Sino-Japanese Crisis Now Is No Nearer Solution; World Powers Advised Of Stand By Embassy Cables

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, Oct. 26.—Japan tonight rejected as not binding the League of Nations resolution calling for evacuation of Manchuria by November 16, and reiterated the Manchurian situation is a local question to be settled only by direct Sino-Japanese negotiations.

The Japanese military grip on communications in Southern Manchuria was stretched meanwhile into Mongolia by stationing of troops along the Ssupingkai-Chenchiatun-Taonan railway.

Statement Stressed

A formal statement approved by a special cabinet meeting tonight stressed the Japanese "five fundamental principles" for Manchurian settlement; insisted again the outbreak there was caused by a "provocative attack" by Chinese soldiers on Japanese property; and questioned the advisability of "hasty action" on the league's part in the face of possible solution eventually by direct negotiations between China and Japan.

The statement was cabled to foreign embassies and legations, intended for publication in the world's capitals.

It explained that due to the failure of the league council to obtain a unanimous vote on the evacuation resolution—the Japanese negative vote making the count 13 to 1—the resolution was not binding.

The five fundamental principles

Discovery Of Four Nude Bodies Baffles Officers

Robbery Is Believed Motive; Identity Not Established

(By The Associated Press)

GRAHAM, Oct. 26. — The nude body of a recluse known as "Cap" Mitchell, 60, was found sprawled on the floor of his rude dugout home here today. He had been slain by a bullet through the head.

Coroner J. T. Rickman found evidence that led to his ruling that Mitchell had been murdered. The condition of the body indicated Mitchel had been dead at least 24 hours.

Clothing Scattered

Mitchell's blood-stained clothing was strewn around the room. Officers believed the body had been stripped after death in a search for valuables.

He was known as the owner of valuable property, but was said to have kept little money at home.

Two Are Found At Former Scene

IDABEL, Okla., Oct. 26. (AP)—Two bullet pierced bodies, stripped of their clothing and left near the mountain murder scene of a third man, led officers into a baffling investigation today.

McCurtain county authorities sought to learn definitely if one of the bodies was that of R. T. Ethridge of Carrolton, Miss., employe of a paint brush concern, last seen leaving a De Queen, Ark., hotel over a week ago. However, the bodies could not be recognized.

Vivacious Josee Finds New York Big But Al, Ye Brown Derby And Cigar Help Some

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Vivacious Josee Laval found New York a bit too big and her time a trifle too short today, but she can tell the home folks she saw it all—from a height of 1,200 feet.

The 19-year-old daughter of the French premier got a panoramic view of the metropolis from the world's tallest building with such distinguished guides as former Gov. Alfred E. Smith — complete with brown derby and jutting cigar — and John J. Raskob. But even then there were a hundred things she did not have an opportunity to examine and pronounce, in her favorite phrase "tres magnifique."

She agreed to press a button at 8 p. m. lighting the statute of Liberty, and then speak a few words into a radio microphone in a farewell to America.

Murray's Troops Pitch Tents But Find "War" Is Postponed

Bellicose Executive Calls In His Guardsmen After Early Order For Mobilization To Beat Bridge Attorneys

(By Associated Press)

DURANT, Okla., Oct. 26.—Governor "Alfalfa Bill" Murray's citizen soldiery pitched its tents at the Red river free bridge again today, found a "war" had been postponed and went back home—for another week, anyway.

The bellicose executive called out the national guard by telegram from a dimly lit depot at Atoka, Okla., before dawn, thus beating to the draw attorneys for the Red River Bridge Co., owners of a parallel toll span.

Set For Monday

However, a mix-up in dates caused Federal Judge John C. Pollock to miss hearing the toll bridge company's plea for a blockade on the free span, under martial law since last July. The hearing then was tentatively set for Kansas City, Kas., next Monday.

"The bridge will remain open," said Murray, after inspecting his nineteen troops at the bridge and ordering them withdrawn, "for the Initial Lecture Of Annual Affair Is Set For 2 P. M.

THE first lecture and demonstration in the eighth annual free cooking school fostered by the Avalanche-Journal Publishing company and merchants of Lubbock will begin promptly at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Uptown Dance palace.

Miss Christeen Chitwood, nationally known culinary expert, who will conduct the school this year, is to arrive this morning.

Women of Lubbock and the surrounding territory are to be guests of the publishing company during the four days of the school, which ends Friday afternoon.

Enough chairs will be provided to seat all who attend the school. The lectures will be given on a raised platform that is being furnished by local merchants. Recipes will be given from the stage so those who attend are to bring pencil and paper. Miss Chitwood will follow these recipes with the actual preparation of dishes. She will answer questions and will open her school for discussion of homemaking problems among the women who are in attendance.

Her program for this afternoon, the first day of the school, includes meat loaf with macaroni, orange and ginger ale cocktail, spinach salad, cake and pie.

Welfare Fund Appropriation Ordered Here

County And City Officials In Joint Meeting Monday Offer $1,500; Few Calls For Aid Seen In Report

Appropriations for the operation of the United Welfare association were made Monday afternoon by city and county officials at a joint meeting. The county commissioners' court appropriated $1,000 and the city commission allotted $500 to the fund.

The fund will be used to meet bills for October and following months. County Judge E. L. Pitts said no special budget had been set for the association and that appropriations would be made from time to time to meet the organization's expenses.

Only a few applications for aid were filed with Miss Evelyn Richter, secretary, during the month of October, the county judge said, indicating virtually all of the ablebodied workers had some kind of employment.

Accounts of the association will be closely audited and will be open to public inspection at all times, the county judge said.

At its regular meeting Monday, the commissioners' court agreed to allow the towns of Slaton and Idalou to use steel, taken from the old county jail, for construction of cells in the two municipalities.

New Economic Accord Brings Hurried Reply

Administration Officials Are Satisfied But Factions In Congress Have A Divergent View Of Problems

Germany Will Act

Carefully Phrased Declaration Studied Minutely; Further Information Is Demanded In Legislative Circles

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26. — A somewhat skeptical congress stood questioningly today over the cradle of the new-born Hoover-Laval economic accord.

While administration officials reiterated their satisfaction, congressional leaders received with mingled feelings the news a war debt-reparations readjustment is in the offing.

Meanwhile word came from Berlin of intentions of Chancellor Bruening to reopen the reparation question soon in response to the Hoover-Laval hint.

Must Be Convinced

On this and perhaps on some of the other points discussed in his conference with Premier Laval of France, President Hoover still has to convince the legislative branch of the government which passes on debt agreements.

As the administration went ahead with the plan for stabilization of international exchange, it was disclosed that effort will be concentrated on the English pound Sterling—world medium of debt settlement. It was believed that a figure less than the century-old $4.8665 will be used as par.

On capitol hill, the legislators sought today to find out what was between the lines of the carefully phrased Hoover-Laval declaration yesterday.

Want Information

Taking the lead from newspaper stories that it pointed to a recasting of the whole structure of intergovernmental debts, Democrats and Republican independents made it plain they wanted more information.

