NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin—An apparently well-founded report that Tom Hunter, a candidate for Governor, will announce for a fourth try within a few days, centered the attention of politicians here this week. Hunter led the field of three candidates opposing Allred for a second term two years ago, and his entrance, most observers here believe, will cut into McCraw's potential strength somewhat, and insure a runoff in the Governor's race. With no Ferguson candidate entered, the consensus of opinion here is that Hunter will pick up a substantial part of the Ferguson bloc of votes, that otherwise probably would go to the Attorney General. Harry Hines, highway commissioner, who is regarded as another likely last minute entrant, is said to be well regarded by a sizeable group of anti-liberal voters, as he has been an active churchman, and if he enters, he may take some strength from Thompson that would offset, to some extent at least, the votes Hunter would attract from McCraw.

BIG OPENING FOR McCRAW

Elaborate plans have been made by McCraw's organization for his opening speech at Arlington, Saturday evening. Band music, a town holiday free special trains from Dallas, and other attractions have been provided to muster a crowd expected to approach 10,000, with two large cities adjacent, to draw from. Considerable interest attaches to McCraw's opening speech, because he is expected on that occasion to clarify his position on state questions other than taxation. He issued a statement declaring against further taxes, but at the weekend had published no formal platform, and had expressed no views publicly on pensions, farm relief, law enforcement, education, and other pertinent questions which are expected to furnish the issues between himself and Ernest Thompson.

Thompson, meanwhile, off to flying start before a good crowd at Waco last week, planned a second sectional ally at Sulphur Springs Saturday afternoon. Reaction to his Waco opening speech reaching Austin, was in the main, favorable, and his campaign managers appeared to be pleased with the serious note which he sounded and his discussion of the State's affairs.

THINK ROAD FUNDS SAFE

The quick switch of President Roosevelt from an economy program, as advocated in his budget message to a spending plan to promote recovery from the recession, found a welcome among Texas good roads enthusiasts. The President's recommendation, for appropriations at least equal to the usual sum for U. S. aid on highways, and Congress' apparent approval, indicate that the Texas road program for the fiscal year 1939 (starting July 1, 1933), will suffer no reduction from the present $15,750,000 total. It has been threatened with a reduction by one half, as recommended previously by the President, and opposed by the majority of Texas congressmen.

LON IS UNHAPPY

Announcing that he will oppose both his colleagues on the Railroad Commission, Ernest Thompson, running for governor, and Judge C. V. Terrell, seeking reelection, Railroad Commissioner Lon Smith, the "forgotten man of the Railroad Commission", this week wept bitter tears over his situation. Smith, who has fought his colleagues consistently, but unsuccessfully, being a minority of one, claims the commission has 422 employees, and that he has named less than 100, while his "rightful share" ought to be around 140. He also let correspondents know that he plans to run for reelection in 1940, notwithstanding his previous announcement, while fighting Thompson's reelection two years

Light Rains Here Heavier Elsewhere

Two light rains visited Loraine within a few days during the last week. Other sections of the territory, especially south of town, reported good rain Sunday.

The shower last Thursday afternoon was accompanied by hail but no damage has been reported. Late Sunday one of the worst sand storms of the year preceded the rain. Probably a quarter of an inch fell in both showers, enough to keep the top of the ground wet and in good shape for planting.

CITY BUYS NEW HOSE FOR FIRE TRUCK

200 feet of new hose was received the latter part of last week by the city to be used on the fire truck. The hose replaced worn out hose that had been condemned by an inspector.

ago, that he would retire at the end of his present term. He is due to be elected Chairman of the Railroad Commission next January, succeeding Terrell, under the Commission's precedent of rotation of the chairmanship but unless both Thompson and Terrell agree, Smith may lose that honor when his turn comes around.

FEW SENATE CHANGES

The complexion of the next Texas Senate—regarded as the conservative branch of the Legislature—will not be much altered, regardless of the outcome of the gubernatorial elections, under present indications. Fifteen of the 31 Senators are up for reelection, and to date, only eight of the 15 have opposition, and one of these, Frank Rawlings, of Fort Worth, has announced he will not seek re-election. Claude Westfield, of Dallas, has seven opponents, including two present Dallas House members; Grady Woodruff of Decatur is opposed by Reps. McConnell of Palo Pinto and R. C. Lanning of Jacksboro; Joe Hill of Henderson faces opposition from E. M. Braclette, former county judge of Longview, and Reps. Tennyson of Wichita Falls and George Moffett of Chillicothe are after the seat of Ben O'Neal of Wichita Falls, ex-law partner of Governor Allred. "Eph" Davis, of Brownwood is opposed Penrose Metcalfe, whom Davis narrowly defeated four years ago. In the Rio Grande Valley area, Jim Neal has two opponents, Lon Messer of Corpus Christi, and Rogers Kelley, District Attorney of Edinburg. Valley politicians visiting Austin describe Kelley as a brilliant and personable young prosecutor, an able politician, and an odds-on bet to succeed the veteran ranchman who came to the Senate when Archie Parr was unhorsed in the Valley District.

Without opponents to date are Clay Cotton of Palestine, Van Zandt of Tioga, Claude Isbell of Rockwall, L. J. Sulk of Lagrange, Weaver Moore of Houston, the veteran Tom Holbrook, of Galveston, and Rudolph Weinert of Seguin, who is serving out a short term following his election at a special election after Welly Hopkins of Gonzales resigned.

NOTES

Bascom Giles, veteran of 17 years' service in the Land Office, and more recently an employee of the State Tax Commission, threw his hat into the ring for Land Commissioner, opening with a slashing attack upon the methods of Commissioner Bill McDonald up for a second term. Giles is understood to have the backing of the present administration, school organization heads and others who have been critical of McDonald's methods of leasing school lands and granting vacancy claims. Giles declared he would protect the school's interests in State lands, but said he was "opposed to the vacancy racket whereby the state is put into an unholy partnership with land grabbers, pays the bill for taking property from bona fide owners and turns seven-eighths of the spoils over to vacancy vultures."

Bruce Bible Class Annual Bean Feed

Dean Berger of McMurry College was the principal speaker at the annual bean feed of the Bruce Bible class held at the Methodist Church Tuesday night of this week.

Between 125 and 150 men of the community with guests from Abilene and Colorado enjoyed the occasion to the fullest measure.

SENIOR PLAY

The annual Senior play is to be presented Friday night April 22, at the Loraine High School Auditorium. This farce three act comedy—LOOK WHO'S HERE—affords laughter, fun, and breath-taking excitement from the time the curtain rises until you leave.

When rich "Aunt Alice" played by Earlene Brown steps in on the scene and finds her favorite nephew, Garland Faulkenberry, (whom she suspects) married an evening's entertainment has just begun. Aunt Alice is strictly opposed to marriage and the problems of the Winchell household affords hilarious entertainment you can't miss.

The play is under the direction of Miss Roxie Hoskinson, Senior Class sponsor, and Miss Richard Looby.

See "Look Who's Here" plus interesting between act entertainment, all for 15c and 25c.

J. L. FINE OF SWEETWATER IS BURIED HERE

Funeral services were held at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon for J. L. Fine, 53, who died at 2:15 a. m. Sunday at his home, 711 Walnut Street, Sweetwater.

J. P. Crenshaw, minister, officiated at his rites held at the Sweetwater Church of Christ. Burial was in the Loraine cemetery under direction of Johnson Funeral Home.

His father, J. S. Fine, and three sisters, Miss Annie Fine, Mrs. D. L. Collier and Mrs. Mary Browning live here.

Other survivors are his widow, a daughter, Oleat Faye, of Sweetwater, a brother, Henry Fine, Weatherford, Mrs. Rena Smith, Colorado, Mrs. Della Woods, Kingsville, California.

LOCAL CIRCLE

The Local Circle of the Methodist W. M. S. will meet next Monday at the home of Mrs. R. A. Edwards with Mrs. Lily Bennett joint hostess. The meeting is called for three o'clock. Everyone is invited.

ATTEND FUNERAL

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Haralson and sons returned several days ago from Abilene where they went because of the death of Mr. Haralson's mother, Mrs. A. C. Lewis.

Mrs. Lewis had been visiting a sister in Mineral Wells and had bought her ticket home. While waiting for the bus Thursday afternoon about three o'clock she had a stroke of paralysis and was rushed to the hospital. She died at 10 Friday morning.

Funeral services were held in Rule, her old home before she moved to Abilene about fifteen years ago. Rev. C. A. Powell of Abilene was in charge of the service and was assisted by Rev. Clyde Campbell of Abilene and Rev. Roy Shahan of Rule.

The D. W. Haralsons remained a few days with Mrs. Haralson's sister, Mrs. Bernice Wiggins, and her mother, Mrs. Bertha Basher.

DISTRICT COMMITTEE RE-ELECTS FORRESTER

The district football committee of district 9 in a meeting at Sweetwater Tuesday night re-elected N. C. Forrester of Roby district chairman. Eligibility of players was among other matters discussed.

