Contract Let For Surfacing Quail Highway

The Texas Highway Commission today approved the expenditure of $142,000.00 for construction of Farm to Market road mileage in Collingsworth County as part of the 1965 FM Road program, announced District Engineer V. J. McGee of Childress.

The district engineer said 13.2 miles in this county will be involved. The work will cover the construction of base and surfacing on FM Road 2166, from the Hall County line, northeast to FM Road 1056. This road begins three miles south of Quail and is generally known as the Memphis highway. Dirt work and structures were completed during the winter.

Mrs. G. W. Lane, Veteran Area Teacher, Dies

Mrs. G. W. Lane, longtime West Texas teacher, died suddenly at her home Friday, May 28. shortly before 6 a.m., only two days after she had closed her kindergarten classes for the summer.

A daughter-in-law, Mrs. Felton Lane, was with her.

Mrs. Lane had taught most of her adult life. She came here from Tell in 1948 and taught in the Wellington elementary school for a number of years. After retiring from the public schools, she opened her kindergarten which she taught six years.

She also taught at Tell 6 years, in Cottle County 11 years, and in Taylor County and Hockley County.

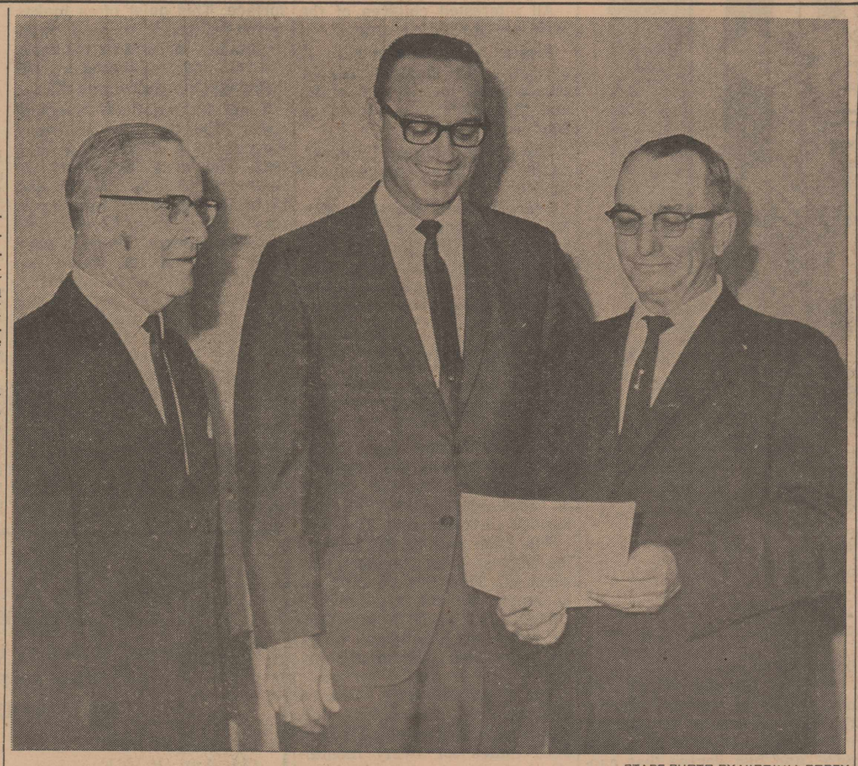

Mrs. Ellie Lee Lane was born Aug. 13, 1885 in Montague County and she and G. W. Lane were married June 27, 1912 at Eulogy, in Bosque County. They remained in that area about seven years before moving to West Texas.

Mrs. Lane received the bachelor of science degree from Texas Technological College at Lubbock and the master of education degree in fine arts from West Texas State University.

She had been a member of the Church of Christ 48 years and was an active member of the Wellington Business and Professional Women's Club.

Funeral services were conducted at the Church of Christ Sunday at 2:30 p.m. with Grandol Forehand, the minister, and John Gay, minister of the Church of Christ at Childress, officiating. Burial was in the

CITY STATE BANK OFFICIALS

These three are the officials of the City State Bank, elected after James Doneghy announced the sale of his entire interest in the bank to Jeff D. Wilson of Lubbock, center. Joe Terry, left, remains as cashier; Mr. Wilson was elected vice-president; and Zook Thomas, right, was elevated from executive vice president to president.

Jeff D. Wilson Joins Staff

City State Bank Stock Sale Completed May 26

In a major financial transaction, James Doneghy has sold his entire interest in the City State Bank to Jeff D. Wilson, assistant vice president of the First National Bank at Lubbock. The transaction was effective at 4 p.m. Wednesday, May 26, and Mr. Wilson began his duties as vice president of the bank at that time.

The amount of the sale was not disclosed.

Mr. Wilson's first action was to announce that he is offering a portion of the stock in the City State Bank to the people of the Collingsworth County trade area on substantially the same basis that he acquired it from Mr. Doneghy, which is what he paid for it plus the cost of acquisition.

This is the first public offering of stock in the bank's 55-year history.

Mr. Wilson will retain close to half the stock for himself, and it was emphasized that wide distribution of the remainder of the stock to people in the area is sought, rather than a block sale.

Mrs. Wilson and their two young daughters, Diana Lynn, 7, and Lisa Dawn, 4, have joined him here, and their furniture will be moved within a few days.

Continuity of the policies and services, so well known to customers of City State Bank, were assured.

"I firmly believe one of the prime functions of a bank is to be of service to the community," Mr. Wilson declared in coming here to join the organization.

Just as there will be continuity of sound banking operational principles, there will be no change in personnel.

Zook Thomas was elected president and Joe Terry will remain as cashier. Other employees are Mrs. Earl Ford, Mrs. Dan Hiett, Billy Moseley and Mrs. James Wilson.

The directors of the bank are Mr. Wilson, Zook Thomas, Joe Terry, Sandown Smith and John Nash.

"They are a very important part of our future and our growth," declared the new vice president.

In his first five days here, Wilson, with Thomas, has given most of his time to meeting Wellington people, and he said that he intends to continue this get-acquainted period to cover the county.

Mr. Doneghy, upon making his decision to retire from the banking field in Wellington, began a search for someone whom he believed could assume the responsibilities of the bank and who would become a vital part of the community. He chose to sell his complete interest in City State to Jeff Wilson.

But Wilson was familiar with Wellington before he ever considered it as his home. An associate at First National in Lubbock was Howard Moore, and he knows other former Collingsworth people well. Before making a decision to join City State, he said:

"I talked with people who formerly lived here and every one of them recommended that I come to Wellington.

