NEAR HEAT RECORD MAY BE REACHED

TEMPERATURE SOARS TODAY OVER STATE

FORT WORTH, Aug. 10. (AP)—Fort Worth faced a new record high temperature for 1936 today when the mercury passed 102 degrees at 11 a. m. Will Howard, 46, worker on a WFA school project, collapsed from the heat during the morning. He was treated at a hospital.

Texas, dripping perspiration, watched the temperature soar Monday to levels near all time records. In fact, Dr. J. L. Clime, government forecaster at Dallas, watched the mercury go up to 101 at noon and expressed fear that the 23 year record of 106.2 in Dallas would be surpassed today. ### 70 DRIVERS' LICENSES ARE SUSPENDED

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (AP)—First five months operation of the Texas Drivers' License law has witnessed suspension of driving rights of only 70 of the 1,500,000 persons issued driving cards on April 1.

Cards were issued to all without tests. The licenses are suspended for three violations of specified traffic rules within a year. Suspension of license revocations also follow negligent homicide while driving; drunken driving; conviction of an offense made a felony in the motor laws; failure to stop and aid after an accident; two convictions of striking a person while driving.

Two hundred drivers have had a third of the license turned into the State Safety Department under the provision that three minor traffic law violations cause suspension.

To facilitate the record of such offenses, the licenses were issued in three sections with perforations between them. A convicting judge or justice of the peace tears off one section and sends it to the Safety Department. When the three have been sent in, the driver has no license.

One justice of the peace made quick work of the case of one offender. He convicted the driver on each of three separate counts, tore off a section of his license for each mailing all at once to the state office.

The sectional licenses have caused confusion in other states. Texas motorists on tour have had part of the Texas license torn off and sent back to Austin for traffic violations in other states. One Arizona justice of the peace was particularly active. He has mailed three first offense tickets within a month. In Omaha, Neb., one justice revoked a Texan's license. He wrote "revoked" across the face of the license and mailed it to Austin.

Most of the 70 suspensions have been caused by drunken driving. There were less revocations for "assault" and few for negligent homicide. First suspensions are for six months. If the driver is caught driving during the license suspension period, the time automatically is extended for a year.

Licenses issued last April will be good for three years, unless revoked or suspended.

Texas Penitentiary Methods Will Conform to the Modern Day Needs

By RICHARD M. MOREHEAD, United Press Staff Correspondent. HUNTSVILLE, August 10. (AP)—Texas' troubled prison systems may find peace in the new classification and segregation program now conducted by Frank Loveland, Massachusetts expert whose work began last March.

Penal methods change with each era, and the theories back of them change even more slowly, Loveland said. From the ancient theory of "an eye for an eye" to modern attempts at rehabilitation of victims of unfortunate environments, methods and theories have changed greatly. The theory under which classification and segregation is being carried out at Texas prisons is this: "Individual treatment depends upon accurate diagnosis of problems presented by the individual, and a valid diagnosis is dependent upon a complete history of the offender and description of the symptoms."

When Death Billowed Up in Great Forest Fire

PUTNAM TO BE NEXT TOWN ON TRADE TRIP

Putnam will be the next town visited by merchants and Lobo band on the series of Good Will trips being sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in their efforts to assist in town spirit and trade extension for Cisco. The Putnam trip will be Thursday, August 20, the band concerts by Bandmaster Maddox will begin about 8:30.

Putnam was scheduled for two weeks ago but a rain made it impossible to hold the meeting and it was called off at a late hour. The Scranton trip for last Thursday had already been scheduled and so Putnam had to await for a new schedule. Carl Baird, trade trip committeeman urges that all businessmen take their families and make the trip.

A. D. Stirling, president of the Juniors, gives a great deal of his time each week to calling firms here reminding them of the trade excursions.

A donkey softball game scheduled for this Thursday made a trip impractical for this week, Baird said.

Eight in San Diego Race

Eight candidates entered the race for the seat vacated by George Burnham (R.), San Diego. Five are Democrats, two Republicans and one a Communist.

Altogether, 128 candidates filed for the 20 positions. Many of them entered their names on two or more party tickets, seeking to make a clean sweep in the primary.

Those who filed on more than one ticket must win the nomination of the party in which they are registered if they are to go on to the November election. If, for example, a Democrat wins the Republican nomination but loses the Democratic, he will be dropped from the race.

