Interstate extension shelved

Consulting firm's proposal is to upgrade five routes instead

Officials are putting plans for the Lubbock-to-Interstate 10 super highway back on the shelf after the consulting firm hired by the Texas Department of Transportation said all of the proposed routes are too expensive.

"They said they are not going to come in with an interstate; it's too costly," said Commissioner Jerry Gannaway, one of a handful of Scurry County residents who attended a TxDOT briefing on the subject Thursday in Sweetwater.

Instead, Gannaway said, TxDOT will consider all corridors for future improvements.

Scurry County officials had been hoping that the consulting firm's recommendation would be to extend I-27 from Lubbock along U.S. Highway 84 to I-20, and then on to San Angelo. Other cities have lobbied for the interstate to run through Big Spring or through the Midland Odessa area.

The two other routes run from the Oklahoma-Texas state line to Amarillo and on to Lubbock through either Dumas, or through Pampa.

However, the consulting firm's study found that none of the five routes are economically feasible. The firm recommended, however, that all five routes should be upgraded.

On a mathematical scale, the route along U.S. 84 through Snyder was rated at 1.07. That rating means that for every $1 spent on interstate construction, revenues of $1.07 could be expected to be generated.

However, a 1.07 rating is considered only "marginally feasible" and is unlikely to compete favorably for federal funding, TxDOT officials said. It takes a rating of 1.15 or more to compete favorably for federal funds.

The Big Spring to San Angelo route ranked an 0.73 and the Lubbock to Midland avenue rated only a 0.63.

Of the Oklahoma border-to-Lubbock routes, the Dumas route rated a 1.07 and the Pampa route earned just an 0.47.

Gannaway said that although local officials were interested in having the interstate run through Scurry County, the consulting firm's recommendation will still help the Snyder area.

"This is actually going to benefit more people (than any one route would)," he said. "We were encouraged to hear about plans to upgrade our four-lane out here. Of course, none of this is set in stone yet. They'll set up a meeting in Lubbock in May and probably give us something more definite then."

THE SDN COLUMN

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

It seems that everyone is writing about the need for moisture, and the following was written by Lynn Brisendine, in the Brownfield News.

"Lord send us a rain...please.

"Drought is a bad word denoting bad times. Some folks on the east coast think if they suffer 14 days without rain, they are in the midst of a drought.

"We are in the clutches of an extreme drought, no matter what time frame you want to use.

"Lord send us a rain...please.

"We have had one small amount of snow and little else in four months. Of course, I'm not telling you anything. Everytime the winds get up, so does the sand.

"Sand storms are not news, but the lack of moisture in our part of the world is becoming news and a worrisome topic just about everywhere people gather.

"People attending church services hear the prayer requests asking for divine intervention.

"Lord send us a rain...please.

"Things are getting so bad that a water district in our area is hiring a Utah rainmaking company.

"Now the term 'rainmaker' has never instilled a great deal of faith in my way of thinking. I remember the old westerns about shysters who traveled the old west trying to force the blue skies to pour rain.

"They would do their thing and fail. Then the poor people who had scraped up their last bucks to hire the guy would become irate and form a lynching party. He would sit on a horse with a noose around the neck waiting for a sudden drop.

"Suddenly, a flash of lightning, and a clap of thunder would precede the downpour.

"Later Elmer Gantry came along, and once again the rainmaking profession took a whipping.

"Lord send us a rain...please.

"Still, these folks claim that they seeded clouds in the Big Spring and Snyder area one season and brought out 40 percent more rain than they had been getting.

"Pardon me, but I believe that 40 percent of nothing is still pretty much nothing.

"The doubter in me continues to think that even if cloud seeding works, you first have to have clouds and there haven't been many promising ones in the past four months.

The Brownfield editor penned his comments before last week's teaser. We're not ungrateful, you understand, but we can amen the sentiment...

"Lord, send us some more rain, please!

SHS students enter district UIL contests

Western Texas College will host hundreds of high school students for the District 5-4A UIL academic contests Saturday, including 47 from Snyder.

Schools participating are Sweetwater, Lamesa, Frenship, Levelland, Lubbock Estacado and Snyder. The day-long competition begins at 8 a.m. and extends into the afternoon.

The top three individuals in each event will advance to Regional competition in San Angelo next month.

UIL events and Snyder High School students entered Saturday are:

Accounting (team and individual) - Jami Brown, Jason Crow, Kenneth Darlin; alternate: John Purcell.

Computer Applications (individual) - Kathryn Robbins, Cara Byram; alternate: Carol Strayhorn.

Current Issues & Events (team and individual) - LaTrisha Lee, Matt Parker, Courtney Anderson; alternate: Matt Hester.

Mathematics (team and individual) - David Kerr, Mat Powell, LaTrisha Lee; alternate: Ana Hernandez.

Ready Writing (individual) - Mandy Baker, Jenise Judah.

Computer Applications (team and individual) - Scott Hall, Paige Bell, Catrina Lopez; alternate: Kate Maguire.

Mr. & Miss WTC named on Thursday

Mr. and Miss Western Texas College were announced Thursday evening during the college's annual Spring Formal.

Cody Smith of Aspermont and Tonya Diersing of Hamlin were chosen by a campus-wide vote. They were selected from 12 campus favorites nominated earlier by the student body.

