BANKERS ESCAPE DEATH AS PLANE CRASHES

So This Is Texas

Bankers Advisors—
The Cotton Trouble—
Even An "If" in It—
Owsley Of Texas.

By H. N. Fitzgerald

WELL, the southwide cotton conference held in the city of Memphis has come and gone. A committee had been named by the conference to initiate plans for market stabilization this year and subsequent reduction of acres planted. And the committee drafted a program, a program evolved after long hours of deliberation by financiers and southern farm economists. It calls for retirement of 4,000,000 bales from the current market and the reduction of 25 per cent in cotton acreage for the coming year. Formation of long time pools for handling the cotton which growers desire to withdraw from the current market are to be pushed, and all cotton associations, including the co-operative arganizations are invited to join the pooling movement.

Bankers are to be advisers.

OF COURSE, the big fight of the Memphis conference sprung out of sentiment favoring a call of state legislature for enactment which would require reduction in cotton planting acreage for 1927. And the executive committee referred this resolution, which had been adopted by a narrow majority to the governors of the cotton growing states. Four states voted for this statutory acreage reduction. They were Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. Having been referred to the governors of the cotton states, the statutory reduction resolution appears to be as dead as a dead mackerel of last year's vintage.

WORDS of encouragement for the cotton farmer, according to Washington advices, comes from various high official sources. Secretary Mellon has given approval to "the aggressive attitude" of southern business leaders in organizing to find a solution of the cotton problem prices. Secretary Hoover has applauded community action in the south to alleviate the low cotton price situation, which he says is proceeding with a force and intelligence seldom met in attack on economic difficulties.

All this is so much applesauce, of the political variety.

Chairman A. C. Williams of the Farm Loan Board, who, by the way is a Texan, has given assurance that immediate credit banks are in a position to meet requirements for orderly marketing of the big crop. Money talks and money is the most effective talker in a crisis like the cotton problem.

CHAIRMAN WILLIAMS says loans to co-operative marketing associations totaling $33,000,000 have been approved by the immediate credit banks, and he has volunteered the information that the federal reserve banks in the south are in excellent conditin. Furthermore, this Texan who is chairman of the farm loan board, says the intermediate credit banks have authority to rediscount for eligible banks and agricultural credit corporation notes to farmers secured by cotton, having a maturity of not less than six months at the time of rediscounts. This is an important factor in the situation, he says, for by taking care of maturities longer than six months, it will be easier for the commercial banks to provide the short time credit that may be required. Secretary Hoover is positive that the spirit of the new south is demonstrating itself most effectively, and all that "we need to do is to arrange for such co-operation as the federal government and federal agencies may be able to lend. As the south itself is working out a plan of action, and I'm sure that it will be a good one." And the reader is reminded that the plan of action worked out by the Memphis conference calls for the retirement of 4,000,000 bales from the current market and the reduction of 25 per cent in cotton acreage for the coming two years.

IT IS announced from Washington that a survey of the warehousing facilities of the United States made by the department of agriculture has brought home to the committee appointed by President Coolidge to aid the southern cotton growers that the chief difficulty lies in inadequate warehousing facilities rather than in the furnishing of credit. In other words, storing facilities are a dressing feature of the crisis and if the warehouses had the capacity to carry the cotton over until next year, it would be easy to get all the money needed for carrying purposes.

THERE IS EVER an "IF" in the way when an overproduction comes, the tenants are compelled to sell, a panic takes place in their ranks and a terrific slump in price is the last analysis of the play.

No, not the last analysis. After the cotton has passed out of the hands of the tenants, the market returns to normal and an upward price follows. Galveston received its millionth bale of cotton October 14, and the date is fourteen days earlier than in 1925 when it arrived on October 28. Fifteen steamers loaded with 121,000 bales of cotton sailed from the port of Galveston October 15, and the sailing movement is said to be far better than for the same time last year. Another ocean carrier sailed for Liverpool this week loaded with 10,000 bales of cotton, the largest single cargo to move out of Galveston harbor this year. Millers are buying and this includes the millers of old England as well as the millers of New England.

CLARENCE OUSLEY, of Texas, attended the Memphis conference. He has been prominent in the cotton world for years. He has full confidence that the bankers of

QUEEN, ABLAZE WITH GEMS, IS CAPITOL RULER

Marie Is Enthroned As Guest of Coolidge In State Dinner

NATION'S ELITE THERE

European Royalty Reigns In Regal Style At U. S. Government Seat

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (AP)—Blazing with the crown and jewels of her royal Russian mother, Queen Marie of Roumania sat tonight at President Coolidge's right hand, the first reigning queen ever to be entertained at a White House state banquet.

Diamonds glittered in the crown circling the shingled auburn tresses of the "most beautiful queen in Europe."

Decorations shown on her breast and a train hung from her shoulders completing the trappings of royalty in which the Roumanian queen faced the chief executive and members of the cabinet of the world's outstanding democracy.

The Nation's Elite.

Down the length of the flower-laden table were seated the president's official family and heads of foreign missions in Washington with their wives. Prince Nicholas, Princess Ileana and other members of the royal party had their places at the sides of guests without titles.

The simple colonial state dining room where presidents and their ladies, since the days of Mr. and Mrs. John Adams, have been accustomed to entertain distinguished visitors furnished the setting of the regal banquet.

Wears Diamond Tiara.

The queen wore the diamond tiara with great pear shaped pearl drops, which she inherited from her mother, Grand Duches Marie of Russia, daughter of Czar Alexander. Across the front of her georgette crepe gown, she wore the blue ribbon and the glittering star of the Order of Carol, highest Roumanian decoration.

Her famous pearls, three great strands of them and large pear earrings, completed her ornaments. Her gown was simply cut, the neck round in front, descending to a low V in back. Seguine touched to an irredescent glitter the graceful lines of her gown and its long train. She had arrived at the White House wearing a gold and white brocade cloak, sable trimmed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP) The queen of Roumania tonight exchanged the privilege of being the guest of the nation, for that of being the personal guest of its chief executive and its first lady.

Forty-one hours after her triumphal entrance through New York, the gateway to America and 22 hours after her arrival in the nation's capital Roumania's queen was

Cotton Men Scoff at "Sales Panic"

Aimee Aches as Her Accusers Take Stand

Evangelist Listens While Long List of Witnesses Talk Against Her

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 19. (AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, accused of criminal conspiracy battled agony of body and mind during today's session of her preliminary hearing here today and smiled as witness followed witness to testify against her.

Suffering from an abscessed knee which was lanced during the noon recess of court, she heard sworn testimony which flatly contradicted her own statements in connection with her assertion that she was kidnaped for ransom last May and listened without a tremor to evidence tending to identify her as the woman who had lived in hiding with a man in a Carmel cottage during part of the time she said she was held by her abductors.

Berniece Morris, secretary of the late R. A. McKinley, blind attorney of Long Beach, who had posed as an involuntary agent of Mrs. McPherson's alleged kidnapers and Milton Carlson, handwriting expert both dealt heavy blows at the defense during their testimony today.

Miss Morris testified to the apparent relations which had existed between Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Wiseman-Sielaf, charged with Mrs. McPherson, but now a state witness.

Directly contradicting the statement of the evangelist that Mrs. Wiseman went to the temple a stranger and "left it a stranger" the 23-year-old stenographer testified that when she first went to Mrs. McPherson's home she was met by Mrs. Wiseman, who appeared to be almost a member of household.

Carlson whose evidence has been forecast for weeks, definitely linked Mrs. McPherson to the grocery slips found in a Carmel cottage and to a signature obtained for the delivery of a telegram there.

The handwriting expert's assertions were the high light of the prosecution's effort to prove that the evangelist lived in the bungalow at Carmel with her former radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston, for several days last May. At that time it was announced from temple headquarters that Mrs. McPherson had been drowned while swimming at the beach, while the evangelist herself on her sudden re-appearance at Douglas, Ariz., June 23, stated that she had been kidnaped May 18 and had been held for ransom. She denied occupancy of the Carmel cottage and

Fort Worth Had a Good Story, But The Way They Wrote It—Ow!

(This is the way it all came in over the wires last night.)

BULLETIN 8:10 P. M.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 19.(AP)—Champions of the "no accident league" won their laurels by making the fewest hits.

Fort Worth had a Texas league all her own when the street car company tried to minimize accidents by dividing the city into eight districts, giving each the name of a Texas league baseball team to compete in safety contests.

The "Beaumont" aggregation, represented by 25 motormen has been officially crowned champion. "Fort Worth" took second place.

Sometimes a mild bump into an automobile cost a game.

Dallas, a town 30 miles east of here, ended up in fourth place.

Wichita Falls suffered a hard slump toward the season's close and finished in the second division.

ADOPT PLANS FOR RELIEF OF SEED MARKETS

Orderly Disposition of Crops Is Held to Be One Way Out of It

SUGGESTIONS MADE

Issue Plea to Mills to Stop Selling Short and Holding Prices Down

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 19.(AP) A campaign for stabilizing the markets for products of cotton seed by securing orderly marketing was approved during a meeting here today of representatives of the cotton seed crushers of the United States.

Deploring what was termed "a selling panic" leaders of the industry called for a spirit of optimism and confidence and urged the increased use of cotton seed oil, meal, hulls and linters.

The program whose execution by all persons concerned with the industry is designed to raise the prices of seed products, was drafted by a committee named at a conference last week at Montgomery, Ala., composed of Hugh Humphreys, Memphis; T. J. Kidd, Birmingham; G. W. Covington, Hazelhurst, Miss.; Ed. Woodall, Dallas, Texas, and A. G. Kahn, Little Rock, Ark.

The conference emphasized the value of cotton oil for food shortening and summed up its advocacy of cotton seed meal for feed in the declaration of Talt Butler, Memphis, farm economist and chairman of the executive committee for relief from the cotton market depression who said:

"The cotton seed meal of the south, if fed to the horses and mules of the south will generate more power than can be developed by the plants at Muscle Shoals."

Resolutions which embodied the results of the conference announced:

"The vital object and end to be secured is the orderly marketing of cotton seed and its products. To this end the following is suggested to the farmers, the ginners, the oil mills, the jobbers and brokers and the refiners of oil and makers of lard:

"To the farmers: Your cotton seed is selling at $5 less per ton than it would bring if marketed in an orderly manner. Store what you can and sell gradually, buy meal for feed and fertilizer. Buy shortening made from cotton seed oil.

Stop Selling Short.

"To ginners and seed buyers: Stop offering to sell short and selling short. Your actions are depressing the market. Spread optimism and confidence in orderly marketing.

Jim's Ad Business Aired Out By Road Contractors Who Tell How They Bought Space For Contracts

AUSTIN, Oct. 19. (AP)—Spotlight of the legislature investigation of state departments played Tuesday on James E. Ferguson, former governor and husband of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, and on advertisements of road contractors carried in his weekly paper, the Ferguson Forum.

C. E. Hoff, of the San Antonio firm of Colglazier and Hoff said his company agreed to pay $1,000 for advertising in the Forum "to avoid the ill will of Jim Ferguson, and get an even break on highway contracts to be let."

W. A. Boyett of Bryan stated he had paid $1,500 for advertising, believing that "Jim would feel more friendly than if I had refused to buy space," and that he appreciated Ferguson's helping him to get a $76,000 maintenance contract.

The belief that he would place himself in the good graces of Governor Ferguson and Jim Ferguson was a factor in his agreeing to pay $500 for advertising, C. M. Kelly of Bryan said.

Wouldn't Make Him Mad.

"I didn't think it would make him mad," Holland Page, Lockhart contractor said, when asked if he did not feel his buying of $1,200 of space would create the good will of Jim Ferguson.

Page testified that before he left the highway department offices, after being awarded a $65,000 maintenance contract for Guadalupe and Gonzales counties, he was approached by Joe Furst, advertising solicitor for the Forum and agreed to buy $1,200 of space, paying $600 down and the rest within 30 days.

He said Mr. Ferguson was with the commission when the contract

FALLING SHIP MISSES KAHN BY THIRTY FEET

Soldiers At San Antonio Are Endangered As Machine Plunges Down

BLAME DEAD MOTOR

Airman Is Injured After Falling Near Guests On High Tower

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 19. (AP)—Otto Kahn, prominent New York banker, and hundreds of soldiers taking part in a sham battle being staged here by a motion picture company narrowly escaped death late today when an army airplane crashed to the ground in the middle of the battlefield.

The swirling plane, its motor dead and out of control, fell within 30 feet of a high steel tower on which Kahn and a number of other prominent eastern financiers were standing as interested spectators of the entire proceedings. Had the plane struck the tower, army officers declared, the casualties probably would have been heavy.

Lieutenant Thomas W. Blackburn was 500 feet above the ground going through maneuvers when his motor failed and the plane came whirling down. The airman escaped with severe cuts and bruises.

Kahn and his party stopped off here today enroute to New York from Los Angeles where they attended the American Banking association convention. They spent the last 24 hours inspecting the Rio Grande valley and the Corpus Christi area.

DEBS LIES AT DEATH'S DOOR

Socialist Leader Is Waging A Losing Fight For His Life

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Death slowly but relentlessly, crept upon Eugene V. Debbs, aged socialist leader tonight as he remained in the coma into which he dropped last Saturday night.

The four-day coma was unusual, said the attending physicians, Dr. Harry Wiseman and Dr. S. C. Albrecht, superintendent of the suburban sanitarium to which Mr. Debs was removed a month ago.

The man, who five times was chosen by his party for the presidency and was active in labor and socialist struggles for more than a third of a century, carried on always under the handicap of heart disease, the doctors revealed.

Since he was 15 years old he has suffered from myocarditis, and it was that with a complication of kidney trouble, which placed him in the shadow of death.

SUGGESTS NEW FINANCING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (AP)—New state financing corporations were suggested today by President Coolidge's cotton committee as a means of aiding in the long time marketing of this year's record cotton crop.

The committee would have these corporations make advances to be discountable at the federal intermediate credit banks and at the larger banks in southern cities.

NORRIS CALLS ON DAVIDSON

Fort Worth Pastor Summons Him As Witness In Murder Trial

FORT WORTH, Oct. 19. (AP) Lynch Davidson, Houston lumber magnate, who confided to the Texas electorate his impulses to get down on his "Methodist knees and pray for the state," during his recent unsuccessful race for governor, was named in subpoena issued late today for the defense in the murder case against Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris, Baptist pastor.

Davidson, former lieutenant governor, was one of six witnesses summoned. Among the other five is Jim Thompson of Lufkin, former home of D. E. Chipps, whom the fundamentalist preacher shot and killed in his church office last summer when Chipps came and challenged Norris' pulpit tirades against city officials.

What angle of the defense Davidson is designed to bear out could not be learned tonight.