Rev. and Mrs. M. H. Godfrey have as their guests this week Mrs. Godfrey's brothers and wives, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Shelton of Duncan, Oklahoma, and Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Shelton of West Plain, Missouri.

Spring Football Training Started

Coach Pinkey Brooks issued equipment Tuesday to 23 boys and planned to start spring training for football Wednesday afternoon. Several other boys will report for training as soon as the band contest is over.

Most of the boys out for training are small but willing and tough. Marion Rhodes and Elton Mathers are the only regulars returning from last year's team. Truman Walker, who saw considerable service in 1936, is back in school and is expected to make a valuable man. He is fast and shifty.

Coach Brooks expects to keep the boys in training for about four weeks.

NATIONAL AIR MAIL WEEK MAY 15 TO 22

Postmaster R. B. Cope has been advised that May 15 through 22 is National Air Mail Week. The purpose of the campaign is to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the inauguration of the air mail service; to educate the citizens in the use of air mail and to increase the use of air mail.

Essay and poster contests will be conducted through the schools to encourage the use of air mail. The contest will be confined to grammar, high school, or schools having similar curricula. Entries to be on, or mounted on, Bristol, or similar board, and not more than 20 in. x 25 in. in size when so mounted. Basis of judging posters: a. Originality of ideas, 50 percent. b. Neatness of composition 25 percent. c. Adaptability for use 25 percent. Posters must be postmarked not later than midnight, May 1st, 1938, address to the State Chairman, National Air Mail Week Poster Contest, c/o your local postmaster. Postage must be prepaid on all entries. Each poster must be certified by the school principal as to the eligibility of the contestant, with the identification and location of the school, and must show the contestant's home address.

The winner in each State Poster Contest will be awarded a trophy to be given by the State Headquarters Committee. All posters winning in a State Contest will be entered in a national contest. 1st prize, a trophy, 2nd prize, a plaque. The winning posters in the State and National Contests will become the property of the National Committee.

Contestants may enter both the essay and the poster contests. Further information may be received at the local post office.

BIDDIE GAIL HORTON WAS BURIED TUESDAY

Funeral services for Biddie Gail Horton were held at the Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 with the pastor, Rev. M. H. Godfrey, officiating.

Burial was in the Loraine cemetery under direction of G. W. Hendrick.

Biddie Gail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Horton, was born March 21, 1936, and died April 18, 1938. She had not been well during her lifetime, suffering constantly with an illness that did not respond to treatment.

All that medical science and loving hands of parents and grandparents could do to alleviate her suffering was done but she was called to her eternal home where suffering is not known.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended the family in their sad hour.

J. C. FORBUS TO BE BURIED THURSDAY

Funeral services for J. C. Forbus were to be held Thursday afternoon. Burial was to be made in the Lone Wolf cemetery.

Mr. Forbus died late Wednesday in the hospital at Colorado. He underwent an operation for appendicitis and for several days was apparently doing nicely but his condition suddenly got worse and he expired Wednesday.

Complete details were not available before going to press.

Loraine Bulldogs Win District Championship In Track and Field

G. A. HUTCHINS BUYS FIRST BOND

The honor of buying the first $5.00 bond for the athletic fund goes to G. A. Hutchins. Frank Crowover bought the second bond. Both sales were made by Claude Spikes, a member of the athletic committee. Other members of the committee who have bonds to sell are Woodrow Pratt, Butsie Hall, R. B. Cope, Ed E. Williams, and J. W. King.

The committee is anxious to sell enough bonds right away to pipe water to the football field where grass will be set out as soon as it can be put in shape. Plans also call for fencing the property and possibly other improvements. If you would like to see the Loraine Bulldogs play on a grass field in the future buy a bond or two and help the cause along.

FISHING TIME NEAR FISHERS NEED LICENSE

Fishing time, especially for game fish, is drawing near. May 1 is the opening day for fishing. Fishermen should read the laws below governing licensing.

License Required: Resident citizens of Texas must procure an Artificial Lure License, price $1.10, when fishing with artificial lures or bait. (No exemption.)

No-Residents of Texas or Alien must procure a Non-Resident or Alien Fishing License, price $5.00, or a Five Day License, price $1.10, when fishing with any kind of bait. Non-residents are citizens of the United States who have not been residents of Texas for four months next preceding his application for a license.

Unlawful for any resident citizen of Texas to fish in the counties of Mason, Menard, Kerr, Schleicher, Crockett, Sutton, Kimble, Real, Edwards, Blanco, Llano, Kendall, Gillespie, El Paso, Hudspeth, Culberson, Val Verde, Kinney, Maverick, Terrell, Brewster, and Harris without a resident fishing license, except person under 17 years of age shall not be required to hold such license and except persons fishing on land he owns or on which he resides shall not be required to hold a resident fishing license. Fee for resident fishing license is 55 cents.

LORAIN STUDENTS MAKE HONOR ROLL AT ACC

W. F. James son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. James, Louise Zellner daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Zellner of Loraine are among the honor students for the mid-term grades of the second semester at Abilene Christian college, according to announcements made by Mrs. Clara Bishop, college registrar.

Lists were posted in Hardin Memorial building on the ACC campus this week, naming 300 students who made grades of above 90 per cent in one or more subjects during the past nine weeks period.

Of this group there were ten students who were listed with "A's" in five subjects and there were twenty who made the honor roll in four subjects.

SOUTH CHAMPION

Health is improving some. Monroe Green and his little daughter, Ruby, have returned from the hospital and are doing well. Others reported ill last week are improving.

About one and a half inches of rain fell here Sunday afternoon, preceded by a dust storm which did little damage. A window was blown from the house occupied by L. W. Banta. No serious damage resulted however, more than a thorough drenching of the interior of the house. Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hall had as their guests for the Easter holidays their daughter, Ruth Anne, and two of her chums from Hardin-Simmons, Misses Jane Thompson and Jesse Mae Trevers.

The Loraine Bulldogs, coached by Pinkey Brooks, defeated the Abilene Eagles by one-half point to win the district championship in the track and field events at Sweetwater last Saturday. Loraine made 25½ points to 25 for Abilene.

Al Simmons was responsible for 10½ points for Loraine and crowded Henson of Roby for the honor of high point man for the day. Henson stacked up 72 points.

Roby took third place in the meet with 15½ points, and Rotan was fourth with 15 points.

For the first time in the history of the school Loraine became champions of the district in track and field events. Teams have won the county meet time after time but somehow were hardly good enough to win at the district. Such athletes as Simmons, Allbright, Baird, Hall, Brians and Walker with the competent coaching of Pinkey Brooks turned the track. The school, and the town too, is proud of the trophy the boys brought back with them.

Summary of Events
Official running report of the track and field meet in which Loraine athletes participated and placed follows:

440 yd. Dash, time 52.9: Hughes of Abilene, Simmons of Loraine, Abbott of Aspermont, Beams of Abilene.

Low Hurdles, time 27.3: Swann of Rotan, Walker of Loraine, Smith of Rotan, Bullard of Snyder.

One Mile Run, time 4:57.8: Wommak of Big Spring, Garrison of Hobbs, Hall of Loraine, Moore of Old Glory.

Pole Vault, height 10ft. 8 in. 1st (tied) Simmons of Loraine, Allbright of Loraine, Seago of Goodman, 4th (tied) Baird of Loraine, Stewart of Roby.

Javelin, distance 164 ft. 9 in.: Webster of Sweetwater, Jones of Stamford, Henson of Roby, Baird of Loraine.

Shot Put, distance 43 ft.: Brians of Loraine, Stewart of Roby, Johnson of Dunn, Paperon of Ovalo.

Broad Jump, distance 20 ft., 8¼ in.: Phillips of Abilene, Simmons of Loraine, Smith of Rotan, Boozer of Abilene.

Literary Events
Loraine students also carried off honors in the literary events in the district meet. Blossom Lee Green took third place in girls extemporaneous speech, Wanda Mae Smith won first place in junior girls declamation, and Doris Glass and Iona Callahan went to the semi-finals in debate where they were eliminated by Abilene. The boy debaters, J. W. and Melvin King, were unable to go to Sweetwater because Melvin was ill.

In the rural school division James Hart of Valley View won second place in junior boys declamation, and Sue Landers of Bauman won third place in the Three R contest.

Happenings at the Baptist Church

Well, things really happened at the Baptist Church last Sunday. The Sunday School made a record attendance, 209. The preaching attendance was good. Bro. Strickland, our district missionary, preached at the morning hour and the pageant at the evening hour. It was a real stormy evening yet a splendid congregation attended. Thanks to Mrs. Ison and Mrs. Jarratt for their fine work in putting on this program.

Thanks to Grandpa Jackson for his Easter Lillies that had been sent him from California. Grandpa knows how to do the right thing at the right time to make someone happy. God bless you young man, our church loves you. Go on growing young.

Thanks to Bro. Scoggins and his congregation for their visit with us. Hope you enjoyed the pageant.

