U. S. To Guard Free Nations, Says Nixon

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

HONOLULU (AP)—Richard M. Nixon, viewing the next president as personal chief of the nation's foreign policy, today declared the United States will always lend its strength to the free countries of the world.

Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, closed a two-day campaign whirl of the 50th state with a speech setting forth these aims for U.S. diplomacy?

—Build military power not only equal to that of any potential enemy, but greater.

—In dealing with other governments, "Be firm without being belligerent."

—Strive constantly for programs to reduce international tensions—but always from a position of strength.

"We must make clear to potential aggressors throughout the world that we will stand with the forces of freedom," Nixon told 7,500 Hawaiians who filled Waikiki Shell in the island capital.

The vice president spoke on the eve of his return to the mainland after pressing the first offshore campaign of a presidential candidate.

He and Mrs. Nixon planned to leave for Seattle and an airport reception at 8:30 a.m. Honolulu time. They expected to be back in the capital at dawn Saturday.

Earlier in his final day of cultivating Hawaii's three electoral votes, Nixon established himself — if elected — as commander of U.S. diplomatic forces.

In his farewell speech Thursday night in Honolulu's open-air concert bowl, Nixon said the nation's greatest danger is not loss of freedom through war but through other means.

He recommended strengthening the United Nations as a force for peace and developing regional international organizations. And he said such programs as technical assistance, foreign loans and grants should be used "as an ideological striking force."

He asserted his own role as president, if that should be his future, as more of a personal foreign policy chief than President Eisenhower has been.

He also named a half-dozen men in and out of the Eisenhower administration whose views he would seek.

Nixon said he wasn't giving any hints as to his potential secretary of state, but named Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Luis Munoz-Marin, territorial governor of Puerto Rico, as men of ability in foreign affairs. He also praised Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Undersecretary C. Douglas Dillon.

Kennedy Launches Busy Day In NYC

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy, arriving for a busy day of activities here, said today he doesn't expect the forthcoming special session of Congress to carry out platform aims of either party.

"I never thought of this session as either party writing its platform," he said.

For the Democratic party to carry out its goals, he said, it would need "a mandate from the people" in the form of control of both the Congress and the executive branch.

Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, flew here in a light drizzly rain from his summer home at Hyannis Port, Mass., for a day of speech-making, politicking and visits with friends.

Before the takeoff from Hyannis Port, Kennedy told reporters he is happy about the big primary election victory scored by Sen. Estes Kefauver in Tennessee, but he said he believes it is a mistake to generalize about elections in reading political trends.

A small crowd was on hand at the airport to watch Kennedy's departure.

Kennedy has dates to address editors of ethnic newspapers and to have lunch with editors of Time and Life magazines. The ethnic papers serve 25 nationality groups in this country.

Kennedy has invited Felix Von Eckhart, secretary of state of West Germany, to confer with him this afternoon at the Park Avenue apartment the Kennedy family maintains. Kennedy presumably seeks from Von Eckhart some first hand information about the Free World's problems in West Germany and West Berlin. However, he announced merely that he had invited the German dignitary.

Von Eckhart is in the United States as the personal representative of West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

In addressing the ethnic paper editors Kennedy is angling for support from nationality groups—Poles, Italian and others. He has been sharply critical in the past of the existing immigration laws, and of the Eisenhower administration foreign policy toward Eastern Europe.

Kennedy planned to wind up his one-day New York visit by calling on a long time friend, Abe Feinberg, well known to New York Democrats. Feinberg, board chairman of the Kayser-Roth Corp., has been active in Democratic fund raising and other party activities. Kennedy's headquarters, in reply to questions said that "this is not a fund raising visit" and that Kennedy had been invited by Feinberg.

Kennedy Thursday started his biggest pitch to win the Midwest farm belt vote. This is the area whose Republicans are hoping to give him one of his hardest fights in the campaign. They seek to picture him as a johnny-come-lately friend of the farmer.

Kennedy set out to counteract this by calling a 12-state midwestern conference of farm leaders for Aug. 21, announcing he and his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, would attend.

He also announced the creation of a national policy committee on agricultural progress, headed by Gov. Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa, to guide the party on farm problems. An advisory committee representing producers of specific commodities will back up this group.

And behind both of them will be a "Farmers for Kennedy" organization with Loveless heading this group, too.

The whole multiple effort is pledged to have a program ready for submission to Congress in January if Kennedy wins the presidency.

Sen. Kefauver Wins Easily

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver won a third term with a stunning landslide victory in Thursday's Tennessee Democratic primary, in which civil rights was the overriding issue.

The race, billed as the tightest of the lanky 57-year-old senator's career, turned into his greatest triumph as the state's voters made it unmistakably clear they preferred his liberal philosophy to that of Judge Andrew T. Taylor, a strong advocate of segregation and states rights.

Kefauver, the Democratic vice presidential candidate in 1956, led from the outset and quickly grabbed a two-to-one margin which he maintained throughout the night.

Returns from 2,448 of the state's 2,635 precincts gave Kefauver 448,759 and Taylor 238,820.

The total vote was the highest for a Senate primary in the state's history. The primary was the first held without an accompanying race for governor.

Kefauver's 65 per cent of the total vote compared with 70 per cent of the total when he defeated Rep. Pat Sutton six years ago.

The outcome had been watched nationally for an indication of the depth of Southern reaction to the civil rights proposals adopted by the Democratic National Convention. Taylor sharply criticized this platform plank, while Kefauver said only that it went a little too far.

Kefauver, termed his victory an emphatic answer to "the detractors of the South, who tried to say that we are a backward people."

"The South will continue to move forward in the main stream of American civilization," he said.

The senator, who skyrocketed to national fame as a result of his crime-busting investigations in the early 1950s, said Tennessee by its vote showed the Democratic presidential ticket, headed by Sen. John F. Kennedy, "will win the allegiance of Americans everywhere."

Despite the decisive margin polled by Kefauver, Taylor went to bed without actually conceding defeat. The soft-spoken circuit judge from Jackson admitted only "there are two strikes on me."

Kefauver swept across the state from East Tennessee with such an overwhelming vote even the most ardent of his supporters were surprised.

He carried or led in all but two counties in the six congressional districts east of the Tennessee River. So complete was the rout, his renomination was assured before reports from the three West Tennessee districts — Taylor's stronghold—began coming in.

Even in segregation-mined West Tennessee, Kefauver received a substantial vote. He held a narrow lead in the Ninth (Memphis) district. Taylor carried the Seventh and Eighth districts, but not by the wide margins he had hoped.

In two weststate counties—Fayette and Haywood—Negroes voted in the primary for the first time since reconstruction days. There were no incidents. Negroes outnumber whites in both counties.

About 90 per cent of some 400 registered Negro voters cast ballots in Fayette County and nearly all of some 200 voted in Haywood. Elsewhere in Tennessee, Negroes have voted for years.

Kefauver seemed certain to carry the state's four metropolitan counties. Hamilton County (Chattanooga), where he lives, gave him a 5,863 vote majority, while he led in Knox County by a four-to-one margin and in Davidson (Nashville), by better than two-to-one.

Wounded Boy Transferred

Randall Fambro, 15-year-old San Benito youth whose left arm was partially shot away in a hunting accident in the Lloyd Mountain community Wednesday, was transferred to the Parkland Hospital in Dallas about noon Thursday for further treatment in an effort to save the arm. He was taken in a Bell Funeral Home Ambulance. Randall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Fambro, was injured almost immediately after the family arrived at the home of Randall's uncle, G. K. Fambro, about 15 miles northeast of Snyder. Randall and a cousin Dagsell were rabbit hunting from a tractor with a .22 rifle and a 12 gauge shotgun, when the gun discharged as Randall who was holding the gun sat in the driver's seat.

Taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital, Randall underwent surgery to repair the torn ligaments, muscles, nerves, and shattered bone. The blast entered the inside of his upper left arm. The attending physician told the parents Wednesday that if the arm were saved, Randall would never have complete use of it as most of the nerves were destroyed.

Fire Claims Five Victims

MIDDLEBOURNE, W.Va. (AP) —A teen-aged girl and four children burned to death today in a predawn fire that destroyed two homes in the tiny town of Shirley in Tyler County.

The five victims, as well as the two mothers of the children, were asleep in one room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ferrebee.

The dead were the Ferrebee's two children, Walter, 9, and Dorma, 8; Janet Dotson, 4, and Billie Dotson, 1½, and Marybelle Wadsworth, 19. The Dotson children and Miss Wadsworth were from West Union.

Daisy Dotson and the girl were visiting the Ferrebee family. Neither of the women's husbands was at home. Ferrebee was at work at a steel plant at East Liverpool, Ohio.

Mrs. Dotson, in a New Hartinsville hospital with minor burns, said she broke, felt the heat and smelled smoke. Tyler County is along the Ohio River in northwestern West Virginia.

Six-Year Aid Outlay Totals 12 Billions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and other industrial countries have poured 18 billion dollars worth of economic aid into underdeveloped nations during the past six years. The American total was over 12 billions.

But the State Department says greater effort is needed to fill growing requirements, particularly in Asia and Africa, and to meet the expanding economic challenge of the Soviet Communist bloc.

In a report to the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs committees released Thursday night, the department summarized aid totals since 1954 from 15 industrialized nations of the Free World. The report concluded "efforts so far have not been adequate to fill the requirement."

The United States has supplied two-thirds of the economic assistance covered in the report for a total of $12,025,000,000. Fourteen other countries, including Britain, France, Canada, Australia, Japan and West Germany provided loans, grants and other assistance totaling $5,964,000,000.

The report to Congress emphasized that the United States is doing everything possible to get the other industrialized countries to increase their aid. But it said that in view of the vast needs such increases could not be counted on to bring any reduction in the U.S. effort.

The State Department also released a pamphlet on the Communist economic offensive stating that by last April the Soviet Union and other Red nations had given $3,800,000,000 in credits and grants for economic and military assistance to 20 less-developed countries.

The pamphlet described the Communist use of aid as a means of making other countries subservient to Red policies and purposes.

Ineligible Beauty Of 1957 Still Getting In Headlines

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Three years ago Maryland's Leona Gage became the Miss Universe pageant's Miss USA—for 24 hours.

Then it was discovered that she was married and had two sons. The honors were stripped from her. But the publicity lingered on.

It caught up with her Thursday —when reporters learned that the Mrs. Leona Covacevich being booked on charges of "endangering a child's life" was the same tall, brunette beauty of 1957's headlines.

Juvenile officers arrested her July 30 on a charge of beating her son, David Ennis, 4.

When she showed up in court the charge was reduced to the less serious misdemeanor count and she was re-booked. At city jail she told her story.

After her Miss Universe disaster she went to Las Vegas, got a showgirl's job on the basis of her publicity, divorced her husband, Sgt. Gene Ennis, and married dancer Nicholas Covacevich. They now live in Hollywood, where Covacevich teaches dancing.

She said she strapped David with a belt in an attempt to keep him from playing with razor blades.

"I love him," she said. "I've been a good mother. I was trying to teach him not to hurt himself."

She said her mother-in-law, Mrs. Guadalupe Covacevich, reported the incident to juvenile officers and signed the orignal child-beating complaint.

Leona was married to Sgt. Ennis in Vernon, Tex., when she was 14.

At the time she won the beauty contest in 1957, her mother, Mrs. Walter Biggs, lived in Dallas. Her father, F. D. Gage, was ill in a Wichita Falls County hospital.

Her mother said Leona won her first contest in Wichita Falls when she was 9.

"When she was 14 years old she went to work in a Wichita Falls department store," said her mother. "They thought she was 18—and she looked it, too."

First Atomic Bomb Dropped Fifteen Years Ago Tonight

By C. YATES MCDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifteen years ago tonight an explosion obliterated a city, signaled the end of a global war and spawned a lethal fear that still clouds the future of mankind.

In the new Japanese city of Hiroshima people of all faiths will pause for a minute of silent prayer at 7:15 p.m. Eastern Standard Time tonight—Saturday morning, Aug. 6, Japan-time—in memory of some 70,000 who were killed outright and many others who were injured in the explosion of the first atomic bomb.

Elsewhere in the world the anniversary may pass virtually unnoticed. But it will be remembered by the 10 surviving American servicemen on board the B29 "Enola Gay."

They delivered the payoff of a World War II program that cost the United States two billion dollars. Since then, many times that amount has been spent in making vastly more powerful weapons and in seeking to devise means to counteract them.

Only three men aboard the bomber that ushered in the military atomic age are still on active duty. The pilot, now Brig. Gen. Paul W. Tibbets Jr., commands the Strategic Air Command's 6th Air Division at MacDill Air Force Base in Florida.

The B29's bombardier, Lt. Col. Thomas W. Ferebee, is squadron electronics maintenance officer at MacDill. The flight engineer, M. Sgt. Wyatt E. Duzenbury, is stationed at Barksdale Air Force Base, Shreveport, La.

Navy Capt. W. S. Parsons, who directed the arming of the bomb while the B29 was in flight between the island of Tinian and Japan, has since died. He was an admiral at the time of his death.

Of the crew members who have since left military service, one works with a candy manufacturer, three are salesmen, one is a draftsman, one works with a scientific instruments manufacturer and another is in the electronics industry.

Three days after the destruction of Hiroshima, a second atomic bomb was dropped on the port city of Nagasaki. Since that day many atomic weapons of far more awesome power have been exploded in tests. The only known casualties of the test blasts were some animals placed within range for scientific experimentation purposes.

Fifteen years ago the United States was the sole member of the atomic club. The Soviet Union years ago became a major member. Great Britain has test exploded several nuclear weapons and France has completed the first round of its atomic testing program.

Score Kept Aboard Plane

By ADRIAN PORTER

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A 20-man advance guard to pave the way for U. N. soldiers was barred from entering Katanga today and sent back to Leopoldville with U. N. Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche.

Bunche said the men were technicians and should be allowed to start work here. Katanga officials said they were U. N. soldiers and refused to allow them to get off their plane.

Premier Moise Tshombe of Katanga, who has proclaimed the secession of his province from the new Congo republic, showed he meant business in refusing to allow the United Nations to put his territory under U. N. patrol. He has said U. N. forces would have to fight their way in.

Bunche, top troubleshooter in the Congo for Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, came here Thursday and failed to work out a compromise with Tshombe. Today Bunche went back to the Congo capital of Leopoldville to report to Hammarskjold.

The plane that came to pick him up was surrounded by Katanga police and soldiers as it stood on the airfield.

Godefroid Munongo, Katanga interior minister, went aboard, and personally informed the U.N. delegation it would not be allowed to get out.

Munongo told newsmen he had warned Bunche that intervention of U. N. soldiers would be regarded as aggression and Katanga would then be entitled to take legitimate measures of defense. He said Bunche had told him that U. N. soldiers would not come until after further negotiations.

Just before Bunche left, Tshombe told a news conference:

"I have gathered all tribal chiefs of Katanga in Elisabethville in order to explain the internal and external situation of Katanga. I have informed them of the decision to oppose the arrival of U. N. troops. The chiefs agree with me. Dr. Bunche has been informed of my decisions and he realizes the situation is dangerous."

It appears that Tshombe has carried his opposition to U. N. intervention as far as possible on the diplomatic level, and the next move is up to the U. N.

