Rockets at Memphis in 3rd Loop Match

Wellington Skyrockets face their third district challenge Friday, October 21 when they take on the Memphis Cyclones at 7:30 p.m. at Memphis.

Memphis is 2-5 for the season, 0-2 in district. The Rockets are 5-2 for the season, 2-0 in district.

But head coach James Williams is wary of Memphis: "They're always going to play us hard. It's a big grudge match between us and them, and they'll always get up for us—they'll be playing their best," Williams said.

Memphis has beaten

Kress 48-6 and Fritch 48-0, and lost to Chillicothe 18-6, Childress 21-7, Paducah, 21-14, Panhandle 20-0, and Quannah 30-6.

Carter at quarterback and plays running back, too; back Brian Whitten, 165, senior, and back Roy Henderson, 145, sophomore.

"They've got some speed in Henderson," coach Williams said. "They use him outside, kicking out options to him and on reverses. Coby Smith is the better passer of the two quarterbacks, and when he's in the slot they'll probably be trying to throw on us."

"Memphis is young in spots, but they have the potential to be a good football team," Williams said. "We can't afford to let them get their offensive momentum going, because they're capable of scoring a lot of points."

"Defensively, they run a 5-man front with lots of stunting by their secondary and linebackers," Williams said. "They're going to try to mess up your blocking scheme, and we'll have to watch for that."

The Rockets are healthy for the most part this week. Darwin Nix, who turned an ankle in the Quannah game, played last week and will play this week, too, although he's still having some problems with it.

"I felt that James Benton did a good job running last week, and a good job on defense," coach Williams said. "And Darwin Nix played extremely well at linebacker during the second half against Shamrock."

"We had some turnovers last week—some inside the five yard line," Williams said. "We're going to have to capitalize on our field position the next three weeks when we get that close—we can't turn the ball over like that."

Small Drop Seen In Bank Deposits

Reports of condition made by Wellington's two banks reveal their deposits as of September 30 are down less than one million dollars from the same period a year ago—a condition that is much better than many area residents would have predicted in view of crop conditions brought on by drouth.

Deposits reported on September 30, 1983 by Wellington State Bank and City State Bank were $42.8 million, only about $800 thousand less than the $43.2 million reported September 30, 1982.

Additionally, it is up $3 million from deposits reported at this time two years ago.

The reports of condition are made to the State Banking Commissioner and Federal Reserve Bank.

Continuing comparisons by years, Wellington bank deposits three years ago were $36.8 million. Moreover, this year's deposits are $10 million higher than they were just four years ago, when total deposits were $32.8.

Five years ago, Sept. 30, 1977, the county's deposit were $26.5—and this is $16 million below the September 1983 deposits.

Demand deposits—money with which bank customers carry on day to day operations—have held steady in comparison to that figure a year ago. The 1983 demand deposit figure is 7.8 million. A year ago it was also $7.8 million. Demand deposits have dropped steadily as time deposits have risen.

This year customers of Wellington State Bank and City State Bank have $35 million in time deposits and that is the highest figure in the county's banking history.

Achievers in the many programs of the 4-H Clubs will be honored at an awards dinner Monday, October 24.

This will be held in Bura Handley Community Center beginning at 7:30 p.m.

High point for the evening will come with the announce ment of the Collingsworth County Gold Star boy and girl, the highest award a 4-H member may receive in a county. It is given by the Extension Service.

The covered dish dinner, which will begin at 7:30, is for the approximately 145 boys and girls who are members of the 4-H Clubs in Collingsworth County, their parents and other family members 4-H leaders and a large group of others who have supported the program said Nancy Bigby, Extension Agent for home economics. A special invitation has been extended to the members of the Commissioners Court.

She and Extension Agent Don Reeves are in charge of the program.

The theme of the entire evening will focus on observance of the 75th anniversary of the 4-H Clubs in Texas.

Awards will be given in these categories: agriculture, bread, citizenship, clothing, conservation of natural resources, consumer education, dairy foods, fashion revue, food and nutrition, food preservation, health, home management, horses, leadership, public speaking, beef, food show, and the Gold Star awards.

Other awards will go to 4-H leaders according to their years of service.

To be honored in one of the 4-H categories, a boy or girl must have participated in a project related to the award and have shown excellence in that area, according to Nancy Bigby, extension agent for home economics.

Awards recipients in some of these categories have excelled on both the county and district levels. Some will receive more than one award.

Ann Lowe Competes in NOTRA Rodeo

Mary Ann Lowe is competing in the National Old Timers Rodeo Association rodeo, which opened in Amarillo Wednesday, Oct. 19 and will run through Saturday, Oct. 22.

Participants come from over much of the United States and from Australia.

Mrs. Lowe, the wife of Bill Lowe, competes in barrel racing.

"We would really like for lots of Collingsworth County people to come up. Besides a lot of NFR champions of the past, the rodeo is one of the best put on in this area," she said.

"The added attractions are ones you see only in the major stock show rodeos."

The Amarillo Civic Center, where the rodeo is held, has no dust and is temperature controlled.

