the Communists as the leaflets were handed to them.

Reds Distribute Leaflets

The leaflets were signed by the London district Communist party.

The United States, which has obtained convictions against Eisler for both perjury and contempt of Congress, had asked for an eight-day postponement.

The United States formally has asked for the extradition on the grounds that Eisler fled the U. S. while on bail from a perjury conviction.

Eisler slipped out of the United States aboard the Polish steamship Batory. But at the request of American authorities he was hauled off the ship against his will at Southampton.

Hubbers Club Dukes, 10-6

Reichelt Hurls Second Straight

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

Manager Hershel Martin must be starting to wonder whether he should believe all those reports about the Lubbock Hubbers being anemic, after those same Hubbers clubbed his Albuquerque Dukes to the tune of 10 to 6 last night at Rosenthal Field.

The league-leaders picked up 13 scattered hits off Ray Reichelt, who won his second game in a row for the Hubbers, but only Les Mulcahy hit Reichelt hard. He accounted for four of the Duke runs with two home runs, both well tagged balls. Outside of his fireworks, the Dukes could get nothing longer than a single.

And into the breech stepped a pitcher who now has played both the outfield and third base, Charley Willis. Willis must have had magnets in his bat. Four sharp drives went into leftfield off his war club last night, two of them for singles and two for doubles. Moreover, while he was having a perfect night at the plate, he also was driving in five runs.

Joe Wisniewski, who hasn't been hitting the weight of ten dozen bats, suddenly found the range last night. He stepped up in the second inning to pole a tremendous home run over the left-field fence, scoring two runners ahead of him. He stepped up to the plate in the fourth and blasted a double against the same fence to drive in his fourth run of the night.

With those two hitting like that, the Hubbers could relax and coast in, which they did. They picked up 14 safeties, five of them for extra bases, including a triple by Nelson Davis. And they had another good night in the field. Willis started the only Hubber double play to choke off one rally; Al Duarte made a sensational shoestring catch to cut off another; and Manager Jackie Sullivan came up with a brilliant stop in the eighth to end the Dukes' last threat.

All in all, it was a good night for the 1,290 fans present and they made the most of it. They saw the Dukes lose their third straight game and their fifth in the last six games. They also saw the Hubbers win their fifth straight and their sixth game in their last seven.

Tonight the Hubbers go after their sixth straight victory, with either John Myers or Don Hensiek on the mound.

Loboes Trample Pioneers, 21-5

LAMESA, May 24 (Special)—The Lamesa Loboes unleashed their strongest offensive of the season here tonight before 917 fans, blasting 19 hits off three pitchers for a 21-5 series-opening win over the Clovis Pioneers.

Righthander Eulis Rosson coasted to his third straight victory, scattering 10 Pioneer hits and striking out 12 batters. The Loboes, paced by Lefthander D. C. Miller, who banged three doubles and a single, scored in every inning from the second through the sixth. They counted five runs in the third and 10 in the sixth when 14 Lobo batters strolled to the plate.

Manager Jay Haney, playing a different position for the fourth game in a row, collected three hits, including his first homer of the season with one aboard in the fifth, and played errorless ball at first base. Rosson hit safely three times, knocking in five runs.

Bill Rosen was charged with the loss. He left the game in the third after being spiked severely on the left knee cap as Hank Melillo slid in home. Pat Lorenzo hit a leadoff homer for Clovis in the ninth.

The two clubs meet Wednesday night in the second of the three-game series with Pioneer Lefthander George Matthews slated to oppose Lamesa's Glenn Selbo.

Amarillo Gold Sox Blank Pampa, 7-0

PAMPA, May 24. (AP) — Righthander Jim Reynolds spun a beautiful three hit ball game here tonight as the Amarillo Gold Sox hung a 7-0 whitewash job on the Pampa Oilers. This was the first shutout hurled by a Golden Hose hurler this season.

Reynolds was never in trouble, though he did have men on the sacks frequently due to his own wildness. But he was tight in the clutches and set the Oilers down with ease.

Most exciting event, from a Pampa standpoint, occurred in the eighth inning when umpire Crain came out from behind the plate and cleared the entire Amarillo bench for apparently uncomplimentary remarks about his eyesight.

The same two teams meet here tomorrow night with Luke "The Great" Hamilton named to hurl for Amarillo and Dick Lockwood for Pampa.

E. L. Willis Scores Hole-In-One

Morton, Littlefield Win Lions Tourney

Fifty-one Lions from a dozen or more towns of the Panhandle-Plains area participated in the golf tournament at Lubbock Country club Tuesday afternoon, closing activity of the district 2-T-1 convention.

Morton and Littlefield Lions almost stole the show, three men from Littlefield and two from Morton taking home trophies.

E. L. Willis, featured the tourney play by scoring a hole-in-one during his round.

WILLIS

Elmer McKinney of Littlefield, who captained last year's Texas Tech golf team was low medal scorer with a 72 and Ed Merriman of Lubbock was winner of the low net trophy after flipping with Jack Payne of Plainview and Cotton Anderson of Paducah, all three having scored 66's.

Gus Freeland, Slaton, who also scored a 66, won the trophy for the most pars, scoring 13 on his round.

Blind bogey winner was Hume Russell of Morton, who scored an even 100.

Al Chambers of Littlefield scored the most 5's with 11 to win a special trophy and Tom L. McAlister, mayor of Morton, came in with eight 6's to win the trophy for the most 6's.

Rhenard McCary of Littlefield made the longest drive with a 250-yard smack.

Chick Trout, tourney director, played around and would have won at least two of the trophies, but declined.

Trophies were awarded by Elmer Tarbox, Trout, Raymond Burford, O. A. Terry, Ruel Martin, Robt. H. Bean and Lions President Wayne Henly with Trout making the presentations late yesterday afternoon.

Absentees And Sore Arms Curtail Drill For Westerner Nine

Sore arms and absentees caused curtailment of baseball practice for the Westerners Tuesday at Chapman field diamond, but hard workouts are forecast today and tomorrow in preparation for the first bi-district encounter with Wichita Falls Friday in Wichita.

Time of all contests in the two out of three series will be 2:30 p. m. The first game will be at Spudder park, and Saturday the game, or games, will be played in Lubbock at Rosenthal field. Should one team win the first two contests, then the second tilt of the doubleheader will not be played. But if the teams split the first two games, then the third will immediately follow the Saturday contest. Admission to the games here will be 30 cents for students and 60 cents for adults.

Both the Westerners and the Coyotes have impressive records this season. The Westerners won 17 and lost three—the losses being once to Amarillo and twice to Altus, Oklahoma. Wichita Falls won 18 games and dropped only two.

The aces of the Coyotes mound staff are Scott and Fleming, both righthanders. In his best performance this year Fleming struck out 17 men in one game.

In nine District 1-AA tilts this season, eight wins and one loss, Bennie Day and Jimmy Richards have won three games each for the Westerners, and Jimmy Hamilton suffered one loss with two victories. His loss was the 7-3 licking given by the Sandies in the first game of the playoff. In that game, incidentally, Hamilton led the hitting with four singles in five times at bat, and 18 Westerner base runners were left stranded.

Seventh Street Eagles Drop Junior Optimist Nine, 14-5

Tublot Huggins pitched the Seventh Street Eagles to a 14-5 victory over the Junior Optimists yesterday at the Optimist diamond in a sandlot baseball game.

Leading hitters for the winning Eagles were Billy Rae Smith, Billy Williams, and James Solly. Topping the losers were Billy Lingle, Wayne Hilliard, and Dale Wooley. Heavy Boyd was charged with the loss.

First Baptists Gain 26-5 Triumph Over Post Office

First Baptist walloped the Post Office, 26-5, yesterday in the Commercial Softball league, and Bill Russell was the winner of the five-inning tilt, called because of the high score.

In the other contest at Wagner park, Avalanche-Journal downed Calvary Baptist, 3-1.

Gassers Nose Out Abilene, 4 To 3

ABILENE, May 24 (AP) — Borger's Gassers broke a five-game losing streak here tonight by defeating the second place Abilene Blue Sox 4-3 in a nifty, fast game that only the umpires slowed down.

A Borger triple play and four double plays would have speeded it up.

Borger got to lefty Rafael Sangil for three hits and a walk, took advantage of an error to score three times in the fifth inning and overcome a one-run lead which Abilene had held since the second.

In the eighth, Clay Fries hit a double to score Jimmy Littlejohn from first for what turned out to be the deciding run.

Pitchers Hugh King for Borger and Sangil for Abilene indulged in an interesting mound duel, the Blue Sox collecting eight hits off King, the Gassers seven off Sangil.

An error at short, a single by catcher Cato and a walk to King and a two-run single by Butler broke up Sangil's scoreless record through four innings. Manager Eddie Carnett lashed a single to score Butler for the third run.

Abilene took a lead in the second when manager Greer doubled, scored on Danny Concepcion's single. Trailing 4-1 in the eighth, Abilene essayed a rally when Feduniak singled, pinch-hitter Nakamura walked and Joe Wessing was safe on an infield single, loading the bases. Then Carlos Perez hit into a double play, Bob Fernandez singled to score Nakamura and was caught at second on an attempted steal to end the rally and the scoring.

Yankees Score 10 Runs In Fifth To Drop St. Louis Browns, 13-3

Red Sox Nose Out Detroit, 8 To 7

NEW YORK, May 24 (INS)—The New York Yankees fattened on the lowly St. Louis Browns again today, scoring ten runs in the fifth inning in a 13 to 3 victory.

Yogi Berra's home run with two men on base was the big blow of the Yankees' fifth inning.

Vic Raschi scored his sixth win against a single loss for the Yanks as he held the Brownies to only four hits. One of them, Stan Spence's third inning homer, accounted for two St. Louis runs.

The Yankees pounded out 15 hits off three Brown hurlers. Bobby Brown also homered for the American league leaders.

RED SOX SCORE IN TENTH TO DROP DETROIT, 8 TO 7

BOSTON, May 24 (INS)—The Boston Red Sox scored twice in the tenth inning today to beat the Detroit Tigers, 8 to 7, and sweep a three-game series.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Red Sox and Detroit's fifth loss in a row.

The Sox nearly blew the game as Detroit tied the score with two runs in the ninth and went ahead temporarily with a run in the top of the tenth.

Bobby Doerr's pop single to short right knocked in Boston's tenth inning runs after the bases were filled on walk by Dom DiMaggio, Johnny Pesky's single and an intentional pass to Vern Stephens.

Earl (Lefty) Johnson finally got credit for his third victory of the season although he and two predecessors, Mickey Harris and Tex Hughson, were tagged for 12 hits.

Johnny Groth, sensational rookie, hit his sixth homer and two singles for the Tigers.

Alfonso Carrasquel Is Learning English

DALLAS, May 24. (AP)—Alfonso Carrasquel can say what he thinks about umpires without being thumbed from the park. Now his teammates—the Fort Worth Cats—are learning Spanish, too. Perhaps the arbiters will need to take a foreign language course as a result.

Carrasquel is the first man ever to play in the Texas league without being able to speak a word of English. That is, he didn't know any a couple of weeks ago when he arrived. His progress has been amazing.

