WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, TUESDAY MARCH 23, 1909

NUMBER 270

ALLEGED TO HAVE CONFESSED

MAN HELD AT CLAUDE REPORTED TO HAVE CONFESSED TO THE DUAL MURDER ON TRAIN.

SERVED TERM IN PEN

Alleged Murderer Only Recently Finished a Penitentiary Term of Five Years For Forgery.

Claude, Tex., Mar. 22.—O. R. Miller, lastly removed from Clarendon to this place Saturday through fear of mob violence at the hands of the people, growing out of the murder of two men, Floyd Autrey and an unknown traveler, is alleged to have made a confession to the sheriff and other officers at Clarendon, in which he said that he did not intend to shoot to kill, but simply wanted the money he believed the dead men to possess.

The confession of the man Miller also reveals the fact, it is alleged, that he has just ended a five year term in the penitentiary given him at Quanah, Texas, where he was convicted of forgery. Letters upon the person of the prisoner give evidence of the fact that his point of destination on this trip was Dalhart, to which place he had ordered his mail forwarded.

Arrested at Hedley or Rowe about twelve miles on this side of Gilles, where the last shooting is alleged to have been done, Miller stated to the officer who came upon him suddenly: "I knew you had me. I would have mixed it with you, but I had only one shot in my pistol." Investigation proved that part of his assertion true.

Only one charge remained in the deadly weapon which he had used with such telling effect. It is also alleged that a dynamite fuse and cap were found on him. In one pocket it was alleged again, was found a letter the prisoner had written, ready for mailing, to a Chicago firm ordering a set of false whiskers, instructing that the package be sent to him at Dalhart.

The bloody hats and necktie taken from the cars at Amarillo were brought here yesterday by officers from that city and proved additional incentive to the accused to make statements to the officers.

It has been learned that instead of only three men subject to the deadly fire of the man in the box cars, there were four. The stranger thrown out at the river near Estelline had a companion who, like Fred Garrett, escaped with practically little injury after the fatal shot had been poured into the back. The man leaving the car sustained but a slight flesh wound in the leg. This escaper has identified Miller as the man who shot him. Fred Garrett of Fort Worth also identifies Miller, and so does Brakeman Scully of the Fort Worth and Denver who came down with the Amarillo officers yesterday as a man he twice put off the train.

The officers are using every precaution to prevent further agitation of the public mind, and it is believed that no likelihood of violence is probable.

THIRD PAIR OF TWINS FOR THIS COUPLE.

By Texas News Service.
El Paso, Tex., Mar. 23.—For the third time twins were born this morning to Joe Dolzal and wife, who are parents of sixteen children, all living. The eldest is twenty-four. The father is only forty-five years old.

Accident or Suicide.

McKinney, Tex., Mar. 23.—Being undetermined as to whether J. J. Circle, who shot himself in the head with a 22 caliber rifle last night, had committed suicide or that he killed himself accidentally, Judge Webb will not render an inquest verdict until tomorrow. Circle had been despondent for a long time and it is believed by many that the act of taking his life was voluntary.

DOG ORDINANCE TO BE IN EFFECT INDEFINITELY.

Numerous inquiries have recently been made at the police department as to when the ordinance compelling the muzzling or the confinement of dogs would become operative.

In answer to those inquiries the city authorities state that the ordinance will continue in effect indefinitely and its effect has been so salutary that many citizens are urging that the ordinance be made a permanent regulation.

Chief of police, Gwinn reports that up to last night a total of thirty-one dogs had been killed since the proclamation was issued.

Death of Miss Celia Gates.
Miss Celia Gates, aged 20 years, died at her home at Allendale yesterday evening after an illness of nearly a year with a complication of diseases. The funeral service will be held at Hollday at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

It may be that the course of true love never runs smooth, but isn't it true that we really enjoy the bumps?

ENDS OWN LIFE IN LODGE HALL

By Associated Press.
New Orleans, La., Mar. 23.—Dependancy over ill health caused Jean Magendie, aged 68 years, a veteran Mason, to commit suicide by shooting last night in the Masonic lodge rooms. For many years he had been secretary of the lodge. He is the father of Paul Magendie of San Antonio. His body was not discovered till this morning, after an all night search by the family and the police. The bullet entered at the temple.

Young Society Man Arrested.
Texas News Service Special.
San Antonio, Tex., Mar. 23.—A young society man of Austin, giving the name of E. O. Durfee, was arrested here this morning charged with swindling merchants. It is reported that he attempted to pass checks aggregating $135 not backed by bank deposits. He says that he will make good.

BAND PROJECT MEETS WITH MUCH FAVOR.

Myles O'Reilly, reports that everybody with whom he has talked on the band proposition, has endorsed the movement. Representative club women of the city have especially given cordial encouragement to the project. The matter will be laid before the Chamber of Commerce in the near future and there is no doubt but that the organization will lend the movement its support.

DEATH FROM PTOMAIN POISON

REEDY WITHDRAWS RESOLUTION
RESCINDING FORMER FA-VORABLE VOTE.

DILATORY TACTICS WAS BIDDEN GODSPEED

Of the Solons are Condemned in Jenkins' Resolution, Which Was Itself Called 'Dilatory.'

Texas News Service Special.
Austin, Tex., Mar. 23.—Kennedy's formal resignation will be printed in the house journal as the result of Reedy's withdrawal of the resolution this morning rescinding the former favorable vote. That the governor's defeat was staunchly contended by Hill. Others resented the idea of admitting that they were influenced by the administration.

The house finally passed Harmon's bill regulating attorneys' appearance by briefs in courts of civil appeals.

Fuller's bill was engrossed making it necessary for the State, county or city to file an appeal bond.

After receiving the resolution by Jenkins condemning the dilatory tactics and urging an immediate resumption of earnest business, the house members spent one hour discussing the advisability of adopting it. Several members versed their indignation at the press reports concerning insurgents and filibusters gaining the house control and preventing legislation. At the end of the hour Fitzhugh and others sought to kill the resolution as being simply a prolongation of doing nothing tactics, but it finally prevailed.

The senate this morning passed Greer's bill for an experiment station in the thirty-second representative district and continued a discussion of the health board bill. Six other experiment station bills were introduced.

While Governor Campbell may condemn the criticisms made against him by members of the legislature, this feeling has not prevented him from extending to the members the courtesy of an invitation to a reception at the Governor's Mansion tonight.

All the members will generally accept the invitation to the executive mansion without the narrow-mindedness that would permit a difference of opinion to cause a personal breach. Practically all will attend. The governor and his wife are entertaining.

Election Will Be Valid.
Sulphur Springs, Tex., Mar. 23.—The question of doubt raised in Austin as to the proper advertising of the election in the second senatorial district was dispelled locally by Thomas and his campaign manager, R. D. Allen, who said this morning: "In my opinion, with the actual notice and the knowledge which will be given the voters through the press and public speeches and otherwise, the election called by the governor for April 3rd will be held valid." Under the proclamation all the county judges have ordered notices to be posted.

ROOSEVELT SAILS FOR AFRICA

EX-PRESIDENT JOSTLED ABOUT
BY CROWDS WHICH THROG
THE PIER.

WAS BIDDEN GODSPEED

By Thousands of Admiring Friends as
He Boarded the Hamburg
Liner.

By Associated Press.
Oyster Bay, Mar. 23.—Cheered by his fellow townsmen who gathered at the station to bid him good-bye, former President Roosevelt left here early today for New York to begin the long journey across the sea to hunt in the wilderness of British East Africa for the next year.

