MISD plans series of meetings to discuss issues

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

How are Midland public schools measuring up? What programs will improve Midland Independent School District's academic performance in the next five years? Should basic character and ethics education be taught in the classroom? How can schools be made safer? Why is MISD seeking unitary status from a federal judge?

MISD administrators will attempt to answer these questions and allow citizens to voice their opinions on the issues in four upcoming evening meetings — scheduled over two days.

"We are hoping to get responses on these up-and-coming issues," said Joe Cummins, MISD executive director of administrative services.

"We have scheduled the meetings so the community will be as informed as possible," he said.

Cummins said school administrators will briefly explain each agenda topic and then ask for response from the public.

The four meetings — all set for 7 p.m. — will be conducted Nov. 1 and Nov. 10.

The Nov. 1 meetings are set at both Abell and San Jacinto junior high schools. Persons living in Districts 6 and 7 are asked to attend the Abell meeting, and citizens from District 5 may attend the San Jacinto discussion.

The Nov. 10 meetings are set for Coleman High School for Districts 1 and 2 and at Alamo Junior High School for Districts 3 and 4.

Democratic Gov. Ann Richards, left, debates with Republican challenger George W. Bush in Dallas Friday night.

DALLAS — Republican George W. Bush invited voters out to the ballpark Friday during a debate in which Democratic Gov. Ann Richards questioned whether he has enough experience to be governor.

"There are serious questions to be raised whether or not George Bush is qualified to be governor," Richards said.

Bush, 48, managing partner of the Texas Rangers baseball team, bristled, branding the governor's remarks as "an attempt to smear my business record" and a diversion from real issues.

Richards, 61, said companies on whose boards Bush served had lost $371 million. Bush strongly disputed her as-

Clinton to visit Syria next week, hopes to spur talks with Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton decided Friday to plunge into lagging peace talks between Syria and Israel during his Middle East trip next week. "I want there to be more progress," he said in announcing he would go to Damascus.

Expanding what looms as the most extensive presidential trip to the region ever, Clinton said he thought the meeting next Thursday with Syrian President Hafez Assad would provide movement toward a treaty.

There must be progress, Clinton said at a White House news conference, "and I think the visit will further it."

At their first meeting, last January in Geneva, the Syrian leader offered Israel the prospect of "normal peaceful relations." But five shuttle trips to the region since by Secretary of State Warren Christopher have failed to produce a compromise on a trio of tough issues: peace terms, the future of the Israeli-held Golan Heights and arrangements

Basin caps 1994 oil show

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Some exhibit booths were already empty and some exhibitors were already packing up their displays Friday afternoon as the 1994 Permian Basin oil show came to an end.

By all accounts, the oil show has been a great success.

"We've had more comments on the quality of the exhibits," said Jay Alvey, executive director of the oil show.

He said those attending "seem to be more positive and the exhibitors are pleased that the people attending

Ito reopens jury selection to media

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In yet another reversal, O.J. Simpson's judge reopened jury selection to the media Friday and promptly dismissed two prospective jurors who had disobeyed his order not to listen to news reports about the case.

Superior Court Judge Lance Ito allowed three reporters inside the courtroom after the defense dropped its objection to having the media cover the portion of jury selection in which prospective jurors were to be asked whether publicity about the case has hampered their ability to be fair. Later, Ito allowed an audio feed of the proceedings to be piped into the press room.

Ito also unsealed a transcript of a closed-door hearing in which Simpson, in a discussion about bail, tried to explain why he had led police on a pursuit before he was arrested. But defense attorney Robert Shapiro interceded, threatening to quit if Simpson kept talking.

"Mrs. Clark — Ms. Clark — said I was trying to run," Simpson told the judge, referring to Deputy District Attorney Marcia Clark.

"Everyone knows that I called my father-in-law. . . . I admit that I was not in the right frame of mind at the time I was trying to get to my wife. . . . I was headed

Oklahoma town isn't sure it wants money from crime-bill grant

By Julia Prodis
Associated Press

MOFFETT, Okla. — There hasn't been this much excitement in Moffett since a poultry company tried to dump chicken sludge on the edge of town last year.

Last week, the federal government awarded this tumbledown town a three-year grant of $106,000 from the crime bill to make the dirt streets of Moffett safer, and the 340 locals have been in a dither ever since.

For one thing, they don't have a police department — or much of a crime problem either, some say.

To get the money in hand, they have to come up with a 9 percent match, or about $11,600, Justice Department spokesman Bert Brandenburg said. That is about $1,000 more than the town's annual budget.

For a community that had to hold a barbecue to raise $2,000 to clean up after the Arkansas River flooded the town in 1990, that's real money. But Brandenburg said the town has three years to provide the matching money.

"I wish in a way it never came through," says Ruby Lindsey, who raised her children in this town that's seven blocks long and four blocks wide. "It's caused a lot of friction between a lot of people."

The grant was applied for by Jimmy Jones, who was fired last year after 18 months as the town's lone police officer. Folks say they ran out of money and patience with Jones, who patrolled in his own 1977 Pontiac Firebird with a red light propped on the dashboard after the town's Ford LTD "wore plumb out." Jones had had squabbles with town leaders over whether he was doing his job.

Now David Lindsey, Ms. Lindsey's ex-husband and one of two town councilors, is accusing Jones — who was paid $120 a week — of applying for the grant simply to get his job back.

CAP: Organizers claim 1994 oil show success as it comes to close the show are the type of people they wanted to see."

(From 1A)

Don Narrell, president of this year's show, said another reason for the success is that the exhibitors and visitors "are survivors."

Alvey estimated attendance would reach 105,000, with 62,000 preregistered and registered coming through the gates Wednesday, an additional 11,000 Thursday and 30,000 Friday, when the show was opened to the public.

He said the numbers indicate area companies were giving employees the day off to attend the show.

The show has attracted purchasers from across the country.

"One exhibitor told me he made enough sales the first day to pay for his booth," Narrell said. "He also said it would take him four months to make the number of contacts he made the last two days."

Among those exhibiting at the oil show was the Leduc Nisku Economic Development Authority, representing Leduc, Alberta, Canada, which was here for the first time. The authority was targeting area energy and environmental services companies.

"We're trying to provide Midland-Odessa, particularly Odessa, with an outlet to compete in the global marketplace," said Greg Wilkes, a Leduc Nisku director.

"By considering locating operations to our industrial park, a business would have access to the Canadian marketplace and, through the polar route, easy access to Siberia, China and southeast China."

He said the group is promoting three components: the Edmonton International Airport, the Nisku industrial park and the city of Leduc.

Bob Caine, another director, said "We have been mandated to promote this authority, which has over 350 oil- and gas-related businesses residing in Nisku, bordering the Edmonton airport.

"These oil-related businesses consist of every form of service from drilling to gas plants. Very few wells are drilled and produced in Canada that don't draw from the park for equipment, personnel or technology."

Caine, Wilkes and Marvin Molzan said the response they received from visitors has more than justified the trip.

"We've been well received. Our impression of people in Texas is they're similar to Albertans. We pride ourselves on our hospitality, but we've met our match here," Molzan said.

Joe Gassie, sales representative with Kvaerner National Inc., said he has been very pleased with this year's oil show.

"We've seen a lot of people we do business with, and we've seen a lot of people we're trying to do business with," he said.

He said Kvaerner set up a booth at the show because "We were the wellhead division of National Oilwell until we were bought out by a Norwegian firm and our name changed to Kvaerner, which is big in the North Sea and was looking for an entry into the U.S. market.

"We're here to do business in the Permian Basin, and this is our first chance to go out in public under our new name. This is a good way to explain that we're the same company we have been for 50 years, we just got a new name six months ago," he said.

Among Kvaerner's displays was a new casinghead and slip assembly product line the company has just introduced.

Surrounded by large gas compressors, Robert Howsey, a designer with Compressor Systems Inc., said visitors to his company's outdoor exhibit have seemed more upbeat and businesslike this year, and company salesmen have made some excellent contacts.

This year, he said, the company tried to display a variety of compressors and to show customers the safety and easy-access features of CSI compressors.

The 1994 version of the oil show has seemed busier than past versions, said Kent Darnell, an Odessa-based outside salesman for Womack Machine Supply Co. of Dallas.

He said he had a number of visitors stop by his booth, and he made a number of good contacts.

Womack is an industrial distributor for hydraulic and pneumatic components and electric control components. Darnell said the company targets OEMs — original equipment manufacturers — seeking to automate their facilities.

Womack, he said, can sell the machinery to automate the facility or supply components to be used with the customer's machinery.

Kathy Gaither of Sandia National Laboratory in Albuquerque, N.M., which exhibited at the oil show for the first time, said participating was worthwhile. She said Sandia will likely return in 1996.

"Our purpose was to get information out to the industry about the research programs available, and we've succeeded in contacting a number of people. Now we'll see if they follow up," she said.

She said a number of industry personnel already involved in joint industry-national laboratory research projects came by the booth.

Another first-time exhibitor was Southwest Safety Specialists of Hobbs, N.M.

"We've been to the oil show," said company Vice President Ray Magness. "But the company was formed two years ago, and in 1992 we weren't ready for a booth. But we knew this was the place to get the word out about what we have."

Southwest sells all kinds of safety equipment and has a Hazmat response trailer that can respond to chemical or hazardous waste spills.

The company also offers training, with a classroom in Hobbs and a mobile classroom that can travel within a 200-mile radius of Hobbs.

This year's oil show ranks as the biggest in its history and is the largest in terms of square footage of exhibit space, with 356,500 square feet. Among all trade shows, it ranks 38th, while the Offshore Technology Conference was ranked in the 80s.

Narrell and Alvey praised the 200 directors who put on the oil show and the members of the Desk and Derrick Club who volunteered their time to handle registration

Britain agrees to talks with IRA by Christmas

■ Prime Minister John Major accepts the IRA's cease-fire, and promises to begin talks by the end of the year.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Calling the silence of the IRA's guns "more compelling than words," Britain pushed peace in Northern Ireland forward Friday with an announcement that talks would start before Christmas.

Prime Minister John Major said the IRA's 7-week-old cease-fire has proved sufficient for British officials to start preliminary talks with Sinn Fein, the Irish Republican Army's political ally.

"I am now prepared to make a working assumption that the cease-fire is intended to be permanent," Major said.

Major also lifted a ban on Sinn Fein president Gerry Adams and executive committee member Martin McGuinness going to England, and said all border crossings with the Republic of Ireland will be opened.

In Washington, President Clinton praised both the IRA cease-fire and Major's response to it. "I think both are very hopeful, and I am very glad that the United States has been able to be involved in this peace process in Northern Ireland," Clinton told reporters.

The IRA never gave the assurances Britain had demanded that its cease-fire was permanent. But Major said IRA members' adherence to the cease-fire was "more compelling than their words."

The Irish Republican Army never gave the assurances Britain had demanded that its cease-fire was permanent. But Major said IRA members' adherence to the cease-fire was "more compelling than their words."

He said Britain also will talk to the pro-British Protestant paramilitaries — the Ulster Defense Association and Ulster Volunteer Force — if their week-old truce holds.

Reaction to Major's decision was mostly positive, or at least realistic.

"It sticks in my throat having to sit down with the IRA," said Gary McMichael, an Ulster Democratic Party leader whose father was killed by the IRA in 1987. "The IRA have tried to kill me on occasion, right up to the very hours before they announced their cease-fire ... but I know I'm going to have to do it. Because if I don't, we're never going to have peace."

Between them, the IRA and the Protestant paramilitaries have killed most of the nearly 3,200 people slain in Northern Ireland since the IRA began its campaign against British rule 25 years ago.

WEATHER WATCH

Today to be sunny, mid-80s

Staff Report

Today's forecast calls for sunny skies with a high between 80 and 85 and light winds, according to the National Weather Service in Midland.

Tonight will be clear with a low in the mid-40s.

Sunday is expected to be mostly sunny with a high near 80.

After an overnight low of 63, Friday's high was 85 compared with the record high for that date of 91 set in 1979. The record low for today's date was 33 set in 1990.

STATE

As South Texas spent Friday recovering from fatal floods, North Texas has hit by storms that packed flooding rains, two-inch hailstones and whipping winds.

Several funnel clouds also were in Dallas and Kaufman counties, although there were no reports of confirmed damage from any tornados.

Drenching rains flooded many Balch Springs homes, stranded motorists, forced the evacuation of a Dallas public housing complex and spawned rescue efforts.

Dallas officials reported blown-out windows, roof damage and trees damaged from the high winds.

South Texas was humid Friday, and southeast winds brought abundant moisture across the region. Under partly to mostly cloudy skies, temperatures ranged from the low 80s into the lower 90s.

Today's South Texas forecast calls for partly to mostly cloudy skies with scattered showers and thunderstorms. Highs are expected in the 80s.

In West Texas, skies were clear and temperatures ranged from 69 at Guadalupe Pass to 89 at Sanderson. Today should be mostly sunny with highs in the 60s and 70s.

NATION

Showers and thunderstorms rolled across the southern Plains and Southeast on Friday, while scattered rain fell along parts of the East Coast and throughout much of the Northwest.

Severe thunderstorms drenched parts of northern and central Texas. Hail the size of dimes pelted Dallas and Collin counties.

Hail the size of golf balls battered Sherman, Texas, and strong winds overturned an airplane. Winds gusted to 65 mph at Haysville, Kan.

Most of flood-plagued southeastern Texas was spared rain and waters began to recede. A tornado watch was posted Friday night for parts of north-central and eastern Texas.

A large swath of strong thunderstorms, some bearing large hail, also swept through southeastern Kansas, eastern Oklahoma, southwestern Missouri and a large part of Arkansas.

Rainfall for the six hours up to 2 p.m. EDT included: 2.02 inches in Dallas; .82 in Little Rock, Ark.; .65 in Shreveport, La.; .62 in Bangor, Maine; .61 in Albany, Ga.; and .53 in Joplin, Mo.

Elsewhere, scattered showers and light rain fell across the northwestern quarter of the nation, from eastern North Dakota to south-central Nebraska, and from northern Idaho to southwestern Oregon.

GO: Richards, Bush face off in televised Dallas debate

(From 1A)

sessment and said he was proud of his record. He invited viewers of their televised debate to "come and see The Ballpark at Arlington as an example of entrepreneurship."

The candidates answered questions from Dallas-Fort Worth citizens, along with news reporters, in a town hall forum televised live on a number of public stations.

A poll released earlier this week showed Bush and Richards neck-in-neck.

Bush, the oldest son of the former president, owns about 2 percent of the Texas Rangers. His only political experience was an unsuccessful run for Congress against Kent Hance from a district in western Texas in 1978. He holds a business degree from Harvard and has long been involved in oil and gas.

Bush sounded several familiar campaign themes — placing a higher priority on public education spending, reducing welfare spending and getting tougher on juvenile criminals. He said he would bring a fresh perspective to the job.

"I proudly proclaim I've never held office. I have been in the business world all my adult life. I have met a payroll. I know what it means to risk capital," Bush said.

Richards was county commissioner from 1976-1982 and state treasurer from 1982 to 1990. She said her administration has much to brag about. She also said there's much left to do.

"For the first time since 1976, crime is down in every category — but its not enough," Richards said. "For the first time in 14 years, our kids are (doing) better on their SAT scores ... but it's not enough."

In the debate's final minutes, Bush tried to link Richards to President Clinton, who lost Texas to Bush's father in the 1992 election.

"I am the conservative candidate. She is the liberal candidate," he said. "One difference we didn't discuss tonight, of course, is President Clinton. She'll work hard ... to see him re-elected in 1996. I, of course, will not."

Richards said Texas leads the nation in job creation and that during a second term "we must do everything we can to make Texas a leader" in international commerce.

"It's going to take a very assertive, aggressive chief executive officer who knows how to go out and sell Texas," she said. "The business of running government, for good or ill, is different than running a private business. Government cannot go to the bank for a loan. Government does not get to write off losses" for tax purposes.

Richards sounded skeptical that Bush, as a director and member of the audit committee of Harken Energy, wouldn't have known the company's stock was about to plummet a week before he sold more than $840,000 of his own Harken stock.

Hutchison, Fisher argue on issues

DALLAS (AP) — Republican U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison and Democratic challenger Richard Fisher debated numerous issues Friday night, ranging from crime to health care and the environment.

The two top the Nov. 8 general election ballot.

Under questioning from a panel of citizens and journalists, the candidates traded verbal jabs in a forum held at the Loews Anatole Hotel and carried live on public broadcast stations statewide.

Mrs. Hutchison said Fisher flip-flopped on issues, while Fisher accused the senator of partisan gridlock.

"I stand on principle. Mr. Fisher has changed his position on just about every major issue," Mrs. Hutchison said.

Fisher retorted, "If you took the word 'No' out of Kay Bailey Hutchison's vocabulary, she would be speechless."

