Governor Race Hot In Texas

Daniel, Walker Join 6-Way Fight

AUSTIN (UPI)—Stand back or be blistered by the hottest race for the Texas governorship since 1946.

Gov. Price Daniel's bid for a fourth term and the unexpected entry of ultra-conservative Edwin A. Walker assured Texans of an extraordinary battle.

Voters, no matter what their political leanings may be, should be able to find a candidate to their liking in the May 5 primaries. Six Democrats and one Democrat-turned-Republican are running.

Besides Daniel, who is regarded as a moderate, and Walker, there are former Navy Secretary John Connally, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, former highway commissioner Marshall Formby, who are also moderates, liberal Don Yarborough and conservative Republican Jack Cox.

Walker, Connally, Wilson and Formby have all paid their $1,000 filing fees to make the race. Daniel, Yarborough and Cox have until midnight Monday.

The wild and woolly race that is shaping up is best described by Wilson, who said it is "going to be a ring-fight-tooter."

The scramble for the governorship should become as hectic as the 1946 campaign when 44 candidates fought for the job.

That year the two liberal candidates, Homer Rainey and Grover Sellers, battled bitterly against conservatives Beauford Jester and John Lee Smith while East Texas moderate Jerry Sadle attacked all four with equal vigor.

Daniel's announcement on statewide television Friday night for an unprecedented fourth term brought stinging criticism.

State Sen. Hubert Hudson of Brownsville said, "I never heard one man tell so many lies in 3 minutes."

"I cannot let nine million Texans be hoodwinked by Price Daniel," Hudson said. "He has grossly falsified the public record. He has laid claim to all good legislation."

"I said earlier from the Senate floor that Price Daniel was a mousetrap little demagogue. He has now grown into a full rat-sized type," Hudson said.

Wilson, who has been blasting Connally right along, turned his sights on Daniel and called the fourth term telecast "the most remarkable confession of ineffectiveness I have ever witnessed."

"It appears the longer he stays in office the more unfinished business there is," Wilson added.

Volcanoes Only Moon Landmarks

AUSTIN (UPI)—The astronaut who makes it to the moon should tuck under his arm a copy of "Volcanoes in History, in Theory, in Eruption," by Dr. Fred M. Bullard, University of Texas geologist.

Bullard says volcanoes are the only familiar landmarks for the first moon explorers. The book to be published Feb. 19 by the University of Texas press covers Bullard's studies since 1929 of volcanoes' origins, types and theories.

Fourth Annual Career Clinic Set Wednesday

Cabot President To Be Keynoter

Plans were in the final stages Saturday for Pampa's fourth annual Career Clinic to be held Wednesday in Pampa High School.

Principal speaker at the general assembly in the school auditorium just prior to opening of the clinic will be Louis W. Cabot, of Boston, president of the Cabot Corp.

The Career Clinic, which had its inception here in 1959, represents the combined efforts of the Altrusa Club, Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Pampa High School staff, and individuals from various avenues of business and industry.

It is designed to provide vocational guidance for high school boys and girls — to help them decide what vocations they may wish to follow when they finish school.

Sponsors explain that the Clinic is a half-day program divided into two round table sessions from 10 to 10:50 a.m. and from 11 to 11:50 a.m.

Some 100 consultants will be at the high school Wednesday to acquaint the students with the many varied fields of employment open to today's youth.

These consultants are men and women from Pampa area professional ranks who are qualified to explain to the students the opportunities offered in the many fields of business and industry.

Career Clinic Day will open Wednesday with a coffee at Coronado Inn from 7:45 to 8:30 a.m. This will be a briefing session for consultants and student chairmen.

From 8:45 to 8:55 a.m. students will obtain individual schedule cards in their homerooms.

The general assembly, to be addressed by Cabot, is scheduled from 9 to 9:45 a.m. in the school auditorium. William Gray, student body president, will preside.

Cabot will be introduced by John Arthur, vice president of the student body.

Cameron Marsh, high school principal, will give the address of welcome to guests, and members of the Pampa Independent District school board will be introduced by Supt. L. J. Edmondson.

Miss Evelyn Milam, high school counselor, is in charge of the coordination of arrangements for Career Clinic Day.

Stops Flow Of Dollars To Castro

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy Saturday ordered all imports from Cuba choked off to stop the Fidel Castro regime from getting dollars to promote Communist subversion in this hemisphere.

The ban, effective at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday, will cost the Cuban economy about $35 million a year, obtained mostly from U. S. imports of tobacco. But the President left unchanged the U. S. policy of allowing limited exports of food, medicine and medical supplies from this country to Cuba for humanitarian purposes. This has amounted to $13 million in the past year.

Kennedy's order was a quick follow-up to the foreign ministers conference at Punta Del Este, Uruguay, where members of the Organization of American States voted to isolate the Castro regime and expel Cuba from the inter-American system.

A White House statement made it plain that the trade cut off was aimed at preventing Castro from carrying out Red aims among other Latin American countries. It said:

"The loss of this income will reduce the capacity of the Castro regime, intimately linked with the Sino-Soviet bloc, to engage in acts of aggression, subversion or other activities endangering the security of the United States and other nations of the hemisphere."

The embargo proclamation itself says "...the United States, in accordance with its international obligations, is prepared to take all necessary actions to promote national and hemispheric security by isolating the present government of Cuba and thereby reducing the threat posed by its alignment with the Communist powers."

The President acted even though Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker in effect rejected Secretary of State Dean Rusk's appeal that other nations join the "isolate Cuba" movement. Diefenbaker reported that in the first nine months of 1961, Canada (See IMPORTS, Page 3)

Kickoff For Scouts' Drive Set Wednesday

National Boy Scout Week, February 7-13 will be particularly significant in Pampa this week because it will mark the launching of the Adobe Walls Council Boy Scout Development Campaign.

In addition to many celebrations and activities on the part of the scouts, adult workers will begin raising funds for major improvements at the Boy Scout Camp and the construction of a Boy Scout Service Center to be built in Pampa. The campaign marks the first time the Council has endeavored to raise capital funds since the construction of a dining hall at the camp in 1947.

George Scott, general solicitation chairman of the campaign, announced Saturday that all campaign workers will meet at 7 a.m. Wednesday for a kick-off breakfast in Coronado Inn.

More than 100 men are expected to attend the meeting. Men are being recruited to work on the campaign under leadership of four majors and twenty team captains. The four majors are Dr. Jim Chase, E. L. Henderson, Bob Curry and Warren Hassie and each expects to have a full crew of 30 men working on the drive. The advanced gifts portion of the campaign was launched last week under the leadership of Fred Nesledge, Joe Gordon, and Frank Culbertson.

Scout Troops in Pampa will hold special Courts of Honor and Cub Packs will be having Blue and Gold banquets to celebrate Boy Scout Week. All Cubs, Scouts and Explorers will attend the church of their choice in uniform to participate in Scout Sunday observances.

The Development Campaign is a three-year pledge period project. Pledges towards the campaign may be paid through January 1964. Many projects are included in the campaign. The Scout Service Center, one of the major projects will be constructed on property given to the Council by M. K. Brown at the corner of Sumner and Boyd Street. The building will contain approximately 3,500 square feet and will include offices for the 15-county Council. The new building and equipment will enable the Council to provide better services to at least 4,000 boys in the Panhandle of Texas and Oklahoma.

Projects at Camp Kiowa will include many major improvements to the Camp located near Canadian. A new Camp Service Center will be constructed and will house the camp office, the medical center, the trading post, and program and equipment storage facilities. New Boats and Canoes will be purchased. The Council anticipates the construction of five new (See SCOUT WEEK, Page 3)

Clyde Carruth Files For Judge; Deadline Nears

The list of Gray County candidates filing for public office dwindled to a trickle Saturday although the deadline for filing is only hours away.

Both Republican and Democrats have until midnight Monday to file with their executive committees for places on the ballot in the May 3 primary.

Clyde L. Carruth, 1490 Bond, was the latest candidate to file for a position on the Democratic ballot in the race for county judge.

In announcing his candidacy, Carruth, who filed Saturday, stated: "The duties of the office of county judge have grown to the extent that they warrant full time attention. I have no business or profession that will require any of my time, and if I am elected I will devote my entire time to county affairs and the interests of the people of Gray County. I will be fair and impartial in all matters, giving due consideration to all. I will also cooperate with all groups and individuals working for the betterment of the county."

According to Bob Baker, secretary of the Gray County Democratic committee, political activity in Gray County has been slack for a non-presidential election year. The largest political battle to develop in the county is the race for commissioner of Precinct 2, with six filing on the Democratic ballot and two on the Republican ticket.

In the race for state representative in the 87th Legislative District, Johnny Willis and Warren Fatheree, both of Pampa, have filed on the Republican ticket and Grainger McIlhenny, Wheeler, present representative, is seeking reelection on the Democratic ballot.

Candidates who have filed for the 18th Congressional district, which includes Gray County, are Democrat Walter Rogers of Pampa, presently serving as congressman for this district, and Jack Seale, mayor of Amarillo, Republican.

County offices affected by the coming election include, district judge, district clerk, county judge, county clerk, county superintendent of instruction, county surveyor, county commissioners in Precincts 2 and 4 and justice of the peace in Precincts 1, 2 and 5.

Kidnapers Set Trio Free After Ransom Is Paid

CHICAGO, Ill. (UPI)—Police pressed a search Saturday for four beatnik kidnapers who held a woman and her two children hostage during a night of terror until her husband produced $5,000 ransom money.

Mrs. Irving Chawenson, 42, and her children, Eileen, 18, and Lawrence, 14, were given their freedom Friday. For more than five hours they had been held at gunpoint in a dingy flat.

Mrs. Chawenson said she overheard one gunman say: "If we don't get the money, we'll let them have it."

She said they were held in a two-room flat with broken plaster walls and no hot water.

"Sometimes they (the kidnapers) just walked—walked up and back. One of them just fingered his revolver, turning it over, looking at it, playing with it."

Chawenson did not call police until late Friday. First he gave the bandits more than $5,000 in small bills and was reunited with his family at their home.

The Chawensons said the four Negro gunmen came to their home at 11 o'clock Thursday night. They pretended to be deliverymen with a package for Chawenson, who observed his 50th birthday Saturday.

When he realized they were thieves, Chawenson offered them $250 which he said was the day's receipts for his tire and supply company.

"They told me this was a kidnaping and they wanted $40,000," he told police.

As the hours wore on, Chawenson said, the kidnapers dropped their demands until $5,000 was agreed upon.

Thieves Get Million-Dollar Haul In Unguarded Italian Museum

GRONETTO, Italy (UPI)—Thieves chopped a hole in the door of an unguarded Etruscan museum during the night and stole a 2,500-year-old gold necklace and other jewels and art treasures valued at more than $1 million, police reported Saturday.

It was one of the biggest hauls in the series of daring thefts which have stripped museums and private homes in Europe and the United States of more than $5 million worth of art treasures in the past year.

The robbery was discovered Saturday morning when the museum guardian reported for duty. He found a huge hole in the front door of the museum which is located on the ground floor of a downtown school building.

Missing were the filigreed gold necklace, Etruscan rings, earrings, and other gems and 15 Roman bronze statuettes.

Experts said the necklace, while archeologically priceless, had a commercial value of about $600,000.

The necklace was about 12 inches long and adorned with pendant. Museum officials said it was made in the 5th or 6th century B.C. and was sold to the city of Grosseto by a private collector in the year 1855.

It was the third big robbery of art treasures in Italy since the first of the year. On New Year's eve, $160,000 worth of paintings were stolen from the home of a wealthy dentist in Bergamo. Early this morning, 26 paintings valued at $300,000 were stolen from a villa near Como.

The rash of thefts began last Feb. 22 when a portrait by Bellini was taken from a museum in Dublin. It was later returned, however.

First Doomsday Passes; There's Still 'One To Go'

NEW DELHI, (UPI)—Millions of frightened Indians bathed in sacred rivers and prayed to the goddess of destruction and fire Saturday, the first day of "doomsday weekend" passed with nothing more spectacular than the bright red sun appearing behind the Indian Ocean.

However, to hordes of terrified star-believers Saturday's peace was only a heavenly sign of the horrors to come Sunday.

Faithful throughout India, and in many parts of Nepal and Burma huddled in their homes, and rallied around sacrificial fires or journeyed to sacred rivers to get in an icy, last-minute swim to purify them for the end.

The streets of this Indian capital — normally overflowing on Saturday night — were virtually deserted except for scattered hawkers trying to make an 11th hour sale of a protective talisman for prices ranging up to $15.

Hindu astrologers had predicted a calamity weekend, stretching from Saturday morning to Monday night, under influence of a rare alignment of heavenly bodies. They are the sun, the moon, Venus, Mars, Mercury Jupiter and Saturn—and an eighth to which the astrologer's astronomical colleagues don't subscribe: The invisible planet Ketu which legend says long ago was swallowed by a serpent.

Beside the planetary lineup, which last occurred in 1324, the world also was in store for a total eclipse of the sun. Both events will only be visible in the South Pacific over such sparsely populated areas as Borneo, New Guinea and the Solomon Islands. The twin phenomena will occur Feb. 4-5.

The peaceful passing of the first "danger day" brought a just-yup (See DOOMSDAY, Page 3)

Fog Shrouds Many Areas Of Country

By United Press International

Cars, trains and even ships groped and crashed in dense fog which swathed wide areas from the Pacific to the Atlantic Saturday.

In Oregon, cars piled up in a string of crackups on a fog-bound highway near Woodburn.

A ferry boat with seven persons aboard was missing for 14 hours in dense fog near Vancouver Island.

Most of Texas will continue under clear skies through Sunday. That includes Pampa where the mercury climbed to 70 under sunny skies yesterday afternoon and promises to head that way again today.

land. It was finally located at the point where the skipper had tied up for safety.

In Indiana, a freight train crawling through heavy fog slammed into another freight. Fifteen cars were derailed and four persons were injured.

The fog covered large parts of the West, shrouded the Midwest from Minnesota into Michigan and Illinois, and enveloped the Southland from the Carolinas into Virginia and the Gulf states.

Weathermen blamed the fog on the snow in the Middle West. They said the combination of warm air (See FOG AREAS, Page 3)

Glenn Says Next Orbit Try 'When Good And Ready'

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., 19 days away from a new attempt to orbit the world, said Saturday he was rested and anxious to try again.

Speaking in public for the first time since his Cape Canaveral space flight was postponed last Saturday, the 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel appeared confident that the new attempt would succeed. It now is set for Feb. 13.

But, Glenn told reporters in a crowded front-porch news conference at his home in this Washington suburb, the flight will be made "only after we are good and ready." He said technicians right now were "checking everything very carefully" in the Mercury-Atlas combination on pad 14 at Cape Canaveral.

The launching will not be attempted, he said, until all systems are checked out and all facilities are "just right." The attempt was postponed after trouble developed in the Atlas rocket that is to boost Glenn and his capsule into space.

