Candidates Get In Some Target Shots

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic and Republican vice presidential candidates are getting in some target practice in advance of the official beginning of the election campaign.

And the new chairman of the Democratic party says the party's financial position is much improved for the 1972 campaign, although they still haven't figured out how to pay all of the multi-million dollar debt left from the 1968 campaign.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who was named Saturday by President Nixon as his running mate for November, criticized Democratic positions on amnesty, the draft and marijuana in a speech at Anchorage, Alaska Sunday.

He said voters will have a "clear voice" between candidates for the first time, adding, "It would be a tragedy if, after four years, the voters did not return Richard Nixon for another four years."

The Democratic vice presidential candidate, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, went after Agnew in an appearance on ABC television's "Issues and Answers" program, saying the Vice President "gets right down into the grassroots of a campaign, sometimes into the mud."

He said he would welcome a debate with Agnew.

Eagleton also indicated he has so far been rebuffed in attempts to meet with AFL-CIO President George Meany to try to win him to the Democratic side. But he held out the possibility that Meany still would take "a second look."

Jean Westwood, new chairman of the Democratic National Committee, told newsmen in Custer, S.D., that the 19-hour Democratic telethon earlier this month netted only about $1.5 million instead of the $5 million that had been forecast.

But she said the party is trying to pay off or settle as much of its $9.3 million debt as possible.

Of the total debt, $6.3 million is from the 1968 campaign. But Mrs. Westwood said the party is in much better shape now and the entire cost of the 1972 convention has been paid, along with all operating costs so far.

ON SCHOOL BONDS Stanton Voters Ballot Tuesday

STANTON — The Stanton Independent School District will hold a $700,000 bond election Tuesday for construction of a new junior high school and elementary school building. Trustees hope third time will be charmed.

Trustees decided to call the bond election during the school board's July 5 meeting. The board had been considering the possibility of remodeling or new construction, but after several months of debate elected to go the new construction route.

The voters twice defeated a $1.2 million bond issue that included building a new high school.

"I think — I hope — the issue will pass this time," said school Supt. Russell McMeans. "The new school board cut out $500,000 of the old bond issue, and I have heard of no organized opposition."

The bond proposal includes a building program with a new junior high school and elementary building on the present high school campus, the addition of two classrooms to the high school, the addition of four dressing rooms to the junior high school gym, and a shop building-vehicle maintenance building.

The elementary school will be used as a polling place and the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Wants More Drug Arrests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's top drug abuse officials told President Nixon today the number of narcotics violation arrests has doubled in the past four years and Nixon told them he wanted the number doubled again next year.

Standing in his Oval Office before a chart showing 16,144 arrests for drug violations this year, compared with 8,465 four years ago, Nixon told his special consultant on drug abuse law enforcement, Myles Ambrose:

"We were on the 10-yard line. Now we're up to the 50-yard line. But we have the ball now. They had it before. Let's go."

Ambrose, who also is director of the federal Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement, nodded in agreement. So did two other officials attending the meeting, Asst. Treasury Secretary Eugene T. Rossides and Customs Bureau Commissioner Vernon D. Acree.

In addition to the upswing in arrests, Ambrose told Nixon that agents had doubled the amount of heroin seized. This, he said, is "disrupting the heroin supplies . . . and reducing availability."

Capital Punishment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court was asked today to rehear the cases of 16 prisoners who were removed from death row by its historic June 29 decision banning executions.

Prosecutors asked rehearing in 13 Georgia death sentence cases, 2 in Pennsylvania and 1 in Texas.

Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin requested a hearing in the case of Elmer Branch; Pennsylvania District Attorney Arlen Specter asked reconsideration of the cases of Anthony Soleri and Frank Phelan, and Georgia Atty. Gen. Arthur K. Bolton filed in 13 cases.

Nine Miners Trapped Behind Wall Of Fire

BLACKSVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — Rescue workers encountered problems today which delayed drilling of a five-inch hole into a burning coal mine where nine men have been trapped since Saturday night.

Meanwhile, hope faded that the miners would be found alive.

A predrawn equipment breakdown caused one delay in the drilling. Then, later in the morning, the bit became stuck and the drilling again came to a halt.

BIT JAMMED

When the bit stuck, the shaft had been drilled to a depth of 624 feet, and a hole 730 feet deep was needed to intercept the mine at the point where the men were believed to have been trapped.

There has been no word from the mine since shortly after the fire started. Officials of the Consolidation Coal Co.'s Blacksville No. 1 mine said Sunday night chances the men would be found alive were "quite dim."

Officials said 31 of the 40 men doing maintenance work in the four-mile mine reached safety within minutes after the fire broke out.

The bore hole was being drilled in an attempt to reach the men or possibly communicate with them. Failing that, officials hoped to learn something about conditions in the mine 650 feet below the rolling hills of this West Virginia-Pennsylvania border community.

3,000 DEGREES

An official of the U.S. Bureau of Mines said temperatures in the immediate area of the fire probably were between 2,500 and 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

Rescue efforts have been hampered by the fire which continues to burn in the soft coal veins that underlie the area.

The fire started when a heavy piece of mining machinery being relocated in the main corridor about a mile from the lone elevator shaft hit a live electrical wire, generating sparks.

The fire had been localized Sunday night in an area of about 400 square feet, less than a mile from the mine entrance, Consolidation officials said.

Consolidation President John Corcoran told newsmen that some members of the missing men's families were keeping a vigil around the entrance to the mine.

ALWAYS HOPE

"There is always hope," said Leonard Pnakovich, vice president and spokesman for the United Mine Workers of America.

Pnakovich placed the blame for the fire squarely with the company. He accused Consolidation of being negligent in failing to enforce a state law requiring evacuation of miners from an area where heavy machinery is being moved.

Corcoran answered, "There is a legal requirement . . . that workmen do not go in by the air currents where a machine is being moved. It would appear that on this particular occasion some of the men were where the machine was being moved. Why they were there, we don't know."

Arrest Teen For Slaying Of Man, Wife

RUSTON, La. (AP) — Authorities have arrested a Louisiana youth who is accused in the gun-and-torch killings near Austin, Tex., of a young couple from Massachusetts.

They identified the prisoner as Michael David Sanders, 19.

Officers had charged him Saturday at Austin with the slayings of Thomas Matzilevich, 21, and his wife Kathleen, 19, both students at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth. The charred bodies were found July 16 with their burned car close to the Texas capital's City Park.

Sanders, taken into custody Sunday, indicated he may fight extradition to Texas. He was expected to go before a judge and state his intention today.

Lincoln Parish Chief Deputy Sheriff George Simonton said Sanders, who had been living here the past few months, also was known as David Matthews.

When charges were first filed Saturday in Texas, police said the wanted man was David Matthews, alias Michael David Sanders. Simonton said later, however, his correct name was Sanders but he had used Matthews as an alias.

Sanders reportedly was from Bossier City, La., and attended high school there.

Matzilevich was shot three times and his wife, nude from the waist down, was hit four times by bullets. Police said their gasoline-soaked car was then set afire.

The young man was the son of Dr. Benjamin Matzilevich, a neurosurgeon at Natick, Mass. His wife was the daughter of Dr. John Connor Jr., superintendent of schools at Worcester, Mass.

They withdrew $1,000 from a Fort Worth bank a few days earlier and none of the money was found, authorities said.

McGovern Unveils His Campaign Team

CUSTER, S.D. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern formally unveiled his top campaign team today and vowed "to return government to the people at all levels from the White House to courthouse."

The Democratic presidential nominee listed the roles his top advisers will play in the fall campaign at a news conference at his Sylvan Lake retreat in the Black Hills of South Dakota near Custer.

TOP TO BOTTOM

In announcing positions for the campaign, McGovern said Jean Westwood, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, "will direct the over-all campaign of the national ticket from top to bottom making a special effort to broaden the campaign to include more women at all levels."

Lawrence F. O'Brien, named national campaign chairman last week, will "give special attention to party unity and relations with governors, senators, congressmen, mayors, party leaders, and leaders of organized labor and be a foremost consultant on all aspects of the campaign," the announcement said.

The only state coordinator named in the announcement was Eugene Pokorny, architect of McGovern's Nebraska and Wisconsin primary campaigns, who will run the campaign in Illinois which the senator described as "perhaps the most crucial in the McGovern campaign strategy."

TRAVELING STAFF

Gary Hart, the senator's campaign manager for two years, will direct the campaign organization in all states with George Cunningham, the senator's administrative assistant, as deputy campaign manager. Frank Mankiewicz will serve as McGovern's top political adviser and head the traveling staff which also will include Lt. Gov. William Daugherty of South Dakota, former Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall, Frederick Dutton and minorities coordinator Yancey Martin.

Working under Hart as regional coordinators will be Richard Stearns for the West, Eli Segal for the central and South states, and Harold Himmelman for the East.

Although today's schedule was relatively light, the arrival tonight of McGovern's running mate, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri, means another busy Tuesday for the South Dakota senator.

TIRED

McGovern has complained of tiredness, and aides expressed the hope the rest of the week would be relatively light. The senator visits Mitchell, where he lived as a boy, and the state Democratic convention at Aberdeen on Saturday en route back to Washington.

Dockers Shut Down Major British Ports

LONDON (AP) — Striking longshoremen shut down all major British ports today to protest the jailing of five London dock workers for defying the nation's new labor court. Thousands of workers in other industries struck in sympathy.

By noon most of the country's 42,000 longshoremen had joined the stoppage that began Friday in London, Liverpool and Hull. Men in Southampton, Manchester, Glasgow, Bristol, Swansea, Ipswich and other ports walked out today.

Miners, printers, automobile workers and truck drivers also struck today in a massive show of support for the jailed men.

Prime Minister Edward Heath scheduled a meeting with leaders of the 9-million-member Trades Union Congress, seeking a solution for the growing crisis.

11 Per Cent Auto Insurance Rate Cut In Texas Proposed

AUSTIN (AP) — An 11 per cent average statewide car insurance rate cut, which should give Texans more than $60 million to spend on other things, was recommended today by the State Insurance Board staff.

The board indicated it would try to act on the proposal in a week or so.

Both industry representatives and the board's actuaries said the reduction was due because of insured Texans' improved traffic safety record.

If approved by the board, it would be the first major cut in car insurance rates in a decade.

New rates will be applied to policies written or renewed after Sept. 1, and should remain in effect at least a year.

The board's staff proposed an average 8.2 per cent reduction in liability rates and a 14.5 per cent slash in the most expensive part of a typical family car insurance policy — collision and comprehensive coverage.

Actual rates vary widely and are set according to a driver's age, where he lives, the kind of car he drives and how much he uses it.

Average rates will drop in each of the 40 rating territories if the staff proposal is adopted.

The rate decreases were recommended at the board's annual car insurance hearing. Rates are based on the state's insurance claims experience, and claims have dropped sharply in the past year.

