Rodeo Queen Coronation Set Tonight

The nineteenth annual Scurry County Rodeo is to get underway tomorrow night, and events in connection with the opening of the show will continue until the rodeo starts.

Among related events are coronation of a rodeo queen, which will occur at 8 o'clock tonight at the high school auditorium, a big beard judging event at 5 p.m. tomorrow on the west courthouse steps, and a parade starting at 6 p.m. tomorrow downtown.

Entries were still coming in today for floats in the downtown parade. Prizes of $100, $65, and $35 were set up by the Scurry County Rodeo Association and Chamber of Commerce for the best three floats. Organizations wishing to enter floats have been requested by Carl Herod, parade marshal, to notify the chamber office. He added that any businessmen who wish to enter commercial floats may do so but that those floats will not be eligible for prizes.

Also coming in were entries from several sheriff's posses. Trophy prizes were provided by the rodeo association, headed by Garrett Harrell, for the best two posses in the parade. Judges in the parade will be out-of-town men.

All those who will be in the parade are to gather by 5:30 p.m. tomorrow on the vacant lot between Twenty - fifth and Twenty-sixth Streets at Avenue U.

Climax of a month of beard-wearing here will come when the Junior Chamber of Commerce stages its beard judging tomorrow afternoon. Judges will be Robert R. Patterson of Snyder, state representative, and Goodwin Simpson of Colorado City, Region V vice-president for the state Jaycee organization.

In that contest, the judges will pick the best and second best beards for prizes of $50 and $25 defense bonds. There is no definite count on the number of men who have been wearing beards here during the past month in connection with rodeo activities, but there are several dozen. All of them are eligible for the contest, according to Steve Birdwell, Jaycee president, who said no entry fee is required. The Jaycees have also been urging all residents this week to wear western clothes.

The rodeo will last four nights, and there will be performances at 8 o'clock each night tomorrow through Saturday, with amateur cowboys from this area competing in 11 events.

Tickets will be on sale at the door tonight for the coronation event. A coronation ball for the queen and friends will be held at the Country Club, with music by the Steve Birdwell orchestra.

Bob Crowell will preside at the coronation, while Miss Brenda Townsend will present a ballet solo and Bob Clinton vocal entertainment. Crownbearers will be Billy Max West and Ronnie Odom.

Board Hears Panel Report

Committee reports filled most of the time spent by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors in its meeting last night.

The board heard a report from the education committee prior to a meeting it held this morning. In this morning's meeting the committee met with Dr. C. C. Colvert of the University of Texas and initiated a study on the possible need for a junior college here.

Also, the board heard the report on initiation of a survey and other work here toward securing a Texas Employment Commission office in Snyder.

Other reports included those from the membership committee, which secured 14 new members last week; sanitation committee, office space committee, and a sub-committee of the merchants panel, which reported it had scheduled the annual businessman-teacher appreciation banquet for Sept. 8.

Thunderheads Bring Storms

The Associated Press

Roving thunderheads provided spotty heat relief Monday night and early Tuesday over wide Texas areas.

Hail and winds up to 40 miles an hour marked an electrical storm which dumped 1.10 inches of rain on downtown Houston in 20 minutes Monday night.

Early Tuesday rain was reported at El Paso and Dalhart.

The Weather Bureau said all the rains were from roving cloud masses not connected with any frontal system. The forecasters said similar thunderstorms are expectable through the state through Wednesday.

A similar storm swept across southeast Dallas County at about sunset Monday. Tornado-like winds blasted a path 100 feet wide at Rylie, Dallas suburb, knocking down utility wires and ripping off a section of a real estate office. High winds also were reported at nearby Hutchins.

Race Track Vote Is Held In Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Residents of Miller County, Ark., voted today whether to allow horse racing. The proposal was strongly opposed by church groups.

All night prayer meetings asking defeat of the proposal were held at the First Baptist Church and the Beech Street Baptist Church. Last minute appeals also made on station KCMC-TV.

Proponents of the race track have indicated five million dollars would be spent to build it.

School Budget Gets Approval

A budget for the 1955-56 school year calling for almost one and one-half million dollars was adopted last night by the board of trustees of the Snyder Independent School District in its regular meeting.

The board also, during its meeting, discussed desegregation, building progress, and accepted bids on two automobiles.

The board had already, after extensive study, tentatively approved the budget pending a hearing scheduled last night. Only two persons other than board members or those on other business were on hand for the budget hearing. Those were representatives of major taxpayers who had studied the budget, and they had no comment to make.

A brief summary of the budget shows $84,202 for administration, including salaries for 10 persons, administrative and tax office expenses, tax valuation services, and other administrative items; $968,041 for instructional salaries and supplies for instruction in white schools, $23,728 for instructional salaries and supplies in the Negro school; $128,310 for salaries of 25 bus drivers, three mechanics, transportation, health department, visiting teacher, and other school services; $122,796 for salaries and supplies in operation of plant, including 22 employes; $45,273 for salaries and supplies in maintenance of plant, including 10 employes; $13,510 for fixed charges, including insurance on buildings, interest, etc.; $2,000 for community services, including visiting speakers; $600 for salaries and supplies for summer school; $200 for public adult education, usually held in night classes; and $93,228 for capital outlay, including instructional equipment, new buses, etc. The budget total is $1,499,988.

Receipts will include the anticipated bank balance on Aug. 31 of $9,000, federal funds, including, $10,164 for vocational education and $31,000 for cafeteria reimbursement, per capita apportionment of $65.75 per student for 3,770 scholastics for a total of $247,887; county available funds, $2,780; local taxes of 89 cents on 99 per cent collection and on total valuation of $135,000,000 for a total of $1,189,485; and other local receipts, $7,500. Total receipts would be $1,497,816; local taxes, interest and sinking fund, 40 cents on 99 per cent collection, $534,600, giving a grand total of $2,032,416.

Truett Prichard, representative of the Prichard & Abbott firm of Fort Worth, applied for a two-year contract for the firm to perform school tax valuation work at a rate of $15,000 annually. The board approved the application of the firm, which has been doing the work in the past.

Taking up the segregation question, the board took no official action, but general opinion among board members was that a definite decision concerning integration in the schools must be made for the 1956-57 school year. Plans for the coming school year are already underway and do not call for desegregation this year. The board studied the policy of the state board of education concerning desegregation. The state board has said it will leave decisions to the local boards and will offer any consultant services or other assistance.

A list of vacancies in the teaching staff showed the school still needs 18 teachers for the coming school year.

Dr. Cecil Yarbrough, superintendent, reported that the Winston

Other organizations and their allotments are Girl Scouts, $2,740; Boy Scouts, $7,758.75; Salvation Army, $4,000; Heart Association, $750; United Service Organizations, $1,800; Boys Ranch of San Angelo, $750; Scurry County Youth Center, $1,500; and American Red Cross, $3,380.

Witness Says He Was Informed Giles Got $75,000 In Deal

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN (AP)—A former promoter of veteran's land deals testified today he was told that former Land Commissioner Bascom Giles was supposed to get $75,000 to assure approval of a 10,114 acre ranch deal.

The witness, L. V. Ruffin of Corpus Christi, said the transaction involved the Rosenow Ranch in Kinney County. That is the veteran's lead deal in connection with which Giles is being tried in 98th District Court of charges of theft of $6,800 in state funds and abetting such alleged theft.

The witness, whose testimony brought repeated objections from defense attorneys, said B. R. Sheffield of Brady was the man who told him Giles was in line for $75,000.

Sheffield is under joint indictment on the charges on which Giles faces a jury here. This is the first trail of criminal charges growing out of investigations into the 100 million dollar veteran's aid program which Giles administered as chairman of the Veteran's Land Board.

Giles grinned, chuckled softly and leaned over to whisper something to his wife when Ruffin gave his testimony about the $75,000.

The witness said he (Ruffin) was at first supposed to receive $20,000 as his share in the Rosenow Ranch deal involving 54 veterans. He said Sheffield who had secured the ranch, later "hum-hawed around and bellyached so I cut it to $15,000."

Dist. Atty. Les Procter asked why Ruffin's share was cut.

"He (Sheffield) said there wasn't going to be as much in it for him as he had thought because he had to pay too much out elsewhere," the witness replied.

The district attorney asked if Sheffield had said where the money had to go."

"He told me he was supposed to pay Mr. Giles $75,000 to get this through," Ruffin said.

The witness said that in the Rosenow Ranch deal and also in the so-called Frank Y. Young transaction near Crystal City there was advance knowledge of how much the Veteran's Land Board would agree to pay for the acreage.

Procter handed Ruffin a paper with a list of figures which Raffin said were the amounts for which applications in the Frank Young deal were submitted.

Ruffin said Sheffield had told him those were the amounts the land had been approved for and for Ruffin to fill in the applications at those figures. (Under the veteran's land program, the state advanced money for purhcase of tracts for re-sale to World War II and Korean veterans on long terms at low interest rates.)

Procter asked if Sheffield had told Ruffin who put the figures on the paper in connection with the Frank Young ranch deal.

"He told me Bascom Giles wrote them," Ruffin responded.

Defense Atty. Clint Small Sr. immediately objected that such testimony about something that occurred outside the presence of the defendant Giles could not be binding.

Ruffin yesterday said he was told Giles was in line for a veterans land deal "payoff."

Sex Deviate Sought In Child's Death

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP)—A chubby 2-year-old girl plucked from her crib by an apparent sex degenerate, was found raped and slain in a farm field yesterday.

Police said they were without clues in the abduction-slaying of curly haired Donna Sue Davis, described by neighbors as "the darling of the neighborhood."

The pajama-clad daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Davis was lifted from her crib within minutes after her mother had tucked her in for the night Sunday.

About this time neighbors reported seeing a young man prowling about the Davis' modest duplex home.

The crumpled body, savagely beaten about the head, was found alongside a ditch at the edge of a cornfield on the Ernest Oehlerking farm near South Sioux City, Neb., just across the Missouri River from here.

The child's pink pajama tops were wound around her neck. Her diaper, rubber pants and pajama bottoms were picked up by Oehlerking three-fourths of a mile down the country road.

Police said her clothing was bloodstained and she "definitely had been raped."

Dr. Thomas L. Coriden, coroner, said the girl was killed by a severe blow on the head. He confirmed she had been sexually assaulted. She had been dead 10 to 12 hours when found, he said.

Bank Robbed In Oklahoma

MOORE, Okla. (AP)—Two smoothly working gunmen held up the First National Bank here today and made off with an undetermined amount of cash.

The two, without any threats of violence, lined up five bank employes and two customers before gathering up the cash.