Mrs. Lowe was notified Oct. 7 that she finished 9th in the NOTRA standing for 1983. The national finals, in which she is seeking a championship, will not make any difference in her year-end standing, but it is possible to raise that standing and even come out with world championship of the finals.

Barrels are divided into two age categories, 40-49 years and 50 years and over, she explained. Mrs. Lowe rides in the 50 and over category.

She bought a new horse last year, Bandtime Jesse, and although he has been injured much of this season, he is now well and Mrs. Lowe will ride him this week.

She gained her NOTRA 9th place standing through a 5th place win at Wichita, Kansas, 3rd at Arkansas City, Kansas, 3rd in Canadian, 1st in Lakin, Kansas, and placings in three rodeos in Wyoming and in Nebraska and Kansas.

Ground-Soaker Falling Over Area

Slow soaking rain which has been general over the area has measured more than three inches in some parts of the county and rain was still falling at Wellington Leader press time Wednesday, Oct. 19.

The first rain fell Sunday night and more on Monday night. From that, Calvin Argo, northeast of Dodson, reported two inches at his home, 2.3 inches at his place near Dodson and an inch on land he has east of Wellington on Salt Fork River.

On the opposite side of the county, the Abra-Lone Mound area had received from one-half to three quarters of an inch Sunday night, and from two to three inches up to 8 a.m. Monday.

This is the most moisture those areas have had since April, reports indicate, and James Martindale said from lightning flashes Sunday night he could see water standing behind the terraces.

The entire north part of the county received from two to three inches in the Tuesday night-Wednesday morning rain.

County Judge Zook Thomas said rain measured 2.75 inches at his home at Lillie.

Jimmy Brown had 3.4 inches from moisture Sunday night and Tuesday night.

Farther east, in the Needwood area, Judge Thomas said the ground had been "awfully" dry before the weekend rains started.

Billy Colson, south of Town, had 1.9 inches Tuesday night.

Truett Holland had received only one-half inch from the Sunday night rain. But he added that winter grass is coming up in the draws.

Pat O'Hair of Quail said Tuesday he had received .8 inches, and this area was also included in the moisture Wednesday.

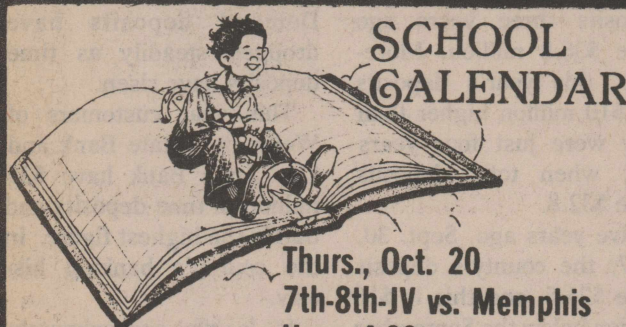

At Marella, the Ross Ranch had more than three inches from the rainfall Sunday night through Wednesday.

ASCS county director Bob Weatherly reported that water is already standing behind terraces in a number of places, and ground tanks for livestock, although not completely dry, were beginning to fill.

Salvation Army Fund Drive Opens

A new approach to the annual Salvation Army fund drive will be used this year, with the drive beginning Wednesday October 20.

County Judge Zook Thomas, chairman, announced plans.

There will be no door to door solicitation, but as many residents as possible will receive a letter outlining the need for funds, how they are used both locally and on the state and national levels. "For more than 100 years the Salvation Army has helped those in need," Thomas pointed out.

"Your local Salvation Army Service unit needs your support—both financial and volunteer help with our campaign in Wellington," said Thomas. Our requests for help are at an all time high and with your support we can give this aid—People helping people."

Thomas outlined Salvation Army purposes:

The Salvation Army will work cooperatively with other agencies to meet the human needs of the community. Services include emergency aid for stranded travelers; aid to prisoners and their families; disaster relief; camping program for underprivileged boys; alcoholic rehabilitation programs; assistance for the needy at Christmas; help for the elderly.

B&PW Club Celebrates Business Women's Week

Wellington Business and Professional Women's Club is joining its National Federation October 16 through 22 in celebrating 55 years of National Business Women's Week.

Two major activities are planned.

The annual B&PW tea will be held Thursday, Oct. 20, in Collingsworth County Library. Hours will be 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and 1 to 4 p.m., Loretta Wright, president, announced.

Lottie Handley is chairman, and other committee members are Pam Sherwood and Marie Gollihugh.

Membership recruitment is under way during National Business Women's Week, also Nancy Lindsey is membership chairman.

Women who are interested in becoming members are being given a special invitation to attend. Achievements of working women will be highlighted.

"National Business Women's Week is an especially exciting time in 1983 because it fits right into the Federation's month and a half long special membership outreach program, which will end October 31, said Mrs. Wright. This program has the theme, "Speak Up. Join B&PW." It will emphasize the special opportunities and accomplishments of B&PW and its dedication to the interests of working women.