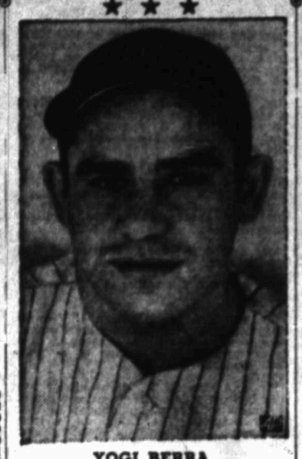

The tall, lithe young man from Caracas, Venezuela, has been catching the eyes of the fans here as Fort Worth plays Dallas a series. He is a fine fielder and a fair hitter (11 hits in 47 times at bat). His mates think he'll make the Class AA grade.

He was in spring training with the Brooklyn Dodgers squad and was shipped to Montreal. But he didn't get to play there. Fort Worth needed and Carrasquel was sent along.

At first Alfonso—his teammates call him Chico which, he explains, means pal or friend—had to get along with signs and a bat boy who spoke Spanish. Then nine days ago Cal Abrams came to the Cats. Cal is from Brooklyn but speaks Spanish. He learned it in the Philippines during the war. He not only communicates what teammates want Chico to know but is helping the Venezuelan learn English.

Turnesa Goes Up In British Play

PORTMARNOCK, Eire, May 24. (INS)—The American eagle screamed today in the second round of the British Amateur golf championship—but not wholly on a note of triumph.

Its two attacking "talons," champion Frank Stranahan and ex-champion Willie Turnesa, clawed their way through a day of wind and hectic challenge to survive unscathed.

Stranahan defeated Brig. Gen. A. C. Critchley by 4 and 2, after both had played the course in the manner of Sunday morning duffers.

Turnesa, 1947 British champion and present American title holder, gave his customary sound display in winning from David Choyce of London by 4 and 3. In addition, four other Americans advanced, including Stranahan's father, Robert A., Toledo, Ohio, industrialist.

Ouimet Loses Out

However, the old eagle lost some of his tail-feathers in the process. Six, all told, with the old-line champions, Francis Ouimet and Chick Evans, among the more distinguished victims.

Ouimet, who won his first major title in 1913, succumbed to the skillful play of Brendan Scannell's game, 2 and 1. And, oddly, the same score sufficed for Evans at the hands of Denis O'Sullivan, Ireland.

For a time, it seemed possible the retreat of the old champions into the shadows might be taken up by no less a person than young Stranahan himself. There was only one thing that saved the defending champion.

American Finale Seen

Critchley was equally bad on the outgoing nine, in which ordinary golf might have had Stranahan as much as four down.

Instead, they finished all square at the turn, with approximate 42's, six over par. Thus encouraged, the slender Stranahan got a grip on himself and went on to win.

Turnesa was two holes in front of Choyce at the same point, though starting off badly to be one down at the end of three holes. He even missed a 2-footer at the second. But the little shot-maker from Elmsford, N.Y., reeled off four holes in a row with a typical Turnesa rush—and this definitely "did for" Choyce.

Thus, the leading pair of invaders continued to justify dour British predictions that their meeting in an all-American final Saturday was practically ordained.

Detton Wrestles Dusette Tonight

Two main events will be the main attraction at Sled Allen's wrestling arena tonight, beginning at 8:30 p. m., and in the second bout Dean Detton, former World Heavyweight champion will meet George Dusette of Boston.

Dusette brushed Rod Fenton aside in two straight falls to win the shot at Detton who had challenged the winner of the match last week. In disposing of Fenton Dusette showed great strength and skill in coming out of tough spots when Fenton put on the pressure.

Smart Fighter

Detton is a smart, aggressive wrestler who boasts considerable strength in his own right as well as having the prestige of former champion. This match should provide the fans with excitement from start to finish.

In the first main battle George Curtis and Billy Goelz will come back for a rematch. The two boys put on a great exhibition of wrestling last week, with Goelz winning the only fall before time ran out in the match. This week they will have two out of three falls or an hour time limit. Curtis claims he would have won the second fall if time had not run out and that he had Goelz ready for the pin.

Both men asked for a rematch, and the promoter accepted. This match should be clean but rough.

Pappenheim, Bruckman Meet

Jack Pappenheim, who has not lost a match since his return to the local territory will tangle with George Bruckman, Washington, D. C. Bruckman is no stranger here, and fans can count on the senator furnishing a busy evening for the Oregon lumberjack.

Tickets are on sale at Wylie's Drug store until 5 p. m. today. The first two matches will have an hour time limit or two of three falls, and the preliminary match is for one fall or 20 minues.

Horse Trainer Ruled Off Track For Life

BALTIMORE, May 24 (INS)—The Maryland Racing Commission today ruled a trainer and his groom off the turf for life and cancelled the owner's license held by the trainer's wife.

The action stemmed from charges that trainer Carl G. Potts and groom H. P. (Tommy) Morris, used a battery on the race horse "Bully" at Pimlico last May 12.

At the same time, the Commission suspended indefinitely the license of jocky J. Franklin Ross for failure to appear as a witness at Potts' hearing this afternoon.

Potts had been suspended from training by the Pimlico steward after Morris was found trying to shock "Bully" with a battery before the first race at Pimlico May 12.

Track officials testified that when they looked under the bedclothing in Potts' tack room at Pimlico they found the battery and a small vial labelled "Adrenal Cortex." They promptly scratched the horse.

At today's hearing, Potts admitted he had personally used the battery on the day of the scheduled race, but denied that he had told Morris to use it.

Potts said he injected the drug into the horse because he had been told that it would help the horse's breathing.

HENDERSON, ALONZO IN MAIN BOUT

Signing Of Preliminary Boxers Completes Levelland Fight Card

LEVELLAND, May 24 (Special)—The fight card for the Jaycee boxing program here May 31 at the Rodeo arena has been completed with the signing of the fighters for the three preliminary matches.

The main attraction will be the 10-round lightweight match between Bill Henderson, Levelland and Lubbock, and Chino Alonzo, Douglas, Ariz. In the six-round semi-final event Heavyweight Gene James, Lubbock, tangles with Dickie Brown, Amarillo. Three four-rounders are also on the card.

Good Fight Seen

Henderson and Alonzo fought on the same program in Lubbock recently, and Alonzo went the route to decision Sammie Galvan, El Paso, in a featherweight match. Galvan met Henderson on three separate occasions, and dropped the three fights by TKO's. Henderson's only two losses in the ring have been to Jean Mougin, former French lightweight champion. In 60 professional fights from New York to California Alonzo has won 55 and never been knocked out.

Lew Jenkins, former World Lightweight champion, is said to have challenged the winner of the Alonzo-Henderson fight.

James has won both his professional fights, and he should be pushed to defeat Brown. The two fighters met while amateurs, and James stopped the Amarilloan, but Brown's manager thinks his fighter will take the forthcoming bout.

Garcia, Aquilar Meet

In the opening four-round preliminary bout Bobby Garcia, Juarez, will meet Jesus Aquilar, Chihuahua, in a featherweight bout. Following that fight Galvan and Trini Perez will meet, and in the third preliminary match Allen Williams, Lubbock, and Willie Brown, El Paso, will tangle. These boys are described as having powerful punches.

Tickets for the fights may be bought in Lubbock until Saturday at a booth in the Hilton hotel. Ringside seats sell for $4.80, reserved seats for $3.60, and general admission at $1.50. In addition to Lubbock ducats are on sale at Ropesville, Sundown and Levelland.

Indianapolis Time Trials Slated Today

INDIANAPOLIS, May 24 (INS)—Battling for the last nine spots among the 33-car starting field for next Monday's 500-mile auto classic at Indianapolis will resume tomorrow, next-to-last day of time trials at the speedway oval.

Some 27 cars are expected to attempt the ten-mile qualification run tomorrow or Saturday.

The possibility remains that some of those already qualified may be "bumped" by faster racers.

Several speedway veterans maintain it will take a low of 126 miles for a starting berth, and seven of the 24 cars already qualified averaged under that.

Tomorrow's time trials are expected to include the Bowes Seal Fast which Rex Mays drove to the pole position at an average of 130.577 MPH last year. That car has not yet taken the track, but Mel Hansen of Los Angeles is expected to attempt to qualify it tomorrow.

Communist Units Occupy Shanghai

Associated Press China chief, was fired upon. She said three bullets whizzed past her head as she looked to see if the Reds were going to engage government troops holding the bridges.

The American-owned radio station BEB 3 received orders from Communist military authorities to close down "for the time being." Its manager is Bill Crum, a U. S. citizen born in Shanghai. His mother, Laura Crum, lives in Los Angeles.

The battle still raged to the north. The bulk of the garrison had withdrawn during the night and was trying to escape to Woosung, 10 miles north.

Reds Enter Briskly

Whether the garrison had escaped from Woosung was still uncertain.

The veteran troops of Red Gen. Chen Yi moved into the city some time before dawn. They came through the old French concession, which is in the southwest part of the city.

After a night of terrific cannonading from the north and pitched battles on the west, the Reds entered briskly and without much trouble.

The Red troops, although plainly tired, came down all main avenues of the city to the Bund, Shanghai's famous waterfront, on the double quick. They carried light arms and machineguns.

Their sharp formations, decisive movements and obvious spirit contrasted sharply with the indifferent soldiers, who spent a good part of their last days in Shanghai looting.

Welcome Sign Raised

At a barricade in front of the city hall, Nationalists broke out a huge sign saying "welcome peoples liberation (Communist) army."

Few Shanghai residents saw the Communist entry. A rigid curfew kept everyone off the streets until 6 a. m. The advance units moved down almost vacant streets.

The Nationalist collapse began at midday Tuesday. At that time the Reds penetrated the southwest defenses.

By nightfall it appeared the Nationalists had regained control. A few hours later, however, it became clear the garrison was not going to try to hold the city any longer.

While the Communist job of taking over the greatest city in all Asia moved forward, the din of battle still echoed from the Woosung front.

The Nationalist garrison is fighting to keep open the road to their escape port of Woosung.

Aside from scattered small arms fire, however, a calm descended over Shanghai as Communist troops made their entry.

The city appeared to be undergoing the first stages of occupation while the battle still echoed to the north.

Directions Posted

The Red troops began putting up posters in Chinese instructing the populace to be calm and assuring them they had nothing to fear.

Other units began stringing telephone wires. Others marked important street intersections with white arrows, fixing the routes into the city.

From various sectors of town similar reports came. In places there still was some small arms firing.

The white flag flew over Foochow police station, downtown and next door to the American club. Not far away is the American consulate.

Progress Orderly

A new police group took over the station during the night as the old police evacuated. (Whether these are Red police is not known.)

The progress of the Communist troops to the downtown area was orderly.

Amos Landman, Associated Press correspondent, watched the first small groups of Communist troops as they reached downtown Shanghai about 7:30 a.m.

They wore emblems on their green uniforms identifying them as "the peoples liberation army."

Landman said that as they reached the plush Park hotel, one of Shanghai's skyscrapers, Nationalist soldiers stood at barricades about two blocks away. There was no firing, however.

Cannonading Continues

Landman reported the Communist troops appeared to be dumbfounded to have an American drive up in his car. They politely asked him to turn around and drive back to avoid danger.

"Those I saw carried American carbines," he reported. "Their uniforms were soiled, indicating they had been through thick fighting."

(Pilots arriving in Canton from Shanghai had said earlier that the Chinese Nationalist navy had massed ships at Woosung for what appeared to be a general evacuation.)

