Colorado City Chamber Hires Manager Of Fredericksburg CC

ERNEST LARMER
. . .named local chamber manager

Larmer to Begin Duties March 1.

Colorado City Chamber of Commerce Thursday announced the employment of Ernest R. Larmer of Fredericksburg as chamber manager.

Larmer, 24, graduate of Baylor University and executive manager of Fredericksburg Chamber of Commerce since 1956, will succeed Bill Quimby, resigned.

The new manager, who conferred twice here with chamber officials in the last two weeks, will begin duties in Colorado City March 1.

Quimby has resigned, effective Feb. 1, to accept the managership of Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Appointment of Larmer—one of more than 20 applicants for the Colorado City position was announced Thursday afternoon by Jeff Taylor, chamber president.

Actually, Larmer accepted the Colorado City managership here Monday in a meeting with Chamber of Commerce directors. But the announcement was withheld until after his resignation was submitted to the Fredericksburg directorate.

He also resigned as executive manager of Gillespie County Fair Association and manager of Fredericksburg Junior Chamber of Commerce—two posts he held in conjunction with the Fredericksburg chamber managership.

Taylor, who voiced enthusiasm in Colorado City's ability to hire a manger of Larmer's ability, reported the new manager was selected from a field of 21 bonafide applicants.

A special screening committee, chairmaned by Taylor, studied the background, qualifications, records and recommendations of the 21 applicants. And then began a tedious process of screening.

Five outstanding chamber managers now employed in towns extending from the High Plains to South Central Texas—were in the final screening. All five were interviewed here by the screening committee.

"Mr. Larmer was the unanimously recommended to the board of directors by the screening committee," Taylor said, "and the directors unanimously accepted the committee's recommendation after meeting personally with Mrs. Larmer.

"The directors and committee believe Mr. Larmer is qualified by training, experience and character to provide Colorado City with top caliber Chamber of Commerce managership to which we have been accustomed under the leadership of Bill Quimby."

Larmer, who was schooled in Chamber of Commerce administration at Baylor University, has been employed at an initial salary of $475 monthly—slightly under the $500 now paid Quimby. In addition he will receive $100 yearly for civic club memberships, plus actual expenses and seven cents per mile for automobile while on chamber trips out of town.

The new manager has led Fredericksburg Chamber of Commerce in an impressive period of growth and industrial development during his two years there.

In fact, he asked that the start of his tenure here be delayed until March 1 so that he might have time to complete negotiations for a new industrial prospect now being contacted for Fredericksburg.

The new industry will provide a payroll of approximately $5,000 to $6,000 monthly for Fredericksburg and add to that community's growing diversification.

Larmer went to Fredericksburg as its first "outside chamber manager" immediately after his graduation with a Bachelor of Arts degree at Baylor in June 1956.

His job at Fredericksburg coordinated the activities of three organizations—the Chamber of Commerce, Gillespie County Fair Association and Jaycees—under a joint program of operation.

The Fredericksburg chamber, under Larmer's management, has expanded in mem-

C-CITY BURGLARS HAVE 'ALL THE TOUGH BREAKS'

Burglars had hard luck in Colorado City this week.

In the first of two thefts, police said that a janitor at Colorado High School took between $45 and $50 from a metal cabinet in a third floor classroom.

The janitor, identified as Albert Lee Jones Jr., was charged in Mitchell County Court and entered a plea of guilty. He was sentenced to 15 days in the county jail and assessed a fine of $50 and court costs.

Police said that glasses in the doors of the classroom and the office of CHS Principal Charles Graham were smashed.

The principal's office was ransacked.

According to a statement given to police by Jones, he lost the stolen money in a dice game.

Police Chief Leon Yeager said that Gene Graves, from Texas Ranger headquarters in Sweetwater, assisted local officers in the investigation.

In a second burglary case, thieves entered the Texaco Warehouse on E. First St. in search of cash, but had to settle for a case of motor oil.

Police said the culprits apparently became frightened a few minutes after the burglary and abandoned the oil at the Magnolia Warehouse here.

Damage resulting from the fruitless burglary included three broken locks on gasoline storage tanks.

The theft was still being investigated Thursday by city police, constables and the sheriff's department.

Police Nab Suspect in Hijacking

A man suspected of taking part in a $3,369 armed robbery of an Abilene Safeway Store was questioned Thursday afternoon by two Abilene detectives, after being picked up late Wednesday by Colorado City police.

Two Safeway employes, who gave their names as Jack G. Cox, a clerk at the store, and Homer Hailey, assistant store manager, said that the man bore a close resemblance to one of two armed gunmen who held up the store cashier at about 6:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Local police said the suspect told them he had left Abilene at about 10 p. m. Wednesday and had hitch-hiked to Colorado City.

The two Abilene detectives, although unconvinced that the suspect was one of the robbers, said that if was believed that he was an Army deserter. Local police were checking with FBI headquarters in Abilene Thursday afternoon in an attempt to determine whether the suspect was wanted for desertion.

Meet Called To Consider Adult Class

A meeting will be held at 7 p. m. Monday at Colorado High School to determine whether community interest is sufficient to allow the schools to initiate a business education program for adults, according to Superintendent Frank W. Wilson.

Wilson said Thursday that a number of requests have been received by his office for the adult program.

Organization of classes in business education for adults will depend on the interest shown and by the attendance at the Monday night meeting, the superintendent said.

All interested adults are invited to attend the meeting.

