Ask Us

Q. — Please define the difference in sexual assault and aggravated sexual assault and do the charges differ for an adult as opposed to a child?

A. — The addition of the word "aggravated" to a charge normally means the crime included injury or threatened injury to the victim. In the case of sexual assault, if the alleged victim is younger than 14, the charge is always aggravated sexual assault.

West Texas: Mostly sunny and warm through Tuesday. Isolated to widely scattered late afternoon and evening thunderstorms mainly west of the mountains. Highs in the 90s except around 106 in the Big Bend. Lows in the 60s and 70s.

County tax rate finalized today

County commissioners Monday approved the 1987 tax rate at some 22.8 cents cents per $100 valuation.

The approval means that county residents will see an increase of almost 6 cents per $100 valuation over last year's rate of 17 cents.

In budget workshop sessions last month, court members trimmed the spending document "line by line" in order to hold spending and keep the final tax figure under the "effective tax rate" — the rate allowed by law to produce the same amount of tax dollars generated for the current budget year.

To do that, the county would have had to set a rate of some 27 cents.

Although the tax rate will increase for 1987, net dollars from local taxes will drop to $3.3 million — a decrease of about $500,000.

Texas Senate...

Budget crisis on tap

AUSTIN (AP) — The House took the day off today as efforts to make up a projected $3.5 billion state budget deficit switched to the Senate.

Also set for today was a Capitol rally to tell legislators that some organizations want a tax increase, if that increase would support state services to the disabled, elderly and poor.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's office said Hobby would appear at the noon rally. State Treasurer Ann Richards and legislators also were scheduled to speak, according to the Coalition of Texans With Disabilities.

"The purpose of the rally is to let our legislators know we want them to raise taxes to support human services for the disabled, elderly and low-income people," said Karen Langley of the Texas Alliance for Human Needs.

Charlotte Flynn of the Gray Panthers, another organization sponsoring the rally, said, "We have a very fragile support in place for the vulnerable, and we're tearing it apart. Any assault will cause a collapse of the system."

"We've been fighting for years to get things that we need for our children, like the runaway program, and now they want to pull it out," Ms. Flynn said.

Bob Kafka of the Coalition of Texans With Disabilities said in announcing the rally, "It would be obscene and criminal to even think of reducing human services even $1 when disabled people are receiving such minimal services from the great state of Texas."

Pasadena Sen. Chet Brooks, chairman of the Senate Health and Human Resources Committee, has scheduled a Monday afternoon hearing to take testimony on the impact of funding cut proposals.

TV puts AJRA in spotlight

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

The television cameras Saturday at the AJRA National Finals Rodeo seemed to bring out the championship form in many of the young contestants.

And the performances which entertained a crowd estimated at 3,450 proved to be "typical" of when world champions go head to head.

In short, the rodeo had it all and the responsive fans simply made it better.

Maybe the best thing about it was its location, Scurry County Coliseum. And for local rodeo fans, that was only part of the good news. The other is that the AJRA National Finals Rodeo will be back in 1987.

The contestants did their share. Top cash money was won or lost by the blink of an electronic eye. And while some of the young performers appeared to be frazzled by the television cameras, others responded in the previously mentioned championship form.

Five of the timed events were won by five-one hundredths of a second or less. The rough stock provided similar competition. For instance, world champion John Bland of Lovington, N.M., scored a 70 in the 12-and-under steer riding, edging Snyder's J.J. Kincheloe, who scored a 69.

Close? How about in the barrels, where Big Spring's Dane Driver clipped world champion Jeff Hilton of Olney in the 12-and-under age group, 15.03 to 15.05.

In the girls 13-15 age division, champion Kimbra Peirce of Miami won by just four-one hundredths over Manor's Mitzi Mayes, 14.79 to 14.83. Clocking in at 14.85 was Olney's Gretchen Hilton.

Those times, by the way, are world class at any level.

Snyder cowboy Leddy Lewis opened the 12-and-under boys breakaway roping with a fine 3.18. Seconds later, the world champion watched as Sweetwater's Randy McEntire stole the event with a 3.17.

And so it went.

In girls 16-19 goat tying, Holly Shafer of Shallowater clocked an 8.77; Karen Cochran of Aspermont had an 8.79. In boys steer wrestling, reserve champion Joey Almand of Palmer clocked

A BUSY SATURDAY — The Snyder square was busy Saturday afternoon with two simultaneous events--the AJRA National Finals Rodeo and Sesquicentennial Parade and the SHS Booster Club's Super Saturday activities. Featured in the parade were (top left) AJRA cowboy and trick roper Tom Self of Carrollton and (top right) this float entered by the Scurry County Sesquicentennial Committee which claimed first prize in float judging. The site will be the Jack Martin Ranch located 5 miles north of Snyder on the Ennis Creek Road.

—Randy Couch, manager of Safeway in Snyder, who will explain how Safeway Inc. purchases beef, the company's philosophy of beef marketing and consumer information about beef.

—Kent Mills, sales representative for Ezell-Key Grain, who will offer findings of work done last winter to determine the forage quality of native pastures and needed supplemental feed levels for cattle.

—Jim Judah and Bob Doty, agricultural instructors at Western Texas College, who will tell about WTC's ag program.

—Diane McCamet, wildlife biologist wth the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, who will give the latest wildlife population and projections for Scurry County.

—Dr. J.F. Cadenhead, range and brush specialist with the A&M Extension Service in Vernon, who will discuss techniques landowners can use in managing range and brush to enhance wildlife populations.

Chief cook for the Scurry County Ranch Breakfast will be Jerry Baird of WTC. In addition, host rancher Jack Martin will have some of his registered Hereford cattle in the pens for inspection.