Texan Saws Through Bars In Jail Cell But Fails To Escape

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., May 24 (AP)—A three-quarter inch steel window bar in the city jail was welded together today after a transient prisoner filed through it for an unsuccessful jail break.

Police Chief Paul Shaver said J. H. Sowell, wanted in Tyler, Tex., on a burglary charge, apparently used a small bent file he had concealed in his belt or coattails.

Here is the way Shaver reconstructed the story:

The Texan was brought here early today by a Tyler officer. Police gave him lodging in a double-bunk cell apart from the main jail.

Apparently he tried to saw through three bars—one on each side of the one he completed. However, it took too long. He was again turned over to the Tyler officer at 6:28 a. m. He had sawed on the lone bar since he was placed in the cell at 2:05 a. m.

Convict Admits He Killed Guard's Wife

RICHMOND, May 24 (AP)—Joe Juarez, 22-year-old El Paso convict, confessed tonight to the assault slaying of Mrs. R. P. Stovall, 57, wife of a Harlem prison farm guard Monday morning.

The confession of Juarez was part of a 45 minute wire recording of questioning by investigating officers.

Sheriff Ruce Lincecum, on his return here from the prison farm tonight, said he will file a charge of murder with malice against Juarez before Justice of the Peace Henry Kacal here tomorrow morning.

Sheriff Lincecum was one of a group of investigators who spent a sleepless 34 hours in questioning Harlem convicts in their search for the slayer of Mrs. Stovall.

Juarez said in his confession that he did not intend to kill Mrs. Stovall but that he did intend to assault her.

He said, in the recording, that he entered the Stovall home at 9:05 a. m. Monday on the pretense of learning if Mrs. Stovall wanted some potatoes.

When she resisted, Juarez said, he grabbed her and tore her clothes. Then, he said, he slashed her throat four or five times and stabbed her twice in the heart.

The flat roof and hanging eaves of the building are designed to shade the windows from the hot summer sun, but allow winter sun to enter the classrooms.

The temporary school now in operation on the school site will be moved, with the exception of the wing which now houses the cafeteria. The heating plant for the school will be housed in a separate building.

Red Forces Retreat

ation. Howley said:

"I am greatly shocked at Soviet tactics in directing and encouraging strike-breaking in which men with guns shoot without provocation and hesitation unarmed people."

Strike Declared "Just"

Howley told a news conference that the Soviet-controlled rail directorate was not making any effort to settle the strike "although it could be easily settled if they really wanted it." He added:

"It is difficult to recall any strike more just."

The strikers are demanding payment in Western-issued marks which are four times as valuable as the Russian marks. They also demand reinstatement of workers fired for political reasons.

In an effort to beat the echo, Winchester Cathedral, England, has 24 loudspeakers.

Peggy Kirk Loses Out In British Tourney

HARLECH, Wales, May 24 (INS)—America's two-year hold on the British women's golf championship was broken today when Peggy Kirk and Grace Lenzcyk were eliminated.

Miss Lenczyk, the American champion from Newington, Conn., was first to fall by the wayside, bowing in the third round to Jean Bisgood of London, 2 and 1.

Miss Kirk won her third round match from Mrs. R. T. Peel, Scot veteran, 3 and 2, but the Findlay, Ohio girl fell in the next round before the steady playing of another Scotch woman, Mrs. Cosmo Falconer, 4 and 3.

Miss Lenczyk was a strong pretournament favorite to capture the title won two years ago by Mrs. Mildred Babe Zaharias and taken last year by Louise Suggs. Both have turned professional and were unable to compete this year.

The course was soggy from rains and Miss Lenczyk was unable to negotiate the quagmires in her customary classy style.

distance away, so a neighbor, a Mr. Blair, whose first name was not known last night, rushed the child to the Seagraves clinic-hospital.

No Arsenic antidote was available in Seagraves last night. Joe Webb, Seagraves pharmicist who owns the Webb Funeral home there, telephoned a number of Lubbock drug stores and succeeded in locating the antidote at John Halsey Drug store here.

Webb then contacted the Texas Highway patrol office here and asked that a patrol car be dispatched toward Seagraves with the medicine Immediately after, he dispatched his funeral home ambulance to meet the patrol car and carry the antidote on to Seagraves.

Stroud, of the highway patrol, left Lubbock about 9:50 p.m. He met the ambulance about 10:17 p.m., two miles northeast of Brownfield. The ambulance driver took the medicine the remaining 23 miles to Seagraves.

The infant was given a shot of the antidote at about 11 p.m. immediately after the ambulance reached Seagraves

Attendants at the hospital late last night said the youngster had responded to treatment, although it was yet too early to tell whether he would continue to improve without complications.

wind up their work by August.

Lucas said he thinks Mr. Truman is "definitely satisfied" with the progress being made on the sweeping legislative program laid down in January.

But he said there was no prospect for action now on the compulsory medical care plan Mr. Truman repeatedly has requested as part of a long range heal'h program. Backers of the measure have estimated its cost at about $6,000,000,000 a year to be financed out of a payroll tax system.

Lucas said the policy committee reached no decision on whether the Senate will act first on the Taft-Hartley repeal bill or take up the Atlantic pact.

These were other developments:

1. Chairman Lesinski (D-Mich) said his House Labor committee will have another Taft-Hartley repeal measure ready for floor action in two or three weeks.

2. Rep. Powell (D-NY) announced that his labor sub-committee will wind up public hearings on fair employment practices legislation this week and will have a bill ready for the full committee a week or 10 days later. He predicted that this particularly controversial portion of the civil rights program will be brought to a roll call vote in the House the last part of June or the first week in July.

Czechs Who Aided Reds Face Ouster From Catholic Church

PRAGUE, May 24 (AP)—Archbishop Josef Beran threatened today to excommunicate all Catholics collaborating with Czechoslovakia's Communist government against the church.

The archbishop charged that an attempt was being made to set up "a new Catholic church without its current bishops and its principal head in Rome."

The statement was the sharpest the archbishop has made in a mounting church-state conflict here. It was contained in a personal letter to Alois Petr, minister of transport and head of the Communist-approved Catholic Peoples party.

Late Senator Glass Cleared Of Charges

RICHMOND, Va., May 24 (AP)—The late United States Senator Carter Glass today no longer stood accused of taking money to obtain war contracts for the Roanoke, Va., welding and equipment company.

His name was cleared here yesterday in the federal court income tax evasion trial of W. Clay Counts, who represented the firm.

Counts is charged with understating his 1943 income by approximately $15,800. This is the amount of money he said in February of this year he had paid to Senator Glass or persons representing him for the senator's aid in Washington.

"We are going to base our case on the payments being made to an imposter, not to Senator Glass," an attorney for Counts said.

"We know now it wasn't Senator Glass" who accepted the money, another defense lawyer said.

Counts has pleaded innocent to the income tax evasion charge.

Senator Glass was Secretary of the Treasury in the Wilson cabinet and the author of the Federal Reserve act.

Immediately after the bout, promoter Sam Becker announced that Freddie Mills of England, world champion, had accepted a title match with Maxim at Cincinnati in September. Mills won the title from Lesnevich at London last July, and hasn't defended it.

ST. PAUL, May 24 (INS) — A "balancing rock"—long a landmark on Spirit Island in Mille Lacs lake near St. Paul—was reported today to have toppled from its perch yesterday and crushed to death a fisherman, C. Jerome Woeblenberg.

The 28-year-old victim of the freak accident was on an outing with his father, Bernard, and a brother, Paul, and a friend, Betty Mickeli, all of St. Paul.

The fishing party stopped to rest on the island and Paul Woeblenberg walked past the 10-ton boulder, with his brother following.

Car Seized Again

Police, striking back at an alleged bootlegger who had stolen his own car from police, said yesterday they had seized the car again.

But the owner still was at liberty, although he is under charge of liquor law violation.

Police, finding the car parked in a residential addition Sunday, checked and found a large amount of liquor in it. They towed the car to the police station, transferred the liquor to the station's vault, and parked the car outside. The car was gone Monday morning.

Big Four plus countries bordering Germany — Poland, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, and Luxembourg—and representatives of German economic organizations.

No change in Russia's demands for $10,000,000,000 in reparations from Germany was indicated. Vishinsky said Russia's position on that was well known.

The Soviet foreign minister led up to his plan with a long speech in which he accused the western powers of departing from the principles laid down in the conferences at Yalta and Potsdam, and partitioning Germany. However, he did not indulge in the acrimonious statements on these points which have characterized past conferences.

Acheson rose at once after Vishinsky had finished and called the program a "back to Potsdam policy." He compared it with a patient who had the use of three limbs restored after being stricken with paralysis and was asked to return to his helpless condition.

He stressed the determination of the three western powers "not to undo" the progress they had made in the recovery of their zones.

School Drops Red

three North Carolina schools met with Gov. Kerr Scott and trustees of the institutions. They asserted in a joint report that there is only "one avowed Communist" on the greater university staff.

They referred to Freistadt, who appeared before the joint congressional committee last week and declared he was a "loyal citizen of the United States."

The report declared:

"The Communists are taking advantage of the situation. If we are not realistic, prudent and cautious, we may discover too late that we have stretched our freedom and tolerance to a point that we may have become unwilling collaborators."

Veterans Groups To Conduct Memorial Service Here Monday

Plans for a joint memorial service to be held Monday at 6:30 p. m. at the grave of Jeff Forgey in Memorial Park cemetery were made at a meeting of a joint committee of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans, it was announced Tuesday.

The three organizations will cooperate in conducting the service.

The joint memorial service is planned as a Memorial Day observance. It was pointed out last night that in honoring the grave of Forgey, all deceased servicemen are honored. Forgey's grave thus is representative of graves of all war dead of Lubbock and the area. Forgey died in a Japanese prison camp in the Philippines during World War II.

Fred Young will be master of ceremonies for the program. Tommy Harrell will ask invocation and Roy Bass, Lubbock attorney, will make a memorial address, to be followed by musical selections by a quartet.

Commanders of the three organizations and presidents of their auxiliaries will place flowers on the grave. A firing squad will fire three volleys. The service will be dismissed by Thelma Pugh.

Atom Energy

mer Communist organizer confronted and accused Dr. Hiskey of being a member of the Communist party.

Paul Crouch, Miami Daily News employe, made the accusation. Hisky, now a teacher at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, refused on constitutional grounds to tell the committee whether he is a party member or even knew Crouch.

Outside Aid Sought

Hiskey said, however, that he considers himself loyal to the United States and that to turn over any atomic information to Russian agents would be a disloyal act.

But he refused to say whether he ever sought to give information to Arthur Adams, described by the committee as a "master Soviet agent" while working on the atomic bomb project in Chicago.

The Senate subcommittee reached an agreement late today with the joint Congressional Atomic committee whereby it will step out of the atomic inquiry to avoid overlapping of work.

The joint Senate-House group is seeking the aid of an "outside expert" in its own inquiry into the accusations against Lilienthal and the demands that he be fired.

Shipment Okayed

Lilienthal acknowledged before the O'Mahoney subcommittee that the commission approved shipment overseas of radioactive isotopes over the objections of Commissioner Lewis Strauss.

Asked whether isotopes had been sent to countries "near the Soviet Union," Lilienthal replied:

"Norway, I think. I'd have to consult the records."