SEVEN BILLION PLAN

President Proposes Huge Spending and Loans Program . . . Demands United Recovery Action

Because a federal statute prohibits taking of a foreign vote in the United States or its territorial waters, the crew of the German liner Hansa voted on the question of Austrian "anschluss" with Germany while the ship was in mid-ocean en route to New York.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Lend and Spend Plan

CONGRESS was asked by President Roosevelt to authorize the spending and lending of a grand total of seven billion dollars in a special message in which he set forth his new program for recovery and relief.

The President declared that the will to co-operate places "on all of us the duty of self-restraint" and that "there can be no dictatorship by an individual, or by a group in this nation save through division fostered by hate. Such division there must never be."

Three groups of measures were proposed. The first involves mainly additional appropriations for the coming fiscal year, as follows:

One billion two hundred and fifty million dollars for the Works Progress administration; $175,000,000 for the Farm Security administration; $75,000,000 for the National Youth administration; $50,000,000 for the Civilian Conservation corps, and the $1,500,000,000 already made available to the Reconstruction Corporation for lending to business enterprises.

In a second group of measures Mr. Roosevelt asked: Three hundred million dollars for immediate expansion of the housing and slum-clearance work of the United States Housing authority; $1,450,000,000 for public works loans and grants; an additional $100,000,000 for public roads; an additional $37,000,000 for flood control and reclamation projects already authorized and an additional $25,000,000 for federal buildings.

A third group listed by the Chief Executive referred to private credit. It involved sterilization of $1,400,000,000 of gold and a reduction by the Federal Reserve board of member bank reserve requirements which would add another $750,000,000 to the credit resources of the nation's banks. With these actions Mr. Roosevelt coupled a simplification of Security commission regulations to expedite small-business financing.

Congressmen Vexed

WHILE committees of the senate and house were still trying to reconcile the widely differing versions of the tax bill passed by the two houses, President Roosevelt sent to the chairmen a long letter urging retention of the tax on undistributed profits, which had been eliminated by the senate. Many members of congress thought the Chief Executive was intimating that he would veto the bill if this feature were omitted.

The intervention by Mr. Roosevelt at this time and in this manner was considered unprecedented and aroused many expressions of amazement and indignation, especially among the senate conferees. Senator Pat Harrison, their leader and the chairman of the senate

Finance committee, obviously displeased, said:

"The President is entitled to his views. Of course, he accords to every one else the same right to theirs.

"The views expressed in his letter do not coincide with the sentiment expressed by the overwhelming majority of the senate. My views are well known and need not be repeated again in detail.

"The senate conferees will insist in conference on the amendments adopted in the senate.

"I believe that the repealing of the undistributed profits tax and the modifications of the capital gains tax, as adopted by the senate, will help business."

At the close of his letter the President said:

"The repeal of the undistributed profits tax and the reduction of the tax on capital gains to a fraction of the tax on other forms of income strike at the root of fundamental principles of taxation."

"Business will be helped, not hurt, by these suggestions."

New French Government

FRANCE has a new government headed by Edouard Daladier who succeeded Leon Blum as premier after the fall of Blum's Popular Front. Daladier's cabinet is the first wholly non-revolutionist one since the leftist landslide of 1936.

Blum was thrown out because he asked broad powers to rule by decree, but the parliament acceded to a similar demand by Daladier, and then adjourned until May 1, leaving Daladier with practically dictatorial powers to deal with the nation's financial and economic problems.

The new premier started immediately on efforts to end the wave of strikes, which were really based on political motives. First he obtained a settlement of the strikes in the nationalized aviation factories, offering a pay increase in exchange for longer hours. He then promulgated by decree a law making a secret ballot obligatory in every factory where conflicts arise.

If a majority of the workers decide for a strike, they must evacuate the factory, which then would be "neutralized" pending arbitration. If, however, the strike is rejected by a majority, the armed forces of the nation will be at the disposal of the employers to keep the plant operating.

Hornor Is Winner

GOV. HENRY HORNER won his second great victory over the Chicago Kelly-Nash machine in the Illinois Democratic primaries. Almost all his candidates were nominated, and the governor appears to be now in complete control of the party in his state. His co boss is State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago.

The triumph of Hornor attracted nationwide attention. It even led to a proposal that he be the Democratic party for President in 1940. This boomlet was launched in congress by Representative L. F. Arnold, Democrat, of Illinois.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses

TEETH--Your Passport to Good Health--and Tells How You Can Avoid the Tragedy of Dental Decay

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

A SCIENTIST, who was also a wit, once remarked that you must be true to your teeth or they will be false to you. That most people do not heed this advice is evidenced by the fact that almost 100 per cent of the adult population is affected by some form of oral disease, and from 90 to 97 per cent of all school children have decayed teeth.

As there is a close relationship between healthy teeth and healthy bodies, and conversely, between decayed teeth and sickly bodies, it is easy to understand why science views this appalling situation with the greatest alarm—and why such an eminent authority as Professor Ernest A. Hooton of Harvard University warns that "unless steps are taken to discover preventives of tooth infection, and correctives of dental deformation, the course of human evolution will lead downward to extinction."

Health and Happiness Depend on Sound Teeth

That is a strong statement, but it is not an exaggeration, for it would be difficult to over-estimate the influence of the teeth upon human health and happiness.

Do you wonder how teeth can affect happiness? Consider, then, that a pretty face depends, first upon the position of the mouth when the lips are closed, and second, upon the appearance of the teeth when the lips are parted. You cannot have a lovely mouth when the lips close over crooked front teeth; you cannot have an attractive smile if the teeth are dull.

And when gums recede, and loosened teeth are forced out of their natural position, the position of the lips is likewise changed—with the result that the lower part of the face is disfigured.

Surely this is tragedy enough. But the effect of decayed teeth upon health is of far greater significance.

Dental Decay Does Extensive Damage

A decayed tooth is a poison factory, distributing its noxious product to every part of the body. In the body, that poison attacks and centers in the weakest spot.

It may lead to neuritis, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, or even duodenal ulcers. It may be a contributing cause of heart disease.

In view of such extensive damage, it is easy to understand why a prominent medical authority has declared that if the teeth were given proper care, so that dental decay became rare, instead of all-

Have You a Question? Ask C. Houston Goudiss

C. Houston Goudiss has put at the disposal of readers of this newspaper all the facilities of his famous Experimental Kitchen Laboratory in New York City. He will gladly answer questions concerning foods, diet, nutrition, and their relation to health. You are also invited to consult him in matters of personal hygiene. It's not necessary to write a letter unless you desire, for postcard inquiries will receive the same careful attention. Address him at 6 East Thirty-ninth Street, New York City.

taining an abundance of calcium, phosphorus and vitamins A, C and D.

Second, frequent and thorough brushing of the teeth, to remove all food particles. The use of an efficient dentifrice encourages efficient brushing and helps to keep the teeth looking attractive.

Third, the inclusion in the diet of foods that require the chewing, tearing, gnawing and biting for which our teeth were designed, such as raw cabbage, celery, apples and other fibrous foods.

Fourth, a visit to the dentist at least twice a year, so that he can check the condition of the teeth. If every mother will follow this program, and train her children to follow it, the result will be a vast decrease in dental decay, and a forward step in human progress. For it is not too much to say that the SALVATION OF THE HUMAN RACE LIES IN SAVING ITS TEETH.

Write to C. Houston Goudiss, 6 East 39th Street, New York City, for information on How to Build and How to Maintain Healthy Teeth.

Questions Answered

Mrs. E. T. D.—Answering your question as to the effect of cooking on vitamin D, this is no problem in the kitchen. Natural vitamin D is virtually absent from most foods, but in irradiated foods, or those to which vitamin D concentrate has been added, the vitamin D is stable and ordinary cooking has little destructive effect on it.

Mrs. J. B. McK.—It is incorrect to say that rye bread is more, or less, fattening than white bread. A slice of rye bread supplies the same number of calories as a slice of white bread.

Miss F. S. P.—The sulphur dioxide used to bleach a good grade of dried fruit is present in a chemical combination that is entirely harmless.

Terence Shea Tells of His Bulging Barrels

A social worker with more enthusiasm than tact went to call upon Terence Shea, night watchman, at his home.

"I hope, Mr. Shea," she said, "that you do not squander your money in riotous living. May I ask what you do with your wages?"

"I'd just as soon tell you as not," replied Mr. Shea. "This $15 a week I make. When I've paid the rent, the provisions, and the milkman, and bought what's needed for Maggie and the five children, I deposit the rest of my money in barrels. Mostly, ma'am, sugar barrels. They're bigger an' hold more. But when I can't get them I use plain flour barrels."

It has been proved experimentally that when vitamin A is withheld, the teeth begin to deteriorate, and become chalky, white and brittle, owing to the loss of the enamel and exposure of the dentine.

Vitamin C is so closely related to the health of teeth and gums, that when it is lacking, profound changes occur, including swelling and bleeding of the gums and loosening of the teeth.