Assisting with the event is Ezell-Key Grain Co., which will be providing the breakfast

Door prizes will be given by various feed dealers in the county and the program should be over by 9 a.m.

Elementary signups on campus tomorrow

Pleas heard related to banking charges

DALLAS (AP) - Former All-American fullback Jack Erwin Spikes faces up to seven years in prison following his guilty pleas to charges of defrauding a Grapevine bank of $388,000.

Spikes, who played for Texas Christian University during the late 1950s before playing professionally for seven years in the American Football League, entered the pleas Friday to two counts of a 14-count federal indictment.

U.S. District Judge Jerry Buchmeyer scheduled sentencing for Sept. 26. Spikes also faces a possible fine of up to $10,000. As terms of a plea bargain arrangement, prosecutors dismissed the other 12 counts.

According to the indictment, Spikes defrauded the American Commerce Bank of Grapevine in 1983 while serving as the bank's board chairman.

Spikes, 48, declined comment

Clements says...

Tax hike will not be vetoed

DALLAS (AP) — In a weekend interview, former Gov. Bill Clements said he no longer can honor a pledge he has frequently made to veto any tax increase voted by the Texas Legislature, the Dallas Morning News reported today.

Clements said any such promise now would be "nonsense" because of the state's escalating budget deficit.

"We have a changing target," Clements said. "I don't think anybody, including myself, at this point really understands what the problem is, or the magnitude of the problem."

As recently as last month, during President Reagan's campaign appearance on Clements' behalf in Dallas, Clements said, "I will not, under any circumstances, agree to any new taxes. I just won't."

A growing number of Clements supporters, including some within his inner circle of advisers, had been urging him to soften his "no tax" promise.

Former Gov. John Connally, a Clements supporter, appeared with Gov. Mark White last week to say Clements was wrong on the tax issue.

In this summer's special legislative session, White is urging a temporary, one-year increase in the state sales tax from 4.125 cents to 5.25 cents on the dollar.

Clements said in the interview Saturday night, which occurred after his address to the Austin Young Republicans, that he still opposes any new taxes, but he said he no longer can stick by his pledge to veto "any and all tax or fee increases" if he is elected again to the job he held from 1979 to 1983.

Clements cited deficit projections by State Comptroller Bob Bullock that have ranged from $1.3 billion in February to $3.5 billion on Aug. 6, when the Legislature convened in special session to deal with the fiscal crisis.

"I'd have to — you know — consider what was involved in it and what kind of situation existed at that time and all those other wonderful caveats," Clements said.

The Republican nominee, who will face White in November in a rematch of their 1982 race, had campaigned — as he had in previous years — on a platform of no new taxes.

On Feb. 3, during an Austin news conference just after he had filed the papers necessary to put his name on the May 3 GOP primary, Clements was adamant in his veto promise.

"I have the know-how and the commitment to tell Texas that I will veto any and all tax or fee increases. Bill Clements stands absolutely firm on this issue," he said then.

"No state personal income tax. No state corporate income tax. No tax increase of any kind. No fee increase of any kind. I stood solidly by this pledge during my first term and will do so again in my second term," Clements had vowed.

The News said Clements said at first on Saturday that he could not recall ever making such a pledge.

"I don't believe I ever did say that," he said.

Later, however, he added that, had he made such a pledge, it had "related at that time to the then-existing circumstances."

Now, Clements said, "we have a changing panorama all the time."

"I'm against taxes, totally against taxes. But when you start talking about what I'm going to do four or five or six years from now, that's nonsense."

On Sunday, the News said, two of Clements' aides sought to temper his remarks, portraying them only as a "modification" of his no-tax stand.

Press secretary Reggis Bashur said Clements "does not want any tax increase. He certainly does not want one during the special session. And he does not want one next year.

"But it must be made clear that conditions in this state have dramatically changed during the last six months," Bashur added.

Poll indicates...

Nuclear power divides America

NEW YORK (AP) — Most Americans believe the federal government has been lax in supervising nuclear power plants, and many worry that the plants lack adequate safeguards, according to a Media General-Associated Press poll.

The poll also found the United States is divided over the use of nuclear energy to generate electricity.

In the poll of 1,365 adult Americans, 36 percent said they supported the use of nuclear power to generate electricty, 35 said they opposed it, and 29 percent had no opinion or declined to answer.

Fifty-six percent of the respondents said the federal government did a fair or poor job in supervising nuclear power plants. One-quarter thought the government did a good job, and 5 percent thought the government did an excellent job.

Forty-four percent of the respondents said they believed nuclear power plants had inadequate safeguards, while 35 percent said the safeguards were adequate. People who lived closer to nuclear plants were more likely to believe the plants were safe than those who lived farther away.

Nearly 8 in 10 respondents said most people didn't know enough about the effects of radiation to make informed decisions concerning nuclear power. And the poll also found a strong correlation between education and support for nuclear energy; support was highest among college graduates and lowest among high school dropouts, about half of whom had no opinion about the use of nuclear power.

Among college graduates, 48 percent supported nuclear power, 35 percent opposed it, and 17 percent had no opinion. Among high school dropouts, 21 percent supported nuclear power, 30 percent opposed it, and 49 percent had no opinion.

Dear Abby

Gossipy Woman Looks For Dirt in the Wrong Place

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a 65-year-old woman living in the home of a dear old gentleman as a combination housekeeper and nurse. One of the women from the church comes over once a week to pray for the mister. It has come back to me that this church woman has been telling the other ladies of the church that I keep a dirty house.

Abby, I am frequently up all night caring for the mister, and I'm so pooped the next day that I can't get all the housework finished, but what right has this lady got to speak so lowly about a few unwashed dishes? I am here 24 hours a day, seven days a week!

Some people can be so unkind. Now her gossip about my "dirty" housekeeping has spread like wildfire in the church circle.