Tshombe appealed to Bunche Thursday to hold off on the movement of soldiers into Katanga and to refer his government's secession from the central Congo government to the Security Council for a review of the whole Katanga question.

Tshombe told a news conference Thursday night he was under the impression U.N. troops would not begin arriving Saturday but conceded Bunche had given him no assurances. Hedging, he added that he would not be surprised if the troops came.

Members of Premier Patrice Lumumba's central government were certain to oppose any attempt to take the question of Katanga to the Security Council. Katanga's mines, rich fields and pastures furnished 60 per cent of the wealth of the pre-independence Belgian Congo, and Lumumba and his ministers have made plain they consider part of the U.N. military force's mission is to enforce the central government's authority over Tshombe and his rebellious Katanga regime. Hammarskjold in a statement Wednesday said the U.N. force had not been sent to take orders from the Congo government or mix in the infant nation's internal affairs.

Elisabethville's Europeans were anxious, but there were no signs of panic or preparations for a mass flight in fear the province might become a battleground.

But long lines of Africans 16 to 30 years old marched or cycled to an army barracks in answer to the provincial government's general mobilization order, issued after Tshombe announced U.N. troops would have to fight their way in Saturday. They sang independence songs as they came to sign up.

Forty or so members of Tshombe's opposition, who favor U.N. intervention, gathered near Elisabethville's main hotel Thursday in the mistaken belief that Bunche was staying there. The police quickly pounced on them under emergency regulations, banning public meetings of more than five people, and dispersed the crowd by tossing a couple of small smoke bombs.

To prevent any disturbance during Bunche's visit, most of the police were shifted to patrolling African residential areas. Jeep-loads of armed men moved up and down the streets or stationed themselves at main intersections.

Two Children Die In Auto-Truck Crash

PECOS, Tex. (AP)—Two small children were killed and their young mother was critically injured Thursday in a car-truck crash 38 miles west of here.

They were Lee Ann Ross, 20 months old, and her sister, Anna Marie, 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. Benton Ross of Denison.

The mother, Mrs. Bobbie Jo Ross, 22, was in a critical condition. Two other women and two children of each were less seriously injured.

Mrs. Ross, the other women and all the children were in the same car. Truck driver Billy Gavin escaped injury.

Surfboard Driver Must Get License

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Starting Jan. 1, you're going to have to have a license to drive a surfboard in Laguna Beach.

It won't mean you're good at riding the tricky craft — just that you paid $5 down at City Hall.

And it means that you can lose your license if you don't follow the rules, which incidentally, go into effect immediately.

Surfing only on two comparatively narrow stretches of beach.

Surfing only between dawn and 11 a. m., and from 5 p. m. to sunset.

The stiff new rules, made law after eight weeks of debate, left this beach town south of Los Angeles with two bitter factions.

Those who claim the rules are too strict — most of them sun-bronzed lads and lassies who may come from miles around to catch Laguna's favorable surf break.

And those who claim the rules aren't strict enough — the owners of the beach homes facing the stretches of sea where rising reefs send the waves shoreward with the curling break ideal for surfboarding.

They say that the surfers are vandals out of the water and a meanace in it. They claim boards plunging toward the sand could kill a swimmer — hence the rules for surfing only at certain hours. There will be no swimming in the surfing areas at those hours.

Oldtime surf-lovers offer this explanation:

Having a surfboard atop your car has become a badge of membership in what the younger set calls "the swingin' crew." Like carrying bongo drums about and driving a purple car with flames painted on the side. It identified you as a swinging member of a dashing clan.

The reason Laguna Beach councilmen pondered so long before acting on the problem is that these are far from typical of all surfers. Most of this city's surfers are dedicated athletes — many men old enough to have surfing sons. Surfboard building is one of Laguna's few industries.

Cupid Lures Mayor Away

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The village of Rionero Sannitico in Italy is losing a mayor. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carosicio's daughter, Mary, is getting married Saturday.

And Dan Cupid—in the person of Dan Ventura, who came to Cleveland three years ago—is the reason for both.

"I shall renounce the job," said Mayor Gino Andreano Thursday. "I like the United States." His announcement will come as a surprise to the 2,500 inhabitants of Rionero Sannitico when he informs them after the wedding that they will have to pick a new mayor to serve until October, 1961.

Mayor Andreano fell victim to cupid's arrows when he came here last March to help arrange a pilgrimmage of some 30 residents of his village to visit the Shrine of St. Marian Catholic Church in Cleveland.

When the pilgrims arrived in June they found their mayor had been introduced by Ventura to Miss Carosio, whose parents came to this country years ago. Ventura was Andreano's next door neighbor in Italy.

Things progressed from there. And the nuptial mass in Holy Rosary Catholic Church is the climax. Ventura will be the best man.

Upper Volta New Nation

QUAGADOUGOU, Upper Volta (AP) — Upper Volta, not even marked on maps 14 years ago, today became the world's newest independent nation.

The sparsely settled inland state in former French West Africa is half the size of France but has only 3½ million people. It is the third French African territory to become independent this week, as part of a process which will see all French African territory except Algeria independent by November. However, all the new states are remaining in the French Community, a loose association similar to the British Commonwealth.

Wilding Separated From Third Wife

LONDON (AP) — British actor Michael Wilding and his third wife, Susan, have separated after 2½ years of marriage, but a spokesman said neither is interested in anyone else.

"It is not a question of either Susan or Michael being interested in anyone else, but for personal reasons," said David Jacobs, legal adviser to the wealthy Mrs. Wilding. The actor was her fourth husband.

Jacobs said the separation was being announced because American movie star Elizabeth Taylor Wilding's second wife, is due in England soon and Susan did not want anyone to get the wrong impression.

Heat Wave To Continue

By The Associated Press

A long-range forecast issued by the Weather Bureau Friday indicated the August heat wave gripping Texas will continue at least five more days.

The forecast called for above normal temperatures in all parts of the state and precipitation light to none in West Texas and light to locally moderate in East Texas and Central Texas.

Meanwhile, scattered and broken cloudiness Friday extended from the Gulf Coast inland to the Austin-San Antonio area. Except for some high clouds around El Paso and in some Panhandle sections, the rest of the state was clear.

Pre-dawn temperatures Friday ranged from 69 at Dalhart to 81 at Dallas, Fort Worth, Galveston and Palacios.

Thursday's maximum temperatures ranged from 109 degrees at Presidio to 89 at Corpus Christi. Between were Wichita Falls with 105 degrees, Laredo 103, Childress 102, Cotulla, Fort Worth, Mineral Wells and San Angelo 101, and College Station and El Paso 100.

Release Of Fliers Is Asked Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States again has asked the Soviet Union to free two American fliers and allow an impartial United Nations inquiry into the Soviet downing of their RB47 over the Barents Sea July 1.

The U. S. demands, previously turned down by the Soviets, were renewed in a formal note to Moscow made public Thursday by the State Department.

The note said "the Soviet government has decided, for purposes of its own, to hold these two men in illegal detention and to seal them off from all contact with the outside world in flagrant disregard of international law and practice."

While saying the U. S. government "wishes to emphasize the very serious view it takes of the Soviet action," the note gave no hint of any action Washington might take.

The United States claims the Reds shot down the reconnaissance bomber over international waters. The Soviets contend it invaded Soviet airspace. But they vetoed a proposal for a U. N. investigation into the facts.

The two survivors of the RB47 in Communist custody are the copilot, Lt. Freeman B. Olmstead of Elmira, N. Y., and the navigator, Lt. John R. McKone of Tonganoxie, Kan.

The body of the pilot, Maj. Willard George Palm, was returned by the Soviets. Palm was buried with full honors at Arlington National Cemetery Thursday. The fate of the other three crewmen is unknown.

