Bank deposits up $5.5 million

Deposits at Hereford's two banks were recorded at $138.3 million at the close of business on June 30, 1991, reflecting an increase of about $5.5 million over the same time a year ago, according to statements to be published this week.

First National Bank continued to hold the largest deposits at $74.15 million. Hereford State Bank showed a larger increase over the 1990 report with deposits of $64.2 million being about $5.4 million higher than last year.

A check with Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union showed additional deposits of $27.7 million, or a $166 million total for all three financial institutions. HTFCU deposits showed an increase of $3.8 million over the same period a year ago. Local totals and last year's comparisons were not available from AmWest Savings and Bluebonnet Savings.

Loans at FNB were up $1.6 million to $36.7 million from a year ago. HSB loans were up $1 million to $31.4 million. HTFCU loans were up $1.9 million to $16.7 million this year.

Deposits at the financial institutions are traditionally at a peak on the Dec. 31 report. Deposits at the two banks and HTFCU totalled $174.7 million on Dec. 31, 1990.

Hereford's two banks have A-plus ratings in the Sheshunoff Information Services, an organization which publishes ratings and analysis of banks in Texas and the U.S. HSB has had an A-plus ranking for three straight years.

Craig Smith, president of Hereford State Bank, points out that a number of Panhandle banks are listed high in the ratings. First State Bank of Dimmitt also has an A-plus rating, while Friona State Bank, Citizens State of Dalhart, First National of Pampa, First National of Canyon, and First National of Plainview all have "A" ratings. No Amarillo bank had more than a "B" ranking.

Other South Plains banks with A-plus ranking in the Sheshunoff list include First National of Lamesa, First National of Brownfield, and American State of Lubbock.

In Sheshunoff's lists of the highest-rated banks in America, Comerica Bank of Dallas and First National of Abilene are ranked the strongest in Texas. FNB of Abilene is the parent holding company for several banks, including Hereford State.

McLaughlin resigns at Walcott

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Walcott school board accepted the resignation Friday night of Superintendent Dr. Bill McLaughlin, effective Dec. 31.

The board accepted McLaughlin's resignation after meeting in executive session for 85 minutes.

McLaughlin had offered a letter of resignation, during the open meeting, effective next May. The board met for about an hour, then asked McLaughlin to come into the closed session.

McLaughlin came back outside the closed session after about five minutes, went over to former Walcott board vice president Dan Hall, and said, "It's okay."

A short time later, the board reconvened in open session.

Before the vote was taken on McLaughlin, board member J.W. Meyer abruptly resigned. "I have transferred my children out of this district, and I feel it's best for the district if I resign immediately." With the defections of Hall (who recently moved out of the Walcott district) and Meyer, the board has only five members. They unanimously accepted the resignation.

"I thank the board for this," said McLaughlin. "I did wrong and you treated me right."

McLaughlin's resignation was hastened by the recent discovery of transfer violations.

The small, rural district has had a liberal transfer policy in recent years; however, the district did not have enough Hispanic transfers to maintain the racial mix established by the students who actually live in the district and attend Walcott School. That is a violation of a federal court order.

"I did it... I knew about the rule, but I did it because I found it hard to refuse parents with kids wanting to come out here," McLaughlin told the board. "I knew it was good for our school to have more children to interact with."

Later, McLaughlin said, "I didn't think it would hurt the school. I thought I was helping the school."

"Did you know what this could do to the school?" asked board member Jim McGowan.

"Yes," McLaughlin answered.

Board President Susan Perrin said the district's next action is "to turn ourselves in" to the Texas Education Agency. McLaughlin said Hereford Superintendent Charles Greenawalt has offered to write a letter on the Walcott district's behalf.

"Mr. Greenawalt said he thought Walcott should be given a year to get into compliance," McLaughlin said.

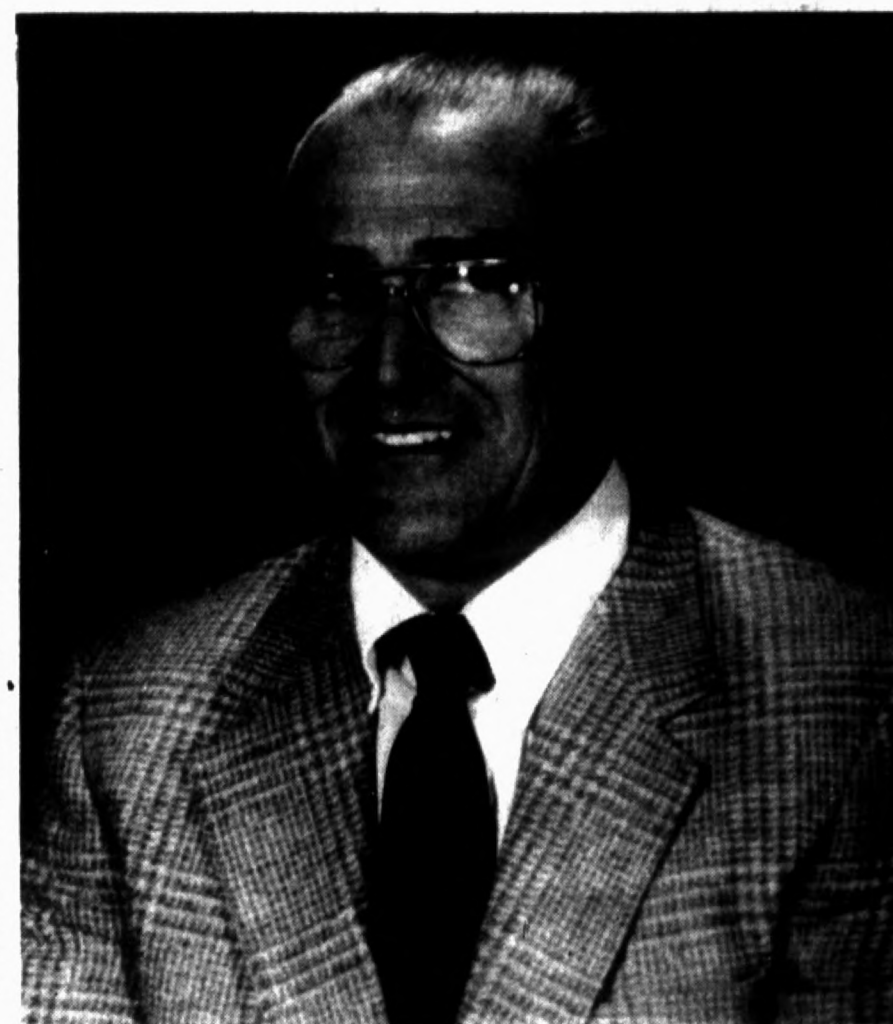

McLaughlin also revealed to the board Friday night that the students transferring from the Hereford school district into Walcott had not signed transfer forms last year. He said he had, during the past week, taken some forms to some students for the 1990-91 school year, and intends to have transfer forms signed and on file for the 1991-92 school year. About 25 children have already been signed up to transfer into the district for the 1991-92 school year.

Perrin said a Texas Association of School Boards official told her the TEA would likely "be kind to us" for the past years' transfer problems, would have someone come to Walcott to help with the situation, and won't cut off the district's accreditation.

"We weren't discriminatory," Perrin said. "We took all transfers."

The board talked briefly about consolidation, which McLaughlin had broached as a solution to the transfer problems. The board, however, quickly shot down the idea.

"This is happening too fast," Susan Perrin said. "We have barely talked about it as a board. It has always been some day in the future," Perrin said any talk of consolidation at present is only speculation.

"Someday it may come up, but I think it's still down the road someday," Meyer said.

Perrin, after the meeting, said the problems created by the transfers, recent TEA visit and others that have cropped up are "nothing we can't work through," and said the district should be able to find "a very capable superintendent."

"The biggest factor working against us is being a small, rural district," Perrin said. "It's not for everyone to live 30 miles from town. It will take the right person to make it go. We have small classes, outstanding teachers, great parents and great kids. For a person looking for the right opportunity it's perfect."

"We are proud of our programs, like Kumon math and the Write-to-Read program we're starting in the fall. It is ideal for someone who wants to work with the kids, to see the kids learn."

Share of the federal dollar

County short on share of federal funds

Direct federal spending in Deaf Smith County amounted to $62.5 million for fiscal year 1990, an increase of 3.9 percent over the previous year, according to a report by the Department of Commerce.

On the national level, direct federal spending increased by 8.1 percent to $1 trillion dollars. In Texas, the total was $58.2 billion or an increase of 6.2 percent.

Direct federal spending includes all expenditures made by the federal government except for federal loans and federally-guaranteed loans, interest payments on the national debt, foreign assistance programs, and expenditures by the Postal Service, CIA and the National Security Agency.

Direct payments to individuals were the largest single source of federal spending in Deaf Smith County for the last fiscal year, ending Sept. 30, 1990. These amounted to $27.8 million. Of this total, $17.6 million consisted of retirement and disability benefits for individuals. These include Social Security retirement and disability payments, retired civil service and military pensions, veterans' benefits and allowances, and expenditures for Medicare. The remaining $10.2 million in direct payments to individuals were mostly those other forms of federal assistance which are usually termed as "transfer payments" or "entitlements." These include food stamp assistance, aid to dependent children, and Pell grant funds for students.

Deaf Smith County was below the state and national averages on a per capita basis for total federal expenditures. The county total averages $3,154 per person, while the state is $3,459 and the national per capita of direct federal expenditures is $4,051.

For direct payments to individuals, the per capita totals are $1,405 in this county, $1,729 statewide, and $2,017 for the national average.

Direct payments to individuals have been the largest single item in the federal budget since 1971. These were $502.9 billion during fiscal year 1990 and accounted for 49.8 percent of all direct federal spending. The payments to individuals was 50 percent of federal spending in Texas during fiscal year 1990. Of the federal expenditures in Deaf Smith County, 44.5 percent were to individuals.

Other departments and agencies of the federal government including the Departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Housing and Urban Development, Interior, Transportation and the Environmental Protection Agency disbursed $25.5 million in Deaf Smith County during the same period. The federal government does not provide a breakdown of these figures on a local basis.

Total actual federal defense expenditures were $225.6 billion last year, a decrease of less than 1 percent over the previous year. Defense spending in Texas declined by 4.4 percent to $15.6 billion.

Computers aid redistrict plan

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

When the consultant on drawing new Deaf Smith County commissioner precinct boundaries came to town last week, he brought with him the latest technology for the chore.

Bob Bass of the Austin law firm of Jim Allison and Associates is not new to the Deaf Smith County situation -- he worked on the boundaries the last time they were changed.

What's different this year are the tools at his disposal. As much a part of his traveling gear as a clean shirt is a personal computer holding a vast amount of information.

An Austin company, Map Resources, Inc., has provided certain materials to the law firm. Census figures came from a data center, also in Austin.

Technology for the work being done throughout Texas to re-draw precinct lines has been around for more than 10 years, reports the Map Resources, Inc., president.

But, until recently, continues Rick Hair, software had to be run on expensive mainframe computers.

Introduction of new technology, though, has allowed personal computers to have power, memory and speed for sophisticated applications.

Counties that choose to do their own precinct boundaries also have tapped the services of Map Resources, Inc. At least 52 counties are in the fold. Many counties also benefit from the company's expertise through consultants, such as the Allison law firm.

The amount of information generated is staggering.

Not only is the ethnic composition of the county detailed, but the percentage of citizens voting, also by ethnic group, is calculated.

This information extends county-wide as well as to "voter tabulation districts," a new phrase for the '90s.

To comply with voting rights legislation, counties are required to create precincts that do not dilute the electoral strength of minority voters.

The result is that precincts of odd shapes have been drawn in some places and the percentage of minority voters in a precinct may be higher than the overall population percentage.

For many years counties were simply quartered for commissioner precincts. The result could be a precinct or two with cities or towns and plenty of voters while the remaining precincts were rural, with not very many residents.

Some candidates were elected in sparsely-populated precincts with few voters while others ran for office in precincts with large population.

To draw boundary lines that would benefit any particular group was known as "gerrymandering." And it was illegal.

One-man, one-vote was translated into voting rights legislation that has changed the way most political subdivision boundaries are drawn.

The situation Bass told Deaf Smith County commissioners to expect is a precinct with at least 65 percent minority voters, in an unusual shape, to give the minority some clout at a ballot box.

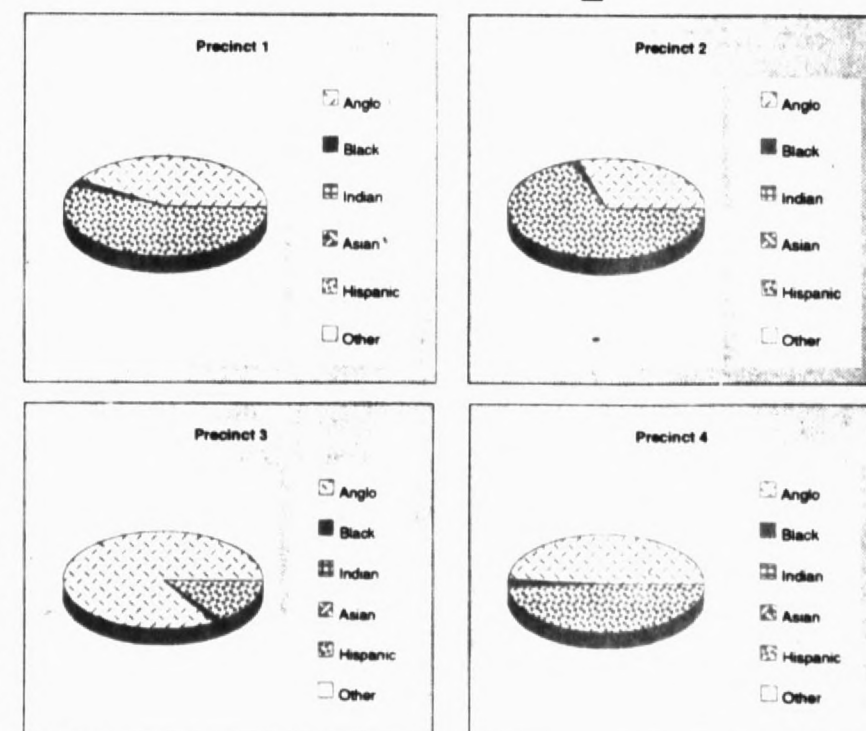

Another precinct will also be populated by a high percentage of Hispanic residents.

The computer system from Map Resources turns out four-color maps that show the boundaries of each precinct.

"Pie" graphs focus attention on ethnic population of Deaf Smith County and on each precinct.

When the re-districting trauma ends, the Austin company believes the same technology will be useful in other ways. One is mapping 911 service; another is in providing schools with population trends to allow better planning for the future.

Commercial applications in telemarketing and sales analysis also are areas that Map Resources expects to tap.

Map Resources took the 1990 U.S. Census showing the Deaf Smith County population at 19,153, a drop of 2,012 from the 1980 count, and basically placed everyone on the map.

The figures show that 1,157 fewer people lived within the "urban" area of the county at the time of the '90 count and rural areas lost 855 people.

Legal advisers and high tech capabilities would seem to be necessary as political subdivisions conform with voting rights laws.

A layperson would have some difficulty putting the law and the statistics together. For that reason, many Texas counties have gone to experts in the field.

Legal advisers and services such as Map Resources can only provide certain expertise. The final word on boundaries comes from elected officials.

Deaf Smith County commissioners decided last Tuesday not to form a citizens committee as some counties will. They believe the issue is not "volatile," primarily because changes in lines are not expected to be drastic.