Smith is a sophomore agricultural economics major, minoring in agriculture business. He is a member of the executive board of Phi Theta Kappa and was a chairperson for its "Shots Across Texas" effort.

He was named Mr. Trailhand this spring and was listed in Who's Who Among American Junior College Students. He was also on the 1996 WTC Dean's List.

Tonya Diersing is a sophomore majoring in speech-language pathology. She is a member of Phi Theta Kappa's executive board and was chairperson for the "Shots Across Texas" campaign.

She was also listed in Who's Who Among American Junior College Students.

Other nominees for Mr. WTC were Jeff Decker of Perryton, Patrick David Ellis of Fort Worth, Joe Moody of Roswell, N.M., Guy Smith of Winborne Alberta, Canada and Rusty Turner of Jim Ned.

Other nominees for Miss WTC were Danya Doyle of Azle, Jana McCloy of Morse, April Reves of Stamford, Emily Schaffer of North Platte, Neb. and Jo Adrienne "Toot" Smith of Hobbs, N.M.

Luft prepared for regional bee

Spelling is serious business to Garrett Luft, Snyder seventh grader who will represent Scurry County at the regional spelling bee Saturday.

Since winning the county bee on March 8, Luft has devoted about four hours a day to studying the words in the spelling book as well as their meanings. He looks for patterns in words and the relationship between vowels and consonants.

It's not all hard work. "I have fun sounding out the words," he said.

To prepare, he has spelled words over and over again until he knows them by heart. Luft has also attempted to learn each word's definition, pronunciation and origin.

Since the official spelling handbook is divided into sections, Luft has been concentrating on two or three different sections each day, studying before school, at school and after school.

At Snyder Junior High, spelling bee coordinator Bobbie Combest has worked with Luft every day. At home, his coaches have been his parents, Gary and Sue Luft, and a friend, Ryan Gibson.

In a way, Luft's trip to Lubbock is history repeating itself, since his mother competed in the regional bee as a sixth grader at Post.

Saturday will mark Luft's first regional bee, but he's no stranger to spelling competition. As a fifth grader, he won the Northeast campus bee and placed second at the county event.

Luft's been studying extra hard this year. "I don't want to settle for second place again," he said.

The seventh grader tries to remain calm and poised to avoid mistakes. He thinks how to spell each word before he begins, takes a few deep breaths and "says a prayer."

In addition to spelling, he also participates in sports — football, baseball, basketball and track — and UIL literary events. He is active with the youth group at East Side Church of Christ, and he and a friend, Jeremy Bowden, mow lawns during the summer.

The regional bee will begin at 1 p.m. at Cavazos Junior High School in Lubbock.

CAPITAL CAMPAIGN KICK-OFF — Noah Project-West held its Capital Campaign Kick-off Thursday. The campaign is being held to raise funds for a new shelter for victims of family abuse. The building will be built at 25th and Beaumont, next to the site where Karen Hodges' sister died from injuries inflicted by an abusive husband. Hodges, shown at right, told those attending the dinner of her family's experiences and the need for such a shelter. Troubled youth being sent out of state

DETROIT (AP) — Faced with serious overcrowding at its juvenile homes, Michigan plans to send some of its most troubled youths to facilities in other states.

Critics question whether it's right to ship youths elsewhere and whether Michigan has manufactured its own crisis being solved at the kids' expense.

"My biggest concern is that they are manipulating children's lives and there's no one to speak up for these kids, no matter how rotten they may be," said Ginny McCaig, a child advocate and University of Michigan-Dearborn lecturer.

A flood of delinquents — partly caused by the state closing its mental health facilities — is causing the problems. Mentally ill youths who commit delinquent acts now enter the delinquency system.

A February 1994 report from Department of Social Services (now the Family Independence Agency) found that about 24 percent of delinquents in state residential care facilities had prior psychiatric hospitalizations.

The state has recommended sending students to facilities owned by Youth Services International Inc. of Owings Mills, Md. YSI operates 17 facilities in 10 states and is owned by the multimillionaire founder of Jiffy Lube International.

Another company — RECOR Rehabilitation and Corrections Facility of Kerrville, Texas — hired former Michigan state Sen. Jack Welborn as a lobbyist.

Both companies have offered Michigan numerous beds cheaply.

It costs about $220 a day to house a delinquent in a Michigan facility; RECOR and YSI are offering deals of $110 to $115 a day.

RECOR is attracted to the state's yet-to-be-approved "punk prison" and bid, through a Kalamazoo nonprofit, to build a 60-bed facility in Hamtramck.

"We intend to be a major player in this field in the next year," said Bruce Williams, RECOR's chief executive officer and owner.

The state's biggest problem has been overcrowding in Detroit's Burton Center, which was designed for 68 youths, but has housed around 100 for more than a year.

Up to eight boys in a room sleep on the floor, share a single toilet and sink and often are locked down. School has been reduced to half-days, the Detroit Free Press reported Thursday.

"If Burton was a parent, the state would intervene and remove the children from the home," Wayne County commissioner Bernard Parker wrote in a March 22 letter to Gov. John Engler.

Two state officials visited RECOR in January and concluded that it "would not even come close" to meeting Michigan's treatment needs or standards.