If interests warrants adopting an adult program, classes will probably meet one night a week for about 10 weeks, Wilson said.

Miss Jane Merrill, high school business education teacher, will be instructor for the classes if they are started.

Five to Attend Jaycee Meet

Five Jaycees are expected to be in Fort Stockton this week end for the Winter Tri-Regional Convention.

Over 200 Jaycees from El Paso to Abilene are expected for the Saturday and Sunday convention.

Heading the delegation from here is Johnny Grubbs, president of the local club.

Others expected to attend are Bill Quimby, Jeff Taylor, Bob Williams and H. B. Slaughter.

Fort Stockton was selected as the winter convention site in an election at the Summer Tri-Regional in Colorado City in August.

County Judge's Race Remains Wide Open

Rumors were widespread this week concerning the race for the vacated post of County Judge Sam Bullock.

For the past several days, two Colorado City men—Ed Williams and Elmer Martin—have been mentioned frequently in connection with the race for Mitchell County Judge.

The judge's race was thrown wide open last week when Judge Sam Bullock announced that he would not seek re-election in 1958.

But according to statements made in interviews with the Record Thursday by both Williams and Martin, there apparently is still no definite candidate in the county judge's race.

Williams, who had been considered a likely candidate, emphatically denied any intention of running for the judge's post.

"There's nothing to it" Williams declared Thursday in answer to a persistant rumor that he would enter the county race.

Martin, however, told the Record that he "was considering" running for county judge, but had not yet reached a decision.

He said that his decision would probably be made within the next few days.

Martin presently holds a position with the Colorado City Soil Conservation Service office.

Meanwhile, at Loraine, C.E. (Jack) Walker, a partner in Walker Motor Co. at Loraine, has announced his candidacy for county commissioner from Precinct 4.

Moody Richardson, present county commissioner, had previously announced his candidacy for re-election.

dacy for re-election in Precinct 4.

Poll Tax Sales Set in Loraine

With poll tax sales still lagging in Mitchell County, Tax Assessor-Collecton Tom Glover has announced that personnel from his office will be sent to Loraine Friday to sell poll taxes.

Poll taxes will be sold from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m. Friday in the Lions Club Building at Loraine, Glover said.

Two Trees Planted on Arbor Day

Two mimosa trees have been planted on the Courthouse lawn by Colorado City Garden Club.

The trees were planted Friday morning in a special Arbor Day observance by the club.

Participating in the planting and ceremony were City Manager Rollin K. Snethen and Associate County Agent Al Bird and Joe Bell, Colorado City Record co-publisher.

Both mimosa trees—one 10 feet high and the other eight feet high—were donated by Mrs. Moody Dickerson, a member of the Garden Club.

Committee in charge of the Arbor Day planting for the club was composed of Mrs. Ruth Airhart, Mrs. Will Berry, Mrs. R. B. Baker and the president, Mrs. L. J. Taylor.

The trees were planted north and south of the Courthouse main entrance walk on Oak St. near the building.

Bell, who spoke briefly at the ceremony presided over by Mrs. Airhart, emphasized the importance of one man's idea in originating Arbor Day—an observance that in one day in 1872 resulted in the planting of one million trees on the plains of Nebraska and that has followed through the years with millions and millions more trees across the nation.

"It takes only a little bit," Bell said, "to work wonders with nature—little observances like that first Arbor Day back in 1872—this tree planting here today.

"And that is our wish today—that this planting will emphasize the importance of trees and flowers and true conservation to others.

"That this act today will encourage others to follow in your footsteps to make Colorado City a better, prettier and more comfortable place to live.

"At the same time," Bell

Monday night's first lesson of the course will be open to all interested persons and will be free, Williams said. It will be the last free session offered for prospective members of the class.

MINSTREL, SMORGASBORD

Plans Announced For Two Projects

Colorado City's first Minstrel Show in six years is scheduled here Feb. 21-22.

Junior Chamber of Commerce will present the two-night stage attraction in Colorado High School Auditorium.

Goodwin Simpson, director of the show, said the cast of six end men and interlocutor, plus a 24-voice chorus, will be selected this week.

A large number of specialty acts, featuring Colorado City talent, will be used, Simpson said.

Drawing for door prizes at intermission will be held each night.

Steering committee for the show is composed of Johnny Grubbs, Jaycee President, George Womack, Henry Lewis, Lewis Williams, and Simpson.

Plans were made this week for Colorado City's Civic House to sponsor a smorgasbord each Sunday, beginning Feb. 9.

The buffet style dinner will feature a large selection of entrees, plus salads, vegetables and desserts.

The smorgasbord is being held in order to raise money for repair to the Civic House.

Currently underway is a $2,025 roof repair job, in addition to minor repairs to the building that will total over $300 more.

According to the Civic House Treasurer, Marvin Healy, the House is in dire need of funds to cover the cost of the repairs.

Regular civic club luncheons and parties in the Civic House cover the normal operation of the building, but there has not been funds set aside for major repairs.

Price of the meals will be $1.75 per person, which is in line with smorgasbord prices in neighboring cities.

Mrs. Dee Bynum and staff are in charge of preparing the meal.

Exact serving time and menu will be announced later.