Most Republican regulars kept silent but Senator Bingham, Republican, of Connecticut, announced he would favor any request by President Hoover for apopintment

Attorney Charles Craddick, associated today with the defense, said the decision to yield to the desire of Arizona authorities for an early trial was reached at a conference with County Attorney Lloyd J. Andrews and Sheriff James R. McFadden of Phoenix.

McFadden was prepared to leave tonight for Sacramento to obtain the signature of Governor James Rolph jr., to extradition papers. The sheriff said he would return Wednesday morning and would start for Phoenix with Mrs. Judd.

Mrs. Judd, who in written and verbal statements has said she shot and killed Miss Samuelson and Mrs. Le Roi in self defense at Phoenix October 18, was taken from the county jail for arraignment today on a fugitive complaint by which charges of murder were formally entered against her. SUCCESS IN MAKING MAYONNAISE LIES IN WAY OIL IS ADDED

"A Little at a Time" is Safest Method. Hills Bros. Use a Similar Rule in Their Patented, Coffee-Roasting Process

Oil, in large amounts, added to mayonnaise ingredients usually makes the mixture separate. It is better to add oil "a little at a time."

There is a similar situation in coffee roasting. Occasionally, big batches can be roasted so each has the same flavor. But you can't depend on it. The sure way is to roast a little at a time. Hills Bros. do, with their patented, Controlled Roasting process.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . . a little at a time . . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time. The temperature is exactly regulated while the blend flows through the roasters. Every single berry is perfectly roasted. Naturally, then, every pound has the perfect flavor!

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans that keep it fresh! Air, which makes coffee go stale, is removed and kept out of these cans. Even ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. Order Hills Bros. Coffee today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trademark on the can.

State P.-T. A. Convention In San Antonio Will Attract International Speakers To State Of Texas

Speakers of national and international reputation will be heard at the annual convention of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations in San Antonio, November 10-13.

These lectures include such persons as Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of Interior and chairman of the White House conference; Dr. Randell J. Condon, past president of the National Education association and a member of the national advisory committee of illiteracy; Dr. Ada Hart Arlitt, Cleveland college, national chairman of parent eduction; Mrs. Walter McNab Miller, American Child Health association; and others whose very presence in Texas is an inspiration.

Mrs. Noyes Darling Smith, state president, is climaxing four years of splendid achievement as head of the child welfare association.

Felt the Challenge

Mrs. Smith states that when she was elected to her high office in Houston in 1927, she felt the challenge of conditions in Texas and saw in certain lines of endeavor that the parent-teacher associations were already embarked on an answer to the challenge if these lines were properly pursued. First, she saw the need for a program of rural enrichment in child welfare and educational opportunities which could be met by fostering and extending parent-teacher work in rural communities through the organizing of county councils.

Therefore the congress machinery consisting of the state president, district presidents and vice-presidents and state chairmen, was put to work and the result is 91 county councils in 1931 to 24 in 1927.

In promoting the work of the congress, Mrs. Smith felt the need of informed leadership, and, consequently encouraged the enlistment of every officer in the state, district and local organizations in the correspondence course in parent-teacher work given by the executive secretary. As a result more than 5,000 people have enrolled for this course in the four years and nearly 3,000 have received certificates for completing it.

Fiery Evangelist Charges His Enemies In Church; Probes Being Made; Revival Is To Be Continued

JONESBORO, Ark., Oct. 26. (AP)—The Rev. Joe Jeffers, Baptist evangelist, charged enemies of his revival with the burning early today of his tent tabernacle in which he started services which led to national guardsmen being called out to prevent bloodshed in a bitter church controversy a few weeks ago.

Incendiarism also was suspected by officers who began an investigation.

To a handful of shivering followers gathered about the ruins of the tabernacle after the fire, Jeffers announced his revival would not be interrupted. He said an open air meeting would be held on the site tonight and arrangements would be made as soon as possible for an indoor meeting place.

He estimated the loss at $4,500, including $3,000 on the tent and the rest on the other equipment and said he had no insurance. He was ordered only last week to move the tabernacle because of a disagreement over rental and had dedicated a new site last night after a parade of his followers through the city.

Jeffers came here about two months ago and started an attack on the Rev. Dow H. Heard, pastor of the First Baptist church. The church congregation was split into two factions and the controversy finally assumed such serious proportions that national guardsmen were sent here for a few days to maintain order.

Back As Regular

TRUETT OWENS' TACKLE

He has been running with the "shock troops" out at Tech for the past two weeks but Line Coach Dutchey Smith says he has shown enough stuff in practice work and in the game Friday night to warrant a place with the regulars. Which means that big "Juicy" Owens will get another chance when the Matadors go to Waco Saturday to play Baylor.

Sports World Mourns Death Of Comiskey

White Sox Owner Is Fourth Of Great Baseball Leaders To Die This Year; Rose From Player To Sole Owner

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 26. —The sports world today mourned the death of one of its outstanding figures—Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox of the American League, one of the wealthiest and most famous figures in baseball history.

"The Old Roman," as he was affectionately known, passed on in his sleep early today in his summer home at Eagle River, Wis., after a long illness. He was in his 73rd year. With him, was his son, J. Louis Comiskey, treasurer of the White Sox, the only surviving member of the immediate family.

The body of the baseball magnate, the only man in major league history to rise from the ranks of a player to sole owner of a club, including franchise, players and park, will arrive here tomorrow. Pending the return of his son no plans for the funeral have been made. It may be held Thursday.

Great Organizer Gone

Expressions of deep sorrow came from leading baseball figures of the nation. His death, they said, removed from organized baseball one of the leading forces which developed the American League.

"If ever a man fought to preserve the good name and the honor of our game, it was 'Commy,' " wired John A. Heydler, president of the National League.

Comiskey's death was a shock to William Harridge, president of the American League, who said the league owed Comiskey a debt of everlasting gratitude for his valuable assistance in developing the organization.

"Mr. Comiskey was one of the founders of the American League, and fought shoulder to shoulder with Ban Johnson for clean baseball. He made a legion of friends throughout the baseball world."

Comiskey Park Is Monument

Just what will happen to the vast baseball property which Comiskey left behind, remained uncertain tonight. Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox, with a seating capacity of 52,000, is one of the monuments to the sport he left. The park, together with the franchise and club has been estimated to be worth from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000.

It was shortly after the World Series scandal in 1919, when the White Sox threw the world's championship to the Cincinnati Reds to satisfy bribing gamblers, that Comiskey, shattered in spirit and health, began to fade from baseball, leaving Harry Grabiner in charge. He spent most of his time at his summer retreat in Wisconsin.

Fourth Of Great Leaders

By a strange fate, death robbed the American League of four of its greatest leaders this year. Ernest Sargent Barnard, successor to Ban Johnson as president of the league, died suddenly at Rochester, Minn., March 27. The next day the fiery Johnson, who with Comiskey organized the league, died in St. Louis. Jimmy McAleer, one of the early stars of the American League, and former manager of the St. Louis and Washington clubs, passed on at Youngstown, Ohio, April 29.

Dick Barker, football coach at Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Ia., spent the summer in Sweden preparing that country's wrestlers for the 1932 Olympics.

Specifications for a flagpole to flaunt the world's championship pennant at the Cardinal's training camp at Bradenton, Fla., were asked of Manager "Gabby" Street.