Black Mart Offers Pedigrees For Dogs

NEW YORK (NEA) — "Nice, little mutt you got there," the man near the fire hydrant said again. But this time he added softly and quickly:

"Want to make him a pedigree? I can get you papers. Real cheap."

Well, it was bound to happen. With almost every other kind of status symbol available today in a plastic model, there has finally come a nifty little black market in registered dogs.

And while forged forebears may not mean much to a dog, they certainly whack millions of Americans in the modern, affluent solar plexus.

The American Kennel Club now registers a half-million pure bred puppies each year. A Bouvier de Flandres, whose grandparents probably had a milk route in Belgium, sells today for $300 to $750. And even that unregistered doggie in a window probably costs $15 and up.

And so, after a hasty inquisition at the hydrant and then a grave consultation in the backroom of a Greenwich Village sweater-and-ikon boutique, this reporter was finally given clearance to have a pedigree forged for his aging dog.

The dog — a small, schizophrenic black-and-tan — could be a Manchester Terrier, with a sterling ancestry reaching back to William the Conqueror.

It was more than his master could claim for himself. And it would cost only $25.

"You are getting a very special deal," the man said, "because I know you from the neighborhood and see from the way you dress that you are not making out so good."

"The price is usually $50 or $100."

He could not, he said, come down a penny more — unless, of course, the dog could be registered as a Fox Terrier or some other unfashionable breed. And even then it would only be a few dollars difference as there was considerable risk and expense involved.

In the first place, having a dog registered with the American Kennel Club required the use of real papers. But these were only available to breeders of registered dogs upon their assurance that a litter had been born.

Should puppy die, a registration form became available. But what with modern surgery and antibiotics nowadays, the infant mortality rate was dropping constantly. And anyway, it was usually quite hard to get an unused form away from a breeder.

The more likely method of black market registration was to use the papers of pedigreed dogs who had died — but, so far as AKC book-keeping knew, continued to thrive and reproduce registerable puppies.

"Don't look at it as an expense," the man said. "It's an investment. You'll be able to sell the papers after your dog's gone. And probably for a profit, too."

In the meantime, the $25 was necessary to offset the risk involved. The AKC, aware that violations like these are possible, has set up an elaborate security division.

Breeders' records are checked without advance warning. Elderly registered dogs that seem to produce remarkable litters are investigated. The Registration Review Division of the club tries constantly to elicit the suspicions and complaints of the public.

Once armed with evidence, the AKC moves swiftly, calling the accused to trial. AKC courts sit throughout the nation.

"It's just like a real trial," a club officer said. "The defendant has the right to legal counsel and so forth. But if he is found guilty, he is liable to suspension and denied all AKC privileges."

Crime does not pay.

Following the tour of the county office, Mrs. Helen Sprinkle, the District Clerk, will conduct the members through similar material to be found in the district office.

Throughout the month, displays, radio programs, marking of historical spots and graves of Civil War Veterans will be additional projects of the Society. On Feb. 22, to commemorate the birthday of George Washington, the Society will have a guest day tea at Lovett Library.

Jaycees Honor Mayor Eastman At White Deer

WHITE DEER (Spl) - Bob Eastman, mayor of White Deer, was presented the Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award at the Jaycee banquet held recently in the cafeteria.

Highlighting the year's activities, the club entertained the wives, bosses and their wives and other guests.

Bernard Shield, president, welcomed the guests and presented the award in appreciation for the untiring effort made toward the progress and growth of White Deer.

The U. S. shutdown climaxed a long series of economic steps taken by this country against the Castro government. The major blow was the cutting off of Cuban sugar imports in 1960.

Amarillo Mayor Urges Individual Responsibility

Too many Americans are by passing individual responsibility to the country in which they live, Amarillo Mayor Jack Seale told a Kiwanis Club luncheon audience Friday in First Methodist Church.

Speaking on the 1962 theme of Kiwanis, "Citizenship Quotient," Mayor Seale said the individual has great responsibility in the conduct of local government, and in state and national government.

"Each of us," he said, "has three main responsibilities — to God, to country and to ourselves and family."

"Number two in that list — responsibility to country, is being bypassed by most of us."

Mayor Seale said there are three basic principles involved in responsibility to country. He listed these as having knowledge of our political structure, being living examples of the things in which we believe, and the will to take action.

He said there are many roles the individual can take in local government.

"We can offer ourselves for public office or get qualified candidates to run for office — candidates who have the best interests of the public at heart," he said.

All through his talk the Amarilloan stressed the shirking of individual responsibility as the cause of some of the country's worst ills today.

In conclusion, Mayor Seale said:

"If we believe in the providence of God, that we were created in His image and that all freedom and power comes from God; if we believe in the importance and worth of the individual; if we believe that the way to have a responsible society is for local communities to make their own decisions and solve their own problems; if we believe our nation's strength comes from individual initiative in local communities — then we all need to dedicate ourselves to accept that responsibility in order to preserve constitutional government which is necessary for our country to survive."

FHA Expecting 70,000 To Ask For Home Loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some 70,000 American home owners will apply for long-term government insured home improvement loans next year.

This is the estimate of the Federal Housing Administration, the government agency which has been insuring mortgage and improvement loans since 1934.

FHA made its forecast in a memo elaborating on President Kennedy's 1963 budget. The budget covers federal spending in the 12 months starting next July 1 — fiscal 1963 in the federal accounting books.

Congress last year authorized FHA to insure loans of up to $10,000 for major rehabilitation, modernization and improvement of houses. Maximum repayment is 20 years. The administration considers this program a major weapon in its fight to slow and reverse decay in the nation's urban areas.

The idea is this: with government insurance the loan is virtually riskless. Otherwise, a lender might question the worth of the property to be improved and refuse to make the loan. The home owner is able to borrow on more attractive terms than might otherwise be available. Were they not, he might not decide to fix up his property.

Considering that the new improvement loan insurance program has gotten off to a slow start, the 1963 estimate is surprisingly high.

Whether it is realistic will depend in part on the general trend of the economy and in particular what happens to interest rates, especially those on mortgages.

The maximum interest rate a lender may charge on a long-term FHA improvement loan is 6 per cent. This is more than the going conventional loan rate in the East and in some big cities elsewhere. It is less than the going rate in the West and in many rural places, elsewhere.

TOPIC FOR SERMON
LONDON (UPI)—Announcing to dinner guests that he planned to preach on the subject of doping racehorses, a British bishop was advised by a guest that his topic should be:

"The first shall be last and the last shall be first."

Courts see that your intention or "will" as to property is carried out after you die. Before then you may revoke or change it any time.

The passing of property to heirs is one of man's oldest transactions. As far back as the Egyptian, Assyrian and Jewish civilizations, we have wills written and witnessed on papyrus, clay tablets, etc. In one will an early testator left some of his property to his wife and named a guardian for his children.

The Hammurabi code (2100 B.C.) permitted a father by deed to favor his son.

Under early Roman law the head of a house could tell the patrician assembly his wishes, but later Roman law favored a written will to keep the testator's plans secret until death. It also favored having a firm record of his wishes, not resting on memory.

By 1200 A.D. England, where we got our laws of wills, was quite well advanced. The church courts (like our probate courts) supervised disposition of property according to a "testament" of how the testator wanted his property to go.

Church courts supervised personal property (movables like armor or personal effects); land was passed on by wills which the king's court handled. Hence today we speak of "last will and testament" since English courts came to pass on both real and personal property, so that one court could handle the whole estate.

English church courts had "executors" who carried out one's testament. To die "intestate" (without a testament) was almost like dying unconfessed. Sometimes the church in the interests of a man's soul could give some of the man's goods to others besides his family. Then, as now, some property had to be left to the surviving wife and children.

By the time of the American colonies, the laws were well settled, and law courts, rather than church courts, administered and distributed estates here.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Early Iron

In the Middle Ages, iron was made in furnaces of relatively small size, in which pure ore was reduced to a pasty mass by means of charcoal and the product subsequently was hammered to get rid of impurities.

Just Digging A Potential Grave?

The Great Shelter 'Skin Game'

By WARD CANNEL
NEW YORK (NEA) — The last divot is planted. The final payment is made. And as the suburban sun sets, the proud family steps in to inspect their just finished $3,000 fallout shelter—only to find, a nationwide roundup reveals:

Two feet of water on the floor because the plans didn't call for over-all waterproofing. Or a rainstorm from the ceiling because some of the man's waterproofing doesn't let body moisture evaporate. Or, worse, imminent death from asphyxiation because the ventilation isn't adequate for five people.

It's nothing new, of course, except for the name. This is the Thermocuclear Age version of the old survival skin game. It's done with cinder block and chemical toilet today instead of wolf-bane and rabbit's foot.

And it's going on, consumers say, because of the confusion, unknowables and outright frauds that face a family which finally decides it should have a shelter.

In New York, for example, early fallout shelter smog has touched the State Assembly where Speaker Joseph Carlino has been accused of — and is presently denying to the ethics committee of the legislature — conflict of interest in helping shepherd a $100 million aid-to-shelter-building firm.

FALLOUT INFORMATION: But digging that hole in the ground is another story for the householder.

Across the river, another shelter builder is being sued by angry New Jersey citizens who gave him $50,000 in deposits and got only potholes for their money. In the Middle West, a family has started a suit against their shelter builder following a five-day shelter-living experiment in which they were overcome by the fumes from their chemical toilet.

Alarmed by the situation, the Better Business Bureau and the Federal Trade Commission have issued warnings and specifications for homeowners to study before spending money on fallout shelters. But in the confusion, directives appear to be impotent.

One national picture magazine, offering reprints of do-it-yourself survival building plans for 25 cents, returned the 80-odd thousand quarters sent in, and abandoned the project in fear that subscribers might be bilked by the unscrupulous hawkers thronging to this new bonanza.

But even the most ethical shelter builder is without guaranteed, effective specifications for his plans.

How deep should he dig — now that bomb capability may be moving toward 100 megatons? How long should he plan for shelter dwelling if the big bomb can do its worst damage by causing more fire than fallout? Is he really building a shelter or a crematorium? Should he put in a septic tank sewage disposal system and an oxygen supply system?

Questions like these are still unanswered, according to Consumer Reports, a magazine published by a nonprofit product testing organization.

With so many variables — weather, season, bomb size, height of blast, etc. — not even the just-published Defense Department handbook, "Fallout Protection," can provide answers for all possibilities.

In addition, says the American Home magazine after a survey of the field, none of the basic shelter designs, both Civil Defense and commercial, has ever been thoroughly and scientifically checked under real-life conditions.

But perhaps no really real test is possible.

Chicago Man Is Heart-Of-Year Award Winner

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Friday presented the American Heart Association's Heart-of-the-Year Award to Clarence B. Randall of Chicago and told him that his life dramatizes how a man can be "useful" after a heart attack.

The award was presented at a White House ceremony to begin American Heart Month and the American Heart Fund campaign.

Randall suffered a heart attack in 1958, two years after his retirement as chairman of the board of Inland Steel Co., Chicago. Despite his heart attack he has made two missions to Ghana for President Kennedy and currently heads a committee to review federal salaries.

Accepting the award, Randall said that it is his belief that a "coronary thrombosis is not the end—it can be the beginning."

'Pull All Stops' Is Urged In Fight To Kill Screwworm

Stockmen and sportsmen of Texas and the Southwest have been requested by the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation to "pull all stops" immediately in a drive to control and possibly eliminate the costly screwworm.

John B. Rice, McLean, chairman of the Gray County Screwworm Control Program Committee, said he had been advised by the Foundation's Board of Trustees that the long-sought goal of a screwworm-free Southwest would be a possibility for 1962 if full advantage is taken of the hard freeze of two weeks ago, which dealt the flesh-eating parasite a crippling blow.

Chairman Rice added that if the $3-million voluntary contribution goal of the drive is reached within the next two to three weeks, they could expect estimated savings during the next two years of 200-million from screwworm damage and treatment costs and a reduction of up to 50 per cent in the cost of the eradication program.

Chairman Rice said the Foundation Trustees are moving forward with their plans to get the male sterile fly release program underway within the next few days. They have also notified all county chairmen of a statewide kickoff meeting for February 14. The meeting will be held in Austin and representatives from every county will be urged to attend. Details will be announced later but it is hoped the fund drive will be over the top by the date of the meeting, he said.

Reports from 120 counties show that more than half a million dollars is now on deposit at banks in these counties. Organizations are now functioning in 212 counties.

"Too much is at stake," Chairman Rice said, "to slow down now and we are urged a redoubling of efforts by all drive participants."

Up-Grading
LONDON (UPI) — Rural councils plan to turn their garbage collectors into white collar workers.

To remove the "stigma" of being a garbage man, they plan to introduce waterproof paper bags to be collected "by smart young men in white collars."

216 Completions Made Last Week

AUSTIN (UPI)—There were 210 oilwells and 66 gas wells completed in Texas this week, the State Railroad Commission said Saturday.

Total completions for the year rose to 920 and 317, respectively, compared to 903 oil and 258 gas well completions at the same time in 1961.

The total included nine oil wildcats and 28 gas discoveries. Discoveries, by district, included San Antonio 2 gas, Refugio two oil and eight gas, Houston four oil and three gas, Corpus Christi one oil and eight gas, Kilgore two gas, Abilene one gas, San Angelo one oil and one gas, Wichita Falls one oil and two gas and Pampa one gas.

The commission said it received 287 regular drilling applications during the week; bringing the 1962 total to 1,428 compared with 1,223 for the same 1961 period.

Total wells decreased by 113 to 202,366 and average calendar day allowable dropped 77,749 barrels to 2,831,007.

UN Begins Buildup For Attack On Congo Gangs

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo — A United Nations airlift Saturday flew 248 Ethiopian soldiers into Kindo to spearhead the buildup of military forces for a major offensive against marauding Gizengist troops and fanatical youth gangs terrorizing Kivu province and Northern Katanga.

A 52-man Malayan patrol was dispatched from the Kivu capital of Bukavu last Wednesday after the U.S. consul at Usumbura expressed concern over the safety of 12 Americans at the mission in the remote jungle town of Kama.

The Americans included Rev. and Mrs. F. R. Vinton Sr. of Pittsburgh; Rev. and Mrs. F. R. Vinton Jr. and their two children of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. William Bunch and their two children of Chicago; and Betty Friar and Wilma Spark, nurses from Benton and Evansville, Ind.

Officials at the Grand Rapids, Mich., headquarters of the missionaries said the Americans were not believed in danger. They said the elder Vinton reported in a cable that they had been cut off from the outside world by floods.

Five Rich Cats Are Giving Tax Collectors Fits

CHICAGO (UPI)—Five of the richest cats in Illinois are giving the tax-collector fits.

Margaret Theresa Montgomery left a $25,000 trust fund for Big Boy, Brother Cat, Blue Eyes, Mommy Kitty, and Flat Nose. It pays $1,250 a year. That's a lot of catnip.

The will said if that was not enough money for them to live in their accustomed style, they could dip into the principal.