They hope, though, to draw attention to the changes when they conduct a public hearing to unveil the lines suggested by the consulting law firm.

The commissioners court will encourage public participation in the hearing and solicit comments from the public.

Elected officials are at the forefront in case individuals or groups find reason to complain.

But, one elected official believes, "The ordinary voter isn't all that interested in the lines. Mostly voters want to know where the ballot box will be."

LOCAL ROUNDUP

Police arrest two Friday

Hereford police arrested two persons Friday, including a man, 19, for driving while license suspended, and a man, 27, for domestic violence assault. Reports included domestic violence assaults in the 100 block of Bennett, 200 block of Catalpa and 600 block of Irving; a woman was hit in the head and body by a man in the 500 block of Ave. G; domestic disturbance in the 200 block of Ave. K; criminal mischief in the 500 block of Blevins; theft of beer from a convenience store; burglary in the 300 block of Ave. D; theft of a bike in the 100 block of Kingwood; and theft of a dog in the 100 block of Ave. C.

Police issued 14 citations and investigated a minor accident Friday.

Commissioners meet Monday

A short agenda has been posted for the Monday morning regular meeting of Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court. Among items to be considered will be bids for purchase of a new articulated motor grader for road use in Precinct Four.

Other items for the 9 a.m. meeting will be discussion and approval of a joint election agreement between the county and Hereford Independent School District for the Aug. 10 Constitutional election and special school election and approval of purchase of a copier. An annual report also will be presented from the Deaf Smith County Museum by Donna Brockman.

Crimestoppers offers reward

Deaf Smith County Crimestoppers is offering a reward of up to $300 for information leading to an arrest and indictment in the Crime of the Week.

Hereford police are investigating the burglary of a residence in the 100 block of Nueces that occurred on June 28. Items taken in the burglary totaled over $2,000, and included a Zenith camcorder and a small television.

If you have information about this or any other crime, call the Clue Line at 364-2583. You don't have to give your name; you may remain anonymous by using a code name or number. If your information leads to an arrest and indictment, you will receive a reward of up to $300. All final rewards are determined by the Crimestoppers board of directors.

Reflections on Tierra Blanca

(Editor's Note: The following article was written by Kathy Wyssmann Payne, a 1978 Hereford graduate and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L.E. Hubbard. She attends El Paso Community College and wrote the essay for an English class. Kathy was here this week for her parents' 50th wedding anniversary celebration).

I was born and raised in the small town of Hereford, located in the Panhandle of Texas. As a teenager I soon realized that the activities for kids my age were very limited. There was one show house and a run-down skating rink, both open only on Saturday afternoons. At 13, I found myself with an abundance of free time on my hands. I loved to explore and had a tendency to do so often. I would wander off in search of lost treasures and hidden secrets of nature.

During one particular adventure, despite my parents wishes that I always stay close to home, I decided to stretch my boundaries and journey farther from home than usual. To my astonishment and delight, I had wandered upon a small secluded park surrounded by exhausted weeping willow trees, and what looked like a once abundantly flowing creek—long since properly cared for, now littered with trash and small dead animals.

The playground equipment looked as if it were saddened by lack of attention from playful, carefree children. Next to the littered creek bed leaned a crooked wooden sign, the large faded letters were barely readable, but as I moved closer I managed to make out the words "Tierra Blanca Creek."

I thought to myself, what a beautiful name, Tierra. I felt so welcomed into the midst of what looked like a forgotten place. I was immediately engulfed by Tierra's tranquility and kindness, but at the same time I felt sad as I stood there looking at how run-down she was. I sensed Tierra's desire for the caring touch of human hands. I wanted to make Tierra as beautiful as her name. I started making plans in my head and rushed home to work out the details in the privacy of my bedroom.

After school the next day I left a note for my mom that simply read, "gone exploring." I found the key to my dad's shop and borrowed his rake, some trash bags, a paint brush and small can of red paint.

I raked the fallen leaves, removed the dead animals and painted the sign. After several hours, my task was complete. I was exhausted but Tierra did look beautiful. It was well worth any weariness I felt. As the warm wind slowly swayed the branches on the old willow trees, I felt a deep peace within my soul, and I knew this was my reward.

After many clandestine visits, I decided to mention to my mom that I had made a new "discovery," while exploring. She seemed interested and drove me to Tierra to see my special place. She called Tierra drab and depressing, but agreed that I could continue to walk there since it was not as far from home as she had anticipated.

Like most teenagers, I struggled for independence and Tierra seemed to satisfy my needs. I visited often to read, write in my diary, or just sit and gather my thoughts. My love for reading—and especially John Steinbeck's work—was born sitting on an old blanket near Tierra's creek bed.

My visits to Tierra continued as my teenage years quickly passed into young adulthood. I was now a wife and the mother of two young daughters. My children and I would visit often with picnic lunches for a day of fun and relaxation. My children enjoyed many fun-filled afternoons playing on Tierra's equipment. I cherished the fact that there was an untroubled place I could escape to and enjoy quality time with my girls surrounded by such sweet hospitality.

A few years later I unfortunately found myself in the nucleus of a bad marriage and eventual divorce. It was during this time that I returned to Tierra more frequently. It was there I seemed to find my inner strength to deal with life's problems. She had always provided for me the contentment and space I needed to work out any obstacles in my life.

With every visit in my search for solace and guidance, I felt I had pleasantly distanced from reality, and showered with such peace that I soon began

Schedule of events for Jubilee are listed

Hereford's annual Town & Country Jubilee is scheduled Aug. 4-11. The Jubilee theme of "Hats Off to the Red, White & Blue" will be used for the Jubilee Parade and other events.

The big celebration will climax on Aug. 10, with the parade and Jubilee Junction at Dameron Park. More than 50 food and game booths will be set up in the park, and live entertainment will be provided.

Other events include a softball tournament, style show, arts and crafts bazaar, a Beef Fajita Cookoff, the Greg Black Memorial 10K Run, 2-Mile Fun Run and 2-Mile Walk, and a Friday night dance. Several class reunions are also being planned during the special week.

The Hereford Key Club is renting special red, white and blue bunting for store fronts as momentum builds for the annual celebration. Order forms for the bunting was included in the chamber newsletter which chamber members should have received Friday.

To help begin the Jubilee, the Chamber's Women Division will host a style show on Aug. 6 from 11:45 to 1 p.m. at Hereford Country Club. The Fall Fling/Back-to-School Style Show and Luncheon will feature styles from 11 Hereford merchants. Tickets are $7 per person and are available at the chamber.

Also on Aug. 6, an ice cream social to honor the medical community will be held at the Hereford Community Center, sponsored by the chamber's Health and Safety Committee.

The Jubilee of Arts begins Aug. 9 at Hereford Community Center. Sponsored by the Pilot Club, the bazaar will display a wide variety of arts and crafts. Artists and craftsmen from throughout Texas and New Mexico will be on hand to display and sell some of the finest in original and handcrafted items. Those interested in more information may contact chairperson Linda Minchew at 364-6212 or 364-8053.

The Jubilee of Arts will be open from noon to 8 p.m. on Friday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 9-10. The Tourjour Amis Study Club will again offer ice cream crepes for those attending the bazaar.

The third annual Beef Fajita Cookoff, sponsored by the Hereford Cattlewomen, will be Aug. 9, at Veterans Park. Judging begins at 6:30 p.m., with public tasting at 7 p.m. The cookoff will bring in entries from throughout the area, and it will be a "tasty" way for folks to salute the beef industry during the Jubilee, according to the Cattlewomen. Contact Pam Wagner (364-3870 or 276-5241) or the chamber for information on entering the event.

The second annual Jubilee Softball Classic will be held Aug. 9-11 at the Nazarene Church. The tourney is open to all Class D players. For more information, contact Mark Andrews at 364-7792.

The County Volunteer Board will sponsor a dance Friday night, Aug. 9, at Sugarland Mall. Local band "Animacion" will play rock and country music for the Jubilee Dance, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

After the 10K Run (Sponsored by the Hereford YMCA and Hereford Cablevision) Saturday morning, Aug. 10, the Jubilee Parade starts at 10:30 a.m. from Hereford High School. The Whiteface Kiwanis Club will again be in charge of the parade. For more information, contact the chamber office or parade chairman Wayne Keeter (364-1322).

Parade categories will include commercial, community services, religious, agribusiness, open division, and overall. Local businesses are invited to enter and have their firms represented.

At the conclusion of the parade, the action begins at Jubilee Junction in Dameron Park. The food booths will include barbecue, hamburgers, steak-on-a-stick, fajitas, cotton candy, Dole Whip ice cream and more.

A number of game booths will be in the park, and the YMCA will be providing volleyball matches, horseshoe competition and washer pitching. There will also be a Petting Zoo and a pet parade. Live entertainment will be performed at the Jubilee Junction Stage through the afternoon.

Interested citizens who have questions about the Jubilee or want more information or invited to call the chamber office, 364-3333.

Reflections on creek

Clouds are reflected from the waters of Tierra Blanca Creek. The usually dry creek has been replenished, for a while, by last weekend's heavy rains on the creek's watershed.

referring to Tierra as my Eden. When I was happy, she seemed to rejoice, and when I felt sad, she comforted me.

I distinctly remember the day I went to say goodbye to Tierra. I had remarried and we were moving to another city. I was crying like there had been a death in my family; I felt as if I were losing my best friend. While bidding last farewell, it started to rain softly. I knew these were Tierra's tears of sadness. Our relationship was coming to an end, but the bonding we had acquired over many years would be forever.

Before we moved I had subscribed to my hometown newspaper, The Hereford Brand. One morning while I was catching up on the news from back home, I came across a new addition—a column that started with "That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says..." Every week the paragraph would be on a different subject, such as love, trust, joy, peace, strength, etc. ...the basics of life. I think someone from The Brand must have spent some quality time at Tierra.

I have relocated many times and my attempts in locating another Tierra have been sadly unsuccessful. Tierra holds great significance for me. It was there that I learned the priceless gift of being along, the joy of getting to know myself, and the realization that I possess an inner strength that I was not aware existed.

Whenever I return home for family visits, I always make a special trip down the same path I traveled so many times as a teenager and young adult to visit my precious Eden. I am once again engulfed with peace and love that she hold just for me.

Absentee voting in special elections starting Monday

Voters may cast absentee ballots in the Deaf Smith County Clerk's office, beginning Monday, in the Aug. 10 special elections.

The county will conduct the election on two proposed Constitutional amendments. School districts in Texas will conduct an election related to the new County Election District taxing capabilities.

Deaf Smith County and Hereford Independent School District have agreed to hold elections at the same locations.

Texas are being called on to decide on the amendment ballot if County Election Districts may permit certain tax exemptions and on the other ballot what those exemptions will be.

The second Constitutional Amendment will decide if the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board may issue bonds to finance educational loans to students.

In the CED election, the vote will determine if tangible personal property, such as automobiles, will be exempt from taxation, and if property exemptions will be allowed. The property exemptions are $10,000 on homes of persons over age 65 or disabled and 20 percent of market value on all homes.

The Constitutional amendment election also will give Texas voters a voice on whether the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board should have the authority to issue and sell up to $300 million in general obligation bonds to finance educational loans to students.

Stevens earns award

Jerry Stevens of Stevens Chevrolet-Oldsmobile in Hereford has recently received sales awards from Chevrolet Motor Division.

He was recognized for his sales achievement in two of Chevrolet's national recognition programs for retail sales people.

This is the 14th year Stevens has been awarded membership by Chevrolet in their Legion of Leaders and Truck Sales Hall of Fame sales programs.

Bizarre cases focus around wax museum

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) - After two unexplained deaths and a multimillion-dollar fire, officials have more questions than answers in a bizarre wax museum mystery that stretches back to 1984.

"There is a lot of information about this thing," said deputy police chief Rick White. "... with the wax museum being the common link."

Possible motives for the murder of the museum's co-owner include gunrunning, drug trafficking and illegal alien smuggling, investigators say.

"I've heard all those mentioned," White said.

But no charges have been filed in any of the cases that baffle authorities in two Dallas suburbs. Important records are missing and a key suspect in the spectacular fire that destroyed the museum is dead, killed by a policeman serving as a race marshal.

Arlington police began asking questions in October 1987 when the wax museum co-owner, Patricia Bolton Wright, died in convulsions. To help her sleep, she had taken an over-the-counter cold remedy. The medication had been laced with enough strychnine to kill a horse, and investigators ruled out random tampering.

"We feel the person was intending to kill Patsy Wright," said police spokesman Dee Anderson.

No one was ever charged in the case, which remains open.

Eleven months after Ms. Wright's death, fire engulfed the Wax Museum of the Southwest melting more than 300 figures, a collection that took 25 years to build. The figures and a large collection of antiques and memorabilia destroyed may have been worth $4 million, officials said.

Fire officials were told a faulty electrical box sparked the fire at the popular tourist attraction.

A preliminary ruling of "accidental," based on information at the scene, was changed within days to "undetermined," fire Lt. Doug Conner said.

To Conner, there's no question the September 1988 fire was arson.

"In the matter of a few minutes the whole building was totally involved," Conner said. "That just does not happen."

However, the investigation was hampered when the original file disappeared from a locked file drawer in a locked room at the Grand Prairie Fire Dept.

"It did end up missing and never did rematerialize," Conner said. He managed to piece together the pertinent information needed to continue the inquest.

The year after the fire, with no suspects in sight, Ms. Wright's ex-husband, Bill Wright, and her sister, Sally Horning, hired private investigator William C. Dear.

While looking into Ms. Wright's death, the detective became suspicious about an earlier death linked to the museum: Lori Ann Phillips Williams, Ms. Wright's secretary, who died in September 1984.

The 23-year-old aspiring model had gone to the hospital complaining of severe abdominal pains. Doctors removed her appendix, but the organ was found to be healthy.

She died within days and an autopsy concluded she died of complications from viral pneumonia.

Dear theorized Ms. Williams had also been poisoned and suggested that the body be exhumed for toxicology tests.

"I think Lori Williams was murdered to scare Patsy Wright to death," said Dear, who believed Ms. Wright had stumbled onto something sinister at the wax museum.

Dear won't say for the record just what he suspects she found, and multiple investigations have never turned up evidence of illegal activity.

Museum owners, aware of the swirl of rumors, referred all questions to attorney Phil Burleson Sr. who discounted speculation the attraction is a cover for any illegal activity.

Much of Ms. Williams' file was missing from the hospital where she died. But the detective's poisoning theory sounded plausible to Dr. H. Reginald McDaniel, chief pathologist at Dallas-Fort Worth Medical Center, who performed the original autopsy.

Ms. Williams' body was exhumed in September 1989, five years after her death, and McDaniel performed a second autopsy.

Lab tests failed to detect any trace of arsenic, which would have remained in her tissue. But the test would not have been able to find strychnine, which killed Ms. Wright.

After the second autopsy, Dear was fired by Ms. Horning, 48, and her husband, Stephen P. Horning, 42.

Burleson declined to say why Dear was dismissed. However, he said the Hornings were still "very much" interested in solving Ms. Wright's murder and were "making efforts" in that direction. He declined to say what those efforts were.

Dear remains on the case, working for his own satisfaction.

He has reconstructed Ms. Wright's bedroom in his office building and invites visitors or students at his private eye school to rehash the clues.

A bottle of cold medicine is on the night table. A female mannequin, limbs contorted, lies on the bed.

The detective had hoped the key to the case would come from Stanley Lester Poyner, a 25-year-old student mortician once questioned about the museum fire.