By Associated Press.
New York, Mar. 23.—Ex-President Roosevelt and son, Kermit, who will accompany his father as official photographer on the hunting trip to Africa on their arrival at the Hamburg American liner at Hoboken were greeted with bands playing, flags flying, and the cheers of several thousand people who assembled to wish the distinguished travelers God speed. Roosevelt was beaming with good nature and enthusiasm about his trip. "Everything is fine and bully" to Roosevelt and he acknowledged the cheering by repeatedly raising his hat.

The Ex-President was caught in a crush on the Hoboken pier and lost his hat and a small leather case which he carried in his pocket. A large force of police restored order and escorted Roosevelt back to the gang plank and recovered the lost articles. The Hamburg left the pier at 11:06 on its trip to Naples. There were about three thousand people on the adjacent thoroughfares.

The Roosevelt Expedition Outlined.
Mombasa, British East Africa, March 20.—That part of the dary continent in which former President Roosevelt, with the Smithsonian African expedition, will hunt for wild animals in the interest of science takes on its greatest charm with the coming of spring and will tender a rare tropical welcome when the party disembarks in the latter part of April.

The Roosevelt party will make its way through a country wonderful in its moods, and phases, a strange conglomeration of wildest jungle and a strip of modern civilization—the Uganda Railway. It is along the line of this railroad, which penetrates the jungle, plains and mountains, that Mr. Roosevelt and his party will seek the game of the region for specimens for the Smithsonian Institution at Washington. His route has not been definitely determined, for, though game abounds plentifully, it shifts constantly, changing its locality because of drought or scarcity of food. Enough has been learned of Mr. Roosevelt's itinerary in the African wilds practically to trace his course in the six months' hunt along the Uganda Railway.

April 21, on the steamer Admiral of the German East Africa Line, Mr. Roosevelt and party will reach Mombasa, a squat island city, the largest seaport of British East Africa, basking in a hot, tropical sun, its Moorish walls reflecting the light and contrasting brilliantly with the stately palms and the gold mohur tree, with its rare red blossoms. Nestling in this tropical luxuriance are the European bungalows, or native villages. Mombasa has two hotels, and in the public gardens stands a statue of Sir William Mackinnon, one of the greatest benefactors of East Africa.

Part of Roosevelt Itinerary.
Leaving Mombasa, the Uganda Railway runs past Kilindini and dips down to Salisburry bridge, a fine viaduct 1,700 feet long, connecting the island of Mombasa with the mainland, and then begins the steep climb to the small station of Changamwe. The first leg into the wilderness will be made by the Roosevelt hunters by train to Macakos, 200 miles from Mombasa, where Mr. Roosevelt will visit for a fortnight with Sir Alfred Pease, who has hunted with him in America. Sir Alfred lives twenty miles from the railroad.

Fruit vendors swarm about the train at Changamwe, selling the produce of the plantations, with which the country is thickly covered. There also is obtained a magnificent view of the arms of the sea that enfolds Mombasa. Fort Retis, stretching three miles inland from Kilindini, looks like a bas-

KIDNAPPED BOY AND FATHER RE-CEIVED WITH REJOICING AT THEIR HOME TOWN.

By Associated Press.
Sharon, Pa., Mar. 23.—Willie Whittla arrived here shortly after noon. A crowd of five thousand persons extended the boy a demonstration and cheering and singing, followed the boy and father to their home.

By Associated Press.
Cleveland, Ohio, Mar. 23.—James Whittla and son "Billy," left today for their home at Sharon, Pa. They were escorted to the railroad station by a cheering crowd of people. The kidnapped youngster was clasped in the arms of his father from the time they left the hotel until they reached the train.

The boy was returned to his father at the Hohenlinden hotel last night at 8 o'clock. In compliance with an agreement entered into between the kidnapper, the boy's father and an agent of the kidnapper, the boy was placed on a street car on the outskirts of the city and started to the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock. Two boys, G. W. Ramsey and Edward Mahoney, recognized the lad on the car and, taking him in charge, conducted him to his father, who was in waiting, according to a prearranged plan which he had followed at the dictation of the kidnappers. The boy wandered about the hotel lobby unannounced for several minutes asking the bellboys for his father before the latter knew his son was in the foyer.

The moment the anxious parent heard that a strange boy was in the hotel sauntering in aimless fashion he rushed across the lobby, grasped him in his arms and smothered him with kisses.

An attempt had been made to disguise the lad. He wore a pair of smoked glasses and a large tan cap, which was pulled down over his ears, and the father said it would have been difficult to have recognized the boy in such a garb had he passed him on the street.

BANK ORGANIZED AT DUNDEE

A large number of Archer County's strong financial citizens met at Dundee yesterday and perfected the organization of a State bank with a capital stock of $10,000. The organization was perfected and the capital stock paid in full on the day of the organization and the Times is informed that the stock was in reality oversubscribed by a considerable sum.

At the meeting, plans were ordered drawn for a modern bank building to be erected at once.

The personnel of the new institution insures its success. The directors are: Tom Mankin, J. R. Pankey, T. B. Wilson, A. Albright, Luther Puryear, Sam Bellah, William H. Rice, R. A. Bellah and Wm. M. McGregor.

Discuss the Tariff Bill.
By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Mar. 23.—Meeting an hour earlier than usual, the house today will continue its consideration of the tariff bill. Chairman Payne will resume his remarks and it is expected that he will consume several hours time. He will be followed by Clark of Missouri, the minority leader, and members of the ways and means committee, who, it is thought, will continue the remainder of the day. The senate is not in session today.

BRYAN WILL PASS THROUGH WICHITA FALLS APRIL 1st.

The following letter is self-explanatory:

Lincoln, Neb., Mar. 19.—Prof. T. L. Toland, Wichita Falls, Tex.: My Dear Sir—Your favor at hand. I regret to say it will be impossible for me to visit Wichita Falls in the near future. So far as I know, I shall not have the opportunity of meeting your people except that furnished by the trip through there on the 1st of April.

If there were two roads running from your place to Fort Worth it might be possible to stop off between trains, provided the last train would get me into Fort Worth in time for the evening meeting, but as there is only one train, I cannot stop off on this trip and I shall not be in that neighborhood again soon. Regretting that circumstances prevent a visit to your place, I am, Very truly yours, W. J. BRYAN.

FULL TEXT OF SPEAKER KENNEDY'S RESIGNATION.

The following is the text of Speaker Kennedy's written resignation, which he wishes incorporated in the house journal:

"To the house of representatives: At the beginning of the regular session of the Thirty-first legislature I was elected speaker, and on Saturday, March 13, you passed a resolution suggesting my resignation.

"Since the passage of that resolution, in spite of many reports to the contrary, I have neither contemplated nor considered any course other than to comply with that suggestion. However, in connection with the resignation of the speakership, I owe it to myself and those members of the house who have been my loyal friends and who supported me when I was elected to that position, to call attention to the fact that for the first time in the history of the State a regular session of the legislature has been brought to a close in sixty days and while the appropriation bill was not reached, it was ready and would have been finally passed had it not been for the time lost in the investigations in the house and senate.

Demand an Investigation.

"Conscious always of the rectitude of my own conduct I demanded an investigation of my acts as speaker and the investigation shows no more nor no less than I know before hand that it would. I did not miscalculate in this in the least, but in another particular I did. I did not know that the political enemies of mine outside of the legislature would continue the fight made against me in the speakership contest and would, personally, seek out any member whom they had a possible chance to influence and demand of him my destruction. Neither did I anticipate that the corridors of the capitol would be filled with personal abuse and with disastrous predictions of the outcome of the investigation and that an organized effort would be made to destroy me even before the evidence was fairly begun.

"Further than this, it should be known that a bill had passed the regular session authorizing the appointment of a committee to investigate the penitentiaries of this State. Had it been I would have already appointed a committee on the part of the house which would have had a real investigation and one of the reasons in the breast of the administration for my removal would have been lacking because of the abuses, carelessness, almost criminal extravagance and waste of money wrung from the daily toll of a people already overburdened by a horde of useless and overpaid officials which has existed and does exist in the penitentiary system of this state if the publications made in the newspapers, and particularly in the San Antonio Express, are but half true.

