Hospital Enters Skilled Nursing Care Program

Collingsworth General Hospital is one of approximately 40 rural hospitals in Texas which will participate in a three and one-half year project through which excess vacant hospital beds will be used to provide long-term skilled nursing care for patients requiring it.

Announcement of the hospital's acceptance into the program was made on Monday, August 11, by Garner Altom, administrator.

"The Texas Hospital Association has entered into a contract with the Social Security Administration (SSA) for a program of utilization of chronically vacant beds in rural hospitals for use in the care of patients requiring long term skilled nursing care. Also cooperating in this joint public and private sector venture are the Texas Department of Public Welfare, Texas Department of Health Resources and Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Texas," said O. Ray Hurst, CAE, President of the Texas Hospital Association (THA).

Guidelines for participation in the program are being drawn and later this month, administrators of the hospitals entering into it will meet with representatives of the Social Security Administration and Texas Hospital Association to learn what is required of them.

Mr. Altom explained that long-term skilled nursing care is for the patient between hospitalization and the nursing home -- one who still requires the care of trained nurses. It does not in

Fifty-three Skyrockets Show Good Condition in Workouts

Fifty-three Skyrockets, from freshmen through seniors, are working out at Powell Field on two-a-day schedule, in what is primarily conditioning and instruction in fundamentals. Friday, the entire team will go into pads.

Head Coach James Williams and First Assistant Phil Bailey have discussed the Rockets and their prospects.

Altogether, 21 lettermen are back including most of the starting lineup.

Wellington lost only one man on offense and one on defense, Jim Bob Nall and Lynn Emmert, along with some good back-up men, Kelly Cook, Terry Anderson and Ricky Ford, all by graduation.

"The boys are in pretty good shape," Coach Williams said. "Most have been working on their own a lot before workouts started and they came out in real fine condition."

Both coaches touched on the individual ability and potential in the 1975 team.

"We don't have a proven team, we're still looking at them," Coach Williams continued. "But the main thing is if they have a winning attitude, I think we'll have a good football team.

The 1975 Rockets won't be much larger than the 1974 team, but their coaches are expecting them to be quick and with a lot more know-how. Some of the boys have trimmed off a few pounds, others have put on a little weight.

"We were pleasantly surprised at their condition," Coach Bailey said.

By steps, the Rockets are working into the hotter part of the day, and now practice at 7:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. After Friday, they'll begin afternoon workouts at 4:00.

First Methodist Holds Community Barbecue Fri.

Tickets are going fast for the second annual community-wide barbecue to be held Friday, August 15, by First United Methodist Church, workers have revealed. It will be in Ellison Park.

Serving the pit-barbecued beef, with all trimmings home cooked, will start at 6:00 p.m. and continue until 9:00, according to Mrs. Barbara Williamson, public relations director for the event.

It is a benefit event, and all proceeds will go into the church building fund. In case of bad weather, the barbecue will be held at First United Methodist Church.

David Baumgardner, chairman of the finance committee, is also the barbecue chairman. Others on the committee are A.J. Fires and Henry Sullivan, and they will have the help of as many men of the church as may be needed.

This is a community event, it is emphasized -- for everyone who likes to eat barbecue! Nor is it for the Wellington area only. Workers point out it is for the whole trade area and can provide an ideal outing for families or groups.

"Groups, such as clubs or organizations, can take advantage of this, or it offers an ideal way for an employer to treat his employees, or for anyone who would like to do a little something extra for a friend," Mrs. Williamson points out.

Women of the finance committee will be in charge of serving the barbecue supper. These include Mrs. Cal Hurst, chairman, Mrs. Esta Glenn, Mrs. Gorman Owens, Mrs. Williamson, Mrs. Lynn Carter, Mrs. Fred Covey, Mrs. Bob McAlister. They will draw in as many other women of the church as may be needed.

Already, 350 tickets have been distributed and 100 more will go out before barbecue time. A limited number of persons may pick up tickets at the barbecue, but the purchase of tickets in advance is urged.

The building program of First United Methodist Church presently concentrates on a new sanctuary, although no construction date is set. Plans are to raise most of the required money before the building is started, Mrs. Williamson pointed out.

The sanctuary will be the Next Bloodmobile Visit Due Sept. 9

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will make its semi-annual visit to Wellington Tuesday, September 9. This unit comes from the Red River Regional Blood Center, Wichita Falls, where Collingsworth General Hospital secures all blood to meet its patient needs, reminded Garner Altom, administrator.

There will be no change in either the amount of blood asked or the procedure to be followed, Mr. Altom said.

The quota is 118 units of blood and for this, at least 147 potential donors will be needed. This is based on the population of the county.

The bloodmobile will be at the club room of Bura Handley Community Center from 1:00 to 6:00 p.m.

Mr. Altom said that within the next few days, a blood drive chairman will be selected, and plans for the drive will be mapped.

As in the past, many volunteers will be needed to work on the day of the bloodmobile visit.

any way compete with nursing center care, he emphasized.

Collingsworth General Hospital has available 7 beds to be included in the new program.

"It is only two or three times a year that our hospital is filled to capacity," Mr. Altom pointed out.

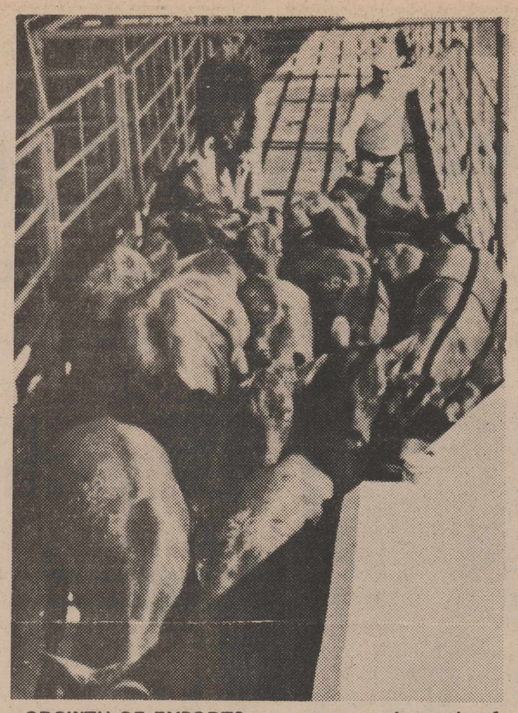

"The remainder of the time, we have 7 or more beds empty, although the skilled nursing staff is there." This condition is prevalent in rural hospitals of the state.

