'POWWOW' DOCTOR GETS LIFE TERM

Investigation Into Oklahoma Impeachment Meet Asked

SUDDEN END OF 1927 SESSION CAUSES ACTION

Senator Wants Charges Of Newspapers Fully Investigated

JOHNSTON IN SPEECH

Governor Speaks Before Hostile Legislators; Asks Inquiries

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 9 (AP)—A resolution providing for an investigation of rumors and newspaper charges of corruption in connection with the sudden dispersal of state members in the attempted impeachment session of the Oklahoma legislature, was introduced in the senate late today by W. J. Otjen, Enid, Republican floor leader.

The resolution alleged that charges had been made verbally and by a newspaper "that money had been given senators, that promises of pardons and appointment were made to senators and that contracts were offered to procure adjournment" of the 1927 impeachment session.

Johnston Gives Message

Ignoring the hostile attitude displayed by majorities of both houses of the legislature, Governor Johnston had delivered his biennial message of legislative recommendations, including one for investigation of state departments, on which his political enemies are bent.

The message, prepared before anti-administration forces seized control of the house and the investigation organization yesterday, warned against making the inquiry "serve the personal purposes of malicious individuals." It also urged that the investigation be conducted "openly, frankly and fearlessly to the end that any abuses actually existing may be eliminated, any officers guilty of misconduct in office be removed and punished, and all offices and departments found to be correctly and honorably functioning may receive the approval to which they are justly entitled."

Applause Is Light

Only small applause greeted the governor as he entered the house to address the joint session. Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, confidential secretary to the governor, charged by administration enemies of exerting undue influence on his actions, and Mrs. Johnston came into the house chamber separately and found seats together among supporters of the governor.

Former Gov. J. C. Walton, impeached in 1923, sat through the session again today. He was interested yesterday in the parliamentary skirmishing of the house, which culminated in resignation of Allen Street, choice of the Democratic caucus for speaker, and election of James C. Nance, Cotton county editor and anti-administration Democrat, to the chair by a coalition of Republicans and Democratic insurgents.

The governor's message was lengthy and carried a full legislative program, including the governor's recommendation that provision be made for the immediate completion of the state highway system. The legislature was asked to submit a proposal for the issuance of between $125,000,000 and $150,000,000 in road bonds to a state election, and an increase of the gasoline tax from three to five cents a gallon was proposed as a means of retiring the bonds.

Extra Session Certain, Chiefs Indicate Now

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—With definite word today from the White House and Hoover headquarters that neither the president nor the president-elect would make any move regarding farm relief legislation during this congress, an extra session was regarded inevitable.

New York Honors Tex In Giant Garden He Built

'Taps' Sounded for Sports Leader in Boxing Palace Erected By His Promoting Genius

By FRANK GETTY

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (UP)—Tex Rickard had given New York its Madison Square garden, and so New York had an adequate place in which to pay its last respects to the promoter today.

No edifice conceived in less generous proportions, no church or tabernacle such as usually is associated with funeral services, could have housed the throng which filled the big arena that was Tex's pride and remains his monument.

It took a Madison Square garden of Rickard's planning to hold the people who wished to be present to hear the last clear notes of "taps" sounded over the bronze casket, there beneath its bower of floral offerings, in which the master showman lay.

Services Brief

The funeral services were brief, impressive at once in their simplicity and in the character of the throng they attracted.

Outside the garden, a great crowd surged against the closed entrances like waves breaking upon a shore; inside, after the doors had been closed, there was a reverential hush, a new note in the vast arena which has been the scene of so much mob-excitement since Rickard conceived and built it.

Close to the casket, in a section roped off from the rest, sat the invited guests, numbering 1,000—friends of Rickard from the preferential walks of life.

The young widow, one black-clad shoulder drooping against the stalwart frame of Jack Dempsey at her side, sat with the former champion and Walter Fields, who had been Tex's private court jester for many years.

Cross Section of City

All around them were somber figures, the honorary pall-bearers, and a little cross section of folks in New York whose lives are constantly before the public, Peggy Hopkins Joyce looking very pale and beautiful, John Ringling, the circus man, Kermit Roosevelt, Walter Camp, Roy Howard, and actors and actresses, all up near the flower-draped catafalque.

Farther back, one began to recognize men of the fight game, managers, boxers, hangers-on, who knew and respected Tex. There was Paul

Question Mark to Cross State on Flight To Washington

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9 (AP)—The army plane Question Mark, which broke all records for sustained flight, will leave Metropolitan airport at Van Nuys Friday at 11 a. m. for Rockwell field, San Diego, Major Carl Spatz, commander of the plane, announced today.

The plane will remain at Rockwell field long enough for a change of motors and then proceed in the shortest time possible to Washington, D. C., by way of Tucson, Ariz.; Midland, Texas; Shreveport, La., and Montgomery, Ala.

TEXAS CO. BUYS WILDCAT LAND

Half Interest in Phillips Block Purchased

The Texas company has practically completed negotiations with the Phillips Petroleum company of Tulsa for the purchase of a one-half interest in approximately 50,000 acres of wildcat lands in Cleveland and McClain counties, Oklahoma, R. Ogarrio of New York, vice president of the Texas company, announced last night.

Consideration or details of the transaction were not made public by Mr. Ogarrio, who said the deal will be completed in the next few days. It was reported from Oklahoma that the Texas company paid around $1,000,000 for the properties. Phillips retains a half interest and, it is understood, will operate the properties.

The leases are situated along the line of Cleveland and McClain counties, being between the north and south Canadian rivers. Considerable drilling is now under way in that section, which is west of Seminole.

Mr. Ogarrio, who arrived in Wichita Falls late Wednesday, was confined to his room at the Kemp hotel last night by a severe cold. He was accompanied here from Fort Worth by John L. McMahon, general manager of the Wichita Falls division of the Texas company. He will spend several days inspecting the company's interests in this area.

Wife Arrested In Assassination Plot

DETROIT, Jan. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Grace Woods was arrested as she lay on a sick bed tonight after one would-be assassin was killed by police and a deputy sheriff wounded in a gun battle when police, deputy sheriffs and state troopers ambushed four men who attempted to murder her husband, Ralph A. Woods, president of the Woods Construction company.

Police received word of the plot to murder the wealthy builder this afternoon from a man who said he had been employed by Mrs. Woods, head of a realty company which bears her first name, to aid four gunmen in slaying her husband.

A divorce action instituted by Woods is pending.

William Thompson of Wyandotte, Mich., was shot and killed as he stepped up to Woods at the door of his office and raised a blackjack to strike him. Woods, who has but one arm, fired simultaneously with a policeman and it is believed his shot killed Thompson.

Fort Worth Man Charged With Murder

FORT WORTH, Jan. 9. (AP)—John Y. Bain, 30, was charged with murder today after the fatal shooting of M. C. Smith, 32. Smith was found dying in a vacant house.

TEXAS SOLONS NOW PREPARED TO LEGISLATE

Governor's Address Ends Preliminaries For 41st Session

OIL LAND PROBE UP

Funds for Wichita Falls Hospital Asked In First Money Bill

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. (AP)—Business picked up for the 41st legislature today. Governor Moody delivered his annual message to a joint session of both houses and suggested many phases of legislation to give the lawmakers something to think about long after this session is ended.

With all formalities behind them, the two branches will settle down tomorrow to legislate. Already more than 100 bills have been presented and hundreds of more are being drawn.

Land Probe Up

Added interest to a session already promising more than the usual thrills was lent by announcement today that tomorrow there will be introduced in both houses a concurrent resolution calling for appointment of a committee of senators and representatives to investigate the affairs of the general land office and acts of the commissioner.

Simultaneously the senate committee on public lands took favorable action on a bill which would withdraw from the market all oil and gas rights on Texas university acreage and repeal present laws governing their lease and sale.

This is the result of the recent controversy with J. T. Robison, land commissioner, on one side, and the governor, attorney general and university board of regents on the other. Robison was importuned to withdraw from the market leases advertised for Jan. 2, and when he refused the request he was stopped by a temporary injunction by the state, joined by the regents.

Wirtz-Moore for Probe

Senators A. J. Wirtz and Joe M. Moore will sponsor the investigation movement in the senate and Rep. A. P. C. Petsch will introduce the resolution in the house.

The controversy probably was brought to a head by a statement issued by Robison yesterday in which he criticised those who brought action against him.

Lloyd Price of Fort Worth, former senator, and Commissioner Robison appeared before the committee and were heard on the bill.

A "bloc" has been formed in the house of sufficient strength to "frustrate" any attempt to pass appropriation bills during the regular session it was announced by Ray

25 PATIENTS SLEEPING ON FLOOR DUE TO CONGESTION

An emergency appropriation of $125,000 annually for two years for new buildings at the Wichita Falls State hospital would do much to relieve congestion at the state institution, Dr. C. W. Castner, superintendent, told The Record News Wednesday night. Dr. Castner said he had planned to go to Austin to urge the appropriation as an emergency, but the introduction of the bill in the legislature Wednesday may make this unnecessary.

The appropriation will be used for new ward buildings, he said. Congestion at the institution has become so acute that 25 women patients have been given bedding on the floor in order to sleep, Dr. Castner said. The institution has received board of control approval of a $465,000 building program for the next two years.

Oil Operator Not Under Indictment

FORT WORTH, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—An Associated Press dispatch from Fort Worth Thursday night reported erroneously that Fred W. Strang, oil operator, who has filed a $2,000,000 damage suit against the Better Business Bureau of Dallas, was under indictment for use of the mails to defraud.

Strang has not been indicted. A complaint on information charging use of the mails to defraud was filed against him. He was arraigned on Dec. 24 and released under $10,000 bond, and subsequently he filed the suit against the business bureau, alleging his reputation had been injured.

The Associated Press gladly makes this correction.

Attorneys Ask Sanity Test for 'Love Slayers'

FRANKLIN, La., Jan. 9 (UP)—Briefs were filed today before the supreme court by attorneys for Ada Bonner Le Bouef and Dr. Thomas E. Dreher in an effort to obtain a lunacy commission to pass upon the sanity of the couple condemned to die Saturday for the murder of the woman's husband.

At the jail here the death watch was resumed today over the widow and her lover who were granted a week's stay of execution to allow a decision of the supreme court Friday as to the validity of one justice's authority to grant a stay of execution with his four associates dissenting.

Britons Admit First Jazz Band Since 1925

LONDON, Jan. 9. (US)—A little American musical paprika will be tried in London in an effort to revive the lagging hoofs of British dancers.

The first American jazz band admitted to Britain since 1925, when the ministry of labor banned such importations to protect the British Musicians' union, will be Abe Lyman's orchestra. The jazzers are being brought by Harry Foster for a six week's engagement in a lively Haymarket restaurant under the strict condition that the restaurant must hire an equal number of British hornblowers during the engagement.

King George's Condition Continues to Improve

LONDON, Jan. 9 (US)—King George continues to gain in strength, and his physicians tonight issued the most encouraging bulletin for many days, although there has been no bad news for a week.

In the first and only bulletin of the day, posted at 8:15 tonight, Drs. Hewett, Rigby and Dawson said: "The king has had a quiet day. The local condition makes steady progress and there is slight increase of strength. No further bulletin will be issued until tomorrow evening."

Queen Marie Better After Short Illness

BUCHAREST, Jan. 9. (US)—Queen Marie, who has been ill with the grippe which was incurred at Princess Ileana's twentieth birthday party Sunday, was slightly better today. Queen Marie developed quite a high fever last night.

The queen's physicians declare she is in no danger. Former crown Prince Carol wired from Paris wishing his mother a speedy recovery and stated that he is sending her new photos of himself.

President-Elect Takes Part In Tunnel Dedication

ST. PAUL, Jan. 9. (AP)—President-Elect Herbert Hoover will deliver his first radio speech since the presidential campaign Saturday night as a part of the program celebrating the dedication and formal opening of the new Great Northern tunnel through the Cascade mountains.

Announcement of Mr. Hoover's acceptance of an invitation to participate in the ceremony was made here today by Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, who will formally dedicate the tunnel, the longest tunnel in the western hemisphere.

Thirty-eight stations will broadcast the program on a national hookup with microphones in the tunnel, in New York, Washington, D. C., and San Francisco, Mr. Budd said.

The time of the broadcast will be 8 to 9 p. m. central standard time.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (US)—The Coolidge policies of economy, thrift, tax reduction and national defense will be the policies of President-Elect Hoover. This was definitely decided today in a long conference between the retiring executive and the president to be.

SERVICE TODAY FOR PIONEER

Ed Wilson Dies Here At Age of 75

Funeral services for Ed Wilson, 75, pioneer citizen of Wichita Falls who died at his home, 1612 McGregor, Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, will be conducted from the First Methodist church at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon by Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor, and Rev. Ben Bell, pastor of the Wilson Memorial church.

Mr. Wilson came to Wichita Falls as a sub-constructor of the Fort Worth and Denver railway when the road was first built here and has been a resident since that time. A tract of land which he purchased in the southern part of town years ago has been on the market for some time here as the Wilson addition.

He was married in Kingsville, Mo., in 1874. He and his wife joined the First Methodist church here during the famous Mulkey meeting in 1890 and have been members of the institution since that time.

Mr. Wilson is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. A. W. Ayers and Mrs. H. L. McKinley, and two grandchildren, Lewis and Alfred Ayers.

Active pallbearers were announced as Arthur Stipes, O. C. Moody, Gilbert Moore, W. H. Scarlett, Oral Jones and Carter McGregor.

Among the honorary pallbearers are Dean Howard, Edgar Scurry, J. A. Kemp, W. L. Moore, J. A. Richolt, J. T. Brooks, Isaac Murray, Lovick Webb, A. H. Carrigan, I. Knight, J. C. Ward, J. B. Marlow, P. P. Lansford, C. F. Priebe, W. W. Brown, Tom Barwise, R. E. Huff, N. H. Redding, Ennis Redding, J. T. Woodhouse, J. P. Jackson, Seth Moore, Arthur Howard, F. H. Denison, J. E. Deaton, J. S. Fore, Ed Howard, William E. Huff, J. Downing, Fred Carter, Ben Williams, John Moore, T. J. Waggoner and Will Harris.

Condemned Man Wins New Trial in Appeal

AUSTIN, Jan. 9 (AP)—Adam Bazan, sentenced to death in Bexar county, for alleged murder of Antonio G. Garcia, was granted a new trial by the court of criminal appeals today. The reversal was ordered on Bazan's claim that he had discovered new evidence.

The killing for which Bazan was tried was committed Oct. 10, 1923, and four years elapsed before he was suspected.

State Hospital Workers Injured When Hit by Car

Miss Cleo Gilliam was seriously injured and J. W. Echols was severely bruised when they were struck by an automobile driven by Joe Willis of Seminole, Okla., early Wednesday night near the Wichita Falls State hospital. Both Miss Gilliam and Mr. Echols are nurses at the institution.

Mr. Willis carried the two injured persons to the hospital for treatment. He reported he was blinded by the lights of an approaching car and did not see the couple until within 10 feet of them. Hospital officials said apparently the accident was unavoidable.

Mr. Echols' injuries were not believed serious Wednesday night, but Miss Gilliam's condition is more critical from possible internal injuries, it was stated at the hospital. Miss Gilliam and Mr. Echols were walking along the highway at the time of the accident. There are no sidewalks in front of the institution.

McFarlane Has Bill To Curtail Lobbyists

AUSTIN, Jan. 9 (AP)—Declaring that lobbyists are becoming more numerous and that present laws are inadequate, Senator W. D. McFarlane of Graham today introduced a bill to curb their activities.

The bill would require the treasurer of all lobying organizations to file under oath a statement of his expenses and disbursements, including names of persons involved and force lobbyists to file certain other information with the secretary of state.

CONSERVATORY NAMES BOARD

Advisors of New Wichita Institution Announced

Formation of the advisory board of the Wichita Falls Conservatory of Music was completed Wednesday, according to an announcement made by officials of the institution.

The board includes W. B. Hamilton, Burton Stayton, Orville Bullington, Ed Howard, R. O. Harvey and W. M. McGregor of Wichita Falls and Andy M. Bourland of Vernon, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. A special meeting of the board will be called within a short time, according to the statement.

The conservatory was opened here Jan. 1 by Miss Dorothy Greathouse, grand opera and concert singer, with plans to provide a complete musical education for students of this section. Miss Greathouse selected Wichita Falls for the conservatory after more than a year of concert work in the southwest. Miss Kathryn Orr, her accompanist for six years in national concerts, is associated with her in the conservatory here.

Governor Fails to Sign Young Son's Commission

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. (UP)—Dan Moody Jr., born on Jan. 6, was today by resolution elected mascot of the state senate. He was also appointed a lieutenant colonel on the governor's staff but the governor has failed to sign his commission.

Frisco Extensions Will Alter Rail Transportation of Whole Southwest

Special to The Record News

SEYMOUR, Texas, Jan. 9.—The proposed Frisco railroad extensions from Seymour north to Vernon and from Seymour west to Paducah will not only be of outstanding benefit to West Texas in general but will change up railroad traffic and travel over a large territory. The extensions will result in diverting a large amount of freight from northern points, including Oklahoma City and Kansas City to the Fort Worth and Dallas markets, Seymour business men said today.

The proposed extensions will, in fact, change in a large measure the railroad situation of the Southwest and bring to Texas markets the benefits which have not heretofore been possible.

The Frisco has purchased the Gulf, Texas and Western railroad formerly owned by J. J. Jermyn and associates. Announcements of the two proposed extensions came from Austin, where the attorney general granted the two roads per-

Braniff Air Lines and Wichita Firm Join in Route Across Two States

Wichita Falls will be the hub of operations for co-ordinated air passenger service by the Paul Braniff lines from Oklahoma City and Tulsa to Fort Worth and Dallas and by the Lone Star Aviation company from this city to Abilene and San Angelo, according to plans announced by Mr. Braniff Wednesday night.

Announcement was made Tuesday of Mr. Braniff's plan to open before Feb. 1 an extension of his present Tulsa-Oklahoma City airline service to Fort Worth and Dallas by way of Wichita Falls. Notable features of the plan included the scheduling of two planes each way daily through this city, the announcement that arrangements have been made with leading hotels in the five cities involved to make bookings for the airline, and the statement that a taxicab company in each city has been secured to carry air passengers to and from the landing fields, which service is included in the transportation ticket.

Arrangements for the co-ordination of service by the line announced by Mr. Braniff and that of

BEWITCHED BOY FOUND GUILTY BY YORK JURY

Punishment Considered As Light in View of City's Prejudices

YOUTH FEELS BETTER

John Curry Goes on Trial Today for Slaying Of Aged Conjuror

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY

YORK, Pa., Jan. 9. (UP)—John Blymyre, the lad who thought he was bewitched, was convicted tonight of first degree murder and ordered sentenced to life imprisonment because he and two companions killed Nelson Rehmeyer, 59-year-old conjuror.

The jury deliberated an hour and 20 minutes, took three ballots and on the third had formed an undivided opinion that Blymyre, witches or no witches, must suffer for his crime.

York does not approve generally of the death penalty so the verdict constituted in actuality the heaviest penalty which could be expected.

Blymyre Happy

Blymyer was only slightly affected.

"They went a little heavy" he said after court adjourned, "but I feel a lot better. I'm much happier. The spell is off of me. I'm not bewitched any more."

Enjoying his freedom from the sinister charms of the evil spirits he was led back to jail by his guard.

On demand of Herbert Cohen, Blymyer's counsel, the jury was polled. Each member affirmed that he was in accord with the verdict.

Cohen then filed formal notice of appeal and sentence was postponed for four days. Cohen said later he desired time for consideration before he could say definitely whether he would go through with the appeal or not.

Curry on Trial Today

The proceedings were over within 15 minutes. Only a handful of people were in court. None of the members of the Blymyer family or the Hess family were present to hear the verdict.

Thursday morning at 9:30 John Curry, second of the bewitched trio, will go to trial for Rehmeyer's murder.