J. K. Griffith, bank vice president, said the men were in the bank only five minutes.

"They told us to line up against the wall and not say a word," Griffith said.

The men escaped in a late model car on a gravel road east of Moore.

Two women outside the bank in this central Oklahoma town 12 miles south of Oklahoma City saw the men come out of the bank. They described the two as medium build and about 35 years old.

Contest Pondered For Museum Design

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The American Institute of Architects may be asked to stage a national contest for design of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and its accompanying museum.

The proposal was advanced yesterday at a meeting of trustees called to transform into action the plans for the hall and museum. It was agreed there will be a national membership drive and fund solicitation.

SLAIN — Mrs. Polly McGowan, 28, trick riding rodeo instructor, above, was fatally wounded, and Bobby Royce Darby, 24, one of her students was shot to death in a Waco, Tex., motel Sunday. Her husband, Raymond McGowan, has been charged in the double slaying.

State Program Aid Gets Okay

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today rejected President Eisenhower's request for 30 million dollars to provide free Salk polio vaccine for the nation's needy children.

It explained in its report that it could not approve the request because the program has not yet been authorized by Congress. Authorization legislation is pending in Senate and House committees.

The committee took this action in approving a $1,648,876,128 appropriations bill to finance scores of federal activities. This was $278,909,740 less than Eisenhower asked, with the big cuts applied to requests for atomic and defense plant equipment and construction programs.

The bill, last scheduled to come before the committee at this session, is subject to amendment when it reaches the House Thursday. However, the House generally accepts its Appropriations Committee's recommendations.

Although it turned down the request for money to finance the President's free vaccine program, the committee did approve related bids for 4½ millions to help the states operate their own polio vaccination programs, for $300,000 to help prevent a black market in polio vaccine, and for $400,000 to build cages for 800 monkeys needed by the Nation Institutes of Health in its polio vaccine work.

In another major action, the committee ordered all work halted on the new 125-million-dollar Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The committee said it wants the design "more firmly established" before any more money is spent.

The group also:

1. Approved funds to help states develop plans for the evacuation of 92 potential A - bomb target areas.

2. Refused to finance construction of an atomic - powered merchant ship sought by Eisenhower to demonstrate peaceful uses of atomic energy. Here, too, the committee said specific authorization legislation has not been enacted.

3. Granted one million dollars to finance the forthcoming summit meeting of Big Four leaders and subsequent international conferences.

4. Criticized the President's farm program.

5. Turned down the administration's request for $17,100,000 to build two new prisons, one for juveniles and one for adults. It said it would consider the Prison Bureau's request next year.

The biggest part of the bill was an allotment of $1,395,879,000 in new cash for military construction programs, plus approval of the use of $483,612,000 through transfers from other military funds. This represented a cash cut of $77,671,-000 and a reduction of $61,388,000 in transfer authority.

The committee slashed the Atomic Energy Commission's plant and equipment requests from $294,-700,000 to $138,577,000. But it allowed the AEC to use 101 millions of its unobligated balances for this program. It turned down a request for $2,900,000 for a new community hospital at Oak Ridge, Tenn., but approved $50,000 to repair the existing hospital.

City Annexes New Addition

The City Council passed on first reading an ordinance annexing 79 acres to Snyder, set dates for a public hearing and opened bids on two pieces of mechanical equipment in a four-hour meeting Monday night.

The new addition to the city is Park Place, a tract southwest of present city boundaries, which is to be developed as a new residential area by Fred Cullum. The annexation will be completed upon second reading of the ordinance at the council's regular meeting in August.

Council members indicated that Snyder's tax rate will continue at $1.50 per $100 valuation for another year, although the tax rate will not be set officially until it is presented in ordinance form at a later meeting.

Continuance of the $1.50 rate was agreed upon during discussion of property valuation schedules. The city intends to assess property for tax purposes this year at 35 percent of the true value, as determined by a new survey which now is in the last stages of completion.

Although exact figures have not been calculated, estimates are that valuations will total some $13½-million, as compared to $11,-600,000 on the last roll. Some of the gain will come from equalization of assessments, while another portion will be accounted for by new construction and by new territory added to the city.

The council named a board of equalization composed of Bill Ely, Lyle Deffebach and Si Steinberg. The equalization board is expected to set dates for its hearings in the near future.

Tax revenues on the new roll are expected to be increased by approximately $25,000. Of this amount, $10,000 already is committed in bonds, while the remainder will be required to extended services.

Public hearing was set for Aug. 15 on the proposed zoning ordinance, and two members of the planning and zoning commission were reappointed. Named to new terms on the board were Fred Bullard and Russell Yorgeson. Harry Reed, whose term expires, was not reappointed at his own request. However, Reed has agreed to serve until a replacement is named, City Manager Jack Shelley informed the council. The council indicated that Reed's successor would not be named until after the zoning ordinance hearing is held.

Holdover members on the planning and zoning commission are Harold Bennett and Bob Dupree.

A contract was awarded the McWane Iron Pipe Co. for 6,000 feet of 2¼-inch cast iron pipe. McWane submitted the lowest of three bids, quoting .6645 cents per foot. Other bids were submitted by the U. S. Pipe and Foundry Co. and by the Viking Supply Co.

No action was taken on bids for a new 20-yard garbage truck body and for a new truck for the city sanitation department. The city manager and city mechanics were instructed to inspect the equipment of the various bidders to clarify some of the specifications.

AEC Chief Refuses To Discuss Dixon-Yates Deal Documents

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong of the Securities and Exchange Commission refused today to tell a Senate subcommittee whether the White House or "any other person in the executive branch" proposed postponement of an SEC hearing on financing of the Dixon-Yates power plant.

He cited a presidential order a year ago that discussions and documents exchanged between governmental agencies were confidential and should not be disclosed.

Armstrong added that by his refusal to answer such questions "I don't mean to imply . . . there were any such conversations."

Armstrong was before the Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee, headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn). The group is pressing an inquiry into background of the Dixon-Yates contract despite the decision by President Eisenhower yesterday that the contract should be canceled.

Eisenhower ordered it canceled after Mayor Frank Tobey of Memphis told him at a White House conference that the city intends to build its own power plant.

Atty. Gen. Brownell, who sat in on the meeting, announced for the President the government "will immediately take steps to terminate" the private power contract.

Some Democrats who had fought the contract all along indicated they would seek to keep the issue alive into the 1956 presidential campaign.

Kefauver said the cancellation would have no effect on his subcommittee's hearings.

"We expect to get to the bottom of this entire matter," he said.

From Armstrong, Kefauver wanted to know why the SEC recessed its hearings on Dixon-Yates financing plans June 13, then resumed it June 16.

Kefauver told Armstrong "it would be very easy", to end this phase of the subcommittee inquiry "if you would say 'no, the commission was free from influence.'"

Armstrong stood firm on his refusal to answer, asserting again he considered the matter subject to the presidential order against disclosure of confidential documents or discussions.

Kefauver in opening the line of questioning had asserted the postponement "without explanation" was made shortly before the House was scheduled to vote on the Tennessee Valley Authority appropriation bill.

The bill contained 6½ million dollars for construction of a power line to like the proposed Dixon-Yates plant at West Memphis, Ark. with the TVA.

Kefauver said the recess of the SEC hearing continued until "too late to get . . . to the House of Representatives" testimony by Adolphe Wenzel, former vice president of First Boston Corp. and a consultant to the Budget Bureau.

First Boston, a New York underwriting firm, became financial agent for Dixon-Yates.

Wenzell has testified before Kefauver's subcommittee that his duties as an unpaid consultant to the Budget Bureau had no direct connection with the power contract.

SCHOOL

Bros., developers of the residential area adjacent to the administration building grounds, were making plans to pave a part of Thirty-sixth Street, which is just north of the building, and a part of the street just east of the building. They had requested school participation in the project. The board agreed to pay for curb and gutter on its side of the streets and for half the paving, with the Winstons to provide the other half.

A. T. Nicholas, director of business services, read bids on replacement of a school car. The board accepted the bid of Pollard Motor Co., who listed a trade-in price of $1,550 on a 1955 Plymouth Savoy. The school is trading in a 1950 Plymouth. Other bids were $1,550 by Davidson Motor Co. on a 1955 Plymouth Plaza and $1,925 by Lamb Chevrolet Co. on a 1955 Chevrolet. The board also accepted a bid of Pollard to furnish a 1955 Plymouth Belvedere as a driver education car at $100 a year.

"Approval was given by the board on a plan to contract work on the area surrounding the high school baseball field. The area is now badly damaged by water erosion, and the plans call for new curbing, paved parking area, and much of the area sodded in grass. Estimated cost of removal of the present curbing, construction of new curb and gutter, and paving of parking areas was about $4,700. The school maintenance department will do the sodding, using a highway department method of mixing asphalt emulsion with water, liquid fertilizer, and grass seed on the step banks around the area.

A building program report showed that on June 30 the West Elementary addition was 43 per cent complete, East Elementary 28 per cent complete, high school stadium work 28 per cent complete. Central Primary work two per cent complete; and preliminary work done on construction at the Lincoln school and junior high school.

Two Women Hurt In Collision Monday

Mrs. Alvin Koonsman and Mrs. Jack Hill were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon after cars in which they were riding were involved in a collision about one-half mile east of town.

Their injuries were not believed to be serious, although Bill Zimmerman, investigating officer, said they were both cut about the face and bruised. Neither of their husbands, drivers of the cars, was injured.

Zimmerman estimated the damage to be about $1,500.

The women were taken in a Bell ambulance to the hospital after the accident which occurred about 6 p.m. yesterday.

Ike Promises Full Reports From Geneva

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today promised congressional leaders frequent progress reports during the Big Four conference opening in Geneva Monday.

The President also pledged that when the conference ends the leaders will receive "an appraisal of its accomplishments."

The President made the promises to 27 Republican and Democratic Congress members at a White House meeting.

The leaders declined to tell newsmen anything of what went on at the meeting. They said they all had agreed the White House would issue a statement.

That statement given reporters by Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary, said:

The President invited the bipartisan leadership of the Congress to the White House so he and the secretary of state could give the group an explanation of the general character of the discussions which th United States expects to take place at the Big Four meeting in Geneva.

"The President and the secretary further discussed the attitudes in which the United States delegation will approach the meeting.

"They analyzed international developments of the past few months bearing on the matters expected to be considered at the conference.

"After this there was a full and free question and answer period.

"The leaders were assured by the President of frequent progress reports during the duration of the conference and of an appraisal of its accomplishments at its conclusion."

Asked about the mechanics of the progress reports, Snyder said that they probably will be transmitted from Geneva to the Capitol here "to the same bipartisan leaders" who attended today's White House meeting.