That prompted Welborn to urge Gerald Miller, director of the Family Independence Agency, to give the facility another look.

"I told Miller, 'I think we're getting a bad shake. All I want is a clear look,'" Welborn said this week.

Mark Jasonowicz, FIA deputy director and head of the 4-month-old Delinquency Bed Space Committee, visited RECOR.

"It may not be what we'd buy if we had our choice," Jasonowicz said. "But in our opinion, it'd be better to give RECOR a try than have these kids sitting at Burton."

The two reviewers who rejected RECOR recommended using YSI facilities in Iowa for up to 60 Michigan kids.

Abusive Behavior Can Predict Mate's Potential for Violence

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1996 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: Yesterday I published a letter from the grandparents of a 19-year-old woman who was brutally murdered by a young man with whom she had lived for four months. Her grieving family asked if I would reprint the column that outlined the traits of a potential batterer. In her memory, here it is. It was adapted from "Signs to Look for in a Battering Personality," with permission from the Project for Victims of Family Violence, Fayetteville, Ark.

15 REASONS TO LEAVE YOUR LOVER, WARNING SIGNS OF AN ABUSIVE PERSONALITY

Something's just not right in your relationship, and you can't put your finger on it. So here's some help. If your mate is displaying a combination of these behaviors, then you may have a potential batterer on your hands.

1. A PUSH FOR QUICK INVOLVEMENT: Comes on very strong, claiming, "I've never felt loved like this by anyone." An abuser pressures the woman for an exclusive commitment almost immediately.

2. JEALOUSY: Excessively possessive; calls constantly or visits unexpectedly; prevents you from going to work because "you might meet someone"; checks the mileage on your car.

3. CONTROLLING: Interrogates you intensely (especially if you're late) about whom you talked to, and where you were; keeps all the money; insists you ask permission to go anywhere or do anything.

4. UNREALISTIC EXPECTATIONS: Expects you to be the perfect woman and meet his every need.

5. ISOLATION: Tries to cut you off from family and friends; accuses people who are your supporters of "causing trouble"; the abuser may deprive you of a phone or car or try to prevent you from holding a job.

6. BLAMES OTHERS FOR PROBLEMS AND MISTAKES: The boss, you — it's always someone else's fault if anything goes wrong.

7. MAKES EVERYONE ELSE RESPONSIBLE FOR HIS FEELINGS: The abuser says, "You make me angry" instead of, "I am angry" or, "You're hurting me by not doing what I tell you." Less obvious is the claim: "You make me happy."

8. HYPERSENSITIVITY: Is easily insulted, claiming that his feelings are hurt when he is really mad. He'll rant about the injustice of things that are just part of life.

3. CRUELTY TO ANIMALS AND TO CHILDREN: Kills or punishes animals brutally. Also may expect children to do things that are far beyond their ability (whips a 2-year-old for wetting a diaper) or may tease them until they cry. Sixty-five percent of abusers who beat their partner will also abuse children.

10. "PLAYFUL" USE OF FORCE DURING SEX: Enjoys throwing you down or holding you down against your will during sex; says he finds the idea of rape exciting.

11. VERBAL ABUSE: Constantly criticizes you, or says blatantly cruel, hurtful things; degrades, curses, calls you ugly names. This may also involve sleep deprivation, waking you up with relentless verbal abuse.

12. RIGID SEX ROLES: Expects you to serve, obey and remain at home.

13. SUDDEN MOOD SWINGS: Switches from sweetly loving to explosively violent in a matter of minutes.

14. PAST BATTERING: Admits hitting women in the past, but says they made him do it or the situation brought it on.

15. THREATS OF VIOLENCE: Makes statements like, "I'll break your neck" or "I'll kill you," and then dismisses them with, "Everybody talks that way" or "I didn't really mean it." If he has come this far, it is time to get help, or get out.

Stern warrant still on books

HARLINGEN (AP) — Justice of the Peace Eloy Cano says freedom of speech is alive and well in South Texas, except when it comes to Howard Stern and slain Tejano star Selena.

That's why the arrest warrant he issued for Stern, the New York-based host of a nationally syndicated morning show, remains in force nearly a year after it was written.

Cano issued the warrant for disorderly conduct after Stern made what he considered offensive comments about the singer and Hispanic culture. He based it on a complaint filed by Laura Barboza, who happens to be his secretary.

"I wasn't doing it for the glory," Cano said. "I was doing it because it was the right thing to do. I have no regrets at all."

The warrant, which means Stern can be arrested as soon as he steps foot in Texas for the Class C misdemeanor, the legal equivalent of a traffic ticket. The maximum fine is $500.

Cano's action followed comments Stern made on his show in April 1995 shortly after her longtime associate, Yolanda Saldivar, shot her dead in a Corpus Christi motel parking lot on March 31.

"Alvin and the Chipmunks have more soul ... Spanish people have the worst taste in music. They have no depth," Stern said on the show. He also mixed in sounds of gunfire with a tape of her music and ridiculed the shape of Selena's body.

He later apologized for the remarks, which were not broadcast in the Rio Grande Valley.

Enraged Hispanic groups called for boycotts of the show and its advertisers after. The boycotts have since been lifted, but not the warrant.

The arrest order remains good until Cano or Ms. Barboza pull it or if Ms. Barboza dies.