Four Important Rules For Dental Health

The prevention of dental decay and the preservation of sound teeth and healthy gums is founded on a four-point program: First, a well-balanced diet con-

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK—The Nazis haven't bothered Frau Katherina Schratz. Unlike the Pompadours and Montespanis, usually among the first victims of political upheavals, Austria's "Gnaedige Frau," as Emperor Francis Joseph called her, has ridden the surf-board of dynastic and political change for nearly 60 years. She is now eighty-two, doing crossword puzzles, disclaiming knowledge of the current cataplexis, but longing for the "good old days."

In those days, she was pretty Katie Schratz, a dancer in the Burg theater, which was under the patronage of the emperor. After a hit performance, with the emperor attending, she obtained an audience.

"Sire," she said, with a low curtsy, "we cannot maintain ourselves on the salaries you pay. I owe $50,000 for my costumes."

The emperor promised a new benefice for the theater and said he would help her take care of her debts. She was backing gracefully to the door when the emperor said: "Gnaedige Frau, why do you leave us?"

She stayed 40 years, in a snug little villa by the palace gates. The emperor, after a hard day swinging the scepter, used to drop in at Frau Katie's, split a bottle of Pilsener and sing a few songs. She knew all the mellow old tunes which he particularly liked. She used to darn his socks and tell him when he needed a hair cut.

She refused to accept gowns or jewels, always remaining the "Gnaedige Frau," but the emperor, by an amusing artifice, induced her to accept a fortune in gems. He was a famous huntsman. He told her he was sending her a wild boar he had killed.

She saw no harm in that. When it arrived, it had diamond earrings, a diamond necklace and bracelets and a diamond breast pin, and its back was studded with precious Hapsburg jewels. The money lenders got them, after the emperor's death.

She was supposed to know more of the secrets of the realm than any other person. She guarded them carefully, but did reluctantly reveal a few details of the Mayerling tragedy of 1889.

She said Archduke Rudolf shot himself, after killing Baroness Vetsera. That's the version of the film now running. It would make a good story if somebody could take Frau Schratz to see "Mayerling" and have her write a critical review.

MARK ETHRIDGE becomes "czar" of the radio industry. It is hard to think of Mr. Ethridge as a czar, or even a third assistant Simon Legree, but he clicks neatly as an able, deft, diligent and resourceful executive.

While Mr. Ethridge is only forty-four years old, he is of the type of old-line, leg-man newspaper man, with an insatiable appetite for news.

A native of Meridian, Miss., with soft southern speech and instinctive courtesy, he ought to be an excellent troubleshooter for the radio, rather than a czar. He was a reporter on the Meridian Dispatch, studied at the University of Mississippi and romped on up through grades to the managing editorship of the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph. He was with the New York Sun in 1926 and his old friends there have been nominating him today for a loud cheer in this corner.

He was lured back to Macon, went thence to the Richmond (Va.) Times, of which he was publisher, and later became general manager of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times. He spent the year 1933 in central Europe, on an Oberlander Trust fellowship, studying politics and economics and—the only touch of anti-climax in his career—the Versailles treaty.

The radio has picked a man who knows the social and educational box-score as well as good entertainment. He is still general manager of the Courier-Journal, up and coming in the new enlightened leadership of the South. His "czar" job is unsalaried.

Talks Too Fast A certain doctor had the habit of interrupting the phrase "of course" every little while as he spoke, just as others say "D'you see" or "don't you know." But he said "of course" once too often. For, once, when a patient was very ill, "I hurried to him, and, of course, he died."

foreign minister. His choice for this key post means synchronization of French foreign policy with that of Great Britain, the opening of negotiations with Mussolini and complete abandonment of the Spanish republic in its war with Franco's insurgents.

Blum was thrown out because he asked broad powers to rule by decree, but the parliament acceded to a similar demand by Daladier, and then adjourned until May 1, leaving Daladier with practically dictatorial powers to deal with the nation's financial and economic problems.

The new premier started immediately on efforts to end the wave of strikes, which were really based on political motives. First he obtained a settlement of the strikes in the nationalized aviation factories, offering a pay increase in exchange for longer hours. He then promulgated by decree a law making a secret ballot obligatory in every factory where conflicts arise.

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L. C. ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to her outspoken and bull-headed father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sperm Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sperm's son, and comes to the town of Tail Holt to meet him. While in Yell Sanger's store, a crook-nosed stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rides in and starts shooting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides. Disgusted with Lou's cowardice, Ruth calls off the elopement, and sends the stranger for her father at the gambling house across the street. There the stranger, calling himself Jeff Gray, meets Morgan Norris, a killer, Curly Connor, Kansas, Mile High, Sid Hunt, and other rustlers, and Sperm Howard. Lee Chiswick enters, with his foreman, Dan Brand, and tells Sperm Howard of his orders to shoot rustlers at sight. Jeff Gray returns to Ruth and coldly reassures her of her father's safety. At supper, Ruth introduces Jeff to her father and Brand, and in Sanger's store later she speaks cordially to Curly Connor. Coming out of the store, they are greeted by sudden gunfire, Lee is wounded, and Jeff Gray appears with a smoking revolver. Two days later, Ruth tells her father of her projected elopement and her disillusionment.

During the days that followed he held his friendship back from her. At times he was choleric, at times sullen and distant, Ruth was sorry, because she was aware of his desire for a reconciliation. She guessed that her attention to his wants and her apparent humility were a reproach to him. Since she had a sense of humor, she chuckled over the situation.

"I'm a deceitful little scamp," she told her brother Frank, who had heard the story from Dan Brand. "I'm not half as humble as I was at first. Here I go around as if butter wouldn't melt in my mouth whenever Father is about, and really I'm beginning to think it's sort of fun."

"Hmp!" Frank snorted. "I can tell you someone who won't think it's fun if I meet him."

Ruth's bright eyes snapped. "Don't you dare touch Lou Howard, Frank Chiswick. If you do—"

She left her threat in the air, feeling it stronger not completed.

Ruth was riding circle above the rimrock. She had come out with her brothers and the other vaqueros to round up the yearlings for the Broderick order.

She had combed the ridge above and was coming down an arroyo thick with prickly pear. Her brother Bob had been with her, but he had bolted down a neighboring draw after a small bunch of high-tailing stuff. For the time she could take it easy. Blue Chip had done his full share and was entitled to a breathing space.

Ruth pulled up abruptly. In front of her a pebble had rolled down a steep bank to the path. From the little rock her eyes traveled up the incline down which it had come. Stones sometimes start downhill from force of gravity; more often they need an impetus to set them in motion.

Above the top of a bisnago she saw a Stetson hat, beneath this a brown, sardonic face.

"Buenos dias, senorita," a cool voice drawled.

The girl stared at the owner of that voice, the man who had called himself Jeff Gray.

"What are you doing here?" she asked, and answered her own question: "You are lying in wait to kill my father."

He slithered down the scarred slope, to face a little revolver that had somehow jumped to her hand.

"We'll talk about that," he said, a smile on his face.

To Ruth it was a hateful smile, one that mocked confidently the picture of feminine ferocity she made.

"We'll talk about nothing," she cried, anger aflame in her eyes.

"You light out of here, you dirty killer, or I'll call my brothers."

"Why would I want to kill Lee Chiswick when I had never seen him before?" he asked, paying no attention at all to the weapon in her hand.

"For money," she told him contemptuously. "His enemies sent for you to do the murder they were afraid to do themselves."

He shook his head. "I'm a stranger here. I don't know Howard or any of his crowd. Besides, that gang doesn't need an outsider to do its bushwhacking. They have plenty of bull-rattlers right in their midst."

"Why are you arguing about it?" she burst out stormily. "Didn't I see you shoot him? Didn't you run close to try to finish the job?"

"No," he replied quietly.

"What do you mean, no?"

"I mean you didn't see either one of those things. You just think you saw them."

"You talk like a fool. A dozen men saw you. Smoke was coming out of your gun while you were running forward."

"So it was. I'll ask you a question. How many shots were fired before your friends turned loose on me?"

"Two. You fired twice. What was that got to do with it?"

"A whole lot. I fired once. Question is, Who fired the first shot?"

"I don't know what you're talking about." She pushed his argument aside impatiently with a wave of the hand. "All is, you're a liar as well as an assassin. I warn you to get out of this country. I'm going to have you hunted down like the wolf you are."

"Use yore brains, girl," he urged. "Four men were standing within ten feet of yore father. If I had shot him, would I run up and give them all a crack at me?"

"The answer is, you did. Three of them were friends of Sperm Howard. Maybe you expected them to help you." A wave of fury boiled up in her. "I'm not going to discuss anything with the villain hired to murder my father. If you don't get out of here I'll—I'll—"

Still his smile did not go out of commission. "What will you do?" she asked politely.

"Get out of my way," she ordered, and gave Blue Chip a touch of the spur.

The horse went up in the air. Gray caught the bridle, perhaps to quiet the animal, perhaps because he could not get out of the way.

