FOUNDER OF DOAN'S CROSSING DIES

Spring Floods Wreak Loss of Millions in Four States

TEXAS HEAVIEST SUFFERER DUE TO UNPRECEDENTED HARD RAIN WHICH PUT RIVERS ON RAMPAGE

Floods, which have resulted in millions of dollars property damage throughout Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, were receding slowly tonight.

Additional showers were forecast tonight throughout the district, but the danger to life was believed to be past and the likelihood of additional property damage was slight.

Although numerous rumors of flood deaths were prevalent, a check of the area definitely revealed that the loss of life had not exceeded two.

At Falls City, Neb., three persons said they saw a small boy swept away by flood waters. The body had not been recovered this evening.

A report widely circulated that a messenger boy had been seen to drown when he rode his bicycle too near the swirling waters at Houston, Texas was discounted. A check of telegraph stations revealed no boys missing.

The floods are the result of torrential rains which have been falling for the past five days. Heavy rainfall was experienced throughout the district Friday night. At Dalson, Neb., seven inches of rain fell during the night.

Texas Lots Heaviest

Texas suffered the heaviest damage from the floods. Buffalo Bayou, ordinarily a sluggish little stream which flows through Houston, being transformed into a raging torrent rising to a height 43 feet above normal stage and driving hundreds of persons from their homes. A large section of the city was under water and property damage was believed to exceed a million dollars. Many small towns were isolated or in immediate danger as the crest of the flood passed Houston and swept down the wider channel and lowlands among the navigation canal.

In Nebraska high water and heavy rains caused the derailment of two passenger trains and marooned several others. The Nemaha river, ordinarily a placid stream

AWARD HEARST PRIZE FOR BEST 'DRY' SOLUTION

TOTAL OF 71,248 PLANS SUBMITTED IN CONTEST

Retired Brigadier General Is Winner Second Prize Of $5,000 Cash

NEW YORK, June 1. (US)—Presiding Justice Franklin Chase Hoyt of the children's court, New York, won the first prize of $25,000 in the temperance contest sponsored by William Randolph Hearst, it was announced tonight. Other prize winners are:

Justice Hoyt, in his winning plan, urges the repeal of the Volstead law, but declares that the repeal of the 18th amendment is not practicable. He proposes that a new law be enacted in which the term "intoxicating liquor" as used in the 18th amendment be defined as "the alcoholic product of distillation." He said:

"Distillation is the act of man, while fermentation is the act of nature."

Justice Hoyt believes that each separate state should control the consumption of light wines and beers. The manufacture, transportation and sale of intoxicating liquors, except for medicinal purposes, would be forbidden by appropriate federal legislation.

Seventy-one thousand two hundred and forty-eight plans, offering a temperance solution for prohibition, were submitted during the contest. The judges of the contest were:

Cooler at New York

NEW YORK, June 1. (UP)—New York entered today its first ideal week-end of the year, cooled by a brisk northwest wind following the season's shortest day yesterday which claimed 10 lives and brought the three-day heat wave's death toll to 26.

MISSOURI'S STATE HEAD HONORS TEXAS WARRANT

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 1. (AP)—Governor Caulfield today honored a requisition from Texas authorities for the return to Lufkin, Texas, of Leonard F. Frisbie to face charge of swindling.

Frisbie is under arrest at Carthage, Mo. It is alleged he drew a check for $199.50 on the First National bank of McAllen, Texas, which he made payable to the Bank and Trust company of Lufkin, and had no funds in the McAllen bank.

PAUL STEWART FAVORED EVERYBODY'S REMOVAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 1. (UP)—Senator Paul Stewart, Democratic floor leader, has "batted" consistently in Oklahoma's impeachment games but he has not always scored.

Stewart has voted for the conviction of every impeached official this year. He also has voted for conviction on every charge filed. He is the only Democrat who voted for the conviction of either Henry S. Johnston or Justice J. W. Clark on every charge. He was one of the two Democrats voting for the conviction of Chief Justice Charles W. Mason.

CHIEF JUSTICE MASON MAY RESIGN COURT JOB

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 1. (UP)—Resignation of Chief Justice Charles W. Mason from the supreme court was indicated today in an interview with Mason who was acquitted of an impeachment charge late last night.

"I have no immediate plans," said Mason. "At the time the investigation started, I was considering resigning to enter private law practice."

The plans were held in abeyance pending the trial, he said.

MAJOR BATTLE OVER SHIFT IN HOUSE'S SEATS

CHIEF OBJECTIONS AIMED AT CIVIL SERVICE PLAN

Republicans Oppose Demo Plan to Put U. S. Census Counters in Service

WASHINGTON, June 1. (US)—A major battle in the house next week over provisions in the census-reapportionment bill placing the 100,000 enumerators under civil service, was foreshadowed today.

Democratic forces will lead the fight to keep this feature in the bill, but widespread opposition from the Republican side was indicated.

General debate on the measure, which has been passed by the senate, was slated to begin in the house Monday, with a final vote expected Wednesday.

Republicans have set up the cry that the task of putting 100,000 persons through the civil service regulations would be well-nigh impracticable. They will be employed for only about a month, it was pointed out.

However, many Republicans also fear that the civil service would deprive them of political patronage they would like to dispense to faithful campaign supporters. Estimates were that Uncle Sam will spend $40,000,000 in taking the census.

Claiming that elimination of the provision would be a blow at the development of civil service for federal employes, the Democrats planned to fight against its removal.

A movement is under way, chiefly among congressmen from rural sections, to force adoption of an amendment excluding aliens as the basis for determining allocation of seats in the house. Such an amendment was rejected by the senate.

The reapportionment feature of the bill will be accepted by the house, though possibly with some minor changes, it appeared today.

The opposition comes chiefly from states that will lose seats in the house under reapportionment.

ROY TENNANT FILES BIG SUIT AGAINST PUBLISHER

AUSTIN, Texas, June 1. (UP)—Suit for $100,000 against the Houston Printing company was filed today in the 53rd district court here by Roy Tennant, member of the state board of control. Damages are sought for articles published in the Houston Post-Dispatch.

Federal Farm Board

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—A tentative agreement was reached today by the Farm relief conference committee of senate and house members for a federal farm board composed of nine members including the secretary of agriculture, with the salary of all the appointed members fixed at $12,000 a year and their terms at six years.

C. OF C. HEAD ENDORSES THRIFT CAMPAIGN

Orville Bullington, president of the chamber of commerce, was enthusiastic in his endorsement of The Daily Times and Record News thrift campaign of the "World and 50 Cents Free." "I congratulate The Daily Times and Record News upon their thrift enterprise," he said. "No man can succeed in any line of endeavor if he isn't thrifty. Every child should be taught the lesson of thrift at an early age, as the habits then formed usually stay with him through life."

Thrifty Wichita Falls citizens in the number of 154 took advantage of The Daily Times and Record News thrift offer of the "World and 50 Cents Free" Saturday, the opening day of the campaign, at the North Texas Building and Loan association. Already several out-of-town readers have sent in money and thrift coupons. Accounts were received Saturday from Electra, Quanah and Vernon.

Several thrift essays also were received at the association. The Daily Times and Record News is offering three prizes for the best 150-word essays on thrift. Following are the special prizes offered to all those opening world bank accounts:

$10.00 to the youngest person for whom an account is opened.

$10.00 to the oldest person opening an account.

$15.00 to the person opening an account with the largest sum of money.

$1.00 to each member of the family opening the greatest number of accounts.

$10.00 to the person submitting the best 150-word essay on "Thrift."

$5.00 to the person submitting the second best 150-word essay on "Thrift."

$3.00 to the person submitting the third best 150-word essay on "Thrift."

Send thrift essays to the North Texas Building and Loan association, 822 Scott avenue. Announce-

Northwest Texas Sunday was to pay final respects to one of its most famous pioneer figures, C. F. Doan, 80, for whom funeral services were to be held Sunday afternoon at Vernon. One of the original settlers of Wilbarger county, Mr. Doan came to this section in 1878 and established Doan's trading post at Doan's crossing on the Red river, 15 miles northeast of Vernon. Through the exciting days of the early Indian fights and the later days of the white man's civilization, Mr. Doan maintained his trading post, famous through the years as a landmark of pioneer development of Northwest Texas.

Mr. Doan was the first white man to bring his family to Northwest Texas when Beaver creek was Wichita county's frontier outpost and Wilbarger county was wild prairie land. Doan and his family came from Sherman, Texas, where they left the railroad, in a covered wagon and chose what was later to be known as Doan's crossing on the Red river as the site for their home.

Fought Indians In 1875

The aged pioneer got his first taste of Western frontier life in the exciting days of 1875 when Indian uprisings were common around Fort Sill, Oklahoma. It was in 1878, that Doan decided to make his home in the pioneer southwestern country and he brought his family from Wilmington, Ohio. The drive from Sherman was made by Doan, his wife, one daughter, Miss Bertha Doan (now Mrs. Bertha Ross of Vernon), and two cousins. In 1884 another daughter, now Mrs. C. W. Igou of Electra, was born, and in 1887 a son, who died in 1892 at the age of five years, was added to the family.

Only a year after the Doans had settled on Red river, the last Indian raid into Texas was staged. This was in 1879, according to family history recounted Saturday night

Lloyd George Can't Decide Which Way to Jump as He Holds Balance Of Power in British Parliament

LONDON, June 1. (US)—Lloyd George, leader of the liberal party which, by virtue of the general elections, holds the balance of power in the house of commons, is undecided whether his support will be thrown to the strong conservatives or to the victorious labor party, for which Ramsay MacDonald will form the next cabinet.

England's diminutive former prime minister must decide sometime before the first week in July which party will receive the liberal votes, and two conditions will gauge his stand.

"L. G." must either vote with the conservatives, whom, in his campaign speeches, he dubbed "enemies of peace and progress," or he must necessarily put the labor party in absolute power as in 1924, an action which then caused the falling to earth of his strong liberal organization.

Over the week-end, the leaders of the various parties will outline the course they intend to take, and it is almost certain now that Stanley Baldwin, conservative prime minister, will reform the cabinet to meet the new parliament in the first week in July.

It is understood that Baldwin will resign only if the house of commons' "confidence" vote is against him. Such a course would bring to a head the liberal policy, and cause either liberal abstenation or liberals voting to give the labor party a majority.

Labor leaders today feared a conservative-liberal link-up "to deprive labor of its heritage."

Ray Adams Takes 25 Hotel Rooms When He Arrives in Corsicana Where Death Trial Opens Monday

CORSICANA, Texas, June 1. (AP)—V. Ray Adams, Bartlett rancher, whose trial on an indictment for murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Orville L. Mathews, Dallas bank employe, in Dallas, Sept. 1, 1928, is to get under way here Monday, arrived yesterday, accompanied by Mrs. Adams, his daughter and several other relatives and friends.

Twenty-five hotel rooms had been reserved by Adams.

Indications pointed to the beginning of the trial before Judge Hawkins Scarborough. A special venire of 150 had been summoned in addition to the regular list of 36 men.

Adams spent part of today conferring with attorneys. He was indicted by the Dallas county grand jury after Mathews had been shot. The slaying grew out of an election bet on the Connally-Mayfield senatorial race last fall.

Adams was tried first before Judge Charles A. Pippen at Dallas, a mistrial resulting. When the case was called a second time, the case was transferred to Navarro county.

PROHI SQUAD RAIDS AL CAPONE'S BREWERY

TEXAS IS HEAVIEST LOSER FROM FLOOD

only 45 feet wide, spread out over a half mile of territory in many places, and the flood was the worst in 16 years. Dozens of persons were forced to take refuge on housetops, and motor boats were busy throughout the day removing them to places of safety. Many automobiles were stranded by the water which overflowed highways. Loss of crops and livestock was heavy.

Missouri Flood Serious

Northern Missouri was in the throes of the worst flood in recent years with streams overflowing rich farm lands. In Kansas City basements were flooded by heavy rains, which halted street car traffic and raised havoc with electric lights and telephones. Agency, Carrollton and Brunswick sustained heavy flood damage.

Rivers and small streams throughout Kansas were bankfull but flood damage was believed to be slight.

Weather forecasts predicted local thundershowers throughout the flood district but P. Connor, government weather observer at Kansas City expected no recurrence of the rains of near cloudburst proportions.

River Forecast Issued

The Brazos will fall to somewhat below Washington; the crest will reach Hempstead late today or tonight at about 44 feet, present stage 42.1 feet; rise at Rosenberg to a crest of 44 and 46 feet Monday or Monday night, present stage 39.2 feet and rising with heavy flood downstream for several days thereafter.

Trinity river slightly above 43 feet at Long Lake today; rise slowly below for next three days with crest stage of 47 to 48 feet at Riverside and will rise at Liberty to a crest of 28.5 feet in about two days; yesterday's stage 27.5 feet.

The Neches will come to a stand at Rockland tomorrow between 27 and 28 feet, present stage 26.8 feet, and will reach second highest crest on record of about 13 feet at Beaumont probably late tomorrow or tomorrow night, present stage 12.3 feet; flood stage at Beaumont seven feet.

The Sabine crest should pass Logansport tomorrow slightly under flood, present stage 22.3 feet. Will pass Bon Wier next three or four days between 20 and 21 feet, present stage 19.5 feet and flood stage 20 feet and will rise slowly at Orange for several days to a crest somewhat above flood.

Prison officials at Huntsville were informed the Ferguson farm and a good part of the Eastham farm were under water.

High Water Isolates Beaumont

BEAUMONT, Texas, June 1. (AP)—Only airplane transportation and the Santa Fe railway by way of Galveston remained available for travel between Beaumont and Houston today. Waters of the Neches, Trinity and Brazos rivers continued to rise.

Westbound trains over the Southern Pacific and the Missouri Pacific railroads were stopped here. Train service east was barely possible.

A section of the Kansas City Southern's track near Vidor, six miles east of Beaumont, was washed out, and Missouri Pacific trains were stopped at Mauriceville. Passengers were transferred to the Kansas City Southern and brought here over the Southern Pacific through Orange.

No trains had come in from Houston over the Missouri Pacific or the Southern Pacific since Friday night.

Besides carrying passengers, airplanes were used to deliver newspapers and yeast to East Texas towns from which the bread supply had been cut off.

Six hundred men were thrown out of employment when plants of the Pennsylvania shipyards, the Petroleum Iron works and the International Creosoting company were forced to close down by high water.

The Neches river today reached a stage of 14 feet, one and a half inches, a half inch below the record stage of 1884. The stream was expected to recede this afternoon.

Great Acreage Flooded

HOUSTON, Texas, June 1. (AP)—While the waters of Houston's most disastrous flood in the last quarter of a century continued to recede tonight, crests of about a half dozen streams in South Texas moved slowly gulfward, inundating additional thousands of acres.

Buffalo bayou was fast draining off the watershed above Houston and was expected to be back within its banks here before dawn.

As water rolled back from homes, business houses, streets and bridges Houston residents began counting the losses which were etimated to run into the millions.

Danger of a serious conflagration here persisted tonight. Water pressure was increasing but it was still far below normal and it was expected to be several days before the inundated central pumping plant could be started again.

Most of the transportation facilities, paralyzed by the raging waters, were back in use, and traffic was moving over many of the bridges which had been covered with water.

Traffic in the ship channel was at a standstill today as the swirling waters reached that point. No ship had gone up the channel since yesterday. Great sections of the east bank of the channel were sloughing off.

With Beaumont isolated, the swollen Neches river threatened to break all previous high marks near that city. Precautions against the caving in of the eastern rampart at the Neches river bridge here were being taken with 20,000 sand bags as reinforcements.

The Brazos, Neches, Sabine and Trinity rivers were not expected to reach their crests in the counties along the coast until Monday or Tuesday.

State prison farm properties near Huntsville were flooded today and residents of Navasota county, bordering the river, accustomed to floods, were unhurriedly awaiting for the flood to reach its peak, certain that thousands of acres of land would be covered. Three state prison farms are located in that county.

Lynchburg, where Buffalo bayou and the San Jacinto rivers converge, was a lake and water surrounded the public square at Wharton on the Colorado river.

More than 100,000 applications for new inventions and devices pour into the United States Patent office each year.

BORDER POSSE HUNTS SLAYER

'El Lobo' Named as Killer Of Customs Officer

EL PASO, Texas, June 1. (INS)—Border patrol and peace officers were searching for a man today who is said to call himself "El Lobo Geronimo," and who is wanted for the slaying of enjamin T. Hill, patrol inspector, who was shot down Thursday night while on duty near the international line.

According to H. C. Horsely, border patrol commander, the man has a record as a killer and dope smuggler. He comes from Lower California. Horsely said that two men, who claimed to have talked with "El Lobo," said that he told them he had done the shooting. "El Lobo," he said, is wanted in Lower California for a crime committed there.

C-C HEAD ENDORSES THRIFT CAMPAIGN

ment of prize winners will be made in The Daily Times and Record News immediately after the close of the campaign.

It certainly was a beautiful sight to behold. The association on Saturday was crowded and it took three savings tellers to take care of them. Mothers with babies in their arms, stenographers, newsboys, school children, as well as substantial business men and women, gathered to take advantage of The Daily Times and Record News' sensational thrift offer.

To join the campaign is simple. Just clip the official coupon found elsewhere in this paper and take it or send it with $1.00 or more to the North Texas Building and Loan association. You will receive in return a savings pass book, showing the amount deposited plus 50 cents and will also be given a world bank in which to continue your savings. The world bank is an authentic globe, made of steel, beautifully colored, showing all the changes since the world war.

The only conditions to the campaign are that another sum must be added to the account within six months and $1 of the original deposit must remain with the association for one year. There are no entrance fees, membership fees, or withdrawal fees on these world bank accounts. Six per cent compounded semi-annually, will be paid on the world bank accounts.

Thrift Is Praised

Our president, Herbert Hoover, in speaking of savings, said: "Universal saving insures a wide distribution of wealth among our people and has a close relation to increasing material prosperity and higher standards of living."

Former President Coolidge has always saved 10 per cent of his earnings.

Savings are not only an insurance against the turns of fortune, but also a means of seizing golden opportunities which are so often lost through lack of a small amount of capital.

John D. Rockefeller, one of America's greatest financiers, said: "Everybody works for money, but the most important part is to have money work for you."

Only nine days remain in which to join the merry crowd now "sitting on top of the world." Be sure to clip the coupon and hurry down to the North Texas Building and Loan association, 822 Scott avenue, and open a Daily Times and Record News world bank account.

RANKIN PREDICTS VIGOROUS CONTEST OVER ALIEN COUNT

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—Predicting a vigorous contest in the house today over the proposal to exclude aliens from the count in reapportioning the members, Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, said today that if the senate bill is passed unchanged 3,000,000 criminal aliens would be entitled to 12 representatives in congress.

Rankin, who is ranking minority member on the census committee, is to lead the opposition to the measure. In a statement today he declared the bill was "merely political camouflage" and had been "flagrantly misrepresented to the American people."

LIQUOR-CRAZED MAN SLAYS AND SUICIDES

sought Preuss, in the greatest manhunt in the city's history. On the finding of the body this morning relief was felt through the city as it was feared further deaths might result from encounters with the madman.

Preuss is believed to have acted with cold deliberation as the horror of his crime came to him when his head cleared from the effects of the liquor.

Wife Prostrated

His wife tonight was prostrated. Between her sobs she recited to the police the story of their married life.

"I met Ferd in 1913 when we were both employed in the same factory, we were married in 1917 and were very happy. Ferd didn't drink then—except to be sociable when we were out and then he never got drunk.

"After the prohibition law went into force and liquor was harder to get he used to get it and bring it home. Soon he began to drink heavily. During the last year things have gone from bad to worse. He would work for two or three months and then he would go on a "tare" and stay drunk for two or three weeks. I pleaded with him; threatened to leave him—but it did no good.

"I used to go with him and make him come home. But if he got out it was almost impossible to find him until he would come home. He could buy booze any where and in places I never suspected of handling it.

"Thursday night he had been drinking and when he went out I went with him. We had a nice walk and before we came home he insisted on buying liquor. I couldn't stop him. We went to a delicatessen shop and he bought a bottle.

"Yesterday morning he got up early and said he had to have a drink 'to get going.' I had thrown away what had been left Thursday night and when he found it out he was very angry. He beat me and left for more liquor. When he returned he was drunk and had a full bottle.

"I hid this bottle and got another beating. When he couldn't find it he threatened to kill me and the babies and we all screamed. Our screams seemed to make him crazy.

Wonders at Escape

"The rest you know. He killed his friend who came to help me and quiet him. Then he killed those two poor policemen and shot the others. How any of us escaped is more than I know."

Mrs. Preuss was bitter toward the prohibition law and its resultant speakeasies. Although appreciative that her life was spared only by a miracle, nevertheless "dreamed" of happiness which she once enjoyed with the man she loved. She said.

"Ferd was a good man—when he wasn't drunk. The thrill of getting and having prohibited liquor inspired his drinking as it does many others. He was fond of hunting and fishing and we used to go to Fox lake often. He was good to me and never forgot our anniversary or my or the children's birthdays.

"He used to be so ashamed of himself after a drunk. I used to scold him. He would try to make up for it by buying presents for us and he always promised never to get drunk again—but he did."

Three funds will provide for the families of the two policemen slain. The police pension will pay each widow $125 a month and $10 a month additional for each child. The city council fund will provide up to $10,000 for each widow dependent on the number of children. Another fund available to the widows is that for officers killed in line of duty.

The two policemen and the civilian wounded by Preuss are reported making a valiant fight for their lives. All three have from 11 to 24 shot gun slugs in their bodies.

SIGNS OF POSSIBLE COALITION ON TARIFF MEASURE SEEN IN VOTE OF FINANCE COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—The first sign of a possible coalition between senate Democrats and Republican independents over the tariff was seen today in the unanimous vote of the finance committee minority for open committee hearings on the bill passed by the house.

Senator LaFollette, Republican Wisconsin, has introduced a resolution calling for public hearings on the bill which the committee plans to start June 11.

Republicans of the committee are opposed to open sessions, but are willing that ample opportunity to testify be given witnesses who did not present evidence at the house ways and means committee hearings.

Chairman Smoot also is willing that the Democrats participate in the hearings and in the re-writing of the measure, which he predicts will take about six weeks.

The minority leaders said they were willing that a vote be taken at not later than a certain date and that ample time be allowed for settlement of differences in conference. Speaking for his colleagues, Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the committee, said they were opposed to fixing a definite date for a vote.

The schedule relating to farm products will be the first considered by the committee.

COLD FORCES ANNE LINDBERGH TO PAY VISIT TO PHYSICIAN

NEW YORK, June 1. (US)—A cold contracted by the former Anne Morrow before her quiet wedding to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh brought the honeymooning couple out of hiding for a fleeting glimpse by just a few eagle-eyed observers last Thursday, it was revealed today.

One watcher said he saw Mrs. Lindbergh visit the home of Dr. G. H. Ward, Morrow family physician, Thursday. He did not see Lindy. Dr. Ward refused to affirm or deny the statement. It was learned, however, that Miss Morrow had a slight but troublesome cold.

These glimpses, with the fact that the couple drove into the Morrow estate early Friday morning, in a sedan, going out the rear exit hurriedly, over a little-used road, seemed to discount dispatches indicating the probable presence of the two at various other points of the compass. It is believed Lindy, extremely successful at keeping his honeymoon strictly private, is somewhere in or near New York City, often called an ideal hiding place.

Lindy's Curtiss Falcon plane was wheeled out of the airport at Schenectady, N. Y., today and placed in readiness for flight, but officials at the field declined to comment.

In New York reports persisted that Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh had sailed for Europe Friday night. Careful watch by newspaper men was kept, however, fruitlessly, at the piers of all steamers that sailed that day. It was pointed out Lindy would achieve more publicity by going to Europe than by continuing to cling to his retirement here.

HOUSTON WATER PLANT'S HEAD BANS WEEKLY BATH

HOUSTON, June 1. (AP)—James H. B. House, Houston water commissioner, today advised citizens of this flood swept city to dispense with the regular Saturday night bath or else use a sponge.

"I don't like to discourage bathing and cleanliness," House said, "but we need the water." The central water plant was put out of commission by the flood waters.

THREE MIDWEST TRAINS MAROONED BY FLOODING

Ordinarily small streams are rushing torrents, doing thousands of dollars in damage to wheat and corn lands.

GIL SILENT ON CHURCH TOPIC

Mexican Executive Has No Comment to Make

MEXICO CITY, June 1. (AP)—President Emilio Portes Gil today declined to comment on the reported appointment of Arch-Bishop Ruiz as apostolic delegate to Mexico. "I have nothing to say at this time," was his only comment.

Word of the appointment gave rise here to undisguised hope of the public in general that the long standing religious controversy was nearing settlement. It was believed in usually well informed quarters that the Mexican authorities had approved appointment of the archbishop and that the stage was set for a conference to end the controversy.

El Universal says that Monsignor Francisco Urranga y Saenz, bishop of Cuernavaca, has asked permission to return to Mexico from the United States and that Bishop Emeterio Valverde y Tellez of Leon and Bishop Jesus Echeverria of Saltillo will return from the United States next week.

Nine Lives Go at Once

FALL RIVER, Mass.—When the steamer William C. Atwater docked here recently, Captain Ernest J. Pierce reported the loss of nine lives at sea. A flock of birds had alighted on the vessel's deck and, in an attempt to catch one, "Tommy Cat," the ship's mascot, had tumbled overboard.

Soviet Raid Is Denied

NANKING, China, June 2.—(Sunday) (AP)—The foreign ministry today denied all knowledge of the raid on the Soviet consulate in Harbin recently and said it had taken no action for the recall of representatives in Moscow, as reported in Berlin yesterday.

DOAN'S CROSSING FOUNDER IS DEAD

by Mrs. Igou. Doan and his family, warned of the Indian foray, spent the night in the open while the Indians attacked their frontier post. A man by the name of Earl was slain in this foray, the last white man in Texas to die as a victim of a redskin raid on white settlements in this state.

Traded With Redskins

The big days of Doan's trading post were in the years up to 1884, according to Mrs. Igou, when Doan bartered white man's goods for pelts offered by the Indians. Doan maintained his trading post, however, until 1910 when he retired to farm life. Meanwhile, Doan achieved the distinction of being the first United States postmaster in Wilbarger county.

In the early days, Doan's trading post was a great center of frontier activities and it was a favorite stopping place for cattle drives from this section over the Old Western trial which crossed the Red river at Doan's crossing. As a social feature of frontier life, Doan established the custom in 1884 of staging the Doan's May day picnic which in later years became known as the Doan's old settlers reunion. The 45th Doan's old settlers reunion was held just a month before the founder's death.

Came From Pioneer Stock

Doan came from pioneer stock and traced his family back to the Doans of English stock who settled in Virginia in 1620 and followed the frontier westward through Ohio and down into Texas. Mrs. Doan died 24 years ago, in 1905, at Vernon, and it is beside her grave that the pioneer will be buried Sunday afternoon. In addition to his two daughters, Mr. Doan is survived by three grandchildren, all the children of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Igou of Electra. They are Inez, John Corwin and Maurine Igou.

The funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday from the First Methodist church at Vernon.

DEMO SENATORS INSIST PUBLIC TARIFF PROBE

JACKSBORO, June 1.—Partaking of the old order with its chuck wagon and some 20 to 30 cowboys in chaps and of the new in the quality of the cattle, the annual round-up on the ranch of Oliver Loving & Sons in Lost Valley in the west part of Jack county was held this week.

Invited guests from various sections of Northwest Texas and also from other states were present. The shorthorn cattle associations were represented by John C. Burns of Kansas City, Mo., the southwestern representative and field man; H. C. Barlow of McKinney and Frank Schofield of Hillsboro, former presidents of the association and pure shorthorn breeders, Carl Worsham, Bryant Edwards, Roscoe Edwards and Earl Nutter from Henrietta, ranchmen and shorthorn feeders; Judge Dayten Moses, attorney; E. Berkeley Spiller, secretary-manager; Ted Moses and August Markgraf Jr., of the Texas & Southwestern Cattle Raisers association and The Cattleman; Frank Reeves, livestock editor and photographer for The Star-Telegram; Horace Wilson, Fort Worth commission man, Henry Prideaux of Archer City and others from out of the county and a large concourse from Jack county.

After a typical open-hearth dinner served from the chuch wagon, J. W. Loving, as master oceremonies presented to the audience Judge Moses, who gave a detailed history of the "association" as it is commonly known and urged all Jack county ranchmen and stock farmers to join its membership. John C. Burns, who told of the progress being made in the shorthorn cattle world and demands of the present day market for quality beef such as is being raised on the Loving ranch; and Lewis Johnson of Jacksboro as guest representative of Jack county Hereford breeders.

The latter speaker gave the history of the cattle activities of the Loving family in Texas, stating that the first Oliver Loving helped solve the question of marketing Texas cattle after the Civil war days by driving them to central and western markets in the old trail drivers' days and met his death in an Indian raid out in the Pecos country; his son, the late Capt. J. C. Loving, was one of the founders of the present association organized to prevent cattle theft; his son, the present Oliver Loving, helped change the cattle business from the open range and the longhorns to the enclosed rancher and high grade quality; his sons, J. W. and Oliver Loving Jr., had been educated in animal husbandry schools and are adapting the ranch operations to the development of baby beef type of feeder calves; and William Loving, the son of J. W. Loving and of the fifth generation, through activity in the boys beef clubs is being prepared to carry the work on, on a modern basis.

Work of branding the calves from this herd of 1,000 high grade shorthorn cows was begun Friday afternoon and will continue for several days until completed.

Elks to Discuss New Building At Meet Monday Eve

The building committee of the Wichita Falls Elks' lodge is expected to recommend the acceptance of tentative plans for a new lodge home at Ninth street and Travis avenue when members of the lodge hold a stated meeting Monday night.

An announcement was made Saturday to the effect that the lodge building committee will be in position Monday night to outline a definite plan of financing the erection of the new building.

All members of the lodge are urged to attend Monday night's meeting in order that proper consideration may be given the proposal to build a new lodge home.

SEVERED JUGULAR VEIN IMPERILS WOMAN'S LIFE

GLENDALE, Calif., June 1. (INS)—Mrs. P. J. Poag, 41, of Del Rio, Texas, was near death in a hospital here today as the result of a severed jugular vein.

Mrs. Poag was said to have slashed her throat with a razor when she became despondent over failure to receive a letter from her husband.

TEXAS BAR HEADS TALK ABOUT AMARILLO PLANS

DALLAS, June 1. (AP)—Discussion of plans for the annual meeting at Amarillo held the attention of directors of the Texas Bar association here today. The convention program was discussed with J. M. Oakes, judge of the court of civil appeals at Amarillo, and R. C. Johnson, also of Amarillo, in charge of convention plans.

Radio Review Asked

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—The radio commission today filed with the supreme court a petition requesting review of the court of appeals judgment which set aside the commission's decision denying the application of the General Electric company for full time use of the 700 kilocycles channel for station WGY.

GIBSON BALKS SOONER POLICE

Bandit Suspect Opposes Extradition Writ

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 1. (UP)—Detective Robert Hurt, who went to Kansas City to bring back Russell Gibson, alleged Kansas City gangster leader suspected in the $76,000 bank holdup here, returned here today without a prisoner.

Gibson, identified as the driver of the bandit car, by Charles Vowell, bank messenger who was held up, was fighting extradition on a federal warrant charging interstate transportation of a stolen automobile. Gibson disappeared after making $10,000, but his attorneys today promised to surrender him on the federal warrant.

Bertillion records of James "Cowboy" Hayes and Charles "Slim" Merritt, alleged St. Joseph, Mo., gangsters, were being distributed today. Chief of Police C. A. Becker said the two had been identified with Gibson as members of the bandit gang. Their trail was lost in Leavenworth, Kan., last week.

C. W. Thompson and his foster son were still held in jail today and charges of conspiring in the robbery will be filed against them, Becker said. He connected them through the finding of loot in Mrs. Minnie Rayl's auto. Mrs. Rayl, Hutchinson, Kan., is Thompson's sister.

Mrs. Rayl was at liberty today on bond for possession of stolen property. Mrs. Mildred Thompson, wife of R. B. Thompson, was not connected with the case, Becker said.

FIVE DIE FOR PLOT UPON AMBASSADOR MORROW IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, June 1. (INS)—An alleged plot against the life of United States Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow while he was on his way to the United States was revealed today for the first time with the news of the execution of five men by a firing squad at Queretaro.

According to the military authorities, the men confessed that they planned to blow up the passenger train on the National railways upon which Ambassador Morrow traveled to Laredo on May 22 and 23.

The trial and execution were summary affairs. Almost immediately the police had obtained confessions from the men they were led out into the jail courtyard, where they faced the firing squad.

Details of the alleged plot have not been made public by the military authorities, but it is supposed to have been hatched in the minds of sympathizers with the regent military revolt led by General J. Gonzalo Escobar. On several occasions sympathizers of the revolt have charged that the failure of the revolt was largely due to the assistance given the Portes Gil government through Ambassador Morrow.

On May day a large group of Mexican communists staged a hostile demonstration before the American consular offices in Mexico City, until the meeting was broken up by police and firemen. Among the banners carried by the demonstrators were some declaring that the Mexican government had "delegated its authority to Dwight W. Morrow and Wall Street."

For the past several months Ambassador Morrow had been closely guarded by police or troops whenever he traveled outside of Mexico City.

About 100 years ago about 35,500,000 acres of Michigan were covered with forest. Less than 8 per cent now remains, according to the U. S. forest service.

LOCAL FIRM CHOSEN TO PREPARE COTTLE COURTHOUSE PLANS

Members of the Cottle county commissioners court have selected Voelcker and Dixon, Wichita Falls architectural firm, to prepare plans for a new courthouse to be erected at Paducah, it was announced here Saturday.

A bond issue of $150,000 was voted last May 11 for the new courthouse. The structure, which will be constructed of natural stone, will be four stories high. It will be a fireproof building.

First plans of the structure will probably be shown to the Cottle county commissioners court about June 15 but the contract will not be let until about Sept. 1.

Members of the commissioners court of Cottle county made a tour last week of several West Texas towns for an inspection of courthouses. Those making the trip were County Judge J. M. Whatley and G. A. Lee, Nath Gilbreath, Edgar Dobbs and W. P. Garrison, members of the commissioners court. They were accompanied by Herbert Voelcker and M. T. Clements of the firm of Voelcker and Dixon.

Among the places visited by the party were Vernon, Baird, Eastland and Breckenridge.

MRS. F. T. DATSON TO ADDRESS KIWANIANS AT MEETING MONDAY NOON

"The Day Nursery" will be the subject of a talk that Mrs. F. T. Datson will deliver before the Wichita Falls Kiwanis club when it holds its regular weekly meeting Monday noon at the Kemp hotel.

Jack and J. I. Staley will present a musical program, according to Don T. Haynes, Kiwanis club secretary.

John T. Burris will be chairman of the day.

LADY MARY HEATH PAYS VISIT TO PACIFIC COAST

Lady Heath will be a guest of the Women's Aeronautical association of California at a dinner here on June 8.

Aviation Societies to Ask Congress Vote Subsidy to Support Amateur Flying Schools for Arm of War

By HOMER H. METZ
International News Service
Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, June 1.—Some time within the near future, the American Society for the Promotion of Aviation will present to congress a bill asking for a government subsidy of amateur flying clubs as a means of assuring an adequate national defense in time of war.

This was revealed exclusively to International News Service today by Thomas L. Hill, president of the Society for the Promotion of Aviation.

The bill is now being drawn up, Mr. Hill declared, and will be placed before congress as soon as possible.

The measure is startling in its radicalism and is certain to arouse comment both within and outside the aviation industry.

Its provisions are in effect as follows:

(1) The annual donation by the government of $40,000,000—the approximate cost of one warship—to incorporated and responsible flying clubs, the money to be used by the clubs for the purchase of lightweight airplanes.

(2) The limiting of all purchases by the individual clubs to aircraft costing not more than $4,000.

The society, according to Mr. Hill, hopes to have the bill passed on the grounds that it will encourage amateur flying and promote "air mindedness" to the extent that within five years time 250,000 persons will be actively interested in aeronautics, thereby giving the nation a permanent and invaluable reserve army of skilled fliers.

In addition to this, Mr. Hill points out, the bill will prove to be a boon to commercial aviation.

For instance, it will greatly increase the volume of business done by the manufacturers of lightweight planes.

Moreover, it will provide a means of livelihood for thousands of pilots and instructors who are being graduated from an ever increasing number of aviation schools each year.

At the present time, Mr. Hill made known, there are approximately 500 duly incorporated and established amateur aviation clubs in the country, very few of these organizations, however, have the means to provide planes for themselves.

A minor specification of the proposed bill is that no club shall be given a subsidy unless it can boast a membership of at least 30 persons.

RANDOLPH QUITS POST IN CAPITOL DEPARTMENT

AUSTIN, June 1. (AP)—R. J. Randolph, assistant secretary of state, announced his resignation today, after more than two years service in the administration of Mrs. Jane L. McCallum, secretary of state.

Prior to becoming assistant to Mrs. McCallum, he was for two years in the attorney general's office, in charge of land and oil litigation, during the tenure of Governor Moody as attorney general.

He announced he would soon open a law office in Austin.

Three Hurt in Crash

RANGER, Texas, June 1. (AP)—C. E. Maddocks, Ranger real estate man, was seriously injured and his two daughters hurt near here today when Maddock was blinded by the lights of a truck and crashed his automobile into a second truck alongside the first. His daughters were returning home from school.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 1. (INS)—Paul Leni, noted German film director was reported dangerously ill at his home here today, suffering from blood poisoning. An abscessed tooth started an infection which threatened his heart, physicians said.

MacDonald Will Attempt to Rout Baldwin Cabinet

LONDON, June 1. (UP)—J. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, issued a statement today which was in effect an announcement that he intends to form a government.

With labor emerging from Thursday's general election the largest party in parliament, MacDonald's statement could be interpreted in only two ways—either he was confident Premier Stanley Baldwin and his Conservative government would resign, or Labor would defeat him in parliament and take over the government.

The latest revised standing of the parties in the election, with returns complete for 604 of the 615 districts, follows:

The 11 outstanding seats include seven university, three outlying Scottish divisions and Rugby, where a bi-election will be held June 13.

Lindbergh Loses Popularity

NEW YORK, June 1. (UP)—Since Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's marriage to Miss Anne Morrow, the air associates here have noticed a sharp drop in the sale of Lindbergh trophies. As women were the heaviest purchasers of souvenirs of the flier, it is assumed he is more popular as the pilot of the Spirit of St. Louis than as a bridegroom.

DEMO BLOC DROPS EFFORT TO DELAY CONGRESS' RECESS

WASHINGTON, June 1. (UP)—Democrats on the senate finance committee decided in conference today to let Republicans proceed with plans for a three-months summer recess on the basis prescribed by President Hoover, that the farm bill be completed and a date set for a senate vote on the tariff bill.

The Democrats are willing that the tariff bill be passed before December and said they would agree to fixing a definite date in November for final disposition of the measure. This leaves only the Midwestern Republicans fighting the proposition and it is generally believed they cannot resist long.

At the same time minority members decided they would fight vigorously against the Republican plan of holding tariff hearings of the finance committee in secret. Senator Furnifold Simmons of North Carolina, who called the meeting and who is minority leader in tariff matters, was authorized to introduce a resolution before the senate seeking to direct the committee to hold open meetings. A similar resolution has been introduced by Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin and is now pending in the senate.

MOTHER OF YOUTH GOT SUICIDE MESSAGE

DALLAS, Texas, June 1. (UP)—W. Herbert Johnson, whose body was found Wednesday in a hotel room in Kansas City, was the son of Mrs. Minnie Johnson, of Dallas.

"He left home several days ago and left me a note that he was going to destroy himself," Mrs. Johnson said today. "He was in love with a girl and gave this as his reason."

MAID ADMITS KILLING BOSS

But Ohio Woman Claims It's Self Defense

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 1. (INS)—Mrs. Anna Seeman, 43-year-old maid, who has confessed that she killed her employer, Mrs. Dorothy Marah Snyder, society matron, with a butcher knife yesterday, calmly pleaded guilty to a charge of murder when she was arraigned in East Cleveland police court today.

She was held without bond for the county grand jury which will take up her case Monday.

Mrs. Snyder, a former Chicago girl, was stabbed to death in her palatial East Cleveland home yesterday after her husband, Alonzo M. Snyder, prominent attorney, had left the house.

The maid had been in bad humor after her request to take Memorial day afternoon off had been refused, according to the husband. Mrs. Seeman declared that she and Mrs. Snyder had quarreled over wages.

The domestic further asserts that she threatened to disclose events which Mrs. Snyder wished to keep secret and that when she made this threat her employer seized a carving knife.

They struggled, according to the maid, and each clutched a knife from the kitchen table. As Mrs. Snyder slipped and fell to the floor she stabbed her twice in the breast, the domestic related in a signed confession.

LIQUOR SMUGGLERS IMPERIL LIVES OF SHIP'S PASSENGERS

NEW YORK, June 1. (INS)—Charging that the lives of the 478 passengers and crew of the U. S. liner President Harding had been endangered through the storage of contraband liquor in the buoyancy tanks of the ship, persons high in the United States customs service today said the matter will probably be placed before the federal grand jury at Newark, N. J.

Customs inspectors discovered 722 bottles of Rhine wine and champagne stored in the air tanks of all the 30 lifeboats of the liner. The opening of the tanks and storage of bottled contraband liquor in them completely nullified their usefulness. If launched in high seas, the life boats would probably have capsized, resulting in the loss of all aboard, it was stated.

Capt. William Rind, commander of the President Harding, denied all knowledge of the presence of the liquor on board.

RETIRED PHYSICIAN HELD AS MURDERER IN TORSO MYSTERY

HEAD OF CORPSE STILL MISSING DESPITE HUNT

Dr. Frank Westlake And Missing Woman Had Joint Bank Fund

LOS ANGELES, June 1. (INS)—Dr. Frank P. Westlake, retired, middle-aged physician of Cincinnati was formerly charged with the murder of a woman whose headless and dismembered body was found in the Los Angeles river in a complaint issued today by the district attorney's office.

The murder victim is believed to be Mrs. Laura B. Sutton, attractive divorcee and admittedly the physician's sweetheart.

Bloodstains Give Clue

LOS ANGELES, June 1. (INS)—Coils of circumstances today were tightening around Dr. Frank P. Westlake, middle-aged retired physician of Cincinnati, as investigators sought to establish the identification of the "torso murder" mystery victim as Mrs. Laura B. Sutton, his missing sweetheart.

Deputy sheriffs reported they had found bloodstains in the bathroom of the Westlake home.

Discovery of a kit of surgical tools, hidden away after all the knives had been removed, was also reported.

At the same time, Dr. Westlake was under interrogation at the county jail in connection with a 30-year-old murder mystery at Pittsfield, Ill.

Captain Bright said the surgical tools had been found under a pile of waste in the garage at the home of Dr. Westlake's son, Frank M. Westlake.

Backs Original Theory

The discovery of the tools took investigators back to their original theory that the torso murder victim had been slain and dismembered by some one familiar with the use of surgical instruments, Bright said.

The tools were wrapped in a copy of a Los Angeles newspaper, dated March 25, three days before the disappearance of Mrs. Sutton and eight days before the headless, limbless torso was found in the Los Angeles river, Bright pointed out.

It was in the same garage that investigators found bank books, hidden under a rafter, showing that Dr. Westlake and Mrs. Sutton had a joint bank account of $750, which had been withdrawn by Dr. Westlake, about the time of Mrs. Sutton's disappearance, according to Bright.

PRISON BOARD OPPOSES BILL

Pen Concentration Project Meets Disfavor

AUSTIN, June 1, (UP)—That the state prison board had taken a decisively opposite stand to the legislature in the matter of prison concentration was revealed by Gov. Dan Moody today.

Moody said the board voted unanimously at its recent Houston meeting against the bill passed by the house deferring action on the matter. Moody himself emphasized a need for immediate action, a declaration which resulted in the general prediction he would veto the bill and submit the matter of prison legislation for the special session opening Monday.

Deaths

M. M. Austin

ELECTRA, Texas, June 1.—Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the County Line Methodist church, for M. M. Austin, who died Monday evening from injuries received earlier in the day when the team which he was driving ran away, throwing him from the wagon. Burial was in the Electra cemetery, with Rev. G. L. Keever in charge.

Surviving relatives are his widow; father, N. Austin; six sons, Derry, County Line; Bill, Electra; Cecil and Orville, Wichita Falls; Burnie and Frank Austin, County Line; one stepson, M. R. Hall; and three daughters, Mrs. Bessie Leggett of Copperas Cove; Mrs. Hattie Hale of Harrold and Mrs. Ann Hickey of Electra.

Mrs. Sarah Isabelle Ashton

BURKBURNETT, Texas, June 1.—Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the First Methodist church for Mrs. Sarah Isabelle Ashton, 63, who died Wednesday, May 29, at Pooleville, Okla., of a stroke of apoplexy. She had been in poor health for some time, having had several attacks previous to the fatal one Wednesday. The Rev. H. V. Watts, pastor of the church, conducted the services. Interment was in the local cemetery.

Mrs. Ashton is survived by two sons, John of Randlett and Jess of Burkburnett; two daughters, Mrs. D. C. James of Randlett and Mrs. J. W. Burton of Pooleville, Okla.

Dr. W. E. Atkins

BOB LA FOLLETTE FLAYS OLD SENATE SECRECY PRACTICE

WASHINGTON, June 1. (INS)—Declaring that "evil and corruption thrive best in the dark," Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin tonight lashed out at the 140-year-old practice of the senate in considering presidential nominations in secret sessions. The senator's speech was delivered over the Columbia broadcasting system network.

Demanding adoption of the resolution of the rules committee, now pending on the calendar, which directs that such closed sessions be abolished, this youngest of senators declared that the whole principle of representative democracy was at stake.

The reporting of this resolution was forced by the action of Universal Service and the United Press in revealing the secret vote by which Former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot recently was confirmed as a member of the U. S. customs court of appeals.

"For thus defying the attempted censorship, the press is entitled and should receive the appreciation of the American people," said the senator.

The most complete argument against secret sessions is found in the records of recent years, said the senator, continuing:

"The nominations of Albert B. Fall as secretary of the interior, Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general, Charles R. Forbes as director of the veterans bureau and Thomas W. Miller as alien property custodian, were all considered and confirmed in secret sessions. Each of these high officials was subsequently indicted and two of them were convicted and sent to prison after open consideration of their criminal acts in the federal courts.

"Had these nominations been considered in open sessions of the senate, some of them at least would have been fully debated and confirmation strongly opposed."

PARTY RESUMES HUNT FOR MISSING INFANT

STURGEON BAY, Wis., June 1. (UP)—Along the edges of a swamp and on the peak of "government bluff," near here, the remnant of a searching party resumes hunting today for 2-year-old Edith Dorschell, who disappeared while on a Memorial day picnic, remembered that a pair of huge eagles frequently had carried lambs from nearby farms and fear the little girl met a similar fate.

PATENT OFFICE EXAMINER COMPLETES 67TH YEAR

WASHINGTON, June 1. (US)—William T. Hutchinson, an assistant examiner in the U. S. patent office, today completed his 62nd year in the employ of the government.

"I felicitate you upon your long career of work well done," Secretary of Commerce Lamont told him in a letter of congratulation.

Hutchinson is one of the most active men in the office, and passes personally upon all applications for patents on time and combination locks.

FAKE STAMP RING COST UNCLE SAM MILLIONS IN YEAR

POSTAL AUTHORITIES ON TRAIL OF LAW BREAKERS

40,000 New York Concerns Alone Have Been Using Precancelled Stamps

NEW YORK, June 1. (US)—Precancelled stamps, sold in wholesale quantities to large mail order business organizations so as to expedite the transportation of parcel post packages, are being reused illegally with a resulting cost to the United States government of millions of dollars.

This new revelation in the post office department's roundup of a "ring" charged with illegal use of stamps was announced today by Postal Inspector Francis E. Shea, here from Washington for an exhaustive investigation of conditions in New York. The announcement came on the heels of an indictment charging more than a score of men, including seven New Yorkers, with washing stamps and selling them to be used again. The indictment was returned in Charleston, S. C. Four of the seven local men have already surrendered.

Pre-cancelled stamps are sold in sheets to large business organizations. Each stamp bears a boldface mark, printed in large black letters and easily legible, announcing simply the name of the city from which the mail is to be posted and bearing no date. Permits for the purchase of such stamps are held by 40,000 firms in New York City, Shea said. The system was designed several years ago to prevent delay in cancelling the stamps after letters and packages are mailed.

With it, however, the postal inspector said, have grown serious abuses. Agents of the "ring" of stamp dealers suspected of the illegal practices are stationed in distant cities, including Canada, where they salvage used stamps off packages. Packages carried long distances usually bear stamps of large denominations.

These agents send the pre-cancelled stamps back to the place of their origin. They are purportedly destined to "stamp dealers" or "stamp collectors" and the authorities thus have not been suspicious in the past. Investigation has revealed, however, that dealers have only to regum the stamps and sell them. This process is much simpler than the "washing racket," inasmuch as the stamps are undated and may be used over and over again just as they are sold originally.

Shea said he learned that mail order firms are buying these used pre-cancelled stamps at 85 per cent of their value. He said that all 40,000 of the concerns to whom permits have been issued will be investigated.

The maximum penalty for this offense is five years' imprisonment.

Two more of the seven New Yorkers indicted in Charleston surrendered today and were held in $1,000 bail for removal hearing June 28. They were H. Chitraro, and Charles J. Gregory. Chitraro, a stamp collector, is charged with sending cancelled stamps to W. B. Hale, alleged head of the "ring." Gregory recently purchased the stamp business of F. H. Schmidt, who is said to be under indictment in Pawtucket, R. I., charged with disposing of stamps looted from the post office there.

MOODY CALLS TEXAS SOLONS

Second Called Session To Open on Monday

AUSTIN, Texas, June 1. (AP)—Members of the legislature were beginning to arrive tonight for the second called session, which opens Monday.

Governor Moody received at least five telegrams from members of both houses today asking when he intended convening the special session.

He issued his formal proclamation fixing June 3 as the date last Thursday, but he sent word to both houses before sine die adjournment of the first called session two weeks ago that he had selected this date for the second session.

POLICE SEARCH RECORD OF BOY, 9, RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATHS OF CHUMS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 1. (UP)—Back through the brief but eventful life of 9-year-old Jimmy Harrison, "thrill slayer," authorities tonight looked for an explanation of the boy's mania for guns and fire.

With the slaying of a playmate and a baby recorded against him, Jimmy sat in a detention home, oblivious to officialdom's investigation, but reading with intense interest every line in the newspapers about the death of Norman Conwill, 16, killed when he and Jimmy scuffled for possession of a revolver Jimmy had stolen.

With even more interest Jimmy pored over the parts of the stories that told about the warm September day five years ago when he set fire to the clothing of little Robert Endres, 21 months old, burning the child so severely that he died in a few hours.

Delving back into Jimmy's career, police questioned Mrs. Peter Endres, mother of the dead Robert, and nine other children. From her they learned Jimmy was in the habit of shooting chickens with an air rifle.

"When I asked him why he did such things," Mrs. Endres said, "he just grinned and kept shooting them."

"Five years ago when he touched a match to little Robert's dress, he said he 'didn't like the child and wanted to see a bonfire.' Because Jimmy was so small—only 5—we didn't prosecute, but I think he should be put into a reform school where he can't run wild."

Mrs. Endres said she had forbidden her children to play with Jimmy after the episode five years ago.

"He always wanted to do things for a thrill," she concluded.

Premier Baldwin Can Only See King George In 'Extreme Necessity'

LONDON, June 1. (US)—"Should it be necessary for Stanley Baldwin to see the king, an interview could only be granted in case of emergency."

This was the unofficial statement issuing from Windsor castle tonight.

Yet not in 50 years has there been such a necessity for the defeated premier to see the king as there is now. With the results of the realm's elections at a stalemate, someone must carry on, whether it is Ramsay MacDonald or Baldwin.

The latter may be trusted to reopen parliament on June 25, with the possibility of jamming through a regency bill. Perhaps Baldwin even will risk receiving a "speech from the throne," waiting for a "no confidence" vote from triumphant labor.

His majesty's health, according to tonight's reports, is:

"His majesty's temperature is lower. The king had a comfortable day, and is now sleeping soundly."

The Duke and Duchess of York, and the Prince of Wales saw the king for a few minutes today, but aside from Queen Mary, there were no other visitors. Dr. Henry L. Martyn, apothecary to the royal household at Windsor, was the only physician to call at Windsor tonight, and he remained only an hour. But the fact remains that Britain has never faced such a curious parliamentary problem since the days of George III.

Divorced Couple Renews Contest Over Only Child

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 1. (US)—Helen Crossman Carr will be obliged to return to Connecticut to explain why she took her son, Paul Gugger Jr., away from her former husband under an extradition order signed here today by Governor Trumbull. Mrs. Carr was reported as about to leave New York for Hollywood with the boy.

Mrs. Carr was arrested in New York on a charge of kidnaping. She was released when she produced a supreme court order issued in 1925 giving her the custody of the child.

Paul Gugger, father of the boy, has married again. The former Helen Crossman, beautiful Follies girl, is living with her third husband, Alexander Carr, the well-known comedian.

Gugger senior, did not give up his attempt to have the boy returned to him when the kidnaping charge was dismissed. He brought legal action here and today secured the extradition order which renews the battle for custody of the 8-year-old Paul Jr.

Rotary Delegates Left Behind When Ship Sails Empty

DALLAS, June 1. (UP)—New York delegates to the International Rotary convention suddenly found themselves without passage home today owing to the steamship Algonquin sailing from Galveston after cancelling tickets of passengers.

The Algonquin, with her decks loaded with beauty queens for the Galveston pageant, was damaged by fire in its holds upon its arrival at port yesterday. The vessel refused to carry passengers on its return today because of the fire damage.

A special train, scheduled to take the New Yorkers to Galveston, probably will be re-routed through St. Louis.

APRIL CRUDE TOTAL SHOWS LARGE BOOST

WASHINGTON, June 1. (US)—April production of crude petroleum reached a total of 80,100,000 barrels, an increase of 11 per cent over April, 1928. The bureau of mines announced today.

Production increased sharply in Kansas and considerably in Oklahoma and along the gulf coast. California and Texas, however, showed slight decreases.

PARK ACTIVITIES FOR CHILDREN TO OPEN HERE MONDAY

Summer activities for the kiddies of Wichita Falls will be started Monday in Scotland and Bellevue parks, it was announced Saturday.

The supervisors will be on duty in the parks from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock every morning and from 4 to 5:30 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Activities will include nature study, story telling, simple dramatics, physical education, games and handicraft.

Miss Charlotte Kennedy will be in charge of Bellevue Park and Miss Frances Hyland at Scotland park. Both of these young ladies have had former experience, having assisted the Camp Fire Girls program last summer.

Carrigan school ground will be opened June 11, with Miss Clarice Clark in charge. The activities at the grounds will be from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock every morning, including practically the same programs as the other parks.

The North Side Community house will be opened for activities on June 12 with the same schedules as Bellevue and Scotland parks. Mrs. Maude Batholomew, who is in charge of the park activities for the children this summer, will be at the community house most of the time.

All supervisors will be assisted by Camp Fire Girls, who are giving volunteer service. The cooperation of the Camp Fire Girls makes it possible to give the children a much broader program and to carry out activities adapted to all different ages.

Mrs. Batholomew has been attending a Camp Fire Girls district conference in Fort Worth and went to Camp Grayson Saturday for the national training course with a staff from New York. The course will continue one week.

"I can hardly wait to get back and put into practice some of the wonderful ideas I have received. The lectures and exhibits of handicraft have been so inspiring," Mrs. Bartholomew said in a letter to park department officials Saturday.

TATE REFUSES TO WELCOME NEGROES

DALLAS, June 1. (UP)—Mayor J. Waddy Tate, who ran on "hamburger platform" to show his sympathy for the common man, today refused a request to speak to the convention of negro Knights of Pythias meeting here Monday.

"I won't speak before your convention and I won't ask any other white man," the Mayor told a negro delegate making the request.