Poyner was arrested in September 1989, accused of pilfering a ledger from the museum's charred business office.

"He claimed he was taking a souvenir," Dear said. "He would have had to cross the entire wax museum, passing hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of artifacts, including Jesse James' guns, and climb up on a chair to get this ledger off a shelf."

The detective also believes Poyner was seeking material he could use for blackmail. "Poyner didn't have a dime until after the fire - then he started preparing to make some major purchases," including a lake lot, mobile home and boat, Dear said.

"It was getting up in the hundreds of thousands of dollars," he said.

Poyner died April 13 in a confrontation with an off-duty Dallas policeman.

Detective Gordon Hager, working for the ninth annual Azalea Run, was run down by Poyner, who refused to stop his car at an intersection.

"The officer was out directing traffic, he signalled for the car to stop and the car just struck him," said police Sgt. James L. Chandler.

Hager, clinging to the hood of the Volkswagen, fired his 9mm semiautomatic pistol six times through the windshield as he was carried 300 feet.

The officer was not seriously hurt, but Poyner was killed. Grand jurors later declined to indict Hager.

Poyner had been wanted on two outstanding warrants, alleging felony arson in Austin and theft in Dallas County, Chandler said.

Austin police said the warrant stemmed from a December 1990 fire in the bathroom of a church youth center. Poyner was questioned about the blaze, but disappeared after giving investigators a false name.

"The facts that came out about Stanley Poyner at the time of his death just renewed the intrigue that surrounds this thing," deputy police chief White said.

"We hope to get that final piece of evidence that allows you to put the pieces of the puzzle together," he said.

The 7-year statute of limitations on the fire investigation runs out in 1995. But there is no such limitation on homicide.

"All it will take to break this case is one phone call," said Dear. "One person who knows something."

Amidst the ashes and unanswered questions, the museum reopened in 1990 as the Palace of Wax.

"There's a certain fascination that keeps people coming back," said museum official Drew Hunter, who plays "Dr. Blood," a grisly guide at the attraction.

"It's a weird fascination that people have," he said. "It's very classic, a fear of getting locked in there after the place closes and having someone come along and throw them in a vat of wax."

All progress is the result of change, but all change is not progress.--Bits & Pieces

Tuesday night's Hereford City Commission meeting was a big topic of conversation around town this week. It wasn't taxes or a budget hearing that drew the attention of citizens--it was the city's pet control methods and retiring City Manager Darwin McGill's "pet peeves."

We learned early in our newspaper career that the quickest way to draw the ire of some readers was to report something negative about their pets, kids or pocketbooks.

McGill, who retires next month, took some parting shots at some of his critics, including Commissioner Emory Brownlow as well as people who have complained long and hard about management of the city golf course. In our opinion, the city manager's parting barbs had more to do with personality clashes than with city problems.

Any city manager will get some criticism, and we think it's good to have someone on the city commission like Brownlow who asks the tough questions. Whether or not Brownlow's criticisms were above and beyond the "call of duty" will have to be judged by others. Apparently McGill felt that was the case.

McGill has done a good job in balancing the city's checkbook, but we believe he over-reacted to a few critics. Oh, well, different strokes for different folks.

"Everybody is ignorant only on different subjects," said Will Rogers. Wish I'd come up with that. Every day I read or hear a statement or phrase that I really wish I had authored.

We've always liked Will Rogers' quotes, even if he hadn't been the one to say, "Well, all I know is what I read in the papers."

Some of his statements on politics are as good today as when he said them many years ago: "Never blame a legislative body for not doing something. When they do nothing, that don't hurt anybody. When they do something is when they become dangerous." And about the money spent on government: "It's not one bit better than the government we got for one-third the money 20 years ago."

And his off-quoted statement, "I never met a man I didn't like," must have come right from the Golden Rule.

There are a lot of these classic statements that have been compiled in a book by Robert Byrne, "The 637 Best Things Anybody Ever Said." I haven't read the book but Linda Anderson of the Midland Reporter Telegram gives us some examples:

--"It is only possible to live happily ever after on a day-to-day basis." Margaret Bonnano

--"The reason grandparents and grandchildren get along so well is that they have a common enemy." Sam Levenson

--Living with someone else is never easy, which led Robert Nevelle to say, "Living with a saint is more grueling than being one."

--In search for understanding and fulfillment, James Thurber cautioned, "It is better to know some of the questions than all of the answers."

--Children inspire some of the best quotes which most parents can relate to, such as: "There's nothing wrong with teenagers that reasoning with them won't aggravate."

--Alice Roosevelt Longworth, famous daughter of President Teddy Roosevelt, had a simple philosophy: "Fill what's empty; empty what's full; scratch where it itches."

--John Raper said, "There is no pleasure in having nothing to do...the fun is having lots to do and not doing it."

--"They say you can't do it, but sometimes it doesn't always work." Casey Stengel, baseball great

--"Nolan Ryan is pitching much better now that he has his curve ball straightened out," Joe Garagiola, another baseball great

--And Yogi Berra was perhaps the top baseball philosopher: "The game isn't over until it's over."

I don't know if it was in the book or not, but we'll close with a statement attributed to Pancho Villa on his deathbed: "Don't let it end like this. Tell them I said something."

I got this letter in the mail the other day from the State of Texas.

Greetings:

You have been selected as one of the 500,000 Texans that will be ignored for the next 10 years.

As you may have seen in the news, the Secretary of Commerce, Robert Mosbacher, has decided not to accept "official estimates" of changes in the U.S. Census. According to those official estimates, Census Bureau workers overlooked a half-million people in Texas in 1990.

Because of this small oversight, Texas will likely lose about $1 billion in federal funds we would have received if the official estimate, and not the "final" census figures, had been used.

Because we must now make cuts in order to make our dollars stretch further, you will be ignored for the next 10 years. You will not receive any type of state services. You will not have to pay taxes, but you also don't get to vote.

Since you are officially a non-person for the next 10 years, you better hope you don't lose your job. You will not be allowed to file for unemployment benefits.

If you plan to visit a state park, be prepared to pay the out-of-state visitor fees. You must also get a non-resident fishing and hunting license.

The good news: you don't have to get a new driver's license, and your license plates are good until the year

2001, when you may have the opportunity to again be a resident of the great state of Texas.

Yours truly,
Annie

From the home office in Ajo, Arizona, the Top 10 ways we can prevent people from consuming alcoholic beverages while at the local golf course:

10. Make all coolers go through an airport X-ray machine.

9. Use special alcohol-sniffing dog Spuds McKenzie.

8. Make all golfers submit to breathalyzer test after playing six holes of golf.

7. Darwin McGill is retiring and could probably use the extra bucks. Let him patrol the golf course--with his video camera.

6. Make all golfers caught drinking go "Bobbing for golf balls" when Tierra Blanca Creek is a creek.

5. Replace all water fountains with kegs of Sharp's non-alcoholic brew.

4. Use special "Budweiser Attack Cats" bred in Golden, Colo.

3. Ban the use of special St. Bernard-ball-retrieving dogs.

2. Golfers who are caught drinking on the golf course have to serve for a year on the golf course advisory committee with Joe Kerr and Ron Weishaar.

1. Have the animal control officers patrol the course and use their dart guns to tranquilize beer drinkers.

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal on continuing threat of Iraq: The Mideast "war," or rather its aftermath, isn't over by any means. If that hasn't been apparent the past several weeks in what has happened to the Kurdish and Shiite refugees, it became abundantly so in a new report the past few days on the ecological disaster in Kuwait and the dispute over Iraq's nuclear capability.

The most ominous note this weekend was the joint warning by President Bush and French President Francois Mitterrand that force was still an option in dealing with Saddam Hussein and his nuclear potential.

Baghdad's nuclear program is a "cause of alarm all over the world," the President said only a short time after Mr. Mitterrand said military action would be "just" if Baghdad continued development of nuclear weapons or threatened Kurds or other minorities.

Would a continued nuclear inspection standoff, further harassment of the Kurds and mounting anger over the Kuwaiti oil sabotage be grounds for a new military strike against Iraq?

There are those, no doubt, who want no part of a new shooting situation in the Mideast. The truth of the matter is we did not finish the war and may have to go in and do what should have been done in the first place.

July 14

Dallas Morning News on cabinet switch:

Way back in 1876, with Reconstruction having just ended, the writers of the current Texas constitution determined that the state would have a weak legislature - and a weaker governor. That concept still operates today.

The upshot is an executive branch at war with its leader, or at least without the slightest interest in the current governor's success. The only way a new governor can deal with the situation is to drive previous appointees off the boards through harassment and public clashes.

This is bad for the governor and bad for Texas.

Governors should be able to implement their programs as soon as they take office, and the people of Texas should be able to hold the governor accountable for the overall performance of the executive branch. That is the way the federal system works, and it works fine. In other words, Texas needs a form of "cabinet government."

At long last, a Texas governor has stepped up to the plate and taken a swing at that ball. Gov. Ann Richards has said, yes, I want to be able to appoint the folks who will call the shots in state agencies. ...

A simplified, cabinet system of state government makes sense. Gov. Richards is to be commended for trying to bring about this needed reform.

July 14

Dallas Times Herald on Judge Clarence Thomas:

Since President Bush nominated him to the Supreme court, Judge Clarence Thomas has emerged as a man of intelligence, perseverance and independent thinking. But now something troubling has crept in: According to a copyright story in the Times Herald, Mr. Thomas twice has included in the text of his speeches statements of personal admiration for Louis Farrakhan, who is best known for virulent anti-Semitism. ...

While we understand that Mr. Farrakhan has a certain following among blacks, it must also be understood that to praise this man is akin to an Anglo heaping admiration on David Duke. Both Messrs. Duke and Farrakhan are outside the limits of civilized discourse. This is not political correctness. This is simple decency. ...

The other (issue) is the matter of Mr. Thomas' conservatism. ...

(Conservatism is not an illogical direction for achieving African-Americans since the national debate on most matters is definitely occurring right of center. Surely, in an ever-changing world, no community or group should rope itself off permanently from new perspectives. ...

The worrisome thing is this: Has Mr. Thomas' embrace of conservatism come at such a cost that unresolved anger bubbles up in pro-Farrakhan sentiments? We are not suggesting that all black conservatives have disturbed psychologies. That would be absurd. We are saying that Mr. Thomas may be revealing an anger at the center that finds release along inappropriate - even dangerous - avenues. Mr. Thomas is young. He may need more time to wrestle with these excruciating issues of the spirit before ascending to the high court.

Congress uses tricks for pay raise

By WALTER R. MEARS

AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) - It was a dark and sultry night.

Just the setting for the latest episode in the long-playing serial on congressional pay. This one stuck to the script.

Voting itself a $23,200 raise, the Senate squared its salaries with the House, where not only the members but at least 81 top aides were being paid more than senators.

That, finally, was affront enough to Senate sensibilities to override political sensitivities and get the raise passed, third time around. The posturing on earlier pay and ethics measures had started a sequence that sent House salaries higher than those in the Senate at the beginning of 1991.

"It is demeaning to the United States Senate to be a second-class body," said Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., who sponsored the pay raise amendment to a congressional appropriations bill.

The pay raise was proposed without advance notice Wednesday night after the Senate leaders backing it decided they finally had enough votes to get it done. They did, 53 to 45, with 23 senators who will be seeking re-election next year voting against the raise.

Once they'd lined up their majority on Wednesday, pay raise sponsors passed word that they could afford some no votes from 1992 candidates. The nighttime vote was being planned by Wednesday morning.

Vice President Dan Quayle was making a round of appearances in New Hampshire when Senate GOP aides sent word to his staff that he might be needed back in Washington to break a tie vote and approve the raise.

They need not have bothered. That's a no-win vote no politician would cast.

Quayle stayed in New Hampshire.

Congressional pay is a political problem every time it comes up. This round has been a particular headache since early 1989, when the House scuttled an automatic system that had been devised to produce pay raises without votes that could haunt a member at campaign time.

That led to the ethics and pay quandary and, for the third time in history, to different salaries for senators and representatives. When this Senate raise takes effect, congressional pay will be even again, at $125,100 a year.

As part of the pay bargain, the Senate voted to ban the practice of making speeches for pay, and to limit other outside earnings to 15 percent of salary. The House already has done so.

While the vote came late, after a relatively brief debate on a topic that had been argued for days in earlier episodes, Sen. George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, the majority leader, said it wasn't one that could or would escape criticism.

But that will come after the fact. A pay bill debated in advance would have risked the kind of backlash stirred by congressional pay raises ever since the first one, 175 years ago.

One 19th Century political storm led to a freeze on congressional pay that lasted for 33 years.

The Senate raise came with some political insulation. Republican leaders backed it, too, and the votes to approve it came from both parties in nearly even shares.

"It's not a pay raise, it's a pay equalization," said Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska.

But when the issue is pay, it isn't the party line that worries members of Congress. It is, as Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., observed, fear of the 30-second television spot in the next campaign.

While congressional pay scales certainly aren't excessive by comparison with what many members could make elsewhere, $121,500 is a lot more money than most constituents earn, and that fuels the issue.

Byrd called the Senate the world's most important board of directors, and said it ought to be paid accordingly. Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas said the people of his state would understand.

After an 1873 pay raise, a Wisconsin senator said his constituents didn't want him living in an attic on crackers and cheese, and believed a senator "ought to have as much brains" as a banker or insurance executive, with a salary to match.

He lost the next election.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The Hereford Area Food Council, working with Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, is working to create new jobs in value-added agriculture. New jobs created by adding value to our many agricultural products can and will create many new jobs in merchandising and services in our county.

However, we are blessed in our community in that the most progressive sector is our Seniors. They have led the way and are inspiring us upward and onward.

This could be our largest growth opportunity, so here are my 10 reasons for retiring in Hereford, Texas:

1. The finest Senior Citizen Center in the U.S., a model for others.
2. Lovely homes at half the national average cost per square foot.
3. Major national medical center complex only 45 miles away.
4. A beautiful 18-hole golf course, with an annual $125 fee for Seniors on weekdays.
5. Several retirement apartment complexes near the Senior Center.

6. Extensive care centers for elderly patients or other family.

7. A four-seasons climate, mostly beautiful days at 3,800 feet altitude.

8. Beautiful churches in a harmonious, progressive and caring community.

9. Deaf Smith County is long famous for its soil and water.

10. Centrally located in the Southern U.S. for air or auto travel.

The above 10 reasons could be put into an advertisement in the national AARP Bulletin for a minimal cost. Those responding to the ad could receive a quality brochure showing our Senior Citizen Center, apartments, churches, golf course, and a listing from each of our Realtors.

Our banks and Realtors could be well served by joining with the Chamber of Commerce in paying for the ads and developing the brochure.

Deaf Smith County was developed by bringing good farmers from the Midwest. Now, let's bring Seniors from all over the nation. We have much to offer.

The new book list this week begins with Master-Class by Morris West. Maxwell Mather considered himself lucky; he was in excellent health, had a comfortable bank balance, a modest reputation as a scholar, an occupation which did not ever tax him and a generous patroness who lodged him in discreet luxury.

Max is an American art historian and the lover of Pia Palomini, a millionaire's scion of a noble Italian family. When Pia discovers she has a wasting and atrophying malady of the nervous system, she knows there is no cure. Pia has no idea how swift or slow death will be in coming. Pia asked Max if he would stay and he said yes. When she asked why Max said it was because he loved her.