"Mr. Stern apologized for his harsh comments and I have not heard that he has made any other comments about our culture," said Ms. Barboza, who indicated she might pull the warrant because she doesn't think Stern will visit the state anyway.

If it came to a court fight, the American Civil Liberties Union vowed to defend Stern's First Amendment free speech rights.

Morningside sets revival

Morningside Baptist Church has scheduled a revival for April 7-12, featuring Evangelist Mark Cole.

The Sunday, April 7, service will begin at 6 p.m. Monday through Friday services, April 8-12, will begin at 7 p.m.

Cole's ministry consists of singing and preaching from the King James Version of the Bible.

The evangelist, who lost a leg as the result of a boating accident in 1976, wears a prosthesis. "I'd rather serve God with one leg than have perfect health and not serve him," Cole said.

Count up the spoils

While looking up quotations for these columns, I learn some facts of debatable value. For example, what was George Eliot's real name?

In "Adam Bede," Eliot wrote, "There's no real making amends in this world, any more nor you can mend a wrong subtraction by doing your addition right."

Another budding bridge player! If you can't add up correctly, you have an "incorrect view" around the corner — like the declarer in today's deal.

A jump rebid of opener's original suit shows about seven playing-tricks. North, with two trumps and a near maximum for his response of one no-trump, was happy to go on to the vulnerable game.

West guessed well to lead the diamond 10, his partner winning the first three tricks in the suit. Then East exited with the club queen.

Declarer won with his ace, played a spade to dummy's jack and finessed the heart jack. However, West produced the queen: one down.

When he noticed that West had begun with only two hearts, South said, "Just my luck. I take the percentage play in hearts, but the wrong line works this time. Huh!"

"You can't make amends now, but you didn't do your addition. How many points has East produced?"

"Well, eight in diamonds and presumably three in clubs."

"Right! Yet he couldn't open the bidding. How can he have the heart queen as well? You must play out the ace and king as your only chance."

Speed limits raised

AUSTIN (AP) — "Rush hour" will soon take on new meaning in Austin, Dallas and San Antonio.

Over the cities' objections, the Texas Transportation Commission voted unanimously Thursday to increase speed limits to as high as 70 mph on state roads within the cities.

State law gives cities the right to set the limits on state roads within their jurisdictions, but those limits must be backed by engineering studies.

City officials in Austin, Dallas, San Antonio and Corpus Christi had been fighting for speed limits lower than those called for by state safety studies, said Tom Newbern, head of the state traffic operations division.

State safety standards presume that the speed at which 85 percent of motorists are driving is safe.

Austin Mayor Bruce Todd argued the commission should err on the side of safety.

"I will submit that a safer speed is a lower speed in areas where there is high congestion," he said.

Todd added that drivers would get to their destinations less than five minutes sooner going 65 mph compared with 55 mph, and estimated the savings would drop to one minute with traffic congestion.

"I don't think that one minute is worth a life," he said.

Newbern said speed limits are not intended to force motorists to drive at speeds they consider unreasonable.

"Speed limits are posted to advise motorists of the speed which is considered safe by the majority of drivers," he said.

Hypertension drugs are not addictive

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My wife suffers from high blood pressure. She is on three drugs. Because her company changed insurance plans, her new doctor wants to give her two different medications instead. He says there is no danger — she will be on them for the rest of her life. Our pharmacist says no, that the medication can be very addictive and it should only be for short-term use. Who's right?

DEAR READER: I'm afraid you misunderstood the pharmacist. Your doctor is correct.

Hypertension is a common and serious disease that will invariably lead to heart disease, stroke and kidney disorders, if not treated.

Although most people with high blood pressure can be successfully treated with mono-therapy (one drug), many hypertensives require two or more drugs to bring the blood pressure down and keep it normal. In general, such therapy must be continued for several years.

The medicines used to treat hypertension are not addictive; they merely lower the blood pressure and produce other beneficial results, such as protecting the kidneys and reducing the cardiac work-load. These drugs are not just for short-term use.

In fact, stopping them without medical supervision can lead to dangerous "over-shoot," when the blood pressure rebounds to unacceptably high levels.

Follow the doctor's advice. I believe that the pharmacist has unnecessarily confused the issue. This surprises me, because pharmacists and doctors generally agree and work well together as part of the health care team.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Hypertension." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Every now and then I have a lot of clear, slimy discharge from my rectum that lasts for about a day. I'm too embarrassed to ask my doctor about this, but feel comfortable with you.

DEAR READER: A clear rectal discharge may indicate a simple problem, such as low-grade inflammation or hemorrhoids, that could be easily cured with medication.

While I am complimented that you can share an embarrassing problem with me, your family physician is really the person to whom you must turn. Ask him — or her — for an examination that should, in my opinion, include flexible sigmoidoscopy, an office procedure during which the doctor examines your lower colon with a fiberoptic instrument.

Out-of-court settlement paves way for A&M livestock center

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas A&M's offer of a contribution to a church in the nearby Brushy Creek community helped bring about an out-of-court settlement that will allow the university to proceed with construction of a livestock research center.

The agreement was reached Thursday after attorneys for Texas A&M and for an organization known as "Residents Opposed to Pigs and Livestock" met privately in Houston with U.S. District Judge Ewing Werlein Jr.

