Russia To Use "All Possible Means" To Prevent Invasion, Litvinoff Tells Jap Leader

(By The Associated Press)

MOSCOW, July 9—The Soviet government warned Japan today to keep out of Siberia and declared Russia would use "all possible means" to prevent invasion of its territory by Japanese-Manchoukuoan forces.

The newest development in the dispute over the ownership of the Ennufu and Bolshoi islands in the Amur river along the Siberian-Manchoukuoan boundary in the Far East came after the Japanese ambassador had told Russia that border clashes were too numerous.

Protest Rejected As "Untrue"

Soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff promptly rejected this protest as "untrue." An official Russian communique accused Japan of failure to evacuate troops from the barren sandspits in the river.

Litvinoff told the Japanese Ambassador, Mamoru Shigemitsu, that the islands belonged to Russia.

Clash Brought Agreement

A clash at the islands on June 30 between Soviets and Japanese-Manchoukuoan troops brought an agreement between Japan and Russia for mutual withdrawal of forces.

Litvinoff also requested Shigemitsu to inform his government that alleged invasions of Siberian territory by Japanese-Manchoukuoan forces were occurring too frequently. He added that Japanese planes were making repeated flights across the frontier of Siberia from the Japanese-inspired Manchoukuoan state.

Sino-Japanese Incident "Successfully Localized"

PEIPING, China, July 9. (AP)—Official Chinese-Japanese spokesmen announced today that Chinese troops had completed evacuation of the trouble zone of Wanpinghsien, scene of a clash between Japanese and Chinese armies.

The spokesman said dthe Wanpinghsien incident had been "successfully localized" by withdrawal and replacement of the troops by police. They added that partial evacuation of Japanese troops had been accomplished, despite sporadic shooting.

Troops Had Withdrawn

A Japanese communique issued at Tientsin said Chinese troops had withdrawn across the Yungting river after five hours of negotiation and that the Japanese had dissolved their fighting formation.

Loyal Troops Aim Blows At Insurgents

(By The Associated Press)

Spanish government troops struck heavily at insurgent forces on the southern and western fringes of Madrid today while government planes paved the way with terrific bombardments.

Tanks led attacks in the southern push at Getafe and Carabanchel. One government army speared deeply into insurgent territory at Quijorna, 18 miles west of Madrid and at Villafranca del Castillo, seven miles northeast of Quijorna.

The government defense ministry said bombs destroyed a number of insurgent planes in an attack on an airport near Segovia. Troop concentrations, artillery batteries and insurgent trains and trucks were bombarded.

FRANCE SHOWS WEAKENING

LONDON, July 9 (AP) — France showed signs of weakening today in her determination to open her Pyrenees frontier to the Spanish central government immediately unless the international neutrality patrol is re-established on Spain's east coast.

Informed sources said Ambassador Charles Corbin, French member of the non-intervention committee, declared at today's first committee session that France would open her border, but he did not fix a date.

"Terrific" Battle On

Insurgents said a battle of "terrific intensity" was under way at Quijorna but declared a government offensive was repulsed with heavy government losses.

The 27-nation non-intervention committee adjourned after a three-hour session in London, still deadlocked on plans for keeping arms and men from reaching Spain.

Great Britain, having been rebuffed by Germany and Italy on her proposal that she and France take over the international naval patrol of Spain's coasts, looked to Germany and Italy to take the initiative in new proposals.

Hunted And Hunters Exchange Cars In Unique Situation

DALLAS, July 9. (AP) — State highway patrol headquarters here revealed that fleeing convicts from Eastham prison farm overpowered three highway patrolmen near Alto, Cherokee county, and escaped toward Nacogdoches in the police car.

This development in the rapidly changing contest between hunted and hunters came shortly after the fugitives released J. C. Dunlap, 37-year-old Trinity rancher, near Wells.

Highway patrol headquarters said the three patrolmen, J. C. Hubbard, Patrolman Vineyard and an unnamed officer, were cruising near Alto when they saw a car abandoned at the roadside. It turned out to be the car the fugitives had stolen earlier from City Marshal Harry Domengue of Trinity.

As the officers got out of their car to examine the other automobile, the hiding fugitives rushed from the brush with leveled guns. They fled in the officers' car.

Montanan Is Put At Helm Of Foes

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 8—Senate opponents of the administration court bill sent Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) to the firing line today. The Montanan, Progressive candidate for vice-president under the elder La Follette in 1924, has been the generalissimo of the Democrats fighting the measure.

His group decided to take about two days for speeches and then turn the floor back to administration spokesman early next week.

The foes intend to resume later.

To Force Vote

Democratic Leader Robinson emphasized his determination to force a vote as soon as possible by announcing the customary Saturday recesses would be abandoned.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt told a press conference today he was not considering sponsorship of a constitutional amendment for compulsory retirement of Supreme court justices at the age of 75.

He also gave a negative answer to a question as to whether he was considering a plan to limit the terms of such justices.

Aiming Their Arguments

In the senate fight over the court bill both sides were aiming their arguments at the nation generally, and at 18 senators still publicly noncommittal.

Rarely in recent history has the senate line-up been so close on any important issue. Each side could count 39 avowed supporters and several more who have given private assurances.

Administration forces, claiming a slight margin over a majority, expressed concern over the announcement that Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) would be absent for the balance of the session because of ill health. They had been counting on his vote.

French Decree Raises Taxes

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, July 9.—Forty-five million Frenchmen began to mold their economic lives to a new pattern today—one decreed by the second people's front government to wipe out a regular budget deficit of some 8,000,000,000 francs (about $308,800,000).

The average citizen awoke to find his taxes and costs of living increased and his government arranging to increase railway fares and freight tariffs.

The council of ministers, under the new Premier Camille Chautemps, last night published the sweeping financial decree to replenish the treasury by a total of 10,500,000,000 francs (about $410,000,000) and thus meet the fiscal emergency that brought the downfall of the first popular front premier, Leon Blum.

Results Are Detailed

Some of the results under this new economic deal are:

The French citizen must pay one fifth more income tax than last year, if he earns 20,000 francs (about $760) or more a year.

Telephone bills were increased about one third.

Fuel for motor trucks was increased in price but that for private automobiles remained unchanged.

The new indirect taxes raising the cost of living, however, do not apply to what the government calls the necessities of life—groceries, wine, clothing and coal.

Convicts Lead Wild Chase

(By The Associated Press)

HUNTSVILLE, July 9—Four desperate convicts who escaped with five others from Eastham prison farm led scores of baffled officers in a wild, zig-zag race across northeast Texas today.

Latest exploit of the fleeing felons, who included notorious Charlie Chapman and Roy (Pete) Traxler, was the overpowering of three state highway patrolmen near Alto and the escape in the officers' car.

One Convict Killed

Since the nine Eastham prisoners escaped yesterday morning, developments broke fast. One convict was killed, a guard was wounded, a civilian was carried across several counties as hostage, a city marshal had been relieved at gunpoint of his automobile, four of the prisoners had been captured and the kidnaped man had been released.

Police, highway patrolmen and other officers through all northeast Texas joined in the hunt and bloodhounds were used in the earlier part of the pursuit.

Hostage Is Released

J. C. Dunlap, 37-year-old Trinity rancher, was released by the convicts near Wells. He was not harmed during his swift ride across several counties with the fleeing men. One report said Dunlap had been forced to change his clothes for a convict's uniform.

Dunlap was kidnaped at his ranch, three miles from the prison farm. The convicts suddenly appeared there and shot him in the hand when he opened fire on them. Howell Dunlap, the victim's brother, meanwhile was firing from another building.

City Marshal Trapped

The shooting was quickly over and the Dunlaps were forced into their car with the convicts. When the car neared Trinity City Marshal Harry Domengue of that community overtook the fugitives but was trapped and forced to yield them his car.

The convicts before speeding on freed Howell Dunlap but took his

New Strike Is Called Today

(By The Associated Press)

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, July 9. — Steel union leaders called a new strike today in Republic Steel corporation's plant here in a move to reform lines punctured by reopening of mills two weeks ago.

George Simcox, vice-president of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee unit at the republic plant, announced the walkout was called for 11:30 a. m., (E.S.T.), today.

Follows Green Statement

Simcox's statement followed by a few hours the assertion made in Washington by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, long at odds with John L. Lewis, ex-officio leader of the steel strikes at chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, that the steel strikes . . . are lost.

Green based his assertion on his claims that the SWOC had enrolled only a minority when it called the strikes and that it lacked public support because of "the violent policies pursued by the CIO," its present body.

Guardsmen Still Around

Republic reported yesterday that 6,200 men out of a normal force of 6,800 here were on duty.

Ohio National guardsmen continued on duty at plants here, as well as in other Ohio steel strike centers.

U. S. Retail Trade Hits Faster Pace

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP) — Most divisions of retail trade hit a faster pace this week, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

Stressing the retail turnover of seasonal goods, the review said, "none of the leading centers of distribution failed to surpass their totals of the week preceding. As the buying pace at some of these was the most accelerated since early spring, the increase varied from 3 to 8 per cent.

"Spending of the soldiers' bonus money at this time last year, however, prevented the rise in the estimated volume of retail distribution over the corresponding 1936 week from exceeding 12 to 22 per cent.

"With current expansion of consumer purchases dispelling anxiety regarding season-end carryover, some retailers have set fall budgets up 10 to 15 per cent from last year's."

Rain Squalls Threaten To Halt Search

Colorado Plans To Catapult Her Planes Again Today On Aerial Search Of Ocean

(By The Associated Press)

HONOLULU, July 9—Equatorial rain squalls threatened to interrupt the search for Amelia Earhart which navy airmen considered was entering its most crucial phase today.

But despite a forecast of rain and poor visibility, officers aboard the battleship Colorado planned to catapult her three planes aloft again in expectation of completing an aerial search of the Phoenix islands tomorrow.

Planes Should Locate Her

Today and Saturday, they said they felt was the most critical period since the coast guard cutter started the search just a week ago. If Miss Earhart is alive, officers said, the Colorado's planes should locate her.

Airmen felt in flights yesterday and Wednesday they definitely eliminated the possibility she was in the area around Winslow reef.

By sea and air, search for the missing aviatrix and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan, has encompassed approximately 136,000 square miles without even sighting some of the shoals and sand spits supposed to exist in the vast area where they vanished.

No Trace Of Pair Sighted

Three planes from the battleship Colorado, steaming steadily from the equator southward to the Phoenix islands, soared over the area east and south of Howland islands yesterday but sighted no trace of the pair.

The planes, piloted by Lieuts. J. O. Lambrecht, L. O. Fox, and W. B. Short jr., could not even find Winslow reef, which old charts showed peeked just above the sea 175 miles southeast of Howland, which Miss Earhart missed on a flight from New Guinea.

The Colorado's fliers, awaiting aid over the week-end from the aircraft carrier Lexington's plane armada, today planned to swing southward once again but come back on a course west of the Phoenix and Howland islands.

Carrier To Spread Her Brood

The $40,000,000 aircraft carrier Lexington, which sped from San Diego to Hawaii, was expected to get away for the 1,500-mile dash to the searching area today and spread her brood of between 50 and 98 planes probably next Monday.