Matadors Prep For Baylor Go Next Saturday

Intensive Training In Store For Techsters For Three Days; Leave Thursday For Waco; Make Three Jumps

FOR THE first time in two years and for the second time in the history of the schools Texas Tech's Matadors journey to Central Texas where they meet the Baylor University Bears Saturday afternoon. The team and coaches will leave Lubbock Thursday afternoon, making the long trip in three hops. They will spend the first night at Abilene, going to Hillsboro Friday and formally invading the Bear den at Waco Saturday morning.

The game with Baylor is the second of two highly outstanding contests on the Tech schedule this season, and by winning it the Matadors may be rated as on an equal with the average Southwest Conference team. Baylor, anything but a favorite to win the conference championship this season, is nevertheless strong. Weak only in reserves, the first string of Bears has established itself as practically as powerful as any other in the loop.

Enter Hard Practice

Yesterday's workout on Tech Field saw the Matadors enter into a sincere campaign of defensive work that is designed to stop the famous passing attack by which the Bears of this year are known. At College Station last Saturday, Coach Cawthon and his assistants, Dutchey Smith and Weir Washam, saw Baylor backs lob passes over and through the Farmers like nobody's business, and only by sheer strength of their reserves were the Cadets able to come out victorious in the end. For the first half of the game, the Farmers were roundly outplayed, but when Coach Matty Bell began sending in one team right after another it meant disaster for Baylor's tiring efforts to win their first game at Kyle Field.

But Tech's coaches saw plenty at College Station Saturday and they're back to tell the Matadors that it will take lots of "if" to uphold their noble standards at Waco this week. The game is the first on the last half of Tech's schedule. The first half saw Tech win four and lose one, already a better average than any Tech team in the past few years.

May Scrap For Revenge

Perhaps there are some who hang around the Tech athletic department who remember making the trip to Waco in 1929. The Bears, powerful that year and early season favorites to cop the championship, bowled over a light Tech team to the tune of 24 to 0. Maybe the memories of that game will have no little to do with Tech's spirit when the new team goes to Waco this week.

Centering attentions on a pass defense, Coach Cawthon and his cohorts yesterday inaugurated a three-day practice session which will be brought to a close Wednesday with the Matadors more familiar with Baylor's tactics than Baylor may believe.

Tackles Moved Up

In practice yesterday, Bennie McWilliams and Truett Owens, demoted to the shock troops after a none-too-good showing against Haskell's Indians, were again running as tackles with the first lineup. Harold Crites, by his fine work against the Colorado College of Mines Friday night, was promoted to first string fullback position. Murray Nichols exchanged places with Crites, though Nichols, too, looked good against the Orediggers.

Following his previous examples, Coach Cawthon plans to start the shock troops against Baylor Saturday, sending the first line and backfield into the game as the second quarter rolls around.

Methodist Mustangs Looked To As Favorites In Southwest Conference; Play Texas On Saturday

St. Mary's Gaels Expected To Be Troublesome

BY WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 26. — They opened the new stadium at Notre Dame last year with what was expected to be an easy game with a team from Dallas, Tex., known as the Southern Methodists.

The great Notre Dame eleven of 1930 won that game, 20 to 14, but not until Knute Rockne had been given the scare of his life. For three periods the Mustangs from the southwest dazzled the Irish with a deceptive forward pass attack the like of which never had been seen by the Ramblers. Only in the last period, and by heroic football, did the Irish overcome the Texans' lead and win the game.

"They threw the ball everywhere but into the press box," Rockne said afterward, describing the game. "Flat passes, middle passes, long arching passes and short tosses just over the line of scrimmage — they had everything in the way of a forward pass I cared about seeing."

This year Southern Methodist is passing itself to a championship in the Southwest Conference. The Dallas school has six conference games. Two of these have been won, and one of the teams defeated was Rice, regarded as the next strongest contender following its victory over Texas.

Southern Methodist has only to play Texas, Texas Aggies, Baylor and Texas Christian within the conference and the Navy and, of all things! St. Mary's at San Francisco, Dec. 5.

The games with St. Mary's, conquerors of the University of Southern California, will prove a real test of 1931 Southwestern Conference football. Based on past performances, the Navy should be just a breeze for these Mustangs, but the Gallòping Gaels of Frisco will be a horse of a different color.

Here should be a titanic struggle and one beautiful to see. For the Mustangs not only have a pretty forward pass attack, but a strong running game, which was shown against Rice recently. The game at Houston was but a few minutes old when Weldon "Speedy" Mason, skirted left end, cut back and raced 45 yards for a touchdown. Baxter, a substitute back, conducted a single-handed campaign down the field for another touchdown, one of his runs around end netting 23 yards. One forward pass, from the 48-yard line to Koontz, an end, accounted for another touchdown in S. M. U.'s 21 to 12 victory.

Ray Morrison, coach of the Mustangs for the last eight years, is a former Vanderbilt star. He was rated one of the best quarterbacks ever produced in the south, and was a great catcher in baseball.

His teams always have been smart, able to think for themselves on the field. This year's field general is Mason, whose quarterbacking has made him a choice for All-Southwestern honors.

Shreveport To Stay In Loop; Gardner Talks

"But We Treated Him With All Courtesy," Gardner Says Of Oklahoma Man's Bid; May Be No Changes In League

(By The Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 26.—In a courteous but emphatic manner, the Texas League at its recent meeting in Dallas voted to bar Oklahoma City and Tulsa from membership in the Texas circuit, J. Alvin Gardner, league president, revealed here today.

The vote was taken in an executive session, Gardner said, and no publicity was given the action at the request of E. J. Humphries, secretary of the Oklahoma City club, who appeared before the league armed with a letter giving him permission of the Western League club owners to seek a berth for either Oklahoma City or Tulsa in the Lone Star loop.

Gardner Denies Discourtesy

Humphries, on his return to Oklahoma City, was quoted in an interview with The Daily Oklahoman as saying the Texas League club owners "didn't even show me the courtesy of acting as if they were really interested in our proposition." The story adds that Humphries "figuratively had to force his way into the Texas League meeting, but finally got the floor." His proposition, the story continues, "was rejected in an indiferent manner."

President Gardner said Humphries was shown every courtesy.

Discussed Several Angles

"He was accorded every attention," the league president said. "After he had finished his talk and started from the room, I called him back to answer questions club owners might put to him, and he sat with us to discuss the matter at length.

"His proposal was rejected because the Texas League feels it has a compact circuit composed of towns just as willing and able to support baseball as cities in Oklahoma. In addition, inclusion of the Oklahoma towns would involve considerable transportation expense. Further, not including bargain day crowds, Oklahoma City last year drew an attendance of only about 38,000."

Gardner also denied reports that the Shreveport club "lost a young fortune in 1931 and positively would not operate in 1932."

"Shreveport didn't lose a nickel in 1931, and positively will operate next year," he said. Humphries was said to have suggested to Texas League owners that the Wichita Falls franchise be moved to Shreveport and that the Shreveport franchise be moved to Oklahoma City.

"That plan was out of the question," said Gardner, "since Shreveport has no intention of leaving this league."

