There is a great deal of satisfaction in seeing our children participate in the type of Halloween magic we older goblins knew so well when we were children -- and to see it done without the hazards our modern world has imposed upon this celebration is an even greater pleasure.

County redistricting work under way

By Becky Werhan

Work on the redistricting of Aransas County is now in the preliminary stages, following the official hiring last week by the commissioner's court of L. Tucker Gibson and Associates of San Antonio.

Gibson and Associates will act as consultants in the redistricting process. The agreement to hire the firm was first made some four weeks ago by the commissioners (See Pilot, Oct. 3). The hold-up between the agreement and the actual hiring occurred because County Judge John D. Wendell insisted that a contract between the county and the firm be drawn up first.

Following the signing of the contract last Tuesday, work on an evaluation of the county's present plan has started. Upon completion of the evaluation and drawing up of a summary, the firm will schedule an open work session with the court.

According to Paula Marvell, representative of the Gibson firm, the first work session should take place sometime in the next two weeks and will be made open to the public.

"At the first session," said Marvell, "we'll present an evaluation of the present plan as a starting point and offer a preliminary off-the-wall alternative — something for the court to chew on."

Marvell stressed that whenever possible, communities of interest will be maintained in one precinct. "We try to keep things as close to normal as we can. Voters are used to voting in one place and there will be a lot of money involved in re-registering them, so we try to avoid that option," said Marvell.

Area woman critical after collision Sunday

Joanne Marie Arkell, 44, of Rt. 1, Rockport, was listed in critical condition Monday as the result of injuries suffered in the earlier of two accidents that sent three persons to hospitals Sunday.

Mrs. Arkell was taken to Memorial Medical Center by an Aransas County ambulance unit after her small car was struck by a larger vehicle about 6 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of Highway 35 North and FM 3036 in Fulton.

Highway Patrolman Steve Miller said Mrs. Arkell was reportedly on her way to work at a Fulton restaurant when a car driven by a 16-year-old youth ran a stop sign at the intersection and struck Mrs. Arkell's vehicle on the driver's side door.

Just over 12 hours later, at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, two Aranas Pass residents were injured when their motorcycle was struck by a pickup on Raht Street approximately 200 feet south of Maple.

The driver of the pickup, Robert E. Ormand, 53, of 911 Moline, was charged with felony driving while intoxicated following the collision.

Rockport police, who investigated the accident, said the motorcycle, driven by Floyd Allen Denison, 35, of Aransas Pass, was northbound on Raht (Highway 35) when Ormand turned in front of the vehicle into the SeaAire Shopping Center parking lot.

Denison and a passenger, Judy Denison, also of Aransas Pass, were taken to Spohn Hospital. Denison was reported suffering a broken back and she was listed as having a compound leg fracture.

Pirates to close season

After nine weeks of trying to establish a winning record which eluded them this season, the Rockport-Fulton Pirates will be looking to end their season with five wins and five losses if they can beat West Oso Friday night in Pirate Stadium.

The Pirates, after playing so well against Beeville, had a very flat performance against Calallen, a team which had a super game against the Pirates and won the contest 43-20.

Meanwhile, the Bears entertained San Antonio St. Gerards, losing the contest to the Alamo City team 27-0, mainly because the Oso offense turned over the ball on nine occasions (six fumbles; three interceptions).

The game will provide a showcase for three of the top five rushers in District 15-4A. Michael Simmons of Rockport-Fulton has already eclipsed the 1,000 yard mark for the year, and teammate Dwayne Walls, if healthy this week, just might make that plateau as well. The Bears have a loaded offense, but most of the burden falls on James Boyd, a class runner in his own right.

Not unlike the Pirates, the Bears had a season which has not reached the predicted level the Bears expected before the year began, so there is a lot of pride at stake in this contest.

Rockport's defense will be tested to see if they can stop the Boyd Express. If the Bears get close enough to kick, Boyd does that very well.

There are a lot of seniors who would like to leave a good taste in the Pirate fans' mouths, so look for the Pirates to really get after the Bears.

ACTA proceeds with straw petition

According to spokesman Pat Collie of the Aransas County Taxpayers Association, "the opportunity for all taxpayers in the Aransas County School District to protest the unseemingly high tax increase by the school board is available."

The Taxpayers Association will be circulating straw petitions against the school tax increase on Wednesday, Nov. 4 and Saturday, Nov. 7, at Winn's, Roaten Drug, Sacred Heart Catholic Church and both Rockport and Fulton post offices.

The decision to go with a straw petition was made by the ACTA membership at a meeting last month. An official roll back petition was originally planned but the law allowing such an action does not go into effect until January 1, 1982, so a straw petition was chosen as an alternative show of force.

The petition reads as follows: "This petition addresses the governing body of the Aransas County Independent School District. We, the undersigned taxpayers of the ACISD, petition the board to regain control of the school district by passing a board resolution instructing the adminstration to adapt procedures and techniques that will result in fiscal responsibility, budget restraint and public accountability. A second board resolution is requested which pledges the board to no tax increase for the 1982-83 budget."

Sail Club lease to be opposed

Two items of the 18 item agenda on the Tuesday night meeting of the Aransas County Navigation Board meeting promise to draw protest.

The Casa Allegro Condominium Owner's Association has placed an item on the agenda in protest of the recent lease granted to the Rockport Sail Club.

The Casa Allegro Condominium Owner's Association has been collecting signatures in an effort to stop the lease to the Rockport Sail Club.

The Rockport Sail Club has also requested to lease bottom lands between lots number 55 and 1-A on Key Allegro Island Estates, Unit 1 for the purpose of constructing boat slips.

Also under old business on the agenda will be the discussion of a resolution for the redemption of Aransas County Navigation District number 1, Series 1974 Revenue Bond Interest Coupon number 14 of Bonds number 48 through 55 inclusive, in the amount of $632.50, as of October 15, 1981.

There will also be a discussion on the Cove Harbor North Project by Mr. Cochran as well as discussion on Cove Harbor dredging.

Also scheduled is a resolution by Navigation and Canal Commissioners for construction of a Fulton boat ramp facility with funding by State of Texas, acting through Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

An employee wage review is scheduled as well as a request to approve transfer of $15,000 from the Revenue Account to the General Account.

H-35 bypass purchases one-fourth complete

The right of way purchase necessary for the Highway 35 bypass project is approximately 25 percent complete, says a spokesman for the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Homer Harris, District Right of Way Supervisor for the department said that the parcels purchased are, for the most part, in the south end of the project range, in Aransas Pass.

Aransas County is the official purchasing agent for the project and County Judge John Wendell has handled the purchasing. The procedure necessary for a parcel purchase begins with a state appraisal, approving the parcel for purchase. The county then makes the buy and is reimbursed 90 percent of the cost by the highway department.

Full amount of the monies spent on the project to date is $437,238. Ten percent of that, $43,680, is the county's share. State reimbursement to the county totals $393,588.

Some 200 parcels of land make up the bypass site, says supervisor Harris. The parcels, some of which will have to go through the condemnation process prior to sale, should be completely acquired in four to five years, says Harris, who praised Judge Wendell's speedy action in the purchasing process.

Construction on the bypass will begin following complete right of way purchase, and is planned in four segments.

Segment one runs from the south end of the bypass, off of FM 1069 and parallel to Avenue A in Aransas Pass to FM 881. Segment two runs from 881 to 1069 and segment three runs from 1069 to the Aransas County Airport. The fourth and final segment stretches from the airport to the Copano Causeway, running along the Copano Bay waterline.

Lift station due major renovations

Plans are being drawn up now for the first major improvements to Rockport's Little Bay Shores lift station since 1969 — when some larger pumps were installed, according to Director of Public Works J.C. Gurley.

The plans currently in the works are for installation of new tanks on the east side of the existing station located on Glass Ave. just east of the Glass/Highway 35 North (Raht) intersection.

The tanks (wet well) have been in steady service since the lift station was installed in 1954, Gurley said, and the

Oil tank fire

While firemen watch, an oil field tank burns after it was struck by lightning about 4:45 p.m. Saturday just off Highway 35 south of Rockport. Units from the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department and Aransas Pass Fire Department responded to the alarm but the bad weather hampered their efforts to extinguish the blaze. A man taking care of the lease for the oil company that owns the tank — Petroleum Management Inc. of Corpus Christi — reportedly brought the fire under control by activating the safety shut-off valves. No additional information on the fire or the extent of damage to the tank was available as of press time.

City could be anywhere, U.S.A.