Turning to reporters who overheard the conversation, he asked them not to mention the incident.

United Easter This Year

For the first time in 347 years Easter Sunday will this year be celebrated unitedly by all sections of Christians and Jews, during the Jewish Passover, the Synod of the Orthodox church, assembled at Bucharest, Rumania, having decided to advance by 14 days their Easter date, bringing it to the Gregorian calendar's Easter Sunday. The decision heals the cleavage made during the Gregorian reform in 1582, when the Orthodox churches declined to omit the Gregorian 10 days for the accumulation of 10 excessive leap days caused by Julius Caesar's faulty reckoning of the year's length. That ruler decreed a year as 365¼ days when it was only 365.24. The difference of one-hundredth part of a day has accumulated four more days, making a total of 14 days, which the Orthodox church will discard.

YOUTH INJURED SERIOUSLY NEAR MEMPHIS, TEXAS

MEMPHIS, Texas, June 1.—Charles Perdue, 17, of Hedley, was seriously injured when an automobile in which he was riding was overturned near here Thursday evening. A young woman companion was slightly hurt, it was reported here.

The accident occurred, according to reports, when Perdue lost control of the car on wet pavement and it was overturned. He was taken to a hospital at Amarillo.

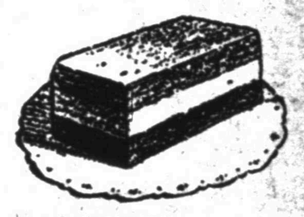

Mr. Perdue had been working near Estelline. His parents live at Hedley, it was said.

HYDE CONSIDERS PLAN TO BAR FRUIT PESTS

WASHINGTON, June 1. (US)—Secretary of Agriculture Hyde had under advisement tonight the question of extending the Mediterranean fruit fly quarantine now effective in Florida to embrace every state of the union. A public hearing to consider the advisibility of this course was held today before the federal plant quarantine board. It probably will be several days before Secretary Hyde announces his decision.

100,000 DELEGATES ON WAY TO ANNUAL SHRINE CONVENTION

Trains and Auto Caravans From All Directions Transport Nobles

Convention Will Formally Open Next Tuesday for Week's Activity

LOS ANGELES, June 1. (INS)—Noble greeted noble here today as the Shriners came to town.

The fanfare of trumpets and the crash of brass bands will welcome the red-fezed visitors as the vanguard of 100,000 nobles of the Mystic Shrine arrived by boat, train and automobile for the 55th annual convention of the Masonic order.

Among the first of the visiting nobility to arrive was the delegation from Palestine temple of Providence, R. I., which left a transcontinental train at Riverside and motored here.

The very first to appear on the scene were members of the mounted patrol of Abu Bekr temple from Sioux City, Iowa, who brought their troop of snow-white Arabian chargers with them.

Formal opening the convention will take place Tuesday of next week, when thousands of Shriners, dressed in the colorful regalia of their order and marching to the stirring music of 40 Shrine bands, will form the official escort to the imperial potentate and march to the coliseum for opening exercises.

At the coliseum, more than 6,000 members of this Shrine uniformed bodies will pass in review around the huge bowl and afford a spectacle replete with all of the pomp and ceremony of an oriental procession.

The initial performance of the Shrine circus maximus, a gigantic combination of circus and hippodrome shows having 65 acts, will take place Tuesday afternoon in the coliseum.

On the first night of the convention, a Hawaiian banquet will be given in the Sala D'Oro at the Biltmore hotel for imperial council representatives and their wives. This banquet will be served in genuine Hawaiian style, with only Hawaiian dishes on the menu.

Wednesday morning some 6,000 Shriners will journey on special trains to Ed Maier's ranch at Santa Susanna, where throughout the day they will be entertained with a Spanish fiesta and barbecue. The Shriners will return to Los Angeles late in the afternoon, in order to march in the night oriental parade.

The night parade will be in full dress. The procession will enter the coliseum for review and spectacular maneuvers.

Thursday night will witness the climax of the Shrine convention with the presentation of the $1,000,000 motion picture theatrical pageant in the coliseum. This pageant will form movieland's contribution to the convention and will be directed by Jack Warner of Warner Brothers' studios. A procession of 40 illuminated floats, extending more than two miles in length, will feature the pageant.

The convention will close with a grand ball at the Shrine auditorium.

On Saturday, June 9, approximately 600 Shriners will sail from San Pedro on the liner "Malolo" for Honolulu on a Shrine Hawaiian pilgrimage to Aloha temple. The Shrine party will remain in the islands four days, returning to San Francisco on June 21.

GHOST THIEVES PILFER $4,200

Guard Over Ship's Safe Too Drunk to Know

LOS ANGELES, June 1. (INS)—There was some concerted concentration going on in detective headquarters here today, nevertheless the mysterious disappearance of a safe containing $4,200 from the coastal liner Dorothy Alexander was still unsolved.

The safe and its contents disappeared during the trip from La Paz, Mexico, to Los Angeles. The watchman who was supposed to be guarding the safe, was found intoxicated and was unable to tell investigators anything that would help them.

A thorough search of the ship was made upon its arrival at San Pedro, but no trace of the safe or the money was discovered.

Fakers in Westminster

Authorities at Westminster Abbey, London, are trying to stop fakers from collecting money in that ancient edifice. While visitors were gathered about the grave of the Unknown Soldier recently, a man collapsed in what appeared to be a fit. A woman with him tearfully informed the crowd that he was an ex-service man and her husband, and as he was out of work they were starving. In a few seconds she had collected a fair sum and the man had recovered. When the scene was repeated on each of the next two days the vergers told the pair that the abbey "was not the proper place for its enactment." Many women try to get a share of the offerings by claiming that inadvertantly they have contributed to the collection more than they could afford and want some of it "refunded."

Just as We Thought

DETROIT.—Automobile drivers, at least some of them, have been thought crazy by a good number of people in the past. A test taken at random by Dr. Theophile Raphael, recorder's court psychiatrist here, partly proves it. Out of the 100 drivers tested, all of them traffic violators, one was insane, 13 were classed as feeble minded and 42 were of inferior intelligence.

Export of airplane parts from the United States during 1928 reached a total of $1,240,244. This was an increase of nearly 118 per cent above the 1927 figure.

Approximately 2,000 inhabitants of the Virgin Islands migrate to the United States annually.

BRANIFF PILOT

WAYNE F. LANSING

Wayne F. Lansing, one of the three pilots assigned to the San Angelo run of the Braniff Airlines, came into the Southwest to get out of the fog.

Ever since 1924 he had been flying in the Great Lakes district. That experience was excellent for "bad weather" training but was not pleasant to a man who makes fying his business and, therefore, thinks of comfort.

Lansing learned to fly on a Curtiss Jenny in Chicago in 1924 and for two years barnstormed through Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin. In 1925 he became one of the founders of the Chicago flying corps, acting as an instructor until August, 1927, when he opened a field at Decatur, Illinois. In 1928 he joined the Michigan Air Transport company and started his regular airline transport experience. He came to the Braniff lines in March of this year and is known as one of the company's most dependable pilots. He has flown practically every type of plane made and like all Braniff pilots was required when he joined the company to take special tests on the type of planes used on the Braniff system. He has had over 1,500 hours in the air.

BUILDING PERMITS IN FLOYDADA CLIMB DURING PAST WEEK

FLOYDADA, Texas, June 1.—With the announcement of the lease of a building on California street to J. C. Penney, nation-wide chain dry goods firm, and the remodeling of several other business establishments approximately $10,000 in permits in Floydada were let this week by City Secretary Burl Bedford. This does not include permits for new buildings.

Of this amount $2,600 will be spent on the Penney building in order to give it the regulation J. C. Penney store front. The firm will be open for business about August 1, according to Jack Parsons, manager of the Penney store at Lubbock.

Watson Variety store will occupy the building on California street now used by Arwine Drug company and there will be $2,500 spent on this building. The Arwine Drug company will move to the Boerner building, formerly occupied by the Olympic theater. Mr Boerner expects to spend about $2,500 on remodeling this building.

In addition to the above, Baker Campbell company has announced that they would spent $2,500 on remodeling their building on Main and California street.

The Olympic theater will move to its new home on West California street following its completion this month. The building and fixtures cost in excess of $40,000.

PRESIDENT MAY SUFFER ANOTHER SENATE DEFEAT

Members Not Committed Hold Balance of Power And May Kill Measure

WASHINGTON, June 1. (UP)—President Hoover may suffer another defeat in the senate next week when his proposal to suspend operation of the national origins clause of the immigration amendment comes to a vote, a private poll of senators indicated today.

The poll indicated the Nye resolution to repeal the national origins clause will lose by three or four votes, unless there are changes between now and the time the vote is taken.

Both sides admit, however, the vote will be close, with several senators not now definitely committed holding the balance of power.

Strangely enough the president's fight to suspend operation of the disputed clause is led by Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, who was characterized by Senator Fess, the Republican whip, as a pseudo-Republican when he failed to support President Hoover on the export debenture plan of farm relief.

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, one of the most stalwart of regular Republicans, is leading the opposition to the repealer. Nye is supported by regular Republicans and Progressives, while Reed has the almost solid backing of Southern Democrats with a sprinkling of regular Republicans.

Reed has withdrawn his opposition to a vote because he believes he has enough votes to win. Nye insists he not only has enough votes to win, but enough to hold through a long hot fight, if such develops.

The clause would decrease the total immigration into this country from 164,000 to 150,000 persons annually and would increase England's quota materially while decreasing the quotas of most other nations, particularly Germany.

DALLAS COMMITTEE TO WELCOME BRANIFF SHIP

DALLAS, Texas, June 1. (UP)—An unofficial welcoming committee of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce will be at Love field tomorrow to greet the airplane of the Braniff airlines route opening the line between Tulsa, Wewoka, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth, and Dallas.

A garland of flowers will be given the first woman passenger to step from the plane. The ship will open regular daily schedule between the five points.

CARGO OF REAL LIQUOR FLOODS BAYOU STREAMS

HOUSTON, June 1. (AP)—Water was not the only liquor which swept down the swollen Buffalo bayou here during the present flood. One of the rescues reported was that of two cases of supposedly Sunnybrook whisky.

The liquor was washed out of some store basement.

Several business men, wading in the water in an attempt to salvage their goods, saw the cases simultaneously.

A mad scramble resulted, two of the business men falling down in the rush. Three reached the prize at the same time and decided to split it.

A total capital of around $50,000,000 was involved in the motion picture industry in Great Britain during 1928.

Railroad taxes devoted to highway purposes amount to less than two and one-half per cent of the total highway income.

TWO HELD FOR YOUTH'S DEATH

Robbery Attempt Scented By Houston Police

HOUSTON, Texas, June 1. (INS)—William Baker, 19, a telephone operator, is dead and two other youths, John Railey and Jack Harris, were being held by police for questioning as the result of what officers believed to have been an attempt to burglarize a drug store here early today.

Baker was killed when Roy Gray, 55, who owned a bakery next door, fired after having been awakened by a burglar alarm in the drug store. The other two youths, Groves alleged were waiting in a car in front of the store and drove away after the fatal shot was fired.

Detectives arrested Railey and Harris later.

Mr. Lyons, expert furrier, will be at our store Monday and Tuesday. Furs accepted for remodeling, repair, cleaning and storage.—Perkins-Timberlake Co.—Adv.

CHILDREN FEARED DYING AFTER SIPS OF POISONED RUM

AMITY, Ark., June 1. (UP)—While physicians watched at the bedside of a small boy and girl, near death from poison liquor, officers searched southern Arkansas today for Homer Garner, bootlegger, who sold the children's father the liquor.

The children, Emmons, 12, and Diana, 10, son and daughter of Dolomos Howell, farmer, drank the whisky in a toddy their father prepared for them after a day in the cotton field Wednesday.

Both showed slight improvement today and their chances for recovery were better. When officers sought to arrest Garner, he had disappeared.

He had been arrested and convicted on dry law violation charges previously, officers said.

EL PASO MAN HELD IN CELL

Slayer of Two Lawyers Held Incommunicado

EL PASO, June 1. (AP)—Having surrendered to officers immediately after shooting to death Frank J. Lyons and Herbert D. Oppenheimer, prominent El Paso lawyers, in their offices in the First National Bank building yesterday, Jose Marin, 64-year-old Spaniard, today was held in communicado in the county jail.

District Attorney Stewart Berkshire said murder charges would be filed against him.

Before the shooting Marin had cut the telephone wires into the attorneys' office to prevent their summoning aid.

Dr. S. Haffner and Dr. Celstino Ortiz informed the district attorney's office they had treated Marin for nervous disorders during the last two years. Marin has not employed counsel.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE FOR KING POSTPONED

LONDON, June 1. (AP)—The dean of Westminster announced today that the Thanksgiving service for King George's recovery planned for June 16 had been indefinitely postponed.

This announcement followed the physician's bulletin that the king's recovery was likely to be long drawn out.

SOUTH SIDE BAPTISTS TO ERECT BEAUTIFUL NEW BUILDING

Present Structure to Be Enlarged And Remodeled With Brick Veneer Exterior; Auditorium to Seat 1,000

Building plans recently announced by the Southside Baptist church will add another large structure to the list of impressive permanent church homes which have risen in the residence districts of Wichita Falls during the last few years.

The growth of the congregation in less than seven years from 30 30 persons to a membership if more than 500 has made necessary the enlargement of the house of worship. Under the plans adopted, the present frame structure at 2303 Holliday street will be raised sufficiently to permit the construction of a surface basement. The present auditorium, which will be increased in size by increasing its length by 12 feet and straightening the side walls, will constitute the second story of the new structure. The seating capacity will be about 1,000 persons when it is completed. The entire building will be given an exterior of brick veneer, with a row of arched windows surmounting an impressive entrance.

A total of 58 Sunday school rooms, a kitchen, a dining room, and a nursery will be provided in the basement and balcony which are to be included in the alterations.

The Southside Missionary Baptist church was organized in Oct., 1922, in a residence at the address of the present church building. The charter membership of the church shows the following names: Cosby Snodgrass, Rev. A. C. Anderson, J. A. Anderson, Lee Anderson, Carrol Anderson, W. M. Cone, Claudie Grantham, O. N. Nicholson, J. W. Nicholson; Mesdames A. C. Anderson, Lee Anderson, G. B. Hall, Sid Johnson, J. W. Harper, O. Nicholson, J. W. Nicholson, Henry Colly, Beason, O. A. Grantham; Misses Mabel Anderson, Frankie Snodgrass, all from the Lamar Avenue Baptist church; Mrs. M. A. James, Mrs. C. R. Smith, Misses Elva and Marguerite James, from the First Baptist church; Rev. W. H. Taylor from Texhoma, N. M.; Mrs. C. C. Ferguson, Miss Mable Williams, and Mrs. Adah Johnson.

H. J. Ballew, then active missionary for Wichita county, and Rev. W. L. Nelson assisted in the organization, and J. W. Nicholson was elected clerk protem.

Rev. W. W. Rozell was called from Wise county as the first pastor for the new church, serving from Dec. 1, 1922, to Sept. 9, 1923. He was succeeded by Rev. A. C. Turner, who came from a position as teacher in the schools of Burkburnett to the pastorate here. Rev. Turner resigned his post here in March, 1926, to accept a church in Abilene, and the local congregation then called Rev. Tom J. Furniss of Mineola, Texas, who has been the pastor of the Southside Baptist church since April 1 of that year.

Shortly after the organization of the church, J. A. Anderson was elected as clerk, and W. M. Cone as treasurer. Mr. Cone, Lee Anderson and J. W. Nicholson were chosen first as deacons, and also were named as trustees.

The Sunday school was organized with J. W. Nicholson as superintendent, with a membership of about 75 persons. It now has an enrollment of 336, with T. C. Meadows as superintendent.

Within three months from the date of its first assembly, the Southside Baptist congregation had completed the frame building in which it has worshipped for more than six years, and the opening service was a Christmas eve program, in 1922.

The membership of the church, according to its officers, is composed almost entirely of laboring people, and the assistance of Baptist organizations in the county, and other friends of the congregation, is making possible the building of the new church home.

FUTURE HOME OF SOUTH SIDE BAPTIST CHURCH

(From Drawing by Warren Roberts, Architect)

The above sketch shows a view of the South Side Baptist church, 2303 Holliday street, as it will appear upon the completion of extensive alterations and enlargement now under way. It will be finished outside with brick veneer.

Annual Texas Christian Endeavor Meet to Be Held in Houston June 12-17; Prominent Speakers Listed

HOUSTON, Texas, June 1.—The 40th annual convention of the Texas Christian Endeavor union will meet in Houston June 12 to 17. The First Presbyterian church will act as host to the 5,000 delegates expected from all over the state.

Miss Florence Sterling is chairman of the convention committee. Preparations are being made to entertain the largest Christian Endeavor convention ever assembled in the state of Texas. The chambers of commerce of Houston and Galveston have arranged trips and entertainment for all registered delegates. The stat council will be entertained at the Lamar hotel, just one block from the First Presbyterian church.

Noted speakers have been secured by the convention committee to address the endeavorers of Texas. Heading the list of speakers is Dr. Daniel A. Poling, world president of Christian endeavor, editor of the Christian Herald, and pastor of the Marble Collegiate church of New York. Dr. Poling is one of the outstanding preachers before the Christian world today. He will address great mass meetings while in Houston.

Mr. Jack Huppertz, state secretary, will bring with him from Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Wilgus, who will take charge of the music. Carlton M. Sherwood of Boston will be another noted speaker to address the delegates, accompanied by A. J. Shartle, who is international treasurer of Christian endeavor.

The convention opens Wednesday evening, June 12, then for four days the program will be filled with mass meetings, parades, banquets, excursions, conferences, and scores of other activities. Special railroad rates will be in effect from almost all points in the state. Delegates will receive free entertainment of room and breakfast.

Highland Heights Pastor Defends Modern Youth in Revival Sermon; Declares Their Ideals Unchanged

One of the highlights of a special series of sermons delivered by Rev. Patrick Henry, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church, during the revival meetings held during the last week, was an appeal to and defense of the youth of today delivered Thursday night.

Reverend Henry deplored the tendency of adults to criticise excessively the young people of the country, predicting gloomily that their wild freedom will effect the ruination of American civilization, saying that such an attitude for the most part is an effort to make children old befoer their time.

The sermon, titled "The Challenge to Youth," is given in part:

"No generation of young people since the beginning of time has had the educational advantages that are open to the present generation. Better facilities are offered for education today than ever before, and the young person who goes into responsibility of tomorrow without an adequate education will have himself only to blame. The adequately prepared person of the next generation will have an opportunity to accomplish more in 10 years than the same person in a generation ago could have accomplished in 30 years, because of the great advancements made in the realm of science and discovery. All of these added opportunities and privileges bring with them attendant responsibilities, and thus while the young person of today has the prospect of greater service, they also have a greater resistance to meet.

"In some quarters we hear much talk to the effect that the young people of today have deteriorated in their ideals in comparison to the 'old days,' when young people were docile and subdued. If we will be fair in the analysis of the comparison we will find such a conclusion to be far from the facts. One of the most difficult things for adults is to remember the emotions they had when they were young. Adult life has gone over the hill and knows what is on the other side, and consequently too many of them try to rob youth of the joy of their innocence, and try to make them become old before their time.

"It is true that many things are going on among the youth of today that are deplorable, but it was also true yesterday and hundreds of years of yesterday, and for one to render a blanket indictment against the youth of today, because of the defalcation of some, is wholly unfair. The department of labor recently completed a survey of juvenile delinquency in 14 cities of this country and found, by comparison with a period 20 years ago, that nine of these towns showed a decrease in juvenile delinquency, one remained about the same, and four showed a slight increase. More than 350,000 young people will gather in distinctly religious conferences this summer, where they will seriously consider the major things of making a life instead of making a living. Other hundred of thousands will gather in great inspirational conventions under the auspices of the various young peoples organizations.

"Many customs have changed in the habits of youth but they are merely expressive of the advance of civilization. The bobbed-haired girl of today is more practical than the 'rat' haired girl of yesterday. The side-walk sweeping dress of yesterday could not stand up against the science of sanitation of today. The 'balloon' trousers of the modern youth, has many advantages over the 'peg' topped, 'spiked' bottom trousers of yesterday's youth. The passing changes in attire, when kept within reason, are merely expressive of the individuality of the generations, and are not a worthy basis for a general indictment of the generation, because it is different from the way we did it yesterday.

"Youth of today has to meet more temptations than ever before, because of the advance in moral and civic ideals, and as a consequence they must be better prepared for the task that is before them. It has always been true that the higher the mark the more skilled required to attain it.

"The one perfect ideal for youth has never changed and will serve the youth of tomorrow as it served them yesterday; that is the perfect life and living that is reflected in the life of Christ. More young people are asserting their faith in the Christ than ever before, and though there is among us much that is deplorable in our present day, we believe that the great numbers of Christian youth of today will be the lump that will have a great leavening influence upon their generation to the end that civilization, culture, morality and religion is safe in their hands."

NEW EAST SIDE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH TO OPEN SUNDAY

Grafton to Dedicate New Structure In Morning Sermon; Daily Services Announced for Week of Observance

Culminating 19 years of growth in an organization which began as a very small Bible class under a brush arbor near the brick yards in 1910, the East Side Presbyterian church Sunday will formally dedicate the recently completed $12,000 building at Trout and Oriole streets with the first of a series of special services which will continue through Sunday, June 9, according to Rev. E. F. McGaughey, pastor.

Dr. N. F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who has been actively engaged in the development of the East Side congregation during the last 12 years, will give the opening sermon Sunday morning, and Mrs. R. H. Murphy will sing. At the evening hour the Wichita County Christian Endeavor Union will present a pageant, "When Youth Crusades with Christ," under the direction of Mrs. R. P. Willis and Miss Emma Lou Scott, president of the organization.

For the next seven days the following speakers and singers from different churches in this section have been secured:

Wednesday, June 5. "The Revival and Its Relationship to the Church," Rev. John Russell, pastor First Presbyterian church, Garland, Texas. Music, Mrs. J. C. Payne.

Thursday, June 6. "Devotional or Spiritual Life in the Church," Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor First Baptist church. Music, W. E. Young.

Friday, June 7. "Fellowship in the church," Rev. L. D. Grafton, pastor First Presbyterian church, Electra. Music, Rev. L. H. Smith, Chillicothe.

Sunday, June 9. Sermon by Dr. John H. Burma, president Trinity university, at the morning hour. Cornerstone ceremony 3 p. m., Rev. J. H. Bone, Burkburnett; Rev. E. C. Cargill, Seymour; Raymond M. Myers; Dr. Burma; Dr. Nat F. Grafton; and Dr. E. L. Moore, Vernon. Installation of pastor and charge to congregation at the evening hour; C. A. Russell, Dr. E. L. Moore, Rev. E. C. Cargill, Rev. J. H. Bone.

The new home of the East Side Presbyterian church is a two-story brick veneer structure, facing on Trout street. Architecture is of Gothic design, and the building is trimmed with art stone. The auditorium has a seating capacity of about 500, and will be finished in light oak. Pulpit furniture has been given by the First Presbyterian church, and pews which will be installed later will match those pieces. Twelve Sunday school rooms are provided in the surface basement, and four on the second floor. The first floor also has a modern kitchen, and a stage for use in assemblies.

The Sunday school group of 1910, which represented the first effort in the East Side community toward the provision of organized religious training, was inaugurated by Ambrose Yeager. At the close of the summer, the school was moved to the Valley school house.

The first definite organization of the present East Side Sunday school was effected in January, 1917, in a new store building, seating accommodations being provided by laying boards on tiles from the brickyards nearby. A delegation from the First Presbyterian church consisting of Dr. Nat F. Grafton, Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Frank, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Culbertson, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Beavers, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McCutchen sponsored the organization, which began with 23 members.

In the spring of 1917, the old Boy Scout hall of the First Presbyterian church was moved from Eleventh and Harrison streets to its present position on Oriole street, a Bill Horn organ being an accompanying donation, J. B. Nicholson was made superintendent, and the dozen years of constant growth which has resulted in the building of the new brick church began in that small frame structure. Mr. Nicholson continued as superintendent of the Sunday school until his death.

With Dr. Nat F. Grafton presiding and preaching, the organization of the East Side Presbyterian church was effected on Oct. 4, 1922, with the following charter members: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hagerman, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Bumgardner, Mr. and Mrs. John McKinney and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. August Storbeck, William Stephens, Mrs. Mary May, and Mrs. Oliver.

Rev. Walter Haggard, who assisted in the organization of the church, served as supply pastor for several months, and Ralph Dick became the superintendent of the Sunday school. Following Rev. Haggard, the church was served in turn by Rev. B. F. Judd, Rev. C. C. Dooley, Rev. Tom Rockett, and in 1925 Rev. E. F. McGaughey became pastor of the East Side and Floral Heights Presbyterian congregations. During the year August Storbeck and J. N. Pyles were elected, ordained and installed as elders, while C. W. Kidd, Sam Hagerman, and Jesse Ward were chosen as trustees.

On May 7, 1926, the first Woman's Missionary society was organized, with Mrs. C. W. Kidd, president; Mrs. O. E. Bumgardner, vice president; Mrs. S. F. Hagerman, secretary; Mrs. Chancey, treasurer, and Mrs. Emmet McCreary, secretary of literature. During the last three years this organization has contributed materially to the erection of a manse and the new building.

The Christian Endeavor society was organized a few weeks later, with Miss Candace Kidd, president; Miss Louada Stearns, vice president; Miss Chudi Kidd, secretary; and Wayne McCreary, treasurer. There were 14 members in this society, which has grown to be one of the largest and most active in the Wichita Falls district. For several months members of the society conducted evening services, pending the calling of a full time pastor.

A five room manse was built in 1925, and is still in use as the dwelling of the pastor.

Rev. W. D. Johns was called as pastor upon the resignation of Rev. McGaughey in 1926 to become full time pastor of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church, and served 15 months, resigning to accept a pastorate at Whitesboro. The church then recalled Rev. McGaughey as supply, in which position he since has served. He will be duly elected and installed as pastor at the evening service on Sunday, June 9.

Decision to erect the new church building was made at a congregational meeting on Oct. 7, 1928. Ground was broken on Oct. 26 with a ceremony in which Rev. McGaughey, Dr. Nat F. Grafton, Rev. E. C. Cargill of Seymour, and numerous other pastors and laymen of the Presbyterian organizations in this section of the state participated.

The church enrollment is now 125, and that of the Sunday school is 206.

WOMEN WANT MABEL TO REMAIN IN POST

KANSAS CITY, June 1. (INS)—A telegram urging the reinstatement of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt as assistant attorney general was sent today to President Hoover by Mrs. Mason C. Alderman, state chairman of the woman's national committee for law enforcement.

Several other women's organizations here, including the W. C. T. U. and the Women's Interdenominational Missionary council, were planning to petition President Hoover for reinstatement of Mrs. Willebrandt.

GAS MAINS TO BE LAID INTO OKLAHOMA TOWNS

FREDERICK, Okla., June 1.—Sufficient patrons have been assured at Manitou, Snyder and Mountain Park to warrant the Community Natural Gas Co. to lay mains to those towns preparatory to supplying the patrons with gas. Engineers from the Dallas office of this concern are expected to arrive next week to begin survey of a right of way from Frederick to Mountain Park, passing through Manitou and Snyder. While construction is under way the Frederick office will be headquarters.

ANTLERS, OKLA., PIONEER WOMAN DIES AT AGE 96

ANTLERS, Okla., June 1. (UP)—Oklahoma's only daughter of a revolutionary war soldier died here today when illness proved fatal to Mrs. Sarah Starnes Ellis. She was 96 years old.

A few weeks ago the daughters of the American Revolution and other women's patriotic organizations celebrated her birthday here. She was born in Bolivar, Tenn., in 1833. She came to Arkansas with her husband when that state was Indian Territory.

Railroad to Rebuild

MEXICO CITY, June 1. (AP)—Paul Schoupe, president of the Southern Pacific railway, announced today the Southern Pacific would soon begin re-construction of the roadbed torn up by the rebels, with the government cooperating. It was hoped, he said, to have the west coast line in first rate condition within a brief period.

KU KLUX KLAN FACTOR ENTERS DES MOINES ROW

DES MOINES, June 1. (UP)—The name of the Ku Klux Klan today entered the Des Moines university squabble between Dr. H. C. Wayman, its president and Dr. T. T. Shields of Toronto, Canada, president of the board of trustees.

Dr. Shields, it was learned, received a letter purporting to have been sent by the klan in which he was informed he was being watched and that the klan stood for "pure Americanism."

Charges that Dr. Shields intended to "Canadianize" the university have been made by students.

MUSSOLINI SUBJECT OF REVIVAL SERMON SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The second week of the Cotnam-Gray interdenominational evangelistis meetings in the canvas tabernacle at Twenty-second street and Yale avenue will be inaugurated Sunday with special sermons at 3 p. m. and 7:45 p. m. by the two visiting preachers.

Rev. Geo. E. Gray will speak at 3 o'clock on the question, "Is Mussolini, dictator of Italy, the anti-Christ?" At the evening hour, Rev. R. L. Cotnam will preach on the following subject: "What Kind of Chief of Police and assistants should Wichita Falls have?"

The Monday night meeting will be preceded by a 30-minute period, beginning at 7:15 o'clock, devoted to prayer and anointment for the sick. Mr. Cotnam stated that many requests already have been received for prayer for healing of persons suffering from disease, injuries, deafness and blindness, and said that the evangelists expect to accomplish much good for such persons in the prayer and healing services.

LORY MEMORIAL TO OPEN EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS MONDAY

A series of revival meetings announced to run for two weeks will be opened at the Lory Memorial Baptist church, 120 Dallas street, Monday morning at 11 o'clock, according to Rev. J. L. Walters, pastor. Rev. E. M. Agee, missionary preacher of the Wichita-Archer Baptist association, will be the evangelist, assisted by O. E. Hincy, song leader, and Miss Sylvia Smith, pianist. Services will be held daily at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

A vacation Bible school for all the children of the community will open Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the church. It will be continued for one month, Rev. Walters stated.

Newspapers Are Extolled

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 1. (UP)—Extolling newspapers as an advertising medium, the New England section of the advisory council of the American Gas association announced at its convention here today that as a result of its campaign in New England papers, the use of gas for heating has increased 7.56 per cent in the first quarter of the year. For other domestic purposes, the association said, the use of gas increased 7.34 per cent in the same period as compared with that period last year.

RADIUM POISONING VICTIMS STILL LIVE AFTER YEAR'S SIEGE

ORANGE, N. J., June 1. (INS)—The five women radium victims of New Jersey, who were awarded settlements of $10,000 and a provision for medical attention last June, have defied science and lived out a year, a survey made today revealed.

None of the five, who suffered radium poisoning while working in a watch factory, appear to be in immediate danger of death.

The others all remain close to their homes but are living comfortably.

The chief argument of counsel for the victims in applying for damages was that they would not live a year.

The New Mesdames Fresco

Being An Unusual Ending To a Usual Complication

ANTOINETTE

NTIL Ella was fourteen, the loveliest uniform in all the world was the one worn by her mother. She seldom if ever saw her out of it, except on magic Thursday afternoons when they shopped, had their supper in a little self-service restaurant and went to a motion-picture theatre together. On these days, Ella's mother slipped into a plain drab-colored frock and a dark brown coat with a piece of coarse fur around the neck. She lost lustre.

In the big, beautiful house on the top of the hill where they had lived ever since Ella could remember, her mother had worn the bright gray, highly finished alpaca frock with a sheer patch of organdy apron in front and a crisp organdy cap on the top of her pretty brown hair. To Ella, especially when she saw her mother smartly wielding a pert feather duster in and out of the precious little objects that covered Mrs. Fresco's dressing table, there was something of a pretty and bright-eyed bird about her mother.

Quick, alert, and a little saucy.

Mrs. Fresno, a large, florid woman whose hands gleamed with jewels even at breakfast and whose short, asthmatic breathing was one of the dominant noises in the household, came, as the asthmatic affliction increased its hold of her, to depend more and more on the bright person of Ella's mother.

"Annie" was Ella's mother's given name. Mrs. Fresco found it too commonplace, so the very first month that Annie, handicapped by her four-year-old child, had succeeded in gaining employment in the Fresco house, her mistress had refused to call her by any other name than Antoinette.

THE room occupied by Antoinette and her daughter was a little, slap-sided one up under the eaves of the beautiful old house. It was not an unpleasant room, even thought it was furnished with all the cast-off odds-and-ends of the household. Its three Gothic-shaped windows, arched at the top like eyebrows, looked out upon the beautiful orchards of the Fresco estate. And sometimes at evening, before Antoinette tucked her young one into bed, little Ella and her mother could look out from one of these windows upon star shine and moon shine and see it reflected in the swan-dotted natural lake that lay to the left of the house.

If Antoinette sometimes found her role in that household almost unbearable, her little girl was the last one to know it. As Mrs. Fresco, her life fraught with the complexities of her role as social dictator, grew heavier and more asthmatic, her demands upon her maid sometimes became intolerable. And yet only too well Antoinette realized, and was made to realize by Mrs. Fresco, her difficult and anomalous situation. Widowed women with children did not find it easy to obtain positions. Antoinette knew that from bitter experience. The thought of placing her little girl in an institution was simply outside her reckoning. And so, throughout the years, Antoinette remained on.

DICK FRESCO

There were, after all, great advantages in the situation. Mr. Fresco, a great, hearty man of fifty, was kindness and consideration itself. With all her heart, Antoinette pitied him the nervous, petty, socially ambitious, exacting wife. He was generous and indulgent. He scarcely ever arrived in that house without some little nick-nack for Ella. Everything he did showed consideration and kindness for Antoinette.

Then there was Dick, the only child of the household. In the early years, Dick and Ella, in the enormous democracy of childhood, had played together among the swans or in the beautiful gardens that surrounded the home. But Dick had shot up into slim boyhood while Ella was still in rompers. For the past ten years, the most exciting events in that household had been his all-too-sporadic visits from boarding school and college.

YES, there were advantages to remaining at the Frescos'. Antoinette tried to keep this realization staunchly to the front of her mind on those occasions when Mrs. Fresco made life unbearable or when the heavy social routine of the household with its luncheons, musicales, teas, dinners, banquets, balls and house-parties made the burden of work and responsibility almost crushing to the slim shoulders of Antoinette.

When Mrs. Fresco died one night, in a paroxysm of suffocation, her passing was a source of comment in the social circles of the large cities of both America and Europe. She had succeeded in gouging out what she had most craved for herself—social eminence. As a poor girl she had married Alexander Fresco and, out of a gripping determination, had accomplished what she had set out to do.

There were those who might have thought it not worth the candle, but that is neither here nor there. It is true that in the direction of philanthropic and charitable alleviation of human suffering, except where it had to do conspicuously with social position, Mrs. Fresco had accomplished little, except her goal.

But she had died socially secure.

WHAT happened subsequently has happened before and yet it did seem the last word in irony that it should have occurred to the Frescos. As those who had been in the confidence of Mrs. Fresco and had known her ambitions, said: "It was enough to make her turn in her grave!"

Antoinette remained on in the household, conducted it for Mr. Fresco after his wife's death. And what occurred then, it must be said, came as much in the form of a thunderclap to her as it did to Mr. Fresco and the entire community.

When Ella was a beautiful seventeen and lovely as the first jonquil that grew in Spring beside the swan lake, Dick Fresco came home from college, a new graduate, eloped with her in an airplane one afternoon and married her in an adjacent city.

It fairly took the breath away, not only of the community, but of Antoinette herself, to say nothing of the boy's dumbfounded parent.

The young heir to Fresco millions, the young college graduate, just home and prepared to enter into his father's many activities, had done the unthinkable —married the daughter of a servant girl.

Strange, with what an imperturbability the ruddy, genial father of this nice frank youngster took his blow. The two children were received back into the household. The beautiful little Ella, startled at what she had done, yet crammed with her happiness, was accepted by her father-in-law, and life in the big house moved forward.

NOTHING was done to change the status of Antoinette, who by this time was a little gray at the temples of her pretty brown head and who was now occupying the role of housekeeper. Importunings of her daughter, her son-in-law and even Mr. Fresco to the contrary notwithstanding, Antoinette continued to wear a bunch of keys at her belt and to occupy the small room under the eaves. In vain the members of the family protested, even signifying that she owed it to them to renounce her humble position. But on that Antoinette remained obdurate. Her gray alpaca with the sheer organdy touches continued to flash in and out of the great rooms of the great house over which her little daughter was qualified to reign as mistress.

There was something strangely tenacious in the benign makeup of the girl Ella. Time after time, in order to solve the curious situation of this household, Antoinette importuned her son-in-law and daughter to let her leave in order to ease the curious dilemma. And there Ella stood obdurate. Painful, excoriating, even humiliating as it was for her to reign as mistress in the house where her mother persisted in the role of servant, Ella flatly refused to permit the older woman to leave the Fresco roof.

No doubt about it, Antoinette was doing her daughter an injustice by insisting that she retain her humble role; no doubt about it, Ella was doing her mother an injustice by refusing to permit her the alternative of leaving the house. And yet, the bond between these two was so close. Years of propinquity between mother and daughter in the humble quarters they had formerly occupied in that home of magnificence, had drawn them closely, irretrievably together. The mere thought of separation was mutually unbearable to them both. The young Dick, buoyantly, youthfully in love, minimized the complication and accepted in embarrassed good-humor the role of his mother-in-law, trying to evade its more serious aspects by treating her in a playful manner.

"Antoinette, I say, you haven't performed your tasks well this morning," or, "Antoinette, I am afraid we will have to dispense with your services as housekeeper if you insist upon such a familiar manner with Mrs. Fresco."

THESE little witticisms indulged in so good-naturedly by the husband of Ella, helped. And yet, not all the facetiousness in the world could save the situation from the curious mixture of pathos, irony and absurdity which characterized it.

Ella felt it. Dick felt it. Antoinette felt it.

Certainly the elder Fresco himself must have felt it, although through all the period of these attempts at adjustments, he maintained his jovial kind of aloofness, keeping well out of the controversy and exhibiting a non-committal air when called upon to pass judgment.

A curious and anomalous situation, if ever there was one.

It hurt the tender and pretty little Ella to sit down at a table at which her own mother was not present. It pained her young and stalwart husband. It embarrassed Fresco.

For months after this marriage, the social world that had at one time poured into this house stood off bewildered and dumbfounded, and yet there were going on in the financial world rumors that revealed the fact that Alexander Fresco, in the little time since the death of his wife, had practically tripled his many millions.

There came a time when, despite the catastrophic thing that had happened in that home, the socially exclusive found it the better part of valor to call upon the new little Mrs. Fresco, Jr.

Cards were left on the silver salvers in the hallway that had been left there, off and on, for years and years, but, now that they were applied to little Ella, it fairly took away the breath of Antoinette and her daughter.

The time had come for a strategic decision to take place in that household. When the social world had set its stamp of approval finally upon the new little wife of Dick Fresco, it was time to begin to prepare her for the complex and difficult role that stretched ahead.

THEN something happened that again threw out of focus every single precedent in the home. At ten o'clock one Sunday morning, standing in the superb drawing room of his home, as abashed as a boy of fourteen, Alexander Fresco asked Antoinette to marry him.

At three o'clock that same afternoon, by the procedure of special license and special dispensation, the event of their wedding took place in that same beautiful drawing room, the sole witnesses to the occasion being the servants of the household and Mr. and Mrs. Fresco, Jr.

It was again a matter of months before a stunned community was able to pull itself together and decide upon its next strategic move in regard to the Frescos.

It was again a matter of international comment the way in which Alexander Fresco had increased his many millions and, once more society capitulated, and began leaving cards for the two Mrs. Frescos.

But by this time a new and monopolizing interest had crashed into this household so that the visiting cards lying on the tables had little or no effect. It was not that the Mrs. Frescos, senior and junior, meant to be rude. On the contrary, they were a lovely and amiable pair of matrons. But there was no time. On the day of Alexander Fresco's marriage to Antoinette, he had made over to her in her own name the sum of five million dollars to do with as she wished.

Out of that superbly endowed amount, Antoinette and her daughter Ellen had cooked up a plan. It was a plan that, as the years moved on, was to grow to such proportions that it monopolized all of their time, leaving little for social concerns that had to do with the visiting cards on the hall table.

Mrs. Alexander Fresco who, throughout the lean and heart-breaking years, had known deprivation, has built out of her five-million-dollar fund one of the greatest philanthropic organizations in the world. By this time, Alexander and his son Dick are almost equally interested in it.

The Frescos, all four of them, are a busy, constructive group of people. Too concerned with humanity to find time for the social problems presented by the engraved cards of the elite of the countryside, as they gather dust on the hall tables.

A Statement To the Public:

Concerning Hunting, Fishing and Camping on the Waggoner Ranch

The Waggoner ranch, lying in Wichita, Wilbarger, Archer, Knox, Foard and Baylor Counties is primarily a cattle range. There are a number of streams running through it, and is used for grazing purposes.

Located on the ranch is Lake Kemp, one of the largest inland bodies of water in the entire country. The lake itself covers something like 23,000 acres of land.

The owners of the Waggoner ranch have no desire to interfere with legitimate hunting and fishing in and around Lake Kemp. In fact, they have set aside 10,000 acres lying around Lake Kemp and fenced it off from the remainder of the ranch in order that here around this wonderful body of water people may camp for hunting and fishing outings, without in any way interfering with the main business of the Waggoner Estate, namely cattle raising. They have built roads throughout the park and are still building. They employ competent men to look after the park and visitors.

This tract of 10,000 acres surrounding the lake is called Cara Blanca Park. A fee of $1.00 per car load is charged for admission into the Park, not for the purpose of making money but in order to meet necessary expenses and to keep the recreational privileges around the lake on a satisfactory basis for the thousands of people who annually visit Lake Kemp.

The owners of the Waggoner Ranch feel that this arrangement is fair to the people. Ten thousand acres ought to be enough to set aside for this purpose, it seems, and it is their hope that the people will respect the rest of the ranch and not interfere with its operation for the primary business of raising cattle. Some people, however, seem to be of the opinion that it is all right to hunt, fish and pitch camp anywhere on the Waggoner Ranch. Roads have been cut into all sections of the ranch, campers have destroyed grass and wood and these innocent depredations have caused considerable expense in handling cattle, keeping fences repaired and through loss of grass.

The owners of the Waggoner Ranch seek the co-operation of the people in handling this matter by confining their hunting and fishing to the area set aside for these purposes, leaving the rest of the ranch for a cattle range. It is not the wish of the Waggoners to interfere with the legitimate pleasures of hunting and fishing within the proper areas. In return the owners of the Waggoner Ranch ask the people to be considerate and not interfere with the ranching business carried on by the Waggoners on the remainder of the ranch property.

There is plenty of room for everybody. The Cara Blanca Park is set aside for hunting and fishing and camping parties. The rest of the ranch is set aside for the cattle business. There is no reason why these interests should clash. The Waggoner Estate has bought and paid for the lands under fence. Taxes on these lands are paid in all six of the counties and the estate should be allowed to use its property for ranching without interference. Of course, the law protects these rights, but it is not the wish of the owners of Waggoner Ranch to resort to the law and ask prosecution of trespassers. We ought to get along as neighbors and friends and we ask simply that hunters and fishermen have their recreation in the area set aside for this purpose and let us raise cattle on the rest of the ranch. That ought to be fair and we feel sure our friends and neighbors and the visitors who come to the Lake will co-operate with us in this reasonable arrangement. It hurts no one and leaves ample facilities for recreation and plenty of room for cattle raising.

W. T. WAGGONER ESTATE

W. T. WAGGONER, TRUSTEE

SHREVEPORT WINS 10-INNING CONTEST FROM SPUDDERS, 5 TO 4

Elsewhere in this issue of The Times is a plea from R. L. More of the Waggoner estate to the fishermen, hunters and campers of this territory to respect to a greater degree the Waggoner properties around the lake. This plea points out that the vast Waggoner interests are given over principally to cattle raising and that it is possible for the indiscretion of trespassers to cause considerable damage in the way of destruction of fences and grass. The fact that the Waggoner estate has found it necessary to issue such a plea is evidence enough of the seriousness of the situation.

The Waggoner estate has expended a vast sum of money in fencing in Lake Kemp, in order that the cattle business might be continued and at the same time that the public might receive the sporting benefits of the big lake. It is true that a charge of $1 is made for each automobile that enters Cara Blanca park, but in view of the enormity of the investment of the Waggoners in fences and roads and upkeep, the charge certainly is reasonable enough. But, even if it hadn't been necessary for the Waggoner estate to spend a dime, and if the dollar was all profit, doesn't one get more than a dollar's worth for his money in a day's or a week's sport on Lake Kemp?

Roads have been built within the park by the Waggoner estate, without any outside aid whatever, and automobiles now can travel a good many miles along the lake shore from either end of the dam. There have been mighty few instances of stolen equipment at Lake Kemp, and the one reason is the protection offered by the fences and the charge at the gate. If Lake Kemp had been thrown open to all, there would have been far more depredations from prowlers and undesirables. To our way of thinking, the Waggoners' fences and the protection they offer are well worth the dollar tax.

It doesn't seem that it would be necessary for the Waggoners to beg the public to respect their property. And the fact of the business is that they don't have to. When one considers the fact that the Waggoner estate owns the land "to the water's edge" of Lake Kemp and understands the state laws on trespassing, it is not difficult to see how the Waggoner estate, by resorting to extreme measures, most assuredly can protect its property. It might be well for the hunters and the fishermen to give full consideration to the plea of the Waggoners.

New interests have taken over the Fort Worth Texas league franchise and Bill Stripling steps out after a good many years as the nominal head of the club. During the late Paul LaGrave's regime at Fort Worth, he was the actual head of the Panther organization. Stripling, before or after LaGrave's death, took little part in the management of affairs. Baseball was a side issue with him and he never cared to devote his time to it. While LaGrave was at the helm, it wasn't necessary for anybody else to worry about the club. The Panthers' long string of successes is positive proof. When LaGrave passed on none was found to take his place.

The active management of Panther business affairs for the last few years has been in the hands of Jack Zeller, the Detroit Tiger's business office handy man. Unless we have been sadly misinformed, Zeller took that responsibility solely because of his friendship for Stripling, LaGrave and others of the Panther family. That he has done his best goes without saying. And furthermore, he has provided Fort Worth with pretty good ball clubs. Of course, Fort Worth hasn't been satisfied with second, third and fourth place clubs—and the Panthers haven't finished lower than that, for the many pennants won by the LaGrave-Atz combination made the fans hard to please. Even though Zeller's interests have been primarily in the Detroit club, as should be, he has done pretty well by Fort Worth. Definite announcement concerning the policies of the new clubowners hasn't been made, and it is not known whether Zeller will continue in an official capacity with the Panthers, but it is quite certain that he and the Detroit club will continue to work closely with Fort Worth.

Fort Worth ranks as one of the minor leagues' greatest spots, and Ted Robinson and S. S. Lard have acquired a valuable bit of property in the purchase of the Panther franchise. Fort Worth is the fourth largest city in the league, but it never fails to rank better than that in volume of attendance. Despite the fact that the Panthers won six straight pennants, the fans have kept on patronizing the club, and that's the true test. Any town will support a pennant winner, but the one that can follow up great seasons with good attendance when the going is not so smooth is the real baseball town. With respectable teams in the races, the new owners of the Panther club may expect to profit from their investment.

The Spudders will be back home Monday for a short home stand against two North Texas foes. The Steers are here Monday and Tuesday and the Panthers Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Those two series constitute the home stay, and Saturday the club hops off for another tour of South Texas after a one-day stop in Fort Worth.

Goff Weakens In Last Half After Spudders Score

Benton Hits Triple To Lead Wichita Attack

SHREVEPORT, La., June 1.—A tenth inning rally that netted two runs after the Spudders had forged to the front in their half of the session gave the Sports a 5 to 4 victory in a contest that was featured by brilliant pitching by Tiny Owens and Goff. The home club made only eight hits and the visitors nine and the majority of blows for both sides were turned in after the halfway mark of the game had been passed.

A tenth inning rally that produced one run. A base on balls a couple of singles and a pair of stolen bases allowed the Spudders to break the deadlock that had existed from the eighth inning and when they scored it looked mighty gloomy for the homefolks.

The Sports' first run was made in the opening inning and for the next six stanzas the home club did not score. Owens was effective up until the sixth inning, when the visitors made their first runs.

The Spudders were retired in order in the first inning and then the Sports took the lead by one run in their half, mainly through the wildness of Pitcher Goff. Whelan, the first Sport batter, drew a walk and Stewart followed with a single to left field. Cashion was padded, filling the bases. Langford hit a high skier to short and was out. Cox grounded to short and when Cashion was retired at second base Whelan scored. Starr rolled out to short.

In the second and third the Spudders were retired in order and did not hit the ball out of the infield. Cashion walked for the Sports in the third after two were out and Fitzgerald made a long running catch of a hard drive to left center off Langford's bat.

After Benton had rolled out to the pitcher and Turgeon had popped to short Fitzgerald came through with a hot liner to right field. Bennett flied to center. That ended the Spudders' activities in the fourth.

It was not until two were out in the fifth that another man reached base. Whelan dropped a two-bagger in left field, but died on base.

Crouch opened the sixth inning with a hot grounder to Whelan and went safe. Goff fouled to Starr who made a nice catch. Benton hit over Langford's head for three bases. Turgeon scored Benton with a single to left field. Fitzgerald grounded out to Whelan and Bennett was thrown out at first by Woehrs.

Langford hit safe to right field in the sixth after one was out, but was caught in a double when Benton made a nice stop of a grounder off Cox's bat.

A couple of fluke hits gave the Spudders another run in the seventh. Swenson dropped a two-bagger in right field after one was out and Sullivan went safe on a scratch hit to the pitcher. Crouch flied to Cox and Swenson scored. Sullivan took second on a wild pitch. Stewart caught Goff's low fly to retire the side.

Starr opened the seventh for the Sports with a single to right field, but Fitzgerald retired Woehrs and Deviveros by some nice fielding and Owens popped to short.

Fitzgerald bounced a double off the right field fence in the eighth, but died on base.

An error started the Sports on their way to tie the battle in the eighth. Whelan was safe on Benton's bobble, but was forced at second on Stewart's roller to short. Cashion was safe on a hit to deep short and Stewart and Cashion scored on Langford's double to left field. Cox was retired on a skier to Benton. Starr flied to left field.

Lapan, who had replaced Crouch behind the bat for Wichita Falls at the start of the eighth opened the tenth with a single and stole second after Goff had flied to left field. Lapan took a big lead off second and was caught in a chase, Owens to Deviveros to Wohers. Benton walked and stole second. Turgeon singled to left and Benton scored. Fitzgerald lined to Whelan.

The Spudders' lead did not last very long. Whelan worked Goff for a walk and Stewart sacrificed. Cashion doubled off the left field fence and Whelan scored. Langford was purposely passed. Cox came through with a single to center field and cashion tallied. Fitzgerald did not attempt to throw the runner out at home.

TEXAS GOLFERS GATHER IN DALLAS FOR STATE AMATEUR TOURNAMENT

DALLAS, June 1. (AP)—Crack mashie wielders from every corner of Texas were gathering here tonight in advance of their scheduled assault Tuesday on the state amateur golf championship, now held by Jack Speer, Houston star.

Tournament officials estimated the entry list for the 36-hole qualifying round Tuesday and Wednesday would reach 200, with the largest out-of-town enrollment in the history of the meet.

SHINING LIGHTS IN ATHLETICS' DRIVE

PHILADELPHIA, June 1. (AP)—Here in Philadelphia, where the Athletics are making a masterly effort to win the American league flag, the fans are rating Mickey Cochrane and Jimmy Foxx as two of Connie Mack's greatest stars since the days of the world-beating A's of 15 years ago.

This pair of stars kept the Athletics right up in the running until the closing days of the 1928 season, And they didn't lose a day in picking up their campaign this year.

They're a great defensive pair, but they shine brightest on the offensive. On the day that the Athletics won their eleventh straight game to lead the field by four games Jimmy and Mickey led the league in batting with averages of .403 and .391 respectively.

Cochrane at 26 is generally recognized as the greatest catcher in the game, while Foxx has few superiors as an all around star.

Mickey came to the Athletics five years ago to become a fixture in the regular lineup. Manager Mack paid Portland of the Pacific coast league $50,000 for the youngster's release. There's no telling how much money he could get for him today.

Foxx came direct to the Mackmen from the Easton, Pennsylvania, club of the Eastern Shore league. He reported late in 1925, played in 10 games as a catcher and hung up the princely batting average of .667.

Outside of Ruth and Gehrig of the Yankees there probably is not a pair of ball players in the majors today commanding more respect of opposing pitchers than Mickey and Jimmy.

Great Hitting Puts Starr Far in Front

Shreveport Catcher on Sensational Spree That Produces 20 Hits in 29 Times Up; Wetzel is Runnerup With .370 Mark

Continuing his sensational batting streak in which he has hammered out 20 hits in 29 times at bat, Starr of Shreveport drove his batting average up to the phenomenal figure of .462 to lead the Texas league hitters through Thursday, his closest rival of the players in all of the games being Wetzel of San Antonio, with .370. Whelan, Shreveport, continues to head the run getters with 46, four players being tied for second place with 38, Sanguinet, Waco; Blackerby, Waco; Martin, Houston, and Urban, Fort Worth. Randy Moore, Dallas, has made the most base hits, 71, Wetzel still holding second place with 67, but Davis, Dallas, now in third place with 62. Dick Cox of Shreveport has taken the lead in doubles with 18, Nason, San Antonio, holds the top in triples, seven, while Sanguinet, Waco, has made 12 home runs to 11 for his teammate, Blackerby. Martin's 10 stolen bases still top the list, but Flaskamper, Dallas, is close on his heels with nine.

Caldwell, Waco, with eight victories has won the most games but his clubmate, Dumovich, has a higher winning average. Walkup, Fort Worth, has started and finished 12 games, while Lindsey, Houston, leads in strikeouts with 42. Waco has the best club batting average and has made the most home runs. Shreveport leads in hits, doubles and stolen bases; Houston in triples and Dallas in runs.

Moody's Action in Stopping Dallas Fight Alarms Promoters and Boxers

DALLAS, June 1. (AP)—Texas promoters and boxers Saturday were worried because of Gov. Dan Moody's action Friday in using a Texas ranger stop what they termed boxing exhibitions.

A bout announced for Dallas Friday night was cancelled after Ranger Capt. Tom Hickman had ordered Promoter Larry Meinert not to hold it. Another bout, scheduled for June 4 in Fort Worth also will not be held, according to Captain Hickman.

William McCraw, Dallas district attorney, issued a statement on the governor's action characterizing it as "cheaply theatrical."

Governor Moody at Bryan took full responsibility for the order that started Hickman to work. He stated that prize fighting was against the law.

Four Home Runs Help Athletics Crush Detroit

Earnshaw Allows Tiger Batsmen But Six Safeties

PHILADELPHIA, June 1. (AP)—The Athletics home run bats gave the Detroit Tigers a rude lambasting here this afternoon that buried the Bengals beneath an 11 to 2 score.

All the Mack runs except three were hammered over the plate by four home runs. Al Simmons hit two, the others were made by George Earnshaw and Mule Haas, each with a man on the bags. Score:

Exporters 6, Buffs 4

HOUSTON, June 1. (AP)—Manager Robertson's single in the eleventh drove in two runs and Beaumont defeated Houston in the opening game of the series here today, 6 to 4. Stiely, Exporter hurler, weakened in the ninth and was driven from the mound under a three run rally that permitted Houston to tie the score. Burns, who replaced Stiely, received credit for the game. Dallas 7-8, Fort Worth 4-12

FORT WORTH, June 1. (AP)—Lefty Meadows, hammered out of the box in the first inning of the first game today, came back as relief hurler in the second to stop the boisterous Steer attack and enabled Fort Worth to split the two games. Dallas took the opener, 7 to 4, and lost the second, 12 to 8, in an afternoon hard on hurlers of both clubs. Base hits showered all over the park.

Big Bill Tilden Is Defeated By Lacoste at Paris

Helen Wills Goes Into Finals for United States

By THOMAS T. TOPPING
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, June 1. (AP)—In two great tennis battles here today Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter stormed the ramparts of French supremacy and failed.