Ruth never knew how it happened. The revolver in her hand went off. Instantly she knew the man had been hit. He dropped the rein and staggered back. Blue Chip plunged down the arroyo.

The rider of the horse dragged it to a halt and turned. She had dropped the gun during the wild dash down the draw and she dismounted to recover it. Pulling herself to the saddle again, Ruth rode back to the spot of the encounter. Her heart was beating wildly. She had shot a man. Perhaps she had killed him.

He was climbing the rubble slope to the bank where she had first seen him, and he was making bad going of it. One leg dragged.

She stepped in the bottom of the trough below him.

"It's your own fault for snatching at my bridle," she told him.

He asked, with cool effrontery, "You did almost as bad a job as I did at Tail Holt."

"The gun went off."

"My leg is telling me that. Did you come back to finish what you began?"

"I carry it for rattlesnakes. I didn't mean to—"

"Not for wolves?" he inquired pleasantly.

"Are you hurt—badly?"

He saw she was frightened. The bark of the revolver had for the time driven away anger.

"I reckon I'll make out," he answered.

"Is your horse back there in the brush?"

"You can tell yore father it's even steeper now," he drawled.

She swung down from Blue Chip and climbed the bank. "I'll help you get up," she told him in a small voice.

"Good of you, Miss Chiswick, to help a hired killer."

He accepted her aid. After a struggle, during which the wounded leg collapsed under him once or twice, they reached the top of the bank.

Gray whistled. Out of the brush trotted a long-barreled roan.

"Where are you going? Who will look after your leg?" Ruth asked.

"I'm wondering about that," he said.

"You can't go back to Tail Holt, unless you are Sperm Howard's man."

"Tail Holt is out."

Ruth thought swiftly. She dared not take him to the ranch-house, especially now that her father was holding himself unfriendly to her. How serious the wound was she did not know, but he could not let him try to ride as far as Tough Nut. He might never reach the town. An idea jumped to her mind.

"There's a line-camp in the rim-rock not far from here," she explained. "Old Pat Sorley is staying there now. He is close-mouthed, and he will do as I ask. And he's a pretty good doctor too. You can hole up there for a week and not be seen by anybody except Pat. After today our riders will be out of the rimrock. I'll take you there. We'd better hurry, so that I can get back before I'm missed."

He pulled himself to the saddle. "You're heaping coals of fire on my red head," Gray said sardonically. "Let's get going, girl."

Ruth went back to Blue Chip, mounted, and put the horse at the easiest part of the slope. The cowboy clawed its way up like a cat, the muscles of its legs standing out like heavy ropes.

"We don't want to meet anybody," the girl said. "Better swing off to the right."

"You're the caporal of this outfit," he told her.

She led the way into the chaparral, guiding Blue Chip through the mesquite and the cholla with an admirable economy of motion.

They crossed the mesa and dropped down into a gulch which took them through the broken rimrock to a point where they looked down on a wide valley below. Ruth turned to the left, picking a way among the boulders and working up again into the rimrock along a cow trail.

This dipped sharply, at a fault in the ledge, to a small park containing four or five acres. This was so completely hidden that nobody could have suspected its existence from the contour of the country.

A corral of thorny ocotillo lay at their feet. Close to it was a barn built of sahuaro poles and mud. The cabin nestled against a rock wall that bounded the far side of the park.

The girl and the man wound down into the little mountain valley and crossed to the cabin. Someone stood in the doorway and watched their approach.

Pat Sorley was a little old man with a wrinkled face like a map of Ireland. At sight of Ruth he twisted it to a grin. They were the best of friends. His hands were in his pockets and there was a clay pipe in his mouth.

Ruth waved at him. He took one hand from a pocket and the pipe from his mouth.

"It's glad I am to see you, Miss Ruth," he said.

"I've brought someone to stay with you, Pat," the girl told him. She turned to the guest, a touch of cool insolence in her voice. "You said your name is—"

"Still Jeff Gray," the man said in his soft, mocking drawl. He understood that Ruth Chiswick was going to make it clear to the line-rider he was no friend.

"Mr. Gray has been hurt," she said. "I want you to patch him up and keep him hidden here until he can travel."

"Hidden who from?" Pat asked.

"From my father and my brothers and any of our riders."

"And what for would I be doing that?" Pat asked bluntly.

"Out of Christian charity," Gray murmured ironically. "I'm supposed to have taken a crack with a six-gun at Lee Chiswick in Tail Holt the other day."

Pat bristled. "You've got a nerve telling me that." He turned to the young woman. "I'll be listenin' to anything you've got to tell me, Miss Ruth."

"He's wounded," she answered.

"Let's take care of him and do the explaining afterward, Pat."

"There's some in that," Pat did not know how much or how little of what this fellow had said was true, but he did not intend to be the victim of his derision. "Better get that bridle thatched down and let's see what's ailing you," he said crustily.

Gray eased himself gingerly out of the saddle. "Got a pill in one leg." He hobbled into the cabin.

"Go ahead and fix him up," Ruth said. "I'll tie the horses back among the rocks."

"What is this fellow?" Pat asked. "Some kind of outlaw on the dodge?"

Ruth shook her head. "I don't know." She ignored the presence of Gray in her answer as completely as Pat had in his question. "We'll talk about that later."

She turned away with the horses. Ungraciously Pat set to work doctoring the wound. The bullet had passed through the high cloze to the surface and missed the artery.

"Ought to heal up nice," Sorley grunted.

CHAPTER IV

Turning to Ruth, Sorley said, "I don't know where he got this wound or anything about him, be gory, but what I say, is that if he's the bird shot at the old man at Tail Holt I'll see him in Jericho before I'll let him stay here. He can put that in his pipe and smoke it, be-dad."

Ruth nodded. "I know how you feel, Pat, because that's the way I feel myself."

"What's to keep this buckaroo, soon as his leg gets a little better, from going up to the ranch some night and taking another crack at your dad?"

"That's what I'm afraid of," she admitted.

Jeff Gray sat on a homemade chair with his wounded leg resting on another. He volunteered no assurances of good behavior.

"Looky here, Miss Ruth," Pat urged, "we'd ought to tell Lee or one of the boys he is here, especially if you are sure he's the fellow you think he is."

"I know," Ruth's face wore a troubled frown. "Only . . . I shot him."

Pat dropped his pipe to the floor. It shattered into fifty bits. "The devil you say! Beggin' your pardon, Miss."

"I don't know how it happened. Blue Chip was jumping around, and he got in the way. I didn't mean to do it."

"An innocent bystander hit through an unfortunate accident," Gray suggested.

"What was the fellow doing around here?" Pat asked accusingly.

"I was on my way to the L. C.," explained Gray. "Wanted to have a little talk with Chiswick."

"Wanted to shoot him, you vil-lain."

"I'm one of these victims of circumstantial evidence," the crook-nosed man drawled. "Someone takes a crack at Chiswick, and I'm unanimously elected as the guy."

"We saw you do it—half a dozen of us," Ruth cried.

"Just what did you see?" the accused man asked.

"After you had shot you ran forward to finish Father, and the other men there fired at you and drove you away. What's the use of denying it?" she cried hotly.

"Not much use, is there?" he said evenly. "If I told my story you wouldn't believe it."

"No, I wouldn't. It would be all lies . . . But tell it."

"Much obliged, Miss Chiswick. I reckon I'll keep it under my own hat."

"What story could you tell? Father was wounded. We saw the smoke coming from your gun as you ran forward."

"That's correct."

"So you must have been the man."

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet weak, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Rockingham House, Gen. Washington's Headquarters, Has Been Restored

Rockingham, the rambling 10-room Colonial house, where General George Washington received word of the treaty of Paris that concluded Revolutionary war hostilities, has been restored to its original appearance after scores of years in disrepair. Ten thousand dollars in state and federal funds went into the project, notes a Rocky Hill (N. J.) correspondent in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Under the sponsorship of the WPA and the Historical Sites Commission of New Jersey, this eighteenth-century landmark, located a half-mile from Rocky Hill community and four miles from Princeton, has come into its own. The building has been completely renovated while the two-acre plot on which it stands has been landscaped to enhance the natural beauty of the spot.

Shelting many historic relics and documents, Rockingham is steeped in the history of significant days of the Revolution. It was here in the "blue room" that General Washington wrote his farewell address to the Continental army and it was here that he conducted all of his correspondence with Governor Clinton concerning the evacuation of New York city by British troops.

On the long, double-decked veranda of the structure Washington delivered his farewell address to a handful of troops retained at what was then his headquarters. Rotted flooring has been replaced in the porch and several new pillars have been put in to bolster the sagging framework.

Washington last stayed at Rockingham in the ebbing days of the war, from August 24 until November 10, 1783. On November 2, 1783, he composed his farewell speech in the "blue room," delivered it first from the veranda and later at West Point where the army was finally dismissed.