LIVE BETTER ELECTRICALLY

PUBLISHED IN THE INTEREST OF BETTER LIVING, ELECTRICALLY

Only AIR and ELECTRICITY used to heat in winter, cool in summer, with the ALL-ELECTRIC HEAT PUMP

Provides Year-round Home-wide Indoor Climate Control with One Setting of a Thermostat

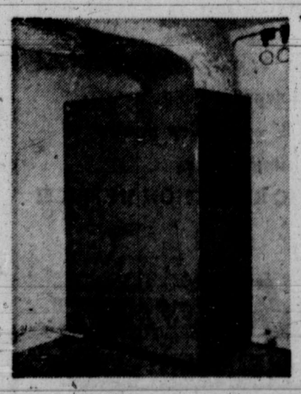

Completely automatic home-wide comfort is available now with the All-Electric Heat Pump that "comfort conditions" your home the year around, using only air and electricity. The same unit that heats your home also cools it. In addition, it removes excess humidity, filters out dust and pollen, completely conditions the air throughout your home. Because it uses only air and electricity in its operation, the Heat Pump provides maximum cleanliness.

Eliminates Seasonal Start-Ups and Shut-Downs

With the Heat Pump there's no manual shutting off of cooling equipment and starting up of heating equipment in the fall and reversing the process in the spring. The Heat Pump automatically adjusts to weather changes, without any attention on your part.

SWITCHES AUTOMATICALLY FROM HEATING TO COOLING OR BACK AGAIN, AS NEEDED

During changeable weather, the Heat Pump switches automatically from heating to cooling or back again, as required for your comfort, even within the same hour. There's nothing to remember. You just set the thermostat once and enjoy perfect year-around indoor climate . . . automatically.

HOW THE HEAT PUMP OPERATES

Heat Pump operation involves the basic scientific principle that indoor heating or cooling is a matter of transferring heat from one place to another.

In winter, the Heat Pump extracts heat units from outside air—even in freezing weather—and pumps warm air into your home. In summer, the Heat Pump automatically reverses itself and operates as a refrigerated air conditioner. It extracts heat from indoor air and pumps it outside.

For additional information about the Heat Pump, come by our office or write us. We'll be glad to answer your questions and provide other assistance—at no obligation.

bership and activity. At present its membership is 240 and its $10,500 budget has been oversubscribed by $400.

Gillespie County Fair, oldest county fair in Texas, has a gross income ranging from $30,000 to $50,000 annually.

Larmer, in addition to serving those three major organizations, also has been recording secretary of Gillespie County Water Control & Improvement District No. 1, since the district's organization in January 1957, and has been vice president of AFSCO Inc., a manufacturing concern which was located in Fredericksburg last July.

Leading citizens of Fredericksburg contacted by the local screening committee praised Larmer for the "lion's share" of work and leadership in securing the new industry and emphasizing industrial development continually for their community.

AFSCO is a small industry—organized with local capital for aircraft servicing, rebuilding and manufacture of aircraft precision machine parts. It is the first development at Fredericksburg airport since the field was built eight years ago.

Taylor said Larmer's initiative and interest for new industry along with his experience in working with industry already located in Fredericksburg was a prime factor in his choice as Colorado City's new manager.

Industry which has been developed in Fredericksburg's move toward diversification in recent years includes Heavy Industrial Machinery Accessories, which located there two years ago and with a staff of 13 manufactures milling heads and hydraulic brakes; Photogrametic Works, located there in 1956 and now has 35 employes in making of aerial and contour maps; AFSCO and others.

However, Larmer also has had experience with stock breeder sales, promotion work with Raton to San Antonio U. S. Highway 87 Improvement Association, Henry Ford International Memorial Highway Association, tourist promotion of German historical assets of Fredericksburg. In addition he was reared in East Texas oil producing areas.

Larmer, six feet one inch tall and 200 pounds, has completed one year at Southwestern Institute for Chamber of Commerce Executive, is a director in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers Association, member of Rotary Club and First Baptist Church at Fredericksburg, where he serves as music director and Sunday School teacher.

He is a native of Eagle Lake and married. His wife, Joan, received a degree in business administration from Baylor in 1956.

AFTER DROPPING TWO DISTRICT GAMES

C-City Faces Stiff Test Against Tigers Friday

Colorado High basketball team faces a stern test in the local gym Friday night when they host the Snyder Tigers in a District 3-AAA contest.

C-City will attempt to bounce back from two straight conference defeats and notch their first victory of the season.

Wolves must win this one from the Tigers to stay in the district race.

Snyder, the defending district champ, is tied with Sweetwater for the 3-AAA lead with 1-0 records. Lake View and Lamesa are tied for second with 1-1 records while the Wolves rest at the bottom with a 0-2 mark.

The district race this year promises to be a real dog fight. Not a team in the district has won a game away from home.

And the widest margin of victory in any game has been seven points.

Sweetwater edged by C-City 49-48 for their lone victory. Snyder marked up a seven-point victory over Lamesa, 59-52, for their only win.

Lamesa whipped Lake View, 52-50 and Lake View edged past C-City 59-53 in the other district contest.

Right now it appears that the team that wins a game away from home will take the district.

Wolves are undefeated this season on the home court. They will be attempting to keep the home slate clean against Snyder Friday night.

Snyder is paced by 6-4 center Bill Phillips and a couple of speedy guards — Isreal Hinojos and Gary Vice.

A couple of lanky forwards give Snyder Coach J.P. Ward's Tigers some rebound strength. They are John Ward and Leon Reed. Others on the 'A team are Jimmy Allen and Dwayn Merritt.

Coach Homer Jefferson will probably call on five seniors to start against the Tigers.

That lineup features 6-6 Marion Flippin at center; Barton Smith and Jimmy Richardson at forwards; Don Black and Richard Compton are guards.

