Televised finals tomorrow...

Crowning tonight names Miss AJRA

The crowning of the new Miss AJRA will highlight Friday night's performance of the 35th annual AJRA National Finals Rodeo in the Scurry County Coliseum.

AJRA sponsors hope for large crowds both Friday and Saturday, when the rodeo spectacular will again be filmed.

Film crews will be at the rodeo Friday to film portions which will be inserted into Saturday's live coverage of the event.

For the second year, the finals will be presented in a national telecast throughout the U.S. and Canada. Many stations will carry the telecast live on Saturday from 8 until 10 p.m.

The AJRA telecast will feature Pam Menick, former Miss Rodeo America, as a commentator. Joining her as a commentator will be Don Gay, eight times world champion bull rider, and J.C. Trujillo, 1981 world champion bareback rider; and Roy Cooper, eight times world champion calf roper.

In the Snyder area, the AJRA will be shown on Abilene's KTAB-TV starting at 10:30 p.m. Saturday. On Lubbock's KCBD, the telecast will be presented starting at 1 p.m. Sunday.

At Friday's crowning of the new Miss AJRA, one of six nominees will be named. These include Snyder girl Leslie Ward.

Other candidates include Ralynn Key of Gail, Kody Newman of Stanton, Shelli Wall of Stephenville, Jamie Watkins of Odessa and Lari Dee Guy of Abilene.

The reigning Miss AJRA is Robin Wardlaw of Del Rio.

AJRA continues...

2 young bullriders have shot at finals

El Paso's Adam Carrillo and West's Lynn Uptmor aren't letting up in their respective bids to become the top youth bull riders at the AJRA National Finals Rodeo.

Both seem assured of spots in Saturday's finals with solid scores posted Thursday night. And, like a number of other contestants competing here this week, they've found that consistency is the key.

The annual national finals rodeo continues tonight and Saturday at Scurry County Coliseum, with this evening's performance highlighted by the crowning of Miss AJRA.

Tickets are $6 for box seats, $4 for adults and $2 for children. The show begins at 8 p.m.

Carillo won the first go-round of the age 13-14 junior bull riding earlier in the week with a strong 75 score. Thursday night, he took an early lead in the second-go with a 68.

Uptmor, competing in the age 16-19 bull riding, followed suit. His 74 tied for first-go round honors with Michael Gaffney of Tularosa. Then on Thursday, he set the mark in the second round with a 72.

David Lacy, Lesa and Leslie Ward, Bo Jack, Mecca McMullan, Lari Dee Guy, Brandi Walker, Jeff Hilton, Kelly Jo Ogden, and Ashley Looney are others who have posted times or scores among the top four in both first-and-second go-rounds. Another is Colbert, Okla., cowgirl Caryn Sandifer, who won both the first and second goes of the age 12-and-under goat tying.

Ask Us

Q. — Can I still receive free immunization shots for my child for school records?

A. — Yes. The Scurry County Health Unit offers these immunizations every Tuesday, although they will not be given this coming Tuesday due to a vacation schedule. Individuals are asked to "pay" for these shots, but such payments can be as small as $1. The person can also sign a statement saying they are unable to pay and the shots will be given free.

President Reagan begins vacation

Reagan on Thursday followed up his nationally broadcast speech on the Iran-Contra affair with a renewed appeal for support of the Nicaraguan Contra rebels, and top White House aides broke what had seemed a self-imposed blackout on administration talk of new U.S. financing in the Nicaraguan conflict.

Reagan stepped up his rhetoric in support of the Contras during a stop in North Platte, Neb., while en route from Washington to California. He departed from his prepared text to tell the Nebraska audience: "If any of you think maybe I'm going too far in referring to the (Nicaraguan) Sandinista government as communist, well, I've got some Nicaraguan stamps in my desk drawer in Washington. They carry the picture of Nikolai Lenin."

The president's tone contrasted with his more moderate comments in advancing his own peace plan last week in conjunction with House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, and in responding to a separate plan endorsed by presidents of five Central American nations.

The eventful day ended with the near-collision as Reagan's helicopter, Marine One, was flying to his ranch from Point Mugu Naval Air Station off the Pacific Coast. The pilot of the small plane was detained initially, then released Friday.

Cat scan 'sections' patient

A machine which painlessly sections your brain or body into thin slices for diagnosis functions is now in operation at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

It's done with the new $450,000 General Electric CT-Max, popularly known as a "cat scan."

The Cogdell model is one of the most modern available, one of only two like it in the state, according to chief X-ray technologist Steve Camp.