There arises the problem that has the Illinois inheritance tax collector up a tree. How do you tax cats?

Annual taxes on trust funds are set by a mortality table which estimates how long the beneficiaries are likely to live.

Do you tax a cat for one life or the legendary nine? How long is a cat likely to live in one life, anyway?

The tax collectors took their problem to a veterinarian, who said the average life span of a cat in Chicago is about 10 years. Only thing is, four of these cats are already 12.

"How do you tax a cat who should have died two years ago?" asked the tax collector.

Fighting Breaks Out At Laos Defense Line

LUANG PRABANG, Laos (UPI)—American military advisers who braved a Communist mortar barrage to land at Nam Tha said Saturday the stiffest infantry fighting in a week had broken out 6,000 yards from the northwestern Laos defense bastion.

Government forces so far have been unable to silence the mortars which have been firing on the Nam Tha airstrip for the last 72 hours. T-6 fighter-trainers tried to knock them out with rockets Saturday but failed.

The Royal Lao government called for a cease-fire at Nam Tha, 90 miles northwest of Luang Prabang Saturday and said if the rebels cease firing right-wing Premier Prince Boun Oum will begin the peace talks he called off Friday.

The Chinese Communist New China news agency, quoting the clandestine rebel radio "the voice of Laos," said Saturday the rebels had termed "unacceptable and unreasonable" a Low government demand the rebels lift the siege of Nam Tha as the price of peace talks.

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, the right-wing strongman of Laos, said members of the International Control Commission flew to rebel headquarters Saturday to deliver the cease-fire appeal to "neutralist" Prince Souvanna Phouma and propose the start of talks on Sunday.

A Royal government communiqué said the Communist-led rebels were shelling Nam Tha with 85 millimeter cannons and that the airstrip was being bombarded by various types of mortar fire. It said most women and children had fled to the surrounding hills.

American military advisers indicated the shelling was far less serious than reported by the royal government. Two planes flew in today with U.S. advisers and food for the defense garrison. Also flying in was Maj. Gen. Bounlet Sanichang, royal army commander-in-chief. Neither plane was damaged during the stay on the runway.

No Head Patting

Fiji Islanders, proud of their frizzy, upstanding hair, consider it poor taste to touch another person's head. It meant almost certain death to do so at one time.

TV Actor Also Stars As Artist

NEW YORK (UPI)—One of the truly versatile personalities of show business is Fred Gwynne, the tall, angular actor who plays Officer Muldoon as co-star of the NBC television series "Car 54—Where Are You?"

Besides being an accomplished actor whose work has been seen on the Broadway stage as well as television, Gwynne is an artist who has illustrated many books. His latest illustrations, distinctive and satirical, are for the new book "The Battle of the Frogs and the Mice," scheduled for Feb. 26 publication by Dodd, Mead & Co.

The book, authored by George Martin, tells in words and pictures a Homeric epic of a disastrous war between frogs and mice. The tale, originally credited to Homer but now thought to have been the work of a later author, mirrors, through lampoon, the folly of wars of all times.

Dividend Income Must Be Reported

Dividends received by taxpayers during 1961 must be reported on federal income tax returns, Wiley E. Davis Pampa, administrative officer for the Internal Revenue Service, said Saturday.

"If you own stock in a corporation, the payments you receive out of the company's earnings and profits are called dividends and must be reported in your tax return," Davis said.

"Usually, dividends are paid in cash, but if paid in merchandise or other property, they are taxable at their fair market value." Taxpayers with questions on this subject may get Document No. 5060, "Investment Income," by calling MO 4-2131.

Churches Facing Opportunity In U.S. Colleges

NEW YORK (UPI)—A major New Frontier of the church is on the college campus.

Leaders of nearly every denomination report increasing numbers of young people are straying from churches when they become old enough to leave home for college or jobs.

The Methodist Church, which long has regarded youth as its "growing edge," recently conducted its first national convention on preaching in college and university communities. About 200 ministers assigned to academic communities attended the meeting in Cincinnati to seek new ways to increase student participation in religious activities.

Dr. Deane William Fenn, dean of the college chapel at Mount Holyoke College, was the chief speaker. He delivered a series of talks in which he pointed up the problems and offered possible solutions.

"The college campus is the greatest mission field in the world today for the church," Fenn said. "Here the leaders of the next generation are to be found. Here the competing 'faiths' meet head-on in a life-and-death struggle for the minds and hearts of men. Here the course of the world may be determined."

Fenn said negative images of the church are found in church-related colleges as well as in private and state institutions of higher learning. Among these "negative images" he listed:

—The image of a church that is too rigid, authoritarian and seeking obedience to external authority instead of to individual freedom.

—The image of a church that does not speak the language of young people. The churches seem to be more interested in communicating with one another than with the academic family.

—The image of a church that can answer questions students are NOT asking while ignoring the questions they ARE asking.

—The church is credulous, authoritarian, speaks a foreign language, is socially insensitive and largely irrelevant," Fenn said. "To be sure, there are other negative images of the church. These are, however, the major ones."

He said that while the church is not entirely to blame for its shortcomings, it must bear a share of the responsibility. The task of preaching in an academic community therefore is in part one of breaking down "false images," he said.

Fenn offered a list of steps that could be taken to aid in development of a positive image of the church. Among them were:

—The church should appreciate and encourage honest doubt and admit it does not know the final answers. The crucial problem is to get students to be constructive in their doubting.

—The church should be a teaching community seeking to stretch the minds and not just inspire the hearts of the congregation.

—The church should be concerned with the issues that students and teachers regard as critical.

—The church, through the clergy, should become as involved as possible in college life.

—The church should educate its members in the meaning of theological terminology.

—The church should be sensitive to social issues of the day, such as racial discrimination, economic injustice, housing and world understanding, and become involved in them.

—The church must keep constantly in mind that a Gospel of human redemption that helps men find themselves is at the root of everything the church does or says.

"The image of the church in the academic community," Fenn said, "should be that of making out a good substantial case for her faith in the midst of ideological conflict and spiritual confusion."

She's an Indoor Girl
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Actress Suzanne Pleshette finds it easier to be a girl in New York than in Hollywood, which she says is too "outdoorsy." She complains that she rarely has an opportunity to get out of sandals and sweaters in Hollywood while in New York she wears white gloves and a hat and can be much more feminine.

It was not until 1858 that Christmas was declared a holiday in Boston, Mass.

Trying To Figure How Missile Marksmen Could Miss The Moon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Honorable Eugene Siler is a puzzled man. He can't figure out how in the world our missile marksmen managed to miss anything as big as the moon.

As he pointed out in the Congressional Record, the moon is more than 2,000 miles in diameter and "usually is shining like a new dollar most any time when you might want to shoot at it."

To miss it by more than 20,000 miles seemed to him deplorable. Siler, it should be explained, is a member of Congress representing the Eighth District of Kentucky. He has among his constituents some of the best sharpshooters in the Cumberland Mountains.

The men, he said, "can drop a squirrel out of a tree at 100 yards," and he knows a girl who can "hit a running rabbit with a rifle at a hunter's reasonable distance."

"What would they think if I told them that some experts down in Florida fired a big shot at the big moon way out yonder and actually missed it by more than 20,000 miles distance from the bull's-eye target?" he asked.

Answering his own question, he said they would regard the recent moon shot as comparable to "missing an elephant's south end while swinging at it with a big bass fiddle."

For that matter, Siler was unable to understand why anyone would want to shoot at the moon in the first place.

The moon is beautiful and romantic," he said. "It is friendly and inspiring. It gives light and affects the tides. It promotes courtship and saves electricity."

"And if you should actually hit the moon as a target, what would you accomplish?"

Well, sir, it seems to me that

Political Playlet Designed To Stop Theft Of Ballots

WASHINGTON (UPI)—On the stage against a backdrop of Persian minarets were three shapely angels dressed in black tights and doing a modified version of "The Twist."

That will give you a rough idea of what goes on at the Young Republican national leadership training school being held here this week.

It was enough to start an old-time ward-heeler twisting in his grave.

I became interested in the school because of an announcement that the trainees were going to witness a political playlet which would "dramatize various types of ballot theft."

Moreover, it listed the producer and narrator of the skit as Mrs. Vera R. Glaser, a GOP publicity gal whom I had known for a number of years and had regarded as an honest, upright citizen.

"What's this I hear about you teaching innocent young Republicans how to steal ballots?" I asked Mrs. Glaser, thinking that perhaps she had become a fagin of the voting-booth.

"You've got it all wrong," she replied. "We're teaching them how to recognize various forms of ballot stealing so that they can stop it."

Much relieved by her explanation, I stopped by the Persian room of a local hotel to see her production. The Young Republicans magnanimously admitted me even though I am a few years overage and a radical nonpartisan to boot.

On stage, Mrs. Glaser was flanked on her right by three young ladies clad in skin tight leggings, short white smocks and halos. According to the script, they represented angels. I am not qualified to say whether the costuming was authentic.

On her left were two sneaky-looking chaps, one of whom was wearing a mask and was identified as "Benny the ballot thief."

There may have been a bit of political symbolism in the positioning of the two groups. But since the left side characters were not actually labelled as Democrats, it may have been purely coincidental.

Guided by Mrs. Glaser's informed commentary, the two fellows demonstrated a number of shady election day tricks, including "tombstone" voting, stuffing ballot boxes, padding registration lists and jamming voting machines.

After each example, the angels stepped forward and chanted Greek chorus fashion and remedies for such shenanigans. This was accompanied by twisting movements that were more in the Minsky chorus tradition.

I feel certain the Young Republicans found it edifying. As for me, my faith in Mrs. Glaser's integrity was fully restored.

AT THE CAPRI — Eerie, nightmarish sequences such as this highlight "The Mask," opening Thursday at the Capri theatre, for a three-day engagement. Paul Stevens and Claudette Nevins star in the unusual thriller based on the legend of an ancient ritual mask which transports a person into a world of hallucinations if he puts it on. The dramatic sequences are filmed in a new depth-dimensional process, embers of the audience receive masks as they enter the theatre, and are requested to put them on whenever a performer on the screen dons the mask.

Theaters Increase Their Bid For Foreign Pictures

By LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — From now on the movie theater in the United States will draw increasingly on the whole world for films, believes Walter Reade, Jr., head of a 34-year-old independent chain.

Reade's company, which operates 25 indoor and drive-in houses in New York City and nearby, also controls the biggest firm for distributing foreign films and films made abroad especially for the U.S. market.

The Reade company recently announced to plans to merge with Saul Furell's Sterling Television to create the first completely integrated film and theater business in the country since the federal government forced the big Hollywood studios to divest themselves of their theater operations.

The merged company will join independent producers in making feature films for theatres here and abroad, will distribute all types of films and will make TV and educational and commercial films.

It also is planned to expand the Reade theater chain into other states.

Reade said Hollywood, which once dominated the screens of the whole world, no longer can supply enough pictures to completely dominate the theatre and TV screens of even the United States.

"Even though the number of movie houses has declined drastically, more films are needed and public taste demands far greater variety," he said. "The foreign-made film, after being a specialty of small houses for decades, is going to be steady fare in the majority of our theatres."

Reade also predicted movies will get better. "I think that, in spite of all the criticism of TV programs, TV is providing a well-paying training school for large numbers of good actors, directors and technicians and already is graduating some playwrights of merit who will turn out good scripts for films and the legitimate stage," he said.

Reade also predicted that more

Warners Working On FBI Special For TV

NEW YORK (UPI) — Warner Bros. is in production with a non-documentary TV special designed to give a factual, definitive picture of the work of the FBI while also telling an entertaining fictional story. With FBI approval, of course, it will be a 90-minute film and the ABC network will telecast it. Date not yet set. The only information on the story is that it concerns a "special group" of Americans suddenly involved, as victims and witnesses, in a serious crime.

Cliff Robertson has won the male lead in the TV version of Italy, he said, would have cost at least $500,000 in Hollywood, "because there's so much featherbedding in the crews."

Ward Advances To State Gloves Tournament

Nicklaus Is Labeled For Greatness On Greens

LOS ANGELES (NEA)—Years from now, 1,000 guys are going to "remember" they were there when Jack Nicklaus teed off in his first golf tournament as a professional, at the Rancho Municipal course in Los Angeles.

Of course, by that time Jack may have won a half-dozen United States Opens, a couple of PGA's, five Masters and a few British Opens.

Right now Nicklaus is just a kid on the verge of 22 who turned pro with the fanfare of a Ben Hogan and socked his first drive 250 yards straight down the fairway.

But there were just 42 southern Californians who trudged after him as the 7:30 morning sun gleamed over Pico Boulevard, making the dew drops glisten and slowing up wet greens.

His long iron dropped 18 feet to the right of the pin. He stroked cautiously. The putt was a foot short of the cup and Jack looked up at the sun imploringly.

Nicklaus bogeyed the second and sixth holes. It wasn't until the 15th hole, when he dropped a five-footer, that Jack collected the first birdie of his pro career.

Playing partner Leo Biagetti, a veteran Californian, shook his head.

By that time, Nicklaus didn't need the charcoal sweater he wore doggedly straight through a three-par first round in the Los Angeles Open that tipped off the adjustment the most celebrated ex-amateur in golf would have to make.

"My short game was ridiculous," Nicklaus shrugged as he trudged into the Coral Room of the clubhouse for a pineapple milk shake to sustain the 210 pounds that run to pudginess.

Nicklaus turned to Mark McCormick, the Cleveland lawyer who also handles Arnold Palmer and Gary Player and has seen to it that Jack will bank $100,000 this year. "I told you, Mark, I wouldn't play good in my first two tournaments."

Jack explained that finishing out the fall quarter at Ohio State (he has another year to graduation) limited his preparation for the tour to nine rounds of golf in Florida but didn't affect his confidence. He has said he expects to earn $30,000 as a tour novice.

"At least that," he said with assurance. "I hope to do better. When I get sharp."

Nicklaus took in $33.33 for finishing the tournament with 289-21 strokes behind the record-breaking Marine, Phil Rodgers.

Nicklaus is cocky about his ability. He didn't show nerves. He chatted amiably with Red Baxter and Baggett as he marched along. He bounced approaches past the hole and nursed putts short of the pin in a frustrating round but insisted that he hit the ball well.

Have any of the other pros counseled him?

"I don't take advice from anybody I don't know," Nicklaus said, with a bland smile. "I'm a little headstrong. I listen to my father and my wife and the only pro who ever taught me, Jack Grout. Then I do what I decide."

Nicklaus is one of the very few top golfers who use the interlocking grip.

"My father used it," he explained. "And I have ridiculously small hands. It helps hold them together."

The big Columbus lad went over the thinking that caused him to join the pros after insisting a year ago he had no intention of doing so.

"I had a responsibility to my family," Nicklaus pointed out. "I was trying to do two jobs. Play golf full time. Work as an insurance man full time. I couldn't do justice to either."

The only tension he feels as a pro concerns others.

"A lot of people," he said, "put up money for endorsements. I have to produce."

Does playing for three squares a day increase the stress?