Spray Roses Frequently

"I find that there is one simple point in aphid control that is overlooked by a majority of rose growers," says Melvin E. Wyandt, rose specialist of Painesville, Ohio. "It is simply that they should spray often. Now don't misunderstand me. Practically all rose growers know that they must spray with a good insecticide to control aphids, but they do not realize that aphids multiply rapidly."

An effective spray for aphid control is made by mixing one to two teaspoonsful of nicotine sulphate in a gallon of water and adding a little dissolved laundry soap. Nicotine sulphate is a poison which kills by contact—the method necessary with sucking insects such as aphids—and in addition, being volatile, it gives off fumes which also kill, making it doubly effective.

NEW BLIGHT RESISTANT MILO DISTRIBUTED TO FARMERS

College Station—Some 20,000 pounds of the new strain of blight resistant milo has been distributed to approximately 600 farmers in 52 counties, where it will be grown for demonstration and further distribution purposes, according to E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

The soil-borne disease, called milo blight, became a commercial threat in 1935. Since that time it has spread over the Red River region, the Edwards Plateau, and much of the High Plains section, and has cut yields in half in about fifty percent of the vast milo growing area, Miller said.

The disease is most virulent in wet, cold seasons. In such cases the plants affected will show a reddish tinge, will practically cease growing, and finally die. In normal seasons the disease attacks the plants more slowly and is not readily apparent except by an examination of the pith near the roots, which will be found to have turned red, and by a greatly reduced yield. Farmers at first were inclined

The Congress will be opened with a message from President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Teachers College entries in the Topeka debate tournament are John L. to blame the lowered milo yields to drought and chinch bug damage, but milo which produced only twenty or thirty bushels an acre was found growing alongside kafir and hegar, which are not susceptible to the disease, and which yielded from fifty to sixty bushels an acre.

The problem was attacked by the Agricultural Experiment Station as soon as the disease was reported. From 800 plants growing in diseased soil, R. E. Karper, in charge of sorghums investigations, selected 20 plants which were resistant to the blight. Use of a greenhouse allowed the selection process to be speeded up, and within two years the stations at Chillicothe and Lubbock were planting the new strain for distribution.

A small quantity of the new strain of milo was placed in the hands of the certified sorghum seed growers of the state in 1937. The 1938 distribution to farmers was made through county agricultural agents and vocational teachers, Miller said.

The new milo strain is expected to replace Dwarf Yellow Milo No. 670, which was developed by the Experiment Station some twenty years ago, within four or five years.

COTTON ALLOTMENTS INCREASED BY AAA AMENDMENTS

College Station—Amendments to the new farm act provide a reserve of 4 percent which will be added to the cotton acreage allotment of each state and that farm cotton allotments in necessary cases shall be raised to a minimum level, according to Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee.

The total increase in allotments due to the amendments may exceed 2 million acres, he said. The original acreage allotment for 1938 was 26,300,000 acres. In Texas the additional allotment will amount to around 380,000 acres.

The 4 percent reserve will be used to assure minimum allotments to small cotton farms, provide additional acreages for farms on which allotments were materially reduced because of an unusually large number of small farms in the country, and to provide representative allotments to counties or farms which otherwise would receive allotments which are low in comparison with the amounts allotted to producers in similar areas and in comparison with their usual cotton acreages.

The amendments also provide that if the allotment to any farm is less than 50 percent of the sum of the 1937 cotton acreage plus diverted acres, the allotment shall be increased to 50 percent, provided that the increase does not bring up to more than 40 percent of the tilled land on the farm.

WEEKLY HEALTH LETTER

Austin, Texas, April 18.—“Few conquests of science have been so spectacular and complete as the rout of diphtheria. And this victory has most firmly established the value of serum treatment both in its preventive and curative phases. However, toxin-antitoxin or its successor toxoid for immunization, and antitoxin for timely cure, are brilliant achievements of which the general public even yet are not fully aware,” states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

“As indicated, toxoid is the immunizing or preventive agent now usually employed, however, three to four months are required for the body to develop immunity. At that time the Schick test is applied to determine the results of this preventive treatment. This harmless and painless procedure is performed by injecting into the upper layers of the skin a minute drop of the diphtheria toxin. Your doctor can tell from this whether or not your child is immune.

“However, when a case of diphtheria exists, antitoxin is the only treatment that will save life. Also, to be effective, it must be given early and in large doses. Delay is usually caused by parents failing to realize that any sore throat may actually be diphtheria.

“The means are at hand to fight diphtheria to the death, but it cannot be done without a hundred per cent cooperation of parents. May Day, the Child’s Health Day, will soon be here and one of the best ways to observe it would be for parents to have their children immunized against diphtheria.”

EASTER EGG HUNT

The superintendent and teachers of the junior department of the Baptist Sunday School took the juniors to the Wayside Park Saturday afternoon for an Easter Egg hunt. After arriving at the park some games were played while the eggs were being hid.

After the eggs were all found lemonade and cookies were served. After the roll call all returned home reporting a very nice time.

Goodbye, Mr. Gloom!

... We're a jolly bunch of renegades ... our sole purpose in life is to give Old Man Gloom the gate and usher in Mr. Sunshine by way of a million laughs. Turn to the Funny Page in every issue and let us help dispel those troubles!

• No man can really live by bread alone. Yes, we admit he'll EXIST, but there will be heavy lines of care running down his face, he'll forget how to smile.

• Verily, we humans need a few hearty guffaws now and then to chase away those wrinkles of care and give our spirits a lift. That's why this newspaper runs a collection of laugh-provoking comic strips on the Funny Page. Amid the depressing news of floods and earthquakes, crime and war, economic troubles and a host of other maladjustments on the face of Mr. World, it's a pleasant relaxation to shut your eyes on the day's bad tidings.

• You can get a joyful lift in spirits from the comics. We invite our readers to take a big swallow of this bottled sunshine. Turn to the Funny Page right now and forget your troubles!

• Our comic characters are a versatile lot, as you'll notice by glancing down the accompanying panel. If you want to chuckle over real troubles, turn to C. M. Payne's strip "S'Matter Pop," and see what a whale of an order he has to keep these boys of his under control ... Or glance at the adventures of the intellectual Adamson, as drawn by O. Jacobson.

• Something that will truly draw tears—of laughter—are Guyas Williams' mischievous but lovable youngsters, Junior and the Baby ... Then there's "Finney of the Force," by Ted O'Loughlin, as comical and as true-to-life an Irishman as ever flipped a night stick ... Life out in Cactus Center, as described in S. L. Huntley's "Mescal Ike," has its exciting moments when its rip-roaring citizens are on the loose ... And when it comes to "The Featherheads," by Osborne, they speak for themselves. In fact, that's the best thing they do!

• Let these bearers of fun whittle your blues down to size. Toss trouble right out the window and get a new lease on life through the comic page—turn to it right now!

Please accept these fine novels ... WITH OUR COMPLIMENTS

Lorraine Wins District 5

From Abilene
 Lorraine Track and Field Team went to Sweetwater Saturday April 16. Lorraine won the trophy for first place, by 1-2 point over Abilene's team.

Lewis Briens, our strong man, threw the shot put 43 feet for first place. Joe Allbright and Al Simmons tied for first place in the pole vault. Truman Walker placed second in the 330 yd. Low Hurdles. Al Simmons placed second in 440 yd. dash and Broad Jump. Marvin Hall placed 3rd in the mile run. Roy Baird, Jr. placed 4th in the Javelin throw and tied for 4th in the pole vault.

Lorraine had a total of 25 1/2 points, while Abilene had 25 points. A gold plated trophy about one foot high was awarded Lorraine and is now on display at Hutchins Drug Store.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

The Seniors certainly enjoyed themselves Friday night and again thank the Juniors for such a lovely banquet. The Rainbow colors and Easter theme were carried out. The Easter Bunny played an important part in the table decoration and nests of brightly colored eggs were scattered here and there.

A large group gathered at the Schoolhouse to see the annual Style Parade of Evening gowns. Blue, green, yellow, pink, orange, red, white, aqua-in fact, nearly every color was represented.

During the week the Seniors had voted, by secret ballot on their choice of the best all-around girl and boy in the Junior class and the Juniors had voted on the Senior boy and girl. No one but Mrs. Ison, Miss Hoskinson, and Mr. Williams knew who had been chosen until Friday night.

The Senior girl was Miss Ronel Thomas and the Senior boy was Mr. Robert James. The Junior girl was Miss Nina Groom and the Junior boy was Mr. Marion Rhodes. They were each presented with an Easter Basket which contained a live chick. The program was interrupted now and then by the chirps which caused a great deal of laughter. The program was as follows:

Invocation—Mrs. Johnson
 Welcome—J. W. King Jr.
 Response—Earlene Brown
 Special Song—Iona Callahan, Blossom Green, Iris Duke and Doris Glass.

Class Prophecy—R. L. Mahoney
 Special Music—Margaret Jarratt
 Class Will—Maxine Land
 Reading—Roy G. Edwards
 Song—"Rainbow on The River"

Unison
 The banquet was a great success and enjoyed by everyone.