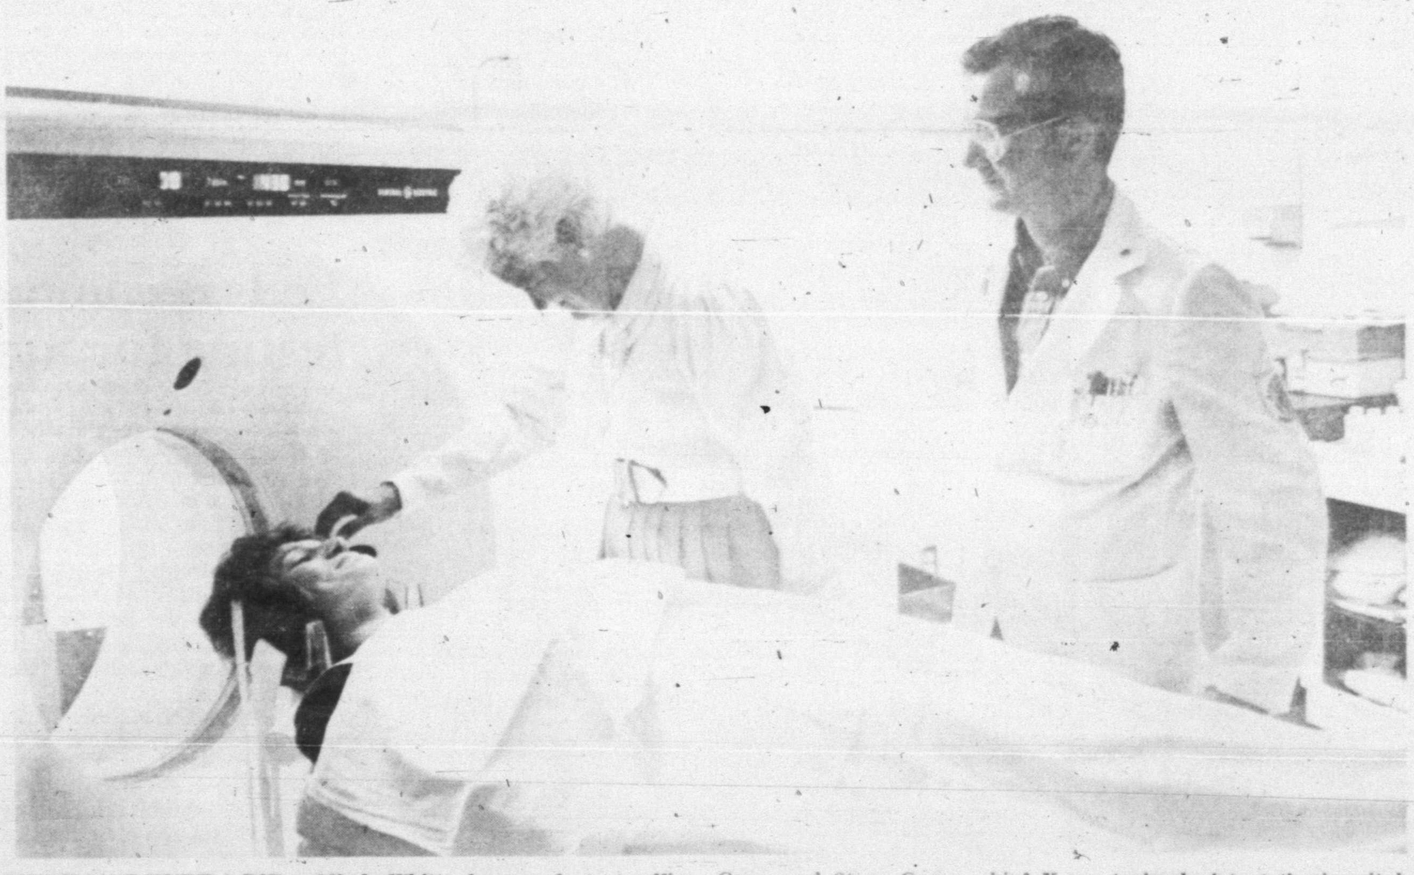

Doctors use it to get sectioned "slices" of different levels of the brain and other parts of the body — a view that X-rays cannot provide.

The hospital had been using one that the Mobile Technology Corp. of New York City brought here twice a week, and the installation of one in the local facility has made things much more convenient for physicians and patients, Camp said.

Besides brain tumors, hemorrhages, abscesses and hematomas, the machine is used to check various problems in the chest and pelvis and a long list of problems in the abdomen.

The resulting film is actually a computer read-out of the image that is bounced back into the device, which shoots images at certain levels all the way around the head or body.

A British mathematician, Godfrey Hounsfield, originated the concept of a sort of computerized X-ray. The first CT scan, the EMI Mark I Brain Scanner, was demonstrated in London in 1973.

Ex-Lions Sweetheart ends Canadian visit

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

Jennifer Goodwin of Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Goodwin, recently returned from a month-long visit to Ontario, Canada. The exchange trip was arranged through the local Lions Club, which she served as Lions Sweetheart this past year.

Jennifer is a 1987 graduate of Snyder High School and will be a freshman at Western Texas College this fall. She left Snyder July 11 and returned home Aug. 8. This experience marked her first trip to another country.

Jennifer visited with a family for one week, then she spent a week at the Lions International Youth Camp and before returning home she lived with another family for two weeks.

Her first destination was a Canadian town of about 2,000 population located in western Ontario.

This stay included a three hour bus ride to Niagra Falls which Jennifer called the "highlight of her trip." They rode the Maid of the Mist which is a boat ride which takes people to within 100 feet of the falls. Even with raincoats on, Jennifer said they all got wet.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Women will never be man's equal until she can sport a bald spot and still think she's handsome."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Larry Crabtree, in the Vernon Daily Record, told about a doctor who told his seriously ill patient that rest was the best solution for his illness.

"The best thing for you to do," advised the doctor, "is to give up drinking and smoking, forget about women, get up early in the morning and go to bed early at night."

The tired businessman considered it for a moment, then shook his head slowly. "No, Doc, I don't deserve the best. What's second best?"

Gene Dow, in the Colorado City Record, says an insurance company says famous scientists deserve the distinction of living the longest.

"Next come the clergy (well, they have extra help), teachers (who only work 9-12th as much as others), high ranking military officers (old soldiers never die).

"Then come business executives (they enjoy all the money), and lawyers (they rely on the troubles of others.) Professionals with the shortest life expectancies are writers and editors. (Please mister, don't shoot, I'll retract it!)

George Dolan, in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, told of an elderly woman who took her first plane ride. After the airplane climbed to the proper altitude, the pilot inquired if the woman was afraid.

No way, Sonny," she said.

"Are you telling me that this is your first flight and you're not nervous?"

"Not at all," she said. "I'm 88 and you're 30. You are the one who'd better worry."

Cat food has been changed

NEW YORK (AP) — Commercial cat foods that had been found to cause a feline heart ailment that kills tens of thousands of cats in this country each year have been changed to make them safe, a researcher says.

In a report published today in Science magazine, Dr. Paul Pion and colleagues at the University of California at Davis said that the cat foods caused the ailment by failing to provide enough of an essential nutrient.

Cats with inadequate amounts of the nutrient, taurine, in their bloodstreams developed dilated cardiomyopathy. Treatment with taurine cured the disease, said Pion, a veterinarian.

The disorder is similar to a human ailment that can be treated only with a heart transplant or an artificial heart.

The cat research might one day lead to discovery of the cause and a treatment for the human disease, called congestive heart failure, Pion said.

"What we have found applies directly only to cats," he said. "Whether there's a human component, we don't know yet. We have people who are looking at that."

Pion said the products found to cause low taurine in cats have been now been supplemented with taurine.

"There's no blame here, and there's no way anybody could have known taurine deficiency caused this disease," Pion said. Taurine is found in fish and meat, he said.

Roy Martin, director of science and technology at the Pet Food Institute, said, "We're confident today that the amount of taurine in most foods is adequate to meet the requirements for the pets we are feeding."

According to the Washington, D.C.-based institute, which represents makers of pet foods, U.S. families own 56.2 million cats.

The foods that had been found to produce low taurine levels in Pion's study were Hill's C-D, Hill's Science Diet Maintenance, Hill's H-D, Purina Cat Chow, 9 Lives Beef and Liver, Blue Mountain Kitty O's and Carnation Fancy Feast Beef and Liver, according to the Science magazine report.

Accused boy gets probation

HOUSTON (AP) — A 10-year-old boy who received a year's probation for fatally shooting his father and wounding his mother now wants to put the episode behind him, his attorney says.

"He's very relieved that everything is over with. He wants to get back to being a 10-year-old again," attorney Warren Cole said Thursday. "I don't think he poses any threat to society."

On Mother's Day, Michael Simon pulled the family's loaded .38-caliber handgun from its hiding place in the cushions of a living room loveseat and started firing after being told he could not play outside, police said.

Dear Abby

One-Way Ticket Out of Town Is a Puzzling Gift From Son

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: You've had so much in your column lately about gifts, I want to tell you what happened to me. First of all, I'm a widow, past 60, with grown children, and I know I'm hard to buy for, but last Christmas my son and daughter-in-law gave me a gift certificate for a one-way ticket to Phoenix!