Fisher criticized Mrs. Hutchison for voting against the crime bill, opposing a ban on assault weapons, and her views on health care.

He said Mrs. Hutchison's statement that poor people have access to coverage at charity hospitals was the "Marie Antoinette" approach.

Mrs. Hutchison criticized President Clinton's proposals, saying they would have cost too much and created a massive bureaucracy. Fisher said he didn't support Clinton's proposal.

"We do have access to everyone into our system. It may not be the best and we need to work on that," she said.

Both candidates said they supported insurance pools for small businesses.

TOWN: Money creates stir

(From 1A)

Brandenburg said the town's mayor and two City Council members, including Lindsey, signed the application, which cited the proximity to a rough part of Fort Smith, Ark., and problems with domestic abuse.

"We would never send somebody money when they either didn't need it, couldn't use it or could not afford the matching requirement," Brandenburg said Friday. "They specifically asked for this amount of money on these terms."

For his part, Jones says that he does want his job back but that he also believes the town needs police protection.

The rest of the townsfolk are taking sides, and city leaders are looking into what to do next.

Mayor David Carolina says there's not much need for law enforcement in this sleepy town. The 78-year-old, who collects aluminum cans for extra money, says the biggest problem is speeding.

"Kids are speeding up and down this highway," Carolina says of the potholed, country lane that runs through town. "All we need is one policeman — part time."

He lets out a belly laugh when told that the county undersheriff is recommending a police chief and three officers for the town.

"We don't need one, let alone three," he says, stuffing a wad of chewing tobacco under his lip. "I told them to give me the best pistol they can get and I'll do it."

VISIT: President to extend trip

(From 1A)

for security at the border.

Christopher and top aides have described their achievements as only incremental. Clinton said he was going to see Assad because "talking with him we will continue to make some advances."

In one respect, at least, there is progress already. The usually reclusive Syrian leader has agreed to hold a joint news conference with Clinton in Damascus.

But senior Clinton aides drew a less hopeful picture. While presidential intervention might have an impact on the nearly three-year-old negotiations, they voiced doubt his seeing Assad again would transform the slow-moving process.

The goal is to use Clinton's visit "to give the process a push," said one aide, briefing reporters at the White House on condition he would not be identified.

Clinton's other main objective is to reassure Israel after a wave of violence has shaken its people's confidence that the landscape is truly changing. The president said he wanted above all on the trip to "stand with my friends."

JURY: Ito unseals transcript of closed-door hearing back home."

"Mr. Simpson," Shapiro interrupted, "I am telling you that I will not allow you to speak, and I will resign as your lawyer if you continue to do so."

Simpson then said, "Thank you," and stopped talking.

Simpson is charged with murder in the June 12 knifing deaths of his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman.

On Thursday, Ito had urged the defense and prosecution to ask that reporters be barred from the courtroom for the portion of questioning dealing with publicity. After the two sides made such a request, he granted it, sparking protests from lawyers for news organizations who argued it was unconstitutional.

But Shapiro and co-counsel Johnnie Cochran Jr. changed their minds Friday, saying they had mistakenly believed the panelists would be more truthful if they were questioned privately.

"It was only because we were so concerned with O.J.'s right to a fair trial that we agreed to such an extreme measure," Shapiro said.

The judge, who has reversed himself several times during the case, agreed to reopen the courtroom. Questions resumed about the panelists' exposure to media coverage, as well as a variety of other issues.

Prosecutors said they would agree with whatever decision the judge made, and didn't object to reopening questioning.

In questioning the panelists, Ito quickly discovered that two of them had disobeyed his order to avoid all media reports about the case and stay out of bookstores, and promptly dismissed them.

"It's in the air," one of them had told the judge. "Everywhere you walk, you hear things."

MISD: Citizens can voice their opinions

(From 1A)

English/Spanish translators will be available at the Coleman High School meeting.

Agenda items for the meetings are:

■ MISD's Long-Range Plan for 1995-2000. "This will concern the eight objectives which have been developed for the school district," Cummins said.

The objectives state, by 2000, MISD will (1) have greater than 90 percent of students completing Grade 3 reading at grade level, (2) increase parental involvement on each campus by 10 percent each year until 50 percent involvement is reached and maintained, (3) develop and implement strategies to effectively communicate and involve the total community, (4) provide a student-centered learning environment that is safe, orderly and drug-free, (5) plan and/or construct new facilities and renovate or replace outdated facilities to accommodate projected enrollments and student needs, (6) provide up to 10 days annually in time and resources for staff development, (7) reduce the district annual dropout rate to 5 percent or less, (8) recruit the best qualified personnel available for the job, while maintaining a diverse ethnic representation.

Cummins said the district is in the process of developing "action teams" that will define the objectives and see that they are carried out.

■ State Comptroller's Report for MISD. "This is the good news. The State Comptroller has identified MISD as an extremely well-run district," Cummins said.

■ Character and Ethics Education. "The school board has been discussing the development of a task force from the community to talk about the character issues that might be placed in a character curriculum," Cummins said.

He said character values such as honesty, responsibility and integrity will be considered.

■ Texas Education Agency's Accreditation/Performance rating. "This is an annual (campus and district) report coming from the Texas Education Agency," Cummins said, noting campuses are identified as accreditated, recognized or exemplary.

■ Unitary Status. This will concern the district's history leading up to court-ordered desegregation and the school board's position of seeking unitary status now.

Haitians rejoice over newfound freedom

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — With the end of brutal army rule and the long-awaited return of President Jean-Bertrand Aristide, fear is giving way to newfound freedoms for Haitians.

The freedom to walk the streets without fear, to stay out after dark, to go dancing or visit friends. The freedom to speak out against the repressive military that dominated life here for the past three years.

"We couldn't sleep. We couldn't talk. We couldn't meet like this and discuss normal stuff," said Merlin Guerrier, a 38-year-old beverage salesman. "They would kill you."

After the coup leaders' flight into exile earlier this month, tens of thousands gathered in the streets and parks around the National Palace for Aristide's triumphant return Oct. 15. Spontaneous rallies have popped up ever since.

"Now I'm sleeping in peace without fear," said Jean-Baptiste Favol, 40, a shopkeeper who has started staying open after dark for the first time since Aristide was ousted in a military coup in September 1991.

Until the U.S.-led multinational force arrived last month to usher out the coup leaders and help restore democracy, Haiti was a nervous, fearful place.

Port-au-Prince turned into a ghost town after dark because most street lights didn't work, and people shut themselves inside their homes out of fear of attacks by army-linked paramilitary groups.

In the Aristide stronghold of Cite Soleil, the capital's largest slum, no one dared to whisper the exiled president's name or "Lavalas," the Creole word for flood and the name of the popular movement that swept him to power in 1990.

Bodies of Aristide's supporters often showed up in the streets in the morning, flies crawling on their machete-inflicted wounds. They were left lying in the sun for days to terrorize the people.

Today, Aristide's long-banned image is everywhere: on banners strung across streets, on T-shirts proclaiming his name, on bandanas catching the sweat of rallying supporters and on the newly painted murals on walls and pavement.

Police officers rescue victims of bridge collapse

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Eight police officers became heroes on Friday — which just happened to be National Police Day.

The officers were riding to a celebration marking the event. As their minivan was crossing the Songsu bridge during morning rush hour, a section collapsed, throwing their van onto a segment of the bridge below.

They looked on as a city bus and cars toppled off the bridge, some into the fast-moving Han River. After diving into the river to look for survivors, they wrapped their clothes around injured victims.

"They were standing there in their underclothes, blue with cold. They had to be transported to the hospitals themselves," said Shim Jae-hyun, the captain of a rescue squad.

At least 32 people were killed and 17 injured.

Standing atop the collapsed segment of the bridge — which was splattered with blood and littered with mangled vehicles and shattered glass — rescue officials said the death toll would have been higher if the officers had not kept the injured warm and tried to resuscitate them.

Because of its large support system, the 50-foot section of road that had fallen from the bridge remained just above the river's surface.

Some of the people who survived the collapse of the four-lane bridge sat dazed as they recalled what had happened to them.

"I felt the car shaking suddenly and something caving in, then I passed out," Kim Minja, a 38-year-old teacher whose car fell into the river, told Yonhap news agency.

"When I regained consciousness, water was rushing into the car. I left through a broken window, swam away, and was saved." Kim was among the 23 rescued, but her friend was still missing.

Witnesses said as many as five other cars fell directly into the river, and divers had only found three by nightfall. Fast currents and muddy water made rescue operations difficult.

The bus, filled with high school students and office workers, teetered on the edge of the bridge before falling over and nose-diving into the collapsed segment below, rescue workers said.

Cmdr. Oh Chul-shik, with the navy search operation, said several more bodies could be found when the search is resumed Saturday.

The tragedy also rocked South Korea's government.

"I am shocked by the accident, especially because it came after I repeatedly ordered safety checks on major bridges across the nation," said President Kim Young-sam.

Prime Minister Lee Young-duk offered his resignation, taking responsibility for the accident, Kim's spokesman said. The president had not decided by Friday night whether to accept it.

The city government announced it would inspect all 15 bridges that cross the Han River as part of its investigation into the cause of the collapse.

U.S., Korea sign landmark nuclear accord

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and North Korea signed a pact Friday intended to end the long-running war of nerves over the communist state's nuclear program.

North Korea pledged to drop the secrecy surrounding its nuclear facilities to clear up suspicions about nuclear bomb-making potential. In return, it got pledges for modern nuclear plants worth billions of dollars and diplomatic respectability after more than 40 years of isolation.

"We believe that this agreed framework is a very important milestone ... of historic importance," said North Korean Vice Foreign Minister Kang Sok Ju.

Chief U.S. negotiator Robert L. Gallucci gave a more sober assessment of the deal, which in practical terms gives North Korea about five years before it will have to open two suspected nuclear sites to outside inspections.

"We left each other with the thought that we have a long road ahead of us," said Gallucci, an assistant secretary of state. But he said it prevented North Korea from developing future bombs, and the worst-case scenario — that of U.N. sanctions against Korea and possible military confrontation — had been avoided.

In a sign of easing tensions, the United States and South Korea announced they would cancel annual joint military exercises planned for next month.

However, the United States will maintain its forces of about 36,000 troops stationed in South Korea since the 1950-53 Korean war, Defense Secretary William Perry said in Seoul.

Water samples lack radiation, reports agency

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — There has been no sign of secret nuclear activity by Iraq for nearly two years, a member of the International Atomic Energy Agency said Friday.

"We've not detected any proscribed activities," said Garry Dillon of Britain, who left Baghdad earlier in the day after taking water samples from 16 locations along the Euphrates and Tigris rivers to check for radioactivity.

The samples will be analyzed in the United States, Britain or France. The IAEA, a U.N. agency, has already taken four such samples, at intervals of six months.

The inspections were begun after the Gulf War, when U.N. cease-fire resolutions called for dismantling Iraq's nuclear, chemical and biological weapons programs, and its stock of long-range missiles.

The U.N. Security Council has to be satisfied that weapons monitoring is in place and operational for six months before considering lifting the oil export embargo clamped on Iraq since its August 1990 invasion of Kuwait.

Northern Israel hit by Lebanese rockets; no injuries reported

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Lebanese militants fired volleys of rockets into northern Israel on Friday, raising fears of more violence as the stunned nation mourned victims of the Tel Aviv bus bombing.

At least five volleys hit Israel's Galilee region between Thursday night and midday Friday. The army said there were no injuries and minimal damage in the attacks by Muslim fundamentalist guerrillas opposed to peace with Israel. The assault followed an Israeli attack on Wednesday that killed seven Lebanese.

Galilee residents were told to stay in bomb shelters and children were rushed home from school.

Uri Lubrani, a senior defense official, said the rockets appeared to be a show of support for Islamic militants of the Hamas movement, who claimed responsibility for the bus bombing that killed 21 people in Tel Aviv on Wednesday.

Lubrani, coordinator of Israeli policy on Lebanon, said the guerrillas were trying to provoke an Israeli response that would escalate tensions and confound peace efforts.

Although the Lebanese-based Hezbollah is not directly linked to Hamas, both are Iranian-backed and want to torpedo peace efforts, Lubrani said.

"Both Hamas and Hezbollah, which are the fruits of Islam, have one goal and that is to ruin the peace process."

— Uri Lubrani, coordinator of Israeli policy on Lebanon

"Both Hamas and Hezbollah, which are the fruits of Islam, have one goal and that is to ruin the peace process," Lubrani said.

Israeli tanks initially returned fire, Israel army radio said, but the response was relatively muted, apparently to avoid an escalation that could sidetrack the peace process.

A government official, speaking on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press that Israel may slow talks with the Palestinians to examine its security situation in the wake of three Hamas attacks in the past two weeks.

"We have to reassess where we stand," he said. "To move when the security ground is shaking is not an option." He said Israel was unlikely to suspend the talks outright, but it needed several weeks "to get our act together."

Israel and the PLO are negotiating to extend self-rule throughout the West Bank and hold elections there. Suspending the talks would be a victory for militants who oppose the peace talks.

Despite the new tensions, there were no plans to delay Wednesday's signing of a peace treaty with Jordan, which President Clinton is to attend. Clinton said Friday he would also visit Syria and try to accelerate that country's slow-moving negotiations with Israel.

A Palestinian official said Israel-PLO talks in Cairo would resume Sunday as scheduled, led by Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres and Palestinian Planning Minister Nabil Shaath.

'Dear Abby' faces Islamic competition

By Neil MacFarquhar
Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Dear Abby has a little Islamic competition in Iraq.

Every Friday, televisions across the country tune in to Sheik Abdul-Ghafar Abbasi to hear the popular Muslim preacher read viewer mail and hold forth on topics like marrying older women, drinking and dealing with Jews.

The program is part of the creeping Islamization in what was once the staunchest of secular regimes. The government of Saddam Hussein is trying to use religion to curb growing social ills and court fundamentalists in other Muslim states.

"Religion can be used to protect society from any kind of social problems. Religion means good behavior, religion means no crime, no robberies, no murders," said Abdel-Razak Al-Hashemi, head of the foreign relations department of the ruling Baath Party.

Diplomats also believe the approach is designed to appeal to Islamic stalwarts in neighboring states like Saudi Arabia who have been increasingly vocal in the criticism of the ruling Al-Saud family for depending on the United States to protect them.

The words Allahu Akbar, Arabic for "God is Great," now grace the Iraqi flag. The racetrack was closed about six months ago and the city's domestic airport, heavily damaged during the war, is supposed to become the site of the largest mosque in the world.

Public functions now start with prayers. Saddam appears often with clergymen.

Orphanages fill with abandoned refugee children

GENEVA (AP) — Conditions are so bad in Rwandan refugee camps that mothers are abandoning their children at orphanages to make sure they are fed, the United Nations refugee agency said Friday.

"These mothers simply don't have enough food to feed them," said Sylvana Foa, spokeswoman for the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees.

There are more than 2 million Rwandan refugees, nearly half in six camps around Goma, Zaire. Most are Hutus who fled Rwanda when the Tutsi-dominated Rwandan Patriotic Front took control of the country after a civil war and massacres in which as many as 500,000 Rwandans, mainly Tutsis, were killed.

Between 20,000 and 30,000 members of the defeated Hutu-led army and militias, and their families, are mixed in among the Goma refugees.

Military men, who are often armed, take the lion's share of the food, leaving women, the sick and children to fend for themselves, Foa said.

Threats from the former soldiers "have seriously disrupted humanitarian operations, particularly food distribution to vulnerable groups," she said. "In some camps it has deteriorated to survival of the fittest."

As a result, the number of children in the 30 orphan centers around Goma is steadily increasing, said Marie Heuze, spokeswoman for the U.N. Childrens' Fund. There are nearly 10,000 children in the Goma orphanages.

The U.N. refugee agency asked Zaire in August for a separate camp for the soldiers and their families. But the Zaire government has been reluctant to commit to moving and supporting an army in exile.

Although the new government has urged refugees to return home, Rwandans continue leaving the country. In the first 10 days of October, about 14,000 Rwandans arrived in Tanzania, the refugee agency reported.

Tabloids reveal latest part of royal soap opera

LONDON (AP) — The latest chapter of the royal soap opera has Prince Charles declaring "endless love" for Camilla Parker Bowles and friends of Princess Diana saying she had hoped for a daughter, according to Saturday's British tabloids.

The 45-year-old heir to the throne reveals the secret behind his long affair with Mrs. Parker Bowles — a zany sense of humor — in Jonathan Dimbleby's book, "The Prince of Wales: A Biography," The Sun reported.

According to media advertisements, the second installment of the book, which will be published in this weekend's Sunday Times, reveals Charles' "endless love" for Mrs. Parker Bowles, an army officer's wife; the squabbles with Diana before they separated nearly two years ago, and his uneasy relationship with former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

"Charles tells how they had violent rows over their sons and describes Di's jealousy of Camilla," The Sun reported.