Big Bill was beaten by his old foe, Rene Lacoste, 6-1, 6-0, 5-7, 6-3, in the semi-finals of the French championship.

Shortly before, Jean Borotra, the bounding Basque, came from behind to trim Hunter in the quarter-finals, 6-8, 10-8, 4-6, 8-6, 6-0.

The renowned three musketeers of France are in sole possession of the field with Lacoste already in the final and Henri Cochet scheduled to dispute the remaining semi-final with Borotra tomorrow.

Only the capable figure of Miss Helen Wills, who reached the final in defense of her women's singles crown by defeating England's Miss Eileen Bennett, 6-2, 7-5, remained to represent the United States. France placed its leading woman player, Madame Renee Mathieu, in the final against Miss Wills by a victory over Fraulein Cecilie Aussem of Germany, 8-6, 2-6, 6-2.

Except for a few moments in the third set when Big Bill provided the high spot of the match by winning four straight games and the set Lacoste was in the driver's seat throughout.

Hunter's defeat at the hands of the oldest member of the French triumvirate came as something of a surprise as he was leading Jean by two sets to one when play was called on account of darkness the previous day. When the match was resumed Hunter spent himself in an unsuccessful effort to win the long deuced set which would have given him the match and could offer little resistance in the closing set.

Although Miss Wills is a prohibitive favorite to win the women's coronet for the second straight year, French fans are hopeful that Madame Mathieu will be able to perform the rare feat of winning a set from the American.

The New York Yankees recorded the fewest assists ever made in a major league game when only five were made in a game in 1921.

Hagen Wins From Archie Compston In Final Match

Horton Smith Loses To Henry Cotton At Coulsdon Court

LONDON, June 1. (AP)—The American Ryder cup team's final fling of its 1929 invasion of England today found native born British golfers more than holding their own.

Walter Hagen, captain of the American team and four times winner of the British open, avenged two previous defeats by Archie Compston, when he downed the famous British pro, one up, in a 36-hole match at Blackwell park, Birmingham. Against this American triumph, however, Britons could point to Henry Cotton's 6 and 5 victory over Horton Smith at Coulsdon court and Abe Mitchell's triumph in a 36-hole medal competition at the opening of the new Selsdon Park golf course at London. In this latter event, two Americans, Ed Dudley and Johnny Farrell, were second and third, respectively.

After his triumph over Compston, Hagen caught a train for London, where he picked up the main body of his Ryder cup argosy and traveled to Southampton, where they were to sail for home aboard the Leviathan at dawn.

GAINES MOTOR SALES COMPANY TEAM ENTERS LEGION LEAGUE HERE

The Gaines Motor Sales company has placed a team in the American Legion league, it was announced Saturday by C. C. Frazee, summer recreational director for the city.

Milton Gaines, president of the company, has purchased full equipment for 14 players and has entered what he believes will prove to be the future state champions in the American Legion race for national honors, Mr. Frazee said.

HARD HITTING AND GOOD PITCHING KEEPS ATHLETICS ON TOP

Imposing Record Made by Hurlers In Last 16 Games

Seven Regulars Bat 300 Or Better to Aid In Victories

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 1.—It is about time to take the Philadelphia Athletics apart and see what is making them run away with the American league race.

The Athletics looked rather feeble in the spring but recovered quickly once the championship season got under way and have been playing like coming world champions during the past two weeks.

They had won 15 out of their last 16 games and Saturday led the American league by a margin of five games with a long home stay in front of them.

The spark-plug of the Philadelphia machine is chubby-faced Jimmy Foxx, 23-year-old first baseman who is tearing the cover off the ball. He is leading the American league in batting with a mark of .434 and had hit safely in the last 15 games.

Cochrane Shines

Another bright star in the Athletics' outfit is Mickey Cochrane, whose catching and hitting are proving even better than last season when he was named the most valuable player in the American league. Cochrane is runner-up to Foxx among the American league hitters, with an average of .390. He has hit safely in the last 14 games.

Seven of the eight Philadelphia regulars are batting .300 or better. The devastating Philadelphia batting order follows:

	G	Ab	R	H	Pct.
Bishop, 2b	38	129	37	33	.237
Haas, cf	38	162	36	50	.309
Cochrane, c	38	136	32	53	.390
Simmons, lf	34	135	26	45	.336
Hale, 3b	38	153	22	46	.300
Foxx, 1b	38	143	32	61	.434
Miller, rf	38	152	25	47	.309
Dykes, ss	37	123	23	40	.325

Averages include Friday's games.

Pitching, too

Not only are the Athletics getting plenty of hitting but they are getting championship pitching to go with it. With Howard Ehmke's return to form, Connie Mack now has seven reliable pitchers on his staff. Making his first start of the season, Ehmke beat the Tigers Friday.

Rommel	4	0	1.000
Ehmke	1	0	1.000
Grove	7	1	.875
Quinn	4	1	.800
Walberg	6	2	.750
Shores	2	1	.667

Schedule Junior Baseball League Given for Week

Boys Teams to Play 18 Games in Three Days Here

The schedule for the Junior City Baseball league through June 8 was announced Saturday by C. C. Frazee, summer recreational director for the city.

The number of teams entered in this league was so great that it was necessary to divide the organization into two sections. All games will start June 4 and each team will play 24 games.

Following is the schedule through June 8 for division No. 1 of the league:

June 4: Victory Wild Cats vs. Nine Rookies at Harrison and Keeler; Fillmore Alley Rats vs. Bucks Tugs at Giddings and Avenue I; Nine Musketeers vs. Speedy Mustangs at Wilson field.

June 6: Wild Cats vs. Ally Rats at Giddings and Keeler; Nine Rookies vs. Nine Musketeers at Austin school grounds; Bucks Tugs vs. Speedy Mustangs at Harrison and Keeler.

June 8: Wild Cats vs. Nine Musketeers at Wilson field; Bucks Tugs vs. Nine Rookies at Giddings and Avenue I; Alley Rats vs. Speedy Mustangs at Austin school grounds.

June 4: San Jacinto vs. Lee Street Tigers at Travis school grounds; Pirates vs. Zoo Zoo's at Third and Broad; Tenth Street Champs vs. Junior Spuds at Austin school grounds.

June 6: San Jacinto vs. Pirates at Third and Broad; Lee Street vs. Tenth Street Champs at Huey school grounds; Zoo Zoo's vs. Junior Spuds at Austin school grounds.

June 8: San Jacinto vs. Tenth Street Champs at Huey school grounds; Zoo Zoo's vs. Lee Street Tigers at Travis school grounds; Pirates vs. Junior Spuds at Third and Broad.

Captains of winning teams must phone the score in to the park department as soon as the game is over in order to get credit for winning. The park department phone number is 2-3183.

SONNENBERG WISECRACKS WAY INTO MAT BUSINESS

HOUSTON, June 1. (AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, former football star and present heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, revealed here that he "wisecracked" his way into the mat game.

The remark that caused Sonnenberg to be launched on the road to the title was made in a gymnasium at Providence, R. I., in the fall of 1927, while he was playing professional football with the Providence Steam Rollers. Gus was standing in the back of the hall, watching a preliminary bout and talking to the promoter. He was asked how he liked the show.

"Those birds are terrible," the future champ commented. "I'll bet I can throw either of them myself."

The promoter took him up on it, and Sonnenberg's teammates who had heard the remark, would not let him back out. He was matched in a preliminary next week, and decided to go through with it for the sake of appearance.

Fast Field of Cars and Drivers In Fair Grounds Program Today

"The best drivers and the fastest cars are entered for Sunday afternoon's racing program that I have ever had the opportunity of giving the flag to and I have been doing it for 10 years," says Don C. Oxley in commenting of the race program at the fairgrounds track to begin with time trials at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The first race will begin at 3 o'clock.

The complete program for Sunday afternoon is as follows:

Event No. 1—Time trials in which each car must race one lap of the track for time which will determine position in other events. Begins at 1:30 p. m.

Event No. 2—Class A race, open to the fastest cars according to time trials, over the distance of three miles, six laps. Begins 3 p. m.

Event No. 3—Class B race, open to the non-winners of the class A event and the balance of the entry list. Three miles, six laps.

Event No. 4—This is a special match race between the three fastest cars according to time trials. Distance three miles, six laps.

Event No. 5—Straw hat derby consolation. This event is open only to non-winners in the previous events. Each driver is provided with a straw hat which he must wear while driving, any driver losing his hat is disqualified from a chance at the prize money. The winners are the first three that finish with hats. Distance five miles, 10 laps.

Event No. 6—Sweepstakes, this event is open to all entries and the distance is 12½ miles, 25 laps of the track. Besides the cash award and usual points an additional 100 points are given to the winner of the event.

The 10 leading drivers, according to the point system of scoring, at the close of the program will advance in the quarter-finals of the national championship speed meet, according to announcement of race officials. Mihoval special No. 11 is the leading car now with a 200-point lead over its closest rival. Points are given to the three finishing in first, second and third places, 50 points to first, 30 to second and 20 to third. An additional hundred points go to the winner of the sweepstakes.

SPEEDY LANGHAM

BILL MATTHEWS

Lawrence, the owner and pilot of Frenty No. 10 from Harlingen; Hotfoot Evans, guiding the Frontenac No. 14; a D. E. Gardner entry from Harlingen; Pete Lambert owner and driver of Frenty No. R-1.

The race meet here is the last professional speed meet of the national series to be held in Texas and is the divisional meet of the Southwest, it is announced. The personal competition to so keen between the drivers that many of them are going to remain here in order to pilot cars in the stock car races to be held Sunday, June 9, on the same track.

Increases Lead Over Field In French and German Tourneys

Horton Smith's great scoring in the French professional championship, which he won with a 273, and the German open, in which he finished second with 287, has enabled him further to reduce his medal scoring so that he now has the wonderful average, for 87 tournament rounds, of 72 45-87 strokes. This does not take into account the Catalina open, which he won with a score of 285 last winter, because the course was short.

Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen also climbed while Bill Mehlhorn was idle, passing Bill in the standing.

Davis Team Wins Fourth Straight Match From Cuba

Wilmer Allison, Fort Worth, Victor In Detroit Play

DETROIT, June 1. (AP)—Wilmer Allison of Fort Worth, Texas, made it four straight matches for the United States Davis Cup team over Cuba by defeating Gustavo Vollmer, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, at Detroit Tennis club courts today.

The Cuban's singles champion put up the best fight of the final tournament but threw away his chance for the final set by double faults.

The match was a mere formality, however, as the United States has clinched the zone finals by victory in the opening two singles matches, Thursday and the doubles yesterday.

Disosway Leads Horseshoe League With 375 Ringers

First Presbyterian Church Heads Teams With Big Margin

The last third in the first half race of the Wichita Falls' Horseshoe Pitchers' league starts at Scotland park Monday evening. The First Presbyterians are leading the league by a comfortable margin and if they keep the pace they are now traveling should find no trouble in finishing in first place.

A checkup on the leading pitchers of the league does not show any change from last week's standing. Disosway, Presbyterian performer, is leading with 375 ringers in 38 games. Not so far behind comes Cromer, Katy hurler, with a total of 273 in 36 games. The other players are Hogan, Balthrop and Grimes in the order named. The lineups for Monday night are: First Presbyterians vs. Bailey-Moline; Katy Railroad vs. Gas company; Times vs. Scimitar club; First Methodist vs. Panahandle Steel.

It is hoped that another league will be organized at the start of the second half. There are several teams that have signified their willingness to enter. The courts are in good playing condition and horseshoe fans witness some excellent tossing during league games.

Phils' Slugger Only Player Remaining Above .400 Mark

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—Frank O'Doul, the reformed pitcher, continues to do much better with his bat, now that he has transferred his main headquarters from the Polo grounds to Philadelphia. The one-time southpaw owns a gaudy mark of .424, the only .400-or-better percentage for a National league regular, according to averages, including games of last Wednesday. O'Doul's heavy sticking has played a big part in keeping the Phillies at the top of the team batting heap with .314, the only .300 club in the league.

O'Doul also leads in runs scored with 37, while Chick Hafey of St. Louis and Charlie Grimm of Chicago are tied for the top in runs batted in. Each has 34. Andy High of St. Louis has collected the greatest total of hits, 58, while his teammate, Frank Frisch, has hit 17 doubles to lead. Lloyd Waner of Pittsburgh sets the pace in triples with six and Melvin Ott of New York in home runs with 11. Ott also was tied with Lou Gehrig of the Yankees for the inter-league home run title. Kiki Cuyler of Chicago has the largest total of steals, 11.

Burleigh Grimes of Pittsburgh continues to lead the pitchers. He has won eight games and lost none, in addition to saving several others for which he can receive no credit in the records. Grimes has worked 53 innings in 11 contests, seven of which have been complete games. He leads in both innings and full games. Guy Bush of Chicago has won five games and Sylvester Johnson of St. Louis, four, without a defeat for either.

Ervin Brame of Pittsburgh, Clise Dudley of Brooklyn, Harold Hald of St. Louis and Elmer Hearn of Boston complete the undefeated circle. Jesse Haines of St. Louis, with five victories and one reverse, is the highest ranking defeated pitcher.

Following O'Doul in the individual batting tables are these regulars: Hendrick, Brooklyn, .394; High, St. Louis, .382; Stephenson, Chicago, .370; Cuyler, Chicago, .367; Frisch, St. Louis, .365; Herman, Brooklyn, .364; Klein, Philadelphia, .356; Friberg, Philadelphia, .353; Terry, New York, .348.

Rogers Hornsby just misses the first 10, despite the surge which carried him from mediocrity to a mark of .343 within two weeks. He is 12th, behind Walker of Cincinnati, who has .347.

Following the Phillies in the team batting table are the Cubs, who have .304, a single point more than the Pirates can show. The Cubs lead in team fielding with .974, two points more than the Giants have. The Phillies are third with .970.

Stanford Walks Off With Athletic Meet

California Team Makes 45 Points to Win Third Successive Championship in I. C. A. A. A. A. at Philadelphia

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—Four record smashing performances, including a sensational half mile in 1:52 1-5 by Phil Edwards of New York university, brought the fifty-third intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championships to a climax today as Stanford university won the team title for the third year in a row.

The Cardinals from Palo Alto, coached by "Dink" Templeton, not only gave the Far West its eighth triumph over a span of nine years, but did it by the most overwhelming margin in 30 years. Not since 1899, when Pennsylvania's great team won with a record total of 57 points, beating its nearest rival by 29 points, has any team captured the historic meet by so one-sided a margin as Stanford.

Stanford scored 45½ points. Southern California tallied 21 points and Pennsylvania finished third with 18½ points.

To Phil Edwards, the dusky N. Y. U. flier and Canadian Olympic star, went the main honors as he shattered the 14-year-old half mile meet record of 1:53, equaled Ted Meredith's American outdoor record of 1:52 1-5. He was only three-fifths of a second behind the world's record of 1:51 3-5, made by Dr. Otto Peltzer of Germany at London in 1926.

Mrs. A. P. Terrell And Jack Hale Win Event

Mrs. A. P. Terrell and Jack Hale won the mixed foursomes golf tournament at the Municipal course Saturday with a score of 98. The tournament was scheduled to be held on Decoration day and was postponed on account of rain. The losers were hosts to the winners at a banquet in the Muny clubhouse Saturday evening.

Scores in the tournament were as follows: Mr. Hale and Mrs. Terrell, 98; Miss M. Cummings and Charles Kirsey, 105; Mrs. W. Milligan and R. R. Fisk, 104; Mrs. J. C. Philo and F. Rochon, 129; Mrs. F. Rochon and J. C. Philo, 130; Mrs. R. R. Fisk and Dr. A. P. Terrell, 106; Miss M. Kuhfuss and Patrick Dacus Moreland, 139; Miss W. Giddings and Dr. O. R. Cathorn, 119.

Jimmy Foxx Takes Lead in American League Swatting

Mickey Cochrane Climbs Into Second Place as Kamm Slumps

CHICAGO, June 1. (AP)—Topping the onrushing Athletics with an average of .424, Jimmy Foxx, Connie Mack's versatile workman who is enlisted as first baseman this season, replaced Bill Kamm of the White Sox as American league batting leader at the end of the sixth week of play, according to unofficial figures.

Foxx added 43 points to his average during the week, and his teammate, Mickey Cochrane, picked up another 35 points to go into second place with .383. Kamm dropped 23 points and slipped into third place with a mark of .366. Other leaders: Jamieson, Cleveland, .358; Narleski, Boston, .357; Fothergill, Detroit, .357; Manush, St. Louis, .356; R. Johnson, Detroit, .347; Dickey, New York, .346; Gehringer, Detroit, .341; Alexander, Detroit, .340.

Detroit found the pitching a little more difficult to hit during the week and sloughed off 13 points, dropped to .304, while the Athletics boosted their average from .297 to .306 to grab the lead in team batting. Both of the leaders have six men in the .300 class.

Other clubs in the league had yet to defeat old George Uhle of the Tigers. The veteran right-hander was forced to pitch 29 innings in two games, but he won them both and raised his mark to nine straight. For the first time of the season Uhle required help when he was relieved after the 20th inning of the long game with the White Sox. Bob Grove of the Athletics participated in only a part of one game and his mark was satisfactory at six victories and one defeat. Grove still topped the strike-out list with 53. Rip Collins of St. Louis and Eddie Rommel of Philadelphia each won one during the week for marks of three triumphs and no defeats.

St. Louis continued to lead the team fielding with an average of .976, and the Senators remained in second place with .975.

DRILLS ACCELERATE PACE IN WICHITA FALLS OIL TERRITORY

Big Wells in Jack, Wilbarger and South Archer Fields Stimulus for Oil Activity North Texas Sector

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Completion of big wells in Jack, Wilbarger and south Archer counties, the number of wells drilling and locations staked out in the south portion of Wichita county, and a general speeding up of all kinds of oil field work featured the week's news in the development of North Texas oil resources.

The week's best completion was reported in the Jack county area when the Security Drilling company's No. 1 Shanafelt, located in the Isaac Hughson survey, came in during the early part of the week flowing at the rate of 40 barrels hourly from a sand topped at 3055, which was penetrated one foot.

The well is also west of the Texas-Petroleum Producers Jones production and south of the Harper producer on the Mrs. Leffel land. In the same county the Shaw Oil company No. 1 Box Brothers, located in the north portion of the Isaac Hughson survey, and a short distance southeast of the Panhandle-Morrissey well on the J. M. Daugherty farm is in a semi-completed condition estimated as a 150-barrel producer. The sand was found at 3070 feet.

Northwest of Olney a short distance, but in the south part of Archer county, the Humble Oil and Refining company completed a 500-barrel well when its No. A-2 A. M. Kunkel in B. B. B. & C. survey was placed on the swab. The well, which goes on record as the best to be finished in this end of the county for some time, drilled 10 feet of sand topped at 1178 feet.

The United pool on the W. H. Taylor lands in section 17, A. T. N. C. L. survey, failed to complete any producers during the week but reported two tests in the salt water area. To the south of the United Producers-Brown 400-barreler, the pool's discovery well, the pioneer company's No. 2 Taylor tested the 1490-foot sand and bailed salt water. Later drilling went ahead in an effort to pick up the Texhoma-Gose horizon, but at 1635 another sand was encountered. Casing was set and cemented and a test will be made in the next day or so. Northeast of the original well Fain & McGaha's No. B-1 Taylor also tested salt water in the 1490-foot sand and is drilling ahead.

Good Ones in Wilbarger

Wilbarger county's contribution to the week's operations was the bringing in of several nice wells, the C. P. Burton and associates No. I-2 W. T. Waggoner in section 40, M. E. & P. survey, showing as the best. This well, which topped the sand at 1848 feet, in the first 24 hours swabbed at the rate of 700 barrels, but later declined to about 400 barrels. In the same section the Consolidated Oil company, and Shay interests are due to complete wells in the next few days, each concern having wells on the sand.

Golding and Cochran located in section 32, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, in the Rock Crossing pool completed their No. H-5 W. T. Waggoner in the sand at 2400-08 feet and it is on the swab making 250 barrels per day.

In addition to the completion of these wells, 12 new locations were staked out on the various Waggoner sections during the week, while many other wells, both in proven and wildcat sectors, spudded in.

Wichita county activities, as in the previous week, were mostly centered on the part of the county southwest of Iowa Park, and south of Electra, where a number of wells spudded in and the usual amount of drilling is under way. A few wells were completed on the John & Jeff Waggoner tracts, and west of Iowa Park. The best of these was the Golding, Cochran and Mayfield No. A-3 J. & Jeff Waggoner land in the H. George survey, which is swabbing at the rate of 238 barrels per day. The sand was topped at 1287 and drilled to 1302 feet. The completion of this well is also the means of extending the 1300-foot sand about one-half mile to the northeast of production.

One of the week's sales of oil properties and production was the purchase by the Arkansas Natural Gas company of Shreveport, from Staley and Wynne their 60-acre lease out of block 82, in the Wichita Valley Farm lands, Kemp-Kempner farm southwest of Iowa Park, for a cash consideration of $160,000. On the lease are 16 wells and a daily production of 300 barrels.

That the recent raise in mid-continent prices has had its effect on a revival of activities in all counties comprising the Wichita Falls district is evidenced in the locations made throughout the north part of the state, Cooke, Montague, Young, and Jack each being favored with one or more, while several tests that had been shut down resumed operations.

Pipeline runs from the different pools averaged 94,555 barrels daily, a gain of 51 barrels each day when compared with the preceding week's run.

FIRST RUNS IN GLASSCOCK OIL LINE ARE MADE

Humble Completes Carrier To World Company Well

FRATERNITY UNCERTAIN AS TO TRUE WORTH OF TEST

Numerous New Locations Reported in Fields of Howard County

(Special to The Times)

BIG SPRING, Texas, June 1.—Renewed activity around the World Oil company's No. 1-C McDowell in northern Glasscock county, consisting of new locations and the completion of the Humble Pipeline company's carrier to the area, coupled with the first crude runs from there, featured the week in Howard county oil development.

First runs from the World Oil company's No. 1-C McDowell consisted of 625 barrels of 27.5 gravity crude oil. The carrier was 42,000 feet in length, approximately eight miles, and is constructed of combination three and four-inch line. Officials of the pipeline company believe that arrangement will accommodate considerably more production than is now developed.

After completion of the pipeline, World Oil company's No. 1-C McDowell was placed on the pump and during the first four hours of renewed production registered an output of 135 barrels. Officials of the company were not wholly satisfied and pulled rods to replace worn cups. After installing new pumps, the well pumped 250 barrels in the first 21 hours between 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and 11 o'clock Friday morning.

While speculations still circulated through the oil fraternity as to the true worth of the well, the company made a location for its second test in section 21, the No. 2-C McDowell, which will be drilled 990 feet from the north line and 2310 feet from the west line of section 21, block 24, township 2 south, approximately 660 feet north and slightly west of No. 1-C McDowell.

Plan New Test

Another test in the McDowell area announced by the Penn Oil company will be known as the No. 1 Johnston, but will be drilled on the Cris Schaffer fee property, in the center of the south half of section 4, block 32, township 3 south. It is understood the Empire, Vacuum, Shell, Simms, and Atlantic Oil companies will contribute dry hole money to this test. However, if the lime is found running high in comparison with other producers in the area, operators will likely continue drilling to make a deep test.

The Houston Oil company has completed a deal with Dr. G. T. Hall of Big Spring to drill a free well on 80 acres and pay $4,500 cash for a half interest. The tract is the north half of the northwest quarter of section 30, block 33, township 2 south. Houston Oil company's No. 1 McDowell, as the well will be known, is located 330 feet from the north and west lines of the lease.

Perhaps one of the most interesting tests drilling at the present time in the southern portions of Howard county is the A. and F. Oil company's No. 1 Scrivner, 2440 feet each way from the south and east lines of section 12, block 32, township 2 south, T. & P. R. R. Co. survey, which had reached a total depth of 2480 feet last Friday noon. The formation was declared to be shale, but operators were expecting the lime within the next 30 to 50 feet.

Plymouth Oil company's two wells on the Knoh, Rumsey, and Abrams property in section 5, block 33, township 2 south, wer nearing completion with the No. 3 gauging approximately 600 barrels daily from sand topped at 2187 feet and drilled to a total depth of 2300 feet. Following a shot in the pay, No. 3 Kloh, Rumsey, and Abrams was placed on the pump and gradually increased its yield until now operators assert it is pumping around 600 barrels daily.

Clean After Cave-In

Plymouth's No. 2 Kloh, Rumsey, and Abrams, 900 feet south and 330 feet west of the northwest corner of section 5, block 32, township 2 south, T. & P. R. R. Co. survey, is still attempting to clean caving from the hole and has been causing operators considerable trouble. No gauge of the prodution has been available, it was stated.

In Borden county, the Gibson and Johnson No. 1 Higginbotham, the third of three wildcats drilled in the area, was shut down at a total depth of 2797 feet expecting to go deeper before plugging and abandoning. No. 1 Higginbotham is located in the middle of the south line of section A, block 31, township 1 north, T. & P. R. Co. survey.

Back in the Howard area in northwest Glasscock county, the Kirby Petroleum company, the Atlantic Oil Producing company and the Blackard-Oil company made location for new Ordovician tests, the first from the north line and 330 feet from the west line of section 23, block 33, township 2 south, T. & P. R. Co. survey. The operators expected to drill without delay, the first to be completed next week.

In Big Spring county have been shut down through failure of one or more producing and exploration companies to cooperate.

GAS FOUND IN NEW FIELD OF PECOS COUNTY

Pumping Started to Test Value of Phillips Well

INITIAL PIPE LINE RUN MADE FROM WORLD WELL

Reagan County's Discovery Producer Passes Sixth Birthday

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 1.—Pumping of 98 barrels of 24.4 gravity oil in each of two consecutive 24-hour periods by the Phillips Petroleum company's No. 1 Webb Courtney (Pryor and Wilson) which has opened Pecos county's third pool, and the striking of gas, reported to be sweet and estimated at three to four million cubic feet daily, at 1320 feet, in Buell & Hagan No. 1 University in Pecos county, 20 miles west of the Yates pool, were among this week's chief developments in the Permian basin.

World Oil company's No. 1-C L. S. McDowell, Glasscock county producer which several weeks ago opened a new pool seven miles southwest of the nearest wells in the Henshaw western extension of the Roberts-Settles field, was connected with the Humble pipe line Tuesday, ran its first oil from tanks that night and was to begin pumping as soon as storage was available.

Two new tests were announced for Irion county and one each for Borden, Glasscock, Howard, Pecos, and Scurry counties. Wildcats spudded included one each in Mitchell and Pecos counties. Two wildcats in Pecos county began plugging in to abandon and one in Borden county was scheduled to complete its contract during the week.

No. 1 Santa Rita, Reagan county's discovery producer and the starter of oil development in the Permian basin of West Texas, passed its sixth birthday Tuesday by pumping 30 barrels of oil, which has been its average for months. When this well of the Texon Oil and Land company, now the property of the Big Lake Oil company, blew in on the morning of May 28, 1923, the basin's only production was in Mitchell county, then about two years old and not very large. Contrasted with this are now over 2,330 wells in 13 counties producing a daily average of 350,000 barrels of oil.

Many Fields on List

In the list are fields that have eclipsed Reagan county in gross production, notably Hendrick in Winkler and Yates in Pecos, county, but none has possibilities greater than Reagan county's owing to the fourth pay opened there late last November by No. 1-B University of Group No. 1 Oil corporation, a subsidiary of Texon Oil and Land company. This wonder well, 8523 feet deep—the farthest point to which the earth's crust ever has been penetrated—from Dec. 1, 1928, through May 28, had yielded 337,656.92 barrels of 56.3 gravity oil. Daily average production during the week ending May 28 was 2,565.43 barrels of oil and 23,541,629 cubic feet of gas, 2,597.50 barrels on May 22 remaining the peak.

Rains almost daily this week in some areas hampered field operations. In the Yates pool in Pecos county, lightning struck storage at Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental's No. 5 M. A. Smith, in section 31, block 194, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co. survey, wrecked five 500-barrel tanks and destroyed 890 barrels of crude. Rains last week-end were particularly heavy in Glasscock, Howard and Mitchell counties, hail contributing to damage in places.

Forecasts of settled production by Phillips Petroleum company's No. 1 Courtney in Pecos county ranged from 50 to 100 barrels early in the week. The well yielded 375 barrels during the first 48 hours' continuous pumping ending at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon and intermittent pupmping up until noon Friday added 79 barrels. During 24 hours ending Monday morning, 167 barrels were pumped, being partly an accumulation during the shutdown, and during each of the following 24 hour periods pumped 98 barrels. The well is 1367 feet deep 22 feet in the pay, which is gray and brown sand. Some think the pay may be in the Rustler, which has not been productive in other tests.

Test Extent of Pool

The Phillips producer is 15 miles northwest of Ft. Stockton and 440 feet south and east of the northwest corner of section 78, block OW, Texas Mexican Ry. Co., survey, on a 9,000-acre block. The first test by Phillips to determine the extent of the pool will be No. 1 Browser, 990 feet west and 150 feet north of the discovery and 250 feet from the north and east lines of section 77, block OW. A machine had been moved in and a slush pit and cellar were being dug Wednesday. Only one 500 and two 210-barrel tanks had been erected at No. 1 Courtney, but two 10,000-barrel tanks were to be built. The oil had been free from water and there was practically no gas.

Buell and Hagan's No. 1 University, which struck gas Tuesday night at 1320 feet, supposedly in anhydrite above the lime, is 35 miles east of Fort Stockton and 330 feet north and 2310 feet west of the southeast corner of section 36, block 13. It has an elevation of 2760 feet, topped the salt at 940 feet and had its first gas showing at 1200 feet. The wildcat is around 23 feet higher on the salt than Buell and Hagan's No. 1 McKenzie, a failure two miles east and slightly south in section 8, block 604. Five miles northwest, Trancontinental Oil company is drilling in section 18, block 18, University land (permit 8852). It was drilling by a bit at 4312 feet, being one of a large number of wildcats now being carried to deep levels.

Transcontinental's No. 1 University (permit 8802) was one of two Pecos county wildcats that began plugging to abandon during the week. It encountered four bailers of sulphur water hourly from 2180-90 feet in lime topped at 2185 feet and drilled to 2,007 feet. Location was made in the southwest quarter of section 9, block 17, about 2½ miles southwest of George Anderson's No. 1 University, in section 11, block 17, which was completed as a gasser after encountering some oil. The other Pecos county test that began plugging was Trees-Empire's No. 1 Trees, in the northeast quarter of section 63, block 8, H. & G. N. Ry. Co. survey, about 10 miles west of the Pecos valley producing area. A shot with 105 quarts from 2116 to 2220 feet failed to improve a showing and sulphur water was struck from [illegible]-09 feet. Total depth was 2309 feet.

Get Sulphur Water

J. R. Bell and others' No. 1 Gray, about 3½ miles southwest of the Pecos valley area and in section 593, G. C. & S. F. Ry Co. survey, shut down at 1465 feet, after striking a bailer of sulphur water every three hours from 1438-40 feet. M. H. Black's No. 1 Pecos valley, in section 22, block 10, H. & G. N. Ry Co. survey, which promised an extention of the Pecos valley pool a quarter mile plus one location southeast, cleaned out following a shot with 30 quarts from 1618-38 feet. The hole bridged 25 feet off bottom. Before the shot the hole had stopped over with oil for some time. Rio Pecos Oil Company's No. 2 Yates, southeast of the Yates pool, had drilled past 200 feet. It is 170 feet north of the south line and 150 feet east of the west line of section 543, block 1, I. & G. N. Ry. Co. survey, on 10 acres secured from Skelly Oil company.

Harry Adams company Thursday spudded its No. 1 University 990 feet from the south line and 150 feet from the east line of the northeast quarter of section 12, block 17, one mile east and slightly south of the Anderson gasser. M. Stein of San Angelo announced that he and John Mages of Amarillo will drill a second test on land of the Pecos Valley Oil company in the southeast corner of the southeast 40 acres of the northwest quarter of section 36, block 10, H. & G. N. Ry Co. survey. Stein and Magee's No. 1 Pecos valley, in section 34, block 3, H. & T. C. Ry Co., had drilled to 1085 feet in anhydrite, Gibson and Johnson of Abilene, J. M. Kessler and other Oklahoma City business men awarded a contract to Thomas and Brann of San Angelo to drill a test in the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of section 3,

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—Production of crude petroleum in the United States during April was 80,110,000 barrels, a slight increase over the daily average of the previous month and an increase of 11 per cent over April, 1928.

"Of the three leading producing states," a statement by the commerce department said, "Oklahoma showed a small increase in daily average production over March but both Texas and California fell off slightly. Production in Kansas increased sharply as operations in the Sedgwick field made themselves felt. Another area of increased output was the Texas gulf coast, where considerable success has attended deeper drilling and extensions.

"Daily average production in Texas, exclusive of the gulf coast, fell off as the increase in output of the Salt Flat field was insufficient to balance the decline in West Texas. Daily average production in the Appalachian district showed an increase for the fourth consecutive month.

"Stocks of crude petroleum east of California increased slightly over 1,000,000 barrels in April as compared with an increase of about 2,700,000 in March. This increase took place entirely in refiner stocks, since tank farm stocks decreased —the first time since November, 1928. Stocks of light crude in California continued to increase but stocks of heavy crude and fuel oil in that state fell off slightly.

"Stocks of all oils increased 6,087,000 barrels during April and reached a new high level of 649,617,000 barrels. Over half of the April increase in these stocks was recorded in gas oil and fuel oil stocks and held east of California."

STANDARD TAKES OVER HUMBLE PRODUCTION IN LOUISIANA AND ARKANSAS

SHREVEPORT, La., June 1.(UP)—Effective at 7 a. m. the Standard Oil company of Louisiana took over all producing wells and acreage owned and operated by the Humble Oil and Refining company in north Louisiana and south Arkansas. This embraces 150 producing wells, with 4,000 barrels daily runs. The consideration involved was not made public.

Twenty employes from the district offices here are being transferred to the general offices of the Humble company at Houston. Half of the 200 field men also will be transferred to Texas fields operated by the company.

Properties transferred to the Standard are located in Eldorado, Smackover, Irma and Lisbon fields in Arkansas, and in Haynesville, Bellevue and Cotton Valley, north Louisiana.

Mid-Continent Oil Activities

(By United Press)

During this past week, there were 83 wells completed in Oklahoma. Of this number, 45 were oil wells, six were gas wells and 32 were dry holes. Locations totaled 59. The new wells had total initial production of 23,412 barrels, an average of 520 barrels per well. A majority of the new production was in Seminole county, where 22 oil wells were completed for a total of 14,385 barrels.

Nineteen wells in the Asher, Okla., district were drilling below 2500 feet today, while six were 3500 feet or deeper.

The discovery well, Simms No. 1 Laster, made 2,860 barrels on air. Prairie-Slick No. 2 Laster, best producer in the district, made 3,300 barrels natural during the 24-hour period ending Friday morning. The well is producing from the Viola sand at about 3674 feet.

Kansas had nine new wells to start in the last week. Three were in Greenwood county and three in Sedgwick. This is an increase of eight over the previous week and makes a total of 384 for the year.

SEMINOLE, Okla., June 1 (UP)—The Greater Seminole oil area produced 291,768 barrels of oil from 1,576 wells Friday. This was an increase of 6,762 barrels over Thursday's production.

Rain, for the last two days, has kept scouts out of the St. Lokiso area, making it impossible to obtain gauges.

Production by pools Friday follows: Little River, 79,968; Bowlegs, 37,828; Earlsboro, 57,738; Seminole City, 33,681; Searight, 13,006; Carr City, 14,733; Maud, 12,857; Mission, 41,957.

Daily oil runs in the Hendricks pool, Winkler county, and Yates pool, Pecos county, both of the Permian basin in West Texas, may be increased. Producers from this district will meet with an advisory proration committee in Fort Worth Monday, June 3, to discuss increased daily production."

Reports reaching Miami, Okla., today said Tom Slick had leased a large tract of land in Labette county, Kansas. The advices said Slick was planning to put down one or more tests in the locality. Several tests there have showed enough oil and gas to encourage drilling.

WICHITA, Kan., June 1. (UP)—Crude oil production in Sedgwick county hit a new peak Friday with a total of 35,513 barrels from 68 producing wells. Average production was 522 barrels per well.

Sedgwick county's 69th producer was recorded when the Aladdin Petroleum company No. 2 Benningfield in the Wright field hit the pay sand at 3376 feet and the hole filled with oil. The new well is rated by oil men at 700 barrels a day, equal to the No. 1 Benningfield.

OLNEY OIL FIELDS SPEED UP ACCOUNT ADVANCE IN CRUDE

(Special to The Times)

OLNEY, Texas, June 1.—The Olney fields have witnessed an increase in oil activity during the past 10 days since the advance in price of crude. Two exceptionally good wells have been brought in. The Humble No. 2, on W. A. Kunkle, three miles northwest, came in for 500 barrels at 1175 feet. This well was an offset to the No. 1.

The Continental brought in a wildcat on the J. T. Richardson five miles northwest. This well is flowing and will make from 350 to 500 barrels.

The Petroleum Producers brought in a 50 barrel producer on M. Phillips, a diagonal offset to the Humble No. 2, three miles northwest.

Petroleum Producers brought in another well for 30 barrels on Doc Whitt, two miles southwest.

The Prairie Oil and Gas is cementing pipe on the Falls River school land, eight miles north, at a depth of 1060 feet. This well is a rank wildcat, but the sand is looking mighty good.

Petroleum Producers has made another location on Kunkle, an offset to the big Kunkle well. T. Hutchings, et al., are getting down to a good depth on their well south of town adjoining the Country club grounds. Perkins and Butler are drilling on the Mrs. Elbert Hunt land, three miles southwest. John Dixon, et al., are rigging up on Coleman, two miles east. George Ray is rigging up for another wildcat one mile north of the Carey pool.

There are 20 rigs running at the present time within a radius of a few miles from Olney. Drilling permits filed with the deputy supervisor of the oil and gas division are coming in at a rate of more than 100 a month.

Thirty-one cities in the world have more than 100,000 telephones.

NEW OIL TESTS EXPECTED SOON ABILENE AREA

New Producing Horizon Is Discovered in Jones County Area

(Special to The Times)

ABILENE, Texas, June 1.—The biggest news in the oil industry in Central West Texas during the past week is that a marked revival of interest in the development of both proven and wildcat areas has been evidenced by the operators in this area as a result of the recently posted price raise for crude oil.

At the time the price increase announcement came, trading in leases and royalty rights was practically at a standstill in this district and no deals for new operations, either in the defined districts or on wildcat blocks, were in the making.

During the week just past operators, both the independents and representatives of the major companies operating in this area, have been getting together on new propositions and the next fortnight should see the announcement of several new tests and acreage deals.

Completion by Grisham-Hunter corporation of a 35 barrel pumper in the Davis ranch area in west central Shackelford county, for a quarter of a mile northeast extension of the producing area in that district was the feature development for the past seven-day period.

The new well is Grisham-Hunter corporations' No. 2 W. Y. and R. A. Davis, located in the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of section 20, T. & P. survey 13. Its initial production is greater than that of any of the other five producers in that district, all from sand around 1625 to 1640 feet.

New Producing Sand

Both of the tests in southwest Jones county that last week found a new producing horizon between 2860 and 2892 feet have been completed as commercial producers. Reports here indicate that a number of new operations to test that formation, which yields 35 gravity oil, will be started shortly, and all the wildcats in the districts adjacent, which are now drilling under contracts to test the Noodle creek pay lime found around 2500 feet, will, if dry in the top horizon, go on down to hunt for the new and deeper formation.

The new well completion in the Davis ranch district of western Shackelford county during the past week makes a total of six commercial wells in that pool so far. The oil is 38 gravity and is being taken out by the Humble Pipeline company.

One of the companies interested in that district is now arranging to drill at least five new tests there in the near future. Other concerns with acreage in the territory are reported to be planning new operations also.

Local operators familiar with the Davis area and the district adjacent to it are predicting that the next 12 months will see much development in that sector and the more optimistic ones are saying that some big wells will be drilled in that region.

Phillips Petroleum company's No. 1 P. L. Walters, on the north side of the Noodle creek pool in southwest Jones county, which last week discovered a new producing horizon at 2862 feet, has been put on the pump and is making 20 barrels a day from the three feet of lime pay from 2862 to 2865 feet.

After the pay formation was found last week, the owners were not satisfied with the initial production shown and drilled the hole to 2893 feet, but they found nothing better, in fact found no other shows and plugged back to the bottom of the pay and put the well on the pump. This well is in the northeast corner of the west 160 acres in the northwest quarter of section 16, T. & P. survey 19.

Texas company and Coeden and company's No. 6 Carter, in the northeast corner of the southeast 173 acres in section 12, T. & P. survey 19, and two and one half miles north of the Walters well, also found the new pay formation last week from 2892 to 2897 feet. It is now on the pump and is reported as an 80 barrel well. Neither of the wells from the newly found producing stratum have any water trouble.

Humble Oil and Refining company completed its first producer in Jones county the past week when that concern's No. 1 Bickley, a northeast offset to the Texas-Coeden's No. 6 Carter, and 330 feet from the south line and 200 feet from the west line of Humble's lease in the southwest quarter of section 50, T. & P. survey 18, was completed for initial production of 60 barrels in 18 hours swabbing from the Noodle creek lime found from 2472 to 2477 feet.

Phillips Petroleum company has announced location for a new test on the Campbell fee in southwest Jones county, to be carried as No. 2 Campbell and to be 990 feet from the north line and 990 feet from the west line of the 163-acre Campbell tract in the north part of the west half of section 15, T. & P. survey 19. The new operations will be a diagonal northwest offset to the same concern's No. 1 Campbell, now pumping around 20 barrels a day from the Noodle creek lime.

Announce Location

F. E. Shaheen has announced a location for a new wildcat in southwest Shackelford county. It will be Shaheen's No. 1 C. E. Bowman and will be located in the northwest corner of the south half of the southwest quarter of section 80, T. & P. survey 12, and will be a 1600 foot test for the Cook sand.

Other new locations in Shackelford county are:

Albany Oil company's No. 1 W.

The Texas Pipeline company will begin construction at once of a new four-inch pipeline in northwest Cooke county. The line will have an approximate length of 21 miles and will traverse a northeast direction from the Texas company's H. L. Dennis lease to a station to be built on the Embry tract in the Bulcher pool. From this point it will extend to Marietta, Love county, Oklahoma, where it will connect with the Healton-Sherman main carrier. The line is being built mainly to take care of the Texas company's production of approximately 2,000 barrels per day on the H. L. Dennis and other tracts in the pool. A gathering system is also being installed, consisting of six and four-inch pipe.

Robert Oil-Carter No. 1 W. T. Waggoner is a location made 150 feet north and east of the southwest corner of the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 17, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey in Wilbarger county.

Staley and Wynne's No. 0-1 W. T. Waggoner, located in the southwest quarter of the south half of section 9, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, Wilbarger county, is shut down at 1600 feet.

Wayne Hammon has made a location for No. 2 J. H. Bradley, 2700 feet east and 150 feet south of the northwest corner of S. Holloway survey in southwest Wichita county.

W. A. Patterson's No. 1 W. T. Waggoner is a location 1012 feet north and 2440 feet west of the southeast corner of section 1, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey in Wilbarger county.

Stivers and Streeter's No. 1 Mrs. Loffin, located in section 1667, T. E. L. survey, in the extreme southwest part of Young county, has been abandoned as dry hole at a total depth of 4370 feet.

The Gulf Production company's No. A-43 B. B. Burnett, located in section 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, southeast of Electra in Wichita county, a 3500-foot cable tool test, is drilling ahead at a depth of 3170 feet.

L. S. Harper has set casing on his No. 2 Mrs. Leffel test northwest of Bryson in Jack county at a depth of 2910 feet.

P. Shabay has made a location for a test to be drilled on the Oliver Loving farm in Jack county, 1012 feet south and 150 feet east of the northwest corner of section 2746, T. E. & L. survey.

C. C. Lanier and associates' No. 1 S. J. Hott, located in the E. O. Comer survey, block 10, abstract 580 in Montague county, has pulled pipe and been abandoned as a dry hole at a depth of 2502 feet.

The Petroleum Producers completed the No. 1 D. W. Whitt test located in block 160, T. E. L. survey, southwest of Olney in Young county, as a 25-barreler from the pay at 1022-25 feet.

T. G. Shaw Inc.'s No. 1 Oliver Loving, located in section 2744, T. E. L. survey, southwest of Jermyn in Jack county, is drilling ahead at 2475 feet.

C. B. Long and associates' No. 1 Fred Thoma, located in the extreme northeast corner of Archer county in the Spiller survey, is drilling at 1970 feet.

The Kewanee Oil and Gas company has made a location for No. 1 W. A. Hair to be drilled 446 feet north and 150 feet west of the southeast corner of abstract 605 in the section west of Bulcher pool in northwest Cooke county.

The Shell Petroleum corporation's No. 1 W. S. Tarver, located in the G. C. & S. F. survey near Thalia in Foard county, has a show of gas estimated between 1,300,000 and 1,500,000 cubic feet per day from a sand at 1945-50 feet.

The Lloyd Oil company has made locations for two tests to be drilled on its tracts in Cooke county. Lloyd Oil No. 1 J. L. Neuman is located 1320 feet east and 150 feet south of the northwest corner of the Neuman farm in abstract 211. Lloyd Oil company No. 1 H. N. Stark is located 150 feet north and 150 feet east of the southwest corner of the Stark 80 acres out of the Reed survey abstract 870, southeast of Gainesville.

P. F. Gwynn and associates have completed their No. 2 A. D. Thompson test in the southeast corner of block 11, section 20, A. T. N. C. L. survey in Archer county as a dry hole at a depth of 1500 feet.

The Shappell Oil company's No. 6 J. D. Lyles located in block 7, abstract 234, Hooper and Wade sub-division, Archer county, spudded in and is drilling at 500 feet.

Hodge and McCarty are drilling at 700 feet on their No. 1 C. Lane test 150 feet south and 204 feet west of the most northerly northeast corner of block 46, Meade pasture in southwest Archer county.

United Producers' and Brown's No. 2 W. H. Taylor in the United pool, Archer county, in the northwest corner of block 10, section 17, A. T. N. C. L. survey, was to drill out the plug from the sand at 1635-40 feet Saturday.

Humble Oil and Refining company has made location for No. B-1 J. H. Turbeville to be drilled 2150 feet from the east and 150 feet from the south lines of block 154, R. Carson survey, in Archer county.

Dudley S. Golding and others' No. 1 J. M. Bloodworth, located in the Cartwright survey, abstract 60, east of the Carey pool and south of Moran-Independent production in south Archer county, tested salt water in a sand at 1237-39 feet and is shut down.

Holcomb and Jones' No. 1 W. H. Taylor, located in the southeast corner of block 18, league 3, Denton county school lands in the southeast part of the townsite of Holliday, is drilling at 750 feet.

T. P. Coleman's No. 1 J. Longley, located 150 feet south and west of the southeast quarter of block 98, Jefferson county school lands in Archer county, has spudded in and is drilling at 800 feet.

Kruger and Clark's No. 1 J. H. Turbeville, located 1716 feet west and 2016 feet north of the southeast corner of section 170 Robert Carson survey in Archer county, is 950 feet drilling.

SEMINOLE LESS ST. LOUIS POOL MAKES 293,028 BARRELS

(Special to The Times)

TULSA, Okla., June 1.—The Seminole field, less the St. Louis pool, produced 293,028 barrels from 1,576 wells. St. Louis field is still mud bound, making it difficult for scouts to check the wells.

Reiter-Foster Oil corporation and others No. 1 Watkins, in 5-19-1w, near Orlando, in Payne county, had the Simpson sand from 4900 to 4920 feet for 3030 feet of water in the hole. It made 92 barrels from the Viola lime. The test will be deepened to the Wilcox sand, the water cased off and a test made.

Prairie Oil and Gas company and Tom Slick have two wells producing from the Viola lime on the Laster lease, in 19-6-4, in the new Asher pool, in Southern Pottawatomie county, and during the past 24 hours, made 5065 barrels of oil.

The Texas Panhandle field had an output of 81,310 barrels daily for the past fiscal week. It is the highest figure the Panhandle has made in more than a year and development in the plains area has taken on new life.

MAGNOLIA WELL IN PANHANDLE MAKING TEN THOUSAND DAY

DALLAS, June 1. (AP)—The Magnolia Petroleum company today announced the completion of a 10,000-barrel oil well on the J. B. Bowers farm in the Panhandle district. The well was drilled in at the 2891-foot level.

A 200-barrel producer was completed by the company on the W. H. Banta farm in the Earlsboro district at 4274 feet. Another well on the farm also was completed and is producing 50 barrels daily from the pay at 4354 feet.

FLIERS CONTINUE BOUND TO GROUND BY WEATHER

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, June 1. (US)—Tomorrow and Monday offered but scant hopes for the getaway of the two big airplanes which have been lashed on the sands of this beach for 10 days awaiting favorable weather over the North Atlantic.

Severe storms raging in the path of the two planes, one of which will strive towards Rome and the other for Paris, will delay their start until Tuesday, it was revealed by Dr. James H. Kimball today.

The curvature of the earth amounts to 7 inches per mile.

NEW LOW RECORDS IN COTTON MARKET UNDER LIQUIDATION

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—Moderate rallies from a slight opening decline met a renewal of liquidation in the cotton market today and prices made new low ground for the movement in the late trading. October sold off from 18.36 to 18.22 and closed at the lowest, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 7 to 10 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 to 5 points under overnight selling orders and some local selling promoted by a favorable view of the early weather news. The offerings were comparatively light, however. July advanced to 18.19 and December to 18.55, or about 2 to 5 points net higher on the more active positions.

Prospects for showers in the belt over the week-end may have inspired some early covering but evidently made no strong bullish impression on sentiment and the lowest levels of the day were reached in the late trading. July sold off to 18.06 and December to 18.40.

Trading in contracts for next May deliveries began this morning, the first sale reported being at 18.72 while that delivery closed at 18.66.

Private cables reported London and Bombay selling in the Liverpool market and said offerings had been absorbed by trade calling and covering at the decline.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, June 1. (AP)—Cotton prices worked downward today on liquidation by tired longs and some ring selling. Some buying support entered the market around yesterday's closing levels and October contracts closed at 18.13 for a net loss of 15 points. The general market closed steady at net declines of 13 to 18 points.

The market opened easy but disappointing Liverpool cables carried active positions off 12 to 13 points. At these levels July sold at 18.12 and Dec. 18.31.

The lower prices attracted covering by shorts and the market rallied 9 to 10 points but prices promptly started downward again under the impetus of long liquidation.

Prices worked lower for the remainder of the session reaching the bottom in late trading when July traded at 18.10, Oct. 18.13 and Dec. 18.27, or 14 to 18 points net down. Final prices were at the lows.

Receipts 3,405; for year 6,235,718; last year 5,294,684. Exports 5,890; for year 7,419,387; last year 6,831,688. Stocks 1,094,443; last year 1,190,788. Stock on shipboard 80,016; last year 111,117. Spot sales 3,651; last year 5,996.

Futures closed firm, 4 points lower to 5 points higher than due prices. July 9.76d, October 9.75d, December 9.73d and January 9.74d.

Spot Cotton Prices

DALLAS, June 1. (AP)—Spot cotton 17.65. Houston 18.25; Galveston 18.35.

NEW ORLEANS, June 1. (AP)—Spot cotton closed quiet, 17 points down. Sales 27; low middling $17.85; middling, $18.35; good middling, $19.90; receipts, 75; stock, 205,584.

Chicago Cotton Prices

CHICAGO, June 1. (AP)—Cotton prices were easy today on short selling and liquidation on more favorable weather. The close was barely steady, 18 to 25 points net lower, near the bottom for the day. Opening prices here were 11 to 17 points lower.

Cotton Seed Oil

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—The cottonseed oil market was comparatively active and irregular closing 10 points higher to 3 lower. Sales 10,200 barrels. Prime crude nominal; prime summer yellow spot 9.45; July closed 9.51; Sept. 9.76; Oct. 9.83; Dec. 9.75; Jan. 9.77.

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—Cottonseed oil was comparatively active and irregular closing 10 points higher to 3 lower today. Nearby positions held relative firm. While the new crop months lagged to some extent. Sales 10,200 barrels. Prime crude nominal; prime summer yellow spot 9.45; July closed 9.51; Sept. 9.76; Oct. 9.83; Dec. 9.75; Jan. 9.77.

Boston Wool Market

BOSTON, June 1. (AP)—The volume of wool moved during week has been fairly large. A large part of increased volume of business has been on Texas new wool of 8 to 10 months and a full year's growth, scattered sales were closed on new fleeces. Prices were fully sustained on most lines, excepting 48 50s fleeces, which declined slightly.

WHEAT UNSETTLED CLOSING SATURDAY CORN SOME HIGHER

CHICAGO, June 1. (AP)—Quick right-about face action of the wheat market today brought about prices upturns strongly in contrast with the recent long succession of setbacks. Aggressive buying from important sources developed, with trade leaders taking the ground that lowest quotations on wheat for at least some time had been reached, and that enactment of a farm relief bill and appointment of a farm board within two weeks could be expected. Best prices of the day, however, were not maintained in the face of profit-taking during the late transactions.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼c to ⅜c higher, corn ¼c to 1c up, oats ⅛c to 1c advanced and provisions unchanged to a rise of 13c.

Contributing to the upward course of wheat values today were indications that considerable export business in No. 2 hard winter wheat from the United States had been done overnight.

Corn, oats and provisions were responsive to the renewal strength shown by wheat values. Notice was taken that as against talk about corn being too high compared with wheat, cash corn in Liverpool brought within 2c a bushel of the price of wheat.

BOND MARKET FOR SATURDAY IS MOST ACTIVE IN MONTHS

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—The most active Saturday bond market in two months saw convertibles and foreign issues make further progress in a list that recovered some of the ground it lost earlier in the week.

European obligations, particularly the German and French bonds, responded to the reparations settlement by adding to yesterday's gains, although the advances were not so large.

Atchison 4½s and Missouri Pacific 5½s were well taken in the convertible group and each made a new high, the former closing at $1.20½ and the latter at $1.08 for gains of ½ and 2 points respectively. American telephone 4½s were up more than a point and International telephone 4½s took a 3½ point rise on the strength of the stocks. New Haven railroad convertible 6s were active at net advances of 1⅛.

The rest of the list, including United States government securities, was irregular, although the average showed a firm to stronger tone.

BUYING MOVEMENT CHECKS WEEK-END SLUMP IN STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—Bulls launched a vigorous buying movement in the utilities in the final transactions of today's short session of the stock market, which prompted short covering and strengthened the entire list, as it was slipping under week-end liquidation and short selling.

The Associated Press price index of 20 leading utilities rose more than 8 points to a record high level, and this but six days since the index of 50 industrials dropped to a new low for the year.

The response to the record-breaking weekly reduction of $232,000,000 in brokers' loans was rather disappointing during the first hour, when gains were confined to 2 or 3 points. This encouraged bearish operations, appearing to be centered in Radio, which was depressed 3 points to 84, a new low for the movement.

Federal Light and Traction and Standard Gas and Electric were high fliers of the utility group, both mounting about 6 points, the former to a new peak. North American Co., lost about 3 points in realizing, then more than made up its loss, closing about a point high.

New York Central was a strong spot of the rails, getting back to 200 with a gain of about 4 points, only about 4 points from its record price. Atchison jumped nearly 3 points to a new peak but lost its gain in profit-taking. It is rumored that this road may seek approval from the Interstate Commerce commission to declare a 40 per cent stock dividend.

Columbian Carbon, Commercial Solvents, Union Carbide, and Allied Chemical sold up from 4 to 6 points, and Burroughs Adding Machine jumped 10. Farm implement issues rallied from the low levels reached in yesterday's break, with Case, Advance Rumely preferred, and International Harvester mounting 2 to 5 points. American Telephone, Curtiss Aero, General Electric, Greene Cananea, Anaconda, Indian Refining, Mohawk Carpet, Republic Steel, and Wright Aero made moderate gains, some of which were reduced by realizing.