Blymyer's testimony was the high spot of the afternoon session he spoke with some animation, and with emphasis at times, but never once did the slightest sign come into his face that he realized he was co-

Newt Byrnes Must Die, Says Governor Moody

AUSTIN, Jan. 9 (INS)—No clemency will be given Floyd Newton Byrnes, scheduled to die in the electric chair at Huntsville Friday for the murder of Myrna Juergens, 12, her mother, and grandmother, Mrs. Rose Schirra, Gov. Dan Moody said today.

The victims were slain with a hatchet at the family home at San Angelo where Byrnes was employed as a chauffer. He confessed the crimes.

Navarro County May Be Reimbursed $30,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Representative Johnson, Democrat, Texas, introduced a bill today to provide $30,000 to reimburse Navarro county, Texas, for the destruction of two bridges by federal authorities. The bridges, one at Porter's Bluff and the other at Akers Ferry, would be rebuilt on the same sites under the measure.

Woman Blinded by Drink Aided Dry Investigation

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Thelma Sanford, who became blind after an alleged drinking party Sunday, was revealed by police today as Thelma McDaniels, who with her sister Marguerite, aided United States customs agents in Arizona and New Mexico where they investigated alleged illicit liquor traffic.

Sleep Talking Fails To Indict Girl in Slaying

DEL RIO, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—The Val Verde county grand jury adjourned here today without bringing indictments in the slaying of an unidentified aged woman, although officers thought testimony from a girl in her teens, who talked in her sleep, might aid in the solution.

JOHN BLYMYRE FOUND GUILTY

Pow Wow Doctor Gets Life Sentence

gaged in anything more than an academic discussion of a perfectly common occurence. Dressed neatly in grey, his hair brushed back, he was entirely at ease.

Knows His Goblins

His confidence in witches was amazing. He had been pow-wowed many times. He knew lots about goblins and the like. One could fairly hear the swish of broomsticks and the shrill of their aerie riders as he talked.

He had become sick. He could not sleep. He lost weight. So he consulted one witch doctor after another.

Finally, Mrs. Noll, a famous practitioner of black arts, an old woman who looks the part, had him put a dollar bill in the palm of his hand. She removed it and there in his hand was a picture of Nelson Rehmeyer. He knew, of course, right then, that Nelson Rehmeyer, was bewitching him.

Families Join

So, he said, Mrs. Noll told him to get a lock of Nelson Rehmeyer's hair and bury it eight feet in the ground. The the Hess's told him of their predicament and Mrs. Noll told him that Rehmeyer had bewitched the Hess family too. They joined causes, for a consideration of $10 paid by Mrs. Hess to Blymyer.

Then came the attack upon Rehmeyer. It was first planned for Monday of Thanksgiving week. He and John Curry went that night to the Rehmeyer home and spent the night there. But big, black Nelson Rehmeyer looked too strong and they did nothing. The next night they returned with Wilbert Hess to help them. Blymyer and Curry leaped on Rehmeyer as he was laying wood on the hearth to brighten up the fire. There was a terrific struggle. Fists, clubs, and chairs flew.

"I pounded him many times with my fists," said Blymyer, "but when I swung a chair at him I missed."

Lock Not Taken

Finally Rehmeyer went down for the last time. He was dead.

"We didn't take a lock of hair because he was dead and he would be buried with his head eight feet deep so it wasn't necessary," said Blymyer, without indicating there was the slightest thing strange about what he said.

They searched the house for a copy of that much revered text book of black art, "The Long Lost Friend."

At last, they took the money and left.

Blymyer told of having seen witches and the like many times in his career. His faith in them was not to be questioned.

He quickly told the court that if he thought the judge bewitched him it would be perfectly right for him to kill the judge or to kill anyone, even his father, in like circumstances.

"How does it feel to be bewitched?" he was asked.

"Why you lose weight, cannot eat or sleep and are nervous," he said. "You are dying."

"When Rehmeyer's head was buried eight feet deep did you feel better?"

"Oh, yes," he responded almost eagerly. "Much better. I can eat and sleep and I'm feeling fine. The spell is gone now, and I can't be bewitched again. Mrs. Noll told me that when a man is once bewitched and the spell lifted he can never be bewitched again."

Lumberman's Short Course Is Planned

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—A lumberman's short course is to be held at the A. and M. college of Texas Feb. 18-19, according to the announcement made after a recent conference here between a committe of the Lumbermen's association of Texas and officials of various departments of the college.

It was pointed out at the conference that a need exists on the part of the lumber dealers and the farmers for more exact information regarding suitable plans for poultry, hog and dairy barns, practical plans for remodeling farm dwellings, especially kitchens, and regarding such miscellaneous matters as sanitation, painting and wood preservation and methods of financing farm buildings. Such subjects will come in for discussion at the forthcoming short course by authorities of the college.

E. P. Hunter, Waco, presided at the conference at which plans for the February short course were discussed.

Hog Production Record Broken

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 9. (AP)—A new world's record in hog production has been established by A. T. Quicksall of Ames, Coryell county, with a seven pig litter of Poland China hogs that in 180 days were brought to an average of 390 4-7 pounds, E. R. Eudaly, swine specialist of the Extension service, A. and M. college of Texas, has announced.

The previous record for highes' average was held by a Kentuckian with a litter averaging 360 pounds.

Quicksall's litter entered in the Texas ton litter contest conducted by the extension service in cooperation with the Progressive Farmer Dallas, was handled under the supervision of the Coryell county agent, E. T. Nagle.

Cost of production was 7.6 per pound. Weight of the heaviest pig in the litter was 420 pounds and the lightest weighed 366 pounds.

Borger Officials Put Ban on Speedsters

BORGER, Texas, Jan. 9. (UP)—Speeders will have to put up $25 cash bond or go to jail until their case is called in corporation court.

Chief of Police John W. Crabtree, after a conference with Judge W. C. Witcher and Mayor Glenn A. Pace, announces that hereafter all persons caught exceeding the city speed regulations will have to post $25 for their appearance in police court.

Five Held for Kidnaping of Ohio Child

WOOSTER, Ohio, Jan. 9. (UP)—Indictments were returned today against five members of the family of Elias Arnold, Orrville, charging them with child stealing in the kidnaping of 4-year-old Melvin Horst.

Ashes of what appeared to be human bones were found in the home of Elias Arnold at Orrville, Ohio, who is one of five persons held for the kidnaping of 4-year-old Melvin Horst, upper center. The five accused persons are Arnold, upper left, Mrs. Bascom McHenry, Arnold's daughter, upper right, Arthur and William, his sons, lower left, and center and Bascom McHenry, son-in-law, lower right. All admitted their dislike for Roy Horst, town marshal, and uncle of the missing boy. Horst had arrested some of the Arnolds on liquor charges.

TRIBUTE PAID TO RICKARD

Promoter Buried After Impressive Rites

Berlenbach, Billy Gibson, Jimmy Johnston, Leo Flynn, Jimmy McLarnin, Max Schmeling. It was as though the sports pages had been stripped of names and faces and these transferred to Madison Square garden.

Gallery Gods There

And upstairs, near the rafters, where they always sat, the "gallery gods" looked down upon the scene; the unknown multitude which had made up a majority of the attendance at the promoter's shows, looking down now in silence, seeing the mortal Rickard for the last time until the lid was fastened upon the bronze and silver casket, and the funeral services began.

Dr. George Caleb Moor, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church mounted a little rostrum set among the palms and offered prayer. The garden band, accustomed to the blaring syncopation of circus tunes, played softly: "Lead, Kindly Light." Others spoke briefly.

The funeral cortege to Woodlawn cemetery where Rickard was buried this afternoon, was impressive in its ostentation, but lacked the touch of real feeling apparent to the least sensitive in the services at the garden. Tex was buried near the grave of his second wife, whom he had married in 1909 in San Francisco His first wife lies in Henrietta, Texas. She died three weeks after the birth of an infant son who also is buried in the little Texas town. Few knew of this early romance in Rickard's life and its sad ending Few knew that this was why he handed in his marshal's star and set out for the north, back in 1895.

Tennessee Posse Hunts Attacker of Five Women

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 9. (UP)—A score of policemen and deputy sheriffs and approximately 100 citizens searched the outskirts of Memphis late today for a negro who attempted to attack five white women in the past 10 days.

A negro believed to be the fugitive was shot and wounded today by Miss Dollie Bernard, 22, after he had approached and insulted her, she reported.

Funeral services for Conley Russell Gibson, 2½ years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gibson, 2127 Polk street, who died in a local hospital Tuesday night at 9 o'clock will be conducted from the Floral Heights Methodist church Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock with Rev. E. R. Barcus officiating. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

The little boy is survived by his parents and his grandmother, Mrs. R. L. Evans.

J. J. MORAN

The body of J. J. Moran, 40, of Childress, who died in a local hospital at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, was forwarded to Milan, Mo., for burial Wednesday night by the Hines mortuary. Mrs. Moran and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Gorman of Wichita Falls accompanied the body.

GALVESTON, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—Exports from the ports of the Galveston district for October, 1928, amounted to $99,728,870, customs statistics show, running ahead of the same month of 1927 by about $12,000,000. Cotton shipping totaled over $85,000,00 of the total, other commodities including wheat, cotton seed cake, oil, sulphur and metals.

First Ordination Of Priest at Houston

HOUSTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—When Joceph Mary Rick was ordained a priest of the Roman Catholic church here recently it was the first time that a priesthood ordination ceremony had ever been conducted in Houston.

The impressive services were held in Sacred Heart church here rather than in the seminary at La Porte or the Galveston cathedral because Father Rick was born and reared in Houston and his family still resided in this city.

Father Rick is 28 years old. After obtaining his primary education in schools here he went to Notre Dame where he studied mechanical engineering for two years. He then began his preparation for the priesthood which extended over 10 years.

What a funny way to escape a COLD

Prevent a cold by rinsing the hands with Listerine before each meal? Sounds strange doesn't it? Not when you know the facts, however.

During the day your hands accumulate germs. Ordinary washing with soap and water doesn't destroy them. So, carried to the mouth on food, they develop, attacking the mucous membrane. A cold or sore throat or both frequently follows.

Full strength Listerine, is powerful against germs—kills most varieties in 15 seconds. Therefore its use on the hands before each meal is simply another wise precaution against colds and sore throat. Mothers handling children's food should particularly bear this in mind. Write for our great free book, "Personal Hygiene." Address Dept. S. 37, Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

And for SORE THROAT

Listerine built its reputation on its ability to quickly check sore throat which is also caused by germs. At the first symptom of trouble, gargle with it full strength. Repeat the treatment frequently.

Holder of Lancaster, a leader in the campaign to elect W. S. Barron, Bryan, speaker. The money bills were introduced in the senate shortly after it convened yesterday and Lieut. Gov. Miller said he would make every effort to get them passed during the regular session.

Hospital Funds

The first bill introduced in the house carried an emergency clause providing for appropriations for construction of new buildings at the Rusk and Wichita Falls state hospitals. For the year ending Aug. 31, 1930 and the following 12-month period, $85,000 was asked for two new buildings and equipment at the former institution. Representatives Rolland Bradley and R. E. Morse of Houston, who framed the measure, asked $125,000 annually for the same two year period for two new structures and equipment at the Wichita Falls hospital.

Then followed a succession of other bills, ranging from repeal of university land mineral leasing laws to creation of a water control and improvement district in Hidalgo county.

Four Cent Gas Tax

Two revenue measures introduced by Rep. Tillotson, Sealy, provided for a tax of four cents a gallon on gasoline and collection of a tax on business vehicles operating for hire as common carriers equal to two per cent of gross receipts.

That certain members of the house planned to renew their fight for the licensing and bonding of real estate brokers, agents and salesmen was seen in a bill introduced by Representatives Kemble, Morse and B. E. Quinn of Beaumont.

A state board of pharmacy of six members to be appointed by the governor would be created under a bill introduced by Representatives R. L. Reader of San Antonio, E. D. Dunlap of Kingsville, J. R. Long of Wichita Falls and Paul Finn of Sunset. It calls for examination of applicants for a pharmacist license twice each year and at special examinations held at the discretion of the board.

Appointment to state service on the basis of merit determined by examination, a measure which passed the house during the last legislature only to be defeated in the senate, was advocated in a bill by Rep. Williams of Austin in line with Governor Moody's request for such legislation.

Staley Aids Colored Institution At Gilmer

Two hundred pair of girls' shoes and $500 were given to the Dixon Colored orphanage at Gilmer, Texas, Wednesday by J. I Staley, president of the Petrolia Supply company here, it was announced by leaders of the orphanage.

The enrollment of the orphanage is 308. The institution was served with buffalo meat furnished by Mr. Staley during Christmas week.

Gen. Booth Ready To Relinquish His Rule

LONDON, Jan. 9. (UP)—The London Daily Mail said tonight that it had learned Gen. W. Bramwell Booth's communication to the Salvation Army high council today announced that he was ready to place administration of the army in the hands of a council.

The Daily Mail said that General Booth acted to forestall efforts of the council to depose him from his post as commander-in-chief.

He appointed a council to administer affairs of the army until he recovers his health, the newspaper said it understood.

mission to change their charters allowing construction of the new lines.

The Vernon extension will connect with the main line of the Frisco at that point and thus direct touch with Oklahoma City and Kansas City rail facilities will be opened for Forth Worth and Dallas through Seymour.

The extension to Paducah will open direct communication with the heart of the South Plains and form an easy and direct route for shipment of livestock and agricultural products to Fort Worth, Dallas and other Texas markets.

Seymour will occupy a most enviable position in the new transportation alignment, leaders here declare. This city will become the gateway of the vast shipping facilities to be opened and following closely on the heels of an extensive building movement, the new railroad projects are expected to materially increase the population.

WATER RIGHTS BILL IS GIVEN

Senator Woodward Introduces Measure

AUSTIN, Jan. 9 (AP)—A bill to fix a state policy assuring the state and its divisions priority over power companies on water rights was introduced in the senate today by Senator Walter C. Woodward.

The bill would give the state or a municipility right to appropriate all the water in any stream for municipal, domestic or irrigation purposes regardless of previous contracts or laws.

Senator Woodward's bill was one of three on the water power problem which had been drafted and the first submitted. Senator Woodward asserted that his measure had the support of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and was the only one prepared which adequately safeguarded the citizens' water rights.

He was appointed a member of a committee to meet tomorrow to consider the merits of the three proposals and compose their differences, but he said he had never been notified of his appointment and expressed the opinion that the committee was "stacked." He said that he did not plan to withdraw his bill, substitute it or amend it regardless of committee decisions.

One of the other measures is called the attorney general's bill. It was drafted by C. W. Trueheart, assistant attorney general, Senator Woodward said. The committee tomorrow probably will decide who will introduce it.

The third bill was said to have been drafted by Ireland Hampton, attorney for the Tarrant county water district and other interests.

Manager of Iowa Park Store Weds in St. Louis

Special to The Record News

IOWA PARK, Texas, Jan. 9.—Friends of Charlie Middleton, assistant manager of Saul's store at Iowa Park, have received announcement of his marriage in St. Louis to Miss Marie Hogan of that city. The wedding ceremony was read by the Rev. Dr. Thaddock of the Centenary Methodist church.

This is a culmination of a romance that started a year ago when Mr. Middleton was employed by Rice-Stix of St. Louis. Miss Hogan was also employed by them as a model in the read-to-wear department and it was there that they met. Miss Hogan is a native of St. Louis, having been born and reared in the city. Mr. Middleton is from Jackson, Miss., and is a graduate of the University of Mississippi of the class of '27.

Mr. Middleton has lived at Iowa Park only a few months, but he has made many friends here, who will be glad to welcome him and his bride as residents of Iowa Park.

Week's Flu Death Toll Reported at 3,598

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (INS)—Revised figures for 67 principal cities showed 3,598 influenza and pneumonia deaths for the week ending Jan. 5, as compared to 2,785 the week before, the census bureau announced today.

Pneumonia accounted for 2,282 deaths, a gain of more than 400, while there were 1,316 influenza deaths, a gain of nearly 400 from the week before.

Woodward Proposes Abolition of Fees

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. (INS)—Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, introduced a number of bills in the senate today, proposing the abolition of the fee system of compensating justices of the peace. Under Woodward's bill, justices of the peace would receive the same remuneration regardless of whether a verdict of conviction or acquittal was returned.

Paraguay President To Demobolize Army

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Jan. 9. (AP)—It was formally announced today that President Guggiari tomorrow will sign a decree demobilizing the troops who were called to the colors when the dispute with Bolivia became acute.

CULVER CITY RESIDENTS AFTER FATTY ARBUCKLE

CULVER CITY, Calif., Jan. 9. (INS)—Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, former film comedian, today was cited to appear before the city council here following complaints that his night club should be abated because of the noise in the early morning hours.

Residents in the neighborhood of the resort declared that they could not sleep at night because of the loud clamor at the resort, which they termed a public nuisance.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By RUTH WAITE

Every woman with gray, faded or streaked hair is entitled to do something about it, for it is every woman's birthright to retain her youthfulness and charm as long as she can. When a woman mentions gray hair to me, I don't hesitate to advise the use of a restorer and I recommend sage tea and sulphur.

A brew of common garden sage, when properly combined with sulphur, restores gray hair to its original color, luster and beauty. So perfectly does it do the work that its use is undetectable. You may either prepare the mixture at home or buy it already prepared and ready to use. Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur is the name of the prepared article and it costs only 75c a bottle at druggists. Hence there's no need of your bothering to prepare the mixture yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, one strand at a time. The very first application banishes the gray and one or two more sees the hair beautifully restored to its original life and color. One would be surprised if she or he knew of the thousands who use this preparation.—Adv.

Altus Prisoner Pays Another's Fine And Exits as Sheriff Looks On

ALTUS, Okla., Jan. 9. (UP)—J. D. McAlexander, escaped convict of the Granite Reformatory school and a former inmate of the Jackson county jail here, was sought by officers today after securing his release in the presence of Sam Banks, new sheriff, yesterday.

McAlexander represented himself as another inmate of the jail, and paid a fine of $4 for a misdemeanor.

McAlexander was brought to Altus for safe keeping a few days ago from Seymour, Texas. He is wanted in several places on different charges, the chagrined Banks said.

ONE KILLED IN TRAIN CRASH

Ada, Okla., Youth Dies, Another May Lose Fight

ADA, Okla., Jan. 9. (AP)—One person was dead and five were in hospitals suffering serious injuries today as a result of a collision last night between a work train and a string of empty cars on the Oklahoma City, Ada and Atoka railroad near here.

George Carter, 19, of Ada, who received head injuries died today.

Little hope was held for the recovery of John Tinner of Stratford, cousin of Carter, who suffered internal injuries.

The work train, containing members of a gang, was on its way into Ada. Three victims were taken from under the locomotive while others were caught between cars.

License Fees for Radio Stations Are Favored

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Chairman Robinson of the federal radio commission told the house merchant marine committee today that he favored imposition of substantial license fees on broadcasting stations. He appeared for questioning during consideration of the White bill to continue the life of the radio commission for another year.

BULL FIGHTS ARE DOOMED SAY MEXICAN AUTHORITIES

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 9. (AP)—The newspaper El Continental predicts today that bull fights will soon disappear in Mexico City on account of heavy taxes recently imposed on them by the government.

The new regulations impose a 25 per cent "cut" of the gross income as a tax to the federal government.

The paper says the next bull fight, scheduled in Mexico City for Jan. 13 will be the last in the capital.

BALCONY CRASHES

GALESBURG, Ill., Jan. 9. (INS)—A score of persons were being treated here today for injuries sustained when a balcony in St. Alban's gymnasium at Knoxville, near here, collapsed during a basket ball game.

Those who seek them out will find many an unusual value at P B. M. company during the January sale. Visit every department.—Adv.

Liquor Smuggling Effects 'Thought'

OTTAWA, Jan. 9. (AP)—A joint committee appointed by the International Anti-Smuggling conference issued a statement today saying that importation of liquor to the United States from Canada was increasing and that the increase was having an important psychological effect on inhabitants of the states.

The psychological importance of the increase was seen by the committee in the fact that the amount of liquor being imported to the United States might lead the public of that country to believe that authentic Canadian liquor supplies were available.