By Ted Norman

Almost every day a stack of paper comes across my desk with news releases, columns and stories from everywhere in the state as well as the country and the largest percent of it makes a sharp right hand turn into the circular file by my desk, but sometimes I run into a choice piece of information.

About a week ago a pamphlet arrived in a stack of mail that really caught my eye and I filed it until I had more time to really digest what it was.

The paper was labeled Community Data Profile and it made it sound as though the residence of Rockport, Texas are living in Anywhere, U.S.A.

The paper is loaded with bits of information compiled by government agencies and mailed out to chambers of commerce to use to gain more knowledge about their own town or city than they already know.

The paper says that Rockport is located 49 kilometers from Corpus Chrisit and has a population of 3,659.

We have 21 churches and southeast wind and five shopping centers and two medical clinics.

The average temperature is 13 degrees in the winter, 21 in the summer and averages 21 degrees year-round. That is of course celsius.

The information goes on to tell us that we have 45 motels with 1,000 rooms, eight doctors and five dentist but we don't know how many nurses or paramedics there are.

The report says Rockport doesn't have a bowling alley, a skating rink or an auto race track. In regards to the latter they obviously aren't counting Highway 35.

The paper says there are no swimming pools in Rockport but I can think of seven, one private, one semi private and three at motels that were installed only this past summer. And, of course, they have overlooked our saltwater pool.

We abound with tennis courts, 25, but only one golf course and three city parks.

Rockport reportedly has 52 elementary teachers and 66 secondary teachers and 32 special education or vocation teachers that practice their trade in five schools in the town.

The Rockport library has only 24,500 volumes on file but with 25 tennis courts, who has time to read?

The information package says the Rockport Pilot is the largest weekly in town with a circulation of 3,850.

The major employer in town is Rockport Yacht and Supply with 132 male employees and 15 females. Ashland Chemical is next with 59 male employees and three female. The Aransas County Independent School District is third with 63 male and 210 female employees.

So after reading all of that you can conclude that Rockport could be Anywhere U.S.A., or it could be Camelot, personally I think it's somewhere in-between.

AWACS controversy continues

TWO WEEKS AGO I wrote harshly, angrily about the 301 congressmen who voted against the sale of AWACS to Saudi Arabia. The tenor of my sentiments has not diminished and since the vote of Texas Senators last week has not been widely publicized let the record be clear. Tower voted for the sale, Bentsen against. Time and the trend of world events will establish the extent of Bentsen's criminality. The excuses of those in the congress who voted against the AWACS sale are feeble and flimsy indeed and only illustrate the strong pro Israeli influence in this country.

HERE I INDULGE IN AN aside to point to what seems to be the unending stupidity of our politicians to view other countries in terms of how they compare in their acts and deeds to our concepts of what we think of as being real democracy. There is an unceasing inability to recognize that democracy as we conceive it is not only impossible but unacceptable to many other nations abroad, especially perhaps, in the Middle and Far East.

Acting for the present and future good of the United States a statesman (Find one!) should stand for our best interests rather than what might be called sentimental attachments to any special country. Here in brief our best interests are served by courting the trust and friendship of the Arabic countries. Not Israel.

That is a decision reached first by simply counting heads in the Arabic world. After that one need only examine the map of that region and then recognize the efforts of Russia to exert its influence there.

AND SO THE AWACS sale did go through, President Reagan is in control of the White House, not Menachem Begin. But in the light of the anti Arab publicity, our enduring generosity toward Israeli, how are the Arabic people left to feel?

Pretend for a moment that the situation is reversed, we, not Saudi Arabia, are the ones seeking the AWACS or other concessions. In Saudi Arabia the pros and cons are debated even as they have been here. We finally get what we ask for, but how grateful are we after the things that have been said about us? If I know anything at all about my fellow countrymen, we'd be blistering. The Arabs seem to sit calmly by, but what are their innermost thoughts?

IDEALISTICALLY I should like to see our country sit back and let events in the Middle East take care of themselves. If the Israelis have the money to buy weapons or whatever else we have to sell, let them buy. Ditto the Arabs. Alas, that is impossible, largely due of course to Russian ambitions.

For our own well being then, selfishly if you like, our lot should be cast with the Arabs. Remember the head count and the map. Unluckily we seem to have painted ourselves into a corner; largely because of us the state of Israel was established in Palestine, the Arab world, an event that must in time go down in history as the greatest "damn fool" move of any and all great nations in history.

AND SO THERE WILL come a time when both Israel and the Arabs will openly prepare for the next war. Then will the United States provide Israel with its means for defense — even as we actually do now? Then the Arabs will turn to Moscow for means to protect themselves. Then what?

Never mind past Israeli wars, in the big one they will fall if only because of the sheer weight of Arab numbers, unless we supply Israel with our manpower. Either way, Moscow stands to become the champions of the Arabs and gain effective control of the flow of oil from that region, and at very little cost, compared to our outlays in men and equipment.

Here I suspect that Russian manpower outlay would be mostly in the way of advisors. Their typical cold reasoning would allow them to sit back and let others do the fighting while maintaining the appearance of allies. The numbers of lives lost would mean nothing for so long as they in the end come to control the Middle East. A nice Kremlin scenario. The Middle East is today a chess board and last week Moscow made an important move of the pawn, giving full diplomatic recognition to the PLO.

THIS WRITER IS NEIther a diplomat, politician or statesman, instead a pragmatist. As such I see our only course as to establish the best possible relations with all of the Arab world, continue our friendship for so long as possible with Israel, but without favors. There are those who will cry treason. But the pragmatist answers — where lies the most important interest — the freedom of 200 million Americans or the fate of three million Israelis? If the answer is yes for 200 million it may be called unmanly, an uncharacteristic American choice, but? — ahab

Editor:

In Danbury, Connecticut an attorney is going to plead "Demonic Possession" for his client, who is accused of stabbing his girl friend's boss to death during an argument over her.

The attorney has stated he is confident the judge will see things his way. How nice.

He also plans to take up to two months, if necessary to seat a jury of his liking. Again, how nice.

He even describes the type of people he needs to win the case. How nice.

People who believe in devils is that adult thinking?

This entire nation, with all of its comfort producing inventions is attributed to constructive thinking on the part of many people, but when destructive thinking occurs and a life is taken, there are those who would have you believe there is a boogerman somewhere.

Undisciplined self pity, commonly referred to as jealous rage, as in this case, is the only devil that killed that man.

If the present system of justice is not changed it will soon take half of the population to keep the other half in jail.

When one person kills another under such conditions, that is hellish enough without calling it by any other name.

HEB organizational changes announced

In response to the growth and implementation of H.E. Butt Grocery Company's Super Food/Drug Store program, organizational changes have been made within the Store Operations Division, announced Harry Beckner, executive vice president and chief operating officer of H.E.B.

Effective Nov. 2, H.E.B.'s Store Operations will be organized into four operating divisions: North Texas, Gulf Coast, South Texas and San Antonio Divisions. Previously, Store Operations consisted of Northern and Southern Regions, encompassing 13 districts.

"The new organization was designed to create a more supportive relationship between management and our H.E.B. people," stated Fully Clingman, senior vice president-store operations. "These changes will provide quality leadership and counseling for our Store people in order to satisfy our customers' expectations, to improve productivity and to support our employees' development and growth ambitions."

New management appointments have been made to facilitate the organizational changes.

Fully Clingman, former vice president-store operations, has assumed the duties of senior vice president-store operations over all store divisions.

The Gulf Coast Division, consisting of the Coastal Bend, Corpus Christi North and South Districts, will be directed by Ron Denny. He has held the positions of store manager and San Antonio and Corpus Christi District manager.

Manager of the South Texas Division is Howard Butt III, responsible for the Valley, Southwest and West Texas Districts. Butt previously served as manager of the San Antonio #4 District, Waco District and has opened and managed stores in San Antonio.

Upcoming season appears promising

The upcoming deer season promises to be everything that last year wasn't.

Good forage and better than normal weather conditions should result in better quality deer than a year ago and more of them, according to a Texas Agricultural Extension Service wildlife specialist.

Hunters can even expect better antlered deer from the improved nutrition which is a major contributing factor to their condition.

"Last year's drought effectively reduced the deer numbers in overpopulated areas," explains Dr. Dwight Guynn. "This year there is more food for each animal which translates into good antler growth for bucks and higher fawn crops for does."

Higher fawn crops generally means the deer herds are immediately beginning a population increase. Hence, Guynn stresses that landowners and hunters can work toward a larger female harvest this year in order to keep down the increasing deer population where desired.