49 Named In TEC Charges

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Forty nine persons accused of collecting unemployment benefits while working for a food processing firm were called before County Judge Ben Hardy today.

The Texas Employment Commission filed the charges. Dist. Atty. F. T. Graham said complaints were being prepared in 72 more cases.

Graham reported the defendants, mostly women, collected $7 to $28 a week on unemployment insurance, some for 15 weeks.

C. M. Tuchton, lawyer for the commission, said in Austin more than $11,000 was paid in fraudulent claims.

Fake Warden Gets Himself An Arsenal

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A man posing as a representative of the Stone Mountain Prison branch talked an Atlanta hardware store out of 14 revolvers, 6 shotguns and more than 1,000 rounds of ammunition.

Salesman H. A. Keller told detectives the man called July 28, said he was Warden Hoke Smith and placed the order. That afternoon, Keller added, a man picked up the hardware and signed for it with the name S. L. Green.

Smith was stunned when he got the invoice. He quickly notified other authorities and the search for the culprit was on.

Smith said the man's description fits a prisonef given his conditional release Dec. 15.

Solon In Florida Buys Citrus Farm

FROSTPROOF, Fla. (AP) — State Rep. Ben Hill Griffin Jr. of Frostproof has purchased the 4,400-acre Sottile citrus farm in one of the largest citrus deals in Florida history.

The price reportedly totaled eight million dollars or more. Griffin and James Sottile Jr. of Miami said Thursday the financial arrangements would be announced later.

Griffin already owns an impressive network of groves. He also operates a frozen orange concentrate plant, two fresh fruit packing houses and a canning plant and a cattle ranch.

WHERE THERE'S SMOKE, there's bound to be a fire and a bunch of volunteer firemen. Volunteers above are pouring water into a window of the R. J. Griffith home at 512 Twenty-eighth Street. The fire Thursday afternoon originated in a closet holding the fusebox, apparently from faulty wiring. Firemen were able to confine the blaze to the closet area. Mrs. Griffith said she and her daughter were watching television when it went off and she discovered the fire when she opened the closet door to replace a fuse.

Wife, Sons See Pilot Set Record

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A schoolteacher, two sons at her side and one in her arms, watched a distant plane's white contrail cut swiftly across the blue desert sky.

Thirteen miles above, in an X15 rocket plane, was her husband test pilot Joe Walker — moving faster than any human has ever moved before: 2,150 miles per hour.

He broke by 56 m.p.h. the unofficial world's record set in 1956 by Air Force Capt. Milburn Apt.

And Walker accomplished something else Apt didn't: He returned alive.

Apt's X2 rocket research plane went out of control moments after his plane reached a record 2,094 m.p.h. He died on the desert near here after an unsuccessful attempt at bailing out.

Walker rocketed to 2,150 m.p.h. in a shallow, two-mile dive from 78,000 feet.

Then—as Grace Walker and his sons watched from the yard of their nearby home — he dropped down for a safe landing on the miles-long saltbed runways of this test center.

Walker, 39, a pilot for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, was still exuberant an hour later as he told newsmen of his flight.

He told how a B52 bomber took his X15 up to 45,000 feet and dropped it. He said he climbed to 78,000 feet and then nosed over into a 10-degree dive, his rockets on full power.

"In the dive," he said, "there was no sensation of speed—nothing but the movement of the mach needle to show how fast I was flying.

"It moved agonizingly slow, for I knew at what rate I was burning fuel. I was afraid I wouldn't hit mach 3.3 (the speed-of-sound equivalent to the new record) before burn-out.

"I found myself yelling, 'go! go! go!'"

In all, the powered flight lasted only a little more than four minutes.

Walker has been a test pilot on a half-dozen Air Force and NASA experimental planes—which may account for the gray in his curly, blond hair. He lives near the base in a home he built with his own hands, in three years of spare-time work.

Nights he devoted himself to studies of the planes he was flying. He pored long hours over plans for the X15's assault on Apt's four-year-old record Thursday.

Blast Claims Sixth Victim

BROWNFIELD, Tex. (AP) — The dramatic helicopter rescue of a 17-year-old youth from a window in a blazing grain elevator here was in vain.

Philip Reeves of Cotton Valley, La., died Thursday of burns suffered July 19 when twin explosions and a mighty fire ripped through the big elevator. Five other men also died in the west Texas disaster or died later of burns.

Young Reeves clung to a window 230 feet above ground for more than two hours screaming at spectators, "Help me! Help me! I'm burning to death!"

Finally, when a helicopter from Reese Air Force Base at Lubbock, Tex., maneuvered close, Donald Ethington, 28, snatched Reeves from the ledge.

Johnson Law Plea Is Heard By Judge

AUSTIN (AP)—Federal Judge Ben Rice Jr. today (2 p.m.) heard a plea to throw out a Dallas college student's suit challenging the so-called "Johnson for President Law."

Houston attorney Leon Jaworski, one of the five lawyers retained to fight the suit, faced Michael E. Schwille, 24, and his lawyers in U.S. District Court here.

Schwille's suit contends the article of the U.S. Constitution that prohibits a man from holding two offices at once also forbids running for two offices simultaneously.

It seeks to keep Johnson's name from going on the General Election ballot as candidate for both the U.S. Senate and the vice presidency.

Schwille Thursday filed an answer to Jaworski's motion to dismiss the controversial suit. Schwille said Jaworski's motion is in error in its contention that "disputes concerning the office of elector of vice president and the office of U.S. senator" are not within district court jurisdiction.

"The substantial federal question . . . is whether permitting one man to be a candidate for two constitutional offices at the same election, under color of statute, abridges this plaintiff's right to vote as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States," Schwille's answer brief said.

The North Texas State College student said one of his votes will be nullified if he votes for Johnson for both offices and Johnson wins both, because Johnson will have to give up one of the jobs.

The motion to dismiss claimed the student's suit involves no substantial federal constitutional question, and that "the alleged federal questions raised by the complaint are frivolous and unsubstantial."

It also contended the federal court lacks jurisdiction because the law that allows Johnson to run for both offices does not violate Schwille's federal constitutional fights.

State Democratic Chairman J. E. Connally of Abilene, vice chairman Mrs. R. Max Brooks, Austin; SDEC Secretary Jake Jacobsen, Austin; and Secretary of State Zollie Steakley are named as defendants in Schwille's suit.

Tribute To Bernard Berenson

BERENSON. By Sylvia Sprigge. Houghton Mifflin. THE PASSIONATE SIGHTSEER: Bernard Berenson. By Raymond Mortimer, from Bernard Berenson's diaries 1947 to 1956. Simon & Schuster.

Aged 94, Berenson died last October in his famous villa, "I Tatti," near Florence. He was born in 1865 in the Pale of Settlement, all-Jewish land visited by pogroms whenever the all - powerful czars willed it; and his family, losing its property there, came to America and Boston in 1875. The father was a peddler; a couple of times he spared his children embarrassment — and they appreciated it — by sneaking out the back door of a home they entered through the front door as guests. The boy read insatiably, and always remembered his indebtedness to the Boston Public Library. He turned Episcopalian—he would later become Catholic, his wife said, and he was married by priests as well as a city clerk in Florence. He entered Harvard in a class in which no Jew was registered. In 1888 he first set foot in Italy, and rarely returned to this country.

Some professors seem to have financed his trip. Mrs. Isabella Stewart Gardner of Boston's famed Fenway Court took an interest in him; and within a couple of years he bought for her, on commission, a good two dozen indisputable art masterpieces.