"I then talked to some of the greatest banking minds in West Texas, and every one of them also recommended that I come here."

Along with his banking experience, Wilson brings a farm background, for he was born at Parnell, Hall County. He was graduated from Amarillo high school, attended Amarillo Junior College and followed this with courses offered by the American Institute of Banking.

He entered the financial field with Community Finance

With two other students, they will conduct youth-led revivals in English-speaking churches, attended principally by armed service personnel and their families.

The work is sponsored by the Baptist Student Union in Texas.

This summer his wife, Ann, will attend the Baptist World Alliance in Miami, Florida, then return to Howard Payne for the last six weeks of the summer term.

Colson Delivers First Wheat to Open Collingsworth Harvest

Collingsworth County's wheat harvest opened with the delivery of the first load Wednesday May 26 at 3 p.m., and within the next hour and a half four more loads were delivered at Wellington and Dodson elevators.

Darrell Colson, who farms east of Wellington, delivered the first load to Warrick Feed Store about 3 p.m., Earl Keller reported.

Howard Hunt delivered the first load at the Farmers Co-op Enterprises in Dodson about 3:30 p.m. and at the same time delivered a load in Wellington.

Jim Wood brought in 248 bushels at 4:15, and another load was delivered at Dodson by Joe Simpson, who farms in the Arlie community in the north part of Childress County.

The first 50-bushel-per-acre wheat was delivered during the week. This was grown by Pete Nipper of Arlie on land that had been irrigated and fertilized. The average on an 18-acre tract was 50.8 bushels.

Quite a bit of 40- to 50-bushel per acre wheat will be harvested from irrigated land in the Dodson and Arlie areas, according to Ed Crowder, Co-op manager.

The harvest is in full swing in the Dodson section, but it is just getting under way in the remainder of the county.

Only a little wheat has been cut north of Salt Fork River.

Colson's first load was cut from a field that averaged 31 bushels. It weighed 61 pounds and the moisture test was 14.82.

"Boy I feel good about the crop. We've got some wonderful wheat," Keller declared.

Wood's wheat was cut along terraces and tested 61, with a moisture content of 14.60.

Both of Hunt's loads were cut from a farm in the Fresno community, which he reported was making between 20 and 25 bushels per acre. The wheat tested 60, but the moisture content was high in both loads.

Simpson's wheat tested 59 and was yielding from 20 to 22 bushels. It also had a high moisture content.

During the first week of the harvest, an estimated 75,000 bushels was delivered to the three elevators, Warrick's and Singley Mill and Elevator in Wellington, and Farmers Co-op Enterprises in Dodson.

Amounting to around 35 cars, this is more than the county's entire crop in some years.

Yields are much better than anticipated, and a considerable amount of dry land wheat is now cutting over 30 bushels.

Delivery of wheat that tested 64 was reported by Velman Warrick. As far as county buyers can remember, this is the highest test ever recorded here.

Most of the wheat is testing 61 and 62.

The first wheat last year was also delivered May 26, but on the whole this year's crop is maturing three to four days earlier than usual.

Most of the dryland wheat in the Loco-Arlie area is now ready to cut.

Rainfall during the winter and spring was sparse, but weather was cool and growers consider the fall rains made the crop, plus a lot of cattle pasture.

Some of the irrigated wheat south of Wellington is expected to be ready by the end of the

Gopher Control Meeting Set for June 8

A gopher control demonstration will be held on the Dwane Scott farm one half mile north of Wellington on FM 1035 Tuesday, June 8 at 10 a.m.

"If you have gophers in your field or garden and you want to control them, you must attend this demonstration before you can purchase poison grain," Sammy Helmers, county agent, said. "Once you have attended a demonstration you will be eligible to purchase grain for an indefinite period."

The Commissioners' Court in a recent meeting passed an order approving the purchase of this poison grain.

Poison grain will be available at the demonstration site and will be distributed at a non-profit price to those attending. It will be available to those attending demonstrations and will be shipped to those who have thereby been qualified as users of this pesticide, Helmers explained.

"Requests for bait will be honored upon approval by the county agent and the local representative of the Bureau of Rodent and Predatory Animal Service," Helmers explained.

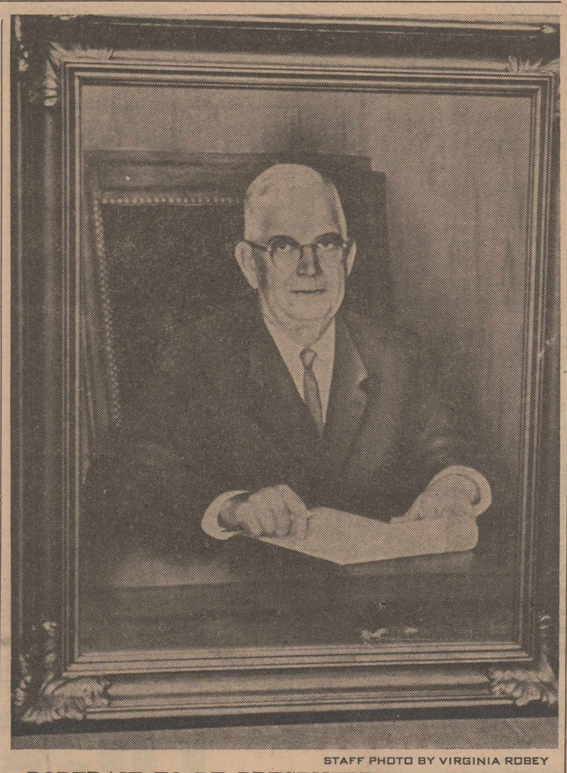

By mutual agreement with the agricultural district agent in the districts concerned, repeat demonstrations will be conducted when it appears that there are those who have need for further education.

Portrait of Judge Gribble Will Be Presented June 8

A portrait of the late Judge Luther Gribble will be presented to Collingsworth County in a public ceremony Tuesday, June 8 and will hang permanently in the district courtroom, where he presided as 100th Judicial District Judge for 20 years.

The ceremony will begin at 9:45 a.m., in the district courtroom, and distinguished jurists and lawyers from throughout the state have been invited to attend.

Presenting this portrait in oils is the Collingsworth County Bar Association in cooperation with the Wellington State Bank.

It will be placed beside a portrait of the late Judge A. J. Fires, another distinguished jurist who served the 100th district court for many years.

R. F. Curry, a life-long friend, will open the program with the invocation.

A short memorial tribute to Judge Gribble will be given by C. A. Williams of Childress, senior member of the 100th district bar.