Werlein was to have heard arguments on ROPL's request for a temporary injunction to halt construction on the site.

Texas A&M expects to complete construction of the livestock complex by summer of next year, but agreed to make some changes to reduce residents' concern about the odor from the facility.

Brushy Creek is south of College Station, just west of the airport.

Neither side would disclose the exact amount of money involved in the financial settlement to the Brushy Creek community.

The money will be used for Clayton Baptist Church, which has about 60 members, and for the community, members said.

The Rev. Thomas Williams, pastor of Clayton Baptist Church, said he had mixed emotions about the settlement.

"There is no way you can be happy when you have got a large number of animals moving into a residential area," Williams said. "But we are content with the fact that we came to some agreement."

Texas A&M will not alter its construction plans for the $5.5 million Animal Science Teaching, Research and Extension Complex, said Edward Hiler, A&M's vice chancellor for agriculture.

But various changes will be made to lessen the community's concerns.

John Beverly, deputy vice chancellor for agriculture, said that as part of the agreement, A&M will reduce the number of livestock at the complex by more than 300 animals.

A&M originally planned to house a maximum of 1,687 animals, Beverly said. Now the center will have a maximum of 1,300 animals and will average about 1,000 animals each month.

"We will continue to have the necessary swine there for teaching courses in the Animal Physiology and Nutrition Center and the Animal Euthenics Laboratory (which will study animal welfare)," Beverly said.

Monitoring wells will be installed in and around a lagoon system, which will exceed the needs for the number of animals to be located at the site. The site also will use a manure separator system with alarm warnings.

Brushy Creek community resident Ora Waldon said she was most pleased by the reduction in the number of pigs at the center.

Camp spruced up

CASSIA, Fla. (AP) — Paul Newman led about 2,000 volunteers who helped to spruce up his Boggy Creek Gang Camp for sick kids.

By day's end Wednesday, the camp between Orlando and Daytona Beach was outfitted with thousands of new trees and shrubs.

"They spent half a day in hard work, but they enjoyed it," said Joe Glorfield, executive director of the 232-acre camp.

Several days of rain reduce fire hazard across the state

By The Associated Press

For the first time all year, enough rain has fallen across Texas that all of the state isn't considered a high fire risk.

The Texas Forest Service said Thursday that after several days of scattered rains, the eastern two-thirds of the state finally has been drenched enough to lose its highly flammable status.

Most of the state is now classified as a moderate or low fire hazard. Areas around Tarrant and Dallas counties received the heaviest rain.

Since the year began, 4,080 fires have scorched 457,059 acres in Texas. The numbers are the largest in at least 30 years, according to records kept by the Division of Emergency Management.

"Any kind of moisture is welcome," Childress fire chief Steve Jones told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. This week, his department helped battle two fires totaling 67,000 acres in Childress, Foard and Cottle counties.

"I wouldn't care if it came in a hailstorm, as long as it melted into water," he said.

Dry conditions persist in some areas, particularly from Childress west, said Jo Schweikhard Moss, a spokeswoman for the Division of Emergency Management in Austin.

Fire crews battled 29 fires during the weekend, but rains Wednesday allowed officials to contain two pesky fires yesterday in rural Stephens County and a third in Hardeman County near Goodlet.

Tigers face Lobos in district opener

By Brent Taylor
Sports Editor

The second season for the Snyder Tigers starts Saturday in Levelland as the 1996 District 5-4A play begins.

First pitch is set for 1 p.m. in Levelland.

In other district openers, Frenship will be at Sweetwater tonight and Lamesa takes on Estacado in Lubbock Saturday.

In its first 20 games, Snyder has managed to pull off 13 wins, but none possibly bigger than last Saturday's 3-1 victory over seventh-ranked Andrews.

"That was a great win and good momentum builder going into district," said Snyder baseball coach Roland Herrera. "We just have to keep that momentum going."

As a team, the Tigers have a very respectable batting average, .342. Two sluggers, Gene Pollard and Jeremy House are both over.400.

Pollard is hitting .467 with 29 hits, including 22 singles to lead both categories. Pollard has 16 runs batted in. House is at a .424 pace with 28 hits. He is leading the team in doubles with 10 and is tied with Patrick Cumbie with 21 RBIs.

Clay Berryman is the leading pitcher for the Tigers. Berryman has seen action on the mound 10 times with eight decisions, seven being wins.

Through 53⅓ innings, Berryman has allowed 20 runs on 48 hits, struck out 41 and allowed eight walks with an earned run average of 1.96.

The Tiger pitching staff has an ERA of 2.94. They have combined to allow 101 runs on 124 hits, struck out 123 and walked 56.

Lady Tigers win makeup game, 15-8

The Lady Tiger JV improved its softball record to 15-8 Thursday with a 15-7 win over Coahoma in a game originally scheduled for Tuesday.

Snyder was ahead 5-0 going into the bottom of the second, but committed three errors and allowed Coahoma to tie the game. The Lady Tigers came back with five in the fourth to seal the game. Snyder got insurance runs in the fifth and sixth innings to take the win.

Erica Garvin went two for two at the plate with a triple and single. Starla Davis was three for three with two doubles and a single. Brittany Drummond was two for three with a single and double. Amy Ricks also knocked a double.

