

Insectivorous Plant Keeps Its Gardener Mystified

By DORIS E. WILSON
News Staff Writer

What is it?
That's the question perplexing Pete Swindle, 916 E. Jordan, when he steps out of his back door and sees a plant, which has been slowly but surely inching its way toward the back door since last spring. "It came up as an innocent-looking sprout in the spring and now at the close of summer has spread its sticky leaves and tubular stalks over a six-foot in diameter area.

And to add to its insidiousness, the plant appears to be insectivorous. Its leaves and stalks have a highly adhesive surface, which entraps any flying or crawling insect and holds it until it dies. There is a penetrating unpleasant odor emanating from the plant, which adds another mystery to why any insect would be inclined to go near it. "My wife and I thought at first it was an okra plant," Swindle explained.

Which is, perhaps, one reason it was allowed to grow to such dimensions. It resembles an okra plant in that its small yellow and white blossoms grow into okra-shaped pods... but there the resemblance ends.

Its leaves follow the sun, much the same as a sunflower, Swindle said. In the morning, the plant faces the east. As the sun's rays move across the sky, the plant faces west. "I've seen these plants before out on ranchlands," Swindle said, "and I've always called them 'Devil Hookers.' If there is anyone who can shed any light on what the plant is and what chemical components make it insectivorous... well, Pete Swindle would appreciate a call.

Nazi Fuehrer's Arrest Triggers Chicago Riot

'Black Belt' Invaded By White Marchers

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nazi "Fuehrer" George Lincoln Rockwell was arrested and acid was thrown Saturday in a march of 200 swastika-bearing whites into Chicago's South Side "black belt."

But despite sporadic violence, Rockwell's march aroused as much indifference as uproar. The 1,000 to 1,500 Negroes who watched the marchers displayed little of the fury which has greeted Negro marchers into white Chicago neighborhoods this summer.

While Rockwell's followers, most of them adolescents, marched, two other racial demonstrations were in progress in the Chicago area.

Whites and Negroes from the North Side marched through the Loop to City Hall carrying effigies of Mayor Richard J. Daley and policeman Sam Joseph, the city's most decorated police officer. In Waukegan, scene of race riots last month, 250 Negroes also marched on City Hall under heavy police protection.

The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) reported that its Chicago leader, Robert Lucas, had been arrested for non-payment of $2,400 in fines resulting from previous demonstrations.

Lucas had said he would lead a march into an all-white Chicago neighborhood today. Last Sunday, he and his followers needed 2,500 National Guardsmen to protect them from white mobs in Cicero.

Rockwell, who has been trying to interject himself into Chicago's racial turmoil, didn't even get a chance to lead his own march. He was arrested on a charge of unlawfully soliciting funds on Chicago park property in a rally Aug. 21.

Looking stunned, Rockwell was hurried off to a paddy wagon. Aides said the self-styled Nazi leader was "flabbergasted." He refused to post a $25 bond at a police command post and was taken to central headquarters. Despite his arrest, a Nazi "hate rally" remained scheduled for Saturday night in the Chicago Coliseum.

Without their leader, the marchers stepped out behind a young Rockwell lieutenant, Chris Vidnjovich. They ran into trouble at 63rd and Loomis Streets, where a vial of acid was lobbed into the marchers.

Three burned. The acid bounced off the helmet of a policeman. Two policemen and one Negro spectator were taken to St. Bernard's Hospital with burns. Some of the 750 policemen protecting the marchers waded into the crowd, dragged out two young Negroes and loaded them into a paddy wagon.

Two other young Negroes were arrested when they charged the police lines and one managed to land a punch on a marcher. A rock and a bottle also were thrown in the course of the two mile, 75-minute march.

The marchers tried to put up an impressive front. Some of the youths who followed Vidnjovich had swastikas stenciled on their sweatshirts and T-shirts. They carried signs reading "White Power" and "End Black Riots."

GORDON LYONS
...solicitation chairman

Lyons Will Head Open Solicitation

Gordon Lyons, general manager of Southwestern Public Service Co. here, will head the General Solicitation division for the Pampa United Fund. Lyons, a past president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the Pampa Rotary Club, has been active in community projects in Pampa for the past ten years.

Lyons has also served as president of the United Fund board of directors and has been a Fund supporter during his tenure as manager of the local public utility.

The appointment of campaign leaders within the General Solicitation division is being completed, with a kick-off breakfast scheduled for Wednesday morning, Sept. 28.

Slain Premier Buried in Africa

PRETORIA, South Africa (UPI) — Slain Premier Hendrik F. Verwoerd was buried here Saturday as the apartheid barrier which he erected was lowered a fraction to admit 16 black African chieftains to the funeral.

The Africans sat among 4,000 white dignitaries, becoming the first ever to attend a state funeral. The white-only Dutch Reformed Church relaxed its rules to let them attend.

But, as the church's moderator made clear in his funeral address, apartheid will go marching on without Verwoerd. "We have lost a man," said the Rev. Jakobus Gerike, "but thank God we still have his message."

Verwoerd's Afrikaaner and other white followers — almost 200,000 of them — came to Pretoria from all parts of the country to pay homage.

Space Shot Postponed 'Til Monday

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The Gemini 11 space mission — another warmup for American manned moon flights — ran into trouble for the second time in as many days Saturday and was postponed until Monday morning.

The villain this time was a steering device in the Atlas rocket that is to hurl aloft an Agena target which Astronauts Charles (Pete) Conrad and Richard F. Gordon will chase down for a tricky first-orbit rendezvous.

Contained in a canister only a foot and a half long and a foot wide, the little electronic "pilot" refused for some reason during pre-launch tests to deliver proper orders to the Atlas' brassy engines.

This halted the countdown at 6:23 a.m. CST, just 25 minutes before the Atlas-Agena was to have taken off.

So, Navy buddies Conrad and Gordon will have to wait until 10:26 a.m. CST Monday for another try at the three-day flight. The Atlas-Agena is to go at 6:49 a.m.

The flight schedule now calls for Gemini 11 to splash down at about 7:35 a.m. CST Thursday, about 725 miles east of Cape Kennedy in the Atlantic.

On top for the pilots, in addition to the Agena rendezvous:

—A nearly two-hour space-walk mission outside the capsule by Gordon.

—A new world orbital altitude record of 885 miles, with Gemini 11 using the Agena's booster rocket to get out there.

—Tests of a tool designed to enable men to assemble equipment in space, where the lack of gravity and other quirks of physics pose big problems.

—A 140-minute stand up in the open Gemini hatch by Gordon. He is to conduct a variety of scientific tests important to the Apollo man-on-the-moon program which follows Gemini.

Saturday's postponement, hard on the heels of a tiny propellant leak in their own booster rocket on Friday, made the astronauts a bit gloomy.

But they agreed with project officials that there wouldn't be time to fix the Atlas autopilot and still get off in time for a rendezvous with Agena during the daylight portion of the first orbit. It's too tricky to do in the dark.

After the decision was in, Conrad and Gordon strolled from the base of their towering ready-room headquarters. Conrad was philosophical.

"We've waited six months for this flight, and we're perfectly willing to wait until Monday," he said.

Gordon said, "Well, we got a little further today."

Discovery of the leak in the Gemini spacecraft booster's Titan rocket on Friday forced a 24-hour postponement while technicians put a space-age patch on the microscopic hole.

Conrad, who flew for 128 orbits as co-pilot for Gordon L. Cooper on Gemini 5 last year, is accustomed to waiting. There was one postponement of their flight, after they had sat in the capsule atop the rocket for more than an hour.

TERROR REIGNS IN SAIGON

Suicide Squads March

SAIGON (UPI) — The Viet Cong terrorized South Viet Nam with bombs, bullets and assassinations and sent suicide squads into Saigon to kill Americans Saturday night but failed to halt the Sunday elections that are the first step toward ending military rule.

Despite the wave of terror that has killed or maimed 500 men, women and children in the past few days, government officials hoped for a huge voter turnout that would smash Communist claims they are winning the allegiance of the people.

They have said they would be satisfied with a turn-out of 70 per cent of the 5.2 million eligible voters. The 5,283 polling places throughout the nation open at 6 a.m. Sunday in most areas.

SOIL TEST BEGINS — Dean M. Schickedanz drives the tractor as Wendell Robertson (center), assisted by Allen Hill, broadcasts different amounts of phosphate, nitrogen, potash and iron onto 42 experimental plots. The plots cover a four-acre area of D. A. Swain's farm, west of town. By taking soil and wheat samples from the plots over the next five years the Texas Agriculture Experiment Stations will be able to determine the optimum amount of fertilizer for the soil in this area.

Chemicals Aid Cotton Quality

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (Sp.)—Use of harvest-aid chemicals can help to preserve cotton quality.

With the leaves killed or defoliated, bolls are exposed to sunlight and air, thereby reducing boll rot and associated fiber and seed damage. Applying harvest-aid chemicals also hastens the opening of mature bolls and reduces the drying time required after a rain or heavy dew, the National Cotton Council reports.

Removal of leaves decreases the amount of trash, green leaf, and moisture in machine-harvested cotton. It also reduces ginning and clogging of spindles which can cause spindle twists and stains in mechanically picked cotton. Defoliation or desiccation, moreover, makes earlier harvesting possible which diminishes the hazards of exposure to weather and microorganisms.

In short, using harvest-aid chemicals makes it possible to harvest cotton that requires less drying and cleaning at the gin, thus preserving the fiber's inherent quality, especially length and length uniformity.

The Council points out that timing is the key to successful use of harvest-aid chemicals. Plant and weather conditions, together with the harvesting schedule, are the prime factors to consider in determining when such chemicals should be applied. Too much time lapse between defoliation and harvesting can result in excessive second growth leaves.

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
Charles Jackson, Wheeler County Agent, recently sent us an invitation to attend and be a part of the Wheeler County Crops and Livestock Demonstration Tour.

The Tour will begin at the Kelton School at 9 a.m., Wednesday, Sept. 14, 1966. Result demonstrations on cotton varieties, cotton fertility, weed control, peach orchard, forage and livestock utilization and beef cattle performance testing of beef cattle.

At 12:30 p.m. a free meal will be served... a fish fry with all the trimmings.

Grainger McIlhenny, State Representative, will be the featured afternoon speaker. Four Extension specialists are scheduled for the afternoon program.

We have been asked to discuss weed control on one of the tour stops.

Last year we attended the Wheeler County Tour and was impressed with the fine program they have in progress in that county.

Several people have called to ask about what variety of wheat is the best to plant. Most every wheat farmer has his favorite variety of wheat. Our local test placed Triumph well out in front. We would be quick to point out that one result demonstration is not conclusive. Triumph made 52.9 bushels per acre in our test. The closest variety to the triumph was Sturdy and it yielded 45.8 bushels per acre. The results at the Bushland Experiment Station were about the same. You would be interested to know that 38 per cent of all wheat planted in Texas is Triumph, or a variety that is supposed to be an improved strain of Triumph. Wheat Prices

There seems to be much speculation as to what wheat prices will do. Personally, we feel very optimistic about the outlook for wheat prices. We cannot see any reason in our crystal ball that would make wheat prices go down. There are a long list of pluses. World use of wheat jumped from 6.3 billion bushel per year in 1950 to 9.3 billion the past year. The big increase in the use of wheat can be attributed to the population explosion. In 1946 the annual increase in world population was 26 million. Today the annual increase is 65 million. It has been predicted the annual increase will hit 100 million in a few short years. The real facts are... we have been using 300 million more bushels of wheat than we have produced. Canada has made commitments extending through several years to sell their entire production to Russia and Red China. Some Economists predict our U.S. surplus of wheat will be at an alarmingly low level by July 1, 1967. The 30 percent increase in allotment will not be used by many wheat farmers when they seed their wheat this fall. Farmers need more than a six months notice to change their production plans.

A very much overlooked aspect in the wheat shortage that is being talked is the fact that many thousands of 15 acre wheat farmers quit planting wheat. A few years ago many farmers were allowed to plant 15 acres of wheat in the Government programs. The recent program fails to offer enough incentive to encourage the 15 acre exemption farmers to plant wheat. It simply isn't profitable for farmers to produce wheat at $1.25 to $1.75 a bushel on 15 acre farms.

My crystal ball says, "If you have wheat in storage, hang on to it until it reaches $2.00 anyhow."

Record Yield Predicted for Cotton Crop

AUSTIN (UPI) — The U. S. Department of Agriculture today predicted a record yield of 430 pounds per acre for the 1966 Texas cotton crop, up 28 pounds from the record crop of a year ago.

The state's estimated production is down about a million bales from 1965, but it is no reflection on the crop.

Texas cotton farmers, like their counterparts over the nation, responded favorably to a USDA program to lower production this year and cut into a massive cotton surplus.

With cotton harvest up to 80 per cent complete in the Valley and almost as far along in other areas, the Texas crop reporting service of the USDA said all but one area of the state is showing good crops.

In 1609, explorer Henry Hudson discovered what is now known as the Hudson River.

Panhandle Water District News

By FELIX W. RYALS

The Texas Board of Water Development held its final High Plains hearing on the Water Fort Texas 2020 Plan on Sept. 9.

Joe G. Moore Jr., executive director for the Board of Water Development, assured those attending the hearing that the plan as now written is due a lot more study. He also indicated that careful study would be given to the needs of West Texas and the High Plains-Panhandle area.

The board received recommendations from the Panhandle area that further study be given to the feasibility and possibility of more dams on rivers crossing or originating in the Texas Panhandle.

The Panhandle Water Conservation District, for a number of years, has been encouraging farmers to use the playa lake water that has been allowed to evaporate in past years.

There are approximately 10,000 playa lakes in the Panhandle area that could supply water for irrigation. Due to the heavy record rainfall during August most of these now contain water that can be used for irrigating winter wheat land. During the year 1965 only about 15 per cent of these lakes were used profitably for irrigation. During 1966, this percentage could possibly rise to 20 to 25 per cent.

Eddie Kalka, a Carson County irrigation farmer, is one of the latest to install a lake pump to use the lake water collected on his farm 2 miles northwest of Kingsmill. He has installed a 4-inch lake pump and will use aluminum pipe to move the water to his winter wheat land. He estimates he will be able to irrigate 135 acres from his playa lake. He is already convinced of the profit from the use of lake water. While using the lake water his nearby irrigation well will be conserving underground water.

Water accumulates in the playa lakes during the periods of high rainfall. The amount of water in the playa lakes will vary from farm to farm depending upon the distribution and intensity of the rainfall. The water in the playa lakes represents a valuable resource — a resource we can't go on wasting too much longer.

Evaporation pans set up near Amarillo show that the average loss from a lake or pond is 76 inches per year. The rate of water loss from a 100-acre lake at Amarillo is over 600 gallons per minute in June and July and exceeds 500 gallons per minute from May 1, through August 31. This points up the desirability of making ponds and lakes as deep as possible leaving a small surface area exposed to evaporation.

The loss from evaporation may be further reduced by concentrating the rainfall or tail water in reservoirs, using the water for irrigation and by recharging the underground formation where the loss, as far as recovery is concerned, is very low.

Records kept by John O'Keefe, a Carson County irrigation farmer, indicated that he is pumping lake water (collected from rainfall and tail water) at approximately 30 per cent the cost of pumping his underground water. He expects this to drop to 25 per cent during the current year.

