Roosevelt Plans Part For Women In War Industry

Date Not Set, But May Be Soon, As Board Has Discussed Frequently

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt disclosed Friday that, in connection with studies for mobilization of man power for war industries, the government was considering voluntary registration for all women 18 to 65 years old.

Probably within a week, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, some decision will be reached on how to go about channeling man power into war jobs.

One difficulty in registering women, he asserted at a press conference, is inherent in the number of persons who would come forward to enroll. This would create mechanical difficulties, he said, remarking that the preparation of cards alone would be a tremendous task.

A cabinet committee which has been tussling with the problem of channeling men into war production activities thus far has made only an oral report, the Chief Executive said. But the question is discussed, he added, at nearly every cabinet meeting.

One of the real problems is setting up the machinery, after it is determined what is to be done with available man power, Mr. Roosevelt explained, lies in a determination whether a completely new governmental agency should be created or whether there should merely be some central supervision of a great many governmental agencies already engaged in allocating and using man and woman power.

Cliff H. Day Is Speaker At Farm Meeting Here

"The American farmers are facing the biggest job they have ever faced in history. Besides feeding America during the national emergency, the American farmers are going to have to help feed many other starving countries for the duration," said Cliff H. Day, a senior administrative officer for the AAA, at a meeting in the Midland County court house Thursday night.

"The American farmers are going to have to produce many things that normally were imported since shipping lanes are partially closed to importing and exporting. But scientific and thoughtful methods must be employed while producing for the great cause," he continued.

Day explained that scientific methods for producing more on the same amount of land are now being used, and the farmer must not try to expand over more land which might be a burden to him later. Day urged farmers to take advantage of present farm programs and methods which have set a scale for the farmer and industry.

"Parity prices have been put into effect by the government, and the farmer is receiving his best prices for products in twenty years. It has all come through the AAA and other farm programs, and the farmers must back those programs and use those methods if the present prices are to continue," Day said.

Allies Watch For Next Jap Attack; Fear For Siberia

British Losses Heavy In Sea Battles With Japs In Indian Ocean

By Roger D. Greene Associated Press War Editor

Corregidor's big guns still blazed defiance in Manila Bay Friday, and the Japanese reported at 6:50 a. m. Eastern War Time, that hostilities were continuing on Bataan Peninsula itself, despite previous assertions that Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's heroic defenders had "begged" for a truce.

Domel, the Japanese news agency, said Japanese vanguards were pressing forward against American and Filipino positions on the Peninsula and had captured the towns of Limay and Lamao on the east coast, capturing several thousand prisoners.

Blows at British

Coinciding with the news that Gen. Wainwright's met still battled grimly on—24 hours after the War Department in Washington conceded the probability that they had been overcome—Japan claimed heavy new blows against British sea power in the Indian Ocean.

Imperial Tokyo headquarters asserted that Japanese naval and air forces Thursday sank the 10,850-ton British aircraft carrier Hermes, two cruisers, a destroyer, a patrol vessel and six other ships in an attack off Trincomalee.

Trincomalee is a big British naval station on Ceylon, just off the southern tip of India.

The Japanese communique said another British cruiser was heavily damaged and 52 planes destroyed.

In London, the Admiralty acknowledged that the aircraft carrier Hermes had been sunk in an aerial attack 10 miles off Ceylon, but declared that the Japanese claim of having sunk two additional cruisers "is known to be quite untrue."

A Tokyo communique Thursday said two other British cruisers, identified in London as the 10,000-ton Cornwall and the 9,975-ton Dorsetshire, had been sent to the bottom in the Indian Ocean. This claim the British confirmed, but Allied Indian planes were declared to have straddled a Japanese aircraft carrier with high explosives Thursday somewhere off the Ceylon coast.

Earthquake Hits Bataan

As an added fillip of nightmare shock to the American and Filipino soldiers, Japanese dispatches said a violent earthquake rocked the whole peninsula during the final stages of the battle, collapsing Filipino huts and starting landslides.

But after asserting that the men of Bataan had "begged for a halt in hostilities after six days of fierce Japanese assault," the Japanese acknowledged that Gen. Wainwright's troops continued to fight Friday.

Domel indicated the island stronghold of Corregidor, one of four United States fortresses in Manila Bay, was under heavy bombardment.

