

HOW THE RAIN FELL IN COLLINGSWORTH
Drought-breaking rains from 1.3 to 3.15 inches were general over Collingsworth Tuesday night, April 11, although the amount varied from community to community. Here are amounts reported to the Wellington Leader Wednesday. Several communities could not be contacted. A small twister a mile and a half east of Lillie is indicated.

Rains Up to Three Inches End Six-Month Drouth in County

Six months of drouth was broken Tuesday night, April 11, with a rain that was general over the area and that in Collingsworth measured from 1.30 to 3 inches.

While the rain was hard in spots, there was little runoff and most of the county had none of the hard winds reported in some parts of the Panhandle.

Some hail fell in the northwest part of the county, but there were no definite reports of damage.

Ted Wheeler, who lives a mile and a half east of Lillie church, reported 3.5 inches of rain and hard wind. A funnel dropped out of the clouds about 5:20 p.m. which he believes touched the ground on his farm. Guy wires on his television antenna were broken and there was other evidence of twisting wind, he said.

Wellington received 1.38 of rain Tuesday night and a shower Monday brought the total to 1.50 in the Weather Bureau rain gauge at the State Highway Department office. With .63 inch of moisture received in mid-March, and smaller amounts recorded from time to time, the Tuesday night rain brought the Wellington total to 2.43.

The heaviest rainfall reported Tuesday night was by County Judge Zook Thomas, who had a total of 3.1 inches at his farm in the Lillie community. Of this, 1.2 inches fell during the afternoon.

On the whole, the rain was heaviest along Salt Fork River and in the Dodson area.

Samnorwood received two inches of rain, but to the south, along Salt Fork, around two and a half inches was received, and in the north part of the county, near Lela, it measured 1.50, according to Robert Dwight. This area received .50 moisture two weeks ago.

At Dodson, J. C. Howell reported that 1.79 was received in town. Olan Farris reported two inches at his place and farther east the rainfall measured up to 2.25 inches.

Quail received 1.3 inches of rain, Loyd Langley reported. Seven miles north, however, Ben Farmer in the Marella community received 1.7 inches. This also is near Salt Fork River.

No water was standing behind the terraces Wednesday morning.

There was wide variations in moisture conditions in the county prior to the rain.

Members of the Soil Conservation Service dug approximately three feet at a point a mile and a half west of Wellington Monday in preparation for the 4-H-FFA soil judging contest. It was dry all the way down, according to Gary Reed, work unit conservationist.

He estimated this rain would penetrate around 18 inches in

Bert Starkey, Lifelong County Resident, Dies

Bert Starkey, 71, a life-long resident of Collingsworth County, died in Shamrock General Hospital at 7:45 p.m. Friday, April 7. He had been ill several months, but until only a few weeks ago he continued his usual activities.

Mr. Starkey was a farmer-stockman and lived north of Dozier.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Starkey, who settled here in the early 1890's, William Albert Starkey was born in the Plymouth community July 17, 1895. He grew up there and attended the Plymouth schools, then one of the larger rural schools of the county.

About 50 years ago Mr. Starkey came to Wellington to work as a barber and later established his own shop. A man of genial nature, he made a circle of friends equalled by few in the town's business community.

About 1945 he sold his shop and moved to his farm at Dozier, but he continued to work as a barber in Shamrock.

Second Rabid Animal Found Near Dozier

A cat in the Dozier community has been found to have rabies, the second animal in that area to be diagnosed with the disease, Dr. Carter Holcomb, county health officer, has reported.

As a result, Clifford Oldham, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Oldham, is receiving rabies vaccine.

A second youth, Kim Janes, 14, is also taking the rabies shots as a precautionary measure after he was bitten by a stray cat that ran off after biting him. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Janes.

Dr. Holcomb said the cat, a pet of the Oldham family, apparently had been around skunks.

"I do not want to cause alarm, but people certainly should be extremely cautious around wild animals, especially skunks," Dr. Holcomb declared. He advised that household pets be vaccinated for rabies.

The Oldham cat became sick and died and the head was sent to the Department of Health for examination. Dr. Holcomb was notified of the results.

A few weeks ago a calf, also in the Dozier community, was found to have rabies.

Dr. Holcomb said he also had two reports from the Lutie community of skunks acting in a peculiar manner, attacking dogs without provocation.