Board member Durwood Manford speculated at a news conference Friday about reasons for the reduction.

"We just didn't have the 'acts of God' that cause comprehensive losses" from hurricanes, hail storms and other natural disasters, he said.

Manford also said companies have been "more restrictive" in writing collision and comprehensive policies; the recession might have caused families to curtail automobile use and "I think the 'Drive Friendly' campaign is bound to have had some effect" on the accident rate.

Another reason for the cut is a guideline under President Nixon's "Phase II" economic program which reduces by 37.5 per cent the factor used to predict the impact of inflation on car repair and hospitalization costs.

The board has not changed car insurance rates since it ordered a 14 per cent average statewide increase on Jan. 1, 1971.

Satellite To Send Pictures Of Earth

LOMPOC, Calif. (AP) — Their long-awaited satellite tucked in a perfect orbit over the North and South poles, scientists are checking out systems aboard the ERTS spacecraft in preparation for receiving first pictures of the earth Tuesday.

The $176 million spacecraft was launched Sunday from Vandenberg Air Force Base here to begin a year of global environmental measurements that scientists hope will usher in a new era of using space technology to monitor earth's natural resources.

LOOKS FINE

ERTS, which is short for Earth Resources Technology Satellite, thundered aloft atop a white Delta launch rocket that flawlessly boosted the 1,900-pound spacecraft 500 miles above the South Pole and into a circular orbit.

"Everything looks fine—in fact it looks excellent," said Dr. John Clark, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Spaceflight Center at Greenbelt, Md. The center will control ERTS during the year in which the 10-foot-long satellite will circle the earth every 103 minutes.

Equipped with three television cameras and a special radiation-sensing device, the spacecraft will photograph the entire globe every 18 days.

Scientists hope to use the pictures to monitor natural resources such as crops, forests, schools of fish, water supplies and grasslands.

They believe the pictures, taken through filters that measure radiation reflected from the planet, can help in mapping, spotting earthquake fault systems and locating mineral and oil deposits.

MOST IMPORTANT

"This is probably the most important launch of an unmanned satellite NASA has ever made," Clark said.

"This mission has more potential to bring direct benefits to the average man than perhaps anything we've done so far in the unmanned space program."

Flight controllers at Goddard plan to spend today and part of Tuesday checking spacecraft systems before the first pictures are taken later Tuesday. They will be made as the butterfly-shaped spacecraft sweeps southward across Canada's Maritime Provinces. In the next orbit, ERTS is expected to take pictures of a swath down the Missouri and Mississippi River valleys.

Nixon Will Meet Japanese Prime Minister In Hawaii

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka has accepted an invitation for wide-ranging talks with President Nixon in Hawaii Aug. 31 and Sept. 1.

No agenda was announced for the meeting, which the official language of a joint Sunday night announcement billed as "an exchange of views" between the two Pacific allies.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said there will be a "full range of discussion of U.S.-Japanese relations, including trade."

The meeting will come less than two weeks after Nixon's expected nomination by his party to run for a second term.

For Tanaka, who was elected earlier this month, the meeting with Nixon will precede Japanese diplomatic talks with China and the Soviet Union.

"We feel it is an appropriate time to meet with the prime minister," said Ziegler in response to a question following the announcement.

The Hawaii gathering will be the second summit for the two powers this year. Nixon met in San Clemente, Calif., in January with Tanaka's predecessor, Eisaku Sato.

The January meeting was intended to soothe the feelings of the Japanese who were buffeted by the administration's announcements last summer of direct approaches to mainland China and of economic moves sharply affecting U.S. trading partners.

The administration last August imposed a 10-per-cent surcharge on imports without advising Japan, the United States' second-largest trading partner.

The new summit is seen in part as a continuation of the January effort to better relations that were ruffled by the moves of 1971.

Ambassador William Eberle, Nixon's special representative for trade negotiations, left for talks with Japanese leaders Friday after a White House session with the President.

Jane Fonda Calls Nixon 'Traitor'

PARIS (AP) — Jane Fonda, the American actress-activist, returned from a trip to Hanoi and promptly labeled President Nixon a "traitor."

Miss Fonda was dressed in a Vietnamese red tunic and black cotton trousers and carried a peasant's conical straw hat when she arrived in Paris on Sunday.

She said a "traitor" is not someone who opposes the Vietnam war but rather "someone who is committing the most heinous crimes I think have ever been committed."

"There is a very serious traitor in our midst and I think it is Richard Nixon."

Conn Named To National Board

SAN ANGELO — Fred Conn, publisher of the San Angelo Standard Times, has been appointed by President Nixon to serve on the national Water Pollution Control advisory board of the Environmental Protection Agency. His term will extend to June 30, 1975.

The committee consults with William Huckelskaus, administrator of EPA on policy making responsibilities.

Conn has been active in water affairs for a number of years, having served as co-chairman of the San Angelo water Resources committee, chairman of the City Water Advisory Board, on the West Texas Chamber of Commerce water study committee; board of the Upper Colorado River Authority, director of Water, Inc., and on the advisory committee to the Texas Water Development Board.

Bristows Become Bikers For Trip Across Country

By JO BRIGHT

"You meet the nicest people on a Honda."

Until about six weeks ago, that phrase was just another Madison Avenue slogan to Mr. and Mrs. Keith (Jeanne) Bristow, son and daughter-in-law of Mrs. J. Gordon Bristow, 534 Hillside.

But since then, they've seen a great deal of the United States — and part of Canada — from a well-padded perch atop their 1971 Honda. The big, black touring bike has zipped in and out of nearly 30 states, carrying the Bristows through busy thoroughfares and down deserted country lanes. It has been a different type of vacation for them: one they will long remember, not only for the things they saw, but for the people they met along the way.

"Everyone was fantastic, even the highway patrolmen," said Keith. "Actually, we were stopped once, but it turned out the officer was a biker himself and just wanted to talk."

The Bristows began the trip from their mountain home in Nederland, Colo. June 5, and by the time they arrived in Big Spring over a week ago, they had traveled 7,027 miles. The only extra expense they chalked up to transportation was purchase of a new tire in New York City and repair of the luggage rack, which broke in Atlanta.

Traveling light, Keith and Jeanne allowed themselves very little in the way of luxuries and only a few essentials. They took two changes of pants, a jean jacket for each, several shirts — and long underwear. (The latter came in handy several times.)

The original plan was to camp out all along the way, but due to bad weather, they slept under the stars only one night, and that was in Canada. Their bedroll, a double mummy bag of goose down and nylon, is waterproof and light, packing into an amazingly small bundle. A knapsack contained minimum personal items, along with compact camp gear and a small grill. Jeanne prepared sausage and eggs a couple of times, and they warmed some soup, but due to constant rain, her outdoor culinary capabilities didn't get a true test.

"It rained on us 80 per cent of the way," she recalled. "We were just 1½ days ahead of that South Dakota disaster and a little behind upper East Coast floods." During this time, the travelers donned weather suits.

One of the Bristows' first stops was in Thermopolis, Wyo., to visit her family, then their first night out was at a KOA camp ground where for $3 they had a camp site, showers, laundry facilities and supply store.

Continuing across the northern states, they went to Detroit, Mich., as guests of Craig and Sharon Bundy. (The couples had met previously when the Bundys had car trouble in Colorado and were assisted by the Bristows.) In South Dakota they had stopped near Mt. Rushmore to see the beginning of Crazy Horse Mountain.

"A man who is now in his sixties is doing the sculpture and doesn't expect to get it completed until he's over 80 years old," explained Bristow. "He is copying the Crazy Horse statue, sculpturing by blasting. It is still in the rough stages, but you can tell where he's started doing the horse. A small scale model lets you see what it will look like when it's finished."

It was in the Badlands area that the travelers met Daniel Walking Bull (said to be the grandson of Sitting Bull), and he assured Jeanne that he was going to make her a special necklace which would soon be in the mail. The townspeople of Belvedere, S. D., welcomed the bikers like old friends, gathering around to examine the Honda, and Bristow took many of them for short rides during the brief stop.

There were still patches of snow at Powder River Pass where the Bristows stopped to drink from a spring. Nearby, an elderly couple had parked their camper, and after cautiously eyeing the bikers for a few minutes, "eased over" to get acquainted. As it turned out, the man was an artist with a large portfolio of paintings whose beauty he was anxious to share.

"It was like that everywhere," said Bristow. "The people were incredible, amazing. We met a university professor, a real nice guy in his forties, who was a biker. He lived in Iowa and taught in Ohio, or vice-versa, and traveled back and forth on his motorcycle.

"Another interesting experience occurred when we pulled into a shop in Atlanta to have the luggage rack repaired. It turned out the shop was a hangout for a motorcycle gang. Without a word, one of them handed me a beer, and they were all friendly and helpful. One of the group was a girl known as 'Spider Lady,' who offered to show us her tattoo. She was a trick rider who had been seriously injured five months before but had gone right back out to compete again as soon as she was able.

"We didn't encounter hostility anywhere. In fact, everyone was so nice, we couldn't consider them hostile unless they didn't wave."

The Bristows did arouse curiosity, even among normally reticent residents of Maine.

In Gloucester, Mass., the travelers were present for the "blessing of the fleet" by the archbishop from Boston, after which, following the ocean to Hampton, N. H., they viewed five-story mansions which were summer homes for wealthy Easterners. At the Essex Lobster Company, the Bristows picked out 12 live lobsters which ended up on tables in Big Spring and Thermopolis. The shipments were made by air freight, and Mrs. J. Gordon Bristow said her lobsters arrived packed in damp seaweed and included was a package of spices with instructions for preparing the lobster.

While in Canada, the Bristows toured Quebec and Cherboung, "a beautiful town where everyone spoke French." They camped out by the side of the road one night and were awakened when a large group of Canadian cyclists roared past. Some of them waved, but none stopped.

The Bristows considered New York City the worst place to drive; not because of traffic congestion but due to the incredible number of chuckholes in the streets. At no time were they involved in an accident, however, once a car skidded nearby, and in Shreveport, two trucks jackknifed in front of them. They were bothered occasionally by wind suction caused by heavy trucks. The 750 cc. cycle has a gas tank which holds 4½ gallons, and Bristow said he gets about 140 miles per tank. They made a habit of stopping every 100 miles to gas up and rest, and their longest day was about a 550-mile drive.

All in all, it was a delightful trip — one the Bristows may feel like repeating — someday.

Judged Best In 4-H Revue

A "Fashion Fair" set the scene for the 1972 Howard County 4-H Dress Revue held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the county fair barn. Girls had been judged earlier on the overall appearance of their outfit, suitability of the design, color and texture for the girl, grooming, posture, attitude, poise, personality, 4-H records and construction.

Judged outstanding in the senior division was Mollie Adkins, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Adkins, Lomax. Mollie modeled a plum-colored front-buttoned tunic with fitted bodice featuring a U-neck and flared skirt over a matching print blouse with roll collar and long sleeves.