First hesitation in plans for a hallowe'en parade supporting the indicted pastor scheduled for trial the next day, November 1, was felt today in circumstances out of his First Baptist church's control.

Ma Spreads Good Cheer To Sooners With Pardons For Offending Boys

AUSTIN, Oct. 19. (AP)—Four Sooners from Oklahoma were made happy by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, who revealed Tuesday, when she told the story of a mother and a sister who came all the way from their farm home in the neighboring state in a rattling flivver to get two boys, Ellis and Lester Parsons out of the penitentiary.

The boys, still in their teens, were sent up each for two years for burglary and theft in Wise county, and were on the Eastham farm near Weldon, Texas. The mother and sister appeared before the governor and begged for clemency and while the record was being looked into they lived in a tourist camp.

Saturday they met the governor on the steps of the capitol and told her that they had only $3 in all the world, just enough money to buy gas to get them to Weldon and no food. The governor rushed the two pardons through and gave them to the women, who were so delighted that they ran from the executive offices not waiting to take the money the governor proffered them.

They had explained that with the $5 each of the boys was entitled to upon their discharge from the prison, they could buy enough food and gas to get them to their Oklahoma home.

STATE SOUND

Big Gain in Crops of Texas Now Indicate Good Conditions

DALLAS, Oct. 19.(AP) —Recently published figures showing a gain of $116,000,000 in the value of Texas crops other than cotton this year reflect the inherent soundness of conditions in the state and its certain continued solvency, Dallas business men asserted Tuesday.

"There is nothing fundamentally wrong with the economic situation in Texas," E. R. Tennant, vice president of the Dallas Trust and Savings bank said. "We have talked too much and listened to too much talk by others about the effect of the low price of cotton, not stopping to count our resources in other forms. It is well these official figures have been announced so we may take stock understandingly."

WHAT'S IN A NAME

"Santa Fe" Title Belongs to No One, Court Asserts.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 19.(AP)—The name "Santa Fe" is too closely bound up with the history of this part of the nation to become the exclusive property of any one concern, it was ruled here today by Judge John C. Pollock in a decision involving the suit of James H. Forbes Coffee company of Kansas City against the Ranney-Davis Mercantile company of Wichita.

Both firms manufacture a product under the name of "Santa Fe" and it was the Kansas City firm's contention that the Ranney-Davis company had infringed a copyright.

FATAL RAIL CASES GAIN

I. C. C. Report Shows Increase in Deaths From Accidents

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (AP)—Railroad operations in the United States caused the deaths of 5,763 persons in 1925 and the injury of 137,435. The figures, announced today by the interstate commerce commission, represented an increase over 1924 of 149 in fatalities and a decrease of 6,304 in injuries.

All efforts to lessen highway grade crossing accidents failed during 1925, the commission added, in reporting 6,545 such collisions as compared with 5,127 in 1924. Last year's grade crossing accidents resulted in 2,206 deaths, 57 more than in 1924, and 6,555 injuries, an increase of 39.

CRUDE CUT RUMORED

Wall Street Hears Reports of Slice Due to Heavy Production.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.(AP)—Heavy daily production in the Oklahoma oil fields notably the Seminole pool and the Burbank field, is said to be the basis for reports reaching Wall street of a pending decrease of from 20 to 25 per cent in the price of Mid-Continent crude oil. Daily outputs from the Seminole pool is now around 54,000 barrels and from the Burbank field about 45,000 barrels. Oil men take the view, it is said, that a cut would place the industry on a sounder basis.

RACE IS ON FOR NEW SAND

Phillips Producer Starts A Merry Chase In Winters Area

ABILENE, Oct. 19.—Lacking about 1,000 feet of being down to the 2,500-foot level where the Phillips Petroleum company brought in its Winters No. 1 for 1,000 barrels a little over a month ago, the Midwest Exploration company's Thornton, offset to the Winters well on the southwest, is pounding away and easily in the lead in the race among several companies to bring in the second producer.

The Marland's Mason which it was feared was lost when a joint of casing became lodged in it, luckily recovered the missing joint and has resumed drilling.

The Marland, Midwest and Phillips companies, all drilling offset wells, will each spud in another within a few days, it was reported here today. The rig on the Howell lease, 3-4 miles south of the Joe Winters discovery well, being built by the Atlantic company, is being finished. The World company of Fort Worth will soon spud in a mile northeast and Johnson and Gibson of Abilene are soon to drill on the Wheeler tract, four miles northwest in Fisher county.

PAMPA STAGES A COMEBACK

Panhandle Section Leaps To Front After Trouble With Wash

The Pampa field of Gray county staged a notable "comeback" in the latter part of last week. Erratic lime and the granite wash there had caused wells to come in for bad to worse production for some time but three large wells brought the area back into the limelight last week.

Wilcox-Pampa Oil company completed two nice wells. No. 13 in northwest of southwest of section 62, I. & G. N. survey, was drilled through 17 feet of sand to a total depth of 2,881 feet and 14 in the southwest quarter of same sectin has 10 feet of pay topped at 2,953 feet and the two wells are running 175 barrels daily into the same tankage.

Phillips Petroleum company's No. 2 Metin in section 82, block 3, had an initial production of 1,440 barrels from a depth of 3,160 feet.

SEMINOLE CLIMBS

The Seminole pools production continues to climb and not slowly, with the completion of new gushers almost daily. The output of this field for the 24 hours ended Sunday morning, was 80,29 barrels, from 36 wells, 13 of which are Wilcox producers, making 48,-58 barrels.

The following day, being the 24-hour period ended Monday morning, a still further gain was shown, the total being 81,549 barrels from 36 wells. The 13 Wilcox sand producers making a new peak of 50,160 barrels.

It has 200 feet of oil in the hole from 2,707 to 2,175 feet and it is believed to be a sure producer. It is considered one of the most important extensions made recently in Hutchinson county, rightening the outlook for a half dozen wildcats in the vicinity.

Panhandle Area Shows 154,344 A Day

AUSTIN, Oct. 19. (AP)—Oil production in the Panhandle oil fields for the week ending October 15, averaged 154,344 barrels a day from 541 wells, Deputy Supervisor J. T. Elliott of Amarillo reported to Judge H. E. Bell, head of the oil and gas division of the Texas railroad commission, Monday.

WHEN A QUEEN VISITS THE CAPITOL, IT'S A BUSY DAY FOR ALL

QUEEN MARIE IS GUEST OF THE PRESIDENT

Royal Party Fro Roumania Speeds In And Out Of Washington

formally received by the President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Her reception at the White House this afternoon at four o'clock in the famous blue room that has witnessed a century of presidential recepts, the return call of the President and Mrs. Coolidge at the Roumanian legation shortly afterwards and the queen's entertainment at a state dinner at the White House tonight discharged the traditional amenities of nations.

A Day of Climaxes.

These functions came as the climax to a day in which Queen Marie delved deep into American history, visiting as preliminaries to her White House call Washington's home at Mount Vernon, the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington National cemetery, and the Lincoln memorial.

The reception ceremony at the White House was brief and formal. Two official cars bearing the seal of the United States called at the legation which is for the moment a royal residence. Under escort of J. Butler Wright, personal representative of the president and Radu T. Djuvara, Roumanian charge, the queen and Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana, were taken swiftly to the White House where a fringe of government clerks from the big state department lined the railings for a glimpse of the visitors as they passed into the grounds.

Secretary Kellogg had joined the President and Mrs. Coolidge in the blue room as is customary on such occasions. Mr. Wright announced the queen, a moment later she presented her children to the chief executive and his lady and the formality that surrounds the meeting of heads of state were complete.

Less than ten minutes had passed before the royal party was back in the motor cars on its way to the legation to welcome the President and Mrs. Coolidge on their immediate return call.

An Ideal Day.

The queen, Princess Ileana, Prince Nicholas and other members of the royal party left the legation at 9:30 this morning for their sight-seeing tour. Mr. Wright acted as guide to her majesty, who rode in a black and olive touring car with the top down, which left the procession of more than a dozen machines. The bright sunshine of a sparkling October day brought exclamation of pleasure from the royal tourists as the car got under way.

The queen wore a full length moleskin coat with a huge bunch of parma violets pinned to the shawl collar. Under her coat she wore a mouse colored wool crepe dress of straight, simple lines and a toque of crushed velvet to match. The inevitable three ropes of pearls, pearl earrings, beige stockings and kid slippers completed her costume.

The visit to the tomb of the unknown soldier was marked by a simple ceremony of tribute when the queen, pausing for a moment of silent prayer with head bowed, land on the grave overlooking the Potomac and the distant capital, a wreath of roses in the tri-color of Roumania.

She placed the wreath on the grave a second time at the request of photographers and then turned to exclaim in admiration as she gazed at the marble circle on the memorial ampitheatre on the terrace of which the tomb of the unknown soldier is set.

"Isn't it beautiful seen from here?" she asked Mr. Wright.

"Really, a magnificent thing—and what a situation!"

She chatted with Brigadier General Samuel Rockenbach, commanding officer of the district of Washington, in charge of the ceremonies at Arlington, telling him:

"All my life I have been used to soldiers."

The queen was accorded the presidential salute of 21 guns as her car entered the Fort Meyer military reseration approaching the tomb and it roared again as the procession sped away from Arlington.

No military honors, but a tribute of another sort awatted her at Mount Vernon. Seven old ladies, vice regents of the seven state branches of the Mount Vernon ladies association, brought to her the greetings of Maryland, Florida, Texas, Rhode Island, Delaware, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia. The queen shook hands with each and presented the prince and princess.

Lavish In Praise

Mrs. T. S. Maxey of Texas, dean of the association, which cares for the historical treasurs at Washington's home, and Colonel Harrison Dodge, director of the mansion, led the queen through the quaintly furnished old rooms. She was lavish in her admiration.

"The furniture is charming." "Isn't it delicious?" and "I love the old four posters," she exclaimed as she was shown LaFeyette's room, the river room and the downstairs reception rooms of the ancestral home of the first president.

She was shown about the grounds and into the tomb of Washington, where she laid a wreath similar to that left at Arlington and she was told of Washington's plans for his tomb, the earlier one which still remains above the present more elaborate structure, the queen admired the planning of the grounds and the view of the tranquil river, saying:

While Mama Visits Us, Let's See—

Prince Carol's Wife, Crown Princess Helene, and Their Son Prince Michael. Above, Right, King Ferdinand. Below, Left, Prince Carol.

The public reconciliation of Crown Prince Carol of Roumania and his mother, Queen Marie, on the eve of her departure for America, revives the belief that Prince Carol will be the next ruler of Roumania. King Ferdinand is not expected to live, according to his physicians, more than a few years.

her defense attorneys have sought to show that a mysterious Miss "X" was the woman with Ormiston there.

Carlson testified that the grocery slips found at the back door of the Carmel bungalow were written by the same hand that wrote notes on a sermon left behind by Mrs. McPherson when she disappeared at the beach. He gave the same testimony with regard to the signature acknowledgement receipt of a telegram at the Carmel cottage.

On further direct examination, the chiropody expert declared that the writing on the original of a telegram sent from Oakland to Mrs. Kennedy shortly after her daughter dropped from sight, was done by the same man who had registered at San Luis Obispo and Los Angeles hotels as "George McIntyre." The telegram announced that the daughter was safe.

George McIntyre was the name used by Ormiston at Carmel and the name under which, state witnesses have testified he stopped at the Clark hotel in Los Angeles.

The state ended its presentation of testimony at 3:10 o'clock and W. I. Gilbert, chief defense counsel, called W. E. Cross, mining man, and desert authority of Arizona as the first defense witness.

BONDS FORFEITED

Bonds to the amount of $750 each were forfeited in the 30th district court yesterday when H. H. Barnes and R. D. Hill failed to appear for trial. They were charged with forgery.

was awarded "but didn't say anything." Furst who calls New York City his home, solicited Hoff, Boyett and Page, they said.

Immediately after his conference with Furst, and within 30 minutes of being awarded the contract, Page said he went to the governor's mansion, where he made arrangements with Mrs. George Nalle, daughter of Governor Ferguson, to buy a $65,000 surety bond through the American Surety company. He said the bond cost $650 and the bond was drawn in the company's downtown office.

H. T. Rainey, a farmer who lives near Lockhart, and "is an old friend of the Fergusons," told him that Mrs. Nalle was in the bond business and asked him to let her handle his business, Page said.

Representative Fly of Gonzales, member of the committee, told Page he understood his maintenance of Guadalupe county highways had been satisfactory, but that he could not say as much for Gonzales county. Page said he had been given every co-operation by Guadalupe citizens, but that many Gonzales county citizens had thrown in his way every obstacle.

Boyett testified he had known Ferguson since 1915, and that when he learned county maintenance contracts were to be let he came to Austin and in the governor's office asked Ferguson's aid in getting contracts. He said this was promised him, and that State Senator R. S. Bowers of Caldwell also agreed to help.

Figured His Bid.

"The next morning I obtained bidding blanks from Eugene Smith, secretary of the highway commission, and sat up nearly all night at my hotel figuring my bid," he said.

"I was worried as to the exact interpretation of "maintenance," and the following day asked Mr. Ferguson what it meant. He said it meant I should maintain the highways in as good condition, as when I took them in charge, and turn them back that way."

In May, 1925, Boyett said he was awarded contracts at $76,000 for maintaining highways in Brazos, Robertson, Waller and Madison counties. The three commissioners, Chairman Frank Lanham, Joe Burkett, John Bickett, Sr., and Ferguson were present at the awarding.

"Mr. Lanham and Mr. Bickett told me I would have to make a surety bond, and Mr. Ferguson asked me if I were sure I could maintain the roads. I replied in the affirmative."

Boyett said he "believed" Mrs. George Nalle had handled the $760 fee for the surety bond written by the American Surety company.

When the division engineer for the counties under his maintenance ordered him to re-surface roads, which Boyett said he estimated would have cost $166,000, he appealed to Ferguson and "heard nothing else about the matter," Boyett said.

Went To Lanham.

"I first went to Chairman Lanham, but he gave me no satisfaction. I told Mr. Ferguson I did not believe there-surfacing came within the scope of maintenance, and he agreed with me, and said he'd speak to Lanham."

Boyett said he organized the Old River Construction company to maintain the four counties and was sole owner of the company. He is now operating with the Smith-Boyett company of of Bryan, composed of Allen Smith of Bryan and himself.

Within 15 days after being awarded the maintenance contracts, he was approached by Furst, Boyett related.

"Did Furst tell you that Jim Ferguson was in financial straits, and had to recuperate by getting advertisements from his friends?" Richard Critz, committee attorney, asked.

"Boyett at first denied Furst had made such a statement, but later modified his answer to 'I can't remember; it's been too long ago;' but I don't think he did.'"