Last reported in the vicinity of Baker island, 40 miles south of Howland, the Itasca planned to continue search southward to the Phoenix group, aided by the mine sweeper Swan.

Fate Known By Monday

Rear Admiral O. G. Murfin, 14th naval district commandant and director of the search, expressed belief the success or failure of the hunt should be known by Monday, after the Lexington's planes, capable of covering 60,000 square miles daily, begin explorations.

Radio amateurs in Hawaii and on the mainland continued to report interception of messages they interpreted as being from the aviatrix, missing since last Friday, but coast guard and naval operators said they had not heard them, and in most instances pointed out the the reported calls were on frequencies not used by the aviatrix.

Belief Has Steadily Grown

As the extent of the hunt widened, the belief has steadily grown that Miss Earhart and Noonan never would be found.

Officials identified with the search and those close to the missing fliers, basing all their hopes and plans on the theory they are still alive, refused publicly to express their doubts that the pair would eventually be found.

Privately they pointed out that none of the many radio messages reported as coming from the plane has been credited with unquestioned authenticity.

While elaborate precautions were taken for the fliers' safety in the event of a forced landing at sea, all of the laws of chance conspired

Mrs. Roosevelt Used Loophole, Fish Says; Charge Is Refuted

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 9 — Representative Fish (R-NY) told a congressional committee today that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt availed herself of a tax loophole.

He was told in return:

"All your testimony is pure and unadulterated hearsay."

Representative Vinson (D-Ky) made that answer to Fish, who represents President Roosevelt's home district, after subjecting the New Yorker to biting question.

"What are you doing but smearing?" Vinson asked.

The New York congressman, who also suggested committee examination of tax returns of several members of Mr. Roosevelt's personal and official families, answered that he had been forbidden from submitting written evidence.

Vinson obtained permission for him to submit proof of his charges and Fish agreed to do so.

Pressed by Vinson, a commitee member, fotr his source of information, Fish said a Mr. Darby of 30 Rockefeller center, New York, had supplied some of the material on which he based his statements.

Had Photostatic Copies

He said Darby came to his office and said he had photostatic copies of Bahamas holding companies, papers, including one formed by James Roosevelt.

Fish said he did not obtain the copies from Darby because the latter said "they were worth money to him."

The New Yorker, appearing before the joint congressional committee on tax evasion read what he said a photostatic copy of a contract which Mrs. Roosevelt signed in 1935 for radio broadcasts. It stipulated, he said, that after each of ten programs the sponsors (the Shelby Arch Preserver Shoe company) was to pay $3,000 to the American Friends Service committee, Philadelphia.

Anybody Else Can Do Likewise

"If she can avail herself of a loophole," Fish said, "then anybody else in America can do the same thing."

Fish said also he believed the committee should call for the income tax returns of James Roosevelt, eldest son of the president; Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Boettiger, the president's daughter; Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury, and his father, Henry Morgenthau, sr.; Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress administrator, and John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The contract, as read by Fish, provided that Mrs. Roosevelt was to receive a consideration of $1 only for talks on "women today."

(At a recent press conference, Mrs. Roosevelt denied she had dodged any taxes. "On every penny of income which I received," she said, "I have paid my tax.")

(President Roosevelt, questioned at his press conference today, about Fish's charges, said he did not wish to discuss them at this time.)

Myles F. Lasker, who also signed the contract, Fish said, was to receive $1,000 as commission on each broadcast and $400 was to go to Mrs. Nancy Cook. He did not identify the latter.

"I submit," Fish asserted loudly, "that the contract I read to you for broadcasts by the wife of the president was money she earned as much as money ever was earned by anybody.

"She directed where it would go and controlled that money."

He said the $3,000 for each broadcast was for charitable distribution as directed by Mrs. Roosevelt.

May Use Gold To Pare Debt

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 9 — Fiscal authorities speculated today on the question of whether the treasury may use part of its "frozen" $1,143,000,000 gold hoard to pare down federal debt.

The big supply of metal has accumulated since last December, when the treasury instituted its gold sterilization program, designed to keep the supply of credit stable through treasury borrowing in amounts equal to gold inflows.

Flow To Drop Sharply

Informed authorities said there are indications the gold flow to this country will drop sharply under the $6,000,000—day rate of the last few months.

If this occurs, they said, the treasury may consider utilizing some of the gold already bought with borrowed money.

This could be done by issuing gold certificates against the metal to federal reserve banks. The certificates would be used to retire treasury obligations held by the banks.

Not Tend Toward Inflation

Officials said this operation would not tend toward credit inflation unless the reserve institutions exercised their authority to issue notes against the gold certificates and reinvest the money. Any reinvestment would send the funds into commercial banking channels, increasing their supply of lendable funds.

Treasury officials expressed hope the federal budget can be brought into approximate balance during this fiscal year by impounding 10 per cent of all except irreducible appropriations.

President Roosevelt received assurances yesterday from the heads of 28 independent federal agencies that they would make every effort to save the 10 per cent.

Hinton Cites Action Need

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 9—Carl Hinton, manager of the Amarillo, Tex., Chamber of Commerce, said today success of soil control work in the dust bowl area depends largely on action of senate-house conferees on the farm tenancy bill.

One provision of the house bill not contained in the senate measure, said Hinton, would authorize the government to buy up submarginal land unfit for cultivation.

Could Buy In Dust Bowl

"Hundreds of thousands of acres in that section where dust storms originate could then be bought by the government," he said.

"Construction of ponds and reservoirs and other conservation measures could be applied. The program ties in with that expected to come out of the $1,500,000,000 relief bill. At least $10,000,000 of that sum is supposed to go into the construction of reservoirs along the upper reaches of great plains states rivers."

Hinton said Representative Marvin Jones of Amarillo, chairman of the agriculture committee and author of the house bill, would insist in conference that the house provision be retained. Objections have been raised that it will put the government in the real estate business.

Housing Bill Study Asked Of Senators

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP) — Chairman Black (D-Ala) working the senate labor committee at top speed, asked it today to consider immediately the Wagner housing bill.

Weary members finished several weeks of concentrated work yesterday by approving a revised wage and hour bill. Like the housing proposal it is a major administration measure.

Senator Wagner (D-NY) was invited to explain to the committee today an amendment offered to meet treasury objections to his bill.

The amendment would permit capital subsidies of 45 per cent as an alternative for the annual operating subsidy which the bill would grant to low rent housing projects.

The measure would authorize a billion dollar bond issue and a $50,000,000 appropriation during the next four years.

Mae Would Like To See Suit Dropped But Wallace Seems To Have Different Plans

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—Mae West, the screen's millionaire hip-swinger, would like to see Song-and-Dance Man Frank Wallace drop his suit for "declaratory relief," now that she finally has recognized his claim to being her husband of 26 years standing.

Moon-faced Mae's attorneys said as much today, but "Mr. West's" counsel interposed an objection.

"Miss West has not answered Wallace's contention that they lived together as man and wife from the time of the marriage 14, 1914," argued Lawyer Avery M. Blount.

It was a question for Superior Judge Emmett Wilson to decide before nightfall and Blount said if the court ruled the suit could continue he would take a deposition from Miss West. Blount said also "it is quite probable" Wallace will ask for an accounting of community property.

In New York, Samuel J. Siegel, another attorney for Wallace, said the 47-year-old vaudeville actor had been offered

Lubbock Movie Enthusiasts Name Taylor And Loy As Their First Choice Stars

Robert Taylor, Hollywood's public lover No. 1, and Myrna Loy lead the list of Lubbock's movie favorites, judging by likes and dislikes expressed here by 70 persons.

After Taylor come Fredric March, Errol Flynn and Clark Gable in the line of favorites.

Loy won the favorite actress poll by a narrow margin and was followed by Norma Shearer, Bette Davis and Janet Gaynor. Joan Crawford was definitely out of the picture with polling of only one vote. "Whispering" Martha Raye received three votes.

Benny Wins On Radio

Jack Benny won the poll for favorites on radio programs. He was followed by Bing Crosby and Walter Winchell. Ben Bernie, Winchell's bull's eye for "dirty cracks," polled a half-dozen votes in the survey.

In the realm of child actors, Shirley Temple and Jane Withers tied with 15 votes each. Spanky McFarland defeated Freddie Bartholomew by more than six votes. Bobby Breen, child actor singer and protege of Eddie Cantor, was a favorite. Buckwheat, negro star in "Our Gang Comedy," and Edith Fellows who played with Bing Crosby in "Pennies from Heaven," were well-liked.

Cartoon Characters Favorites

Cartoon characters were among the favorites. Donald Duck, a Walter Disney character, won in his division and Segar's character "Popeye" ranked second, with Mickey Mouse and Betty Boop next in line for the nomination.

Men cinema stars who are favorites, according to Lubbock theater records, are Clark Gable, Tyrone Power, Spencer Tracy, and Robert Taylor.

The best attraction, so far as box office receipts are concerned, are shows starring Shirley Temple, one manager said. Good pictures of recent date that brought large crowds to Lubbock theaters were "The Plainsman" starring Gary Cooper, and "Parnell," with Clark Gable and Myrna Loy. Dick Powell has lost his popularity to a "certain extent," a Lubbock theater man said. Lubbock people seem to favor Spencer Tracy as a character actor, he said.

Favorites among children who go to "westerns" are Buck Jones, Hoot Gibson, William Boyd, Tex Ritter, and Bob Steele. A boy on the street said that his favorite "acter" was Johnny Weissmuller of the Tarzan productions. He did not like Freddie Bartholomew because "Freddie is a sissie."

Managers of Lubbock theaters are of the opinion that the people of Lubbock are "prone to like shows showing action and adventure." Shows based on books of fiction and history are "very popular in Lubbock," the managers said.

Plans Started For Hospital

Architects have been named and directed to begin drawing plans for buildings to be included in the new West Texas state hospital for mental cases, according to an Associated Press dispatch quoting members of the state board of control Thursday night.

Lubbock is one of several West Texas cities to make formal application for the hospital.

Buildings Cost $732,000

These buildings, estimated to cost $732,000, and the architects were named along with architects for buildings and improvements at the various state eleemosynary institutions costing two millions of dollars.

Buildings and architects for the new hospital, as named by the board were: $137,000 psychopathic building and equipment, $100,000 administration building and $100,000 utilities, etc., to Wyatt C. Hedrick, Inc., Fort Worth; two ward buildings and equipment costing a total of $230,000 to Townes & Funk, Amarillo; $75,000 hospital building and equipment, $60,000 employes' quarters and $40,000 storeroom equipment to Mayers & Strange, Big Spring.

Members of the board said they hoped to have the jobs under contract by the end of next month.

Lockhart Doubtful Of Action On Tax

AUSTIN, July 9 (AP) — State Treasurer Charley Lockhart, one of the three members of the automatic tax board, expressed doubt today the board of education could forestall a reduction in the state school tax rate through increasing the public school aid apportionment.

"If the board of education can force us to set whatever tax rate it wants, what's the use of having a tax board?" queried Lockhart.