"I've never missed a meal yet," he grinned. "I'm not about to."

Jack Nicklaus patted his ample chest confidently.

Littler Is Leader At Palm Springs

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Gentleman Gene Littler, pushing his hot stick to the limit, took over undisputed possession of the lead after four rounds of the $100,000 Palm Springs Marathon Saturday—but had to share the headlines with handsome Dick Mayer, who collected $50,000 for hitting a hole in one.

Littler, fresh from winning the $3,000 first prize in the San Francisco Lucky International Tournament, took a two-stroke lead over the field. The San Diego shot-maker had a 270 total.

Gardner Dickinson, the third round leader, faded slightly to a 272; Arnold Palmer totaled 273 and Jay Rebert had 274.

The final holes of the 90-hole tournament are set for Sunday at the Bermuda Dunes course with the top 60 pros competing.

Young Tommy Aaron, Gainesville, Ga., picked up a check for $3,000 when he won the pro division of the 72-hole pro-am. Playing with nine different amateurs, three at a time, Aaron posted a score of 74 strokes under par counting the two best balls in each foursome.

Jack Fleck, Los Angeles, finished in second place in this division, with a 72 under par—winning $1,500.

Mayer, a blond 37-year-old veteran of the tournament trail who hasn't played in competition since last October, got his biggest thrill when he connected with a four-iron on the 174-yard second hole at Tamarisk.

But the 31-year-old Littler, current national open and former national amateur king, continued to display the best brand of golf. He now has rounds of 67-71-64-68.

Palmer had a chance to move closer to the lead, too, but he ran into trouble on the final nine holes, taking a double bogey six on the 14th. He hit a trap and then topped it off with a three-putt performance. He had a one under par 71 Saturday.

"It was awful," he said later. "I missed three greens, took two bogeys and one double bogey."

those turning their backs, because the 29-year-old from Johnstown, Pa., has been "quiet." In other words, he hasn't been a big winner of late.

As example, at Hialeah up until Tuesday he had ridden 52 mounts and scored with only seven winners.

"He got too big for some of the trainers, too," observed another. "Last year he took himself off a horse because he said it wasn't fit, even though the trainer said it was. And remember that the late Vic Sovinski, who trained Venetian Way and put Hartack on him to win the Kentucky Derby later on wouldn't let Hartack ride the horse any more."

There can be no doubt, if you want to call spades by their proper name, that Hartack is a fine jockey despite his current slump. Winning the national championship once can be a fluke but "Hartack," as some of them call him, won it four times—three of them in a row. He also twice was the year's leading money winner and has scored twice in the big one, the Kentucky Derby.

Hartack's reaction to the silent treatment is terse and to the point.

"I'm not feuding with me."

Then, usually monosyllabic and deadpanned, he shows a bit of that aggravating fire by adding: "They just don't know the facts. Some irresponsible journalists wrote things that made me mad. Then, when I met them, I didn't care to talk to them."

There is a saying that you should be nice to people on your way up because you'll pass them on your way down. And the friendless people, those who are branded surly, hotheaded or egotistical, find it a lonely place when the headlines are behind them.

The "silent treatment" can be even worse when you're still active.

Hartack Still Great Jockey Despite Losses

By OSCAR FRALEY
HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI)—Willie Hartack, the jockey who was built up in some quarters as horse racing's temperamental Ted Williams, was on a television program the other night.

When it was over, the moderator conversed privately with him and then observed, with some surprise:

"I'm rather amazed that you are so pleasant."

Hartack smiled back at him and commented wryly:

"I wish that could get in the newspapers so people would see I really am human."

Well, there, it's in the newspapers.

But there are those, particularly among the riding writing fraternity, who accept Hartack's comment with a so-what attitude. What it amounts to is that a number of them have simply written him off. If he rides a winner, they record the feat as a part of the job at hand. If he doesn't, he is ignored.

There was a day when they pursued him.

"He got to believe everything nice that was written about him," commented one veteran of the press box at Hialeah race course. "When he first came up, he was pleasant and easy to talk with. Then it went to his head, he turned surly and I just don't bother to talk to him at all any more."

The "silent treatment" has been on for sometime now. And using it has been made more easy for

McGuire Conservative Coach Of Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (NEA)—Life of bowing to the edict, and if he joins the coaches - must - holler clique, blame it on the kids who play. He's doing it for them.

"I was coaching baseball at St. John's," he recalls, "when one of my boys slid into second base and was called out. The kids in the dugout got on me to run out and argue with the umpire, so I did."

"How can you call that guy out?" I asked.

"The umpire looked at me and said, 'He's safe.' I was hooked. The guys want me to get on the refs. They feel I'm fighting for them."

"I don't know how long he can hold himself in," Pat McGuire shakes her head.

"These are really good kids to be with," nods Frank. "They give you no trouble."

They've rallied to Frank's ministrations. In the vest-pocket type of operation prevalent in the NBA, McGuire is coach, general manager, road secretary, trainer and wet nurse rolled into one.

Tom Gola, one of the veteran players, says sympathetically and admiringly, "He's conducting a one-man crusade to better conditions."

At North Carolina, he muses, "we had steak four hours before a game. Here the kids' eating habits are all scrambled. I've seen a guy get a hot dog for a meal right inside the arena, then go out and play a helluva game."

There's the difference in the type of basketball.

"You can't coach once the season starts," he shakes his head. "It hurts the rookies most. I played the veterans during the exhibition schedule because I wanted to get the team off to a fast start."

"Now we can't even install the simple things. Like getting Wilt (Chamberlain) to come around for a pass from Yorky (Lares). We had one practice in the middle of December, in a gym in Cincinnati, and we didn't get another day off until the All-Star break."

McGuire's family still lives in Chapel Hill, where he managed to spend Christmas Day, and Pat McGuire joined her husband on a January trip.

Otherwise it's a lonely life for the smiling Irishman from Greenwich Village in New York, although he's leading it as comfortably as possible.

In the NBA, there's a rule that says a coach eventually has to get on his feet and harangue referees. McGuire shows symptoms

Upsets Mark Finals In Regional Boxing Meet

Glen Ward of Pampa, who wasn't scheduled on the Saturday night boxing card, came through with two victories to advance to the state championships in the Golden Gloves at the Amarillo Sports Arena.

Ward, who was the lone representative from Pampa to gain a state berth, carded a first round technical knockout over Gilbert Gonzales of Plainview in the final bout of the evening in the 175-pound division. Ward advanced to the finals with a decision over Jerry Reid, Levelland, in the second bout of the evening.

Pampa's Optimist club boxers, which were highly touted to cop several titles at the outset of the regional tourney, suffered some of the biggest upsets in the final night of fighting.

Probably the biggest upset of the night was the 160-pound division where Manny Perez, ABC, won a surprise decision over Gary Wilhelm, Pampa, Wilhelm countered with a rugged combination of rights and lefts throughout the fight and had his Amarillo opponent staggering in the final round, but lost out on a very close decision.

In another very close decision, Gail Martin lost to David McCoy, ABC, in the 126-pound division. Martin countered with a good assortment of right and left jabs, but McCoy, using a vicious hook won the wild and woolly bout with a strong finish in the final two rounds.

Another exciting bout in the 175-pound division found Ralph Cabe, Dee's, winning a knockdown drag out bout over Gary Epperson, Pampa.

Epperson put up a terrific fight through the first two rounds and then seemed to have the third round under control when Cabe decked the Pampa boxer right before the bell.

The fastest fight on the card involved Ronnie Morgan, who knocked out Ken Major, Perryton, in 21 seconds of the first round. Morgan also was the recipient of the Hamilton trophy.

Mayer Fires Wealthy Hole

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Handsome Dick Mayer, a man who has had his ups and downs in the world of golf, hit the jackpot again Saturday, when he scored a hole-in-one in the big Palm Springs golf classic and collected $50,000 for the feat.

It was the third consecutive year in which a hole-in-one has been made in this tournament—giving the touring golfers $150,000 for this feat in three steps here.

Mayer, who just joined the winter tour, has been playing some of his best golf in years and is in contention for the individual pro championship here with a 207 after three rounds. He has posted scores of 71-68-68.

He made his dramatic shot on 174-yard second hole of the tough Tamarisk course—in this case the 11th hole for Mayer because he had played the back nine first, taking a 35-one under par. He used a four-iron and the ball hit in front of the pin and dropped into the cup on the first hop.

Last year Don January collected $50,000 for a hole-in-one and the year before it was Joe Campbell for the same amount.

Dietzel Dips Into Ohio For Gridmen

NEW YORK (NEA)—A college football coach isn't hired for his personality, even though he may be a charm boy like Paul Dietzel.

And when you hear of a high school character builder moving up to the college ranks as an assistant, you can bet your last blue chip that he is capable of doing one of two things or both of them. He is either fetching a tremendous athlete or two or he that he is a whale of a recruiter in a big and fertile area.

Many men know the mechanics of football and have shown that they can teach, but no one can coach successfully without the horses. Thus selling an institution to a mammoth and mobile lineman, a back as swift as a cheetah or a slick passer or pass receiver becomes the number one requisite.

After hastening to get his own bird dogs on the trail, Paul Dietzel's first official act as new head man at the United States Military Academy was to sign Bill Doolittle of Mansfield, Ohio, High as his backfield coach.

Dietzel and Doolittle — sounds like a vaudeville act — played together at Mansfield, where they were undefeated in their senior year. Doolittle developed Ralph Guglielmi of Notre Dame and the National Football League, but it also is highly significant that he comes out of the great football milieu of Ohio, which led the nation the past fall by putting six super schoolboys on the Scholastic Coach All-America High School Squad, made up of 84 players from 37 states and the District of Columbia.

Schoolboy stars sent their coaches to college. This has been going on for a long time, but it wasn't always the case. Ohio school coaches banded together, for instance, to force Ohio State University to name Paul Brown of Massillon's Washington High as head coach. Tom Harp came from this same high school to Army, by the way, preparatory to becoming Cornell's chief of staff last autumn.

More high school coaches are moving up and I wonder if the drill — master of Hoover High of North Canton, Ohio, would be interested.

He has considerable to offer in Dick Snyder, a 6-4, 195-pound quarterback with absorbing credentials. All young Snyder did was carry 157 times for 1,420 yards and complete 68 of 134 passes for 954 yards and a half-dozen touchdowns. His total offense mark of 2,374 yards, was truly amazing. He scored 14 points on 13 TD's and 28 conversions, averaged 37 yards on punts, 50 yards on kick-offs and was in on 40 per cent of the tackles on defense.

You don't have to be told that Paul Dietzel had boys like Dick Snyder of North Canton, Ohio, in mind when he named Bill Doolittle of Mansfield, Ohio, as West Point's backfield coach.

Cook Will Receive Texas Minor Loop Player Award

DALLAS (UPI)—Jim Burrus of Denver, president of the American Association, will present Cliff Cook his plaque as Texas Minor League Player of the Year at the annual mid-winter baseball dinner here next Thursday night.

Burrus' acceptance of an invitation to make the presentation was announced Saturday by the Old Timers Professional Baseball Association of North Texas, which sponsors the dinner and makes the awards.

Cook, a Dallas product, was the association's most valuable player, its all-star third baseman and home run and runs batted in leader while at Indianapolis last season.

Also to be honored will be

Norman Cash, Detroit Tiger star who led the American League in hitting last season.

Benefit Cage Tilt Slated For Monday

SKELLYTON (Sp) — Basketball games to benefit the Tex-Roy families will be held Monday in the Spring Creek gymnasium. A father and son game will be played and the Skellytown ladies will pay the Springcreek ladies.

Admission is by donation at the door. A chili supper will be served at 5:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

State Bass Tourney Is April 12-15

WACO (UPI)—The 1962 State Bass Tournament will be held on new water.

Dates and tournament sites were announced Saturday by the sponsoring Waco Tribune-Herald, indicating a break for West Texas fishermen who prefer spring fishing.

Two San Angelo lakes, North Concho and Lake Nasworthy, will host this year's tournament and again it will be a four-day affair, beginning April 12 and ending April 15.

This will be the seventh annual state tourney. It began on Lake Whitney and was held there in 1956 and 1957 before moving to the Highland Lakes in 1958. It was held on Lake Belton in 1959, Whitney in 1960 and back to the Highland Lakes last year.

This will be the closest tourney yet for West Texas fishermen. Earl Golding, who directs the annual fisharee for the Waco newspapers, says he's expecting one of the finest fields yet.

Defending state champion is Bob Hill, an Austin school teacher.

Fishermen come in teams of two, with each team attempting to qualify during one, and only one, of the first three days.

Finals will be held on April 15.

Representative Says To Check On Dismissal Of Game Warden

United Press International

Former game warden Bill Bennett is an enigma in Texas outdoor news this week.

His constituents and his state legislator are fighting to keep him in their district. More often recently, one hears of a group's asking that a warden be transferred.

But the Game and Fish Commission is adamant in its decision to let Bennett go after 11 years' experience — and therein lies the opposition of state Rep. Terry Townsend of Brady.

Charging that a kangaroo court took Bennett's job, Townsend urged the House in a rare personal privilege speech in the past week to take note of the circumstances surrounding Bennett's loss of his job.

Townsend challenged the commission to review the firing.

The background is a complex one, and even Townsend admits there is more gray than black and white in the issues.

Eighteen Texas hunters died in shooting accidents reported in the past year, the Game and Fish Commission says.

The commission said it believed as many as six other hunters died from accidents not officially reported to the commission.

Commission conservators reported 66 hunting mishaps in the year. All but three involved guns — a hunter suffered a fatal heart attack, a lady fell from a hunting stand in a tree and was injured and a man fell and hurt his back.

The Game and Fish Commission urges Texas landowners to send their reports of issuance of doe permits in the 1961 hunting season.

H. D. Dodgen, executive secretary of the commission, said the landowner should send the report to the biologist in charge of the area.

Matson, Kreis Sparkle In Pampa Cage Victory

By DICK RABE
News Sports Editor

LUBBOCK — Pampa's Harvesters staged off a last ditch rally by Lubbock Friday night to post an exciting 57-56 District 3-AAAA cage victory over the Westerners.

The win for the Harvesters vaulted them out of the district cellar with a 3-7 record. Lubbock now stands 5-3 on the year in loop play.

Pampa jumped off to an early first quarter lead and then held on tenaciously the rest of the game to post the victory.

At the middle of the first quarter, the Harvesters held a commanding 3-1 lead; only to see it dwindle down to 14-13 at the end of the quarter.

In the second quarter, however, their margin increased to 33-23 at half-time.

With three minutes remaining in the third period, the Harvesters relinquished their lead for the first time in the game, but bounced back to take the lead once more and held a narrow 44-44 lead at the end of the third quarter.

In the final go round, the Harvesters built up a 57-51 lead only to see the Westerners whittle it down to 57-55 with 12 seconds remaining.

Doug Robinson stepped to the line for Lubbock and sank his first charity toss, but then missed the second one. The Harvesters grabbed the rebound and killed the remaining few seconds to give the locals their third win in loop play this year.