Max is very good to Pia during the last days and when she dies Pia leaves Max a choice of works from the archive. Max discovers a cache of priceless works buried under a pile of musty volumes and although the paintings are technically his, that ownership will be contested by Pia's family. So Max embarks on an elaborate, ambitious scam that catapults him into the intrigues of the international art world and the middle of an unsolved murder.

Judith McNaught a romance novelist has a new book entitled Paradise. Meredith Bancroft, daughter of Phillip Bancroft president of the elegant department stores Bancroft & Company, first met Matthew Farrell when she was 18. From that day on her life was never the same. Meredith the cool blond graceful beauty was linked with the socially prominent but instead of becoming romantically involved she remains mysterious, aloof and alone. When Meredith and Matt first met Matt was a steelworker with a second job as a mechanic. She never dreamed he would become a part of rich and powerful in just a few years. Meredith remembers that night when she defied her tyrannical father for the sexually magnetic, intense dashing Matt Farrell. The disastrous outcome left a burning, bitter legacy of love somehow betrayed. Now when the Bancroft empire is threatened by a hostile takeover attempt, Meredith is forced to turn to Matt. As tension builds between them sparks fly, bittersweet memories surface leaving the both uncertain, restless, suspicious and falling in love again.

All the Pain That Money Can Buy: the Life of Christina Onassis by William Wright is the compelling story of a childhood of incredible luxury, with an overbearing father and a preoccupied mother. Within a two year period, she lost her brother in a fluke plane crash, her mother to a suspected drug overdose, and her father to a fatal illness. At the age of 24 Christina was alone and one of the richest young women in the world. A bright, strong-spirited woman, Christina struggled to overcome the staggering jolts that life dealt her, such as four failed marriages, a chronic weight problem and violent mood swings. Among Christina's accomplishments were her remarkable success with the shipping company when other shippers were failing, and her shrewd deflection of Jackie's greed after her father's death. The sudden death of Christina at the age of 37 shocked the world.

Frame-Up! the Untold Story of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle by Andy Edmonds is the story of the highest paid film comedian of the 1920s. Known as "The Ballonatic" and the "Prince of Whales" Arbuckle had three films in the can, was happily married and at the peak of his success when his world fell apart. On Sept. 5, 1921, Arbuckle threw an outrageous party to celebrate his new three million dollar paramount contract. The boozing and dancing was abruptly ended when a starlet named Virginia Rappe let out a horrified scream. Arbuckle was accused of assaulting Rappe with a champagne bottle. Five days later Rappe died and Arbuckle was charged with first-degree murder. With witnesses say Arbuckle was nowhere near Rappe when she screamed, Arbuckle still found himself railroaded through three trials before being acquitted. Why would anyone want to ruin America's funniest man and who was involved?

Hints from Heloise

Dear Readers: Did you know a dog or cat could suffer brain damage and eventually die if kept in a car when the temperature outside is only 85 degrees?

Even though you may think it's not really hot and the windows are left open a few inches, the temperature in the car can reach 102 in less than 10 minutes. After 30 minutes it can get as high as 120 degrees. Would you want to sit there?

You're not doing your pet a favor by taking it with you when shopping or running errands. Even though most dogs love to go for a ride, don't park the car and leave your pet in the heat. There have been many cases in which animals have died from being left in a car when the owner was just going to run in for a few minutes. Is it worth taking a chance?

Keep your pets cool especially in the summer and leave them at home when running errands. — Heloise

FLAT SODA

Dear Heloise: After throwing away many half-full bottles of soda because they went flat, I tried something new.

I poured the flat soda in an ice-cube tray and froze it. These ice cubes are perfect to put in soda because they don't dilute it like the regular ones. — Mary Harris, Victoria, Texas

PET PALS

Dear Heloise: You're not going to believe this one! I went to a new beauty parlor last week and saw a little dog working there.

He is a dachshund, real low to the ground. Well, the beauty operator hung a couple of small magnets on his collar, which almost touched the floor.

Well, as he walked along, the magnets picked up all the stray hairpins and other small metal objects that were on the floor.

It was hilarious to watch him circulating around the place. That's one dog that sure earns his keep. — Whitney Simmons, Portland, Ore.

HOOK HOLDER

Dear Heloise: When transporting my fishing rods, I found that the hook attaches to just about anything, including me.

To prevent that, I now place the exposed hook inside an empty film container and gently snap the cap on. The seal is such that it doesn't damage the line.

No more snags! — Rick Young, Indianapolis, Ind.

FOIL BALLOONS

Dear Heloise: Here's another great use for foil balloons.

Cut off the neck, trim the edges or scallop them. Tie a ribbon around the middle and pull tight. There you have it, a great bow!

It's terrific, especially for children's gifts. — Patricia A. Brooks, Perth Amboy, N.J.

Thanks so much for your hint. It's a great recycling tip too! — Heloise

There is no single cat called a panther. The name is commonly applied to the leopard, puma, and the jaguar.

Ready to spike

Danielle Cornelius jumps and waits for the ball to come down for a monster spike in a game Friday at the Lady Whiteface Volleyball Camp. Camp director Brenda Reeh said 71 girls attended the camp. Three "big" awards were given out: the Lady Whiteface Award went to Brooke Bryant; the Fighting Heart went to Jessica Evers; and Bree Perrin was named the Most Improved Camper.

Mines wins in Pampa

Jayson Mines of Hereford won the 16-18 age group of a West Texas PGA Junior Tournament played Friday at Pampa Country Club. Mines shot 75, beating second-place finisher Trae Walls of Pampa by four strokes. In the same tournament but in the 12-13 age group, Sabino Grijalva, also of Hereford, shot an 86 to finish third. Joshua McCoy of Perryton had a 73 to win that division.

Jubilee Classic set

The Second Annual Hereford Jubilee Softball Classic will be played Aug. 9, 10 and 11.

The tournament, sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and Church of the Nazarene, is for Class "D" teams and players only. In addition to USSSA rules, the three home run rule will be used. Teams must furnish their own Blue Stitch balls.

Olds scramble set in August

The Oldsmobile Scramble Golf Tournament, sponsored by Stevens Chevrolet-Oldsmobile in Hereford, will be played Aug. 4 at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Winning teams from the Hereford tournament will advance to the Sectional Championship Aug. 29 at the Green Tree Country Club in Midland.

For more information, contact Brent Warner, Pitman course pro, at 364-2782.

More than 114,000 amateurs participated in these tournaments nationally in 1990.

Three unknowns lead British Open

By STEVE WILSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — An odd threesome of outsiders — an obscure American, a tired Brit with "yuppie flu" and an Australian who can't jog straight — lead the British Wide, Wide Open.

The biggest weekend blast in the championship's 120-year history begins today at windblown Royal Birkdale with 113 players making the cut from the 156 in the original field.

One shaky stroke ahead of the rest at 2-under-par 138 after two rounds are Gary Hallberg, Andy Oldcorn and Mike Harwood, hardly names to scare off the giants of the game breathing down their necks.

Three-time winner Seve Ballesteros is right there in a group at 139. Five-time champion Tom Watson is poised to go for them at 141. Masters champ Ian Woosnam and always dangerous Greg Norman are in striking distance at 142, as are two-time winners Lee Trevino and Nick Faldo at 143 and three-time winner Jack Nicklaus at 145.

Heck, with the wild winds and on-again, off-again showers, everybody who made the cut by virtue of being within 10 strokes of the leaders is in the hunt for the $150,000 title.

British bookies rate Ballesteros the favorite at 11-2, followed by Faldo at 8-1 and Woosnam at 9-1.

But they probably would have given 1,000,000-1 odds that Hallberg, Oldcorn and Harwood would be leading at this point, if anyone had thought of them.

Who are these guys?

Hallberg has been shuffling around the PGA Tour for 11 years, winning only twice — the San Diego Open in 1983 and the Greater Milwaukee Open in 1987.

"I have been in the hollows, and my peaks have been brief," he said humbly.

He gained his new prominence by sinking a 30-foot putt on 18 to polish off a round of 70.

"Three birdies was a real class way to finish," Hallberg said. "I played a little more aggressively."

Oldcorn's case is more interesting, medically speaking. He has suffered since 1989 from the mysterious chronic fatigue syndrome, sometimes called "yuppie flu."

"I want this to be a signal to other people who get the disease that it is not a bottomless pit. You can get out of it," he said.

He said the disease "totally obliterated" his 1989 season, limited his play last season and caused him to lose his status on the European Tour.

The illness left Oldcorn, 32, so weak he could hardly walk around the block, much less imagine marching over 36 holes into the British Open lead.

"I am still battling to get through it, as I still feel the effects of it. When I got tired on the course and started picking up shots, the adrenalin kept me going toward the end," he said.

Oldcorn, playing in the next-to-last group Friday, realized on 17 that he had a chance to join the leaders.

On the 18th, his birdie attempt from a greenside bunker barely missed, hopping over the hole and rolling just past it. If the ball had gone in and he had finished at 137, 16 players at 148 would have missed the cut.

Harwood, an Australian who won the British PGA last year, had a less serious medical problem. He missed seven weeks earlier this year after cracking a rib while jogging.

"I fell over and hit my chest on a root of a tree," he said.

But the recuperation period turned out to be good for his golf, giving him a break from the game.

He's in his best position ever in his sixth Open. All he and Oldcorn and Hallberg have to worry about is the 110 others still in the tournament taking aim at them.

Tigers get revenge

By The Associated Press

Five days later, the rout was reversed.

This time, the Detroit Tigers were doing all the scoring and Kansas City was waiting for nine miserable innings to come to an end.

The Royals suffered their worst loss ever as Tony Phillips drove in a career-high five runs Friday night in a 17-0 rout. The largest previous defeat for Kansas City was an 18-3 loss at California on Sept. 18, 1986.

"It was a slow game and a bad game," Royals manager Hal McRae said. "We had mistakes, errors and balls that should have been caught. It was one that in about the sixth inning you wanted to get over."

Scott Livingstone made his major league debut by going 3-for-5 and scoring four runs for the Tigers.

In other games, Baltimore beat Seattle 4-1, Chicago beat Milwaukee 14-3, New York beat Oakland 3-0, Cleveland beat California 4-2 in 11 innings, Minnesota beat Boston 3-2 in 11 innings and Toronto beat Texas 7-2.

Blue Jays 7, Rangers 2

Todd Stottlemyre (10-3) allowed five hits in seven shutout innings and tied a career-high with eight strikeouts, and newcomer Cory Snyder drove in three runs.

John Barfield (4-4) gave up five runs and nine hits in four innings. Texas has lost five straight and eight of nine since the All-Star break.

Caminiti clubs Cubs

Ken Caminiti hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning to lift Houston over Chicago 5-2.

Pete Harnisch (6-7) pitched eight innings, allowing two runs and five hits while striking out eight for the victory. Jim Clancy got two outs in the ninth and Al Osuna finished for his seventh save.

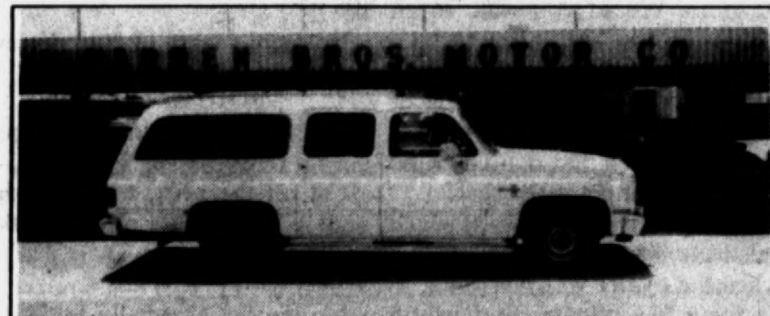

Bob Scanlan (3-5) walked Craig

Biggio and Jeff Bagwell to lead off the bottom of the eighth. Left-hander Chuck McElroy relieved, and one out later gave up Caminiti's homer.

Elsewhere in the NL it was Atlanta 8, St. Louis 3; New York 6, Los Angeles 2; Pittsburgh 7, Cincinnati 2; Montreal 6, San Francisco 0; and Philadelphia 4, San Diego 1.

Jenkins endures hard road to Hall

By JIM DONAGHY
AP Baseball Writer

Pitching was always easy for Ferguson Jenkins. It was his life that turned out hard.

The words on Jenkins' Hall of Fame plaque tell very little about what he has endured. The numbers on that plaque are certainly evidence of a Hall of Fame career, though.

He was 284-226 lifetime and finished his career in 1983 ninth on the all-time strikeout list with 3,192. He won 20 games for six consecutive years from 1967-72, but never pitched an inning in the playoffs or World Series.

"Things really came easy for Fergie," said Randy Hundley, Jenkins' catcher with the Chicago

Cubs. "He would just nonchalantly go to the mound, wind up and throw the ball and he would just look like he was in slow motion. You could catch him with a pair of pliers."

Jenkins loved to pitch and he found peace of mind on the mound. He also loved to pitch with his mother, Delores, at Wrigley Field even though she couldn't see him do it.

"On my first opening day in 1967, my mother sat in Wrigley Field," Jenkins said. "She had impaired vision when my birth affected her optic nerve. She was at one All-Star game and basically she would come to the game and listen on a transistor radio. She died in 1970, a very agonizing death. She was a very hearty, big woman, about 160 pounds. When she died she was about 65 pounds, really a terrible way to go, the cancer just ate her up."

Jenkins' mother will be on his mind in Cooperstown, and so will his wife, Maryanne. Maryanne Jenkins was in an auto accident last December, and died on Jan. 5 only a short time after her husband was told he was going into the Hall of Fame.

"Within about four days she was feeling a lot better," Jenkins said. "She had a tracheostomy tube in her throat, she was conscious, her limbs were all moving and if she didn't talk real fast I could read her lips. And we conversed like that for about 20 days."

During the time Maryanne was in the hospital, Jenkins was taking care of the kids, Samantha and Raymond.

"I was feeding the children. I knew I had to fix dinner," Jenkins said. "The only celebration I had is when I came back to the hospital and talked to her. She smiled, she was sitting up in bed and she was very happy and I was happy. That was the last time I really saw her smile."

Since Maryanne's death, Jenkins has started the slow process of putting his life back together. Part of that life now includes being a member of the Hall of Fame.

"You tell yourself, 'I'm Fergie Jenkins, I'm a Hall of Famer, I'm a winner, don't let this destroy you,'" Jenkins said. "I played the game because it's a lot of fun. I had one injury in the game and never had a sore arm. I think, as I look back, the game is fairly easy. Life is hard."

Even when Jenkins was pitching, his biggest problems came off the field.

Some say Jenkins would have been elected in his first year of eligibility in 1989 had it not been for a drug arrest. On Aug. 25, 1980, he was arrested in Toronto after four grams of cocaine were found in his luggage at the airport.

Jenkins was charged with three counts of cocaine possession and was convicted, but Judge Gerald Young gave him an absolute discharge - meaning no fine, no jail term and no record of conviction. In the process, however, an otherwise clean reputation as one of the greatest pitchers of his era was permanently stained.

He admits to using drugs, but doesn't feel it ever hurt his performance on the field.

"I don't think I could have performed and played as well and deserved the things that happened to me if I had been using dope as long as people thought, or doing it as much as everybody imagined," Jenkins said.

Jenkins, a 6-foot-5, 205-pound right-hander pitched his best for the Cubs, who acquired him from Philadelphia early in 1966. He was 20-13, 20-15, 21-15, 22-16, 24-13 and 20-12 before his 20-win run ended by going 14-16 in 1973.