The news agency said Japanese bombers twice attacked Corregidor Thursday, dropping tons of explosives and setting fires which spread "huge columns of smoke" over Manila Bay.

Despite their gallant, last-ditch stand, military observers virtually conceded that the battle of Luzon was over, and speculation immediately arose as to the next target of Japan's far-flung march of conquest.

Warns East Coast To Watch For Men Landed From Subs

BOSTON, (AP) — New Englanders Friday faced a warning from Major General Sherman Miles that "an attempt may be made to land enemy agents from Axis submarines operating off our shores."

An alert issued by Miles, commander of the First Army Corps area, asked the citizens to aid in detecting any landings.

"Such agents would carefully avoid attracting attention but may betray themselves through their unfamiliarity with the locality," his alert read.

"If you see a strange face in an unlikely spot and have sound reason to believe the person is acting suspiciously, notify your local police at once."

"But good judgment and common sense should govern your actions in this matter and you should be careful not to start a spy scare or a witch-hunt."

Predict Russian Victory In 1942; Supplies Are Reaching Red Armies

KUIBYSHEV, Russia (AP) — The Red Army will liquidate the German Army in Russia in 1942, S. A. Lovosky, Soviet Vice Commissar for Foreign Affairs told his press conference Friday, adding that United States supplies are reaching the Russian forces and being "used to make Nazi corpses."

Asked how United States supplies are arriving, Lovosky, official press spokesman, "all sorts of things for war" are being received "but precisely in what quantities is a secret."

British and Axis troops fought with increasing violence on the North African desert Friday, while on the Soviet front, Vichy radio reports via Stockholm said Red Army troops had crossed the frontier into White Russia and were continuing their advance.

The drive into White Russia, a Soviet republic, was said to have taken place in a sector 75 miles northwest of Smolensk, between Vitebsk and Nevel.

The Vichy radio, quoting German news agency dispatches, also reported mounting Soviet pressure in the Oreil and Kharkov sectors, south of Moscow, and around Sevastopol, the long-besieged Russian naval base in the Crimea.

Nazi Admit Defeat

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged heavy Red Army attacks on the Kerch Peninsula in the Crimea, but declared they had been repulsed and that Nazi gunners had knocked 82 Russian tanks out of action.

In North Africa, British headquarters reported that British troops in the renewed Libyan desert fighting had attacked two Axis columns and set tanks on fire.

Italy's high command said new clashes between British and Axis vanguards "resulted again to our complete advantage," and the German communique reported several British armored cars and guns destroyed or captured in the desert warfare.

The German account told of continued day and night assaults on bomb-battered Malta, British stronghold in the Mediterranean, which has experienced more than 2,000 air-raids alarms.

In Russia, Soviet dispatches told of renewed bloody slaughter of German reserves, reporting 5,670 Nazi killed. Two German divisions counter-attacking on the Kalinin front—the broad, general region northwest of Moscow—were reported routed after a fierce battle.

Axis Navy Growing In Sea Power

Axis Fear Land Force Fading, To Drive For Supremacy Air, Sea

LONDON — (AP) — The United States and Great Britain face a desperate battle in the next three months to maintain dominion of the seas because of steady Axis progress in picking off key bases throughout the world, an informed Naval observer said Friday.

Bataan's conquest fits into the Axis pattern since it raises the imminent possibility that Manila Bay will be opened up to aid Japan's lunge toward India and the threatened junction with Germany somewhere in the Near East, this source declared.

"We must face the facts," he said gravely. "The Japanese, German, and Italian fleets are nearing numerical superiority. If they have not yet achieved it,

"Every Allied loss, such as the sinking of the British cruisers Dorsetshire and Cornwall in the Bay of Bengal, cuts whatever edge we have in guns and ships.

"The great naval bases on which Anglo-American sea supremacy rests either have been captured, attacked, or are continually menaced by adroit Axis use of combined air and sea power."

The Axis opportunity to take over the French fleet was described by this source as "too good to miss." He believed it would be seized and combined with the Italian navy to support an Axis offensive against Egypt and points east, and thus prepare the way for a blow at Russia's Caucasian flank.