Tests on recovery of recharge water from the McDonald Well Field, about eight years ago, by the City of Amarillo show that 80 per cent of the water was recovered. This water was pumped from the underground formation in another area for recharge in the McDonald Field. This water was free of silt and trash.

Research studies have been carried on for a period of years at the High Plains Research Foundation and the Southwestern Great Plains Research Center to develop a successful method to artificially recharge the entire Ogallala by using rainfall water from the playa lakes. To date these tests have been only partially successful. Tests will continue until a successful breakthrough is accomplished.

The Santa Fe Railway has been successfully emptying west Cuyler Lake, between Panhandle and White Deer, for a number of years. A canal has been dug from the lake to a settling basin near the recharge well. An intake pipe from the settling basin permits the lake water to enter the recharge well by gravity flow.

Miller Hints Secret Plan For Vote Drive

Dee Miller of Amarillo, the Democratic candidate for Congress from the 18th District, was in Pampa Friday loaded with confidence and keeping a secret.

Miller came for the formal opening of Gray County Democratic headquarters on W. Kingsmill.

Speaking to a crowd at the headquarters Miller said:

"Our late start is proving to be the greatest thing that has happened to the Democratic Party in our district in 15 years."

The candidate said he had visited all but a few of the 30 counties in the district.

"Everywhere I've been," Miller said, "I've been met with enthusiasm and determination that this is one race the Democrats will win. Party members who have not been active in years are showing up at our meetings. Personal differences are being forgotten and battle plans are being prepared in every county to be kept in secrecy until the day our campaign materials arrive."

Miller promised his listeners he would "shun scare tactics" and asked them to help him wage a positive campaign which he described as "identifying the real problems of the district and dealing with them intelligently as a congressman should."

Yesterday Miller attended the Stratford Jamboree in Stratford.

Miller entered the congressional race late when he was selected to become the nominee after Rep. Walter Rogers announced his retirement to enter the private practice of law.

His Republican opponent is Bob Price of Pampa who was defeated two years ago by Rogers.

The Nov. 8 general election will mark Miller's first try for political office and Price's second.

Grand Jury to Meet

The 31st Judicial District Court will open a new term in Lipscomb Monday and a new grand jury will be impaneled, according to District Attorney Bill Waters.

Waters said eight cases are to be considered by the grand jury Monday.

G.O.P. Candidate Charges 'Donations' After Contract

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) —

Richard Barnwell, Republican candidate for congress in the 6th district, charged recently that an El Paso, Tex., construction firm with the same name and address as the one which built Greensboro's new post office donated $2,000 to the "President's Club."

Barnwell, who is opposing incumbent Democratic Rep. Horace Kornegay, charged that the donations were made just after the contract for the $5 million post office was awarded to C.H. Leavell and Co. of El Paso.

Barnwell quoted Kornegay as saying he was "amazed" at the lease arrangements but the candidate said the congressman owed the voters a better explanation than that.

The lease provided that the post office department pay the construction company $316,638 annual rent for the next 30 years. The department could then purchase the facility for $4.5 million, after paying almost $9.5 million in rent.

Barnwell said Kornegay was aware of the cost and that Leavell was to get the contract but "whether or not he was aware of the donations by Leavell to his party, I do not know."

Dirksen Claims Housing Rights Bill is Dead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen said Saturday that President Johnson's "open housing" civil rights bill is dead and the sooner the Senate demonstrates that fact the better.

The Illinois Republican who holds life or death power over the measure, said he expects a gag rule showdown and shelving of the House-passed legislation in the "not too distant future."

That could come next week. At the same time, it was learned that the administration — facing loss of its overall bill — is casting around for ways to save a section to impose penalties for interfering with individual rights or for crossing state lines to incite violence.

One way to try that, Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach was advised by Senate leaders, would be to seek the authority through separate legislation. In the light of recent disorders in a number of cities, this might pass before Congress quits for the year. But in the aftermath of loss of the entire bill, there would be assurance of this.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said the rights issue is "still on dead center." He made that remark after a meeting with Katzenbach and Dirksen Friday. Dirksen was more outspoken.

Vessels Still In Amarillo Jail

Tom Vessels, accused rapist, still is confined to Potter County jail in Amarillo, where he was taken after a Gray County grand jury indictment in 31st Judicial District Court, District Attorney Bill Waters said Saturday.

Vessels was remanded to jail in Amarillo, where he underwent psychiatric examination. Waters said Vessels' trial is scheduled to begin Oct. 24. A motion has been filed in district court to seek the death penalty for Vessels.

The original trial date was set for July 25, but at a July 1 hearing, District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich granted a request of Defense Attorney Rowdy Bowers to postpone the trial date of Oct. 24. The request was granted to allow the defense attorney sufficient time to prepare a defense. He said he specifically needed additional time to obtain Vessels' armed service record.

The accused man was charged and indicted by the Gray County grand jury after he allegedly entered the home of a Pampa housewife in the mid-afternoon of last April 28, posing as a utility company service man. According to the indictment, he raped and stabbed her.

He was arrested two weeks after the Pampa criminal assault, when an Amarillo woman furnished officers a description of his car and license number. He had allegedly attempted to enter her home, but fled when the woman's daughter ran for help.

In addition to the Pampa charge, Vessels faces similar charges in Randall and Wheeler counties.

Citations Issued To Two Women

Lena Porter Smith of Perryton was cited by city police for failure to yield right of way, improper backing and failure to leave information following two separate collisions Tuesday.

Police said the Smith car was in collision at 5:13 p.m. Tuesday with a car driven by Twila Joyce Hood, 828 N. Somerville, who was making a right turn onto Cuyler from Atchison, resulting in the citation, failure to yield right of way.

Later, according to police, the Smith car scraped the left rear fender of a car driven by Clara Deen Dennis, 1216 S. Dwight, as it was backing from a parked position near the intersection of Cuyler and Atchison, resulting in the improper backing citation.

Both accidents occurred between 5:13 p.m. and 5:15 p.m. Tuesday, police said.

The Hood car had $65 damages; the Dennis car, $25 damages and the Smith car approximately $80 damages, according to the police report.

Seventy-five dollars damage was incurred to a properly parked car owned by T. O. McIlvain, Rt. 1, when a trailer hitched to a pickup truck driven by Roy Lee McCoy, 1811 N. Nelson, broke loose and veered across the street in the 800 block of W. Francis, police said.

The trailer received about $75 damage in the accident that occurred around 1:18 p.m. Saturday.

Lavonne S. Barnard, 1236 Darcy, was cited by city police for failure to yield right of way when her car was in collision with a car driven by Alan Pete Coombes of Rt. 2, police reported.

The collision occurred around 4:15 p.m. Saturday in the intersection of N. Starkweather and E. Francis.

Price Raps High Interest Rates, LBJ's Programs

GRUVER — "The Johnson-Humphrey Administration has driven interest rates up so high that it is next to impossible for most people to buy a home, finance a car or even get a small loan," congressional candidate Bob Price said here Saturday.

"Interest rates have gone up 33 per cent since last December for a 45 year high," Price told supporters at the opening of his local headquarters in Gruver.

"A positive solution to these high interest rates and tight money would be to stop many of the ill-conceived and poorly administered Great Society programs," he explained.

"While a few of these programs might be meritorious if we had the money to pay for them, their expansion through more and more government borrowing is driving up the interest rates everyone must pay," Price stated.

The 18th District candidate pointed out that AFL-CIO President George Meany recently said high interest rates are throwing the residential construction industry into a depression.

"Even former president Harry Truman has predicted a depression unless inflation and the accompanying high interest rates are halted," Price added. "In these times of high employment and prosperity the Administration should strive for a budget surplus to reduce inflationary pressures. We can afford to give all necessary support to the Viet Nam War but we cannot afford constantly rising costs for non-essential Great Society programs," Price concluded.

Budget Hearing Set for Tuesday

Payment of $1,358 to Merriam & Barber, architects, for engineering fees. Payment of current city and library bills. Authorization for purchase of $450,000 in U.S. Treasury Bills. Transfer of $50,000 from Water and Sewer fund to General fund. Transfer of $4,000 from General fund to Library fund, and approval of a $2,422.50 payment as Pampa's share of Canadian Municipal Water Authority expenses.

Doctor Says Army Dog Tags Wrong

DENVER (UPI)—A prominent U.S. surgeon, just back from a tour of the war zone in South Viet Nam, said Wednesday some U.S. fighting men are wearing dog tags marked with incorrect blood types.

Dr. Ben Eismann, a member of the National Council and consultant to the Navy Surgeon General, said "an appreciable error" had been found in dog tag markings for fighting men in Viet Nam.

He spoke to the Denver Medical Society.

"In division hospitals," Eismann said, "it is recognized that it is not safe to use the blood type as stamped on dog tags. The blood type is always cross-matched."

'Nazi' Motor-Cycle Group Evicted From Suburban Clubhouse

DETROIT (UPI)—A motor-cycle club evicted from its dilapidated suburban clubhouse looked for a new home today. David Hartman, a club member called "Pervert" by his colleagues, said local folks just didn't understand.

A Nazi banner stretched across one wall of the abandoned garage, until today the clubhouse for "The Outlaws,"

The club members, taking their eviction by local authorities calmly, swigged "panther juice" from a goatskin flask passed by Funny Sonny, a visiting Hell's Angel from San Diego, Calif.

Iron crosses decorated their rough clothing. Funny Sonny's hair hung to his shoulders, and a tattooed "born to raise hell,"

The Nazis were losers. We're losers too, so why not?

evicted the Outlaws, but their mood was philosophical.

"We use the Nazi stuff, sure, to blow people out," Poervert said. "Like that flag. It bugs 'em, that's why we use it."

"The Nazis were losers. We're losers too, so why not?"

He wiped his false teeth, replacements for the real thing which he claimed were knocked out by a Chicago policeman, on his sleeve, put them in his pocket, then back in his mouth.

Pervert and his pals unanimously agreed that complaints over, maybe a thousand riders, the police will blow out their minds when they see us."

"We ride," he said. "We don't have time for all these orgies we're supposed to have."

This weekend, he said, Outlaw chapters from Detroit and other cities plan to visit Lima, Ohio.

"There'll be clubs from all over, maybe a thousand riders, the police will blow out their minds when they see us."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bradbury K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohu & Stetson Inc., says that in general he is optimistic about the long-term outlook for cyclical industrial stocks but must concede that on a technical basis most of them are still in a downtrend that was producing new lows as late as last week. Thurlow says he believes that the current price levels for most stocks are suitable for a major buying program.

The Family Lawyer

No the scientist, not the sociologist, not the philosopher is the most-cited expert in today's courtroom. Far more influential is a fictitious fellow known as the Reasonable Man.

Created by an English court more than a century ago, the Reasonable Man has become a basic yardstick for measuring right and wrong. To avoid being held negligent, you are expected to drive like the Reasonable Man, golf like the Reasonable Man, and drink like the Reasonable Man.

Then what sort of person is he?

In the purely physical sense, he looks very much like you. If you have only one leg, so does he. The law would expect you to cross the street only as fast as a Reasonable One-Legged Man. In this way, when judging your conduct, the law makes fair allowance for personal handicaps which you simply cannot help.

But in the mental sense, the Reasonable Man generally resembles not you but the average man—which is quite a different matter. Thus:

Suppose you are a person who is forever overlooking traffic signals or dropping lighted cigarette butts. You cannot expect other people to suffer, without complaint, the consequences of your absentmindedness. For this is a handicap which, presumably, you can overcome if you really try.

So the Reasonable Man has the average degree of alertness to danger, the average degree of consideration for the safety of others. He also has, broadly speaking, an average memory, average bravery, average judgment, and an average amount of useful information in his head.

Thus the Reasonable Man knows (even if you, personally, do not) that hay will burn, that a wet floor is slippery, that worn tires may blow out, and that a loaded gun is dangerous.

In other words, the Reasonable Man is a composite—partly like you, partly like the average person. He had your built-in defects, but not your defects that could and should be corrected.

But isn't that a pretty loose standard for deciding legal issues in the courtroom? True enough. Yet, experience has shown it to be a wise and workable compromise between the rights of the individual and the rights of society.

By using this compromise, the law itself has acted like the Reasonable Man.

Marcus Defends Long-Haired Boys

DALLAS (UPI)—Texas' prime arbiter of style—Neiman Marcus president Stanley Marcus—Thursday offered to help three long-haired youths in their battle against the school system.

The principal of W. W. Samuell High School refused to allow the youths, members of a rock and roll band, to enroll until they get haircuts.

Marcus, a Hemingway-bearded, natty dresser, sent a telegram to the board of education threatening to get the longhairs legal help unless the school administration changes its mind.

"I am disturbed by the news reports banning long hair worn by several students applying for admission to high schools. It is a direct civil rights violation of the students," Marcus wired.

"I do not like long hair any more than the principal does," Marcus said. "But I will fight for the right of these students to wear their hair any way they choose."

"I will provide legal aid to these students in an effort to sustain their civil liberties. Our society must not get to the point that hair dress and attire can be subject to regulatory whims of administrators," Marcus said.

LOOT IN COFFINS
ROME (UPI)—Police Friday accused undertaker Silvio Spendi, 30, of receiving stolen goods after they found the loot from a burglary hidden under the double bottoms of coffins in his shop.

Texas Water Commission Orders Lower Rates

AUSTIN (UPI)—Weslaco has been paying "unreasonable and discriminatory" delivery charges for water, the Texas Water Rights Commission said Thursday and ordered the rates lowered.

The commission ended a 26-month-old dispute between the Lower Rio Grande Valley city and the Hidalgo and Cameron Counties Water Control and Improvement District No. 9.

The new rates will be three cents per 1,000 gallons instead of the previous five cents. But within the city, but excluded from the district.

Weslaco was ordered to make an annual $17,061 payment to the water district in lieu of ad valorem bond tax and maintenance and operating charges were raised from three cents to a nickel per thousand.

Public hearings ended Oct. 18, 1965 and deliberations had continued since then.

Weslaco brought the rate problem before the commission in January 1965 when rates Jan. 20, 1965, the day Weslaco filed its complaint.

By LIBBY SHOTWELL
Executive Secretary
Word has been received from the National Headquarters of the Red Cross that chests packed last May by the High School Red Cross have been shipped to the Viet Nam school children along with 78 other chests from the US of America. The chests contain school supplies, health supplies, medical supplies and an annual from our Pampa High School. This has brought the number of chests to 300 that have been shipped to the South Viet Nam school children this year.

The Red Cross Board will meet Tuesday morning, Sept. 13th at 7 a.m. in the Coronado Inn Terrace Room. Ken Womack, chapter chairman urges all of the board members to attend this important meeting. Mr. Hoffman, who is heading the UF drive in Pampa this year will speak to the group on the coming drive. The program will be on Water Safety lead by Terry Cully and Dr. Harbord Cox.

A Standard First aid Course is being taught to the managements heads of the City of Pampa at the Fire Station No. 2 and the instructor is Ray Fisher who is a fireman and also a Red Cross First Aid Instructor. Twenty persons are enrolled in the course.