The education board voted Tuesday to increase the apportionment from $19 to $22. Its members calculated retention of the present school tax rate of 20 cents on the $100 valuation would be necessary to pay the higher allotment.

City Cleaning Up On Weeds

A city weed chopping crew continued work today in southwest residential section in attacking persons the biggest weed problem the city ever has faced, according to information given at City hall.

A crew of men operating a power drawn mower made rapid progress in the southwestern residential section as they began a task which will continue, city officials said, until every vacant lot in every portion of the city is cleared.

Short Of Men, Equipment

The shortage of men and equipment, it was explained, however, will mean that two or three weeks may be required to complete the work, although every effort was promised to expedite it. Suggestion was made that owners of weed-grown vacant property would speed the clearing of the lots by making their own arrangements for the work. Otherwise, it will be reached in its turn.

Present work was ordered, officials explained, because the "weeds are a civic eye-sore, they have reached such size in places as to constitute a traffic danger, are a health menace and easily could be a fire hazard."

May Become Fire Danger

The vegetation, officials said, has flourished to greater degree than ever before because of the heavy rains during the late spring. If the summer should be dry, however, they will dry out and become a fire danger.

They already have caused much suffering among hay-fever victims, many of whom have complained at the city hall. The weed patches likewise were described as potential breeding places for mosquitoes, which are carriers of germs of more dangerous diseases.

Mowing of the weeds in the southwest section, which embraces the area between Texas and College avenue from Tenth street south to the city limits, will be completed first, officials said. Workmen then will be shifted to the northwest residential area and then to portions of the city east of Texas avenue.

Lyle's Ravens Becoming Real Pets; Displaying Appetites

Fledgling ravens are flourishing in captivity and displaying appetites which are becoming a problem, according to Bill Lyle, garage man, who saved them from prowling cats a few weeks ago and since has made pets of them.

Lyle about a month ago found half a dozen month-old birds in Yellowhouse canyon. He took them to his place of business, where he fed them. The birds grew fast and became pets.

Only desiring two as pets, Lyle has given away four of the birds. They follow him around his place of business, one especially takes delight in flying up to his shoulder. The pet will call out when he hears Lyle's voice, no matter if he does not see his master.

The birds do not fly much, as yet. They only try their wings for short flights of 15 to 25 or 30 feet at a time.

Meat, bread, grain, vegetables, in fact almost anything, comprise the diet of the birds. When Lyle calls to them, the pair will walk up close and begin to "talk." This they will continue, until he has fed them enough. Then they stop talking.

Native South American Girl Is To Leave Monday After Three Years In Lubbock

After three years in Lubbock, attending the Lubbock high school and also Texas Technological college, and working for Lubbock residents, Miss Allie Hevia, 24, is leaving Monday for her home in Rio De Janeiro, Brazil. There she will make her home with her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Kershner, Americans, there.

She sails from New Orleans, La., Saturday, July 17, going directly to Rio De Janeiro.

Of ancient Spanish lineage, her mother was born in Spain and her father, also Spanish, was born in Lima, Peru.

Born In Buenos Aires

Born in Buenos Aires, Argentina, Miss Hevia lived there until she was three years old. Her real mother also lives at Rio de Janeiro. Her father has been dead many years.

Before this trip to the United States, Miss Hevia spent a year at Edinburg, in the Rio Grande Valley in Texas, going to school and learning to speak English. That was in 1930, she said.

From the time she was five years old until about 14 she was in a Catholic convent. Even when in Brazil, she attended an American school.

Graduate Of Lubbock High

She was graduated from Lubbock High school in the spring of 1933 and was a freshman at Texas Technological college in the long term of 1935-36. Since that time she has worked as a secretary and stenographer at a jewelry store and for an automobile dealer here. She also did secretarial work for Dr. W. S. Gates, former assistant dean at Texas Tech, and Dean James M. Gordon, also of Tech.

Regarding her future plans, she said she might return to the United States in about six months with her foster parents, or she may work there. Anyway, she left a forwarding address of: Miss Allie Hevia, Caixa Postal, Number 1046, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Her address here has been 1010 Avenue M.

"I'm glad to go back," she said. "It's winter there."

Gly-Cas Is The Master Medicine Of Them All

Lady's Entire System Toned By New Medical Discovery; Kidneys And Bowels Regulated. Rheumatism Ended

"I certainly agree with the many friends in saying good things about Gly-Cas," said Mrs. Minnie Rowland, Rt. 6, Bx. 6, El Dorado, Ark. "Since the flu several years ago, I have been badly constipated and my liver was as if dead. My kidneys would not function properly, up three and four times each night. I had such severe rheumatic pains in my shoulders and arms that I could not stand it at times. My flesh would become so sore and I could hardly get about. In spite of all the medicines I tried I could not find anything to help me. But finally I learned of Gly-Cas and put it to the test on my own case—IT WAS DIFFERENT."

"From the first dose, Gly-Cas showed me improvement and today I am enjoying my best health in years," continued Mrs. Rowland. "All those dreadful rheumatic pains have left me and I can get around as good as anyone. I am again able to eat the foods I wish and feel just like a new person. I sleep fine the entire night through, kidneys are regulated and my entire system has been toned. I do not know what I would have done without Gly-Cas—it has been a real blessing to me."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Hainey Drug Co., 1210 Broadway, this city, and by all the leading drug stores in surrounding towns.—Adv.

BLOOMS A CENTURY

MUNCY, Pa. (AP)—A peony plant in the garden of Miss Sarah McCarty has bloomed every year for a century. Originally in the garden of Dr. S. D. Hiller, the town's early dentist and physician, the plant was given to the McCarty family early in the 1800's.

Short Course Plans Talked

Problems of South Plains farmers featured discussions at a meeting of approximately 25 professional agricultural workers of the area at the Institute of Agriculture meeting at the Agricultural building at Texas Technological college Thursday night.

A number of proposed projects were discussed at the session and committees appointed to investigate possibilities of them and to promote them.

A proposed farmers' short course to be held at the college, probably in September, was discussed. A committee composed of W. L. Stangel of Texas Technological college, Herbert Davis of Ropesville, and Glenn Blackmon of Shallowater was appointed to make plans for it.

Plans for making an award to a "master farmer" of this section as a continuation of a contest inaugurated by the institute about a year ago were formulated. The award is to be made at the short course. A committee in charge of that is composed of C. E. Russell of Tech, chairman; Dr. E. L. McBride, also of Tech; and Lawrence Shipman of Monroe.

L. M. Hargrave of Wolfforth, chairman, Lee Rick McIlroy of Post, and Cecil Ayres of Spur were placed on a committee to assist in promoting attendance to a rural pastors' and Laymen's conference here late this month.

Housing Plan Discussed

Possibility of a cooperative housing plan for agricultural students to Tech who could not attend except through aid of such a project was investigated. A committee to look further into the plan is made up of Hargrave, K. M. Renner of Tech, and Coleman Cowan, vocational agriculture teacher. The group also will make a report of possibility of transporting students to Tech from neighboring towns by bus.

An award to the vocational agriculture teacher of this section who has done most to beautify the school where he teaches is to be made. In charge of this are Henry Clay and O. B. Howell, both of Tech, and Shipman.

The next session of the institute will be held concurrently with the summer Vocational Teachers' conference on the campus of Tech next month. New officers will be elected. In charge of the program and arrangements will be M. G. Pederson of Tech, chairman; Hargrave, and Chester Hufstedler of Lubbock.

County Crops Judging Team To Be Named After Tests

Selection of a crops judging team will be made Saturday, after a group of 4-H club boys reports to the county agent's office at 1 o'clock and goes to Texas Technological college to judge grains, said Homer E. Thompson, assistant county agent.

Club boys to report are: C. T. Potts, jr., Barton; Floyd Price, Wolfforth; Jeff Semple, Roosevelt; Truman Woods, Estacado; V. C. Snodgrass, Roosevelt; Cleo Paden, Monroe, and Ralph Strahorn, Roosevelt.

Erection Of Homes Of Moderate Price Urged By Board

Erection of moderately priced homes on present vacant lots from which owners are not obtaining revenue, was urged by the Lubbock Real Estate board at the monthly meeting last night in the Chimayo room of the Hotel Hilton. Members were urged to suggest to property owners to build homes.

Members attending pointed out that homes of that price are in demand both for sale and for rent.

Attending last night's meeting were: R. A. McKinney, president; Joe Hess, J. O. Green, T. A. Turner, Ed Terrell, L. O. Casey, T. B. Zellner, S. J. McFarland, Raleigh Martin, and C. C. Jones.

To Continue Affiliation

The organization voted to continue its affiliation with the state and national real estate boards, officials said.

A resolution favoring erection of a school building in the southwestern part of Lubbock to accommodate that part of town was voted. That section is showing rapid growth and development, McKinney said.

Members were urged to stress the importance to property owners of listing properties that might be for sale exclusively with members of the board.

The board recognized the need for another office building here to accommodate possible oil offices and other businesses which may desire quarters here.

The next meeting will be a banquet session on the night of Aug. 3. A banquet committee composed of Green, Casey, and O. B. Conley was appointed. A program committee is made up of McFarland, Turner and Zellner.

PILL SLAVE FREED FROM CONSTIPATION

A convincing tribute is paid to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in this letter from Mr. F. C. Aninsen of Seattle.

"I suffered with constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night. Since I got your ALL-BRAN, it works fine. I was so deathly sick of taking pills. Now it is so different. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works so naturally, and is pleasant to eat."

Inside the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft mass that gently sponges out the intestines. It also supplies vitamin B to help tone the intestines, and iron for the blood.

You'll enjoy eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. As a cereal with milk or fruits, or in appetizing recipes. Two tablespoonfuls every day are usually enough — three times daily if needed. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

British Leader Slips On Final Round Today

(By The Associated Press)

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 9.—Leader at thirty-six and again at fifty-four holes, Reggie Whitcombe of England slipped to a five-over-par 76 on his final round of the British open golf championship on the rain-drenched Carnoustie links, to post a total score of 292.

Unable to finish with better than a 76 in the terrific downpour that nearly submerged several of the greens, Alf Padgham, 1936 champion, relinquished his title as he ended the 72-hole grind with a score of 298.

With a final-day 36-hole score of 73-71, 144, only two over par despite the worst weather and playing conditions of the tournament, Britain's all-around ace caught and passed Reggie Whitcombe, leader Thursday.

Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., was the leading American at 296, with several still on the course in a downpour that had flooded greens and fairways.

Henry Cotton, champion in 1934 and English favorite for the crown, played through a driving rain to score a great par 71 for a total of 290 and appear the likely winner.

Meadowbrook Open Is Set

Meadowbrook's second annual Open golf tournament will start Sunday, July 25, and end August 1, officials of the club announced yesterday. G. H. Tosh, course manager, made no announcement regarding possibility of the club's accepting the 1937 City Open tournament in submitting the Meadowbrook Open dates.

The tournament will be open to all golfers of Lubbock and the South Plains, and out of town golfers are especially invited. A large turnout of golfers from Slaton, Tahoka, Lamesa, Brownfield and other surrounding towns will be sought.

An entry fee of $1.50 will be charged, Tosh said, this to permit all entrants to play the course for a week, including pre-tournament practice.