"Failure to harvest more does in the past seasons led to overpopulated conditions in many parts of the state that results in large die-offs similar to what happened when the drought hit last year," Guynn says. "Historically, deer harvests in the Hill Country have been about 10 percent of the population per year. However, we recommend that 20-25 percent of the deer population be harvested annually just to compensate for reproduction and keep the population from increasing beyond the food supply."

Guynn, a certified wildlife biologist, headquartered at Texas A&M's Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Uvalde, says its getting harder each year to predict the type hunting season that hunters can expect. Weather conditions and food availability are major considerations. With a good acorn crop and lush green forage available, deer will feed mostly at night and bed down during the day, making hunting more difficult.

He says an early frost or scarch food conditions during the season usually cause deer to roam more during daylight hours to seek food. Deer would then be more visible and available to hunters. They could also be more easily drawn to baited stands.

Guynn reminds landowners that deer census techniques and spotlight counts can be used to better determine deer populations and evaluate proper harvest levels. More can be learned about these techniques along with aging methods, harvest record systems and harvest recommendations through local county Extension agents or Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife officials.

Deer season opens in most Texas counties at sunrise on Nov. 14. Good hunting!

Federal bill would solve allocation problems

One of the most important pieces of legislation in history is currently working its way through Congress, with very little attention and fanfare. It is known as "standby allocation authority" and, according to the Texas Oil Marketers Association, (TOMA), it is vitally important to rural and agricultural regions of the country. On Sept. 30, 1981, the federal authority to impose allocation and price controls expired.

"We are concerned that the public is not aware that there is not sufficient authority for Congress or the President to implement an allocation system in the event of a severe shortage," TOMA President Perry N. Bolin maintains.

TOMA is a statewide trade association composed of more than 850 small independent companies that own, supply, or operate chains of branded and unbranded service stations. These firms also supply the vast majority of refined patroleum products for agriculture, energy production and commercial needs.

"In the event of a significant problem supply disruption, reducing U.S. crude oil imports by 30 percent, the nation's rural and agricultural regions such as Texas, are likely to endure a drastically disproportionate share of the product shortfall with serious economic consequences," Bolin says.

The TOMA leader feels a shortfall of the above dimensions, without benefit of a federal government plan to allocate and control prices, can be expected to result in the financial failure of more than one third of the nations independent petroleum distributors. At present, rural and agricultural regions are nearly 90 percent reliant upon the independent distributor network for fuel requirements and for credit for farm fuel purchases.

What could happen in the event of a severe shortage?

According to the National Oil Jobbers Council "the cost of gasoline could be expected to reach $2.80 per gallon; diesel fuel could reach $2.60 per gallon. Distributors would be effectively prohibited from securing their allocation fractions because as the price of product doubled, their lines of credit with their refiner-suppliers would be fixed at a finite level. Thus, the combination of fewer gallons at higher prices within fixed lines of credit on the one hand and long-term accounts receivables on the other, would place a significant number of small business distributors in serious financial disability."

"We are also very concerned that if there are not standby controls available that would allow for equitable allocations to distributors and establish priority entitlements for agriculture and energy production, refiners could divert product to their high volume service stations in metropolitan areas or ship diesel fuel back East so it could be sold for a higher price as home heating oil," Bolin said.

The Texas Oil Marketers Association feels that the answer to these problems is for Congress to pass legislation giving the President and Congress express authority to initiate such controls in the event of a severe shortage.

There are others who support this contention. The General Accounting Office recently stated that the United States is "almost totally unprepared" to deal with significant oil import disruptions. The situation, the GAO said "requires immediate attention." "Oil market disruptions are extraordinary happenings; therefore, total reliance on unfettered markets is an inappropriate means for dealing with disruptions and will lead to greater economic and political losses than would occur under an integrated approach guided by government action," the GAO report said.

Senator J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., has pointed out that the assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat underlines the need for emergency preparedness against oil shortages. "We hope and pray that an event like this . . . will not lead to a civil war in Saudia Arabia or the mining of the Straits of Hormus. We are realistic enough to know it is indeed possible," Johnston said in a recent speech.

The Louisiana Senator also points out that if the proposed sale of the AWAC radar planes to Saudia Arabia is blocked by Congress, the four major oil companies that control a considerable amount of the crude oil in Saudia Arabia "could be disenfranchised . . . and lose control of that crude."

TOMA has been urging Congress to immediately prepare "a well thought out program to manage a significant petroleum shortfall without the pressures of a crisis upon us."

TOMA's Bolin says that the major opposition to the standby controls are major oil companies, President Reagan, and Congressmen who believe we should rely on the free market to allocate supplies.

"As small independent businessmen, we are firm believers in the free market system," the TOMA President said. "But, a free market does not operate during a severe shortage. We learned this lesson in the 1970s when the industry was unable to objectively allocate scarce resources equitably and the government was forced to step in."

Congress currently has two bills under consideration that would provide for standby allocation authority. The Senate Energy Committee has approved S1503 by Senator James A. McClure, R-Idaho, and the bill is currently awaiting action on the Senate floor. Senators Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower will be voting on the bill in coming weeks.

Representative Phil Sharp, D-In., recently filed HR4700 and it is under consideration in the U.S. House Fossil and Synthetic Fuels Subcommittee of the Energy and Commerce Committee. Texas Congressmen on the Committee include Phil Gramm, Ralph Hall, Jim Collins and Mickey Leland.

"Because of strong opposition from the major oil companies, passage of the bill will require a concerted effort by rural Americans and by those involved in energy production to contact their Congressman and Senator and express support for standby allocation and price controls," Bolin stressed.

"If the federal government were to be prohibited from intervening in the event of a significant shortfall, thousands of small business marketing companies and the millions of consumers they serve would find themselves in serious trouble," he concluded.

Peewee soccer offers fan excitement

Rains delayed the opening kickoff in last week's Youth Soccer action at Memorial Park but it didn't dampen the player's spirits. A big upset in the peewee division, two games decided by one-point margins and two tied games provided as much excitement as the spectators could stand.

In the peewee division the Chiefs pulled off their second victory in a row by outscoring the Kicks 3-0. The Chiefs, who are sponsored by Tejas Metals, got two goals from Brandon West and one from Jesse Rios to beat the previously undefeated Kicks and move into third place in the final regular season standings.

In other peewee action the Rowdies scored their first goal of the season and jumped out to a first half lead over the Aztecs on a fine shot by Gregg Bonnett. The Rowdies got some excellent soccer play from forwards Jon-Michael Kowall and Jeremy Mills but couldn't hold off the second half surge by the Aztecs. When the dust settled at the final whistle the Aztecs were ahead 2-1 on two nice goals by P.J. Levy.

In the intermediate division the Tornadoes scored another 1-0 victory over the Cosmos in a hard-fought battle that had the fans excited from beginning to end.

The Tornadoe's Josh McWhorter scored the only goal of the game by alertly kicking the ball out of the hands of Cosmos goalkeeper Darrell Nunez before Nunez could get the ball under control after blocking a hard shot by the Tornadoe's front line.

The Cosmos played a tough game but found themselves on the short end of the final score after a game-tying goal was disallowed because two Cosmos players crossed the penalty line before the shot was taken. The Tornadoe's goalkeeper Gene Robertson made several fine plays in the goal to stop the Cosmos attack and preserve the victory for the first-place Tornadoes.

The Strikers and the Hurricanes battled to a 0-0 tie but the game certainly didn't lack in action. The fine offensive play led by Russell Crawford and Brad Bechtol of the Strikers and forwards Gene Garcia and Robert Schoen of the Hurricanes just couldn't get the ball into the goal.

Jeffrey Gatica and Mario Hernandez led the strong Hurricane's defense and Troy Lee Brown had a lot of help from his teammates on the Strikers to shut down the numerous scoring threats by the Hurricanes.

The Sting and the Hornets battled to their third tie in four games in the Junior High division. Laurie Atkinson scored a first half goal for the Sting to give her team the lead at the first whistle but Brennan Driver of the Hornets fired a shot past the Sting goalkeeper during the second half to tie the score 1-1.

Fine defensive plays on both sides of the field were made by Allen Jennings and Lisa Ann Davenport of the String and Wade Sorenson of the Hornets.

The Rockport - Fulton Soccer Association would like to give a special thanks to Leo Villa and Jason Arnold who came out early Saturday morning to mow the rain-dampened field and make it possible to play the soccer games with only a minimum of rescheduling. Thanks for your support!