Paul Spillman, Collingsworth County vice president of the 100th District Bar Association will unveil the portrait and the ceremony will close with the benediction by the Rev. Ellis Todd.

Spillman will preside.

At the time of his death 16 months ago, Judge Gribble had been district judge 20 years, and presiding judge of the 9th Administrative Judicial District 18 years.

He was president of the Wellington State Bank.

In a career of service that spanned more than half a century, he also had taught in Cherokee and Clarendon colleges, and at the latter he coached football. He was city and county attorney and county judge before he was elected district judge.

Two Pastors Return

Rev. John Wilber Comes To Trinity Methodist

Pastors of two of the county's Methodist Churches were returned and a new pastor assigned in the closing sessions of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference, held in Lubbock last week.

Coming to Trinity Church is the Rev. John Wilber, pastor of Avoka Methodist Church for two years. He succeeds the Rev. R. H. Knight, who is retiring from the ministry. He and Mrs. Knight will live in Childress.

The Rev. and Mrs. Wilber and their three children are due to arrive here Thursday.

He has been in the ministry two years and studied at McMurry College, Abilene.

The Rev. Ellis Todd was returned to First Methodist for his second year.

"We are proud to be back to serve First Methodist Church in Wellington and its wonderful people, and to work with the fine pastors here. We look forward to a greater year," Rev. Todd said.

Dr. John English, Childress district superintendent, was appointed pastor of First Methodist Church, Snyder, and the new district superintendent is the Rev. Duane Bruce, pastor of First Methodist Church at Perryton nine years.

Returning as pastor of Glen Davis Memorial Methodist Church at Dozier is the Rev. Bill Hankins, who makes his home and ranches in the Aberdeen community, where he lived before entering the ministry.

In a consolidation move, the membership of the Dodson Methodist Church will come into First Methodist Church at Wellington, effective at the opening of the conference year, Rev. Todd announced.

This church has been without a pastor since the death of the Rev. J. F. Michael.

Joe Peterson Dies May 28 in Kansas

Joseph I. Petersen, who lived here nine years, and who still considered this his home, died May 28 in St. Francis Hospital, Wichita, Kan., after a lingering illness. He was 77 years of age.

Mr. Petersen worked for the Massey Ferguson Implement Company until he became ill. He and Mrs. Petersen came here from Chickasha, Okla.

It became impossible for Mr. and Mrs. Petersen to live alone when he became ill and on Jan. 1 he went to Wichita, Kan., to live temporarily with his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Kaufman. Another heart attack put him in the hospital, where he remained the last seven weeks.

Mr. Petersen was born Sept. 9, 1888.

He and Mrs. Petersen celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary in November 1960. He was a member of the Baptist Church and the Kiwanis Club, which he served as an officer and in other capacities.

Tourist Season Becomes Another Chance to Promote Wellington

The tourist season has opened and here is another opportunity for Wellington to put its best foot farward, a very good foot, by the way.

Texas is pushing tourism as another industry for the Lone Star State—an industry unique in that almost every town can benefit to some extent.

For many entering the state for the first time, especially from the east, Wellington will be the first stop, and the lasting impression of Texas will come within the first few minutes after their cars stop in our town.

We can well give these people special attention. Service, whatever its nature, that is both courteous and thorough, tops the list. Graciousness can be the trademark of a town as well as an individual.

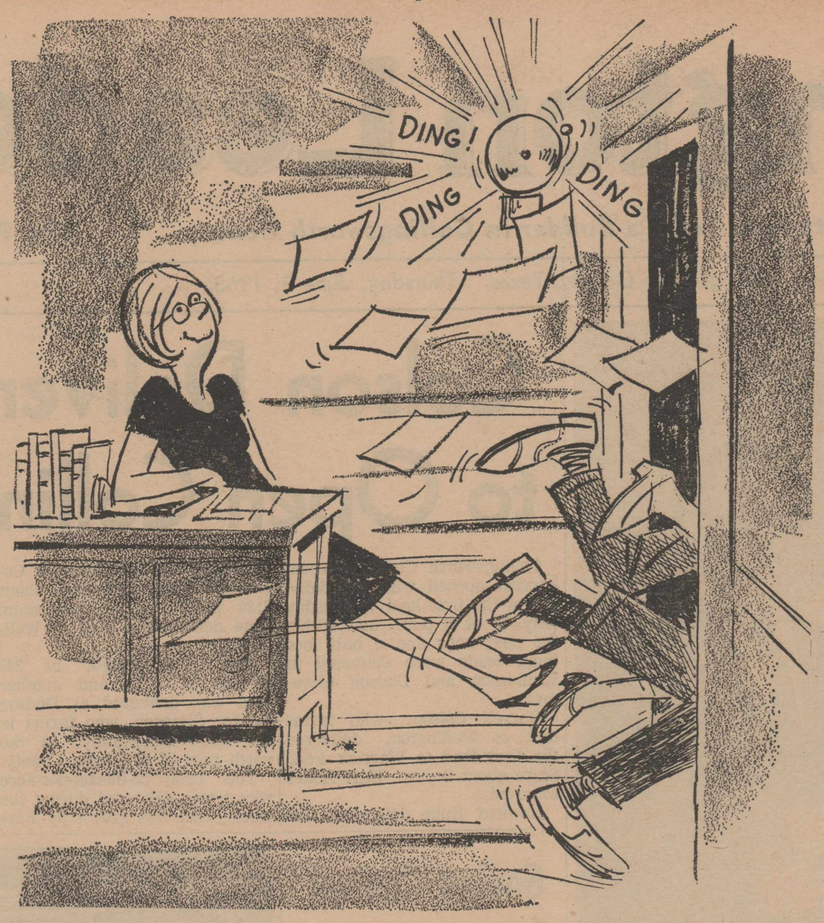

All of us have a good store of information about our county, and we often forget strangers do not have these facts on instant recall. Quite a lot of it, passed on in casual conversation, can arouse interest in Wellington. Strangers are often interested in such things as our good swimming pool and golf course, as well as services of one sort or another down town. Wellington has some good friends among people who had to use our medical facilities.

Not all travelers are tourists. There will be combine crews and others traveling on summer jobs. They perhaps appreciate a town's friendliness most of all.

But no matter their reason for stopping, each of these will spend a little money with us.

Our attention to their needs costs us nothing. through them we have another potential "industry" that is worth cultivating.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

My poverty-prone neighbor observes that a mighty effort is being made to stamp out poverty.