The prince also admits "he resented his wife stealing the limelight and that he could not handle her temper outbursts," the paper said.

The spate of books and revelations has sparked a national debate over whether the couple will divorce, how it is affecting the monarchy and the children, and who is most to blame. On Tuesday, lawyers for Charles and Diana denied that they had agreed to divorce.

Diana, 33, who is spending the weekend in Washington with a close friend, is the subject of a front-page story in another newspaper.

According to unnamed friends quoted by the Daily Mail, Diana says she and Charles were trying for another baby — hopefully a girl — at the very time the prince said their marriage had "irretrievably broken down." They have two sons, William, 12, and Harry, 10, who are spending the weekend at Balmoral in Scotland with Charles.

The Daily Mail said it was Charles who insisted on a separation. "He also told his circle of closest friends and courtiers that he wanted his wife 'completely removed from public life' ... completely shorn of royal trappings," the paper said.

Clinton admits Democrats likely to lose seats

By Terence Hunt
AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton conceded Friday that Democrats will lose seats in Congress in this "extremely contentious" political year and extended his hand to Republicans to work with the administration after November's elections.

Just back from the campaign trail and heading out of town on another campaign trip Saturday, a frustrated-sounding Clinton said Democrats wouldn't lose any power if Americans simply knew what they've done to repair the economy, shrink the deficit and pass a crime bill, steps that Republicans opposed "every step of the way."

Whatever the election outcome, Clinton said, he will "challenge every member of Congress without regard to party and especially the leaders to work with me to make this country a better place."

Clinton made his remarks in an East Room news conference dealing with domestic politics and international affairs spanning developments in Haiti, North Korea, Iraq, Northern Ireland and the Middle East peace pursuit.

He called a new agreement with North Korea on nuclear inspections "a good deal for the United States." And with Iraqi troops pulling back from the border of Kuwait, Clinton said, "The immediate threat is receding" in the Persian Gulf.

Shortly after his news conference, Clinton sped out for one last local political appearance before his weekend campaign trip the West Coast. At a dinner for Virginia Democrats, Clinton rejected GOP attempts to paint him as out of the mainstream, saying, "I always thought my problem was that I was too normal."

"They have tried to demonize me ... and they have done a pretty good job," he said before listing a series of accomplishments he claimed were just what ordinary Americans would want.

"It is wrong to say that your opponents are not normal Americans just because they have done things you wish you had done when you had the chance," he said.

Two weeks before the election, Clinton will embark Tuesday on the most extensive presidential trip ever to the Middle East — a three-day, six-nation visit including a brief stop in Syria in hopes of breaking an impasse in peace talks with Israel.

Questions about politics shared equal billing with foreign policy issues, with Democrats believed in danger of losing control of the Senate and possibly the House.

Asked if he could work with a Republican speaker of the House — specifically Rep. Newt Gingrich of Georgia — if the GOP gains control of the chamber, Clinton said with a grin: "Newt's the one who said I was the enemy of normal Americans. I didn't say that about him."

Clinton declined to estimate Democratic losses but said, "Almost always at midterm the incumbent president's party loses seats."

POLICE REPORTS

Cocaine

Nearly a ton of cocaine was discovered in a tractor-trailer truck and two men were arrested Tuesday night by the Department of Public Safety near Van Horn, federal officials in Midland said.

Alfredo Samaniego and Saul Corona-Villabo, both from the Dallas area, appeared before a U.S. Magistrate in Midland Friday. Samaniego was ordered held without bond, and a $50,000 bond was set for Corono-Villabo, federal officials said.

The two were apprehended after the cocaine and an AK-47 were discovered in a tractor-trailer truck that was carrying onions stopped at a truck weigh station in Culverson County, officials said.

The two men face a possibility of 10 years to life in prison if convicted of federal drug charges, officials said.

Marijuana

About 100 pounds of marijuana was seized and a man arrested Friday after a trailer truck was stopped on Interstate Highway 20 just west of Midland by a trooper with the Department of Public Safety, officials said.

The truck was stopped about 1 p.m. on a motor vehicle safety check, officials said. A Midland County Sheriff's Office canine subsequently checked the vehicle and the drug was discovered, officials said.

In addition to the marijuana, valued at $89,000, a 1987 International truck trailer was seized, officials said.

Victor Guzman, 23, was arrested in connection with the marijuana and remained jailed Friday night without bond, jail officials said.

Thursday

Burglary of a vehicle: The driver's side window was broken and a Kenwood stereo, valued at $470, was taken from the vehicle at 2714 W. Wall Ave., reported Elda Martinez at 11:04 p.m.

Friday

Vandalism: Damage was caused to the right front of a vehicle at 4207 Harlowe Drive after a pumpkin was thrown, possibly from a newer model Chevrolet supersport pickup, reported Virginia Campbell at 12:48 a.m.

Theft: Tools, valued at $4,000; a torch cutter, valued at $500; and an 800-pound winch, valued at $700, were taken from a Chevrolet truck at Whites Industrial, 804 S. Terrell St., it was reported at 9:39 a.m.

Theft: A boy's Sears three-speed bicycle, valued at $125, was taken from the backyard of 4117 Harlowe Drive, reported Arnulfo Molinar at 1:39 p.m.

Anyone having information concerning these incidents should contact the Police Department at 685-7108 or Crime Stoppers at 694-TIPS.

Officials review tax exemption on ballpark

ARLINGTON (AP) — The state comptroller's office is reviewing the legality of a sales-tax exemption on materials used to build The Ballpark in Arlington, which could result in a multimillion-dollar bill.

Greg Hartman, a spokesman in the comptroller's office, which supervises tax collections, said Thursday that the agency is reviewing whether taxes are owed on construction of the stadium.

Spokesmen for the city and ballpark owners said the city is exempt from sales tax on that project.

"There is conflicting statutory language," Hartman said, "and our attorneys are researching the case law to see which part of the law prevails."

State law does not permit such tax exemptions whenever a government entity — such as the Arlington Sports Facilities Development Authority that built the stadium for the Texas Rangers — leases or sells a project to private interests.

However, a 1991 bill sponsored by GOP state Sen. Chris Harris of Arlington and approved by the Legislature appears to maintain the tax break for the Rangers, Hartman said.

"Sen. Harris' bill may have overridden the language in the tax code, and that is the question of law and fact that has to be reviewed," he said, adding he didn't know how long the study would take.

"Clearly, if there have to be taxes charged, somebody's got to pay, whether the Rangers are at the end of the line, or the sports authority, or the guy who applied the plywood to the walls," Hartman said.

Arlington Mayor Richard Greene said the under The Ballpark deal, the Rangers must pay obligations beyond the $135 million taxpayer contribution.

"Whatever money's left is budgeted for parts of the project that are not yet completed," Greene said of $135-million figure.

Wife of spy receives sentence of 5¼ years

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) – The wife of CIA turncoat Aldrich Ames was sentenced Friday to 5¼ years in prison after she admitted helping the most damaging spy in U.S. history. She had begged for mercy for herself and her 5-year-old son.

"I beg you to be merciful. . .," 41-year-old Rosario Ames told the judge in a quavering voice. "Please understand that you are not only sentencing me, but Paul, too."

U.S. District Judge Claude M. Hilton gave her the minimum prison time called for in the deal she made with prosecutors when she pleaded guilty last April to conspiring to commit espionage and evade taxes.

With credit for eight months she has served since her arrest Feb. 21 and time off for good behavior, she could be released in three years and eight months, prosecutors and defense lawyers agreed.

Her husband, a 52-year-old former head of counterintelligence in the CIA's Soviet branch, is serving life without parole. In nine years of spying for the Soviet Union and Russia, he admits, he was paid more than $2.5 million, compromised dozens of CIA operations and exposed numerous foreigners who were spying for the CIA. The government says at least 10 were executed.

Mrs. Ames, wearing a loose, dark green outfit emblazoned "Alexandria Jail," riveted a standing-room audience as she read a 3¼-page statement.

She admitted she "provided advice and support" for her husband's spying after he told her about it in 1992. But she sought leniency so she could take care of their son, Paul, now living with relatives in her native Bogota, Colombia.

"I beg you, your honor, Paul needs me, Paul is innocent. He did nothing wrong," she said.

In the 25-minute hearing Friday, she was portrayed by her lawyer as another of her husband's victims. She herself said, "Rick made me believe that my life was constantly in danger. . . . He would tell me that the (Soviet) KGB had asked for pictures of me and Paul," she said.

Prosecutor Mark Hulkower described her as a greedy spendthrift who regularly prodded Ames to do Moscow's bidding in order to keep the Russian money coming.

Her plea bargain called for a sentence from 5¼ to 6 years, but Hilton wasn't bound by it.

Soap opera sex influences teenagers, officials claim

By Niki Kapsambelis
Associated Press

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Soap opera executives met on Friday to ponder how to make love in the afternoon, responsibly.

The two-day soap opera summit, which features talks by Surgeon General Joycelyn Elders and Jane Fonda, is sponsored by Population Communications International, a group concerned about overpopulation.

PCI chairman Sonny Fox, a former vice president of children's programming at NBC, said he hopes to persuade soap opera executives to think about population control when writing story lines.

He contends the soaps are more influential than other shows because they're on every day and viewers identify heavily with the characters.

"The teen-age viewers are, in particular, watching the soaps to develop their expectations of what their sex lives might be like," he said.

Just how steamy are the stories that dominate midday TV?

This year, soap opera programming showed 6.64 incidents of sexual activity or references to sex per episode, said Michigan State University Professor Bradley Greenberg. The incidents and references range from sex out of wedlock to prostitution and artificial insemination.

Greenberg opened the summit with the release of his daytime drama study. Elders was to speak later Friday and Fonda on Saturday.

"Now, I know that sex sells everything from toothpaste to laundry detergent, but we are talking about our children here," Elders said in prepared remarks.

"We need to change the way we do business and provide messages about sexual responsibility and the real consequences of unprotected sex," Elders said.

She called on writers and producers to show that the use of contraceptives is essential, to avoid linking sex with violence, and to show that not all relationships result in sex.

At a news conference, Greenberg said sex is usually portrayed as something desirable, though rarely in a light-hearted manner.

"Sex on the soaps is serious," he said, adding, "Except for rape, people are happy about what they are doing."

Officials claim radiation testing more frequent than suspected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intentional radiation releases and human experimentation appear to have been frequent and widespread in the government's Cold War nuclear programs, a presidential panel said Friday.

In an interim report, the Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments said it had documented at least 400 cases of human medical experiments involving radiation and had "fragmentary indications" of 1,000 more.

It also said it found that hundreds of intentional releases of radiation — many more than previously suspected — had occurred as part of the country's nuclear programs between the 1940s and 1975. It was not clear from the data provided how many of those releases involved exposure of the general public or what levels of exposure were involved.

But Dr. Ruth Faden, the committee's chairwoman, said detailed information about many of the cases may never be known because of scant or missing documents. She also complained of "significant roadblocks" still being erected by government officials who are refusing to declassify information about many of the radiation releases involving nuclear weapons programs.

"In a lot of cases we may never have the kind of detailed information for drawing moral evaluations," said Faden, a professor of bio-ethics at Johns Hopkins University.

The advisory committee, charged by President Clinton last December to examine the extent of human radiation testing during the Cold War, will issue its final findings in six months, including recommendations on whether the government should compensate victims of improper or unethical actions.

Fader said that of the 400 biomedical experiments involving human subjects documented so far, it is clear some may have had therapeutic goals while others were aimed simply at learning more about radiation's effects on the body — something that was largely a mystery early in the nuclear age.

In many cases it remains unclear whether the subjects had been given proper consent in many of the experiments, she said.

Hollywood movie star, Burt Lancaster, dies at 80; friends comment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Burt Lancaster, who rolled in the crashing surf with Deborah Kerr in "From Here to Eternity," preached hellfire and damnation in "Elmer Gantry" and did hard time in "The Birdman of Alcatraz," is dead at 80.

The Oscar-winning leading man died of a heart attack Thursday at his home.

"It's the passing now of a giant. But Burt will never die. We'll always be able to see him swinging from a yardarm in 'The Crimson Pirate' . . . and shooting with me in 'Gunfight at the O.K. Corral,'" Kirk Douglas said.

A one-time circus acrobat with broad shoulders and chiseled features, Lancaster was often cast in strong, angry roles in a career that included more than 70 movies. But he excelled in sensitive parts, too, including "The Birdman of Alcatraz," "The Rose Tattoo," "The Swimmer" and "Sweet Smell of Success."

The 1960 movie "Elmer Gantry," in which he starred as a salesman turned evangelist, brought him the Oscar for best actor.

"There are lots of good actors, but there are very few one-of-a-kinds. Like Cagney and Bogart, Burt was one of a kind," said his "Elmer Gantry" co-star Shirley Jones.

He used his athletic skills in such films as "Trapeze," "Ten Tall Men," "The Flame and the Arrow" and "The Crimson Pirate."

Lancaster received an Oscar nomination for the 1962 "Birdman of Alcatraz." He played Robert Stroud, a killer who spent 44 years in solitary confinement and became an expert on bird diseases.

"It's the passing now of a giant. But Burt will never die. We'll always be able to see him swinging from a yardarm in 'The Crimson Pirate' . . . and shooting with me in 'Gunfight at the O.K. Corral,"

— Kirk Douglas, actor

"I feel the industry has lost a wonderful person, one who was always enthusiastic about the films that he made. No matter what the material was he always gave it what I would call a real 100 percent," said "Birdman" co-star Karl Malden.

Lancaster remained active well into his 70s, starring in "Field of Dreams" in 1989 and the TV miniseries "Voyage of Terror" in 1990. He drew wide praise for his portrayal of a hard-luck petty criminal in the 1980 movie "Atlantic City." He was also in the acclaimed 1983 comedy "Local Hero."

A lifelong liberal, the actor was the former president of the American Civil Liberties Union. He often chose to play in films with social significance and made two anti-war films.

After serving in World War II, Lancaster arrived in Hollywood with brief acting experience and three weeks on Broadway. His first film role, as a doomed man in the 1946 drama "The Killers," based on an Ernest Hemingway story, brought him instant stardom.

He followed that performance with "Brute Force," "All My Sons," "Sorry, Wrong Number" and "Jim Thorpe — All American."

He received the first of four Academy Award nominations in 1953 as Sgt. Milt Warden in "From Here to Eternity," based on James Jones' novel about pre-war Pearl Harbor. His love scene in the surf with Miss Kerr is one of Hollywood's most enduring images.

As the studio star system waned, Lancaster formed his own production company with filmmaker Harold Hecht. The company produced the Ernest Borgnine movie "Marty" in 1955. It won the best picture Oscar.

Lancaster also directed and starred in 1955's "The Kentuckian," which inspired the Thomas Hart Benton painting of the same name.

Burton Stephen Lancaster was born the son of a postal clerk and grew up in New York's tough East Harlem neighborhood.

He attended New York University on a basketball scholarship but left without completing studies. With a friend, he formed an acrobatic team, and for several years they toured with circuses, vaudeville and nightclubs.

'Clinton not above the law,' lawsuit defendant says

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Paula Jones' lawyers Friday demanded that her sexual harassment suit against President Clinton be heard promptly, arguing that no one, not even the president, is above the law.

The motion was filed in response to Clinton's request to dismiss the case on grounds of presidential immunity. The president also said that if the lawsuit is allowed to stand, he should have immunity until he is out of office.

Jones' lawyers countered: "Every action and every actor is always under the law. No man in this country is so high that he is above the law."

"The president claims that litigation against him demeans his office, and lowers its dignity," the lawyers said, suggesting instead that Clinton's "effort to hide behind his office ... is what tarnishes the Presidency."

Mrs. Jones, 28, claims that while she was a state employee attending a 1991 function at a hotel, Clinton, then governor, had a state trooper summon her to a hotel room, where Clinton suggested a sex act. Mrs. Jones said she declined.

Clinton has denied such an encounter took place.

Mrs. Jones sued Clinton and the trooper, Danny Ferguson, in federal court May 6 for more than $750,000.

Romantic reunion ends with death of elderly couple

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — Paul Flanagan was Dorothy Thompson's first love, but World War II came between them. Fifty years later, they were reunited, only to be struck and killed by a car as they crossed a highway.

Flanagan, 71, of San Jose, Calif., and Thompson, 69, of Owensboro, Ky., were killed Wednesday night.

The couple had just finished a pizza dinner when they were hit trying to cross a seven-lane highway. Witnesses said they were carried more than 60 feet on the car's roof before the driver could stop. No charges were filed.

Flanagan's family said there was no romance between Flanagan and Mrs. Thompson.

"He was planning a trip back East to visit family and old friends and wanted to see her on the way," Bruce Flanagan, one of Flanagan's sons, said in a telephone interview from California. "There was no romance or intentions for furthering the relationship beyond old friends getting together for dinner."