"I had one off-year and they said my arm was gone at 30 years old," Jenkins said of his trade to Texas after the 1973 season.

Jenkins, the first Canadian elected to the Hall, showed he was not finished by going 25-12 for the Rangers.

"I just wanted to prove I was still a winning pitcher," he said. "I wanted to show I would not give up on myself."

Perry inducted despite stains

By JIM DONAGHY
AP Baseball Writer

OK, so Gaylord Perry threw a spitball. So did a lot of pitchers. How many of them won 300 games?

There's been all sorts of debate since Perry was elected to the Hall of Fame in January as to whether he deserved it. Perry's critics say he had to stagger to 300 wins. In his last four seasons, Perry played for five teams and compiled a record of 35-48.

"I don't really care what they say," Perry said. "I think I should be in the Hall of Fame and there are a lot of other people who think so, too."

Perry received 342 of 443 votes, 77.2 percent, from the Baseball Writers Association of America to gain election.

It might not have happened if former San Francisco teammate Bob Shaw hadn't taught a struggling 25-year-old reliever a thing or two on May 31, 1964.

That's when Perry learned the spitter, a pitch that made a simple tap of the sideburns enough to turn umpires into customs officials.

Suddenly Perry's pitches were slipping and sliding and batters were swinging and missing. He jumped from 1-6 with a 4.03 ERA the previous season to 12-11 with a 2.75 ERA.

Experts agreed that Perry was loading up, but searches for saliva, Vaseline or Slippery Elm always came up dry.

Perry himself finally owned up, admitting in his 1974 book, "Me and the Spitter - An Autobiographical Confession," that he had used the pitch for years, even giving the exact date of the wet one's major league debut.

"I thought of my wife Blanche, our very young children, and Mama and Daddy back home on the farm, all counting on me," he wrote. "I figured if I could master that super pitch, I'd be buying time to develop other ones ... The old dewdrop takes total dedication, like any new pitch you learn, only more so."

His brother Jim, who won the Cy Young Award in 1970 with the Minnesota Twins, was 215-174 over a 17-year career. Their 529 victories is second to Phil and Joe Niekro for the most by brothers in big league history.

"Gaylord should have been in the first time, not the third, and I don't say that just because he's my brother," Jim said. "I'm proud of him and have been from the start. I'm glad he made it, and it's way overdue. When you're in the Hall of Fame, you're in with the best. And he is among the best ever to play."

Gaylord Jackson Perry was born in Williamston, N.C., on Sept. 15, 1938. He made it up to the big leagues with the San Francisco Giants in 1962 and in 1966 won 20 games for the first five times. He combined with Hall of Famer Juan Marichal over the next five years to give the Giants one of the league's best one-two punches. But Perry never got to pitch in the World Series.

After the 1971 season, the Giants sent Perry to Cleveland for Sam McDowell, four years younger than Perry. But while McDowell struggled and was out of baseball four years later, Perry received the Cy Young Award in 1972 after winning 24 games and remained an effective pitcher through the rest of the decade.

He was with the Texas Rangers from 1975-1977 and again in 1980, and was the club's pitcher of the year in 1975. He has the second lowest career ERA in the club's history at 3.26, and is second in shut-outs with 12, and fourth in strikeouts with 575. His record with the Rangers was 48-43 for 112 games.

In 1978, he won 21 games for San Diego at the age of 40 and became the first player ever to win the Cy Young Award in each league. It was then, the right-hander recalled, that he began thinking about 300 victories.

Although he slipped in the 1980s, a determined Perry hung on. He signed with Seattle in 1982 - earning himself the nickname "The Ancient Mariner" - and at age 43 became the oldest pitcher to win 300 games. He retired after the 1983 season, finishing with a career record of 314-265, a 3.10 ERA and 3,534 strikeouts.

Perry's cap on his Hall of Fame plaque will have the SF of the Giants, but his jersey at Cooperstown will contain the names of all eight teams he pitched for.

"They all had a part of helping to get me here," Perry said. "They all deserve a mention."

Fans flock to see Cowboys

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - They arrive in Autograph Alley long before the players take the field.

They sweat under the jalapeno-hot Texas sun for three hours just waiting for an autograph or a wrist band or chin strap.

Austin's altar of adoration is open again. The Dallas Cowboys are back in town.

Hundreds of little kids swarm along an outside fence begging for Cowboys players and coaches to sign their scraps of paper.

A woman with her child in a stroller tries to keep pace, hoping to get her hat signed.

Across the street an enterprising woman and her daughter have set up a mini-restaurant in their yard, selling breakfast tacos.

Several fireant mounds away, another salesman hawks his homemade training camp T-shirts.

Nearby are drink stands placed strategically where the shuttle bus stops.

Another capitalist tries to hand a player a ticket to a place which serves up "Austin's favorite in gentlemen's entertainment."

The ticket is dropped to the ground like a hot potato.

Another player writes his telephone number on the autograph book of an excited young woman.

There something about the magnetism of the Cowboys, playoff team or not. Down here the lowliest rookie is a hero because of the star on his helmet.

A year ago, the Cowboys tiptoed into Austin with a single victory under their belts and were treated like heroes.

Some 100,000 fans trekked to Mecca at St. Edward's University to pay homage to this team with a solo victory. The Cowboys were wondering what kind of reception they would get in their first Texas training camp.

The results were overwhelming. "Was there a news blackout?" someone in the press room asked. "Don't they know this team only won one game?"

The Cowboys strutted into Travis County this year with six more victories than 1990 and had the NFL Coach of the Year leading them.

Jimmy Johnson earned the respect of his peers last year by taking the Cowboys just a game shy of the playoffs.

To add even more credibility to the Cowboys, No. 1 draft pick Emmitt Smith was named Rookie of the Year. "We'll settle for nothing less than being in the playoffs," Johnson said when camp began. "We expect to be in the playoffs."

However, it doesn't really seem to matter in Austin whether the Cowboys are playoff material or not.

The open, free workouts - with a chance to see a real live NFL team scrimmage - are a drawing magnet that needs no hype. Some 2,000 fans attend each workout session.

The Cowboys are in the second year of a five-year contract with the city, and this camp has become a big bucks proposition.

The city said it made about $3.2 million off the Cowboys last year and that is expected to jump significantly. In return, the Cowboys get a training camp that is some $450,000 less expensive than the one they used to run in Thousand Oaks, Calif. The Cowboys have made massive savings in air fares and logistics.

They also get better media coverage. Some 170 media credentials had been issued by the second day of training camp, according to publicist Rich Dalrymple.

"They come from all the small towns all over Texas," Dalrymple said. "The coverage has been outstanding."

St. Edward's also is a winner. St. Edward's enrollment has increased to almost 3,000 since the Cowboys helped the world pinpoint their location on the map.

St. Edward's University was founded in 1885 by the Rev. Edward Sorin as a private liberal arts university. He also founded Notre Dame University.

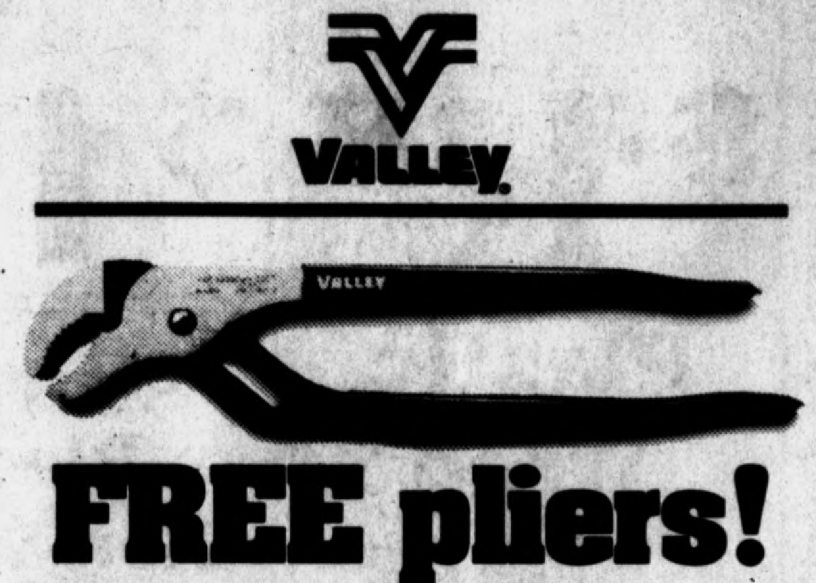

The Cowboys might as well go ahead and sign a contract for life with the city of Austin and St. Ed's.

Owner Jerry Jones' decision to leave California for the land of Willie Nelson may have been the best one he's made since he bought the team.

BUNT GOES FAR
NEW YORK (AP) - A sacrifice bunt goes farther than a long sacrifice fly in determining consecutive game hitting streaks.

A player, working on a streak, will not have it terminated if he lays down a sacrifice bunt among his plate appearances. Neither does it end if he goes hitless but receives a walk, is hit by a pitch, or awarded a base on defensive interference.

However, a player who is held without a hit but is credited with a sacrifice fly will have a streak terminated.

MOVING DAY

Planning is the key to successful moves, say many families who do it often. Usually middle managers in large companies who are transferred again and again, to new jobs and locations. Get estimates from movers as early as three months before the moving date. Prepare a master inventory list of everything that's coming with you; check it going into the truck and coming off, in the new location. Group furniture and other items that will go in the same location in the house. Put baking soda in the refrigerator to absorb odors. Pack washer and dryer last, to do last minute linens in the old house, and be ready in the new one. Try to have a baby-sitter on moving day. Have a camera ready to document any damage to your things. Do the unpacking yourself, so you can find things later. Most national moving companies offer a "moving check list," a great source of information.

Pumpernickle pass peril played in Hereford

By DANEE' WILSON
Lifestyles Editor

Sporting a business card that lists among services available, assassinations plotted, Waldo Weasel tries swindling local residents of Pumpernickle Pass in St. Thomas Episcopal Church's melodrama, "Peril at Pumpernickle Pass."

The "Doubting Thomas Players" will present the melodrama in a dinner theatre atmosphere July 26th and 27th at the church.

Serving the meal for the dinner will be chef, John Gililand assisted by ladies of the church. The menu includes chicken spaghetti, tossed salad, french bread, tea and coffee. Cast members are local residents and church members.

The cast was selected by Amy Gililand, the melodrama's director.

Gililand decided to start the melodramas as a fund raiser for the church three years ago.

"Back in 1968, Hereford had an organization called the Hereford Community Players," Gililand said. "We did shows for about seven years. As it turned out, most of the original players were members of the church and we started the melodrama."

Gililand said the melodrama has proved to be a good outreach project as it involves the community.

She enjoys working with the cast and being in the director's chair.

"I enjoy directing. I have acted in shows at the Amarillo Little Theatre and Country Squire Dinner Theatre. The cast becomes a family."

Although the play is a lot of fun, many hours of work go into it.

"We practice three nights a week for about a month, then a week before the show goes up, we rehearse every night. I think rehearsal is half the fun."

Members of the cast try out for various reasons, but mainly they want to have fun while making others laugh.

Sherry Davis and her husband, Butch, Waldo Weasel, have participated in the melodrama for the past three years.

"I enjoy it, but it is a lot of work," Sherry, who portrays Peal Ruby Diamond, said. "There are a lot of neat people involved, who aren't in the church. It is a good opportunity to get to know people outside the work place."

"In the future I would like to see more people come out. I think those who don't come are missing a lot. Hereford has a lot of talent. You can't go to Amarillo and do this."

"I always have liked drama," Joe Weaver, a non-church member said. "I saw the first melodrama they did and it looked like fun so I told those who were involved that I was interested."

Joe plays Gentleman Dan advance man for "Buffalo Binnie's Wild West Show," sells Red Chief Liniment and Miracle Eye Wash and does "a little marryin' on the side."

Joining Waldo, Pearl and Dan are the remaining cast, Buttercup, Wendy Emerick; sheriff, Jonathan Haney; Mattiwalda, Jaime Brorman; Stella Dimdome, Donna Bogan; Annie Oatmeal, Gail Waltersheid; Buffalo Binnie, Charlene Pietsek; Minnie, Claudia McBrayer; Baby Col. Tom Thumb, Thaddous N. Visabel; Snipper Bayrhum, Bill Dominguez; and Widow Baygeaux, Viola Moore. Masters of Ceremonies is Duffy McBrayer.

The opening scene is in the general store, after a humorous introduction of characters.

As the plot thickens, Waldo acquires a gold map from an old prospector in San Francisco. He swindles the local general store owner and heroine, Buttercup, into supplying him supplies in and return she would get half the worthless gold rights.

Waldo, after discovering silver, which is actually fillings, uncovers documents which lay Buttercup and Stella, who is a less than homely character, heir to a fortune.

Being the evil man that he is, Waldo ties up Buttercup in the barn and takes Stella as his bride, or does he? Will Waldo marry Stella for her money? Does Buttercup ever escape? Does the sheriff ever get a clue?

To find out the answers to these questions, enjoy yourself and have a few laughs, get a $25 family ticket or a $10 individual ticket and attend "Peril at Pumpernickle Pass."

Cast prepares for 'Peril at Pumpernickle Pass'

Cast members, from left, Sherry Davis, Claudia McBrayer, Jaime Brorman and Bill Dominguez rehearse a scene from "Peril at Pumpernickle Pass." The melodrama will be presented by the Doubting Thomas Players at St. Thomas Episcopal Church on July 26-27.

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) - Whitney Houston, who gave a free concert in the area on Easter Sunday, found considerably less interest when people had to pay.

Dimensions Unlimited on Tuesday canceled Ms. Houston's Friday night concert at the Hampton Coliseum.

Only 2,500 of 10,000 tickets were sold, said Alysia Taylor, spokeswoman for the promoter.

"I think it hurt us really badly that people got to see Whitney for free a few months ago," she said.

Ms. Houston's Easter concert at Norfolk Naval Air Station was carried on Home Box Office.

We would like to thank all our friends for the many acts of kindness shown to us during the illness and loss of our husband and father, Walt Warren. A Special thanks to Dr. Mc Brayer and the nurses at DSGH.

God Bless all of you,
Velma Warren & children

MRS. TIMOTHY WADE LEE
...nee Leah Robin Rucker

Rucker, Lee exchange wedding vows Saturday

Wedding vows were exchanged Saturday evening by Leah Robin Rucker and Timothy Wade Lee, both of Hereford, in Westway Baptist Church. The ceremony was officiated by Rev. James Peach of the First Baptist Church of Vega.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Rucker of Clovis, N.M. and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Lee of Hereford.

The church altar was decorated by an arch candelabrum entwined with greenery and baby's breath. Flanked at the arch were spiral candelabra. A spring mixture bouquet was placed at the center of the altar. Pink pale bows marked ever other pew.

Lynette Birmingham of Hereford served as maid of honor and best man was Lloyd Lujan of Hereford.

Guests were escorted by the bride's brother, Lynd Rucker of Clovis, N.M. and the groom's brother, Richard Lee of Hereford.

The bride's nieces, Tara and Tanisha Rucker, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Rucker of Clovis, N.M., served as flower girls. The groom's cousin, Jarett May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott May of Hereford, served as ring bearer. Lynd Rucker and Richard Lee served as candle lighters.

Mary Varner of Hereford sang "Lords Prayer" and "Wind Beneath My Wings." She was accompanied by Jan Walser of Hereford.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a fairy-tale white taffeta gown with a shirred, surplice bodice scattered with sequins and tiny pearls. Delicate touches of lace grace the sleeves and hem.

The bride's headpiece consisted of white roses and pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of pink roses, baby's breath and white ribbon.