He says the computer minds in Washington are using very shrewd strategy in this fight, with what looks like a plan to payroll-tax all citizens down to equal poorness.

And when everybody has the same size pittance left for living purposes after taxes, there won't be any more poverty, because you don't even notice you are poor if you can't see some neighbor strutting around with more than you have got.

It says in the papers that the President is advising the steel companies to quit thinking about raising their prices.

Mr. Johnson says going up on steel would ruin our prosperity, but my priced-poor neighbor says it's not the high price of steel but the high price of government that keeps his personal Prosperity Quotient down.

Says if steel gets too high, he can use less of it, but Washington just keeps on furnishing and billing him for more high-priced government, even if he can't afford it.

Every few days some other economics expert tells the working-boob class that our escalating National Debt is really a good thing and keeps us prosperous.

My expert-awed neighbor says when things are in a mess, and nobody knows how to straighten out same, it's a great comfort to have certified brains to show us that it is a beneficial mess.

And he reckons, under this new system of solving problems the researchers can quit sweating in the labs over a cancer cure, and just decree that cancer is good for us.

My jeery neighbor says you can't trust people any more, what with an anti-communist extremist infiltrating the Liberal ranks and keeping them fooled until they got him elected president.

He says, though, the superminds didn't hesitate to switch, and to start chastising Mr. Johnson when his Viet Nam move proved he was actually an American-firster at heart.

But the Liberals seem pretty embarrassed about being thusly took in. About like the Ku Klukkers would be if some FBI man got into their order and wasn't found out until after he made Grand Wizard.

June Draft Quota 694

AUSTIN.— The state draft quota for June is 695, compared to 639 in May, Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Tuesday.

The June call of 695 men is the biggest since January 1964 when 812 Texans were directed to report for military service.

The June call is for the Texas share of a national quota for 17,000 men, all for the Army.

The State Selective Service director also announced that state draft boards will forward 3,338 males for Army mental-physical examinations in May, 535 of whom will be 18-year-olds.

These tests for 18-year-olds are the result of President Johnson's action in 1964 which ordered the Director of Selective Service and the Secretary of Defense to examine all newly registered men who are out of school and available for service. Males married at age 18 and those known to be in school at that age will not be examined.

Col. Schwartz stressed that these youths will not be considered for the armed forces at this time. Normally, draft for service is about age 22.

The June quotas already have been figured and sent to the state's 137 local boards.

SALT FORK SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

DESIGNING TRICKLE TUBES FOR FISH PRODUCTION

Most trickle tubes are improperly designed for fish production in farm ponds. Trickle tubes are normally designed to remove water from the pond surface. This quiet often makes spring-fed ponds or seep ponds impossible to fertilize for moss control and to increase the poundage of usable size fish.

Ponds have definite layers of water. The top layer normally extends to a depth of 5 to 6 feet. The next layer lies between the 5-6 feet depth and 12 to 15 feet deep. Deep ponds may have a third layer below the 15-foot depth. There is very little exchange of water between these different layers.

This top 5-6 foot layer is the most important water in fish production. It is the icing on the cake. Fertilizer dissolved in this layer stays there. Microscopic plants and animals grow in this layer and produce food for insects and other organisms vital to the living chain of fish food. Microscopic plants also shade the pond bottom and help control aquatic plants. This top layer often contains the only water in the pond with sufficient dissolved oxygen to sustain fish life.

Trickle tubes should be designed to "pick up" or remove this continuous flow of water at least 6 feet below the pond surface.

Mrs. Babb Dies in Lexington

A former Wellington woman, Mrs. Kenneth Babb, died Saturday, May 29, in Lexington, Kentucky, where she and her husband had lived three years.

Her death was attributed to a heart attack.

She was the daughter of Mrs. E. M. Strickland and sister of Mrs. Fred Williams. She will be remembered here as Imogene Strickland.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon and burial was in the couple's former home, Decatur, Ill.

Going from this area were Mrs. Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. Williams, and E. M. Strickland Jr., of Austin.

Seat Belt Campaign Saves Lives

What is the difference between the quick and the dead? All too often the answer is "seat belts", according to findings of Cornell University's Automotive Crash Injury Research.

Noting that people with seat belts are 35 to 60 percent safer than are people without belts, auto manufacturers and others are taking measures to safeguard lives that would otherwise be lost.

Typical of the organizations vitally interested in the nation's auto safety is the Linen Supply Association of America, now conducting a "Let's Buckle Up and Live" campaign aimed at drivers of all vehicles operating on highways and in cities.

The campaign features the installation of posters (see insert) on member companies' delivery trucks throughout the nation. The association has 1,381 member companies who rent linen services to commercial, industrial, professional and business enterprises.

Linen suppliers operate an estimated 11,000 trucks, many of which display messages for public welfare and education, such as the seat belts for safety campaign.

Former Wellington Woman, Bertha Williams, Publishes Book of Poems

"God Gave Me a Poem," a first book by a former Wellington woman, Bertha Williams, has been issued by the Naylor Company of San Antonio, publisher for many leading southwestern writers.

In private life she is Mrs. W. T. Williams and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Murray of Wellington.

She will return to her home town within a few days, and on Tuesday, June 8 will be presented in a review of her new volume and a reading of some of the poems in it.

Of her poems, her publishers say:

"Speaking from the very depths of her understanding heart, Bertha Williams achieves immediate rapport with the reader, for her needs are universal needs. Her pleasure or anguish, her ecstacy or tears have been experienced by all."

"By sharing the thoughts that have brought her comfort, she helps others hold fast to their dreams. Being a woman, the comfort that she records in many poems comes from the love she receives from friends and family. Being a poet, with a poet's mystical perception, solace for her life's darkest hours have come through faith and divine inspiration."

Bertha Williams was a housewife when she lived in Wellington, active in First Baptist Church. When the family moved to Decatur, she entered Decatur Baptist College. At one time, she, her husband, and her son, Farrell Kent were attending college.

She also studied at North Texas State College and Hardin Simmons University. After taking her BS degree, magna cum laude, she did graduate work in education and taught in the Anson schools.

"God Gave Me a Poem" will be on sale at C&H Pharmacy in Wellington within a few days.

Darlene Rainey, Pete Smith Marry in Lutie Church Ceremony Sunday

The Lutie Baptist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Marie Darlene Rainey and Albert (Pete) Smith at five o'clock Sunday evening, May 30. The Rev. Verrell Leeper officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Selba Rainey of the Lutie community, while the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Allen I. Smith, whose ranch is in the north part of the county, and the late Mr. Smith.