TREND IRREGULAR IN CURB DEALINGS SATURDAY SESSION

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—Public utility stocks dominated today's short session of the curb market. The trend was irregular with the usual week-end profit taking reducing some of the gains, which for the most part were small. There was little in the day's news to influence the market, and traders seemed inclined to hold off commitments until trading develops a more definite character.

New highs for the year again were established in the utility list. Mohawk Hudson power, one of the Morgan-Bonbright group of companies, shot up 4¼ points to a new high at 80. American Commonwealth power B and Utilities Power and Light new reached highs. American Superpower A and B stocks encountered selling and sold slightly lower, but the new shares gained fractionally.

The oils after an early period of weakness turned upward, with Humble and Gulf rising 3⅝ and 4⅝ respectively.

Transcontinental Air transport paid slight attention to announcement of purchase of Maddux Air lines of California. T. A. T. closed fractionally higher. Aircraft shares as a group were steady.

In the specialties group, Goldman Sachs rose a point in sympathy with recovery the last of this week in stock prices.

LIVESTOCK TRADE RECORDS INCREASE IN CATTLE PRICES

KANSAS CITY, June 1. (AP)—Livestock trade this week was marked by material price advances on better grades of fed steers and yearlings. A weak undertone prevailed on the less desirable grades and the price spread within which slaughter steers cleared widened considerably. The same tendency was evident in the she stock contingent. Replacement stock was in meager quota with prices firm to slightly higher. Chicago had a top of $15.10 on choice medium weight killing steers while in Kansas City and Chicago highly finished yearling steers scored $15.00, aggregate receipts were around 149,500 against 167,253 last week and 163,443 the same period a year ago.

Continued liberal receipts of fat lambs prompted price declines of 50c@$1.00. Fed lambs mostly 75c@$1.00 off. Total offerings approximated 217,500, a decrease of 28,000 from last week but 24,000 heavier than a year ago.

Hogs were unevenly 15@50c under a week ago. St. Louis had a last top of $11.00. The supply totaled around 462,500 as compared with 512,334 last week and 559,991 the corresponding week a year ago.

KANSAS CITY, June 1. (AP)—(United States department of agriculture)—Livestock trade around the 11-market circuit this week was featured by material price advances on the better grades of fed steers and yearlings. Replacement stock was in meager quota at all centers with prices firm to slightly higher.

Continued liberal receipts of fat lambs promoted further price declines of 50c@$1.00. Fed lambs mostly 75@1.00 off. Total offerings approximated 217,500, a decrease of 28,000 from last week but 24,000 heavier than a year ago.

Hogs are unevenly 15@50c under a week ago. Warm weather and a narrowing in the demand for fresh pork was the chief depressing influence. The supply totalled around 462,500 as compared with 512,334 last week and 559,991 the corresponding week a year ago.

CHICAGO, June 1. (AP)—Hogs—Receipts 3,000; top $10.90 for 215 pound weights; packing sows $9.00@$9.65.

Piece Goods Market

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—Cotton goods markets opened quiet, with prices unchanged. Burlap cables received here before noon showed little change. Calcutta, and the market here was unchanged with light sales of futures. Raw silk was quiet, with prices firm. Silk prints were selling well for late summer in fair prices.

Weather Delays Fliers

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, June 1. (AP)—Weather conditions today detained the men who hope to fly the monoplane Green Flash to Rome and the Yellow Bird to Paris. Dr. James H. Kimball of the New York weather bureau said the fliers could expect no better conditions over the middle Atlantic for 24 hours.

Rumor Number 999

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 1. (AP)—A rumor that Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were spending their honeymoon on Sapelo island a few miles off the Georgia coast could not be confirmed today. The rumor spread when it was reported that an amphibian plane had been sighted approaching the island several days ago.

GAS IS FOUND IN NEW FIELD

block 179, T. C. Ry Co. survey. Erwin Drilling company's (formerly B. J. Spikes) No. 1 Brown, in the center of the southeast quarter of section 8, block 3, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, had drilled Wednesday to 1335 feet in lime and anhydrite.

Southern Crude Oil Purchasing company's No. 1 Geo. Allison, 20 miles east of Sonora in Sutton county, in section 44, block K, G. H. & S. A. Ry. Co. survey, had drilled to 4848 feet in lime. It showed an estimated million cubic feet of gas at 4640 feet and struck 2½ bailers of salt water hourly at 4680.

Finish Fishing Job

In the Ward county discovery Hayzlett area, J. H. L. Oil company's No. 2 Hayzlett, in section 17, block 5, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, produced 107 barrels in 24 hours early in the week after fishing out 6⅝-inch casing, the lower five joints of which collapsed when the well was shot with 40 quarts from 2431-56 feet. Pay was topped at 2430 feet and the well drilled to 2488 feet. J. H. L. No. 1 Haylett continued to plug back from 2545 feet as the result of showing a half bailer of water hourly from 2530-33 feet. It topped the pay at 2455 feet. Atlantic-Delmar's No. 1 Hayzlett had drilled to around 1800 feet. The same company's No. 1 Hayzlett, northwest offset to the Shipley discovery producer, flowed 138 barrels early in the week. Gulf No. 5 O'Brien, one mile north of Gulf No. 4 O'Brien in section 19, block F. G. M. M. B. & A. survey, which several weeks ago opened a new pool in northern Ward county, had drilled to around 1800 feet. Gulf No. 2 Hutchings, two miles south of Gulf No. 4 O'Brien, had drilled past 1250 feet, after underreaming 10-inch pipe to 1204 feet.

Penn and others' No. 1 Bowles, southeastern Reeves county wildcat, in section 36, block 50, township 8, T. & P. Ry Co. survey, cemented 6⅝-inch casing at 5225 feet to test sand showing oil from that depth to the bottom, 5418 feet. The hole was straightened from 5002 feet to land the pipe, which shut off a hole full of water. This water, from 5175-77 feet, was thought to be all oil several weeks ago until the bailer was run. It showed only a few bailers of oil.

V. E. Cottingham and Glenn O. Briscoe, San Angelo consulting geologists, blocked approximately 7,000 acres in Scurry county on which they will spud a test within 60 days in the center of the southeast quarter of section 427, block 97, Houston and Texas Central Ry. Co. survey. The well will be No. 1 John Truss, about 2½ miles south of Fluvanna, and will be carried to 3500 feet until production is obtained shallower. In going this depth the wildcat will test the three lime producing horizons in the Chalk field in Howard county and the two lime pay horizons in the Westbrook field in Mitchell county.

Close Lease Deal

Moncrief and Farrell of Fort Worth were reported to have closed a deal on their 4,000 acre Borden county block in block 31, township 4 north, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, which will result in the drilling of a test, probably in section 15. The block has been turned to Humble, Moncrief and Farrell retaining 20 per cent of the net profits in the block and to complete a test to 3500 feet at a cost of $35,000. A location made in the southwest quarter of section 14, block 31, will be changed it was understood. Gibson and Johnson's No. 1 Higginbotham in Borden county shut down at 3757 feet, seven feet past the contract depth, to be measured for plugging and abandoning. It is in the center of the south line of section 8, block 31, township 3 north, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey.

Preparations began during the week for two new tests in Irion county. One will be drilled by J. B. Crawford and others of Tulsa on W. H. Williams' land in the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of block 8, Gonzales county school land. It will be a half mile south and a half mile east of Kimbrough and Flinchbaugh's No. 1 Tankersley, which has been showing some oil from a total depth of 1329 feet. The other new Irion test will be F. E. Webb and others' No. 2 Nutt, in the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of block 5, Gonzales county school land. Both tests will be drilled to 1400 feet. Fuhrman Petroleum corporation's No. 1 Sugg, lease 1, in section 3024, block 24, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, ran 10-inch casing below 1230 feet in red beds and anhydrite shells to shut off a hole full of salt water struck at 1215 feet. The test has an elevation of around 2400 feet and topped the salt at 750 feet. Kingwood Oil company's No. 1 Sugg, in section 19, block 7, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, thought to be Texas' deepest drilling test at present, had reached 858 feet in black lime.

Plan Test for Oil

A test for oil will be spudded within two weeks in Glasscock county by Kirby Petroleum company holding a half interest, and Black Arrow Oil company and Atlantic Oil Producing company each holding a quarter interest, on the Phillips land, about two miles southwest of Plymouth's producers on the Kloh lease. The new test will be in the northeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 23, block 33, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey.

In northern Howard county, Gibson and Johnson's No. 1 Read, in section 47, block 30, township 1 north, T. & P. Ry Co. survey, encountered 2½ bailers of oil in four hours from 2688 to 2706 feet, drilled to 2716 feet and ran 6⅝-inch casing.

The T. and P. Land company's Kloh, Rumsey and Abrams, trustees, sold to Schermerhorn Oil company of Ardmore, Okla., the lease on the west 240 acres of section 13, block 33, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, on the line of Howard and Glasscock counties. The lease was made on a one-sixth royalty basis, Schermerhorn paying $100,0000 in cash and contracting to pay $100,000 out of any oil produced. The acreage lies three-quarters of a mile west of Plymouth's production on the Kloh lease in section 5, block 32, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey.

Richardson Refining company of Big Spring filed suit in district court at Big Spring seeking an injunction to restrain the American Maracaibo company from the running of approximately 4,000 barrels of oil daily from its wells through the Cosden pipe line. The refinery claims that building of its plant was based partly upon securing this crude and that if it is cut off, it may not be able to secure oil elsewhere and will be damaged to the extent of $1,000,000. The original contract was signed by Henshaw Oil corporation, whose properties American Maracaibo company purchased. The contract expired May 14 with Cosden holding an option to renew it for six months.

PASADENA MILLIONAIRE'S FAMILY FEARS THREAT

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 1. (INS)—Threatened with violent death—by machine guns, radio bombs, and cyanide needles—W. E. Cooper, wealthy South Pasadena lumberman, formerly of Milwaukee, Wis., and members of his family were under close guard today, while investigators sought to trace the writers of a blackmail letter demanding $3,000, received by the Coopers.

Village Dialect Play Wins

With a larger attendance than ever before the annual play given recently by the people of little Grasmere, England, to keep alive the local dialect, was the most successful of any produced. Students of folklore from many parts of the country attended. Grandchildren of the players who started the idea were the actors, and villagers were scene shifters, property men and program sellers. The play, "A Will and a Way," written by Mrs. E. Rawnsley, a local woman, was rich in colloquial expressions. A local man wrote the music, which included a charming ballet. The actors were only required to be natural to get their effect. The leading woman was the daughter of the hotel proprietor, and the leading man a chauffeur. Others in the cast were a farmer's daughter, a joiner's wife, a grocer, a tailor and a plumber.

Funny Situation

LONDON.—One feature of Frederick Henry George Simkins' arrest is that he was pinched in a position very few are found in. Police found him underneath his overturned car at Maide Vale, where they arrested him and took him to court after freeing him from the car. He was charged with being drunk in charge of a car.

NEW OIL TESTS EXPECTED SOON

A. J. Hughes et al's No. 1 Reynolds Cattle company, 150 feet north and east of the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of section 101, E. T. R. R. survey.

Landreth Production company has abandoned its No. 1 Cooper, in northeast Fisher county, as dry at a total depth of 3229 feet. The test had shows of oil at 2770 feet and at 3227 feet, but of no consequence. It is 440 feet from the north and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 115, H. & T. C. survey.

Grisham-Hunter corporation's No. 1 Hester, in northwest Jones county and 330 feet from the south and west lines of subdivision 12 of the Louis Kratz survey No. 335 has been abandoned as dry with a hole full of sulphur water from 2845 to 2848 feet.

Two completions in the Reynolds pool of southeast Haskell county are due shortly. Superior Oil corporation's No. 4 and No. 5 Reynolds, both in the northwest corner of the J. Fenner survey are the interesting operations. No. 4, located 400 feet north of the same owner's No. 3 Reynolds, a producer, was drilling around 1400 feet at mid-week while No. 5, 400 feet west of the No. 3, is below 1175 feet. The pay sand is due around 1725 feet in these tests.

Oyster and Rife's No. 1 W. Y. and R. A. Davis, section 15, T. & P. survey 14, near the west line of Shackelford county, and two miles west of the Davis ranch production from around 1625 feet, was underreaming at 1400 feet.

Gilman, McMurry et al's No. 1 Cleveland-Fleming, central Fisher county and near the southeast corner of section 116, H. & T. C. survey 2, was drilling below 3500 feet at mid-week. This test had reached its contract depth of 3500 feet, but likely will be carried several hundred feet deeper.

Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company and Phillips Petroleum company's No. 1 Stevenson, four miles south of Roby in Fisher county and in the northeast quarter of section 24, El Paso county school land survey No. 317, is reported drilling around 1000 feet.

Texas company and Phillips Petroleum company's No. 1 Hall, southeast Fisher county, located near the southeast corner of section 6, T. & P. survey 20 was underreaming pipe in lime at a total depth of 3325 feet.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop Four

Troop four, "the Pirates," held the regular meeting Friday night at the First Christian church. The patrols met in their respective rooms, took the roll, and discussed attendance. The meeting was called to order by John F. Tuvis, scoutmaster, after which the boys in unison repeated the scout oath, laws, motto, and the allegiance to the flag. Henry Cooke, patrol leader of the Rattlesnake patrol, took charge of the meeting. Patrol calls and yells were followed by troop yells. Henry Cooke reported on the patrol leaders' conference of May 28. The scoutmaster made a few announcements and Chief Creighton told of the features of camp this summer of the trip to Carlsbad caverns and of the patrol leaders' conference. Announcement was made of the standing in the patrol contest. The Beaver patrol, Thurman Conrey, patrol leader, is in the lead with 1,795 points. A session of task passing was held. After a short game period, the benediction was given and taps were blown by the troop bugler, Lloyd Holmgren.

Camp

Reservations are open for the summer session of the scout camp, which will be held at Diversion dam. The first two weeks of camp will be held starting June 17. Another camp will be held in August for the benefit of the boys who must attend summer school, and a four-day patrol leaders' conference will be held following the August camp. Following the patrol leaders' conference, the honor campers will take a trip to Carlsbad caverns. The camp this year will be the best ever held in the Wichita area council. Chief Creighton will be the camp director and will be in charge of the morals and discipline of the camp. J. E. Kauffman, scoutmaster of troop 18, will be in charge of the test passing and day stunts. W. R. McClure, scoutmaster of troop two, will be in charge of the campfire program each night. These three men have been working on the camp for the past month or so and have arranged a program that is full of merit and will be of much interest to the boys who attend. No two days during the period will be alike. There will be different activities each day. A negro cook and two negro boys will be in charge of the kitchen and will take care of all cooking and dishwashing.

Troop 14

Troop 14 opened its meeting Friday night with the scout oath and the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Registration fees were collected. A star scout from El Reno, Okla., visited the troop. J. B. Cissell Sr., assistant scoutmaster, who is now in charge of the troop, read the scout bulletin. Compass practice followed. The meeting closed with the scout laws.

Archery Courts

C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent, has made provision for and is to keep up two wonderful archery courts at Scotland park for the use of Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, and others who are interested in archery. Plans are under way for archery tournaments to be held among the scouts.

Troop One

Troop one held its regular meeting at the Floral Heights Methodist church. Lowell Nichols, scoutmaster, was out of the city and J. T. Hamilton, assistant scoutmaster, took charge of the meeting. A 30-minute business meeting was held, after which several games were played, such as "three deep" and "nigger baby." The meeting was dismissed at 9:15 o'clock with the Lord's prayer.

Board of Review

At the official board of review held at scout headquarters Monday evening Thermon Conrey and Ike Lanier of troop four passed their first class examinations and the following boys appeared for merit badges: Ross Kerley, troop two; George Nelson, troop two; Richard Batson, troop 13; Harold Weller, troop two; Thomas Cox, troop 16; Robert Sheldon, troop one; John Waller, troop two; Theodore Brat-Cox, troop 16; Robert Sheldon, troop one; Raymond Moody, troop 13; Gnell Taylor, troop 13; Thelbert Richardson, troop 13; J. E. Cissell, troop 14; J. D. McBride, troop 16; Lloyd Nethels, troop 16.

Troop 18

Troop 18, John H. Kauffman, scoutmaster, held its regular meeting Wednesday night at the First Methodist church. The meeting opened with the scout oath, laws and raising of flags. Dues were collected and the patrol leaders gave the reports of the last meeting. A new inter-patrol contest was started and the Bat patrol was winner for the week. Pennants were awarded the winners of the last contest. Following patrol stunts, songs were sung and the scoutmaster's bulletin was read and discussed. An overnight hike was planned for the week-end. A leaders' meeting was planned for Friday night. The meeting was closed with a bugle call by Joe Batson.

CARMEL MYERS TO MARRY ATTORNEY AT LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 1. (INS)—Carmel Myers, motion picture actress, and Ralph H. Blum, an attorney, will be married here on June 9, it was announced here today.

In filing notice of intention to wed, Miss Myers gave her age as 24, while Blum stated he was 35.

FLASHES OF LIFE

NEWS TERSELY TOLD

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK.—"The strongest man in the world," so billed at Coney Island, six feet tall, weight 225, bites railroad spikes and the like, has been beaten up by a little fellow. Warren Lincoln Travis prosecuted William Pollock, 5 feet 2, weight 115, aged 60, for assault. They had a row over a realty deal, and William swung, undaunted. A judge let him go.

NEW YORK.—Daniel Long Wolf, George Sitting Holy and Roy Bear Nose are convinced the hurricane decks of bucking broncos are relatively quite safe. They are Indians, in town with a circus. They were given an automobile ride by an agency trying to sell them a car. Now they are in a hospital. The car hit a truck.

MILLINGTON, N. J.—Recorder Kenworthy must decide whether a parachute jumper who lands in a tree is guilty of trespass. Lawrence Townsend leaped from a plane and stopped in an oak on a farm adjoining a commercial airport. The farmer then started things.

LAKEWOOD, N. J.—Max Schmeling has been badly bitten by a bug—the golf bug. Training here he is more worried about eights on par three holes than he is about his next opponent, Paulino.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—Bartholomew Bresnahan, chief of police of Mr. Coolidge's home town, seems to be something of a diplomat. A startled policeman saw three Smith college girls drinking soda in a drug store and telephoned the chief. "If," said the chief, "it is part of the college educational activities for students to appear in public in one-piece bathing suits then I have no objections."

Burkburnett

BURKBURNETT, Texas, June 1.—J. C. Harrison, who has been attending Weatherford college at Weatherford, Texas, has returned to his home in Burkburnett.

Victor Davis, who has completed a school term at Norman, Okla., has returned to his home in Burkburnett.

Mrs. J. A. Moore was in Electra and Vernon this week visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Hayes returned to their home here Wednesday, after attending the Elks convention at Breckenridge, and the Rotary convention at Dallas.

Mrs. L. E. Blum had as her guest this week her mother, Mrs. W. H. Lewis of Wichita Falls.

Earl Carley, who has been employed by the Northwestern Pipe and Supply company of this city, will move to Shawnee, Okla., in the near future where he will be employed by the same company. Mr. Carley and family have resided in this city for the past 11 years, and have a host of friends who regret to see them move.

Misses Sadie Fleming and Virgie Wenz, who have been attending college in Oklahoma, returned to their home here this week.

J. D. Abers of Pampa, was greeting old friends Monday of this week.

OFFICIALS OF CAMP FIRE GIRLS ATTEND STATE CONFERENCE

Several high officials of the Wichita Falls Camp Fire Girls' organization were in attendance at a conference held last week in Fort Worth when permanent organization of the Southwestern district Camp Fire Girls of America was effected.

The states of Texas, Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico are included in the district.

Among the Wichitans attending the conference were Miss Mary E. McIlheran, Camp Fire Girls' executive; Edwin A. Bebb, president of the local council; Mrs. Maude Bartholmew, secretary in the local office; Mrs. Anna Barnhill, local guardian, and Mrs. F. W. Michaux, president of the Guardians' association.

Miss Lois Mangum, guardian at Archer City, which is in the Wichita Falls district, was also in attendance. Miss McIlheran, Mrs. Barnhill, Miss Mangum and Mrs. Michaux will also attend the national training course at Camp Grayson which opened Saturday noon.

The exhibit from Wichita Falls, which included ceremonial gowns, count books and many other works, attracted considerable attention and compared favorably with those from Dallas, Fort Worth and Sherman. Miss Helen Biggart, head of the national honor and handicraft department of the Camp Fire Girls, complimented Wichita Falls especially on the mounts of beautiful headbands and the ceremonial gowns.

Mrs. H. E. Hall of Sherman, who has been serving as chairman pro tem of the district, was elected president of the organization at the close of the meeting. Other officers elected were H. E. Gibb, Phoenix, Ariz., vice president; and Mrs. Elbert Williams of Corsicana, secretary.

"It's Wonderful to Feel Like I Do All the Time

Another Wichita Falls Woman Declares She Owes Her Present Good Health—All to Orgatone—Gains Daily

"For more than 20 years before I began taking Orgatone, I was in perfect misery from gall stones and pains in my back and sides," said Mrs. P. C. Gholson, who resides at 1 Austin Ave., Wichita Falls, Texas.

"When I began taking Orgatone," Mrs. Gholson continued, "my system seemed to be all run-down. My back hurt me so I could hardly stand up. I had no appetite, couldn't eat much of anything, and of course I was in a very much run-down condition. But conditions have changed since I have started on the Orgatone treatment. The pains in my sides and back have left me entirely and I am feeling like a different woman. Those cramps that used to bother me so much in my stomach are a thing of the past and I have no more belching or sour pains now. I can eat just anything that I please, and you would be surprised what a pleasure life is to me owing to the fact that it was impossible for me to enjoy a great many things that are so enjoyed by others. I am getting down as a real strong person, and if anybody doubts what I think of this preparation just let me know and I will tell them all about it. Orgatone is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Owl Drug Store.—Adv.

George Nelson Wins Prize for Best Essay Written on Laws Boy Scouts; Winner Receives Week's Free Camp

George W. Nelson, first class Boy Scout of troop two of this city, won the essay contest on the scout laws which was recently conducted by the local headquarters office, and will be allowed the privilege of a week's camp at Camp Ephriam Griffin free of charge as his prize.

All the essays entered by the various scouts were declared good, but the one written by Scout Nelson won, because of its individuality of style and expression.

Since the war of the nations in 1918 the methods and manners of the peoples of the globe have been changed. New time-saving inventions have been brought into use; new manners and customs distinctively foreign to any ever before witnessed by the people. The United States has had more than its share of crime and lawlessness due to the above conditions. The "melting pot" is having a more serious trial in converting new peoples to American beliefs and ideals. Lawlessness has been constantly trying to break down the will of the people, but there is a stronger force combatting the evil—the Boy Scouts.

The Boy Scouts of the United States have built for themselves a code and honor which will never be destroyed by time or custom, but will live on to inspire posterity in its adversities. The ennobling characteristic is the "Scout Law." The law of the Boy Scouts is inspiring, transfiguring and benevolent; inspiring boys toward better citizenship; transfiguring cowards into brave men and thieves into trustworthy citizens, and benevolent in aiding and promoting a peace so long sought for by the people of the world.

Interprets Scout Law

The "Scout Law," with an interpretation suitable for the mind of any critic is as follows:

"Trustworthy"—A scout's honor is to be trusted in any sort of deciding action. His honor is not like a shirt, worn today and discarded tomorrow, but is found entrusted deep within the heart of every boy. Every scout has instilled in his mind the knowledge of right and wrong and the instant and straightforward decision of his conscience and his felling. Although the badge of a scout may be taken away from him on the failure of living up to his honor, the boy does his duty and is trustworthy due to a stiffening of the vertebrae and an instant's decision of the will.

"Loyal."—The loyalty to a friend and master is the prevailing element in eternal friendship and good will. A boy is loyal to his patrol leader and to his troop, because he wishes for his patrol to be the best and most upright in the troop and the troop to be the best in the city. Boys are loyal to each other, because of the common bond of friendship and love.

"Helpful."—A scout is helpful to old people, women, children, the sick, weak and helpless, because of his loyalty to mankind and of his heritage of other scouts and ancestors. A scout is helpful because he is observant and because he has an everlasting kindness toward his fellow man.

"Friendly."—A scout is a friend to all and a brother to every other scout. It has been truly stated that "the only way to have a friend is to be one," and the scout will always go out of his way to be friendly to everyone he meets. The business that thrives is the one which has friends as clerks and patrons and the scouts can proudly boast of such an institution.

"Courteous."—A scout is courteous to every superior and elder by being both polite and civil. Any form of institution teaches its help to use politeness and civility in dealing with patrons and customers although being polite does take a few more seconds of time. A scout knows the people will judge him by his habits and by his politeness and courteousness.

Kindness Stressed

"Kind."—A scout is kind by helping friends and aged people and animals. The scout is taught this spirit of kindness upon entering the ranks of the scout so that he will gain more for himself and his companions. A scout is also kind by being courteous and helpful. A scout will not kill wild life needlessly, but strive to save and protect all helpless life possible. A scout has more of the milk of human kindness in his veins than the average boy.

"Obedient."—The obedience of a scout to orders is always instant. He obeys his commands with a smile and a willing hand. The call of his country will never go unheeded. The fathers and mothers of a scout have expressed their appreciation to scouting because of the teaching of the spirit of obedience. His patrol leader and scoutmaster and all other duly constituted authorities are loud in praise of a boy who will willingly help in every way possible.

"Cheerful."—A scout smiles whenever he can although is in severe difficulty. His obedience to orders is cheery. He never grumbles at hardships though they often cause him misery and untold suffering. Even the end badge of the scout turns up in likeness of the scout, whose mouth is always smiling.

"Thrifty."—The thrift of a scout does not stop with money matters but includes thrift of time and place. All his surroundings are noticeable because of thrift. His frugality in dress sets him apart from other boys. A scout is thrifty in his conservation of all forests and of all wild life. The boy who can meet every difficulty with a smile due to his preparedness and frugality, is really living up to the ninth law.

"Brave."—A scout is brave, not by continually risking his life, but by being unafraid in his heart and by outwardly expressing his bravery, not by words, but by action. Though the scout is always harassed by overbearing boys and bullies, he is always braver and manlier than his aggressors.

"Clean."—The most important law next to "trustworthy" is the law "clean." A scout is clean in speech, habits, and sports. His cleanliness is due to constant practice, and will always spread itself in his circle of friends. The scout's clothes and body are kept clean because of his likeness for clean and beautiful things. The scout believes that the boy who tells dirty stories and smokes is not clean and pure in heart, soul, and mind, and is not suitable for a friend or a companion. The scout is always willing to take his mother on his hikes or to his meetings because he is not ashamed of his companions and their crowd.

"Reverent."—The last, but by far the greatest law, is the law of reverence. He is faithful toward God and will always promote and encourage His business on the earth. His convictions are like a rock and just as immovable. This attitude of the scout causes him to be more appreciative and more respectful to boys of other convictions. A scout always attends religious meetings because of his love of God. Lastly, a scout is reverent toward God.

Damages Given In Iowa Park Rail Accident

Judgment of $3,500 was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Parton in their suit against the Fort Worth and Denver City railway by the verdict of a jury in the 78th district court late Saturday afternoon.

The suit grew out of a grade crossing accident at Iowa Park last November 3 in which Raymond Parton, 14, son of the plaintiffs, and two other persons were killed. The jury had deliberated since about 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning before reporting.

Mr. and Mrs. Parton were represented by E. W. Napier, local attorney. The case was tried once before, resulting in a disagreed jury.

SALTER NAMED ELDER LAWTON M. E. CONFERENCE TO SUCCEED DR. BARNETT

ALTUS, Okla., June 1.—The Rev. O. D. Salter, for six months pastor of the Methodist church South here, has been appointed presiding elder of the Lawton conference by Bishop H. A. Boaz, according to information received here Saturday.

The Reverend Salter succeeds and will fill the unexpired term of Dr. Frank Barrett, who died recently.

The Reverend Sidney M. Babcock, educational secretary of the Western Oklahoma Methodist conference has been appointed to succeed the Reverend Salter.

Summer Half-Holidays

WASHINGTON, June 1. (INS)—Thousands of government clerks were made glad again today that they work for Uncle Sam.

The summer half-holidays went into effect this Saturday and will continue until autumn.

COMMUNITY CHEST STATEMENTS PLACED IN MAIL SATURDAY

Fifteen hundred statements representing $13,897 that is due the Wichita Falls Community Chest on the regular June 1 quarterly payment by contributors were placed in the mails Saturday by Miss Myrle Neely, executive secretary of the chest.

Accompanying the statements were the fund contributors' ticket books with which it is hoped that a more accurate check may be kept on all transients.

This ticket book has several pages on which any chest contributor may enter his name and the name of anyone appplying for aid. These tickets must be taken to either the Salvation Army or the Wichita Falls Family Relief association.

"We hope that by getting our contributors to use these ticket books they will be saved the trouble of giving aid to anyone whom they do not know is worthy," Miss Neely said. "Whenever a contributor to the Community Chest is accosted by any person asking for aid he should give that person a ticket with instructions to report either to the Family Relief association or the Salvation Army.

"Officials of the Community Chest urge that all contributors use these ticket books, for the number of transients will probably increase materially during the summer months."

VETERAN FIRE FIGHTER KILLED AT OKMULGEE

OKMULGEE, Okla., June 1. (UP)—After serving on the fire fighting force here for a number of years and risking death many times, Ed Hicky, veteran fireman, was killed late today in practice drill when the ladder against which he was leaning came in contact with a live wire.

Hicky was holding a jack of the ladder truck and was standing on pavement drenched by the fire hose. He was rushed to a hospital where physicians worked for more than five hours attempting to save his life. He is survived by his widow.

SILVERTON MINER KILLED WHEN TRAIN CABLE SNAPS OFF

SILVERTON, Colo., June 1. (INS)—One miner was killed, one was critically injured and four others were cut and bruised when an aerial tram cable snapped and let six men drop 75 feet to the ground below.

Louis Sava, 35, was instantly killed and Luna Vicso, 40, was not expected to live. Sava was unmarried, while Vicso has a wife and two small children.

The cable, which was used to carry ore from the mine to the plant below, was capable of carrying many tons, but it snapped with a report like a pistol shot when the six men, riding two each in three ore buckets, were taken to their work in the mine.

NOTARIES IN WICHITA BEGIN TO FILE BONDS

The issuance of certificates for notaries public in Wichita county started with a rush Saturday, according to Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk.

More than 250 certificates for the two-year period beginning June 1 were issued, Miss Hall said. All notary certificates expired May 31, she explained.

Those to whom notary permits were issued during the last session of the legislature have until June 10 to file new bonds, Miss Hall said. There will be approximately 1,000 notaries in Wichita county, by that time, she asserted.

VETO OF PRESENT PRISON BILL SEEN LIKELY AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, June 1. (AP)—Veto of the prison concentration bill and resubmission of the subject to the second called session, was indicated today on receipt of a letter by Governor Moody from the prison board unanimously disapproving the legislation.

"It is so cumbersome and complicated it could only produce an endless round of inspection, reports, surveys and conferences, which would probably result in nothing," the letter stated.

The letter was signed by W. A. Paddock, chairman of the board.

Refusing to state if he would veto the bill, the governor reiterated his former statements that he was afraid the bill would be "unworkable."

The bill provides for a committee of nine citizens, independent of the prison board, to make a survey to determine the practicability of centralizing the plant on the present state-owned farms. Should it it decide to centralize on these properties the prison board would be authorized to effect the concentration. Should the committee find that the lands now owned by the state are unsuitable then a new commission composed of the prison board and three senators and five members of the house would make a survey not only of the present farms, but of the state at large in search of a suitable centralization plant. This second commission would report its findings and recommendations to the legislature for ratification.

Little Theater Starts Move For Building Here

The board of directors of the Little theater held a meeting in the Wichita club at noon Friday to close the organization's business for the season which has just ended.

It is planned to give a minimum of six plays next season for the general public as well as a number of private entertainments for the members.

F. C. McClung, director of "Three Live Ghosts," presented here last week, was named director for next year. A committee was appointed to select a site for a Little theater building here and directors expressed the hope that the organization could present plays in its own home next season.

Garden Club Is Formed Friday at Civic Breakfast

Organization of a Garden club was formed at the flower breakfast held by members of the civic department of the Woman's Forum at the clubhouse Friday. Mrs. Frank Timberlake was elected president. Myriads of flowers of every variety were used in the decorations for the the breakfast, with 30 different kinds coming from the garden of Mrs. Timberlake in the Country Clubs estates.

Mrs. Bert Bean, chairman of the department, presided, and following the invocation introduced Mrs. C. Haynie, who won the dahlia prize at the flower show sponsored by the forum last year. Mrs. Haynie gave an interesting talk which was followed by one by Mrs. Landon H. Cullum, winner of the rose prize at the flower show. Mrs. F. L. Mercer explained the planting and pruning of chrysanthemums, and Mrs. W. L. Myers of Henrietta talked on the cultivation of poppies. Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, who won the flower show prize for zinnias, told of the variety she used and how they had been planted.

Dr. Floyd Allen Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, read the ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

The bride's chosen flowers were violets and larkspur and the house was filled with them. She wore a gown of wild violet georgette with rose accessories.

Jodelle Gaines was ring bearer and Mary Jane Fischer, the flower girl. Mrs. E. E. Fischer played the wedding march.

Mr. and Mrs. King have gone on a 10 day's trip to San Antonio and Corpus Christi. On their return they will be at home at 2300 Tenth street.

Mrs. Liepold Hostess

Among the courtesies extended to the bride-elect was the pretty bridge shower given by Mrs. Eugene Liepold at her home Friday afternoon. A color scheme of orchid and pink was carried out in the decorations of thistle and larkspur, and the shades were also noted in the favors and refreshments.

In the games, Mrs. W. E. Maxson won high score and presented her prize to the honoree. Mrs. Liepold presented her with some lovely linen and the gifts from the other guests were particularly handsome.

The guests were the honoree, Miss Anna Belle Farquhar, Mesdames Alec Britain, Earl Clayton, Joe Cable, E. L. Fulton, F. E. Van Wormer, J. I. Staley, Jules Constantine, W. E. Maxson, E. E. Fischer, Max Shain, Sidney Gaines and L. T. Burns.

IN THE PICTURES — Dorothy Mathis and Ina Joe Ogle are pupils of Miss Stella Holt and appeared in students' recital at the Episcopal parish house Friday evening. Dorothy is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mathis, 1603 Polk street, and won the medal offered by her instructor for the highest average made by a first year pupil. Ina Joe is the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ogle.

Miss Mary Williams is a talented expression pupil of Mrs. John B. Rhea and appeared in students' recital recently at the home of Mrs. Rhea's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Moore, No. 4 Crestway.

Alliene Morrison is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Morrison and was seen in one of the spring programs the past week presented by the Knickerbocker studio at the Forum clubhouse. Alliene is a talented dancer and was featured in solo numbers, "Five Step" and "Where Is Pierrette?"

Dorothy Dell Norton is a pupil at the Pitman Art school and will appear on the program to be presented by the school at the Forum clubhouse Tuesday evening. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Norton, 2220 Talunar lane, and is one of the city's talented young artists.

ENDEAVOR SOCIETY SOCIAL AT CHURCH

Forty Endeavorers, members of the Young People's group of the First Presbyterian church enjoyed a social at the church Friday night.

A feature of the social was a mock trial in which Miss Vivian White was suing Shirley Donnell for breach of promise.

The attorney for the defense was Miss Fetna Biven, and for the plaintiff, Lowell Hogan. Miss Ruby Brown acted as judge and Larry Robertson as bailiff. The jury was composed of Claude Harris, Bonnie Holmgren, R. P. Willis, Virginia Crittenden, Leonard Volz and Mrs. J. C. Payne.

Various witnesses were summoned and each was quizzed by the attorneys. The whole crux of the trial centered around a letter said to have been written by Donnell to Miss White on a certain night. The defense attempted to prove that the signature was not that of Donnell. Miss White was called to the stand and acknowledged that Donnell had been very affectionate to her and that he wrote endearing letters.

After both defense and prosecuting attorneys had presented their cases the jury was adjourned to render a verdict. After five minutes deliberation the jury found Donnell guilty and the judge fixed a penalty of $20,000 and 10 days solitary confinement in the hands of Miss Anita Crocker.

Following the trial all adjourned to the parlor where a two-course dinner was served. The first course consisted of post toasties and milk, and the second of scrambled eggs, bacon and toast.

Miss Modena Howell, Popular June Bride-Elect, Honored on Saturday With Lovely Shower

One of the last lovely pre-nuptial events honoring Miss Modena Howell, whose marriage to Stanley Raub will take place on June 26, occurred Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Wayne Somerville and Misses Grace and Marguerite Haynie entertained in her honor at the home of Mrs. Somerville, 1921 Seventh street.

The house was lovely with an abundance of larkspur and sweet peas and the bride's colors were carried out through the afternoon. A Mother Goose party was featured as a program. The following Mother Goose characters were given in pantomime: "Mother Goose," Betsy Lee; "Old Woman in the Shoe," Mamie Remington; "Little Bo-Peep," Annabel Harrell; "Cat Came Fiddling," Thelma Norvell; "Little Jack Horner," Emma Seitz; "Peter, Peter, Pumpkin Eater," Virginia Boyd; "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary," Helen Cline. Rhymes were paraphrased in some instances to fit the honoree.

Mother Goose conducted the honoree over the "Rocky Road to Matrimony," and bade her pick up the packages on the winding way which led through the house. These were novelty gifts, tagged with rhymes suitable to the occasion. Among the packages was the lovely gift of the hostesses to the honoree, a rose and ivory boudoir lamp and a set of rose glass goblets from the senior girls of the Sunday school who were special guests of the occasion.

Miss Howell will leave early in the week for Tyler to remain with her parents until the date of her marriage to Mr. Raub, June 26.

Refreshment plates carried out the bride's colors with dainty green wedding bells tied with pink tulle bows for favors. The guest list included the honoree, Misses Emma Seitz, Thelma Norvell, Ruth Bergdoll, Elizabeth Beasley, Virginia Boyd, Helen Cline, Billie Leslie Stimson, Annabel Harrell, Mozelle Hodge, Betsy Lee, Mamie Remington, Naomi Dot Lunn, Ernestine Cantrell, Helen Jacks, Marguerite Gerhardt, Ruth and Susie Downing, Mrs. W. W. Silk, Mrs. C. B. Haynie and the hostesses.

DURLAND GROVE 1487 HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The following visitors were present from other groves and were given grove honors: Mrs. Martha Taylor, Wilson grove, 1761; Ina Gagner, grove 28, Altus, Okla.

Katie Lee Kalinec was taken in the order by the ritual and team ceremony and six new members were received by transfer.

An all day meeting will be held Friday, June 7, with a fried chicken dinner, for the purpose of sending Mrs. Pearl Young, team captain to the convention in July.

A benefit 42 and bridge party will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Young, 1602 Thirteenth street. On June 14 at Eagle hall, there will be a White Elephant sale. These benefits are to send the team to Seattle. The committee for dinner day is composed of Mesdames Louise Scott, Vera Walsh, Ida Roak and Mamie Cabiness.

A large bouquet of carnations was presented to Mrs. Alwina Prang, one of the charter members, the occasion being her birthday and the remembrance of her long and faithful attendance in the grove.

Orange Blossoms, Bridesmaids Other Signs of June Weddings Seen in National Capital Now

By GEORGINA WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Orange blossoms, bridesmaids in crinkling organdies, sleek-haired groomsmen in cut-aways—that's what this day brings to Washington society.

For however inaccurate the usual traditions of existence may be, however calm the air may be in March or however serious a drought may occur in the month of April, June still persists with its deluge of nuptials.

And by way of getting on early start at it, the chosen few of Washington's old residential set journeyed today to Wilmington, to see the opening ceremony of the marriage season in Old Christ church there when Julie Andrews—whose middle name is Dupont of the Duponts—became Mrs. Alfred E. Bissell. Just why she should have chosen to be married there, when all of her associations, both of school days and debutante seasons, are here. The only answer is that all Duponts seem to work out of Wilmington so to speak, by their very natures, and in this case it may have been just a reflex of inherited impulse.

The early week will be jammed with marriages of minor importance, but Thursday will find the limelight turned, once again, upon Nancy Benoist—they called her the "debutante divine" three years ago when she made her courtesy—who will be the bride of Henry Ravenel.

What the Lodges and Cabots are to Boston, that are the Ravenels to the South. And with this connection, the little gathering at the Benoist home Thursday afternoon will be one of those that are growing only too infrequent in this Democratic age. The Virginia Cables—the Pages—the Venables—a Randolph or two perhaps. Is this 1929 or 1829?

Saturday's heroine is little Marion Carmichael, very capable young daughter of Major General and Mrs. Roderick Carmichael, who is to be married to young Carl Dickinson, son of the representative from Iowa and Mrs. Dickinson. Marion's oldest sister, Jane, who married into the navy, is now on the west coast and won't be here for the ceremony, but her younger one, Kathleen, due to make her bow to Washington society next winter, is to be maid of honor. There is a brother, too, who is to be home from West Point for the occasion.

Perhaps the most important of all these early June weddings is that to take place a week from Tuesday, when Hester Ann Lefevre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howell Lefevre, marries the very youthful Gordon Lindsay Luke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Keith Luke of Devon Hall, Irvington on the Hudson, in St. Margaret's church. Here, on both sides, is standing of importance.

Charles Lefevre is one of five brothers, each of whom has made a distinguished name for himself in the professional world, and the most important of whom, perhaps, was the one who gained nation-wide fame in the chair of philosophy at the University of Virginia. Mrs. Lefevre is a native of Wilmington, and a close connection of the Duponts.

The young bridegroom is now a student at Virginia and the wedding is set for the day after his final examination.

ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW TO BECOME SPANISH FIESTA

A Spanish fiesta is to be held this fall instead of the usual flower show. Mrs. A. G. Holmes made this announcement Friday at the flower breakfast at the Woman's Forum clubhouse. Mrs. St. Andrew Myers of Henrietta, suggested that all garden enthusiasts plant golden glow that it might be used in massed decoration on this occasion. The suggestion was greeted with enthusiasm.

The Spanish fiesta will embody the forum annual event in unique decoration and program, it was said. Mrs. A. G. Holmes, Mrs. Arch Dawson and Mrs. Ben G. Oneal are working out the plans.

LAMAR BAPTIST W. M. S. TO MEET

All circles of the Lamar Baptist W. M. S. meet at the church Monday morning at 10 o'clock for all day monthly business meeting and royal service program. Luncheon will be served at 12:15 by the Mary Williford circle; all members urged to be present on time.

The Y. W. A. will meet with Miss Alene Fisher, 1709 Monroe, Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

S. B. ANDERSON IS GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY

The ouse was decorated in pink roses and sweet peas and favors and refreshments carried out a pink and green color motif. Mr. Anderson received many handsome gifts.

In the bridge game, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Chambers received the high score prizes and Mr. and Mrs. J. Royce Huddleston, the second.

A refreshment plate was served to Messrs. and Mesdames Preston Chambers, Bob French, J. Royce Huddleston, Frank Cullum, Lee Flowers, A. G. Hecht and Earl Shappell.

MRS. ARMSTRONG IS HONOREE AT PARTY

Honoring Mrs. Voyle N. Armstrong, Misses Mary Byman and Birdie Simmons entertained the officers of chapter No. 237, O. E. S., Thursday evening at the home of Miss Simmons.

The honoree, who is the retiring worthy matron of the chapter, was presented with many lovely gifts.

Bunco was played, Mrs. Ray Kenney winning the high score and Mrs. Nettie Cobb, the low. Tiny silk American flags were favors on the lovely refreshment plate served to Mesdames Voyle N. Armstrong, Anna Nash, Nettie Cobb, Lillian Ward, Margaret Bradley, F. B. Engle, Irene Swain, Bonnie Carter and Messrs. and Mesdames Ray Kenney, Dick Levy, R. P. Sherwood, James Pollard, Harry I. CONSIDER the groom.

Yes, please do.

That's what the bride has been doing; just sitting here watching him smile and wondering how she was going to keep him looking that happy.

Now at the Nunn Electric company, 909 Scott, they tell me that if the groom has nice crisp toast and good old percolated coffee for breakfast that he is apt to keep smiling all day. And that the best toast is made on an Armstrong electric toaster that pops the toast out when it is brown.

Busy bride, try this toasting method and serve the delicious stuff with golden brown percolated coffee made in an electric percolator from Nunn Electric company. They deliver. 2118.

Peggy Piedmont Says

NO, I AM not crazy about men, Kitty, but truth to tell, I have rhapsodized so much recently on the charms of the opposite sex, filling you up with weddings and graduates; making "much ado about nothing," as it were—for each in turn gives place to something new—so now I'm simply calling to your attention those lines from the poet:

Lives of great men all remind us,
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time.

This brings me to the approaching United Veterans reunion to be held in Charlotte N. C., which will bring together a group of the fast-thinning veterans some of whom are direct descendants of Jefferson Davis, and other leaders whose names occupy prominent positions in the history. One of these will be Miss Robine Webb, grand-daughter of Davis, who will be attached to the staff of Gen. A. T. Goodwin, commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans.

A GROUP left Wichita Falls Saturday at noon for the reunion and included Judge Edgar Scurry who will represent the W. R. Scurry chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. E. P. Bass, matron of honor from the local chapter, Mrs. Z. A. Hudson of Graham, chaperon from the Scurry chapter; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Woods and Miss Joline Woods, Mrs. P. P. Langford and Miss Elizabeth Langford, Miss Jonnie Morgan, Miss Camille Avis, Master Stanmore Langford, "Uncle" Jess Rogers of Archer City and A. M. Gibbs of Henrietta.

The party left on a special Pullman on the Fort Worth and Denver going from Fort Worth to Houston over the Southern Pacific. At Houston the Pullman will be attached to the Dick Dowling special that will go to Charlotte by way of New Orleans, Montgomery, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga. At Montgomery, a stop of two hours will be made and another stop of two and a half hours will be at Atlanta where the party will visit Stone mountain.

CONVENTIONS are the order of the day right now. And a group of women returning from one at Swamscott, Mass., include Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie, state president, Texas Federation of Women's clubs who represented the south central group of the general federation at the biennial meeting held there recently in the absence of Mrs. Covington of Mississippi, president of the group. Mrs. Potter is secretary of the organization. Mrs. Potter also gave the welcome greetings as first vice president of the state president's council at Swamscott.

The women were entertained at Washington en route home by Mrs. R. Q. Lee, widow of Congressman Lee, at her home with a luncheon. Later in the day Mrs. Lee also gave a reception in honor of the Texas president and party, at which congressmen, senators and their wives were in the receiving line. Among the well known club women in the state who attended the convention were Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, past president of the general federation of women's clubs; Mrs. Florence C. Floore, finance chairman; Mrs. Maggie W. Barry, director to the general federation from Texas; Mrs. A. H. Bailey, state chairman of art; Mrs. R. F. Lindsey, state chairman of transportation; Mrs. J. L. Lovejoy, life member; Mrs. E. H. Slaytor, Mrs. J. E. King, chairman to the general federation; Mrs. R. Q. Lee, state parliamentarian and general federation chairman; Mrs. W. I. Whitsell, state chairman of education in the home; Mrs. I. D. Cole, state chairman of music; Mrs. D. S. Peden, state chairman of community service; Mrs. James A. Britian, state chairman of literature; Mrs. R. E. Buchanan, life member; Mrs. Volney Taylor, state chairman; Mrs. W. R. Potter, president Texas Federation of Women's clubs, and Mrs. John Perry, president of the sixth district, Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

OUR YARDS abloom with roses, larkspur and numerous other gorgeous flowers are so beautiful this season that they are being talked about in glowing terms of admiration everywhere. One Wichita away up in a northern state wrote me that she had heard about them and that it gave her quite a thrill, as she always felt that Wichita Falls could do herself proud with her beautiful roses.

Quoting from an editorial "Beauty as An Investment," where the editor said, "the South goes garmented in beauty as the days pass by, with no place more lovely than scenes in many of the southern states. Tales of beauty come from far and near. The marvelous gardens of Charleston, Va., are unrivaled as is the rare old town itself; New Orleans is a dream of old world things with its courtyards and iron grills, its half tropic flowers and its perfumed air; the east Tennessee countryside is lovely with its gardens, orchards and curving river banks, with green hillsides and marvelous mountains veiled in springtime mysteries of green and bloom; Selma, Ala., is 'a garden of the Lord,' with century-old trees and enveloping wisteria, with japonica and Spanish yucca and marvelous verbenas extending to the country mile on mile in great sheets of purple and white.

"Mobile is set along the Azela trail with gorgeous blossoms that flame and bloom 'in the gardens of the rich and the yards of the poor, that border walks and drives and grow along the streets and light up the parks.'

"Galveston is known as the City of oleanders, and at this season of the year is abloom with the lovely white and pink blossoms which border miles and miles of streets and highways.

"The Progressive Farmer has recently told the tale in a letter written by Mrs. Lindsay Patterson of the glories she has seen and making the point that a beauty loving people is a wise people and that they conserve their inheritance rather than neglect and scatter it."

The women of Wichita Falls are taking much interest in their yards, with the result that the city is fast gaining the reputation of being one of the jolliest in Texas.

So plan your vacation friend o' mine so that you can come south and enjoy some of its beauties with—

Peggy Piedmont

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN BY BOYS AND GIRLS IN CITY ARCHERY COURTS

Much interest is being shown by the boys and girls of the city in the three archery courts arranged on the east side of Scotland park, C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, said Saturday.

Both boys and girls are taking advantage of the archery courts and are using them daily. Boy Scouts of the city are planning to arrange an archery tournament for the near future.

PROMINENT COUPLE WED IN WHEELING

MISS MADELYN ELIZABETH WEISS

With the bridal party representing six states, there was widespread interest in the wedding of Mr. Henry Lane Kinnucan of Grosse Pointe Village, Mich., and Miss Madelyn Elizabeth Weiss, which occurred at Elmwood, the Weiss estate at Wheeling, West Va., Saturday afternoon.

The bride, who attended Rosemary hall and graduated from Ely Court at Greenwich, Conn., is the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Erhard Weiss. Her gown was of lustrous ivory satin, cut in simple smart lines with long tight sleeves. The back was made princess, the skirt circular and short in front, graduating to the full bridal train in the back. Her veil was of old rose point lace and tulle, banded with orange blossoms. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Philbert Rodier of Cleveland was matron of honor. The bridesmaids wore chiffon, four in hydrangea blue and four in citron yellow with cinnamon color horsehair hats and pumps. They were Miss Bernice Chrysler, New York City; Mrs. Robert Shillington, St. Louis; Misses Mary Morehouse, Columbus, and Lydia Speidel, Betty Bloch, Lucile Aul, Jane Maxwell and Nancy Hersey, all of Wheeling. The maids' bouquets were Talisman roses and blue delphinium harmonizing with their gowns.

The groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Kinnucan of Grosse Point Village, is a graduate of Georgetown college and associated with the Michigan Investment company. He was attended by his brother, Mr. J. Dwyer Kinnucan. The ushers were Messrs. J. F. Reynolds, Grosse Pointe farms; Joseph J. McFawn, Grosse Pointe park; Thomas H. Conway Jr., and Lewis H. Daily, Detroit; William F. Donovan Jr., Toledo; George Carmody, Atlantic City; and Fred P. Stamp and William E. Weiss Jr., of Wheeling.

The reception, attended by several hundred guests from east, west and north, was one of the most brilliant events in Wheeling's social history.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinnucan are to spend their honeymoon abroad.

MASONIC BODIES AT OLNEY ELECT OFFICERS

OLNEY, Texas, June 1.—Officers of the Royal Arch chapter, No. 307 of Olney were elected at the last regular meeting held on last Thursday night at the Masonic hall. The installation ceremonies will take place at the Masonic hall on June 24. Those elected were:

W. F. Standridge, most excellent high priest; Edd Hennig, excellent king; A. T. Gray, excellent scribe; E. W. Hunt, treasurer; R. A. Drum, secretary; J. R. Wilson, guard; J. M. Standridge, captain of host; C. E. Lutz, Royal Arch captain; O. M. Burris, principal sojourner; and W. F. Bailey, W. E. Collins, masters of the third, second and first veils respectively.

The Olney Council No. 242 of Masons, has chosen as officers for the ensuing year: W. F. Standridge, thrice illustrious master; Edd Henning, deputy master; A. T. Gray, principal conductor of work; E. W. Hunt, treasurer; R. A. Drum, recorder; J. M. Standridge, captain of guard; O. M. Burris, conductor; C. E. Lutz, steward; and J. R. Wilson, sentinel.

MUNICIPAL BAND TO BE FEATURE OF VAUDEVILLE BILL THURSDAY EVENING

The Wichita Falls Municipal band, under the direction of Paul Seeds, will play several numbers on the vaudeville program to be presented next Thursday night at Bellevue park, C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, announced Saturday.

Another feature of the bill will be a piano duet by Mrs. Beatrice Fleming and Miss Amy Ruth Highsmith. Miss Highsmith is a student of Mrs. Fleming's.

Mr. Bunnenberg says that he expects next Thursday night's bill to be unusually entertaining. Preparations will be made to accommodate a large crowd at the park.

Last summer German commercial aeroplanes flew some 45,000 miles a day. British planes averaged 3,000 miles a day.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Red Cross First Aid Class

The first aid class met Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 2 o'clock at Camp Fire headquarters. Miss Harkins, Red Cross nurse, took charge of the course Monday after Miss Elrod had left for Portland, Ore. A brief review of previous study was made Monday afternoon. Wednesday was spent in discussion of injuries where the skin is not broken. Miss Harkins explained and demonstrated the use of the splints and cravat for a broken bone. A discussion of the circulatory system and what to do in case of bleeding was conducted by Miss Harkins Friday afternoon. She also talked on treatment of burns and fire prevention. Two girls carried out in pantomime the treatment of a broken arm from the discovery of the injured patient to placing the arm in a sling.

The first aid class will meet again on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of this week at 2 o'clock in order that the course may be completed in a much shorter length of time. All those who belong to the class and those who do not belong but would like to know more about artificial respiration, rescuing and treatment of patient for electrical shock, are invited to attend.

No Guardians' Meeting in June

Due to the fact that the executive and several of the guardians are out of town, the regular business meeting that was to have been held on Tuesday, June 4, has been canceled. I. the weather is fair, the picnic to be held on June 12 for the council members and the guardians, will be the substitute for the regular meeting.

Wakonna Group

Wakonna group met Wednesday afternoon. The group contest was lost by Mary Vernon's division. The losing side was to have given a swimming party Thursday, but the party was postponed on account of rain. At the meeting Wednesday, several officers were elected. Those present were Ruth Jones, Mary Vernon, June Trim, Hesteline Wilson, Jean Worley, Annette Beeman, Mary Elizabeth Smith and Juanita Holmes.

Adi-Iwah Group

Adi-Iwah group met Wednesday afternoon at Camp Fire headquarters, and planned in detail the morning picnic for June 5 at Weeks park. The girls will meet at Edith McClure's home in the morning and hike from there to Weeks park. Plans have been made to take kodak pictures, to collect rustic material for a bird bath to be made for Torch Bearer's rank, and to practice signaling by the wigwag system. Three of the Fire Makers are planning to take their highest rank in nature craft and one will qualify as leader in camp craft.

Watonopa Group

The Watanopa group met Friday afternoon at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Lucile Arrington. Plans were made for summer activities. A slumber party will be held Monday, June 3, at the home of the guardian. Tuesday morning the girls will go to Westmoreland for an early morning swim and breakfast, to be cooked out-of-doors.

Wi-He-Tonga Group

Wi-he-tonga group met at the home of Mrs. Zimmerman, 1302 Ninth street, on Friday afternoon, and opened the meeting with a short business meeting. A swimming party was planned for Monday at 4 o'clock at Westmoreland pool, after which the girls are to go to the guardian's home for a slumber party. The next morning a hike will be taken to Weeks park where the girls will cook their breakfasts.

Ah-Son-Zong Group

Ah-Son-Zong group met at Dorothy Gothard's home, and held a short business meeting. A candy sale was planned for Saturday, June 8. The girls sang "Mammy Moon" and the "Blessing," and repeated the "Good Gatherer's Desire." Those present were Vercella Luchus, Lucile Willis, Lois Key and Dorothy Gothard.

