BLOODY FIGHTING IS REPORTED IN EGYPT

EARLY REPORTS SAY CASUALTIES IN SUDAN HEAVY

ALL WIRES BETWEEN CAIRO AND CAPITAL OF THE SUDAN AREA CUT

By United News.

CAIRO, Nov. 28.—Bloody fighting in the Sudan between Egyptian and British troops is reported here.

The casualties are said to be numerous, but telegraphic communication between Cairo and Kahartoum, the capital of the Sudan was interrupted when the wires connecting the two cities were cut.

No details of the fighting have been received here.

Serious trouble has been impending in the Sudan since Tuesday, when Egyptian troops and officers telegraphed Lord Allenby, British high commissioner to Egypt their refusal to withdraw from the area in compliance with the demands of the British altimatum to the Egyptian government.

Native Sudanese troops believed to be loyal to the British are reported to have mutinied Friday, charging a military hospital, killing three physicians, two of them Assyrians, and one English.

British troops poured heavy rifle fire into the rampaging blacks and delivered the hospital from their attack. Reports of severe fighting at Kahartoum indicated that the revolting troops have reformed their forces and are standing against the British forces.

While blood was spilled in the Sudan British in Cairo proceeded with their campaign of arrests of nationalist sympathizers. An untamed student was arrested for plotting with others to take the life of Lord Allenby.

It is understood that the British will continue to seize the persons of plotters. The arrests begun Thursday when four prominent Egyptian nationalists, two of them former cabinet members were marched off by the British military.

Rumors of plots against Allenby's life are flying thick and fast around the city. His lordship has cancelled an engagement to attend the dinner of the St. Andrews Society here Friday.

Other Sudanese platoons were reported on the verge of mutiny Friday afternoon and it may these which have initiated further fighting at Kahartoum. The troops are acting without the approval of Pro-

PAYS ALIMONY BACK DUES WITH 2,000 PENNIES

By United News.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 28.—County officials say Harvey Leopold who recently confessed in court to being a "reformed bootlegger" has a grim sense of humor.

Leopold was brought into court to explain why he was falling behind in the alimony payments to his divorced wife. On his promise to take care of the matter immediately he was released.

An hour later he came to the office of Edward J. Schmidt, superintendent of the parole department of the welfare board carrying a tin box tagged "for Mrs. Lepold."

It contained 2,000 pennies.

YEATS TRIAL IN FINAL SESSION

DEFENSE SEEKS TO PROVE GIRL WAS UNHAPPY IN HER HOME LIFE

By United News.

NOWATA, Okla., Nov. 28.—The sensational trial of Joseph E. Yeats unfrocked Methodist minister of Alluew charged with abducting 14 year old Georgia Fields, daughter of one of his Parishioners, went into its final session Friday night.

Final arguments were begun at the end of a day replete with charges and counter charges by which the defense sought to prove that Yeats child bride had an unhappy home life and that her mother had been involved in an illict love affair.

Shortly before the evening recess however, C. F. Gowdy, counsel for Yeats repudiated the story, and admitted that rebuttal evidence late in the day had convinced him that the defense testimony was a fabrication.

A. W. Fields, prominent in civic circles in Alluew and father of Georgia, denied charges that he was not the father of the girl and testified that so far as he knew his daughter had been happy at home although he admitted he was strict about her choice of acquaintances, and friends.

Miss Fields, blueeyed and attractive, took the witness stand and denied testimony of the former minister that she had gone to him for protection. A story she told her girl friends which was repeated by them on the witness stand to the effect that she was unhappy at home, and that she "dearly loved Rev. Yeats" also were denied by her. The girl testified that she had made the statements on instructions from Yeats who anticipated trouble would arise following their elopement and that he wished to build a defense.

Close observers saw in the defense counsel's repudiation of testimony the collapse of Yeat's case.

WAR VETS SLOW IN ASKING FOR COMPENSATION

ADMINISTRATOR SETS OUT PROBABLE REASONS FOR THIS ACTION

BY THOMAS L. STOKES

Copyright 1924, By United News

WASHINGTON, Nov., 28.—The American ex-soldier who clamored so loudly for a bonus is slow to cash in on the opportunity offered by the government. Less than half of those eligible to a bonus of spot cash or an insurance policy have put in their claims, though they have had since July 1 to make application. What is the reason.

The United News asked Major General Robert C. Davis, bonus administrator for his opinion.

It apparently is not a widespread wave of sentiment against accepting a bonus—only 45 men out of the 3,700,000 eligibles, have written to General Davis that they do not want it. Of these, 32 wrote just after the law was passed on their own initiative. The few other refusals were in answer to a recent query widely published made so that Davis would know how to lay out his future program. These are some of the reasons given by Davis and his chief aide, Major John N. Smith, for the failure to act.

1. Natural delay of the average man to take advantage of certain opportunities; just a putting off from day to day.

2. Displeasure in some cases with an insurance bonus, instead of spot cash. Only those entitled to less than $50 in cash. In some instances ex-soldiers are waiting to see whether a cash bonus will be passed.

3. Ignorance that a law has been passed.

"We have found that there are lots of veterans who did not even know a bonus law had been passed," Smith said. "These are illiterates, which it was roughly estimated made up 20 per cent of the world war army."

A large number of veterans were displeased at the insurance bonus.

Some of these either out of their disappointment or because they hope a cash bonus will be passed, have neglected or delayed making application, as is shown.

Davis attributes the failure of veterans to apply to normal negligence and delay.

To date approximately 1,637,000 applicants have been filed, out of the 3,000,000 eligible. Of these, 275,000 have been approved by the special bonus division under Davis' charge, and sent to the veterans bureau which will distribute the cash and certificates.

ADMITS PUTTING PARIS GREEN IN SCHOOL LUNCH

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Nov., 28.—In a small place where domestic differences between a man and his wife become a burning issue for the scandal mongers 12 year old Mildred Potter became a bitter victim of the "sins" of her parents.

Tortured by the taunts of her erstwhile playmates in the little East Sorra public school which has 26 pupils, the heart of little Mildred became a poisonous well of hatred and longing for revenge.

Finally, the well overflowed and Mildred spread paris green with which her daddy used to kill potato bugs in the sandwiches of Margaret Hart, a girl two years younger. Mildred admits this much, but denies that she poisoned the school well.

Only the childish desire of six year old Agnes Hart, Margaret's sister, to see what Mrs. Hart had spread in the sandwiches led to discovery of Mildred's poison plot before it resulted in tragedy.

The story was unfolded before Magistrate Patterson Friday. Mildred was a brilliant scholar, but the happiness went out of her life when her father and mother separated. The other children never let her forget the fact. They were told not to play with her and she was subjected to continued ridicule and slights.

Owing to her tender age, Mildred has had no formal charge placed against her. The idea has occurred to some one in authority that a medical examination should be made of Mildred and after that they will decide what to do with her.

Appointments will not be announced until the middle of December, it was announced Friday and by that time, Mrs. Ferguson expects the number of applicants to total more than 1,000.

WITNESSES IN FORBES CASE BE CALLED MONDAY

WITNESSES CALLED FROM ALL PARTS OF COUNTRY; MORTIMER IS STAR

By OTIS PEABODY SWIFT

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—With statements of both the prosecution and defense laid before the jury the government will launch its full attack in the Veterans Bureau scandal probe Monday when witnesses for the prosecution will be called to testify in the hearings of fraud and conspiracy charges against Col. Chas. R. Forbes, former head of the veterans bureau and John W. Thompson, wealthy contractor.

Eliss H. Mortimer, formerly of the Veterans Bureau, will be the star witness for the government it is understood. Other witnesses will come here from all parts of the United States.

The trial it is said, may last from six weeks to two months.

James S. Easby-Smith, attorney for Forbes, made a strong defense of the former official when he addressed the jury Friday. He declared he would prove that charges against Forbes were "constructed on fabrications" of Mortimer and said that he would tell of a "gigantic fraud" attempt which Forbes squashed, namely a plot to have government dentists fill soldiers teeth with brass instead of gold.

Easby-Smith admitted that Forbes discussed with Thompson's St. Louis firm the cost-plus system of erecting veterans hospitals, and asked them about the integrity of certain contracting firms, but denied that there was any thing wrong in this.

Randolph Loughlin, also an attorney for the defense, denied government charges that there had been fraud in the selection of hospital sites He said the sites had been picked by experts, and approved by President Harding, who however, rejected three recommended sites, among them being the choice of Kansas City for hospital No. 9.

Just as the romatic career of Forbes had been bared in court, the defense Friday told the life story of Thompson, who, large, heavy-eyed, with massive chin, became the center of attention in the court.

Thompson, sixty years old, came from Ireland as a young man, poor and without education. He settled in Wisconsin and worked for 20 years as a telegraph orperator being "educated in the University of Hard Knocks, Loughlin said.

Then he got a job handling railroad contracts freight buildings and sheds. The business grew. In the last few years he has erected 100 great terminals and warehouses for railroads.

"He can go to any bank and borrow $2,000,000" the lawyer declared. During the war Thompson handled cantonment contracts for the government involving $12,000,000 expenditures.

"He has the Irish habit of lending money without security," the lawyer said, adding that Thompson lent his partner $30,000 without security in connection with one business deal.

OTTAWA, Canada, Nov. 28.—Further efforts to push the proposition to harness the St. Lawrence river in a great international electrical power project will be made next week when a Canadian deputation will go to Washington to confer with officials of the United States government according to a government statement issued here Friday night.

BLOOD FOUND IN FURNACE DEATH NOT HUMAN, SAID

PROSECUTED IS CLOSETED WITH FAMILY ALL DAY FRIDAY

By United News.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov., 28.—The murder theory of investigators following the mysterious cremation of Mrs. Addie Sheatsley was dealt a severe blow Friday by the report of Charles Long, a chemist, that bloodstains found near the Bexley Lutheran parsonage furnace were not of human blood.

The report of Long was handed to John R. King, county prosecutor while he was in conference with the Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, husband of the woman whose charred remains were found in the furnace a week ago last Monday and his two sons Clarence, 16, and Milton, 20.

Although the report did not deal with all the bloodstains found in the Sheatsley basement, it has added to the problems of the King who hoped to base his theory that the parsons wife was brutally killed and her body crammed into the furnace upon this evidence. A complete report will be made at a later date.

King spent the greater part of the day closeted with the members of the Sheatsley family questioning them further and checking their stories of the happenings on the day of the death of Mrs. Sheatsley.

For the first time since the case opened, an alienist was introduced into the mystery when Dr. R. C. Tarbell was asked to be present in the attorneys office during the questioning of Clarence, who was asked to relate again his strange actions in finding his mothers body in the furnace and then, without telling any one going out to play football.

King held a typewritten transcript of Clarence's previous testimony while a court stenographer took notes on his answers to questions in an attempt to bring out the young man's reasons for not informing any one of the presence of his mothers body in the furnace.

Final Chapter Written, Belief

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 28.—The final chapter in the Sheatsley furnace mystery is now believed to have been written.

In a little back room of the courthouse here Friday, the Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, husband of Mrs. Addie Sheatsley, whose charred body was found in the Lutheran parsonage furnace a week ago last Monday, and his two sons, were questioned probably for the last time by authorities.

After a prolonged quiz extending well into the night, John R. King prosecutor, announced that neither the pastor nor his boys had deviated from their original stories.