"It is also true that I have been in favor of a thorough investigation of the manner and methods adopted in the selection of the text books for the public schools by the textbook board and that I still favor the same.

Says Offended Administration.

"However, my candid and careful judgment tells me now, after the most thorough self-searching, that no more can be said of my conduct than that I permitted and extended the continuation of a bad custom and that I offended the administration. I am not disposed to say one word of criticism concerning those who voted against me, for when time cools their passions and reflection softens the sternness and vigor of their partisanship they will then know that an injury has been done a man who never did an intentional wrong. In the certainty of that conclusion I find the solace of a man who has been pursued with an energy and industry which has known no ceasing and which has never for a moment tired.

"I therefore turn back the gavel which was given me unsullied by a single dishonorable or ignoble act and without a sigh of regret. Respectfully,
A. M. KENNEDY.

CHURCH PROFITED BY AD.

Asked For Contribution of $1,000 and Got $702.23—Ad. Cost $75.

As a result of an advertisement published in a local paper by the First Presbyterian church of Richmond Hill, N. Y., the Rev. D. W. Skellinger, D. D., pastor, which advertisement stated that $1,000 was wanted by the following Sunday, that congregation became wealthier than it was the week before by almost that amount.

At the morning service $541.86 was secured and $160.37 in the evening, making a total of $702.23. The advertising cost in the neighborhood of $75, and it was clearly demonstrated to the congregation present that it pays to advertise.—American Press.

REMEMBER THE AUCTION SALE OF

LOTS

WEDNESDAY MARCH 24,

Takes place at 12:30 o'clock on the property of the "Old Race Track," Five blocks from the City National Bank. :-

LAKEWOOD PLACE

In four days over half of these lots have been sold. A great many for cash. Six new houses contracted for to be constructed at once. All lots 50x150 feet to a 20 foot alley. The future prosperity and growth of Wichita Falls is conceded both at home and abroad. Today she is the most prosperous city in the state of Texas. There is more strangers from other sections coming into Wichita Falls and buying property and erecting handsome homes than any other city in the state. No matter where you go, in what direction—a thousand miles north, south, east or west, on every tongue and in every mouth you hear that Wichita Falls is growing faster, erecting more substantial business houses and handsome residences than any city in this broad and fast growing state. Reader, did you ever hear of anybody losing money on buying property in Wichita Falls? On the contrary, all you have to do is to look around you and see your neighbors by the hundreds who have made the thousands of dollars in the past by making small investments in this city. Why not follow their example. Opportunity knocks once at every man's door, some take advantage of it, while thousands let it pass by never to return. THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

Come Out to the Auction Sale Next Wednesday at 12:30 O'clock On the Ground at the Old Race Track :- :- :-

In Hot Water.
"Typographical errors," said a writer, "are continually cropping up. I called for a magazine editor the other day to take him out to luncheon. As he was getting gratefully into his coat a man entered."

"Do you read your magazine?" the man asked.

"I do," replied the editor.
"Have you read the new number, the one that came out yesterday?"

"I have."
"Have you read my poem, 'To Gabrielle,' on page 117?"

"No."
"No! Well, in that poem I wrote the line, 'I love you better than I love my life.'"

"A neat line—neat and well turned," said the editor soothingly.

"And one of the professional humorists of your composing room set it up to read, 'I love you better than I love my wife.'"

"How—er—"

"Than my wife—precisely that. And my wife knows nothing of composing room comedy, and she thinks the line was printed exactly as I wrote it."

China's Four Religions.

China has four state established religions, and in each the emperor exercises sacerdotal functions. Twice a year the emperor as "son of heaven" worships before the tablet of Shang Ti or supreme heaven in accordance with the ancient imperial monotheism. Twice a year he burns incense before the tablets of his ancestors in accordance with Confucianism. Twice a year he sacrifices to the gods of Taoism and twice a year to the image of Buddha. The ancient and primitive religion of China is monotheistic, but this direct worship was regarded as too sublime for the people, so that it became reserved for the emperor alone as the "son of heaven" and as priest of the nation. The people on their part worshipped their ancestors, and it was this ancestral religion which Confucius identified himself with and reformed. The old superstitions rejected by Confucius were absorbed by Taoism, which is polytheistic and the religion of the populace. Then Buddhism came into China about 65 A. D. and, like the other three religions, became state supported and state endowed.

Squeezed the Squeezers.

It is said that when Mr. Yerkes began to make money some of the banks from which he had borrowed thought to "squeeze" him by demanding instant repayment or a large consideration for further time. He was invited to call on one of these "bankers" and there met the others. Their demand was made, and their victim seemed at their mercy. They did not, however, know the resourcefulness of Mr. Yerkes, who retallied by remarking: "Well, I owe a lot to all the banks here, and I'll just publish a statement tomorrow in the papers, giving the full amounts and stating my inability to pay. This will make such a run on the banks that they will soon be as broke as I should, and therefore I shall not be the only sufferer."

The "squeezers" recognized the truth of this and so withdrew their demand. Mr. Yerkes, however, refused to withdraw his threat unless they lent him another $50,000. They did so.

Making an Acquaintance.

In illustration of the ways of the east side of London the following true story is told: A certain club for working girls in the east end of London had recently elected a new member, and one day the secretary happened to look out of the window and was surprised to see the new member rush up to a strange lad in the street, punch him violently on the head and then run away. The secretary remonstrated with her sharply, to which the new member made reply: "I'm very sorry. I won't do it no more if it's agin' the rules, but perhaps you won't mind telling me, then, how am I ever to get engaged?"

Knew Their Ways.

Walter, aged seven, is a wise son who knows not only his own father, but his mother as well.

"Now, Walter," said the teacher, "if your father can do a piece of work in one hour and your mother could also do it in one hour, how long would it take both of them to do it?"

"Three hours," answered Walter, "counting the time they would waste in arguing about how it should be done."—Chicago News.

And He Probably Did.

"What can I do," roared the fiery orator, "when I see my country going to ruin, when I see our oppressors' hands at our throats, strangling us, and the black clouds of hopelessness obliterate the golden sun of prosperity? What, I ask—what can I do?"

"Sit down!" shouted the audience.—New York Times.

Exclusive.

Mabel—I seldom see the handsome young Mr. Richerly. He doesn't appear to care much for society. Ethel—Oh, I don't know! He seems to want my society about six evenings in the week.—Chicago Tribune.

Your Own Way.

"It takes a heap o' determination, son," said Uncle Eben. "To hav yuh own way in dis life an' a heap o' brains to know what to do wif it after you gits it."—Washington Star.

A Wireless Operator.

Upson—You have a new baby at your house, I hear. Downing—Great guns! And we live four miles apart! I had no idea any one could hear him that distance.—Judge.

CONSTIPATION.

Its Cause and How to Cure it.

Eat too much,
 Stomach feels bloated,
 All out of sorts,
 Don't feel like work to-day. Guess I've another case of biliousness.

"Take anything?"

"Yes; some pills, but no results; suppose I'm getting ironclad. Sometimes I double the dose, then they physic me so hard I'm too weak to work. Think I'll have to try something new."

"Ever try Prickly Ash Bitters?"

"No; I've heard a good deal about it, but never tried it."

"Well, you'll be pleased with the results."

The purgative action of Prickly Ash Bitters not only removes hard impactions, gas and impurities, but it strengthens the muscular action of the bowels which causes them to move regularly.

Prickly Ash Bitters is a bowel tonic and regulator in the truest sense. It promotes daily evacuations, establishes healthy movements and is the best known remedy for disordered digestion, flatulence and a constipated habit.