Should I go to the priest? I may be a bit messy, but I am not dirty.

UPSET IN WISCONSIN

DEAR UPSET: Go straight to the source. Tell the "lady" that you are deeply wounded to learn that she's been telling the ladies at church that you are a dirty housekeeper. Explain that you are often up all night, but do your best to keep the house in order. It may not silence her vicious tongue, but you'll feel better. And it seems to me that this gossipy woman who comes to "pray" is in need of some prayers herself.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I wonder how Glenn Scott of Haughton, La., was able to accumulate 204 pairs of socks in the U.S. Army (I presume that he kept one pair to wear after sending 203 pairs to his fiancee to wash). Have they stopped holding inspections in the Army?

I believe that Glenn and his fiancee are pulling your leg (and your foot). Do you know how much space 203 pairs of socks can take up? What G.I. has that many footlockers "in the field," as Scott says he is? On the other hand (foot?), maybe he is a supply sergeant who indulges in a bit of moonlight requisitioning.

HOSE COUNTER, WHITTIER, CALIF.

DEAR HOSE COUNTER: I have not (thus far) heard "boo" from the Pentagon, but I can assure you that there was no attempt made to pull my leg.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I have not paid anything back toward my student government loan. I heard President Reagan talk recently about "getting" me for it, and I am afraid.

After graduating from college, I was unable to find a job in my field, so I worked for years at low-paying jobs and couldn't afford to pay back the loan.

Now I am in a position to begin payments, but I'm afraid to come forward because they might expect full restitution. I am fully aware that I will have to pay penalties, and that is justifiable, but I can't pay it back all at once. How should I handle this?

STILL HIDING

DEAR HIDING: Come out, come out, wherever you are. Start repaying your student loan in regular installments; small as the amount may be, it will show good faith. Something is better than nothing.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: A lady wrote to say that her family chilled her because she accidentally called her brother's third wife by his second wife's name.

A slip of the tongue does occur. I know. Mine was much more serious. I was married for 10 years the first time. We were divorced, then I married for the second time. On our wedding night, after we had made love, my husband kissed me tenderly. Then I called him by my first husband's name!

For the next eight hours all I got was the cold shoulder. The next morning he told me that all was forgiven.

Your Birthday

Aug. 19, 1986

In the year ahead, try to involve yourself in a creative pursuit, either as a vocation or an avocation. This is a strong suit for you, and it could turn out to be quite profitable.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to be forceful today when attempting to get others to go along with you. Even if they do bend to your will, they're not apt to do things the way you want. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, PO Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is one of those days that you're not likely to work well under pressure. Don't let essential tasks begin to pile up on you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone within your inner circle might try to manipulate you to his or her advantage today. Forewarned is forearmed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Trying to run too tight a ship at home could create headaches for all concerned. Discipline is okay when it's sprinkled with compassion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's best not to have a discussion today with a person who always has opinions that conflict with yours. A debate could turn into a debacle.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Money you have earmarked to pay off an old debt should not be squandered to buy something new today. First clear up your obligation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Thrash out for yourself today judgments that affect you personally. Don't let someone else make major decisions for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today, instead of beginning that new diet or exercise program you've been planning, you might find additional excuses for delay. Tsk, tsk.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You won't appreciate being around abrasive, domineering individuals today. If you encounter someone of this ilk, drop him for more compatible companions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be certain today that a goal you've been striving for is really worth the effort. Winning won't mean much if it isn't.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Speaking out of anger today could cause you later regrets, because the target of your ire may not be the type of person who readily forgives.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In areas where you're usually able to assess value expertly, your judgment might be faulty today. Look closely at what you buy.

Reporting domestic violence can help prevent recurrence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reporting domestic violence to police is an effective means of preventing its recurrence, according to federal figures that also show most law enforcement officials classify such assaults as misdemeanors.

About 41 percent of the married women who were attacked by their husbands or ex-husbands but did not call the police were assaulted again within an average of six months. Yet only 15 percent of the women who alerted police were assaulted again, according to figures released Sunday by the Bureau of Justice Statistics.

The report said a National Crime Survey found that about two-thirds of the incidents would be classified in most states as "simple assault," which is a misdemeanor, according to the report. One-third would fall into the category of "rape," "robbery" or "aggravated assault," which are felonies.

However, the injuries suffered by more than half the women whose assaults would be classified as misdemeanors were as serious or more serious than injuries suffered in 90 percent of all the violent crimes that would be classified as felonies, the report said.

"The tendency to classify these crimes as misdemeanors rather than felonies may give the impression that domestic violence against women is less serious than it actually is," the report said.

The extent of the victim's injury is not a critical factor when police decide how to classify a crime. More important is whether a weapon is present, the report said.

SOME PEOPLE BUY AIR CONDITIONERS LIKE THERE'S NO TOMORROW.

When it's time to replace your old air conditioner, it'll probably only take you a little while to find a new one that looks pretty good and doesn't cost much. But it'll take a lot longer to realize a quick bargain is likely to cause a slow burn on your wallet every month.

A high-efficiency air conditioner could make a difference in your cooling costs this summer and every summer. A high-efficiency choice means steady savings because you're getting the same amount of cooling using less electricity than with a low-efficiency unit. On top of this, you'll get a valuable rebate from your electric company if your central air conditioner or window unit meets our Energy Action standards.

See your recognized Energy Action air conditioning contractor or dealer for help in choosing a high-efficiency air conditioner or heat pump. Tomorrow, you'll be way ahead of the game.

From nuclear dump...

Contamination might occur

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A High Plains water official says federal studies have failed to convince him the area's water supply can escape contamination if a nuclear waste dump is placed in Deaf Smith County.