Abby, my home is in Ohio, and I have been to Phoenix, and don't care to make my home there. They said I could go anywhere in the United States and they would pay for it — but it had to be one way. I told them there was no place in the U.S. I wanted to go — and stay — so they said, "Either take a one-way ticket, or you're out of luck!"

What is your opinion of this?

LIKES OHIO

DEAR LIKES OHIO: If this was supposed to be a joke, I don't think it's funny. If your son and daughter-in-law were encouraging you to travel, there are kinder ways to get their point across.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Our son, I'll call him Derrick, is 18 and lives with a woman who has two small children and is 10 years older than he is. He is planning to marry her when she gets her divorce. Derrick seems happy living the way he is although he was raised in a Christian home. In this state, he can get married at 18 without parental consent.

Derrick is a big, strong, healthy kid, but he doesn't like to work, so he seldom holds a job for very long. He has obligations at the bank for a new truck and is looking for his father and me to bail him out. Should we help him financially, or let him sink or swim?

DERRICK'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: A young man who is old enough to marry without parental consent is old enough to pay his own bills. When he knows he has to hold down a job, he will.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who needs your help to settle a dispute between my mom and me. My mom will not allow me to wear men's boxer shorts and a tank top in public. I am trying to tell her there is nothing wrong with it — it's the style. Lots of girls are wearing them.

Mom says it's gross for girls to wear boys' underwear in public. I would like to hear your opinion. Sign this ...

THE BOXER REBELLION

DEAR BOXER REBELLION: Boxer shorts and tank tops are a summer fad that will probably fall out of favor when the first chill of autumn arrives. Gross? Not really. Unfeminine, perhaps, but not offensive.

P.S. I like your signature. With that kind of creativity, you could write an advice column one day.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: The other day I washed a shirt out and put it in the dryer, then I went upstairs. When I went to get the shirt, I found our cat, dead in the dryer!

Abby, I beg of you, please warn people to always check their dryers before using them if they have a cat.

I cried a lot for days afterward just thinking of the pain my cat must have suffered.

CRYING IN MONROE, MICH.

DEAR CRYING: I'm sorry about the loss of your pet. But I hope others will learn from your tragedy. Readers: If you have a cat, do not turn on your washer-dryer until you know where your cat is.

Feds recommend routine testing for some people

ATLANTA (AP) — Long-awaited federal recommendations urge doctors and clinics to give routine but not mandatory AIDS tests to members of groups considered most likely to get the deadly disease.

The U.S. Public Health Service's recommendations Thursday also stressed the need for "every reasonable effort ... to improve confidentiality of test results."

The recommendations do not include mandatory testing for all hospital patients and couples seeking marriage licenses, ideas that met with harsh criticism by AIDS activists and civil liberties groups when presented at a public meeting in Atlanta in February.

The agency said that while "individuals have the right to decline," health professionals should begin "routine counseling and testing" for exposure to the AIDS virus for:

—Patients with sexually transmitted diseases.

—Drug abusers who inject narcotics, especially if they have shared needles with infected people.

—Women of childbearing age at risk for AIDS infection, chiefly through drug abuse or sexual contact.

—Sex partners of infected people.

—Male and female prostitutes.

The final recommendations, according to federal health officials, are directed at medical practitioners.

AIDS, reported most often among homosexual men and drug abusers, is transmitted most frequently through sex or sharing of hypodermic needles or syringes.

Families appearing cautious

WASHINGTON (AP) — These people do not get high on expectations. Disappointed countless times already, they have learned not to leap joyfully at vague promises blowing in the wind.

But among the families of the 2,413 Americans still missing from the Indochina War, tangible hopes have been raised by the recent announcements that Vietnam and Laos have pledged again to help account for at least some of those lost.

Mrs. Vernon Hall of Vancouver, Wash., sums up the feeling:

"We've heard these promises before; we will wait and see if the Vietnamese follow through. Yet I think there is some cautious optimism."

Mrs. Hall has been waiting since Jan. 27, 1973, to find out what happened to her son Harley, a Navy flier shot down that day near the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.

Hall's wingman saw him parachute to the ground safely in a region known to be under the control of regular North Vietnamese units, not guerrilla bands likely to kill prisoners.

There were unconfirmed reports from refugees coming out of Vietnam later that Hall was among a group of Americans paraded through the streets of Hanoi.

When other Americans were repatriated after the war, Hall was not among them. So his mother waits. And so does Hall's wife, a daughter now 18 and a son born two months after his dad was shot down.

The phrase "cautious optimism" seems to be the operative reaction, not just in the heartland of America where most of the families of missing servicemen live, but in Washington, where succeeding U.S. administrations have wooed, begged and berated the Vietnamese to give a truthful accounting.

On Aug. 1, a delegation led by retired Gen. John W. Vessey Jr. met with Vietnamese leaders to spur them to begin accounting for the missing.

Vessey reported back to President Reagan and to reporters at the White House that Vietnam had agreed to pursue 220 cases, including 70 in which the United States says it has compelling evidence that Vietnam knows what happened.

This promise is what is stirring hopes, because if the Vietnamese follow through it would be their first major help on the issue — beyond excavation of crash sites — since the war ended.

Vietnam has denied that it is withholding information on missing Americans, but the statement seems to fly in the face of logic, given what the Pentagon knows about the special cases.

Oilman sues California Co. filming Titanic expedition

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — West Texas oilman Jack Grimm is suing a California corporation that is gathering artifacts from the wrecked Titanic, claiming he was squeezed out of a deal to share profits from the underwater expedition.

Grimm says The Westgate Group refused to honor a 1986 contract to share artifacts and profits of the expedition, deceived him about its ability to perform its part of the contract and later tried to cut him out of the deal altogether.

One of Grimm's companies, Titanic 1983 Inc., filed the suit in Abilene federal court Wednesday seeking half of the estimated $35.8 million profit expected from the North Atlantic expedition.

Named as defendants are The Westgate Group of Toluca Lake, Calif.; its president, John Joslyn; and its executive vice president, Doug Llewelyn, who hosts television's "The People's Court."

Since 1980, Grimm has spent more than $2 million on three expeditions to locate the wreck of the luxury liner that sank after colliding with an iceberg in 1912.

"This has been an important part of my life for seven years," Grimm told the Abilene Reporter-News Thursday. "Had we known they were going to handle the business this way, we would have been out there ourselves."

On Nov. 12, 1986, Grimm signed an agreement with Westgate calling for him to provide the expertise for the expedition and arrange for ships, submarines and equipment necessary to recover the Titanic's safes from two miles below the ocean's surface.

In return, Westgate would provide financing, documents related to the suit said. Under the contract, both parties would share equally in any return, the suit said.

Grimm said he arranged a contract with the French Institute for Research and Exploitation of the Sea for use of the three-man submersible Nautile and its mother ship, the Nadir, for an expedition to take place in June 1987.