The bride's jewelry consisted of a diamond and pearl pendant and cluster pearl earrings given to her by her parents on her wedding day.

The maid of honor wore a teal-length floral pastel dress with puffed sleeves and a bow at the back.

The reception was held at the E.B. Black House.

Wedding guests were registered by D'Lane Joens of San Antonio and Marsha Hammock of Temple.

Cake was served by Angela Lee and the bride's sister-in-law, Sherry Rucker. Coffee and punch were served by Jamie Simpson, the groom's cousin.

Others assisting were Bettye Self, Rene May, and Teena Simpson.

Tables were covered with white linen cloth and centered with valentine precious moments. The three-tiered Italian cream cake was decorated with tiny pale pink rose buds. The groom's chocolate cake was made in the shape of a horseshoe. Leaving for a wedding trip to the Pecos Mountains near Santa Fe, N.M., the bride wore western attire.

The couple will make their home in Hereford.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of West Texas State University and teaches math at Hereford Junior High School.

The bridegroom is a 1985 graduate of Hereford High School and is employed by Al's Diesel and Automotive Repair.

Wedding guests from out of town included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs Rucker of Clovis, N.M., Mr. and Mrs. Brad Joens of San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hammock of Temple, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Callahan of Big Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Ramey of Dumas, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Ramey of Dalhart and several guests from Clovis, N.M.

Red Cross Update

BY BETTY HENSON

Special thanks is extended to the Water Safety Instructors teaching second session classes. They include Jennifer Scott, Mike Manchec, Barbara Franks, Linda Gromowsky, Karen Martin and Wes Taylor. Appreciation is again extended to Manchec for teaching the CPR, Emergency Water Safety and Basic Water Safety classes this past week.

Congratulations to the new Standard First Aid Instructors. They include Lynna Ray, Mike Collier, Randy Griffith, Terry Hazlett, Mark Schaffner, L.V. Watts, Sheila Reyes and Jimmie Shelburne. Appreciation is extended to Ronny Sanders for teaching the class.

A swimmers class will begin Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the City Pool. The class is for swimmers who would like to become better swimmers or would like to take the lifeguarding class to become a lifeguard. The strokes that are reviewed and improved on are the sidestroke, back crawl, breaststroke, sculling and survival. Safety information and basic rescues will be included. Cost of the class will be $6 and registration will be at the first class.

An advanced beginners class will begin Thursday, July 29, 10:30-11:30 a.m. The class will finish on Friday, Aug. 2. Registration for the class will be held at the Red Cross office Friday, July 26. Cost of the class will be $4 for the one week class.

A lifeguarding class will be held Monday, Aug. 12, at 6:30 p.m. at the City Pool. To register for the class, call the Red Cross office.

The Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross is a United Way Agency.

Medication aid class to be held in Dimmitt

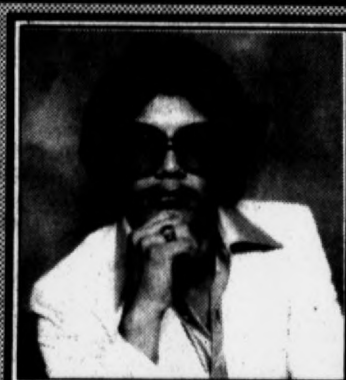

Amarillo College will be sponsoring a Medication Aide class starting Aug. 20 at Plains Memorial Hospital in Dimmitt.

This class will permit nurse aides to administer medications in a nursing home or long term care facility. The class is scheduled from Aug. 20 to Oct. 30 and will be taught by Mitzie Brockman, RN. It will meet on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Requirements for the class include a high school diploma or GED and one must have worked in a long term care facility or nursing home for at least 90 days prior to registration. The cost of the class is $138 for tuition, $25 state testing fee and approximately $60 for books.

If interested, please call Linda Raser at Canterbury Villa at 647-3117.

Couple united at Canyon

University Church of Christ in Canyon was the setting as Tracy Lynn Rusler and Chad Everett Redwine were united in marriage on July 6th. Officiating at the ceremony was Brent Adams, minister of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rusler of Canyon and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Redwine of Hereford.

A 15-branch candelabrum, decorated with greenery and a mauve bow, flanked by a pair of 7-branch candelabra decorated to match, formed the altar background for the nuptial service. Mauve bows marked the pews.

Tammy Becker of Amarillo registered guests and ushering were the bride's brother, John Rusler of Canyon, and Pat Davis of Amarillo.

Maid of honor was Misty Knebusch of Lubbock and bridesmaids were Jana Carthel of Lubbock and Amanda Swisher of Amarillo. They wore teal taffeta tea-length dresses with pleated collars accented with a fabric rosette. Bouquets were a gardenia, combined with mauve roses, stephanotis and greenery.

Kip Redwine of Amarillo, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Stuart Mitts of Austin, formerly of Hereford, and Randy Taylor of Amarillo.

Serving as flower girl was Haley

Edmiston of Eldorado, a cousin of the bride.

"Wind Beneath My Wings," "Wedding Song (There is Love)," "Here And Now" and "I Love You With The Love Of The Lord" were presented by vocalists including Angie Click, Patty Tracy, Amy Burgoon, Rena Adams, Matt Adams, Kevin Schaffer and Jessica Garrett.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white matte satin wedding gown. The short puffed sleeves were accented with hand-beaded lace and cloth roses.

The gown featured an off-the-shoulder neckline. The full skirt and chapel train were edged with beaded alemon lace. Elbow-length white gloves were worn by the bride and her bouquet of gardenia, combined with mauve roses, stephanotis and greenery.

A reception hall.

The wedding cake was covered with a teal tablecloth overlaid with white lace. The bride's four-tiered wedding cake was decorated in a basketweave design, accented with fresh flowers. It was centered on a large, round antique mirror. The bride's bouquet served as a centerpiece. Also served were rose mints, nuts and a cranberry punch. Serving were the bride's cousin, Sabrina Neeley, assisted by Andrea Love and Angie Click.

A mauve tablecloth with lace overlay covered the groom's table. The German chocolate cake boosted the Dallas Gwoboy emblem atop. Sausage balls and a carved watermelon fruit basket were also served along with coffee from a silver service. Attending the groom's table were Jessica Garrett and Kim Williams.

After a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will reside in Amarillo.

The bride is a 1987 graduate of Canyon High School. She received her degree in interior design in August 1990 at Texas State Technical Institute and is currently employed at Pond Furniture in Amarillo.

The groom is a 1988 graduate of Hereford High School. He is a May 1991 graduate of Texas State Technical Institute with a degree in drafting and design. He is currently employed at Utility Engineering Corporation, a subsidiary of Southwestern Public Service Company.

Guests from Austin, Eldorado, Muleshoe, Midland, Panhandle, Lubbock, Amarillo, Bonham, Alabama, San Angelo and Dallas attended the ceremony.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thanks a million for printing that letter from the World War II GI in Buffalo who asked what happened to Martha Raye. As a result of that column she has received hundreds of letters from fans who are concerned about her health. They all sent their love and made her feel marvelous.

I have known Ms. Raye since 1967 when she entertained the troops in Vietnam. About 18 months ago, Martha had a stroke which left her partially paralyzed. I am caring for her, and it is a privilege. She is now in a wheelchair, taking physical therapy three times a week and making remarkable progress. This great trooper is anxious to get back to work. With her spirit, I'm sure she'll make it.

Martha sends her love to you, Ann, and to all your generous readers who are letting her know that she has not been forgotten. -- Ramon Rodriguez, Command Sergeant Major (Retired) U.S. Army Special Forces

DEAR SGT. RODRIGUEZ: Thanks for the update. I have been swamped with love letters for Martha. Here is a sampling:

FROM FORT LAUDERDALE: During World War II, I served in North Africa and in Italy. I had the privilege of seeing that terrific entertainer Martha Raye in both places. Please let her know she did a world of good and that we all remember her and love her. -- Bob Allen

MECHANICVILLE, N.Y.: Guess who flew into a miserable base in Vietnam with the cast of "Hello, Dolly!" Non other than Martha Raye. It was raining cats and dogs from beginning to end but not one person left. Every man in the 11th Armoured Cavalry Regiment loved her. -- Ray Shakow

WACO, TEXAS: I worked with Martha for four years on her TV show. She has tremendous talent and a heart as big as all outside. I never saw her get mad or give less than 110 percent of herself. She's a grand woman. -- Milton Wilson

CHARLESTON, W. VA.: When I read Martha Raye's name in your column, the memories flooded over me. I have always wanted to let her know how much she meant to the troops everywhere, but especially to the men who fought in North Africa. My husband was killed in action soon after her visit, but in one of his very own letters, he wrote to tell me what a terrific show she had put on and he sent me a picture of himself with Martha, taken under the wing of a big plane. Will you tell her for me, please? -- Jeannette Hale

ATLANTA: You mentioned Martha Raye's rendition of "Mr. Paganini." Well, she was also a fabulous singer of ballads. Her recordings of "Body and Soul" and "Stairway to the Stars" are collectors' items. A truly great artist. -- Harry D. Smith

ALBANY, N.Y.: It was wonderful to see your generous words about Martha Raye. She gave everything she had to her country and now we hope her country will honor her with the Presidential Medal of Freedom. We have already forwarded to President Bush petitions with 23,000 signatures. We hope and pray that she gets it. -- Noonie Fortin and Belle Pellegrino

DEAR NOONIE AND BELLE: So do I.

What is the truth about pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, crack, speed and downers? "The Lowdown on Dope" has up-to-the-minute information on drugs. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

Blevins given shower

Tonya Blevins, May 17 bride of Darrel Blevins, was honored with a bridal shower July 12 in the home of Linda Minchew.

Welcoming guests with the honoree were her mother, Sue Straskulic and the groom's mother, Sandi Blevins.

Refreshments of fresh fruit, K-bobs, cookies, and punch were served from a table covered with a lace cloth and centered with ivy containing blue flowers.

Hostesses presented Mrs. Blevins with a Merage canister set with matching salt and pepper shakers. They included Charlene Hughes, Sue Powell, Linda Minchew, Della DeHart, Elane Jones, Carolyn Evers, Betty Mercer, Barbara Burkhalter, Joyce Ward and Dorothy Bell.

Women's Division style show set

A Fall Fling/Back to School Style Show and Luncheon is being sponsored by the Style Show Committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division. Arvilla Lauderback is chairman of the committee. The show and luncheon will be held Aug. 6 from noon-1 p.m. at the Hereford Country Club. Serving will begin at 11:30 a.m.

Tickets for the event are $7 and will be available at participating merchants and the Chamber office.

Door prizes will be given throughout the show by merchants. Keith Ann Gearm will be emcee for the show.

Back to school and fall fashions will be shown by C.R. Anthony Co., Betty's Shoes, Brookhart's On Main, Boots and Saddle Western Wear, The Ginger Tree, Etcetera, Little's, Pants Cage, Kids' Alley, The Vogue and Bows & Bubble Gum.

The style show and luncheon is a Town & Country Jubilee Week event. The purpose is to showcase Hereford merchants and to encourage residents to shop in Hereford.

Words cannot express our deep appreciation for the love and kindness bestowed on us during Clay's illness and recent death. Our sincere thanks to the staffs of E.M.S., the hospital and G.P.C.C., Dr. McBrayer and Dr. Payne. We could not have received better or more loving care. We are thankful for all the flowers, food, memorials, comforting words and prayers. We love you all and so did Clay.

God Bless You All.

MRS. WARREN BRYAN WOOD
...nee Brandy Richardson

Richardson, Wood wed Saturday

Brandy Jann Richardson of Vega, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Wood of Bryson, were united in marriage Saturday at First Baptist Church in Vega.

The ceremony was officiated by David Fristoe of the Church of Christ in Amarillo.

Brandy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Richardson of Vega and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wood of Bryson.

The church altar was decorated with an arch candelabrum between two heart-shaped candelabra. The church isles were decorated with candles.

Melissa Schniederjan of Dalhart served as matron of honor and the groom's brother, Ty Wood, served as best man.

Bridesmaids included Vicki Volgt of Lubbock, Jami Joyce of Amarillo and Susan Bell of Hereford.

Groomsmen were David Broman of Vega, Mike Joyce of Amarillo and Doug Cavin of Wildorado.

Guests were escorted by the bride's brother, Bret Richardson, the bride's cousin, Jeff Richardson of Vega, Cory Kendrick and Klay Waters, both of Vega.

Flower girls were Katy Dondi Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Trace Richardson, Katy Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bret Richardson and Kassie Strange, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Strange Silverton. The bride's nephew, Keelan Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Trace Richardson, served as ring bearer.

Candle lighters were the bride's nephew, Jaret Richardson, son of Rena Richardson and the late Trent Richardson and the groom's cousin, Matt Strange, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Strange.

The bride's brother, Trace Richardson and Karen Wagner, accompanied by pianist Verna Kay Crist and organist Bernice Boydston vocalized "You and I," "To Me," "Love Solo" and "One Hand One Heart."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional white satin gown fashioned with a fitted bodice with sheer illusion yoke front and back. The center front was adorned with beaded alencon lace panel with lace floral designs of pearls and sequins. Small covered buttons lined the back of the bodice. Sheer open lace appliques decorated the entire back of the skirt. The long puffed sleeves featured open sheer cut-outs appliqued and beaded alencon lace with bridal point cuffs. The full satin skirt gracefully flowed into a cathedral length train embellished with beaded embroidered lace, large bows with lace applique and hanging clusters of pearls.

The satin and alencon lace finger tip veil featured silk flowers, lilies, rhinestones and pearls.

The bride carried a bouquet of roses and white mini pixies.

The bride carried out the traditional something old with a handkerchief belonging to her mother as a child and left to her by her grandmother Holder. She carried a new white Bible given to her by the groom's mother. She wore a gold and diamond bracelet that was borrowed from her aunt Jo Anne and a blue garter hand made by her grandmother Richardson. For luck her father placed a penny in her shoe.

Bridal attendants were attired in blue spruce dresses. The dresses were fashioned with short puffy sleeves, sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice, a softly gathered skirt that flowed to heel length at the back. Each carried brandy snifters with tiny pink and teal flowers and a candle in the center.

The bride's cousin, J'Lynn Richardson, invited guests to register at the reception held at the church.

The bride's cake was served by Terri and Kelley Richardson, sister-in-laws of the bride and Sherri Carter.

Punch and coffee were served by Mashawn Gilter, Jodi Pulliam and Chonda Blake. Joy Muller served the groom's cake.

The four-tiered white bride's cake, decorated by pink flowers, featured arches connecting two heart shaped cakes on each side. Punch was served from a silver service. The bride's bouquet served as a centerpiece with silver candles on each side.

The groom's table was decorated with a chocolate cake and a silver coffee service. The centerpiece was a wedding sampler made by the groom's mother.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Jamaica, the bride wore a sleeveless white jumpsuit with red and blue floral design.

The couple will make their home in Lubbock.

The bride is a 1989 graduate of Vega High School and plans to attend Texas Tech, majoring in sports science, exercise and math.

The groom is a 1988 graduate of Vega High School and plans to attend Texas Tech, majoring in sports science, exercise, and biology.

Special guests attending were the bride's grandmother, Edna Richardson, of Amarillo; the groom's grandparents, Norman and Peggy Strange, of Silverton and the groom's great-grandmother, Fern Holt, of Silverton.

JOSH CONEWAY

Coneway earns Eagle rank

The highest rank a scout can obtain in the scouting program, the Eagle, was recently awarded to Josh Coneway of Hereford.