Strauss declared he fought approval of isotope export on security grounds. He said his objections were overridden and that approval was granted "with the knowledge of the State department."

Wilson testified that AEC agents took the two bars of U-235 to test security at the Hanford plant, which is operated by the General Electric company. He did not make it clear whether General Electric was held at fault in the long-undetected "loss."

Documents Believed Stolen

Wilson then was asked whether it is true that Atomic Energy commission "plans" have been stolen. He replied:

"Out of millions of documents, I am sure some have been taken."

The AEC later refused to elaborate on Wilson's cryptic statement "until it is determined what the general manager had in mind when he made it."

O'Mahoney made public a letter from Comptroller Lindsay Warren urging Congress to prevent expenditure of AEC scholarship funds on persons who advocate overthrow of the government. Lilienthal has expressed the belief that scholarship awards were made to three Communists.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) accused Lilienthal of keeping the FBI out of the Chicago uranium disappearance "until the trail was cold." Lilienthal denied the charge. (The AEC says that all but an eighth-of-an-ounce of the missing U-235 has been recovered.)

Lilienthal insisted that there was no evidence of "theft or espionage" in the loss of the U-235 at Chicago. He blamed the disappearance on "a substantial error, a human error."

Strauss expressed disagreement with the testimony of Dr. Kenneth Pitzer, an AEC research scientist, who said that since isotopes were in use before development of the A-bomb they could be sent overseas without imperiling American security.

Strauss said he was particularly concerned with the fact that by the use of isotopes "research could be advanced along the lines of orthodox weapons."

Lubbock Construction Company Enters Low Bid On Road Project

Low bid on 13.2 miles of road construction in Castro county was made by Kerr and Middleton of Lubbock, who bid $81,611 The Associated Press reported from Austin Tuesday.

The bid, one of a group totaling $3,673,490 on road and highway construction projects in the state, was on flexible base and asphalt surface of farm roads 1,056 and 1,057, from 2.9 miles west of Easter school to 2.6 miles of State Highway 51, and from State Highway 86 at Nazareth to a point five miles north.

The Netherlands expects to have attained record prosperity by the end of ERP.

Exceptions To Gas Flare Order Asked

AUSTIN, May 24. (AP)—Public hearings will be held June 24 on the requests of two companies for exceptions in the Slaughter field to the railroad commission's flare gas order of last December.

Stanolind Oil and Gas company has applied for exemption of 10 of its wells and Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company for two of its wells from the order that all gas produced incident to production of oil be diverted to legal uses.

Stanolind seeks exceptions for one well on its J. M. Davis lease, one on its A. J. Richards lease, one on its mallet "G" R/A "A" lease, and 16 on its C. S. Dean "A" lease —wells Nos. 1 to 9 and 11 to 17, inclusive.

Texas Pacific asks exceptions for its Katie Foy well No. 1 and its B. C. Hodges well No. 1.

The Slaughter field is located in Cochran, Hockley and Terry counties.

Rent Decontrol Plan

are 7,500 units padlocked in Fort Worth and 4,000 in San Antonio," he said.

"Leveling Off" Predicted

J. C. Watts of Houston, vice president of the Houston Home Builders association, estimated there were approximately 3,500 housing units in Houston available for rent.

"If rents are decontrolled, within 60 days everything will be leveled off and competition would force lower rents," said W. T. Clarke of Waco.

Cecil Barnes of San Angelo said that his area had been decontrolled for more than two years "and as far as I know there is no organized effort to bring back control."

"I have 35 rental units now," said A. E. Lang of El Paso. "I had planned to build 24 more—had them financed and everything—but I'm not going to build as long as we have this ungodly thing."

Higher Rents Seen

After backers of the bill had testified for an hour, opponents were given their chance.

"We are neither for nor against this bill," said General Gates. "I am just speaking for the armed forces as the biggest rental agent in this neck of the woods—11,000 units."

"Our lads in the service can not afford to pay rent on houses actually worth $2,200 but valued at $7,500 by somebody with a wild imagination," he said. "When you call off rent control, it will throw rents up and those kids will have to start paying through the nose."

A. S. Rosson of Austin spoke against the bill as "a representative of old age pensioners and those on the welfare roles."

"Don't take away the only protection we have left," said G. B. Nichols, University of Texas student.

"If you take the lid off rent controls, rents will go up 200 and 300 percent in some localities," said Harold W. Smith of El Paso.

Loyalist Democrats To Appeal Earlier Anti-Purge Rulings

FORT WORTH, May 24 (AP)—Ernest May, attorney for loyalist Democrats, said tonight he will file an appeal with the state supreme court Tuesday from lower court ruling which blocked the purge of party officers who did not sign Truman-Barkley pledges.

However, May said the actual filing will depend upon whether the printer returns the brief Tuesday morning.

At the Democratic state convention here last September, loyalists gained control of party machinery and voted to sweep out all anti-Truman officials. But Tarrant county conservatives, who were tossed out of the convention, obtained an injunction against the purge of precinct officers and against the unseating of Neville Penrose and Mrs. Bennett Smith as members of the state executive committee.

The second court of civil appeals upheld the injunction.

Giant Air Lift Strato-Freighter Crash Lands In British Sector

BERLIN, May 24 (U.P.)—A giant C-97 strato-freighter crash-landed at Gatow airfield in the British sector tonight, tearing up the runway and putting the key air lift base out of action until tomorrow, Air Force officials announced.

The C-97's crew escaped uninjured, but the plane, only one of its type in the air lift, was damaged. It had been sent from the air base at El Paso, to Germany for 30 days' experimental flights.

Capable of carrying 25 tons of cargo, the plane radioed from over the Soviet zone 50 miles from Berlin that it had engine trouble and would try to make an emergency landing at Gatow.

Mexico and Cuba will meet early in July in the first round of the Davis Cup American Zone matches.

Powell Wins Verdict In Damage Suit Here

A 99th district petit jury of which Bob Crump of Shallowater was foreman said by its verdict returned at 4:40 p.m. Tuesday that L. M. Blair knew when he purchased the partnership interest of William J. Powell Dec. 19, 1947, that Powell had withdrawn $5,000 of partnership funds about Nov. 29, 1947.

Based upon that answer of the sole special issue submitted to the jury by Judge G. V. Pardue, Powell, the defendant in a damages action brought by Blair to recover $2,500, will move for judgment it was expected. He was represented by the law firm of Nelson and McCleskey.

At the time the sale was closed the men were partners in a Clovis, N.M., automobile agency.

Austria's black market prices are reported dropping.

Fort Worth Property Owners Probe Cause Of Breaks In Levee

FORT WORTH, May 24. (U.P.)—A committee of 12 west side property owners today demanded "real protection" for their flood-devastated area and began an investigation to determine if negligence was involved in Trinity river levee breaks last week.

The committee was named last night at a meeting of 500 property owners who suffered heavy losses when the muddy flood waters swirled into lowland areas. Tom Puryear, committee spokesman, said another meeting may be held Friday night.

Damage Suits Hinted

Puryear indicated the property owners would file damage suits if liability for the breaks is established. A member of the levee board said meanwhile that he understood a plastics firm was preparing to file a damage suit against the district as a result of flood losses. A representative of the firm refused comment.

Meanwhile, bulldozers led a parade of construction equipment into Trinity Park lowlands as work began on a $97,975 project for emergency repairs to flood-damaged levees. The Hovenkamp Construction company started moving equipment into the area less than four hours after signing a contract with Army engineers.

Spraying Continues

Meanwhile, spraying of the city continued and was expected to last all week. Dr. W. V. Bradshaw, city health director, reported one death from diarrhea and more than 20 cases in hospitals as a result of the flood. He also cautioned persons against taking "foolish risks" just because they have received typhoid shots.

Fort Worth's water supply continued near normal today, despite a breakdown of a 15,000,000 gallon pump at the Holly plant. However, city officials said they did not know when the water would be safe for drinking and cooking without boiling, although they indicated this might be tomorrow.

Perjury Charges Against Former Air Force General Are Dropped

WASHINGTON, May 24. (AP)—The government has dropped its perjury charges against former Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers.

The wartime Air Force purchasing officer, now serving 15 months to five years for inducing another man to commit perjury, still faces an additional charge of income tax evasion. He will be eligible for parole from prison Sept. 15.

All three charges developed after Bleriot Lamarre had told a Senate committee that Meyers, while an Army Air Force officer, had been secret owner of a war plant in Ohio, with Lamarre serving as its dummy president. Lamarre testified that Meyers had induced him to testify falsely about the plant's ownership.

In the perjury charges which it dropped yesterday, the government had accused Meyers of giving false testimony about his interest in the company.

Lamarre, who pleaded guilty to perjury, is now on two years probation.

T.U. Student Leader Fatally Hurt In Crash

AUSTIN, May 24. (U.P.)—A traffic accident today killed the vice president of the University of Texas student body and injured the president of the school organization.

Police said 23-year-old Robert Elmo Ferguson of San Antonio received fatal injuries, including a skull fracture.

Ellis M. Brown, 29, of Corpus Christi, president of the student body, was identified as the driver of the car. He was being held for treatment at Brackenridge hospital.

Ferguson died less than two hours after being admitted.

Police said Ferguson was fatally injured when the car in which he was riding went out of control at a street intersection. No other vehicle was involved. The car, investigating officers said, leaped the curb and as it skidded wildly, catapulted Ferguson from the vehicle into the brick wall of a building.

Fort Worth Woman Held In Connection With Cattle Rustling

FORT WORTH, May 24 (U.P.)—A 46-year-old woman was arrested at her east side home here for questioning in connection with cattle rustling in Center (Shelby county).

She and a 44-year-old male companion were arrested by Fort Worth officers and were to be returned today to Center for questioning.

Soviets Anxious To 'Turn Back Clock' On Plans For Germany

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Russia would like to turn the German clock back to the days after Potsdam.

She wants to return to something like the old four-power control council. She wants to turn Allied plans for German self-government into a system whereby the Germans would merely administer the council's policies through a central organization, as against the state organizations which existed before. She applies for membership in an international Ruhr control.

Counter Allied Policy

These were the highlights of Andrei Vishinsky's long-awaited policy statement in Paris.

They run counter to Allied policy in almost every respect. They raise the question whether or not Russia's recent display of a more conciliatory mood may not be merely a gesture, after which they will renew their propaganda line that the West is responsible for continued division of the world into two camps.

The Allies have left the way open for Russian entry into the new high commission which will replace military government simultaneously with the establishment of a federal government of Western Germany. There might be a possibility that Russia would compromise for that.

Promises Worthless

The high commission is planned as the result of a whole series of developments in Western Germany—currency reform, establishment of democratic processes, drafting of a constitution and provision for free elections. The commission will begin to operate only when this series of events is complete—perhaps in July.

Allied diplomats take the stand that, in the light of experience, agreements and promises on Russia's part have no meaning except as they establish concrete action as policy.

For unification of Germany, then, and for re-entry of Russia into control collaboration, Allied policy would require a series of steps in the Russian zone paralleling those for Western Germany. The Soviets would have to tear down the iron curtain between zones, establish truly democratic processes in their area, and send representatives to the central government who have been chosen in free elections supervised by all four powers.

Mexican President To Aid In Settling Oil Industry Disputes

MEXICO CITY, May 24 (U.P.)—President Miguel Aleman will be asked to help settle any threatened Mexican oil strike, the executive committee of the National Petroleum union announced today.