Westgate failed to arrange financing and "did not even acquire the funds necessary for a deposit to reserve the vessels," the suit said. As a result, the contract for the ships was canceled.

By June 1987, however, Westgate informed Grimm that financing had been arranged, and Joslyn went to Paris to again contract for the vessels, the suit states.

Home monitoring of hypertension

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — When purchasing home blood-pressure devices, how can one be sure they are properly calibrated? They seem to vary a lot.

DEAR READER — I encourage hypertensive patients to purchase home blood-pressure monitoring devices and to become proficient in using them. Most reliable blood-pressure gauges are factory-calibrated; however, it's a good idea to recalibrate them periodically at, say, yearly intervals. This can be done easily in the doctor's office.

Take your own blood pressure and then have your doctor immediately re-check it using a mercury manometer, the gold standard of blood-pressure measurement. Most doctors use these, mercury devices because they do not have to be calibrated and almost never wear out. If the blood-pressure readings differ by more than 10 or 15 points (millimeters of mercury), return your device to the manufacturer for recalibration.

The variation that occurs with home units may not be the fault of the equipment. Our blood pressures usually vary all over the place, depending on stress, exercise, time of day and so forth. Therefore, the figures you are obtaining probably are accurate for you.

If you are taking your blood pressure correctly, you may note both low and high figures. This is normal. Share the numbers with your doctor during your checkup visit; he or she should be grateful to have this additional information because it will help the physician regulate blood pressure medicine or more closely supervise a borderline hypertensive state.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm a 71-year-old veteran of World War II and Korea, and have been taking steroids (prednisone) for about six months. I'm going blind from these drugs. My doctor tells me I can't stop the drug. He and my so-called eye specialist tell me I have the choice of going blind or quitting breathing. I don't believe this. Do you?

DEAR READER — I'm not sure. Prednisone and other cortisone drugs (steroids) can be of inestimable help in treating certain diseases, such as asthma, allergic conditions, some cancers, blood disorders and autoimmune diseases (including rheumatoid arthritis and lupus). I'd have to know why you are taking steroids before I could fully answer your question.

Apparently, you are having trouble breathing. This may mean your doctors believe that steroids are a necessary part of treating your asthma. If so, the drugs can be administered in ways that may not affect your entire body. For instance, steroids are available in hand-held nebulizers that deliver the medicine in inhaled form.

Prednisone and other steroids cause cataracts. Surely, loss of vision is too dear a price to pay when alternative therapy may be available. Ask your doctors if the medicine can be prescribed in reduced doses or by metered inhalers, or ask for a referral to a pulmonary specialist, who may determine that other, less dangerous drugs might be used for your problem.

Finally, ask your eye doctor if you are a candidate for cat ract removal and lens implant in the unlikely event that the prednisone is, indeed, lifesaving, but has a negative effect on your vision.

Be informed about prescription drugs: Send for Dr. Gott's new Health Report, CONSUMER TIPS ON MEDICINES. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Taking out insurance

By James Jacoby

South arrived at a three no-trump contract, even though East had opened the bidding with one heart. And it looked fairly easy if the club suit divided 3-2, surely a reasonable expectation. In such circumstances the proficient declarer looks for some additional insurance.

A low heart was led to East's ace and a heart was returned. When South put in the 10, West won the jack and played a third heart. Declarer now won the nine. Meanwhile three diamonds had been discarded from dummy. Although it was likely the club suit would pose no problem, South could see that taking six club tricks would create some discarding cramps in his hand. For example, if he blanked the king of diamonds and the spade finesse lost, the defenders might take two diamond tricks to set him. So it seemed prudent to just lead the jack of spades out of his hand. East won the king and, fearing that the club suit was solid, cashed the ace of diamonds and played another, hoping West had the king. Declarer won the king and now proved his mettle.

He cashed the king of hearts, on which West discarded a spade. He then played the ace and queen of spades. Now what was poor West to do? If he threw a club, all of dummy's clubs would become good. And if he let his queen of diamonds go, the four of diamonds left in South's hand would be a winner. By not taking the club suit for granted, declarer had brought in three no-trump.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby on Card Games," published by Pharos Books.

IRS has 40 new tax forms

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you thought there was a lot of paperwork involved in your home-equity loan or IRA account, wait until you see what the Internal Revenue Service has waiting for you.

For the home equity loan, it's called Form 8589 and it can get complicated. The IRS estimates that as many as half the 27 million couples and individuals with deductible home mortgage interest will have to file the form with their tax returns next year.

The two-page form and its four pages of instructions were made public Thursday. At the same time, the IRS released new forms that will be required of taxpayers who make non-deductible contributions to Individual Retirement Accounts and of those whose passive investments result in losses.

The new forms are among about 40 being created as a result of the big tax overhaul enacted last year.

"They basically reflect what Congress did to the tax law," said Arthur Altman, chairman of the IRS tax-forms committee. He said the agency has not had an easy time translating congressional intent into understandable forms.

The mortgage-interest form has been especially troublesome. "This easy-sounding provision has turned out to be a very difficult one for us to administer," Altman said.

As part of the tax overhaul, Congress agreed that interest on home mortgages (for one or two homes) generally would remain fully deductible. But the lawmakers added a couple of conditions:

—A full deduction will be allowed on mortgages, including home-equity loans, taken out after Aug. 16, 1986, only if the mortgage loan does not exceed the fair market value of the property.

—With two exceptions, a deductible mortgage may not exceed the purchase price of the house plus the cost of improvements. Those exceptions: part of the proceeds of the loan may be used for education or medical expenses.

Bork debate spills out of Washington

By The Associated Press

President Reagan is on vacation and so is Congress, but there's no break in the debate over Robert H. Bork's Supreme Court nomination.

Both the president and Senate Republican leader Bob Dole, R-Kan. complained Thursday that the Democratic-controlled Senate is stalling on the nomination.

"The American people want to see a full complement of nine justices on the bench when the Supreme Court reconvenes," Reagan said in a speech in North Platte, Neb.

But the man controlling the pace, Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., said Bork is "not a moderate fellow" and the nomination is caught in the middle of "a major, major philosophical disagreement."

Speaking at a ranch in North Platte, Reagan recalled that former Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., whom Bork would replace, "said that it wasn't fair to the Supreme Court, or the parties with cases before it, for the court to operate at less than full strength."

"Well, since last June, that's just what's happened. The approval process for Judge Bork's nomination is already the longest in 25 years."

The president said the workload of the justices' law clerks in preparing for the court's fall term, which begins in October, has reached the breaking point.

"The delays and added burdens that have already occurred can't be undone," Reagan said. "But what can be done is completing the confirmation process well before the Supreme Court begins its October term."

Biden, in Logan, Iowa, where he is campaigning for president, said, "It's always a boost to a candidate when the president comes to his defense."