VALLEY FLOODED
SRINAGAR, Kashmir (UPI) — Rising floodwaters Friday submerged 110 villages in a southern Kashmir valley after the Jhelum River rose eight feet over its banks. "You-All Come" Luncheon Plans Being Finalized By Auxiliary

A "you-all come" invitation is being extended by the Highland General Hospital Auxiliary to women in community to attend a kickoff luncheon at 12:00 noon, Monday, Sept. 19, in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

Mrs. Bob Keller, auxiliary president, has announced there will be no charge for the luncheon.

"Its purpose is to stimulate interest in the auxiliary and to open membership to women who are interested in being of service to the community," Mrs. Keller said.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Travis Lively Jr., at MO 4-2463 or MO 9-9809 or by mailing in the coupon reservation to be found elsewhere on this page.

The luncheon will introduce key people, who are associated with the auxiliary, including Bill Robertson, hospital administrator; Don Conley, chairman of the hospital board and Miss Vermell Meader, director of nursing.

Plans will be outlined, where a person wanting to officiate with the auxiliary can be of the most service.

"There are many areas where help is needed. And sometimes the smallest task is the most needed," Mrs. Keller explained. "It is a most rewarding and satisfying project. We feel sure that when women of the community learn their talents and services are needed, they will respond to our invitation to membership."

Since its organization on May 15, 1964, to the end of its first fiscal year, March 15, 1965, the auxiliary chalked up 6,678 service hours in Highland General Hospital.

In addition to volunteer services to nurses, doctors, and patients, the auxiliary is a non-profit organization which supervises TV rentals, Hospitality Cart and Gift Cabinet at the hospital. Proceeds from these projects are turned back to the hospital.

The first year, new drapes were purchased for the entire north wing, office and record room. A 16 m. projector and a screen were contributed for use in the vocational nurses' classes.

This month, an intercom system will be installed to help facilitate doctor and nurse contact with the office.

Current officers are Mrs. E. M. Keller Jr., president; Mrs. Joan Osborne, first vice president; Mrs. Joe Autry, second vice president; Mrs. Travis Lively, third vice president; Mrs. A. B. Cross, treasurer; Mrs. R. E. Dobbin, recording secretary; Mrs. Beuna Howse, historian and Mrs. Jack P. Foster, parliamentarian.

Members of the advisory board are Mmes. Homer D. Johnson, A. D. Hills, Gene Hollar and Julian Key.

MAKARIOS TO RESIGN
ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — A correspondent for an Athens newspaper reported Friday President Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus is planning to resign from both his political and religious posts because the troubles there appear to be nearing their end. The correspondent quoting authoritative sources, said the archbishop hopes to become the patriarch of Alexandria.

Walter Rogers Reports:

Rogers Advocates Freer Broadcasting

The House of Representatives has long maintained a rule against permitting live television and radio broadcast coverage of committee hearings or sessions of the full House. The Senate rules do permit live broadcast coverage of Senate hearings although broadcasting is not permitted from the Senate chamber. Broadcast news reporters have the same rights and privileges in covering Congress as do reporters for newspapers and magazines; like press reporters, they can attend hearings and sessions and then report what they've learned and observed. In addition, the broadcast men often set up their equipment outside of hearing rooms and on the steps of the Capitol to interview participants in events making news.

Some broadcasters would like to see House and Senate rules relaxed to permit greater freedom of coverage, to move "live" cameras and microphones into the hearing rooms and chambers. It is an understandable feeling on their part, and I'm sure their desires are shared by many Americans who would like to attend, through the broadcast media, sessions of Congress as important legislation is developed. Some argue that by denying the right of direct coverage to radio and TV, Congress suffers from what is termed a "public relations gap" in relation to the White House and Executive departments, where broadcasting is widely employed to report events. The fact that Senate hearings may be televised and House hearings cannot be covered on TV undoubtedly has created among some persons the thought that Senate hearings are, therefore, more important than House hearings. By this mistaken standard, House "public relations" possibly may have suffered.

The age is one in which allied crafts of advertising and public relations have come to the fore. Salesmanship is essential if goods and services are to move in commerce. We all have seen the competition for public attention by persons with something to sell, a message to put across, and idea they hope can win favor.

But is it the role of the Congress of the United States to compete for public attention? I think not. The role of Congress is made clear in the Constitution and, in my view, it performs its function with the thorough deliberation intended by the founding fathers. Members of the House and Senate would demean their public responsibility if they were to act as public relations men for the Congress by vying with others in the government for public attention in ways that would distort the legislative function. Legislating should not be permitted to become part of a show rather than the solemn obligation of the people's duly elected representatives. The job is to make the best law possible, not to become performers in what could evolve into self-serving broadcast circuses or to out-shout others in the pursuit of publicity.

The best public relations in which Congress can engage is to do its job as well as possible, to end unwise delegations of authority to Executive departments, to assert through wise action—not the clamor of publicity—its position as the people's branch in our tripartite system in which legislative, executive, and judicial branches perform separate but equal functions. No amount of publicity, in the end, can substitute for good performance.

The presence of "live" cameras in hearings or in sessions of Congress would bring out in some the very human inclination to pose and posture, to demagogue, to overstate issues. Judged purely as a performance the result might be an interesting spectacle, but it would be bad law-making.

VISITORS: Mr. George E. Broome, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Baskett, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lamb, and Mr. Lawrence Hagy, all of Amarillo; and Gabe Anderson of Bovina; Bill Shirley and Billy Bob Shirley of Lazbuddie.

DIES IN FLIGHT

HELMSTEDT, West Germany (UPI) — A young East German stepped on a mine while fleeing across the border "death strip" to the West Friday and was left lying for three hours before Communist guards took him away, West German official reported.

They said residents in the Offenbach District heard an explosion and the man screaming for help shortly before dawn. When the Communists picked him up three hours later, he appeared dead.

New Books on Shelves At Public Library

New books at the Lovett Memorial Library this week are: For the readers of fiction, "The Gunrunners," by John Murphy. This fast-paced novel of suspense, set in Latin America, is the story of Jack Glavin and his former comrade-in-arms from World War II. "Call Back the Years," by Margaret Erdahl Shank, is the story of an immigrant Norwegian girl who learns to appreciate the spirit of freedom, independence and dignity that is characteristic of the hardy settlers of the Dakotas in the early 1900's. "Look Away, Look Away," by Ben Haas, is a timely and dramatic novel about two men, one white and the other Negro, who are driven to bitter enmity in the fierce racial struggle of our times. "Hellfire Jackson," by Garland Roark, is an historical novel that has its setting in Texas. Horatio Jackson heeded the call to "Go to Texas and minister unto My people," and thus found himself plunged into Texas' struggle to free herself from Mexico.

The lady who sews will appreciate "The Complete Book of Tailoring — For Women Who Like to Sew," by Adele P. Margolis. On the biography shelves are "Lena," the story of singer Lena Horne, by Richard Schickel, and "Bogie," the biography of Humphrey Bogart, by Jo Hyams with an introduction by Lauren Bacall.

In 1788, the U.S. Congress authorized the first national election.

Esso Develops New Building Material From Petroleum

LINDEN, N.J. — A new building material made from soil and a petroleum-based binder, has been developed by Esso Research and Engineering Company.
Dr. J. G. McNab, an Esso Research vice president, said today the new material was developed as part of the company's continuing program for seeking new uses for petroleum. He said a full-scale commercial plant would use about 100,000 barrels of selected asphaltic binders a year.
The new material, known as BMX, can be used as direct replacement for conventional masonry products such as concrete blocks and fired clay bricks.
The immediate market for BMX, Dr. McNab said, was in the large and rapidly growing construction industries of the United States and Europe. A longer-range market would be in those areas of the world where the lack of suitable building materials has contributed to widespread inadequate housing. Raw materials for making BMX are available in many parts of the world.
During the development work the Pan-American Union participated in the construction of a typical Latin American residence in Bogota, Columbia.
Dr. McNab said the company spent more than five years developing and testing the new material. Several patents on the process have been received and others are pending in the United States and in other countries of the free world.
BMX may be manufactured in available commercial-type equipment, using technology developed by Esso Research and Engineering. The company is licensing the process and product to companies in the building materials industry.
The Sayre and Fisher Company of Sayreville, N. J., is the first United States licensee. The company is now producing market development quantities of the new material. Sayre and Fisher, a long-established

Nicklaus, Casper in Series Tie

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Favored Jack Nicklaus, the champion, and Billy Casper, the U.S. Open king, shot even-par 70s over the rugged Firestone Country Club course Saturday to take a one-stroke lead over Al Geiberger and Gene Littler in the first round of the World Series of Golf.

Bob Geiberger, the PGA champion, and Littler, the Canadian open title holder, carded one-over-par 71s on the 7,180-yard layout in perfect golfing weather. Nicklaus, the ever-money favorite for the top money of $50,000, came back with two birdies on the back nine to tie Casper, who had a one stroke lead at the halfway mark.

Littler made the biggest comeback of the day going out in four-over-par 39, but he carded three birdies on the tough back nine for a three-under 32 to climb back into contention.

Actually, all of the four players spent the whole day scrambling.

Casper exactly matched the card, firing even-par 35's on each nine with three birdies offsetting three bogeys. Nicklaus went out in 36 but shaved a stroke off par coming home and Geiberger went out in 37, coming back in 34.

It looked like it might be a romp for Casper twice during the first of the two 18-hole rounds which will decide golf's biggest jackpot of the year.

Just by shooting three pars, Casper had a two-stroke lead after the first three holes. Then after the 10th, he had a three-stroke margin. But his three opponents whittled away at that lead as Casper swept to a pair of bogeys against a single birdie on the last eight holes.

Nicklaus, like Casper, had three birdies but they were offset by a bogey and a double bogey. Geiberger had three bogeys, all on the first nine, but came back at the turn to card two birdies.

Geiberger won the last two tournaments played over the long Firestone course — the American Golf Classic a year ago and the PGA championship two months ago. He started out Saturday with two bogeys while Littler had two bogeys on the first three holes.

When Nicklaus double bogeyed the third, it put Casper two strokes in front. Then Casper ran into trouble. He bogeyed the par-four, 465-yard fourth. But he got that stroke back on the par-four, 465 yard ninth.

Nicklaus, the year's leading money winner with more than $100,000 in official winnings thus far, birdied the par-four, 405-yard 10th, bogeyed the 14th and got back even with the card when he sank a 12-footer for a birdie on the par-five, 625-yard 16th hole.

Clay Batters German For TKO in 12th Round

Williams Is Next for Cassius

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Cassius Clay battered Karl Mildenerberger into a bloody pulp Saturday night and retained his heavyweight crown with a technical knockout at 1:30 of the 12th round.

Referee Teddy Waltham of Britain stopped the grueling fight when Clay pounded the game challenger into submission.

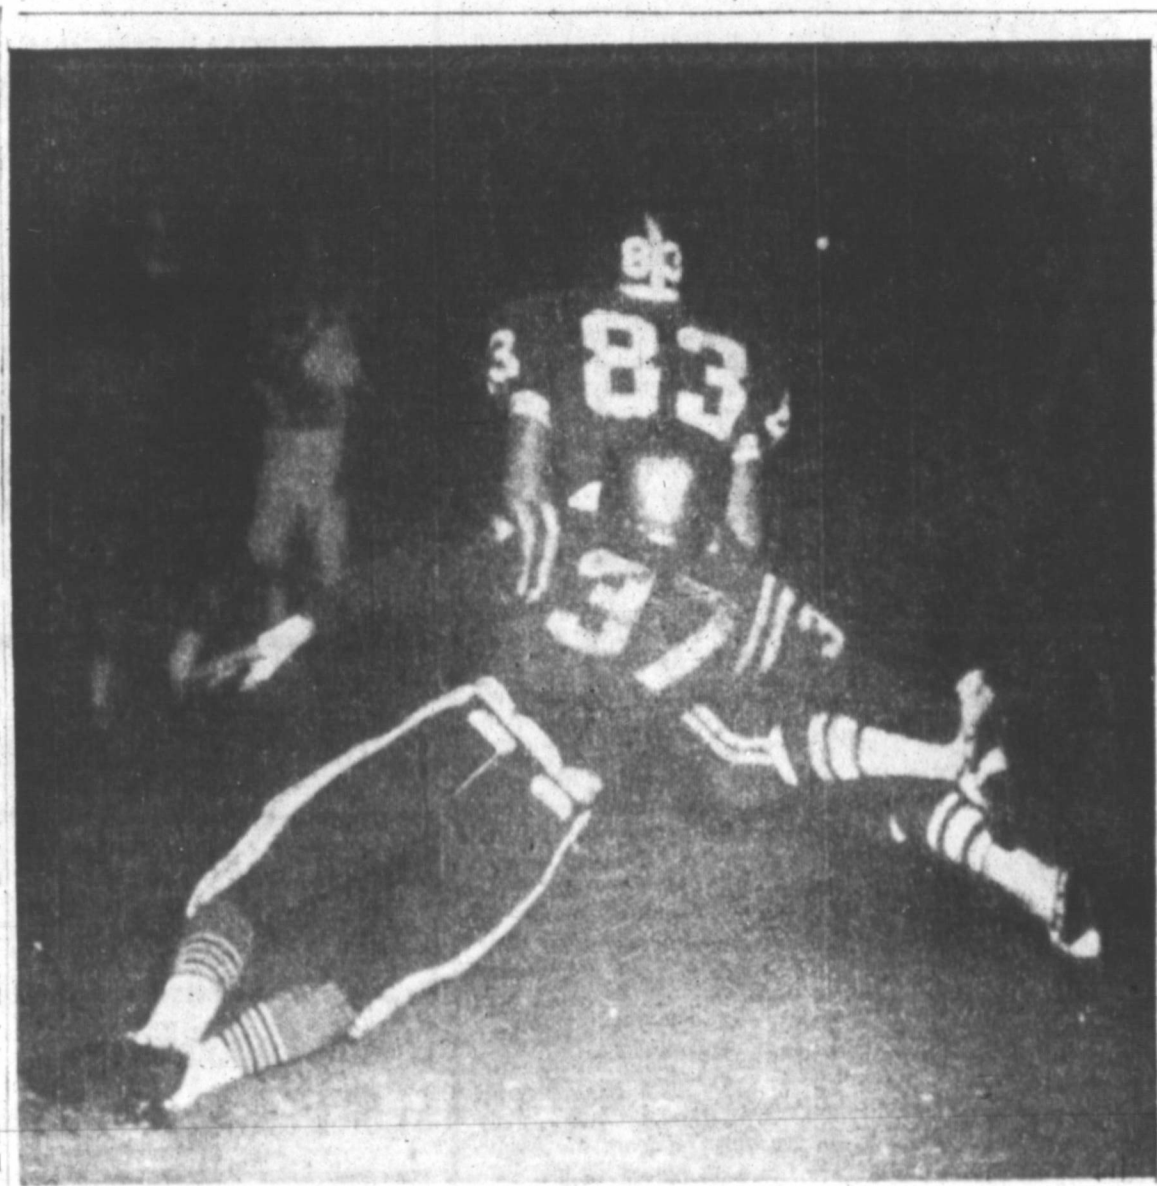

Mildenerberger was helpless at the end as the champion landed three vicious right uppercuts and a right hook before the referee ended it.