STOCK MARKET REPORTS FOR PLANE PASSENGERS

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—Aeroplane passengers of the future may expect to listen regularly to market reports, baseball scores and musical programs, if the prediction of W. P. McCracken Jr., assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, comes true.

"These programs could be tuned in right now, for that matter," McCracken indicates. "In favorable weather the pilot of a properly equipped plane has no need of his radio apparatus."

McCracken predicts that great developments will be made along the line of radio transmission from ground to plane and from plane to ground.

Customs Service Takes 'Pull' Out Of Baggage Entry

WASHINGTON, June 1. (INS)—The treasury department announced today a net set of regulations which they hope will remove the so-called American "pull" from the customs service.

It concerns the privilege of "expeditious examination of baggage" at the country's seaports which will be granted in the future in only "emergency cases."

Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury said permits for immediate inspection of baggage will be given only passengers who are accompanying a corpse, ill or infirm relatives or friends, or who have been summoned home by "news of affliction or disaster." In short the new order cuts considerably the "drag" some Americans enforce upon their return from foreign countries.

FOOD SAVED FOR A WEEK
STILL FRESH AND GOOD

GENERAL ELECTRIC
Refrigerator
You will be amazed to find that the bit of food which may have escaped notice in a far corner of a General Electric Refrigerator for a week or more is brought out in perfect condition. This alone gives you new ways of menu-planning.
In the old days, a roast or a leg of lamb had to be eaten in a hurry. Now, with a General Electric Refrigerator, today's left-over meat need no longer be tomorrow's hash. This is a new leeway that proves a surprising help. It reduces the number of trips to market. It makes advantageous buying possible.
And the delightfully crisp salads and luscious frozen desserts which you can now so easily make, add a new and welcome zest to every meal. Why not come in and see these revolutionary refrigerators that need no attention — not even oiling? They are priced within the means of all.

HOOVER MAKES TRIO OF MOVES TO BRING NAVAL CUT PARLEY

President Continues Steps For World Disarmament Conferences

STIMSON ASSISTS CHIEF IN BUILDING UP TREND

British Labor Party Also Strongly in Favor of Armament Slash

WASHINGTON, June 1. (INS)—President Hoover has made three distinct and significant moves toward a new naval disarmament conference in as many months.

From that fact may be judged the determination of the new administration to keep hammering away at the world powers until they consent to gather around the conference table and discuss—not only limitation—but actual reduction of existing naval establishments.

The first move was made through Ambassador Hugh Gibson almost at the outset of the new administration, when he informed the powers assembled at Geneva that the United States stood ready to reach an agreement on the basis of "relative" naval needs.

Memorial day witnessed the second step. Standing before the thousands of graves in Arlington cemetery, Mr. Hoover pleaded for naval reduction on humanitarian and moral grounds.

Yesterday saw the unusual move of Secretary of State Stimson issuing a formal statement, calling the world's attention to the enormous economic burden it is carrying with existing navies, and inferentially warning the powers that the United States can outbuild them all if and when necessary.

Neither President Hoover's Memorial day speech nor Secretary Stimson's unprecedented statement were designed for American consumption. They were directed abroad.

Administration officials said today it was only a coincidence that the Stimson statement came on the same day that the Labor party seemed destined to form the next British government.

The Labor party is committed to pursuing naval disarmament to the last degree consistent with British safety, and there is no more persistent advocate of an agreement with the United States than Ramsay MacDonald, the Labor party leader who probably will be the next prime minister. Not much progress has been made toward further naval reduction or limitation under the Conservative government of Premier Baldwin.

How soon it will be possible to realize a conference seemed to depend today somewhat upon the exigencies of British politics. Political turmoil in England with another general election imminent could very well delay a conference indefinitely. On the other hand, if Labor can form a government assured of some stability and endurance, it might be possible to realize a conference within a year.

Both Lloyd George and MacDonald attacked the Baldwin government in the British campaign as "the enemies of peace" and criticised its slow plodding toward further naval agreement. Should they now stand together in a coalition government an early Anglo-American agreement becomes a distinct possibility.

NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN BY LIONS AT ELECTRA

ELECTRA, Texas, June 1.—Election of officers for the coming year, short talks of appreciation for and by outgoing officers, and introduction of visitors kept the Lions club meeting Wednesday very active during nearly two hours.

Rev. H. E. Anderson gave the invocation following the singing of "America" by the members. N. S. Nelson was introduced as a visitor and made a short address. A vote of thanks was given the officers of the present administration and announcement was made that installation of officers would take place Thursday evening, June 6, at the Lions club park. The following officers were elected, with F. M. Baker, E. E. Rogers and C. W. Coffee in charge of the ballot boxes. W. A. Asbill, president; G. J. Gillis, first vice president; W. M. Asbill, second vice president; Ray Cox, third vice president; Wayne Gillispie, secretary-treasurer; Sam Hill, lion tamer; R. R. Ramey, tail twister; and L. B. Slaughter and B. W. Tipton, directors.

NEGRO CLAIMS HE SHOT 'HEX'

Oklahoma Slayer Places Blame on Spirits

YAHOLA, Okla., June 1. (UP)—Tobe Boyd, negro, who has "been bothered by spirits for more than two years," early today invaded the home of W. E. Stewart, and after accusing the merchant of being the cause of his "hex" shot him twice.

The negro, after killing Stewart, ran around to the back door of the home and attempted to break into the back bed room where Mrs. Stewart and her children were still in bed. They were screaming for help after hearing shots in the front of their house.

Carl Churchill, a neighbor, was roused out of bed by the shots and screams and ran over to the Stewart home to receive a volley of shots from the crazed negro's revolver. He was killed instantly.

Gus Whittaker, Yahola deputy sheriff, was summoned by panic-stricken neighbors. He slipped around to the back door where Boyd still was trying to force entrance into the home. Whittaker shot the negro several times. Boyd was taken to a Muskogee hospital where physicians said he was fatally injured.

Yahola is located 15 miles west of Muskogee.

According to townspeople, Boyd has been demented for more than two years. He has been examined for insanity once but was not placed in an asylum.

Boyd, on his way to Muskogee in an ambulance, said to officers that "spirits had bothered him all last night" and that this morning a "voice" told him that Stewart had caused the evil spirits to haunt him.

DISABLED VETERAN AT MEMPHIS FILES SUIT AGAINST GOVERNMENT

MEMPHIS, Texas, June 1.—A suit was filed last week in the United States district court at Amarillo by Clarence J. Billington, disabled ex-service man of Memphis, against the United States of America, in which he is seeking to obtain the full amount of his war risk insurance, plus accrued interest, dating from the day of discharge, claiming total disability. Billington says that he drew against his policy for some time after being discharged, but that the government cut him off on April 13, 1926, taking the policy away from him.

During the war period he was stationed at Camp Bowie, at Camp Travis and attached to ambulance company 142 of the 36th division. He has resided in Memphis practically all of his life, except the time he was away in army service.

STRANGE WORLD IS REVEALED IN KGKO SERIAL ADVENTURE

Honey Boy and Sassafras, KGKO comedians who are conducting their third serial story over the radio here from 7 to 7:35 each evening, have staggered into an unknown world in their latest story and are encountering many strange and thrilling experiences.

They have entered a cave wherein they met Chief Boo-Boo, who tried to sacrifice them in a horrible death by fire. The heroes escaped and fell victim to the wiles of a black maiden, Babbs. Both fell in love with the dusky damsel and she treated them to a dinner which consisted of one small pill.

Honey Boy was greedy and stole a bucket full of the pills and gobbled them up. As a result he swelled up like a balloon and was stuck in the door while trying to escape from a giant prehistoric animal, called Gon Zon Gola by the natives.

This animal has two big pockets under each wing and can carry eight men in each pocket. The next installment, which will reveal how Honey Boy escaped from his terrible plight, will be broadcast Monday evening.

OLNEY STARTS DRIVE FOR NEW WHITE WAY

OLNEY, Texas, June 1.—Committees from the chamber of commerce will be sent out next week to raise the necessary funds for Olney's street light system, according to Chas. T. Wolverton, chairman of the street light committee. The contract signed last week between the city council and the Texas-Louisiana Power company for a street light system is contingent upon the property owners paying for the standards and underground cable to be used in the white way along First, Second, Main and Third streets. Fifty-six standards will be placed on these streets.

Property owners living in the north and south parts of town where 48 bracket lights will be installed will not be required to pay any part of the cost for the system. Property owners along the four paved streets will be asked to pay their part of equipment in proportion to the amount of property facing these streets.

Chas. T. Wolverton and N. D. Goldsmith have been named as trustees of the street light fund. All contracts signed will be made payable to the trustees.

The street light committee from the chamber of commerce is composed of the following men. Charles T. Wolverton, chairman; A. A. Cooper, Wright McClatchy, and N. D. Goldsmith. The committee has selected the following men to assist in signing up the property owners: Walter Shaw, Henry Craig, Bruce Neeley, M. D. Wolverton, J. P. Alexander, W. N. Lunn, Luther Wood, M. P. McCracken, W. C. Harrell, J. F. Hollis, Roy Graham, Ralph Shuffler, S. J. Marcell, W. P. Reynolds, E. W. Hunt, J. C. Hunt, Earl Gilbert, S. M. J. Benson, L. C. Boyd, Carl Griffin, and Rhea Anderson.

'Aerial Television Eye' Expected To Revolutionize Future Warfare Should Inventor's Claims Be True

WASHINGTON, June 1. (INS)—An "aerial television eye" which may well revolutionize future warfare is about to be presented to the world.

It is a contrivance which will permit an airplane to go aloft and broadcast back living panoramas of all the terrain passed over.

C. Francis Jenkins, noted Washington physicist and father of television, is the inventor, and he promised today it will soon be a scientific reality.

Through use of this radio eye of the sky, he pointed out, general headquarters of an army could be put in sight range of actual operations at the front, and the officers directing artillery fire could sit before a screen, see exactly where their shells land and correct the range accordingly. Movements behind the enemy line would be revealed instantaneously in newsreel fashion.

Jenkins is about to make a series of practical tests of his sensational discovery. He is having a Stinson Junior cabin monoplane of the four-passenger type especially constructed for the purpose, the plane to be in the nature of a flying laboratory. Already, the inventor has secured successful results using ground models from a fixed base.

At present, the television apparatus has a range of 10 miles, operating by means of a photographic lens focused on the ground through an opening in the booth of the plane. A "scanning mechanism" is placed over the lens, this in turn being connected with a television radio broadcasting outfit fastened and controlled from within the plane's cabin.

Jenkins plans to reproduce the land panorama which will be thus broadcast in a film screen in his laboratory here.

Virginia Party Torn Open By Bishop Cannon

RICHMOND, Va., June 1. (INS)—The Democratic schism created in Virginia by Al Smith's presidential candidacy was propped open still further today by the rallying call issued to anti-Smith Democrats by Bishop James Cannon Jr.

The bishop urged those Democrats who bolted Smith last November to hold their lines intact, and to nominate an independent state ticket at Roanoke on June 18. The belief prevails in some political quarters that Bishop Cannon himself would not be adverse to the gubernatorial nomination.

None of the regular Democratic candidates for the nomination thus far mentioned—John G. Pollard, Walter Mapp, and Roswell Page—is satisfactory to Bishop Cannon, despite the fact all are dry. They all remained regular in November and supported Smith, and Bishop Cannon asserted in his manifesto, in effect, that no quarter is to be given any who follow Smith.

The Roanoke rally will determine whether the November bolters will put an independent ticket in the field. It may conceivably have a far-reaching effect on Virginia politics for some years.

RABBIT COMPANY TO GIVE BANQUET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Gilliam Realty company, which is developing a 123-acre tract for one-acre rabbit farms on the Petrolia road, will give a banquet in the Kemp hotel at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening with local real estate men, members of the agricultural committees of both the junior and senior chambers of commerce and others as guests.

J. M. Gilliam, general manager of station KGKO, who is also manager of the Gilliam Realty company, said that a crowd of more than 50 was expected. The entire program will be broadcast by remote control over station KGKO.

Mr. Gilliam said that the purpose of the program was to hold an open discussion on the possibilities of the rabbit industry in this section.

He explained that with 100,000,000 rabbit pelts being used in America annually 98 per cent of the hides were imported, according to figures in government bulletins on the subject.

A formal opening of the rabbit farm tracts, which are located in the Petrolia Gardens on the Petrolia road, will be held June 8 if the weather is fair. A model rabbitry is being built on one of the one-acre tracts with a capacity of 100 does and 600 young rabbits.

Family Quarrel Fatal

BUNKER HILL, Ill., June 1. (AP)—An argument over 45 cents cost the life of Mrs. Mary Williams, 53, of near Woodburn late yesterday. She was shot by her husband, Fred Williams, 47, after they had quarreled because he was short the 45 cents which he was supposed to have obtained from the sale of three boxes of strawberries.

Makes Her Own Skin Bleach

Known for having one of the most beautiful skins in New York, Miss Mildred Ball, favorite artists' and photographers' model, recently made the statement that most of the New York models use a skin bleach of their own making.

According to Miss Ball, "we get three ounces of Orchard White from the druggist and add to it the juice of two lemons. This makes a full quarter pint of a perfectly harmless yet marvelously effective bleach. Applied to face, neck and arms, it bleaches any dark or discolored skin a beautiful rosy white. It also makes any rough or coarse skin soft and smooth. Many of the girls use it, too, for a tan and freckle bleach. Nothing like this wonderful mixture can be bought ready to use because it acts best when freshly prepared. The cost for several weeks' supply is only a few cents."—Adv.

ADVANCE STYLES SHOW THE TREND FOR SUMMER

Right—Typical of smart pajamas for the beach.

It is to proclaim one's self an old-fashioned girl to fail to adopt the pajama mode. Just as there were many long haired beauties after the advent and general acceptance of the bob, there will remain types who will sling to the drooping negligee for lounging at home and clever coats and robes for beach wear.

It would seem that the fad for pajamas might appeal only to the very youthful, but as the vogue increases conservative older women are appearing in this type of dress at bridges and teas. So there is no age limit to this mode.

Taking the place of the little breakfast coat is the pajama ensemble, usually of two very gay colors and sometimes three.

Paris Mirror of Fashions

Pronounced simplicity in dresses continues to have fresh interest for couturiers in the creation of smart effects. Detail still depends much upon the novel incrustations and fabric working to which the eye takes note in classifying a frock as of couture origin.

All manner of cleverly manipulated bandings and strappings are in high favor, especially the use of two-tone crepe folds as the sole trimming for knitted sweaters and cardigans. This is a treatment successfully and markedly featured with the house of Drecoll-Beer.

Tobacco Brown the Vogue

Brown of the very darkest tobacco shade is prominently displayed in models from this house, for sports and tailored wear. Also brown and white mixtures add balance on the side of brown.

Next in color prominence is yellow for day and for evening dress, the new tone being a warm shade of goldenrod or that of mimosa cast, hues that are becoming extremely modish in couture circles.

The diagonal and V-neck are seen in numbers but the square must be included in the season's fashionable neck lines for day models.

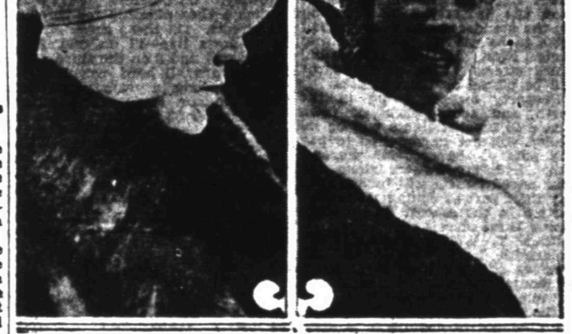

Evening necks are more often round than anything else, with the backs cut fairly low; new tie effects diversify the decollete back. In her small collection Augustabernard makes a point of the V decolletage in the flattering surplice manner.

Panne Velvet Rules

Panne velvet is the velvet of the season for evening apparel and in day models it is employed in black by Bernard et Cie, of course taking its proper place as an afternoon fabric.

Lucille Paray shows a strong favoritism for shiny materials, including cire lace, cire tulle and satin, the latter used for tailored day models of great chic. Sheen also is present in velvet extensively employed in her afternoon and evening dresses. Many of her formal coats in silk and lame are lined with velvet.

Birds Trim Felt Hats

Birds of one sort or another in metal, rhinestones and similar media have been posed on Nellie's hats for seasons—the only thing left after the feathered fancy of wings and breasts went the way of all elaborate trimming fancies.

But the bird is back although it is nothing to stir up any dynamic action among protectors of our feathered friends. Le Monnier mounts tiny black and gray feathers in the form of diminutive swallows on a hat of gray felt, pictured.

And with a wait-and-see gesture terms it Les Hirondelles. The effect is altogether charming and the idea is clever. It may presage a perfect reign of birds on hats. Time will tell.

Rainbow Hues in Summer Frocks

Lively colors for sunshine and tanned skins take their values from the rainbow for summer frocks the lighter shades being most popular in special hues that are becoming to health tinted complexions. Here and there in the array of color the pastels will be spotted with touches of dark colors such as blue, red, or even black motifs printed on white backgrounds.

Wherever it has appeared in the world of fashion thus far, the afternoon frock of printed organdie has been given applause. It may be in floral pattern or in one of the alluring plaids, or even in a shaded affair made up of several tones of one color. But invariably the smart organdie frock will have a bouffant skirt as in the model illustrated, dipping as to hemline and with a bodice demurely simple. It will be sleeveless and softened at the neck by a large bertha collar or fichu type of scarf. Such a frock bears the seal of approval of impressive couturiers. And it is not always expensive, clever little models being available at modest prices.

An up-to-the-minute version of the sleeveless dress of girlish simplicity is that having a skirt given over to diagonally posed ruffles, the remainder of the frock quite plain after the fashion of the model at the right, colorful in its bright dots on white.

Nice detail gives a tailored air to the sleeveless dress shown in green crepe, in other pastels or in all white, its pointed tabs trimmed with wee buttons.

Many dresses cut without sleeves have the added attraction of a deep scarf which partially covers one shoulder and arm, and the sun back as well. Such a scarf completes the bow-trimmed dress worn by the figure seated. It is quite as charming in Nile, orchid, Copen, peach, maize, pink or white as well as coral, although this latter is a lovely shade.

Velveteen Wraps

A new coat for daytime is of beige velveteen printed in green, the design giving a luminous green tone to the fabric.

It has just become possible for people in the rural districts of Austria to receive money by telegraph.

Fall Lines in Fur Coats

May storage of fur coats always is the time to think a bit in advance of fall style trends, so that alterations in garments may be made during the summer.

Some flaring models on princess lines and otherwise will be presented in the autumn mode as novelties rather than popular fashions but furriers believe the straight line coat will continue to predominate.

Hemlines, however, are said to be lengthening a trifle. The intricate collar treatment will be the marked style feature such as the dressmaker scarf and the tailored throw scarf.

Self-trimmed coats will have distinction and flat furs again will be the smartest type, with particular emphasis on flat caraculs.

New Sports Silk

A new pure dye silk that is very closely woven and particularly suited to sports frocks is being adopted extensively for the very smartest of golf and tennis dresses in the two definite styles which distinguish these this season.

New Bracelets

Bracelets are very much the vogue and among the latest designs are those of sterling silver set with marcasite. Occasionally semi-precious stones add a lively note of color. They may be narrow or quite wide, just as one desires, and must not be included with jewelry of the inexpensive kind.

To take the place of the bandanna kerchief is a turbanne made of wool and visca straw with the silk kerchief effect attached at the side. It closely resembles the bandanna in appearance, yet it stays in place perfectly and is not constantly coming untied, as is usual with the bandanna.

Sport Coats Favored in Rough Weaves

Center—Kasha trims a rough checked fabric.
Right—Basket weave decoratively tucked.

One short season without a sports coat in her wardrobe is sufficient to prove to any woman how very necessary it is to sartorial peace of mind. And its absence brings about an almost daily enumeration of its manifold purposes.

The sports coat indispensable that is trim and tailored and flatteringly offset by a smart brimmed hat of small proportions in felt or straw is offered in endless variety of design and fabric. For the sports coat has become a specialty in a specialized world of dress.

First in point of chic is the requisite that the material be one of those soft yet very rough-textured weaves which tailor to perfection and reward the designer for every smallest effort in achieving a detailed effect.

There is present in the mode as usual the very slim and straight line coat with lapel collar, one which, if it suits the type, is a perfectly safe choice inasmuch as straight lines persist in the mode. Variety is evolved through the use of other fashion successes such as the still fashionable scarf collar or the upstanding one so many young women find becoming, the tucked back particularly good for rounded shoulders, the double belt of narrow width and so on almost endlessly in the matter of détail. Also two fabrics of quite different mien may join hands in the creation of novelties.

Checks have a certain zest in sports wear, their size ranging from the very smallest to quite large dimensions. Of conservative size is the check in the center coat with scarf collar. The lapels are of kasha banded with the coat fabric and the cuffs are similarly treated. The narrow belts buckled form the closing.

Covert cloth skillfully tucked became the coat of the hour in the earlier part of the season for street wear. Basket weave given a trimming decoration of sunburst tucking follows on the heels of this vogue and relieves the otherwise severe lines of the model at the right.

Simplicity in the Name of Youth

The young woman with a taste for simple clothes free from the frou-frous designers of inexpensive and moderate priced garments are so fond of injecting into their models appreciates highly the well made dresses and ensembles that are youthfully imbued with simplicity. Not all fair feminines are of the elect, possessing unlimited means to express themselves sartorially. Nor in the withering heat of summer does one wish always to don garments of an expensive nature.

Washable crepes are coming more and more to the fore as May slips forward into June. So sports attire either in of this fabric or one of the cotton weaves. If you prefer silk, the tailored type of frock in crepe is practical. A young-looking sports dress of ensemble effect is shown in the center of the upper group, the fabric design having a red polka-dot on a white ground, blue dots on green or brown on maize, either of the three contrasted with a silk blouse in the color of the background. The schoolgirl type of collar, trim tie and simulated jacket result in a clever and convenient informal frock.

Rajah silks of the rough seemingly heavy weave make many an attractive summer frock of the sleeveless variety. The dress shown is in white, with fagotted trimming, and the ensemble coat is of washable crepe in such colors as nile, maize, blue, pink and orchid.

Flat crepe in black or any of the pastel shades is employed for the graceful two-tier cape coat that is indispensable in the summer wardrobe for wear over sleeveless dresses.

Smart for the young miss who can wear it is the famous nasturtium color of Patou, three tones used in the chiffon dance frock illustrated, the deepest shade for the lowest tier of the skirt and for the shoulder flowers. If nasturtium is a color not becoming, this model may be had in green or pink.

The very young bride will enjoy a gown of white satin, built with the molded bodice, and skirt very bouffant with ruffles, edged in pearl bead trimming. Since white satin is especially favored in Paris at the present time, this type of frock may be worn for festivities as well.

MAIN FEATURES OF REPARATIONS PLAN FINALLY ADJUSTED

GERMANY TO NEGOTIATE ALONE WITH BRUSSELS

PARIS, June 1. (UP)—Belgium will not sign the reparations settlement until she obtains satisfaction from Germany on her war currency claim, M. Gutt, Belgian spokesman, told the United Press today.

"Belgium will not sign until she obtains satisfaction on her demand for reimbursement for the forcible exchange of marks for francs," Gutt said.

"We told Mr. Young and we told the Germans we want satisfaction. We will certainly refuse to sign until then."

Main Issues Settled

PARIS, June 1. (UP)—The reparations problem has been settled.

Thomas W. Lamont, American banker, announced today that the experts of seven nations, after struggling for almost four months with the complicated problem of how much Germany shall pay for the world war, had at last reached a final agreement.

The experts hope to sign the agreement early next week. The only obstacle is Belgium's refusal to sign until she has obtained satisfaction on her claim against Germany for the depreciation of her currency during the war. Berlin and the allies were making every effort to appease the Belgians on the question, which has been left outside in the reparations agreement itself for settlement between the two nations.

Germany has settled, in effect, for $8,808,000,000 cash. That is, if she paid the entire sum today, she would turn over that amount in gold.

Installment Plan

The money will be paid on the installment plan, however. And within the 59 years Germany will pay an average of about $488,000,000 annually. That is, the allies will actually get about $28,000,000,000, interest being figured at 5 per cent.

The knotty problems with which the experts struggled for so long were finally settled by concessions on all sides. The only problem not settled by the agreement was Belgium's claim for compensation on account of the deflation of her currency during the German war time occupation. The question was left for the two governments to settle between themselves.

Thus the work of the conference, under the chairmanship of Owen D. Young, American financial genius, will have been 100 per cent successful if Emile Francqui, the Belgian delegate to the conference, permits the question of the Belgian marks settlement to be negotiated between Brussels and Berlin.

All the experts will be gone by next Saturday. J. P. Morgan, the American banker, was the first to go; he sailed today on the Mauretania, leaving Lamont with power to sign for him.

Radio Broadcasts Favor Modernist Pastors Is Claim

PITTSBURGH, June 1. (INS)—Despite the protests of a number of ministers who openly charge the federal council of churches with favoring selection of modernistic preachers for national radio broadcasting, the United Presbyterian church will not withdraw from that body.

At its convention here today the church turned down a memorial presented by the Argyle, N. Y., presbytery, asking the denomination's severance from the council on grounds of too much modernism in its selections.

The delegates also defeated an amendment to the memorial which would have withdrawn all financial support given the council by the assembly but voted to cut the annual contribution from $1,500 to $750.

A bitter attack was launched upon the Rev. Dr. U. Parkas Cadman and the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, noted members of the council, by Dr. W. M. Nichol of Brooklyn. Dr. Nichol condemned them as holding too "ultra-modernistic" viewpoints.

Action on a proposal to unite the church with the Presbyterian church in the United States, better known as the Southern Presbyterian church was deferred until Monday.

LOAN COMPANIES ARE DOING LARGE BUSINESS LITTLEFIELD SECTION

LITTLEFIELD, Texas, June 1.—The large loan companies are becoming very much interested in this section of the country, as evidenced by the many loans placed among the farmers. One agent reports having closed loans aggregating $348,000 to 109 farmers in this section, on long time with a low rate of interest.

The president of another large association reports having approved a loan for $75,000 to the Littlefield college, with which to make their improvements, and the loan is to be closed in a very short time, and building of the administration building and the improvement of the 10-acre blocks will start immediately.

Many other loans on farms in this vicinity have been approved, as well as loans on town property in Littlefield.

There is every indication for a prosperous year with good crops, and there is a general feeling of optimism among the farmers and business men.

TWO HANDBALL COURTS WILL BE COMPLETED IN CITY BY NEXT TUESDAY

Two handball courts now under construction on the Hamilton-Martin tract of land on Taft street near the railroad will be completed by next Tuesday, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent.

As many handball teams as possible will be organized here this summer, Mr. Bunnenberg said.

IOWA PARK LIONS TO ELECT NEW OFFICERS

IOWA PARK, Texas, June 1.—The nominating committee of the Lions club, E. J. Wilson, A. L. McGuire, and Curtis Sewell, has named a ticket to be voted upon at the regular meeting next Tuesday. The names are as follows: Gordon Clark, president; James M. Camp, first vice president; Paul Lusk, second vice president; Curtis Sewell, secretary-treasurer; C. C. Hudson, lion tamer; D. H. Ford, tail-twister; A. C. Golden, J. G. O'Donohoe, two-year directors; George W. Belcher, R. O. White, one-year directors.

Seven or more new members will be welcomed at this meeting by Dr. R. H. Graham, district governor, and P. B. Curd, group chairman.

German Tinker Real Pond

Germany is still discussing the disclosures of the list of wealthy victims of Frans Tausend, the tinker arrested at Bolzano, South Tyrol, for obtaining large sums from persons who believed he could make synthetic gold. Among them was Herr Alfred Mannesman, one of the Rhinelands' greatest industrialists, who was a founder-member of the company for exploiting Tausend's "process," and contributed at first $25000, and later $125,000. Another victim was a Berlin manufacturer who added $25,000. A Cologne engineer invested $12,500, and the son of a successful manufacturer is said to have put in his entire fortune of $75,000, which his father had left him. The tinker and his wife invested the money in real estate. It is believed they collected $1,750,000.

TAX REBATES PUT BIG HOLE IN FUNDS FOR UNCLE SAMUEL

WASHINGTON, June 1. (INS)—In six weeks the liabilities of taxpayers to the federal government have been reduced $18,345,155 through refunds, abatements and credits, the internal revenue bureau announced today.

Abatements, $5,204,068.

The tabulation was the first prepared by the bureau since the policy of making public all tax adjustments was started in April.

A large majority of the readjustments resulted from compromises reached between the internal revenue bureau and the taxpayers. A few were based on court or board of tax appeals decisions.

Republicans Welcome Tariff Hike As Probable Issue in 1930 Ballot To Elect New Members of Congress

WASHINGTON, June 1. (INS)—The Republicans will welcome a national campaign in 1930 on the tariff bill being enacted into law by this congress, Representative Willis C. Hawley, Republican, of Oregon, chairman of the ways and means committee, which drafted the new bill declared today.

Hawley's statement was an answer to Democratic assertions that they will cut the huge Republican majority in the house to pieces in the next congressional elections on the charge that the house has passed a "robber tariff" bill which will boost the cost of living $500,000,000 a year.

The Republican tariff leader urged the administration to insist upon prompt approval of the new tariff law and objected to any lengthy recess of congress, so that the tariff can become effective in time to permit its use as a major issue next year.

"It is very important that the bill be in operation for a long period before the next election, so that everybody will know what its effect has been, instead of guessing about it," said Hawley. "I am confident that if the bill is given a fair chance before the election, it will be approved by the American people on its merits."

Hawley refused to take seriously reports that Secretary of State Stimson has received so many protests from foreign nations against the bill that he may send the protests to congress.

"Foreign nations always protest," he said. "The new bill is not an embargo tariff by any means. The average rate of duty upon all imports is slightly over 15 per cent. All the duties we put in the bill were designed to equalize competitive conditions.

"The United States is the greatest market in the world and it is a cash market. Foreign nations will continue to sell us goods. It was declared that the Fordney-McCumber tariff act of 1922 would shut out all imports, but imports have almost doubled under that bill."

The value of locomotives and parts manufactured in the United States in 1928 amounted to $86,160,670.

CHICAGO WORKERS STRIKE FOR HIGHER WAGES FOR LABORS

CHICAGO, June 1. (AP)—The familiar pounding of riveting machines, the whir of great derricks and the clash of steel were absent from the city's noises today as more than 2,000 structural iron workers went on strike for higher wages.

All of the big buildings under construction, work totaling some $200,000,000, were affected by the walkout, ordered by the executive board of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers last night.

Cement workers, carpenters and allied trades, however, continued on the job in the downtown district, and there was no indication sympathetic strikes were to follow immediately.

Negotiations for a wage increase had been in progress for several months, the union demanding $1 a day and the employers offering $12.50. The workers finally agreed to accept $13 but the employers refused to meet their figure and the strike resulted.

TRUSTEES APPOINTED IN THREE SCHOOL DISTRICTS

Four trustees to fill vacancies on boards in three of the common school districts of Wichita county have been appointed by the county board of trustees, according to the announcement Saturday of Burl Bryant, school superintendent.

ILLNESS OF KING SERIOUS FACTOR IN BRITISH POLITICS

Doctors Nurse Sovereign Who Must Attend to Major Matters

COUNCIL OF STATE CAN ACT IF ISSUE FORCED

But Political Complications Are Pointed Out by British Experts

WINDSOR, England, June 1. (INS)—In view of the important political developments impending within the next few weeks due to the election of a new parliament, every effort is being made to nurse King George back to health as speedily as possible.

Lord Dawson, of Penn, chief surgeon to the king, and Sir Stanley Hewett, physician-in-ordinary, returned to Windsor castle from London this morning to investigate the progress made in draining an abcess which formed under the site of an old scar on the right side of the chest.

In spite of the reassuring bulletins issued thus far, the king's illness is looked upon as a recurrence of the serious infection which so nearly cost him his life a few months ago. It is believed, however, that the progress of the infection has been arrested in time, and that as soon as the purulent fluid has been completely drained from the king's system, there will be no cause for alarm.

It was regarded as a significant sign that Sir Stanley Hewett, who has been with the king constantly since he was stricken last Sunday, did not find it necessary to remain at Windsor last night, but motored to London with Lord Dawson, leaving Henry L. Martyn, surgeon-apothecary at Windsor castle, in sole charge of the patient.

Another bulletin regarding the king's condition is expected to be issued today. The hope was expressed in court circles that his majesty may be sufficiently improved next week to take over the duties in connection with the creation of a new prime minister and cabinet, but it has now been ascertained that if necessary this function would be performed by the council of state which came into being during the early stages of the king's last illness.

However, several members of the deposed conservative government are on the council of state, and it might lead to an embarrassing situation if this body were called upon to carry out the king's functions with regard to parliament.

It was understood that the king spent a fairly comfortable night.

Six building permits totaling $1,975, were issued from the office of F. M. Rugeley, Wichita Falls city engineer, during the week ended Saturday.

This figure is a decrease of $3,943 from the total for the previous week, when nine permits aggregating $5,918 were issued. The year's total is now $536,240.

Ike Hays, 613 Dallas, repair residence, $500.

Fred Thom, 700 Scott, repair business building, $500.

C. W. Beavers, 2013 Huff, repair residence, $300.

C. J. Holland, 1701 Hayes, addition to residence, $300.

Doctors Resent Club's Plan

Medical men of Europe are resenting the suggestion of the German Automobile club that doctors willing to assist after traffic smashes should have a distinguishing mark, such as a red cross, on their cars. Doctors declare that experience has shown that services rendered to auto victims are rarely paid for. The victims, they say, usually have little money after paying hospital fees, the guilty persons escape, and the insurance companies refuse to acknowledge the debts. This is said to apply in practically all European countries. Doctors declare that the matter should be taken up by the various governments who might pass laws demanding that autoists be insured in some way that covers the doctors' fee.

Lost By a Shave

LONDON.—There are two reasons why the Kenilworth parish church called for the resignation of its pastor, Rev. E. T. Bradley, according to him. Because he did not shave enough, and because in asking for prayers for King George he said, "King George V," instead of "King George the Fifth," they asked him to abandon his curacy, he says.

Fruit Fly Plant Menace Inspires Quarantine Pact

WASHINGTON, June 1. (INS)—A hearing to consider the advisability of extending the Mediterranean fruit fly quarantine to cover every state of the United States was held today before the federal plant quarantine board.

Probably it will be several days before Secretary of Agriculture Hyde rules on the question.

Dr. C. L. Mariatt, chairman of the board, said the object of the hearing was to provide a basis for the better enforcement of restrictions under the quarantine recently established on the movement of most fruits and vegetables originating in Florida.

Is This Diamond Bracelet Yours?

ZURICH, Switzerland.—While on your vacation last year, in Switzerland, did you lose a diamond bracelet? And was it set in platinum? If so, communicate with the Zurich police. The bracelet was found in the restaurant of Alp Grum station of the Bernina railway. The loss was never reported to the railroad or any other authority in the Grissons. Consequently police officials believe the owner must be a wealthy foreigner — probably an American. Notices in visitors' journals and railway cars having failed to produce the owner, this newspaper has been asked to tell its readers about the find. "Where else under the sun," asked the Swiss publicity man, "except in lovely Switzerland, where jewel robberies are but a myth, can one find such honest finders and a police department which is apparently tireless in its efforts to return the bracelet to its rightful owner?" We give up.

OLD SETTLERS OF WEST TEXAS PLAN ANNUAL REUNION

FLOYDADA, Texas, June 1.—West Texas old settlers will hold their annual reunion at the "Old Rock House" in Blanco canyon on Aug. 16 and 17. This was the decision reached at a special meeting of the arrangements committee held in the county courthouse here during the Floyd county pioneers celebration of the 39th birthday of the county.

William McGehee, county judge of Floyd county, and vice president of the West Texas Old Settlers association, had charge of the committee meeting which was attended by the following: R. B. Smith, Crosbyton; John D. McDermitt, Crosbyton; N. Y. Bicknell, Roaring Springs; M. M. Day, Lockney; Ned Bowers, Spur; Mark Potter, Silverton; Lam Collit, Roaring Springs; Pink L. Parrish, Lubbock; J. B. Jenkins, Floydada; Hamp Collit, Roaring Springs, and W. T. Dunn, who is secretary of the organization.

No free barbecue will be served the visitors at the reunion, but eating concessions will be sold reasonable, according to the decision reached by the committee. R. B. Smith will be general chairman and Pink L. Parrish will have charge of the speaking arrangements. Last year the crowd that attended this event was estimated at 20,000.

WORLD MUST HAVE PEACE, OR PERISH

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Civilization, to exist, must have peace, according to Prof. Harold C. Havinghurst, of the College of Law at West Virginia university.

"Unless the nations of the world find some means of living together peaceably civilization will be imperiled," he said in a recent convocation address.

"Peace may be brought about in three ways: By seeking an agreement for the limitation of armies; by making agreements of arbitration not to resort to war; by establishing machinery for the handling of international affairs."

When the prince finished his speech and started to sit down he found that a tiny brown and white kitten had curled up on his seat. The prince and kitten became immediate friends and before the hour and half ceremony was over the kitten was fast asleep in the prince's arms.

RICH GIRL AIDS POOR BROTHER

Two Orphans Are Joined After Long Separation

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 1. (AP)—Fate, which 12 years ago tossed a brother and two sisters into an institution as orphans and separated them into families far apart has reunited two of them here in a kaleidoscopic twist—the brother a bootblack, the sister an heiress to $6,000,000.

When Leon Warren was six years old and Louise Agnes, his sister, four, their father, a Missouri coal miner, was killed. The mother, unable to care for the two and an older sister, placed them in a St. Louis orphans' home. A short time later the mother died.

Leon was taken by a poor farmer who lived in Alliance, Neb. Working on the farm he lost all track of his sisters. Some time ago he took a job as bootblack to aid his foster parents.

Meeting more people in the barber shop where he worked, Leon's ambition to obtain a college education was fired. He wrote back to the orphanage from which he came that he would like to know about his sisters and perhaps, he added, the superintendent might find work for a willing young man in a college city.

Then Leon learned that Louise Agnes had been adopted by the late S. D. Strother, who had struck oil in Oklahoma. When he died he left the girl his entire $6,000,000 fortune. The older sister was married and lived happily in Ohio.

A reunion between the brother and sister was arranged and they met here. Today the two motored to Richmond, La., where the girl's guardians, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Warden, live, and when the fall comes around Leon will go to college. But not as a bootblack working his way through.

DAIRYING AND POULTRY RAISING IS PROFITABLE IN LITTLEFIELD AREA

LITTLEFIELD, Texas, June 1.—Evidencing the fact that dairying and poultry raising is a profitable business on the South Plains, the chamber of commerce has secured figures from local firms handling those products which show that $21,929.65 was paid out to farmers of this section alone for poultry, eggs and cream during the month of May. Purebred stock of all kinds is being shipped into this section, as well as purebred chickens.

PRINCE OF BRITAIN VISITS IN CANADA ON WAY TO LONDON

VICTORIA, B. C., June 1. (INS)—Prince Henry, recently created duke of Gloucester, third son of King George of England, arrived here today from Japan on the liner Empress of Asia.

He will spend four days in this city but no official functions are to be held.

Slower Slow Movies

LONDON.—The rotoscope, a machine invented here, will take slow motion pictures of objects revolving at a rate of 500 revolutions a second and slow them down to one revolution a minute. Test pictures taken by this means reveal that drops of water are spherical, lightning a single intense spot of light, and that the flame of an ordinary gas jet fluctuates considerably instead of remaining steady, as it appears.

Hoover Forced to Hire Guards Who Patrol His Palo Alto Estate Against Souvenir Hunter Thefts

WASHINGTON, June 1. (INS)—The idiosyncracies of that strangest of all animals, the souvenir hunter, have reached clear across the continent to annoy President Hoover, and as a result he has been forced to dig down into his pocket and hire a couple of men to guard his beautiful home in Palo Alto, Calif.

Reports of vandalism about the west coast home which reached Washington recently prompted the order to police the property. Men and women with a mania for filling up their what-nots with all sorts of peculiar things have been, it seems, chipping off pieces of the masonry in the house, ruining rose bushes in efforts to obtain transplantable slips, carving initials here and there, and generally doing those things souvenir hounds do.

Mr. Hoover has ordered these two special agents put on duty at once. They are to work in cooperation with the local police and will report to the San Francisco office of the U. S. secret service. He is hopeful his special guards will be able to maintain house and foundation intact against his return.

A trip to Palo Alto for the Hoovers in early July is not at all unlikely—dependent, of course, upon an adjournment of congress. The president and Mrs. Hoover are noted as travelers and seemingly hate to stay too long in any one spot. They have been here now since inauguration, and the arrival of the hot weather is expected to turn their thoughts to California. They haven't failed in a number of years to make at least one, and usually two or three trips back home.

Tales of Real Dogs

CHOPS — The Chow With a Hero Heart

This is the first Chow dog to be included in our series. Not that these beautiful and loyal dogs are not worthy of a whole book by themselves, but because I have not happened upon any dramatic or otherwise noteworthy incident concerning one of them which I could trace down and verify. At last, I have found such a story. Here it is:

His name was "Chops." He belonged to Capt. Albert Trapman of the British army. Trapman was stationed in the Shan states of the Malay peninsula, when he bought a pale buff mass of fluff, known as a "Shan Chow puppy." When Trapman bought Chops, the dog was little enough to be held between his two palms.

But, within a year or so, Chops had grown to be almost 25 inches at the shoulder and to weigh more than 70 pounds. For a Chow, this is an unheard-of size. But the Shan Chows are much larger and much fiercer than are the Chows we see in America. In that one district alone do they reach such size, and they are known as "Shans," or "Shan Chows," to distinguish them from the lesser types.

Several Americans and Englishmen who have lived in the Malay peninsula have told me of these Shans, and I have read much about them. But I am told that no Shan has ever been imported into Europe or America. (I do not vouch for this, but I can find no record of such a dog imported into either country.)

"The Shan Chow," wrote Captain Trapman, in an account of his schum, "is peculiar. He is a king among dogs. He is avoided by all lesser breeds. If he walks in the center of the street, other dogs slink on the footwalk. He never by any chance has a thing to do with them.

"He never fights. If another dog is fool enough to attack him—which only happens in a country where his prowess is not known—the Shan Chow merely slays him with one quick motion of his powerful jaws, and then walks on again as if nothing unusual had occurred."

Trapman was ordered to Southern India. He took along with him his Shan Chow puppy, Chops, which just then was growing at an amazing rate and which had developed an almost ludicrous devotion to his British master, though the dog would have nothing whatever to do with any other human.

Before the giant puppy had gained his full height and strength, he and Trapman were walking down the street one day, when a huge and savage mongrel caught sight of the awkward young buff-colored giant. This mongrel had a neighborhood reputation as a bully and a killer. At sight of the big young Chow, he made a raging dash at Chops.

Never before had any dog ventured to tackle the enormous puppy. Never had Chops known anything in life but friendliness. Thus, when the mighty mongrel came charging at him, he did not know what to make of the savage, unprovoked attack. He just stood still, in astonishment, while the mongrel sprang snarlingly upon him.

Then, as the mongrel's teeth scored a deep furrow in his shoulder, Chops lunged at him. There was no fight. The mongrel tumbled dead, with his neck broken. Chops looked apologetically at his master and continued his stately walk down the street without a single backward glance at the canine bully he had killed.

A month later, in another part of town, Trapman and Chops happened into a district whose dogs were rendered miserable by a bull terrier owned by an English official. This bull terrier had a vast local fame as a killer, and he loved a fight as he loved nothing else.

The mongrel tumbled dead.

He saw Chops, and he made a wild rush at him. Chops seemed to remember his encounter with the mongrel. For he did not so much as pause in his stride at his master's heel.

But, as the bull terrier smashed into him, there was that same lightning-swift motion of the Chow's head. And the bull terrier lay quivering on the pavement, with his neck cleanly broken.

After that, the news of Chops' prowess semed to seep through local kingdom, and no other dog challenged his supremacy. He had the sidewalk to himself. He paid no heed to other dogs, and they gave him a wide berth. Chops was no bully, no tyrant. All he asked was to be let alone, and he had a terrible method of enforcing that simple desire.

"One day," writes Captain Trapman, "as Chops and I were crossing a public square, I noticed a great commotion. I looked more closely, and I realized that a mad dog was on the rampage. I was terrified lest Chops—he was only seven months old—should get bitten and contract rabies.

"I called him to me. For once in all his splendid life, he disobeyed. The track of that mad dog was fully 30 yards off our line of direction. But Chops was taking no chances of his attacking us. He evidently thought his master needed to be protected from that mad pariah dog.

"Deliberately, he charged the brute—a thing I have never known of any dog doing, before, in connection with a mad dog, of which, as a rule, they have a wholesome fear. The rabid pariah, at Chops' attack, swerved aside as if to escape—also a most unusual procedure for a mad dog.

"In another two yards Chops would have overtaken him and would have risked death for me. But a passing British officer drew his revolver and shot the mad brute dead.

"And Chops? Well, he shut off speed and turned in his tracks and came slowly back to me as if apologetic at having for once in his life disobeyed me when I had called him from the attack.

"His reasoning was perfect. For once in his dear devoted life, he had thought he knew better than his master, and, against every canine law, plus the law of his own particular breed, he decided to fight a mad dog.

"This was not merely a question of devotion and self-sacrifice, but an instance of swift reasoning—a weighing of pros and cons and then taking a course abhorrent to his nature, because he believed it to be for the best."

Captain Trapman has related to me several other strange things about Chops, from time to time. Perhaps some day I shall tell you more about this amazing giant Chow.

NINETY PERSONS ARRESTED IN MAY FOR DRUNKENNESS

Wichita Falls police officers made 703 arrests and Judge W. L. Bass tried 582 cases in corporation court during the month of May, according to the report issued Saturday by R. M. Hurst, desk sergeant and clerk of the court.

Offenses were divided as follows: Traffic violations, 416; drunkenness, 90; disturbing the peace, 11; affray, 11; vice ordinance, three; breaking glass on the street, three; vagrancy, 16; theft under $5, three; gaming, three; assault, one; sanitary ordinance, two; and malicious mischief, two.

Fines and bond forfeitures totaled $3,217. Other statistics follow: Escaped, one; investigated and released, 91; cases appealed, 12; to juvenile, nine; to other counties, nine; to federal court, 13; to state courts, six; to county court, 13; cases dismissed, 43, and not guilty, 12.

Officers recovered six stolen automobiles and assisted in the recovery of 10 other stolen cars.

BRYANT DEPARTS FOR TEXAS TECH TO TEACH DURING SUMMER TERM

Burl Bryant, Wichita county school superintendent, left Saturday for Lubbock where he is to teach three courses at Texas Technological college during the next six weeks. The courses are in rural school administration, history of education and introduction to education. Mr. Bryant plans occasional visits to Wichita Falls and his office will be open while he is away, he announced.

WICHITA FALLS FIRE LOSS IN MAY $26,950

The fire loss in Wichita Falls for May was $26,950, according to the monthly report announced Saturday by Fire Chief J. L. McClure. Other statistics for the month follow: Total valuation of property involved in fires, $275,000; total amount of insurance involved, $218,000; number of alarms, 29; inspections made, 380; hazards corrected, 60.

County Trustees Will Ask $1,165 In Tuition Aid

Applications for state rural tuition aid for 10 schools in Wichita county yere approved at the monthly meeting here Saturday of the county board of trustees. The aid sought totals $1,165. The applications approved Saturday will be referred to the state school superintendent, according to Burl Bryant, county school superintendent.

The schools for which aid will be asked, Mr. Bryant said, are, with the amounts: Allendale, $60; Cobb, $30; Weeth, $105; Friberg, $120; Enterprise, $155; Pleasant Valley, $232.50; City View, $150; Fawikes, $45; County Line, $82.50; Rocky Point, $185.

The applications are made in accordance with a provision of law which permits students to complete their high school education in another district after finishing the course offered in the resident district.

Engineers to Confer

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—The war department announced today that the board of engineers will hold a hearing here on June 18 on the appeal from an unfavorable report of the district engineer at Galveston on the locating of a turning basin near Brownsville, Texas.

FRANKLYN BAUR TO SING LOVE BALLAD 'VOICE FIRESTONE

There's a feature on the "Voice of Firestone" program Monday night, inaugurating its summer season, that probably is unique in broadcasting. Franklyn Baur, tenor, is to sing a composition written by his co-artist, Vaughn De Leath, contralto—a beguiling, melodious love ballad entitled "Mi Amour." Baur renders the song in tribute to Miss De Leath's genius as a composer. Other favorites she has written include "Ginger Bread Brigade," and "Log Cabin Lullaby."

Miss De Leath herself, sings on this program Vallee's "Deep Night," "I Get Blue When It Rains," and Lewis' "Old Fashioned Lady." In addition to Miss De Leath's composition, Franklyn Baur will sing "Out of the Dusk" by Lee, and Van Alstyne's "On the Road to Home Sweet Home."

Offenbach's "Barcarolle," will be a feature of the group to be presented by the Firestone Symphonic orchestra. Offenbach—among the most noted of all French light composers—is famed for the merry and extravagant note in his music. His operettas are said to have reached the highest form in a genre which he virtually created and of which he still remains the undisputed leader.

Tax Values in County to Show Small Decrease

Wichita county tax valuations for the present year will show a slight decrease from those of last year, according to information given here Saturday by Max Shumake, county tax assessor.

Valuations last year in the county totaled $60,985,120. No definite figures will be available for several weeks as to the valuations this year, Mr. Shumake said.

The decrease, which probably will be small, according to the assessor, is due to losses in oil production. Increases probably will be shown in valuations of real and personal property, it was said.

Valuations last year were approximately $9,000,000 less than during the year before, due to the fact that property was assessed at approximately 40 per cent of real value as compared with approximately 60 per cent in 1927. The same basis of valuation has been followed this year as last.

BEES' STINGS FATAL FOR KANSAS FARMER

PITTSBURG, Kan., June 1. (UP)—Bees which attacked him in swarms while he was trimming a tree, were held responsible for the death late yesterday of N. J. Wood, 71 years old. Wood died immediately after the bees swarmed over his body and before medical aid could be summoned.

Dr. Sun's Body Buried

NANKING, China, June 1. (AP)—The body of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, founder of the Chinese republic, was interred today in its permanent tomb in a mausoleum on the side of a purple mountain overlooking Nanking. The interment culminated a two weeks' ceremony in the course of which the body was removed from its former sepulcher near Peking and brought here.

Sunday Island, in the Pacific, is really the tallest mountain in the world. It rises 2,000 feet out of five miles of water and is thus nearly 30,000 feet from base to summit.

NEW TRAFFIC LIGHTS—AND OTHER THINGS

We suggested, a while back, that the amount set aside in the municipal budget, for new traffic lights, might be used to better advantage. The weather of the past few weeks has served to draw attention to a need to which the $10,000 might be diverted, and which is far more pressing than new street lights. We refer to the drainage situation in that portion of the city between Brook avenue and Kemp boulevard, south of Eleventh street.

The Wichitan who has no occasion to use Avenue E, Monroe, Harrison, Pearl, McGregor, Brook or Baylor streets, in the region mentioned, has no idea of the conditions that exist during and after a heavy rain. At some points, such as at the intersection of Monroe and Avenue E, he will find traffic held up by the torrent that pours down the latter street. On Pearl and McGregor streets, and in the Brook avenue addition, he will see streets hub deep in water, and here and there a front yard overflowed.

The amount budgeted for traffic lights will not, of course, relieve the situation. The amount estimated as necessary for a comprehensive drainage system, we believe, is in excess of a quarter of a million dollars. But $10,000 judiciously applied, will provide some culverts and some means for diverting the water into channels where it will be less of a nuisance and a menace. We believe that it could be used to bring a considerable measure of relief to the residents of the region described. The property owners on McGregor street can hardly expect complete relief from such a modest expenditure, but they would be grateful if something could be done to prevent that street serving as a storm sewer for a region comprising approximately a mile square. In rainy weather, new traffic lights will be of little benefit to the residents of the section affected, because they can't get their cars out of the garages to where the lights are.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS

Great Britain's second Labor government, assured as a result of Thursday's elections, will start with better prospects than its first. When Labor was in power before, it had a very slender plurality in the house of commons, and it was foredoomed to defeat the first time a test was demanded. Its unfortunate dealings with Soviet Russia merely hastened a downfall that was inevitable from the start.

Ramsay McDonald now becomes premier with a much stronger representation in the house. It is not certain, as this is written, that he has a clear majority, but he will undoubtedly be very close to it. He has an opportunity such as he did not have before, to work out a real legislative program. He will have the benefit of his former experience, with its errors. He is in position to give Great Britain a real Labor government.

In a day when working men are more articulate, in public affairs, than ever before, the course of the McDonald government will be watched with interest throughout the world. If it brings about effective solution of the country's major problems, especially that of unemployment, its success will have repercussions in other countries, including our own.

McDonald's position is much more secure than it was when he was premier before, but it is not sufficiently secure to dismiss the possibility of an overthrow. The Labor victory was due mainly to the fact that the British public wanted a change, and they had greater confidence in McDonald than in Lloyd George. If it develops that their confidence was misplaced, it would not take many desertions to upset the new cabinet and bring about another election. It would appear that it is up to the Labor government to show results, and to show them promptly.

The failure of Lloyd George to increase his party's strength carries a lesson all its own. He had generously promised to solve the unemployment problem within a year. If the British voters had believed in that promise, Lloyd George would now be getting ready to assume the prime minister's portfolio. They did not believe it. Conservative and Labor cartoonists, in their campaign sketches, depicted the Welshman as a magician pulling the white rabbit of unemployment solution out of his hat. Britons do not believe in governmental magic. In that, they differ from American voters, who are still, despite various unhappy experiences, prone to accept wild promises. Whether the result means the definite retirement of Lloyd George from the stage of British politics remains to be seen. In any event, it would seem to mean that he must change the nature and manner of his appeals to the electorate before he can again be an important factor in British political life.

THE GOVERNOR'S OPTIMISM

The multiplicity of subjects which the governor seems determined to submit to the special session indicates that he still has hopes of the legislature. Just what there is in the record of the 90 days of sessions already passed to justify such a hope is not clear to the people, and we doubt if it is clear to the governor. Perhaps he is merely trying to put the responsibility upon the legislature by giving it full opportunity to enact the legislation that Texas needs, without really expecting anything.

Except for local and minor measures, the educational bill, and some constitutional amendments, the legislature is right where it was when it first assembled in January. Such matters as court procedure reform, highway revenue, control of public utilities, state civil service, measures involving the allocation of water rights and the appropriation bills are still unfinished business. It seems rather futile to hope that a legislature that did nothing with the matters in 90 days can deal effectively with them in 30.

The legislature has refused to accept the governor's leadership, and it has developed no leadership of its own. Without leadership of some kind, no legislative body can make much progress. There is little basis for the hope that the second called session will accomplish much. We would like to entertain such a hope but the facts do not justify it.

We would rather see the legislature concentrate upon the two most important matters before it, appropriations and highway revenue. The rest can wait a brighter day in Texas' affairs. These two cannot.

REVIVING THE TRINITY SCHEME

According to the Dallas News, the efforts to revive the Trinity navigation scheme are meeting with some success. Members of congress are said to view the undertaking with favor.

Prior to 1922, the government had wasted some hundreds of thousands of dollars in surveys and preliminary work on this fantastic scheme. In 1922, when engineers reported that at least $13,000,000 would be required to make the stream navigable, the idea was abandoned. Lately, through the efforts of Dr. J. B. Cranfill of Dallas, the project has been somewhat revived.

Ninety per cent of all river and harbor work undertaken by the federal government has been "pork." For every project that really afforded, or promised to afford, water transportation facilities of a worth-while nature, there were nine that were wasteful expenditures of the public funds. It would be hard to discover any water-way undertaking with more pork in it than that of the Trinity. For the government to put another dime into it would be the rankest folly.

Thoughts on Migration

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

The problem of immigration is destined to be an increasingly vital issue in the politics of the western nations.