But he said he doubted that senators holding the key swing votes will be influenced by Reagan's complaints.

Biden said the president's decision to talk about the Bork nomination ahead of other issues such as arms control is a signal that the president views the nomination as his top priority.

Salesman may not have had AIDS

MARLIN, Texas (AP) — Medical authorities are unsure that an insurance salesman suspected of infecting 25 to 30 boys with AIDS actually had the fatal virus, officials say.

And authorities also said Thursday they believe few, if any, of the boys the salesman, Jimmy Glenn Etheridge, is believed to have had sex with are likely to have been infected with the deadly disorder.

Etheridge, 37, of Marlin was found shot to death June 30, and an autopsy revealed he carried the AIDS virus.

But the autopsy's results have been called into question because of the use of an experimental test.

Authorities believe that if he did carry the virus, Etheridge had done so for less than a month.

A federal health official said authorities do not believe Etheridge could have transmitted the disease to anyone he had sexual contact with before June 1, The Dallas Morning News reported today.

Authorities originally said records kept on computer by Etheridge concerning his liaisons with boys between the age of 7 and 16 indicated he might have spread AIDS to as many as 54 boys.

However, Etheridge's computer files contained fewer names than originally reported, a Texas Department of Health official said.

Etheridge was shot to death by a 16-year-old who was described as a housemate. Falls County District Attorney Thomas Seton said the boy will not be prosecuted.

The confusion over whether Etheridge had the AIDS virus resulted from the way Etheridge's body was tested for the virus after his death. Etheridge tested positive for the virus during an autopsy, conducted by the Dallas County medical examiner, which used an antigen test, which is considered to be experimental.

"It could be a false positive," Dallas County medical examiner Dr. Charles Petty said. "It could be the test wasn't done right. It could be one of several things. That's what we're trying to figure out."

Richard Butler, director of the Temple office of the Texas Department of Health said Wednesday the names of 25 to 30 children were found in Etheridge's computer.

Meanwhile, a fraudulent letter warning a resident of exposure to the AIDS virus is a perverse reaction to the case, a state health official says.

Prosecutors say they will investigate the letter, which was received by a Marlin resident this week.

The letter claimed to be sent by a J.E. Cooper of the Texas Department of Health, but no one by that name works for the department, Butler said.

"It's just a sick mind prevailing on the hysteria," Butler said.

Butler said the return address on the letter is the address of the Texas Department of Health's nursing home inspector's office.

Authorities found evidence of Etheridge's activities in his computer files and an autopsy showed Etheridge had been exposed to acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

The Texas Department of Health took over the case after Falls County officials asked for help last Thursday.

Both Sehon and Butler said anyone who might receive a similiar letter should verify it with state or county authorities.

Originally, Falls County officials said that 54 children may have had sexual contact with Etheridge. The discrepancy between the numbers was to be discussed Thursday.

Dad postpones daughter's marriage

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — A man who postponed his teen-age daughter's wedding to a man accused of killing a banker's wife said he would support the match if she wanted it later.

James Bartts said he wants to give his 16-year-old daughter, Tonya, time to reconsider her decision to marry Raymond Charles Tabares.

Authorities accused Tabares, 18, of murder in the slaying of Joyce Louise Walters, the wife of Roland Walters. He is the Bank of Kerrville's chairman of the board.

Tabares and Miss Bartts were engaged last spring after they met at Center Point High School. Miss Bartts, after Tabares' arrest last week, said she still intended to marry him.

Judge says state in contempt

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge held Texas mental health officials in contempt of court, saying school officials failed to live up to a 1983 agreement to make improvements in conditions at the Fort Worth State School.

U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders issued the opinion Thursday in the long-running Lelsz case, a class-action lawsuit brought against the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Sanders said the school's unacceptable conditions violate client's constitutional rights.

The opinion concluded that lack of funding is at the core of the school's inadequacies. "By defendants' own admission, Texas ranks '51st out of 50' states in financial commitment to its mentally retarded citizens," the opinion states, quoting testimony from department Commissioner Gary Miller.

"A generally caring and concerned staff cannot make up for that deficiency," the opinion stated. Sanders did not elaborate on the opinion.

Both sides have 60 days to suggest remedies for improving conditions at the school.

Although the order is interlocutory, meaning technically it can't be appealed, state officials said they would try to overthrow the ruling.

"All I can say today is that we're disappointed, that we're evaluating the court's opinion and that we will undoubtedly appeal," said Scott McCown, an assistant attorney general who has worked on the case.

David Ferleger, who represents the plaintiffs, hailed the opinion as a vindication.

"I'm delighted that the court has agreed that conditions of the institution are inhumane and intolerable," he said in a telephone interview from his Philadelphia office.

"I'm glad that it's no longer my word against the state's," he said.

The plaintiffs had asked for an evidentiary hearing on whether the state was complying with a 1983 settlement to the Leslz case which mandated improvements at the school. The hearing was held from June 29 to July 7.

A summary of the 93-page opinion said that state officials violated the the federal constitutional rights of clients at FWSS by failing to provide constitutionally adequate medical care, safety, training and treatment, and freedom from undue restraint.

"Further, defendants have breached their obligations to provide these services with required respect for clients' dignity and personal autonomy," the summary states.

The opinion lists several horror stories witnesses testified to, including the case of one client who died after workers discontinued use of a screen designed to prevent him from putting things in his mouth. The male client died following surgery to remove multiple foreign objects including portions of a plastic sponge and glove.

In another case, a client diagnosed by hospital officials as having a dislocated hip was not treated for four months, the opinion said.

There were 52 confirmed cases of abuse and neglect at FWSS during the last 2½ years, nearly twice the rate of the state average, the opinion stated.

Miller's office referred all questions on the opinion to McCown, who said he could not comment on what remedies the state might suggest. A telephone call by The Associated Press to the FWSS superintendent was not returned.

Ferleger has previously suggested that the school should be fined as a remedy. He has said the state should pay $20 a day for each client who has been there since the 1983 settlement, which comes to a rough total of $11.5 million.

He said Thursday he hopes the opinion will cause state mental health officials to change their viewpoint.

Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Just because an acquaintance is a faster and more glib talker than you doesn't mean that this person's ideas are superior to yours. Don't worry about it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today, it will not prove wise for you to tell a friend about something your instincts warn you to keep secret. Heed your inner voice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually you are a rather forthright person, but today you might feel compelled to butter up someone just because this person can do you a favor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You might not be as attentive as you should to instructions that are given to you today. Later, when you try to follow them, you'll wish you had been a better listener.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today, if you get involved in a game of chance with friends, don't start raising the stakes if you are on a losing streak. Things could get worse.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't make last-minute changes today regarding plans that affect others as well as yourself. Adhere to what you agreed upon, even if it's inconvenient.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll come up with some pretty creative excuses today when explaining to a friend why you were unable to do that person a favor.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today, you still don't have as tight a grip on your credit card as you should. There is a possibility that you may purchase some items you can do without.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Tolerance on your behalf will be required with your family today, or else you might make issues out of a situation that usually wouldn't faze you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This may not be one of your better days for conceiving ingenious ideas. Sleep on your thoughts before you reveal them to others.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't be pressured by friends into making social commitments today that you either don't enjoy or can't comfortably afford.