A. Wayne Wyatt, manager of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District headquartered in Lubbock, said he is still waiting for Department of Energy guarantees that radiation leakage won't occur.

The water district serves all or portions of the counties of Armstrong, Bailey, Crosby, Cochran, Castro, Floyd, Deaf Smith, Hockley, Hale, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Potter, Parmer and Randall.

The DOE has announced it will conduct characterization studies at the site, north of Hereford, which is one of three being considered for the nation's first high-level waste repositories.

Wyatt said the water district is making its own soil and water studies at the proposed Deaf Smith County site, south of Vega and north of Hereford.

Wyatt, former assistant director of the groundwater division of the Texas Water Development Board, said the local study will be completed within a week. Copies will be filed within three months with the Texas Water Commission and the Deaf Smith Commissioners Court, he said.

A Senate committee recommended last week that DOE funding for nuclear waste storage site studies be slashed from $677 million to $380 million, action that might stall work at the Deaf Smith site for a year.

That measure, however, still has to make it through the full Senate, the House and across the president's desk.

Wyatt charged that DOE has been deceiving the people by claiming that a 48-foot shaft that would have to be drilled through salt beds to the storage depth of almost half a mile is through dry salt.

"It's not dry," he said. "There's at least 100 feet of water-bearing salt. To our knowledge, installation of a mine shaft through a 100-foot section of water-saturated material has not been accomplished in the history of man."

A shaft being drilled in Germany through similar strata is already running into troubles, he said.

Wyatt said that below the Ogallala Formation, there is another freshwater formation, the Santa Rosa section, that the shaft would have to totally penetrate.

The Ogallala provides irrigation and drinking water to eight states — New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Wyoming and Texas, Wyatt said.

The moist salt, he said, could establish dissolution channels where the water could leak through to the storage chambers, exposing the nuclear waste containers to erosion that could lead to widespread contamination of both the Ogallala and Santa Rosa Aquifer.

"Even a small radiation accident would have an overwhelming psychological effect as well as an economic effect," he said. "Ever since the Chernobyl nuclear accident in Russia, there's been a lot of rethinking. Would you buy beef, fiber, grain or fruit from the Chernobyl area right now if you had another choice?"

Anguished play gives it away

By James Jacoby

When you are playing a tough contract, an opponent's anguish can give you a clue. When I recently held the South cards, my partner wisely asked for aces with his four-club bid after I had jumped to two no-trump, and then bid six diamonds. How wise I was to overrule North and bid six no-trump would be determined in the play. West was very deliberate in selecting an opening lead, finally hitting upon the six of spades. After I won the spade queen, playing a heart would give me 11 tricks, but the 12th trick would apparently depend upon East's holding the club king.

At trick two I led a heart toward dummy's queen. When that won, I played the spade ace. Only then did I begin the parade of diamond tricks. My last three cards were the heart king and the A-Q of clubs. West had thrown all his spades and was down to the A-10 of hearts and the K-9 of clubs. As he pondered his play to the 10th trick, I knew the contract was home. If he discarded a heart, I would put him in with the ace to lead into my A-Q of clubs. If he blanked the club king, I would play my club ace and drop the king.

Defender's lesson: When you hold key cards against a slam contract, you must prepare in advance for the pain of unguarding a king. If West had blanked his club king in a casual and easy manner, I would very likely have taken the club finesse and been defeated in the slam.

Inmates number less than parolees

DALLAS (AP) — Prison parolees outnumber inmates locked away in the Texas Department of Corrections for the first time in the state's history, and their number is continuing to grow, officials say.

The Board of Pardons and Paroles, under court order to relieve prison overcrowding, has even begun paroling convicted felons from county jails before they ever get to the TDC, The Dallas Morning News reported today.

The number of inmates on parole, including those in halfway houses and under mandatory supervision, has topped 40,000. The TDC population, meanwhile, is about 38,000.

The practice of paroling inmates from county jails to keep the state prison population down is already drawing criticism from a citizens group, the Dallas-based Associated Texans Against Crime.

"To parole people directly from the county jail without sending them to Huntsville is a mistake," said ATAC president Richard Collins.

"One of the things we want to accomplish is to teach a criminal that incarceration is indeed unpleasant, and we want him to actually go down to Huntsville so he'll see that," Collins said.

Demos shoot back at Reagan criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democrats, stung by President Reagan's charge that Capitol Hill budget cuts in defense would open the country to Soviet missile attack, say his military spending plan would dramatically change U.S. arms policy.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Sunday the House merely was continuing present policy by voting last week to restrict tests of anti-satellite weapons, block production of chemical weapons, force the administration to abide by the 1979 SALT II arms accord and spend $3.1 billion on "Star Wars" reseach.

He said it was Reagan, not Congress, who was shifting gears on defense. He denied that congressional cuts in defense spending will undercut U.S. ability to reach an arms control agreement with the Soviets.

"What the Reagan administration wants to do is a dramatic change in policy," Aspin said on the ABC-TV program "This Week With David Brinkley."

"They would like to abandon SALT II. They would like to have big increases in Star Wars rather than modest increases in Star Wars," said Aspin, chairman of the Armed Services Committee in the Democratic-controlled House.

Sen. Sam Nunn accused Reagan of lack of leadership on arms control.

The Georgia Democrat said the administration had created a vacuum on arms control issues, and that the Democrats in the House were trying to fill the void.

Reagan has "not maintained a bipartisan consensus, and we are now paying the price for that in some of the actions taken by the House," said Nunn, also appearing on ABC.

The House bill authorizes $286 billion for defense spending, well short of the $295 billion voted by the Senate and the $320 billion sought by the administration.

The House also voted to hold spending on the Strategic Defense Initiative to $3.1 billion, below the $5.3 billion requested by Reagan and the $3.9 billion voted by the Senate, but an increase over the $2.8 billion authorized this year.