EXTORTIONIST BEING SOUGHT BY OFFICERS

EASTLAND, Aug. 10. (AP)—Officers sought some further clues today to the identity of an extortionist who attempted to obtain $3,000 from Samuel Butler, oil company president, and brother of Brigadier General Emedley D. Butler, famous retired marine commander.

RACE CROWDED FOR CONGRESS IN CALIFORNIA

By GEORGE E. HELMER, United Press Staff Correspondent. SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 10. (AP)—Nineteen of California's 20 congressmen—the 20th is not a candidate for re-election—will have varying degrees of opposition when they go to the state primary Aug. 25 to compete for party nominations.

Four are conceded good chances of emerging from the primary in a strong position for the general election. The other 15 may face fights up to Election Day.

Already assured of re-election is Richard W. Welch (R.), San Francisco whose only opponent is Lawrence Ross, Communist party candidate. The Communist registration is slight.

Rep. Harry L. Englebright (R.) Nevada City, also appears likely to win unless his Democratic opponent, Benton Fremont, shows a surprising gain. Englebright is registered on both tickets and will have no opposition in November if he can win the nomination of both parties in the primary.

The other two incumbents with less to worry than their colleagues are Clarence F. Lea (D.) Santa Rosa, with Republican and Communist opponents, and B. W. Gearhart (R.), Fresno, with Democratic and Communist opposition.

There are 14 candidates for Rep. John Henry Hoepfeler's Los Angeles Democratic seat; 11 each for Democrats John M. Costello's places; 13 for the position held by Thomas F. Ford (D.), Los Angeles. Reps. Frank H. Buck (D.), Charles Kramer (D.), and Sam L. Collins (R.), have six opponents each. The other incumbents have three, four or five.

One contest which is attracting attention in the northern section is that between Buck and Sheridan Downey (D.), who is attorney for Dr. Frances E. Townsend and has the backing of pension plan advocates.

Rules for Boys!

Twelve rules for bringing up a strong, healthy boy are given in "Liberty" by William M. Roper, famous Princeton football coach. They may interest parents.

1. Have competent physicians and dentists watch his physical condition.
2. Give him good, clean athletes for hero worship.
3. Encourage him in home exercise.
4. Watch his food; make him eat slowly and with regularity; and do not permit him to play immediately after meals.
5. Stress the playing of football, baseball and tennis. See that he has good equipment and that his playing field is proper.
6. Be sure he gets plenty of sleep.
7. See that he takes a bath after each game or practice.
8. Require him to play with boys his own weight.
9. Do not permit him to play when injured.
10. Prevent him from babying himself.
11. Teach him to be a good sportsman.
12. Correct awkwardness or clumsiness by properly selecting games.

This is all sound advice. Applying it, however, may offer difficulties. It is easy enough to get an ordinary youngster to go in for athletics, and not hard to make him a good sportsman; but taking proper care of himself, especially in the matter of food, sleep and personal safety, is another. It is a perpetual wonder how normal boys ever grow up into sensible citizens. Yet they do—and largely through their own blunders rather than their parents' advice.

Admirers Shower Major With Gifts

Major Bowes of amateur fame and part of his famous collection of "range bonnets," gifts from his Texas admirers.

Hand made, hand engraved gongs are only part of the unique collection of gifts from admiring friends that have poured in to Major Edward Bowes, America's Number One honored citizen.

During the past two years, as radio listeners know, every Bowes broadcast has resulted in the Major being made an honorary something or other. He is the police chief and the fire marshal of more towns than probably any other man in the country. In Texas he is captain of the Texas Rangers besides being an honorary member of the Governor's staff, a member of the Texas Centennial and the possessor of an unusually fine collection of ten gallon Stetsons or range bonnets as they are called in the Lone Star State.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, Aug. 10.—"Band-wagon" sentiment has affected many thousands of voters in the July 25th primary election, and pushed several state races to the close question whether there would be a run-off or not. Besides this, there was the second-term tradition in two contested races, that of Gov. Alfred and of Chas. Ernest O. Thompson of the railroad commission, as well as in the uncontested race of Attorney General William McCraw.

Common consent was persuasive that incumbents had a marked advantage, and those seeking second terms would be renominated, whether in one primary or in a run off. Therein, voters who didn't want to throw away their ballots, who felt the normal desire to be on the winning side, were drawn to early alignment with the incumbents, and this further increased the strength and made visible the evidence of the band-wagon movement.