This three and one-half year program will provide hospitals with additional income and reduce hospital costs by spreading overhead expenses. The program will also benefit routine hospital patients and Medicare by reducing their health care costs. Patients living in rural areas requiring long-term skilled nursing care where none is now available will be able to remain under the care of the local physician in their own communities. The rural hospitals participating in this project will receive an annual incentive payment from Medicare equal to one half of its savings. This program will only be available where there are no facilities in the immediate area for skilled long-term nursing care.

The project will serve as a model for other states since its purpose is to help bring under control the nation's spiralling health care costs, while providing for the country's elderly and strengthening the rural health care delivery system.

The project will be conducted under the supervision of Sam A. Edwards, Ph.D., Vice President for Research and Development, THA. According to Mr. Hurst the project is simplicity itself. "We're going to utilize unused hospital beds and personnel to supply skilled nursing beds in short supply and great demand. This will cut costs and improve service to everyone involved. While the concept is simple, the benefits of the experiment could be enormous, offering, as it does, hope for three of the nation's most vexing problems: the cost of Medicare, the problems of the elderly, and the plight of the rural health care delivery system."

The Texas Hospital Association is the statewide trade association of hospitals in Texas. More than 675 hospitals and other health care institutions are members of THA. Headquarters for the Association is in Austin.

GROWTH OF EXPORTS means more market outlets for Texas agricultural producers. To facilitate shipment of livestock from the U.S., the Texas Department of Agriculture is completing the last of six USDA-approved inspection pens. The intensified efforts to build foreign trade by TDA have resulted in increased sales for Texas farmers and ranchers.

Extension Service Head Receives Recognition

LUBBOCK, Aug. -- (Spl.) . . . Texas Agricultural Extension Service Director Dr. John E. Hutchison of College Station received special recognition by the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association during the opening assembly of the group's annual meeting here Aug. 4

County Extension Agents from across the state who gathered at Lubbock's KoKo Inn for the confab applauded Hutchison's leadership, initiative and foresight in several areas of development of the Extension Service program.

The recognition came during the hour that Hutchison addressed the group. Association president Steve Wheeless of Dallas presented the honor.

TCAAA, in presenting the award, said Hutchison is recognized nationwide as a "man who has the ability to interpret and put into action Extension Service programs that meet the people's needs."

"He is a leader in the program development area at the grassroots level," they said. The program building process in Texas has now been duplicated by many other state Extension Services in the United States.

The TCAAA president explained that Director Hutchison came up with the idea of the interdisciplinary approach of Extension Service, a forerunner of the concept of Extension centers in which district agents and specialists in various disciplines are placed according to the particular district needs across the state.

Being a former county agent has helped him to remain cognizant of the continuing needs for education and improvement of production agriculture in Texas, Wheeless said.

Through Hutchison's rapport and mutual respect with educators, legislators, agribusinesses and many others, the position of county Extension Agents and agricultural leadership in general has been strengthened tremendously, the TCAAA president added.

Through his foresight have come about programs such as "3.76 in '76" and area economic development programs such as SPD (South Plains Development program), PEP (Panhandle Economic Program), and others. Hutchison has cooperated with Texas Governor Dolph Briscoe in planning and promoting the state program to make Texas the number one agricultural producing state in the nation. And he has played a leading role in implementing the program.

Wheeless said that because of Hutchison's dedication and leadership, county Extension agents have been inspired to multiply their efforts to the people of Texas.

Hutchison was keynote speaker for this year's annual meeting of TCAAA. The two-day event included special awards for 14 outstanding county agents and agricultural leaders, recognition of 14 retiring agents, educational tours to local businesses and a number of other highlights. A banquet Tuesday evening concluded the event.

Garner Altom, Collingsworth General Hospital administrator, said Mr. Overton received a 6-hour certificate in continuing education. "Our hospital is fortunate to have on our staff a person interested in keeping up with changes and improvements in the profession," he added.

No small factor in this year's team will be the freshmen, up from the 8th grade team that won the District 2-A championship on its level.

"They're probably the best group of freshmen I've seen since I've been here," Coach Williams called them.

Two scrimmages are set up. Wellington will travel to Lefors Friday, August 22, and Canadian here Friday, August 29.

Although the Skyrockets play their first game September 5, at Hollis, Wellington fans will not see their team in action until September 26, when Childress Bobcats come to Powell Field.

Wellington will travel to Paducah for the September 12 game, and the following week, September 19, the Rockets have an open date.

The district opener, against Memphis, will come on the heels of the Childress Game, and it also will be played in Wellington.

Rocket fans are urged to come out and watch the boys practice and cheer them on. And the next thing, Coach Bailey says, is to fill the stands and yell some more.

Head Coach Williams is also coaching the backfield this year. First Assistant Bailey has the offensive and defensive line. Robert Hicks is B team coach and will be in charge of the receivers on the varsity; Bruce Dollar will coach 8th grade and serve as head scout, while Ronny Glen will be 7th grade coach and scout. Both will help with the B team and the Varsity.

third unit in the church's long-range building program. Already the educational building and parsonage have been built and paid for.