Garvin picked up the win on the mound for Snyder. Garvin went four innings, allowing seven runs on 10 hits, struck out two and walked seven. Garvin was taken out of the game with neck pains.

Angie Reynolds came in relief and allowed no runs on four hits, struck out two and walked six.

The next game for the JV will be Monday when they host Greenwood at 6 p.m.

Lady Tigers host Estacado tonight

The Snyder Lady Tigers put their 1-1 district record on the line when they host Lubbock Estacado at 6 o'clock tonight at Dale Cates Girls' Softball Complex.

Snyder is in second place behind Sweetwater (3-0). Estacado is looking for its first victory in league play. The Lady Matadors are 2-16 for the season. The Lady Tigers are 13-10 while the Lady Mustangs are 11-6.

Sweetwater defeated Estacado last night, 26-11.

In the first meeting between Snyder and Estacado, the Lady Tigers took a 25-0 win in a game called after three innings.

Snyder will travel to Lubbock to face Monterey Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. The game was moved up to allow Texas Tech womens' softball team to play after the Snyder-Monterey game.

Syracuse vs. Mississippi State: the forgotten game

NEW YORK (AP) — They are the forgotten teams, playing the overlooked game.

With top-ranked Massachusetts and No. 2 Kentucky attracting most of the attention at the Final Four, the other two teams slipped into the city under the cloak of obscurity.

There's Syracuse, the fourth-best team in the Big East, and Mississippi State, which was eclipsed by Kentucky's large shadow in the Southeastern Conference.

"It seems to me if you look back over each year, there's kind of a surprise team that sneaks in there most of the time," Syracuse coach Jim Boeheim said. "And this year we kind of snuck in."

So did Mississippi State, which was seeded fifth in the Southeast Regional but knocked off top-seeded Connecticut and No. 2 seed Cincinnati to earn its first Final Four berth.

The Bulldogs (26-7) and Syracuse (28-8) will play the first semifinal Saturday, which is viewed as a preliminary bout to UMass vs. Kentucky in the main event. The championship game Monday is viewed almost as an afterthought.

Sounds a lot like the 1983 Final Four, doesn't it?

That year in Albuquerque, N.M., everyone thought Houston's 94-81 victory over Louisville in the semifinals was the "real" national championship — until North Carolina State, after beating Georgia in the semis, upset the powerful Phi Slamma Jamma Cougars in a memorable final, 54-52.

Mississippi State showed it could play with the big boys in the championship game of the SEC tournament, shocking Kentucky 84-73.

"I don't think you can say Mississippi State snuck in, because of the way they played against Kentucky and Georgia in the Southeastern Conference tournament," Boeheim said.

It was hard for the Bulldogs to get noticed, however, while Kentucky was becoming the first team in 40 years to go undefeated in league play during the regular season.

"I think all of the coaches in our conference knew all along we are in a very strong league," State coach Richard Williams said. "And it's very difficult for the other schools in our conference to be compared to Kentucky, because Kentucky is so good."

Syracuse dealt with the same syndrome in the Big East, where Connecticut, Georgetown and Villanova dominated the headlines. But look who made it to the Final Four.

"I feel bad because I've been in the place that Connecticut and Villanova are in," Boeheim said. "But I'm glad for the league that we got back because, unfortunately, that's a big indication or evaluating point of how well your league is doing."

Irvin protest judge's decision in drug case

DALLAS (AP) — A grand jury has offered "use immunity" to the three people who were with Dallas Cowboys star Michael Irvin in a motel room where cocaine, marijuana and drug paraphernalia were found.

KXAS-TV of Fort Worth reported Thursday night that prosecutors promised Angela Beck, a 22-year-old topless dancer who is the only person charged in the case so far, that any testimony she gives won't be used against her.

Jasmine Nabwangu, 21, another topless dancer, and Alredo Roberts, a business partner and former teammate of Irvin's, were offered the same immunity last week, reportedly after citing 5th Amendment protection.

The three could now be held in contempt of court if they refuse to testify about events in an Irving motel room early March 4. However, other evidence still could be used against them in a trial.

The grand jury's three-month term was to expire Sunday, which meant that since this panel has been meeting only on Tuesdays and Thursdays, Thursday would normally have been its final day. However, the grand jury requested and received a 30-day extension from State District Judge John Creuzot.

The grand jury was scheduled to reconvene its closed proceedings at 1:30 p.m. today.

The extension brought a protest from attorneys for both Irvin, 30, and Roberts, 31.

"This is selective prosecution," Irvin's attorney, Kevin Clancy, told the judge during a morning court appearance. "The Irving Police Department has not requested the grand jury to investigate any further.

"This has never been done that I know of. This is a misuse of the grand jury. ... I do feel my client is being selectively prosecuted because of who he is and his stature as a professional football player."

Creuzot called the grand jurors into his courtroom and asked them individually if they wanted their term extended. He granted the request after all replied that they did.

"All I know is they wanted 30 days and I gave them 30 days," said Creuzot, who has issued a gag order to all involved with the case. "I don't know anything else."

After the morning session with the judge, grand jurors returned to their hearings and worked until shortly after 1 p.m.

Although all four people who were in the motel room at the time of the raid were in the courthouse, it was unclear whether any of them were again called before the grand jury.