Agencies selected as United Fund members

ABC Learning Center and the Aransas County Medical Services, Inc. are two of the agencies selected as recipients of 1981-82 United Fund monies in Aransas County.

ABC Learning Center, a pre-school with the motto "All children Beginning learning in a Christian environment," has a total enrollment this year of 60 children.

The pre-school, located at 409 Magnolia, has upgraded its facility and will soon be able to open the second floor of their building to accomodate the increasing amount of students. Present plans include the opening of another class in December, bringing the number of classes at the Center to four.

Tuition at ABC is minimal, so as not to discriminate and all Aransas County ethnic groups are in attendance: caucasian, Mexican-American, black and Vietnamese.

The Center has a scholarship fund which enables the facility to help a number of children with tuition.

The school is checked periodically by the Texas Department of Human Resources and is permanently funded by that organization.

Aransas County Medical Services, Inc., is the sponsoring agency of the Aransas County Emergency Medical Services. The EMS responded to 1097 emergency calls last year, 238 of which were heart attacks, 210 miscellaneous emergencies, 170 auto accidents and 95 falls.

Recreational accidents, strokes, industrial accidents, drunks and emergency childbirths are other leading reasons for EMS service.

Calls originating in the city of Rockport totalled 498. County calls totalled 588, with 11 calls answered out of the county.

Total EMS mileage for the year was 44,797 miles, with 681 patients transported

The afghan, made by Johnnie, will be given away to the first name drawn; the rug — made by Mary Harley — to the second; and LaVelda's white ceramic tree to the third. Tickets are available from any ACMSI Women's Committee member and will be available at Rockport's two banks Tuesday.

Hundreds enjoy safe Halloween carnival

"It was beautiful."

That's how Margie Lewis described Rockport Elementary PTA's Halloween Carnival, held at the school on Halloween night.

Lewis, chairman of the event, estimated that some 1200-1500 children attended the carnival, which despite Saturday's torrential downpour, was larger than last year's. The count of money made was $2,737, and plans are already being made for next year's carnival.

"It will definitely be a year-to-year thing," says Lewis. Her letter of appreciation to the community appears below.

Pilot readers:

On behalf of all the boys and girls at Rockport Elementary, we would like to extend a heartfelt "thank you" to the parents, teachers and especially to all the wonderful volunteers from the community who worked long, wet hours to make our Halloween Carnival a tremendous success!

In spite of a raging monsoon and numerous other obstacles, the PTA carnival was a night we know Rockport children will long remember.

The spirit was evident in the costumes and makeup, the attitude and the display of good, old-fashioned hob-goblin fun everywhere one looked! With safety and enjoyment foremost in mind, a "Halloween Past" has been recreated for our youngsters. There is a great deal of satisfaction in seeing our children participate in the type of Halloween magic we older goblins knew so well when we were children — and to see it done without the hazards our modern world has imposed upon this celebration is an even greater pleasure.

Our local merchants are to be commended by the community for their very generous donations to our children — and we're sure children from all our schools benefited. We express great appreciation to the following businesses and individuals: First National Bank, Live Oak State Bank, Anders' Auto Repair, Dudley's Auto Parts, Cooling Exxon, Jack's Exxon, Jeff's Parts Headquarters, Ray's Texaco, Whataburger, Sonic, Dairy Queen, Ron's Chicken, McDonald's in Portland, Gayle Atchley, Grace Harder, Makhole, Cinema 35, Marilyn Burkhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Coleman, K-Mart in Portland, H.E.B., Super D, Winns, KIKN Radio, Wagley-Lilly, our clown John Hughes and the Pilot. We believe in supporting our merchants — they never fail to lend us their support!

To everyone — our hard workers, our sponsors, and our customers — thank you. You helped make October 31 a lot of fun and SAFE!

Very sincerely,
s/Margie Lewis,
Chairman

Pet talks

by Dr. Hap Lutz

The importance of the kidneys

Dr. Lutz is a former instructor of diseases of dogs and cats in the college of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University.

Function of the Kidneys

1. Excretion - The main function of the kidneys is to rid the body of wastes and excess water. All the blood in the body continually passes through the kidneys. Waste materials, water, and certain chemicals are extracted from the blood by the kidneys.

2. Regulation - another function of the kidneys is to regulate the chemical makeup of the blood. The kidneys pass back into the blood the reuseable chemicals such as glucose and salts (electrolytes, sodium, potassium, chloride, etc.) as well as water to maintain the correct levels in the blood.

The kidneys return to the blood 99 percent of the water plus the useful chemicals. The remaining 1 percent of the water forms the urine which also contains the waste materials.

Other Functions of the Kidneys

The kidneys also play a role in the regulation of blood pressure and in the manufacture of red blood cells by the bone marrow.

The urine formed in the kidneys enters the ureters and passes through them to the bladder. When the dog urinates, the urine leaves the bladder through the urethra.

New form means less work for Texans buying vehicles

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office Monday reported that Texans who buy cars and trucks will be filling out fewer forms in the coming months.

The Comptroller's office has adopted a single, one-page form to replace two separate forms used to register motor vehicles and pay the sales tax.

The new form will replace the Department of Highways and Public Transportation's application for title and the Comptroller's seller, donor or trader's affidavit.

The combined form is expected to be used by more than four million Texans during the next 12 months.

The form eliminates the duplication of information requested by each agency by more than one-third on each motor vehicle sold.

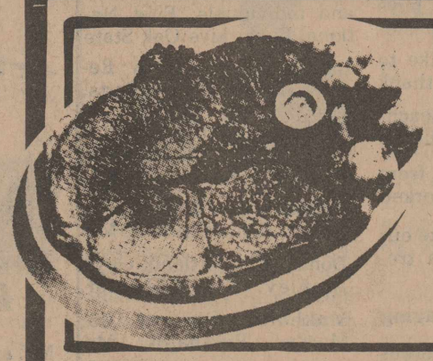

The Comptroller's office and the Highway Department will recognize the use of oil forms until supplies are exhausted.

The Comptroller's office has been instrumental in developing easy-to-read, shortened forms in an effort to reduce taxpayer paperwork.

The state's postcard-sized sales tax return is used by more than 300,000 business and merchants who collect and forward sales tax to the Comptroller.

The state's four percent motor vehicle sales tax during the 12-month period which ended Aug. 31, 1981, produced more than $523.6 million in tax revenue.

Decision pending on development of city park land

With purchase of some 4.[illegible]9 acres of additional city park land completed, Rockport officials will now turn to the question of how that land will be developed — but that decision could be pending until after the first of next year.

The reason for the delay is that city officials asked Rockport's city park board to make recommendations on how to develop the additional land, a tract just n[illegible]h of and adjoining Memorial Park.

But at the moment there is no park board, and with the approaching holiday season, appointment of a new board may be deferred until after Jan. 1, according to Assistant City Secretary Helen Braffett.

The city was awarded a $40,000 Coastal Energy Impact Program grant to purchase additional park land. The land was purchased last summer for just over $37,000 and the city last week received the grant money from the federal government.

The next step, Mrs. Braffett said, is to clear and clean the land. She added the area will probably be fenced.

At the same time Rockport's city council approved purchase of the land, members also asked for recommendations from the park board as to what should be included in the park development.

Since that time, Park Board Chairman Charles LaBounty has resigned and at least one park board member moved away. Mrs. Braffett said the city council needs to review the entire board and appoint members to bring it to its full strength of seven members.

Veterans Administration News

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors. Full information is available at any VA office.

Q — What is the current interest rate on a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan?

A — Effective Sept. 14, 1981, the interest rate was increased to 17½ percent for home loans.

Q. — Is there a time limit for applying for widow's pension from the Veterans Administration?

A. — No. There is no time limit. However, in order for benefits to be retroactive to the date of the veteran's death, application must be filed within one year of that date.

Q. — I defaulted on a Veterans Administrat[illegible] guaranteed loan in 1971 and the VA claims I owe them money on their loss. They have notified me they are going to start collecting from my VA compensation check to pay this debt. I have not given permission for them to do so. Can this be done?

A. — Yes. Your VA compensation may be withheld to satisfy a debt owed to the VA.

Carolyn Behee fills the 'sand man's' order

Graduate student wants Rockport sand

The envelope was addressed to "A Kind Person, Rockport Town Hall" and the letter inside contained a most unusual request. The sender of the letter, one Ben Lee from Chapel Hill, North Carolina, wanted some sand.

Yes, sand. From the Rockport Beach.

Lee, it turns out, is a graduate student in marine science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is collecting samples from Gulf Coast bordering towns from the Florida Keys to New Orleans, down to the Yucatan peninsula in Mexico.