Lisa Rihn, Thompson's daughter, said the pizza dinner marked the 50-year anniversary of Flanagan's marriage proposal to Thompson. She had turned him down, saying she was too young and he was going overseas the next day with his Coast Guard unit.

The two had dated for two years after meeting at a USO dance. Flanagan and Thompson had vowed to meet up after the war, but didn't speak again until this year. She was widowed in 1987 and he was divorced.

Rihn said the two decided to meet in Pittsburgh on Oct. 13 to visit Civil War sites along the East Coast, and attend the 50-year reunion of Flanagan's Coast Guard class on Thursday.

Rihn said she spoke to her mother on the telephone Monday, and the reunited friends were enjoying their trip.

"To put it plainly, you couldn't understand a word she was saying because she was giggling so much," Rihn said Friday. "I talked to Paul too, and he said he lost his Dottie 50 years ago, and he wasn't going to let her go now."

Rihn said her mother had shown her old photos of Flanagan when she was growing up.

No 'Affair' to remember

By Terry Lawson
N.Y. Times News Service

■ "Love Affair" is playing at the North Park Cinema.

Considering the rather obvious autobiographical aspects of "Love Affair" — Warren Beatty stars as an "aging playboy" and celebrity whose heart is stolen by the beautiful Annette Bening — as well as its tear-jerker pedigree — it is a remake of the notorious 1957 weepie "An Affair to Remember" — it's something more than curious to discover it is so, well, stand-offish. Handsome and thoughtful, it sets itself apart like a mysterious party guest, as beguiling as it is unapproachable.

Remaking "An Affair to Remember," which itself is a remake of 1939's "Love Affair," is hardly a job for the timid or shy; its story of a shipboard romance between two people already engaged to others is the most manipulative type of melodrama, so intrinsically cornball that we laugh at ourselves even as we cry buckets.

This phenomenon came out of the closet in 1992's "Sleepless in Seattle," which employed the film as both a running gag and a primary inspiration.

But that movie was essentially a comedy, as is the first half of "An Affair to Remember," and even the 1939 film is effortlessly witty until it turns pointedly tragic. This new version, written by Beatty and Robert Towne and directed by Glenn Gordon Caron, seems fearful of cracking a smile, lest it also crack the old-fashioned facade.

Otherwise, it follows the blueprint of the earlier films to a fault, allowing, of course, for the usual updates: Beatty's playboy Michael Gambril now has a past — he is a Joe Namath-like football and boudoir legend — and a career of sorts, as a sports analyst, but the latter has been gifted to him by his fiancee, an Oprah-like talk show icon (Kate Capshaw). His fussy business manager, played by Garry Shandling, hopes to parlay his partnership with her into se-

■ Two new hospital dramas, including Michael Crichton's "E.R.," are just what the doctor ordered.

By Frazier Moore
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK — Maybe you think "ER" stands for "Emergency Room."

Wrong, doc. "ER" stands for "Everything's Rosy."

Plenty rosy for "ER's" Anthony Edwards, who plays emergency-room resident Dr. Mark Greene in the NBC hospital drama, airing locally at 9 p.m. CDT Thursdays on KWES-TV.

A guy who served as Tom Cruise's doomed co-pilot in the feature "Top Gun," who had a recurring role as the hyperallergic "Bubble Man" on "Northern Exposure," now, lo and behold, Edwards is slicing and dicing his way to stardom on his hot new doctor series.

"It's the hardest thing I've ever done," says the 32-year-old actor — "but in a fun way."

So what's the hardest part?

"Putting on your rubber gloves at the same time you're saying your lines."

What's the most fun part?

"Saying things like 'ventricular tachycardia' and 'Babinski,' as in Babinski reflex: If the patient's toe bends back when you stroke the sole of the foot, that means ix-nay with the ain-bray."

Of course, another big new Chicago-based doctor show set up practice in the same time slot this fall. CBS' "Chicago Hope" stars Adam Arkin and Mandy Patinkin as world-class surgeons at a world-class medical center whose world-class facilities (you could store the Spruce Goose in that lobby!) the rough-and-tumble "ER" docs can only dream about.

NBC's "ER" and CBS' "Chicago Hope" represent TV's biggest medical breakthrough since NBC's "Dr. Kildare" and ABC's "Ben Casey" virtually invented the genre in 1961, made instant heart-throbs of Richard Chamberlain and Vince Edwards — and even inspired a teenybopper hit song ("Dr. Kildare! Dr. Casey! You are wanted for consultation").

Dramas now best nightly offerings

Patterson

TV types have complained over the last couple of months of the almost total lack of anything decent on prime time television this season. There are, however, a few notable exceptions, but most critics are right in their assumption that night time programming is not so prime this season.

The losers:

Seinfeld. Innovative just three seasons ago, if you can make a case for scripts about "nothing" being groundbreaking. This time around, the show has flat run out of entertaining ideas. Watching the first three shows of the season the program broke no new ground at all.

Murphy Brown. No longer a statement-making sit-com, this program, has also grown stale. It doesn't help any that Elden took his paint brushes and ran.

Love & War. How many ways can "Love & War" rip off "Cheers" and still get away with it?

Winners

Dave's World. Succeeds in spite of lackluster supporting actors Shadoe Stevens and Mesach Taylor, although Taylor does have his moments. For a true family comedy that centers around a real wise-guy dad, try Harry Anderson instead of Tim Allen.

E.R. Forget "NYPD Blue," this is the best drama on television. The Michael Crichton creation does, from time to time, rely too much on medical lingo, but aside from that fact, this is the best hour on television in recent memory. The program, in its premiere episode, set the stage for its excellence with the most gripping few moments of the young season: The show's first scene depicted an unconscious 6-month-old baby being wheeled in to the emergency room of a fictitious Chicago county hospital. An E.R. resident, moments later, pulled an ear ring from the child's mouth and, after a couple of harried, teary seconds, the once-choking baby began a healthy cry. The scene ranks without a doubt as the most heart-wrenching moment on television this season.

Picket Fences. It's controversial storylines this year have included school desegregation and religion in schools. A whopping guest appearance by Paul Winfield, who played a dying judge wanting to make a difference in the six months he had to live, should earn the talented actor an easy Emmy nod. "Picket Fences" is superbly written and acted.

E.R.: Shows are medical breakthroughs for TV

(From 1B)

Those two medics co-existed happily, Casey on Monday nights, Kildare on Thursdays. In that more innocent era, the networks weren't so quick to aim similar series at each other and risk neutralizing them both. Such strategy was left to nations with nuclear arsenals.

But this year, CBS fired "Hope" at NBC's "ER." NBC fired back. Instant cliche: "dueling doctors."

As everybody knows, "ER" (which also stars George Clooney, Sherry Stringfield, Noah Wyle and Eriq LaSalle) prevailed from the very first round. This gave rise to another instant cliche — "CBS blinks!" — when the so-called Eye Network quickly moved "Hope" an hour earlier on Thursdays, to 8 p.m. EDT. The next week, "Hope" vaulted from 59th to 31st place. "ER" remained a Top 10 fixture.

The showdown had lasted all of two weeks. Yet the notion persists — among TV critics, at least — that a blood feud remains to be settled, and that when the dust clears, only one of those two shows should be left standing.

It's only sporting that this should be so. Except this isn't sports, it's drama.

"What I hear from our writers is, they're so busy just trying to create good drama they're not really concerned with either trying to imitate, or trying to be different from, anything," Edwards replies when the compare-and-contrast question comes up.

"The success or failure of either 'Chicago Hope' or 'ER' is based on whether or not people want to watch the characters. And it really doesn't have much to do with where the characters happen to work," he adds.

Nonetheless, critics have struggled to pigeonhole the two series into just about every conceivable set of polarities. Thus is one show labeled "fast," the other "slow"; one "rich," the other "poor;" one "young," the other "old." Well, how about "Democrat" or "Republican"? "Window" or "aisle"? "Paper" or "plastic"?

The truth is, "ER" and "Chicago Hope" are both just what the doctor ordered for viewers who like good TV drama.

Watching one of these hospital-set series need not preclude watching the other, any more than a viewer must choose one and only one among the police dramas "NYPD Blue," "Law & Order" and "Homicide."

Which brings us back to the fix the networks still have us in come Thursday night: Who in his or her right mind wants to sit through two hospital dramas — however different, however excellent — back-to-back? Just try a two-hour stretch of "Hope" and "ER," then see what kind of dreams you have.

CBS and NBC continue to do both shows, and their viewers, a disservice. You don't have to be a doctor to make your diagnosis: It's bloody stupid.

Elsewhere in television ...

THE FAT'S IN THE FIRE: Do you know what's good for you? And even if you do, how come what's good for you seems to always be changing? On an edition titled "Fear of Fat" tonight at 10 p.m. EDT, the CBS News magazine "48 Hours" prowls supermarkets, restaurants and cafeterias to find a way out of the nutritional maze. Have those newfangled nutritional labels only made things more confusing? Does eliminating fat from the diet automatically mean weight loss? What happens when school lunches consist completely of fast food? Dan Rather anchors an investigation that proves you are what you eat, then inquires: Are some changes called for?

COUNTRY MUSIC MEMO

Forget being a cowboy, Keith ought to be a star

By Paulette Flowers and Otto Kitsinger

Up until a few months ago, Toby Keith could still have a listed phone number. Of course, he was listing it under his real last name, Covel. Then the fans found out, and he says he's had to change his number "three times, but they still get it. The phone company cheats."

Toby's not home to answer the phone too much these days, anyway. With five major hit singles (three No.1's) in the past 18 months and a brand new album, "Boomtown," out, Toby's seeing the inside of his new tour bus a lot lately. Currently he's paired with Sawyer Brown for the fall. We do hope he doesn't borrow any of Mark Miller's suits. We also hope he doesn't take any dancing lessons from Mark -- one broken bone a year should be plenty.

Even a badly broken ankle this past summer (from a charity football game) didn't slow him down. He just did his shows on crutches, even though he felt like Don Williams, "out there on a stool." Toby's got something in common with Don, anyway: He's written a lot of his own hits, too.

That's something of an anomaly in Nashville. Pairing the artist with one of Music Row's veteran songwriters is the norm these days. But Toby has come up with these hits solo: "Should've Been A Cowboy," "He Ain't Worth Missin'," "Wish I Didn't Know Now" and "Who's That Man."

Toby knows what he's writing about, too. He spent several summers while growing up in Oklahoma working for a rodeo company, and was even a "test rider" for bulls and broncos. He also used to work 70-hour weeks as a roughneck in the Oklahoma oil fields, experience that shows in the album's title cut, "Boomtown."

"I lived that song," Toby says. "Watched it happen in Elk Town, Oklahoma ... as they brought in 1,500 oil rigs and started pumping. For six years, you had corporate people coming in from Houston and Saudi Arabia. Then the wells ran dry."

Like a lot of other country artists these days, Toby's going to give acting a try, too. He's playing an aspiring singer in the movie "Burning Bridges." The film stars Sinbad as a burned-out executive who gets his life back together by hanging out with Toby's character. Currently, the film is scheduled for release in the spring.

The very first time Toby and his band "Easy Money" played outside their home state was in Pascagoula, Mississippi. The morning before they were to play, Hurricane Lana came through and pretty much flattened the town. Toby played anyway. Soon Toby's gonna be the hurricane that hits country music. Maybe he shoulda been a cowboy, but he's gonna be a star.

QUIBBLES 'N' BITS

All The Gold In California Dept.: Plans for three different country music-themed attractions in California were announced recently. Buddy Killen, a longtime mover and shaker in Nashville, will find out this week if his plans for the 3,300 acre "Celebrity City" in Red Bluff (near Redding) will be supported by the county's supervisors. A little farther south, between San Jose and Salinas, three businessmen are planning a theater complex called "Garlic Country USA" (love the name!) in Gilroy (the garlic capital of the world). And some folks in Temecula (near Los Angeles) want to build several theaters in conjunction with that town's "Old Town Temecula" project.

North Country Dept.: Belated congratulations to all the Canadian country artists who took home Canadian Country Music Association Awards this year: Charlie Major (Single, Song, Male Vocalist and Album of the Year); Prairie Oyster (Vocal Group and Bud Country Fan's Choice Entertainer of the Year); Patricia Conroy (Female Vocalist); Susan Aglukark (Vista Award); Quartette (Vocal Collaboration); and Jim Witter (Video of the Year). These folks make some fine country music, so check them out.

Rough Cuts Quote of the Week: "I've really reached the pinnacle --haven't I? -- singing with frogs." -- Vince Gill (who did reach a pinnacle as four-time CMA Male Vocalist and second-time Entertainer this year) on his duet, "Daydream," with Kermit the Frog on Kermit's forthcoming album, "Kermit Unpigged." Vince also named the album when the producers told him that they couldn't call it "Kermit Unplugged" because MTV owns the "Unplugged" title. Kermit's comment: "Well, with a name like Gill, we must be related." We wonder: If you kiss Kermit will he turn into Vince? Worth a try.

AFFAIR: Laugh and cry simultaneously

rious money; the tabloids hope to catch him in the act of romancing another woman, a not-unlikely prospect.

The opportunity presents itself when his plane to Australia makes an unscheduled landing on a remote South Pacific island, forcing the passengers to take a Russian cruise ship to one of the international airports in the near vicinity; but as soon as he gets to know fellow passenger Terry McKay, a jingle singer engaged to a financier (Pierce Brosnan), he knows she is more than a conquest; she may be the true love he has always avoided.

This feeling is confirmed for both of them after a side trip to visit his aunt (Katharine Hepburn) on her Bora Bora estate. She bestows a cranky blessing of sorts upon them, and they embark on an affair.

PATTERSON: Jury out on 'NYPD Blue'

(From 1B)

The Five Mrs. Buchanans. Good stuff without the cornpone humor of "Designing Women." They've said everything's been tried on television, but this program is based on the most unique concept to come along in some time. The good news is that it follows the can-do-no-wrong "Dr. Quinn." The bad news is that it asks viewers to log in an extra 30 minutes of viewing time on Saturday, the worst night of the week, ratings-wise. Last week the show rated 54th. It is worth staying tuned in after "Dr. Quinn," which in itself is a decent, yet all too predictable, family drama.

Frasier. Only one problem so far this year: The show is relying too much on references to the sit-com from which it was spun, "Cheers."

Jury still out

NYPD Blue. The first two episodes of the season are below the standards the program set for itself last year in terms of quality dialogue and acting. "NYPD" will survive the apparent death of John Kelly, played by David Caruso, who is leaving for the big screen.

It will suceed largely because Dennis Franz fits his character almost as perfectly as Robert Duvall's Augustus McRae did in "Lonesome Dove." Franz's Sipowicz character is trying to be made into a decent person after he leaves work. That experiment just may succeed.

Grace Under Fire. If the show's producers and writers can stay away from turning Brett Butler's character into a floozy who wants to flop into the sack with every man that knocks on her door, it's still a worthwhile program. In the show's third week, Butler was, well, a sex-starved, hormone-crazed Annie whose soul purpose in life was to sack out with a minor league baseball player.

Ellen and Friends. Pretty much the same program. Both also emulate the platonic relationships depicted in "Seinfeld." If either of these programs develop their own personality, there's a chance for both.

The Nanny. Weak writing aside, Fran Drescher is a funny woman.

Federal Reserve alters how inflation calculated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve has been jacking up interest rates, but the Labor Department has found a more subtle way to fight inflation: It is going to overhaul the government's measure of the cost of living.

Effects of the changes in the Consumer Price Index won't be huge — perhaps shaving 0.1 percentage point off the annual inflation rate.

But even that small amount will be felt in the pocketbooks of millions of Americans because the CPI is used to make annual cost-of-living adjustments in Social Security and other government benefits.

The Labor Department is scheduled to announce the measurement changes when it releases its next CPI report on Nov. 16. The changes will take effect with January's report.

In papers explaining the changes, obtained by The Associated Press, the government said it was modifying how it tracks the price of food consumed at home, shelter costs and prescription drug prices.

The change in drug prices, for example, will result in the government giving less weight to brand-name prescription drugs and more to generic drugs.

"None of the things we are doing will be major changes, but they will have an impact," said Patrick Jackman, an economist with the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

But Jackman conceded that the modifications will not address all of the criticisms that have been leveled against the CPI in recent years.

A study released this week by the Congressional Budget office estimated that the CPI was overstating inflation by 0.2 percentage point to 0.8 percentage point per year.

Sulfer light bulb is more efficient, DOE says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new light bulb is being promoted by the Energy Department as a cheaper, more energy-efficient way to provide lighting in the 21st century.

The lighting system, under development by Fusion Lighting Inc., of Rockville, Md., uses sulfur particles that are bombarded by microwaves to produce a bright light that resembles sunlight, according to department officials.