The differences between the House and Senate versions of the defense spending will be resolved in conference before the measure is sent to the White House, and Reagan threatened to veto it if the House prevailed.

"To gravely underfund SDI (Star Wars) is to place in jeopardy all our hopes for arms reduction," Reagan said in his radio address, broadcast Saturday. "It is to leave America indefinitely naked to missile attack, whether by accident or design."

He also lashed out at the House requirement that he comply with SALT II "even though the Soviet Union has violated its terms."

Volleyball team plans to workout in Lamesa

LAMESA -- Snyder varsity and junior varsity volleyball teams were to scrimmage here today, just 24 hours or so before they open the 1987 season.

The current campaign gets underway Tuesday night, when the Tigers play host to Brownfield at 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. A freshman match is also scheduled for 5 p.m.

Today, Snyder was to join Lamesa, Seminole and Denver City in scrimmage action at the high school here. No formal schedule was set up but play was to begin at 2 p.m.

Playing for the varsity are returning lettermen Allison Adams, Shondra Robinson, Leslie Ward, Sharnette Thompson, Donna Clay, Stacy Dunk and Tammy Williamson. All seven are seniors.

Joining them will be seniors Carrie Fortune, Monica Hinojos and Julie Williams, juniors Becky Becerra, Paula Caldwell and Denise Overton, and sophomore Melody Pickering.

Ragin Tigers' report

Tigers are improving; ready for second week

As Snyder's Tigers begin their second full week of workouts, coach Dennis Tomlin had some thoughts about where the team was headed.

"We look for our returning lettermen to at least be at the level we thought they'd be at and we were pleased after Friday's scrimmage," he said. "We didn't see a dropoff in any of them.

"I felt like our big kids - Henry Treat, Jerry McNew, Trey Tippens, Dwayne Murdock and Chris Garrett - all showed to be in good physical condition."

Tomlin said the biggest disappointment of Friday's intrasquad scrimmage was the offense's inability to "push the ball down the field," but he also added, "I saw some flashes from Scott Lanier and Jeff Rose at tailback. They caught my eye."

Defensively, Tomlin said Earl Ware and Jeff Rose stood out against the run.

He also pointed out Brad Gambrel as having played well.

"I was very pleased, especially considering it was only our second workout in pads," he said. "We're improving. We like what we've been seeing."

Snyder will scrimmage Vernon at 6 p.m. Friday in Stamford. A junior varsity scrimmage has been scheduled for 5 p.m.

If only for a little while...

Cowboy offense wakes up

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Slowly but surely, the slumbering Dallas offense seems to be coming around. And it's about to receive a very significant addition.

The Cowboys tallied their first touchdown after 17 quarters without one and got four field goals in their National Football League preseason game Saturday night against the Los Angeles Raiders.

While all that wasn't enough - the Raiders downed the Cowboys 24-19 - Dallas Coach Tom Landry seemed pretty satisfied. And he'll have standout running back Herschel Walker in uniform for the first time when the Cowboys practice Monday.

"It's still very early in the preseason," Landry said. "We played a lot of people because we need to find out if they can play or not, and that hurt our continuity.

"All in all, we played pretty well and had a good effort. I feel a lot better than I have the last two weeks. I saw a lot of improvement."

Walker signed a five-year contract with the Cowboys last Wednesday. He watched Saturday night's game at the Los Angeles Coliseum in street clothes on the sidelines.

Before Saturday night, the Cowboys hadn't scored a touchdown since the first quarter of their 30-16 loss to San Francisco in the final game of the 1985 regular season. Dallas later lost a 20-0 decision to the Los Angeles Rams in the playoffs and had been beaten this summer by Chicago 17-6 and San Diego 20-0.

"Last week we played lousy but tonight there was a tremendous turnaround," Flores said. "Our improvement was very evident. We played much harder and made some big plays. All three of our quarterbacks threw the ball well and our offensive line protected very well."

The Raiders were crushed 32-0 by San Francisco in their preseason opener on Aug. 10.

The Los Angeles offensive line, which allowed 12 sacks by the 49ers, gave up only one to the Cowboys.

The Raiders fell behind 3-0 on a 42-yard field goal by Rafael Septien with 4:14 left before halftime, but Plunkett then engineered a 75-yard, eight-play drive to put Los Angeles in front. The touchdown came on a 14-yard pass from Plunkett to running back Steve Strachan.

The Cowboys went in front 10-7 after just 2:22 of the third quarter on a 1-yard scoring run by Robert Lavette, four plays after linebacker Steve DeOssie intercepted Wilson's first pass of the night and returned it 24 yards to the Los Angeles 12-yard line.

But Wilson fired a 60-yard scoring strike to Rod Barksdale with 6:01 left in the period to put the Raiders ahead for good.

Announcement to come today...

Campbell expected to retire

HAMMOND, La. (AP) - Running back Earl Campbell, who needed only 593 yards this coming NFL season to reach the 10,000 mark, is retiring, the New Orleans Saints announced today.

No reasons were given, but Campbell had scheduled an 11:30 a.m. news conference at the Saints training camp on the Southeastern Louisiana University campus at Hammond.

Campbell, once the stalwart of the Houston Oilers offense, had a less than spectacular career at New Orleans. He came to training camp weighing in at a trim 225 pounds - considerably lighter than last year. At his first news conference, he said he was determined to break the 10,000 mark and remove the bitter taste of a bad 1985 season.

But the 1977 Heisman Trophy winner's performance in two preseason games wasn't impressive. He had 78 yards for 25 carries or about 3.1 yards per carry at time when Saints fans, and the new coaching staff headed by Jim Mora, were hoping for better.