A satin-covered prie dieu was at the center of the altar area, and at each side were seven-branched candelabras entwined with Lemon leaf. Urns placed on pedestals held arrangements of white chrysanthemums and low arrangements of lemon leaf completed the setting.

Mr. Rainey gave his daughter in marriage.

Her formal gown of Chantilly lace had a square neckline, edged in scallops, and long sleeves that came to points at her wrists. The full floor-length skirt was formed of four tiers, each outlined in scalloped lace edging, and swept to a chapel train. Her elbow length double veil was attached to a crown of filagree work, accented with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses, with streamers of stephanotis and satin ribbon atop a white Bible. The bride's only jewelry was a strand of pearls, and she carried a linen handkerchief which belonged to the bridegroom's great great grandmother more than 150 years ago in England.

Mrs. Joel Lowry of Lubbock was the matron of honor and Miss Pollye Clark was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Cindy Wiginton of Altus, Oklahoma, Miss Elaine Tate and Miss Jo Cowden of Iowa Park. Carolyn Compton of Cloudcroft, New Mexico was the junior bridesmaid.

All feminine attendants wore dresses of china blue satin brocade, designed with fitted bodices, scoop necklines and floor-length bell shaped skirts. Nose veils were attached to headpieces formed of leaf clusters Each carried a long stemmed white rose.

Neal Lowry was the best man. Groomsmen were Jerry Smith of Lubbock and Lionel Cross of Altus, while the ushers were Randall Murry and Joel Lowry of Lubbock. Joel Dean Rainey, brother of the bride, was junior groomsman.

Candles were lighted by Billy Don Smotherman of Kirkland and David Boykin of Childress; aisle bearers were Ricky Compton of Cloudcroft, N.M. and Bobby Morris of Mobeetie.

Robin Smotherman of Kirkland was flower girl and Gary Don Martin of Alamagordo, N. M., was the ring bearer.

The bride's table was laid with a blue linen cloth, having an overlay of net, accented in appliqued flowers. A large silver candelabra entwined with stephanotis was at the center, and other appointments were crystal and silver. Miss Mary Shields poured and Miss Brenda Boykin of Childress served the cake. Guests were registered by Miss Rhonda Smith of Shamrock.

Rice bearers were Kim Smotherman of Kirkland and Robby Chambers of Leedy, Oklahoma. Miss Nancy Alexander was in charge of the gift display and Mrs. Van Pelt played piano selections during the reception hour.

As the couple left for their new home at Plainview, the bride wore a white silk shantung suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Smith were honor graduates of Samnorwood high school, she as salutatorian in 1963 and he as valedictorian in 1962. She attended Wayland College at Plainview, where she was a member of the Flying Queens and received an award only recently for having the highest scholastic average of the group. She was also a member of the honor society.

The bridegroom is a senior at Texas Technological College, Lubbock, majoring in electrical engineering. He is an honor student there.

The couple will be at home in Plainview where he is employed by Southwestern Public Service. This fall both will attend Tech.

SORDAN

Great new sorghum/sudan hybrid

Crop it as you will . . . hay, haylage, green chop or silage . . . Sordan's great vigor, forest of leaves, sweetness of taste and strength of stalk gives you tons, and tons, and tons of feed per acre.

Sordan combines quick recovery after cutting or grazing with a long growing season to produce higher yields. Because of its shorter height, Sordan stands better than other forages of this type.

Legislature Packs Key Action in 59th Session Just Ended

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN.—Political and Legislative history has been written in the 59th lawmaking session just ended.

Highlights:

• A $3,600,000,000 budget providing for expanded services in every area of state government and affecting every citizen.

• Record improvements in higher education, including creation of the powerful coordinating board for Texas colleges and universities.

• A $101,000,000 salary raise for school teachers; $70,000,000 of which will be paid by the state.

• A sweeping overhaul in the entire system of state mental hospital and tuberculosis control administration.

• Major public welfare expansions, including a proposed constitutional amendment to permit full state participation in the new federal medical care program for the aged, blind and disabled. A provision of the amendment would qualify non-citizens who have lived in the state for 25 years or more.

• Overhaul and expansion of the state's program for water control and development.

• Congressional and legislative redistricting which will change the makeup and complexion of future legislatures, shifting the balance of power from rural to urban areas.

• If voters approve proposed constitutional amendments, the Senate will be enlarged from 31 to 39 members and terms of the governor and other statewide-elected officials now limited to two years, as well as those of state representatives, will be extended to four years.

What It Will Cost

Despite its record achievements, the 59th session handed a relatively modest tax bill to Texas citizens.

Cigarette smokers will bear virtually the entire share of the cost. Tax was increased from 8¢ to 11¢ a pack—the nation's highest state rate. This will raise $70,000,000 to $73,400,000 in new money during the coming biennium.

A one-time gain of $6,000,000 will be achieved by setting of a 15-months-fram-date-of-death limitation on payment of the inheritance tax.

Teacher pay raise also will require financing at the local level. Present estimate is that the owner of a $15,000 home will pay $2.52 more in annual property taxes to school districts.

Bills Passed

Among the new laws passed during the final days of the regular session of the 59th Legislature were:

• Continuation of the Bay Study Committee, which is concentrating on the problems of water pollution;

• Regulation of the taking and processing of oysters and other shellfish for sale;

• Creation of Permian State College, if higher education coordinating board approves, at Odessa;

• Asking members of Congress from Texas to vote for keeping the section of the Taft-Hartley Law which permits Texas to outlaw closed union shops;

• Prohibition of the use of .22 calber rimfire ammunition to hunt deer, elk, antelope and wild sheep in counties not regulated by the Parks and Wildlife Commission;

• Prevention of city councils from making residence within the city limits a condition of employment;

• Legislation of free games on pinball machines;

• Requirement for testing of all babies born in Texas for phenylketonuria (PKU), an inborn error in system which, if uncorrected, causes brain damage;

• Parents liability up to $5,000 for malicious and wanton damage by their children.

Vinson News

• Members of the Vinson Baptist Church have received good news from Bill and Kathy Richardson, missionaries to Brazil. They will receive one year of language study at Campinas, Brazil, before beginning their full missionary work.

The two older boys are enrolled at the present time in a Portugese speaking school.

The Richardsons gave an interesting description of their trip by plane to New Orleans, and also aboard ship to Sao Paulo, Brazil. Much activity took place on ship to provide entertainment for passengers, which included two more couples and children as well as the Richardsons.