It was his understanding Furst was to write the advertisement, the witness said.

the south "are able, willing and eager to finance as much cotton as the farmers who own the cotton are willing to carry into a period of increased demand." He is confident further that with proper encouragement, the farmers of the cotton belt will carry a sufficient volume of cotton into the next season to remove the present pressure from the market. He is equally confident that persevering efforts by leading business men and farmers will secure a substantial reduction in the acreage of 1927. "We can recover much of that loss ($500,000,000) if we will put our minds and energy upon the problem, if we will waive all our minor differences and concentrate all our efforts upon the recommendations of the Memphis conference." This is a reminder that the Memphis conference requested the governor of each cotton growing state immediately to issue a proclamation designating the week beginning October 25 and ending October 30 as cotton Acreage Reduction Week, and urged the state committee to set up activities of publicity and solicitation by school house and neighborhood meetings during that week, to secure the signing of pledges by every cotton farmer to reduce his acreage in 1927 and 1928 by at least 25 per cent below the acreage of 1926

Husbands admire this trait

The housewife does the family buying today. That is why she must compare before she buys in order to obtain the best possible values for her money. Just as in selecting grapefruit, she also finds comparison helpful in buying everything for her home.

Of course, husbands admire this shopping trait. The only way to get the best quality is by comparison. So with coffees.

We could tell you of the rich, full flavor and fragrant aroma of Folger's Coffee. How you would enjoy each steaming cup of this blend of the world's finest coffees.

But we ask you to take nothing for granted. Simply make the Folger Coffee Test by which you compare Folger's with the brand you are now using.

The Folger Coffee Test: Drink Folger's Coffee tomorrow morning; the next morning drink the coffee you have been using; the third morning drink Folger's again. You will decidedly favor one brand or the other. The Best Coffee Wins. That's fair, isn't it?

FOLGER'S Coffee Established 1850

See that the name Folger's is on the can. Make it your buying guide for coffee. It is the mark of distinction.

Forum Drama Division Gives Two Short Plays

Proving one of the most delightful and entertaining events of the fall season, and marking the beginning of activities for the drama department of the Woman's Forum, two one-act plays, "The Very Naked Boy," by Stuart Walker, and "Ashes of Roses" by Constance D'Arcy Mackay was presented to an audience which filled the ball room at the Kemp hotel to it's capacity Tuesday afternoon.

The first play was clever comedy in which Miss Helen Snider took the part of "She" or Genevieve, Bob Humphreys, the part of "He" or Mr. Gordon, and Master Jack Pitman, the part of the meddlesome kid brother. The skit centered around the romance of Genevieve and Mr. Gordon with the little brother listening in. Ridiculous situations were developed and the play proved exceedingly funny. Mrs. J. S. Pitman was the director.

"Ashes of Roses" was directed by Miss Marguerite Fisher who also took the role of Miss Kitty Clive. Leon Kerbow was seen in Horace Walpole; Mrs. Eugene Graham in Phillis and Miss Inez Pelerin in Roxane, maid to Miss Clive.

The scene was laid in the dressing room of Kitty Clive at the theatre, and the production was a dainty dramatic minature of some notables of the 18th Century. The lovely Colonial setting and atmosphere was thoroughly carried out in detail and the audience was enthusiastic in applause.

Between productions Miss Vivian Railey gave two violin selections, accompanied at the piano by Miss Erma Nala Voss. Miss Railey wore Colonial costume, as did the ushers, Mrs. Ben Bell and Mrs. Jouette Bonner. Mrs. W. F. Pagan was chairman of lights and make-up, and Mrs. Lloyd Young was stage chairman. Hostesses were Mesdames Leslie Humphrey, Bernard Martin and J. E. Shipley.

Preceding the production announcements concerning the drive for the building fund, were made by Mrs. Leslie Humphreys and Mrs. Ola Hamlin.

The entire program was presented under the supervision of Mrs. J. T. Harrell, chairman of the drama department.

Mr. Jonas showed how Camp Fire leaders and others dealing with boys and girls can influence their lives through gaining their confidence and being worthy of the trust, as the adolescent age is the age where ideals and ideas concerning life are established.

Miss Mary McIlheran explained the ideals and purposes of Camp Fire, showing how the idea of the Camp Fire symbolism and honor system originated in the family group of Dr. and Mrs. Halsey Gulick and was taken up by educators and others in 1911 who were trying to work out a program for the girls to do for them what the Boy Scout movement was doing for the boys.

Plays For Forum Entertainment

MRS. JOUETTE BONNER

Mrs. Bonner, talented violinist and prominent young matron, was one of the ushers at the Kemp hotel ball room at the presentation of two one-act plays by the dramatic department of the Woman's Forum Tuesday afternoon, and on Tuesday evening played 'At Dawning' in the pre-nuptial music of the burlesque wedding presented as the opening social event of the Musician's club.

Real "Society Wedding" Has a Kick For Everyone At Wichita Club

Unique and exceedingly laughable was the wedding Tuesday evening of "Miss New Member" and "Mr. Old Member" which took place at the Wichita club in a setting of greenery and flowers with cathedral candles adding a touch of solemness to the picture. The affair which was the replica of a "real society wedding" wherein some of the relatives are of the get-rich-quick variety, was the opening social event of the Musicians' club which begins it's fall and winter activities.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party, families of the bride and groom were seated in special pews roped off with white ribbon and the pre-nuptial music included a violin solo, "At Dawning," by Mrs. Jouette Bonner. Mrs. Luella B. Thompson sang a parody on "Oh, Promise Me," written by Mrs. Edwin Bebb and the bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by a violin choir including Misses Vivian Railey, Monterey Lewis, Harlett Bradley, Mathilde Donald, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Akin, Jr., on the piano.

Miss Catherine Weeks, wearing an elaborate wedding gown, with veil and all accessories, entered on the arm of her father (Alva Willgus) and Mrs. C. E. Beavers was the handsome bridegroom. Mrs. Lucille B. Huff was matron of honor and Miss Josephine Fisk, maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Lucy Huggins, Juel Ray, Adele Ray, Elizabeth Langford, Sara Creath and Mesdames C. R. Eyssen and Ben Bell. Mrs. Edwin Bebb in the part of the minister, read a clever original ceremony.

Wear Pretty Gowns

The girls in the wedding party wore handsome evening gowns and instead of the usual shower boquet, carried new year books of the club activities for this season, decorated in ribbons and flowers.

Little Alex Britain was ring bearer, carrying the ring in the heart of a chrysanthemum. Peggy Fritz and Sadie Brashars, dressed in dainty frocks, strewed rose petals in the path of the bride. Miss Annette Walsh was best man to the groom.

Mrs. T. B. Greenwood was the bride's mother and the groom's parents were Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pitman. Jack Pitman in the costume of a girl, was the flapper sister. Bruce Greenwood, Jr., dressed likewise, was the bride's sister and Mrs. Hermione Vaugn was the old maid aunt. The families of the couple all were dressed in comical costume and seated in the roped off pews, furnished much fun for the other guests.

All Details There

No detail was overlooked in this wedding. Even the bride's table was an elaborate arrangement, with cloth of cluny and fillet and silver candle holders containing pink candles. Southern smilax was draped over the cloth and a huge wedding cake formed the centerpiece.

A rainbow color scheme was carried out in costumes, decorations and in the ice course that followed the double ring ceremony.

The reception committee included Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stacy, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Nicholls, Mrs. Lois Parker and Dr. and Mrs. Kiel. Mrs. Kiel was chairman of the program.

Mrs. Myers Hostess To Hansell Guild

Mrs. Raymond Myers was hostess to the Lucy Hansell Guild of the First Presbyterian church Monday afternoon when the morning hours were spent in packing a box for the Haines home in Alaska. Luncheon was served at noon followed by a program. Devotional was led by Mrs. Jim Barnard and Mrs. J. D. Maddrey read a paper on "Alaska." Mrs. H. B. Patterson gave a comparison on christianity, with Mohammedism, Buddhism and Hinduism.

Those present were Mesdames W. S. Abbott, G. D. Anderson, Jr., Jim Barnard J. H. S. Bonner, J. S. Bailey, M. T. Chamberlain, Britt Cranfill, Roscoe Davis, O. E. Nelson, J. I. Frabee, C. I. Mrs. Lea Hostess To Members Circle Five

Circle Five of the Floral Heights Methodist Women's Home Missionary society met with Mrs. F. J. Lea Monday afternoon when the session was opened with devotionals led by Mrs. P. B. Cox who took for her subject, "If Jesus Came Today, Would We as Women Realize Our Debt to Him?"

Mrs. H. W. Barton read a paper on "The Untouched Era of Life," and Mrs. J. L. Lea gave news of the Missionary Bulletin. Miss Lida Lea gave a piano selection and a violin duet was given by Bad Bartin and Mary C. Boone, accompanied by Mrs. Lester Jones.

Don't Stop Making Love To Your Wife, She Says

"Because You Are Married, Mr. Man, Don't Stop Making Love to Your Wife; Rather Speed It Up." Says Dorothy Dix.

BY DOROTHY DIX

The average American man who has a dissatisfied and discontented wife, who is peevish and fretful, and whose home life has generally gone blooey is honestly bewildered by the situation. He doesn't know what has gone wrong or wherein he has failed or what is the matter with the partner of his bosom.

"My heavens," he exclaims, throwing up his hands in despair, "I can't understand women! Haven't I given Mary a fine house and a limousine Doesn't she have all the money she can spend? Doesn't she go and come as she pleases? Am I not as domestic as the house cat? What on earth does a woman want?"

Can Answer Questions.

I can aswer these questions for him. She wants romance. In particular, she wants sentiment, and if I could could give one piece of advice more earnest than another to husbands it would be this:

Cultivate sentiment. Educate yourself in sentiment as you have in books. Develop it as you have your business ability. Acquire efficiency in the use of sentiment as you have skill in your particular line of work.

Of course this will sound like sheer idocy to men. But, believe me, if they will try it it will do more than any other one thing on earth to settle all of their domestic problems, gain them cheerful and happy homes and make their wives eat out of their hands.

Of course, Mr. man, you can't get through domestic life without sentiment, just as you can go a long journey over arid plains and desolate deserts. But why choose the dreary route, that will take all of your endurance and courage to stand, when you may make a pleasure trip by way of silvery streams and verdant meadows, where birds are singing and the green trees wave above you? We always take the easy way in other things, why choose the hard was in matrimony?

A great many reasons have been advanced to account for the fact that America leads all civilized countries in the number of divorces. My own explanation for this sad state of affairs is that among Occidental men there are no others who pay so little attention to sentiment as American men. We are long on divorce because we are short on sentiment.

In European countries men glorify sentiment. American men despise it. A European man is proud of acquiring a reputation for being an exquisite lovemaker. An American man would rather be accused of sheep stealing.

They Made a Study.

European men make a study of the little delicate attentions that women love, and they religiously observe sentimental anniversaries. An American man has his stenographer telephone to his florist or confectioner to send the girl he admires flowers or candy. And the American woman who has a husband who remembers their wedding anniversary without having to be reminded of it possesses a freak that she could exhibit in a museum and that other wives would pay money to see.

The American husband is a better husband, more faithful, more generous, more considerate, than the European, but he is not sentimental, and his wife divorces him, while the European wife sticks to her husband. And the moral of all of this is that a woman will stand a lot of bad treatment if it is sugar-coated with sentiment. Nor is this as absured as it sounds. Most of us crave the luxuries rather than the necessities of life.

It is one of the misfortunes of the feminine temperament that a woman can stay a bride at heart for forty years, whereas a man's bridegroomness ends at the altar. He wants then to be done with lovemaking and to cut out the sentimentality which he loathes.

He has caught his street car, and for him the chase is over and he desires to settle down in his seat and read his paper in comfort. He never finds out that his wife still wants to be pursued and that she lives in a state of being perpetually green-eyed over a newspaper.

Separate yolks and whites of four eggs, beat well, add one tablespoon hot water to yolks, fold in whites, season with salt and pepper, then fold in cooked ham chopped fine. French Cookies

One and one-half cupfuls (one-half pound) brown sugar, one level cup (one-half pound) butter, two eggs, two tablespoons cocoa, one cup cold coffee, one cup chopped raisins, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon vanilla, three cups flour. Cream butter, sugar and eggs in mixing bowl, add cocoa, cinnamon, cloves, vanilla, coffee and raisins. Then add flour and baking powder sifted together. Pour into well greased dripping pan. Bake in quick oven about 20 minutes. When cold cut in squares and spread with frosting.

SUGGESTIONS

When arranging a centerpiece of stiff-stemmed flowers in a large bowl if you have no flower holder large enough, fill the bowl with the fine pebbles that you use when you grow narcissus blubs in the winter, and stick the ends of the stems in those. With just enough water to cover the pebbles, the flowers will be kept beautifully and held in place as well as with a regular holder.

In the course of a year the average electric vacuum cleaner collects 15 bushels of dirt and dust. As there are 4,500,000 of these cleaners in use in the United States their harvest runs to 60,000,000 bushels of dirt which otherwise could not have been gathered by hand sweeping.

CAVEMAN STUFF

Woman Sues For Divorce When Husband Gets Rough.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—The belief of Justice of the Peace O'Grady that a little "caveman stuff" now and then helps keep the fire of a wife's affection strongly glowing was scouted as a "hang-over" of the "lord and master" idea by Thomas F. Riordan, an attache of the prothonotary's office.

Mr. Riordan is versed in the ways of men and their wives by years of experience with divorce cases.

How Much of Your Market are you overlooking?

"Morning Newspapers Deliver Buyers"

EVERY family in this entire shopping area is a prospect for most of the merchants in this city.

In the old days newspapers used to speak of "reaching a number of subscribers". Modern merchandising practice inverts the phrase. It is now said that "so many thousand families have access to buying opportunities through the newspaper".

"How many families are regularly in touch with buying opportunities in my store?"

That is the question for the modern merchant to answer.

"Handed-Round" Coverage

Morning newspapers keep contact ten hours a day in the home during buying time with women. Women—in city homes and in homes so far as the very limits of this great buying zone—direct more than 85% of this market's retail buying.

In addition to this charged-for coverage, there are a vast number of families borrowing and reading morning newspapers whose names are not on subscription lists. In one morning market under recent study this secondary circulation amounts to 15% of the entire quoted circulation.

This is morning newspaper "velvet" to advertisers.

Thousands of modern merchants in America have learned this year how to increase their turnovers through intelligent use of the delivering power of morning newspapers.

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

October 20, 1925

E. A. Dale, pioneer resident of Wichita county, dies at Electra.

DICTATORS ARE DENOUNCED

ORGANIZED LABOR in America, represented by the American Federation of Labor four million strong, has no use for dictators or ditatorship at home or abroad. Before adjournment of the national convention in the city of Detroit, the American Federation re-affirmed unswervingly loyal to the principles and institutions of American democracy and voiced uncompromising opposition to the Russian soviet and facisti dictatorship in Europe.