It was Clay's fourth successful defense of his title this year and sixth since winning it from Sonny Liston.

It was no contest as Clay kept up a steady tattoo of left jabs that cut the 28-year-old European heavyweight champion to ribbons in the later rounds.

In Clay's Favor United Press International scored nine rounds for Clay and three even.

The end almost came two rounds earlier, when Clay smashed a solid right that knocked Mildenerberger down. He did a somersault, staggered to

IN AERIAL ROUT

Southall Passes Baylor, 35-12

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — Terrific Terry Southall tormented heralded Syracuse with four touchdowns passes Saturday while Baylor's defense throttled Floyd Little and forced the Orange into repeated mistakes to give the Bears a lopsided 35-12 triumph.

The touted Syracuse defense gave Southall trouble only during one brief span in the touchdown, a seven-yard pitch-second quarter when the easterners mustered their first touchdown, a seven-yard pitch-out run by Little, who also snagged a three-yard pass in the final minute for the other one. The rest of the time, the talented senior quarterback pierced the Syracuse secondary almost at will and could have been even more successful had his receivers held onto more of to tosses before a sunlit crowd of 31,000 and a national television audience. He hit 14 of 28 for 229 yards before sitting out the final minutes. Southall hit Richard Delee from 30 yards out, Paul Becton and Pinky Palmer on 23-yard scoring pitches and lofted a high arching 10 yarder to Bobby Green for another

Stockdale added insult to injury when he hit fullback Charles Wilson with a 29-yard pass for a touchdown on a fake field goal.

The Stockdale-Wilson beauty, in which Wilson literally ran over Syracuse defenders Bill Zanieski and Ed Mantie at the line of scrimmage when he caught the pass, gave Baylor the momentum to turn the game into a rout. The score was only 14-6 at the time. It was the worst defeat for a Syracuse team since the 61-6 drubbing administered the Orange by Alabama in the 1953 Orange Bowl.

Perryton B Upends Shockers In Opener for Both, 33-0

PERRYTON — Pampa's Shockers were treated rather rudely in their season opening grid game Saturday night as Perryton's Deputies cruised to a 33-0 victory before the home folk.

Perryton wasted no time in scoring, taking command the first time they got the ball with quarterback Bill Travis scampering 22-yards with 5:07 remaining in the period to score. Glen Roberts kicked the conversion for a 7-0 lead.

Jim Smith scored next for the Deputies, this one on a 45-yard pass play from Travis less than a minute later. The conversion was not good but the Deputies were home safe at 13-0.

Perryton tallied once more in the opening stanza, this time on another pass, a 12-yarder from Travis to end Joe Dollars.

Roberts kicked the conversion and the Deputies led 20-0 at the end of the first period.

Perryton scored once more before halftime when Bob Goggin gathered in a 12-yard pass from Smith and Roberts kicked good for a 27-0 halftime lead.

The Deputies could muster only one other tally, this one in the third period when Travis went in from three yards out with 1:33 left in the quarter. Roberts kick try was no good and the scoring was over.

Perryton outgained Pampa, 234-214 and the Shockers missed all of seven pass attempts eight of 16 for 134 yards.

Each team lost the ball twice via fumbles and Pampa had one pass intercepted.

Pampa punted seven times for an average of 27.1 while Perryton punted but one time for 40 yards. The Deputies were penalized 12 times for 97 yards while the Shockers were penalized 18 of four times.

Packers Rout Baltimore, 24-3

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Lee Roy Caffey and Bob-Jeter returned pass interceptions for touchdowns Saturday night to spark the defending National Football League champion Green Bay Packers to a 24-3 rout of the Baltimore Colts.

The game, which kicked off the 1966 NFL season, saw two near-perfect defenses matched, with the only offensive touchdown coming shortly after the second half started when Bart Starr climaxed a 79-yard drive by rolling over from eight yards out.

Field goals of 15 yards by Don Chandler for the Packers with his interception with less than 2 1/2 minutes to play in the first half and the Colts leading 3-0. He pulled in a Unitas pass on the Green Bay 48 and rolled 52 yards to the end zone, shaking several would-be tacklers along the way.

GIANTS, PIRATES BEATEN

Dodgers Move to Second

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Pinch hitter Al Ferrara singled home Maury Wills in the 10th inning Saturday to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 1-0 win over the Houston Astros.

The victory moved the second place Dodgers into a spot one-half game behind league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates who lost to St. Louis, 6-5.

Phil Ragan got the win over the Astros when he pitched one and two-thirds innings. His record is now 13-1 and he is known as the vulture because he comes in to pick up victories in late innings.

Mike Cuellar, now 10-9, went all the way for the Astros and was effective until the bottom of the 10th. In that inning Wills led off with a single to right, advanced to second on a sacrifice by Jim Gilliam and went to third on an infield out. Then Ferrara went in to hit for Ragan and slashed a single to left scoring Wills with the winning run.

Don Drysdale, who started for the Dodgers, did not figure in the decision. He went eight and one-third innings, gave up only four hits, walked three and struck out four.

Cubs 12, Giants 3
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Glenn Beckert batted in five runs with two singles and a double and extended his hitting streak to 19 games Saturday in leading the last place Chicago Cubs to their second straight victory over the San Francisco Giants, 12-3.

Despite the loss, the third place Giants remained 1 1/2 games behind the first place Pittsburgh Pirates, who dropped a 6-5 decision to the St. Louis Cardinals, but they lost a full game to the second place Los Angeles Dodgers who beat the Houston Astros, 1-0.

Reds 2, Phils 1

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Art Shamsky's 19th home run of the year and the clutch relief pitching of Billy McCool enabled the Cincinnati Reds to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 2-1, Saturday night for fastballer Sammy Ellis.

McCool came on in the eighth after Philadelphia had scored its only run and loaded the bases with two out. The veteran southpaw went 3-2 on Bill White, then got the Phillies' first baseman on an infield pop-up.

Braves 3, Mets 2

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reliever Jay Ritchie struck out Ed Bressoud with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning Saturday night to preserve Tony Cloninger's 13th victory and give the Atlanta Braves a 3-2 decision over the New York Mets.

Cloninger, who allowed four hits, went 7 1/3 innings and left with a runner on in the eighth. Phil Niekro came on but loaded the bases and went to a 2-2 count on Bressoud before manager Billy Hitchcock brought in Ritchie.

Cards 6, Bucs 5

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Rookie Ed Spiezio singled home Orlando Cepeda from second base Saturday to highlight a four-run ninth inning rally and lift the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pinchhitter Phil Gagliano doubled to open the inning and took third on Lou Brock's single. Brock stole second. Curt Flood singled home Gagliano and then stole second. Brock scored on a groundout and Cepeda scored on Spiezio's single.

The rally, at the expense of reliever Pete Mikkelsen (8-7) enabled Bob Gibson to notch his 19th win against 10 losses on a yield of five runs and 11 hits in

Harvesters Drive to Nudge Perryton, 20-14

By RON CROSS
Sports Editor

Pampa's Harvesters got off the launching pad Friday night on their trip to the moon.

Blast off was beautiful and nearly flawless as the Harvesters nudged Perryton, 20-14, on a one-yard plunge by quarterback Gary Hyatt with four seconds showing on the clock.

Hyatt got a shove on the fourth down play from fullback Ted Heiskell that capped a seven-minute, 18 play drive that covered 76 yards.

Perryton had tallied with 7:27 left in the game to knot the score at 14-14, but the Harvesters played like champions, showed they had the comeback stuff and put on a true Oklahoma Drive for the winning score. Halfback L. D. Rowden, who ripped the Perryton line throughout the night, pulled the switch with an 82-yard punt return in the first period.

Rowden's marker came with 2:30 left and senior James Matney calmly split the uprights for the conversion and a 7-0 Pampa drive.

But Perryton, who put on a show of their own, retaliated, picking out the only Pampa weak spot on defense, the pass and promptly added a score of their own.

The Rangers covered 61 yards in only four plays, one a 31-yard scamper around left end, saved only by a last ditch tackle by Dickie Henley and the other, the scoring play, a 30-yard pass from Dick McWhorter to end Jim Gobin. The attempted kick for the point after went wide and with 1:04 left in the first period Pampa still had a 7-6 lead.

The Harvesters got into orbit again quickly, driving 63 yards on their next possession of the ball, all on-the-ground with Hyatt, dashing in on a keeper up the middle from three-yards out.

This came just 8:04 from half-time and Matney added the 14th point with a boot from eight yards out.

A crowd in excess of 6,000 saw the two teams battle without a score until Perryton again took to the air, the only way they could go anywhere, in the final period.

The Rangers recovered one of three Pampa fumbles, all in the final half, on the Pampa 25. It took 10 plays for the Rangers to score, with Pampa holding three downs at the two.

But Perryton picked on Pampa's weakness again and Al Rupprecht tossed the two yards to-Bob Pearson, who almost had the ball intercepted, for the score with 7:27 left in the game.

Perryton went for the two-point conversion and Rupprecht ran the left side for the points to knot the game, 14-14.

But Pampa, who was stilled only once by the Rangers' and three times by fumbles, on the ground, sent the rockets soaring and ground their way for the clincher.

Gary McCarrell, Rowden, Hyatt, David Schaub, Henley, Ted Heiskell and Sherman Mitchell, all had a hand in the drive.

The Pampa line, playing superb all night, opened gaping hole after hole for their runners.

Heiskell, who had carried only six times in the first half, carried five times in the second half, going from the five to the three and from the three to the one where Hyatt, who called his own show the entire night, carried in from the one.

The Harvesters didn't have time to huddle and the play was called while Pampa was lining up.

The Pampa defense gave up nothing, except in the air and it was apparent that anybody who wants to go through the middle of the Harvesters line is going to find the going rough.

Perryton could muster but 104 yards rushing, 67 of it in the first half, but the Rangers threw for 117 yards against Pampa, despite completing only seven of 19 aeriels.

For Pampa the ground game was the thing as usual with the Harvesters traveling 247 yards through the dust and 39 in the air as Hyatt completed two of six passes.

Harvesters' Dressing Room

By A Staff Writer

All was happiness and laughter and back-slapping in the Harvesters dressing room Friday night, following a 20-14 victory over Perryton.

The players and coaches were happy but looked with a cautious note to the game ahead with Wichita Falls Rider.

Senior end James Matney shouted, "We won this one for the coaches," then allowed, "We made several mistakes out there, small ones but we'll just work that much harder this week and correct 'em."

When congratulated on his fine kicking and punting, one punt for 39 yards and one kick-off into the end zone, Matney said, "Well I had good protection out there."

Fullback Ted Heiskell replied to a question that a leg operated on this summer didn't bother him at all saying, "It felt good. It got a pretty good test and held up real well."

Heiskell was beaming too, about the Harvesters line. "We (the backs) got good blocking from our line. They did a great job. You can't run if you don't get the blocking."

Guard Jack Williamson said he felt the Harvesters put forth a good team effort and that the win was a team victory.

"They (Perryton) were fast, but we just wanted to win more than they did," Williamson said. A reporter asked quarterback Gary Hyatt, having the tape pulled off his ankles, if he was nervous in his first high school game as signal caller.

"Yes, until we ran the first play," Hyatt related, adding, "but these guys are great. We really had a good team effort."

The same came from guard Billy Scribner and end David Martindale.

"We have no individuals, we all play as a team and that's the way we'll keep on doing," said both boys.

Halfback L. D. Rowden, who toted one back 82 yards for a touch down on a punt return, said, "I'm tired but I'm also ready to go to work so we can beat Rider."

Captain Doc Cornutt said, "I'm bushed. It was hot out there."

Did he think Perryton was as good as they were last year? "Well, I'm really not sure. They came to play though," Doc said.

Halfback Gary McCarrell, who led the Harvesters in ground gaining with 75 yards on 14 carries was proud of the way Pampa played as a team.

"Now that's the way to play football," McCarrell said, adding, "We really had a good team effort."

Coach Eural Ramsey was tired, but happy and pointed out four mistakes his boys made.

"All in all they played real well," Ramsey said, but added, they ran too good around our ends and were able to throw on us. We'll be working to correct that this week."

What about next Friday's game with Wichita Falls Rider?

"We know we will have to play better than we did tonight, but the boys think we can beat 'em and so do I."

Perryton coach Ray Hopkins came in the Pampa dressing room to congratulate Pampa and when asked about the Harvesters said, "I don't know how much better they are than they were last year, but if those backs keep running the way they did tonight, they'll be tough to beat."

FRIDAY'S BASEBALL

Osteen, Kaat Pitch Victories

By United Press International
The Dodgers' "other" left-hander knows how to turn a ability into an asset and it may make him Los Angeles'
may make him Los Angeles'
other 20-game winner.
As Sandy Koufax and most of the Dodger pitchers, Claude Osteen has been plagued with physical ailments. He pulled a groin muscle in Cincinnati recently and had to leave the game. Then Tuesday night, the 27-year-old lefty was scheduled to pitch against the San Francisco Giants but he was Cepeda drove in both St. Louis runs and Willie Stargell batted in the Pirates' first two.

Roy Face pitched one-hit ball over the last three innings to earn his sixth victory. Nelson Briles (4-14) was the loser.

Rico Carty drove in four runs, two in Atlanta's four run eighth inning, and Joe Torre broke a 3-3 tie and Carty followed with his two-run double to make reliever Clay
Carroll (8-7) the winner.

Tony Taylor doubled and Bill White brought him in with the winning run as Philadelphia edged Cincinnati. Leo Cardenas had three hits and batted in four runs for the Reds while Taylor and Bob Uecker drove in two runs each for the Phillies.

Jim Kaat, once compared with Lefty Grove, now is better than Sandy Koufax.

It was Casey Stengel who took one look at the big southpaw six years ago in a training camp game and said:
"He looks to me like a young Lefty Grove."

Kaat has grown up, maturing into an ace starter with the 1965 pennant winning Minnesota Twins and finally graduating into a class by himself.

Kaat became the top winner in the major leagues Friday night when he beat the league-leading Baltimore Orioles 6-1 for his 23rd victory of the year, breaking a tie he held with Koufax.

Other AL Action

Cleveland edged California 8-7 in 10 innings. Chicago nipped
Washington 1-0 in 10, Kansas
City nudged Detroit 2-1, also in 10 innings, and New York squeezed past Boston 2-1 in other American League games.

Kaat struck out eight, gave up eight hits and won his eighth in a row. He matched pitches with Baltimore starter Eddie Watt for five innings and moved ahead in the sixth when Minnesota scored three times.

Tony Oliva, who played a key role in the rally with a single, replaced Frank Robinson of Baltimore as the league's leading batter. Oliva's three-for-four gave him .315. Robinson dropped to .313 with one-for-four. Paul Blair brought in Baltimore's only run with his sixth homer.

Scored Winning Run

The White Sox, held to two hits by Pete Richert, scored their 10th inning run on Tommy Agee's double, a walk, Richert's error on a pickoff attempt and a bobbie by Washington third baseman Ken McMullen on John Romano's grounder. Hoyt Wilhelm was the winning pitcher as Chicago hurled posted their 19th shutout this season.