Following construction of the sanctuary and clearing it of debt, the congregation will then look forward to the final unit in the long-range building program, a fellowship hall.

The decision to make the barbecue an annual affair came following last year's highly successful event.

"The fellowship was wonderful," Mrs. Williamson recalled. "People didn't go home after they had eaten, but stayed and visited. It was enjoyable for the people of the community as well as for the church."

Texas Expects New Record In Corn Yield

AUSTIN -- Texas farmers are expected to harvest the third largest corn crop on record this year, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reported.

A 111.1 million bushels yield is estimated by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service for Texas. This will be the largest since the 111.2 million bushels produced in 1919. Texas' record crop of 117 million was harvested in 1910.

"In 1910, it took five million acres to produce those 117 million bushels," White noted. "This year, our farmers are going to produce that near-record crop on only 1.1 million acres." White attributed this ability to produce more on fewer acres to an increase in irrigated acreage on the Texas High Plains.

Yield per harvested acre is expected to reach 101 bushels per acre -- a record for Texas.

According to the July crop report, production for other grain crops has also shown significant increases. Oat yield is expected to top 18 million bushels; barley, 3 million bushels; and rye 594,000 bushels.

Thomas Family Visits Rocky Mountain Area

Mr. and Mrs. John Alf Thomas and children vacationed recently in the Rocky Mountain Area.

After stopping at Red River, N.M., they went to Antonita, Colorado to ride the Cumbres and Toltec Train, running on the narrow guage railway between Antonita and Chama, N.M. Riders go by bus to Chama, where they board the train at 10:00 a.m., and it is not until 5:30 that they arrive at Antonita. The train crosses the Colorado-New Mexico state line 16 times, as it travels through the Sangre de Cristo Mountains. The bus trip requires only an hour.

Mid-way on the trip, the train is stopped for barbecue to be served the riders.

The Thomas family then went to Salida and to the Royal Gorge, where they crossed the highest automobile bridge in the United States. Lake Dillon near Vail, Colorado, was their next stop. From there, they went to Estes Park, Cheyenne Wyoming and into the Black Hills of South Dakota.

At Denver they visited the Museum of Natural History and the United States Mint, and at Colorado Springs, Santa's North Pole at the bottom of Pike's Peak.

Moisture Level Key to Safe Storage of Grain

COLLEGE STATION -- Watching moisture content of grain crops as well as taking simple precautions can insure safe storage after harvesting, according to an agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. Bill R. Stewart points out that an aeration system for grain cooling and moisture control is needed if the grain is stored more than two to three months.

"Harvesting efficiency can be improved significantly with some crops by harvesting at moisture contents of 18 per cent or above. When grain is harvested at a moisture content higher than that recommended for safe storage, mechanical drying must be done," notes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Moisture contents for safe storage vary with crops. Stewart suggests these moisture percentages for efficient storage: corn, 13; flax,8; rice, 12.5; sorghum, 12-14; soybeans, 11-12; sunflowers, 8; and wheat, 12-14.

"The higher the grain temperature and moisture content, the quicker the grain must be dried to prevent mold," Stewart points out.

"For example, when grain is at 90 degrees F. and has a moisture content of 18 per cent, the moisture content must be reduced to 15 per cent within about six-to-eight days. If the temperature is reduced to 70 degrees F., the allowable time to reduce moisture is about 30 days. Of course, in this example it is assumed that grain is being aerated during this period."

According to Stewart, aeration systems for cooling grain and controlling moisture migration within the grain should supply about one-tenth cubic foot per minute (cfm) of air flow per bushel.

"Fans must be designed to provide this flow rate against the pressures developed in pushing air through the grain. If unheated air drying is carried out in the bin, an air flow rate of three-and-a-half to four cfm per bushel is required," contends the engineer.

Stewart cautions that for certain crops designed for the human food industry, drying with heated air dryers may result in severe loss in grade and potential income as well as a loss in germination if the grain is to be used for planting.

"Grain temperatures should not exceed 110-120 degrees F. if germination is planned. Temperatures above this level should be allowed with extreme caution, particularly for food grains," adds Stewart.

He also suggests some simple precautionary measures before storing crops.

Checking potential sources of water leaks into bins and sealing them with a good non-drying caulking compound is important. Also make sure air vents are protected from blowing rain.

"Where rust spots exist on galvanized bin surfaces, clean the surface with a wire brush and apply a good quality zinc or rust inhibiting paint," advises Stewart. "Also plan for alternatives in your harvest and storage operation in case emergency drying or protection against insects is needed."

Texas No. 1 In '74 Export Of Livestock

AUSTIN -- Texas remained a leading state in livestock exportation in 1974, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has reported.

Statistics from the USDA show the state to be the number one exporter of beef-breeding cattle in the U.S., having sold 13,450 head in 1974.

Texas hog producers placed the state second in exports of breeding swine, shipping 3,055, only 168 fewer than the first-ranking state of Illinois. In the sales of dairy breeding cattle, the state was eighth with a total of 2,275.

White attributed the increase in exports from Texas to intensive marketing activities by the livestock industry.

"The Texas Department of Agriculture has stepped up efforts to bring in more foreign buyers," White said. "The Livestock Directory which the Department publishes has stimulated many sales."

Brahmans ranked highest in number exported from Texas with a total of 3,991. Santa Gertrudis, Herefords, and crossbreeds were other major choices of foreign buyers.

Texas supplied almost one third of the Charolais cattle shipped from the U.S.

Principal breeds of swine sold from Texas hog farms were Duroc, Yorkshire, Hampshire, and crossbreeds. Dairy cattle breeds exported from Texas included Holsteins, Jerseys, Brown Swiss, and Guernseys.

The veteran population includes 13.59 million veterans of World War II, 7.5 million of the Vietnam era, 5.9 million of the Korean Conflict, 999,000 from World War I and 900 of the Spanish-American War.