Louisiana To Offer Leases On Tidelands

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—State and federal agencies planned to offer mineral leases today on 73,000 acres of submerged lands claimed by both.

There was no advance indication what the oil companies intended to do and state officials said they had no idea what to expect in bidding for either state or federal leases.

Previous leases have brought bids to the state of from $50 to $400 an acre, making the ownership fight a multi-million dollar struggle.

State Atty. Gen. Fred Leblanc warned Oil firms against leasing lands within the disputed area from anyone but the state. They do so, he said, "at their peril."

Leblanc said, "We can take action against them in our Louisiana courts where the merits of Louisiana's claim can be presented and justified."

Louisiana lost the first round of the fight yesterday when U.S. District Judge James Morris threw out the state's suit asking for a temporary restraining order to halt the federal leasing pending a further hearing. The suit was filed in the District of Columbia.

The state claims ownership of the submerged lands 10½ miles out into the Gulf of Mexico. The federal government acknowledges state ownership of lands within three miles of the coast, but claims the federal government owns lands beyond the three-mile line.

Felony DWI Cases Filed

Two charges of second - offense driving while intoxicated and several other charges were filed here this morning and yesterday afternoon.

Wiley Wayne Floyd, 41, of 801 Twenty - ninth Street, was charged with driving while intoxicated, second offense, a felony.

William Richard Burks was also charged with a second-offense DWI. He was allegedly convicted of DWI in Howard County June 5, 1954. Judge W. C. Davidson set his bond at $500.

Curtis Elvis Pinkerton, 38, and William Robert Rodgers, 50, Floyd's companions, pleaded guilty to charges of being drunk in an automobile and paid $25 fines and $13 costs.

Another charge of DWI was filed against Lewis R. Watts, 36, of Louisiana. Watts was convicted here July 5 of DWI and paid $37.50, fine and costs, but because of a legal stipulation, he was not charged with the second-offense which carries a heavier penalty.

The law requires that the previous case be "final" before one can be charged with a second offense. His charge was of simple DWI since Watts still had time to appeal his first conviction at the time of his second violation, District attorney Renal Rosson said.

Two cases of swindling with worthless checks were filed yesterday against W. W. Scott and Robert Sepeda.

Play Script Is Problem For Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How can they make "Tea and Sympathy" into a movie and get it past the censors?

That question has been raised ever since MGM bought the prize-winning play for films. One of those who feels it can be done is Deborah Kerr, who starred in the play on Broadway and the road and who will repeat her role in the movie.

"Tea and Sympathy" deals frankly with a prep school boy who is accused by his fellow students of being a homosexual. His champion is a teacher's wife who feels he is being unjustly accused. When everyone else has deserted him, she helps prove his manhood in a final scene that is a shocker.

A high official of the production code office, which censors all Hollywood films, remarked recently that "Tea and Sympathy" could never be passed on its basic theme. The code forbids even the implication of homosexuality.

Miss Kerr feels that the film can be made, and without sacrificing the values of the play.

"I don't want to give any secrets away," she remarked. "But I had a talk with Robert Anderson, who wrote the play and is now working on the movie script. He feels that it can be done.

"After all, the play is not about homosexuality. It is a story that shows that we must give more than tea and sympathy to our fellow human beings. Its theme is the persecution of an individual.

"I think another kind of persecution can be substituted, and the other elements of the theme can be implied. The story can still be touching and moving—if the persecution is strong and convincing enough."

But what about the final scene in which the woman surrenders herself to the boy?

"That must be included, because it is very important to the story," she declared. "But it can be done much more subtly on the screen.

"Naturally, the film version will not have the shock value that the play did. But then, the movies are a different medium."

For Propaganda

The U.S. position with regard to dealing with the Chinese Communists is that no agreement with them on anything whatsoever is worth shucks in view of the way the Chinese Reds have violated the Korean armistice terms repeatedly and with utter contumacy.

The U.N. Command in Korea this week read a 17-page report specifying item by item a long list of Red violations of armistice terms—violations that were so flagrant, and carried out with such arrogant persistence in spite of protests, that the Swedish members of the armistice commission recently walked out and refused to serve further. One item will suffice to show the general Red attitude: air and ground build-ups of such magnitude as to endanger the U.N. Command, in plain violation of the armistice terms.

Following this U.N. blast, the Reds, who never before had invited Western correspondents to one of their press briefings, invited the correspondents to come over into the Communist press headquarters in the neutral zone for interviews.

Gen. Harlan C. Parks, senior Allied delegate on the armistice commission, put his foot down, much to the annoyance of the correspondents with whom he argued for an hour. They wanted to accept the Red invitation, but Parks stood on his contention that:

"I do not consider it appropriate that representatives of the enemy side enter my camp to attend my press conferences. Conversely I do not think accredited correspondents of the U.N. Command should enter their camp for similar conferences."

No doubt this will get a rise out of some of the 100 percent defenders of freedom of the press, but it seems to us Gen. Parks has a point. The only reason the Reds invited the press boys over was because they felt the need of access to the Western press to counter and try to refute the U.N. Command's charges of truce violations; in other words, for purely selfish reasons. As we see it, we're not under any obligation moral or otherwise to place the full facilities of our press at the disposal of the Communists for their own propaganda purposes.

A Flying President

At Oklahoma City, a two-engined, light-type airplane is being readied for President Eisenhower's personal use in going back and forth between Washington and his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., a distance of 90 miles, if we remember correctly. The engines are of 275 horsepower each, and this is the first time the Secret Service has approved less than a four-engined plane for the President's use.

The Secret Service is absolute master of the presidential security, and what it says goes. It approved one flight by light plane between the White House and the farm and back, but insisted that a second plane carrying its operatives tag along since only the President and his pilot could squeeze into the available space. The new plane will have room for the bodyguards too.

The President has little or nothing to say about such matters, since the Secret Service by congressional decree is given sole authority to decide what is or isn't safe for him, and how many guards must accompany him at all times. They are the lads who go over his route of travel and arrange with police authorities everywhere to protect his person. This close supervision has irked most White House occupants, but they have had to like it or lump it.

A pilot himself—he qualified while in the Philippines in the late 1930s as General MacArthur's chief of staff—Mr. Eisenhower is our most extensively airborne President. Roosevelt traveled far and wide, but did not especially care for flying. Truman flies on occasion, but is mostly an automobile and train traveler. In 1948 he made probably what will be the last train-platform presidential campaign.

A popular President can get away with almost anything, hence there has been little criticism regarding Mr. Eisenhower's shuttle airplane service between office and farm. But if he should begin to slip in public favor, his enemies would be on him like a duck on a junebug.

The Shadow

Bulganin To Wage Desperate Battle To Preserve Communism At Geneva Parley

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

At Geneva Marshal Nikolai Alexandrovich Bulganin will be fighting a desperate and perhaps decisive battle to save world communism from decay and ruin.

The Western world, led by the United States, is within reach of an historic victory. It may be slow and unspectacular in developing, but it can mean there is hope for a real and lasting peace.

The silent ally of the West in all this is the ordinary, everyday Ivan, the John Smith of Russia.

Bulganin, strictly a political general, personifies the dilemma of the general staff of communism. At Geneva, Bulganin cannot attack without solidifying the free world's resistance to the Soviet Union. He cannot retreat without the danger of hastening communism's decay as a global conspiracy.

Bulganin will not be his own master. Nikita S. Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist boss, will be looking over one shoulder, representing the fears and ambitions of world communism. Looking over the other will be Ivan, the man largely responsible for bringing about this summit meeting.

Communism is in a pickle. The U.S.S.R. is its ideological anchor, its Mecca, its nerve center. It may lose that anchor as one of the long range results of the Geneva conference. The bloodless revolution under way in the Soviet Union can spell the beginning of its end as a monolithic world political force.

The United States seems to be proceeding on the assumption the Russians' recent moves are forced, and that they are truly anxious to talk about arms reduction. That is a good guess, and Ivan seems to be behind it.

Khrushchev seems indignant at the idea Moscow moves sprang from sheer necessity. But Ivan, along with a rising generation of impatient young Soviet technocrats, had much to do with forcing Khrushchev's hand. Ivan is a patriot, but he has little in common with revolutionary Bolshevism and little memory of it. The old Bolsheviks are dying out. Before long Ivan and his generation will be ruling the U.S.S.R.

This Russian common man has the biggest stake of all in the Geneva conference. If there is to be any attention to his particular problems, there must be relief from the awful waste of a military and totally regimented economy.

The course of Soviet policy in two post-Stalin years has reflected growing concern with what Ivan has been thinking and dreaming. At last, in an iron dictatorship, Ivan's voice is becoming powerful. To understand that it is necessary to review events of the last two years:

Stalin, who could push all buttons at once and control every aspect of Soviet life, died March 5, 1953. Nobody was big enough to succeed him. By common consent, in a form of self protection, his heirs formed a "collective leadership." Times were uneasy. A sharp struggle for power was a certainty. Those who ruled had to woo the widest support.

The collective under Premier Georgi Malenkov promised many things. Within two or three years, it told Ivan, there would be an ample supply of good things for the people—refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, good radio and television sets, good clothing and shoes, no more food shortages.

For the first time the Soviet leadership took a frank look at its economy. Even by Soviet accounts it was sadly laggard in a modern world.

This was not going to be changed overnight, nor was it going to be changed without sacrificing some of Stalin's concentration on "heavy production. But the Soviet public accepted the promises with enthusiasm. I was there at the time, and in various parts of the country heard the statement:

"Watch us. We have a new government, now."

But the situation posed a dilemma. With less tension, Soviet rulers could tend these home Communism, a dynamic movement, could stagnate in an atmosphere of peace.

The Malenkov regime walked a tightrope, trying to keep the heavy industry sector intact while pushing the consumer program.

The tightrope broke. Malenkov tumbled from the premiership. Khrushchev took charge. The leaders recognized that the program of broad concessions to the consumer had to be modified, or the heavy industry side would suffer. Suddenly and sharply the Soviet Union—and after it all the satellites—veered back to Stalin-like program of all for heavy industry.

The reversal, however, was far from complete. There can be no turning back to total Stalinism. Today internal Soviet propaganda has the sound of pleading rather than ordering, apologizing rather than condemning. Admissions of official failure are frequent, like the words of politicians promising to reform.

The background theme is constant: The U.S.S.R. is not weak, but strong; its moves spring not from fear but a will for peace.

The Communist press compares Malenkov's errors in supporting light industry to the sins of Stalin's enemies—but Malenkov remains near the helm. Whatever else Malenkov might have done, in the first months after Stalin's death he made himself a symbol of Ivan's hopes for a fuller life.