Regarding the future of the Wichita Falls franchise, Gardner said it was not discussed at the meeting. The club owners did, however, ask L. C. McEvoy, active manager of the Browns, if the St. Louis American League club intended to operate a Texas League farm this year. McEvoy, according to Gardner, answered that the Browns "positively will operate a club in the Texas League next year."

Football A B C's

Free Kick Follows Safety And Is Effective After Signal For Fair Catch

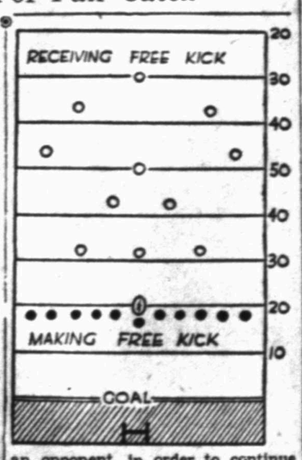

Every football game, unless it is a one-sided scoring affair, brings considerable kicking into play. But so rare is the free kick, aside from the kickoff, that the average fan may witness football every week in the season without seeing a single one. Some teams play them frequently, however, and the fans in attendance are usually mystified by the action.

A free kick as defined in the rule book is one where each team is restrained by rule from advancing beyond a certain line before the ball is put in play. This includes kickoffs, free kicks after fair catches, and free kicks after safeties.

The restraining line for the kicking team is a line parallel to the goal line through the most forward point from which the ball may be kicked. (See accompanying diagram.) The restraining line for the opponents is a line parallel to and 10 yards in advance of the kicking team's restraining line. (See diagram.)

Following a fair catch, the free kick may be a punt, dropkick or place kick from the mark of the catch, or from a point directly behind it. The free kick following the safety naturally is a punt, but the ball shall be kicked from any point on the 20-yard line, or back of it. Both teams line up in formations similar to those for the kickoff.

The ball must be kicked to or across the restraining line of the opponents, unless it is touched by an opponent, in order to continue in play. A player of the receiving team may recover the ball and run with it, pass it backward, or kick it, but if it is recovered by a player of the kicking team it is dead at the point of recovery.

TOMORROW: Fair catch.

Dempsey Is Offered Contract To Fight Carnera Or Campolo In Winter Match At Miami

NEW YORK, Oct. 26. (AP)—Jimmie Johnston, Madison Square Garden promoter, announced today an offer of 40 percent of the gate receipts to Jack Dempsey for a match in Miami, Fla., next February against the winner of the Primo Carnera-Victorio Campolo heavyweight match here Nov. 27.

The former heavyweight king, who has been staging a barnstorming trip along the Pacific Coast in preparation for another comeback, will be in Chicago within three days, Johnston said, for a discussion of the match.

The Garden annually stages a heavyweight match in Miami. Until the Dempsey bout was considered, it was generally understood that Max Schmeling would defend his heavyweight title against Mickey Walker there this winter.

Mystery Will Be Clear

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—How soon after they happen do national and international events cease to be news and become history?

"Actually occurring events are history in the making," answered Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, "and the moment they have occurred, in a literal sense they are history.

"Still, it is true, more or less time must elapse before they can be considered, for practical purposes, historically."

Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart

It was as the country's foremost authority on America's story that the George Washington Bicentennial commission unanimously chose Dr. Hart to be its official historian. For nearly 50 years he has been historical instructor at Harvard. Since the appearance of his "Formation of the Union" in 1892, the books he has given to the world make a good-sized library.

If anyone knows what history is, Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart does.

"Perhaps two years," said the professor, "is a fair estimate of the amount of time that a historian should be allowed after the fact of an important event, to digest it. Then it may be that he will require a considerably greater allowance to investigate other facts bearing on it.

"To be liberal, I think I would say that an event 10 years old can reasonably be regarded as historic."

"OF COURSE," pondered the doctor, "it does frequently happen that fresh light is thrown upon an episode, or sequence of them, after a much longer interval than a mere decade.

"Documentary evidence often is withheld indefinitely.

"For example, many men in historic key positions keep diaries which, while their authors live, are not made public.

"State papers, too, filed away and forgotten, sometimes remain gathering dust for years, until discovered by pure accident, occasionally revealing information of the highest historic interest."

IS THE WORLD living history today of more than average significance?

Or does it simply seem so to us, because it is our own and therefore of especial concern to us?

"Oh, we appear to be living in a period of unquestionably great change," replied the professor, "and therefore a period which will be deeply studied by succeeding generations.

"What mystifies us, in the midst of it, will be clear to future historians, viewing the epoch in its entirety, but they assuredly will recognize it as a transitional chapter in the chronicle, and, as such, an exceptional chapter."

"SINCE our problem of mass production already will have explained itself, the solution," said Dr. Hart, "will appear perfectly obvious to them.

"It is anything but obvious now."

He rubbed his brow perplexedly.

"With an industrial equipment amply adequate to supply the needs of the whole world's peoples, with a world in dire distress for the very necessaries which this equipment could supply so readily and with the industries themselves equally distressed from the lack of demand for their products, we yet are unable to bring all these elements together.

"The inference certainly is overwhelming that a cog has slipped somewhere."

THE PROFESSOR shrugged; evidently the situation appealed to him as a historian rather than as an economist.

"The historic tempo, as well as the industries' tempo," he remarked, "is accelerated in our day. American history, since the colonies fairly could be considered collectively, covers approximately 200 years. From the date of the discovery of the telegraph the pace has increased steadily.

"At present, weeks may witness a transformation more complete than could have occurred in any whole preceding century.

"Time was when the news of a new international move in the Orient was a year in reaching Washington. Now, before the move is completed, the state department is formulating a policy to meet it."

INCENTIVE

Necessity is not only the mother of invention, but the developer of muscle, health and athletic prowess. Often it is the weak, sickly fellow who becomes the crack athlete, the Olympian wonder.

Coaches, speaking out of wide knowledge, give great encouragement to the fellow who is conscious of being outpointed in every direction by rivals who are as big and as strong as an ox. They have seen undersized youngsters come to the front in every department of sport.

The undersized, underweight boy goes at the game of athletics with a will, and finds that the secret of strength lies in the ability of muscles to respond, and to cover the frame, big or little, with a multitude of wires of steel that can be used for tasks more formidable than their possessor ever dreamed of before he began his training.

The wide interest of youth in all forms of athletic endeavor is the secret of the decline in the number of pulmonary complaints, and is, as well, a hopeful sign for the decline of the maladies of the middle-aged. If the one-time well-developed athlete would keep up his exercises instead of getting soft and fleshy, he would find that the health he acquired along with strength would serve him well later in life.

Football is a dangerous game—each season witnessing a number of fatalities and many broken bones—but it more than compensates for these by turning out thousands of strong, healthy boys.

THE $15,000 BLUEFISH CATCH:

In the fall of 1926 an extremely high tide brought ashore a school of 1500 bluefish at South Wellfleet, Massachusetts, and because the water receded so rapidly, left them high and dry on the beach. This tremendous quantity of fish threatened to be a menace to the community, until a few of the citizens realized that there was a fortune in the oil that could be extracted from them. They hastily formed an organization for that purpose, paid the community $15,000 for the fish, which amount was divided among 300 people in the village.