Randy Matson grabbed scoring honors for the Harvesters with 22 points while Wayne Kreis had 15. Matson hit for nine field goals and four free throws to garner his point total for the night.

Matson hit for 12 points in the final period to provide the wedge for the Harvesters and keep the 6-6 post-man in the running for the individual scoring title in the district. Matson went into the game fourth in scoring in loop play with a 16.8 point average.

In other district games, Borger polished off Amarillo, 61-54; Monterey roared past Palo Duro, 70-49 and Plainview upset Tascosa, 54-44.

The Harvesters entertain the high-riding Borger Bulldogs Tuesday in the Harvester field-house in their next cage outing.

War Within 20 Years? They Want The Answer

By JERRY SHEEHAN
NEW YORK (NEA)—"Do you think there is danger of nuclear war in the next 20 years?" An organization headquartered near Times Square asked that question. Nine out of 10 persons who replied said "yes."

Queen Elizabeth Reaches Tenth Year On Throne

By MARGARET SAVILLE
LONDON (UPI)—Elizabeth II will have been 10 years a queen on Feb. 6 and it's been a good decade for her both as sovereign and woman.

Although she was only a little more than two months away from her 26th birthday, Elizabeth came to the throne as a shy, rather sure, firm-minded, poised queen, highly respected at home and abroad the world.

The Feb. 6 anniversary is a sad one for Elizabeth and the entire royal family: a day of mourning for King George VI, whose death in 1952 was a severe personal loss. Although more publicity has been given to the adoration in which Princess Margaret held her father, it was Elizabeth, in fact, who was more "his" daughter. She, more than Margaret, was like the father. And he personally trained her to rule.

In the past decade, following in the footsteps of her father, Elizabeth has steadily increased the influence and regality of Britain's monarchy and entrenched it firmly. At the time of King Edward VIII's abdication 25 years ago, there were many who believed it spelled the beginning of the end for royal rule in Britain. But King George VI dedicated himself to restoring the throne to full dignity. Elizabeth has carried on this task in every sense of the word.

If there has been any criticism of the second Elizabeth, it has been from those who believe she has been too much a queen, one who holds herself too far above the people in this democratic age. Popular temperaments appear to be the opposite. Elizabeth, if she is not loved by her people, has their reverence and admiration. The British man-in-the-street wants his kings to be kings and his queen to be a queen.

In all her dignity, Elizabeth still has been very much a woman. She is a devoted mother and wife. She holds the family strongly together. She is liked, in this animal and sport-loving country, for her passion for horse racing and riding. She is liked for the way she indulges her husband, Prince Philip, in his hobbies—his hunting, and sailing and "fooling about" with cars and airplanes.

One thing that is not generally understood about the queen is that she makes many of the decisions that popular notion attributes to Philip. It was she, for example, not her husband, who decided to break with tradition and send Charles away to a public school. Philip agreed enthusiastically, but it was the queen's doing.

Queen Elizabeth is regarded as very knowledgeable about public opinion. She reads several newspapers daily and talks to as many people as she can at private luncheons and teas about the trend of things.

Elizabeth's every royal thought is directed to fulfilling her duty as queen. She has strong feelings about the royal heritage and tradition.

In a world of collapsing colonial empires, of Sputniks and socialism, of disappearing social orders, it still can be said of Elizabeth II that she is "every inch a queen."

ed 'Ten Minutes for Peace,' distributed by the Institute for International Order.

Director of the Institute is George Beebe, a scholarly looking man whose size (5 feet, 6) makes him look younger than his 42 years.

Beebe explained the reason for that grim question:

"We just try to get people thinking how peace can come about. 'Ten Minutes' is simply a self - quiz, and we didn't ask anyone to send in their answers, but more than 1,500 did anyway—and they're still coming in. Out of 432 tabulated, exactly 379 people thought there was danger of nuclear war. Forty said no."

Some other questions included in the quiz, and responses:

Do you think there will always be wars?
Yes—179 No—221

Do you think the U.S. needs a big arms program to protect jobs?
Yes—43 No—333

Do you think an international police force is advisable?
Yes—382 No—32

Can you name any governmental agency responsible for promoting peace?

Yes—234 No—121

Before assuming the directorship of the Institute for International Order, Beebe worked for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Prior to that, he was with the U.S. State Department, working with UNES- CO. He is a former dean of Jamestown Community College, Jamestown, N.Y.

He described the purpose of the Institute as one of supporting other peace groups. "We're just trying to contribute to an understanding of what the problem of war and peace is all about," he said. "Peace is really a new, massive concern of humanity—now that humanity can commit mass suicide."

The Institute is, in fact, a peace-group's peace group, not an "action" group itself. Its members do not picket the White House nor distribute handbills at subway entrances.

It is a tax - exempt foundation which bankrolls other peace organizations. Its income last year was more than half a million dollars. Of that sum, $351,000 was channeled directly into its own peace projects (speaker services, book publishing and university discussion groups) and to other peace groups around the country.

Much of the money to run the Institute comes from private individuals, said Beebe: such as industrialist Earl D. Osborn; Henry B. Cabot, Massachusetts attorney; textile man J. A. Migel, and Edward Barrett, dean of Columbia Univ. School of Journalism. These men are among those listed as directors of the organization.

Among the many groups drawing support from the Institute are:

Committee for Sane Nuclear Policy, membership 25,000. Its specialty, mass rallies, peace picketing and long mass walks to promote disarmament.

United World Federalists, a tightly organized and influential group pressing for policed international law binding on all nations. Membership, about 15,000.

The American Association for the U.N., which aims to build public support for the world body.

At present, there are about 350 peace groups operating in this country. Their continued vitality, according to Beebe, comes largely as a result of the sober answer to that unsettling question: "Do you think there is danger of nuclear war in the next 20 years?"

King Planning Recruiting Tour Through South

ATLANTA (UPI)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Thursday announced a "recruiting tour" that will carry him into every state south of the Mason-Dixon line.

"This," said Dr. King, "is a full-scale assault on segregation. I am going into the communities to talk to people, on a person-to-person basis and get them out to register and vote."

The series of trips will begin with a 70-mile trip through Mississippi for the purpose of "enlisting volunteers for the 'freedom corps.'" SCLC headquarters in Atlanta said Thursday that they could not say exactly when the series would begin, but that it would include five major stops and thirteen personal appearances to kick-off the drive.

Peg O' Pampa

WELL, ALL WE CAN say is... if Cape Canaveral had been located in Pampa this week... we could have launched Astronaut John B. Glenn into space on almost any day of the week... our weather has been that perfect! Christmas gifts of basketballs, bikes and skates, received a nice work-out as the 60 and 70-degree temperatures held throughout the week... clear, blue skies, marked now and then by jet streams, windless days beckoned to everyone to "come on outside!" all around our neighborhood, until late evenings, youngsters were out skating... shooting baskets... and practicing the "hey look, mo, no hands" routines on their new bikes... which reminds, heard that two of our locally prominent clubwomen, who shall remain nameless, except for the initials V. S. and M. H., donned slacks and headscarves for a spin around their neighborhoods on bikes one balmy afternoon this week... a feat which we envy to the tip of our toes!

BEAUTIFUL WEATHER and Waring, too!!! who could ask for more? any tinge of blue attached to a usual Monday was missing last Monday as a beautiful spring-like day led into a spring-like evening with Fred Waring... we think some of the applause, which lifted the rafters of Pampa Junior High on Monday night, should be given to the officers and chairmen of the Pampa Community Concert Association... through whose cultural efforts such artists are brought to Pampa... we know, they, in turn, applaud Pampa citizenry for supporting their concert series through memberships... all of which means many pleasant future evenings... we are sure that everyone who bought memberships last Spring in the annual membership drive was at the Waring Concert "Let Freedom Sing" on Monday night... saw nearly everybody that we know... the Calvin Jones with daughter, Jo Ann, who was home between semesters from Texas Christian University... Bob and Claudine Vail with Judi and Robin... the Jack Skelley family... Warren and Frances Fatheree... Bob and Virginia Carmichael... Gene Sidwell with his Polly Doris Price... Mary Johnson in a pretty red chiffon petal hat... and Theresa McKinney, escorted by Ralph, wearing a beautiful, bouffant orchid chiffon petal hat... Katy Key... Wilma Gordon... Carole Swanson with her mother, who is visiting here from Houston... Neely Joe Ellis with Betty, who looked regally beautiful, as usual... Margaret Holt with Aubrey and Charlie Robison... Joe and Thelma McWilliams... Jodi Hudson with the little Hudsons... Madelle Lanehart and Mary Boston... Lorene Johnson... Coy and Faye Palmer... just to name a few from the packed auditorium... and we noticed many a couple, who had known Fred Waring well down through the years via recordings and radio... strolled back to their cars in the late spring-like evening... hand in hand, even though, they were preceded or followed by their teenage daughters and sons!... and it was a "tres gay" crowd, too, which met in the Coronado Inn for "after theater" talk and an off stage glimpse of Fred Waring as he came in with a group of Community Concert officers.

THIS WEEK was made even more complete... when the City Fathers, following a petition request by the Pampa Garden Club, the Top o' Texas Garden Club, the Pampa Rose Society and the Mr. and Mrs. Garden Club, named Pampas Grass as the official city flower... we were so happy to hear the news that we felt like doing a little jig around our clump of Pampas Grass... as you may or may not remember, we expounded long and often in our columns last autumn about the beauty and adaptability of this well-named plant... and so did, R. L. Studebaker, our horticulturist friend, who is now in far-off Pennsylvania going through the first steps to becoming a Peace Corpsman... we understand he also did the "leg work" on the petition submitted by the clubs to the City Commission... so now, the Pampas Grass, lying asleep in its winter bed, will awaken next Spring to a new stature of importance... it will find that its full beauty has now come into recognition as the Official Flower of Pampa.

AS THE CITY'S unofficial building Inspector No. 13½... we got around town this week to check on the progress of the building activity... and found workmen busy laying bricks around the impressive-looking new Citizens' Bank and Trust Company that now almost overshadows its former home diagonally across the street as it rises in the sky... and it looked perilous indeed to see workmen walking along the ledges of the three-level new Hughes Building Annex... and out atop the Coronado Inn, workmen had to brace themselves against the wind as they worked on the enlarged addition to the Pampa Club... following our building tour we can report that everything is coming along fine!

A PRETTY GIRL And a pretty horse... Linda Andis, daughter of Bob and Vera Andis represented the Top o' Texas Rodeo Association as its sweetheart at the Fort Worth Livestock and Exposition Show this weekend... she rode in the Grand Entry and also was introduced during the presentation of colors in the arena last night... her quarter-horse, "Petchum", who took honors in the Horse Show last year in Fort Worth, also shared the spotlight with her... we know it must have been a breathtaking scene to see Linda riding into the arena in a bright spot light dressed in a white slipper satin cowgirl suit embroidered with red roses... with white, handtooled boots and a white, wide brimmed hat encircled with a band of rhinestones... this is Linda's second year in the Grand Entry and her sister, Bobbie Lee, enjoyed the same honor for several years... "Petchum", too, had to undergo several days of beauty treatment before his appearance... after having been out in pasture for most of the winter, he had to be put "under the blanket" to bring sheen and shine to his coat... sort of a steam-cabinet treatment... we know another young lady who had a gala weekend... Jan Cook, daughter of Hildred and Harry Cook, attended the Wentworth Military Academy's annual Military Ball last night in Lexington, Mo.

JUST TID-BITS... nice to see Jay Flanagan back in town after having been away for a couple of weeks serving on federal jury service in Amarillo... Dana Jones went to a lullaby shower in her neighborhood on Wednesday morning... only to find after she arrived that she was the guest of honor... saw Albertine Tripplehorn this week with one of those delightful new "Dancing Hairdos" we love them but they are sort of tricky... one side is in a soft, close-to-the-head wave... which can be called "your sleeping side" for the other side swirls up into a dancing curl... that absolutely must not be slept on at all.

A SEQUEL... after re-reading our column last Sunday over our coffee cup... about London, Japan, Bermuda and all of those far-away places... our family piled into the car and went for a jaunt through Skellytown... Berger... Conway... Panhandle... back through White Deer and Kingsmill... It was a lovely Sunday afternoon for a drive... after a winter of Sundays spent indoors... noticed how green the Yucca plants are turning... which means that Spring will be here soon enough... see you around, Love, Peg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Haiduk of White Deer observed their Golden Wedding Anniversary on Jan. 31 by attending Solemn High Mass which was sung by the Sacred Heart Choir, with the Rev. Jerome A. Hancock as celebrant of the Mass in the White Deer Sacred Heart Church.

Immediately following mass, the couple was honored with an Open House in their home, northeast of White Deer, by their friends and relatives.

Kuehler, Joyce, Steve and Douglas of Panhandle; Adrian Haiduk, Carla, Mike and Vicki of Amarillo; Bert Haiduk, Eric, Karen, Kristy, Connie and Katrina of White Deer.

honorees, was guest registrar.

Refreshments were served from a table appointed with an ecru cloth centered with an arrangement of gold mums flanked by white tapers in a gold candelabra. Mrs. Adrian Haiduk, daughter-in-law, presided at the silver-coffee service. Cake, decorated with roses and the golden numerals "50," was served by their daughter, Mrs. Pete F. Kuehler.

Other members of the house-party were Mrs. Emmett Turner, Miss Virgie Denton, both of Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. Willie Urbanczyk, Miss Barbara Causas, all of White Deer.

Approximately 90 guests attended.

Mrs. Haiduk, the former Miss Tekla Mika, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mika of Panna Maria, became the bride of Ben Haiduk, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Haiduk of White Deer, with wedding vows solemnized on Jan. 31, 1912 before the Rev. Sanley Prizboroski in the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Panna Maria.

They were among the first Polish families to settle in this area. Their home is located four and one-half miles northeast of White Deer, where they settled and have been engaged in farming since their marriage.

When Mr. and Mrs. Haiduk first came to this area, the soil was covered with native grass and had to be put under cultivation. White Deer consisted of a General Store and Post Office, both housed the same building, a hotel and a railway depot, which was housed in a box-car.

Mr. Haiduk helped build the first Catholic Church in White Deer, which is presently being replaced with a new church.

Unable to be present were Messrs. and Mrs. Ernie Chaffee, Ricky of Sterling, Colo.; H. C. Hawkins Jr. and Tex of Tallahassee, Fla.

The entertaining rooms were appointed with arrangements of golden mums. Mrs. Haiduk was presented with a corsage of gold mums; Mr. Haiduk wore a gold mum boutonniere.