Mickey Lolich walked Rick
Monday with the bases loaded to force in the winning run for Kansas City. The Detroit left-hander issued a single to Campy Campaneris and two other walks to set up the unable to loosen his shoulder in pregame warmups.

Rather than remain on the sidelines and wait until the problem cleared up, Osteen decided to pitch despite the difficulty, adapting his motion and style accordingly.

The result was Osteen's best performance this season.
A three-hitter that blanked
Houston 7-0 and moved LA back into second place two percentage points in front of the Giants and 1½ games behind the pace-setting Pit-

"I'm still aiming for 20 wins this season," said Osteen who has an 15-11 record.

Elsewhere in the NL, Chicago shut out San Francisco 6-0.

Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 3-2 in 12 innings, Atlanta downed
New York 8-3, and Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 7-6.

Osteen didn't walk a batter and scattered three singles while supplying the Dodgers with their first route-going performance since Don Sutton stopped the Giants Aug. 28.

Ken Holtzman and Bill Hands combined to whitewash San Francisco on four hits as the Chicago Cubs capitalized on five Giant errors. Holtzman, the winningest Chicago pitcher
this year with a 9-13 mark, gave up three hits in 7 2-3 innings but had to be bailed out of a bases loaded jam by Hands.

Adolfo Phillips singled in a run off loser Juan Marichal (21-6) in the fifth and the Cubs added two unearned tallies and in the eighth and three more unearned in the ninth, as shortstop Jim Davenport committed two miscues and first baseman Willie McCovey one.
Jim Ray Hart's error in the eighth led to Chicago's second and third runs.

Bucs Snap Streak
Bill Mazeroski's 12-inning sacrifice fly drove in Matty
Alou from the third base as Pittsburgh snapped a three-game losing streak. Alou opened the inning with a single and moved around on a sacrifice and two walks that filled the bases. Orlando situation. Wes Stock pitched one-third of an inning in relief and won his first game since Sept. 13, 1964.

The Yankees escaped the cellar when Roger Maris sent in a run with sacrifice fly after Joe Pepitone tripled in the fourth inning and Horace Clarke doubled home Mike
Ferraro in the fifth. Fred
Talbot evened his record at 11-
11 for New York. Darrell Brandon was charged with his eighth loss in 14 decisions. His only support was a seventh inning run that came in on Lennie Green's sacrifice fly.

Judo Club Teaches Self-defense

IPPON-SEIOINAGE — Up and over with the greatest of ease. Body leverage is used in judo which makes it possible for the little fellow to throw the big guy.

PAMPA OPTIMIST Judo Club, sponsored by the Pampa Optimist Boys' Club, was established last year as a part of President John F. Kennedy's physical fitness program.

THE 31 ACTIVE members in the club receive instruction from Alvin E. Brewer. Brewer has studied judo for 23 years, and has taught the sport for 21 years.

A SELF SUPPORTING organization, Pampa's Judo Club is affiliated with the Judo Black Belt Assn. and United States Judo Federation. Most of the members are registered with the JBBF and the Amateur Athletic Union.

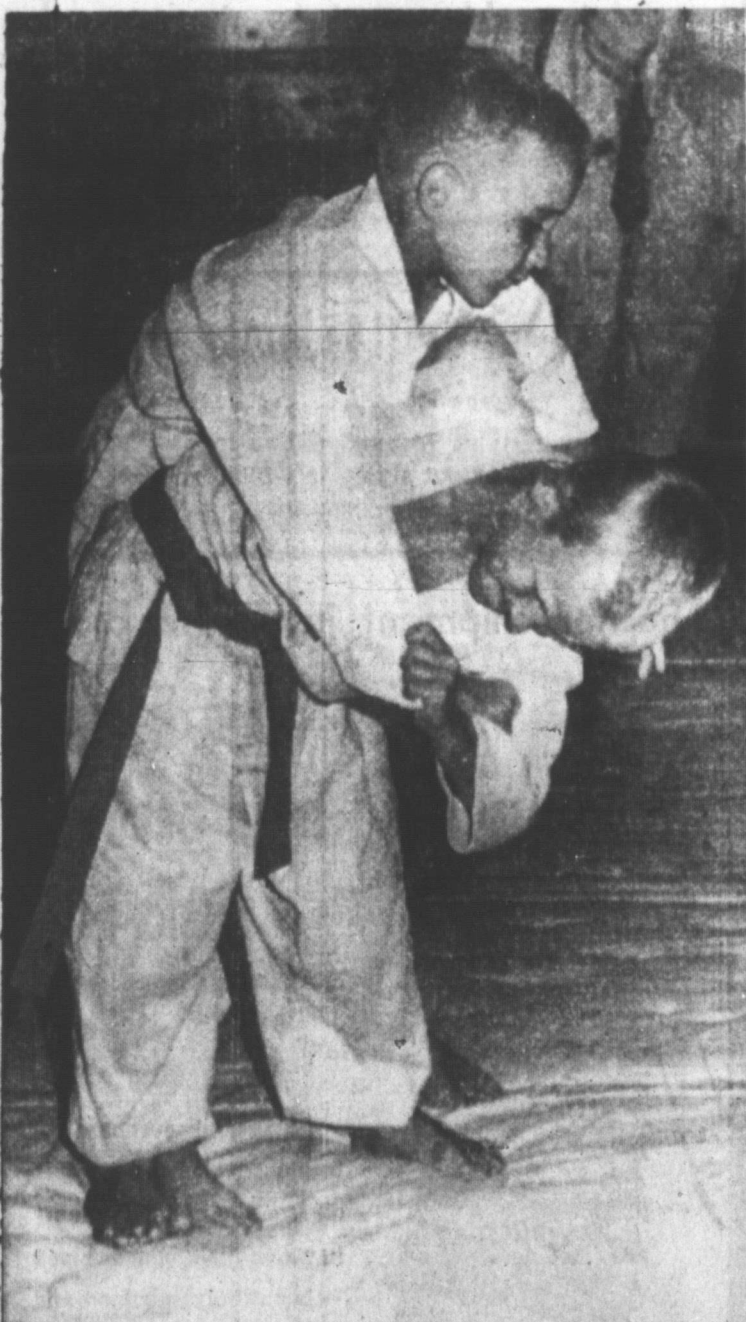

MEMBERS WHO take judo learn not only development of mind and body and self defense, but also learn that judo is a sport. Belts indicate the proficiency of a judo player. Each member begins as a white belt and advances to yellow, orange, green, brown and black belts. Judokas, as the members are known, earn belts by participating in and winning contests and by taking tests to demonstrate rank requirements.

PAMPA JUDO CLUB meets each Monday and Thursday evening from 7 to 9 at the Optimist Boys' Club. Anyone may join by contacting Brewer on judo nights at the Optimist Club. Monthly dues are .50 cents for individuals and $1 for families.

OFFICERS OF the club include Brewer, president and instructor; Paul Gobin, business manager, and Mrs. Samuel K. Moot, secretary-treasurer.

JAPANESE IS USED to name all the holds and throws. The cutlines start out with the Japanese words that describe the action in the pictures.

Sunday Passing Show

By PEGGY JO ORMON

NOW THAT classes have begun in local schools it is evident this year's school schedule will be as active as ever. The Pampa Harvester football team was given a rousing send-off into its 1966-67 fall schedule Thursday evening with a pep rally in Coronado Center, co-sponsored by the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Coronado Merchants' Committee. Then the Harvesters met the Perryton Rangers Friday night in Harvester Stadium under the competent direction of Coach Eural Ramsey. The PHS Band looked great as usual during half-time activities. The student body gave the team much added encouragement with cheers led by Debbie Roper, Gail Craddock, Linda Watson, Marilyn Milliron and Ann Monroe, cheer leaders. The Harvesters have looked real good in scrimmages this year and the victory Friday evening made it apparent Pampa is going to have a team to be proud of, so let's all get behind them and give moral support by attending their games. Rehearsals are underway for Pampa High School's cappella choir's upcoming presentation of Meredith Willson's "Here's Love." Hugh Sanders is directing the production which is slated to be presented the evenings of Nov. 17, 18, and 19 in PHS Auditorium. Lead roles are being portrayed by Paul Connel as Kris Kringle, Vicki Autry as Doris, Jan Farley as Fred, Terry Trice as Marvin Shelhamer, Ricky Roach as Mr. Macy and Kim Wilson as Susan. Mrs. Bob Sybert has an interesting new job as school nurse for Lefors, Skellytown and Grandview schools. Mrs. Lillian Blithe is back in town after enjoying a trip to Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, where she visited her granddaughter Mrs. James Shell, and a three-month tour of Texas visiting relatives. The Bill Cammione family has returned from a Minnesota vacation. Friends of Carl Wright of Fort Collins, Colo., former Pampa who has been seriously ill, will be happy to learn he is much improved. Many will remember Mrs. Wright who is a past Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Woman of the Year.

FALL ALSO brings on a new club year. Pampa's five Twentieth Century Clubs will start individual study sessions and activities after the President's Coffee slated for the morning of Sept. 27 in Lovett Memorial Library auditorium. Hostess club for the coffee will be Twentieth Century Culture with Mrs. Rufe Jordan serving as chairman. Presidents and their respective clubs to be honored include Mrs. Bob Andis, Twentieth Century Club; Mrs. Donald Hauck, TC Forum; Mrs. R. A. Johnson, TC Allegro; Mrs. Don Morrison, TC Cotillion, and Mrs. J. L. Chase, T. C. Culture. El Progreso Club has a special treat in store when Mrs. Carlton Nance and Mrs. V. J. Drew hostess a coffee in the Nance home Tuesday. Raymond Nance, who went to Honduras this summer on the Amigo de Honduras program, will tell of his trip. This project is featured in the September issue of "Good Housekeeping" under the title "A Teenage Mission of Love." Civic Culture Club will start its program for the year when it meets Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Frank Grantham. Mrs. Guy Crawford of Borger, Top of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs president, will be guest speaker. Treble Clef Club ushered in the new club year with a program on "Latin American Music" when the group met Tuesday evening in City Club Room. Mrs. Lois Fagan, president, introduced those appearing on the program. Mrs. Hester Branham presented notes on the "Hymn of the Month" and led the group in singing "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life," accompanied by Miss Eloise Lane, Mrs. Faye Dellis Adams spoke on "Latin American Music," painting a very realistic background for the music to follow. An instrumental ensemble from Borger, composed of Mrs. H. L. Wendell, piano; Mrs. Cecil Rentfrow, violin, and Mrs. Mahlon E. Ingam, opened the musical part of the program. Dressed in colorful Latin American costumes they presented "Paso Doble," "La Paloma" and "Siboney." Mrs. Joe Hill, soprano, accompanied by daughter Jo Ann, sang "La Cucaracha," a Mexican folk song. Mrs. Carl Schaffer, accompanied by Mrs. Fagan, sang "La Paloma" and directed the group as they sang "La Golondrina" and "Ceilito Lindo." The Borger ensemble concluded the program by presenting "Ceilito Lindo," "Jurome," "Blue Tango" and "San Antonio Rose."

WHAT FOLLOWS mini-skirts? Why mini-suits for men. The mini-suit made its debut in London last Wednesday. It has a conventional jacket and is worn with a conventional shirt and a conventional tie. But the trousers end ten inches above the knee. British weather being what it is, designer Hardy Amies suggested his mini-suit be worn in Australia. We suggest South Texas. Fred and Virginia Brook journeyed back to Lake City, Colo., for the Labor Day weekend in their cabin. Mrs. Lucy Line spent July and August with the Brooks and her son, Ed Line of Hereford, who also has a summer home near Lake City. The Jeff Beardsens left Friday for Columbia, Mo., accompanied by daughter Martha, who will be a student at Stephen's College there this year. The Crusader Sunday School Class of First Methodist Church enjoyed a lovely back-yard coffee recently at the home of Mrs. E. E. Fisher. My only brother, who lives in Houston, not only plays golf but also "plays" the stock market a little. He says the way the stock market averages have been seeing, his golf average is at least stable. It stays in a slump. Leslie Watkins, daughter of the Vernon Watkins, has enrolled in the University of Texas after spending the summer as a cheerleader instructor at several cheerleader camps over the state. Marilyn Steele, daughter of the Dudley Steples has returned to Dallas after a tour of Europe and a visit with her parents. Miss Steele is a history teacher in Dallas' Woodrow Wilson High School.

MRS. BILL GETHING, Mrs. S. Gene Hall, Mrs. Rex McAnelly, Mrs. Bill Roots and Mrs. J. E. Thompson started off the fall social season by entertaining a large group of friends at a coffee yesterday morning in Coronado Inn's Pampa Club. Mrs. J. C. Morrison returned yesterday after spending most of the summer in the Morrison's home at Red River, N.M. Mrs. S. G. Evans spent the past week at her summer home in Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hamilton and sons of Levelland spent a few days last week visiting Mrs. Hamilton's mother, Mrs. J. W. Graham, and sister and family, the Tom Wades. Recent weekend guests of the Leon Pattersons were Mrs. Patterson's cousin and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt and daughter Cheryl of Moscow, Kan. Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Kent Stevens of Euless, who were married Aug. 6 in Dallas, were honored at a reception last Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. Stevens' grandmother, Mrs. R. B. McAfee. The reception, which was also a surprise shower, was hosted by Mrs. R. C. Collier, Mrs. Dean Munday, Mrs. E. N. Franklin, Mrs. Mack Harmon and Mrs. B. A. Sumner. Many Pampans will remember Mr. Stevens who made his home with his grandmother as a youth. He is now associated with Maryland American General Insurance Co. in Dallas as an investigator. Mrs. Stevens is employed with Otis Engineering Co. of Dallas. Some 60 friends and relatives including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wood and son of Dumas attended the event. THOUGHT FOR TODAY (quoted from the newsletter of the National Family Opinion, Inc., consumer market research firm in Toledo, Ohio) "Oh Lord, through all life's varied trail, 'till earth's machine I quit, help me to be a drop of oil and not a piece of grit."

Carolyn Scott, Kenneth Hall Are Wed

Mrs. Kenneth Earl Hall
... nee Miss Carolyn Scott

Candelabra bearing white tapers and greenery amid baskets of white mums and daisies provided the setting for the wedding of Miss Carolyn Scott, daughter of Mrs. William H. Scott of Plainview and the late Mr. Scott, formerly of Pampa to Kenneth Earl Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon L. Hall of 2234 Duncan.

Dr. Tim Trammell, pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony, held in the First Baptist Church of Plainview at 3 p.m. Sept. 4.

Organist was Mrs. Charles Hall of Pampa, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Mrs. David Walker of Halfway was vocalist. Selections included "Because," "Bless This House" and "Walk Hand in Hand."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Carl Lam of Plainview. She wore a white floor-length gown of lace over bridal satin with a fitted bodice and bell skirt, fashioned by her mother. The scalloped neckline was beaded with pearls and sequins by the bride's aunt, Mrs. True Smith of Dallas. The long, tapered sleeves were accented with beaded pearls and sequins, and a white satin beaded bow was formed at the waistline in the back. The bride also wore a drop seed pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom, and white satin shoes with beaded bows. Her shoulder-length tiered veil of French illusion fell from a crown of pearls and aurora borealis crystals. She carried a bouquet of yellow rosebuds with white stephanotis.

atop a white Bible, which had been used by her sister in her wedding. The first wedding rings of both mothers were tied in the bouquet and white satin streamers. As she came down the aisle, she paused to give her mother a yellow rose and a kiss, and as she left, she gave the bridegroom's mother the same token.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Mike Tingle, bridegroom's cousin, of Amarillo, and bridesmaid was Mrs. Willis Watson of Pampa, sister of the bride. Both wore sleeveless dresses of yellow brocade satin with sweetheart necklines and waltz-length bell skirts. They also wore white long gloves, single strands of pearls given by the bride, and headpieces of yellow tulle attached to a yellow rose in the center. Both carried a yellow rose on a background of greenery with yellow streamers.