Junior winner was Tricia Jackson, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Jackson, Gay Hill. Tricia wore a jumpsuit hot pants with long overskirt, opening down the side with a row of ruffles, fashioned of 100 per cent cotton. Black and white gingham checks were accented with appliqued strawberries scattered down the front.

Mollie and Tricia will represent Howard County Tuesday in district competition to be held in Lubbock. A luncheon sponsored by Plains Cooperative Oil Mill will be for the revue participants, their mothers, extension agents, and news media representatives. The top four girls in the senior division will be eligible to compete in the state 4-H dress revue which is slated Oct. 7 in Dallas in conjunction with the State Fair of Texas.

Computer Match Pays Benefits

Two years ago Blanche Ryland, 20, asked Dateline, a computer-dating firm, to find her a fiance. The computer not only found the waitress a guitarist, Burke Shelley, but is also giving the couple a free honeymoon cruise and $240 for expenses because they are the computer's 1,000th wedding success.

"I tried the computer for a laugh, but it turned into serious business," said the bride. The groom explained, "I didn't want to marry a pop fan and didn't trust myself with girl fans making advances, so I turned the decision over to the computer. It gave me Blanche, who had never even heard of me as a guitarist."

No Praise For Modern Attire

Dr. Lilliane Brock of Antwerp, Belgium, warned housewives against girdles and mini-skirts at a Mothers Club luncheon.

"When you complain that your girdle is killing you, you may be right," she said.

"While you are sitting there now, it is acting as a tourniquet, cutting off the blood to your legs. Mini-skirts, she said, force modest women to cross their legs tightly when sitting in public view. "This has a tourniquet effect, too," warned the doctor.

Prospective Bride Is Honored

Miss Lucia Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Connell Taylor of San Angelo, was honored by Big Spring friends with a gift shower Saturday in the home of Mrs. Lonnie Coker.

Miss Taylor, a former Big Spring resident, will be married to Gordon Simmons of Detroit, Mich., Aug. 19 in San Angelo.

To greet the guests along with her mother and Mrs. Coker, Miss Taylor wore a paisley floor-length dress.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Wayne Bartlett.

The refreshment table was covered with an embroidered white sheer organdy cloth, and the centerpiece was of shasta daisies in a footed blue bowl.

Other hostesses were Mrs. Sidney Clark, Mrs. Neal Bryant, Mrs. A. J. Dean, Mrs. Horace Reagan, Mrs. Clem Jones, Mrs. J. O. Hagood, Mrs. T. H. McCann, Mrs. Lynn Hise, Mrs. S. M. Smith and Mrs. Bill Johnson.

Fly Swatter Has Disposable Cups

A "Bug Huger" — disposable, swatless fly swatter, combining the principles of old-fashioned fly paper and the cup-over-the-critter method. A handle and six disposable cup-like attachments with sticky interior make a sanitary disposal for flies, spiders, bees — whatever the pest that's bothering you.

'Spring Garden' Theme For St. Lawrence Show

"Spring Garden" was the theme for the Glascock County 4-H Dress Revue held in St. Lawrence Hall Thursday. Following the style show, a salad luncheon was served.

Miss Victor Gene Hughs, HD agent for Glascock-Martin counties, was narrator. Judges were from Martin County.

Belinda Jost won first place in the Junior Division, and Jan Hirt is alternate. Other entries in the Junior Division were Theresa Schraeder, Janet Hoelscher, Connie Carstensen, Jane Gardner, Karla Halfmann, Connie Schwartz, Mickey Gardner, Jeannie Schwartz, Linda Schwartz, June Gardner, Tonya Carstensen, Sandra Schwartz, Denise Schwartz and Dorothy Schwartz.

Kathy Schwartz was first place winner in the Senior Division, with Barbara Hoelscher as alternate. Other entries in the Senior Division were Antoinette Schraeder, Becky Schwartz, Phyllis Johnson, Dinell Hirt, Pam Schwartz and Shirley Schwartz.

The district dress revue will be held Friday in Ozona.

Antoinette Schraeder, Becky Schwartz and Dinell Hirt decorated the hall with flower arrangements and draped fabrics on the sides of the stage for the style show. They also served punch and set up the refreshment tables.

The Record Book Workshop is Aug. 3 at 1 p.m. in St. Lawrence Hall.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

After reading the idea about keeping a small paint brush around the house for touch-ups after a paint job, I am inspired to pass along to your readers a similar idea with greater scope.

When my husband opens a can of paint, I get in there first with an empty baby food jar, and fill it right to the top. Now, in the garage, I have eight little labeled jars filled with paint to match every room in the house.

Right alongside them, I keep one of the children's paint brushes. We have seven children, now, most of 'em boys, and seven better little paint chippers were never torn!

Once a week, when I'm washing the woodwork, I note any chipping done, whip out my trusty paint brush and a jar of paint and presto! Chips disappear like magic.

It keeps a paint job looking fresh for years, assuming, of course, you wash off fingerprints while you're at it.

We always paint both walls and woodwork with semi-gloss enamel, as it is easier to keep clean, and cuts down on the number of jars you have to keep around. Donna Acquaviva

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

On the subject of the height of kitchen sinks, people are growing taller than their forebears and more and more American males are spending time in the kitchen.

Builders follow plans, so maybe we should contact state and national architectural agencies and organizations, as well as those dealing with standards and specifications in the building trade. The main library in any large city can furnish names and addresses.

I read that while standing straight, one should be able to lay the palms of the hands flat on the bottom of the sink. Supposedly, this indicates how high the sink should be, at least for you.

When did I read this? Twenty years ago, my friends! Don't you think it's past time architects and builders shaped up on this subject? It might be a good idea to state in your letters the height of adults using the sink most often in your household.

If you will be building or remodeling a home, I recommend you employ the above method of determining the height of your sink. I did. It's great. And I guess you know standing on a cushioned mat eases back strain, too.

container with holes in it to hold chips of soap — so came up with the idea of using an aluminum tea ball strainer.

I hang the strainer on my tub faucet and when I take a bath, drop it in my bath water for extra soap which lets me use all of my soap pieces that accumulate. Mrs. Hood

Vowing Vengeance For Bombing Blitz

BELFAST (AP) — A sniper killed another British soldier in Belfast today, while a civilian died and four were wounded in a crossfire in Londonderry. The soldier was shot at an army post on the edge of the Roman Catholic Ballymurphy district. His was the 473rd con-gun battles in Northern Ireland's second city. Two other battles broke out when guerrillas attacked army posts in Londonderry with rifle fire and nail bombs. The Army said troops hit three gunmen and no soldiers were hurt. In Belfast, militant Protestants stepped up pressure on Britain to hit back harder at the Irish Republican Army guerrillas they blamed for a weekend of bloodshed that left 18 dead. Leaders of the right-wing Vanguard Movement called a civil disobedience campaign including refusal to pay rents and local taxes.

Ex-Dallas Crime Fighter Hopes For Change Of Venue

DALLAS (AP) — State Dist. Court Judge John Mead may rule today on whether Dallas Crime Commissioner John McKee will stand trial in Dallas County on indictments alleging swindling and em-

The motion states McKee cannot get a fair trial here because of pre-trial publicity. McKee, who Wade and Dyson say is a Navy deserter named James Kell Zullinger, was indicted in February and March on two counts of embezzling and one count of swindling, all from the Dallas Lodge of Perfection, Scottish Rite. McKee was personal representative of the head of the Texas Scottish Rite bodies when the alleged offenses took place.

Sultry Heat Grips State

By The Associated Press
Sultry July heat maintained its grip on Texas today despite the usual scattering of showers in one section or another.

It was cloudy over the southern third of the state this morning with a few showers moving inland from the Gulf of Mexico between Freepport and Brazoria, plus others east of Del Rio on the Mexican border. Skies were clear elsewhere.

There was the same hit-or-miss shower pattern Sunday with the heaviest rainfall, .66 inch, measured at the Hondo weather station just west of San Antonio. Other shower activity occurred along the coast from Brownsville to Beaumont, in far West Texas east of Van Horn and in parts of the Texas Panhandle.

Thermometers climbed into the 90s at many points Sunday afternoon, going as high as 96 degrees at Childress and 98 at Wichita Falls. Readings near Dawn today ranged from 66 at Amarillo and Dalhart up to 80 at Galveston.

Forecasts called for little change—clear to partly cloudy and warm throughout the state with a few showers dotting the coastal plains and from the Rio Grande Valley into Southwest Texas.

Watch Toxemia

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had toxemia when I was pregnant with my first child, and I was put in the hospital during my ninth month.

My symptoms were high blood pressure and I was overweight due to excess fluids. What I would like to know is will I get toxemia when I become pregnant again? Also, how is toxemia harmful to baby and mother during pregnancy? — J.M.

The exact cause of toxemia is not really known, although it does afflict a good many pregnant women, especially those who have not had early enough prenatal attention — a very good reason for getting into early contact with a physician.

It is supposed that either an endocrine imbalance or a metabolic disorder is the cause. A warning of the onset of toxemia in pregnant women is a rise in blood pressure. Often women with high blood pressure are more susceptible to toxemia.

Fluid retention, also associated with it, brings sudden weight gains beyond those to be expected naturally during pregnancy. Swelling in joints is especially noticeable, and many women complain of tightened wedding rings and bracelets.

It usually occurs in the last three months of pregnancy, although it can occur as early as the middle three months.

In mild cases, treatment involving diet restrictions (low salt diet), rest and diuretic drugs is sufficient.

In your case, your doctor felt that such treatment was insufficient, and to be on the safe side he had you admitted to a hospital for more intensive care.

Without proper care, toxemia can become a serious matter indeed, leading, in extreme cases, to convulsions.

The practice of examining urine samples throughout pregnancies helps monitor patients for signs of toxemia. Abnormal amounts of albumin in the urine occurs.

I'd say that if you had toxemia during your last pregnancy, you would be a pretty good candidate for it in your next one.

The disorder is more common in areas where inadequate prenatal care is the norm than where good care is available.

It is dangerous both to the mother and the child, often leading to pre-ature delivery.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Shouldn't a baby going on eight months be crawling around the floor and be able to pull its body up and sit up by now? — Mrs. G.P.

Statistics show that about 70 per cent of babies are able to get themselves to sitting positions anywhere between six months and nine months. Your baby may be one of those who performs a bit later than others.

Most behavior charts are based on averages of hundreds of infants tested and are not to be interpreted too strictly. Differences of two or three months from one baby to another are not uncommon.

Each accomplishment is but one of many that must be interpreted as a group.

His physician should check his progress in the course of usual periodic visits.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to become an alcoholic on beer?

We have been married for six years, and every night of those six years my husband has consumed a minimum of three quarts of beer — many times more.

We have a family and I'm concerned. He is 30.—Mrs. R.B.R.