Richardson and Compton have been the leading scorers thus far for the Wolves in district play.

Richardson has racked up 26 points in two tilts for a 13-point average while Compton has scored one less point in two games.

Expected to see plenty of action will be a couple of juniors — Raymond Weaver and Jerry Treadwell.

A large crowd is expected for the Wolves' first home conference game this season.

In the next four conference games, the Wolves will have the home court advantage. Following Snyder here Friday C-City will host Lamesa on Tuesday, then Sweetwater on Feb. 4 and Lake View on Feb. 7.

Squeezed in between are two non-conference games on the road, one at Roscoe Jan. 31 and at Merkel the next night.

The B game will begin at 5:30 p. m. Friday and the A game at 8 p. m.

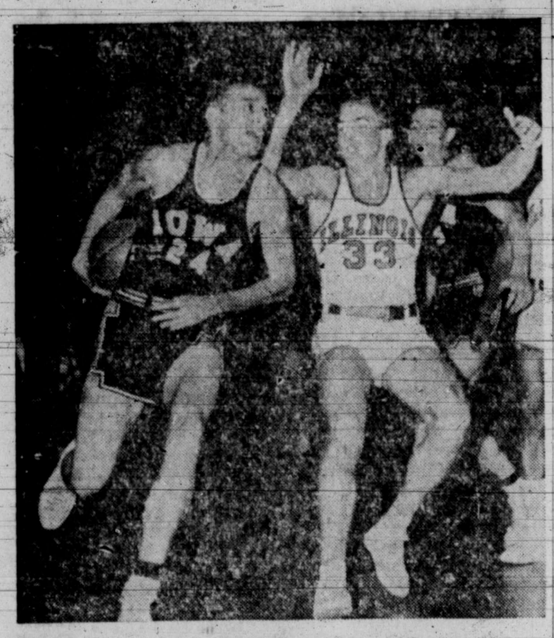

Rev. Allen Adams, pastor of the First Methodist Church here and four representatives from the local MYF attended the Big Spring District Youth Retreat at Andrews Friday.

COOL CAGER—Richard Compton, Wolves' senior all-district guard, will start against the Snyder Tigers here Friday in the Wolves' third District 3-AAA contest of the season. C-City will be seeking its first conference win.

WRONG GAME—Jim McConnell (24), University of Iowa guard, executes a beautiful end run with the ball tucked under his arm. Unfortunately, this maneuver is illegal in basketball and Jim was called for traveling. Illinois guard Al Gosnell (33) seems surprised by McConnell's earnest but misguided effor. Iowa won anyway, 70-68, at Champaign, Ill.

IN SAN ANGELO

Chiefs Hand C-City Second Setback In District, 59-53

Colorado High Wolves cage team suffered its second setback in as many district starts Tuesday night as the hustling Lake View Chiefs downed C-City, 59-53, in San Angelo.

Wolves favored by many for the District 3-AAA crown lost the first district outing Friday at Sweetwater, 49-48.

Coach Homer Jefferson's quintet trailed the entire tilt and was never able to pull up even with the Chiefs.

It was Jimmy Tomlinson, first year guard for the Lake View team, that led the Chief's victory. He pumped in 16 points on jump shots around the baskets.

Following close behind Tomlinson was the Chiefs' all-district forward, Rex Wilson, who shoved in 15 points. The 6-4 Wilson was followed by the Chiefs' 6-5 center, William Keel, with 13.

Keel, who picked up several fouls early in the game, spent part of the game on the bench.

Wolves pulled up close to the Chiefs in the third quarter, but Lake View's diminutive guard, James McCall, hit three long outside shots to push the San Angelo team into a good lead, 58-42.

Wolves, aided by seven free throw connections, rallied for 11 points while holding Lake View to one point, but the lead was too great to overcome.

Wolves didn't hit a field goal in the last quarter until the final two minutes.

C-City pitched in 15 free throws in the rugged game.

It was Jimmy Richardson that kept the Wolves in the game with his 16 points.

Other Wolves scoring in double figures were Barton Smith with 11 and Richard Compton with 10.

Lake View's B team swamped the C-City B squad, 58-30, after leading only 19-17 at halftime.

Dwain Thomason with 10 and Bassinger with 9 led the C-City attack while Eddie Cornelisu hit 19 for Lake View B.

Hillhouse Is Top Scorer For Ragnots

Colorado Junior High's 8th grade basketball team has marked up a 4-6 record this year under Coach Wm Talley.

The Ragnots latest victory was Monday night when they defeated the Loraine 8th grade, 36-19.

They had previously whipped Loraine 18-13 in Loraine.

In other junior high games Monday, the 7th grade won a 37-14 victory while the 9th grade lost a thriller to Loraine's B-team, 52-51. The 9th graders led by a big margin the first half, but Loraine came back strong the final two quarters to win the tilt.

Loraine's winning shot came as the buzzer sounded ending the game.

Baker Hotel Sets The Pace

First in purchasing the old Crawford Hotel and now in tackling the financial task of remodeling what is to become the new Baker Hotel, Ed Baker, the hotel's owner, has cast a fortune into this community in the belief that there is a promising future for Colorado City.

People on the streets are saying that it is a good thing for the town, and, of course, it is. No one would deny it.

But when the shining white new Baker Hotel is a completed part of Colorado City, Baker will have only begun to make his real contribution to the progress of our community.

For one thing, space for merchants and offices will be available here which has never been available before in the hotel.