NEA FICTION

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN — Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

©1931 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pretty NORMA KENT, 20-year-old secretary, marries MARK TRAVERS, millionaire's son, in spite of the opposition of Mark's father, F. M. TRAVERS.

The story opens in Marlboro, middle-western metropolis. After an extravagant honeymoon at fashionable Blue Springs during which Mark spends all his money and borrows $500 the couple return to Marlboro. Mark loses his first job. Then he becomes a floorwalker in a department store. In spite of poverty he and Norma are happy until his father sends for him. Travers offers to take Mark back into his business organization if the son will prove he can make good. His first task involves a business trip to France. Norma must remain at home. She tries to persuade Mark not to go but is unable to do so.

Norma, rudely treated at her father-in-law's home, slips away, leaving no trace of her whereabouts. CHRIS SAUNDERS, her former roommate, helps her find a job.

Mark's father, determined to engineer a divorce, employes detectives to trail the girl. They produce records to show that Norma three years earlier had been convicted on a vice charge, in spite of evidence that this charge was framed and Norma innocent, Thavers sends his lawyer to Paris. Norma knows nothing of all this until she receives a letter telling her Mark has secured a divorce. Nxt day in the office Norma faints and Chris takes her home. Though ill, Norma goes to Mark's parents. She learns they are in Florida. Norma moves to Chris' apartment. One night Chris meets Bob Farrell, former suitor of Norma's, and says, "Something has to be done and you must help me!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Farrell looked at the girl. "What do you want me to do?" he said.

"I want you to help me, Bob. Something's got to be done—and done right away. If Norma doesn't begin to take an interest in something—begin to care a little bit what's going on around her—the doctor says it will affect her health. I've tried and tried and it's no use!" She doesn't want to go anywhere. If we stay at home she'll sit and sometimes not say more than a dozen words all evening."

"But I don't see that there's anything I can do—"

"Yes, you can, Bob. Norma's always liked you. She likes to hear about the things you do and what's going on in your office. If you'd drop around once in a while the way you used to I'm sure it would help. Just say you happened to be in the neighborhood and thought you'd stop in or something of the sort—"

Farrell flushed slightly. "I'd do anything I could to help you, Chris," he said, "but I don't think Norma wants to see me."

"Won't you some out once—just once—and see if it doesn't work the way I think it will?"

"Why, of course, if you want me to."

"How about tomorrow night?"

"That'll be all right with me. By the way, what about these doctor bills? Is she going to need money?"

"Not now. Dr. Willoughby's keeping his charges down. I think he's sorry for Norma. Saw her that first day, you know, when she fainted in the office. Won't take a cent, of course, but I've persuaded her it's all right to accept it and pay it back later."

"Let me take care of that. How much is it going to cost?"

"About $250, I guess, with the hospital and everything. I couldn't let you pay all of it, Bob, but I'll admit I've been wondering how I was going to dig up that much."

"Then don't worry about it any longer. I'll write a check right now. Farrell pulled out a fountain pen and reached for his check book.

"Not now," Chris told him. "We don't need the money now and I wouldn't want the responsibility of keeping it. I'll let you know when the bills begin to come in. It's fine of you to want to do this, Bob."

"Why shouldn't I? It's—well, it's just a little thing. By the way, you won't mention the fact to Norma, will you? Please don't!"

Chris nodded. "I'll tell her the money is a loan," she said, "and she'll think it's all from me. When she begins to pay it back I'll turn the cash over to you."

"You're going to see that she has everything?"

"Everything she needs. Dr. Willoughby says she's getting along splendidly if it only weren't for these moods of depression."

There was a pause and then Farrell asked, "Has she heard anything at all from Travers?"

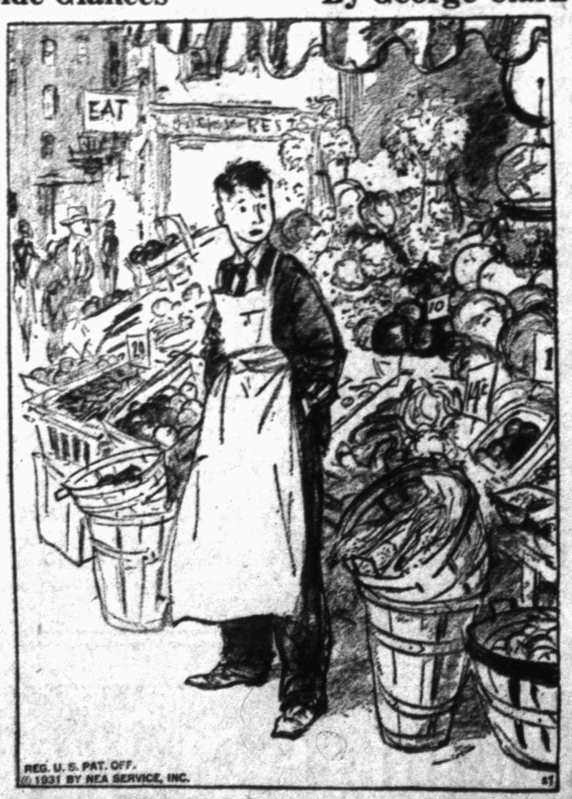

"You mean Mark? Not a word. Wouldn't you think he'd be ashamed of himself? And nothing from his family either. Of course that was to be expected. Oh, Bob, to think I stood by and let her marry that good-for-nothing! It makes me wild when I think of that. I might have known it would end this way!"

"There was no way for you to know that." Farrell said thoughtfully. "Or for anyone else to know it, either. Well, if you say so I'll stop in tomorrow night. For a few minutes anyway." He noticed the waitress coming toward them and added. "What are you going to have for dessert?"

They gave their attention to the menu. By the time their orders were set before them three other

Several Hundred Cotton Trucks Tied Up Through Failure To Get A Permit

Several hundred cotton trucks are tied up at points all over the South Plains between Plainview on the north and Midland and Big Spring on the south, because of failure of the owners to secure a "contract permit" from the Railroad Commisison of Texas, J. H. Edwards, Tahoka, field inspector for this area, said.

"Most of these truck owners have applied for a permit tooperate but there has been so many permits that the commission has not had time to hear the applications," Mr. Edwards said. "I think the trouble was so many waited until just the last minute before starting to haul cotton or cotton seed that the commission has not been able to handle the demand."

Until a short time ago, Mr. Edwards explained, the railroad commission was tied up with legal complications in the enforcement of new legislation governing truck operation. Under the law, farmers may operate their own trucks to haul their own cotton to a gin or to a compress or other place, but if they haul cotton for some one else, they have to have a permit, Mr. Edwards said. A good many truck owners have been doing a cooperative hauling business.

Truck owners holding state permits, either Class B or Class A, may haul cotton, as well as farmers who own trucks and who haul their own cotton or other products.

Twelve hundred or more permits are to be acted on at a meeting of the railroad commission in Austin beginning November 2, Mr. Edwards said. There will be a large number of applicants from this section before the commission then, he said.

France received more than half the reparations coal shipments from Germany in the second quarter of this year.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognised by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

diners had taken the nearest table. There was no longer opportunity to talk privately. A little later they left the restaurant and boarded a street car. Bob left Chris at the door of the apartment building.

There was a crack of light showing beneath the door as Chris climbed the dark stairs. She slipped her key into the lock, called out "Yoo-who!" and entered.