It is Malenkov's position which reflects a delicate balance between two forces in Soviet politics, and it seems to be this balance that makes the Soviet military rise greatly in influence. The Army is very much in evidence at the Soviet summit now, and its leaders strike me as highly conservative, unwilling to take long risks with the Soviet economy, unwilling to be seduced into a conflict that might be lost. The Soviet military is mighty, but its lines are long, its borders far flung, and it exudes caution.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Climax! (WCBS-TV) which often offers superior entertainment, raised an interesting question last Thursday evening in presenting "Wild Stallion,' a drama based on a William Faulkner story called "Knight's Gambit." The question: on what basis are some stories selected for translation into the medium of television?

"Wild Stallion" concerned a fortune-hunting heel (Paul Henreid) who is engaged to a rich girl (Evelyn Keye) while dallying with a poor girl (Kathleen Crowley) who is engaged to his fiancee's brother (Richard Long). Then he learns his fiancee's widowed mother (Mary Astor) really controls the money, so he drops both girls and makes a play for the receptive mother. (These summaries always are rough, but let's press on.)

The son, enraged by the carrying on of both his girl and his mother, buys a killer stallion and puts him in the stable so that he'll attack the heel at the climactic moment. When the stallion is about to kick the heel to death, the poor girl rushes in and saves his life. The heel is so touched by this gesture that he vows to turn over a new leaf and clinches with the poor girl. Fadeout. Switch to the rich widow's household where all is gloom and the widow says, "it's been a mistake."

Well, yes, it was. But what made this drama—at least to one viewer—a mistake?

Faulkner, with his strong sense of atmosphere and complexity of themes, almost defies translation from prose into television. "Knight's ambit" is far from being one of his best stories; one could name a half-dozen that are superior. Yet, in thinking them over, one can see their themes involve matters which TV should: various forms of decadence; emotional conflict between Negro and white; internal turmoil difficult to dramatize. . .

The high reputation of an original writer does not necessarily make a good television drama. The author's reputation is no basis for choosing a story. The story must play well when it comes before the cameras.

"THE SARDINES ARE NOT RUNNING SO GOOD TODAY!"

Nation Has Witnessed Social Revolution Since Depression Days Of The 'Thirties'

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Less than 25 years ago, legions of Americans were walking in the valley of despair through the great depression. Millions were jobless. The future was bleak and uncertain for a country known as "the land of promise."

Today, the United States is prospering. Wages are good. The despair of the '30s is only a bad memory. And forces now are pressing hard to shape a future which will guarantee economic security for workers in their jobs and in their old age.

This surge from financial chaos toward a planned security for workers has been little less than a social revolution during the last quarter of a century—a revolution which had its beginning in private industry, was pushed forward by the New Deal of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and then expenaded by big labor unions.

Behind the move is the age-old yearning of people for security from hunger and want. Behind it too is a growing acceptance of the idea that business and government have a moral obligation as well as a financial stake in the workers' welfare — a responsibility that goes beyond the actual wages paid for work done.

Some people view the goal of economic security as a pie-in-the-sky illusion, a sort of welfare state mirage which eventually will shackle business with unbearable costs.

Some question whether the American system can provide workers and their families with high and higher wages, shorter work hours, health and welfare benefits, paid vacations, higher unemployment compensation, and old age pensions without an eventual collapse and return to chaos.

But despite forebodings from some quarters the tide of the times is running in favor of more —not less-security for active and retired workers. The question no longer is whether this is the road the nation will follow, but how far down this road it will go.

This fact was heavily underlined when those two giants of the automotive world, Ford and General Motors, agreed to pay their workers increased unemployment compensation in addition to vested pension rights and other benefits.

In effect, the two companies accepted the principle that they have a continuing financial responsibility to their employes when those workers, through no fault of their own, are laid off and are idle in slack production periods.

The agreement calls for the companies to guarantee unemployed workers from 60 to 65 per cent of their take-home pay up to 26 weeks each year beginning June 1, 1956.

The companies agreed to pay 5 cents an hour for each worker into a fund which will be used to supplement state unemployment compensation of laid-off workers.

This agreement is a long way from the guaranteed full annual wage demanded by the CIO United Auto Workers. But it has established in mass production industry acceptance of the principle of employer responsibility for the unemployed above and beyond existing jobless pay.

How far this plan will spread through industry no one can say. But it is certain to be pushed by the labor unions in the big industries.

Some critics have called the so-called guaranteed wage plan "creeping socialism." To this criticism, Henry Ford II has said:

"A lot of people call everthing we do 'creeping socialism.' They called social security that and they called pensions that. I don't really know what socialism is. If the critics will define the term, I'll tell them whether I think this is creeping socialism. . . .

"We have to keep up with the times . . ."

The Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics has found that since 1890 more than 340 plans have been adopted which guaranteed wages for three months or longer—and more than 190 of them still were operating in 1946. But these plans were in relatively small companies.

The great wave of pressure for job security and old age and unemployment protection came with the depression which wiped out financial security for millions as banks closed, businesses failed and industry creaked almost to a halt.

Twenty years ago there were only about six million workers who could look forward to old age pensions and most of these were protected only because their employers voluntarily gave them this security.

A study of pensions for the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report says:

"An important part of the demand for pensions has arisen because many employers have felt that it is good business to have an orderly method of retiring older employees who have passed peak efficiency. Until recently, pension plans have been established primarily on the initiative of employers. It seemed inhuman to discharge without income those who had worked long and well for a company. Moreover, such a procedure was detrimental to the morale of the remaining employes and hurt the good will of the employer in the community."

Virtually all of the early pension plans were discretionary—to be given or withheld at the discretion of the employer. The employer paid all premiums, and the benefits thus actually amounted to a form of gift.

But then political, economic and moral pressures shifted emphasis to greater security. Congress enacted laws requiring in 1937 that millions of workers and their employers contribute to an old age retirement fund; the jobless pay program was set up. And thus the federal government's vast social security system went into effect. It now covers most workers outside the field of agriculture.

Today about 5 million workers or roughly 90 per cent of the nation's work force can look forward to federal, state or private retirement payments, or a combination of payments. All the 48 states cooperate with the federal government in the unemployment compensation program. Somewhere near 100 million people have some protection under voluntary health and hospitalization programs.

In addition, most companies provide some type of life, health or other insurance paid for either wholly or in part by the employer. Paid vacations and holidays are being increased. Emphasis has grown on health and welfare programs. For example, the United Mine Workers of America will open a series of hospitals in coal areas this fall to provide miners with good and cheap medical care.

Big labor unions in recent years have helped to spread the coverage of pensions and health and welfare benefits by making them issues in collective bargaining. These benefits have become workers' "rights" as much as the 40-hour week and extra pay for overtime.

How far can this security for American workers, particularly, the field of jobless pay, be extended?

Henry Ford II touched on this point recently when he said: "We don't want to reach the point where a fellow would be just as happy to loaf and draw unemployment compensation as he would to work. It could wind up the right way or the wrong way. That is one thing we have to watch."

Ford reflected misgivings that unemployment pay possibly could become so attractive as to have the effect of reducing the work force, thus cutting back production.

On the other side, almost 20 years of experience have shown that unemployment compensation reduces the economic shock on a community during periods of recession. The payments provide buying power that, even on a reduced scale, can keep business running. As in the case of pensioned workers, the jobless do not become economic ciphers during the period it takes them to get back to work.

To the economists, the answer to continued progress toward security lies largely in whether or not American industry continues to grow and prosper.

Actually, the percentage of the gross national product paid in wages has remained fairly constant over the years despite labor's successful drive for higher wages in recent times. The percentage has run about 5 per cent.

But even though the percentage paid in wages has remained steady the workers' income has increased because the gross national product has climbed in the past 25 years from 104 billion dollars to more than 365 billion. Some economists predict that in another 10 years it will climb above the 500 billion mark.

In 25 years, prices have risen steadily but average personal incomes also have climbed—from $700 per person to about $1,800. The nation's work force has increased in this period from 51 millions to more than 63 millions. Even with work hours cut by 10 per cent on a man-hour basis, the man-hour production increase has averaged more than 2 per cent a year.

Some economists think continued intensive research and development may make it possible for workers by 1965 to increase man-hour output by almost 40 per cent, thus bringing more leisure and even better pay. The key to such achievement lies in an increased volume of production.

As the economy has grown, pressures have increased for a greater cloak of security around workers and their families, with perhaps the greatest emphasis being placed upon existing pension benefits.

Hotel Owner Attracts Congress With Pictures

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — As a play to the ego of the lawmakers who dine at his hotel on Capitol Hill, manager James B. Morris, World War II Air Force Colonel, is hanging their photographs in a corridor he calls the Halls of Congress.

The corridor of the hotel, built in 1948 behind the Old House Office Building, leads to the Filibuster Room (the bar), the Caucus Room (main dining room) and the Veto, Committee and Presidential private dining rooms. Morris asked all the members for autographed photographs, and all complied, except Rep. Thurmond Chatham (D-NC), though some of the solons made it clear they didn't want their likenesses hung in the Filibuster Room.

About 40 members occupy the studio-type suites on the two floors of the 200-room hotel that are set aside for them while Congress is in session. These include Reps. Martin Dies (D-Tex), Cecil Harden (R-Ind) and John L. Pilcher (D-Ga).

Daily Caucus Room menus feature such items as the Congressman's Steak. A prime favorite of U.S. congressmen. It's a 12-ounce prime sirloin steak served with french-fried potatoes, a mixed green salad and coffee.

Girls Are Going To Glitter And Like It, Stylists Say

By INEZ ROBB

Today's discourse opens with a revamp of one of the oldest Joe Millers in the book. It concerns the two gentlemen who meet on a street corner. The first one says:

"Who was that Christmas tree I seen you with last night?"

And the second one replies, "That wasn't no Christmas tree; that was my wife!"

This will give you some idea of how the American woman is going to look during the coming fall and winter. Seventh Avenue, in New York City, heart of the nation's garment industry, is on a splendor bender. Nothing is too good, lavish or ornate for us gals.

A survey of the garment industry, convinces me that in the coming season I shall resemble a cross between Diamond Lil and King Solomon. There won't be a plain Jane left in the nation. Even Mother Hubbards are being restyled in cloth of gold and aprons in brocaded velvet.

I don't know what has gotten into Seventh Avenue. But on that street every night is Saturday night. And the American woman is going to glitter and like it, since the autumn and winter fashions are already designed, signed, sealed and ready for delivery.