He was honored at his Court of Honor after ten years of scout work. Presenting the Eagle ribbon, scarf and badge to Josh was his grandfather, R. Paul Coneway, a 1928 Boy Scout and former scoutmaster of Troop 52.

Josh will be a senior at Hereford High School in the fall. He is the son of Nan and Steve Coneway. His Eagle Scout project was assisting the Hereford Police Department fingerprint local residents' children at the Halloween Carnival held at the Bull Barn in October, 1990.

The Coneway family has been active in the scouting program since 1928. Josh's great-grandfather, Raymond Coneway Sr., was one of the first scoutmasters of Troop 52 in the year 1931, followed by his grandfather, R. Paul Coneway in 1957-59. His father, Steve Coneway, served as scoutmaster in 1972 and was a recipient of the Eagle Scout rank in 1964.

When female elephants fight, it is said, they usually try to bite off each other's tail.

Looking Back

Compiled by Kay Crismon from the files of the Hereford Brand

89 YEARS AGO

James Stafford, postmaster at Fargo, is experimenting with a patch of buckwheat. He has in a half acre and it is in full bloom, about three feet high. We never saw any buckwheat growing and wouldn't know it from a weed as it remains one of dog-findle—except the bloom is a different color. Mr. Stafford will thrash the crop and next year will plant all the seed will sow.

Hereford's baseball team has covered the town they represent with glory, having lost but two games during their absence and these two games to a nine acknowledged to be the best amateur team in the state.

75 YEARS AGO

John McLean is having an elegant 5-room bungalow built on the lots between the Hawkins and Barber residences. The concrete foundation is being finished and soon the superstructure will go up. The house will have every modern convenience—bath, electric lighting, gas heating, besides other comforts of a real home. The new building being put up for J.G. Wilkinson on the corner by The Brand office is in process of erection. The brick layers are at work and before long the building will be ready for occupancy.

Herbert Morgan brought in a Bull Snake Monday which measured 7 feet 4 inches in length. Herbert charmed the snake with a club.

50 YEARS AGO

Did you know that Uncle Sam used to make "folding money" in 50 and 25 cent denominations? Jim Clark has a 50 cent bill, which he has had nearly 30 years.

Mrs. Otho Noland is the former Miss Rena Rae Renfro whose marriage took place yesterday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Renfro.

Miss June Dameron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Dameron, addressed the open session of the state convention of Future Farmers at Marshall Wednesday night.

Couple united during candlelight ceremony

During a candlelight wedding ceremony Saturday afternoon at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Cynthia M. Barrett became the bride of David Fetsch.

The ceremony was officiated by Monsignor Orville R. Blum of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Barrett of Hereford and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F.A. Fetsch of Hereford.

The church altar was adorned with paired spiral candelabra flanked by two large bouquets of white gladioli, daisies and greenery. Church pews were decorated with white bows.

Patty Jesko served as matron of honor and Dwight Jesko served as best man.

Bridesmaids were Michelle Richburg and Marilyn Stevens.

Serving as groomsmen were the groom's brothers, Lewis and Ronnie Fetsch, the bride's nephews, Aubrey

Richburg and Randy Stevens. Ushers were the groom's brother-in-laws, Jerry Lange and Dennis Weeg.

Heather Warren, daughter of Jimmy and Mary Ann Warren, served as flower girl and Joshua Fetsch, son of Ronnie and Debbie Fetsch served as ring bearer. The bride's nephews, Michael Davies and Keith Barrett served as candle lighters.

Cheryl Betzen accompanied Ralph Dettien as he vocalized "The Wedding Song," "Walking Hand in Hand" and "Wedding Prayer."

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her brother, Richard Barrett, as her father gave her away.

During the ceremony, the bride wore a traditional white satin gown fashioned with a molded bodice with tapered bib front panel and modified Sweetheart neckline with beaded alencon lace. The long satin sleeves were accented with alencon lace and beaded bridal point cuffs. The front of the skirt was embellished with large beaded alencon lace appliques and featured a wide border of scalloped beaded alencon lace edge hemline.

The double layer finger tip veil featured a floral halo of beaded schiffli lace motif, sequin flowers, and plouls loops. The back pouf was sprinkled with bridal pearls.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white carnations accented with greenery and a handkerchief that belonged to her grandmother.

The bride's jewelry consisted of diamond earrings and her mother's pearl necklace.

The bridesmaids wore polished cotton floral dresses and carried pink bouquets.

The bride's sister, Betty Smith, invited guests to register at the reception held at St. Anthony's School.

Cake, tea and coffee were served by Vickie Ortiz, Linda Hubbard and Yvonne Weeg.

The bride's three-tiered wedding cake was decorated in mauve and blue roses and daisies.

Leaving for the wedding trip the bride was attired in a two piece denim suit.

Out of town guest were from Oklahoma City, Okla., California, Hobbs, N.M., Albuquerque, N.M., Munday, Lubbock, Seymour, Nazareth, and Temple.

The first electric watch was invited in Chicago in 1885.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

By The Hour

It's 5:30 p.m. If you fire a cannon down the middle of Main Street, you won't have to worry about casualties. The same situation exists in most downtown shopping areas on Saturday and Sunday.

Why is this change in shopping patterns occurring? Why are most independent retail stores closing at 5:00 or 5:30 p.m.? Why are so few open on Saturday? Why are so many small stores closing every year? Why are the national discount chain stores doing so well?

These questions were discussed, debated and at least partially answered at a national meeting on retailing that I attended in Wisconsin a few weeks ago. Some of the best research and hottest discussions were in the area of store hours and consumer shopping patterns.

When Do People Shop?

Richard L. Mistele, an associate professor at the University of Wisconsin, recently released a study of hourly traffic at discount department stores. The purpose of the study was to see when people preferred to shop. Mistele's study proposed to answer three questions: What days are most popular for shopping? Which hours are busiest? What percentage of the weekday business was done after 5:00 p.m.?

The results are fascinating. Mistele's study reveals that Saturday is still the most preferred shopping day, followed closely by Sunday and Friday.

Hourly traffic counts were the heaviest from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday and 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Saturday. Perhaps the most interesting finding of Mistele's study is the weekday shopping pattern. More than 30 percent of the daily weekday traffic arrived after 5:00 p.m. Friday evening was the busiest time with a traffic count of 35 percent.

The implications are significant. By not being open on weekday evenings, local merchants may be losing up to one third of the weekday business. By closing on Saturday and Sunday, they are forfeiting the best two shopping days of the week.

When Stores Are Open

As I considered Mistele's research, I began to wonder when the independent merchants were open. During a two-week period, we surveyed 506 businesses in five states. Here is what we found.

Incredibly, 239 (47.2 percent) of the stores do not have their hours posted. That's right - almost half of the merchants don't even bother to let their customers know when they are open for business.

One hundred and ninety-four (38.3 percent) of the stores surveyed closed by 5:30 p.m. Of these stores, approximately one-third were open only five days a week. One-third were open half a day on Saturday and one-third were open all day Saturday. None of these stores were open on Sunday.

Only 23 (4.5%) of merchants posted Sunday hours and only 17 (3.4%) stayed open until 9:00 p.m. The remainder of the stores had varied hours but were open no more than five days per week.

If you are small independent retailer who is trying to compete with the national discounters, let me offer some suggestions. First, I recommend that you consider your hours. Are you open when your potential customers want to shop? If you close at 5:00 or 5:30 p.m., you may be forcing your customers to shop at the discount stores. Remember that you are in business to serve your customers, not the other way around.

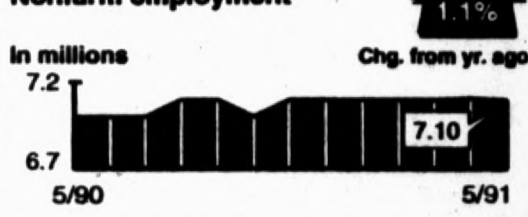

Next, let your customers know when you'll be there to serve them. Post your store hours and put them in your newspaper ads.

The price of growing your business is simply giving customers WHAT they want, WHEN they want it. Your "open for business hours" are important. One way or another, we all get paid by the hour.

Master Bedroom Suite Full House Depth Extending to Private Sun Deck

COUNTRY KITCHEN ACCOMMODATES AN EXPANSE OF FOOD PREPARATION AREA

© BY W.D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

A separate formal foyer entrance is from the recessed door. It will direct you to the formal cased opening dining room or the vaulted ceiling family room. Access is open and supported by columns for the division. A fireplace is central at the rear of this room and deck access is from the corner of this room. Basement stairs are from the landing between the country kitchen and the great room, this stair being nestled under the second floor stairway.

The country kitchen includes two full walls of cabinet space and food preparation area, plus, an island cabinet and plenty of room for a large breakfast table. A full view and access to the sun deck is apparent.

The master bedroom suite merges the two full walk-in closets, a luxury garden bath, vaulted and tray ceilings and sliding glass doors to the sun deck.

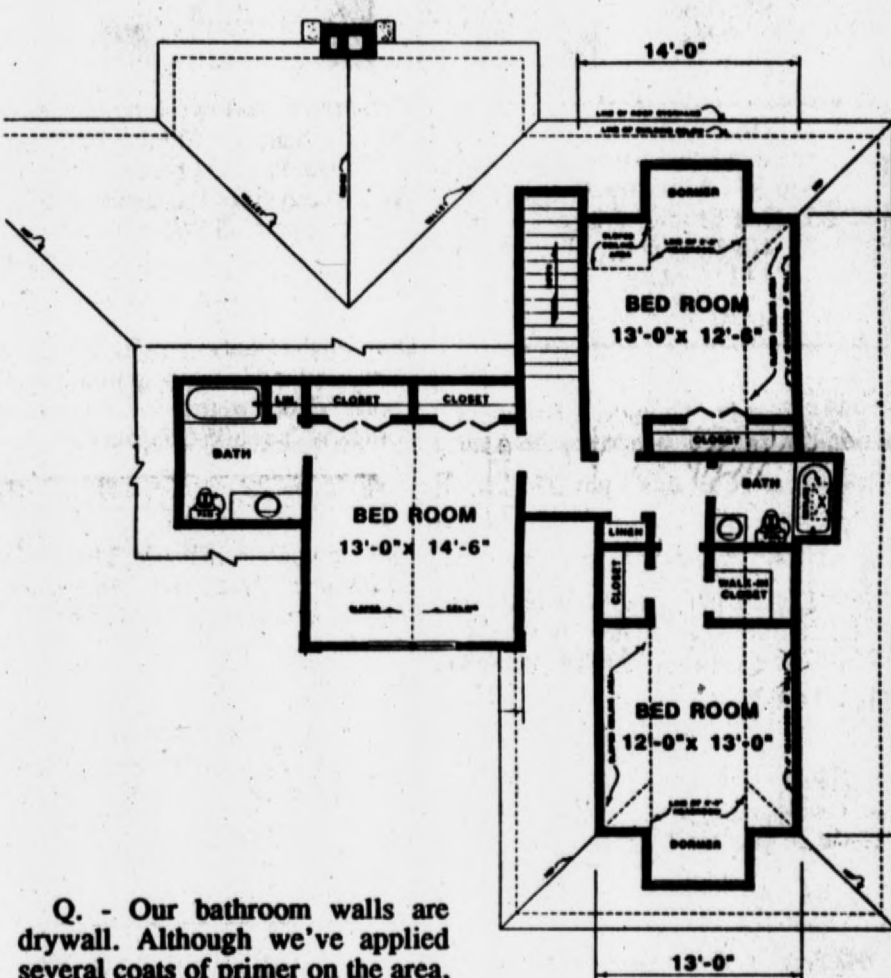

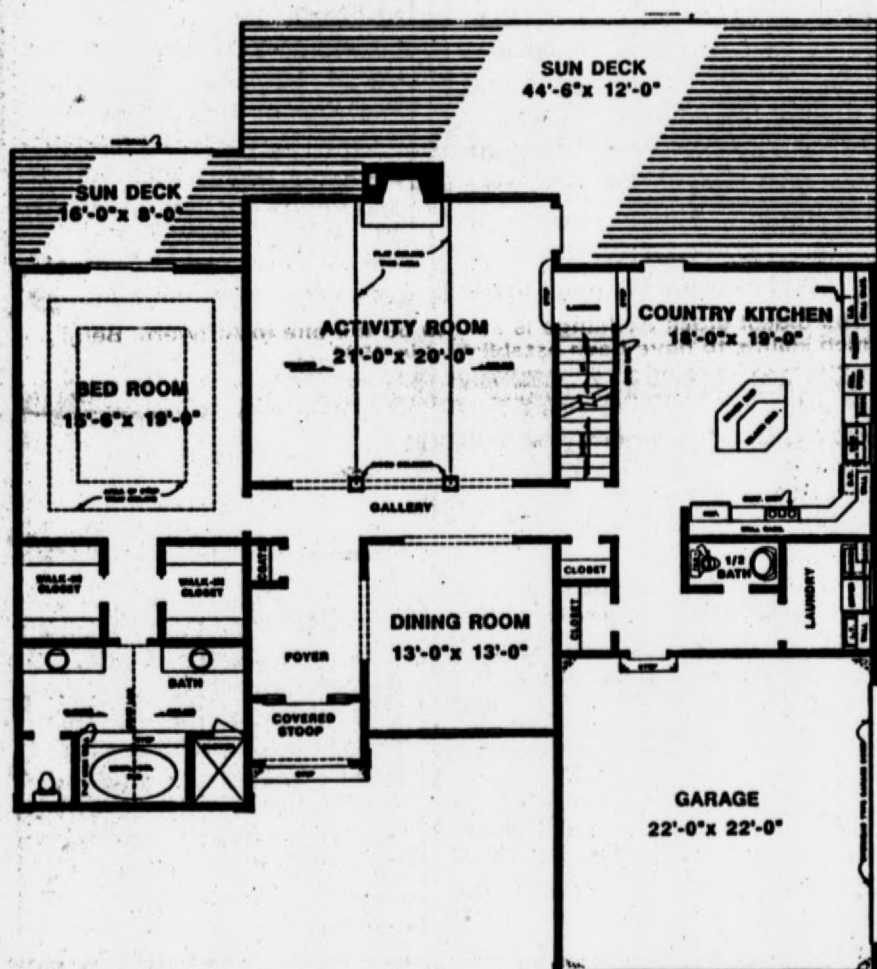

There are three bedrooms and two full baths shown for the second floor. All ceilings are either vaulted or sloped and closets are plentiful.

The traditional exterior style is refined by stucco, corner quoins, ornate windows and multiple roof styles.

The plan is Number 3137. It includes

3,102 square feet of heated area and is a computer generated plan. All W. D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements.

For further information write W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

Q. - Our bathroom walls are drywall. Although we've applied several coats of primer on the area, the paint on 2 feet of wall above the shower tile keeps blistering. We realize this is caused by a moisture problem, but neither a fan nor opening a window is a practical solution. Is there a special paint or preparation we can use that will keep the paint from blistering?

A. - You know that without a fan in a vent or openable window, you are courting trouble. However, if you can ever get the blistered walls dry enough to work on, the next best thing to applying more ceramic tiles would be to sand the old, blistered paint thoroughly and cover the area with a solid vinyl wall covering (not vinyl-coated wallpaper).

When you apply the vinyl wall covering, make sure you brush the top and bottom edges and all the joints tightly against the wall. This is to prevent moisture from seeping in behind the wall covering and loosening it.