Land Commr. J. H. Walker alone of the family of state officials did seek re-election but all the force of his own support were thrown behind John W. Hawkins, for a third of a century has been a member of the land-office staff, and the benefits of incumbency fell upon him in nearly the same measure as the candidates seeking re-election.

Even though the second-term candidates saw no remote danger of failing to win renomination, there has been some grumbling about the necessity of a second primary. This complaint has been mostly from the candidates themselves.

It has brought conspicuously forward the fact that second primaries are unnecessary in any race and that Texas by having this cumbersome practice, fails to get the benefit of the much better system widely in use that of the preferential primary, where first, second and third choices are recorded in a single primary, and the nominee declared in every race by adding second choice votes when no candidate has a majority of firsts.

The preferential ballot also afforded escape from the choice, happily avoided this year, between extremes of often the candidates least acceptable to middle-ground folks, and least capable of reconciling the divergences shown in a first primary. It is well-known that people vote prejudices first, judgment second; so that a candidate named by second-choice ballots uniformly would tend to be one nearest the middle ground of the range of issues in a campaign.

Remember Loss Woods for sheriff. Vote for him Saturday, August 22. Mr. Woods was high man with a nice plurality in the first primary. —Political Adv.

Women Play Important Part In Choosing Today's Motor Car, as They Do In Making It

An Attractive Ensemble at Ford Exposition

Careful Operations in Manufacture of V-8, If Work Is Light and Pleasant, Are Turned Over to Women to Do

National surveys have shown that women are responsible for the choice in approximately 75 per cent of all automobile sales in the United States. They also have an important part in the building of cars and such tasks as they perform are demonstrated daily at the Ford Exposition building at the Texas Centennial in Dallas.

Of the more than 300 employees in the Ford building 65 are women. The modern motor car is by no means an exclusively "man-bull" machine. Women, too, add their quota of ingenuity to the manufacture of cars at Dearborn, Mich., and in the "village industries," originated by the Ford Motor Company.

Engineers long since have learned to design automobiles with the woman definitely in mind. This influence is to be seen in special types of upholstery, interior arrangements and color combinations. At every point where beauty can be added without sacrificing any degree of durability or comfort, the modern automobile has been built to meet this demand.

The average woman car owner of past years was interested primarily in appearance and style of her car. She wanted a car that "looked as smart" as her neighbors'. But she left the mechanical and engineering questions to the "man of the house."

Today, however, she takes keen interest not only in appearance, but in mechanical equipment as well where the choice of a car is concerned. She demands a car that is quiet in operation—handles easily in congested traffic and on the open highway—and one that gives the utmost safety for herself and family.

Women are not able to do all the jobs in a large industry such as car manufacturing, but there are scores of tasks to be executed that require the delicate touch of feminine hands and fingers. In the Ford building at the Centennial in Dallas 14 girls are hired to operate special sewing machines in the exhibit where upholstery is made. Another large group is employed by Essex Wire. Fourteen girls in this exhibit demonstrate the making of headlight wire assemblies. The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company exhibit in the same building employs another group of girls.

There are seven girl members of Jose Manzanares South American orchestra. This orchestra gives concerts each night, except Mondays, in the court.

Women are becoming particularly interested in the program of "Village Industries," as operated by the Ford Motor Company. In Michigan today there are a number of small industrial units where certain small parts of the Ford V-8 are manufactured. It is here that many women work under ideal conditions, living in small communities and doing work that is light and agreeable.

In the Ypsilanti, Mich., plant, one of the largest of the village industries, for example, 58 women are entrusted with the delicate operations involved in assembling starter switches that will later find their way to a Ford V-8 car. At another plant of this character 78 women are employed steadily.

Naturally, in the arrangements of the Ford Exposition building, the women's viewpoint was taken into careful consideration.

ALL AMERICAN FOOTBALL GAME PLAYS SEPT. 7

DALLAS, Aug. 10. (UP)—Two of the greatest gridiron mentors in the history of southwest conference football will direct an All American grid machine to action against the Chicago Bears of the National Professional league in the Cotton Bowl, Texas Centennial Exposition, the night of September 7.