They denounced the Russian soviet political regime as the most unscrupulous, most anti-social and most menacing institution in the world today, and called upon the government of the United States to reject the proposal or all proposals for diplomatic recognition of Russia by this republic.

Mussolini came in for his. Mussolini's regime in Italy was denounced as a tyrannical dictatorship. Samuel Gompers is dead but his soul goes marching on. He fought recognition of soviet Russia for years, he denounced the Russian leaders of the new departure as despots and destroyers of the principle of liberty and justice. However, the Russian should be permitted to work out their own destiny. Soviet Russia has been in existence for years.

Soviet Russia is an outlaw. Soviet Russia has been declared an outlaw by civilized nations. It goes without saying that the Russians have a right to dictate their own form of government and to pursue the even tenor of their ways as they see fit and deem best. Russia of the Romonoffs borrowed four billion dollars from Great britain and British subjects. Russia of the Romonoffs borrowed four billions from France or the investors of France.

All these loans were repudiated by soviet Russia, the Russians that exterminated the Romanoffs and planted the banner of communism in the former empire of the Romanoffs. Mussolini is a dictator, the most supreme that the modern world has known. Perhaps the Russians are unfit for a democratic form of government and the institutions of democracy. It may take them a hundred years to make the landing. Perhaps Italy needed a Mussolini, an imperial dictator, to save the kingdom from dry rot and poverty and repudiation.

Slavs have never know the beauty of a constitutional government; the Latins have been king-ridden for centuries. Like the Russians, the Italians should be permitted to work out their own salvation in their own way. If they prefer a dictator as a blazer of a new trail that will pave the way for the coming constitutional government, it it is their funeral or their victory in the last analysis of the march of civilization.

Regardless of all this, it is well that American wage workers should ever stand unswervingly in their loyalty to the principles and institutions of American democracy. They are units of a population of the greatest republic that time has known, the freest because men are their masters and the nearest approach to the rule of the people that any civilization has evolved throughout the state.

Geometrically and politically speaking, a ring is a crooked affair that has no ending.

Well, if it keeps on raining we are going to have to do what they are doing in Germany. They let it keep raining.

Japan has taken up baseball enthusiastically. If she really intends to fight us, we could wish it was football.

CARRY OVER OF COTTON AND SEED

ACCORDING to the latest bulletin from the federal department of agriculture the carryover from cotton seed in 1925 was large. This, it is alleged is responsible for the drop in the price of meal of $6.50 a ton since the first of September. Furthermore, if the forecast of 16,500,000 bales of cotton for 1926 is fulfilled, promises a very large supply of cotton seed meal and cake again this year.

According to the figures given the yield of cotton last year was 16,100,000 bales and the supply of cotton seed cake and meal for 1925-26 totaled about 2,600,000 tons. Of this amount, over 360,000 tons were exported while 90,000,000 tons were carried over at the close of the season. Estimates are that 450,000 tons were used for fertilizer and that 1,700,000 tons were used for feed to livestock.

This is one of the reasons why the manufacturers and crushers and ginners are asked to keep a vast quantity of cotton seed off the market this year. That is, to either store the seed or the finished products of the seed. There are cotton factors who say that the carryover of cotton from the last cotton year will approximate 4,000,000 bales and if the carryover this year will be four million bales this will make a total carry over at the close of the season in the month of July 1927 eight million bales.

Col. Henry G. Hester of New Orleans, conceded to be one of the best authorities on cotton in America has repeatedly stated that the increased takings at home and abroad this year will take care of all the marketable cotton of the crop of 1926. Speaking of crops, the latest estimate of the federal department of agriculture show that the total crop values of Texas this year will be more than $100,000,000 in excess of the total crop values in Texas in the year 1925.

This year Texas is producing 108,600,0000 bushels of corn, heavy crops of grain sorghums, oats, wheat, barley, hay and other crops, all much in excess of the value of the 1926 crop. It is said the federal estimate of the value of all crops in 1925 was $799,330,000, and the estimate this year is a total of more than $910,000,000.

These values were given a great boost by the marketing of 55,000 carloads of truck products from the Texas fields. All things considered, regardless of the slump in cotton, Texas continues to be on the map of the republic as the principle producer of farm products and holds its own record of "the billion dollar agriculture states."

CONDITIONS GROWING BETTER

AMERICAN bankers held their national convention in the city of Los Angeles. There were many interesting reports. According to one report submitted, attacks by criminals against banks and bankers were fewer last year than at any time in the thirty-six years during which active warfare has been carried on by the protective department of the American Bankers' association. Crimes of violence were reduced 30 per cent; daylight robberies dropped from 144 to 112 attacks, and the 57 burglaries of 1925 fell to 29 during the current period.

A material reduction was shown in forgeries, swindles and other paper fund, and now the American bankers, or rather the banking fraternity, finds the banking industry back to the more normal condition of pre-war days. Many of the foremost thief takers of America are connected with the banking protective association. They must know whereof they speak.

Their reports, submitted this year, are very flattering to the work of the detectives who are in the employ of the American Bankers' association and a considerable knockout to the alarmists who continue to sermonize that the world is going to the devil and that crime wave follows crime wave as never before in American history.

The Old Order Changeth

Town Talk - - - By H. F. J.

MAYBE HE'S RIGHT

Now what's the next move in the cotton market.

There is food for thought in the statements of Col. Henry Hester of New Orleans who, in reports carried in yesterday's Record News, came out in flat denial that the existing "panic" if such there be, is justified.

"A sane and reasonable study of the facts fails to find any grounds whatever for justification of the widespread alarms among the cotton producers," he goes on to declare it his belief that 16 cent cotton or more will be in order before long, and that suggestions for destruction of a part of this year's crop are dead wrong, economically and from all other points of view.

Hester is supposed to know whereof he speaks. For 30 years he has studied cotton production and marketing figures. As secretary of the New Orleans cotton exchange he is in as close touch with cotton movements as it is possible to be. His word is accepted as law by the cotton marketers of the world.

He no doubt is right in one respect, at least. The sickening levels to which the price has dropped has created a feeling of hopelessness that is unable or refuses to see a brighter day ahead. Conditions today are admittedly bad. And they have engendered a feeling, apparently, that they cannot or at least will not be improved this year.

The farmer cannot be blamed for looking at the world through indigo glasses when he sees the labors of year gone to waist; yet he can, if he will, find a little comfort in Hester's belief that the worst has been reached and better times are ahead.

THE MASHING BUSINESS

The mashing business on city streets got an effective jolt when Judge Bass romped merrily on two sheiks to the tune of $100 cash.

Women in Wichita Falls have not enjoyed immunity from the sidewalk courtiers any more than have women of other communities. The game of picking 'em up where ever you find 'em—whenever they happen to be in a mood—has flourished with disconcerting success. And in behalf of the masculine element that usually gets most of the adverse publicity, it ought to be said that the ladies in the case have encouraged these impromptu flirtations. Few sheiks, no matter how ambitious, will continue molesting the women if they get their faces slapped consistently.

However, all that may be, some more high powered assessments made from the police court bench may have a wholesome effect locally. Most of those against who the levies will be made can't pay a $10 fine, of course, let alone a $100 one. But the moral effect may be good and will be especially convincing if it has to be paid off behind the bars for a few days.

THE Fun Shop

By Maxon Foxhall Judell.

Why Don't They Listen To Us!
From tennis courts in autumn the racquets disappear,
But the racket of the world court still continues and we fear
Till funpowder replaces gun powder once for all
The nations in their peace-hunt,
Folks, are riding to a fall!

So Sweet!

Mrs. Newlywed: "How affectionate!"

A NATURAL BORN CITIZEN.
By Joseph O. Crosson.

On music I dote,
Yet I can't read a note;
I can't even whistle a tune;
But one thing I've found,
I can fiddle around
On any old hot afternoon.

When business is slow
My partner says, "Joe,
If sheriffs we are to evade,
You'd best take a trip."
So promptly I skip
To drum up a lot of new trade.

I get orders, too!
Between me and you,
Of salesmanship, that is the test.
I have just one plan,
Which works with each man,
I harp on this tune, "We're the best."

And though, as I say,
No thing can I play,
I get along nicely at that,
For often, I find,
When I've naught on my mind,
I play with the band on my hat!

Passed Out.

Uncle Eben: "Wal, we ain't had anybody 'round here with the nick-name of 'Honest' Joe or 'Honest' Sam for nigh on thirty years." —Mrs. G. T. Gilchrist.

Well, soon it will be Thanksgiving, and then Christmas, and then Candlemas, and then Easter, and then it will be almost Spring, and before long girls with funny legs will be trying to swim the channel again!

THE LECTURER PRACTICES HIS SPEECH!
(Overheard By Lillian Papke)

"Good Friends, it is a real pleasure to stand before you this evening to talk to you on the art of cheerfulness and the joy of human kindness!——Mary! Shut up, can't you? Get out of here——In my own home life, my friends, nothing ever ruffles my calm and placid disposition. I am serene ——Ye gods! Get that kid out of here with that drum! I'll go crazy if that hullabaloo keeps up! ——In the evenings, when the woman that is my life and joy comes in with a question on her sweet lips, I——No, you can't have any money! I need a new suit worse than you need hats! See? ——I am never angry. I never allow myself to be disturbed with trifles——I'll drag somebody off that piano stool if they don't stop thump-thumping!

"After years of loving my fellow man, kind friends, I have nothing but joy in my heart for the wayfarer who knocks at my door. Yes, I take him by the hand and say, 'Bless you, brother! Bless you!'——Say, if that's the landlord after the rent, he can jump in the lake, and tell him I said so!——In conclusion, ladies and gentlemen, I want to say that this beautiful way of life has worked wonders for me. I haven't a care in the world——Get to work on that sock bag! I haven't a pair that's fit to wear!——and am always feeling fit and bubbling over with health. I thank you!—— Thank heavens, that's over! Now, where the samhill's those headache tablets?"

A LITTLE KNOWLEDGE

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing, but it may also be quite useful. Every so often somebody starts up the notion that salt is poisonous and is at the root of most ills. There have even been some cranky religious sects and utopian communities that hove forbidden its use. One man who belonged to such a one could not eat his food without salt, and he was caught putting some of the tasty grains on his egg.

"What is this, Brother Smith?" asked an Elder in severe tones.

"Oh" replied the man who knew enough chemistry to know the formula of common salt, "don't worry, its just a little chloride of sodium."

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's question:

1. Some great rivers flowing northward are the Rhine, the Nile, the Mackenzie.
2. The Amazon river system is the longest in the world.
3. The Mississippi river is getting shorter by short cutting through its bends.
4. The Mississippi has been deepened at New Orleans by filling in land and protecting it, forcing the waters to scour a deeper channel.
5. The tide is felt in the Hudson at Albany.
6. The Chicago River has had its direction of flow reversed by a canal.

REPAIRING BRIDGE

S. and N. W. Branch Suffers From Bridge Washout.

ABILENE, Oct. 19.—A Fort Worth and Denver railroad pile driver is "punching" down piling in the bridge across the Double Mountain fork of the Brazos river, 13 miles northwest of Stamford, on the Stamford and Northwestern railroad, which went out in a freshet on that stream Friday night. The road should be opened for through operation of trains by Friday, Wichita Valley officials said today.

In the interim a "plug" is being operated out of Stamford, and passengers, express and mail are being transferred to a waiting freight train on the other side across the highway bridge. Only freight service has been seriously hampered.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch.

BY DOUGLAS MALLOCH
EXTERNALS

We talked about external things,
Hate, kindness, poverty and ease,
As though the joy that living brings
Depended on such things as these.
Well, hate may pound upon my door
Until it makes its fingers sore,
And ring my bell, and kick my gate,
And yet I do not need to hate.

Or men may be as greatly kind,
And I shall let my soul delight,
Yet not too much, for fear I find
Men's kindness altered overnight.
Happy the man whose friends remain
The same in sunshine and in rain,
Wiser the man who first depends
Upon himself, and then his friends.

And wealth, or elbows growing thin,
What does it matter, more or less?
I find more joy in joys within
Than I have found in outward dress.
Wealth is a matter of the mart,
Peace is a matter of the heart;
And, when the rabble of the town
Parades, I'll pull my curtains down.
Tomorrow: Ambition.

WANT EASY CHAIRS

Coleman Grand Jury Kicks on Rough Setting

COLEMAN, Texas, Oct. 19. (AP) Hard bottom chairs so irked the members of the recent grand jury in this county they urged in no uncertain terms the hard life of a jurer be made easier.

"More and better pillows to sit upon," was their recommendation. And prisoners in the jail, too, are entitled to a few more comforts, the jurors believed. So they urged better beds, mattresses and lights in the county jail.

Having returned 108 indictments in its 18 days' session, the grand jury then called it a day and adjourned.

"I'M THE GINK"

I'm the gink who hoots at any idea that my wife brings up in regard to her clubs or her work outside her household duties. If she is appointed on some committee in her club or if she attempts some sort of campaign of her own, why, I laugh about it. I scoff at the idea of women trying to run things. Of course it is usually petty jealousy on my part. I never receive any notice from my fellowman and when my wife does I resort to laughter. I insist that women had better stick to the home and let the men run things. I feel very masculine after a statement like that.

TELLS HOW HE FOUND RELIEF FOR INDIGESTION

"I used to have trouble with my stomach," says Mr. J. L. Russell, of Sewanee, Tenn. "For several years I suffered continuously with spells of indigestion. Everything I ate disagreed with me, and I was in a bad way.

"I worried a lot about myself. Nothing did me any good until I found Black-Draught. One day a man in a store where we traded told me to try Black-Draught. He said he knew of it relieving indigestion, so I decided to give it a trial.

"In my case it seemed to go right to the very root of my trouble. It straightened me out, and ever since that time, over thirty years ago, I have used Black-Draught as an aid to keeping my system straight.

"When I have a spell of indigestion coming on, I begin taking Black-Draught. I take several small doses, in a regular course, and I find it will usually have me well in less than no time. Now I never suffer—I take Black-Draught first.

"I also found it fine to break up a bad cold. In the winter time, I always keep a box handy, so when I sneeze, or feel chilly down my spine, I take a few doses of Black-Draught, and that wards off the cold. We would not be without Black-Draught in our house. It is essential."

Thousands of others would not want to be without this well known remedy.

Thedford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable cathartic or laxative medicine, composed of selected medicinal roots and herbs. Its use has brought relief in many cases similar to that described above. Try it. JA-43.

Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire provided a payment of one of the amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution. NO SOLUTION UN-ACCOMPANIED BY A SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENT WILL BE REGISTERED.