D. M. Blackwelder, of Litchfield, Ill., says in the Litchfield News: "I am perfectly willing, in fact glad to testify to the value of Prickly Ash Bitters as a medicine for the kidneys, stomach and bowels. I have used it whenever I needed anything of the kind for the last fifteen years and it has always given satisfaction."

and thirty natives were killed by two man eaters at Tsavo. This fearful pair of man eaters held up the building of the railway nearly six weeks.

A run of fifty miles further, through fairly open country, will find the hunting party at Makindu, a little more than 200 miles from Mombasa, and 3,000 feet above the level of the sea. The expedition will now be out of the tropical level, and the air is cooler and fresher.

Nairobi, the capital of the British East African Protectorate, 326 miles inland from Mombasa, will be reached in May, and here the expedition's headquarters will be established for the greater portion of the hunt. From Nairobi short trips of from a week to three weeks will be made in various directions in pursuit of suitable specimens for the collection. It is from this point that most of the hunting trips will be made.

Will Reach Lake Victoria Nyanza. October will find the party moving inland to Port Florence, on Lake Victoria Nyanza, the end of the railway, where a short stop will be made. The railway from Nairobi takes a sharp ascent to the pinnacles of the Kibuyu escarpment, where it is possible to look down 2,000 feet in to the Great Rift Valley. Swinging downward, the railroad enters a country—cabining from hills and forest to grass land. Sheep farms and other evidences of civilization meet the eye of the traveler in the run to Nakuru, 446 miles from Mombasa, which is in the midst of a pastoral country.

After a journey of another hundred miles Mr. Roosevelt's party will arrive at Port Florence. A trip to Mt. Elgon is planned, which is seventy-five miles north of the railway terminus. Two modern steel steamers of 500 tons burden navigate Victoria Nyanza, and on one of these steamers the expedition will leave some time early in December for Entebbe, 150 miles from Port Florence. Entebbe is the point of departure for travelers to Lake Albert, down the Congo to the west coast, or down the Nile to Khartum, and here the party will join a small caravan which will head north toward the Mediterranean.

An Object Lesson in Thrift.

Fort Worth Star-Telegram.
 Here is an object lesson in the thrift of saving as contrasted with the frequent failure of those with moderate means who try to increase their fortunes by speculation or venturesome deals that too often turn out disastrously.

A cautious Yankee, recognizing that to have the certainty of a modest sum each year for himself and the members of his family, was better than a lump sum that might by accident be lost, formulated the plan of investing in a whole town that would not fall or die out, whatever might happen to its individual citizens.

The manner in which he accomplished this is reported from Worcester, Mass., as follows:

"Mrs. Lyman Jennings died at Orange today, aged 89 years. The town of Athol by her death will save $180 a year. In 1876, when Athol was greatly in need of money, Lyman Jennings, a poor cooper earning only $1.50 a day, lent the town $9,000 under an agreement that Jennings was to receive $540 a year till he died, his wife $180 a year until she died, and their daughter, now Mrs. Addie Stratton, $120 a year so long as she lives. Jennings lived to be 90, dying in December, 1907. His wife upon her death today lacked only three months of 90. With such a record for longevity Athol looks forward to paying Mrs. Stratton her annuity for all of a quarter of a century to come. From the date of the loan to the opening of this year's account, the town had paid $16,200 for the original $9,000."

Few folks would have had the calculating foresight to do this. Possibly nine out of ten would have tried to double the $9,000 by some sort of trading or speculation, and about six out of the nine would have failed to realize on their plans.

By giving up this sum for the absolute certainty of annual payments sufficient to sustain a modest pantry this man made a sensible provision at the age of 59 for his old age and that of his wife and daughter—one that would guard against the temptation to spend too freely.

Another thing. The incident illustrates the substantial sum that small annual savings will amount to if persisted in for years. Any young man who can save at all and who has the probability of twenty or thirty years before him can, with ordinary prudence, be independent in his later years. Land is generally regarded as the best possible anchorage, and right now is the time in Texas for young men to look beyond the unnecessary needs and expenses of today and begin the work of building to an humble competence in the years to come.

AMUSEMENTS

The Big Bittern company opened a two weeks engagement at the Wichita theatre last night and made good from the rise of the first curtain until the fall of the last. A large audience was present and thoroughly enjoyed every minute of the performance. The play Eben Holden is a rural drama well written and was well played. Each character was brought out in a convincing manner. The vaudeville features are the strongest ever seen with a repertoire company. Dick LaReno, the cowboy juggler, does some marvelous balancing. Mae Bennett sang three songs, using first a low contralto and changing without warning into a high soprano. Pearl and Cassidy did some singing, dancing and talking that made a big hit with the audience. Tonight the company will present "Shall We Forgive Her."

Solid Ripe Tomatoes

Most of the ordinary canned tomatoes that you buy are packed by machinery and as tomatoes after being peeled are very easily broken and mushed up, the machinery method of packing makes it almost impossible to deliver to you whole canned tomatoes.

That's why the packers of Monarch Tomatoes pack by hand, that is the girls who peel them place them in the cans by hand and the cooking is done by steam.

This leaves the tomatoes entirely whole.

Perfectly solid, but ripe tomatoes only are used and a variety that has a very pleasing flavor.

HAWAIIAN PINEAPPLES

Every day women who have called previously and ordered this brand of pineapples come and repeat the order. No other pineapple can compare with this brand in quality. Just as concord grapes are far superior to wild grapes because of the careful cultivation and care, so Hawaiian Pineapples through care and cultivation in a most perfect climate makes them very much superior to other brands.

They Had Will Power.

I was sitting one morning in a quiet corner at Monte Carlo when two elderly men sat down beside me. One was evidently a Scotchman, and the other, I gathered, was from Yorkshire. The former remarked, "I have just managed it." This, I discovered, meant a win of 20 francs. Their daily routine was to appear at the same roulette table at an early hour and play the lowest stake of 5 francs on even chances—that is, on black or red or on the odd or even numbers. They would lose and win and win and lose, but they remained calm and self contained and persevered until they had each 20 francs to the good. I observed them daily. Some mornings they scooped in the amount in twenty minutes, and at other times it was a tough struggle until luncheon time before they managed it. I never saw them fall once, and I learned that they had pursued the same plan for four months. One thing was clear—nothing could tempt them to go beyond the modest stake, and they had the will to stop when they won the stipulated amount. It was really one of the best illustrations of will power I have ever seen, for few, indeed, who enter the portals of the casino are able to resist the compelling atmosphere of the tables to play on if losing and to plunge if winning.—Chambers' Journal.

Family Jars.

Schoolmaster (to his wife)—My dear, I wish you would speak more carefully. You say that Henry Jones came to this town from Sunderland.

Wife—Yes.

Schoolmaster—Well, now, wouldn't it be better to say that he came from Sunderland to this town?

Wife—I don't see any difference in the two expressions.

Schoolmaster—But there is a difference, a rhetorical difference. You don't hear me make use of such awkward expressions. By the way, I have a letter from your father in my pocket.

Wife—But my father is not in your pocket. You mean you have in your pocket a letter from my father.

Schoolmaster—There you go with your little quibbles. You take a delight in harassing me. You are always taking up a thread and representing it as a rope.

Wife—Representing it to be rope, you mean.

Schoolmaster—For goodness' sake, be quiet. Never saw such a quarrelsome woman in my life.—London Scraps.

Pretty Slow.

Horace L. Moore was lieutenant colonel of the noted Nineteenth Kansas cavalry. He could lead men for a longer period without rest on a single ration of cheerful good humor than any other officer. Though not given to jokes, he was the reputed author of as many astonishers as the great Lincoln.