Don Raburn Hurt in Wreck

Don Raburn, industrial development consultant with the Texas Industrial Commission, was injured in a two-car accident near Lockhart Tuesday evening, April 4.

Raburn received emergency treatment for a broken arm, two broken ribs and a cut tongue, then was transferred to an Austin hospital. He said he was due to be released Wednesday.

At the time they were notified of the accident, Mr. and Mrs. Raburn were told that the accident occurred when a vehicle pulled onto the highway immediately in front of Raburn's car.

Teenage Treat

What to serve?
This is always a question when you are frequent hostess for a group of teenagers.

You want to make sure that the food is nutritious as well as tasty and attractive.

Recent studies have shown that poor nutrition is a major problem among teenagers regardless of family income.

To help correct these poor eating habits, the U.S.D.A. through the National School Lunch Program is emphasizing the need for making nutritious foods more appealing.

Recently the school lunch workers in Oklahoma have developed a Peanut Butter Pie. What dessert could be more nutritious, sustaining or attractive for teenagers than peanut butter pie?

Here is the recipe for 25 ample servings. You'll need 2 cups peanut butter, 1 1/2 quarts dark Karo, 2 cups sugar, 12 eggs and 2 1/2 cups water, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon vanilla.

Eggs should be slightly beaten. Make pastry and line three 9-inch pans. Mix peanut butter and Karo. Add salt and vanilla.

Pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake at 425 degrees F. for 10 minutes, then reduce to 350 degrees F. for remainder of time. Cook until custard is set.

Try this at your next teenage party!

• Somegrease stains are almost impossible to remove from durable press fabric. For best results, apply a concentrated solution of detergent directly to the grease stain. Allow this to "work" for several hours before washing the entire garment. Persistent grease stains may require pre-treating with a solvent or a commercial stain remover.

• If the traditional remedy of rubbing with bar soap doesn't take the squeak out of your swivel chair or door hinge, try a squirt of the liquid form.

• Want to look slender? Soft fabrics such as crepe and silk blends won't give that bulky feeling you get with heavy textured fabrics. Fabrics in medium shades or color will flatter your skin and hair as well as your figure.

• Perennials make fine plants in the garden. Since they come up year after year, you'll have a much wider selection than you have with annual plants.

Wildlife Magazine Goes to Viet Nam

AUSTIN.—Morale on the Viet Nam front is due for a massive boost.

A Texas soldier on duty in the far away battle zone has written for a subscription to the Texas Parks and Wildlife magazine.

He has designs on his native field and streams, too, because he asked that the monthly report on wildlife generally be sent to his APO for only one year.

Your Cancer Crusade Has Three Functions This Year

Some time this month, one of your neighbors will knock on your door as a volunteer worker for the Cancer Crusade. This year, it is a three-pronged drive. Your worker will leave information concerning cancer which should be read by every family receiving it. You will have an opportunity to make a donation, the source of funds by which the American Cancer Society carries on its work.

For the first time, each adult will receive a survey card asking information concerning that person's health. You fill this card out in private, but you do not sign your name. The answers received are confidential, and the envelope is furnished for mailing. The Cancer Society needs the information to continue its studies.

Cancer has touched the lives of everyone in Collingsworth during the last year. Some have been victims, others have had the disease strike in their families. Possibly everyone has had one or more friends stricken with cancer in the last 12 months.

The Cancer Crusade is more than a fund-raising effort; it is an intensive educational program designed to help people to protect themselves and their families against cancer. This is the uniqueness of the Crusade. This makes it a life-saving mission.

OTHER EDITORS SAY . . .

Sign of Change

The Collingsworth county commissioners court last week beat the U. S. Supreme Court to the punch by redistricting that county into four precincts on a "one man, one vote" basis.

The result was four precincts in the county, each one having part of its boundaries in Wellington, the county seat.

The commissioners court arrived at the new precinct lines by taking a population count and placing, nearly exactly, the same number of people within each precinct.

Until they did this, Collingsworth county had a situation where three-fourths of the county was represented by one commissioner and one fourth of the population was represented by three commissioners.

The action was no doubt taken because it appears certain that the U. S. Supreme Court ruling will force all counties to re-district this way, by population alone. Collingsworth county was the leader in the movement which will probably spread to the rest of the Texas counties in time.