The Record News offers these prizes for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household to work together or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one of those working in unison to send a solution of the puzzle. For instance, if five people were tied on the best solution, the first five prizes will be reserved for them, and they would be awarded the prizes in accordance with the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. That is, the one submitting the best solution of the second puzzle would receive the first prize: the one submitting the next best, the second, and so on.

Subscriptions may be NEW or RENEWALS. Both count the same.

Closing Date

The Great Elephant Puzzle Contest Will Close at Nine P. M. Wednesday, December 1, 1926.

This is explained in the prize list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution.

The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning a prize. Accuracy is what counts. .... Not more than one prize will be awarded to any one person

JUDGING BY NUMBERS AND ABILITY DISPLAYED IN THAT GAME SATURDAY, INSTEAD OF FOUR HORSEMEN THIS YEAR KNUTE ROCKNE HAS A CAVALRY REGIMENT.

By the way, Johnny Niemiec, the scintillant of that afternoon's drill, is more or less a Texas grown product. Johnny caught his early football schooling down at Austin under Jack Meagher on the St. Ed's eleven.

NOT SO BAD

Judging by press reports Niemiec ran like Man O' War, kicked like an army mule and passed like a king's archer sharpshooting for his life. Knute's boys spanked the so-called Nittany Lions into 28-0 submission and most of the flogging was committed by Johnny.

* * *

"Carpenter Willing to Tackle Tunney."

That's a trait peculiar to human nature. Just what are not some of these fellows WILLING to do where so much money is involved?

We note Spence Abbott, the Kansas City pilot, has been released again. You can say the colorful man has set up one record, anyhow. He's managed more ball clubs than any other living follower of the would-be national pastime.

* * *

And now the boys are kidding Norman Brown for saying Sisler was bounced as pilot of the much-managed Browns. He should have said mis-managed Browns.

IT DOES, TOO.

Lots of attention in the morning mail today. Fellow accuses, just because he lost a wager, of swindling or something or other. Another puts the whitewash on Doak Roberts and includes us in the brushing off. And still a third exudes a gentle haw haw at advance comment on the Wichita Falls-Electra game. Such popularity deserves more money.

Just Trying to Get Along.

Took the matter (the money matter) up with the boss. He erupted with, "Well! wha-a-at do with all your money! You ought to save half what you earn every week!"

And then humble I pulled that old one on him, "But, Mr. Johnson, I don't get half what I earn every week."

And he says, "Don't you ever dare to put that crack in the public prints." And, so now I have done it.

AREN'T YOU ASHAMED?

But to the first razzberries:

"Mr. Cross.

"I took your 'tip' on the Missouri-S. M. U. game, gave three points on the Tigers, bet $50 with a friend of yours and the game ended in a 7-7 tie, so I lost and I think it was a frameup.

"How about it?

"An erstwhile friend."

Answer: In the words of the venerable Pop Boone, "I never pick a winner. All I do is pick who ought to win." And I never bet on my picks—anymore.

* * *

YES, YES, GO ON.

Razzberries number two:

"Blondy:

"Isn't it a fact that a Dixie series will never be played in Wichita Falls or any other small league city for the simple reason Doak Roberts will see to it the large towns where more money comes in at the gate will win the pennants?

"Isn't it a fact, also, that when you started panning Doak and his umpires last summer he told his umpires to make it as hard as possible on the Wichita Falls ball club because President Gardner wouldn't try to get you fired from your job?

"Yours for square play,

"W. F. T."

Answer: Nope. How's Doak going to keep you from winning in a small city, as you put it, if the small city turns out a REAL ball club? But I'll ask him the next time we go to lunch together.

Doak didn't tell the umps to ride the Spudders. They just naturally were an ornery bunch, anyhow.

As for Doak trying to tie the can to yours truly, why he's not that kind of a fellow, at least, he wouldn't try it under cover. And he certainly never said anything to me about. But I'll ask him, also, the next time we're at lunch together.

And where do you get that stuff, me being so officious as to even persume to ever have such an idea as that of "panning" Doak and his noble arbiters? Outrageous!

NOT NEITHER.

And the third letter was from our esteemed friend, Ben Meyer over at Electra:

"Dear Blondy,

"You are a glorious bluffer when you say that this Coyote-Tiger game is a toss-up. Just for old times sake, Blondy, do not try to spoof us. Now of course you shifters down in Wichita Falls know (or believe) you have this Electra game all salted down and packed in ice. Your comment should make old Bud McCallum grin. This is the kind of dope all the coaches like to hear about their teams. For nothing is more helpful on the field than a team filled to the palate with over-confidence. The Electra team is going into this game with the hope of victory, certainly, but decidedly the underdog. The Tigers are expecting the hardest game they have had this year. You have been a Texas long enough to know that a worried Coyote is more dangerous than a frightened one. I commend you for your circumspect.

"With best wishes for your continued happiness I am

"Sincerely your friend,

"Ben Meyer."

Answer: Let us quote again, this time the now immortal words of Doc Stewart. "My team will be very fortunate if it makes a first down because half of it is in the hospital and the other half is scholastically ineligible. And the opposition is extremely strong on the defense which is our weakest point and very strong on the offense which would be our weakest point if the other was not."

IT'S SAD, SAD STORY THEY TELL ABOUT COYOTE SQUAD AS IT PREPS FOR ELECTRA

Looks Like Mighty Holstein Completely Out of Game—Coach Makes Many Shifts in Line-up

Championship drives lead through many thorny fields, as events in the Wichita Falls High School Coyote camp during the past week have amply demonstrated. Just when everything should be ready for the finishing touches necessary to present the greatest strength of the team before Electra next Saturday, more shifting and experimenting is necessary to plug up holes caused by injuries and ineligibilities.

As the days roll by and the time for the opening whistle of the conference season draws nearer, it is more and more evident that Holstein, big center and bulwark of the Coyote defense, will not be able to play the Tiger set-to or if he can get into uniform he will be far below standard. Ligaments of his knee are out of commission to such an extent that they may require considerably more time to mend than at first thought necessary. Holstein has seen little practice for two weeks and hence would find going rusty even though he could get into uniform by Saturday.

Four More Out.

Ineligibilities of Sisk, Horton, Lynch and Dickey, as announced yesterday, draw heavily into Mac's reserves of any experience and promise. Ends of reliable quality have been hard to find all season, and with both Sisk and Horton, first-string ends out, new men will have to be trained to help out the youngsters in the job. Neal is the only one with experience available for the wing position and he is handicapped by lack of size, although making up in fight for much of this lack. The hefty blonde-thatched Allred is being shifted from backfield to end in order to bolster up the new weakness. Allred is showing up very satisfactorily in practice, but his absence from the backfield will detract much power from that department. On both defensive and offensive Allred has stood out as among the two or three top-notchers in the ball-carriers' department and he will be missed. McKinney also has been receiving instruction in the wingman's art and may be found either at end or at half at some time during the Tiger melee.

Tiger Defense Strong.

Electra has a strong defensive outfit, as is proven by the record in practice games, the boys from Wilson being the only ones able to score and that was on fumbles in the early season when anything could happen. If no further mishaps occur the Coyote regulars the Pack backfield will still carry a considerable punch in the backfield despite all shifts and rearrangements. Francis, Ray, and Edmonson stow away quite a big of plunging power and Raysor, although inexperienced, is showing up as a pretty heady field general.

Tuesday found captain Dobson assisting Coaches Brown and Bud in sizing up things among practice activities and encouraging his mates to keep in mind the business of Saturday. While some groups were running signal drill and perfecting plays under the tutelage of Brown McCallum, Bud's brother and volunteer assistant at coaching. But was putting through the paces of skull practice.

Revised Lineup.

Tuesday's practice found a squad running which in all probability, with just a change or two, will bear the brunt of the battle against the Tigers. Edmondson at full, Perk Ray and Francis at halves, and Raysor at quarter formed the backfield. Pinney a center, Brown and Downing at guards, Hunkie Ray and Powell at tackles, Allred and Neal at ends formed the forward wall. At least a half dozen others are certain to take a strong part against the Tigers, such as McKinney, Dolson, Hobbs, Newman and possibly Mitchell, the latter having succeeded in making up back work to put him back into the lineup.

Scrimmage will be taboo in the week's program, according to Mac, and conditioning will be the big item. Perfecting signal executions and building up the spirit of the eleven will make up the chief work. The spirit of the Pack is as fine as ever found at this stage of the season.

Owls To Pass Against Texas

Doc's Proteges May Meet Surprising Overhead Game

HOUSTON, Oct. 19. (AP)—Although the Rice Owls have shown nothing but orthodox football in the preliminary games, it is possible that Coach Heisman will open up with his passing game against Texas here Saturday.

Neither Grandpa Wood, backfield passing ace, nor Walter Joseph, Rice's best end, have seen action this season, but both have been practicing with the squad for the past two weeks. These stars were injured in the training season.

No opposing eleven has been able to gain through the Owl line this season, chiefly because of the magnificient play of Captain Heavy Underwood at center. In Carmichael, Canant, Berger, Hyde, Calhoun, Kniple and other tackle-to-tackle linesmen, Coach Joe Bedenk has a number of sophomores who have played creditable football.

The Longhorns will also be called upon to stop a number of newcomers in the backfield. Ray Davies of Texarkana, Dan Allnoch of Houston, Paul Smith of Galveston and other recruits have shown to advantage.

Perhaps the most consistent backfield performer with the Owls has been Paul Hochuli, veteran 135 pound quarterback.

VARSITY CRACKS DOWN HARD

AUSTIN, Oct. 19. (AP)—Driven for almost three hours under a hot Texas Longhorns experienced the sun at the stadium gridiron, the hardest workout that they have had this year.

The Texas freshmen, three teams of them, furnished opposition for the Longhorns during the entire afternoon. Each player lost on an average of six pounds to a man in the workout that was staged at the stadium Tuesday in preparation for the Rice game that will be played in Houston Saturday.

It was a tired Longhorn team that dragged into the locker room at the gymnasium at 6 o'clock this afternoon. They were tired and dirty, and realized that they had been through the grind. It was a hard driven workout that the team went through—harder than any scrimmage that they have taken this year.

Coaches Stewart and James were not at all pleased with the showing of the Longhorns Saturday against Commodores at Dallas, and immediately set about to remedy the situation, so that there would be no regrets Saturday when their team meets the Rice Owls in the opening conference game for both schools.

MICKS PLAY PURPLE

Northwestern Has Proved Tartar for Notre Dame.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.(AP)—Notre Dame, the outstanding mid-western football team unrepresented in the western conference derives much each autumn from standing on their heads a few representative big ten teams.

Not since 1921 has Rockne's annual invasion of the conference, found the South Bend on the little end of a score and that was when Iowa, conference champion nosed out Notre Dame 10 to 7.

With these facts in mind, Northwestern which even in its puniest gridiron days has been a tarter for the Rockne eleven is preparing this week for Saturday's Notre Dame game, by all odds the hardest tilt on the wildcat schedule.

Last year the South Benders were pressed to win 13 to 10.

BISCHOFF IN DALLAS

George Bischoff, former Spudder and Panther catcher of three seasons ago, who went to the American league via the draft route, has returned to Texas for the winter. He has a position in Dallas.

Bischoff, with the Red Sox, had a more than fair year. So good that an effort to get him out of the American league failed when other clubs refused to waive on him.

PONIES RATED TO BEAT A&M IN HARD GAME

Farmers Boast Defensive Edge, S. M. U. Better On Offense

DALLAS, Oct. 19.—With the glory of the achievement of Saturday forgotten in the work laid out for them this week, the S. M. U. Mustangs have gone back to work with energy and pep which bodes no good for the Aggie cause. The Mustangs realize that on Saturday they come to the crucial point in their season's campaign. The Mustangs played remarkable football to tie Missouri, but they realize that they will also have to play remarkable football to stay in the Southwestern conference race Saturday.

A glance at the records of the Aggies and the Ponies for the season would indicate that the Mustangs were due to win from the Farmers with ease. But then a glance at the record of the Farmers since the beginning of the Bible coaching regime back in 1917, indicates that beating the Aggies with ease is not being done.

D. X. Bible has been coaching at Texas A. and M. since 1917, and never during that time has any team in the conference or out of the conference won a victory over the Farmers as decisive as two touchdowns. So the boys, who are offering 14 points this week, if any, will do well to go back, and check up a bit. True, S. M. U. has the best team in its history. It is a team, which is quite deserving of all the praise that has been heaped upon it, but somehow in someway the Aggies always rise to super heights when the going appears to be the roughest, so it is at least an even bet that the battle in Dallas Saturday will be a close, hard-fought, spectacular game of football with the breaks doing much to swing the verdict for the day.

The S. M. U. line from tackle to tackle cannot compare with the Aggie line, but in every other department the Mustangs have the advantage. Dawson and Keyes are two of the best ends in the conference. They are much better than the Aggie pair. The Mustangs have more capable backfield stars on the bench than the Aggies have on the field. The Aggies will play second fiddle to the Ponies in punting. S. M. U. has by far the best passing team.

Defensively, however, the edge must go to the Farmers, and just how strong that defense will prove to be Saturday is the problem which is going to be a constant annoyance to the dopester attempting to predict the outcome. S. M. U. scored nearly twice as often on Trinity than did A. and M., but Trinity came closer to scoring on S. M. U. than it did on A. and M.

Chris Cortemeglia is the leader of S. M. U.'s plunging attack. He was a star against Missouri. He has not been able to dent the Aggie line in two games with the Aggie forwards rushing and punishing him. If the Aggie team of this year understands Cortemeglia as the other two Aggie teams understood him, he will not be dangerous this year. With Cortemeglia stopped, the plunging game of S. M. U. is stopped.

The Ponies have a fleet set of backs, however, who are always cracking off tackle, and around end, and if they emerge into a broken field, they are apt to show a clean pair of heels to anybody's secondary defense. The Aggies are always at their best in stopping such offensive thrusts. We do not believe that the end and tackle play of S. M. U.'s offense will carry the club far Saturday. In that event the issue will be squarely up to S. M. U.'s passing attack. If the Aggies can halt the Ponies' aerial game, they will have an even chance of victory, but stopping the S. M. U. air game is one of the most difficult achievements known to football in the southwest.

The vicious off-tackle thrusts of the Aggies are not apt to carry them deep into S. M. U. territory Saturday. The Ponies will likely have a defense for A. and M.'s running game. Joel Hunt will be a marked man, and he will have to be a wonder indeed to star Saturday, but the Aggies may take to the air to bother S. M. U. The Farmers may adopt S. M. U.'s chief weapon of attack, and make it an air battle.

SHARK CHALLENGES

Boston Strong Boy Files Defi Of Champ With Commission

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (AP)—Jack Sharkey, another "Boston strong boy," who defeated Harry Wills, places himself on record with the New York state athletic commission today as a challenger of Gene Tunny, world's heavyweight boxing champion. The commission received the challenge as information and placed it on file where it will receive consideration, it was intimated then and if challengers are in order. Sharkey was the first to file a formal challenge with the commission.