King said he was at last satisfied that no members of the Sheatsley family knows any more about the mystery than he has told. Sixteen year old Clarence Sheatsley was severely grilled. The prosecutor, his assistant detectives and Dr. R. C. Tarbel, an alienist, questioned the boy for four hours but his story of how he found his mothers body remained unchanged.

SUCCESSOR FOR COUNTY AGENT HERE IS NAMED

When Miss Mabel Marsh, county home demonstration agent, leaves her office on December the first, the place will be filled by Miss Lela B. DuBose, of Alice, Texas, who like Miss Marsh, is thoroughly experienced in the work.

Miss Marsh will leave the latter part of next week for her home at Oklahoma City. Her resignation was placed with the commissioners court some time ago, giving the commissioners ample time to secure a successor.

During the more than two years Miss Marsh has had charge of the work in this county a well defined program has been caried out, and she has made many friends throughout the county, and who regret to learn of her intentions to leave Lubbock.

Howard Bantist College, Anniston Alabama, will separate men and women students by providing buildings for both on the same campus.

MOTHER AND SON DIE FROM BURNS IN GAS BLAST

By United News.

NEGUNEE, Mich., Nov. 28.—Mrs. W. C. Bannon, and her ten year old son, Clinton, died at Robin hospital here Friday of burns received when a gasoline tank in the dry cleaning esablishment of W. C. Bannon husband and father, suddenly exploded.

The son was in the building at the time of the explosion and was blown bodily through a front window by the force of the blast.

His mother who was in the rear of the building at the time was overcome by smoke when she attempted to get to the boy.

Bannon rushed from the street and dragged his wife outside. They were taken to a hospital where Bannon's condition is reported serious.

POSTOFFICE BE MOVED TODAY

MUCH NEW EQUIPMENT MAY HAMPER SERVICE FOR A TIME, SAID

Postmaster John L. Vaughan announced late Friday that the post office will be moved into the new building on the east side of the square adjoining Hodges Brothers general merchandise store, sometime today.

If the office is moved before six o'clock this evening it will be necessary for the business of the office to be suspended for a while, however, if the move is not made before that time, all windows will be opened until six o'clock as usual.

Due to the fact that a great deal of new equipment, with which the postoffice employes are not entirely familiar, will be used in the new office, it was pointed out that perhaps for a few days mail will not be handled with the rapidity that has been a feature in the present location, and the patience of patrons is asked by all members of the force until all are adjusted to the new conditions under which they will work.

The only change that will be made in the service caused by the entrance into the new building will be that the money order window will not open until nine o'clock in the morning and will be closed at five o'clock in the afternoon.

All other windows will be opened at the regular hours—eight a. m. to six p. m. the postmaster said.

PARADE BE FEATURE OF RODEO THIS AFTERNOON

Several local automobile dealers and a number of other businesses of Lubbock will be represented in a mammoth parade at two o'clock this afternoon to be staged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce advertising the last day of the Rodeo given at the Fair Park under the directions of Bill Parkinson.

The performances Thursday and Friday were splendid, and as much favorable comment was made regarding the class on entertainment offered by the participants.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce selected the very best talent available to stage these performances, and today a number of Rodeo cowboys together with additional livestock will be used in staging the performances today that did not appear in the show Thursday and Friday.

The show starts promptly at 2:30 o'clock and special entertainment features are offered throughout the afternoon.

Business men wishing to have their firms represented in the parade may make arrangements through the Chamber of commerce office this morning.

YEGGS ENTER 13 STORES ROB ELEVEN OF $2,000

BELTON, Nov. 27.—This is a case of where the yeggs did not happen to be superstitious. Breaking into 13 stores in one night, and robbing 11 safes (by the way of luck it is supposed) they made away with their loot totalling $2,000, to show that didn't worry about the effects of the "jinx" number.

MOVE IS TAKEN AS PUNISHMENT ON THIRD PARTY

RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY YOUNGER MEN OVER VAIN PROTESTS

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Sentence of excommunication was pronounced upon Senator La Follette and his group when the republicans of the United States senate met in caucus here Friday—an unprecedented action which will have far reaching results.

This radical step was taken on the initiative of several younger Senators against the judgment of such heads as Curtis, of Kansas, the new leader; Cummins, Moses, Borah, Capper and a number of others.

Borah who was not present, criticised the action later in the day.

Cummins of Iowa; Howell, of Nebraska and Harreld, Oklahoma opposed it in speeches at the caucus. But when the resolution, presented by senator Reed, of Pennsylvania was put to a viva voce vote only two voices were heard in the negative.

At the white house it was said president Coolidge did not know how this would affect the legislative program. Senator Wm. B. Butler, of Massachusetts who is close to Coolidge as any other senator, declared he heartily approved the step.

Specifically, the resolution declares that the four insurgents—La Follette, of Wisconsin; Brookhart, of Iowa, and Frazier, and Ladd, of North Dakota—shall not be invited to attend future republican caucuses and shall not be named to fill any republican vacancies on senate committees in the future.

This action is the first aftermath of the recent campaign and is the first step in a program of punishment favored by some republicans against those who participated in the La Follette presidential movement.

There has never been any such attempt before. Those who left the republican party in 1912 and followed Roosevelt and even those who refused to follow the war policies, were allowed to retain their party status.

The biggest immediate effect is to prevent La Follette and his colleagues from obtaining any committee chairmanships. La Follette stands next to Chairman Smoot on the powerful finance committee, and next to Cummins who is at the top of the list on the interstate commerce committee, who controls all railroad legislation. The action of the caucus will prevent La Follette from in-

WORKMAN HURT IN TIRE SHOP FIRE FRIDAY

Stroud Darwin, employe of the Carrington Tire Shop, was severely burned about the hands at three o'clock Friday afternoon when fire broke out in the Carrington tire shop where he was working.

Darwin was washing a pair of coveralls in a bucket of gasoline when the gas became ignited from a blowtorch used by a fellow workman in another part of the shop ten feet from where Darwin was at work.

Three tires and other miscellaneous articles were damaged by the flames, but members of the Lubbock Fire Department arrived at the scene of the conflagration and extinguished the flames before any further damage was done.

It will be several days before Darwin can return to his work.

ADMITTED LOVER OF SLAIN BANKER IS QUESTIONED

By United News.

ALHAMBRA, Cal., Nov. 28.—Investigation of the murder of Wm. R. Fee, Los Angeles and Alahambra banker, centered here Friday when San Bernardino county authorities questioned Miss Mary Watkins, one of the central figures in the mystery.

Miss Watkins was near collapse after Sheriff Walter Shay had asked further details concerning her admitted love for the dead banker. The young woman insisted the affection was purely platonic.

A deposit box held jointly by Fee and Miss Watkins was opened and a number of love letters which had passed between the pair were held by district attorney C. O. Thompson of San Bernardino.

A second autopsy wes performed on the body presumbaly on discovery of an empty soda water bottle and an exploded shell near the spot where Fee's body was found Tuesday.

No arrests have been made in the case. Fee, president of three Southern California banks, wandered away from a mountain resort to which he and his wife had gone for last weekend. His body was discovered fifty feet from a cabin owned by Miss Watkins three days later. Death, it was said, had been caused by a blow on the head.

SIX SECTIONS NOTED TIAJUANA RACING STABLES BURN

By United News.

TIAJUANA, Baja Cal, Nov. 28.—Six sections of the Tiajuana Jockey club stables containing six hundred stalls, were destroyed in a spectacular fire which broke out Friday afternoon.

Sunny Jim Cefforth president of the club, said that one thoroughbreds were lost in the flames. Prompt work in rescuing the horses from the burning stables prevented loss of life he declared.

The fire is believed to be the work of incendiaries, and no estimate of the camage was given by club officials. It was announced that racing would be resumed Saturday, a force of carpenters being hastily recruited to work throughout the night in constructing new quarters for the aniamls.

Scenes of intense confusion attended the fire. Terrified horses broke away and dashed to the track and into the midfield. They finally were captured and herderd into the hills until the fire burned itself out shortly after nightfall.

Nine hundred thoroughbreds were on the ground, the winter racing season opened Thursday and a crowd of 10,000 was in the stands Friday.

If we could see ourselves as others see us, we'd never speak to them again.

mier Zlwar Pasha's cabinet. When word reached Cairo that the troops had refused to evacuate, a plea was sent by airplane to Kahartoum asking that bloodshed be averted, pointing out that the government had done everything possible to prevent the application of the British order. Fighting in the Sudan merely will add to the list of British grievances against Egypt. The immediate cause of the present difficulty was the assassination of Sir Lee Stack in Cairo, Sirdar of the Egptian army and governor-general of the Sudan.

Dissolution of the Egyptian parliament may be necessary to permit the British to continue the program of arrests outlined to quench the smouldering fires of intrigue among the nationalists. Thirty-five alleged agitators have been arrested so far, and the Egyptian press is objecting to their seizure because many of them are members of the chamber, and therefore entitld to parliamentary immunity.

The parliament was prorogued soon after Zaghlul Pasha resigned as premier. Dissolution was suggested at that time, and it may be necessary now in order to destroy the immunity to which the alleged plotters apparently are entitled.

Sudanese Troops Warned

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Sudanese troops in Kahartoum have been warned that breaches of discipline will be punished by death, and that the firing squad would be composed of men from their offender's unit, according to the Daily Express. Signs of disaffection are appearing among units other than the eleventh battalion which charged the European hospital at Kahartoum Friday morning. Officials here are without first hand news of the fighting in the Sudan. This is interpreted as a favorable sign. It is pointed out that if the situation in the Sudan were dangerous London certainly would have had an urgent report of that fact.

The British infantry battalions, a brigade of artilley equipped with quick-firers and a strong ammunition train comprise the British forces at Kahartoum. A third battalion of infantry is now enroute to the Sudanese capital. All the machine guns in the area are under British control.

The mutinous Sudanese troops possess only a limited quantity of small arms cartridges.

By LYLE C. WILSON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The crushing impact of mighty Britain against weak Egypt apparently has sent more than a tremor through the great Mohammedan world that stretched from near the west coast of Africa eastward along a broad, although spotty belt terminate in our own Philippines. Persia, the only Mohammedan state belonging to the League of Nations, intends to bring the Egyptian protest against the British ultimatum, according to some reports, demanding reparation for the murder of Sir Lee Stack, governor general of the Sudan before the League of Nations. This report if it is substantiated, means more than that one Mohammedan state is going to the aid of another in distress. There is a tremendous religious gulf between Persian Mohammedans and those of Egypt and many other Mohammedan countires. The difference is as great as that between catholics and protestants among Christian people, and is on somewhat the same lines.

The Persian faith is not quite as strong or uncompromising as that of the others. An orthodox Mohammedan knows that all unbelievers are dogs, and that unless unbelievers profess the true faith they must either die or become slaves. Hence, orthodox Mohammedan states were not anxious to enter the league where they would have to counsel with unbelievers as individuals.

If Perisa champions the Egyptian cause before the league, her action will represent a partial knitting of the frayed cloth of Mohammedanism. It would be the old story of outside pressure compelling inside differences to be forgotten.

The Mohammedanism of North Africa is of a particularly virile sort. From west to east along the north coast stretch the Spanish holdings in the riff, the French holdings in Tripoli, and furter east, Egypt. The riffs have almost ejected the Spanish troops. The Senussi in Tripoli are falling back slightly before continued Italian military operations. In Egypt, England is supreme, although not wholly comfortable.