There has been talk about redistricting the counties into precincts of more equal population size for many years but until now this has been only talk. The Midland case, which was brought to force that county to redistrict on the basis of population has been several years in court. A similar suit brought in Moore county finally stalled out from court delay.

All of us will eventually feel the effects of this court decision. —The Sunday Herald (Perryton)

State Capital
NEWS
By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN.—Awaiting the governor's signature is a bill by Sen. Bernal to make eligible for old age assistance payments 10,000 persons who have lived in Texas 25 years or longer but who are not U.S. citizens.

Bernal said that no one knows how many elderly non-citizens there are in Texas, though the figure may run as high as 12,730. However, State Department of Public Welfare figures that 5,000 will sign up the first year and 10,000 the second.

Estimated cost to the state is approximately $1,000,000 the first year and $2,000,000 the second.

First state "civil rights" bill in recent history has been passed by the Legislature.

Measure by Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth prohibits discrimination because of race, religion, color, or national origin in employment with all branches of state and local government in Texas. It also forbids discrimination in agency-dealing with people.

Provisions extend to hiring employees, issuing permits, awarding contracts, use of facilities or participation in government programs. Violations are punishable by fines up to $1,000 and a year in jail.

Bill supplements the 1964 federal civil rights act and allows complaints of discriminatory practices to be filed first in state courts rather than federal courts.

LONG TERMS DELAYED

Proposed Constitutional amendment to provide four-year terms for governor and other statewide officials is bogged down in the Senate after booming through the House.

Senate placed the proposal on table subject to call after a motion to kill it failed 8-19.

Sponsor, Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells, will need two-thirds vote to call it off the table, plus recognition of the presiding officer.

COLLEGE BILLS CLEARED

Only a few hours after it cleared Committee, the Senate passed a bill authorizing a regional college district to operate a four-year Permian Basin College at Midland-Odessa.

Its fate in the House is uncertain. However, its author, Rep. Ace Pickens of Odessa predicts final passage there.

Even if passed, the governor has left some doubt whether he would sign the bill.

Senate also approved a bill to provide a separate board of regents for West Texas State University at Canyon.

COMMITTEES GO TO WORK

Quick action by various committees of the House and Senate in reporting out notable bills will keep Senators and Representatives busy during the coming weeks. Bills coming out:

—The Senate Constitutional Amendments committee reported favorably without debate or controversy the proposed constitutional amendment by Sen. Joe Bernal of San Antonio to lower the state voting age to 18. Bernal didn't even get to present his testimony or the numerous witnesses from all over the state.

—Same committee favorably reported a proposed constitutional amendment by Senator Wayne Connally of Floresville to gradually do away with ad valorem taxes.

—Rep. Temple Dickson of Sweetwater pushed through the House Judiciary Committee his Tort Claims Act, which would do away with the doctrine that prohibits suits against the state and local governments without permission of the Legislature.

—Senate Education Committee recommended passage of Sen. Wayne Connally's bill to exempt students from low-income families from having to pay tuition and fees at state-supported colleges and universities.

—Enabling bill to allow the Parks and Wildlife Department to issue $75,000,000 in bonds to finance the purchase and development of parks around the state was reported favorably by the House Committee on Parks and Wildlife. Its companion constitutional amendment to authorize the bonds has been passed by both Houses, but in different forms so it, too, is pending.

BILLS SIGNED

Governor Connally has signed two of this session's major bills into law— (1) Local option authority for cities to levy 1% sales taxes, and (2) making stronger the Sunday closing law.

Sales taxation at local level will be delayed until after August.

Under Sunday closing law amendments, merchants cannot sell 42 named items—including clothing, toys, furniture and hardware—on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays. The old "emergency purchase" certificate is out.

Two lesser bills also got Connally's signature. One establishes the Texas Fine Arts Commission on a permanent basis. Other allows the Parks and Wildlife Department to acquire, restore and maintain historical sites and those relating to prehistoric animal or plant life.

NO JURY EXEMPTIONS

Rep. Travis Peeler of Corpus Christi wanted to add veterans to the list of persons exempted from jury duty, but by the time the House finished with his bill, it removed all exemptions.