SOPHOMORE NEWS
 The Sophomores are getting rather impatient, but just wait awhile longer and we'll soon have some kind of a celebration. You just wait and see!

In Biology wise cracks are very often heard.

Miss Lee: What insect requires the least nourishment?
 Hester Finley: The moth, for it eats holes.

We wonder why Travis is forever trying to attend to other people's affairs. It must be his curiosity. You know the old saying, "Curiosity killed a cat," so you'd better beware.

Thought for the day: Some people get an education late in life, and others have no children to bring them homework.

Sophs, let's buckle down and do our stuff these remaining five weeks so we can all be Juniors together next year—and then there was the little girl who signed her arithmetic paper Mae West, because she'd "done 'em wrong"

It seems as though some of the Soph girls are getting rather popular, and have begun to "step out and go places." (So it is being said.)

He: "My treasure!"

She: "My treasury!"

Some people are like that. Well good-bye, we hate to leave you, but we'll be back again at this same time next Thursday. While we pause for class identification, the Sophs bid you all, adieu.

FRESHMAN NEWS

Part of the Freshman class enjoyed a weiner roast at the Roadside Park Saturday evening. After enjoying the "feast" the class returned to town and went to the show. Some joined us at the show that didn't come to the weiner roast. We had a delightful time.

Miss Lee (in Biology): "How many senses are here?"

R. L. Mahoney: "Six."

Miss Lee: "Indeed! I have only five."

R. L.: "Yes, ma'am, the other is common sense."

LIBERTI HOMAE

The Latin Club met in their monthly meeting Wednesday April 13. Mrs. Ison presided in the absence of the president and Doris Mahoney called the roll in the absence of the secretary. The roll call was answered with a Roman name. The program consisted of a talk on "Methods of Teaching" by Ronel Thomas.

The club voted to have picnic with the Spanish club for their last meeting and a committee was appointed to make the plans for that meeting.

THIRD GRADE NEWS

Our room mother, Mrs. Scown, came over Friday and gave us an Easter party. She served us lemonade and Easter eggs.

For our art work Friday we colored Easter eggs and the two who had the best colored eggs got a prize. A boy and a girl got the prizes. Ted Scown and Dorothy Schwimmer received as prizes two baskets of Easter eggs.

We decided to name the ranch that we built on our sandtable the King's Ranch. The King's Ranch is one of the biggest ranches in the world. Anyone has to be invited before he can enter the King's Ranch.

We learned about the Heroes of Texas. Sam Houston is called Savior of Texas. Stephen F. Austin is the Father of Texas. David Crockett is a Hero of the Alamo.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

The fourth grade had an assembly program Friday at 12:45. They have been studying about the Dutch and they used that as their theme. The program was on cleanliness and health.

LITERARY EVENTS

Friday and Saturday our debaters and extemporaneous speakers entered the district meet at Sweetwater. The girl's debate team, Doris Glass and Iona Iona Callahan, tied for 3rd place. In the girl's extemporaneous speaking Blossom Lee Green won third place and in the boy's Roy G. Edwards won fourth place. In grammar school Wanda May Smith won first place in declamation. She will enter in the regional meet at Abilene on Saturday, April 23.

Tests Prove the Power of Food

Demonstrate a Vitamin-Rich Diet Is Vital to Health

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
MANKIND owes many things to the animals which have been used as test subjects in laboratories all over the world. As doctors and scientists have waged their war against disease, as they have made great strides forward in the study of foods and nutrition, they have carried on many of their experiments with rats.

The rats pictured here dramatically illustrate the power of food to influence growth. Although these two rats are exactly the same age, the weight of one is twice that of his brother. Where one animal is puny and underdeveloped, the second is fat and sleek and full of vitality.

What has produced such a difference in weight and general physical well-being? Merely a slight difference in diet. The two rats have lived under identically the same conditions, but the smaller animal on the left has received food lacking in sufficient vitamins, while the other rat has been fed the same diet, reinforced with vitamins.

If a well-balanced food ration is vital to the health of animals, how much more vital it must be for human beings. Surely the lesson is plain to see. If a mother wants her children to thrive she must feed them adequately. The child who is receiving a diet lacking in vitamins has no chance to grow and develop properly. Nor will the adult on a deficient diet attain or maintain optimum health.

EDITOR'S NOTE: To plan a diet wisely, to recognize the foods rich in important food elements, we must learn to utilize the discoveries of science. We must keep abreast of the newer knowledge of nutrition as it is presented by wise, unbiased interpreters such as C. Houston Goudiss, nationally known food authority, who each week offers his "What to Eat and Why" column in this newspaper. In this column Mr. Goudiss translates the latest developments into simple, non-technical language. By following his articles regularly, it is easy to keep in step with the most up-to-date findings of nutritional science.

W. W. PORTER IN RACE FOR COUNTY JUDGE

W. W. Porter, a resident of Mitchell County for many years, authorized The News this week to announce to the voters of the county that he is a candidate for the office of County Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic primary July 23.

Mr. Porter has lived in the county for 31 years and one time served the county as county-district clerk for two terms. He had no opposition for his second term and did not ask for a third.

Mr. Porter made the following statement: "I am thoroughly familiar with the duties of the office, especially those of the commissioners court, and I feel that I am well qualified to fill the office. It is my intention to see each voter before the primary but should I fail to do so I wish each voter would take this as a personal solicitation for his vote and influence."

Just Help Yourself

If you are afraid of honest labor, unless you are mighty FORTUNITE, you have a HARD ROW ahead of you. You must help yourself if at all able.

Success comes to the man who doesn't shy at a pair of bib overalls; who doesn't have a fit if his hands are not always soft and white; who has the grit to do even a LITTLE MORE than he is paid for doing. That's the kind of fellows who climb. These traits combined with a saving habit, will put you on the right road. We'll help you.

Lesson for April 24

RECEIVING VISION FOR SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:3-10. GOLDEN TEXT—This is my beloved Son: hear him.—Mark 9:7. PRIMARY TOPIC—On a Mountain with Jesus. JUNIOR TOPIC—With Jesus on a Mountain Top. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Worship Prepares Us for Service. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place and Purpose of Vision.

"Where there is no vision the people perish" said the wise man of old (Prov. 29:18). For want of a true vision of God, a knowledge of His truth, and the God-given constraint which makes men give themselves in sacrificial service, the people will perish in their sins. But let men come to know the truth as it is in Christ, learn to know Him as the Son of God, glorious and powerful, and then let them translate their knowledge of Christian truth and their personal spiritual experiences into the daily ministry to the needs of their fellow-men, and there will be songs of salvation and joy.

The transfiguration of our Lord meant much to Him as it brought new assurance of His divine Sonship, His acceptance with the Father, and His resurrection to follow the death of the cross. We do well to recognize its testimony to Him, but we think today especially of the experience of the disciples and their preparation for service. We, like them, must

I. Know Christian Truth.

Fundamental in both Christian life and service is a clear understanding of the person and work of Christ. One may come to Christ knowing little more than that He is the divine Saviour, and one may enter into Christian living with a meager knowledge of the doctrines of the Bible. But the Christian who fails to grow in knowledge will not grow in grace as he should.

The disciples came to a fuller conviction that He was the Son of God as they saw Him transfigured and heard the Father say, "This is my beloved Son." They learned more plainly the truth of His coming death for the sins of all mankind. They saw in the indescribable beauty of that moment the foregleam of His coming glory. What important truths these are—His deity—His redemption—His coming kingship. Do we have a clear grasp of these truths?

II. Experience Spiritual Power.

Great experiences of spiritual renewing and power are necessary to effective life and testimony. They may not be in outward manifestation, in fact they are more often in the inner recesses of the soul, but they transform men and send them forth to magnificent living for God.

The disciples had an unforgettable mountain-top experience. Even so have many others found the secret of power. It came to D. L. Moody as he walked down a New York street, praying in agony, "Deliver me from myself. Take absolute sway." The story of what happened to him and through him as a surrendered instrument in God's hand is written large on the pages of history. Others had similar experiences. Let us remember that such privileges are not reserved for a few, they are the birthright of every Christian. Power without knowledge is a dangerous and destructive thing, but knowledge without power is a dead thing, resulting in a stale and unfruitful orthodoxy that in turn produces a dreadful and unchristian religious system. It is not enough to know the truth, to be able to discuss it, to divide it, and possibly to fight about it. Let us study God's Word, but let the truth be baptized in the overflowing spiritual power of a personal experience with God.

III. Serve Needy Humanity.

Dr. Moore beautifully suggests that Jesus and the disciples went up to the place of prayer, into the place of glory, and down to the place of service. How fitting is that sequence. Much confusion exists in the church because those who have foolishly abandoned their interest in the truth of God's Word and have substituted the energy of the flesh for spiritual power, have been most diligent in service to humanity, while those who know and accept the truth about Christ, and who profess to believe in the power of the Spirit-filled life have failed to serve their needy neighbors. How delightful and useful is the normal, well-rounded life of the true Christian, one equipped with an understanding of Christian doctrine, endowed with Holy Ghost power, and humbly serving others.