New jobs will be created in Colorado City that have not been present in the hotel in recent years. Waitresses, room clerks, bellhops, cooks, janitors, porters, managers will all be needed.

If plans now in the "possible" stage are fulfilled, many more thousands of dollars—above the actual remodeling costs—will be used to equip the hotel with a swimming pool and luxury cabanas.

But these contributions are only the direct contributions.

Indirectly, every merchant in Colorado City will benefit from every person who stops at Colorado City's Baker Hotel.

People passing through on U. S. Highway 80 who never stopped here before will stop at the Baker when the sun goes down.

And every outside dollar spent in Colorado City will be worth the effort taken to obtain it to the economy of this community.

Baker's interest in Colorado City is a break for the whole town, but if progress is to continue here, the efforts of not just one man, but of a great many people will be needed.

Progress has ceased to be a vague, abstract quantity that only the Chamber of Commerce talks about. It is time for every resident of Colorado City to start talking—and thinking—about it.

A new Chamber of Commerce manager will begin work here in a few weeks. He may help bring the city new business, new dollars and new progress. That's what chamben managers are for.

But he won't—he can't—do it without the active support of the people of Colorado City.

Today, as never before, isolationism is defeatism and it is almost 100 per cent fatal for cities our size. To get the outside business, we'll have to reach for it. Nobody is going to hand it to us.

We can grow and prosper as a city or we can stumble and fall like dozens of others have done—and the choice is up to us.

Ed Baker and the Baker Hotel have added a mark of progress to Colorado City. But only the citizens of our town can keep the progress going.

Will It Budge It?

Behind Front Page

By Bill Sloan

JUST FOR A MINUTE, consider your county government as what it really is—a $20,000,000 business.

That's what it is, if you base your appraisal on property tax valuations.

In that respect, it is the largest business concern in the county, as well as a law-making, law-interpreting and law-enforcing governmental body.

NOW ASK YOURSELF this question: "Would I let a man help run a $20,000,000 private business just because he's 'a good old boy?'"

Since every taxpayer is directly affected by the actions of the county government, there can be only one good reason for electing an official of the county — his qualifications.

Since the county is actually a multi-million dollar business, the citizens of the county can be compared to stockholders in a large corporation.

WITH THE COMMISSIONERS court acting as a board of directors for the corporation and elected officials serving as officers of the corporation, the stockholding taxpayers—as in any good business—still have a share in running the concern.

But there, the similarity ends abruptly.

STOCKHOLDERS IN MOST corporations are interested enough in the business to vote for directors and officers—even if they do so by proxy.

But the taxpayer, although he owns stock in the county's business, too often doesn't bother to pay his poll tax and so he can't vote al all.

In that respect, we are forced to admit that taxpayers differ from other stockholders.

Note: Poll taxes (invitations to this year's stockholders meeting) are still for sale at only $1.75.

UNIONS ORGANIZE PUSH

Poll Tax Sale Drives Begin As Campaigns Get Started

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Pay your poll tax! Pay your poll tax! Pay your poll tax

That's the cry from all corners as individuals and groups begin their campaigns for support in the upcoming 1958 elections.

AFL-CIO and strong labor committees are making a vigorous drive to get union members to pay the $1.75 right-to-vote tax, and become eligible to put labor in the saddle in Texas government.

Gov. Price Daniel is urging all Texans to get that poll tax receipt now, before the Jan. 31 deadline.

Says the Governor, "Bad public officials are elected by good citizens who do not vote. I urge every Texan who loves this State and believes in majority rule to pay his poll tax and take an active part this year in the fight for constitutional government of, by and for the people." He emphasized that "minority groups should not be allowed to take over Texas."

Also busy contacting eligible voters are the State Democratic Executive Committee, headed by Jim Lindley of Texarkana and Jack Pickle of Austin.

Equally active is the DOT, whose chief spokesman is Mrs. Frankie Randolph of Houston. Aiding her are Alex Dickie of Denton, Creekmore Fath of Austin, AFL-CIO heads, and NAACP leaders.

"It looks like a country folks-big city battle," said one observer. "With labor determined to swing the big cities, the final decision may rest in the hands of the multitude of smaller Texas towns and the rural folks. Usually they can be depended upon to vote, rain or shine."

Politicking Opens

By tradition, the opening of the red bud in East Texas is a sort of starting gun for politicking.

Some seasoned campaigners regard an announcement before red bud time as a farmer would look on planting before the last frost. But for politicking or farming, there has to be some fence mending, tool sharpening, seed buying and ground ploughing before planting time.

Hence, this January, though the air is still frosty, Texas politicos are preparing the ground for a hoped-for harvest of votes next summer. In Austin every move by a person in public life is interpreted as tool sharpening.

State Capital NEWS

Integrity and Economy

Integrity and economy in state departments will be emphasized in 1958, said Gov. Price Daniel in a speech kicking off his second year as chief executive — and the year in which he is expected to seek re-election.

Speaking to some 200 state officials, Daniel asked them to be responsible in their departments for strict compliance with reform laws passed last year. He said two types of people can undermine public confidence in Texas' 56,000 officials and employes — a "very few" wrongdoers and "self-seeking demagogues" who capitalize on the scandals.

He's not ready to sing bankruptcy blues, said the governor, referring to predictions that the state treasury would be in the red by 1959. Nor is he yet convinced, he said, that new taxes will be necessary next year.

But he urged department heads to keep a sharp eye on expenses and offered services of his budget staff to officials needing help in dollar stretching.