Bill, which now goes to the Senate, would take away the exemptions enjoyed by mothers of small children, lawyers, small businessmen and other large groups. It would allow the judges to decide whom to exempt from duty.

NO-PIT BAN

Texas Railroad Commission has issued a statewide order prohibiting the use of open earthen pits in the disposal of salt water produced in oil field operations. It takes effect Jan. 1, 1969.

Order will not affect no-pit orders already in effect in individual counties and fields.

Ban was based on evidence at the Commission's statewide hearing in December and from a study of conservation law and its own rules and regulations. Pits have been criticized because salt water sometimes leaks through and pollutes fresh-water supplies.

TORNADO SEASON

Because April, May and June are the peak tornado months in the U.S.—and Texas leads the country in tornadoes—the Department of Public Safety has issued a warning to citizens to take care.

Department has prepared an informative "flyer" telling what to do when a tornado threatens. Citizens are urged to get in touch with their city or county civil defense directors for more information.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

My cinch-seeking neighbor has been offering 10 to 1 odds that Washington will never frown at striking TV newscasters as sternly as it has at the striking cow-juicers.

He says the milkmen and the photogeniused news explainers are both engaged in the same popular national sport—the pursuit of More for Me—but irked milkmen bother the politicians less.

So the TV outletters of Washington-washed news will ever have sympathy plus from the incumbent bureaucrats who feel happier among milk-deprived kids than among pap-deprived voters.

Report is that the federal office of education has warned Southern college coaches to get a better racial balance on their teams.

Latest estimates of 13.4 dark and 86.6 light per 100 people in the U.S., obviously will require a legal football team to consist of 9 white boys, one Negro, and one half-and-half.

Also, there is a law against discrimination by reason of sex, and there being two of these, football coaches—win or lose—may soon have to field teams with a proper proportion of each: 5 boys, 5 girls, and one unidentifiable long-hair.

News is that a high church official says "help for persons who lack basic needs must take precedence over private property rights."

My private-property neighbor

SHORT SNORTS

Bill to establish a 9-member Dairy Commission with power to set minimum price rates for milk in Texas received Senate Public Health Committee approval.

—Texas building construction authorizations jumped 47% in February, while overall business activity declined 3%, according to UT's Bureau of Business Research.

bor says this brings the out-of-date Eighth Commandment in line with the new social order, so it presumably now reads "Thou shalt not steal unless you need something."

And he reckons it is right and proper for Modernized Mankind to amend the Lord's Commandments so they read the way He would have written them in the first place if He had known about Poverty.

I see where the Congress of Racial Equality has sued a California employer in federal court to make him quit his discriminatory practice of giving intelligence tests to prospective employees.

But if these tests are outlawed, it is apt to cause widespread unemployment and unrest among the intelligent.

What seems like a better plan would be to keep on giving the tests, and then just take every other employee from the bottom of the list, so as to be sure each employee group is intellectually balanced.

Timber Shortage Affects Future Furniture Prices

A world-wide timber shortage may price wood furniture right out of your home. Furniture prices are rising and their veneers are growing thinner due to the shortage. What's being done about it?

Developing countries have planted more than 10 million acres of fast-growing trees in recent years; wages have been increased and working conditions improved to lure new lumbermen to the forests; and scientists are working on new chemicals by which tree-destroying pests can be eliminated.

Welding Course Set for Farmers at Samnorwood

An oxy-acetylene welding short course for adult farmers will be held Monday through Thursday, April 17-20 under the sponsorship of the Samnorwood high school vocational agriculture department, according to Robert Dwight, superintendent, and John Dwyer, teacher of vocational agriculture.

Charles H. Yeates, welding specialist with the Vocational Agriculture Division of the Texas Education Agency and the Department of Agricultural Engineering at Texas A&M College, will be the instructor for the course. He is headquartered at Texas A&M.

Mr. Yeates holds a BS degree from Texas A&M College in Agricultural Education. He taught vocational agriculture and farm shop for a period of 15 years. He also taught automobile mechanics, electricity, electrical and acetylene welding and woodworking in the Jasper County vocational school. He has had two years experience as a draftsman, and two years experience as a welder.

"Many oxy-acetylene welding short courses in various parts of the state have been taught by Mr. Yeates and all have met with outstanding success," according to Walter Labay, area supervisor of vocational agriculture at Plainview. Arrangements for the adult education short course in welding and in other fields are made through Mr. Labay's office.