For 55 years, special activities have been sponsored by the National Federation and its local clubs to honor the working woman. Over the years, National Business Women's Week has become an event widely recognized by public and private institutions and local communities. The President of the United States, at the request of the National Federation, declares the third week in October to be National Business Women's Week," the Wellington club president pointed out.

The first event of National Business Women's week came Sunday, Oct. 16, when a group from this club attended the tea given by Shamrock B&PW Club members.

This club was organized by the Wellington Club a number of years ago during the presidency of Mrs. Lottie Handley. She attended the Shamrock tea, along with Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Willie B. Harwell, L.C. Sweat, Charlene Poteet, Helen Prior, Sybil Atkinson, Goldie Barnett and Pearl Harwell.

The tea was held in the Pioneer Museum in Shamrock.

The afternoon was given over to much reminiscing and old scrapbooks were exhibited.

Oklahoma, eastern New Mexico and Texas, said U.U. "Al" Alexander, agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Vernon.

An outstanding group of speakers has been assembled and participants should plan to arrive early, advised Harold Wiedemann, associate professor of agricultural engineering with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Vernon. Registration will begin at 7:30 a.m. and the program starts at 8:30 a.m. The symposium will end at 4:00 p.m.

The registration fee of $10 includes lunch and printed proceedings, noted Wiedemann, symposium coordinator. Advance registration may be made by writing Wiedemann at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, P.O. Box 1658, Vernon, TX 76384.

Program topics include promising new grasses, grass establishment, rainfall and germination, grass seed harvesting, seeding equipment, seed processing, testing, and modification.

A panel of leading ranchers from Oklahoma and Texas will discuss their experiences in range and pasture seeding.

The newest equipment for planting, harvesting, and seed processing and modification will be on display, Wiedemann said. The

One-Buck Limit on Whitetail Deer This Year

AUSTIN - Hunters who plan to hunt white-tailed deer in more than one county this season may not be aware of the effects of bag limit restrictions on "one buck" counties.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials said 91 Texas counties have a one buck limit, although most Texas counties have a limit of two.

"If a hunter gets a buck in a one-buck county, he or she must go to a county which has a two-buck limit to take the second buck," explained David Palmer, director of law enforcement operations.

"However, if the hunter takes the first buck in a one-buck county, he cannot go to another one-buck county to take his second buck."

Conversely, if a hunter takes his first buck in a two-buck county, he may go to the one-buck county to get his second buck, Palmer noted.

The hunter must immediately attach the tag marked "buck or antlerless white-tailed deer tag" from his hunting license to the carcass in the field.

Department wildlife officials said on Oct. 10 they will announce dates and locations for issuance of antlerless deer hunting permits. The permits normally are issued in late October or early November at county courthouses or other public buildings in counties where deer populations are high enough to warrant harvest of antlerless deer. Landowners are urged to watch the newspapers for the scheduled issuance dates in their local areas or they may call 1-800-792-1112 for this information.

Colwells Buy Amarillo Kennel

Kenneth and Ruby Colwell recently moved to Amarillo where they bought the Willow Creek Kennels. They are now training, boarding and grooming animals.

"We are fully enjoying our work," Mrs. Colwell said Monday.

They will continue to own the Factory Outlet, which will be managed by Barbara Cochran.

Mr. and Mrs. Colwell had lived in Wellington 10 years, but prior to that, they were at Dimmitt 10 years, and earlier made their home here for 20 years.

School Board Nominates for Appraisal Bd.

Wellington School Board nominated Bill Spillman and Dan Langford for Collingsworth County Appraisal Board at regular meeting Monday, October 11.

The various taxing entities vote on the nominations on a pro rata system based on each entity's tax collections.

The board also approved an '83-'84 textbook committee of Bob Allen, Linda Argo, Barbara Bartlett, Melvin Cardwell, Judy Cudd, Eddie Hankins, Lloyd

Cattle Prices to Improve

Livestock prices should show a slight improvement for the rest of the year, but 1984 could bring some strong gains for cattle, says an economist in livestock marketing.

Cattle prices should remain fairly stable with only modest gains in fed cattle supplies for the rest of 1983 according to Dr. Ed. Uvacek with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

Cattle feedlot marketings should be just under a year ago during the July-September quarter but down sharply in the last quarter of the year.

Prices for fed cattle and for yearling feeder steers are expected to average in the low $60s per hundred weight during the remainder of 1983, while feeder steer calves could average near $70, Uvacek predicts. Utility cow prices should stay below $40 and will likely dip into the low $30s by fall. Continued good grazing and more rain would help prices considerably.

For the next year, Uvacek estimates that prices will rise, with the strongest increases occurring in the second quarter of 1984. Choice fed steer prices may average in the mid-to-upper-$60s by then. Prices for yearling feeder steers will move slightly below fed cattle prices but could move back into a premium in 1984.

Memphis Club Sets Pancake Supper Friday

The Cyclone Booster Club in Memphis is sponsoring a pancake supper preceding the Wellington-Memphis football game Friday, October 21. Wellington fans who will be in town to boost their team are invited to eat with the Cyclone Boosters.