Union section leaders have been meeting in Tampico to discuss a possible strike vote over demands for a 30 percent wage increase. Their collective contract expires May 30.

While union leaders have been opposed to any strike action, nearly 36,000 of the 50,000 workers have voted for a walkout. Workers would have to wait a month before an actual work stoppage.

Former New York Bank Official Pleads Guilty To Embezzlement

NEW YORK, May 24. (U.P.)—Richard H. Crowe, the assistant manager who disappeared from a Broadway bank March 25 and was arrested in Florida, pleaded guilty today to embezzling $883,660.

The unexpected guilty plea brought to an abrupt close the trial of the Staten Island socialite, whose attorneys indicated at one time that they might be considering a plea of insanity.

Federal Judge Samuel H. Kaufman set June 14 for sentencing. Crowe faces a maximum penalty of 45 years in prison and a $30,000 fine. However, Assistant U.S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol told the court that all the money and bonds taken by Crowe from the Broadway branch of the National City bank had been recovered except $6,171.70.

Crowe's attorneys hinted that full restitution might be made before he appears for sentencing, indicating that they hope for a light sentence, or even a suspended sentence.

Major Appropriation Bills Set For Final Action

Senate Approves Education Fund

By MAC ROY RASOR
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, May 24.—All major appropriation bills but one were ready today for House-Senate conference committees to work out differences and pave the way for final adjournment of the legislature.

Approval by the Senate of the higher education bill—including a provision for a new medical school—left only the eleemosynary measure pending Senate action.

The House worked on proposed loans for veterans and prison bills.

As approved by the Senate the higher education bill—providing funds for operation of the state-supported colleges—called for a total outlay of $67,503,898. The House approved $60,009,571.

Other Measures Okayed

The bill must now return to the House. Unless the Senate changes are acceptable there, a conference committee will then work out a compromise measure.

One of the major changes was addition of $2,000,000 to create one new medical branch of the University of Texas. Separate bills had proposed three such branches, at Dallas, San Antonio and Temple.

The Senate left location of the one school up to the board of regents of the University of Texas.

The House had approved all three separate bills for medical schools.

Also finally approved by the Senate today and sent to the governor was a House measure appropriating $4,200,000 for the state's junior colleges.

Lamar Bill Again Blocked

Another Senate attempt to bring up a bill to make a full four-year college of Lamar Junior college at Beaumont failed 15-12.

The House passed to third reading a proposed constitutional amendment calling for the state to issue $300,000 in bonds to finance loans by the state to veterans of the last war for small businesses and housing.

A proposed constitutional amendment calling for alternate December meetings of the legislature for selection of a speaker of the House was killed.

Three prison reform bills passed the House without opposition. Sent to the governor was a bill correcting the prison appropriation bill. Sent back to the Senate with amendments were bills allowing the prison board to approve prison building plans and to dispose of the bodies of executed convicts.

Senate Dispute Continues

The Senate's writing of a new medical school appropriation into its general appropriation bill for higher education came after long

Pre-School Term Plans Completed

Arrangements for this summer's pre-school term for six-year-olds have been announced by Mrs. Ivy Savage, principal for the summer pre-school.

The school, designed to orientate students who will enter the first grade in September, will be held June 3 through July 12 in all elementary schools of the city. There is no charge for attending the pre-school.

Enrollment for the term is scheduled June 1-2. Students whose surnames begin with the letters "A" through "M" are asked to enroll from 8 a. m. until noon June 1 at their respective elementary schools. Students whose surnames begin with the letters "N" through "Z" are to register during the same hours June 2.

Steps Outlined

Students planning to attend the free summer school in Lubbock will enroll May 30-31. Adults who wish to take special courses also will register on these days, Supt. R. W. Matthems has announced.

Ishmael Hill, assistant superintendent in charge of elementary education, said today that mothers of pre-school children may begin at once to prepare their children for the pre-school term. He outlined these steps in preparation:

1. Securing a photostatic copy of the child's birth certificate, to be left on file with the school.
2. Having the child vaccinated for small pox.
3. Giving the child the Schick test, or diphtheria shots, for diphtheria.
4. Checking with the family physician regarding typhoid and whooping cough shots.

The Lubbock school system rocommends that children be given whooping cough shots, but this is not compulsory as are small pox vaccination and diphtheria shots, Hill explained.

New City Directory Issued For Lubbock

Increase In City's Population Shown

More than 9,000 names have been added to the Lubbock city directory since 1945. This was disclosed Tuesday when the new directory was delivered to area subscribers. The total registration now stands at 33,336, according to the publishers' records.

The firm that compiled and printed the directory points out that this figure is not to be construed as a population figure. Actually, they say, husbands and wives have a single listing and no one under 18 is included.

C-C Figure Cited

In checking with the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce it was learned that as of January 1, there were 11,237 children in Lubbock public schools. Even allowing two children to each family would indicate at least 5,600 mothers. Added to the directory figure of 33,336 these numbers give a total of better than 50,000.

Having arrived at 50,000, the unmarried and childless families are not included. With these to be considered it is easy to believe that the Chamber of Commerce estimate made on January 1 is very nearly accurate.

Using utility connections, school records and other public data, the Chamber of Commerce places the population of Lubbock at 63,095. This includes only those residing within the present corporate limits. The metropolitan area would include more than 76,000, officials believe.

Compass Represented

While the new directory served to substantiate the estimates made locally it also compiled other interesting data.

William T. Aaron is the first listing in the new book and Robert R. Zyback is the last. At different way stations between these two names are a great many surname oddities and unusual combinations. The directory has a Cain and Abel and two Angels; there are Bills, Bucks, Cash and Dollar; Cole and Coke; Good and Best; Rich and Poor; and Music and Tune.

There are some geographic excursions such as, England, France, Spain, Cuba, Germany and Ireland. The compass is revealed in the four points, North, East, South and West.

Two Darlings Here

There are two Darlings in Lubbock. In this case they are both men. And of course, Lubbock being in Texas, we have such good names as Bragg and Bigness.

Some regular features of the directory are the designation of owner-occupied homes, homes and business establishments having telephones, heads of households, marital status and names of wives. A complete statistical review of the city is carried in the preface of the book under the title, "The Hub of the Plains."

There are 285 categories of commercial, professional and industrial enterprises listed, beginning with 'Abstracters' and continuing through to 'X-Ray Laboratories.'

The directories are not only delivered in town they are sent to reference libraries all over the United States where they are available for general public use.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce officials are awaiting the outcome of the 1950 federal census which they believe will substantiate their estimates of the city's population. After the census is completed in 1950 it will be several months before the information is compiled and sifted for a final accurate report. In the meantime the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organiazations are working toward a maximum figure that will go into the official federal records.

Judge Demands Disaster Report

HOUSTON, May 24 (AP) — A federal judge today ordered a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent to produce in court at Galveston May 31 a secret report on the Texas City disaster.

Judge T. M Kennerly earlier had seen two FBI agents ignore orders that they bring the report into court.

Galen N. Willis, agent in charge of the Houston FBI office, and Maurice H. Price Milwaukee, Wis., agent, advised Kennerly of a Justice department order forbidding release of FBI material except by special permission from the attorney general

Price was on the witness stand the past two days and at one time Kennerly told him:

Court Recess Ordered

"The court is bigger than you are, Mr. FBI."

It was a rather stormy day for the trial, now in its fifth week. Previous proceedings have been comparatively dull as attorneys waded through a mass of depositions and exhibits.

Attorneys for the government and the approximately 3,000 plaintiffs also accused each other of withholding documents and exhibits from the trial.

Kennerly ended all the controversies by ordering that all the disputed material be produced in court along with the FBI report May 31.

The trial is being recessed until then.

The disputed FBI report involves movements of shipments of ammonium nitrate fertilizer, a study assigned Price during the investigation of the Texas City disaster of April 1947.

The fertilizer compound was among the cargo of the French freighter Grandcamp, original vessel to explode in the disaster.

U.S. Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph W. Cash, Houston, drew a sharp reply from Kennerly when he commented that Price is under the jurisdiction of the attorney general and that the FBI order read by Price and Willis was based on an act of Congress.

The 76-year-old judge, replied that he does not care whose jurisdiction the FBI is under but that he wanted the report produced.

Kennerly also interrupted when the government objected to a ques-

Ohio Plant Engaged In Atomic Energy Work Is Razed By Fire

WILLOUGHBY, O., May 24 (INS) —Fire today swept the Barium & Chemicals Co., Inc., in Willoughby, where Atomic Energy commission work is being done, and officials said the FBI and Army intelligence officers would be called in to investigate.

Two hundred workers were forced to flee but no one was reported injured.

The fire caused an estimated $200,000 damage. Company president Albert Pavlik said it apparently started in a chemical container drying and storage room, and spread rapidly.

Specialized machinery, used in the production of barium and its chlorides, was destroyed.

Disaster Plans Discussed Here

Each member of the disaster preparedness committee of Lubbock county chapter of the American Red Cross explained his plans which would be put into effect in event of an emergency in Lubbock county at a meeting of the committee Tuesday morning in the Colonial room at Hilton hotel.

Complete plans will be typed and compiled into brochures for each member of the committee and assistants and for members of the chapter board of directors.

Jackson Presides At Meet

R. E. (Dick) Jackson, chairman of the committee, presided at the meeting, the first held since he accepted the chairmanship several weeks ago.

Those attending were E. F. St. Clair, jr., chapter chairman; N. K. Snodgrass, major in the National Guard, rescue activities; W. A. (Mose) Hood, first aid; A. B. Slagle, public information; T. Bruce Craig, Gordon Thompson, communications; James B. Williams, of U.S. Naval Reserve Training center on Texas Tech campus, communications, shelter and rescue; Ray Farmer and Mrs. L. E. Davis, transportation; Ross McWhorter, shelter; Newton Walton, clothing; Dr. R. C. Douglas, medical plan; Mesdames I. B. Wright and R. P. Rampy, nursing activities; Clem Boverie, foods; Mrs. Hurley Carpenter, registration; Miss Lula Mae Cravens, volunteers for all activities; W. O. WELL FLOWS AFTER ACID WASH

Magnolia Wildcat In Andrews County Shows For Production

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 18-B Cowden, wildcat in southwest Andrews county, two miles east and slightly west of the Dollarhide field, and 660 feet from north and east lines of section 12, block A-55, psl, survey, was flowing to test from the Fusselman section of the Silurian.

A perforated interval at 11,056-82 feet was washed with 500 gallons of mud acid. After the acid load and residue was swabbed out the venture kicked off and started flowing.

It was averaging six and one-half barrels of oil per hour flowing through a three-eighth choke at last report.

Shows Good Production

This venture showed for good production in the Devonian on drillstem tests which was taken while that formation was being drilled through. Operator probable will make production tests in that horizon in the near future.

In 15 hours of flowing the well had made 99 barrels of oil, and was still flowing. Gas-oil ratio was 568-1, and gravity is 41.9 degrees. Operator likely will test an upper zone in the Fusselman shortly.

Stanolind was preparing to plug back for tests of a higher formation with its No. 15 American Warehouse, deep wildcat in the Cedar Lake area of northeast Gaines county.