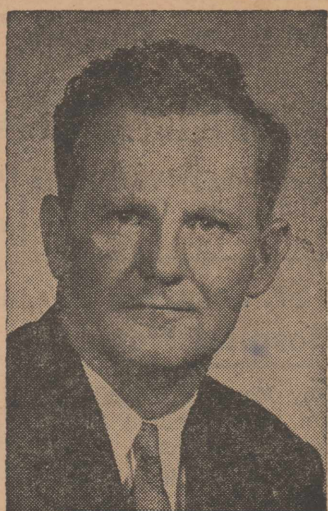

The short course at Samnorwood is scheduled to begin on April 17 at 7 p.m. in the vocational agriculture building.

Other meetings in the series will be held April 18, 19 and 20. During the dates the short course is in progress, Mr. Yeates will be available to assist farmers with individual problems and to provide on-the-farm instruction, according to Mr. Dwyer.

Farmers interested in attending the short course should write or call the superintendent of schools, Robert Dwight, or the teacher of vocational agriculture, John Dwyer. An entry fee of $10 will be charged.

Oxy-acetylene welding short course certificates are to be presented to each enrollee who attends all the training sessions.

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER
Thursday, April 13, 1967

Charles H. Yeates

Mr. Yeates stated that the short course will be adjusted to wishes and interests of farmers enrolled but that he expects to cover such subjects as safety in oxy-acetylene welding, factors controlled by the operator in oxy-acetylene welding, choosing and adjusting the torch flames, types of welding rods, preparation of joints, distortion and hardsurfacing.

Short courses in welding, as well as in other areas, are now available to farmers throughout the state under the new cooperative program between the Texas Education Agency and Texas A&M College.

The Wellington high school track and field team placed second in the District 2-AA meet with 100 1/3 points on Thursday, April 6. Five members of the team qualified to compete in the regional meet.

MARS Radio Hams Link Soldiers-Home

There are now 22 Army Military Affiliate Radio System (MARS) stations operational in Viet Nam and two in Thailand sending and receiving messages for U.S. servicemen and their folks at home, according to R. U. Belk, Fourth Army MARS director.

Extensive use of these stations is attested by the fact that Fourth Army MARS members alone have handled more than 15,000 messages during the past three months, the majority of them originating in the two Southeast Asian countries. Two types of communication contacts are handled by the overseas stations. First is the phone-patch or radio-telephone link by which the serviceman is enabled to talk with his folks back home. Second is the wireless written-type message that, when it reaches its destination is mailed or phoned by a MARS operator to the recipient.

Families in the United States are not permitted to initiate a phone-patch due to the difficulty in contacting specific areas in Viet Nam and Thailand. However, anyone desiring to send a written message to service personnel overseas has only to contact any MARS member.

In Hawaii, Alaska, and the other 48 states there are 32 stations authorized to handle both phone-patch and written messages. Of these, six are in the Fourth Army area: Headquarters Fourth Army Command MARS Station, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.; Fort Hood, Tex.; Fort Sill, Okla.; Fort Bliss, Tex., and U. S. Army Aeronautical Depot Maintenance Center, Corpus Christi, Tex.

Once the radio circuit is established between the MARS station overseas and an authorized MARS station in the Fourth Army area (Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas), phone-patches are handled as accurately and as quickly as possible, depending on the quality of the radio signals being received, Belk said.

On the other hand, wireless type or written messages from senders in the Fourth Army area to Viet Nam and Thailand must be relayed through the Headquarters Fourth Army Command MARS Station. This station recently increased its capabilities to permit an attendant to monitor Fourth Army MARS 24 hours daily, seven days a week. Anyone desiring to contact this station, ASUSA, may do so by calling San Antonio CA 1-3003.

Wellington Man Describes Talk With "Object"

Reprinted from April 6 issue of The Mangum Star

Dear Sir:
I thought that your paper might be interested in an experience that we had last week end. Since this is my hometown newspaper, I wanted you to have the details if you were interested.

The children and I didn't see this "thing" since we had gone to a church meeting. My husband stayed with his folks to see a brother of his that was visiting and was on his way home at the time.