SPEAKING OF GOOD LUCK.

Princeton Player, Knocked Down, Catches Batted Pass.

Probably the most peculiar play in all Saturday's spectacular football was the scoring of a touchdown by a Princeton player who had seemingly been eliminated from the play. Baruch threw a pass that Schuber, Navy back, batted down only to see it fall into the arms of Stinson, Tiger halfback, who was sitting over the goal line after having been knocked down by Hamilton, another middie back.

NO NUPTIALS FOR GENE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (AP)—Gene Tunney expects to avoid matrimony until he is through with the squared circle. "There is absolutely nothing to it," he said, when told of a rumor that he was engaged. "I am not even keeping company with any girl. I am going to stay single as long as I am in the boxing game."

BET IT WAS FRAME UP

Patrolman Francis E. O'Rourke of New York believes football is a rough pastime. He was keeping spectators back in a semi-professional game when one of the backs dashed down the side line. Three opponents drove the runner out of bounds in a maze of flying arms and legs. When the pile was untangled O'Rourke was on the bottom with a fractured leg.

WALTER CAMP DAY

63 Colleges Designate Games To Honor Father of Football

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (AP)—Sixty-three college contests in all sections of the country have been designated as "Walter Camp" games as part of the nation-wide gridiron tribute this season to the memory of the "father of football." The list made public here by Edward K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee, and long associate of Camp in the government of the game, is expected to be substantially increased as other colleges complete their memorial plans.

FROGS CATCHING INSPECTION

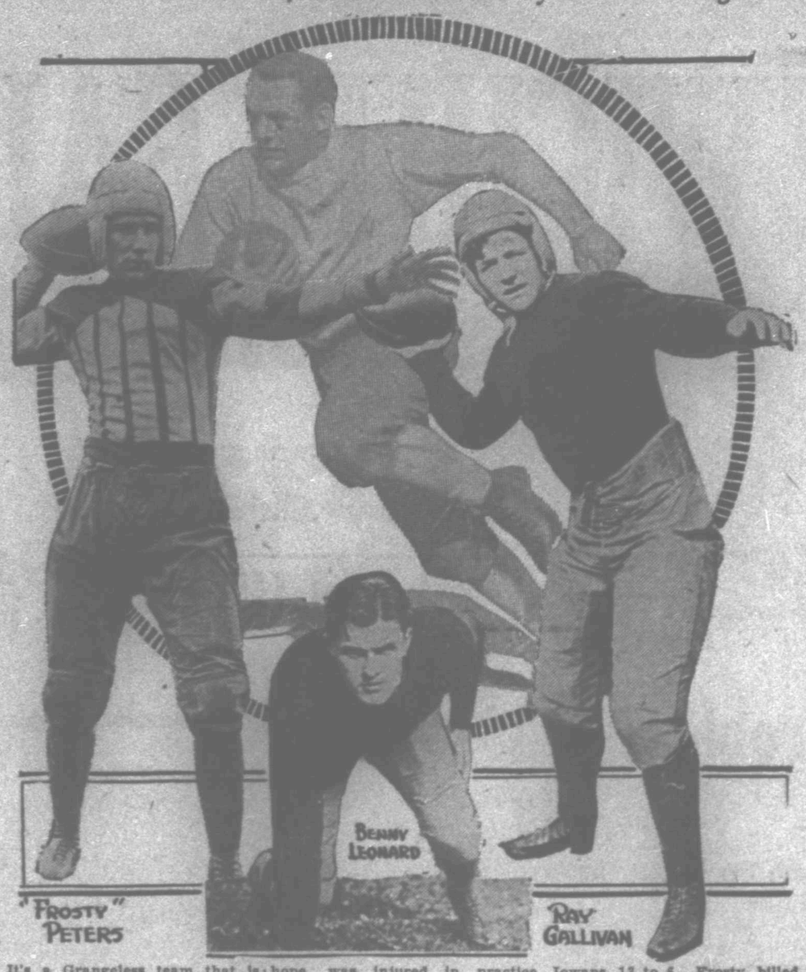

FORT WORTH, Oct. 18. (AP)—Texas Christian university football "Bulls" are beginning to watch the Horned Frog more closely now that four of the season's nine games are played trying to decide who will be adjudged the "most valuable player."

This year's captain, John Washburn, who contributed to the Frogs success in 1925 with his goal kicking, as well as all-around play at center, was named most valuable player last year.

26 UNDEFEATED ELEVENS.

Among the leading college elevens of the nation there are 26 that thus far have not lost a game, but only one of these, Northwestern of Evanston, Ill., has kept its goal line inviolate.

Can New Illinois Backfield Dim Memory of Red Grange?

It's a Grangeless team that is hoping against hope to maintain the prestige the Galloping Ghost gave the team last year. And at least, until Jud Timm, backfield hope, was injured in practice, Coach Zuppke believed his team would be set to run over Iowa last Saturday. The Illini, depending on Frosty Peters, toppled the Iowans, 13 to 6. Frosty, billed as the successor to Grange, Ray Gallivan, Benny Leonard, Green and Stewart are depended on by Zuppke to give him a well-balanced backfield.

Mantell Defeats Kanthe Handily

Dutch Wins Straight Falls, Yaqui Joe Tags It On Lewis

Alfred Mantell, Amarillo man of affairs, Panhandle realtor and stalwart athlete of the handsome blonde type commonly termed the flapper's delight, who makes a specialty of sideline of adroit and scientific exposition of the Marquis of Packing house sport, still has no peer in this gentle form of exercise.

Or, at least, Dick Kanthe, Professor Kanthe, if you please, of Detroit, physical culturist and also a rought-and-ready exponent of the you-stomp-me-then-I'll-stomp-you art, failed to display the class and punishment-absorbing powers necessary to detrone the nation's idol Tuesday night at the Eleventh and Ohio arena.

Joe Avenged.

Result: Dutch took the "wrestling" match in straight falls, kicking, slugging and—yes, even biting his way to victory. Yaqui Joe was avenged for that rough lacing handed him last week here by the rugged and heavier Kanthe.

Kanthe conceded the opener in 32 minutes under pressure of a body scissors that creaked his ribs almost loose from their moorings and a hammer lock that came near to making a bow knot out of one arm. The second fall went to Dutch in 27 minutes via the body-slam route because Kanthe made the mistake of not attempting to unhook a head scissors he had applied to the monkey-man when the latter started struggling to his feet. Mantell finally climbed aloft, locked Kanthe across his shoulders and then fell back on him, bouncing the wind out. The matter of pinning the shoulders was a formality.

Lewis No Slouch.

Yaqui Joe beat Joe Lewis, Santiago welter, in straight falls. Lewis was outweighed several pounds, but he carried the fight to his wiry opponent and made a sweet little battle of it for the laurels. He all but headlocked Yaqui into submission on several occasions, Yaqui copped first honors in 27 minutes with a toe hold and hammer lock. Lewis conceded the fall. The victory came in 19 minutes of sparkling work when seemingly about to lose out under a barrage of headlocks, the Indian sneaked a flying mare and the scrap was over.

GOOD BYE, DOCTOR?

Dame Rumor Has It Bridges to Replace Stewart at Texas

Rumors persistent that Frank Bridges will be the coach at Texas university next year. It is said that Lutch Stark, of Orange, favors Bridges, and Stark usually has the most to say regarding the selection of a coach at Texas.

The current season will be Stewart's last at Texas U., many of the wiseacres say. Doc signed a one-year contract last winter at the expiration of his old contract.

BAEHR HEADS BOXERS.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 19.(AP) Allen W. Baehr of Cincinnati was elected president and Toledo, Ohio was chosen over Chicago as the 1927 convention city by the National Boxing association at its final meeting today. Other officers chosen were Thomas E. Donohue, Hartford, Conn.; Louis W. Pfies, Detroit; T. A. Murphy, Toronto, Ont., and Oswald W. Suncke, Chicago, as first, second, third and fourth vice presidents, respectively, and LaTrobe Cogswell of Baltimore, the retiring president, who was elected secretary-treasurer.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

The stove league is using for early winter fuel the rumor that Babe Ruth will ask the New York club owners very politely to make his next contract include a yearly salary of $150,000.

But the discussion of the possibility—and advisability of giving Ruth such a salary should not be limited to the fan klan. It might well be worth the while of the major league club owners, in joint session, to discuss the problem facing the New York club—that of presenting Ruth with a satisfactory contract.

There should be no grins on the faces of acid moguls at this suggestion. Those who are frank with themselves will realize that Babe Ruth made baseball the billion-dollar business it is these days. Babe Ruth caused the moguls to build larger stands, which Ruth filled and thereby increased the income of the various clubs an untold percentage.

No one dreamed of a baseball park seating 70,000 persons until Ruth began to hit home runs.

No mogul dreamed of week-day crowds ranging from 10,000 to 20,000 persons until Ruth came into the limelight.

Now the magnates are used to the new incomes. They have money invested in the new properties built to take care of Ruth's following. The loss of Ruth to the game would mean a financial loss to every club owner that cannot be computed accurately but would run into a total of several million dollars.

The National League moguls may well be concerned, too, in the coming crisis. The years the Yankees have been contestants in the world's series have been the most fruitful of all to the National League magnates, winners and the "money" teams.

As for the rumored idea of Babe's that he is worth $150,000. He is not setting his value a bit too high.

His loss to the New York Yankees would mean a loss in gate receipts of more than that amount. Half a dozen week-end games in a hot race net the Yankee club a profit equal to that salary. The increased revenue from his drawing powers over the other 148 games of the season is clear profit to the club.

But in addition to these material things Babe, as he is today, is baseball's idol. A rebuilt one if you will, but nevertheless an idol. His three home runs in one game of the recent world's series topped off the greatest year he has ever had—not including the season when he hit 59 home runs. His popularity that year was not as great as it was in 1926. His value to the team was not as great.

Away from ill-advised friends and influences Ruth has become his natural self again—a big, generous hearted fellow, a man of good impulses. He means much to baseball in keeping that game before the youth of the nation.

I have panned Ruth when he deserved it. Right now, however, Ruth exemplifies everything that is baseball.

He can name his price.

And baseball, if it is wise, will pay that price.

We say baseball, for Ruppert, as owner of the New York Yankees and Babe Ruth is but one of the guardians of the game.

Backfield Bell's Largest Worry

Frog Mentor Finds Ranks Depleted By Punishing Campaign

FORT WORTH, Oct. 19.(AP)—Coach Matty Bell of Texas Christian university seemed to have little to worry about in the way of a backfield combination when the football season began but now he is losing sleep.

With four men like Herman Clark, Harry Taylor, Harold Carson and Bernard Williams, all veterans, Coach Bell apparently was the most fortunate mentor in the conference as regarded backfield material but the showing of this quartet in the four games played has put Bell on the lookout for a new combination.

He has tried out several other backs in the past two games and may give others a chance to show their wares in the game here Saturday with the Oklahoma Aggies.

Merlin Toler, the sophomore halfback from Sweetwater, has practically established himself as a regular through his work in the parts of games he has played. Bell's need of a more accurate and greater distance punter may also be solved in the toe work of Toler. He registered some nice gains in the game with the Austin College Kangaroos and once broke loose for a beautiful 30-yard run.

Biff Jones, Army coach, has been raised from a lieutenant to a captain. But if the Army has a poor season he'll be called something else again.

Thrift Terrors Back On Field

Semi-Pro Gridders Tangle With Healdton Crew October 31

The Thrift athletic cub expects to turn out a fast football eleven again this season under the name they have used for two years—Thrift Terrors.

The Terrors have a goodly number of veterans reporting for practice every day.

The first game is scheduled with the Healdton Bulldogs, a powerful all-star, semi-professional team from Oklahoma, Oct. 31. The game is to be staged on the Thrift athletic club field at Thrift.

At present, the Terrors have but a few games booked. However, they're on the lookout for more and heavy competition.

Any team desiring a game should get in touch with the Thrift manager, box 42, Thrift, or telephone Stone in care of Edwards newsstand at Burkburnett.

INDIAN GRIDDERS TURN PRO.

DAYTON, Ohio, Oct. 19. (AP)—Professional football contracts were signed by Mayes McLain, star fullback of the Haskell Indian football team and George Levi, halfback, here Friday night, it was learned today. The contracts were signed after negotiations by Charles Skelly, Akron promotor. McLain and Levi will start their professional careers after they graduate from Haskell.

LIONS BATTLE QUANAH TRIBE

Vernon Outfit in Wonderful Shape For League Opener

VERNON, Oct. 19.—Unusual interest is being shown in the coming contest between the Vernon Lions and the Quanah Indians, which is to take place on the local field Friday afternoon. It will open the Interscholastic league season for the Lions, and fans in general are expecting a stiff contest.

Both Quanah and Vernon have been defeated by class B clubs this season, but the Lions have had a two weeks' rest since going down before the Anson gridsters by a 12-0 score, while Quanah took a 34-7 defeat at the hands of the Childress Bobcats last week-end.

Coaches Baggett and Vaught of the local high school drilled their squad in blocking and tackling and this week the candidates are being sent through stiff scrimmage sessions. Unless injuries cripple the squad on the eve of the game, Baggett should be able to send his charges into the first league clash in better condition than at any time this season. However, the Lions have not shown any ability at tackling, blocking or charging in previous games, and the outcome of Friday's fracas is still cause for worry.

PRACTICE AT NIGHT

Razorbacks Workout Under Arc Lights for Gents.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 19 (AP)—With a battery of arc lights installed around the playing field the Arkansas university squad continued its practice sessions late today in preparation for the gridiron encounter with Centenary college here Saturday.

The Porkers look to the contest for their second Southwest conference victory, though reports credit Coach Norton's Gentlemen with a full equipment of veteran material and a formidable scoring machine.

Following their listless showing against Hendrix last week, in which the Bulldogs held the Razorbacks to a margin of seven points, the Hogs have plunged into strenuous work, ranging from attacks on the tackling and blocking dummies and sleds to thorough scrimmages with the freshmen.

TOUGH ON DOC

Varsity Loses Leo Baldwin Then Ed Beular Goes Down

Ill fortune continues to dog the footsteps of Doc Stewart. He lost Leo Baldwin, Wichita Falls flash, who promised to become one of the greatest backs in Texas this year, and now he has lost for the season, Ed Beular.

Beular went out with what was termed a sprained ankle during the first skrimmage of the year. It was thought that he would get in the Kansas game, but the injured member failed to heal. There was an X-ray taken of the ankle, and it was learned that there was a broken bone.

BENGOUGH TURNS POLITICIAN

Benny Bengough, peppery young catcher of the New York Yankees, who was unable to take his place behind the plate in the world series because of a broken arm, has entered the political lists at Niagra Falls, N. Y., where he lives when away from the Yankee fold. He is a democratic candidate for the state assembly.