The venture was dry in the Elenburger in drilling to 13,186 feet. Reducing hole to 12,354 feet, it recovered water in the Devonian.

New Test Planned

Operator now plans to plug back to 8,300 feet for tests of a formation thought to be Wolfcamp-Permian or upper Pennsylvania. As the hole at that depth is messed up with mud, a whipstock is to be set and new hole is to be drilled for a drillstem test.

This exploration is 1,650 feet from south and east lines of section 5, block H, D&W survey.

The Appeal will use money received in 1949 to help empty the Jewish displaced persons camps in Europe, take 250,000 homeless Jews to Israel and to bring refugees in the United States.

It also will provide funds for relief and reconstruction of Jewish communities in east and west Europe, for aid of large groups of the 1,000,000 Jews in North Africa and for housing projects, agricultural settlements and irrigation projects in Israel.

The Joint Distribution committee, the United Palestine Appeal and the United Service for New Americans will carry out the program.

Mrs. Wadel is a vice-president of Dallas Community Chest; vice-president of Dallas Day nursery and Welfare association, and advisory chairman of the women's auxiliary of the city-county hospital system of Dallas.

She is a member of the board of the Joint Distribution committee and the United Service for New Americans; chairman of the women's division of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Dallas section; a member of the Dallas Jewish Welfare federation board and boards of the Council of Jewish Women; the Volunteer Service bureau of the Council of Social Agencies; the Dallas Civic federation and the Dallas Family Planning committee.

Mrs. Wadel was a pioneer in women's division activities in the Southwest region of the United Jewish Appeal. In 1946, she helped found the Year Round Women's division of the Dallas Jewish federation and now is honorary chairman. She was a vice-chairman of the National UJA women until 1947, when she was named national chairman.

Aga Khan's Ex-Wife To Attend Rita Hayworth Wedding; French Ban Private Ceremony

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

CANNES, May 24 — Princess Khan, former wife of the Aga Khan—father of Prince Aly Khan—will be a guest at the wedding of the prince and Rita Hayworth May 27.

(The French Ministry of Justice refused Aly Khan permission to marry the screen star at his chateau and the civil ceremony therefore will have to take place at the office of the local mayor.

(The ministry, however, did waive the time requirement on publishing of their marriage banns after digging up old French laws for precedent. This will permit the wedding to go on as scheduled next Friday.)

Also a guest at the wedding will be Sadruddin, Aly's stepbrother, who arrives in Cannes tomorrow. The princess is Sadruddin's mother.

Dinner Planned

Princess Khan—and that's the way Aly introduced her to me at luncheon at the Chateau De L'Horizon—was the third wife of the Aga Khan and was divorced from him about six years ago.

She was formerly Mme. Andree Josephine Marie Leonie Carron.

Princess Khan has taken a villa and little Rebecca Welles, Rita's daughter, is staying with her until after the wedding.

She is a very charming woman and speaks English perfectly. She told me she likes Rita very much and thinks she is very sweet.

The Aga Khan also had taken a villa not far from his divorced wife. She told me they are on very good terms.

Forty wedding guests of Rita and Aly will attend a dinner the night before the wedding Friday.

Rita's wedding dress, which will be brought to the chateau Thursday by Madame Jacques Fath, who is arriving by train from Paris, is Rita blue—a pale shade of blue named in her honor by Fath, who made her trousseau.

The dress is ten inches from the ground, with full-pleated skirt. The pleats are in the shape of fans, all hand-stitched inside, and stand out very stiffly.

Her hat is made of 50 yards of Tulle. She also will wear black suede shoes and black gloves.

Madam Fath is very kindly bringing me a hat to wear at the wedding since I couldn't carry my own chapeau from Hollywood on the plane.

After the wedding, Rita becomes Princess Aly Khan—a courtesy title but not one in any way comparable with some of the phoney ones of so-called royalty in Hollywood. The Princess is really descended from a line of royalty and when the Aga dies Rita will become her royal highness, at least in Europe. In India, of course she will be called the Begum.

Insurance Inspectors Find How Fire At Burned-Out Dwelling

HILLSBORO, May 24 (AP) — Three weeks ago, fire swept a house belonging to Louis Smith, Hillsboro cotton mill owner.

Today two insurance men, W. H. Hodde of Dallas and W. B. Sumner of Hillsboro, went to the residence to inspect the damage.

Entering the empty dwelling, they found it on fire.

They called firemen who extinguished the blaze. Firemen said children, playing in the house, probably had started the fire.

WHY THE RUSH?

More Study Needed

MOST Texans doubtless are prepared to approve and pay for whatever expansions and improvements are needed to provide proper care for the mentally ill and others confined in State eleemosynary institutions.

This does not mean they will approve the immediate $21,000,000 appropriation Governor Jester has asked for eleemosynary buildings.

The governor's proposal is vulnerable on at least two counts: First, neither he, nor anyone else, knows exactly at this stage what buildings would cost to bring the institutions up to the standards Texans desire; and, second, Jester is demanding that Texans be required to dig up in one or two years the money for a program which would require several years to complete..

The institutions have been neglected so long and so shamefully that objectionable conditions cannot be corrected within a year or two. Haste almost certainly would mean waste, without helping anyone.

If the Legislature should provide the $21,000,000 demanded, it would be almost strictly on Jester's say-so. A great many Texans don't place that much confidence in his judgment or his motives. The suspicion is strongly justified that he has pulled a big figure out of a hat to try to ride on a popular demand for eleemosynary improvements about which he did not become concerned until the disgraceful conditions were exposed through the newspapers of the State.

The conditions certainly should be corrected as soon as humanly possible. But the needs demand more thorough study by officials in whom Texans place more confidence before the Legislature starts handing out millions of tax dollars.

Martyr To Politics

THE James V. Forrestal suicide might cause any person who aspires to high public office to pause and revise his planning. Too often, such positions are not worth the price they exact.

Never has there been more shocking proof that great public responsibilities impose physical, mental and emotional strains which are beyond human endurance. The more conscientious the individual, the more susceptible he is to the ravages of such strains.

Even Mr. Forrestal's severest critics recognized him as one of the ablest and most conscientious men in the government. Those in position to know agree that few men in public life ever have been called upon to shoulder more trying responsibilities. His was the first and most direct responsibility for the armed security, not merely of a nation, but of free people throughout the world.

With the utmost cooperation from everyone, the consciousness of responsibility would have taxed to utmost the strength of the strongest. Adding immeasurably — and fatally — to Mr. Forrestal's burdens were incessant political bickerings and jealousies within the armed forces he attempted, as Defense Secretary, to unite. These selfish human forces which raged about him with a fury obscured in large degree from the public doubtless had far more to do with Mr. Forrestal's manner of death than the official burdens reposed upon him.

No one is likely to deny that Mr. Forrestal gave his life for his country just as much as any man in uniform who died in battle. His death will not have been entirely in vain if it tends in some degree to stimulate efforts to protect those in positions of great responsibilities from the bickerings which have made the former secretary a martyr to selfish political and inter-armed service rivalries and ambitions.

"Women are buying more beauty aids than they need," says a government official. Some of them aren't.

A scientist seems to be working towards the solution of all the world's troubles from an entirely new angle. He is trying to produce fire that will consume air, soil, rock and water.

"I don't know whom is to blame for the fact that the rising generation doesn't know grammar," writes a columnist. Well, for one, him is.

Fate is a grim joker. Recently a man hurrying to a safety-council conference was killed when his car overturned on a curve.

The Patient Is Doing As Well As Can Be Expected

Island Of Escape

By HUGH LAWRENCE NELSON
Disributed By NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Lilly Warren's violent death has upset Speare Island's routine. Lilly was found shot in a car of Henry Gough Hardings familiar railway running in the store room. Bea Cosgrove tells no one that the gun on Lilly's lap was one which Bea smuggled onto the island. Everyone has an alibi and unexpectedly Fred Sillwell says the gun was his—one that he had aboard the Gullwing, his yacht which was ship-wrecked near the island. Harding decides that Lilly's death was suicide. Her motive was that Harding had told her that she had no chance to become his wife. Harding buries Lilly Warren, refusing to hold any service at the grave.)

MABEL Jones's warning "I'm a plain cook nothing fancy," was justified by the meal she eventually prepared. There were great quantities of food, and all the dishes tasted the same.

Bea Cosgrove decided she might have done better to accept the house duties again instead of the care of the sheep. In the reshuffle of work, Agnes Firth put on the blue dress uniform of supplies, and Nona McGuire accepted the garden work because she liked her green costume.

"I've got a theory about gardening anyway," she announced. "I've always thought it'd be better to pull up the plants and leave the weeds.

Henry Harding ate slowly in frowning concentration. When he became conscious at last of the tasteless bits of food he was putting in his mouth, he swallowed quickly, pushed back his plate.

Fred Sillwell beat him to the punch. "You fixed the radio yet, Harding? Maybe you need some help. George's pretty good at radio work. Maybe we can fix it for you."

Harding's eyes wavered toward Mollie Stark who sat at table with them for the first time. He tried to regain control of the situation.

"That won't be necessary. I'm quite capable of making the minor repairs, given time. I'm glad you brought up your willingness to help. We have no room on Speare Island for sluggards."

"Look. There's something you might as well understand. We'll be tickled to death to get off the island. All you have to do is to get rid of us is send a radio to my attorney in L. A. He'll send a boat or a plane. And I'll arrange to pay you for the trouble you've taken." Fred underlined the words of the last sentence with a sneer.

Henry Harding controlled his anger. "It's possible a fishing boat may put in for water at any time. In a few days the radio will be fixed. In the meantime, for something to do I thought you might be willing to help Miss McGuire in the garden."

SILLWELL grinned, relaxed. "I don't mind giving her a hand. George has plenty to do working over the cameras and equipment we salvaged from the beach. Some of it can be saved. I'm perfectly willing to help out as long as we understand each other."

"Of course," Harding said.

"I'm through," Mollie announced. "Want to go back to bed now." She smiled at Harding, lifted her arms toward him. "You carry me in."

He returned beaming. "A nice girl. A nice girl," he said heartily. "I believe we'll have to persuade her to stay on after the rest of you leave. She likes it here."

"We might persuade her to take Lilly's place," Agnes Firth said brightly.

Henry Harding had been following the course of his own thoughts. "It is difficult for me to understand. I do not know the circumstances or the details."

Thanks to Mabel Jones, Bea knew what Harding meant. As she watched Sillwell's face she was positive he knew too. She tried to remember a time when Mollie might have talked with him alone. But whatever Fred knew, he was not going to help Harding. "Details of what?" Sillwell demanded.

Mabel Jones said flatly, "He means he doesn't understand about the four of you sailing around without a chaperone."

"Well, of course," Harding hedged. "It did just occur to me to wonder."

FRED Sillwell was deeply shocked. He said so. "And I don't see how anyone would think a thing like that about little Mollie. Of course we were chaperoned."

"You mean someone was lost in the wreck?"

"Oh no. I'm speaking of present company. With an old married couple along, everything was quite proper." He nodded toward Nona McGuire.

"You mean you—?"

"Oh no," Fred interrupted quickly. "Im a bachelor myself. Nona and George're the happy couple."

"But I understood it was Miss McGuire," Harding said.

"There's no business like show business," Nona said.

"Naturally she kept her own name for professional reasons," Fred put in smoothly.