Town of Velasco Has 3 Claims to "Cradle of Texas Liberty" Title

First of Stephen Austin's Colonists Arrived at This "Plymouth Rock" in 1821; It Was the "Concord" Where the First Gun of the Texas Revolution Was Fired in 1832; and the Treaty of Peace Signed Here in 1836 Ended the Struggle for Independence.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

SPEAK of "the cradle of Texas liberty" and the average person immediately thinks of the Alamo, where Davy Crockett and his comrades-in-arms died, or the battlefield of San Jacinto, where Sam Houston triumphed over the Mexican dictator, Santa Anna. Then there's Washington-on-the-Brazos, where the Texan Declaration of Independence was signed on a March day 101 years ago.

All of these places, of course, are important landmarks in the history of the Lone Star state and of the United States as well. But before the "cradle of liberty" title is finally awarded to any one of them, consider the claims of another spot in Texas to some share in, if not a complete right to, that distinction. Brazoria county, or more specifically, the old town of Velasco at the mouth of the Brazos river is that place.

It was at Velasco that the Lively, the first vessel with emigrants for Stephen F. Austin's colony of Americans, arrived on December 21, 1821—exactly 201 years after the arrival of another band of colonists on the "stern and rock-bound coast" of New England. Thus Velasco became the "Plymouth Rock of Texas." It was here on June 28, 1832, that the opening gun of the Texas revolution was fired, thus baptizing in blood the "Concord of Texas." And it was here on May 14, 1836, that public and secret treaties of peace between the Republic of Texas and Santa Anna were signed, thus bringing to a successful close the Texas struggle for liberty.

So it would seem that Brazoria county, and especially Velasco, has an uncommonly good claim to that title of "the cradle of Texas liberty." The arrival of the Lively, the "Mayflower of Texas," at Velasco in 1821 marked the beginning of Stephen Austin's effort to carry out the plan of his father, Moses Austin, for the colonization of Texas. During the next 14 years between 25,000 and 30,000 settlers were landed there. In the meantime there had begun the chain of events which would culminate in the revolution against Mexican rule and the establishment of the Republic of Texas.

In 1832 Velasco was a Mexican port, garrisoned by about 250 men in a circular fort with a mound of earth, on which artillery was mounted, in the center. It was also an important port with several vessels plying between it and New Orleans. Among these vessels was the Sabine. Up to this year no duties or customs had been demanded by government officials. But when they found the trade was becoming profitable the commander of the fort notified the Sabine's captain, Jerry Brown, that he must pay certain duties and procure a clearance of his vessel from Col. John Davis Bradburn, then commanding at Anahuac on what is now Galveston bay.

Travis Imprisoned.

Bradburn, an American who had entered Mexico in 1816 or 1817, had allied himself with Bustamante when the latter, as vice president of Mexico in 1829, had headed a successful revolution. Bradburn had been put in charge at Anahuac, one of several military forts that were part of Bustamante's scheme of dictatorship and oppression, and had perpetrated a series of annoyances and indignities on the colonists; including the arrest and imprisonment of William Barrett Travis, who later was to die a hero's death at the Alamo.

This occurrence was really the spark that fired the powder trail of revolution. Shortly afterwards, a meeting was held at Brazoria, where the unjust confinement of American citizens at Anahuac and the unfriendly attitude of the Mexican authorities were discussed. After passing the "Turtle Bayou resolutions" reciting the tyrannical acts of Bustamante and his minions and their subversion of the Mexican constitution of 1824 and pledging their support to Santa Anna, who was then supporting the 1824 constitution, the colonists made their plans to overthrow Fort Velasco.

Three companies were organized, and the schooner Brazoria, then at Brazoria after bringing a cargo from New Orleans, was pressed into service by order of John Austin, "master of the military forces at this place," apparently a thoroughly unofficial title. One company of marines, under William J. Russell, sailed down the river on the schooner and the other two companies—led by Austin and Henry S. Brown—marched to Velasco. They converged on the fort, intending to attack at daybreak. But an accidental shot by one of the men about midnight disclosed their presence and the battle was on.

Bronze tablet on the monument located near the coast guard station at Velasco, Texas, which tells of the fame of that town as the "Cradle of Texas Liberty."

All through the night the fighting went on, and the next morning—June 26, 1832—the fort surrendered, with more than two-thirds of its defenders lying dead or wounded. One of the terms of surrender was release of Bradburn's prisoners at Anahuac.

Not long after this historic battle, Santa Anna succeeded Bustamante as the ruler of Mexico. The coming into prominence of Santa Anna, a "liberal," led the Texans to ask for reforms, such as the right to use the English language in public places, privilege of organizing their own militia, separation of Texas from the state of Coahuila, and other changes.

Eventually Stephen F. Austin went to Mexico City to lay a new constitution for the proposed Mexican state of Texas headed by Sam Houston, before the Mexican government. Apparently successful, he started back. But a letter he had written back home advising his Texas friends to go ahead with their separate statehood organization plans without waiting for authorization, fell into the hands of Mexican officials. He was arrested and kept in prison for 15 months.

By the time of his release and return to Texas in 1835, Austin came back convinced that war was Texas' only course. Several local assemblies were held and declared Texas a free and sovereign state, notably one at Goliad on December 20, 1835. Then followed the battles of the Alamo, Goliad, and others, leading up to the final triumph at San Jacinto on April 21, 1836.

The revolution which was started at Velasco four years before was destined to return to that same setting for the final dramatic act. David G. Burnet, who had been named Texas' provisional governor at a constitutional convention at Washington-on-the-Brazos on March 1—at the very time of the tragic siege of the Alamo—made Velasco the temporary capital of the new republic and there the treaty of peace which ended the revolution was signed on May 14, 1836.

Changes of a Century.

During the century that has elapsed since that historic event the geography of the region has undergone several changes. The present town of Velasco is four miles inland. The original Velasco, which was situated at the very mouth of the Brazos, virtually disappeared before the turn of the century with the failure of the many efforts to create a satisfactory deep-water harbor, due to lack of funds and the constant silting of the Brazos.

Although most people think of Texas in terms of cattle, grain, fruit, and oil, the fact is that it is rich in other products. One of these is sulphur and it was sulphur that turned the trick of providing this region with a satisfactory harbor. Though some of the richest farmlands of the nation lie along the lower Brazos, the bulk of the farm commerce had to turn to the port of Galveston, and later Houston. Then the famous Spindletop oil strike of 1901 turned attention on the "salt domes" of the coastal plain, sulphur was found at Bryanmount, near what is now Freeport, and operations on it were begun in 1912.

The shoal conditions still were troublesome, however, and it was eventually determined that the only way to create a practical harbor would be to divert the Brazos river, letting it empty its water and alluvial deposits into the gulf at another point, and retain the original mouth, as an estuary, for a port. This unique engineering project was accomplished by October, 1929, and Freeport harbor has been easily maintained at 32-foot depth since.

The state of Texas now supplies nearly one-fifth of the world's production of oil and sulphur. The importance of oil in the machine age is familiar to everyone but sulphur plays almost as vital a role. In one form or another it enters into the making of almost every article of modern life, notably rubber goods, newspapers, steel, plastics, paints, dyes, inks and synthetic textiles, and it is of particular importance to the farmer as it is the primary processing factor in making fertilizers and is invaluable in fungicides and insecticides.

So, historic ground that Brazoria county is with its claims to being the "cradle of Texas liberty," it is also an important factor in the economic picture of the modern commonwealth of Texas and of the United States because of its harbor and the large oil and sulphur tonnage that moves through it.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

OF ALL rag rugs the hooked type is the most fascinating and economical. A rag rug, such as may be purchased in notion and fancywork departments, and burlap a little larger than your finished rug are the essentials. Most rag hookers also use a frame of slats bolted together at the corners. They stretch the burlap over the frame and tack it. Some like a rather large stationary frame. Others use a small one and many hooked rugs are made without any frame at all.

Here is a quaint old rug pattern that you may mark off on your burlap with a yardstick and pencil. The numbers indicate the colors used for the original rug—now more than a hundred years old. The finished rug measures 26 by 34 inches. Allow two inches at all edges for hems. Overcast the edges, then mark the solid one-inch border just inside the hem allowance; then draw the diagonal lines across the large squares as shown. Use wool rags if possible and cut the strips not wider than one-half inch. Hold the strip against the wrong side of the burlap and pull loops of it through to the right side with the hook as shown. Short strips are as useful as long. Just pull the ends through and clip them.

If you are planning slip covers, curtains, or doing other Spring sewing for the home, you will want a copy of Mrs. Spears' book, SEWING, for the Home Decorator. Forty-eight pages of practical working directions, with complete illustrations. A dollar saving book for every homemaker. Send name and address, enclosing 25 cents (coins preferred) to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.