Your Birthday

Saturday, March 30, 1996

In the year ahead you might have success with products, methods or people who are progressive and inventive. Operating along traditional lines could hold you back, so try new things.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It might be wise today to avoid taking financial risks. Also, do not provide fiscal advice to others unless you're prepared to share the blame for a failure. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The balance between harmony and hostility in your household will be delicate today. Even small infractions can ignite sparks and start fires.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today you may hear one of your friends degrade a pal who isn't present. He or she does not deserve this harsh treatment, so stand up for your buddy.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Carefully screen all of your new involvements at this time. You might be held accountable for financial losses incurred by someone else in the group.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Use caution when dealing with others today. Arrogant or condescending behavior will only invite harsh criticism in the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you do favors for others today, act out of the kindness of your heart. If you have ulterior motives, people will see right through you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A poorly informed friend might encourage you to gamble on something about which you both know little. Do not let the blind lead the blind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Ambition is a laudable trait. However, in your quest for success, you should not hurt others. A tarnished victory won't leave you with much to admire.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you deviate from your blueprint today, you could drift off on nonproductive tangents. Try to finish what you start.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you cannot achieve parity in an endeavor, you may have a low success rate today. Make certain that each person can hold up his or her end of the bargain.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A matter of equal significance to you and your mate might cause you to pull in opposite directions today. Try to get your heads together.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A well-intentioned friend might offer a helping hand today. Unfortunately, your pal may be a poor assistant and create more work than he or she accomplishes.

Process of memory in brain charted through rat research

WASHINGTON (AP) — The brain records experiences and plays them back later, usually during sleep, to create memories that are stored permanently in the mind, studies with rats suggest.

Part of the brain, called the hippocampus, acts as a filing center by receiving data, reviewing it and putting it "into the right cubbyhole of the brain," said Bruce L. McNaughton, a professor of psychology and physiology at the University of Arizona, Tucson.

McNaughton and William E. Skaggs, also of Arizona, are authors of a study published today in the journal Science.

To explore the memory-making machinery of the brain, the researchers put very small needles into the hippocampus of rats. Studies of humans with head injuries have shown that the hippocampus section of the brain plays a key role in creating long-term memories.

Signals from the wired-up rat brains were recorded while the rodents slept.

The next day, the rats were lured by food into running through a triangular track while the pattern of their brain activity was recorded.

After a hard day's work, the rats were allowed to sleep while their brain activity was again recorded.

McNaughton said the study showed that the hippocampus pattern the rats experienced while running along the track was rerun during sleep and was different from the signals recorded the night before.

In effect, the study suggested that fresh, new memories stored in the hippocampus of the rat were reviewed by the brain, but with one subtle difference in the signal patterns, McNaughton said.

"It is like taking a movie and cutting up the film into long pieces," he said. Events within scenes of the movie are played in the correct sequence, but the scenes themselves are reviewed in random order, said McNaughton. Why this occurs, he said, is not known.

McNaughton said it is believed that during this review, the experiences stored in the hippocampus are distributed to other parts of the cerebral cortex of the brain for permanent storage.

"Sleep is not essential for this review to take place," said McNaughton. "It can happen during daydreaming or any time that the rest of the cerebral cortex is not busy."

The research gives a snapshot of just a bare fraction of what is going on inside the brain during memory-making experiences, the scientist said. The needles used by the researchers gathered signals from fewer than 200 of more than 300,000 nerve cells within a small area of the hippocampus of the rat.

The human hippocampus is even more complicated, containing many millions more cells than the same structure in the rat brain, McNaughton said.

Science, which published the study, is the journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Judge rules: Marlow teen-ager responsible for own death

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A 13-year-old girl who drove her parents' van 75 miles while being pursued by police created the risk that ultimately led to her death, a federal judge says.

U.S. District Judge Wayne Alley ruled Monday that Alysia Rowe's family wasn't entitled to monetary compensation, clearing the city of Marlow and its officers from claims filed in a $5.8 million lawsuit.

Charles Rowe had alleged in the lawsuit filed in the girl's Independence Day 1994 death that officers were negligent and chased Alysia into the crash by failing to stop the pursuit.

"Alysia Rowe created the risk that ultimately led to her death," Alley wrote in his ruling.

He said the girl, formerly of McLoud, ignored officers' warnings and roadblocks before the van crashed into a car dealership near Bowie, Texas.

"For the benefit of society as a whole, the best teaching for a teenager is: 'You must be prepared to accept the consequences of your own conduct,' " Alley wrote.

"The best teaching for a teenager herself, considering all the choices she may make, is: 'You are mortal,' " he said.

Al M. Parsons, one of Rowe's attorneys, said he was shocked by the ruling.

"It appears that he has placed a 13-year-old child in the same category that you would an adult," Parsons said. He said an appeal is likely.

Marlow police Officer Layle Baker started the pursuit after the van was clocked at 84 mph in a 40-mph zone on U.S. Highway 81 in Marlow.

Alysia ignored the officer's lights and sirens, eventually drawing more than a dozen law officers into the 50-minute chase into Texas. Her speed approached 100 mph at times.

Near Bowie, Texas, police blocked east and west traffic to a T-intersection on U.S. 81.

Despite flashing traffic lights and a sign warning of the T-intersection, the teen-ager sped through at 87 mph, the van went airborne and she died instantly after she was ejected. She had taken the van without her parents' permission.