Yes, it is possible. No question about it.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Bud To Bow Out As Committeeman

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Bud Wilkinson announced Saturday he will not seek re-election as Republican National Committeeman at the party's national convention next month.

'Jim Smith Power' Play

HAMBURG, N.Y. (AP) — One day a man got fed up with people asking him, "Your name isn't really Jim Smith, is it?"

So he founded a special interest group called the Jim Smith Society.

This weekend the society held its third annual Fun Festival and 50 men named Jim Smith showed up, sporting tee shirts emblazoned "Jim Smith Power." Nearly 300 other persons, most of them named Smith, too, joined in the celebration.

The highlight of the giant picnic was a softball game in which 22 players, two umpires and the scorekeeper were all named Jim Smith.

On hand to watch was the society's founder, the Jim Smith from Camp Hill, Pa.

Formerly a police reporter for the Harrisburg Patriot, Smith said he tired of policeman's wisecracks about his name, so he founded the organization.

MORE THAN 100 MILES PER HOUR Six Motorists Die In Smash

By The Associated Press
Six motorists died Sunday as two cars smashed together southwest of Wichita Falls on U.S. 82 at speeds estimated at more than 100 miles per hour.

The collision one mile east of Dundee, in Archer County, contributed to a weekend toll from violence in Texas amounting to 34 deaths, including 26 on streets and highways.

The grim tally was kept by The Associated Press between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Victims of the Archer County accident were Bill Abell, 44, Wichita Falls oil man who was alone in one auto, and Willie Daniels Jr., 35, his brother Rudolph, 29, and three children, ages 1 to 3, all of Seymour.

These were among others killed during the weekend: Cary Allen Childress, 20, of Rosenberg, died in a two-car collision Sunday on Texas 36 a mile south of Guy in Fort Bend County.

WRONG LANE
A car traveling in the wrong lane of a divided highway collided with another Sunday at Houston and the crash killed the occupant of the second car, William Jones, 77, of Houston.

A head-on collision five miles west of Friona on U.S. 60 took the lives of Helen Leonard Culver, 59, of Fort Worth and Monroe Timmons, 71, of Clovis, N.M.

A patient at the Wichita Falls State Hospital, Kenneth Owens, 19, climbed to the top of the institutions abandoned water tower and leaped 125 feet to his death Sunday night. Officials said it was the first time anyone had jumped from the tower in the hospital's 50 years.

Three persons died Saturday night in Dallas as one car struck a curb and bounced into an inside lane about the time another one swerved across the center line. The crash killed John Wesley, 60, and Corine McDade, 59, both of Dallas, and Otis Frazier, 32, of Shreveport, La.

T. C. Calhoun, 39, and Johnny Brown Sr., 58, both of Bryan, were killed in a three-car accident four miles south of Marlin on Texas 6 Saturday.

A one-vehicle accident on a rural road near Mineola, in Wood County, Saturday killed James Andrew Lowrance, 59, and his son Troy, 39.

Soph Playoffs Will Open Wednesday

Playoffs for the District 5 Sophomore League get underway here at 6 p.m. Wednesday with a pair of other first-round games scheduled the same evening.

Paring was accomplished at a meeting of league officials, team managers and coaches at the Chamber of Commerce Conference room Sunday.

Winner of the tournament here will go to the state finals in Eules Aug. 1-5.

The Big Spring Red Sox were placed in the lower bracket, which means that they will advance to the third round in the double elimination tournament.

The initial game will be in Park A (North) at 6 p.m. with Lockney, sponsored by the Lockney community, playing the San Angelo American team, sponsored by the San Angelo Police men and Firemen Association.

At 8 p.m. in Park B (South) Midland Eastern, sponsored by Dellwood Plaza, will face San Angelo National, sponsored by the San Angelo Elks Lodge.

Also at 8 p.m. in Park A (North), Midland Western, sponsored by Lario Oil & Gas, will tangle with the local representatives, the Red Sox, sponsored by the Hi-Noon Optimist club.

Big Spring Seniors will take part in the district tournament in Odessa Thursday, but the pairings are not due until 10:30 a.m. Thursday. Should the locals win, it will be handy, because this year's state tournament will be in Sweetwater.

Texans Upset Tigers, 3-1

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Peppy Detroit manager Billy Martin has put Baltimore manager Earl Weaver on notice: Tiger ace Mickey Lolich doesn't pitch more than two innings in the All-Star games Tuesday night.

Martin said Sunday night after his Tigers had lost 3-1 to Texas that he had wired American League President Joe Cronin and rival Weaver, that Lolich "shouldn't pitch more than two innings.

Rich Hand and Horacio Pina combined to shut the tigers down on four hits Sunday night, defeating Detroit for the first time in nine games.

The Rangers sent catcher Hal King, who was critical of the Rangers' youth movement, to Denver.

Cardinals Keep Season Record Clean At 17-0

Jesse Zapata got four hits, including a crucial single in the fifth inning, to pace the Big Spring Cardinals to their seventeenth consecutive win Sunday with a 3-1 victory over the Plainview Colts.

The Cards got only six hits in the contest. Billy Pineda and Abel Ramirez were the only other players to connect for a hit. All four of Zapata's hits were singles. Pineda had a double.

Orlando Olague was the winning pitcher for Big Spring. He surrendered only two hits in the game, back-to-back singles in the fifth inning. The hits combined with a walk that had preceded them to produce the lone run for the Colts.

The Cards scored their first run in the fourth inning when Zapata singled with one out. He advanced to second on a ground ball by Mike Gamboa and then scored on Pineda's double.

In the fifth, Joe Martinez fled out to open the inning. Olague walked and was forced out by Felix Martinez. Tony Fierro and Martinez were then safe on a fielder's choice. Benny Marquez was walked to lead the bases, and Zapata followed with the single that scored two runs and won the ball game.

Muny Event Goes For 64

Ronnie Broadrick, Greg Peay, Ray McMahan and Vance Chisum shot a 64 Sunday at the Municipal Course to capture a selective drive tournament sponsored by the Big Spring Golf Association.

All four players hit a shot off the tee in a selective drive tournament. The players then determine which shot is the best and play the rest of the hole individually from that point.

Second place went to Jimmy Newsom, Brian Peay, Garland Hill and W. E. Anderson. They shot a 66.

There was a three-way deadlock for third place. Max Pitts, Boyce Hale, Charles Marstrand and Jim Gregg shot a 67 to tie with the teams of Jim Welch, O. A. Madison, Gary Hall and Gary Holley and Bob Jackson, Omar Decker, D. A. Brazel and Lee Munoz.

Clemente Leads Heroics As Bucs Finally Nip Reds

By The Associated Press

Roberto Clemente, according to Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, "might be the best player in baseball for one day. When he has to perform—like in the World Series when he wanted to prove he was the best—you see what he does." Sunday was one of those days for Pittsburgh's brilliant right fielder, his first game in two weeks since being knocked out of action by an intestinal virus.

Clemente knocked in the game-tying run with an eighth-inning single—his second run batted in of the battle between the National League's division leaders—and moments later Sunday was one of those days scored the winner on Willie Stargell's double as the Pirates slipped past the Reds 3-2.

Elsewhere, in the National League, Philadelphia's Dwight Gooden defeated the Los Angeles 2-0, San Francisco defeated the New York Mets 5-2, Houston beat the Chicago Cubs 6-5, Atlanta edged St. Louis 3-2, and in a doubleheader, Montreal swept San Diego 2-1 and 9-1.

The victory by the Bucs—and Cincinnati's setback, of course—gave each team a 55-33 record for a winning percentage of .625, the best in the majors.

A year ago at the All-Star break, Pittsburgh owned a nine-game lead in the East Division while the Reds were stumbling along in fifth place in the West. Now the Pirates' lead is 5 1/2 games and Cincinnati's is six.

WYNN WINS

Tom Seaver was sailing along with a 2-0 lead and a one-hitter until the Giants jumped on him with two ayan in the fifth inning on Ken Henderson's solo homer, singles by Chris Arnold and Pitcher Ron Bryant and Bobby Bonds' three-run clout.

Jim Wynn wrecked a bit of Chicago strategy with a game-winning hit for the Astros.

Larry Howard opened the ninth inning with a double off Ferguson Jenkins and a sacrifice put the winning run at third. The Bucs' hurler then walked Roger Metzger and Cesar Cedeno intentionally to load the bases, but Wynn followed by slashing a single off shortstop Don Kessinger's glove.

Hank Aaron drove in all three Braves runs two of them with a first-inning single and the winning one with a tiebreaking single in the eighth to drop the Cardinals.

Montreal's Mike Torrez tossed a four-hitter, then rookie Balor Moore went him one better with a three-hitter in the nightcap against the Padres. Torrez struck out six batters while Moore fanned 13.

Homerin' Harmon Sinks Milwaukee With Slams

By The Associated Press

Harmon Killebrew won't be going to Atlanta for Tuesday night's All-Star Game but the next steps on his home run itinerary are Jimmie Foxx and Mickey Mantle.

Homerin' Harmon brought back memories of the American League's 1971 All-Star triumph Sunday—he hit a key two-run homer in the AL's 6-4 victory—by blasting a home run in each game as the Minnesota Twins swept a doubleheader from Milwaukee 3-0 and 6-5.

That gave him 15 for the season and 530 for a career that finds him sixth on the all-time homer list, four behind Foxx and six in back of Mantle.

Elsewhere, Texas cooled off Detroit 3-1. Baltimore trimmed Kansas City 8-4. Oakland downed Boston 6-3, the Chicago White Sox took two from Cleveland 2-1 and 4-3 and California beat the New York Yankees 6-3.

Baltimore jumped on Kansas City's Dick Drago for four runs in the first inning on a walk, Bobby Grich's triple, Boog Powell's single and Don Baylor's homer and Terry Crowley crashed a decisive ground slam home run off Roger Nelson in the seventh.

Oakland broke a 2-2 tie against Boston with three runs in the seventh inning with a walk, a wild pitch, another walk and a passed ball setting things up. Mike Hegan drove in the go-ahead run with a sacrifice fly.

The A's hold a 6 1/2-game lead over the White Sox, who posted a pair of ninth-inning victories over Cleveland, taking the opener on Jay Johnstone's pinch single and the nightcap on Carlos May's second home run of the game.

Ken McMullen's three-run homer in the first inning and Andy Kosco's solo smash in the fifth powered California past New York, despite Horace Clarke's four hits for the Yankees. The Angels had scored only two runs in five previous games in New York.

Extra Hole Win Breaks Drouth

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — "I guess maybe missing those two cuts in a row was a blessing in disguise," Bert Yancey said.

The former West Point cadet had just outlasted surprising Tom Ulozas in a sudden-death playoff for the title and the $30,000 first prize Sunday in the American Golf Classic.