Christine Ervin, the DOE's assistant secretary for energy efficiency programs, called the new lighting technology very promising and said potentially it "can save large amounts of energy and at the same time deliver more quantity and better quality light."

The bulb is not yet being produced commercially.

Kent Kipling, vice president of Fusion Lighting, acknowledged "a great deal of work still needs to be done" to perfect the system for widespread uses. But he added "the benefits of this new light source are just beginning to be realized."

A prototype of the system recently was installed to illuminate the entryway of the Energy Department's Forrestal headquarters building. Two of the new-technology bulbs, attached to the ends of a 240-foot-long, 10-inch-diameter reflector, provide enough light to replace 240 175-watt mercury lamps that previously lit the entry area, officials said.

The new lighting system, cut energy consumption for the entryway area by 60 percent, the department said in a statement.

Development of the sulfur lamp began three years ago when technicians at Fusion Lighting, a small high-technology start-up company in a suburb of Washington, substituted sulfur for mercury in a bulb and discovered that when bombarded by microwaves it produced a bright, white light similar to sunlight.

Boy hero kicks old man, saves 5-year-old friend

CHALMETTE, La. (AP) — The old man pulled up in front of four children, grabbed the youngest, a 5-year-old, and threw him in the back seat of his car.

That's when Cameron Noel — all 10 years and 66 pounds of him — sprang to action. "I kicked him where it hurts," Cameron said Friday.

The kick to the testicles doubled the old man over. The 4-foot-1-inch hero with thick glasses followed up by kicking the man in his head.

Cameron then reached in through the car's front door, unlocked the back door and let his friend out.

Armando Haramboure, 73, was arrested Thursday with the help of angry parents and charged with kidnapping. He was being held on $75,000 bond.

Haramboure also was charged with indecent behavior for allegedly touching a 4-year-old boy who lives near Cameron in this town about 15 miles east of New Orleans.

All four children, three boys and a girl, told basically the same story about the kidnapping attempt on Tuesday and Cameron's heroics, sheriff's deputies said.

Haramboure was tracked down after one of the four children recognized his car parked at the man's house. The child's mother went to the house, wrote down the car's license plate number and called police.

Officers couldn't find the car, but an informal posse of angry parents spotted him driving on Thursday and one of them pulled out in front of him. The rest surrounded the car until police arrived.

Disaster relief centers open for flood victims

HOUSTON (AP) — Flood victims, already weary from the monsoon-like storms that swamped their homes and swept away their belongings, took on yet another hurdle Friday — the federal government.

People lined up outside three federal disaster-relief centers in Harris and Montgomery counties to apply for help in paying for new housing and restarting damaged businesses.

"I'm here to see if I can get a little help to rebuild my trailer," said Jay Coleman, who waited outside a Harris County relief center in the humid afternoon heat. "Anything will help."

Coleman's home along the San Jacinto River was submerged earlier this week and was still filled knee-high with water on Friday. He was among some 11,500 who fled inundated homes for higher ground.

Federal officials declared seven additional Texas counties disaster areas Friday, making victims in those areas eligible for assistance along with those in 26 other counties.

On Friday, the Federal Emergency Management Agency announced it had already mailed out the first 20 checks totaling $18,800 to people who applied for assistance over the phone. The agency says they've taken 5,700 applications over the phone.

Application process time is five to 10 days.

Two more relief centers will open today in Livingston and Liberty for a total of five.

At least 17 people have been killed in the flooding, spawned by three days of torrential rains that sent lakes, rivers and creeks surging over their banks.

And on the swollen San Jacinto River east of Houston, oil leaking from a ruptured Texaco Inc. pipeline eluded containment efforts Friday and formed a 20-mile-long slick that reached the environmentally sensitive Galveston Bay.

Coast Guard Capt. Richard Ford said the spill, which came from up to four broken pipelines crossing the river, was about four times longer than originally thought.

Crews had tried unsuccessfully to contain the slick by setting up 30,000 feet of booms and skimmers along the Houston Ship Channel near the site where two Colonial Pipeline Co. fuel lines exploded and burned Thursday. The fires continued late Friday afternoon.

Officials still weren't sure what caused the ruptures or sparked the fire or exactly how much fuel leaked into the river.

"There is a lot of product remaining that has the ability to get into the waterways," said Brian Schaible, spokesman for the Texas Railroad Commission, which regulates the state petrochemical industry.

"That's why we continue to see fires burning. We are going to see more releases until the waters recede," he said.

Flood waters across Southeast Texas, including the San Jacinto, have begun to recede, but trouble appeared to be still ahead for some areas.

State officials said the Trinity and Neches rivers east of Houston and the Brazos River southwest of the city were expected to crest before today.

The Trinity, 7 feet above flood stage and 6 inches above a 1990 record level of 30½ feet, was headed even higher. The river ravaged Liberty, about 30 miles east of Houston, and its population of 8,000.

"Everything's flooded downtown. It's waist deep," said Liberty County Judge Dempsie Henley. "Everything's soaking wet and it's draining out. But no one went hungry, no one missed a meal and we didn't lose any lives."

To the southwest of Houston, the Brazos was 2 feet over flood stage at Richmond and moving toward Brazoria County, where some roads were flooded.

Brazoria was one of seven additional counties designated disaster areas. Jackson, Orange, San Augustine, Shelby, Victoria and Wharton were the others.

In addition to the three relief centers opened Friday, authorities hoped to establish others in hard-hit counties by next week.

At a small county warehouse in north Houston Friday, Michelle Strickland waited to apply for Red Cross food and clothing vouchers. She had already applied by telephone for housing assistance after her rental home in Humble was covered by San Jacinto waters.

"I was upset because I didn't have any flood insurance," Mrs. Strickland said. "I thought we were doomed. I didn't think we would get anything."

Workers from the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the Red Cross and other relief agencies interviewed flood victims at folding tables and chairs set up in the warehouse. Outside, about 20 people waited in line.

Panel votes to send killer back to prison

AUSTIN (AP) — Child killer Raul Meza, who was driven from six cities by protests when he was freed from prison last year, was ordered back behind bars Friday by state parole officials.

The action came after Meza violated the terms of his release: He was absent from the hotel where he was living when his parole officer checked on him one night in August.

Meza, who was required to wear an electronic monitor, was supposed to be at his residence from 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. But when his parole officer came by about 12:30 a.m. on Aug. 24, he wasn't there.

Meza maintained he had only left the hotel for 15 minutes to get cigarettes, said his lawyer, Keith Hampton. At a hearing last week, Meza said he believed his infraction was minimal.

"I've tried everything in my power and my ability to do what was required of me," Meza said.

But a three-member panel of the state parole board, meeting in Gatesville, decided Friday that Meza's release should be revoked.

"He goes to prison," said panel member Mae Jackson. "He will go, I'm sure, as quickly as they can move him" from Travis County jail, where Meza was held pending the parole board action.

Hampton said, "I definitely think it's unfair. We're talking about a model releasee who committed a minor infraction ... It's not proportional justice."

Hampton said he would ask the panel to reconsider. If it does not change its decision, he said he plans to take Meza's case to court.

Meza spent about 11 years in prison after accepting a plea bargain in which he confessed to the 1982 murder of 8-year-old Kendra Page, who authorities said had been strangled and sexually molested.

He was sentenced to 30 years for the murder, then received another four-year sentence in 1989 for having a weapon in prison.

Meza's release was mandatory in 1993 because he had accumulated enough "good time" credit in prison to equal his sentence.

But in town after town — El Paso, San Antonio, Mineral Wells, Wichita Falls, Sweetwater and Uvalde — he was met with angry protests.

He finally wound up back in Austin, where the father of his victim still lives.

Two Houston emergencies complicate third — oil spill

HOUSTON (AP) — A 20-mile-long slick of crude oil leaking from a ruptured Texaco Inc. pipeline in the San Jacinto River eluded containment efforts Friday and floated into areas of environmentally sensitive Galveston Bay, the Coast Guard said.

"There is a massive presence of oil," Capt. Richard Ford said, noting the oily black streak from up to four broken pipelines crossing the river was about four times longer than originally thought.

Some homes that took in flood waters now were soaked in crude oil, he said. As the flooded river receded, the crude oil problem became more apparent, Ford said.

Cleanup crews battled flooded river currents and intense flames from fires that had been burning for more than 24 hours since Colonial Pipeline Co. gasoline and diesel fuel pipelines exploded on Thursday.

Ford said the goal on Friday was to contain the oil and keep it from Galveston Bay, which is ringed by sensitive marshlands. They were unsuccessful, however, and scrambled to come up with a new plan.

Ford said he was frustrated by Texaco's response to the pipeline rupture. The Coast Guard had suspected that the line had been leaking with the others Thursday but could not confirm the break until the following day.

"I think there was a lot of frustration on our part trying to convince Texaco that this was their line and that something bad was happening," Ford said.

Mari Pat Sexton, a spokeswoman for Texaco, said the company had a 20-inch diameter crude oil line in the area but explained that it was difficult to determine its line was releasing the crude because of the fire and the flooding.

"We are taking action to clean up this spill that potentially applies to this 20-inch line," she said.

The line had been idle and there was no way for gauges to show a drop in pressure, indicating a leak, Ms. Sexton said.

Officials still weren't sure what caused the ruptures or sparked the fire.

The broken pipelines were believed about 2 miles north of the Interstate 10 bridge near the mouth of the river, which dumps into the Houston Ship Channel. The channel then empties into the bay.

The ship channel has been closed to traffic since Tuesday because of the excessive currents from rushing floodwaters.

Continuing floods have been blamed for 17 deaths. Flood waters fell in most places Friday although the town of Liberty, about 35 miles east of Houston, remained inundated after Thursday's levee failures.

Smoke and fumes from Thursday's fire also sent some 120 people to hospitals for treatment of minor injuries.

In Houston Friday, the black streaks of oil, some burning on the water, stretched several miles down the channel toward Galveston Bay, which empties into the Gulf of Mexico.

Fuel washed up on shores, threatening some environmentally sensitive marsh systems.

Meanwhile, Colonial was trying to re-establish its supply of gasoline and diesel to the East Coast.

Colonial said Friday it will restart the pipelines east of Houston and resume shipping more than 60 percent of its normal deliveries.

The company also asked shippers to use barges to get supplies to collection points such as Baton Rouge and Lake Charles in Louisiana.

The first Colonial pipeline that exploded Thursday supplies about 1.2 million barrels of unleaded gasoline per day, constituting 16 percent of the daily U.S. consumption. A second pipeline carried diesel fuel.

Companies shut off a dozen pipelines crossing the river in Houston's "Spaghetti Bowl" — the mouth of the nation's interstate pipeline network on the eastern edge of Houston.

Fuel futures prices soared Thursday, but fell back some Friday and analysts said any increase in pump prices would be small.

Officials said they believed four pipelines running parallel underneath the San Jacinto bottom spilled a variety of petroleum products into the flood-swollen river, but they did not know the extent of the leaks.

Colonial spokesman Noel Griese said his company was trying to determine the cause of the pipeline rupture and explosions. He refused to speculate.

"It could have been any number of things and often it turns out not to be the thing you think it might be," he said.

Griese said it was too early to estimate how much fuel spilled from its pipelines because much of the fuel burned off in the fire.

Griese said a 33-mile segment of the two Colonial pipelines shut down due to the leak had contained more than 8 million gallons of fuel. He added, however, that less than that would have leaked.

The San Antonio-based Valero Energy Corp. confirmed its natural gas line, the fourth broken pipeline, began leaking at 3:45 p.m. Thursday.

Valero spokesman Keith Booke said the company typically moves 90 million to 100 million cubic feet through the 12-inch-diameter line per day. The company didn't believe its leak was burning, he said.

Unlike the liquid fuels that sheened on the water, the natural gas quickly dissipates, Booke said.

"It just goes up into the air, or if it is under water, dissipates in the water," Booke said. "We still don't know where the pipeline rupture took place, underground or whether within the river."

■ Delegates vote

WICHITA FALLS — In a decisive vote, delegates attending the 1994 Regional Assembly of the Christian Church, Disciples of Christ, here rejected the ordination of practicing homosexuals to ministry within the Southwest Region of the church.

This vote may have an impact on the entire denomination as the Southwest Region represents around 10 percent of all Disciples.

"This vote is significant in a time when the Disciples of Christ have been experiencing an erosion of biblical authority," said Kevin Ray, executive director of Disciple Renewal, the renewal group within the church. "Just when it seemed that the Disciples were going the way of our ultra-liberal partner denomination, the United Church of Christ, this vote renews hope that sanity will prevail."

The United Church of Christ, "partner" denomination with the Christian Church, Disciples of Christ, voted at its 1991 General Synod to promote the ordination and placement of homosexuals within the UCC.

Homosexual ordination has been a hotly contested issue in the Christian Church over the past few years. The partnership issue has become of more concern to Disciples in recent months as the General Assembly vote nears.

Abuse of food remains last religious taboo, scholars say

By David Briggs
Associated Press

As a graduate student, Mary Louise Bringle would go for days or weeks ingesting huge quantities of food, such as whole bags of cookies or half gallons of ice cream at a time.

Then, ridden with guilt, she would fast for equal number of days on coffee and an occasional glass of diluted grapefruit juice. She suffered leg and stomach cramps from abusing laxatives and diuretics.

Yet in therapy with a pastoral counselor for five years, the theological student only mentioned her discomfort with food once. When the therapist responded that she was not fat, Bringle did not persist.

"Secrecy seemed, after all, the proper setting for such disgusting practices," she revealed in the recent issue of The Journal of Pastoral Care.

Half of Americans regularly thank God before meals, but food is more often a curse than a blessing to millions of Americans with eating disorders. Caught between a culture that glorifies physical perfection and centuries of religious teaching warning of temptations of the flesh, they feast or fast in private.

While religious groups have begun to come to grips with the sexual revolution — elevating the goodness of sexuality even as they painfully struggle with the ground rules — food abuse remains the final taboo, say some scholars and counselors.

"We have so trivialized food issues that it is much easier for people to talk about their sexual issues," said Bringle, now a professor of religious studies at St. Andrews Presbyterian College in Laurinburg, N.C.

The problem is not hidden. On an average day, an estimated 65 million Americans are dieting, including from 50 percent to 80 percent of fourth grade girls and nearly two-thirds of female high school students. As many as a third of female college students use laxatives, vomiting and diuretics to rid their bodies of unwanted food and weight, Bringle said in the journal article.

But that does not mean the issue is out in the open in sanctuaries.

Kim Chernin, a Berkeley, Calif., counselor who has written three books on eating disorders, says women will speak more easily to her about issues of incest and child abuse than food abuse.

Church calls bishop

Staff Report

Midlander Gary J. Hoose has been called as bishop of the Midland III Ward for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and has chosen as his counselors, Robert Weidmann II and Benjamin L. Blake.

Weidmann

Hoose

Blake

Hoose replaces Brent Rigtrup who served in the position for more than six years.

Like other local and regional church leaders, he will serve voluntarily and without compensation. His primary responsibilities will be to work with the youth and oversee the needs of ward members.

An exploration manager for Pogp Producing Co., Hoose was born in Cleveland, Ohio, and received a bachelor of science degree in geology from Bowling Green State University.

A convert to the church 15 years ago, he most recently has been serving as a teacher in the early-morning seminary program for the youth.

He and hiw wife, Lauryl, have three children and have lived here for 17 years.

Weidmann, first counselor in the bishopric, also served in that capacity under the former bishop. He is the program director in respiratory care at Midland College and holds a bachelor of science degree in zoology from Southern Utah University.

He and his wife, Karen, have five children.

As second counselor, Blake leaves his position on the church's high council which oversees the area's wards and branches.

Raised in Safford, Ariz., Blake received his bachelor of science in accounting and his master of accounting from Brigham Young University. He is a CPA and assistant general manager and controller for Barbara Faskin.

He and his wife, LaRae, have eight children.

Student to be featured in organ recital Sunday

J. Brent McCartney will be presented in an organ recital at 2 p.m. Sunday at St. Luke United Methodist Church, 3011 W. Kansas Ave.

The program will feature "Toccata in D (Dorian" by J.S. Bach, "Suite Gothique" by Leon Boellman, "Carillon" by Louis Vierne, Final from Symphony No. 1, Opus 14 by Vierne and works by Jean Langlais, Charles Callahan, Samuel Barber and Frank Bridge.

McCartney is a senior music education major at Texas Christian University, He recently completed a three-year internship as the TCU Church Music intern, under the direction of Mark Scott, at St. Stephen Presbyterian Church, Fort Worth.

He is a member of the TCU Concert Chorale which recently performed at Carnegie Hall, under the direction of Ron Shirley.

He is the organist at The Second Church of Christ Scientist, Fort Worth. He also is a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Music Fraternity.

McCartney, who is the son of Midlanders Mr. and Mrs. Don McCartney, was a member of St. Luke's UMC when he lived here.