His mentors were Walter Pater, for pure sensuousness, and Giovanni Morelli and Giovanni Battista Cavalcaselle as masters of what we call expertise. Three quarters of a century ago Europe was full of paintings which their owners claimed were by top artists though most were by nonentities. It was before X-ray, infra - red and chemical analysis; to identify a master hand an authority had to know it intimately. By the most exacting and detailed research, by "tactile values" and "space composition," by painstaking comparison, Berenson became the man who served not only Mrs. Gardner's acquisitive career but also, for three decades, the dealer Lord Duveen until, as Miss Sprigge reminds us, nobody would think of buying a picture within Berenson's competence without his authentication. In his early years he got bounced from an English manor for challenging an owner's claim for a painting. In 1895 he took to pieces the catalog of a London show of "Venetian art," saying that out of 36 so-called Titians, only one was authentic, allowing none of the four "Carpaccios," ruling out "Mantegna" and a "Giorgione," and dismissing a portrait identified as a lady professor from Bologna, by Giorgione, as neither lady, professor, nor Cologanese, and not by Giorgione. The most spectacular decisions handed down from his eminence were for Duveen on "La Belle Ferronniere" owned in Kansas City, which he said was not by Leonardo, and against Duveen on our National Gallery's "Nativity," now labeled prudently Giorgione with maybe Titian touches.

His peddler father's children did very well. Besides Bernard, whose villa, land, pictures and library were left to Harvard, one daughter taught at Smith, one married philosophy professor Ralph Barton Perry. Bernard himself married Mary Smith; her sister Alys was Bertrand Russell's first wife; Mary left two children largely to her mother's care and deserted their father and her husband to spend some 10 years in and near Florence were Berenson was before their marriage, and the two had extra - marital affairs later. Both stayed bravely in Italy during the two wars, and in the second suffered danger and hardships.

The diaries show a man hostile to some of the "progress" we boast of; he hates Rome's sprawling new suburbs, and new buildings around the approaches to Florence's Ponte Vecchio; and he's savagely critical of traffic whose "needs are the greatest enemies to the beauty of Italy's most famouse towns", as they are on the American scene, too. Though he was sociable, he liked to be alone with the object of his study painting, ruin, vista, even the moon to which he bowed every night he glimpsed it.

A great scholar, marvelously sensitive, he is a key figure in the art activity of our time, and we sometimes unfairly forget the sensuous enjoyments of his rich years as we pay undue attention to his association with Duveen. But he missed some delights, too; he thought this was a period of artistic decadence, he didn't like modern art or modern writers like Joyce. It's a point of view which I suspect Miss Sprigge abets unnecessarily.

Herb—Seasoned Stuffing Adds Good Zesty Flavor

If your meals have had that "tired feeling" lately they may lack imagination in seasoning. The use of packaged prepared herb-seasoned stuffing can add a tang to many a hot-weather dish and buoy up those jaded summer appetites.

This salmon loaf made with prepared stuffing is a well-balanced and appealing dish for the "dog days" ahead. It can be made ahead of time and served either hot or cold.

SALMON LOAF

1 1-lb. can salmon (or 2 cups canned shrimp, crabmeat, tuna; or any flaked cooked white fish)
1 package prepared herb-seasoned stuffing
1 cup milk
½ cup salmon liquor
4 tablespoons butter, melted
2 eggs, well beaten
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon minced green pepper

Drain salmon, saving liquor. Flake the fish, discarding bones and skin. In large bowl, combine fish and all other ingredients. If you haven't ½ cup fish liquor, add milk to make up ½ cup. Blend mixture; pack onto greased loaf pan. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 F.) 30-40 minutes, or until firm in center. Serve with sauce, to which you have added two or three sliced hard-cooked eggs.

A ceramic tile in the oven as you warm your rolls later comes in handy. Just place the warm tile on the napkin in your bread basket, pike the rolls on top and you have no worries about the rolls staying warm during the meal.

Take This Cake Along With You

Golden Orange Butter Cake will be welcomed by cooks wanting a cake that's completely packable — one that travels as easily in a picnic basket as it does in a lunchbox.

Most cakes need a frosting to give them elegance and fine finish. But Golden Orange Butter Cake needs none. Eat it as is . . . or a fine dusting of powdered sugar sets it off with a bit of sweetness and color.

This cake is a real quickie to make—a one bowl affair with the dry and liquid ingredients beaten together for three minutes by an electric mixer.

Richly flavored evaporated milk makes it tender and moist with a textured crumb . . . the kind of cake you simply can't stop eating. Orange juice, peel and extract add a citrus highlight, but the real goodness is found in the butter. For fine quality shortening and distinctive flavor it's to butter that pastry chefs everywhere pay tribute.

You'll find this cake keeps remarkably well. With evaporated milk as its base, it maintains a freshness many days after baking. To a church social or bring-it-yourself supper, carry the cake in the pan in which it was baked. Before slicing, garnish with a few sprightly twists of orange peel.

GOLDEN ORANGE BUTTER CAKE

Square cake pan, 8-inch
Preheated 350 degree oven
2 ⅓ cups sifted cake flour
1 ½ teaspoons baking powder
1 ¼ cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
1-3 cup butter, softened
1 egg
2-3 cup (1 small can) evaporated milk
1-3 cup orange juice
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon orange extract
½ teaspoon grated orange peel
Confectioners sugar

Butter and flour pan; set aside. Sift dry ingredients together. Combine butter, egg, evaporated milk, orange juice, vanilla, orange extract and peel in mixing bowl. Add dry ingredients and beat 3 minutes (450 strokes by hand) using electric mixer at medium speed. Pour batter into pan; bake 40-50 minutes. Cool; dust top of cake with confectioners sugar.

DON'T LET SUMMER'S heat stop you from cake baking. Make Golden Orange Butter Cake in a jiffy with evaporated milk, then enjoy it at your leisure with tall cool glasses of milk or flavored milk floats.

The Complete History Of A Sauce

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

"WHAT IS Marinara Sauce?" a curious cook queries. "I've seen it called for in recipes but how to make it seems to be a big dark secret."

No wonder the question is asked! A search of comprehensive American cook books yields no answers. But our collection of about a dozen Italian cook books (written in English) makes clear the sauce's pedigree.

BIRTHPLACE: Italy.

NAME: Marinara means mariner and alla marinara is "in the manner of sailors or fisherfolk." Did some of Italy's coastal cooks first popularize it?

ANCESTRY: It's a member of the tomato family that plays such a large part in Italian cooking.

CHARACTER: Besides fresh or canned tomatoes the sauce's basic ingredients are olive oil and seasonings—salt, pepper, garlic, parsley, basil of oregano or both.

PERSONALITY: Fresh and light, but changeable; might even be called fickle because it switches partners. Sometimes it is married to spaghetti add then it may have the addition of anchovies or shrimp. Should it accompany fish, lemon peel and capers are often added. When it is served with rice or [illegible] add olives.

No matter what its background, Marinara Sauce is delightfully simple, yet full of flavor. Nowadays it may be had canned, or you can concoct it from the following rule.

MARINARA SAUCE

INGREDIENTS: 2 tablespoons olive oil, 1 large clove garlic (peeled and minced), 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 can (1 pound and about 3 ounces) Italian-type peeled tomatoes, ¾ to 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, ½ teaspoon crumbled oregano.

METHOD: Heat olive oil in a heavy medium-sized saucepan; add garlic and parsley; cook gently several minutes, stirring a few times, until garlic is golden. Add tomatoes, ¾ teaspoon salt, pepper to taste and sugar. Simmer, uncovered and stirring occasionally, until medium-think-about 30 minutes; 5 minutes before ready add oregano; if needed add remaining ¼ teaspoon salt.

Litterbugs Making Mockery Of 'America The Beautiful'

By ED KOTERBA

IN NEVADA.— By night it's like a million jewels blinking from the sidelines as the headlights sweep down the highway.

This is the wilderness of the desert. Nature hadn't placed those objects there. For the first-time traveler on this Los Angeles-Las Vegas highway by night, the reflections are a source of fascination.