In addition to analyzing and describing the samples, Lee will make a small scale model of the Gulf of Mexico basin, shelf and coast, using sand gathered from the coastline, all for a thesis seminar presentation Nov. 24.

Following his presentation, Lee will send down a copy of his analysis of the Rockport beach.

Since Rockport has no "town hall" the letter was sent to the Chamber of Commerce where Chamber official Carolyn Behee filled Lee's order and mailed the sand on Wednesday, Oct. 28.

Grant given to study alcoholism

By Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend Council of Governments

As spending of tax funds is scrutinized more closely, demands increase on foundations. There will be hard decisions about allocating money to direct services and treatment, as opposed to research.

Dr. Carlton Erickson made a case for research recently at a COG Institute on Alcoholism Studies.

Dr. Erickson has received a grant to research the question of why alcohol causes intoxication. Before control or cures can be found, causes have to be known. What he hopes to find is what he calls an antagonist. This would be a substance which would block the effects that alcohol has and quell the desire to consume it.

The professor says that alcoholism is a disease, which means it has a cause and can be treated. He is optomistic that a treatment method which can be accomplished easily will be found. The importance of this finding, he emphasises with a reminder that alcoholism is the second ranking disease in the United States in terms of death and disability.

He asks, "How do we know that alcoholism is not caused by a virus?" He compares the stage of research into alcoholism that we are in today to that of polio before Franklin D. Roosevelt provided the motivation to find a cure for that disease.

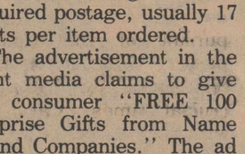

Alcoholism relates to the nervous system. Dr. Erickson calls attention to the fact that until recently epilepsy was considered incurable and now 90 percent of the cases can be controlled. Epilepsy is also a disease of the nervous system.

Treatment of existing cases remains essential and the doctor does not want to deemphasize that. Explaining his belief that treatment and research must continue on parallel courses, he says that if we had not had research but had only followed the advances of technology in treatment, today we would still have as much polio, but we would have computerized iron lungs.

Another discovery that Dr. Erickson hopes will be made in upcoming research is a sobering agent. He believes there is some medication which could be taken before drinking, or after drinking before driving, which would counteract the effects of alcohol.

In the doctor's opinion, the alcoholic can no more help drinking than the epileptic can help going into a siezure. He quotes figures on the cost of alcoholism which show it was the same as the national debt in 1980. He calculates what could be done if one one thousandth of the cost could be allocated to research into biochemical causes, control and cure.

Dr. Erickson calls research a type of prevention. He warns that it requires patience.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN — Free gifts are not always what they appear to be. Recently, "free gifts" have been offered through two promotions. One was offered through the mail and the other through newspaper and magazine advertisements.

The mail promotion makes the offer: "We'd like you to select 600* FREE GIFTS to use and evaluate. All products become yours to keep!" The asterisk refers to this message at the bottom of the page: "All gifts are FREE. Participating companies may request postage and handling which will range from ABSOLUTELY FREE to an average of only 17 cents per gift when you select all 600 gifts."

The way this promotion of "free gifts" works is that there is an enrollment fee of $5-$10 for one-three years of "free gifts"; after enrollment fee is paid, the consumer receives coupon booklets and order forms; the consumer selects the products he wishes to order; the consumer then sends in the order form along with the required postage, usually 17 cents per item ordered.

The advertisement in the print media claims to give the consumer "FREE 100 Surprise Gifts from Name Brand Companies." The ad says "Thanks to special arrangements with national distributors you can choose all 100 GIFTS FREE for just postage and handling."

When consumers respond to the ad they must send $1.50 plus 50 cents handling for the "Inflation Fighters Kit". This kit consists of coupon books from which items can be ordered; but again, postage must be paid.

The products are really not free. Consumers pay an enrollment fee and all necessary postage. For example, in the direct mail promotion, for the 600 gifts available during one year the postage and handling charges would be $102. A Federal Trade Commission guide discussinguse of the word "free" says that "when making 'free' or similar offers all the terms, conditions and obligations upon which receipt and retention of the 'free' item are contingent should be set forth clearly and conspiciously at the outset of the offer so as to leave no reasonable probability that the terms of the offer might be misunderstood." The firm's use of the term "free" may not be in accorde with this guide.

Once the orders and required postage are sent, few consumers ever hear from the firm again. The few consumers who have received products, usually receive only part of what they ordered. And the majority of the products received are not name brand products and are of poor quality.

Even though brand products and leading manufacturers are referred to in both offers, the manufacturers named in the offers state they have no special arrangement or agreement with the firm making the offers.

The firm making these offers has used several names. The names range from fanciful attention getters to official sounding names. This firm has no connection with any state or federal agency so any official sounding name should cause consumers to be wary.

This firm also has many addresses in various states, mostly along the eastern seaboard.

The Better Business Bureau has received numerous complaints concerning this firm, usually for nondelivery of merchandise. The firm has responded to only about half of these complaints, providing consumers with a refund or reshipment of ordered products.

Fishing un-bear-able at Duck Creek!

By Mrs. Richard Alden Knight

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. — A major advantage in headquartering here for the fly fishing inside and outside Yellowstone Park is the large number of fishing-oriented shops in town. I don't know the total count, but it's a goodly number for a town with less than a thousand in population — even for a large city.

All the ones I visited have available numerous maps with quite specific information printed on them to aid the traveling fisherman. They also have, and more than willingly offer, the very latest in what can be vital information. As a case in point, I mentioned to the boss in one of the shops that, after I'd been issued my park fishing permit (which was available there) I intended to revisit a favorite meadow stream, Duck Creek.

His reaction was immediate and emphatic; do NOT go to Duck Creek! It seems that over the past few years a group of bears (variously counted at 10 to 14) had moved into the area and are definitely aggressive. My wisdom in taking his advice was confirmed a few days later when the gas station attendant told me that he'd been up Duck Creek the week before and he'd left quickly. It seems that all that fresh bear sign made him distinctly nervous and he got out of there without wetting a line.

At any rate, there are so many other places to fish around here there is little reason to get hard-headed about any one piece of water. There's everything from the "big" rivers to small creeks; there are meadow streams and streams so brushy that you're tempted to use just the tip of a rod. There are lakes where fishing can be done from the banks or from boats of both the conventional and belly type.

Fishing opportunities within a 40-mile radius of this town are almost uncountable; there is the park itself, there are some of the finest Montana and Idaho waters. Whether you stick a pin in a map or toss a coin, you are bound to find innumerable spots that will linger happily in your fishing memories.

Calallen continues hold on Pirates in 43-20 win

If ever a team reached their full potential against a certain opponent, then the Calallen Wildcats "fit the bill" as they handed the Rockport-Fulton Pirates their fifth loss of the season by the convincing score of 43-20.

Calallen seened to be a team with an intense desire to play their best against the Pirates, while the Pirates, hit hard by mid-week injuries, looked as if they could not solve the Wildcat offense, nor could they solve the hard-hitting Cat defense.

Ankles were on the agenda for injuries during the week's practice, and Dwayne Walls and Scott Meyer both went down early in the week. Meyer played only on spot situations, and Walls tried to play, and only twice was he able to really get loose. The usual power and drive in the legs which usually enables Walls to shake loose, was just not there. On the final play of the game, with Calallen looking for a long pass, quarterback Adam Harden handed off to Walls, and Walls responded with a go-for-broke run of 69 yards and a touchdown as time ran out.

Early in the contest, the Pirates had a number of opportunities to take the game away from the Wildcats, but the "Clawin' Cats" refused to fold, eventually built up momentum, and won the game.

Calallen always plays the Pirates tough, and Friday night after the Pirates broke like a thoroughbred race-horse, it was the Wildcats which turned loose its stable of horses to run over and around the Pirates. Led by quarterback Mike Rhynes stick ball handling, the Cats deceived the Pirate defenders and more big offensive plays than their opponents, and that proved to be the big difference in the game.

Rockport had a chance early in the first half when Calallen fumbles the ball and Michael Arthur recovered, but the Pirates had a man line up offsides, and the Cats retained possession. Later on in the drive, the Pirates did get the football on a David Kelly interception, but by then the Cats had moved the ball forty-five yards further down the field.

Calallen did give the Pirates an opportunity in the first quarter after Walls was thrown for a big loss, but the Cats drew a 15-yard penalty for being over-active, and the Pirates kept the ball.