Serving hours are 5 to 7 p.m. and the cost is $3 per plate.

The supper will be at Travis School Cafeteria, and those coming from Wellington should turn off Highway US 287 at the My-T-Burger, onto 12th Street, and drive three blocks south. Those familiar with the town will locate it 3 blocks south of Cyclone Stadium on 12th Street.

Two major projects were discussed by members of Collingsworth General Hospital Auxiliary Tuesday, Oct. 18.

Instead of the regular November meeting, the Auxiliary will celebrate the second anniversary of its organization with a tea to be held Tuesday, Nov. 15, at the Hospital, Loretta Wright, president, said.

This will also take the place of the silver tea usually held in December.

The dual entertainment is for the public and provides an opportunity for them to visit the hospital and learn of all the projects the auxiliary is carrying out and has completed.

The second item of discussion was the on-going project to provide curtains for all patient rooms, bathrooms and the emergency room.

The club is finding it difficult to obtain curtain material which meets the requirements set up by Medicare, especially as it relates to flame retardant qualities, Mrs. Wright pointed out. The project has been under way since April, and fund raising for the curtains continues.

Mrs. Wright acknowledged the many memorial contributions.

Members approved the purchase of two new lamps for the lobby, which were installed Tuesday afternoon.

She asked members who have not paid annual dues, which should have come in during May, to get them in.

A new project was decided on, remodeling the nurses' upstairs lounge.

Trio Visits in Colorado

Hospital Board Okays Skilled Nursing Program

Collingsworth General Hospital board approved application for "swing-bed" skilled nursing care status for the hospital, Tuesday, October 18.

Under the skilled nursing care program, patients who are hospitalized can be released from the hospital and admitted to the skilled nursing care program all without leaving their beds.

The program is designed for patients who do not need full hospital attention, but who still need nursing care.

Hospital administrator Perry Foster told the board that Thomas Nursing Center is an intermediate care facility that also provides skilled nursing care, but that nursing center management did not oppose the hospital's application to also provide skilled nursing care.

Foster said the cases which would be treated in the hospital's nursing care program would usually be short term.

In other action, until it studies the case further the board turned down a request by the county to become part of a lawsuit to collect mineral lease taxes owed by Pike Oil before it sold them to another company and took bankruptcy.

Foster also reported to the board that the hospital's Home Health Agency is now operating and has its first patient. Under the Home Health Agency, a nurse visits patients in their homes rather than receiving care in the hospital.

The board also approved a personnel manual for the hospital, and appointed to the staff Dr. G.N. Pillai, an oncologist (a cancer specialist) from Amarillo and Dr. Ali Moshtagi, a urologist from Wichita Falls.

Foster also told the board that an examining table and other equipment has been ordered for an oncology clinic that the hospital has set up for Dr. Pillai to treat cancer patients in Wellington.

Foster also reported on progress on the deficiencies noted in the last Medicare survey of the hospital. Doctors' records backlog has been reduced from 375 cases to 50 cases and will be Both Cal and Ina Sugg have been an active part of their community from the time of their marriage.

When they met, he was a Wellington boy, working for his sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crawford in Sulphur, Okla. A registered nurse, she was working in the Veteran's hospital there.

As a teen-age boy, Cal Sugg had worked for Nowlin Wholesale Co., jobber for candy and school supplies and about the time they married, he returned to Nowlin's, making $100 per month. This was not at all a bad salary considering that the entire country was in a depression and Collingsworth and much of the southwest was in a drouth as bad as the one the county has just come through.

Ina Sugg did not work the first year of their marriage, but went with her husband as he took orders for and delivered supplies to "school stores"—stores that had grown up near to consolidated or small town schools. The list of those they served is like a roll call of the communities of western Oklahoma and the south-eastern Panhandle. Many have disappeared.

The idea was forming in Sugg's mind that he would like to own a "school store." He had a lot across from the high school (where Allsup's is located) and he borrowed enough money from his father to build the store with an apartment at the back. Canned foods were in rows along the shelves, one can deep, to make the stock appear larger. He called it Appreciative Cal's Service Station, Grocery and School Store.

Mr. Sugg took the debt out in groceries.

Ina Sugg began to work part time at her profession, for not only was she a graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing in Ft. Worth, but also a graduate of the famous Charity Hospital Anesthesia School in New Orleans. Later she would take post graduate training at Baylor School of Anesthesia.

She worked at Wellington Hospital which became St. Joseph's Hospital in 1938.

From 1952 until 1972, she was a school nurse, most of the time, with two years out for post graduate study at Baylor. First she was county school nurse, serving Samnorwood, Quail and Dodson Schools. Then she became Wellington School nurse.

If ever a teacher had a fan club, it was Ina Sugg.

She gave all the shots, booster shots and vaccinations—and for children who became ill at school she kept several bottles of Coke in her office refrigerator. She recalls with a broad smile one small boy who developed an ailment almost every day and was cured a short time later by a few sips from a bottle of pop in her office.

Cal Sugg sold his school store in 1946 to devote all his time to farming and ranching, livestock buying and hog raising.