California Duo Here on Visit

Mr. and Mrs. B. Handley of Paradise, Calif., visited during the latter part of the week with her niece, Dr. and Mrs. R.C. McNett.

He formerly lived here and she at Shamrock.

They have been vacationing for the last month, going first to Sun Valley, Idaho, then on to the Grand Tetons, Yellowstone National Park, and Mt. Rushmore, South Dakota. Next they attended the Cheyenne, Wyoming, Rodeo.

They are returning home by the southern route.

Paradise, Mr. Handley explained, is a resort area, principally for retirees, located in one of the famous old gold-mining areas of California. Near their home is the historic marker designating where the nation's largest gold nugget, weighing 54 ounces, was found.

They are only 25 miles from Oroville, center of last month's earthquake. The dam, which figured prominently in news stories, is built of tailings from old gold dredging operations, he said.

He also noted the name of their town, Paradise. This has no heavenly connotation, but comes from the gold-mining days and derived from the expression, "pair of dice."

Recent visitors in the home of Edgar Lockhart were Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brown of Bethany, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Fletcher White Home From Trip Through Northwest

Mrs. Fletcher White returned recently from a visit to the Pacific Northwest. Accompanying her on a number of her trips was her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Peck White, of Twisp, Washington.

One visit took them to Victoria, British Columbia, where a highlight was having tea in the famed Empress Hotel.

In Seattle, they visited Market Street, whose name describes the activity along it -- for hundreds of booths along many blocks offer almost every variety of merchandise. They also visited the World's Fair Buildings, still used for exhibits by all the countries that participated. Another highlight in this area was the Science Building.

They traced along a new highway in the northern Cascade Mountains, cleared by a snowplow only the day before. Here stately pines reached 150 feet skyward.

The ranch of the late Chester Cloyd, Mrs. Peck White's father, has as much irrigation out of Beaver Creek as could be wanted for $5.00 per year.

On still another day, they visited a pioneer town -- which its people once sought to modernize. Residents found it no longer appealed to tourists, and this town on the Columbia River was returned to its original look of the 1800s.

Of interest, also, was the trip across the Ute Indian Reservation, to visit a college where Indian youth are educated.

Reddy's helpful tips for your Room Air-Conditioners

Your air-conditioner will operate inefficiently if filters are not cleaned regularly. Dirt and lint, collected on the filters, restricts air flow to the coils. Clean filters every two weeks.

Let nature help you save energy by shading your home with trees and shrubs to help cut down on summer cooling costs. Draw draperies against afternoon sun.

Remember to keep outside doors, windows, and fireplace dampers closed. If you have window units, close the heating vents near the floor, as cool air falls and can escape through vents.

You purchased fine-home comfort when you bought your air conditioning unit. Properly maintained, it will offer you years of efficient service. A once-a-year check-up by your dealer pays dividends in savings on operating and breakdown costs.

New Jersey Couple Here After Visit in Australia

A former Wellington woman and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. James O. Pickering of Eatontown, New Jersey, were here Friday afternoon, August 8, to visit friends.

They were en route home from a vacation that has taken them to Tahiti, New Zealand and Australia.

Mrs. Pickering will be remembered as Eunice Bird, daughter of the late Mrs. Annie Bird.

Their first stop upon leaving home was to visit their son, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Pickering and children in Amarillo. They then visited Mr. and Mrs. Lee O'Neil in Lubbock.

Tucson, Arizona, where they visited other friends, came next. Tahiti was their first stop after leaving Los Angeles, and Mrs. Pickering said they found prices high and the island overrated.

Most beautiful of the areas visited was New Zealand. Sidney was their first stop in Australia, but Canberra, the capital was another point of interest. Mrs. Pickering said they did what most tourists do, but this included such interesting things as a visit to a wildlife preserve where they could see at close range -- and even feed -- kangaroo and koala bear.

En route home, they stopped at their cabin near Las Vegas, N.M., just outside the Santa Fe National Forest.

They also visited two of Mrs. Pickering's aunts -- sisters of Mrs. Bird -- Miss Helen Jones of Muleshoe and Mrs. A.C. Hayes of Clovis, N.M. They also once lived at Wellington.

Mrs. Pickering teaches seventh grade English in Eatontown schools. Mr. Pickering is also a Texan, and lived at Kilgore and El Paso. He received his engineering degree from the University of Texas and is a civilian engineer at Ft. Monmouth, N.J.

She also teaches conversational English in an international program in New York City, 40 miles from their home. Her students are executives from many countries -- Turkey, Egypt, Southeast Asia and other nations.

A year ago Mr. and Mrs. Pickering traveled in the Far East. One of her former students met them in Korea, and another entertained them in Bangkok.

"We've been in New Jersey 35 years, and this is our 23rd trip home," Mrs. Pickering said.

They have three children, Philip in Amarillo; Jerry who graduated from Texas Tech and now lives near Ann Arbor, Michigan; and Sue Ann, who is Mrs. Joe H. Myers of Birmingham, Alabama, a graduate of Abilene Christian College with a master's degree from East Texas State University.

Mrs. Pickering's sister, Mrs.Wm. H. Martin -- Lerlene Bird -- lives in Newport News, Va.; one brother, Clarence, is at Kileen, and the other, George, lives at Hereford.

Boys Ranch To Hold Rodeo September 1

It will soon be rodeo time at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch where 370 boys have been getting ready for the nationally-known contest between pint-size cowboys and bucking stock.

It is a Labor Day weekend celebration and approximately 10,000 people are expected to drive to the Ranch over the two-day period, August 31 and September 1. More than 150 boys will be riding the calves, steers, Brahma bulls and broncs in the Boys Ranch Rodeo Arena, competing for trophies and belt buckles. Even the 3-to-6-year-olds will be awarded prizes for riding their stick horses around the barrels. Older boys will be riding professional rodeo stock under R.C.A. rules.