Going to the seldom-used pass, Harden caught the Cats defense napping and threw a pass downfield for Ernest Gonzales who was free in the secondary. Picking up a block from Peter Nichols, Gonzales made a move and carried the ball to Calallen's 14 yardline before being hauled down making the play good for 42 yards. Two plays later, Harden rammed the ball over from the two yardline. When Paul Beck went for the point-after kick, the ball veered off, but the Pirates led 6-0.

Calallen took little time in coming back, beating the Pirates at their own game, the long run. Deceiving the Pirates, quarterback Rhyne faked twice before giving the ball to Garry Sorrel who raced 69 yards almost untouched. They also missed the extra point, so the game was knotted at 6-6.

Before Calallen could pat themselves on the back for their big comeback, the Pirates had put more points on the board as Michael Simmons took the handoff from Dennis Hull on the starburst kickoff return, made a move to the right sideline, and broke 81 yards for six points. Then to top it off, Harden drilled a pass to Dennis Hull in the back of the end zone, and the Pirates were leading 14-8.

When the Cats got the ball again, the Pirates gave them an out when they were again lined up offsides. Calallen went on the march after that, using the pass and the run. Finally, fullback Mike Fisher took the ball and ran over some of the Pirate defenders and through some arm tackles, rambling 17 yards for a score. Fisher then ran in for two points, and the game was again even.

From that point on, a fired-up Calallen team took over the momentum, and "ole Mo" can take you a long way, and it did do wonders for the Cats.

Before the half was over, the Cats got on the scoreboard again in the same manner as before when Fisher bounced his way off Pirate would-be tacklers and darted into the end zone from 22 yards out. Fisher gave a lion's share, and picked up the two extra points as well, putting Calallen on top 22-14.

With rain falling off and on, the Pirates could not get it together in the second half. Calallen took the second half kickoff, and as a lot of teams have done against the flat Pirates after the half, they marched 76 yards in 15 plays before Rhyne kept the ball himself and found the end zone after an eleven yard run. With the Point-after kick, Calallen was putting the nails on the box, so to speak.

When the Pirates tried to fake a punt and go for a first, Calallen's defense made the big play, stopping the Pirates short.

Taking over at the Pirate 35, Rhyne faded back, arched a bullet to Ray Maguire, who got a lucky bounce after the ball was touched by a Pirate defender. Maguire just stepped into the end zone with another Calallen score.

Nothing would fall into place for the Pirates. A long pass was thrown by Harden, and the ball was tipped around twice before finally falling into the hands of a Cat defender, stopping the Pirates again.

Calallen used an interference penalty against the Pirates to get a first-and-goal situation on their next possession. They turned that error into seven more points, making the score 43-14 in favor of the Wildcats.

With nothing going right, the Pirates tried a punt in the fourth quarter, and this time the Cats blocked Charlie Ochoa's attempt, setting them up at the Pirate 39 yardline.

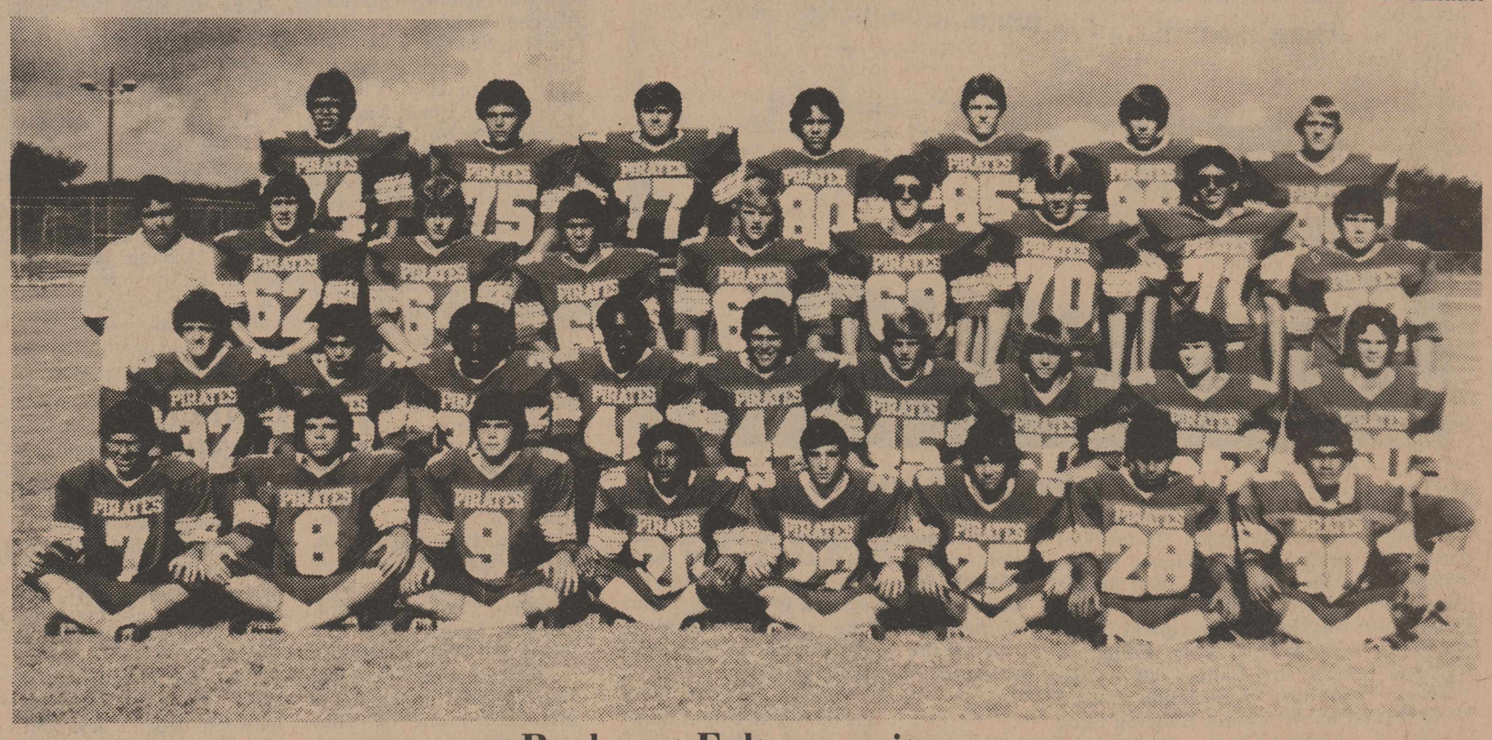

As though some pride was pumped back into their spirits, the Pirate defenders gathered their forces and stopped the Cats at the five yardline, taking the ball over at that point.

Moving out to the 31 yardline, and with no time remaining, Rockport crossed up the Cats who were expecting a pass. Harden handed off to the hobbled Walls, and after making two moves to get to the outside, Walls blazed 69 yards to the end zone, giving the Pirates some push towards their game with West Oso.

Rockport's defense was on the field most of the night. Eddie Naro was in on 21 tackles, and many other Pirates had a high number of tackles because of the Calallen possession of the football.

Simmons, the league's leader in rushing, got 90 yards in only 17 tries, about ten times less than he usually carries the ball, indicating that the Pirates were without the football. Walls, who was ineffective until the final play, closed out the night with 86 yards in 10 attempts.

Rockport-Fulton JV Pirates run over Calallen

Scoring two first half touchdowns, the Rockport-Fulton JV used a hard-hitting defense to hold off the Calallen Wildcats as the Pirates won a 16-7 contest in Rockport last week.

Joe Cantu got things rolling for the Pirates as he intercepted a Wildcat pass early in the first quarter and returned the ball 20 yards to the Calallen 36.

The Pirates did not turn that break into a score, but it did serve to indicate how the Pirate defense was going to play.

Later in the first period, the Pirates struck first on a 47-yard run by Steve Arkell. Then Bobby Dingenary found Derek Conn in the end zone for the two-pointer, giving the Pirates a 8-0 lead.

The Pirates put together a long drive in the second period before Dingenary finally went over from a yard away. Mike Riddle skirted his left end to pick the additional two points, making the score 16-0 at that point.

A penalty gave the Wildcats a chance to score at the end of the first half, and with time running out, they did indeed score on a 35 yard pass. With the extra point, the score was trimmed to 16-7.

In the second half, both defenses took over, and play was furious. When there had to be a big play, the defenses responded.

The Pirates used turnovers to stop the Cats in the second half. Darren Gurley, Cantu and Arkell all came up with the ball to make take-aways from the Wildcats.