No question is a happier hunting ground for the demagogue. It is refreshing, therefore, to find a group of Antioch college proposing the following code of 12 principles as a basis for considering immigration in an undemagogic fashion:

1. As the field on which the adventure of human life might be pursued, the earth belongs to mankind as a whole.

2. Right to control its occupation must rest ultimately on the effect of that control on human welfare. Accident of present occupation does not confer on a people the right arbitrarily to prevent immigration.

3. International policy should favor migration which tends to raise the quality of world population, and should discourage that which tends to lower such quality.

4. As ability increases for measuring biological and cultural qualities, migration should be allowed which raises the eugenic and culture levels of the receiving nations, and any nation should be allowed to prevent immigration which would lower the average quality of its population.

5. Marked excellence, representing biological or cultural inheritance, should be free to migrate at will.

6. Any nation, however backward, should have the right to prevent influx of persons rating low in human quality, for public welfare requires that sparsely settled regions be reserved for good stocks and cultures.

7. The maximum density of human population is yet to be determined, and a nation should be supported in any intelligent effort in good faith to attain new standards of worth and welfare through controlling the density of population. A country making such an effort might limit immigration to persons ranking with the best third of its present population. Control of immigration should be in some such relative way, not by absolute or arbitrary prohibition.

8. A nation which by the high quality of its social, political, and economic life has created superior living conditions, should not be required so to open its doors that its superior standards would be submerged by influx from nations less skillful and intelligent in managing their affairs.

9. Desire to maintain ethnic purity is not in itself a valid reason for excluding immigrants, but some degree of racial discrimination should be allowed until the facts of race equality or inequality, and of racial mixtures, are more definitely determined.

10. There can be no permanent solution of the population question without birth control. A nation which intentionally and indiscriminately stimulates a high birth rate and suppresses knowledge of birth control cannot properly demand outlets for its surplus on the ground of overpopulation.

11. Reasonable recognition should be given to immature peoples who are on an ascending curve of culture, but who require time to express their innate genius, unsubmerged by peoples who already have reached cultural maturity. The world cannot afford to lose the unique contributions of such peoples.

12. Reasonable doubt as to the total effect on human welfare of any movement of population should be resolved in favor of nations wishing to control the quality of their own people. Interference with domestic affairs should be limited to clearly defined cases.

The Weather

Oh, it was dry when we wanted rain,
And it rains when we'd rather it was dry,
The weather person views our wants with disdain,
And sets all our plans awry.

I'm inclined to think that the notion is wrong,
That it's a man who makes the elements vex,
Anyone so wilful and perverse must belong
To the female, or contrary, sex.

A great many people, including ourself, are quite resigned to the fact that Mrs. Willebrandt is resigning.

The Three-Day Wait

When this new law, requiring prospective brides and grooms to wait three days after getting the license, before marrying, was first introduced several years ago, we undertook to offer some suggestions to interested parties as to how the three-day interval might be most advantageously employed. It was our idea that both he and she might use that interval to find out some things that would be helpful to them after marriage, or that might, on the other hand, prompt them to back up before the fateful words were spoken.

Now that such a law has been passed and is soon to go into effect, we wish to renew and to amplify our former suggestions. We are better qualified now than we then were, to point out the matters on which prospective brides and grooms should seek information. We are better qualified, because we have been married longer. In our former article, we mentioned, asparagus-eating, early morning disposition and snoring as points on which the contracting parties should endeavor to obtain data. These are important, but there are others that are equally so.

The Golfing Test

We think it would be a good idea for the bride-elect to use a few hours of the three-day interval to observe her intended playing golf. That pastime is revelatory of traits of character and quirks of temperament that might otherwise not be disclosed. One thing that she should particularly observe is the manner in which he concedes putts to himself. The best authorities agree that 11 inches is the maximum distance at which a really honest golfer will concede the putt to himself. For a golfer to nonchalantly pick up his ball when it lies at a greater distance than that, is indicative of a nature not to be trusted by anybody, not even by a bride.

We once knew a girl who was engaged to marry a man who seemed desirable in every way. He was well educated, had a good position, spent 15 minutes a day in helpful reading, was free from halitosis, and was kind to his mother. When, in describing him, we add that he was never known to say, when playing bridge, "I've got a hand-like a foot," the reader will understand that he was a really exceptional young man, apparently altogether admirable.

This girl went golfing with him one day and when she noted that he conceded himself putts of 12, 13 and, on one occasion, even 14 inches, she began to have the first faint inklings of doubt regarding him. But her love was great, and she did not then fully realize what his putt-conceding meant, and she discarded her qualms and suspicions. She did not understand that this habit of his indicated a black spot in his heart which was to grow and spread and eventually blight his whole nature.

She married him, and they seemed happy for a while. But one day he lit out for Honduras with his stenographer and the assets of the company he worked for. His true character had asserted itself. She told us afterward that, more than once, he had stolen milk out of the baby's bottle to give to his bird-dog. How much heartache and tears she might have been spared if she could just have grasped the true significance of those longish conceded putts!

Before Breakfast

If it can be arranged without trespassing too far upon the proprieties, the groom should be enabled to get a glimpse or two of the girl as she appears in the morning before the rouge-spot, the hair brush and the cup of coffee have brightened her up for the day. It would take some ingenuity to bring this about, but perhaps by making use of this new invention, television, it could be done. The assistance of her relatives would also be required, but probably they would be glad to cooperate.

The love that could survive that test would be classed as true love. As a test, it is of course fraught with danger. It might result in the groom's being called out of town on a business trip, and forgetting to come back. It would, in any event, be an illuminating and instructive experience. It would be worth more to the groom than all the preachments about matrimony that could be dinned into his ears in a month.

For the sad truth is that there are very, very few females who have much charm early in the morning, before they have had opportunity to repair the chaos wrought by repose. Until cold cream and rouge have been brought into play, there is a frowziness that hits a solar plexus blow at romantic yearnings.

That test might be tried out both ways. The average male, just after he has answered the alarm clock's summons, bears practically no resemblance to John Gilbert or Ramon Novarro. The sight of him might not utterly destroy the maiden's love, but it would be pretty sure to cause some tinge of perplexity and uncertainty to mar it.

Three days is not, of course, long enough to find out everything. Neither is three weeks, nor three months, nor three years. We cannot speak with authority on the subject, but we have an idea that after even three decades married folks continue to find out things that they didn't know before. But three days, rightly employed, can teach a great deal. It's a good law.

One thing, now, about Lindy. There probably won't be any more of these "unannounced destination" flights.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

BY LEE PAPE

After suppir yestidday I was in the living room holding one half of my face, and ma sed, Benny Potts, that tooth is herting agen, so dont start denying it before I even ask you. Theres ony one thing to do and thats to go to the dentists the ferst thing tomorrow morning without fail or argewment, she sed.

Especially argewment, pop sed. Theres nuthing more important than your teeth and if you take good care of them in your youth theyll take good care of you in your manhood, he sed, and ma sed, And Willyum, this is a golden opportunity for you to go with him and have that extraction done. theres no use just waiting and waiting till more trubble sets in.

I intend to go next week for sure, pop sed, and I sed, No, sir, I ain't going if you dont, pop, no sir.

Of corse Im going, whats all the fuss about? pop sed. We'll go rite around after brekfist and set each other a good exampie, he sed, and I sed, Well G pop, if you wunt to put it off a week, Im willing.

But Im not, the ideer, ma sed, and pop sed, And neither am I, if a things werth doing, for Peet sake get it over with, thats my prise winning slogan.

And this morning at brekfist my tooth felt so much better it almost felt all rite agen, so I dident mention it, and pop dident mention his and dident look as if he was going to, and ma sed, I hope you brave men havent forgotten, this is the morning for the dentist.

Im well aware of the fact, pop sed, and I sed, G, ma, I know it. And me and pop went around to Dr. Climbers office and sat down in the waiting room, and we was the ony 2 there, pop saying, Good its our turn next, thats what I call starting the day rite.

And he started to look on the table for a magazine to reed, saying, By all the sines he's a good union dentist, theres not a magazine here thats not at least 6 munths old.

Wich just then somebody started to make fearse sounds in the next room as if something was herting them, such as their teeth, me saying, Well G, pop, I can still be erly for skool if you still feel like putting it off till next week, and pop sed, Well after all, skool is education and nuthing can take the place of education, but still, we're here now, and after all, now that we're here, here we are.

Meening we mite as well stay. Wich we kept on doing, and after a wile Dr. Climber stuck his hed out of the back room smiling as if he had never hert anybody all his life, saying, Good morning, Ill be rite with you.

Dont hurry, take your time, pop sed.

And we kept on waiting, and pritty soon some even werse sounds came from the back room, me saying, G wizz pop, do you hear that?

Why yes, I bleeve I do, pop sed. And he took out his watch and looked at it, saying, As a matter of fact I have severel important appointments today and I mite not be able to concentrate if I have that tooth extracted first. But of corse I can leave you here and you can explain to Dr. Climber Ill be back late next week or erly the week after, wichever he prefers, he sed.

No sir, I sheuld say not, G wizsickers pop if you dont stay I wont holey smokes, I sed. But of corse if we both wawked out kind of easy without making much noise then we could both come back next week and explain to him then, I sed.

I see your point, but Im afraid that wouldent look very well, pop sed. I think one of us awt to stay he sed looking at his watch agen. Proving he still ment me, and I sed, Well I tell you, pop, lets toss up for it.

A father awtent to gamble with his sons teeth, pop sed. And he got up to go, and just then Dr. Climber wawked out saying, Ill see you now, Mr. Potts.

Thats fine, thats dandy, are you sure you have the time? pop sed.

Wich Dr. Climber sed he had, and pop went in with him and made a few sounds but not very bad ones, and then I went in and he dident hardly hert me at all and I dident haff to go to skool till this afternoon, making me feel better insted of werse.

Oh, Sweet Fancy

"What do you think of a diary?" writes a young girl. "I kept one for a year without missing a day and nobody knew anything about it. I wanted one of those five year diaries bound in leather for my birthday. I hinted to mother that I wanted it but she laughed and thought I was silly."

I don't think diaries are silly. I think they are splendid and so sacred that no one except the owners should ever see them. A diary is an outlet for a part of one's emotional life. In it you can tell exactly what you think about a person, tell your secret thoughts, talk to yourself about your success, the book you like, the thing you did last night, the things you are going to do tomorrow.

Then our correspondent tells us: "I have laid out a complete and detailed romantic adventure which includes me. I have a picture in my mind of every place my husband and I (she is only fourteen) are supposed to have gone to on our wedding trip. I have a mental picture of our car, our home and all our furniture. I even have our house plan drawn and several pictures from magazines to illustrate some things. Yes, I have even picked out the wall paper and the linoleum for the kitchen floor. It's such a lot of fun! Do you think I am foolish? You know I wouldn't dare tell mother all this. She would not be at all interested."

Within limitations I do not mind building castles in Spain, my young friend. Of course you must not day dream to the extent that you will have all your satisfactions in dreaming and not in realities for life is very real. Phoebe Carey many years ago expressed this thought nicely in this verse:

"True worth is in being, not seeming,
In doing each day as it goes by,
Some little good, not in dreaming,
Of great things to do by and by."

It is natural for girls to think about their future home in spite of the fact that oldsters seem to have the idea that young girls are always as frivolous inside as they appear to be on the outside. How can a girl help thinking about her home when she sees an illustration on the woman's page of a corner of a living room with its brightly burning fireplace, its attractive and dainty paper, the pictures hung just right? It doesn't take her imagination long to have someone sitting with her on the lounge in front of the fireplace. There is a table back of the lounge and it has a reading lamp. There is a book in the hands of the one and they are trying to pick out new furniture for the spare bedroom. She is wondering if he can afford it. She hears him say, "Of course, my dear, we can. Anyhow in these days you can buy it on the installment plan, pay for it as you go along and get the benefit. Besides you know Aunt Marie is coming next month to visit us and we must put our best foot forward." And very likely the picture in her imagination includes a child on the floor, a big dog curled up in the corner.

Why, my child, I am dreaming myself!

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER

The Accepted Time

I am in ninth grade and decided not to graduate. I only go to school once a week when I need help on arithmetic because that's the only thing I am taking. I want to be a cashier or work in the county office. Is it necessary for me to graduate before I will be capable for either of the above positions? Do I have to finish algebra before I can take a business course?

—GIRL OF SIXTEEN.

Answer: Unfortunately algebra cannot seem to be pried out of the curriculum. While it is not a requirement for life in any sense of the word, it is usually required in about every course the high school offers. Either go to a private business school or make up your mind to take a business course in high school. When the time comes for civil service promotion you will regret stopping at the ninth grade. Now is the time to correct the mistake.

Nothing But the Truth

My children hear nothing but the truth at home, yet both of them have begun to lie. Where do they acquire such habits?

—DISTRESSED.

Answer: Children the age of yours, with normal minds, have some appreciation of the meaning of truths and if they lie it is usually the fault of their parents. My leaflet fully discusses the question. Send 3, A. S. E. for it.

Accumulate Life

—INTERESTED IN LIFE.

Answer: The work is highly diversified. You need good health, lots of initiative, an interest in service irrespective of pay, and finally the thing which you already possess—the desire to accumulate knowledge, which to a social worker means "desire to accumulate life."

A Bad Picker

NEW ORLEANS.—While Motorcycle Patrolman Eugene Ferlandy and Patrolman Rodwell were enjoying a meal in a restaurant here, Ferland's motorcycle waited patiently outside. That lasted until Ralph Langhaus, 50, came along and took a fancy to the cycle. He started it up, and slowly rode down the street. A small boy ran into the restaurant and notified the officers. They chased after Langhaus, caught him and took him to jail.

A Home Garden

We are all children of nature, and a good antidote for the nervous strain of modern life is for us to contact and observe the ways of growing plants. I know of no better way of doing this than to have a home garden wherein some of the fresh vegetables used for the kitchen can be raised. The hunger for beauty should also be cultivated and every garden should have its corner of flowers and ornamental shrubs. Whether you have acres at your disposal, or only a window box, it is a good plan to do some of the digging and planting, yourself.

Now is a good time of the year to begin your garden if you have not already done so. The fresh air and the sunshine are as valuable for you as for the plants.

These articles appear in both city and farm papers, and many farmers may think, "Well, I have too much of the fresh air and hard work." It is true that farming, while one of the most important, is one of the poorest paid professions. Many farmers do have to work harder and longer than their city brothers but, nevertheless, I believe that farm life would be more attractive if more attention were paid to beauty, and if every farmer's home were surrounded with bowers and blossoming shrubs.

Many schools have introduced gardens for the school children. There is much educational value in watching the unfoldment of a seed in a shoot and then into a mature plant. There is no reason why children should regard gardening as a drudgery. It can be a most interesting and fascination study if properly taught. Every school should have its garden when children can feast their eyes upon the trees, flowers and herbs. It would be fine if all city folk would spend two or three months out of each year on a farm. At first their backs would ache long before quitting time and they would feel too tired to eat supper, but in a short time they would feel physically strong and experience a new appetite and a stronger digestion, which they have not hitherto known. And after the day's hard work, they would fall into a deep, refreshing sleep. There is no better cure for insomnia than really hard muscular work.

The farm and the garden play a most important part in the scheme of life. They are really assisting the Almighty in the work of creating. It is a pleasant feeling to realize that you are causing the earth to produce more. Feel as did Abraham Lincoln when he said "Die when I may; I want it said of me by those who knew me best, that I always plucked a thistle and planted a flower where I thought a flower would grow."

There is no sanitarium superior to mother nature, where the elemental forces abound and you may absorb energy from the sun, from the wind, and from the soil and the green trees.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Floating Kidney)

Answer—A floating kidney can always be raised to position through developing the abdominal muscles. Sometimes it is a good plan to go to bed for two or three weeks and take exercises while remaining in a recumbent position. If there is any ache in the kidney, this can be overcome if you will assume the knee-chest position two or three times daily, thus allowing your kidney to slip back into normal position.

(Peritonitis)

Question—Miss A. J. writes: Recently I had an illness which was diagnosed as localized peritonitis. Am much better now, but frequently have severe attacks. Is there a cure other than an operation?"

Answer — Localized peritonitis must come from some inflammation of the adjacent organs, usually from the intestines, ovaries or appendix. It would be well for you to have a very careful examination to determine the source of the trouble. An operation is not usually necessary in chronic cases. I would suggest a fasting and diet regime as outlined in the cleansing spring course which started in your paper on the 16th of April and ran for two weeks. If you do not have these back numbers of your paper I will send this course in pamphlet form upon receipt of a large self-addressed stamped envelope. Watch for article on the subject of peritonitis, appearing June 8.

(Strawberries)

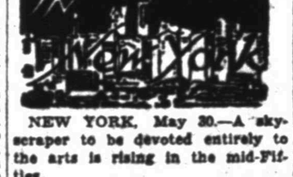

Question—Mrs. J. O. writes: "We are all very fond of strawberries. In what combination with other foods are they most healthful?"

Answer—Strawberries are an acid fruit. They may be used with a meal of non-starchy vegetables, or with milk. It is also a good plan to occasionally make an entire meal of them. They contain more iron than any other fruit.

(Dead Tooth)

Question—I. R. asks: "When is a tooth considered dead, and should dead teeth always be extracted?"

Answer—A tooth is considered dead after the nerve dies, or if it has been removed. It is not always necessary to extract a dead tooth, however, unless some pus has formed about the root.

NEW YORK, May 30.—A skyscraper to be devoted entirely to the arts is rising in the mid-Fifties.

And therein lies a tale of Manhattan's strange ways—for it is a tale of an immigrant lad who lived to build a monument to his thwarted artistic ambitions.

William H. Silk was a typical New York offspring—the child of Italians moved to America. He was the one boy in a family of four. He wanted to be a musician, but there was not enough money to give him an education. And so he took a job as office boy for a corporation and studied at night school, making his way through Columbia. When he left college he was an architect and not a musician. And it was necessary that he make a living.

And thus it came about that New York's gloomier brown-stone dwellings underwent a considerable change. Silk had a notion that people who lived in them must feel their depression, so he began to add windows, to rearrange the high-ceilinged walls and to turn them into apartments. In doing so he started a fortune.

Noting the number of bachelors about New York, he got the bright idea of introducing "club hotels"—taverns fitted with swimming pools, billiard rooms and reading rooms for men only. So came the Allerton string of hotels. He turned next to a hotel for "business women," and hence the Barbizon.

But in the Barbizon Silk stumbled upon still another idea. At the Sunday concerts given there, he found that there was any amount of talent going about the great city without engagements.

As any concert manager could have told him, thousands of young women drift into the city each year in search of a musical career. He began to give the unknowns who lived at his hotel a chance to be heard. And he wound up by planning the first cross-country hotel musical circuit ever attempted.

Himself defeated in the aspiration to be a musician, the idea ran away with him.

And so there rises the Art-Music Residence Center, the first skyscraper dedicated entirely to artists. There will be sound-proof studios for pianists who care to do their practicing after midnight, and there will be sound-proof bedrooms for tenors who want to take their voices for an airing in the early morning. There will be places for teachers and there will be places for students. A student can get a liberal education in any art without leaving the building. There will be places for painters and places for sculptors and places for sopranos. There are concert halls and art galleries and everyone can art away to his heart's content.

Another immigrant lad who has made his first million gives a party each year to celebrate his humble beginnings.

Instead of dress suits, his guests wear overalls and a painter's cap—for it was as a painter that Benjamin Winter got his start in Manhattan. Although Winter is the gent who tears down Vanderbilt mansions on Fifth avenue and puts up skyscrapers, he holds his banquet in an old slaughter house down by the waterfront. Not the slightest suggestion of swank is tolerated and guests must seat themselves on long wooden benches and eat from tables made of slats swung on saw horses. The room is decorated with scaffoldings. Such beverages as may be served come in old-fashioned "growlers" and not in cups and saucers or glasses.

—GILBERT SWAN.

Cherishing his dream of wealth
Henry overlooked his health.
Lured by fortune he forgot
Tennis court or garden plot.
Whispering trees and singing streams
Never roused him from his dreams.
Unto charm of sea and sky
Henry seldom turned his eye.
Blind to beauty, deaf to song,
Henry rushed life's way along
Till one day he toppled o'er—
Rich, but dead as all before.

Strange the soul which reached the gate
Where all penitents must wait.
Angels looking from the wall
Thought it seemed exceeding small.
"See," said one, "how gaunt and thin
Is that spirit coming in!

'Tis unlike its fellows there
Who are tall and strong and fair.
Pale the cheek and dull the eye
As if starved it came to die.
Why, think you, a soul should be
Such a withered thing to see?"

But a wise old angel said:
"On one diet was he fed.
In a world of many moods,
Changing scenes and varying foods,
This man loved one joy so much
That no other would he touch.
Music, beauty, mirth and play
All by him were put away.
In the pleasures men deem fair
He was never moved to share;
Just to reach one golden goal

Amusements

Mary Pickford In 'Coquette' at Majestic Friday

Among the vividly realistic scenes of Mary Pickford's new picture, "Coquette," which is coming to the Majestic theater, next Friday are the two heated encounters of the little coquette's father and her young lover.

When these two men, separated by age and viewpoint, meeting only on the common ground of their love for the little flirt clash, the sparks fly fast and furiously.

John Sainpolis plays Dr. Besant, the father, a gentleman of bygone days who resents and forbids the attentions to his sheltered daughter of the young mountaineer, Michael Jeffery, portrayed by John Mack Brown. In both men boils the hot blood of their southern country.

In the first dramatic meeting of these men, Michael accepts the verdict of the little coquette's father, who orders him forever from his home. Just as he turns upon the older man with hot words of retaliation, the little coquette steps between her father and her lover, and ends their battle at its moment of highest tensity.

When they meet in their second encounter, the stinging words of the father prove too bitter a dose. Bleeding from the cruel lash of Dr. Besant's tounge, Michael turns upon the older man with a fury of burning words. He ceases to be a suppliant and becomes the aggressor, demanding the right to love and marry the daughter of the Besant family.

During these scenes the little coquette stands, a helpless witness, terrified at the havoc she has created. Torn between her devotion for her father and her love for Michael, her heart is nevertheless with the stranger from the hills. She steels herself to face her father's anger and the scorn of her world for the sake of this man whom she loves.

Douglas MacLean when he vacated his appeal from the recent court decision in the contract proceedings against Sue Carol, through his lawyer, wanted Miss Carol to know that he wished her every success for the future. When she heard this, she remarked, "Douglas MacLean is my idea of a real sportsman."

Janet Gaynor plays the role of a little vegetable vendor in her new picture, "The Lucky Star." She became interested in the way the real vendors merchandise their wares and went to the public market to make a study of them. She was not afraid to ask questions and when she came back to the studio she was able to give her director several tips on the way it should be done.

Rosita Granada, the fiery little Spanish lady, appearing in the harem scenes of "The One Woman Idea," made her start in pictures seven years ago. In the same production Marceline Day was an extra. Now Miss Day is the leading lady and Miss Granada is an extra. However, Miss Granada earns a nice livelihood as a singer and dancer and possesses both a soprano and contralto voice.

Stage Favorite Proves Worthy Of High Praise

When Maurice Chevalier made his debut at the Ziegfeld Frolic in New York in February the critics of the metropolis were as one in sounding his praises. They said that he was Will Rogers, Charlie Chaplin and Al Jolson all under one straw hat, and they predicted that the film he had just finished making in Hollywood, his first for the moving picture public, would be a great success.

That film, "Innocents of Paris," is being presented by Manager Federer at the Majestic, and the acclaim with which it is greeted shows that the New York critics has made a perfect score. Chevalier is a great success!

It is difficult to describe the intangible quality of mimic art which this idol of the French stage wields over his audiences. Young and old take him to their hearts as soon as they glimpse his all-persuasive smile. His is a genius with something of the divine spark that made La Bernhardt immortal.

"Innocents of Paris," all talking, singing and dancing picture, deals with the rise of a pushcart-peddler and singer, who gets his chance, and makes good on the stage. The scenes are laid in the French capitol. The supporting cast is excellent in spite of the fact that Chevalier is the kind of star who doesn't need support.

To sum up—no man, woman or child should fail to see this king of minstrelsy and pantomime, Maurice Chevalier.

William Haines Joan Crawford In Strand Film

James Cruze, famous director of "The Covered Wagon," and who also directed Haines in "Excess Baggage" and "A Man's Man," handled the megaphone on the new production. Joan Crawford, who last appeared with Haines in "West Point," and who recently scored a sensational success in "Our Dancing Daughters," plays the heroine.

Karl Dane, of "Big Parade" and "Rookies," plays the giant fight trainer in the picture, and Tenen Holtz, famous for his work in "The Trail of '98," "Frisco Sally Levy," and others, the manager of the pugilist hero. Eddie Nugent, also of "Dancing Daughters" fame, Jack Roper, famous heavyweight championship contender, and Luke Cosgrove, celebrated character comedian, are others in the cast, which also includes Delmer Daves and Herbert Prior.

The new picture is a filmization of Lucian Cary's Saturday Evening Post story. Haines plays the prize fighter who goes to college to please his sweetheart and thereby plunges into all kinds of trouble, for she doesn't know of his professional identity and he has to keep it a secret, even while he prepares for a championship bout. Miss Crawford is the sweetheart in question and their love story is laid in a background of thrills, laughs, and a sensational prize fight in which Haines and Jack Roper stage a really professional battle in the ring.

BICYCLE-BOATS NEWEST STUNT ACROSS CHANNEL

PARIS.—Bicycle-boating across the channel has replaced swimming in popularity.

Three athletes have already succeeded in crossing, so far this year. The latest was a woman, Miss Aimee Pfanner, who peddled her way over on a nautical bicycle in 9 hours, 19 minutes. She was so worn by the effort required that she fainted as she got off the seat.

The bicycles are fitted to two long-pointed pontoons and the pedals are attached to paddle-wheel propellers. The sea-bikes make about five miles an hour, but currents bother channel bikers.

"Anti-Scandal" Club

LONDON.—The founder of England's "National Anti-Scandal club" has decided to change the name to "The Fellowship of St. George." The Rev. Frank Melville, vicar of Exhall, has declared war on scandal and is organizing clubs over the country to combat slander by "word, ear or pen."

Farrell MacDonald, who will play an important character part in the new picture, "Masquerade," has found that his stage training has served him in good stead. When the silent pictures disappeared beyond the horizon MacDonald still stood in the foreground, for for many years he had been a stage actor before coming to the screen.

"The Joy Street Gang," formed during the screening of the picture of youth, of the same name, and made up of all the young players who acted in the picture, is now to have branches in several of the leading colleges. Already a chapter has been formed at the University of Southern California, Occidental and California Tech.

'El Bandido' at Olympic Theater Starting Sunday

Those who still like to think of the old West as it used to be, and are proud of the Texas Rangers who not so many years ago helped to wipe out Pancho Villa and his band of outlaws, have a treat in store for them at the Olympic, starting Sunday for three days.

The story is based on the life of Mexico's Phantom Bandit (Pancho Villa) and his band.

"Hell on the Border" or "El Bandido" is an epic drama of the Rio Grande, with William Russell as the big fighting chief of the rangers. The picture is full of thrills and gives a true story of one of the most picturesque characters the world has ever known.

These two pictures are at the Olympic Sunday, Monday and Tuesday and are being shown at popular prices, any seat, any time 10 and 25 cents.

The arch villain of the screen, the man whose face has won him numerous engagements, but who, too, is a real actor, Louis Wolheim, has been borrowed to play the leading heavy role in the new picture of the northern wastes, "Frozen Justice."

When the town of Indianola starts out to pay homage to a favorite daughter, neither flood, fire nor disaster seems to act as a deterrent. Recently Lola Lane, who next appears in "Girl From Havana," wired the folks that her picture "Speakeasy" was to be shown in Des Moines. Immediately a group of her home town friends chartered a train and went there. Automobiles could not be used for the town was in the throes of an annual flood.

Irene Palasty has been signed for the leading role in the new Movietone production, "Married in Hollywood." Travelers in Europe will remember Miss Palasty as one of the foremost musical comedy actresses on the continent.

Bobby Clark and Paul McCullough had a hot time of it during the filming of their next Movietone comedy, "All Steamed Up." These comedians find the steam room and rubbing tables a good place for many laughs.

TEXANS WILL ENJOY JARGON COWBOY POET

ELEANOR FLEMING

"My stuff is the Bootleg Scotch of Verse. It looks good, the flask is the correct shape, the label is good, it passes superficial inspection and even tastes pretty good but it's not the real stuff."

And with that warning preface, Bill Smart, Texas cowboy whose lasso ropes more iambic pentameters than obstreperous steers, plunges right into his diary-like tale of "From Mexico to Montreal on a Cow Pony." Jumping from cowboy prose to cowboy verse and back again, Smart takes his readers from Weslaco, Texas, on through his own state via Alabama, Tennessee, the Carolinas, Virginia and other southern states to Washington and New York and finally to Canada, always with the point of view of a 55-year-old cowboy from Texas who is "going places and seeing things" in his own unique way.

Combining a group of his "literary mavericks" the scribbler in buckskin has produced a book that, while never suspected of being literature, might interest many a Texan. He who has never seen the sights that Bill Smart describes will have first hand information in cowboy jargon, while the more traveled one will understand and chuckle more for the understanding over the descriptions.

Regardless of the fact that his ballads really need a rollicking tune or a plaintive cowboy air of the plains to give them the complete atmosphere, Bill Smart introduces himself unmistakably to the reader. Long before the book is finished, one sees the tall, lanky figure and hears him say, "Howdy, stranger. I'm Bill Smart from Texas" just as he did to the thousands who greeted him as he drove the little cow pony across a continent.

EDWARD NEWTON LOSES VALUABLE 'RABELAIS' TO CUSTOMS OFFICERS

A case of books purchased in London by A. Edward Newton, author of "This Book-Collecting Game," was opened by customs officials at New York, and a copy of "Rabelias" seized under section 305-A of the tariff act, prohibiting the importation of merchandise considered obscene. As it happens, Mr. Newton already has a "Rabelais" valued at several thousand dollars. Moreover, as Harry Hansen points out in The New York World, in commenting upon this seizure, the book may be obtained at any bookstore or at public libraries. Mr. Hansen adds: "It is Traditonal in the United States that 'Rabelias' is obscene. All customs men have an uncanny faculty for recognizing a "Rabelias," a "Boccocia," and the memoirs of the Chevalier de Seingalt. They must be kept out of the country. Yet I managed to read all of them at the age of ten without having been out of sight of the Mississippi river." Mr. Newton has protested to Washington—but the customs of the customs are hard to upset.

STIRLING TAYLOR ADDS PEN PORTRAITURES OF SIX PRIME MINISTERS

G. R. Stirling Taylor, barrister-at-law and a member of the Middle temple, has added to his several historical volumes "English political Portraits of the Nineteenth Century," Published May 11. It contains provocative pen portraitures of Wellington, Canning, Melbourne, Peel, Disraeli, Gladstone, and Queen Victoria. It is based on a close study of the accomplished facts, and is a critical analysis of the professed principles of his characters. In expressing his code, Mr. Stirling Taylor says: "I want to write history in close relation to the facts, and free from the conventional theories and superstitions which have grown up in so many parts of it."

POETRY MAGAZINE TO ISSUE TEXAS EDITION

Troubadour, a magazine of poetry published at San Diego, Calif., will issue a Texas edition which is scheduled to appear in August. This edition will be devoted entirely to the work of Texas poets. John H. Knox, of Abilene, is guest editor of the edition, and Lexie Dean Robertson, of Rising Star, is advisory-editor. Two prizes of five dollars each will be awarded the authors of the best poem and the best article accepted for the magazine. The regular editorial board of Troubadour will act as judges. Manuscript should be sent to John H. Knox, box 649, Abilene, Texas.

Chicago Crime Carnival Reflected In Literary Guild's Book for June

By GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer

The fantastic nightmares which have shaped themselves in Chicago within the past few years are—so it seems to me—beyond fiction. The social contortions in which the Midwest metropolis has been writhing provide a constant run of melodramatic truth which is far stranger and more incredible than any imaginative creation. Whatever fiction events are catalogued at this close range must, in my opinion, be little more than a job of paraphrase.

W. H. Burnett, whose "Little Caesar" (Dial Press) will gain wide distribution, thanks to the Literary Guild, is himself so conscious of this that he puts a foreword in his book begging readers to believe that all his charcters are fictional. Insofar as the names go, they probably are—but Chicago has just about run the gamut of possible plots and characters. Any invented scene or person would be almost certain to have a counterpart. As a tense and sordid melodrama of gunplay this book rates perhaps a bit higher than most of the fiction which to date has come out of Chicago.

Sullivan

Burnett can write, but he does not bite deep. His "Little Ceaser" is just another killer who goes through his rounds of racketeerings, frame-ups, quick money, blonde molls and all the rest. We are all perhaps too close to the scene to see it in ironic relationship to the general social life of the times.

A great and important job awaits some maturer mind—something for instance, which would catch the satiric quality of a Scarface Al Capone, retiring in regal luxury in a fashionable Florida resort; lavishing kindly entertainment upon some of our best people who chance to be vacationing in his neighborhood; who can ride about the streets of a summer resort in an armored car, carrying his retinue of gunmen on either side and winning the right of way.

And so my own preference is for a piece of expert reporting by Edward Sullivan, Chicago newspaper man, "Rattling the Cup" (Vanguard). Sullivan, fresh from New York, is introduced to Chicago during the negro race riots of a couple of years back. His first assignment is to go through the black belt, escorted by a fearless motorcyclist. There Sullivan is given a test of iron nerve—for the fellow who drove him was none other than a certain O'Banion, then a blackjack artist for a newspaper circulation department — who lived to be one of the underworld's most spectacular figures and died with his boots on in his own floral shop.

Lewis

Here we meet Capone and all the rest at first hand, watch the ramifications of bribery and political filth; see corruption at first hand. And, in the end, Sullivan advises us that crime per se is no worse in Chicago than anywhere else. Nor does he forget to remind us of the lethargic national attitude, which amounts to a shrugging of the shoulders—while the rest of the world looks upon this most prosperous of nations with absolute amazement.

He asks us to recall that this is a generation which sought a presidential cabinet member involved in wholesale looting—and has witnessed national corruption on a scale so vast that we have grown calloused and actually condone the "getting away with murder" idea.

If you wish a fantastic and better-than fiction history, from which to check the events as they break into the newspapers—this is the book.

Yet this same Chicago produces a young man such as Lloyd Lewis, who for years has given each spare moment to the task of trackling folk lore which has come down through the years in connection with Abraham Lincoln.

Lewis applied himself to the task, not of getting biographical data, but collecting information on the old-wives tale that spread in the wake of Lincoln's death. And so, in "Myths After Lincoln" (Harcourt), we find a fascinating parade of new information—the melodrama which shrouded the fate of John Wilkes Booth; the first complete story of Lincoln's funeral; the almost-fictional story of Louis Weichmann, of Anderson, Ind., who was chief of the government witness against the Lincoln conspirators and sent Mrs. Mary Suratt, at whose home had gathered Booth and his fellows, to the noose. How Weichmann's life was haunted for years after; how he lived in constant terror, and died, at last, broken and harassed—is but one of the untold tales to be found here.

Generally speaking, it is the purpose of Lewis' book to show how, after his death, Lincoln was built to the almost fabulous figure he has become—and a thorough job he has done of it.

NEW SABATINI NOVEL TO BE ISSUED IN JUNE

Rafael Sabatini had been struggling for 20 years before "Scaramouche" finally put him on the map. He refers to the book as his Columbus; it discovered America for him. His popularity is merely a by-product of his talent. He plays tennis in the summer and skiis in winter. His pages are bright with the flash of cutlass and rapier. His chapters are alive with marching men and painted pirate ships. He has never written an autobiographical novel of adolescence nor followed any passing fad or fancy. Quiet and unostentatious by nature, he fills his novels with swashbucklers. Among his most intimate friends are Cesare Borgia and Queen Elizabeth. His next novel, "The Romantic Prince," will be published in June by Houghton Mifflin company.

Glimpses Into The Magazines

By ROBERTA CLAY

The following little poem from Child Life magazine for June strikes us as particularly apropos of the season:

"The June days are here and our playtime is near,
The woods and the waters are calling
For us to come out and frolic about
Where soft summer shadows are falling.
O come let us go where the wild roses grow
And the bluebells and balsams are giving
Their perfume away, till we all beg to stay
Where the birds and the wood things are living."

Personally, we'd like to take all our magazines to some place where "the wood things are living," to glimpse into them. But we wouldn't trust ourself to gaze within, instead of without.

Even with the "summer shadows" tempting us, however, we believe we could gaze into the Century, and continue gazing till we had read the three most excellent stories contained therein—at least those three. "Christine's Last Party," a story about the funeral of a lady who had been highly successful at social climbing, tells of "The perfection of her plan." Vincent Sheean, the author, manages to invest a plot that might easily approach the gruesome, with a certain light humor and satire. "A Victim of Circumstances," by Roland English Hartley, and "Davey's Gal," by Charles Edward Smith, are particularly excellent in their character portrayal. Most of us will have a smile for George Westbourne, who is close kin to all of us procrastinators, and a tear for "thin like" Mathilde, trapped, somehow, into marriage with a husky New England boy whom she did not love.

Speaking further of fiction, we would place in the first ranks Ernest Hemingway's new novel, "A Farewell to Arms," which started in Scribner's magazine in May. In the June issue there are favorable comments on the Hemingway novel, by Owen Wister, who compares the author to Defoe. The comments, however, are unnecessary for anyone who may have begun the first installment, for the interest of the story will keep him reading it. There will be four more installments. "Mad Anthony Wayne," with Thomas Boyd as the author, is also continued in the June Scribner's.

The American Boy continues a thrilling story by Howard Pease, entitled "Shanghai Passage," and begins an Indian mystery by James Willard Schultz, "Skull Head the Terrible."

Sometimes we regret the decided leaning of the "literary" magazines to the eternal controversies over matters political and social and religious. Practically all the magazines do so lean, however, with the eighteenth amendment as the leading subject.

William Lyon Phelps, writing in Scribner's, declares that such attacks as that recently made by the Rev. Clarence True Wilson on "the tobacco trust" represents a misconception of morals. He further says that he believes that if Americans regarded wine indifferently, as they regard tea and coffee, they would be better off. Edward S. Martin, in the current Harper's magazine, compares the power of the pulpit as expressed in the passing of the eighteenth amendment and subsequent laws to enforce that amendment, with the power of the clergy during the inquisition, and describes the situation as "appalling." In the Century, Joseph S. Auerback writes "The Indictment of Prohibition," in which he condemns the prohibition amendment from beginning to end—or at least to the passing of the Jones law. Mr. Auerback holds aloft a light of hope, "there is an easy way out of this deplorable mess." But we doubt if his "easy way" will be generally accept any time soon.

As to religion, the Rt. Rev. Charles Fiske, bishop of the Central New York diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church, would startle a good many persons, if they would read his most interesting article entitled "The Every-Day Man's Approach to Faith," in Scribner's. Bishop Fiske declares that comparatively few persons read the Bible, and that most of the others wouldn't know what it was all about if they did read it. He urges that Christians and the church go "back beyond the Bible" to Christ, as their authority.

Sociological problems also find a place in the month's periodicals. Dorothy Dunbar Bromley, writing in Harper's, states that the women of the United States run a greater risk of death from child-birth than those of any other country. Dr. George W. Kosmak, editor of the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, and Dr. John Osborne Polak, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Long Island Medical college, have collaborated with Mrs. Bromley in writing her article—and it looks as if the three of them ought to know what they are talking about. In the same magazine, Margaret Culkin Banning discusses the plight of the present-day spinster, and Jack Black tries to get behind the matter of this law-breaking public.

Education and art are discussed in at least two of the current magazines. The Atlantic Monthly, in an article entitled "Almus Pater, Antioch Introduces a Masculine Element into Higher Education," by Arthur E. Morgan, presents the problem of the softening of our American ruggedness, pointing out that most boys and girls are left in the care of their mothers at home and of women teachers at school, till they are past high school. The June Scribner's takes up the question as to who painted which copy of "La Belle Ferreniere," in an article by Royal Cortissoz. Our May Scribner's reached us too late for comment on Howard Mumford Jones' "The Southern Legend" last month—and nearly everybody else has already commented on it by this time. It's worth reading once, or maybe twice.

The Century and Scribner's both discuss phases of the federal reserve this month.

Of pretty general interest are the following: A sketch about Sarah Bernhardt by Gamaliel Bradford, in Harper's; an article on savage marriage rites as told by a native of the African jungle, in Scribner's; a delightful discussion entitled "A Barrier to Barrie," by Joseph T. Shipley, in the Drama for May; several travel sketches in Asia, among them one by Carl R. Raswan, who continues his account of his adventures among the Bedouins, in an article entitled "A Prince of the Desert"; an autobiographical sketch entitled "Red Ripe's Squaw," interpreted by Thomas B. Marquis, in the Century.

Two of this month's poems which, we prophesy, will soon find their way into the ranks of the most popular declamation, are "Gettysburg," by Edgar Lee Masters, in the Century, and "To the Old Frigate 'Constitution'," by Henry Van Dyke, in Scribner's.

THE LITERARY LANTERN

The Literary Lantern burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writing around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

The temper of southern civilization is at present alien to that disinterested function of the mind known as criticism, which does not flourish among us except in one or two university centers and perhaps in a few newspaper offices. Consequently, if one looks for critical books in contemporary southern letters, one must content himself either with the works of scholars or with the products of southerners who have fled from the Confederacy. Among the former, we must include Professor James Blanton Wharey of the University of Texas, whose edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress" of John Bunyan (Oxford University Press, $7.50), a model of deductive reasoning in textual criticism, furnishes the modern world for the first time "The Pilgrim's Progress" as Bunyan wrote it, and is besides beautifully printed—the Oxford Press does that sort of thing supremely well. And we might include Poe's "The Gold Bug" (Doubleday, Doran, $2.50), edited by Professor Thomas Olive Mabbot with an introduction by Hervey Allen which, it is claimed, is the first authentic text of this famous story, though the changes over the usual version are, we must confess, for the most part trivial.

But such books are the work of scholarship, valuable in its own sphere—immensely valuable and beyond the understanding of the Philistines—but not essentially the production of the critical spirit, for an example of which we must turn to that exiled southerner, Joseph Wood Krutch, now living in New York, whose "The Modern Temper" (Harcourt, Brace, $2.50), is everywhere hailed as a complete exposition of the intelligent modern man. "Ours," Mr. Krutch concludes, and by that he means civilized men, "ours is a lost cause and there is no place for us in the natural universe." Mr. Krutch can find no rock of living belief on which to lay his weary head, and though we may not like the bleak and dreary universe he puts together, it is not our business to express an emotional dissatisfaction, but to ask ourselves whether Mr. Krutch's word is indeed the final word on the subject. Are we headed for futility, stagnation, or despair?

Dreary Outlook

Once past the introduction, Mr. Krutch begins in what is to me the weakest of his chapters by attempting to refute the claims of the modern humanists who set up values in living that are anti-animal; but though I think the modern humanists are a dogmatic and mistaken lot, I do not conceive that they are to be rebutted, as Mr. Krutch rebuts them, by a method which, in its essence, amounts to a juggling of the two adjectives, "animal" and "human." Once past that, Mr. Krutch discovers that the new idol of the cave is laboratory science which, though it has wrecked all the transcontinental faiths, has substituted nothing satisfying to human hunger in its place except a confessed inability to find any stable or ultimate reality. Love, on which the nineteenth century set high value, has become for the moderns sublimated sex, or sex without the sublimation; and literary art, once on the peaks with Sophocles and Shakespeare, has dwindled, it appears, into Ibsen, and degenerated into the modern novel. All art, he remarks, gives us only fictive values, so that the attempt of Havelock Ellis and others to make an art of life itself, is fundamentally anarchic. As for the modern metaphysicians, Mr. Krutch is charmingly ironic about their divagations. They are chasing a phantom certitude which they will not find. God, truth, art, love and civilization itself are fundamentally meaningless, and can be renewed only by the infusion of a "young people," not yet disillusioned—say the Russians—of barbarians satisfied to play with "toys."

Purely Logical

The first thing to be remarked about this powerful book is that, although, chapter by chapter, one is led along by the clear exposition and faultless temper of Mr. Krutch's literary style, the moment the results are summarized, as in the preceding paragraph, the human spirit is repelled or amused by such excessive midnight. Such a summary, we say at once, is no recognizable picture of life as we know it, as even very intelligent people know it, as Mr. Krutch himself knows it. Even in the encircling gloom of Mr. Krutch's mind there are moments, even days, when, putting aside his polite derision of theologians and his reverence for intellection, he declares a mental holiday and enjoys the mere fact of existence. There is a famous passage in "Lavengro" which is the exact answer to Mr. Krutch's austere intellection, to the effect that the sun and the moon are both sweet things, as also the wind on the heath.

Nor is this retort so shallow as it seems. Mr. Krutch's view of the universe is consistent with itself, it is true: it is pitiless and animal, and he apparently admires the economy of the anthill, though he says frankly he does not want to be an ant. But all that is not quite a sufficient description of the universe. The stars may be, and doubtless are, mere glowing gases in space inconceivably cold which have no concern for us, but they are also the objects we see every night and admire without a thought of stellar chemistry. I am, I trust, a reasonably intelligent human animal, and there are moments when I view the ant-hill with distrust and the stars with terror, but there are also moments when I am amused by the ant and charmed by the stars without any cosmic ache. The difficulty with Mr. Krutch is that he is purely logical, or rather that his book is purely logical, for in actual life Mr. Krutch and millions of his fellow-animals seem to me to be illogically amused or interested or excited to a degree fairly comparable to the happiness of those lost ages which Mr. Krutch admires and yearns after.

Novel Pessimism

In the next place, I would gently observe that there is nothing fundamentally novel about Mr. Krutch's pessimism. Accepting the movement of thought of the last 60 years as absolute and final, Mr. Krutch mainly repeats the lamentations of Sophocles, Petronius, Bernard of Morlaix, the Earl of Rochester, and Matthew Arnold, not to speak of Marcus Aurelius and John Calvin. But mankind has been shut in by pitiless logic before, and somehow escaped. Mr. Krutch is pleasantly skeptical about everything except his own profound belief in his own skepticism and the skepticism of his age; and though he sees that it was foolish of the scholastic philosophers to accept Thomas Aquinas as the ultimate word in truth, he does not see that it is equally foolish of Mr. Krutch to accept John B. Watson and Robert A. Millikan as the last word in truth. Mr. Krutch accepts the confused pronouncements of the last 60 years with a solemnity almost comic in one as intelligent as he, whereas I conceive that science and philosophy and religion have still several million years to run. Let us not condemn life, the poor criminal, until all the evidence is in. After all, we are a relatively immature race of animals.

In fact, Mr. Krutch, that impatient young man, has a very poor sense of values in time. There is a passage in his chapter on tragedy, in which he describes the play of "Hamlet" in the most noble language and the tragedy of "Ghosts" in mean and commonplace language; and then asks how we can expect great art when, by common consent, life is so mean and vulgar as it is in "Ghosts"?

Well, I will guarantee to write a description of "Hamlet" which will make it out to be the veriest dime-novel, and I, for one, have been as profoundly moved by the heroic majesty of Mrs. Alving as ever I was by the stripling majesty of Denmark. I suspect that Mr. Krutch wants to prove a thesis, and (quite honestly and unconsciously) views all the masterpieces of the present as mean and low. May I without offense call Mr. Krutch's attention to the majestic skyscrapers in his adopted home town? May I ask him also whether they really represent any attentuation of the creative mind of man?

Doubts Sincerity

And lastly, while Mr. Krutch is lamenting the discovery that the universe is an iron and pitiless majesty, he forgets that the pigmy animal man, has discovered and created that majesty. There are various universes of discourse: Mr. Krutch confuses them all. As a male, I have a biologic urge toward a particular female; as a man, I am, despite Freud, hormones, and Mr. Krutch, happily in love with my wife. As a university professor, I know the worldly hopes men set their hearts upon turn ashes; as a human being, I am delighted with Mr. Krutch's iron logic, and perversely charmed to find fault with it. As mere mind, I see that life is a mess; as the writer of this comment, one who, like Mr. Krutch, has read all the discouraging books, I am still having a darned good time. So, I suspect, when he takes a day off from heavy thinking, is Mr. Krutch. Logic is logic, but there are times when it is irrevelant, and those times Mr. Krutch has simply omitted from his book.

Scanning New Books

By RICHARD MASSOCK

NEW YORK, June 1.—William S. Hart, hero of the movie west, has written his autobiography.

In "My Life—East and West," he tells the story of a miller's son who was born in the East, but who built his career on impersonations of plainsmen.

It was on the middle-western prairies, where he lived as a boy, that Hart became acquainted with Indians and cowboys. The life was hard, for his family was poor, but it appealed to his adventuresome spirit.

Returning to New York, he had to give up the ranch ways for the more prosaic pursuits of foot racing and clerking in a postoffice. He acquired two ambitions, to become a soldier or an actor. Finally he settled on the latter and began the study of Shakespearean lines.

The first few years, in which he had bits with Modjeska, Mantell and other stage stars, were lean. His big chance came when George Tyler needed his knowledge of western ways for "The Squaw Man," in which William Faversham starred and Hart was Cash Hawkins, a cowboy. "The Virginian" followed with a fatter part.

Meanwhile Hart has become interested in the first "western" films. They were woefully inaccurate to one who knew ranch life. So he decided an opportunity awaited him, with his knowledge of cowboys, in the infant colony called Hollywood.

He was right, as demonstrated by the popularity to which he rose. His first movie job paid him $125 a week. Before he gave up acting because of difficulty in finding independent theaters for his pictures, his salary had become more than $10,000 a week.

"My mail," he writes, "is just as heavy as the day I finished my last picture. An average of 200 letters daily come from nearby and distant parts of the world, all asking the same question: 'Bill Hart, why don't you give us some more pictures?' I love those people who like my western pictures, but I am powerless. . . . I was whipped—I salute the victors."

South America's Washington

In "Bolivar the Liberator," by Michael Vaucaire, the current wave of biography has caught up Gen. Simon Bolivar, who led South America to victory in its struggle to throw off the rule of Spain.

Married at 19, but soon a widower, the young Bolivar wandered for a time about the capitals of Napoleonic Europe. Then he returned to his native Venezuela and soon was plunged into the uprising that swept out Spanish power.

The struggle was sanguinary almost beyond imagination. Letters were written in blood. The warfare was weird. Swimmers led by horsemen attacked and captured gunboats. There even were some unsuccessful attempts to catch cannon balls in hats.

Over it all loomed the figure of Bolivar, going through adventures, defeated, exiled, even apprehended by his own men, but ceaselessly scheming, writing, working and never conquered. And only to die, after resigning his dictatorship, penniless and almost alone, and to be buried with money obtained from reluctant neighbors.

A Splendid Cook

Maurice Bedel, the French novelist whose light and sophisticated humor was introduced to Americans last year in "Jerome, or the Latitude of Love," writes again in the same satirical vein in "Molinoff, or the Count in the Kitchen."

Bedel's new story is that of Ivan Molinoff, a Russian count changed by circumstances into a cook. So ingratiating is he, however, that he wins, by his romantic, wordly air, the favors of every woman, young or old, he meets in the French village where he becomes a count again in his spare time.

Eventually his real status is found out, but not until he has been enlisted in royalist plots and has begun a courtship not easily terminated.

LUDWIG AT WORK ON LIFE OF LINCOLN TO APPEAR IN FEBRUARY

The announcement that the subject of the next biography by Emil Ludwig, the author of "Bismark," "Napoleon," etc., would be Mussolini is incorrect. Dr. Ludwig has been at work on a life of Abraham Lincoln for a long time, and Little, Brown & company now expect to publish this biography just before Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, 1930.

Emil Ludwig also denies the published statement that his "real name" is Emil Cohn. He has never published anything under any pseudonym whatsoever, nor has he ever changed his name at any time during his life. Emil Ludwig has been his name since birth. His father, Professor Hermann Cohn of Breslau university, a very well-known ophthalmologist, succeeded in lawfully changing the name of his children to Ludwig, as he wished to spare them the trouble of bearing a Jewish name in a country where feeling against Jews runs high. Emil Ludwig himself, however, has always underlined his Jewish ancestry.

Rats Menace Airship

LONDON.—A great quantity of rat poison, liberally used at the hangar of the R 100, said to be the world's largest airship, saved the air vehicle from destruction recently. The rats infested the hangar and it was feared that they might damage the canvas of the airship's air bag. The airship was moved from the hangar while the poison worked on the rodents.

'The Edge of the Nest' Is Moving Study of Three American Children

FRANK O. HALL

A moving study of three American children is presented by Philip Stevenson in his first novel, "The Edge of the Nest." Family life, touched with humor and tenderness, is pictured in the book.

The three children presented to the reader by the author are all similar externally but fundamentally they are all very different types.

Mr. Stevenson writes the book from the children's point of view and gradually there is unfolded before the reader a clear picture of the moment when every child must go his own way or break away for the first flight from the nest.

As every bird must someday make his first flight from the home nest, so must every child, the author says.

Mr. Stevenson goes on to say as a foreword to the book: "Sooner or later, depending on the inner and outer necessities of character and circumstance, every child feels a need to break psychologically with his parents and make his way toward maturity by his own powers. Either he succeeds in making the break, or he fails and hugs his failure, or he partly succeeds and the struggle goes on into adulthood at the expense of the full use of his natural gifts."

The author says that in writing "The Edge of the Nest" he desires the reader to exercise his greater understanding of the processes going on beneath the surface of the child's consciousness. How well Mr. Stevenson succeeds in his efforts, one only needs to read the book and he will gain a new and clearer idea of what goes on in the child's mind and heart when he gets ready to "break away from the edge of the nest."

Mr. Stevenson dedicates his book "To all who have striven for growth, knowledge and wisdom, and who have learned the human lesson of their struggle."

"The Edge of the Nest," by Philip Stevenson. Coward-McCann. New York. $2.50.

CENSORSHIP IN GREAT BRITAIN STIRS LIBERALS

"Sleeveless Errand," a first novel by Norah C. James which recently precipitated a new censorship crisis in England, will be published in America on June 6 by William Mirrow & Company.

The book was issued in London on February 21, by the Scholartis Press, and its suppression by the British Home Office on the eve of publication at once aroused a storm of protest from English liberals. The suppression was thorough, and was carried out with the cooperation of Scotland Yard officials, who visited the publisher, Eric Partridge, at his home at 8 o'clock the night before publication, escorted him to his office, and there confiscated all copies of the first edition on the premises. The police also seized advance orders of wholesalers and retailers who had bought copies, and early the next morning raided their establishments. Even reviewers did not escape the search with the result that only one actual review of the book has so far appeared in London. Outside the small shop of a bookseller who had left a copy of the book in his window on display while he took his Thursday holiday, a guard from Scotland Yard was posted from Wednesday night to Friday morning so that no one might remove the copy of "Sleeveless Errand" which rested peacefully in the window.

The effort of the British authorities to suppress "Sleeveless Errand" so completely as to avert comment on their action seems to have failed as the last two months has seen more severe criticism of censorship in England than ever before.

"Sleeveless Errand" will be issued in an English edition in Paris. It is being translated into French, German and Dutch.

One of the hottest places in the United States is in Death Valley, Calif., between the Panamint and Funeral mountains. It's temperature sometimes reaches 122 degrees above zero, Fahrenheit.

Dairying, Poultry and Hogs Bring New and Healthy Farm Development To Hall County Within Recent Years

MEMPHIS, Texas, June 1.—Hall county has developed during the past 10 years into one of the best dairying counties in this section of the Panhandle, and today, according to W. B. Quigley, president of the Citizens State bank of this city, has more Jersey cows, more hogs, more poultry, better farm implements and better horses and mules on our farms than at any time in the history of the county.