(Rosemary Frances Watts)
This happened at 10:30 p.m. last Friday night. This is Carroll's story. We live about 11 miles south of Wellington or 1 mile north of Loco, Texas.

"Last Friday night about 10:30 p.m. as I was leaving my parents' home and going home, I had a very unusual experience. We live about 1 1/4 miles south of my folks and I saw this light up in a field by an old house where some equipment was stored.

"The light at first looked like a car with four headlights on bright. It was faced in the opposite direction. As I approached, I noticed the lights were much brighter. I stopped within 200 feet of the vehicle when I noticed it was something other than a car. It was about 100 feet long, 8 to 10 feet high and 10 feet across. It was shaped something like a 38 bullet, long and round on one end and the front end came to a point where the light was and sloped a little downward. It was between a dull grey and aluminum in color. It didn't reflect light.

"I knocked on the door, thinking it would probably be staffed with Airforce men.

"The door opened from the top and came down to make steps. I never did see anyone but a voice asked me if I would submit myself to a physical. I asked them what was the reason for the physical and they said, 'a man had to pass a very stiff physical before he could stand the flight.' They said that they came from here and there and that no one could stop them from coming and going as they pleased. They seemed to be interested only in men, not women or children.

"They told me to stand in front of this machine if I would take the physical. The machine reached almost from the floor to the ceiling.

"They also told me that they had a machine that could go within 300 yards of a building or house and could tell how many were in the house and also what age they were.

"After they told me this, they asked me again if I wanted to step inside and take the physical and experience some of these things. I told them no, that I didn't think that I wanted to.

"The only other things that I could see in this compartment, other than this machine, were some gauges on the ceiling and some maps on the wall. The maps were about three feet square but only about 12 inches from the floor.

They looked like a large scale map of land.

"The noise that I talked to didn't rise and fall with speech. It stayed the same all of the time. It was a low voice.

"After I was asked the third time to take a physical, I got a little jumpy and decided I had better leave. This 'thing' didn't have any markings on it at all.

"After I left, it raised about three feet and turned south and moved down in a pasture. There was no noise at all coming from it except for the time when the door opened. When it was standing still it never did touch the ground. When it took off its lights changed from a fluorescent light to an amber or soft red light (it had only this one large light on the front, about 29 inches across.)

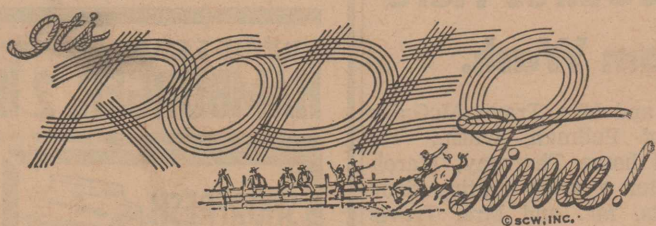

"This is the third time that I have seen this object. The other two times were in the daytime. Once I saw it when I was measuring some cotton land. It was about 500 feet away and about 200 feet in the air. It was going at about 50 miles per hour and then turned about a 70 or 80 degree angle and was gone within 30 seconds. This happened on Tuesday, March 21, before another car over here by us was chased on Friday night by this object at speeds up to 100 miles per hour. You had this article in last Friday's paper. 'Well, this is about all. We have had several sleepless nights but are about convinced that the people, whoever they are, aren't harmful if one doesn't try to harm them. I wouldn't go inside at all because they might leave with you. The people that have run from them have been chased. I drove slow leaving them and pulled up in front of our house and they didn't follow me although they could see me from where they were. The only incident that I have heard of anyone getting hurt was when a jet plane tried to catch one and the plane exploded in air. I do hope that we find out what this is. It hasn't been seen around here since I reported it but the road in front of our house has been like main street on Saturday, both day and night."

Mr. Cotton Farmer:

Planting time is near and there is a general shortage of good quality planting seed — place your order for one of the 2 time-tested Lockett varieties that are being offered at lower prices.

LOCKETT 88-A

Lockett 88-A is a time-tested variety you can depend on. We know of no cotton that better meets the rigorous requirements of machine stripper harvesting. Lockett 88-A produces a close-fruited, compact plant with few vegetative limbs. It fruits and matures uniformly, which means that most of the cotton will open at the same time, which is ideal for a good stripper operation. It is a top yielder on dry and irrigated land.