'Human' Bones Prove To Be 'Bear' For Cops

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 9. (UP)—When police discovered what was believed to be a pair of human hands and feet on a city dump here yesterday, there was much excitement. Today it became known that the articles were the paws of a bear discarded by a taxidermist. Officers had little to say.

Rivals in Love Fight Over Girl; One Killed

Before Baby Comes
Get this book FREE

MOTHER'S FRIEND is a comfort to expectant mothers. Externally applied it relieves prenatal distress by relaxing tight tissues and muscles. And it is so soothing. Its daily use makes the skin soft and pliable.

"I was in labor only 25 minutes with my last child, but suffered agonies with three previous children," writes an enthusiastic mother who used "Mother's Friend."

Right now, from this day on, and right up to the day your baby is born, "Mother's Friend" should be used. All drug stores sell Mother's Friend. Begin now and you will realize the wisdom of doing so as the weeks roll by!

CUNNING FROCK FOR YOUNGSTER

Frocks for little tots are very simple, yet show quite a bit of chic. Design 1312 boasts cunning collar, cuffs and tab fashioned of plain color linen or pique that contrasts nicely with the gayly patterned percale used for the frock itself. Note the inverted pleats that run from shoulder to hem, affording graceful fullness to the dress.

Bloomers and frock may be made of any cotton material, such as gingham, percale dimity or rayon as these fabrics launder well and are always fresh and crisp looking. Three tiny buttons add a dainty touch.

May be obtained only in sizes 2, 4 and 6.

Size 4 requires 2¼ yards 36-inch material and one-third yard trimming.

This model is easy to make. No dressmaking experience is necessary. Each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions, including yardage for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of 15 cents in coins carefully wrapped. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our latest fashion book will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents in coin. Address all mail and order to Record News Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th street, New York City.

School and College News

General points of interest pertaining to the Boulder dam project were given a thorough discussion at the weekly meeting of the Junior college senate Tuesday night in the little auditorium of the college building.

A. F. Edwards, sponsor of the organization, presented a list of five questions on the bill and each were discussed to the fullest extent by senators of the local organization. The five major points under discussion were: Origin of bill, states involved, question of private and government ownership, uses to be made of the dam, and the two great objections to the bill.

Installation of officers that were elected at the last session of the organization took place, with Curtis Cook in charge of the ceremony. Officers installed included Richard Long, president; Arvil Davis, vice president; Bonnie Holmgren, secretary-treasurer; Frank Ward, critic, and Curtis Cook, retiring president, sergeant-at-arms. All officers installed will hold office during the ensuing six weeks period.

Pep speeches in regard to club activity featured the semi-monthly meeting of the Junior college French club Wednesday morning during the 30-minute period. Plans were also made for a club banquet. Arrangements were left to a social committee that was appointed by Gaylord Giles, president. The committee consists of Wilma Thomas, Lela Belle Jenkins and Ray Hulan.

A vacancy that now exists in the office of vice president will be filled at the next meeting. A special nominating committee was also appointed by the president, including Lloyd Wyatt, Jane Cameron and Mary Louise Clark.

"French Cities" was the subject of an interesting talk by Bernice Jeter. As a special musical number on the program, Loneta Smith, one of the Faith City Melody Maids of the college, presented "D'on Viens-tu Bergere."

First prize for the short story contest that was recently conducted by the Wichitan has been awarded Grace Ponder. The prize consisted of $1 in cash and publication of the story in the school newspaper. The title of the story was "God's Little Fixer."

Second place in the contest was won by Constance Castile, with the story "The City With a Soul." The second price consisted of an award of 50 cents and publication in the paper.

Third prize was awarded to Elizabeth Beumler, who contributed "A Diamond Set in Black." Honorable mention was also given to Jim Tom Barton's story entitled, "Turkey Day Dreams."

Shoes and silks, bags and bloomers, coats and cravats and many another thing at savings in P. B. M.'s January sale, now on.—Adv.

PADUCAH MEN DENY CHARGES

Wilson Brothers to Wait Jury Action Here

Roy and Lawrence Wilson, brothers, arrested in Paducah on a federal warrant charging obstruction of justice through a conspiracy to kill a government witness, will probably be held in the Wichita county jail awaiting the action of an Arkansas grand jury, J. A. Lantz United States commissioner, said Wednesday afternoon.

The two youths, 23 and 19, are held in connection with the fatal shooting in March, 1927, of James A. Cary, special officer in the Hot Springs national park.

The body of the officer is reported to have been found upon the side of a mountain in the park. The shooting is believed to have developed in connection with his effort to convict alleged liquor runners.

Four other men, besides the Wilson brothers, are under the same charges, it is understood here. According to Roy Wilson, 19, the two were held in jail in Arkansas for 35 days immediately after the shooting but were released without ever having been tried. Both of the men deny the charges.

They were rearrested Monday night in a village between Childress and Paducah by Sheriff A. A. Payne of Paducah. Charges were filed here before Mr. Lantz and the bonds set at $7,500. The two will be removed to the Arkansas district upon the order of the federal court. They will probably stay here until the Hot Springs grand jury has acted, it was explained.

Will of Abe Marcus Filed for Probate

M. A. (Abe) Marcus, well known Wichitan who died here several weeks ago, left one half of his estate to his two sons and the remainder to his wife, according to the will filed with Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk. An even one-fourth of all the estate, real and personal, was assigned to each of the sons, Benjamin Elteison Marcus and Mark Marcus. Mrs. Marcus was made sole executrix of the estate.

Mother Who Lets Her Daughter Support Lazy Son Given Advice

Injustice of Making a Daughter Work to Support Her Brother—Why Family Generosity Fails If Tempered With Reproach—Work Before Marriage.

Dear Miss Dix—I have a brother who is a big, husky, young man, in perfect health, who has not done a lick of work in five years. My mother supports him in idleness on the money that my father and I earn. It takes every cent that we make to run the house. When I come home from work, my mother demands that I help her with the housework, but she never asks my brother to do anything. Why is it that so much is expected from a girl? —A WORKING GIRL.

Answer: How a mother can sacrifice a daughter to a son, and force a girl to work to support an able-bodied boy, is one of the mysteries of the human heart that nobody can solve. Mothers are just made that way.

You would think that a mother, being herself a woman and knowing that a girl is of frailer physique than a boy and less able to stand the strain of standing all day behind a counter, or banging a typewriter, or running a machine, would be filled with such sympathy for her daughter that she would not only protect her in every way herself, but would teach her brothers that it was their duty to guard their sister and care for her and help her in every possible way.

You would think that the mother would pity the little young girl who had to go out in the world and earn her own living, and that when she came home she would coddle her and pet her, and that if there were any tasks to do around the house, she would make her sons do them and not her daughter.

Such is not the case, however. When either the sons or the daughters have to be sacrificed, mother offers up the daughters without a minute's compunction. In the great majority of households where the daughters and the sons both work, mother makes the girls turn over their pay envelopes intact to her, and she gives them back out of their earnings the least possible amount that they can do with for their lunches and spending money.

She does not dream of taking such a high-handed way with the boys. She takes what they choose to give her as board money, and boasts about what good and generous sons they are. She would not think of conscripting their entire wages as she does the girls.

She considers it nothing more than the girls' duty to give all they make for the general family support, but she thinks it all right for the boys to spend their money on their own pleasure.

Mother expects the girls to help with the housework, no matter how weary they are when they come home of an evening, but she doesn't expect the boys to do any household chores. They are tired, poor dears, and they must sit down and rest and smoke their cigarets, while Mamie and Sadie do the dishes and finish up with the cleaning and perhaps wash out brother's silk shirts.

If son is too lazy to work, mother thinks it is perfectly right for the girls to support him, and if they object, she throws up her hands in horror and wants to know how they can be so cruel and hard-hearted as to begrudge their own, dear brother the food he eats and the bed he sleeps in.

Of course, it is all wrong, from every point of view, but there is nothing you can do about it because no mother is amenable to reason where her son is concerned.

She can't see his faults. She considers that his laziness is perfectly justifiable, and that the reason he is always out of a job is because employers are so unsympathetic and heartless, and because he just never has found the particular thing that he liked to do. You couldn't convince her in a thousand years that it isn't honest, or fair, to slip him money to play pool that his poor little sister has earned with breaking back and weary feet.

When a girl has a lazy brother that her mother forces her to support, her only recourse is to leave home and take her pay envelope with her. Yet she can't do that because mother would starve if she had to depend on her prodigal son.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been married nearly nine years and love my husband very much, but he doesn't care a snap for my people. They are always wanting us for dinner on Sundays and holidays, and he simply refuses to go. If we don't go, there is a fight with them, and if I want to go there is a row with him. We have lived with them, off and on, since our marriage and when they get peeved with him they throw it up to him, and that is the reason he won't go. My husband is a poor man, but we are both satisfied, saving and trying to get a start in the world, but my family says he isn't treating me right by not getting me finery, so there is trouble about that. What shall I do? —CURLY.

Answer: Your problem is one of those that is hard to settle because both sides are right, and both are wrong. Evidently your people have been kind and generous to your husband in giving him a home when he needed one, but they have spoiled the flavor of their generosity by reproaching him with what they have done for him.

It is hard to feel grateful to those who twit you with what they have done for you, and who consider that they have a right to treat you with contempt because you have accepted help at their hands. So I don't blame your husband for not feeling very kindly toward your family and for not wanting to go to a place where he knows he will be insulted. Their bread must be bitter in his mouth.

Also, your people do very wrong in interfering in your affairs and trying to make you dissatisfied with what your husband can give you. Probably they don't intend it, but they have taken the surest way of alienating you and your husband from each other and breaking up your home.

The wise thing for you to do about that is to tell them that they must keep hands off and leave you and your husband to work out your own destiny in your own way. Also tell them that you will not listen to any further criticisms of him.

Your husband is wrong, though, in objecting to your going to your parents alone if he is not willing to go with you. And occasionally he might swallow his pride and go with you.

The best thing for you to do would be to move away as far as possible from your family, if it is possible to do so.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—My roommate and I are both sophomores in college. We are both engaged and expect to be married year after next. Our fiances will graduate this year. Now my roommate and I want to spend next year together and plan our homes and make our hope chests, but we must make our living. What can we do to earn money? We want to do something interesting.
—JANE AND JEANETTE.

Answer: It is not easy for an untrained girl to find something interesting and profitable to do, especially when she only expects to do it for a year. Employers want girls who already know their jobs, or who, at least, mean to continue at work long enough to pay for breaking them in.

Inasmuch as you are going to be married so soon, my advice to you is to take up some work that will help you to be more efficient wives. Every girl before she marries should take a course in domestic science and sewing and millinery, so as to know how to cook and make her own dresses and hats.
—DOROTHY DIX.

NON-STOP FLIGHT PLANNED

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 8. (UP)—A non-stop flight from New York to California is planned within the next two or three weeks for a new 20-passenger air liner which made its initial flight here yesterday. It is estimated the trip can be made in 24 hours.

Quick Relief From Neuralgic Pains

To relieve those aches and pains that accompany and follow bad colds, lagrippe and flu, such as headache, neuralgia, rheumatic pains and aching limbs and joints, nothing is so quickly and delightfully effective as Capudine. It quickly banishes the chilly sensations, allays the aches and pains and gives a feeling of comfort to the patient.

Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instantly,—much quicker than tablets and powders. It relieves pain by soothing the nerves and does not upset the stomach. For thirty years millions of people have found Capudine satisfactory,—a joy and comfort to everyone who suffers from pain. Sold by all druggists,—30c and 60c sizes, also trial size.—Adv.

Have You Got Catarrh?

Try Out Dr. Blosser's Medical Cigarettes for Next Attack

Nasal catarrh is not only disagreeable and offensive, but that inflamed condition of the mucous membranes of the air passages of the head, nose and throat may spread to the point where it is incurable and a danger to life.

Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes are composed of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries. The warm smoke vapor is inhaled into the affected air passages and will go where sprays, douches and salves cannot reach. They contain no tobacco or cubebs, and being harmless, are used by children, as well as adults.

If you suffer from any catarrhal trouble, catarrhal deafness, hoarseness, asthma, hayfever, bronchial irritations, or are subject to frequent colds, get a pocket-size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes, and prove for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effects.

MUSICIANS TO HOLD CONTESTS

Young Artists and Students Strive For Prizes

DALLAS, Jan. 9. (AP)—Details of the eighth biennial national contest for student and young artist musicians sponsored by the national federation of music clubs have been announced by Mrs. James L. Price, Dallas, in charge of the Texas division of the Lone Star district.

Contestants between 16 and 24 years will compete in the student musicians' division and those between 20 and 32 will take part in the young artist musicians state district and final contests. Student musicians may enter the following departments: Piano, violin, violoncello, organ, female voice and coloratura soprano, lyric soprano, dramatic soprano, mezzo soprano, tenor and baritone. Artist musicians are privileged to enter in piano, violin, female voice, coloratura soprano, lyric soprano, dramatic soprano, mezzo soprano, contralto, tenor, baritone and bass.

State contests will be held between Feb. 26 and May 6 in both divisions. District contests will be staged in 14 cities not later than May 20, rules of the contest specify.

Each state winner shall be presented with an embossed official certificate, signed by the state president and state chairman of contests. Each district and national winner will be given the same embossed certificate signed by the district president and national chairman. Additional prizes may be offered by states and districts as they may decide.

National awards for students include: piano, $200; violin, $200; violincello, $200; voice prize (women), $300; voice prize (men) $200; and organ prize, $300.

Artists musicians will be given two piano awards, one of $500 and the other $150; two violin prizes, $500 and $150, and prizes for the same amount for men and women's voices.

Rebels Killed When Federal Troops Attack

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 9. (AP)—Advices to the newspaper La Prensa from Aguas Calientes state that a number of rebels were killed when they were surprised by federal troops while tearing up a track over which the train to Juarez was to pass. The rest of the rebel band was dispersed.

A Guadalajara dispatch said that 10 rebels were killed in several battles in various parts of the state of Jalisco.

Terrell Explains Folly of High Auto Tax in Listing Needed Laws

License Too High and Gasoline Tax Should Finance Building of Roads, Commissioner Says

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. (AP)—State highways should be financed by a gasoline tax and not by registration fees or bond issues; the prison problem should be solved by concentration of a wide-spread farm system from which escapes have been frequent, and homes, farms and business property should be relieved from an inequality of taxes, George B. Terrell, commissioner of agriculture, said today in outlining his views on needed legislation in Texas.

Terrell lists as the chief problems confronting the 41st legislature those of highways, the state prison system, education, taxation and conservation.

"Present vehicle registration fees are too high and should be reduced," he said. "Funds from gasoline tax should go to highways and not be diverted to schools. I do not believe schools should suffer, but they can be supported by funds from the general revenue and other sources. If one-fourth of these funds continue to go to the school system, it will be necessary to levy a four cent tax on gasoline, but if all funds are devoted to roads, three cents will be sufficient."

County Builds Own Roads

State highways, Terrell believed, should be built and maintained by state and federal funds, leaving counties unhampered to build their own roads from county money. He would support a state bond issue sufficient to reimburse counties for funds expended on state highways spent in order to receive state and federal aid, but would oppose bond issues to build and maintain highways.

"I believe in paying as you go," Terrell stated. "It is a crime against taxpayers to compel them to pay millions of dollars in interest to bond holders when highways can be financed by a gasoline tax without paying interest on bonds for 30 or 40 years. The constitution should be amended to permit counties to levy sufficient road taxes to build and maintain county roads without resorting to bond issues which divert half the funds to bond holders instead of putting them into bonds.

Terrell believes the prison problem can be eliminated by abandoning farming operations on a large scale and concentrating the system where convicts would work within walls making articles that could be used by the state and which would not be placed on the open market.

"Law makers will not take any backward steps in considering education in Texas," Terrell predicted. 'Educational institutions will be cared for as usual."

Terrell believes the state board of education, created in obedience to adoption of the constitutional amendment, should be composed of the governor, comptroller, state superintendent of public instruction, the attorney general and the state treasurer.

Conservation Views

Speaking with regard to conservation, he said that "conservation of natural resources is one of the biggest problems yet unsolved." Mineral resources, he declared, are being exploited without just compensation to the state. Water power is being wasted by non use or exploited by the power trusts.

"The legislature should safeguard this great natural resource for the benefit of the public and see that our rights are never alienated. We tax oil, gasoline and sulphur and derive some benefits, but do not stop the waste. Our great timber resources have been used without compensation to the state, and the supply of commercial timber has been reduced to less than 15 per cent of the original supply.

"A tax should be levied on the remainder of the commercial timber cut and should be used by the state to buy cut-over lands to begin a system of reforestration and game preservations before all timber and game are destroyed. The state should purchase and own all game preserves and protect wild life for future generations."

Fees from timber cut, game and fish licenses and shell and gravel sold by the state would produce a splendid revenue, Terrell thinks, and would be sufficient to begin a comprehensive system of reforestation and game preservation, of paramount importance but long neglected.

Liberty Motor of War Time Would Be Barred

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Further army use of the Liberty motor product of the world war period, would be prohibited under an amendment approved by the house today to the army supply bill. The amendment was sponsored by Representative Laguardia, Republican New York, who contended this type was obsolete.

SENATE HEARS 25 NEW BILLS

Upper House Passes Busy One-Hour Session

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. (AP)—During the hour the senate was in session today, 25 or more bills were introduced and referred to committees, two addresses were heard, one or two additions to standing committees made, a few committees appointed, and several resolutions adopted.

A committee was appointed to arrange for memorial services for former Senators I. D. Fairchild of Lufkin and H. F. Triplett of Beaumont, who had died since the last legislature.

Another committee was named to serve with a committee from the house to canvass returns in the races for governor and lieutenant governor and arrange for the governor's inauguration Tuesday.

Jt. C. Burr, president of the Salesmanship club of Houston, invited the senators to the annual gridiron dinner to be sponsored by that club at Houston, Jan. 19. Free transportation will be provided the law-makers, Burr said.

Mrs. Helen B. Moore of Galveston, member of the house, was introduced by Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, and made a brief talk.

Senators Holbrook and Walter Woodul of Houston, introduced a bill which would permit Harris, Galveston and Brazoria counties to join other counties of the state in having the right to prevent livestock from running at large.

Texas Oil Worker Mysteriously Slain

McALLEN, Texas, Jan. 9. (INS)—C. P. Hammond, 50, former oil worker at Mirando City, is dead today from a head injury, mysteriously received while registered at a local hotel. Hammond registered Monday and the next morning was found under the bed with a head injury. He died last night.

Get Plenty of Sleep —May Prevent Flu

To guard against Flu be careful to get lots of sleep with at least one window part open. Keep away from crowds, drink lots of water and eat only good wholesome food. And MOST IMPORTANT be sure to keep the bowels open. The best intestinal cleanser is the simple glycerin, buckthorn bark, saline compound, known as Adlerika. This acts in ½ to 2 hours on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only.)

Adlerika often brings out foul matter which may have poisoned you for months and which you would never believe was in your system.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, well-known New York bacteriologist, after testing Adlerika on living subjects, reports: "Adlerika markedly reduces the number of bacteria and colon bacili, in addition to its intestinal cleansing action."

Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel! Just ONE spoonful gives wonderful relief in chronic constipation, GAS bloating, sour stomach and sick headache. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you.

It contains no aloes, calomel or senna, therefore acting without griping or discomfort of any kind. Adlerika is sold by leading druggists in tin-foiled bottles.—Adv.

Shortage Found In Banker's Account

RUSHVILLE, Mo., Jan. 9. (INS)—A shortage of $15,300 in the account of R. L. Brown, cashier of the Farmers' bank here, has been found, it was learned here today as state bank commissioners made reports to Jefferson City.

No charges have been filed against Brown, who, according to authorities, has admitted he was responsible for the shortage.

Some of the shortage was "covered" by false notes, the commissioners reported.

No details were given out.

Citizens in Uproar Over Vaccinations

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Jan. 9. (INS)—An organization of citizens today were preparing to bring injunction proceedings against the city board of health as the result of a row following the expulsion of students who would not submit to vaccination.