The riffs and Senussi, especially the latter who experienced a tremendous effulgence of Mohammedan fervor in the middle of the last century, are the most warlike of the Mohammedan nations, and undoubtedly would like to communicate their fervor and skill at fighting for the Egyptians.

Meanwhile, there is much speculation regarding the probable action of the league if Persia champions Egypt. England asserts that the league has no jurisdiction and England is the most powerful member of the the Geneva organization.

SENATE OUTLAWS L'FOLLETTE AS THIRD PARTY PUNISHMENT

heriting either of these chairmanships by seniority, should they become vacant through death or retirement.

In accordance with previous plans, Senator Curtis was named party leader and Warson of Indiana assistant leader. Curtis was authorized to appoint a whip.

Young Senators Railroad Move

Old guard leaders thought they had succeeded in postponing the question of excommunicating La Follette until the new congress convened. But a group of younger senators ran away with the caucus and put through Reed's resolution by acclamation.

Debate was heated. Senator Cummins said that he and a number of other republicans supported Roosevelt against Taft in 1912 and were not read out of the party. They insisted that party designation was a matter determined by the voters of a senators state, not by a causus in Washington.

Ladd was the only one of the exiled senators. "I do not conduct myself to please the republican majority in the senate." I will continue to represent my state and particularly the farmers of my state no matter what any republican caucus of the senate sees fit to do" Ladd said.

Senator Norris who was absent declared it was a "vaudeville stunt." Norris was not expelled because he had not formally declared for La Follette in the campaign although he is one of the Wisconsin senators lieutenants in the senate.

"Leaders only make themselves silly when without authority they set themselves up as judges of other men's political beliefs" he said.

Pepper Approves Action.

Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania issued a statement approving the action.

"The resolution was not the result of precipitate action following a signal party victory, but a declaration of principle of party organization essential to the functioning of republican senators as a team to support the administration he said. We get results in Pennsylvania by party organization and I should have been reluctant to go back to Pennsylvania and face the republican voters of that state unless some action such as this had been taken."

Some of the younger senators like Edge of New Jersey and Ernst of Kentucky wanted to go even further. But it was decided that it would be unwise to do more than exclude the four senators from the party caucus and deny them further consideration in filling republican committee vacancies.

With La Follette holding the balence declare its competence to take he can combine his forces with the democrats and prevent republicans from tampering with committees which must be officially voted upon by the entire senate. In the senate of the next congress the republicans expect to have a working majority which will enable them to keep out the excommunicants even against a democratic La Follette coalition.

Whether there will be a La Follette fillibuster in retaliation cannot be foretold.

CHATHAM, Mass., Nov. 28.—The Italian steamship Castel Porziano is in distress with a broken rudder in latitude 37:14 north, longitude 55:08 west, according to a S. O. S. intercepted at WCC radio corporation of the American station here.

Collection of funds in the schools of New York City will be limited to purposes connected with such school activities as contribute directly to the educational advancement of pupils, those having to do directly with the physical welfare of pupils and those having to do with the decoration of auditoriums, and classrooms in if the recommendations of William J. O'Shea, city superintendent, are carried out.

NAVAL OFFICERS DUE BACK PAY, RULING OF JUDGE SAYS

By United News.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Under terms of a decision handed down by federal judge Paul J. McCormick, thousands of United States naval officials will receive back salary and allowances which had been held up by navy paymasters.

The decision was made Friday in the case of Lt. Commander Wm. Hetfield of San Diego against E. B. Barber, disbursing officer at the Naval Base there. The litigation involved $2,870, which Heitfield claimed had been withheld from him because of a ruling by comptroller general J. P. McCarl to the effect that his mother had not been entitled to a maintenance allowance paid her by the government.

Mothers of officers who are dependent upon their sons for more than half of their living, had been entitled to government maintenance under the original ruling. Comptroller McCarl changed this by a decision that navy officials whose mothers had an income of $60 or more a month, or property that could be invested to bring $60 per month, were not entitled to the government aid.

Heitfield with thousands of others was affected by this ruling. Paymasters were instructed to deduct the amounts already paid from the officers salary. Heitfield sought by his suit, to make the government prove its right to thus attach his pay for allowances previously granted. In his decision directing Barber to pay Heitfield's salary and allowances in full, Judge McCormick ruled that "neither the respondent nor the comptroller general nor the secretary of the navy nor any other agent of the ogvernment can offset the government claims by withholding or retaining any portion of the statutory salary due a naval officer.

Spain's first woman mayor has taken ofice at Cuayatre Tondera, in the district of Concentaina. She is Marie Perez, and her election is considered significant, because Spain has no law giving suffrage to women.

VANDERBILT TO OPEN TABLOID PAPER IN MIAMI

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—A pictural newspaper tabloid will be published in Miami, Fla., by Vanderbilt Newspapers Inc., according to announcement made here Friday. Cornelious Vanderbilt, Jr., president of the organization, is now in Miami. The new publication will probably be started some time in January, 1925, it was stated.

The Vanderbilt string already includes papers in Los Angeles, and San Francisco, with a fourth to be started in Detroit in the near future.

CONDITION OF CROPS IN RANDALL COUNTY ARE BEST IN YEARS

CANYON, Nov., 28.—Crop conditions in Randall county are in better shape right now than they have been at any time for several years.

Cotton is producing much better than was expected at a few weeks ago. E. W. Cabe, living five miles north of Canyon is making half a bale to the acre. E. W. Gist, 12 miles south of Canyon is also making half a bale. The cotton acreage will be increased next year, it is stated.

Local grain dealers say that more grain from row crops will be handled on the market here this year than during the two years past. Heavy yield and good prices are together causing the farmers to market their grains earlier than usual this year.

The wheat crop of Randall county was large but the bankers of the county estimate that much of money will be realized from the row and cotton crops than from the wheat. Every available threshing machine in the county is busy, wiht the big row crop at present.

A larger acreage of wheat has been planted in this coun this fall than for several years before. An inch of rain which fell Friday has brought the wheat into fine condition.

Large farms are constantly being cut into smaller ones, and a steady flow of settlers to the available places promises greater prosperity for this county with the coming of 1925.

Herriot Demands Confidence Vote From Deputies

By United News.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—The chamber of deputies has voted confidence in Premier Herriot by a vote of 299 to 246.

Heretofore Herriot's votes of confidence have been overwhelming. The present majority of only 53 represents a decided, but perhaps only temporary slump in the premier's supporting blocs.

Herriot demanded the vote of confidence after the Poincareist deputy, Taittinger had renewed his allegations of some days ago that members of the government had accepted money from industrialists during the last election. In a signed newspaper article appearing Friday afternoon Taittinger specifically accused Minister of Commerce Raynaldy of thus receiving 10,000 francs, and hinted that others had eaten the campaign contribution pie.

Raynaldy admitted receiving the sum for his newspaper from the union of economic interests, but denied corruption and was supported by Herriot.

A government motion permitted an investigation of the extent of the union's participation in electoral subsidies was brought forward. An opposition deputy attempted to to amend the motion, and Herriot announced he would consider the vote on the amendment as a measure of the chamber's confidence in him.

The chamber adopted the motion unanimously and rejected the opposition amendment 299 to 246.

BIG ESTIMATE IS COMPLETED BY PANHANDLE

The Panhandle Construction Company last month completed the largest estimate that has been completed at any time since the million dollar paving and storm sewer project was started last summer, according to an announcement made Friday by consulting engineer R. N. Roberts.

The city and property owners received finished paving and sewerage that cost ninety two thousand dollars.

With ample labor available and conditions favoring the contracting company in carrying on the work, unprecedented progress will doubtless be made during the remainder of this month, and many blocks of nedded paving will be opened to the public.

Sentiment is strong for other paving to be done in the near future, and with a big homebuilding boom on it is altogether probable that residential sections will be improved with paving not mentioned in the present contract.

Lubbock is making rapid growth and the ned for the conveniences enjoyed in other cities is growing also, making it imperative that paving, storm sewer, water and lights systems be extended as much as possible.

SHOP LIFTER IS NOT ARRESTED THOUGH GUILTY

A dress valued at $22 was taken from the Hemphill-Price Company store and the dress together with a young woman who confessed having stolen it, was located by members of the sheriff's force early Friday morning.

An investigation of the case showed that the young woman's condition would not permit a jail sentence and as she said she had no money with which to pay a fine, no complaint was filed against her by the owners of the store.

Deputy Sheriff Brown called at the woman's boarding house on Avenue I to make the arrest, and the young woman accepted all responsibility for the theft though she was accompanied by two other young women when they entered the store during business hours Friday morning. She also produced the garment which had not been damaged in any way, which she said she wanted to have returned to the store.

The young woman is an expectant mother and her husband has deserted her, officers said.

BLIND MAN BUILDS HIS OWN BUNGALOW

DENVER, Colo. Nov. 27.—A dream, orn when he was blind has just been realized by A. R. Brandit of this city.

In an attractive residential section stands a beautiful new double bungalow, constructed almost entirely by Brandit, after years of toil, unaided by the state pension for the blind to which he was entitled.

Now for retirement from the irksome duties in a broom factory where he worked and saved finally acquiring the money to purchase materials for his home!

From excavating his basement to shingling the roof, Brandit toiled alone, excepting for an errand boy, and occasionally some tradesmen to acomplish those fine details of work which only an expert can perform.

With the bungalow nearing completion, many thought the blind genius had picked a partner to share his home in the later years of life.

"Not me," was his laughing answer. "I know when I'm well off."

Rather sadly, though, it seemed he added, "I would only be a burden to a wife. No, I shall never marry."

THIRTY MEN BUILD CHURCH IN DAY WITHOUT STOPPING

CLEBURNE, Nov. 27.—Without stopping to enjoy the usual masculine comments on receiving a "cracked thumb" thirty five professional men of the city built a brand new church in one day.

Wth only two or three carpenters present the greater part of the work was done by men whose usual tools are typewriters or pencils. Elder O. F. Sinbaugh and other members of the ministry assisted, which explains the lack of good old fashioned cuss words.

The ladies of the congregation served the workers with lunch, keping the "pencil pushers" busy handling a saw, or hammer on their fingers or nails, whichever happened to be in the way of the hammer.

REED IS OPPTIMISTIC OVER ORCHESTRA PROSPECT

AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—With the arrival of many new instruments the percussion section of the University of Texas Orchestra is rapidly being completed. Frank L. Reed, professor of music, says the greater enthusiasm being taken in this work is evidenced by the large number of applicants comprising the waiting list. While in France last summer, Mr. Reed purchased a quantity of music for the orchestral library which is daily expected to arrive. This music represents a variety of composers but is mainly of the French school.

S. T. Hall Has Charge of Freight Shipments Here

S. T. Hall, former manager of the local station of the Pierce Oil Corporation, an dwho entered the service of the Santa Fe Railway Co. last September, has just been promoted to freight foreman, having charge of the handling of large shipments received at the local depot.

Mr. Hall has been in the employ of the company in the past, and when the local agent became aware of the fact that the work of handling the large freight shipments received and sent out of the local yards demanded the attention of one familiar with the business, Mr. Hall was selected to fill the place.

The railway company is enjoying a good business locally and Mr. Hall has a great deal of responsibility in looking after the work assigned him.