He was discussing a recent slump which hit rock bottom when he failed to qualify for the final two rounds in recent tournaments at Chicago and Cleveland.

When Yancy missed cuts, he went on a regimen of practice work, practice work. It paid off in the stifling muggy heat that settled over the 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course like a hot, wet blanket.

He blew a three-stroke lead on the final day with a two-over-par 72 and found himself tied at the end of the regulation 72 holes with Ulozas, a 29-year-old four-under-par total of 276, Ulozas after a final round of 68.

On the first playoff hole, a 230-yard par three, both reached the green. Yancey lagged up two feet short. Ulozas, putting from about 30 feet, boldly ran his first putt three feet past, then missed it coming back.

The 33-year-old Yancey tapped his in and the slump was over.

Hale Irwin took third place with a 68-277, Canadian George Knudson was next at 70-278 and Jim Wiechers was the only other man under par after four rounds at 66-279.

Rookie Chuck Thorpe, who once threatened for the lead until he made double bogey seven on the 625-yard 16th hole, slipped back to 69-280. Arnold Palmer struggled in with a 74-282 and wasn't a factor in the final round.

Big Spring Netters Have Big Weekend At Kermit

Big Spring players won three out of five first places in dominating the Kermit Invitational tennis tournament Saturday.

Only in the boys' and men's singles did Big Spring stumble. Novice Kniffen, tired by the doubles event, was upset in the second round, and Mark Tereletsky and Harry Jordan went down in the third. Tommy Davenport, Stanton, won the boys event.

Kniffen and Randy Mattingley combined to measure Dennis Crowell, Hobbs, N.M., and Dwight Hines, Midland, 6-4, 6-4 for the doubles crown. Earlier they had defeated McClure and Speer of Kermit 6-2, 6-4.

Tommy Davenport, Stanton, captured the boys singles by defeating Randy Mattingley 6-3, 6-3, after having beaten Jack Dyer, Big Spring 6-4, 6-4. Mattingley won his second round over Tereletsky 6-1, 6-1, and Tereletsky had won his first round over Jack Smith, Stanton, 6-3, 6-1. Davenport then paired with Mattingley and they won the doubles over Taylor and Mobbs of Jal, N.M., 6-1, 6-1.

In the first round men's singles, Davenport defeated Brent McAfee, Odessa, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2; Harry Jordan, Big Spring beat Jack Speer, Kermit, 6-1, 6-1; Hines, Midland, beat Mattingley 6-2, 6-1; Tereletsky defeated Ray McClure, Kermit, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2; Chuck Williams, Kermit, defeated Charles Arnold, Big Spring, 6-0, 6-0; and Kniffen advanced on a bye. In the second round Dennis Crowell beat Davenport 6-3, 6-0; Jordan beat Hines 7-5, 6-3; Tereletsky beat McClure 3-6, 7-3, 6-2; Williams beat Kniffen 7-5, 4-6, 6-4. Crowell measured Jordan 7-6, 6-2 in the semi-finals while Tereletsky was beating Williams 6-1, 6-4. Crowell then nipped Tereletsky 6-2, 6-1.

Pickett, Marshall Win At C-Club

Bud Pickett and Peggy Marshall shot the low gross score of 78 in the Scotch Foursome at the Big Spring Country Club Sunday. Second place went to Al and Burgie Rees with an 82, and Joe and Evelyn Gunning took third with an 84.

The low net score was shot by Morris and Sandra Rhodes with a 66. John Taylor and Janell Davis were tied with Omar and Nell Jones with a 69.

The Scotch Foursome meets on the fourth Sunday of every month.

Touchy Issue

The State Department seems needlessly skittish, to say the least, about United States delegates' participation in a scientific conference in Havana. State kept the matter quiet until a news report let out the secret. Even then officials made some government scientists to the meeting was a great point of stressing that our having sent not to be construed as an overture to the Cuban government.

The scientists in question are specialists in the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. They were sent to Havana late in June to attend sessions of a group of their peers under auspices of UNESCO's Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission. Besides Cuba and the United States, others represented were the Soviet Union, Britain, France and the Caribbean nations.

The State Department appears greatly worried about a possible adverse public reaction. Though it routinely announces U.S. delegations to international meetings, no announcement was made of this delegation. Then when the Columbia Broadcasting System spilled the beans, the State Department's spokesman took pains to say our participation in the meetings implied no change in policy toward Havana and was not meant as a friendly gesture toward the Castro regime.

This at a time, be it noted, when U.S. and Soviet space organizations are busy working together on plans for a joint orbital mission by astronauts from the two countries. At a time, too, when the President has just had summit meetings in both Peking and Moscow, when agreements have been reached and there is a marked effort to enlarge contacts and improve relations.

It is almost as if State were divided into airtight compartments, one concerned with the rest of the Communist world and the other concerned with Cuba. The mystery is: Why should our government, while making all sorts of overtures to the great Communist powers, shy away from even letting on that a few scientists were allowed to attend scientific sessions in Cuba?

It's Alive And Well

This evening in Colorado City, the Noon Lions Club will celebrate its 50th anniversary.

Certainly a Golden Anniversary for an organization is a memorable occasion, but it is especially for this organization which blazed the trail for civic club activity in this region. There's only one older in West Texas.

It's important, too, for Colorado City because the Lions Club there long has exercised a great role of leadership and initiative in making it one of the most distinctive towns in this area. And it bodes well for Colorado City that the Noon Lions Club is just getting its second wind on its 50th birthday. The old founders mostly have passed on, and a new, energetic crop of young businessmen are, as the only charter member observed, restoring its "zip."

Hope To See

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

I hope I live long enough to see:

THE TIME when Texas has a water system which can at least compare favorably with that of California's. It might have happened already, had not some of those people living in areas blessed with ample rainfall shown a chilling indifference to the needs of some areas which don't.

When West Texas is able to grow everything it is capable of growing — and that time will come only through good soil management and when ample water is available.

WHEN OUR government spends less on super highways and more on adequate housing and upgrading sewer systems. (There's nothing like an overpowering lobby.)

The day there is not a shot fired in anger around the world, when armies become as useless as chimneys in summer.

When all neighborhoods become wholesome enough to guarantee equal opportunities for health and intellectual development to all its children.

WHEN THE nation's railway system can become utile for all people desiring to travel in that manner and not be used as a political football.

When religious sects decide there's nothing in Holy Writ to promote wars, bigotry and political differences.

THE DAY every man and woman have equal rights, regardless of race, creed or color, when mankind truly begins to live by the Golden Rule.

When the head count throughout the world can be controlled to the point that every living person can be guaranteed enough food for an adequate diet.

WHAT CHANCE would you say I had to outlive Methuselah and his 969 years, if my wish were granted?

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

I am 18 years old and would like you to tell me how to prove to someone that God really exists. My friends who don't believe say, "Prove God and I will accept him." I would like to know how to do this.

An old saying goes: "He that is convinced against his will is of the same opinion still." Actually, no one can prove by rationalization that there is a God. But, neither can an atheist prove there is no God.

But there are several things you can say that may make your doubting friends think. Ask them: "Have you been every place in this universe?" They will answer that they have not. Then you say, "Then how do you know there isn't a God some place you haven't been?" Then ask them if they know everything. They will answer that they do not, and then you say that there may be a God in the category of their ignorance.

It is interesting how some people believe with little effort, and others seem incapable of believing. The Bible says, "Many are called, but few are chosen." Perhaps the "unchosen" are those who cannot bring themselves to believe, and the "chosen" are those who are able to appreciate faith.

READY, BOYS? - ALL TOGETHER NOW!

The Lord has elected that faith (believing) is the prime requirement for being in His family. "But without faith it is impossible to please God: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." Hebrews 11:6.

God And Good Books

NEW YORK (AP) — If you were a bird, a summer heat wave would be no sweat. Neither would winter's chilling blasts. Birds have no sweat glands. They keep cool by special air sacs and by opening their beaks and vibrating the sides of their throats.

How does a man get to heaven? A country preacher once said there was a tie vote the day the first man was born. The Lord voted for him and Satan voted against him. It is then up to the man how he breaks the tie: for he votes with the Lord or with Satan by the kind of life he leads.

A check doesn't have to be the conventional size unless the law says it does, and in most places the law isn't specific.

Checks have been honored that were inscribed on blocks of marble, roof shingles, skis, bottle labels or whitewashed on the side of a cow. One man, angered by a California judge's order to pay $1,500 in a divorce suit, ripped off his shirt and wrote on it a check for the amount. His mate had little trouble converting it to cash.

Quotable notables: "The capacity to endure the cruelties of life and overcome its misfortunes without despair — this requires a heroism beyond glory, pride and vanity." — Albert Salomon.

Statistics: The Irishman isn't the world's heaviest drinker as legend credits him to be, but he is probably the world's heartiest eater. In his own land he consumes 3,450 calories daily, compared with a typical American intake of 3,240 calories.

Big advantage: Along with having more toothsome smiles, certain members of the alligator family have another dental advantage over the human race. They can grow as many as 40 sets of teeth in a lifetime. Even the mighty elephant gets only six or seven sets. Worth remembering: "I can't say I was in the top half of my college graduating class, but I was in the group that made the top half possible."

It was Elizabeth Barrett Browning who observed, "No man can be called friendless who has God and the companionship of good books."

How Times Have Changed

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — For many years the corporate director seemed to be so immune to adversity that even if the company collapsed around him, he simply dusted himself off and went looking for another board on which to sit.

Typically, he didn't even blame himself for the company's fate, and so he might become outraged at the audacity of stockholders who had the temerity to insinuate he was to blame.

How times have changed, especially during the past five years. The citizens today, whether they are identified as consumers or shareholders or employees, are aroused at the indifference of institutions and are hurling legal bricks.

FBI Chief Blasts Cheap Hand Guns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI's acting director L. Patrick Gray says Saturday night specials ought to be completely banned.

"I'm dead set against those guns," said Gray.

The FBI chief was speaking of the cheap handguns which are sometimes assembled from foreign-made parts, and snubbed revolvers that are easily concealed.

Gray said he personally favors the licensing and registration of all firearms.

In the case of shareholders it is easy to see the reasons why:

- They have been sold the idea that owning shares is corporate democracy, and democracy by definition involves participation. However, corporate democracy is often an illusion. Outside of court, few shareholders really can exert much power.
- The number of shareholders has grown enormously, from about 6.5 million in 1952 to five times that in 1972. And while they may be no wiser than were shareholders 20 years ago, they are better educated and more knowledgeable.
- Shareholders are also civil rights advocates, ecologists. Frequently they find the multifaceted activities of corporations impinging upon their interests.

As a result, being one of the more indifferent and sometimes irresponsible institutions, the board of directors is increasingly attacked, and its members are being forced to understand that there is a responsible job rather than an honor.

Recognizing their vulnerability to suits, more than 1,000 corporations now cover officers and directors with liability insurance. Fully 70 per cent of the Fortune Magazine list of 500 industrials are among them.