Campbell won NFL Most Valuable Player honors three times. He led the NFL in rushing during his first three years (1978-80). His best season was in 1980 when he rushed for 1,934 yards - no. 3 in NFL history.

His best years were under coach Bum Phillips at Houston. Phillips, after being fired at Houston, took over at New Orleans and brought Campbell over six games into the 1984 season - dealing away a first-round draft pick in a trade that brought immediate criticism.

Campbell had begun the 1984 season with 8,296 yards, but was having a relatively bad year at the time of the trade, averaging 2.9 yards per carry.

Kelly agrees to contract with Bills for $7.5 million

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) - Quarterback Jim Kelly has agreed to a contract worth about $7.5 million over five years with the Buffalo Bills, according to a published report. The deal makes Kelly the highest paid player in the NFL.

The Buffalo News reported in today's editions that after about 10 hours of negotiations, Kelly and his agents reached an agreement with the Bills at about 2 a.m. EDT today in Houston.

Kelly was expected to fly to Buffalo this morning and sign the contract at a news conference.

Quarterback Joe Montana of the San Francisco 49ers is currently the highest paid player at $1.3 million a year.

Kelly was Buffalo's first-round draft pick in 1983 but chose to sign with the Houston Gamblers of the United States Football League on June 9 of that year. That league has suspended play, at least until 1987, and the New Jersey Generals, who merged with Houston, had given Kelly the OK to negotiate with Buffalo, which holds his NFL rights.

Green conquers unique format

CASTLE ROCK, Colo. (AP) - A self-described "wacko," golfer Ken Green, relaxed and free-wheeling, was nobody's choice to win the $180,000 first-place prize in The International tournament.

Ranking 101st on the money list and having performed dismally for extended stretches of the season, Green had yet to prove his Buick Open triumph in 1985 was anything but a fluke.

But playing bogey-free golf and defusing tension with some playful psychological games, Green birdied two of the final three holes Sunday and ran away with the inaugural International title.

He accumulated 12 points under the tournament's unique scoring format - a modified Stableford system that awarded players five points for an eagle, two points for birdie, nothing for par, minus one for bogey and minus three for double bogey or worse.

Huirricane threatening coast

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — Hurricane Charley buffeted the mid-Atlantic states today, churning the ocean with 75 mph winds and forcing the evacuation of thousands of coastal residents after dumping torrential rains on North Carolina's Outer Banks.

The storm was blamed for at least four deaths, authorities said.

By mid-morning, as Charley headed northward over cooler waters, its punch was diminishing, said hurricane forecaster Bob Case. "We expect it to gradually decrease in the next 12 to 24 hours," he said.

The death toll included three people aboard a small plane that crashed into the Chesapeake Bay near Baltimore during a hurricane-spawned storm Sunday.

Authorities said two bodies were recovered from the bay and the third victim was believed dead. And a Manteo, N.C., woman died when her car apparently slipped into a canal on an Outer Banks causeway Sunday, state police said.

The causeway was flooded and reported impassable Sunday evening. Elsewhere on the Outer Banks, a foot of water surged into the Dare County Courthouse in Manteo, flooding was reported in the Stumpy Point community and water was 2 to 3 feet deep on the north end of the Oregon Inlet bridge, authorities said.

Charley caused power outages and flooding of up to 3 feet but little damage on North Carolina's Outer Banks on Sunday. As many as 10,000 tourists and residents fleeing the fragile islands jammed roads to the mainland for a short-lived evacuation.

The hurricane knocked down trees and signs on Virginia's mainland Sunday evening and left about 110,000 people without power, but caused no major damage, authorities said.

Hurricane warnings were in effect today from Cape Charles, Va., to Sandy Hook, N.J. Less-severe hurricane watches and gale warnings were in effect from Sandy Hook to Chatham, Mass.

At 8 a.m., Charley's center was near latitude 38.2 north and longitude 74.5 west, about 50 miles south-southwest of Cape May. The storm was moving north-northeast at 10 mph, and was expected to continue moving parallel to the coast.

Charley is relatively small, with gale-force winds extending about 125 miles from the eye on the storm's eastern semi-circle and some 50 miles to the western side, Case said.

The eye is a rather broad area of between 25 and 30 miles and is dwindling as the storm moves slowly over cooler waters, Case said. Upper wind patterns of the hurricane no longer favor its growth, he added.

Officers investigating pickup theft, break-in

Scurry County sheriff's investigators are investigating a pickup theft and an unrelated house burglary reported over the weekend.

Ronnie Rinehart of Ira reported Sunday morning his 1983 Ford pickup had been stolen sometime after 2 a.m.

No arrest was made in connection with the theft but investigation is continuing.

She said she discovered the Harrell family home place — on the Harrell ranch about 3 miles northeast of Snyder — had been burglarized when she went to feed cows.

Listed as missing from the house — which is currently unoccupied — were a number of pieces of antique china and silverware.

The burglary is thought to have occurred sometime overnight Saturday.

County sets '87 tax rate

During the current fiscal year, Scurry County will receive an estimated $3.8 million in ad valorem taxes.

With the tax increase, a county resident owning a $50,000 home can expect to pay slightly more than $114 in ad valorem taxes to the county.

In other action, commissioners agreed to waive use fees on the coliseum annex for a fund raising dance to benefit Gerald and Beth Hicks. Monies raised will help defray medical expenses incurred for the Hicks' baby who suffers from heart and kidney ailments.

Court members also appointed Mort Ewing to replace Brian Boswell on the Scurry County Industrial Development Authority — a governmental arm that assists in issuing industrial bonds. Other members of that board include Roy McQueen, Ernie Armstrong, Wedge Turner and John Jarrell.

Commissioners present for Monday's session included Duaine Davis, Hassie Sneed and C.D. Gray Jr. Ted Billingsley was not present.