ROBINSONS CLEARED OF CONSPIRACY IN BLACKMAIL PLOT

BY CHARLES MC CANN –

LONDON, Nov., 28.—Charles Robinson and his pretty blonde wife Maude, have been vindicated by a jury of the charge of complicity in the blackmail of the mysterious eastern potentate who was trapped with Mrs. Robinson in a Paris hotel.

Thus Mrs. Robinson's sworn statement that she became the eastern prince's inamorta because she loved him, and Robinson's equally formal denial that he planned his wife's unfaithfulness for gain, are accepted as the truth by ten men and two women who comprised the jury hearing the case. The notorious trial came to an end Friday so far as public hearings are concerned, when the case went to the jury. Actual decision on the principal question involved—whether the Robinsons are entitled to recover $625,000 of the $750,000 hush money paid by the potentate from the Midland Bank, where the money was deposited and later withdrawn by the persons who engineered the blackmail plot—will not be made for ten days or a fortnight. Meanwhile Lord Justice Darling has heard secret arguments by the opposing counsel without a jury.

After one hour and 15 minutes deliberation, the jury returned to them by His Lordship. The findings of the jury were as follows:

1. Charles Robinson was not a partner in the conspiracy to obtain money from the potentate.

2. Mrs. Robinson was not a partner in the conspiracy.

3. A conspiracy to discover to the potentate and Mrs. Robinson in a comprising situation and to obtain money from the former.

4. The potentate's mind was so harassed by the consummation of the blackmail plot that his action in parting with two checks, each for $750,000 (payment on one of which was stopped) was not voluntary.

Justice Darling immediately put three more questions to the jury but permitted it to have a cup of tea before retiring to deliberate further. The jury returned to the court after a short time of discussion and added to its verdict as follows:

5. The Midland bank, in paying forged checks drawn against the hush money fund, obeyed the mandate under which it received the money for deposit.

6. Wm. C. Hobbs who deposited and likewise withdrew the hush money in his questioned capacity as personal attorney for the Robinsons purported to be acting when he withdrew the money under the same authority as when he deposited it. That is, he convinced the bank that he was representing Robinson in withdrawing the money. Robinson says such was not the case and that Hobbs withdrew the money for his own gain.

7. Whether Hobbs or the law firm with which he was connected transferred the rights in the check to the Robinsons, was a point upon which the jury could not agree.

Justice Darling said he would take some time for deciding that matter.

Sir John Simon, in his final argument to the jury brought a thrill of hope to the eager scandal fans who had crowded into the court room for the final session of the trial. Scores of them had huddled outside the law courts door before dawn, their hands hunched into heavy overcoats to escape the dreary pelting of a rain that fell from nowhere through a pall of greasy fog.

Men and women were in the queue. They had their breakfasts with them. As the dawn began to break, the patient waiters livened up enough to take an interest in the sandwiches and buns in their pockets. Over the crumbs of a bready breakfast the muffled idlers passed their own lay judgement on the trial and those connected with it.

It was worth the waiting to these persons when Sir John suddenly asked Justice Darling's permission to bare the oriental love rites imposed upon Mrs. Robinson by her dusky lover.

"I ask your lordship's permission," Sir John said, "to lift the veil from the intimate questions asked during the trial.

"These questions had been of such a nature that they could not be spoken in open court. Questions and answers had been written on slips of paper."

"There is no illegal instrument involved in these questions," Sir John continued. "It was a matter of a safety razor.

That was all. Justice Darling did not permit a further elucidation and the folk who packed the court room are trying to solve a mystic problem in which as prosaic a utensil as a safety razor figures in the love rites of an Indian prince.

Attorney Arrested

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Wm. C. Hobbs, the attorney who participated in the blackmail of the mysterious "Mr. A" has been arrested at Gravesend, according to a Central News from that town. It is believed that Hobbs was in Gravesend to board a boat for the continent.

Following Hobb's arrest, it was announced that warrents have been issued for the arrest of another man concerned in the potentate case indicating that the authorities have decided not to await Justice Darling's decision before proceeding against some of the principals in the blackmailing plot.

Lengthy Court Fight Is Likely In Rhinelander Case

By United News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The attempt of young Leonard Kip Rhinelander, Jr., to detach himself from his dusky wife probably will result in a legal brawl with no holds barred, somewhat like the Stillman case, in which the family pride and aristicratic reserve of the Rhinelanders seem duo for exceedingly rouga treatment.

Mrs. Alice Jones Rhinelander, the bride, referred to as a "colored" girl by the repentant youthful heir to the Rhinelander wealth and family traditions, not only intends to resist the annullment suit, but may also bring a suit of her own against Philip Kip Rhinelander, her father-in-law, for alleged alienation of her husband's affections.

Young Rhinelander, himself, is as scarce at the present time as his weeping bride, who cannot be seen by anyone. Both principals in the strange romance have gone into refuge refusing to give their eager neighbors in well-to-do Westchester a glimpse of themselves.

Samuel F. Swindburn, a city judge of fashionable New Rochelle, a suburb which neighbors Pelham on the shore of Long Island Sound, has been busy studying the antecedents of the "colored" Jones family from which young Leonard Rhinelander chose his bride, only to renounce her within a month. As counsel for the deserted wife, Swindburn intends to argue that "colored" in the case of the Jones family means Aryan, not African, and he will advance the claim that the Aryan and Caucasian races are collateral; in other words, that Rhinelander, with his white pallor is in no position to object to the racial background of his bride. Swindburn said the grandfather and great grandfather of the new Mrs. Rhinelander both were born in England, and that their forbears came from India, not from the West Indies whose inhabitants are of African descent.

Young Rhinelander did all the aggressive courting before the marriage Swindburn said, and the Miss Jones that was, realizing that they came from contrasting social elements, had to be persuaded to enter into the union.

High schools meeting certain prescribed legal requirements in Arkansas, Florida, Iowa, Kansas, Maine Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vemont, West Virginia, and Wisconsin receive state aid for maintaining teacher-training courses, according to information supplied by the United State Bureau of Education.

Forty years ago there were but two schools in this country for prospective teachers of physical training. Today there are more than a dozen special schools of this kind, and 55 colleges and universities are giving courses leading to a degree in this subject, according to the United State Bureau of Education.

WITHOUT A HOME WE MERELY EXIST

It is said that no other language has an exact equivalent for our word "Home." House, mansion, abode, dwelling, habitation—these but poorly express the wealth of feeling and affection which crowns the homely, homey name of "Home." As John Howard Payne has so beautifully expressed it:

"If I return overburdened with care,
The heart's dearest solace I'm sure to meet there.
The bliss I experience whenever I come,
Makes no other place seem like that of sweet home."

A prize was once offered for the best definition of Home. There were five thousand replies. Among the list were these:

"A world of strife shut out, a world of love shut in."

"The father's kingdom, the children's paradise, the mother's world."

"The coziest, kindliest, sweetest place in all the world, scene of purest earthly joys and deepest sorrows."

"A hive in which, like the industrious bee, youth garners the sweets and memories of life for age to meditate and feed upon."

"An arbor which shades when the sunshine of prosperity becomes too dazzling; a harbor where the human bark finds shelter in time of storm."

A humorist suggested these:

"The best place for a married man after business hours."

"Where you are treated best, and grumble most."

What America needs most of all is not "back to the farm," but back to the home. More real living, and less "flivvering," more good cooking, and less jazzing; more time around the evening lamp and less in front of the movie flicker.

Recreation is good and needful, but the eager and constant pursuit of pleasure—anywhere but at home—invariably leads to discontent and unhappiness—if nothing worse.

A real home need not to be rich and elaborate. A few rooms, cozy, cheerful and comfortable, are capable of supplying more real home to the square inch than a palace. The home atmosphere cannot be bought; it must be created by loving, unselfish hands. It is a priceless possession fit for any king; but a joyous reality which few kings have ever known.

With all your getting do not fail to get a home. Nothing else will take its place as a retreat after a hard day's work. Make it something more than a mere place to eat and sleep. Revive the old home circle. Get acquainted with the children. Make home the center of attraction for them.

The breaking down of home life makes itself felt by such contributions to society as the cake-eater, lounge-lizard, finale-hopper, bobbed flapper and other breeds of wild women.

Try to imagine a good old Christmas Day observed without a real home circle. You may pay ten dollars a plate for an elaborate hotel dinner, but it will taste flat and insipid when you think of the celebrations of your boyhood in the old home.

"A home for everybody," is our motto, "and everybody at home—at least a part of the time."—The Paper Book.

SCHOOL CHILDREN AND DRUGS

Major Brewster, a leading criminologist and deputy warden of a large reformatory testified before a Congressional committee, that 60 to 80 per cent of the inmates of reformatories are drug addicts, and of these fully 90 per cent use heroin. The United States Treasury Department estimates the number of drug addicts in this country at one million.

The department also states that the average annual importation of opium into America for home consumption is 471,943 pounds, or approximately 235 tons, nearly twice the maximum amount necessary for the medicinal and scientific use of the world. This is nearly four times as much as for all the great nations of Europe combined.

These drug addicts are not former alcohol users as many antiprohibition enthusiasts would have us believe, for the record now compiled shows that the great majority of them are school children, both boys and girls.

Those who have given this matter serious study assert that this drug habit is largely responsible for the wave of crime that seems to have developed among our youths.

The Giants and the White Sox are coming home from their European trip discouraged over receptions given on the continent. The trouble seemed to be that European "fans" were all in America.

FARMERS NO BETTER, NO WORSE THAN OTHER MEN

We occasionally receive letters that convey the idea that just because a man farms for a living, that he is deserving of special consideration. Some letters display a hostility towards all classes of people who do not till the soil or work union hours for the union scale of wages. All others, according to the writer of these letters, are non-producers and the most of them secure a living through the exercise of sharp and questionable methods. Extension workers, scientists and teachers of agriculture and its various branches come in for special condemnation, while those engaged in the banking business are catalogued in their minds as enemies of civilization.

Letters of the character just described are not a product of the present political age. The same kind of letters were written to newspapers more than sixty years ago, as may be verified by reference to some of the old files of the Galveston News. Undoubtedly such letters have been offered the press from time to time since the birth of the printing industry, and before that the same sentiment was heralded from the public platform or cried out from the street corners. There are always a class of dissatisfied people and always will be, and perhaps it is well, for many valuable reforms have been brought about by agitators whose only pleasure seems to be derived from differing with the views of their neighbors on politics, religion and education.

While the upright, industrious farmer is no better than any other man of similar qualifications in other lines of business, he is just as good, and that is the ground on which every farmer should stand. His success, in a very large measure, depends upon intelligent effort, but were it not for the teeming millions in other lines, he would have nothing to work with and no market for what he produces. While the farmer is essential in our present scheme of civilization, so is the merchant, the banker, the manufacturer, the teacher and the preacher.

The agricultural industry has seen hard times. Many thus engaged have found it most difficult to pay expenses, but the same is true in all other lines. The difference lies in the fact that the hardships of the farmer are broadcasted from the housetops for political purposes, while the difficulties of other business men are published in the news of the bankruptcy courts. Nine-tenths of the business men in cities are operating on a relatively small capital. Nine-tenths of the laborers in the city, who work rain or shine, in the cold or in the heat, barely get by in paying living expenses. If either were to take as many leisure hours throughout the year as does the average farmer, the small business man would be forced to close his doors, and the laborer both skilled and unskilled would have to apply to charity for bread to feed his family. Side by side, in parallel columns, there are as many failures in the city as there are in the country. Side by side, in comparison, there are as many men engaged in farming who are unfitted for the present-day requirements of the industry as there are men in the city who have been crowded into the wrong occupation or the wrong line of business. If one or the other has an advantage, it lies with the farmer who applies himself intelligently to the business of making a good living and laying by some each year for the "rainy day."—Farm and Ranch.