The qualifying deadline will be Wednesday, July 28. Matches will start on Thursday and wind up the following Sunday. Flights of 16 each will be arranged, with eighteen hole matches up to the finals. Prizes will be awarded medalist, winners and runners up and consolation winners in all flights.

Announcement of Meadowbrook's Open tends to cast doubt upon the possibility of a City Open tournament this year. Lubbock Country club was to have been the host club this year, but served notice early this week that it could not accommodate the tournament until after July 25, final day of the Country Club Women's Invitation tournament. Country club left the way open for Meadowbrook to claim the tournament next week, but officials of the latter have remained silent.

With Meadowbrook's Open starting July 25 and running to August 1, it is not likely that a City Open will be held after that time. Country's Club's annual invitation tournament, one of the biggest in West Texas, is slated to start August 26.

Schmeling 'Insists' Farr Should Fight Him First

LONDON, July 9 (AP) — Max Schmeling, arriving here today from Berlin, said that he "insisted" that Tommy Farr, British empire heavyweight champion, should fight him before meeting World Champion Joe Louis.

The German tentatively had been scheduled to meet Farr here in August or September, however, Farr entered into negotiations with American promoter Mike Jacobs, who announced in New York yesterday that Louis and the Briton would meet at the Yankee stadium Aug. 26.

Minor Track Dates May Be Granted Before Deadline

AUSTIN, July 9. (AP)—Texas horse racing enthusiasts may yet have a chance to bet a little cash legally on the nags despite the fact the last approved meet is over.

Mrs. Bernice Grieder, secretary of the racing commission, said today the racing commission might grant minor tracks dates for meets prior to the effective date of repeal of legalized wagering on Sept. 24.

The body has denied major tracks permision to stage "farewell meets" and recently refused Harlingen's application for July 16 to 24 dates.

Midland, the final approved meet, closed last week.

Argument Over All-Star Tilt Still Echoing

(By The Associated Press)

They wheeled the big league cannon back on the firing line today, while the shots from the all-star game, particularly those exploding the argument of prize pitching over slugging, were still echoing.

Baseballers were still shouting over the whys and wherefores of the lop-sided shellacking the American leaguers handed their rivals Wednesday.

From the raft of "reasons" thus expounded, these arguments stood out:

1. That the National league seems to have placed too much emphasis on the supposed unbreakable defense of its big three pitchers, and not enough on mass run production;

2. That an extra base wallop delivered with men on bases, such as those thumps by Lou Gehrig and Red Rolfe Wednesday, is still the best insurance against a whipping;

3. That the individual performance of the Yankees and Cubs in the mid-summer classic, together with their recent league doings, makes it appear, at this writing, that a New York-Chicago world series is more than a pipe dream.

Benefit Dance Will Be Given Tonight

Aspiring to make their second annual invitation tournament attractive from the standpoint of trophies and needing funds with which to provide said prizes, Country club women's golf association inaugurates its financial campaign tonight. The tournament, open to all women amateur golfers, begins July 21.

Country Club ballroom will be the scene of a benefit dance tonight, profit derived therefrom to apply toward defraying tournament expenses and purchasing trophies. Dick Dickerson's popular dance band will provide the music. All club members and their friends are invited to attend. More than 50 tickets have been sold in advance.

One of the handsomest and most practicable array of trophies ever offered at a women's golf tournament is now being collected. Numerous local merchants are contributing toward the prize list. Other items will be ordered or purchased here. Prizes will be awarded the medalist, winner, runner up and consolation winner of each flight, winner of the long driving contest and possibly a pitch and putt contest.

Invitations have been mailed to practically every club in West Texas, and a large entry field is anticipated. It is hoped that there will be four full flights of sixteen each.

Fisherman Recovers His Old Line And 12-Pound Fish

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., July 9. (AP)—Walter Duering, of Buffalo, lost a 300-foot line Wednesday when a big fish struck his bait.

Thursday he returned with a new line. Near the same spot he felt a tug.

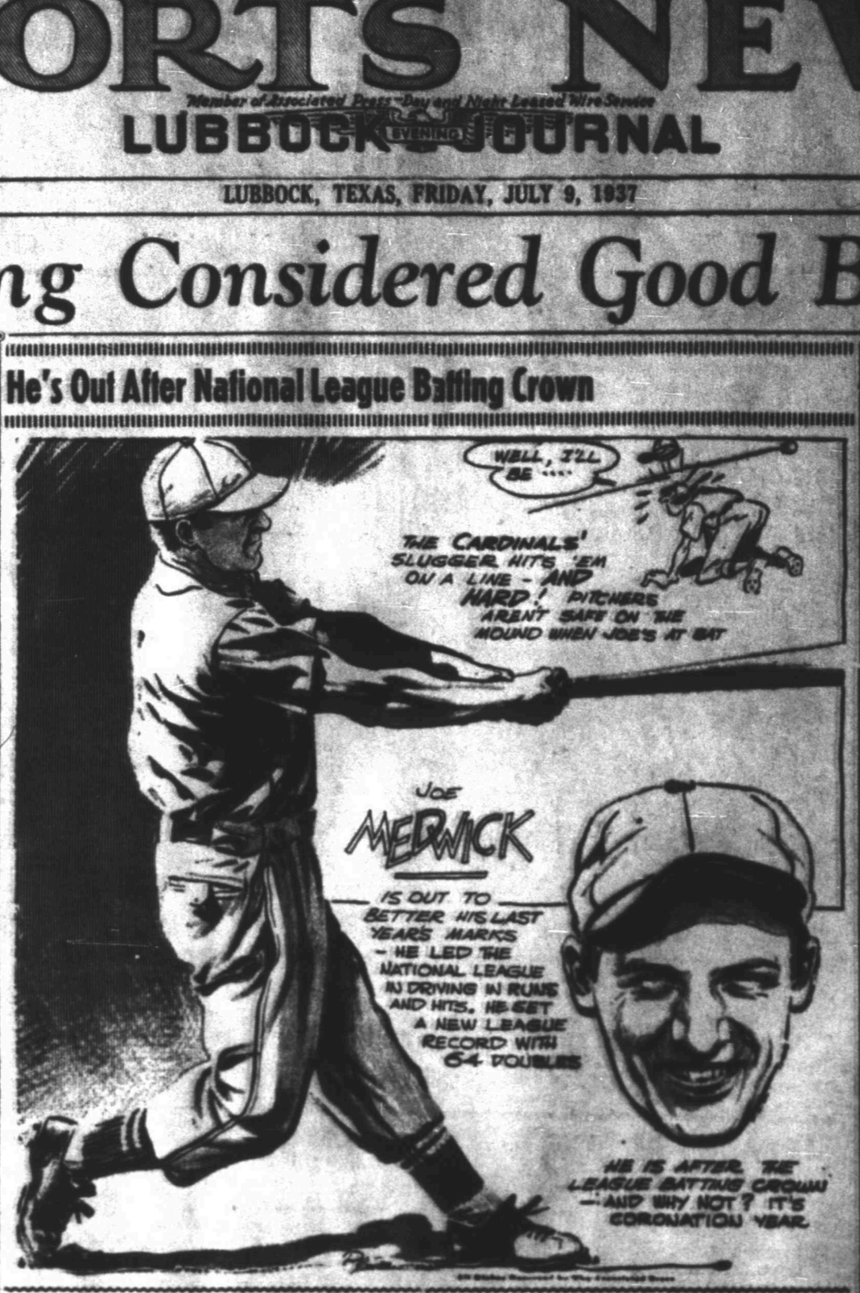

His hooks had tangled in the old line. Duering pulled it in.

On the end of it was a scrappy 12-pound muskellunge.

Great Britain's Davis Cup Hopes Receive Setback

LONDON, July 9. (AP)—Great Britain's hopes of retaining the Davis cup, emblem of international tennis supremacy, were dealt a crushing blow today when George Patrick Hughes withdrew from the squad because of a break-down, following over-exertion and strain. He will be replaced by Frank H. D. Wilde.

Hobbs, Local Team Matched For Sunday

Baseball clubs of Hobbs and Lubbock will battle each other on diamonds in Lubbock and Hobbs Sunday as the schedule takes a queer turn and as the clubs go through final warm-ups before tournament war breaks out here on the following Sunday.

Hobbs, N. M., the town gone crazy over baseball and boasting three clubs, sends the second of its strong semi-pro outfits here for Lubbock's entertainment Sunday.

This time it's the Phillips "66" Oil company club of Hobbs, a semi-pro outfit that is rising rapidly in importance and popularity with fans of the section. The Phillips Oilers of Hobbs are to clash with a Lubbock independent team, winner of the 1936 invitation tournament at 3:30 o'clock here.

Hubbers At Hobbs

Lubbock's Hubbers, meanwhile, will be playing in Hobbs, at the league park, against the Amerada Oilers of Monument. It will be the fourth meeting of the clubs, and the Ameradas will be seeking their first victory in the series. The game is to start at 3 o'clock, New Mexico time.

The game here will serve as a preview of the seventh annual Lubbock invitation tournament which starts a week from Sunday. Both the clubs involved are expected to compete in the tournament, the local club to defend its championship.

The Hubbers will make their next home appearance as tournament contenders.

Indians Keep Winning Ways

(By The Associated Press)

TODAY'S GAMES:

Tulsa at Dallas (night).
Oklahoma City at Fort Worth (night).
Houston at Galveston (night).
San Antonio at Beaumont (day).

The Texas league pace grew a little less hectic today as Oklahoma City's Indians kept up their winning ways to go into a seven-game jump on the field.

The Indians had little trouble in tacking a twelfth straight defeat to the dismal record of the cellar-placed Dallas Steers, 6 to 1. The Steers played liveller ball under their new skipper, Ray Brubaker, but the result was about as usual. Ashley Hillin thereby won his sixteenth game of the year for Oklahoma City.

Fort Worth Slips

Fort Worth meanwhile was slipping farther away from the pacesetters, dropping a slam-bang battle to Tulsa, 13 to 7. The game marked the most thorough-going beating Veteran Jackie Reid of Fort Worth's pitching staff has taken this season.

Reid gave up 12 hits in the six innings he worked and his mates afield were virtually a liability, committing five errors.

Beaumont continued its move toward the top, adding its fifth straight against Galveston, 7 to 5. San Antonio got even with Houston for the previous night's 5-to-1 drubbing. Ralph Rhein, Mission utility man, showed the way at bat with a homer worth two runs and the Missions won 5 to 4.

SPORTSTER

By Collier Parris

WHAT, NO CITY OPEN? Come, come, fellows; let's get together on this thing and play ball!

Announcement yesterday of the Meadowbrook Open for July 25-Aug. 1 leaves little time and room for the City Open. Country Club has said it could not hold the tournament until after July 25, and let the bars down for Meadowbrook to chime in and claim the event. Thus far there has been no official chiming.

Next week would be a fine time to have the City Open, at Meadowbrook. Country club players will be severely handicapped, if not ruled off the course altogether, as workmen go in to work top-dressing the grass greens. The greens will be unpractical for play for the next two weeks, particularly for next week. Country clubbers could easily switch over to Meadowbrook for the City Open tournament.

