On The BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr.

It's amazing what a little rain will do for this country. A few weeks ago it was dry and farmers were sweating out the time when the rains would come and everything was somewhat at a standstill on the dry land farms. Since the rains came every farm is a beehive of activity as farmers are trying to get their crops planted before time runs out.

This part of the country has been very fortunate this spring in that no damaging hail or windstorms have come with the rains. Even though we were a little dry for a while we would have been no better off than we are if crops had been up and been destroyed by hail.