No one was in the room. Chris glanced about, hurried to the alcove where the two studio beds stood. Norma laf there sound asleep, one arm out over the covers and the other pillowed beneath her head. Her hair was tossed back from her face. A silken strap had slipped out of place, revealing a smoothly rounded, ivory shoulder. A faint tinge of color glowed in her cheeks and the dark lashes, shadowed, seemed longer than they were.

Chris stood quietly looking down at the other girl. Norma's breathing was deep and regular. Cautiously Chris got to her knees. Yes, just as she had expected. The pillow beneath Norma's cheek was damp from tear drops. One more night when the girl had cried herself to sleep. Softly Chris tiptoed away and arranged the screen so that light from the lamp could not awaken Norma.

There was no indication that Bob Farrell's call the next evening was anything but the casual visit he made it out to be. The two girls were washing dishes when the bell rang. Norma went to answer it and admitted Bob. She apologized, explained dinner had been late. Bob called for a tea towel and volunteered to help but his offer was refused.

In five minutes the last of the dishes were out of sight. Norma remembered one of the windows had taken on an unmanageable stubbornness and could not be raised. Would Bob fix it? Of course he would. He did.

"You know," Farrell said as he dropped into the arm chair, "a fellow came into the office today with one of the craziest cases I've ever heard of. It's a fellow who lives in Laurel Park. Do you know what he's up against?"

"I wouldn't even try to guess," and Chris. "What's his difficulty?"

"Well, Laurel Park has its own city government, you know. They've paved a new street and this man—Perkins his name is—owns a house on the block. But when he bought his property the owner retained a strip a foot wide between the house and street. When they came around with the paving proposition Perkins refused to pay for the strip in front of his home, saying he didn't own the frontage. Nobody could persuade him to buy that foot of land. Well, the paving's in now and the Laurel Park council has ruled that if Perkins steps over that foot of ground, jumps over it or crosses it in any way he will be subject to arrest. The man came to us to see what he could do about it."

"Why, how perfectly silly!"

"Maybe, but he's had to come and go by the back door and alley drive for a week now and he's pretty sick of it. Everybody else can use the street and sidewalk. You see he has a legal right to be on his own property. He has the same legal right as anyone else to be on the street. What he can't do is cross from one to the other."

Norma was smiling. "Are you going to help him, Bob?"

"Oh, there's really nothing much for Perkins to do but come across and buy that land. It's just a case of mulishness. He's made up his mind he won't. Someone else made up theirs that he would. It's not my worry though. Bill Kennedy's handling it. He was telling me about the thing just before I left the office. Just one of these freak affairs that pop up every now and then."

"I remember Mr. Brooks told me about something like that once—" Norma said meditatively. She related sketchy details of a legal controversy involving a picket fence.

They sat in the comfortable living room and talked for three-quarters of an hour. Then Farrell arose and said he must be leaving.

"Come to see us again soon," Chris urged as he stood with one hand on the doorknob. Norma added, "Yes, do!"

"Thanks. Be glad to. Well—good night!"

There was no doubt that Chris' plan to take Norma's mind from her worries had succeeded. Norma was more like her old self for the rest of the evening.

A week later when Bob called to see if the two girls were at home he promised them a surprise. Over the telephone he refused to explain further but half an hour later he led them proudly to the apartment window and pointed to the street. There before the entrance was a shiny coupe.

"Oh, Bob!—is it yours?"

"Why Bob—!"

"Nice looking little bus, isn't it?" he said grinning. "Got the chance to buy it at a bargain and it was too good to refuse. Picks up speed, too! Well—would you like to try it?"

Both girls exclaimed with enthusiasm when they inspected the car at close range. It was small, of inexpensive make but it had trim lines. Farrell was like a school boy displaying a new toy.

He helped the girls inside and took the wheel. They drove for an hour and a half. April had been a cool month but there was the scent of spring in the air. Bob circled the car through a park. It was the same park Norma had found so inviting the day she had shopped for the Thanksgiving dinner. Trees were unfurling their fresh green leaves now. The little leaves could not keep out the moon light but they made the boughs seem heavier. Two weeks before the leaves had not been there.

"Bob," said Norma softly, "I think we should go back now."

"O. K. Just as you say."

He did not go inside when they reached the apartment but nodded a cheerful good night at the door.

"Take another spin some of these times?" Farrell asked.

"We'll be glad to," Chris told him and Norma agreed. Then they went into the building.

On a Sunday afternoon 10 days later Farrell took the girls for a second drive. Then as the days became warmer he dropped into the habit of coming around oftener. The second week in May there was a terrible and unseasonable hot spell. A drive in the open country after sunset was a blessed relief. Bob's coupe drew up before the apartment almost every evening.

Always the three of them went together. It was natural enough because Chris and Norma spent almost every evening in each other's company. When Bob was with them Chris found relief from the constant strain of keeping Norma's thoughts diverted.

Dr. Willoughby mentioned the fact that his patient seemed in better spirits.

June arrived. Norma gave up her work in Stuart's office and a girl whom Chris knew, a capable stenographer out of work since the office in which she worked cut its force, took over her duties. About the same time Norma told Chris she thought Bob should discontinue coming to the apartment. Chris relayed this suggestion to Farrell and the automobile drives ceased.

June proved a warm month and July brought three weeks of scorching heat. Chris postponed her vacation so that she could be with Norma. They were hard, wearing days with the sun beating down on hot pavements from morning until evening and the nights offered a little respite. They were hard days for Norma and hard days for Chris.

The last week in August had been set for Norma to go to the hospital. The two girls were sitting before the open window trying to get a breath of cool air one evening early in the month. There was no light in the room because light attracted insects. Norma reached for Chris' hand and held it tightly.

"Chris," she said slowly, "there's something I want you to promise me!"

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26. (AP)—Cotton developed a decided reactionary tendency in today's moderate trading. A weakened technical position as a result of the recent good advance, indifferent cables, the large ginning total of the census bureau and easier stocks induced considerable liquidation by recent buyers. In addition there was nervousness over the British elections. The close was steady but at the bottom showing net losses for the day of 24 to 28 points. Liverpool is due 10 morrow 9 penny points down on New Orleans.

The census bureau reported total ginnings to October 18 were 9,498,041 which was larger than expected. The total shows that the ginnings for the last period from October 1. to 18 totaled 4,089,734 bales, believed to be a record.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 26. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under liquidation or realizing by buyers of late last week.

January contracts sold off to 6.67, making a net decline of 29 points, and closed at 6.70, with the general market closing barely steady at net losses of 26@28 points.

The opening was barely steady 10@16 points lower under southern selling orders, while there was also foreign and local selling promoted by large ginning figures and reports of favorable weather in the south. There was increased pressure from southern sources in the late trading. December sold off to 6.56 and March to 7.01 and the market closed within a point or two of the lowest.

Securities And Commodities React In Dull Markets; Stocks Show Drop

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 26. (AP)—Securities and commodities reacted in dull markets today.

Stocks, lacking any incentive to do otherwise, declined slowly. Bonds averaged lower, although the list was somewhat spotty. Wheat, corn and cotton gave up part of last week's gains and rubber futures made new lows.