Jones Gives Meyer A Good Shaking, Resents Editorials In Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Evening Star said Friday that Secretary of Commerce Jones Thursday night shook Eugene Meyer, editor and publisher of the Washington Post, so that Meyer's glasses fell to the floor and were shattered.

The action took place at a meeting of the Altala Club, one of Washington's oldest and most prominent good-fellowship organizations, which was held at the New Willard Hotel.

The Star said Jones was leaving the gathering to keep a dinner engagement and as he walked toward an exit he met Meyer.

"Mr. Jones," the paper said, "addressing some words that come from deep in the heart of Texas, to Mr. Meyer, then took him by both shoulders and shook him. Mr. Meyer's glasses fell to the floor and shattered. Several observers, thinking at first that Mr. Jones and Mr. Meyer were merely over-enthusiastic in their greetings, smiled happily at the good fellowship this displayed—for they are old friends. But with the tinkle of Mr. Meyer's glasses on the floor, others sensed that action was needed. It came in a rush of friends to separate the gentlemen and lead them to widely separated seats."

Fourth Cadet Class To Start Monday

The enlisted personnel of the Bombardier College has almost reached capacity and no more troops are expected in the near future.

WAR BULLETINS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Lieutenant-General Jonathan M. Wainwright reported to President Roosevelt Friday from Corregidor that "our flag on this beleaguered island fortress still flies."

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The War Department reported Friday that American torpedo boats sank a Japanese cruiser off Cebu in the central Philippines but that on the Bataan Peninsula fighting apparently had ceased.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Navy reported Friday that a torpedo accidentally discharged from a motor torpedo boat in Narragansett Bay struck the U.S.S. Capella, a 4,070-ton Naval cargo vessel, Thursday afternoon. There was slight damage.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts)—(AP)—Japanese front line dispatches from Bataan Peninsula reported Friday that Lieut. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright has assembled a few small transport ships at Los Cochinos in an attempt to evacuate American and Filipino troops to Corregidor fortress, five miles across Manila Bay. "Japanese naval units however, are operating at the entrance to the Bay in order to destroy this last chance of retreat," the dispatches added.

How You Can Keep Up

Not so long ago a favorite American sport was "keeping up with the Joneses." The only rule required participants to drive as shiny an automobile, dress as snappily and in every way present as sharp an appearance as the neighbors. This was great for persons with things to sell, but a bit rough on pa's pocketbook.

Now is the time to revive the old game, but with quite different rules. This time you will be setting the pace, not attempting to catch up with the Joneses. Make them get up and hustle to catch you as you go all-out for Uncle Sam. Here are some little things which, if done well and regularly, will put you in the home army front rank.

1. Turn over to the proper authorities all scrap metals, rags, paper, rubber, glass and tinfoil.
2. Send books, playing cards, cookies and candy to some man in the service.
3. Make it a smiling farewell for friends or relatives called to the colors.
4. Clean your attic of inflammables, select a refuge room and place minimum fire-fighting equipment conveniently.
5. Take extra good care of woolen and rubber goods, and household articles.
6. Don't hoard anything.
7. Put your family and yourself on a definite health program.
8. Carry packages home to save rubber and paper.
9. Buy as many war bonds and stamps as possible.
10. Participate in civilian defense activities and register as a blood donor.
11. Keep constant check on parts of your car and double up with neighbors in use of cars.
12. Keep your mouth shut so far as the spreading of rumors is concerned.
13. Make "Quiet please," the motto of your household. A war worker may be trying to sleep.
14. Put that extra push in your job. Enough such pushes will pulverize the enemy.
15. Shelve that sourpuss for the duration. Be cheerful.

It isn't much to turn the radio down, but if you don't, some worker may miss the sleep he needs to help win the battle of production. Certainly all can spend a few hours a week learning to protect our homes. Nor will the denial of a few frills wreck your social life, and it will buy bonds.

No, those 15 items would hardly qualify anyone following them for a martyr's monument in the cemetery, or a pretty medal. If every family, beginning right now, would make those 15 points "must," however, the combined strength of such a home front army would prove a great force and inspiration for the men on the war fronts.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Kathleen Eiland

Hats off in salute to the defenders of Bataan—fighting a losing fight in a way that will forever make them triumphant victors wherever men are judged by gallantry and never-say-die determination.

There is a war to be fought and won. It has to be fought—now—and it must be won. A certain amount of hate will inevitably go into the fight and the winning.