Neither team scored in the second half, but the excitement was there. Time after time the Pirate defense did what it had to do. James Thomas led the pursuit of the Calallen passer, being in on three big sacks for losses at crucial times. Cantu hit with such authority that his hits on defense sent impacts throughout the stadium. Robert Dominguez and Dominic Dominguez each made big saving tackles when it appeared that the Wildcats might break off a long one. Kevin Billeiter led all tacklers except Cantu. Billeiter had 12 hits on defense.

The Pirates offense, though shut down in the second half, managed to pave the way for Arkell to pick up 180 yards.

The Pirates, now 6-1, will face-off with West Oso this Thursday in West Oso.

Freshmen drop final game of season, 30-18

Rockport-Fulton's Freshmen closed out their official season last week with a 30-18 loss to Calallen, winding up the season without a win, but then again, they were fifteen players against the world.

This week, when the Freshmen should play West Oso, the Bears can't even field a team, or won't. Rockport's fifteen battled all year long, usually outnumbered by a wide margin, and outclassed by the bigger 4-A schools just by numbers alone.

The Pirates began the game on the upswing, scoring two touchdowns before Calallen ever ran a play from scrimmage. Just minutes into the contest, Rockport got on the scoreboard first on a 43-yard gallop by Trinelle Walls. Walls picked up blocks from Mike Garrett and Rodney Adkins to spring his effort. Unable to make the extra points, the Pirates set up to kickoff.

Calallen touched the ball for the first time on the kickoff return, but as the runner ran up the sidelines, William Schmidt reached out a hand and knocked the ball loose, and Rudy Soliz recovered the ball.

The Pirates wasted very little time with Louis Solis throwing a pass to Ronnie Sifuentes who had gotten in the clear. The play was good for 28 yards and the six points. Again, however, the Pirates could not pick up the extra points, leading 12-0.

Calallen did get on the scoreboard after a long drive, but the Pirates would have none of that. Using a fumble recovery by Walls at the Calallen 19, the Pirates propelled themselves toward the Cat goal. A key pass from Solis to Bill Mott gave the Pirates a first down at the Calallen five. Walls then scooted into the end zone to give the Pirates a lead of 18-8.

Calallen used the reverse to perfection, as they scored twice in the last four minutes of the first half, the last coming with 22 seconds on the board. Making good on their extra point attempts, the Cats led 24-18 at the half.

Things started well enough for the Pirates in the second half as Garrett recovered a Wildcat fumble at midfield. The Pirates could not make anything of the break, however.

Rockport turned the ball over on a fumble, and Calallen drove to the four yardline of the Pirates before Adkins jumped on a loose football, giving the Pirates possession.

That break was short-lived. When the Pirates had to punt the ball away, a bad snap rolled into the end zone, and punter Louis Solis attempted to run the ball out, and he was trapped at the one yardline. Had he chosen to down the ball in the end zone, it would have cost the Pirates two points on the safety, but being a competitor, Solis tried to make the big play. Calallen quickly scored the six points. Mott, Walls, and Rodney Simmons broke through to block the kick after, and the Cats led 30-18.

The Pirates tried to mount one last attempt, but could never cross the goal line again.

Fundamentalist viewpoint dead on the money

I was reading an article about the Rev. Jerry Falwell's college in Lynchburg, Va. It is called Liberty College, which is a strange name for a college where students must ask permission from the dean to have a date and may be expelled for carrying a copy of Playboy magazine.

Understand me. I am not criticizing Liberty College. Sounds like a great place to send your kid and, four years later, get a robot in return.

I wouldn't have made it at Liberty College, however. I would have spent all my time trying to figure out how to get around the rules, especially the one that says you can't look at a copy of Playboy magazine.

The reason Jerry Falwell doesn't want his students — and I presume the male students are the ones he is most concerned about — in possession of Playboy is because of Playboy's habit of showing photographs of lovely young women who are naked.

There is the fundamentalist viewpoint that when a young man looks at photographs of lovely young women who are naked his mind tends to drift away from such things as religion, history and formulas for mathematical calculations.

That is one fundamentalist viewpoint that is dead on the money.

On the other hand, I think it is important for a young man to have some working knowledge of the female form — for future reference, of course — and you won't find much help on that subject from C.S. Lewis.

What to do without Playboy? There are a number of ways I would have attempted to get around Falwell's edict, but this should not be interpreted as an effort to advise students currently attending Liberty College. Besides, they probably don't allow newspapers on campus anyway, so shelve that concern.

I would have smuggled in a lot of catalogs.

"And vat is dis?" the dorm "counselor" might have said as he went through the nightly check of reading materials.

"Catalog," I would have replied, innocently. "I'm thinking of ordering a new winter cap. The one on page 37 with the woolen ear flaps."

Satisfied, the counselor would have left my room and I would have proceeded to crawl under the covers with a flashlight and turn immediately to the part of the catalog where the women stand around in their girdles.

Granted, a woman standing around in her girdle isn't exactly Playboy, but at least you get the general idea of why girls are the opposite sex from boys.

I also would have loaded up on copies of National Geographic. "Inside Yugoslavia" you can have, but jungle pictorials always show at least a few shots of tribes that do not consider an abundance of clothing necessary.

The bathing suit issue of Sports Illustrated would have been priceless on campus. I could have rented it out by the hour and avoided being caught by wrapping an old cover around the bathing suit issue.

Outside, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar fighting for a rebound. Inside, Christie Brinkley fighting to stay inside her string bikini.

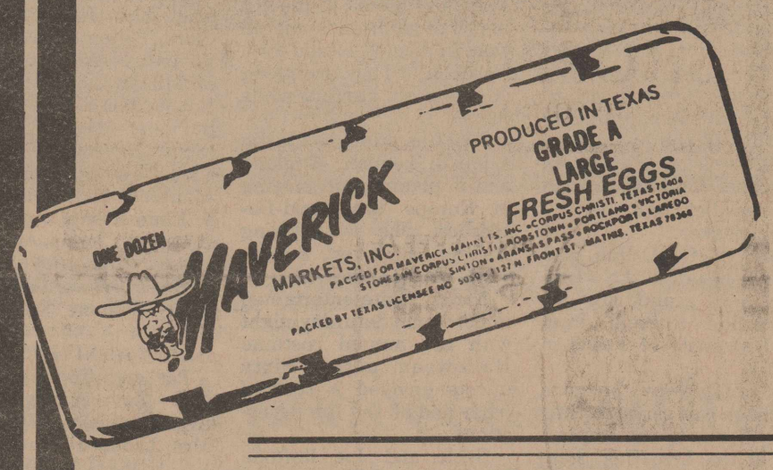

I suppose having such conniving thoughts doesn't make me a particularly nice person, but whenever I see a bunch of stodgy old fogies trying to cram their high-handed morals down the throats of bright young people, it brings out the latent rebel in me.

Know what else they do at Liberty College? They have a strict dress code. The girls must wear dresses at all times, and it's coats and ties for the boys.

I wouldn't have worn any underwear.

Preparing the boxes

Voter Registration Clerk Fran Gudim puts the voter registration list for Aransas County Pct. 3 into the Pct. 3 ballot box prior to delivering it to the election clerk Monday. The boxes were prepared for Tuesday's election on seven proposed Texas constitutional amendments. Results of the election will be published in the Pilot's Weekender edition. [Photo by Pat Blair]

Redistricting

precincts include population concentration, road mileage per commissioner and growth rate of the county.

Noting that Aransas County has experienced a 60 percent growth rate, Marvell predicted a sizable imbalance in the present population per precinct figure.

"This may be easy and it may be difficult," said Marvell. "What we do is play devil's advocate. After doing our research and work, we raise the difficult questions and points and present them to the commissioners. This can be a very difficult process for the court in the end, with all the various options and decisions. We're not hired to make friends with the commissioners, we're hired to bring all the unpleasant options up. Those options are then examined by the commissioners and they may be discarded, but they are at least explored," said Marvell.

The time span of the process is indefinite at this point, but the ideal completion date would be in time for the primary elections. Whether or not the process is finished by that time or not depends not only on how long the commissioners take, but on the time taken by the Justice Department with the final review of the plan. "They (Justice Department) have 60 days to review the plan," said Marvell, "and they could conceiveably find something wrong on the 59th day and that would give them an extension."

At the first meeting with the commissioners, Marvell noted that to date, no Justice Department protest have been filed against any of the firm's work in other counties.

Cost of the services offered by Gibson and Associates was quoted by Marvell as "between $3500 and $5000, for a county of this size."