The most frequent legal charges brought against officers and directors have a familiar sound. According to Stewart, Smith Mid America,

Inc., which sells such insurance, they are:

- Failure to exercise good business judgment.
- Making imprudent investments or loans.
- Failing to discover and prevent misconduct on the part of corporate management.
- Wrongful use of position for private financial gain or special advantage.

SSMA also relates that a situation often leading to problems for officers and directors, and sometimes to court, is in setting their own salaries, something they once thought was nobody's business but their own.

Offers Bill For News Exemption

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif. who has introduced a bill to permit journalists to keep their news sources confidential, says he does not expect final congressional action on such legislation until next year.

He said he found the news media divided on his bill to prevent any federal court or agency from forcing newsmen to disclose their confidential sources.

"Some publishers want no protection at all for their reporters," he said. "But a pretty strong majority want some protection, ranging up to the unlimited protection of my bill."

Double Duty Of The Court

Two witnesses swore that Harry was the man who had robbed the supermarket, and a jury found him guilty of the crime. Not until after the verdict did Harry's lawyer find out that two other witnesses had told police Harry was definitely not the man.

WAS THIS GROUNDS for overturning the verdict? The prosecutor didn't think so.

"We are not obliged to do the other side's homework for them," he told the court. "If they failed to dig up this information on their own, that is just too bad."

BUT THE COURT ruled that the verdict could not stand. The judge said the purpose of a trial is not merely to punish the guilty but also to free the innocent.

This is a general principle of law, reinforced by the Canons of Ethics of the American Bar Association. A prosecutor must not suppress evidence capable of establishing the innocence of the accused.

THE PRINCIPLE applies not only to guilt itself but also to the degree of guilt. Consider this case:

A man was charged with murder. During the trial, the prosecutor withheld testimony that the defendant had been drunk at the time of the slaying.

Robbed Again

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) — Major Dobkins decided that "I'm just working for the burglars" after a seventh burglary of his men's wear store.

Admittedly, this testimony could not have cleared the defendant. But at least it could have reduced the crime from first to second degree murder. Reversing the guilty verdict, a higher court said the trial was incomplete without the missing fact of intoxication.

STILL, THE prosecutor does not have to bring out everything he knows. In an arson trial, the prosecutor kept quiet about a chemical test that had been performed by the FBI.

Challenged later on this omission, he pointed out that the FBI test merely confirmed other tests already known and available to the defense.

RESULT: The verdict was upheld. The court said the missing information simply was not important enough to make any great difference.

(A public service feature of the American Bar Association and the Texas State Bar Association. Written by Will Bernard.)

Thwarts Holdup

IRVING, Tex. (AP) — Two Irving businessmen are putting on the market an electronic safe which they think can foil holdups at grocery stores and service stations.

Charles Williams and Joe Arrington say the new device is time controlled and designed to serve as a safe place for a day's receipts. It does out change periodically and only in small amounts. It gives the clerks adequate funds for making change but not enough to make them a target for holdup men.

A Devotion For Today..

I will make them and the places around about my hill a blessing; and I will send down the showers in their season; they shall be showers of blessing. (Ezekiel 34:26, RV)

PRAYER: Our Father, may we never be indifferent to the needs of others. Help us demonstrate our compassion by responding to Your love with faithful service to others. In the spirit of Christ, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven... Amen."

GOP Battle Plan

WASHINGTON — The strategists who are working on plans for the campaign that will be in full force after the Republican national convention are finding it difficult to figure out how the contest should be maneuvered.

PRESIDENT NIXON is anxious to attract Democratic support, and he certainly will not make a blanket condemnation of the Democrats in Congress. Many of them have stood on his side, voting with him on important measures. The big objective is to draw Democratic votes to the Republican ticket, and it will be done not by criticizing the party but by pointing out weaknesses and inconsistencies in McGovern speeches in Congress and at the convention.

President Nixon is not likely to engage in what amounts to a personal attack on his opponent but he will draw attention to some of the basic principles that are involved in the positions taken by the other side.

AN EXAMPLE of this type of approach was provided a few days ago by former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr., on his return from a long trip abroad for the administration. He complimented Sen. McGovern on the sincerity of his views but added:

"I think he means it when he talks about trying to cut the defense establishment by $30 billion a year. But to me this means... a retreat from responsibilities in world leadership."

Mr. Connally asserted also that Mr. McGovern's promise to have all U.S. troops and prisoners of war home from Vietnam within 90 days after his inauguration could not be fulfilled. He called it an unfair statement and one that "sabotages the efforts of this administration and of the peace negotiators in Paris to try to bring the war to an end on a negotiated basis."

SECRETARY OF STATE William P. Rogers joined this sort of criticism by declaring that Mr. McGovern's statements about the Vietnam war are injurious to the peace efforts. He said:

"Any proposal that gives the enemy exactly what he wants makes it very difficult for us to negotiate on any other terms."

President Nixon is being urged by some of his advisers to talk to the American people on the subject of congressional irresponsibility. Some legislation which Congress has passed and other proposals which it has failed to act on are related to campaign issues. It is argued that, since both houses are controlled by the Democrats, the responsibility should be placed on the Democratic party. But it is questionable whether Mr. Nixon will make an over-all denunciation of the Democratic party.

AT PRESENT, the Republicans are planning their convention with an emphasis on the publicity they can get by arranging the speeches at prime time on television so that they will be heard by millions of persons who did not listen to the Democrats because most of their proceedings took place after midnight.

Clergy Indexed

NEW YORK (AP) — More than half the clergy of the Episcopal Church — 4,500 of them — have joined in a new data bank method, the Church Manpower System, for filling career openings.

In a first-year progress report on the new system, the Rev. Roddey Reid, executive director of the Clergy Deployment office, called the 50 per cent response so far by the church's 8,700 clergy a "most encouraging start toward meeting that age-old problem of the church world-matching the right person with the right job."

Horooscope Forecast

CAROL RUGHTER

Tuesday, July 25

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's Full Moon is a strange and unusual one. Although surface conditions may seem to be okay, it is necessary for you to make no changes without considering all aspects of new business. As time wears on you will be able to handle any threatening conditions. Be exact.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You are able to get others to see your own views much better now, so speak more clearly and come to the point. Don't do anything now that you would be ashamed of later. Be wise.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Look into the ulterior motives of others before you jump into any new activities. Don't get caught in any trap. Make new contacts but be sure they are truly worthwhile. Relax tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Complete any obligations that you can and get suggestions from experts. Showing true devotion to the best best now or you could get into trouble. Think over philosophically how best to fight out disagreements with others. Be poised.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) With all those duties of love, get on an early start and clear the slate for blower and restore your energies. Do some reading that is worthwhile.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show a hoovy exterior to others and let your own worries become lighter. Work on a particular talent you possess and perfect it. Evening is fine for meeting an important personality.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) You can get those tasks done better with the assistance of others. Keep the appointments that bring you right results. The situation at home could be strained early, but clears up later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) If you do research work, be sure you are thorough, otherwise wait until a better day when you are feeling sharper. You have a good to reach. Don't permit an associate to deter you from such.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have financial problems and are able to make better arrangements for solving them. Seek advice from an expert about a particular affair that has you strained. Stop worrying.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can now move out to use those ideas that will make your personal life more as you want it to be. Visit good friends tonight and have a good time. Cultural outlets are best now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make plans that will supply your practical needs adequately for a long time to come. An expert can be helpful in this. Show others that you are a sensible person. Be poised.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Being with your friends is fine, but they can give you the advice you want and need. Pursue this course as long as you can. You must be practical if you wish to reach your goal.

DEBATER TURNS TO PRACTICAL POLITICS

McGovern Was 'That Nice Kid'

Editor's Note: This is the first of three articles on the life of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern.

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As a boy, George McGovern was that nice kid, the one who preferred the piano and his stamp collection to playing kick-the-can. He was a shy one, in his neat, plain clothes and hand-me-down shoes, this slow-speaking, serious son of a minister.

His shyness and a conviction that it was a fault to be conquered, propelled young McGovern into becoming a crack high school debater with its demands on logic and facts, commitment and the ability to listen.

PRACTICED POLITICS
And everything that followed sprang from that, as if by some unseen plan for ever-widening horizons: McGovern would learn to revile war while flying bombers, he would try the ministry and be disillusioned by its businesslike ways, he would be a professor for the give-and-take with the young.

And he would turn a social conscience to practical politics, first in the House of Representatives, then as a food-for-peace administrator, then as antiwar senator, and finally—in the shambles of 1968 Chicago—decide unhesitatingly that 1972 would be his year to lead a dramatically different Democratic party back into the White House.

The George McGovern, turning age 50, who stood before the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach and said "come home America," is the issue and product of small-town, middle-class America of the Depression, the son of a Methodist preacher who followed the hard credo of John Wesley.

BUILT CHURCHES
Joseph McGovern, the father, had followed the Dakota-fever pioneers who settled the northern prairies. He was so successful in a spiritual, but not financial, way that he built a half dozen churches in North Dakota.

Joseph's first wife died childless. He was 48 when he married again in 1919 to a woman 20 years his junior and Frances McLean McGovern bore him two girls and two sons. George, delivered by Dr. James Hollingsworth in the bedroom of the Avon, S.D. parsonage—was the oldest boy.

"He was a bright and curious child and often wandered off from the others—usually in the company of some stray dog," says Mrs. Grace Kiehlbach, whose children played with George. Mostly, those who knew McGovern then, remember him that way: a nice, moral withdrawn youngster.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

AN EARLIER VICTORY — George McGovern gets a hug from his wife, Eleanor, after an unofficial returns in South Dakota indicated a victory for McGovern's race for the U.S. Senate. McGovern was the first Democratic senator from South Dakota in 26 years. The couple is shown in their Mitchell, S.D., home town in 1962.

George was 6 when the family moved to Mitchell, a South Dakota town of 14,000. His father was a stern disciplinarian, one who earned respect more than love, requiring that his children learn to read aloud from the Bible, even before they entered school.

It was in such an atmosphere that the future nominee spent his youth. In the first grade, although he could already read, George shied from reading aloud. His teacher, mistaking withdrawal for slowness, almost held him back.

But as a high school sophomore, his intelligence and application caused an English teacher to encourage George to try out for the debating team.

His high school history teacher and debate coach, S. Robert Pearson, recalls that "the most interesting thing about George was his friendship and acceptability by everyone. He was never part of any clique or particular set, but was respected by all the kids...He and his debating colleagues were always out to define the truth and they did it with such zeal that they frightened most students they debated with."

After that one loss, George and his partner returned many times to Woonsocket and bested the Stegeberg sisters in debate. McGovern met the girls again when all three were freshmen at Dakota Wesleyan, a 500-enrollment conservative liberal arts college.