The rodeo is also a homecoming for the approximately 3,000 boys who have lived at the Ranch since it was started by Cal Farley in 1939. They are members of the Boys Ranch Alumni Association and some travel long distances to watch a kind of rodeo in which they, too, were once contestants.

An added attraction will be the Texas-size bar-be-que beef plates that will be prepared and sold by the boys for only $1.50. Reserve box seat tickets at $2.50 are on sale at the Boys Ranch Office, 600 West 11th Street in Amarillo. General admission will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. Performances are scheduled for 2:30 each afternoon. Proceeds are used for the operation and expansion of the Ranch.

Mrs. Bura Handley returned recently from Vallecito, Colorado, where she spent a week with her sons and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Brock of Portales, N.M. and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brock and family of Amarillo.

The men fished, while the women visited points of interest in the area.

Joe Brock, defensive coordinator coach for the Portales High School Rams, left early to attend coaching school in Albuquerque, N.M.

In Portales she also visited Mr. and Mrs. Gene Waters and their son, Ronnie, who moved from here recently.

NOTICE of Free Lunch Policy

Quail School District, Samnorwood School District, and Wellington Independent School District today announced its policy for free and reduced-price meals, free milk, for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast, and Special Milk Programs.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size income criteria for determining eligibility:

Free Lunch Eligibility Income Scale
(Minimum Guidelines Increased by 25%)

Family Size	Family Annual Income
1	$0- 3,230
2	0- 4,240
3	0- 5,250
4	0- 6,260
5	0- 7,190
6	0- 8,110
7	0- 8,950
8	0- 9,790
9	0-10,550
10	0-11,310
11	0-12,060
12	0-12,810
Each Additional Family Member	$750

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced-price meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the superintendent's office and the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin.

Under the provisions of the policy the superintendent of each respective school will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may make a request either orally or in writing to for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

Each school and the office of the superintendent has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by any interested party.

The policy also provides that there will be no identification of or discrimination against any student unable to pay the full cost of a lunch.

Deck's Didactics

—by Deskins Wells

Secretary Butz has asked the U.S. grain traders to call a halt to further grain sales until the USDA can get a better estimate of this year's corn crop.

It is possible that no great harm will come from the announcement, for Russia can unload only two million metric tons of grain a month and they have already contracted for over 9 million metric tons and there is plenty of time to reopen the negotiations on corn.

The export of corn is of direct economic concern to the Wellington area and to every other agricultural community that produces grain sorghum. This week milo was quoted as 4.25 a hundred on the local markets, which is a good price if it can be held or improved up to harvesting time. Restriction on the export of corn could put a damper on the price of grain sorghum.

Secretary Butz's temporary halt of the export of grain was a concession to the growing pressure from consumer groups, unions, etc., who seem to think that the cost of bread is in direct proportion to the cost of wheat. These are groups who do not understand and care less about the economics of the production of food and fiber in the United States. Their lack of understanding is to be regretted; but it does show what we are up against.

The export of wheat, corn and barley should be continued for it is good for the prosperity of the whole nation. In June the United States showed the healthiest increase in the balance of trade that it has enjoyed in recent years. An increase in the export of cars and other manufactured products provided a small part of the increase. The main reason for the increase of exports over imports was greater exports of agricultural products and decreased imports of oil.

We could enjoy a good price for grain sorghum this fall; but the hollering of the consumer groups is not helping our prospects.

Cotton is our main cash crop and its future is looking up on a steady basis while cattle and grain sorghum remain on a basis of good today and not so good tomorrow. Cotton futures are quoted at 46 cents a pound and there are many indications that the price will be higher than that next fall and winter.

The main reason for long range optimism on the future of cotton is that the American people are demanding more and more clothes made of cotton or part cotton. The short range reason is that growers in the Mississippi Delta planted a considerable amount of their acreage in soy beans.

We could have a good price for cotton for two or three years. Let's hope we don't have another losing battle with the micronaire tests this fall. The price for good cotton will be satisfactory.

When thinking of another cash crop for the area, don't mention sunflowers to George Henry. He has discovered that he is allergic to them violently and instantaneously.

I suppose many of you saw on TV the opening of the Superdome in New Orleans when the Houston Oilers met the New Orleans Saints. I watched it from a station in Houson and was astonished at how little the Houston station showed of the Superdome which will house the Astrodome up down and around and still have plenty of room to spare. Could it be that they are jealous.

Louise and I were in New Orleans to attend a meeting of the National Newspaper Association at the time they started clearing ground for the construction of the Superdome. One afternoon we went down to take a look. A considerable portion of the site had been cleared; but much remained to be done. At that time it was estimated that the dome would cost $35,000,000 and would not cost the tax payers a cent.

Louise took a long and quizzical look at the vast expanse of empty ground and said: "They can't build subways in New Orleans on account of the mud and water. If they ever complete that thing, they will not only have the world's largest building, they will also have the world's biggest traffic jam."

Greenbelt Co-op Users Asked to Notify of Outage

Members of the Greenbelt Electric Cooperative, Inc., are being asked to notify the office in Wellington, or if after hours to notify one of the linemen, should their power go off.

George Henry, manager, said that with so much aerial spraying in progress for greenbugs and cotton lice, the power lines have been accidentally cut several times by the planes.

"Our purpose is to serve our customers and to repair outages as soon as possible," Mr. Henry said. "If you have an outage, please report it as soon as the power goes off, and if possible find out if a spray plane is working in your area."

Mr. Henry emphasized that the co-operative is in no way objecting to the spraying, for it is necessary to making a crop in this area, and that the clipping of power lines is accidental. When such an accident does occur, however, Greenbelt Electric Co-op wants to get power back to its users as soon as possible.