He is still in farming and ranching, but has given up the others.

Ina Sugg was born at Valliant, Oklahoma, the daughter of Lon L. and Lena D. Crouch. She graduated from high school there.

Cal Sugg was born at Alanreed, the son of W.W. and Mary Ethel Sugg. The family moved to the Sugg farm northwest of Wellington, where he grew up. He attended school at Crossroads and Wellington and later the family moved into town to their present home

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

AMENDMENTS NO. 5 AND 7

AUSTIN — Texas voters will be going to the polls this November 8th to decide the fate of eleven constitutional amendments. Two of them are explained here.

AMENDMENT NO. 5
To accommodate the state's population growth, Texas school districts face an ever-increasing need to expand, rehabilitate, or repair their facilities. School bonds are the primary means school districts use to finance these development projects. The Permanent School Fund, valued at approximately $3.5 billion, is constitutionally dedicated to support the Texas educational system.

Amendment No. 5 would allow the Legislature to save school districts money in their long-term obligation debt financing by using the Permanent School Fund to guarantee bonds issued by the school districts. This savings would be accomplished by reducing the risk to persons who invest in school bonds while raising the credit-worthiness of many districts, thereby reducing costs on the bonds.

Supporters of the amendment say the bond guarantee program is virtually risk-free, will save millions of dollars in taxes, but yet would allow school districts to keep up with their rapid enrollment.

Furthermore, supporters say, other methods of providing debt-financing assistance may shift the debt burden from school districts to the state. They say that by using the Permanent School Fund as the bond guarantee, Texas can avoid any negative impact on the general credit rating of the state.

Opponents argue that the real risk of the amendment is allowing the principal of the Permanent School Fund to be spent for this purpose. They argue this proposal opens the door for future and more significant attacks on the multi-billion-dollar fund.

AMENDMENT NO. 7
Over the past 35 years Texas has shown its appreciation to those men and women who serve in the military by providing general obligation bonds to finance the purchase of land by the state, to be resold on favorable credit terms to qualified veterans.

The proposed constitutional amendment No. 7 would authorize $300 million additional for the land program and for the first time, $500 million for a housing assistance program.

The program has been popular and successful and this amendment carries on that program. By adding housing, needs of urban veterans are also met at a time when high interest rates keep many persons from owning homes. Finally, by providing a source of funding for homes, competition among homeowners for sources of financing is reduced.

Those who oppose the amendment say that while veterans are appreciated, there are many other groups who do not have benefits in times of tight state budgeting. They add that the state cannot afford such an expensive program for a dwindling segment of the population. They also add that a housing assistance program would duplicate federal programs and is not greatly needed.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock told an Amarillo crowd last week to expect higher taxes coming out of the next legislative session.

When other politicians speak of the need to raise taxes, they are a bit suspect of trying to raise money to keep political promises to some group.

But when Bullock, the high tax collector for the state, says Texas government is running out of money, most people lend an interested and believing ear.

Bullock's bad news in a speech to the independent automobile dealers convention was that the oil market slump is healing slowly, at least in terms of the tax revenues that the oil industry contributes to the state.

In addition, Bullock said, the peso devaluation which wreaked economic havoc along the Rio Grande border is also causing a loss of sales tax revenues.

"When cities don't pay as much (sales tax), it counts in the Treasury."

"There has been a loss of sales revenue of up to 50 percent for example, in Laredo, and El Paso lost 38 percent," Bullock said.

Tax Hike Forecast

The oil and peso problems, together with the national recession, have created what Bullock calls "a Texas recession—unique to Texas."

He predicted the Legislature will raise taxes to boost support for the more than half of Texas school systems "which are substandard."

Which taxes will be raised? Bullock said he thinks changing some exemptions in the sales tax, increasing "sin" taxes (alcohol, tobacco) and gasoline taxes will temporarily raise "a considerable sum."

"I don't see any increases in oil and gas taxes because that industry has been hit so hard."

King Ranch Audit

If Texas government finds extra revenues anywhere, some quiet predictions are they will come out of General Land Office efforts.

Among other overhauling projects being conducted by Land Commissioner Garry Mauro is an audit of about 2,900 state properties to determine if the state is getting its share of money.

Last week Mauro said the 18,093 acres on the King Ranch in South Texas, may be "a problem lease."

Mauro's staff is looking to see whether the King Ranch has lived up to its responsibilities under the Relinquishment Act, and whether Exxon oil company has paid the state its full share of royalties.

Exxon has leased King Ranch oil and gas rights since 1933.

Gamble Paid Off

In those Depression years, the King Ranch family leased nearly a million acres, including the 18,000 acres of state tracts, to then Humble Oil and Refining Co. in exchange for a $3.5 million loan.

The lease was the largest for Humble at that time, and it paid off with over $100 million in oil and gas revenues.

Mauro may try to attack the lease as invalid, as he did on Exxon-leased land in Duval County which brought the state $400 million.

Exxon says there is no basis to invalidate the lease.

"Mauro is the first land commissioner in 50 years who has seen something wrong with the lease," a spokesman said.