Matty Bell, whose Southern Methodist University Mustangs rode the crest of last year's national gridiron wave into the Rose Bowl, and "Dutch" Meyer, whose Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, fell only a few strides behind, will coach the greatest All American team ever to assemble as a gridiron unit on a Southwestern field.

Power, speed, versatility, deception, sensational passing attacks—all will be found in use by a Bell-Meyer coached football eleven. A Bell planned rapier-like passing attack, or a Meyer made power plant thrust, either will bring the football fans to their feet. That's why they are in the national grid limelight today, and that's the reason for their selection as coaches of the All Americans who seem destined to make history with Texas as the Lone Star state celebrates its 100th anniversary.

Several of the young stars who performed so brilliantly for both institutions last fall, who were so instrumental in projecting Southwest conference football in a national limelight will again tread the gridiron for their old coaches. In the meantime, reports from Bear headquarters were that Coach George Halas will bolster his eleven through addition of several young ex-collegians not only for the all American game here, but for the campaign for another national championship.

RENT PROBLEM SOLVED TOLEDO — (UP) — Tony Zill, a World War veteran, solved the rent problem 20 years ago by building a houseboat, which he ties up at various points along the Maumee river. While he fishes or works on the river boats, his wife and dog take care of the three-room house, which is equipped with modern conveniences.

WHEN GOOD FELLOWS GET TOGETHER

It's always fair weather when fair fishermen get together. Vice Pres. John Nance Garner, left, beams a conclusion to the tale of his four-pound catch that didn't get away while Col. Ernest O. Thompson, center, strokes his chin in doubt. To the right Gov. James V. Allred respectfully listens while he thinks up one to tell. It all happened on the lawn at the governor's mansion where the vice president and Mrs. Garner spent Tuesday night en route to Dallas to be feted Wednesday at the Texas Centennial.

There is also a Moro head knife from the Philippine Islands. The chief who gave the knife to an American army officer no longer had any use for it because the United States refused to let him chop off any more heads with it.

RESORT HOTEL

BEGIN HERE TODAY. ANN HAMILTON, pretty young secretary in a large business office, goes to a travel agency to make plans for her two-week vacation. BILL WARE, travel bureau employee, persuades her to use Lake Racine...

On the tenth day of her vacation Ann suggested to Bill that they climb the highest peak, Mt. Racine. It was an all-day trip, and was considered a dangerous climb. One had to use crampons and ice ropes on the upper reaches of the mountain...

After 10 minutes at the top they started down. Once, when the thunder crashed loudly in their ears, Ann drew close to Bill. Her hands shook a little, and she clung to his wrists. It steadied her. "Steady!" he said. "You're safer here than down in the valley."

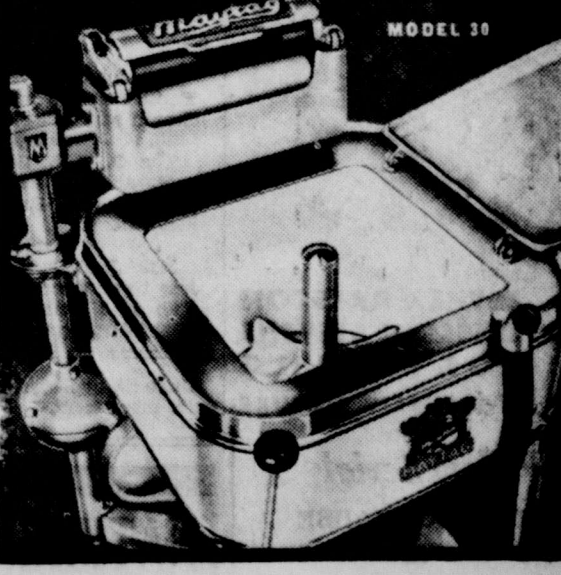

Bill strove manfully to keep them from slipping; he braced himself when Ann was descending the rocky ledges. There was but one thought in their minds now—to reach the lean-to halfway down the mountain. There was no longer any thought of reaching the valley before dark. In that moment of danger, she came to see Bill Ware for what he really was. She had no doubt that he was in love with her. He had told her so, time and time again. He had always been confident of proving his love for her. Now he was proving his love for her. Perhaps it was merely the instinct of a man who wants to protect the thing that is dear or necessary to him, but to Ann at this time Bill was like one of those knights in shining armor. Bill Ware, whom she had seen every week for six years in a city office, facing the hazards of the mountains, he was like a young savage.