Wall street received favorably in the main the Hoover-Laval statement, although some traders may have been disappointed because it was not more concrete. Banking circles, however, were willing to interpret the results as constructive, pointing out that the possibilities of cross-purpose action by France and the United States had been eliminated and this country had now definitely informed Europe that future advances toward an international debt revision must come from her side of the ocean.

other bodies were discovered until yesterday.

Dispatches from De Queen said the second body found yesterday was believed by authorities to be that of E. S. Chappell, Springdale, Ark., fruit grower whose truck was abandoned at De Queen over a week ago. However, investigators said tonight this was doubtful.

Officers were working on the theory that all three may have been the prey of highwaymen.

time being," late today. Whether the soldiers will be back on the job next Monday he wouldn't say definitely.

He learned of the court hearing delay at Atoka, where he broke a sleepless train ride from Dallas in the wee hours to wire his message of mobilization to Lieut. Col. John A. McDonald here.

In Form Of Suit

The renewed controversy over the bridge is in the form of a suit, filed in federal court at Muskogee, asking for authority to block the free structure into Texas and an injunction to restrain interference with toll bridge travel.

Both bridges have been open since and "armistice' was reached in last July's fracas, which saw federal injunctive power and Texas rangers used to keep the free bridge closed and Oklahoma guardsmen called out to open it.

Governor Murray retained a state of martial law at the free bridge tonight, but he made it clear he would not interfere with the toll span.

Early today he promised that an Oklahoma congressman would "move for an investigation of some of these southwestern federal courts," contending they can not enjoin a sovereign state, its governor or his "military arm."

A highway extending from Canada to Mexico through West Texas is being promoted to be called the Chilholm Trail Highway to perpetuate the name of the historic trail of early cattle days.

organization in May.

O. B. Martin, extension director, spoke highly in favor of the plan and commended the chamber of commerce secretaries for their interest in getting behind the extension service. "I believe that the chamber of commerce is going to have some demonstrations in their towns," he added in telling of one county where the home demonstration agent had persuaded butchers to handle standardized home cured meat products.

Others Are Heard

Others who spoke on the program included: H. H. Williamson, assistant state director; Miss Myrtle Murray, district home demonstration agent leader; Miss Mildred Horton, state leader of H. D. agents; Sterling C. Evans, district agent; Miss Lola Blair, extension worker; Miss Zetha McInnis, state extension worker and Roy Davis, county agent of Hale county.

A. L. Smith, extension beef specialist, gave a brief comprehensive survey of the feeding program for the state and the district. He said that in Lamb county there were now 2,000 calves on feed and 6,000 lambs and about as many in Hockley county. He spoke of the feeder-breeder exchange and the feeding out of animals on a share basis.

Roy Snyder, meat specialist, stressed better meat production in a talk on the home curing of meats. In addition to hogs, he suggested beef and lamb be added to the family diet.

Basic Industry

Captain Winfield Holbrook, Plainview, a member of te W. T. C. C. agricultural committee, termed agriculture the basic industry in this area, adding "West Texas has always been and will be for a good many years to come, a farming and stock raising section." The county agents, he added, do need some help.

Maury Hopkins, assistant general manager of the W. T. C. C. in the closing talk, expressed as his belief from personal observation that in Hale county where the county agent's work has been going on for about ten years the direct results have run well up into millions of dollars.

Tuesday morning there will be continued sessions of agents with state leaders. Director Martin and his assistant and Miss Horton, state leader of the women, will meet with their respective groups. Tuesday night there will be a meat killing demonstration at the local packing house with curing of the meat on Wednesday. On Wednesday morning the women will be shown modern cheese making methods by K. M. Renner at Texas Tech.

Program Is Held

Monday's program included a breakfast in the Hotel Lubbock with an informal stunt program led by Miss Pauline Lokey, Tulia.

At the joint meeting addresses were made by the following: O. B. Martin, state director; I. W. Hill, Washington, field agent for the southern states; Miss Mildred Horton; Miss Myrtle Murray, and H. H. Williamson, assistant director.

Pool, former Abilene banker is charged with receiving deposits in a bank in a failing condition, was transferred to 42nd district court in Callahan county and set for trial November 23, by Judge Milburn S. Long, when the case was called here today.

A large number of trench silos are being built in Randell County for the preservation of the present large silage crop.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 26. (AP) — Cash grain demand was good.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or group three points:

Wheat, No. 1 ordinary hard milling 57 1-4@58 1-4; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein 58 1-2@59 1-4; 14 per cent 62 1-4 @63 1-4; 15 per cent 66 1-4@67 1-4; 16 per cent 70 1-4@71 1-4.

Corn, No. 2 mixed 39@40; No. 2 white 40@41; No. 2 yellow 47@48.

Barley, No. 2 38@40.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 76@77; No. 3 kaffir 75@76.

Basis delivered group three: oats, No. 2 red 34@35.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 26. (AP) — Acting in unison with the stock market and burdened by heavy profit-taking sales of wheat, all grains showed a downward trend today. Notable reluctance which European importers displayed in following wheat price advances on this side of the Atlantic had a bearish effect. A further drag on grain values came from denials that any concrete proposals were pending for extensive French or German purchases of United States government sponsored wheat holdings.

Wheat closed unsettled, 3-4 to 1 1-8 cents lower, corn 5-8 to 1 1-8 down, oats 1-4 to 1-2 off, and provisions at 5-30 cents decline.

of a commission to consider the allied debts to America on a basis of capacity to pay.

Senator Borah of Idaho, whose blunt demand for revision of the Versailles treaty of peace with Germany exploded with a roar in the midst of the Hoover-Laval conversations, maintained rigid silence. To friends he intimated some doubt over the results.

Up To Europe

The upshot of the day of reaction at the capitol seemed to be that the skeptical members of congress were going to wait and see what was necessary when the time came. More than one pointed to the Geneva disarmament conference to be held next February. The inference was that it is up to Europe—whatever may be the understanding of the president and M. Laval on disarmament—to show serious determination to cut down on arms before asking for a reduction in debts burdens.

Senator Walsh of Montana, assistant Democrat leader, said he saw nothing in the situation to change his position against reduction of the war debts.

"I don't see anything in it," he said, "except the two executives are going to labor for a continuation of the gold standard. It would seem as if the purpose was to exclude silver."

period of 1930, was shown. Total revenue from general taxes this year was $4,815.76.

Total expenditures during the period was $214,420.69, or $10,520.69 more than proposed. The expenditures were $155,120.84 for general expenditures, including maintenance expenses of the light plant and water works system and all city departments; $50,747.48 for capital outlay, and $8,466 miscellaneous, which included payment of notes and tax refunds.

A balance of $37,646.57 unappropriated was revealed in the report. This amount, city officials explained, represented a net saving to the city.

Sino-Japanese

were restated:

"1. Mutual sino-Japanese pledge of non-aggression and guaranty of each other's territorial integrity.

"2. China must abandon the anti-Japanese boycott and all other forms anti-Japanese propaganda.

"3. China must assure the safety of Japanese lives and property in Manchuria.

"4. Competition to services of Manchurian railways must be eliminated. (The South Manchuria railway is owned by Japan.)