Democrats To Dallas

Republicans consider Dallas to be their town in Texas, but Texas Democrats will be coming to visit.

Following a spirited struggle, the party's executive committee voted to hold the 1984 state convention in Dallas—and only two weeks after the Republican National Convention will be held there.

Dallas city officials expect to take in $15 million from the Democratic convention alone, and $35 million from the GOP caucus.

Austin and Travis County Democrats were a bit rankled at the Dallas selection, but the party committee decided Dallas would be the best place to showcase the differences between the two parties.

Gramm's Old Seat

With controversial Congressman Phil Gramm running for the Senate, interest has picked up in the race to take his House seat.

The latest count has two new contenders from the small portion of Tarrant County which was pieced into the district last session.

One is state Sen. Hugh Parmer; another is oil man Marshall Brachman.

For the Republicans, state Rep. Ray Keller of Duncanville is considering a try.

Dan Kubiak, who finished second to Gramm in a 10-candidate special election last spring, has been quietly shopping for a house in the Bryan-College Station area. Kubiak, who garnered 40 percent of the vote in losing to Gramm, is the frontrunner, and friends say he will make an official announcement soon.

COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY AGENT REPORT

TALKING TO TEENS

The way adults talk to teenagers affects the way teens feel about themselves. It also affects the way they feel about other people. Learning to talk with teenagers in a helpful way can be difficult, but it is worth the effort.

Start by expressing acceptance of your teenager in words and actions. You can accept teenagers just as they are, as persons of value, even though you may not approve of certain behavior. For example, you can accept your son as a person even though you don't approve of his taste in music.

Talk to teens like you talk to your friends. Few adults would think of shaming or lecturing or threatening their friends. Yet they think nothing of doing it to their teenagers. For example, when Bob comes in two hours late, you threaten "Bob, if you can't come home on time, I won't let you have the car for a month!" But threats don't help the situation. Say to Bob, as you would to a friend, "I'm glad you're here. I was worried about you. We'll talk about it in the morning."

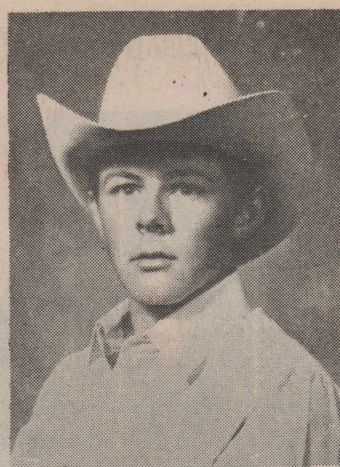

Learn to listen to teenagers. Listening is more important than talking. Really listening is difficult. It takes effort and concentration. Sit down with the young person face-to-face and give your full attention.

Listening is especially important when teens are upset, angry, hurt or sad; teens have problems; you don't understand what they are saying, or you are upset or sad.

Talking out a problem helps shrink it down to size. When teenagers or adults tell a friend what is troubling them, the troubles seem to grow lighter. So create opportunities to be alone and talk with your teenagers. It gives them a chance to talk and gives you a chance to listen. Wash dishes together or go fishing. How can you know what is on their minds when you never have a chance to talk together?

Use suggestions rather than orders with your teenager. Adults are good at giving orders such as "Do your homework," or "Turn down the stereo." But teenagers don't like being ordered around anymore than you or I do. Try suggestions such as "It's time to do your homework," or the stereo is so loud it hurts my ears." It is important to "ask" rather than order. Also, show appreciation when they respond to your suggestions.

Use kind words to build up your teenager and avoid unkind words which put them down. Kind words make teenagers feel good about themselves. They make it possible to discuss problems openly and to

ED CAMPBELL

Campbell Enters SW Oklahoma Pharmacy School

Edward Thomas Campbell of Wellington, has been accepted and is now attending his first semester in the Southwestern State University School of Pharmacy. Ed's parents are Jack and Frankie Sue Campbell.

Following the completion of 60 semester hours of pre-pharmacy courses, the student makes application for Pharmacy School. The applicants then meet before the Admissions Committee where their grade averages, consistency of academic performance, ACT or SAT scores, character references, physical and emotional health, and personal objective and motivations are among the factors considered.

come to an understanding. Kind words are things like "thanks for cleaning up the kitchen," "you did a good job," or "that sounds good."

Sometimes adults expect young people to know how good they feel about them even though they never tell them. They are not mind-readers. You still need to put the feelings into words.

Unkind words don't help any situation; they only make it worse. Avoid criticism, ridicule, shame and name-calling. Unkind words such as "You eat like a pig," or "You are acting like a baby," hurt and humiliate.

Good communication helps teenagers develop self-confidence, feelings of self-worth, and good relationships with others. It makes life with them more pleasant.

Cancer Society Meets Oct. 27

The meeting of the Cancer Society has been postponed to Thursday, October 27, so that members can hear Sandy St. John of Amarillo, district representative for the American Cancer Society.

The meeting will be in the Heritage Room of Wellington State Bank, beginning at 7 p.m., said Rita Owens, president.