At the moment, every showroom on the avenue is jammed with buyers from out of town who are ordering like crazy. The garment industry is deliriously happy in the midst of the biggest season in ages. (And this is the industry that claims it enjoys five seasons: spring, summer, autumn, winter and slack.)

Rich, opulent, lush and bedizened are some of the words best suited to describe what Jane Derby, Mollie Parnis, Ceil Chapman, Ben Zuckerman, Suzy Perette, Fira Benenson, Vera Maxwell, Leo Ritter, et al, have cooked up for winter wear.

Of course, there is more to fashion than looking like a neon sign. It may be of some interest to note that the designers are agreed that fashion interest has skidded south from the bosom to the hips. (So don't argue, Joe! I'm only repeating what the experts say.)

Hips are so important that if a woman is lucky enough to own a diamond brooch, she must fasten it to the thigh rather than the collar-bone next winter. (Again, I am only repeating—)

And if she also owns a diamond necklace, she wears it backward, since the fashionable neckline will be high in front and slashed to the sacroiliac in the rear. (No kidding!)

Oh, yes: so whatever became of the A-line? Well, it has been put to American uses, or in the gobbledegook of fashionese, "the smartest silhouette is the high, round bosom and the low, round hip (two to a customer, I hope!) with an indentation at the natural waistline.

This is called the new tree-trunk silhouette because it is straight and slim most of the way, with just a little spread at the bottom of the tree, that is. Stenographer's spread is unthinkable with this long, slender line.

In this rich, lush year ahead, mink is just something to be used for lining a vicuna coat ($10,000 per copy) and sequins outline the neck of long underwear.

It is only too, too true that all that glitters today isn't gold. It's girls.

'Tea Industry Makes Gain In America

By STEVEN V. DAVID
(For SAM DAWSON)

NEW YORK (AP)—The American habit of reaching for a glass of iced-tea when the weather's hot is helping the tea industry achieve a long-sought goal: a more important place at the American table.

The industry has been fighting for years for a larger share of the market in this nation of coffee drinkers. The figures indicate the battle is being won. Imports of tea last year came to nearly 116 million pounds — a gain of some 30 million pounds since the end of World War II.

A good part of this increase may be attributed to iced tea. Restaurant sales of iced tea have soared 250 per cent in the last five years, and the nation's total iced tea consumption has risen to some 10 billion glasses a year.

In the South, one large tea firm reports more iced tea is drunk than hot tea.

All-Star Game Set Tonight

The Tri-Service baseball team, who won the first half of the City League schedule with a 9-3 record, will try to beat an aggregation composed of the best men from the three other teams of the league tonight at 8 o'clock.

The league champions beat each of the other teams at least two times in working their way to the top place. Their three losses came at the hands of the Tigers (9-4) and Sun Oil (3-2 and 2-1).

Don Ballard, Sun pitcher who has been chosen to be one of the All-Star pitchers, is the only pitcher to have won more than one game over the league winners.

A comparison of the batting and pitching averages of the Tri-Service and All-Star teams shows that the league winner stands pretty strong even against the hand-picked All-Star team.

Ballard has worked in 12 games for Sun Oil, amassing a 6-5 record in 75 and one-third innings. He has allowed 72 hits while striking out 75 and walking 20. Bill Voss has gained a 2-2 record while pitching in seven games for Hermleigh. He has allowed 29 hits while striking out 49 and walking 49 in 42 and one-third innings of play.

Charles Epperson, the top Tri-Service pitcher, has gained a 3-0 record after working in four games. He has permitted 12 hits, while striking out 28 and walking 11 in 19 and one-third innings. Berman Corbell has thrown in three games for Tri-Service, giving up nine hits, fanning 33 and walking 12 in 18 innings.

Bob Parker will manage the All - Stars, assisted by coaches Speedy Moffett and A. E. Sturdivant. The game is scheduled to go nine innings.

Officials are expected to rearrange the schedule for the second half, playing more than the previous two games a week.

Race Looking Tighter In Texas Loop

By The Associated Press

There was a glimmer of hope Tuesday that the Texas League race will be reduced from a threatened runaway to a dog fight to the wire.

The field was closer to leading Dallas than any time within the past month. Especially was San Antonio, right now the hottest club in the circuit.

The onrushing Missions whipped Beaumont 5-3 Monday night for their seventh straight victory and their 15th in the last 18 to move within 4½ games of the slightly stumbling Eagles.

Dallas lost its second game in the last four as Fort Worth finally halted the drive toward 30 victories of John (Red) Murff, the great Dallas righthander. The Cats, who lost a doubleheader to the Eagles Sunday, struck back with a 3-2 decision, beating Murff, who was seeking his 21st victory.

Murff was just flat out-pitched by Carroll Beringer. The Cat hurler stilled the erstwhile booming bats of the Eagles with a 4-hitter.

Mel Held also hurled a 4-hitter in elbowing San Antonio to victory over Beaumont. It was his 15th decision of the season. San Antonio again came from behind, punching four runs across on three hits in the third inning. Stan Hollmig made the lead safe with a home run in the sixth.

Tulsa and Houston stayed in third and fourth places respectively. Tulsa licked Oklahoma City 8-2 with Norman Camp pitching a 6-hitter, while the Oilers slammed Al Papai and Al Olsen for 15.

Houston split a doubleheader with fifth-place Shreveport. The Sports won the first game 7-1, pushing across all their runs in the fifth inning, while Ray Knoblauch and Fred Martin allowed the Buffs only five hits. In the nightcap Houston powered to a 6-3 decision.

Lubbock Cuts Pampa Leadership In Loop

The Associated Press

Lubbock came from behind to score an 8-7 10-inning decision over leading Pampa in the West Texas-New Mexico League last night.

That defeat, combined with rain-enforced inactivity by Albuquerque, trimmed Pampa's lead to only three and a half games over the idle Dukes. Albuquerque had been scheduled to play in Clovis.

In other games, Abilene advanced to a share of fourth place with Plainview in stopping the Pones 6-3, while Amarillo racked up its fourth straight victory with an 18-8 rout of El Paso.

The clubs switch around tonight with Abilene at Abarillo, Lubbock at El Paso, Pampa at Albuquerque and Plainview at Clovis.

Leaders Still Win In Little League

The leaders of the two Little Leagues strutted their stuff and showed their power last night as they continued to dominate the league.

The American Legion Yankees handed the Trinity Methodist White Sox a 12-1 beating last night in a game that ended in the fourth because of the Yank's 11-point lead. In the second game, the Rotary Cardinals overpowered the Giants 18-2, gathering 12 runs in one inning.

Jackie White led off for the White Sox with a single the only hit his team was able to get in the game. Charles White scored the lone run in the second, when he got on by an error and came in when three other men walked.

The Yankees went to bat only three times, but they were able to gain the 10-point lead necessary to call the game in the fourth inning. Jerry Guthrie, Yank lead-off man, walked and came in on an error to score the first Yankee run. John Weaver singled and was brought in by Lane McKinney for the second.

Their second bat saw the Yanks bat around, gathering six runs on four hits. Spencer Dyer got a double, followed by three men who walked, giving him a score the easy way and loading the ba... Then Richard Samuelson cashed in with a base-loaded home run.

John Weaver was the winning pitcher, having pitched the first three innings to allow one hit and one run, and to strike out six and walk three. Samuelson relieved him and pitched the final inning, striking out the first three men.

Davis, the loser, pitched two innings, giving up five hits and eight runs and walking six. Ronnie Moroney relieved him for the final round.

The Cardinals played it cool until the fifth inning, gathering only six points before that, but then caught fire to drive in 12 runs in the final frame.

The Giants capitalized on a walk, an error and a couple of wild pitches to bring in their two runs in the third.

David Kee, the Card lead-off man, scored four runs off two hits and two walks. Jimmy Robinson, the catcher, also got four on two hits, including a bases-loaded homer, and Galen Prather came in for three counters.

John Koonsman was the winning pitcher. He pitched all five innings, striking out 10, walking three, permitting two hits and giving up two runs.

Jesse Crawford lost for the Giants, fanning five, walking six and giving up 18 runs on 10 hits.

The other members of each league will tangle tonight. The Indians take on the Athletics and the Cubs go after the Braves.

Bonus Rule Problems Are Still Talked

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Major league baseball players want to clamp down on bonus babies, but their suggestion of a limit of two to a club appears doomed.

The player representatives of the American and National leagues huddled yesterday and agreed that a pair of bonus players, carried beyond the usual 25-player limit, was the way to solve a perplexing big league problem.

But although club owners concede the bonus policy is something of a bear they have caught by the tail, the sentiment is against such a restriction as advanced by the players.

The present rule requires any bonus player—one signed for more than $4,000 yearly salary—to remain with the parent club for two years before minor league assignment.

Baseball authorities agree generally that compelling a bonus youngsters to ride a major league bench for two years with little chance of competition is unfair both to the player and to the club.

Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phils pitcher, expressed the view as National League player representative that the bonus system also was unfair to veteran players.

"The players feel that the bonus setup is shoving too many veteran players out of jobs without actually replacing them," said Roberts, who yesterday was re-elected to a two-year term as his loop's player representative.

However, National League President Warren Giles and Frank Lane, White Sox general manager, said in rebuttal that the player proposal took the teeth out of the present bonus restriction.

"The idea is to discourage promiscuous signing of bonus players, and putting even two in the same category as returning servicemen beyond the 25-player limit defeats the purpose of the bonus rule," said Lane.

Bob Feller, veteran Cleveland Indians pitcher, was named the American League player representative for two years.

Artesia Trying To Gain On San Angelo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Artesia, pressing front-running San Angelo, has a doubleheader on with Carlsbad tonight and is looking for a chance to gain still more ground on the Longhorn League leaders.

Artesia picked up a half game last night when its match with Carlsbad was rained out and San Angelo lost to Big Spring 4-3. That left Artesia just a game and a half back.

In other games, last place Hobbs mounted an 18-hit attack—for the second straight night—to whip Roswell's Rockets 11-6, and Midland clubbed Odessa 8-1 behind Russ Agne's good pitching.

The teams all stay in the same locations tonight.

Corpus Team Almost At Top Of Big State

The Associated Press

Corpus Christi's Clippers have become just as awesome in the second half as they were the first in the Big State League race.

They won their seventh straight game last night and in the surge have scored 74 runs.

Yet Texas City still clung to the top of the league as the Texans took their fourth straight with a 6-3 decision over Waco. But only 23 percentage points separate Corpus Christi and Texas City.

Pony League Stars Take Shutout Win

The Snyder All-Stars from the Pony League tasted victory for the first time last night as they shut-out the Hamlin All - Stars 4-0 in a practice game.