Demo Party Control

Democratic party control is expected to be a hotter issue this year than most campaigns for Capitol posts.

Stage is set for the first round of customary shin-kicking and name-calling at the State Democratic Executive Committee meeting here Feb. 1. SDEC is largely made up of conservatives favorable to Governor Daniel. Their critics and opponents are the Democrats of Texas, a liberal group which contends its partisians were in the majority at the last state convention, but were unfairly squeezed out of party posts.

DOT has drawn up a proposed "code of ethics" which, it says, will prevent any fast shuffles at future conventions. At the Feb. 1 meeting DOT representatives will urge the Executive Committee to adopt the code.

Rattling The Bars

More housing, more paroles, more industries are recommended by the Board of Corrections to relieve "a potentially explosive situation" in Texas prisons.

Board said is will probably ask next Legislature for $7,500,000 housing appropriation. Mgr. O. B. Ellis' report to the board on prison 'rumbling' said that with the inmate population at 10,500, at least 75 per cent have to be crammed into "tanks" (one-room barracks) with 400 sleeping on the floor.

Board also urged speed in getting into operation the paid parole supervisor program, authorized by last Legislature. Supervision system is designed to permit more paroles. About one-third the required number of supervisors has been hired so far.

Federal government threw a monkey wrench into prison operations by cutting back on the 'prison farms' cotton acreage, said the governing board. It said more work opportunities for prisoners must be developed.

Golden Age Aids

Ways to improve the outlook for Texas' older citizens are being sought by a 15-member committee of legislators and private citizens.

Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro was named cheirman at the first meeting of the panel.

It's not "just an old age pension committee," said Martin. It'll consider such sticky problems as the number of aged persons in mental institutions because no one knows what else to do with them. Also the difficulty oldsters have finding employment even with valuable training and experience.

Percentage of "over 65's" in Texas population has doubled in past 50 years.

Here's the Answer

COTTONSEED SHORTAGE

Farmers May Be Hurt by Inflation

By JOHN C. WHITE,
Agriculture Commissioner

Coming hard on the heels of the worst cotton harvesting conditions in 50 years is a serious aftermath which threatens to affect most Texas cotton farmers — inflation on the short crop of good quality cotton planting seed.

Dependable cottonseed is short this year, and as a result, the farmer stands danger of being exploited by unscrupulous speculators who would not only jack up prices on cottonseed, but on near-worthless cottonseed at that.

In spite of the fact that Texas has good, sound laws which require accurate labeling of seed offered for sale and which establish dependable germination standards, conditions are ripe for black marketing and misrepresentation of seed to the farmer.

This is because much of the cottonseed from Southern states this year will be completely worthless for planting purposes. Already, seven of the 14 major cotton producing states have had to lower their minimum for certification of cottonseed from 80% of germination to as low as 50% of germination. Seed will be offered for sale which normally would be fit only for crushing at the oil mill.

Although Texas suffered the same bad harvesting conditions as did the other states, Texas certification standards have thus far remained unchanged. This means that, with optimum planting conditions this spring, it is possible there will be enough reliable seed too take care of the state's needs.

But good seed is not plentiful, and the speculators who free-lance for profits on such disasters are aware of this and are already set up for business.

Spring planting in most areas is still some weeks away. It is not too early, however, to begin thinking about getting ready to plant, and the farmer's most reliable source of dependable seed is, as always, his certified seed dealer whom he knows and trusts.

The cotton farmer will long remember those who take unfair advantage of present conditions to skyrocket prices beyond reasonable levels. The outcome of this present unusual situation can affect good producer-buyer relations for years to come.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Talk Centers on Heavy Spending

By CLINTON DAVIDSON

Sit in the gallery of either the House or the Senate this week and most of the talk you will hear will be about increased government spending for a big build-up in the defense program.

Probably none of the orators will say anything about how a big increase in spending is to be financed, yet that is almost as important as building intercontinental missiles. Will it mean more taxes, or more debt?

That is a question to be faced, sooner or later, and the man who is expected to provide the answer is a quiet Arkansasan named Wilbur Daigh Mills, Representative from the Second District of Arkansas and new chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

This is the committee through which all tax and fiscal policies must first clear before reaching congressional debate. It has first jurisdiction over all revenue legislation. Mr. Mills has been a member for 15 years.

I have known Wilbur Mills for the entire 20 years he has been a member of Congress, and my estimation of his ability and integrity has grown in each of those years. At 48 years of age, he is one of the youngest and most capable committee chairman under a seniority system that gives years of service priority over ability. Fortunately, Mr. Mills has both.

Probably no man in Congress, and few, if any, men in the country know more about taxatin and fiscal policy than Mr. Mills. In those matters he has the respect and complete confidence of members of both parties in Congress.

Little given to old-fashioned oratory, Mr. Mills relies instead on a thorough knowledge of his subject, painstaking preparation and a clear, convincing delivery to win the support of his colleagues in Congress.

Some of them have told us there have been times when they followed his advice against warnings that to do so was "bad politics," but that invariably his advice was both sound and good politics.

An example of this occurred last spring when Democratic leaders decided it would be a good idea to put a tax-relief bill through the House and have it ready for Senate action in the 1958 congressional election year.

Mr. Mills torpedoed that move by holding hearings of a Fiscal Policy subcommittee, of which he was chairman, and producing expert witnesses to show that tax cuts in a period of declining revenues and rising expenditures would be fiscally irresponsible and politically unwise. Events have shown that Mr. Mills was far-sighted in his action.