Move to Atlanta recommended

DALLAS (AP) — An American Cancer Society committee ended a four-month, eight-city competition when it recommended moving the organization's national headquarters from New York to Atlanta, officials say.

The society's national office location committee overwhelmingly chose the Georgia city during a meeting in Dallas Wednesday, ACS said in a news release Thursday. The society's board of directors will meet Sept. 1 in Chicago to vote on the recommendation.

The committee had also considered sites in Dallas; Houston; Baltimore, Memphis, Tenn.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Denver; and St. Louis, Mo. Dallas and Atlanta had been named finalists last month.

The non-profit organization, which has a headquarters staff of 300, has been searching for a new location since April, when its board announced intentions to leave New York because of high operating and rental costs.

Anchoring the Atlanta proposal was a private donation of land adjacent to Emory University's medical school, and plans call for a headquarters building to be constructed on a four-acre site near Emory and the U.S. Centers for Disease Control.

Airlines object to government probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's airlines say a new government investigation of schedule-related delays at four more major U.S. airports misses the real cause of late flights.

The basic problem, say airline representatives, is that the airport and air traffic control system cannot meet the demands of growing air traffic.

The Department of Transportation said Thursday that it will study airline scheduling at Denver's Stapleton International Airport, Newark International Airport in New Jersey, New York's LaGuardia International Airport and San Francisco International Airport.

The carriers involved could face penalties of up to $1,000 per violation per day, said Transportation Department spokesman Bob Marx.

The department since April has been studying scheduling problems at four other large airports: Chicago's O'Hare International, Atlanta, Boston and Dallas-Fort Worth.

"DOT's ongoing investigation is an effort to distract consumer attention from the government's failure to improve the air traffic control system, and nothing more," said Clark Onstead, a vice president of Texas Air Corp., which owns Eastern Airlines, Continental Airlines and others. "It's a clever PR ploy."

Stephen Hayes of the Air Transport Association, which represents the nation's major airlines, said airline schedules may lead to some delays but "the problem won't get solved in any significant way until we increase airport capacity."

The Transportation Department's interest was piqued by the investigations begun in April.

"The information obtained from our current investigations suggests that airline scheduling problems are widespread and that expansion of our investigation is warranted," said Transportation Secretary Elizabeth H. Dole.

According to department statistics, about two out of every three airline delays are caused by weather. But airline scheduling procedures have come under fire for many of the others.

A disproportionate number of flights leave airports in the early mornings and late afternoons in an effort to accommodate travelers. This creates rush hours with frequent backups as planes head toward runways and terminals.

Critics also complain that airlines sometimes promise that flights will arrive at specific times, even though they consistently reach their destinations much later. This raises questions of deceptive advertising and of unfair methods of competition, both of which are prohibited by law.

Information from the investigations that commenced in April is being funneled to the department's enforcement office for possible action. Airlines could be fined, but the main goal is to make them stop any improper practices, Marx said.

"The enforcement office will conduct informal discussions with the airlines," said Marx. "If those don't resolve the issue ... a formal complaint would be filed."

Marx said that if investigation of the four additional airports yields information about illegal scheduling practices, it will be handed to the enforcement office.

More cities eventually may be included in the investigation, he said.

The airline industry has long argued that the billions of dollars accumulated from taxes on airline tickets and aircraft fuel should be spent more quickly to improve airports and expand the air traffic control system, including adding controllers and buying more modern equipment.

Stapleton Airport was the nation's fifth busiest airport last year, handling 34.7 million passengers, according to the Airport Operators Council International. Newark was sixth busiest with 29.4 million passengers, San Francisco seventh with 28.6 million and LaGuardia ninth with 22.2 million.

Violators are rounded up

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A drug-related sweep of alleged weapons violators along the Texas-Mexico border has netted eight arrests so far and more are expected as the roundup continues, officials say.

Eight of 16 people indicted this week on weapons charges were arrested Thursday by Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents in an Operation Alliance crackdown.

Visit ends for Lions Queen

Her next stop was two weeks with a family in Toronto, Ontario. Jennifer had her picture taken with the mayor of the city of York for the York newspaper and she appeared on television also. She also met Ontario's premiere.

Sight seeing adventures included a trip to the CN Tower which is the tallest free standing structure in the world.

On the last day, they rode the subway for about 35 miles to Gold's Gym which is an international body building gym.

Jennifer got to see many of Canada's weightlifters.

She enjoyed her brief visit to Canada and took note of the differences between the two cultures. Jennifer described the Canadians as being "more relaxed and laid back" than Americans.

"My accent amazed them," she said. "I was also surprised to be served hot tea rather than ice tea. You don't get ice with your drinks unless you ask for it."

Jennifer said the weather similar to our spring, but that the Canadians considered the 90-degree temperatures as "sweltering."

Two men ordered held without bail

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men were ordered held without bond pending arraighment next week on charges that they transported 40 illegal aliens across Texas crammed inside the back of a rental truck, attorneys say.

The two men, themselves illegal aliens, appeared briefly Thursday before U.S. Magistrate Earl Hines in Beaumont, said U.S. Attorney Bob Wortham.

During the 20-minute appearance, both men appeared nervous, and one was assisted to a nearby chair after putting his hand to his head and appearing faint, witnesses said.

Hines ordered them held pending a Monday arraignment and bond hearing before U.S. Magistrate J. Michael Bradford on charges of conspiracy and transporting illegal aliens, said Wortham.

The two were arrested after 40 illegal aliens from Mexico were discovered jammed inside the rental truck late Tuesday on an East Texas highway near Garrison.

They were believed to have been in the 14-foot U-haul van for about eight hours, and they had punched holes in it to get air, said Charles Griggs, head of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service's anti-smuggling unit.

Pickup struck in hit-and-run

Police are investigating a hit-and-run accident at Scurry County Coliseum in which a pickup truck was damaged by a driver who left the scene.

Officers said a 1979 Chevrolet pickup owned by Manley Burrow of Rt. 1, Box 292, and parked in the coliseum parking lot was hit sometime between 5:30 p.m. Wednesday and 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

Also Thursday, a 1979 Pontiac two-door driven by Angelina Bohannon of White Deer was in collision with a 1980 Chevrolet two-door driven by Sylvia Lafon Williams of Rt. 1, Box 187-C, at 6:46 p.m. in the 400 Block of 37th St.

Fire alarms noted

Firemen put out a grass fire at Texas and Hargrove and answered a smoke alarm at a home in the 2900 Block of Westridge Thursday afternoon.