Numbers to call after hours were listed:

Clarendon - 874-3631; Wheeler 826-5732 or 826-5863. Wellington numbers are: Jackie Barnett 447-5468; Mr. Henry 447-2308; Miss Bessie Rainer 447-2559; Dennis Pepper 447-2037; and George Porter 447-5690.

New Stamp Issue Coming

The U.S. Postal Service today announced the subjects of two major commemorative stamp issues scheduled for the Bicentennial year of 1976.

A sheet of 50 stamps will honor all the states of the United States. Each stamp in the colorful sheet will reproduce one state flag.

A sheet of 32 stamps will reproduce the entire Declaration of Independence, each stamp showing a portion of the document.

Other subjects in the 1976 stamp program will be announced later.

The Postal Service received many recommendations from citizens throughout the country as well as governors, state legislators, senators, and congressmen to honor the individual states and to issue a sheet of 50 State Flags. In addition, many state bicentennial organizations expressed support for the issuance of stamps honoring individual states as well as the original thirteen states.

Flags on the stamps will be arranged in order of the admittance of the states to the Union.

Development Director Ed Coltharp, in charge of travel promotion for the Regional Chamber, stated, "That the most popular information piece being distributed is the 'Wonderful West Texas' Fun and Adventure Map."

The Fun and Adventure Map is in full color and contains photos and information on some 68 points of interest located throughout the 132 West Texas counties served by the WTCC. The publication is centered around a highway map of West Texas, suitable for travel use, and each attraction is number keyed on the map for easy location.

The Fun and Adventure Map locates many points of interest that might otherwise be overlooked by the traveler and by using the map a most enjoyable and educational vacation or weekend visit can be planned with plenty left over for many visits in the future to Wonderful West Texas.

In addition to the Fun and Adventure Map, individual brochures are available on almost every town and attraction in West Texas, free to the public.

Nearly 275 Ex-Students Register For 24th Annual WHS Reunion

Approximately 275 former students of the Wellington Schools and their guests came from the four corners of the United States to reminisce for a few hours Saturday, August 9. This was the 24th annual reunion, which many called "one of the best we've had."

At no time was there a set program. Ex-students came and registered, visited, left and came again throughout the day. The dinner at 7:30 p.m. was followed by the Alumni Dance, with music by a country and western band and attended by one of the larger crowds of recent years.

For some of those who were in school in the late 1930s, the high point of the entire reunion came when the near-legendary Coach Joe Coleman walked in. Now owner of a major sporting goods store in Odessa, he coached The Wellington Skyrockets to a district championship in 1936 and to the bi-district championship in 1937. The following year, Coach Coleman had gone to another school, but the same group of boys, under the late Coach John Williams, went on to win regional. Williams had been Coleman's assistant.

Many consider this the greatest years in Wellington's football history.

For some, this was their first reunion in the near quarter-century history. A few others have never missed one.

The group graduating in 1955 held its own class reunion, and the Rockette members who played to a series of district championships under Coach E.W. Clement, also held a reunion.

President of the association this year is Patsy Harper Mitchell. Calvin Mitchell is vice-president, Bessie Rainer secretary-treasurer, and Dora E. McClaskey Smith the registration chairman.

We Should Get Acquainted With Our Schools This Year

Within the next 10 days, all the county's children 5 to 18 years of age will be enrolled in school. A number of changes mark the Texas educational system this year, brought about by legislation enacted during the last session. Not all of it helps schools the size of ours. In fact, it has created problems for some. We will, doubtless, hear more of this at the next session of the legislature.

It has never been more important that we understand the operation of our schools and their needs, particularly the financial requirements they face.

There is no better time than the opening of this school year for us to get acquainted with the operation of our schools and to show our concern for the education our children receive.

We have three fine schools with competent faculties who are capable of doing what is best for our children.

Our children are our most important asset, our schools one of the county's biggest businesses. We need to know our educational system well.

Payoff for Research

As long as screwworms exist anywhere in the world there's a danger of reinfestation of Wichita County, North Texas and Southern Oklahoma. And a case identified as screwworms has turned up west of Burkburnett.

Control of the screwworm menace took a giant step forward when it was discovered that the female fly mates only once in her lifetime. The solution then became simple: sterilize millions of male flies and turn them loose to mate with native populations of females and eventually screwworms will disappear.

An irradiation station was set up at Mission, Tex., to produce the sterile males and a few years later the screwworm menace began to decline. But other nations don't have our technology; screwworm flies have continued to proliferate despite massive drops of sterile flies along the Texas-Mexico border.

Without the screwworm larvae to contend with ranchers no longer must check their cattle daily. Death rates from injuries have plummeted as infestation of open wounds was eliminated. But the program has progressed from one aimed at eliminating screwworms to controlling them.

As a result sterile flies from Mission will be liberated in the Wichita County area in which the screwworms were found and the problem will have been resolved once more. Research continues to pay dividends on our dinner tables.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — First Texas impeachment trial in 44 years is scheduled in the State Senate September 3.

A 10-count impeachment resolution against 229th District Judge O. P. Carrillo was voted by the House of Representatives August 5 by an overwhelming margin (128-16).

Gov. Dolph Briscoe fixed the trial date in cooperation with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, presiding officer of the Senate.

Leon Jaworski, Houston attorney who was chief Watergate prosecutor, will serve as special counsel for the Senate during the expected lengthy trial.

Terry Doyle of Port Arthur will serve as House special prosecutor.

Impeachment proceedings have been voted against only three Texas officials in the last century and just one, former Gov. James E. Ferguson, actually was removed from office and forbidden to run again. A two-thirds vote of the Senate is necessary for removal.

Carrillo stands charged with a variety of wrongs, including abuse of judicial powers, political conspiracies and using county personnel and property for his personal benefit.

Campaign On

Advocates of a new constitution have opened campaign headquarters and named a campaign director for an all-out effort to begin soon after Labor Day.