Mr. Mills was born at Kensett, Ark., the son of a country banker, and graduated from Hendrix College and Harvard University Law School. He hung out his shingle in 1933 and was elected county judge in 1934. He was elected to Congress in 1938, and has been re-elected nine times.

Physically, he is 5 feet, eight inches tall and weighs a compact 180 pounds. He is married to his childhood sweetheart and they live, with their two teen-aged daughters, in a quiet apartment here.

BIBLE COMMENT:

12 Apostles Not Unlettered Men

We call them simple fishermen. Perhaps that is a little misleading.

For the Twelve Apostles were something more than that just as St. Paul was something more than a tentmaker. Jewish boys were brought up with the wholesome idea that work was honorable. The Jews also had a remarkable system of education by which virtually every boy was trained in the law and tradition of his religion.

We must not think of these fishermen as unlettered men. True, they hadn't been to schools but they had a deep sense of spiritual values. They had the vision of the world reborn in truth. This has often been denied to the great and often has been the privilege of the humble.

We miss the significance of the call of these men if we don't take these things into account. They showed themselves capable of the reliance Christ put upon them when they left their nets and followed Him. They might have hesitated and thought of their profitable fishing, but something had happened to them which transcended their daily toil.

This indicates the extent to which Christ had already become a popular teacher, with the people crowding to hear Him. It was a remarkable congregation and a very remarkable pulpit.

But these fishermen were to see times when the crowd had left Him and when the mission of their Lord and Master had become one of sorrow and suffering.

It was two disciples in this call, James and John, whom Christ asked, "Are ye able to drink of the cup that I shall drink of...and to be baptized of the baptism that I am baptized with?"

large bundles of brush should be transported to the spot. Some of it shuld consist of fair-sized brush, such as mesquite trees.

In lowering the brush into the water, it is well that the brush be stacked, so that it will be in a pile at the bottom of the lake. A brush shelter a dozen feet around and some five or six feet through is ideal.

Some builders find it profitable also to anchor a bale of alfalfa hay in the center of the pile.

To be most effective, the brush should not be matted together. Fish must be able to swim around freely among the branches. At the same time, some shelter builders prefer a brush pile that big fish cannot get into—one that furnishes a refuge for smaller fish.

When big fish chase the little ones into the brush pile, they'll hang around nearby. That's a pretty good time to lower a minnow in the vicinity. For that reason the perimeter should be well marked. Plenty of hooks can be lost fishing in brush shelters, if its bounds are not known.

Some fishermen use poultry netting to hold the brush together. In that event the entire project must be completed on land and then towed to its resting place.

We once heard of a fisherman who made an unusual, yet ideal, shelter in a lake that had just been lowered. He found a couple of old outhouses, filled them with heavy brush, then hauled them to a spot that would be just the right depth when the lake was refilled. There he anchored them down to stay. They were left flat on their sides, with the door open.

Needless to say, he had an ideal cover for fishing and caught more than his share of crappie and bream.

Another good plan is to build the shelter directly under the end of the boat dock or pier. In this instance it is necessary to use heavy wire to keep the brush from washing out, and to keep hooks from snagging.

Anyway, now is a good time to build you a brush shelter. Just be careful where you cut your brush and where you put it. Do the job right and you'll have a good fishing spot.

Man Overboard

Ever so often I wonder just what I'd do if a sudden and wholly unexpected need for a life preserver existed. This thought hits me whether I'm just plain fishing or pleasure-boating. And I'm not afraid of the water either.

Fact of the matter is, my concern is over what I'd be able to do to help someone else. Chances are I'd be paralyzed with fear. Apparently that's why I always carry a surplus of buoyant cushions, in addition to the familiar old style, round shaped life preserver, with a long rope attached.

In my book you can't overdo the safety angle. The law requires one approved life preserver for every passenger in your boat. Don't forget it! Better yet, see to it that your guests wear life preservers. Insist that children do. The wise outdoorsman will never take a chance, especially on or near rough waters.

Speaking of life preservers, now comes the Muter Company of Chicago with a Res-Q-Pak that's an easy addition to any safety kit. This inflatable emergency life preserver comes in a pocket-sized package, no larger than a pack of cigarettes. Should be a part of every tackle box.

Res-Q-Pak inflates instantly. A gentle squeeze on the package—and presto, you have a two-foot float, shaped very much like the old-style water wings. Manufacturers say it will support a 250-pound man for hours in the water.

Learning to Cast

To spin cast or bait cast with accuracy takes practice. An old-timer's method of mastering the trick is to place an empty beer can under the casting arm, then practice casting without dropping the can. This makes it necessary to use only the wrist for action which is the secret of successful casting.

And, by the way—if you have trouble dis - assembling your casting rod, at the end of a day of fishing, here's an idea. Next time you get ready to put your gear together, wipe the male ferrule against your nose a few times, rolling the ferrule over and over as you rub. That will put a base of oil from your skin onto the ferrule and make the connection easy to assemble, and most important of all, easy to dis-assemble.

Slick trick. And it works!

Caught the Wife's Eye

Finally got the wife interested in fishing.

Actually, South Bend's colorful, green Spin Cast 2320 Rod and matching "77" reel did the trick. Cooperation on the part of some nice black bass clinched the deal.

Now we got a fishing pardner—pardner—anytime, anywhere.

ADULTS HOLD BUYING POWER

Advertising Flops At Nursery Level

By JOE BOATRIGHT
Record Advertising Mgr.