The grass fire call was at 3:50 p.m. for burning grass in a vacant lot.

Also, firemen answered a 4:40 p.m. call to the 2900 Westridge home of H.H. Reed, where they found that a smoking stove had set off the automatic alarm. The owner was home when they arrived, and they were told that it was not an emergency.

Three arrested, two for drugs

Police arrested three persons early Friday on charges related to drinking and possession of marijuana.

Officers were called at 1:53 a.m. to a disturbance in the parking lot of a motel on East Highway 180 and arrested a 16-year-old youth for public intoxication.

Because he was under 17 years of age and therefore a juvenile, he was later released into the custody of a relative.

An officer responded to a report of a car needing a jump-start at 6:17 a.m. at a convenience store on College Ave. and arrested two persons for possession of marijuana and public intoxication.

A 15-year-old youth was taken into custody for public intoxication, possession of less than two ounces of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was taken to jail and later released to a relative.

A 24-year-old Snyder man was arrested there for public intoxication and possession of a non-felonious amount of marijuana.

Trade deficit widens

By The Associated Press

The U.S. trade deficit widened to $15.71 billion in June, possibly the worst shortfall ever, and wholesale prices rose a modest 0.2 percent last month, the government said today.

The increase in wholesale prices resulted from large jumps in gasoline and heating oil costs that were offset by slightly lower food prices. The July increase followed an identical 0.2 percent jump in June and a 0.3 percent rise in May, bolstering Reagan administration predictions that inflation would slow in the second half of 1987.

The June increase in the Commerce Department's merchandise trade deficit figure, from $14.04 billion in May, was led by a $2 billion surge in petroleum and other imports.

The widening of the trade gap came even though the government, with this report, began using new calculations showing smaller deficits with Canada.

The change in calculations were an effort to correct a previous underreporting of exports to Canada, the agency said.

Without the "Canadian adjustment," the trade shortfall would have been $16.32 billion — a clear record.

A deficit of $16.05 billion was posted in July 1986. However, that number was not adjusted by the government to take into account the Canadian modifications.

Thus, department analysts said that June's figure may well have been the all-time record.

"It may well be a record, but we don't know that. It's on a difernt basis," said agency analyst Adren Cooper.

If not a record, the June 1987 deficit is the second-worst on record without question.

Imports increased in June to $36.84 billion, from $34.82 billion the month before.

Exports, meanwhile, also increased, but much more modestly — to $21.13 billion from $20.78 billion in May.

The May deficit had originally been reported as $14.4 billion.

So far this year, inflation at the wholesale level was running at an annual rate of 4.2 percent. Through June, the annualized rate had been 4.5 percent. July's increase, if it persisted for 12 months, would amount to an annual inflation rate of 2.0 percent.

The administration is forecasting that increases in both wholesale and retail prices, by year's end, will slow a full percentage point from the annualized gains recorded in the first six months of the year.

"After a temporary increase early this year, inflation is returning to the 4 percent range characteristic of the first three years of the current expansion," said Beryl W. Sprinkel, President Reagan's chief economic adviser.

As for last month, the Labor Department said food prices dropped 0.6 percent after large advances in the preceding three months. Pork prices fell 6.8 percent; poultry costs were off 4.8 percent; fruit prices dropped 3.8 percent and vegetable costs eased 3.5 percent. Beef prices were down 0.9 percent.

Moderate increases — less than 1.0 percent — were posted for dairy products, fish and baked goods.

Energy prices rose 1.5 percent. Leading the way was a 2.5 percent gain in gasoline prices, atop a 3.0 percent increase in June, and a second straight 4.6 percent price jump for home heating oil.

Natural gas prices fell 0.5 percent after a 1.8 percent drop in June.

Prices for products other than food and energy rose at the same 0.2 percent rate as the overall index. Capital equipment costs edged up 0.1 percent; consumer product costs gained 0.3 percent; automobile prices were unchanged.

Clothing prices rose slightly, ranging from 0.1 percent for children's goods to 0.6 percent for men's wear.

Prices also rose for tobacco, light trucks, shoes and carpeting. Declines were posted for home electronic equipment, alcoholic beverages and cosmetics.

The overall index for wholesale goods one step short of the retail level stood at 297.8, compared to 296.8 in the previous month and 287.6 in July 1986.

That means a selection of products costing $10 in 1967 would have cost $29.78 last month, up 3.5 percent from the $28.76 price for an identical selection of items a year earlier.

Anchorage said safe after mines are found

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — A busy anchorage just south of the Persian Gulf where six mines were found was declared safe for shipping, but four nations were searching for more explosives, officials said.

Iran, which has been accused of laying the mines, offered to help in the search.

At the head of the gulf, Kuwaiti tankers flying American flags were loading cargoes in preparation for their trip south under U.S. Navy escort.

A dispatch from Iran's official news agency Thursday quoted a naval commander as saying his ships would start minesweeping operations today, in international waters not specified, but would not work in the Fujairah area without permission.

Fujairah is one of seven sheikdoms that make up the United Arab Emirates. The anchorage area is 30 miles south of the Strait of Hormuz, the narrow passage to the gulf.

Tankers transship oil and ships take on supplies in the anchorage, which is also used to assemble the northbound convoys of U.S. warships escorting reflagged Kuwaiti tankers up the gulf.

In Washington, the Pentagon said Thursday that Iran probably planted the mines.

"We believe that it is quite likely, in fact almost certainly, the Iranians who left those mines there, presumably in hopes of placing them in front of our most recent tanker-escort group," said chief spokesman Robert Sims.

The anchorage had been considered a safe haven from the 7-year-old war between Iran and Iraq. That came to an end Monday, when the U.S-operated supertanker Texaco Caribbean struck a mine there.

The anchorage, where up to 50 ships from many nations can be seen at once, was closed to traffic earlier Thursday.

Several shipping executives said they believed the "spiked globe" mines, which explode on contact, were free-floating and not tethered.

Col. Saeed Samssoun, the Fujairah police chief, said after nightfall Thursday that a search of the coastal area found it free of mines, and "full safety" for international navigation had been ensured.

The American oil companies Mobil and Chevron told their tankers to avoid the anchorage and to stay at least 25 miles from shore.

Executives of shipping companies said the average number of ships near the Strait of Hormuz was down by more than half.

Tigers scrimmage; 7 tonight at Travis

Coach Dennis Tomlin's Ragin' Tigers will hold their intrasquad scrimmage tonight at Travis Field, with at least one expected starter on the sidelines.

Senior linebacker-tight end Trey Tippens will miss the action, which is scheduled to get underway at 7 p.m. The public is invited. No admission fee will be charged.

Tippens, expected to be a primary cog on the Tigers' defensive unit this season, is nursing a sore knee. He was to have a doctor check it out today.

Coach Tomlin expects Tippens to be the only player to miss the scrimmage, which coaches hope will clue them as to how the team is progressing. Players donned pads for the first time this morning.