About one-third of the students enrolled in the public schools have remained away from classes since the vaccination order was instituted.

CRUISER BILL FOES SUBDUED

Opposition to Big Navy Melts Away

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (INS)—The great drive launched by Pacifist and church organizations against the pending cruiser bill, which will add 15 new cruisers to the navy, appeared today to have fizzled out.

After a full day of conferences and speechmaking, and the "button-holding" of numerous senators, the scores of delegates scattered to their homes today disappointed over the way the capital reacted to their suggestions.

Nearly a score of senators, both Republican and Democratic, were cross-questioned as to whether they intended to vote for the cruiser bill, and all replied that they did.

Officer and Mexican Wounded in Gun Fight

HOUSTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff J. E. Brown was wounded in the leg, and Jose Herrera, Mexican, was shot through the arm in a fight between two deputies and two Mexicans here today during a liquor raid in which two 50-gallon stills were seized by the officers.

LONDON, Jan. 9. (INS)—Thirty persons were injured in serious Agrarian riots in the city of Gifu, Japan, an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Tokio stated today.

Don't Neglect a Cold Now, Is Doctor's Advice

Don't neglect any cold nowadays. Colds are so weakening; and in a weakened condition, you are so susceptible to more serious troubles.

When you find you are catching cold, take care to keep the bowels open. That's the first precaution every doctor advises. That's the way to avoid the congestion which makes you feverish, achy, half-sick, miserable.

Millions know the quick way to open the bowels, keep them active, is with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup of Pepsin. Every second of the day someone, somewhere is going into a drugstore to get a bottle of this splendid medicine, made from simple laxative herbs and pepsin by the formula Doctor Caldwell found so effective during his 47 years' medical practice.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup of Pepsin is mild and gentle in its action but it is promptly effective on the most robust constitution. Containing neither narcotics or opiates, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it gladly.

For colds, fevers, biliousness, indigestion, headaches, heartburn, nausea, bad breath, loss of sleep—any troubles caused by poor digestion or faulty evacuation, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup of Pepsin will prove a blessing.

It's overwhelming success and popularity is based on real merit—on one satisfied user telling another. Your drugstore sells the generous bottles on a positive money-back guarantee to give satisfaction.—Adv.

"Pass me a Lucky - I pass up the sweets." Johnny Farrell

Johnny Farrell, National Open Golf Champion, 1928

WHEN fattening sweets tempt and you dread extra weight, light a Lucky instead. No discomfort, no trouble—just a common sense method of retaining a slender figure.

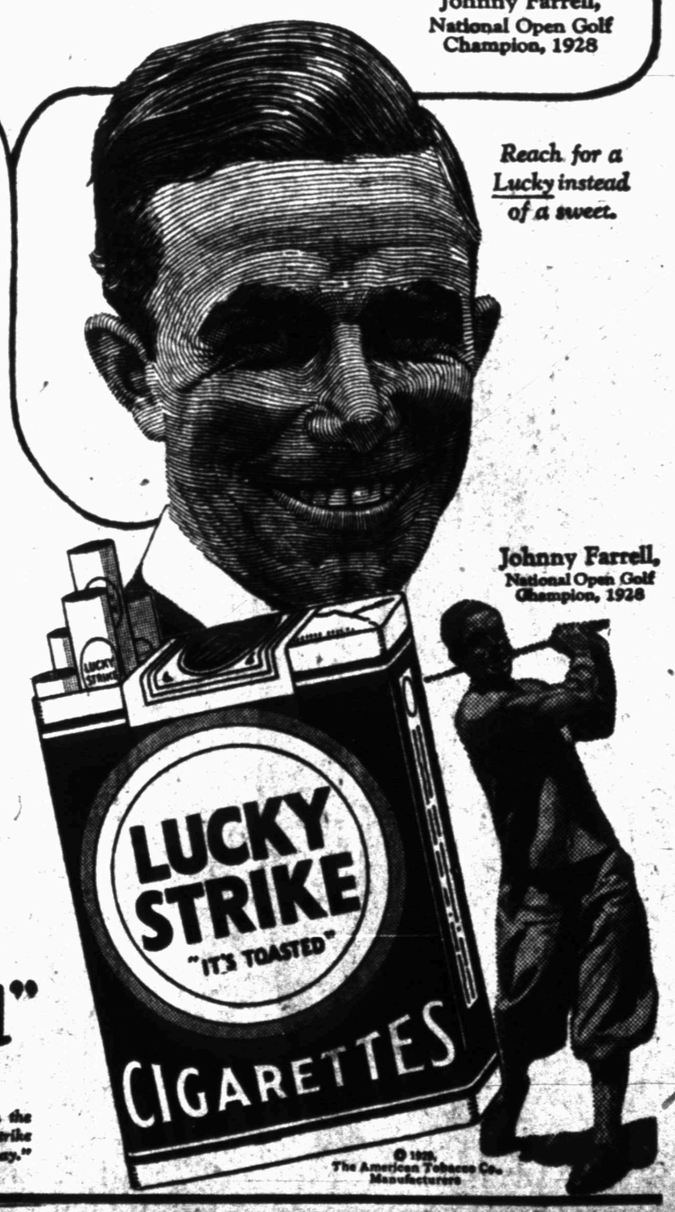

The finest tobaccos are skilfully blended to make Lucky Strike. Then, "It's Toasted." This secret process brings out every essence in the tobaccos and produces a flavor which makes Lucky Strike a delightful alternative when you crave fattening sweets—there is no interference with a natural appetite for healthful foods. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

At the same time toasting removes impurities. That's why 20,679 physicians are on record that Lucky Strike is less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why prominent athletes have testified that Luckies steady their nerves and do not impair their physical condition. No wonder that this was discovered long ago by many men, who pride themselves on keeping trim and fit, who love the "pep" that comes with health and vigor.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.

Chinese Indemnity Dispute Settled

HANGCHOW, China, Jan. 9. (AP)—A dispute between the Nanking government and the United States over administration of the returned Boxer indemnity funds which arose last July has been settled by a return to the former arrangement in accordance with the American contention.

Nanking's action last July in dismissing the entire personnel of the self-perpetuating Sino-American China foundation to administer the funds, an action regarded as violating the foundation's constitution, has been annulled, and the ousted personnel has been reelected.

The funds now amounting to an annual income of $12,000,000, are used for educational and cultural activities in China, grants being made to various Chinese educational institutions and for the support of Chinese students who study in the United States.

1500 Pay Tribute To Slain Dallas Boy

DALLAS, Jan. 9. Mann was buried with military honors. A police escort guarded the body.

Prison Price Fixing Bill Is Approved

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. (UP)—The conference report on the Hawes-Cooper bill designed to give states power to regulate sale of prison made goods within their boundaries was adopted late today by the senate. The purpose of the measure is to prevent competition between prison and free labor. It will become effective in five years if signed by the president.

EXTRA! CRIMES SHOCK CHICAGO

Usual Order for 'Clean-Up' Follows Murders

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (INS)—All branches of law enforcement in Chicago and Cook county were shocked today over two sensational shootings that seemed to scream defiance at the recently inaugurated drive of federal agents, state's attorneys and city police to "clean up Chicago."

The first shooting snuffed out the life of Pasqualino Lolordo, reputed successor to the leadership of the powerful North Side gang of bootleggers and racketeers formerly headed by Tony Lombardo, also assassinated.

Lolordo was slain late yesterday as he sat in his home drinking and talking with three unidentified guests. The slayers escaped.

A few hours after this slaying, Rocco Maggio, once convicted of murder, was sitting in his car in front of his home when another car sped by, one of the occupants firing at Maggio with a sawed-off shotgun. Maggio was seriously wounded, but is expected to recover.

New Discovery Is Triumph In Field Of Modern Chemistry

Science Proves That Good Health Is Largely Maintained by Three Great Mechanisms of the Human Body Which Can Be Stimulated and Invigorated by Certain Basic Elements--Science Succeeds In Combining These Elements In New and Revolutionary Formula--Over Two Years of Laboratory Research Required To Perfect It.

WE are living in an astounding age. An age of swift and steady improvement. In every field of Science investigators are constantly at work learning new things which increase the comfort, health or efficiency of mankind.

A hundred years ago, for example, man traveled by stage coach. Today, we have the airplane. This is in the field of mechanics. It has only to do with the machines. But, in a sense, biology, chemistry, physics — all branches of Science—have to do with parts of a machine. The earth revolving in its orbit, with all that it contains, is part of our solar system—one vast, divine machine.

Even the study of medicine, therefore, deals with a machine. It is concerned with the human body—the most intricate and wonderful machine in the world. How to keep it running smoothly year after year is the problem of Medical Science.

The problem requires knowledge of every part of the body and how each part must function to produce that balance of the entire machine which we call good health.

Medical Science, like all the rest, has not been idle. It has been attacking its problem, day and night, in every corner of the globe.

As Scientific Investigation discovers more and more about the human machine, the practice of medicine changes—the old is discarded for the new. A hundred years ago, they opened the veins of patients on the verge of collapse. Today, by transfusion, we put more blood in the veins. Fifty years ago, a patient with a dangerously high fever was wrapped in blankets. Today, such a patient is bathed in cold water or covered with ice packs. Ten years ago—five for that matter—we gave Calomel to stimulate the liver.

Today—we know that, contrary to the belief adhered to for many years, Calomel has no action on the liver or bile flow—and that it confines its action solely to the intestinal tract.

Thanks to scientific investigation, Yellow Fever has been conquered; Diabetes can be held in check indefinitely; Typhoid can be prevented; the mortality from Diphtheria has been greatly reduced. But these are all specific diseases with which comparatively few are afflicted.

Science Keeps Busy

What has Science learned that will bring relief to the countless thousands of half-sick, run-down, nervous and depressed men and women who are the victims of such troubles as biliousness, indigestion, constipation, acidosis, toxic poisoning, lack of vitality, high blood pressure, rheumatism, disturbed metabolism, etc.? What about them?

Within recent years Science has discovered that good health is largely maintained by three great mechanisms of the human machine, composed of certain organs and fluids, working in harmony together.

Furthermore—and this is most important—we have recently learned how to stimulate the action of the organs and fluids which comprise these three all-important mechanisms.

In making clear just what this means to the average man and woman it is necessary to describe these three mechanisms of the body and tell how Science learned to stimulate their action.

The first of these great mechanisms comprises the liver and gall bladder. Roughly speaking, the main function of the liver is to create bile. This has been known for more than a century. It was also known that bile was necessary to the process of digestion. But how all-important was the flow of bile into the digestive tract, authorities of twenty-five years ago did not even dream.

Advanced medical opinion now holds that bile is little short of a magic fluid. A life-sustaining essence which performs many vitally important functions, all of which are necessary to the delicate chemical balance which maintains metabolism in the human body.

We will discuss here only one of the functions of the bile—its part in the process of digestion—and show how we have gradually come to realize just what bile does toward the proper assimilation of food and the distressing symptoms which follow when the flow of bile is insufficient.

A New Discovery

For years, the majority of people have suffered with what is commonly known as stomach trouble. It was believed that when the digestive organs rebelled, the stomach itself was deranged. The stomach was dieted and dosed at frequent intervals. Authorities were greatly disturbed by what seemed to be the failure of the stomach of civilized man to adjust itself to modern conditions.

Meanwhile, Scientific Investigation was at work on the stomach. It studied that organ as only Science can. It found the stomach to be a bulky, muscular organ, quite simple in its construction, and not easily deranged. Its lining was a tough membrane that only in rare instances became infected. Furthermore, post mortem examinations revealed normal stomachs in many individuals who had suffered with "so-called" stomach troubles for years. "In most cases it is not the stomach," concluded the Investigators.

Then what is it? What was the cause of so much Indigestion, Bloating, Gas, Constipation, etc.?

Once more the Investigators went to work. They knew that bile was necessary to the process of digestion. They knew that bile was manufactured by the liver; that a small duct led from the gall bladder to the duodenum, or secondary stomach, and that when food was taken into the stomach, this duct opened and let bile into the duodenum.

Could the trouble be somewhere in the manufacture or flow of bile? It was. It took some years to prove it, but the result was beyond question.

Most of the "so-called" stomach trouble was not in the stomach at all. The liver, in most cases, was to blame. If the liver failed to manufacture enough bile, the gall bladder did not inject its contents into the duodenum in sufficient quantities for thorough digestion to take place.

The Investigators announced this discovery. They suggested that stimulation of the liver was necessary in the majority of cases of Indigestion. The medical world adopted the suggestion. Calomel was supposed to be the drug that could be relied upon to stimulate the liver and increase the flow of bile. Calomel was, therefore, given to men, women and children, year after year.

But stomach troubles did not lessen. In fact, they seemed on the increase. "Something wrong," said the Investigators. "Let's look into this Calomel business." They did. This is the astonishing conclusion that they reached:

Calomel has about as much effect on the liver and bile flow as essence tea.

Here are the recent words of an eminent authority on the subject: "Contrary to the belief adhered to for many years, Calomel has no action on the liver or bile flow. This belief existed and was based on the color of the stools after the administration of Calomel. It has, however, been thoroughly demonstrated that the characteristic greenish stools are colored by the Calomel itself and does not indicate the presence of bile."

The Problem Solved

But since Calomel would not stimulate the liver, what was to take its place? The problem was up to Science—and once more Science responded. Many drugs and combinations of drugs were tried by Investigators. At last they found what they wanted. It was a substance that could be taken in quantities, yet its effect on a sulky liver was magical. It is described by a recent International Authority as follows:

"The most powerful stimulant to the secretory activity of the liver which we possess."

It is, therefore, possible today to stimulate the flow of bile from the liver into the digestive tract and in this way to prevent or relieve most of the "so-called" stomach trouble which has been so prevalent in the past.

We now come to the second great mechanism of the human body which is all-important in keeping that machine running true and strong. Like bile, it is a fluid; and like bile, it is vital to human life. What has Science learned about this fluid recently that is of moment to the average man and woman?

The second great mechanism of the human body under discussion is the blood stream. The blood is a red fluid, circulating through the cavities of the heart, the arteries, capillaries and the veins. We all know that it carries oxygen and nutrition to the tissues throughout the body and that it contains red and white blood corpuscles.

But, here is something that all of us don't know about. It was discovered by patient Investigators after years of study and experiment. It is of tremendous importance to the general welfare of the body. It is called Haemoglobin.

Haemoglobin is found in and is a part of the red blood corpuscles. The chief function of the red blood corpuscle is to absorb oxygen from the air we breathe and convey it throughout the body. The Investigators learned that Haemoglobin is the oxygen-carrying agent in the red blood corpuscle. It was found to be plentiful in rich, healthy blood and diminished where the blood was in an impoverished condition.

Since Haemoglobin conveys oxygen throughout the body, an insufficient supply of it in the blood stream means that every cell, every tissue, every organ of the body is being partially smothered, resulting in the following symptoms:

Paleness of the Skin, Poor Circulation, Cold Hands and Feet, Susceptibility to Coughs, Colds and other Germ diseases, General Debility and Lack of Vigor. The condition is known to the medical profession as Simple Anaemia.

The discovery of Haemoglobin and its functions also revolutionized the old fashioned theories about "Impure Blood." For years, we thought that boils, pimples, etc., were caused by impure blood and have taken so-called "Blood Purifiers" to overcome such troubles.

There is no drug or medicine that is an effective blood purifier. Impoverished blood—lacking in Haemoglobin—was found to be low in anti-toxic (germ and poison combating) powers. Boils, pimples and various other skin eruptions are caused by an infectious germ lodging in the skin which the impoverished blood is unable to combat.

Having discovered Haemoglobin and learned of its importance to the blood stream, the Investigators attempted to find a method by which the supply of Haemoglobin could be increased. An Investigator found that Haemoglobin was largely composed of a certain mineral. He found that when this mineral was combined with a certain fruit juice it was more readily absorbed by the blood stream than in any other form and was highly effective in increasing Haemoglobin.

When this compound was given to pale, tired, listless people, suffering from impoverished blood, most of them showed remarkable improvement.

Amazing Discovery

The Endocryne glands comprise the third great mechanism of the body. It is only in recent years that the importance of these glands has been generally recognized. Certain discoveries made by a well known Investigator aroused the interest of the scientific world. From that time on Science has more than made up for its neglect of the glandular system in the past. The subject has become so important in recent times that many Investigators have been giving their entire attention to the glandular system alone.

Thanks to their investigations, we now know that the Endocryne glands affect mental as well as physical balance in the human machine—and that the chemicals which they distil and pour into the blood have so wide a mission that they make us active and ambitious or sluggish and inert; mentally alert and well poised, or dull and depressed.

Not only do the secretions of these glands affect every cell in the body, but they are apparently responsible for our temperament and outlook upon life. In other words—in matters of brain development and bodily growth, heart action and adjustments of the nervous system, these glands play a leading part.

Having learned this, Science further discovered that a single gland seemed to preside over and be intimately associated with the activity of all the others. If the secretion of this one particular gland was normal, this secretion helped them to perform their proper functions.

The Investigators analyzed the secretion of this primal gland. They found that it contained a certain chemical. They found that every cell in the body depended for its proper metabolic activity on this certain chemical.

It seemed probable, therefore, that the glandular system could be stimulated by the administration of this chemical. The Investigators tried it. The result was astonishing.

Given to The World

The knowledge of the effect of this chemical on the glandular system was then given to the world.

This is how we learned to stimulate the third great mechanism of the human machine and to aid it in maintaining its proper all-important functions.

It will be seen, from the foregoing, that we have not only learned of these three great mechanisms of the human body, but we have recently learned of three substances which will aid in stimulating or toning them up.

These substances are now being used with great success by the most advanced medical practitioners throughout the world. However, they are being given in separate prescriptions.

The head of a large medical laboratory, who knew of these recent discoveries, took thought one day.

"Why not combine these priceless elements into one formula and so arrive at one of the most effective stomachic, systemic and reconstructive tonics and invigorators the world has ever seen?"

He took a train to New York and put his idea before a celebrated chemist. The chemist shook his head. "I am afraid you are going to have trouble," he said, and went on to explain that when these substances were combined, certain chemical reactions would take place and that it would be difficult to hold them in solution.

The chemist also stated that he was not prepared to undertake the work and that it did not come under his particular branch of chemistry.

But the manufacturer was persistent. "Well, who, in your opinion, would be the best man in the country to try it?" he asked. Here, the chemist named the head of the department of pharmaceutical chemistry of one of the great universities of the Northwest.

Two days later, the manufacturer was explaining what he wanted to the distinguished Scientist mentioned by the New York chemist. This Scientist was tremendously interested from the beginning. He would not commit himself, however.

"I'll tell you what I'll do; I'll make some preliminary experiments and let you know," he said.

Formula Perfected

The manufacturer returned to his home. That was in 1925. The first experiments of the Scientist were disappointing. However, he continued his investigations. In 1927, some two years later, the manufacturer received the following message:

"Have just tested preparation combined eight months ago. It is in perfect solution. Formula and method at your disposal."

These few words meant that these basic elements, so important in modern medication, were now contained in one fluid with their respective health-giving properties unimpaired by chemical changes.

That, in brief, is the history of some of the steps taken by Science to combat the ordinary ills of the average man and woman. We have seen how these steps led to the discovery of three substances which stimulate three important mechanisms of the human machine.

A triumph in the field of pharmaceutical chemistry combined these three substances in one preparation. That preparation has been named Sargon. It has been given extensive clinical tests with highly gratifying results.

The most noticeable effects of Sargon are the result of its tonic properties. An increase of appetite and more perfect assimilation of food are usually noted, resulting in a sense of physical and mental well-being; a more alert mind and a more vigorous body. It naturally follows, therefore, that in most cases, sleep becomes more sound and restful, and the outlook upon life itself improves.

This improved mental and physical vigor is due to a restoration of the chemical balance of the body through stimulation of the organs and fluids described above by the combination of the three therapeutic agents which are the result of the last ten years of world-wide medical research.