THE WEST IN THE POLITICAL SADDLE

The West certainly has no cause for complaint in the organization of congressional affairs. With General D..... of Chicago, presiding over the Senate; Mr. Borah of Idaho, heading foreign relations; Mr. Smoot of Utah, chairman of finance; Mr. Warren, of Wyoming, chairman of appropriations; Mr. Johnson, of California, chairman of immigration; Mr. Norris, of Nebraska, chairman of agriculture, and Mr. Capper, of Kansas, Mr. Stanfield, of Oregon, Mr. Jones of Washington, and half a dozen others in important chairmanships, the western country will be fairly in command of Senate proceedings.

In the House with ways and means, agriculture, appropriation, immigration, military affairs, public lands, and veteran's legislation et al., in western hands, and Martin B. Madden of Illinois as speaker, it will be their fault if things do not go as they want them.

MARRIAGE HEALS AUTOMOBILE WOUNDS

PUEBBLO, Colo., Nov. 28.—Picking up the scattered fragments of two families disrupted by an automobile accident, a Father nad mother have united their families and provided a home for the seven children orphaned by death of the father of one and the mother of six.

Lewis S. Cole met his death in a Pueblo irrigation ditch attempting to rescue his sister-in-law, Mrs. John D. Cole, and her baby. All were swirled to eternity in the black waters that had swallowed the car.

John Cole mourned the loss of his wife, daughter and brother; Mrs. Lewis Cole vainly attempted to support her five children. Grief and financial straits drew the two and their children together and love grew from companionship. Quietly they were recently married.

Three homes, in reality, have now become one, for Mrs. Sarah Cole, mither of the drowned man, has taken refuge into the new dweling, far from the scene of the triple tragedy.

OKLAHOMA COUNTY HAS THE LARGEST GAS FIELDS IN THE WORLD

CHICKKASHA, Okla., Nov. 28.—A recent report by the department of mines and minerals of the United States government lists Grady County as having the largest natural gas field in the world with an estimated production of over 2,740,000 cubic feet a day. Pipe lines lead to this city and others in Oklahoma giving big industries fuel for as low as nine cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Industrial experts say the Oklahoma gas fields will revolutionize industry in the southwest for firms requiring cheap fuel such as glass and brick plants, smelters, etc. Because the West Virginia and western Pennsylvania gas fields are becoming rapidly exhausted, industrial engineers are now turning to Oklahoma as the next location for their plants and several recent surveys have been made for large industries here.

A course in the unification of the kindergarten and the first grade is given by Johns Hopkins University as a part of its service to elementary teachers.

Scissored Editorial

BE CAREFUL.

(Sweetwater Reporter).

The people of some communities are shocked every day by the news of an automobile wreck / fatality. Over the week-end, the toll of the highway accidents increases and on Monday, the press of the nation chronicles the great number of deaths.

There is apparently little that can be said or done to cut down the number of deaths resulting from motor accidents. People do not willfully drive their cars in a manner calculated to increase the hazards of motoring. Neither do they seek to imperil their lives and those of their passengers. But some of them do take reckless chances.

"Don't Be Reckless—But Wreckless," might be well taken as a solution for motorists. Perhaps you are considered a good driver. This fact does not make you immune from accidents. The driver who considers his car a member of the family and gives it every attention naturally likes to get something out of it on the highway. He wants to feel the thrill of the "pick up," the response of his motor when it is called on to demonstrate its power, the joy of humming down the road with his machine absolutely under control.

This is all splendid as long as the driver remembers to BE CAREFUL. The state and nation spends millions of dollars to keep our roads passable. They are made for safe and sane traffic, and the driver who takes hazardous chances, who endangers his own life and property of his fellow citizens, who forgets to be CAREFUL, is guilty of criminal negligence.

Even if your next motor trip is a matter of life and death, BE CAREFUL. Don't over-estimate your ability to handle your machine. Remember that conditions over which you have no control guide the destinies of your journey, that obstacles of which you know nothing may be in your path. Be ready for the emergency when it comes by being careful and keeping your car under control to meet the crisis that you may face instantly. Study the odds when you take a chance—BE CAREFUL.

THE TECH COLLEGE

We notice several pictures of the Tech College at Lubbock and it is not so large a building as we expected. However it is a beginning of greater things. Lubbock should at once begin to realize on this institution. Boarding houses will spring up and like all college towns the atmosphere of learning will have a refining influence on all society. There will soon develop that desire for learning that will be a stimulous to education in that particular community. Schools always attract and will do so for Lubbock. Abilene has built on her schools alone but her schools are denominational which is always a greater attraction that State institutions. Huntsville, College Station, Denton, Austin and several other towns which have State institutions have never derived much growth from them. College Station is in a good country and has one of the greatest schools in the state but it is just a school town. Usually a school town is one where the middle classes in point of wealth is attracted. The rich seldom make a state school town their residence. We were in Austin, Texas, for four years in the University of Texas, and nearly all the people who bought homes there for the school were people of moderate means class.—Lamesa Reporter.

THE TEXAS TECHNOLOGICAL COLLEGE

The cornerstone has been laid for the first building on the campus of the Texas Technological College at Lubbock. The state is about to have a new institution of higher education. It is located in the Plains country, one of the newer sections of the state, and also one of the most progressive. It is a new kind of a school for the Southwest in that it will stress agriculture and livestock, taking up many of the departments of study now important at the A. and M. College, but at the stame time will be coeducational. As the school develops branches of study in keeping with its name will be introduced, giving to Texas the only school of technology west of Atlanta and south of St. Louis.

The Texas Technological College will serve a very large section of Texas. It should receive adequate support from the state and the loyalty and patronage of the people of West Texas. In time it will not only become a great asset to West Texas, but to the state at large.—Farm and Ranch.

A novel loan scholarship is provided at the Mississippi State Teachers' College. One hundred and twenty-five dollars of the proceeds from the college motion picture shows held during the year is set aside for this purpose. Several such scholarships have thus far been provided.

Secondary education administered on the basis of the county unit is making rapid progress in Virginia. Many county surveys were made during the past year, in each of which a program was outlined for secondary education, The Bureau of Education of the Interior Department participated in six of the surveys.

By matching a conditional offer of $500,000 from the General Education Board, Fisk University has established the first million-dollar endowment for college education of the negro in the history of America. The income of this fund is to be applied exclusively to teachers' salaries.—School Life.

INTERSECTIONAL FOOTBALL NEXT YEAR VERY PROBABLE AS WESTERN TEAMS REFUSE TO KNEEL TO EAST

By HENRY FARRELL

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Intersectional football in 1925 probably will have its biggest and most interesting year. That means that football in general will be in for its greatest season, as it is the intersectional idea that has been responsible for the amazing growth of the game.

Pennsylvania University grabbed off two of the finest attractions that could be presented in the East by scheduling games with Chicago and Illinois, two of the powers of the Western Conference.

Pennsylvania got the games because the athletic directors at Philadelphia were smart enough to get the jump on other big Eastern universities by agreeing to a home-and home arrangement.

Willing to Game for Game

On a visit to the middle-west during the past season the writer asked several prominent coaches in the Western Conference why Chicago was the only conference team that seemed willing to book games with big Eastern teams.

"We'll play any team in the East if they will agree to give us a return game at home," the coaches said. It was pointed out that some Eastern teams still had the old idea of superiority and clung to the notion that Western teams should be flattered to get a date on a big Eastern schedule.

"We feel" several coaches said, "that the Western game is just as good as Eastern football, if it is not better. We can't see where we should be expected to take a trip to the East on our knees. We have all the good games we can handle right in our neighborhood and we feel that we are doing Eastern teams a favor to book games with them."

West As Good As East

There is no question that Western football is just as good as the Eastern game and that the big Western Conference teams are doing a favor to travel East and pack big stands with crowds that wouldn't turn out for a lot of games that Eastern teams have to place on their schedule.

Middlewestern football is too good and too independent to accept anything but a return of compliments and a home-and-home arrangement for intersectional games.

Pennsylvania was smart enough to see this and get the jump on the others. Penn not only will have Chicago and Illinois in th eschedule next year, but it is possibe that the University of California will have one date. Penn opened relations with California this year with a trip to the coast and California has agreed to repay the visit. Dame wanted on October date and Penn couldn't find a place for it.

With Pennsylvania setting a precedent, it is probable that a number of other big intersectional games will be seen in the East next fall and in 1926. The Navy goes to Ann Arbor next fall for a game with Michigan, and Michigan will be seen at Annapolis or in New York in 1926. Notre Dame, of course, can be counted on for three appearances in the East each year and it is quite possible that either Yale or Harvard will play the famous South Bend eleven.

New Stadium Opened

Marquette and Detroit University have Eastern fixtures and it is quite possible that Chicago will repay Brown for this year's visit and help Brown to pay for the fine big stadium that will be opened next fall. Pittsburgh also has a new stadium under construction and might look upon a good Western team as a good fund producer to help pay for the structure.

Pennsylvania also, with a comparatively new stadium, is arranging a schedule designed to attract a capacity crowd for every game on the card and Philadelphia is big enough and crazy enough about foot ball to pay the freight.

Red Grange, the sensational Illinois halfback, would draw 100,000 in the Penn stadium if there was enough seats for them. "I'd like to take over that game and work on a percentage basis at ten dollars a head," a professional promoter said recently when the game was announced. With all the publicity he has been given in the East, Grange probably could pay them in with the ringside rows at fifty bucks.

Army May Go West

Western business men are making persistent efforts in Washington to get the Army - Navy game away from the East, but as has been pointed out before, it is quite improbable that the superintendents of the two service academies would consent to have the game played more than a reasonable distance from West Point or Annapolis, as it would take too much time from their classes and cost too much money to send the corps of cadets and midshipmen to a distant city. The army team, however, may go West for one game next year.

Notre Dame is the greatest drawing card in the game for that reason will be a welcome number on any card as long as the class of the team remains up to tis standard of the past three or four years. As long as Knute Rockne is in charge of football at South Bend it is a safe bet that Notre Dame will have a great team. Miller, Crowley, Layden and Stuhldreher, ranked by Eastern critics as the finest backfield that ever played football, will be gone next year, but you can bet your last nickle that Rockne has the men ready now to take their places and that he could tell you their names, now, if you can't guess them by reading the accounts of Notre Dame's games this year.

Notre Dame is so much sought after by Eastern teams, because they know in the east that Notre Dame has a good team.

ROUTT BEATS THOR JENSEN TAKING LAST 2 FALLS

Lubbock fans were treated to a good bout Friday evening when R. R. Rout of Lubbock, met Thor Jensen in a best two out of three fall match, Routt winning after taking second and third falls. The match was staged in the G. Bert Davis show tent after the performance and was accorded only a medium audience. The match promised to be a good one, both wrestlers being in good condition and showing plenty of pep, but unfortunately was marred when Jensen fell from the ring in second fall, injuring his shoulder.