Rev. Richardson was pastor of the Vinson Baptist Church approximately four years and also at Granite Church for two years before going to this mission field in Brazil.

• Jack Smith of Sulphur community celebrated his 80th birthday Sunday in his home near Vinson. Most of his ten children and many grandchildren were present, also friends who came for the occasion.

• Mrs. Oneta Hilly of Oklahoma City, and Mrs. Nell Puckett of Houston were guests Wednesday of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith. They are sisters of Mr. Smith.

• Mr. and Mrs. James Smith of Mangum spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith. Their sons, Jim and Randy, returned home with them after having spent a few days here visiting.

• Nathan Janes has been seriously ill in the Mangum hospital. He has not been released yet.

• Mrs. Eunice Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Overton left Saturday morning to visit a sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Burn Williams of Socorro, N.M. They plan to do some fishing in Arizona before returning. Mrs. Reynolds will return to Lubbock where she will spent the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Danks.

• Winston Wooldridge was released from Mangum hospital where he underwent treatment for a broken leg.

• Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stallings have a new granddaughter, born May 29 to Mr. and Mrs. John Oty (Kathy) of Amarillo.

• Visiting in the Ben Stallings home this past week end were his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ban Segars of Gordon, Texas.

• The Independence Home Demonstration Club took the worthy project of a work day to clean the Cave Creek Cemetery this past Thursday. Many workers came from this locality and also from other communities.

• Vinson has five young people graduating from Hollis and Reed high schools. Grover and James Taylor graduated from Reed, and Jimmy Kromer, Kent Ellis and Veta Aldridge from Hollis.

NO THANKS TO THE FAINTHEARTED

President Johnson's willingness to confront the Communist push for world power with the best talking point available to him—military supremacy—has really separated the boys from the statesmen.

Even some of those who avow full support for the President have been sniping and yipping about how close it is to the brink. Others are citing the horrors of a nuclear holocaust, and urging more accommodation with Communist countries, the very enemies who have vowed to destroy us one way or another.

As the cold war became hot in South Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, the words also flew like the bullets.

Propaganda does not necessarily equal reality, but the fact of utterance may bring real confusion. Such statements as these were read in the newspapers and heard on the air: Because of his Vietnam policy, which is both "immoral and godless," President Johnson may become "the most discredited president in American history." Another voice said the Pentagon officials who ordered the atomic bombings of Japan were looking at Vietnam as a new "proving ground for other kinds of weapons."

Readers may recognize the first voice as Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, the second as Nikolai Federenko, Soviet delegate to the U.N.

The Major Difference

These comments offered little choice. Then, as U.S. Marines in South Vietnam began to skirmish in late April, both Piotr Demichev, a Communist Party official in Moscow, and Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee were calling for coexistence.

In adjacent columns of the Arkansas Gazette for April 23, one was saying: "The policy of peaceful coexistence . . . presupposes a rebuff to aggression and support for peoples fighting against alien domination," and the other "The building of bridges between East and West . . . is the only way we can have some hope of ending the appalling danger of nuclear war."

The Basic Reality

The minds of these people, who show they are unwilling to stand against Communism at any time or anywhere, have never grasped the basic political reality of our time: that the evil of international Communism is the scourge of civilization as we have known it. With curious blindness, they would have the U.S. hand over South Vietnam to become another Communist state. Make another Cuba of the Dominican Republic, it matters not to them.

This is surely a strange morality that would urge such black immorality upon the leading nation of the free world.

These remarks are not meant to characterize the Johnson foreign policy, so recently and quickly emerging, as perfection in toto. There is perhaps still too much waiting for the polls, too much vacillation while the national pulse is taken.

We must have firmness of principle. If there is nothing to negotiate about, then you cannot have the "unconditional discussions" later suggested. It would be well to restate our allegiance to the Monroe Doctrine, for those emergency actions are not without precedent.

Bargaining for Freedom

Some citizens are wondering why Averell Harriman, a specialist in setting up neutral or coalition governments, should be asked to go to Southeast Asia, where he will probably frighten the loyal Vietnamese with neutralism.

No one in the government should at this time reduce the spirits of the South Vietnamese with such ideas, when the U.S. has so well demonstrated its willingness to protect its friends who do not wish to be communized. Such confrontation is the only way to show Moscow and Peking that their so-called wars of liberation must come to a halt.

The President's offer to buy friendship in Southeast Asia with a billion dollar spending program was a mistake. We cannot buy either peace or goodwill with our foreign aid. But this may have been the politician's manner, to use the carrot as well as the stick.

Nevertheless, we must keep to principles that are right. When America is always choosing the right we shall not be fearful of the arms of our enemies or the viewpoints of our friends.

We should let the Communists deal in phony world opinion, even if it includes stoning embassies. If the U.S. always stands firmly for the right, these things will do us no harm and the Communists no good.

Wheat Supply Lowest Since 1958 Season

COLLEGE STATION. — The total supply of wheat in the U.S. for the 1964-65, July 1, 1964 to June 30, 1965, marketing year is now estimated at 2,195 million bushels, the smallest since the 1957-58 season, says John G. McHaney, Extension economist, Texas A&M University.

Total disappearance of wheat —food, seed, industrial, feed and exports—in 1964-65 is estimated at 1,290 million bushels or the same as the 1964 production but 150,000 bushels less than the 1963-64 disappearance. McHaney said this could mean a carryover on June 30, 1965 about equal to the 901 million bushels a year ago, or it could go as high as 905 million bushels.

In discussing the export picture, McHaney said estimates place the 1964-65 exports at 675 million bushels, a drop of 185 million bushels from 1963-64. Because of the recent dock strike, the economist says there is a possibility that the estimated export total may not be reached. And too, he adds, good crops in many exporting as well as importing countries sharply restricted U.S. commercial exports from July 1964 to January 1965. Shipments under government financed programs comprised about 82 per cent of the total wheat exports during that period, compared with 70 per cent for the long time average, he said.

CONFUSED COUNT

Enumeration of the presidents of the U.S. often is subject to confustion since authorities do not agree as to whether President Grover Cleveland should be counted twice because his terms were not consecutive.

BERMUDA GRASS PASTURES
By Maxey K. Manley

Unusually high forage production is possible, in certain cases, from Midland Bermuda grass pastures when intensive management practices are used.

Midland Bermuda grass has a high growth rate due to what is called Hybrid vigor. Midland is a Hybrid similar in nature to Hybrid cotton, milo or corn. And like these crops must be well cared for in order to realize a profit due to the high initial cost.