He was a fine student, involved in school activities, but, nobody remembers him as a big-man-on-campus. Principal George Janke, now semi-retired in Mitchell, says he was "clean cut a fine gentleman in every respect, modest, unassuming, not a pusher."

NICE KID
The 1940 school yearbook lists: glee club 3 years; extemporaneous speaking 2 years; debate 3 years; class play "When Stars Shine"; Vocations Club 1 year; Class Board 1 year; and as a final summing up of George McGovern's tenure in Mitchell high, there was this line: "For a debater—he's a nice kid."

McGovern's partner in those years was Eddie Mizel, as quick and clever as McGovern was deliberate and meticulous. They began winning as McGovern won a forensic scholarship to Dakota Wesleyan University in Mitchell.

"It really changed my life, no question about it," biographer Robert Sam Anson quotes the presidential candidate in "McGovern," a biography. "If I had not gone out for debate, there is not a chance in the world, in my opinion, that I would have ever come to the United States Senate. It was the one thing that I could do well."

MANY DEBATES
Thirty miles northwest of Mitchell, in Woonsocket, McGovern and Mizel met the Stegeberg twins, Ila and Eleanor.

"There were many debates," recalls Ila Stegeberg Pennington, "but only one that we won. The relationship with him (George) then was purely in a detached way, as a debater from Mitchell. He was an excellent debater, not only as a speaker, but he was also so thorough in his presentations." The twins were from a motherless home, reared by their grandparents. Their father, Earl, disenchanted by the ups and downs of farm prices, turned Democrat and eventually became county chairman. As Eleanor said later: "I grew up thinking that the only way one spent a Sunday afternoon was discussing and debating politics."

Ila remembers that George had come a long way then from the extreme shyness of his younger days. "I think probably he still has a bit of that," she says now.

After that one loss, George and his partner returned many times to Woonsocket and bested the Stegeberg sisters in debate. McGovern met the girls again when all three were freshmen at Dakota Wesleyan, a 500-enrollment conservative liberal arts college.

"After that there was really no one else," Eleanor recalls. They were married by McGovern's father while he was on leave from primary flight training in 1943.

When World War II broke out, McGovern was 19 and in his sophomore year. He was serving the first of three years as class president and gaining widening recognition as a debater. A speech called "My Brother's Keeper" was chosen one of the 12 best of 1942 in the United States by the National Council of Churches.

NEVER MISSED
Eleanor followed as her husband completed training as a bomber pilot. When he was sent to Italy in February 1944, she returned to South Dakota to await the first of their five children. Lt. McGovern, then 22, was captain of a B24 Liberator bomber called the Dakota Queen. He prided himself on never missing a mission, and even flew when his father died of a heart attack in December 1944.

The Dakota Queen was one of 400 bombers en route to blast Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, cruising at 25,000 feet when McGovern coaxed the crippled ship over the target, and made an emergency landing on the island of Vis, on a strip barely long enough for fighters. For his "intrepid spirit, outstanding ability and rare devotion to duty," McGovern was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

35 MISSIONS
In all, McGovern flew 35 missions. On the last, his plane was hit by flak, blowing out the nose, brakes and hydraulic system. For bringing the ship in, McGovern won the Air Medal.

Home again, with a family to support, McGovern returned to Dakota Wesleyan. He studied history, with the idea of becoming a teacher. He delved into philosophy and theology, one day quietly abandoning his father's fundamentalist Wesleyan orthodoxy to become a regular Methodist.

As his thinking changed, before his senior year was out, he told Eleanor he would become a minister. Taking up debating once more, he advocated world government, in the way of many soldiers who return home convinced their war must be the last.

REHEARSAL — Mrs. Mary Skalicky rehearses for a free "Pops" concert to be held at 8:15 p.m. today under the direction of James John Gambino, director of the Permian Basin Chamber Music Society. Mrs. Skalicky is the featured performer at the concert to be held at the Howard County Junior College Student Union Building. Pops tunes and light classics will be presented.

Judge, Juvenile Officer Will Seek Gift

County Judge A. G. Mitchell and Keith Jones, county juvenile probation officer, will be in Midland Aug. 9 to discuss with the directors of the Permian Basin Planning Commission the Howard County application for a Criminal Justice Council grant.

Jones has requested assistance from the county, city of Big Spring and the Big Spring Independent School District in applying to the Criminal Justice Council for funds that would enable him to increase the operations of his office.

Jones said that if he obtains the grant, the money will be used to cover the salary costs of a female juvenile probation officer and a full-time secretary for his office. If approved the local agencies would pay 25 per cent of the cost of the juvenile office operations the first year, 50 per cent of the total cost the second year of the grant, and all of it at the end of three years.

Jones said that the increased frequency with which female juvenile offenders are referred to his office makes it necessary that their be a female juvenile officer to deal with them. Jones said that currently he must request the aid of female police dispatchers or of the female deputies in the sheriff's office when he must take girls into custody.

Currently, Jones shares the services of a secretary with Mrs. Ruby Phillips, county welfare officer.

It has been proposed for 1973 that Mrs. Phillips take over the duties of a child welfare officer. Increased operations in both offices, according to Jones and Mrs. Phillips, will make it necessary for each to employ a full-time secretary.

ISTANBUL (AP) — Only one person cast his vote in recent municipal elections for the post of headman at Catili, a village in northern Turkey.

The sole vote was the incumbent headman. He said he was "very disappointed" at the turnout.

Fischer Forges Into Chess Lead

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Bobby Fischer forged into the lead in the world chess championship match Sunday night for the first time after outplaying Soviet defender Boris Spassky throughout their sixth game and forcing Spassky to resign.

They go into the seventh game Tuesday with Fischer leading 3½ to 2½. With 18 games still to be played, Fischer needs a total of 12½ points to take the title, while Spassky needs only 12 to retain it. A win counts one game point and a draw a half point.

Fischer had never beaten Spassky before they came to Reykjavik, but he did it for the third time Sunday, winning 2,000 spectators.

RARE MOVE
Playing with the white chessmen, the American challenger opened with a move he has rarely used. Arriving 10 minutes after his clock was started, Fischer moved his queen's bishop pawn two squares forward. In his important games, Fischer had seldom opened with anything but his king's pawn.

Experts were surprised. Many said this must have jarred Spassky but the Russian did not show it if he was rattled.

International grandmaster Isaac Kashdan said in an analysis for The Associated Press that "it was Fischer all the way," using one of Spassky's favorite offenses, known as the Queen's Gambit Declines.

Begin Check Of Passenger Luggage On Short Flights

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'm glad to be a little inconvenienced," a passenger said as he hurried to have his briefcase searched before boarding a Pacific Southwest Airlines commuter flight to Los Angeles International Airport.

PSA employees at the boarding gate were carrying out President Nixon's order for inspection of all passengers and their carry-on baggage on commuter flights such as those operated by PSA in California and Eastern Air Lines between

New York, Washington and Boston.

It was the latest move to curb hijacking of airliners, and came on the heels of two sky-jackings of PSA planes on July 5 and 6. Four PSA planes have been hijacked this year.

The passenger expressing approval of the tightened security measures was Perry A. Johnson, a San Francisco sales executive for Chevron Oil Latin America Inc.

He was one of 137 passengers waiting in line to board a flight from Los Angeles to Oakland.

Pollution No Big Problem, Could Prompt More Staff

Big Spring has no major problems in the area of water pollution, according to Bill Brown, director of public utilities. Brown attended a meeting of directors of the Municipal Water Pollution Control and Abatement Program in Odessa earlier this week.

As director of the abatement program for Big Spring, he shared discussion of problems with representatives from about 12 west Texas cities, whose problems are very similar to those of Big Spring.

There are three areas of concern shared by most outlined in an earlier report to the Water Quality Board, said Brown. These are surface drainage, drainage from salt lakes and septic tanks.

POLLUTION DEFINED
Water pollution, as defined by the Texas Water Quality Board, is an unnatural or man-made discharge which finds its way to a watercourse. The only watercourse which Big Spring can claim is Beal's Branch.

Surface drainage creates some concern because city streets and private property finds its way ultimately to Lake Spence.

By definition, drainage from T&P Lake west of town is not a problem of pollution, because the discharge is of a natural, not a man-made source. Nevertheless, the chloride content of the discharge creates problems. Septic tanks which create a discharge of raw sewage eventually depositing itself into

Still Hoping For Reward

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two city Water Department employees who fished $92,400 out of a sewer nine months ago and then handed it over to police are still hoping for a reward.

"Honesty has its own rewards," said Louis Lagana, one of the finders, "but it would be nice to get a reward from the federal government too."

The sodden lode of $100 bills, found while the two cleaned a sewer inlet in northeast Philadelphia, is believed to be part of $1.4 million in old or damaged bills marked for destruction but then stolen from the Federal Reserve Bank here.

Twelve bank employees face trial in U.S. District Court in connection with the theft. One allegedly told federal investigators that he threw the $92,400 into the sewer inlet.

Anthony Baratta, lawyer for Lagana and co-worker Cardwell Williams, 41, says the two are entitled to 10 per cent of the money.

Fresh Supplies Of Fuel Flow From South China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources report that fresh supplies of motor fuel apparently have started flowing into North Vietnam through a new pipeline from South China.

In addition, U.S. reconnaissance planes recently located a new petroleum-storage depot lying into the pipeline. The depot is said to be relatively near the Chinese border, which might inhibit U.S. bombing attacks against it.

For weeks, U.S. photo planes have been monitoring construction progress on the new pipeline that could be vital in keeping North Vietnam's war effort going.

Recent intelligence reports have spoken of petroleum products being discharged from railroad tank cars at Pinghsiang on the Chinese side of the border.

From Phinghsiang the new pipeline runs across the North Vietnamese border and reaches Haiduong, east of Hanoi.

U.S. minefields have stopped Soviet tankers from reaching North Vietnamese ports where they used to unload about 50,000 tons of motor fuel and oil monthly.

There have been reports that Peking has agreed to allow Russian tankers to discharge their loads at Chinese ports for transshipment overland to North Vietnam.

While the new pipeline is considered unlikely to compensate entirely for the closing of North Vietnamese ports to communist tankers, U.S. experts say it could keep North Vietnam's supply trucks and armored battle vehicles rolling.

The North Vietnamese have been burying the four-inch pipe, but surface pumping stations well south of the Chinese border would be vulnerable to air attack. However, the North Vietnamese are believed prepared to replace knocked-out pumping stations with portable equipment mounted on trucks so that the flow of petroleum products could resume.

Fight Their Way To Walls Of Citadel, Regrab Town

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops made major advances on two fronts today, fighting their way to the walls of Quang Tri Citadel in the northern counteroffensive and recapturing a second district town on the central coast.

In the air war, American jets bombed the southern sector of Hanoi on Sunday for the second successive day, setting a battery plant on fire and triggering a dozen explosions, the U.S. Command reported.