But the corroding hate that would annihilate entire nations including the non-combatant women and children—because they happen to be our enemies for the time being—we say that hate is in contradiction to everything America stands for. And for the American people to harbor that kind of hate is to deny, to that degree, the humane and Christian principles which we are supposed to be fighting to preserve.

Much is said of a peace-after-victory—a peace that will make justice and truth and freedom supreme in the world. No such peace can be made by The United Nations if they "lose their souls" through over-much hate during the winning.

It's a great time for freezing—practically everything from typewriters to milady's silhouette. Newest news in fashion realms is that certain restrictions are put on clothing—so that no radical changes will play havoc with dress material supplies.

Take for instance, the freezing of skirt lengths. Well, perhaps half-freezing or semi-freezing would be a better term, since the skirts may be made shorter or tighter but not longer or fuller.

We never dreamed we'd see the day, but since the government is taking a hand in telling how wo-

Impossible To Help Bataan; Must Strike At Hitler As First Big Move

By DeWitt MacKenzie
Wide World War Analyst

Now that the blow of Bataan has fallen it may be well—lest there be a feeling that aid ought to have been sent to our beleaguered forces—to emphasize that there has been no possible way of relieving them.

That fact long has been patent, but there has been a general reluctance—to discuss such an unhappy situation in detail. For one thing such talk lends comfort and possible aid to the enemy. Then, too, there always has been the faint hope that the defense might hold out until some fortuitous circumstances gave our forces a break.

I raise the subject now because queries I have been getting indicate that a lot of folks haven't wholly understood the position. It may ease minds to know that everything apparently has been done which could be done, since the outbreak of the war.

Japs Control Sea

The Japs have controlled the sea and air about the Philippines. We have lacked the striking power to break through that blockade at such a vast distance from our home bases, for it would have required great naval and air forces which weren't available.

It's true that recently we have established considerable fighting strength in Australia, and that this strength is being augmented. But it's equally true that we couldn't have utilized this base if the Nipponese had controlled the air and waters about Australia as they do about the Philippines.

In short, we haven't sent to Australia anything which could have been got into the hands of our men on Bataan as they wrote an indelible chapter of glory in American history.

While we are on the subject of Allied weakness in the Southwest Pacific it may be useful to warn against big expectations of a major offensive by our forces in the near future. We are employing increasing initiative, but it will be a long time before we are able to undertake big-scale attacks. Meanwhile our operations must be more or less what they have been on Bataan—defensive.

This column ventured the view long ago that when we finally smash the Japs we shall do it largely by direct attack on Japan proper from the air. There will be naval and land operations, of course, but there will be no necessity of going through the arduous preliminary of reconquer-ing each of the territories which Nippon has annexed. When we have blasted Tokyo and Osaka and other great cities sufficiently, the Japs will be glad to give up their ill-gotten gains in order to escape punishment.

There are numerous ways in which we shall be able to get at Japan from the air when the time comes, all depending on the circumstances of the moment. It can be done when we have the resources.

Meanwhile, it is increasingly and urgently apparent that apart from holding in the Orient, we must devote the greater part of our energy to the key theater of the whole war, and that is the Russo-German battle-ground. Hitler is getting set for the greatest effort he has yet made.

He is sowing dragon's teeth with both hands, and vast armies are springing up. The Muscovites tell us that already he is flinging fresh equipment—including warplanes and tanks made in the past few weeks—into the lines in an effort to improve his position for the coming drive.

I have been asked frequently of late whether it looks as though the Reds can hold the German war-machine. The answer is that they probably can do the holding if we can furnish enough warplanes and tanks and other badly needed equipment. And if Hitler can be held through the summer, his goose is cooked.

Presumably this crisis is what has taken Chief of Staff Marshall to London. There is not a moment to lose in rushing equipment to the European theater. It may even be that we shall be called on to aid in the opening up of a new front in Western Europe. In any event, this life or death affair with Hitler must be settled before we can stage any major offensive in the Orient.

  2. President Roosevelt and Congress have been talking a lot about "Sea Otters." Are they referring to one of our fur-bearing animals?
  3. Lieut. Gen A. G. L. McNaughton warned that the Japs might attack Panama or Alaska. Is he a top officer in the American, Australian, Canadian or British army?