For most efficient production of Midland Bermuda grass forage, there are severel prerequisites. Some of these are water, proper use, and fertilization.

Normal rainfall in this area must be supplemented either by irrigation, outsde run-off or a high water table. If any of these are available it is possible that Midland may be efficiently grown.

Fertilization will definitely pay dividends when used on Bermuda grass that is irrigated. The amounts of fertilizer should be regulated by local farmers' experience or soil tests. In any event applications must meet the needs of the plants.

Proper use of Bermuda grass is very important. Sufficient top growth must be left when grazing or harvesting so that the forage manufacturing parts of the plants are not handicapped. Bermuda grass should never be cut less than 6 inches tall when it is being used for forage production.

Not more than 5% of the air dry weight of forage comes from the soil. The other 95% is taken from the air by the leaves, in the form of carbon dioxide, and changed by them, into the sugars and proteins which make up the grass plant.

It should not be hard to see that when more than a given amount of the leaves are removed, this process might be seriously impaired. In the case of well-managed Bermuda grass about 50% of the air dry weight will be above the 6-inch level of a mature plant, thus to prevent impairment of the forage-producing portion of the plant, we should "take half — leave half."

The Salt Fork Soil Conservation District recommends Midland Bermuda grass as an outstanding forage producer, when the above prerequisites are met and the Soil Conservation Service furnishing technical assistance to the district and its cooperation has cost share funds available from the Department of Agriculture.

Anyone desiring further information on this subject may contact the Soil Conservation Service in the courthouse.

Weed Control By Chemical Use Described

COLLEGE STATION. — The battle cry of many Texas farmers for the immediate future may well be "Let's get 'em down with weeds and grass!" Muddy fields have kept machinery idle but not weeds and grass, says Fred C. Elliott, cotton specialist for the Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University.

Elliott said that farmers now have available more post-emergence herbicides than ever before to help them in the fight but that the number one weed control practice is still mechanical—rotary hoe equipped tractors. More than 51,000 were used last year in 173 counties, he added, and they did a good job. Careful attention to the operation of this equipment is the secret of success, he said.

As for the herbicides, Elliott said herbicidal oil gives very effective control of small weeds and grass. This is an old practice, he added, and can be used to get out of the grass for about $1.50 an acre. Conditions must be right for its use, timing must be correct and application made with precision, he added.

He listed the following as other recommended post-emergence herbicides and herbicide mixtures. Diuron or caparol plus a surfactant — they are effective in the control of a wide range of weed species and do the best job on small actively growing weeds. They are used after the cotton is too large for lateral oiling.

DSMA plus a surfactant is effective against many grass species including the cocklebur, he said. It is more effective under hot dry conditions, above 75 degrees F. Its effectiveness is reduced when applied under cool, wet conditions, the specialist said.

Diuron plus DSMA plus a surfactant is more effective against a wider range of weeds and grass species under some conditions than either of the two materials used alone, said Elliott. This mixture is desirable when the weeds present include crabgrass, morning glory, cocklebur, goosegrass and seedling Johnson grass. Also when weeds are bordering on a drouth stressed condition of growth and when the weeds and grass are in various stages of growth. Cotton should be more than six inches high when the mixture is used.

The cotton specialist suggests that cotton producers visit their local county agent and pick up copies of MP-054, "Lateral Oiling of Grass and Weeds in Cotton" and B-1029, "Suggestions for Weed Control with Chemicals." Both list application rates and many suggestions for the timing and proper use of materials.

Good weed fighting weather could really give a boost to control practices and chemicals, machines and hoe hands will probably all be needed.

Kay Chandler Weds Rudell White in Church Ceremony Thursday Evening

The Church of Christ was the setting for the wedding of Miss Kay Chandler and Rudell White Thursday evening, May 27, at six thirty. Alfred White of Gruver, the bride's brother-in-law, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Chandler, 704 Bowie Street, while the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ople White of Quail.

The altar was centered with a white wrought-iron arch, covered with jade foliage. At each side were seven-branched candelabras ,holding cathedral tapers, and baskets of white gladioli.

Miss Agatha Wright and Miss Jackie DePauw were the vocalists.

Mr. Chandler gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's gown, which she herself made, was of slipper satin, designed with cap sleeves and a round neck trimmed in appliques of Alencon lace roses, accented with pearls. The bell-shaped floor length skirt was accented with Alencon lace appliques having pearl trim, and the pleated train fell to chapel length.

With it she wore a pillbox hat and fingertip veil. Her bouquet was of white gardenias tied with satin streamers, carried on a white Bible.

Miss Beth White of Gruver, niece of the bride, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Linda Sikes and Miss Vickie Mayhugh. All feminine attendants wore identically designed dotted Swiss dresses in pastel shades. The bodices featured v necklines and long full sleeves, and the full skirts were street length. Each wore a matching pillbox hat with nose veil and carried a small umbrella with carnation spray.

Dean Johnson was best man and the ushers were Gary White and Billy White, the latter a nephew of the bride, from Gruver.

The flower girl and ring bearer, niece and nephew of the bride, were Kristy Barton and Randall Maxwell of Hereford.

Reception

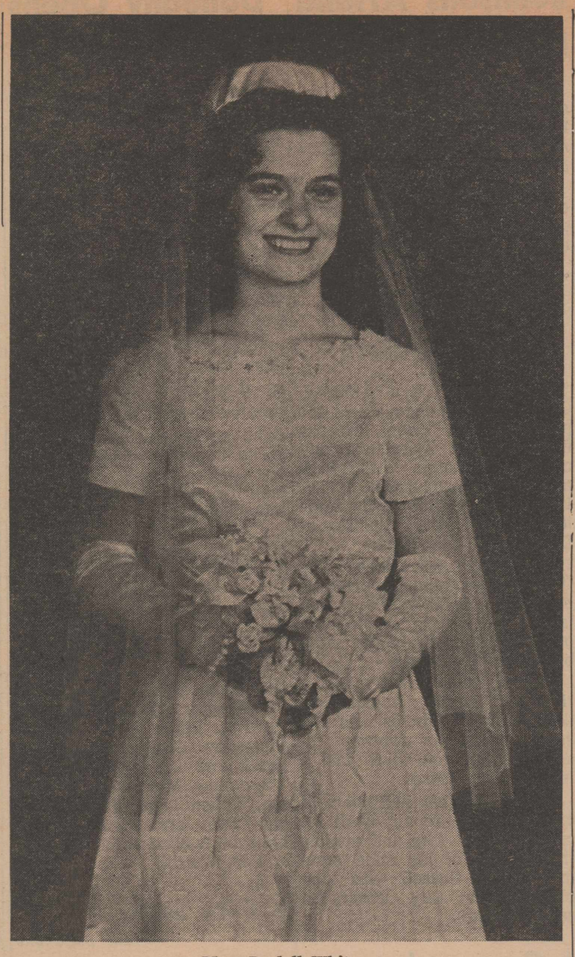

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Chandler were hosts at a reception in the recreation room of the parsonage.