How's about it?

It would give Country club players a chance to disprove an undercurrent of murmurings that they are too "high hat and snooty" to commune with the Meadowbrook brethren. This attitude, not yet outspoken, should never be allowed to jell. Country club members should go out of their way, if necessary, to keep the pipe of peace going strong. Meadowbrook players, by the same token, should not work themselves into a lather nor fret at all regarding the boys and girls further out the highway.

Let's all get together over at Meadowbrook next week for a lot of fun and golf in the City Open.

Country Club throws its doors open tonight to members and guests and invites them to dance. It's a benefit shindig, tossed on behalf of Country club women's association in order to raise funds with which to throw the second annual women's invitation tournament, starting a week from next Wednesday. The tariff is trivial, the music hot, and the gals need the dough. They also need a bunch of prizes, in addition to the principal ones they're purchasing, and they'll probably be around to see some of you business guys.

THE REAL DOPE ON HEAVYWEIGHT SITUATION

For the benefit of you who are still bothering your pretty heads over the heavyweight boxing racket, we will present a few observations gathered from "big business" by one of the Journal's personal and private correspondents in New York. This information was gathered in the most reliable of financial circles, despite the fact that it deals with sport. In other words, it is "expert" data from outside the realm of sports "experts." It is supposed to be the point on the international question concerning the ownership of the world's heavyweight boxing championship. It is not to be construed as this corner's personal observation or that of any other sports critic.

When Braddock was signed to fight Schmeling, the big fight moguls almost threw a fit. They knew right well that Braddock wasn't fit for a championship battle. This meant that Schmeling was a sure winner.

It isn't far-fetched to say that the biggest and best of the sporting world — especially in the fight promotion game—are of the Catholic faith. They didn't want Germany to own the world's heavyweight championship. But what could they do about it when Madison Square Garden had the whole affair signed and in the bag?

THERE WAS ONLY one solution and that was to get Uncle Mike Jacobs to force Joe Louis into the picture. Jacobs being a Jew, it was certain that he would agree with the plan. Such a fight meant that no matter who won, the title would remain out of German hands. That's why Jacobs did what may be called non-sporting. That's why the Braddock run-out.

Of course boxing experts know that Louis has a "tin" chin. They know that a Schmeling punch would knock him for a row of houses. But since Schmeling is the next in line for a shot at the title they want the Brown Bomber to go into further training. How will he get it?

First of all, they've signed Louis to fight the English champion, Tommy Farr, who was originally scheduled to fight Schmeling but which deal apparently has fallen through. (A run-out by Farr is suspected because of the diplomatic strain between England and Germany relative to the Iron ore mines in Spain.)

Farr, of course, is a set-up for Joe Louis. So would be Len Harvey, one of Farr's European rivals. After the Farr fight Louis will be given a few more easy marks. After he proves—and only then — that he can "take it," talk will start building up a championship battle between Schmeling and Louis. The announcements in the papers that Louis will fight three or four times a year isn't because the fight moguls want a battling champ. That would hurt large-sized gates. What they do want is that he shall get more experience for that weak chin.

While he's getting this experience, it is hoped that Schmeling will either get tired of being stood off, or get so flabby that he'll be a nervous push-over for Louis when they do meet.

Behind the whole thing is the aim that the world's title shall be held by any man except a German. After this was confidentially explained to the New York Boxing commission the other day, the commission reversed a previous ruling and declared Joe Louis champion after he had beaten Braddock. That was done with a hedge clause which provides that Louis eventually must fight Schmeling in a title bout.

Now, does that fix you-all up?

Increase In Tax Rate Is Likely

City officials centered attention on financial problems today with the expectation that it will require weeks of study after city commissioners had agreed at their semi-monthly meeting at City hall Thursday afternoon that an increase in the present tax rate seems inevitable.

While the budget yet is to be completed and tax rolls finally compiled and approved before a rate can be set, members of the commission were frankly doubtful whether the present tax rate of 85 cents on the $100 of assessed valuations can be continued. The rate was described as substantially lower than any city of comparable size or larger in Texas.

Growth Of City Cited

Rapid growth of the city, creating need for utility and sewer extensions which must be done to maintain sanitation standards, together with the rapid rise in cost of all materials were cited as having increased governmental costs to a point the 85 cent tax rate will not cover.

The remark by Commissioner W. B. Price that "If it is a question of issuing bonds or raising the tax rate, I favor boosting the tax rate," found Mayor Ross Edwards and Commissioner W. O. McMillan in complete agreement. Commissioner A. J. Richardson was delayed in reaching the meeting and arrived after the brief discussions. Commissioner J. A. Fortenberry was out of the city.

May Be Necessary

While discussions were of most tentative nature, opinions were that an increase in the tax rate to 95 cents may be necessary. The setting of the rate, however, lies several weeks in the future and Mayor Edwards explained that ample opportunity will be given for a full study of the matter.

One of the necessary preliminaries to setting the rate was completed during the afternoon with passage on second and final reading of an ordinance naming W. E. Baskin, W. E. Inmon and Rufe Williams members of the city board of equalization. They will study tax rolls, make any changes in valuations they deem justified and then set hearing dates at which affected property owners will be given opportunity to protest.

Another proposed ordinance on which action was deferred and an amendment to an existing ordinance which was approved have to do with community health. Both were recommended by G. G. Hunter, inspector for the city health department.

The amendment approved by the commission broadens the present ordinance which requires health certificates of certain food and personal service workers so as to make it applicable to owners, managers and employes. In original form, the ordinance required such certificates only of employes working for wages. The amendment was explained as being designed to include all who may render the services mentioned in the original ordinance.

Must Be Renewed

Specifically mentioned as requiring the health certificates, which must be renewed at six-months intervals, are those who handle foods, drugs, drinks or laundry and those engaged in personal service vocations, such as nurses, barbers, manicurists, beauticians and man and maid servants.

The proposed new health ordinance would forbid the establishing of sleeping quarters or the hanging of clothing in establishments having to do with the handling of food. City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley agreed to revise it, however, to make it applicable only to cafes, dining rooms and the like where prepared foods would be exposed to contamination by germs from sleepers or work clothing. Effect of the ordinance will be to require that anyone sleeping in such a building must occupy separate rooms. Revision was proposed so as to avoid possibility of working hardship on neighborhood grocers who have apartments in their establishments.

Other Proceedings Routine

Other proceedings of the meeting were routine.

Formal acceptance was ordered of newly completed pavement on Avenue K from Broadway to Sixteenth, on Fifteenth from Q to College and Texas to M; and on Fourteenth from J to M.

Action was deferred on an ordinance to permit the exclusion from the city limits of a tract measuring 970 by 330 feet known as Sunshine addition at the extreme southeastern edge of the city limits. No opposition was indicated to the withdrawal but delay was decided upon to make certain that the area's bounds are correctly described in the ordinance. An accurate description was explained as essential because a city-owned water line crossed a portion of the property which will be kept inside the city limits.

The city manager was asked to attempt to make arrangements for the opening of a crossing on Fourth street Santa Fe railroad switch track in the vicinity of Avenue O. At the present time, the crossing is negotiated by making a sharp jog from Fourth upon O and then following a curving parallel with the railroad tracks back to Fourth. Most of the present roadway is on private property.

Mayor Edwards suggested that owners of the property fence off their holdings and then that the city take whatever steps are necessary to open up the street.

Electrical contractor bonds of J. W. Gray and R. L. Kerr were approved.

A couple of Lubbock ladies were talking at the bridge table.

"Oh, by the way," said the first one. "I was talking to someone about you the other day. I've forgotten who it was, but I think she knows you. I can't be sure about that, though, because neither of us could quite remember your name."

"Well, well," responded the other lady. "It's a small world, isn't it?"

By golly, is The Plainsman glad to be back! In Austin for a few days, he comes back to this good, old West Texas summer resort as happy as a cat licking glue!

Believe it or not, Austin is ten degrees hotter than spots reserved in Hades for especial enemies of old Lucifer. And according to the natives, it gets much hotter in August than it ever is in the early part of July.

No wonder the legislature wound up on its gambling drive in double-quick time after doing little all spring when the weather was so comfortable.

It looked like "old home week" in the lobby of the Driskill hotel there the other day.

The Plainsman bumped into Tom Garrard, formerly of Lubbock and now of Tahoka; V. Z. Rogers, boss of the Lamesa schools; W. T. "Tanlac" Strange, ex-Lubbockite now residing in Big Spring; C. L. Harris, representative from Spur and adjacent territory; and Jack Harris, former Snyder lawyer now living in Austin, all in a short length of time.

YEP, it's a small world, after all. En route back from Austin, in Fredericksburg, The Plainsman happened to see the sign of that 91-year old community's newspaper office so pulled up to swap a few yarns with the editor. (The Little Woman, who was along, swears that our jaunts about the country are merely tours of the newspaper offices!)

Anyhow, The Plainsman introduced himself and the Fredericksburg editor peered over his spectacles.

"Yah," he said, "my name is Robert Klett."

"Any relation to Emil Leviticus Klett, of the Johnson City Ketts, now in Lubbock?" we asked, or rather interrogated.

"Yah," said Editor Klett of Lawyer Klett, "he's my second cousin. Fact is, he was through here yesterday, on his way home from a visit to his mother in Johnson City."

Since Editor Klett was very, very gracious and hospitable and insisted on taking down a little item about The Plainsman's visit, we think it is no more than fair to reciprocate with this paragraph about the Ketts.

After all, we all like to see our names in the paper.

The biggest mistake The Plainsman made while in Austin was to drop into the editorial rooms of The American-Statesman.

"Hyah," said Skipper Charlie Green in a more-than-usual friendly manner. "For once I am glad to see you. I'm in a jam. How about writing my column for me?"

In the best possible manner, The Plainsman pretended to decline the honor—you know, like mama's little darling does when asked to play the piano for company. Finally, however, we capitulated, thus turning the trip into a busman's holiday.

Mister Green, who along with your humble servant was one of the University of Oklahoma's problem children in the early 1920's, will be out here some day and then The Plainsman will take a layoff!

AS these lines are typed—and the situation probably will continue until the early part of next week at the soonest—decision of the Board of Control concerning location of the West Texas Mental hospital is in the lap of the gods.

The institution might go to San Angelo, where inspecting board members were dazzled last week by a wonderful site near one of the curves of the beautiful Concho. It might go to Sweetwater, where the inspectors were amazed at the potentialities of Lake Sweetwater. It might go to Big Spring, to a site a few miles south of Slaton, to Lamesa. Or it might even come to Lubbock, for that matter, where there is plenty of good, pure water for the pumping, where there is plenty of swell land, and where the institution would be adjacent to the finest city in the West, at the center of geographical area to be served and at the center of population in that area!

Only thing for Lubbock to do anent the location now is await the decision of the board—and pray for a break!

"Yassum," said the kid. "They ain't nobody goin' there!"