BLIGHTMASTER

The Blightmaster seed you get from Lockett today represent the combined efforts of several of our best plant breeders and plant pathologists over a period of many years. As the name implies, BLIGHTMASTER is the product of plant breeding to produce a good cotton variety that is tolerant to Bacterial Blight (Angular Leaf Spot). Many growers have told us Blightmaster will produce more lint on less water than any variety they know of.

John Holton's Enco Barbecue Draws 500 Farmers & Ranchers

John Holton, Humble distributor for the Wellington area, was host at the annual Enco barbecue which was held in the Bura Handley community center in Wellington April 7. Approximately 500 farmers, ranchers and businessmen as well as Humble officials from Dallas, Midland and Amarillo attended the event.

Following the sumptuous barbecue a musical program entertained the guests. The Top Texans, a Pampa quartet, delighted the audience with their barbershop harmonies as did Billy and Bobby Skidmore with their folk songs. They were brought back for repeated encores. The Has Beens, an orchestra composed of Fred Said, Jeff Wilson, King Bowen, Elmer James, Robert Gosnell and Peck White played while the barbecue was being served and also concluded the program with melodies of other days.

Humble officials from Dallas who attended the meeting were Roy Stein, Dick Knowles and Link Roman. Those from Midland were Jim Montgomery, Lee Kleypas, James Kirkpatrick and Hub Hayes. Attending from the Amarillo office of Humble were O. C. Nash and Aaron Garrett.

Elvis Pitts won the set of Atlas tires which are given away each year and Richard Knoll, who won the tires at the annual barbecue last year, won the outside paint which is also given as a prize each year.

Mrs. John Holton was in charge of arranging the program and was assisted by members of the Future Farmers in handling the serving. The accessories for the barbecue were prepared by Mrs. Aaron and the meat was cooked the night before in a pit by John Holton and others.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

The wheat saving rains from an inch to considerably more were the first general rains we have had since early last fall. It will bring grass to the ranchers and put the row crop farmers to planting and a few of those tired wrinkles will disappear from the faces of the bankers. We have concluded one of the mildest winters and longest dry spells on record.

At the annual meeting of the Farmers Co-op Gin in Wellington, J. D. Fleming of Altus furnished some optimistic news on a moderate scale for the cotton grower. It was his opinion that the cotton acreage will be increased considerably in 1968 due to the shortage that is developing. While that is a year and a half away as far as money in the bank is concerned, it is a more comforting thought than a picture of further decline.

Went to a meeting of the Beta Club Monday night and encountered a highly interesting program. Louis Graham showed slides of the three military academies taken at the three institutions on the occasions of his recent trips. His graphic descriptions of the requirements and activities at West Point, Annapolis and the Air Academy were as interesting as his pictures. Wellington is fortunate in having a student counselor of the character and devotion of Louis Graham on the faculty. He not only understands his responsibility—he works at it steadfastly and conscientiously.

I expected excellence from Louis Graham and I was most impressed with the superb performance of Mildred Lewis at the piano and Polly Browning reading poetry. The pleasure of the occasion was not diminished by the sight of Regina Ferguson and Peggie Crawford in their blonde wigs. Such lovelies don't need a wig anymore than I need a moustache; but there is no accounting for hair styles in this day and time. Mrs. Cliff Campbell voiced the opinion that she might buy a wig for herself whereupon Cliff said that if she did, he would grow a beard.

There has been nothing particularly new on unknown objects or strange lights that I know about in the last few days although the talk continues unabated. Junior Hale phoned Sunday night to ask me to step out and look at a light between here and Memphis which I did. It was low in the southwestern sky and could have been a star; but it was very red and had an odd looking shape. I was not greatly impressed for my thoughts were still on a tale about a fellow named Cassius who along with some other conspirators was plotting to murder the leading citizen of Rome.

Reports of flying saucers, UFO's and unexplained lights are not new to the Air Force. Over 10,000 of these reports have been received since 1947 and the majority of them have been explained; but there has been no explanation for a certain percentage of them. So I might as well reprint part of a story from Miami, Florida. Three teachers and some 200 students saw an oval object there last Friday and it was visible for at least ten minutes before speeding into the west.