The bride's table was laid with a white lace cloth and her bouquet was the centerpiece. Miss Linda Karnes served the wedding cake and Mrs. Lyndal Bowen poured. Miss Rose Montgomery registered the guests.

The bride is a spring graduate of Wellington high school, where she was an officer in the Future Homemakers of America chapter and a member of the Future Teachers chapter.

A graduate of Quail high school and Lubbock Christian College, the bridegroom attended Abilene Christian College last year and will return this fall.

When the controlling interest of a bank—an interest that has been held by one family for 55 years—changes hands, that is big news in any town. Thus it is with the sale of the controlling interest of The City State Bank in Wellington by James Doneghy to Jeff D. Wilson and other associates of this trade territory.

With the exception of the addition of the smiling and able Jeff Wilson, there will be no change in the executives and personnel of the bank. Zook Thomas has been elevated to the presidency and Mr. Wilson will become the new vice president. All the other people in the bank will remain in their present capacities and an old customer will hardly recognize any change at all.

Zook Thomas, an ex-printer's devil of this newspaper, has worked for and deserves every advancement he has ever received. He has done so many good things in the community—under-privileged children, boy scouts, soil conservation, his own church—that it is hard to pick out a single accomplishment for comment; but I believe I will continue to remember him best for his work in beautifying the two cemeteries of the city. They were in such a deplorable condition until he took the lead in their improvement that he will continue to be remembered with gratitude.

Jeff Wilson comes to Wellington highly recommended both as to character and ability by old friends I have known and trusted for over forty years, and his young family would make a charming addition to any community. Welcome to Wellington.

It gives me a tremendous amount of personal satisfaction to know that James and Lavonia Doneghy will continue to live in Wellington. They have enough interests elsewhere that they might just as well make Tulsa or St. Louis their home as far as attending to business is concerned; but like many of the rest of us, they prefer to live in a small town. For me life will be brighter and more interesting because they are staying.

In another part of the paper will be found a list of the new laws passed by the Legislature at the session that is just closed. The list is rather startling both as to the number and variety; but it is interesting to note that with the exception of cigarettes there was no drastic increase in the tax bite on any single commodity, business or industry. Nobody cares about a tax on cigarettes; but you can't help wondering why they didn't put a little bit of the extra load on beer and whiskey. Maybe their lobbyists stayed up a little later than the cigarette boys.

L. A. Gilmore is another of those strong-willed people who has not smoked a single cigarette in over two years. Before then he was a two to three pack a day smoker, at least he lit that many. To bolster his determination to abstain, he started putting the amount of money he had been spending on cigarettes in a box. In less than a year he had accumulated over $200 in his savings box.

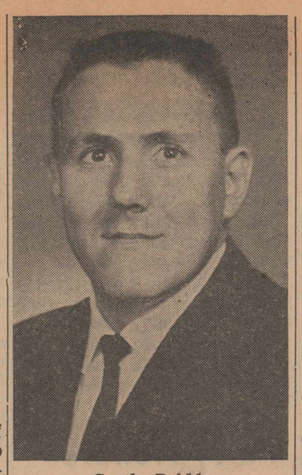

Chub White says that if he were editing this paper, he would have something in every issue about the need for the Commissioners' Court doing something about eliminating the bindweed on the county roads. I told him that if I were as big as he is and had as much bindweed on the roads next to my farm as he does I would gather about ten or fifteen other farmers who were in similar peril and call upon the commissioners every time they met. I have already paid out the money to kill the bindweed on my side of the road this spring so I may not have anything to say to the commissioners for some time.

Earl Keller happened to drive by while my wife was mowing the lawn as my son and I looked on. The next day Earl opined that there ought to be a law against it. He simply does not understand. Henry and I mow the back yard where the ground is rough and the going tough.

Ad in Wisconsin paper: "Lawn mowers for sale. Push type. Used very little and when used, pushed very slow."

TOO LATE FOR NEWS COLUMNS:

Ed McKay, national legislative director of Texas Farm Bureau, will be in Wellington Tuesday night at 8 o'clock to discuss cotton legislation that has been presented in Washington. The meeting will be held in the Farm Bureau Building.

Grazing Deadline Set for May 31

The ASCS county office was notified by wire on May 28 that the emergency grazing and haying of Soil Bank and diverted acres under the wheat and feed grain programs would end May 31 for Collingsworth County.

The USDA county disaster committee had recommended another 30-day extension but the state disaster committee did not approve the recommendation, since they felt the need did not justify an extension at this time. Therefore, no further approvals can be given for grazing Soil Bank and diverted acres.

week, according to Jones Singley.

Dry land wheat in the Dodson area is averaging 20 bushels or better, according to Crowder. All combines there are busy, but it is believed that these are enough to take care of the crop.

The Dodson wheat received one good rain amounting to 1.8 inches in the early spring and about two inches in showers since then. Fall rains of 5 to 6 inches put in the underground season.

Announcement

Mrs. Doneghy and I have sold our stock in the CITY STATE BANK to Jeff D. Wilson, and other associates of this trade territory. We wish them every success and solicit your continued support for them as you have given us.

Jeff was picked from among the many wanting to purchase the control of this fine bank based upon his character, ability, training and financial responsibility. There has never been a moment from the time that bank was organized in 1910 that any depositor has been in doubt about the safety of his money — and above all else we wanted to keep it that way. In such hands we feel this continued goal has been met.

It is a fine bank, in a fine town, in a fine territory, and we believe acquiring our interest gives these young folks an opportunity for a lifetime of service to you folks we love so well. So to Jeff and the fine staff at the bank we recommend your continued patronage. We believe in them or we would not have sold.

Words fail to express our appreciation to Zook and Joe, Billy and Sandra, Phyllis and Sharon, John and Sandown, and the host of fine and loyal patrons whose business has made the bank so profitable. Our home is here, has been and will be, and in the years to come possibly our actions can express what our words fail now. We love you all. Our hearts are too full to say more.