One time, on the march, he sent an orderly with a message to an officer at some distance. Before the man was out of hearing Moore shouted: "Hey, orderly! Come back here!"

He came galloping back, sitting limply in the saddle.

Moore dropped his voice and, assuming a half confidential manner, inquired, "Orderly, in the course of your life have you ever seen a snail?"

"Yes, sir," was the astonished reply. "You met him, then," replied Moore, "for you'd never overtake one."—Kansas City Journal.

His Business Ability.

In the Adirondacks lives a man too lazy to work, but evidently of great business ability. One winter when he was sitting around smoking his family came so near starvation that some of his neighbors, who could ill afford to help him, took up a collection and bought for the suffering family a barrel of flour, a barrel of pork and a load of wood. They were not considerate enough to cut the wood, but the business man knew how to manage. He hired some of the neighbors who had not contributed to his donation to cut the wood and paid them with half the pork and half the flour.—Lippincott's.

Admirably Equipped.

Cardinal Mezzofanti, the famous Italian linguist, who died at the age of seventy-five, knew and could speak more than fifty languages. He could entertain his English friends with specimens of the Yorkshire dialect and his French or German visitors with the patois of their respective countries. "Dear me!" exclaimed Lord Byron, to whom this was told. "He ought to have been the custodian of the tower of Babel!"

Breakfast Months.

A traveler stopped at a hotel in Greenland, where the nights are six months long, and as he registered asked a question of the clerk.

"What time do you have breakfast?" "From half past March to a quarter to May,"—Harper's Weekly.

A Bone.

"What sort of an after-dinner speaker is Bilgins?"

"One of the kind who start in by saying they didn't expect to be called on and then proceed to demonstrate that they can't be called off."—Exchange.

The Quarrel.

"Last night we parted forever." "Then I suppose Ferdy will not call tonight."

"No, but he'll spend the evening behind a tree across the street."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

General John C. Fremont, "the Pathfinder," is buried in Rockland cemetery, Nyack, on the Hudson.

THERE IS A REASON FOR THIS

Once a LUXURY—Now a NECESSITY!

Many of the delicious foods that you serve on your tables every day were once considered luxuries. By frequent use, they became necessities. Grape Juice is one of the most delicious summer beverage you can get. It is the pure juice of ripe concord grapes freshly picked, pressed and sealed in bottles where the fruit is grown. The Welch process preserves all the delicate flavor. Welch's Grape Juice is also a nutritious food for invalids and well people. It can be taken when medicine and other foods are rejected. Comes in 3 sizes at 25c, 50c and 90c per bottle.

ARANSAS PASS

Three Months Ago We Had a Good Prospective City—TODAY We Have a Certainty

Owing to the development of the Gulf Coast Country and the great tide of immigration that is flowing this way, commercial interests demand another harbor on the Gulf of Mexico. There are 1,000,000 square miles of the richest country in the world that is tributary territory to the port of Aransas Pass. The United States government has recognized the need of another harbor and has expended $550,000 and $490,000, in addition to the appropriation of $540,000 made three weeks ago.

Three months ago we had a town of two hundred people and 1 railroad

TODAY two more railroads are building into Aransas Pass. A channel is being dredged from the town to the harbor. The terminal railroad is being extended to Harbor Island; this is in preparation for handling the shipping that will soon be coming through this port. A telephone system is being constructed. A $30,000 lumber yard has been started. Contracts have been let for more than 100 buildings. A bank has been organized and a newspaper started.

Ten years ago Seattle was a town of 28,000—today she is a city with 200,000 People. There is not a seaport in the world without its big seaport city

What Scientists Are Doing

A Word of Mystery.

In distributing the prizes to the students of the Bromley School of Science and Art on Saturday, Lord Avebury made, among others, the following notable remarks: Science turned every stone into a philosopher's stone—turned everything into gold. We live in a world of mystery, which we darken rather than explain by the use of a number of terms which we could neither explain nor define. What people knew about nature was infinitesimal, as compared with what they did not know. To compete in commerce without science and modern language was like fighting a battle with bows and arrows against rifles and cannon.

A Turbine Harnessed to Ocean Waves
A wave motor, the revolving portion of which resembles a turbine in construction and effect, has been installed at the end of a 1,150-foot pier at Atlantic City to generate electricity for the light and power used upon the pier, says the February number of Popular Mechanics in an illustrated article. The motor is claimed to be the first practical commercial application of the irregular but powerful motion of the ocean for the development of electrical power. The motors, of which there are two, rest on a sea floor 12 feet under water.

Getting Rid of Steamship Ashes.

The newest liners now dispose of their ashes by forcing them through the bottom of the hull by means of compressed air. The old method of hoisting them and dumping them overboard was disagreeable to the passengers, and an attempted improvement by which they were mixed with water and pumped was equally so when the wind was in the wrong quarter. In the new "expeller" a hopper receives the ashes and clinkers and delivers them into a crusher, which breaks up the large pieces. Below this a drum revolving in a watertight casing and open at its turns first to the crusher chamber and then to the discharge pipe below. In order to counteract the upward pressure of the water compressed air at about seven pounds to the square inch is delivered to the interior of the ash-filled drum just before its opening comes opposite that in the discharge pipe. Thus the ashes are expelled with such force that they are swept clear of the bottom of the vessel. This expeller will get rid of the ashes and clinkers from forty-eight furnaces under forced draught, amounting to eight or ten tons an hour.

Thought at a Force.

One night into his consulting room rushed a woman, anxious and breathless. "Doctor, look at my baby." There in her arms lay the child, pale, motionless, pulseless. He said, "I am afraid that she has gone, but wait." And he leaned over the child, passed his hands along it, and took hold of its wrists; for how long he did not remember, but it gave a gasp, soon it breathed, and shortly it came around. The mother had brought it a distance of half a mile in an apparently lifeless condition. They could see suggestion in the first two cases, but how in the case of the baby? Where did suggestion come in? They were only just being allowed to recognize thought as a force, but of the forces emanating from them, in connection with them, and around them they were still in the dark. Personally however, they were experiencing enough to make them hope for and expect more.

The bombardment of Los Angeles at night with confetti bombs from a ship in thrillingly described with illustrations in February Popular Mechanics. The aeronaut was Roy Knabenshue and "only once," says the article, "was his presence above the city discovered, and that was when he turned a miniature searchlight on the crowd of people surrounding the City Hall—just before dropping bombs among them. The airship started on its journey about 10 o'clock, and twenty minutes later the first bomb was dropped. After "blowing up" the City Hall and the greater part of the business district, Knabenshue made a trip about the residence portions of the city, traveling in all about eighteen miles. The trip lasted about one hour and thirty minutes. The test was considered conclusive that a fleet of airships could easily destroy a city without danger to the aerial fighters themselves.

Earthquakes and Volcanoes.

Volcanic regions are pre-eminently the regions of those minor jars

which are termed earth tremors, and they are also prone to the destructive visitations of the larger earth movement or true earthquake. With hardly an exception every region of active volcanoes is also region of more or less destructive earthquake. In such regions there are frequent rock readjustments; many of which follow necessarily upon the work of steam and other explosive gases. But because the active volcanic region is also an active region of earthquake, it does not follow that the most destructive earthquake must necessarily be an association of volcanic outburst in the region of its occurrence.

Submarine Rescuing Vessel.

The German navy has recently provided a new type of vessel for rescuing submarines from the bottom of the sea, says the February Popular Mechanics in an illustrated article. An opening in the bow of the vessel runs clear through to the stern. The ship is run directly over the submarine and chains are made fast. The central mechanism raises the submarine until it rests above water on bars which bridge the open space. Repairs are immediately begun, and after they are completed the submarine is allowed to drop into the water again.

Mentioned by Herodotus.