St. Luke's UMC's senior pastor, the Rev. Jarrell Sharp, invites the public to attend the recital.

FRIDAY NIGHT THUNDER: WEEK EIGHT

Panthers repel Rebels

■ Odessa Permian takes advantage of three Midland Lee turnovers to turn back the Rebels 14-7.

By Bill Petitt
Staff Writer

Midland Lee coach Earl Miller made the call early in the week. Miller, who has been in 16 of the 36 games either as a head coach or assistant during the Lee-Permian series, knew that it would take big plays and solid defense to win the game.

Odessa Permian made the most of a rare Lee fumble while the Rebels could not capitalize on prime field position in the first half as the Panthers remained undefeated in District 4-5A with a 14-7 win over Lee in a defensive struggle in front of a capacity crowd of 10,000 at Memorial Stadium.

Permian improves to 5-3 on the year and 4-0 in District 4-5A play while Lee drops to 6-2 and 3-2 in league wars.

For Lee, it lost the battle, and eventually the war, in the first half when the Rebels could not score any points despite beginning two consecutive drives at the Panther 39 and 32. Both drives began with big punt returns — one of 36 yards by Jerry Stanford and one of 18 yards by Kevin Jordan. But Permian held Lee on fourth down both times.

"Our defense really bowed up and played big today," said Permian fullback L.C. Ward, who led all rushers with 94 yards on 25 carries.

"We gave our defense a bad situation

Miller's last bout becomes Mayes' first win

■ Midland Lee coach Earl Miller, in his last season with the Rebels, falls to Odessa Permian's first-year leader Randy Mayes.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

What was supposed to be Midland Lee coach Earl Miller's final springboard launch into the Class 5A state playoffs in his final 4-5A meeting with Odessa Permian may have turned into the launching pad for the Permian career of Panther coach Randy Mayes.

Mayes, who has received some heat for Permian's slow start in 1994, put his Panthers in the playoffs with a perfect 4-0 record in District 4-5A with a clutch 14-7 win over Lee Friday night at Memorial Stadium. He was 2-3 at one point in the season, but now he resides at the top of the loop, tied with No. 1 state ranked Abilene Cooper.

Miller carried a 4-4-1 on the field record against Permian going into the game (5-4 by UIL forfeit count) and was favored against Permian on this field where the Panthers, only two weeks ago, survived a two-point conversion by Midland High with 38 seconds left in the game to win 20-19. His last game against Mojo is

Bronchos ride Coat-less MHS

■ MHS running back Roy Coats and defensive tackle Bobby Avent miss most of game at Ratliff Stadium.

By Mike Butts
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Ronnie Reeger just was not in an excuse-making mood.

The head coach's Midland High Bulldogs had just been shellacked by Odessa High, 45-15, Friday at Ratliff Stadium without the services of running back Roy Coats and standout defensive tackle Bobby Avent.

Coats entered the game as the sixth leading rusher in the state and Avent had probably been the Bulldogs best defender. Coats carried once and left the game with a sprained ankle that Reeger said will keep him out for the last two games of Midland High's season. Avent went down in the first period of the District 4-5A game and never came back.

It may be an indication of how far the Bulldogs have come from a winless 1993 season that Reeger wasn't about to use the absence of those two players to explain the lopsided loss which left his team at 0-4 in district and 3-5 overall.

"We played like crap," Reeger said. "We had everybody we needed. That (the injuries) is just an excuse."

Without Coats in the backfield, the Bulldogs threw 34 passes while rushing for only 68 total yards. Odessa High (2-3, 6-3) rushed for 384 yards. Broncho quarterback Cortney Bulter led the way with 101 yards and two touchdown passes and one TD on the ground.

"It was fun," a Gatoraid drenched Odessa High coach Bill Barron said after the game. "A lot of our kids got a chance to play."

Eleven players carried the ball for the Bronchos, who built a 17-0 halftime lead and led 38-7 after three quarters.

Rangers one game from 3A playoffs

By Pete Herndon
MRT Correspondent

GREENWOOD — The Greenwood Rangers, traditionally a team of near-misses, are now one win away from clinching a berth in the Class 3A state football playoffs.

Greenwood, after defeating Sonora 34-21 Friday in a battle of District 8-3A unbeatens, can earn that spot with a win at traditional cellar-dweller Colorado City next week.

Greenwood coach Bob Purser, however, has learned over the years not to take anything for granted. After all, his teams have missed making the playoffs over the years by just about every way possible. Whether it's losing the critical game or being on the short end in penetrations and first downs, the Rangers have suffered through it all.

Mustangs win Midland's little rivalry

■ Midland Christian tops Trinity in first-ever meeting between Six-Man TAPPS opponents.

By Tom Ruiz
MRT Correspondent

When the higher-ups at Trinity decided to establish a football program they probably considered three things: building a field, putting together a team and playing crosstown and district rival Midland Christian.

So far, the Chargers have accomplished the first two in fine fashion. But beating the three-time Texas Association of Private and Parochial Schools Class 1A state champion Mustangs turned out to be another story Friday afternoon at Trinity's field.

The 5-3 Mustangs beat 5-3 Trinity 27-6 in their first-ever meeting in what will become a storied rivalry in the future.

REBELS: Mojo stifles Lee offense

(From 1D)

in the second half," said Permian coach Randy Mayes. "Our secondary played well because our front four got a lot of heat."

The pressure up front forced Lee quarterback Dedrick Adams into two interceptions and one fumble in the game. Lee had turned the ball over just seven times in the previous seven games.

Lee's first turnover came after Permian had marched down the field 74 yards in six plays. Permian used the air waves with a 36-yard pass from Jeff Dinger to Jeremy Marin to the Lee two. Ward crashed over on the next play for a 7-0 lead with 11:42 to play in the first half.

Three plays later, an Adams pitch bounced off Alex Strambler and was recovered by Heath Moody at the Lee 17.

On the next play backup quarterback Jason Prann found Marin alone at the three and he rolled into the end zone for a 14-0 lead.

"I thought (the pass) was there all night long," said Marin. "They were bunched up so tight up front that there was no one back there."

The two pass completions opened up the middle for the Permian ground attack. Ward, who had 30 yards on 11 carries midway through the second period, finished the night with 94 yards.

"I think the passes did open it up for me a little," said Ward. "They had a nine-man front, but after those two passes, it put them back on their heals a little."

Lee took the ball over with 7:25 to play in the half and mounted a 15-play, 74-yard drive to score its only points of the game.

The Rebels picked up their first, first down of the game with 6:41 left in the half during the march that was spurred on by 58 yards of passing by Adams, including a scrambling 22-yard pass to Strambler, who raced down to the seven-yard-line on a fourth-and-five. Adams went the final yard with 20 seconds to play before intermission to cut the lead to 14-7.

Lee took the ball to open the second half, but could do nothing. The Rebels could mount just 77 yards of offense in the second half.

Permian had a chance to put the game away in the fourth period when Adams was intercepted on two consecutive possessions.

The first drive stalled and Permian punter Dinger kicked the ball out at the Lee one-yard-line.

Permian's second interception gave the Panthers the ball at the 27. On fourth-and-eight at the Lee 25. Dinger completed a 15-yard pass to Kevin Hubbard along the sideline at the 10 for a first down.

On third-and-goal at the 11, Dinger was intercepted by Rebel defensive back Lee Lauderdale at the five.

"We shouldn't have thrown that one over there," said Mayes. "We should have tried to put it in the middle of the field (for a field goal). We should have stayed with that mind set. But against this Lee team 10 points is not out of reach for them."

The Rebels drove the ball to the Permian 40, but punted on fourth down with 7:10 to play.

After a 35-yard Dinger punt, Lee took over at its own 48 with 3:36 to play. On fourth-and-five at the Permian 47, Adams completed a six-yard pass to Stanford for a first down. An incompletion and a five-yard sack of Adams by Eric Williams left the Rebels with a third-and-15 at the Panthers 46. Adams scrambled for a 10-yard gain, but on fourth-and five Adams threw incomplete with 1:10 to play.

Midland Lee returns to action next Friday at Abilene Cooper while Permian faces San Angelo Central at Ratliff Stadium.

MILLER: Rebels on 'short end of the score'

From 1D

a loss, leaving him with a 4-5-1 or 5-5 mark, which ever you choose to use.

"It was a good game and we were on the short end of the score," Miller said after the contest. "When you get inside the 30 three times and can't score, you can't win. Our kids played hard, but Permian had the big plays early and that was it."

Now Mayes starts his own string against Lee, climbing to a perfect 1-0 against the Rebels in his series debut as head coach of the Panthers. Of course, Mayes had been part of many Lee-Permian games in the past as a Permian assistant. But this was his day — one where he passed the glory stick.

"I'm happy about the win. There is no question about that," Mays said, "but I'm happy for our coaches, and more importantly those kids that pulled this one off. This is a coach by committee and win by team effort."

The victory insures that Mayes will have Permian back in the playoffs even with losses to San Angelo and Abilene Cooper the next two weeks. And both of those games are at Ratliff Stadium.

So, can we write the playoff obituary for Lee once again? Hold the death certificate.

"I don't know where we stand right now about the playoffs," Miller said. "If we beat Cooper, we're in, and I guess if San Angelo loses another game, we're in there somewhere."

Actually, Cooper's win over San Angelo Friday night in the Concho City kept Lee's playoff hopes alive — even with a loss to Cooper next week.

Should Lee lose to Cooper and San Angelo lose to either Permian or Midland High, the league could see a three-way tie for third place with Lee, San Angelo and Odessa High. If that scenerio develops, Lee would gain the playoffs by virtue of beating San Angelo by more than the 18 positive points allowed under the 4-5A tie-breaking system.

But the bottom line for Lee now says the Rebs must beat the No. 1 team in the state next Friday in Abilene to go playoff hunting for the 11th time in 12 years.

"We can do it," Miller said, "but now we have to."

Lee is now 6-2 on the season and 3-2 in league play. Permian is 5-3 and 4-0.

And as the score in this one would indicate, defense was the name of the game. Permian didn't make the fatal mistake and Lee did.

The killer was a fumble at the Lee 17-yard line where Permian's Wayland Waters pounced on it. That led to Permian's second, and what turned out to be the deciding, touchdown of the night.

Both teams had trouble scoring inside the opponent's 30-yard line. Lee did come up empty three times inside the 30-yard line, but Permian also failed three times in the second half to score in Lee territory.

Permian defensive standout Rory Couch said the Panther defense was ready for the challenge.

"Everybody was ready," Couch said. "We came in knowing that Lee had a great team, and that we couldn't give up the big play to them. That's just what happened. We never gave up the huge play.

"This game has a lot of meaning for me. I didn't have a very good game against Lee last year as a sophomore, so I had to come back and make up for that."

And Permian made up for a lot of woes Friday night. Old Mojo still has that spark of magic, even if it isn't the Greatest Show on Earth any more. But the show is good enough and a playoff appearance is proof positive.

MHS: OHS' Butler throws for two touchdowns

From 1D

Odessa High running back Josh Linney ran for 72 yards.

Reeger insisted his team's game plan was not changed any by Coats' absence.

"The ones we had played as hard as they could play (and) we'll do the same next week," Reeger said.

The Bulldogs began the game by recovering an onside kick at the Odessa High 39-yard line. That turned out to be the Bulldogs best starting field position of the game until their last possession.

But Midland High failed to convert a fourth-and-six at the Odessa High 25 and the Broncho wishbone took over.

"Midland High had terrible field position the first half and that really hurt them," Barron said. "When Coats went out, that really hurt them running ... and number 61 (Avent) was a big loss for them, too."

Butler ran the wishbone to near perfection. He scored on a 9-yard run after Brian Cook's field goal to put the Bronchos up 10-0 after a scoreless first quarter. Butler threw just two passes in the game but both went for touchdowns. On the second TD pass, Odessa High's Keith Givens was 10 yards behind the Midland High defense.

Midland High did have some success through the air, gaining 205 yards passing. Quarterback Craig Coleman hit Cody Glass for a 71-yard play that set up the Bulldogs first touchdown, cutting the Odessa High lead to 24-7 in the third quarter. And Coleman also found Tyler Krueger for a score well after the game had gotten out of hand.

Odessa High had only one meaningless turnover. But the Bronchos did commit 11 penalties.

Midland High has two games left, at home versus Abilene High and at San Angelo Central. Reeger said Avent would miss both those contests. Midland High kicker David Leaverton (hamstring), who is one of the top kickers in the district, also missed the game and is also probably out for the rest of the season.

RANGERS: Greenwood wins sixth-straight

From 1D

Purser said Friday it makes winning that much more enjoyable now.

"I'm just going one game at a time and seeing what happens," Purser said after the Rangers scored on their first five possessions to put away Sonora. "We go to Colorado City next week. We can clinch a tie (for the district championship) and a playoff berth. We've got to beat Colorado City to get it done. That ought to give us some incentive."

The Rangers (6-1, 3-0) appeared to have plenty of incentive against Sonora (5-3, 2-1).

Indavong Phonasa scored from 86 yards out on Greenwood's first play from scrimmage. On Greenwood's next possession, fullback Carlos Lopez broke loose from 51 yards away and the rout was on.

The Rangers scored on a pair of 70-yard drives in the second quarter.

Richard Martin capped a 14-play drive with a 1-yard run. Quarterback Josh Jones set up the score by converting a fourth-and-2 with a 3-yard run on an option left from Sonora's 7-yard line.

Bucky Smith gave Greenwood a 27-6 halftime lead with a 9-yard run on an option right with 28 seconds remaining before intermission.

The Rangers had 276 yards rushing in the first half.

Sonora coach Bob Bellard said afterward he could have used some help from his family this week. Bellard is the son of the legendary Emory Bellard, often credited with inventing the wishbone.

"He retired at the end of last season," said the younger Bellard. "This is the first time in 41 years he hasn't coached. We could have used him here this week. They are an option team. Maybe he could have come up with something to stop them."

Stopping the running game might not have been enough against the Rangers Friday.

Jones finished the Greenwood scoring when he threw to Andy Smith for 31 yards and a touchdown on the opening drive of the second half.

Sonora quarterback Caleb Barker made the score respectable with a pair of fourth-quarter touchdown passes.

The Broncos travel to Big Lake to play Reagan County next week. The winner could clinch the runner-up playoff spot from District 8-3A.

Five baseball groups to make expansion pitches

NEW YORK (AP) — Five groups seeking a major league expansion team will make presentations to baseball officials on Nov. 1 in Chicago.

The five groups include one each from Orlando, Fla.; Phoenix; St. Petersburg, Fla.; and two from the Northern Virginia area.

"The decision to expand has not yet been made," said Boston Red Sox chief executive officer John Harrington, chairman of the owners' expansion committee. "These are preliminary interviews. We remain at the information-gathering stage."

Originally, 27 groups from 10 areas requested expansion applications this summer. Nine groups returned completed applications.

The four groups not picked for interviews Friday were all from cities outside the United States: three from Mexico and one from Vancouver, British Columbia.

Baseball officials said those groups may make presentations at a later date.

Harrington said owners were pleased that Mexican interests had returned completed applications.

"Expansion on an international nature is very important to us," he said. "There is enormous potential for baseball in international markets."

Grgurich returns to lead UNLV

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Former UNLV assistant Tim Grgurich agreed Friday to take over the basketball program he helped Jerry Tarkanian build into a powerhouse, capping a tumultuous week that rocked the university.

Grgurich will reportedly receive a three-year contract worth some $300,000 a year to take over the beleaguered program.

UNLV interim president Kenny Guinn confirmed late Friday afternoon that an "agreement in principle" had been reached and that Grgurich was expected to be on the floor Saturday for the team's first practice.

Guinn said Grgurich had not actually signed a contract, but would do so either Friday night or Saturday morning.

Former UNLV player David Rice told The Associated Press earlier that Grgurich had agreed to the job.

"It's a done deal," said Rice, who said he will be an assistant to Grgurich.

The latest chapter in the soap opera-like saga surrounding the Runnin' Rebels saw Grgurich prepare to fly here from Memphis, where he had been with the Seattle SuperSonics, to take his new job.

Grgurich was scheduled to arrive late Friday night. That meant UNLV players would begin practice Saturday, a week after preseason basketball practice began at most universities.

The hiring came a week after Rollie Massmino agreed to a $1.8 million buyout, and over the protest of the school's athletic director, who said the move to hire Grgurich would give the perception that the Tarkanian era was back.

Athletic director Jim Weaver resigned during the negotiations with Grgurich, but will stay on until the end of the school year. Weaver said he was perceived as a link to past turmoil at UNLV and would step aside for the good of the university.

Players who had gone five days without anything to practice were ecstatic over reports that Grgurich would coach the team.

"He cares about kids," junior center Kebu Stewart said. "Whereever you go, you hear something good about him."