Charles Hall of Pampa served his brother as best man. Groomsman was James Hall of Pampa, brother of the bridegroom. David Walker of Halfway and James Hall were ushers.

Candles were lighted by Rusty Lam of Plainview, nephew of the bride, and Rebecca Hall of Pampa, niece of the bridegroom. Belinda Lam of Plainview, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and Kevin Hall of Pampa, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the lower auditorium of the church. The table was decorated with a bouquet of yellow mums and white carnations, with four yellow candles. The bride's bouquet was placed on white linen. The three-tiered wedding cake, with the bottom layer in the shape of a diamond, was adorned with white wedding bells and yellow rosebuds.

At the punch bowl was Mrs.

Verne Sanders of San Bernardino, Calif., bridegroom's aunt, with Mrs. Carl Lam, sister of the bride, of Plainview, serving the cake. They were assisted by Mrs. Bill Dunn of Plainview. Guests were registered by Miss Mary Wetezal, with the bouquets of the matron of honor and bridesmaid and a floating rose bowl on the table.

Use Fats Moderately

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q — I am very confused by the ads I see about the relationship between heart disease and the kinds of margarine and salad oil I should use in my home. Will you explain?

A — Here's the latest answer from a group of outstanding medical and nutritional experts on the question of fats in the diet. More daily exercise and a moderate reduction in dietary fat, are recommended for normal health in a recent report, "Dietary Fat and Human Health" by the National Research Council.

So much scientifically unproved material has been written about polysaturated fats and saturated fats and heart disease in the past several years that many readers say they are afraid to use anything but polysaturated fats, such as corn oil, cotton seed or safflower, either in liquid form or in margarines. They avoid butter, whole milk, lard, meat fat and other saturated fats even though they often prefer them.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burgin of Skellytown are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ellen Turner of White Deer and the late Mr. J. C. Turner.

Rev. Oland Butler, pastor of White Deer Methodist Church, officiated the rites before an altar centered by a large arrangement of white gladioli and yellow roses flanked by white wrought iron candelabra bearing cathedral tapers. Green lemon leaves entwined the altar bannisters. Pews of honor were marked with large yellow ribbon bows.

Mrs. Cletus Imel, aunt of the bride, organist, presented a program of nuptial selections and accompanied Frankie Williams as he sang "The Twelfth of Never" and, as the couple knelt following the rites, "Whither Thou Goest."

Attired in a formal gown of peau de soie, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage with the "her mother and I avowal." Her gown, designed and made by her grandmother, Mrs. A. E. Imel of Skellytown, featured an empire waist lined with a row of chantilly lace, a bateau neck line and long sleeves terminating in petal points over the hands. The chapel train of peau de soie was attached at the shoulders. The bride's chapel length veil of illusion fell gracefully from a seed pearl tiara. She carried a cascading bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations bearing two yellow rose buds which were given to her mother and the bridegroom's mother as symbols of her love.

Miss Janet Wedge, cousin of the bride, maid of honor, was attired in a floor-length gown fashioned of gold peau de soie with empire styling and carried a cascading arrangement of yellow rose buds and white carnations. Miss Nan Harmon, dressed in a gown styled in yellow peau de soie and carrying a cascading bouquet of white carnations, attended as bridesmaid.

Best man to the bridegroom was Bud Roam of Amarillo while Bill Gann served as groomsmen. Sharing ushers duties were Wayne Burgin, brother of the bride, and Larry May.

Judy and Rodney Imel, cousins of the bride, lit the cathedral tapers. Miss Connie Imel, cousin of the bride, registered guests. Guests were greeted in the Fellowship Hall of the church at the reception following the wedding ceremony. The bride's table covered with a white lace cloth over yellow, was centered with the bride's bouquet. A program of background piano selections was presented by Mrs. Larry Marlar. The three-tiered wedding cake which was decorated with yellow rose buds and bells and topped with a miniature bride and groom standing under an arch of yellow roses was served by Mrs. Dale Imel, aunt of the bride. Presiding at the crystal punch bowl was Miss Sammy Jo Denney.

The bride chose a tan linen two-piece suit with yellow accessories for traveling on a wedding trip. She lifted the yellow rose corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The new Mrs. Turner, a 1965 graduate of White Deer High School, is a sophomore at West Texas State University at Canyon. She is presently employed at the Canyon Drug. Dear Abby....

Some People Are Just Plain Ignorant

DEAR ABBY: My mother was Jewish. My father was not. I married a gentile, and I suppose there are people who do not know my background although I have never tried to hide it.

To get to the point: Recently I was a guest at a cocktail party in the home of some very prominent and respected gentile people. Another guest started making small talk with me, and in casual conversation he made some very degrading remarks about "the Jews." I remained silent, but of course I was hurt.

Now I am wondering if perhaps I should have said something. And if so, what?

DEAR HURT: Bigotry and bad manners are boorish, whether perpetrated on one who is half-Jewish or 99.44 Chippewa. Unless one would reveal his own insecurity, the best response is sincere (and silent) pity rather than uttered (and futile) censure. You cannot hope to educate a bigot with one short lecture at a cocktail party.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns my husband who I shall call "Stupid" because that's what he is. Stupid met a married woman who is nuts about the zodiac horoscope and he is up to his ears in astrology. She asked him when his birthday was and when mine was, and then she told him that he should be married to a Scorpio (that's what she is) not a Virgo (that's what I am) if he wanted a long life and romantic one.

Stupid won't make any decisions or go on a trip or anything unless he asks his zodiac lady first. He believes everything she tells him. This woman is about to break up my home. What should I do?

DEAR WIFE: Married women who put stars in the eyes of married men are buying a one-way ticket to outer space. Tell Stupid to come down to earth and knock off the foolishness.

DEAR ABBY: I am a very affectionate guy who married what I thought was a very affectionate girl, but boy, how she's changed.

At first she started making excuses like, "You'll miss my hair." Then it was, "I'm tired." Now it's come to the point where she says she doesn't care for "all that kid stuff."

I am 30 and she is 28. I made out better when I was single. Any advice?

MARRIAGE ON THE ROCKS
DEAR MARRIAGE: Level with her. Ask her why the big freeze. Perhaps you are less loveable now than you used to be. If all that has changed is your wife's attitude, get to the bottom of that. When a marriage goes on the rocks, the rocks are usually in the mattress.

DEAR ABBY: What would you say about parents who punish their children by depriving them of their music lessons? My husband is a guitar teacher and his students love to take lessons. He often gets calls from parents who tell us that Johnny can't take his lesson this week because he has misbehaved. Don't people realize this is our livelihood?

TEACHER'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: I would hope that children are given music lessons not so much to provide a livelihood for teachers, but to avail the child of a musical education.

Parents should find another way to "punish" their "little Johnny" and give him guitar lessons with no strings attached.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069 for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

TEL Class Enjoys
Covered-Dish Meet

SKELLYTOWN (Spl) — TEL Sunday School Class of Skellytown First Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. E. L. Jordan Friday evening for a regular meeting and covered-dish supper. Mrs. Bill Thompson was co-hostess.

Mrs. Thompson gave the invocation and Mrs. Walt Shair presented the Devotional. Mrs. M. L. Mills was in charge of a Bible quiz.

Each guest attending presented the hostess with a gift. Members present were Mmes Della Gasaway, W. G. Shair, Ola Bateman, Bill Thompson, Jackie Cooper, Emma Gores, Bill Price, Oscar Gould, Cecil Pearce, Myrtle Spence, M. L. Mills, and one visitor, Mrs. O. R. Grant.

First it was the mini-skirt, that abbreviated outfit the girls took to in droves. Now, comes along the mini-nightie, designed by Chuck Howard. He does it in patterned tricet chifon, with accordion pleated nightdress well above the knees and worn over matching bikini base.

"He is infinite"

Men will never be satisfied until they know the reality of God's infinite ever-presence and meet its demands for deep, spiritual growth and the transformation of their lives. You are invited to hear a public lecture exploring this subject by JULES CERN, C.S., a member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The lecture is titled "Christian Science: Its Divine Revelation and Human Application."

WTSU Chapel Is Scene of Wedding

In a double-ring ceremony, Miss Velma Lynne Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Larson of Canyon, became the bride of Jeryl Lynn Vance, son of Mr. A. M. Vance of 1169 Varnon Dr. and Mrs. N. G. Wampler of 1108 Juniper.

Rev. Marvin Roark, pastor of Kentwood Methodist Church at Big Spring, and cousin of the bride, officiated at the ceremony, read at 8 o'clock on Sept. 3 in the Joseph A. Hill Chapel at West Texas State University in Canyon.

The chapel was decorated with a satin-draped altar holding floral arrangements of orange and gold mums at the base of five-branched candelabra. Backing the altar was a large arch-type candelabra and palm clusters. The ends of the altar were marked with large spiral candelabra accented with palm clusters. Flanking the wedding party were large floor baskets of orange and gold mums and traditional seven-branched candelabra. The bridal aisle was marked with clusters of mums and lemon foliage and the traditional white runner.

Alternating on the harp and organ were Mrs. Thomas Henshaw and Julie Richards, with Mrs. M. M. Meacham as vocalist. All are from Amarillo. Prelude music included Handel's "Largo" from "Xerxes," "Ave Maria" by Bach-Gounod and "On Wings of Song" by Mendelssohn. Processional was "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" by Wagner. Recessional was "Wedding March" from a "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn. Vocal selections were "One Hand, One Heart" from "Westside Story," "Calm as the Night" by Bohm and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white formal sheath gown of charilly lace over silk taffeta with a large cape ruffle around the sabrina neckline and long petal point sleeves. The waist train, edged with a band of silk taffeta, fell to full chapel-length. Her three-tiered imported English illusion veil was attached to a silk rose coil. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white gardenias and feathered carnations, accented with English ivy garlands. Beneath her bouquet, the bride carried a small white Bible, presented to her in 1951 by the late Lt. Col. Morris U. Lively, U. S. Army Reserve, then chaplain at Veterans' Administration Hospital in Amarillo.

Matron of honor was Mrs. B. J. Sutton of Grapevine, sister of the bride. She wore an orange crepe formal gown fashioned on the Empire line. Her headpiece was a matching fabric rose with a two-tiered veil. She carried a cascade cluster of orange clivia lilies accented with camellia foliage. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Julian Berry of Canyon and Miss Jacquetta Vance of Pampa, sister of the bridegroom. They wore identical gowns of brass color with matching headpieces, and carried cascade clusters of lilies.

Larry Raymond Holman of Canyon was best man. Groomsman were Teddy Vance, brother of the bridegroom and Julian Berry of Canyon. Ushers were Dr. Larry Roush, brother of the bride. (See WTSU, Page 22)

Father of Bridegroom Officially Rites

Mrs. Billy Gene Everson
nee Miss Barbara Neil Osborne

WHITE DEER — First Baptist Church was the scene of the recent wedding rites uniting Miss Barbara Neil Osborne and Billy Gene Everson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Osborne of White Deer.

Rev. and Mrs. Warren Everson of Crowell are the parents of the bridegroom.

Rev. Everson, father of the bridegroom, officiated the double-ring ceremony at 6 o'clock the evening of Aug. 26 amid a setting of tiered candelabra entwined with garlands of green foliage. Baskets of white gladioli flanked the kneeling bench. Pews of honor were marked with white satin bows.

A program of appropriate nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Diane Dalton, organist, who also accompanied Mrs. Mary Mitchell, as she sang "Whither Thou Goest," "Each for the Other" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal wedding gown fashioned with a bouffant skirt of chantilly lace over taffeta. The scooped neckline and traditional pointed sleeves framed the fitted bodice. The gown was enhanced by a chapel train flowing from the neckline. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion fell from a seed pearl and crystal tiara. She carried a cascading bouquet of white carnations atop a white Bible. Her only jewelry was a single strand of cultured pearls.

Bridal attendants, dressed identically in waist-length gowns of orchid lace over taffeta designed with fitted bodices and bell-shaped skirts, were Miss Doris Johnson, maid of honor, and Misses Kathryn Osborne and Janie Sandlin, bridesmaids. Each wore an orchid lace hat with brief illusion veil and carried a nosegay of white carnations. Miss Jacque Osborne, sister of the bride, flower girl, was attired in an empire styled dress of orchid lace and taffeta.

She was escorted by Chad Short.

Guests were greeted in the reception room of the church following the pledging of vows. The bride's table, covered with a white lace cloth over satin was centered with a crystal candelabra surrounded by the bridal attendants' bouquets. Mrs. Dorothy Osborne served the three-tiered wedding cake and Miss Becky Osborne presided at the crystal punch service.

Prior to departing on a wedding trip to Six Flags Over Texas, the new Mrs. Everson donned a pink whipped cream dress topped with a coat of Italian lace accented by white accessories and the corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet. The newlyweds are making their home at 411 Hill St.

Out-of-town guests attending were Mrs. R. S. Heskey of Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Everson and family of Groom, Mrs. Dale Everson and daughter of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Everson and family of Dumas, Mr. and Mrs. James Borchardt and son of Crowell, Printiss Gidney of Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. James Baird and Jimmy Flint of Pampa.

Mrs. Billy Lon Culver nee Miss Shirley Anne West

GROOM — Miss Shirley Anne West became the bride of Billy Lon Culver in a double-ring ceremony solemnized the afternoon of Aug. 28 in First Methodist Church of Groom. Rev. M. W. Reynolds of Rule officiated.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Jack West. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Culver Jr.

The altar with a gold cross and gold candlesticks, which centered the nuptial scene, shone against a background of wrought iron candelabra bearing white candles and decorated with yellow daisies. Grecian columns and urns of white gladioli, yellow mums and white daisies were placed at each end of the chancel rail. Greenery plants were placed at vantage points to complete the decor.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie in cameo ivory tone, featuring appliques of alencon lace and myriads of seed pearls. The gown, made by the bride's grandmother, was designed with fitted bodice, bell skirt and lace pointed sleeves. The chapel train was of peau de soie attached by a band at the waist. The veil of illusion was held by a rosette headpiece. The bride carried a formal bouquet of miniature carnations, gardenias and stephanotis atop a Bible. For something old the bride carried a handkerchief that belonged to her grandmother, something new was a string of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. The veil was borrowed from her sister. She wore a blue garter and in her shoe she placed a sixpence from England sent to her by a cousin.

Mrs. Kenneth Jackson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Judy Case and Miss Margaret West, sister of the bride. The attendants wore dresses of yellow crepe. Their headpieces and gloves were of matching lace.