Rupture Shield Expert Coming to WICHITA FALLS

From Monday, October 25 to Saturday, October 30.

at

Kemp Hotel

From 10 a. m. to 4. p. m.
Evenings by Appointment

ONE WEEK ONLY

No Charge for Consultation

Mr. C. F. Redlich, the successful expert says:

The "Perfect Retention of Shields, hold the rupture perfectly no matter what position the body assumies or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief, contract the opening on the average case in ten days and strengthen the weak tissues (the real cause of rupture) so that they frequently recover their previous natural retaining power needing no further outside support.

Stomach trouble, backache and constipation often caused by rupture promptly disappear.

While providing safety and comfort to all old and aggravated cases, the results are most favorable when the rupture is just discovered and still small; it will save you no end of trouble, pain and expense in the future if you now take advantage of this opportunity. No leg straps or elastic bandages are used. Can be worn while bathing and are highly sanitary.

Letters from highly satisfied clients available.

WARNING: Advertised mail order contraptions are worthless and so are elastic belts with their chafing, filthy legstraps. They not only make your rupture worse, but cause stomach trouble and often backache by pressing on the kidneys instead of holding the intestines where they belong. There is therefore always danger of strangulation. No medicine will help a rupture and you cannot fit yourself.

Call on me and let me show you.

Ninety-five per cent of all children, according to statistics, get rid of their rupture if fitted with the right kind of sanitary appliance.

Business engagements prevent visiting any other city in this section. C. F. Redlich, Rupture Appliance Expert, Home office, 535 Boston Block, Minneapolis, Minnesota.—Adv.

"MEN AND SHEEP."

"How Much Better Is a Man Than a Sheep?" was the topic discussed by Dr. W. R. White of the Southwestern Baptist seminary at Fort Worth, in a speech to the high school and college students at the regular assembly Tuesday morning. "Do not let environment, circumstances and conditions wholly guide your life as they do a sheep's," was the challenge with which he closed his short address to the students.

Announcements regarding the Electra game were made and it was announced that the high school seniors would have a dance at the Country club Saturday evening. Ernest Tarkington gave a brief report of the Grandfield football game.

Thousands of Mexican Herds Being Driven Over Border

LAREDO, Oct. 19. (AP)—Reports that thousands of Mexican cattle were being driven across the border into Texas to escape the new export tax effective October 24, were verified here today by Lisandro Pena, Mexican consul.

American cattlemen say the new tax, which places heavy duty on livestock going out of the country, virtually will stop exportation of Mexican cattle. About 10,000 head have been driven across the border at this point in the last several days.

MEDDLESOME MOLLY THE BAD LITTLE DOLLY

"BY MARTHA HART

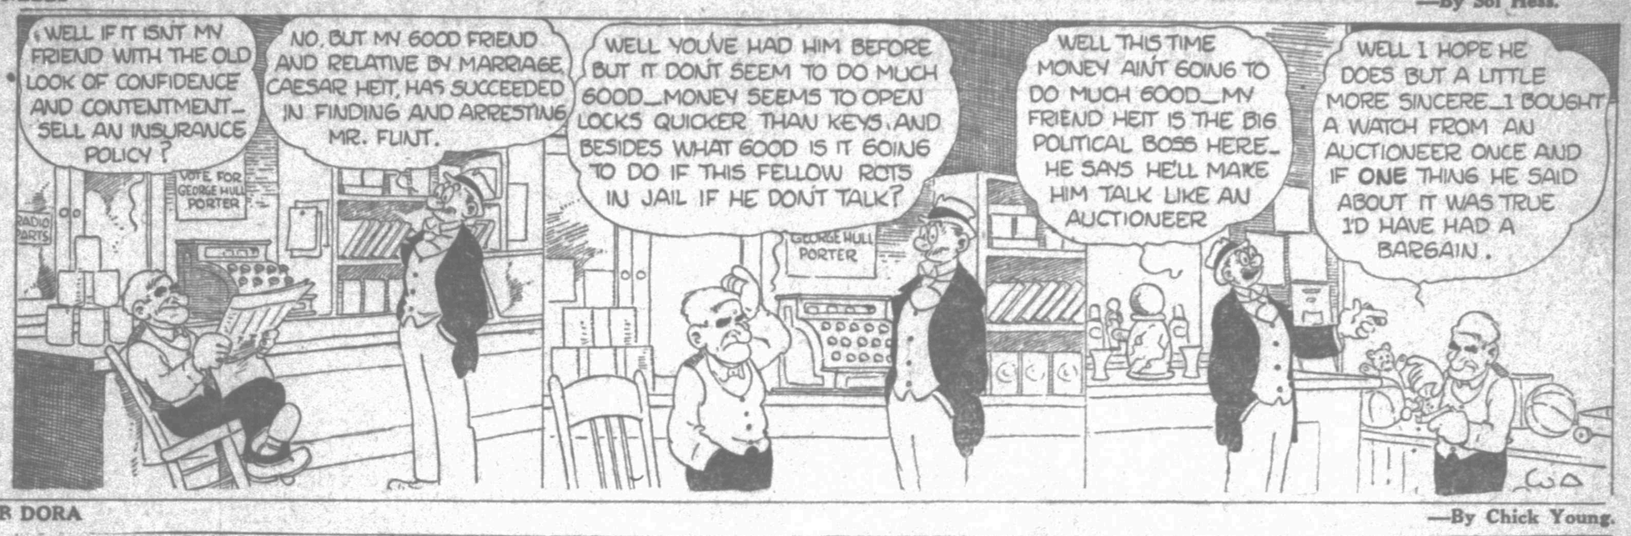

"Thank you, kind [fish]," said the [girl] most politely, for she did want her [fish], --"I shall be glad to eat dinner with you."

"Very well, the [fish] answered, and with a loud splash he dived off the [rock] into the water. Very soon up he came, carrying the [fish] in his [mouth]. He climbed on the bank beside the [girl] and with a low bow, handed the [fish] to her.

"I must be kind to him," thought the [girl], "and perhaps my wishes will begin to come true again."

"If you will excuse me for a moment," said the [fish], "I will get my [hat] and then we will have dinner."

Latest News of the Markets

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.(AP)—An early decline in the cotton market today was followed by rallies, but after selling up from 12.80 to 12.96 or 20 points net higher, January eased off to 12.76 in late trading and closed at 12.78. The final tone was barely steady at net declines of five to nine points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of five points, active months showing net losses of four to eight points in early trading under liquidation and southern selling, while there also was some local selling inspired by reports of good weather in the belt and relatively easy Liverpool cables.

The southern offerings were comparatively light, however, and after declining to 12.69 for December and 12.85 for March, the market turned upward on covering and trade buying.

Reports that a tropical storm of considerable intensity was heading toward the gulf, probably led to some mid-day buying and prices gradually worked up to 12.90 for December and 12.99 for March, net advances of 17 to 22 points on active positions. At these figures offerings increased somewhat and the market was rather unsettled in late trading, December breaking to 12.67 and March 12.900, or nine to 11 points net lower.

Considerable Wall Street selling was reported on the late decline as if influenced by weakness in the stock market and while southern offerings continued light the market seemed to lack much support after the mid-day covering movement had run its course.

The first private mid-month crop report was issued, estimating the condition 62.5 compared with 61.3 reported at the end of September. This improvement was somewhat unexpected in line with the talk of an increased crop promise but there were no figures on the yield indicated by the condition.

Business was considerably less active today than on Monday at any time after the last government crop report was issued. Traders appeared to be waiting for a line on the next bureau report, or for further developments in the southern spot situation.

Exports today 17,022, making 1,998,342 so far this season. Port receipts 134,405. U. S. port stocks 1,988,986 bales.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19.(AP)—Although there was less activity in the cotton market here today than of late, the price trend was generally upward, however, there was still a disposition among some professional traders to sell. The continuation of the trade and political disturbances in the Carribean sea which traders feared might eventually reach the gulf coast and damage open cotton. There was some buying on the belief that the market was oversold. Although cables were considerably lower than due the market here ignored the course of Liverpool and opened steady but soon went off on local selling in the early trading. Prices then rallied on storm fears and good spot news. By the middle of the afternoon quotations had advanced 30 to 31 points from the lows and 24 to 25 points above Monday's close. There was a reactionary tendency in the late afternoon and prices rapidly declined, losing all the day's gain and reaching levels 15 to 20 points below the highs. There was a rally of five or six points at the eclose and last prices showed net losses of three to 15 points.

With Liverpool eight penny points lower than due, the market, nevertheless opened unchanged to six points down. Prices eased off in the initial trading, December declining to 12.75, January to 12.78 and March to 12.93, or two to six points below the previous close. The market then advanced on storm news and continued on the upgrade until near mid-afternoon when December traded as high as 13.04, January 13.08 and March 13.26, or 29 to 21 points above the lows. These were the high points of the day.

Prices reacted in the late afternoon, weakness in stocks and some hedge selling turning the course downward. There were also expectations of a generally favorable weekly weather report tomorrow. Prices slumped rapidly, losing all the day's gain and more, December receding to 12.86, January to 12.72 and March to 12.88 or 25 to 29 points from the day's highs. A rally of five to six points was recorded at the end. Exports totaled 17,029 bales.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.(AP)—Lively speculative demand carried wheat values upward anew here today helped by an unexpected sharp advance of the Liverpool market. Reduction of the French import duty was a notable factor, on wheat were firm, 1¾ to 3c net higher with corn showing ¾ to 1c gain, oats unchanged to ⅛@¼c up, and provisions unchanged to 20c down.

Unfavorable crop comment relative to corn led the independent strength at times today to the corn market.

Oats derived their firmness from the action of wheat and corn.

Inquiry for provisions was slow except from traders who were short.

Good Showing in Profits Made by Telegraph Company.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.(AP)—The good showing made by Western Union Telegraph company for the first nine months of 1926 with earnings of $11.38 a share and probability that the year's earnings will approximate $15 a share have attracted attention in Wall Street. The directors meet for dividend action in December and as the full year's dividend of $8 a share already has been earned in the first three quarters with $2.38 a share to spare, it is said the street would not be surprised if the annual rate should be increased to $9 a share.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.(AP)—The stock market experienced another sharp reaction today after operators for the advance had failed in their attempt to continue the rally begun yesterday. Net losses in scores of popular industrials ran from one to six points, with a more moderate decline in the leading railroad shares. Trading, which had turned extremely dull during the morning, quickened perceptibly under the renewal of bear attacks, the day's sales, however, running below 2,000,000 shares.

The reaction took place in the face of such ordinarily constructive developments as the decline of nearly $83,000,000 in brokers loans, the lowering of the renewal rate on call money and the increase in the American radiator dividend. In the absence of any unfavorable business news, the selling was described in brokerage circles as a further correction of a top heavy speculative position. At today's closing prices, many of the popular industrials were selling 20 to 70 points below the year's high levels while many of the rails were down 10 to 20 points below the high prices established a few months ago.

U. S. Steel common broke from an early high of 129⅝ to 124⅝ and then rallied to 131⅛ off 2¼ net. General Motors tumbled from 161¼ to 142½, but snapped back to 147½, off 3½ net.

New low prices for the year or longer were registered by Electric Refrigeration, International Cement, American Linseed, Sinclair, Southern Dairies "B", Hudson Motors, Foundation company and Canada dry gingerale. Mack Trucks and Gulf States Steel duplicated their previous minimum quotations. Timken Roller Bearing touched a new high, but failed to maintain its gain.

Selling pressure against the rails was most effective against such issues as Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central and "Nickel Plate" common. Buyers were reported to have called about $20,000,000 in loans during the day.

Establishment of new 1926 high prices by the Italian, Norwegian and Japanese currencies again featured the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling ruled slightly lower around $4.84⅝ but French francs were firmer around 2.92 cents and Belgian francs remained over 3.90 points to 3.91½ cents. Italian lire were close to 4¼ cents, Japanese yen were quoted around 49 cents and Norwegian kroner around 24⅛ cents.

Wichita Falls To Profit By Night Air Mail Flights In The Future

To give Texas even better air mail service than it now enjoys, the National Air Transport company, Inc., operating under government contract the air mail route from Dallas-Fort Worth to Chicago, will begin late this month on installation of lighting arrangements to permit night flying. This construction work will proceed as rapidly as possible in order that overnight mail service between Texas and the metropolis of the middle west may be inaugurated.

This is the statement of Charles B. Braun, division traffic manager of the operating company, who is in Wichita Falls for a few days in the interests of more and faster air mail transportation. He is calling on business men of the city to outline to them what advantages are offered by use of the air in sending their postal matter and is urging that a more liberal support be given this new method.

Mr. Braun yesterday voiced considerable optimism as to the future of the air mail service. He declared that his company had already expended over $1,000,000 on its lines between Texas and the north, that in five months time its planes had never once been delayed because of a defect in mechanical equipment or human personnel and that an enviable record had been set in the matter of operating.

"With all this, however," Mr. Braun said, "we want to give even a better and faster service and to that end the night flying will be started just as soon as the necessary lighting system is installed. Work will start late this month on illuminating the flying fields at both terminals, this being necessary anyhow because the shortening hours of daylight will inconvenience planes starting early in the morning or arriving late at night. These lights will be extended over the entire 987 miles between Dallas and Chicago, so that planes can safely travel this long stretch between twilight and dawn.

"This will mean a distinct advantage for Wichita Falls. A letter leaving here at noon on the Denver will be in Fort Worth by the middle of the afternoon and will go north on the night plane, leaving at 8 o'clock. It will be in Chicago shortly after daylight the next morning. If it is to go on further, of course, it will catch early morning planes for the east. A letter mailed here at noon now and going that route by train will leave about 3:30 in the afternoon and reach Chicago about 7 o'clock the following night. Thus a full 12 hours or more are saved."

Braun pointed out that Wichita Falls could use the existing air mail schedules to advantage, a letter mailed out of here on the 2 a. m. Denver train being in Fort Worth in time to catch the north bound plane at 8:15 a. m. and reaching Chicago at 7:20 in the evening and New York at 6:15 the following morning.

Braun's visit at present has no significance regarding an air mail route for this city, he declared. He is simply seeking to sell the air mail idea to business men and those who use the mails generally, pointing out the advantages offered by this more rapid means of transportation and urging on them a frequent use of the air postal service.

NO JUDGE AT ALL

Denton Ballot to Be Bare As Result of Order.

AUSTIN, Oct. 19.(AP)—As a result of the supreme court's decision Monday overruling motion by Alvin C. Owsley of Denton, for leave to file mandamus against Emma Grigsby Meharg, secretary of state, to compel her to place his name on the general election ticket as democratic nominee for judge of the 16th judicial district, the ballot probably will not bear a name, W. S. Moore, judge of the court who contested Owsley's nomination, said here Tuesday.