A couple of years ago we were wondering about the wisdom of advertisers who were investing money in television programs for tots and toddlers.

We wondered about the buying power of the nursery school set. And we were skeptical about the ability of the three-year-old to influence mother's soup and cereal buying. In fact, we dared to hold to the notion that a fair degree of adult intelligence would continue to control the shopping dollar.

The demise of such programs as Ding Dong School and Winky Dink seems to justify our skepticism. Junior just wasn't ringing the cash register. So advertisers dropped the children's programs. The director of a toy manufacturing firm tells why he switched his advertising support:

". . . advertisers get paid in sales, not rating points. It is obvious that children do not have the purchasing power of adults."

From the standpoint of business and advertising this should be a healthy turn of thinking. It reaffirms the principle that direct and honest advertising is the best advertising. And it points up the strength of newspaper advertising. There is no question about the maturity and buying power of the audience reached through a newspaper.

The newspaper advertiser can always be certain that he is reaching the most literate and prosperous people in his community.

The newspaper advertiser does not slip in the back door to do his selling. He presents an intelligent sales message to adults who listen readily and buy on the basis of merit.

Glen Johnson is the new head of Colorado City's civil defense program.

Johnson, a pharmacist at Corner Drug, replaces L. A. Scott.

The group plays a big role in spotting planes and tornadoes.

Johnson reports that the Boy Scouts will play a role in spotting.

Johnson emphasized the need for more members, saying, "We need 50 instead of 14 as we now have."

Mrs. Charles Hamilton, class president, conducted the meeting which opened with group singing led by Mrs. Crownover and accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Josephine Marshall.

Mrs. Marshall Bruce led the opening prayer and Miss Jarratt, class treasurer gave the financial report.

Mrs. J. D. McDonald presented the Bible lesson in the absense of Mrs. J. G. Bruce, class study leader, who could not be present.

Mrs. McDonald took her scripture from John 1:1-14 and gave a sketch of a recorded transcription of a sermon by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, entitled "Top Secret of Real Living."

Scripture readings and talks were given by each member and the closing prayer was by Mrs. J. E. Price.

Refreshments were served to 11 class members.

Capt. and Mrs. Reagan Martin and son, Bill, visited here last week end with Martin's mother, Mrs. Doris Martin.

The family plans to move to Abilene soon, where Martin will complete his college work at McMurry. He was a senior student at the Abilene school when called into the service seven years ago.

Monthly News

A message from Henry Bilberry, "Your Pharmacist"

WHY DO PRESCRIPTIONS COST SO LITTLE? Most people forget, that to the cost of drugs, must be added the time necessary to select the ingredients, compound them when required, carefully check them, type the labels and record them.

PLUMBERS, TELEVISION AND SERVICE MEN HAVE A MINIMUM FEE. They must charge from $3 to $6 for minimum time. To this they have to add the cost of materials plus a profit.

AVERAGE CHARGE FOR PRESCRIPTIONS IS LESS THAN $3. Most of them still are about $2. A small percentage with very expensive ingredients costs more. Pharmacies do not charge a minimum fee.

YOUR OTHER PURCHASES LOWER PRESCRIPTION CHARGE. Service to the sick, requires pharmacies to be open long hours each day. During that time you can also get from us your home remedies, health-aids and toiletries. The profits on these sales reduces our overhead costs. Without them a minimum fee, for prescriptions, would have to be charged.

PHARMACIES DO NOT CHARGE MORE. Our prices are not more than market or variety stores. Our pharmacy training enables us to protect you and answer questions. We carry a greater variety of stock. Therefore . . .

BUY ALL MEDICINES, HEALTH-AIDS AND TOILETRIES FROM YOUR PHARMACY. Since these purchase enable us to keep prescription costs lower, —why should any thinking person get them elsewhere?

New Year Problems 1958

DOWN THROUGH THE AGES, problems have been the constant companion of mankind.

With the passing of time, civilization has moved onward and upward. But this climb has been accompanied by a vast increase in the complexity and the gravity of the problems of life.

Critical and challenging problems have been created by a tug of war which has been in progress for many years between such basic conflicting forces as a free enterprise economy and a socialistic planned economy, a free way of life and communistic slavery, peace and war.

The supreme problem facing the people of the world this New Year is that of developing the capacity to solve wisely and well the problems which man, himself, has created.

In spite of the complexity and the gravity of the problems of life, they are essential to human progress. Scientific achievements, material progress and the expansion of human knowledge stem from the moving desire of man to overcome the problems generated by the march of world events.

In the business world, competitive problems have stimulated research, encouraged the adoption of new methods and procedures, spurred man to greater efforts and greater achievements.

The success or failure of individuals and business enterprises alike is measured by their ability, or lack of it, to solve successfully the personal and social, the economic and political problems flowing from an ever-changing world.

So it has been with the railroads. In their long and useful history, they have encountered a multitude of difficult and complex problems. Many of these problems they solved successfully. Some they didn't

Perhaps the most critical problem ever experienced by the railroads is the one they face today. It is that of devising ways and means of meeting successfully the competition of various other forms of transportation promoted, and in part financially supported by municipalities, community organizations, state and federal governments.

There is no easy solution of this problem. But there is a solution, for there is a right answer to every problem. And I have faith that eventually it will be found.

Meanwhile, the peace, the progress and the prosperity of 1958 will be measured by the capacity of man to solve wisely the problems ushered in by the New Year.