A change has been made in the week's schedule of practice games as it was previously announced. The All-Stars are slated to go to Sweetwater tonight to meet their All-St : team on the Sportman's Park there at 8 p.m. The return match with Hamlin announced for tonight has been rescheduled for Saturday night, Forrest Beavers, president of the league, said.

Four pitchers got into the show for the home - town team and each contributed to the no-run, no-hit game last night. Terry Lee pitched the first two innings and held his opponents scoreless, but Johnny Griggs, who relieved him in the third, was credited with the win, for it was during his regime that the first and winning runs were scored.

Norman Gladson took over in the fifth and went two innings before Dick Hayes moved in and finished the game.

Neither team was able to score until the fourth inning when Barry Walker opened the frame with a none-on homer. Neal Boyd followed with a double and Jerry Fleming and Hayes with singles, bringing in three runs.

The final counter came in the fifth when Richard Mahan singled, made it to third on an ever-thrown ball and was sent home when the umpire called a balk on the pitcher.

The four Snyder hurlers struck out a total of 15 batters. Lee got three, Griggs five, Gladson four and Hayes three. The first three pitchers threw two innings each, and Hays one.

Charles Green was the losing pitcher. He went three innings to strike out five, walk none and give up six hits. Ed Shields took over in the fourth to finish the game.

Managers Ready For Clash Of All-Stars

By JOE REICHLER

MILWAUKEE (AP)—"To win is the thing . . . no matter whose feelings are hurt.

"I'd like to get everybody into the game," added Leo Durocher, the National League's manager in today's 22nd annual All-Star clash, but if it will weaken my team, I won't do it."

Durocher's sentiments were echoed by Al Lopez although the American League pilot did not utter them so emphatically.

"I'll play the best men I've got and substitute only when I think it will help us win," he said.

Neither pilot would venture any prediction on the outcome although each declared his squad represented "the greatest collection of stars any manager has ever been blessed with."

Durocher, who earlier had bypassed Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn, then the National League's leading hitter, "because I need more right-handed hitting strength," surprisingly said he may not even use Willie Mays, his own center field ace.

"Remember what they called Joe McCarthy?" he asked. "A push-button manager. Wasn't it Well, that's what I'll be—a push-botton manager. Can you imagine, sending out your first team and then looking down and seeing two powerhouse like Stan Musial and Mays on the bench?

"I'll get Musial in there as soon as the rules permit me (after three innings)," Leo added. "I'll have him in left field. But I may not use Willie at all if I don't have to. I don't know. It all depends on how the game goes."

Durocher reflected for a moment and apparently reconsidered: "If I do put Willie in, it will be in center and move Duke Snider to right. If not, I'll send Henry Aaron to right. I won't lose a thing because that kid is one of the best hitters in the league."

Although he professed an utter disdain for sentiment, Durocher was swayed by sentiment alone when he nominated Robin (13-7) Roberts, Philadelphia's ace right-hander, as his opening pitcher. His original choice was Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's 14-1 right-hander, but he switched to Roberts when he was informed that it would be Roberts' fifth start, tying him with Lefty Gomez for the All-Star record.

Lopez, too, exercised the last-minute switch privilege when he decided to open up with Billy Pierce, Chicago's fine left-hander, after first deciding upon Early (11-4) Wynn, his own right-handed ace.

"I know that Pierce's record (5-6) does not look good on paper," Lopez said, "but it's misleading. Three of his defeats were by 1-0 scores, two by Cleveland. We beat him by that score last Friday but he looked great in defeat."

The odds still favored the National Leaguers who have won but eight of the previous 21 games despite four of the last five.

Rematch Is Being Sought By DeMarco

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Bloodied Brooklyn billygoat Paddy DeMarco today bellowed for a rematch with top-ranked Ralph Dupas, of New Orleans, and claimed he was the victim of a "mother's decision."

The former lightweight champion was ruled the loser in a unanimous 10-round decision last night.

"What do I think of him?" DeMarco fumed in his dressing room "I think he's nothing, that's what I think. He misses a jab and the crowd goes crazy. What kind of a shake is that?"

"Talk about your hometown decisions, this was a mother's decision. I beat him easier than I did last time," the stubby battler said, referring to his 10-round decision over Dupas in January 1954.

DeMarco held a slight advantage going into the seventh round, mainly by pinning Dupas against the ropes and chopping with an effective right hand.

But from the seventh round on, Dupas, No. 1 contender for Bud Smith's lightweight crown, began to score repeatedly at long range. He cut DeMarco's right eyebrow, which spurted blood until the end of the fight and seemed to hamper the Brooklyn battler.

Dupas weighed 138½, DeMarco 140.

Pirates Set Tryout Camp At Ballinger

The Pittsburgh Pirates will conduct a tryout camp at Ballinger, July 20 and 21, with sessions to be held at the Ballinger baseball field daily at 9 A.M.

The camp will be under the direction of Pittsburgh Pirates scout Buddy Hancken. Hancken will be assisted by Bill Moore.

Players must be at least 16 years of age to be eligible to attend, and are expected to furnish their own baseball shoes, uniforms and gloves with the Pirates furnishing all other equipment. Players will also be responsible for their traveling and living expenses, with the understanding that all expenses will be reimbursed to those signed to contracts with Pittsburgh organization clubs.

Turncoats Still Evasive Even After Free Drinks, Cigarettes

By DAVID J. ROADS

HONG KONG (AP)—I took the three American turncoats out for $40 worth of drinks Sunday night in a round of dance halls.

I agree with one of them, 22-year-old Lewis W. Griggs, that they "aren't very smart." But what else they are I couldn't say.

I spent their first evening of freedom with Griggs, William A. Cowart and Otho G. Bell in the line of duty, hoping they would reveal more than they had in evasive answers during the news conference following their arrival in Hong Kong yesterday.

Helped along by mambo music, double scotches, beer, Manhattans and plenty of American cigarettes, they appeared to talk freely. But they committed themselves on little.

All three kept repeating that things were hell in Red China.

Cowart, 23, of Dalton, Ga., was anxious to line up some "quick cash" and also talked vaguely about contacts with an anti-Communist underground in China.

Bell, 24, of Hillsboro, Miss., kept repeating that he couldn't wait to "see that beautiful little daughter of mine." The child, Paula, now 4, was born after he was sent to Korea. Her mother is working at a military base near Olympia, Wash.

Griggs, of Jacksonville, Tex., reckoned they had "outsmarted the Reds in getting out."

Griggs sat silently at first, sipping Coca-Colas and then switching to beer. Suddenly he turned to me and said:

"You know we aren't very smart. But I feel positive we outsmarted the Reds in getting out. I'm convinced our case was dealt with by no less than Mao Tze-tung himself.

"They never knew exactly how to handle us after we started acting up," he continued. "We aren't too smart, but we forced the top boys in the Communist government to handle our case. Boy, that makes me feel we accomplished something."

All three asked about the trials of Edward S. Dickenson and Claude Batchelor, two other Korean POW's who changed their minds earlier about staying with the Communists and were turned back to the U.N. Command in Korea. They said they had heard the two men were free, awaiting another trial. Both actually are in prison after being convicted of collaborating with the enemy, Batchelor on a 20-year sentence and Dickenson for a 10-year term.

As he had been at the news conference, Cowart was the leader of the group. Bell and Griggs frequently looked to him for guidance. Finally Cowart brought the conversation around to money.

"Look, we have to pick up some quick cash before we land in the States," he said. "Have you any suggestions?"

After a brief silence, he began asking for offers:

"I have plenty to tell and will tell if I'm paid. What's it worth for our stories — individually or all three?"

When no offer was forthcoming, Cowart brought out his cloak and dagger story. He maintained he had underground contacts in Red China among "people who worked against the government" — White Russians, Japanese, overseas Chinese who had returned to the mainland and other dissatisfied persons, he said.

As the hours rolled on and the drinks went down, the talk boiled down to usual barroom chatter — sports, movie stars and sex. Finally everybody was yawning and I picked up the check.

Army Seeks 'Buddy Team' From Snyder

The U. S. Army recruiting station in Snyder is looking for a three-man "buddy team" from this area to become members of one of the top U. S. Army units in the world and serve and travel Europe together under "Operation Gyroscope," it was announced here by M-Sgt. John L. Freeman of Abilene Recruiting Station.

The three men enlisted under the buddy system will be sent to Camp Chaffee, Ark., for approximately a week of processing, then will be sent directly to Fort Knox, Ky., to join the 3rd Armored Division for basic training before sailing for Europe. These men will remain together throughout their tour of duty.

Sgt. Freeman explained that he isn't looking for "just anybody" to fill this buddy team. Applicants must be prepared to pass a series of tests that will determine their fitness, both mentally and physically. Those that make the grade and measure up to the standards of service in the Armored Corps, will be enlisted with the guarantee that they will become members of the 3rd Armored Division, scheduled to move to Europe in the near future under "Operation Gyroscope."

Together, the three - man team will arrive in Europe with their unit and be treated to such sights as Berlin, Paris, Rome and other European cities in their travels both on and off duty. Upon completion of their oversea tour, the buddy team will return to the United States and may choose to remain in the service, spending the next 31 months in the U.S.

Those wishing to apply may contact Sgt. Freeman at the Court House in Snyder between 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. each Wednesday.

Red To See Shakespeare Performance

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP)—Shakespeare comes to Stratford tonight and a Russian newspaperman and his wife have State Department permission to attend the festivities.

Secretary of State Dulles, in a formal note to the Soviet Embassy, yesterday made an exception to the ban on Soviet travel in restricted areas of the United States, including all of Connecticut.

He permitted Eugene Litoshko, New York correspondent for Pravda, and his wife to spend "several days" at the celebration of the American Shakespeare Festival Theater and Academy.

Tonight the festival dedicates its striking million-dollar octagonal playhouse and follows with a first night performance of "Julius Caesar."

Dulles responded to a Soviet Embassy request that in this case he waive travel restrictions imposed last January. He expressed hope that Soviet officials would use "equal liberality" in meeting requests of American newsmen to visit Russian areas which are closed to them.

"I am pleased to cover this event and write about it," said Litoshko, who was permitted to travel 60 miles by train from New York to Stratford today and return several days later by the same means.

The weekly Bridgeport Sunday Herald invited Pravda to send a correspondent.

Harvey Katz, assistant managing editor, said:

"We hope it will contribute to a lessening of international tensions. We hope that the Russians will extend similar courtesies to American newsmen in the Soviet Union."