The scientific discoveries leading up to Sargon have electrified the entire medical world. That Sargon itself is a great step forward along the path of maintaining health, vitality and a zest for life in the face of taxing modern conditions of living is proved by the following facts:

Sargon was first placed on sale, in various sections of the country, less than five months ago. The ordinary medicinal product is sold by the dozen. Wholesale dealers in the larger cities are now ordering Sargon in carload lots. In leading cities where it has been on sale three months or more, it has required an average of from 40,000 to 50,000 bottles to supply the unprecedented demand.

Sargon is being distributed throughout the United States and Canada. Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Spain and other countries as rapidly as possible. It is manufactured in one of the largest medical laboratories in America. It can now be obtained in Wichita Falls from the Renfro Drug Co. stores, Eighth and Scott avenue, and Seventh and Indiana.

Facts About Sargon

Sargon is a new medicinal tonic preparation, based on some of the recent knowledge of certain organs and fluids of the body gained by scientific investigation.

• • •

Introduced in the United States only a few months ago, Sargon has enjoyed an immediate and overwhelming success. People everywhere have been quick to recognize it as a new and epoch-making product. In each of the leading cities where it has been introduced, an average of 50,000 bottles has been required to supply the unprecedented demand, and wholesale druggists are purchasing it in carload lots.

• • •

Although some of the statements made in the Sargon advertising are contrary to general belief, they represent the findings of the greatest medical investigators of the world.

• • •

The reason for the present tremendous demand for Sargon is, briefly, this: It is the scientific answer to countless run-down debilitated people who require medicinal assistance in regaining good health in the face of modern trying conditions of living.

--the public now demands

375,000

Jars of Vicks daily

Compared with 1918, this epidemic, so far, is mild; and yet, in spite of vastly increased capacity, the Vicks Laboratories are once more operating night and day to meet the emergency demand for more and more Vicks VapoRub. Over 375,000 jars are now being produced daily.

approved method of using Vicks for FLU

1. AS A PREVENTIVE

Several times a day, insert Vicks up the nostrils. Also melt a little night and morning in a bowl of boiling water and inhale the steaming medicated vapors. This helps to ward off germ-infection.

2. IF A COLD STARTS

If possible, go home and go to bed. Take a laxative and a hot lemonade. Apply hot, wet towels over throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-covering loose, so that the vapors, released by the body-warmth, may be freely inhaled. At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice.

Repeat this treatment every four hours, eat lightly, and stay in bed until the cold is broken. Complete rest helps the body throw off the cold more quickly.

3. AFTER A FLU ATTACK

Physicians advise that the chief danger in this epidemic is after influenza. Then, more than ever, colds, attacking the weakened system, may lead to bronchitis, sinus-trouble or pneumonia. This is especially true of children or old folks.

Heed even the slightest cold as a danger signal. Vicks is especially valuable here, because it is applied externally, and so can be used freely, as often as needed, without upsetting delicate digestions, as too much "dosing" is so apt to do.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

(Copyright, 1928, by Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Broadway loungers got a thrill the other day at the corner of Reade street. Traffic had come to a halt. A red light showed to the north as well as the south. The sidewalks on both sides of the street were jammed with men, women and office boys.

Suddenly there was a peculiar sound. Pedestrians stopped in their tracks. Windows were raised. Motor car drivers only a few feet away looked surprised. One young man with a bowler hat and a red kerchief around his neck solved the mystery as to the source of the noise. He watched a horse that was hitched to a dray. Again the horse emitted a queer sound to those persons on Broadway.

"The horse must be sick," shouted a woman.

Not at all," replied a native New Yorker. He did not explain why the horse was not ill.

"You are all wrong," shouted the veteran from Kansas who had heard a horse neigh back on the farm. "It just means that he is feeling good," explained this white haired old man who confessed that although he had lived in New York more than 30 years it was the first time he remembered such an incident.

Broadway traffic again started and the horse disappeared.

The army officer who was in the army then and is still in the army now stood rather helplessly, if not nervously, in the mathematical center of Seventh avenue at 45th street as the theaters were letting their thousands out and the taxis were getting under their wildest way.

It was his first visit to New York since war days. He smiled and turning to his civilian companion, said:

"Ten years ago I could not have attempted to make a crossing here without having many automobiles, private ones, hail me and beg to take me wherever I wanted to go. Now, I can't even get across, and I can't get back to the other side before the lights change. No Man's Land again!"

◇ ◇ ◇

"I used to wonder what in the world a mirthless laugh could be," said Mrs. Bjones of Washington Heights.

"I'd read about such a thing in a novel or short story, and then say to myself there couldn't be any such animal. A laugh would have to have mirth in it and behind it, I said, or it wouldn't be a laugh at all.

"But since we got a radio set I see what it means. Every time one of the radio announcers cracks a joke and then laughs, it is a mirthless laugh, right enough. It takes the laugher, in person, with the smile on the face and in the eyes, to make it real.

"A radio laugh is the mirthless kind, and no joke."

"Now that the streets are all torn up for the new subway," remarked the Bronx business man, "I suppose that by the time they get it in and the streets all paved again, they will begin tearing the 'L' lines down."

"I suppose so," replied the inveterate New Yorker. "And I, for one will hate to see them go. And for a peculiar reason—with them goes some of the finest remains, to me at least, of the gay nineties. The rococo decorations on the platforms, the pot-bellied stoves in the waiting rooms, the stained glass windows, all will go, never to return. I'd like to see one of the old stations kept in the Metropolitan museum!"

The commuter in the days of his youth held a firm belief that if the boys lost a ball in the long grass one of the players should shut his eyes and throw another ball at random and that the second ball would always drop near the lost ball. Sometimes it did and—well the belief did not survive in the commuter's mind.

The commuter had forgotten the old belief until recently when he was eating a hasty lunch at a standing up lunch counter in a downtown building. Pete, one of the very polite, white coated waiters, in giving change, accidently pushed a dime too far over the counter and it dropped underneath and out of sight. Pete, ever obliging, hastened around the counter and picked the lost dime from its hiding place.

But that was not the only dime there. Following the principal of the lost ball the second dime had found another that had been dropped in the same spot.

The lust for easily earned gold got the upper hand and Pete searched carefully all along the small space under the counter that is left for the sweepers. He was very soon joined by Tony and Paul who also dispensed lunches to hungry customers. Of course, poetically, they should have recovered enough to pay off the mortgage on the old homestead and retire on a large income. But there is nothing poetical about a quick lunch counter and no more dimes were discovered.

The commuter tried to persuade them to throw a handful of dimes around the place, assuring them that the thrown dimes inevitably would locate many more lost coins. But they wouldn't. They seemed to think that there was a catch in it somewhere.

Wasted Fortitude

MAN is an animal that will stand a great deal of kicking. Every now and then he takes his kicking in a worthy cause, with an ideal glittering before his eyes, and the race moves forward. But most of the time the kicking is more or less incidental, so to speak, and we are amazed at the pointless waste of bravery and fortitude.

A few days ago a 50-foot cabined gasoline cruiser named the Hannah put out from the port of Erieau, along the Ontario shore of Lake Erie. It had 1,000 cases of whisky aboard and was headed for Cleveland.

The Great Lakes, in case you don't know it, are fearful expanses of water in the winter. Howling gales kick up seas that would do credit to the North Atlantic. Few boats are abroad; lighthouses are out of commission. To sail on Lake Erie, in January, in a 50-foot boat, is about as perilous a job as a man could find anywhere.

There were three men on the Hannah. Their troubles began three hours after they had left the harbor when their motor went dead and left them helpless. An offshore wind took them out into the middle of the lake, far out of sight of land, and left them there. It was abominable weather; snow, rain, sleet and blinding gales alternated, pitching the little craft about like a chip.

For 200 miles the boat drifted, always on the verge of foundering, until, three days later, it was a few miles off the Pennsylvania shore. Now you would imagine, wouldn't you, that the men by this time would have been ready to give up, to toss their cargo overboard and save their lives? Well, they weren't. One of them put on a life belt, jumped into the icy water, and incredible as it sounds—swam ashore; then, instead of calling the coast guard, he went to the city of Erie, Pa., secretly chartered a tug, and made arrangements to tow the disabled boat to some secluded spot where the whisky could be unloaded safely.

But the wind shifted, and before the tug could put out the Hannah had drifted back to mid-lake again. For 10 more days it drifted; finally it was forced to drop its anchors in shoal water off the Canadian coast to keep from being wrecked in the breakers.

A trans-Erie carferry at last sighted it. It was unable to reach it because of the shallow water, but promised to send help. But still the smugglers asked for secrecy, hoping they might yet be able to get their cargo over to the Ohio side. The captain of the carferry disregarded their plea for secrecy, however, and a day later a tug came out and pulled the little craft into an Ontario harbor.

There, if you please, is a tale of fortitude and sheer bulldog courage that would be hard to equal. And what was all this bravery exhibited for? To smuggle a cargo of whisky into the United States in defiance of the law. It was a magnificent piece of daring—for a sadly unworthy cause.

Man has in him splendid capabilities. When they are put to work in the right way—as at Valley Forge, for instance, or on the old Oregon trail—the race moves ahead. At other times, unfortunately, they go to waste.

To Preserve Niagara

IT IS encouraging to read that Canada and the United States have reached an agreement for the construction of remedial works to prevent the destruction of Niagara Falls' great natural beauty.

At certain points the falls have been eroding the rocks so fast that the entire contour of the cataract threatened to change. Goat Island, in midstream, was in danger of being left high and dry, with the American falls disappearing altogether.

Now submerged weirs and jetties are to be built above the falls to deflect the flow of water so that the falls can be perpetuated as they are now. It is good news for citizens of both nations.

'The Soul Is the Thing'

"THE soul and not the dollar is the thing." This is the new gospel of the Republican party as announced by the president-elect. At least in his peace and good will addresses to the South Americans he let it be known that "the depth of the soul tests greatness." Is the deep soul age to supplant the industrial or machine age? If so, usher it in.

WHY CLOCK HANDS ARE POINTED

FIGURES are full of half truths. That's why courts are full of receivers' suits.

So don't gulp any broad statement without the salt of analysis. And sprinkle it especially thick on statistics claiming to prove the average life span has recently been lengthened by 15 years.

Facts show that we're not living longer than heretofore—the gain is all at t'other end—fewer folk are dying as young as they used to.

Better feeding and saner care of infants is one salvaging factor. The wiping out of childhood scourges, like diphtheria and scarlet fever—together with adenoid and tonsil removal—are others.

And Nathan Straus's magnificent battle for pasteurization and milk inspection, has also helped to give every seventh infant the chance for survival that previous ignorance denied.

We are managing to protect human seedlings from the blights that nipped their expectation, but the proverbial three-score-and-ten deadline still halts the same heavy percentage of adult careers.

Despite miracles of surgery, sanitation, inoculation and antisepsis, medical progress—calculating population by billions (not random exceptions)—as yet offers faint hope of raising the life limit.

The human machine, like the deacon's one horse shay, seems designed for definite terms of service.

When essential parts wear out, it ceases to operate. Even Doctor Voronoff now concedes that.

Sensible diet, regular schedules, cautious habits and promptly repaired flaws will prevent its nature obsolescence, but only remarkable constitutions remain efficient and continue to hit on all cylinders beyond seventy.

The hands of the clock wear points to prick laggards into action; every tick utters warning to invest your restricted capital of strength and imagination in season.

Initiative is slower on the pick-up after the first half century. It's much easier to take the hard grades under youth's steam.

Make the most of your time—ride high tide.

"Step on it," while the motor's humming and the gears are in perfect mesh.

Press the engine before brain cogs lose temper and springs start to sag.

A rattletrap can't be drivin at pitch speed. Each tomorrow finds less gas in the tank and air in the tires.

Opportunity has a one-word vocabulary. And every chance-misser and self-wrecker will tell you, that word is—NOW.

The VICARION

The Astounding Story of an Invention Greater Than the Movies

Copyright by Gardner Hunting

By Gardner Hunting

Serialized by Ledger Syndicate

In the year 1935 Radley Brainard demonstrates to some friends his invention whereby it is possible to project past events exactly as they happened. In the group are his sweetheart, Phyllis Norman; her father, mother and brother, John; John's sweetheart, Carol Gould, and Radley's Aunt Relief. While they are looking at a famous dinner given for a motion picture star who had been drowned a week before, and Radley explains the scenes he shows are released from liquid air contained in "bombs," a ragged, gaunt man staggers in the studio. He cannot remember who he is, but calls Phyllis by her name. Radley names the stranger Van Winkle. While Radley is explaining the possibilities of his invention in the Norman home some one fires at him through a window. He says he believes he was shot at by a criminal who escaped from the police after he had been captured through information supplied by the invention. Brainard then shows a scene out of Van Winkle's lost life—the man, wounded, being placed on a railroad track.

Phyllis' heart leaped as if the sound portended immediate catastrophe.

"Why," she whispered. "Wh—why, it's—it's Rip!"

On the floor of what might be a gold-fish bowl—the figure of a man who was believed to have dropped out of life for eight years—who now stood at Phyllis Norman's side looking back at a crisis in his own lost career in micrograph!

But the light died—the little scene went out.

Little wonder that commonplace things, like breaking and entering and attempt to kill should momentarily pale into insignificance beside such a phenomenon.

But as Brainard had said, men's minds adjust themselves to the miraculous. What appears supernatural today bores us tomorrow whether we understand it or not. After all, the physical appearance of things is enough for most men—we do not have to understand. Strange creatures we, who will troop across a world in crowds to see an apparent defiance of natural laws, of the very nature of which laws we are ignorant. And millions of us contentedly snap on our electric reading lights at night without ever knowing what a kilowatt is.

While Radley Brainard was explaining that "liquid events" accommodate themselves likewise to physical environment, taking on size itself in proportion to the limits in which they may expand, trying to draw a parallel between this and the recognized fact that pictures projected on a screen are of a size in proportion to the lantern's distance, expounding a property of radium particles which could furnish necessary light for miniature exhibitions, relating that he had brought this "pocket" scene, of which they had just witnessed the escaping conclusion only, hoping to solve the Van Winkle mystery here tonight, describing how he had secured it after careful calculations of time and place, from accounts Van Winkle could give of his last hours of a former consciousness, Phyllis listened. Confusion in her mind effaced all clear impressions for her. She watched the little group absorb his words with as little conception of the forces behind them as one has of those behind the mere words on a printed page!

He seemed unworried about the stolen bombs. "They'll have to steal something besides my liquid air before they get by secret," he said. "Besides, I'll recover them. And we'll all sit in tomorrow at the studio on the actual perpetration of this 'robbery'."

"And have the police sitting on the perpetrators!" murmured Carol. Radley, I'm glad I'm alive at the birth of this epoch—if I can only survive the emotions it stirs in little me!"

Phyllis saw that Van Wilkie had dropped into a chair and now sat with his hand shielding his eyes. She found herself thinking how natural and human his attitude was—and then marveling at the implied idea that he might seem anything else!

"Are you ill?" she asked him.

"No—only it rather takes it out of a man to see himself murdered, as it were—and to feel in his hair and find the scar."

His fingers ran up over his scalp. "It's there, he added, smiling up at her. "I discovered it when I first combed my hair. Probably the under side of it is pressing on my memorystring or something! Shall I have some surgeon take off the lid or shall we let Brainard go on taking off the lid from my past career for the sake of dear science?"

It was all so completely beyond her that her mind let go of the puzzle. It must solve itself.

But the evening's dinner was successfully spoiled, the evening's entertainment evaporated from its bowl, as Carol asserted, and nothing left but "mere talk." No one had patience for it—and Radley himself seemed eager to be away. Presently he begged his hostess to excuse him and went, taking Van Winkle with him. The others were to be at the studio by 11 next day.

Phyllis Repentant

Phyllis, freshened by another morning's gallop, gave her horse to a groom and went to the studio its questioning incredulity, its half-contemptuous skepticism, its resentful pride, was contained such an insult for the man at whom it was directed—the man whose strong shoulders and fine head stood dark in silhouette nearest the glass—such insult as she had never dreamed she could offer to human beings, far less to the man she loved.

No wonder Radley Brainard had resented her attitude! Was this—in her riding togs. The others were before her—her staid father, her gentle mother, boyish Carol, earnest John and eager Relief Brainard—all intent now. And Radley wasted no time in leading them into his white room.

The man Van Winkle attached himself to Phyllis. His doglike gentleness helped to rob this fact of elements that could annoy her. But she felt a distinct aversion to any contact with him—a shivering sense that it would be intolerable. Five minutes after she had come in from the brilliantly lighted beach, however, they were plunged back into night and the Norman garden, and the girl was looking in through a lighted window at a dinner table, at the farther side of which sat herself!

The point of view was just outside the edge of the porch. The foreground was completely dark to eyes gazing toward the window. The figures within the house stood out clear. The very expression on Phyllis' own countenance was distinct to the girl as her memories of the emotions that had caused it. It startled her. Then shame and contrition seized her. Having looked at it, she looked at nothing else; in was this ie appearance she presented to his eyes? Appearances! Was this their adequacy to the causes that coined them? If a woman's own face, caught in reflection unawares, gave back to her such a counterfeit of what she had felt, what was the currency her unwitting heart dealt to others' eyes?

But a scream rose sharp, piercing within the house—whence no sound had issued before. The group within that lighted room leaped into action. Her mother—upon her feet! Phyllis herself, up and pointing! A little sunburst of glittering cracks radiating from a hole in the pane almost opposite his eyes! Then his quick jump to the side—and a lowered shade! Darkness!

How narrow the escape had been! How could she have let that fact be eclipsed by anything else? And yet—even as she thought of this, the marvel of this reproduction of last night's scenes swept away the very consideration of it!

"By George!" said Brainard from the switchboard. "I missed him!—just as he luckily missed me. And he must have had a silencer on his gun—there was no sound of a shot in the garden. I set my condensation point too near the porch."

Light flamed up in the white room again—and one more poignant impression was printed on Phyllis Norman's life—like an "etheric record."

In the Library

But Radley had opened the closet in which he stored his bombs. He turned with another in his hand—little blued steel globule of enormous potentialities! And Phyllis found space in her mind for wonder whether or not it was cold to the touch!

But he slipped it into the niche—and flung his switches.

"Here's the library," he announced, as one might have shown a mere photographic print.

A red blaze—and they looked into the room of open window and cut screen. In the stillness here in the downtown studio the white papers on that uptown library table fluttered with crackling distinctness. The odor of stale cigars exhaled last night on an ash tray in her home, drifted out to Phyllis, today's abomination to her nostrils on the cool night breeze here in this morning's midst! Then a stir caught her eye. A man—a man in a derby hat and a brown suit—was bending over a bowl of glass from which he had lifted a linen covering and was gaping at something there!

"Oh, it's you in here, too, is it, Honey?" said Brainard, apostrophizing him. "Look Van," Radley went on quickly; "he's tried to open the bowl and has pulled the cap that allowed the scene to evaporate!"

The man by the bowl dropped its linen cover over it and drew back. In his face amazement, tinged with fear, was written. He looked hastily about, his eyes fastened on a small leather bag on the table. He caught at it, opened it, weighed in his hand one of Brainard's bombs.

But sound from outside the field of vision broke in. The slam of a door! The man by the table dropped the bomb into the bag and sprang for the window. In a single leap he bounded from the floor and over the sill and was gone. And sound, scent and scene melted away into dead nothingness!

"Talk about unity!" said Brainard as the white light came on again.

Phyllis awoke to a sense of complete conviction. If this which she had witnessed here were possible, then the half-joking speculations of last night's dinner conversation were prophecies!—if not already realities. She looked back upon her skepticism, feeling that it was that which now seemed unbelievable. No matter how staggering the prospect of looking into flesh-and-blood history with the vision of an eyewitness, every faculty within her proclaimed now that she had seen again what she had lived through last night in her own home—and more! The real events brought back to her senses—or her senses turned back upon them—real as the hand she clenched, the breath she drew!

But Radley's voice broke in upon her. He was talking into the transmitter of a radiophone. "Yes," he was saying, in matter-of-fact tone, "set your vibrator to 9:12 last night and move your condensing point to face away from the house. I want to draw in the garden this time."

"Now, what does that mean?" demanded his aunt. "Do you take your scenes at long distance and 'draw them in' here?"