The election is scheduled November 4.

A rival "Committee to Preserve the Present Texas Constitution" also has filed necessary legal papers with the Secretary of State but has scheduled no activities.

Rep. Ronald Earle of Austin will head the campaign office for "Citizens for the Texas Constitution." Former State Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert is in overall charge.

Atty. Gen. John Hill, House Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby are among strong supporters of revision.

Governor Briscoe said he still has reservations about the legislative and financial articles, but has not decided whether to offer strong opposition.

Comptroller Bob Bullock is opposed to local government and financial articles but backs judiciary, legislative and executive article changes.

The AFL-CIO expressed opposition to judiciary and local government articles.

Tax Hike Disputed

Texas Research League disputes claims that the new state school finance law is forcing steep local tax increases.

In nearly all instances, said TRL, increases in the local share of school costs can be absorbed by shifting tax dollars from so-called "enrichment" programs into local Foundation matching fund requirements. Raising taxes is a local choice, according to TRL.

AG Opinions

An act granting veterans preference in governmental employment is valid, although a five-year residency requirement may be unconstitutional, Attorney General Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

- County regulatory authority over solid waste disposal within cities is limited to licensing disposal sites.
- The prison system has no authority to require inmates getting college education benefits to apply for federal veterans aid or to make reimbursement.
- Port of Beaumont Navigation District may own and operate facilities within the Port of Orange, but must serve only the Beaumont district. Property and facilities may be leased to an individual or corporation for private industrial use.
- A Dallas County deputy sheriff may not also be a city councilman.
- Galveston County may not divert to other road projects $5 million in bond proceeds committed to Bolivar Crossing.
- A&M University may erect permanent improvements on certain land owned by the system subject to reversion to the U.S.

Insurance Hike Asked

Insurance industry spokesmen have urged the State Insurance Board to fix homeowners policy rates on an annual basis, rather than the traditional three-year period.

As an alternative, the industry urged a 22 per cent increase in the three-year premium. Inflation and unexpected losses were cited. The Board raised rates 19.3 per cent last January, but the industry claims that was insufficient.

Jobless Rate Up

Unemployment payments reached another record high last month, with $24.8 million in benefits distributed.

Comptroller Bob Bullock said an average of 21,000 Texans received weekly benefit checks every day. Payments topped $1 million on 19 days of July.

July payments bring to $143.5 million the total jobless aid paid for 1975. This compared with a total of $79.2 million for all 1974.

Highest daily payout in July was $1.3 million to 25,180 persons and the lowest $938,457 to 18,071, according to the Comptroller's figures.

Short Snorts

Liberal Democrats filed notice of intent to challenge the Texas Presidential preference primary law and the 1976 state delegate selection plan.

Stocks of carry-over wheat in Texas are 42 per cent below those of last summer, according to Agriculture Commissioner John White.

Don L. Partridge of Austin and Dr. Jim L. Kidd of Canyon are new associate state commissioners of education.

Highway beautification awards for 1975 will be made September 18 at the Lyndon B. Johnson State Park in Stonewall.

More than $4.1 million in contracts for summer jobs, vocational counseling, training and placement were awarded last week under Comprehensive Employment Training Act grants.

MANKIND
Divided into three classes: those that are immovable, those that are movable, and those that move.

Sad to say, the word sad comes from the Anglo-Saxon word saed, meaning full or sated.

Penguin was originally applied to the now extinct great auk of the North Atlantic because of it's gwyn (white) pen (head) in the Gallic speech of the people in the area. Modern penguins resemble auks, but their heads are black.

In Shropshire England, it is said that a piece of hawthorn cut on Holy Thursday will protect both house and person from being struck by lightning.

UNDERSTANDING MENTAL HEALTH

a health column from the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration
U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

First Day at School

As summer ends, the air grows brisker, the first leaves fall from the trees, and a great adventure awaits small children: their first day at school.