Ms. St. John will discuss the annual American Cancer Society Smokeout which will be held nationwide in November.

There will be a short business meeting.

The change of meeting date is for this month only, and in November the society will return to its regular date, the second Thursday of the month.

COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY AGENT REPORT

by DON REEVES

PRUSSIC ACID POISONING IN LIVESTOCK

A hard killing frost will be hitting Collingsworth County before long, and this could lead to prussic acid poisoning in livestock grazing certain pasture grasses and forage.

Although many plants contain the toxic material that causes poisoning, those causing the highest mortality in livestock when grazing after they have been frozen and wilted are Johnson and Sudan grasses and sorghum or hybrids of these.

The most dangerous time as far as the grazing of these plants is concerned is following frost when the plant material begins to wilt. Livestock should not be allowed access to the wilted material until it has dried completely. This usually becomes nontoxic and can be grazed within 10 days to two weeks following a rain.

As far as prussic acid poisoning is concerned, the poison acts rapidly and can kill animals within minutes. In most acute cases, animals become affected within 10-15 minutes after eating toxic material and can die in two to three minutes. Symptoms may include a brief period of stimulation followed by depression and paralysis. Signs of colic may be present. Stupor (loss of sensibility), difficulty breathing and frequent convulsions may result. Death is caused by suffocation since oxygen remains in the blood and is not exchanged to the tissues.

Council Has Short Meeting Monday Night

Wellington City Council held a short session Monday night, Oct. 17.

Bills totaling $7,270.11 were approved.

The largest expense item was for fuel, amounting to $1,823.93. Two bills for repairs were $787.20 and $657.

City Manager Glen Taylor pointed out that in the last month, there had been repairs to the garbage truck, rebuilt motors for other trucks and recovered seats in these vehicles, along with other smaller items.

The only other bills exceeding $500 were two for supplies, $626.37 and $537.31.

Taylor said current work by city employees includes work inside the fire station, cleaning a waterway at the north edge of town, that had silted, and digging a new landfill.

Repair to the shop, caused by a small twister that dropped down recently, has been completed.

Present were Mayor Ralph Owens, and councilmen Gary Brewer, Willie Gragson, Sam McGill and Milburn Derrberry; City manager Taylor and City secretary Nell McKinney. Councilman Lyndon Crella was absent.

Satellite Center Names Teacher

Wellington Satellite Center announced this week the hiring of Hettie Keller as a new teacher. Mrs. Keller began work Monday, Oct. 17.

She joins Toni Wright who was named director of the Center on Sept. 19. Mrs. Wright had previously served as therapist-technician at the Center.

Mrs. Keller holds a BA from Southwestern College, Winfield, Kansas and before moving to Wellington with her husband, First Christian Church pastor David Keller, she taught 5th and 6th grade at House, New Mexico.

Satellite Center clients are currently working on a contract from 3-M Company which will last at least through January 1.

Another of the Center's projects this summer was a garden. Some of the produce from the garden was donated to the Meals on Wheels program. Mrs. Wright said. "It was one way of repaying a community that has done a lot for our program," Mrs. Wright said.

Mrs. Wright said the Center made about $900 on three projects at the County Fair this year: Country Store, Balloon sales at Fun Fair, and a food booth at the carnival.

The governing board of the Center meets on the fourth Monday of each month, and Mrs. Wright said that the board welcomes guests to their meetings. "If anybody has any questions about the Center we welcome their calls and welcome them to come to board meetings," she said.

Satellite Center board members are Jimmie Barber, president; Jim Forrester, treasurer; Della Lewis, secretary; Don Fowler, vice president, and Vernon Day, J.B. Oney and Barbara Reynolds.

Rockets Crunch Irish, 20-7, in 2nd District Game

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER
Thursday, October 20, 1983

12

Wellington Skyrockets ripped Shamrock 20-7 Friday, Oct. 14 at El Paso Field to make their season mark 5-2 and leave Wellington undefeated and untied in district play.