SYNOPSIS: Just as Ted Gaynor is desperately about to set a forest fire to get a job, Kay Crandon stops him, likes his looks, gives him a place at the Lazy Nine. Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy the Lazy Nine and court Kay after her ranch house and barn burn. She hates him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Ted stirs the outfit to cut its own timber and rebuild without pay. Hastings tries to tie up the only available timber land, but Ted wins the race for an option, then whips a Hastings puncher for molesting Kay. Tom Runyon, fire patrol, calls at the ranch.

Chapter 18
Strange News For Kay

Marshalling her wits to meet the coming interview, Kay walked the short distance from the bunk house to the cabin in silence.

She felt that she would give anything to be rid of Tom Runyon, and have a chance to rest. But some instinct warned her that it would be foolish to let him go away with the suspicion that she could see he still harbored against Ted. Tired as she was, she would have to change his line of thought, or he might make trouble.

"Shall we sit out here?" Kay sank down on the top step, and leaned back against the post that held the rail of the tiny porch in place.

"Sure."

Kay couldn't quite read the look in Tom Runyon's dark eyes as he gazed at her. Her thoughts suddenly flew to those luminous black eyes of Ted's, so different from the ones bent on her now. Ted's eyes had a light that seemed to come from within, while Tom's were just black and round and staring, but no whit less intent.

"You make some picture there, do you know it?"

Kay smiled a faint response to his admiration. "I don't feel much like a picture," she admitted. "I'm terribly tired."

"I'll bet you are." He put one foot on the lower step and leaned toward her, his elbow resting on his knee. "I'm not going to keep you, but I just want to get one or two things straightened out in my mind. Just how long have you known this Ted Gaynor?"

"Goodness! I never can remember dates! It seems as though I'd known him for ages! But then, I feel as though I'd known you quite a long time, and we only met yesterday." Kay glanced up at him from under her dark lashes with deliberate coquetry.

"I certainly feel that way about you!" Tom Runyon gave a flattered laugh, adding, "Say, what is it about you that keeps a fellow looking at you, and forgetting what he wants to say?"

Kay laughed. "Why say anything?" she asked demurely. "It's too lovely here in the twilight to be asking questions. I know what I would like to have you tell me, though!" she added as an afterthought.

"What?" He was all eager attention.

"Tell me about your work as fire patrol. You did it before you came here?"

"Sure I did." He cleared his throat with a pleased air of superiority. "That's why the Protective association sent for me to come up here and see if I couldn't get to the bottom of these mystery fires. I've been handling a situation a whole lot like this in Wyoming, and believe me, I ran that firebug to earth!"

"Tell me about it!" Kay fixed him with her eyes full of flattering inquiry.

"Well, it was this way"—Tom Runyon settled back, and Kay was just breathing a sigh of relief at getting him side-tracked, when he leaned forward once more, and broke in abruptly on his narrative. "So He Didn't Tell You!"

"Before I get going on that, I want to ask about this Gaynor guy." He looked keenly at Kay. "Did he tell you about the fight he had today?"

Kay looked at him with startled eyes. How could Tom Runyon possibly have found out about the fight on the mesa?

"Fight?" she echoed faintly.

"So he didn't tell you!" Tom exclaimed. "I had a hunch he wouldn't!"

Kay gazed at him with bewildered amazement. What was he driving at? If Tom Runyon knew about the fight at all, he must know that she had been there and had seen the whole thing! But there was no possible way for him to know. He had come to the ranch from the opposite direction, so he couldn't have run across Scrap Johnson and have heard it from him!

"I don't understand what you're talking about," Kay said finally. "Are you sure he was in a fight?"

"Sure as shooting," Tom Runyon assured her. "The guy that came out to relieve me saw the whole thing."

"But he couldn't have!" Kay burst out. Then she hastily tried to cover up her break. "I mean, he must be mixing Ted up with someone else."

"Not on your life he wasn't," Tom declared positively. "He was right there in Kelly's joint when it happened."

"Kelly's joint!" Kay echoed in a relieved tone. "Oh that wasn't Ted! He was waiting for me outside the bank. I remember now he did say something about having seen a fracas of some kind at Kelley's."

"'Seen' it!" Tom scoffed. "I'll say he saw it! He was the one who started it!"

"But—how—why—" Kay bit her lip and broke off short. The last thing she wanted to do was to discuss Ted, and she still felt sure Tom Runyon was mistaken.

"That's just what I mean," Tom leaned forward and shook his finger impressively at her. "There's a lot you don't know about that Gaynor guy." Tom Runyon was so positive, Kay felt it would be better to sift this rumor to the bottom.

"He was fighting with a fellow named Scrap Johnson, about some girl," Tom answered. "I reckon that's why he wasn't so keen about mentioning it to you!"

His tone had a malicious edge, but Kay hardly caught his words. Her mind was flashing back to the events of the morning. It might have been possible, while she had been in the bank, for this to have happened. She had been so preoccupied with her own troubles when she came out that she had not noticed Ted particularly.

She suddenly remembered something Ted had said when he had announced on the mesa that he meant to fight Scrap Johnson. He had said he was going to give him a "second" lesson! Kay had noticed this remark at the time, with a wondering conjecture, but in the fast moving events afterwards, she had forgotten it.

"Yeah, the two of 'em had it out, hot and heavy." Tom's voice was recounting the story as he had heard it. "Everybody thought this Scrap fellow was going to lick the stuffing out of him, but Gaynor got him down by a trick twist. Then he threatened he'd kill him if he ever heard him mention his girl's name again."

A 'Black Haired Filly'

Tom paused to let this piece of information sink in, his eyes never leaving Kay's face.

Feeling his gaze on her, Kay steeled herself to hide her surprise and confusion. Pride came to her aid, and helped her conceal the hurt feeling that Ted's lack of confidence gave her.

"There was no reason why he should have mentioned it if he didn't want to," she observed lightly. "Perhaps as long as he won out, he might have thought it would have seemed like boasting."

"He probably won't mind boasting about it to the black haired beauty he was fighting for!" Tom chuckled as he scanned Kay's expression for her reaction to this remark.

"How do you know she was black haired?" The involuntary question burst out before Kay could stop it.

"Because Scrap Johnson had said something about a black haired filly!" Tom Runyon went on, deliberately giving a garbled account of the information he had received, his eyes narrowing as he observed the flush that spread over Kay's cheek. "That's what started the fight!"

"Well, he evidently had his reasons for not mentioning it." Kay tried to speak lightly and indifferently, but something seemed to give way inside her. She felt she couldn't possibly go on with this conversation. She simply had to be alone.

"I'm afraid I'll have to say good-night." With the greatest effort of will, Kay kept her voice from trembling. "I've had a strenuous day, and I guess I haven't entirely got over teh shock of yesterday."

"Poor little girl!" Tom Runyon's voice was a trifle over-sympathetic as he took her hand in both his, and bent his face close to her. "You go and get a good sleep, and any time you need any help, you call on Tom Runyon! Just you forget about this investigating business—leave that all to me."

"Ah . . ." Kay smiled faintly at him as she drew her hand away. "I hope you'll come over any time you feel like it."

"Trust me!" Tom Runyon boomed heartily. "You're going to be seeing a whole lot of me, young lady, and don't you forget it!"

Feeling a weak dizziness gradually overcoming her, Kay turned without further ceremony and bolted into her cabin.

Tom Runyon strode off to the bunk house with a half smile of satisfaction.

Scrap Johnson "resigns" and makes a fool of his boss, Monday.

RACE HORSES, FIRE PLUGS, "NEW MASTERS"

Every once-in-awhile a scintillatnig gem may be picked from the current literature, notwithstanding the unhappy view that, taking it all in all, we do not do so well in this matter as did "the old masters". It is rather nice—and reassuring—to learn that after all there are some "new masters", and in proof The Journal offers Exhibits A and B from recent reading.

Exhibit A is plucked from a political blurb in which is eloquently set forth the virtues of one George H. Earle, now governor of the State of Pennsylvania. Mr. Earle, by the way, is quite busy these days denying that his recent nomination of President Roosevelt for a third term was actuated by his own hope of becoming residuary legatee. From this picture of a perfect one, we learn that "Governor Earle is descended from a long line of ancestors."

It is comforting to know that Mr. Earle is not a product of spontaneous production and that like the most of us his line of ancestors runs at least as far back as Adam. We had begun to have fears on that point.

Exhibit B comes to us all the way from Paris, where Alfred E. Smith has been recently sojourning as he makes his leisurely way through the brilliant spots of Europe and comes into contact with that which has been a part of history as well as with those who are now making history.

One can imagine him standing reverently uncovered, absorbing into his inner being those deep impressions which move him to his later observation—"The tomb of Napoleon is quite a sight!"

An acme of brilliant description, no doubt—and proving that as one cannot make a race horse out of a fire plug, neither can one make a great writer out of a statesman, even though he may be a great statesman!

A Thought . .

Let not thine anger be hot against me, and I will speak but this once: let me prove, I pray thee, but this once with the fleece; let it now be dry only upon the fleece, and upon all the ground let there be dew.—Judges 6:39.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 9. — Where a motion picture is concerned, there's plenty in a name. Hundreds of thousands of dollars, sometimes.

You'd think that by this time the public would have learned that titles never are essential to the enjoyment of pictures; also that they often are misleading and sometimes are entirely meaningless.

Remember the last Eddie Cantor comedy, a dull charade called "Strike Me Pink"? Samuel Goldwyn paid good money for that name, although it had nothing to do with the story, and in spite of the fact that it previously had been borne by a Broadway musical that was a flop.

In substituting the new tag, Goldwyn tossed out a catchy and relevant title: "Shoot the Chutes."

Did you see Ida Lupino in "Come On, Marines"? Well, you'd never guess that the original name for that frothy feature was "The Pink Chemise." But it goes to show how much leeway there is in the christening of films.

A film that started out in the studio as "Tightwad" runs the gamut from parsimony to prodigality and emerges on the screen as "Wild Money." "General Hospital" becomes "Between Two Women." "Thin Ice," the original name of Sonja Henie's new movie, bore some relation to the story. But Darryl Zanuck has decreed that "Lovely To Look At" is a better tag.

Prizes Per Names

When a flicker is made from a famous book or play, the name usually is retained. But few authors ever have a hand in titling the movies made from their work. Studio executives discard titles and choose others, but they seldom think them up.

Advertising and publicity departments do most of the thinking — and also most of the hair tearing and brow furrowing when they're called upon to plug movies with difficult names.

Short synopses of new stories are sent around to all the stenographers and other office employes of a studio, along with an SOS for title suggestions. Usually a $25 prize is offered.

Frank Lloyd is offering $50 for a name for his picture about the Wells-Fargo Express company. Up to now it has been called "An Empire Is Born," but "Vanguard" likely will be the winning hunch.

A movie title should be short enough to fit in lights on a theater marquee. "Internes Can't Take Money" drove exhibitors crazy. Some billed the picture as "Internes Refuse Cash," and one advertised: "Doctors Can't Take It."

Longest title ever used was a Casino production of 1935—"Sunday Night When The Village Band Plays." Another little dandy issued by the same company was "Sight Unseen, I Love You."

A movie title must be clean, because the Hays office won't tolerate anything like "Sin" or "Passion." I question the wisdom of title censorship. Time was when parents could ask the name of the picture and give a direct yes or no to their tots' clamor for movie money.