Jensen won the first fall in 22 minutes, with a reverse arm lock—this fall being filled with plenty of action and thrills for the fans. The second fall was accorded Routt after having thrown Jensen with back upon the mat and pinning him to the floor with a headlock. The time of this fall was eleven minutes. The third fall was also won by Routt after a brief interval of only three minutes—Routt winning with a head and scissors and hammerlock. The total time of the main bout of the evening being slightly more than one half hour. The match was preceded by a preliminary wrestling of 10 minutes and a second preliminary bout was staged between the first and second falls of the main bout of the evening; Rhea Beard and Elmer Moore of even weight wrestled to a win for Moore in nine minutes with a body scissors.

It was announced after the match that Bomar Moore of Lubbock challenged the winner of the Routt-Jensen match but date of the match was not given out. This announcement was received with much interest and this match will no doubt draw a good crowd.

BALTIMORE HOST TO ARMY-YALE GAME THIS YEAR

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

BALTIMORE, Mr. Nov. 28.—The big brass hats of the Army and Navy are clanking and gleaming on the streets of Baltimore for the world series of football, the Army and Navy game, has bten moved down here tihs year, close to the navy teams Annapolis base, and close to Washington too, where the gilt lies heaviest on cap visors and epaulets.

Saturday afternoon, President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge, who sounded the nations highest social tone at the worlds series in Washington just a couple of months ago, will ocme over from the capital and adorn a far more sporting occasion, a combat between football teams picked from the pick of youth of the land, heirs to the most enthusiastic and cleanest and evenest rivalry in the country. Even Harvard and Yale in their classic enmity seem slightly less ardent tha nthe Army and the Navy and certainly their combats are much less picturesque for generals and admirals make up the front rank of the chorus at these occasions and cabinet officers are glad to carry the spears.

The hotels in Zaltimore are crammed tonight and the Baltimore cars on the midnight train from New York to Washington are coming down londed to the linen closets with people who unloaded at the cold cheerless hour of 7 a. m. and then go hunt their coffee. But it was the navy's choice and the navy selected Baltimore as this year's battle site, a long wreary haul for the regiment from West Point who are coming to "root their team in."

Even around Baltimore where the navy influence is as noticeable as the reef of rub stuff in a training camp there is an idea that the army will shoot out in front in this game breaking the tie which has existed for the last two years. In 1922, the army and the navy came abreast after 24 years of trampling upon one anothers wishbones with a dozen victories each and last year they played a tie. Now the army comes down with Harry Wilson who played three games against the navy when he was on the Penn state team with Wood and Gilmore, two violent rams to hurl against the line, and with a rock nucleus in the center of the forward group, Captain Garbisch, who will be playing his last game of football Saturday. The navy has never been able to blanket Wilson entirely in the past and as he is on the field there is a danger that a forward pass will go sailing over the melee into his stickey fingers, and that he will away for a touchdown.

Army's record is an index to the trembly condition in the navy's own neighborhood for the Army has lost only one game, to the incomparable backfield of Notre Dame, and tied Yale, and the sailors have lost five games. Marquette beat the Midshipmen 21 to 3 early in the season; Wesleyan won 10 to 7 on the following Saturday and then Penn State took a turn at the game, winning 6 to 0. Bucknell was the latest conqueror and again the score was 6 to 0. So there is nothing in comparison of the records to reassure the goblets of Annapolis.

SOUTH PLAINS BOYS WILL MAKE LETTERS IN ABILENE SCHOOL

Two of the three freshmen that will letter on the Abilene Christian College football team this year are Theo Powell and J. C. Richards of Ralls, who were members of the Ralls High School team last year.

Powell who was early picked by the coaches on account of his speed as likely material for this year squad has come up to all expectations and as a runner, kicker or passer is the most dangerous man on the Wildcat team. Although there were six backfield letter men of last year's squad reporting for places on the team, Powell started the second game this season and played the entire contest. Since that he has been in the starting lineup of every game with the exception of a game against Trinity University when an ankle which was injured against Wayland College, kept him out. As the fleetest man on the team he has made gains by circling the enemy's end and ranks second in scoring with the Abilene backs. He is one of the most likely candidates for the captaincy of the 1925 wildcat squad.

Richards who played a line position on the Ralls team lest year was shifted to end by Coach Morris and he has also been in all the starting lineups since the second game of the season. His speed and height make him an ideal pass receiver. With a year's experience he should prove to be one of the leading Texas Interscholastic Athletic Association ends next year.

BATTERY READY FOR PLAINVIEW GAME HERE SUNDAY

All is in readiness for the jambouree here Sunday afternoon when the "High Explosives," representing the local battery of artillery, is scheduled to meet the "Shrapnels" a like organization of Plainview in a contest for football supremacy, it was said by Harold Griffith, a lieutenant in the local battery, who with other officers, is completing plans for the scrap.

This game, the first of its kind here, will lead to a regular schedule, and eventually to an annual affair, that may develop into huge proportions, if hopes of battery officials in the local organization are fulfilled.

The local eleven will be made up mostly of youngsters, many of whom have been in high school this year. Especially is this true with the backfield, according to Griffith.

The Plainview squad in all probability will be of the same nature with a sufficient sprinkling of old timers to make the contest one of deepest interest. The starting whistle is scheduled to blow at about 3 o'clock at the Fair Park.

INTERNATIONAL IS BROUGHT TO TAW IN DRAFT DISPUTE

By United News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The International League the most defiantional League. The most defiant of the minor baseball leagues in the so-called draft dispte with the majors surrendered Friday when the club owners of the organization at the first of the winter meetings voted to adopt a modified darft rule.

The rule is copied after that of the American Association and the Pacific Coast League, the other two class A circuits. The new rule in the international provides that players may be accepted from the major league clubs subject to repurchase at the draft price, provided that not more than eight players on any one team shall be subject to the draft.

For a long time the International refused to permit the majors to draft its players. Most of the club owners preferred to retain clear title to all their players with the idea that if the major leaguers wanted them at all, they should be compelled to pay the market price rather than an arbitrary draft figure.

TRAINING SCHOOL OF SANITARIUM TO START ALUMNI

Eight nurses, graduates of the Lubbock Sanitarium Training School met here Thursday night to organize an Alumni Association. The training school has graduated about twenty-five nurses who are now practicing their profession in six different stats The nurses present were: Mrs. C. P. Tate, formerly Miss Lydia Simpson, now living at O'Donnell, Texas; Mrs. Ray formerly Miss Tempest Pollard now living in Amarillo, Mrs. Aubrey Hardesty formerly Miss Linnie Burrows, now living at Abernathy; Miss Lester Jones, Miss Bertha Norman. Several of the graduates sent messages of regret that they could not be at the organization of the Alumni Association but wanted to be enrolled as a member.

Dr. Hutchinson made a talk to the nurses and told them of the growth of the Lubbock Sanitarium, about several new departments that had been added and also told them that the institution had received word from the officers of the American College of Surgeons and that the Lubbock Sanitairum had been enrolled as one of the approved hospitals of the country. He explained to the nurses just what this meant, that the requirements were very high and that at this time there are only two other hospitals west of Fort Worth in this state that are enrolled as approved hospitals by the highest organization in the country in reference to hospital standardization. There is one hospital in Wichita Falls and one in El Paso that were on the list.

Dr. Hutchinson explained that a complete record of every case admitted to the hospital must be kept on certain standardized blanks showing the record before admittance to the hospital and during the time in the institution and a follow-up record of each case must have a complete laboratory report and the laboratory must be in charge of a competent technician trained in Laboratory work. Another requireemnt is that the medical staff must be organized and regular meetings of the staff be held to disucc all patients under treatment at the time and other matters in reference to the better care of those in the institution. He said that there were many other requirements but the object of all of them was more scientific treatment and better results and care of those in the institution.

Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. C. P. Tate president, Mrs. Tempest Ray, vice-president; Miss Mary Louis Wood, secretary and treasurer. The business session was followed by a banquet in the nurses home which was greatly enjoyed by all.

By United News.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Disregarding the exhonoration recommended by a coroners jury the county grand jury Friday returned an indictment charging Zane R. Southern, a chauffeur with murder.

R. E. Mack, theatrical agent, was killed by Southern last week.

Southern surrendered saying Mack had seduced his wife. Mrs. Southern, who had been employed as Mack's secretary admitted intimate relations with the theatrical man, saying she had been unable to resist his offers of jewels and pretty clothes.

The coroners jury called the killing "justifiable homicide," but the district attorney's office asked and received the grand jury indictment.

INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION OF MASTER COTTON SPINNERS AND MANUFACTURERS REPORTS DEVELOPMENT PLAINS COTTON

The Panhandle-Plains section of Texas was never before in the light of so much advertising that covers the entire scope where cotton is grown as is the case during this year.

Big newspapers, with circulations reaching into several states, have lauded King Cotton's reign on the Plains as a permanent source of wealth for the entire Lone Star State, and other desirable features of this section have been given widespread attention, but the subject of cotton growing here was perhaps never more vitally effected by favorable publicity, than when the following report was made in a meeting in London, England, by Arno S. Pearse:

Extracts taken from report of Secretary Arno S. Pearse of the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers Association to the International Committee Meeting held at London, England, October 30, 1924, entitled "Report on the New Cotton Districts in U. S. A."

"The Plains section comprises territory varying in width from 30 to 75 miles and 150 miles in length, in which cotton has been successfully grown"—

Twenty years ago the railroad companies used to pay farmers to cultivate land until recently this district was considered suitable only for pasture. It is principally due to experiments made with cotton on the Texas Experimental Station near Lubbock City that cotton has been taken up during the last five years as the staple crop and during 1923-24 the Plains country has produced more than a half million bales of hotton and tsere has been an increase in acreage of from 20 to 25 per cent.

Lubbock county has 550,520 acres of which 527,744 are tillable and the total acreage of the 13 counties surrounding Lubbock is 8,082,560 acres of which 91 per cent is tillable.

Experiments and general farming experience have proved that cotton is one of the most drouth resistent crops which can be grown. The yield per acre, the freedom from boll weevil, and the success of the early maturing varieties have attracted a large number of farmers from states east of the Mississippi River and these constitute probably the most enterprising farmers from these sections. The writer considers that the extension in this section of Texas is aking on such proportions as to become an important factor in the world's total cotton production.

The variety of cotton generally grown is Mebane. 20 per cent of the crop represents 1-inch stapel, 70 per cent 1 1-16-inch and 10 per cent fully 1 1-8-inch, and the cotton in this part is very hard and strong. The ginning outturn of th chulk of Mebane is 35 per cent.

The Plains country produces various kinds of grain crops—wheat, sorghums, etc., and if ever cotton becomes below 15 or 16 cents on the plantation, it is likely that many farmers will go over to grain crops. From what I can ascertain the cost of production of cotton to the farmers was 15 to 16 cents per pound, including all costs of labor.

There is no other cotton section in the whole U. S. A. which can compete with so low an average price of production, except the irrigated cotton in the Mesilla Valley.

Co-Op Marketing Association Is Formed at Post

POST, Nov., 28.—Can the farmers operate an intricate business organization with any profit to themselves is often asked but there is seldom an opportunity to get actual figures on such operations for there are but few of them in existence in Texas.