Speakers, tools reported stolen

Police are investigating two misdemeanor thefts in the city reported over the weekend.

David Dunk of 2908 El Paso Ave. filed the first of those reports at 7:19 a.m. Saturday.

He told investigators that two stereo speakers and a tool box with a variety of hand tools had been taken from his 1967 Ford Mustang sometime between 11 p.m. Friday and 5 a.m. Saturday.

Value of the missing property was estimated between $450 and $550.

Police also investigated a bicycle theft over the weekend which was cleared by the owner of the missing bikes.

Steve Shelton of 1009 28th St. had reported two 20-inch BMX type bikes stolen from outside Safeway just before 10 p.m. Saturday.

He later reported finding the missing bikes shortly before 8 p.m. Sunday at another location.

Six other misdemeanor arrests were reported over the weekend including two for public intoxication and one for driving while intoxicated.

One man was jailed on a warrant for misdemeanor assault issued last May and one on a local traffic instanter. The sixth suspect arrested was charged via Department of Public Safety traffic warrants issued out of Abilene.

AJRA times 'world class'

a 6.22. Keith Hudson of Paradise, and a member of Western Texas College's national championship team, turned in a 6.95.

And, in the boys bull riding, six of the eight contestants stayed aboard, including Gary Snokhous of West, who won with a 77. The other scores were all in the 70s.

The show was televised live to several stations. Still other outlets have already aired the show via tape delay or plan to do so in the future. Announcer Bob Tallman, who stepped down off his horse to take a seat as broadcaster, made sure viewers were aware the telecast was coming to them from Snyder, Texas.

It was unique, and yet, it was ordinary - just the best of the American Junior Rodeo Association. And that's plenty for anybody.

The following is a complete list of results from Saturday:

How to help stroke patients

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What information can you give me on strokes and assisting a patient in his recovery?

DEAR READER — Strokes usually cause disruption of brain function. In mild strokes, the disruption may be minor and temporary. Other, more serious cases cause speech and movement difficulties, as well as emotional instability and trouble with the higher brain centers that involve judgment and memory. If severe, strokes can be fatal.

As a general rule, a stroke patient needs help in many areas. Mental functioning usually tends to return with time, but each patient needs support and encouragement during the recovery phase. Speech therapy may be mandatory. Occupational therapy, which helps the stroke patient maintain contact with his surroundings and develop simple motor skills, is often useful. Psychological counseling might be necessary: Not only may the patient be frustrated and confused, but he or she may become depressed as well.

Physical therapy is the cornerstone of rehabilitation. This might take the form of passive exercises that are designed to maintain joint mobility and muscle flexibility. Later in recovery, physical therapy might involve gait training, strengthening exercises and education about how to dress and feed and bathe oneself.

There are very few stroke patients who will not benefit from a rehab program. Ordinarily, this program requires the combined skills of family, friends and professionals — including physicians, therapists, counselors, clergy, social workers, nutritionists and a variety of specialists, depending on the individual patient's needs.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have spells that start in my right eye, causing me to lose part of the vision. Then numbness goes down my right arm and hand, and my tongue gets numb. I can't think clearly or speak the words I am thinking. The spells take an hour and I am left with a headache and all-over "goofy" feeling that lasts several hours. I'm a 48-year-old female — in good health, as far as I know.

DEAR READER — It sounds to me as if you are suffering from migraine headaches. Check with your doctor about this. If he or she is unable to reach a diagnosis, ask for a referral to a neurologist. If you are having migraine, the condition might be both treatable and preventable, using certain prescription drugs.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I fell and dislocated several vertebrae. Six weeks after the fall, my gallbladder had to be removed. Is there any connection? I'd never had any gallbladder problems.

DEAR READER — There is no direct relation between the vertebral problems and your gallbladder. However, there might have been something going on during your convalescence from the fall that could have triggered a gallbladder attack. For example, you might have been eating a different diet; perhaps your inactivity (or pain medicine) altered the flow of bile in a way that either precipitated gallstones or caused trouble with the ones you already had. From the information you supply, I cannot draw any definite conclusions. However, the doctor who operated on you might be able to establish a cause-and-effect relation; ask your surgeon.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report on IRRITABLE BOWEL SYNDROME explains the symptoms and management of this common problem. Send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

Ways to get around limit discovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Near Great Bend, Kan., a lawyer is fighting to make three farmers eligible to receive up to $50,000 each in annual subsidies from the federal government. The farmers are two brothers and their sister, ages 10 to 14.

In Arkansas, a farmer who had been limited to $50,000 in annual subsidies in 1983 was able to triple his payments last year by reorganizing into three separate corporations. The reorganization was approved by the local Agriculture Department board, of which the farmer himself was chairman.

And another farmer and his son received $50,000 each in subsidies in 1984, even though the son owned no farming equipment and was away from home all year attending college.

These cases, culled from federal audit and investigation files, illustrate the creative ways in which producers are sidestepping the federal law that is supposed to limit them to $50,000 each in income subsidies.

While the practice has been known for years, it is undergoing explosive growth, largely because of policy changes made last year by Congress in a new farm law.

The law set out to restore U.S. competitiveness in international commodities markets by lowering prices, while shielding farmers from the blow through higher income subsidy rates.

That means many producers who in past years have made less from the government than the $50,000 limit now are bumping up against that ceiling — giving them an incentive to look for ways around it.

And large producers who haven't bothered with federal price support programs in the past now feel economically forced to participate.

"Their attitude is, $50,000 will buy you a cup of coffee," said John Gordley, former agriculture aide to Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., and now a private public relations consultant.

Larger farmers and their lawyers have probed every line of Agriculture Department rules regarding payment limits and found numerous ways to multiply their subsidies.