Titles such as "Secret Hour," "The Sin Sister," "The Taxi Dancer" and "Untamed" meant something. But nowadays the moppets are bundled off to witness a patriotic epic called "Come On, Marines" and they come home burbling about the adventures of a pink chemise.

Made To Taste

On the whole, Harold Lloyd's pictures are acknowledged to have had the most enlightening titles. They're titles which cause you to visualize Lloyd in various situations. "Grandma's Boy," "Safety Last," "Girl Shy," "The Freshman" — those and others give fans an idea of what to expect. So does "Professor Beware," the name of his next comedy.

Film titles are subject to change without notice, and few actors know what their picture will be called when they report for work next day.

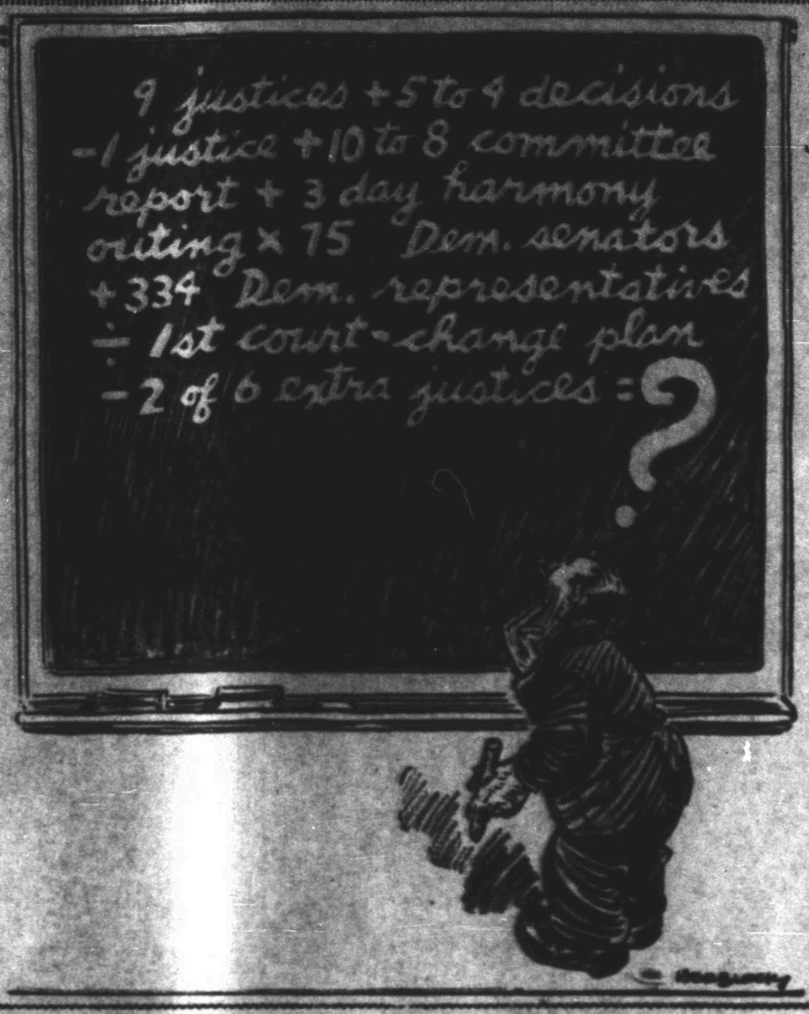

The Robert Taylor-Barbara Stanwyck picture, as one example, was successively known as "The McKinley Case," "Turn of the Century," "Living Dangerously," "Private Enemy"—and finally as "This Is My Affair."

Realizing the attraction of catchy titles, theaters in the foreign quarters of American cities, and on the garish midways, too, frequently change billings to suit themselves.

"Mad Love," shown on Los Angeles' bawdy Main Street, was advertised as "Sex Mad Love." A theater in New York's Harlem played "Ruggles of Red Gap" as "Ruggles the Red Cap."

The farm value of peanuts in the United States in 1936 is estimated at $44,100,000.

Administration's Left Wing Is Bruised And Sore Since Thrust Made By The President

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The administration's left wing is bruised and sore since Roosevelt cracked it with his "plague on both your houses," in referring to extremists of industry and labor.

The right wing, on the other hand, and especially the southern group which supplies the official leadership of Congress, is rather pleased. Placating this group, of course, was exactly what the President had in mind. Hysteria over the C. I. O. and its contemplated invasion of the south has caused more administration trouble in Congress than any other factor.

Dutcher

F. D. R.'s left wing pals explain apologetically to labor leader friends that the President was forced to hit at the C. I. O. as well as the Girdlers and Grace, and that the dynamiting at Johnstown, Pa., on the same day influenced his statement. But his right wing supporters wish he had gone about 10 times as far in bawling out John Lewis.

The statement was the first crumb conservatives have had from the White House for a long time and Roosevelt must still be classed as distinctly "pro-labor." Watch out for a presidential rap now against Tom Girdler of Republic Steel, who once went around Cleveland announcing he would never sit in the same banquet hall with a Roosevelt, and who shouted a flat "No!" to each and every request of the Taft-Garrison-McGrady mediation board.

Don't Like Each Other

Roosevelt and Lewis had no direct contact during the strike. The two men don't care for each other personally, although they will use each other for their respective ends for a long time to come. Roosevelt wants a stronger labor movement and thinks the country needs it. Consequently he has welcomed, and to some extent aided, the rise of Lewis because the C. I. O. chief appears to be the strongest leader labor has produced.

About the time national guardsmen in Ohio were ordered to see non-strikers safely back into steel plants, Lewis went to the office of Secretary of Labor Perkins to ask that the steel mediation board be requested to make a report on its futile efforts to get the independent steel officials to agree to something.

Miss Jay, personal secretary to Miss Perkins, told him her boss was at a social workers' conference in Maine.

Soon afterward a friend, who knew of his quest, telephoned Lewis that Miss Perkins had been in her office all morning—and she had.

Great Strides For Lewis

The setback Lewis has received in "little steel" will do C. I. O. some harm and perhaps an equal amount of good. Hindsight indicates the strike was pulled "too soon." The combination of a grim management, strong local opposition, militia and a large group of non-union workers appears to be fatal medicine to C. I. O. as long as the Wagner act doesn't require employers to reach agreement with employes. Open shop employers of the Girdler-Grace type have now tasted first blood and further intensive efforts will be made to beat Lewis down.

But Lewis has made great strides. He claims 3,000,000 C. I. O. members. He has 200 contracts with steel and related industries which cover some 250,000 members, all of them believed to be paying dues. The fight with independent steel units is but one battle. The battles with U. S. Steel and General Motors and many smaller skirmishes were won. C. I. O. morale may be hit in the steel industry, but perhaps not elsewhere. The greatest good that can come out of it all for C. I. O., is the realization that agreements and contracts must be observed by new, green C. I. O. unions—as was not all too often such as the United Mine Workers and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers. One great tower of Girdler's strength was his ability to charge C. I. O. had no regard for "sacredness of contracts" by pointing to 200 unauthorized strikes to automobile plants since the General Motors and Chrysler agreements with C. I. O.

Lewis sympathizers within the administration feel that G. M. and Chrysler will insist on strong insurance against further unauthorized strikes before entering any long term contract with the union. The U. A. W. claims 250,000 members, however, and it is not anticipated here that the C. I. O. will lose much if any of the ground it has gained in the automobile field.

Tech Group On 10-Day Tour

(Special) To The Journal)

GLORIETA, N. M., July 9—Breaking camp Tuesday morning, after a four weeks stay and excavation work here, the third bi-annual archaeological expedition to Arrowhead Ruins, near Santa Fe, left on a 10-day tour of Indian pueblos in Northern New Mexico and to Mesa Verde, Colorado.

The expedition is sponsored by Texas Technological college, Lubbock, with Dr. William Curry Holden, head of the department of history and director of archeological research, in charge. College work cr[illegible]

Following the discovery six years ago of Arrowhead Ruin, an ancient dwelling of a tribe of Pueblo Indians, Dr. Holden has directed this, his third excavation and restoration of the pre-historic site. At the conclusion of this term's work, a total of 42 rooms have been excavated and partially restored. Twelve rooms were completed this summer. Dr. Holden estimated that there were about 120 rooms in the original pueblo. A kiva, the ceremonial house of the tribe, has been rebuilt and is distinct for its "D" shape and unique fireplace. It will house about 75 persons. The rooms characteristically surrounding the kiva have average dimensions of 9x9 feet and are about 6 feet high.

Period Being Determined

Through the cooperation of the Rockefeller Laboratory of Anthropology in Santa Fe, the approximate dates for the construction of this ruin have been obtained. While the whole thing was not built in one unit, it shows definite signs of occupation over a period of perhaps three generations. This ruin is in the Pecos periphery and evidence points to the probability that the site was deserted or abandoned by its peoples. No publication has been issued on the history of this Arrowhead Ruin, but the period is being determined now through pottery sequence and tree ring dendrochronology. The tree rings, pottery, and the types of other artifacts found indicate habitation some time toward the beginning of the fifteenth century. There is little evidence of the re-use of the place except for one burial mound which was found in one of the rooms.

In addition to excavation work done by the students, class work has consisted of lectures on archaeology of the Southwest by Dr. Holden. Short visits were made to a Pecos ruin where Dr. A. V. Kidder studied Southwest Indian culture eight years; Forked Lightning ruins, El Rito de los Frijoles (Bandelier national monument west of Santa Fe); San Juan pueblo for the annual buffalo dance; the Palace of the Governors and the museum of Southwestern art in [illegible]

[illegible] works spent at Glorieta have been visits to the Rockefeller laboratory in Santa Fe and a lecture on Southwest prehistoric art by Dr. Kenneth Chapman, director of the laboratory.

The itinerary of the tour includes visits to Chaco canyon, a national monument, Mesa Verde ruins, Zuni pueblo, El Morro (Inscription Rock), and Acoma. Stops will be made at Gallup and Albuquerque. The class will return to Lubbock about July 16.

Members of the Texas Tech archaeology field expedition are Bill Pearce, Lubbock; Mrs. H. M. Hamilton, Plainview; J. Merrill Kayser, Weatherford; Russell Wimberley, Lubbock; Nell Armstrong, Andrews; Natalia Crosby, Wilson; Sybil Poteet, Ralls; Tom Holden, Lubbock; Mrs. V. Graham, Plainview; Katharine Hill, Eldorado; John Harding, Byers; Orville Watkins, Meadow; Fred Muffings, Lorenzo; Lorene Childers, Lubbock; and Jane Holden, Lubbock. Others on the trip for a short time were Billy Jackson, and Willis Bledsoe, Lubbock.

Twiddy And Hollingsworth To Attend Training School

The chief is to be an instructor. He said he was one of three paid fire department heads named to plan the program, but that he was unable to get away by July 14, to meet with other members of the committee. The school will last ten days.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 9. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 7 to 10 points higher on trade and foreign buying. Offerings were light. Jly 12.34; Oct 12.42; Dec 12.36; Jan 12.39; Mch 12.44; May 12.46.