Important excavations in progress at Memphis, the ancient Egyptian city, have just been described by Prof. Flinders Petrie in a lecture at Rome. The Temple of the Foreigners, mentioned by Herodotus, has been discovered, and a large number of prayer tablets has been found under the latter building of the Temple of Ptah. In one large building that was opened there was much sculpture of a little-known kind named Siamese. To recover all the monuments of Memphis, it is calculated that it will occupy the excavating labors of 500 workers for twenty years.

Flag-Waving Signals Displaced.

The old-fashioned flag-waving signals, which are read almost as easily by the enemy from behind as by those for whom the messages are intended, may probably soon be displaced in the English army by an apparatus patented by Colonel B. R. Dietz, of the Seventh Dragon Guards. The invention consists of a combination of black and white discs which can be so operated as to display an entirely white or an entirely black surface. The "longs" and "shorts" of the Morse code are made readable by changing from black to white and vice versa.

Another Illustration.

A man had got into a depressed condition; sleepless, melancholy; something or somebody told him that he must destroy himself. He (the speaker) said to him, "Do not fight against the feelings, and the voices and suggestions; but, as if you were talking to something or somebody beyond yourself, say, 'All right, come along; do your worst, you cannot do me any harm. I am going to sleep, I have a power within me much stronger than you, so I do not care.' He came about four times.

Adjustable Horn Bell.

A horn with an adjustable bell which controls the volume of sound and throws it in any direction desired is one of the novelties described in the February Popular Mechanics. When being played in a parade the bells can be turned toward the marching men, thus throwing the sound further along the marching line, and for concert purposes the bells can be so arranged as to secure a greater solidity and balance of tone. The bells are detachable as well as adjustable. The article is illustrated.

Removing Splinter With Steam.

A splinter that has been driven into the flesh can be removed by the aid of steam. Secure a wide-mouthed bottle, and fill it nearly full of hot water, place the injured part over the bottle's mouth and press slightly, says National Magazine. The action thus produced will draw the flesh down and in a minute or two the steam will extract the splinter, also the inflammation.—February Popular Mechanics.

Treating Electric Burns.

An article on the treatment of electric burns appears in the February number of Popular Mechanics, accompanied by a number of illustrations, which, though horrible in appearance, are very interesting. It is said these burns are not particularly bad if properly cared for.

Science Versus Nature.

Science, in spite of its magnificent progress, can not prevent earthquakes, but it can—and must—create the sort of architecture which, in case of catastrophes, will minimize the number of victims.—Genlos du Dimanche, Paris.

There's money in this house for the buyer, and in many houses which I have to sell. There's money in them, either as homes or as property investment.

The safest investment is undoubtedly good real estate. If you are looking for a home, property of any kind or investment or lots to build on, we have them.

THERE IS A REASON FOR THIS

Once a LUXURY—Now a NECESSITY!

Many of the delicious foods that you serve on your tables every day were once considered luxuries. By frequent use, they became necessities. Grape Juice is one of the most delicious summer beverage you can get. It is the pure juice of ripe concord grapes freshly picked, pressed and sealed in bottles where the fruit is grown. The Welch process preserves all the delicate flavor. Welch's Grape Juice is also a nutritious food for invalids and well people. It can be taken when medicine and other foods are rejected. Comes in 3 sizes at 25c, 50c and 90c per bottle.

ARANSAS PASS

Three Months Ago We Had a Good Prospective City—TODAY We Have a Certainty

Owing to the development of the Gulf Coast Country and the great tide of immigration that is flowing this way, commercial interests demand another harbor on the Gulf of Mexico. There are 1,000,000 square miles of the richest country in the world that is tributary territory to the port of Aransas Pass. The United States government has recognized the need of another harbor and has expended $550,000 and $490,000, in addition to the appropriation of $540,000 made three weeks ago.

Three months ago we had a town of two hundred people and 1 railroad

TODAY two more railroads are building into Aransas Pass. A channel is being dredged from the town to the harbor. The terminal railroad is being extended to Harbor Island; this is in preparation for handling the shipping that will soon be coming through this port. A telephone system is being constructed. A $30,000 lumber yard has been started. Contracts have been let for more than 100 buildings. A bank has been organized and a newspaper started.

Ten years ago Seattle was a town of 28,000—today she is a city with 200,000 People. There is not a seaport in the world without its big seaport city

What Scientists Are Doing

A Word of Mystery.

In distributing the prizes to the students of the Bromley School of Science and Art on Saturday, Lord Avebury made, among others, the following notable remarks: Science turned every stone into a philosopher's stone—turned everything into gold. We live in a world of mystery, which we darken rather than explain by the use of a number of terms which we could neither explain nor define. What people knew about nature was infinitesimal, as compared with what they did not know. To compete in commerce without science and modern language was like fighting a battle with bows and arrows against rifles and cannon.

A Turbine Harnessed to Ocean Waves.
A wave motor, the revolving portion of which resembles a turbine in construction and effect, has been installed at the end of a 1,150-foot pier at Atlantic City to generate electricity for the light and power used upon the pier, says the February number of Popular Mechanics in an illustrated article. The motor is claimed to be the first practical commercial application of the irregular but powerful motion of the ocean for the development of electrical power. The motors, of which there are two, rest on a sea floor 12 feet under water.

Getting Rid of Steamship Ashes.

The newest liners now dispose of their ashes by forcing them through the bottom of the hull by means of compressed air. The old method of hoisting them and dumping them overboard was disagreeable to the passengers, and an attempted improvement by which they were mixed with water and pumped was equally so when the wind was in the wrong quarter. In the new "expeller" a hopper receives the ashes and clinkers and delivers them into a crusher, which breaks up the large pieces. Below this a drum revolving in a watertight casing and open as it turns first to the crusher chamber and then to the discharge pipe below. In order to counteract the upward pressure of the water compressed air at about seven pounds to the square inch is delivered to the interior of the ash-filled drum just before its opening comes opposite that in the discharge pipe. Thus the ashes are expelled with such force that they are swept clear of the bottom of the vessel. This expeller will get rid of the ashes and clinkers from forty-eight furnaces under forced draught, amounting to eight or ten tons an hour.

Thought at a Force.

One night into his consulting room rushed a woman, anxious and breathless. "Doctor, look at my baby." There in her arms lay the child, pale, motionless, pulseless. He said, "I am afraid that she has gone, but wait." And he leaned over the child, passed his hands along it, and took hold of its wrists, for how long he did not remember, but it gave a gasp, soon it breathed, and shortly it came around. The mother had brought it a distance of half a mile in an apparently lifeless condition. They could see suggestion in the first two cases, but how in the case of the baby? Where did suggestion come in? They were only just being allowed to recognize thought as a force, but of the forces emanating from them, in connection with them, and around them they were still in the dark. Personally however, they were experiencing enough to make them hope for and expect more.

The bombardment of Los Angeles at night with confetti bombs from a ship in thrillingly described with illustrations in February Popular Mechanics. The aeronaut was Roy Knabenshue and "only once," says the article, "was his presence above the city discovered, and that was when he turned a miniature searchlight on the crowd of people surrounding the City Hall just before dropping bombs among them. The ship started on its journey about 10 o'clock, and twenty minutes later the first bomb was dropped. After 'blowing up' the City Hall and the greater part of the business district, Knabenshue made a trip about the residence portions of the city, traveling in all about eighteen miles. The trip lasted about one hour and thirty minutes. The test was considered conclusive that a fleet of airships could easily destroy a city without danger to the aerial fighters themselves."

Earthquakes and Volcanoes.

Volcanic regions are pre-eminently the regions of those minor jars

which are termed earth tremors, and they are also prone to the destructive visitations of the larger earth movement or true earthquake. With hardly an exception every region of active volcanoes is also region of more or less destructive earthquake. In such regions there are frequent rock readjustments, many of which follow necessarily upon the work of steam and other explosive gases. But because the active volcanic region is also an active region of earthquake, it does not follow that the most destructive earthquake must necessarily be an association of volcanic outburst in the region of its occurrence.