Rev. Copeland Is Speaker At Thursday Evening Session

Closing sessions of the Methodist Northwest Texas Conference of Woman's Society of Christian Service opened at the First Methodist Church, Friday morning...

Evangelism is not a part of the church life: it is the church life. It is that desire of the church to make new disciples for Jesus...

Evangelism in this hour is what it has been heretofore but faces new obstacles, he said, naming these as the "deep and abiding hate psychology," apathy toward the "lostness" of sinners, the retrenchment scare, and the usual propaganda deluge.

He pointed out however that evangelism also faces new opportunities for the need is greater now and people are thinking. Evangelism needs a resurrected purpose and a resurrected passion, he declared.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. C. A. Bickley, presiding officer. A special anthem and solo were presented and prayer was offered by the Rev. W. C. Hinds, former pastor of the Midland Methodist Church, now of Amarillo.

Christian Must Be Prepared To Face Trial And Hardship

1 Now after these things the Lord appointed seventy others, and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place, whither he himself was about to come.

2 And he said unto them, The harvest indeed is plenteous, but the laborers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he send forth laborers into his harvest.

3 Go your ways; behold, I send you forth as lambs in the midst of wolves.—Luke 10.

By R. A. Weaver. The conditions upon which the Lord Jesus invited people into His program and His kingdom were strict and disciplinary.

Christ presented His program as one in which the members are sent forth as lambs in the midst of wolves; the going forth to face death, ignominy, persecution and infamy. It was the supreme crusade to battle and destroy the forces of evil and to overcome the world.

It seems to me that in no time of history has there been the need of loyal, enthusiastic and sacrificial service in the cause of Christ as today. Everywhere one may see decadence, death and decay stalking abroad to destroy culture, civilization and the life that is the Way and the Truth.

It is the question that each Christian must face today and decide if he requires a steadfast and loyal devotion to the cause of Christ. Unless this challenge is faced and accepted we have no part in His ministry.

How definite is this pronouncement of our Lord, as He expects to take up the great task of bringing the life more abundant into a world torn and wrecked with strife, wars and destruction.

In a recent article James Hilton said in part: "Europe a few years ago was full of people worrying far more about their possessions than about their freedom; and the result, as Somerset Maugham pertinently remarks, is that they promptly lost both. We in the United States have the chance to learn from that tragic lesson—to realize that in the years to come values will count higher than prices, services more than hopes of material reward."

We in America must learn now the true values of life. There is no better evaluation of the ways of life, and the issues thereof than that given by our Lord and Master. This truth is readily seen in the collapse of society in those nations who have deserted and desecrated the ideals of Jesus. History through all the ages substantiates this fact.

It seems to me that in no time of history has there been the need of loyal, enthusiastic and sacrificial service in the cause of Christ as today. Everywhere one may see decadence, death and decay stalking abroad to destroy culture, civilization and the life that is the Way and the Truth.

attack," has been used wherever possible by the Axis to sink isolated Allied flotillas and heavy units, he declared, and added:
Axis Save Ships
 "The great surface units of the Nazis, the battleship Tirpitz, and the battle cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, the Italian battle squadron, and the entire Japanese first battle line are being husbanded carefully against the day when the Axis forces major sea battles in both the Pacific and Atlantic."

The Axis, he said, counts on victory in these forthcoming battles because of greater air power, fresh crews, and the time factor in the American armament production.

"Victory would mean the virtual closing of all the important maritime communications among Russia and the United Nations across the Atlantic, through the Indian Ocean and around the North Cape."

"The Germans learned a lot of lessons from the first World War. Not the least was at Jutland. They believe that the battle there decided the fate of the old German Empire, but that the new Jutland, to be fought off Norway, New York, or Calcutta, will defeat the British Empire and confine the American war effort to North America."

Change War Plan
 Axis world strategy, he continued, up to now has been based on the Nazi idea of geopolitics. This held that land power, plus air power, could conquer Europe and nullify American and British sea-power.

But Nazi reverses in Russia, the constant stream of Allied troops to Australia, the Middle East and Britain, and the prodigious scale of Allied material aid to Russia, have demonstrated that sea-power is a necessary adjunct to any plan for world conquest.