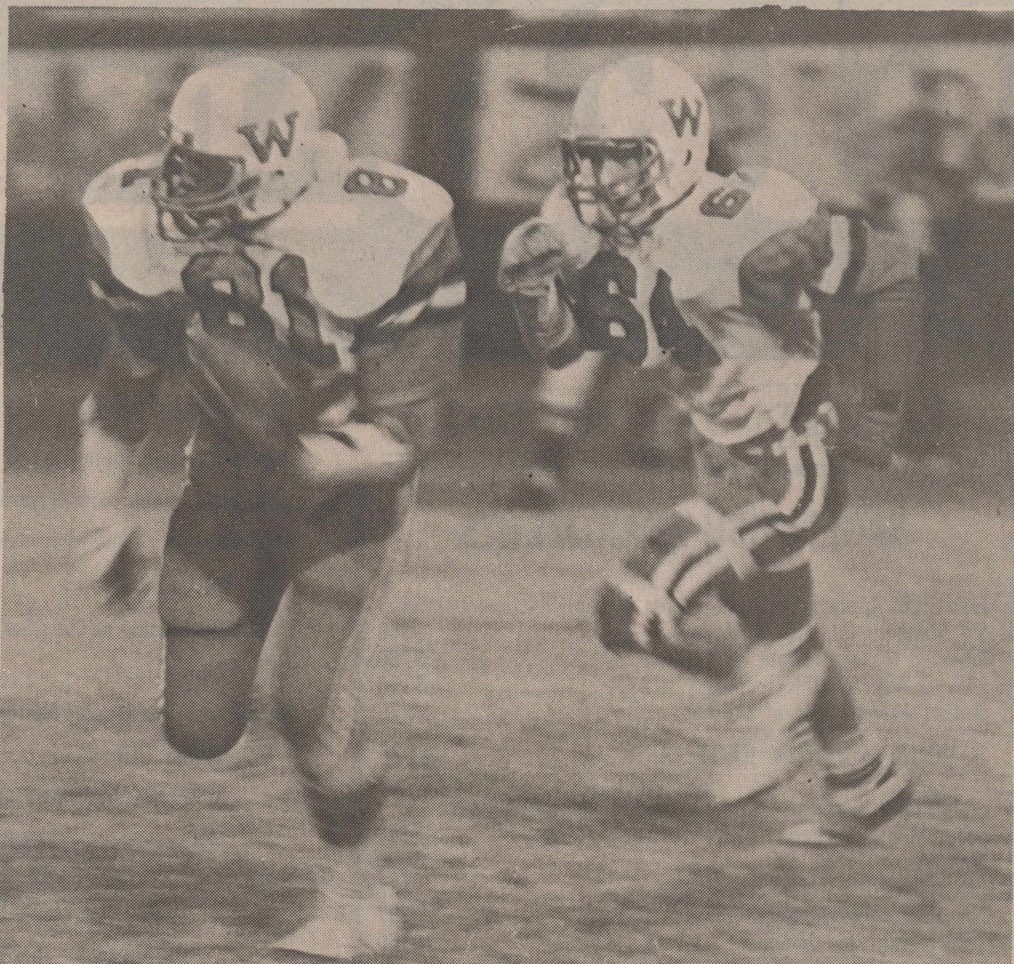

It wasn't easy, though. The Rockets trailed 0-7 at halftime after the clock ran out on them at Shamrock's 1-yard line.

It took awhile to get things started. The Irish had to kick off four times--following one offside and two out-of-bounds penalties.

On the Irish second possession, fullback Ed Luna broke through Rocket defenses for a 12-yard touchdown. Bred Hensley kicked the extra point, and Shamrock held a 7-0 lead.

Shamrock drove to the Wellington 15 before turning the ball over in the second quarter, and then Shamrock intercepted a Rocket pass on the next series.

But with 1:58 to play in the half, the Rockets took the ball on their own 27 and moved to Shamrock's 1 yard line, keyed by gains of over

ROCKET ACTION

Mark Hunnicutt, 81, hauls the ball for the Rockets, with some interference by Darvin Nix, 64.

10 yards each by James Benton, Dewayne Culpepper and Joe Bill Munn, and a 12 yard pass from Michael Souder to Mark Hunnicutt, who performed a flying leap to haul the ball in. But the clock ran out before Wellington could get the final play off the 1.

But as they've done in most of their games this year, the Rockets came out of halftime and scored on their first possession.

A bad pass from center forced Shamrock punter Randall Hugg to fumble and Rodney Saldana recovered the ball at the Shamrock 10. From there Dewayne Culpepper made it look easy with a touchdown and Mark Hunnicutt's extra point kick tied the game with 10:07 to play in the third quarter.

In the first half, Shamrock bottled up the Rocket's bread and butter inside sweep, featuring Dewayne Culpepper, by floating the Irish tackles outside. But after halftime, the Rockets adjusted and James Benton found running room, along with Culpepper, off tackle.

With 10:19 to play in the game, Benton scored from the 8, capping a 58-yard drive that saw him and Culpepper alternate on big gains. Mark Hunnicutt's extra point kick made it 14-7.

On Shamrock's next possession, Rosendo Villanueva intercepted an Irish pass and returned the ball 35 yards to the Shamrock 10. But the Rockets fumbled at the 2.

A couple of downs later, though, Shamrock fumbled and Michael Breedlove recovered the ball at the Shamrock 6, and from the 6 James Benton went into the end zone untouched to make it 20-7. The extra point kick failed.

With 3 minutes to play the Rockets had a 79-yard touchdown play called back on penalty. The Rockets seem to manage a penalty on a touchdown play at least once a game.

Rosendo Villanueva intercepted another Irish pass to kill Shamrock's last possession.

Neal Duncan scored on another pass, this time a 5-yarder from Maugro Villanueva. The extra point run failed and the Rockets took a 24-0 lead into halftime and on to the final score.

"Maugro Villanueva did a good job throwing--we had over 100 yards in passing," coach Carl Taylor said. "And Neal Duncan caught 5 passes for 80 yards. And Michael Mackey and Chuck Brown both ran well."