'Morton & Hayes' one-of-a-kind show

In Morton & Hayes, Kevin Pollak and Bob Amaral star as a near-forgotten comedy team of the 1940s, whose brainless two-reel, black and white comedy shorts are unearthed after decades and aired on national television. Hosted by Rob Reiner, The innovative series premieres Wednesday on CBS.

Rob Reiner and Co. deliver the goods

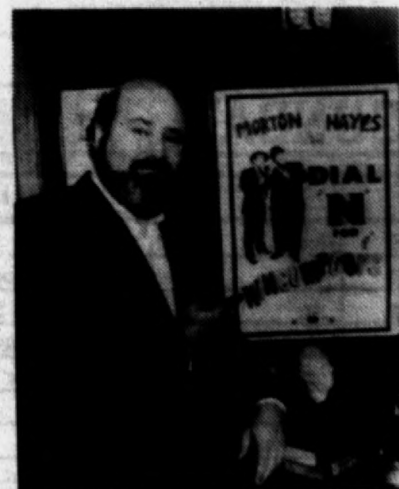

By Steven Alan McGaw

Undeniably, television has its highlights, works that break the mold in terms of insight, execution, intelligence or originality. But, to tell the truth, TV fare is often guilty of glaring repetition, a numbing sameness that diminishes each program and the medium as a whole.

That, of course, is why audiences react when a truly original program comes along. And that's also why Rob Reiner's brilliant new series, Morton & Hayes, deserves a swift and immediate response from the viewing public. The innovative comedy premieres Wednesday, July 24, on CBS.

The premise of the show is inspired; each episode (introduced by Reiner) features a comedy short by '40s duo Chick Morton and Eddie Hayes, played by Kevin Pollak and Bob Amaral. Reiner admits the team was never truly popular with audiences and their cheaply produced two-reelers were mediocre at best. Still, a number of Morton & Hayes' works were unearthed in the vaults of producer Max King and readied for television. The shorts have no continuing theme or devices, save for Morton's acidic wisecracking, Hayes' blubbery buffoonery and their colossal ineptitude as a team.

Kevin Pollak is terrific as sharp-tongued Chick Morton, arguably the "brains" of the duo. Morton is a blow-hard, a coarse loudmouth given to snap decisions and unable to admit a mistake. He also loves to berate his dim-bulb colleague. Bob Amaral (where has this guy been?) is a delight as Eddie Hayes, a big, fearful baby of a man, clumsy, goodhearted and devoutly eager to please his contentious partner. Amaral's face is a playground of expression, his big eyes threatening to pop out of his head.

Executive producer Rob Reiner serves as host for each week's episode of CBS' new comedy series, Morton & Hayes. Reiner introduces the works of the fictitious comedy duo.

The show's look is very authentic, which adds mightily to the humor. The cheap sets, tacky sound effects and silly camera tricks of factory-style filmmaking are well in evidence. Reiner and company's sharpest idea, however, was to film the show in great, grainy black and white. Instantly, viewers' living rooms will become '40s-style movie houses, where features were preceded by a spate of newsreels and "programmers" much like the works of Morton & Hayes.

The hilarity is aided by Christopher Guest as Dr. Von Astor, a sinister man with a loonily incomprehensible dialect. Guest, one of the show's producers, also directed the premiere.

Morton & Hayes is billed as a summer show, implying a finite place on the schedule; perhaps vigorous audience response can change that.

Lifetime unveils new shows

Reality, anthology and drama join lineup

By Suzanne Gill

Tuesday, July 23, marks the next step in original programming for the Lifetime cable network. After the success of a string of original movie productions, comedy specials and three seasons of The Days and Nights of Molly Dodd, the cable channel is launching three weekly series aimed to please their target audience of women 18 and older.

The two-hour programming block begins with Confessions of Crime, with host Theresa Saldana, the actress who founded the non-profit advocacy group Victims for Victims. Using videotaped police interrogations and interviews with witnesses, police, criminal psychologists and the friends and family of victims, Confessions of Crime hopes to offer insight on criminal behavior, including rape, so women can better protect themselves.

The Hidden Room, a half-hour anthology series, follows. Using actresses including Amanda Plummer, Lara Flynn Boyle, Alice Krige and Helen Slater in suspenseful stories by prominent female writers, each episode will focus on women struggling with their fears, secrets and desires. Several of the show's producers have previous experience working on HBO's suspenseful anthology The Hitchhiker.

Canadian actress Laura Robinson stars in the one-hour mystery drama Veronica Clare. Robinson plays a private investigator with an enigmatic past who enjoys getting to the bottom of other people's secrets while never revealing many of her own. When she's not on a case, Veronica puts in time managing the Los Angeles jazz club of which she is part owner. Co-starring with Robinson, who was picked from 500 hopefuls for the part, are Robert Beltran (Eating Raoul) and Christina Pickles (St. Elsewhere). Directors for Veronica Clare include Mark Cullingham (thirtysomething, The Days and Nights of Molly Dodd).

The entire programming block will have an encore showing each Saturday, beginning July 27.

SOAP TALK

On-screen ladies' man Charles Shaughnessy is a proud papa

By Candace Havens

"When I'm dining, I care more about the ambiance than the food," says English-bred Charles Shaughnessy, who plays Shane Donovan on Days of Our Lives. "Give me an ocean view in a nice restaurant and I'm happy. About the only food I don't like is English food," he adds.

Shaughnessy's character is currently embroiled in a love triangle with the Brady sisters, Kayla (Mary Beth Evans) and Kimberly (Patsy Pease); he's dating one and divorced from the other. "I'm pretty keen on the story line we are working on now," says Shaughnessy. "It's the usual triangle, but the emotions in something like this are very dramatic."

"(Kim) is going to feel guilty, and I'm going to feel guilty, but at the same time I'm in love with her sister. It's good stuff. But we have to do it so that we don't upset the fans too much."

"I enjoy working with both women, but they are very different. They are equally exciting to work with. I'd like to see Shane have this affair with Kayla, and then later on he could realize that he still has feelings for Kim."

"Some days on a soap you are just coasting," says Shaughnessy. "It's fun when there is something that has to be done. This is also the perfect job if you have a family. I usually work around three days a week. I have as much time as I could want with my daughter (Jenny Johanna)."

"She has changed my whole attitude toward children. I've always liked children, but I never felt anything particularly emotional towards them. People would show me pictures of their kids and it would be, 'Gosh, when can I get out of here?'"

Since his own child was born, Shaughnessy says, "all you have to do is mention children and I get emotional. I consider myself a skilled and qualified parent. I can change a diaper just as quickly as anyone, and I wouldn't have it any other way."

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, TX 76161-1009. © TV Listing Inc.

STAR NOTES

Bridget not just a pretty Fonda

By Lisa Otoupal

Bridget Fonda's portrayal of a British call girl involved in the Profumo sex scandal of the '60s, in the 1989 British drama Scandal, brought the Fonda name back into the spotlight. Gossip mongers, however, will be disappointed to learn the only drama the newest heir to the family acting legacy intends to provide is on the screen.

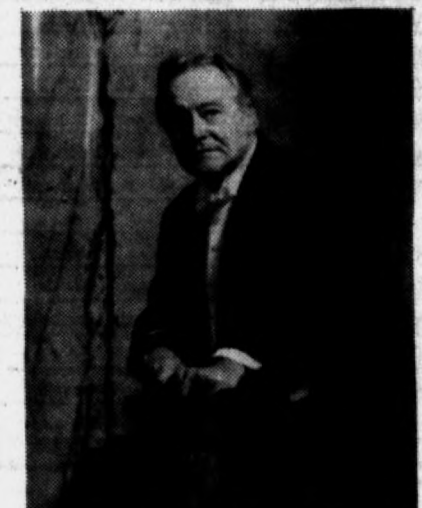

Fonda was born in Los Angeles. When her parents divorced, her brother left with her father, Peter, for the South Pacific, and Bridget remained behind with her mother, Susan Brewer.

After graduating from a private girls' school in Los Angeles, Fonda was offered a part in The Bride. Instead, she told director Franc Roddam she wasn't ready and headed for New York University to study acting.

Four years later, in 1988, Roddam remembered Fonda and asked her to be in his segment of Aria.

Like most actresses, Fonda has started with small parts. She has a co-starring role in the upcoming Doc Hollywood (with Michael J. Fox)—and is signed for the lead in the upcoming Singles (with Matt Dillon) and Single White Female.

Indeed, she seems nothing like her famous family. Peter was the '60s rebel. Jane's name was splashed across the headlines for her politics, romances and aerobics. Bridget has been called polite, sensible, levelheaded, sober, professional and patient. © TV Listing Inc.

Jack Lemmon heads the cast of the acclaimed miniseries The Murder of Mary Phagan, Sunday on NBC.

LeMond looks for fourth Tour win

By Steve Paschal

In 1986, Greg LeMond became an instant celebrity when he was the first American to win the world's most famous and challenging bicycle race, the Tour de France. However, in 1987 a series of accidents forced LeMond off of the world tour and threatened to make him just another sports trivia question.

Fortunately, things improved dramatically for LeMond after he returned to the tour two years later, and this week the Wayzata, Minn., native will attempt to join an elite club of four-time winners as ABC Sports presents comprehensive coverage of the 78th Tour de France.

ABC first televised France's premier sporting event in 1989 when LeMond celebrated his return to competition by making up 50 seconds on the final day to beat front-runner Laurent Fignon by a mere eight seconds, by far the closest finish in the history of the race. Last year he breezed to his third victory, and this time he'll be trying to win his third straight, and fourth overall title, leaving him just one victory short of the record shared by Frenchmen Jacques Anquetil and Bernard Hinault and Belgium's Eddy Merckx.

The Tour de France, which is run in 22 stages, is considered the most grueling of all bicycle races. It stretches over a 2,462-mile course through France and neighboring countries.

Cable channel looks back to the future

By Dan Rice

Who knows what tomorrow brings? Well, for starters, on Saturday, July 27, the feats and follies of science fiction will make up The Family Channel's special, The Future: Then and Now. Host Scott Ross will compare current predictions as presented at Disney's EPCOT Center with those from vintage science-fiction films such as Metropolis and Things to Come. Leaping back to the Old West, an unusual stranger comes Into the Badlands. Debuting Wednesday, July 24, on USA, the trilogy of weird tales stars Bruce Dern, Mariel Hemingway and Dylan McDermott.

Moving forward in its programming with a feminine focus, Tuesday, July 23, marks the premiere of three new series on Lifetime. The mystery Veronica Clare stars Laura Robinson as an enigmatic private investigator who is also a partner in a jazz club. The Hidden Room offers suspenseful narratives adapted from short stories of women struggling with their deepest fears and desires. Theresa Saldana is the host of Confessions of Crime, which examines criminal behavior, such as rape and domestic violence, by utilizing videotapes of police interrogations, as well as interviews with witnesses and criminal psychologists.

The masters of going faster will join together to honor this year's inductees into the International Motorsports Hall of Fame, Wednesday, July 24, on TNN.

FAMILY FARE

Nickelodeon offers fun for all ages

By Sherry Jones

If your kids are anything like mine, they're always looking for diversion on television. For varied, interesting programs that are also educational, there's Nickelodeon, the only cable network designed specifically for kids. During the day NICK offers a wide variety of children's programming, and after dark NICK at Nite is packed with black-and-white reruns.

Starting in early morning, NICK has designed its programming with younger children in mind. A daily one-hour series called Eureeka's Castle uses zany puppets to explore problems pre-schoolers face. Subjects ranging from competition and sharing to being afraid are just a few of the topics this program addresses.

If you're looking for a program that speaks warmly and directly to children, Fred Penner's Place may be just the ticket. Penner takes kids to a secret hideaway they can call their own, where he shares songs, stories and poems guaranteed to spark the imagination.

Lasso in comedy and adventure for teenagers by introducing them to a cast of wisecracking teens who work at a real dude ranch during summer vacation in Hey, Dude! Each day's episode is filled with Western adventure and a little bit of just plain growing up. Hey Dude! also brings new challenges by taking them out of the living room and back to nature.

LET'S TALK

College drop-out Bakula has made leap to fame

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Could you please give me some information about Scott Bakula and an address? I haven't been able to find anything. —Jill Church, Sugar Grove, N.C.

A: Bakula grew up in St. Louis and went to the University of Kansas, but dropped out to pursue an acting career. In 1976 he headed for New York and landed three roles in off-Broadway shows. He picked up a Tony award for his role in the musical Romance/Romance. In 1986 he and his wife, Krista, moved to Hollywood, where he established himself as a television leading man. He made his movie debut, as Kirstie Alley's husband, in Sibling Rivalry. He does his own stunts, singing and even plays his own instruments when the scripts of Quantum Leap call for it. In 1990, he received an Emmy nomination as Outstanding Leading Actor in a Dramatic Series but lost to Peter Falk. He and his wife have two children, Cody and Chelsey. Write to him c/o Universal Television, 100 Universal City Plaza, Universal City, Calif., 91608.

Q: Whatever happened to Lizbeth Scott, a beautiful, talented actress during the '40s and '50s? —Sue Marchessault, Prescott, Ariz.

A: In 1955 Scott sued Confidential over the magazine's allegations concerning her sexual preferences, and then in 1957, she made her last screen appearance in the film Loving You. She made a sort of comeback in the 1972 British film Pulp but has been seldom heard from since.

Q: Could you tell me about Matt Houston's secretary/girlfriend? She also starred as Princess Ardala in the Buck Rogers series. —L. Porter, Holbrook, Neb.

A: The actress' name is Pamela Hensley. She was born on October 3, 1950, in Los Angeles. From 1975 to 1976, she portrayed Janet Blake in Marcus Welby, M.D. In 1977 she was in Kingston: Confidential as Beth Kelly, an assistant to an investigative reporter who often worked undercover to unearth stories. Then, in 1979-80, she was on Buck Rogers in the 25th Century. After that she was in 240-Robert, an adventure/rescue show. Finally, she appeared in Matt Houston as C.J. Parsons, the Harvard-educated lawyer.

Q: I've acted out a small part in a movie called Jokers Wild, and I'm still waiting to see myself in the movies. They told me the movie was coming out soon, but that was ten months ago. Can you give me any information on it? —Tom Giarrappa, Garfield, N.J.

A: I can't find it anywhere. I checked our movie books and a video store, with no luck. If you want, write back and tell me the name of the company producing it or some of the actors appearing in it. Sometimes it takes up to a year before the movie actually is released, or the film could have been renamed. Sorry I couldn't help.

Q: Where was Rob Lowe born and how old is he? When is his birthday? What movies has he been in? —Sara Moulton, Paso Robles, Calif.

A: Rob Lowe was born on March 17, 1964, in Charlottesville, Va. He has been in St. Elmo's Fire, Bad Influence, Square Dance, Class, Oxford Blues, ...About Last Night, The Outsiders, Hotel New Hampshire, Youngblood and Masquerade. He was engaged to Melissa Gilbert, but they broke up and she married actor Bo Brinkman. In 1989 Lowe was embroiled in a scandal involving a sex-related amateur videotape in which he appeared. He has just announced his engagement to Cheryl Berkoff.

Oscar-winner Kathy Bates is shedding her ax-swinging Misery persona to star in a new 1960s-set drama. Bates will play a woman in search of her identity in Largo Entertainment's Used People, co-starring Shirley MacLaine. Production begins in September. Currently the actress is filming opposite 1990's Oscar-winning Best Actress, Jessica Tandy. The two are co-starring in Fried Green Tomatoes at the Whistle Stop Cafe, shooting in Juliette, Ga.