CHAPTER XV

MEXICAN MASQUERADE

BY CECIL CARNES

ASIA—EXPLAINED

CHAPTER XV

RESCUE party of one?"

Allan stared at Escobar unbelieve-ingly. "Exactly." The colonel of rurales bowed.

"Good man! How did you do it?"

"Very easily. I took advantage of the ebb tide to float down here in a small fast launch, its engine still. I guided it to the eastern shore of this island—the side opposite from the guards' quarters —and drew its nose up on the beach unseen and unheard. If you'll go to your rooms and get the fewest things you need—"

They were out of the room before he had finished. In a minute,

Kay and Allan were back. The Escobar was not. Escobar looked at his watch and fidgeted.

"The moon is coming up right now," he said with a frown.

"Devil take the fellow, is he packing a trunk? Where is he?"

The answer came with awful clarity. It came in a series of staccato explosions from the eastern shore as a gasoline engine was cranked into life. Escobar suddenly exploded, too, as if in sympathy.

"My launch!" he cried. "That son of a female frog!"

He dashed from the house and sprinted in the direction of the shore, leaving a trail of sulphurous Spanish in his wake. Allan and Kay, speechless from disappointment, followed more slowly.

Escobar when he overtook him was standing on the shore looking at a man in a launch. De Fontanelle had shut off the engine and was drifting in a patch of moonlight 50 yards out. He waved to them jauntily.

"So sorry," he called. "It is my duty, you see, to prevent any prisoners from escaping! My sympathy—and good night."

He put his boat in motion, heading for the main island. Escobar recovered his poise with an effort the others could almost feel.

"So! As you Americans would say, we never have M de Fontanelle's numeral! Not a 'very good friend,' senorita, but a member of the Japanese company placed on this island to spy on you."

"I just can't believe it!" said

Kay miserably. "He was—the seemed so nice!"

"Nobody is what he seems any more," commented Escobar, playing his favorite theme. "Which reminds me, Senor Steele: I have no wish to pry into your affairs too deeply, but were you by any chance depending on Sun Su to get you out of this—er—dilemma?"

"Well—yes. Frankly, I was."

"In that case I have bad news for you. Sun Su's hotel was burned to the ground two nights after you left. Apparently by a gang of bandits who have since vanished. Sun

Su himself was shot and killed while fleeing the building."

"Holy crow! Allan selected a smooth boulder and sat on it, his knees a trifle shaky. "Bandits!

Who were they, Escobar?"

"Ah, who shall say? At all events, I'll miss Sun Su. He was just a plain, old-fashioned crook and cutthroat. He was chief of a smuggling ring—probably killed by confederates whom he double-crossed. Also, he was on the payroll of this Japanese fishing company, in just what capacity I don't know."

"It was his job to catch suckers," said Allan, wincing.

SEVERAL things were clear to him now. Sun Su had tipped off the Japs as to where they could trap him on a pine-topped hill.

Sun Su had similarly betrayed

Harry Bishop to the enemy. Sun

Su had made no difficulty, naturally, when his good friend Asia had asked him for Allan's belongings. Sun Su had sold himself to a trustworthy agent—and would be the chief of wild when he learned the truth! Sun Su, in short, had been a consummate, artful crook.

"Your line of communication to the rear would appear to be cut," mused Escobar. "Let us hope nothing has happened to mine."

"You recall a certain rough-looking fellow you once observed at my heels?"

"Gosh! You mean—?"

"He was following me, not to make trouble, but to help me if I got into any. Well, I'm in trouble now, and Diego knows it, so I am sure he is carrying out orders I gave him to meet just this emergency."

"Thank goodness!" muttered Allan, and so did Kay. "Colonel,

I've a confession to make and an apology. Until now, I've been half suspecting you of—of playing ball with Asia and these Japs! Sorry!"

"You naturally would, judging me by appearances," replied the officer quite cheerfully. "Even some old friends of mine—you met them, senor, the day you arrived in San Sabal—were misled into believing me a traitor to my

District Track And Field Meet Here Saturday

Thin-Clads Here For First Clash During War-Time

Tracksters of a dozen schools in the Midland district took their final workouts Thursday afternoon, and coaches of the district applied the finishing touches to their cinder-path teams in preparation for the first war-time District Interscholastic League track and field meet to be held in Midland Saturday. More than a half-hundred boys are expected to report to the track at 10 a. m. Saturday for the first contest of this year's district clash.