Moore holds an injunction restraining the secretary of state from certifying the name of Owsley as the democratic nominee although he lost in the supreme court last week in his effort to compel Judge Claude McCallum of the Dallas district court, to try the contested case, and Owsley holds an injunction from Wise county district court against Moore.

"HONEY LOU" By Beatrice Burton

AUTHOR OF "LOVE BOUND," "HER MAN," ETC.

HONEY LOU HUNTLEY is private secretary to old "GRUMPY" WALLACK, head of the Wallack Fabric Mills.

"Grumpy" hired Honey Lou, not only because she is quick and clever, but because she knows how to stand up for herself and will not let him bully her. Honey Lou is a favorite with everyone else at the place, from ANN LUDLOW, the office vamp, to JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk. But Honey Lou is half afraid of Meadows, without knowing why.

Young JACK WALLACK comes to work in his father's factory to learn the business. He falls in love, first with Honey Lou's very real beauty, and later with her prim, old-fashioned ways. Brought up by a gentle, ladylike mother, Honey Lou insists that Jack meet her family before she goes out with him. She tells him she has never had an intoxicating drink in her life, nor been an a petting party. When Jack tries to kiss her, she slaps his face and refuses to speak to him until he begs her pardon.

But a week later, at a party given by his neighbor, ANGELA ALLEN, Honey Lou drinks two cocktails that she believes are fruit punch, "passes out," and lets Jack make love to her all the way home. After that he leaves her conspicuously alone, and Honey Lou wonders why. She does not know that Angela told Jack that she drank seven of the cocktails, and called her "hard-boiled." For Angela is all sweetness and saintly gentleness when they meet.

TIM DONEGAL, a friend of Jack's begins to be attentive and he and Honey Lou go on long drives to neighboring towns, where Tim seems to have some mysterious errands. One night they are in the Magic Lanter restaurant with Honey Lou's half-sister, MARGARET MOODY, and her friend, DR. STEVE MAYHEW, when Jack and Angela come in with a party of friends. They all meet on the dance floor and Honey Lou gives Jack a cool little nod. He looks surprised when he sees Donegal with her, and she wonders that Donegal never has told him of their friendship.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XI

Honey Lou felt the eyes of Jack Walleck's "crowd" on her as she and Donegal swayed and dipped past their table in the corner.

People always looked at Honey Lou. She attracted the eye the way a dancing flame will catch hold of it—because she was all sparkle and light and motion.

"Atta girl, "Red Heels!" a stout, settled-looking man muttered to her as she and Donegal broke into a double-time tango beside his table. "Stomp your heel!"

He clapped his fat hands in time to the sobbing rhythm of the saxophone.

Honey Lou frowned at him. The next minute she forgot all about him in the utter joy of dancing. The music seemed to throb within her, to the very tips of her toes. She loved it.

Tim Donegal, like most worthless young men, was a "dancing fool," A gigolo.

Honey Lou had never known what it really was to dance until she slipped into Donegal's arms and began to dance with him one night a few weeks before. Since then they had danced together two or three times every week. On Saturday nights they usually drove down to Crossentville to have dinner at the quaint little inn. And Donegal always left Honey Lou alone there while he went out into the town for a quarter of an hour or so.

Honey Lou had asked herself again and again where Donegal went when he left her. She had tried to ask him several times, but somehow she had not the courage to do it.

Another queer thing was that there were always two leopard-skin rugs in the car when they started out and only one on the homeward trip. It was very puzzling. Very.

* * * *

But the mystery of Tim Donegal was nothing compared to the mystery of Jack Wallack. Honey Lou actually lay awake nights wondering why he had kissed her the night of Angel Allen's party—and then dropped her cold.

She found herself puzzling her head about it now as she swept around the floor of the Magic Lantern to the soft and haunting melody of "The Countess Maritza."

"Play, gypsies! Dance, gypsies! "Play while you may—

"We're gypsies, one and all,

"I say—"

The music stopped on a lovely golden note and she and Donegal went back to Margaret and Steve Mayhew.

Honey Lou's chair faced the room. As she dropped into it, she saw Angela Allen and Jack coming across the dance floor toward her. The smile froze on her lips and the laughter and light died out of her eyes. Nervously she reached for her vanity case and began to powder a nose that needed no powdering.

"Look who's here," she said under her breath to Margaret.

She wished she had stayed at home tonight. It made her ache all over to see Angel Allen and Jack walk across that floor together, arm in arm, like lovers. Close and intimate—almost like a husband and wife.

Donegal and Steve Mayhew shoved back their chairs and got up as the two came up to the table.

"How nice to see you, Dr. Mayhew! I thought you were too serious-minded to come to a jassy place like this," Angela laughed up at Steve as she shook hands with him.

Then she came around the table to Honey Lou, filling the air in that corner with the delicate fragrance of valley lilies. Her white chiffon draperies fell around her in straight lovely lines and she looked like the figure of a saint in a stained-glass window as she stood there, bending over Honey Lou.

"We haven't had a chance to have our luncheon together, have we, Miss Huntley" she asked in her gentle voice.

"Won't you sit down?" said Honey Lou.

Donegal brought two chairs from a near-by table and she sat down.

"Have a chair, old man," he said to Jack, and Jack sat down, too.

"You know my sister, Margaret Moody, don't you?" asked Honey Lou. "She's down at Holy Cross hospital, too."

Angela shook her head with its golden hair and smiled like an angel.

"I'm sorry. I don't know Miss Moody," she answered, and held out her hand.

"I go down to Holy Cross every Friday to tell stories to the little children in Ward A," Angela went on in her soft, sweet way. "I look forward to it so. They're so sweet. Poor little kiddies!"

"I've been telling them their Friday afternoon stories for the last three weeks," she said clearly. "When you failed to come the nurse asked me if I could find the time for their story hour."

Honey Lou looked at Jack Wallack and saw that he was watching Angela, who blushed faintly.

"I try to get there every Friday afternoon," she faltered.

"Where do you work in the hospital?" she asked, turning to Margaret. "Are you a nurse?"

"No, I work in the office." Margaret answered. It was very plain to Honey Lou that for some reason of her own, she did not care much for Angela Allen.

"Wonderful work—office work—for women—for women," Angela remarked. "Somebody was talking about stenographers the other day and called them 'daytime wives.' I suppose because they fetch and carry for a man all day long—and then I guess some of them are in love with the men they work for."

Her dove-colored eyes went from Honey Lou to Jack Walleck as she said it.

"What rubbish!" Margaret cut in bluntly. "What utter rubbish. For one silly girl who falls in love with her boss there are thousands of fine women who look upon him simply as a fellow workman. Most girls are working because they like the job and the salary—not the man behind them. Whoever called sober, hard-working office women 'daytime wives' ought to be writing for the movies or turning out dime novels, Miss Allen."

She turned her head and looked across the room.

"There's your waiter, Steve," she said to Steve Mayhew. "Better call him and get the bill. It's time we were going."

Jack Wallack came around the little table to Honey Lou as Angel got up.

"Good-night," he said, bending over her. He grinned and his teeth fairly flashed in his tanned face. "I like your red heels."

Margaret watched him and Angela go with a hard look in her dark eyes.

"I don't care much for your friend, Miss Allen, Honey Lou," she remarked grimly. "And she's jealous of you."

"Sh!" Honey Lou gave her a warning glance. For Donegal was listening. And while she liked Donegal, Honey Lou felt he was not to be trusted with anybody's innermost thoughts.

There was something about Donegal that put her on her guard always when she was with him. She did not quite know why. He always behaved toward her as if she were his nice little sister. He might tell her that she had "more wiles than Egypt" and that her lashes were "dark as night in India." But that was just his flattery. It meant nothing.

He never touched her. Never tried to hold her hand across a restaurant table. Never put an arm around her as they drove in the bilious green car with its vanishing leopard-skin rugs.

It was a week later before Honey Lou laid eyes on Jack Walleck again. Then he came to her in the office and asked her if she would drive home with him that night.

"Will you, Red Heels?" he asked, glancing down at the worn-brown oxfords that Honey Lou wore to work, "I want to talk to you."

She shook her head.

"He can't slam me down the way he did and then pick me up right away," she said bitterly and rather sadly to herself as she looked up at him.

"No, thanks," she said aloud, and let it go at that.

He stayed there for a minute more, looking down at her as if he were going to speak. Then he shrugged his broad shoulders under the blue shirt he wore and stalked away.

Honey Lou's h rt ached as she watched him go. But her pride would not let her call him back.

After that he seemed to keep out of her way, purposely. If she went down to the weaving room, he walked out of it. If they met on the stairs or in the courtyard, they nodded and passed each other without a word or a smile.

Then on the first warm night in May he called Honey Lou up at her own home.

"I'm coming over to see you," he said. "This can't go on."

"I'm so sorry," she answered. "I'm going out. But—will you come tomorrow night?"

"I'll come any time you say I may."

"Tomorrow night, then," Honey Lou answered. Her voice was low and even. But her heart began to sing like Miss MacComber's canary when Miss MacComber uncovered its cage in the morning.

The next afternoon Angela Allen came down to the mills. She came running up the steps to the office and walked straight across the room to Honey Lou's desk.

The windows of the big room were open and the air came through them, laden with the smell of wool and grease. She had on a flannel suit and hat that were just the color of a daffodil; and the valley-lily perfume she used came to Honey Lou's nostrils like the breath of spring itself.

"Hello, my dear," she said. "I came to make good my promise at last. I came to take you to tea."

(TO BE CONTINUED)

Why did Angela come to the office? Did she want to take Honey Lou to tea because she was her friend—or because she had something to tell her? The answer is in tomorrow's chapter of HONEY LOU.

NORTHER BRINGS PROMISE OF COLDER WEATHER

BRISK NORTH WIND STRIKES

Temperature Falling Rapidly At Midnight In Face Of Stiff Breeze

A fresh norther that gave promise of bringing another spell of cold weather to Wichita Falls hit the city early Tuesday night and within a few hours time had driven the thermometer down from unusually high levels to a lower mark.

The dropping temperature came on the heels of another ideal day, cloudless and with a brisk breeze from the north. Late in the afternoon the wind switched abruptly to the north and increased in intensity throughout the night.

Notwithstanding weather bureau reports of partly cloudy and warmer for Wednesday, the temperature was falling at midnight and it was still clear.

WILLGUS DELEGATE

Will Represent Ad Club at Beaumont Convention

Alva Willgus was chosen delegate from the Wichita Falls Advertising club to represent that organization in the tenth district convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World to be held at Beaumont October 24-26, according to plans made in the weekly meeting of the club Tuesday at the Kemp.

The Boy Scout training school which is to be held each Thursday evening of the week for ten consecutive weeks was announced by J. H. Allison, president of the council. The meetings will be conducted by Frank B. Creighton, scout executive.

A discussion of advertising in out-of-town publications was taken up, and several members told of refusing to advertise in such publications following the rules of the club.

The club voted to dispense with the regular meeting next Tuesday and go Wednesday to Iowa Park to meet with the Iowa Park Civic club at the Park hotel. J. E. Price, chairman of arrangements for this meeting, was advised that 20 or 25 from Wichita Falls would attend the meeting in Iowa Park. Members are asked to notify him or Miss Josephine Fisk, secretary, if they expect to go.

Did You Know——?

Reports Made On City's Growth At Meeting Of Realty Club

In Wichita Falls there are:

112 miles of sewer lines representing an investment of $1,250,000.

Six railroads with 24 daily passenger trains.

10,500 water meters.

9,760 gas meters.

9,762 telephones.

Oil refineries and factories totaling 87 with 3,000 employes and a monthly payroll of $450,000.

2,050 persons employed in the offices of these factories with a monthly payroll of $212,500, and for the 5,050 employes a monthly payroll of $662,500.

47 churches representing many denominations and faiths.

32 schools.

One of the largest mill and elevators of the southwest.

A total annual shopcraft payroll of $13,000,000.

20,000 employes in the offices of the city.

The above are statistics given at the regular meeting of the Wichita Falls Real Estate Board Tuesday at the Kemp when various members reported on questions asked in a survey the realtors are making in a "Know Your City" study taken up last week.

As a city of schools, the 32 institutions represent 12 ward schools, two junior high schools, one combination high school and junior college; two commercial colleges; one school where the German language is taught; one Catholic school, and ten private schools. The ward schools have been so located by the boards of education that children do not have to walk more than one half mile to reach the building, it was said.

Wichita county ranks fifth in number of automobiles in the state, being surpassed by Dallas, Harris, Tarrant and Bexar. There are 22,158 automobiles and 2,054 trucks.

Wichita Falls has fewer churches in comparison with her population than any other city in Texas, and ranks high in attendance at church and Sunday school. The information obtained from the Wichita Falls Ministerial Alliance showed that for a city of oil tendencies, the church attendance was above the average, and the investment in church property is high, though no figures were given.

A. H. Smith, of Iowa Park, made a short talk in which he suggested that pickling factories and canning plants be established in the Wichita irrigated valley to take care of the products.

J. F. Finch, real estate man and oil scout, and Rev. E. C. McKenzie, both of Iowa Park, made brief talks.

A. N. Green of Los Angeles, spoke briefly of his visits to Wichita Falls during the past ten years and remarked concerning its growth: "You have the best background for a city and it is growing more rapidly than any other place in the country," he remarked.

DUKE GIVES UP TO JAILER

Is Arrested And Held On Charge of Slaying Grady Morgan

G. W. Duke, who is formally charged with the murder of Grady Morgan, came into the county court house yesterday morning and gave himself up. He was placed in the county jail pending a preliminary hearing.

Duke was charged with the murder of Morgan after J. H. Davis had testified that Duke was the man who struck Morgan with an automobile tire pump on the Holliday Drive Saturday, two weeks ago. Morgan was found unconscious beside his truck and brought to the hospital but never regained consciousness and died on the following Wednesday.

City police officers brought in Davis and his wife, both of whom testified that Duke was the man who struck Morgan after Morgan was alleged to have used abusive language to him and his wife, denied this testimony.

That Stomach of Yours!

"For several years I have had some kind of stomach trouble," said Mrs. M. E. Barrows, R. F. D. 6, Box 42, Weatherford, Texas, (pictured above). "Doctors' medicine do me no good. I would have spells of nausea night and day whether I ate or not. I would feel bloated, was constipated, didn't sleep well and felt bad mornings. My husband bought some of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. I have taken one every night for two or three months now and feel like a new woman. I can eat what I want to and sleep well all night. I would not take hundreds of dollars for what the 'Pleasant Pellets' have done for me. I recommend them to my friends and acquaintances."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets can be procured from your neighborhood druggist. 60 Pellets for 30 cents.