Associated Press correspondent Dennis Neel reported from Quang Tri that government paratroopers pushed through a hall of North Vietnamese artillery on the approaches to the Citadel, then encountered withering fire through two breaches in the 40-foot walls of the 19th century fortress.

REFUSED TO SAY
"The North Vietnamese are funneling their firepower into the gaps in the walls, and it's murder in there," one officer said.

Officers said the South Vietnamese were taking substantial casualties but refused to say how many.

Neel said the paratroopers launched their assault at dawn from a string of bunkers within 50 yards of the Citadel walls, moving behind a heavy artillery and aerial bombardment.

The two breaches in the walls had been made two weeks ago by U.S. jets with laser-guided 2,000-pound bombs.

Meanwhile, in Binh Dinh Province, on the central coast, more than 1,000 South Vietnamese rangers moving on foot and by helicopter recaptured the district town of Tam Quan. Associated Press photographer Neal Ulevich reported. He said the North Vietnamese put up only light resistance.

Government forces were not so successful in the Que Son Valley, 25 miles south of Da Nang, where the North Vietnamese reportedly launched a series of heavy assaults.

61 MISSING
Field informants said an outpost called Lion was overrun and two of the government defenders were killed, 17 were wounded and 61 were missing.

FBI Needs Her

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I trust that President Nixon reads your column. Just in case he does, and hasn't appointed a replacement for J. Edgar Hoover, I would like to recommend my wife. She has had 46 years experience, and I can guarantee you that if she is appointed head of the FBI, within 90 days she will have rounded up all of the 10 most wanted criminals.

UNDER SURVEILLANCE FOR 46 YEARS IN BATON ROUGE, LA.

DEAR UNDER: The acting director of the FBI has been appointed. He is L. Patrick Gray. Prudent man, Mr. Nixon, he chose neither Black nor White.

DEAR ABBY: My parents read your column faithfully, so I hope you will publish this. It's an open letter to Parents of a Single Woman.

Dear Mom and Dad: I'm 26 and single. I live my life day to day, trying to find purpose, peace of mind, a way to conquer loneliness. I'm frightened of being alone, never marrying or having a child, or being labeled a spinster. I'm filled with guilt for disappointing you, not giving you grandchildren, not giving you a chance to say, "My daughter is getting married."

But it takes strength to make it today, and to feel that I am a worthy person. . . single, but worthy. I'm reasonably happy. Dating sometimes, hurting at other times. I start to think that I am somebody even if I'm not married. Then comes a phone call from Mother or Dad, and for "my own good" I am reminded that I am single, getting older, wasting time, not looking hard enough for a husband. And there goes my self-esteem. The guilt returns and suddenly I am more alone than before. Can't I be your daughter, married or not? I'll never shame you. I want to marry somebody, but only if I find someone who loves me as I love him, and not because you want grandchildren to talk about when your friends talk about theirs.

Instead, say, "Come for dinner tomorrow night and we'll enjoy your company." If you can't do this for me I will have to widen the gap to protect my own peace of mind, and that would cause me great pain and loneliness, because I love you. YOUR SINGLE DAUGHTER

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about a boss who pockets the waitresses' tips from signed tabs off dining room and banquet?

Abby, the boss is the owner, and this is a high-class supper club. To confront him would mean our jobs, and other than this problem, it's a good place to work.

Maybe if he sees this in the paper, he'll know we are wise to him. Sign us. . . "CHEATED IN MISSOULA"

DEAR CHEATED: Here's your letter. And I hope this is the last "tip" your boss takes.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HEARS TOO MUCH IN BIRMINGHAM": If you honestly want to discourage gossips from telling you things you'd rather not know, cut them off abruptly with, "That's really none of my business" — then quickly change the subject. It works every time.

Power, Pollution Barbs

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The Cedar Bayou power plant, designed to keep the lights burning and the industries humming in the state's largest metropolitan area, has become a steel and stone dilemma created by the double barbed demands of modern society.

One barb of the dilemma is the perpetually growing hunger for more and more electricity. Without the Cedar Bayou plant, says Houston Lighting & Power Co., the city of Houston faces a possible, and critical, shortage of power.

The other barb is society's demand for a clean environment, untrampled by the march of technology. The Cedar Bayou plant, says the Environmental Protection Agency, threatens to pollute the unpolluted and to erase a home for the almost homeless.

WITH CARE

Location of the Cedar Bayou plant was selected with care. For HL&P, the site has the advantages of proximity to the customers it is to serve, water for cooling and land that was open.

The plant stands on the stark salt water plain near the upper shore of Galveston Bay. The bayou for which it was named means a narrow, flowing, sluggish toward Galveston Bay and the Gulf bight.

Transmission lines, glistening silver in the sun, snake away to feed the power hunger of the burgeoning city of Houston, its one million residents and its massive industrial complexes.

To the west is the Houston Ship Channel, a brackish body of water that serves as ship canal and open sewer. To the east is Trinity Bay, an arm of Galveston Bay which is relatively clean. It is an important nurseries for shrimp and oysters. One gas-fired plant was designed to eventually generate 5,000 megawatts of power. Two 1,000 megawatt units are already operating. Four, 750 megawatt units are yet to be built.

COOL WATER

To cool the massive turbines of the plant, water is pumped from Galveston Bay, through Cedar Bayou. The water circulates through the plant, carrying away heat, and is fed down a mile-long channel to Alligator Bayou which then flows into Trinity Bay.

When in full operation, the plant would use 3.2 billion gallons of water daily. To help cool the water after its use, HL&P planned to dam Alligator Bayou to create a 2,600-acre cooling pond.

It's this feature of the plant—the route, the source and eventual disposal of the cooling water—that has led the EPA to view it as a potential ecological disaster.

The EPA contends the plant is using terribly polluted water from near the Houston Ship Channel outlet, heating it and then dumping it into the relatively clean waters of Trinity Bay.

CONSTRUCTION

By moving the industrial and metropolitan sewage of the ship channel into Trinity Bay, the EPA believes the power plant could destroy waters that so far have been protected from man by currents and by luck.

Also, the EPA says that the construction of the 2,600-acre cooling pond would destroy a marshland home of three endangered species of American wildlife, the wood ibis, the alligator and the roseate spoonbill.

After haggling without agreement for over a year, both the EPA and HL&P took their differences to court where the issues remain unresolved.

To HL&P executives, the EPA isn't playing fair. The power company spent millions of dollars preparing for the construction of the plant. Biologists studied the area and the Trinity Bay waters. The company offered to correct any ecological damage that occurred. It got the proper permits from the state. The company played by the rules.

But, just as the plant's first two units were ready to go, someone changed the rules.

What was allowed in 1967, when the company first applied for permits, was now strictly forbidden. Permits previously unneeded were now required and were denied.

KICKED AROUND

"I feel pretty strongly about being pushed around and kicked around," says F.M. Austin, an HL&P senior vice president in an interview before the lawsuits went to court. "They didn't even look at what we're doing or at our research for six years by marine experts."

The state water quality board approved the project and biologists said it could even improve the fishing in Trinity Bay, Austin says.

He paces his ultramodern office in the recently completed HL&P skyscraper in downtown Houston and curses what he calls "the environmental insanity" this is costing industry millions.

"Somebody has to bring this rolling, hysterical juvenile jugernaut to a halt," he says. "If we don't oppose it, who's going to. The utilities have been kicked in the face by the white hats of the EPA."

The EPA offered engineering alternatives to HL&P. The two currently operating units, said the EPA, could be cooled with fresh water from a nearby canal that could be dumped after use into Cedar Bayou. For the other four units, the EPA said only mechanical draft cooling towers using fresh water, or relocating the plant altogether, would be acceptable.

"Some of the alternatives will work," said Austin, "but at an even greater damage to the environment."

Fresh water cooling towers, he said, would require about the amount of water used daily by a city the size of Dallas. If salt water was used, it would dump 125 tons of salt per day into the atmosphere. Natural draft cooling towers, said Austin, would have to be 500 feet tall and would probably be destroyed by the first hurricane to hit the area.

POINTED REMARKS

"The only practical suggestion they have is that we move it to a site on the Brazos River," he said. "This would take 10,000 to 20,000 acres of valuable river bottom farmland out of agriculture production."

Art Busch, the regional director for the EPA, declined to discuss the HL&P problem directly because of the litigation, but he made pointed remarks about Texas and its power companies.

"Most Texas power companies are showing good management," he said. "Anytime management can see problems on the horizon and they don't circumvent them, I think they're making a mistake."

HIGH MARKS

Busch gave high marks to another power company, Texas Utilities Inc., which overcame even more difficult environmental problems than HL&P. Texas Utilities is now strip mining coal, burning it cleanly in a power plant near Fairfield and then restoring the mined-over land.

"All you need is just one plant to show that it (protecting the environment) can be done," said Busch.

Other EPA officials are totally unsympathetic to HL&P. They say the federal government can force the Cedar Bayou plant to close. And this will be done if necessary.

Jean Adams'
TEEN FORUM

DISTRUST: (Q.) I have been going with this girl for 18 months and we plan to marry soon, but for some reason I just can't trust her. I guess it's because of something she did back a year ago. Since then I've been terribly jealous.

I don't like her going places without me because I'm afraid she'll meet another boy and I can't stand the thought of ever losing her.

I get mad if she speaks to another boy, and I get mad at just about anything she does. We are both nearly 18. Do you think I am sick? Do you think I need to see a head doctor?
— No Peace in Pennsylvania.
(A.) Not necessarily. But I must warn you that what you feel toward this girl is no basis for a good marriage. Jealousy and anger are strong emotions, but they are not love.

Wait until you can feel genuine, mature love before you consider marriage to this girl or any girl or woman. Real love includes trust and respect and maturity. It overcomes jealousy and anger and childishness. You will recognize it when you feel it. You don't now.

VIRGIN, PLUS: (Q.) I am fat and a virgin. I'm proud about being a virgin because I believe a girl should be one until she is married. But I have this problem with boys. No boys want to go out with me because I am fat and a virgin.

— No Dates in New Jersey.
(A.) Notice that both times you put the "fat" first. That is where it belongs, because it is your real problem.

I am confident that everything will work out fine for you if you will lose your extra weight, but not your virginity.

Public Invited To Webb NCO Benefit Dance

A dance sponsored by the Brotherhood Association of Webb Airmen at the NCO Club Aug. 12 will be open not only to servicemen of all ranks, but civilians also.

All proceeds from the dance will go to the Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation. Technical Sergeant Dennis Lowe, advisor of the association, said.

The dance will feature a group called Scotty and the Sixth Degree South, and admission donation will be $1.50. Tickets will go on sale Monday at all the clubs at Webb, and from association members.

Sgt. Lowe said there will be a limited number of tickets available to the general public, with the rest for military personnel.

For further information, contact AIC Raymond Glasco at ext. 2160 during duty hours, 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