Rankin, McCamey, and Odessa have established themselves as early favorites to cop the district track and field crown, but Wink and Kermit are always threats in any athletic competition.

Midland Boys Ready
Coach B. E. McCollum put his Midland High tracksters through their final drill Thursday, and named probable contestants to represent the host school in various events.

Headliners of the Midland squad are due to be Marshall Whitmore, Jack Simpson, Charlie Kelly, Robert Wheeler, and Burvin Hines while Bill Chancellor, John Guy McMillan, Miles Stanley, Billy Richards, Jack Dyson, and H. G. Bedford will be entered in various events. Inexperience will be a great handicap to the Bulldog thin-clads in this year's meet, but there may be an ace in the big somewhere along the line.

Schools expected to have entries in the meet include: Odessa, Kermit, Rankin, Andrews, Crane, McCamey, Stanton, Courtney, Wink, Seminole, Seagraves, Garden City, and Midland.

Salute to these West Texas high school boys for carrying on athletic events as a part of America's great physical fitness program, and may they have a record-breaking district meet here Saturday.

Devil Diver Beats Whirlaway In Race In Mud At Phoenix

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Will Devil Diver develop into another Twenty Grand for Mrs. Payne Whitney? That was what the railbirds were wondering Friday after watching the Greentree colt, smartly ridden by Eddie Arcaro, whip Whirlaway in the Phoenix handicap at Keeneland's spring meeting opener Thursday.

It was the first start of the season for Mrs. Whitney's promising Kentucky Derby candidate and his game showing on a muddy track against war news opponents—Whirlaway and Sun Again, another Derby eligible—was a trick that caught the public's fancy.

Not only did Devil Diver lead all the way in six furlong test, but he held off Whirlway's bid in the closing strides. The time was 1:13 2/5.

When Whirlaway began closing the gap on Devil River, Arcaro said he aroused his mount with the whip "and he responded." Eddie dismissed the question whether Whirlway might have collared Devil Diver had the distance been longer by explaining that so far the son of St. Germans was trained only for six furlongs.

Smith, Runyan Lead In Master's Golf Tournament

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—The Masters Golf Tournament, struggling along against discouraging rain and distracting war news entered its second round Friday with Horton Smith and Paul Runyan, a couple of proficient veterans, leading the field with equal 67's at the first quarter.

Strangely enough, scarcely anybody expected either Smith or Runyan to win the tournament. The favorite, after the wet and bedraggled field of 42 had checked in Thursday night, was Byron Nelson who shot a 68 on his first round. When Nelson shoots like that at the start and admits, as he did, that he never felt more certain of his game, then it is hard to make any other choice.

Harold "Jug" McSpaden, who played a round with Nelson, was so enthralled by the tall Texan's game that he offered to bet him against the field. The former Open, P. G. A. and Masters' champion failed to hit only one green, said McSpaden, and that was because one of his drives came to rest on a rock. "When he's hitting the ball like he is now, he's unbeatable," McSpaden added.

Behind the drenched leaders and within quick striking distance were Jimmy Demaret and Lawson Little, each with 70 then there were Ed Dudley, Billy Burke and Jim Ferrer, the Australian, at 71. Craig Wood, the defending champion, played a round with Bobby's 72.

Golf Clubs Curbed But Greats Carry On For War Relief

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—America's leading golf professionals gulped and whistled low Friday as they read the War Production Board's order halting manufacture of golf clubs, along with balls and other equipment.

"We're just out of business," said U. S. Open Champion Craig Wood, and others nodded.

Ed Dudley, president of the Professional Golfer's Association, said, however, that the golfers would carry on.

"It's unfortunate that it will be impossible to make clubs at this time," he said "but all the pros are Americans, and whatever they do they are back of the country 100 per cent."

"There's no doubt the order will curtail golf this year, although there must be enough on hand for six months. In any event, though, we will carry out our plans for exhibition matches for Red Cross and War Relief."

Ben Hogan, the pre-tournament favorite had a disappointing 73; Sam Snead a 78. Gene Sarzen got in a peek of trouble and listed an 80, highest score of the day.