In an interview with Mr. Quigley he pointed out the salient facts that have led the farming interests on the road of prosperity, and predicted what will happen provided the campaign is continued for more and better dairy cows, hogs and poultry on every farm in the county. The following statement was obtained from banker Quigley:

"Beginning about 10 years ago, a campaign was started, having for its purpose a few dairy cows, a few hogs and poultry on every farm. Prior to that time our farm money came once a year and chiefly from cotton. The strictly cotton farmer formed the habit of borrowing money from the bank for his living expenses. Beginning as early as February, he gradually accumulated this expense to the marketing of his first cotton. A fair yield of a fair price would usually take care of his total expense. However, should any disaster, as boll worm, drought or low price overtake him, the result would be a carryover to be added to his next year's expense. This method of financing, if pursued from year to year, will keep the farmer behind. Realizing the inevitable result of this situation, the bankers of Hall county have urged the necessity of producing from stock and poultry, the home living expenses, making cotton the net profit crop.

"We have gone a long way in perfecting this plan. Today, there are more good Jersey cows, more hogs, more poultry, better farm implements and better horses and mules on our farms than at any time in the history of Hall county. Speaking personally, I would rather loan a customer $500 to buy a brood sow, some chickens and a few Jersey cows than furnish him that amount for living expenses. If the customer is thrifty and a fair caretaker, he will make his living and have his investment left with a margin of profit. In the first instance, the customer has the livestock to show for his investment with a margin of increase. In the second instance, the investment has passed through his system. I am now speaking with reference to money borrowed for living expenses.

"Every banker knows the need of better equipment on our farms. We are always glad to respond to the demand. Our farmers today, following the good crop of last year, are borrowing their usual amount and in some instances more, but I am glad to note that a very large per cent of these advances are made for better improvements, better livestock, better home surroundings. And we note this as an indication that Hall county is moving forward to take its place as the first county in our state.

"Cotton is our chief money crop and will continue to be as long as our great country responds so naturally to its production. Last year, our county produced the greatest per acre yield of any county in Texas—and that means any county in the world. We are justly proud of that magnificent record. We are known in the remotest corners of our state as the richest producer of this staple—an enviable record. However, in that, danger may lurk. Let us hold fast and cherish this good which is justly ours, at the same time, let us not put all our eggs under this bountiful basket. If we will live from the proceeds of our dairy cows, our pigs and our chickens, good old Hall county cotton will pay for the best farm to be found."

SMALL TRACT FARM IS WELL SUITED TO RAISING OF RABBITS

Poultry and Fruit Not Only Means of Using Plots

MARKETING PROBLEM MUST BE CONSIDERED

Requires Same Attention in Rabbit-Raising as in Other Things

By WILLIAM L. SMITH
Corresponding Secretary, American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders of Texas

Increasing numbers of people are becoming interested in small farm projects of all sorts and it is natural that rabbit farming should come in for its share of consideration, along with poultry-raising. The papers are full of alluring advertisements of small acreage plots, where chickens and rabbits, and fruits, berries and the like can be made to return handsome profits and bring the "farmer" the greatly coveted condition known as "independence." There is unquestionable demand for rabbit products in this country, just as there is for the product of the hen, but marketing those products at a profit becomes something of an involved proposition. It is not enough to tell the prospective rabbit farmer the extent of that demand; he should also be told something of the conditions he has to reckon with in meeting the demand. The same thing is true, of course, of the poultry business, of fruit farming, or the production of any other commodity.

Rabbit farming has grown to such proportions in this country that it has received recognition by the government and by many state agricultural agencies. The government now has in operation a rabbit experiment station at Fontana, California. It is under the supervision of the biological survey bureau, division of fur resources. Money is appropriated every year by congress for its maintenance. Very lately, a bulletin devoted to rabbit raising has been issued by the college of agriculture, University of California. Lack of research work, particularly as relates to the diseases of rabbits, has been a great handicap to the industry and the bulletin and the station work offer the kind of support the rabbit farmers need.

The greatest development of the industry has been in California which is credited with producing 70 to 80 per cent of all the rabbits in the United States. Most of the activity in southern California, where approximately one million dollars worth of meat is estimated to have been sold in the last year. At that time, the Los Angeles consumption was estimated at 20,000 dressed rabbits per week. The pelts of these rabbits were disposed of, according to their grade, as prime fur, hatters fur, or culls, and brought, in the aggregate, a very worth while sum.

The trouble is, they did not bring anything to the farmer, as a rule. A good deal has been said, first and last, about the fur angle of the rabbit farming. People are continually asking if there is a demand for rabbit fur. The best answer is in the report from the department of commerce bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, the latest report available to date. This shows that, in addition to the domestic supply, the furriers and hatters of the United States imported 105,505,506 pelts of rabbit and "coney" into this country last year at a total of $22,165,732. A large number of these skins went to the manufacturers of felt hats, for the fur of the rabbit has become the stable substitute for the fur of the beaver, which is too high for use these days. A goodly portion of them, unquestionably, were used by the garment makers, in the form of pelts processed to imitate finer and more expensive furs.

From a creitable source, within the fur trade, comes the information that about 70 per cent of the fur used in the trade today has its source in the domestic rabbit. With these figures before us, and the knowledge that the sources of the bulk of the supply are foreign, the future of the rabbit fur business looks promising. Two great factors in the business must be taken into account, however, in the first place the demand is so heavy that we cannot possibly meet it with our domestic product for a few years, even if breeding increased to several times its present extent. Until we do have quantity production, the foreign pelts will be brought in, and until the domestic supply justifies it, we cannot expect an adequate protective tariff on imported pelts. European labor conditions are such that the foreign pelts can be marketed in this country at a low price. Our fur must compete with them in price as well as quality.

Just at present, two things affecting the rabbit fur imports justify a little more optimism on the part of the domestic fur farmer. Our greatest source of supply for low grade pelts, chiefly used for hatters' purposes has been Australia. Wild rabbits were rounded up and killed by the thousands and pelted, the furs being shipped to Great Britain and the United States. The reports at present, are to the effect that these wholesale methods of slaughter have resulted in depleting the wild rabbits of Australia to the point where the government is considering some means of protecting this animal.

If Australian skins become scarce, there will naturally be a greater demand for the domestic pelt at higher prices. Again, China has shipped many thousands of rabbit skins into this country, mostly white pelts which have been snapped up on the market by the concerns making seal imitations. Present indications are that few Chinese furs, of any descriptions, will reach our shores during the unsettled conditions that prevail over there. White pelts are something the American fur trade demands in quantities, so this should react favorably to the domestic product.

EIGHT NORTHWEST TEXANS CANDIDATES FOR O. U. DIPLOMAS

Eight students residing in North and West Texas will be among more than 700 young men and young women who are candidates for degrees this spring at the University of Oklahoma in Norman.

The 36th annual commencement program of the school is to be held June 4.

Included in the list who are candidates for degrees are students from 24 states, from Canada, Mexico and Spain. Texas leads the out of state group with 40 candidates.

North and West Texas students who are candidates for degrees from the University of Oklahoma are as follows:

Wichita Falls—George William Colvert, Bachelor of Arts; James Ford Gibbs, Bachelor of Arts. Wellington—Margaret Frances Puryear, Bachelor of Science. Floydada—Gladys Irene Collins, Bachelor of Arts. Childress—Robert Lockhart Mills, B. S. in petroleum engineering; Valle Warren, Bachelor of Arts. Clarendon—Leta Verne Martin, B. F. A. in public school music. Crowell—Frances Ann Hill, Bachelor of Arts.

MAKING THE MOST OF A SMALL TRACT

Considerable has been said recently about the possibilities of the small farm tract, one to five acres, in the irrigated valley. The two-acre tract of C. V. Morris, on the lake road, is an object-lesson in the development of small plots. There is an orchard, with vegetables planted between the trees, and it presents a very tempting array just now. There is also a good-sized chicken house. This picture does not do justice to the flowers in the front yard of the Morris home, which is radiant with varied blooms.

The Morris place is at the intersection of the paved road with the Downing road.

ELECTROCULTURE

Rear and front views of electric plow to be tested as a weed and insect killer and soil improver on the 13,000-acre Sibley estate in Illinois. Harper Sibley of Rochester, N. Y., (inset), is an advocate of better farm methods.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., June 1. (AP) Electroculture, the science of applying electricity to the cultural advancement of farm crops, is to be given a practical test this spring on the 13,000-acre Sibley estate at Sibley, Ill.

Much of the seed bed preparation will be accomplished with an "electric plow," the ability of which to kill insects and weeds and improve soil is clouded by conflicting opinion.

Experiments conducted in various eastern states are said to indicate the electric shock entering the earth from the plow has such powers. The claims are not substantiated by the department of agriculture.

Current for the plow is supplied by a generator that occupies a box under the driver's seat and is operated by the tractor belt-wheel. A cable leads the current back to the box on the plow, where three transformers with a high tension condenser and rotary spark gap step the current up to 160,000 volts.

Sparks flash across two terminal balls on the rear of the box, known as sending and receiving aerials, and are led down to the two plow shares. The current goes through the earth and returns to the box through a knife that cuts through the soil in front of the shares.

In some quarters agricultural engineers believe the application of electricity causes moisture to condense on the moleboard, making the earth turn more easily and lessening the demand for motive power.

Whether it causes a beneficial reaction of soil chemicals, electrocutes insects and destroys the life germ in weed seeds is viewed by many as a matter of conjecture.

In addition, other fertility systems and the use of livestock are under test. The largest yield of corn obtained in 1928 was on a farm that has received regular applications of rock phosphate and had been in a regular rotation, including clover, since 1913. A mixed fertilizer will be used on 260 acres of corn this season.

Six of the nine farms are to become dairy units and three are to serve as cattle feeding stations. Two of the former grain farms have been combined into a 600-acre unit.

The land lies in an irregular-shaped block and every year for the last five seasons some of the farms have been combined in larger units to accommodate larger machinery.

COTTON PLANTING AND HARVEST WORK RETARDED BY RAIN

Wichita county farmers who, a month ago, were wondering if it was going to rain in time for them to get cotton planted, are wondering now if it is going to stop raining long enough to give the seed a fair start in life. The excessive rains have made replanting necessary in some fields and have caused damage to growing cotton in others. In some parts of the county, planting is still under way, the rains having been too frequent to permit earlier completion of the task.

Rain has interrupted the oat harvest and has delayed cutting of wheat. With fair weather, binders and combines will soon be at work in all of the fields where the grain is considered worth harvesting.

Needs Interpreter

SAPULPA, Okla.—Of all the humans in this country that need pity, Guy Martinez is probably one of the most deserving. Guy is a Frenchman recently arrived in this oil town. His love for his mother tongue has kept him from eating as he should ever since he's been here. The only English he knows is the equivalent for "ham and eggs."

JERSEY SHIPMENTS EXPECTED TO REACH THIS CITY SHORTLY

The shipment of blooded Jerseys for Wichita and Archer county farms is expected to reach Wichita Falls early this week, and will be promptly distributed to the owners. The shipment consists of two carloads, one of which left Michigan last Wednesday.

County Agent G. C. McGown was expected back from Michigan Saturday. He and County Agent McNeil of Archer county went north to make the purchases, which were to include bulls for four bull circles, and a number of heifers.

39 Counties in Panhandle-Plains Unite in Efforts to Exploit Farm Possibilities of That Part of Texas

HEREFORD, Texas, June 1.—The Panhandle-Plains Incorporated, of Texas, comprising approximately 36 counties in West Texas will carry on the work started by that organization last year, and even in a larger way, it was definitely decided at a meeting of the directors and interested citizens from various counties, held at Amarillo, on May 20.

The work of this organization in taking complete and composite exhibits of agricultural products grown in all parts of this section, to the fairs in the cities of the northern and eastern states, during 1928, has been one of the big factors in the sale of much farm lands over the entire Panhandle-Plains area, and these exhibits will again be placed before prospective farmers, and literature on all parts of West Texas and will be given to farmers of other states, showing data on the productiveness of the soil, kinds of crops produced, prices of lands, etc.

Augenting the work done in 1928, the three railroads of this section, Santa Fe, Ft. Worth and Denver and Rock Island, are preparing literature and descriptive photos and pamphlets covering the territory traversed by their roads, and thousands of copies of this will be placed in the cities where the exhibits are shown.

Newspaper advertising telling of the exhibits, will be run in local and state papers where the exhibits are to be shown.

At the Amarillo meeting, directors for the coming year were elected, which included the board of 1929 and two new additional directors. Directors elected include, E. B. Black, Hereford, president; Dr. O. H. Lloyd, Vega, vice president; O. V. Vernon, Amarillo, secretary and General Manager; F. H. Hill, Panhandle; Dr. J. W. Stevens, Tulia; S. A. L. Morgan, Amarillo and Sam Braswell, Clarendon.

The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce and board of city development through its agricultural committee chairman, Howard Ferguson, pledged the active cooperation of that body in the undertaking, and Secretary Manager Vernon stated that an allowance of $10,000 for the work had been made by his board. The work of gathering exhibits of crops at this time is being started by the board of city development of Amarillo, under the direction of Hamilton Luna, who will be assisted by the county agents and interested citizens in the various counties.

In an effort to raise between $4,000 and $5,000 in the counties outside of Amarillo, the directors authorized Dr. O. H. Lloyd of Vega, and Roy Arnold of Hereford to cover the various counties and lay the plan before them. Little difficulty is anticipated in raising this amount, as it will mean a very small sum for each county. Seven of the counties represented at the meeting pledged their financial quotas in the Amarillo meeting, and the others are to be raised within the next 30 days, according to President E. B. Black.

"The bringing of literally thousands of honest-to-goodness citizens into this great section of Texas will be accomplished by this organization, if we can only get the support of the counties, even in a small way," said President Black. "With the cooperation of our three great railroad systems, and the splendid and magnanimous action of the Amarillo board of city development, were going to create an era of prosperity, hitherto unknown in the Panhandle-Plains."

Exhibit managers on the various tours, which will also show at Dallas fair, Shreveport, and Oklahoma City, have not yet been named, but will be selected in the near future according to officials of the organization.

HARVESTING OF WHEAT IN FLOYD COUNTY TO BEGIN LATE IN JUNE

LOCKNEY, Texas, June 1.—Local crop reports say that wheat harvest in Floyd county should start about June 20, as a large part of the crop is showing signs of maturity. Opinions as to the probable yields vary greatly; however, many farmers estimate a 25-bushel yield from their acreage while others say their fields will produce about 10 bushels per acre.

Estimators state that 75 per cent of Floyd county's cotton acreage is planted, as ideal planting conditions have prevailed during the past ten days. Ginners predict a five per cent increase in cotton acreage over the preceding year. A few of the cotton planters report their crops up to a good stand.

Elephants are not regarded as mature until they reach the age of 30 or more.

Who are the people who have made this car such an overwhelming success?

The New Pontiac Big Six is scoring a tremendous success. All previous Pontiac production records have been surpassed in meeting the enthusiastic demand for this car. But the most interesting phase of Pontiac's latest and greatest success lies, not in the number of people who are buying it, but in the kind of people. They give the real clue to what this car provides.

The New Pontiac Big Six was created for those progressive people who had been seeking a finer low-priced automobile. It was designed to enable them to step up the quality of their motor cars without stepping out of the low-priced field. As a result, they have bought the New Pontiac Big Six by tens of thousands, enabling us once again to tell the familiar story . . . Pontiac Six reaches a new high point in sales.

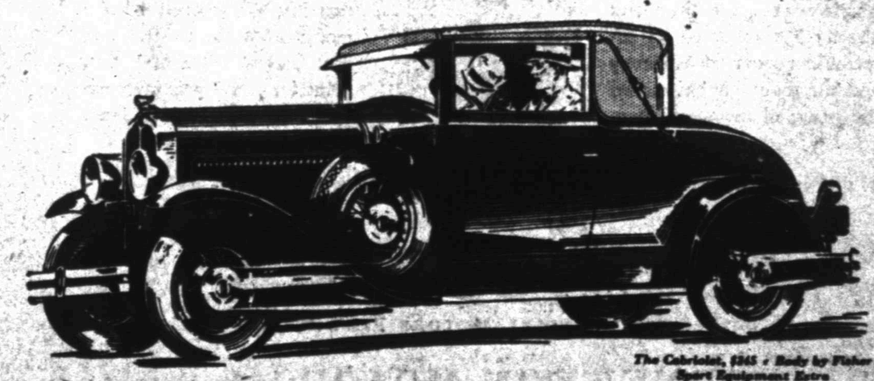

A special demonstration has been arranged to show how thoroughly the New Pontiac Big Six lives up to its name. If you will come in for this demonstration, you will learn the reasons for Pontiac's success.

Prices $745 to $895, f. o. b. Pontiac, Mich., plus delivery charges. Bumpers, spring covers and Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers regular equipment at slight extra cost. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

GAMBLE CANNOT BE TAKEN OUT OF REPARATIONS QUESTION

Germany's Ability to Pay and Her Willingness to Pay Are Points on Which Future Events Must Answer

By FRANK H. SIMONDS

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Three weary months during which the experts have wrestled with the eternal problem of reparation have served to confuse still more completely that main issue—whether Germany can pay any considerable part of the bill her enemies hold against her. Ten years ago these enemies hopefully outlined their claims, which were presently translated into a liability of $33,000,000,000. Today the claim has been cut to about $8,000,000,000. As Germany has, in the meantime, paid upwards of $4,000,000,000, this means that nearly two-thirds of the original claim has already been abandoned.

Nevertheless, it remains a matter of profoundest doubt whether any considerable part of the reduced claim can be paid. All the Paris debates over technical details and respective quotas represent in the strictest sense of the word excursions into pure speculation. It is true, of course, that the ability of Germany to pay, within her own frontiers, the principal and interest on a debt of $8,000,000,000 is beyond question. Britain is paying on a national debt of $38,000,000,000, France on a debt of upwards of $15,000,000,000. To raise the money within the national boundaries is only a question of taxation.

But how is the money raised by domestic taxation to be transferred to the creditors beyond the frontiers without bringing about the swift and complete collapse of German exchange? A nation can only pay its foreign debts by its exports, by its services and by its gold if, as in the case of Germany, it has no foreign investments. To pay this foreign debt, then, Germany must have an annual surplus of exports over imports of some $500,000,000, the annual charge of the revised debt, less whatever sums it may borrow abroad.

We Have Been Paying

So far, under the Dawes plan Germany has had not a surplus of exports but of imports, generally in excess of $500,000,000 annually. In this situation she has been obliged to meet her reparations payments and her excess of imports by foreign borrowings. And she has chiefly borrowed in the United States. We have actually lent Germany most of the money with which she has paid her enemy creditors, who have in turn paid us on account of their war debts.

It is true that substantial payments have been made by Germany in kind. Coal, dyestuffs and other manufactured articles have been sent abroad and this process can be continued, although it is plain that these payments in kind actually reduce the sum of German exports and increase the unfavorable trade balance. If Germany exports 20,000,000 tons of coal a year, to meet part of the reparations claims of France, Belgium and Italy, her coal exports will not furnish money to balance her necessary purchases of raw materials and foodstuffs.

When the experts have finished their work and gone home, therefore, while they will have at last fixed a definite sum of reparations and set up an intricate machinery for regulating payments, they will have done nothing to solve the larger problem, the problem of whether Germany can actually pay any considerable portion of her obligations. Moreover, along with the question of the capacity to pay, goes that of the will to pay.

It is manifest that this question of the will to pay is of utmost importance, for in the main it will hereafter rest with Germany whether she pays or evades. But if Germany is to pay, the first prerequisite is that she shall so order her national budget that her imports will be rigidly reduced and her exports feverishly increased. If Germany is to meet her obligations she must submit to a long period of self-denial, she must consent to a very considerable reduction in the stadard of living. Her working men must work longer hours, accept lower wages. The whole people must live as does an individual who has a huge debt to pay off—wholly out of his earnings.

Means Wartime Hardships

But how can Germany be compelled to subject itself to such a regimen? How can any government, dependent upon the votes of the masses for existence, be expected to impose real and long-continued hardships upon its constituents? If Germany is to pay her foreign debt, it is almost inevitable that the whole population subject itself to the same sort of discipline all belligerent countries endured voluntarily during the war. But what a people will do as a detail in national self-defense it is hardly likely to do merely to insure the payment of a debt that it regards as unjust.

Again, the allied countries have no future means of coercion. The German government will raise the necessary sums in German money to meet reparations by domestic taxation. This money will be paid into the bank established for the purpose of handling the reparations payments. But for international usage this money will be without value save as Germany is able to pile up a balance of foreign credits and currencies, either by a surplus of exports or by more foreign borrowing.

And obviously in the matter of foreign borrowing the limits are fairly fixed. We have lent Germany upwards of $2,000,000,000 but our loans are drying up. The condition of our own market has been such that there has been no temptation to send money abroad. And the direct consequence of this cessation of loans at the moment when the Dawes plan payments have reached the normal maximum has been to drain down the gold reserve in the Reichsbank to the danger point. Gold has flowed out to meet reparations dues and excess imports costs and none has flowed in to replace the losses.

Frankly, then, the reparations question, after Paris as before, remains a supreme gamble. Certain experts are accustomed to point to the fashion in which the United States following the civil war borrowed huge sums abroad and by reason of the vast development of the West was able to repay principal and interest. For years Europe lent us money and invested the interest we paid within our frontiers. Obviously it is conceivable that in the next four decades Germany will undergo the same sort of economic development. Actually she did enjoy such a boom between the Franco-Prussian war and the world war.

But the difference between the United States of 1865 and Germany of 1929 is patently colossal. The peace treaties stripped Germany of much of her most valuable agricultural and mineralized territory. They deprived her of her merchant fleet, which is only now beginning to become considerable again, they took away colonies which might have been susceptible of great development. Today Germany is a small, overpopulated country, which must depend on the outside world for its foodstuffs and most of its raw materials. It has a magnificent industrial plant and its people have a genius for organization and production. But it faces severe competition from Britain, the United States and, to a lesser degree, France and Belgium.

Has No Foreign Investment

Great Britain in similar circumstances is able to meet the vast surplus of imports over exports by the proceeds of its foreign investments and services, which leave it a favorable balance of upwards of $1,000,000,000 annually. France which exports almost as much as it imports, has a net surplus annually of over $250,000,000 drawn chiefly from the vast tourist expenditures within French frontiers. But Germany has no foreign investments and small tourist trade. If you look at Germany as a business, it has been "in the red" every year since the war, not merely because of reparations payments, but even more because it has had to buy more than it could sell.

All of this was foreseen in the Dawes plan, which provided that all reparations payments should be suspended automatically whenever they threatened to bring German exchange below par. This famous transfer clause, Dr. Schact has preserved for all future payments, save about one-quarter. Actually Germany undertakes to pay unconditionally, judging by preliminary figures, no more than $120,000,000 annually. But this represents the capital value of little more than $2,000,000,000. For the rest, she agrees to pay only as she can, that is, only as payments can be made without bringing her money below par.

Must Pay in Kind

But this $120,000,000, which with certain additions may reach almost $150,000,000, is actually no more than what Germany can safely calculate to pay in kind, largely in coal, potash and dyestuffs. Thus, in fact, the new settlement of reparations amounts to no more than a fixation of the total German obligation at $8,000,000,000—instead of $33,000,000,000—one quarter guaranteed unconditionally, three quarters no more than a pure gamble. If Germany "comes back" strong and promptly, her payments are assured, but if it takes a generation for her to get back to a point where her income largely exceeds her expenditure, it is clear that she will not pay, because she cannot.

Moreover, for the people of the United States it is at least worth noting that precisely the amount that represents the great gamble in the German case is the amount that Germany's creditors have marked down to meet their own debts to the United States. The Paris meeting of experts has provided the machinery and the method by which Germany shall pay the allied debts to the United States, but no one knows or can know for a long time whether Germany can pay or not. If she can, all the old bitterness between the United States and our wartime associates will tend to disappear. But if she cannot pay, her failure will inevitably lead to pressure by all these wartime associates for a new adjustment of debts.

The experts have fixed the method by which Germany will pay if she can pay, the politicians are naturally attempting to give this settlement the appearance of a general liquidation, but in fact, while the reparations problem has been solved again, the latest political solution waits upon the disclosure of the economic realities. Germany's creditors have agreed that she shall not pay three quarters of what they once set the bill at, but as to the remaining quarter the old riddle remains.

Necessity Brews Strange Liquor

CHICAGO.—Necessity is the mother of invention, and Jerry Parrish needed a drink bad so he invented the "gas cocktail." Jerry, a "bo" of points north, south, east and west, arrived here with little money and lots of nerve—in addition, he had a violent thirst. He panhandled 20 cents, 15 cents of which went for a room, and the other for a rubber hose. Jerry retired to his room, got himself a glass of water, attached the hose to a gas pipe, inserted it in the glass of water and turned on the gas. "I let it bubble for a minute," Jerry told police, "and then I swallowed it. Cheapest drunk I ever did know. Throw a swell party for a nickel. And, what a wallop."

ABE MARTIN ON THE WOMAN'S PAGE

Miss Fawn Lippincut read a paper on "The Woman's Page" before the Art Embroidery Club yisterday afternoon as follers. '"How may I boil an egg in three minutes?" is a sample o' the many questions which come to the desk o' the Woman's Page editur, an' which must be answered fer the correspondent may be a subscriber, or a potential advertiser. Herewith is the answer to the egg question: 'First git your egg. Then git an illuminam vessel (tin or granite 'll answer) an' fill the same half full o' clean water. Set on stove an' allow to come to boil. Take egg in thumb an' index finger an' drop in vessel. Count 60 slowly three times an' lift egg from vessel with tablespoon. In a home where a stop watch is available the time devoted to countin' may be profitably employed with other duties o' the kitchen.' The editur o' the Woman's Page must have a wide, general knowledge o' ever'thing pertainin' to women. Fallin' hair, flat chests, flabby knees, marriage, an' receipts fer carrots an' apricots ground together an' frozen in calf's foot jello, freckles, moles an' catsup. In the event a young wife is asked to entertain some folks from, we'll say Oberlin, O., jest fer convenience, who used to know her husband, she naturally turns to the Woman's Page to see how to swing it. There she's purty apt to find out how to make a chuck steak tasty an' allurin', how to brighten up her dinin' room with scarlet radishes, or pickled beets, parsley an' golden carrot shavin's. The Woman's Page tells a girl with a mustache, or embryo sideburns how, by a slow, tortuous rocess she may yit be queen o' May, or the idol of her frat. The Woman's Page tells ole girls who kin almost remember when Charles Dickens visited this country how they kin be tinted up an' girdled in an' put back on the market, an' it tells a young lady what to put in her suit-case fer a week-end at Knightstown, or a sleeper jump to distant relatives. Even when a girl writes in, 'What's to become o' the girl who won't neck an' pet?' the editur o' the Woman's Page will make a study o' her case an' advise her. Ther's allus some knotty problem fer the editur of the Woman's Page to work out. Take moles, fer instance. Now that sun back dresses are comin' in, the question o' moles seems to be uppermost in the minds o' most young ladies. Fer almost a week I've been readin' up on moles, how they kin be driven back or scooped out. A mole operation is anything but pleasant. A mole is a sign o' rich, pure blood, an' personally I wouldn't disturb one. A well-placed mole is cute. But ther's no end to the useful hints both beauty an' household, to be found on the Woman's Page. How to make aprons from shirt tails, how to keep rhubarb pies from floodin', how to tell a good cucumber, how to revive wilted turnips, how to keep a diamond ring after a splitup, how to winter a rubber plant in the latitude o' Benton Harbor, Mich., how to avoid appearin' in court, various ways of usin' empty salmon cans, how to open a charge account, or dip a hat in naphtha. The modern way o' dressin' an' paintin' greatly prolongs the fling of us women. We vote an' git more alimony than ever, but we must not fergit that we're payin' a purty fancy price fer stayin' in the procession, an' any little helpful hints we kin pick up on the Woman'se Page is just so much saved.

CLEATOR MOOR, England.—A horde of rats followed by a swarm of their lesser kin, the mice, stopped traffic on a main road near here recently. The rats kept closely grouped and made the road appear black as they crossed. Several thousand rats crossed the road in the 10 minutes.

you can't substitute adjectives for engineering

When somebody invents a car that will run on superlative adjectives, the motoring millennium will surely be with us.

Up to date, however, the efforts to substitute adjectives for engineering have been such dismal failures that the verbally-operated car still seems a long way off.

So until the "hot-air" motor is perfected, the Chrysler-built De Soto Six will continue to depend on its engineering and leave the adjectives to the other fellow.

Because it is typically Chrysler-engineered, De Soto Six already has achieved an admirable record of economy and durability. It has earned the praise of thousands upon thousands of owners by its gratifying performance, its handling ease and its low cost of operation and maintenance.

In addition to its ability to perform and keep on performing, it is handsome and comfortable. Chrysler-designed weatherproof brakes give it exceptional safety.

Here is a six-cylinder car priced well below $1,000 that inspires real pride of ownership in any company. The purchase of a De Soto Six is the kind of economy dictated by wisdom and not necessity.

Before you take a demonstration just ask yourself what a motor car ought to do. You will find that De Soto Six, point for point, pleasingly exceeds all your expectations.

Choice of Color at No extra cost

A Special Show of Motor Car Color Designs

The smartness and distinction of your chosen color design—at no extra cost. Come to our Special Color Show and see the great variety of color combinations from which you may choose.

An exclusive manufacturing achievement makes this wide selection, at no extra cost, absolutely exclusive to the Super-Sixes. And it caps the great array of values with which Essex the Challenger has swept the six-cylinder field.

Last month, for instance, more than 225 different color combinations on various models were supplied to Essex buyers. In this territory any Hudson-Essex dealer is prepared to show and to give you a wide choice. Your individual selection, from among the options, will be shipped from the factory within 48 hours of the receipt of your order, at no extra cost.

And color is but one point of Essex advantage. The conviction of greatest value which Essex gives on sight is borne out in Performance of brilliant range and smoothness, and a wealth of fine car detail, never before associated with this price class.

Its smooth and dashing power; its large, roomy, fine bodies; its 76 outstanding new features; its Speed challenging up to 70 miles an hour; with reliability that permits 60 miles an hour for hour after hour; and Economy of 18 to 20 miles per gallon and upward—all these make Essex a formidable challenger of any car the market offers.

NATION'S PRESENT-DAY ISSUES AND PROBLEMS ARE NOT NEW

Enforcement, Railroad Valuation And Other Questions Have Loomed Large at Washington in Other Days

By MARK SULLIVAN
(Copyright, 1929, by New York Herald Tribune)

SULLIVAN

To one who reads the day's news in the light of history, a frequently recurring state of mind is irony. Irony is not a good thing to put into print very freely. Each generation is entitled to have faith in its own lawmakers. Any generation tends to resent having its lawmakers pointed out as futilely repealing past experience, or going counter to it. Nevertheless, history does show that much of what seems new is actually ancient. It shows that much of what now seems expedient, has been tried before.

Persons called "intellectuals" know this. Knowing it, they tend to say to more often than our patience can tolerate. That is one reason why the intellectuals have, on the whole, less weight with us than it is desirable they should.

One man who must experience a good deal of irony in watching current events is the vennerable Senator Burton, of Ohio. He is a scholar and knows history. Not only written history, Senator Burton has been in public life so long that he has seen fully a quarter of our entire national history in the making. Within his own lifetime he has seen the wheel make the complete turn more than once.

Senator Burton has seen the tariff revised downward—in the early '90s, by the Democrats—and a few years later he has seen the predicted all-good fail to arrive. Then he has seen the tariff revised upward, in 1897, by the Republicans, and again he has seen the all-good fail to eventuate. Again, and yet again, Senator Burton has seen the wheel make a complete round—tariff revision upward by the Republicans, in 1909; revision downward by the Democrats in 1913; revision upward by the Republicans, in 1922, and so on.

These complete revolutions have been seen by many men still alive, not only as to the tariff, but as to currency, taxation and many other subjects of legislation and of judicial decision. (It is unfortunate, perhaps, to couple Senator Burton with any generalization about irony, for as it happens he is a man with a well poised mind and a hopeful heart, who retains the conviction that the spiral, on the whole, winds upward.)

What Cleveland Said

President Hoover has just appointed a commission on law enforcement, for the purpose, among others, as expressed in his inaugural address, that justice shall be more swift, that the procedure in federal courts shall be simplified and expedited.

In connection with President Hoover's commission, read the following passage, the earnest words of a president of the United States:

"Abuse in the administration of our criminal law should be remedied . . . The nullification of small and technical offenses, especially under the provisions of our internal revenue laws (liquor laws) render some change in our present system very desirable, in the interest of humanity as well as of economy. The district courts are now crowded with petty prosecutions."

That is, of course, you say, an utterance of President Hoover. It is part of his plea and part of his reason for appointing his commission on law enforcement and setting it to work.

But indeed, reader, it is not. The words were written by President Grover Cleveland, in the year 1885, in a message to congress in which he expanded on "the growth through federal legislation of new kinds of minor criminal offenses."

Incidentally, the legislation asked by President Cleveland was never passed; the changes urged by him were never made. The need that he pointed out in 1885 remains today, together with the additional needs accumulating through forty-four years, as the imperative necessity for the work President Hoover's Commission on Law Enforcement has undertaken.

And Hip Flasks

In this field of history repeating itself the illustrations are many. For example, read the following passage:

"The Fairport, N. Y., Woman's Christian Temperance Union is now much grieved over the fact that boys in public schools are carrying flasks of liquor in their pockets, tempting the younger boys to drink. All efforts to ascertain where the liquor has been obtained have been unavailing. Does not every mother's heart in the land cry out?"

Of course, that is, you say, a comment on the evils of our present-day prohibition. It is, you say (at least you say so if you are a "wet") a proof of the troubles that have come upon us since and because the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted in 1919.

But indeed, brothers and sisters, you are quite wrong. That passage is copied from a periodical published on Feb. 15, 1885, The Union Signal, then the official organ of the W. C. T. U., and recently resurrected by the present organ, The W. C. T. U. Bulletin.

Here is another passage which reads like today's newspaper talking about present-day prohibition. Actually, it is a summary of a news article in the New York Tribune for May 22, 1909, the summary being printed in the Herald Tribune's "Twenty Years Ago Today" column:

"Mason Trowbridge, one of District Attorney Jerome's young assistants spoke last night to a youthful audience at Calvary Baptist chapel. He asserted that the City of New York spent $35,000,000 a year fighting the evils caused by rum, and declared that if the saloons were voted out of existence in this state there would be a reduction of at least a third in the number of criminals, paupers and lunatics."

The Valuation Question

We had, just the other day, a decision of the Supreme Court about railroad valuation which ultimately will determine railroad rates. By many who read the commotion in the daily newspapers doubtless the situation was regarded as new. But it was not new. Railroad valuation happens to be one thing that has gone round the full circle once, and is just now midway of another revolution. Understanding of this subject will lead to understanding of several other aspects of current affairs.

Most of the railroads were built in the '60s and '70s. They were built with little dollars, for in that period following the Civil War the dollar was worth about 50 cents.

Presently, in the late '90s the little dollar grew to a big dollar. Thereupon the railroads took a position about valuation. They wanted the railroads valued at the number of dollars actually spent to build them. They wanted at that time the valuation of railroads to be what is called "actual investment"—that is, the number of dollars (little dollars) actually invested.

The State of Nebraska (and other states) took a different view. They wanted valuation to be what they called "cost of reproduction"—that is, the number of dollars (big dollars) which it would cost to build the roads anew under the changed purchasing power of the dollar.

The case went up to the courts in a suit known as "Smythe vs. Ames." William Jennings Bryan, then making his appearance in public life as an exponent of radical doctrines, "horned in" to the law suit—as a friend, of course, of the State of Nebraska and of the "cost of reproduction" theory of valuation.

The railroads lost. Nebraska and Bryan won. The decision to Smythe vs. Ames said, in effect, that the valuation of a railroad is, speaking roughly, what it would cost to reproduce it.

The Changing Dollar

Time passed, as the oldtime melodramas used to say. The great war came in 1914. Thereupon the wheel of the dollar began another revolution. Big dollars once more became little dollars—as they had after the civil war, as they do after all wars.

Again rose the question of railroad valuation. Again it came to the supreme court. But this time the roles of plaintiff and defendant are exactly reversed.

Now, in a period of little dollars, the railroads want their valuation to be "cost of reproduction." Now the railroads are contending valiantly for exactly the theory which in 1897 they denounced as an atrocious radicalism invented by William Jennings Bryan. The railroads today, in short, are in the shoes that Bryan occupied 30 years ago.

Similarly now the agencies of government, as well as the progressives and radicals, have likewise reversed their position. They are making today the arguments the railroads made in 1897.

And back of it all and beneath it all is the changing value of the dollar—from 50-cent dollars in 1870 to 100-cent dollars in 1897; and now back to 50-cent dollars.

To complete this particular bit of irony, to make it twice perfect—just one more half-circle of the wheel is required. One can envisage the most exquisite of ironies. Suppose the railroads should win their present contention (as they partially won it in the O'Fallon case). And suppose, then, the dollar should make another half-circle. Suppose the present 50-cent dollar should become by, say, 1940, a 100-cent dollar.

In this disquisition, it should be said, many statements are made and phrases used, with the looseness that brevity sometimes causes. A strictly legalistic history of railroad valuation would be more exactly phrased and would be very much longer. It would not, however, differ materially from the loose and abbreviated narrative given here.

From all of which very many lessons might be drawn. One of the most important is that the value of the dollar ought not to be permitted to change, to range from 100 cents down to 50 cents or less, and then back to 100 cents again. Among all the causes of human discontent, of political commotion, of judicial difficulty and confusion, even of moral and ethical instability—among all the causes that produce such results probably the most provocative one consists of changes in the value of the dollar.

A dollar should be the same dollar always. Professor Irving Fisher has a plan which he thinks would make it so. If his plan is sound it ought to be adopted.

Forty Years Ago

There is yet another analogy, ominous to those public utilities described by Senator Norris, of Nebraska, as collectively "the power trust."

During the '80s, '90s and early 1900s the railroads committed many iniquities. Their iniquities led to political commotion. In the end congress took notice of them harshly. In 1906, during the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, the railroads were brought into subjection to public opinion and to law.

Between the things the railroads did in the '90s and things charged against the public utilities today there is an almost perfect parallel. In some respects the actions of the railroads were the more offensive; in other respects, the actions of the public utilities are the more contemptuous of public opinion.

For example, the railroads undertook to destroy some citizens and some corporations by giving secret rebates on freight rates, to competing citizens and corporations. That was one of the principal charges against the railroads, and it was abundantly proved. As respects the public utilities today, the writer has heard no charge that they give secret rebates or practice unfair discrimination in rates.

But as respects attempts to influence public opinion by secret approach to the press, it is the public utilities who are the greater offenders. The railroads used to give free passes to practically every editor and reporter; they occasionally bought a newspaper and concealed their ownership of it; they set up an elaborate "publicity bureau" (then something new), to collect information about all the newspapers in the country, little or big, and about their susceptibility to railroad propaganda.

But the railroads did nothing comparable to the purchases of newspapers by public utilities, recently revealed; nor to the introduction of public utility propaganda into school books, nor to the payments made by public utilities to newspaper writers and college teachers.

With some variations, everything charged or proved, or both, against the public utilities today, was charged, or proved, or both, against the railroads 25 to 40 years ago. The speeches made in the senate now by Senator Norris, Senator Walsh, of Montana, and others; the revelations brought out by the federal trade commission—all these actions and utterances about public utilities today can be found duplicated, in effect, in the railroad debates in congress in 1906 and earlier.

Mother of $6,000,000 Caught

American tourists are to be shown the mother of the greatest family in the world when they visit Plymouth, England, next summer. She is Clara, the world's biggest herring, who has earned the title of Mother of the Shoals. She was caught off Plymouth recently and taken to the Plymouth laboratory of the Marine Biological association, where herrings and their habits are studied. Clara is 14 inches long, and as large in girth as a good-sized mackerel. An official of the laboratory has figured by markings on her scales that she is at least 16 years old. As herrings lay from 30,000 to 40,000 eggs a year, and Clara probably did better than that, her progeny is estimated to have been at least 50,000,000, which is larger than the biggest catch ever landed.

Peyton Manager Of Auto Dealers Salvage Company

R. M. Peyton, city salesman for the Archenhold Auto Supply company and secretary of the Wichita Falls Automobile Dealers association for the past several years, has been appointed manager for the new Auto Dealers Salvage company, which will begin operation in the near future. The newly formed corporation, which is being sponsored by the city's automobile dealers, will be located on North Scott street and will employ six men besides Mr. Peyton upon opening. A building, located on the railroad tracks, will be erected at once, Mr. Peyton stated.

According to Mr. Peyton, it is estimated that 2,500 used cars will be salvaged during the company's first year. He states that this will eliminate many cars from the city streets and highways, cars which are now unsafe for driving and which are being traded time and again to local dealers as used cars. Under the contemplated arrangement the salvage company will buy cars from all dealers, whether stockholders in the company or not, and under no circumstances will a complete car be sold from the yard. Metals and all scrap will be sold to the steel furnaces and metal smelters.

The buyer for the salvage yards makes periodic trips among the dealers and appraises their cars. They are then either driven to the yard or towed there by the company's tow wagons. The first process in the yard is the removal of tires, which are assorted as to salability. Steel in the cars is cut up and made into three grades. Non-ferrous metals obtained are classified, graded and sold as cast aluminum, sheet aluminum, high speed bearing metal, two grades of copper and three grades of brass. Batteries, radiators and other equipment are likewise retained.

The average price that has been paid for salvage automobiles in other sections, notably St. Louis, where a large yard is operated by the St. Louis dealers, is $16 each. Some cars are purchased as low as $2.50 and others as high as $35. Large shears are used for cutting up the scrap and for bushelling.

As rapidly as a sufficient quantity is accumulated by the shears it will be loaded into gondola cars which will be brought in on the switch tracks coming into the yard.

The corporation, which is capitalized for $10,000, with $5,000 paid in, is under the guidance of the following Wichita county automobile men: C. T. Boone, Knight-Whippet Co., Inc., president; D. L. Fritz, Fritz Motor company, vice president; W. Asbill, Lina Motor company, Electra, vice president; Paul B. Slot Machines for Bicycles

Coin-in-the-slot locks for cyclists are being placed in prominent places in Berlin, Germany. Depositing the coin releases a chain with a lock and key, and the cyclist fastens his bicycle, pockets the key and goes on his way feeling sure that his wheel will be protected.

Marquette is the smartest of the smart. Low-swung, rakish, hug-the-road lines. Beautiful color harmonies. Tailored and fitted to perfection. And what a performer this remarkable car is! Imagine flashing from 10 to 60 miles an hour in 31 seconds! Think of accelerating from 5 to 25 miles an hour in high gear up a long 11.6% grade! (The average road grade is 7%). Think of riding at 68 to 70 honest miles an hour with complete safety and comfort. That's the kind of pick-up and power and speed you need in a car nowadays—and that's what you get in the Marquette.

THE MOST COMPLETE CAR EVER OFFERED IN THE $1000 FIELD

Body by Fisher. All closed bodies are the latest product of the world's finest closed body craftsmen.
Non-glare Fisher VV type ventilating windshield—a brand new feature. With the tilted windshield the driver is not annoyed by headlights in back of his car or coming toward him—there are no distracting reflections.
New type mohair upholstery—has rubberized back—is waterproof and dustproof—a new development by Fisher, first shown on the Marquette—a great improvement.
Spacious rear seat—47½ inches in width—three adults can ride in perfect comfort.
Remarkable power plant—motor develops 67.5 brake horsepower and provides the most brilliant performance ever achieved in this price field.
Piston displacement 212.8 cubic inches—a bigger displacement than any other car in the $1000 field, indicating power to meet every demand.
High-compression cylinder head—special non-detonating design.
Rubber engine mountings—at all four suspension points—shocks and jars to chassis frame are absorbed before they reach the engine.
Automatic heat to carburetor—saves fuel and insures quick warm-up and easy starting in all seasons.
Thermostatically-controlled water cooling—insures normal operating temperature of motor in shortest possible time.
Crankcase ventilator prevents oil dilution.
Forced lubrication—to all main bearings, connecting rod bearings, cylinder walls, camshaft bearings, and chain drive—the best engineering practice.
Crankshaft weighing 75 lbs. is placed in both static and dynamic balance—to assure a smooth, quiet motor at all speeds.
Four-wheel internal-expanding brakes—Duo-Servo type protected from dirt and water.
Brake cross shaft is equipped with three bearings as an added protection—providing useful braking power in every event. Controlled with self-aligning bearings which are not affected by chassis strains and twists.
Guide tilt-ray lamps—a fine car feature unusual in a car in the $1000 class.
A host of other extraordinary features that combine to make the Marquette America's most complete car in the $1000 field.

There are so many surprising new things about the Marquette that you must see it to get a true impression of what a marvelous value Buick has created. On display today at Buick and Marquette dealers'.

BUICK INTRODUCES NEW SIX WITH L-HEAD ENGINE

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

FLINT, Mich., June 1.—Buick dealers open their showrooms throughout the country today with a new product on their floors—the Marquette, a six-cylinder L-head automobile to be sold in the $900 to $1,000 price range.

The Marquette, titled after that famous French explorer whose adventures are linked with the pioneer history of Michigan, is a surprise in more ways than one.

First, we see an L-head motor made the companion of a valve-in-head favorite. Second, we find a comparatively large-sized automobile for the price it is being offered. Third, we are introduced to features in this smaller car that have heretofore been exclusive to its higher priced companion. And finally we discover a low-priced machine into which high quality materials and workmanship have been put.

So far as the car's motor is concerned, it is nothing new in principle. But it does feature itself in the way it is put together and in the various accessories applied to it to make it what its manufacturers claim as "the best performing engine in its price class."

Shines in Performance

The cylinders have a bore of 3¼ inches and a stroke of 4⅝ inches, larger than those of all other sixes in its price range. As a result the motor develops 67.5 horsepower and shows remarkable performance for its size. Tested for more than 250,000 miles at the General Motors proving grounds, the motor has been able to accelerate a standard four-door sedan with two passengers, or 450 pounds load, up an 11.6 per cent hill 1,400 feet long from five miles an hour to 25 miles an hour in high.

The same car, driven under unbiased test conditions, has shown to accelerate from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 8.8 seconds, from 10 to 25 miles an hour in 6.3 seconds, and from 10 to 40 miles an hour in 13.4 seconds.

It has been shown to attain a maximum speed of nearly 66 miles an hour measured accurately by means of the "fifth wheel speedometer,' and its average fuel consumption is about 17 miles to the gallon. Its engineers say freely that the car can be driven constantly at 60 miles without fear of harming the motor.

Built Well Throughout

Their assurance of such performance is based on the sturdy construction of the engine as well as that of the chassis and its constituent moving parts. They have put into it light case iron pistons on the assumption that these will be able to withstand the heat and strain of a fast operating motor better than aluminum or alloy pistons.

Another basic improvement among the low priced cars that has been introduced in the Marquette is the use of steel-backed bearings for the crankshaft. This type, in place of brass-backed bronze bushings, are said to be much sturdier and to last much longer, although they cost more and are harder to make.

L-head engines are notorious for their hard starting, even in comparatively warm weather. So to facilitate easy starting in the Marquette, the Buick engineers have not only provided a thermostat arrangement to prevent the water of the cooling system being further cooled by passing through the radiator too soon, but have added an automatic heat control unit of the type used on the Buick.

By this, the first exhaust puffs are immediately returned over the intake to heat the incoming fuel mixture to a gaseous and more inflammabel state. As soon as the motor is warm enough, the heat control opens wide to allow the exhaust gases to leave the proper way.

Many Good Features

Gasoline pump fuel feed and air cleaner.

An especially large muffler, with a long pipe out to the rear, keeps the noise of the exhaust down almost to a purr.

In the transmission, the single disc clutch has a series of small shock-absorbing springs built into it to absorb any slight vibrations that might occur between engine and transmission. Adjustments to the clutch are made merely by taking up on the foot pedal.

Sturdy Chassis

Even more striking in quality than the engine is the chassis. It is made of a heavy steel frame tapered from the front to a width in back that gives ample room for three passengers. Its springs are attached by sturdy self-lubricating shackles which are kept from rattling by means of a tight spring. The stiff frame also permits heavier construction in fenders and running boards.

Proceeding from one part of the car to another, nothing but quality and sturdiness of material can be noted. The brakes are of the two-shoe, fully enclosed type, and the system is so constructed that if there happens to be a break even in the servo-cross-member, which is most serious, although hardly probable, at least one side of the braking system can still be used.

The wheels have heavy wood spokes or thick steel spokes, sturdy enough to carry twice the weight of the Marquette. On them are especially large tires which help keep the car to the road at its highest speed.

A steering gear of the worm and nut type, adjustable for wear, is of a size that permits of easy steering under slow traffic conditions while at the same time it holds the car well in control at high speed.

Has Slanting Windshield

In accordance with this construction the bodies, of six types, are also well built as well as finely designed. Perhaps the outstanding feature of the body is the slanting windshield to cast downward the glare of headlights from behind. This is the first closed car to incorporate this feature.

As a result of this, the corner posts have been widened at the base, assuring greater firmness, and thinned out upward so as to afford greater possible outlook at the line of sight.

Every part of the body is well fitted and of the same sturdy construction as the engine and chassis. The headlamps rest on strong chromium plated supports, besides being held in place by a strong crossbar. Even the tail-light, instead of coming out of the rear fender on a curved sheet of metal, is fastened to a thick pipe through which its wires are carried and which reaches out from underneath the body in back.

The bumpers are fastened firmly and directly to the ends of the chassis frame instead of being carried on extending bars of spring steel. They seem to be there to stay.

With all this attention paid to the firm construction of the Marquette, its engineers have not overlooked the great demand for beauty of line and color. So they have brought out bodies that are sure to attract widespread attention and interest.

"We haven't skimped the least bit in designing and constructing the Marquette. We have done our best to put the highest of quality into every little detail of the car, even to the size and construction of the hub caps and the design of the emblem."

ON A COMMUTATION TRAIN

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

Griggs—(Dealing the cards) I see where there's a commission appointed by Hoover to stop this bootlegging.

Brown—One club. There can't any commission stop bootlegging. Them fellers is in too strong with the police.

Jones—One heart. They could stop it all right if people wouldn't buy the stuff off of them.

Finnegan—Double one heart. You guys don't know what you're talking about. This commission ain't going to stop bootlegging. It's just going to see how much of it there is.

Brown—Two clubs. And I'll make it three if anybody gets gay. I could tell 'em how much of it there is. I could give them the addresses of 15 joints not a block from my office. What do they want of a commission to find out what everybody knows?

Griggs—Pass. A commission has got the right to go into them places and make arrests.

Finnegan—So have the cops. But you don't notice them doing it do you?

Jones—Well, it oughta be stopped. It's against the law. The way to make laws unpopular is to enforce them. Anybody knows that.

Griggs—That's a good one. There ain't never been a law more unpopular than this Volstead law, and it ain't being enforced is it?

Finnegan—It ain't so unpopular with the bootleggers and the guys that stake them to their capital.

Griggs—They don't need anybody to stake them after they've been in business for a while. The lad that runs the dump where I get a little drink now and then soaks me seventy-five cents a drink, and believe me if that drink is worth seventy-five cents water is worth seventy-five cents an ounce for that is about all I get.

Brown—Sure. That's what's the matter with the law. You don't get good stuff. It's all cut.

Finnegan—Well, what I want to know is what the commission is going to do. Those big birds that Hoover put on it ain't going to go around raiding, that's a cinch.

Jones—No, of course not. But they might collect evidence and turn it in to Hoover. Nobody would suspect a lot of judges and college professors of being dicks. They could sure get the goods on those hooch peddlers, and everybody would believe them if they went on the stand.

Finnegan—Well something out to be done about it. You know I looked up my check account the other day and found out where I had paid seven hundred dollars to the grocer last week, and five hundred of it must have been for wet stuff.

Griggs—Yes, he's got the right idea all right. What this country needs is respect for law, and protection for growing children. I see in the paper where a lot of fourteen-year-old boys out in Pennsylvania has been expelled from school for making home brew.

Jones—Sure. And them boys will all grow up to be bootleggers if something ain't done pretty quick.

Brown—But what can be done. Everybody wants a drink now and then, and is willing to take a jail chance to get it.

Finnegan—Not me. If it was against the law to drink the stuff I'd go on the wagon.

Griggs—It is against the law to drink the stuff.

Jones—Are you going to play or not?

Griggs—Never mind about playing. We got to get this thing settled.

Finnegan—But if Hoover can't settle it how can us guys settle it.

Jones—It's people like us that has got to do the settling. The majority rules don't it.

Griggs—That's a joke about the majority rules. How many people do you know that's in favor of this Volstead law?

Jones—Well, not so many.

Griggs—And practically everybody you know is against it. It was congress that wished this prohibition on us, not any majority.

Jones—But ain't congress elected by a majority?

Brown—By a majority in the farm states, maybe, but somehow or other they always manage to hook the cities when it comes to law passing.

Griggs—Anyway the Hoover commission must be able to do something, or why was it appointed?

Finnegan—If Al Smith had appointed it, it would have done something, because he knew where he stood.

Brown—Well, Hoover knew where he stood when he appointed this commission. He wants the law enforced.

Finnegan—Well why don't he send out the army and have it enforced. Ain't he the Commander and Chief of the Army.

Jones—The country wouldn't stand for that.

Finnegan—Well all I can say is that something ought to be done. If this keeps on Canada will be richer than we are. They say them banks up there is just piled up with American money.

Griggs—And they make rotten stuff up there too.

Brown—Half that stuff don't come from Canada. It's needle beer and anybody that's got a cellar can make that.

Finnegan—But it don't do the young generation any good to see their fathers and mothers giving cocktail parties, and talking about all the good places they know.

Jones—There's something in that. I guess Hoover is right, after all.

Griggs—He's right if the feller he's appointed can do something besides dig up evidence. What we want is a law.

Finnegan—That's right. There out to be a law.

Jones and Brown—Yep, there ought to be a law.

Not So Doggie

RICHMOND, Va.—The dog population of this city has decreased more than 50 per cent during the last 10 years. In 1928 there were more than 5,000 dogs roaming city streets. Now there are only a few over 2,000 licensed canines to annoy the dog catcher. oGats, too, have decreased. There isn't one licensed goat in town, while 10 years ago there were several hundred.

Each female cod has more than 9,000,000 eggs, but the numbers are kept down by a host of enemies.

DRIVE IT THROUGH TRAFFIC

IF YOU want a car that is easy to handle in traffic, come drive this finer Oldsmobile.

The moment you pull away from the curb, you'll realize that here is a car that will give you genuine pleasure to drive. The driving position is supremely comfortable, due to the Fisher adjustable front seat and the adjustable steering wheel. Controls and instruments are conveniently arranged. Gear-shift, clutch, and brakes are easy to reach and to operate. Response to the throttle is swift and smooth.

Your first experience at a signal light will tell you that here is getaway second to none—pick-up as stageless as that of an electric motor. And each succeeding trial will prove how readily Oldsmobile flashes into the lead when the green light signals "go."

But there's more than getaway to driving in traffic—far more. Put Oldsmobile through its paces. Make opportunities for difficult tests deliberately.

Note how easily and surely Oldsmobile glides through crowded streets. See how it straightens out, almost automatically, after turning corners. Observe how quickly you can stop. Good brakes are an essential safety factor for city driving.

Oldsmobile's positive-acting four-wheel brakes are exceptionally efficient—and they are smooth, quiet, and easy to operate as well.