Senior Center Corner

Senior Citizens Center
By MRS. O. A. WAGNER

Oh, what a lovely day! And a lovely crowd at Senior Center on Thursday for the birthday party honoring those having birthdays in February. There were 110 senior guests present besides the Altrusa gals and Gray ladies. Fifteen senior Citizens had birthdays this month and each were presented with a gift from the Altrusa, who are always the hostesses on the first Thursday in each month. They served Black Raspberry jello with peach slices, dainty pink and white birthday cake, decorated with large pink roses and coffee, which was enjoyed by all after an afternoon of games or just visiting. Mrs. Emily Coston decorated and provided the birthday cake, which was served from a table appointed with a lovely centerpiece of Springtime flowers fashioned by Mrs. Roy Kay.

Mrs. Francis Reeves was present, after a long absence, and was one of the birthday celebrants. We were glad to have her with us.

Mrs. Emily Smith and Mrs. Fannie Meridith of Lefors were also present and enjoyed the fellowship.

Mrs. Mary Johnston of Lefors was also a birthday honoree and she favored us with music on her French Harp. Mrs. Myrtle Enloe was seen at the other end of the room doing the Twist to the music. Sorry, I missed it, Myrtle!

Mrs. Morgan from Mangum, Okla., sister of Mrs. Grace Hamilton, was present and we were glad to have her with us. Hope she comes often.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Norris attended a birthday party this week for their granddaughter, Terry Richardson, 1616 Williston, who was one whole year old!

Mrs. Myrtle Enloe spent Tuesday in Perryton visiting with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davies.

Mrs. Millie Merchant is ill in Highland General Hospital. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Ira Frazer of California is visiting with his son and family, the H. S. Frasers. He makes it back here every three or four months and always comes to the Center to visit his friends here. The well-come mat is always out for Mr. Frazer.

Mrs. F. E. Barnes and Mrs. W. J. Cornelson are among those who do not come to the Center often. But they were there Thursday and the lovely weather may have had something to do with it. Come often!

Mrs. Willie Roane, Jerrie Torvie's mother-in-law, was present Thursday, but they played games at different tables! How about it, Jerry?

Mrs. Don Hickman, 2225 Duncan, is having Open House this afternoon from two until five o'clock for her grandmother, Mrs. C. T. Nicholson, who will be 92 years young! All friends are invited, but they are asked to bring no gifts.

As I come to the end of my notes, I am reminded that this is Ground Hog's day, Feb. 2, and it is a bright, sunny day. The old ground hog can't help but see his shadow today, unless he is blind, which means more bad weather ahead. Not sure there is anything to that old superstition, but it is fun to think about anyway.

May we all pray for peace. Let us love one another as He has loved us. Mrs. Wagner.

Dear Abby....

All Letters Should Be Confidential!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend is hurt when, after sharing all your away in the service and he writes me very beautiful love letters. I've always let my mother read them, but the last one was rather "personal" so when my mother asked to read it I told her no.

She started to sulk and I'm sure she thinks it is much worse than it really is. She went into one of her non-speaking moods, which bothered me so much I offered to show her the letter, but she says she doesn't want to see it now. What can I do about this situation? I am 24.

Bennett Group With
Mrs. C. Robison

The Bennett Group of the First Christian Church met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Charles Robison. The devotion was presented by Mrs. Charles Beard.

A review of the past study course was given by Mrs. Bob Swanson, co-leader of the group. She also announced that the Bennett Group was the circle of the month in February and outlined the duties.

Mrs. Robison, program chairman, introduced the new study course on South America.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Stella Bastin.

The following members were present: Mmes. Ray Dudley, G. I. Harkrader, Homer Kessinger, and W. A. Patton.

Mrs. Lloyd Wells, who recently moved here from El Dorado, Kan., was welcomed as a new member into the group.

DEAR ABBY: I know a blonde who swears she uses nothing on her hair to keep it light. She washes it once a week, and I notice that just before she washes it the roots are somewhat darker than the rest. Also, in the summertime, her hair is about two shades lighter than it is in the winter. Who does she think she's kidding?

NOT ME
DEAR NOT ME: She may not be "kidding" anyone — or trying to. The natural oils DO tend to make the hair appear darker, hence the darkness at the roots toward shampoo time. And the sun has been known to bleach blondes blonder.

DEAR ABBY: My son is being married in two weeks and I bought a black dress especially for the wedding. Many of my friends have told me that I absolutely should not wear a black dress to my son's wedding as it would be a big insult to the bride. Why? I am a stout woman and do not feel that I look right in anything except black. I would like your advice.

LIKES BLACK
DEAR LIKES: Black is appropriate for mourning. Wear beige, gray or a pastel color.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CLEVELAND "FANCY" DEALER: As a rule, the one who distrusts the spouse is the one who is not to be trusted.

Mrs. Harold Stokes

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Naud, 1136 Juniper, announce the marriage of their daughter, Kathy to Harold Stokes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Stokes, 524 N. Rider. Wedding vows were solemnized last night in a double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Earl Pruett in the Immanuel Temple. The couple will make their home at 521 W. Montague, Apt. 9.

Parish Council To Meet Wednesday

St. Vincent dePaul's Parish Council will meet at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the school cafeteria for a general meeting, according to Mrs. O. Ray Hudson, president.

A covered-dish luncheon will precede the meeting followed by a program presented by Mrs. Bill Merrell, chairman of the libraries and literature committee. Mrs. Merrell will present a cross-section of publication by the Catholic Press in honor of National Catholic Press month, which is in February. A group of selected readers will discuss the various publications, highlighting the various articles and stories in each. A question and answer period will follow the discussion.

Final plans have been made to conduct a Bible Story Book hour for pre-school children, ages four through six years, by Mrs. Tom Snow, chairman of Christian Doctrine. Mothers interested in enrolling their children are urged to attend the luncheon meeting, so that Mrs. Snow may determine if additional teachers are necessary.

Mrs. Carl Williams, organizational and development chairman, urges newcomers to St. Vincent dePaul parish to attend the luncheon, which is planned as a special welcome to them.

Words Of Cheer

On Retiring Alone

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Bushels of books and articles have been written for the man whose job is gone just how much they even offer advice to his wife.

But there has been little help for the working woman who still has a few years to prepare for the time when she no longer has a job to fill her days. "How alone you are after you retire depends to a great extent on how much of yourself you have invested in friendship. You will never know until your job is gone just how much you really depend on your friends."

"But you can't expect your friends to keep you constantly entertained. To fill all of the time you once spent on earning your living you are going to need some interests and hobbies that you can pursue by yourself. You will be lucky if you find them before retirement. For then you will welcome the chance to have more time for the things you enjoy, instead of feeling that you must get interested in something but you don't quite know what.

"You are fortunate, too, if you have made the kind of home for yourself — be it house or apartment — that is homelike and comfortable, and if you really enjoy "keeping house."

"A woman who enjoys making a home — even if it is only a home for herself — can spend many happy hours on the more creative aspects of homemaking."

It is the opinion of at least one top New York hair stylist that today's hairdos are getting completely out of hand. "We seem to be reverting to the unhygienic era of Marie Antoinette," says stylist Victory Vio. "We had just reached the point where modern girls and women were accustomed to washing their hair several times a week or even daily when this trend developed. The worst feature of this current vogue is that some girls who follow it have grown downright unsanitary in their habits. Having put so much time, effort and money into maintaining a hairdo, they don't shampoo as often as they should. Dandruff and worse conditions are apt to result from lack of washing, especially in combination with lack of brushing and ventilation."

To set the hair in a high, full style now and then won't harm it, Vito points out. He feels the occasional hairdo should be worn just for a dance, party or other special occasion, but not every day. Set in large rollers, the hairdo will retain the desired contour for the gala event, collapsing into its normal state the next day. And this is as it should be. Teasing is not needed at all if this plan is followed.

Someone once said that after a woman is 50, she should wear pale pink and move to Paris. This is deliberate exaggeration, of course, but what it means is that the mature woman should be careful about the colors she wears and the background in which she lives. Both should be soft and gracious. Skin and hair tend to become softer in color, less vivid. Women who never before have worn pastels suddenly find themselves able to wear them becomingly.

But they should put aside white; it drains color from the face. And they should be careful about black for the very same reason. Whenever you see a really old woman without make-up, wearing black, remember that she looks so old partially because the black accentuates her palor and makes her appear waxy and tired. Pretty chiffon scarves in pale blue or pink or mauve or soft green are a great help in providing color where it's needed, next to the face. Hair should be carefully and attractively coiffed and scrupulously cared for. Map out your clothes scheme with care each season. All of this effort is worth it.

Too many people reach the age of discretion without having achieved it.

★ Polly's Quilt ★

By Polly Cramer

Here is a recipe for a budget bedroom worthy of today's homemaker or a bride-to-be. Ingredients:

—Two single sheets to curtain each window (in any spring flower color).

—Two striped single sheets to make the dust ruffle for the bed.

—One full size striped sheet to make the slip cover for a boudoir chair.

—One full-size sheet (like those at the windows) to quilt for a bedspread.

—Then add a dash of imagination. For example, apply the left-over strips of the striped sheets as bands on the curtains.

Plus: so little time that you'll never miss it.

Dear Polly: We were fortunate enough to get the essential pieces of furniture included with the house we recently bought. Now, I must make it come to life, make it ours. The living room has spice beige walls and natural woodwork. Sofa and chair in beige are to stay as they are. Lounge chair and barrel chairs have to be done over. Draperies are light beige. We would like to use persimmon but on what and how? Floors are hardwood so we are going to use cotton throw rugs.—Mrs. M. S.

Dear Mrs. M. S.: First, make sure that those throw rugs are large enough and firm enough so that they won't crumple up every time someone walks across the floor. Cover the chairs with the same gay floral chintz, possibly a light avocado green ground with lots of persimmon color, some brown and gold or cream in the pattern. Add two rows of fringe or braid, persimmon and green, down the inside edges of the beige curtains.

Dear Polly: I have a large kitchen with brown and yellow tile floor, knotty pine cupboards and woodwork with natural finish. What color for walls and curtains? I would like yellow but thought it would make the room look too big. Appliances are white. How could I decorate one wall without putting on wallpaper?—Mrs. R. A.

Dear Mrs. R. A.: Yellow walls would not make your kitchen seem too large; this color always looks cozy and warm. Curtains in a big brown-and-white check would be pretty. Make an interesting grouping on the wall with black iron trivets, framed herb charts or some of those beguiling dish towels (framed) that the shops are now showing.

STAY RELAXED

Don't worry about getting lines and wrinkles. The more relaxed your attitude is on the subject, the less likely you'll be to have any wrinkles to moan about, or stormy weather.

Bridge Club Meets With Mrs. Major

GROOM (Sp) — The Groom Bridge Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Ted Major. After an evening of bridge, refreshments were served to Mmes. Bill Bohr, Carey McAdams, Jerry Kotara, Jack Stephens, Max Ray Faulkner, Austin Crowell, Ted Major and a guest, Mrs. Don Hunt. High score was won by Linda McAdams and low score prize by Margie Stephens. Approximately thirty guests sent gifts, who were unable to attend.

Doing Baby's Laundry Becomes Social Event

Mother's helper is multipurpose soda bicarbonate, which joins special care baby products on dressing table.

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper-Enterprise Assn.
Ever a puzzle to the first-time mother is what she did with her time before the baby came. Every minute of every day and on into the night seems taken up with

Jaycee-Ettes Name Officer Committee

Mrs. Earl Barnett, Mrs. Jimmie Hayes and Mrs. R. F. MacDonald were named to the nominating committee for the Pampa Jaycee-Ettes at a meeting held recently in the City Club Room.

New officers will be elected at a meeting to be held in March. Included in the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. A. J. Carubbi, president, were plans for a bake sale to be held in the lobby of the Hughes Building on Feb. 16, with Mrs. Jim Christy as chairman of the project.

Approval was given to assist the Welfare Index in its used clothing warehouse by sorting clothes.

A report on the Christmas basket was given with approval to continue to help a needy family on special occasions throughout the year.

Report was also made of the recent Jaycee Tri-Regional convention held in the Coronado Inn. Jaycee-Ettes served as hostesses to approximately 50 visiting wives of Jaycee members during the convention.

The resignation of Mrs. Dale Bryant as treasurer was accepted with regret. Mrs. Bryant and her husband are being transferred to Tulsa. Mrs. Richard Cook was elected to fill the unexpired term of treasurer.

Hostesses during the social hour were Meses, Charlie Wilkerson and Frank Vitrono.

Swapping stories with young first-time mothers, I learned that some problems have changed since my first baby was born, although most sound familiar. The shock at the size and the amount of baby laundry is still expressed.

I remember the folding wooden rack set up in the bathtub of our small apartment, festooned with an endless assortment of tiny shirts, pants, blankets, bibs. To keep up with the laundry I washed every day, using a tiny portable washer and a hand-scrub board.

Because many young couples don't want to invest yet in home laundry equipment, one boon they enjoy is the coin-operated self-service laundry. There, by using several machines simultaneously, a young mother can polish off a wash in an hour that would have taken me days.

The long hours these places are open make it possible to park the baby with dad after dinner and join her friends for an early evening of washing. Really a social gathering.

A young mother asked me if I thought these public laundries were safe to use for her baby's wash. For a more authoritative answer I asked this of one of the country's leading home economists, who replied that she wouldn't hesitate a minute in using them for most baby things. She added that a clean wash in

Hush the Squeak

Many-purpose sticks of a soft, waxlike lubricating material are available at the hardware store. Rub on drawer runners, along inside of window sashes to stop squeaks.

any machine, public or private, depended on following sound rules of laundering (proper water temperature, correct amounts of detergent or soap, not overloading the machine, etc.)

The hot water temperature in a public coin-operated laundry is apt to be higher than at home, and the water is softened. Many of the commercial dryers operate at a high heat which has a sanitizing effect.

This might be a disadvantage with some of baby's cotton knits, which could shrink. If you can't reduce dryer temperature, let knits dry partially by machine and finish drying at home.

Because most of these coin-operated machines can't be regulated as precisely as automatic home laundry equipment, some types of baby gear such as plastic and rubber pants or pads, fragile woollens or delicate garments are not suited to this type of laundering, in my opinion.

The bulk of baby's laundry can be handled at the coin-ops.

A companion factor, however, is that the once or twice-a-week trip to the public laundry entails keeping a greater supply of clothing on hand, and coping with an increasing pile of soiled laundry.

Diapers are most likely to become an offender in the nursery. After use, they must be rinsed and put in an odor-controlling diaper pail.

You can find commercial products for this purpose, but a good home remedy for deodorizing as well as cleaning is the use of a bicarbonate of soda solution.

For a diaper soak, three tablespoons of soda per gallon of water is recommended.

Rubber or plastic pants will also benefit from the soaking in a soda solution.

The Mature Parent

Young Can Respond To Great Literature

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence

Once, young and broke, I made some money by writing sappy love stories for a pulp magazine.

Years later, I offered to read one to a group of girls a court had defined as "delinquent." They were delighted. But my purpose was not limited to interesting them in the sappy problems of my heroine. So, that first day of reading, I stopped my story at the point where she realized her attachment to the hero and instead read to them from the love poetry of William Shakespeare.