"They told me," Nona said dreamily, "that Nona Bascombe sounded like a brand of dog biscuit."

George smiled at her. "While Nona McGuire is so much more definitive. And there's always her reputation, her career to consider."

"I understand," Harding said. "I'm glad you told me. But why didn't you tell me before? We could have made different living arrangements."

"Oh I like it, like this," Nona said quickly. "You see I'm mad at George."

Henry Harding had lost interest. He mumbled something about "patching up small differences," and changed the subject. "Miss Cosgrove, since the sheep are in the pen, perhaps you'll give Miss Firth a hand the rest of the afternoon. You can show her the routine. Come, there is much to do."

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

WHAT a good thing it is that so few of our dreams come true!

Dreams are illusions, but the awakening is often disillusion.

BRANDEIS

"How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood," sings the poet.

But how many of us have seen those scenes of our childhood in our waking dreams and found them so very different when we revisited them.

My neighbor, Raymond Benjamin, told me a little story last night.

When he was a boy out in San Francisco, there was a tall ladder attached to the back of his house.

It went all the way up to the roof—a sort of old-fashioned fire escape, I suppose.

He always wanted to climb that ladder, but his mother strictly forbade it.

As children in those days still minded their parents, little Benny never did climb the ladder, but also never lost the burning desire to do so.

Little Ray grew up into big Raymond.

The family moved away. The mother died.

Ray went through grade school, through public school and finally to college.

One day when he was almost nineteen, he just couldn't resist the ladder-climbing urge any longer.

That "don't climb it" of his mother had developed a frustration complex in him.

So Ray took a street car and went way out into the Mission district of San Francisco—to the "scenes of his childhood."

THE neighborhood had grown shabby. It certainly had not been that way in Ray's memory dreams.

He came to the house where he was born and had spent his happy little-boy years.

Was that the house? Hadn't it been much bigger and much more elegant?

He rang the bell.

A woman came to the door.

"Madam," said Ray, "isn't there a ladder in back of your house?"

She looked at him as if she thought him a little off his mind, or perhaps a burglar or something.

So he told her his story.

She smiled.

"May I climb that ladder?" he asked.

"Sure, go ahead and climb it."

He did. He got up on the roof. He looked around. Just houses. Clothes on the wash lines. A lot of kids playing in the streets.

He came down the ladder slowly.

"Well," said the lady, "are you satisfied?"

"No," he replied and walked back to the street car.

Yes, it's good that our dreams don't often come true.

Truman Holds Back

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—President Truman has recently given two spectacular demonstrations of the fact that he does not regard himself as a political purist, despite his demand that Congress enact a batch of politico-economic legislation far more "liberal" than any program ever advanced by Franklin D. Roosevelt. He has gratified the few old-fashioned machine bosses still in business.

When the anti-Hague forces headed by John V. Kenny decided to wage war on the "I am the law" politician in Jersey City, they urged the White House to make some sort of friendly gesture

TUCKER

Although the victorious Mr. Kenny was once a key man in the Hague organization, and can hardly be classed—yet—as an exponent of civic virtue, it was generally agreed that it would be good for Jersey and the nation to get rid of the cruel, ruthless Hague.

OPPORTUNITY: Mr. Truman had every reason for a pro-Kenny intervention. The Jersey City boss had forecast a Truman debacle last year. He strode in the advance guard that wanted to nominate General "Ike" Eisenhower.

Moreover, Mr. Hague's anti-labor policies would have given the White House sufficient justification for opposing the veteran Democrat. The President would have rallied liberal, racial and good government groups which have become somewhat critical of his inability to obtain from Congress the measures they want.

It is doubtful if F.D.R., under similar circumstances, would have missed this opportunity.

RECOGNIZE: But Mr. Truman refused to take on "the Hague," preferring to await the outcome of the battle. Now that the Jersey boss has been vanquished utterly, the head of the party finds himself in a predicament for Mr. Hague still remains as Democratic National Committeeman and vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The question before the White House now is whether Mr. Truman will recognize Mr. Kenny or Mr. Hague as his New Jersey satrap.

SUPPORT: President Truman's refusal to support Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. in Tuesday's battle against Tammany Hall was, perhaps, more indicative of his anti-reform attitude than his failure to barge into the Hague-Kenny brawl. For there was greater pressure for White House intervention here than there was in the contest across the Hudson River.

The President still refers to himself as "F.D.R.'s heir," and describes his "Fair Deal" as an extension of the "New Deal.' On that ground, young Roosevelt's friends bombarded Washington with pleas for help. They suggested that Mr. Truman show his sympathy by permitting a Cabinet member to make a speech or issue a statement on behalf of the late President's son.

But Mr. Truman would not budge. Nor would he permit any of his political family to lift a hand against a Tammany Hall seeking a comeback after its many reverses at the hands of the Roosevelt-La Guardia-American Labor Party alliance.

FUTURE: Thus the President of the United States stood aside when there was a chance to destroy the only two surviving political machines of the country, and at a time when almost every element of the electorate which backed him last year—liberals, racial minorities, reform units, young veterans etc.—was hopeful that he would stand with them.

White House spokesmen explain that Mr. Truman abstained because he does not believe he should take part in local political quarrels, save for his own state of Missouri. But that explanation does not satisfy the anti-Hague and anti-Tammany forces, in view of his declaration of war against Senator Harry F. Byrd and other Democrats on Capitol Hill.

Incidentally, this presidential abstinence strengthens the belief that Mr. Truman may seek renomination in 1952. Otherwise according to this argument, he would have flung himself into these fights regardless of the effect that action might have on his political future.

DEBT: Sharp Republican replies to President Truman's economy claims may have been uttered before this factual statement is published. But here are the official statistics with respect to his declaration that he had reduced the public debt—$26 billion—by more than any previous President:

In December, 1945—more than three months after the Japanese surrender—Mr. Truman ordered a Victory Bond Drive He overruled Federal Reserve, Treasury and other officials. In view of widespread fears of a postwar depression, they counselled against withdrawal of so much money from banking, business and individual hands.

More than $21 billion worth of federal securities were sold in this high-pressure effort, with the result that the national mortgage was boosted unnecessarily to $278.7 billion. When it developed that the extra money was not needed, as advertised beforehand the Treasury retired approximately $19.2 billion in debts. That accounts for the major reduction.

In the next two years the debt was cut by $6.6 billion, making the figure cited by the President. Ironically, it was during those years that the "do-nothing, Republican Congress" controlled appropriations.

In the last six months there has been a further reduction of $1.3 billion, slicing the total to $251.7 billion.

FEARS OF NEW EVENTS SCORED

Threat To Old Freedoms Seen

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — If less than ten years ago you had picked up your newspaper and read a front-page story about how Congress was in a ferment because an ounce of something called uranium oxide, rich in something called U-235, was missing from a laboratory, you would have thought someone was trying to spoof you.

And you would have pinched yourself if in another column you had seen a story about a young college student being hailed before a Senate committee which was shocked because he was working on a government fellowship in something called "nuclear" science when he believed in Communism. Especially since you could see from his photograph that he was the serious sort of young man once called a "grind" or a "dig" who would, of course, be interested in some odd edge of science, and probably would have strange political views and would carry big books under his arm as he plodded his lonely way about the campus. Yet, because of what he knew, a dangerous fellow, withal, so the story would say.

STOKES

A Unusual World

And in another column, a story about a young woman being tried on charges that she sneaked some papers about some "atomic" business from her office in the Justice department, where she worked, and took them to New York and there met a Russian on a street corner.

Altogether, a front-page offering that would convince you that you still were dreaming about that adventure or mystery story you were reading when you fell asleep last night. Yet those are the factual stories in your newspaper today, and you take them in your stride. A few years ago you would have said, with such a demonstration, that it was a cock-eyed world.

And it is a cock-eyed world today.

The imp on a pin point—which is a permissable figure of speech, since a pin-point of uranium oxide was all we had to start with seven years ago to make those bombs which later wiped two Japanese cities off the map—the imp on a pin-point, the atom about which dreary chemistry professors used to talk, has in the space of a few years changed more things than we know.

It has its grip on the minds of men, and has re-opened to our confusion questions that we thought were settled a long time ago here in our country—freedom of inquiry, of opinion, of thought, and of research. We are threatened, because of that pin-point imp, with a new dark age of fear and suspicion and superstition.

All because of something so small you can't see it with your naked eye. We are literally afraid of something we can't see and which only a few understand, and though we lock it away behind closed doors, and surround it with mystery, it is the single most disturbing fact in the whole world today.

The essences of Democracy are freedom of the mind and spirit and the worth and dignity of the individual human being. It is a glorious conception. Formerly we fought ideas with ideas, our idea against the idea of totalitarianism of either the right or the left. But now we have a secret of destruction, though it isn't really a secret and can't be a secret for long.

Consequently, a scientist in the atomic field may use his mind for that, but it is dangerous for him to rove freely in the field of abstract ideas about forms of government, for there may be a rare one who may become enamored of Communism, as some few have, and he may become so enamored that he is willing to impart what he knows to a foreign nation, as has happened. So we begin to close compartments of the mind and limit freedoms, though we can never really control the mind. But once we begin to restrict freedom, no man can tell where it may end. Germany and Russia are examples at hand.

Though no one can know for sure, it is possible that the attitudes in the world today that cause most of the trouble are due to the atom and its by-product, the atom bomb. Russia doesn't have it and is trying to get it. We have it and are trying to protect it. While we have been blocked by Russia in trying to internationalize it, with proper controls, it is probable that until something is done there, nothing else will be finally settled, and that, it seems, is really the world's number one problem today.

How it all upsets us is told in the news stories cited.

No solutions are offered here, but it is suggested that as we make compromises with our freedoms we proceed most cautiously, so that in our fear we do not destroy other things that we hold dear and which, in the first place, made it possible for our scientists to do what they have.

Last Rites Held For Billy Lee Carpenter

Funeral services for Billy Lee Carpenter, 25, Lubbock resident since 1926, who died Saturday in a Veterans administration hospital in Dallas, were conducted at 3 p.m Tuesday in First Methodist church.

Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor, officiated, assisted by Rev. L. N. Lipscomb. Burial was in Tech Memorial park under direction of Plains Funeral home.

Carpenter was born in Panhandle March 7 1924, and lived there until 1938, when he moved to Lubbock with his family. He was a 1942 graduate of Lubbock Senior High school.

In 1943, Carpenter enlisted in the Air Force, but was discharged later that year because of a kidney ailment which eventually caused his death.

He attended Texas Tech, where he was affiliated with Wranglers social club, and later studied for several semesters at the University of Missouri. He enrolled in the University of Texas in 1948 as a journalism student, but later was forced to withdraw because of ill health. He had spent the past several months in the VA hospital in Dallas.

Carpenter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira L. Carpenter, resided in Lubbock until this past January, when they moved to Abilene.

Other survivors include two brothers, Darrell Carpenter and James Carpenter, both of Lubbock; and a sister, Mrs. Morris Lee of Siloam Springs, Ark.

Pallbearers were Alfred Spence, Ed Boaz, George Wilson, T. Moffett Ryan, John D. Copeland and Johnny Trout.

Report Demanded

tion asked Price The question was said to involve "privileged" information.

Kennerly overruled the objection and added he wants a "very full disclosure" of every fact related to the case.