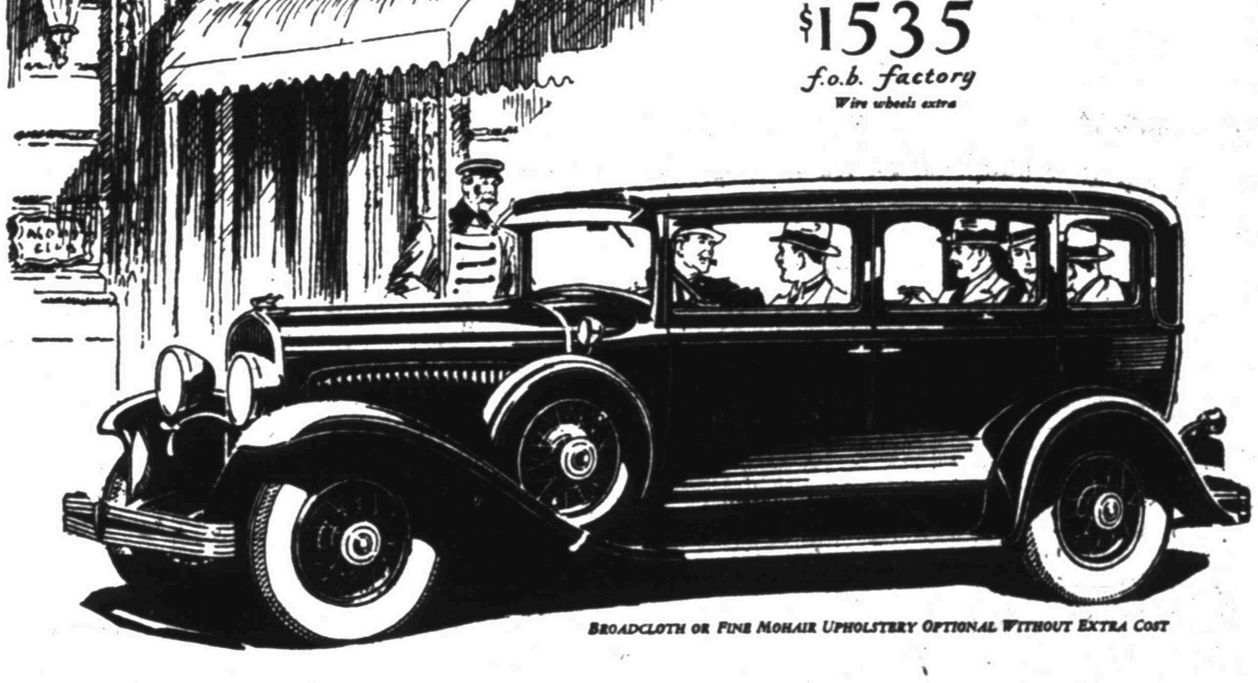

Then try parking. The same finger-tip steering and short turning radius that give you such sureness of control in driving make parking easy even in small spaces.

Just drive this Oldsmobile. Try it in traffic and on the open road. Make critical comparisons with other cars. That's the only way to find out what it can do, and how it does it. That's the way to know every phase of its performance. That's the way to judge its value.

It means something definite when thousands of people who formerly owned and drove far more expensive cars are now driving Chryslers by preference.

Today there is a general recognition of the fact that Chrysler has brushed aside old traditions and has thoroughly modernized and enlivened the automobile.

By scientific distribution of car weight, by new utilization of fuel, by advanced carburetion and correctly applied thermodynamics, Chrysler engineering has created a new efficiency, a new performance.

A perfectly-balanced chassis, with buoyant vanadium springs anchored in moulded blocks of live rubber instead of ordinary metal shackles, supplemented by hydraulic shock absorbers, means an entirely new and delightful riding comfort. The Chrysler pivotal steering principle means supreme ease of handling at all times.

As for utmost safety, Chrysler provides four-wheel internal-expanding hydraulic brakes, weatherproof and self-equalizing.

Alimony Hunters: Are They Good Sports?

By Kathleen Norris

MRS. NORRIS

The greatest curse in American life, according to at least one good authority, is alimony.

Some persons think divorce is the greatest curse; some think we are going to be ruined by religious intolerance. To many, drink is the blight of all blights, and to some the attempt to abolish drink is worse than the original evil.

Half the nation thinks that poverty is the thing that degrades and injures our rising generation, and the other half is just as sure that extravagance will cause the fall of America, as it did of Rome.

"Jazzing, artificiality, motor-cars are destroying our girls," the mothers write me. Eating, drinking, birth control, uncontrolled maternity—all these are cited in turn as the cause of our eventual decay. It all depends upon your point of view.

And the opinion of Superior Court William M. Gemmill, of Chicago, is that alimony is the greatest of all our national faults.

Men pay alimony; women spend it. Sometimes it surprises me that men don't band together on this point, as on so many others, and settle the question. There ought to be alimony regulations. Even a woman like myself, who is all for her own sex, who believes that women are infinitely wiser and better, in most ways, and generally speaking, than men are—even that sort of woman can honestly feel that of all the grafts between the two sexes, alimony is about the worst.

"The women," says Judge Gemmill, "feel that all they have to do is come into court and ask for money, and they can make the man pay for the rest of his life."

Through endless generations women have gotten the worst of the marriage contract. In savage days they were merely child-bearing slaves. They had to bear fatigue, cruelty, beating, banishment; they saw their unwelcome girl-children drowned, they were shut into harems. Little girls were burned to death on the funeral pyres of husbands they had hardly known, and certainly never loved.

The tradition came down to us. Women—often bearing the actual physical load, and always carrying the spiritual torch—was "the weaker vessel."

Woman had to fight for education, fight for the right to earn money, fight for citizenship. Her man might be as faithless as he liked, but if infidelity could be proved against her, off came her head.

Fifty years ago girls were stagnating in close, back parlors, embroidering petticoats, painting on satin, waiting to be wooed. Their bodies were swathed in corsets and stocks and ruffles, because men liked modest women and their minds were empty—" anything, dear," said an elderly relative to me some 30 years ago, "anything is better than letting a man think you are strong-minded"

The men of the era were indulgently being allowed to "sow their wild oats."

In "Pamela," a most popular and moral novel of about a hundred years ago, the heroine, after pages and pages of violent defense of her virtue, marries the hero—and he takes her to meet and caress his dear little illegitimate girl. Pamela, in an ecstasy of idolatry of her wonderful husband's tenderness, promising to love the child like a mother.

All of which makes the complete surrender of American men to the alimony situation the more amazing!

Thousands of young women today are marrying, just for alimony. They put up with a year or two of marriage, they are wives only until the first friction comes along.

Then instantly, into the courts, and a claim for every cent of alimony the conditions will permit.

One lone lorn man I know is paying three women alimony. His 17-year-old son lives with his mother in Los Angeles, his four-year-old daughter with her mother in Chicago; he lives in New York. He pays the first wife $300 a month, a salary for three years of wifehood that she has now been drawing for 16 years. The second wife, who has no child, gets $400 because his income had risen by the time they parted, and the last wife is paid $600.

This really doesn't seem fair. In no case was any real cause for divorce given; the first claimed "mental cruelty," the second "incompatibility." The third divorce was granted on the ground of "desertion"—the man agreeing to this arrangement on condition that he should have a half-interest in his child. Within half an hour of obtaining her full freedom, this third wife was in communication with another man, a very handsome, idle young man.

A husband may protest, he may even act, against a wife's infidelity. But the divorced partner, who is merely paying alimony, has no redress. His wife owes him no further loyalty.

She may have lovers—and as a matter of fact, hundreds of these professional "alimoniacs" do have lovers. Many of them don't remarry, because that would stop the even, reliable flow of the income. They find it far more fun to maintain the little establishment, arrange the charming little dinners, go in and out unchallenged, have their affairs and forget their affairs—owing no account of their actions to anyone.

Not long ago I asked a friend, who herself had been recently divorced, about a younger sister.

"Oh, Sally's lucky!" she answered quite seriously. "She's only 23, you know. She married well, she has a darling baby girl, she's divorced, and getting $500 a month. Her life is all before her!"

In another case I know a man had to haggle with his wife—the argument went on for weeks and months, before she would grant him a divorce. They had not been living as man and wife for years, but when he fell in love with another woman the first wife had the whip hand, and she knew it.

His income was $12,000 a year; they finally came to an agreement by which he paid her $7,000. She took a small apartment, she dresses beautifully, goes about a great deal, and has many love affairs. Last year, paying all expenses, she went abroad.

Meantime the husband is happily married, and has three small girls. His wife manages with one servant, and lives in an unfashionable suburb.

Well, perhaps that isn't the real hardship. Perhaps if $5,000 a year was his whole salary she would still feel herself rich. But one wonders, as the years go by, whether she often thinks of that other seven thousand thrown away on a woman who accepts it serenly as compensation for twelve years of grudging wifehood.

Personally, I can't get very much wrought up on this question of alimony. It is all a part of regarding marriage as a mere flyer in happiness, to be abandoned at the first disagreement. As long as men pick wives for the quality of their lipred, the extent of their extravagance, the shallowness of their views and the audacity of their speech, clothes, actions and ideals, there will be bitterness and disillusionment and divorce and alimony.

All that will have nothing to do with the finer type of marriage; the type that includes homes, children, companionship, courage, character-code. Any man may choose the one or choose the other; the sign-posts will leave him in no doubt which.

But if I felt as strongly on this subject as Judge Gemmill evidently does, and as so many thousands of other men do, it would seem to me worth while to work out a diminishing scale for alimony. Let the wife get $500 a month for the first year, $400 for the second, $100 for the fifth, and no money at all after the end of the sixtieth month. Sixty months of payment for nothing would give her a long comfortable time in which to get adjusted to self-support, and the little struggling second wife, with her babies, would have something to which to look forward.

It seems possible, at least, that a good many of these ambitious alimony diggers would either not marry, were there a declining scale in the alimony payments, or would make a better job of the marriage, if they did. Another Judge than Judge Gemmill considers alimony "the great single incentive to divorce." Certainly alimony puts a premium on divorce, for many a woman knows she is going to handle more of her husband's money after the separation than before.

Sinking, or tidal, or disappearing, or graded alimony might have a very tonic effect upon that troubled, dyspeptic, rheumatic, anemic old institution called marriage.

Hates School, Loves Work

"Dear Zoe: I am 15, a junior in high school. Both my mother and I have tempers and things don't go well at home. I want to quit school this spring and go to work so I can earn independence. I wanted to be a nurse. . . . I hate school and couldn't possibly finish.—BOOTS."

It is a temptation, when you "hate" school to leave and find a job. Especially these days when it is comparatively easy for a youngster to find one—that is, some kind of one. You can't realize at 15 how you will miss later on the education you did not get. Nor can you believe that loneliness and being out adrift from your family is as bad as sticking it out at home, even if home is not ideal. Few homes are. But one makes the best of them.

You remind me of myself, Boots—my young self who also hated school and didn't like my home much better. But my mother made me stick at it till I graduated. Then I tore loose and went to work. I have managed to earn a living but I have never ceased to regret, sometimes with heartsick bitterness, the education I missed. I have never been able to fill in the thin spots. I have never had time. . . .

On the other hand, I'm crazy on the subject of girls working and being really successful. It doesn't always way to have too much schooling. Some minds do not assimilate it. They are "rarin' to go." College would be utterly wasted on some of us. Yet business and professions give preference nowadays to the college-bred.

It is a tough question to decide. Like most things, it has to be adjusted individually. I do think, however, that youngsters should stick to their schooling until they are well-grounded in necessary knowledge. Not to mention the discipline it is to the character. It is never wise to cut and run at the first temptation. Patience and self-control are necessary. If I were Boots I would try to get the old temper well in hand, put up with home affairs a while longer and start to work at 18 or at least 17. For once you break loose from ties of school and home, you cannot easily go back.

Religious Prejudice

"Dear Zoe: My mother will not let me see a certain young man I like because she says she doesn't know him and because he is not of our religious denomination. We are Lutherans and she will only allow me to know persons who belong to that church. She is a wonderful mother otherwise, but it makes me very unhappy. —BLUE EYES."

Religions that are more a cause for hair-splitting and dispute than for kindness, love and peace are simply not religions. They are a state of mind. Religion should be a state of heart and spirit. I can only advise each girl to think it out for herself and form her own judgments. Religion that is accepted without deep reflection and inner conviction is useless. I personally cannot tolerate the attitude that whatever we think is the only right way to think, and that everybody else is wrong. Ask you mother respectfully if she cannot be less narrow.

Girls Wanted

"Dear Zoe: I am a 16-year-old boy in high school who gets along with boys but is 'out of it' when it comes to girls. Is it all right to ask a girl for a date if you are merely acquainted with her? They seem friendly but I am bashful.

MALCOLM."

Don't be bashful, be sensible. Bashfulness is fear, and fear is foolish when there is nothing to be afraid of. Girls are only too eager for you to be friendly. They will meet you halfway and like you all the better for being not too full of swank. Another tip: The terrors of bashfulness can be banished by admitting the bashfulness frankly. Don't try to hide it. Trot it out. Say, "Gee, you girls will have to make allowances for me. I'm scared to death of girls—bashful as a violet, really I am."

And in one minute embarrassment will leave you. Fact!

Secrets Will Out

"Dear Zoe: I am thinking of marriage. How do I apply for a license? I am 21 and my girl 18. We want to keep it secret a year or so until we have enough to go housekeeping. Are we foolish?

H. P. C."

Mmm-m-m-ll—I don't think so much of the idea. Why wouldn't it be better to marry, if you are both sure you love enough, and carry on a working partnership till you have saved something? Either that or an understanding that if you both feel the same about it in a year's time you will marry? Secret marriages aren't so good. They don't always remain secret for one thing. Whereas if you marry openly and both keep on working for a while you have the joy of a little home in the very start and both have a share in making it.

The license is merely a blank with printed questions which you must answer truthfully. The clerk will help if necessary.

A Very Good Kind

"Dear Zoe: I am a girl of 19, lame and deaf. I love a young man I have known three years. My mother objects, saying he is not my kind. What shall I do?

POOR LIZZIE."

Your letter is too brief for me to advise you very sensibly, but from a surface glance I should say your young man must be a very good kind indeed.' He evidently cares for you in a way not based on frivolities. Ask your mother to explain more fully what she means. Try to have a closer understanding with her. Ask your Dad too. If I am always recommending Dads to girls whose mothers don't fully sympathize, it is because my own Dad was such a dear friend to me! Dads can be such pals to their daughters if only the daughters will confide in them.

Bring to a Boil

"Dear Zoe: I have known a young man two years—just pals. How can I become more interesting to him? He does not live here and we meet only twice a month. His mother died. Since then he has seemed much depressed. How can I show my love for him?

SMILES."

It should not be so difficult if you happen to be anything the same type his mother was as a girl, and can write a good letter. Make him feel you are as interested in him and all he does and wants to do as his mother was. Study him. If he inclines to homely things invite him to your house as often as possible and let him bask in an atmosphere of quiet and domestic peace. Suggest in your letters the idea of home. Draw his thoughts subtly in that direction. Get him in the habit of your letters.

Why Mothers Get Grey

NEW BRITAIN, Conn, May 30.—While Mrs. Helen Procko was hanging clothes on the third floor verandah of her home, her 15-month-old daughter climbed from her crib and locked mama out. Mrs. Procko's attempts at getting back into the house were futile, and she finally roused a neighbor, who called the fire department. Two firemen got in the house through a window and let Mrs. Procko in.

WILL HAS READ ANOTHER BOOK

By WILL ROGERS

Well, all I know is just what I read in books. You remember a few weeks ago I was telling you about starting in to improve myself with some book learning and I started in on that Girls book "The Cradle of the Deep." She was the Girl that would just walk up and slap a Shark in the face if he started pulling any wisecracks at her. Well buying that Book got me into a Book store. Well I had no idea there was as many books as there must be. Half the world that don't know what the other half is doing well they are writing books. Busy men that you would think would have something important to do, have got some book that they have written.

Well I had heard in a round about way that Henry the 8th was a having a revival year, and as I was headed for Hollywood for a couple of years I says to myself I will read about old Henry, and see where all these Movie gang got their idea. I knew a little about him for years ago in Ziegfeld Follies we had a Shakespeare revival. (All the sketches were about things he had written about).

And Sam Hardy the fellow that is so good out in talking Pictures, he was Henry 8th, and we had six beautiful girls as his wives, Marion Davis I remember was one of them and she had one line to speak. "And a hell of a King was he." And I always did say I am going to read about this old Bird, if Congress and Heflin, and Reed Smoot and his sugar tariff will give me time.

There was a fellow named Hackett, they said he had spent practically a lifetime, (course everybody has their own idea of what a lifetime in England is) just working on material for this book.

Well I don't know how long he spent. But he sure come out with something. Talk about suppressing books. I would think they would extinguish this one in England. Not because the book is bad, but this old Henry, Why if the English nobility have gone down in a direct line, and if King Edward and George, and The Prince of Wales are all direct descendants of that old reprobate, I would rise up and say, Folks you got me wrong, I am not of that strain at all, He was no forefather of mine.

Why if somebody told all these things about one of my ancestors, I would take it up with the Al Capone gang and I wouldent care how much it cost me to extinguish him I do it.

This old Henry was just an old fat big-footed chuckled-headed Baby. He had an older brother named Arthur. Oldest brothers got everything in those days, a younger Brother was just a Democrat, he had to take what was left. This Arthur wasent well and he dident know much even when he felt good. England wasent much of a country. It stood just about like the Red Sox in the American League. They wanted to marry this Prince Arthur off to somebody with a pedigree. They looked in the Stud book and found there had been a filly colt sired in Spain a few years ahead of Arthur, but that whose mating might add to the prestige of a fast slipping Organization, so they got ahold of Queen Isabella of Spain. She was about the Mabel Willerbrandt of that administration. There was a King along with her, I think it was Ferdinand. But they kept him sitting on the bench season after season. This Isabella is the one that a Dago from Italy come up and got her to back the first non-stop flight of the Atlantic. He went in for safety, he wanted a three-motored job, he wouldent take a chance on one ship going dead on him, so he made her fix him up with three. He missed the whole of the American Continent, but found San Domingo. The next man to find it five hundred years later was Charley Dawes and a Commission of financial experts. For Dawes discovery he was made Ambassador to the tea parlor of St. James.

Well, this Isabella not only had jewels to pawn to back these cross-country tours, but she had children to distribute around where they would bring in the most revenue. She had landed one in France as a King's wife, and one in Rome, (whoever had it that day). When Nations in those days had nothing else to do they would take Rome, then sit and pray for somebody to come and take it off their hands.

Well they had a Daughter Catherine, so about the best they could do with her was an offer from England. That was kinder like slumming for it dident mean much to Spain who was the General Motors in those days. But they sent her over and married her to Arthur, who I think was about fourteen years old. They wanted to get him settled down before he had a chance to start running around too much. Well Arthur was disgusted with the whole proceedings, and to get even with all of them, he just died.

Well that brought this old round fat-headed boy into the proceedings. For a second Son in England only has one chance in the world, and thats for the older one to die. So that was Henry's first good break early in life. He not only inherited the direct line to the King but he took over all Prince Arthur's estate, including wife. In order for Henry not to marry a widow, why they dug up a Guy named Woolsey. He was a Lobbysit to Rome and the Pope, and anything like old Marriage ceremonies, or dates or deeds, why he could arrange and change them to fit the times, so he thought of the bright idea of saying that Prince Arthur and Catherine were never married, that it was two other fellows. So Henry took her over. I think he was about twelve. He had to start marrying early for he had a lot of marrying to do. About all you could say for him was that he was big. If he had to live in these days he would have been a wrestler, or a Doorman outside some New York Hotel.

Let me do your learning for you.

Catherine couldent speak English and he couldent speak Spanish so there was no chance of an argument.

His father whoever it was, I forget his number, (you know they have numbers on these Kings like they do on race horses) well I forget whether it was a George the 7th, or Edward the 11th. Well anyhow he died, and left young King Henry a disease in one leg and Cardinal Woolsey, thats the only two things he willed him. Well, Catherine seemed to have been all right as a wife for a Prince of Wales. But for a King, well she just wasent the type. No male heir had been born, and of course everybody was to blame but Henry. To have a Girl baby in those days was not only a total loss but practically a social disaster. It wasent that Boys were anymore comfort to you, but if there was no heir to follow you up the graft might slip out of your Families hands and into some other. It was the days of high ideals and square dealing.

Well, lookout now, the story is getting hot. Ann Boeyin was a local Vamp, and don't fail to follow up and read how Ann took Henry. She made all the fat go to his head, so don't fail to read the greatest love, graft, corruption, murders, wars, and be-heading galore. Remember History in miniature, you don't have to read. Let me do your learning for you. Remember 15 minutes every Sunday with Professor Rogers, and you will be able to be the life of the Party at any Rotary, Kiwanis, or Lions luncheon. Remember next week, Anne, two more Katherines, and a Jane.

Fairview School Declared Winner of Kiker 'Beautiful Playgrounds' Trophy

By H. I. KIEFER

The Fairview school, situated near Burkburnett and rated as one of the model rural schools of the nation, has completed another successful year by winning the loving cup offered several months ago by Rev. O. P. Kiker, pastor of the First Methodist church of Iowa Park, for the rural institution in Wichita county with the most attractive playground, according to an announcement of the awards committee.

C. R. Roberts is superintendent of the school.

Other place winners were announced, with the superintendent of each school and the feature adjudged to be most striking, as follows:

Second, Weeth, S. A. Davis, landscaping; third, Rocky Point, C. P. Hardgrove, improvement this year; fourth, Deep Creek, Mrs. C. C. Boyd, cleanliness; Cashion, D. P. Lowe, parking system.

Members of the committee on awards were Mrs. J. C. Murphree of Iowa Park; Mrs. F. B. Creighton, Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Hal Hughes of Electra. Merchandise prizes were presented to second and third place winners and large classroom pictures were given by the awards committee to those winning fourth and fifth.

Well Equipped Plant

The Fairview independent district, it was declared, has one of the best equipped rural high school plants in the state. There are five separate buildings situated on an eight-acre campus, and all are of model design.

The main building is of brick, and is one story high with basement. It includes 13 classrooms, executive offices, a library, two fine arts rooms and an auditorium of 800 capacity. Seats in the auditorium, which is situated in the basement are removable, so that the space can be readily converted into a gymnasium.

Second largest of the individual buildings of the plant is a teacherage, a two-story frame structure, where members of the faculty make their home. In the same building is an apartment for the superintendent. Mrs. Eura Griffin House is the "mother" of the teacherage.

Also there are a home economics cottage, built of brick; in which there are four laboratory rooms, a manual training building, and a house for the school engineer.

The school has its own heating system, using gas as fuel, and there are two sources of water supply. The Quick Service supplies a 500-barrel storage supply, pumped from springs in Oklahoma. In addition there is a 500-barrel underground cistern which feeds sanitary drinking fountains.

Faculty Members

Members of the high school faculty are: Mr. Roberts, M. A., the superintendent; J. B. Smith, B. A., principal and mathematics teacher; H. B. Self, B. A., history and boy's athletics; Mrs. James Blackburn, B. A., Spanish and coach of girl's athletics; A. L. Malone, B. S., manual training; W. H. Terry, B. A., dean of boys and teacher of science; Miss Dora Temple, B. A., English and public speaking; Miss Irene Meader, B. A., grammar and reading.

The grade teachers are: Miss Bettye Trammel, Miss Zelma Brown, Miss Wilda McCaffrey, Miss Ollie Thomason, Mrs. H. B. Self, Miss Louise Parker, Mrs. J. B. Smith Jr., and Miss Eiland Word.

The fine arts teachers are Mrs. C. W. Henderson, expression, and Mrs. Florence Smith, piano.

New teachers who have been elected for the 1929-30 terms are Miss Oneita Cherry, high third; Miss Lenore Miller, second grade and A. D. Donohue, engineer.

Numerous unusual features are to be found in the Fairview school. For example, such "exploratory courses" are taught in the sixth and seventh grades as economics, mechanics, household arts, commercial arts, automobile mechanics and occupations. The purposes of the courses is to ascertain before the student has entered high school the courses likely to be most to his liking as he continues his education. The special grade school courses, it was explained, usually cause the student to make an individual choice of the work later to be followed.

Girl's Choral Club

One of the most popular activities among the girls is their choral club, which has held a prominent place for the last two years. Additional to numerous programs given at the school, members of the club have sung during the past term for the chamber of commerce banquet and the Baylor university alumni banquet, both in Wichita Falls. The club's final program of the closing term was an operetta, "The Singing School," which was directed by Miss Meader and Mrs. J. B. Smith Jr.

The boys' glee club holds a corresponding position among the boys, Fairview being the only rural school in the county sponsoring such an activity. Its membership consists of 20, all singing in uniforms. Its sponsors are Mrs. C. R. Roberts and Mrs. Smith. During the past term, it has presented programs in various schools of the county, in addition to one arranged especially for Mother's day. The club sang at four different churches on that day. One of the club's most popular numbers has been "Sweethearts on Parade," with Howard Leith enacting a special role during the presentation of the song.

The manual training course, offered during the past two years under the instruction of Mr. Malone, has won further laurels for the school. One of the unusual features is the course offered sixth grade boys, during which they are taught to make such things as toy wagons, bread boards, tie racks, book ends and other attractive articles.

During the last semester, Mr. Malone taught a six-weeks' course in auto mechanics. An old model and much delapidated car was dragged upon the campus and the boys gathered worn but workable parts from whatever sources they could. They so reconstructed the old car that it moved under its own power before the course ended. Advanced courses likewise are offered. It was boys taking the course who set the concrete curbing which surrounds the school flagpole.

Holds 23 Units

The school holds 23 units of affiliation with the state department of education, and is affiliated with the Southern Education association. Mr. Roberts will begin his fourth year as superintendent of the school next September.

Members of the board of trustees are J. H. Minter, president; Ralph White, secretary; J. C. Wells, C. L. Porter, B. J. Dodd, E. E. Jarrell and Jud Leith.

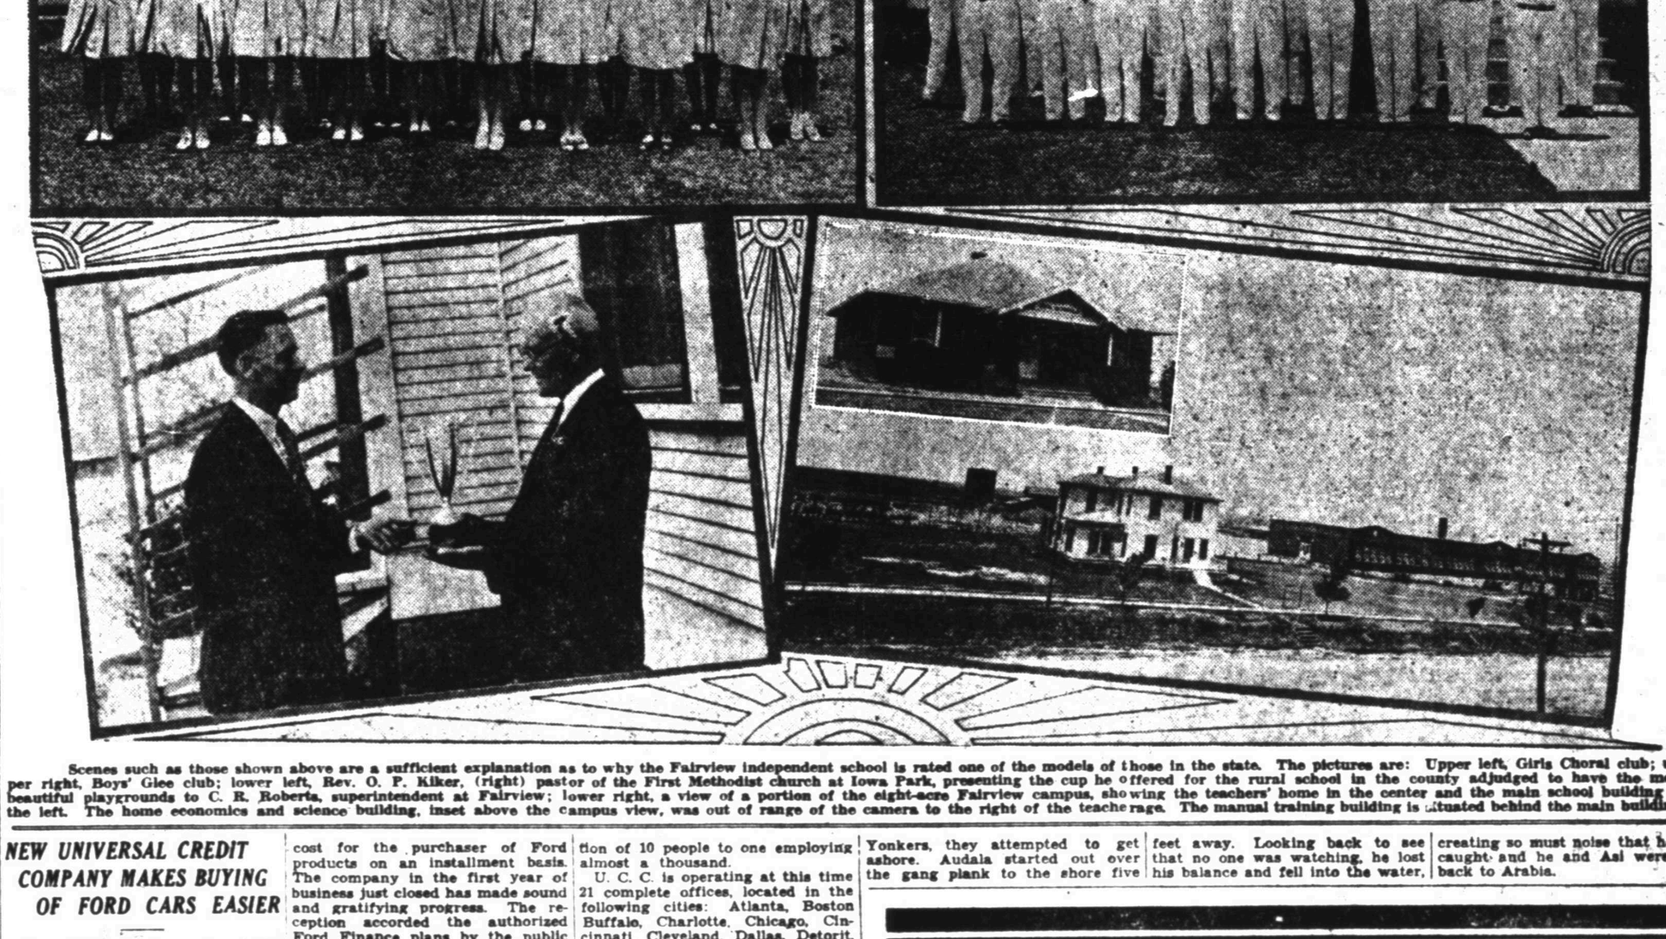

The original Fairview school district (school district No. 2, Wichita county) was created in the latter part of 1907. The house erected for school purposes was a one-room frame building, located three miles west of Burkburnett, about 100 feet west of the present site of the Neely filling station. At that time there were about 30 scholastics in the district, including Irving Vogel, present judge of Wichita county court at law; W. A. Roberts, recently resigned city manager at Burkburnett; R. D. Owens, Burkburnett business man; Mrs. D. L. Fritz, whose husband is with the Fritz Motor company, Wichita Falls; Carl Williams, ranchman on the Iowa Park road, and Mr. Roberts, present superintendent of the Fairview school.

During the first three years, the number of children of school age increased about 40 per cent. When oil developments began in the "old field" in 1913-14, school enrollment began to increase rapidly until three additional rooms were finally added to the original one-room building. The oil boom of 1918 soon made such housing facilities seriously inadequate and within two or three years six other smaller buildings were erected.

In 1922, realizing the necessity for a high school, the Fairview school board arranged for the erection of a one-story brick to be used for high school purposes, located one and one-half miles north of the original building site, and elected the district's first superintendent of schools. The following year, by a special act of the legislature, the Fairview independent school district was created, effective April 4, 1923. By this time, about half of the schools in the outlying buildings had been discontinued and the children cared for in the new building.

In June, 1925, the new school building, superintendent's home and teacherage were destroyed by fire. The buildings were replaced at once and room provided to care for all scholastics within the district, then numbering 673. Adequate transportation was provided to carry the children to and from school and all outlying buildings previously occupied, were discontinued.

One of the developments of the past year which created national interest in both automotive and financial circles was the organization of Universal Credit company for the purpose of financing exclusively the time sales of Ford products throughout the country. Ultimately service of a similar nature will be provided in all countries where Ford products are sold.

Universal Credit company is a specialized financial institution created to provide uniform and authorized time payment plans at low cost for the purchaser of Ford products on an installment basis. The company in the first year of business just closed has made sound and gratifying progress. The reception accorded the authorized Ford Finance plans by the public and Ford dealers in the 21 large cities where branch offices have been established is indeed impressive.

Today U. C. C. has purchased installment contracts in excess of $75,000,000 which establishes a new record in installment financing for an institution which has only been in operation for one year. It is anticipated that the volume of business handled will exceed $25,000,000 monthly from now on. In the short space of a year, the U. C. C. organization has grown from an organization of 10 people to one employing almost a thousand.

U. C. C. is operating at this time 21 complete offices, located in the following cities: Atlanta, Boston Buffalo, Charlotte, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dallas, Detorit, Houston, Jacksonville, Kansas City, Memphis, Minneapolis, New York, Norfolk, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Washington and Mexico City.

And Yet So Far

NEW YORK.—Adula Misid and his companion Asi Khalil, two Arabs, wanted to get into the United States—and they just missed it by five feet. They worked their way from Asia Minor to Havana. At Havana they stowed away on a steamer bound for Yonkers. At Yonkers, they attempted to get ashore. Audala started out over the gang plank to the shore five feet away. Looking back to see that no one was watching, he lost his balance and fell into the water, creating so must noise that he was caught and he and Asi were sent back to Arabia.

I LOVE JUNE

The Month in Which Young Collegians Commence

By DONALD OGDEN STEWART

"Mr. Ferguson," I said, "I want to start at the bottom."—"Well," he said, "perhaps that would be for the best."

I love June.

I commenced in 1916. In June, 1916 I stood poised on the threshold of life, diploma in hand, wondering just which avenue to success I would choose. It was a very impressive moment. Behind me lay four years of college and a bill for $11.25 at Longley's lunch. Ahead lay—what? The presidency?

But I didn't want to be president—at least, not until I had definitely decided on a political career. I could see where there were a great many reasons why a man of my type should be in the White House. I knew most of Shakespeare's sonnets by heart and I had taken a very instructive course in comparative philosophy. As vice president of the college Better Government club I had suggested several interesting reforms in the constitution of the United States. I had a good speaking voice—in fact, practically all the qualifications for president—and yet I hesitated. There was something about politics—

Finance? Most of the members of my class seemed to be going in for finance. Most of them had already accepted positions with large financial institutions—in the bond-selling department. I had done as well as they in elementary and advanced economics. I knew that prices went up when the demand exceeded the supply and down when the opposite was the case. I knew what caused panics. I could play a pretty fair game of golf—and I belonged to a fraternity. There was really no reason for my hesitating to become a bond salesman. And yet—

The ministry? A life of service to my fellow man? I could see myself comforting the sick and puting my hands on little children's heads, and I was tempted. But there was still that bill for $11.25 and the ministry didn't pay very well, they said.

The law? That meant three years more of school. Chiropody? The human foot did not interest me. Deep-sea diving? Impossible.

So, finally, I selected business—and then arose the question, "What business?" My roommate suggested plumbing. I myself favored some sort of manufacturing—preferably the manufacture of something that would add to the sum of human happiness. I didn't care much about the profits, but I did want to feel that I was serving. That was what we had been taught—service—and I wanted to carry on the college ideals. So after we had planted the class ivy and smoked the class pipe and drained the class bowl and drunk the class bicarbonate of soda, I took off my cap and gown and went down to New York to get a job—or, rather, I let it be known in certain influential New York circles that the young man who had been voted "most sincerely near-sighted" by the class of 1916 was now open to offers of employment.

For some reason or other, the offers didn't seem to come. I waited a week—and no executive summoned me for a consultation. I wrote letters to older members of my fraternity—and got polite but unimpressive replies. I received vague invitations to "lunch sometime"—but not to work. My cash was running low and that shiny spot on my blue serge trousers was spreading below the coat level. I was beginning to think of pawning the leather edition of Xenophon I had won "for excellence in Greek irregular verbs and water polo" when help came. It came from the American Telephone and Telegraph company, which is, I believe, the second or third largest corporation in the United States, and it came in the form of a letter from one of the vice presidents whose son I happened to know. The letter suggested that I come down and see the vice president on Monday morning.

I hesitated. In the first place, it seemed to me that if the American Telephone and Telegraph company really wanted me it was up to the president and not the vice president to suggest that I come with them. And secondly, why should I go all the way down there? They certainly couldn't expect a man with my college record to go trotting all over New York just as if I was a mere "job seeker." No—let them come to me. And then, of course, I wasn't at all sure that I wanted to go to work for a telephone company—"Central, you gave me the wrong number," and that sort of thing. Of course, I was to be one of the executives, but even at that—

But, by Monday, I had overcome the majority of my scruples. After all, the telephone meant service to mankind—and besides I hadn't been asked anywhere for Sunday dinner and was getting pretty tired of fried egg sandwiches, even with lots of catsup. So I conquered my pride and pinned my fraternity pin in as visible a spot as possible and hung my gold basket ball on my watch chain and appeared outside of the vice president's door promptly at the hour suggested—in fact, even a little before. And to my intense indignation, I was kept waiting—I who had been chairman of the decorations committee for the June ball for two years in succession.

I writhed at the humility, I tapped my foot. I made suggestive noises with my throat. I looked at my watch. And then finally, just as I was on the point of leaving a sarcastic message and departing, the telephone buzzed and I was told that Mr. Ferguson was ready for me. Well, it was about time.

My anger vanished, however, when I saw Mr. Ferguson. He was really very nice. He won my confidence completely—in fact, so much so that I began immediately telling him about my plans for my future and the future of the telephone business. I sketched certain possible improvements I had visualised over the week-end. He listened intently. I warmed to my subject. He walked to the window and gazed over the city. I could see that he was considering where I could fit into his organization. And then I sprang my surprise.

"Mr. Ferguson," I announced, simply, "I don't want an executive position now."

"No?" he said.

"Mr. Ferguson," I said, "I want to start at the bottom."

He looked at me for several moments, his eyebrows lifted. Finally he spoke.

"Well," he said, "perhaps that would be for the best."

And so, in the fall of 1916, I started with the American Telephone and Telegraph company at the bottom. And today—

So there is a lesson in this little story for every young man who graduates this month. Don't be afraid to start at the bottom. And then, maybe, you'll turn out to be a humorist. And then Heaven help you.

NEW SAINT AND SINNER

(Copyright, 1929, NEA Service, Inc.)

"Not until he kisses me can I know whether I want to be his wife or not." Crystal had told herself at dawn that Sunday morning, and then had gone to sleep, relieved.

But now that the test had come, and George Pruitt's hungry lips were fastened hard upon hers in the honorable kiss that comes after an honorable young man has made a straightforward, honorable proposal of marriage, Crystal found herself utterly confounded. At first she had quivered away from the test kiss, but after a moment, when she had yielded to that hot, eager pressure, she felt his passion kindling a response in her own too-quiet blood. The kiss she had not wanted suddenly became precious to her, and she involuntarily prolonged it.

"Happy, darling?" George asked, and his voice sang. "Wasn't Dad the sly old rascal, though? I believe he knew I was in love with you before I knew it myself. You see, beloved, he's been pretty badly worried about me. My being so—so devoted to Faith, you know. He knew I wanted to marry her before she married Bob Hathaway, and while we haven't talked about it, he knew I didn't get over it, and I could see it bothered him a lot. He's relieved—"

Crystal stirred in his arms, and George mistook her restlessness for the agitation of jealousy. How could he know that she was snatching at a straw to save herself and him?

"Forgive me for mentioning my love for Faith, if it hurts you, sweet," he begged, holding her so tightly she could scarcely breathe. "But I can't lie about Faith. I loved her for three years. I'll always love her, I hope, but it's you I want now as my wife. I don't love you less because I've loved Faith. I think she taught me how to love, though she never loved me. Don't you see, dear? You shan't be jealous of Faith, ever?"

"Never!" Crystal answered sadly, for she suspected that if she really loved George Pruitt her heart would be swollen and hot with pain.

He kissed her again, and she suffered him to do so, but this time there were no dizzling waves of emotion. There was nothing, nothing but a dreary hope that the kiss would be quickly over.

"If I were worthy of his love," Crystal thought wearily, "I'd be big enough to tell him now, no matter how much it might hurt him, that I don't love him. But—oh I can't bear to hurt him yet! First Faith, then me—"

But George was talking again, his lips close to her face. "As I said, Dad's immensely relieved that I've fallen in love again. I think he's been afraid he'd have no grandson to carry on the name. Selma bids fair to be a spinster for the rest of her days, and he'd given up hope for me. I could hardly believe my ears when he came right out and told me I'd better marry my model—my darling model," and he kissed her again, but lightly, for he had great things to tell her. "You know, sweet, Dad's worth a scandalous number of millions. Want to hear what he's ready and eager to do for us?"

CAR PRODUCTION AT RECORD LEVELS FOR FOUR MONTHS 1929

DETROIT, Mich., June 1.—Probably no situation in the automobile industry so far this year illustrates as clearly the industry's favorable condition as do the dealers' stocks of new cars, according to B. H. Cram, president of Cram's Automotive Reports, Inc., industry authority.

During the first four months of the current year production was at record levels. Weather conditions were extremely poor in all parts of the country, and the general feeling of the public was that under existing conditions sales could not possibly be good.

Yet when the actual returns from the states began coming in, it became evident that in spite of weather conditions, sales themselves were actually climbing toward record heights. Surveys of the trade centers showed retail deliveries gaining steadily.

In addition to domestic sales, the export demand reached proportions never before known in the industry's history, and this foreign business to some extent was responsible for unprecedented production levels.

However, actual retail deliveries in the domestic market and export shipments combined did not equal output for the four months' period. But the difference between the sales and output was so small as to reflect a particularly healthy condition.

As a matter of fact, surplus stocks of cars at the close of April amounted to only about three cars per dealer, and by the end of May, it was estimated that stocks will average four per dealer, although there is a possibility that in view of the better sales condition during the past month, average dealer stocks may show a decline.

This would indicate that dealers' stocks on the average are about normal and offer no cause for alarm. On the other hand, the inventory situation appears to be extremely liquid and places the industry in a position where not only sales but production as well can be maintained at better than the seasonal level for the balance of the year, and new models to be put on the market during the summer will give the retail market an added stimulus.

NEW OWNERS TAKE OVER MANAGEMENT OF QUANAH PAPER

QUANAH, Texas, June 1.—Formal transfer of the Semi-Weekly Tribune-Chief, a newspaper published here since 1890, to Carl Gallagher and associates, Wilbur C. Hawk and Gene A. Howe, of Amarillo, was completed Saturday, with Gallagher taking active control of the property as editor and publisher. Harry Koch, who has conducted the paper for 38 years, retires with a view to taking a world tour after arranging his business affairs.

Gallagher, for 14 years was news editor and advertising manager of the McKinney Courier-Gazette and prominent in Texas press circles. The Tribune-Chief plant is said to be one of the best-equipped printing shops in the state and the new management expects later to inaugurate a daily publication to take care of the rapidly expanding field.

Quanah, a city of 7,000 population, is enjoying a steady substantial growth. It is served by the Fort Worth & Denver, Frisco and Q., A. & P. railroads, with additional railway facilities in prospect. The Rock Island is making gestures looking toward the construction of a line from Shamrock to Seymour through Quanah. Improved highways are being constructed leading into the city and work may soon start on a hotel to cost $250,000.

WORK WILL BEGIN SOON ON HARDEMAN COUNTY HIGHWAYS

QUANAH, June 1.—J. P. Foty, contractor, of Wichita Falls, who was the successful bidder on the grading and small drainage structures on 7.50 miles of highway No. 51 north from Quanah to Red river, has announced that work will start within the next ten days or two weeks. His price was $23,658.

Contract for the large drainage structures went to Gaines & Yocum of Oklahoma City for $31,067.92. This work will probably be started about the same time as grading.

Highway No. 51 will connect at Red river with highway No. 7 of the Oklahoma system of paved roads. A new bridge will be built across Red river, and the present toll bridge will probably be abandoned after the new bridge is completed.

Senator McFarlane Says Efficient Management Need of Prison System And Discusses Relocation Plan

Editor's Note—The following communication from State Senator W. M. McFarlane, senator from the 23rd district and chairman of the senate committee on state prisons, discusses some of the necessities of the prison system and supports the bill passed at the recent called session of the legislature for the improvement of the system. In his article Senator McFarlane advances arguments against the sale of the present prison farms and the proposed purchase of lands near Austin for a centralized prison system. Senator McFarlane believes the needs of the system can be take care of on one of the farms now owned by the state.

Editor The Times: It is proper for me as your senator in the legislature, to give to you, as best I can a report of the doings of the 41st legislature, regular and first call session, to the end that you may be able to judge fairly as to whether your senator has attempted to represent your best interest therein. In the first place the criticism is often, and widely made that we have too many laws, that the best government is the least government, that is, that by laws we provide for the protection of the rights of the citizen and then leave him to work out as best he may and in his own way his progress and good fortune. This criticism in the main is just, but a growing state and a progressive people often rapidly change, and the laws ought to meet those changed conditions.

At the regular session we in the senate, thought that it was advisable to prepare and pass the appropriation bills to the end that the wheels of the state government should be able to properly function in any event and that if there was legislation that could not be properly attended to at the regular session, that was of prime importance, that it be left to a special session. The house thought otherwise and refused to take up the appropriations at the regular session, and they were left to a special session. I do not want to be in the attitude of criticizing the action and judgment of the house in this regard, there were many reasons for their course, one that the membership of the house is largely composed of new members who have not had the experience and knowledge that comes from and by recurrent examination of the measures that comes before the legislation bodies there were many other reasons at this session. Be that as it may, that was the course pursued.

At the first call session just closed, the measures considered were entirely within the pleasure of the governor, as the legislature can only consider the measures suggested to it by the governor's mandate at a special session, that is only those measures submitted to it for consideration by the governor. The governor in his wisdom, did not submit to us the appropriation measures, so we could not consider them. The governor only submitted for our consideration at the first call session just closed, three measures of first importance to the people of the state, the relocation and rebuilding of the penitentiary system, educational measures and civil service.

Review of System

So that you may better understand the issues involved in this measure it is proper that we give some retrospect to it. The state has had convicts since it became a state, will have as long as it is a state, so the establishment is of a permanent nature, not one of choice, but in the nature of the case of necessity. In the last 50 years, in the management of its convicts, the state has bought 78,000 acres of land for the use of the management of the penitentiary. Each administration, in its wisdom bought land that it thought was best suited to the needs of the penitentiary, its location, its kind and character. Most of it was bought, unimproved land, and it has since been cleared and put in cultivation by convict labor, though there is yet 38,742 acres not yet cleared and put into cultivation. By the growth of the state, and other reasons the population of the penitentiary has largely increased, so that it becomes necessary to provide additional buildings and surroundings to retain and properly house the convicts. The management of 5,000 convicts, their sanitation, their care, making their retention secure, to provide them with regular and to the state remunerative employment is a big job and one that calls for the best thoughts and judgment of wise and competent men in control.

It is within the knowledge of men who have the management of large concerns, that no business can be successfully conducted, whatever the business, without honest, competent and patient managers. That, regardless of other conditions, if the management, does not contain these essentials the business will be conducted at a loss. Then we have the condition, 5,000 convicts to be provided for, 78,000 acres of land, 40,539 acres cleared and 38,742 acres that may be cleared. The state provides the housing, teams, tools, clothing for the convicts and they have the land and equipment free of rent or taxes, 85 per cent of the convicts are young men and all able to make their own living except about 109 consumptives and yet the management fail by about $100 per convict per year of making a living for them. A tenant farmer in Texas pays one third to one-fourth of the crop he produces, pays for his equipment, and other expenses not necessary to enumerate and makes a living for himself and family, then the failure of the penitentiary management to do so shows incompetence on its face. Added to this it is and was shown that over 500 of the convicts last year were idle, no employment furnished for them by the management and over 1,100 acres of cleared land on the farms was not cultivated.

Managers Charged

It was further shown that managers of farms under whose management a profit was shown were discharged and other managers were employed in their stead at an increased salary who were without experience. Many other things of like nature were shown or alleged, we tried to secure an investigation to ascertain all the facts but were unsuccessful. The proposition of the governor was to sell all the state owned farms and relocate the penitentiary somewhere else, rebuild or build buildings and surroundings sufficient to retain and control the convicts and to provide them with employment. He or we had no assurance of what we would receive for the farms proposed to be sold, or where it was proposed to relocate the penitentiary, or what the land would cost, or how much the rebuilding would cost. It occurred to your senator that all these things should be known before we embarked upon a scheme that would be certain to cost the taxpayers of the state several millions of dollars and I voted against it. The report of the penitentiary physician shows that the convict health and mortality rate is better than in the city of Houston near by which is admitted to be good. It is further claimed as another reason for selling the farms owned by the state for the use of the convicts that they overflow. So it does not appear that there is any reason for the sale of the land now owned by the state, or that the state would be benefitted by a removal, at least that should not be considered until it be shown that the state would be benefitted by a removal.

Best Farms in World

Mr. Mead, manager of the penitentiary system, a few days ago in his speech to the senate made the statement that the penitentiary farms below Houston were the best farms in the world, and that health and sanitary conditions were as good in the penitentiary system as they are anywhere else outside. Mr. Mead stated that more than $83,000 in permanent improvements had been placed on the penitentiary farms last year.

It would seem that the first thing to be considered would be what the state would get for what it now has, bought at so much cost, that the improvements now placed upon the land owned by the state, would be sacrificed because they would not enhance the value of the land except that it is now partly cleared, the buildings would be a total loss as they are not of the kind to be valuable to any one else, and that in case of removal they would have to be replaced at an added cost. There are many other reasons why a removal should be very carefully considered. We have no place proposed to us that seems at all suitable. The penitentiary should be near a good wholesale market to lessen the cost of what we have to buy and to increase the price of what we have to sell. This we now have. Also the United States government has, at the last session of congress, passed a law that prevents us from shipping goods made by convict labor into another state without its consent. This will circumscribe the market for convict made goods. We have the wards of the state we must feed and clothe, the deaf, dumb, blind, insane, etc., that would provide a market, if utilized, for much that the convicts can produce. The present location is near them and good judgment would seem to dictate that we should utilize that in providing employment for the convicts; this has never been done. It brings the situation to this: we need efficient management for the penitentiary worse than anything else. We cannot secure that by removal of the penitentiary; that is quite another matter. If we had efficient management of what we have the question of the penitentiary, would be solved. It is not conceivable that the former governors and legislatures have been derelict in their duty to the state in the purchase of location of the present owned farms. It is desirable to have convicts separated, as far as possible, into groups, the first offenders, the hardened convicts, the diseased, the different races, women, those engaged in agriculture, manufacturing, etc.

Mr. Mead in his speech to the senate stated that the convicts in the penitentiary were segregated as carefully as possible and that there seemed to be a gross misunderstanding among the people as to ways and means of segregating an inmate of the penitentiary. He stated that sometimes some of the youngest inmates were of the most hardened types of criminal. He stated that we needed more permanent cells in which to keep the hardened criminals from escaping, and that the climate, health and sanitary condition in the penitentiary, were as good as found anywhere. He stated that more adequate buildings would permit them to operate and segregate the penitentiary more satisfactorily, and that this they were anxious to do.

This, in a large measure, seems to have been the idea of former legislatures and prison boards in the purchase and location of what we at present have. It is not demonstrated that this is not a valuable idea, it is not sufficiently taken into consideration by the relocationists; they talk of nothing but to "relocate." WHY? They give no satisfactory answer. It is a very large proposition, one that is likely to cost the people of the state millions of dollars and endless trouble, that can, and will be obviated in my humble judgment, by first securing honest and efficient management of what we have. Then give heed to the advice of those who have demonstrated capacity to manage the things we now have, before we take on other obligations, whose value is not demonstrated by any one.

Losses of System Last Year

It occurs to me that in view of the unfortunate record made by the present prison board, who in their report recently field, admit a net loss in the operation of the penitentiary system for the year of 1928, of $396,089.93, a net loss per prisoner of $90.81 and who spent in operating the prison plant last year $1,498,973.98, or a net cost per prisoner last year of $342.58, indicates to me that their judgment on penitentiary affairs should not have much weight. Under the law a report is required to be filed with the governor on January 1, of each year, and the report for 1928 was furnished the governor and the legislature on May 10, 1928, months after we had been called upon to make appropriations to pay for their deficit in operating the penitentiary last year, and make an emergency appropriation of several hundred thousand dollars, requested by them, to carry them until the appropriations regularly made will be available.

The prison board attributed their loss in operating the penitentiary system to the increase in population and adverse weather conditions. The prison records show that on January 1, 1928, there were 3,891 convicts in the penitentiary system, and an average of 4,361 throughout the year. An increase over the previous year when the average was 3,399, or an average increase in 1928 over 1927 of 962 inmates. As to the adverse weather conditions the ginning report for all counties in which the penitentiary farms are located show that the farmers in these counties grew from 1-3 to 1-2 more cotton in 1928 than in 1927, so it seems that the adverse weather conditions didn't affect farmers at large over these counties, nor does that explain why the penitentiary permitted over 1,100 acres of land subject to cultivation to lie out, nor does it explain why it was necessary to employ so many additional persons at increased salaries to operate the penitentiary system. These different items of expenditures were called to the attention of the penitentiary board as they occurred, and before this large deficit was made by Judge A. H. Carrigan, vice chairman of the board, and he being unable to stop their large expenditures, resigned from the board.

It has cost over 65 cents per day per man to feed the convits in the penitentiary system under the present board, and they have bought everything and paid the cash for it, and have had the benefit and advantage of the very best conditions and purchasing power. It has never cost the federal government more than 50 cents per day per man to feed the men in the army or the National guard.

New Bill Outlined

At the session just closed the house passed a penitentiary bill by a vote of 106 ayes to 2 noes permitting the centralization of the penitentiary system on any of the lands now owned, and make the necessary appropriation to immediately commence this program. This bill (H. B. No. 28) was amended in the senate, so as to permit a board of nine men, selected by the governor to examine the penitentiary system and located a centralized plant on said property if feasible and if not to report back to the governor and the legislature and in that event the prison board together with three members of the senate, selected by the lieutenant governor, and five members of the house, selected by the speaker of the house, and then investigate the prison properties to determine whether or not it would be feasible to locate a centralized prison system on any of said property and if not to make a survey of the state, with a view of getting the necessary facts and information to report back the costs, facilities, location, etc. that will be necessary to locate a new penitentiary system elsewhere. This bill passed the senate with but one dissenting vote, and was concurred in by the house, by a vote of 105 ayes, to 7 noes, and this bill with these provisions is now on the docket of the governor.

I trust that he will sign the bill and permit an immediate solution to the penitentiary question.

I will discuss other measures before the legislature in another letter, and trust that you will see fit to publish this letter, to the end that the citizens of his disrict will have the benefit of this information.

Yours very truly,
W. D. McFARLANE,
Senator of the 23rd Senatorial Dist.

Oldest Fire "Engine" Shown

England's oldest known fire "engine" has just found a home in the London museum. It is a large oval wooden tub, and the water was pumped through an iron pipe in the middle. Originally it rested on a carriage with solid wooden wheels, but these have disappeared. The "engine" was made in London in 1678 for a town in Bedfordshire.

Picks Dog to Dad

NEW YORK. — When William Mohr, 33, brought his dog, Billy No. 2 home, he and his father disagreed. The father had William arrested and the two of them, together with the dog, went to court. The judge ruled that what William's father said in his home went, and that William would either have to give up his dog or father. Mohr took the dog and went looking for another home.

To Mothers!

There can be no greater gift to your son or daughter than one of these little "world" banks! There has probably never been offered before such an attractive device for teaching the saving habit, combining, as it does, intriguing interest with educational value.

The greatest truth ever uttered by John Wanamaker, America's merchant prince, was "No man ever became great who did not learn to save in his youth," and Henry Ford follows with, "Thrift is the cornerstone upon which manhood MUST be constructed."

By starting a "World" bank account your children are on the surest road to achievement—any child who learns to save money will attain dominant, well-balanced manhood or womanhood.

"World" Bank and 50c Free!

Our message today is to MOTHERS: Clip the coupon on another page, present it with $1.00 and secure for your child a $1.50 thrift passbook and a "world" bank free. This novel form of coin bank is a beautifully colored miniature schoolroom globe, made of steel, showing all territorial and boundary changes up to date. It pleases every child and will start yours on the permanent road to happiness.

Six per cent compounded semi-annually paid on these world bank accounts.

Out-of-town readers of the Wichita Daily Times and Record News may mail their money and coupons to the North Texas Building & Loan Association, 822 Scott Ave., Wichita Falls, Texas.