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN LEHTI

PLAGUES OF THE BIBLE

THE FIRST PLAGUE MENTIONED IN THE BIBLE WAS THAT SENT ON THE PHARAOH OF ABRAHAM'S TIME. IT WAS FOR THE PROTECTION OF SARAH, THE WIFE OF ABRAHAM, (GEN. 12:17) THAT THE EGYPTIAN KING DID NOT MAKE HER HIS WIFE. THE NEXT PLAGUES WERE THE TEN INFLICTED ON THE EGYPTIANS IN MOSES' TIME! THESE WERE INFLICTED TO PERSUADE THE PHARAOH TO LET MOSES AND THE ISRAELITES GO OUT OF EGYPT (EX. 7:14-35) FIRST THE RIVER TURNED TO BLOOD, THEN EGYPT WAS OVERRUN WITH FROGS, THEN THE SPREAD OF PESTILENCES LIKE SAND FLIES, OR FLEAS, PRODUCED FROM DUST, THEN SWARMS OF FLIES, THEN BOILS AND SORES ON MAN AND BEAST! THE SEVENTH WAS A DESTRUCTIVE HAILSTORM AND A FLOOD BY THE RIVER NILE! OF COURSE, IT WOUND UP WITH THE DEATH OF ALL FIRST BORN SONS BEFORE PHARAOH WOULD GIVE HIS CONSENT! THERE WERE MORE PLAGUES THROUGHOUT THE HISTORY OF THE ISRAELITES BUT NONE SO SPECTACULAR AS THE "TEN PLAGUES OF EGYPT"--ALTHOUGH THE PLAGUE VISITED ON THE ISRAELITES, (II SAM. 24) BECAUSE KING DAVID NUMBERED THE PEOPLE AGAINST GOD'S WISHES, WAS SPECTACULAR ENOUGH SO THAT 70,000 PEOPLE DIED!

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

GOP drafts stopgap funding legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Facing a midnight deadline, Congressional Republicans drafted stopgap legislation today to fund government operations through April 24 as talks drag on with the White House on a broader spending plan.

Rep. Bob Livingston, R-La., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, indicated the measure would be on the House floor by afternoon. In addition to money to keep dozens of agencies and departments afloat, officials said the bill contains $200 million requested by the Clinton administration for repairing war damage in Bosnia.

Also included is badly needed federal funding for the District of Columbia, enough for the rest of the fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

Senate Democratic Leader Tom Daschle said President Clinton told him he would reluctantly sign the measure. He said Clinton's reluctance stems in part from the fact that many agencies have been receiving only 75 percent of last year's funding levels.

Broader talks in a cramped basement conference room of the Capitol involving congressional Republicans and Democrats as well as the White House have made fitful progress in recent days.

That measure provides roughly $160 billion for the six months left in fiscal 1996. The White House continues to seek more money than the GOP will agree to for education, high technology and other programs.

Also in dispute are several GOP demands to loosen environmental protection of wetlands and forests.

With insufficient time to prepare and pass broader legislation, House Republicans advanced the stopgap measure instead. But Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., said the short-term bill would undermine efforts to finish the broader measure by removing pressure on negotiators to compromise.

"I'm convinced we can do all of this in about an hour, but it depends on when we choose to do it," he said.

Today's stopgap bill would be the 12th such bill since the Oct. 1 beginning of the fiscal year as the GOP majority and the White House have struggled over spending priorities.

One child dead, one injured in grenade explosion today

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — A rocket-propelled grenade exploded today while two children were playing with it, killing one and seriously wounding the other, officials said.

Also today, the NATO-led peacekeeping force and U.N. police monitors said they were investigating reports that Serbs and Muslims traded gunfire just outside Sarajevo, which would be a serious violation of the Bosnian peace accord.

Maj. Peter Bulloch, a NATO spokesman, said there was no confirmation of the gunfire and no reports of injuries.

Both incidents were reported in Grbavica, a former Serb suburb turned over to the Muslim-Croat federation on March 19.

Officials at the State Hospital said 12-year-old Mirza Juhic died when a grenade he was playing with exploded. Another 10-year-old boy was undergoing surgery.

Sarajevo Police Chief Enes Bezdrob said grenades were hurled at Muslim-Croat police while they were questioning four Serb civilians and a man in a Bosnian Serb army uniform seen carrying goods out of a house on the border between federation and Bosnian Serb territory. No injuries were reported.

U.N. police complained earlier today that federation police were still refusing to cooperate with them and threatened to seek economic sanctions against the Muslim-Croat federation.

Cooperation with the Bosnian Serb police force is "very good," the U.N. monitors said.

The U.N. force of 750 unarmed officers monitors freedom of movement, respect for human rights and day-to-day operations of the local police to make sure they meet international police standards.

Palm Sunday service set at First Christian

Services at First Christian on Sunday will feature a solo by Shelly Englert, a member of the SHS choir and the all-state choir, a Palm Sunday processional by the children, and the sermon — "God Works Through Death Instead of Around It" — by Dr. Tim Griffin.

Englert will sing the "Holy City" by Steven Adams and will be accompanied by pianist-organist Reba Bailey. Robert Bailey is the minister of music.