By the charter under which the Association is incorporated the officers of the organization are allowed to buy, sell, store, handle and operate upon practically every commodity produced, consumed or used on the farm. And the Garza county association makes full use of the provisions of the charter. In addition to buying farm products out right for the purpose of the association is not to pay a profit in itself, but to pay the farmers of Garza County a profit in securing the full market price for every farm commodity, the association pools cotton, feed, cotton seed, turkeys, poultry, eggs and other commodities and ships them in car lots to various national markets each farmer paying a small commission on the transaction and taking his pro rata share of the income received from the sale.

The association buys coal, flour, salt, sugar, farm implements, and other staple commodities used on the farm in car lots and sells them direct to the farmer at cost plus 5 or 10 per cent charge for handling. The 1924 volume of business will show a turnover of more than a half million dollars with a membership of 400 Garza county farmers. The privileges of the association are not restricted to the membership of stock holders but is open to any farmer.

Judge J. M. Boren is president of the corporation, A. B. Stewart is secretary and has charge of all sales purchases and operations. The warehouse is of the approved type the marketing department is of sheet iron with concrete floors, automatic water sprinklers in case of fire and other modern improvements make it practically fire proof and reduce the fire insurance rate to practically nothing. Being a bonded warehouse the farmers can hold their cotton without tying up the full amount of its worth for the banks will loan money on the warehouse receipts. Several hundred bales are stored at a time with a total capacity of more than 1,000 bales for emergencies.

"They are recognized as one of the largest and most profitable business institutions in the town" said one banker in speaking of the operations of the association. "They have already grown in number of stockholders, volume of business done and profit shown from year to year since their organization in 1920." Plans are under way for the erection of additional brick warehouse, a brick office building and storehouse and all property owned by the association.

One is forced to the conclusion that at least the Garza County farmers can profitably operate an intricate business proposition with profit to themselves and the other farmers of that county.

CHICAGO PROPOSES TO STOP THE JAYWALKERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Police power to arrest and fine "jaywalkers" is the aim of certain legislation sponsored by the Chicago Safety Council, that will be pushed for passage at the next session of the legislature according to Si Mayer, secretary of the commission.

Mayer's plan is fashioned after one proposed by Police Commissioner Enright of New York. Support of the automobile clubs is being lined up for the measure. Passage of such a measure would be a stroke in realization or mitigation of the police drivers against speeders, the drivers organizations point out.

According to Mayer more than 90 per cent of the fatal automobile accidents in Chicago this year have resulted from jaywalking. "If pedestrians won't take care of themselves, the law will have to take care of them," Mayer said.

Regulations For Coffee Roasters in Texas are Violated

By United Press

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov., 28.—Over half the coffee roasters of the state are putting out either misbranded or adulterated coffee in violation of the Pure Food and Drug Act, according to the reports of inspectors of the Food and Drug division of the State Board of Health.

These inspectors are making a survey of all the coffee roasters in Texas, investigating the amount of output, the building and premises, the employes, equipment, and raw materials on hand as well as the quality of the output. Coffee used by these wholesalers is imported and merely roasted in the state but they put their wn brands on it.

The inspector of the Food and Drug division buys a sample of the coffee and sends it in to the laboratory wheer a microscopic and chemical examination is made to determine the contents of the package. Over half the samples thus collected have ben found to be adulterated or misbranded, thus they are liable for prosecution under the Food and Drug Act of Texas.

Most of the violations come from the wholesalers who sel coffee in 50 and 100 pound bags to retailers who in turn sell it in paper bags. There is no label on the container and the purchaser has no way of telling what he is getting.

The most common adulterants found in the samples are chicory, roasted rye, wheat, and chic peas. Four inspectors are now engaged in this work and a complete survey of the state will be made as soon as the limited personnel can cover the territory.

MOTION PICTURE COMPANY ENTERTAINED WITH BANQUET

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov., 28.—Mrs. Bess Strong of Dallas, organizer of the Blue Bonnet Motion Picture Productions, entertained at Dallas with a banquet celebrating the recent organization of the company. This is the first motion picture company to be chartered under the laws of Texas.

With no state in the union with a history comparing to that of Texas the ultimate purpose of the company will be to present the people a "living and true" story of this great state from the earliest time to the present date.

The main offices of the Blue Bonnett company will be at Dallas. Plans for the erection of a studio are now under way.

Anyway, a defeated candidate has time to rest up and wonder what happened to him.

DR. HORN IS ELECTED PRESIDENT SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

Prof. Paul W. Horn, president of the Texas Technological College, has been elected teacher of the Young Men's Class of the Methodist church.

Allen Hill, well known local wholesale man, was elected assistant teacher; Dr. R. B. Hutchinson, president; P. B. Williams, vice president; J. B. Marcey, secretary, and L. E. Moore, treasurer.

The class has been making rapid growth and all indications are that it will become one of the biggest classes in the school.

The young men of Lubbock have proven themselves good Sunday School goers in that the several schools of the churches in Lubbock have unusually large attendance of young men at the regular services.

Appropriations Of Over 31 Million for Expenses is Asked

AUSTIN, Nov., 28.—Total appropriations of $31,306,984 were recommended today by the state board of control for operating the state during the next biennium. This is $200,000 less than recommended two years ago and about $11,000,000 under the requests made by departments and institutions.

This is the first official announcement by the board of the final figures on the budget, which has been in preparation for many months.

State departments and institutions requested a total of about $42,000,000 but since the state's available income is not over $40,000,000 the board was compelled to make drastic cuts, and many reasonable requests had to be turned down, according to Senator Cowell, chairman of the board.

The gross amount recommended is really $1,300,000 more than the budget of two years ago, but since five new state institutions took $1,407,000, the recommendations for the institutions and departments as they existed two years ago is considered to be about $200,000 below the former budget. The net amount exclusive of the new institutions, therefore, is $29,899,654.

"We were compelled to eliminate many requests that should have been granted," said Cowell. "But of course we must keep the expenditures within the states income. We first took care of the operating expenses and maintenance of institutions and departments as they exist, and then we passed the remainder around for new buildings where they were most needed.

What ever became of the old-fashion youth who felt at home at home?

TERRACING FARMS IN LUBBOCK COUNTY IS VALUABLE

Few men are responsible for a greater amount of material development throughout Texas than the county farm agents, and especially are those of the Plains doing a valuable and appreciated work.

Lubbock county has had several county agents since the office was established in the county, and David F. Eaton who now has charge of that office here is doing much constructive work that is meaning something in a material way to our farmers.

More than twenty Lubbock county farms have been terraced and much land heretofore on the "waste land" classification has been turned to good producing soil where cotton and feed is grown in quantities.

One farmer has assured the agent that through land conserved through terracing he has grown two bales of cotton this year." In other words the program carried out on that farm has already proven a good investment, and the terraces can be used from year to year with but little repair work done.

The county agent has a small bulletin on terracing that are for free distribution among farmers. If your land is wasting by washing away, consult the county agent. He will appreciate an opportunity to help make any Lubbock county farm more valuable.

UNIVERSITY INSTRUCTOR TO BE MEMBER OF SPANISH COLLECE FACULTY

AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—Miss Helen Phipps, instructor in romance languages at the University of Texas will be one of the American representatives in the faculty of "La Escuella Internacional Para Seoritas", a woman's college in Madrid, Spain, next year. Miss Phipps is prominent in educational circles, having written a textbook used in the University entitled "Paginas Sudamericanas;" a pamphlet, "The Agrarian Phase of the Mexican Revolution of 1910-202, published in a recent issue of the Political Science Quarterly, and a pamphlet on the agrarian problems of Mexico, published by the "Conference On Economic Factors in International Relations."

POLE DERRICK IS ALMOST UNCANNY IN ITS OPERATION

There are erected in the Bell System each year in the neighborhood of 600,000 new telephone poles. In addition the maintenance of over 14,000,000 poles, involves the moving, removing, resetting and straightening of large numbers of poles annually. To accomplish this immense task the pole derrick is being used more and more.

A very light weight, easily operated type of pole derrick has been developed for use in the Bell System, by means by which three persons, a chauffeur and two men, can erect a 35 or 40 foot chestnut pole in a few minutes, work which formerly took seven or eight men, seventy times as long to accomplish. The derrick is mounted on a two and one-half ton truck. It is constructed of high grade steel tubing, having a strength of approximately 70,000 pounds per square inch.

A pole derrick can be taken out of its rack on the truck and assembled in position to handle a pole in three or four minutes. The actual time of erection is ordinarily very short. In fact under average conditions, poles are erected and dropped into previously dug holes at the rate of about two minutes a pole.

MARKETS

FORWARD MOVEMENT RESUMED IN POST HOLIDAY TRADE

BY EDWARD J. CONDLON

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The forward movement was resumed in the stock market on Friday the interval for the holiday making a breathing spell for a fresh start upward. Total sales approached the two and one-half million mark, with industrial stocks in wide demand. The average gain for the leading industrial shares was a point. One factor which might have dampened enthusiasm except in a genuine bull market was the firming up of call money to the four per cent rate, the highest level in months but it was recognized that this firmness was largely due to the shifting of funds incident to December 1 requirements and the security markets pursued an even course through to the finish.

To say that Wall Street was elated to hear that the radicals in the senate had been read out of the republican party would be to employ a mild expression. It served as the basis for a drive toward higher levels in stock prices and afforded fresh support for the security markets in general.

The mercantile reviews indicated that progress now being made in various lines is substantial in character and widespread. Duns review says that there is now more confidence and more disposition to increase committments with larger buying to fill immediate requirements and to make provision for future needs. It also points out that except in a few instances there has been no rapid expansion.

Bradstreets' Journal reports bank clearings in the United States for the week at $7,695,359,000 against $9,906,215,000 last week.

The commodity markets on Friday were irregular. Grains were a shade high for the active positions, except December oats, while cotton moved lower on private estimates of a substantial increase in the yield. Of interest to traders in the wheat pit comes the announcement from the Argentine chamber of commerce that exports of wheat this year will amount to 4,154,000 tons against 3,552,000 tons for 1923.

Lesson for November 30

THE GOOD SAMARITAN

LESSON TEXT—Luke 10:25-37.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.—Luke 10:27.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of a Good Neighbor.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Parable of the Good Samaritan.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Be a Good Neighbor.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Whose Neighbor Am I?

I. How to Inherit Eternal Life (vv. 25-28).

1. The Lawyer's Question (v. 25). "Lawyer" here means one versed in religious law, the Scriptures—not lawyer in our modern sense of that term. It would more nearly correspond to a theological professor. The lawyer's object was to trap Jesus—to induce Him to take such a stand as would weaken His influence as a teacher. He expected Jesus to set forth some new ceremonies which would conflict with or disparage the law.

2. Jesus' Question (v. 26). Though Jesus knew the motive of the lawyer he did not evade his question. He sent him to the law, the field which was familiar to him. He thus was robbed of his own weapon.

3. The Lawyer's Reply (v 27). He made an intelligent answer declaring that the entire content of the law was embraced in love to God and man. This expresses the whole of human duty.

4. Jesus' Reply (v. 28). This straightforward answer went to the heart of the lawyer. Perfect love to God and man is truly the way of life. No man has yet had or can have such love. His sinful condition precludes its possibility. Man's failure to measure up to this requirement is his condemnation. The lawyer keenly felt this thrust. He was defeated on his own grounds and convicted of guilt.

II. Who Is My Neighbor? (vv. 29-37).

1. The Lawyer's Question (v. 29). This question reveals the insincerity of the lawyer. Christ's answer had reached his conscience, and now he seeks to escape the difficulty by asking a captious question. Lawyer-like he sought to get off by raising a question as to the meaning of words.