Guinn reversed his position in offering the contract to Grgurich, who was in Las Vegas on Wednesday with the expectation of taking the job.

When Weaver resigned, however, the job wasn't offered to the SuperSonics assistant. But on Thursday, Guinn reconsidered and asked Grgurich to take over the troubled basketball program.

Guinn made the offer to Grgurich after meeting with Runnin' Rebel players and the coaches of other sports at the university. He said they all pressed for the hiring of Grgurich, who was Tarkanian's assistant for 12 years.

If Grgurich had rejected the offer, Guinn said the university has a list of candidates it would contact about taking the job on an interim basis.

Tarkanian resigned during the 1991-92 season, ending a long dispute between the coach and former school president Robert Maxson.

Chargers look to fatten up on rivals

Associated Press

■ NFL Roundup

The San Diego Chargers get a chance to fatten their perfect record on some more AFC West cooking Sunday.

Four of the Chargers' six wins have been against division rivals Denver, Kansas City, Seattle and Los Angeles. No. 5 would be against Denver again, this time at San Diego's Jack Murphy Stadium.

Denver has a 14-8 record against the Chargers behind John Elway, who passed for 4,698 yards and 20 touchdowns in those games. But the Chargers have won four of the last five meetings at home. The last time the Broncos won at San Diego was 17-14 in 1991.

The Chargers, the NFL's only unbeaten team, have the AFC's fourth-best offense. They are sparked by Stan Humphries, the conference's top-ranked passer, and by the running of Natrone Means, who scored the winning touchdown in a 37-34 win over Denver earlier this season. The San Diego defense is the AFC's third best.

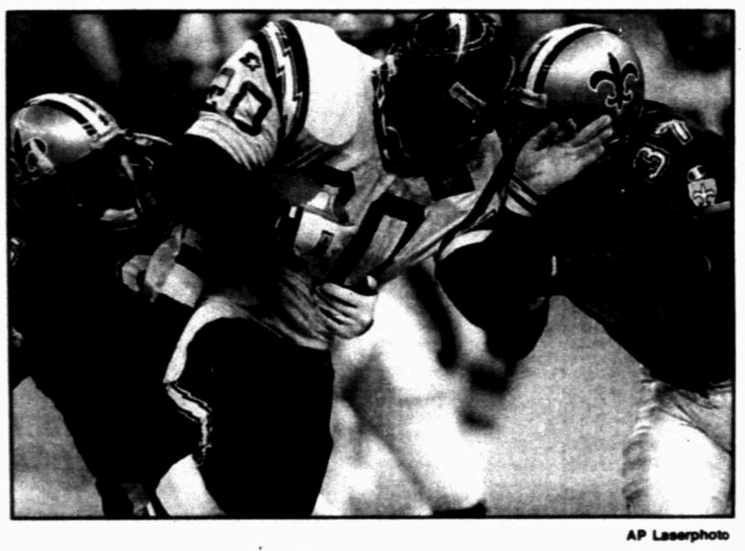
Denver (1-5) is trying to rebound from a last-second 31-28 loss to Kansas City Monday night.

Other Sunday NFL matchups have Atlanta at the Los Angeles Raiders, Pittsburgh at the New York Giants, Chicago at Detroit, Seattle at Kansas City, Cincinnati at Cleveland, Dallas at Arizona, Tampa Bay at San Francisco, Washington at Indianapolis and the Los Angeles Rams at New Orleans.

Buffalo, Miami, New England and the New York Jets are idle.

Houston plays at Philadelphia Monday night.

Thursday night, Minnesota defeated Green Bay 13-10 in overtime.



AP Laserphoto

San Diego's Natrone Means (20) is pursued by New Orleans defenders Vince Buck (26) and Jimmy Spencer (37) in the Chargers' sixth win of the season.

Falcons at Raiders

Art Shell of the Raiders (2-4) will be seeking his 50th NFL coaching victory. Raiders quarterback Jeff Hostetler will be trying to get along with Shell, with whom he had words on the sideline during a 20-17 overtime loss to Miami last Sunday. The Falcons (4-3) have the NFC's No. 3-ranked offense, but are coming off a 42-3 loss to the 49ers.

Steelers at Giants

The Giants (3-3) are counting on rookie quarterback Dave Brown to get untracked and help them snap a three-game losing streak. The Steelers are hoping rookie Bam Morris can make up for the loss of running back Barry Foster, out with a sprained knee. Pittsburgh trails Cleveland by one game in the AFC Central.

Bears at Lions

Erik Kramer, the NFL's top-rated passer, is expected to start for the Bears (4-2), who won their last three games behind backup quarterback Steve Walsh. Stopping Detroit's Barry Sanders, the NFL's leading rusher with 722 yards, is tough. Getting the ball away from him is even tougher. Sanders has not fumbled to an opponent in 506 carries dating back to Dec. 6, 1992.

Seahawks at Chiefs

The Seahawks (3-3) have lost nine of the last 11 meetings against the Chiefs and haven't won at Arrowhead Stadium since 1990. The Chiefs (4-2) apparently cured their scoring woes with the Joe Montana-led comeback win over the Broncos.

Bengals at Browns

The Browns can go 6-1 for the first time since 1963 and break a 24-24 series tie with Cincinnati with a fifth straight win over the Bengals (0-6). The Browns beat the Bengals 28-20 in their first meeting this season.

Cowboys at Cardinals

The game will mark the 59th consecutive sellout for the Cowboys (5-1) at home or away. Arizona fans are hoping the Cardinals (2-4) put on a better show than the one they staged in a 38-3 loss at Dallas two weeks ago.

Buccaneers at 49ers

The Buccaneers (2-4) have had two weeks to figure out how to try and beat the 49ers (5-2), something they have done only once in 12 games. The 49ers have beaten the Bucs eight straight times since losing to them 24-23 at San Francisco in 1977.

Redskins at Colts

Rookie Gus Frerotte will start at quarterback for the Redskins (1-6) in place of rookie Heath Shuler, out with an injured ankle. The Colts (3-4), coming off a 27-17 win at Buffalo, are led by rookie Marshall Faulk. He leads the AFC with 616 rushing yards and leads the NFL with 838 yards from scrimmage.

Rams at Saints

Jim Everett of the Saints (2-5), a longtime quarterback for the Rams, will meet his former club for the first time. The Rams (3-4) will count heavily on the running of bullish Jerome Bettis in a bid to beat the Saints for only the second time in the last nine meetings. Bettis is second in the NFL with 660 yards.

Baseball players file grievance

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball players, invoking the triple-damage provision in the expired labor agreement, filed a grievance Friday in order to gain free agency for Jack McDowell, Jim Abbott and nine others.

The grievance filed against the 28 teams asks arbitrator George Nicolau to credit all major leaguers on active rosters with service time for the 52 days of the strike. The union also asked Nicolau to order clubs to pay triple damages to the players denied free agency and give those players the right to void any contracts they might sign with their current clubs.

Players need six years to qualify for free agency, and Abbott and McDowell are among 11 players who need the strike time to reach the threshold. The pair were rejected by management's player relations committee when they attempted to file on Oct. 15.

"This concerted action by the PRC and the clubs violates the Basic Agreement ... as well as provisions of the National Labor Relations Act," the grievance said.

Management lawyer Chuck O'Connor said owners may challenge Nicolau's right to hear the grievance, which would force the union to take its case to either the National Labor Relations Board or to court.

"Striking employees do not accrue rights and benefits under a contract which are dependant on, in this case, credited service during a strike," O'Connor said. "Strikers don't render service during a strike. They withhold it. That's what a strike is all about."

Other players denied free agency in the past week were pitchers Tom Gordon of Kansas City, Eric Hanson of Cincinnati, Greg Harris of Colorado, Gregg Olsen of Atlanta, Bob Patterson of California and Kenny Rogers of Texas.

Three other players in the disputed group haven't tried to file yet: Yankees infielder Randy Velarde, Cleveland infielder Alvaro Espinoza and Colorado pitcher Marvin Freeman.

Some cases from the 1981 midseason strike weren't decided until two years later. Union head Donald Fehr wasn't sure how long it would take for this case to be heard.

Rodman fined for no-show in Thursday's game

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Dennis Rodman made it to Spurs practice Friday and participated in a two-hour workout with the team he stood up Thursday night.

Rodman was fined $15,000 after missing the Spurs' 125-109 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks in an exhibition game Thursday night.

Team officials and Rodman agreed on one thing Friday — to not talk to the media about Thursday's incident.

Rodman brushed aside reporters without making a comment after practice. Gregg Popovich, Spurs director of basketball operations, who fined Rodman the $15,000, would not address the subject.

With a potent offense, an unblemished record and a rare national ranking, it would figure all is well in the land of the Utes.

It isn't.

"Everybody's spoiled after last year," Rick Rasnick, Utah's offensive coordinator, said. "If we don't get four or five first downs in a row, people get upset."

They could be extremely upset today, when No. 18 Utah — ranked this season for the first time since 1947 — meets No. 12 Colorado State in a battle of unbeatens at Fort Collins, Colo.

It doesn't figure that Utah (6-0) will match its gaudy 37.5 scoring average, a number Rasnick insists is not good enough despite its standing as the nation's sixth best.

"We're not satisfied, by any means," he said. "We're still not as efficient as we're capable of being. We feel we should be scoring 14 more points a game."

Considering the opposition — Colorado State is 7-0 — Utah's fans should be happy with nothing more than a victory. And Rasnick thinks he knows how the war will be won.

"If our offensive line can handle them up front, we'll be successful," he said. "The strength of their defense, by far, is their front four."

To that end, the Utah offense will be helped by the return of all-WAC center Lance Scott, who has been out with a sprained ankle.

The game is one of six featuring undefeated teams.

Elsewhere, it will be No. 2 Colorado (6-0) entertaining No. 19 Kansas State, No. 3 Nebraska (7-0) at Missouri, No. 6 Texas A&M (6-0) at home against Rice, No. 8 Alabama (7-0) entertaining Mississippi, and No. 20 Duke (6-0) at Wake Forest.

In other games involving ranked teams, it will be No. 7 Miami at West Virginia, No. 9 Washington at Oregon, No. 10 Florida State vs. Clemson, No. 11 Michigan at Illinois, No. 13 Texas vs. Southern Methodist, No. 14 Arizona vs. UCLA, No. 15 North Carolina at No. 25 Virginia, No. 16 Syracuse at Temple, No. 17 Virginia Tech vs. Pittsburgh, No. 21 Brigham Young at Texas-El Paso, No. 22 Boston College vs. Rutgers, No. 23 Washington State at Arizona State, and No. 24 Ohio State vs. Purdue.

Idle are top-ranked Penn State, No. 4 Auburn and No. 5 Florida.

Perhaps criticism of the Utah offense based on last season in unwarranted, because the 1993 attack averaged nearly a touchdown less than this year's team. But the Utes won games by scores such as 31-29, 38-31, 45-41 and 34-31.

The difference this season has been a swarming defense that is allowing just over 10 points per game after permitting an average of 30-plus a year ago.

That was the case a week ago, when the Utes were blanked for three quarters in a 14-3 victory over Hawaii.

A&M, Rice prove experts wrong

■ SWC Roundup

Texas A&M and Rice have been proving the experts wrong this season.

Although enormously talented, the sixth-ranked Aggies have had to replace both lines and play under the shadow of NCAA probation that eliminates them from television appearances and postseason play.

And what about the Owls? They talked about playing in the Cotton Bowl before the season started, then lost their first two games.

They've both answered their critics going into their showdown at College Station today.

The Aggies (6-0 overall, 3-0 SWC) blasted Baylor 41-21 last week in what was supposed to be a big test. The Owls (3-2, 2-0) ended a 28-game losing streak to Texas with a 19-17 victory.

"This summer, we had a lot of concerns expressed about our team," A&M coach R.C. Slocum said. "We had players leave, I had a lot of turnover in my coaching staff. So going into the season, I had concerns myself.

"I don't think people underrated us. I think people were just being realistic considering all our losses."

Now, 11-0 sounds realistic.

Baylor (5-2, 2-1) takes a slim one-point advantage going into its game at Texas Tech (2-4, 1-2); Southern Methodist (1-6, 0-3) doesn't even rate odds at Texas (4-2, 1-1); and Texas Christian (3-3, 0-2) is a 14-point choice over Houston (1-5, 1-1).

Rice is a 20-point underdog — more than double the nine points by which they were supposed to lose to the Longhorns.

First-year coach Ken Hatfield wants fans to become accustomed to winning.

"We're not turning things around, we're continuing on," Hatfield said. "We've got a lot of work to do. We've got to win six games to get to a bowl and we're just halfway there."

Rice rushed for 202 yards against the Longhorns, but may find it more difficult against the A&M defense.

The Aggies allowed 176 rushing yards by Baylor, the first team to rush 100 yards against A&M since a loss to Oklahoma last year.

"For someone to score 21 points, that was bad," Aggie linebacker Antonio Armstrong said. "We have to redeem ourselves. We have a tradition to uphold."

The Aggies continue to win with the running of Rodney Thomas and Leeland McElroy, but Corey Pullig is improving his passing with five touchdown passes in the last two games.

The Red Raiders had last week off to recuperate from their 24-21 loss to Rice, and they used the time to get freshman quarterback Zebbie Lethridge healthy.

Coach Spike Dykes hopes the Red Raiders have learned something about winning the close games.

"We've been on the lip of the cup and can't get anything to happen," Dykes said. "We're still going to have fun and some good days."

The Bears are looking to rebound from their loss to the Aggies when they face the Red Raiders in Lubbock, where Baylor has won five of the last games dating back to 1980.

Texas coach John Mackovic reinstated seven players, including receivers Lovell Pinkney and Mike Adams, who missed Sunday's loss to Rice. However, Adams is still bothered by a knee injury and says he'll miss today's game against SMU.

The Mustangs, meanwhile, can't break away from the injury syndrome, which has especially plagued quarterback Ramon Flanigan, who has tried gamely to continue playing with a hamstring injury.

The Houston Cougars should have been the talk of the town after ending their 10-game losing streak with a victory over SMU, but Rice's bigger victory dimmed the Cougars' effort.

MCHS: Mustangs claim first victory in TAPPS series

(From 1C)

But for now the win was extremely important for Midland Christian, as the Mustangs improved to 1-0 in District 1-1A Six Man TAPPS.

"When you only have three teams in the district, the first win is always a crucial one," said Mustangs coach James Blake.

While Trinity coach Robert Royer attempted to build up the game as some kind of vicious rivarly in the press during the week, the Mustangs did their talking on the field.

Midland Christian quickly silenced the Trinity faithful when Michael Nash scored on a 2-yard run to culminate a seven-play, 38-yard drive, 5:12 into the first quarter.

The touchdown seemed to take some of the steam out of the confident Chargers.

"I felt that we were OK after their first score," said Royer. On the Chargers' third possession they moved from their own 35 to the Midland Christian 13, where on fourth and sixth, the Chargers failed to gain a first down.

The Mustangs took advantage of the missed opportunity as they used a 51-yard touchdown pass from Alex Awtry to Chris Patteson and a 12-0 lead at the half.

The Mustangs, however, should have had a larger lead, but four fumbles stymied their scoring marches.

"We were a little bit sloppy, we missed out on some first downs and we really missed out on a chance to put them away early," said Blake.

While the Mustangs offense was sputturing, the defense was making sure that Chargers running back Matt Dickman was not going to burn them on the ground. MCHS held the dangerous Dickman to 16 yards, and as a result unplugged the Chargers rushing attack.

"I was hoping that wouldn't happen, but they stopped Dickman," Royer said.

In the third quarter, the Mustangs added another score when Patteson scored again this time on a 5-yard jaunt for a 19-0 lead.

But the Chargers were not ready to throw into the towel. With first and 15 at their own 21, Trinity used most of the clock to go 59 yards in 16 plays for their first and only score.

Twice in the drive, the Chargers were faced with fourth-down situations, both times they succeeded in getting a set of new downs. Then from the Mustang 14, Paul Benson found a wide open Michael Salgado to trail 19-6.

The Mustangs, who have been in big games the last three years, showed the Chargers why they are champions. The Mustangs came up with the clinching score when Allan Awtry scooped up a Trinity fumble and rumbled 16 yards for the touchdown.

"Tradition plays importance in games like these," said Blake. "The kids knew they could do it, they wouldn't predict the score, but they now how to perform," said the soft-spoken Blake.

Said Royer, "I am a little bit disappointed. I am not disappointed because of the way we played, but because I really thought we could beat them. I never, ever, ever thought that we couldn't beat them."

The danger now for Trinity is a possible let down. "Our goal is getting into the playoffs, and we still believe in that goal," said Royer.

"They are going to have to be real careful about next week," said Blake. "They undoubtedly put everything in this game against us."