As I finished, a girl, pregnant, of poor education said, "I once read something nice about love. It began 'How do I love thee? Let me count the ways.' In her sweet deep contralto she went on to repeat to us, word for word, Elizabeth Barrett Browning's love tribute to her poet husband.

Please take this in, you educational powers who discredit American children's capacity to respond to the grace and majesty of English literature.

In the first grade—and before it—they know, if they are given it the difference between prose that deals with Mrs. Black's "happy pigs" and the kind that gives them Huck Finn, Mr. Toad and Thumbelina.

You don't believe me? O.K. "Then all in one welded commotion came an invisible push from astern while forward the boat seemed striking on a ledge; the sail collapsed and exploded; a gush of scalding vapor shot up near by; something rolled and tumbled like an earthquake beneath us. The whole crew were half-suffocated as they were tossed helter-skelter into the white curdling cream."

That is a passage from Herman Melville's Moby Dick, not unwidely considered the finest book ever may want more of it. If so, he may not read it all as it is a deep book dealing with Man's tragic pride in power; but because it is the work of a master of language, its characters, events and suspense will reach your child more sharply than he is reached by his comic magazines, touching him as differently as he is touched by sunsets and neon lights.

'Good Old Tito'

In our spasms of anti-Soviet sentiment, we have been inclined to think of Communist Boss Tito of Yugoslavia as a nice guy—at least nicer than Khrushchev. Read, then, how this nice guy in Yugoslavia treats people who want to escape from his Paradise. This is taken from the hearings of a Senate committee on refugee problems:

AN INTERVIEW WITH ONE WHO MADE THE SECOND ESCAPE.

The Yugoslav escapees to Austria are subject to political and "economic" screening. The so-called economic escapees are immediately returned to a concentration camp in Yugoslavia in the town of Brestanica (Reichenberg), just across the border in Slovenia.

This is the standard procedure. Even before the prisoner's train reaches the railroad station, the whole area is surrounded by soldiers. The prisoners are handcuffed, or tied up with wire and transported in trucks to the camp. The UDBA agents meet them with vulgar words and then turn them over to the sentries whose job is to "liberate the prisoners from fear" by torture and starvation for 3 days.

There are three categories of prisoners: those forced to return or caught while trying to escape across the border; those with criminal records, who, after receiving their sentences in a foreign country, have asked for Yugoslav protection. Finally, a small group of old men who wish to return home and instead, die there.

The first group gets the toughest treatment. The commission of their record is demanded from their

Root Of Evil

The evil actions which men are capable of performing spring from an evil desire within themselves, which can always be traced to the concept of coveting. To covet, is to yearn unduly for something that belongs to another, his life, his reputation, his property, and to perform evil is to act out such covetousness.

Taxes Control Inflation?

Once upon a time it was thought that taxation was a device by means of which governments collected the funds deemed necessary to pay the salaries of the law makers. Even this concept left plenty of loop holes for the wily politician.

After all, what is a "necessary" expense of government? And when you get right down to it, which laws, among the welter of legislation on the books in this nation, are actually mandatory? Most people feel with a great deal of justification, not to mention provocation, that we have a great deal too much law and a great deal too much taxation.

But, in current times, thanks to the emphasis created by our social planners, taxation is now more than a mere income device for government.

Ever since the passage of the income tax amendment, back in 1913, the government has taken the added philosophy that it may employ the taxing device as a lever for the redistribution of income. Indeed, the graduated tax, which is an outgrowth of the 16th amendment, was introduced for this very purpose. The government decides who is to have how much of what...not on the basis of earnings, but on the entirely imaginary basis of how much it is good for some people to have as opposed to how much other people ought to have.

But we can add to this dolorous interpretation of the dollar flow, a new concept recently introduced by the Kennedy administration. As of this moment, it is still too early to know whether the Kennedy boys will get away with it, but the concept has been introduced and we're all hanging on the ropes waiting for the decision.

The newest gambit in centralized money manipulation is to be a law which will permit the president to have broad powers

Hankering

By HENRY McLEMORE

Rapid Robert Feller and Jackie Robinson have been named to the Baseball Hall of Fame and only the hundreds of batsmen who were fanned by Feller, and the scores of infielders up-ended by Robinson's base-running could object to their being honored.

Feller could really chuck that ball — "fog it through there" to use Dizzy Dean's description — and Robinson was not only a great base-runner but a fine glove man, a rousing hitter, and a fierce competitor.

I remember Casey Stengel telling me years ago, when I was laid up in a Burbank hospital with broken ribs, and he used to come by each day to cheer me up, which is the worst thing to do for broken ribs — I remember him telling me what a tough man Robinson was at the plate.

"We soon learned first in exhibitions and then in the World Series," Casey said, "never to dust off Robinson. Never. Most players I ever saw would give ground when a pitcher showed them, but not Jackie. He had the guts of a bank robber."

"I remember once in the World Series I gave a little hint from the bench for Reynolds to trim Robinson. Not hurt him, you know, just part his hair, singe his whiskers, and maybe take a filling out of his tooth."

"Allie did it, just right, because he had a squirrel gun arm. Robinson hit the dirt and got up fighting mad. Then he stood on the plate. He was telling Reynolds to have another shot at him. Reynolds did, and Jackie nailed it on a line between center and right field. After that we let him alone. Make him mad and he was better than when he wasn't mad, and that was plenty good enough."

I have a little personal remembrance of Feller, too. It must have been in 1939 or thereabouts, and he had been turned down by the draft board for flat feet. I wrote a column wondering how he had ever managed to stand so many hours on the mound, run out so many grounders and flies, if his poor feet were in such frightful condition. I suggested that any man who had played baseball as long and as well as he had, should be able to stagger about an Army post.

Not long after that I met him, quite by accident in the sports department of the Des Moines Register Tribune, where I was paying a visit to sports editor Sec Taylor.

Rapid Robert acted as if he wanted to break my neck, or wring it, anyway. Flat feet and all he chased me around and around a desk or two, saving things to me that a pitcher usually reserves for an umpire.

Thankfully, my feet weren't flat, and I managed to stay a bit ahead of him until he cooled off. He still doesn't care for me, though. Or that's my feeling, and I wouldn't feel happy with him in an office that didn't have a lot of desks around which to run.

I would like to add that Feller went into the Navy, rose to a fine rank, and proved to be a brave and capable fighter throughout World War II.

Both Robert and Jackie deserve to have their busts along with the other greats in Cooperstown.

They played the game to the hilt, and they played it beautifully.

are bad enough.

But in practice, this wouldn't quite hold true. For increased numbers of dollars are usually poured into the trade streams by creating debt. If this process is still to be employed, we would find a most interesting factor at work.

The government would create debt and would print money to "monetize" the debt. Then, so that no inflation would occur, these added dollars would be reclaimed thru taxation.

The debt would remain! Still additional taxation would have to be employed in order to meet the debt. But this would create such a dollar shortage that the government would have to create additional debt, in order to keep everything moving.

Now, if we really want to solve the constant problem created by annual spirals of inflation, we have another and entirely contrary course to pursue. This would be to tie President Kennedy's hands so that neither he nor his administration could manipulate either currency or credit. Then the government's control and management of money should be terminated, and that would give us the relief we have long sought.

Kremlin's 'Private' Position Paper on Cuba Influential in OAS

ROBERT ALLEN Discussion and Squabbling PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Soviet Premier Khrushchev played a hidden but very influential role in the secret deliberations at the Americas' foreign ministers conference on Cuba, even though Russia wasn't invited or officially represented at the meeting at Punta del Este, Uruguay.

The Russian Communist leader threw his vast power into the behind-the-scenes maneuvers by dispatching to Brazil's Foreign Minister Francisco San Thiago Dantas a "position paper" on Cuba that bristled with a strange combination of threats and concessions.

Delivered in a clandestine but sloppy manner by Ilya Chernychev, the Soviet's Ambassador to Brazil, the Kremlin's cleverly drafted policy declaration on its Cuban outpost contained these explosive overtures:

—Proposed that Brazil oppose sanctions against Castro in exchange for a Soviet offer to let Cuba develop as an "independent" Communist nation with no direct military ties with Russia or the other Communist Warsaw Pact nations.

—Warned that the Soviet Union would oppose with every method needed any U.S. or OAS naval blockade of Cuba on the ground it violated "freedom of the seas."

—Offered to end Communist aid and trade with Cuba if the U.S. renewed trade relations with Castro and furnished his Communist regime economic and technical aid similar to what the U.S. has given Tito.

—Provided Brazil with new Communist bloc aid and technical help.

According to one group of Latin American advisers in the State Department, Foreign Minister Dantas' strange and stubborn opposition to a U.S. proposal for an economic crackdown against Castro can be traced back to the arrival of this secret Soviet note.

The Brazilian diplomat, who is known for playing the East off against the West to obtain more economic aid from the U.S., circulated his "coexistence" plan for Cuba to OAS members within 48 hours after Khrushchev's "position paper" hit his desk.

There is also evidence that Khrushchev was trying to set a diplomatic trap for the U.S. and other key Latin American nations by transmitting the note so that its contents would fall into their hands.

"The obtaining of the Soviet note was so easy, it had to be planted," said one top State Department official. "The best guess is that the note was leaked so that Russia could make full use of inter-American squabbling on Cuba."

—TROJAN HORSE — If that was the Kremlin's master strategy, Soviet Ambassador Chernychev's handling of the note accomplished at least part of the Communist's sinister mission.

Foreign Minister Dantas swallowed the Soviet bait, hook, line and sinker.

The note split the U.S. delegation at the Western Hemisphere conference right down the middle, causing confusion at the conference at a crucial time. Secretary of State Rusk, prodded constantly by Ambassador de Lesseps Morrison, U.S. representative to the Organization of American States (OAS), used the note to fight harder for sanctions against Cuba.

Richard Goodwin, the Free-wheeling Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Latin American Affairs, seized on the Soviet note

The American Way

NO MORE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Robert Morris, President of the University of Dallas, was formerly chief counsel of the Senate's subcommittee on Internal Security.)

The State Department has issued an official bulletin entitled "Freedom From War." It outlines the steps for the liquidation of the United States of America as we know it. It makes this liquidation the official policy of our government today!

This bulletin says, "The United States has introduced at the Sixteenth General Assembly of the United Nations a Program for General and complete Disarmament in a Peaceful World." The program reads:

"During the third stage of the program, the states of the world, building on the experience and confidence gained in successfully implementing the measures of the first two stages, would take final steps toward the goal of a world in which:

"States (such as the United States) would retain only those forces, non-nuclear armaments, and establishments required for the purpose of maintaining internal order; they would also support and provide agreed manpower for a U.N. Peace Force.

"The U.N. Peace Force, equipped with agreed types and quantities of armaments, would be fully functioning.

"The manufacture of armaments would be prohibited except for those of agreed types and quantities to be used by the U.N. Peace Force and those required to maintain internal order. All other armaments would be destroyed or converted to peaceful purposes.

"The peace-keeping capabilities of the United Nations would be sufficiently strong and the obligations of all states under such arrangements sufficiently far-reaching as to assure peace and the just settlement of differences in a disarmed world."

This incontrovertibly means that the combination of forces which has been running the invasion of Katanga, killing innocent women and children, would be supreme and we here in the United States would be subject to them.

This is surrender of our Constitution, our Bill of Rights, our religious and spiritual heritage and of our freedom.

There is no denying that Soviet power in the United Nations is growing stronger every day. Perhaps it has not yet directly taken over but by its infiltration of non-Communist governments, its ruthless diplomacy and its own inflexibility added to its own strength, it is the dominant force driving the U.N. to do its bidding. And this trend is continuing. By the time the State Department enacts its "Program," the admission of Red China and further Soviet takeovers in Africa, Latin America and Asia will give them a clear preponderance.

Certainly the prevailing force in the U.N. is godless. It has no background in common law, in spiritual heritage, even in basic justice. Yet our State Department wants this force to be supreme over us and our way of life.

The UNESCO Program enacted in Paris last December fits into this grand design of surrender. That provides for a monolithic world-wide system of education that professes to tolerate independent education, but only if it conforms to the master plan and "promotes the U.N."

The State Department is pushing this "program" even though there is not the slightest disposition on Khrushchev's part to yield in his stated goal of world domination. Khrushchev has said:

"Even if all countries of the world adopted a decision which did not accord with the interests of the Soviet Union and threatened its security, the Soviet Union would not recognize such a decision, but would uphold its rights, relying on force..."

I often wonder if the desire to enact this program is one of the reasons behind the present concerted drive against "anti-Communists" and those who dissent from what our planners are doing in Washington.

This "Program" is so fantastic in its advocacy of surrender and dismantling the power of the United States that you will not believe me as I write these things. If so, write to the U.S. Government Printing Office, ask for Department of State Publication 7277 "Freedom From War." It costs 15 cents.

Silver Goes To Work, Forsakes Bank Vault

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Kennedy's proposed revision of silver policy is mere recognition that this precious metal has now become more important in industry than as a monetary reserve.

Silver will still be used for dimes, quarters and half-dollars. But the U.S. Treasury's present stock of 1.7 billion ounces is enough to last for 25 years.

Treasury officials estimate that it will take about that long to retire all the $1 and $2 silver certificate greenbacks now in circulation. By law, they are backed by silver bullion. In asking for repeal of this law, the President proposes that Federal Reserve Banks be authorized to issue $1 bills, in addition to the $5 and larger bills now issued.

All this will have no effect on gold policy.

But the government would no longer be required to buy newly mined silver at 9.3 cents an ounce to subsidize a sick silver mining industry. And the government would no longer have to sell surplus silver to keep industry going in periods of short supply or high demand.

The silver market would thus be freed from government floor and ceiling prices. Open market prices might fluctuate more than they have, and might even go a little higher.

The 91 and 92-cent-an-ounce price which prevailed while the government was a buyer rose to $1.04 after President Kennedy ordered the Treasury to get out of the market last November 28. But the new request for changes in silver legislation have not so far caused prices to go higher.

One factor is that the old bloc of western silver state Congressmen that constituted a powerful pressure group has had a change of interest from production to consumption.

California, for instance, which used to produce about 700,000 ounces of silver a year, now consumes five million ounces a year. Some of this goes into the thousands of miles of Hollywood film. Silver is also a good brazing alloy, able to withstand high temperatures. That makes it useful in West Coast aircraft and missile industries.

Silver is used increasingly for contact points in the electronics industry and in the higher charge, lighter-weight batteries that go into marine, aviation and spacecraft industries.

Thus there approaches an end to one of the more frenzied chapters of silver history. It began back in the great depression when the price dropped and a surplus piled up.

The government began to buy newly mined domestic silver in 1933 and foreign silver in 1934. In all, it bought three billion ounces, one billion of which went into coinage.

There was a period of wild silver speculation in the '30s. To curb it, the government imposed a tax of 50 per cent on silver sale profits, which knocked the futures market crazy. The President now asks repeal of this tax.

Since silver is usually mined with copper, lead and zinc, that has complicated the situation. Every time the copper or lead and zinc boys felt a little depressed, a cry went up that the United States ought to help those poor people, too.