Brainard hesitated an instant, then laughed. "Well, I may as well allow you that detail also," he replied, "though I'm bertaying more of my secrets than I should. A vibration in the ether, properly speaking, has no ends; it simply vibrates everywhere, spreading like rippies on a pool after the well-known pebble. But conceive of a vibration established with one end in your garden and the other at my condenser. Whatever responds to that vibration at the garden end creates itself anew at this end. I don't have to condense the air on the spot where my original event transpired; I condense at this end while the air here is agitated by the vibration that transmits that event here!"

"Help!" gasped Carol.

"Don't be foolish," said Radley. "Think a moment. Anything you get over the radio takes at least an infinitesimal fraction of time for its transmission from the source. I simply lengthen the period of time between event and reproduction and add visibility and scent to sound. That's as simply as I can state it."

"Simple!"

"But how do you know what vibration to use for any given event you want to get?"

"I don't—till I shove my vibrations out into the ether and feel round for it, as you might feel for iron filings with a magnet in a sand heap.

"I should think you'd have to narrow it down some. You can't just poke your vibrations out, can you, and be sure you're within a thousand years of Alfred the Great, say, or Ivan the Terrible?" It was John, and he ended with a laugh. He rose from his chair and crossed to the switchboard.

Brainard closed its cover quietly. "Forgive me, old chap," he said. "But I have to keep some things under my own hands."

"Of course," returned John, unaffronted and walking back promptly toward his chair.

"But look here, Radley," said Mr. Norman; "I can see consequences spreading out from this device of yours also like the well-known ripple you just mentioned."

The Vicarion Named

"Lots of 'em," smiled Brainard.

"Think of how absorbed an audience is going to be in liquid events! Liquid life! I'm free to say the prospect blinds my mental vision! Think of how people will flock to see your shows—they will mob you when the truth gets out! And then think of showing them a scene you have condensed out of history without knowing yourself exactly what it is! Think for an instant of the fearful possibilities!"

"But I won't show them anything I haven't already seen myself."

"Oh—you are to be your own censor!" exclaimed Aunt Relief.

"I certainly am—till I get some of my events indexed."

Miss Brainard's face fell. "Oh!" she said. "I was just beginning to think I was going to like your—your—"

"I'll make you the censor, then, Aunt Rel," laughed Brainard. "Suppose I start you off with a little inside stuff from the Spanish Inquisition! Let you see how much of it we can release in the neighborhood theaters!"

"They will mob you indeed!" said Van Winkle. "You are going to introduce to the world something that will be worse than a new habit-forming drug. Once they taste of it they'll cry for it—or die for it! I'm afraid of it all over again, as I was at first."

A momentary realization that the man showed constant inconsistencies in memory arrested Phyllis' attention. But she was ignorant of laws that might operate in his condition, or whether any such laws were known. Then she lost the thought of the man himself in what he had said. She had not intended to speak but she found herself forced by a sort of prophetic impulse.

"You are offering us life, Radley," she said. "It is life lived as we ourselves have lived it, or as others have lived it—actually. You're going to let us live it again without—without actually participating in it.

"Or—participate in it without living it! I—I don't believe I want to live that way—vicariously!"

"You'll be lonesome, Phyl," he told her casually. "But I'll tell you now that I've already decided what to name my device, as you call it. I shall call it, 'The Vicarion!'"

Carol crowed. "Ho—The Vicarion! Makes vicarious experiences easy. Live without effort! Live unscathed! Live your own or anybody else's life—as long as you like—as often as you like—when you like—where you like! Oh, Phyl—think of spending the afternoon with Madame de Maintenon—or Bloody Mary! Why, I can be all kinds of woman that they were! All kinds there are—in my little self. No experience barred to me—and no penalties to pay!" She laughed excitedly. "Fancy sitting out dances with Richard the Lion Hearted—or—having tea with the Delphian Apollo! Or taking a walk along the trail of Dante and Virgil! And I don't dare to tell you what I'm really fancying!"

"You won't have to break into fiction for companions, Carol," John said.

"No—oh, Joy—I'll find out what is fiction and what isn't—about everybody, from Shakespeare and his Bacon, to Jonah and his whale! I'm going to turn all my property into annuities and come here to stay, Rad. I won't create a scandal—because we can have anybody for chaperon from the original Dorcas to St. Genevieve! And I shan't have time to compromise you when I can pal around with Charlemagne, or Valentino, or Rameses II, or Kublai Khan!" she shrieked with laughter. Oh, dear, oh, dear! All this and a wishing ring besides!"

"But you must already have a great organization, Radley," said Mr. Norman. "Who was it you just now directed to 'draw in' our garden?"

"An assistant upstairs," replied Brainard. "I have the whole of the next floor above—and the roof."

"Full of people working for you?"

"Yes—a few of the people who work for me are there."

"And do they all know your secrets?" asked John.

"Some of them know something about 'em."

"But aren't they afraid about it?" demanded Carol.

Radley shrugged. "What would you say if I tell you that one little gum-chewer could see nothing in Pocahontas but the way she did her hair?"

"I'd say she was a mythical character, too!" exclaimed Aunt Relief.

"That's it!" said Radley; "most employes won't believe in the Pocahontases any more than Aunt Relief does—and the rest will get surfeited pretty soon, like the clerk in the candy store."

"Not if they see things that are within their ken," said Phyllis. "Fancy your little gum-chewer ever becoming surfeited with your Whippleton dinners and your Hanrady murders!"

"Fortunately my records are invisible as they come in," Brainard answered. "My employes can make them without seeing them. And I shall see to it that nobody gets too much. As a matter of fact I expect to make 'shows' part of their wages."

He turned down his lights abruptly to the dimmer illumination.

The Criminal

"Want to see the man who robbed your library last night, Mr. Norman?" he asked. "I don't mean another projection of his etheric double, but the real chap. The police brought him in this morning—and I think they've been seeing our show through a sort of periscope arrangement, while we saw it here."

He did not wait for responses but crossed to the door and opened it. The rest followed, drawn like street urchins after the timeless hurdy-gurdy. Presently, Phyllis thought, the world would be dancing after this piper! Would human beings become surfeited with what he had to give them? Men often became surfeited with life. But was not that because too much actual living burned out vitality? What would living too much vicariously do to them?

NEW RULES TO BRING BACK STOCK CARS IN 500-MILE RACE

CODE'S CHANGE BEGINS IN 1930

A. A. A. Aims to Bring Back Manufacturer

By RAY PRIEST
Automobile Editor, Universal Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Most of the passenger automobiles built today will be able to race in the 1930 Indianapolis 500-mile speed classic as a result of the passing of an entirely new set of rules here by the contest board of the American Automobile association.

Rules regarding other racing affairs to go into effect immediately are aimed at the world's speed record attempts at Daytona, Fla., and dirt tracks. They specify that reverse gears are not now necessary, a definition of a motor car having been changed after standing 20 years, and also provide that to break the world's straightaway record it must be exceeded by two miles an hour.

The present record is held by Ray Keech, who drove a White Triplex 207.552 miles an hour last spring at Daytona.

Engineers Make Rules

Hopeful that the automobile manufacturer would again return to racing cars, the board requested a number of prominent chief engineers of factories to draw up a set of rules making it possible.

The rules formally approved today allow entry of any kind of car up to 336 cubic inch piston displacement, weighing over 1750 pounds, with motors that have two or less poppet valves, and equipped with two seats but with superchanges banned.

The tiny 91½ cubic inch eight cylinder racing cars that have been built in the past few years by two manufacturers are eliminated under the new set of rules. The cars are only wide enough to carry the driver and their weight is around 1,400 pounds.

Nearly all are equipped with superchargers because the tiny motors fail to develop sufficient power for the 100 mile an hour speeds that they have been attaining.

Tiny Cars Race in 1929

The seventeenth running of this famous speed classic occurs next Decoration day. This will be the last time that any of the tiny cars will race at Indianapolis in a major speed event.

The Indianapolis motor speedway was originally built as a laboratory for the automobile industry. That was 20 years ago. When the first race was run the engines were 600 cubic inches in size and were of ponderous weights. In fact the weight of the cars brought so much danger to the drivers and mechanics that it was decided to reduce them. With the weight reduction came a steady reduction in the size of engines.

The factories started dropping out of the racing game as the motors became smaller and the plants production grew larger.

The hope of the racing enthusiasts in making the rules so that the majority of cars might be entered is to bring back the old-time stock car racing spirit. Names of cars when permitted by the manufacturer may be used by the entrant provided the main parts of the car are of that maker's production.

Weight Is 1750 Pounds

The minimum weight was set at 1750 pounds. The weight of any car in the race is to be determined on a basis of 7½ pounds per cubic inch.

Other specifications for the 1930 Indianapolis race include that the car must have two independently operated sets of brakes; any number of cylinders; not more than two carburetors on a four cycle engine; no restrictions on a semi-Diesel or turbine type engine as to carbureting or manifolding.

These suggestions that have been made by the engineers and approved by the contest board hold for the year 1930 only. In the past rules have been for periods of three years.

The rules were made in Detroit at a meeting of the National Technical committee with the factories' chief engineers early in December.

Atz to Take 24 Kittens to Camp

Quality, Not Quantity, Is Aim of Jake

FORT WORTH, Jan. 9. (AP)—Quality may be the trade mark of the Fort Worth baseball training camp this spring.

The squad will number only 24 men.

Last year 40 athletes, men and boys reported to Jake Atz when the railbirds began to twitter. The squad was too large.

This season it will be different, officials declare. Unknown prospects will be rare among the Panthers when they report to Atz in Mineral Wells on March 4.

With 24 men scheduled to report and 18 men to be carried by the club all season, competition for berths will be keen.

Tuffy Griffiths Scores Easy Second Round K. O.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (UP)—Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City, Iowa, won an easy knockout victory here tonight when he stopped George Gemas after one minute and 54 seconds of the second round. The bout was a scheduled 10 rounder.

Griffiths floored Gemas seven times in the first round and three times in the second before the Philadelphia heavyweight stayed down for the count.

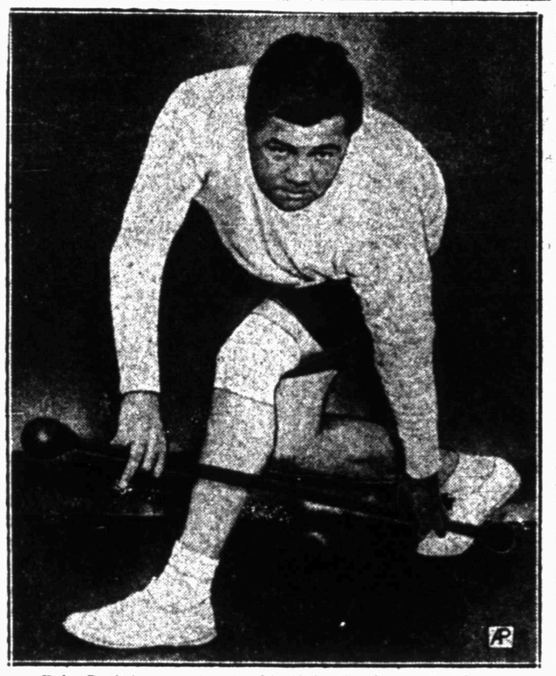

American Loop Moguls Abandon Spring Meet

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (UP)—There will be no spring meeting of officials of American league baseball clubs, it was announced here this afternoon from the offices of President E. S. Barnard.

The announcement said that "affairs of the league are now in such fine shape that it will not be necessary to call the officials together this spring."

Tex Quit School, Became Cowboy When Father Died at Henrietta

11-Year-Old Kid Head of Family and Got $10 a Month; Thrashed Boy Who Beat Brother, In First Fight

By JACK LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1929, by the New York American, Inc., and Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—In yesterday's chapter of this biography of Tex Rickard I said that he was issued into this world to an obligato of six-shooters.

Shots were swishing all around his infantile ears and the neighborhood of his birthplace was in an uproar. It happened that the small pine cottage in which he was born was directly next door to the house in which the mother of Jesse James lived. This was on the outskirts of Kansas City, Mo. in the year 1871.

The Rickards were very poor, but the James family seemed to get along very nicely without any visible means of support. In fact, the mother of Jesse and Frank James, leaders of the most notorious gang of outlaws this country has ever known, frequently passed tea biscuits and other delicacies over the fence to Mrs. Rickard. On one occasion the mother of Frank and Jesse James nursed Mrs. Rickard through an illness that lasted three weeks.

I had the opportunity about 10 years ago to ask Mrs. Rickard about Mrs. James and her two sons, Jesse and Frank. She said:

"She was a very good neighbor. Her two sons were generally off on business but they always looked out for her. They provided her with everything she could wish for and she looked out for the poor in the neighborhood. Jesse and Frank were very busy during the few years that we lived next door to their mother. They were very good to their mother but they had a way of waking her at all hours of the morning.

Jesse Was Good Son

"When I heard hoof-beats at 3 in the morning I knew it was Jesse coming to visit his ma. Jesse loved his mother and was a good son, even though he was away on business most of the time. His main trouble seemed to be in getting along with the federal authorities, although he seemed to be always on good terms with local officials."

On the day that George Lewis (Tex) Rickard was born, Jan. 2, 1871, the sheriff of Kansas City, Mo., received a tip that Jesse James and possibly his brother, Frank, were planning to spend the day with their mother. The sheriff and 26 deputies, armed to the teeth, rode out to the little roadside farm where Mrs. James lived.

On the way they passed a buggy in which the community doctor was hurrying to the bedside of Mrs. Lucretia Josephine Rickard. He was on his way to show Tex Rickard the light of day.

The sheriff and his deputies swooped down on the James cottage and surrounded it. But, as usual, they were too late. They were only in time to hear hoofbeats dying away in the distance and to see two horsemen disappearing down the road in a cloud of dust. At these flying figures they let go a volley of shots. And into this bedlam was born the babe who was destined to become the greatest showman on earth.

Although George Lewis Rickard lived in that neighborhood only until he was four years old he once told me that he could remember the James boys and their mother. Tex could spin some rare yarns out of the distant past if you were lucky enough to catch him in a quiet spot and in a retrospective mood.

Tex Reminisces

I can remember sitting alone with him one Saturday afternoon long ago in his office on the ninth floor of the tower of the old garden. Those were the tranquil days before the mad whirl began that came with the new garden. I sometimes think they were the happiest days Tex Rickard ever knew. He wasn't making much money but he was having a good time. He was accountable only to himself and the responsibilities he bore were light in comparison to the burdens he was to assume later. In recent years he has said to me more than once:

"Those were great days, back in the old garden. I wish we could live them over again."

On that Saturday afternoon I found him alone in his quiet office, his feet cocked on his desk and the inevitable half-smoked cigar stuck in the corner of his mouth. He was gazing dreamily out across the tree tops of Madison Square park. This man with the inscrutable Mona Lisa face on which few emotions ever registered could be a dreamer at times. He was in a rare, reflective mood that day. His mind drifted back across the rough, rugged years to the carefree days of his youth and he seemed to revel in those distant memories. Later on I shall recount some of the tales Tex Rickard told on that Saturday afternoon, long ago.

"I can remember the James boys," said Tex. "I can't recall Frank so well, but I remember Jesse because of his thick, rough beard. Of course, I was too young to realize what their racket was, but I can remember them riding out our way to visit their mother. Sometimes they would have a whole troop of horsemen with them. They would arrive and depart in a cloud of dust. I think it was the fine horses they rode that made such a lasting impression on my memory. Sometimes they would flip coins to us kids."

George Lewis Rickard was his mother's first son. Incidentally, he was the last of her original family of six children by Robert Woods Rickard. Tex had an older sister, Minnie, born in 1868, and two younger ones—Katherine, born in 1877, and Alice, born in 1881. It was in the latter year that Robert Woods Rickard died, leaving Tex the head of the family.

"I never realized what a good boy my George was until his father died in March, 1881," Mrs. Rickard once said. "We were living in a small cabin near Henrietta, Texas, and George was 11 years old and in the third grade at school. When his father passed away George came to me and announced that he was through with school and was going to support the family. He said he was going to be a cowboy, and two days later he was one. His first salary was ten dollars a month.

Move to Henrietta

"I had the little cabin moved three miles into Henrietta because George was away at the ranch most of the time and it was lonely. George was a cowboy for several years and all his money went to helping me and his five brothers and sisters and my little sister and brother who lived with me.

"George was a cowboy until I had saved enough money to buy a small farm. Then he came to help me. I took in boarders and we began to get along quite nicely."

It was Mrs. Rickard who described the first battle in which Tex ever engaged. It brought no gate receipts but it must have been a good fight. She said:

"It was all over George's little brother, Robert. George was out riding the range when one of the bigger boys of the neighborhood gave little Robert a bad beating. He came home with both eyes blackened and his nose bleeding. When I told George about it he didn't say anything but went out quietly and started to look for Rex Woodruff, the big boy who had thrashed little Robert.

"They met right outside our house and the battle started. The Woodruffs lived just opposite. While the fight was going on I happened to look out of the window and saw Mrs. Woodruff come out of her house armed with a broom. She ran out to the middle of the road where the boys were fighting and started to beat George over the head with the broom.

"That was enough for me. I got my broom and went after Mrs. Woodruff. I told her that if her boy could beat my George it was all right with me but I wasn't going to stand by and see her help him do it with her broom. That stopped her, and we stood there with our brooms over our shoulders while the boys battled. After George had knocked Rex down five or six times he admitted he had had enough."

EDDIE KANE ILL

Mandell Boss Stricken With Flu En Route To Tex's Funeral

DETROIT, Jan. 9. (US)—Eddie Kane, manager of Sammy Mandell, lightweigh boxing champion, was taken from a train and brought to a hotel here today suffering from a severe attack of influenza.

Kane was en route from his Indianapolis home to New York where he planned to attend the funeral of Tex Rickard.

Eddie expressed the keenest regret over abandoning the trip to the famous late promoter's bier and reluctantly took to his bed after he was emphatically ordered to do so by a physician

GRID DEVOTEES FORGET 'BONER'

None of 20 Fans Recall Roy Riegels' Name

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (UP)—There is a baseball theory that the name of a player who pulls a "bonehead" play rarely is forgotten, but it would appear from interviews in Chicago's loop today that this theory does not hold true in football.

On New Year's day, a California football player carried the ball more than 60 yards in the wrong direction. That play allowed Georgia Tech to win and there were forecasts that this player's name would be remembered for all time because of the "boner."

That was just a week ago. Do you remember his name?

Not one of 20 persons asked that question today could say that it was Roy Riegels. Most of them could name a dozen of the season's star players. But when asked the rather vague question "who was the guy who failed to touch second base," 14 of them shot back, Fred Merkle.

And Fred Merkle's "boner" which cost the Giants a title was made something near 20 years ago.

Grid Fan Charitable

It would seem from the answers that the football fan is more charitable regarding his heroes than is the baseball spectator. Two or three replied to the question "why pick on that boy any longer, they tell me he played a swell game in the second half and it took nerve to do that."

Did you ever hear anyone say "oh well, anybody might miss second base."

Of four persons, asked the question in this manner "who was Roy Riegels?" three did not know and the one who did was a California graduate.

But two of the other three were able to identify Walter Eckersall, Benny Friedman, Ted Coy, and "Germany" Schultz. The other was "not interested" in football.

Ball Bugs Remember

It probably would be difficult to find a gathering of four baseball fans, three of whom could not tell you about all there is to know regarding the boners of Merkle, Snodgrass and Zimmerman.

In fact, one of those questioned answered "I don't know the name of the guy who ran the wrong way in football but I saw Heinie Zimmerman run Eddie Collins across the plate when he had about as much chance of catching him as a turtle does a rabbit."

His companion answered:

"Now don't that beat the devil! Here that guy cost me 50 bucks with that weird run and I don't even remember his name."

Did you ever hear a bleacherite after he had lost $2 because of somebody's error?

Cyclone Hall Stops Snyder in Fast Go

Cyclone Hall, the corking Childress middleweight, added another victory to his rapidly growing list when he scored a technical knockout over Kid Snyder of Burkburnett in the third round. The bout was part of a double windup staged by Alec Ross, and true to the promoter's prediction, it was the best show staged here this season.