There was an overnight accumulation of buying orders from scattered sources, influenced by yesterday's government acreage report indicating 34,192,000 acres had been planted to cotton.

Liverpool and the Far East took contracts in addition to commission house and local buying. Selling was less active.

Offerings through spot houses were less in evidence and selling represented largely realising on a scale up as October advanced from 12.42 to 12.50. It then eased to 12.45, leaving quotations generally 9 to 12 points higher shortly after the first half hour.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 9 (AP)—Cotton futures opened six to eight points higher today on better Liverpool cables and accumulation of overnight buying orders.

Reports from goods centers continued favorable. Worth Street reported an active market with sales estimated around 6,000,000 yards yesterday and a further advance in print cloth prices. Fine goods also improved. Cables from Manchester said cloth and yarns were steadier in moderate business.

October opened at 12.43; December at 12.45; January at 12.46; March at 12.52; and May at 12.50.

Prices continued to advance after the start under good trade and other buying and towards the end of the first half hour active months were ten to twelve points above the previous close.

Liverpool cables reported improved sentiment with local buying offset by Bombay selling.

Treasury To Start Series Of Weekly Discount Bill Issues

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP) — Secretary Morgenthau said today he would start a weekly series of $50,000,000 discount bill issues Monday to keep the treasury's cash working balance above the $1,000,000,000 level.

The working balance, or ready cash, now stands at about $900,000,000.

In the past, Morgenthau has said he wished to retain a big cash fund because of "unsettled conditions" abroad.

The additional $50,000,000 issues will mature December 15, when fourth-quarter income tax payments are collected.

Picking Of Cotton In Valley Is Halted By Rainfall Of Week

EDINBURG, July 9. (AP)—Harvesting and ginning of cotton in the Edinburg section was at a standstill today as rain continued, adding to the three inch precipitation of the past week.

Cotton farmers feared the moisture would cause leaf worm inroads and further damage the crop.

War Veteran Seeks Data On Bonus; Lives In Mexico

Information as to how he may proceed in securing World war compensation was sought by an ex-serviceman now in Mexico who waited 18 years before corresponding with a Lubbock attorney.

Antonio Curgot of Calle Independencia, Parral, Chihuahua, Republic of Mexico, wrote to George S. Berry of Lubbock. "I wish you be very kind to send me some applications and fill one up so I can fill mine right and send it to you. So you can send it to Washington," he said.

Transactions in connection with the bonus will be carried on through the office of the American consul at Chihuahua.

The veteran requested information on attorney fees. Charging of fees for aid concerning bonuses is a penitentiary offense, said Berry.

Curgot had been informed Berry might aid him by a friend of Berry's.

East Texas Farmer, Daughter Are Found Shot To Death

MARSHALL, July 9 (AP) — John Ponder, 60-year-old farmer, and his daughter, Pauline, 18, were found shot to death at their farm home eight miles from here Thursday.

Deputy Sheriff Bus Wells said an automotic pistol was found lying near Ponder's right hand.

The slain pair were found by the farmer's son Clyde, and his daughter, Bernice when the latter returned home from Marshall. The man was fully clothed. His daughter was in pajamas.

Wells said he knew of no motive for the deaths. When the son and daughter found the pair, Ponder was lying on the porch and his daughter had fallen down the steps. They apparently had been dead about two hours.

Britain Pat On Holy Land Plan

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 9.—Despite critical outbursts of Jews and Arabs alike, the British government tonight stood by its plan to split Palestine into three parts and prepared to ask early League of Nations approval thereof.

Most British opinion seemed to be that the partition, aimed to bring an end to 15 years of Arab-Jewish conflict in the Holy Land, was the least of a choice of evils. Most of the British press backed the government.

To Divide Into 3 States

The British Royal Commission, which investigated disorders in Palestine after the Arab general strike last year, reported yesterday a plan to divide the Holy Land into an Arab state, a Jewish state, and a British mandate territory.

(The report was greeted with widespread disapproval in Jerusalem, were both Arab and Jewish leaders protested bitterly against the principle and the terms of the proposed partition.)

Jews, said the liberal Evening Star, should realize the "half a loaf in peace and with the prospect of more is better than bread eaten amid strife and desolating bitterness."

Rabbi M. L. Perlzweig, a Zionist leader, charged that the British government had "betrayed" the Jews and asserted "we are on the eve of a long struggle; we shall contest every inch of ground."

State Fund Has Good Balance

AUSTIN, July 9. (Special)—Texas' unemployment compensation fund as of July 6 totalled $11,354,559.83, Orville S. Carpenter, chairman-director of the Unemployment Compensation commission, said today in announcing the transfer of $750,000 to the federal treasury to be ear-marked for payment of unemployment benefits.

This amount, Carpenter said, represents contributions from approximately 12,000 Texas employers of nine-tenths of one per cent on their total 1936 payrolls and one and eight-tenths per cent on their payrolls for the first five months of this year. The condition of the fund at this time lends support of Mr. Carpenter's estimate that more than $20,000,000 will have been deposited in the unemployment trust fund when the first check for benefits is issued after January 1, 1938.

The commission has set up individual accounts for more than 60,000 covered employes. Quarterly earnings are posted to these accounts, from which benefits will be computed for persons who lose their jobs through no fault of their own and are unable to find other suitable employment. Reports on earnings of employes for the second quarter of this year will be due on or before midnight, July 31.

Alighting on any of the few tiny islands of the Phoenix group where a landing was at all possible, would be an exceptionally difficult feat for even a pilot of Miss Earhart's unquestioned skil. And finding one of these islands, when in their last report from the air they had not sighted land, would have been even more difficult.

Taylor To Retire As U. S. Steel Leader

NEW YORK, July 9. (AP) — The New York Herald Tribune said last night Myron C. Taylor has put his associates on notice that he expects to retire as chairman of the board of the U. S. Steel corporation at the end of this year.

The newspaper said this is contingent on the completion of a financing and common stock dividend resumption program on which his heart is set.

If this program is not carried through by the year end, he has indicated he will continue as chairman until July 1, 1938, at the latest.

The paper said earnings indicate both ends can be achieved and continued, "It is scarcely a secret in Wall Street that Mr. Taylor would be available for appointment as ambassador to the court of St. James, if the incumbent, Robert W. Bingham, should resign."

Wall Street for some time has heard rumors of possible appointment of Mr. Taylor to this post.

Scouts To Take Leave Friday; Young Raley Is Coming Home

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP) — About half of the 1400 Texas Boy Scouts here for the National Jamboree will leave by special train at noon Friday for home, while the remainder head for a few days in New York and other eastern cities before going south.

Among those to leave directly for Texas will be Bedford Raley of Lubbock, who underwent an appedicitis operation soon after arriving in Washington. Almost recovered, he has been permitted to don his Scout togs and visit the encampment the past three days.

Fourth Annual Heavenly Boat Cruise Of Father Divine Is Started Up Hudson River

NEW YORK, July 9. (AP)—Its docks trembling under the thudding, stomping feet and swaying bodies of 1,655 "angels" and less exalted followers of Father Divine, the steamer "State of Delaware" sailed up the Hudson today on the fourth annual heavenly cruise to "The Promised Land" above Kingston, N. Y.

The "Promised Land" is a 1,000-acre track in Ulster county, designed to be used by the negro leader and his followers as a religious retreat and a cooperative farming community at the same time.

Federal Statute On Checks Is Cited

Writing a check for less than one dollar is a violation of the federal statutes, which became effective March 4, 1909. Violators are subject to a maximum fine of $500 or imprisonment for six months.

However, this statute is violated daily, according to bank authorities here who said that such checks were not unusual. A bank official pointed out that many checks of denominations smaller than a dollar are received. A number of companies make all disbursements by checks to keep records straight and in doing so many small checks are written, he said.

This law, generally unknown and unenforced, according to paragraph 293, section 178, title 18 of the criminal code, says:

"No person shall make, issue, circulate, or pay out any note, check, memorandum, token, or other obligation for a less sum than $1, intended to circulate as money or to be received or used in lieu of lawful money of the United States; and every person so offending shall be fined not more than $500, or imprisoned not more than six months or both."

No person violating this statute has ever been prosecuted here, authorities said.

slowed the evacuation.

Both the Japanese and Chinese suspected the other would fail to fulfill the terms of the mutual evacuation agreement, reached at 4 o'clock this morning.

Chinese Express Apprehension

Chinese expressed grave apprehension that the Japanese would not carry out the terms of the agreement. Japanese were too anxious, Chinese said they believed, to secure the strategic Wanpinghsien base which commands both the Pacific highway and the Pinhan railway.

Japan maintains about 7,000 troops in the Peiping area under the 1901 Boxer protocol.

These troops were engaged on secret night maneuvers when the clash occurred. The Japanese charge the Chinese fired the first shot; Chinese say the Japanese were the aggressors.

Break Well Planned

Yesterday's break was well planned. On the pretext of going for a drink of water, the convicts stepped from behind a water wagon with two rifles pointed at Guard Etheridge, who gave up his weapon. As the men fled other guards opened fire. J. D. Reid, serving four years for burglary and chicken theft, was shot to death. He was from Floydada.

Shortly afterward, four were recaptured. They were E. G. Biddell of Houston, Ben Chaney of Callahan county, E. Harold Hindmarch of Dallas and Lacy Wingfield of Wichita county.

Prison officials suspected that W. H. Bybee, leader of the June 22 break, may have been instrumental in "planting" the two rifles used in yesterday's escape.

Road Bond Issue For Purchase Of Right Of Way Is Approved

ABILENE, July 9. (AP)—Both rural and urban voters joined Thursday to approve by majority of 902 to 133 a $25,000 road bond issue to purchase right of way for highway 36 southeast from Abilene 16 miles into Callahan county.

Voting was in a special road district consisting of Taylor county precinct 1, including Abilene, and a "shoestring" of territory extending into Callahan county.

The proposed road will connect Cross Plains and Abilene, reducing paved road distance from 80 to 45 miles.

Insurance Costs Are Estimated

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 9. — Congressmen have learned proposed government crop insurance would cost the nation's wheat farmers from about one to 35 per cent of their average yields in the form of premiums.

The house committee has under consideration the senate approved Pope (D-Ida) wheat crop insurance bill already passed by the senate.

Farmers would pay premiums in the form of grain, to be stored for release as indemnities for losses.

Range Up To 75 Per Cent

Indemnities would range up to 75 per cent of average yields.

The agriculture department reported it had established rates for each of 1,600 wheat counties in the United States.

The sample rates per acre, on the basis of 75 per cent coverage of average yields in a number of counties were given as follows:

Oklahamo—Beaver, 2.3 bushels; Blaine, .5; Kiowa, .8.

Texas—Hansford, 1.7 bushels; Potter, 2.2; Carson, 1.7; Floyd .9.

Walter Shields, genial general manager of the shoots, said yesterday that a squad of Clovis, N. M., sportsmen had accepted invitation to compete with Lubbock shooters Sunday. A generous tournout of local shotgun artists is urged.

The shooting begins at 2:30 o'clock and continues until all the ammunition is one or until the shooters call it quits. Skeet shooting and regulation straightaway trapshooting will be available, Shields said.