But dawn reveals the truth. The "phenomenon" is a tribute to the wanton disregard of the American public.

By day it is nothing but an ugly, endless scar of discarded junk—broken bottles, smashed cans and other assorted refuse.

In 190,000 miles of traveling the roads of the United States I have never seen anything as bad as this stretch of highway trash. But that does not mean the travelers of our country are considerate elsewhere, for they are not.

No highway in the U. S., as far as I have found, has been able to rid itself of the expanding menace — the case of the litterbug illiterates.

Biggest laugh along the roads in virtually every state is the sign that goes like this: "No trash dumping along highway — $50 to $200 fine." Obviously it's a joke to a lot of travelers, for often we find heaps of litter circling the sign post itself.

It would be enlightening, indeed, to learn how many motorists have actually been penalized. The only case I know of happened in Virginia two years ago. A fellow let his cigar wrapper flutter out of his window into the path of a state trooper's cruiser.

Under the law, the policeman had him. The litterbug paid the full fine.

The real culprits, though, literally get away with murder. Not long ago a rowdy carload of young men began disgorging empty bottles along the highway in front of us. One bounced against a telephone pole and rolled under our wheel, exploding in a blowout.

You could hear the rowdies laughing as they rolled blithely on.

On this L. A. — Las Vegas road, the highway litter is so dense that one barefoot step anywhere along the route would draw blood. Any foreigner viewing the trail of millions of "dead soldiers" and smashed beer cans could have but one impression.

This country has degenerated into a vast society of mobile alcoholics.

"No one will deny that the American highway has replaced the family home as a training ground for disrespect. Actually, this growing trend to uglify our open countryside reflects the discourtesy, lack of discipline, the laziness and plentifulness of a prosperous American.

There is no country in the world more beautiful than ours. Yet, we're like a spoiled kid with too many toys. We've forgotten how to take care of them.

I, for one, would like to see severe punishment of all flagrant violators of the litterbug code. In that way we could rediscover the true meaning of those words, "America, the beautiful."

Zoo's Tourist Train Hits A Pedestrian

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Donand Gross, 30, of Hayward, Calif. was watching the seals at Fleishhaker Zoo so intently he didn't hear the approach of the zoo's little electrically-powered tourist train.

Train engineer Gerhard Mortinsen, 24, was so busy pointing out the seals to the train passengers that he didn't see Donald.

The train ripped off Donald's pants. He was bruised and scratched.

SAC Is Practicing Dispersal Program

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you notice a sleek bomber parked at your hometown airport, it's a token of the times — part of a sweeping program to disperse the weapons with which to strike back in the event of a sudden attack.

A few days ago the Strategic Air Command started sending individual bombers to commercial airports, deploying them temporarily from their regular airdromes to train the crews in this new procedures. This is an extension of SAC's program of building more military airfields to scatter its bombers and reduce concentrated targets for enemy missiles and planes.

The dispersal program is not confined to the Air Force. The Navy (which learned a hard lesson at Pearl Harbor) now keeps a large segment of its fleet either at sea or in widely separated ports.

The Army's strategic dispersal problem is more difficult. But it has revamped completely its battlefield plans to avoid concentrated targets for atomic fire against troops in action.

While airplanes can be distributed easily to scattered points, land-based missiles present dispersal difficulties. The fixed launching bases for transoceanic rockets, of course, can't be moved about. And their present and planned locations are known at home and abroad.

One solution is to "harden" the launchers, put them in holes reinforced to withstand anything short of a direct hit by an enemy nuclear missile or bomb.

A second solution is coming along. When the Air Force's Minuteman ICBM missile is ready, two launching techniques will be used. The solid-fuel rocket can be fired from a hardened site or from railroad cars which will move from spot to spot, constantly shifting launching positions.

The Navy claims it has the best of all solutions in its Polaris submarine system. The sea service's argument is that not only does the system of launching ballistic missiles from submarines confound enemy defenses and vastly reduce the danger of destruction of the launching base, but it provides this added feature:

If missiles bases aren't located in the United States, the reason for all-out nuclear attack on the United States is reduced.

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, says the Navy's strategy will be to move the missile-firing subs about under the escort of nuclear powered antisubmarine submarines.

Zoo's Tourist Train Hits A Pedestrian

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Donand Gross, 30, of Hayward, Calif. was watching the seals at Fleishhaker Zoo so intently he didn't hear the approach of the zoo's little electrically-powered tourist train.

Train engineer Gerhard Mortinsen, 24, was so busy pointing out the seals to the train passengers that he didn't see Donald.

The train ripped off Donald's pants. He was bruised and scratched.

AS NORTH, SOUTH BRACE FOR CLASH

Hayes Gets Starting Nod

DALLAS (AP) — Fifty - six youngsters play their final football as schoolboys tonight when the North takes to grips a stranglehold on the All-Star Game of the Texas Coaching School.

It has been six years since the South managed to triumph and in the overall series the North has won 13 games, the South 9 and there have been three ties.

The North is expected to win again tonight — the vote by the writers was 17 to 8 — because of a balanced offense. The South, coached by Clarence Underwood of Port Arthur, is a Split T team depending almost wholly on a ground attack.

Coach Emory Bellard of San Angelo, tutoring the North, has three versatile quarterbacks to throw at the acknowledged rugged South defense — Jerry Gibson of Breckenridge, Doug Cannon of Levelland and Jerry Rhome of Dallas Sunset. Gibson is a great runner, Cannon and Rhome shine at passing.

DICK HAYES
From QB To LH

The chief hope of Underwood is Gil Gonzales of Falfurrias, whom the coach calls "the best I ever have seen at handling the ball." Keyman of his thunderous ground attack is fullback Tom Davies of San Antonio Alamo Heights.

A crowd of 15,000 to 20,000 is expected for the game in the Cotton Bowl. The record of 20,408 set at Houston in 1958 is not expected to be surpassed.

Starting lineups:

North: le, David Parks, Abilene; lt, Benny Stout, Pampa; lg, Beverly Herndon, Sweetwater; c, Tim Faulkner, Tyler; rg, Bobby Gamblin, Stamford; rt, Benny Shields, Wichita Falls; re, Wayne Hullet, Mesquite; qb, Jerry Gibson, Breckenridge; lh, Billy Gannon, Highland Park; rh, Dick Hayes, Snyder; fb, Harold Philipp, Olney.

SOUTH HAS RISEN AGAIN

North Thumpers Surprised, 68-58

DALLAS (AP)—Regret was expressed today, especially in the Southwest Conference, that Rick Kaminsky, the firecracker from Houston Bellaire, is leaving Texas to play his college basketball.

The solid, 6-foot-1 playmaker did everything with the ball Thursday night as he led the South out of the wilderness of the Texas Coaching School All-Star game.

Not since 1954 had the South won in the 15-year-old series, but Kaminsky scored 19 points and set up many more with his expert ball-handling and maneuvering as the South beat the North 68-58.

Kaminsky is going to Yale—the only player appearing in the All-Star game to leave the state.

The game was a thriller, with the score changing hands 12 times. The North once was six points ahead, and the South never went out front to stay until only 4:39 remained.

Kaminsky flipped in two free throws to tie the score, then Joe Fisher of Beaumont South Park, Larry Phillips of Houston Jones and Bennie Lenox of Clear Creek combined their shooting talents with Kaminsky's to pull the South rapidly ahead.

Kaminsky and Phillips scored 7 and 6 points, respectively, in the last five minutes. Phillips, second high point man of the game with 12, 12 going to Rice. Lenox, who had 12 points, is headed for Texas A&M; Fisher will go to Texas.

The game actually was decided on the free throw line where the South capped in on 28 of 38 chances while the North, which led in field goals, could get only 16 of 26.