Hall and Snyder engaged in a mill that was a wow so far as it went. They mixed enthusiastically and with effect for the first two rounds. Early in the third round Hall dropped Snyder. The Kid took a nine-count. He soon was rushed to the ropes where Hall rained punches to his face. The referee then stopped the mill.

Snyder, while he absorbed a lot of punches on his face, was not in bad shape and could have continued the warfare. However, Hall was clearly the winner when the bout was stopped.

It was announced that one of three of the best boys in the southwest will meet Hall here next Wednesday night.

John Ellis defeated Chief McGuire in three falls in the windup. Ellis won the first fall in 36 minutes with a toehold; McGuire took the second fall in 11 minutes with a double toehold, and Ellis grabbed the third fall in 24 minutes with another toehold.

Joe Turner gained a one-fall win over Seaman Bentley in 16 minutes with a reverse body scissors.

Jack Fields was awarded a technical knockout over Buck Atkins when the latter failed to come out for the fourth round. It was announced that Atkins broke the thumb of a hand.

Seymour Roadsters Score Basket Win

Seymour Roadsters basket ball team defeated the Jewish Temple five yesterday at Call field, 14 to 9. Juhl was high point man with 9. It was the third straight victory with no defeats for the Seymour lads.

The Seymour youths, who also competed last summer in baseball and in the fall in football, have established enviable records. They won the city junior sandlot title in baseball and in football scored 118 points to their opponents' 31.

EAST TEXAS 5 WINS

Golf Stars Play At Los Angeles

Foremost Pros in $10,000 Open This Week

By WARREN BROWN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9. (US)—Golf week in Los Angeles, where the sun shines always, the divots fly generally, and the putts drop sometimes.

The $10,000 Los Angeles open championship, golfing world's series of the winter season, is up for decision Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, at the Riviera course, a championship test, bigger, better, and unquestionably more spectacular in all its aspects, than any of the three titular struggles which have gone before.

$3,500 to Winner

In the field which will chase after the $3,500 top money, $1,750 second money, and all the other graduations of money which go to make up $10,000, are to be found the reigning British open champion, Walter Hagen, somewhat stouter than ever but apparently just as much a threat to the security of the defending titleholder, MacDonald Smith and the youthful pretender to the professional golfing throne, Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo.

There is, primed for the winter's classic, Leo Diegel, new champion of the Professional Golf association, and winner of the last tune-up test—the San Diego open.

In the list of those who will not have to worry about qualifying tomorrow are practically all the greatest professionals of America, lacking only Johnny Farrell, the U. S. open champion, who had to fill a club engagement elsewhere this winter, and Gene Sarazen, who chose to run where the thundering herd of representative professionals would not reach him until all California and southwestern activity had ceased.

They Have Crying Room

After the qualifying romp today the survivors, and the exempt players will have a day to "point" for the championship tussle.

The failures of course will spend the day in the crying room, and I understand that the junior chamber of commerce, recognizing the record-breaking number of entries, has made arrangements to hire the Los Angeles coliseum this year, to turn over to the failures as the greatest outdoor crying room, if you can conceive such a thing, that has ever been offered as a necessary adjunct to a golf championship.

They do things right, for all of us blizzard-dodgers, who have sought sanctuary in Los Angeles.

Basketball Shots

By TED VOSBURGH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Fittingly enough, few colleges have made a better record in basket ball year in and year out than Springfield where the game was invented and first played with peach baskets with the bottoms knocked out as goals back in the winter of 1891-92. This season appears to be no exception.

Starting the campaign with only one regular surviving from the year before, the strong though green team representing the birthplace of the game won its first two tilts on successive nights on a New York trip.

After outclassing Pratt Institute, 30 to 11, the little Massachusetts Y. M. C. A. college hosed out the Crescent A. C., a powerful assemblage of college stars of other years, by 27 to 25—and Captain Red Duncan, the lone regular, was crippled, at that, by an ankle injury suffered on the football field.

More jolts than had been received in all the half dozen seasons previous were absorbed last year and thus far in the present one by the University of Kansas.

As though inspired by the presence of Dr. James Naismith who first conceived the game of basket ball while a student of physical education at Springfield and who has been a member of the Kansas faculty, it seemed that an unbreakable tradition of victory had been established as the Jayhawkers reeled off five straight Missouri valley conference championships after tying with the Missouri Tigers in 1922.

Over that great stretch Kansas won 87 out of 94 conference games and averaged about 30 points a game to its opponents' 19, a remarkable tribute to the coaching genius of Dr. Forrest C. Allen.

Sooner or later the lean years come along for the best of them and last season Kansas finished fourth in the field of 10 while Oklahoma topped the conference. The jinx bobbed up again this season when a Notre Dame five that had not been cutting any great swath in middle western play felled the Jayhawkers by 32 to 21 and 29 to 17 in December games on their own court.

It will be interesting to see how well the Kansans make out in their quest of sectional glory in the new "big six" circuit, and also to note their progress in an ambitious program of intersectional games which takes in such teams as Notre Dame and California.

Nat Holman has a few things to say about the professional influence over the amateur game in basket ball. Doing double duty as leader of the Hakoah all-Jewish five, New York's entry in the American Professional league, and coach of the City College of New York quintet, the great ex-forward of the now disintegrated original Celtics should know whereof he speaks.

"The pro game's principal influence," says Nat, "has been over the amateur's game. The pro knows that his team cannot score if the ball is continuously in the opponent's possession. He is careful of his passes; he makes no wild shots at the basket; he 'nurses' the ball until an opening comes for him to plunge through.

"A decade ago amateur basket ball was marked by long distance shooting. Today through the influence of the professional, the amateurs aim for more conservative and methodical passing, with the result that the game has changed considerably and has improved from the spectator's point of view."

Holman adds that college coaches recruited from the professional court have brought this influence to bear to a great extent. Among them he names Ed Wachter of Harvard, Lew Wachter of Dartmouth, the late Joe Fogarty of Yale, "Chief" Muller of Manhattan, Rube Cashman of Villanova, Elmer Ripley of Georgetown and Lew Sugarman of Princeton and Pennsylvania.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

JACK DEMPSEY probably won't be offered the position as successor to Tex Rickard. Despite the popularity enjoyed by the Manasse Mauler among the "400 millionaires," who control Madison Square garden, and of whose presence as his partners Rickard was so proud, it is unlikely that they would tender the job to Jack. Dempsey's business experience is limited and the post doubtless will go to one of the heavy stockholders of the garden, to William F. Carey, vice president, it is intimated.

It isn't unlikely, however, that Jack will assist in sports promotion at the garden, at least in boxing. The esteem in which Dempsey is held by the public, his knowledge of boxing and close association to Rickard, assures a prominent place for him in the future in affairs of the ring, whether as active participant in "one more fight," or as promoter and manager.

WHILE THEY'RE passing the golf titles around to the professionals, it is well to consider the youthful Horton Smith of Joplin, Jasper county, Mo. Young Horton, who is 21 or 22, has been a foremost figure in winter tournament play ever since he left Joplin, Mo., early last fall. The youthful Mr. Smith captured the Oklahoma City open over a field of sterling pros. He then followed the eminent Mr. Greeley's advice and hied himself west to participate in the numerous tournaments out in California.

Young Mr. Smith of Joplin, Mo., has been quite successful. Indeed, he has been so successful that they are accounting him a foremost contender for the Los Angeles open, which is under way now, with such stars as the debonaire, Walter Hagen, MacDonald Smith, Leo Diegel and about all the best pros excepting Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen competing.

If the star pro of Joplin, Mo., continues to play the golf shown in recent months, the older experts of the links are going to have difficulty retaining their honors. He has, it is said, mastery of every club in his bag.

Longhorn Tossers Face Long Program

AUSTIN, Jan. 9.—When the conference officials removed the ban on the number of practice games that a conference baseball club might play, they gave Uncle Billy Disch, University of Texas baseball coach, the greatest present that could be given the aged, grayed haired mentor. Always held in check by this conference rule, he had never been able to schedule the games that he would like to bring to Austin, but now he has arranged one of the greatest non-conference schedules ever undertaken by a conference school.

Opening with the New York Giants on March 6, the Steers play the New York Yanks, the Oshaka team from Japan, teams from the Middle West, and possibly one or two Texas league teams before the practice schedule is completed. Negotiations are in progress with Notre Dame, Illinois, Michigan and the University of Chicago in an effort to bring them to Austin for a series. The schedule as it now stands follows:

March 6—New York Giants at Austin.
March 12—New York Yanks at Austin.
March 27-28—T. C. U. at Austin.
April 8-9—S. M. U. at Austin.
April 5-6—Rice at Houston.
April 12-13—A. & M. at Austin.
April 17-18—Baylor at Waco.
April 26-27—Baylor at Austin.
April 29-30—Oshaka at Austin.
May 3-4—T. C. U. at Fort Worth.
May 6-7—S. M. U. at Dallas.
May 15-16—Rice at Austin.
May 20-21—A. & M. at College Station.

HUME SIGNED BY ATHLETICS

Redman Hard Hitter—And Strong on Confidence

DALLAS, Jan. 9. (AP)—Since confidence is a distinct asset to the big league fledgling, providing he has something to back it up, the Philadelphia Athletics grabbed a jewel when they signed Redman Hume, baseball and football star of Southern Methodist university.

REDMAN HUME

Hume, a pitcher by trade, will report to the Mackmen in the spring. He received a $5,000 bonus for signing.

He Likes Hume

Outside of his undoubted ability on the gridiron and the diamond, the Mustang star has been chiefly noted during his college career for his sublime faith in Hume. He has never yet seen the batter he didn't think he could strike out, nor faced a pitcher he didn't expect to slam out of the lot, nor met a football team he didn't feel like he could run ragged.

He is not cocksure his friends say, just sure of himself.

Before the Mustangs played the Army eleven last fall at West Point, Hume very solemnly told the sport scribes he would score a touchdown. He not only did just that, but his all-around excellence gained the praise of eastern writers.

Morrison Praises Him

And Ray Morrison, Methodist coach, predicts it will take more than the major leagues have to offer to dampen the Hume spirit. The Mustang mentor expects him to make good, but as an outfielder, not a pitcher.

"He has confidence, and that's what it takes," Morrison explained.

Hume has been one of the leading hurlers of the Southwest conference for three years. His stick work, however, has overshadowed his brilliant pitching at times. He is fast as a flash, an accurate fielder and may be converted into a gardener by the Athletic strategists.

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright, 1929, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

NOW IS THE TIME

Human beings are social creatures. An individual is only a cell in the great organism of society. Each of us is dependent upon the other. This fact has been recognized by intelligent people everywhere since the origin of the first government. It underlies every system of ethics. We cannot obtain a full measure of life's happiness until we realize that we benefit ourselves best when we help others most. We rise or fall with those with whom we associate ourselves.

The hermit who withdraws himself from society does not have the temptations to do evil, but, on the other hand, he does not have the opportunities to do good.

Many years ago Confucius stated a negative law of ethics: "You should not do unto others as you would not have others do unto you." This law has been the foundation of every subsequent law for human betterment. This was afterwards even more beautifully expressed in the Golden Rule: "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you." If each of us obeyed this law to its fullest extent, we would need no others.

We must understand that in order to obtain the greatest value from life we cannot waste it on passing whims and appetites. We can't be successful members of society or enjoy the society of others to the fullest extent unless we play our own part well in the great drama of life. He, who is wasteful of his own powers or self improvement, and is careless of those personal habits which destroy health and character, not only injures himself but injures society as well.

It was once humorously stated that the time might come when we would place our criminals in hospitals to be cured and our sick people in jail for neglecting their duties. This will hardly be necessary, because a sick person certainly suffers enough. Nature has devised the punishment for the neglect of natural laws. The presence of sickness all about is an indication of how ignorant the great masses of humanity are concerning the simplest rules of health.

The consequences of destructive actions are not always immediately apparent. It is in our infancy and youth that the seeds of either disease or of success are sown, and in our later years the crop is harvested.

It is important that one should select the best of friends and companions, for we are like the chameleon, an animal that takes on the color of its surroundings. The examples of others can be our inspiration, and none of us are too obscure or humble for our example either for good or evil, to be reflected in our companions. It is our responsibility to always live up to the best in ourselves. Those who obey the laws of health and live in a clean, upright manner will induce others to do likewise.

Many people waste their opportunities day after day, hoping that in some far distant future they will be rewarded for the misery they are experiencing now. The important truth is to remember that now is the only time in which we will ever be happy, that is, the actual ever-present now, with its problems and opportunities. The goal of happiness may indeed lie beyond the grave, but the better part of wisdom is for each one of us to take advantage of our present opportunities for self improvement and helping our fellows so that we can wholesomely enjoy every moment of the ever-present now.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Lumbago

Question: E. M. H. asks: "Will you please state the cause and cure of lumbago? I have been troubled with serious attacks off and on for years."

Answer: Here are some of the causes: Rheumatism of lower spine; subluxation of lumbar vertebrae; uterine congestion; prostatic disorders; occupational strain; after-results of injury; prolapsus of abdominal organs. The cure, of course, would depend upon which one of these causes was responsible.

Starches and Proteins

Question: D. D. L. writes: "I notice you say not to mix starches and proteins. When should one eat potatoes? I notice you say not with meats. Would eggs go well with potatoes and bread. Should one eat bread with vegetables?"

Answer: It is best to use potatoes as the main food at a meal, using some of the non-starchy vegetables in combination. Eggs should not be used with either potatoes or bread, but also with the non-starchy vegetables or with toast and stewed fruits as I often recommend for breakfast. It is best to use real wholewheat bread as the principal part of the meal, using three or four slices in combinations also with cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables.

FAVORITE JOKES OF FAMOUS FOLK

As Told by Them to
FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By ADA MAY

Ada May, one of the most glorious glorifications that Florenz Ziegfeld ever glorified, told me she liked a story about her little cousin.

ADA MAY

"I had brought her to the theater with me one day for rehearsal," Miss May went on, "and the child was quite abashed when the stage director waved and ranted over every little mistake some one made, as stage managers are wont to do.

"When we had left the theater, she reminisced: 'That man acted just like daddy does when daddy gets mad—are all men alike, Aunt Ada?'

"I laughed and told her that I supposed they were.

"'Then when I grow up will I have to be married?' she pressed.

"'Why, yes, dear—unless you want to be an old maid.'

"She thought for a moment, put her hands to her little head, and sighed: 'Well, it puts us women in a hellova fix, don't it?'"

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (AP)—Prices rallied on the cotton market today, following an early decline of about 10 points. Covering or re-buying by recent sellers together with some trade and commission house demand accompanied by talk of a steadier spot basis, brought about the advance. March contracts sold up from 19.75 to 20.05, or 20 points net higher and closed at 20.04, the general market closed firm at net advances of 16 to 21 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 points to a decline of 5 points. There was some covering by near month shorts, but later deliveries were sold on the rather indifferent showing of Liverpool, and the active positions sold about 5 to 10 points net lower during the early trading, with January easing off to 19.67 and July to 19.40. There was not much southern selling, however, and as soon as these comparatively light early offerings had been absorbed, prices rallied on covering and trade buying.

Belief was strengthened in the opinion that the recent decline overdiscounted a falling off in cotton goods sales and domestic mill consumption for December which might prove no more than a seasonal fluctuation. There was buying on reports of a steadier spot basis in the South, which were colored by the comparative absence of southern selling orders here and the market developed a distinctly firmer tone in the later trading. January advanced to 19.99 and July to 19.70, with the general list showing net gains of about 17 to 21 points. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the best.

Trading in new crop months was comparatively quiet but it looked as if the difference between old and new October contracts was widening somewhat, the closing quotations being 25 points apart compared with 20 points at the close of the previous day.

Exports today 36,290, making 5,096,495 so far this season. Port receipts 30,504. U. S. port stocks, 2,298,016.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9. (AP)—Failure of the cotton market to respond more fully today to the advance in New York over the holiday here yesterday failed to deter trade buying and covering later in the session and prices rallied over $1.50 a bale from Monday's close. The advance was not fully maintained, however, and March contracts which had rallied from 19.08 to 19.40 eased off and closed at 19.37, or net 30 points higher. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 8 to 9 points, but traders considered this disappointing in view of the moderately large improvement in New York yesterday when the local market was closed. Even the initial bulge was not maintained, however, due to fears of bearish textile statistics and by the end of the first hour March sold off to 19.08 and May 19.14, or only 1 point above the previous close.

The easier tone attracted more or less trade buying practically after the announced decrease of 13 per cent in fertilizer sales to the end of December. There was also more or less talk of several hibernation and this may have affected the subsequent advance which by noon had carried January to 19.19, March 19.28 and May 19.34, or 16 to 20 points above the lows.

During the afternoon the market remained firm, probably due to advices from New York that the textile report would make a bullish showing, particularly as to the total of unfilled orders and in the late trading January advanced to 19.34, March 19.40 and May 19.44, or 31 to 33 points net up. Final prices were 3 points off from the top.

U. S. Steel and General Motors Lead Stocks to Higher Ground

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (US)—Stock prices rebounded sharply upward today under leadership of United States Steel and General Motors. A large short interest ran to cover as heavy buying came into the standard issues. Greater optimism was inspired by more defined indications that fears over money had been overdone and that the banking situation is showing a tendency to work itself out in satisfactory fashion.

Bank of England directors meet tomorrow but no change is anticipated in its rate, nor is it believed the New York federal reserve bank will take any action tomorrow afternoon.

Another contributing factor to the better sentiment in stock market circles was anticipation that the weekly loan figures may disclose a substantial decrease with the possibility expressed of the decline being almost as sizeable as the sharp jump in loans a week ago.

U. S. Steel Leads

Perhaps nothing else helped to revive bullish sentiment as did U. S. Steel's assumption of leadership. The stock has been more or less dormant for some time, but buying was inspired by belief the steel industry this year will experience a most profitable period. Operations of the steel mills in a few weeks may approach capacity, a development which may aid the steel companies in further advancing prices. There is a remote possibility, it was suggested in connection with Steel's strength, of its directors voting a small extra dividend.

General Motors spurted eight points and revived most of the other motor shares. Studebaker attained a new high. Graham-Paige was also in demand on most favorable reports of its new models. The Graham Brothers are said to be planning a substantial expansion of output this year, a program which may necessitate absorption of other properties. Copper shares were taken in blocks as their sponsors remained in optimistic mood over the outlook.

Carbide Split-Up

Union Carbide finished the day unchanged, but strong buying has been coming into this stock on knowledge of important developments shortly to be announced. The directors are considering a four-for one split-up in the shares, a step which will undoubtedly lead to larger distribution to stockholders. There is some uncertainty as to the payments on the new stock, but a $2 basis is considered a minimum with a remote possibility of a $3 rate. Carbide has large earnings in subsidiaries which it could easily add to its reported income and show a much larger net than has been disclosed in the past.

Standard Milling, which has been under accumulation for weeks, touched a record high price; Gold Dust likewise advanced. A merger of the two properties is believed under way, with the likelihood that stockholders of Standard Milling will be an offer of two shares of Gold Dust in exchange for each share of Milling. Their relative prices seem to confirm this opinion. Standard Milling has been much sought after by various companies. Pittsburgh Coal touched its daily new high before reacting under profit-taking sales encouraged by belief that the stock is entitled to a rest. Island Creek Coal achieved greater activity. Worthington Pump had a sharp advance to a new high on buying by interests who foresee a profitable future for this enterprise, a leader in its field and one of the most prominent Diesel engine builders in the country.

Oils Advance

Standard of New York featured the oils as big blocks were taken at higher prices. People close to the company are said to be the principal buyers. Sinclair was helped by expectation that dividends will be resumed this month. Railroad stocks were stimulated by possibility of congress doing away with the recapture clause in the railroad statutes.

Pere Marquette was mentioned as a favorite issue of the strong banking group sponsoring Eastern railroad consolidation. Barnsdall advanced on knowledge of its exceedingly favorable situation and outlook.