Major Leagues Have Plans For Air Raids

Grandstands Good Place Of Shelter From Bombs So Fans Won't Miss Game

By Austin Bealmer
NEW YORK (AP)—If you're watching a major league baseball game when an air raid comes, don't go away. You'll probably be sitting in the best bomb shelter in the neighborhood, and you might miss part of the game.

Club officials, preparing for their first wartime season in 25 years, agreed Friday that fans could find no better protection in the event of an enemy raid than the steel and concrete stands.

And in New York, where all three clubs are making extensive plans to care for the customers in such an emergency, an official has decreed that afternoon games should not be interrupted, even by a raid.

"The ball players will be the soldiers in that situation," said Harry M. Prince, chief civilian protection adviser of the office of civilian defense. "They must stay right there and take it, if it comes, up to a certain point. The show must go on. Otherwise, it would be like actors rushing off a stage. If they show panic, you can see what might happen."

Here, as well as in some other major league cities, a sticker on the back of your seat will tell you what to do if an air raid warning sounds. If you are to move at all, there will be green and red arrows to direct you to the proper shelter.

Specially-rehearsed air raid wardens will be on hand to take charge and public address systems will be extended to the areas beneath the stands to carry instructions to all.

"I've been in baseball 50 years and this is a new experience for me," said President Ed Barrow of the Yankees. "We are printing signs on each seat with the proper directions—sit tight, follow the green line or follow the red line—and we have installed red-painted barrels of water, buckets, bins full of sand and fire extinguishers."

In Yankee Stadium, where no night games are played, 15,000 persons can be sheltered under the bleachers and another 40,000 under the grandstand, Barrow declared.

"They will be protected by concrete three decks deep. Those in the lower stand will remain in their seats, protected by the steel and concrete structure above. Nobody will be permitted to leave the park during a raid."

Hog, Corn Prices Up, Outlook Good

CHICAGO (AP)—Farmers plowing for spring planting in the most crucial growing season in years Friday found strong temptation to seed more than they originally had intended.

The high price of hogs, which convert corn into the pork products so urgently needed abroad, is the tempting factor.

Largely because of expanded government buying of pork for lend-lease shipments, hogs have soared in the last few weeks to above 14 cents a pound in Chicago, highest since 1926. Corn, of which there is a plentiful supply, is near 90 cents a bushel, within a few cents of the highest since 1937.

Converted into pork and lard, however, a bushel of corn is estimated by market experts to be worth well over $1, since the relationship between hog and corn values is much more favorable for feeding than usual. Statistics show it is more profitable to feed corn to hogs than at any time since 1926.

McCamey Pilots Given Licenses

MCCAMEY (AP)—John P. Wasse, Civil Aeronautics Inspector, was in McCamey to give flight tests recently. Four private licenses and three commercial licenses were given. Mr. Wasse stated that these flight tests as a whole were better than any he had given in a long time.

All men receiving licenses either had lived in McCamey and Fort Stockton or were living in McCamey at the present.

The following received commercial licenses: W. W. Littlejohn, Rhone Rutledge, and Kenneth Babcock. All of the above are considered material now ready to start training Army students in Army primary schools or start ferrying for Army ferry command.

Bob Farmer, Jack Beasley, R. M. Gillette, and Ennis Morgan received private licenses. They have completed the same requirements for tests given after the first phase of Army cadet training.

Babe Ruth Improved Physician Assures
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Babe Ruth, gravely ill with pneumonia two days ago, apparently has passed the crisis and will recover, his physician said Friday.

Champion Steer Here Saturday

Leonard K. Firestone (right) is shown taking over the bride of Loyal Alumnus 4th from Gilman Stewart, 23-year-old Purdue University herdsman. Loyal Alumnus, 1941 international grand champion steer, comes to Midland, Saturday. He will appear at 624 West Wall at 3:00 P.M., under the sponsorship of Firestone Home and Auto Store. A cross between a purebred Angus bull and a purebred Shorthorn cow, the grand champion was purchased from Purdue University for the Farm Service Bureau of The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company by Leonard K. Firestone. Loyal Alumnus is being brought here for exhibition to farmers, 4-H Club members, Future Farmers of America and all others interested in livestock raising. An experienced cattleman will describe those points which made the steer 1941 grand champion, and will discuss methods of raising better beef more economically.