The firm has served as consultants for many counties facing redistricting after the 1980 census, including Burleson, Cameron and Dimmit counties. Aransas, being a coastal county, presents a special set of circumstances. "Coastal counties tend to be a different kind of thing," Marvel stated. "They present a different set of problems with the many water intrusions within precinct lines."

Lift

concrete walls are being eaten away by the gases in the sewage being pumped through the facility.

In explaining the need for the new tanks during September's budget hearings, City Secretary Herman Johnson summed the matter up: "The station was built in 1954 and now it's deteriorating. It's just old."

Urban Engineers of Corpus Christi, Rockport's consulting engineering firm, are drawing up plans for the new facilities. Gurley said this week he does not know when these plans will be presented to the city council for review.

In the meantime though, City Attorney Allen Lee has been authorized to prepare the easement agreement — approved in a council meeting last month — under which the city will lease a 200-foot working easement for proposed improvements.

Cost of the lease will be $5,000.

City personnel haven't officially estimated the cost of improvements to the lift station — which serves all of Little Bay Shores, Key Allegro and Harbor Oaks — but, according to Johnson, they expect it to be "in the neighborhood" of $50,000.

An official estimate of the cost is pending on the engineers' plans.

The existing lift station will remain in operation while the new facility is under construction — "We can't shut it down," Gurley said — then city officials "will look at the existing facility and see if it can be restored."

Board looks at $195,000 '82 budget

A proposed Aransas County Appraisal District budget of $195,241.08 for 1982 will be presented for public hearing at 4:30 p.m. Thursday in the Appraisal District office in Rockport.

The appraisal district's board of directors is expected to convene in regular session following the hearing to consider the budget for final adoption.

The current fiscal year ends on Dec. 31 and the new budget will take effect on Jan. 1.

The appraisal district will assume full duties of assessing property for all taxing agencies in Aransas County in 1982.

The district itself does not have taxing authority but is funded by the taxing agencies in the county, including Aransas County itself, the cities of Rockport and Fulton, the Aransas County School District, the Aransas County Navigation District and the Aransas County Municipal Utilities District No.1 which serves Goose Island Lake Estates.

Be-witching games

Monica Rinche pushes the blindfold off her eyes to see how well she did in a game of "pin the wart on the witch" at Sacred Heart Catholic Church Friday afternoon. The game was one of several students in the school enjoyed, along with refreshments, during their Halloween Party. Looking on in the background is Nelda Covarrubias, one of the school mothers. # Prescription Center offers a lot of service for a low price

Senior citizen and AARP discounts, PCS-Workmen's Comp. service, family tax and insurance records and the filling of veterans' and Medicaid prescriptions are all special services provided by Prescription Center, located at the corner of Liberty and Live Oak, one block north of the courthouse.

Prescription Center has served Aransas County for eight years. Pharmacist Ron Clark has been manager of the Center since March of this year.

Prior to managership of the Prescription Center, Clark, a pharmacist for ten years, worked in both retail and hospital pharmacies.

His work in retail stores included both full-line business and discount apothecary.

His four years in hospital pharmacy work took place in Asheville, North Carolina where Clark was night shift supervisor for a 500 bed hospital.

His wide range of pharmacy experience gives him an edge, he says, "All four pharmacies in town try so hard to provide the primary service function for the customer — accurate, around-the-clock drug prescriptions. I think that we try a little harder, though."

"My range of experience allows me to offer better service," says Clark.

"Rockport's a very price conscious community," says Clark. "At Prescription Center, we try to provide all the services we can, minus delivery and charge accounts, at the lowest price we can to the consumer. We have exceptionally low prices, especially considering how many services we offer. We do a lot of paper work for people — records, insurance and IRS forms."

An additional price factor in Prescription Center's service is the use of generic drugs — whenever possible, with the consent of the customer.

"The new laws in January will give us a lot more leeway," states Clark," and we will be in the thick of generic portion."

He stresses, "Our customers can be sure that any generic brand we dispense is one we have complete faith in. We are supplied by good companies with high quality drugs."

Prescription Center is open six days a week, 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. and has a drive-in window. The regular phone number is 729-0335. Emergency night number is 729-0468.

Rockport awaits state word on sewer expansion funds

A proposal for doubling the capacity of Rockport's sanitary sewer treatment plant — which city officials say will be necessary within the next few years — has been held up in Austin, in part because of the uncertainty of federal funding.

The plan which calls for a one-step expansion of the city's existing sanitary sewage treatment plant and construction of a line to discharge effluent into Aransas Bay — was approved by Rockport city council members last June following a public hearing.

The hearing culminated a Step 1 feasibility study on the proposed project, funded through a 75 percent matching grant from the Environmental Protection Agency.

The results of the Step 1 study and public hearing were forwarded to Austin where the Texas Water Quality Board was expected to review all such plans statewide in July and set a priority rating.

Rockport's priority rating would determine whether the city is eligible to receive funding under Step 2 of the EPA grant program. Step 2 provides funds for the design of the proposed facility.

However, Assistant City Secretary Helen Braffett said recently the Water Board did not meet in July. "That was cancelled," she said. She added the board may have a meeting later this year. Among factors being considered by the board is whether federal funds will be available from Washington for these projects.

Rockport officials say the sanitary sewer plant, which presently has the capacity to treat one million gallons of raw sewage a day, must be expanded to a two-million-gallon capacity to meet projected growth figures for the city and its surrounding service ar[illegible] within the next 20 years.

Also necessary, according to Jim O'Hara of Urban Engineering, Rockport's consulting engineering firm, is the construction of the line for discharge of effluent into Aransas Bay.

Effluent is presently discharged into Little Bay, O'Hara said, but environmentalists are concerned that Little Bay would not be able to handle two milli[illegible] gallons of effluent a day.

All-breed fun show and clinic set

The Star Arabian Horse Club is sponsoring an all-breed fun show and clinic on Nov. 7 and 8, 1981, at the Refugio County Fairgrounds covered arena.

Judge and conductor of the clinic will be Mrs. Elizabeth Salmon, horse science professor at Texas A&I University in Kingsville.

The show on Saturday will include English, western and game classes. Entry fees are $3.00 per class, and stalls are available for $10.00 per day. Sign-up for classes begins at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday.

The clinic on Sunday will cover a variety of topics.

Mrs. Salmon has had 27 years of experience in training, teaching and judging in England before coming to Texas. She is the owner if Fairfield Stud in England, home of many champion Dressage horses and hunters and jumpers of both Arabina and Anglo-Arabian breeding. Mrs. Salmon is currently working on her AHSA (American Horse Show Assoc.) judges' card in Arabian, Hunter, Dressage and Side-saddle divisions.

Fight rising insurance rates with defensive driving course

Car insurance rates in Texas are going up Nov. 1, but Texas motorists can take the sting out of the increase by completing the National Safety Council's Defensive-Driving-Course.

Subscribe to The Pilot

Drivers taking the course can save ten percent each year for the three years on rates.

Jack McDavid of Rockport's Glass, Sorenson and McDavid Insurance Agency says of the defensive driving course, "It's real great."

He stressed, however, that safety not insurance savings, should be the main motive behind taking such a course. "The 10 percent savings on the insurance is all well and good, but the main thing is not to have a wreck," says McDavid.

"This course is no ticket that you'll never have a wreck, but it serves to make you more aware, a defensive driver," he adds.

A defensive driving course, sponsored by AARP and taught by Gilbert and Greta Schweiker, has just been completed by 36 Rockport senior citizens.

The Schweikers, certified National Safety Council instructors, teach the course on a volunteer basis, twice a year. Cost for AARP members is $4 and nonmembers over 55 pay $6.

"What we stress," says Mrs. Schweiker, "is that it's a refresher course. These people know all the rules, but often need a refresher. The defensive driver should only have one panic stop per year. We stress being alert, reading the signs, knowing all the markings, just being a defensive driver."

Mr. Schweiker agrees with McDavid and says, "Safe driving is the main priority and is our number one goal. We consider the insurance ten percent discount a secondary thing. The first thing with us is "be careful."

Courses for younger drivers are available from several agencies in Corpus Christi, including Del Mar College. The eight hour course usually costs $15.

Graduates of the course who are insured by rate-regulated companies are eligible for a ten percent premium reduction in rates for three years on liability, bodily injury, property damage, medical payments, personal injury protection and collision coverage. Comprehensive is not an area covered by the ten percent reduction, as it is not an area controlled by the driver.

If a couple takes the course together but only owns one car, only one ten percent reduction can be claimed. If the couple owns two cars, however, the reduction can be claimed for both cars.