He continued:

"There has been a great and heavy loss of life, with many women and children among those killed. There also has been a very, very heavy loss of property. Whether the government was responsible or not is a matter I am trying to determine. I don't take kindly to the idea of the government claiming privilege.

"It's our government. I don't think anybody should stand on privilege. The government should make a very full disclosure."

The subpoena for Willis to produce the secret report which Price had failed to bring into court was issued by the court early today.

STOCKS CONTINUE SLUMP

NEW YORK May 24. (AP)—The stock market dropped to the lowest level since late February today. It was the sixth decline in the last seven sessions.

Numerous stocks, notably in the steel and automobile groups, sold at the lowest prices of the year or longer. Closing prices, by and large, were the worst for the day.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 3 of one point to 62.3, a low since 61.8 was touched on Feb. 28. Those figures compare with the 1949 low of 61.4 and bottom for 1948 at 60.3.

Among stocks making new lows for the year—a few closed above the bottom—were U. S. steel (old), closing 68½, Bethlehem Steel 26½, Republic Steel 29, Youngstown Sheet and Tube 61, General Motors 56, Chrysler 49¼, Montgomery Ward 50¾, American Telephone 140½, American Smelting 43¾, Westinghouse Electric 22¾, Eastman Kodak 41¾, P. S. Gypsum 21¾ and United Fruit 46.

Pepsi-Cola lost ½ at 9¾.

Among the few marked up were Goodrich, Kennecott, Copper Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, and J. C. Penney.

Lower in the curb were Kaiser-Frazer, McCord Corp., New Mexico and Arizona Land, Salt Dome Oil, United Gas, Babcock and Wilcox, Cities Service, Consolidated Mining and Humble Oil. E. L. Bruce, makers of hardwood flooring, ran up 1¾, and New England Telephone jumped 2¼, each.

In the bond market railway bonds, on the average, established a new low for the year.

U. S. governments barely moved in over-the-counter dealings.

Straus Ousted As Chairman Of Eversharp Board Of Directors

CHICAGO, May 24. (INS)—Martin L. Straus II was ousted today as chairman of the board of Eversharp, Inc., at a special meeting of the directors in Chicago.

The vote against Straus was 11 to 2 with the ousted chairman casting one of the negative ballots.

The directors also amended the firm's by-laws to abolish the office of chairman of the board.

Earlier in the day stockholders of the company adjourned their annual meeting until June 21. The adjournment was ordered by Vice Chancellor Collins J. Seitz of chancery court, Wilmington, Del.

Seitz acted on an injunction petition filed by Robert H. Gries, a candidate for director on a slate headed by Straus.

Dissension among top officers of the company became public recently when several directors expressed dissatisfaction over large losses in the firm's writing division.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, May 24 (AP) — Grain prices moved upward at today's board of trade session, but toward the close profit-taking reduced the advances.

Mill and professional buying accounted for the advance at the start. Unwanted rains in the winter wheat sections, combined with reports that France was in the market for flour influenced buying. Some short covering was noted.

Toward the close corn reacted to heavy to-arrive bookings.

At the finish wheat was ⅝ to 1⅜ higher than yesterday's close, July $1.58⅛-⅝. Oats were ⅛ higher to ⅛ lower, July 83¼.

the Ellenburger had reached 9,835 feet in Devonian lime and chert, at last report, and was making hole.

Top of the Devonian had been picked by some geologists to be at 9,795 feet. Elevation is 3,304 feet. According to some corelations the project is low to the nearest deep explorations which have been drilled in the adjacent regions.

Sinclair Runs Test

It is located 1,980 feet from east and 660 feet from north lines of section 22, block A-47, psl survey.

Sinclair Prairie Oil company No. 1 Sterling Williams, northwest Borden county prospector, ran a 45-minute drillstem test at 9,614-97 feet. Recovery was 30 feet of drilling mud, with no shows of oil, gas or water.

The venture had drilled ahead to 9,759 feet and was taking another test.

It is 11 miles northwest of Gail, and 660 feet from north and east lines of section 45, block 32, EL&RR survey, T-6-N. It is understood that the section now being penetrated is a Pennsylvanian limestone.

Ralph Lowe No. 1 Cunningham-Shell, deep wildcat, 12 miles southwest of Seminole in southwest Gaines county, and 660 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 4, block A-24, psl survey, developed sulphur water in the Devonian in a drillstem test at 9,900-50 feet.

Open Two Hours

The tester was open two hours and 45 minutes. Recovery was 630 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud and 6,900 feet of sulphur water. The project was drilling ahead at last report.

The upper section of the Devonian had a recovery of 50 feet of free oil and 930 feet of oil and gas cut mud, during a two hour and 45 minute investigation at 9,847-9,900 feet.

The wildcat showed for possible commercial production, and a discovery, from a rather thick section of Canyon lime in the Pennsylvanian.

If no better shows are found the operator probably will attempt to complete the venture from the Canyon zone.

The development is on the northwest side of the Doss field, which produces from the lower Permian, above 7,200 feet.

Foreign Aid Outlays By U.S. Declines

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — Despite adoption of the Marshall plan, foreign aid outlays by the U. S. government during calendar 1948 dropped almost $1,000,000,000 below the preceding year, the Commerce department reported tonight.

A $5,800,000 000 foreign aid cost total for 1948 was recorded by the department.

The grant-gift total was $3,900,000,000 in 1948, almost double the 1947 amount, while aid in the form of loans dropped 62 percent to a 1948 total of $1,600,000,000.

The department also took a look at the 1949 domestic economic scene and emerged with the principal conclusions that:

1. Consumer buying, though off considerably from last fall's peak, has held relatively steady at the lower level—about $176,600,000,000 a year—through the first four months of this year.

2. A substantial majority of manufacturing industries — more than two-thirds—have reduced production well below postwar highs "although production generally remained substantially above prewar."

Appropriation Bills

Senator A. M. Aikin, jr., of Paris argued against setting up such a precedent.

The issue had been forced by Senator Fred Harris of Dallas who tried to write the Dallas proposed medical school into the bill.

An amendment by Senator James Taylor of Kerens to empower the board of regents to select the school's site won the support of Senator Walter Tynan of San Antonio, author of a bill to create a school in his home town. Senator W. A. Shofner of Temple, author of a bill to create a school there, and Harris both opposed the Taylor amendment.

Taylor's amendment was adopted, 21-8.

It authorized the University of Texas regents to spend as much of the $2,000,000 provided as necessary to create the institution wherever they thought best.

Dallas had asked $2,000,000. San Antonio had asked $1,000,000 and Temple had asked $5,000 for the next two years.

The Senate turned down, 19-10, a proposal by Senator G. C. Morris of Greenville which would have authorized the board of regents to grant $2,500 each to medical students after receiving their license who would practice for five continuous years in a rural community.

Fear Of Immediate War Is Found Declining In Latest U.S. Survey

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute Of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., May 24—The Four Power meeting in Paris opened at a time when fear of immediate war shows a sharp decline in the United States.

It remains to be seen whether the conference works out a satisfactory settlement between Russia and the United States concerning the German problem, but at the start the number of American voters who fear an armed conflict in the near future is only half of what it was nine months ago.

At periodic intervals the American Institute of Public Opinion has put this question to a cross-section of voters in all walks of life:

"Do you think the United States will find itself in another war within, say, the next year?"

The trend of sentiment since last August is as follows:

	Yes	No	No Opin.
Aug., 1948	32%	54%	14%
Nov., 1948	21	70	9
TODAY	15	74	11

The poll last August was conducted about two months after the start of the Berlin Blockade and reflected the tension and uncertainty created by the Russian action. Interviewing in today's survey took place after announcement that the blockade would be lifted.

Education A Factor

A significant feature of today's poll is that voters with the most education are the most optimistic about maintaining peace.

Here is the vote by education levels on the likelihood of war within the next year:

War In Year?

	Yes	No	No Opin.
College	4%	93%	3%
High School	14	79	7
Grade Sch'l	20	64	16

A trend of sentiment has likewise been kept on the question of war within six months.

The results follow:

"Do you think the United States will find itself in another war within, say, the next six months?"

	Yes	No	No Opin.
Aug., 1948	22%	66%	12%
Nov., 1948	13	79	8
TODAY	11	81	8

The escapees are Jack Hall, 32, serving 15 years from Palo Pinto county for murder, and Richard Hornberger, 19, serving two years from Dallas county for theft.

More Mileage From Synthetic Rubber Tires Is Predicted

By SAM DAWSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, May 24—You may get up to a third more mileage from your synthetic rubber tires next year. That's the promise today of a couple of rubber chemists.

It brings up the question why you are still getting synthetic rubber in tires now that production of natural rubber is greater even than it was before the war.

First, of course, is that your government forces the rubber companies to use a certain amount of synthetic. It wants these plants kept running so as to be ready if needed in a national emergency. They keep turning out synthetic rubber in spite of the protests of the British and Dutch, who would like to have the American market take more of their natural rubber output.

Second, American producers of synthetic say it is now competitive with natural, both in performance and price. For some uses, they contend, it is better than natural rubber. Currently the price is about the same.

The promise of longer wearing tires was at the Boston meeting of the rubber division of the American Chemical society by I. D. Sjothun and O. D. Cole of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio.

They say tire life will be lengthened by from 15 to 35 percent by the end of this year due to recent improvements of synthetic.

Cold rubber, the production of a harder product, and the use of new fine furnace blacks as reinforcing agents are listed as doing the trick.

Johnson Asked To Answer Rumors On Plane Procurement

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—The Senate Armed Services committee has asked Defense Secretary Louis Johnson to give a full report on charges of irregularities in aircraft procurement.

The committee asked that he make the report within a week or 10 days, it was learned today.

Johnson was called before the committee yesterday after some senators raised questions about the number of contracts going to Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft corporation. Johnson formerly was a member of the board of the corporation.

Special Group Rejected

The Air Force recently has cancelled several contracts with other companies in order to buy more of Consolidated-Vultee's huge B-36 bombers.

The committee will give Johnson full opportunity to answer the rumors and to give him its full confidence in his ability to answer them, the source said.

The committee called in Johnson after it voted down a proposal by Chairman Millard E. Tydings (D-Md), to set up an independent board to inquire into aircraft procurement. Tydings' state is the home of the Glenn L. Martin company and of the Hagerstown plant of Fairchild Engine and Airplane corporation.

Decision Questioned

The committee is concerned with the question of whether Johnson staked too much of the nation's security on the success or failure of the giant B-36 long range bomber.

This bomber, a product of Consolidated aircraft, is considered by the Air Force as its major strategic bombing weapon. Orders for it recently were increased. Meanwhile, orders for the Boeing Aircraft Corp., B-50 and certain other types have been cut back.

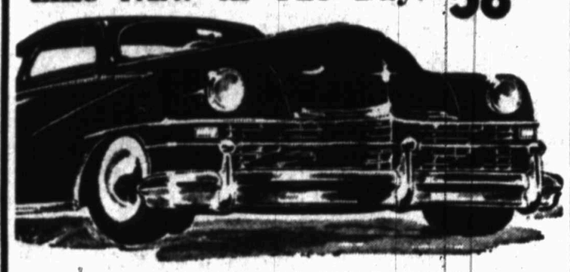

The House Armed Services committee has asked Johnson to make a test of the B-36 against Navy fighters to determine whether it is capable of all the Air Force claims for it.