Dr. Sheppard Bid For New Trial Fails

CLEVELAND (AP)—A three-judge Appellate Court today refused Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, 31, a new trial on the basis of error in the 10-week trial which ended Dec. 21 with his conviction for second degree murder in the bludgeon death of his wife, Marilyn, last July 4.

"The defendant in this case has been afforded a fair trial by an impartial jury, and in this court's opinion substantial justice has been done," the Appellate Court ruling said.

The action ruled groundless a contention by the osteopath's attorneys there were 3 assignments of error in his long trial.

The three judges, Lee E. Skeel, Julius M. Kovachy and Joy Seth Hurd, indicated they would not rule until next week on a second motion by Sheppard for a new trial.

The second motion is based on defense claims of "newly discovered evidence" which centers on testimony by Dr. Paul L. Kirk, professor of criminalistics at the University of California, Berkeley, Calif.

Should the Court of Appeals hold against Sheppard on this second and final motion, he would be removed from Cuyahoga County Jail to Ohio Penitentiary to begin serving a life term to which he was sentenced. Since last July 30 he has been in the County Jail, and the time served has not counted toward the life sentence. Under Ohio law Sheppard will be eligible for parole consideration after serving 10 years.

In their 69-page opinion, written by Judge Skeel, the Appellate Court held that Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin, who presided at the murder trial, "was fully justified in overruling a new trial motion" when it was filed in his court earlier this year.

William J. Corrigan, chief defense counsel, had contended "prejudicial" newspaper, television and radio coverage of the case had made a fair hearing in this county impossible.

"We have given full consideration to the sufficiency of the evidence as supporting the verdict in this case," the appellate judges held.

Army Has No Plans To Scatter Posts More Widely In U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has told sharply critical congressmen it has no plans to scatter its posts more widely in this country as a precaution against atomic warfare.

Rep. Riley (D-SC) said this might invite a "major disaster."

This was disclosed today with the release of testimony given secretly June 20 before a House Appropriations subcommittee which is consideing this year's two-billion-dollar military public works budget.

Under questioning, retiring Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens said the Army's "planning for the modern atomic age takes the form" of new dispersal tactics in combat, "rather than any major change in the installations themselves."

"You do not regard a major change in the installations as being too urgent?" asked subcommitte Chairman Mahon (D-Tex).

"Well," Stevens replied, "I think that it so happens that we have a pretty well dispersed Army training and permanent base system throughout the country.

"It is more concentrated in some parts of the country than others, but by and large it is pretty well distributed."

But Riley called for a "new look" into these plans.

"If you concentrate too many troops in any one point, you are inviting, in my opinion, a major disaster."

Rep. Sikes (D - Fla) said the Army's program means "a continuation of the old policy of stacking all facilities together—where enemy bombers could get to them easily."

Col. W. R. Shuler, chief of the Construction Division, said "I would not for a moment argue the point that it would not be better to be spread out from the standpoint of the weapons that exist today," adding:

"But the tremendous cost involved and the acute training problems caused by dispersal are factors to consider."

Report General Issues Challenge To Commies

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—An official newspaper here quoted Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr. as saying the American and Chinese Nationalist air forces would give the Chinese Communists a bloody nose if they dared to invade Formosa.

The China Daily News said the commander of the U.S. air task force in Formosa made this assertion in an exclusive interview.

It quoted Davis as saying his task force, the Nationalist air force and the U.S. 7th Fleet were "checking like a ball team."

Comanche Man Taking Greenbacks Out Of Poor Uranium Dirt

COMANCHE, Tex. (AP)—Jesse F. Reese is taking greenbacks out of some very poor uranium dirt these days. At first he was reluctant, but now he's gotten rid of his dairy herd to make room for the old folks.

He charges people $2 for the privilege of sitting in his uranium dirt for two hours. About 150 a day pay for room to sit. It once took Reese a considerable amount of milking to get that sort of money from his cows.

Reese discovered uranium on his farm two years ago, but not in commercial quantities. He forgot the matter.

Last September a stranger asked Reese if he could sit in his ditch. Seems he'd been taking radiation treatments for pains for rheumatism and thought he could get some help from the ditch while visiting Comanche relatives.

Reese told him to go ahead. The word spread. Soon sitters were trampling his fields and leaving gates open.

Reese thought he'd stop that bother. He declared anyone could sit in his dirt for $2 for 2 hours. He built a shed big enough for six persons to sit on benches. On the floors and behind sheetrock walls he piled dirt.

That didn't stop them. By June of this year people were standing in line. He expanded the shed to 10 times its original size. He's sold his dairy herd and will convert its barn to sitting. So he and his wife can get some rest, he's planning a 9 p.m. curfew.

HURRICANE DAMAGED STEEPLE REPLACED — A new 50-foot steeple was hoisted to the top of historic old North Church in Boston, Mass.—less than a year after it was wrecked by Hurricane Carol. It was the second restoration in the landmark's 215-year history. Russell Still Opposed To Reserve Plan

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said today "the very high brass" has not convinced him he is wrong in opposing the Pentagon's compulsory military reserve program.

"I haven't heard anything here yet to cause me to change my mind," Russell told reporters after the Senate Armed Services Committee he heads had wound up hearings on a new reserve program strongly urged by President Eisenhower.

He added he will continue to push his substitute plan to offer a $400 cash bonus to any veteran who enlists in the Army or Marine Corps ready reserves.

Russell said "I can't believe" that Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, really meant all of his testimony to the committee yesterday. Radford said "no bill at all" would be better than the House-passed measure now before the committee, particularly if revised to include Russell's bonus plan.

The bill is aimed at bringing a four-fold increase in the ready reserve by 1960. The Pentagon asked originally for authority to give a discharge other than honorable to any former servicemen who did not keep up his reserve obligations. The House voted authority to recall such men for 45 days of active duty.

Radford insisted that anything much short of the reserve program the administration seeks would force the armed services to "reorient all our national defense planning" since, he said, it is based on a strong reserve.

That, he said, would include a new look at administration plans to cut back regular military forces. He said no further major cuts are planned if Congress okays a satisfactory reserve plan.

Russell said the committee will start tomorrow in an effort to draft a bill of its own.

CLEMENTS DISCUSSES LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM — Sen. Earle C. Clements of Kentucky (left), acting majority leader in the Senate, tells Washington, D.C., reporters the Democratic leadership will push for action in this session of congress on a military reserve bill. Ike Is Urged To Keep TVA Efficiency Up

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Gov. Frank G. Clement and Citizens for TVA, Inc., both leaders in the victorious fight against the Dixon-Yates contract, have called on President Eisenhower to fulfill a campaign pledge to maintain the Tennessee Valley Authority at "maximum efficiency."

In statements issued yesterday, both also demanded the ouster of persons responsible for the contract.

"Dixon - Yates conspiracy has been beaten," Clement said. "Now let us hope the conspirators will be removed from public position and influence."

William L. Sturdevant Jr., executive director of the Citizens group, suggested the President "get rid of the people who led him into the Dixon - Yates deal" and "inform himself of TVA's benefits not only to our region but also to the nation and the free world."

The citizens statement also said the President is "still not off the hook" as far as his campaign pledge is concerned.

"Maximum efficiency is not maintained either by forcing Dixon-Yates on TVA or by forcing the municipal partners out of the system, as he is intent on doing in the case of Memphis. The course that has been forced on Memphis must not become the pattern for the whole valley."

The reference was to the decision by Memphis to build its own power plant which brought about the suspension of the Dixon-Yates contract.

A former Memphis mayor was sharply critical of the decision to build the power plant and called the decision a blow to TVA.

Watkins Overton, who is expected to seek the mayor's post again in November, said at Memphis yesterday that "for Memphis to break with TVA is exactly what its opponents would love to happen."

Concessions At Geneva Forecast

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — Diplomatic informants say the Western Big Three will offer at the Geneva summit conference to guarantee Communist Europe against aggression if the Russians agree to free elections to reunify Germany.

This, these sources reported last night, is the heart of peace proposals which experts of the three major allies now are putting in final form.

Sources here said President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Faure will ask Soviet Premier Bulganin to join them in directing their foreign ministers and lesser officials to negotiate a step-by-step settlement providing for these major achievements:

1. Reunification of Germany.
2. Formation of an East-West security system to guarantee peace in Europe through strong nonaggression pledges.
3. Limitation and eventually reduction of arms and armies throughout the Continent.
4. Expansion of East-West trade.
5. An end to the East-West radio propaganda war.

The West reportedly still will insist that no European settlement is possible unless Germany is reunified, and that this must be done by the free, internationally supervised elections called for in Eden's proposals to the 1954 Berlin foreign ministers' conference.

The Soviets rejected the Eden plan but the Western experts were said to hope they can make their proposals more attractive to the Reds now.

Western ideas of guaranteeing European security were said to include (1) limiting reunited Germany's armed forces to the 500,000 men to be permitted West Germany by the Paris treaties, (2) frontier guarantees to insure that the Germans never try to break out of their present postwar boundaries or those set by a final peace treaty, and (3) demilitarization of all of East Germany, and perhaps part of West Germany, to form a buffer zone along the Soviet bloc's western frontier.

Under arms limitation, the West reportedly will propose that the Soviet army quit Poland, Hungary and Romania in exchange for withdrawal of American and British forces into defined areas of Germany. The NATO and Warsaw Communist alliances together would set armament limits and establish control measures which ultimately might develop into a worldwide disarmament program.

Soldiers' Return Creates Problem

By C. YATES MCDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Communist decision to send home three American turncoats who first chose to stay in China could stir up new difficulties for the U.S. Army and the former soldiers themselves.

The three who changed their minds about remaining with the Communists who captured them in Korea sailed from Hong Kong yesterday saying they are ready to face the consequences of any wrongdoings while prisoners of war.

What they did not say, and may not realize, is that they have possible legal grounds for challenging the Army's right to give them dishonorable discharges when they and 18 of their comrades refused to come home with other American prisoners after the armistice in Korea.

The military code states that a dishonorable discharge can result only from a conviction and sentence by a general court-martial. The same regulations also state that a full-dress military trial cannot be held without the presence of the defendant and qualified lawyers to defend him.

The Army decided that "undesirable" discharges were the worst that could be given to the 21 men who originally chose to stay with the Reds. Such discharges, which rate below honorable and general discharges but above bad conduct and dishonorable discharges, can be ordered by administrative action.

But Secretary of Defense Wilson bluntly told the Army it was all tied up in its own red tape. He ordered that the men be given dishonorable discharges, saying the secretary of the Army had sufficient general powers to dispose of the cases that way.

The three Americans were given a short briefing about their status when they reached Hong Kong. They will be fully informed of their rights when they get back to this country, especially if either civil or military action is started against them. They could demand a test of the legality of their dishonorable discharges.