Submarine Rescuing Vessel.

The German navy has recently provided a new type of vessel for rescuing submarines from the bottom of the sea, says the February Popular Mechanics in an illustrated article.

An opening in the bow of the vessel runs clear through to the stern. The ship is run directly over the submarine and chains are made fast. The central mechanism raises the submarine until it rests above water on bars which bridge the open space. Repairs are immediately begun, and after they are completed the submarine is allowed to drop into the water again.

Mentioned by Herodotus.

Important excavations in progress at Memphis, the ancient Egyptian city, have just been described by Prof. Flinders Petrie in a lecture at Rome. The Temple of the Foreigners, mentioned by Herodotus, has been discovered, and a large number of prayer tablets has been found under the latter building of the Temple of Ptah. In one large building that was opened there was much sculpture of a little-known kind named Siamese. To recover all the monuments of Memphis, it is calculated that it will occupy the excavating labors of 500 workers for twenty years.

Flag-Waving Signals Displaced.

The old-fashioned flag-waving signals, which are read almost as easily by the enemy from behind as by those for whom the messages are intended, may probably soon be displaced in the English army by an apparatus patented by Colonel B. R. Dietz, of the Seventh Dragoon Guards. The invention consists of a combination of black and white discs which can be so operated as to display an entirely white or an entirely black surface. The "longs" and "shorts" of the Morse code are made readable by changing from black to white and vice versa.

Another Illustration.

A man had got into a depressed condition; sleepless, melancholy; something or somebody told him that he must destroy himself. He (the speaker) said to him, "Do not fight against the feelings, and the voices and suggestions; but, as if you were talking to something or somebody beyond yourself, say, 'All right, come along; do your worst, you cannot do me any harm. I am going to sleep, I have a power within me much stronger than you, so I do not care.'" He came about four times.

Adjustable Horn Bell.

A horn with an adjustable bell which controls the volume of sound and throws it in any direction desired is one of the novelties described in the February Popular Mechanics. When being played in a parade the bells can be turned toward the marching men, thus throwing the sound further along the marching line, and for concert purposes the bells can be so arranged as to secure a greater solidity and balance of tone. The bells are detachable as well as adjustable. The article is illustrated.

Removing Splinter With Steam.

A splinter that has been driven into the flesh can be removed by the aid of steam. Secure a wide-mouthed bottle, and fill it nearly full of hot water, place the injured part over the bottle's mouth and press slightly, says National Magazine. The action thus produced will draw the flesh down and in a minute or two the steam will extract the splinter, also the inflammation.—February Popular Mechanics.

Treating Electric Burns.

An article on the treatment of electric burns appears in the February number of Popular Mechanics, accompanied by a number of illustrations, which, though horrible in appearance, are very interesting. It is said these burns are not particularly bad if properly cared for.

Science Versus Nature.

Science, in spite of its magnificent progress, can not prevent earthquakes, but it can—and must—create the sort of architecture which, in case of catastrophes, will minimize the number of victims.—Gaulois du Dimanche, Paris.

There's money in this house for the buyer, and in many houses which I have to sell. There's money in them, either as homes or as property investment.

THE SPRING GILLET.

It is never the same as a shooting trip. Some the water.
Marked changes occur in a bullet fired from a gun after it has been acted upon by the force of the explosion in the barrel. Its surface has become clean, bright and highly polished by the removal of the superficial layers of the sheath, and its temperature has been raised both by the friction against the barrel and by the enkindled gas. Because of this rise in temperature it is thoroughly sterilized and totally destitute of bacteria. Standing behind a twelve inch gun one can easily follow the flight of the projectile with the naked eye.

Under favorable circumstances and with the aid of a telescope it is possible to catch a glimpse of even the small bore bullet as it flashes through the air. Photographs, or, rather, shadowgraphs, of the .311 inch bullet traveling with a speed of over 2,000 feet a second show the cap of condensed gas, about one-tenth of an inch thick, which clothes the nose of a projectile when it is in rapid motion through a gaseous medium. Minute rotating spheres of gas showing motion remain behind and mark the path of the bullet. These lines and eddies result forcibly the bow and stern waves made by a ship in motion and the numerous little whirlpools that may be seen in the wake. —Chicago News.

RESCUE WORK AT SEA.

Quick Time in Launching and Man-ning the Big Lifeboats.

Aboard an ocean liner the other day several officers were talking about the length of time required to launch and man one of the large lifeboats that swing from davits sixty feet above the sea. It was agreed that a boat can be lowered with its crew and get away from the ship in two minutes in anything like decent weather.

An instance was related where a man had fallen from the liner while she was speeding 14 knots. The alarm was sounded, a boat lowered and the swimmer rescued after a considerable row back over the course to where he was floundering about. The crew had the rescued individual back to the ship with the boat in its chocks in just seventeen minutes, which is regarded a most creditable performance. There was no ice on the rope falls to hamper the work and everything worked smoothly or the boat would have been much longer on its mission.

A steamship of 10,000 tons when going at full speed has momentum sufficient to carry her at least two miles after the engines are stopped, providing the sea is fairly quiet. Crews of lifeboats frequently have hard work cut out for them while going to a rescue before the headway of their vessel has been stopped. —Boston Herald.

The True American Virtue.

The thing whereby America really towers over the old country is the thing which Jefferson reared and Washington defended. The solid good of America is that when all is said and done she is a republic, a public thing and a people representing itself. There are men rich enough and strong enough, almost, to starve America, but there are no men strong enough to silence America. No oligarchy acts as an entirely false interpreter between Americans and the world. America and the Americans may be right or wrong. But England may actually be wrong while Englishmen are right. We have said, then, that the true American virtue is this candid and complete democracy, the fact that the truth may be told even if it is not believed. —Hampton's Magazine.

Wise to Their Habits.

"Excuse me, ma'am," said the book canvasser to the lady who had opened the door in answer to his ring, "but if you have a few moments to spare I'd like to show you the great work on the 'Habits of Savage Animals.'"
"No use wasting your time, young man," replied the female. "I've been married three times and know all about their habits." —Chicago News.

Not Well Named.

"Now, where did I lay my rat, I wonder?" fretted Mrs. Trouseau.
"Your rat?" said her husband.
"Do you mean that stuffy thing you put on your head?"
"Of course!"
"I'm sure I don't know, my dear. But why call it a rat? Rabbit would be better. It would sound more like real hair." —Lippincott's.

Not Implicated.

"But, my lord," he said it was "im what stole the 'orse."
"What were his exact words? Did he say, 'I stole the horse'?"
"Oh, no, my lord! Your lordship's name was never mentioned!" —London Scraps.

A Ready Example.

Sapleigh—Queer fellows, these poets. There's the one, for instance, who speaks on "an aching void." Now, how can there be an aching void? Miss Blunt—Have you never had a headache, Mr. Sapleigh? —Boston Transcript.

Valueless.

Fifty Young Thing—I'd like to pre-pay the express on this package. Express Company's Agent—What's the value? Fifty Young Thing—Nothing, sir. It's a bundle of letters. I'm sending them back to him. —Chicago Tribune.

Whoever pays you more court than he is accustomed to pay either intends to deceive you or finds you necessary to him. —Courtney.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Pretty Finger Nails.

It will take only about $1.00 to purchase the few articles necessary for manicuring the nails. Unless the nails are clean and well shaped the hands are unattractive, for these are days when a careful woman looks well to the condition of her hands. A complete outfit consists of scissors, knife, buffer, pliable file, orange stick, emery boards, nail salve, polish and pumice stone. Despite the fact that silver and steel files are very useful and ornamental, women today are buying a file almost as thin as paper, which is pliable and more easily handled and in almost all cases is preferred to other kinds. They are a quarter.