Will the college man wear the new Mod clothing that has become the most talked about young men's fashion in recent years? The answer, according to Gentlemen's Quarterly Campus and Career Annual, is that the total Mod look probably is for teen-agers only. Individual items marked to appeal to college men include the pea jacket, the floral tie, the wide belt, and hip-riding slacks.

Double-ring nuptials were solemnized at 3 o'clock the afternoon of Sept. 3, uniting Miss Gleda Suzanne Darling and Gerald Wayne Sikes. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Glen Arnold Darling of 1706 Aspen and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Sikes of 1701 Grape. Rev. Charles J. Welter, C.M., pronounced the ceremony in St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church before an altar appointed with basket arrangements of white gladioli and candelabra.

Pews of honor were noted with white peau de soie bows and green jade foliage. A white aisle cloth led to the wedding scene. Mrs. Jack Edwards, organist, presented a program of wedding selections and accompanied Mrs. Johnny Garcia as she sang, "Ave Maria," "The Lord's Prayer," and "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother."

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal gown of peau de soie fashioned with sheath lines. The scoop neckline and lower center skirt-front were accented by motifs of chantilly lace. The full-length sleeves tapered to petal points. A chapel train, edged with the chosen lace, fell gracefully from the back waistline. A peau de soie petal coil held the bride's elbow-length three-tiered veil of imported English illusion. She carried a cascading bouquet of white pom poms centered with gardenias. Nestled in the bouquet were two red roses, one of which she presented to her mother as she approached the altar and the other to the mother of the bridegroom following the rites.

Bridal attendants, Mrs. Joel Fondren of Lubbock, matron of honor; Miss Patsy Vaughn and Miss Janie Leverich, bridesmaids, and Miss Cindy Darling, sister of the bride, junior bridesmaid, were attired in floor-length gowns of gold brocade and peau de soie accented by back chiffon panels. Each carried a cascading bouquet of bronze mums, coral carnations and jade leaves.

Serving his brother as best man was Gary Sikes while Terry Criss and Ronnie Babcock served as groomsmen with Johnny Johnson, cousin of the bride, serving as junior groomsmen. Sharing ushers duties were Charles Snuggs and Danny Cox.

Marshall Hopkins, ringbearer, carried the rings on a gold peau de soie pillow trimmed with white lace.

St. Vincent's Reception Hall was the setting for the reception following the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with a white lace cloth with an organdy skirt, was centered with an arrangement of gladioli. White wedding bells held by gold ribbon draped the table edge. Mrs. Alvin Soukup served the three-tiered wedding cake, which was topped by a miniature bridal couple while Mrs. Vaughn Pittman presided at the punch bowl. Guests were registered by Mrs. Art Freeman.

The newlyweds toured points of interest in Colorado on their wedding trip. For traveling the new Mrs. Sikes changed into a two-piece suit of burnt orange featuring an A-line skirt and box jacket. Bronze accessories and the gardenia corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet completed her costume. The couple

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

New Win for Market Place

With 130 governments of the world (our own making 131) riding the backs of the American taxpayer and what's left of our capitalist free enterprise market economy to the tune of $116 billion in free gifts doled out by our elected and appointed "representatives" since 1945, members of the "socialist conglomerate" in utter unthinkingness continue to beat "capitalism won't work" freedom has failed.

What a commentary on the American "educational" system and the ivory towers and halls of Academe!

And while vested interest bureaucrats, egged on by altruists, special pleaders, and phony humanitarians, continue to put together peace corps, job corps, head-start, false-start and upstart programs, financed with funds created by the capitalism that won't work, as they repeat the worn out cliché "if the market place won't do it, government must," that same market place, burdened down with taxes and bureaucratic interference, continues to throw the lie back in their teeth.

Latest evidence of the continuing vitality of the market place and concern on the part of individuals for those less fortunate comes from Cleveland, Ohio, where engineers and technicians of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. have developed a device which will provide a "voice" for handicapped children who cannot communicate their needs. The development was reported in a recent issue of the Lima (Ohio) News.

"Two employees of the power company," according to the report, "learned that the Sunbeam School for Crippled Children in Cleveland was faced with a severe communications problem. Several children, because of their handicaps, could not make known their basic needs. School personnel had tried several aids, but all proved unworkable. They needed a device to 'speak' for the children. The two employees, volunteering their own time, and the company, its laboratory facilities, began investigating the possibility of providing these handicapped children with a 'voice'."

Well, to make a long story short, after a rather extensive period of testing and retesting, an easy to operate, completely self-contained, light-weight and portable electric signal device was developed. Using 10 push-button switches and indicator lights, each of which can be labeled for a child's specific needs, handicapped children at the Sunbeam School will be able to communicate.

The electric company engineers and technicians, reports the News, are now perfecting the final pilot model and, when completed, six of the "voice" devices will be presented free to the school.

But that is not all! Since the device, with appropriate modifications, appears to be adaptable throughout the country for use by all categories of handicapped children and adults, the power company is making plans and specifications available without charge to interested crippled children's schools and other therapy groups.

Once again free enterprise comes through. While governmental agencies, working with ill-gotten funds, indulge in regulation writing and paper clip stringing, the market place, working voluntarily and with its own funds, acts and comes up with concrete results.

Red Shadow Over Thailand

More is at stake in the Viet Nam war than Viet Nam alone, and most Americans seem to share this belief — that the future of all Southeast Asia hinges upon the success or failure of the resistance to Communist designs on this one land.

Lately, however, evidence has been accumulating that the Communists are not waiting upon the outcome in Viet Nam to expand their operations in Southeast Asia. In Thailand, a remarkably small number of Communist insurgents — the Thai Cong — are beginning to cause the government a remarkably great amount of trouble.

The similarity between Thailand today and Viet Nam a few years ago is disturbing. Here again, a military government — albeit a popular one — is combating the same terrorism, experiencing the same difficulties in winning the loyalty of the peasants and committing the same errors as did a succession of regimes in South Viet Nam.

The situation is disturbing, at least to the implacable critics of President Johnson's tactics in Viet Nam. Sen. J. William Fulbright, the senator, who fears we may be sliding into another Viet-type war, has announced hearings by his Foreign Relations Committee on U.S. policy in Thailand.

Already there are more U.S. troops in Thailand than were in South Viet Nam at this time a year ago, although the majority are Air Force personnel stationed at bases from which strikes against North Viet Nam and the Ho Chi Minh trail are launched.

But the Thai government is reportedly pressing for more active U.S. aid against the Communists on its territory in the form of more counter-insurgency teams and American-piloted helicopters.

The unpleasant surprise story of 1966 was the unforeseen willingness and capacity of the Communists in Viet Nam to take and dish out punishment on every level of escalation.

It is to be hoped that the unpleasant surprise of 1967 will not concern Thailand.

Parking Meters Vanishing

The parking meter may be going the way of the old hitching post.

The American Automobile Association reports a trend toward the removal of these coin-fied sentinels in many U.S. cities. The purpose, of course, is to lure customer back to urban business areas.

In a study of 42 cities by the association's Traffic Safety and Engineering Department, it was found that 35 had removed all or most of their curb parking meters.

Among the other findings of the survey: —Most of the cities are under 25,000 population — although one, St. Petersburg, Fla., is over 180,000.

Retail sales didn't noticeably increase after the removal of the meters.

The loss in annual parking meter revenue has varied between $1,000 and $220,000.

The majority of cities did not alter parking time limits — usually two hours — when meters were removed.

It's a good try, and it may be too early to make a final judgment, but it seems obvious that the cities need a lot more answers to the competition of suburban shopping centers with their convenience and unlimited parking.

A thought for the day: Napoleon Bonaparte said: "United for the public safety, if you would remain an independent nation."

Death Price Of Vote in Viet Election

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Today, election day in South Viet Nam, will be a major test of Viet Cong power.

For the first time, on one day all over South Viet Nam, the Communists have decided to put their chips on one co-ordinated objective — to keep candidates from running and people from voting. This was disclosed in a series of agent reports and captured documents.

The Viet Cong leaders have decided that if they can frighten off most candidates and most voters they will convince the Vietnamese government is weak and that the VC are the real power in the country.

The captured documents and agent reports don't make it clear how the Communists expect to explain away failure.

For a heavy vote on Sept. 11, despite widespread Communist terrorism to keep Vietnamese from the polls — will expose Viet Cong weakness.

How far the Communists are willing to go is shown in these documents, agent reports and open sources:

In Binh Tuy Province, VC squads entered villages, told the people they would be murdered if they voted.

In a hamlet in Long Khanh Province, VC agents told the people they'd throw grenades into voting booths on election day.

All the inhabitants of a village in Hau Nghia Province were assembled by VC cadres and told that all who voted would be decapitated.

In Long An Province, VC officials issued orders to their cadres to block off roads leading to the polls election day. Guerrilla units were ordered to gather near polling places and cause confusion.

In Binh Thuan Province, the Communists held political indoctrination courses for VC agents. These cadres were to return to their VC hamlets and conduct 10-day courses in election disrupting techniques.

These courses included instruction in invalidating ballots and on printing false ballots and false voter cards. Cadres were ordered to follow through election day with harassing gunfire and armed attacks on the polls.

Other hamlets report the VC are forcibly taking voters' registration cards. Without them, the people cannot vote.

A VC bomb thrown at a pre-election political rally-carnival at Hue killed 26.

But some Viet Cong attacks have backfired already.

The Communists raided a political party headquarters in Quang Tin Province, killing party leaders and wounding the leading local candidate so badly he lost both legs.

But this tough candidate has sent word he intends to run anyway.

Most eligible adults 18 and over have registered for the election. Out of a total adult population of 18 million, more than 5 million have filled out the pre-election forms. Most not registering live in Red-controlled areas.

If the VC fail in their efforts, after having made the election a terrorist issue, they will have committed a political blunder of first order.

Very Bad Advice

(Washington Evening Star)

It is one thing for Stokely Carmichael, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, to go around preaching his black power doctrine, whatever he may mean by the phrase. When on this theme, he stays well within the protection of the 1st Amendment, and at worst he does nothing more than discredit himself and his movement.

He is skating on very thin ice, however, when he moves on to the subject of the war in Viet Nam. In a speech to a rally in Detroit, he has been accurately reported, he said Negroes should refuse to fight in Viet Nam; that they should "stay right here — and fight right here." He was also quoted as saying: "We ought to tell everyone, 'We aren't going to fight your damned war.'"

This is bad advice — very bad. It does a disservice to the Negroes who are fighting, and doing a first-rate job of it, in Viet Nam. It can bring nothing but trouble to any Negro who might decide to follow Carmichael's counsel when called for service. Finally, if such advice does not violate the law, it comes very close to it.

The selective service act provides criminal penalties for any person who knowingly counsels, aids or abets another to refuse to avoid service in the armed forces. What is Stokely Carmichael doing?

Clash Over Gold Mining Subsidy Proposal Expected Between Administration and Gold State Legislators

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The Johnson Administration and a bipartisan group of Western and Midwestern legislators are on a head-on collision course over gold policies.

The stage for this explosive clash was set by little-noticed votes in the Senate and House.

Acting in close collaboration, the Interior committees of the two chambers rebuffed within 24 hours of each other, strenuous administration efforts to block bills to subsidize gold mining in the U.S. The measures were approved by decisive majorities, and are now awaiting consideration by the Senate and House.

The controversial bills, while differing in methods and amount of subsidies, are designed to increase domestic gold production and to bolster the nation's steadily diminishing gold reserve.

As of September 1, these holdings had sagged to $13.2 billion — the lowest since 1938. At the same time foreign and other claims against this reserve rose to $28.7 billion — highest on record.

Under the Senate and House bills, the government would continue to purchase gold at $35 an ounce. But in addition, the Treasury would pay a certain percentage of the mining costs under a prescribed formula.

Estimates of the cost of this subsidy are nebulous and indefinite. Neither the supporters nor opponents of the legislation would hazard any figures. Both are agreed that the amount would "run into the millions."

While the U.S. gold reserve has steadily diminished since 1949, from $24.563 billion to $13.2 billion as of the first of this month, domestic production has consistently declined. From an output of 4.87 million ounces in 1940, production fell to 1.45 million ounces in 1964 — last authoritative figures available.

At the same time, gold consumption by industry and the arts increased from 1.05 million ounces in 1940 to 4.8 million ounces in 1964.

THE COMING BATTLE — Despite vigorous White House objections, Senate and House Democratic leaders plan to bring the gold subsidy bills to a vote before Congress adjourns.

The legislative leaders promised to do that after Democratic members from Western and Midwestern states declared this would help them in hotly contested election battles.

Significantly, Republican leaders also favor action. They want a free-wheeling floor discussion of the administration's service. Finally, if such advice does not violate the law, it comes very close to it.

The selective service act provides criminal penalties for any person who knowingly counsels, aids or abets another to refuse to avoid service in the armed forces. What is Stokely Carmichael doing?

fiscal policies, both at home and abroad.

Such a debate is viewed as a campaign boost to Senator Karl Mundt, R-S.D., one of the sponsors of the legislation, who is having a tough re-election fight. Gold mining is important in South Dakota's economy, and the issue of increasing gold output is playing a leading role in his contest.

Other sponsors of the measure, including several up for re-election, are Senators E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska; Alan Bible, D-Nev.; Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska; Thomas Kuchel, R-Calif.; Gale McGee, D-Wyo.; George McGovern, D-S.D.; Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.; and Frank Moss, D-Utah.

House sponsors and leading supporters are Representatives Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo.; Walter Baring, D-Nev.; E.Y. Berry, R-S.D.; John Dent, D-Pa.; Harold Johnson, D-Calif.; Robert Leggett, D-Calif.; Arnold Olsen, D-Mont.; and John Saylor, R-Pa.

THE STRATEGY — Three main arguments are the basis for the drive behind the gold mining subsidy — the steadily dwindling gold reserve, the adverse effect this is having on U.S. prestige abroad, and the favorable impact such legislation will have on the economy of Western and Midwestern states.

Led by Representatives Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., chairman, and John Saylor, Pa., ranking Republican of the House Interior Affairs Committee, the gold bloc will shortly make public a report warning that U.S. gold holdings will be completely exhausted by the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence — unless drastic measures are taken to increase them.

This jarring fact was admitted by Leland Howard, head of the Treasury's Office of Gold Operations, when he testified before the Aspinall committee in opposition to the subsidy measures.

After Howard had read a Treasury statement contending, "This legislation might upset the monetary system of the free world, since they are hinged to the inconvertibility of gold at $35 an ounce," he was besieged with challenging questions.

"If we keep losing gold as we have in recent years," declared Aspinall, "what will happen to this monetary system when we have no gold on deposit?"

"I think Secretary Fowler's statement that I just read explains that we have got to stop the drain on gold," replied Howard. "We must first correct the balance of payments problems. It could be a terribly disrupting thing not only for us but for the world if we don't stop this gold drain."

"We all know that," retorted Aspinall. "Administration after administration has made a hullabaloo about the balance of payments problem, but nobody has

Wit and Whimsy

Tomkins had asked Jenkins to dine with him, and the latter didn't turn up. A few days later, the men met and Tomkins said: Tomkins — Do you know I asked you to dinner the other night?

Jenkins — Oh, yes.