"We'll be evaluating our players from the scrimmage tonight," said Tomlin this morning. "We're looking to find some guys that need to be added to our starters."

Snyder will hold its first intersquad scrimmage on Friday, Aug. 21. The Tigers will meet Vernon in Stamford at about 7 p.m. A junior varsity scrimmage is slated for 6 p.m.

Ladies slated for scrimmage

For Snyder's Lady Tigers time is critical.

The high school girl's volleyball team began workouts this past Monday and hold their first scrimmage next Monday, Aug. 17. Their first game is the following day.

Snyder will scrimmage Seminole, Denver City and Lamesa in Denver City on Monday. The Lady Tigers are expected to begin with Denver City at 2 p.m.

Snyder's junior varsity girls will also scrimmage Denver City, though an exact time was not known this morning.

Cowboys, Chargers face injuries as they prepare for Saturday tilt

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Perhaps the only comparison between Saturday's exhibition and a regular season meeting between the Dallas Cowboys and the San Diego Chargers is that both teams will be trying to work around lists of injured players that usually aren't so long so early.

"The only problem we have is that our injuries are about as long as your arm. We've never had this many injuries in camp," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said.

The Chargers, while not as bad off in long-term injuries, are holding back some of their best-known players.

The scorecards for the game at San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium will be needed to keep track of the players who won't be seen on the field.

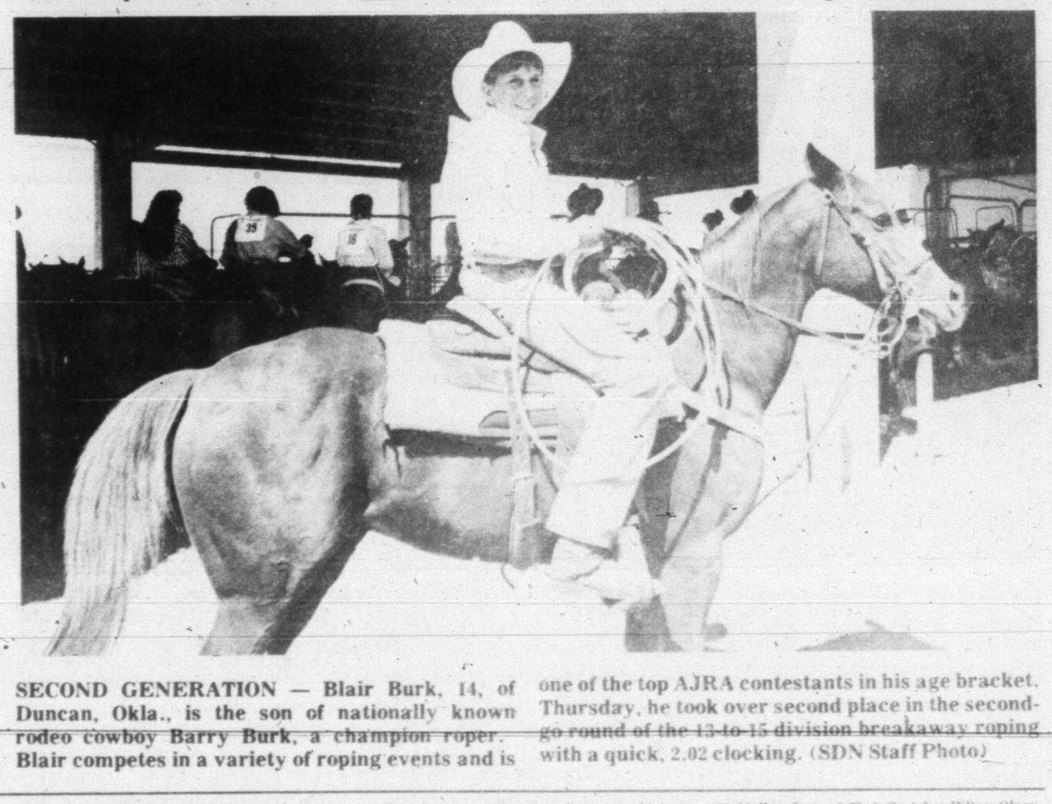

Dallas quarterback Danny White, still bothered by pain in the wrist of his throwing arm, which was broken last year, will start and play about a quarter Saturday. He will be followed by Steve Pelluer and either veteran Paul McDonald or rookie Kevin Sweeney.

The explosive Cowboy running back tandem of Tony Dorsett and Herschel Walker will probably be on the sidelines; Walker is out for two to three weeks with strained knee ligaments and Dorsett is recovering from arthroscopic surgery on both knees and may play some.

Wide receiver Mike Sherrard, who caught 41 passes for 744 yards and five touchdowns as a rookie last season, is out for the year with a broken leg.

The Chargers, meanwhile, are working around training camp injuries to Pro Bowl linebacker Chip Banks, (Achilles tendinitis), acquired in a draft day trade with the Cleveland Browns, and trying to make up for the season-long loss of defensive end Leslie O'Neal, who tore knee ligaments in a game against Indianapolis last November.

O'Neal was NFL's defensive rookie of the year in 1986 despite being injured late in the season.

SECOND GENERATION — Blair Burk, 14, of Duncan, Okla., is the son of nationally known rodeo cowboy Barry Burk, a champion roper. Blair competes in a variety of roping events and is one of the top AJRA contestants in his age bracket. Thursday, he took over second place in the second-go round of the 13-to-15 division breakaway roping with a quick, 2.02 clocking. (SDN Staff Photo)

Oilers kicked 32-20 in exhibition game

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers were literally kicked into submission by Kansas City's Nick Lowery in their NFL exhibiton opener.

Lowery kicked six field goals, including a go-ahead 22-yarder with 7:58 to play Thursday night, leading the Chiefs to a 32-20 victory.

Lowery hit field goals of 39 and 38 yards in the first half when the Chiefs took a 13-10 intermission lead.

He added kicks of 28, 19, 22 and 42 yards in the second half. Herman Heard ran 1-yard for a touchdown in the first quarter and Bill Kenney hit Darrell Colbert with a 40-yard touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Tony Zendejas had field goals of 23 and 30 yards for the Oilers and Warren Moon hit Drew Hill with a 19-yard touchdown pass and Hubert Oliver ran 1-yard for another Oiler touchdown.

The Oilers played the game without starting running back Mike Rozier, who said he overslept and missed pre-game warmups.

Oiler Coach Jerry Glanville said it was a private matter between him and Rozier. "I came late to dress out, that's it," Rozier said. "I don't know if he (Glanville) wasn't going to play me or if it was because I was late.

"He asked me where I'd been and I told him. There was no big scene. I told him I'd overslept. It happens. I'm human just like you."

Glanville said he wanted to see as many players as possible.

"When we had good people out there, good things happened," Glanville said. "(quarterback) Cody Carlson looked good and so did (running back) Ira Valentine."