Cheese Cookery.

Fashion decrees that Somerset canapes may be served as an appetizer at the first course of a formal luncheon or dinner; or they may take the place of sandwiches at a reception. Cut white bread which is about twenty-four hours old in one-fourth-inch slices and shape with a small oblong cutter with rounded corners; if one is not at hand, cut in any desired shape. Cream butter, add an equal quantity of soft cheese, and work until thoroughly blended; then season with salt. Spread on bread and garnish with a one-fourth inch border of finely chopped olives. Garnish the center of each with a small piece of red or green pepper cut in any fancy shape.

Cheese crackers are very appropriately passed with a salad course of dressed lettuce, or may accompany a soup, unless it be of especially distinctive flavor that does not seem "to go well" with cheese. Arrange thin, unsweetened wafers in a pan, and sprinkle generously with grated cheese and sparingly with salt. Bake in a moderate oven until the cheese has melted.

A cream of cheese soup is very delicate and nutritious and may well be placed among the emergency dishes. Scald one quart of milk with two tablespoonfuls each of onion and carrot cut in small pieces, and a blade of mace. Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until well blended; then pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, the hot milk. Bring to the boiling point and strain. Add one-half cupful of grated mild cheese and stir until the cheese has melted. Season with salt and pepper and add the yolks of two eggs, beaten slightly. Serve with croutons, duchess crusts or imperial sticks.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks will meet every Tuesday evening at 7:30 over City National Bank. All members are urged to attend. All Elks welcome.

Hicks' Story.
It was in 1947 that Hicks first made a county name as a witty raconteur. In that year Sir Samuel Spry, who had been member for Bodmin since the great reform bill, lost his seat and in a petulant mood took legal proceedings against Hicks on the ground that he had abused his official position to influence voters at the poll. In the course of the trial Hicks was called upon to state what he had to say in his defense. In the course of his statement he asked leave of the court to illustrate his position by a story. His request being assented to, he related how a few days previously he had been to see a lad whom he knew well who was laid up from a fall from a vicious donkey, which had kicked out all his front teeth. The lad, said Hicks, had taken the matter in the most kindly way and had said to him, "Tisn't the fall, Mr. Hicks, and 'tisn't the valley of the teeth what annoys me, but 'tis the nasty, ghastly, wretched disposition of the jackass." Sir Samuel Spry sprang up in the well of the court in a fury and exclaimed, "He has called me a jackass!" The court was convulsed with laughter, and Hicks was promptly and fully acquitted of the trumped-up charge brought against him.—Cornhill Magazine.

Great Wars From Trifles.
Great wars, pregnant with bloodshed and all the horrors accruing thereto, have very often been the outcome of trifling incidents which might, had they been treated properly, have been smoothed over and the slaughter averted. More often was this the case in earlier times than it is now. Every one knows that William the Conqueror lost his life in France through his horse treading on a red-hot cinder while he was superintending the burning of Mantes, but few people know the fact which gave rise to the campaign that cost William his life.
During the latter part of his reign he became abnormally stout and consequently the laughingstock of not only his subjects, but his neighbors across the water. One day his contemporary, Philip of France, compared him to a fillet of veal on casters and suggested that he should be exhibited at a prize monarch show. This so enraged William that he straightway made war upon his neighbor, and the loss of thousands of lives was the result.—London Tit-Bits.

Gestures Part of Talk.
There is a man who from a very early age has lived in countries where Spanish is the almost universal tongue. From force of this training he speaks Spanish perfectly. He has not the slightest trace of an English accent, and persons who do not know that he is of American parentage are willing to believe he is a Spaniard, merely from hearing him talk. He is so perfectly bilingual that it shows even in his gestures. When talking with English speaking persons he sits quietly and does his conversing with his mouth alone. Only in case of making a point most emphatically does he use a gesture. But the moment he drops into Spanish his every word is accompanied by a movement of the hands or arms. It is interesting to watch the change from the English to the Spanish side of him, because it comes so suddenly. He really can't speak Spanish without gesturing.—New York Sun.

Some Slang Words.
A remarkable fact is that many slang words have a classical origin. For example, the word "mill," a vulgarism for a fight, is traceable to the Greek word "hamilla," which means a combat.
"Uncle," the affectionate term for a pawnbroker, is derived from the Latin "uncus," a hook on which the article pledged was hung.
To go before "the beak" is a distinct reference to the old Roman custom of adorning the platform from which justice dispensed with the beaks of ships, which platform came to be called the rostrum, that being the Latin for a beak or prow.

Crusel.
The rich bachelor sighed and looked at the beautiful girl fixedly. "Things are at sixes and sevens with me. I feel the great need of a woman in my home, one who could straighten out my tangled affairs and make life worth living again." Her glance spoke an interest which approximately expectation. "Yes?" she queried softly. He blurted out, "Do you know of any good, able-bodied woman whom I could get to clean house?"—Argonaut.

A Sure Scheme.
Young Wife—I am determined to learn at what hour my husband comes home at nights. Yet do what I will I cannot keep awake, and he is always careful not to make a particle of noise. Is there any drug which produces wakefulness? Old Wife—No need to buy drugs. Sprinkle the floor with tacks.

Aristocratic Fowls.
"Do animals have their social customs and institutions?"
"I presume so. I have no doubt that the geese have their descendants of the cacklers who saved Rome."—Puck.

His Specialty.
Friend—That new gardener seems to be a very hard worker. Suburbanite—Yes, that's his specialty. Friend—What? Working? Suburbanite—No, weeding.—Town Topics.

Oil of Bergamot.
The world's supply of oil of bergamot comes from a comparatively small part of Calabria, in the extreme south of Italy, fronting on the strait of Messina.

GOOD CLOTHES

YOU ARE INVITED

to attend the opening of our good clothes show. We've brought together the finest lot of exhibits you ever saw under one roof, and we want you to see them for your own sake as well as for ours. Our star exhibit is a great display of ::

Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

Fine spring and summer clothes. We make a specialty of these celebrated goods because we want to render the best possible service to our customers, and there's no better way to do it than to provide such clothes as these which Hart, Schaffner & Marx make for us. The new models are very stylish; the late new fabrics are showing many smart patterns and colorings. The fit and tailoring in these garments are perfect. You must be sure to see them—SUITS FROM $10 to $40

The Trade Cigar and Napoleon

If Napoleon had been a cigar maker he would have missed Waterloo and exile, but he would also have missed a greatness and glory that will live as long as English, French or any other tongue is a living or dead language. This is no historical essay, but a reminder that we are wont to claim the "TRADE CIGAR" the Napoleon among cigars.

The "Trade Cigar" Made by JOHN ROBERTSON

cigar maker, who for more than nine years has been in continuous business on one street, in fact the second oldest firm on Ohio Avenue, goes to prove, if naught else, that we are "stayers" and "doers" too. Our friends have told us we were too partial to the great Corsican, have in conversation and in advertisement alluded to him too much. (But, if you can't be great yourself, the next best thing is to be the associate of great men. To be mediocre is the privilege of all men, to be great the ability of few. It is easy to grow five feet, difficult to grow seven. Miss reading of Waterloo, miss smoking the "TRADE CIGAR" and you've lost the best and who is so great a loser as he who misses the best.

New Spring Clothing Styles.

J. H. Pellett, the tailor, over Tullis' paint shop, has just received a new line of spring clothing styles, and has 160 patterns to select from. In addition to his tailoring business, he has also put in a line of ready-to-wear suits for men and boys, and is prepared to meet the prices of other clothing dealers. He solicits and will appreciate your patronage, and guarantees satisfaction. 269-3tc