"5. China must reorganize existing Japanese treaty rights in Manchuria, including Korean and Japanese land leases."

Official circles made clear Japan has no intention of carrying out the evacuation unless the Chinese in advance offer the guaranties of protection for lives and property which make up one of the "fundamental" principles.

Dispatch Troops

The dispatch of additional Japanese troops into Chinese territory was cited as another failure of the Chinese to keep order.

General Shigreru Honjo, commander in chief of Japanese forces in Manchuria, reported Chinese bandits had destroyed railway property at various points along the Saupingkai-Chenchiatun - Taonan line and attacked trains and stations. Chinese station employes fled, he said, and therefore Japanese army authorities dispatched a "detachment" of the second division from Changchun, northern terminus of the South Manchurian railway and limit of the Japanese occupation, to do guard duty at various stations

Free sites on railroad trackage, low natural gas rates, plenty of water, and an abundance of building materials produced locally are inducements held out for prospective industries at Borger in the Texas Panhandle.

"Spirit Of Summer" To Wed—In Fall

Baron Who Offered Title To Bride With Money Need No Longer Worry; He Has Plenty But Can't Be Found

CHICAGO, Oct. 26. (AP)—Conditions for Baron Giorgio Mario Suriani have changed but he may not be aware of it.

The baron, who offered his hand and his 16th century Neapolitan title to any eligible lady with a dowry of $100,000 without receiving any offers, has come into some 5,000,000 lira or $250,000, Leslie G. Agasim, an attorney said last night.

But the baron is missing from Chicago. He left his last known Chicago address about three weeks ago, which prompted Agasim to insert an ad in a newspaper offering a reward for information as to his whereabouts.

Baron Suriani made his offer of marriage in 1928. Shortly afterward he became engaged to Miss Winifred Barry, an actress in New York. They were to have been married in the little church around the corner, but the bride stayed home and issued a statement for the press.

"I did not know," she said, "That he had offered his title for sale. And I learned today, after I got over the shock of reading about that in the papers that he had been engaged to another woman for a year. She can have him. I don't want him."

Seating capacity of 2,000 is planned for the auditorium.

Large Turkey Crop Is To Be Available From Brownfield

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 6.—At the meeting of the Terry County Turkey Growers association, which was held here Saturday, it was found that about 2,000 turkeys could be pledged for the Thanksgiving market, but there was a difference of opinion between the members as to whether it would be advisable to sell both on Thanksgiving and Christmas or hold both pools for Christmas. It was thought that the latter market would be better and that somewhere near 4,000 birds would be pledged for it. The quality will be superior this year as natural conditions have been favorable to their development. Officials of the association, will at a future meeting, determine the time of marketing.

Large Number Of Cattle To Be Fed Out In Lamb County

(By Staff Correspondent)

OLTON, Oct. 26.—Nearly 1,000 head of cattle, mostly calves, will be fed out on Lamb county farms in this section of the county, according to farmers who have already secured animals. It is expected that there will be a large number of others who will feed from a car load to 100 or more head.

J. A. Carruth has received 600 head from Mr. Dickinson of Lubbock and has begun a feeding program.

Walter Hays has received 100 head and Walter Schreyer about as many.

Several other farmers have announced they expected good shipments within a few days.

Best Method Of Treating Wheat Seed For Smut Told

Many farmers are asking D. F. Eaton, county agent, about the best method of treating wheat seed for smut, before planting.

"Every farmer who expects to plant wheat should treat his seed for smut," Mr. Eaton said. "It only costs a few cents a bushel to do it, but the farmer will lose several times that amount on each bushel he harvests, if smut gets into the seed next harvest."

Directions for applying the several types of treatment are available to all who apply, Mr. Eaton said.

The Irish Free State has raised amusement taxes.

Railroad Reply To Report Made

Reply of the Fort Worth and Denver City and Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railroads to the exceptions of the Texas and Pacific and Texas and Pacific Northern to the report of Examiner Weede in the proposed construction of the latter road in West Texas, was filed last week with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Texas and Pacific Northern made application to build 333 miles of railroad from Big Spring neath to Vega, with lines to Lubbock and Amarillo and touching a dozen towns. The hearing was held here last December and consumed nearly two weeks, with several hundred interested residents of this area here for the giving of testimony. Nearly 200 witnesses were heard.

In its reply the Fort Worth and Denver points out that the proposed expenditure of $13,000,000 to build the T. P. N. is not justified by the business which would accrue to that line. The proposed railroad would parallel existing lines and would take business away from them, the F. W. D. C. further argued. The T. P. N. would touch the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains at both Lubbock and Dimmitt.

Funeral Services For Local School Student Held Monday

Funeral services for Laverne Putty, 16, who was killed early Saturday night when she was struck by a truck, driven by Robert Kirksey, of Slaton, as she and a companion were walking on the highway, were held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Broadway Church of Christ with Elder John T. Smith officiating. Burial was in the Lubbock cemetery under the direction of Rix Funeral home.

County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson Monday took a statement from Kirksey regarding the accident. No charge in connection with the girl's death will be filed, since the mishap apparently was unavoidable, the county attorney said.

Miss Putty was struck by the truck as she and Miss June Douglas were walking to Lubbock to attend a moving picture show. Miss Douglas was unhurt. Kirksey told officers he was blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile and did not see the young women.

Leaders Plan For Campaign

Prohibition Advocates Ready To Fight Wet Candidate As Democrats Prepare To Raise Big "Victory Fund"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26. (AP) — Organized prohibition leaders, admittedly campaigning for dry candidates and dry platforms by both political parties next year, have centered their attack for the present on the Democratic party's $1,500,000 "victory fund."

As John W. Davis, 1924 presidential candidate, announced plans for closely-knit state groups to carry forward the camgaign for funds, the national prohibition board of strategy called on "dry Democrats" not to support a "wet propaganda bureau."

The board attacked the prohibition views of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Jouett Shouse, executive director.

Meanwhile, national committeemen and women of each party are receiving a communication on prohibition from the women's organization for national prohibition reform. Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt, national secretary, sent each a copy of resolutions adopted by the organization in the spring advocating a return to state liquor control.

Posters Aiding Drive For Fund

Lending impetus to the Lubbock Salvation Army's financial drive scheduled for November 1-10, seven large lithographed posters bearing the names of President Hoover's organization on unemployment relief and committee on mobilization of relief resources have been placed on posterboards in Lubbock.

A workman stands in the design, gesticulating forcefully, and beside him is the message: "Of course, we can do it! Give to your local welfare and unemployment relief funds." The Salvation Army is the only Lubbock charity organization which will solicit funds this year. The United Welfare association, which absorbed United Charities, is tax-supported.

Propaganda forces are co-operating on a nation-wide scale to aid local empaigns of welfare organizations. Printing companies, outdoor advertising and other agencies are contributing to the campaign. The Lubbock Poster company erected the posters here and in several other South Plains towns free.

The Lubbock posters, one of which is illuminated, are at Avenue D and Twelfth street, Avenue H and Thirty second street, Avenue K and Fourteenth street, Avenue H and Thirteenth street, Avenue H and Eighth street, College avenue and Sixth street, and Avenue Q and Main street. The last posterboard is lighted.