2. Jesus' Answer (vv. 30-37). This more than answered the lawyer's question. In the parable of the Good Samaritan He makes clear who is a neighbor, and also what it means to be a neighbor, or what loving a neighbor means. Christ's answer had a double meaning. He not only made clear who is my neighbor, but made it clear that the lawyer was not playing the neighbor. He thus was convicted of not having been a neighbor.

(1) Who is my neighbor? This destitute and wounded man left on the highway by the robbers is the man who needs a neighbor. My neighbor, therefore, is the one who needs my help, whether he lives next door or on the other side of the world. Those who have the Spirit of Christ can see their neighbors on every hand.

(2) What being a neighbor means. Our supreme concern should not be "Who is my neighbor?" but "Whose neighbor am I?" To be a neighbor is, (a) to be on the lookout for those in need of our help (v. 33). (b) To have compassion on the needy (v. 33). Christ's compassion was aroused as He came into contact with those who were suffering and in need. All those who have His nature will be likewise moved. (c) To give to those in need (v. 34). Many are willing to give money to help the poor and needy, but are unwilling to personally minister to them. Many times the personal touch is more important than the material aid. We should give ourselves as well as our money. (d) To bind up wounds (v. 34). (e) To set the helpless ones on our hearts while we walk (v. 34). This is proof that love is genuine. Christians will deny themselves in order to have something to give to those who have need. This kind of sympathy is greatly needed today. (f) To bring to the inn and take care of the unfortunate (v. 34). Genuine love does not leave its service incomplete. Much Christian service is spasmodic, helps and then leaves a man to take care of himself. (g) To give money (v. 35). It costs a good deal to be a neighbor. Love is the most expensive thing in the world. It cost God His only Son. It cost Christ His life. May we go and do likewise!

Opium Conference Adjourns After Very Heated Argument

By United News.

GENEVA, Nov., 28.—After a heated fight between the American and Indian delegations in which the lie was passed by implication if not directly, the League of Nations opium conference found it necessary to adjourn late Friday, in the hope that a more conciliatory spirit would prevail when the meeting resumes Monday.

The controversy broke out when Stephen Porter of the American delegation demanded that the conference declar its competence to take up the American project for suppression of the opium traffic. This would pledge the contracting powers to enact effective regulations for the production and distribution of raw opium and coca leaves, so no surplus would exist for any but medical or scientific purposes.

India led the fight against Porter's proposal, her delegates declaring it exceeded the official agenda and that India would not discuss the subject except in a specially convened conference. The America program would wreck the conference, declared Delegate Campbell of India. If the conference became involved in a maze of technicalities, it would disappoint the world, Porter replied, pointing out that the United States had accepted the invitation to the league meeting with the understanding that it would consider the American program. Campbell challenged the right of the United States "to endeavor to force other nations to accept its interpretations."

"If we discuss the American project," Campbell said, "it would be difficult, probably impossible for India to continue to arpticipate in the conference, because it would involve preventing the use of opium by the Indian population. This is purely a domestic problem."

The lie virtually was passed when Campbell declared that Porter, in private conversations, had accepted the viewpoint regarding India's domestic use of opium, and its exclusion from international discussion. Bishop Brent, of the United States, said he was convinced that Campbell "honestly believed the interpretation he had placed on the conversations, but the American interpretation," the bishop added, "was different."

As the argument became more bitter, the meeting was adjourned upon the urgent appeal of the Cuban delegate.

Challenge Issued For Submission of Zinoviev Letter

By United News.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The soviet union once more has challenged Great Britain to submit the Zinoviev letter to court arbitration to determine whether it was written by Gregory Zinoviev, president of the communist internationale, as the British allege or is a clever forgery designed to injure the soviet union with the British government and public. The Reugans declare forged papers are being manufactured by Czarist emigrants in America and European cities.

The challenge was contained in one or two notes delivered by Christian Rakovsky, Russian representative to Great Britain at the foreign office Friday.

One note briefly acknowledged and regretted the British governments earlier communication declaring that the trade and general treaties negotiated by the late socialist cabinet and the Russians would not be ratified by Premier Baldwin's conservative government.

In a second note the "Zinoviev letter" was discussed at length.

Referring to the indictment of the soviet for spreading anti-British propaganda contained in a note signed by Austen Chamberlain, conservative foreign secretary Rakovsky declared:

"My government cannot accept such unproven allegations. In the past accusations have been made repeatedly against the soviet union, based on documents which proved to have been forged.

"Russian emigrants of the czarist regime are manufacturing such documents in a number of American and European cities, the note declared in order to undermine the soviet union's international position.

"If the British government reiterates its accusations based upon a forged document, the soviet union must insist upon arbitration as the sole means of unbiased settlement of the question."

FIRST NATIONAL GETS MONEY TO FRANCE IN TWO HOURS

LOCKNEY, Texas, Nov. 28.—One day last week a customer walked into the First National Bank and requested that the bank wire 700 Francs to Paris, France. The efficient force of the bank got busy and within two hours time had a confirmation from a Paris bank that the money would be paid to the party at that end of the line.

Mr. A. B. Brown, president of the First National Bank, states, that service and efficiency are two of their greatest assets, and that it is a pleasure for his bank to do things with dispatch and accuracy.

17 KNOWN LOST AT SEA IN STORMS NEAR ENGLAND

LONDON, Nov. 27.—At least 17 men are known to have been lost at sea as storms and gales raged Thursday along the coast of Southern England.

The British steamer Harley sank in a gale off Portland, and her crew took to the life boats which overturned. Seventeen of the crew were drown and but two were saved.

The Harley floundered in attempt to float the 1200 ton Ross Channel Steamer Dieppe which was driven aground at the entrance of the New Haven Harbor early in the morning.

The Dieppe was finally refloated and her passengers, dishevelled but cheerful are safely hearthed after a five hour ordeal.

Considerable storm damage was caused along the British coast line and for some distance inland. The Almazora was blown adrift from her berth at Southhampton, but was not damaged.

DR. PIERCE APPOINTED ON BOARD FOR DENTAL RESEARCH WORK

CANYON, Nov., 28.—Dr. C. A. Pierle, of the chemistry department of the West Texas State Teachers College, and Dr. S. L. Ingram have just returned from Dallas where they attended the meeting of the National Dentist Association.

Dr. Pierle is one of three men appointed by the Research Committee of the association to study the cause and try to find the remedy for the brown stain which occurs on teeth of people in certain localities of the United States.

This brown stain, as it is called, is found on the teeth of nearly all persons who have grown up in certain portions of Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas and a few other states. Many theories have been advanced as to its cause, but none has been proved.

Continuation schools for dressmakers' apprentices are maintained by the ministry of education of Czechoslovakia. Students may have either of three courses, ezch of which requires eight hours a week. All of these courses include drawing and other technical subjects related to the dressmaking trade. Other subjects taught in these courses are hygiene, arithmetic, bookkeeping and civics.

DOMESTIC ART IS POPULAR COURSE FOR YOUNG WOMEN

AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—Domestic Art is taught at the University of Texas with an eye both to its practical and theoretical phases, according to Miss Lucy Rathbone, instructor in the department of home economics. By a careful study of materials, weaves, and prices the girls learn how their money can be spent to best advantage in buying their wardrobes. They are given opportunity to actually make the dresses on which they apply their theories of designing, tailoring and general sewing.

In one course the girls have just completed making tailored silk dresses. They were allowed to select their own patterns and materials. These dresses ranged in price from $11 to $20, which does not include the time expended. Miss Rathbone says, however, that these dresses if bought ready-made would range in price from $20 to $50. As the girls know beforehand the problems, or types of dresses, which they are to make, they can make allowances for them, and so are actually making parts of their school wardrobes. Moreover, by making these dresses themselves, many of the girls are able to buy better materials and have worn durable dresses than if they were buying them ready-made.

The next problem on which the girls are to work is a wool dress of any type the individual student wishes. Students of this course are also making budgets suited to their needs, as well as for different sized families of various incomes.

In another course dealing with textiles, under the direction of Miss Lena Wilson, detailed study of fibers, weaves and the chemical analysis of different materials is made. The students weave rugs and scarfs as applications of their study. Last year this class made a trip to a gingham mill to see weaving on a large scale.

Five-year kindergarten training courses are given in two institutions—Wellesley College and the University of Cincinnati. The course at Wellesley is upon a strictly graduate basis. That in Cincinnati is a three-year professional course based upon a two-year liberal-arts course as a prerequisite.

A commission of three German educators employed by the Government of Columbia to make an exhaustive survey of educational conditions of that country have arrived at Bogota and have taken up their duties.

CLEVELANDS NEW TERMINAL TO COST SIXTY MILLION

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 28.—Cleveland's new union station and railway terminal, now under construction will be completed in 1928 at a cost of $60,000,000, according to an announcement by W. E. Pease and H. D. Jouett, engineers.

The station will handle 60,000 persons a day, according to Jouett.

The terminal will cover 30 acres and the structure will tower above the tallest buildings in the city. Jouett said the building will be as high as the building code will permit.

The project is backed by O. P. and M. J. Van Swerengen, of the Nickelplate and affiliated systems.

Four hundred buildings were razed for the terminal site, which borders on Public Square, in the heart of the downtown district. Three million cubic yards of earth are to be evacuated.
excavated.

About 400,000 cubic yards of concrete and 30,000 tons of steel will be used, according to the engineers. Forty-two miles of terminal track will be laid. There will be a platform space of 450,000 square feet.

BERLIN MOST NOTED SINGER LOST HIS JOB

BERLIN, Nov., 28.—Leo Slezak, one of Berlin's most noted singers, is out of the Komische Oper.

A contract netting him the handsome figure of $200 a night, has been thrown into the scrap heap and the management of the revue house is ready to fight the whole affair out in the courts.

The manager claims he provided for a 30-night engagement at the royal figure on the understanding that the public stood for high prices for seats. The public didn't, says the management, hence Slezak's contract is null and void. Slezak, on the other hand, opines that there has been a raw breach of contract, and opines that it is similar to breaches which have become, since the war, all too common here.

The public doesn't care much. It views Slezak as a fallen idol—good once, but very sad now.

Sorority Cup Awarded

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov., 28.—Kappa Alpha Theta sorority has just been awarded the scholarship cup by Panhellenic Society of the University of Texas for having made the highest scholastic record of all the sororities during the last year. The cup was presented by Dr. H. T. Parlin, chairman of the committee on student social organizations. Last year the Pi Beta Phi sorority received the scholarship cup for the third consecutive year, and earned the right to keep the cup permanently.

That no child in the city will be more than half a mile from a playground is the goal set by the park and playground officials of Milwaukee. Three kinds of play spaces are planned: (1) Those equipped with apparatus for small children; (2) playgrounds with small baseball diamonds and space for basket ball; and (3) athletic fields with regular base-ball diamonds, football fields, and tennis courts.

SAN ANTONIO RESTAURANTS USED FOR BATTLE FRONT

By International News Service.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 28—San Antonio restaurant owners should organize boxing clubs instead of restaurants, for one downtown restaurant has been the "battle front" of four battles in as many days.

This time it was two men, drawing their guns on each other, and threatening to shoot if either moved a step, that caused the patrons of the place to desert their chop-suey.