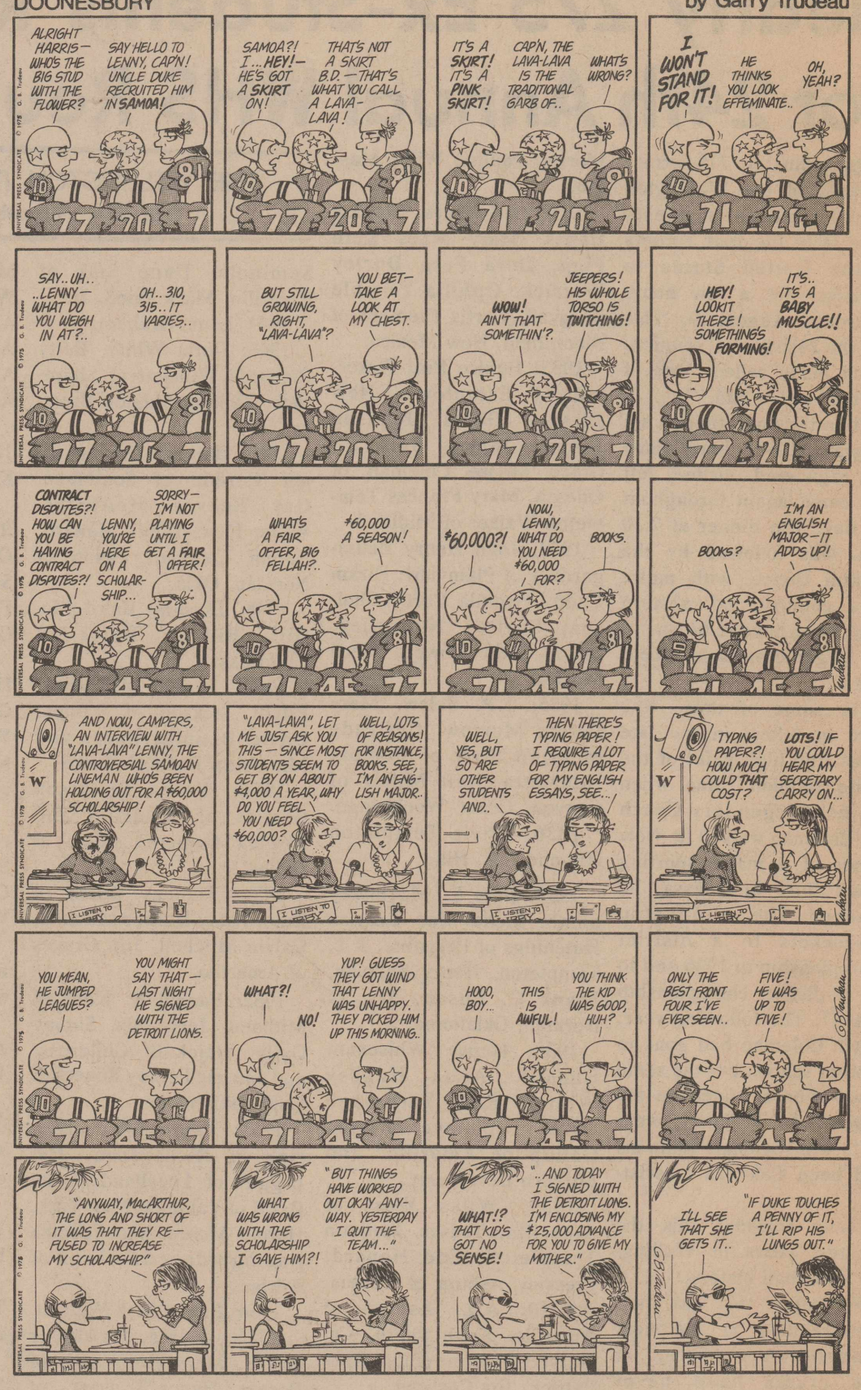

That great adventure is also a great milestone in a child's life. And his parents' understanding at this "turning point" is highly important to his future attitude toward school and his healthy growth and development.

These are some of the ways parents can help make the start of school a happy, rewarding experience:

- Recognize that it is an important event for your child —his first major separation from the security of home and family, and his entrance into a new universe of friendship, learning, and adventure.
- Remember that learning to like school and liking to learn are closely related.
- Take an active interest in what your child tells you about school when he comes home.
- Whenever he shows any degree of accomplishment in what he brings home from school, praise him for what is good about what he has done.
- If he has not done as well as he would like to, reassure him in some way that he is important to you and that you love him.
- Help him accept the challenge of being frustrated at school from time to time. Learning to cope with frustration is important to his development.
- Let him relax and play at what he likes when he gets home, and plan your day so that you can spend some time with him after school or be available when he needs you.

These and other helpful hints to parents are given in a leaflet published by the National Institute of Mental Health. It is available from the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, at 20¢ a copy. Interested persons should ask for it by title and stock number: When Your Child First Goes Off To School, SN 1724-00282.

Three years ago the Consumer Product Safety Commission was given the job of setting standards of safety for products sold to the public. Thus far, private industry has been able to get along with the federal agency. But, the CPSC has stirred up a hornet's nest with a new set of standards proposed for power lawn mowers. Lawn mower sales top the $1 billion mark every year. But mower sales are down about 30% from the 8 million units sold last year. Two large manufacturers are dropping the production of lawn mowers and another has gone bankrupt. The proposed safety code which is causing such an uproar could add as much as 75% to the retail prices of inexpensive power mowers and shrink the market another 5% to 17%.

The proposed code was drawn up by the privately operated Consumers Union under the CPSC's unique "offeror system" that permits outsiders to write a set of standards for its approval. The new code for power mowers proposes such features as a "dead man's" control and makes quieter performance mandatory for all power rotary mowers. The most controversial part of the new code is the requirement that a sticker showing a hand with severed fingers and spurting blood with the warning of DANGER be placed on all mowers. Said the president of one power mower manufacturer, "From a marketing viewpoint," it sends shivers up and down my spine."

The "dead man's" control recommended by the Consumers Union would disengage the blades from the drive shaft while the engine continued to run. Manufacturers claim that the gasoline-powered mowers would need an expensive clutch system to do this. They prefer the simple engine cutoff. But, Consumers Union believes that having to yank the starter cord every time would cause users to disconnect the "dead man's" controls.

How the commission will rule on the standard depends on how a cost-benefit analysis turns out. Power mowers kill about 30 people a year and injure 160,000. The new standards could cost consumers $380 million a year, but could save them as much as $419 million in medical expenses and lost income.

GI Insurance Beneficiary Not Changed by Will

Jack Coker, Veterans Administration Regional Director, commented today that contrary to a misconception held by many, wills cannot change beneficiaries named on life insurance policies issued by the agency.

Coker stressed that point while reminding veterans to make certain that persons whom they intended to received their insurance are named on their policies.

Veterans who fail to do so could add to emotional stress of survivors and cause unwarranted financial hardship, especially on widows and young children, when it is discovered the intended beneficiary was not named, Coker explained.

In such cases, the agency is obligated by law to pay insurance proceeds to the beneficiary of record. Most of the agency's policyholders are World War II veterans who carry National Service Life Insurance.

The problem of insurance benefits going to unintended recipients has arisen in most instances because the veteran simply never got around to changing an earlier listing of beneficiaries, according to Coker.

In a typical case, the veteran named his mother as beneficiary when he took out his policy. Later, when he married, he forgot to notify VA to change his beneficiary.

Coker urged any veteran who wishes to check on or change his beneficiary to contact the VA insurance center to which he pays his premiums -- either in Philadelphia or St. Paul. The veteran should be sure to provide as much information as possible, including policy number, full name and address, Coker said.