Tomkins — Then why didn't you come?

Jenkins — Let me think. I remember. I wasn't hungry!

Local Wife — Mac, why don't you play golf with Jack anymore?

Mac — Would you play golf with a man who moves the ball and puts down the wrong score when you're not looking?

Local Wife — I most certainly would not!

Mac — Well, neither will Jack.

Billy — Why does an ostrich have such a long neck?

Bobby — Because its head's so far from its body, I guess.

Really done anything about it?

"We are trying," said Howard.

"Do you disagree with the chairman that if the same regression occurs from 1966 to 1976 as had occurred from 1956 to 1966, there will be no gold in Fort Knox?" demanded Representative Saylor.

After a long pause, Howard replied: "Yes, if we have the same gold losses, we will be out of gold. Our supplies will be depleted."

WORST TO COME — "And the situation is becoming worse every day," declared Representative Compton White, D-Idaho. "It was brought out in testimony that the dollar is already considered soft by the International Monetary Fund."

"I wouldn't want to give that impression," said Howard. "I don't think we should go out of our way to scare the hell out of people."

"I don't want to scare anyone," snapped White. "I am stating what the situation is. I think the U.S. Treasury should state what the situation is rather than alluding to something that you hold as being possible or probable. Don't you personally believe the administration should support this legislation to increase our gold supply?"

"No," replied Howard flatly.

GOLD SPARKS — Interior Department records show that there are 342 mines producing gold in the U.S. In 1940 some 8,600 mines were in operation.

The U.S. which once led in world gold production, now is fourth and is out-produced by South Africa, Russia and Canada.

Last month the International Monetary Fund reported to the State Department that French businessmen in Viet Nam are doing a brisk business selling American gold at $50 an ounce to Southeast Asia.

It Can't Happen Here

(The Wall Street Journal)

It isn't likely, is it, that in the U.S. an agency of the government would suggest to a company that its spending on advertising and promotion is excessive, and would recommend that such expenditures be cut almost in half?

To be sure, in Britain something of the sort has happened. But then, it was a Labor government. The British Monopolies Commission charges two producers of detergent—Unilever Ltd. and Procter & Gamble Ltd.—with spending too much on their advertising. It recommends they cut spending by at least 40 percent, on the grounds that if they do, there can be a 20 percent reduction in wholesale prices.

For the commission's recommendation is not legally binding. But what it means is that the companies must enter into a sort of bargaining dialog with the British government, whether they want to or not. Understandably, the companies disagree with the commission's conclusions. They point out the obvious — which is that when properly expended, advertising funds result in lower distribution and unit costs than are possible, say, by spreading news about a product by means of a small army of doorbell ringers.

Moreover, it ought to be plain by now — as evidently it is not to the British Monopolies Commission — that unless product news is widely disseminated, as by advertising, the consumer is not alerted to the fact that there are choices available to him. And that there hardly can be a competitive economy in an absence of advertising.

For any governmental agency with the power to induce a reduction in advertising spending, and hence volume, surely has the power to bring about if it chooses, the elimination of advertising. Which, some people, who fret about what they—and many socialists—call the social cost of advertising, would like to see, together with packaging uniform in size, shape and color.

Here in the U.S., curtailment of advertising isn't being seriously espoused. Or is it? Well, a chief of the Justice Department's antitrust division, said that it would be "quite appropriate" in instances where companies acquire "undue market power" through violation of anti-trust laws, for the government to "impose... an absolute or percentage limitation on promotional expenditures" even though such expenditures "were and are lawful."

He also proposed that there be some form of government operated or subsidized "evaluation" of consumer products "at lower social cost" so as to make consumers less dependent on advertising for their product news, and to help them "spend their dollars more fruitfully." That is, to spend them the way the government thinks best.

What is happening to advertising and marketing in Britain can't really happen here... can it?

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE

How easy it is to make statements such as "I believe..." or "I think..." or "I love you," etc. But the ease with which such statements are made demonstrates a fundamental problem—that the importance of "I" has been overlooked.

What does the word "I" in the above phrases represent? When you say "I believe..." who is the "I" that is doing the talking?

Socrates said "Know thyself" — which is, of course, a life-long task. The "I" that is casually used in conversation is really the summation of a multitude of beliefs, experiences, ideas and attitudes. It is a label that is placed upon a totally unique entity — the human being doing the talking.

Each individual is different from all others. He is different because he has lived a different life, thought different thoughts, experienced different circumstances — all different from those of any other human being. No matter how close two people may be, each will be living his own life — although the other may be an important element in that life.

When the individual opens his mouth to utter the word "I," he is referring to that unique human being, unlike any other. And here is the point: Just how well does the individual understand the "I" when he expresses an opinion on behalf of it? Just how much does he really know about himself?

How qualified is he to use the word "I"? Can he say something on behalf of "I" and make it stick? Does he know himself well enough to be able to express a truly honest thought that really represents this unique "I"?

For example, when he says "I believe..." is it because he has thought this out for himself, in terms of his life, his view of reality, his thought processes? Or is he really expressing someone else's opinion and labeling it "I"? If he has surveyed the world around him, put two and two together and logically deduced a view of that world, then he can "This is what I believe" — even if someone else first suggested this view to him. For now it will be something he is sure of, something he has proven for himself. Now he has an "I" to express.

When he says, "I love you," is he speaking for someone he really knows? Is he saying in effect, "I understand myself. I know what life means to me, and I know that you are the person who gives my life meaning and purpose"? For it all begins with "I." One must understand who "I" is before he can say "I love you."

Know and understand the nature of yourself. If your morals, your philosophy, your attitudes have been formulated as your code of conduct — because of what you see in this world — then the word "I" when you say it will be meaningful. It will express honestly the viewpoint and intentions of that unique individual that is you.

But if you have not yet taken the trouble to understand yourself, others will not accept your statements at face value. For they will come to realize that "I" of whom you speak is not totally reliable or sure of himself.

Thrush Infection Perilous But Easily Controllable

Thrush, a disease of the mouth often seen in the newborn, is caused by a fungus (Candida albicans). Since this same organism may cause vaginitis, the infant may acquire the disease as he passes through the birth canal. Although the disease is not serious in older children, it may make nursing uncomfortable for the newborn and thus interfere with his early development. For this reason it should be treated promptly.

Since the fungus may be found in the atmosphere, an infant may acquire the infection from contaminated air or nipples. Older children may harbor the fungus in their mouths and show no signs of the disease unless they are suffering from malnutrition or unless treatment with antibiotics has killed off other harmless organisms and left them a clear field.

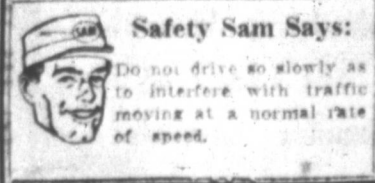

The disease causes the formation of white patches on the tongue or the mucous lining of the mouth. If the white "scum" is rubbed off (often a difficult procedure), the underlying surface is inflamed and may bleed. The infection usually responds readily to a variety of remedies. Benzalkonium chloride (Zephiran) or a one per cent solution of gentian violet applied two or three times is usually all that is needed. If the disease is resistant to these (a combination of tetracycline and nystatin) or Gly-Oxide may be used. The best procedure, however, is proper disinfection of anything a baby puts into his mouth during his first five or six months of life.

Q — Many young mothers carry or wheel their babies with the babies' eyes open and exposed to the sun. Isn't this likely to damage the infant's vision?

A — Fortunately the direct rays of the sun will cause an infant to close his eyes and turn his head away, so it is not likely that he would incur any serious damage to his vision. Nevertheless, I believe it is wise to be on the safe side and shade an infant's eyes from the sun.

Q — What would cause a 2½-year-old child to drool constantly even though he is through teething?

A — Chronic inflammation of the gums or tonsils, mercury poisoning (usually from calomel), cretinism and cerebral palsy are the most common causes.

Hollywood Report

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—This is one of those incredible stories about the movies that began the term "Cinderella."

There was this 17-year-old English girl, see, who worked in her father's stall in London's famous Flea Market on Portobello Road. She sold antiques with her mother and considered herself quite ordinary.

Then one November day a Hollywood producer named Judd Bernard, only recently a press agent, strolled into the stall looking for a painting to buy.

Bernard had been haunting England in search for a leading lady for Elvis Presley's new picture.

Last Easter he returned and the pretty little girl with the dark blonde hair and the enormous blue eyes was still at the Flea Market.

Bernard asked her parents permission to have her read part of the script of "Double Trouble" for him. She did. He was impressed.

Bernard and MGM brought the youngster to Hollywood for a screen test. She passed muster all around. She was, in fact, signed to an exclusive contract to the studio.

Her name is Annette Day. She has never acted in her life. Not even in a school play. Nor had she any acting ambitions.

No Carnaby Street hipster, Annette is unspoiled and unsure of herself. Sexy she isn't. Her figure is more that of a child than a woman. She thinks and talks in terms of the very young, too.

"I was only 8 or 9 years old when Elvis became famous," she said in her MGM dressing room. "I was a fan of his. But I never dreamed of meeting him; much less working with him in films."

"Even now I hardly believe it's true."

It's true all right. And near the end of the picture Annette wistfully talked about someday being able to afford to buy her own automobile. Word got back to Presley.

Shortly thereafter a gleaming new sports car mysteriously appeared outside her dressing room. It was wrapped in ribbons and bows, a present from her leading man.

While Miss Thomas was being handled precisely right, poor Tammy Grimes was sabotaged Thursday night by the people behind her new half-hour ABC-TV situation comedy, in which she plays a madcap, good-hearted heiress. The makers of "The Tammy Grimes Show" had a million-dollar baby, but they put her in a 10-cent script. In the opener, she got stuck on a Navy cruise while trying to give her brother a present. The whole banal mess was reminiscent of the misuse of the Smothers brothers in their CBS-TV series last season. Wrong format, wrong everything.

What is really sad is that Miss Grimes has enough charm, talent and comedic ability for any dozen performers. It is incredible how so many important people could have mishandled such talent. Just terrible.

The third Thursday night premiere on ABC-TV was a one-hour cop and robbers thing, "Hawk," filmed in Manhattan and thereabouts, and was just about the sort of thing we have come to expect from New York melodrama series recently—an unpleasant, stereotyped and slightly pretentious tale of a psycho. The killer had it in for people connected with automation. The show is run-of-the-mill. And the hero (Burt Reynolds) is a detective of American Indian heritage, a fact which seemed to be of absolutely no relevance on the premiere.

Over at NBC-TV, meanwhile, there were three new series. One of them, an hour show about the greatest swinger of them all, "Tarzan," stars Ron Ely as the latest of the bare-chested heroes. In the opener, he saved a blind girl's seeing-eye lion. He swung through the trees and wrestled with wild beats, and what more could a Tarzan addict want? If you're a Tarzan fan, as I am, you just sit there and smile.

Television in Review

By RICK DUBROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Marlo Thomas, Danny's daughter, bowed in Thursday night as star of a new ABC-TV series, "That Girl," portraying an aspiring actress, and the young lady is a vivacious and radiant light comedienne. She wowed the Lon-9 critics in "Barefoot in the Park," and her glowing youth and professionalism will now be on view for American viewers for a half-hour each week.

What is especially interesting is that of all the new series offered thus far this week by ABC-TV and NBC-TV, the two best, "Love on a Rooftop" and "That Girl," deal with reasonably real young people in situations that, by television comedy standards, are within the realm of believability. If there is a trend in video series this season, it might well be that fairly real people are regaining popularity, as opposed to monsters, freaks and wild gimmicks.

It is no surprise that the creators of "That Girl," Bill Persky and Sam Denoff, are graduates of the late Dick Van Dyke series. For while they have no Van Dyke to work with, they have learned the value of attractive, amusing people in comic situations somehow linked to possible reality—as opposed to a less satisfying appetite of jokes.

Miss Thomas plays a girl who seeks an acting career in New York and supports herself by various jobs. In the premiere, she is working behind a candy counter in an office building when she is offered a job in a television commercial. The Commercial calls for her to be bound and gagged, but a young man who admires her doesn't know this, thinks she is being harmed and breaks up the scene. Naturally, a romance blooms and apparently will be a regular thing.

I frankly lean toward the newbies of "Love on a Rooftop" as having more contact with the realities of everyday humor, but the Persky-Denoff touch is tasteful and knowing. And in Miss

Musical 'Texas' To Return to Palo Duro

Paul Green, the North Carolina playwright, scored another triumph with his latest spectacular outdoor musical drama, "Texas," played during the summer to packed houses in the Pioneer Amphitheatre in Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

The story of "Texas," as conceived by Green, is the tale of the struggle for ways to live in an unyielding land, told in music, dance, drama and action as a musical romance.

Encouraged by the public's enthusiastic response, the directors of the Pioneer Amphitheatre have already announced the production will be open again next summer. In 56 days of performances during July and August this year, 61,338 people attended the theatre. The average attendance was 1,116 per night. The July average was 937, August was 1,269 and September 1,371. The high reached was 1,546 and on that night a number of people had to sit on the stairs. During the season, visitors registered from all 50 states and from 83 foreign countries.

Green did research on the materials concerning the Texas Panhandle for five years before writing the script of "Texas."

The Pioneer Amphitheatre was built by the people of the Texas Panhandle with the assistance of the State of Texas. It opened in 1963 with a summer-long sound and light show augmented by a live cast, "Thundering Sounds of the West," and played to 36,000 people. After its success, the supporters of the theatre turned to the more ambitious project which they had planned from the first, the presentation of the Green script of "Texas," a combination of drama, music, dance, riding and sound and light especially written for the Panhandle.

Europeans Look To American Pop Songs

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press International
NEW YORK — Americans are apt to be modest about their nation's artistic achievements but a group of musicians and music executives returned recently from a European visit with the word that the rest of the world views the cultural revival in the United States with interest and respect.

"We've developed a musical force that has meaning throughout the world," said Robert Sour, President of Broadcast Music, Inc.

"Just as composers of contemporary music no longer rely entirely on European tradition and influence for their work, just as other countries are sending their classical musicians to us for the best training possible, so, too, the creators of contemporary popular music are turning to America for inspiration."

Sour, who is, incidentally, one of the writers of the famous song, "Body and Soul," attended a conference in Prague of societies which protect the performing rights of authors and composers.

"A new music has arisen in our country," he said. "Like so many American art forms Europe recognized it before we did. They take our popular music more seriously than we do. Names once known only locally in the U.S., such as our country and western and folk singers, are now international."

Sour said American music reflects the heritage and tradition that shaped the nation. It derives from no one single source. It is an amalgam of the blues of the negro, the majesty of gospel songs, the traditional balladry of Ireland and England, American jazz, country and western music, the Detroit sound, the New York sound, the Nashville and Chicago sound and the West Coast sound.

"And many of the best popular foreign artists have in reality only held up the mirror to our music and shown us the genius of our own contemporary composers," Sour said.

"Jazz Example"

Sour said jazz was a good example of European awareness of American music. The French were the first to study this wholly American development seriously. They wrote the first books on it, first hailed it as an art form and compiled the first discography — even inventing that word.

"I look forward to the day," Sour said, "when colleges and other higher institutions will recognize that our contemporary popular music is worthy of deeper interest."