Consumption of silver in the photographic, household electrical appliance, jewelry and tableware industries has risen along with durable goods use.

The United States has been consuming over 100-million ounces a year, of which 35 million is domestic production. Canada is the biggest foreign supplier, with Mexico biggest of the Latin American producers.

They have constituted a potent foreign lobby to help the poor foreign miners, but most of these companies are American-owned or controlled. The 12 top United States mining companies produce 77 per cent of the domestic output, so it isn't small business.

I.P.A. President Warns Against Oil 'Free Trade'

TULSA, Okla. (SpI)—A "free trade" policy on oil would have "far-reaching and calamitous" effects on the domestic petroleum industry and the position of energy supremacy so long held by the United States, the president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America has warned.
Harold Decker, Houston, who is also president of Highland Oil Co., said petroleum is the basic and most important energy source used by man and represents the biggest single commodity moving in world trade.
Despite the oil industry's international character, he said, an oil "one world" in the economic sense is impractical, undesirable and unattainable except by undermining the nation's present energy superiority.
"Economic integration of world oil resources could be achieved," Decker said, "only through arrangements bordering on cartelization of the world oil industry."
"Nobody wants cartel-type economic controls which fortunately are prohibited by U. S. law," said the IPAA president, adding that "absolute 'free trade' in oil could lead only in this unwanted and undesirable direction."
Decker said a system of sound import regulation "is a small price to pay for maintaining a dynamic and essential energy base," and said the alternative to such controls, "could be far more vicious and stifling controls."
The present mandatory oil import program, under study by the Kennedy administration, has shortcomings and weaknesses, Decker said, and IPAA has recommended basic changes to reduce and stabilize the level of foreign oil coming into the United States.
"The import program," he added, "deserves industry-wide support and effort to see that it effectively serves its national security objective."
Decker's statement appears in the January issue of the Independent Petroleum Monthly, IPAA magazine which contains a special section on the problem of oil imports and the debate in Congress over a new foreign trade policy.
IPAA has recommended changes in the oil import program which would result in a reduction of 200,000 to 250,000 barrels a day in imports other than residual fuel. Decker pointed out. Principal change would relate imports to demand for crude oil in the U. S.
"Such changes would have little effect on Free World foreign countries how supplying the expanding world market outside the U. S.," Decker said. "These countries have increased production by more than 4,000,000 barrels a day, or more than 50 per cent, since 1956, while crude production in the U. S. has remained virtually static in the same period."
Although excessive imports are only one of numerous problems facing the U. S. oil industry, Decker said, the high levels of imports were a principal contributor to the continued lag in essential domestic oil exploration, drilling and development in 1961.

Three Pampa oilmen have returned from a two - day "cram course" on advances in drilling and producing services held at the Duncan, Okla., headquarters of Halliburton Company.
"This trip is part of the petroleum industry's continuing program for keeping abreast of the latest technological developments," said Paul Skolaut, 1101 Willow Road, Halliburton district engineer here who made the trip, too.

Governor Signs Bill On Oil Well Servicing Fees

AUSTIN (SpI) — Governor Price Daniel's signature on a bill introduced by Rep. Grainger W. McIlhenny of Wheeler relieves the critical situation of the oil well servicing industry in Texas under which H. B. 1082 inadvertently placed its last session by requiring exorbitant state registration fees, according to officials of the Association of Oilwell-Servicing Contractors. Representative McIlhenny, who also introduced H. B. 1082, says the new law now corrects the misunderstanding in H. B. 1082 and places the industry where it stood previously. Pending court litigation should now be cleared.
Lamar DePree, executive secretary of AOSC, expressed the appreciation of the servicing industry to Governor Daniel for including the bill in this special session of the legislature, and for the support evidenced by House and Senate members in its passage.
The bill corrects a situation over which the AOSC expressed not only state but national concern, and were joined in their fight by other oil industry associations.

From 1915 to 1918 he was employed by Carter Oil Company, where he rose to supervisor of the Oil Run Section. During World War I he enlisted in the U. S. Army and saw service in France. He attended the University of Oklahoma and in 1922 received his LL.B. degree from the University of Southern California.

Pecos Wildcat Sets New Texas Depth Record

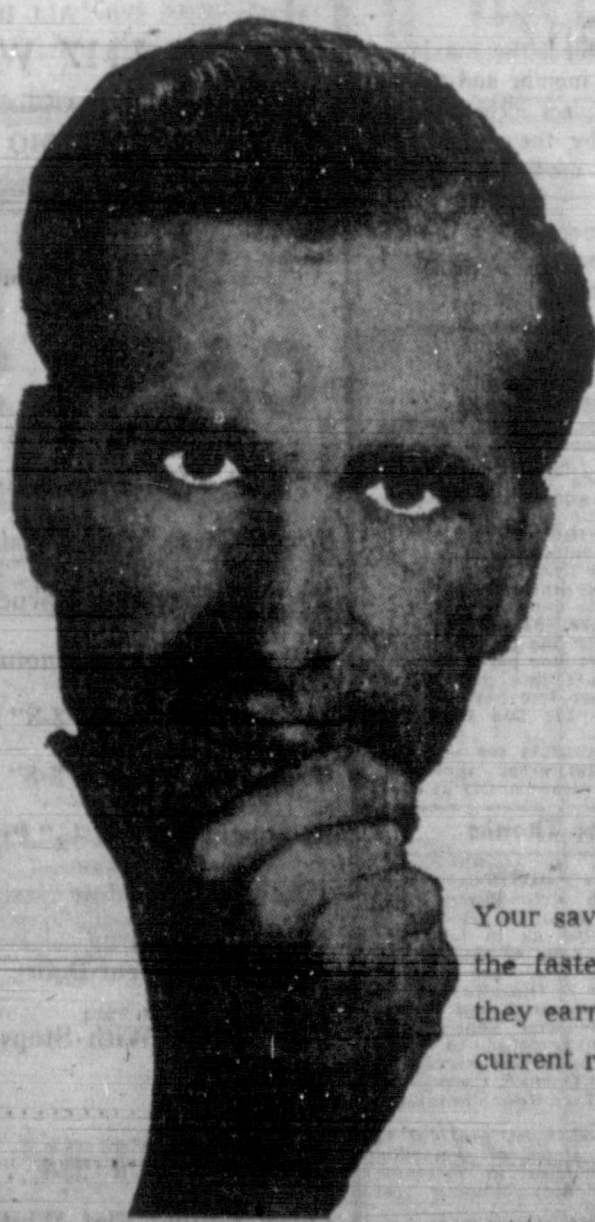

Gulf Oil Corp. recently completed the deepest producing well in Texas at its No. 2-R, Cleveland wildcat in Reeves County, 13 miles southeast of Pecos.
The wildcat was tested in the Ellenburger formation for a calculated open flow potential of 37 million cubic feet of gas per day through perforations bottomed at 17,200 ft.
Besides using the deepest producer in Texas, the well represents the first Ellenburger production in the Delaware Basin of far West Texas. The wildcat was drilled to a total depth of 17,720 ft., and casing is set at 17,716 ft.
Parker Drilling Co. of Tulsa was the drilling contractor.
The previous record was held by Atlantic Refining Co.'s No. 1 Kelly in Pecos County, which flowed gas from the Montoya Ordovician, at 15,831 - 16,680 feet.

Cuban Refugees Add To Florida's Welfare Woes

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida, whose Welfare Department doled out $81 million in 1960, looked to its space-boom future today for more money to foot the bill for a rocketing population.

In addition to the population explosion, Florida is faced with the problem of an increasing influx of Cuban refugees from Fidel Castro's regime.

Since February of last year, the Florida department — as the agent of the U.S. Welfare Department — has administered 100 per cent Federal funds to aid Cuban refugees in Dade County (Miami). Currently, a staff of 116 persons is working on this program to help more than 15,000 individuals with grants amounting to over $1 million a month.

Although the Federal government is picking up the tab, Florida's estimated Cuban refugee population of 65,000 may be felt greatly by the State Welfare Department in the near future.

The Census Bureau predicts Florida's population will jump from 4.9 million to 7.5 million by 1970. In the next few years it is estimated that $855 million will be spent in Florida on the Nova Moon project at Cape Canaveral. This is expected to create thousands of jobs, which means more money in the state's pocket from taxes — and it is hoped, more cash to help the needy.

Florida is one of the states which administers public assistance, child welfare services and commodity distribution. But it does not administer nor supervise the general assistance. This is the responsibility of the counties.

The persons who benefit from public assistance are the aged, blind, dependent children and permanently and totally disabled. With the exception of some parents of dependent children, and a few of the aged and blind, these are unemployable persons. Racially, this group is about 46 per cent white and 54 per cent negro. The negro population in Florida is about 17.9 per cent.

The Florida Welfare Department says it does not discriminate because of race in distributing funds.

Of the $81 million spent in 1960 on about 200,000 persons, approximately $75.5 million went to these persons in direct benefits, monthly checks for subsistence and medical care payments.

The remaining $5.5 million provided child welfare services, food commodities distribution, services to adults, cooperation with other agencies and organizations, 1,300 salaries, operating expenses, and capital outlays.

Old age assistance, with 69,700 beneficiaries, is the biggest caseload under the public assistance program. The average person receives a monthly grant of $47.31. To be eligible, he must be at least 65, be a U.S. citizen or 20-year resident, and have resided in Florida for five of the last nine years and all of the last year.

He also must not have more than $600 in assets, excluding $750 cash value in life insurance, and animals or produce he may have for personal use. Racially, about 65 per cent of this group is white. This group also receives medical benefits.

The next largest caseload, numbering 24,440 is aid to dependent children. These cases include the needs of 71,700 children and about 18,250 parents or relatives — a total of 90,050 persons.

To be eligible children must be under 18; have one year's residence; be in need; be deprived of parental support and care by death, absence, or medically demonstrated incapacity; and may have — in addition to a home — a real and personal property worth up to $250 a child.

The grants, of which 72 per cent go to Negroes, average $60.12 — which the welfare department says meets 58 per cent of the need.

The department says statistics show only one correlation by race: among the mothers who are responsible for children, a consistently higher per cent of the Negro mothers have jobs.

The permanently and totally disabled caseload has increased slowly since it began in 1955. The cases now number 10,300 and the monthly rate of increase is more than 100 cases.

For the disabled, the maximum grant is $66 a month, and the average is $55.77, not including payments made by the department for prescribed medicine and hospitalization.

The department says Florida has 2,500 persons receiving aid to the blind grants.

Yankees Retreat As Cannon Booms

BOSTON (UPI)—Hardly anyone could believe his Yankee eyes. But there it was—right in the heart of Boston—a smoking Confederate muzzle loader with a soldier standing by for a second shot.

Residents of the five-story apartment house across from the Boston Museum of Fine Arts ducked back inside shattered windows as the artilleryman reloaded and snapped, "Piece ready for firing, sir."

"Fire the piece," the captain replied, and that old cannon, cast in 1864 from the brass bells of a Macon, Ga., church, jerked again with a roar.

A cop appeared on the scene and asked rather incredulously with a jerk of his thumb at the apartment dwellers: "They claim somebody shot off a cannon?"

Museum Director Perry T. Rathbone told him it was just the two-shot formal opening of what the museum had described as "stirring" Civil War exhibition.

The apartment dwellers were, indeed, "stirred" since the temperature was 33 degrees and the breeze was rather brisk—especially in apartments where the blast shattered windows.

Rathbone dispatched his troops to board up 17 broken windows and promised he would pay reparations.

Powell Launches Integration Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House education subcommittee has started an investigation that will combine the politically-volatile issues of federal school aid and classroom desegregation.

Whether the mixture will produce an explosion, especially in an election year, no one could accurately predict.

The investigating subcommittee was created by chairman Adam C. Powell of the parent Education and Labor Committee. A veteran of many congressional civil rights battles, the New York Negro Democrat has thrown the considerable resources of his committee behind the inquiry.

While even Powell would not predict that the investigation, would result in legislative action this year, some congressional sources believe it will open a bigger campaign to speed up compliance with the 1954 Supreme Court desegregation ruling.

Civil rights advocates in and out of Congress have shown increasing impatience with what they consider foot-dragging compliance with the court's order to desegregate with "all deliberate speed."

PEAKS AT DINNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy will speak at the formal dinner of the Gridiron Club March 17. The Washington Post's club originally had set Saturday, March 10, as the dinner date, but the affair was postponed for a week to accommodate Kennedy.

United States Didn't Win Too Much At Parley

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nub of what the organization of American States foreign ministers accomplished at their just-ended conference seems to be this:

The sister republics of South and Central America refused to agree with the United States to act strongly against Dictator Fidel Castro in Cuba as they acted in 1959 against Dictator Rafael Trujillo in the Dominican Republic.

On Aug. 20, 1960, the OAS foreign ministers voted unanimously to break diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic.

To impose economic penalties and a complete arms embargo. The foreign ministers took this action because they agreed that Trujillo and his captive state had become a threat to peace in the Americas. Castro and communism apparently are not so regarded by the foreign ministers now. A fair question would be: Why and what is the distinction between the two?

In January 1961, the council of OAS executed the Dominican program proposed by the foreign ministers, but with a limitation. The economic penalties assessed by the council against Trujillo consisted of only limited embargo to prevent export to the Dominican Republic of oil, oil products, trucks and parts. No such penalty has been assessed against Castro's Cuba. Nor is it proposed that diplomatic relations be broken.

The headlines favored the Kennedy administration on the outcome of the OAS foreign ministers' conference on Cuba. There was unanimous condemnation of Castro's regime. 20 of the foreign ministers joining enthusiastically in that procedure which caught the headlines. Cuba, of course, was against that but did not vote. This condemnation, however, is merely an arrangement of words without action. The United States could obtain only a bare two-thirds majority vote for the expulsion of Castro's Cuba from the OAS organizations. Refusing to support expulsion were the greatest states of Latin America and a couple of others: Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico, Bolivia and Ecuador.

This was a serious defeat for Kennedy foreign policy. The President urgently wanted and needed unanimous agreement or something very close to that among the foreign ministers on action to be taken.

It is said in behalf of Kennedy foreign policy that the administration did not expect to get all it asked of the foreign ministers' conference.

That is reasonable enough. But the United States needs and urgently wants general Latin American support for its western hemisphere policies. That it did not get. Without the big states that got away, the policy statement there is substantial, stable and potentially effective like a two-legged stool.

Congress will take a hard look at the conference returns. It is likely to look harder than might have been expected at Kennedy's $20 billion alliance-for-progress program to improve Latin American social and economic defenses against communism. Very hard, indeed.

Sleepers Losers

DAVAO, Philippines (UPI)—Maryknoll Father John F. Coholan, of Lynn, Mass., stationed two husky parishioners in the vestibule of his church recently to catch a thief who had been pilfering the poor box.

The sentries remained on duty all night but, unfortunately, they fell asleep. When they awakened, they found that not only the poor box had been stolen but their coats and shoes were gone, too.