The North got more shots at the basket but managed only 21 field goals in 58 tries. The South made 20 of 49.

Frank Schaffer of Borger, who is going to West Texas State, and Spencer Carlson of Alpine, who will attend Baylor, led in rebounds, with eight apiece. Carlson, playing for the South, also scored nine points. Schaffer, playing for the North, got 4 and managed only two.

Kaminsky was named outstanding player of the game.

Gerald Cobb of Galena Park, coach of the victorious South, was tutoring his last basketball team and the triumph was especially satisfying to him—winning his last game and also bringing the South one up on Dick Todd, the business manager of the school.

Between You And Me

By Jerry Jackson

Admittedly, the weather is still baseballish, what with the balmy breezes and 100-plus temps. The transition to football is no more than the faintest of whispers away, however.

One sure seasonal sign of the fact is the coaching school now underway in Dallas, the high point of which will be tonight's North-South grid clash. Taking part in that encounter—as a halfback, no less—will be Snyder's Dick Hayes, who wrote a special chapter into the Tiger record books with his feats for the Black and Gold.

All reports from Dallas this week concerning his play have been good, which is not surprising in the least. And he could very well make the difference for the North camp tonight.

Another sign of King Football's early intrusion? Brochures, press books, and poop sheets from near and far corners of the state which have begun to dribble in with regularity.

Purple Shades On The Lilly Pond

TCU's FROG FACTS has an attractive and catchy cover showing a caricature of Coach Abe Martin releasing from an improvised Aladdin's Lamp a 250-pound apparition in the form of all-America tackle candidate Bob Lilly. He hovers over ten scurrying figures who represent the upcoming Frog foes for the year.

Possibly the most complete and informative of the books received to date, it passes along some prime info on a couple of ex-Tiger performers.

On Milton Ham: "One of the SWC's top defensive hands . . . comes up with "clutch" play when needed . . . Just a darn good all-round football player, solid' says Coach Martin has the toughness and is a top competitor . . . could use more size . . . should be top defensive end on team . . . pass receiving rated only fair, but this department is expected to improve as the campaign gets underway . . . was an all-state player at Snyder High . . . for past two seasons, been a member with the No. 2 or alternate unit . . . broke his jaw during freshman season . . . had best year as receiver in 1959, grabbing 6 for 78 yards . . . known as the 'talker' of the squad, always ready with a quip . . . is married, and a proud father . . . look for a top-notch season here . . . his varsity playing time—194 minutes in 1958, 200 in 1959."

And Bill Phillips: "Loads of ability and speed are possessed by this youngster . . . could have a fine season . . . quick as a cat with his feet, and is just as agile . . . should be an excellent man for this spot . . . former all-state lineman at Snyder High, and while at TCU has been given trial at end, tackle, and right guard . . . hits hard . . . may be No. 1 before season is too far along . . . sophomore in eligibility."

The Texas Aggie press book has pictured on its cover another local product in the form of Powell Berry, who is alternate captain for the Cadets for the '60 campaign. His thumbnail sketch: Senior 2-year letterman from Snyder. Age 21, 6-1, 185. Alternate captain for 1960. Played all but one quarter in 1959, sharing quarterback duties with Charles Millstead and also playing halfback. One of four quarterback candidates for 1960. Emerged as top QB after spring game."

And then on to Texas Tech, whose cover is graced with a rocket representing the launching of the school into its first Southwest Conference football season. Snyder's Larry Mullins is being hoomed for a top spot in the Raider line, as evidenced by this position analysis sketch on the tackle situation: "Return all five listed tackles at close of season. Robert Meyer moved from '59 guard position. Good duels between Larry Mullins and Bobby Cline, starters at close of '59 for one starting spot, between Tommy Pace and Richard Stafford for other."

Also, Richard Mahan of Snyder will be in the thick of things in the quarterback picture: "Total offense leader Glen Amerson, a fullback in '58, is only returnee with varsity experience. Solid No. 2 choice is big soph Johnny Lovelace. Sophs Allen Shuler and Richard Mahan fighting for No. 3 spot."

Missin' Sumpin'?

Who lost the stadium seat? that is the question before us today. One was found which had been left in the stands at the Teenage League park following Monday's opening round of playoff games. It's one of those hand-carry foldup jobs. Eye-catching, too—chartreuse and red with a blue pillow.

The owner may pick it up from W. F. McMennamy at Snyder Glass and Mirror.

HAVLIK WAS DIFFERENCE

Dodgers Dumped By Angelo, 5-1

SAN ANGELO—Snyder Dodger righthander Ronnie Bennett came on the hurling scene with only one away in the first inning here last night and pitched brilliant no-hit no-run ball for the rest of the game. But the stellar effort went for naught, as the damage had already been done and the San Angelo Police Assn. nine advanced into the finals of the District 3 Junior Teenage Tournament with a 5-1 victory.

The Angeloans will meet Brownwood, 10-4 conquerors of Big Spring in the opener of the evening, in the finals here tonight in Old Bobcat Stadium, the winner of which will earn a trip to the state tournament in Victoria August 11-13.

Southpaw Jim Havlik was the whole show for Angelo, his performance on the mound and also at the plate telling the story. He gave up only two singles to the Snyder nine over the course of the contest and sent 15 down via the strike route.

He blasted a grandslam homer in the first to break the Dodgers' backs, though, and put the game on ice before it had hardly gotten started.

Adam Romero started on the hill for Snyder and forced leadoff hitter David Stricklin to ground out to first. But he had no peace of mind thereafter, as Lloyd Wilson got on by error, Alex Decuir was nipped in the letters by a pitched ball, and Larry Loudamy dribbled an infield single to third to load the bases.

Next, Havlik. He leaned into Romero's first offering and sent a liner to deep right which sailed over the head of John Flynn and rolled all the way to the fence for an inside-the-park four bagger and the resulting four runs.

Romero next walked James Thomas, who took second on a passed ball and scored as Jerry Mabry lined a double down the left field line. That blow sent Romero to the showers, after which Bennett came on to force the next two batsmen to ground out to end the inning.

The Dodgers' sole run was realized in the first frame, also. Romero drew a base on balls to lead off the inning, then took second as an attempted pickoff play went awry. He scored as Dalton Walton sent a looping Texas League single into short right.

The only ball which Snyder was able to loft out of the infield the entire evening.

Havlik proved himself to be too tough to handle from then on, though, as the Snyderites were unable to advance a runner past second for the remainder of the contest.

The Dodgers played a sparkling brand of defensive ball in absorbing the loss, with mighty mite Drew Bullard being the most impressive performer afield. In the third frame he robbed Jerry Mabry of a hit by bolting toward second to scoop up a hopper, wheel, and fling to first in time to cut him down. He also instigated a well-executed twin killing in the sixth, which helped to keep the Angelo offensive hands sufficiently tied.

Kenny Wellborn, Dodger first baseman, was also responsible for a picture play fielding effort in the fourth as he nailed Stricklin unassisted.

Cards Skyrocket Into Contention

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Los Angeles did it last year. Why can't we do it this year?"

That was St. Louis Manager Solly Hemus' reply today when asked whether he thought his Cardinals could make the jump from seventh to first place in one year.

Solly was right about the Dodgers. But whether he's right about his Redbirds is something else. The odds are overwhelmingly against him. Only three clubs—the 1926 Yankees, 1946 Red Sox and 1959 Dodgers—have ever leaped from seventh to first in one year.

Hemus, the eternal optimist, laughed at the odds.

"What would you say the odds were last spring against our being in second place this late in the season?" he asked.

That's exactly where the surprising St. Louis club landed Thursday night after knocking off Milwaukee, 4-2, to sweep the three-game series with the Braves and extend its winning streak to seven games. Not since May of 1958, when the Cards were managed by Fred Hutchinson, have they put together as many consecutive triumphs.