Jake Lawrence quit smoking about three months ago and still has moments when he craves a cigarette as much as ever. He asked me if I still had the urge at intervals. It has been over two years since I quit smoking and I can't remember wanting to smoke in the last several months. However there are ex-smokers who say they still crave cigarettes after five years of abstinence. Jake has the habit licked; but he needs to remember that with one cigarette he will have the whole battle to fight over again as far as craving is concerned.

It is easy to write about quitting tobacco; but it is nerve wracking torment for a confirmed addict to stop as any two pack a day smoker who has ever tried it can testify. The wise course is to never start. There is merit in trying to keep teenagers from starting. A youth who starts at 16, will encounter twice as many ailments and chronic type diseases in middle age as compared to one

"No Grazing" Period Near on Farm Program

John W. Carson, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, announced today that the "no grazing" period for diverted grain and cotton programs will start May 1. It will continue for the following six months until Nov. 1.

Farmers who are diverting acreage under the feed grain and cotton programs have agreed not to graze the diverted acres under a specific six-month period of the growing season and not to cut hay from diverted acres at any time during the year, Carson said.

Farmers participating in the Conservation Reserve and Cropland Adjustment Programs have agreed not to graze land diverted under these programs or harvest hay from such land any time during the life of the agreements. County farms signed up to participate in the 1967 commodity diversion programs for corn and grain sorghum and cotton number about 797, the chairman explained.

Cub Scouts Tour Garden

The Cub Scouts of Den 2, Pack 31, toured the gardens and greenhouse of Dodson's Green Thumb on Monday, April 10. Identification of various leaves will aid the Cubs in a nature crafts study.

This group recently presented as the Pack meeting program a play, "In a Doctor's Office." A two-scene comedy, the first scene was of patients in the waiting room; the second scene was a shadow play in an operating room. The latter part of the skit will be credited to an elective, Bear rank.

Den 2 members are George Brewer, Frederick Bush, Neal Cochran, Jimmy Saied, Donnie Settle, Randall Sims, Richard Sims, Mickey Vassey.

Den Mothers are Mrs. B. M. Sims and Mrs. Mack Bush.

If you have been having a hard time getting to work on time these April mornings, get set for the time two weeks and two days from now when the clock will be turned up an hour. It won't be so noticeable in June and July; but it lasts until October. It changes back just in time to cause you to have to work until nearly dark before starting home.

parade, Lacy said. As in the past, there is no age limit, nor is there a limit as to the number that can ride on a horse, as long as it is satisfactory to the horse and riders.

At no other time during the year do as many horses come to town as for the FFA parade.

The rodeo will offer eight events, and only boys and girls 18 years of age and under may participate, Lacy said.

"We're expecting at least 20 contestants in each of these events," he commented.

There is no residence requirement, and anyone meeting the age requirement may enter.

Events will include bareback bronc riding, calf roping, girls barrel race, barrel race for those 12 years of age and under, girls pole bending, pole bending for those 12 and under; ribbon roping and bull riding.

The number of entries will determine the number of grounds per entry, but all events will be featured both nights.

At the end of the rodeo the best all around cowboy will be chosen and he will receive a silver belt buckle.

Belt buckles also will be awarded to first place winners in all events and ribbons will go to the winners of second through sixth place.

These awards conform with the Interscholastic League eligibility rules, Lacy explained.

The public is urged to support all events of the Future Farmers big Rodeo week end.

Tech Student Awarded ROTC Scholarship

Stanley Gosnell, a sophomore at Texas Tech, is one of 115 men in the Fourth Army area to receive two-year Reserve Officers' Training Corps scholarships.

A national total of 856 two-year ROTC scholarships were awarded to college students completing their second year of Army ROTC training. Eight hundred four-year scholarships went to young men graduating from high school this year.

The Fourth Army area covers Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gosnell, Stanley is an honor graduate of Quail high school.

Each scholarship pays for tuition, textbooks, laboratory fees and provides a subsistence allowance of $50 a month. During a six-week summer camp between the junior and senior years of college, the students receive $151.95 per month.

The selection of recipients is based on academic excellence, extracurricular activities, physical standards, results of college entrance examinations and evaluation of motivation and leadership potential.

Upon graduation from college and successful completion of the Army ROTC program, the scholarship students are commissioned second lieutenants in the U.S. Army and serve on active duty for four years.