CHICAGO REVIEW

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (AP)—Corn values bulged more than three cents a bushel today and wheat nearly two cents. Widespread unfavorable conditions hampering the movement of the corn crop was largely responsible tobether with enlarged European buying of wheat from North America. Notice was also taken of renewed talk about chances of farm legislation during this session of congress.

Closing quotations on corn were bouyant, 2¾@2⅞c to 3¼c net higher. Wheat finished 1⅝c to 1⅞c up, oats ⅝c to 1¼c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12 cents.

Corn trading especially developed into a broad affair today, with prices of all deliveries advancing to new peaks for the season. Offerings whether of future deliveries or of corn available for immediate use turned out to be entirely too meager to stem the general buying rush that took place.

Contributing to the upward swing of the corn market were Argentine advices which tended to arouse anxiety as to the Argentine corn crop outlook. There were also dispatches at hand indicating that other cities had been outbidding Chicago for rural supplies.

Wheat market advances were influenced by the big gains in corn and by estimates that export purchases of wheat today amounted to 1,700,000 bushels, including some domestic hard winter wheat at the gulf of Mexico.

Oats as well as wheat were higher owing in large degree to sympathy with corn. All deliveries of oats rose to within a fraction of the best figure on the crop.

Insurgent Forces March On Afghanistan Capital

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 9 (UP)—Advices from Peshawar today said "serious fighting" was taking place 10 miles north of Kabal, capital of Afghanistan, and rebels were advancing against government troops.

The insurgents, who revolted against King Amanullah's reform laws, were reported gaining an advantage over the king's soldiers and advancing toward the capital. Batchai Sakkao, brigand leader, who led the former attack on the capital, is in command of the rebels.

'Girl-Friend' Holds Coat, Pistol Drops—Now He's in Jail

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. (AP)—Listen to William Hanson singing last night about 11 o'clock:

"Is she my girl friend? Vo-Dodeo-Do."

—And to William Hanson singing this morning about 1 o'clock:

"If I had the wings of an Anjul, from these prison walls I would fly."

Hanson went calling on the "girl friend" Miss Edith Hampel, last night. At 11 o'clock Miss Hampel produced Hanson's overcoat and offered to hold it for him. As he was putting it on, a revolver fell from the pocket, struck the floor and was discharged. The bullet struck Miss Hampel in the right knee.

He took her to a hospital, and they took him to a police station.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 9. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—With few exception, fat lamb prices have advanced daily for the past month but on today's session, declines of 25@50c were scored at practically all markets; choice fed western sold at $16.75 on the Chicago market for the day's top; receipts were rather liberal with a total of 66,900 received as compared with 41,994 last Wednesday and 52,419 a year ago.

Trade in hogs was very uneven; opening trade to shippers ruled active at steady to 10c higher rates while on closing rounds, some markets reported losses of 5c to 15c as compared with yesterday's levels; both St. Louis and Chicago had a $9.25 top on choice, light and medium weight offerings; aggregate receipts at the 11 markets were 124,300 against 131,726 a week ago and 136,663 the same day last year.

Limited offerings of lightweight fed steers and yearlings held prices at steady levels with weightier kinds and most of the short fed arrivals met a slow trade at weak to 25c lower levels; all classes of she stock held at steady to weak prices; with heavy heifers very dull; lightweight yearlings brought $16.75 at Chicago for the day's top; trade in stockers and feeders was very limited with prices fully steady with the week's advance; receipts around the loop were 39,500 with the total at 39,550 as compared with 40,922 a week ago and 40,335 a year ago.

FORT WORTH MARKET

FORT WORTH, Jan. 9. (AP)—A more liberal supply of all classes of cattle was yarded for Wednesday's trading. Most classes got away to the trade promptly in the morning trading and held steady the balance of the session. With cables 2 to 5 points lower than due, opening prices at Chicago were 2 to 6 points down and further slight losses were reported just after the opening call.

Gotham Police Face Second Big Shakeup

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. (UP)—Alleged laxity in searching for the slayer of Arnold Rothstein may cause another one of the sensational shakeups to which New York police have become so accustomed lately, it was indicated today.

After revealing that police had Hyman Biller, the man sought in connection with the Rothstein murder in coustody and had released him. Police Commissioner Grover Whalen said more detectives would be called to answer charges of neglect of duty.

FATHER'S SLAYER VOTED GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

FORT SCOTT, Kan., Jan. 9. (INS)—Ira Baird, farmer near here, is being held in jail today after being convicted of second degree murder here last night, in connection with the death of his father, George M. Baird, July 4.

The elder Baird died from a fractured skull after being struck over the head with a heavy chain in the hands of the son, following a quarrel.

$60,000 SHIP EXPLOSION

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 9. (AP)—An explosion on a tugboat on the Kanawha river today injured one man, jarred the city and destroyed the boat. The craft, being built for the United States engineering department at Galveston, Texas, was near completion. The vessel was valued at between $50,000 and $60,000.

MONEY BILLS LATER

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. (AP)—A bloc has been formed in the house of representatives sufficient in strength to frustrate any attempt to introduce "money bills" during the regular session of the 41st legislature, Ray Holder of Lancaster, one of the leaders in the movement which swept W. S. Barron of Bryan into the speaker's chair, declared today.

SUIT OPPOSES ARCHER ROAD

Rancher Asks $100,000 To Split Property

An injunction restraining Archer county from proceeding with the construction of a road through the W. M. Coleman lands was asked in a petition laid before Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court Wednesday. A hearing was set for 9 o'clock Friday morning, Jan. 11.

Petition Filed

The petition, prepared by John C. Kay, asks the restraining order on the grounds that the county commissioners court, in asserting its right of eminent domain and claiming a right of way through the property, failed to comply with all the provisions of the statute. The plaintiff alleges that no petition asking the road was brought before the court before the land was condemned, and that the court failed in its duty to try to agree with the landowner before asserting its right.

Mr. Coleman owns 14,057 acres of Archer county land. In December the commissioners court ordered the construction of a road through the land, awarding $1,844.25 in compensation, and providing that the county should construct fences on either side of the road as it ran through the Coleman property. The proposed road is a straightening of the state and county highway from Windthorst, on the Jacksboro route, through Scotland to the Wichita county line.

Claims $100,000 Award

On Jan. 8, Mr. Coleman filed his bill of exceptions to the action of the commissioners, making the same allegations set forth in the injunction proceedings here. On the same date he filed his appeal bond in the Archer county court, claiming an award of $100,000 instead of the $1,844.25 granted by the court.

He alleged that the proposed new road, running seven miles across his ranch, would split it half in two and would injure his ranges and pasture land in the sum named.

The county has already completed its survey and established the roadway, and is ready to proceed with construction. R. S. Morrison, county attorney of Archer county, is being assisted in his defense of the case by John Moore, county auditor.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Broyles Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Josephine Broyles, 34, who died Tuesday night, will be held from the First Church of Christ at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon with Rev. L. S. White, pastor officiating. o'clock Thursday morning with Rev L. S. White, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Dean Hudgens, Maurice Hudgens, Ralph Schoolfield, Richard Kenley, C. B. Haynie and K. C. Mitchell.

Mrs. Broyles is survived by her husband, D. B. Broyles; one daughter, Katherine; two sisters, Mrs. W. W. Foster of Wichita Falls and Mrs. A. F. Bates of Tolar, N. M.; one brother, C. K. Cook of Wichita Falls, and her stepmother, Mrs. L. H. Cook of Bangs, Texas.

ORGATONE COMPANY WARNS PUBLIC

Manufacturers of Popular Medicine Will Not Guarantee to Be Genuine Any Orgatone Sold by Non-Agents

Positive information has been received at the Orgatone offices that certain dealers, other than our duly authorized agents, are now offering for sale a preparation bearing the name "Orgatone" at a reduced price. Also, in bulk. These articles, we are informed, do not bear the name of the Orgatone Company, and have other indications of having come through irregular, if not illegitimate channels.

It is also reported that some of these dealers have even gone so far as to destroy all marks of identification by removing labels, etc., leaving nothing but the plain bottles which they are offering to the public as Genuine Orgatone Five Grain Tablets.

In order that the public may be fully warned and protected in this matter, the Orgatone Company issues the following statement:

"In view of the fact that certain unscrupulous dealers are now seeking to profit by the tremendous sales and popularity of Genuine Five Grain Orgatone Tablets, the people are hereby warned and cautioned against buying Orgatone Tablets from any firm excepting the duly authorized agents of the Orgatone Company, whose name appears in connection with all newspaper advertisements in each city and town where Orgatone is sold.

"Our sole reason in selling Orgatone on the exclusive agency plan through one reputable firm in each city was adopted for the specific purpose of protecting the public against frauds and imitations.

"Genuine Orgatone Five Grain Tablets positively can not be sold by any dealers at a legitimate profit for less than $1.25 per bottle, or six bottles for less than $6.25, and we wish to go on record in stating publicly that we positively will not guarantee any Orgatone to be genuine that does not bear the name of the Orgatone Company, or that is sold in bulk."

Genuine Orgatone Five Grain Tablets bear the signature of the Orgatone Company and are sold in Wichita Falls by Allison's Drug Store, 716 Indiana avenue, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative direct from the Orgatone laboratories who charges nothing to explain his views on health and hygiene.—Adv.

Moody Names Martin Presiding Judge Of Judicial District of 16 Counties

Appointment of Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court to succeed former Judge F. O. McKinsey of Weatherford as presiding judge of the eighth administrative judicial district was announced by Gov. Dan Moody Wednesday.

The district includes Tarrant, Wichita, Wise, Young, Archer, Cook, Clay, Denton, Eastland, Erath, Hood, Jack, Montague, Palo Pinto, Parker and Stephens counties. As presiding judge, Judge Martin will administer the task of equalizing the work of the judges within the district. He will have the power to send any judiciary, not otherwise busy, to relieve congested conditions in any court in the district.

Judge Martin is the second official to be accorded the honor of presiding officer of the district. Judge McKinsey, head of the district since its formation, retired from the position of district judge at Weatherford Jan. 1.

The same announcement Wednesday brought the news of the appointment of Judge W. R. Chapman of Anson as presiding officer in the fourth district. Haskell, Jones and Baylor counties are among those listed in the fourth area.

50 Bills Expected in Report Of Grand Jury After Active Week

Investigations into the holdup of the Spoonts Drug store No. 1 on Christmas night, and into all the circumstances involved in an attempted hijacking of a garage in Electra early in December are occupying the attentions of the 30th district grand jury in session here.

Joe Ireland, one of five men arrested here after the Spoonts robbery, was questioned Wednesday afternoon.

Two women, believed to have information about the hijacking in Electra, signed statements in the office of District Attorney Sam Spence Wednesday. More than a dozen witnesses in the two cases were called Wednesday and the probe is expected to be completed Thursday.

Return of more than 50 bills before the end of the week is expected, Mr. Spence said.

New Move Starts For More 'Dry' Funds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—A new move to increase funds for prohibition enforcement was initiated today when Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, introduced an amendment to the deficiency bill which would make an additional $50,000,000 immediately available.

Senator Harris said that "everybody knows that present enforcement is a farce," and that the prohibition bureau is unable to obtain enough men of the class required to do the work. He explained, however, that he was not criticising the present personnel.

Peace Pact Opponents Begin "Last Ditch" Fight

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (US)—Senate irreconcilables today began a last ditch fight to force an interpretative declaration which would keep America free from future entanglements as a party to the Paris Peace pact.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, championing the pact without qualifications, and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, commanding forces demanding an interpretation, had failed to reach a compromise, and the situation remained unchanged.

SAMUEL YOUNG DIES AT BOWIE

Pioneer Cattleman One Of Early Settlers

Special to The Record News.

BOWIE, Texas, Jan. 9.—Samuel Young, 70, pioneer cattleman and resident of Bowie died at the family home here Tuesday night after a prolonged illness. Funeral services will be held at the First Methodist church Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be in the local cemetery. Burial will be in charge of the Masonic lodge.

Mr. Young is survived by a brother, Hogan Young, of Bowie; a son and two daughters, Will Young and Mrs. T. D. Stalling, of Bowie, and Mrs. Chesley W. Brown, of Dallas.

Sam Young and his brother, Hogan, were among the first settlers of this section and early entered the cattle business near Stoneburg where they still have large ranch holdings.

The brothers moved to Bowie about 30 years ago. Sam immediately became identified with the business life of town. At the time of his death he was interested in the Young and Burgess Furniture store and other business enterprises of this city, and owned considerable real estate.

He was a member of the board of stewards of the Methodist church for many years and was active in this work until his health failed some months ago.

He was considered one of the patriachs of the local Masonic lodge and was revered by all Masons in this section. He had occupied all offices of all bodies of the Masonic fraternity here from blue lodge through the commandery. He was a member of the Maskat temple shrine at Wichita Falls.

Electra Lions To Give Program Here

Members of the Electra Lions club will present the program at the next meeting of the local Lions club Wednesday, Jan. 16, it was announced Wednesday at the regular weekly luncheon of the organization at the Y. W. C. A.

Dr. R. H. Graham announced also that the barbecue for Lions club members and their wives, postponed from last week, will be held Thursday night at his home at Call field.

Mrs. J. E. Hall, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. Lucille Brooks Huff, entertained with a violin solo. A program of musical numbers was given by the male quartet of Conroe Normal and Industrial college. E. F. Bohmfalk led in a club singsong, with J. S. Pitman at the piano.

Boy Greatest Asset Of Community, Club Told

Countries in which the influence of Christ has been felt are the only ones in which the boy is recognized as a community's greatest asset, according to Rev. Patrick D. Moreland, pastor of the Grant Street Methodist church, who addressed the Optimist club Wednesday noon in its regular weekly meeting.

Influence upon boys can be exerted much more affectively by individuals than by organizations, the speaker declared.

Ernest Albright of Houston made a brief speech. A quartet from the Conroe Normal and Industrial college, negro Baptist institution, entertained with a group of songs. A club singsong was led by Joel MacGregor.

CITY FILES U. S. REPORT

The annual report of cash receipts and payments by the city for the preceding year was completed Wednesday and sent to the director of census of the department of commerce at Washington by W. E. McBroom, city secretary, it was announced Wednesday.

The statistical report, given on an analysis sheet supplied by the government, is usually made out by agents of the department of commerce.

Gunmen Shoot Banker In $1,000 Robbery

OWENSBORO, Ky., Jan. 9. (AP)—Two men, one said to have been armed with a machine gun, held up the West Louisville bank near here today and escaped with about $1,000 after shooting Hays Bratcher, farmer. Martin O'Bryan, cashier, said he believed one of the robbers was a woman.

NEW ZOO KEEPER

Appointment of Ira Crews to succeed Boyd Vardy as day caretaker of the Municipal zoo was announced Wednesday by C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent. Mr. Vardy, who has been connected with the park department for more than three years, and has been caretaker of the zoo since its inception, resigned Wednesday morning.

Best Remedy for Obstinate Cough Made at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It also promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and at the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Byrd Names Newly Found Harbor In Honor of Floyd Bennett, Pilot

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—A radio message from the Byrd south polar expedition copyrighted by the New York Times and St. Louis Post-Dispatch announces that Commander Byrd has named the harbor he recently discovered in the Bay of Whales in honor of Floyd Bennett, and the cape at the entrance to the harbor in honor of Commander John Rodgers.

Floyd Bennett, who died of pneumonia last spring while on his way to the relief of the Bremen fliers on Greenley island, would have been Byrd's chief pilot on the present expedition had he lived.

He flew with Byrd to the north pole in 1926 and only a broken leg kept him from accompanying the commander on his transatlantic flight. He broke his leg when the plane America fell during a test flight, April 16, 1927. Bennett's body rests in Arlington cemetery at Washington, where he was given a hero's burial. He was awarded the congressional medal of honor shortly before his death.

Mid-Year Seniors Draft Complete Program for Commencement Week

From sun-rise breakfast in the cold, gray dawn, to wakeful slumber party after the ball is over, the mid-year seniors at the Wichita Falls High school will fill the week before commencement with a crowded program of festivity.

Observation of the annual senior week will begin with the baccalaureate sermon at the Floral Heights Methodist church on Sunday morning, Jan. 13, and will continue through a banquet and dance at Ye Ole French Inn on the evening following the commencement exercises on Friday, Jan. 18.

The weeks activities are outlined in full in the program below:

NOW M'CLOSKEY SEEMS WINNER

Election More Muddled As Trial Waits

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 9 (AP)—While the trial of Augustus J. McCloskey, congressman-elect, encountered another delay today the figures of Nov. 6 election and the ways and means of reporting and certifying them became further involved.

Fast on the heels of the sworn statement of the Guadalupe county judge that he had made a 725-vote mistake in favor of McCloskey came a statement from the Bee county judge that his figures, showing a majority of 417 votes for McCloskey had not been counted by the state canvassing board.

The effect of the righting of the first alleged wrong would be to restore the congressional seat to Harry M. Wurzbach, Texas' only Republican congressman, by a majority of 98 votes.

On the other hand, counting in the Bee county votes would have the effect of confirming the election of McCloskey.

Just Like An Ostrich

A medical authority says that a person who tries to cover up skin blemishes and pimples with toilet creams and powders is just as foolish as an ostrich that buries its head in the sand to avoid danger. Skin eruptions are nature's warning that constipation is throwing poisons into your blood stream and weakening your whole constitution. Remove the constipated condition and you will strengthen your system against disease and clear up your disfigured skin. The best way to do this is with a course of Herbine, the vegetable medicine that acts naturally and easily, which you can get at Miller Drug Store.—Adv.

Jury Composed Entirely of Men To Try Northcott

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Jan. 9 (AP)—A jury of 12 men was accepted by both defense and prosecution late today to decide the guilt or innocence of Gordon Stewart Northcott, charged with torturing and murdering three boys in his Inweville chicken ranch.

The 12 men were sworn at once.

Acceptance of the jury climaxed six days of court sessions. A special venire of 10 additional jurors was called to select two alternates.

NEW AIR LINE TO OPEN SOON

Lone Star and Braniff Join In Service

the Lone Star Aviation company announced a few weeks ago was made Wednesday in conference between owners of the two enterprises, it was stated. The Braniff line from Tulsa and Oklahoma City will transfer passengers for San Angelo, Abilene and other points in that section of the state to the Lone Star company's ships at the local municipal airport for immediate relay to their destinations. The Lone Star line also will serve as a feeder to the Braniff system, it was announced, from the San Angelo district, carrying passengers for transfer here to ships leaving for Fort Worth and Dallas, and to Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

Plans for the opening of the Lone Star Aviation company's passenger service called for the installation of new ships of latest type.

DON'T GET UP NIGHTS
Rev. D. Lee, Portsmouth, N. H. says, "Come or write to 101 Cresent Way, and I will tell you how in a short time the bladder irritation was relieved by Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). My case was of long standing and painful. Was bothered 4 or 5 times each night." It acts on bladder as epsom salts does on bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and lessens excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes getting up nights. The tablets cost 3c each at all drug stores. Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio, or locally at Allison's Drug Store.—Adv.

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT
There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way, modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.
That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And everybody, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.
Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola, because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.

BRIDGE FIRMS SEEK CONTRACT

Many Inquiries Received By County Engineer

Building and bridge contractors all over the country are writing for plans of the bridge to be constructed across Wichita river at Scott street, J. M. Isbell, county engineer, said Wednesday. He has completed his detailed drawings and estimates for the structure, bids for which are to be opened by the county commissioners court Jan. 1.

The Reed and Costley firm of building contractors, and J. P. Foty, contractor, both of Wichita Falls, have been supplied with plans, Mr. Isbell said. The McCall Engineering company at Waco has written for blue prints. J. E. Morgan of El Paso, under whose direction the city auditorium was built, has also requested a copy of the drawing and plans. Others have also made inquiry.

Mr. Isbell said he expected about a dozen bids to be offered, judging by the amount of interest being shown. He himself has completed estimates of the cost of the construction. He refused to announce his figures, beyond the general statement that the sum did not exceed $75,000. His drawing calls for a four-span cantilever concrete bridge.

Property owners near the bridge have put $25,000 in escrow for use in building the bridge, the county to pay the remaining two-thirds of the cost.