The defeat was the Braves' fourth straight and dropped them into third place, half a game behind St. Louis and four lengths back of Pittsburgh.

The Pirates defeated the Dodgers 4-1 to remain 3½ games in front of St. Louis. San Francisco came from behind to nip Philadelphia 8-7 and the Chicago Cubs downed Cincinnati 5-3.

Washington dropped the White Sox 1½ games behind the American League leading Yankees by defeating Chicago 2-1. Boston swept an afternoon doubleheader from Kansas City 5-3 and 9-1. Cleveland, Detroit, Baltimore and the Yankees were idle.

Thursday was a day of "firsts" in the National League. The Cards whipped Bob Buhl for the first time this season. He has beaten them twice.

Ray Sadecki, 19-year-old southpaw, hurled a six-hitter and helped register his sixth victory with a pair of singles.

George Witt posted his first victory in the rubber of the three game series with the Dodgers.

Odstrcil And Bunch Pace Men's Kegling

A missile gap continues to spread at the Snyder Lanes—McAlister Van Line missiles that are black, round, and have three holes in them, that is.

Thanks to a sparkling effort on the part of a couple of keglers with the names Stan Odstrcil and J. L. Bunch, McAlister last night managed to increase its already commanding lead in the Men's Summer League to nine points over American Founders Life Insurance.

A devastating performance on the collective parts of the Vanmen who rolled the three high lines of 932-900-895 and, of course, the top series of the night with a total of 2727. Lawson Construction was a faraway second in series with 2452 and City of Snyder third with its 2366.

Odstrcil was recipient of high individual series laurels with his aggregate of 580. He also copped the second high line of 214.

Bunch was second in series with 561 and third in the high line race with 204.

Luther Transfer's John C. Young rolled the top line of the night as he threw together a 219 to lead the way.

Behind Odstrcil and Bunch in the individual series stakes was Jim Tatum of City of Snyder with 552.

Split pickups as recorded went as follows: City of Snyder—Jim Tatum 3-10; American Founders—Charles Morrow 3-10; VFW—Earl Chapman 3-10; Lawson—Mairl McFaul 3-10; City of Snyder—K. O. Pitner 7-4-5, Harve Tatum 5-10.

Our Symbol

One of our most treasured relics is the Liberty Bell. It is so-called because it was rung on July 8, 1776 to summons the citizenry for the terse announcement that the Declaration of Independence had been adopted. Today, it remains the greatest symbol of a nation free from tyranny in government and intolerance in religion ... that nation is America.

But one fact often overlooked is that when the historic bell was originally cast its makers turned to the Bible, to Leviticus, for the words inscribed around its contour: "Proclaim Liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof." What a beginning! What a heritage! What a privilege to be a son or daughter of Freedom's Land. What a blessing to be an American.

How great is our Symbol!!!

Junior Editors Quiz on WOOD

QUESTION: Where does balsa wood come from?

* * *

ANSWER: When the early Spanish explorers came to Central America and the West Indies they found the natives sailing around on rafts made of a very light wood. They called the wood "balsa," which is Spanish for "raft." There are several types of balsa wood. The lightest kind weighs only about four pounds per cubic foot. A block of cork the same size would weigh four times as much. Most balsa wood comes from Central and South America. Balsa wood, because of its lightness, often is used in the manufacture of life jackets and other objects that are designed to float on water. It also is used to build model airplanes.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: Get some balsa wood from a hobby store and make a model raft with it like the natives of tropical America. You can sail it in your bathtub.

OPEN HOUSE AND HOMECOMING SUNDAY—Sunday will be a great day for the East Side Church of Christ as they will show off their new $210,000 building to friends and former members and start an 8-day gospel meeting. East Side Church Of Christ Slates Open House Sunday

The East Side Church of Christ will hold open house and homecoming this Sunday in their new $210,000 building located at 201 Thirty-first Street with an 8-day meeting starting simultaneously. Open house will be from two to five o'clock in the afternoon.

[illegible] McNight of Plainview will begin a meeting Sunday with morning services during the week at 9:30 and evening services at 7:30. Night lessons will be "An Illustrated Trip through the Bible."

"We urge all our friends and former members to view our new place of worship," the elders have said.

The new structure is situated in the center of two city blocks surrounded by a paved, lighted parking area. Of rock faced white brick, it faces the south with two additional foyers on the east and west with the west entrance a covered drive-in to accommodate invalids and elderly people and to protect clothing in inclement weather. Turquoise trim and matching wrought iron columns on the covered walk on three sides lend a touch of color.

Designed by Frank Darby, Jr. the building has the low, simple lines of modern contemporary architecture incorporating [illegible] square feet of space [illegible] spacious classrooms, a preacher's study, an office, two nurseries, and an auditorium that will seat over 1200.

The auditorium is paneled in natural birch with the baptistry done in a sculpted painting by Foy Nutt. The painting is a river scene with rocky slopes, the deep tones of which draw attention to the center front. The opera seats are semicircular rising from the rostrum.

This huge edifice was the direct result of a fire in the old frame building on Twenty-fifth Street which did $25,000 damage. This caused the elders to revise existing plans for the East Side Church from a small building to take care of the overflow from Twenty-fifth Street into one to accommodate the entire congregation.

The first meeting place of the Snyder church was on the bank of Deep Creek just west of the city hall. The building was erected in 1907, ten years after a series of meetings were first held in Snyder in 1897.

In 1915 the church moved to [illegible] Street and Avenue S, [illegible] first building [illegible] Twenty-fifth Street in 1926 [illegible]

[illegible] building, but [illegible] crowded conditions, but the congregation grew [illegible] and two services were held each Sunday morning. The auditorium there could seat 500 and there were 15 small classrooms.

Ministers for the congregation [illegible] with elders including W. T. Gandy, W. F. McMennamy, Van [illegible], H. K. Murray, Gray Parks, J. E. Payne, E. J. Richardson, H. F. Rogers, Lewis Smith, and J. T. Stephens. Deacons are Garth Austin, Phil Burts, A. L. Carey, Wade Davis, Seaborn Eicke, Virgil Fleming, [illegible] H. Gillum, Malcolm James, [illegible], Edwin Parks, Bill Perkins, Glenn Porterfield, Don Robinson, and Charles Stephens.

The building committee was composed of Don Robinson, Claude McCormick, D. R. Scott, Buford Browning, and W. F. McMennamy.

Ailing Nuns Aid Fight On Cancer

DEVON, Pa. (AP) — In a cramped little laboratory that was once a bathroom, a small band of physically afflicted nuns are doing their bit in the fight on cancer.

The nuns, members of the Roman Catholic Congregation of Jesus Crucified, pore over microscopes examining specimen slides for the presence of uterine cancer.

The specimen slides are brought to the convent each week by Dr. Edward Rehak, chief pathologist at St. Agnes Hospital in Baltimore. He takes back the finished work and the nuns' reports.

Dr. Rehak supplied the first inspiration for the project while casting about for some productive activity that would also have a therapeutic value for the nuns themselves.

They suffer from such illnesses as polio, heart disease, rheumatism, arthritis, osteomyelitis and tuberculosis.

Mother Marie Landri, prioress of Regina Mundi Priory, gave her approval and the laboratory was set up in the bathroom of what was once a doctor's mansion.

The lab, headed by Japanese-born Mother Marie Aimee, examines about 50 slides a week on its present schedule. It hopes to reach 100 a week before long.

Doctors say the laboratory detectives have spotted between five and 10 unsuspected cancer cases out of every 1,000 specimen slides they have examined.

Eight of the 30 nuns in the community now do the laboratory work. They are trained by Mother Marie Aimee, who prepared herself by taking a course at Temple University Medical Center in Philadelphia.