Most revolve around the definition of what constitutes a "person." The rules say corporations, partnerships, trusts and other legal entities can qualify as "persons," in addition to an individual farmer, as long as the entity has a legitimate interest in the land or crop, exercises management responsibility and is liable for costs and losses as well as entitled to profits.

Thus one Arkansas farmer, the chairman of the local committee of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, was able to get $150,000 from the government in 1985 by spinning off two corporations from his original farm — one owned by himself and his brother, the other by the farmer and his mother.

The reorganization was approved by the local committee and at the state level. Investigators in the department's Office of Inspector General rejected the claim, saying it was merely a paper change and no real change in the farming operation had occurred, but not until the famer had been overpaid $18,000 over two years.

In the case of the Kansas children, ASCS is resisting making subsidy payments, claiming that a trust set up for them by a neighbor who died and left them his farm does not meet the "person" requirement because the children still live on the farm of their own parents.

The case files do not name the individuals involved.

Federal officials say because they have only recently become aware of the growth in such end-runs of the payment rules, they have no complete data on the numbers of such cases or how much they are costing taxpayers.

The department inspector general is completing a national audit and Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., a member of the House Agriculture Committee, has asked for an investigation by the General Accounting Office.

The explosion in multiple subsidy payments to farmers is just one element in the ballooning cost of federal farm programs. From a level of just $4 billion in 1981, is expected to hit $30 billion or more this year.

The Associated Press has reported in recent weeks on how multimillion-dollar payments to large producers, particularly in the cotton, rice and dairy areas, will be common this year, with one California cotton grower due to receive upwards of $20 million.

Cotton middlemen like mills, merchants and cooperatives may get even larger sums from the government as compensation for lower market prices.

"We're facing an explosion on the farm programs," says Panetta, who added that the excesses threaten to torpedo the entire federal agricultural structure.

Crockett birthday parties observed

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Historians disagree whether Davy Crockett wore a coonskin cap, but that didn't bother the hundreds of youngsters who turned out to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the birth of the "king of the wild frontier."

The kids, weaned on the Walt Disney version of the American legend, were content to copy the Fess Parker portrayal rather than the less-colorful account in the history books.

Among those carrying on the popular image was actor Bill Chemerka, who said to dress in other than fringed shirt and coonskin "would not be appropriate."

"The most important thing here is education" said Chemerka, who used his day off from filming a television movie in Brackettville about Sam Houston to attend the party at the Alamo.

"Everyone over 35 (years old) is a fan of Davy Crockett," said Chemerka, of New Jersey. "He was the first hero of baby boomers. I'm an Alamo buff, so this was a perfect way to spend my day."

A similar birthday party was held in Dallas' Fair Park, where Steve Butler played Crockett.

"I think we have a new generation of Crockett fans," he said, surrounded by 150 pint-sized fans.

Two centuries after his birth — not "on a mountain top in Tennessee," as the song says — historians say Crockett called himself "David" and wore dress clothing of the period more often than backwoods garb.

Chemical Pump Service Serves Many Oil Patch Needs

Chemical Pump Service, owned locally by Tom Machen, serves the needs of the oil patch, by carrying a full line of Texsteam Electric Drive Injectors. The 4100 Series Texsteam Injectors are positive displacement, plunger-type pumps which are gear driven and utilize electric motors, V-belts or other rotating drives as the power source. The unit's gear drive is housed in a precision-bored, heavy cast iron case with anti-friction bearings on the high speed shaft. The output gear, made of high strength alloy iron, is supported in a special bearing arrangement assuring extremely long life with maximum rigidity.

The entire worm-gear drive mechanism runs in a lubricant bath for longer operating life, even under the most adverse operating conditions.

The Texsteam 4100 Series can by used for chemical injection and for handling corrosive fluids.

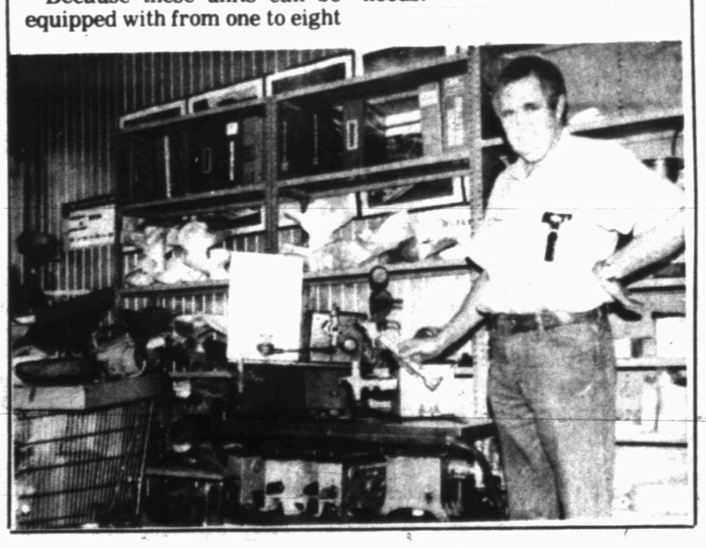

Because these units can be equipped with from one to eight heads, a wide range of additives may be accurately handled from one installation. This versatile pump has found wide acceptance for use in refineries, LACT units, salt water floods, tank batteries, process plants and in water treatment for boilers

The Texsteam 4100 Series Injectors are easy to install. No expensive foundation or piping is required. These pumps will give you many years of economical and trouble-free service.

In addition to Texsteam Electric Drive Injectors, they also carry Western, Calgon and Percision Pumps and Bendix, Wico, Fairbanks Morse and American Bosch Magnetos.

Also ask about Magneto sells and repair as well as Poulan and Shindaiwa chain saws and all types of chain saw sharpening.