There is also the undecided question of whether a man who has been formally and officially discharged from service can be returned to military jurisdiction to answer charges lodged against him for alleged acts while in uniform.

Sheppard AFB Sets Curfew

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Sheppard Air Force Base ordered a 9 p.m. curfew for the base airmen and officers at the base after gang fights and near-fights broke out during the weekend between civilian teen-agers and military men.

It was not clear what the fighting was about.

Only one casualty has resulted —an airman was slashed and beaten at a city park a week ago. But the Wichita Falls Record News said no single incident set off the tension, which began building up about 10 days ago.

Authorities said they were tipped that both airmen and civilian teen-agers began carrying weapons, including pistols, Sunday.

Col. Melvin S. Hollidge, deputy base commander, said the latest incident occurred Sunday night behind a baseball park and 50 airmen were "apprehended."

Authorities say they discovered that another gang fight was set for next Friday.

Last Friday, at least 200 airmen and civilians milled around at Bellevue Park until dispersed by every available police officer on duty. Police said the teen-agers had gathered to "have a brawl" and airmen admitted they had come to fight.

Sitdown Strike Ended By Prison Inmates

HOWARD, R.I. (AP)—A sharp ultimatum brought a quick end last night to sitdown strike by 300 inmates of Rhode Island State Prison.

The prisoners' protest in the dining hall was staged in an attempt to win the release of five inmates from solitary.

Harold V. Langlois, assistant social welfare director in charge of correctionnal institutions, told the protesting prisoners:

"Either get up and go quietly to your cells within five minutes or you will be forcibly removed."

Some 200 prisoners left quietly. The other 100 beat cups and plates awhile. Then they too got up and left for their cells.

Government Seeks To End Bargain Lease

CLEVELAND (AP)—The lease the government gave Alexander J. Brady in 1949 proved a colossal bargain. Too colossal, the government says.

The government leased Brady a three-story, eight-bedroom, four-fireplace mansion for a total rental of $1—until such time as the property was needed for a Veterans Administration hospital.

The VA long since canceled plans to build the hospital and Brady figures the lease entitles him to continue living rent-free in the house with 2½ baths, sun room, library, maid's suite, living room, dining room, kitchen, breakfast room, pantry, refrigerator room, basement recreation room, laundry, storerooms and two furnaces.

The government brought suit yesterday to evict Brady, contending the lease "does not express the true intent of the parties as to its legal effect," and that the VA officer who approved it "exceeded his authority."

The lease gives Brady "the right and privilege to occupy all of the said premises until Jan. 1, 1950, and thereafter on a month-to-month basis until such time as the premises are, in the opinion of the United States of America or any agency thereof, actually needed for the purpose for which purchased. . . ." The purpose was the hospital. It also said $1 "shall be in full payment of all rental during the term of occupancy."

The government had purchased the house from Brady, a retired Erie Railroad Co. official, for about $31,000. It was one of 14 large houses purchased for the hospital site. Only Brady's contract contained the lease clause. The others are rented to the highest bidder.

The house, on a 91-by-270-foot lot, has been appraised at $67,857.

In its suit the government said it "has requested that the premises be vacated but has been refused."

Brady, who has been living in the house with his wife and daughter, left a few weeks ago for a vacation at Ocean Grove, N.J.

Blood-Saving Tool Used In Operation

BALTIMORE (AP)—Using an ingenious new blood-saving tool, surgeons at University of Maryland Hospital here have relieved a man of a deadly condition in which the body's main artery balloons near the heart like a defective inner tube.

Dr. R. Adams Cowley, who performed the rare operation, reported today the patient was discharged from the hospital exactly two weeks later.

A laborer from Cambridge, Md., he is one of the extremely few persons known to have undergone successful surgery for aneurysm, or infected swelling of the ascending aorta.

The new instrument, used in this operation for the first time, was developed by Cowley and Dr. John M. Allen, working with him as a fellow in the Cardio-Pulmonary Department he heads.

It is a clamp which enables blood to continue flowing through the aorta even while doctors are removing the damaged section.

In its first use during the six-hour operation, it helped keep the patient's blood loss down to three pints, compared with a usual loss of about 12 pints in four similar operations Cowley performed previously. The loss in one of the only other two known cases of this type was 30 pints.

Medical records show doctors have sought 1,800 years for a successful method of treating aneurysm of the major blood vessels. The aorta, sweeping up out of the heart and toward the left shoulder before it arches and runs down roughly parallel to the spine, is the biggest vessel of all.

In later life, after four or five decades of feeding tons of blood to the smaller vessels throughout the body, it may develop weak spots through invection or sheer wear and tear.

Now relatively rare, aneurysms are expected to occur with greater frequency as antibiotics and other medical discoveries lengthen the life span of man.

A 1936 study of aneurysms showed that more than 50 per cent of the victims died within one month after being admitted to a hospital.

Early attempts to treat the condition by operative means produced fatal shock, gangrene or hemorrhage in an appalling number of cases.

A thousand turkeys will drink between 60 and 70 tons of water during the range season.

Mercury is the planet nearest to the Sun.

Clark Gable Wed In Surprise Ceremony

MINDEN, Nev. (AP)—Clark Gable, 54-year-old screen veteran, and Kay Williams Spreckels, 37, actress and former wife of California sugar heir Adolph Spreckels II, were married yesterday in a surprise double-ring ceremony.

It was Gable's fifth marriage, Miss Williams' third.

The ceremony in the home of Justice of the Peace G. Walter Fisher claimed an on-again, off-again romance that has linked their names in gossip columns for about 10 years. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Menasco, of St. Helena, Calif., and Mrs. Elizabeth Nessar, of Los Angeles.

Gable, appearing very formal in a dark blue suit, and his bride, wearing a chic tan suit, were uncommunicative before and after the ceremony. Fisher said the actor said only "I do" and both were unusually quiet.

"Afterwards, Mr. Gable took her in his arms and kissed her," he said. "I don't know for how long, but pretty long. Maybe two or three seconds. A good kiss."

There was speculation that the couple might have gone for their honeymoon to Glenbrook, a small resort community on Lake Tahoe where Gable has a cottage.

Gable was first married in 1924 to Josephine Dillon, a Hollywood drama coach. They were divorced after six years. By that time Gable was a box office hit.

His next wife was Ria Langham, 11 years his senior. They were divorced in 1939. Shortly thereafter he and movie actress Carole Lombard were wed. Three years later she was killed in a plane crash while returning home from a war bond selling campaign.

In 1949, he married Lady Sylvia Ashley, widow of movie star Douglas Fairbanks, Sr. She divorced him April 21, 1952, after a number of legal maneuvers.

In World War II, Gable enlisted as a private. When he was placed on inactive status in 1944 he was a major, and had been a photographic officer on Flying Fortress raids.

Miss Williams first was wed to Martin de Alzaga Unzue. She divorced him and married Spreckels in 1945. She divorced the San Francisco sugar heir in 1953, after accusing him of beating her with her own slipper — a charge for which he served a jail term.

She has two children by Spreckels, Adolph III, 6, and Joan, 4.

Coed Is Shot In Back While Attending Class

BALTIMORE (AP)—Juanita Watson, 23-year-old Morgan College coed shot in the back while sitting in class yesterday, was pronounced in good condition last night. Police continued their investigation.

One theory was Miss Watson, one of about 60 students in the classroom, was wounded by a stray bullet fired by someone taking target practice. The bullet, apparently from a .22-caliber rifle, fractured a rib.

Claims Nap Caused Loss Of $500,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Toy merchant Frederick G. Osborne Jr., 40, says he lost $500,000 because he overslept one day last May and he blames it all on the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

In a suit filed against the world-famous hotel, the Milwaukee businesman said he had stayed at the hotel and left specific instruetions with the desk clerk on May 6 to be called at 9 a.m. the next day.

The hotel failed to waken him, he claimed, and he therefore missed a business meeting "and was caused to suffer a loss in the sum of $500,000."

The hotel has filed a motion to required Osborne to give more details.

AF Academy Greets First Cadet Class

DENVER (AP) — The U. S. Air Force Academy opened its doors to the first class of 306 cadets yesterday amid salutes from roaring jet bombers, the snap of martial music and inspirational words of Air Force leaders.

Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbott told the cadets and 3,000 invited guests at Lowry Air Base that "it is to the human element that the Air Force Academy is dedicated, and especially, to the leadership we must have if our country is to survive."

Honor guards from the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis and the U. S. Military Academy at West Point paraded in review.

The air cadets were dressed in khaki trousers and shirts with Air Force blue caps and epaulets. They marched with precision into the dedication area on a taxi-way at Lowry, temporary headquarters of the academy until its permanent home is ready at Colorado Springs in 1957.

The cadets enrolled at the academy early yesterday and in the hours before the dedication ceremonies were hastily drilled by second lieutenants from the staff at West Point.

"You cadets face a challenge given to few men," Talbott said, "that of preparing yourselves to lead the most powerful war machine on the face of the globe, yet one which is dedicated solely to the prevention of war."

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chief of staff of the Air Force, told the cadets that "one man in one bomber today can deliver more explosive force" than all of the Air Force could in 1945.

A message from President Eisenhower, read by Talbott, said, "In taking its place beside West Point and Annapolis, the Air Force Academy joins a proud company. The honored histories of the two older institutions provide a standard against which, in future years, the excellence of the new academy will be measured. I know it will be found worthy. The American people, I know, wish the Air Force Academy brilliant success."

The 15th Air Force paraded its might through the skies to signal opening of the dedication. Included were seven B36s, 18 B47s and 24 F84F Thunderstreak jet fighter-bombers.

In ancient Algeria, a man who stole a plow was sentenced to death by starvation.

Officers Advised To Forget Women's Ages

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Advice to traffic policemen:

"Don't write women's ages on traffic tickets. Just put down 'over 21.'"

This comes from Circuit Judge Robert L. Floyd, whose wife was tagged for a traffic violation in south Miami.

Floyd made his suggestion in a letter yesterday. He enclosed a check for the fine.

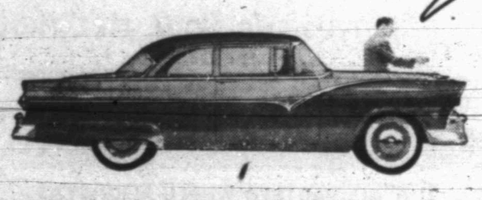

He noted that the patrolman didn't ask Mrs. Floyd her age—just subtracted the birth year from her driver's license and called it 35. She won't be 35 until Dec. 24.