Trinity will try to stay in the district race when they travel to El Paso Faith Christian next week. The Mustangs host Abilene Christian.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1994

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: New financial or career triumphs depend on your ability to keep your emotions under control. When things get tense, a period of contemplation helps you stay on an even keel. Business opportunities will abound in 1995! Pursue those that seem tailored to your special talents. Changes in the economy work to your advantage. Marriage will enjoy especially beneficial influences next summer. Give your family life top priority.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: artist N. C. Wyeth, figure skater Brian Boitano, actress Catherine Deneuve, author Doris Lessing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A good day to stay in the background and let others do the talking. Tend to household tasks before turning your attention to the pursuit of pleasure. Build people up with words of encouragement.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Do not overlook the importance of having allies. Loved ones can be persuaded to help with a personal project if you ask nicely. Startling news sends your spirits soaring.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friends can turn difficult now, especially if money becomes a bone of contention. Refuse to play games for high stakes. Changing priorities help you see farther into the future.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Carelessness with valuable possessions may result in loss or damage. Avoid confiding in people you do not know well. Weigh your words carefully in all conversations.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Keep your mind off a recent disappointment. Dwelling on old wounds will hamper your recovery. Put your own concerns aside and give loved ones your full attention.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are on the right track when you seek the advice of your closest friends. Do not wait passively for the other person to make the first move in romance. Issue an invitation to lunch.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be conservative when it comes to spending or making new investments. A nature walk will lift your spirits. Invite a friend along. A member of the opposite sex may try to back you into a corner. Stand firm.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Someone could be snooping into your affairs now. Guard important papers by putting them in a safe place. Group activities will hold special appeal tonight. Positive exchanges take place between you and your mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A generous act should be richly rewarded. A letter or phone call will help offset a financial disappointment. Your mate's or partner's change of attitude could catch you off-guard. Be flexible when making social plans.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Continue a policy of secrecy when it comes to financial matters. Discretion will pay big dividends! Do not trust everything you hear this evening. Someone's motives may be purer than you think. The future looks bright.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Follow your inclination to investigate an offer more thoroughly. Taking a gamble could prove costly. There is a difference between being optimistic and being foolhardy.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Do not let prejudice, fear or other personal limitations prevent you from going after what you want. All financial negotiations should be conducted in private. Help a worthy cause without going into debt.

Stallone plays round of golf with president of Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia — Yo, Adrian, I sank a birdie.

Sylvester Stallone visits Indonesia for restaurant opening.

Sylvester Stallone played golf Friday with President Suharto. It was just a friendly game, officials said; they didn't keep score.

Stallone was in town for the opening of another Planet Hollywood restaurant, the 16th worldwide and the second in Asia. The chain is backed by such stars as Stallone, Bruce Willis and Demi Moore.

Stallone presented Suharto with a Planet Hollywood Jakarta jacket after the game.

LONDON — The time has come for Prince Charles to have a little chat with his sons.

British news reports said Charles will try to explain his marriage woes to the boys, William, 12, and Harry, 10, over the weekend at Balmoral, the Scottish country home of Queen Elizabeth II.

The latest royal scandal is over Charles' authorized biography. Published excerpts last week said Charles was browbeaten by his father into a loveless marriage to Princess Diana.

This weekend's story is expected to include details of Charles' relationship with old flame Camilla Parker Bowles.

Charles and Diana married in 1981 and separated in 1992.

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. — Oksana Baiul hoped to skate right through the Department of Motor Vehicles and leave with her driver's license.

No such luck.

The Olympic gold medalist was told Thursday that she has to take driving lessons just like everyone else, DMV spokesman Andrew Nelson said.

The 16-year-old skater recently left her native Ukraine to train at the International Skating Center of Connecticut in Simsbury.

After she takes the classes and passes the course, she can come in and take the test just like everyone else.

Well, almost.

"When the time comes, it will be the same written test," Nelson said, "but it will be in Russian."

SAN FRANCISCO — Burt Reynolds cut short a promotional tour for his autobiography after wadding up a reporter's list of questions, ripping her notepad to shreds and stomping the bits into the carpet.

Discussing "My Life" with Reynolds on Wednesday, San Francisco Examiner writer Cynthia Robins dropped her questions and notepad. In what she at first thought was a chivalrous gesture, Reynolds bent to pick them up.

"'You don't need these," she quoted him as saying in Friday's paper. 'You're not going to write about me.'"

After mangling the papers, Reynolds "took my hand and shook it, squeezing my fingers as hard as he could, and literally shoved me out the door," Robins said.

Reynolds' publicist said he has postponed the book tour, and refused further comment.

LOS ANGELES — Steven Spielberg, wunderkind director, has received the American Film Institute's 1995 Life Achievement Award at age 46.

Director Steven Spielberg receives 1995 Life Achievement Award.

He will be presented with the award — one of Hollywood's most prestigious honors — at a dinner March 2.

Spielberg, who won the best director Academy Award for last year's "Schindler's List," joins a list of AFI Life Achievement Award winners that includes Elizabeth Taylor, Jack Nicholson and Frank Capra.

LOS ANGELES — Roseanne's putting her money where her mouth is.

The comedian, who has told of being sexually abused as a child, donated $135,000 to Children of the Night, which works to rescue youngsters from a life on the street.

"Our society really has to come to grips with the results of child sexual abuse and abuse. These children are American's home-grown refugees. I'm glad I could help," she said Thursday.

Rudd to start Delco 500

■ Ricky Rudd and each of the other 42 drivers beat the track record on the repaved oval.

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Ricky Rudd was the leader of the demolition crew Friday at North Carolina Motor Speedway.

Rudd and each of the other 42 drivers who made qualifying attempts in the rain-delayed opening round of time trials for Sunday's AC Delco 500 beat the previous track record on the repaved 1.016-mile oval.

The fast lap of 157.099 mph by Rudd in his own Ford Thunderbird gave the 38-year-old from Chesapeake, Va., his 21st career pole and first since June 1992 on the road course at Sonoma, Calif., a span of 75 races.

The track record had been set in February, before the repaving, at 151.716 mph by Geoff Bodine. Kyle Petty held the event mark of 149.675 for the October race, set in 1992.

"It seems like I have a tough time getting my concentration level right for qualifying," Rudd said. "You never know who's coming out of the dark to qualify well, but today it shook out the way we thought it would.

"We were just a little better. We knew the track was going to be very fast, but 157 seems awful fast on a one-mile track. I've been around here and qualified at 140 miles an hour and been busier than I was today at 157."

Terry Labonte was .071-seconds slower than Rudd, taking the outside spot on the front row with a lap of 156.904. Bodine, who blew an engine in the morning practice session, came back to take third at 156.823, followed by Derrike Cope at 156.810 and Brett Bodine at 156.595.

This was a little revenge for Rudd, who is still upset about a $10,000 fine and three-race probation levied by NASCAR after his on-track run-in with Jeff Gordon two weeks ago at Charlotte Motor Speedway.

"A lot of things happened in a short period of time after Charlotte," Rudd said. "I never tried to clear the record because, obviously, a wreck happened at the end of that race.

"I can only say that the wreck was not intentional. The message I meant to send to Jeff Gordon was intentional. You watch all the films that have been edited (that) show Ricky Rudd pushing Jeff Gordon down the front straightaway. They don't show the incident that led up to that.

Ricky Rudd smiles after winning the pole position for Sunday's Delco 500 Winston Cup race in a record time of 157.099 miles per hour.

"I'm not going to let an incident like that ruin a good season. I've been in Winston Cup racing nearly 20 years. I'm not a guy that goes out looking for trouble. But if trouble's there, I'm going to settle an issue so I don't have trouble next week."

Winning the pole, which was worth $6,000, also qualified Rudd for the rich Busch Clash, a race for the previous season's pole-winners in February at Daytona Beach.

"It's funny, you get behind and need a little extra help and things have a way of happening at the right time," the first-year driver-owner said. "We needed $10,000, and the Busch Clash pays at least that."

Dale Earnhardt, who holds a nearly insurmountable 321-point lead over Rusty Wallace in the battle for the 1994 Winston Cup championship, qualified 20th at 154.978, with Wallace 14th at 155.498.

The top 20 positions were filled in the opening round of time trials, with the rest of the 42-car field set later in the day in another qualifying session that was led by Dick Trickle at 154.998 and Darrell Waltrip at 154.965.

Brad Teague and Brad Noffsinger, both of whom qualified faster than the previous track record, failed to make the field. Bobby Hamilton, who crashed both his primary and backup car Friday and failed to post a qualifying speed, was added to the rear of the lineup as a provisional starter based on car-owner points.

Rudd is the 15th pole-winner this season, equaling the series record set in 1982.

Pair joins Hoch to lead Las Vegas

■ Golf

LAS VEGAS — Kirk Triplett and Dan Forsman joined Scott Hoch atop the leaderboard Friday after three rounds of the $1.5 million Las Vegas invitational with 10 others within two strokes of the lead in the 90-hole tournament.

Hoch, who held a two-shot lead after 36 holes of the tournament played on three courses, could do no better than a third-round 70 at the TPC at Summerlin and fell into a three-way tie at the top at 199, 16 under par.

"It's not a good course for me," Hoch said, "and it was not a good day for me."

And there's little prospect for improvement. After completing a rotation over three desert resort courses, the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be played at the same TPC layout.

Forsman had a 68 at the TPC, while Triplett shot 65 at the Las Vegas Hilton course.

The group at 200 includes hometown boy Robert Gamez, Brian Kamm, Mike Heinen, Guy Boros, Sean Murphy and Jim Furyk. Gamez shot 64 and Kamm 66, both at the Hilton course, while Murphy and Boros had 67s, Heinen 68 and Furyk 69, all at the TPC.

Jay Don Blake, Mike Standly, Billy Andrade and Bruce Lietzke followed at 201. Blake shot 66 at the Hilton course, while Standly, Andrade and Lietzke all had 67s at the Las Vegas Country Club.

Greg Norman, only competing in this tournament to have enough rounds to be eligible for the Vardon Trophy, shot 71 at the TPC and was at 207.

Defending champion Davis Love III had a 74, also at the TPC, and failed to qualify for the final two rounds at 215.

Ralph's Senior Classic

LOS ANGELES — Bobby Nichols parlayed six consecutive birdies into a 7-under-par 64 to take a one-shot lead after the first round of the $750,000 tournament.

Tony Jacklin was in second with a 65, and DeWitt Weaver, Tom Wargo, Jimmy Powell, Harry Toscano and Bob Brue were another two shots back.

Nichols, winless on the senior tour since 1989, birdied holes 6 through 11. He hit an 8-foot birdie on No. 4, a 365-yard par 4.

"The hardest thing to do is to get off to a good start," Nichols said. "But that is what I did today and on one of the hardest courses we play to pitch to and get it close."

Defending champion Dale Douglass was 1-under 70 to trail Nichols by six shots over the par-71, 6,340-yard Rancho Park course.

Solheim Cup

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. — Laura Davies dominated the opening day of the Solheim Cup just as she did the LPGA Tour all year.

She teamed with fellow Briton Alison Nicholas to win their alternate-shot match and give defending champion Europe a 3-2 lead over the United States in the three-day competition.

Davies, the tour's longest hitter and leading money-winner, clinched the 2 and 1 win over Donna Andrews and Betsy King by putting approach shots close for short birdie putts on the par-4 16th and par-3 17th.

"I said to her, 'If you knock it on the green, I will hole the putts,'" Nicholas said. "Once she had done that, I had to follow through."

Agassi loose in CA Trophy victory

Associated Press

■ Tennis

VIENNA, Austria — Andre Agassi looked fit, loose and happy Friday as he beat sixth-seeded Andrea Gaudenzi of Spain 6-0, 6-3 to advance to the semifinals of the CA Trophy.

Agassi, the third seed, is playing in his first tournament since winning the U.S. Open six weeks ago. He continued the solid baseline play that saw him delight the crowd Thursday with a 6-0, 6-0 drubbing of Australian Mark Woodforde.

Top-seeded Goran Ivanisevic of Croatia — Agassi's opponent in Saturday's semifinals — was nearly upended by relative unknown Arne Thoms of Germany, surviving a 3-6, 7-6 (7-5), 7-6 (7-1) marathon.

Second-seeded Michael Stich was pressed hard both by jeering fans and a feisty Jan Siemerink of the Netherlands before managing a 4-6, 7-5, 7-5 win.

Salem Open

BEIJING — Playing before an enthusiastic crowd of 5,000, Michael Chang overpowered Alexander Mronz of Germany 6-2, 6-3 to move into the semifinals.

In other matches Friday, Anders Jarryd of Sweden came from behind to defeat Canadian Albert Chang 5-7, 6-2, 6-3.

Hong Kong Marlboro

HONG KONG — Pete Sampras beat Dutchman Paul Haarhuis 6-1, 6-4 to advance to the semifinals of the $763,500 Hong Kong Marlboro Tennis Championships.

Sampras, the world's top-ranked player, needed just one hour to demolish Haarhuis and finish on top of the Silver Group, which included Zimbabwe's Wayne Black.

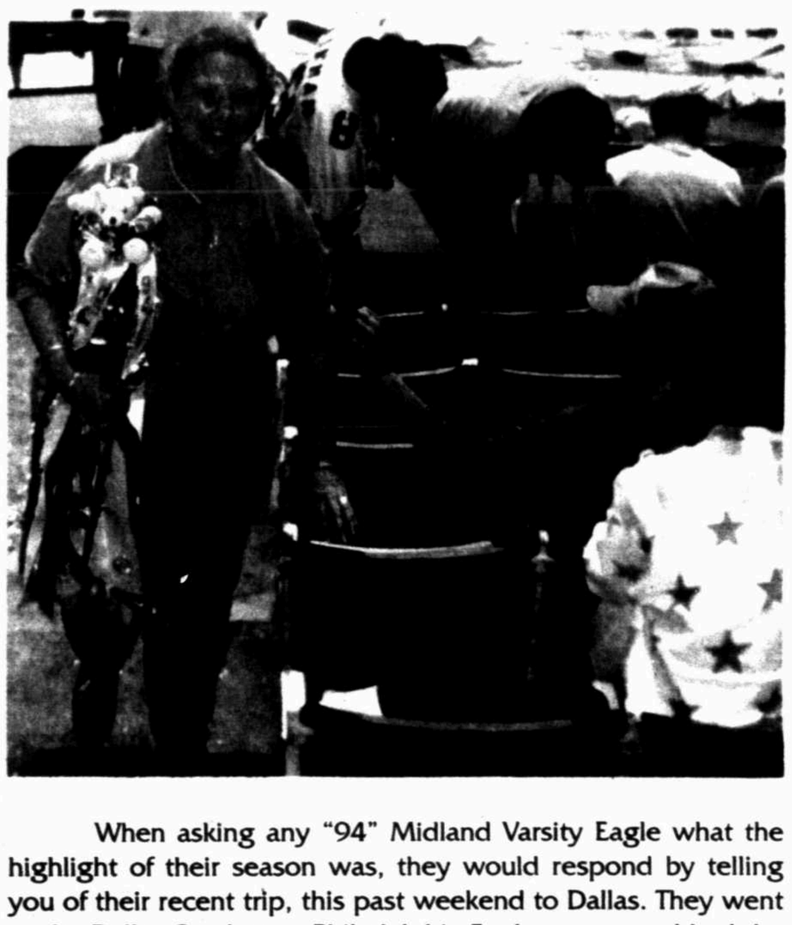
LOCAL HERO!



When asking any "94" Midland Varsity Eagle what the highlight of their season was, they would respond by telling you of their recent trip, this past weekend to Dallas. They went to the Dallas Cowboys - Philadelphia Eagles game and had the opportunity to meet pro football heroes from the Philadelphia team. What a wonderful way to end a season. Little did anyone else realize they took a hero with them.

Mrs. Nancy Stacks, Eagles' team mom, made this trip possible. Her endless hours of hard work, dedication and love for these boys made dreams come true and memories that would last a lifetime.

Nancy has been the Eagles' team mom for 3 years. Her loyalty and hard work, has been one of the many special things about this team.

The boys have learned many things in these past 3 years: team work, sportsmanship, how to win and lose gracefully, but most of all they have learned about friendship.

NANCY: DID YOU KNOW YOU ARE OUR HERO?
WE LOVE YOU!!!
THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES!
YOUR 1994 EAGLES

The total value of all prizes to be awarded in the "It's 4 U" game will equal $4,000 or more. The names and cities of winners will be published in the Midland Reporter-Telegram Classified Ads page. No substitution of prizes is permitted. Only one prize will be awarded to each winner.

By entering, winners authorize the use of their names, cities or photos for publicity purposes. Winners may be required to sign an affidavit of eligibility and release. Taxes are the responsibility of winners. Void where prohibited.

Check your ad the first day it appears in the Midland Reporter-Telegram.
Please call 682-6222 immediately if you find an error. The Midland Reporter-Telegram is responsible only for errors which nullify the value of an ad the first day the ad runs.
